

The Queen 501

Chapter 501: No One Knows Tang Embroidery or How to Appraise It

Su Cha touched her forehead.

The key was that no one knew S.

Hence, she had to settle this matter herself.

If she did not deal with the matter regarding Myriad Mountain Embroiderer, Su Cha reckoned that it would be hard for her to do business. How could she raise the price of her work in the future?

According to Myriad Mountain Embroiderer, once a master had embroidered such a work, it should be taken to an exhibition and auctioned. Moreover, this embroidery method could not be used on inferior products like white cotton.

Putting aside the fact that the white cotton was an ordinary medium-quality cotton, how could a master not have the money to buy good cotton?!

Su Cha had thought about such matters regarding Tang embroidery a long time ago, but after all, someone had already noticed her. She did not expect that the first thing to stand out would not be the Tang embroidery itself. Most importantly, people did not believe that such a work could have been embroidered.

And she worked on them too fast.

Back then, she could make it in her spare time, and the finished product would be out in a week or two. But how would people nowadays know that the Tang embroidery technique was not only reflected in the work, but also in the speed?

Su Cha had been embroidering in that era for decades. The best master of Tang embroidery was her master. In other words, not only did she showcase the lost Tang embroidery, but her embroidery was also superior to others in the same era.

Even if it was a cheat, Su Cha would already be top-notch once she started.

No wonder others could not accept it.

After thinking for a while, Su Cha decided not to let the embroiderer slander her.

S replied to @Myriad Mountain Embroiderer: “Can’t a master not afford to buy cotton? Who told you that a master’s work must be auctioned? If you really think that I’m fake, I’ll send a work to the Embroidery Union and let them appraise it. How about it? Once the results are out, I don’t need you to apologize. Just send me three kowtows, and that’s that.”

After sending the message, Su Cha left Weibo.

It was obvious that it would blow up later. She just had to wait for the blogger’s response.

Of course, she was not just saying it casually. It was not Su Cha’s style to shrink back in the face of trouble. If someone came to slap her in the face, if she did not retaliate beautifully, what kind of slap in the face would that be?

Hence, Su Cha opened her WeChat and looked for Huo Zhongwei.

This person used to be in the Embroidery Union. He’d said that his teacher would contact her, but he did not. Although Su Cha did not mind, she wanted to ask if she could help him.

Cha Yi: “Yes?”

Huo Zhongwei: “Yes...”

Huo Zhongwei: “I saw what happened on Weibo. Is that S you?”

Cha Yi: “Well, I want to ask you for a favor. In exchange, you can make a request. There should be a master in your Embroidery Union who can appraise my work. I will send a piece to you, and the Union will have to appraise it for me to see if it is a Tang embroidery work or not.”

Huo Zhongwei: “... I have to tell you something.”

Huo Zhongwei: “We’ve already talked about the Tang embroidery. My teacher didn’t add you because they believed that the Tang embroidery was impossible and that you were lying.”

Su Cha paused.

Her lips curled up slowly as she started to type.

Cha Yi: “Okay, I got it.”

Huo Zhongwei: “But I can still help you with this matter. You can send the work to us. At least we can determine if your work is real embroidery.”

Cha Yi: “No need. Your words have reminded me: no one in your union knows how to appraise Tang embroidery.”

Huo Zhongwei: “...”

On the other side of the phone, Huo Zhongwei’s face suddenly felt like it was on fire.

Chapter 502: Some Common Knowledge Will Always Be Disproved

Su Cha was not angry. She understood what Huo Zhongwei meant.

Tang embroidery was a serious matter, and no one dared to easily confirm it. Moreover, they might not know how to determine it was real.

Now that the Tang embroidery work had been placed in front of them, they did not dare to recognize it. Could they be sure that they could identify it?

However, this matter had already enraged Su Cha. She wanted to resolve it, but the Union could not help for the time being.

She went online and quickly found an opportunity.

There was an embroidery culture center in China.

The main purpose of this cultural center was to pass down the embroidery culture. The people who served there were all masters of embroidery. Many of them would overlap with the masters of the Embroidery Union, but the cultural center was more valuable than the Embroidery Union.

However, the Embroidery and Cultural Center was usually busy with national social events. Their international works were almost equivalent to that of a national team of officials.

It was the same principle as the cultural center in the entertainment industry. They were both in charge of their subordinates.

It was not easy to bypass the Embroidery Union and look for them.

Fortunately, the main branch of the embroidery culture center was in the Imperial Capital, and it was easy to find.

It was not easy to find a professional master, but it was fine to ask around. The cultural center did not reject outsiders from visiting, but they had to have a legitimate reason.

Thinking of this, Su Cha planned to work overtime these two days to produce a simple piece of work, the simplest cloud.

She only embroidered half of it, and the other half, she would finish on the spot. Any master would then be able to tell instantly what it was.

At that time, there would be no need for any proof.

No one knew that she was S now. No matter how big the matter online was, it would not affect her.

Su Cha arrived at the Department of Acting. When it was almost noon, she went on Weibo and found that she had received a reply from Myriad Mountain Embroiderer.

Myriad Mountain Embroiderer @S: “What a joke. You are just an embroidery faker. How are you worthy of me kowtowing to you? Now that you are exposed, you start to panic? If you can prove that your work is Tang embroidery, I will give up my account!”

He would give up his account?

He was sincere.

After all, for a big official account like his, the annual income might be tens of millions. If he gave up this account, the loss would be huge.

Of course, after he shared the post, a large group of people continued to insult S. Su Cha ignored them and returned to the information about the embroiderer.

S @Myriad Mountain Embroiderer: “It seems that you have no intention of kowtowing. It’s fine if you just give up your account instead. Just you wait.”

As it was different from her celebrity’s account, no one knew that it was her account. Su Cha’s tone was much more casual, as if she had some hot-blooded impulse, which was completely at odds with her cold appearance.

People always had two sides.

But of course, the bigger the matter got, the better. How could he, a verified account owner, do it?

Su Cha immediately switched to her popular side account, which was her celebrity account. She secretly liked S’s Weibo post.

Many fans saw her do that.

Things immediately got out of hand.

Ten minutes later, Tan Jinsui called Su Cha. “Why did you like S’s Weibo? It’s not your place to interfere.”

Su Cha replied as if nothing had happened, “My hand slipped. So be it. It’s not a big deal.”

Tan Jinsui was stunned. “That S is clearly being unreasonable. If they’re someone you don’t know, you should have some common sense. Do you know what Tang embroidery is? It’s a completely lost needlework technique in the history of embroidery. It has been hundreds of years since and has become a legend. Do you really think S knows it? If you back that person up, people will mock you for not having common sense.”

Su Cha replied slowly, “Some common knowledge will always be disproved.”

Chapter 503: Scandals

“You know that S?”

Tan Jinsui frowned. He could tell that Su Cha was very supportive of S.

If she did not know S, Tan Jinsui did not think that a person like Su Cha would intervene.

“Not really.”

Su Cha’s expression remained unchanged as she said calmly, “I saw their work. I like their work regardless of whether or not it’s true embroidery, so I support them.”

Tan Jinsui commented, “Unorthodox values.”

Su Cha: “...”

It was hard to imagine that a manager in the entertainment industry would say such things.

Tan Jinsui: “It’s fine if you like it. Don’t interfere with the rest of the matter. Just wait and see. Don’t answer the fans’ questions. Don’t push this matter onto you, understand? You’re going with the image of a top student. I don’t want anyone to use the excuse of your having no common sense to mock you.”

Tan Jinsui’s worry was not unreasonable.

In their hearts, Tang embroidery had been lost. It was a fact that had been ingrained for hundreds of years.

Ordinary people would not believe that a person suddenly appeared and said that they'd used an embroidery technique that had been lost for hundreds of years.

The best proof was to wait for the results.

Su Cha understood Tan Jinsui. As a manager, his main goal was to protect the positive image of his artist. At the very least, he could not be "stupid" in this matter.

At the same time, she was a little surprised. She thought that Tan Jinsui would insist on it, but she did not expect him to hang up after saying a few words.

Su Cha was a little curious. She did not think that Tan Jinsui had bolstered Zou Manni to that extent. He also couldn't have indulged her.

In this matter, what Su Cha did was not a good thing. Other than Su Cha herself, who else knew that it was the real deal? Others thought that it was fake. It was indeed irrational for her to get involved.

Those anti-fans would probably take advantage of this and go all out.

A good manager should be stopping her, not... like this, treating her with a hint of indulgence.

Su Cha narrowed her eyes. Did Tan Jinsui not care about her or did he have other motives?

Su Cha clicked on S's Weibo post. As a popular contestant, she had the highest amount of attention. A Like instantly brought this less popular embroidery competition to center stage. Many fans saw it and were baffled as they saw the whole story.

At this time, Su Cha's popularity started to show. Within an hour...

The headline #Su Cha likes S# was in the top five trending searches.

At least it was popular enough.

Most people were just ordinary people. Embroidery was one of the ancient techniques. In modern society, there were even many ancient techniques that had been lost. Embroidery was considered common, but in fact, many people did not know much about it. At most, they heard about it during normal times and knew that embroidery was, oh, those that were embroidered with needles, which were mostly clothes.

Su Cha's fans were the same. Although they did not know why Su Cha liked S, they still looked through S's Weibo from beginning to end. When they saw the war of words, they were puzzled. Did their idol support S, or did she mean something else?

Many anti-fans saw Su Cha's action and looked at the ins and outs of the matter. They were instantly excited.

“Ha, is this female celebrity stupid? Does she know what Tang Embroidery is? Does she not know that she is a public figure now and shouldn't randomly like things?”

Su Cha's haters appeared on Weibo and on various forums.

Chapter 504: The Bigger the Mess, the Better

[Oh my, Su Cha is really not an easy person to deal with during her Dream journey.]

“Su Cha, the contestant who'd had her dream come true, is up to no good again. Last night, an embroidery battle broke out. A verified account said that the embroidery work of a seller was fake. The seller and the verified account were in conflict. It was originally just a matter within the embroidery industry, but Su Cha went to give the seller a Like and supported them. The key thing was the seller's tone. They'd said that they used the Tang embroidery method that had been lost for hundreds of years. I was wondering which mental hospital the seller came from. It was fine if they were sick, but Su Cha's praise showed that she had no common sense or intelligence.”

At most, there would be a supportive comment such as: “The OP's words are so vicious. What do you mean by she's up to no good again? How can you imagine so much just from her giving someone a Like?”

Or a supportive answer such as: “It’s just a Like. I don’t know what you anti-fans are trying to do, but she didn’t say anything.”

Or answers such as: “I have seen the whole story of this war. Myriad Mountain Embroiderer is not a good person to begin with. He is trying to create hype, but the seller is really stubborn. However, anyone who knows about Tang embroidery should know that it is impossible to use it. It has been lost for hundreds of years. I think the seller is just being stubborn.”

1L: “What path does she want to take? Can’t understand.”

2L: “Does she know S? Perhaps she only likes S so much. I wonder what kind of impact it will have on her as a public figure?”

3L: “I’m looking forward to the outcome of the battle between the seller and this VIP. After all, I really hate this VIP.”

4L: “Even if you hate them, you have to look at the basics. This Myriad Mountain Embroiderer is going to have a complete victory because the Tang embroidery is fake. How can there be Tang embroidery now?”

5L: “Other things aside, the clothes of the seller... are really pretty...”

...

There were also Weibo accounts with similar titles that did not have many fans who posted it. These were the legendary marketing accounts. There were big and small accounts when it came to marketing accounts. Anyway, they were trying to hype up some trivial matters, and some of them were simply accounts created by celebrities.

Of course, if other celebrities had something going on, they would add insult to injury. This was Su Cha’s situation.

As she had wished, she had blown up the matter. However, there were also many malicious comments about her.

Even those who liked Su Cha had some reservations.

On the other hand, some of Su Cha's fans were defending her, but they felt sorry that they were being called brainless fans.

In the past, she did not understand those fans. Now that Su Cha was a celebrity, seeing them speak up for their idol, she suddenly understood their mentality.

She clicked her tongue. It would not take long. She would finish this matter in a few days.

Naturally, her trending topic could not escape the company's eyes. The public relations department quickly called Su Cha to figure out her intentions. "Miss Su, do you need us to blow this matter up?"

The people in Bo Muyi's company were all smart. This matter was originally not on the table, but Su Cha suddenly liked it and made it popular. The public relations immediately knew that Su Cha did it on purpose. After all, after meeting her, the people in the company could tell that Su Cha was not a brainless woman.

Hence, this call was equivalent to asking Su Cha if she needed help.

Hearing the words of the head of the public relations department, Su Cha curled her lips. "Yes, of course. The bigger the better."

"Okay, Miss Su. We understand."

The public relations department hung up after receiving the order.

Chapter 505: The National Scholar

Ever since Myriad Mountain Embroiderer had replied to the seller called S, he'd been in an excited state.

He sent a message to his marketing group, saying that his popularity would rise again.

The other party was too stupid. Not only did they not know how to pretend to be dead, but they also jumped up to fight against him.

What good would it do to fight back? At that time, they would only be attacked by his fans until their Weibo account was removed. This was not the first time it had happened.

There were other marketing accounts in the group who asked him, “You are so confident, and the other party’s voice is also quite strong. If their embroidery is real, won’t you be finished? You even used your account as a bet. Why so impulsive?”

Myriad Mountain Embroiderer replied sarcastically, “You think too much. Even if you are not in this industry, you should still have some common sense. Do you know what Tang Embroidery is? It’s simply a non-existent thing. After it has disappeared for hundreds of years, you tell me how someone can use it now. Who are you kidding? I’ve already asked the Embroidery Union. They clearly said that no one has a successor for Tang Embroidery. This person is just putting on an act. They’re just bragging and struggling.”

Hence, he felt that the outcome was decided.

Initially, he thought that it would be good if the topic became popular. Unexpectedly, at noon, a talent show singer named Su Cha suddenly liked S’s Weibo.

Myriad Mountain Embroiderer knew Su Cha. She was one of the top ten contestants in the recent popular talent show Dreams in Progress. She was very popular among the contestants. Although he was a little surprised to see her Like this, he was undoubtedly even more excited. Wasn’t this popularity achieved for nothing?

It saved him the money to buy trending searches!

Celebrities were indeed powerful. With just a Like, they brought this topic to the trending searches.

Besides, it would have been fine if she had just liked him, but she had chosen the phrase where S had asked him to wait for it. This made Myriad Mountain Embroiderer feel disgusted. This female celebrity had no intelligence. She was simply sending herself to be mocked.

However, he considered how the other party had had rumors about her spread on Weibo last time. It was said that the person who spread the rumors was still in the midst of being sued. It was said that they had to bear some responsibility.

The embroiderer thought of the other party's fans and did not make a move.

When the dust settled, he would secretly post on Weibo about a female star, Diss.

The development of the matter was beyond the expectation of Myriad Mountain Embroiderer. Throughout the afternoon, the trending topic became more and more popular, directly reaching number one.

Although the higher the popularity, the more it could make him popular, he had a subtle feeling in his heart, but he could not explain why that was.

More importantly, a true nationalist master in the embroidery world finally came out to support him.

Wu Kailan @S: "Young one, don't speak nonsense. Tang embroidery is a treasure in our country's history. Even though it has been lost, it cannot be made use of as a joke. This is a blasphemy against national treasures. I've watched your video. Even the needlework is not standard. How can you embroider a perfect work?"

Who was Wu Kailan?

He was a famous embroidery master in China, a male.

He was good at embroidery and had the reputation of a master embroiderer. What that meant was that what he embroidered was like a painting.

Of course, his status was not comparable to the peak of Cloud Embroidery like the Cloud Ancestor, but he was still quite famous.

As soon as he came out, this matter went out of control and exploded.

The center of the debate was still S and Myriad Mountain Embroiderer. As only a Liker, Su Cha was not the center of attention of the gossipy masses who really wanted to see the results of the war. The only ones who really paid attention to her were those loyal anti-fans.

Chapter 506: Fu Mo's Information

This war also allowed many bystanders to understand some general knowledge about embroidery.

For example, embroidery was divided into many factions: famous cloud embroidery, Xiang embroidery, Shu embroidery, etc...

Embroidery was not just limited to needles. This greatly increased the knowledge of many onlookers.

Su Cha had a basic performance theory class in the afternoon. The teacher in the class was not Jing Yilan, but another famous teacher. Halfway through her lesson, she suddenly changed the topic. "I know that some of the students here have already started to take off. They are not on the same level as others, but I hope that everyone knows what the true meaning of acting is. You are all students of the Imperial Capital University. Other than learning how to act, you also have to be yourself and know how to be a person. Only by acting can you make the audience and others admire you. In the current entertainment industry, some of the trends are very bad. Don't follow them; those are not examples to learn from."

Su Cha listened to the class and paused.

Dozens of students in the classroom looked at Su Cha.

Obviously, among the students in this batch, Su Cha was the most famous, which was what the teacher was referring to when she mentioned taking off.

Besides, it's not like no one was paying attention to what was happening on Weibo.

Their acting department needed to pay attention to the entertainment industry's dynamics, even if this was not supported by the older generation.

But as for the younger ones, who would not go online?

Everyone knew what Su Cha had done.

The teacher was obviously reminding her. It seemed that she was dissatisfied with her actions.

The teacher only said that much and did not specifically name her. After saying that, she went back to class. Su Cha did not show any expression.

She listened to the teacher's lecture calmly until class ended.

Fu Mo came to her with a book in her arms. She said timidly, "Classmate Su, I saw what happened online. They bashed you very badly."

"It's nothing."

Su Cha raised her eyebrows, unbothered. "I considered that this would happen when I Liked that post. It'll blow over."

Fu Mo was surprised. "Do you know that S?"

Otherwise, why would she give her a Like?

Su Cha shook her head. "No. Just treat it as a mistake."

Fu Mo nodded. Su Cha said to her, "I'm going back now. What do you want? You don't have to interfere with what's happening online. My company knows what to do."

"Okay." She was a little hesitant. "The contract said that the salary would be settled from the day of the contract signing, but you didn't ask me to do anything for you these past few days..."

"You can take whatever salary you want."

Su Cha smiled lightly. "I already said that I don't have much to do usually. I have to wait until I finish participating in the competition before I really get busy. Study well for now. If anything happens, I will definitely call you."

After she said that, Fu Mo stopped talking. After sending Su Cha out of school, she returned to school and prepared to eat dinner at the canteen.

Halfway through, she suddenly received a message.

X: "That person will return home today. The plane will arrive at the airport at 6:30 pm. Go pick that person up and arrange everything. I will go to the Imperial Capital tomorrow."

Fu Mo bit her lips.

She bit so hard that she seemed about to make herself bleed. She stood at the same spot and looked at the message for a long time.

It was as if she wanted to bore a hole into the phone.

After a few minutes, she put her phone away and turned around to leave the school.

Chapter 507: A Waterdrop's Kindness Should Be Repaid with a Spring

Returning home, Su Cha saw Bo Mui in his black pajamas.

It was rare for him to be so lazy before sleeping.

Leaning against the chair in the study room, he rested his forehead on his hand and occasionally typed on the laptop, looking a little casual.

When Su Cha entered the room, he looked over. It was like an ancient and mysterious spell. She felt that there was an unfathomable light in his eyes.

Su Cha put down her bag and walked towards Bo Mui. "Why are you home today?"

Seeing that she was in a much better mood, Bo Mui smiled. Su Cha walked over and crossed his legs, sitting directly on him. He had already reached out and gently hugged Su Cha. "I've been at home since I woke up. I just woke up."

Su Cha buried her head in his arms and relaxed. "You sound exhausted."

"It's okay."

Bo Mui lowered his head and kissed her forehead. "Why are you involved in this?"

As he spoke, he turned the laptop screen and Su Cha glanced over.

It was the Weibo page with the trending search #Su Cha likes S#.

This was a big matter, so how could he not know?

"I..."

Before Su Cha could speak, Bo Mui chuckled and said, "You are S?"

Su Cha lifted her head slightly and looked at him. Looking into his deep and silent eyes, she blinked. "How did you guess it?"

"I've seen you embroidering at home. Cha Cha, do you think I'm blind?"

"Ah... It's been too long. I forgot."

As long as Bo Mui saw her, it would be easy for him to guess that she was S.

"So you want to make this matter as big as possible? Naughty girl."

There was no impatience in his doting tone.

"Have you thought about how to deal with this person?" Bo Mui asked her.

He knew that she had a plan, so he did not intervene for the time being.

If this person had fought with Su Cha recklessly, he would have dealt with them long ago.

“Do I need to fix it?”

Su Cha smiled mockingly. “I don’t need to do anything. He was the one who sentenced himself to death. When the time comes, I just need to ask the Chinese Embroidery and Culture Center for an appraisal. My embroidery skills are real.”

“The people at the Cultural Center are all arrogant. You can look for Grandma about this. She knows some people who can help you.”

Su Cha’s eyes lit up. “How do you know?”

Bo Mui: “She likes those things and has connections with these people.”

This also had something to do with the identity of the Bo family. If it were someone else, would they be able to casually interact with a group of national masters?

The old lady had a good impression of her. With the old lady’s help, this matter would probably be resolved much easier. She thought of an excuse and could not help but smile. “Thank you, Mui.”

As soon as she finished speaking, she stood up to leave. Bo Mui immediately reached out and pulled her back, forcing her to turn around again.

The man stared at her. “How are you going to thank me?”

Su Cha kissed his thin lips without hesitation.

Bo Mui was still pretending to be obedient after a successful bargain. “Not enough.”

Su Cha poked his forehead. “It’s enough that you take advantage of me all the time, and it’s enough for now. Grandma might not agree to it. I’ll thank you properly after I settle this matter.”

Bo Mui: “... No. A drop of water should be returned with a spring. A kiss is not enough.”

Su Cha: “...”

Did your language teacher tell you that?

Chapter 508: Bribing the Old Madam

Since the old lady had dealings with them, it proved that she liked embroidery.

Su Cha did not expect this. After all, she would not ask about such things when she had nothing to do.

Since she was going to ask the old lady for help, Su Cha had an idea.

It was not difficult for her to make embroidery as soon as possible, but time was too tight. She still had to embroider a piece for the people in the Cultural Center to appraise. After thinking about it, she decided to embroider a handkerchief for the old lady.

The Chinese regarded the peony as a precious flower. Although it was tacky to use it often, it would definitely look good when embroidered.

Hence, Su Cha wanted to make a peony-embroidered handkerchief.

She went to buy a piece of white silk and cut a small piece, which was enough to make a silk handkerchief.

After spending a day in school, Su Cha avoided others to embroider in the classroom alone. When someone came by, she could quickly notice it and pretend to be studying. No one would find it problematic.

After school, the handkerchief was embroidered.

The peony on it looked lifelike, as if it could move with a light breeze.

The color was just right. It was exquisite and beautiful. Beside the peony, there was a blue butterfly dancing.

The white handkerchief was dazzling.

It looked very expensive.

After putting away the handkerchief, Su Cha went to the old lady after school.

The old lady was sitting in the Lookout Pavilion, drinking tea leisurely. She was surprised to see Su Cha.

“Oh, you have time to visit me today?”

Su Cha smiled. “Grandma, can’t I come to see you?”

The old lady smiled gently. “You don’t visit unless you need something. Tell me, what’s the matter?”

She raised her hand and asked the servant to brew a cup of tea for Su Cha.

Su Cha did not beat around the bush and smiled. “I can’t hide it from you, Grandma.”

As she spoke, she took out a carefully packaged wooden box and handed it to the old lady.

The old lady was a little surprised to see her taking out the box. “Why are you giving me this?”

Su Cha held her cheeks and smiled. “Didn’t Grandma say that I don’t visit unless I need something? Of course, I have to bribe you before I ask you to do anything.”

“You child...”

Her straightforward teasing made the old lady feel better. If Su Cha had dilly-dallied, the old lady might not have had the patience. She could just speak directly without beating around the bush.

Although she was surprised that Su Cha would seek her help, the old lady still took the box and pressed the button on it. The box opened.

The neatly folded handkerchief was in the box. The old lady looked at it and took out the handkerchief.

It had not been opened yet, but she saw that the material was good. It was high-quality white silk, but it was a basic item for them.

However, when the old lady opened the handkerchief and saw the peony and butterfly pattern on it, her eyes flashed with amazement.

She seemed to be surprised. She carefully touched the needle and thread on it and looked at it for a long time. She could not help but say lovingly, “Master Yun’s new work? But the style doesn’t seem to be the same. Which master’s new work is it? And how did you get it?”

The Cloud Ancestor was the pinnacle representative of Yun Xiu. The old lady’s tone suggested she was familiar with that person. It was obvious that she was on good terms with the other party. Su Cha did not mind and smiled. “Grandma, you are overthinking. I embroidered this handkerchief myself. I want to ask you for help, and it has something to do with it.”

Chapter 509: Grandmaster Yun Zu

“You embroidered it?”

The old lady could not hide the shock in her eyes.

She liked embroidery, and she often met a master of it. How could she not see the quality of the embroidered pattern on the handkerchief?

Just by looking at the meticulous embroidery and the needlework, she knew it was rare to see such a vivid work. It was obvious that it was the work of a master. It was the kind that was extraordinary.

Su Cha actually said that she embroidered it herself.

The old lady paused. She wanted to say that Su Cha shouldn't joke, but then she realized that she had never seen such a style of work before. Besides, she could tell that Su Cha would never lie to her.

However, she was shocked that her embroidery was so outstanding that it was comparable to the current master.

She was only 18 years old!

Moreover, the old lady remembered that she had never heard that this child knew embroidery. Which young girl would learn this?

The old lady quickly sorted out the situation and put the handkerchief back into the box. She asked directly, "What do you mean by asking me for help?"

Su Cha did not waste her breath and said directly, "Since you like embroidery, Grandma, you must also know some masters. Naturally, you know that the field of embroidery is divided into many factions. The embroidery methods used by each faction are different, and the effects of the work produced are also different. Among them, there was an extremely famous embroidery method in ancient times called the Tang Embroidery, which was the best in the world. And this work of mine is done using the Tang Embroidery Technique. However, in the eyes of outsiders, the Tang Embroidery Technique has been lost for hundreds of years, and almost no one can believe me. I'm asking you for help to inquire about the masters in the Embroidery Culture Center. I want Grandma to find out what they know about Tang Embroidery and if they can even help me determine if my embroidery method belongs to Tang Embroidery."

"Tang embroidery."

The old lady was a little shocked. She murmured, "I've heard a little about it. Master Yun Zu often said that if Tang Embroidery was still in this world, Chinese embroidery would definitely reach a higher level. But now, you're saying that you're using Tang Embroidery? Since it's an embroidery method that has been lost for hundreds of years, where did you learn it from?"

The old lady knew how to get to the main point. She'd asked Su Cha a difficult question.

Su Cha only smiled and blinked. "Grandma, where did I learn the embroidery technique? Where did I learn it from? I can't tell you about the agreement I'd made with my master. I can guarantee that I will use the Tang embroidery technique, but only a master can appraise it. Otherwise, I can't spread this embroidery technique."

Hearing her words, the old lady knew that it was impossible for Su Cha to say it.

She thought for a while and hesitated. "I'm not sure about that."

However, she glanced at the handkerchief. Since she was going to accept it, she could not fool Su Cha.

Thinking of this, she said directly, "Wait a minute, I'll call and ask."

"Okay."

Su Cha nodded and waited for her.

The old lady entered the room, took her phone, and called someone.

Although she was far away, Su Cha's hearing was amazing. She vaguely heard the old lady's phone call.

It was with the Cloud Ancestor.

Yun Xiu's current representative was a master. The old lady's network was indeed extraordinary... She found the most powerful person immediately.

Although cloud embroidery was different from Tang embroidery, it was still a faction in China. It had a high status and was the most widespread. Since the Cloud Ancestor was good at cloud embroidery, he might know about Tang embroidery.

Perhaps the old lady's words were too shocking. The other party asked many questions and kept on talking for a few minutes.

Chapter 510: Call the Police to Arrest Her

“I called Master Yun.”

After the old lady finished the call, she went straight to the point. “He doesn’t quite believe it, but you are lucky. Other than being good at cloud embroidery, he has also studied Tang embroidery for many years. He knows a lot about Tang embroidery. He has a few Tang embroidery works that have been passed down from generation to generation. He will be able to determine if your embroidery belongs to Tang embroidery. He said that he will come to see you tomorrow.”

“No need, Grandma.”

Su Cha stood up and said gratefully, “I’m grateful that you have helped me find a solution, but after all, it’s me who’s asking someone for a favor. It’s better for me to bring the embroidery to their home. You just need to tell me the address.”

The old lady paused and sighed helplessly. “It’s in the Cultural Center. I’ll write you a letter. If you take it with you, they will bring you to see Master Yun. When will you go?”

“Tomorrow!”

Myriad Mountain Embroiderer was still waiting for her to slap his face. Of course, the faster the better.

“Okay.”

The old lady entered the room and wrote a letter for her. After giving it to her, she said, “Are you going to use your embroidery to prove it? Do you have it now?”

“There’s a semi-finished product. The rest is to be embroidered in front of them to prove that I am the one who knows Tang embroidery.”

“Take this with you.”

The old lady pushed the box back to Su Cha. “If what you said is true, one more piece of genuine product will guarantee an additional layer of protection. When the appraisal is done, just come back and give it to me again. As long as this work is embroidered by you, why should I worry about not being able to get such an embroidery piece in the future?”

Su Cha raised her eyebrows and did not refuse. “Okay!”

She took the box and thanked the old lady again before leaving.

Looking at her back as she left, the old lady was a little stunned and muttered to herself, “Her embroidery skills are amazing. Where did she go to find a fortuitous encounter in such a short time?”

...

Since it was done, Su Cha had to go to the Cultural Center.

She had classes in the morning, but there were no classes in the afternoon, so she planned to go then.

Myriad Mountain Embroiderer was still jumping up and down on Weibo. After Su Cha had replied to the message, there was no movement for a long time. He posted another Weibo message.

Myriad Mountain Embroiderer Official: “Someone has not made a move yet, and her true colors have been completely exposed. Master Wu Kailan has also personally proved that this embroidery is fake. I don’t know what else someone has to say! If you apologize, this matter can gradually be settled. If you don’t apologize, I will call the police to arrest you for commercial fraud!”

“Although it’s a lie, the price of the work is fair. It’s not a commercial fraud, right?”

In the comments, the opinion was that it was simply unfair. It was cheating the consumers. How could it not be considered commercial fraud?

How dare she say that it was an embroidery? How ridiculous!

Actually, as long as she could prove that she was the one who embroidered it, it would be fine. However, she insisted that she used Tang embroidery and refused to let go. If she did not say that it was Tang embroidery, there might still be room for negotiation.

“I support Myriad Mountain! I support you to call the police and arrest this fraud!”

“If S was not a good person, does that make you a good person? It’s just that the other party doesn’t have any famous fans to hype up their popularity. If those people can’t beat you, they have to apologize. If they can beat you, you will try to fool and lead people around, pretending that nothing has happened. A person like you is equally disgusting!”

“Shouldn’t Myriad Mountain also report a scum like the commenter above? He even bashed Myriad Mountain in the comments. Could it be that S has a brainless fan? I think she shouldn’t be called S. There should be a B right before, which suits her best.”