

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband - Chapter 301

Emelia shrugged. “Mr. Washburn, you are an experienced actor. You must know many actors became popular because they played jerks. For example, there’s been widespread condemnation of Joffrey in Game of Thrones but the actors got a hit.”

However, whatever Emelia said, Thomas remained unwilling to play this role.

“No. I just want the leading role.” Considering the video, Thomas said in a firm tone.

Julian’s face darkened. “Thomas, for the record, Yvonne knows you are sitting here and negotiating with us.”

“If you keep the video rather than hand it to us, you will be in trouble and danger.”

Julian was telling the truth. Yvonne and Eric would do whatever it took to get this video and destroy it. If Thomas were not cooperative, he might well be killed.

Julian investigated Eric and found that Eric lived abroad all year round. Although Eric looked like a gentleman, he was very ruthless. Otherwise, he wouldn’t have asked Yvonne to fall downstairs herself.

However, Thomas turned a deaf ear to this and thought that Julian was trying to frighten him. Thomas stood up angrily and said, “Mr. Hughes, now that you don’t agree, I should go now.”

“Miss Jones has been charged with an alleged assault. Both she and Vincent will be ruined, and so will this TV show!” That was what Julian and Emelia were worried about.

“You know Emelia is innocent, but you take the opportunity to threaten us. Such a miserable man will never have any prospects.” Julian was being cryptic. In other words, Julian would ban all directors from hiring Thomas.

Julian even planned to deprive Thomas of the secondary character.

“How dare you!” Thomas flushed, turned around, and left angrily.

Julian stared at Thomas and sneered, “He will pay a price for what he did.”

Probably Eric was waiting for Thomas on his way back. And Thomas would be caught soon.

Thinking of this, Julian called Maisie and asked her to follow Thomas’s car.

Few people knew that Maisie was good at fighting. Eric’s people might look down upon her and beat Thomas. And then Maisie could collect evidence.

Thus, Julian remained calm even though the talk broke down.

Julian didn’t get the video from Thomas, but Julian would protect Emelia from anything that might come away.

Anyway, Julian didn’t mind launching the military.

Thomas angrily left the cafe and drove back to his residence.

It had been a long time since Thomas played the leading role last time. Thomas got increasingly anxious when his rivalries became increasingly popular.

Thomas thought he could get the leading role with the video, but Julian was so firm that he did not compromise at all.

If so, Thomas decided to do nothing but wait and see.

After parking the car in the underground parking lot, Thomas got out of the car and locked the door before walking toward the elevator without looking back.

Nevertheless, three burly men suddenly appeared and surrounded Thomas from different directions. Thomas was startled. Julian had warned Thomas of this just now. However, Thomas thought no one dared to hurt him in broad daylight and that Julian was just frightening him...

“What are you doing?” Thomas took out his mobile phone while backing away, intending to call the police.

Nonetheless, that was what the burly men were waiting for. They guessed Thomas saved the video on his mobile phone.

One of the burly men had a baseball bat in his hand. As soon as Thomas took out his mobile phone, that man slammed the bat at Thomas's head, trying to knock Thomas out.

Thomas had played many roles in action films, so he was somewhat agile. He tried his best to dodge the bat, but he was hit on the back.

Thomas was knocked to the ground at once, and so did his mobile phone. One of the burly men immediately leaned over and tried to get the phone.

If Thomas had been hit on the head, he would have died with his head broken. Only then did Thomas, who was lying face down, realize in horror that these men were here to kill him.

Thinking of this, Thomas crawled away to escape, even ignoring his mobile phone.

Just as the man was about to pick up Thomas's phone, he heard a sharp engine acceleration. Then, a black car sped into the parking lot, heading straight for this man.

The black car rushed so fast that this burly man had to take a few steps back.

As the black car turned and stopped in front of the man, it isolated him from the phone. After the door opened, Maisie got down, quickly picked up the phone, and put it into her pocket.

The men all got nervous. After looking at each other, they rushed towards Maisie.

When they were following Thomas, they found that they were being followed by this black car. After they saw that the driver was a woman, they didn't take it seriously.

They even dared to attack Thomas in front of Maisie.

However, when they began to fight with Maisie, they realized they made a mistake.

None of the burly men was a match for Maisie. Besides, it brought them great pain when they were kicked by her high heels.

Maisie was an expert in fighting. Her parents' preference for sons stressed her out. Thus, she always had faith that she would never lose to men, whether it was schoolwork or fighting.

Maisie worked so hard and naturally she was a fighting expert now. Otherwise, Julian would not have asked her to follow Thomas.

Nevertheless, Maisie had to fight with three burly men. Although she managed to escape into the car and drove away after a fierce fight, she was injured more or less.

But it didn't matter at all. Maisie was delighted that she got Thomas's mobile phone and completed the task.

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband - Chapter 302

As for Thomas, when Maisie fought with those burly men, he fainted due to his injuries.

Thomas was severely injured when he was hit by the base bat.

Maisie was not able to save Thomas. After she drove away and got rid of those burly men, she called an ambulance for Thomas.

If Thomas had handed over the video to Julian in the cafe, he wouldn't have experienced this.

After Maisie escaped, those burly men were annoyed.

One of them called Eric and said regretfully, "Boss, we failed. The phone was snatched by a woman."

"What?" Eric was furious. "How dare you!"

The man sighed. "Boss, that woman is a fighting expert. None of us is a match for her..."

Eric was not in the mood to hear this. He interrupted the man. "Hurry up and go abroad. Remember to destroy all communication equipment. You have nothing to do with me. Understand?"

"Yes." The man answered and hung up the phone. After he explained to the other two men, they hurriedly left.

Eric had planned for them to escape abroad before.

According to the plan, they should go abroad after they got the phone. Now that they failed, they still needed to follow the original route, but they had to run from the police.

Julian and Emelia went to visit Maisie in the hospital. Seeing that Maisie was injured, Emelia was about to cry.

After handing Thomas's phone to Julian, Maisie smiled and comforted Emelia. "Don't worry. They are just minor cuts."

Emelia choked, "Thank you, Maisie."

Maisie said seriously. "Don't mention it. Even if you're not Mr. Hughes' girlfriend, you are still my friend. I won't stand by and watch you get framed."

Then, Emelia accompanied Maisie to get her wounds sterilized.

When Maisie put off her clothes, besides the bruises on her arms and back, Emelia saw many hickeys under Maisie's clavicle.

Emelia naturally knew that it was left when Maisie was having sex with someone. Emelia was a little stunned.

But very soon, Emelia figured out what was going on, so she asked in a low voice, "Is it Ezra?"

Maisie laughed to herself. "Do you think I'm asking for it?"

Although Maisie didn't say it was Ezra, Emelia could read between the lines.

Emelia shook her head and said, "Like a moth to a flame, you stick to your love. Your courage deserves my respect, and I don't mean to laugh at you at all."

After Emelia finished speaking, she sighed with emotion. "I was ever as stupid as you, so I have no right to laugh at you."

Back then, Emelia knew that she wouldn't end up well with Julian, but she accepted the marriage arranged by Grandpa Hughes.

Maisie lowered her eyes. "But you and Mr. Hughes have worked it out. He loves you so much, but I..."

Maisie's tone was a little sad, but Emelia didn't know what to say to comfort her.

However, Maisie quickly looked up and said, "But I have never expected to marry Ezra. He is different from Mr. Hughes. As a responsible man, Mr. Hughes was serious about marriage and love. Mr. Hughes will always be attentive to you and your marriage."

"But Ezra is different. He doesn't believe in love and marriage, let alone getting married to me. He can't even love me alone." When Maisie said this, she became increasingly relieved. "Therefore, I only enjoy the process rather than long for his love." "I'm glad that you can think so." Ezra was always involved with tidbits, and Emelia often heard about it.

Now that Maisie had slept with Ezra, Emelia hoped Maisie could take it easy. Therefore, after hearing what Maisie said, Emelia was relieved.

The nurse left after sterilizing the wounds. On second thoughts, Maisie said, "Don't tell Mr. Hughes about me and Ezra, or he will be angry."

"But..." Emelia wasn't good at lying. In addition, Julian would know it eventually, so she didn't think it was feasible.

Before Emelia could finish her words, the door was pushed open. Ezra strode in, followed by Julian with a long face.

After Maisie was injured, Ezra hurried over. Even if Emelia didn't tell Julian about their relationship, Julian realized it was a little strange.

"Where are you hurt?" Ezra asked Maisie with a frown.

"They are just minor cuts." Given that Julian was here, Maisie took a step back and avoided being touched by Ezra.

"Let me see it," Ezra said as he tried to unbutton Maisie's collar.

Words failed Julian.

Ezra was so close to Maisie that he even tried to take off Maisie's clothes. Julian was not an idiot, so he guessed what was going on.

Julian tried his best not to be angry. "What's the matter with you two?"

Julian had warned Ezra many times not to approach Maisie, but Ezra ignored that.

Before Ezra could say something, Maisie said, "Mr. Hughes, please don't blame this on Mr. Cantillo. I am willing to be with him." Hearing this, Julian gave Maisie a glare. Ezra was a little surprised at Maisie's words, so he glanced at her with mixed feelings in his eyes.

"We need to talk later." Julian was not unreasonable. Now that Ezra wanted to check Maisie's wounds, Julian took Emelia out.

Julian was burning with rage. He took a few deep breaths before slowly calming down.

He regarded David and Maisie as his relatives and hoped that they could respectively marry a perfect mate.

But now, Maisie was stuck with Ezra...

Neither Ezra nor Maisie was bad, but they were not perfect for each other.

Ezra's father deceived and abandoned his mother, so he was very repulsive about marriage and love. Ezra insisted he would never get married. On the contrary, Maisie attached great importance to love and marriage.

"I have had a chat with Maisie." Emelia comforted Julian in a gentle voice, "She is much more optimistic than we thought, so I think she is OK with it."

Julian asked incredulously, "That is to say, she knows Ezra doesn't take it seriously, but she can accept it, right?"

Emelia nodded, which made Julian even more shocked.

Julian had been afraid that Maisie would be hurt, but now, he realized he might have worried too much?

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband - Chapter 303

Very soon, Maisie and Ezra walked out. Maisie intentionally walked to Julian and took him to a corner.

After a moment of silence, Maisie said, "Mr. Hughes, I know you are worried about me. Now that I have made such a decision, I'm ready to face whatever consequences come from it."

Julian had known it from Emelia, so he said, "It's great if you can think this way."

After a pause, Julian continued, "You and David have contributed a lot to the Hughes Group these years. We'll be here for you whenever you need us, so don't belittle yourself."

Maisie was born in an impoverished area, which had already laid a giant gap between her and Ezra.

Emelia were once rejected and disliked by Julian's mother. Hence, Julian wanted to cheer Maisie up, and hoped that Maisie would not belittle herself before Ezra because of her family background.

Maisie smiled gratefully. "Thank you, Mr. Hughes."

After the talk, Julian couldn't persuade himself into accepting Ezra, so he sneered. "I'll expect you to act the part, henceforth."

With a smile, Ezra said nothing.

Arthur came over and said, "Thomas is seriously injured. He is bleeding heavily under the spleen and is undergoing surgery."

Maisie said, "Thomas was hit by the base bat. Those men must have wanted to kill him."

That man must have tried his best to hit Thomas.

Julian pursed his lips and said coldly, "He deserves it. Eric is so ruthless, so you'd better be wary of him."

Arthur and Ezra nodded solemnly. Julian said to Ezra, "Take Maisie back to recuperate, and leave the rest to me."

Ezra nodded, turned around, and left with Maisie.

Arthur looked at them in amazement, and murmured, "What happened?"

He didn't know that Ezra was dating Maisie. If Maisie had not been injured today, Julian and Emelia would not have known it either.

Julian was irritated when he heard this. He could somehow understand Vincent's dislike of Ezra.

Although Julian treated Maisie like his sister rather than his daughter, considering his current disapproval towards Ezra, he couldn't imagine what he would do if his future daughter got married.

"Let's take a look at Thomas.

With a sigh, Arthur followed them.

Arthur was also dissatisfied with Ezra. Everyone thought Maisie was a good girl. Now that Ezra couldn't promise Maisie a marriage, why did he date her?

Thomas's surgery went well, and he woke up soon after being sent to the ward. Nonetheless, he was too weak to speak for the time being.

Thomas's agent arrived as well. He was very shocked after hearing what Julian said. If Maisie hadn't arrived in time, Thomas would have been robbed of his mobile phone and killed.

Thomas's agent was much more sensible, so he thanked Julian sincerely.

Standing in front of Thomas's hospital bed, Julian asked blankly, "I'm asking you. Are you willing to hand over the video to us as evidence?"

Thomas struggled for a while, as if he wanted to say something.

Julian sneered. "You can't play the secondary character either. You have missed the chance."

As a serious man, Julian had never wanted Thomas to play any role in this TV show. Without the video, Thomas had no access to the secondary character.

However, Thomas was so greedy that he insisted he should play the leading role. As a result, Julian deprived Thomas of the secondary character as well.

Thomas had no choice but to agree.

If he refused, he would be blocked in the filming industry.

Interrupted by Julian, Thomas flushed. He could do nothing but nod. And then he closed his eyes with regret.

He should have handed over the video to Julian in the cafe...

After Julian got the video, he immediately sent it to Phil. After Phil sent it to the police, Emelia was cleared in that case.

The police then posted this video. While the police declared Emelia's innocence, Phil also issued an announcement,

"According to the video, Miss Sullivan fell downstairs herself, but she pinned that on my client. I have filed a lawsuit against Miss Sullivan on behalf of my client. Those who have abused and defamed my client on the Internet these days will also be brought to court."

Phil's announcement shocked and frightened those who followed suit to abuse Emelia.

Some people abused Emelia on purpose while some people were deceived by Yvonne and thought that Emelia was a vicious woman. However, according to the video, Emelia was innocent...

Many people rushed to apologize and beg for mercy in the comments of Emelia's Twitter account. After reading this, Emelia laughed to herself, canceled her account, and uninstalled Twitter.

Public opinion was a double-edged sword. It could make a person popular, but it could also destroy a person.

Emelia didn't want to pay attention to this anymore.

She just wanted to be herself.

Although Emelia remained calm since she was framed, she must have been very upset. Otherwise, she wouldn't have canceled her account.

Thinking of this, Julian even wanted to kill Yvonne. Since he realized his love for Emelia, he was hostile to anyone who upset her. However, Yvonne tried to hurt Emelia many times. Julian gritted his teeth, called Phil, and told Phil that he wanted Yvonne to be sentenced to life in prison.

Yvonne in the hospital almost fainted from fear after reading the news. Rosalind was shocked as well.

Randolph was in prison now, so Rosalind didn't want Yvonne to be in prison.

Yvonne called Eric, trembling all over. "Eric, did you read the announcement posted by Phil? What should I do now? I don't want to go to jail! "

Eric said calmly on the phone, "Don't worry. You just need to cooperate with the police and make a statement. I will ask the attorney to release you on bail."

Yvonne was scared. "But what if they sue me for the false accusation? Emelia's attorney is Phil. Did you know him?"

Yvonne broke down and roared, "Phil Henderson has never lost a case! I am screwed!"

If Emelia's attorney were someone else, Yvonne might be able to win the case. Nevertheless, Emelia's attorney was Phil, who was well-known in Riverside City. Yvonne thought she was doomed to failure.

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband - Chapter 304

Yvonne was emotionally broken while Eric comforted her on the phone, "Yvonne, you should trust me. I will save you anyway."

"Although Phil is splendid, I hired an attorney from abroad for you."

Hearing this, Yvonne calmed down, "Really?"

Eric said again, "Of course. I won't watch you put in prison."

Eric continued sincerely, "Also, I have done so much for you. Our ultimate goal is to get rid of Emelia and Julian, right?"

Yvonne was completely calmed down by Eric's comfort. Ever since Eric rescued her when she was being threatened by Matt, Yvonne fell for Eric.

In Yvonne's mind, Eric loved her very much. She had abandoned Eric for the sake of wealth and had even slept with Matt, but Eric didn't mind it at all. That was what love was.

After Yvonne calmed down, Eric ordered in a low voice, "If the police asked you, you should insist that you drank too much that day and was out of your mind, so you don't remember what happened."

Hearing this, Yvonne was relieved, but she said aggrievedly, "Okay, I will do as you said, but you must ask the attorney to bail me out quickly."

"Of course," Eric happily replied.

Not long after Yvonne ended the call, the police entered her ward. She fell downstairs without any injuries, so she was directly taken to the police station.

Eric kept his words. One night later, Yvonne was released on bail.

Yvonne hugged Eric and cried a lot. When the police questioned her in the police station, she was trembling all over, and she never wanted to be taken there again.

"Eric, you must protect me away from that kind of place," Yvonne cried and said.

Eric hugged her and comforted her. "You'll be fine."

Rosalind remained worried. "The video has been posted online, so the evidence was clear that Yvonne framed Emelia. How can your attorney help Yvonne win this lawsuit?"

After Rosalind finished speaking, she said dissatisfiedly, "Why didn't you tell me when you made such a decision?"

If Rosalind had known that Yvonne was instigated to frame Emelia, Rosalind would have stopped Yvonne. After all, there was a certain risk.

But since Eric came, Yvonne did whatever Eric said while she turned a deaf ear to whatever Rosalind said.

Hearing this, Eric had a trace of killing intent in his eyes, but he didn't show it.

Instead, he looked at Rosalind with determined eyes and said, "Rosalind, don't worry. I will risk my life to protect Yvonne." Rosalind thought, "Given the evidence, whatever you do will be useless. Besides, Emelia's attorney is Phil."

Compared with Yvonne, Rosalind was a little sensible. Bewitched, Yvonne hugged Eric and said, "Eric, I trust you! I know you will protect me well."

Eric put his arms around Yvonne and said, "Let's eat something delicious."

Yvonne nodded meekly. "Okay." When they said goodbye to Rosalind, Rosalind's left eye began to twitch and she had a bad feeling. Rosalind stopped Yvonne and said, "I don't think you can go out now."

Yvonne said in confusion, "Mom, what's wrong with you? Although I am released on bail, the police don't forbid me from going out."

Rosalind said worriedly, "Don't go out. I'll cook something for you at home."

Yvonne frowned impatiently, "I'm going out to dinner with Eric. Why are you so nervous?"

In Yvonne's opinion, even if people all over the world wanted to harm her, Eric would be an exception.

He had been willing to save her when she was in trouble, so he didn't have to harm her.

Before Rosalind could say something, Yvonne took Eric's hand and walked out, leaving Rosalind angry.

After getting into the car, Eric said to Yvonne, "To comfort you, I decided to cook for you myself."

Yvonne was surprised. "Really?"

Eric said with a smile, "Of course. I've got everything ready. I hope you can enjoy it."

Yvonne hugged Eric's neck. "I'm so happy. You are so great."

Then, they headed to where Eric lived. Eric did not live with Yvonne and Rosalind in the villa. He had another residence, which was a small apartment.

Yvonne once asked him why he didn't live with them.

Eric explained that since the villa was given to them, he shouldn't live there. Eric also said that as long as Yvonne and Rosalind lived comfortably, he was very willing to live in that apartment. Hearing this, Yvonne was very moved.

After they arrived at the apartment, they kissed each other before Eric went to the kitchen to cook.

Yvonne wanted to take off Eric's clothes, but Eric wanted to cook for her now. Yvonne agreed and thought she had more time to do that after the meal.

After Eric walked into the kitchen and closed the door, his eyes turned cold. He washed his hands and lips immediately before starting to cook.

Eric made steaks and pasta, and he poured a glass of juice for Yvonne.

And then, Eric took out a packet of fine powder from a secret cabinet and poured it into the juice with a blank face.

This was meant to be the last supper for Yvonne.

After everything was ready, Eric put on a smile and walked out with the food.

Seeing the steak and pasta, Yvonne was over the moon. "Eric, I think you are comparable to a master chef."

Julian had learned to cook for Emelia, so Yvonne was very jealous. Yvonne didn't expect Eric to do so. She was so excited that she quickly took out her mobile phone to take pictures and post them on social media.

Eric patiently waited for Yvonne to finish posting. Then, he said, "Hurry up and enjoy the food, or it will get cold."

Eric poured himself a glass of red wine, and Yvonne said coquettishly, "I don't want juice. I want to drink wine too."

Wine could make them hornier later.

Eric persuaded, "You have to go home later. Who will drive if we both drink?"

Before Yvonne could say anything, Eric added, "I'm upset today, so I want to drink some wine."

In Eric's mind, if he couldn't drive after drinking, Yvonne would drive later. Whatever happened on the road would have nothing to do with him then.

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband - Chapter 305 A Car Crash

Hearing what Eric said, Yvonne stopped asking for wine but drank juice instead.

They chatted while eating, and Eric was quickly drunk.

Eric covered his face and said in pain, "Yvonne, I really hate Julian. If it weren't for him, we wouldn't have been separated for so many years."

"You are so good, but he did not cherish you at all. He not only canceled the engagement but even fell in love with Emelia! How dare he ignore you! "

Eric's eyes were red when he said this. "Yvonne, if possible, I really want to kill him."

"If I see Julian, I will drive into him desperately. Even if I can't kill him, I would like to die with him to avenge you."

The resentment against Julian in Yvonne's heart had dissipated a lot, but Eric's words reminded her of it. When she remembered, what Julian had done to her, she couldn't help but get angry.

Somehow, Yvonne became increasingly furious, with an impulse to kill Julian.

Eric drunk too much. In addition, Yvonne was upset by the past, so she didn't want to have sex with Eric after the meal. She told Eric that she wanted to go home.

"You drank too much, so just rest at home. I will drive your car back by myself." Yvonne loved Eric so much that she was very considerate to Eric.

Eric murmured, "No, I'll take you back, or I can't be relieved. You can drive, but I must accompany you home."

Without waiting for Yvonne to say anything, Eric added, "Wait a minute. I'll go to the bathroom."

Eric was worried about Yvonne even when he was drunk, so Yvonne was very happy. After carrying her handbag, she leaned against the door and began to wait for him.

In the bathroom, Eric sobered up, took out his mobile phone, and opened an APP.

A red dot on the screen was moving, which meant that Julian and Emelia's car was on the road.

Eric put his phone into his pocket, got up, walked out of the bathroom with a drunk look, took the car key, and went out with Yvonne.

Yvonne drove and said to Eric, "You have drunk too much. After we arrive, don't ask the driver to pick you up. Just sleep in the villa.

"Okay," Eric closed his eyes and replied.

After driving for a while, Yvonne rolled down the window.

In case Eric would feel cold, Yvonne explained, "I was so very excited to eat the food you made. My heart is beating a little faster than before. It's too hot, so I opened the window to get some air."

Eric said softly, "It's okay. I'm not cold."

A few minutes later, Eric said, "Please stop by the roadside. There is a cafe you like in front. I will buy you a cup of coffee." Hearing this, Yvonne was naturally overjoyed.

When Yvonne sat in the car and waited for Eric, she felt increasingly impetuous.

Suddenly, Yvonne saw a car, and the car's license plate number agitated her.

It was Julian's car.

Eric's words began to echo in Yvonne's mind. "If I see Julian, I will hit him no matter what..."

Yvonne was overwhelmed by rage. When she recovered from it, she realized that she had restarted the car and stepped on the gas.

Yvonne was frightened for a moment. She naturally knew that it was illegal to drive a car into someone, which was more serious than a false accusation.

However, the more she tried to be rational, the more she seemed to be out of control. The next second, she drove into Julian's Car.

After a loud bang, Julian's car swayed a few seconds before hitting the guardrail.

Yvonne's head broke and she fainted at once. Eric, who was holding a cup of coffee in the cafe not far away, gave a satisfied smile.

In broad daylight, Yvonne drove her car to crash into Julian's car. However capable Eric's attorney was, he wouldn't be able to defend for Yvonne's "innocence" anymore.

Besides, if Yvonne committed a crime again while on bail, she would have to spend more years in prison.

If Julian or Emelia died in the car, Yvonne would be charged with criminal homicide, and she would be sentenced to death.

After all, Emelia was the daughter of the Longerich family in the Capital and Julian was the leader of the Hughes family in Riverside City.

Eric killed two birds with one stone.

He not only destroyed Yvonne but also hurt Julian and Emelia.

Eric did nothing but add some specially formulated emotional-stimulating medicine to Yvonne's juice.

Eric did not forget to continue his acting.

After the smile, the coffee in his hand fell, Eric ran out in a panic, rushed towards Yvonne's car, and shouted in a miserable voice, "Yvonne!"

Yvonne was in a coma, and then Eric called the hospital.

Eric dialed the number as he looked towards the opposite car. Emelia, who was in the passenger seat, was not hurt at all, but she was crying and shivering, "Julian! Wake up!"

Julian was lying face down on the steering wheel and passed out.

When Yvonne drove into Julian's car, Julian desperately turned the steering wheel, faced himself towards Yvonne's car, and protected Emelia.

Eric wondered how seriously Julian was injured.

Eric hoped Julian was killed.

As he looked into the car, an evil smile played over his lips.

After calling the hospital, Emelia held Julian and cried.

When she looked up, she suddenly saw Eric, who was standing beside Yvonne's car not far away. The next second, an inexplicable fear came over Emelia. This man looked so unfriendly that even the mood around him was subdued.

Emelia and Julian had lunch with Grandpa Hughes today. Emelia has been defamed, so Grandpa Hughes wanted to have a formal talk with them.

Grandpa Hughes tactfully urged Emelia and Julian to remarry each other. Although Emelia didn't say anything, Grandpa Hughes could tell that she had forgiven Julian.

Grandpa Hughes did a good job.

After lunch, Julian said on the way home, "When do you think I should go to the Capital to visit your family and propose marriage to you?"

Emelia was shocked. Julian had seldom been so solemn.

Julian explained, "I owe you a wedding, so I want to make it up to you. A grand wedding, the honeymoon tour, the romantic first night, you'll get all of it."

