“Has he had you?” I stare at the floor as Jeremy stands behind me. he’s got me strapped over the paddle bench. He loves this because it puts me in a position like I’m on all fours without being on all fours. My head and b*dy is supported and strapped down on the main part, just off to the side my forearms and hands are bound into their own sections. And lastly my lower legs and feet are strapped in behind me. it leaves me completely open to him and unable to move. Thankfully this bench has a hole in the head rest so I can at least breathe between punishments. I hear the sound of the paddle being moved through the air, it lands on my exposed thigh without warning, the nails digging into my skin and then being ripped out again.

“Urgh.” It’s the only sound I’ve made in the last twenty strikes. I can. feel the blood pooling below me, my skin is sticking to the leather from the sweat that is covering my b*dy. I remember he likes it when I scream though.

“I asked you a question: has he had you?” His voice comes out like he’s speaking from between his teeth, he’s moving past punishment and into. anger now. When I don’t answer him, he brings the paddle down on my as s this time, instead of removing it he pushes it against me and I feel the nails digging in deeper.

“Yes.” I scream out, I can feel the nails grinding against the bony parts. of my backside and it’s vibrating through my whole b*dy.

“That didn’t take long, guess it’s true what they say about Omegas.” I hiss when the paddle is removed from my as s, the nails drag through my skin until it tugs and falls free. “Go d, you look beautiful when you bleed.” I feel his smooth hands running through the wet blood running down my ass and legs, it almost feels like he’s drawing a picture. His hands are so different from Cas’s, his are smooth, soft and can cause so much pain. Cas’s are calloused, rough and can bring me nothing but pleasure, I block out Cas, thinking about him now is dangerous.

I feel his hands leave me and then I hear his footsteps walking away from me, I keep my body tense. I know too much about Jeremy to think this will be over so soon, he won’t just leave me with a few spanks and a dozen or so holes. “Cyrus, get this bitch a test. Make sure she’s not carrying his pup before she’s sent back.” The door closing hides any response from Cyrus, I take a deep breath and try to relax my body while I have a moment’s peace.

‘Ghost, we need to get out of here.’ I beg Ghost to help me, I don’t know how to get myself out of here.

‘Can’t there was silver on those nails, I’m surprised you can still hear me.’ I feel myself sag in disappointment, well as much as my restraints will allow, I feel my tears threatening to overflow. I know we aren’t in Dragon’s Flame, I’ve never seen this room before but I know we must be in one of his clubs because I can hear the music coming from the main room.

‘Eva?’ I try to lift my head as Heath’s voice comes across the Pack link, he sounds like he’s in as much pain as me.

‘Heath, are you alright?’ I haven’t really had much to do with Heath but that doesn’t mean I’m any less worried about his safety.

‘Forget about me, I’ve tried reaching out to the Pack but I can’t get anyone. That means we are too far away from them, we aren’t in Midsey.’ Heath doesn’t sound as upset as the news makes me. if we aren’t near Midsey then how will Cas find me, find us.

‘No one is coming.’ I can’t stop the gasp of pain that leaves me, it’s not a pain in my body but a pain in my very soul, it’s like a longing for something I know I won’t have. Cas is too far away, Jeremy is too clever and The Shalamayne are too strong. I’m once again lost except no one will find me this time.

'He's coming. Eva, please hold on Luna. There is nowhere you can go that he won't find you.' I wish I shared Heath's optimism, I've been in Jeremy's hands before though, it took everything I had to run the last time, I don't have anything left to give this man.

"Get up." The feeling of small hands on my skin has me wincing awake, I'm not sure if I fell asleep or passed out. Turning my head I see Martha standing next to the bench, she has a sparkly red bikini top barely covering her breasts and tiny denim shorts. None of this does. anything for an ageing woman, I wonder if she realises she is dressing almost half of her age.

"Jeremy." I whisper out. I know he will be back and not happy that I've been untied. I really don't want to be the one punished for that.

"He wants you to do a pregnancy test, told him if you were carrying a pup I'd smell it but he wants one done anyway." She just raises an eyebrow at me and then waves a red finger nailed hand out, "well? I ain't lifting you down." Wiggling my longer strapped down, it takes me hands and feet I realise I am no a good few minutes but eventually I am sort of standing on the floor and half hoovering my a ss on the bench. My thighs and backs of my legs are on fire, I can feel Ghost trying to heal me but the silver must be preventing her from doing it faster.

"Where to?" My voice is barely above a whisper, I'm sure that has something to do with me crying and not having anything to eat or drink for however long I've been here.

"Just over to the pot, he doesn't want you out of this room." Martha points a finger at an actual chamber pot just behind the bench, I just stare at it wondering how the hell I'm going to get down to that. Martha just tuts loudly and walks over to the pot, swiping it off the floor she brings it over to me, "as s up Luna." She spits the word 'Luna' at me like an insult. I knew she was unkind to Cas but I never realised she could be quite this mean.

"What did I ever do to you?" I ask her as I stand up and then sit back. down on the pot when she places it under me.

"You stole my Pack, I was Luna and if that wasn't bad enough you also stole my son. Suddenly he's all about recycling bins, flowerbeds and prettying up the Pack land, do you realise he even wants the Pack to go to the Moon Ceremony?" I shake my head as I try to relax my b*dy enough to pee, with her staring at me though it's no easy task. I have not idea what a Moon Ceremony is but I'm sure it's good for the Pack if Cas is considering going.

"He's trying to make a strong Pack." I tell her as the first trickles of urine flow from me, "all he's ever wanted is to be an Alpha to a strong Pack and look what he got, nine dead warriors, a dead pup and you as a mother." Martha moves so quickly that her hand crashing into my cheek has me falling from the bench, "you can hit me all you want but it won't change the fact that you failed him as a mother and you're still failing now. You let your mate beat him until he ran off, he chose to live out in the world rather than under your roof." Martha grabs my hair and drags over to the wall, I try to claw at her but she's clearly not bothered as she clips a collar around my neck.

"Now, stay there. Good girl." I glare at her as she speaks to me like I'm some kind of pet, she walks back over to the bench and pulls out a white stick from the back pocket of her shorts. "I didn't let my mate beat my son, my son never knew my real mate." Martha takes the pink plastic tip off the white stick and dips it into the urine. "I never got much time with my mate before my father married me off to the Everfur Alpha, if you think Cas is the only one who suffered his pain at the hands of that man then you are wrong." I watch as she taps the stick against the pot and then perches herself on the bench while she waits. "in three minutes we will know if you are having a pup or not. Cas was beaten by his father because he knew the truth, that Cas wasn't his and he hated him for it. Oh he couldn't say anything because then the world would know that Everfur was being run by a floppy dick Alpha." Martha shakes her head and looks down at the stick.

"So what? You let an Alpha beat your son and let your son believe it was his father. Why not tell Cas? Maybe he wouldn't hate you so much." Martha just chuckles at me.

"Oh he would, maybe more, Vince beat him just as much. He was a tiny runt of a thing when he was little, I figured it would beef him up, make him stronger. It worked, look at how strong he is, so handsome." Martha looks almost motherly as she speaks about Cas but I know it's not her true face, I've seen who she is now.

"Vince is his father?" Martha nods her head, "I thought he was Beta and brother to the Alpha." I can't wrap my head around all the lies, poor Cas has no idea how deep it goes.

"Not brother, it was a story we came up with so Vince could still be around his son. Alpha would only allow it if Vince pledged his allegiance to him so he did and from that day on he was more loyal to his Alpha than to me. Until he died of course," Martha looks down at the test and her eyes widen for a second. "Sorry Luna, looks like you are expecting after all." She gets up from the bench and drops the white stick on the floor, I stare at the two little pink lines as she walks from the room. I bring my hand up to my still flat stomach, I can't be far along or the shifters I've been around would have smelled it.

"I'll get us out of here, peanut." I whisper to the tiny being growing inside of me, as fresh tears start to fall down my face.

"Drink this." I accept the glass from Rowan as he slides me a glass of Jameson across my desk, "Selena has cleaned up Vince as best she can and Fraction is questioning him now. I have warriors watching Dragon's Flame and the borders. We are stretched thin but we are making do." I just drink deeply from my glass and then slam it back down on the desk, Rowan doesn't hesitate in pouring me another. “She’s gone, I won’t find her now.” I can even feel Storm’s depression leaking into me, he knows she’s gone and he’s already mourning our loss. “I should have just gotten the water for her.” I can’t help but feel like if I had just gotten out of bed and gotten Eva some water she would never have been taken.

“We think she saw Heath hurt and went out to help him, it’s not like she ran from you Cas. We will find her and bring her home,” Rowan is trying his best at keeping me up beat but I know the likelihood of finding Eva now is next to non-existent. I scented the area for myself, there was no scent out of place and from what I can tell Eva was put in a vehicle in the driveway the same as Heath.

“You smelled the same thing as me, there wasn’t a single smell out of place.” Sipping at my drink I drop my head just as a knock comes to the door. I can’t handle anything else on top of this already crushing blow, I turn my chair so my back is to Rowan and the door.

“Now isn’t a good time Sally.” I hear Rowan whisper as I rub my hands. over my face and sigh deeply, Storm is in turmoil, I can feel him whirling around inside of me like a tornado. It’s making me dizzy and a little sick but that could also just be how I feel without Eva.

Eva and Heath missing I thought he should know that his mother didn’t come home last night,” Sally’s voice is low like she doesn’t want me to hear but I tune in the second I hear E, she know I should be worried about Heath as well but honestly, I just want my mate back.

“Where is she?” Rowan asks her quickly, I hear the door squeak, so he’s either opened it more or he’s pulling it closed.

“I don’t know, the last time I saw her she was leaving for the night to meet Vince, she was all giddy about something. I just assumed she was drunk,” I jump up from the chair as soon as she mentions Vince, I don’t give Rowan time to move, I just grab his shoulder and launch him backwards. Sally looks terrified as I pull the door fully open, she actually looks smaller than she ever has.

“She was with Vince?” Sally just nods her head as I try to calm my temper, “you’re sure?” Again Sally just nods, I don’t say anything else as I push her aside and quickly run up the stairs. If my mother was with Vince and he’s now in the cells then where the hell is my mother, my gut is telling me that my mother had something to do with Eva and Heath but I try to stamp it down. I know she’s a cruel woman but to steal my mate is just pure evil, if she had anything to do with this then I’ll see her blood on my hands by the time it’s over.

I can feel Rowan behind me as I stomp across the garden, the blood patch from Heath has been washed away, most likely it was one of the females. The lack of guard on the door doesn’t concern me, if Rowan is to be believed we are stretched thin and with Fraction inside only a fool would try to enter.

“Cas, I can’t.” I look back to see Rowan standing at the door, his face is lined with pain and his grip on the doorframe is the only thing keeping him from dropping to the floor. I can feel Fraction’s Alpha aura but it’s only a mild concern to me, for Rowan it will be like the Alpha himself is sitting on his shoulders.

“Stay there,” the words come out meaner than I intend but right now I don’t feel like I have full control of myself. Pushing on into the cells I walk past the one with the rogue still chained in it and into the one with Vince. I stop at the door and see he’s now sitting wrapped in a silver chain, his face looks a little cleaner but it’s still all puffy and bloody, Fraction is just casually leaning against the wall next to him. I can feel his Alpha aura pulsing out but he’s not asking any questions, he actually looks almost bored of the whole situation.

“Cas, had a few drinks?” Fraction pulls his phone from his pocket and smiles, I just nod my head as I cross my arms over my chest.

“He said anything?” I don’t even try to hide the disgust in my tone as I spit on the floor at Vince’s feet, his eyes are so swollen I can’t even tell if he’s conscious.

“Not yet but he will, I can keep this up all day. How long can you hold out Vince? You might have been a Beta but we all know your wolf can’t stand up to me.” Fraction’s aura pulses again and I stagger for a second, I look over at Fraction and he just raises a questioning eyebrow at me.

“You were with my mother last night, where is she?” I lean myself against the cell as I feel Fraction aura start to weigh me down, shaking my head a little I try to regain control of myself.

“Answer him, I know you can speak, still have that wicked tongue in your mouth.” Fraction stands up from the wall and walks over to Vince, he grabs the back of his head and pulls it back until a loud scream comes from Vince’s mouth.

“Yes, I was with her.” Vince mutters, his words are barely understandable thanks to the swelling but I hear him clearly enough.

“Did she take Eva?” Fraction looks at me in disbelief, he doesn’t know my mother like I do. “Did she take my mate from me?” I clench my fists as I sag more against the cell door. Fraction’s aura is really starting to affect me and I don’t understand why.

“She was Luna, she was meant to be Luna. You don’t know what she gave up to be the Luna of this Pack, to put up with your Alpha. to forsake her mate!” Vince screams at me. I try to push myself off the cell door but the aura is stopping me from moving.

“My father was her mate, when he died she knew what would happen. She could have just moved aside like any other ex-Luna.” Fraction looks like he’s about to start punching Vince, when his father passed he took over Alpha and his mother became an ex-Luna. And what an ex-Luna she was, she had nothing but kindness and support for those around her up until she was killed.

“He wasn’t her mate, you don’t become as twisted as me and her are unless you are kept close together but unable to be together. It eats at you like a cancer, so close but never able to touch.” I shake my head as my mind tries to rebel against what he’s telling me.

“My father was her mate?” This time I say the words as if they are a question even though I know them to be true.

“No, I was, I am. She’s mine but unclaimed.” Fraction shoves Vince’s head forward with a slap for good measure.

“Are you saying that you were Beta to the man who took your fated mate as his chosen mate?” I can hear the disgust in Fraction’s tone, it’s an awful crime to take someone’s mate from them and this is why. It makes for bitter, resentful wolves, it twists you up until there is

“Got my pup in her before he put a stop to it though.” Vince sounds almost proud as I lean over and throw up everything in my stomach. The alcohol comes back up like a burning fire as it falls from my mouth. I can feel it splashing against my legs but I can’t stop it.

TTT

“Cas? What the hell happened?” I feel Rowan’s hands on my shoulder is pulling me backwards, it’s only once I’m out of the cell that I realise Fraction aura has lessened.

“He’s just had a bomb dropped on him.” I appreciate Fraction not telling Rowan about Vince. I’ve barely registered it myself, I’m not ready for others to know.

“My mother helped, she helped take Eva and Heath.” I gulp for air as Rowan lets me go and I drop to the floor, “she’ll make sure she dies. We have to find her Rowan. I want to know every business Jeremy owns between here and Seattle. He has to have her at one of them.” I look up at Rowan and beg him with my eyes to do this for me. I don’t have it in me to even get off the floor right now.

“I’ll be back,” he looks up at Fraction. “Don’t leave him alone.” Fraction just nods as Rowan runs from the cells, I pray to the Goddess. that he finds something. He has to.

“What do you mean he didn’t scream?” The sound of a gruff voice has me scurrying back into the furthest corner of the cage. After Martha did the pregnancy test Cyrus came in and dragged me down to what I presume is the basement. He launched me into a cage that is barely big enough to lie down in and not big enough to stand up in.

“They wailed on him man and he was all silent the whole time, I swear if he wasn’t breathing I would think Liam had killed him.” A second rough voice says, I can hear their footsteps on the same stairs Cyrus dragged me down, only a few seconds later do I see two massive rogues dragging an unconscious Heath.

“Get the gloves.” The dark haired one says, of course the cages are made of silver so they can touch it but it will hurt them alot. I bring my knees up to my chest to try and hide my nudity. “Oh little thing is here.” I close my eyes, I play the game of ‘if I can’t see you, you can’t see me, it doesn’t work.

“Can’t touch her till that pup is born, you know the rules.” The way the guy with the gloves looks at me makes me feel a little sick, I think he would touch me whether I had a pup in me or not. SEAR*ch the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

“Chuck him in Ste, I’m hungry.” The one carrying Heath shoves him into a cage no bigger than my own, thankfully they are next to each other though. He slams the cage closed and together they walk from the room, I hold my breath until I know they aren’t coming back.

“Heath?” I whisper his name into the dark in case one of them is hanging around outside of the door, shuffling forward on my bottom I reach my hand through the cage bars. I’ve wished I had more muscle mass before but today is not that day, I’m actually thankful for my skinny arm because it means I don’t have to touch the silver.

“Eva?” Heath’s voice comes out pained and low as I place a hand on his back, I sn atch it back as he rolls over, pulling my hand back through the bars, I see it’s now got blood on it.

“Heath what did they do to you?” I can’t keep the shock from my voice, his face is completely disfigured and the blood is dripping from a tear in his shirt onto the stone floor.

“Just a few punches, nothing much.” I know he’s lying, I can hear the pain in his voice as he tries to sit himself up, he pulls forward with a hiss when his back touches the silver bars. “If it wasn’t for all this silver my wolf would have already dealt with this, honestly Luna, I’m fine.” I just watch as he tries to put himself into a comfortable position, he ends up being hunched over with his legs crossed, his bloody blonde hair falling into his face. "What did they do to you?" I blink my eyes as I try to think of what to tell him.

"Nothing," I know I shouldn't lie but I know if I tell him Jeremy drew blood from me he will start raging and I don't think he has it in him right now. "Martha found out I'm carrying Cas's pup so Jeremy had me put in here." Heath's head shoots up and he starts sniffing the air, "you won't smell it, Martha said she couldn't either." I place a hand over my stomach and dip my head so my hair will hide my breasts.

"It must be early then, chances are only Cas would smell it." I can't stop the small cry that leaves my mouth, I want Cas with me so badly I can barely contain the pain of it. "I'll get you to him Eva, I won't let anything happen to you or the pup." Heath leans forward and slides his hand into mine. He just sits there with me as I cry out my pain, the only place he's touching me is my hand and yet it feels so comforting.

"How long have we been here?" I ask him as I try to calm myself down, I'm clutching his hand like it's somehow going to personally pull me from this nightmare.

"Two days I think, could be less, could be more. I haven't seen the outside since the night at the Pack." He squeezes my hand before letting go, I watch as he tries to lay down on the floor of his cage, "try and lay down Luna, you need some sleep. Let Ghost heal you up, I don't care what you say, I can smell your blood," I just nod my head as I lay down, I manage to put myself in a sort of foetal position, placing my hand on my still flat stomach. I close my eyes and listen to Heath breathing, at least I'm not alone now, I'm not sure if this is better or worse.

I'm not sure how long I sleep for but the sound of something banging against the cages has me jerking awake. I sit up so quickly that my head smacks off the top of the cage, I hiss from the contact to the silver- as well as the actual knock to my head.

“Ah, wakey wakey little Princess.” I cringe as Jeremy leers at me from the otherside of the bars, “you know I’ve been up all night pondering something.” He hitches up his suit pants and crouches down so we can be eye to eye, “how am I going to make sure you behave when you go home if I can’t punish you?” I start to shake all over when he gets this nasty look on his face, whenever he got this look in the past I always knew I was in for some pain.

“I’m sorry, I’ll do what you ask.” My words sound hollow even to me, glancing to the side I realise Heath is no longer in the cage next to me, “what did you do?” I can’t stop the growl that leaves my throat, I can feel Ghost pushing against my skin but thanks to all the silver around us she won’t get far.

“Oh yes, one of the rogues mentioned that if you want an Alpha or Luna to behave you need to threaten their Pack.” Jeremy stands up and moves to the side, “I realised I have one of your Pack members.” Looking beyond Jeremy I see Heath is stripped n*ked and on a massive cross, he’s completely spread open for everyone to see. I can see they did more than just punch him yesterday, it looks like someone has. taken a knife to his chest and played tic-tac-toe.

“Please don’t do this.” I grab hold of the bars, I push against them despite the pain that radiates up my arms.

“See with you, I slap you around a few times.” Jeremy walks over to Heath and slaps him in the face a few times, he can’t speak or shout out thanks to the ball g ag in his mouth. “Shove my c ock in you and you’d be begging to do whatever I needed but with a brat inside of you I’ve been forbidden to hurt you until it’s born.” I watch in horror as Jeremy pulls a cloth off a table I hadn’t even realised was there, “you recognise these?” I just stare in horror as Jeremy starts to list various sized d ildos, I know them well, he used them on me often enough. Usually when he couldn’t finish but he wanted me to feel the pain and humiliation he thought I needed to feel.

“Don’t do this,” I scream out, “you don’t want me, you never have. Just stop.” Jeremy chuckles as he drops the se x toy and walks over to Heath, he runs a hand up his chest before sticking a finger into one of the wounds that is still bleeding. Heath struggles against his bindings but thanks to the strap around his middle, wrists and ankles, he can’t go anywhere.

"I never wanted you, you were always a job Zoe." I can't stop the tears that start running down my face, I can feel Heath's pain like it's happening to my own b*dy, it's running through my whole b*dy. "You ran and you weren't given permission to leave. You belong to us until we say otherwise and now so will that runt in your stomach." I sit back on my ass as I watch Jeremy walk behind Heath, I can't see what he's 'Turn around Eva, don't watch this.' Heath's voice sounds strained as he urges me to not watch his torment. Sobbing I do as he bids and I turn around just as Heath's piercing scream fills the basement, even through the ball gag I can hear all the pain and anguish that Jeremy is putting on Heath's b*dy. I don't know how long it goes on but Heath grunts and growls the whole time.

"I'm going to kill you." I whisper into the silence once Heath stops screaming, the smell of blood, semen and other bodily fluids is heavy in the air. I close my eyes when I hear the cage door being opened next to me, I don't look when I hear Heath being dropped back inside, I don't even flinch when I feel a warm wet hand on my back.

"This is just the first time, by the time I take you home you are going to be the good obedient broodmare you were meant to be." I suck in a breath as Jeremy's voice washes over me, I fight the urge to be sick, I continue to sit with my eyes closed long after me and Heath are left alone in the dark.

Rowan

"Babe?" Selena's voice echoes through the empty home as I close the door, all the lights are off but I can tell from how close her voice is that she's in the lounge. "Any news?" I don't answer her as I take off my boots and then walk through the hall into the dark lounge. She's curled up on the sofa, still wearing her blue scrubs and with pillow marks across her cheek, her eyes are red and sleepy as she blinks up at me.

"Nothing," I drop myself into the armchair and being the amazing mate she is, she's instantly up and pouring me a glass of Jack Daniels.

"I'm getting worried, it's been three days. Mary is beside herself, I called in sick this morning and spent the day with her." I dip my head in shame as Selena sits herself down on the coffee table and hands me the half full glass. I'm ashamed to say that I hadn't even considered Mary in all of this mess, she and Heath just had a pup, of course she's worried sick. I don't say anything as I sip at my drink, Selena just sits there with her hand on my jean covered knee, it's almost like she knows I need this time with her but that I have no words left.

"I'm screwing this up." I whisper once the glass is empty, "I'm supposed to have the answers for him but I keep coming up with nothing." Selena takes the glass from me and places it beside her, her small soft. hand on my chest has my eyes looking up at her.

"Then talk it out with me, that's what we do at the hospital when we have a patient we can't figure out. Maybe I can see something you are too close to see." I shake my head as she talks softly, it's almost like she doesn't want to disturb the darkness surrounding us.

"I can't, some stuff is private and Cas could have me declassified if I told you some of it." Selena just shakes her head at me before I've even finished speaking.

"I stood by your side as you trained to be a warrior, when you became Head Warrior for that awful Alpha I waited for Cas to return right alongside you. Now as Beta I'm again right here," Selena offers me one of her warm smiles, the kind that makes me want to wrap her hair in my hands and pull her into me. "Anything that you tell me that can't go further than this home, won't. It's as simple as that." I'm not sure how I ended up with a mate like Selena but I thank the Goddess everyday, moving quickly I slide my hand into her blonde hair and pull her to me. Placing my lips on her mouth I kiss her slowly and softly, it's a kiss. that tells her how much I love her and it's a promise for more to come.

I pull back from the k*ss once she starts moaning into my mouth, if I carry on I'll her n*ked and on all fours within seconds.

"I don't even know what I'm missing. I keep going over everything and none of it is making sense." I leave back and smile at her red puffy l*ps. as her tiny pink tongue runs across them.

"What do you know?" Selena's voice comes out breathy as she tries to get herself under control.

"We know Martha and Vince are how they were taken but I can't link them with Jeremy." It's been bugging me, I can't figure out how Martha ever even met Jeremy, Vince I can kind of understand, he's a seedy f ucker and I can totally see him in a strip club.

"What's that bar Martha goes to, the one in that weird back road?" I wave my hand at Selena as I slump back in the chair, there is no way Jeremy would be there. It's owned by a group of rogues, some idiots whose Alpha and Luna, instead of going into another Pack they went out on their own.

"S hit." I jump up from the chair, putting a hand on either side of Selena's head, I lay a massive k*ss on her l*ps. "You f ucking Goddess." I start running from the room and she follows me, she's beaming but I can see the confusion in her eyes.

"What did I miss? Did I earn something good?" I chuckle at her as I push my boots back on, looking back with my hand on the door I wink at her.

"Rogues, it's about the rogues. You more than earned something good, once we have Eva and Heath back me and you are locking the bedroom door." Walking through the door I set off for the Packhouse at a jog, it's pretty late so nob*dy's around. I'm not getting Cas or Fraction involved until I know I'm right.

Francis just opens the door for me as I come running across the garden, it's obvious where I'm going and that I'm in a rush.

"Thanks." I yell as I run past him, I go through the door so quickly I forgot to prepare myself for the smell. I can feel Echo trying to force me to stop but I push forward and ignore my wolf, he's a lot more sensitive to the stink of blood, urine and sweat than I am.

'Goddess, warn a wolf first.' I just shrug him off as I slow down and poke my head around the cell that the rogue Heath captured is currently chained.

"Can't even snooze in peace in this place." Mitch is sitting in the same spot he has been for almost a week now, Francis comes in and gives him meals with Heath being gone but otherwise he hasn't been moved.

"I have some questions for you." I say as I walk into the cell and lean against the cell door.

"Loosen this silver and I'll give you whatever you want." I don't miss the growl in his voice, I know being silvered isn't fun and especially when it surrounds you like that. I glance over at the gloves on the wall but I already know I'm not letting him go, I won't do that after him and his friends killed nine of our men.

"Not doing that, I can speak to Alpha Cas about a silver cell door instead of chains though. To give you some freedom?" I try to lighten my voice, try to make it sound like it doesn't matter to me either way even though I'm pretty sure this rogue has the information I need.

"Fine, what do you want?" Mitch sounds tired, not sleepy but actually tired of the whole situation, he doesn't strike me as a rogue type of guy.

"Do you know Jeremy? He runs that strip club in town, Dragon's Flame." Mitch is nodding his head before I even stop talking, crossing my arms over my chest. I look at him and wait, I'm not willing to offer anything more just in case he manages to get out and I spill something of use to him and Jeremy.

"Jeremy Heins or Hein, something like that. Works for those religious f uckers." Mitch doesn't hide his distaste for who Jeremy works with. "Yeah I know him, the female was trusted to him for 'training', I don't know what training but he is the one who sent us in to find her." Mitch tries to adjust himself in the chair but the chains are tied tight enough that he can barely wiggle. "Why do ask?"

"Has he ever met you somewhere other than Dragon's Flame?" Mitch's eyes twitch and he quickly looks away from me, he knows something I just know it. "If you want more space this could really help you get it."

“He got the female didn’t he?” I nod my head at him but don’t offer anything else, “and the warrior? He ain’t been in for a few days.” I don’t move a muscle, letting outsiders know our Head Warrior is missing could be dangerous.

and shake a little.

“Alright, cool it. I don’t have it in me to fight that shi t again.” Pulling my aura back, I flop back against the cell door, “if he took the female then she’s at Axe’s Bar, it’s down on route 22, it’s a small dirt road. You can’t miss it, there will be a lot of rogues there, well trained, I trained them myself.” I chuckle as I head for the cell door, looking back at him I smile at his obvious discomfort, he’s clearly not happy about giving up his guys.

“They can’t be that well trained, we caught you.” With that jab I walk out of the cell, now I have the information I need, I’m planning on going straight to Cas.

“Hey, you promised.” Mitch’s shouts follow me out of the cells, I pass Fraction and head straight to the Pack house, the sun is just rising over the trees which means this is the third night of no sleep for me.

‘Sleep once we have our Pack whole.’ I agree with Echo, I can rest once we have our family back.

You know what I find fascinating?’ I run my finger through the dirt on the floor when Ghost starts to whisper to me, I’m collecting it up into a little pile. I have no idea why I’m doing it, I guess I'm trying to keep my mind busy, Heath has been passed out since he was put back in the cage.

'What?' I snap at my wolf as I blow a little and the little dirt pile spreads across the floor again.

"The only thing keeping us bound is this silver cage, notice how he hasn't given you anything with silver in it for two days now.' Ghost is whispering but I have no idea why considering I'm the only one who can hear her..

'Yeah, so?' I have to admit I'm scared, tired, hungry and a little cold, which is making me much grumpier than normal.

'At some point you need to learn from me like I've learned from you.' I feel her nudge-me as she starts to get annoyed.

'Like what? At the moment I just wish I could sleep, maybe then I could speak to Cas or even Anna, then one of them could come and save us.' I don't know how I get into people's dreams but right now I wish I could sleep so I could try.

'You don't need them, we are Omega. Sure having our Pack around makes us stronger and we strengthen them in return but Eva, you are strong on your own too.' I sit up as Ghost tries to fill me with a hope that is not my own, I know it's coming from her so it feels artificial, like I've drunk a load of wine and suddenly think I'm invincible.

'So? What does my designation have to do with anything that is happening right now?' I glance over at Heath and see he's still face down on the floor, I wish I could reach out to soothe him, after my time with Cas I know that what me and Jeremy had wasn't love. I know what it's like to have someone invade your b*dy when you don't want it to happen.

'He didn't, I felt his wolf the whole time. He wasn't hurt like that, Jeremy is just playing mind games with you.' I let out a small sigh of relief but it's short lived. I wonder what he did to make him scream out in pain like he did. 'Eva listen to me, next time you are out of this cage give me control. I can get us out of here, you might be all sweet and innocent but I'm not.' Before I can respond to Ghost's firm words, Heath makes a noise like a groan and rolls over onto his back.

“Luna?” I get as close to the bar as I dare and peer over at him, it’s dark- so I’m struggling to see him but I can make out his outline. “You alright?” Heath sounds like he’s still in pain as he groans loudly again and draws his arm up to his chest.

“Never mind me, what did he do to you?” I keep my voice low in case someone is listening and comes back in now he’s awake.

“I’m fine, just missing a finger nail or two, we need to get out of this silver so I can rip these f uckers apart.” The anger in his voice is unmistakable as he sits himself up, he hisses as he leans back on the silver bars and quickly leans himself forward.

“I thought,” I look over at the space where Jeremy had the table. “I thought he did more, I thought the worse.” Heath’s glowing yellow eyes look at me from his cage, he must be in a lot of pain for his wolf to be so close to the surface.

“I’m alright, Eva. I promise,” he shuffles along the floor and reaches his hand through the bar. He holds my hand gently in his offering some much needed support. “We will get out of here, I wish I could do more, he injected me with something. I can feel it affecting my wolf, he’s howling in pain.”

“Ghost said she can get out,” I lower my voice even further, “I just need to get out of this cage, she said she can take care of the rest.” I can see Heath shaking his head no before I even finish speaking.

“You have no training Eva, sure you took down a rogue in that clearing but there are countless rogues in this building. I’d struggle against them all alone, there is no way your wolf will be able to do it alone.” I feel my shoulders sag, I know he’s not trying to be mean he’s just stating a fact, I can feel Ghost getting annoyed.

“She was so sure.” I stop talking and scoot back in my cage as I hear footsteps on the stairs, glancing over at Heath I can see he is in the same spot but he looks almost bigger like he has puffed himself up somehow.

in there,” the muffled male voice sounds from the other side of the door to the basement. I sniff to try and pick up who it is but I need not have bothered once I feel Martha through the Pack link.

“She’s carrying my son’s pup, I’m not going to hurt her.” I want to scream out that although Martha sounds sweet and innocent, she’s lying through her damn teeth.

“Fine but make it quick.” The squeak of the door and the overpowering smell of Gin and fake lavender sweeps into the room a split second before Marth does. She quickly closes the door behind her and flicks on the light, both me and Heath hold a hand up covering our eyes against the blinding light.

“Go d look at you two.” She quite literally bends over and starts laughing so hard tears roll down her face. SEARCH THE website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

“Pi ss off Martha.” Heath’s growl is a warning but not much of one considering she knows there isn’t much we can do to her from here.

“Oh I don’t think so, me and Eva have some things to chat about. Girl to girl.” She swipes at her face as she heads over to the shelves and picks up a pair of gloves, sliding them onto her hands as she comes over to my cage.

“Don’t do this Martha, stop now and Cas might just banish you.” Even I can hear the lie in Heath’s voice, we all know there is no way Martha is getting out of this alive.

“You remember Sookie?” I nod my head at her as she leans down at my cage door and starts to move the tumbler lock, “me and Vince found her last week. Hung herself, without a Pack and Cas she killed herself.” My mouth becomes dry as Martha uncl*ps the lock, “she was going to be my daughter, you took her from me just like you stole my son.” I scuttle back on my as s as she leans into the cage and grabs hold of my hair. With her tight grip she pulls and I have no choice but to crawl from the cage or risk losing my hair to her red painted talons.

“Martha, stop!” Heath urges her as she drags me further into the basement, I claw at her hands but she just keeps going until she lets me go in the middle of the room. She steps back and just looks down at me, leaning forward she sniffs deeply before her face goes bright red.

“It’s actually in there,” she spins away from me and starts to pull at her dark hair making it a more of a mess than it already is. “How many times?” I look over at Heath but he shakes his head with a look of anger on his face, I have no idea what she’s asking me. “How many times did you trick my son into f ucking you?” She roars as she spins on me, I lean back away from her but it’s not like I have many places to go.

“None, I didn’t trick him.” I stammer, I can feel myself turn red at being asked this while buck n*ked in a basement with Heath watching on.

“Lies, I need to fix this.” She starts pacing across the floor, she seems to be muttering to herself more than either of us. “Can’t have an heir to the Pack who is born from an Omega. He’ll thank me for it, it has to be done and only I can do it.” I glance over at Heath and see he is pushing on the cage bars despite the silver, his face is red and I can see the muscles in his arms pulsing from the effort.

‘Eva let me out, now. This woman is bat sh it crazy.’ I seem to be frozen in fear as Martha keeps muttering to herself, I barely even register Ghost urging me to let her out. She seems to understand my situation and she pushes against me without my permission, I feel her break through me in a speed she never has before. One second I am a quivering n*ked mess on the floor and the next Ghost is growling at Martha in a threatening way.

‘Eva, careful.’ Heath’s voice comes over the Pack link just as Martha. realises she is trapped with an angry white wolf.

‘She threatened my pup, she hurt Eva. She’s mine.’ I try to answer Heath but Ghost shuts me up and responds to him in a growl before locking him out.

“Oh so now the rogue appears, you kill me and he will never forgive you.” Martha tries to sound brave but I can smell the fear rolling off her, “what will you do? Not like you can go anywhere, it will just be you, him and my dead b*dy.” She’s trying to talk Ghost down as she watches her walk in a circle, I can feel Ghost analysing her almost like she’s trying to find Martha’s weak spots.

‘He’ll forgive us.’ Ghost says a second before she pounces, Martha brings her hands up to try and protect herself but it does little as I feel Ghost’s claws dig into her skin like a warm knife in butter. I feel her warm blood spurt across Ghost’s face as if it was my own, Martha opens her mouth to scream as she falls backward but Ghost shuts her up by clamping her mouth down on her throat. I feel the life gurgle from Martha as Ghost starts to rag her around the floor, I feel almost sick as the coppery taste of blood pours into my mouth.

“It’s not that difficult, just knock on the door and ask.” I roll my eyes at Fraction as we stand in the overly cute garden, I don’t know what Eva did to this place when she was here but the garden looks nicer than it ever did.

“Why don’t you ask him if it’s not that difficult?” I side eye Fraction and almost laugh at the look of horror that comes over his face.

“I said that it wasn’t difficult, not that I would do it.” He sounds exactly how I feel, with the lack of warriors and it looking like we are facing a group of rogues, we came to the conclusion that it only makes sense to ask the third Alpha in the area for help. It takes everything I have to raise my fist and knock on the door, it takes even more to stand there and wait for the door to be opened.

“I expected you a few days ago,” Eric’s smug face makes me want to turn around and walk away but I know I need him to help us get Eva and Heath back.

“Well I’m here now,” I don’t wait for him to invite us in, instead I just walk into the home forcing him to jump to the side to allow me and Fraction to walk into the small lounge. “Where’s Sophie?” I ask him as I take a seat on the sofa, I quickly change my mind and jump up to lean against the bookcase instead. Fraction chuckles as he takes a kitchen table making it look like doll house furniture.

“At school, where else would she be at ten in the morning on Wednesday?” Eric sounds confused that I would even ask. Honestly, I forgot Sophie even went to school, I guess it was because her mother. never allowed her to go.

“Any news on Lisa and where she took the twins?” I’m avoiding his eyes as as he walks further into the lounge and drops onto the sofa, the room feels suffocating with three big Alpha’s in it.

“You really want to talk about that waste of space or do you want to ask me for my help in getting Eva and Heath back? I assume that’s why you’re here?” Eric doesn’t sound even annoyed as he leans back and spreads his arm along the sofa, I expected him to outright refuse not to bring the topic up himself.

“We think they might be at a small dive bar my mother used to frequent.” I nod at Fraction who gets up and brings me the map Rowan dug out in the early hours of the morning, he opens it up and spreads it on the dark wood coffee table. “It’s on a dead end road and surrounded by woods.” I point to the spot on the map and Eric leans forward to look at where I’m pointing.

“And being nine warriors down you don’t have the bodies for a frontal attack?” I just nod my head, Eric already knows the Pack is weakened but it doesn’t make it any easier to admit. “And you need a rogue to walk in there?”

“Not exactly.” I swallow as I crouch down and point at the road leading to the bar, “one way in and one way out. I want to do a stealth attack, in the middle of the night while they are sleeping. Take them all out in one go, if we go in at night then it will give them less of a heads up to hurt Eva or Heath.” Eric is nodding his head as he follows the line of my finger on the map.

“So why do you need me?” He looks to me and then to Fraction as if not understanding what I need from him.

"I need you alongside me, us." I hold his hazel eyes as I do the one thing an Alpha never does, admits that he needs help, not only am I doing it but I'm doing it in front of two Alpha's.

"On one condition." I stand up and cross my arms over my chest as I wait for Eric to ask for something I can't give, "I need to get back to Texas, The Elders are on my as s about it but I won't leave my only. family behind. I want you to release Sophie from the Pack so I can take her back with me." Of all the things I thought he would ask I didn't think it would be that. SEAR*ch the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

"Does she want to go?" I look at Fraction as he asks the question before

I do.

"She does, she knows her mother isn't coming back and even if she did, she's not exactly the nicest woman." Eric answers quickly, I don't know Lisa well but from what little I've learned of the woman I can't see her as a mother.

"I'll need to talk to Sophie, make sure it's what she wants but yeah, if she wants it, I'll release her from Everfur." I'm not in a position to argue that her staying here is a good idea when it would be splitting her up from family, not when I'm asking him to help me get my family back.

"When do we leave?" Fraction starts to wrap up the map as I give Eric my phone number, I tell him the plan to meet at the Pack house at nightfall before quickly leaving the cottage. Once I'm standing outside I just stand there and look up at the sunny sky.

'Only a few more hours.' I can feel Storm whispering to me, he's certain Eva and Heath are at the bar but I have my doubts. I have this gut feeling that I've lost her and I won't find her again.

"Alpha Cas?" I'm drawn out of my day dreaming by a female voice, blinking the sun out of my eyes, I see Mary walking towards Rowan and Selena's house.

"Mary," ignoring Fraction and Eric chatting in the doorway, I walk out of the garden and over to the woman pushing a stroller. "How are you?" I'm ashamed to say that while I've been dealing with my own turmoil I haven't checked in on Mary like I should have.

“I’m managing, Selena has been helping me with Alec here.” I peer into the stroller to see the little chubby pup snoozing soundly in a pile of blue blankets. “I know you have a lot going on but is there any news?” I can hear the nerves in her voice, she asks politely enough but I know she’s dying to grab hold of me and demand to know where her mate is.

“We might have a lead, we are chasing it up tonight. If it works out we could have them home by morning.” I try to keep my voice flat and devoid of hope, the last thing I want is to build this poor woman up and to come back empty handed.

“Then I hope you are successful, not only for me but for you and the Pack. I’ve been speaking to some of the older women and they are all dying to have our Luna home.” I smile at Mary as she keeps walking past me and into Rowan and Selena’s garden. I knew Mary well when we were growing up and she was a nice enough pup, I guess she’s turned into a pretty selfless adult. Most females would be howling about their own loss and wouldn’t give a second thought about the Pack or the needs of others. I’m sure the weight of her loss is killing her inside but she’s still brave enough to put on a front for her Alpha.

“Are you ready to bring them home?’ Storm asks me as I watch Selena wave at me as she helps Mary get the stroller into her home.

“They have to be there and not just for me.’ I drop my head as I start walking back to the Pack house, the whole way there I start to think of formations and any possible attacks the rogues could use on us.

‘What about your mother? If she’s there she might get hurt in the fight.’ Storm growls at me, I think he feels the same way I do, at the end of the day my mother is the reason we are in this mess.

‘Then I feel sorry for my mother because as far as I’m concerned she’s no longer a part of this Pack.’ As I say that an overwhelming pain enters my brain and I drop to the floor, it’s like someone just left the Pack but it’s more powerful than that. At first I don’t understand what is happening but as I probe around the link I realise that one is missing.

“Cas, you alright?” I feel Fraction’s hand on my back as my vision clears and I find myself sitting on the road.

“My mother just died.” I whisper to the dusty floor, I know I wanted her hurt, possibly even dead but I can’t help but feel a little sad, the woman who gave me life has just died.

“How much longer?” I look at Thomas using the mirror, he’s looking more and more like Fraction everyday. He even has the brooding Alpha male look his father gets, right now he’s shooting the look at me as he sits next to Hysion and Aurora in the back of the SUV.

“Not much longer bud, are you excited to see daddy?” I try to keep my voice upbeat but it’s a tense time and the pups can feel it in the air. Especially Aurora, ever since Fraction left she’s either been curled up with me or in her own bed with Hysion right alongside her.

“Yeah, I guess.” Thomas sounds like he wishes he could be anywhere but on his way to see his father but I know he’s excited. He’s just reached an age where he’s trying to act all cool and missing your father’ is apparently not cool. Keeping my eyes on the car ahead of me I see Patrick indicating to leave the freeway, I quickly change lanes and follow him. Last night I got a call from Fraction, he was saying that he was going to be at Everfur for a few more days. I don’t mind him being gone but I’m worried about why he’s gone. So I grabbed James and Patrick, piled the pups into the car and set off. It’s been a long drive with three little ones in the back but thanks to iPads and some strategically placed snacks it looks like we’ve made it. The phone ringing has Eliza’s name popping up on the display, pressing the green button I can hear their car tell Patrick where to go.

“Rick said to stay close, he doesn’t know the area so he wants to be able to see your car the whole time.” I smile and flash my lights as Eliza speaks through the speakers in the car.

chuckles before disconnecting the call, sitting up in my seat, I keep my eyes on Patrick’s car as we start driving through a town that looks like time forgot.

It isn't long before I'm pulling up behind Patrick and Eliza, this is not our Pack so we have to follow Pack rules which means we stay here until either the Alpha or Beta come to meet us.

"Stay here, don't take your belts off." I turn around in the seat to see Thomas is the only one awake, he just nods his head at me as he looks out of the window, I'm sure he's looking for Fraction. Jumping from the car I walk over to Patrick who is standing next to his own car. Search the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

"I text him, he's on his way with Cas now," Patrick is looking around as if he's waiting for danger to just jump out at us.

"You can relax, you know, I doubt we are going to be attacked in the middle of the day outside of the Pack." I try to make light of the situation but Patrick just looks at me with a look that says 'really'.

"His Luna was taken from his garden and need I remind you of our kitchen?" I don't say anything in return because I can see Fraction walking along the road with an equally tall blonde haired guy I know to be Cas. Also, there isn't much I can say when he's right. I start to wave enthusiastically but the hand on my shoulder stops me moving forward.

"What? He's right there." I grump at Patrick.

"Wait, don't want to go pissing off an already tense Alpha." Patrick holds up his hand to Fraction and Cas once they are closer, it's the universal manly hello without actually saying it.

"Luna Anna, welcome to Everfur. Please come on in," no sooner than the words out of Cas's mouth I'm jumping into Fraction's arms and fusing our mouths together. I wind my fingers into his soft hair and pull him closer to me, moaning into his mouth, I pour all of my need into the k*ss. It's Deen almost two weeks since he left Swiftmane to come and help Cas, we haven't been apart for this long in a while. I break the k*ss when I hear a cough and a laugh from next to us, I try to slide down Fraction but he keeps his hands on my ass refusing to let me go.

"Hey little wolf." He joins his forehead to mine and for a minute I relax against him and just stare into his eyes. "Did you bring my pups?"

“They’re in the car, we thought leaving all five with James was a little much.” I turn my head to see Patrick speaking to Fraction as he shakes Cas’s hand.

“Shall we get them to the Pack house? Sally has set them up a room and is currently cooking them a mini feast.” Cas smiles but I can see the sadness and tension in his face, I don’t know who Sally is but I just nod my head as Fraction carries me to the SUV.

After some food and meeting Sally, Rowan and Selena the pups have all gone down for a nap. It’s been a long day for them and despite napping in the car they are still knackered. We are all sitting at the kitchen table thanks to Cas’s office being too small for all of us. I’m looking at the map while Cas and Fraction lay out the plan for tonight.

“Wait, where will I be?” Cas is going over the formation but he hasn’t mentioned me yet.

“You’re not coming little wolf, I want you here to help look after Mary and the pups.” I slump back in my chair and stick my tongue out at Fraction, I don’t want to stay here but I get it. Someone needs to keep an eye on the pups and after Aurora being kidnapped we always prefer it to be one of us or at least someone we know very well.

“Eliza, are you sure you’re up to this?” I press my lips together as Cas asks Eliza if she’s ready for a fight. Eliza sits up a little straighter, she’s used to being questioned as a female warrior.

“Eliza is a strong warrior.” Patrick sticks up for his mate and places a hand on her arm, it’s his way of telling her to simmer down. Eliza can have one hell of a temper should the occasion call for it.

“Who’s going to guard your prisoners if we are all out in the field?” Eliza looks around the table as if she’s noticing the obvious flaw in their plan. “I can’t imagine you are going to leave two shifters unguarded?”

“They won’t be, Selena is not only a Doctor but she’s a trained warrior. She will be on guard for us.” Cas answers quickly, Eliza’s eyes meet mine and she raises an eyebrow.

“Is that the best idea? What if Eva or Heath are hurt, wont you need your Doctor there?” Fraction nods his head as I voice, the obvious. problem, “in my experience having a Doctor on hand could be helpful.”-

“I thought of that but I can’t afford to leave a warrior behind, if they are there I need all the man power I can get. The bar is only a fifteen minute drive from the Pack land, we can get them back here pretty quick.” Cas looks down at the map with a frown, he’s obviously concerned about his mate being hurt but with his Pack so short on warriors I can understand his predicament.

“I’m sorry, you’re right.” Fraction pats my arm as I apologise to Cas, it’s his Pack and of course he’s welcome to run it how he wants.

“Everyone is out front Alpha.” Rowan steps into the room with his beautiful mate alongside him, she’s wearing a pair of leggings and a sports bra. She drops a bag on the breakfast bar and waves at us as she exits through the door onto the back garden.

“You don’t leave the Pack house.” Fraction mutters as he closes the door to the room the pups are all sleeping in.

“Of course I wont and you don’t get yourself killed.” Fraction leans down and places a k*ss on my cheek, he nuzzles his nose against my n*eck before pulling back from me.

“It’s a handful of rogues, I’ll be fine.” I watch as he heads down the stairs, I start to bite at my bottom l*p as the worry sets in. Just a handful of rogues or not, it could still go badly and it could cost. everyone involved. I find myself sending a silent prayer to the

“Give it a try, no point in us going further if they aren’t in there.” I nod my head at Rowan as the warriors. Fraction and his guys all start to shift into their wolves, none of us will be going in as a human. Stepping away from the group I close my eyes and reach out for Eva’s Pack link, her link has been stable but I haven’t been able to speak with her or Heath. Fraction seems to think it’s because of the distance, some Alpha’s can communicate over great distances and some can’t, I felt less bad about myself when Fraction told me he also struggled across distances.

‘Eva? You there. Angel?’ I can feel her at the other end of the link but it’s distorted and also painful to touch, whatever is happening she’s in turmoil about it. I pull away from her and search out Heath instead.

‘Alpha?’ Heath sounds like he’s in pain but his connection is holding strong.

‘We’re here, tell me what I’m facing.’ I keep my tone firm, I’ll worry about his condition later, right now I need Heath the Head Warrior, I need him to focus and give me all of the information.

‘Multiple rogues and Jeremy, we are in the basement. You should get down here as soon as you can.’ Heath is speaking in a rush, while he’s chatting I turn around and give Rowan the thumbs up.

‘Eva, is she with you?’ My desperation to see her bleeds into my tone, I just need to hold her and make sure she’s alright.

‘She’s kind of a mess right now, something happened, she shifted and now I think she’s in a state of shock and stuck.’ Heath’s words make me think that is why her connection was so distorted.

‘I’ll be down as soon as I can.’ Turning back to the group, I see them all standing as their wolves and waiting for my orders, it’s actually a pretty impressive sight to see. We might not have numbers but with twelve warriors, my Beta, Eric, Fraction, Rick and Eliza, we make quite an impressive group.

“Alright I connected with Heath, Eva’s connection was a little hazy so she might be injured.” I pull my shirt off over my head making my hair flop onto my face, it’s not normally this long and it’s doing my head in. “The general rule here is, if it smells like a rogue it dies. I don’t want these fuckers in our area not after this.” The wolves all growl their agreement, I even catch some of the warriors verbally agreeing over the link. “I’ll be trying to get to the basement where Eva and Heath are being held. That being said, if you get a clean path down to them then take it.” Normally I would just drop my jeans and shift into Storm but as soon as my hands go to my jeans Rick’s wolf starts to growl while Eliza drops to the floor and covers her eyes with her paw. Chuckling I turn around and call Storm forward, I'm on all fours before my jeans even land on the ground.

"Alright guys, let's keep it tight." Rowan calls out to everyone over the link as we all form a triangle formation with him at the front. With him not long ago being the Head Warrior he's naturally taken the lead on tonight's raid. Sneaking through the trees, we are so silent that no one will know we are coming until we are on them, it's pitch black but thanks to our wolves eyesight we have no problem navigating the rocks. and fallen trees. The whole area stinks of a number of different rogues. I've picked up at least eight different scents judging by the swishing tails of the group. I'm not the only one picking up the scents.

'I can feel Ghost.' I feel Storm tense up at Rowan signals for us all to stop and get low to the ground, 'she's in there, we need to get to her. Now.' I tighten my hold on Storm as much as I can, our whole attack is only going to work if we have the surprise element and if a giant slate grey wolf goes charging in it will definitely give us away.

'We will get to her.' I tell him quickly. Storm starts to crawl forward while keeping his b*dy low to the ground, looking around us I can see the other wolves following the same path in the same position. It's impressive to me that Rowan can lead all of these wolves when some of them aren't even Pack connected.

'Two on patrol, Francis, Jim, go and take them down quietly.' I watch as two wolves sneak off to the side, 'when I say we charge for the bar, we are facing multiple windows and doors. Take what entrance you can and remember your orders.' I see Rowan turn to Fractions wolf, the huge black wolf moves his jaw up and down telling me he knows what Rowan has planned.

'How long?' I hear Heath ask over the Pack link, Rowan's wolf looks back at me so I know he's heard him too.

'We're coming mate. Rowan responds just as Francis chimes in telling us that patrol one is down. The silence of the woods surrounds us as we lay in the dirt waiting for that second patrol to be taken down. I can feel Storm getting ready to move, his need to get to Eva is almost as strong as my own.

'Patrol two down.' Rowan's wolf jumps up from the floor as Jim's voice comes over the Pack link, with a howl into the night we all start moving towards the bar.

Storm flies over the small incline and races down the otherside, I let him fully take over, as he leaps over Eliza's wolf and charges into at window smashing it to pieces. Landing on the floor of what looks like a bedroom, there is the distinct scent of rogue all over the room. Storm starts to growl and lick his l*ps as he stalks towards the bed, there is a male rogue looking very startled laid in the bed.

'Take him out.' I order Storm but I feel him holding himself back. 'What the hell? Storm, come on. We have to get to Eva.' Storm shakes me off as he keeps his eyes on the rogue while walking over to his jeans that are on the floor. I realise what's wrong with Storm as soon as he sticks his nose into the fabric, Eva's scent is all over them, it's really strong and the dark patches that have dried to the fabric tell me she's bled close to this rogue.

"I swear to Goddess, I didn't touch her." The rogue sounds panicked as he tries to push himself further against the wall, thanks to being on the bed he doesn't really have anywhere to go.

'He was near our mate while she was bleeding.' Storm growls at me as he lowers himself and starts to growl menacingly at the rogue. 'He left her to bleed, probably hurting too. Now he has to hurt.' I agree with Storm completely, this rogue needs to hurt, alot.

"I swear, I didn't do it. It wasn't me!" The rogue howls in pain as Storm lunges and sinks his teeth into his duvet covered leg, usually wolves go straight for the kill but not this time. Storm is going to play with him before he goes in for the kill. I can feel the rogue's hands in Storm's hair as he tries to push us off, his howls of pain are music to my ears, Storm seems annoyed at his hands though. Letting go of his leg he spins around to slam his jaw onto the rogue's hand, I taste his blood. flood into our mouth, Storm doesn't mind the taste but it has met gagging.

'Get this over with,' I command Storm as he starts shaking his head back and forth with his jaw still latched onto the rogue's hand. 'We need to get to Eva.' Storm growls loudly but I suddenly realise that's all I'm hearing, Storm/seems to realise it at the same time as me. He steps

'D amn, must have hit an artery.' Storm actually sounds annoyed as he nudges the rogue's foot, satisfied he's dead he walks over to the partly open door and paws it open.

'Alpha, you need to get down here now.' Rowan's voice sounds. panicked over the Pack link, Storm feels it too and starts sniffing to pick up Rowan's scent. I can hear screaming and growling from all around me but none is panicking or shouting over the Pack link so I'm confident they are alright and handling themselves.

'Got it.' Storm turns right, running down a small hall he comes to a stop in front of a door that looks like it's been rammed down by a large wolf. Running down the stairs just beyond the door I see a massive guy slumped on the floor, his throat looks like it's been ripped out. Storm sniffs him for a second before sneezing and turning into the door he was clearly guarding.

'I know him, he's from Dragon's Flame. I'm sure I've seen him before.' I'm confused because I'm sure this is the same guy who let Eva into the private dance room but at the time he didn't smell anything like a rogue, actually he didn't smell of anything.

"Francis, stop. Don't touch her!" I pull Storm back as soon as I enter the room, Rowan is standing butt n*ked next to my very dead mother. Ghost is cowering in the cover of the room, her white fur marked with my mothers blood, she's cowering away from Francis's wolf who is clearly trying to get to his Luna.

"Rowan?" I ask confused as I take another step forward, the sound of a deep sigh has me turning to the left to see a very beaten up Heath inside of a silver cage. Sniffing I realise what has Rowan and Heath on edge. "Get away from my mate." I growl loudly as I walk over to Francis's wolf I grab him by the scruff of his n*eck and fling him into the wall behind us. I don't even look to see if he's alright, crouching down I look Ghost deep in the eyes and smile. It takes her a second but I see the recognition in her eyes a moment before she dives into my arms, she's a massive pile of white bloody fur but I hold her tight against me anyway.

"She good?" Rowan asks, I look behind me to see he has his hands up in front of him and he's taken a few steps back.

“She’s carrying my pup.” Rowan just nods his head as Ghost nuzzles her face deeper into my n*eck.

Rowan

“She’s carrying my pup.” Cas sounds almost dreamy so I nod my head at him as I help Heath out of the silver cage, I knew it the second I smelled her. It’s really faint so I doubt even in his wolf form that Francis could smell it.

“We need to get her out of here.” Heath drapes an arm around my n*eck and I hold him up right with an arm around his waist, “Alpha, you hear me?” Cas is just sitting on the floor with Eva’s white wolf rubbing all over him, he seems lost in her, I don’t think he’s even registered that Francis hasn’t gotten up from the floor yet.

“Everything alright down there?” Fraction shouts down the stairs a split second before he rounds onto the doorway. My eyes go wide as Eric and Fraction come into the basement. Fraction stops at the door instantly but Eric must not be able to smell it because he just keeps walking in.

“How’s the little Omega doing?” Eric stops a few inches from Cas as he starts to growl loudly, pushing Heath, I rush him to the door and thrust him at Fraction’s n*ked b*dy.

“Back away Eric, now.” I speak softly as I approach the two Alpha’s one wrong move and this could end very badly. Alpha’s are crazy protective of their pregnant mates, add in that Eva is an Omega and it just makes that protectiveness skyrocket.

“What’s wrong with him? I’m just checking on Eva.” Eric looks back at me. he seems genuinely confused, almost like he can’t taste the tension

Cas takes advantage of Eric's guard being down, he pushes Ghost off him and dives for Eric's back. He changes into Storm mid way, I manage to jump backwards just as Eric goes flying forward, he lets out a loud curse as he slams into the concrete floor. Using his arms he manages to keep Storm's muzzle from making contact with his neck.

"Cas stop, he didn't know." I shout trying to get my Alpha to listen to reason but it seems he's completely lost it. Storm keeps snarling as Eric keeps trying to push him off, he might be a strong Alpha but Storm and Cas are lost in protecting their mate right now, so they have strength they wouldn't normally have.

"Get him off me." Eric's arms start to shake as he starts to push Storm's jaw away from him, "do something." Eric doesn't sound panicked, he sounds more like he wants us to stop this before one of them does something they will regret. I look over towards Eva but see Ghost is very much still with us, she's just casually laying on the floor and grooming herself.

"Fraction," I spin around to see the doorway is clear, Fraction must have taken Heath upstairs to be seen too. "Damn it." Flattening myself against the wall I shuffle past Storm and Eric, I keep going until I'm sitting in front of Ghost. "Hey beautiful, how you doing?" I speak loudly hoping Cas or even Storm will hear me. "We missed your pretty face around the Pack, days always seem prettier when you're smiling at everyone." I feel something pulling on me but nothing is touching me, all I can hear is Storm growling while trying to get to Eric and Eric grunting to keep Storm off of him.

'Back off my mate!' Cas's voice is almost unrecognisable as my Alpha, he's all snarls and a viciousness I've never heard from him.

"Eva, Ghost, I need you to work with me here. Cas is going to kill Eric just for being near you, help him see you're alright." I plead with Ghost as I feel Cas's Alpha aura pulse out.

"Fuck!" Eric curses and manages to throw Storm off of him just as the scent of coppery blood fills the air. Ghost lifts her head and starts to sniff, it seems something has finally gotten this female's attention. Ghost gets to her feet just as Storm spins back on Eric and lowers himself, he's getting ready to lunge at him again. Feeling the panic rise up within me I turn back to Ghost, I'm about to press upon her how devastating this will be for Cas and the Pack if he kills another Alpha. However, she's already gotten herself up off the floor and is slowly padding towards Cas and Eric. Her soft tail is low and her ears are floppy and against her head, she's in a state of submission, I wanted her to help me pull Cas out Search the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

ost, no!" I not put herself in danger.

"Ghost, no!" I hiss after her but she just creeps forward, her soft yellow eyes on Storm as she lays down between the two and rolls over to show her soft stomach. It's the most trusting thing you can do to another shifter, one swipe of Storm's claws and she's dead, she's trusting him to come back to himself.

"Move her, Rowan." Eric growls but I ignore him and watch my Alpha and Luna instead. I'm not sure what they are saying to each other but they are clearly having a conversation, their eyes are connected and Storm's head keeps tilting from side to side.

"Back down Eric, you f ucked up. Own it." I slam Eric with a look of total disbelief, this man is more Alpha than me and yet I could smell the pup on Eva before I even entered the room.

"What the hell did I do? I just wanted to check on her, make sure she was alright." Eric throws his hands up in the air and makes an exasperated sound, "I don't think I was out of bounds considering I'm here risking my n*eck for her and your Head Warrior." Slowly, careful not to disturb the two wolves currently having a silent conversation I walk over to Eric, reaching up I slap him upside the head. He quickly turns on me, flashing his yellow eyes.

"She's carrying his pup you idiot." I say between clenched teeth, I see the realisation of his actions cross his face.

"Da mn it," he holds his hands up as Storm's eyes flash over to him. "I didn't know Alpha Cas, I swear." In a display I never thought I would see from an Alpha, Eric drops to his knees and lowers his head to the floor until the back of his n*eck is displayed to the couple of wolves.

"Get up you idiot." I sigh a relief as Storm turns into Cas in the blink of an eye, I shake out my arms as the tension running through my b*dy finally starts to ease off. Eric gets off the floor and quickly heads for the door of the basement, clearly wanting to put some distance between him and Cas.

“You good?” I ask Cas, he’s not listening though, instead he walks over to the mangled corpse of his mother. Laid forgotten in the corner she looks like she was mauled by a wild beast, her throat has been ripped out and whatever attacked her kept going until the job was well more than done.

“Eva did it.” Cas casts sad eyes over to the white wolf now curled into a ball on the floor, “she pulled her from the cage and was going to hurt the pup, Ghost took over and this was the result.” I can’t tell if Cas is upset about his mother or worried about his mate, Eva is clearly stuck within Ghost and I’m assuming it’s got something to do with this bloody mess in front of us.

“What do you want me to do?” I ask softly as he continues to stare at his mother’s remains.

“Leave her here, she wanted to be with them then she can stay with them.” Cas jumps up from the floor and walks over to Ghost, he picks her up holding her in his arms as if she weighs nothing. “I need to get Eva back to Selena, you good to clean up here and find out what we got and what we did not?” I nod my head at Cas as he goes to head out of the door.

“He wasn’t here.” Cas’s shoulders slump, “we didn’t lose anyone but he wasn’t here so this is only a part win.”

“Then we find him and when we do, I’ll rip him apart myself.” Cas walks out of the basement stepping over the rogue I took down and heading up the stairs. Spinning in a slow circle I try to decide where I should start in cleaning up the mess the rogues have left us and where to start looking for Jeremy.

“Alright Angel, not far now.” Walking back to the car is proving a lot less graceful than the arrival. Ghost is not a light wolf so I have to keep adjusting her in my arms. I tried getting Eva to come out but she kept telling me Ghost wouldn’t let her until she’s safe. I think that’s what set telling me Ghost wouldn’t let her un Storm off, he knew Ghost was afraid and he reacted to what he saw, just a shame that the thing he saw was Eric. I finally see the car over the ridge, letting out a breath, I place Ghost carefully on the leaf covered floor and jog over to the car. Once I have the back door open I run back to grab Ghost, she’s not moved a muscle, she’s just laying there with her yellow eyes staring back at me.

‘Home?’ Ghost voice floats to me over the Pack link, I know it’s not Eval because it’s slightly deeper than her musical softness.

“Since when did you start thinking of the Pack as home?” Bending down and stroking along her white fur back I slide my hands under her and lift her into my arms.

‘Since we were taken from it.’ Ghost curves her head round and slides her tongue up my cheek, I just chuckle as she settles back into my arms. and I start walking her over to the car.

“If you’re not going to shift back then you’re in the back, can you behave?” Ghost doesn’t answer me so I close the door and head to the front wheel where I left the key.

“Bring her in here, I’ve set up a little medical area.” Sally rushes met into the Pack house, I blindly follow her while carrying Ghost, I don’t even realise we are standing in my fathers office until I’m placing Ghost onto the makeshift bed.

“Why here?” I ask Sally in a low voice, there are a few warriors in here and there seems to be something going on in a curtained off area, right where the punishment cupboard is.

“Kasked her to do it, I know you don’t like this room but it made the most sense. The desk is in the garden.” I look up to see Selena running into the room and pulling on some gloves.

“Heath?” I ask Selena as she pushes me back so she can start running her hands through Ghost’s fur

“Is being looked over, I’ll check him in a minute.” Selena leans forward and presses her ear into Ghost’s stomach, she’s helpful in holding herself still which tells me Eva is not totally gone. “It’s early days yet,” Selena stands up and looks down at Ghost. “My guess is you got pregnant on your mating night, not uncommon for that to happen. I need to speak to some other Doctors about Omega pregnancies but for now you’re fine.” Turning to be I see her face drop, she grabs my arm and pulls me away before I can question her.

“What’s wrong? Is it the pup?” I feel my palms start to sweat, I’m not sure if it’s stress, worry or being back in this office.

“The pup is fine, it’s Eva and Ghost.” Selena looks over her shoulder at the oddly calm Ghost, she’s just laid on the small bed with her eyes half closed. “Her heart beat is really slow, I don’t know if she’s just really relaxed or if there is something more going on. I need her to shift so I can check her out completely.” I nod my head as she grabs my arm. “I’ll go check on Heath and you get her to shift.” Brushing my hand across my face I turn back to Ghost, I can practically feel the sadness pouring off her.

“So Selena says you need to shift so she can check you and the pup out fully.” I pull a chair over and sit next to her head, I start running my fingers through her soft fur, “it will be nice to see those beautiful eyes again.”

‘She says no.’ I smile a little even though I’m kind of disappointed that Ghost is the one who answers and not Eva.

'What are you scared of Angel, nothing here will hurt you.' I change to speaking via our link so that people can't listen to us, right now there might be alot going on around us but we might as well be inside our own little bubble.

'She thinks you will be mad for killing your mother.' I look down at the floor, I don't think I've yet to fully process that my mother is dead. The pain I felt this morning and then seeing her on the floor of the basement, it was something I never thought I would feel when she died. I wished for her death for so long that now it's happened I don't know how to process it.

'Honestly, I don't know how I feel about it.' There is no point in lying about it, Eva will be able to tell thanks to the mate bond, 'I saw the b*dy though, that wasn't Eva, it was you.' Ghost makes a weird noise, somewhere between a laugh and snort, I look down at her to make sure she's alright but she seems fine.

'If you think that was me then you are mistaken, that was all Eva. She was terrified and she begged me to take over. I might have been the one steering but I wasn't in the driver's seat.' My hand stops moving in her fur as I try to come to terms with the fact that it was Eva and not Ghost, I would never have thought my mate was capable of such violence. 'Never underestimate the parental bond, she might have only just found out but as soon as Eva knew about the pup that bond was created.'

'So she was protecting our pup?' I start moving my hand through her fur again, if Eva was protecting our pup then there is no way I can be mad at her about anything.

'She was going to kill the pup, I knew it and so did Eva. Please don't let Storm be mad at me.' I can hear the desperation in Ghost's voice, it would make sense that she's concerned about Storm's reaction, if he was to reject Eva's wolf then any relationship would become dead in the water.

'If you get Eva to come out then I'll let you spend a whole afternoon. lying in the sun with him.' At this point I'm not above bribing her, not only do I want Eva checked out but I also want to lay my eyes on her and hold her in my arms. Ghost doesn't say anything else so I hope that means she's talking to Eva, standing up I look for Sally so I can get one of those curtains or a blanket.

"How's it coming?" I almost run into Selena in my search for Sally, I notice she now has little blood splatter up the top of her blue scrub, sniffing I realise it's Heath's.

“How is he?” I nod at her top and she looks down and sighs.

“He’s fine, nothing permanent but they did some serious damage. His wolf will fix him up once the silver has left his system.” A young female walks over and hands Selena a clipboard, she writes something and hands it back to her before she walks off, “Rosie, she’s wanting to be a nurse so I’ve been training her up for the Pack. Once she graduates I think she should go to nursing school.” I nod my head, right now I have too much on my plate to really register what she said. but I guess it’s good we have another medically inclined shifter in the Pack.

“Heath?” The room comes to a complete standstill as Mary runs into the room screaming for her mate.

“Over here Mary.” Selena quickly ushers her friend over to the curtained area, just as I go to walk over towards them I hear my name called behind me.

“Cas?” Forgetting about Heath I quickly spin around at Eva’s whisper, she’s sitting up on the bed with Sally next to her and a red blanket. wrapped around her.

“Thank you Goddess.” I breathe a sigh of relief as I jog over to her and quickly pull her into my arms, “Angel, you have no idea how good it is to see you.” I pepper k*sses into her hair as I whisper to her.

“I’ll go and find Selena.” Sally says from beside us, I pay no attention to Sally as I keep laying k*sses on Eva, she smells like blood, sweat and rogues but she’s still my Eva.

“I’m sorry, I’m so sorry.” Putting a hand on either side of her face I lean back from her and stop her talking with a simple hard look.

“Stop, I’m not mad. I’ll admit I don’t really know how to handle it right now but mad is not an emotion I’m feeling.” Tears start to stream down Eva’s face as she nods her head, letting go of her face, I let her push. into my chest, I can feel the wetness sliding down my torso.

“Cas, why are you n*ked?” I chuckle as I pull her tighter into me, I feel her arms stretch out as she spreads the blanket around my back so that we are both swamped in the soft fabric.
