

The Truth 511

Chapter 511 Space-time

"The only thing that affects time is Space!!"

OOMMMN

"Yes, that's it... How did I not think of something like this before? Space and Time seem far from each other and each has its own unique properties, but what was there before the creation of the universe? Theoretically, everything has a beginning, so the universe had a beginning at some point, and since the universe is made of Heavenly Laws, then before the creation of the universe none of these Heavenly Laws existed, and since there are no Heavenly Laws that support the existence of the material substance, then there was nothing!"

"...The non-existence of a thing is nothingness... Absolute Nothingness. and here I am talking about the complete absence of everything, that is, even space itself did not exist at a point. And If there was nothing before the creation of the current universe, then there would not have been a reason for the existence of Time Law, as Time only affects other materials and Lass. But when the current Space was formed and elements began to form within it, such as planets, stars, and living beings, the Law of Time came to exist. So theoretically it can be said that Time formed as a result of the emergence of Space." Robin muttered incessantly, unaware of the changes taking place around him

At this moment, the giant's fist was a few centimeters away from him. If Robin moved his head just a little bit, he might accidentally hit it, but the strange thing is that even its previously slow speed was no longer noticeable now, as if it had slowed down even more!

And his eyes... something was going on in his golden eyes.

The golden glow began to intensify. After it had been confined to his eyeballs, it now became as if it were an ancient lamp illuminating the area he was looking at.

"...If I follow this line of thoughts about the beginning of the universe, we can push the theory in the opposite direction as well. After the creation of space -the place in which material things are allowed to exist- that space would not have expanded or anything would have been created within it without the passage of time over it. This means In the first moment of the creation of the universe, the laws of time and space were working side by side..." Robin continued muttering absent-mindedly, completely ignoring his changing surroundings.

"No... My idea of Space and Time and their interconnectedness has been largely completed, I feel that I can now create a technique of even the First Stage of the Heavenly Law of Time, but I still feel that there is something missing... Since the beginning of creation, space and time have appeared at the same moment and always worked in connection, even without talking about the beginning of the universe, to this day if one of the two laws is affected, the other would surely be affected as well, even when I researched the law of space during my trip to Planet Nihari. I now know that I involuntarily used much of my previous research on the law of Time to master the First Stage of the Major Heavenly law of space. If they are connected to this degree, then... Why did I separate them in the first place?... Space-time, the inseparable relationship between existence and time, the close connection between the two major heavy laws of space and time, the law that created the appropriate environment for all other laws... The Master Heavenly law of space-time!!"

OOOOWMMMMMMMMNNNNN

"...Uh! What was I thinking in a situation like this?! Hmmm? What the hell is going on?!" At that moment, Robin felt like he had returned to reality, only to find his body lighting up!

Robin stood with difficulty as he looked at his hands in amazement and shock, and quickly found that the body had not caught on fire as he thought, but that it glowed with the same golden glow that was emanating from his eyes, The glow was extremely faint yet noticeable as that which emanates from a pearl in the sunlight

"Damn it, I'll see about that later..." Robin placed one hand on his injured chest and the other hand on the giant's fist so that he would lean on it and not fall, but it seemed as if he realized something at that moment and jumped back and took a fighting stance, "Woah!! "

A while ago, the Warlord managed to break through the Space Folding Ability more than once and nearly killed him, he had to be very careful approaching them.

"Hmm?" To his surprise, Robin finds that the giant's fist is not moving, not just slow, no... It's not moving at all.

He quickly looked around, hoping to spot an attack coming from here or there, but he found the rest of the Warlords in a frozen state as well, and not just them... The wind stopped, the insect wings stopped beating, and even one of the human sages fired a huge flame ball toward a Warlord in a suicide attack, that ball stopped halfway through

"What the..?!" Robin lowered his arms and looked around in astonishment... When using space folding, everything around him seemed distorted and only the Eye of Truth could determine his target, but now he could see everything around him easily, there were no longer any distortions in space... it seemed At this moment he fell into the realm of black and white painting!

"Eh?" Then he looked at his chest, the pain that was squeezing his chest every passing moment while activating the space-folding ability had disappeared, The previous damage was still there, but now he felt that he was doing something normal and that he could stay in this state forever!

swoosh swoosh

Robin grabbed his black spear again and started stabbing and swinging it right and left to test his current physical abilities, then he began walking towards the nearest warlord with a cold smile on his face...

Chapter 512 New dawn

512 New dawn

Pofh

Robin walked until he arrived by the Warlord that was about to punch him and then stabbed it in the core with a light movement

"Hmm..." Robin smiled and nodded when he saw that his stab affected the Warlord's core even as the Spacetime Master Law was activated and that the core would collapse once the Spacetime was restored to normal, then he started moving towards the rest of the Warlords while whistling happily and patting the black spear on his shoulder

Pofh Pofh Pofh

"Haha, that's so easy!" Robin laughed out loud as he stood on top of the fifth Warlord's stomach after he stabbed him, then looked towards the Warlord standing in the back with eyes full of mockery, The golden spear he had thrown towards it just before was precisely calculated and would inevitably hit the target so there was no need to go and stab it personally.

Robin raised his hands and took a gander at the faint golden glow with a smile, he knew this glow gave him a good feeling but he didn't know what exactly it was, "No no, I can't stay and check things like that now, I'll finish this battle first and then take my time to search about this carefully after I go back to seclusion... I wonder how Hoofy will react when I stop my ability and see what happened hehe..." Then he hit the ground again with his foot

VRoOoOoOOOM

Thump

After Robin stopped his ability, he suddenly felt a soul-crushing pain in his heart, so he grabbed his chest with both hands and fell to his knees without saying a word.

swoosh

The moment space-time returned to normal, the golden spear continued its path with an unstoppable momentum

When the Warlord saw the spear coming at him from the side in a coiled fashion, he angrily heaved, "Hmph." Then he quickly raised his left arm to punch the spear away, but something strange happened.

The moment the spear touched his fist, his arm instantly disintegrated and collapsed as the golden spear continued its way toward the core, "No!!"

Pofh

"KILL!"

"Protect His Excellency!!"

"HEYAAA.... Hah?"

All the soldiers of the Sixth Legion and the remaining Buds stood their ground again... One second ago the Warlords were surrounding Robin and about to kill him at any moment, but now all the Warlords are collapsing!

"No.. no no NOOO... What happened.. What did you do, you bastard?!" The five warlords started to look at their bodies disintegrating and collapsing like a house made of playing cards, "You... you destroyed everything! You destroyed everything!! I will kill you!!! I will kill--"

The five giants tried to run towards Robin with their crumbling bodies, but this accelerated the collapse process even more. At that moment, the five cores exploded, creating a rain of corpses!

Rumble Rumble

"Look.. what's going on?!"

The collapse of the cores and their disappearance seemed as if they had started something else. At that moment, all the hurricanes, earthquakes, and natural disasters around the world stopped completely, and the sky that had turned gray began to regain some of its greenness. The fractures that had left the sky cracked like barren land began to heal. And embodiments of the laws began to rise to where they came from as well

Some soldiers later said they saw the giant ghostly creatures looking at Robin just before they disappeared, but no one was able to confirm that information...

"The natural energy..." One of the soldiers took a deep breath and raised both hands

The natural energy in the atmosphere, which was nonexistent moments ago, began to return little by little

The whole world seemed as if it was suffocating and now it can breathe!

"Long live His Excellency! Long live the True Beginning Empire!"

"Long live His Excellency! Long live the True Beginning Empire!"

Hundreds of thousands of survivors of the Sixth Legion raised their weapons towards the sky and shouted excitedly, some even knelt down and started crying in joy as their bodies couldn't hold them anymore... They had taken a journey to the cusp of hell and back!

None of the soldiers of the Sixth Legion expected that the coming of their Emperor would make any difference... Everyone knew that he was a very intelligent and wise man, someone capable of unifying a planet with billions of citizens under him with his tactics and inventions... But that was it!

His excellency Robin Burton was not a man known for his battle ability, they felt they had to fight and put the weapons and talismans their Emperor made for them to protect him and enlarge his property! ...But what happened now in front of their eyes...

Although they did not clearly see what happened, the result was as clear as the sun, their Emperor had destroyed six warlords single-handedly in the blink of an eye!

Only now did most of them know that their Emperor was not just a researcher hiding behind walls and arming armies to protect him, their Emperor was the most powerful person currently in Jura's world! No, he is the strongest person in history!

So what if the enemy had six warlords who could crush worlds?

Their own Emperor is invincible!!

The Soul Sense of the other six Tree Fathers that surrounded the sky just a moment ago also jerked violently, their Soul Sense remained around for quite a while as if they were still in shock from the result of what had just happened. It was long before each Tree Father began to withdraw his from the place without saying a word, It was not known what they were thinking at this moment...

The sky quickly returned to its original state without fractures, giant ghostly beings, or pressing Soul Force, It returned to being just a recovering gray sky with the three suns returned to sting the faces of the Sixth Legion soldiers gently... Something as ordinary and simple as this in the eyes of all living beings was like paradise for the Sixth Legion soldiers after what they lived during the past couple of hours!

Meanwhile, the buds took advantage of the fact that the humans were overwhelmed with their new lease of life and frantically continued making holes in the ancient roots walls in order to escape, some of them succeeded but most of them were captured alive later.

"Your Excellency!" Finally, some officers and advisors noticed that Robin was still on his knees and quickly went towards him, "Your Excellency, are you alright? Do you hear me..? Shit, Bring the Life Law users quickly!!"

"They're all busy with General Jabba!" Another officer answered and made everyone look in Jabba's direction again, he was still kneeling in his place, his entire body was covered in blood, but he was not conscious of what was happening around him... And he was not in a coma either.

He was looking up at the place where the incarnations of the Laws had disappeared with an unfocused eye and an open mouth, no matter how many people around him shouted at him to wake up there was no response on his part, if they did not sense the vital processes still going on inside his body they would have thought he was already dead.

Thump Thump

"What are they all doing there? Get the best of them here quick, MOVE!!"

Thump Thump Thump THUMP!!

Chapter 513 Half dead

THUMP Thump Thump..

Robin's heart that was pounding like a war drum finally began to subside in the meantime

"Hmm..." Robin's calm features started to tremble as he tried to raise his hand but for some reason he felt there were two mountains on each of his arms, even his eyelids were heavy like mountains, he couldn't even open his eyes no matter how hard he tried

"Dad, Do you hear me?!" Robin suddenly heard a shout, The sound was extremely faint as if it was coming from hundreds of kilometers away, but he felt some anxiety and some happiness in this voice, and after a few moments he felt a warm current of energy entering his body through his forehead.

'...That voice should belong to Zara, but she wasn't in the Sixth Legion, what is she doing here? ...it seems that I passed out for at least a few days, but that's understandable, I don't know what happened to me at that time but I felt like I was about to die...'

'Fuuuuuck~ This is the second time I find myself in this situation, and both times were on this damn planet and in front of the same opponent, Damn that tree, I will show it who is the boss when I can sit properly again!!'

'But what exactly happened to me? As far as I can remember, Tree Father Hoffenheim didn't manage to deliver any real attack to my body or soul, the only injury I sustained was due to my use of my space-folding ability!'

'...Wait a moment, if the space-folding ability that I used via the third-stage space-piercing divine tattoo harmed me to such a degree, what would the sudden activation of the Spacetime Master Law do to me? Especially since I didn't build my pillars using it and I don't have any divine tattoos for it, how could I not have thought of this when I used it?!'

'Probably the only reason I could use it at that time was because I had the third-stage Space Piercing Divine Tattoo, besides, I had mastered the first stage of the Major Heavenly Law of Time... I destroyed six warlords thanks to the merging of these two, I wonder what I would have done if the two laws were on the same level or if I had drawn a divine tattoo of the space-time law directly hehe.. What a great catch this time! The Master Law of Spacetime reigns supreme over everything I've gained in my life so far, only comparable to the Master Law of Truth itself!!'

'..but...' When Robin reached this point, he tried again to open his eyelids or even move his head, but he couldn't, 'What happened to me? I feel trapped inside my own body.'

The stream of warm life energy that Zara constantly injected into his body seemed aimless, and even if Zara did not inject anything into his body, he still had the vitality divine tattoo that works automatically when there is a need for it, but currently, it also does not work...

Robin tried a few more times to move but to no avail. In the end, he used his soul sense to scan his body to see what exactly was his injury, but to his surprise, he found nothing wrong with his body.

But he kept searching for even longer... "What the hell?!"

Robin finally inserted his soul sense into his energy-gathering center to check it out, although he was sure he wouldn't find anything out of the ordinary, it was just a routine procedure since he couldn't find anything wrong with the rest of his body.

But the sight there was enough to terrify him.

The energy gathering center was not a complicated thing, there is nothing in it but solid foundations made of energy columns and levels and in between them there is the pure energy that the user summons whenever he wishes

'One, two, nineteen, twenty? What the hell is this?!' Robin screamed inwardly, almost losing his mind completely!

During the battle against the Warlords, Robin was at the peak of Saint Realm, i.e. level thirty, but currently, there were only twenty energy levels...

And not only that, the existing twenty levels are not near stable, they are all filled with cracks, and a few parts of them do not exist at all, it seemed as if someone used a war hammer to wreak havoc on them!

'No, no, no... What happened?! Did Hoffman stealthily attack me? Did the Planet Spirit do anything to me? No, it doesn't make sense... Is it because of the use of the Master law of space-time? But from start to finish I only used the space-time law for about 10 seconds, what happened to all this?!' A few drops of sweat started running down Robin's forehead, 'I used it for... ten seconds?'

Ten seconds.. ten missing levels.. this is too fitting to be a coincidence.

'One second of activating the Master law of space-time cost me a full solid energy level, one second at an energy level that I used months or even years to make... The matter is not limited to the disappearance of the levels, given the destruction that I see in the rest of the energy levels, I can say that I only had another five more seconds at most before my entire energy center collapsed and I am forever mortal, perhaps even direct death wouldn't be off the table..'

'Why did something like this happen? I've never heard of a technique that directly cracks and ude solid energy foundations just to activate, that's preposterous... Am I doing this because I'm too weak for the Master law of space-time? But I use the Master law of Truth without problems... Is this because I used Master Laws at the same time?! ...I guess it doesn't matter now.'

'This reminds me of the words of the All-Seeing God... Whenever he helped me with something, he said that he had to pay a lot for it... Is this what he meant? Does he have to face this kind of punishment whenever he tries to interfere in the events of the young planets? This is really annoying, no wonder he gets angry whenever I ask for something.'

After an unknown time, Robin let out a long sigh, No wonder he was unable to move, no wonder he felt that his heart was about to come out of his ribcage throughout that period, he literally escaped from the dead miraculously and they not aware of that, an additional 5 seconds would have been enough to smash all of his internal organs to meat paste, not just energy levels!

And now how does he move when he is technically handicapped? The missing ten energy levels could be forgotten for now, but the damage in the remaining twenty had left him paralyzed, it was as if someone had grabbed his liver and crushed it and then put it back again, In this case even if the liver was put again in place and the rest of his body isn't damaged, he would still be half dead!

'Luckily the situation isn't completely hopeless...' Robin finally calmed down and stopped trying to move completely, his entire focus going towards repairing his energy foundations.

Chapter 515 Modifying a Master Law- 2

Shwalaaa

A strange sight occurred in front of Robin for the first time... The Foundation Modification Technique, the energy allocated to it, and the patterns of the Master Law of Space-Time attached to it, everything had turned into nothingness!

Robin didn't know how to explain what happened, so he tried twice more in different damaged areas... once to modify a very simple crack and once to make a whole new corner in foundation number 11, but in both cases, he was met with the same result.

'What the hell?!' Robin cried internally after the third time, this was not something he could understand

'...Maybe it's because they are both Master Laws? But Death, Life, and Fire are all fundamental laws, and their merging occurred without problems. Why is it so different to merge two Master laws?' Robin thought to himself, then after a little reflection, he tried adding the patterns of the Major Heavenly Law of Fire instead of the Master Law of Space-Time, and he failed...

Then the Major Heavenly Law of Wind, then the Major Heavenly Law of Lightning, then the Major Heavenly Law of Water, then.. then.. then..!!

They all turned into nothingness immediately.

Robin was almost going crazy by now... He had personally supervised the modification of the foundations of two high-level people, Mila and Caesar, in addition to the results of the modification of the foundations of the senior figures from the Burton family and the rest of the families that had sworn allegiance to him. Each of them did not have perfect foundations, they all had foundations with different laws filled with various impurities that had accumulated over dozens or hundreds of years, and yet not a single report about the foundation modification technique turning into nothingness had shown itself till this day!

Now there is a bigger problem facing Robin... Even if he dismissed the merger of Spacetime and Truth, how could he possibly repair his foundations now?!

The foundation modification technique requires a lot of energy in addition to the presence of the patterns... The energy is here to compensate for the areas that must be broken in the foundation in order to modify, and the patterns come from the law that is to be modified, whether they are patterns from the same old law for the purpose of removing impurities or a completely different law, it does not really matter, but there must be patterns to compensate for the places that must be modified.

The problem now is... Robin does not know the patterns of the Master Law of Truth!

A quarter of level 11 is destroyed, that is not mentioning the rest of the levels. Where does he get the patterns of Truth from to fill these voids if he has never seen one of them in his life?!

'..I will try this idea, maybe I will find something to hold on' Robin took a deep breath, then activated the foundation modification technique again, this time he did not add any patterns to it.

Activating the technique now was as hopeless as a pen without ink.

According to the inner energy cultivation system, the only difference between the first ten levels and beyond that is that a Law must be used to build the later levels, Without a law involved in this process to strengthen the solid levels above level 10 it would be impossible to hold together. If he tried to rebuild those levels with just pure energy and without any law attached to them, then wouldn't it collapse like a card tower?

Robin knew this too well, But he still wanted to try just to know if the technique would turn into nothingness again if it wasn't equipped with the patterns of a different Law.

Bzzzzzztt

Quietly, the cracks in Level 11 began to heal.

'...Huh?' Robin foolishly continued the process

Whenever the technique, supported by natural energy, passed by any crack or broken piece of foundation, it would immediately repair it automatically, and the strangest thing was that the newly repaired piece began to radiate a golden color thanks to the patterns that appeared on it... They were the patterns of Truth, they appeared automatically on his new foundations!

'...What's going on? The problem was not in the Foundation Modification Technique all along but in the pattern. If my foundations rejected the patterns of the Major Heavenly Law of Fire, for example, I would say that they despise it because it is merely a fundamental law while truth is a Master law. But why do you reject the Master law of space-time as well?'

'It is not as if my understanding of the Truth would be harmed if I modified my foundations. The foundations are merely a means of practical application and do not represent a person's current understanding. For example, if a person whose old foundations are impure and cannot break through to a higher level because of them, but recently possessed perfect technique and understood all his past mistakes, his foundations will remain impure and he will remain forever stuck in his level if he does not modify those foundations... We understand from this that foundations are just a means to upgrade energy level and practical application, it has nothing to do with understanding the law and following it.'

'Why do the patterns of truth behave in this way? As if it would get dirty if the patterns of any other law approached it... Isn't space-time on the same level? If the law of space-time that opened up the whole universe and made it possible was not at the level of Truth, then what would be?! Is there something I'm missing?'

After an unknown period of time, Robin finally stopped thinking about the matter for now and focused solely on supplying energy to the foundation modification technique.

After a while, Robin felt a warm, steady stream of energy entering his energy-gathering center, a familial energy that gave him a smile. It was clear that those around him on the outside felt what was happening inside his body, so they decided to help in the process.

Since the Foundation Modification Technique still had a lot of time to finish, and since Zara and the rest around him would be enough to power the technique, Robin decided to enter his Soul Domain.

swoosh

kacha

The place was still extremely white as usual, but there were a few things that changed this time... Firstly, Robin's soul form was no longer soaring like smoke like the first time he entered his Soul Domain, but rather became firm and solid and completely assumed Robin's form after it had looked like a lump of smoke with ruby features, it completely took its shape and became like a statue made of white metal and has a slight shine of silver

The spiritual realm also seemed to have expanded several times than before, and the huge thundercloud that contained most of Hoffenheim's soul force seemed to have become smaller by about half.

VRoOoOoM

With a wave of Robin's hand, several small tornadoes shot out from the thundercloud and touched his Soul Body.

katcha katcha

Once again, the size of the thundercloud began to decrease noticeably quickly.

Chapter 516 Second Brother

At the same time on planet Nihari-- The northern region-- Somewhere inside the capital of the Azil tribe

"Your Majesty, the Green Flame Doctor has come to see you." A Nihari giant old man with sharp features entered and gave a deep bow

Anyone with knowledge of history would know that this old man who acted like a servant was actually the infamous Thousand Valley Slayer, a person with a third stage body strengthening divine tattoo who can be considered at the pinnacle of the -Sage- Dragon Domain. He gained his fame over the past two thousand years by killing and plundering any area he set his sights on, rumor has it that he killed at least a million people with his bare hands. No one knows whether this is true or not, but the name of the Thousand Valley Slayer was enough to strike terror into the hearts of all the lower races and even the Nihari Giants themselves until this name gradually disappeared from the scene two hundred years ago.

And the place that the old man entered did not seem like a normal thing either... It was a hall in a huge palace, but anyone who saw this place would feel that calling it a reception hall would be an understatement... The height of the door of the hall alone was more than twenty meters, and the hall itself occupied Several acres, most of which were empty and did not contain more furniture than in any ordinary reception hall, but every piece of that furniture screamed grandeur and extreme extravagance.

"Get him in." And in the middle of this hall, a middle-aged person of the Nihari giants was sitting on a luxurious chair that looked like a throne specially made for the ruler of this world, The person was resting on his throne and spoke as he was looking at the ceiling bored.

He was wearing a long red robe, his fingers were full of huge, shiny rings, and there was an eye-catching divine tattoo rising from his neck and covering the left half of his face.

And his aura... Whoever enters this room, if he does not feel pressured by the greatness of its content, will surely fall down on his knees when he sets eyes on that person!

The old man retreated several steps while still in a bowing position until he reached the door. After a few minutes, a young man who appeared to be in his twenties entered with him.

The young man was missing the left forearm entirely while his other arm was missing a few fingers, and from his gait, it was clear that the paws of his feet were also missing, but nevertheless, he entered with a gentle smile on his face. Who could he be but Richard?

"Let's be alone." The person sitting on the throne only raised a finger and pointed towards the door, "If I'm to be subjected to any inconvenience, your punishment will be severe."

"Of course, Your Majesty, of course!" The old man stepped back slowly again

"Good morning, Your Majesty, I have been told that Your Majesty is urgently ordering my presence the moment your exalted self arrives at your temporary residence." Richard remained standing until the old man reached the door and closed it behind him, then he spoke with a smile

"Come closer, there's no need to be afraid."

"Yes, Your Majesty, may I know the reason for my summoning? It is inconceivable that Your Majesty came to visit the Azil tribe just for me to see this weak being, right? As far as I know, Your Majesty's life force is still at its peak, and no one in this world can harm you or Poison you, I wonder how such a lowly being can help you?" Richard began to walk slowly towards the giant sitting on the throne as he limped and spoke with the same kind smile on his face, "Oh, does Your Majesty want to try my famous meat? I will self-cut for you a piece that everyone praises the most, the thigh! I think your Excellency wants to watch it cut straight to make sure it's fresh and this is why you ordered my arrival, right?"

Finally, Richard arrived at a table in front of the throne, then put his foot on it, then raised his palm to make an energy sword, and went down with it to break his thigh bones and cut the flesh with one blow.

PAA

At that moment, the person seated on the throne moved quickly and grabbed Richard's hand before touching his thigh

"What are you doing, Your Majesty? Do you want a piece other than the thigh? Please just indicate it and I will cut it for you, but please let me do the cutting myself so that there are no serious complications that might cause this lowly creature to lose his life." Richard was surprised by what happened for a moment, but he quickly begged the person sitting on the throne and tried to calmly remove his hand, but he could not. The hand of that Nihari giant was enough to cover Richard's entire arm...

He experienced this situation countless times. When the cannibals among the Nihari giants start cutting smell the blood flowing and see the meat being dissected, their instincts are triggered and they are not satisfied with just taking a piece. The last time he was asked to appear in front of someone of this level, he almost died due to blood loss and excessive pain

The giant did not respond to Richard, he just got up and gently removed Richard's hand, then helped Richard sit on the throne instead.

Then Richard continued with a look filled with shock and curiosity as he watched the giant bring another seat, barely any less extravagance than the throne itself, and put it in front of the throne, Then the giant stood beside that seat motionless, as if he was waiting for someone to come...

"...Your Majesty?!" Richard did not know what to say, he knew the identity of that giant very well and he knew that there was no one in the entire Nihari planet who had the qualifications to make him wait for him standing, but why did he sit him on the throne in the first place?!

bzzzt

"Why the surprise, Your Highness? There is no need to belittle your worth just because those courtiers do not know who you are. What is the problem if the Monarch of the Nine Suns stands guard? As long as you the prince of the True Beginning Empire in sitting, he will remain standing. This is how things should be, a matter of course."

Richard's shock increased again when he saw someone coming out of the giant's shadow and started moving until he went and kissed Richard's head that was looking at him absent-mindedly and then sat on the empty seat in front of him, while the giant remained standing by him as if he was a guard

That person was about the same height as Richard, just a normal human, with long black hair and eyes as black as the bottom of a well

"...Second Brother Theo?!"

Chapter 517 Grand plan

"...Second brother Theo? You survived the invasion of the Flame Empire?! What about my first brother Caesar, Grandpa Galan, and Grandpa Brian? Is everyone okay?!" Richard stood up slowly, almost unable to believe what he was seeing. His features changed for the first time since he entered the hall, turning from the kind smile that seemed as if nothing would disturb it, to a shock that gilded the minds mixed with some joy.

Theo let out a long sigh when he heard this question, and his face changed as if he remembered something he didn't want to remember, "...A lot has happened since the day you and my lady left. The Flame Empire intensified the attack greatly until--- Then we decided to form a battalion and escape, but then---"

Richard opened his eyes sometimes in surprise and closed them other times in sorrow. His heart sank in the first half of the story, especially when he heard of the death of his grandfathers and a large number of people he knew when he was young. But he was able to breathe a sigh of relief when he heard that his brothers and a good number of the Burton family had survived that massacre... Ever since he escaped that day, he had prepared for himself that he would become an orphan. The fact that there are people remaining from his family is a reason for joy.

Theo continued to tell the story til he reached the point where everyone had been rescued from the ambush and began to explain Robin's revenge against the Four Empires and the Ansestral Contenent, but Richard's features changed slightly and he interrupted, "Let's leave this aside for now... How did you convince the Nine Suns Monarch to help you?!"

"Convinced him? You underestimate your father's innovations too much, little prince." Theo did not mind changing the subject since talking about the past was heavy on his heart anyway, but he laughed in a low voice and then looked beside him, "Get us something to drink."

"Yes." The Nihari giant bowed slightly, then went to the bar and began to pour something into two glasses. He quickly returned and served them respectfully, "Eastern Silver Vine Wine, I hope it pleases you both, My lords."

Then he returned to stand next to Theo as if nothing had happened.

"...What is happening here?!" Richard placed the cup on the table and looked at the giant, whom he called the Nine Suns Monarch, from top to bottom, as if trying to find something wrong with him.

"No need to be skeptical Your Highness, it is indeed him, Kandal the son of Arinov, the son of Ashira, Prince No. 7 of the Northern Ashira Giants Tribe. What...do you think we will be able to kidnap him and replace him with someone else?" Theo shook his head gently and took a sip of wine, he hadn't been this relaxed in years

"But how?! That person has the Fourth stage of the Body Strengthening Divine Tattoo, he already became an Emperor hundreds of years ago and has many martial achievements to his name. He has burned down countless intelligent race members and single-handedly burned down the main cities of nine Nihari Giants Tribes that provoked him, The flames burning those nine cities reached the sky so everyone called him the Nine Suns Monarch. Many say that he is one of the 10 most powerful emperors in the world. There are also rumors that the Ashira tribe was the richest tribe in the northern region thanks to his expansive business. This was before I showed up, of course. The Azil tribe became the richest in the world nowadays."

Theo nodded several times, "You are right, this person is indeed one of the most powerful powerhouses in the world, Whether, in individual or economic strength, it is indeed hard to find his match. But what you do not know is that he is the person who controls the underworld in Nihari as well... This person is the actual head of the Fire Salamander Organization."

"The Fire Salamander Terrorist Organization? This is not very strange. Everyone is talking about the source of the Ashira tribe's outrageous wealth and about the rare and stolen items that constantly appear in their famous auctions. It is no wonder that the largest criminal organization works for them... But what does this have to do with anything?"

"Sigh~ How can I tell you this... When your father was still in Nihari, he invented a mind control technique called Soul Enslavement and used a trick to bring Ugas, the leader of the Eastern Region Branch of the Fire Salamander Organization, under his control by making him read that technique and practice it. " Theo also placed the cup on the table and began to explain to Richard gently, "Before your father left Nihari, he gave Ugas a few orders, including that he should obey me when he saw me, and several other things... but the most important order he gave him was to try to subjugate the rest of the branches of the Fire Salamander Organization under his control..."

"...Since that time, Ugas has been trying to get closer to the leaders region Chiefs and their assistants with only the big head remaining... Only yesterday were the Five District Chiefs finally able of the rest of the regions, using all possible tricks to make them train the soul enslavement technique, and little by little he was able to enslave the leaders of the organization in the western, southern, central and even the Northern regions. He simply subjugated all the region Chiefs and their assistants with only the big head remaining... Only yesterday were the Five District Chiefs finally able to request a meeting with the actual boss, the Nine Suns Monarch, and convince him that they had found a power-up related to the Second Heaven's Chosen and that he should try it out. In this way, they were able to make him accept the Soul Enslavement and become on our side!"

Richard slowly sat down, "...So in Samary the Nine Suns Monarch is working for Ugas now, and Ugas is working for you, did I understand correctly?"

"We all work for your father, I'm just a mediator between them." Theo shook his head

"Oh... And what do you intend to do with all this?" Richard raised his eyebrows slightly and asked

"Many things... Your father has drawn up a long-term plan for Planet Nihari and implementation has already begun, but all the success in implementing that plan can't be compared to meeting you today. I have waited years to complete the subjugation of the Nine Suns Monarch in order for us to meet without anyone disturbing us, Even the Emperors of The Azil tribe would not dare to send their soul sense to spy inside this palace!"

"Aha... And then what?" Richard leaned back on the huge chair

"Your father sent you good things," Theo took out a space ring from his pocket and with a slight movement took several things out on the table, "I will explain to you the uses of all of them and explain to you your role in the upcoming events. It may take a little longer, but you will definitely get out of here in one piece."

Richard's eyes lowered slightly to look at the ring, then he returned to look into Theo's eyes with a blank face, "Thank you for your trouble, second brother, but I will get myself out."

Chapter 518 A deferent man

NovelBjn: Where Every Word Sparks Wonder.

"What? What do you mean you don't want help? If I, an adopted brother of yours who accompanied you since birth, can't help you, then who would? What is it, you are calling me the second brother but you don't see me as family?" Theo responded angrily and then scanned the ring and brought out a few items, "Just look at this, your father knows that your mother passed you the Life Fire Cultivation Technique up to the second stage, so this metal tablet contains the complete third stage of the Life Fire Cultivation Technique, by using it, you can break through to the Sagehood Realm and reach level 40 without problems. And here are some golden weapons, the best that the blacksmith of our planet can currently make, and here are these talismans made by the astrals, and with them, you can attack and even kill high-level sages, and here--"

At this moment, Richard intervened, waving his hand, "There is no need to continue. Don't get me wrong, second brother, if you brought me something of your own doing, I would appreciate it and accept it from you even if I didn't really need it, but since that man is the one who made this meeting possible and he is the one who sent those things, then sorry, I don't want them."

"...This man is your father, the man who gave you your life. It wouldn't hurt to show you some respect." Theo furrowed his eyebrows, he was starting to understand a little what was going on

Richard laughed, "Father? I wasn't a very bad student in Uncle Rafael's nobles classes. You attended a few classes as well. Isn't a father's primary role to take care of his family and protect his wife and children? Did this guy do that? He didn't even show me his face since I was born! Father, you said? He doesn't qualify for this title. Maybe we'll call him the person who slept with my mother and then ran away, Now that would be a better description."

"Richard! Your father did not abandon you and your mother. He did not go on a trip to fool around with women or explore the world and leave you behind by his own decision. Rather, he had to leave and was very glum when he left, we all saw how he was that day, This is regardless of the fact that he did not know that your mother was pregnant with you in the first place... Your mother is a wise woman she must have said a thing or two about his departure, so how can you hold that against him?" Theo spoke sternly, "Secondly, his life was not full of roses and candy here. I heard a lot from the head of the Fire Salamander Organization in the Eastern Region, Ugas, about your father's life during the twenty years he spent here. If you want, I can tell you a few things that happened to him and the torture he was subjected to, do you think he was happy to be exposed to all of this just because he wanted to get away from you?"

Richard shook his head with the same slight smile, "Second Brother Theo, what is the use of talking about this now and why are you so agitated? I have nothing against you, I know that you were a victim of that man like me, after the Siege of Jura, you were chased around with the rest of our relatives in the Ancestral Continent like dogs every day in a kill-and-be-killed situation, and why? because that man showed so many innovations that he made those thugs covet us, and then he ran away and left us to our fate. Are you telling me that none of you had hatred in your heart against that man while you were in that situation?"

"No! Your father bought me when I was a naked, Tongue less child, standing on slave platforms, and made me what I am today. Your father saved Caesar when he was still an infant and his mother left him to die in the Outer Beast Zone, and he raised him and educated him until he became the Black Flame General that everyone feared and respected him. When your father took the reins of the Burton family they were just a small Earldom that all its neighbors were trying to take a piece of, Within a few years, he left it as the largest duchy in the Black Sun Kingdom and maybe the whole continent. When he was with us, the entire Ancestral Continent would recoil for fear of even mentioning the name of the Burton Duchy." Theo hit his thigh with much force,

And then added, "...Was there hatred in our hearts after the Jura disaster? Yes. We hated ourselves because we had lost everything he had built because we were not strong enough to defend what he had spent his life doing! Your father was and still is a great man, if Mrs. Mila was still around she would have slapped you for what you are saying!"

"Do not mention my mother's name while defending that man!" Richard hit the armrests of his chair with both hands and stood up angrily. His sage aura exploded and violent green flames began to burn in his eyes and hair. He looked like a devil coming straight from the bottom of hell, " When that man came to see me a few years ago I told him exactly what happened to my mother and how she died a horrific death. Did he not tell you the details? Did he not tell you how I saw my mother die in front of me in the most horrific ways because of his actions?! Of course, he will not, he will say that she is dead and keep the way she died secret. How can the great Robin Burton tell people that such and such happened to my wife?"

Then Richard looked up and started laughing hysterically, "Hehe, after years of waiting, he sent me a ring with supplies HAAHAHAHA. I should have guessed this. This is what he did with the information I told him. He went and disappeared again as usual, Hehe, but it's my fault I should have expected this, That bastard did not shed a single tear as he listened to what happened to his wife, nor did he flinch when he saw my condition. The whole time he must have been thinking: Oh, now I have to give up my research and adventures for a while to save that boy, otherwise my reputation will get worse, but let me disappear again for a few more years first!! Hahahaha F*ck him and his help, let them go to hell together!!"

At that moment, Theo was forced to involuntarily slam his back to his seat in terror, He merely looked at Richard's face in shock without saying a word... Richard, who was wearing a mask with a kind smile on his face, had disappeared without a trace, and a terrifying persona took his place.

He was worried when Richard first walked through the door and saw his submissive demeanor, but seeing the bloodthirsty aura of the person standing in front of him now... Was that an act? If Theo was not sure that Richard would not attack him, he would have activated his shadow movement and fled immediately!

Chapter 518 A deferent man

N♡vℓBjn: Where Every Word Sparks Wonder.

"What? What do you mean you don't want help? If I, an adopted brother of yours who accompanied you since birth, can't help you, then who would? What is it, you are calling me the second brother but you don't see me as family?" Theo responded angrily and then scanned the ring and brought out a few items, "Just look at this, your father knows that your mother passed you the Life Fire Cultivation Technique up to the second stage, so this metal tablet contains the complete third stage of the Life Fire Cultivation Technique, by using it, you can break through to the Sagehood Realm and reach level 40 without problems. And here are some golden weapons, the best that the blacksmith of our planet can currently make, and here are these talismans made by the astrals, and with them, you can attack and even kill high-level sages, and here--"

At this moment, Richard intervened, waving his hand, "There is no need to continue. Don't get me wrong, second brother, if you brought me something of your own doing, I would appreciate it and accept it from you even if I didn't really need it, but since that man is the one who made this meeting possible and he is the one who sent those things, then sorry, I don't want them."

"...This man is your father, the man who gave you your life. It wouldn't hurt to show you some respect." Theo furrowed his eyebrows, he was starting to understand a little what was going on

Richard laughed, "Father? I wasn't a very bad student in Uncle Rafael's nobles classes. You attended a few classes as well. Isn't a father's primary role to take care of his family and protect his wife and children? Did this guy do that? He didn't even show me his face since I was born! Father, you said? He doesn't qualify for this title. Maybe we'll call him the person who slept with my mother and then ran away, Now that would be a better description."

"Richard! Your father did not abandon you and your mother. He did not go on a trip to fool around with women or explore the world and leave you behind by his own decision. Rather, he had to leave and was very glum when he left, we all saw how he was that day, This is regardless of the fact that he did not know that your mother was pregnant with you in the first place... Your mother is a wise woman she must have said a thing or two about his departure, so how can you hold that against him?" Theo spoke sternly, "Secondly, his life was not full of roses and candy here. I heard a lot from the head of the Fire Salamander Organization in the Eastern Region, Ugas, about your father's life during the twenty years he spent here. If you want, I can tell you a few things that happened to him and the torture he was subjected to, do you think he was happy to be exposed to all of this just because he wanted to get away from you?"

Richard shook his head with the same slight smile, "Second Brother Theo, what is the use of talking about this now and why are you so agitated? I have nothing against you, I know that you were a victim of that man like me, after the Siege of Jura, you were chased around with the rest of our relatives in the Ancestral Continent like dogs every day in a kill-and-be-killed situation, and why? because that man showed so many innovations that he made those thugs covet us, and then he ran away and left us to our fate. Are you telling me that none of you had hatred in your heart against that man while you were in that situation?"

"No! Your father bought me when I was a naked, Tongue less child, standing on slave platforms, and made me what I am today. Your father saved Caesar when he was still an infant and his mother left him to die in the Outer Beast Zone, and he raised him and educated him until he became the Black Flame General that everyone feared and respected him. When your father took the reins of the Burton family they were just a small Earldom that all its neighbors were trying to take a piece of, Within a few years, he left it as the largest duchy in the Black Sun Kingdom and maybe the whole continent. When he was with us, the entire Ancestral Continent would recoil for fear of even mentioning the name of the Burton Duchy." Theo hit his thigh with much force,

And then added, "...Was there hatred in our hearts after the Jura disaster? Yes. We hated ourselves because we had lost everything he had built because we were not strong enough to defend what he had spent his life doing! Your father was and still is a great man, if Mrs. Mila was still around she would have slapped you for what you are saying!"

"Do not mention my mother's name while defending that man!" Richard hit the armrests of his chair with both hands and stood up angrily. His sage aura exploded and violent green flames began to burn in his eyes and hair. He looked like a devil coming straight from the bottom of hell, " When that man came to see me a few years ago I told him exactly what happened to my mother and how she died a horrific death. Did he not tell you the details? Did he not tell you how I saw my mother die in front of me in the most horrific ways because of his actions?! Of course, he will not, he will say that she is dead and keep the way she died secret. How can the great Robin Burton tell people that such and such happened to my wife?"

Then Richard looked up and started laughing hysterically, "Hehe, after years of waiting, he sent me a ring with supplies HAAHAHAHA. I should have guessed this. This is what he did with the information I told him. He went and disappeared again as usual, Hehe, but it's my fault I should have expected this, That bastard did not shed a single tear as he listened to what happened to his wife, nor did he flinch when he saw my condition. The whole time he must have been thinking: Oh, now I have to give up my research and adventures for a while to save that boy, otherwise my reputation will get worse, but let me disappear again for a few more years first!! Hahahaha F*ck him and his help, let them go to hell together!!"

At that moment, Theo was forced to involuntarily slam his back to his seat in terror, He merely looked at Richard's face in shock without saying a word... Richard, who was wearing a mask with a kind smile on his face, had disappeared without a trace, and a terrifying persona took his place.

He was worried when Richard first walked through the door and saw his submissive demeanor, but seeing the bloodthirsty aura of the person standing in front of him now... Was that an act? If Theo was not sure that Richard would not attack him, he would have activated his shadow movement and fled immediately!

Chapter 520 Sudden change

Planet Greenland---

As any planet that contains life, killing, and wars have never subsided here, especially two hundred thousand years ago when the great war broke out between the ancient Treants and the rest of the intelligent creatures, and all of this is in one hand and the blood storm that struck the planet again after the arrival of the invasion from Planet Jura is on the other hand

There is not a single place on this planet that currently enjoys peace.

There are only places in a state of war, and other places are waiting for war and preparing for it.

Only one peaceful spot remained untouched by what was happening outside, a relatively small tent with only a bed and a chair next to the bed.

Inside this tent, there is true peace. The number of arrays drawn beneath and around the tent, and the number of guards spread around it made this small tent a small fortress that even insects would not dare approach!

As for inside it, there are two individuals. The first is a girl sitting on a chair, pumping subtle energy into the body of the person lying in front of her. It seemed as if she had been doing this for a very long time, to the point that she could do it now even while she was sleeping.

The other person was lying on the bed with a bland face. Vital processes are working normally in his body, and there are strange energy movements in the area below his navel. Other than that, he appeared completely idle.

But in reality, he was far from being idle.

Within Robin's Soul Domain--

Whoosh Whoosh

The huge dark thundercloud no longer obscured the view in the place as before. Its original gigantic size had greatly diminished until it became just a spot in the place filled with white, and it seemed that this spot would not exist for long either, for within the soul domain there was a huge spiritual body, white as milk, yet Robin's features were clear on him, as if he were a carved statue. This incarnation was full of strength and stood firmly as if he were the only ruler between earth and heaven. Any living being who saw it would want to get down on his knee and bow before him.

That soul body was absorbing what remained of the thundercloud through countless mini vortexes. It seemed that the cloud would not remain in the soul domain for long before it was completely absorbed into that giant.

"Hmm?" At this moment, the spiritual body opened its eyes and raised its hand to look at it, a few cracks began to appear!

...In the past, Robin had to spend around four years to absorb half of the dark cloud for several reasons, the first of which was because his soul was weak at the time compared to the cloud, and the second was that he was also trying to heal himself from that damages he suffered during the explosion so he was absorbing the soul force from the thundercloud in a certain way

And thirdly because he was trying to see the fourth stage of the Heavenly Law of Lightning and the Heavenly Law of Life on the cloud, at that time with only the second stage of the Eyes of Truth he could only see this level of patterns here, so how can he be in a hurry to end this opportunity? even though he couldn't completely see through the patterns on that level, he still considered it a privilege to take a peek at that level of patterns, even if he took years to study them before he completely grasped them, it was still worth it, and better than nothing!

But now after fighting the Warlords, his soul had been completely healed and he even had more energy than the one in Dark Cloud, so why should he consider anything else while he was absorbing it?

The only thing that made him hesitant at first were the patterns of the? Fourth Stage of the Major Law of Life and the Fourth Stage of the Major Law of Lightning that were engraved on the dark thundercloud, but for some reason this time with just one glance, Robin was able to spot all the truths that had previously taken him years to find clues to.

In fact, The only real valuable patterns he spotted from those patterns on the thundercloud was the Fourth Stage of the Major Law of lightning! What he previously thought was the Fourth Stage of the Major Law of life turned out to be in fact a mixture of minor laws such as vitality, regeneration, heredity, etc... It is true that all of them are of the fourth stage as well, But they are still only minor laws.

Father Tree took countless years researching life arrived at many of its minor laws and was able to make connections between them. Perhaps he also believed at the time that the result was the major law of life.

It can't be said that he was wrong either. Even Robin was deceived when he saw those tangled patterns in the cloud and thought it was the Fourth Stage of the Major Heavenly Law of life. Rather, he was deceived when he arrived on the planet and saw Father Tree's amazing methods regarding the path of Life, but his eyes were simply too far from seeing through the Truth at that time

The minor laws of a certain path are only branches of the major law, and if someone knew all the secondary laws, he would be able to bring them together and obtain the major law of that path. After all those years that he spent in research and study, Hoffenheim believed that he had finally managed this step, but The truth is he was still far from it...

Robin sighed at this time and shook his head gently, 'I should have expected this, how could such a high-level entity as the Major Heavenly Law of life be in the hands of a creature from a young planet? Even though I had the Eye of Truth, I had to use my first-hand knowledge of death to write a technique for the Major Heavenly Law of life.'

Although it was a small disappointment, he could still research the fourth level of the Major Heavenly Law of life himself later... When Robin understood everything about the cloud, he used the Soul Filling Technique to absorb everything and turn it into pure energy.

He did not know how much time had passed since he began, but the process had been going smoothly and nothing had interrupted it, until this moment.

The soul body raised its great eyebrows. A short while ago there was a severe disturbance in the vortexes that transported energy from the dark cloud. At that moment, the flow of soul force to his body stopped entirely.

Pzzzzzz

CREEK CREEK

"What the hell is going on here?!" Robin completely panicked at this moment, his massive Soul Body that had almost reached the sky began to peel off and collapse and his entire Soul Domain began to crack!

Robin tried to use all the methods and techniques he knew about the Soul to stop what was happening, but nothing came out of it. He even tried to get out of the Soul Domain completely, but he failed!

BAAM

After several minutes, the strange phenomenon finally subsided, but Robin's heart did not calm down even a little as he saw the changes around him.

His huge soul body, which almost reached the sky, collapsed completely and was scattered everywhere. The huge spiritual body that had been standing tall alone turned into mountains and many terrains that finally gave some features to the soul's domain. His eyes turned into a vast lake, while his hair turned into a huge forest with a large number of trees.

Everything is still covered in milky white, but the Soul Domain is no longer the same as before. The featureless world has turned into an ancient valley that lacks nothing except the presence of living creatures!

As for Robin's current Soul Domain, it has returned to being a miniature, choppy copy of Robin, a copy that is almost smaller than the one he took the first time he entered the Soul Domain!

Furthermore, this miniature version was covered with a layer of shiny silver.