Chapter 401 Selling Air?

"Bfft..!!" That elder fell on his back and began to feel his disfigured face and started spitting out a lot of blood, then looked with a look full of hate and killing intent towards Orzun, "You... TRAITOR! You betrayed the sect's interests! You shall-- MMMM!!!"

Before he could finish his words, another old man of the same race as he approached and knelt beside him and put his hand over his mouth, it seemed as if he wanted to help him wipe the blood off his face, but then he spoke in a heavy tone in his ears, "Little brother, maybe you should shut up for a while and take care of your wounds for now, okay?"

"Ummm?!?" The fallen Elder opened his eyes to the last of them as if he was trying to say 'Have you also betrayed the sect?!' then turned to ask for help from the rest of the elders who hasn't betrayed the sect yet

But soon he found them all looking at him with contempt, and some of them did not even look in his direction, as if they were pretending that they did not know him!

"Heh~ Sorry about what just happened, Brother Silaf is always impulsive and talks without thinking." Orzun sighed and turned back to look at Amon apologetically, "You said that His Excellency needs the energy pearls? He is the one who gave them to us in the first place, I will collect them from all sides of the world and send them to him immediately if necessary, what is the sect economy in front of His Excellency? there is no need even for a trade, we will give will what he needs for free! Just tell His Excellency that There is no need to start trading with the southern region heh... hehe..."

A big smile appeared on Amon's face, "Good, there are still people in the sect who use their brains, but the Lord will not accept energy pearls for free. Let's start trading today, and prepare for many more like it in the future."

*Gulp*

The sound of Orzun swallowing his saliva resounded in the ears of everyone around him, and everyone immediately understood the reason... they should be preparing for a lot of commercial exchanges in the future? They don't even know what to exchange stones for!

Perhaps that *trade* is to sell them some watermelons, but they will have to buy them with energy pearls anyway, how can they refuse?

The energy pearls are a mineral that can be found anywhere in Nihari, but it isn't something that is easily disposable, almost everything in the sect is roaming around them!

They use mainly to support the offensive divine tattoos and in the making and using of divine weapons and in cultivating faster, AND being the official currency of the Nihari world!

And they will have to throw this resource in some bullshit they don't even know, and all this in order to prevent Robin from cooperating with the Southern District!

What is happening now is complacent robbery!!

"Uh.. uh, of course... We are ready for anything that pleases His Excellency." Orzon gritted his teeth and spoke, "Then... May I ask when the goods will arrive?"

"It's already here."

"...What do you mean by... here?" Orzon's heart nearly stopped when he heard Amon's words

Already here? What will he sell them, his clothes? Or does he mean that their mere presence will be sufficient to take the energy pearls? Even if it was daylight robbery at least they should have put on a decent charade, now that's just rude!!

"Don't worry everyone, everything is true with us here!" One of the elders from the Burton family came forward and extended his right hand, extending his palm

Orzon was on the verge of a nervous breakdown when he saw this sight, he became mentally prepared that this Burton Elder would tell him that they sell them high-quality air, but suddenly something happened that made his eyes widen.

A small wrist shield appeared above the palm of that elder of the Burton family.

It is clear that the wrist shield is made with great professionalism, and no one was able to determine the effect of the runes that were drawn on it, which means that the small shield contains an effect that is not known to them, but this is not what surprised them.

But the fact that it appeared out of nowhere!!

"We have 200 pieces of this wrist armor alone, it's engraved with both water and fire patterns, the fire part in it can be shot as arrows to attack and the water patterns can be used to defend against almost anything with quick emergence of a water wall that is----" The plump elder of the Burton family started excitedly pointing at the wrist armor to try to Show his advantages to selling the largest amount of it with the highest price

Ryan Burton, who had no talent in energy training or military affairs, had no other way than to learn the trade, even during the conquest of Jura he was judged as a useless person and was thrown into the slave markets, however, it was not his end as a merchant, rather the person who bought him was transformed from a small dairy salesman to the monopoly of that trade in the Duchy of Gibson until Robin returned and the war began at least...

Now that His Excellency had given him this great opportunity to prove himself and be useful to the ruling family of Planet Jura, how could he back down? If his majesty wanted ten million dirhams of energy, he would return twenty million to him!!

But he couldn't let himself go and complete his wrist shield introduction, Orzun suddenly moved and grabbed the Burton elder's shoulder and started shaking him, "How did that shield appear out of nowhere? Did His Excellency come up with something new in this regard? Something that can summon items from somewhere else?!"

Chapter 402 Where Is He..?

In fact, this is not the first time that Orzun has witnessed something like this, as all the elders of the Nihari Union Sect and chiefs of the giants' tribes had seen Jabba take out his war hammer earlier in the last meeting, but no one understood what happened...

It crossed no one's mind that there is a way to hide things in a pocket space, it was just too far fetched an idea

Perhaps it is a special technique that Robin devised to hide that hammer specifically for Jabba and make it appear at his will. like using the Darkness Heavenly Major Law or something...

Everyone's fascination quickly faded upon thinking about this, realizing that Robin wouldn't do such a thing for them.

The concealment of a personal weapon... A great but unnecessary craft, it is nice to have but is not something that they must have at least, can't his hammer just be placed on his back as his father and ancestors did?

But.. the wrist shield came out that changed everything...

Robin certainly did not give this man a special technique to hide a wrist shield that he came to sell, and where is the rest of the 200 pieces of the wrist shield he talked about? were they all under the concealment of the Darkness Heavenly Major Law as well?

It can't be... That method allows its carrier to hide quantities of anything he wants and summons it as he wills.

"...Eh?!" Ryan Burton was surprised by Orzon's reaction, but looked behind him towards the rest of the Nihari Union sect elders and found a common reaction among them, all of them opening their mouths and eyes as if they had seen a miracle.

'Wait, His Excellency hasn't introduced them to the Space Rings yet?!' A thought suddenly hit Ryan Burton's head

When preparing the products he came to sell, he kept in mind the designs that Robin had recently handed over to the Rune Academies because he knew that Robin's past innovations were not strange to the people of Nihari.

And although Robin handed over the method of making space rings to Rune Academies and divine weapons workshops as well, and they are produced for the purpose of selling in Jura's world at present, he did not take them into account

That is because the first time the rings appeared was when Robin just arrived from Nihari, and this means that he invented them there, so why Sell them something they know?

But looking at their reaction now...

A sly smile appeared on Ryan's face for a moment and then quickly disappeared, "Oh, you mean His Excellency didn't tell you about the Space Rings? They contain a huge pocket space inside, just to make it easier for you to imagine how vast the space is inside, today we brought with us goods worth at least 10 million energy pearls and they are all stored inside only 3 rings!

But I guess This is logical. His Excellency did not give the rings except to those very close to him, and he gave them to us today in order to reduce transportation costs. As Mr. Amon told you, he needs every energy stone scrape right now hehe..."

"This... Sigh~" Orzon let go of Ryan's shoulder and looked down at the ground for a bit.

A ring that can store and transport a huge amount of goods? What would happen if a ring like this appeared in a war?

Supply chains in critical for any army in any world, at least for the armies that need food!

Normally the armies need to take a step by step carefully into the enemy territory even if they started as a surprise attack, and that is to make sure they can still get into contact with their homeland, for what? FOOD!

If they got deep into the enemy territory without carefully controlling the lands behind them and somehow were cut off from the supply chain, they are done for!

This is the biggest if not THE main reason that makes Invading another nation very difficult even if there is a huge power difference between the two parties

But... An army can move freely ignoring the supply chains and always have everything they need around their finger.

One ring of this kind can change the course of a war!!

And this is just one usage of it...

Not having one of those was indeed logical... A ring like this must be difficult and expensive to make.

Perhaps His Excellency would need to make it himself. Why would he give them a ring like this after they totally offended them, how can he strengthen them when he sees them as potential enemies?! They will probably never get their hands on it.

*CRAAASH*

Orzon ignored his status and almost crushed his own fist on the spot, once again, they were reminded of the danger they are now in...

His Excellency Robin Burton... If he put his mind to destroy the sect, who can stop him?

"But..!!" Ryan raised his hand and loudly declared, "Because His Excellency needs Energy Pearls in abundance and gave me the authority to collect what is needed at any price, I will make this decision and take responsibility to sell you the three rings we brought!"

"WHAT?! You really would do this for us..? But His Excellency...."

Ryan knew what they were thinking and slapped his chest, "Don't worry, I will take full responsibility when I report to His Excellency! I will sell you one space ring for only 5 million Energy Pearls!!"

"Woah! I want one!"

"I want one too!"

"I'll take it for six million!!!"

"Haha, we will find a solution, we will find a solution, let's find a good place to sit and talk!" Ryan laughed out loud, then put his hand on Orzon's shoulder, who was smiling from ear to ear as they started walking towards the Senate tower together.

The army around the space portal finally calmed down when they saw this, even the rest of the Burton family expedition heaved a sigh of relief and started to follow Ryan towards the Senate tower, with the Shadow Swords troop moving behind them.

As for Amon, he kept standing in his place, watching everyone move away, but it seemed as if he had noticed something, so he grabbed the collar of the last soldier of the Shadow Swords who passed by him and asked through a transmission of thoughts, "Where is Theo?"

"Lord Theo is securing the surroundings." The Shadow Sword soldier bowed slightly and responded with a teleportation technique as well

"What surroundings? We are surrounded by forty thousand soldiers, thinking about it, I haven't seen him since we stepped foot in this place." Amon asked again, more sternly, what would he do even if Monitor the Situation?

Not that they were facing a hidden enemy, but rather that they were surrounded visually, it was better for him to stay by the space portal with them to help them escape back to Planet Jura if a problem arises!

"...Lord Theo is securing the surroundings." The Shadow Sword soldier replied while he was still in the bowing position, then straightened up and followed the rest without adding another word, fully ignoring Amon's questioning gazes...

Chapter 403 The Promised Day

Three weeks later-- the central continent-- in front of the Imperial City walls

"Attention!"

"HOOH!"

*faint tremor*

"The training today was as usual on how to cooperate on the battlefield. Engrave everything you have been trained on now in your memory. If a battle begins and I see one of you leaving this Lineup, I will rape him and his family to death! Is this understood?!"

"HOOOH!"

*faint tremor*

"Good, I seem to be clear. set in your place and prepare to leave as soon as His Majesty arrives!"

"HOOOOH!"

*Rumble*

Under the shade of an open tent - above the walls of the Imperial City

*whistling~* "Although I see this scene every day, I still get goosebumps every time. How does it feel to control this crowd, Alexander? And what is this vulgarity all about? Hehe."

Continental Ruler Alexander approached the tent and randomly sat down on one of the chairs, "Sigh~ How do I feel? I guess it is not much different from yours, Elizabeth, seeing around 4 million soldiers from different continents and the weakest one among them having a knight's strength... a sight that I never expect to see in my life.

Secondly, haha, no matter how high the level of the soldiers is, they will remain soldiers. Some vulgar words will calm their nerves and make them feel that they are closer to their commanders. This is a must. Anyone who has actual experience in leading soldiers will realize this, right, Your Highness?" Alexander houghed lightly and looked toward Caesar

"You are right, if the army commander is not close to his soldiers, he will be detached from them instead, and this is something you don't want on the battlefield, especially after the forces of the Four Continents and the forces of the Burton family finally merged to such a degree, in addition to--" Caesar had begun answering Alexander's question casually, when he finally noticed something, so he was interrupted himself and shouted, "Hey! Whom do you call *Your Highness*? I am just as His Majesty's subordinate as you are. Save that title for young Richard, he will come back to us soon enough."

Alexander laughed loudly when he heard this and said, "Haha, don't be so humble, all the people of the world know how His Majesty treats you, I heard that there are fan clubs established around the world all centering around the young prince who accompanied the World Emperor throughout his journey."

"Right, even I'm starting to get jealous of a certain someone, I'm starting to wonder if was this really a punishment, or..." Elizabeth laughed slyly and then looked at Victoria who had been keeping her silent since she arrived

"I don't care how people see me, His Majesty was generous enough to save my life and give me the surname of Burton, and this grace I will repay with serving him til I die, I dare not attribute myself anymore to him, he is only my benefactor, I hope none of you here forget this again." Caesar ignored the blush on the face of Continental ruler Victoria next to him and declared loudly

"Alright, Alright! We will do as you wish, Alexander, stop bothering him..." Elizabeth looked furrowed at Alexander, who in turn shrugged in resignation, and then triumphantly returned to look at Caesar with a broad smile, "I shut him up. Do you like that, Your Highness?" ?

"Ah, yeah, that is what it should be, and---... WOY!!!"

"HAHAHA"

Spreading stories and weaving legends about Emperor Robin and the details of his journey was not devoid of veneration for the people closest to him and especially the one he spent the most time with, the adopted son of the World Emperor, Caesar Burton.

And because he appears a lot to the masses, unlike his father, coupled with the fact that he fought side by side with several armies and has many heroic stories, legends spread about him faster even than Emperor Robin himself

It can even be said that his position on the planet Jura began to rise at a lightning speed until it approached the status of Robin himself, definitely surpassing the status of the Five Continental Rulers!

The one who was most affected by Caesar's new status was undoubtedly the person who accompanied him as his current shadow, Continental Ruler Victoria Frost...

After she was crying from the severity of the humiliation she felt by swearing to follow Caesar and take his permission before everything she did, after she returned to her home, lowering her head from the shame she brought to the history of her family... She became a source of envy because of his presence with her!

Rather, the people of the Water Continent boasted in front of the rest of the continents that Caesar Burton himself made their presidential palace a home and that he accompanies their continental ruler everywhere!!

Although this did not affect much the dependency relationship that Victoria swore, it made her current situation much easier for her, so that asking permission from Caesar every day was no longer as nauseating as before...

In fact, the only one who was not satisfied with this new situation was none other than Caesar himself!

When he would find people talking about this matter or hear someone calling him *Your Highness* or the son of the Lord, etc., he would get very angry and rebuke them to stop, saying that he was just a loyal follower of His Excellency and that he dare not be more than this

This reaction of his quickly spread throughout the world, preventing many from saying publicly that he is the son of the World Emperor, but it also earned their respect more and more.

Now only a few of the higher-ups could joke with Caesar on this matter.

"Alright, younglings, there's no time for this, don't you feel the pressure of what is going on? Today, Planet Jura will take a huge step forward! Use the time to predict what we will find on that new planet and make countermeasures to preserve our lives there." Old Gu shook his head and nodded. He spoke while slowly rubbing his forehead, it was evident from the dark circles around his eyes that he hadn't tasted rest in quite some time.

".I don't feel the pressure? Excitement almost kills me, old man. Being distracted by idle talk is better than dying waiting for His Majesty to show up.." Alexander spoke slowly while looking at his hands which did not stop trembling.

He lived his entire life increasing his strength and the strength of his army in the hope that a war would be waged against the other three empires.

Yes... He really hoped so!!

Although the main goal of any war is peace, and although strength is required to maintain peace... Even if there is peace in the world and you are strong enough, the day will come upon you and you will ask yourself: What do I do with this strength? Why do I have to get stronger?

The state of shaky peace and the cold war that has been dominating a planet for tens of thousands of years has sparked a state of thirst in the hearts of many!

Some of them are thirsty for more property and land, and some are just thirsty for blood!

"Haha, and I will not allow my Continental Ruler to die waiting." A voice came from far away, forcing everyone to pay attention to its source

*Ruff Ruff Ruff*

Chapter 404 Self-Killing Advantage

"Your Majesty!"

"His Majesty!"

"Your Excellency!!"

Everyone inside the tent stood up without exception when they heard Robin's clear voice in their ears, but their hopes were quickly disappointed when they looked around them in all directions and did not find anyone...

*ruff ruff*

"Look.. there..." Alexander finally raised his finger and pointed in a certain direction, when everyone followed the path he was pointing at, they found Robin riding a Draco kilometers away!

"..How?!" Victoria said it, but everyone was thinking about the same question. Robin's voice a while ago was very clear and quiet, as if he was sitting next to them, but he was talking at such a distance.

As the soldiers and servants around didn't seem to hear him either, how could he send his words to reach only their ears?

Rather, how did Robin hear Alexander's words in the first place and respond to him?!

*Gulp*

"...I think we should expect such things from His Majesty..." Old Gu sighed and spoke

After a few minutes---

*PAA*

"We welcome Your Excellency." Everyone on the wall bowed and shouted in one breath

"Daddy!!" Only Zara, who approached, did not bend like the rest, and quickly approached Robin and hugged him. This *Daddy* of hers is really a difficult person to spend time with.

"Haha, alright alright... Good to see you again, everyone." Robin gently patted Zara on the head and nodded with a smile towards the rest of the group who made way for him to the throne that was waiting for him.

But he did not head his throne directly, but passed them all and continued walking towards the other side of the wall, then he stood there motionless looking at what was behind it...

"Hoo~ I have to admit, well done Jabba... Extremely well done!" Robin said, rubbing his chin.

The giant who hadn't said a word for hours stepped forward and bowed again towards Robin, "It's all thanks to your guidance, Master."

"Don't try to underestimate your work, All I did was to give you the patterns of an array that should be placed under the city and on its walls, but I didn't imagine that you would use the city itself as an array!!" Robin raised both hands and said in amazement

The Imperial City... Until now, its huge gates have not been opened, and no one has seen what lies behind it except for the continental rulers and their servants who chose the wall to be the meeting place. They did not dare to enter the city before Robin officially opened it.

However, just standing on top of the wall was enough for them to know that this city is unlike any other!

The city is built in a way that the world has not seen before, the buildings are compact in a striking geometric shape, and there are high towers emerging from everywhere in the city as if they were pegs that stabilize the city from flying away, it seemed as if the city itself was a drawing and not just residential and administrative buildings like the rest of the cities In the world

Everyone thought that this beauty in design was a common thing in Nihari's world that Jabba came from, but...

Elizabeth quickly asked, "The array? What is that?!"

Robin smiled, but he did not say anything directly. Rather, he came back from the edge of the fence and went towards the throne in the middle of the tent and sat on it.

Then he signaled to the rest to sit down, and he finally spoke when he saw everyone's eyes glowing with enthusiasm, wanting to know what this was., Even Jabba himself, the one who built the city, seemed that he wanted to hear!

In the end, he just smiled and said, "The array is just a big divine tattoo."

"Divine tattoo? What is this too..?" asked Billy

"Hmm..? Aha, right, I didn't spread the Divine Tattoos cultivations system among you... The Divine Tattoos is a parallel energy system used by the people of Planet Nihari, it is very similar to the talisman you are familiar with, but the difference is that the Divine Tattoos is drawn on the body directly and it greatly strengthens the body, someone with a 3rd degree Body Strengthening Tattoo can fight a Sage directly thanks to his physical strength alone.

The users of this Divine Tattoos cultivations system do not need to make any effort to raise their strengths... The main difference between the Divine Tattoos and the Talismans is that the Divine Tattoo remains effective forever, some of those Divine Tattoos can work all day long with no problems, and they can also be developed for a higher version if you have enough resources." Robin scratched his head for a few seconds and answered

"That... why didn't you publish that divine tattoos cultivation system here? They seem so powerful and effortless!" Alexander quickly asked with furrowed eyebrows

"yes, having another cultivation system can make us much more powerful, especially if it is a cultivation system that has to do with body cultivation, that is something we obviously lack!" Old Gu added, Increasing strength without cultivating? This is hard to imagine.

Even Jabba looked at Robin with narrow eyes, he long wanted to ask this question, Robin spread the inner energy cultivation system in Nihari, so why not do the same here?

Robin raised his shoulders, "It's because of the lack of natural energy in Planet Jura, of course. The Body Strengthening Divine Tattoo that this system is revolving around swallows huge amounts of energy throughout the day and pumps it into the body of its owner, This cannot be compared to the internal energy system consumption rate.

the divine tattoos cultivation system is not just a cultivation system, it is a way to go against the heavens! They are not using the energy to become stronger but are using it to change their bodies instead, they are changing their nature by force... to make it simple, it is like we are all cats, but here on planet Jura we aspire to be strong cats, while there in Planet Nihari they don't want to be cats anymore and want to be tigers, how can that be simple? It requires an unimaginable amount of energy.

If I deploy this system here, the remaining energy in Planet Jura will quickly run out. This is regardless of the offensive divine tattoos that need energy pearls to implement, or they will harm your body. I did not want to increase the strength of my army a little at the expense of the planet as a whole. And all of this is on one side, and the fact that this system is not capable of development except through me is another major flaw. If I introduced you to it and something bad happened to me, I would have harmed you and the planet in vain."

"...When you talk about our energy system like that, it makes me look at it in a completely different way." Jabba furrowed his brows and spoke, he had always felt that the Divine Tattoos Cultivation System was excellent and so easy, who could refuse to get stronger while sleeping? But when he hears Robin now...

Robin laughed slightly and replied to Jabba, "This Divine Tattoos Cultivation System can only be implemented on a huge planet that has a huge amount of natural energy like Planet Nihari, and it is also built entirely on the basis of the patterns that Master Truth Law users can see, so it is impossible to develop it further, No, you wouldn't have this Cultivation System at all without them!

It was only brought about by someone who studies the Master Truth Law, and for this reason, no one was able to contribute to the development of that system other than the first and second Heavens chosen, who were using the Master Truth Law.

This is way different from our inner energy cultivation system that was devised by geniuses who knew nothing about the Master Truth Law, thus anyone could develop it, even without my presence, the people of Planet Jura would have been able to discover the loopholes in the laws and reach the Emperor realm one day, perhaps this would have been delayed by hundreds of thousands of years, but it will inevitably come.

Therefore, I strongly believe that the Inner Energy cultivation System is prevalent on other planets, and it may be the most accurate way to energy cultivate since it can be accessed without using the Master Truth Law, on the other hand, all indications are that the Divine Tattoo cultivation system only exists in Planet Nihari! I don't know if this is bad or good for them, however..."

"But doesn't that mean that Planet Nihari is also affected by these tattoos?" Old Gu asked

"Currently, no. But in the long run, sure! Planet Nihari is in a state of balance between the energy that enters the planet and the amount lost in the bodies of its people right now, there is no harm, but there will be no improvement either. ahh~ I feel envious when I think of all the energy that Planet Nihari has now. Even though the Divine Tattoo cultivation system has been in operation for a long time, I wonder what would it have been like if they adopted an internal energy system like ours?"

I really believe that if they took a similar inner energy path like us would have produced individuals at the realm that surpassed the Emperor Realm thousands of years ago!!" He slapped Robin on his thigh and spoke excitedly, "But if the people of Nihari continue like this then... Sigh~ I'm afraid they'll never surpass the Emperor Realm, the planet itself won't allow them, and if it does, the planet will definitely be done for in a short period of time!"

*Gulp*

Chapter 405 My Flag?

*Gulp*

The sound of Jabba swallowing his saliva was heard throughout the tent, but no one was surprised... Robin had just destroyed everything he had grown up with.

Jabba really didn't have any desire to try to hide his surprise, his brain didn't even have time to think of such a thing... Since Robin admired their Divine Tattoos cultivation system that day, saying that the first heaven's chosen was a real genius and that he couldn't imagine a cultivation system that allows its owner to upgrade without breaking a sweat, and he feels extremely proud!

How couldn't he be proud? his ancestors did something that amazed a great person coming from another world!

But this simple system turned out to be a disaster behind it.

Jabba raised his left hand and started rubbing his forehead, thinking about it, Robin's words didn't seem far from reality...

He had trained in the two systems and knew how difficult the inner energy cultivation system was and that not anybody can cultivate it.

Contrary to the Divine Tattoos cultivation system that anybody can use and can even go all the way to the top easily -given that he has enough money-, the Inner Energy cultivation system had to have enough talent to comprehend the Heavenly Laws, and allocate time every once in a while to collect energy and build energy pillars and so on~

While the people of Nihari have to draw divine tattoos and then forget about it, the residents of Jura had to suffer to walk on this path, but in the end, they will have the same outcome?

How can all that hardships be replaced without a price? It makes sense that there would be something they had to pay to obtain this kind of power!

But upon hearing Rubin's analysis, the price seems too high to be tolerated.

"I think we deviated from the main topic a little bit, Your Excellency, with regards to that *array*, what is it?" Old Gu asked

Robin pointed at Old Gu excitedly and spoke, "Oh, you reminded me... As I said, the array is just a very big divine tattoo, and I handed two designs to Jabba that day. The first array is made within the walls and thus transforming it into a huge divine armament that contains the Minor metal law branching from The Earth's path, and thus the hardness of the walls would increase exponentially... Theoretically, the walls of this city can now comfortably withstand the attacks of people of Emperor level."

Everyone spontaneously looked down their feet, when they saw this gaudy wall that was 60 meters high and 20 meters wide, at first they all thought how huge and majestic it was, this is undoubtedly the highest wall on Planet Jura, but after hearing Robin's words now they realize that this is the great wall It wasn't just to show off!

"This is Excellent, truly excellent! But..." Old Gu opened both eyes excitedly for a moment, but soon the enthusiasm he felt disappeared

"I know, I know... you are thinking why would an Emperor realm cultivator attack the walls when he can fly over them, right?" Robin chuckled, "Here comes the role of the array I asked to be drawn under the city, When activated, the array will absorb the natural energy surrounding the city in large quantities to form a dome of energy covering the city's sky... Theoretically, the dome can help the city's army defend against air attacks.. just helping the defense and nothing more. But this is according to the original design to draw the array below the city.

But now that Jabba has used the city buildings to draw the array, and used the raw materials needed in the array to build the whole city instead, that is a genius idea! ...It's a pity that the Truth didn't choose you, a real pity..."

"Even without the Master Path of Truth I will do my best to help, I have done nothing Master worthy of faith, it is your array in the end, as long as you aren't angry with me that I changed it a little, I'm content with it." Jabba gave a shallow bow and spoke with a big smile, delighted that his work had been so appreciated

"To deserve such praise from His Excellency... Hooh~ I always thought you were just muscles, but it turns out that you are smart too.."

"His Excellency did not choose him to be his first and only student out of thin air."

Old Gu ignored the words of Elizabeth and the rest in the tent about Jabba and asked again, "Your Excellency, from your words I understand that the array has not been implemented as you wanted, does that mean it has become stronger or weaker?!"

"Stronger! Definitely a lot stronger!! But I can't tell exactly how much stronger I got because I honestly don't know, I haven't thought about building a 3D array before, The Energy Dome Array is already out of the *large divine tattoo* as I was explaining earlier! Jabba's work really opened up a whole new door for me."

"Wonderful... doesn't that mean that the imperial city is currently completely fortified? wait a moment..." Victoria spoke in her usual cold voice, before suddenly stopping and quickly asking, "Can we transform the rest of the Divine Tattoos on such a large scale and create some mass destruction weapons?!"

Everyone quickly looked at Robin, waiting for his response

Robin just shrugged, "Theoretically all divine tattoos could be turned into arrays, but who would do that?"

"EMM... You?" Who else could it be, but the person who invented it?

Robin shook his head, "Wrong! Inflating the size of the Divine Tattoo and turning it into an array means a complete change in almost everything about that tattoo except for the heavenly law it's made of. How long it takes to compute and implement something of this size? for example... Do you all know about the pyramid that I designed in Jura city for the Special Forces to swear by? This was the first large array I thought of, do you know how much time it took me? Almost a whole year!

I don't have time to upgrade all the Divine Tattoos to form large arrays, I always have more important things to think about, the design of my imperial city array was to provide a secure command center for the world leaders in the future... but that doesn't mean I wouldn't create arrays again, I guess if I find a good idea worth my time, I won't refuse. especially after the happy surprise, Jabba gave me today, this array thing is much more interesting to me now"

Robin then smacked his palms together and asked with a smile, changing the topic, "So... how are your preparations for your first planetary war anyway?"

"Allow me to answer this." Alexander stood up and put his right hand on his chest, "Your Excellency's army currently consists of 3,700,000 soldiers, most of them are at the Knighthood Realm, and you also have 200,000 saints and 15,000 sages.

In terms of armament, most of them are armed with ordinary, high-level weapons that accumulated in the arsenals of the Four Empires since ancient times, but the Divine Equipment Workshops that Your Excellency indicated to establish succeeded in equipping about 10% of the army with divine armaments.

As for talismans, all members of the army are equipped with them, the lowest soldier has at least one talisman for attack and one talisman for defense, and all have sound rings as ordered by your Excellency.

Most of the army gathered here long ago and trained to carry out all possible military operations together. I guarantee your Excellency that they are ready to move immediately."

"Hmm, good, good..." Robin nodded a few times, then got up from his chair and headed towards the edge of the wall again, but this time on the opposite side, and looked down at his sea of soldiers...

But his light smile turned into a narrowing between his eyebrows and he asked while pointing toward the soldiers, "Would someone please tell me why there is no uniform for the soldiers? Three years have passed and the soldiers of each empire still keep their old uniforms? It looks like a circus from up here! Also... Is this the flag of My Empire?!"

Chapter 406 Gold

"...Is this the flag of the True Beginning Empire?" Robin asked suddenly as he pointed to a huge flag erected in front of the army and exclaimed. Seeing it made him ignore even the appearance of the army, which looked like a piece of patched clothing from above.

The flag had a completely black background, with a circular shape drawn on it, most of that circular figure was blue, and there were 6 scattered brown pieces in it. The borders of that circular shape radiated in golden color, and that circular figure was pierced through by a sword and a hammer.

Billy laughed proudly, "Haha, yeah this is our flag, What do you think? Great, huh? It was who recommended it."

Rubin rubbed his chin for a few seconds as he contemplated the flag, ".....this circle symbolizes the planets belonging to the True Beginning Empire, the sword symbolizes the destruction of the old order and the hammer symbolizes the reform we will bring about... Good. But, it kind of reminds me of my speech at the Green Hill a little bit...?"

"Ahahaha," Caesar laughed out loud, "that's what we all told him when he showed the flag but he insisted it was his idea!"

*pufft*

Small chuckles were heard along the tent, the flag did indeed get the approval of everyone as it describes Robin's vision, but Billy didn't admit it until now!

"Shut up, I'm the one who translated the speech into a flag, so it's my idea!" Billy stood up and cried

"And as for the uniform?" Robin wasted no time and continued with his first question, "You had time to design a flag but you let the army wear 6 different colors? Look at it, it looks like an army of mercenaries and commoners. We are supposed to go to another planet like this? even the mortals' primary schools have uniforms!"

Old Gu stood up and put his hand on his chest, "Your Excellency, we could have standardized army uniforms of course, but these armors and weapons are the best we can offer, it is the high-quality equipment that our empires have accumulated over tens of thousands of years, if we put it aside for lesser quality uniforms, this will greatly harm the strength of your Exlency's army."

Robin furrowed his brows, "What happened to the divine weapons? There are many blacksmiths appearing every day, especially in your Flame Continent, although the number of blacksmiths is less than I initially expected, by my estimation, there should be at least a million divine armaments available by today."

Old Gu looked at the ground further, "Your Excellency is right, unfortunately, the profession of making divine weapons has not yet attracted enough blacksmiths, and even those who have entered it are still in the learning stage and have not yet acquired enough skill to make them finish their work quickly enough, for this the total number of divine weapons has arrived Almost one million two hundred thousand.

We had already started distributing weapons to them and the number of Divine Equipment users in the army had reached about four hundred thousand! but we quickly come to agree that the members of the True Beginning Empire's army needed a full set of Divine Armor and Weapons, As arming one veteran with a full Divine Kit was better than arming dozens of ordinary soldiers. After completing the calculations, we found that each elite member would need more than 16 pieces of divine equipment.

That is why we stopped arming soldiers randomly and focused on creating a small army of elites first. With this mentality, we were soon able to produce an amount of divine equipment sufficient to fully arm 50,000 individuals. We used those weapons and armor to equip the special forces of the Burton family, which amounted to 35,000 Saints, and this choice was because they are the only ones among us who have real experience in major battles. We also equipped most of the Sages in Planet Jura World as well with a total number of 15,000 Sages, bringing the total number to 50,000 soldiers, a small army of pure elites! May your Excellency have a look at them, they are standing there dressed in gold."

Robin followed Old Gu's motion towards the squad standing behind quietly, the design of the heroic armor that shimmered like gold in the sunshine, was extremely eye-catching, but that's not all...

This was the first time that Robin saw a person fully armed from his hair to his toenails with divine armaments!

the golden body armors, giant shields, and long halberds at the front line were especially eye-catching

And this was also the first time that he saw a battalion where Sages lined up in uniform and awaiting orders as if they were ordinary soldiers!!

Even without that battalion initially releasing their auras, the pressure emitting from them forced the rest of the army to stay clear of at least two hundred meters away from them in all directions just to be able to breathe soundly.

Old Gu then continued directly, "We chose the golden one because it befits the greatness of Your Majesty's empire, I hope you won't have any complaints in this regard... As for producing for the rest of the army, I'm afraid that producing a divine weapon sufficient for more than three million huge soldiers would require a few more years, even if I forced all the people of the Flame Continent to take up this profession..."

"Fifty thousand, ha..." Robin parted his chin for a few seconds as he looked at his small golden army, then suddenly nodded, "Not bad, this battalion will be enough to scout our new destination, send them to the Space Portal, We will move now."

"What? Only Them?!" Caesar shouted suddenly

"Your Excellency, this battalion is indeed fully armed with the Divine Weapon and is much stronger than the rest, but they are not the only ones who can enter the battle! We can move your entire army now!!" Old Gu took a step forward and shouted

Robin turned to face the rest on the wall and shook his head, "No, that's not the problem, I'd choose an army of similar size to go first anyway, and we'd take a few thousand inscription masters and Divine Weapon smiths with us as well, after arriving we'd choose a good place to defend and build A space portal to connect with the space portal of the imperial city here, maybe build a castle around it as our base there... while the rest of the army will stay here ready for the moment the space portal opens from the other side, then they can come after us and start the real invasion."

"...Can't we all just go?" Caesar scratched his head and asked

"This would be very unwise. First of all, we do not know anything about the nature of the planet and its inhabitants. Taking the strongest group in the army first means ease of movement and the highest survival rate. With only fifty thousand soldiers, we can occupy a small place out of sight and start erecting the space portal without being disturbed, but if we took the whole army, almost four million soldiers, this would be a huge draw to the eyes and a waste of resources and food. most of them would probably die before we know where we are...

Secondly, our primary purpose in conquest is resources and not blind killing. It may be that the inhabitants of that planet are peaceful and do not want to fight and choose to allow us to take whatever we want by establishing trade relations. Wouldn't this be the most appropriate possible outcome? Therefore, taking our entire army there would not only be wasting resources in vain but would also be a direct provocation to them and might waste the opportunity for peaceful communication..." Robin shook his head again and replied

"Hehe, I don't think you should worry about the resource issue." Billy chuckled

"Hmm? What do you mean?" Robin looked at him and asked

Billy continued with a smile, "Ryan Bryan is back with the rest of the family from the Nihari world, guess how much energy he brought us..."

"...eleven million?" Robin furrowed his brows and asked, as long as Billy asked happily, then surely that group had more success than expected.

Billy tilted his back forward slightly and spoke solemnly, "It is 37 million energy pearls."

"...Really? Does that clan want to make things right with me or something...?" Robin was shocked upon hearing the number

In fact, he had decided from the beginning that he would go to the new planet with a relatively small army to protect him while asking for trade with the natives at the same time

His asking for the 10 Million pearls from the sect was only to know when are they standing now and knowing their intentions considering him, he thought that taking ten million from them would be good enough as a test, but they actually gave away 37 million?!

Chapter 407 Back To Nihari?

"Honestly, I was surprised too, according to my understanding of the Nihari world through the description I heard through you and the demons, This amount of energy pearls is sufficient to bring down the economy of the giants' tribes, so how could the Nihari union gives it away, It was them who previously let you down and refused to cooperate with you!" Billy spoke calmly, then added, "But the doubt and overthinking did not last long as Ryan Burton soon told me that he was able to extract all these Energy pearls thanks to the sale of three space rings."

"SOLD THEM WHAT?! Whose idea is this?" Robin opened his eyes at the last of them and yelled at Billy

Billy jumped back a bit when he heard Robin's shout and quickly replied, "I don't have anything to do with this! He took the three rings in order to facilitate the transportation of all those divine talismans and weapons that are enough to sell for ten million energy pearls, he made the decision to sell the rings of his own volition, I swear!!"

"THAT SON OF A--" Robin looked like he was about to go ahead and insult Ryan's whole line of ancestors, but restricted himself at the last moment and furrowed his eyebrows for a few moments, "...that guy isn't bad, put him in charge of the Empire's Commerce Division!"

"...Eh?!" Billy straightened in his seat and replied in surprise

"Three rings won't make much difference to the overall strength of the sect, but it will make us not worry about the availability of energy pearls for a long time... Heh~ Although he ruined my original intention of this trade trip, I can't blame him for something he doesn't know and the result is not that bad either, just tell him to write a detailed report about their trip and especially how the elders of the clan had treated them since they arrived in Nihari World until they returned." Robin rubbed his chin and spoke with a slight smile.

Then he came back and put his hand behind his back again and announced, "Alright, get ready, we have to move now."

"Wait a moment, Your Excellency!" Victoria quickly stood up, "Can't you tell us more about that place we are going to? You sure know something else, right? How do we declare war on a whole world when we don't know anything about it?"

Robin pointed at her and laughed loudly, "Good remark! And just like you say, I don't know anything important about it!"

"this..?" Everyone began to look at each other with obvious concern.

They thought that Robin was waiting for the day to announce the details of the operation and the plan to invade that alien planet, their main targets, and so on.

At this moment, Jabba took two steps forward and spoke, "Master, can't we just go back to Nihari?"

Robin shook his head with a disappointed smile upon hearing this, "And do what in Nihari!?"

"Re-subdue your sect under your rule! Rescue your only son! Take control of new lands, and most importantly.. prepare for the incoming invasion!!" Jabba took a few more steps and spoke with excitement and apparent anxiety

Ever since he heard from Robin that he wants to go to a new planet and anxiety is eating him up... Has Robin lost hope in Nihari? So what will happen to his homeland? What can those muddle-headed bastards do without Robin's help? If his master really gave up on Nihari, then its destruction is a done deal!

Will he and those Demons who can to Jura really be the only survivors of Nihari?!

"Hmph, I can't re-subdue the sect without starting a direct war against the eastern region, and I don't want to do such a thing without a strong reason... I can't invade the northern region to rescue my son either because until this moment I haven't thought of a way to deal with those at the Emperor Realm... Finally, what do I gain from invading the rest of the regions?

Let's say I spend the twenty-something incoming years attacking, planning, and gaining control over new lands in Nihari, and in the end, I will have to face the same dilemma: an invasion from a stronger planet and a potential danger from the eastern and the northern regions. to say it bluntly, even if I took control over the other regions before the incoming invasion it will be useless to me. So YOU tell me again, what do I do in Nihari?"

Robin also did not mention that he actually thought of attacking and controlling the rest of the regions in Nihari in order to deplete the resources of those areas and destroy them before the invasion came, but he was met with several problems...

The first of which is that the inhabitants of those areas will not stand by and watch, they will fight for their resources to the very end, so he will have to carry out a genocide in which tens of Billions of intelligent life forms will be killed, and even if he has the heart to do it, this is practically not possible in the first place...

How much manpower will he need to have in order to kill these wild numbers of intelligent life forms? and how many years will he need to do it?

How much manpower will he need to have to control three regions in Nihari and defend its borders? Those three regions are tens of times bigger than planet Jura!

Even after killing them and controlling the lands, then what? How can he destroy such a massive area that no resource survives to benefit the invaders?

Secondly, the sect and the northern region will not stand to watch on the side either, for sure a war will start against them in the first few months of executing this crazy plan of destruction when they notice what he wants to do...

Third and most important, even if he somehow carried out his plan, the eastern and northern regions would still be full of resources and he could not leave them to the invaders or else it would be a breach of his oath with the All-Seeing God.

In any case, getting involved in Nihari now would be a completely useless move.

Then Robin quickly continued before anyone could reply, "But don't worry Jabba, I know what you are thinking, I just requested new planets from the All-Seeing God to strengthen my army before the invasion began, we will have another talk about that when the time comes, all right?"

"...Jabba understands." The giant nodded and stood back to the side, although Robin's words were enough to calm his anxiety, sadness was still apparent in his eyes.

"The All-Seeing God..? Who is this?" Elizabeth tilted her head slightly at Billy and asked in a low voice

"Shhh, that's a big deal for you, newbie," Billy responded with a sense of superiority, then told her to look at Robin again

"Hmmm, to tell the truth, I am not completely ignorant of everything about the new planet. It is just that the information is not very useful... For example, I know that its name is Greenland, I know that it is about twice the size of Planet Jura, and that the age of martial arts there is about 300,000 years.

I know the information I have is a bit too shallow but that is all I could get from him, but what is important for us is that the All-Seeing God said that the planet is not hostile to human life and that it is full of resources that will help me strengthen the army greatly, and this is all we need to know! Any other questions?"

"No, Your Excellency!" Everyone replied in one breath

"Good, all of you are coming with me, except for Billy who will stay here to supervise the True Beginning Empire as a whole and to supervise the rest of the army, Do any of you have a problem?"

"No, Your Excellency!" Everyone replied in one breath

Baili then added in a low voice, "Tsk~ I expected this..." Since he is the weakest of all the Continental Leaders, predicting who would stay behind wasn't too difficult.

"Good! Since everyone is standing still, bring out that golden battalion and move towards the Space Portal, we are moving immediately!"

Chapter 408 Taking The Step

*VOOOOOO*

The sound of the war horn suddenly echoed in front of the army, which is estimated to number approximately four million soldiers, igniting enthusiasm in their hearts... They will finally do something that none of their predecessors have done before.

They are the ones who spent their lives thinking of defending their lands against wars with neighboring kingdoms or empires. Some of them even had relatives who were killed in internal wars between some local nobles!

But today.. they are standing shoulder to shoulder, going to conquer another world? This sounds like a fairy tale, but it is happening before their very eyes, they are steps away from getting what they want!

But...

"Gold Battalion, Divine Blacksmiths division, and Rune Masters division... Advance towards the Gate, Move your butts!!"

"Move, move!"

*bam bam bam*

The Golden Battalion began to turn and move along the wall, and then they were followed by a few thousand men in armor that looked bigger than them, but they all walked with the same steady steps and confident smiles barely visible from under their helmets.

But those smiles of theirs had broken the hearts of millions of other soldiers!

The intense enthusiasm and aspiration for what is coming suddenly collapsed in the army, and the rest of the four million soldiers began to look around them sadly and wondered with furrowed eyebrows and with apparent fear, 'Will they leave us behind?' and ' Why were we gathered here then?' or ' Will we not see that new planet?!' and And many other questions that were repeated in a low voice, but that low voice was not very low when four million people spoke it at the same time...

"Shut up!" Alexander used the Major Heavenly Law of the Wind Path to raise a voice and deliver it to the ears of all the soldiers, "His Majesty, His Excellency Robin Burton has decided to send the Golden Battalion, the Divine Blacksmiths Division, and the Rune Masters Division onto the new planet first in order to create a space portal. This will create a stable space channel between us and the new planet that will be safer for you and less expensive to transport you a lot... Continue your training and wait for your summoning time!"

"Hoo!" All the soldiers shouted at once and slammed their weapons on their shields hard enough to make a thunder-like noise, excited that their hope of seeing the New World had not been completely extinguished.

As for Robin, he ignored what was happening under the wall and watched the golden battalion as it moved further away from the city gate, then he asked in a voice heard by everyone, "I thought the gate was inside the imperial city...?"

"Master, after what happened in the City of Hope, I thought that you did not want to keep the Space Portal within the city limits, so I set it up a few kilometers away from here, but I paved roads between it and the city and leveled the ground around the Space Portal, turning it into huge spaces suitable for markets and barracks too, did I make a mistake about this?" Jabba responded quickly

"Hmm? Haha no no you did a good job as always Jabba, very good job! let's go towards the Space Portal with them then, we should move as soon as possible." Robin laughed and started to float

How could he not understand Jabba's train of thought? Making a direct channel between two space portals is very useful and reduces the time used for transportation, transportation costs, and the degree of stability of the space tunnel, but this works in both directions.

If enemies captured a space gate in another place and the coordinates of the space gate located inside the imperial city were to be known, a catastrophe would occur!

Even if the possibility of such a thing happening was very low, the Elders within the imperial city would always be nervous about the fact that such a huge space portal was inside the city, so why would he make it inside the city in the first place?

But Robin's flight away from the wall was interrupted after he heard a shout in Billy's voice, "Hui, won't Amon and the rest of the Demon Kings come? I mean... I was skeptical about why the Demon army hasn't shown up yet but it makes sense when thinking that you want to train your human troop further and makes more sense now that you want a few to scout first, but at least Amon, Sakar, and the rest Demon Kings should come with us, right? they would be a huge help to us in a such unfamiliar land!"

Robin hangs in the air for about two seconds before completing a flight, saying, "No, the Demons won't help this time, they have their own business to deal with, let's go!"

*swoosh*

*swoosh swoosh*

"....Eh?!" Billy stood in the back watching Robin and the rest move away in stupefaction

Ten kilometers north of the imperial city

*bzzzzzt*

Robin raised his hand from the Space Portal Control Pane and looked behind him, then yelled at everyone using the Major Heavenly Law of the Wind, "I have entered the coordinates and activated the Space Portal, everything is ready for us to take the next step, but let me give you a little warning, I know most of you have used one of the space portals at least once during the last three years, all of you We are used to the secure space tunnels and instant transportation, but entering this space portal is unlike anything you've experienced before!

Here is what will happen... After you enter the space portal, your entire body will freeze, which means all the vital processes in your body will stop for days or even weeks until you reach the final destination, only your mind will remain active, but do not worry, you will reach the other side alive and in the same condition and position in which you entered the space portal, That is why I want all of you to take a defensive position before entering the space portal, and if some of you arrive before the rest, stay in the defensive position no matter what and wait until everyone arrives, understand?"

"HOO!" Everyone chanted at once, still excited but the dread of entering the space portal increased manifold after Robin's words.

Robin nodded once and then yelled again, "Good, Alexander, you lead the formation!"

"Yes!" Alexander replied quickly, but before heading towards the army to lead it, it seemed as if he remembered something, so he turned back and took a few steps towards Robin, then took out a box from his space ring and passed it to Robin, "I apologize to your Excellency, Seeing you after three years and our talk about the invasion, energy training techniques, and others important topics made me forget to give you this box earlier."

"Hmm? What is this?" Robin accepted the box and asked

"A complete armor set! In terms of strength, this complete armor set was made of better materials than the armor of the golden army, and in terms of appearance, although it is also golden in color it's not like the rest, the most famous designers of the planet Jura participated in designing its shape to manifest your greatness. It is also lined with soft materials to make it comfortable to wear as if it were regular clothes. We are sure that your Excellency will like it!"

Alexander paused for a moment when he saw Robin inspecting the box then added hurriedly, "We know Your Excellency is not accustomed to wearing armor, especially a full set, but we kindly ask you to make a small exception just this time and wear it to ensure your safety after we are sure the new planet is safe you can take it off again if you like."

"Oh? How thoughtful, It seems that you lot didn't forget about me heh~" Robin let out a short laugh and then said, "Okay, let's move on."

Alexander nodded and then flew to stand right in front of the gate and shouted, "First Company, follow me!"

*Bam Bam Bam*

Alexander advanced first and entered the space portal, raising his shield as Robin recommended, then a thousand golden soldiers entered behind him

Then Elizabeth, Victoria, and Caesar entered, followed by ten thousand golden soldiers, then finally Peon, Zara, and Jabba, and the rest of the Generals, and after them, the rest of the soldiers followed, and then finally the divine blacksmiths and Rune Masters Division also advanced.

*Deep Inhale*

Robin stood alone after everyone left, his heart pounding like a hammer as he looked at the space portal's ethereal effect

His eyes were not filled with dread of the unknown or excitement resulting from the thought of what he might face like the rest of his generals and soldiers.

His eyes were filled with guilt... and fright!

He stood there for a few minutes helplessly, then clenched his hands and teeth until he started to bleed.

Then he took the armor set out of the box and put it on quickly, not caring about its appearance or the materials in it, but from his nervousness, he put on a few pieces out of their places and had to re-wear them while shouting in a panicked voice, "Fuck! F*ck!! F*ck!!!"

"Haa... Hoo... Haa... Hoo... cheer up, it's something you have to do... something you have to do..."

After a few more minutes, he finally took an extra step and disappeared into the ethereal space...

Chapter 409 Rain

Somewhere in the vast space --

'Heh~ This feeling again.. the whole body freezes during the transportation process, I feel like my soul is trapped inside my body, losing the ability to do anything, even my thoughts are slower than normal, I hate it so much!'

'But at least I am now stronger and better than last time, the speed of my thinking now can be compared to a person at the knighthood Realm, last time my thinking was so slow that I felt that I was mentally retarded..'

'I wonder how the rest of them will cope with the situation. This is their first long-term space flight. They must be confused now, but they will be fine..'

*... What should I do now? Who knows how long it will take to arrive at our destination... The last time I space traveled in this way I used the Eye of Truth to research space's major heavenly law and managed to completely figure out the patterns of the first stage of the major heavenly law of space and a large part of a second stage of the major heavenly law of space, using them as a foundation, I managed to complete a technique to use the first and second grads in planet Nihari... Shall I do it again?'

Hmmm, the use of the Eyes of Truth exhausted all my energy and brought me to planet Nihari helpless like a newborn, it was my good luck that no one wanted to deal with me at that point or I would have been long gone, but this time I will not go this Greenland Planet alone and my enemies will not be just a beast passing by chance or a giant who wants to gain some benefits from me, this is the real deal!

Maybe I shouldn't, Who knows what will happen when we appear there for the first time, we might face a huge battle the moment we stop foot on that planet! ...Nah, the possibility of the happening is extremely slim, but still... Would it be a good idea to get an entire army to another world when I'm in such a weak state?'

~Glow~

'...Alexander, Caesar, and the rest will be in their best condition, they can lead the army if something bad happens, hmm, well, I'm not used to missing opportunities, I will take a look at the third stage of the major heavenly law of space, there is no better place to see the space patterns clearly as in here, I can't let this chance slip away.'

'..... It was completed! I memorized the patterns of the third stage of the major heavenly law of space by heart, I could easily make a technique to practice later on, this would undoubtedly be among the most powerful weapons in the arsenal of the True Beginning Empire!*

'This is amazing... Just by seeing those patterns, I can feel how powerful The Third stage of the Major Heavenly Law of Space really is. Until now, I used the first two stages to speed up attacks or create divine equipment such as the space rings, my Black Spear, or Alexander's gray bow, but with the third stage with me now I feel that I can double these properties, all I need is some time and effort and I will make many wonderful applications using it!... But not now.'

'...How long have I spent until I discovered the third stage of the Major Heavenly Law of Space? I feel like it's been moments and years at the same time... I wonder if we're any closer to our destination yet.'

'What should I do now? Should I try researching the fourth stage of the Major Heavenly Law of Space? There are only a few laws around me, some as clear as space and light, and some I don't know what it is yet, even their first stages are very vague, I see them but I don't understand them and I can't memorize them... forget it, searching the fourth stage for anything It would be a waste of time and effort before I reached the third stage of the Master Law of The Truth, and being preoccupied with those incomprehensible laws would do me no good either..'

'Should I research the major heavenly law of light then? I didn't get a chance to catch a glimpse of it last time, I was busy with space law because I thought it would serve me better, this is a good opportunity to learn about the law of light! Ahh, I'm starting to feel hungry~ Researching the third stage of the Heavenly Major Law of Space wiped out a large portion of the energy in my body..'

'Heh~ If I start studying the Law of Light now, I won't be able to finish the first stage of it before I'm completely exhausted, it is better to have some energy to lead my troops in that Greenland planet. enough researching for this trip, and I'll shut down my senses for the rest of it.'

-turn off-

*VROOOOM*

"His Excellency has landed, His Excellency has landed, he is right here next to me!!"

"He finally arrived?! Protect him!"

Robin stood quietly, still not fully regained consciousness yet, all he saw were people dressed in gold with pinched features on their faces, quickly approaching him, and soon they turned around with their backs towards him and the shields outward, and some of them began to fly and raise the shields above him, forming a Small dome around him like a turtle's house

Everything happened quickly, Robin didn't know what to say, he didn't even know what was going on, and he didn't even have time to recognize how hungry and weak he feels, he shook his head hard to regain his balance faster, and finally asked, "What's going on here?!"

"Chalat Khazaaaaaaaaaala!!"

*BOOM*

*boom boom boom boom*

*PAA PAA PAA PAA PAA PAA*

"AAHHHH!!"

As Robin regained his sense of hearing, he began to absorb new sounds entering his ear, sounds that at the beginning sound like an explosion, but when if one paid close attention, they seem closer to the sound of bones shattering!

"What the hell is going on outside? why are you surrounding me like that? Someone tell me!!" Robin started pushing the soldiers around him, trying to catch a glimpse of what was going on outside, but he found great resistance

"Your Excellency please stay put until one of the generals comes to clarify things for you, we don't know what would happen if we opened up a window for you, please stay within the circle and allow us to protect you." One of the sages around him shouted with panicked, yet determined

The rest of the sages around Robin nodded, they were ready to defend this little dome with their lives

"Motherf*cker you dare refuse a direct order from me?! Get lost and let me see!!" Robin used his Strength Divine Tattoo and kicked the person standing in front of him with enough force to drive him away without hurting him

Finally, a scene that appeared to be coming out directly from a nightmare unfolded in front of him...

He saw the sky raining bodies.

Chapter 410 Madness

*PAA PAA PAA PAA*

*BOOM*

"AAHHHHH!!!!"

Robin stood with his eyes wide open as he saw a scene that seemed as if he had come out directly from the dream world.

The place where Robin and his army landed was a low ground surrounded by heights on three sides and open on one side only.

It appeared like a * U * shape, with mounds surrounding them from the three sides

There are people who come running from the three high sides and jump over Robin's army without an iota of hesitation, some with spears, some with bricks, and some of them have nothing but their fangs to show...

The height is simply too high. This is not just a jump in order to take advantage of the height of the surrounding ground to gain more momentum, but this is just suicide!

Most of them fall freely on top of the soldiers of the Golden Battalion, hoping to kill a few soldiers from their fall

The Golden Battalion is made up of elites who all are Saints or Sages, and they are armored from their hair to the soles of their nails with divine armaments.

Indeed, the fall of those individuals of this height gives them enough momentum to kill whoever they land on their head, but unfortunately for them, this did not happen...

They all fall, causing a big explosion, and their body parts are scattered everywhere, but there is no harm done to the golden battalion except that their shields began to turn green instead of golden...

Every moment that passes, Robin's eyes open more, as if his eyeballs want to jump out of his face.

'What is going on here?' They have just arrived but they are being treated like eternal enemies that must be eliminated at all costs!

Robin focused more on the *rain* that didn't stop for a moment... These individuals have a human-like physique, almost similar to the humans on Planet Jura, but there are very visible differences that can be identified even during their free fall.

Their skin color is white, completely white as the color of milk, and from the repeated body explosions that were happening in front of his eyes he could tell that their blood and flesh were as green as leaves

They wear *clothes* of tree leaves, but each one of them wears them in a completely different way, these clothes did not seem to cover the private parts and genitals as humans and other intelligent beings do, but rather just a way to look different from the rest of their species

What is worse, they don't seem to have genitals at all, can they hide them inside their bodies like reptiles..?!

As for their face and bodily features, they look identical!

*swoosh*

"Your Excellency, you have finally arrived!" Alexander came flying in to make sure that the shouting of the soldiers just before was correct and that Robin had arrived, then he looked behind him and shouted at the top of his voice, "His Excellency is really here, all of you, Retreat two hundred steps quickly, His Excellency must be right in our midst!"

"Huh!" The Golden battalion soldiers shouted and started to take steps back hurriedly, but they didn't forget to deal with the rain of corpses.

With one hand holding the divine shield held upwards and the other holding a sword or spear beheading whoever came down alive, the fifty thousand soldiers retreated within a few seconds in an orderly fashion, placing Robin right in their midst.

"Alexander, what is going on? How did you get to this situation? Have you been here for weeks or something? What did you do during my absence, you bastards? Didn't we agree to try a peaceful solution first?!" Robin exclaimed suddenly, That was the only explanation he could come up with

What would make these creatures attack them in this suicidal way? If Alexander had told him now that they had slaughtered their children and fed them to dogs before their very eyes, he would have said that he was a liar, even that could not have made those locals so angry!!

"Your Excellency, I swear we didn't do anything, Your Excellency is only an hour late, I can bring you Caesar to assure you of this!" Alexander responded quickly

"An hour? In one hour you guys succeeded in pissing off these locals to the point of committing suicide in order to kill us? Are you f*cking kidding me right now?!" Robin shouted again

"I swear this is exactly what happened! I will tell every thing from the start... After I and the first group arrived here we stood our places waiting for you and the rest of the army as your Excellency ordered, we didn't take a step from our original places, Ten minutes after our first group arrived, these creatures started jumping over us without warning. We did not even exchange two words with them! At first, it was one of them, then ten of them jumped together, then twenty, and with each passing minute their numbers increased until they reached what your excellency sees now, and we did not want to move from our place before Your Excellency arrived safely first and protected you... Please give us your orders, shall we retreat? Shall we try to communicate? Should we attack them? Should we fly away? What Should we do?! We cannot stay like this forever!" Alexander spoke quickly

The soldiers' energy is not unlimited, and those suicidal attacks are not weak, they may not harm directly now, but with every second that passes the golden battalion members get more and more tired from using their energy and divine weapons to defend themselves...

If in a normal, face-to-face war, the soldiers would rotate among themselves and reservists pushed in to give the other soldiers a chance to rest and replenish their energies, but now they are surrounded by high mounds and all of them are under attack, where and when will they rest?!

And the most important thing is that those creatures that jump over them do not appear to be soldiers, rather they do not seem to be strong at all, some of them do not even emit any energy, they are mostly just peasants!

He could of course take measures to defend against them and kill off these creatures, but killing this level of enemies wouldn't do them any good, on the contrary, it would only drain them over time...

For how long could his protective measures withstand this waterfall of bodies? They are just peasants indeed, but if this planet is compared to the planet Jura, and thinking about the speed with which they gathered here and started their attacks, then surely there are billions of them on the planet, and maybe not that far away either.

Will they remain in his place until they all come and jump over them as well?

"DAMMIT!!" Robin kicked a local's thigh under his foot, "This is the second time he's done it to me, first he sends me to a planet that has monstrous gravitational attraction without a warning and now he sends me to a planet where all the locals are crazy? Now I feel he is just messing with me!!"

"Your Excellency..?!" Alexander yelled again, reminding Robin of the situation, they have been facing this situation for over an hour now, and they already thought of everything that crossed Robin's mind

They felt helpless when thinking about it, especially the four continental rulers, for the first time they felt that it is a good thing that the tough decisions aren't for them to take

"Damn it, damn it, DAMN IT!!!" Robin continued to crazily kick the white locals' shreds around for a few seconds, sending panic into the hearts of Alexander and the rest of the sage-level soldiers who surrounded him to protect him.

Then he looked up at Alexander, panting, "You say retreat or try to communicate? Should we retreat to where and communicate with whom?! We don't have a base to go back to and we can't return to planet Jura for obvious reasons, as for communications, These creatures clearly don't know what the reason is. there is only one route ahead of us we will attack! If they are going to treat us with madness, I will show them the real madness! PUSH FORWARD!!!"
