“I could fight them, it will only take me a few minutes to gather the warriors.” Listening to Cas talk about fighting The Elder’s puts me more on edge than I already am, I can’t stand seeing more of the Pack hurt.

“We could make it work but then we would face the full force of The Elder’s, they won’t take a direct hit lightly.” I sigh as Heath chimes in on the conversation, noticing the shirt Cas slept in, I cram it into the backpack I am currently stuffing full of clothes.

“I hate to say it but we don’t have the men for a war Cas. I don’t like this anymore than you do but realistically she could be found not guilty in front of the council.” Lifting the bag I walk out of the bedroom and see the three men sitting on the sofa, all of them look like someone just killed their favourite person. I’m flattered that they are trying to find a way out of this but I agree with Rowan, I think if we play their game then we can come out on top.

“I agree, Cas it’s only for a short while. I’ll make my case to the council. and then we will be home.” Putting my hand on my stomach I smile at Cas as he walks over and takes the bag from me. S~earch the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

“I don’t like it, I want you here where Selena can keep an eye on you and our pup.” Leaning up on my tiptoes I place a k*ss on Cas’s cheek before taking the bag back from him.

“It’s only a few days.” I whisper against his cheek, he pulls back from me, his quirky smile has me raising an eyebrow. He has that look he mouth.

“Piss off you two.” I bite my lower lip as Cas shouts at Rowan and Heath without taking his eyes off me. I listen to the two guys running up the stairs but my heart is racing and I can’t seem to move my eyes from Cas’s piercing green orbs.

“Cas, Elder Iris is waiting for me.” He holds my eyes as he takes the backpack from me again and drops it to the floor.

“She is.” He whispers as he takes a step closer to me, my heart starts to pound in my chest as I start walking backwards. If he starts something now I just know we are going to be interrupted halfway through by an Elder bitch.

“We can’t.” I tell him as I realise he’s somehow walked me into the bedroom, I watch as he closes the door and slides the lock into place.

“We can. Now get naked unless you want those clothes ripped off your body.” I start to pull my top off, I have no doubt he will destroy my clothes, the man has destroyed more panties than I care to remember.

“You need to be quick,” I tell him as I slide my lace panties down my legs, he’s yet to remove a single piece of clothing, he seems content leaning against the door and watching me get naked.

“I’ll take as much time as I want. Now lay on the bed, legs open.” I love it when his voice gets all deep and growly like it is now, it sends shivers down my spine when he takes control of me. Sitting back on the bed I keep my eyes on his as I lay back and open my legs so I’m fully exposed to him.

“Cas?” I’m starting to get nervous when all he does is stand there and watch me, it’s the good kind of nervous though because I can see the enjoyment in his eyes.

“Storm doesn’t like you leaving, neither do I. You will do everything. you can to get back to us.” I nod my head as Cas walks to the edge of the bed and grabs each of my ankles. he pushes my legs further apart so they are as wide as they can possibly go. “You will do whatever they tell you to do unless it puts you or our pup in danger.” Again I nod my head as he works his hands up my legs to my knees, “if something happens with my pup you will make them contact me, nothing happens to what we have made without me being told.” Again I nod my head but this time I moan as he works his hands down my thighs and his thumbs brush the lips of my centre.

“Cas please, I need you.” I throw my head back and close my eyes as I feel him dip his thumb into my wet need.

"I'm going to need you every second you are gone," I lean up a little and watch as he drops his joggers just enough to release his hard cock, I can see it leaking at the tip like it's dying for a release. "I guess I should stop teasing both of us." I feel his cock push against me as his hands tighten up on my thighs. There is something extremely erotic about the fact that he needed to get inside of before even removing all of his clothes. I wrap my hands in the sheets under me as I throw my head back and moan out as I feel him push more of his length into me.

"Cas, move." I open my eyes to see him holding himself still as he holds my legs open, he's not looking at me he's got his eyes fixed on where we are joined.

"Let a man enjoy the view, Angel." I gasp as he does a shallow thrust into me, he licks his l*ps as if the view he is seeing is the S*xiest thing he's ever seen. "You grip me so tight, how can you still be so damn tight." He groans loudly as he draws himself out of me and then slams himself back inside, I move my hands so I hold onto his wrists, as he slams in and out of me all I can do is hold on for the ride. With my legs spread so far apart I can't even fuck back into him, he seemst content to just use my b*dy though and I can't say I'm hating the way he's hitting that spot inside of me.

"There, right there!" I scream out as he starts to really hit that spot, his chest is sweating making his t-shirt stick to him but he's not slowing his thrusts down.

"Touch yourself, show me how you do it." He's looking down at us again so I let go of his left wrist and work my hand down into my small dark curls. It isn't long before I am tapping on my clit but I keep going until I can feel where he is entering me. Spreading two fingers I create a bridge over his cock as I feel it slam in and out of me.

"So good, so big." The sweat is running down Cas's forehead as hist thrusts start to get faster, "I'm close!" I tell him, I have a feeling I didn't have to though because even I can feel myself squeezing around him.

"Touch yourself. Cum with me, Angel." Bringing my fingers from around his cock I draw some of my own wetness up to my clit and start to put pressure on just the right spot. I work my finger in small circles as electricity shoots up my spine, I feel my back arch as my orgasm starts to work its way through my b*dy.

"Cas!" I scream his name out as I slam my finger down on my clit, Cas

“I love you, Angel.” Cas is staring down at me as he holds himself still and I feel his cock kick inside of me, “fuck, Eva!” He seems to lose control of his hands as he slides off my thighs and falls forward. He catches himself just in time and each hand lands on either side of my head, leaning up I take his sweating l*ps with my own. I feel his tongue caress mine as he pushes his hips against me, trying to keep himself inside of me as I milk him for all he has.

“I’ll come back to Cas, I’ll come home.” I tell him as he buries his face. in my n*eck and starts to lick over my mate mark. “I’ll come home. Storm.” I whisper into his car.

“I can’t lose you, not after waiting for so long.” I stroke his hair as he keeps licking at my mark, I know he’s letting Storm have his moment as I hold him against me. I know I will be back but there is this small doubt sitting in the back of my mind, sniffing at him I try to soak in as much of his scent as I can.

“Cas, Elder Iris is threatening to come down and get Eva. Rowan is doing his best to hold her back, I’m sorry but I think it’s time.” Cast leans up as Heath’s voice comes through the door, I can’t smell him so he must be making the wise decision to stay back while we are in a compromising position. I gasp as Cas finally pulls himself out of me, I literally feel emptier than I have ever felt in my life. I think it’s probably something to do with not knowing when I am going to feel him inside of me again.

“You need to shower?” Cas looks at me and I notice his red eyes, it seems while he was buried in my n*eck he was letting his emotions get the better of him. There is something humbling to know that my big strong Alpha was crying at the idea of me leaving.

“No, I want your scent on me for as long as possible.” He smiles at me as he pulls his joggers up and hands me my clothes.

“Get dressed Angel, the sooner you go the sooner you can come home.” I nod my head as I try to keep my own tears at bay.

“How many warriors do we have and how quickly can we get them ready for a full attack?” A burp leaves me as I try to stop the room from spinning. I’ll admit that at this point I’m mostly full of Jameson.

“I think you should sleep on that plan.” Rowan says as he drops himself in the chair across from me, I don’t miss the way he eyes the bottle I’m holding. “No glass?” He nods at the bottle, I gave up and just started drinking from the bottle.

“It was just holding me back, now the warriors, how many do we have?” I start mentally calculating but I lose track quickly.

“We have twelve including Ben. I really think you should reconsider a full attack though, The Elder’s warriors are legendary, our guys are good but they aren’t that good.” I sag in my chair as Rowan tries to be my voice of reason, lifting the bottle I take a deep drink, the burn in my throat is barely noticeable.

“I thought she would be back by now, it’s been three weeks and all I know is that the Council meeting will be some time next week.” It feels like I have this pit inside of me that keeps getting bigger each time day goes by without a phone call from Eva or The Elder’s I figured she would be gone for a day maybe two but now it’s been weeks and I’m seriously regretting not putting more of a fight up.

“These things can take time, have you called Darryl for advice?” I shake my head, how am I meant to call Darryl and tell him I lost my mate to The Elders.

“What if they have already killed her and just haven’t told us.” Rowan leans across the desk and grabs the bottle out of my hand.

“That’s enough of that, if you’re so drunk you don’t even know if your mate is alive then you’ve had enough.” I growl at him as he stands with my bottle and heads for the door, “if she was gone you would feel it and sober Cas would know that.” He slams the office door behind him leaving me alone, swaying on the chair surrounded by silence.

‘So this is us now? We just get drunk and wait, so much for being an Alpha.’ I groan as I slide my chair back and slam my head onto my desk. Storm has been saying the same thing for three weeks, all he does now is torment me and bring up my failures as an Alpha.

'What do you suggest? We take what's left of our Pack and attack The Elders?' Closing my eyes I try to make the room stop spinning but all it does is make me feel even more nauseous.

'How about you pick up your pride and call for help, you can't be the only Alpha who has been in this situation.' Not wanting to deal with Storm and his suggestion I push him away as I feel myself falling asleep.

The sound of my phone ringing sounds like a damn jack hammer in my head, I must have fallen asleep because Storm is finally quiet and the room has stopped spinning.

"What?" I growl into the phone without lifting my head from the desk, moving seems like way too much effort right now.

"How many bottles in, are you?" At first I don't recognise the voice being all judgmental over the phone.

"Who is this?" I sit up and have to place a hand on the desk to stop myself from falling from my chair.

"So several bottles in then, you need to sober up if you want to get Eva back." Pulling the phone from my ear I check the name on the screen to make sure my ears aren't lying to me.

"I thought you had your own shit to deal with Darryl." I can't keep the annoyance out of my voice, I've called him multiple times but haven't been able to get past his Beta, Lewis.

"I am but I have some time to talk to you now or do I need to come round and dunk you in the shower like we did with Fraction?" Darryl's deep laugh down the phone does nothing for my mood.

"I really don't give a shit what you do." I know I'm being a dick but right now I couldn't care less, "unless you have my mate or know how I can get her back then I really don't care what you have to say."

Slamming the phone into the desk I disconnect the call, right now I just can't be bothered especially if all he's going to do is make smart ass remarks.

'He's going to be pissed.' I growl at Storm, it seems everyone wants to get on my last nerve today.

'Ask me if I care.' Yawning, I close my eyes getting ready for another nap when my office door flies open.

"You hang up on me boy?" I sit up in my chair so quickly that I slide off the side and land on my ass. Darryl suddenly appearing in my office has me confused, I can't understand where the hell he came from.

"What the hell?" I ask as I rub my chin where it smacked off my desk, he doesn't answer me, instead he storms towards me with a scowl hidden behind his ever growing beard. I barely have time to react when he grabs two fistfuls of my shirt, drags me off the floor and pins me to the wall.

"I have better things to do than deal with your shit." I growl at him as he shouts at me, little specks of spittal landing on my cheek. His brown eyes are blazing with a tinge of yellow showing me how close to the edge his wolf is. "Don't you dare growl at me. I raised you with more respect than this. Want to drink yourself into a hole then go ahead but don't be surprised when you look in the mirror and see Carlos staring back at you!" I feel my shoulders sag as he compares me to my father, he's not wrong this is exactly how my father spent his days.

"Let me go." I try to push him off me but I have zero energy so he barely moves. I try again but he just tightens his hands in my shirt and slams me back into the wall.

"Your mate is gone, she's carrying your pup and you are in here getting drunk off your ass. You're lucky you have a good Beta or you would lose your Pack too." Looking past Darryl's rage filled face I see Rowan and Heath standing in the lounge beyond my office. Both look like they want to intervene but neither make a move towards Darryl, I guess neither of them want to get between two Alpha's

"Fine, you've made your point. Let me go." I push at his hands again but he just shakes me making me bang my head off the wall.

"Shower, brush your damn teeth and then get your ass out here. You have ten minutes. I'm waiting." He holds my eyes for a second longer before quite literally flinging me to the side, I land on my ass but thanks to the way he's looking at me I don't hang around. Scrambling from the floor I dash to my room, keeping my eyes on the floor to avoid looking at my Beta and Head Warrior. I feel completely ashamed that Darryl has had to come out here to kick my ass into gear.

‘Can’t believe you let Darryl kick your ass.’ I wobble under the warm water of the shower as Storm berates me, ‘we are Alpha it’s time you started acting like one!’ I nod my head at him as I let the water wash down my back.

‘You’re right, I need to get Eva back.’ I can’t help but feel like I’ve let Eva down as well as my wolf and Darryl, ‘I can’t believe Darryl came out here.’

‘Neither can I. his wolf is in some serious turmoil. I don’t know what’s going on with him but it’s serious.’ I step from the shower and wrap myself in a white towel, noticing Eva’s toothbrush on the bench I get a lump in my throat.

I’ve abandoned her,’ I pick up her bamboo eco–friendly toothbrush and lift it to my nose, all I can smell is peppermint and a subtle scent that is all Eva.

“Then make it right.’ Looking in the mirror I see my eyes flash to yellow as Storm makes himself known, nodding my head at him I start to brush my teeth so I can go out and discuss how to get Eva back. SEAR*ch the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

It could be worse.’ I roll my eyes at Ghost as I try to roll myself over in the massive bed, it’s stupidly huge for one person and is more like a slap in the face that Cas isn’t here with me.

I mean sure, we could be separated from our mate, heavily pregnant and not know anyone,’ I can feel Ghost not appreciating my sarcasm as I finally heave myself off the bed. ‘They haven’t even taken us that far which means they have only done this to screw with Cas.’ We can’t have driven for more than an hour or two before Elder Iris and her b*dyguard pulled into this hotel.

'Of course they are, it's what The Elder's do.' I sigh as I waddle over to the bathroom, my stomach has made it so walking is difficult, I'm not sure when I bloomed, I woke up one morning and there was just this massive mountain hanging off my b*dy.

'Why do the Pack's bow to their every will, surely the Alpha's can look after their own Packs?' Ghost just shrugs her shoulders at me as I finish up in the bathroom and start to waddle back to the bed. For some reason I'm knackered all the time lately, I don't even know if it's normal because other than Elder Iris I haven't seen anyone. I'm dying to know if everything is alright because after my last scan I'm still a little on edge, finally making it to the bed I lay down and start to rub over my stomach.

"Don't worry little baby, we will get back to your papa soon." Talking to the little baby in my stomach has quickly become my favourite pastime, sometimes I'm even rewarded with a little foot kicking out of my stomach. It's a really cool sensation and never seems to not make me laugh. A knock at the door has me pulling the blanket over my stomach. I do everything I can to hide my stomach whenever Elder Iris comes around. It doesn't feel right for her to see my baby's foot sticking out when Cas hasn't seen it.

"Come in Iris." I leave her title off like an insult, Cas once taught me that it wasn't a great insult to a shifter not to address them by their title. I sit up straight in the bed when a man walks into the room instead of Iris, he's just as old looking as Iris but he's wearing jeans and a button down shirt instead of a long red cloak.

"Eva, I'm Thomas. I believe you have met my granddaughter," squinting my eyes as he closes the door and walks over to the bed I realise I've seen his amazing blue eyes before.

"You must be Anna's grandfather? Thomas, right?" He smiles at me and holds out his hand for me to shake, I slowly reach out my own hand and shake it. "Take a seat, sorry but getting up is kind of hard these days." I wave my hand at the end of the bed and he takes a seat with a warm smile on his face.

"I have been given permission to come and see you, to help prepare you for the council meeting." His eyes are fixed on my forehead as he talks, wiping my hands across my head, I check my palm to make sure I don't have dirt on my head. "Oh sweetheart, you haven't seen a doctor since you have been here?" I shake my head no, I'm not sure how he knows though.

“How do you know that?” I bring my blanket further up my chest, suddenly I feel very exposed.

“It’s a talent, anyway the council meeting is taking place in three days and I’m afraid right now it doesn’t look so good.” I gulp as his face turns serious. “I think Elder Iris is pushing for you to be executed once your pup is born.” I can’t help the tears that fill my eyes as I wrap my hands around my stomach.

“She can’t, my pup needs me. Cas needs me, my Pack,” I’m suddenly realising how full my life has become. “Is there nothing we can do? Have they even spoken to Jeremy?”

“Not that I know of, I’ve spoken to some of the Elders and as far as they are concerned you are marked and carrying an Alpha’s mate therefore you are a Luna.” His large hand comes down on my ankle in a comforting way, “this isn’t over yet we just need to have a good defence for you.” Nodding my head I sit up straighter so he’s got my full attention.

“What do I need to do?” I have a feeling I can trust Thomas, he’s Anna’s grandfather so he must be trustworthy.

“Well first off we have a letter from Fraction, Anna and Patrick. They all state that you are a kind and loving young lady and they are excited to see what you and Cas do together in Everfur.” I’m actually surprised to hear that all three of them have written to The Elders on my behalf, “Darryl is coming by soon and he will be speaking to them as well. All you need to do is tell the truth, I know it’s hard but I need you to tell them exactly how Jeremy treated you.” He’s staring at my head again as he nods, “yes, all of the abuse and all the times he hurt you. You need to show them that there is no way in hell you would have told Jeremy anything secret.” I nod my head in understanding, I can’t say I’m looking forward to speaking to a room full of people about Jeremy but if it will get me back to Cas then I will do it.

“I can do that,” I hiss and rub my stomach as a pain in my left side makes itself known.

“You alright?” I nod my head as another pain pushes through my stomach, this one vibrates up my back as I hunch forward and cry out. in pain.

“Somethings wrong.” I gasp out. I barely register Thomas jumping up from the bed and dashing for the door, he moves so quickly I swear he blinks from one spot to another.

“Get the Doctor, something is wrong with Luna Eva and her pup.” I don’t know who he’s talking to but I’m too busy trying to make this pain stop to look up.

“We aren’t supposed to bring anyone up here,” I hear a male voice I haven’t heard before, there is a loud banging and then the scent of blood fills the room. Lifting the covers I look between my legs but I’m glad to see the blood isn’t coming from me, I cry out loudly as yet another pain blasts through me. “Get the Doctor now or when her Alpha gets here I will personally hold you down while he rips you apart.” Thomas growls loudly and I have to say I’m actually impressed at how demanding he sounds.

“Feeling better?” Darryl starts in on me as soon as I open the bedroom door, dressed in joggers and nothing else, I feel a little more like my old self but there is also part of me that just feels missing.

“Is that coffee?” I nod my head at the three cups sitting on the coffee table in front of Darryl and Rowan.

“It is, sit down and drink, Rowan was just telling me how you want to leave the American Packs.” I throw a d*rtty look at Rowan as I grab a cup up and throw myself in the armchair, “want to tell me how you want to leave what I’ve built?” I feel my eyes go wide as Darryl looks at me with an angry glare, I knew he would take this plan personally. which is why I hadn't mentioned it to him.

"It isn't a done deal, it's just an idea I was throwing around." I look at Rowan with a glare. I hope he knows it means he will be in a lot of pain later, seeing him shrink in on himself makes me smirk as I sip at my coffee.

"I've built these Packs up with my blood, sweat and tears. Why the hell do you want to take Everfur out of it, hell your Pack provides coal and produce to half of the Packs." Sighing I sit forward, I know he means well but he hasn't had The Elders ti nker in his life.

"And yet we can't do anything with The Elders sticking their da mn noses in, they came in and took my mate Darryl. They just pulled up and took her and I couldn't do a da mn thing to stop them because of some bullsh it law." I can't keep the bitterness out of my tone as I slam down on the coffee table, "was this your plan? To have us policed like a bunch of children, I understand that they were needed. back in the day but what have they done for us recently?" Now that I'm speaking my mind I can't seem to stop my words, Darryl and Rowan are both just staring at me. "I'm the second Alpha is the last few years. that they have tried to f uck over, they havent even stopped The Shalamayne, they are still taking our women and messing with our Packs." To say I'm angry is an understatement.

agree." I almost stop breathing as Rowan actually spits coffee out of his mouth.

"You do?" Rowan asks as he tries to wipe his mouth with his shirt, "Goddess that was hot." Darryl chuckles as he leans forward to put down his coffee, I don't know what the hell is going on, apparently the world has turned upside down.

"I've been thinking about it alot lately and The Elders were put in place by my grandfather's generation to stop all this kind of stuff happening." Darryl shakes his head and runs his hand down his beard as he sighs deeply, “now they are just attacking Packs with out of date laws and without listening to them. I agree they are getting too big for themselves but there is nothing we can do.” All three of us just sit in silence as Darryl’s words settle in, on one hand it’s great to know the biggest Alpha in America agrees with us. However, if there is nothing we can do about it then is there any point in even trying to fight them if we will just lose anyway.

“What if we each pulled away? Stayed together but pulled away from The Elders, the less Packs they have control over the less power they have,” Rowan leans forward on the sofa as he thinks out loud. “Once all of us were done pulling away we could lead the Packs how the Alpha’s choose to do it.” Darryl is shaking his head before Rowan has even finished.

“Won’t work,” Darryl says quickly. “Some of the smaller Packs rely on them too much, it would mean alot of over taking and absorbing which would put some Alpha’s on the outside and we all know how well that works out.” He’s not wrong so I nod my head agreeing with him. Alpha’s who have their Pack taken from them have a habit of going, rabid, I’ve heard stories of Alpha’s who have had to be put down in the past. “Speaking of, how’s Storm taking Eva being away from you?” I shrug my shoulders because honestly, I’m not sure, I’ve been in a drunken stupor for so long that I haven’t actually spoken to Storm for a few weeks.

“He’s been pretty quiet thanks to the drink.” Darryl raises a judgemental eyebrow at me as Rowan jumps up from the sofa. “What’s going on?” He doesn’t get a chance to tell me what’s wrong because the door to the basement flies open and a blur of blue scrubs and blond hairs comes running down the stairs.

“Do people often bust in on private meetings around here?” I ignore Darryl’s exasperated sigh as Selena lands on the bottom step and starts to pant for breath.

“It’s Eva. Thomas called and said she started having pains and passed out. I know where they have her because they need a Doctor and I’m the nearest Pack Doctor.” She’s not even finished speaking before I’m running back to my room to grab a shirt and some trainers.

“Why is Thomas there?” I hear Darryl ask as I hunt for my car keys.

“Apparently he was visiting as an advocate for Eva, Fraction sent him considering him and Anna can’t be there.” I make a mental note to call Fraction and thank him as I locate my car keys under the bed next to a suspicious smelling pair of socks.

“Nevermind Thomas, how’s Eva? Did he tell you anything?” Rushing back into the lounge I see Darryl and Rowan are just standing around as they talk to Selena. It’s kind of annoying considering I want to already be on the road to Eva.

“I’m sure, after what I saw on the last scan it could be a number of things or it could be perfectly normal. I need to get to her so I can check her out.” Closing my bedroom door all three turn to me, I can already tell by the look on Darryl’s face that he’s not coming.

“You’re really not going to come?” It’s hard to keep the disappointment out of my voice.

“I shouldn’t but I am, you and Eva need me more than I need to keep to an agreement.” If I wasn’t so absorbed in my own crisis I would probably ask what is going on with him.

“You three go, I’ll stay here and keep the Pack running with Heath.” clasp Rowan on the shoulder as I head up the stairs. I’ve had a few moments where I thought I made a good choice in making Rowan my Beta but right now I’m really glad I made the decision.

“I’ll call as soon as I know when I’m coming back.” I don’t hear Rowan’s response as I open the door to the lounge, the Pack members that are sitting in the lounge look at me with sad eyes. Ignoring them all I head for the door, it isn’t until I’m standing next to my SUV that I realise I have no idea where I’m going and Darryl’s black Impala is blocking me in.

“Want to move your car?” I growl at Darryl as he comes through the front door closet followed by Selena and Rowan.

“Alright, I’m coming. Not like you can go anywhere without Selena.” Shaking my head I unlock my car and jump in as Selena and Rowan do a quick goodbye before she takes her medical bag from him.

“I’ll call as soon as I know how she is.” She calls out as she flies down the porch steps and jumps into my passenger seat. I try to stamp down my annoyance that it’s not Eva next to me, I can feel Storm getting annoyed at another female sitting in our mates seat.

“Come on, come on.” I rev my car as Darryl slowly backs his car out of the driveway, it seems to take an age but eventually I am skidding out of the driveway and accelerating towards Eva.

“I’ve set the sat nav up, it should direct us. Try not to panic, Cas, it could be anything or it could be nothing.” I don’t answer Selena as she tries to soothe me, instead I just tighten my hands on the steering wheel as we hurtle through Midsey.

“Is this Selena?” I blink my eyes rapidly as I try to bring the room back. into focus, the wet cloth on my forehead is doing nothing to stop the sweat that is pouring down my face as Thomas talks on the phone. “Good this is Thomas, I need you to come to the Ruston Motel on sixty-seven, Eva is in a bad way and you are the nearest shifter Doctor.” I groan loudly as another pain shoots through my stomach, this one seems to bleed down my leg at the same time as it shoots across my stomach. “You can’t tell Cas, you need to come alone.” I growl loudly as Thomas walks past me, he’s pacing up and down the room but stops when he hears my growl.

“You get Cas here now!” I scream as another pain shoots through me, “something is wrong!” I just want someone to tell me what the hell is going on because right now it feels like my b*dy is trying to rip itself apart. I lose time as Thomas talks into the phone and I try to find a way to position myself and not be in pain.

“Alright, Selena said we need to keep you comfortable and relaxed, she said the worst thing you can do right now is panic.” I nod my head as he wets the cloth from a bowl he's put on the bedside table, I wave him off as he tries to put it back on my head. The feeling of the cold is actually making me feel a little sick but then again so is everything else. right now.

"Please don't touch me." I whimper as I curl into myself as I try to breath myself through the pain, nothing seems to be working so I give in to my b*dy and start to cry. Thomas starts stroking my hair and making soothing shushing sounds which is making me feel a little better.

"Where is she?" The sound of Cas's voice has my eyes flying open as it echoes around the room. Sitting up, I'm confused because the room is dark and I can sense that I'm alone and the pain that had me screaming has stopped.

"You can't see her, it's the law." I try to untangle myself from the covers. on the bed when I hear the sound of skin hitting skin and the unmistakable sound of something easy hitting the floor.

"Did you have to knock him out?" Thomas sounds exasperated as I finally untangle myself and put my feet on the wooden floor of the bedroom.

"Well it was either I knock him out or Cas kills him." I smile as Darryl' s voice sounds on the other side of the door, "I'll wait here while you guys see Eva." I look at the door as it swings open, expecting to see Cas. I'm a little disappointed when Thomas steps in, flicking the light on as he goes.

"Are you trying to get up, lay back down!" Selena's shrill scream is only out done by the way she bounds into the room, her face is tight with worry and her dark blue scrubs are wrinkled. I ignore her though as my eyes land on Cas, he's leaning against the doorway, his hand clutching it like he's willing it to hold him up. His green eyes look wet as he looks at me, letting his eyes glide down my b*dy, they pause on my round stomach as Selena tries to push me back onto the bed.

"Hey Angel." His little smirk has a wobble to it that betrays his worry, I smile back at him as tears start to glide down my face. "Lay down for Selena." I nod my head as I lay down but hold out my hand to him, "some privacy Thomas?" Thomas just does a little bow before sweeping from the room and pulling the door closed behind him.

"It's been so long." I know it hasn't been that long but I can't keep the need from my voice, the second Cas's skin makes contact with mine Ghost starts to purr.

"I know Angel, I see you've been growing our pup though." His big calloused hand slides over my nightshirt covered stomach, he doesn't get to touch for too long though because Selena pushes his hand out of the way.

"Sorry guys but you need to do this later, I want to check you and the pup out before The Elders come barging in." I wipe at my face as Selena bushes herself in her bag. Gripping the hem of my shirt I lift it up to show my huge stomach, the skin is stretched so tightly that I'm honestly wondering if I can get any bigger without popping like a balloon.

"How's the pain Angel?" Cas's hand across my forehead as he looks down at me is much more soothing than any cloth Thomas put on my head.

"It's stopped. Thomas said I passed out and then I think I fell asleep. I heard you shouting and I was surprised when I woke up and the pain was gone." Taking my eyes off Cas I look at Selena as she takes what looks like a massive length of elastic from her bag.

"I need to put this around your stomach, it will let me monitor the pup's heart beat. Help me sit her up Cas." Cas lets go of my hand and slides at hand under my shoulders, together we manage to get me in a sitting position much faster than I would have on my own. Selena stretches the band around me and attaches a plastic pod looking device right over where my baby is sitting.

"Will this let you see the pup?" Cas asks Selena as he helps me lean back onto a pile of pillows Selena has set up behind me.

"No but it will let me measure the activity and heartbeat, it will give me a good idea of what's going on. The ultrasound has too many parts for me to bring here, as long as everything checks out now then we can wait to do that when we get home." Selena sits on the other side of the bed and starts pressing some buttons on the iPad she's holding, "how you been eating? Sleeping?" I shrug my shoulders, I don't really know how to answer her question so I go for brutal honesty.

"They keep me in here, I've not been outside since I got here. I haven't shifted and Ghost seems fine with that, I eat what they bring me which is three square meals a day. I sleep when I'm not eating but I'm constantly tired, it's like a cycle of eating and sleeping." As if to prove my point I cover my mouth as a loud yawn leaves my b*dy.

“So no matter how much you sleep you’re still tired?” Selena asks without looking up from her iPad, I nod my head and she purses her lips and looks at Cas.

“Don’t do that, tell me what’s going on.” I really don’t have it in me to interpret their silent conversations right “Well listening to this,” she unplugs something and the soft rapid. fluttering of a heart beat sounds in the room. “Your pup is healthy and happy, my guess is you have low iron and need your mate. Taking a heavily pregnant female from their mate can do some strange things that medicine can’t account for.” that medicine can’t account for.” Selena shifts on the bed and attaches a blood pressure cuff around my right arm, “I think the pain you were feeling was Braxton hicks, it’s like false labour. It could mean your pup is going to be with us soon but if the false labour was so bad that you passed out the actual labour is going to be worse. You might want to consider a c-section.” I cringe as Selena starts to pump the little balloon, I know enough to know that means Selena would have to cut my baby out of me!

“I don’t want that.” I shake my head as Selena looks at her watch before letting the cuff around my arm deflate.

“Angel, be reasonable. You are tiny and if your stomach is any indication you are carrying a big baby, maybe a c-section would be for the best.” I look up at Cas as Selena removes the cuff and nods at Cas as she tucks it back into her bag and picks up the iPad again.

“Either way, you don’t have to decide now, just something to consider.” A thump on the door has me jumping as Selena glances at Cas, “go, I’ve got her.” Cas leans down and kisses me on the forehead as he stands. from the bed..

“Wait, you’ll come back?” I hate that I sound so needy but I really do want him to come back and lay with me.

“Wild wolves couldn’t keep me away, Angel.” He winks at me before opening the door and sliding through it without opening it too far to let whoever is outside see in.

“Want me to take the band off?” I glance over at Selena, blinking my eyes rapidly, I realise I’ve been watching the door for a while now.

“Sorry, what?” I try to sit myself up more but her hand on my shoulder stops my movement.

“How about we leave it on and you can nap with the pup’s heartbeat?” I nod my head as she leans over and flicks the light off, “sleep. He’ll be back Eva and I’m not going anywhere.” The soft glow of her iPad as she sits on the armchair gives the room just enough light to make it seem less lonely and eventually I fall back to sleep to the soft fluttering sound of my baby’s heartbeat.

“This is completely unorthodox.” Elder Iris waves her hands around as she leans down to check on her little slave boy, I didnt hit him that hard so there is no reason he should still be out cold.

“Well he wouldn’t let Alpha Cas and Selena in to see Eva, I had to take matters into my own hands.” My voice echoes off the empty corridor as she glares up at me with her almost grey eyes, “you should have called sooner instead of leaving it to Thomas.” Eva should have been seen by a Doctor long before now and Elder Iris knows it. I wonder if the other Elder’s know how she’s treated a pregnant Luna.

“What’s going on?” The door opens behind me and Cas steps into the hall letting the door close behind him. The worried look that was marking his face seems to have lessened so either Eva is alright or being close to his mate is bringing him some peace.

“Elder Iris was just saying how you could stay to be close to your pregnant mate.” She stands much more quickly than I thought an older woman could, the look of anger on her face could turn you to stone if you were actually afraid of tiny little women in red cloaks.

“I said no such thing.” She actually stamps her feet like a child as she clenches her feet, Cas growls deeply so I step between the two of them.

“Cas is staying where his mate needs him unless you want harm to come to an Alpha heir?” Knowing how important heirs are to The Elders I know this is the right card to play.

“Nothing will happen to my mate or my pup.” I put a hand on Cas’s shoulder and squeeze slightly, looking into his green eyes I try to show him that I have this and to back down. It must work because his shoulders deflate and he gives me a slight nod before turning around. and heading back into the room.

“You were told not to come here, apparently you aren’t good at being told what to do.” Elder Iris sounds smug as I breath through my nose and smirk as I turn to face her, with no witnesses I can finally give this woman a piece of my mind.

“Don’t think that just because you aren’t being torn apart right now that I want to hear anything you have to say.” Her eyes widen as I step into her personal space causing her to step backwards, she doesnt stop until she slams into the wall directly behind her.

“You wont hurt me.” Her eyes shift to the side as I put each of my hands above her head on the wall so I’m towering over her.

“I have no plan to hurt you, Elder Iris.” I spit her name like an insult, “your days of controlling my Packs are coming to an end. You will take me to the Council so I can show them what a dam n mistake you have made by taking this Luna from her Pack.” She looks like she’s about to interrupt me so I let Zeek peek out from behind my eyes as I growl down at her. “After they let her go home you will never go near her again, do you understand me?” The stale smell of urine reaches my nose as my Alpha aura pulses out, people always underestimate how strong I am but I’m much stronger than they will ever understand. Elder Iris shakes in fear as she pisses herself, nodding her head she slides to the floor as I push off the wall and storm off towards the main part of the hotel. I know the Elder Council is already here, I smelled. them the second I entered the building, there is no hiding that kind of raw power from an Alpha like me.

The Elder Council consists of three shifters, one being Elder Iris and the other being two males. Elder Alec and Elder Christopher, both are men well into their lives, they have both had Pack under their command, fought wars and lost battles. They have lived their lives but that doesn't mean they are ready to roll over and die.

"Too damn late in the day for this shit," Elder Christopher is the first to arrive, I don't stand as he enters the boardroom, instead I stay sitting as the red cloaked old man walks across from the double doors with a cane to aid him. His grey hair is looking more and more white each day and the lines of his face remind me of those saggy dogs humans seem fond of

"Do you ever not complain, Elder Christopher." Elder Alec is not far behind as he closes the doors and starts walking towards us. He wears his age a lot better than Christopher and Iris, he's still got some colour to his hair and his face is nowhere near as wrinkled, you can still make out the chiselled lines of his jaw. The only thing that gives away Alec's age is his eyes, they are a deep piercing emerald colour, every time I look into them I can see true horrors staring back at me.

"Forgive me, I know my presence is not a welcome one." Elder Christopher actually tuts as he sits himself down, Alec sits next to him but doesn't say anything, he just purses his lips as he studies me with those eyes of his.

"Well get on with it, I'm not getting any younger. Did you take a mate and make a Heir?" I clench my jaw and shake my head at Elder Christopher, of course he would think I'm hear about that.

"I'm here to discuss Eva." It's taking everything I have not to start shouting about my own problems but now is not the time, Cas needs me to advocate for his mate right now.

"Ah, the rogue who mated with an Alpha. Tricky business." I shake my head as Elder Alec nods his head at Elder Christopher's words.

"She's not a rogue, she's the Luna of Everfur. She is Alpha Castiel's fated mate, an Omega and is carrying his Heir. Do I need to tell you how strong of an Alpha his child will be?" I put my hands flat on the table as I look from one Elder to the other, "he met her just over a year before they mated. After finding her again they connected and nature took its course, her being a rogue has nothing to do with any of this.” The fact that they are still stuck on Eva being a rogue is concerning to me, to me she’s never been a rogue, more she was a lost wolf until Cast found her.

“His human though, that’s some messy business. Telling a human lover about our kind and allowing him to see her accelerated healing, there has to be a punishment for this.” Elder Alec steeples his fingers under his chin as he leans back in his chair.

“If it was true then sure but it’s not.” Both of them watch me with interest, “Eva’s wolf was beaten into submission thanks to The Shalamayne, she had no wolf that she knew of so how can she spill a secret she didn’t even know she was keeping? The only reason the human knew about her was because he is working for The Shalamayne, he already knew who she was when he plucked her off the streets.” It still makes me sick that there was a young wolf walking around the streets of Seattle being beaten everyday by a man that would declare his love for her. I can’t help but see this as a failing on my side, I should have been here for her instead of letting Fraction cast her out into the world.

“She had no Pack to claim her?” Elder Alec sits forward, his eyes are showing interest like this is the first time he’s heard this side of the

“Surely Elder Iris has told you?” The two men share a look that makes me realise Elder Iris has been keeping some secrets of her own. “Eva was stolen from her Pack in Russia when she was just a pup, she barely remembers her parents. I have tried to hunt them down but it seems the Packs that existed then are long gone.” Me and Lewis have been searching ever since I found out who Eva was, we have met nothing but dead end after dead end.

“So who raised the pup?” Elder Christopher coughs a little so I look around for some water but he waves me off when I go to stand.

“The Shalamayne raised her until they made the mistake of sending her into the Swiftmane pack as a spy,” Elder Alec actually chuckles as he shakes his head and stands from the table.

“Thank you for your visit Alpha Darryl, this has been very illuminating. Now if you don’t mind, it’s late and I’m not a young man.” I give Elder Christopher a slight head bow as he stands from the table and hobbles out of the room.

Neither me nor Alec say anything for a long time, it isn't until I am sure that there is no one listening that I relax in my chair and cross my arms.

"Go on then, ask me." I spear Elder Alec with a glare as he licks his lips and sighs deeply.

"Did you choose a mate? I have no desire to vote against you Darryl but the votes will not go your way." I want to tell him that I've decided to fight against them, that I won't force someone to mate me and carry my Heir but I can't. That I'm too damn old to have a young female under me day and night while I force my way into their bed.

"I've chosen." I tell him as I dip my head in shame, I can only hope that no one ever finds out the things I am doing to keep my Pack and the rest of them safe.

"I know it's difficult but you have to hang in there and let your momma have some peace." I crack my eyes open to feel Cas's face pressed against my protruding stomach, "surely it's not that bad in there. I bet your momma has made you a lovely warm little home." I chuckle as Cas's stubble covered cheek rub against my stretched skin.

"Are you talking to the pup?" I ask him as I reach down to stroke my fingers through his sleep tousled hair.

"It's good for him to hear my voice." He says before laying a kiss on my stomach and then coming up to lean on the pillow next to me,

"morning Angel." He smiles down at me as he leans in to kiss the end of my nose.

"You stayed." I beam at him as I try to position myself so I'm laying on his chest, thanks to my massive stomach I can't seem to get the angle right. "I'm the size of a house." I complain as I flop back on the pillow and sigh deeply.

“No,” Selena yawns as she stretches and stands from the chair, “you’re the size of two houses.” I stick my tongue out at her as she walks past the end of the bed and into the small bathroom.

“Hate you.” I call after her as Cas chuckles from beside me while checking his phone.

“Love you too bestie.” Selena calls out as the shower starts to run, I turn back to Cas to see his forehead wrinkled in worry as he scrolls through his phone.

“What’s wrong?” I ask him with a poke of my finger to his muscled arm, at least he had the sense not to get n*ked while Selena was in the room.

“Darryl left, it seems he talked to the Elder Council but then he was made to leave. He was worried he would make things worse if he pushed the issue.” I feel sorry for Cas, I know Darryl practically raised him. He’s not old enough to be his father but he definitely took him under his wing and helped him when no one else would.

“I still don’t know when the Elder Council is going to see me, I feel like I’ve just been sitting here waiting for them to make a move. Almost as if The Elders hear me there is a loud knock on the door, I go to move but Cas shakes his head while glaring at me. Apparently being pregnant means I can’t answer the door, I lean back into the bed as Cas puts his finger to his l*p, climbing from the bed he answers the door.

“Alpha Castiel, Luna Eva’s presence is requested in Boardroom One in ten minutes.” I can hear Elder Iris talking but I’ve never heard her refer to me as anything other than Eva or Miss Smith, Cas doesn’t say anything as he closes the door.

“Best get moving Angel, fingers crossed I can get you home later today.” He walks over to the bed and helps me up so I can dress, I suppose meeting the Elder Council in a nightshirt and panties is frowned upon.

“Don’t offer anything unless they outright ask it,” Cas instructs me as I waddle along to the ballroom, “Selena you need to stay silent or they might throw you out.” Selena just nods from beside me, Cas is going to tell them she needs to be there because of how pregnant I am.

“What if I need to tell them something and they don’t ask for it?” I ask him as we stop in front of the big wooden doors with a gold number one on it, my heart is beating out of my chest and my hands are so sweaty I keep running them down my joggers to dry them.

“If they don’t ask then they don’t need it.” Cas turns to me and grabs my head with a hand on either side of my face, “worst case we come away from here and get ready for a war, a war I am more than willing to fight.” I go to speak but he just shakes his head and tightens his hold on me. “Best case we go in there, they say their peace, slap me with a fine and then we head home.” Selena takes my hand, I feel her come up beside me as Cas keeps a firm grip on my head refusing to let me go.

“Either way, you will be coming home with us Eva.” I close my eyes as I let Selena’s words soak into me. Everfur is my home, Cas is my home, I will be going home. I repeat the words in my head over and over again as Cas leans in and places a k*ss on my forehead before letting me go to open the door to Boardroom One.

The room Cas leads me into is massive, the table sitting in the middle of the room seems very out of place considering it’s only big enough to sit six people. The gold framed, red fabric chairs lined against the walls tell me this room is used to seeing a lot more people than us three and the two men and Elder Iris currently sitting at the table.

“This meeting is open to Eva only, Alpha Castiel.” I stop moving as soon as Elder Iris stands, it seems her politeness is not extending to this meeting.

“Then make me leave,” it’s an outright challenge and apparently one the brown haired Elder with grey streaks finds funny.

“No one is making you leave, take a seat Alpha. I assume this is your Doctor?” He extends his hand to Cas and then Selena as I place myself in a seat, my feet are killing me just from the small walk to this room.

“She is, I think you can understand why I want her close to my mate.” The two men nod at Cas as Elder Iris just glares at him and then at Selena.

“That’s perfectly fine,” the man takes his seat again before picking up a red file and opening it up. “Luna Eva this is Elder Christopher,” he points to the very old man who looks like he’s literally one step into the grave, “Elder Iris you know already.” She glares at me as the man keeps talking, “I’m Elder Alec, we have summoned you today due to claims that you told a human about our existence.” Elder Alec’s eyes stare at me as he talks, it’s odd, he doesn’t look that old but his eyes seem much older. Looking at him I can see that this man has seen some truly horrible things.

“Tell us about your time with The Shalamayne, Luna Eva.” The old man’s voice is gravely with age and his words come out slowly, I glance at Cas and he nods his head.

“I grew up with them, they took me from my Pack when I was very young and kept me in their compounds. We would move around a lot, constantly travelling, I didn’t realise how bad it was until I hit puberty,” I stall as I become lost at what to say, do I tell them all the er gritty details of my childhood or do I keep to the basics, I don’t know how much is oversharing.

‘Just stick to the basics Angel.’ Cas’s voice comes over the Pack link as he winds his hand in mine and squeezes it slightly.

“Once I was old enough they started my training, they would teach us how Packs work, how Alpha’s work but mostly it would be centred around shifters and how they were trying to ruin the human world.” I bring mine and Cas’s joined hands to rest on my bump as the pup starts to lightly kick me.

Iris, I nod because that's exactly what we were taught, "and that hatred. led you to mate an Alpha and bear his child?" I look at Cas and see that Storm is sitting behind his eyes, his grip tightens on mine as he tries to keep control of his temper.

"No." I shake my head as I turn back to Elder Alec, out of the three I feel like he is the one here who actually wants to hear my side. "I met Cas when I was sent into the Swiftmane Pack. I knew he was someone I wanted to know but I didn't know who he was to me." I still remember being in the cell in Fraction's basement and Cas bringing me a blanket, at the time I thought that maybe he could be a friend, I never thought it could be like this.

"And who is he to you?" Elder Alec asks as he writes something inside of the file.

"He's mine." I keep my eyes on Elder Alec as I sense Cas sit up a little straighter, "he's the love of my life, my start and end. He found me and saved me all at the same time, he's the man I'm going to spend the rest of my life with, raise children with and will care for a Pack with." I can't stop the warm tears that spill down my face, they aren't sad tears, they are happy ones, I don't think I've ever said to Cas what he means to me.

"Sounds like a fated mate to me. Elder Christopher says as he offers me a wrinkled smile.

"How can an Alpha be fated to a rogue? This is absurd, she tricked him. somehow." It seems Elder Iris has pushed Cas too far because his loud. growl echoes around the room as Selena gasps and grabs for my other hand.

"I can assure you that I fought this with everything I had because I didn't understand it, Cas is the one who pursued me until he wore me down." I pull out of Selena's grip so I can stroke Cas arm without

“And the human, how did you meet Jeremy?” Elder Alec’s words sound innocent enough but Eva’s heart rate rising and the way her hand becomes sweaty in mine, tell me that she’s starting to panic. The room falls silent as the three Elders stare at us and Eva just sits there. with her heart going into a panicked rhythm.

“You need to answer the question Miss Smith.” Elder Iris is smirking as she leans back in her chair, I can feel Storm trying to push his way to the edge but I pull him back. It will do none of us any good for me to lose control right now.

“Give her a second,” Selena spits at the Elder, I glance at Elder Alec to see a worried look in his bright emerald eyes, he can sense Eva’s upset.

“Breath Angel, just one thing at a time, remember.” I mutter to her before addressing the Elder’s, “give her a second, Jeremy is not an easy subject for her.” Elder Alec and Christopher nod but Elder Iris just looks annoyed.

“She knew what this Council was being held for, if she can’t answer the questions then we will need the room to come to our judgement now.” Elder Alec slams his hand on the table making both Eva and Elder Iris jump in shock.

“Elder Iris, you will hold your tongue.” Elder Alec spears her with a look that has my respect for him going up a few notches. “Luna Eva, whenever you are ready, there is no rush.” I squeeze Eva’s hand as she starts to shake, the only person she’s ever told the story of Jeremy to ist

‘I like this Elder.’ I grunt at Storm, unfortunately I agree with him and I’m not sure if I like the idea of a decent Elder.

“I was living on the streets when I went to Seattle, I wanted to put as much distance between me and shifters as possible.” Eva’s voice is small and I notice Selena snake over her stomach in a comforting gesture, "I met Jeremy when he bought me a coffee, he seemed like a nice guy until he started to hurt me." Eva takes a deep shaking breath, I watch her eyes close as she tries to hold back her tears, my guess is that she doesn't want to cry in front of the Elders.

'I'm here Angel.' I send the message over the mind link and I feel Ghost purr as it's received.

I'm so proud of her, she's kept to the facts and not offered more than they need to know, I can understand why she's sugar dusted some of the harsher stuff Jeremy did to her. She lived it, she re-lived it when she told me and there is no reason why she has to live it again now.

"This is insane, are we supposed to believe that in, what seventeen years with The Shalamayne she never met Jeremy, not once?" Elder Iris leans forward in her chair with a wide grin on her face, she clearly thinks she's caught Eva in a lie. "Her and Jeremy have clearly come up with this plan to get something out of Everfur, the only question is what."

"I swear, I never met him before Seattle." Eva's voice quivers as she tries to control her emotions, "and I've never asked Cas or Everfur for

"What's this?" Elder Alec takes the piece of paper I hold out to him.

"When Eva first came to Everfur I had to practically force her from the Pack house to take her shopping for essentials. I'm not sure when she stopped counting but there you will find a list of everything I bought that day with a total next to it." Eva sucks in a shocked breath, "I found it under our bed Angel." I k*ss her hand as I retake it in mine.

"I was going to pay it back, all of it. Before I realised we were mates and that I wasn't leaving." I smile at her as Elder Alec unfolds the paper and starts to read it.

"Well for someone who wanted something from Everfur you have kept a very detailed entry of what you owe them." Elder Alec passes the paper to Elder Christopher before addressing us again, "I think I've heard enough." He looks at Elder Iris but she just shakes her head. before staring off at the far wall.

"Me too, I'd like to get back home at some point this month." Elder Christopher rises from the table and with the aid of his cane he slowly walks from the room.

"You're free to return to Everfur Luna Eva, may your child come with good health." Elder Alec stands from the table before collecting up the paperwork and placing it back in the file.

"And then what?" Eva's hand tightens in mine as she asks the question. I am thinking.

"Then nothing, after speaking with yourself and Alpha Darryl I don't believe any laws were broken." I breathe a sigh of relief as Elder Alec walks around the table, "Alpha Castiel, Luna Eva, I look forward to seeing what becomes of Everfur under your rule." He bows to us both before walking past us, I'm shocked that it was over so quickly and so abruptly. It feels almost like Elder Alec had made his mind up before we even came in here.

Elder Iris stands from the table and starts to stomp from the room, just as I'm about to stop her to say my piece it seems Selena is done sitting on the sideline.

"Oh hell no," Selena jumps in front of the Elder, I turn in my chair to see Elder Alec watching on with interest from the door. "You have disrespected my Luna at every turn. You came into our Pack and treated her like sh it found on the bottom of your shoe and now you're going to slink out of here without so much as an apology?" Selena is furious, her normally sunk*ssed skin is bright red and I can see her wolf dancing behind her eyes.

"Selena." I say in warning, I understand her anger on her Luna's behalf but I don't want her to get carried away

"No, Elder or not, she knows the value of a Luna and she should show some respect." Selena says without taking her eyes off the scared Elder, they seem to stare at each other for a solid few minutes before a cough from behind us has Elder Iris shoulders drooping. It isn't until a loud growl sounds that Elder Iris actually turns back to Eva and lowers her head, it's not a sign of respect, it's a sign of submission.

“I am sorry for any disrespect Luna Eva, I understand that I may have taken this situation further than I should have and I’m sure I will face my own repercussions.” Eva doesn’t say anything as Elder Iris keeps her eyes on Selena as she mutters her apology, Eva simply nods her head in acknowledgement. Selena steps to the side letting the Elder finally leave the boardroom.

“You didn’t have to do that.” Eva whispers as I stand to help her from the chair.

“I did, you’re my Luna and my best friend. Now can we go home, I miss my mate and I really want to do an ultrasound.” Eva giggles at Selena as she wipes at her face before taking my hand again.

“Home sounds great.” Eva’s grip on mine tightens as she slowly walks from the room, I can’t wait to get her home where I know she’s safe and I can keep an eye on her and our pup.

His Rogue Omega: Chapter 116.

“Are we almost there?” I yawn deeply as I try to get comfortable in the passenger seat of the SUV, it feels like we have been driving forever but I know it’s probably only been an hour or so.

“Another thirty minutes or so Angel, then we will be at the hospital.” Cas reaches over and squeezes my thigh with one hand still on the steering wheel.

“No need, Rowan has everything I need back at the house.” Selena looks up from her iPad in the back of the car, “head straight home Cas. He has a surprise for both of you as well." I try to turn in the seat so I can look at Selena but my massive stomach stops me so I just slump back rubbing my aching stomach.

"What kind of surprise?" I ask, sounding a little curious, Cas has only been away from the pack for one night so I can't imagine it's anything huge.

"He's been working on it since you went with The Elders. He wasn't sure when you would come back so he's been getting things ready for the pup, with Cas down and out it gave him some time to sort." I glance over at Cas as Selena talks, he has a slight blush on his cheeks. which makes me wonder what he was busy doing.

"What does she mean/down and out'? What were you doing?" Cas lets out a deep sigh as I push his hand off my thigh, whatever he was doing he obviously knows I wouldn't agree with it.

"I drank a little," Selena coughs trying to cover her laugh which makes Cas scowl harder. "Fine, I drank a lot. You were gone and I couldn't find any answers, none of the other Alpha's knew how to help and before I knew it Darryl was there and it had been three weeks." Turning to look out of the window I see my pale face reflected back at me as we cruise down the highway.

"What about the Pack?" I ask him as I rub my stomach.

"What about the Pack? My mate was gone, I didn't give a shit about anything else." I look back at him just in time to see him glancing at me before focusing on the road again.

"And our Pack lost their Luna, you don't think they needed you?" I watch his Adam's apple bob under his stubble, "you left our Pack to their own defences while you drank yourself stupid. We are about to have a pup, you can't be so selfish again!" Cas looks ashamed of himself as he nods his head, "promise me, you won't do that again. I know you love me and I love you but we will always find our way back to each other. Our Pack is our family and they need us, both of us." Cas glances at me for long enough that I start to become concerned so I point to the road which makes him laugh.

"Alright, I promise." He says as his hand snakes across to my stomach. and joins mine in rubbing my stomach. We all sit in silence for a while. until a loud rumble has me looking around for something wrong with the car.

“Sorry, I’m hungry.” Cas chuckles as Selena leans forward and looks at me, “any chance looking after the Pack means food?” I burst out laughing as we continue to speed through the night and towards the Pack.

Pulling into the Pack land I can already tell so much has changed in the three weeks I have been gone. There are massive trucks filled with rubble and all kinds of timber along the main road and the odd man in a bright orange vest walking around.

“Did the high street construction start?” I ask Cas as I watch one of the men sip a coffee and look over something on his phone as he leans against the truck. Search the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

“Yeah it was due to start a week ago, once we have you checked out and rested we can go and look at the progress.” I nod my head enthusiastically as Cas pulls the car into the driveway and shuts the car down. I actually can’t wait to see the high street, for me the high street symbolises the Pack growth, as soon as it is done it will mean the Pack has finally left Cas’s fathers rule behind.

“Come on. I want to check the pup before you see the surprise.” Selena says as she opens the car door and jumps out, grabbing her iPad and medical bag as she goes.

“Is it bad that I want to see the surprise first?” I ask Cas as he turns to me with a broad smile.

“Nope. I want to see too. Come on, let’s sneak past her but only if you promise to let Selena look at the pup and you once we have seen it.” I pretend to think about it for a second before nodding my head and slowly pulling myself from the SUV. It ends up being more of an ungrateful slide but soon me and my massive stomach are slowly waddling towards the Pack house. It’s pretty late so I’m not surprised that there is no one here to greet us but I have to admit that I half expected Rowan, Heath or even Sally to be here waiting.

“I smell paint.” I say to Cas as he starts to help me up the stairs, I know this is where the surprise is because I can hear Rowan and Sally chatting at the top of the house.

“Me to,” Cas sounds really glum as we pass the empty corridor I followed Selena down a while ago and leads me up a second flight of stairs. All my time at the Pack and I’ve never been up here, I guess I’ve never had the need to.

“What’s up here?” I ask Cas as I pause for a breather, it’s a lot of stairs. and I’m suddenly feeling every inch of my pregnant b*dy.

“The Alpha and Luna rooms, I haven’t touched them or even been in them since I first left the Pack.” I pull on Cas’s hand to make him come down the few steps he’s taken ahead of me, I don’t say anything I just keep pulling until he’s close to me and I can tiptoe up to reach his l*ps.

“No, no, I’m telling you Alpha will want to build it himself. Put the box next to the wall and leave it.” Rowan’s voice floats down to us, I can’t help but giggle against Cas’s l*ps as he sighs and pulls back from me.

“What the hell has he done?” Cas grumbles as he takes my hand and leads me up the last of the steps.

“If you’re sure, I still think green was a bad colour to go.” Sally sounds annoyed as she grumbles at Rowan, Cas leads me along the hall to the first door. I gasp out loud when I see the room, it’s been painted a pale green with little cartoon dinosaur decals all over, there is a small alphabet tree on one wall along with white drawers, a changing unit and a pale wood rocking chair.

“Shit,” Rowan grumbles before dropping the massive box he’s carrying. “I mean, SURPRISE!” Cas burst out laughing at Rowan’s bad attempt at salvaging the reveal.

“You did this?” Cas asks as he runs his hand over the white drawers,

“is that the crib?” He points to the box Rowan just put against the wall.

“I did and it is. I figured you would want to build it yourself.” Rowan has a deep blush on his cheeks as he sticks his hands in his jean pockets, Cas doesn’t say anything. He just presses his lips in a tight line before pulling Rowan in for a manly back slapping hug.

“It looks so different. I would never guess this was her room.” I look around and notice all the little touches, like the poems hanging off the curtains and small wolf mobile that I guess will hang over the OFF crib.

“This was the Luna’s room?” I ask as I step up to the drawers and open one to see an array of white baby vests in new-born size.

“It was but we figured you and Alpha would be sharing a room and not want to be separated.” Sally says as she opens another drawer and shows me a bunch of tiny socks. “We got you everything you will need to start off, once you know if the pup is male or female we can do a proper clothing shop.” I just smile at her as she hands me a small set of socks. “it’s so good to have you home Luna.” I’m lost for words as she pulls me in for a side hug. I can feel the tears of happiness start to slide down my face as I look around at their generosity, no one has ever done anything like this for me before.

“I still can’t believe you did all of this.” I speak quietly to Rowan so that I don’t disturb Selena as she performs the ultrasound on Eva and the Pup.

“Well I had help, the old ladies all knitted the clothes and some of the other women helped with the decorating.” Rowan leans against the door frame as he talks, “I just wanted to be helpful while you were down and when I called Fraction for advice on The Elder’s I got through to James.” I turn away from Eva and Selena to look at Rowan in confusion.

“Beta James?” I ask him.

“Yeah, he told me there wasn’t much they knew about The Elder’s but that he would send Thomas over to try and help.” It makes sense now why Thomas was at the hotel when we got there, “then he gave me some advice on what to do with an expecting Luna.”

“Ah so I should be thanking James.” I nod my head as I smirk at him, he just laughs before punching me on the top of my arm.

“Alright, all done.” I quickly turn back to the ladies to see Eva sitting up and Selena wiping the bell off her round stomach.

“How is she?” Me and Rowan ask at the same time, it seems he’s just as worried about his Luna as I am.

“You’re fine.” Selena says to Eva instead of me, “I do want you to go and get some sleep though.”

‘I need to talk to you.’ Selena says over the Pack link without taking her eyes off Eva, understanding that she wants to speak privately I turn to Rowan.

“Help Eva down to the basement while I get the house locked up? I want to check some stuff.” Eva looks at me with a slight frown as I hold my hand out to help her off the bed.

“Can’t you do that later?” She asks me in a quiet voice while rubbing her stomach.

“I won’t be long.” I tell her as I place a k*ss on her forehead, I look over at Rowan to see him staring at Selena with a stoney face and gladly eyes, “Rowan?”

“Come on Luna, I’ll get you settled then come kick his butt along to you.” I watch as the two of them leave, I wait until their footsteps fade away before I turn back to Selena.

“Tell me.” I brace myself on the bed Eva just vacated as Selena pulls up the scan of the pup.

“You see this dark area?” Selena runs her finger across the underside of the pup, “it’s blood. She needs to have the pup soon or they will both be at risk.” I feel my heart rate speed up as I watch the little bl*p on the recording, the pup’s heart is beating hard and fast. Maybe a little too hard.

“Will you induce her?” I ask in a low voice without taking my eyes off the screen.

“I think it’s best we go with a c–section. I need to get some stuff from the hospital but I can do it here. It’s less risky with a shifter, her wolf will start to heal her before I’ve even finished.” I drop my head as panic starts to TUD through me, I’ve looked online so I know how difficult these things can be.

“Why hasn’t her wolf healed this?” I don’t understand how her wolf can heal her from a c–section but not this.

“She is, that’s why the pup is still alive, the bleeding is just happening so fast her wolf can’t keep up. I want to do this tomorrow,” I shoot my eyes up to her, she looks set in her decision and if Selena thinks it’s for the best then I it must be.

“Alright, I’ll be there, the whole time.” Selena looks like she wants to argue but after a minute she just nods her head, “do you want me to tell her?”

“I think we should tell her together in the morning, let her get a good night’s sleep and I’ll come over in the morning.” Seeing her eyes go over my head I turn around to see Rowan standing in the doorway.

“Alright, in the morning.” I take one last look at my pup on the screen before turning away and heading to Rowan. SEARCH THE WEBSITE TO ACCESS CHAPTERS OF NOVELS EARLY AND IN THE HIGHEST QUALITY.

“You good?” Rowan asks in a low voice, I just shake my head and push past him and into the hall. “Come on, let’s get some air.” I don’t even second guess him as he puts his hand on my shoulder and directs. me through the kitchen and out of the back door.

Once outside I tilt my head back and look up at the stars, I can feel the panic rising inside of me like a thunderstorm getting ready to strike.

‘Breath Cas, let it wash over you.’ Storm whispers to me as I feel myself start to shake with the panic.

I’m going to lose her.’ I tell him as it becomes really hard to breath, its like the panic is swarming me from the inside, I can understand now why Selena didn't want to tell Eva yet.

'No, we won't. I won't let it happen.' As much as I love Storm I know there is only so much he can do in this world, he's not infallible, he can't change what is happening no more than I can.

"I could lose them both." I say to the stars. "how is this far? How can I keep getting hold of her and then for her to slip through my damn fingers."

"You won't lose them. Selena is good at what she does. if she says she can save them both she will." I feel him walk up beside me so I drop my eyes down to see him staring at me with a worried expression.

"I hope you're right," I glance up at the stars again, closing my eyes and I send up a prayer to the Goddess. "I need you to be right." We stand in companionable silence as I keep sending prayers up to the Goddess, I pray for my mate, my pup and my Pack.

"Alpha?" Heath's voice pulls me out of my prayers, opening my eyes, I watch as Heath jog over to us from the cells, he looks confused to see

1. me.

"He only got back a few hours ago, we had to get Luna checked over." Heath looks from me and then to Rowan before nodding his head and sighing deeply.

"Well I hate to pile on but any idea when The Elders are coming to take Jeremy?" I feel my brows furrow in confusion, I thought The Elders took Jeremy when they took Eva, I had no idea he was still here. I guess I really did drink myself into a stupor while Eva was gone.

"He's still here?" Both men look at me as if I've lost my mind, "he's still in the cell?" Rowan nods his head as I start walking forward.

"Alpha?" Heath asks, sounding a little concerned. honestly finding out Jeremy is still here is the best news I've heard all night. The pup coming early I can't fix, Eva's wolf not being able to heal her I can't fix, beating Jeremy to mush? That I can do.

"He needs this. Come on." I hear Rowan say to Heath as I get halfway across the garden, the only thing I have on my mind right now is finding an outlet for my anger and fear.
