

The Truth 660

Chapter 660 The Forbidden Technique

"...The White Soul only ranges between one and a thousand units, yet Hoffenheim and the rest of the Tree Fathers have been trapped in it for nearly half a million years?" Robin rubbed his chin for a while, "...Then what about the Silver Soul? I have six thousand units now but I still have a Silver Soul, is it possible that I need ten thousand units to reach the Purple Soul?"

"In fact, it takes a million units for your soul to turn purple, but as for the number that your soul needs to completely turn into gold, there is no need to even mention it~" Evergreen giggled and her laughter increased even more when she saw Robin's pupils widen after hearing the number, "Haha, your problem is that you see soul power as a side thing for more concentration for example or using it in devious techniques like soul slavery or something basic like transferring information, you are greatly undervaluing the power of the soul! ...Didn't you notice that you subjugated Tree Father Hoffenheim, an Emperor who lived for hundreds of thousands of years, by using the power of your soul alone?"

Then Evergreen went back to walking back and forth, "The soul force is not completely understood by you, and I realize that, but you should know that it has its own cultivation path and there are many powerful experts who do not use anything else other than the soul force. You can, for example, divide any soul realm into four sections, which are: Primal- Medium- High- Peak, someone with a white soul at the primal level, that is, having 250 soul units like Zara, can easily kill knights using only the power of her soul. And someone with a thousand soul units, for example, can fight an emperor face-to-face using soul techniques!"

"A person with a thousand soul units can face the Emperors?" Robin raised his eyebrows in surprise, but he didn't overreact.

"Well not THE EMPERORS, there is a big difference between the Sagehood Realm and Emperor Realm as you know, with a thousand units alone you can barely escape from the weakest Emperor, but I guess it still counts~" Evergreen laughed

Even what is this explanation, Robin was still keeping his serious expression... A thousand units may not seem like a big number, but Zara, who reached the Emperor Realm about 5 years ago, barely got 250 units, this means that it is easier to reach the Emperor Realm than it is to reach A thousand units, or this applies to their current information at least~

But at this moment, he opened his eyes wide and shouted, "So this means I...?!"

"Hehe, you are a person full of treasures, my dear owner, and although you always complain about your luck, it helped you achieve a technique that can compensate for the bad luck you have faced throughout your life!"

"Technique?" Robin furrowed his eyebrows further, "You mean the Soul Filling Technique?!"

"You're right! The technique boosted from approximately 400 units to 3,000 units in just a few years, and without even trying to exploit it to the fullest extent..." Evergreen's eyes sparkled as she looked at him, "I don't know how you were able to come up with this Soul Filling Technique with its current details. But even in the middle aged planetary belt, this technique is considered a high-level forbidden technique, and whoever possesses it considers it a treasure and never passes it on to anyone or even talks about it. I advise you to do the same if you want to survive. Treat it as your greatest treasure, because it truly is if you use it appropriately."

After sending a lengthy look at Robin, she continued, "I don't think there are many others in the young planetary belt other than you who have 6,000 soul units." Evergreen stood still and pointed at him twice excitedly, "With six thousand soul units, you can literally dominate everyone at the Emperor Realm or lower, and if used correctly, you can even safely escape if someone in the World Cataclysm Realm wanted to kill you! But that is of course if you have powerful enough soul techniques... Even if you have muscles, they will not benefit you if you do not have a martial art that can exploit them to the maximum."

"I can escape from someone in the World Cataclysm Realm?... Is this the name of a Realm above the Emperor's Realm?" Robin felt that his legs lacked strength, so he created a seat under him with soul force and sat on it with his brows furrowed. The amount of information that Evergreen had flooded him with could not be easily digested.

In his view, soul force was indeed a means of doing side things to help or strengthen him mentally, but he had never thought of using it as a means of combat! But suddenly he learned that he had the qualifications to escape from someone above the Emperor Realm?! This... This is amazing!!

But he quickly curbed his enthusiasm. He knew that the inheritance of the planet Jura regarding soul matters was very weak, and after communicating with three other planets, he could say with confidence that the inheritance of the soul force in the entirely young planetary belt was useless.

He is already a user of the Eye of Truth and can research this path, but where does he start? When he started with the internal energy system, the system was already in place and reasonably advanced, but when it comes to the soul and body strength, he looks at a blank sheet of paper.

Let's put aside the Soul Strengthening and Revitalizing Techniques he created that were not good enough, where can he get such powerful offensive and defensive Soul Techniques that would enable him to withstand an Emperor, let alone this World Cataclysm Realm expert?!

Robin was lost in thought and continued to rub between his eyebrows. His feeling now is similar to someone who has a powerful weapon but can't leave it. He has great strength, but he does not know how to harness it!

After a few minutes, he seemed to remember something, so he put aside thinking about the matters of soul techniques and asked Evergreen calmly, "You spoke a while ago about the imminent appearance of soul creatures, what is this?"

"It's not too complicated, you've already seen one of those." Evergreen shrugged her shoulders and pointed in a certain direction

Towards the huge tree in the middle of Robin's Soul Domain.

"...Hoffenheim?!" Robin quickly stood up and shouted, "What the hell is a soul creature?! I knew there was something strange about that tree!!"

"Hey, calm down. Didn't I tell you that it would never harm you? Also, he has been within your soul domain for years now. Did you feel anything malicious from it? On the contrary, its presence can only benefit you." Evergreen spoke with a sarcastic smile stuck on her face, a smile that angered Robin greatly.

"Okay, okay, why are you looking at me like that? We need to work on your sense of humor a little bit..." Evergreen waved with a laugh, and then her features turned serious again, "Do you remember what I said about the origin of the soul force you absorb?"

"Yes, the soul force originates from the remains of the souls of dead creatures who once roamed the planet." Robin nods

"Good... Then what if the souls of the dead creatures you absorb still retained some of their characteristics?"
