

The Truth 241

Chapter 241 ANGER

10 minutes later-- 2 blocks away

Robin watched the guards as they were negotiating with some people who were all wearing kitchen aprons and were stained with blood all over they didn't look like trained soldiers, yet their aura was extremely dark and suffocating...

The negotiations continued for about another 5 minutes until the fattest and oldest chef among them ordered one of his boys to bring black notes from inside...

The deal to sell the girls was already done!

Robin reached out his hand and took out two fireball talismans, the strongest one of these bunch was one of the chefs and his strength was about that of a low-level saint, one Fireball would take care of him, and the other would kill the rest of the guards or at least scare them away

After that he would take Laurie with him and order the rest of the girls to run in different directions, everything should be fine by then, at least he would be able to save Laurie and a few of the girls...

But after he took a step forward, Robin suddenly stopped.. he felt a tightness in his chest, no matter how hard he tried he couldn't take another step as if his feet were refusing to carry out his orders

"This feeling...." As if he had grasped something, Robin stretched his senses to as far as possible... and his eyes went wide as soon as he did.

The chief of the city guards and with him a few individuals wearing black cloaks covering their heads and faces were hiding on the roofs of buildings and in the adjacent alleys around him, the whole place was surrounded!!

"Dammit..!!" Robin clutched the two talismans

The number of hiding people is large and some of them are at medium or high saint level, even excluding the saints, he would have big problems trying to escape from these knights if they knew where he is right now.

Then what would happen if he take Laurie with him as well? If he showed himself now, he would be dead.

"No, please, no!! let's work as your servants, we can do anything for you!" While Robin was trying to come up with a plan, he heard a voice that made his heart beat go wild as one of the girls fall to the ground and starts wailing

The owner of the restaurant bent down and grabbed that girl by the neck and lifted her up until her feet were no longer on the ground, and then started talking to her, ignoring that she was choking, "Servants? ? I don't need this... Do you know when was the last time I was able to get human girls of your age to be added to the menu? The number of idiots among our race is not small, they think you are their pets or something, they say it is not right to eat you."

"Khh.. kkkgggghh" The girl's eyes went up, she almost died of suffocation

But that didn't stop the owner of the restaurant from continuing, "When will people realize that you are just another lowly race, what is the difference between you and any other livestock? ..Servants? No, no, my dear, I don't want that, I'll make dishes out of your arms first, then your feet and breasts, I will cut you piece by piece while you are still alive, and then finally slaughter you for your guts, and then--"

"BOSS, if she dies of suffocation, the blood will be trapped in her body and it will not taste that delicious anymore.." One of the chefs pokes the owner of the restaurant in the shoulder, causing him to lose his train of thought.

"Tch.. you are right," said the head of the restaurant in anger, then threw the girl into the restaurant

Robin's features turned dark when he heard that terrifying speech

He can't leave Laurie and the rest of the girls here, or they will face a fate much worse than death.

The strange thing is that... Not one of the girls spoke a single word that Robin is behind all this!!

Speaking now would make the guards lead them to the prison as witnesses, he would completely understand if one of the talked, in fact he started hoping that one of them!

but they still kept their mouths shut... why were they doing this for him?

Those little girls... what kind of determination do they have?!

He finally made up his mind and looked at Laurie who was still crying out loud and sent her through the Thought conveying Technique, "I'm sorry, I swear that I will not allow your sacrifice to go to waste."

Laurie stopped crying upon hearing the message and looked up at the sky and muttered in a low voice as two lines of tears were still flowing, "Ancestors... I will see you soon, I hope you all are... proud of Laurie."

At this moment, she felt a piece of beast hide settle on her chest and...

*BOOOOOOM*

"AAAAHHHHHHH!!!"

"What was this?! Where did the explosion come from? spread quickly and get who did this!!"

A massive explosion suddenly occurred among the human girls, turning them all into scattered pieces of flesh and blood

And because the chefs and soldiers were all standing next to them for the sake of negotiations, the explosion affected them too, and most of them were killed, except for the head of the restaurant, whose front half had been charred and his stomach was slashed with his guts gushing out, but he remained alive, muttering, "No... my ingredients.. my ingredients is ruined... AAHHH.."

Robin ignored him, ignoring the individuals who started moving to shut off the entire area to catch him

And kept his eyes on a separated head that was slowly being devoured by the fire, it was Laurie's.

His features were still plain as if he was looking at something that does not concern him...

But only he and the heavens know that the flames on Laurie's head were nothing compared to the anger that started eating up his heart.

After about 20 seconds he took a step back and silently merged with the darkness in the alley...

After a few hours -- a hundred miles away from the city

"Dammit.. we had to stay inside the city until they caught that guy!!" One of the three remaining giants spoke as he was guiding the carriage that have the remaining prisoners.

"Shhh!! Just follow the orders, you want the Special Forces envoys to kill us instead?! Don't worry, we are safe under their protection and-- WHOAAAA!!" The giant's words suddenly stopped in his throat and screamed

"khhhgghh....." Only two feet away from the giant, a hanged body fell from the tree and started swinging

It was the body old woman covered with leaves and tree branches, with a cut-off leg

Her thigh bone and flesh were showing terribly, and her face and body showed signs of severe burns and torture

But she wasn't dead yet... she was dying right now in front of them.

She is the prisoner who was released after she reported Laurie!!

"Who is here?! Who is there?! Go away! Leave us, or you will die!!" One of the three giants shouted, and the other two came down and stood by him trying to protect each other, but their joints were visibly trembling.

*crack*

The sound of a broken branch on their left attracted the attention of the three, and they found a person covered in blood and injuries slowly emerging from behind a tree, holding in his hand a pointy, covered in blood leg bone...

Finally, Robin looked up with his eyelashes dripping with blood, and said in a rough voice, "Where are you going..? Did you forget about me? tsk tsk~ that is not a good way to treat your employees..."

Chapter 242 I, ROBIN BURTON!!

"Fishbones! What are you doing here? ...is that the old lady's leg bone in your hand?!" So many questions flooded the heads of the three giants as they looked at Robin, This *cribble* was the last person they expected to see here!

"Fishbones... FISH DAMN BONES!! Did you like the name? Is it so funny? Come... We will laugh together today, and because your brothers died easy deaths, you will have their share of laughter add to yours!!" Robin spoke in annoyance and slowly started walking towards them, extreme rage visible all over his features

"Tch~ I didn't know you had such a big mouth, Fishbones, but you came just in time." The strongest of the three giants spoke and then poked the Giant to his left, "Bring him and put him in the cage with the rest, we can make up for all our losses as long as he's with us."

"Me?" The Giant was surprised and took a step to the side and asked, he has to go to get him alone..?

Doesn't he see blood on his body? Did he not hear the way he spoke? what about the f*cking bone in his hand!!

"Go ahead already!! Don't tell me you're afraid of Fshbonesahaha"

Eventually, the giant spat on the ground, knowing that he could not escape this, then he pulled out his dagger and started walking toward Robin, "lay on your belly and put your hand above your head and you won't get hurt, or else I will -- Brgghh agghhrr...?!"

In a blink of an eye, he saw Robin waving his hand in a slashing motion, after that no word came out of his mouth no matter how hard he tried

After about a second, he began to feel something warm coming down his chest, so he put his hand to feel it, and he found a red sticky liquid covering his neck and chest like a waterfall.

His neck has been cut.

"Agghh AGGGHHH!!!" The Giant slumped back, got down on both knees, and clasped both hands on his throat, the wound wasn't so deep as to kill him outright but the loss of blood would do the trick if it kept flowing like that!

,m "you!!!" The other two giants took a step back in their freight, "What magic do you use?!"

Robin did not answer, his gaze seemed unfocused as he kept walking forward, it wasn't even evident if he can see or not from all the blood on his face and eyelashes

Soon he reached the giant who was holding his throat in a kneeling position, and he made another wave with his hand

Another wind blade came out towards the giant's stomach, just like the wound on his neck this one also made a horizontal cut just under his abdomen this time, cutting his skin, and flesh as blood began to spray out of it, " ARGGGHHHH!!!"

The giant fell to his side and lowered one of his two hands to try to shut the cut on his stomach

As he was on the doorstep of death, Robin ignored him and continued his way toward the other two, not even sparing him a glance

At this point, it was clear that Robin had made the two cuts in this very way in order to prolong the time of death

*Gulp*

The two giants took a few more steps back with their eyes on Robin's hand, trying to figure out where the attack would come from!

"You... if I were you, I'd run away now! You can't even imagine what's going on around us right now, this is a tip for you because you were one of our crew!" One of the two giants spoke tremblingly, still looking around every now and then

A stiff smile appeared on Robin's face when he heard this, "You think all these wounds and blood on my body happened from fighting against the old woman, you idiot?"

"You mean..?" asked the giant, and terror began to fill his heart

"Four individuals wearing black cloaks, three of them are at the pinnacle of the Knight's Realm and the fourth is a Saint at the elementary levels, right?" Robin spoke confidently

The Giant did not understand what knights and Saints meant, but talking about the four in black cloaks was enough to make the Giant forget to breathe!

"The four of them were scattered in a circle of 300 meters around you, finding them and eliminating them silently was not easy, they are masters of stealth and do not fall easily... it took more than three hours to kill the last of them

But it is clear from your words that you were aware of their existence..? Is this a plan to catch me? They did the same with the girls... hah, those black cloaks guys are all extremely strong and smart, who are they exactly? Why would they help a scum with a moving circus like you?" asked Robin, raising an eyebrow, still advancing.

"You don't know what you got yourself into, you idiot! Hahaha, the black cloaks, they will chase you to the ends of the world until they take your head! unless.. unless you leave now! yes.. leave now towards the north and we will tell them that whoever did it head towards the south!" The giant spoke quickly as if he had found a straw to hang on...

It became clear that Robin was the one who schemed the killing of their mighty boss!

"I have another offer, what about I kill you all here? This will better hide my identity, right?" When Robin said the last word, he disappeared from the eyes of the giants

"AAAAHHHHHHHHH.. PFFFTT!!" When he reappeared, he was standing behind one of the giants with his sharp leg bone sticking out of his chest.

When his teammate saw this, terror filled his heart, instead of trying to attack Robin that was just a step away from him, he turned and put all his might at his feet, ready to leap with all his might to escape, this is not a fight he could engage in!

*swoosh*

"AAHHHHHHH"! The giant cried out with all his might after feeling terrible pain in his lower half, when he looked down he found that both of his legs had been cut off at the knee by a wind blade talisman, "Ahhh... AAhhhhh... Ahhh"

"Fishbones huh... COME ON! TELL ME WHO IS FISHBONES!!" Robin shouted, a crazed look took over his face

Before the Third giant realizes what is happening around him, he felt someone pulling him by the hair, "AAHHH... let me go... what more do you want... leave me alone!!"

A frightening scene...

The prisoners watched Robin in horror as he pulled the two giants and threw them over the one he slaughtered a moment ago.

Then he just stood there, looking at the three of them...

One was on his way to death from losing blood, the other was stabbed in his lung and still trying to breathe, and the third was losing consciousness from pain and blood loss from his feet...

Even if he left them there they would either die or live a life worse than death!

However... This didn't bring him any joy, his mood has only got worse.

Pictures of Laurie's cut-off, melting head kept showing in front of his eyes...

BECAUSE OF THOSE BASTARDS... because of him... she...

After a few seconds, he snapped and started shouting at the top of his lungs, "AAAAHHHHHH!! I, Robin Burton, who brought kingdoms to their knees, being shown like a f*cking clown in a circus? Me? I, Robin Burton, was humiliated by scum like you?! MEEE?!"

Then he waved his hand and a black flame went out on the three of them...

"AAARGGGHHHHHHHHHH!!!"

"AAHHHH! NOO! Please kill me.. KILL ME..!! AHAA HAAA" one of the three started crying, but his tears were evaporated as soon as they were formed

"Don't stand like that! AAHHH!!! You animal... KILL ME, YOU COWARD!!!"

Even they didn't know they were screaming because of the severity of the pain from the fire, or because of the deadly aura that was suffocating them to the extreme

The giant's tough body was showing great benefit now, as the burning rate was very slow, Robin also made the temperature as low as it can be on purpose...

After a few minutes, before the three could finally have their rest and die, he answered the call of the three giants and did not stand still.

He raised his hand towards the three of them and green energy began to descend upon them, it was life energy.

Their wounds began to heal quickly... and then burned again.

"AAAAAAHHHHHHHHHHH!!!"

"AAAAAAAHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHH!!!!!!!"

after an hour----

Finally, the strongest of them breathed his last, not because of the physical damage.. but because his mind died from the severity of the pain

The cries of pain did not stop for a moment during the hour...

Neither did Robin take his eyes off the three of them for a single moment.

If any younger version of Robin saw his crazy cold look now, he would be terrified to death...

Do the three deserve this horrific death? Maybe.. maybe not... but it doesn't matter.

In his view, their crime could not be compensated for, even with a thousand deaths like this.

Chapter 243 Chase

Robin continued to look at the lump of ashes in front of him for another hour with an emotionless face...

He only had one thought in mind, one wish... he wished that they would be raised again from the dead, just to bring them to this state again.

In the end, he moved his hand and a gust of wind scattered the ashes away...

Only a few metallic objects they were carrying remained in their place

As for hair, bones, flesh, and blood... everything evaporated or scattered as if they had never been there to begin with.

Then he looked back...

"Keeeh!!"

The prisoners who were still sober hit their feet on the cage floor and rushed back, their backs and heads hit the bars and began to bleed

Even those who fainted opened their eyes at the sight of Robin coming toward them, their hearts stopped for seconds...

They were still partially absent minded after the horror they saw, and the wails they heard for the last hour

Robin turned his body and started walking toward them, then stopped between him and the cage a few steps, "Do you think someone like me can't kill you right now?"

The prisoners looked at each other in fear, then one of them replied, "Yes... yes, you can...but please--"

"Shhh!" Robin raised his hand and silenced the prisoner, then lowered it behind his back, "You want me to release you? Suppose I released you now and the black cloaks captured you and forced you to confess who the killer was, what would I use then? Maybe I should just kill you now..."

"I... I tell them you about you? What could the black cloaks guys do to me more than you did to those three? Please... let us go... I swear I will kill myself if I was useless enough to get caught again!"

"I also swear that I will kill myself if the black robes catch me!!"

" Me too---"

Robin did not add another word, he used the major law of the wind to carry the keys from the place and threw them inside the cage .. Then he disappeared.

It would be more useful if the investigations said that the prisoners had disappeared from the scene of the accident, This would greatly expand the search for them to include a rival circus, bandits, or a former prisoner who wants revenge...

And after what he just did, this was his way to cure his soul... he can't let the remaining part of his humanity be lost, not yet.

3 days later-- on a mountain peak-- tens of miles from the scene of the killing of the three giants

"Hoo...." Robin let out a long exhale, he finally broke through to level 18!

Then he opened his eyes and looked down, dozens of miles away in front of him another city of the giants, one that matches the cities he had seen earlier in his *visits*

High wooden walls, people dressed in beast hides, and slave politics were still prevalent here even if they had taken on another, more cruel form...

'Isn't this planet supposed to be hundreds of thousands of years ahead of my own? Why are the people here still behaving so primitively?' thought Robin

Not to mention the Four Mythical Empires that he only heard about from the legends, The understructure he sees now can't even be compared to the Black Sun Kingdom!

Maybe because of the wars that keep them where they are? But he hadn't seen any wars or battles since he arrived, he hadn't even noticed the anxiety among the giants yet or heard a word from someone on the street about a possible battle

This place lives in peace!

While Robin was trying to solve the dilemma in front of him, his spiritual sense picked up something and quickly looked to his left

"Tch..." Robin's face turned for the worse and then disappeared into the shadows under his feet...

This wasn't the first time this had happened, Robin could already break through to level 18 the next day after he killed the three giants, but every time he was about to break through, his soul sense would pick up individuals coming towards him, and he had to stop and leave.

The only thing that helped him escape was actually sensing them coming from long distances...

If whoever coming managed to catch Robin by surprise it would be all over, and he knows that...

So far, Robin is still using the Minor laws of gravity and his speed is still very limited!

But how do they reach him every time!?

Two more days later -- in a wooded valley

*baa baa baa*

7 giants wearing black cloaks covering their bodies and heads descended and started looking around

The person standing in front of them took an insect that looked like a beetle out of his pocket, put it on his palm, and began to move it around

But the insect did not show any reaction...

"That mouse did it again..."

"Damn it! Every time we get closer to him the smell disappears completely, and when it reappears, it would be a few miles away."

"How long will this ridiculous game last?"

The giants standing behind him started grumbling

Instead of doing the things they love they were caught up in an endless chase that lasted for 5 days without any real rest!

"You will keep going until we find him! go... you can rest a bit until the beetle catches his scent again, none of you will go home if we don't bring back that peculiar human with us!"

"tsk~ when we find that little shit..."

The seven black cloaks giants began to lie on tree trunks and look for something to eat like every time, but they did not know that this time is not the same time...

Robin was just meters away from them this time, hiding in the shade of a tree, his eyes wide open in fright when he heard *that peculiar human?!*

The black cloaks are here for him and that's obvious, but they determined that they are actually tracking a human? how?!

Did that strange insect tell them...? How did they get his scent in the first place?!

A million questions ran through Robin's head, but the answer was not important...

What is important now is that these people will not stop chasing him as long as he is alive, and the longer the chase lasts, the greater the number of pursuers and the possibility of catching him...

Three days ago, there were only four coming after him, but today they are seven.

There is no longer any hope to escape, and it appears that there weren't any from the beginning...

He has to first kill them and crushes that beetle, then search for answers to his questions!

Robin fully opened his eye of the Truth and fixed his gaze upon them, trying to gather as much information as possible about his opponents before the battle began

Four at the top of the knighthood realm... another one is a low-level saint... the sixth is a middle-level saint

And their leader, the one who holds the beetle... is a top-level saint!!

Chapter 244 Talisman Rain

"Tsk~ his disappearance took so long to this time, Where did that human go?" The high-ranking Saint moved the beetle left and right hoping it would pick up something, but it was no use

"Maybe he sensed that we easily caught up with him each time and decided to increase the distance between us before he could nullify whatever he is doing, but little did he know that this is useless! Hahaha, he will never run away from the Emerald-Nosed Beetle!" Another laughed and took a bite of a piece of fruit

Although they are all elite in their field, their positions were completely relaxed, some of them started preparing firewood to grill something, and some even closed their eyes and fell asleep...

It seemed as if they were going on a trip!

But this is understandable, for 5 days this happened again and again!

Every time they are close Robin uses Darkness Heavenly Law Perfect Technique to hide his scent, and they will have to wait until he gets tired and appear again many miles away... and today doesn't seem any different!

"Hey! what are you all doing? Our target is dangerous, stop messing around!" The squad leader shouted as he put the beetle in his pocket again

"Haha, you overestimate him too much, boss, he is just a peculiar human, how strong can he be? sooner or later we will--"

*BOOOOOOM*

"AAAAHHHHHHH!"

A huge explosion ripped through the back of the low-level saint before he could finish speaking and sent him flying into the air more than 30 meters away from his original spot

*SWOOOOSH*

At the same time a few more talismans flew around, two talismans of them headed toward the middle-level saint!

He was still sleeping on a tree trunk with closed eyes, he didn't have the time to even open his eyes after hearing his brothers' shout

And just before the two talismans landed on him, they both turned into massive fireballs

Finally, the middle-level Saint felt the danger after hearing the scream from his brother and felt the extensive heat of fireballs coming at him finally, he opened his eyes, and was greeted by two giant flame balls coming toward him!

Without thinking he punched one of the two fireballs with his a fist covered with tiny thunderbolts, and instantly that fireball vanished into thin air but the other one found its target, and the giant's body turned into a living torch...

"AAAHHHHHHH! DAMMIT!! ARGHHH!!!!!"

As for the rest of the talismans, they all headed towards their top-levelled Saint Chief from different directions

4 talismans all transformed at the same time, including two level 25 fireball talismans and two level 25 wind blade talismans.

"Hmmm?" The Top-leveled Saint furrowed his eyebrows but did not panic, he quickly pulled the war hammer hanging on his back and in an instant was enveloped in thunderbolts and with a *whoosh*

*boom boom clack clack*

He circled the war hammer at the four attacks, destroying them all before coming near!

*baa*

Just at this moment, the low-leveled Saint landed on the ground 30 meters from his original spot...

Everything happened at the same instant that the knights couldn't show any reflex other than staring around them, knowing fully that if one of those attacks was coming for them they would surely be dead

"AAAAHHHHHH!! Get out here! Come out if you dare!!!" After the mid-level Saint extinguished the fire on him he started shouting,

The fireball's attack was surprising and extremely powerful, his entire body filled with burns, especially the front half that had received the full shock was completely charred...

But it wasn't enough to take him out, he was still strong enough to fight.

As for the low-leveled saint, he was done for...

He was still breathing, hardly, but his back was utterly destroyed

The four knights went to help the low-leveled Saint after his spine had exploded from the intensity of the explosion

They placed him in their midst to protect him, standing ready in a tight and closed circle to fend off any possible attack against their fallen brother.

The atmosphere became extremely heavy...

Everyone started looking around them in readiness and even some freight...

"Beautiful and tightly closed defensive circuit... But against someone who uses explosions as a weapon? Do you think I won't blow up the five of you just if I wanted, you idiots?" Finally, a voice echoes from behind the trees

The top-leveled Saint narrowed his eyebrows even more when he heard it, the voice didn't come from a specific direction but seemed as if the forest itself was speaking!

The knights started looking at each other out of the corners of their eyes, frightened, and they unconsciously took a few steps forward, widening the circle a little bit.

"Do you know the consequences of what you just did? Do you know who we are?!" the middle-ranked Saint yelled in anger

"Consequences.. let me think, are they going to send elite squad after me to hunt and kill me? Oh wait, this is already happening now!!" The voice echoed again, "Give me one reason why I shouldn't exterminate you all right now."

Everyone had fearful and anxious looks in their eyes, Robin could easily hear their racing heart and high breathing... almost everyone.

Their boss didn't react at all...

His face is still not visible under the cloak, but his body language and bodily functions are completely stable, and it seems as if he... felt some reassurance from Robin's words?

'Dammit..' Robin thought to himself when he saw this and grabbed three talismans firmly in his hand... They were the last talismans he had left.

That person with a wave of his war hammer destroyed a sudden attack of four Talismans from the four sides, he was definitely not an ordinary top-ranking Saint...

Whether his strength level, his martial techniques, or the height of his observation, he was undoubtedly the strongest person Robin had to face.

It reminds him a little of standing before Duke Donald Evren that day...

His goal of launching that intense attack and then speaking intimidating words was to scare that top-leveled saint

Robin hoped that he would promise him to retreat and give him the beetle in exchange for their life, but he didn't seem to be affected at all...

"You are not going to scare anyone with your words, Show your everything if you want to get rid of us." The top-leveled Saint spoke confidently Robin could even see a slight smile..?

"Chief..!!" The knights quickly looked at him as if they were begging, even the mid-level Saint looked with the side of his eyes to try to understand what his Chief wanted to achieve... they were clearly on the weaker side here!

Robin's eyes widened when he heard the chief's words, that was the worst and last thing he was prepared to hear.

He isn't Theo, He didn't build his Pillars with Darkness, he can't activate Darkness Heavenly Law for long periods, It was already good that he can use it!!

If he chose the easy way and runs away now, no matter how far he goes or how much he remains in hiding, he will have to stop Darkness Heavenly Law Cultivation Technique to rest, and then he will find other pursuers at his ass.

He wouldn't see a single good day in this world if he didn't kill that damn beetle with the top-leveled saint!!

"...Sigh~" Robin let out a long sigh as if he had given in to his fate

Then he jumped off the tree to stand in front of one of the four knights and spoke, "You don't deserve another talisman to be wasted on you, I and this fist are enough to kill a bunch of bastards like you!"

Chapter 245 FIGHT!!

"Appearing in front of us now... it was the last mistake you will do in this life!" One of the knights spoke in a tone filled with hatred, then broke the defensive formation and charged toward Robin holding his spear with all his might, while the rest remained in their places in anticipation of another attack from the guy who sent those fire balls!

Physical strength is everything in this world, and with physical strength as none existence as this peculiar human, he certainly didn't launch these attacks himself, He has to have a partner or some external methods that he used...

This is the best chance to get rid of him before focusing on whoever attacked them just now, but they still have to be careful of what is around them.. the peculiar human wouldn't have shown himself like that if he didn't have a plan!

"Come on!" When the knight reached an appropriate distance, he stabbed with all his might toward Robin's head, wanting to kill him and get back to the defensive circle as fast as possible

Seeing the tip of the spear approaching, Robin used the Major Heavenly Law of wind and quickly moved a step to the side, avoiding an attack, and then lunged forward using one of the minor laws of gravity, Reverse Repulsion.

*BAAA*

The ground under Robin's feet shattered as he sent himself like an arrow toward his opponent

The knight tried to track Robin's movement to make a counterattack, but he was simply too fast to follow with his eyes, regardless of a counterattack!

"Puff!" The next thing the Giant sensed was a blood cannon shooting from his own mouth

When at last he looked down he found Robin's arm all the way to his was planted in his chest...

A blade of wind and energy strengthened fingers opened the way for Robin's arm all the way to the giant heart

"My end has come... on the hands of a... Damn Mouse...?!" The giant knew right away that his heart had been crushed, but seeing his killer who weighed less than the size of his arm, simply was more painful and humiliating than death itself!!

"You are dead but you are still trying to provoke me?" Robin's features turned irritated when he heard the word Mouse, "You have succeeded!"

"AAAAHHHHHHHHH~!!!!!" The knight shouted loudly for a second before suddenly falling silent

*baa*

Robin finally pulled his arm that was blazing with white flames from the giant's chest and allowed his corpse to fall backward, allowing the rest of the giants to see the large charred hole in the center of his chest.

Then, taking two more steps, he held the giant spear in an attacking pose and spoke softly, "Who's next?"

"YOU LITTLE...!!!" The mid-leveled Saint's anger reached its peak at this point, so he took two steps toward Robin but stopped suddenly as if he remembered something, and started looking around in fear and tension...

Afraid if he gets distracted, another fireball will come to him from somewhere...

His courage got burned alongside his face and chest when that fireball hit him.

The Top-levelled saint still hasn't made a move, but his eyes trembled a little when he saw the state of his subordinate's chest wound... it was clearly burnt with an extremely hot flames

"Kill him... don't care... about me..." the low-level Saint muttered to the three knights standing around him.

"But you..." One of them spoke hesitantly, the low-level Saint status was far behind the assessment off *no longer able to fight*

He is still alive but all the skin and flesh on his back is gone, as he is lying flat on his stomach now they can easily see his entire spine, and can see his muscle tissues moving in his chest due to his weak heartbeat!

"I told you... go..!! avenge.. me.." The low-level saint dug his nails into the ground and spoke in exasperation.

*boom boom boom*

Three small white fireballs suddenly shot toward the Three knights but the distance was far enough for them to prepare, so they were able to stop them with relative ease.

"Attack or defend it doesn't matter, no one's going to get out of here alive anyway..." Robin said confidently, showing signs of preparing to attack seriously this time.

The three made up their minds and nodded at each other, two of them drew heavy swords and the other raised his spear and began to cautiously advance toward Robin.

"HEEEYAAAAAA!" the two giants wielding their hundreds of kilograms heavy swords shouted and jumped high in the air

Robin narrowed his eyes, If any of those swords indirectly hits him, he's dead for sure!

*foooo* Before the two giants reached the ground, Robin disappeared into the shadows under his feet

*BAAAAA*

The destruction caused by the two heavy swords was enormous, the ground cracked for tens of meters in all directions, but the two giants did not stop there.

They jumped again and put a space between each other this time, then fell back to the ground with even more force!

*BAAAAAAAAAAAA*

Huge cracks began to spread rapidly in all directions, and only ten meters away from one of the giants, Robin appeared again, but this time he had already lost the calm on his face, there were signs of pain and there were traces of blood running down his mouth.

That heavy sword came pretty close to him this time and forced him to reappear, giving him internal injuries

*swoosh*

But he did not find time to rest for a second, the moment he reappeared, he saw the tip of a spear huge enough to be a pillar coming at him

The distance between the tip of a spear and his face was less than two inches

*Shaaa* Once again he activated the law of the wind and the spear passed by his head, cutting a few strands of hair and leaving a deep cut on his right cheek

But quickly regained his focus and looked towards the location of the spear holder's heart, putting all his strength in his foot, he rushed forward again using the Minor Heavenly Law Reverse Repulsion, ready to cut through the spear holder's chest like he previously did however...

*Slaaaash*

With the Minor Heavenly Law of Sound, Robin caught the sound of something piercing the air and descending on his head from the left side, without thinking he stopped his plan midway, activated the law of Reverse Repulsion again, and dashed toward the right at full speed

*BAAA*

*BOOOOM*

A split second After Robin hitting the ground and breaking it with the Reverse Repulsion, a heavy sword descended where he had previously stood, making a huge pit

But it wasn't over... as Robin rushed into the air to escape, he strengthened the spear with the Reverse Repulsion Minor Heavenly Law and with the Major Heavenly Law of Wind and shot it back to where he previously stood without even aiming.

*soooooow*

When the heavy sword owner lifted his face up to see where Robin had gone, he found a spear tip coming towards the middle of his forehead, but unfortunately, he didn't have the Wind Law or Reverse Repulsion like Robin to dodge...

*SNNNN*

The speed of the spear was faster than the speed of his thought, before the knight realized what had happened, his brain was fixed to a tree behind him with a huge spear, while his body fell backward to the ground...

Chapter 246 Life Or Death

"B-...Brother!!!" The spear-carrying knight shouted as he looked at his headless brother's corpse right in front of him

His knees began to tremble a little when he realized how close death was to him this time... If the spear was to the left by just one foot, it would have split the side of his head!

Finally, Robin landed a few tens of meters away and started panting heavily, trying to take advantage of the overthinking spear holder and rest a little, but...

"HEYAAAAAAA." The other owner of the heavy sword rushed towards him with full force, his sword stretched out in front of him horizontally in a stabbing position this time.

'*Reverse Repulsion!!' Robin shouted in his head and made a slamming motion with his hand in the air like a hammer, and gravitational waves began to form and descend above the point he wanted, above the tip of the sword.

The next thing the heavy sword knight felt was that the weight of his sword had doubled a few times!

Within milliseconds, the tip of the sword began to fall down little by little, until *boooooof*, it touched the ground and got completely engulfed in it.

'I have to let go of the sword!' The knight thought when he sensed how heavy it was and had already let go of the handle, but it was too late, "KKHHHH!!!"

When the sword began to plunge into the ground, Robin had already begun to lunge at him and managed to grab the giant's neck tightly with his right fist.

"AGGHAAAAA!!!" The knight ignored the pain from squeezing his throat and waved his right fist with all his might toward Robin's belly, intending on breaking him in half.

*baaa*

*crack*

The punch went straight but only managed to find Robin's left arm blocking the way

But the punch had too much power behind it, it broke Robin's left arm and sent him flying toward the right like an arrow!

The giant was not satisfied with this and began to move his left fist to greet the flying Robin with another punch to destroy him completely this time, but, "AAAAAHHHHHHHHH!!!"

A white flame ignited on his neck and quickly spread to his head, in the blink of an eye transforming him into what looked like a giant torch!

As for Robin, he fell twenty meters away from the force of the giant's punch, holding his left arm with his right hand, with intense pain appearing on his face.

"Haa... Haa... Haa..." Robin gasped for air in a loud voice, while his eyes were still roaming around the last spear knight, the angry giant in the middle of the Sainthood Realm, and finally, the quiet giant at the top of the Saint Realm who he still couldn't read his thoughts...

Killing the three knights required more effort and sacrifices than he expected, he wanted to finish them quickly and cleanly as he did with the three giants from the caravan so that he could devote himself to dealing with the Saints ...

But it turned out that they were dreams

Even at his current level as a level 18 knight, he could barely match their immense speed and physical strength using his energy without leaving reserves, and he has already used most of his fighting techniques and strategies!!

If he had tried to save some energy or some skills for later, he would have died a few times already

And above all that, his left arm has now become useless with it broken even after he had pumped most of his remaining energy there to protect it!

His reserve of energy in general has almost completely depleted...

Using his Absolute energy absorption techniques, he could replenish his energy reserves in minutes if he entered a meditation mode, but who would give him those minutes in a situation like this?

"You... you deserve to be cut into a million pieces!!" Finally, the spear knight came out of his shock at the sight of his friend's head melting and began to move toward Robin slowly

Rotating his spear over his head with extreme speed, the wind coming from it started to shake the branches of trees around them

*vrooom*

"Haa.. haa... haa..." Robin continued looking at the incoming knight with half-closed eyes and profuse sweat, evidently, the knight was preparing for some sort of final attack.

Then he slowly stood up, let go of his left hand, and raised his right hand on which white flames began to burn silently, and shouted: "COME!! I will send you after your brothers."

"HEEEYAAAAAAA!!!" Finally, the knight let out a loud shout, then lunged forward towards Robin at extreme speed!

*Shit!* Robin thought, the knight's rush was so fast that even if he used the Reverse Repulsion Minor Heavenly Law, he wouldn't be able to slow down that spear in time.

He used all his remaining energy and activated the Reverse Repulsion Minor Heavenly Law on his own right waist and used the wind law there as well, managing to dodge the spear tip by an inch, but giving himself a broken rib in the process.

"It's time to end this!" When he thought the worst was over, Robin heard this shout as he was still in midair, when he moved his pupils to see where it came from, he felt the hair of his entire body stand up in fright.

He saw the mid-level Saint in a punching pose a few meters away from him.

'I'm dead..!' Robin thought as the image of the mid-level saint reflected in his Pupil and was getting bigger quickly, less than a meter remains between them...

less than a meter remains until certain death.

He no longer had any energy to dodge, even if he had any energy, he wouldn't have been able to dodge this attack while still hanging in mid-air.

He started to close his eyes... It's all over.

But at this moment, Robin's Pupils reflected something else on them, a crimson-colored creature darting from the side like an arrow toward the mid-level Saint.

*Taaakh*

"AAAAHHHHHHHHHH!!!"

Robin finally fell to the ground safely and quickly stood up looking to his right at the source of the scream, and found the back of the demon...

He was naturally standing still, but there was a giant lying horizontally above his head... a mid level Saint

The demon's two spiral horns pierced through the middle-level Saint's heart and stomach and went all the way through his back.

*Grip* Seeing this, the top-leveled Saint clenched his fist on the war hammer like he was about to squeeze it, and his eyes were opened on both ends, but he still didn't move...

*baaaa*

*Step... Step...*

The demon casually throw away the mid-level saint's corpse from above his head as if it were a piece of trash, and began walking toward the spear-carrying knight.

"D-- Demon... Why is a demon helping a human? What is going on here? Chief, help me please I-- AAHHH!!" The spear knight didn't finish, as the demon suddenly charged forward and grabbed his neck without much resistance

*munch*

With one bite, the demon gnawed a large piece of his neck, then threw his corpse aside...

Chapter 247 Unexpected Question

"Haa... Haa... Haa..." Robin quickly caught his breath as he kneeled with both knees and hands on the ground.

He hadn't eaten anything good in days and not a single drop of natural energy remained in his body, the fact that he was still awake in itself is telling about his sharp mental strength

With whatever strength left in his tired body, he left his head and looked with half-open eyes at the demon and sent out using the Thought Conveying Technique, "You... what are you doing here? Didn't I tell you to go home?!"

In fact, this wasn't the first time he had come into contact with the demon since the escape that day, but what just happened was definitely not planned.

Robin gave him orders that day to leave and go wherever he wanted, but he still followed him for a whole day after that, Robin spotted him twice and shouted at him to leave and return to his family... and indeed the demon disappeared after the second encounter

But thinking about it.. the first time he spotted him, he was 70 meters away from him, and the next time there were 180 meters between them...

It is now clear that he kept retreating until he moved away from Robin's soul sense range and kept this distance between them until today!

'How is this a stupid race? that dedication and excellent implementation are fascinating...' Robin thought to himself

...The demon tilted his head down when Robin's message reached him, then turned around and walked back towards Robin.

On the way, he stepped on the head of the low-level saint, leveling it with the ground, and then continued until he reached Robin and stood beside him in a ready-to-fight position.

"Haa... Haa... Hooo." Robin finally managed to calm his heartbeat and rapid breathing, and then with great difficulty he managed to get back on his feet... looking at the top-leveled saint Robin's attention didn't leave that person from start to finish...

He didn't move a single step, and he didn't seem to be preparing for any surprise attack like the mid-level saint did, nor did he appear to be standing there to defend himself either.

His mates were killed in front of him in the ugliest of ways, but he didn't seem to care, he just watched every move, big or small, silently as if he was thinking of something...

Robin didn't know what that person was thinking, but he is an enemy and someone must die now...

Or at least he has to kill that insect with him, otherwise, he will be a dead man himself even if he managed to escape now somehow

" Sigh~" He only remained in this strange world for less than a month, but he had already put one leg on the threshold of death several times, and this might be the end of the journey before it even began!

Robin finally reached into his pocket and took out a level 25 fireball talisman, then desperately shouted, "There is nothing else to watch, no one else to die for your amusement, there is only the two of us... COME ON!!"

The Giant lifted his war hammer off the ground and placed it on his shoulder, then spoke in a calm tone, "You are too quick to fight... How many blows of this hammer can you handle before I turn you and that red doll of yours into mashed potatoes? Are you in a hurry to try it? well, I'm in no hurry myself... What do you think of a quick little chat? Do have something You want to ask me about?"

"...Huh?!" Robin was extremely surprised by the Giant's words and calmness, but he did not want to miss that opportunity, so he activated The Absolute Stone Energy Cultivation Technique, and as the energy began to flow to his feet profusely, he looked at the giant and asked, "Who are you exactly...?"

The Giant smiled as he sensed the energy flowing from the ground to Robin's feet, but he ignored the matter and replied, "We are the internal peacekeepers' force of the Lightning Tribe, you could say we are special forces whose mission is to search for and eliminate the major dangers to our way of life inside our borders."

"Special forces..? What did I do for you to chase after me?!" Robin asked in astonishment, if these forces are of the same stature as the Fire legion back home, they are certainly not free to the point of taking the case of the murder of members of a circus!!

"Unfortunately for you, one of those whom you killed was a former member of the internal peacekeeping force, he resigned due to several internal injuries and freed himself to move around in that little circus of his. Naturally, we have to avenge the death of our colleague, and the task became more important after you killed four more of our men." The giant replied softly

His answer made Robin furrow his eyebrows, "Why are you so sure it was me? ..and how did that insect catch my scent..?"

"Oh, you saw the beetle too? for how long have you been around us? but That would make it easier to explain... These bugs can pick up a single scent and trace its source as long as the source is less than a hundred miles away..."

Several bugs were released where you killed our four peacekeepers and the three circus workers, and we tracked down the owners of every scent that was there that day and fled, later on, we found out that they belong to the prisoners of the circus

But there was something strange... Whenever we caught one of the fleeing prisoners, he would kill himself when we started interrogating him and asking him who the attacker was.

It seemed like they were terrified of something and that suicide was better for them than talking... This continued until we caught one of them and he muttered these words in a trembling voice * Fishbones.. that damn peculiar human.. he is.. terrifying..* Then he acted like the rest of his mates and committed suicide.

And here we are... I have been asked to join the team searching for you and make sure to take your head Mr. peculiar human Fishbones, you have been placed at the top of the wanted list, and the peacekeepers' targets always die without exception."

"I don't like... that term..." The expression of anger appeared on Robin when he heard the term Fishbones again, and he inserted the energy that he managed to draw during these minutes into the talisman in his hand, and it became ready to launch at any second, the demon next to him also opened his mouth and began to growl, ready to rush forward as well

"Hold on, hold on!!" The Giant raised his left hand and beckoned to Robin to calm down, "This isn't fair, You asked me and I answered honestly, should I not have a few questions too?"

Robin was surprised by his words, but replied, "Ask.."

Every second increase in this conversation gives him more opportunity to regain his strength and think of strategies.

"...You are not from this world, who are you?" asked the giant directly

Chapter 248 Or Else

"Who are you? You are not of this world," the giant asked directly

"...Hah?" Robin is stunned by the question, "You.. why would you ask about something like that..?!"

The Giant moved his war hammer and pointed it at Robin, "Who does not know the peacekeepers and our unique clothing? Who does not know our Emerald-Nose Beetle and how they work? Those explosions and strange wind blades with which you attacked us before are far overpowered compared to your actual strength which you have just shown, was it a weapon? Is it that piece of beast hide in your hand? I have never heard of anything similar in my life.

Secondly, your bones and flesh are not suitable for the gravity of our world, you should be dead or at least paralyzed but here you are killing my warriors left and right... I feel a faint aura around you always activated, reflecting the effect of gravity on you to some extent, Is this how you can walk?

I couldn't feel any divine tattoo being activated on your body when you used those fire and gravity attacks, you don't have any don't you? And that energy that enters your body through your feet, no one in this world keeps energy inside their body! and there are quite a few evidences other than those... You are definitely not of this world."

Robin's pupils suddenly narrowed as if they were about to disappear, he felt like he had been hit on the head with a hammer

Then the giant continued, returning the war hammer to rest it on his shoulder, "And damn, You even have a demon protecting you..? If the demon does this on its own, it means that he saw in you what no one else saw, and if you coordinated these attacks with him, this means that you own A way to communicate with him, which is even scarier."

'Even this didn't escape you?' Robin took a step back without realizing it, for the first time since the fight started all of his senses called on him to run!!

The tiny bit of confidence his plan had given him started to scatter... This person was not just a powerful enemy.

"What do you know... about other worlds?" Robin asked hesitantly while his eyes started running all around him trying to find the best way to escape from here with his injuries, but he quickly regretted his question when the answer escaped his mouth

The giant smiled when he saw that Robin did not deny his accusation, "I didn't know that there was a world other than ours, but you are living proof of its existence... Where is that world? Is it above the sky? Under the earth...?"

Robin fell silent and took two more steps back, his half closed eyes were fixed to the east as if he had chosen his escape path.

" wait!" The Giant took a step forward and extended his left hand to stop Robin when he saw this, "Just talk to me a little, what's wrong with that? Do you think I'm trying to waste time or interrogate you? This piece of beast hide and that demon won't protect you from me if I decide to attack now, will you calm down a little?"

Robin returned and looked at the giant, "How can I trust you?"

Much was at stake...

Special forces are chasing him with all their might just because he killed their retired associate, so how will they chase him if they know he's an alien?

The mission he came for will be impossible before it even begins!

"You... Sigh~" The Giant shook his head when he saw this then

*baa*

The giant lowered his war hammer to the ground, it was so heavy that it made a hole under the mere touch, then he took off the cloak that covered his head, and opened his arms at the end of them, "Can we talk man to man now?"

Robin furrowed his eyebrows when he saw his features.

His head is bald from the side, but in the middle of it is long braided hair that reaches his back, His features look as if he were sculpted with perfect craftsmanship, giving him handsome and fierceness at the same time

This guy without a doubt the most handsome giant that Robin has ever seen, and... the youngest of them all?

Robin easily determined his age is not over 40 years!!

"You are so young..." Robin was stunned to see him, this sharp intelligence and level of cultivation strength are simply shocking, and when you combine them with such young age...

This person is definitely an absolute genius around... if not then this planet is terrifying!!

"You look ten years younger than me yourself." the giant chuckled

"Appearances are sometimes deceiving." Robin smiled and took another step back

The Giant moved two steps forward, "HEY! Listen here, I am trying to communicate with you in good faith and as respectfully as I can, DON'T take another step back before our conversation ends, or else... I will have to arrest you first and then we will speak!"

Robin returned to fixing his gaze on the giant, "... You know, I have spent my whole life working so hard to achieve one thing... not to hear the term *or else*. and there would be no exception to that today."

Then he turned and leaped towards the east with all his might!

"WAIT! Damn it." When the Giant realized that screaming was no longer useful, he put his strength to his feet and rushed after Robin.

But after he took a few big steps, he spotted Robin looking back, and there was a strange smile in his eyes...

*BOOOOM*

The ground under the giant's feet suddenly exploded!

The giant was sent several meters up in the air, but his body was still one piece

"ARGHHH!!" The horrible pain in the giant's right foot that the blast focused on made him cry out in pain, but he didn't have time to think about it.

A crimson-colored shadow appeared beside him in mid-air, and like an arrow, he penetrated the giant's right side with his tall spiral horns, and they both rushed toward a nearby giant tree.

One of the two horns stepped right at the pocket where the giant was keeping his emerald-nose beetle!!

"AAHHHHH!! Get away from me..!!" After they both fell to the ground again, the giant grabbed the demon's head and pulled his horns out of his body then with a *BAAA* he gave him a powerful punch in the face, sending it flying, smashing several trees on its way.

Then the giant stood up again and started looking around like a lunatic trying to find a trace of Robin, ignoring his burnt feet and stabbed side!

"FUUUUUUUUUUUUUCKKKKKKKKKK!!!!!" When the giant found no trace of Robin, when he knew that his emerald-nose beetle was dead, he looked up at the sky and roared at the top of his lungs

*baa*

"Eh?"

The giant's roar was interrupted by a slap at the back of his head

The last thing he remembered after that was hearing a *BOOOOM* sound, then he closed his eyes, and fell on his face...

Chapter 249 We Can Talk Now..

"Arghh.. tsk tsk~" Sounds of pain escaped from the giant's mouth, while his eyes started to open, and he unconsciously raised his hand to place it on the place he felt the most pain from, the back of his neck...

"If I were you, I wouldn't do this..." A voice sounded beside the giant suddenly, the giant stopped his hand in the middle of the way and looked at the source, it was Robin...

Then he continued to speak as he grilled what looked like a deer, "I attached a wind blade talisman on the back of your neck, with nothing but a thought I can activate it..."

I know your body is strong, but the blade will cut at least an inch or two before it stops, damaging the spinal cord means death for any living creature no matter how powerful he is, so please, for your own good... put your hand down and leave the talisman alone."

The Giant lowered his hand and started laughing, "Hahaha, cough, cough, coughhhh... that was unnecessary..."

"Just a precaution, your body strength exceeded my expectations by far."

The Giant was silent for a moment and then spoke, "How long have I been unconscious?"

Robin looked at him by the side of his eye, "You have been unconscious for about 7 hours... you received the full power of a Level 25 Fire Explosion Talisman right on the back of your neck, but all it did was give you a good night's sleep!"

"So those strange beast hides are called talismans... anyway, sorry to disappoint your expectations hahaha, I just received the 3rd stage of the Body Strengthening Divine Tattoo, you will need more than this if you want to kill me! ..Cough!!!" The Giant laughed and replied when he heard Robin, but started spitting blood again, then wiped the blood with his hand and continued, "So...? Why am I still alive? You could easily have killed me while I was unconscious."

Robin continued to quietly flip the deer over the fire for a few more seconds before speaking, "First tell me why you didn't attack me with the intention of killing? If you had not acted so unfirmly from the start, my plan would have most likely failed, especially with your overpowered body strength...

Even the demon after it stabbed you, you only punched him to keep him away and you didn't kill him although it was the most reasonable and easiest decision for you... I thought a lot about this but couldn't find an answer."

The Giant followed Robin's gaze till he saw the crimson, spiral-horned creature, his face was bogged slightly inward because of the punch, but he was standing on a tree without a problem, with his head turned toward the Giant, seemingly ready to attack at any moment.

"I told you from the start that I just wanted to talk so how can I kill you? and if I killed your subordinate it wouldn't be a good gesture, would it?... but it looks like you are not ready to trust anyone, I understand that." The giant went back and rested his head on the tree behind him again and looked up at the sky

With a wave of his hand, Robin lowered the fire and then took the back thigh of the deer and threw it toward the giant and spoke, "We can talk now."

The Giant picked up the roasted thigh and looked at Robin in astonishment, "Really? ...That simple? then what the hell was that all about!!"

"I told you I don't like the term *or else*, I love my freedom of choice and I have struggled in my life to keep it that way, I wouldn't make my own choice when you were standing there grasping your hammer, right?" Robin took a bite out of a piece of meat and then continued with his mouth full of food, "Now that you can't move and I can kill you at any moment.. we can understand each other better."

The Giant chuckled for a moment and shook his head, then looked at Robin seriously, "you have a weird way of thinking, but I can understand that.. so..? Who are you...?"

"First tell me your impression... You said I'm from another world, why do you think that? There are so many races in this world, so many giants have seen me, including the head of the caravan who is an old peacekeeper like you, but he didn't think anything like that for a moment ... why are you any different?" Robin said with narrowed eyebrows

The Giant looked down a little and then spoke, "I don't know, maybe my imagination went too far... maybe if I only saw your figure I would have thought you were a new race too as everyone thought, but... in your fight a while ago you used gravity, fire, wind, and darkness, you have A strange way to store energy inside your body, and you also have those strange *talismans* things that make you use power far above your league..."

If you are not someone who came from another world, then you are definitely the third Heaven's Chosen that this world sees!!

What is the probability that the first person of his kind is also a heaven's chosen? The possibility is very, very weak... the only logical explanation I came across is that you are the heaven's chosen from another world and you came to us for a reason!"

Robin furrowed an eyebrow and stopped eating for a moment, "What exactly is a Heaven's Chosen? And there were two of them? I have heard that term before.."

"Hahaha, the fact that you do not know what the Heaven's Chosen confirms that you came from another world my friend, who didn't hear about those two and know their superiority? They are the embodiments of Greatness itself, they are the ones who created the way of life on the planet!"

"Yes yes, what are their specifications? Why do you think I'm their third? tell me more about them"
Robin cut it

"Specifications? They are... like you!!" The giant raised his shoulders

Robin furrowed his eyebrows, what is a Heaven's Chosen? Someone who uses more than one path? But that's normal, any genius should be able to do this...

Chapter 250 Divine Tattoos

More than half an hour had passed since the young giant's last sentence, and no one had opened his mouth after that.

Robin was busy flipping the wood in front of him and took a bite of meat every now and then, thinking about what those heavens chosen are, and what to do with this giant next to him

This was no ordinary giant! he was a top-level saint!!

That's more or less the strength needed to be a Duke in his home...

'What I'm doing..' thought Robin as he still kept himself busy with the campfire in front of him

As for the Demon, he didn't get his face off the young giant, but he was also busy himself!

Every now and then he would take a bit from a corpse under his feet... it was the mid-level saint.

And looking at the view behind him, it shows clearly that this wasn't his first feast today...

His body wounds from his fight against the head of the caravan have almost disappeared after eating the peacekeepers!

His rate of healing after he started eating them stupefied Robin, he even could sense his aura become stronger... after he finished eating the mid-level saint and digesting him it wouldn't be a surprise if he leaped to have a high-level saint strength!!

...while the young giant was busy with his body pain...

Although he did not suffer any fractures or major injuries, except for his charred leg and neck, which suffered multiple high degree burns and a few lacerations in the muscles and ligaments from the severity of the two explosions, and the two holes on his side due to the demon's horns, but they didn't cause serious damage inside.

At this moment Robin broke the silence, "Just now you mentioned something about the third stage body strengthening divine tattoo... Can you explain to me more?"

The young giant pretended that this question was not about a piece of general information known to everyone and that it indicates more that Robin is indeed an alien, and just replied, "... The body strengthening tattoos continuously draw the surrounding energy and pump it into the body of its owner, strengthening his bones and flesh and even skin, it is the basis of The power in this world and everything else in the power system revolves around it, but it needs to be constantly updated...

A first stage body strengthening divine tattoo can be given to a child after he begins to learn to speak. If he was fortunate enough to be born into a wealthy family, it draws relatively small amounts of energy, which have no side effects or requirements, and that energy will slowly increase the strength of the body until it finally reaches the strength level of the four warriors who were in my team and whom you killed...

but after reaching this power the divine tattoo will be useless and won't be able to strengthen the user's body anymore, it can be used to treat flesh wounds faster in the best cases...

When you reach that point you can update the tattoo to get the second stage of it, then you will eventually get a strength equal to mine, or a little less.. Then the tattoo will be useless except for healing, and the same goes for the higher stages as well~"

"This..." Only now did he remember the words of the All-seeing God about the giants, that they do not need to absorb energy...

Is all they need to do is apply the tattoo and let it do its work? Can this be called training anymore? Where are the fatigue, toil, and perseverance in the matter? Where is the role of strong feelings and oaths on revenge and blah blah blah~!!

"Wait, you are saying that you got the third stage from of tattoo..?!" Robin opened his eyes to the last of them when he mentioned this, if the first stage is awarded until the completion of the Knighthood realm and the second stage is equal to the Sainthood realm, then the third degree is... a sage!!

"True, but I got it less than a month ago and it hasn't seen much results yet." The young giant nodded with a proud smile

"A young man your age has attained this kind of strength... what a strange energy system." Robin shook his head in self frustration, the giant doesn't look over forty but has already set his foot in the Sagehood realm?!

"What do you mean by this? Do you think everyone can reach my power at my age? Hahaha," the giant laughed out loud, "Didn't you see my followers just now? They are all several times my age.. we may have the same access to energy and the same divine tattoos, but the inborn talent differs from one person to another in how to benefit from that energy after it enters the body..."

For example, if my body and the body of a normal person had the same amount of energy through the same tattoo, I will benefit within one year which the average person can benefit from in tens of years, I'm an absolute inborn genius in this matter!

Also, the bodies of some people sometimes refuse to upgrade the tattoos because they have reached their maximum potential, if A tattoo was applied forcibly on that kind of body then the body will wear out and die after a short time... The extent of the body's response to change using energy is the most important factor in the matter!"

"Hmm, your interpretation didn't change my mind much, how fast the training system here depends on your birth, if you were born with a body that can't use the energy that enters it optimally, no strong determination would help you, and the sleepless cultivation nights would only make you more sleepy..." Robin gave a sarcastic laugh, this is very boring...

"...I will not argue with you on this." The Young Giant surrendered, this was really out of their control, you get the tattoo and let it do its work, that's it...

"How available are those tattoos? Can anyone get them?" Robin asked again

"more or less... the first three stages of the body strengthening divine tattoos are available to all the tribes of giants, and there are institutions specialized in drawing them within the lands of each tribe, all giants can get the tattoos for the right price!

There are many expensive resources that you need to make the ink needed for the divine tattoos, and the Divine Tattoos artists have a very high position in society and to take part of their time needs a lot of money as well...

The higher the Divine Tattoo level the more precious ink you will need and the more talented Divine Tattoo artist you will need, which will also mean a much higher price...

so, yes... you can get it any time any place, but you need enough money to do so first"

"Wonderful! So the talent you are born with comes first and then how rich you are, if you have both you can get tattoos and go play or do whatever you want while your strength grows on its own, If not you are doomed to stay a poor weakling forever, what a wonderful energy system!!" Robin chuckled sarcastically

"O_0... I won't argue with you on that either."
