

The Truth 201

Chapter 201 Do It

After confirming that Robin had left the building, one of the new saints stood up and shouted angrily, "Billy!! what was that? At least you should have pressed him more or tried to bargain with him to lessen this terrifying amount of gold, what would he do with it anyway? the family is in need of this wealth right now more than ever! If you can't manage the family resources wisely, then leave the job to someone who can! "

The usual light smile wiped off Billy's face as he moved his head slowly and gave that old man a vicious stare that caused him to fall back on his chair then he started moving his eyes on the rest with the same stare...

Billy had just broken through to level 24 saint, aside for the patriarch and saint David, there was no one stronger than him in the family!

The oppressive atmosphere lasted for a few seconds, none dared to say another word...

After making sure everyone was back to his seat silently, a smile returned to Billy's face as he pointed toward the map, "Anyway, in this place I wish to build a large public square, and there we need to add another...."

-----

After Robin left the patriarch's building, he left the administrative area for his usual tour around the city...

First towards Uncle Tim's restaurant, which was still standing because it was built in a suitable place and is still new, then he started walking around the city to see the new expansions and demolitions himself.

But... there was something missing from his tour.

Everything he loved to do before was still there, and the people of the city loved him more than ever after his achievements as a General in the Lying Water Kingdom wars, some even to the point of worship!

But for some reason, the food did not taste the same, and walking in the streets and public parks did not bring him the same smile

Even some mild depression started filling him up instead...

He did not know what happened to his mood today, so he decided to go back to his palace directly and end the tour in the middle of it..

-----

Robin's Palace -- his secret room -- in front of a large bonfire

When Robin came out recently, his main goal was to meet a city official to tell him that he would be auctioning off the first grade of the Minor Heavenly Law Cultivation technique in two weeks' time, when the auction house opened again.

But delaying for two more months gave him a crazy idea

What if... he managed to make the second grade of the Minor Heavenly Law Cultivation technique before the auction?

Robin previously had previously modified the second grade of a few Minor Heavenly Law Cultivation techniques, and his eye of truth could see the patterns of the second grade of laws relatively clearly after entering the Knighthood, there was nothing to hinder him from trying!

A week followed another...

Separating the patterns of the second degree from a certain law from everything that he sees in front of him was not as easy as he thought...

He also wanted to make sure of something else, in particular, he had to find easy and streamlined ways to connect the second grade of the technique with the first grade, so that a bottleneck wouldn't appear for anyone using his technique when he reached level 20...

Robin's current goal is to kill any reason that prevents a cultivator Or delays him from entering the Sainthood!

After about five weeks, almost all the important patterns, threads, and connections were already formed in his head...

and he grabbed a blank book and a pen.

This was writing the complete technique for the Second Grade of Minor Law from scratch!

Not only that, Robin even decided to write notes, give suggestions and explain the technique in the simplest way possible for those with less talent to have a faster breakthrough all this took Rubin a little more than three weeks.

Finally... Robin grabbed the book of the second grade in one hand, and the book of the first grade in the other, lifted them up high...

and started laughing hysterically as he looked at them.

Even with the effort he made to find a minor law inferior to that of the royal family and be half as strong at most, his attempt failed, and it was a catastrophic failure.

The Minor Heavenly Law of Blaze.

That was his choice for the first Public Minor Heavenly Law Cultivation Technique...

It is indeed lower in nature than the one used by the Royal Family, but now that he has seen the end result of the Perfect Minor Heavenly Law Cultivation Technique...

They are simply as strong, or maybe even a little stronger!

Of course, these comparisons are in relation to the strength of the first and second grades of the law... This cannot be compared to the priority of the third degree with the one of the royal family.

...even after a few hours had passed since the last word he wrote in that book, Robin did not let it go of his hand, as though he was reflecting the most beautiful gem in the world, with only one thing in his head...

Should I write my name on them... or not...?

Legacy ~ Fame ~ History ~ Immortality ...

This is what he was working for in the first place, this is what drove him to leave everything behind and enter that cave a century and a half ago...

And the opportunity has finally come!

The Burtons no longer had real enemies within the kingdom, and even if they had them, with the Bradleys and Altons as allies and the Burtons' army itself, what enemy could he fear on the scope of this entire continent?

And on a personal level, there are level 30 Saints from the Royal Family who protect him all the time.. why should he be afraid then? from who?!

A voice kept resounding in his head none stop

*do it ~ do IT~ DO IT!!!!*

Chapter 202 Gold

Grand auction halls... where the most rare and precious items are sold, where the wealthiest and the strongest compete with each other to win them

To hold such an auction and invite the powerhouses of the Kingdom, then it must contain many types of strong beasts hides, Weapons, Natural resources, Tough minerals, and many more....

It is one of the most important practices on the continent and in almost every city there is at least a small hall, especially the auction halls in the ancient Ducal cities are the most prosperous and rich in treasures

But those ancient auction halls often take a year or more to collect enough resources to call for an auction

And of course, the ultimate number one is the Capital Auction Hall, which is an event that takes place every five years and brings together all the nobles of the Kingdom, no matter what they are doing, they must leave everything aside and go to have look there.

However, the main role of the *auction hall* has changed in recent years.

With the emergence of Grand Jura's auction hall that contains nothing but Runes, and only recently a few categorized weapons have begun to be sold as well, and it is held once a month which is an extremely fast pace!

And during the rest of the month, the auction hall remains open for selling fixed-price talismans.

Jura auction hall has undoubtedly become the focus of everyone's attention as of late, taking the limelight of the Capital Auction Hall, even as it is selling the same items every month, the high level nobles would rather go there than the Capital Auction Hall of they are both held in the same day!

Actually, there is no noble family inside the Black Sun Kingdom without people who are always in Jura to find out if there is news, and try to buy something useful for them or for their families if the money is available

But recently, as if the Burton family thought this interest in their auction hall wasn't high enough... they announced a public sale of a Minor Heavenly Law Cultivation technique!!

Billy spared no effort in publicity as Robin recommended, and indeed the whole kingdom has been upended over the past two months by the news.

Regardless of Jura's auction, this was the first time in the kingdom and perhaps the entire continent that a Minor Heavenly Law Cultivation Technique is to be sold!!

Civilian merchant families, smaller military families, big gangs and desert bandits, and lone cultivators have been looking for an opportunity like this for ages...

they all resolved to go and have a look.

Even though they all knew that an auction like this will end by selling the Minor Heavenly Law Cultivation Technique with millions of gold coins, even if they were sure that it is impossible for them to even look at it...

But this is still a unique moment in the history of the kingdom and at least they should take part in this, maybe this event will be the spark that will allow for more Minor Heavenly Law Cultivation Technique to be sold in the future...

The noble families from the oldest to the youngest also decided to attend, and with the presence of major family figures this time and not the usual representatives, many families sent their patriarchs personally to Jura!

All the great noble families would like to increase their options, and all the small noble families would dream of one more choice when nurturing a new knight...

12 days later -- Auction Hall reopening day -- Robin Palace

"Robin!" Billy went straight into the Palace and yelled excitedly, "Where are you? The opening ceremony starts soon."

About a minute later, Robin climbed down the stairs with a smile on his face, "Finally..."

"Oh? You seem as excited as me or more, that is rare... you want those 25 million this bad?" Haha," Billy chuckled, "but I warn you, an auction of a technique will give you no more than a million or two. If the technique is good enough and the guests are in a good mood, don't get your hopes up too much, I'm afraid you won't be collecting those 25 million gold coin today my friend."

"Auction ... Who said anything about an auction?" Robin exclaimed with a raised eyebrow and moved towards the gate

"...Hah?" Surprised Billy, no auction? but what about all those advertisements..?! At least tell me what you intend?!"

"Send people to carry the scrolls and tablets from the front of my private room and send them into the auction hall," said Robin, turning his back to Billy, "I'll be waiting there, when the time comes to announce the technique tell me, I will personally introduce my creation this time."

Billy furrowed his eyebrows lightly, then quickly sped down the stairs, but soon came to a stop and opened his eyes wide, "Oh... my God..."

-----

"29 thousand gold coins!"

"The gentleman in the fourteenth row says 29,000, is there any higher bidder?"

"32 thousand, this tablet will not belong to anyone but me!"

"Hmph, 35,000 thousand gold coins, it's mine!"

"Dammit!"

"35 thousand... 35 thousand... Are you bidders? .... Single-use thoughts conveying Technique tablet, Sold to Anonymous Bidder No. 641"

"Next time, it will definitely be mine!"

It's already been a few hours since the reopening ceremony, yet the competition didn't subside for a moment.

The first bidding started by selling only a Package of 50 Level Six Fire Explosion Talismans, but it was still quite exciting for everyone, and the Package was sold at 3000 gold coins, with means 60 gold coins per one... that's more than thrice the initial price for this kind of talisman!

All those present were either well-known nobles, famous merchants, or even anonymous individuals who wear masks and refused to reveal their identity, but there was one thing that was common among all of them... Gold!

They all came with carriages laden to the brim with bags full of gold!

This is undoubtedly the largest gathering of golden coins that the kingdom has witnessed throughout its history.

Never before has an event been held that called for these numbers of wealthy people to prepare all this money and gather in one place!

Had they not known about the existence of the new car park that was built next to the auction hall and the tight security on it, and the Burton family bears responsibility for securing them on their way out of Jura City, today's event would not have been possible, not with this sight at least...

Even Robin himself, on his way to the auction hall, saw the flashy carriages and the bags of gold and precious stones on them, started to drool, thinking, *All this will become mine today!!*

But he quickly restrained his thoughts and began to think how impractical this method of exchanging resources was.

In the end, gold is just a heavy and flashy-looking metal, why is it used alone in transactions? Why is there no higher-level currency that is easy to carry around to lighten people's burdens while traveling?

He has no doubt that some of those who intend to come today did not arrive because of the bandits attacking them on the way...

This is simply disturbing and may cause many commercial transactions to be discouraged just because of the concern about the way the gold will be transported!

In the end, he decided to put his thoughts behind him temporarily, and made his way to the hall...

Today, he has a show to host!

Chapter 203 Unwanted Attention

"A batch of twenty Ten-Day Acceleration Vitality Talismans, the starting bid is 20,000 gold coins!"
Announced the Elder hosting the auction

Although the Elder is just a new saint, this is the first auction in history to be hosted by a saint personally!

The guests Didn't know if this was a special event for the re-opening of the largest auction hall in the kingdom, or did the Burton family just want to show off their new saints...

But it didn't really matter, in the end, they succeeded in both!

"21,000 gold coins!"

"I hope everyone will let me win it and I will surely remember your grace, I need this batch a lot to save lives, I bid 22,000 gold coins."

"Haha, as if I would! 25,000 gold coins..!"

"..."

"..."

"37 thousand gold coins for 20 ten-day acceleration vital runes, is there any higher bidder? ...Sold!" The elders announced and pointed toward the buyer

Although there are now many selling points around the city for these regular talismans at a fixed price, the demand for them is simply too high, and obtaining a large number of talismans in a short period is still very difficult.

Even those who do not need the talismans would hover around a selling point and go buy everything they can as soon as a new talisman arrives, simply to sell them again on the black market later for a much higher price!

This was the best opportunity to get reasonable size batches, directly from the source...

Of course, the prices become much higher if compared to the fixed price at the selling points, but it is still actually a little cheaper than the black market

.. It's already been about 3 hours since the auction started and the hall hasn't calmed down for a moment from the competition, however.. the people who booked the VIP rooms haven't bought anything yet..

They just didn't come for this.

Even though their hands eat them to buy all those talismans... the money they brought in today must be kept for the main event...

Finally, their wait paid off, as the host saint opened both hands smilingly, "Ladies and gentlemen, there are no more talismans to sell today, but the auction is not over... We have kept you waiting long enough, it's time for the main event of the day! "

"Finally!!"

"Come on, get it out quickly!"

"Please first give us an overview of the Minor Heavenly Law Cultivation Technique!"

As if a storm broke out in the hall, the VIPs finally tilted their bodies forward to take a better look at the hall from above, and the ordinary nobles stood up and started shouting excitedly.

"Haha, please calm down... I had the honor of hosting today's event up until this point, but now, someone more suitable than me for this special event will take the position." The Saint signaled everyone to sit down, then looked toward a certain direction in the hall, "You may come forward, the stage is ready for you."

Everyone looked in the same direction and found a young man leaning against one of the walls of the hall at the back, then began to move towards the platform with steady steps with a smile on his face

Upon seeing him, the VIPs started to furrow their eyebrows... As for the rest of the lesser nobles, they just were unable to observe silently.

"Who is this..?"

"He's a young guy! ..at level 13 of Knighthood?!"

"How can a child be more fit than a saint to offer us the technique of laws?"

"Tsk~ They are messing with us now, the Burtons' mind games are really as weird as them.."

Here the saint who was still on the stage raised an eyebrow and shouted, "Silence! You are in the Burton family land, even if we bring a baby to host the auction, he must be respected!"

Very powerful words... and some might even consider them an insult!

but no one said a word to respond.

The pressure coming from the name Burton has simply gotten too intense lately.

"Haha, I apologize for raising my voice, please don't take offense from the words of this old man." Then the Saint continued, deferring to Robin, "This young man here is Robin Burton, I have no doubt that all of you have heard that name in one way or another."

Everyone returned to look at the young man who was still making his way to the stage, but this time it was not a look of disdain .. but rather an amazement

"Robin? Is that Robin..?! He looks so young..."

"The one who took Lady Mila Bradley as his fiancée?"

"I heard he was the one who laid the foundation for the economic adjustment that changed the shape of Jura City and the surrounding areas.."

"Forget that, he is the one who combined the attacks of 2,500 knights to attack tens of Saints from the Tenley Family including the Duke, and killed 3 of them!!"

"Wasn't he the general who fought to defend the Duchy of Alton at the Dembele Hills famous battle and protected the whole kingdom from the counter-invasion..?"

"I heard that the war on the Rufus family happened because someone attacked this young man in the street!"

"Rumor has it that he is the one who laid out the strategies to take control of the Duchy of Harris with near-zero casualties from the Burtons!"

"Robin Burton has superior energy control skills and has intimidating military and strategic capabilities, he's a pearl to the Burton family, no wonder he would have the honor of introducing this technique, that's his reward for sure!"

"Brother Robin, you are the best!!"

Side gossip began to take place among the guests, and quickly all the public news about Robin Burton spread among them, a few shouts also began to rise, but this time not to mock him...

"Robin... Burton..." In one of the private rooms, an extremely old mummy-looking man muttered, "Didn't you say... in the report... he is his current age... about 170 years... of age?"

"There is no doubt, Your Highness, this young man was actually born in Jura City 170 years ago and disappeared for over a century before returning to his home recently, everyone knows this." One of the two men standing behind the old man bowed respectfully and spoke directly in his ear, he was a level Saint 30...

"But... the age... of his bones... he is barely... 26 years old..." the old man muttered again as if every word that came out of his mouth would take his life a few days!

"It is true, Your Highness, this is a mystery that baffles everyone who knows it, but no one dared to pressure the Burton family to know the details of this strange phenomenon, we heard that a few Noble Families has spoken with the Royals and asked them to pressure Robin themselves to speak about the secret, but they were refused.

I think that the Royal Family of the Black Sun Kingdom does not want to steer problems with the Burton family in that aspect, since they do not have any High Elder who is close to the limits of his life force..." The person on the other side also bowed completely and replied, he also was a level 30 Saint.

"... Robin... Burton..." the old man muttered but didn't add another word, just following Robin with his almost closed eyes until he reached the stage.

Chapter 204 Disappointment

"Ladies and gentlemen, we apologize for keeping you waiting... Are you ready for the main event?" Robin finally reached the middle of the stage and spoke with a confident smile

"Hell yeah!!" Some enthusiastic young men responded, and the rest of the guests began to tilt their bodies in hope and prepare for the historical moment...

Robin looked at his side and pointed his finger, and a few beautiful girls came in pulling a small cart made of gold and precious stones.

Above the cart, there are four items.. two scrolls and two metal tablets

"This..." Everyone started examining the four items carefully

There is nothing special about the two scrolls or tablets, in fact, there were only two small lines written on the four

First Line in a Scroll and Board: The Perfect Technique of the Minor Heavenly Law of Blaze - 1

And on the second scroll and the second tablet it is written in the first line: The Perfect Technique of the Minor Heavenly Law of Blaze - 2

The second line on the four of them is the same: Created by X Burton

"The Perfect Technique of the Minor Heavenly Law of Blaze? What is this? Has anyone heard of that name before?"

"No, I haven't read that name in the list of discovered laws before."

"I thought the Burtons were going to sell one of the techniques they seized in their last wars? Maybe one from Dolivar or from the Lying Water.."

"And who is this X Burton? A technique made by one of the Burton family? Is this a game?"

"I knew it was a scam since I first heard the news, no wonder the royal family allowed it to be sold!"

"I don't have time for this!!"

Most of the guests turned silent and Sighted, but some couldn't handle the shock and started raining questions, and even anger began to rise amongst a few of them...

They all came for the opportunity to buy one of the well known techniques from one of the neighboring kingdoms, but in the end, they found a Law they had never heard of and is signed by someone from the Burton family?

Who in the Burton family could write a technique for a newly discovered Heavenly Law?

Even their Patriarch is barely at level 26!

Anyone can grab a pen and paper and write any nonsense and say it's a new technique, it doesn't mean it works!

who would want to buy something like that..?

"Haha, I guess the auction is over at this point, goodbye everyone!"

"Take me with you, I won a few good things today, it wasn't a completely useless visit haha."

A few people ignored Robin and start walking toward the exits already...

Even those of them who actually care about the technique and might have bought it from another place and gave it a chance, but even those started laughing and getting out too, it is the best possible chance to give the Burton family a political blow to discredit them and return them to reality after the rocket rise they have been on recently

And what is the worst thing that can happen to them? nothing!

What would the Burtons do? these Runes have already become public property for everyone in the kingdom, they can't stop them from buying them!

Never mind them saying a few words, there was even a small group from the Evren family here today and they won a few talisman batches!

They heard that the Royal family has interfered lately and forced the Burtons to allow their enemies to come to their city and buy their stuff...

So if even the Evrens' who have a direct conflict with the Burtons can attend, why fear them? it is time to kick them when it hurts... their money!

...The rest of the guests began to look at those next to them with questions and bewilderment in their eyes.

What would they do in such a situation...?

Is it better if they complemented the impulsive nobles who heft and go after them, or do they sit to the end even if they weren't willing to buy it so as not to anger the Burton family?

The guests began to look at the Burton family members to see their reactions, and they found that all the organized Burton family members were looking toward the stage, their hands clenched and their eyes full of sparks as if they were waiting for a signal, even the few saints among them were no exception to this

When they followed the path of their eyes, everyone's eyes eventually fell on the stage as well... specifically on Robin

He simply stood with his eyes closed and his breath steady, even his heartbeat slowed as if he was floating in a pool of icy water.

He didn't try to stop anyone, he didn't try to justify anything, he didn't give any orders or move a step.. he just stood there.

Seeing him like this baffled the hesitant even more, this young man named Robin simply wasn't shaken by what was happening around him at all!

In the end, they resolved to stay and listen to the end politely...

Being stuck in the thighs of a rising family is better than trying to stop them and creating enmity with them without a real reason.

After about five minutes, about 15% of the total number in the hall had already left the hall, and the rest were sitting silently in their seats

They were waiting for Robin to announce the start of the auction on the Technique and someone buys it, so they too can leave for their business elsewhere...

After another five minutes...

Robin opened his eyes, at last, looked toward one of the Burton Saints, and spoke with a low voice, "Uncle Milton, please make a list of the families of all those who have just left the auction hall, from today onwards all of those families will have to pay TEN times what everyone else is paying in exchange for our products, this is a final and irreversible decision."

"Consider it done." The saint nodded with a smile.

"Hoo..." Most of the crowd let out a long exhale, the rest furrowed their eyebrows, this was simply too overpowering!

"Robin Burton, don't you think that's too harsh? They just said their opinion." One of the nobles who had a good relationship with those who stepped out and spoke

"You may call me Sir Robin or Your Excellency Robin," Robin looked at that person with an eye filled with disdain before he continued, "This is our city, our auction hall, our sales and OUR rules, whoever doesn't want to abide by them does not need to come to Jura anymore."

"ROB.. you..!!" The nobleman cut his yell in the middle of his anger and continued, "Do you really think you can carry out this punishment? Do you know exactly who these are? They are from Earl, Viscount, and even Marquess families! How many people do you want to provoke? Can you even handle it?"

Then he looked at his sides, "Can't you see what's going on? They are trying to dominate the whole kingdom, they're using the monopoly over the Runes sales here to do whatever they want, how can you keep yourselves silent over this? We all have to leave to tell those thugs that it's impossible to control us!"

Robin gave a mocking chuckle and shook his head, then raised his head and scanned the entire hall with his eyes, "Gentlemen, you all know how respectful the Burton family is in dealing with our guests, and you know who was wrong in the previous situation, and the wrongdoer must be punished.

This is the punishment of the Burton family that came down on them and it will not change, if you all want to join them, there is no problem, the prices of everything will be raised ten times for everyone, and if you do not buy anything in the future, there is no problem either, we will store those talismans and weapons and use them in our own wars, many of our members would love that anyways...

We have lived without the sales of talismans for thousands of years and we don't mind living without your gold again!

As for those of you who want to stay... I promise you that you will never regret it."

Chapter 205 Blaze

*This is too arrogant!*

This was the first thing that crossed everyone's mind when they heard Robin's statement.

This is the first time they have seen this young man, but he has already begun to establish new policies? and everyone present from the Burtons is okay with it, including their saints?!

Indeed, the Burton family has been treating the guests with great respect since the first day they started selling the runes, they were even mocked for being too respectful!

Even if a noble had bullied a member of the Burton family or created trouble, things were resolved amicably, especially if they were from families of the rank of Marquess or Duke

Even though Robin's words sound respectful, it is clear that completely different policies will begin.

Those nobles who left wanted to make a big problem to shake the confidence of the Burton family and bring them back to the ground, telling them that they are still a new family without real allies...

they wanted to tell the Burton family that even with your recent victories you are still nothing in the political arena.

And Robin's announcement was the exact opposite.

"HOW ARROGANT!" the same man shouted, " you really think you will be able to pass those *punishments* of yours? I dare you to hold on to it for more than a week!"

Robin looked towards the man in an awkward way and spoke, " I'm starting to feel that you want to hurt them more not defend them, are you stupid or just can't the new reality? tell you what, I will play with you in both ways"

Robin smiled and then continued, " in addition to the punishment I imposed on them for eternity, I will also forbid them from buying the Blaze Minor Heavenly Law Cultivation Technique for fifty years."

"Who wants your stupid Technique?! did you hear that, everyone? do you see how arrogant are they?!"

Yes, they heard, and Robin's words terrified them... this new face of the Burtons was too overbearing!

Everyone in the room began to balance again between continuing to deal in peace with the arrogant Burton family or joining the families who left the hall to protest these new policies...

In the end, no one moved.

Some of them are low-level nobles and don't care much about the political arena, they just want to buy talismans to strengthen their families

And some of them do not want problems with the family that controls the largest duchy in the kingdom, especially if it is something that has nothing to do with them in the first place

Others, like gang leaders, famous merchants, and representatives of the wealthier mortal family, simply want to buy this technique even if it is the worst Minor Heavenly Law Cultivation Technique in history!

On the contrary, what is happening now benefits them... Rather, they wish that the rest would rise and leave to raise their chances of winning this auction!!

p They don't need the best Minor Heavenly Law Cultivation Technique or even average one, just the trashiest of them would do, if just one among them entered level 11 they would be glad!

The man who spoke earlier looked around and found no one else standing, a few minutes passed and everyone was still in their place, no one even adjusted his way of sitting... he finally realized that his efforts had failed.

Then he just returned quietly to his seat again, as if nothing had happened.

But that didn't go unnoticed by Robin, who pointed at him, " DID YOU ASK MY PERMISSION TO PUT YOUR ASS ONE MY PROPERTY? Get out of this hall right now, and starting today your family will need to pay 15 times the original cons of any of our products."

"RO - ROBIN BURTON!! don't press me too far!!" The man was shocked like never before in his life, he couldn't even muster a reply!

But Robin didn't look at him again, he just waved to the guards and a few individuals in the white armor of the Fire legion came forward, then grabbed that person and dragged him towards the exit under everyone's fearful gazes.

"Alright, I guess the minor annoyance is over...." Robin finally smiled and clasped his hands together before he continued, "I'm sure some of you have some concerns about this new technique and it's your right as buyers, so let me show you a bit of its power. "

SHWALAAAAAA

Robin raised his right hand and an almost invisible pale-colored flame appeared around his palm

SCREEEEEEEEEEEEEE

Unlike a perfect heavenly law of fire, this one didn't burn silently, it was far from calm

A bone chilling sound began to emerge from the pale flame, a frightening sound as if the surrounding air was screaming for help from the severity of the agony that had befallen it.

Everyone in the hall slowly started to stand up, as if they were trying to get an inch closer to that pale flame... Shock!

"This flame... this technique... it's more powerful than the first grade of law... fire shards?" Someone muttered

"Fire Shards my ass! I saw a prince using the Minor Law Technique that belongs to the Royal Family once, it's absolutely as powerful as this one!!"

It was not known which VIP room this shout came from, but everyone's eyes widened more and more, and some of them could not control themselves anymore and swallowed their saliva.

The voices of *Gulp* became the only thing that could be heard in the hall after the terrifying sound of the flames

After a few more seconds, Robin closed his fist making the flame disappear, and said, "I apologize to all of you for my inability to give you a better demonstration, I haven't built my cultivation pillars using the Minor Heavenly Law of Blaze, so I can only show about 70% of the true power of the technique, but rest assured, the knights who are going to build their cultivation pillars using This technique will be able to show significantly more strength."

"WHAT?!"

"Why didn't he use this law to build his pillars and could he show such strength by using it?"

"doesn't that make it better than the one with the Royal Family already?"

"Dammit, I almost followed those retards and was about to leave, I'm glad as hell I stayed!"

"This X Burtons guy... What a genius..."

"What a legendary technique!!!"

"This technique from today belongs to my family, I will win it!"

"IT'S MINE! I'll pay a million coins for it!"

"Get away clown, a million? I'm bidding 1.5 million gold coins!"

The initial shock soon turned to hysteria, all the representatives of the big noble families started shooting numbers left and right!

Some of them started using sound rings to call their family headquarters to ask them for permission to use more gold!

And others fell into a pit of despair already...

Representatives of small noble families, merchants, and the others, since they saw that little burning in Robin's hand, they knew that it was impossible for them to win this technique anymore...

everything went back to zero for them.

"Sigh~" They all sat back to their places, dejected, it was expected from the beginning that they would not win, but at least they had the honor of attending this historic event.

Chapter 206 Stage One

Since they started *bidding* Robin has been watching around silently with a slight smile on his face, not saying anything, nor stopping them...

And he remained in this state until the owners of private rooms also began to bid, and soon the last price was said for 2.8 million gold coins for the first stage of the Minor Heavenly Law Cultivation Technique!

And the auction did not stop at this point, but there were no indications that it would stop before reaching at least 4 million gold coins.

Even Robin was dumbfounded under that smile, first stage Minor Heavenly Law Cultivation Technique can take its user to the knighthood realm, but that's it these people who are racing to empty their pockets to buy it are all high-level nobles and they all have other Minor Heavenly Law Cultivation Techniques that have reached the second stage

He simply hadn't expected how tempting it would be for more knights with such formidable power to appear in any family, even if they were destined to never enter the sainthood...

The Bidding reached 4.2 million after a few minutes, and the struggle between the buyers began to ease significantly, but it did not stop

The richer individuals who occupy the regular seats in the hall began to fall in succession to their chairs in disappointment, this technique got out of their hands...

It's now most likely will go to one of the Duke families.

At this point, Robin raised his hand and gestured to calm everyone down

"What is the matter, Young Robin? No winner has come out yet!" Asked one of the VIP guests with a frown, he was the last person to put a price to bid

"There is neither winner nor loser today, Your highness, Duke Julian," Robin replied, shaking his head.

"Hmmm?" The Duke furrowed an eyebrow, not understanding anything

"Haha please allow me to explain, I had no intention of starting today's auction on this Minor Heavenly Law Cultivation Technique, you guys started the bidding before you gave me a chance to explain, and frankly I thought it would be a good opportunity to know the real value of the Technique."

"This..."

"So that Technique isn't for sale..?!"

"You didn't gather us here to play with our nerves, right, young man?" Another strong sound came from one of the VIP rooms

"How would I dare?" Robin put his left hand on his chest, "This Minor Heavenly Law Cultivation Technique will definitely be sold today, it's just that the selling method will be different."

No one else spoke, they all just looked at the platform with furrowed brows, trying to deduce what was going on.

Robin walked towards the little golden carriage next to him and picked up one of the two scrolls and one of the two tablets, the two with the number 1 written on them.

Then he returned to face everyone while holding them in each hand and spoke, "We, the Burton family, have witnessed a rocket rise thanks to the presence of talismans, but we have not and will not forget that we are part of this ancient kingdom and that all the inhabitants of the kingdom consider our family and friends, and for this, We decided not to skimp on the people of this kingdom when we had something to share."

The knots of the eyebrows of the present grew more and they began to look at each other, this is an auction for sale and not a charity, what is wrong with this strange speech?!

Robin then continued, "In my left hand is a single-use Thought conveying Scroll, it contains the first stage of Minor Heavenly Law Cultivation Technique of Blaze, with this scroll the Technique will be mentally transmitted to only one person after which the scroll will be damaged and never to be used again, This scroll will be sold at a fixed price of 50,000 gold coins per one.

In my right hand is a multi-use Thought conveying tablet, containing the first stage of Minor Heavenly Law Cultivation Technique of Blaze, it can transmit the Technique to more than 500 people before the seals in it are damaged, it will be sold at a fixed price of 500,000 gold coins per one."

"Wh- wH- WH--?!"

"WHAT?!"

"I... I can buy it for myself with only fifty thousand gold coins?"

"I can buy this technique for all my family members for half a million gold coins?! Is that real?!"

"Long live the Burton family!!!"

"Long live the Burton family!!!"

Merchants, heads of small families, and even low-ranking nobles started cheering, some of them even started crying!

Just at this moment, the guests understood Robin's speech...

many average families have a deep enough foundation to have accumulated such an amount of gold over the years

The Burtons in the past for example had a standard net revenue of only about 100k gold coins per year, but their treasury overall absolutely had far more than that!

Maybe not every mortal family or gang will be able to purchase it, but there is a good number that will... at least everyone that came today will!

The Burton family simply wants to strengthen the whole kingdom with a price like this!

As for the people in the VIP rooms, they did not look pleased at all ...

"You Burtons... do you realize the consequences of what you are trying to do here?" Ask one of the guests

"Don't worry yourself, Marquess Beethoff, we do nothing but raise the average strength of the people of the kingdom," Robin looked at that room with a smile, "The recent successes we have seen and the expansion of our lands call for more strength to maintain, don't you agree?"

"Long live the Burton family! Long live young Robin!!"

Everyone's enthusiasm in the standard seats increased and almost reached the point of suffocation

Their dreams.. their ancestors' dreams.. they are finally coming true!

But the confusion of the VIP guests increased, and they even began to look at each other from the open balcony.

If all the wealthy mortal families and gangs, etc... had access to such a strong Heavenly Law technique, then their absolute dominance over the lands of the kingdom will be greatly damaged these mortals are going to have knights stronger than their own?! then what, they will have to use saints to control the streets from now on?

They have nothing left to say but to buy one of the tablets for now, and then they contact the royal family to see what the hell is going on...

"Young man... Robin.. what about that other scroll.. and that tablet.. on the.. carriage..." An ancient's voice came from one of the VIP rooms

No one saw the speaker and no one tried to mock the voice that seemed to be on the edge of death

Even with the corpse-like voice that sounded like the grim reaper himself, every word came out powerful enough to silence every other voice in the hall

"Good eye, senior, indeed, the Burton family's surprises for our dear guests today does not end yet."
Robin wanted to course at that old man, but to hold himself back, he wanted to enjoy seeing people celebrate the first stage of Blaze for a while longer!!

Chapter 207 Ancestor Noah

Robin returned to the golden carriage and left the scroll and the tablet in his hand on it, then took the other two and turned around to face the guests again with a proud smile, "As you all know, Heavenly Laws have stages, the first stage is that which helps a cultivator breakthrough up to the twentieth level, and then comes the second stage which brings its user into the realm of sainthood... We, the Burton family, have decided to sell the first law cultivation technique in history, so how can we sell it incomplete?"

Everyone held their breath, most already guessed what Robin was going to say, but they simply couldn't believe it...

"The single-use thoughts conveying Scroll and the multi-use thoughts conveying metal tablet in my hand both contain the second stage of Minor Heavenly Law Cultivation Technique of Blaze!" Robin announced

*buzzzz*

As if a wire in everyone's heads was suddenly cut off

Announcing the sale of the first stage of this overpowered technique was one thing, and it was already an event that will be recorded in the history of this planet!

But now... the second level of a technique equal in strength to that of the Royal Family's is being sold...

Selling the method of making saints who are equal in strength... to the saints of the royal family?!

When did this law appear exactly? When did its creator have enough time to make the second stage out of it?!

Since it's easy to make the second stage of a Law Cultivation Technique?!

Even the Grand Dukes' Families are still prisoners of the second stage of their Laws for thousands of years, with none of them able to make the third stage of their techniques until now, and all of their techniques are far weaker than this one!

Finally, someone in the VIP rooms broke the heavy silence and spoke, " Mr. Robin, who is... the genius who made this technique?"

Everyone remembered that the name of the creator is already written on the techniques... X Burton

"Who is this X Burton? I've never heard of that name before...?"

"Since when did the Burton family have someone who could produce a technique like this?!"

"Do the historical records mention that the Burton family had someone with that name?"

"Perhaps the name means *unknown*?"

Robin raised his hands in a calm gesture, then spoke, "The Blaze Minor Heavenly Law Technique is undoubtedly the production of someone who goes by the name Burton, he's just a little shy and says it's not yet time to fully announce his identity, so temporarily, you can identify his first name as Anonymous or X."

"X... Does Sir. X have anything to do with the Runes?" Someone muttered in a low voice, but everyone in the hall heard it

The Burton family has a complete monopoly over the Runes and all their applications, if only one of them had discovered this stuff, then that makes perfect sense!

A few high-class nobles at the VIP rooms began to look at each other with shock and suspicion, some even began to use the thoughts conveying Technique to talk about this huge information!

What is this X Burton guy? is he really some strong ancient figure? is he one of the current weak generation that has a special talent?

If he really is strong then why didn't he announce his name right from the start, and if he is weak why would he bring such unwanted attention to the upper class of the Burton family members?!

They all returned to look at Robin to take from him a denial or affirmation, but he only shrugged his shoulders.

"Forget about it, if that genius wants to stay unknown for now then we must respect that, How much will the second stage sell for, Mr. Robin?" asked one of the heads of the small noble families respectfully, his heart beating fast with excitement

Robin shook his head, "The first class will be permanently sold at the sale points inside Jura City, any one of you who can collect the required amount of gold can come at any time and buy one... but that does not go for the second stage.

The second stage, either a single-use scroll or a multi-use tablet, will be sold here in public auctions whenever one of them is available, one may appear every month or it may appear every few years... for example today I only have 3 scrolls, and 3 tablets, who amongst you will win one of them? This will be left to fate!"

When Sage Albert gave Robin the authority to sell a Heavenly Law Technique, he didn't tell him to sell only the first stage, but there is no doubt he meant the first stage.

Robin took advantage of this loophole in the agreement to get the second stage in the equation as well to increase his profit and heritage, but this will undoubtedly anger the royal family, especially since the technique is so powerful...

Therefore, he has no choice but to sell it on a limited basis every once in a while and to certain people in the upper class of society so as not to turn all the scales upside down!

Robin would have wished he could sell the second stage of his technique as easily and at reduced prices as well, but this would have provoked the royal family to a completely different level, perhaps issuing an immediate ban on the sales, or even gaining their enmity! so he decided to use it as a way to gain fast money for now.

After all, Prevention is better than cure.

The heads of the small families sighed and took their places, knowing that a great opportunity missed them, they could have leaped towards the sky with a single step!

but quickly the smiles returned to their faces when they remembered the strength of the first stage and that they will finally have strong knights in the near future

With the first class with them, they will undoubtedly be able to raise enough money for the second stage in the coming years they have already waited hundreds or maybe thousands of years to have such an opportunity, so what if they waited a little longer?

Maybe fifty years? a hundred..? no problem!

Finally, the smile returned to the high-class nobles after Robin's announcement, at least they will still have an edge over the rest, this way, not too much has changed and one of them suddenly shouted, "I Bid for the multi-use tablet with five million gold coins!"

5.1 million gold coins!

"5.3 million gold coins!!"

-----

"Call me.. that boy... Philip.." The seated old man ignored the auctions and spoke in a low voice to one of the guards next to him

One of the men behind him nodded and took out a multi-use sound ring, passed his energy, and spoke in a loud voice, "Your Excellency King Philip Marley, I apologize for disturbing you, Ancestor Noah wants to speak with your majesty."

After about half a minute the ring was lit, so the man nodded and put the ring in the old man's hand, who also put his energy into it and spoke in a hoarse voice, "Philip... I was passing by your kingdom.. for some sightseeing.. I came to the home of the Runes to widen my horizons... Here I found... Auction on the second stage of some minor Law Technique... I want your permission.. to buy it.."

A voice echoed in his ear after a few seconds, "What do you say, Ancestor Noah? Our kingdoms have been in alliance for so long, how can I mind you buying a mere second stage of technique? You don't even have to buy it! Relax and I'll contact the Burtons to get you one, and I'll send it to you in Garya."

"No need... I will buy it from them.. at a high price too.. to make up for the loss of the black sun...." The old man spoke, her eyes almost closed, then gave a slight wave to the person next to him.

Who in turn came up to the balcony of the room and shouted a number that made everyone shut up, "20 million gold coins."

The old man ignored what was happening next below as if he was already one of the three tablets, then went back to pumping his energy into the ring and spoke, "Philip... I saw an interesting boy here.. his name is Robin Burton... what do you know... about his bone age?"

Chapter 208 Golden Night

It was a record-breaking night...

The highest price for a single item in any auction hall in history = the second stage of the Minor Heavenly Law Cultivation Technique of Blaze at 20 million gold coins

This number is simply mythical, the former Burton family would have taken about 150 years to collect such an amount of gold in their treasury

This kind of money will not come out of the treasury of ANY family at once unless it is for a very strong reason, such as preparing an army for a war to determine its future, or if the treasury has been looted... Certainly not to buy something from an auction!

The highest total profit for an auction session in history + 45 million gold coins!!

The first auction on a multi-use tablet of the second stage of Blaze ended immediately with 20 million gold coins, the next auction was won by someone for 8.7 million gold coins, and the third auction was even more intense because it was the last and ended with a price of 13.1 million gold coins

This in addition to the rest of the hall's sales of the talisman, weapons, and single-use scrolls for the second stage of the Blaze as well, the total easily broke the 45 million gold coins mark.

This is without calculating the sales of the first stage of the Minor Heavenly Law Cultivation Technique of Blaze!!

After Robin announced the end of the auction, all guests rushed outside, heading towards the fixed selling points in the city, intending to buy the first stage of the law...

This alone achieved additional sales of 40 million gold coins!!

More than 80 million gold coins were earned in one day... the number almost broke the minds of the elders and officials of the Burton family!

Were it not for the new treasury facility that was recently built, they would not have found a sufficient place to put all these quantities of gold in it.

The entire administrative area was shining in golden color from the many chariots loaded with gold that entered every minute!

Even the elders who were outraged by the decision to withhold Robin's $25 million in profits previously simply forgot about it now, realizing that Billy had a future viewpoint that went beyond their own...

Even after deducting the part Robin wants, they will still have more than 55 million gold coins... This will be enough for them to live in prosperity for dozens of years even if they never work one night in their lives again!

-----

On the evening of the same day-- inside Robin's Palace

"Your Highness Albert, I trust you have been fine since the last time I contacted you." Robin put his spiritual sense into his ring and sent

After a few seconds, the reply came, "Haha, welcome to the new rich man in the kingdom, I heard that you cleaned the kingdom of all its gold today.."

"Me? I wouldn't dare call myself rich in the presence of the royal family, what I have is nothing but a needle in an ocean in comparison to what you have, my highness." A smile appeared on Robin's face, eyes closed.

"Tsk tsks~ If the Burton family hasn't already amassed a quarter of the royal family's total wealth, you're not too far away... I can't believe what's going on, in one day you collected what our ancestors reaped over hundreds of years from wars and taxes!"

"Haha, the world is changing, Your Highness. All I care about is that you are not angry at today's events." Robin replied curtly.

"Angry? I was the one who told you to sell from the beginning so how can I be jealous now? haha, the only thing that bothered me a little is that second stage of your technique, that wasn't fine at all.."

"haha, it's just a second stage of minor law, your highness, how many of those are inside the kingdom anyway? I only thought we might collect the highest amount of gold possible in this way, was I wrong?"

" What a *just a second stage of minor law* you got there! we both know how strong that technique is and how you messed up the knights and saints of the royal family with it!" the sage replied with a sneer

" Did I? well, in the end, it's nothing but a second stage, right? as long as the royal family got you and his majesty then you will never be *messed up* " Robin said with a little anxiety

" Stop your nonsense kid, just make the future sales of the second stage more distant, maybe in a few years or in a few tens of years! only when you NEED gold, got it?"

" Yes sir! any more instructions of this 160 year old kid?"

" Yes! " the Sage ignored Robin's sarcasm and continued, " don't you dare sell the third stage of this law or any other, are we clear?!"

" yes, of course! I can't make them anyway, and if a managed to make one in the future it will only go to your highness."

"hmm good, don't forget to send taxes on all those profits by the way..."

"Of course of course, how could I forget? Let's wait until all sales have settled and we'll send you taxes, I think they'll be in the millions, not so bad for you huh? Haha, I will also send the whole Blaze technique as a small gift to Your Highness."

"Good!" Albert nodded and then continued, "Then? Why do you want to communicate with me? Don't say you're talking to me just to see my attitude on today's events, you don't really care about my anger otherwise you wouldn't talk to me about it after you did it, you little brat..."

"Hahaha, of course, I care about the opinion of the sage, how could I not? But there is actually something else I wanted to talk to you about.."

Robin paused for a few seconds and then continued, "A procession of fifty chariots carrying 25 million gold coins will be leaving Jura in a little while towards the capital, with that I end my part of the deal.

I want your highness to send me everything that you have collected during the past months, and to please send me everything that you reach constantly, I need those resources that I requested from you in a current project, and everything you send I will use, so I hope you are not too late."

"Hmm... it's good that you told me, I will send a few saints to meet the caravan and add layers of protection to it, and I have no problem with your request, within ten days you will find all that I collected in front of your palace, and then I will send you small caravans every two weeks until all the items are finished, is there another thing?"

"No, that's it! I know your highness's time is precious and I won't waste it anymore, I ask you to hang up, Your Highness."

After a few more pleasantries, the connection between Robin and the sage ended, and with it all the anxiety and smiles on Robin's face...

He just found himself sitting alone in the dark... not knowing what he was feeling.

Chapter 209 Vacation

The sage told him that the resources would arrive in ten days, which means that during the next ten days he would be completely free

There is no more pressing matter to do in this world anymore, no wars... no conflicts... nothing.

He destroyed every obstacle in his way, and he destroyed everyone that might have been an obstacle in his way...

And the family's future was secured with all those resources and knights.

There is simply nothing left to care about.

As someone who had come out of crushing mental exhaustion due to successive wars, and then entered into long retreats to discover and write the Blaze Heavenly Law Cultivation technique without a single day of rest, Robin felt he desperately needed vacation during those ten days.

But what does he do with them? ...Maybe spend them with his four adopted kids?

Caesar is now in pain in his home due to injuries from the foundation modification technique, although the time between each session has become only 23 days and is decreasing each time, this did not mean that the pain of the damage has become any less, It only indicates that Robin became more urgent and Caesar is okay with it..

,m So.. no, he can't spend his vacation with Caesar.

Peon is now busy looking for the rest of his family and rehabilitating them psychologically and physically so that they can return to what they were before the enslavement, he definitely will not leave something of this importance to take a vacation with his bored adopted father...

Theo, still in the eastern lands, the former lands of the Duchy of Harris, has become the supreme commander of the three special legions and he has to stay there to fill the void left by Caesar, and Peon, he too is very busy for a vacation...

Zara spends a large amount of her energy and time treating Caesar, the rest on training and leveling up quickly as Robin ordered, and trying to discover more applications of the Major Heavenly Law Cultivation Technique of life!

The healing ability is a nice side branch to the overall picture, LIFE is much more than just that!

So she is arguably busy even more than her three brothers..

...maybe he enjoys the company of people his age for once? No, even his only friend Billy has become a stranger to him since his return, all those years have changed a lot in both of them, it's only the old knowledge that facilitates their interactions that makes Robin communicate with him more than the rest of the saints in the family

Maybe Mil... Sigh~

Only now... Robin realizes how lonely he really is.

'Everything is going as I planned.. My 4 kids will make sure my name is immortalized, whether Runes or major laws or even The Minor ones, I have already changed the face of this planet, and the name of Robin Burton will live forever when my achievements are announced...

Even if I die today and the Burton family fails to take over the continent, even if they lose what I left for them, people will still say that once upon a time there was a true genius who walked this earth and his name was Robin Burton...

This is what drove me when I left the family when I was a teenager, this is what I aspired to when I entered that cave and threw everything I once knew behind my back, I am already a legend! But... will anyone grieve for me after I die?'

A wave of depression started creeping into Robin's heart and hit him like a hammer without warning

But he quickly shook his head and slapped his face then stood up and headed towards the palace door

'Who needs someone to spend time with? I lived alone for almost a hundred years and I can survive a few days doing nothing!'

He walked out directly from the door of the palace with a clenched face without greeting the bent guards as usual, but this time he did not move towards Uncle Tim's restaurant or one of the gardens in the inner area.

This time he walked towards the best brothel in Jura!

This was the first time he even thought about going somewhere like that since he found Caesar in the Outer Beast Region that day

...For about five hours Robin spent his time in the bar drinking all its wine and enjoying the women dancing and the whores swaying around him, but his emotionless face never left him for a moment

This wasn't as fun as he remembered...

Even with the wine, his mind was still clear as ever no matter how much he drank

Added to that... this time he could see the truth around him.

All the guests are losers who wanted to escape from something in their lives, and all the swaying, laughing women want nothing but what is in their pockets.

Neither of them cares about the other, if a chance arose then those women would kill every man here to take whatever they have before they defile their bodies for a few silver coins, and surely the same goes for the *guests*

After seeing that drinking and mixing with those scum wouldn't help him, he chose one of the girls and went to a side room to get it over with... maybe having sex after all these years would make him feel better.

But after only ten minutes inside the locked room, Robin opened the door and came out with his face darker than ever leaving behind a bewildered naked woman, and a few gold coins next to her...

After Robin left the brothel, he did not go right or left again, but went straight back to his palace and then to his underground room, then sat in the middle of it in a meditative position, and began his preparations to break through to the next level in the knighthood.

The vacation dream was over before it even began...

Chapter 210 Level 15

Robin didn't leave that room over the following days, he didn't even move a single step from his original spot, enduring hunger while putting himself in complete focus to raise his cultivation level.

He just wanted to flood out the feeling of depression by thinking about something else...

This is not the first time he has encountered something like this, during his long life in the cave he thought of suicide a few times due to similar waves of depression, but each time he was saved by thinking of the greatness he would achieve when he discovered the law of truth

But now, what is there to stop him...? Maybe discovering other laws and Runes and achieving more glory?

Robin shook his head every time it came to this though didn't want to think in that direction anymore

He definitely didn't lack ambition nor did he stoped making plans for himself and for the expansions of his family that will protect his legacy long after his death...

Maybe he lacks the needed scarecrow to make him hurry forward in his plans, but he still has a lot to do and he definitely isn't giving up!

And there is also the Nihari planet journey which he visibly feared, but deep inside he was aching to go... seeing new creatures, hearing new stories, maybe discovering new laws that aren't here?

What is better for a researcher..?

The depression this time certainly has nothing to do with the sense of failure or lack of direction... it's just there...

So he just took a few Soul Revitalizing Pills, ignoring the time around him, putting all his focus on forming the law foundations in his body.

...And after just 13 days of total concentration, he jumped from level 13 to level 15 in one session!

As for the next two days, he fainted due to extreme exhaustion.

-----

"Hmmm, good morning my M-" On the fifteenth day of his seclusion, Robin rose from his sleep and looked beside him at the usual naked body with a smile, but suddenly he remembered something and fell into a long silence.

After a few minutes, he shook his head with half a smile, then took lazy steps, took a shower and found something to eat, and then came out of his room at a heavy pace after about two hours...

"The hell is this?!" Robin snapped as he reached his front yard, there was no green to be seen anymore

Just piles upon piles of minerals, and a few small mountains of energy stones!

Robin quickly moved toward one of the guards and grabbed his shoulder, "When did all this arrive? How long have I been inside the palace?!"

"Oh, your Excellency, you are finally done?" The guard quickly bowed, "Your Excellency, you were in seclusion for 15 days, these items arrived in your name from the royal family 6 days ago and they refused to put it anywhere other than your front yard, so uncle Billy had to let them do so"

Robin left the guard and began checking everything in the front yard for over half an hour, then muttered to himself, "That is about 60% of the items I ordered... I never thought that they had collected all this within such a short period of time, perhaps I should raise the ceiling of my expectations of the Black Sun Royal Family in my next conditions, I let them off too easily by paying those 25 million gold coins..."

Then he looked at the guards and shouted, "Get someone to move all this to the metal warehouse next to my palace, everything has to be moved before the end of the day!"

"Yes, your Excellency!!"

-----

Since that day, Robin has put his full focus on creating the space portal, and he was not alone...

According to the designs passed on to him by the all-seeing God, the gate is a hollow semicircle with a diameter of 15 meters, made entirely of rare strong metals!

So 20 Knights from the Fire legion were assigned to stay with Robin and fully assist him, first because it would take large amounts of flame to construct a metal structure of this size, and also because he was sure they would keep everything they saw a secret.

And indeed he has already used them to the greatest possible degree, in smelting and welding metals, or sending them on external missions such as getting the toughest of the metals to Jura factories, or searching for the more available resources... none of them were spared

The huge warehouse, which has been quiet since its construction, has become a noisy factory due to the large number of movements and noise emanating from it daily.

Everyone became obsessed with what was happening inside... But no one dared to approach.

After another two months...

The royal family has sent all the agreed upon resources without any deficiency, it was unknown if the Black Sun royal family was really this awesome, or it is that Sage Albert exaggerated how hard it is to gather everything

Either way... now there is nothing left but to complete the construction of the space portal.

As for the huge hollow semicircle, it is almost completed!

It was not that difficult actually, Robin and his knights could have built a similar structure with those same minerals in less than two weeks

It is just that the designs were simply too precise and that is what took them so long

Robin had to walk very carefully in making the portal and do everything according to the designs with utmost precision, or else a problem might occur during his move and he could find himself floating beside a sun!

He kicked the knights out of the warehouse more than once and summoned the All-Seeing God to follow up on what he had achieved so far and bring out the defects for him to work on fixing them

So what he got so far was already accurate to the point of perfection.

After another month, the construction of the portal solid structure was completed.

Robin stood in front of it, both his hands on his waist, and started to look at his hand-making with a proud smile...

The portal was simply enormous in size, he still didn't understand why the All-seeing God would give him the designs to make a portal of this size if only he was going to use it!

As a kind of celebration, Robin took the twenty knights and resolved to eat out that day

After they finished, an idea came to his head...

instead of going back to the administrative area, he changed his way and took them to the best brothel in the city and announced that he would pay all the party expenses in the brothel as well.

It was a wild night... After a few hours of celebration, each knight took a girl to one of the rooms and left behind Robin with the most beautiful and alluring woman of them all.

...but yet again, after a quarter of an hour, he left the room, lowering his head like a defeated dog, and walked alone out of the brothel, leaving his knights behind enjoying themselves.

To prevent himself from thinking too much again, he headed straight to the warehouse to finish his work

On the same day, Robin began mixing the rest of the non-metallic resources to make inks for the next part of the Space portal construction... encasing this massive structure with runes related to the space path!

The All-seeing Gog simplified the runes as much as possible and reduced them to the lowest possible degree so that Robin could draw them, he even devised a way for Robin to draw these higher level runes ...

But even with that, they were very complex and strange to him

Whether it's the new path, the rune level, or the usage of those runes.. everything was new to him

He tried a few times to comprehend the path of space from the runes but soon found that impossible...

It was like a newborn trying to study the easiest ways to break through to Sage-hood.

Therefore, he contented himself with transcribing the manuscripts according to the instructions set by the All-seeing God, and he contented himself with memorizing all the space path runes in his head, maybe they would become handy in the future...

And quickly another two months have passed.