

The Truth 361

Chapter 361 Familiar Voice

"Get away from me!"

"Leave this bottle if you want to leave alive!"

TAKHHH

"AAHHH!!"

"No, please Don't---"

The battle in the storeroom continued to ignite little by little until it reached the point of a massacre, and even after that, it continued burning more and more.

There were a lot of people in the restaurant, it's the only restaurant in the city after all...

What that drunkard said about the end of the Future Knights gang may be wrong, but it didn't matter after the situation turned this way...

After seeing the owner of the restaurant being killed in front of them, all of those present in the restaurant right now will now be responsible in front of the gang, and all of them will most likely be made an example of by the gang and get killed in some horrible way, and that will even if they leave now without touching anything!

Either the gang was really killed, which means that the main food resource in the city is doomed... or that the gang is alive and will come after them to kill them.. in both cases, it's a disaster that requires an urgent escape from this city.

Their best chance is to take everything they can carry and then take their families out of town at once, but everyone was thinking the same way, and everyone in this era has gained enough brutality to kill for the slightest reason...

BAA

During the battle between the dozens of individuals, a young man kicked the restaurant door so hard from the outside that he broke it

That young man then entered the restaurant with red eyes and a body full of wounds and drenched in blood, it seemed as if he had just come out of a life-or-death battle with a monster at the bottom of Hell, but despite his state, the killing intent coming from him was still burning fiercely...

But this killing intent didn't last for long...

After that young man entered, he was shocked by the scene in front of him.

Instead of the luxurious and quiet restaurant in his memory, the restaurant in which no one dared to breathe heavily... He found bodies lying on the ground wherever he looked and found the storeroom in which dozens of people were fighting over some bread and wine.

His first astonishment eased the intensity of the killing intent that was filling him, then he began to look around him more slowly.. until he found the owner of the restaurant lying on his stomach and blood flowing from every part of his body, it was clear that he was deader than dead.

"Heh~" The young man gave a long sigh and then gave up his offensive stance, his back, which was straight and ready to fight, bent a little, one of my hands was busy carrying a bag that looked heavy, and the other wrapped it around his stomach to prevent bleeding...

Then he looked next to him, towards the only person he found still sitting next to the door eating his food in peace...

Without warning or words, the youth took two steps and sat in front of that person, and put the bag next to his feet.

munch.. munch.. munch..

The young man continued to look at the face of the person in front of him without saying a word, just watching him for a few seconds as he chewed his food and swallowed it and then raised another piece towards his mouth with his almost dead eyes, even after the young man sat in front of him that person for over a minute, it looked as if he did not see anyone...

"Sigh~ I don't know how but I can't determine your strength level... It means that either you are just weak and mentally retarded and don't know what's going on around you right now, or you know that you are strong enough to get out of here alive whenever you wanted to... But since you are still alive even Now in these difficult times, that means you are probably of the second type...." The young man spoke with great difficulty, still pressing his wounds.

"You look a little familiar... where have I seen you before?... Anyway, Listen... I have a good deal for you in which you won't lose anything but two minutes of your time, do you care?" The young man slowly pushed the bag he was carrying with his left foot and brought it closer to the person sitting in front of him, "This bag contains high-level energy stones, a few treasures, and some food and drink, it's all yours."

munch..... Gulp.

The bearded person did not raise another bite to his mouth, but with the side of his eye he glimpsed at the bag which was relatively open, and in it, he saw clearly everything the young man was describing, it was actually far more than just a few treasures and food, then the bearded person looked at the young man again and said one word, "Why?"

"I dug a deep grave two streets away from here, you will come with me there, I will jump into it, and all you have to do is to cover me with the mud I prepared there, but you have to promise me that there will be no trace of the grave when you are done! After that you feel free to take this bag and go, what do you think of this?" The young man said excitedly

The bearded person looked at the young man in front of him for a couple of seconds, he had already guessed the reason, but he repeated the question again anyway, "...why?"

"...I have done the worst thing a human can do these days... I've broken through to Knighthood." The young man leaned his back on the chair again and looked toward his stomach which was oozing with blood, "My aura covered a large part of the city in a battle a while ago, the demons must be looking for me now... I don't regret it, I achieved what I wanted and I can die in peace, but I want to keep my body, when I imagine that these filthy things are going to eat my flesh I feel like-... I FEEL LIKE...!! Sigh~ Please you have to help me hide my body!!"

The bearded person looked at the young man in front of him, the boy is just a teenager, around 17 years old, and his breakthrough to Knighthood at this age means that he is a genius by all standards, but now he wants to pay someone to bury him alive...

"...Do you really want to die?" The bearded person asked again in a low voice

"Yeah, I have nothing left to live for, I have been through hell in this world, dying in peace is the only hope for me now..."

"..Okay I'll help you, but in my own way and----" the bearded person nodded and almost added something, but at that moment a voice came into his head that only he could hear: "(Robin? What are you doing on your nascent planet? Why aren't you in Nihari?!)"

Chapter 362 Let's Talk...

("Robin? What are you doing on your nascent planet? Why aren't you in Nihari? Go and find a secure place right now, we need to talk.")

Robin froze when he heard those words.

They were just thoughts that appeared in his head without a distinct voice or anything, yet as soon as he heard them he knew immediately who was speaking, but he didn't know what to respond with...

Or rather, he was trying so hard to restrain himself from what he wanted to say.

His previous straight face, which froze for a moment, started to shiver, and his brows began to come closer to each other

Little by a little, Robin's face turned from emotionless into extreme anger.

He closed his mouth, which was open a moment ago as he was speaking with the young man, started clenching his hand that was holding the rabbit's thigh, and crushed the bones in his hand into dust

And without even noticing, he allowed a dark, bloody aura to seep out...

The character of the bearded person transformed from someone indifferent to the horrors of the world around him to someone who IS representing the horrors of the world!

the young man sitting in front of him was scared silly upon seeing this, and that aura... THAT AURA!!!

The young man quickly stood up and gave a deep bow and then spoke in horror, "I AM SORRY, I didn't know I was asking an expert like yourself to do something so naive, I'm really sorry, I will take my leave." Then he quickly took a step towards the door, forgetting even his bag that he had left behind next to Robin

But at that moment Robin reached out, grabbed the young man's arm, and spoke, "I told you I was going to help you, you want me to take my word back? SIT DOWN!"

"KEEH~!!!" Robin's words may be encouraging as he talks of help and promise and good things, but the anger that was so evident on his face and his ruthless fist with which he nearly crushed the boy's arm without realizing, made the young man about to wet his pants,

He gathered whatever courage he still has in him and spoke, "But... but the aura you unleashed now will attract the demons, they are definitely on the way now, we both have to run!!!"

"I TOLD YOU TO SIT DOWN!" Robin shouted again, he himself was absent-minded, not knowing whether he was yelling at the young man himself or trying to release some of his agitated feelings.

The young man did not know what this strange person had in store for him, but he accepted his fate and returned to his seat, as he was told.

"Hey, what is going on here? Which one of you was yelling right now? You think it's your mom's house?!" A person covered in blood came from inside the storeroom with a long dagger and pointed at Robin, clearly, the blood on his body was not his.

The battle inside the storeroom was almost over already, 5 people agreed to divide everything between them and joined forces to kill the rest, and this was one of them...

"WHO GAVE YOU THE PERMISSION TO SPEAK?" Robin shouted loudly when he heard this person's words and looked at him with a murderous look.

Literally a murderous look...

BAAM

drops

That person fell on his back, with his fist still clenching on his dagger, but the defense is that he turned into a lifeless corpse, one without a head.

And the head was not seen anywhere around, or more correctly, it could be seen everywhere... It was blown into extremely small pieces.

"KEEHH~!!!" The young man jerked and lowered his head even more so that it almost touched his stomach

TAA

Robin hit the table and yelled angrily when he saw this, "Stop squeezing whatever rotten blood that's left in you, you are not allowed to die before I help you as promised, understood? What, haven't you seen someone use the Minor Heavenly Law of blood pressure to blow a scum's head off before?"

I have used hundreds of those Minor Heavenly Laws and killed thousands of those scum on my little trip in the past few months alone, do you think you are special because you killed some local gang members? Do you think you have defeated the system now and will die a hero? HEY, STOP CRYING LIKE A LITTLE GIRL! raise your head and look me in the eye! MAN UP! Didn't you just tell me you wanted to die? Where is your courage now? You said you have been through hell in your life? You haven't gone through shit!"

"Hey! What is going on here--" Another man came out of the storeroom with a few bottles of liquor under his armpit, but before he could finish his sentence:

"Brother Harvey, go out and find out what's going on in the--"

BAAM BAAM BAAM

drop drop drop

"KEEEHHHHH~!!!!" The young man sitting in front of Robin still closed his eyes, but he knew very well what had just happened

That strange bearded guy killed the last five people in the restaurant!

He killed three of them without even seeing them!!

Who would do such a thing? And what the hell is this Minor Heavenly Law of blood pressure?!

The boy couldn't control his temper after that, and some urine started leaking from him...

As for Robin, he didn't care about anything else, he just closed his eyes and rested his chin on both hands, then began to try to normalize his heartbeat and breathing...

He anticipated this day and feared it at the same time...

He couldn't have easily summoned the All-seeing God anytime he wanted by contacting the All-seeing God's soul fragment in him, but he chose not to...

He had anger in him that could pile up into mountains, He really wanted to face the All-seeing God and demand an explanation of what happened!

But... Can a mortal question a God?

So he waited for the day All-Seeing God appeared by himself and deal with it then, Unfortunately, it came much faster than he expected.

Five minutes later---

BAANG

"HEY!!! Who dared and--" Five Demons in the Knighthood Realm and one in the Sainthood Realm entered the restaurant, with angry features and bloody dark auras, their mere presence would make all those at energy foundation levels fall on their faces in terror.

But as soon as they entered they heard a voice from the side, "This person is exempt from the death sentence, he can roam freely within the boundaries of this city provided that he does not bully the innocents who are not affiliated with any gangs. Also, set up a barrier around this area, no one is allowed to approach this restaurant for a distance of at least a hundred feet, I don't even want to hear the sound of a mosquito, understood?."

"Who the hell are you to talk to us like that?!" Their chief, the demons in the Sainthood Realm, took a step towards Robin with his claws ready to tear him apart, it had been more than a year since it had moved on this continent and no human had ever spoken to it like this before!

" SHALIKHT TALI YA ZI! (Don't force me to repeat it.)" Robin said it in the language of the Nihari people this time and looked at the six demons with eyes that glowed bright gold

The demon's foot stopped in the air, and what landed on the ground was his knee instead

BA

BA BA BA BA

Then the other five demons descended behind him, "We hear and we obey, Your Excellency."

"Your Excellency." The young man was already feeling that he was dreaming of the Six Demons kneeling like this, but he felt like he was hit with a hammer on his head when he heard the last word they said, then looked at the bearded person in front of him, the one whose eyes were shining with gold, and shouted, "You! IT IS YOU!! You are Robin Burton!!"

"Didn't you hear His Excellency say that he wants to calm down? Thank him for giving you your life and come with us!" The Demon Saint stood up and grabbed the young man by the back of his neck and began to drag him toward the door

But the young man did not give thanks as the demon told him, but began to shout, "Damn you, Robin Burton! You are the reason my parents died! You are the reason for everything that is wrong with this world!! YOU ARE THE DEVIL!! You're the dev--"

And it wasn't enough until one of the demons hit him on the head that he lost consciousness and finally shut up

Then the Demons withdrew, dragging the fainted boy behind them, leaving Robin to sit alone in complete silence.

Inhale

Exhale

Long inhale

"All-Seeing God Big Brother, you can appear now, let's talk..."

Chapter 363 See

Swoosh

A small ball of light shot out from Robin's head, then quickly changes to form a humanoid body of light,

Then the humanoid light spoke in a tone that seemed annoyed, "You kept me waiting for too long."

"Not long enough." Robin looked into the eyes of the All-seeing God's humanoid body and spoke in a harsh tone

The All-seeing God raised an eyebrow when he heard this and began to examine Robin more closely.

Even though Robin was trying to control himself as much as possible, his breathing was still out of control, his heart was beating like a war drum, sweat started running down his hair, and his eyes were wide open and fully focused...

He looked like someone who was ready to risk everything!

Before Robin could say another word, the All-seeing God raised his hand and quickly waved it

Robin tried to speak more than once but no sound came out, he grabbed his own neck and tried to pump the Major Heavenly law of Life and use the Minor Heavenly law of Sound and other things he thought of but it was useless, his voice was lost.

With nothing he can do, he looked at the All-seeing God with an even angrier stare than the previous one

"I don't know what is going on with you, but you seemed about to say something you will regret for the rest of your life, that is if you get to live after you say it, I'm not your daddy, and won't tolerate any disrespect, stay in your boundaries and choose your words carefully, because I think highly of you I paid hundreds of years of my cultivation to help you keep your mouth shut until you clear your head, so I advise you to use this time-out wisely." The All-seeing God spoke as he was keeping an eye on Robin

"..." Robin opened his mouth to the last of them and cried out with all his might, a cry that if his voice were present would have resounded in the whole city, but not even the fly next to him heard anything...

His muffled scream lasted for more than a full minute before he turned his back to lean on the chair again, and started panting heavily.

"Do you feel better now? I'll remove the seal on your voice, but you better think carefully about what you are going to say next, and who you are talking to!" The humanoid light said, then waved his arm again

"Haa... Haa... Haa..." Robin's high panting sound finally became audible again, When Robin could hear himself again he closed his fist and looked as if he was about to shout something with all his might!

...But he shut his mouth again, saying nothing.

About half a minute later, he just slowly raised his finger and pointed toward the southwest...

"Hmm?" The humanoid light was puzzled by that gesture, but he followed the path of Robin's finger with his eyes, penetrating walls, mountains, and forests, his eyes extending at the speed of light until they finally reached...

Jura city.

"This...." humanoid light turned his entire body towards that direction when he saw Jura City and began to carefully examine the city with knotted eyebrows, not leaving a person's bone or a grain of sand untouched by his spiritual sense, after he finished examining Jura he moved his spiritual sense and began to scan the entire continent.

After more than two minutes, the All-seeing God lowered his head slightly, then turned to face Robin again with his usual facial expression, then spoke, "I see, this is unfortunate, but what does any of this have to do with me?"

BAAM

Robin hit the stool of his chair and it broke, then shouted loudly, "If not for you, I wouldn't have left near my family! It was YOU who sent me to that filthy planet! I have already gone through hell there but kept my mission and done my part without saying a word, but now this happened to my home when I was away? and you say what does any of this have to do with you? HAVE SOME SHAME!!"

The humanoid Light kept his gaze fixed on Robin for a few seconds, then placed its hand behind its back and spoke with a blank face. "...You are too emotional, If you had stayed you would have died with them, what do you think you are? You are still as weak as a baby even now, what would you have done in a great war that took place more than ten years ago?

Would you have raised your sword and fought? You would have died! You would have invented a miracle to help you win? You know that things Don't go like this! Even with the Eyes of Truth, you can't create these kinds of miracles

What would you have done? Allow them to capture you and leave your family to be enslaved instead of being killed? This is unacceptable, your life is countless times more valuable than all the members of your family combined and you know it, stop behaving like a baby!

You authorized the use of your Talismans and various inventions too soon, instead of strengthening yourself and your forces first, you went and attacked a kingdom recklessly and announced your abilities to everyone, then you were dragged into war after war, and you announced innovation behind innovation, what did you expect? That the strong in your world wait for you to become stronger than them? You make your decisions, now bear the consequences, and don't blame others like a child!

In fact, you should thank me because I saved your life and gave you a chance to take revenge by sending you to Nihari. I have already seen the devastation you did to this continent, it was thousands of times worse than what they did to your Jura city, and I even found ten thousand people with the blood of the Burton family alive and kicking, you took control of the continent and gathered a large number of your family, I see that things are going well, so what is the problem now?"

CRUSHHH

Robin clenched his hand until it made a sound as if it was about to be crushed, then he spoke with blurry eyes, "Why didn't you at least tell me what was going on, you should have given me a choice to decide what I should do... You are looking at Jura City and pretending to be surprised? are you really telling me that you don't know what's going on here? Are you telling me that the ALL-SEEING GOD never once bothered to SEE what is happening on his ally planet?"

Forget about that... Are you telling me that you didn't sense Mila and Richard as they used the space portal to come to Nihari?! Didn't it occur to you that I would like to know that my family is being killed? Has it not occurred to you that I might want to know that my wife is being eaten and my son is being tortured? If you didn't know any of that then WHAT IS THE USE OF YOUR DAMN NAME?!"

"..Your son?" The humanoid light frowned his eyebrows

Chapter 364 Who Are You?!

"Yes... Yes, my son... It turns out that Mila was pregnant before I left for Nihari... While Mila died in the most horrible way for a trivial reason, the giants let my son live to work him as a slave, when I saw him, he showed signs of severe torture on every inch of his body... And did not appear like it was torture because he is not obedient or something like that, no.. Rather, its traces and locations on his body look like traces of torture for the sake of entertainment... They torture MY son.. for the sake of entertainment.."

A suffocated Robin spoke while clenching his hand tightly before raising his head and looking into The All-seeing God's humanoid light eyes, "And what surprised you that I have a son? Do you say you didn't know about it? You say you didn't sense him and his mother crossing the borders of this planet and descending on Nihari?!"

"Heh~ Oh Robin Robin Robin..." The All-seeing God's sighed and shook his head, "I finally understand the reason for your anger, it's a naive mistake that shouldn't have crossed your mind in the first place, and it goes down to this: You considered what I can do, but you didn't ask yourself why I would do it..."

"What... do you mean?" Robin replied with a frown and looked beside him, trying to hold back his tears after remembering the sight of his son

The humanoid Light spoke with his hands behind his back, "It's true that I can follow the events anywhere I want and at any time I want, I can technically keep an eye on anyone I want, I can even pay the appropriate price to the host planet and intervene to change the course of events no matter how big it is, you are right about all of that, but The question is.. why would I do this?

If I should keep an eye on anyone then it should be you since you are on a mission that will change the course of my war against my rival, But I didn't have time for that, I don't even know what happened with you since I gave you the coordinates, you know why? Because I'm in the middle of a damn planetary war!! Have you forgotten why I asked you to go to Planet Nihari in the first place?

Why do you think I'd spend my time watching your nascent planet? Why would you think I care to watch over your mortal family? What kind of arrogance made you think that I would pause the battles I'm having with someone as strong as me at the very least and stop the planetary wars my forces are currently engaged in, and then get the popcorn and go watch some insignificant planet you yourself don't exist on?

Do you think I'm a babysitter? Have you forgotten who I am? Or worse... You do remember who I am but think you deserve to have me babysit for your kids? Who the hell do you think you are?!"

"This..." Robin widened his eyes when he heard this, his brain started working very fast trying to find any suitable response but in the end, nothing came to mind.

Right.. the person who identified himself as a god would watch over his family all the time? The person who proudly said that he was the ruler of dozens of middle-aged planets would have enough time to keep an eye on Jura City?

Robin looked down while still keeping his eyes wide open, as if he was reviewing the tape of his entire thoughts, to see what other reasons he hated the All-seeing God for and wanted to confront him with, and they were many...

But when he measured the logic of the All-seeing God against everything in his head, he found that he actually didn't have anything to say...

'Who the hell do you think you are?' The All-seeing God's cold question suddenly becomes the key to everything.

Who is Robin to him?

Was he a partner? No... Robin has nothing worthy of this stature, no strength, no authority, no talent to stand shoulder to shoulder with the All-seeing God, even the path of truth that makes him so special is just an old game for the All-seeing God, thinking of him as his equal is nothing but Pipe dreams

Does the All-seeing God owe him anything? On the contrary, the All-seeing God saved his life and he has not completed the task assigned to him yet, which means he still owes the All-seeing God a great debt.

Is it a dependency relationship? Nope, from the first day, Robin made it clear to the All-seeing God that he would be independent and that he would return the favor to him later, so there is no close dependency relationship that forces the All-seeing God to take care of him or his family as his followers.

And what the All-seeing God did for him does not stop at saving his life by giving him a new body, but since his exit from that cave the All-seeing God helped him in one way or another, such as accelerating the research into many heavenly laws or researching the innovation of the foundation modification technology with which he helped Caesar, Mila and Countless of his relatives and associates

The All-seeing God is not obligated to watch his family for him even if he was the one who sent him to the Nihari planet, this is something that he understands clearly now.

But.. but he is still the person because of whom the sequence of events has reached this point!!!

Walking on the line that he draw made Mila die in such a way, but if not for him he would have never been given the chance to marry Mila in the first place...

"Ugh..." Robin put his head in his hands, it seemed as if he pressed harder he would crush it

But for the first time since Robin heard the All-seeing God's voice, his heartbeat and breathing began to calm down...

Chapter 365 None To Blame

"..." The All-seeing God remained silent, watching Robin crush his head and writhe in pain, a non-physical pain that almost killed him...

What pain? quite simply, after this short conversation, Robin no longer had someone to blame, all the anger that was squeezing him and was directed at the All-seeing God had now become aimless, the anger is still blazing in his chest, but it was towards whom?

All those who participated in the killing of Mila and the psychological and physical torture of his son will be held accountable no matter how small their participation was, there is no disagreement about that

All those who participated in this act from the ancestral continent have already been eliminated, and the arrogant bastards on the Flame Empire continent are now being taken care of, and undoubtedly, the day of the northern Nihari region will come soon enough.

But what really makes it worse is...

All of them did not mean to harm Mila herself, it was just a side story for the three parties, they did not stop their lives for a moment to think about how to kill her or what happened to her...

The kingdoms of the Ancestral Continent wanted to stop the terrifying advance of the Burton family before they found themselves at their mercy, as for the Flame Empire, they wanted to capture the person who created the incantation and destroy the forces he had gathered to force him to work for them forever

As for what the Nihari Giants... Mila was just another human in their eyes, and Richard to them is just a healing machine.

Robin was hoping to direct the blame onto someone who knew what he was doing, someone who intended to Kill Saint Mila Bradley, Robin Burton's wife and love of his life, and Torture Richard Burton, Robin Burton's only biological child...

He was looking for someone who could take this animosity personally against him, and the only one who fit that description was the All-seeing God, he is the one that is to blame if he knew what was going on and didn't do anything about it!

But after facing him now...

Now Robin felt like punching a mirage...

Is it possible that what happened to Mila and Richard really was just collateral damage that no one gave two thoughts about?

Just... collateral damage...

The All-seeing God stood in his place all the time watching the changes that occurred in Robin's mood and train of thought as if he was reading what was going on in his head.

About ten minutes later, a very light, almost imperceptible smile appeared on the All-seeing God's face for a moment, but it disappeared just as quickly.

Then he spoke, "Now back to my first question, what are you doing here? Why aren't you in Nihari preparing the planet for the incoming invasion?"

"...Are you really asking me about this right now?" Robin muttered, still holding his head

"Why don't I? You can deal with your own problems after I leave, I pay not a small amount of my cultivation for every second I spend here, now can we focus on my matters for a bit? what is the news there?" The All-seeing God spoke in a calm tone

"Heh~" Robin put his hand on his head and let out a chuckle, "Okay, let's talk then... I already did what you wanted, I built a strong sect and united 20% of the planet and gave them the capabilities to unite the rest of the planet before the invasion started, they know about the invasion and they are preparing for it well, they know it so well that they refused my orders because of it hehe~ Anyways, What happens on Nihari after this point is none of my business, my mission is over."

"Wait, Wait wait a minute," the All-seeing God raised one of his hands behind his back and shook it, "What exactly was your mission? I mean, if you did what you say in just 20 years then that's really impressive, but why do you say your mission is over?"

Robin raised his head and yelled, "What more do you want? I doubt you could have done half of what I have done there in twenty short years, what? You want me to take up a sword and come down to fight your enemies with my own hands? Those bastards killed my wife in the most horrible ways and are still torturing my son for fun as we speak, if it was up to me, I would have conquered them and destroyed them all before that invasion comes!"

"Do it then." The humanoid Light shrugged, "Invade that planet and kill them all, leave no child or elder alive there, kill the cattle and donkeys, do you think I care? The important thing is that you take all the energy pearls on the planet for yourself and leave nothing for the invading army."

Did we agree that you would strengthen those rabbles? That you will unite the planet? No! Our agreement was to keep the Energy Pearls out of my opponent's hands, and the way to do that is up to you alone, and you said that you would do everything in your power to achieve it, only then I would accept the result whether I succeeded or not and you would have paid your debt to me... Do you say that you can't do anything else to fulfill this mission during the remaining period? Is this how you keep your promises?"

"This..." Robin's eyes widened.

He turned Nihari upside down and took over almost a quarter of the planet in just twenty-one years, even after wasting almost two years in his revenge here, wouldn't he be able to do more Nihari in 27 years?

If he took the same path, theoretically he could establish an even more powerful sect!

But this was not the thing that stopped Robin the most in the All-seeing God's short reply, but rather his words about invading the planet and stealing its resources before the invasion from his rival arrived.

This.. can be applied?!

Chapter 366 One Thing...

"Invade planet Nihari...and take over its resources?" Robin muttered in a low voice

Robin hadn't thought about this even for a moment since the All-seeing god told him about his mission until this moment...

Invading the planet and seizing its resources is not the same thing as invading the northern region in order to save Richard, the degree of difficulty multiplies dozens of times simply when considering the conquest of the planet as a whole!

Now he is no longer had to think of a military operation to penetrate the lands of the northern region until he reaches the Azil tribe to bring Richard back, and then quickly returns to the space portal where he can escape, which can be taken down to fighting about 4 northern tribes back and forth, and win.

But if he thinks about the mission in this new view, then it has turned into a comprehensive and total destruction of the planet as a whole!

To steal all the resources of the planet, he must first destroy all the forces from which he will take those resources, he must completely destroy the five regions so that no one is left to ask him what he is doing, in short, he must turn the entire planet Nihari into a copy of the current Ancestral Continent!

And not just that... Trying to deplete the resources of a planet tens of times larger than his home planet is something that might take hundreds of years even if he was collecting everything arbitrarily and in a destructive way, and this means that the invaders will undoubtedly come before he can collect all the energy pearls and the rest precious resources

This means that first he has to destroy all forces in Nihari to a crippling degree, and then he has to... defend the planet from invaders with his own army?

For the past months, he has been thinking of just a way to get Richard out of the Azil tribe before the invasion begins!!

The All-seeing God waved when he saw Robin went silent after his muttering, "That is your business, if you see that you can't stand the natives there then destroy them, or send your own army to stop my rivals' invasion army, your one and only mission is to prevent my rival from getting the resources of the planet,

If you can't protect these resources then find a way to burn them completely before they arrive, your way of choice does not interest me in the slightest, all what I care about is that you continue to accomplish your mission, do your best to help me, and not sit here to act sad and lazy about it."

Robin slowly raised his head and stared into the All-seeing God's eyes with furrowed eyebrow.

"Why are you looking at me like that? If you don't want to continue with the mission, that's fine. Ignore it and just sit here and grieve for yourself like a little whore. I'll see another way to do what I want. Do you think you are the center of the universe? In the worst case, I'll have to give up some middle-aged planets to my rival for now, But I'll find a way to get them back later, no worries~ But remember, everything you have done so far in Nihari and all the losses you have suffered will be in vain and you'll still owe me your life, and I WILL be sure to make you pay that debt sooner or later!"

squeak

Robin looked down again and gritted his teeth until he felt them starting to crack... Everything that happened to him on Planet Nihari and everything that his family has been exposed to during the last two decades will be in vain!? If he gave up now it will be seen as if he did nothing?!

Even if he ignored all of this and actually withdrew from the mission, who knew if the All-seeing god's next request would be harder or easier? Who knows if the next mission will expose him and what is left of his family to even greater dangers?

And the worst... Who knows how long the All-seeing god will remain this lenient with him? if drops away now it would cost him a few middle-aged planets, what if he refused or failed another mission? What guarantees that there will not come a day when the All-seeing god loses hope in him and decides to pay the price and take back the life he gave him?

After all, the All-seeing god was someone who literally stopped the laws of the world when he rescued him in the cave that day, would it be really that hard if he decided to kill him?

"Hey, why are you gritting your teeth? Don't you want to repay me your dept? After all that I have done for you the least is to repay me some of my favors upon you, don't you think that's fair? I even told you that even if you failed the debt would still be settled as long as you do your best, who could hope for better terms than these?" The All-seeing god spoke in an annoyed tone

Robin was silent and looked down again, supporting his head with both hands, appearing to be thinking really hard about something, which annoyed the All-seeing god even more... He himself showing personally and trying to prove his viewpoint to a mortal wasn't enough? what does this ungrateful kid also want?!

But Robin was not thinking about whether or not he had to continue his mission on Nihari anymore, he had already made his decision. In fact, The matter was already decided when the All-seeing god proved to him that he had not done what he could yet.

And not because he was afraid of the All-seeing god's wrath, not because he wanted to get rid of his dept that bad, but even if he was suicidal and didn't care about what happened next, even if he wanted to be killed by the All-seeing god, he would most likely try to finish the task anyway, otherwise, even in death he would feel uncomfortable that he broke a promise.

"Say what you will do until I rearrange my plans, my time here is not open, for every moment I spend here, this nascent planet absorbs a considerable price from my energy, our lovely conversation here has weakened me enough!" The All-seeing god spoke in an annoyed tone

But Robin still did not respond directly, he kept his head on both hands for about another minute...

When the All-seeing god had had enough and was about to yell at him when he heard Robin's voice saying, "I will get it done for you, but I need you to give me one more thing."

"You want me to give one thing... just one... to repel the invasion?" The All-seeing God furrowed his brows in disbelief as he looked at Robin, and then said, "Forget about giving you something related to the Law of Truth or any weapon, heavenly law or any type of technology that far exceeds your current planet's development again, if I lose more of my strength here then the war will be lost anyway!"

"Don't worry about it, I will get my own laws and make my own weapons, what I want from you is quite a simple request, but it will be enough for more than just stopping the invasion." Robin raised his head and spoke with a cruel smile appearing on his face for the first time in a very long time

Chapter 367 Three Individuals

Six months after Robin returned with Jabba and Amon to the city of Jura -- on top of a green hill in the north of the ancestral continent.

"Tsk~ Instead of sitting in a stately throne room, flaunting the heritage and strength of the ancestral continent in front of those strangers, here we are, sitting like rabbits among the grass and mosquitoes," Billy spoke while swatting a mosquito that was on his forehead

Jabba looked at Billy with half a smile and said, "Put a little energy field around you and the problem will be solved, stop this drama."

"Hmmm... it's actually not a very bad spot for a meeting of this importance, I've had enough of seeing the stately halls and sitting behind huge walls, some peace, and quiet in a place like this is a hundred times better for me at this point..." Caesar let out a long inhale and then asked, "Jabba, are you the one who chose this spot?"

"No, I have no hand in this. When I reached out to the master and told him that the war had ended and it was time to meet, he told me to come here." Jabba shook his head

"I agree with the handsome young man, this is refreshing and a bit different, I'm starting to look forward more to seeing this His Excellency Robin..." An angelic female voice suddenly interrupted the conversation, but no one was bothered, all of them, except for Amon and the rest of the demon kings, looked towards his source with pupils like hearts!

The owner of this angelic voice was a woman who seemed to be in her mid-thirties, her body was mature in the full sense of the word and full in the right places, she wore revealing green clothes that fatally showed her chest, and a crown that contained a jewel in the middle that looked like a leaf adorned her head...

And at the same time, her beautiful innocent voice and facial features give those who see and hear her the desire to protect her, even though she is undoubtedly one of the strongest - if not the strongest - of everyone present on the hill.

This thorny combination of sensuality and innocence combined with her supernatural strengths made her undoubtedly one of the most dangerous individuals on the planet.

"Lizzie, Can you focus on the situation we are in and act a little serious? We are here because we received a direct order from His Excellency to come within a year or else he will do to us what he did to the Flame Empire, and we have seen with our own eyes what he did to the Flame Empire! That person gave us A direct threat to destroy our empires!! I still don't support our presence here, what is the difference between this and surrender?!" Another woman spoke, but this time the voice did not have an iota of charm or innocence, but rather an arrogant tone filled with an icy cold that strikes back upon hearing it, "Secondly, why is the main chair at the table reserved for that person? Since when are we treated as secondary characters?!"

Suddenly, the general mood shifted from calmness and relative peace to heaviness and gloom again, as everyone looked at the female who just spoke.

A woman who appears to be in her late twenties, with a crown shaped like ice crystals on her head, slender in stature, her hair white was white as snow and she wears a simple white dress, and even her eyelashes are also white as if they were branches of a tree covered by snow falling in winter, her features are precise and balanced as if they were drawn with a pen, everything about her looks just perfect.

"Hey! Don't call me by that name in front of strangers!" Lizzie moved her lower lip in annoyance and spoke, furrowing her brows

"Elizabeth, please adjust your tone more, I know you are not taking the current situation seriously but we need to know who we are dealing with before we go ahead with the decision we made earlier." The man sitting in the middle between the two women spoke, looking at the woman in green.

The man appeared to be in his early forties, he had blond hair covering his neck and a pointed golden crown, majestic in appearance, his body seemed normal, neither long nor short, neither skinny nor full of muscles, but one could feel a huge and calm power emanating from him...

"Hehe, I just admire the beautiful nature around us, what's wrong with that? It might be mine soon anyway." Elizabeth gave a captivating chuckle and spoke

When Alexander found her still behaving like this, he smiled lightly and shook his head, then looked at the white-haired woman, "Victoria, you know better than this, we did not come to surrender to anyone, rather it is far from this, do not forget this point even for a moment... As for the main seat we are now guests of this Robin Burton, it is natural that he acquired the main chair, just do not focus on such trivial things and let the day go as planned.

"Hmph!" The white-haired woman huffed, then closed her eyes and looked away

"...This..." The short conversation between the three individuals sent a rain of questions into the hearts and minds of Billy and the rest

Since the three of them appeared on the day of the invasion of the capital of the Flame Empire, and none of Billy and the rest were at ease, the aura of the three of them that was equivalent to that of the late Flame Emperor was enough for everyone to stand ready for another intense battle, especially since the three of them had shown their willingness to intervene to protect Old Gu and the corpse of the former Emperor of the Flame Empire

And they didn't come alone... Every one of the three individuals had around 300 peak Sage Realm experts with him!

That is more than 900 peak Sage Realm experts!!

Just once everyone thought that another huge battle would start, old Gu intervened at the right time and told them to worry about themselves and not intervene with the Flame Empire's personal problems, then he personally handed over his son's body to Amon and Sakar!

He was the one that prevented that day to end with another battle, a huge battle that no one knows what would happen at the end of it...

And not just that, Old Gu went even further and spoke with the three individuals to calm them down, honestly answering the three people's questions about what was happening in his lands and the reasons for everything they saw, and urged them not to make a hasty decision, and even went farther and tried to convince them to come to the ancestral continent with him to meet with Robin Burton.

Then he left them and spoke to Billy and the rest and told them to treat those three with some respect.

They were the Three remaining Emperors of this world.

Wind Emperor Alexander - Water Empress Victoria - Sacred Tree Empress Elizabeth.

Chapter 368 A Step Away From Death

"Alright boys let's not make this harder than it already is," Old Gu took two steps towards the table land then raised both hands and waved gently.

The words of the three emperors were between themselves and they did address anyone else, they were just talking

But for Billy, Caesar, and the rest, almost all of the three emperors' words were threats, pure and direct threats!

Especially Jabba and Amon began to sneak their soul sense into their sound rings and send messages to the Forces around the hill telling them to prepare to start a battle at any moment.

Aside from the three emperors who —if they helped each other— could most likely walk out of the hill alive even if a battle broke out, there were still 900 individuals at the peak of the Sage realm who came along with them, that is apart from the other 300 generals, elders, and high-ranking officials of the empire who came in surrendering.

This means there are around 1,200 sages that are currently surrounding the green hill right now and all of them are between levels 36~40!

The three emperors said that they came to see who Robin is for themselves and decide what they will do next, but their words now and the readiness of the forces coming with them say otherwise.

The problem is that the hosts will not accept any mockery, Robin has already declared that he may invade the rest of the empires later, so how come these people threaten them in the heart of their lands?

And the thing is.. they don't need to hear their threats silently.

Even with the presence of the three half-step Emperor Realm emperors, and the 1,200 high-level sages present, Billy and the rest still have enough confidence that they could eliminate most if a battle broke!

On top of the hill, the meeting taking place, and around it are the Sages of the four empires, but around them, there are tens of thousands of Saint-level demons and a few thousand Sage-level ones!!

Even if the individual strength greatly favored the Empire's forces, in an open battle, most of them wouldn't make it out of the hill alive.

If things continued like this then a major battle may break out in an instant, Everything would be decided even before Robin steps foot on the hill.

Old Gu could feel that something is building up and looked at Billy in a hurry, "Don't focus too much on their words. Please understand that they are, after all, Emperors, They are not used to respecting anyone. When His Excellency Robin appears, the serious talk will begin and everyone will know where they stand."

"His Excellency? Hmph." Water Empress Victoria looked at Old Gu with a gaze full of pride, "Isn't it enough that you have been standing on your feet as a butler since we came to this disgusting place, but you are also proud to call your enemy with that kind of title? The Mighty Flame Empire, tsk tsk~ It seems that your defeat was worse than I thought, even a previous emperor like you lost every iota of self-respect!"

Old Gu looked at her with a slight smile, "Now I am just a prisoner of war, how can I sit down? I have to wait for the verdict to be issued against me, I just realize my status... Secondly, what is the problem if I call him Excellency? If I don't respect him because of the brute force he showed in the war I will have to respect him for his innovations and for being such a unique person, one that our world has never seen before."

"Hmph, do whatever you want, as for me, I haven't seen anything that makes me respect him, and his strength won't do him any good against the Water Empire!" Empress Victoria looked away and spoke

Caesar spoke in a hostile tone, he could not restrain himself any longer from that woman who kept speaking ill of his father, "This is strange... His Excellency issued orders that you come to meet him in the ancestral continent within one year, and here you are now waiting for him to grace you with his arrival, Do you usually take orders from someone you do not respect?"

Victoria didn't say a word but suddenly waved her hand at Caesar in a cutting motion.

BAM

"Alexander... let go... of my wrist..." Victoria spoke in a voice enveloped in a cold killing intent

"Put your hand down then, let's hear from that Robin Burton then do whatever you want, until I achieve my goal of coming here I won't let you ruin the meeting." Wind Emperor Alexander spoke with a mischievous face

If he hadn't raised his hand in time to block Water Empress Victoria's attack, Caesar's head would most likely have fallen off his shoulders by now!

"Do what you want then, what does that have to do with me? this dog disrespected me and deserves to be punished!" Water Empress Victoria said again while looking at Caesar with an even more evident killing intent

"Punish him if the talks fall, not now, you are not home, you can't do what you want without consequences here. plus, killing a high executive before a peace-making meeting isn't very peaceful, isn't it?" Wind Emperor Alexander spoke with a focused gaze while strengthening his grip over the Water Empress's wrist even further, he was not taking No for an answer.

"Enn, I also want to hear what His Excellency had to say hehe." Sacred Tree Empress Elizabeth nodded twice

"Tch." Water Empress Victoria huffed, pulled her hand in an annoyed manner, and looked away again.

Gulp

Caesar swallowed his saliva, and a few grains of cold sweat began to fall from his forehead... He realized how close he was to Death.

Even Billy and the rest started to sweat profusely... Everything happened so quickly, so quickly that most of those present didn't know what had happened until they saw Wind Emperor Alexander grabbing Water Empress Victoria's wrist and started speaking.

Jabba, Sakar, and a few other Demon Kings could see Water Empress Victoria's hand moving but were unable to react before Wind Emperor Alexander grabbed her hand.

If her attack had been completed, they would all have attacked Victoria at the same time, If she had not died from their sudden attack, she would have been severely injured for sure, but Caesar would have been already...

After that incident, Wind Emperor Alexander closed his eyes again, Elizabeth returned to looking at nature around her, Victoria returned to looking at the surroundings coldly and hostilely, and Old Gu closed his eyes, placing both hands behind his back and looking at his feet calmly.

As for Billy, Jabba, and the rest, they remained seated on their nerves, their soul senses touching their rings, ready to mobilize support and summon their weapons at any moment.

No one uttered another word, all that was left of the peace in the air has vanished, leaving nothing but complete stiffness and lingering killing intent.

Even the birds and small animals fled from the entire area due to the enormous pressure from all the experts

A deadly silence struck the entire hill and lasted for another hour.

Until a faint voice came from the direction of the main chair, "Did I keep you waiting?"

Chapter 369 The Initiative

"Your Excellency!"

"Father, you are finally here!"

"Tsk~ Why are you so late, Robin? And... Why the hell are you looking like that?!"

As soon as everyone heard the phrase Did I keep you waiting? they all looked towards its source, and there they saw a man with a medium-length beard and his hair falling over his shoulder, his clothes were shabby and there was some blood all over them, it seemed that he had not changed his clothes or even took a bath for months.

By all standards, this person seemed to be a random beggar you might find lying on the sidewalk in any street, yet Amon, Caesar, Billy, and the rest of the Burton family party knew this person at first sight and stood up to greet him happily.

Except for Billy, who didn't seem very happy though...

This hilltop gathers world leaders, literally all this world's leaders, but Robin chose to come dressed like this without even bothering to change his clothes, which would damage their reputation!

As for the three emperors, they were not distracted by Billy's concerns, but still looked at Robin with eyes filled with bewildering questions, and even some... fear?

Their questions about the identity of this person who looked like a beggar quickly disappeared with the shouts of Caesar and the rest, but far more important questions immediately hit their heads like a hammer.

How did Robin reach the chair and sit on it without them realizing it!?

All of them are mighty emperors with thousands of years of training and experience, each one of them can rule the entire planet by himself, and each one of them can feel an ant's foot strike the ground tens of meters away!

But an adult male came from afar and sat two meters away from them without them noticing him?!

Assuming that they were preoccupied with what was to be said in the meeting and their minds were not awake enough to sense what was happening in their surroundings, although this was impossible, then what about the 1,200 sages who surrounded the hill? Why didn't anyone stop him? Why did no one announce the arrival of a stranger? Were the 1,200 High-level sages who were assigned to guard all busy thinking about the meeting too? Impossible!

But this is not what puzzled them the most... Rather, the fact that none of Robin's followers seemed to be surprised at all.

They were all happy with his arrival and Billy was annoyed with his appearance, but no one seemed to question the way he just appeared out of nowhere, as if this was a natural thing and only to be expected from him...

How is this even close to normal? How can a person walk as if he were a shadow among people much stronger than him without anyone realizing, is normal? What if he had a dagger in his hand now and decided to stab the neck of one of the emperors?

Gulp

Wind Emperor Alexander swallowed his saliva when he thought of this, but quickly pushed the idea out of his head on the pretext that the killing intent and the wind movement around the dagger would reveal Robin's whereabouts... But if such a thing really happened, and Robin did try to attack him, wouldn't he have been in a disadvantageous position from the start of the fight?

'Did I just feel threatened by a mere level 30 Saint level individual?!' Alexander shook his head slightly, trying to drive this uncomfortable thought out of his mind, but he couldn't help but take another look at Robin...

With a light, satisfied smile on his face, sleepy eyes that seem to contain the whole world inside them, and a faint aura, it is clear that its owner was holding it back as much as he can, but if you try to sense it forcibly, you will find indescribable bloodiness and suffocation...

Without a doubt, he is a Level 30 Saint, which makes him the weakest among those present here by a large margin, much weaker even than Caesar who is calling him Father!

Why do all of them here consider a person weaker and younger than them to be their leader and be at ease with calling him Your Excellency?! Is it because of the stealth ability he showed just now?

A Level 30 Saint who is around 200 years old... by the standards of the Ancestral continent where a level 31 Sage can be considered King and a Level 30 Saint who could command a dukedom, his cultivation can indeed be considered a great achievement

But by the standards of the Four Empires, there is nothing special about him, his cultivation at this age is indeed very good and makes Robin a genius, but there are people who reach this cultivation level much faster than him, Wind Emperor Alexander, for example, reached the pinnacle of Sainthood realm at the age of only 95, so nothing makes him special from this point alone.

Then Alexander looked out of the corner of his eye at the Water Empress Victoria, the icy woman who looks at everything under the sky with arrogance and disdain, but he found her looking at Robin with open and shaking eyes, even the Sacred Tree Emperor Elizabeth who underestimates everything and always act playful was looking at Robin with slightly knotted eyebrows and a small drop sweat dripped from her forehead... It was clear that they were thinking about what he was thinking.

The Wind Emperor turned his eyes on Robin again...

"Never mind, Billy. I don't think the gentlemen here would mind my appearance." Robin's smile widened slightly in response to Billy's criticism, then he passed his eyes over the three emperors, "Isn't it right, gentlemen?"

"...I don't mind myself" Sacred Tree Emperor Elizabeth spoke in her usual charming voice, then Alexander and Victoria nodded.

But in the middle of the gesture Wind Emperor Alexander and Water Empress Victoria froze, why would they respond to their potential enemy and make him feel better about his bagger appearance?!

It was then that the Three Emperors realized something...

The two sides hadn't exchanged any important words yet, neither a word of threat nor a surrender had been said, but they knew that Robin had already taken the initiative.

Chapter 370 17 Names

"...And why don't you sit down with them?" Robin looked at one of the Sages standing around the table and asked

"Me?" Old Gu was very surprised by the question, as there were many other Sages scattered around the table, why did Robin single him out for the question even though he had never seen him before? He was absolutely sure that nothing of his aura was leaking out!

But he quickly suppressed his initial surprise and replied, "How could this old man sit in such an important meeting? I'm just here to receive orders and do as commanded."

"Heh~ If you don't deserve to sit here, then none of those three do either..." Robin let out a sneering laugh and spoke, then looked beside him, "Billy, who is this person?"

Billy looked at the old man and spoke bluntly, "It is Gu Barnett, the emperor of the previous generation of the Flame Empire, he participated in the killing of his own son, Flame Emperor Elias Barnett who happens to be the number one criminal in the incident of the invasion of the Ancestor Continent... He also controlled the elders and generals and all joints of the empire completely and eliminated any possible resistance toward us there after the battle, and he also put the empire's army in a state of idleness. Although his surrender came far too late, his active participation in the war contributed greatly to ending the war faster and with fewer losses."

"You would have annihilated any resistance, whether I intervened or not. I am nothing but a defeated old man. I did what I had to do to save some additional lives." Old Gu shook his head and replied

"Oh?" Robin raised his eyebrows when he heard Billy's words, his expectation is that all the powerhouses of the Flame Emperor Continent have been killed and the Demons are still trying to suppress the revolts now, but there are still elders and generals, there is still an army, and even the previous generation Emperor!?

"I know what you're thinking about, and you don't need to worry about it... I know you ordered the destruction of the army and all the powerhouses in the Flame Empire, but everything is stable there and there are 5,000 demon Sages with tens of thousands of saints and knights roaming the continent so there is no fear of it getting out of our control any time soon, as I have brought You Old Gu and all the important elders and sages of the continent, you can do whatever you want with them, and if you don't like it, just give the order and our guys there will take care of the rest."

Robin returned to look at Old Gu for a long time, then spoke, "...Give me your hand."

"Hah? ..Alright." Old Gu took a few steps and slowly extended his hand toward Robin,

Robin on the other end took the old man's hand and then closed his eyes, and said, "Get rid of any spiritual defense, don't try to resist no matter what, and don't try to withdraw your hand, if I feel any amount of resistance or malicious reaction I will directly destroy your soul, I hope I was clear enough. "

"Heh~" Water Empress Victoria gave a short laugh but said nothing

"...Yes..." Old Gu didn't understand what Robin was trying to do, and if this man can DESTROY his soul at all! but he still made a short, adequate reply, after which he kept his eyes on Robin watching his facial expressions, but suddenly, "AAAAHHHHHHHHH."

"Hmm?" Water Empress Victoria furrowed her eyebrows when she saw this and looked out of the corner of her eyes at Alexander, who looked confused and apprehensive as well.

What would cause pain to someone with Old Gu's strength?! He was an expert as strong as them and had experience, resistance, and soul power that surpassed them all!

Secondly... Did Robin just say If you feel any resistance or malicious attempt, I will destroy your soul? Does this boy understand what it means to destroy Old Gu's soul?!

When they heard him make this statement they sneered at the audacity of this top-level saint!

But hearing those heart-rending screams... It didn't seem like he was joking!

"AAAAHHHHHHHHH..."

Old Gu's scream continued for about two minutes, the pain reached him that he could no longer bear to stand, and fell to his knees in front of Robin, he felt that his soul was about to be torn apart at any moment but he did not dare to withdraw his hand, He didn't want his soul to be destroyed!!

"...Fuu~" Robin finally released his hand, sweat was pouring down his entire body profusely, it was obvious that he had spent quite a bit of his energy on whatever had just happened

"Cough~ cough~~ ARGHHH!!" When Old Gu realized that his hand was now free, he quickly pulled it and put it around his head, a severe headache nearly killed him, but his whole body seemed to be damaged and no longer knew how to function efficiently!

long inhale

"Hooo~ Antoine Barnett, Joseph Barnett, Maria Barnett----" Robin let out a long exhale and then, with one breath, began calling names out loud, until he got to the 17 names, "...Robertson Barnett, all of these must be executed and their family property shall be seized, orders are to be carried out immediately."

"What? No NO NO... What are you talking about? We have given up already, is this how you treat your prisoners? This is unacceptable! This is unacceptable--" One of the Elders whose name was mentioned panicked and began to mumble, but he had barely finished the sentence before he found Sakar's hand piercing his chest.

"Antoine!!" Another shouted when he saw the scene, "We have to get out of here!"

"What are you all waiting for? They are killing us, your brothers, under your noses, you will stand there and allow them?! fight with us!!" One of those sentenced to death tried to move the rest of the generals and elders on his side, but no one moved...

Rather, some of those sentenced to death did not move from their place, they just sighed and closed their eyes.

Everyone here accepted the possibility of death since they agreed to surrender, Billy made this clear as the sun even before the battle was over

The hundreds of sages of the Flame Empire came here not to participate in some fair trial, but to die in front of Robin to satisfy his vengeance and make him forget about their families, in fact having only 17 names on the list is a pretty good outcome!

It's just that facing actual death made the survival instinct kick in...

...That person who shouted and some of the names on the list tried to escape but the Demon Kings and Jabba pursued them everywhere

Some of the sages from the other three empires were about to move to help those people, but the three emperors raised their hands and ordered them to retreat, and quickly the cries of the 17 sages began to rise one after another...

The silence on the hill has finally been broken.
