

The Truth 411

Chapter 411 Dread

"Alexander, take a few Sages who cultivate the Major Heavenly Law of Wind and scout the area around us, you should find a vast open land or a high-defensible position near here, I need to hear good news from you very soon!" Robin pointed towards Alexander and issued his orders

"Yes!" Alexander heard the matter and immediately responded and started calling out the names of certain people to accompany him

"Victoria, you and those who cultivate the Major Heavenly Law of Water, move towards the battalion edge on the four sides, then change the formation from the square to an ellipse, I will count on your ice walls to keep them away. Victoria... if one of those things manages to break through the formation, you will be held responsible in front of me!" Robin shouted toward Victoria who was already busy organizing the defense,

Before turning his face and turning in another direction, "Old Gu, move the troops who can use the flames to line up second after the water forces, you will be responsible for defending the sky of the army, if any son of a bitch jumps over the first line somehow, you should be there to turn him into ashes! ..Peon, take command of all those who cultivate the Major Heavenly Law of Wind, you don't have to stick to a specific position in the formation, you will be the longitudinal arm of the army, attack at long range, and don't care for defense, but don't step out of the formation while doing so! And all of you... the protection of the Divine Blacksmiths division and The Rune Masters division is your highest priority, die to protect them if you must, none of them is allowed to have a tiny scratch, understood?!"

Old Gu, Victoria, and Peon looked at Robin and nodded, they didn't understand why they had to change formations like this after the formation successfully held back the enemies for more than an hour, but they started to follow orders anyway.

"Elizabeth, the only exit in front of us is completely blocked by huge trees, use the Major Heavenly Law of the planets with half of your troops and move those trees aside, while concentrating the other half of your troops to protect the ground below us, understood?"

"Protecting the ground? Can't we just fly from here?" Elizabeth looked at Robin and asked

"Do what I say!" Robin shouted at her with furrowed eyebrows

Elizabeth sighed, then nodded without adding another word, and began to move the Major Heavenly Law of the planets' users to their new positions.

In the few minutes that followed Robin's instructions, the army did not move one step from its place as a whole, but internally it seemed to be in devastating chaos, each one of them wanted to go to his new location, but the final result showed that the external appearance did not reflect what was really happening...

Within just five minutes every one of the fifty thousand soldiers took their new position with extreme precision!

When Robin saw that everything was done as he wished, he used the Master Wind Law to quietly transmit his voice to everyone, shouting, "Come forward!!"

*PAA PAA PAA*

The golden army moved forward towards the exit at a steady pace, each division doing its job perfectly, and in just a few seconds they got to the two hundred steps point that the army had retreated in order to protect Robin, and started advancing further towards the only law land exit.

Elizabeth and the rest of the Major Heavenly Law of the planets users also started doing their work, the huge trees and tangled vines that were blocking the exit started to move to the side as if to make way for the army to cross, but a strange sight appeared in their place...

Tens of thousands of those milky white humanoid creatures were exposed before them, and their numbers were only increasing with every tree that moves from its place!!

*thump*

Everyone in the golden battalion was focusing on the scene before their eyes with an ugly expression

In fact, the only one who didn't seem affected was Robin.

Why was the attack on the army in this suicidal form and from above only? Why didn't these creatures come down from the mountain and just attack them? Rather, why did they not use the low entrance after they attacked for about an hour and lost thousands of their own, knowing that this method would not gain them anything?

Rather, Why are most of them all mortals? just a few of them were as strong as an energy foundation expert, some were even as strong as a low-level knight, but that's it!

Robin could easily determine this from the few creatures he managed to gaze upon for a moment with his eye of Truth before they explode, and from the fact that none of them can fly...

Is it possible that such a huge army had come to attack them for an HOUR, and there was not a single strong warrior among them?!

Many questions hit Robin's head like a hammer as he kicked the body parts of those creatures a while ago, trying to figure out what the hell these things are trying to do!

In the end, only one answer was roaring in his mind... If these creatures are not completely mentally retarded that want to die, then the one and only answer is that a trap of some kind is being prepared around them and they use this method to keep them occupied.

And now seeing those numbers of the angry milky white humanoid creatures waiting patiently behind the trees assured him of his previous assumptions...

Those creatures are definitely not mentally retarded!!

"Elizabeth, don't just focus on pushing the trees away, have those trees attack them before you move them, You must reduce their numbers as much as possible before colliding with them." Robin suddenly shouted

"Alright!" Elizabeth understood his meaning without another word and began to give orders

"HOGAROOOOOO!!!"

Without warning, the white humanoid creatures charged toward the golden battalion at full speed with their white eyes punctuated by green veins, and a face that appeared to be itching for a fight to the death... Dread began to enter the hearts of the golden army.

Chapter 412 Gold And Milk

"GHRAAAAA!!!"

"KISHRAK SOOO!!!"

The reactions of the members of the Golden Battalion varied between fear, stupefaction, and even a hint of anger when they saw hordes of the humanoid white creatures coming at them like a river that was finally unblocked

Just moments ago they were thinking about how stupid these white humanoid creatures are to die such a pointless death!

But seeing this, their expression turned extremely ugly, not because of how strong the enemy is, but because they started thinking that maybe the stupid side during the last hour wasn't their enemy after all...

With just a few giant trees that the users of the Major Heavenly Law of plants managed to uproot, tens of thousands of enemies were visible, and even as they hurried at them they couldn't see an end to their numbers, there are much more of them still hiding

But even knowing this, the Golden Battalion members continued to advance at the same pace without stopping.

And soon, the two sides collided.

*BOOM*

*PAA PAA PAA*

The walls and thorns of ice met the incoming humanoid white creatures' hordes and were able to instantly stop their advance and even managed to push them back a little.

Those who were unfortunate enough to be at the first few rows were either crushed by the stampede from behind or pierced by the ice thorns in front of them

While those in the back weren't in a much better situation, whoever tried to jump over the moving ice walls and thorns was met with flame arrows that turned them into ashes before they reached the ground again.

Even those who were far away from the golden battalion weren't let off, hurricanes and wind blades float randomly killing unknown numbers of them in no time.

The golden army, slowly but surely, began to move away from its previous position between the three mounds, and the suicidal attacks that came upon them from above gradually decreased until they finally stopped, but their back was not protected either...

When the humanoid white creatures on the mounds found their presence above was of no use anymore so they began to climb down to participate in the battle, their overwhelming numbers covered the mountain from top to bottom turning it completely into a milky white color!

In the blink of an eye, the Golden Battalion found themselves surrounded from the front and the rear.

Only the Heavenly Plant Law users adjusted the scales a bit after they joined the battle...

As Robin commanded, the Major Heavenly Law of Plant users split into two halves, the first dedicated to protecting the ground under the golden battalion... and the second half was pushing the trees aside to make way for the army and at the same time were using those trees and its roots as a long-range attack to block the incoming enemy hordes

Only with the cooperation of the wind attacks from above and the giant tree roots from below did the pressure on the golden battalion decrease somewhat.

About half an hour passed since Robin gave the order to advance, but it seemed like a whole day...

So far not a single soldier has been killed, although it is a great morale boost for them, not a single one among them has rested for a moment, even the divine blacksmiths and inscription masters got themselves busy throwing out attacks!

The golden army has break out of the siege of the Three mounds successfully, but it fell into another kind of siege, now they were attacked from all sides without a chance to breath

Every time a soldier of the golden battalion attacked or even defends he would kill dozens of the humanoid white creatures, but their numbers didn't decrease at all but increased instead

Yes, increased! with every passing second thousand of humanoid white creatures would come running from the forest, it's almost like when one of them dies, two would appear!

They attacked without a specific plan and any fear of death as if they didn't know what death even means.

If it weren't for the Golden battalion entirely made up of Saints and Sages who have a high ability to control their emotions, some of them might have already collapsed under this enormous pressure.

Quite simply, a bird's eye view from above would see what is going on as a piece of gold swimming in a sea of milk!!

But with fire and ice flying attacks, tree roots sprouting everywhere, wind blades, and tornados appearing and disappearing momentarily... It was epic, to say the least.

*VROOOM*

At this moment a huge tornado rapidly approached the golden battalion storming hundreds of humanoid white creatures on its way, until it reached the golden battalion, Alexander quickly emerged from the tornado, and shouted in a loud voice, "Your Excellency, we have found a hill ten kilometers to the northwest, If we climb it successfully, it will be a suitable headquarters for the army, I will lead the way there."

Robin nodded and then raised his voice, "You heard him, follow that tornado!"

*PAAM PAAM PAAM*

After hearing the orders, Victoria moved the forces she controls to get in behind the huge tornado that Alexander and the rest of the Sages had created, but the epic scene itself didn't change much.

Everyone was focused on their role, and every man and woman in the golden battalion focused on getting to the hill to save their lives.

Except for Robin... He looked completely absent-minded and looked up at the sky with furrowed eyebrows.

"Dad, what's wrong? Where are you looking? We need you to stand tall and set an example to the rest, You are worrying everyone... Can I help with something?" Zara spoke in a worried voice as he pulled up Robin's cloak

Anyone can worry or feel fear or stress, but not Robin!

He is a divine figure in everyone's hearts. If they find him standing lost and distracted in this kind of situation, what will happen to their morale?

Robin lowered his head with a smile and patted Zara's head, "Don't worry honey, just stay ready and wait by my side until I need help, okay?"

"En." Zara nodded, her eyebrows still a little knotted as she watched her father turn back to look at the sky again...

Robin undoubtedly looked very worried... and he was!

The All-Seeing God told him that this planet should have experts in the Sagehood realm, where are they? Where are even the Saints? The strongest of all who attacked until now had strength equal to level 20, which means he is only a knight!

It is impossible that there is this huge number of energy foundations and knighthood realm cultivators, and there is not a single saint between them... Secondly, who moves them and gives them orders?

The fall of those humanoid white creatures from the top of the mounds in this suicidal manner was undoubtedly to move Robin's army from their place and push them to another, more dangerous spot.

This was clear as day, and Robin knew they were most likely waking into a trap, but it was inevitable...

If he remained in his place and received those suicidal attacks none stop, his forces would have been exhausted sooner or later no matter what he does.

But what was that *more dangerous* place that these creatures were trying to push them into? Did they want to attack them in open ground, as is happening now, or did they want them to fly and attack them mid-flight somehow?

Those humanoid white creatures that were hiding behind the trees, was that the trap he was anticipating? Well, if Robin's army had entered the forest and were attacked in such a manner, they would have suffered huge losses...

But where are the saints and sages? Is there still another trap?

Come to think of it, the proper action against those suicide attacks was for the battalion to fly up to engage them head-on, and not to advance on the ground like he ordered to, is this the real trap? Was it during the flight..!?

'Could it be that they can't fly at all and I'm over thinking? ..No, It's not like Nihari, the conditions here is suitable for flight, Alexander and the rest are flying with no problems, if they have sages they should be able to fly too...'

If he gave orders to the Golden Battalion to fly now, would those experts appear? What trick will they use against them? Do they have some hidden weapon to use against them in mid-air? Will he have the power to fend them off by then?

He wasn't afraid about Alexander and the other 9 sages flying with him, if they do have a trap to use mid-air they wouldn't activate it on a few targets and make it useless by alerting the rest

Questions were accelerating in Robin's head non-stop, but in the end, he decided to stay on the ground and continue crawling towards that hill as he was.

Thinking about this, Robin's face began to twist with rage... What the hell is wrong with this planet?!

Chapter 413 Fierce Enemy

*BOOM BOOM BOOM*

*SLAAACH*

An hour has passed since Alexander returned to the army and changed their course towards the hill...

The hill that was only ten kilometers away, an army of this level is supposed to reach in a few minutes even on foot, but they had yet to climb over!

Along the way the Golden Battalion had to stop more than once due to the huge number of humanoid white creatures, even with the intense massacre still taking place, The humanoid white creatures were still popping up from everywhere like ants

Even as Major Heavenly Law of Plant users opened the way around the army continuously by removing the giant trees to clear the view around them to have a clearer grasp of the situation, they still hadn't seen the last of these humanoid white creatures yet, the place was covered in white instead of green instead

As far as the eye can see, nothing can be seen except for the heads of these humanoid white creatures, and their bright white eyes filled with green veins.. even their eyes look angry at them!!

It happened more than once that these white human creatures jumped on top of each other and made walls of their bodies to stop Robin's army from moving forward, and they succeeded in that.

In those short minutes in which they had to stop the army, walls of bodies and corpses were created around them and surrounded them completely. If they had remained standing in their place more, the losses would have been too heavy...

The way those humanoid white creatures used to attack did not seem like they wanted to arrest the golden battalion or prevent them from doing something, they came for annihilation.

Facing this situation, Robin had nothing to do but order Alexander, Elizabeth, and the rest of the continental rulers to use the Divine Decree Incarnation Technique to forcibly open a path through this river of bodies and corpses in front of them

He knew how much this technique presses on their bodies and drains their life energy, as he has not modified it for them yet to prevent all its issues, but he and the four continental rulers knew that there was no other solution.

But in order to prevent more walls of corpses and bodies from forming, Robin appointed Jabba and Caesar to head two squads of Sages and ordered them to get out of the elliptical formation to act as the arms of the army.

They both immediately understood the significance of this and neither of them argued that this was too dangerous, they took their men and jumped out of the lineup, and moved immediately using everything they had to make a way for the army, or at least kill as many of them as they could before reaching the main body of the army, preventing their numbers to be high enough to make those walls again

The death flame erupted like an epidemic spreading everywhere as Caesar waved his golden halberd like a crazy man, and heads and lands exploded under the Major Heavenly Law of Gravity.

Caesar and Jabba moved behind them dozens of Sages as if they were two worms gnawing at a piece of white cheese!

...The minutes passed like hours...

Thanks to the efforts of Jabba and Caesar and their soldiers, the army approached faster to the hill and did not stop again, but set their feet on the beginning of the slope that leads to the top.

The hill really deserves to be the choice of someone like Alexander and deserves to be described as a strategic place, there was one way to the top, and on the other side, there was a steep cliff that could not be climbed, although the road up was a little wide and still allowed the humanoid white creatures to besiege them from all directions, at least as long as they climbed to the highest point of the hill their backs would be secure and their defense would be relaxed by much.

But the highest point of the hill seemed to be farther than the gates of Hell.

No one remembers how many have been killed so far, hundreds of thousands are no longer a number that can describe the number of the dead humanoid white creatures, the golden battalion is now literally walking over corpses and no longer touches the ground of the planet

Even one of the soldiers in the Golden Battalion said jokingly as he stabbed one of the humanoid white creatures, "We don't have to get to the hill. If we stand still for a few minutes, we'll find ourselves on top of a hill! Hahaha!"

Robin did not know whether to laugh or cry after hearing this sentence.

The meaning behind the soldier's words was clear, the bodies of those humanoid white creatures are sufficient to form a hill, and he really did not lie about this...

Zara took a few steps forward and was about to rebuke that saint soldier, so how could he belittle a life-and-death battle and tell jokes? The battle was going in their favor, for now, but they were walking on thin ice, facing this kind of fearless enemy meant they can't be intimidated to flee or surrender

If they were exhausted or let their guard down for even a moment the who does the killing won't be them anymore...

But Robin stopped her, shaking his head. Telling black jokes in crises is better than freaking out and waiting for death.

And they were really not far from death, the forces of the Golden Battalion were clearly fading and getting weaker with every passing minute.

Their enemies were not strong, but they were many, and they had a bizarre desire to die... All the front rows of those humanoid white creatures were running towards the spears of the golden battalion as if they wanted to fill the spear with corpses to make it heavy and fall from the hand of the soldier!

Who would think this way?!

If it weren't for all of them armed with 16 pieces of divine armaments, they wouldn't have held their ground until now, even though they were all Saints and Sages!!

What goddamn plan are those white beings following? Rather, who convinced them to implement it and what did he say to motivate them to this level? Do these creatures lack the survival instinct that is the basis of all living things?!

It is clear that these humanoid white creatures attack for the purpose of death.

Either the general who leads them wants to reduce the numbers of his army, and this is unlikely, or... he sacrifices them in exchange for weakening the Golden Battalion?

There is no other explanation for what is happening!!

Well, they are already visibly weakened, the attacks they used to kill a hundred humanoid white creatures would now kill fifty or so, and they already crossed about 25% of the way up the hill, if they got up there then they would be able to take their breath again

If the enemy general really wants to weaken them then the next step would be...

"Your Excellency, quickly look towards the hill!!"

"Hmm?" Robin lifted his head up and immediately saw what he was afraid of, "Oh no..."

*BOOOOM*

Chapter 414 Trap

"AAHHH!!"

"Damn, where did this attack come from?!"

"Bid brother! Big brother, please hold on, don't you dare die!!!"

An extremely powerful attack wave came out of nowhere, striking the right area of the golden battalion, devastating it completely, tens of golden armored corpses were scattered everywhere, and hundreds of injured soldiers were thrown away by the shock wave.

With one quick attack that took a few parts of an instant, the golden battalion has shed blood for the first time.

The oval formation that had maintained its solidity for more than ten kilometers, killing hundreds of thousands of the humanoid white creatures on its way, disintegrated for the first time, and the hordes of the humanoid white creatures on the ground began to penetrate the formation from that side.

As for Robin, he focused his shaky eyes upward, but this time he did not find the blue sky, but rather it turned white and green after more than twenty thousand of these humanoid white creatures appeared, all floating in the air!

He saw everything, from the moment they appeared until they shot their attacks, he saw it!

But what attracted his attention the most is that some of them are slightly pinkish in color and those were using the different fire path minor laws to attack... some are slightly blue in color and were using ice and water-related attacks... others are slightly grayish in color and were using wind path attacks, and many others white color variants, Each of them attacked by one of the elements found in nature

'This is the trap?' this question exploded in Robin's head after his initial shock, the possibility itself that the trap existed wasn't out of Robin's expectations, but what is happening now was something he never imagined.

It is clear that the white creatures took advantage of the fact that Robin and his army were going toward the hill and hid behind its shard cliff, and when they got close to a distance that allowed them to attack by surprise, they did not miss the opportunity!

But how? It is clear that this trap was not present from the beginning, as Alexander and the rest lost about an hour trapped between the three mountains and then about another half hour advancing blindly without a clear destination, even when Alexander came with the good news about the existence of an easily defendable hill near them and They headed towards it, those humanoid white creatures didn't know where they were going until they got too close to the hill!

'Were the suicide attacks from the Three Mounds to test the waters and see the limits of the Golden Army's strength? Was the attack all the way to wear us out? Since when are there twenty thousand saints and sages roaming around us? Did they wait until they were close to the hill and then hide behind it? Why weren't they spotted when they obviously moved a lot around them?!

'Who is leading this army? What kind of vision and high efficiency does their leader have? I feel... I feel that someone is watching the battle from above as if he is playing chess!' Drops of cold sweat started pouring down Robin's forehead. For the first time since entering this world, he started to feel really anxious.

Robin is not the kind who regrets spilled milk, but rather learns from his mistake if he made one and considers the mistake a lesson for his future

But today... he felt deep regret.

He regretted not because he came to this planet, not because he felt weaker than the enemy's leader... But because he did not bring his entire damn army with him!!

*boom boom boom*

Another round of attacks rained down on the golden battalion from above, but this time they randomly attacked all over the formation

Once again, dozens of golden battalion soldiers were killed and many were blown away from their spot, although this number did not seem much, it was enough to create many holes in the formation, and distract the rest of the golden battalion soldiers to look up, ignoring the danger from the sides.

"Quickly fill in the holes in the formation you bastards, do you want to die here? F*CK OFF, you white piece of shit!!" Caesar shouted at the soldiers who no longer knew whether to push their shields up or down and at the same time he was killing a few white humanoid white creatures that had arrived next to him

They arrived at where he was standing and attacked him... He was standing near the center of the formation!

This is how far they got in!

After two successive attacks from above, the formation was in tatters with too much holes in it, and the defense in front of the land hordes of the humanoid white creatures was greatly reduced, which made them infiltrate deep into the formation with no one taking them seriously, as all eyes were up.

"ARGHH! Your Excellency, they are trying to pierce the ground below us using tree roots, if they manage to do it then the entire formation will be destroyed, we will have no ground to stand on!!" Elizabeth quickly shouted, only now did she understand why Robin asked to focus half of the Major Heavenly Law of Plant users on protecting the ground below them!

"Your Excellency, this cannot continue, what should we do? Please give me your permission to attack them!" Alexander shouted at Robin, he had already stopped midair within his tornado after the golden battalion stopped his track, wanting to do something about it but needing the General's permission first, in this case, Robin's.

Robin furrowed his eyebrows slightly while still looking up. Alexander's question was clear. Even with the advantage of numbers still on their side with 50,000 saints and sage on Robin's side while only 20,000 or so on theirs, they cannot attack such an enemy directly while they are on the ground. The range is on the side of the enemies because gravity is with them, Fighting them like this will not lead to anything good even if their numbers are larger and everyone knows that.

So, Alexander was asking permission to fly the army and engage the enemy head-on in an aerial battle!

This is logical... The trap that Robin feared has already appeared.

If Robin's army had flown previously, they would have been surrounded in the air and they would have been attacked from every side without a means of defense or a place to protect their backs. But now that the hidden enemy has appeared, they can finally abandon the ground and attack directly, and they wouldn't worry anymore about defending the ground against the roots attacks or about destroying the formation

Fifty thousand saints and sages armed with divine weapons and talismans, against twenty thousand enemies who wear nothing but tree leaves, what could possibly go wrong?

His army can ALL fly and this is one of their biggest advantages, They can just annihilate their strong enemies in an aerial battle and then shower the ground with attacks to annihilate the rest!

But...

His bad feeling about flying has not left him yet.

Chapter 415 Dome

"Zara, how many Major Heavenly Law of Life users are in our ranks?" Robin quickly looked beside him and asked

Zara was stunned by the question that came out of nowhere, but she quickly replied anyway, "We have a thousand or so saints and sages who built their pillars using the Major Heavenly Law of Life... But if we added my former Life legion soldiers with the Sacred Tree Empire army forces who learned the Major Heavenly Law of Life and could only use the first stage of it, there are currently about two thousand Life Master Law users."

*boom boom boom boom*

A third wave of attacks started from above, claiming the lives of a few dozen golden battalion soldiers in the process again while killing even more of the humanoid white creatures ground troops who penetrated deep into the golden battalion formation

"Two thousand? Very good! Old Gu, I want you to cooperate with Zara, and assign enough Heavenly Major Law of Fire users to help a thousand Heavenly Major Law of Life users create a protective white fire dome around us, don't bother with individual attack or defense right now, focus on strengthening the dome with all your might. Everyone else, protect them!" Robin shouted at Old Gu, completely ignoring the impact of the chain of attacks from above

"...?! Yes." Old Gu never expected this order, doesn't this mean that Robin intends to stay on the ground? They will hold their ground in the midst of these circumstances?!

Even Elizabeth, Victoria, and the rest of the high level figures in the army furrowed their brows upon hearing Robin's orders to Old Gu, but they didn't say anything...

Life forces and Fire forces started charging towards the golden battalion formation boundary, some of them started to randomly produce huge amounts of white flames and some of them started to produce green mystical energy that slowly began to merge with the white flames.

Meanwhile, the battle around them reached its climax as the Wind forces and Water forces of the golden battalion engaged with the humanoid white creatures in the ground to protect the Life forces and Fire forces complete the White Flame Dome, while at the same time keeping an eye for the intense energy attack coming from above

The elliptical formation was completely ruined, chaos quickly ensued everywhere and the fight became one-on-one... The faces of the Wind and Water users quickly turned a dark blue color, suggestive of suffocation due to their bodies lacking oxygen, the intensity of the battle didn't even leave them time to breathe!

The Divine Blacksmiths and Inscription Masters divisions gathered together near Robin forming what looked like a golden ball, with no one protecting them other than the Divine armors and shields covering them!

But this messy situation didn't last long either, with such huge numbers of Life forces and Fire forces working together, the lower walls of the white flame dome didn't take long until they started forming.

*VROOOM*

After two more rounds of intense attacks coming from above, the thousand Life Heavenly Major Law users managed to create the Flame Dome with the help of four thousand Fire Heavenly Major Law users.

"Alexander, bring your men and enter the dome quickly!" Robin yelled when the dome was finally completed and gestured to Zara to open a breach for Alexander and the rest of his men to enter.

Then, he took out his black spear from the space ring and started shooting an energy spear toward Alexander and his companions!

Alexander had a major role in mitigating the attack on the army below, when he heard Robin's order he gritted his teeth and activated the Divine Decree Incarnation Technique again and attacked the flying humanoid white creatures, trying to distract them, and he even succeeded with the rest of the sages beside him in killing a few enemies

But in the end, They were only a few sages against twenty thousand Saints and sages.

Alexander quickly accumulated numerous injuries and almost died several times, six sages of his followers were killed, and soon Alexander and those who were still alive of his followers found themselves surrounded from all sides, death was almost certain now.

Until they saw a small gap in the siege made by dozens of energy spears coming from below, Alexander didn't think twice, he quickly put all his effort and fought his way towards the white dome with the rest of his followers, not looking back.

His descent did not bear the majesty and prestige of someone of his stature, rather he quickly descended to the ground and embraced it like a meteor, after the heated battle above he didn't even have enough strength to fly properly!

Although he was happy to finally see the ground and return to take shelter with the group, he was not in a good mood at all, "Hoof.. hoof... hoof... I don't understand... I don't understand at all... We are fifty thousand armed elites with divine weapons from head to toe while they are only twenty thousand And they don't carry any real weapons on them, why can't we just fly and kill them all? Why do we have to hide here? Give me the army and I guarantee to annihilate everyone around us for you, just give me three hours and it will be done, no, two hours are enough!"

*boom boom boom boom*

"AAHHHH"

"KALAASH"

Alexander's shout was covered by the sound of explosions coming down on the dome from outside, and the sound of death cries from the humanoid white creatures who were trapped inside the dome and are now being slaughtered...

However, everyone inside the dome heard him, and they all glanced at Robin, even Caesar, Peon, and Zara looked at him... All waiting for a convincing reply!

Their coming to this hostile planet or the fact that the rest of the entire army didn't come with them could be said to be beyond Robin's control since he knew nothing about the hostile nature of the place, but staying on land in such an exposed place when they can just engage the enemy and get it over with?

With no way to get back to planet Jura while the surroundings are getting crazier with every passing minute, they are now like fish on a cutting board, silently waiting for death, some of them are already beginning to resign themselves to the fait accompli.

But if they had to fall, at least they should fall fighting with all their might!

Given the strength of the golden battalion, they all know that they can take most of those bastards with them to the grave before exhaustion completely possesses them, and who knows, they may scare the rest of the enemies and leave them alone after that!

But staying inside a dome and covering up like a turtle in face of such an enemy?!

After killing the groups of enemies inside, many members of the Golden Corps will be able to rest, but what about the flame, life, and plant troops?

Especially the Plant Major Heavenly Law users who were put in charge of protecting the earth and preventing attacks from below, blue veins could be seen almost jumping out of their necks from the pressure they are facing, how long could they endure?!

What is happening now is illogical by all standards, whether it is about this damn planet or in terms of Robin's cowardly decisions!

Watching and hearing everyone, Rubin took a few steps towards Alexander, extended his hand, and grabbed the top of his golden shield, then shouted at his face, "Alexander Levan, since you are so smart and you think you can do a better job then tell me... Who are we?!"

Chapter 416 Terrifying Question

"Alexander Levan, you seem to think you are so smart, hah? Do you think you can lead my army better than me? then tell me... Who are we?!" Robin's loud voice caught everyone's attention, and his strange question made everyone furrow their eyebrows...

*Who are we?* What kind of question is this?

Even Alexander frowned his eyebrows, not because Robin held his armor in this humiliating way or the way he yelled at his face as if he was just a follower

He knows very well that really became just a follower after the Great Green Hill Declaration and everyone here knows this, Robin didn't even have to yell at him or give him any reasons for his actions, He swore to carry out all his commands to the letter!

His questions and angry shouts just now were not to rebel against Robin, even if he wanted to he can't, but rather it was just a way to vent the helplessness he feels...

But now he looked at Robin with great stupefaction, then looked around at the rest of the golden army... Who are we?

Alexander didn't know what Robin meant, but it was Robin who asked him, he had to answer whether he like it or not, so he answered superficially with the first thing that crossed his mind, "We, the elite army from Planet Jura, we came here to conquer this planet."

"That is absolutely right!" Contrary to what Alexander was expecting, Robin complimented him on his response, and then continued, "This is an elite army, most of them are at the peak of the Sainthood Realm or in the Sagehood Realm, fully equipped with Divine Armor and Divine weapons, and possessing the best Heavenly Law Techniques they can get, each *soldier* of them can command an army Or rule a kingdom on his own. An army of fifty thousand soldiers gathered over the years from all over planet Jura after I unified the planet and built the space portals, if the planet had not unified, how would we have gathered an army like this? If it weren't for the space portals, how would we gather and train them? Had it not been for their training for three years and their preparation for this war, how would they have dealt with this f*cked-up situation with such professionalism?!"

Robin's words stirred Alexander's emotions more, isn't that what he was shouting about just now? How can those humanoid white creatures covered in tree leaves stand in front of the golden army!?

Alexander took the opportunity and spoke again, "Your Excellency is absolutely right, please give us orders and we will show you what this army can do, your elite army will destroy all enemies!"

"IDIOT!" This time Robin did not praise him, but rather scolded him and pointed upwards, "Who are they?!"

Alexander followed Robin's signal and looked at the twenty thousand saints and sages who were showering attacks on the White Flame Dome,

Again, Alexander did not understand what Robin's question meant, but his face turned into a clear disdain, and replied anyway and sneered and said, "They are the army of this planet, playing tricks and taking advantage of the homeland to the fullest, But it is nothing in front of our absolute might? They only take advantage of the fact that Your Excellency is kind and does not want to exterminate them yet, but with our strength and our bravery, what can they do if your Excellency ordered all-out war? they can only... they...?!"

"Hmph, looks like you finally understood..." Robin let go of Alexander's armor with a slight pushback, leaving him to look up in utter stupefaction.

The look of disdain on his face turned to awe, then horror...

Not only he, but everyone who heard Alexander's words furrowed their brows and started to think about it, but some of them also reached the main point quickly and started to break into a sweat as they looked up in fear, and some of them still trying to understand what was going on.

But who was there? The uniform they were wearing may deceive those who don't know them, they are sages who have lived for hundreds of years, experienced the vicissitudes of life, and have vast experiences like the sea...

As for the rest, although they are still young, are the heroes of the Borton family who have fought a war against the Flame Empire for more than a decade, everyone who survived that internecine war gained great wisdom and immense war experience

Who were Galan Bradley and Raymond Alton and the rest of the heaven-defying figures that Robin met and feared during his time at Planet Jura? They were dukes that ruled over hundreds of millions of souls, they could move armies and decide the fate of whole kingdoms, killing millions of mortals and experts if they will with no consequences, weren't they peak-level saints as well?

This golden army has 35,000 such figures!

In less than ten minutes, everyone understood what Robin was aiming for... The key in Alexander's words was *the army on this planet*

As Robin said, they are the representatives of the planet Jura, the most powerful battle group that can be gathered, after the unification of the planet they were gathered, equipped, and trained over three years.

Who are their enemies now? Were they also the representatives of planet Greenland? The answer is simply no.

According to Robin's words about his experience in moving to planet Nihari for the first time, no one felt him landing on the planet, so theoretically, none of the inhabitants of Planet Greenland should know that they will land there... When did they gather this army?!

Did they know they were going to land here? But how did they know they were coming in the first place?! As long as the space portal is not activated and the coordinates are not placed in it, it is just a metal structure like any other

Even assuming that a person on this planet felt that there was a space channel linked to his planet when they started their journey here thus he prepared an army to receive them, this is also absurd!

All those present here had a clear mind during the trip, and they could feel that it took them about 5 days to reach this planet...

Was that person who discovered their journey able to gather all the experts on the planet in this place, coordinate between them, and prepare counter plans within only five days?

Impossible!

Even Robin, Emperor of the Planet Jura, the only person under the sky whose request cannot be refused, is impossible for him to gather the entire army of Planet Jura, train them to work together, and prepare plans for them to face an invasion from another planet in only five days.

And certainly, it is even more impossible for him to motivate his soldiers to the point of throwing themselves into their death without hesitation versus an enemy they don't even know, as is happening now.

Of course, all of this is assuming that someone felt the space channel, and this is a very weak possibility. It is most likely that their location was not known until after they reached the planet...

So how did they get surrounded in this way? How did the army of Planet Greenland gather on such short notice?

Is it possible that until this moment... they were fighting the locals of this forest?!

Chapter 417 SON OF A *****

"ARGHH"

"Chi Kasloh!!"

*boom boom boom boom*

The attacks from above did not subside for a moment, and the massacre taking place within the borders of the dome did not stop for a second either

The only thing that calmed down was Alexander's shouts and the little whispers between the soldiers...

Even the Saints of the Burton family who were assigned to kill the humanoid white creatures that entered the midst of their formation put half their focus on killing and the other half on trying to think about what was happening!

Robin stood there looking up with shaking eyes, his mind running at full capacity as he looked at the faces of those Humanoid White saints and sages showering them with attacks

'How was this number of experts gathered here in two hours? Does this planet have space portals as well? No, the patterns on the space portals are of an extremely high level, even I am drawing them without comprehending anything of them! The patterns in the space portals are definitely around the fifth stage of the space law or even higher... if this planet had someone who could discover the fifth stage of the space law or higher, he would have come just personally to kill us All with a wave of his hand, why would he need all these tricks?!

'When the space gate is activated, it is connected to the coordinate point and an invisible space channel is created between them. Perhaps someone sensed the passage and used the five days to prepare this army? In five days, they could not gather all the experts of the planet without space portals or something similar, but they could gather a formidable army from a large area, is that what happened?'

'...But sensing the space passage is too difficult, even I can't pull that, If I considered this then I have to get back to the first point, who has such an ability regarding Space Law and why didn't he just kill us all?!

'...No, there is a link missing, Alexander said that he was not attacked immediately after he landed and that those humanoid white creatures started jumping off the mounds with low numbers first and then the rate began to accelerate, at the same time the numbers of humanoid white creatures were increasing in the forest in front of them, and so far their numbers are still increasing with more and more coming from all directions, it is clear that this is not an organized and well-prepared army!'

'It was also a far better option for the humanoid white Creatures' Sages and Saints to attack Alexander as soon as he arrived, and they had to kill everyone who came down from the beginning before all the forces arrived, why did they wait until now? The only answer is that they were still gathering in secret... If they knew of our arrival, why didn't they fully gather beforehand and lay a real siege on the landing area? Why didn't they set real traps that would kill us as soon as we arrived?'

'..ARGHH!! Nothing, I can't get to think of anything! All indications say that these are local forces that gathered randomly within two hours at most, but this is too irrational, it is the most terrifying answer of them all!!' Robin grabbed his head with both hands as if he wanted to squeeze it

'This planet is twice as large as the planet Jura, and the history of martial arts in it is four times longer. It is natural that there are many experts, but not to this degree!! Even after my intensive development on Planet Jura and the number of Knights reaching millions and the total number of Saints to more than two hundred thousand, it is impossible to gather such an army within two hours if I land in a random spot on Planet Jura! Of course, I have enough troops on Planet Jura to pull off such a huge summoning, but I can only do that if I was near a... Military zone?!

Robin's eyes opened wide to the point that the corners of his eye were about to tear, and he slowly lowered his hand while still looking up.

Then the features of shock and bewilderment gradually turned into furrowed eyebrows and prominent fangs, intense anger appeared on his face and he shouted while clenching his hands, "AAAHHHH!!! THAT SON OF A BITCH!!!"

Robin's sudden outburst startled everyone and drew attention to him again, but no one dared to approach him to ask him what was going on, his current appearance was simply too frightening, the person who conquered Planet Jura with a slight smile on his lips got really angry this time...

'A military zone... This explains everything... If by chance one of the passing soldiers had glimpsed Alexander and informed his superiors, everything that happened after that was very logical. An attempt to keep our formation destabilized by the suicide attack. An attempt to hastily gather the ground forces and surround us. And finding a suitable place for their strong powerhouses to attack us after they gather, everything makes sense now!'

'Of course, there are many missing details, for example, the reason behind them attacking us immediately without trying to communicate, it is like they saw a mortal enemy and there was no need to say a word, there is also the reason for the excessive suicidal desire in these creatures, what did we do to them to make them hate us so much? and also the reason for the presence of such a huge number of white human creatures who aren't even at Energy Foundation realm inside a military area... But this is still a completely new world, I can't understand everything based on my past experiences and human logic.'

'This is bad... The forces of a planet will definitely not be stationed in one place. As long as a battle of this magnitude takes place, all the forces on the planet will hear what is happening here sooner or later. Even if this planet isn't united and there are internal wars going on between them it is natural for them to unite their forces against the invaders, as the ancients say *I would fight against my brother, but I and my brother will fight against the stranger* it won't be long before reinforcements arrive one by one to finish us off, damn it..'

'All my plans failed before they even started, it's impossible for me to build the space portal in peace now! It is impossible for me to understand the language of the planet and start a conversation of peace and trade with them! Everything has collapsed!!'

'What should I do? These creatures do not leave any opportunity for discussion, even if an opportunity arises, how do I show my goodwill now that we have already killed a few hundred thousand of them so far? Of course, we cannot return to Planet Jura now, even with the help of the Rune Masters and Divine Blacksmiths it will take at least two months to complete a space portal, would this white flame dome last for two straight months? of course not.'

'We are in enemy territory now, with every passing minute the number of enemies would only increase and the pressure on the fire forces, life forces, and plant forces will increase, by this rate the dome will collapse sooner than later.'

"AAAH!!! why didn't you try to find out the reason for our presence first before attacking, you white f*cks?!" Robin raised his head again and shouted loudly

"Your Excellency, what shall we do..." Alexander approached again and muttered, this time standing silently waiting for orders

"We can't negotiate with them and we can't go back to Planet Jura, what can we do? Of course, we will fight!" Robin looked at Alexander with eyes filled with anger and tent madness and then started laughing out loud, "Before I came I was afraid of crossing my limits again, I was afraid of losing my humanity, afraid of what I could do against people who had nothing to do with my struggles in Planet Nihari, I hoped that I wouldn't need to kill a single soul here, but this doesn't seem to be applicable anymore... Fill up This valley is with the blood of those bastards! If I had to die here, I would take this whole planet with me to hell!"

Chapter 418 Attrition

"Alexander, take with you half of the Sages who use the paths of Fire, Water, and Wind and get out of the dome, kill as you wish, but not madly, attack and defend wisely so as to reduce the number of casualties on our side to the least possible number, this is the most important task you should focus on," Robin commanded firmly as he pointed at Alexander

Then he added as he looked around him, "Listen carefully everyone, none of us wanted this all-out war to erupt like this, but there is no way around it now... We will battle. We will not be throwing away our lives however, we will fight to win! Yes, to win. So what if we have to take down the whole planet? we will do it while standing right here! But to do so we will have to make this a war of attrition, and we will fight to be the last party standing. And as we don't know how long we will have to stay in this area, we must preserve our forces to the best we can, your lives are much more precious than those damn creatures, you are not allowed to die, understood?"

Then he looked back at Alexander, "Take half of the Sages as I pointed and leave the dome but don't go too far, stay close and just try to repel them back while taking down a few of them if you had the chance, don't let them pull you away from here. If one of the Sages with you outside got injured, the Life Forces will open a passage in the dome for him and allow him to enter to receive treatment. After only four hours, whether you made progress or not, you have to return with the rest of your forces inside the dome, Victoria will accompany the remaining half of the Sages and they will come out to replace you."

"Yes." Alexander furrowed his eyebrows and yelled, this time he didn't try to reply to Robin, he simply looked around and started yelling, "Fourth, Fifth, Sixth squadrons. Fourteenth, Fifteenth, and Seventeenth squadrons. Twenty-five, Twenty-seven, and Twenty-Nine squadrons. and forty-fourth, forty-fifth, and forty-ninth squadrons... all of you, follow me!"

"HOO!" The twelve squadron members whose names I mentioned shouted and rose from the ground, then started to fly behind Alexander, six thousand sages quickly approached the boundaries of the White Flame Dome!

The golden army was divided into 100 small squadrons to facilitate its administration, and each squadron had 500 soldiers, some squadrons contain only sages and a few contain only Fire Saints or Life Forces, etc...

This way he could easily move them around without having to memorize the names and jobs of everyone in the army.

At that moment a very small passage that opened in the White Flame Dome in front of Alexander could barely allow an adult man to pass vertically, this was to prevent those saints and sages from the humanoid white creatures from entering the dome

But as expected, Alexander and his men were severely attacked and resisted as they exited.

Almost every sage that came out of the aperture received at least one or two attacks, this was normal since they were coming out one by one which made it easier for the Saints and sages outside to target them, but this was unavoidable, if the passage was opened a little more, those creatures would have entered inside the dome and started Attacking from above again, this would have caused a huge number of casualties

But even though all twelve squadrons members received strong attacks as they exited, this did not affect the fighting spirit of the Sages who had not yet exited, as the rest continued to rush out, one of the reasons behind this was that they were sure that they would be fine!

A full divine armor gave them complete confidence in their own safety, even if the shockwaves damaged them a bit, it wouldn't affect their combat capabilities by too much

Indeed, after the first hundred sages had left the dome, they began to earn a place for themselves outside and guard the rest of the soldiers who had yet to come out...

After a Thousand Sages came out, the golden army outside gained enough momentum and began to counterattack...

After the six thousand sages left, there were no more attacks descending on the Flame Dome from above!

*BOOM BOOM*

"AAHHH!!"

"Hmph." Robin blew out some cold air as he watched what was happening above.

In a blink of an eye, everything changed up there...

This was a direct battle between six thousand sages on one side and twenty thousand sages and saints on the other, this should have been a one-sided battle where the six thousand sages get bulled to death!

But... Those six thousand sages were wearing golden armor, some of the holding golden bows and some waving around fiery golden halberds... facing off against a little more than twenty thousand sages and saints that were almost naked.

The advantage of divine armaments was starting to be put on full display right now.

Not only were the six thousand sages not met with a bad situation, they even immediately turned the tables around, pushing back the enemy saints and sages and killing more than 50 in a matter of a few minutes, and they were not satisfied with attacking the saints and sages only...

In fact, Alexander assigned two out of every five attacks by the six thousand Sages to be directed towards the ground hordes surrounding the White Flame Dome!

Robin smiled slightly when he saw this... 'It looks like Alexander finally understood my vision for this war'

Although this strategy caused the Golden Army forces outside to be somewhat distracted, and their effectiveness in killing enemy Saints and Sages decreased, this was not the intention behind their mission in the first place.

Their mission was to relieve the pressure on the White Flame Dome and provide an opportunity to rest for those inside it, for as Robin said, who knows how long they will stay here...

This was the real start of an attrition war.

And indeed, the results began to appear for everyone inside the White Flame Dome... The Life and Flame forces in charge of setting up the Flame Dome finally began to catch their breath.

Although this white flame dome was hundreds of times more powerful than the one that had appeared on the central continent in the war against the Flame Empire's forces, as to the number of Saints and Sages participating in building it was tens of times larger, the pressure was also much greater than before.

Although the white flame dome had maintained its strength and hadn't had any holes in it from the beginning until now, the psychological pressure and energy drain on the soldiers participating in it was extremely intense!

But contrary to everyone's expectations, the ones who looked the most exhausted were none other than the users of the Heavenly Major Law of Plants!

When they realized the pressure lessened by a great margin, half of them fell to the ground panting, and some of them has already fainted...

Chapter 419 Stabilizing The Situation

When Robin saw that the situation outside no longer needed his attention, he looked at Elizabeth and spoke, "You and your forces have done a good job, if not for you protecting the ground under our feet, the formation would have already been destroyed. You can rest now and let the other half of the plant forces take care of the ground protection. Alexander and the rest of the Sages will keep them busy and the pressure on your plant forces is now relieved by a lot, this will give you a chance to recover. this will be the task of all the squadrons that use Plant Heavenly Major Law now, you don't have to move trees to clear the vision or attack the land hordes from underground anymore, you may completely ignore what is happening outside and focus only on defending.

Elizabeth nodded without saying a word, she was very tired to even make a sound... It was mainly the drops of cold sweat running down her face that told Robin about what she and her forces are facing.

In fact, the fiercest attack the Golden Army faced so far was not the land siege or the air attacks, but from underground!

It was like at least half of all the saints and sages out there were using the Plant path and Earth path related laws to attack them!

Not just attacks with the roots of trees, but attacks by shaking the ground, turning it into quicksand, or creating rock thorns under their feet, and other such ground attacks...

Because the Law of Plants specializes in what lies within the ground and what it contains, Robin made sure to give the Sacred Tree Continent a lot of Minor Heavenly Laws that are related to the path of the Earth, including the laws of soil, minerals, rocks, and underground sensing, etc... They were really happy seeing these laws back then and most of their sages and saints cultivated them extensively as supplementary laws, and looking at what is happening now...

Without those minor laws, the army would never have been able to gain a foothold!

Robin let out a cold breath as he thought of this, clearly averting a disaster without realizing it.

"Zara, Old Gu, I want you to expand the White Flame Dome... advance 5000 steps in all directions!"
Robin wasted no time before giving the next command

"This..?! Your Excellency, do you realize the consequences of this order?" Old Gu shouted immediately, and even Zara furrowed her eyebrows a little... Robin's words were easy to say but very hard to accomplish.

This wasn't as simple as taking 5000 steps forward, it was about pushing back all those humanoid white creatures for 5000 steps!

Those humanoid white creatures outside acted like they were completely insane, even the animals had a greater sense of danger than them

Even though they had repeatedly seen that everyone who touched the white flame dome would be immediately burned and turn to ashes, they would still rush madly towards the white flame dome without any sense of danger or fear.

Rather, it seems that the space around the white flame dome was not enough for them, so they decided to jump over each other to reach it faster!!

That distance that Robin spoke about contains hundreds of thousands of these creatures crumbling on top of each other, how can they all be pushed back?!

Not only that, but the expansion of the White Flame Dome also meant that it would expand to cover an area much wider than the current one, but it would contain the same energy as the current one, meaning that it would be greatly stretched thin and weakened!

"So far, only half of the Life Forces and Flame Forces support the array. Assign all the remaining Life Forces and Flame Forces inside the dome to help you until we remove all obstacles in front of us and widen the dome. Whoever stands in front of you shall be reduced to ashes! After you reach the required area, we can return to the process of taking turns again. and I will also send a message to Alexander to increase his attacks around the dome to kill more of them and relieve pressure on you... Old Gu, Zara, do it.. Do it at all costs!"

"YES!" The two gritted their teeth and returned to carry out orders

*VROOOM*

"GHYEAAAAA!!!"

The Flame Forces and Life Forces began to take steady steps forward as the shrieks around the dome became louder and louder...

The dome was somewhat transparent and could be seen through it.

During the advance of the forces of flame and life, they could see the faces of white human beings as they looked at them ferociously, and in the next moment, they cried out a death cry and turned to ashes...

The ground under the forces of flame and life forces did not contain weeds, blood, or even corpses anymore, but was covered with thick ashes and charred bones...

Robin didn't feel anything while seeing this bloody scene, he just kept an eye on them for a few seconds then turned to watch the situation inside the white flame dome...

There was no one left inside without manual work but himself and the few Sages standing around who refused to leave and stayed behind to protect him...

There were also the saints who specialized in the Laws of Wind Path, the Inscription Masters division, and Divine Blacksmith's division, but even they were still fighting the humanoid white creatures that had invaded the formation before the construction of the white flame dome.

About ten thousand of them had entered!

Even after all this time had passed, not all of them died, which forced the six thousand sages -who were waiting inside the dome to replace Alexander and Co.- to attack them as well with the Wind sages to try to kill them faster, but this only reduced their numbers faster and did not eliminate them

This was because all the humanoid white creatures that entered were at the strength of a knight at most and did not pose a great threat, so it was decided that the army shouldn't deal with him recklessly, but the main reason behind this is that they do not want to attack with all their might and injure their own colleagues because the area they standing on was extremely narrow and it is not possible to move in it freely. The dome, after all, was only made in haste around the formation of the army.

But now with the continuous expansion of the dome given more spaces and better opportunities to hunt them down, the remaining number of Wind-User Saints alone was about to wipe out the last of them.

"Hoi, catch a handful of them alive for me, don't kill them all!" Robin called out loudly at one of the Wind Saints' squadron leaders

"Yes!!" That saint stood up and saluted, then began with his squadron to surround the last of the humanoid white creatures instead of killing them.

In just another five minutes, all the movements inside the dome completely calmed down, most of the humanoid white creatures were killed and 17 of them were captured... Although they continued to use their teeth to try to bite the officers of the Golden Army after they were handcuffed, this did not result in anything, some of them just break their teeth.

Robin looked around and found the battle outside became stable, the walls of the white flame dome expanding steadily, all the humanoid white creatures inside were either killed or captured and tens of thousands of Saints and Sages standing inside were free and ready to support in case something unexpected should happen.

"Heh~" Robin sighed as he finally reassured himself of the status quo

Then he grabbed his stomach, which had been gurgling since he arrived on this planet, and immediately sat in his place and took out a large meal from his ring and pounced on it immediately with his right hand, and in his left hand, he held an energy pearl.

Using his Eye of Truth to discover the third level of the Major Heavenly Space Law while traveling earlier exhausted him completely, but the situation didn't even leave him a chance to breathe properly.

Just now did Robin remember how tired and weak he felt...

Chapter 420 Cold

*SKREEESH*

*boom boom boom*

"Take two steps forward on my mark... Now!"

"One, two!"

"GHYEAAAAA!!!"

Robin looked around him as he slowly chewed his food, still trying to analyze the situation and give small orders here and there to relieve pressure on his soldiers, or to fill possible gaps.

Among his orders was to instruct the Life Forces and Fire Forces to advance expectantly and then rest for a few seconds before continuing at the same pace, and this was because he had noticed that the dome was starting to take on an irregular shape and some of the Saints involved in maintaining it were starting to get completely exhausted due to the White Flame Dome being used to burn huge numbers of human white creatures, and this irregular shape made things even more troublesome.

Although his body had reached a bad stage of fatigue even before his arrival to Planet Greenland, and although the psychological pressure that he had fallen into since his arrival to Planet Greenland had finished what was left of his physical and mental energy, he did not fully surrender to exhaustion even after he got the opportunity to rest

Although a distance of 5000 steps was nothing for a sage or even a knight, it still took them more than an hour to reach their destination successfully.

Robin nodded satisfied when he saw the new space inside the dome, then yelled with his mouth still full of food, "Peon."

*swoosh*

"Give me your orders, father." Peon came quickly and bowed slightly...

Although he had already become a level 32 sage, he had not gone out alongside Alexander and the six thousand sages, but had waited below to lead the annihilation attack on the humanoid white creatures inside the white flame dome, and then would come out to lead the wind-user squadrons when the switch happened after about three hours...

*Gulp*

Robin hastily swallowed the food in his mouth and pointed towards the new area that was filled with the ashes of the humanoid white creatures, "Clean up this mess and build some tents in its place, and have the specialists start arranging kitchens, field hospitals, bathrooms, and other important areas."

"...Hah?" Peon raised his eyebrows and a voice involuntarily escaped from his mouth

"Move!!" Robin shouted

"Yes!!"

Robin looked at Peon's back with unfocused eyes, even after Peon took another direction and started coordinating action with the rest of the army, Robin kept his eye in the same direction doing nothing but taking a bite of his food every now and then, completely absent-minded...

Even after sitting in his place for more than an hour and trying to think of a plan to use to get him and his army out of this situation, he did not come to anything...

Of course, he can go in the [f*ck it all] mode and take his entire army and just fly in any direction, but who guarantees he wouldn't find himself in a much worse situation? After all, he does not know anything about this planet.

Secondly, now, for sure, the news of the arrival of his army is spreading in this world like wildfire, be it this planet is united or not, the appearance of the army of an alien species with most certainly be the hottest topic everywhere, and a battle of the size can't be kept secret!

There is a high probability that more support forces are coming from everywhere now.

The ambush they were exposed to a short while ago claimed the lives of dozens of the Golden Army forces, and if they had come without their full divine armor then that surprise attack would have been enough to eliminate at least half of the army!

But now that the strength of the golden armor was known, the person who was moving this humanoid white creature's army would definitely bear this in mind next time...

What would happen if they were ambushed by another, more powerful attack while they were in mid-air?

Thirdly and most importantly, where could he and his fifty thousand soldiers hide even if they flew away now? He can definitely break the siege out of here, but to hide? He has an entire army!

They who were unable to hide inside a valley surrounded by three high mounds will be able to hide now that everyone knows they exist.

Even if they escape from the current siege, their place will remain exposed to the whole world for sure, and this is extremely dangerous, so even if he managed to escape and find another place, he would also do the same protection dome and take the same measures that he is doing now to ensure his safety and the safety of the army.

Whatever Robin thinks, staying in his place and taking a long-term defensive position is the most appropriate choice.

And what is above all that, He really... REALLY... Didn't feel good about flying right now.

The bad feeling he's having is almost paralyzing, every time he thinks about flying away he feels his body goes cold and automatically starts to think about logical reasons not to do it... Otherwise, what would he tell someone if they told him why aren't you flying? I'm feeling cold?!

... well ~ Maybe when enough of those creatures are killed they will realize it's useless and flee away, or maybe their leader will come and try to finally communicate, who knows what will happen tomorrow? The important thing is that he stays alive until he sees tomorrow.

Then his gaze fell on a few thousand people sitting in the middle of the dome, none of them moved a step no matter how much the world turned around them... They were the Divine Blacksmiths division and the Rune Masters division.

Then he shouted towards them, "Where are your leaders? Come to me."

After only two seconds two of them flew out and landed in front of Robin, they gave a deep bow and spoke in one breath, "Please command us, Your Excellency."

Robin looked at the two individuals in front of him, even from under the golden shields and the language of the people of Jura, Robin could easily determine that they are not from the planet Jura, but rather from Nihari...

When Robin wanted to build ships to invade the Flame Empire, he summoned from Nihari about four thousand individuals, divided between divine blacksmiths and rune masters... And even after completing their tasks, they remained with him, they were also the main reason behind the spread of the profession of divine blacksmithing and Rune drawing easily and quickly in Planet Jura after Robin ordered them to establish academies and train youth

And now, even after the profession of Divine Blacksmithing and Rune drawing had spread far and wide in Planet Jura, they were still the pillar of these two professions in the Robin Army, after all, they were the most senior and most experienced.

Almost all of the experts from Nihari came with Robin to Planet Greenland, and with them were 6,000 locals from Planet Jura, bringing the total of the Divine Blacksmiths division and the Rune Masters division to ten thousand.

Robin looked with slightly furrowed eyebrows at the two men in front of him, then asked, "Do you still remember the arrays that were used to establish the Imperial City?"
