

The Truth 391

Chapter 391 A Year

Starting from the second week after The Great Green Hill Declaration, the advantages of joining the True Beginning Empire began to be manifested for Everyone...

In the continents of The water, The Wind, and The Sacred tree...:

For the first time in history, everyone agreed on one thing: to reject the Rule of someone they don't even know.

Everyone got out to the streets and riots broke out like never before, but it was still limited to their mid-core strength, they couldn't really affect what was going on in the palaces without their own powerhouses to support them

But they didn't find any...

The protests that lasted for about ten days subsided and the people accepted their destiny after they saw that all the high-level Sages were satisfied with the situation, But things didn't stop at that...

A strange phenomenon began to spread in all the streets, something that if someone thought of it before, he would have gotten up and poured cold water on his head, thinking that he is daydreaming.

It started when the imperial army descended on the capital, but not for the purpose of punishing the people who protested or implemented the laws of their new Emperor by force as everyone thought, but rather.. to distribute hundreds of minor heavenly laws techniques, each up to the third stage?!

And not laws pertaining to the Heavenly Path that the people of each continent specialize in, but rather, those minor laws about all aspects of life... For example, in the water continent, people were surprised to receive books bearing minor laws about plants, pressure, winds, flames, and so on!

It was said that the World Emperor called Robin Burton was the one who discovered all these laws and wanted to share them with his subjects.

...After every continental ruler returned to his home, he learned how to use the tablets given to them by their new emperor, and they ordered him to make written copies of them and distribute them to everyone as the Emperor wanted.

Tens of thousands of saints were appointed to make written copies of hundreds of new Minor Heavenly Law Cultivation Techniques and publish them as soon as they finished them, and for free!

There was truly an inexhaustible source of those books with all those sages working none stop, and with the full support of the continental rulers, how could it NOT reach as many people as possible?

People thought it was a way for their rulers to distract them and that this was just a joke or a hoax, but during the few months that followed the distribution of those books, many people said that they really benefited something from them and started using these Minor Heavenly Law Cultivation Techniques to support their main Law, and even a new generation of youngsters appeared who succeeded in building their pillars from Those new laws!

Although choosing to use a minor law over a major law seems illogical, it is simply that not everyone is interested in having the strongest law, for example, there are farmers who want the plants and life paths laws to help them out, and there are blacksmiths who want fire path laws, as such the working class citizens were one of the biggest beneficiaries of those Minor Heavenly Law Cultivation Techniques.

But the biggest beneficiaries, undoubtedly, were the servant families...

Just a short while ago, they could not practice the major laws that the ruling families possessed, they only had extremely old minor laws that barely reached the second stage, but now they have hundreds of laws to choose from and they all reach the third stage... Sagehood Stage!!

And that's not all... Three months after The Great Green Hill Declaration, it was announced that competitions would be organized for youngsters who are still in the foundation stage, and the winner of these competitions and activities has the right to choose among four major laws: flames, plants, water, and wind.

The main laws for the rest of the continents will be handed over to children who have not entered the Knighthood realm yet... This news sparked controversy in all three continents!!

And not just handing over the known Major Laws, but it is said that these new techniques are perfect and much better than what they used to know during their history!!!

Then, another piece of news spread about the opening of academies to teach something called making divine weapons and teaching drawing something called talismans

And a few months later the markets were flooded with sound rings, oath tablets, and various divine equipment and talismans!

It didn't take long for the three continents to begin to show the influence of Emperor Robin's orders, in just one year:

Economically: the production of everything has doubled, and the quality of life, in general, has become much better

Militarily: the formation of the army diversified after it was based on one law technique, and each cultivator began to learn other side laws that would help him massively in his battles.

Socially: A new enthusiasm was ignited among everyone, especially among the young generation, to train better and develop their talents to explore all those new doors that were opened for them!

... the Flame Continent

The course of events there was delayed because everyone was busy returning to their homes and rebuilding what was destroyed... but this only took three months.

Thanks to Billy's policy during the invasion, what was not necessary was not destroyed. Any house that was destroyed was a side effect of a huge battle or because one of the soldiers hid in it, but most of the houses and infrastructure remained as they were, so with some effort and simple construction, the continent returned as it was - almost-

And from that point on, Gu took advantage of the opportunity to keep up with the rest and began to copy and distribute law books as well. He asked a few Rune masters and divine weapon smiths to make a few academies, and even forced everyone, especially the servant families, to study these techniques as quickly as possible!

He knew what was going on in the rest of the continents through the Sound Ring and was coordinating with Alexander and the rest of the continental rulers

They all took the same orders to strengthen the average strength per individual in their regions before the start of the planetary war, and he did not want the Barnett family and the inhabitants of the Flame Continent to lag behind the rest of their old comrades too much.

The people of the Flame Continent didn't know why their ruler Gu Barnett had pressured them to such an extent to learn and strengthen themselves, but he didn't need a reason either, after what they had been exposed to in the war against the Demons, everyone knew that they were still weak and that gaining strength was the right way to maintain peace.

Even without his pressure everyone in the flame continent was v eager to absorb everything that is thrown at them.

So by the end of the first year after the announcement of Great Green Hill, the Flame Continent was walking shoulder to shoulder with the rest of the three continent

Chapter 392 Developments In The Ancestral Continent

The Ancestral Continent...

The week that followed The Great Green Hill Declaration witnessed a massive struggle between the Burton family and the Demon army from one side, and between the beneficiaries of the status quo, such as the gangs from the other side.

For how can they hand over this crime paradise and return it to the law easily?

During the attempt to subject the cities to the law again, many gang members who had broken through to the knighthood realm appeared in mass, some of whom were hiding from the Demons all along but most of them were at peak level 10 and broke through after Robin's speech.

Strong battles took place throughout the continent, and not only the gang members, but there were also those who had a strong sense of revenge towards Robin and his family!

Those who hate Robin hated the gangs as well, but for the first time they stood together under the principle of the enemy of my enemy is my friend

The resistance was unexpectedly strong, in a matter of a week many of the knights of the Burton family and the Demons fell!

But the power difference between the two parties was just too overwhelming, and it started to show its effect soon after... With every passing day, dozens of cities were combed, cleansed, and annexed to the True Beginning Empire

This internal war continued for two months after The Great Green Hill Declaration!

By that time, all criminal organizations were dismantled or destroyed, and everyone who was filled with the fire of hatred toward Robin and the Burton family was also pursued and killed, as Robin said in his declaration, no one cared about giving justifications and asking for forgiveness... Whoever raised his weapon was put to death.

As for the rest of the people of the Ancestral Continent, they did not have a problem with the Declaration, as Robin said, this is what everyone used to do in wars, and their ancestors experienced it more than once

And this is not about what was happening in wars in dusty times, but they themselves saw what happened in the lands of the Burton family and Especially Jura City... Robin Burton won the war against the eight kingdoms and what happened after was only to be expected, he could have been much more merciful, but well, he wasn't.

At least Robin is starting to fix things now...

But then came the important question... What next?

The continent fell under the control of the so-called True Beginning Empire, but the farms were burned, the factories destroyed, and the roads were demolished. What did they gain after 'establishing the law'?

At least the gangs were forcing citizens to work in farming lands to produce some food to resell to people in exchange for working for them or finding treasures on their behalf!

Now even these farms are devoid of slaves and the crops are spoiled.

A very gloomy wave has descended on the entire Ancestral Continent, everyone is sitting at home safe, but hungry.

Everyone knew that a severe famine had begun and that at least half of the continent's population would die out before their alleged Empire began providing some food for the rest. Death is inevitably coming!!

But...

What really came were... food convoys?!

Immediately after The True Beginning Empire finished tightening its grip on the Ancestral Continent, a strange phenomenon began to occur, huge amounts of food and clean water appeared everywhere... And for free!

At first, it was just tables spread with grilled meat and clean water, and then, a few weeks later, these tables began to multiply, and fruits, vegetables, and bread made from grains appeared on them!

The famine ended before it began, and no one knows how.

They only take their portions allocated for each day and cry with joy while they eat, It has been a long time since they ate these quantities until they forgot what satiety means. They even forgot what pure water tasted like after they had to drink straight from the rivers that became filled with the dead bodies of humans and beasts.

...Behind the scenes, it was simply that Billy knew something like this would happen, so he gathered many commoners and gave them a fee to plow the land and sow the seeds, then ordered the few remaining life legion members to force those seeds to germinate quickly.

And while germinating those seeds, repairing roads, and making stores for food, Billy ordered the Demons to hunt down the beasts and fill the deficit in food until the grains and fruits reach people.

As for pure water, it was easier... There were many Demons who are practicing the major Heavenly Law of water!

Four months after The Great Green Hill Declaration...

After ensuring the safety of lives and stomachs, Billy began dividing the Ancestral Continent into regions headed by one of the Elders of the Burton family, and each Elder was given battalions of Demons and a few members of the Life Legion to help him manage his new position

Six months after The Great Green Hill Declaration...

All agricultural lands, factories, and shops returned to work, while properties and lands whose owners died were distributed among the poor to start a new life...

Everything returned to it was before the war began, the difference is that there are no longer any Borders anywhere on the continent, it is really still divided, but only administratively, to facilitate taking care of people's interests, but now anyone can migrate to any place on the continent without anyone asking him where you are going

And there's something that stunned Billy when he heard of it, something he thought would be quite the opposite!

The general average cultivation level in the continent... has skyrocketed and become much higher than before!!

In the past, it was only the noble families who possessed the Heavenly laws techniques and Everygy Cultivation Techniques and could access Knighthood, while the commoners were mostly working with forced labor in the lands and factories and they had no means to cultivate even the Energy Foundation Realm!

And no desire either... With no Heavenly Laws Techniques, what will they do with cultivating to the tenth level? They can't go anywhere after that, so why bother? better spend that time on something more useful!

But after the war and the spread of the Everygy Cultivation Techniques everywhere, and everyone's newfound greed for strength... the average cultivation level among the commoners jumped from level 1 to level 8!!

Now it is rare to find a person on the streets below level 5... Not only that, after the proclamation of the Empire and everyone, was allowed to cultivate again, a huge number of people had broken through to the knighthood realm during the six months since the announcement

Now the Ancestral Continent gained a huge number of knights who had seen Hell with their eyes, and hundreds of millions of Level 5~10 Foundation Energy Realm who had returned from the Gates of Death.

If a war took place between the Ancestral Continent now and the Ancestral Continent that was ten years ago, for example, the current ancestor continent would gain a crushing will!!

But this was not enough... In the seventh month after the announcement of Big Green Hill, a huge amount of books containing techniques of Heavenly Laws and techniques of soul cultivation and energy absorption began to sweep across the Ancestor Continent like wildfire.

Compulsory academies have been set up to train all children from the age of five to eighteen, with zones for training and dissemination of cultivation advice among adults.

This new policy did not meet any resistance from the people who tasted pain and knew the value of strength, on the contrary... the speed of development of the Ancestral Continent was terrifying compared to the rest of the world

Chapter 393 Two Years

Two years after The Great Green Hill Declaration...

The exploration frenzy that struck the five inhabited continents did not subside for a moment, every day was like a gift box full of surprises for the inhabitants of Jura world!

The number of techniques and talismans and their applications invaded every corner of the five continents so quickly that even after two years people still couldn't digest everything, after all, the books of heavenly law techniques that spread across the five continents alone numbered hundreds!

And this exploration frenzy was accompanied by another kind of madness: strength gaining.

Since it was announced that everyone has now access to most of the cultivation techniques and minor heavenly laws techniques, and that they can even access higher heavenly laws, techniques, and equipment in the future by making military achievements for the army of the True Beginning Empire, and that training resources are available to everyone just like food and water, and that even their empire encourages them to train.

There was no reason for them not to take energy cultivation seriously!

The commoners and the servant families made the best use of the opportunity and compensated for thousands of years of oppression and marginalization, it is finally their chance to have a voice in this world!!

As the noble families, they wanted to maintain their advantage over the commoners by increasing their power even more, after seeing the rate at which the commoners are gaining strength, they knew that if they slaked off now the tables would turn, their historical claim over their lands and position wouldn't worth anything!

For the first time in the history of the planet, the production of experts has become in mass.

The time of veneration of knights and saints ended faster than everyone thought as breaking through into Knighthood is no longer a difficult thing after the spread of minor law techniques, but rather it has become the bare minimum to be a decent human!

In the world today, you will not be able to propose marriage to the girl you love if you are not even a knight. you will be seen as frail, lazy, and don't have what it takes to take care of your woman!

And surely you would be a laughing stock if you were a farmer and did not build your knighthood pillars by minor heavenly law from the heavenly paths of Plants, of Life or a blacksmith and did not build your pillars by minor heavenly law from the path of fire!

Besides Knighthood, the Sainthood domain also decreased in prestige in the eyes of Jura World inhabitants, after it was a domain reserved for high-ranking nobles, it became the real goal for the cultivators, and it was not that difficult target either after providing the best techniques and training resources, every day hundreds of people around the world broke through into Sainthood!

Currently, the only domain that is still revered is the Sagehood, as cultivating in that domain requires a lot of time, resources, and talent, and these are something that not everyone possesses... yet.

The state of anger and resistance in the four empire continents -formerly- after turning to vassals under a stranger has gone with the winds.

Although they were prevented from leaving their continents recently and communication was cut off between the peoples of the four continents and they could not know what was happening in the outside world, it didn't matter anymore...

It was no longer important to them whether or not the whole world had been united under the so-called new emperor.

On the contrary, the inhabitants of the world now -including the Ancestral continent- wish that the news is not true and that these techniques and benefits are for them only!

Who cares if the rest of the world will laugh at them for being under occupation? If the occupation was so wonderful, then let them remain occupied forever!

But at the end of the second year after the announcement of The Great Green Hill Declaration, something else happened that shook Jura world again...

It was announced that the space portals on the five continents can now be activated.

It was said in the announcement that when using that portal, you only have to pay 5 Energy Stones, and you will be sent to any other continent on the planet except for the central continent!

The new announcement fell like thunder in everyone's ears.

Just until recently, they would send their most precious and talented youth to meet with their equals in the Central continent.

But that was it!

No continent would accept intruders from a place that is considered rivals or even enemies, so even the Sages and talented youths could not go anywhere other than the Central Continent and the Ancestral Continent

Even if it is possible to go to any other place in the world, ocean sailing is very dangerous because of the presence of all those sea beasts, it requires the presence of several Sages on each ship to have a chance to reach its destination safely

The cost of hiring many Sages for a sea trip that requires months of wasted time and facing death every day was mind-blowing, and therefore the travel of ordinary people is considered an impossibility even if all the continents coexisted in true peace!

The dream of travel was in everyone's mind, but it never went beyond being a dream.

Until today's announcement at least...

It was a thing out of everyone's imagination, But the strange thing is that no one said that it might be a lie!

With all the crazy things happening every day, nothing is out of reach for their new Empire!

The inhabitants of the five continents gathered around their space portals and waited for them to be activated. They eagerly want to experience that wondrous innovation

And most importantly, they want to go to other continents and brag to the people there about all those treasures and wonders that happen to them in the last two years.

'The people of other continents must be surprised when they see us! This is what the people of all continents thought as they stood in front of the space portals...

Had it not been for their leaders stressing that their visits to other sides should be polite and peaceful, many would have prepared to conquer those other continents and annex them to the True Beginning Empire.

Some of them even prepared men and weapons in secret to take control of some lands on the other continents and gain the approval of their new mysterious Emperor!

'It is our duty to civilize those peasants! Everyone said about everyone else.

...That day was a disappointment but also a moment of realization for many.

Whenever one passes through the gate, he sees in front of him a huge crowd of people looking at him from the other side, in a few moments the five continents exchanged thousands of visitors and all of them were shocked by the reality at the same moment...

Their rulers have been truthful all along.

The whole world possesses the same techniques that they possess and define themselves as part of the True Beginning Empire.

Two full years after the announcement of the Big Green Hill, the inhabitants of the planet Jura made sure that they are indeed under the same rule!

Chapter 394 Specialization

The week after the opening of the Space Portals...

The people of the five continents felt almost the same when the Space Portals were announced, some of them feeling frustrated at facing the people of the rest of the continents as a conquered nation who lost their will, and some of them feeling excited that they would be able to show off the new abilities that he and his friends had obtained

Extremely few people actually believed that the entire world had united under the same banner!

But this was destroyed seconds after the Space Portals were opened and the young adventurers began rushing like locusts from every side...

Although at first, they did not see anything in front of them except an empty arc, and whoever enters it disappeared, and they do not actually know if he went to another continent or not, but this did not frighten many as they kept rushing to the other side of the Space Portals, in a few hours hundreds of thousands of youngsters and those seeking adventure moved through the gates!

In the beginning, the inhabitants of the four imperial continents directed toward the other imperial continents, they wanted to see what was happening in the entities that they had always considered on an equal footing with them, they wanted to see their culture, techniques, and equipment and compare it to theirs

Very rarely did anyone intend to go to the ancestral continent to the extent that the space portal in the ancestral continent was working almost only in one direction, all of them wanted to get out of the Ancestral Continent to explore but no one would enter it

But this only lasted for a few days, until the inhabitants of the four imperial continents were sure that they were indeed united...

Whenever one of the adventurers takes out a sound ring, he finds the natives have one of them... If they take out a divine weapon, They would find an adventurer from another continent carrying a similar one!

As for the topic of discussion was almost the same everywhere at this moment... Did you also fall under the rule of Emperor Robin Burton? What is going on in your homeland? Do you also have this and that?!

All the shame that some of them felt had disappeared, and all the enthusiasm that the rest felt was gone, and was replaced by a feeling of another kind: 'We should know more about the world Emperor!'

In the second week after opening the space portal to public use, a mass emigration took place toward the Ancestral continent.

One day, the inhabitants of the Ancestral continent woke up from their sleep and found people wearing different clothes and speaking in different dialects, asking them things that were supposed to be general knowledge on the Ancestral continent, like Who is Robin Burton? How was his upbringing? What are the features of his character? What happened that gave him the power to take over the world

The inhabitants of the ancestral continent did not know how to feel about this...

Do they glorify the person who made them taste humiliation and suffering for nearly two years, or do they insult one of their own who subjugated the whole world under his rule?

In the end, most of them decided to tell the truth and let those adventurers judge for themselves... And the truth was more than enough!

For the people of the ancestral continent who tasted torment at the hands of Robin, he is a criminal, although he now made their lives much better than before, this will not bring back those who were killed at his hands...

But as for the citizens of the other four continents who have not seen this horror with their own eyes, everything that was said about him was legendary!!

Even his revenge on the ancestral continent was not excessive, in fact, it can be said that he was very merciful after hearing what happened to his family in Jura City!

The city of Jura... has now become the number one shrine on the planet.

All travelers from all over the world headed to that place where it all began, observing it from afar with looks of full respect and amazement.

After all... it was from this small town that the one and only World Emperor emerged.

Three months after the opening of the space portals...

The world exploration frenzy began to subside gradually, and the miraculous space connection between the five continents turned into a normal thing now

However, the real benefits of that connection have only begun to reveal themselves, as trade flourished on a daily basis as never before.

It began with small merchants tying some culturally related goods like clothes and novel books, on their backs and traveling to other continents to sell them, then these kinds of merchants found a place in each continent to group on sell their goods there

But this was not enough for the big wales, only selling clothes and stories of the local culture won't last for long, so they had to think of something to make this trade last for as long as possible, They need something that no other can produce as they do

And as such, every continent began to look at what it owned more than other continents, and they began to pave the way to make the most of that thing by nurturing it more and then selling it.

For example, the Sacred Tree Continent slowly began to turn into the food basket of the world because of the existence of all those people who specialize in the laws of plants, and the fertile land caused by the interest in plants throughout the tens of thousands of years of the rule of the Trent family.

The Flame Continent began to specialize in the manufacture of high-level weapons and divine weapons mainly, and gradually surpassed the rest in the number of factories, and workshops and the number of the younger generation members who wanted to take part in the troublesome craft, as half of the troubles in the craft was none existence to then as they already got used to being around the hot flames.

The Water Continent cared more about capturing energy stones from the depths of the sea, and it became the main supplier of ordinary energy stones in the world and the main resource for meat as well because of the inexhaustible amount of sea beasts.

While the Wind continent tended to specialize in supporting the Rune Masters and providing all the resources needed for the inks that are used in the Runes and the leather and metals on which they are engraved.

As for the Ancestral continent whose people were still busy rebuilding their destroyed cities and raising a new generation of experts after all their experts were killed in the war, they had neither the time nor the energy to take advantage of this specialization frenzy, they had nothing they could provide better than the rest of the deeply Rooted continents either.

But fortunately for them, they are the birthplace of the World Emperor.

The Ancestral continent slowly turned into the most crowded place on the planet and the most prosperous also after it was chosen to be the world trade center.

Chapter 395 Shadow Swords

Two years and 11 months after The Great Green Hill Declaration---

The Ancestral Continent - in front of the Shadows Swords Organization headquarters

hustle hustle

"Stand in one line, whoever gets out of line will be banned from joining the entrance exams for twenty years!" A person dressed in black walked out from the balcony of the headquarters and shouted loudly

Although he had recently become a Sage, he was not sure if his loud energy filled voice had reached the people standing at the end of the line, which was a few kilometers long, So he signaled to some of the knights that were dressed in black to go to the back of the line and pass on his words!

It is said that the person who stands first in line now has been moving forward in the line for four months!

Although the organization's main headquarters was built from scratch on an empty site in the middle of the continent, within a few days of announcing its existence it had become the main destination for the young generation throughout the world.

During the last six months, a small city was built around the Shadows Swords Organization headquarters and it is still expanding, and there were people whose main work was to bring water and food and makeshift toilets to those standing in line!

It was exhausting, energy and time draining, and somehow humiliating, and yet most of those who came still held together and stood respectfully.

The main goal of the organization or the purpose of its existence has not been announced, and anyway it is not important to them.

Everyone here came for one thing, and that is The head of the Shadow Swords Organization Theo Burton, the adopted son of Emperor Robin Burton!!

Since the Space Portals were opened and information spread about the journey of Emperor Robin Burton and his followers, legends also spread about the four special legions that supported his military successes, and the extent of the damage that these small legions caused against the Flame Empire, and that for a full ten years, the Flame Empire was unable to Eliminate them completely!

And what increased the legends about them is that these four special legions are headed by the adopted sons of the Emperor!

If excluding Emperor Robin's deceased wife and his son -whom he declared he was still alive but said he was being tortured somewhere- then those four are undoubtedly the closest to the Emperor!

Very soon an obsession spread far and wide to join the four special legions, especially so among the younger generation...

How can they not when they can immediately obtain high status, prestige, and respect, and be closer to the Emperor of their world?

However, they were quickly shocked that the Fire, Wind, and Life Legions had been temporarily disbanded and were currently being merged with the armies of the Flame, Wind, and Divine Tree Empires, and it was not announced when they would be revived.

But that dream was not completely killed... Only five months after the opening of the space portals, the Shadow Swords Organization appeared

Being established on the ruins of the Darkness Special Legion and headed by Theo Burton personally, and still have many of the heroes of the Legion who followed the Emperor and united the world by his side... It was something impossible to resist!

There was no need to say more, large numbers of youngsters flocked from all over the world, no one knew what that organization was or what they had to do to join, or what duties would they have to do after joining, they just stood in line waiting for their turn to meet their heroes when their turn comes...

"Brother, what brings you here? I heard the test inside is very difficult."

"Don't try to dissuade me to give you my turn, I know I will probably be rejected but I have to see His Highness Theo just once, then I will accept whatever the outcome!"

"Idiot, don't you know that the Major Heavenly Law of Darkness is one of the very few laws that His Majesty Robin hasn't distributed to everyone? His Highness Theo definitely keeps it for himself and his followers, and the fact that it hasn't been leaked yet even though the Shadow Swords Organization has accepted many new members means that whoever is accepted will be taking an oath of some kind, currently, the Shadow Swords Organization are the most mysterious and insignificant in the world, and you say you are here only to see his highness?! What idiocy! As for me, I must be one of them!!"

"Tsk~ One is an idiot and the other is a stupid teenager, you think you'll be special as a member of Shadow Swords when there are thousands more who use The Major Heavenly Law of Darkness? ...I'm from the Flame Continent and I used the foundation modification technique to obtain the white fire, I wonder what will happen after receiving the Major Heavenly Law of Darkness from His Highness Theo and combining it with my cultivation using the Foundation modification Technique? Ahhhh, I can stand here for another hundred years to achieve this goal!!" The person behind the two of them suddenly intervened

"Huh?! Do you think you are a genius? you just want to imitate His Highness Caesar!!" The two looked behind them and spoke in one breath

Then one of them continued, "Anyone can adjust their cultivation thanks to His Majesty's legendary Foundation modification Technique, but what then? You will be stuck at that level forever, you think you are brilliantly smart like his majesty to make up your own law cultivation technique? you are daydreaming!"

As the discussion raged between the three, an angry voice came from behind them, "Damn, I can't stay here forever! I am the 93rd son of the Frost Imperial Family, how can I be treated as a commoner?! Make way for me!!"

buzz

"What the hell did you say?"

"Which family are you from? There is only one imperial family now, His Majesty Robin Burton's family! you are no different from us now you dump bastard."

"Take back your words or I will tell one of the Shadow Swords on you!"

The ninety-third son did not know that his words, which he said in a moment of anger, would attract the attention of all who heard him.

It seemed that life stopped for a moment before the looks turned towards him to anger, then some killing intent began to leak out against him!

Gulp

"S-- Sorry..."

On a hotel balcony overlooking the Shadow Swords Organization headquarters

"Haha, it will take a long time for the world's population to get used to the new order." Robin laughed out loud as he took a sip from the cup in his hand

A very handsome, long-haired young man spoke behind Robin at a feeble pace, "Yes, but there is a great improvement compared to the situation 11 months ago, everyone knows that they are yours now, they just need to be reminded every now and then."

knock knock

"Hmmm? Come in.." Robin raised his eyebrows slightly when he heard the knock on the door and spoke squeak

The door opened slowly and a man entered with his back, then he turned around and showed Billy's face with a big cake in his hand and a candle in the middle of it, then he said with a smile, "Finally I found you!"

Chapter 396 Birthday

"Oh, Mister Continental Ruler is personally here? To whom do I owe this visit?" Robin chuckled when he heard Billy's voice, and spoke, still not turning to the door

"Ahaha-hah! So funny! Wasn't it you who sent a shadow sword to summon me?" Billy took a few steps up to the balcony, placed the cake on the small table in front of Robin, and smiled, "This is your first official appearance since The Great Green Hill Declaration, where have you been all this time?"

"Hmm... Touring the ancestral continent previously made me realize that sitting in a meditation position behind fortified walls is nothing compared to seeing the world, meditating on its stories, and seeing the truth behind it." Robin said, looking toward the horizon

"Oh?" Billy sat down in an empty chair that had been prepared for him next to Robin, "Are you really just meditating on stories and truths? I don't think you are that bored.. your aura seems much deeper than the last time I saw you. Even though you were already at the pinnacle of the Sainthood Realm... Hoy, you didn't break through to the Sagehood Realm yet, are you?"

"Haha, you have a keen eye, your new position seems to have given you special powers! Haha" Robin laughed loudly and then shook his head, "But alas no, I haven't broken through to the Sagehood realm yet, there is still an obstacle in front of me blocking the way, How do I explain it to you..."

It feels like... I'm blind in a very spacious hall and trying to find the way out, It's true that I'm moving forward but I don't know in which direction I walk, I don't know whether to walk towards the door or I will just end up running into another wall... Heh~ Reaching the fourth level of the Master Law of Truth might take a lot more time than I expected ."

"Hmm, I guess I should be worried too since the hopes of Planet Jura rest on your shoulders, especially when it comes to exploring techniques and laws... but I'm not worried in the slightest." Billy scratched his hair and spoke, "If there's only one blind man who can take the right path and make it to the door with certainty, it's you. It's only a matter of time."

"Hehe, thanks for the morale boost, I guess I needed this..." Robin chuckled again, then pointed at the cake, "So... Do you want to tell me what that is?"

"...Huh? Don't you really know? Are you saying you randomly summoned me today?" Billy opened his eyes wide and said surprised

"Just a day like any other, what's special about it?" Robin raised his eyebrows and asked, then looked at Theo, "Do you know anything about what he's saying?"

"Today is the fourteenth of the eighth month, it's your birthday, father." Theo smiled and replied

"Huh? ..the days became the same since I left the Burtons and went to the cave that day... Wait, How do you both know that?!" Robin mumbled slightly, then raised his head and asked Theo again

"This has become general information in the entire planet since the opening of the space portals. The questions of the people about their new Emperor made many searches after your origins, information like this has long been found out and published. In fact, there are celebrations all over the world now, and an official holiday has been declared in the Sacred Tree Continent on the occasion of your birthday." Theo replied

"Huh? Haha what a useless holiday, I don't even know how old I am!" Robin laughed out loud

"Do you want to know?" A big smile appeared on Billy's face as he jokingly asked

"Actually no I don't..." Robin shrugged

Billy furrowed his brows and continued, "I'll tell you anyway, and this is not a secret, anyone can find out by digging a bit into the historical records... You are now exactly 187 years old."

"...187 years? That sounds like a lot, and much fewer than I expected too..." Robin leaned his back on the chair and spoke in a low voice, "All those events I have gone through... I feel like they could fill thousands of years of anyone's lifetime, but looking back, I feel like I just entered that cave yesterday... Life is really something extremely profound."

Billy raised his eyebrows slightly, this was not the reaction he expected when he brought the cake and came to celebrate with him, how did the celebration turn into a meditation on the origins of life?!

"Cough cough, I think this number is unfair honestly, you are no doubt born 187 years ago but your body is much younger I think you are in your fifties now?" Billy wanted to return the dialogue to joy again, so he opened a topic aside while cutting the cake

"Haha, I think you are right. After the All-Seeing God sudden intervention that day, he reverted me back to the age of 12. If we count based on this number, then... my physical age is only 53! Well that sounds better, it is better to publish this number, the other one makes me feel too old." Robin laughed out loud and took a piece of the cake from Billy's hand, and passing another one to Theo next to him

"Pffff, you look old? In whose eyes?! Everyone I saw when he heard your true age for the first time was opening his mouth wide as if he wanted to swallow me! Don't forget the world Emperors before you whom everyone calls the young and the hope, their ages range from 800 and 1100! Compared to them, you are a baby!" Billy spit the cookie out of his mouth and yelled

"Hahahaha, baby? Is this how people see me?" Robin laughed out loud and took a pat on his thigh

Billy put his hand on his chest and spoke confidently, "Of course, you think I'd joke about something like that? Hurry up and finish your cake and I'll get you some milk!"

"HAHAHAHAHA."

Theo gave a satisfied smile as he saw his adoptive father laughing like this, he even saw a few tears starting to fall from the side of Robin's eyes!

When was the last time he saw him laughing like this? Rather.. did he ever see him laugh like this before? But this is also normal since he saw him in the slave market that day and he is always planning something or facing someone, today he is just chilling while standing on the absolute top of the planet, what else could he worry about?

Perhaps this is the real face of his father when worries leave him!

"Hmm?" But when Theo picked up Billy's face, the satisfied smile disappeared from his face, as he saw something very strange...

The louder Robin laughed, the worse Billy's facial features! 'What... Didn't Uncle Billy want to see my father happy?'

Then, out of nowhere, Billy's voice interrupted Robyn's laughter, "Are you ok? You look nervous... Why did you invite me today?"

"HAHA.. hehe.. heh~" Robin's laughter gradually diminished until it disappeared, then said, "...I trust you don't need the Demons anymore?"

Chapter 397 Immigration

"...Your weird behavior has something to do with the demons? ...Anyway, yes, I don't need them anymore." Billy replied without hesitation

"Are you sure? If they disappear immediately, will the continent remain safe?" Robin asked again

"You tell me! The governors have established their own police force in each province, and we also have a central police force that oversees the security of the entire continent represented by the sons of the families of Rufus, Bradley, and Camden. other than this and that, we have the shadow sword forces that are growing day by day. I doubt That there is any danger that will face the continent internally at any time soon."

"Oh, good.. good.. that's reassuring... you have completed your mission of restoring security and giving up your need for the demons in less than three years, you really are someone to count on, Billy.." Robin muttered in a low voice and placed the piece of cake on the table in front of him Again, then he continued, "I now want you to make an official announcement to send all the Demons to the central continent."

"Hmmm? Are you sure about what you are saying, Robin? Do you know what will happen if I left them without supervision?" Billy furrowed his eyebrows even more and asked, "I personally experienced how fast the life cycle of those demons is and how many cubs their females can have within a year, they are now from rabbits!

You brought with you over 100,000 demons, but their numbers have approached half a million over the past five years. Their numbers are increasing at a frightening speed and their Cubs are growing so fast that I was terrified! I even passed laws to separate their males from their females a few months ago, do you really want to send them to the central continent and leave them unattended?"

A huge shadow suddenly appeared in front of everyone blocking the sunlight, and spoke in a tone that was filled with apparent anger, "It is good that you mentioned the matter yourself. my lord, does it please you what this person did with my people? To command the separation of males from females? He treats us like animals in the mating season! Had it not been for your lordship who placed him as ruler of the ancestral continent before your departure, We wouldn't have stayed silent for this long."

Billy looked at the newcomer, "So your honored self decided to appear, you damn demon, do you realize the bill for supplying beast meat to this many mouths? We have recently had to allocate ships to hunt huge sea beasts around the ancestral continent to try to satisfy your restless hunger, it's like you damn things are always in a famine! And what is more problematic is that the beast meat doesn't even satisfy your hunger, but you have a constant thirst for human flesh... who knows how many innocent people you have hunted down over the past few years!"

"All the Demon Kings are supervising the control of our new cubs and teaching them not to hunt humans on Planet Jura, where do you get that we are killing humans from? We struggle to control ourselves for His Excellency's sake and you are here defaming us, don't speak without evidence!" The newcomer got heated up and raised his voice at Billy and then looked at Robin, "Sire, we followed you with our hearts and souls because you saved us from those who kill our little cubs, now this person does not want us to touch each other in the first place, how are you going to give us justice?"

"Alright, Alright, calm down, Amon, and you, too, Billy... I realize that you both had problems and both of you see it from your own point of view, The race of Demons is indeed a big problem for any ecosystem and the reason for that is that they are not a natural race, I heard that they were cursed or something like that? I will look into it later when I have time..."

and anyway, you don't need to worry, we won't need to think about it again.." When Robin saw the argument gets heated, he raised his hands and Smiling, then he added, "Amon, I was just talking to Billy about migrating all the demons to the central continent, choose a good spot there and allocate it to you, and live as you wish~"

"...What about our food?" Amon was silent for a few seconds, then asked in a low voice

"AHAHAHA" when he heard this Billy started laughing hysterically

Ever since he heard Robin say live as you wish he knew this was going to be a problem, The demons are man-eating beasts, they can eat beasts and ordinary animals as well but it wouldn't satisfy their hunger and they need huge amounts of that meatless meat every day

The Demons couldn't have survived the past few years without human flesh if not for the navy fleets roaming all the seas looking for food for them, if they didn't have that help in providing their food they will die out, of course... go back hunting humans!

Also, if they were left unattended and allowed to produce naturally, then within one century they would eat every green and dry land on the entire planet!

"YOU..!!" Amon got angry when he heard Billy's laugh and was ready to have another round of shouting at him, but he didn't know what to say.

"Shut up, both of you! I told you there will be no need for that." Robin moved his hands again to separate them and then looked at Amon, "Just do as I say and we'll talk later about your food."

"...Yes." Amon bowed a little and replied, he did not know what solution Robin would propose, but as long as he said he would take care of the matter, then it was a done deal.

Robin nodded at him slowly with a forced smile and then looked at the ground for a few seconds...

before raising his head again and looking at Billy, "Oh by the way, how's the invasion preparations? We'll be moving in about a month."

Billy didn't reply directly, he kept looking into Robin's eyes with knotted eyebrows for a few seconds without saying a word, but when Robin met him silently and his light smile, he sighed and replied, "... Don't wait for anything special from the ancestral continent! the ancestral continent has developed a lot in the past three years and there are millions of Knights now, but not a single Saint has emerged from them yet, and they all still hate your guts, so I don't think they are ready to fight for you yet... In general, there is no significant force on the Ancestor Continent other than the forces of the Burton Family, which is represented by about twenty thousand Saints, and They are all ready to move at any time.

As for the preparations on the other four continents, they are in full swing. Almost every day, one or two battalions are sent toward the central continent. Currently, there are more than two million soldiers in a camp around your imperial capital, and their numbers are still increasing day by day. At this rate, it will not be long before The army reaches Four million, Don't worry, you will have a decent army before the deadline."

Chapter 398 A Trade With The Hostile Allies

"An army of three million soldiers, huh..." Robin mumbled and slowly rubbed his chin, "I distributed all the Energy Pearls I brought from Nihari at the Green Hill Meeting, I think they were about five million or so... is there enough Energy Pearls left to transport that many individuals?"

"Those five million did not remain in our pockets, they contributed to the upbringing of a huge number of knights and saints, I doubt that even a quarter of that number remained... Secondly, how much does transportation cost per person to that planet anyway?" Billy furrowed his eyebrows and asked

"I don't know, The All-Seeing God did not tell me this detail, and I forgot to ask him, And I think I wouldn't have asked even if I remembered, both of us were too angry to prolong the conversation further... Anyway, it depends on the distance between us and that place, but precaution is a must, We can't risk having in problem with the Space portal during the transportation process... Amon!" Robin raised his eyes and looked at the goblin standing beside him

"Yes, Your Excellency?" Amon took a step closer and asked

"I want you to start a business with the Nihari Union Sect, sell them talismans from the new designs I gave to the factories, and sell them at the highest possible price! I want you to save at least 10 million energy coins within the next month at any cost."

"This..." Amon was stunned when he heard the number, this amount of pearls could shake the foundations of any large tribe in the Nihari world, "Do you think they would agree?"

"I gave them the entire eastern region. If they cannot provide this small quantity of pearls within a month, then they are not worth all my hard work! I know they can do it, but if they do not agree, tell them that we will sell those talismans in the southern region. This will get them back to their minds." Robin shrugged and replied indifferently

"As you wish, Your Excellency, and if they refuse further then I will take the Demon army and destroy that Sect for you and bring you its entire treasury!" Amon Proudly slammed on his chest

Aside from the fact that the Space Portal is located in the heart of Hope City and that he can deploy a huge number of troops in the heart of the city before anyone notices, the Demons really did reach a frightening level of strength during the war on Planet Jura, Declaring war on the Sect wasn't that far fetched in their any more

They ate their fill as if they would never eat again, Although the war on Planet Jura was not related to them, they wished for a war like this every day!!

Robin rested his back on his chair for a moment, then replied, "...No need, it's not time yet. If they refuse, carry out your threat and go sell talismans and weapons to the southern region."

Then he gestured beside it, "Oh, right, take him with you on your trip to Nihari."

"Hmm?" Amon looked towards the place that Robin points to, and found Theo standing, also puzzled by the decision, then asked in astonishment, "Him?!"

"What, do you have a problem?"

Amon quickly waved both his hands, "No, no, Your Excellency, how dare I question your decision? But the gravity there is just too..."

"I did not forget about that, I left a new design for a bracelet with Runes from the gravitational path in the Ancestral Continent Rune Academy. After activating it, the effect of the bracelet will be sufficient to reflect the effect of gravity on any other planet and make it equal to gravity on the planet Jura. I believe that the first batch will be ready this week." Robin replied with ease

"Oh? Doesn't that mean you can send the human army to Nihari too?!" Amon asked quickly, with excitement in his voice. It was clear that the Demons had not forgotten what the giants had done to them for hundreds of thousands of years...

"...All I want is to establish a trade that benefits both parties. Don't let your imagination go too far. You and the rest of the Demon kings will have your own stuff to do and you are not used to these trading affairs anyway, so I thought of leaving it in the hands of the humans." Robin chuckled upon hearing this and then added, "You will take a few commerce experts from the Burton family alongside Theo and a few men of the Shadow Swords to protect them, all you have to do this time is to introduce them to the Sect Elders, then it will be a direct transaction between them and you can get out of the equation, understood?"

"Oh... Alright..." Amon replied with obvious disappointment

"Good, you can disperse now, let's meet again in my imperial city a month from now." Robin clapped and announced

"I hear and obey." Amon bowed slightly and jumped off the balcony, quickly disappearing in the same way he appeared, Theo also took a step back and merged with his shadow, and disappeared.

As for Billy, he remained seated for a few seconds, staring at Robin with half-closed eyes.

"Oi little brother, Can I help you with something there? Do you want your cake back or something?!" Robin raised his eyebrows and asked sarcastically

Billy didn't reply immediately, he just kept staring at Robin as if he was trying to figure something out, after a few seconds he finally gave up and spoke, "Can I help YOU? Do you have anything you want to tell me? You don't have to take it all on your shoulders, you know..."

"...No, everything is fine, go now and facilitate the transfer of the Demons to their new home," Robin replied slowly and looked toward the horizon

Billy looked at him for a few more seconds, with apparent disappointment this time, and then slowly stood up and moved towards the door muttering, "As you wish my friend, as you wish..."

Chapter 399 Unwelcomed Visit

One week later -- Planet Nihari -- City of Hope

bzzzzzt

"Eh..?! Oh my God, the space portal has been activated!"

"Just as the council predicted, His Excellency has decided to destroy us!"

"I can't believe His Excellency really decided to do it."

"Damn it, if he postponed this invasion for a few months, we would have completed the process of moving to the city of tomorrow, Why now?!"

"Go tell the elders! Summon everyone that should be summoned!!!"

"F*CK!!!"

The tens of thousands of guards of various races stationed around the space portal raised their weapons after they saw the space porta starting to make noises and the space inside started to liquefy.

'You will not need to wait twenty years for the invasion to come, I will come to you with the invasion!' that was what Robin said a few years ago in his final moment on Planet Nihari

And it was evident that Robin's threat did not go unnoticed..

After Robin left, the council was greatly divided... Part of them decided to preserve the command of their Lord and Savior and carry it out to the letter, saying that he would never harm them if they did not provoke him further because no one would want to destroy what he had built with his own hand.

And another part, including the tribes of giants, said that Robin returned to where he came to prepare an army to eliminate them and reconquer the eastern region, saying that he wanted the space portal untouched to make it easier for him to destroy them any time he wants!

Supported their theory that he did not help them because of motherly love, but in order to impose his control and power over the eastern region, And now that his power was withdrawn from him, he will try to take it back at any cost!

As for the last third segment of the council they did not take sides, remaining silent, trembling on the sides, acknowledging the favor of their Lord, but also fearing his wrath.

In the end, everyone reached a compromise. The space portal is to be preserved without a scratch, as Robin ordered, but in return, the buildings surrounding it were destroyed and turned into a military arena in which more than forty thousand soldiers camp day and night.

It was also decided to move the capital to the city of tomorrow.

The city of tomorrow is the last city that the Sect built during the twenty years, and it was chosen because it is the farthest city from the city of hope!

However, because the city is still new and the infrastructure in it still needs a lot of work, the move did not take place immediately. Rather, all the clan's resources were diverted towards it to be properly equipped first and make it even stronger than Hope city before the displacement towards it began.

As for why, well, no one wanted to stay in a weak City when The Lord comes back to attack!!

And though it's still just empty walls with a few scattered buildings, a number of the Sect's elders and those close to them have already moved there, throwing everything behind, saying staying in a weak city is better than living inside the eye of the storm...

Even the chiefs and representatives of the tribes of giants left the city of hope to return to the capital of their ancestral lands, and each began to fortify their cities in anticipation of the inevitably coming invasion of Robin -from their point of view-

But not every one of the higher-ups left, not a small part of the elders also remained in the city of hope until the preparations for the city of tomorrow are completed and they go there with all their kind step... step...

But it looks like today they will be proven wrong...

"Oh, so this is the world that Mister Jabba and the Demons came from?"

Inhale "Do you feel the purity of the air and the density of energy in the air? It's amazing.. Whoever trains here, his training speed will double at least five times! Even after finding this gem, His Excellency left this planet and returned for our sake when we needed him, heh~ words can't describe how much I respect this man."

"I understand!! I can't believe that the same blood runs through our veins as him, How the hell our family managed to produce such a man? and he is the son of the scum Petter Burton of all!!"

"Yep, he was a scum but that was a hell of a sperm I can give him that!"

"Hey, have you noticed the gravity bracelets? They are working at full capacity. If it weren't for them, we would have been crushed since we set foot on the planet. How did His Excellency survive when he first came here?!"

"Nephew Ro-- ah, I mean, His Excellency really deserves all the respect and devotion. He really is a... WOAHH, what is all this about?!"

Dozens of people started to exit the space portal one by one, looking at the sky at times and closing their eyes to feel the aura of this new planet at other times.

But the shout of one of them, who finally looked around, brought them back to reality and forced them to look around them... Tens of thousands of individuals were carrying spears and pointing them at their heads!

They landed in the midst of an army!!

"Didn't His Excellency say that we are here for trade?!"

"Looks like we did something wrong and Hie Excellency wants to get rid of us! Ahhh, it's our fault that we are useless to him!!"

bzzzzzt

"Hmmm?" Another shadow walked out of the space portal, but it didn't care to look towards the horizon nor sense the energy like the rest, but quietly advanced towards the front of the group.

The killing intent that seeped out from him the moment he saw all those soldiers around him started to send cold shivers down everyone's backs

"What is going on here? Why are there so many soldiers around the space portal? Who is your supervisor?" Amon removed the elders of the Burton family one by one from his way and advanced towards the spears without any intention of stopping, and even started asking questions in the language of the people of Nihari.

The captain of the guard took a few steps back so that the spear would not touch Amon's chest and spoke in a shaky voice, "You... Master Amon... please stop, don't go any further... don't force us to use violence!!"

Amun extended his hand and grabbed the spear, then pulled the guard commander towards him till their faces touched at the forehead, then Amun spoke with clear killing intent, "USE YOUR VIOLENCE THEN."

"KEEEHH!!!!" Although the chief of the guard was also of the Sage level, he left the spear in Amon's hand and quickly retreated with a look of horror.

Not because Amon is much stronger than him, nor because of his frightening appearance and the killing intent he shows, but because of who he is...

Who does not know Amon, a close vassal of the lord? The one who helped the lord when he was weak and was the cause of the transformation that happened to the Demon Race?

Since the Sect's inception, everyone wanted to know more about the Lord who pulled them out of hell and about the people who helped him do so, and Amon undoubtedly was one of those personalities that everyone cared about.

But now they have to raise their weapons against that character that they respect as their ancestors?! This idea is terrifying in and of itself.

Chapter 400 Peaceful Threat

Gulp

Forty thousand soldiers, The weakest of whom is a Knight level cultivator or a Warrior who has a tattoo of the first grade, standing on the other side a group of individuals not more than a hundred and most of them are elderly and some of them even can not breathe well because of their obesity...

However, there was not a single one of the forty thousand soldiers stood his ground!

All of them were either swallowing their saliva or trembling involuntarily.

Not because those hundred individuals are too powerful in their eyes, but because of what they represent, because of the person who built that Space Portal and sent them...

Those 100 are followers of the Lord, the same Lord who forsook them...

And what makes the situation worse is that according to His Excellency's threat, they can't harm anyone who comes out of that Space Portal, at least if they don't attack them first!

Not knowing whether to attack, block them, or just make way, everyone stood in their positions without moving... they only shot Amon a glance every now and then.

"Put down your weapons you idiots, does that little group look like invaders to you? What's the point of feeding you if you are just going to get us in trouble?!" Suddenly a loud voice came in, the heavy silence was broken

The captain of the guards raised his face to look in the direction of the voice and a big smile appeared on his face, then shouted, "Ah! The elders have come!"

"Pheu~ Finally"

"Lower your weapons and step back!"

Even Amon looked at the few people flying towards him, but with obvious indignation and disdain, "Hmph, Orzon..."

Orzon and nine other individuals landed in front of him one after the other with surprised looks and furrowed eyebrows, fixing their gaze on the people standing behind Amon, their frail figures and physiques...

'those people of the same race as Lord Robin!' That was the first thought that came to everyone's mind

Then Orzon finally turned back to look at Amon, "What's going on here?"

"Shouldn't I ask this question?" Amon raised his hands and pointed towards the army standing around him, "Is this how you respect the orders of your Lord?!"

"Oh, those? His Excellency said that all our efforts and our army should be used to defend the Space Portal, you were there and heard him say that loud and clear, right? So we moved the army headquarters here to help defend the Space Portal more efficiently." Orzon replied with a smile

"Tsk, whatever~ I won't get any use out of talking to you, old fox," Amon spat on the ground and then pointed behind him, "These are members from the Lord's family, they came here at his wishes to start a trade with the Nihari Union Sect."

"Hmm? Trade?" Orzon and the rest of the elders turned to look at the elders of the Bortun family again, "Then you are the lord's kin, we humbly welcome you to the land that His Excellency established!"

"The land that His Excellency founded? Woah!"

"His Excellency? Do they mean Robin? That's awesome!!!"

Most if not all of Jura's world, including the Burton family itself, did not fully believe that Robin is a significant leadership figure in another world, especially since he has only been absent for twenty years.

This does not diminish him, especially since he brought with him this huge army that declared their loyalty to him more than once, but the closest to reality in the eyes of everyone is that Robin became one of the trusted followers of a great boss or something like that...

But Orzon's words now...

"Oh, greeting, Mr. Orzon, according to what we heard from Mr. Jabba and Mr. Amon about what you have here, we have prepared a lot of goods and raw materials that you lack, I assure you, we will be worth every penny of the ten million!" One of the elders of the Burton family, somewhat plump and still in the realm of chivalry, was one of those enslaved at the storming of Eura, but he soon rose to become one of the mainstays of the family because of his great shrewdness in matters of trade.

"Oh, they can speak our language too? This will make it easier and-- wait a moment, TEN WHAT!?" One of the Sect elders behind Orzon rose up and shouted

Amon quickly looked at that Elder, "What? Your old age affected your damn ears you old fart? he said Ten Million Energy Pearls, will be the value of the trade between the Burton family and the Nihari Union Sect, and the exchange will be fully completed within one week as well. Do you have a problem with that?!"

"Amon, you bastard, don't you really know the value of that--" That old man started moving a few steps towards Amon while shouting

But Orzon's hand interrupted his path, and said with a much lower voice, "Amon, We appreciate His Excellency's trust in us and his desire to start a business with us, especially a business of this size, we really do! But as you know this is not a small amount of wealth and we currently have a lot of expenses, we may not be able to collect it quickly enough to be completed in this exchange alone, but we may be able to collect 250 thousand energy pearls for now, we will reach that 10 Million figure with time, just not in a week, how about that?"

Amon turned back to look in Orzon's direction, "Listen here old fox, the Lord NEEDS those energy pearls as soon as possible, if you don't agree then--"

One of the other sect elders rushed in and started shouting as well, "Then what? You will wage war against us? Damn it, ten million energy pearls in a week? Does he think he's still the Sect Leader? Or does he think we are afraid of him?"

Gulp

The soldiers around the Space Portal began to tighten their fists on their weapons again, after they all sighed in relief at hearing Amon's words about trade, this conversation returned to take the worst possible course!

But in the face of the shouting, Amon gave a satisfied smile that showed his long sharp fangs, then he spoke quietly, "Who said anything about waging a war? If you do not have enough energy pearls, we will go to complete our trade with the southern region."

"Is that a threat?! Who do you think we are, you son of a--!!!" The same elder who shouted earlier raised his hands a little and was ready to lower them ordering the advance of the troops to attack Amon and those with him.

In fact, selling weapons to the southern region of the planet is the worst possible threat, which means that Robin will begin to control that region as he did with them!

Or worse... He provides them with new types of weapons and talismans of his innovation in exchange for energy pearls only without controlling them.

This means the presence of a formidable enemy on their borders in the south with a lot of new weapons that need to be tested in battles, the northern region is already a nightmare enough, they can have another threat from the south as well!

Except for that elder, finally, everyone realized that Robin really didn't really need to invade them himself in order to harm them...

"Silaf, shut your mouth, you stupid bastard!!!"

boom!

Before that old man lowered his hand, Orzon looked behind him and broke his nose with a punch, blood spurted everywhere.
