

Chapter 7: Friends Are Forever

It's been three days since Raven had moved to the pack. Until now, she still hadn't had the chance to meet with Celia and solve the problems they had between them.

There was not a single day that Celia did not pass her mind. Raven always wondered how she's doing, if she hated her for what had happened or if she also feels the same way as her, worrying about her too. 1

Raven misses Celia so much, and the heavy feeling she had in her heart was still there as she blames herself for the things that had happened to Celia.

Even though the mate bond is beyond Raven's control, she still felt guilty for what happened because she also feels indebted to Celia.

Celia had done a lot of good things to Raven, she protected her and treated her like a sister even though she doesn't deserve it, for that Raven will always feel indebted to her.

Raven felt bad that she has to be the reason for ruining everything she had and she would never feel at peace unless she finds out that Celia is fine and explain her side to her or even apologize to her.

If only Raven is allowed to leave the packhouse, she would have done all that a long time ago.

Alpha Axel and Luna Savina had forbidden Raven from leaving the packhouse, leaving Raven dying from boredom.

To be honest, Raven doesn't know why she couldn't leave the packhouse when she is not even doing anything there nor needed there.

Luna Savina had promised her that she would teach her and train her to give her knowledge about Luna duties, but she also told her that it would be best if she could give her more time to adjust and familiarize herself around the packhouse before she starts training her.

Luna Savina doesn't want to overwhelm Raven so much. She understands that this is a life that Raven had never asked.

She knows how much pressure it had already placed her from being an average werewolf to being the future Luna in just one day. She doesn't want to bombard her with many difficult things.

Taking things step by step would be better for Raven to process everything.

Even though Raven is bored to death for doing nothing in three days, she still feels glad to have those three days spent on her own. It helped her to process everything and adjust to her new life.

She just doesn't understand why the Alpha and Luna has to forbid her from leaving the packhouse. It's not like she's going to run away. She also doesn't want to turn into a rogue too.

For three days, Raven had done nothing but lock herself in her room. She was afraid that she might bump into Lorcan.

She is still not ready to face him, not just because she knows he doesn't like her but also because she doesn't know how the mate bond will make her react around him.

She doesn't want to make Lorcan think that she has been fantasizing over him even before she found out that Lorcan is her mate.

Lorcan is a campus heartthrob not just because she is the pack's future Alpha, but because of her attractive features and handsome face. It is natural for him to be born physically attractive since he has Alpha genes in him.

It is common for werewolves with powerful bloodlines to be born physically attractive to the point that it was unfair for everyone. Physical appearances always comes from genes.

It is no wonder why Celia is so pretty born with blond hair and baby blue eyes. She looks exactly like an angel which matches her kind personality so well.

Imagine if a person from the beta bloodline can be as beautiful as her, how much more if you are born an Alpha.

While all the girls in the campus are in love with Lorcan, Raven doesn't feel the same way to him. Lorcan is her best friend's boyfriend. How could she have a crush on him?

Raven admits that Lorcan is handsome and attractive. He has a sculpted body with his lean muscles and six pack abs. He also had that sharp jawline, high nose bridge and deep set eyes that stares right into your soul and a deep voice that can make all panties drop.

Aside from that, he is also the ideal husband or a boyfriend. Just look at how loyal he is at Celia. Not only that, he is a total gentlemen and he knows how to treat women well.

Even though he is the future Alpha, he would still carry Celia's bag, pick her lunch at the cafeteria and always walk with her like she was his Queen.

How could anyone not fall in love with Lorcan? How can anyone not be jealous of Celia?

Raven respects Celia and she was Celia's first supporter in their relationship. Raven never coveted Lorcan. Even though Lorcan and her would meet from time to time because she is his girlfriend's best friend, she always guarded her heart from him not wanting to fall in love with her best friend's boyfriend.

Raven shakes her head, shaking all her thoughts away. The more she spend time alone in her room, the more wild her thoughts would become. She has to do something else to distract her mind or else her thoughts would grow even more crazy.

Not able to take it anymore, she decided to leave her room for the first time for reasons other than she had to eat.

Raven walked across the hallway with light footsteps, sneaking like a burglar as if that would help her from not bumping into Lorcan.

She just doesn't want to attract anyone's attention and start a conversation with anyone. As an introvert, Raven likes to avoid people.

Before, people mostly ignored her and pretended not to notice her existence. It must also have to do with the fact that wherever she goes, Celia is always with her

Since Celia is more popular, all attention tends to gravitate towards her and they don't notice Raven behind her. Raven would always feel eyes looking at them, but she knows those eyes are always pointed on her friend beside her.

Raven was always overshadowed by Celia and she never minded that. In fact, she is glad that Celia takes all attention from her since she never really liked attention.

Sometimes, Raven would feel that she is just Celia's shadow. No one wastes their time to talk to her so she doesn't have much experience in having conversations with people.

Raven swears that they don't even know what her name was. She has always been Celia's best friend to them.

Raven halts and hides to a corner when she saw a group of omegas standing near the staircase holding feathery dusters as they dusted off the figurines and other displays.

She wants to go up the stairs to take some books in the packhouse's private library but she didn't expect to see a bunch of omegas gossiping by the staircase.

"If I was her, I would never think of accepting the position." One of the omegas spoke.

"You could see how much she did not care about her best friend at all. She just watched as her friend gets humiliated and slapped by her own father." Another spoke.

Raven's brows drew together when their words are starting to sound familiar.

"That girl is a traitor. She was just pretending to be the seemingly harmless best friend from the beginning so she could steal everything from Celia."

Raven's breath hitched when she realized that the omegas were talking about her.

"She is shameless. Celia has been nothing but kind to her, but she paid her back by stealing her boyfriend and the Luna title from her."

A lump formed in Raven's thought as she heard their words. It's not like she did it on purpose. The mate bond was beyond her control.

One of the omega sighs dejectedly. "I really feel bad for Celia. She lost everything in one day just because her best friend betrayed her." 1

Raven bit her lip to stop the tears that were starting to form in her eyes as she listened to their accusations.

Raven should have ran instead of torturing herself by listening to them. She doesn't know that this is what the people think of her now... a traitor.

'Is this why Luna Savina and Alpha Axel had forbidden me to leave the packhouse? Are all the pack members having the same conversation as these omegas in front of me right now?' Raven thought to herself.

Raven almost yelps in surprise when somebody grabbed her arm. Instead of feeling startled though, tingles erupted from the touch and a wonderful scent entered her system making her body feel relaxed.

"There you are I've been looking for you," Lorcan spoke in a low voice.

LIMITED OFFER:50 BONUS FREE FOR YOU!

Click to get it