

The Weight On Skin by Marry T Chapter 17

Chapter 17

“Well, I really feel sorry for you.”

Nick held Rose in his arms and patted her on the shoulder to calm her down, but his eyes were on Lena. “Why don’t you think about it when you say that? Rose is a good woman. But he can give her to others as a bargaining chip for promotion. What makes you think that he won’t give you to other men for his benefits after you marry him?”

Lena was stunned by his words, while the crowd was excited.

This wedding really worthed the trip. So many scandals!

“How dare you!” Hugo panicked. “Be careful with what you say! I’ll sue you for slander!”

He didn’t know who Nick was or why he knew about these things, but now he couldn’t let them tell people what he had done, or he would be finished!

Thinking of this, he immediately glared at Rose fiercely. “Rose, I didn’t think you would do this to me. I didn’t care that you were raped. How dare you come here with a man to frame me!”

“Who is framing and who is framed?” Rose finally couldn’t bear it anymore and looked up. Tears streamed down her cheeks. “Hugo, I don’t know why I would agree to marry a scumbag like you!”

Nick said after her casually. “It’s okay. People make mistakes. I’d better take you to the hospital to ‘cure’ your eyes. You can still fix your mistakes now that you know them.”

Rose was speechless for a moment. She was full of grief and anger a moment ago. But now she stopped crying and didn’t know what to say to Nick.

Her crying face made his heart flip.

Nick thought she was cute. And he took the opportunity to pinch her face gently. Then he looked at Lena. “Did you hear that? Marrying such a scumbag, you might end up waking up in some stranger’s bed one day. Rose was saved by me. As for you? I guess you’ll have to accept your fate.”

Lena screamed at him. “Shut up!”

Nick didn’t bother to speak to her anymore. He turned to Hugo, who looked pale, and sneered, “Do you really think Kevin will sign a contract with you? He’s too busy saving himself now. The special assistant Lecwho said that Kevin would sign the contract with you later was hired by me to fool you”

“You’re lying!” Hugo was completely flustered. He sweated and shouted, “It can’t be true!”

As he spoke, he took out his phone and wanted to make a phone call, but he pressed the wrong number several times, and then he dropped the phone on the ground, “Let’s go.” Rose couldn’t stand it any longer and said to Nick.

At first, it was satisfying to be able to let everyone know the truth about Lena and Hugo and watch them trying to explain. But now, it just made her feel ridiculous and sad.

Their wedding was officially ruined, and there was no need for her to stay and see the end.

“Okay.”

Then Nick turned around and walked out with her in his arms.

The bodyguards who were spread in the wedding all followed them again, forming a long line behind the two of them. The uniform of black suits and sunglasses made them look so imposing that no one dared to stop them. Even the furious people of the Jasper family did not dare to do anything.

Anyone who wasn’t blind could tell that the man next to Rose was obviously not a man to be trifled with. The bodyguards behind him were almost all burly men with strong muscles. If they really tried to stop them, they would fail tragically and embarrass themselves.

“Wait!”

Just as everyone was watching Nick and the others leaving, Martin suddenly spoke with a gloomy expression on his face.

Selma pulled him and wanted to stop him from doing anything he would regret, but he shook off her hand and walked forward.

Nick's bodyguards were about to stop him when Nick raised his hand and stopped them.

"Dad," Rose was a little surprised. "What are you doing?"

Martin ignored her and stared at Nick. "You're her boyfriend, aren't you?"

Nick did not like him very much. So when he heard this, he just said coldly, "What do you want?"

"My daughter can't go with you for nothing. I've worked hard to raise her." Martin said, "You look rich. If you want to take her with you, you have to give me the betrothal gift."

"Dad, what are you talking about?" Rose couldn't believe it.

Did he really ask Nick for his money in front of all these people?

Had he no shame?

Those who knew about Martin in the crowd all despised him in their hearts. When did Martin raise Rose? It was Rose, the abandoned daughter at a young age, who was working hard to support the whole family!

Martin snorted, not ashamed at all. "I have the right to take back my money spent on my daughter."

“Oh? That’s new.”

Nick sneered and put her arms around her chest. “Then how much do you want?”

Martin thought for a moment and said. “Ten million!”

Everyone in the room gasped. That was a lot of money!

Rose trembled with anger. “Have you lost your mind?”

“Ten million?”

Seeing that Nick was only looking at him sarcastically, Martin thought for a moment and changed. “Then five million. I can’t ask less than that!”

Everyone present could not help but despise him. He was really selling his daughter at a clear price.

Rose felt her heart ached as if her heart was riddled with holes. And she could taste blood in her mouth.

What was she expecting? At that moment, she actually hoped that the man who had abandoned her since she was a child would confess and ask her back?

How ridiculous of her!

She turned around and looked at Nick, holding back her tears. “What you said before, does it still count?”

Nick knew what she was talking about and nodded. “Of course.”

“Well, I will do it. But I have a request.” Rose gritted her teeth and said word by word, “Please. Lend me five million first.”

“No problem.” Nick looked at her lower lip, which was already bleeding from her biting. He felt pained in his heart. He wanted to get someone to throw Martin out so that she wouldn’t feel sad.

But considering that Rose had always been soft-hearted, he did not do so.

He only glanced sideways to signal Wallop to come over and said something to him in a low voice.

Wallop gave Martin an unfriendly look, nodded at Nick, and left with two bodyguards.

Nick turned around and looked at Martin. “I can give you the five million you want, but you must do as I say.”

As soon as Martin heard that Nick would give him the money, his eyes lit up, and his voice trembled with excitement. “Okay, whatever you want!”

Nick said slowly, “Before you get the money, you have to write a guarantee that you will sever all ties with Rose.”

The crowd was astonished again. Before they could react, they heard Martin respond quite quickly, “Okay!”

He thought that Nick would ask more. It was just a guarantee to sever ties with Rose. Of course, he would do it.

If it weren't for the fact that Rose could still make money for him to spend, he would have done that a long time ago. Now that someone would pay him five million dollars to sever the father-daughter relationship, why wouldn't he do it?

“What do you want to write? Just say it. I'll sign it!”