

Read There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband Chapter 115

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband

Chapter 115 Do You Want to Find Your Real Father?

Viggo settled Emelia in the best hotel in the local area. Emelia changed her clothes and went to the hospital with Viggo to visit his mother.

When the car stopped in the hospital's underground parking lot and the two of them walked toward the elevator together, Viggo suddenly took Emelia's hand.

Emelia instinctively shrank back, but Viggo did not force her. He just explained in a gentle voice, 'When I enter the ward later, I may hold your hand and let you get used to it in advance.'

In an instant, Emelia understood Viggo's meaning. She quickly said in annoyance, 'I'm sorry, I'm not used to it.'

She basically didn't hold Julian's hand and rarely traveled with him, so she was not used to walking hand in hand with a man.

She quickly made a statement again, 'I won't draw my hand back later. I will cooperate with you.'

Viggo chuckled and said, 'I need you to cooperate with them. We are still ordinary friends at other times.'

The implication was that he would not disrespect her at any other time, nor would he do something he shouldn't have done to her.

‘Okay.’ Emelia chose to trust Viggo.

From the first time when Nina introduced her to Tymers Entertainment as a part-time screenwriter until now, she had known him for more than four years.

In the first three years of working part-time, she didn't have much contact with Viggo. She mostly worked for Kelaina Salkowski and communicated with her.

But that did not affect her understanding of Viggo. Viggo had been a gentleman in this circle for so many years, and he had no gossips. He must be trustworthy.

Emelia had learned from Viggo's words that his parents were easy to get along with.

After they met, the old couple looked good.

Although the old Mrs. Johansen looked haggard because of illness, her eyes were warm.

After seeing Emelia, she raised his hand with difficulty to hold Emelia's hand and praised, ‘At first glance, I know you are a gentle and kind girl. That's great.’

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband

Chapter 116 Drown Sorrow with Alcohol

<https://hotnovelpub.com> Emelia explained, 'It's not true. If you pretend to be a couple, you must have some intimate behavior, especially in the hospital.'

After finished explaining, she asked worriedly, 'Did they capture my face?'

She had just been at the eye of the storm some time ago. If she was photographed to hold hands with Viggo again this time, she would really be scolded to death.

Although Viggo didn't have many film and television works in recent years but mainly focused on managing the company, he still had many fans. She would definitely be torn to pieces by them online.

However, she had to admit that Viggo was really considerate.

Avoiding to have a deep hold on her life caused by the paparazzi photos, he told her in advance to take some protection.

She wore a big fisherman's cap and a mask, covering her face all.

Nina said, 'You've covered your whole face. How could they have photographed your face? Only those familiar with you would recognize you by the figure.'

Emelia let out a sigh of relief. 'That's good.'

As a screenwriter, she just wanted to focus on her script and didn't want to have any gossip with the stars at all.

Unfortunately, things did not go according to her wishes. She did not expect to be discussed together with Viggo.

Nina then asked about the condition of Viggo's mother's condition. Emelia told her.

Nina was also very sad. 'Sigh, why is there such a thing as part forever in this world? It's too heartbreaking.'

In fact, they all knew that life, death, illness, and death were human nature. When that day came, they had to try hard to accept reality.

Nina continued, 'Julian called me before and asked me where you were. I deliberately hinted that you were really with Viggo.'

Emelia was speechless.

Nina snorted, 'I just provoked him on purpose. Who let him be such a scumbag?'

Nina reminded her then, 'Don't clarify it to him yourself and tell him that it's fake.'

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband

Chapter 117 Isn't It Obvious?

The three of them gathered in Ezra's bar. The first thing Ezra did was to ask Julian, 'Do you need me to give you some advice?'

Julian poured himself a glass of wine. 'For what?'

Ezra spread out his hands speechlessly and said, 'How to get Emelia back.'

Julian said angrily, 'She and Viggo are already together. How can I pursue her? Do you want me to be a home-wrecker?'

Phil, who had just taken a sip of wine by the side, was shocked by the word 'mistress'.

Thinking about his personal image and status, Phil couldn't help laughing when he thought of the word 'home-wrecker'.

'How would that turn you into a home-wrecker? You can confess your feelings first. Besides, everyone can get divorced after getting married, right?' After finished speaking, he found that he seemed to have overstepped Julian's line.

So he quickly tried to explain. 'I mean they may not last long.'

However, his words 'Everyone can get divorced after you getting married' still distressed Julian.

It was not until this moment that he realized that many times, someone would lose what belonged to him sooner or later if he did not cherish it.

Seeing Julian's gloomy face, Ezra quickly said, 'Come on, have a drink. Forget these messy things.'

As he spoke, Ezra took away the wine glass in front of Julian and handed him a bottle of fresh juice.

Although they always liked to throw shit at each other in daily life, in fact, they all knew the importance of each other in their hearts. Ever since Julian was discharged from the hospital due to stomach disease, Ezra had never given him any wine to drink.

Julian took a sip of juice and felt that it was not satisfying at all.

At this moment, only the strong alcohol could comfort him.

Pushing the juice aside, he reached out to get the wine for himself.

Phil kicked him. ‘Stop drinking. If you have something wrong with your body, she wouldn’t want you anymore.’

Julian wanted to kick his ass so bad.

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband

Chapter 118 A Bad Sign

reading more on Grandpa was quite surprised. For a moment, he didn’t know whether to be happy or sad.

His grandson, who was highly educated and an atheist, actually agreed to seek help from a fortuneteller. It could be seen that he really wanted to know what would happen to his marriage with Emelia in the future.

It could even be said that he longed to hear a good answer, which could relieve his inner suffering at the moment.

After four years, his grandson finally realized the importance of Emelia. Grandpa should be happy.

But on second thought, Emelia was now with Viggo, and his grandson might never have another chance. It made Grandpa sad again.

However, he soon calmed down and told Julian, 'Then go to the mountain with me later. Don't go to the company for now.'

Julian was puzzled, 'The mountain?'

'Yes, go to the temple and ask for fortune telling.' Grandpa explained, 'One of my friends is a brilliant fortuneteller who lives in the mountain. He's the best choice for us. First, he is skillful, and second, he can keep it a secret for us.'

Julian had no choice but to agree.

Grandpa lived in a beautiful place with a mountain not far away. It was a famous scenic spot in Riverside City.

Grandpa lived alone all year round. From time to time he went for a walk in the woods, where he met this fortuneteller. They would play chess together. Gradually, they became good friends.

When they arrived at the fortuneteller's house. When the man saw Grandpa Hughes, he quickly invited them to the backyard.

There were several towering trees in the temple.

Julian frowned slightly. Could he say that he didn't like this superstitious place at all? But he didn't know why he had just promised Grandpa to do this.

When did he become a person who would hand over his fate to someone who lived in such a place? However, since he had come here, he had no choice but to follow Grandpa to meet the fortuneteller.

The fortuneteller was about the same age as Grandpa. His beard was white and he looked amiable.

Chapter 119 Flustered for the First Time reading more on On the top floor of the Hughes Group.

Maisie went to Julian's office to discuss the schedule of the next day before knocked off.

'At ten o'clock in the morning, the new book launch of Vincent Longerich will hold on the first floor of Anderson Bookstore in Riverside City. He will arrive at 9:30.'

'That means you have half an hour to talk to him.'

Vincent's novels were all very popular. Same did all the TV series which were adapted from them.

This new book was a long-term novel after Vincent's comeback. Julian planned to buy the rights and promote it in all aspects. In order to show his sincerity, the price he offered to Vincent was also very high.

Julian nodded to show that he got it. Maisie added, 'By the way, Emelia said before that she likes books written by Mr. Longerich very much. Nina gave her tickets to the launch. She will definitely go tomorrow.'

Julian was stunned for a moment, then frowned and asked, 'Does she like Vincent Longerich's book?'

He never knew that she liked attending a signing session, but in his memory, she seemed to like reading very much.

She would read books in her spare time. Sometimes sat on the sofa, sometimes laid on the deck chair on the balcony, and sometimes on the bay window of the study which was warm in the sunshine.

Maisie replied, 'Yes, Emelia also said that Mr. Longerich has always been her idol and role model. She hopes that one day she can become a famous writer and a successful screenwriter like him.'

Julian didn't know what to say.

She was really a weirdo. Other girls chased after the male stars, while she chased after a middle-aged old man like Vincent.

Fortunately, Vincent already had a family. Otherwise, Julian would really hate him.

He looked down and asked casually, 'Is she back?'

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband

Chapter 120 You Can't Failure

reading more on Everyone suddenly became depressed after hearing Maisie's words. Although Julian just targeted a few of them today, if things went on like this, who knew which unlucky guy would run into the same miserable condition?

Maisie wanted to comfort them, but later she found that she was really helpless.

She also felt a little desperate in her heart. Emelia was with Viggo. What if the two of them had been in love for the rest of their lives? Would their boss live in a life with such a bad mood all his lifetime?

Therefore, she had to change the topic. 'It's getting late. Let's get off work first.'

The female colleague asked Maisie mysteriously, 'Why don't you tell us what draws Mr. Hughes in a bad mood? Let's find a way to help him.'

'I don't think we can help.' Maisie answered.

Whoever started the trouble should end it. None of them was Emelia, so no one could stop his worries.

Seeing Maisie's expression, the female colleague immediately pursed her lips and said, 'I guess it's about love.'

A male colleague next to him raised his hand. 'I know how to solve the problem about relationship. Try your best to pursue whoever you like. Even if you cannot get her heart in the future, at least you get no regret, right ?

After saying that, the male colleague scratched his head in confusion. 'But Mr. Hughes is so excellent man that he should be able to get any woman he wants easily. Why would he meet a relationship problem ?'

The others nodded in agreement. 'You are right. How could Mr. Hughes have met with a relationship problem ?'

Maisie also wanted to know why, but their boss happened to meet it.

Moreover, he was crossed in love with his ex-wife which had never been loved by him.

The female colleague still wanted to say something with Maisie, but when she looked up, she suddenly saw Julian, who had come to the office at some point.