

The Truth 641

Chapter 641 A surprise from Raiden

The Green Dawn Mountain is the closest mountain to the steep hill, with a height of just over three thousand meters. It's not that close, but it is the only closest mountain to the steep hill that Jabba did not destroy in his experiments, or more accurately, he was unable to destroy it. This mountain contains a significant amount of minerals and hard stones strong enough to keep it together to this day. So even though the mountain is no longer *green* now after the explosions of Jabba's array burned everything, it is still holding on!

On top of this mountain, Robin was sitting in the middle of a pile of scrolls and glass bottles. The strong winds at the top of the mountain were enough to uproot small trees, but those light scrolls seemed as if they were ignoring the wind here!

Robin's clothes were not dirty and his hair was well styled. Everything around him suggested nobility and great wisdom... but all of this did not hide his tired eyes that looked as if they had not tasted sleep in years.

*swoosh* *swoosh*

"We salute Your Excellency!" Several shadows descended in succession and bowed slightly

Robin raised his head and nodded towards them with a smile, "I didn't think everyone was at the headquarters today. It seems the war is going well."

Alexander stood up straight and smiled, "Since Your Excellency created the Warlords, everything began to go our way and we progressed quite smoothly for two years, and when Your Excellency brought that dragon girl Flora, everything turned in our favor even more. She did not follow Your Excellency's words to move freely and come to the battlefield only when we called her, but she is currently staying permanently in the western army with Victoria, and I heard that they have formed a strong friendship as well..."

"Oh? That's reassuring.." Robin raised his eyebrows slightly and then nodded, "It's true that the five-year term is almost up. Send her a message that I want to see her here as fast as possible."

Alexander nodded and closed his eyes, clearly starting to send the message

In front of Robin now was Emily, with her Elizabeth, Alexander, even Old Gu, and a number of other Emperors from different paths. As Robin ordered, Emily tried to gather at least one emperor from all the available paths... One of them, for example, uses the major heavenly law of life and the other uses the major heavenly law of Lightning!

Robin raised his eyebrows when his eyes fell on a silver-haired youth, "Someone has already reached the Emperor Realm using lightning? Am I to understand that you are General Raiden?"

"Yes, I have broken through to the Martial Emperor's Realm just two months ago. This humble subordinate salute your Excellency!" Raiden took two steps and knelt down on one knee, the sound of his heartbeat being heard by everyone

"Has your dream finally come true, little boy?" Elizabeth put her hand to her mouth and said, "Your Excellency, Raiden came to the headquarters today to personally deliver the reports from the eastern armies and ask about your news. He has been wanting to meet you for a long time, finally, his dream came true today!"

"Miss Elizabeth!!" Raiden looked to his side with a pleading look while still kneeling

Robin gave a big smile, "A young man who is not yet forty has managed to secure a prestigious place among my generals, a young man full of ambition and talent that will surely bring him a brighter future. I too have wanted to meet him for a while!"

During Robin's words, which he spoke slowly, his eyes sparkled with a faint golden glow for a moment as he secretly examined Raiden, although he did not think he would find anything, but his curiosity to examine anything forced him to do so.

"Your Excellency's praise is undeserved!! If it weren't for Your Excellency, I would be currently herding cows somewhere. If I do have some talent, I will definitely put it at Your Excellency's service forever and-

--" Raiden was about to finish his words when he saw the golden glow in Robin's eyes increased and features changed to shock, "...Your Excellency?"

Robin stood up and took a few quick steps towards Raiden, then grabbed Raiden's shoulders, raised him up, and began to study him with the eyes of truth more intensely.

Robin's actions forced the rest of the Emperors to look at each other out of the corners of their eyes and wonder what was happening

Finally, after Robin's eyes roamed over Raiden's entire body, he returned to looking into his eyes, "You... You can use the fourth stage of The Major Heavenly Law of Lightning, aren't you?!"

"WHAT?!" Alexander and the rest were shocked and looked at Raiden in stupefaction, waiting for his response

Raiden scratched his silver hair for a few seconds and replied sheepishly, "It is true then, It is impossible to hide anything from Your Excellency.."

"You could use the fourth stage of the Major Heavenly Law of Lightning and you didn't tell us!" Elizabeth didn't hold herself back, so she took two steps and gently slapped Raiden on the back of his head

"I'm sorry, Miss Elizabeth, but when I saw that everyone couldn't do it, I decided to keep it to myself so that you wouldn't be upset with me."Raiden looked at the ground with an embarrassed look...

His personality is usually the impulsive, prickly type who is ready to attack any enemy that appears in front of him, no matter how high his level is, but here he feels that he is just an infant.

All the emperors present are over a hundred years old. This *Miss Elizabeth* is approximately 800 years old, while the youngest person present, His Majesty Emperor Robin, is almost 200 years old. Among these people, he feels that he is sitting with his elders and not with other generals!

"But how?!" Alexander looked at Raiden from bottom to top, but he didn't see anything special. Even after covering him with his soul sense, he didn't see anything different about him either.

Robin straightened his back and rested his chin on his right hand, "The Major Heavenly Law of Lightning in his body is abnormally active. I can see small lightning bolts moving in his veins in certain patterns automatically even though he does not have any variable particles. What is happening to him has gone beyond the limits of The Major Heavenly Law of Lightning technique that he used to break through, as if his mind needed my techniques to comprehend the laws but his body didn't really need them..." Then he pointed at the foot of the mountain, "Strike that spot with a fourth stage attack."

"Yes." Raiden stood up and gave the military salute, then took a few steps to distance himself from everyone, before raising both his hands to the sky...

*Rumble* *Turmoil*

*Bzzzzzt* *Bzzzzzttt*

The sky quickly became cloudy and the lightning bolts intensified until they became visible

*kachaa*

A large number of lightning bolts condensed together and then descended as a column of lightning

*Boom!!*

"Ah!!" Elizabeth, Emily, and the rest of the Emperors automatically took a step back in shock, but they quickly looked back down, "...This is the power of the fourth stage?"

A crater ten meters in diameter and more than thirty meters deep appeared at the point where Raiden struck

"Amazing... a number of lightning bolts that are invisible to the naked eye formed a temporary pattern in your blood, allowing the attacking energy to pass through easily, and now that massive pattern has disintegrated and the lightning bolts have returned to form small patterns that help you increase the speed of your cultivation and affinity with the Major Heavenly Law of Lightning!" Robin sighed and shook his head, "They weren't exaggerating when they described you to me. The planet spirits sometimes give children gifts like a strong soul or a solid body. In your case, it gave you a body with an unreal affinity with the Major Heavenly Law of Lightning. I don't think we'll see this degree of affinity again anytime soon..."

Raiden rubbed his head again and nodded a few times shyly, since he launched his attack while taking quick glances at the Emperors standing behind him, their looks were not pleasant at all...

Some of them were deep in thought with their eyebrows furrowed, and some of them were looking at him with clear envy!

When Robin felt what the rest of the Emperors thinking as well, he laughed loudly, "Alright, Alright, you may not have what the spirit of Planet Jura gave Raiden, but that doesn't mean that you will never use the fourth stage of your laws... Have you forgotten that I am still here?"

"Your Excellency, you mean..?" The Emperor user of the Law of Life took a step forward with his eyes shining

Robin smiled again, then with a wave of his hand, the scrolls and flasks lying on the ground flew, so one scroll and one flask fell into the hands of each emperor, "I want you to read the scroll and understand it well, then drink what is in the flask in one go - I know it tastes bad but you will do it anyway- and then move what you have drunk into their bodies according to what you have understood from the scroll, Is everything clear?"

"Yes, your Excellency!" All the emperors responded quickly

"Good, you may start!"

Chapter 642 I don't want to

"Err... Your Excellency, what is inside those vials? What exactly do they do? And why didn't you give me the same?" Raiden looked around and wondered

After the Martial Emperors received the scrolls and vials, they all sat down and began to do as they were ordered. Currently, there were 16 Martial Emperors sitting cross-legged in a semicircle around Robin, some of them were still reading the scroll, and some of them had already swallowed the contents of the vial and began applying the teachings!

As for Robin, he was sitting next to Raiden on the side, leaning on his right hand. After hearing the boy's question, he responded with a smile, "Each vial contains something different depending on the path the user uses. For example, the vial with Old Gu contains the blood of a beast at the top of the Sage Domain called the Fire Mountain Phoenix, It's quite a strong beast that lives in the wildernesses of the planet Nihari and is mixed with a number of fiery and soothing herbs according to very precise standards. As for the one there with Alexander, it contains the blood of the Wind Bite beast and its origin is from the Orphan Blood Planet, and it is also mixed with a number of herbs with wind path that have been identified and collected from the four planets, as for the rest... Well, you got the point~"

Then he pointed towards the scrolls, "As for the scrolls, they contain almost the same content, they all contain a very special technique. This technique is a combination of the Superior Energy Control technique in addition to the Deep Absorption technique, both of which were invented by Jabba, you may call this newly born technique Superior Absorption. It also has a few side notes, such as when they activate the technique, where they focus on absorption, some patterns they have to create in their blood using the Super Absorption Technique, and several things like that~"

"This seems very complicated... You said that each one of those vials contains beast blood and a number of herbs?" Raiden furrowed his eyebrows slightly, "Is it strengthening their affinity with their path or something?"

"You may consider it that way." Robin shrugged his shoulders, smiling, "This technique and formula will give the body a false familiarity for a certain period. This period likely varies depending on the person, from a few hours to a whole day. During that period, the body will not resist the passage of energy through the veins and will find the most appropriate ways to facilitate the movement of energy. Without further explanation, you can imagine that their bodies will be like yours, but for a limited time."

"Your Excellency created something like this?! Amazing..." Raiden looked at Robin with wide-eyed eyes... His Excellency didn't even know he existed or what was different about his body before today, and yet he somehow made copies of him! Or, more accurately, he was able to find a loophole in the system, a loophole that could produce the best possible result without leaving any side effects. "Your Excellency is truly an unparalleled genius, Now you have not only solved the problem of your Martial Emperors' impotence during battles, but the way I see it, if these substances accumulate inside the body, they will certainly increase their true affinity towards their paths!"

"Let's not get our hopes up too much, It may happen that one of them undergoes a fundamental transformation and gains a body like yours, or it may never happen, but at least the problem of their inability in battles has been solved temporarily," Robin spoke with slightly furrowed eyebrows. If this method succeeds, his Martial Emperors will be ready to fight in any systemic war he leads, but they will remain unable to defend themselves in peacetime. In the end, this method requires quite a preparation time...

"Master, it seems that the news was true, have you finally finished your research?!" Meanwhile, a human shadow landed next to Robin. The owner of that shadow was muscular, but not to the point of hindering his movement. His long braids reached all the way to his lower back, and tattoos covered a large part of his body and neck... Who could he be but Jabba?

"Oh, Jabba? Hmm, yeah... yeah I finished it." Robin did not seem very happy with the meeting. He merely scratched his head with the tip of his index finger and looked away.

Jabba took a few more steps and greeted Raiden with a raised eyebrow, then looked at Robin again, "Can we talk now?!"

"....." Robin looked back into Jabba's determined eyes for a few seconds before sighing and rubbing his eyes, "..Raiden, go for a walk or something."

"Alright." The silver-haired boy gave the military salute and retreated, but he did not get far and went to stand with the rest of the Martial Emperors.

As for Robin, he got up and walked until he reached the cliff of the mountain, and without looking back, he opened his mouth, "Okay, we are alone now, Speak."

"When will we move towards Nihari?" Jabba got into the matter directly, "The turmoil has reached its peak there. There are no longer any laws that prevail in the four regions: eastern, western, central, and southern. There is nothing left but killing and destruction, especially after more batches of divine weapons arrived at the revolutionaries in those regions. The cities of the giants are collapsing, and the colonies of humans and other intelligent creatures are being razed to the ground every day. We must intervene!!"

Robin nodded several times, "That's really unfortunate... But why should we interfere?"

"....." Jabba furrowed his eyebrows and merely looked at his master

"Don't give me that look! I'm not holding the hand of the rebels and forcing them to fight, and I'm certainly not the one who forced the Nihari giants to enslave intelligent races for hundreds of thousands of years! One side takes what's right in its own hands and the other reaps what it sows. I'm just a simple merchant in the middle who doesn't care about either of them..." Robin shrugged

Jabba took two steps forward and quickly replied, "Haven't you earned enough as a merchant then?! Nihari's natural energy density and the number of intelligent beings there which are estimated at least 70 billion, and the high-level techniques that an *Anonymous* has distributed; all that have contributed to the production of tens of millions of knights and hundreds of thousands of Saints and Sages and it's still counting by the day! And the more their numbers increase, the more the war rages. The four regions have collapsed politically and economically. Everyone there, whether giants or non-giants, is dying of hunger and does not see the light at the end of the tunnel. Please, enough is enough, and let us go to Nihari. Take charge and correct the situation!" The news he receives about Nihari hurts him psychologically and physically on a daily basis

According to the time plan Jabba set, the army should have moved to control the eastern region of Nihari at least two years ago. They had to begin invading and unifying the rest of the planet by now. But until this moment, Robin has not shown any intention of going to Nihari, and he has not stopped providing them with weapons!!

Wasn't the True Beginning Empire supposed to invade Planet Nihari to unify it? How is it possible that he is still trying to strengthen the people he will subjugate in the future? Doesn't he know that their huge numbers will stand against him if he tries to welcome them under his banner in the future? Isn't the logical way to do this to accept their loyalty first and then give them those techniques and weapons? ...Does he even intend to annex them to the Empire at all?!

But Robin's response to going to Nihari was shorter than he expected. He just turned to face him and then raised his shoulders, "I don't want to."

Chapter 643 I'm sorry

"?You don't... want to?!" Jabba froze in place, looking at Robin in shock

Robin didn't add a word either, he just made a simple nodding gesture.

"...Master, what is it exactly you don't want?" Jabba tried in every way to remain calm, "Don't you want to fulfill your promise to the All-Seeing God and go to Nihari to prepare to confront the invasion? Or is it that you don't want to stop supporting chaos on the entire planet and will just watch by the side while they wipe each other out even before the invasion arrives? Master... What is it that you not want?!"

"Hey, watch your tone!" Raiden shouted from afar

"DON'T interfere again." Robin raised his hand and quickly silenced Raiden without giving Jabba a chance, then he returned to focus on Jabba's eyes again, "...As for the internal fighting, as I said, I am just a merchant who has nothing to do with what is happening. If I really wanted to exterminate the inhabitants of those regions, I would have sent part of the demon army or even part of the human army to wipe them all out. You know the information blockade imposed on the Northern Region, and what you do not know is that the northern region has been quite busy lately... So do not wrong me with thinking that I want to kill them all, All that matters is that what is happening now will serve the bigger picture later~ As for the invaders, I have my own plan to deal with them, but the right time has yet to come."

Jabba was silent for a few seconds, clenching his fists as if he wanted to crush it before his voice came out hesitantly, "...If I may ask, does your plan include saving the people of Nihari from invasion or just preventing the invaders from gathering spoils?"

"Maybe some of them will survive, maybe not... I am not in control of fate." Robin replied coldly, hands behind his back

"So that's how it is... I should have expected this... I should have known that you would not change your view of Planet Nihari no matter what I do to help... Everything had been decided since that damn day.." Jabba sighed and stopped squeezing his hands, it seemed as if he had aged a hundred years at this moment.

"...Sigh~ That's not true, Jabba.. If it weren't for your presence, Planet Nihari wouldn't have been under the invasion of a single enemy I tell you that. And certainly, no one would have had an opportunity to survive." Robin tilted his head to the side and spoke with his eyes half open

"You're right, I should be thankful for this precious opportunity." Jabba smiled as he looked down for a few seconds before adding, "...But what if I'm not satisfied with just this opportunity? What if I want more for my homeland?"

"If you are trying to influence me to change my future vision, then I am sorry. The plan has been set and my will shall be executed." Robin stated firmly, but he quickly sighed and continued in a calm voice, "...Jabba, even in my worst psychological states, I never hated you, nor did I consider you like the rest of your kind. This is because you are truly different from them, you are a person destined for greatness. I understand that you feel you are responsible for protecting your homeland because there is no one else who can hold that position, but you saw what happened to me when I tried, that place is hopeless... Continue on your track, Jabba, learn and explore the universe and strengthen yourself, only in this way will the number of survivors of Nihari increase when the picture is complete."

The two remained silent for about another minute before Jabba took out a thick book from his space ring and passed it to Robin with both hands, "This book contains all the progress I have made in my work on the Body Cultivation Array. The Array can now help people with strong will achieve physical strength capable of confronting a Sage within a period of only 5 years, there are a few aspects that need development, such as that it consumes a large amount of energy, more than a thousand energy pearls per person, or that the expenses of making a single array are high due to the scarcity of components, but as long as your Excellency is present, of course you can overcome these simple problems. "

Robin continued to look at the book and browse through it until he heard the word *Your Excellency* from Jabba and he returned to looking at him with furrowed eyebrows.

At this moment, Jabba fell to his knee and his forehead touched the ground, "I know that the Body Cultivation Array is nothing compared to what you have provided for me. If you need me for anything, Your Excellency can contact me and I will do what I can to satisfy your needs. Thank you for everything."

"Are you severing your bond with me as a disciple?" Robin sent the book to his space ring and went back to putting his hands behind his back

"To be your disciple, I must consider you my Master, I must listen and obey, but this time I have to break away from your will and return to save my homeland. Your Excellency deserves a better student than me." The words came out with difficulty from Jabba, his voice sounding as if it was choking with tears

Robin also remained silent for a while before his calm voice came out, "When you go to the Nihari Union Sect, I allow you to announce that you are an official envoy from me, They will listen to you and rally around you when they hear this... Oh, there is another thing, When I took you as my disciple, I made you swear not to leak anything you learned from me, you are pardoned from this oath. Use everything you see is in your best interest... And be careful."

"...Thank you, Your Excellency, thank you." Jabba raised his head and touched the ground again three times, before rising, bowing again, and leaving.

"....." Again, Raiden did not know what to do in front of a situation like this, so he started rubbing his hair with his right hand, but he was a little reassured when he saw that Robin's facial expressions were still calm, so he decided to go stand next to him again and change the subject or something like that, but after taking two steps... He heard the sound of liquid falling: *drops* *drops*

Drops of blood were falling from behind Robin's back. He dug into his hand with his fingertips until his blood flowed.

Raiden stood still and looked away. He knew at this moment that His Excellency's calm facial expressions and steady heartbeat concealed pent-up anger.

And he was right... That's why Robin refused to talk to Jabba for as long as possible. He knows the boy's love for his planet, or more accurately, he knows that Jabba sees himself as a descendant of the legendary Heaven Chosens and that he must be like his ancestors, trying to save the world until he dies. He also knows that one of the reasons why Jabba followed him until now was that he hoped to change Robin's mind and make him return again to Nihari.

But... Change his mind about what? And make him return for whom?!

Jabba had just said the truth, everything had been decided the day he met Richard.

Chapter 644 The beautiful exile

?Several hours had passed since Jabba's departure

Robin was still standing in his spot with the same cold features as if time had frozen. The Martial Emperors were still sitting on the ground, shutting off their six senses to comprehend or use the technique, so they didn't really know what happened... Only Raiden was standing at the side, glancing at Robin at times and at the ground at times, rubbing his hair sometimes and biting his nails sometimes.

He knows that the situation is bad and that Robin is burning with anger right now, but he does not know what he should do in this awkward situation... Should he console Robin as if he lost someone dear to him? But what if His Excellency was angry with Jabba and it backfired?! Or maybe he should talk badly about Jabba for leaving? But what if His Excellency loves his disciple and cannot bear to hear a bad word to him? ...Should he stay silent? But what if His Excellency thinks he doesn't care for him?!

Raiden spent his childhood running after livestock and plowing fields, and after he discovered his talent, he was thrown into academies and wars. He does not understand these social situations!

Finally, after many hours, Raiden gathered some courage and approached Robin after taking a deep breath, "Um... Your Excellency, I know you feel sorry for the way things turned out, but I ask you to try to regain your clarity of mind, everyone is counting on you." Then he let out a long exhale, this sentence was the most neutral thing he had thought of Robin remained silent for a while and even Raiden worried a little that his intervention was inappropriate, but he finally opened his mouth and spoke in a coherent tone, "I don't feel sorry. Jabba has his path and I have mine. Having him by my side for a while was good for both of us, but in the end, each of us has his own story, I wish him success in whatever he seeks."

"But what if that he seeks conflict with your grand plan? Ah." Raidin was happy that His Excellency answered him and then asked, but he quickly regretted his question. Isn't this question as if it were rubbing salt in the wound?!

"Jabba is trying to save what can be saved from his planet, and this does not conflict with my position on the planet Nihari. If he succeeds, congratulations to him, and if he does not succeed, then it has nothing to do with me." Robin did not get angry as he expected, even a slight smile appeared on his face and he spoke firmly, which comforted Raiden's heart a little, but he held his breath when he heard him continue, "But... if Jabba actually tries to stand in my way in any shape or form, I will crush him."

*gulp* Raiden went silent again

He knew at this moment that he did not have to *console* His Excellency from the beginning. This strong personality does not need comfort from anyone, rather he needs a goal! As long as his goal is in his sights, nothing else matters.

Silence remained the title of the situation until a shadow quickly approached.

Raiden took a step forward and took an alert position until the features of the shadow's owner began to become clear... Long red hair dances in the air, thick horns emerge from above her pointed ears, her height exceeds two meters, and she wears revealing clothes that expose her mature body... there was no one here with these specifications other than Orphan Blood Planet Martial Empress Flora!

But even after Raiden was sure of her identity, he continued to assume his alert posture. It was clear that he did not trust her completely, but she did not care and passed directly past him until she stood in front of Robin *swoosh*, "I got word that you requested my presence. What's wrong?"

"You will go back to where you came from," Robin replied with a cold expression without looking at her

"Oh? There are still 4 months left until the end of the five years term, are you sure you need to send me back now? I can handle staying here a little longer..." Flora smiled charmingly.

"No need. I remembered you today by chance. I may not remember you again for a few years. It is better for you to go back now and fulfill my promise early before some human rat says that Emperor Robin broke his promise." Robin waved

"Oh? I don't believe you, who could forget all this? Hehe~" Flora giggled and gently pulled her hand from her chest to her thigh, drawing Raiden's eyes towards her body.

But this trick did not work on Robin, who was still looking toward the horizon, so her facial expression turned serious, "Can't you just tell your generals to let me go after four months? Spending time with Sister Victoria isn't so bad..."

"I am not surprised that you have made Victoria a friend, as they say, birds of a feather flock together, but..." A half-smile finally appeared on Robin's face, "Do I imagine things, or do you really would rather stay here than go to your lover's side?"

Flora waved both hands, "Aru will not lose anything if he waits for me for another 4 months, but the important thing here is that you keep your promise in front of people, otherwise they will say that you are lenient!"

Robin finally looked into her eyes before bursting out laughing, "Interesting, very interesting... A few trees, clean water, and some meat and vegetables, these things we take for granted, but to others, they seem like paradise. Five years ago, you came with me with dead eyes, and now you refuse to go back even though I made you fight on my side far away from your family? Maybe I should have expected this... How can I take someone out of heaven and throw him back into hell after he experienced both?"

Flora furrowed her eyebrows but did not say anything... If she denied it, he would reply that if she did not want to stay then she had to go back, and this was something she certainly did not want. And if she agreed to him, he would think that she was cheap and willing to break away from her family in exchange for a comfortable life.

But what should she do? The difference between the two planets: Greenland and the Orphan Blood is like clouds and mud.

Who would come out of prison and say to themselves, *I must go back again because I missed my cellmate*?! A person might go to visit his old cellmates once a week, for example, and stay for a couple of hours with him, but he would definitely not prefer to return to prison permanently!

As for Raiden on the side, he let out a long sigh. He didn't care about the charming lizard girl, but seeing His Excellency laughing again was a source of relief.

Robin went back to looking at the horizon with a slight smile, "To be honest, I was planning to influence you by showing off my armies, techniques, treasures, and the different planets under my control. I did not expect that some food and a breath of fresh air would do the trick, but the important thing is that we reached the desired result."

"Influence me to do what exactly? If you want me to stab my family in the back, then you are dreaming!" Flora shouted, but she maintained a tone of respect. She really wanted to stick to staying here for as long as she could, but she definitely would not betray Aru or betray her tribe and her people for it!

"Stabbing them in the back?" Robin smiled, "Sorry but there's no need for that. One of the terms of the Five-Year Truce was to hand over the bodies of the sacrificed Law Users. Are we talking about approximately three to four million law-user corpses? The Demon Emperors' numbers must have at the very least doubled by now, and are on their way to multiply more and more."

"No... This is not possible! The corpses of the people who were sacrificed are devoid of any energy levels, they have become like the corpses of mortals who have never cultivated in their lives! Everyone sadly agreed to this condition because it would fill the stomachs of the demons with already dead people and would make them hunt less of our people for several years, And also because we know the demons will not benefit much from their corpses!" Flora shook her head in disbelief

"Hehe, that's what you guys think, and that's also why I asked you and I'm sure you'll agree. The demons don't care about natural energy, their bodies simply reject it, they use something I call Blood Energy, and what they're after is the blood and flesh of the Law users themselves. And so, the demons can now rely on beasts and mortals for their daily food, and when they are ready to level up, they would eat a corpse or two of the Law Users you provided for them on a silver platter, isn't that great?" Robin laughed and then looked into her eyes, "Your great sacrifices and noble decisions truly deserve respect, but you simply gave the demons a feast of law users that would not end for decades and you gave me a large army that I had never dreamed of having this fast. Thank you!"

Chapter 645 Offer

"No... No, this is not possible!!" Flora took a few steps back

Just because she found it to be more comfortable here does not mean that she now hates her planet or is thinking about giving up the fight for it. In the end, it is still her home even if it is hell. In fact, until this moment, she was thinking about enjoying Greenland for as long as possible before returning and continuing the fight for her home to the end

But according to Robin's words... there is no longer a need to fight?!

"Believe it or not, this is your problem. I think you will see for yourself when the five-year deadline arrives." Robin shrugged his shoulders indifferently, and Flora felt her heart drop to her feet as her eyes opened to the last of them... She believed.

After everything she had seen here, she knew that Robin had no reason to lie... In addition to the Demons, whose numbers had certainly increased, even if only slightly. But assuming that they had not increased in number at all, what about the warlords who had not appeared on The Orphan Blood Planet until today? She fought Julian 3 years ago and he severely beat her until her face became as flat on the ground!!

she can already imagine the scene of the *decisive battle* that Aru is preparing for when the deadline expires. She can imagine hundreds of Demons Emperors emerging from that damn city, eating her lover and her family, "Ahh!"

Robin's smile increased when he heard Flora's terrified scream, "Now that's better..."

"...Why are you telling me this now?" Flora hugged herself and looked at the ground, the feeling of helplessness and waiting for the inevitable weighing heavily on her

"Because there is good news." Robin clapped with a big smile, "The corpses of the law users have provided food for the demons' army for a long time, while the limited hunting that we agreed upon will provide food for their families and young ones, and this means..?"

"...You mean there is no longer any need to continue the war?" Flora finally raised her face and looked at Robin with some hope, "But there are millions of demons. Will the limited hunting we agreed on secure their food? How long will they adhere to the agreement before they start another war of extermination?"

"Demons love the meat of intelligent beings, and their strength increases by eating it, but they can live on eating beast meat without problems, and I can easily provide their daily food of beast meat from four different planets! So there is no need to worry about their normal rations, and the limited daily hunting will be more than enough to strengthen a new generation of the army~" Robin shrugged his shoulders and then went back to looking into her eyes, "My point is... killing around 90 Emperors seems a bit too lavish to me, especially Emperors of different races who each have their own unique qualities, it was no coincidence that you were able to keep up with the Demon Emperors all these years! So if there is no other solution, I don't want to choose to eliminate you. And I certainly don't want to annihilate the peoples of Planet Orphan Blood whose numbers are estimated at about ten billion in exchange for one big lunch party!"

"...And what is the solution from your point of view?" Flora furrowed her eyebrows slightly, "If you want peace, you can simply take the corpses and withdraw from our world, but if you want our loyalty... Don't you see that your actions have crossed the line of reconciliation? There are a number of Emperors who have literally sacrificed their entire clans because of you."

"Because of me? Let's be rational here. You see me as an ambitious person and perhaps an opportunist, right? If I were given the choice of death or of sacrificing my children, I would certainly choose death. And you are not different either. I did not see inside your body any fragment of laws that belong to the path of fire, that means you have not touched Your kind or even the races close to them, so whoever sacrificed his clan did so in order to gain power and not because of me, or do you think I am wrong? They just used me as an excuse." Robin laughed and shook his head, "The harsh environment of your planet, your familiarity with killing scenes, and the feeling of loss of a loved one have made most of you, if not all of you, think about how to gain strength and only depend on yourselves, like beasts. So in my opinion, managing things between us may be difficult, but it is not impossible, especially... If I gave you more than you can dream of.."

Flora looked to the side with furrowed eyebrows, thinking about what she had heard...

"As for the solutions, they are actually quite simple..." Robin returned to looking at her seriously, "As for your Emperors, I will give security to whoever works for me, it is not required that he swear loyalty or anything like that, but if I need you in a war, I must see you by my side as mercenaries. I will also apply the point system to you~ Using the points, you can take Emperor Realm techniques to complete your breakthrough to the higher levels without sacrificing anyone else. You can learn to draw runes and craft divine weapons, and most importantly... you can exchange the points for vacations on one of the planets under my control!"

Robin smiled when he noticed the effect this part had on her and continued, "You have fought on my side for three years now and you see for yourself how organized my army is and the kind of equipment they get. Any day on the front here is a hundred times better than the best days on your home planet, so by being my mercenaries you will not lose anything, but will only gain. Of course, this is besides the fact that your Emperors will have complete immunity from me even if any of the demons touch them. That is, you will enjoy peace in your homeland and benefits outside it. Are there better conditions? And of course, whoever swears complete loyalty to me will be allowed to come and go from any planet I own whenever he wishes and without time limits. You have spent a few years here and know about the Oath Tablets, right? It is more simple and decisive in this way if you take my opinion..."

*Gulp* "And what about the rest of the people of the Orphan Blood World? Will you grant them protection as well if we accept your terms?" Flora swallowed and asked with difficulty

"Huh? Of course not~ Where will I find another perfect farm like you?" Robin laughed out loud, "As I told you five years ago, you can consider the Demon City as another tribe whose young go out to hunt and fight with the rest of the tribes, to kill and be killed. Let's be realistic here, your planet is dominated by the Minor Heavenly Law of Bloodthirst, the Major Heavenly Law of Chaos, and other terrible laws that make peace impossible. Even if I unite you and give you peace, a year will not pass before an internal war breaks out, so why should I fight nature? Let them eat each other as they always did. There are more than ten races that have been exterminated in the war so far, right? Consider the demon race a new one and deal with them on this basis, and I will promise you that no large armies will emerge from the city or a large-scale invasion will take place unless your peoples start first!"

"...Your words are reasonable, but these matters are not solved with reason most of the time." Flora squeezed her hand tightly and spoke with shaking eyes, "Even if I am convinced by your offer, that does not mean that the others will listen to me..."

Robin smiled big and pointed at the human Emperors sitting nearby, "That's why I requested your presence today as soon as possible. I have something that will help convince you a little bit faster~"

Chapter 646 Fulfilling the promise

"THEY will help convince us?" Flora pointed towards the sitting Martial Emperors, "What are they even doing?"

Robin smiled, "You'll know in a little while. I feel like Alexander is about to finish.." Then he turned back to look at her again, "By the way, how is the war in Greenland going now?"

"Shouldn't you ask one of your followers?" Flora looked at him sideways

"I want to hear it from your mouth." Robin shrugged

Flora furrowed her eyebrows and returned to focusing on Alexander to try to deduce something, but she did not dare to leave Robin waiting and replied, "There is not much to say in truth, your human army alone is enough to control this weak world, even leaving aside your army coming from Jura's world, Only your army of the local tribes has become strong enough to defend your current territories and even expand them themselves."

Robin laughed, "Well, Greenland is not that weak. On the contrary, Greenland was originally stronger than Orphan Blood Planet, but they don't have your cruel sacrifices technique. Nevertheless ~ I want a somewhat detailed report, How do you see the army, and how far have we reached?"

Flora sent a quick angry look towards Robin before returning to focus on Alexander, "What do you want me to say? The Warlords are the main focus in most fights, although they still cannot kill the original Warlords, they are enough to stop them whenever they appear. As for your Martial Emperors, I don't mean any offense but they are useless, they are just Sages with a bit of a long breath. But in the end, they are just humans so it is expected. The good thing is that they are numerous enough, their current number is approximately 170, and there is also Alexander and Jabba who have reached level 42, so their presence in battles makes a difference, even if a little bit. And the presence of the Warlords with them is enough to remove any difficulties they face and reduce the time it takes to control the world."

Then she continued about the results, "After the killing of Labikan and forcing Sanawest to recite an oath of loyalty to you, and after 6 local tribes were subjugated, a large number of them were killed and the rest were forced to integrate into your affiliated tribes... The war is currently based on two main fronts, which are: Tree Father Flores and Tree Father Moseley, and on four other side fronts belong to local tribes, and more than half of their lands have already been penetrated by your forces. Headquarters information says that the strongest Tree Father, Tavina, is forcing the remaining local tribes to leave their ancient lands and go live next to his trunk, he also pushed the rest of the Tree Fathers to send a large part of their armies towards his lands as well. Everyone says that the decisive battle will be there and that he is planning something big... But if you want my opinion, it is an empty resistance, within two or three years the rest of the Tree Fathers and the local tribes will be subdued or killed. Also, that foolish tree father does not know about your demon army. If you withdraw ten or twenty Demon Emperors and place them here, you will end the war here no matter what tricks they play."

"Oh? we have taken out another 2 Tree Fathers. I bet the refinement percentage available has gone up a lot now..." Robin rubbed his chin, smiling. He had promised Evergreen to finish refining her completely before the Nihari invasion began, but he spent the last five years trying to solve the problem of the Human Martial Emperors. In the remaining five years, he must make it up for her...

"Refinement?" Flora turned her face to face him, the word refinement seeming to refer to something big that could not be ignored

"Hmm? Oh, no need to worry about it." Robin waved, then seemed to sense something and pointed at Alexander, "Here we go.."

*Shhhh*

Alexander opened his eyes and slowly stood up, and as soon as he stood up, the strong mountain winds stopped blowing

Alexander took a few steps towards Robin and then *PAA* got down on one knee forcefully, "Thank you, Your Excellency, I bear witness that you have fulfilled your promise."

A big smile appeared on Robin's face and he nodded

But Flora was terrified and started asking, "What is happening here? He promised you what? What happened to the wind suddenly?!" But inside herself, she was hoping that she would not hear an answer, as she was certain that the answer would not please her

"Haha, Alexander, why don't you show Miss Flora a practical application?" Robin laughed loudly and pointed towards the cliff behind him

"Yes." Alexander stood and bowed once again before making his way towards the cliff, then raised both his hands before bringing them down quickly like an axe.

*Swoosh*

*Rumble* *Earthquake*

"WHAT THE---" Flora took a few steps towards the cliff with a shocked expression on her face

Alexander's two blows formed two wind blades that split the ground into two parallel lines hundreds of meters long, and as for the depth... the two slits began to spew out lava!!

"Is this... the fourth stage of the Major Heavenly Law of Wind?!" Flora finally understood something and stared at Alexander

*whistling sound* "Congratulations, Governor Alexander, congratulations, haha!" Raiden came from behind him, clapping and patting Alexander on the back

As for Robin, he stared into Flora's eyes, "A moment ago, you said that my Emperors are useless?"

"..." Flora couldn't find anything to say. Robin's eyes were full of sarcasm and arrogance. What was she supposed to respond with? But what is there to say?!

No wonder he said that what she would see would help convince her and the rest of the Orphan Blood Emperors... There were currently 170 Human Martial Emperors, and after what she had seen today, all of them could be using the fourth stage of the Laws, they had become true Emperors! Even by taking the demons out of the equation, Robin could still eliminate all of the Orphan Blood Planet Emperors with his human army alone.

"Alexander, I want you to put on your full golden armor and accompany Miss Flora to her home and stay with her until you personally hand her over to her lover. Oh, Raiden, go with them as well, I think you and Aru will get along just fine..." Robin started the order and turned back to look towards the horizon.

"yes." The two of them bowed and began to put on the special golden armor where they stood

Flora looked at the ground for a long time, still feeling lost, "These things... These king things cannot be solved by logic and intimidation. The number of people who will listen to the voice of reason will be small!!!"

"Then be it~ I extended my hand with peace, whether you hold it or not is up to you." Robin shrugged his shoulders, "Even if one Emperor agrees, tell him that I am ready to receive him to work as a mercenary here on the Farm Planet. You are also welcome back to us after you deliver the message." Then he turned his face only to look into her eyes, "I want you to tell them something else... I don't want anyone to say that I am a dictator or something like that, tell them that I am giving you five more years of peace so that you can use to think about the offer and come to visit the farm planet, after the additional five years are up there will be no more mercy. whoever agrees to the conditions and works as a mercenary when asked will live, and whoever refuses to become food for the demons, the matter will be that simple... Was it clear enough?"

"...clear, thank you." Flora clenched her hand tightly and looked at the ground

"Miss Flora, come with us this way." Alexander's voice was heard at this moment, and the current appearance of him and Raiden was breathtaking, even Robin raised his eyebrows slightly.

The golden armor of the Martial Emperors had a distinctive design from that of the army. Although the standard army armor has also changed, there has been a recent change in the design of the armor, making it more solid, flexible, and even more eye-catching, and the old armor and weapons full of battle marks were transported to an unknown place. The standard army armor is still dominated by the golden color, and they are all similar.

As for the armor of Martial Emperors, it is designed by hand for each Emperor. For example, Raiden's armor contains materials to withstand the fourth stage of the Major Heavenly Law of Lightning, and its design helps him cut through the air in front of him more easily to maintain his tremendous speed, and so on~ But the new armor of Alexander and Raiden have one new thing in common... They both contain black pieces integrated into them!

Areas such as in front of the heart, the private parts, and the spine are all made of black metal, but the armor designers carefully combined the two colors, making it even more breathtaking... It was the strongest metal currently available to the Empire, Uracilium!

"We have a way to use Uracilium metal now? I see, the research and development team is not nit joking around..." Robin was clearly happy, "By the way, Flora, take a space ring with you and fill it with everything you see in front of you before you return, whether meat, vegetables, or even talismans and weapons, of course, you will only take samples, maybe it helps a little."

"Yes." Flora nodded one last time and then flew away with lost eyes, followed by Raiden and Alexander...

Chapter 647 The field hospital

"We thank Your Excellency and bear witness that you have fulfilled your promise!" A large number of Martial Emperors knelt on one knee and shouted at the same time, their earth-shattering voice frightening all the living on the mountain.

"Get up." Robin smiled proudly, "If you want to thank me, work hard for the Empire."

The Emperors stood with resolute looks on their faces, Robin didn't have to mention such a thing, even putting aside that the True Beginning Empire represented their world, they had tasted more than once the sweetness of serving Robin!

"Do you feel the changes in your bodies? Good huh?" Robin laughed, "You now have the same strength as demi-humans without having to have horns coming out of your heads or having tails stuck into your buttocks."

Robin waited several seconds until the Emperors in front of him finished laughing then he added, "But I am afraid that this power is temporary... If you use the fourth stage of the laws lightly, you may remain in this state for an entire day, but if it is an intense fight, it will not last more than a few hours, So beware."

Before he passed his eyes over them, "And that is why I warn you, this must remain a secret among the Martial Emperors of the True Beginning Empire. If it leaks to the enemies, you will die a horrific death! And of course, remember that before any major fight, you must isolate yourself and follow the same steps that you did now. Be careful not to Move into a hostile area without first achieving your optimal state, otherwise you will offer your heads on silver platters to your enemies. I have ordered a production line to be allocated to make these drugs. They do not know what they are used for, but they know that they are important enough. Oversee their work and make sure a number of These vials are always with you... Unfortunately, you are still lions made of paper, but you must maintain this appearance until I find a radical solution to the problem, Understood?"

"Understood, Your Excellency!" The Martial Emperors responded in one breath

"Good." Robin smiled, "You can go back to what you were doing."

The Emperors all bowed again and then began to fly away, except for Emily who remained behind...

"Is there a problem?" Robin furrowed his eyebrows

"Your Excellency, I know it is not my place, but may I ask what you intend to do now?" Emily raised her glasses and asked hesitantly

"I'll go back to my palace, of course. A certain someone must have given up on me by now.." Robin chuckled as he pictured Evergreen's anger, "Is something wrong?"

"Your Excellency... perhaps you should take some time to visit the Sky Opening Tower. Her Highness has been working on something impressive lately."

"Zara works with the R&D team?" Robin furrowed his eyebrows slightly, "...Alright, let's go."

"Father!!" A girl with short blonde hair ran towards Robin, "I couldn't believe it when Sister Emily told me that you had come out of seclusion and that you were even coming to visit me!"

"Alright Alright!" The strong embrace made a mark on Robin's bones, "...It seems that it came late, but congratulations on breaking through to the Martial Emperor's Realm!"

"Oh, sorry, hehe." Zara laughed sheepishly, "The rest of my brothers have broken through to the Emperor's Realm as well, and Caesar is even approaching level 42 already!! ...I still can't believe you're here, do you intend to spend some time with me this time?"

"Mmm... Actually, I can't believe I came either, Evergreen is really fuming right now." Robin patted Zara on the head gently, "Unfortunately, I can't stay for long. I need to return to my seclusion immediately. Is there something I should see first?"

"Oh... Well, come with me, there is something that might make you a little pleased, hehe." Zara grabbed her father's arm with both hands and pulled him into the tower excitedly.

As soon as she took a few steps inside the tower, her facial features changed slightly and she shouted in a stern voice that resonated throughout the tower, "Array Development Group, prepare to try out the field hospital in front of His Majesty the Emperor, you have five minutes!!"

"Yes!!" Responses came from all directions immediately, even researchers who had nothing to do with that group dropped what they had in hand and quickly headed toward the experiment hall.

"Array Development Group?" Robin furrowed his eyebrows slightly and looked at Zara apprehensively

"Hey, don't ask, you'll see for yourself in a little while.." Zara said and pulled her father towards one of the great halls in the tower.

It wasn't long before the hall was filled to the brim with researchers, and even a number of Martial Emperors and high-ranking officials came when they heard that a large experiment would now be held.

"I want you to tell me your honest opinion, okay?" After Zara saw the entire Array Development Group, she sent one last glance towards her father who nodded in return, then walked confidently towards the middle of the hall, "Everyone in their place!!"

"Yes!" The Array Development Group, consisting of approximately 20 individuals, dispersed and stood in a circle with a diameter of 50 meters. Then each of them took out a banner and planted it on the ground in front of him.

"Hmm?" Robin furrowed his eyebrows again when he saw the banners.

The lower pole of each one was made of strong metal, while the upper part of the banner was made of beast hides, with different runes drawn on each banner, runes from the Major Heavenly Law of Life, and under each banner, an energy pearl was placed.

*Ooomnnnn*

After placing the last pearl in its place, the runes on the banners began to light up in green, and a huge pattern appeared on the area between the flags, then it began to rise until a large dome appeared that covered the fifty-meter diameter!

"This..." Robin took a step forward and activated his golden eyes, and not only him, but everyone in attendance opened their eyes to the end to try to understand what was happening now.

"I present to you the field hospital." Zara opened her arms wide and spoke confidently, "This array was formed from the patterns used by Life Law users to treat wounds and replenish energy in the bodies of tired fighters. As long as this field hospital is set up on the battlefield and as long as there are enough energy pearls, we will not have to worry about battle injuries, all we will have to do is bring the injured person within the boundaries of the field hospital and treatment will begin automatically. Also, we can dismantle it and move it to any place we want on the battlefield"

Then she looked at her father with joy, "This field hospital will permanently eliminate the problem of the shortage of Life Law users. It will free Life Law users from the role of healer and make them able to participate in battles. It will also save the lives of a huge number of soldiers. Of course, this would not have been possible if it weren't for the law disks provided by my father, His Majesty the Emperor, so please give him a big applause!"

Chapter 648 Instant array

lightsnovel *...clap*

*Clap * *clap* *clap*

All the attendees, including Martial Emperors, officials, and even the researchers seemed as if someone had hit them on the head at this moment, just looked towards the field hospital with open mouths and applauded unconsciously, trying to comprehend the results of this hospital in a real war. They applauded only because they heard a voice telling them to applaud.

Robin wasn't as absent-minded as they were, but the shock on his face was even greater

He raised both his hands placed them on the back of his head and muttered slowly, "...Zara, whose idea was this?"

"Hehe, did you like the field hospital? Using the banners to create an instant array was my idea, but everyone in the array group worked hard to come up with this final result!" Zara declared with joy and pride before moving quickly to stand towards her father again and hold his arm.

Robin remained speechless for a few seconds as he looked into his daughter's eyes, "It was you? You are the one who came up with the idea for a way to create an instant portable array?"

"Dad!!" Zara hit her foot on the ground, "Have you forgotten that I am the first Rune Master after you? I learned how to work on Runes from you personally and I was also the first teacher in Jura City Rune Academy. If I can't do something to help, then won't teaching me be a waste?"

Robin continued to look at her in disbelief, "Girl... Do you even realize what you have created?!"

"Naturally!" Zara responded quickly and excitedly, but after looking at the faces of the audience for a long time, she continued hesitantly, "...I think."

"...Sigh~ Do you know how many times it crossed my mind to devote some time to researching and developing arrays? Because I knew how powerful arrays could be I wanted a way to make them easy to build and quick to act, but I never found the time. I also did not ask the R&D team to look into the matter because I know how difficult it is!" Robin took a few steps forward, his eyes not moving away from the field hospital for a moment, "Mobile Instant Arrays... You have created something that will change the course of future wars, no, it will change the shape of the entire Empire!!"

"Really?" Zara tilted her head to the side. Although she was happy with her father's reaction, she still couldn't see what he was seeing

"Your Highness, you are looking at the matter from the wrong point of view. You see it as a field hospital, but His Excellency sees it as the seed of a path that will branch into much more." Old Gu couldn't restrain himself and spoke up, "This hospital does not rely on the power level of the users or even the law they cultivate. Rather, it only relies on the runes it carries and the energy pearls as a source of power. This means that if we replace these life runes with fire runes, we can instantly create an array that shoots fireballs on enemies in a specific area to reduce the pressure on our fighters, or another array that constantly sends icy winds to prevent enemies from crossing a certain line... These are just examples, but their applications in battles are countless!"

"We can take the Sky Shield Array that His Excellency designed, miniaturize it, and paint a miniature version of it on the banners, so our field research teams will have a safe haven if beasts attack them!" A researcher from the Ink development team shouted excitedly.
N♡v€lBjn: Transforming Moments into Memories.

A former officer took out a blue tablet from his pocket, "Defense arrays... I now came up with an idea for a defensive array that uses solid ice walls. As long as we have the law tablets, we have an infinite number of ideas!!"

"We can create an array that intertwines the path of the wind with the path of the soul so that the array creates an absolute death ground for whoever enters it!!"

Zara looked around with raised eyebrows and an open mouth. She definitely did not think about the matter from this perspective. From her point of view, she was looking for a way to contribute to reducing deaths and lightening the burden on the life forces, because she had greatly experienced the extent of the difficulties they faced, for this reason, she tried several groups until they settled in with the arrays group and decided to achieve a good result with them, but within one minute she heard more than twenty purely military applications of her idea!

As for the arrays group, they were happily high-fiving each other. From the reactions, it was clear that their work would bring them many benefits and that the arrays group would witness a great transformation!

Old Gu took a few steps to stand next to Robin and crossed his arms in front of his chest, "Unfortunately, there are some obvious problems with the instant array. For example, the banners have to be placed by hand and there are more than 25 banners in this small array. Who has the time to plant these banners properly and in perfect circular shape during battle? Also, the banners themselves, although they are made of strong metal, are still vulnerable to destruction if they are targeted... This array is actually useful for a hospital in the back lines, but not for use in attack and defense!"

"Oh..." The rest of the scholars and guests in the hall looked at each other with some disappointment

"Chief Researcher Gu, please don't forget that this is still the first model!" One of the researchers in the array group quickly reacted, afraid that Old Gu's words would kill their momentum

A researcher from the information gathering team shook his head and sighed, "Even after mentioning the problems with the array, I still find the array to be flawless and not capable of further development. It is simply perfect. The metal used to make the banners is even stronger than the Volheim used in golden armor. However, If the banner moves a little, the array will be ruined, and it will certainly move if attacked in the battle! And even if we find a way to install the banner poles, what about the part made with beast hides? Couldn't it be easily burned or damaged? Unfortunately, there is nothing better that we could draw on... Frankly, I don't think there is a way to improve it. If a method exists, it will take us more than ten years to discover it and implement it."

The members of the array group looked down and bit their lips. They had actually worked day and night for three years to achieve this result and knew how difficult it would be to develop further. As for Zara, she shrugged her shoulders, not caring about the negative comments. As long as the array was good for what it was designed for, everything would be fine!

Robin shook his head, "All of you... Aren't you supposed to be in the research and development department? I can't believe you still haven't seen the most important path this idea can be applied to yet, something that if implemented, not only will the death toll among the elite decrease, but we will control entire worlds in days!" Then a big smile appeared on his face, "As for the development issue, it is a trivial issue that can be solved easily."

Chapter 649 Instant array -2

Old Gu looked around for a few seconds to see if anyone understood what Robin was talking about, but silence dominated the hall. Old Gu sighed in disappointment and bowed slightly, "We apologize for not being able to see. Please, Your Excellency, enlighten us."

Robin smiled, still looking at the field hospital, "Tell me, what is the biggest problem with this design?"

Old Gu took a long look towards the field hospital before answering, "In short, he has two big problems. The first is that it takes a large number of people to activate the array, which means it is impractical in high-end battles. The second is that the array will disappear if a single banner moves just a little bit, and as long as the banners are fixed in the ground like a normal banner, this will inevitably happen."

"You are right!" Robin turned and pointed towards Old Gu, "So what if one person could control all the banners, and those banners were to be locked with a power comparable to the array user himself?"

"Then it will be a truly lethal weapon capable of changing the course of high-end battles!!" The old man shouted with enthusiasm evident in his wrinkled eyes, "But... How could this happen? There is no energy technique that allows us to control the banners and protect them from a distance, I do not think that something like this is possible..."

"Of course it is possible, Soul Force exists!" Robin laughed and turned back to look towards the field hospital, "I spread the Soul Strengthening Technique among all of you. Anyone in the Saint Realm must be strong enough to control at least 15 banners, and as long as the banners are infused with Spirit Force, they will remain strong and stable until the Soul Force runs out, or someone with greater Soul Force comes and tries to interfere in controlling it. Of course, we can increase protection and place soul seals on the banners themselves so that only their owner can use them."

"This..." Old Man Gu and the rest of the researchers and guests looked back at the banners for a long time, thinking of all possible ways to develop this new path.

But Zara shook her head, "I have already thought about it, Dad, but it is an impractical solution when applied. Material objects have a high resistance to the Soul Force. For example, Material objects can be sensed or moved from their place if the Soul is strong enough, but controlling them for a long time? ...I've tried, it's not possible."

"Hehe, you have a mistake here, my dear, but it is a mistake of lack of experience, not intelligence." Robin laughed and turned to Zara, "You made the banners, then you tried to control them with your soul, and from there you decided that it was difficult. You should have planned for this purpose first and then made the banners."

Zara tilted her head to the side slightly, "Would that have made a difference? All metals have high resistance against soul force and even natural energy and cannot be kept running through them for a long time!" At this point, she furrowed her eyebrows slightly, "...Except for..."

"Say it." Robin smiled, he knew that Zara finally got it

"Uracilium?!" Zara shouted, the properties of that stubborn metal were known to everyone. It was very hard and could not be shaped into weapons or armor, but it was also the only known metal that had no resistance to any kind of energy, and in this way, they could also draw patterns on the body of the banner itself and Not on the beast hides that can be easily damaged!

Robin snapped his finger, "Exactly! Before I came here, I saw the Emperor's new armor, with parts of uracilium blending in well with the armor. Why didn't you think of making banners out of this metal?"

"Allow me to answer this, Your Excellency." A person from the armor development research team bowed, "There has actually been a breakthrough in the field of metal smelting since Your Excellency handed over the law discs, but currently we can barely heat a small piece of uracilium enough to hammer it a little. We still cannot form a piece larger than a fist yet, We believe that it will take at least 8 years to make any reasonable progress."

"One year." Robin raised his index finger, "I will give all the researchers here one year to make banners from uracilium. The warehouses will be opened for you to take whatever you want to fund your research, Understood?"

"Yes." The specialized teams that Robin talked about, such as the Array Research Group, the Armor Development Research Group, the Flame Path Research Group, and several other Groups, shouted in one breath. More funding has been opened up for them, so how could they not be happy?!

"You did well..." As for Robin, he took a few steps towards Zara and patted her hair.

"It's good that I helped." Zara laughed sweetly

"My dear, you have not only helped save many lives, but your innovation will be a major key in the quiver of the Empire of True Beginning in all its future battles! But the question now is, what do you plan to do from now on? Do you want to stay in the Sky Opening Tower and manage the research and development department with Old Gu, or Have you had enough and want to return to run the Treasury? Or perhaps you want to take an open vacation to find your life partner?" Robin laughed when he got to the last bit, but he wasn't entirely joking

Although Zara behaves like a little girl in front of him, she is already more than seventy years old... In addition to her stunning beauty, Zara is currently an experienced general, an expert Rune Master, and undoubtedly one of the power centers of the Empire. Of course, without mentioning that she is a Martial Emperor as well. She is undoubtedly the dream girl of many, and despite all of that, Robin had never heard of anyone succeeding in getting her to complete a lengthy conversation with him.

Zara pecked her lips a few times, "Mmm... Honestly, I felt like I had a purpose while I was here. If you don't mind, I'd rather stay in the tower."

"Haha, that's perfect! How could I mind? I'll find someone else for the treasury don't worry about it, I have a much more important mission for you while you're here.." Robin laughed loudly after Jabba left it would be good for Zara to take over here, that won't be too hard for an experienced general like here!

"Really? What is it..?" Zara looked up with shining eyes

Robin smiled and then a black disc appeared on his palm, "This is the Major Heavenly Law of Space from the first stage to the third, and I will bring you the fourth as soon as I finish it, I want you to use the Major Heavenly Law of Space and integrate it into the Instant Array System, if you can't make a strong, complete space portal, then at least make an Instant Array capable of transporting objects and individuals within the borders of the same planet."

"This is...?" Zara opened her eyes to the last of them, and even her hands were shaking as she received the disc, She knew what the Major Heavenly Law of Space represented

Robin laughed loudly when he saw her reaction before his laugh quickly turned serious, After you finish the required array, you can use the space disk to do anything you want, but beware of letting anyone see the contents of this disk other than you."

After this small conversation, Robin returned to present some ideas about the new instant array system for another two hours, and not only he, but all the other research groups found applications for their research that could be applied to this instant array system, which prolonged the discussion even more!

When Robin was reassured that everything was moving in the right direction and was finally about to tell them that he was preparing to enter another long retreat, a visitor came to him... A wind user of those who went with Peon to Planet Nihari.

Barely taking a few steps into the tower with a body full of wounds, he mustered all his strength to utter these words: "Your Excellency, we request permission to start an all-out war." Then he fell on his face and fainted

Chapter 650 Shaking of the northern region

A few days later - The northern region of Planet Nihari - In one of the alleys of the capital of Azil

*CRACK* *CRACK*

The stones in the wall began to stick out in a certain way until they finally formed Richard's face, "Third Brother, did you summon me?"

In front of the stone face, there was only one person. The scars on his face made him almost featureless. There were entire pieces of skin on his face that were missing. He also became one-eyed after an injury that blew out his left eye. There were a few fingers that looked like new without a single scratch on them, and this is strange compared to the rest of his body, and this is because he only regenerates injuries that may affect his life or combat abilities... He was Peon, the Martial Emperor Peon.

"His Excellency responded to my request, support is coming... He also gave the green light to start a full war on the Azil tribe if this is necessary to protect you, and he also allocated any number of wind and lightning users we need to come and help even if we do not choose to start the total war with the north. He has told the messenger in the text that I can summon the entire army of the Empire at any time I wish... Everything is up to you now, what do you intend to do?"

The stone face looked confused for a moment, not knowing what to say, "...He agreed to declare war? Didn't you tell me to invade two other planets and prepare for a big war in Nihari in a few years? Is he really ready to start a war in the heart of the northern region right now for me? ... I did not ask you to gather the army for me, my third brother, why did you send the request anyway? I told you that I am planning something and will not leave my residence before implementing it, please leave the city!! Don't worry about me, in the worst case I can stop the kidnappings for a while and everything will calm down again..."

"Foolish! It was possible to stop three years ago, but not after you went this far. Do you think they would leave you alone if you stopped now?! Three years ago, the entire Azil tribe flipped upside down because of your killing of Shamsun, even though I warned you not to do it, and since then, those who have been searching for you are Martial Emperors!! Do you think that staying in your small palace and manipulating your surroundings from a distance will be enough to fool Martial Emperors who have lived for thousands of years? Do you think that even stopping completely will stop them from finding you?! How long will your tricks last before they follow the incidents and reach the power source in the end? A month Maybe two? We've been buying you time for three years!!" Peon shouted at him in a very harsh voice. It was clear that the three years had not gone well

Indeed, the last three years were as far from peaceful as possible... After the new head of the investigation team, Salidar began to follow up on the situation personally, he was beginning to tighten the screws on Richard little by little, so Peon and dozens of forces of wind and darkness decided to intervene to sabotage the investigations as much as possible, so they put fake evidence everywhere and they used the Soul Enslavement technique to make some giants do all the dirty work for them, but this was not enough, so they started assassinating the members of the investigation team.

The investigation team faced major problems in the first year of the restructuring, to the point that the Martial Emperor Salidar himself asked for help from his brothers and the sons who reached the Martial

Emperor's Realm, which made the situation worse and caused the discovery and death of more than half of the Wind and Darkness forces in the city within a short period, and this made the situation turned for the worse at this point because of the appearance of the members of the Wind and Darkness Teams, they are all tall humans with fragile bones, the same race as Richard!

The new investigation chief, Salidar, began to closely monitor Richard, and found sophisticated ways to trap the rest of the Wind and Darkness, forcing the rest to hide for a while and forcing Richard to calm the game for a while. However, the investigation team, consisting of a number of Azil Emperors, was closing in on them every day!

The situation changed again when Peon broke into the Martial Emperor's Realm, followed by two more members of his team several months later. With three Martial Emperors on their side and with the help of the Divine Decree Embodiment Technique, Peon did not restrain himself any longer and began a counterattack. This essence is securely nested within the heart of Nøv€lβjn★

They assassinated all the original members of the investigation team, only the Martial Emperors remained at the end of that day. Then they isolated the weakest Martial Emperor in the Azil tribe and killed him.

As for Richard, He took advantage of the momentum and launched the largest kidnapping campaign, where more than 100,000 giants disappeared within a few days.

This series of terrible incidents shook the entire Azil tribe and even the entire northern region.

Panic struck the city and its rich residents began to flee, and even poor citizens took to the streets like madmen, demanding that the gates be opened for them, but the gate guards prevented them by force.

The leader of the Azil tribe, Dawoodar, went crazy as he saw his world collapsing around him. The feeling of shame that the first Martial Emperor to be killed in the northern region in hundreds of years was one of his grandchildren overwhelmed him as he ordered all the known Emperors of the Azil tribe to go out and destroy the city if necessary to search for those who caused the accidents and mutilate their bodies. These orders launched a devastating campaign that caused the destruction of approximately 10% of the Azil tribe's capital, but it also caused the death of the rest of the Wind and Darkness team within the Azil tribe city. One of the Emperors with Peon was also found and killed. Only Peon and another person managed to survive that campaign.

There was one strange thing that happened immediately after that, which slowed down the momentum of the Martial Emperors of the Azil tribe, which gave Peon and his companion a chance to catch their breath, and it also allowed Richard to kidnap another 20,000 victims... The Martial Emperors of the Ashira tribe and the Bazuna tribe arrived as *guests* of the Azil tribe, and after them came more Martial Emperors from five other giants' tribes!!

All of them ostensibly came to talk about important business and demanded that only Emperors like them come and talk to them. Or they said that they came to see the sights and demanded that one of the Emperors of the Azil tribe accompany them, they all also refused to leave before meeting their demands. When they were ignored for a while, they began to cause problems, and destroy a few restaurants and bars because they were venting their anger!

lightsnovel Of course, their presence at this particular time and their ferocious behavior were evidence that they had come to fish in troubled waters after hearing about what was happening in the Azil tribe, Every northern tribe wanted a piece of whatever was going on! It is not in their interest for the kidnapping and killing operations to stop and for security to return to the Azil tribe.

Even if there is apparent peace between the Azil tribe and the rest of the northern tribes, it is still a strong competing tribe, and they have recently become the richest of the northern tribes. How can they not kick them when they see them down?

The leader of the tribe, Dawoodar, destroyed half of his palace in a fit of anger after more than 30 Martial Emperors from the rest of the northern tribes met in his city. How could he not know what they were thinking? But he also could not provoke any of them, otherwise even the apparent peace would collapse, so he was forced to assign a number of Emperors of the Azil tribe to accompany the visitors and see the deals they wanted so that the situation would not deteriorate.

Of course, he soon discovered that they wanted to rob them blind... The thing that is worth a thousand gold coins, they wanted to buy it with one coin, otherwise they would not leave.

Dawoodar's intense anger almost prompted him to give the order to kill all the *guests*, but his hiding ancestors prevented him more than once.

As for Richard, he was more preoccupied with the busyness of the Emperors of the Uzail tribe. He kidnapped and killed 150,000 new victims, and his circle of control expanded insanely until it covered the lands of the entire capital of the Azil tribe. Also, Peon and his companion used the soul enslavement technique on the favorite prostitute of one of the Emperors of the Uzail tribe who was continuing the investigation, so they made her use a certain poison to weaken him, then they set an elaborate ambush for him, killed him, and then hung him by the neck on one of the city gates.

This was the straw that broke the camel's back... The entire army of the Azil tribe took to the streets that same night.
