Chapter 686 Green Soul Flame

"AAAHHHHHHH!!!!!!!"

Salidar's scream, the scream of a mid-level Martial Emperor, brought all eyes to him for a moment

All Martial Emperors who heard his cry, whether humans or giants, felt a shiver down their backs and all asked themselves the same question: 'What would make an Emperor scream like that?'

Some of the Giant Martial Emperors even felt ashamed of Salidar's cries and cursed him loudly and shut his mouth because he was discouraging them.

But how can they know that if they were in his place, their screams would be louder?!

As Richard said, when you say that something is a living being, you mean two things: A body that contains life energy and, a healthy soul. If one of them is missing, then whatever you see is no longer a living being.

And what Richard is doing now is attacking both of those elements at the same time.

This is the Green Soul Flame technique, a technique that was purely invented by Richard. The technique is based on two parts: the first is that Richard makes life fire attack the life vein, the vein that connects the heart to the brain, but it does not pull the life energy out and does not cut the vein and exhaust it as usual, but rather merely heats up the Life energy and leaves it in place...

His goal is to make it boil and become disturbed so that it tries to find an escape, but Richard wouldn't let it. At this moment, Salidar feels that he is drinking volcanic magma greedily and wants to stop, but he cannot. There are only two ways to stop this pain: the first is to consume his own life energy or cut the life vein off completely, that is, to commit suicide. Or to attack Richard and force him to stop his technique.

The other part of this technique is the soul fire; which is a technique that Richard created to resemble the life fire. It is based on transforming his enormous soul force into a flame that attacks the soul domain with ferocity, but he controls it so that it does not break into the soul domain and kill him.

Rather, it is controlled at a level that makes him feel enough pain to forget his name, This means that he will not even be able to make the decision to commit suicide to end his misery

A technique to torture both body and soul... Richard created a technique that, if it appeared in the middle planetary belt, would be classified as a forbidden technique immediately.

"AAAHH!!!" "... "AAARRGGHHH!!!!" "... "AHAHAAAAAA!!!" Salidar began to faint in the middle of his screams

His mind tries to defend against all these types of torment by fainting, but the intensity of the pain forces him to wake up immediately after

The blood flowing from his eyes became mixed with tears

It was clear that he was no longer aware of himself, he was no longer conscious even in his screams, and there was nothing running through his head anymore

Just his instinct as a living being tells him that he is in pain, that's all.

Richard remained standing there with his hands folded over his chest and his head tilted to the side

He did not appear angry, sad, or happy. There were no expressions on his face. He was just watching in silence and appreciation, making small nods from time to time.

He looked like a young child watching his favorite show, or a fan contemplating the latest painting by his favorite artist

If he had to describe Salidar's condition now, he would say that he is: Exquisitely beautiful.

Boom

At this moment, a fire attack descended on Richard, but a huge rocky hand came out of the ground and blocked the attack in its way.

This is not the first time attacks have been launched against Richard. Since the mass fighting began, the Giants' Martial Emperors have sent an attack or two whenever the opportunity arises, but none of them came close, just as happened this time.

But what was different this time was that Richard finally raised his head and looked at the battle taking place behind him... Salidar was no longer very amusing as he lay alone.

The battle inside the city walls currently can be said to be equal.

The Martial Emperors of the Azil tribe have a level difference that favors them by a large margin. The strongest person on the side of the True Beginning Empire is Peon and he is barely level 42 currently, while the giants among them are people who are level 45. The attacking divine tattoos they possess are also very diverse. The northern tribes, after they killed the Second Chosen of Heaven, distributed copies of all the attacking divine tattoos among them, so the Azil tribe does not adhere to a specific path of divine tattoos, they have everything!

That is, a single Martial Emperor may have tattoos from several paths, all of them with the power of the third stage of the laws, in addition to their tremendous physical strength, of course, this gives them an advantage in terms of the available options for attack. And now that the momentum is in their favor, they know that they need to kill or be killed today, if they do not give everything they will be annihilated, but if they are victorious, the siege will end and they will have a chance to regain their lives, so their morale and will to fight was too strong.

On the other hand, the human Martial Emperors can fly... That's all they need to balance the scale.

As for the twenty thousand law users who make up the remainder of the Azil tribe, they have been completely ignored.

They were supposed to help the Martial Emperors of their tribe and annihilate the humans, or force them to retreat at least with their huge numbers, especially since the Azil tribe possessed a huge number of divine weapons, but something forced them to let the Martial Emperors face each other with no disturbance.

It was Richard.

Since the city storming began, Richard ordered the city to fight the soldiers and prevent them from approaching the Battle of the Martial Emperors.

Yes... At this moment, tens of thousands of stone hands were fighting twenty thousand law users.

The ground would open from time to time to swallow a few, Metal and stone bars would sneak on them and shackle their bodies from head to toe, and even the huge statues that were in every corner of the city came out from under the rubble and began attacking the soldiers!

And yes again, Richard was fighting the Twenty Thousand Law Users at the same time as he was fighting Salidar.

The life force of fifty million giants was no joke

"Hmph!" The final fire attack upset Richard a bit, especially after he saw that there was no progress being made in the Battle of the Martial Emperors, so he stamped his foot on the ground.

swoosh swoosh

Dozens of stone hands penetrated the ground and began attacking the Emperors of the Azel tribe

Richard joined the fight against the Emperors!
