

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband - Chapter 341 Move to the Capital

“Is it really worth it for a woman?” Ezra gritted his teeth and said, “Riverside City is your home and we are all here. Are you planning to leave us like this?”

Phil took a sip of wine lazily and unceremoniously said to Ezra, “In front of love, brotherhood is worthless.” Ezra shouted at Phil, “Shut up. You just keep talking about love, but I haven’t seen your wife love you that much.”

Phil was too lazy to care about his words. Those men who have never really loved a woman don’t understand love at all. Only he understands Julian now. If it were him, he would follow her all over the world as well.

Phil supported Julian, Ezra was against it, and Arthur was neutral. Arthur frowned and said to Julian, “Although you sent away Heather, Emelia’s physical condition remains the same, she won’t want to be your burden. I feel that it would be useless for you to be there.”

Julian said in a low voice, “But I can’t do nothing.” He didn’t forget that there was a Winston in the Capital, who was also her admirer.

Ezra got up and walked around, “Do you insist on not letting go? You agreed to break up on the surface, but you were still thinking about her.”

“Can’t you give it a rest? Of all the women you must be with her?” Julian didn’t want to say anything to Ezra. There was nothing to say to someone who didn’t understand love.

He turned to David and explained, “I will be in Riverside City for half a month and stay in the Capital for half a month in the future.”

David was relieved, at least he didn't leave here completely.

But the next second, he felt sorry for Julian. It must be tiring to travel back and forth between the two places.

Ezra was so angry that he drank the wine by himself. Phil sat down beside Julian with a glass of wine and asked solemnly, "Are you sure you can accept there would be just the two of you living together without any child?"

Julian raised his head and drank a glass of wine, "Yes." Phil asked again, "But life is very long. Without children, you may feel lonely. Can you bear it?"

Julian didn't answer his question directly, but instead asked him, "If Anya van Willigen couldn't give you a baby, would you leave her?"

Anya van Willigen was Phil's wife. Phil said without thinking, "Of course not, I love her not because she can give birth to a baby.

Julian said, "Then why do you think I can't accept Emelia?"

Phil said bluntly, "I'm sure I won't leave my wife. But I'm not you and I don't know if your love for Emelia was that deep."

Julian lowered his eyes and said word by word, "No doubt, you love Anya, and I love Emelia too."

"Mine is the same as yours."

His words were clear, so Phil took a sip of wine and said, "Since you are determined, then the key to this matter lies in Emelia, she doesn't want to be your burden, which is not so easy for her to let it go."

“Well,” Julian replied in a deep voice, “I will wait for her no matter how long it’s gonna take.”

Originally, Julian didn’t intend to wait. He wanted to go to the Capital and bring her back to get married, but what Vincent said to him that night made him think for a long time.

To pester her blindly regardless of her feelings is really not what he should do now.

The more he pestered her, the more pain she felt in her heart. This was not love at all.

That’s why he decided to move there.

They certainly won’t collaborate with him in the adaptation of Vincent’s new book. He is ready to terminate the contract and has bought a film and television company there. Of course, no outsiders know about the acquisition of this company.

Then he will ask others to contact them in the name of this company and strive for the right to adapt Vincent's new book.

When the crew is formed and the various departments start to run the project, he will show up. If they want to terminate the contract with him, it will not work and he can get in touch with Emelia at that time.

He admitted that these tricks were shameless, but he had no other choice.

If he went to her openly and honestly, she would avoid it.

Nina stayed in the Capital for a few days, then she returned to the filming crew of 'Princess Leilania'.

Viggo returned to the crew in time after handling his mother's funeral.

Emelia called him and he seemed to have recovered. He even comforted her in turn, "I was already mentally prepared so I was ok. I heard that you were sick."

Emelia said, "I'm fine now, it's not a big deal.

Viggo was silent for a while and then said warmly, "Good. Then just stride forward."

Emelia knew what he meant and she thanked him softly, "Thank you."

Because Viggo was still filming, the two simply chatted for a while and ended the call.

On the other end of the phone, Viggo held the phone and edited the message, and then deleted it.

After repeating that many times, he finally gave up the idea of sending the message to her.

He wanted to tell her that as a 40-year-old man, he has already prepared for no love, no marriage, and no children in his life.

If possible, he hoped she could give him a chance. They would not worry about the children.

However, he chose to give up temporarily. It wasn't the right time to say these words to her.

After Emelia recovered, Vincent started to contact Julian about the termination of the contract. At dinner that day, Vincent said to Emelia, “Julian agreed to terminate the contract as soon as I said it.”

Emelia nodded in relief, “That’s good.”

Then Vincent added, “But he said he would come over in person to deal with the termination of the contract, I guess that he wants to see you.”

Emelia was puzzled, “We haven’t been in touch for so long, how could he still want to see me?”

Emelia had thought that Julian would be unwilling to let go, but in fact, they had no contact for the past half a month. So, she thought that he might accept the ending of their separation.

After all, not every man in this world can accept having no child as Vincent did.

Vincent said, “Otherwise, what would a boss like him fly all the way to do? It should be his subordinates to handle such trivial matters.”

Emetia shook her head and said, “Maybe he is just being more serious. That is a big thing for a company.”

Vincent continued, “I mean, no matter what his intentions are, you should go and meet him.”

Without waiting for her to say anything, Vincent added, “Although you left him a letter, it is more appropriate to say goodbye formally since it was a peaceful breakup. ”

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband - Chapter 342 Ten Years

Next

Emelia accepted his suggestion. He was right about that; she should say goodbye to Julian formally. Julian came to the Capital two days later, and they planned to meet at a coffee shop near his home.

When Julian was sitting on the sofa in the cafe and saw that it was Emelia who came, he laughed and said, "I thought you would avoid meeting with me."

It has always been Vincent or his assistant who contacted him about the termination of the contract.

Julian did not expect to see Emelia this time, but she unexpectedly showed up.

Seeing her coming from a distance through the glass window of the cafe, he had the illusion that it was like a world away.

That day he set off to rescue Caroline at Avonsor Hill. Before leaving, she was still worried about him with red eyes in his arms, but now they have broken up.

Julian wanted to question her about the breakup. Did he agree with that? Since he didn't agree, they should still be a couple. Her unilateral announcement of their breakup meant nothing.

But he also clearly knew that would only make their relationship more rigid at this time.

Soa, he could only endure the bitterness and unwillingness in his heart. She had thinned down a lot and her face was so small that he could almost cover it with one hand now.

Julian felt distressed and the resentment against her in his heart dissipated a little.

Emelia took a seat opposite him, ignoring his tight gaze, and responded with a slight smile, "It's a peaceful breakup between us."

Julian managed to calm down a bit, but when he heard what she said, he was so angry that his stomach hurt.

He pressed his anger and asked her, "Do you think it is peaceful?"

She was cruel. He has been tormented since the day she left while she thought that they broke up peacefully.

Emelia couldn't understand his sudden anger. He said or did nothing for the past half month. Didn't that mean he accepted the breakup?

Julian couldn't hold back anymore. He gritted his teeth and complained, "I have never agreed to break up." Emelia was so shocked that she suddenly stood up, "What do you mean?" She swore that if he said something about hell-bent on getting her back, she would leave immediately.

Julian read her thoughts at a glance, then he took a deep breath and calmed down, "It's nothing. Let's get down to business. He didn't want to scare her away as soon as he met her.

Julian took the initiative to mention the business and Emelia was relieved. She sat down again and talked to him about work.

She thought it would be easy to terminate the contract, but she didn't expect Julian to say so many things. The two sat in the cafe for nearly an hour and she almost drained her coffee.

She suspected that Julian was deliberately stalling.

Finally, when they reached an agreement and signed and sealed the agreement, Emelia wanted to leave without stopping for a moment.

It seemed that she was calm, but in fact, she was uncomfortable as if her heart was being fried on a pan.

They love each other, but they can't be together.

Julian stopped her, "Did Vincent say he would take you to see some famous doctors?"

When Julian mentioned this, Emelia's expression froze. She lowered her eyes and replied in a low voice, "Yeah."

But she didn't want to bring up this topic, so she said, "Since we both agreed on the termination of the contract, then that's it. I need to go now."

After she finished speaking, she wanted to get up and leave, but Julian suddenly held her hand on the table. Emelia was frightened.

"What are you doing?" Emelia tried to withdraw her hand, but she couldn't because he held her hand tightly.

Julian stared at her with deep eyes, and suddenly spit out two words, "Ten years."

Emelia was at a loss, "What?"

Julian squeezed her hand, "I'm giving you ten years to seek medical treatment. I'll wait for you."

When Emelia came back to her senses, she was terrified. Julian was crazy. Ten years? Did that mean he wouldn't get married and start a family for ten years?

Just as he expected it, he let go of her hand, leaned lazily on the back of the sofa, and said, "Don't worry, a man can still have a child at the age of 60 or 70. In ten years, I will be forty. If you still don't want to be with me, it's not too late for me to get married and have children with another woman."

He was serious about waiting for her for ten years, but about marrying another woman and having children after ten years, that was not true. No matter how many years later, he would never marry another woman.

In other words, he'll be waiting for her forever.

Emelia was so shocked that her face turned pale.

Ten years was a long time, so he would just waste ten years of his life like this?

He was crazy!

In the end, she scolded him angrily, "You are crazy!"

Then she got up, carried her bag, and left in a hurry without looking back. Vincent said that she should say goodbye to him. In this situation, she didn't want to talk to him anymore.

Goodbye, better not to see him again.

Julian watched her back, feeling reluctant and slightly annoyed.

He didn't want to scare her with such words, but he couldn't stand her pretending that nothing had happened. So, he said something about waiting for her for ten years on the spur of the moment.

Then she turned pale with fright.

If he said he would wait for her forever, she would faint from fright.

It wasn't until Emelia went into the car that Julian came to his senses and made a call, "Mr. Spence, you can start to contact Vincent".

He made a call to Trevor Spence, the boss of the newly acquired company Starixo. The most important reason why he chose this company was that it was an old-fashioned film and television company and had a good reputation in the industry for many years.

Moreover, Trevor and Vincent got along. In those days, they had a collaboration a few years ago and it went hit at that time.

However, with the great changes in the entertainment market, the company seemed to be on a downward trajectory these years for being unable to keep up with the change.

When Julian mentioned the acquisition to him, Trevor immediately agreed.

Julian had already told him that the company was still temporarily in the charge of Trevor and he will not come forward first.

As for his relationship with Emelia, he also briefly explained to him that the two of them were having trouble and Emelia was angry with him now, so he had to approach her in this way to win her forgiveness.

He didn't mention anything about her physical condition.

He would not allow this news to be spread out. Fortunately, only a few of them knew about it so far.

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband - Chapter 343 Can't Wait to Move Out

Emelia started to cry as soon as she got into the car.

She felt heart broken when she heard Julian said something like he would keep on waiting for ten years.

How could she be so cruel to let him simply wait for her for ten years?

He was thirty years old now, which was the best golden age for a man. If he wants to have a child, he certainly is now in his best age and the best genes status. What did he meant by saying he would wait for 10 years?

Emelia was angry with him but also felt sorry for him. Tears kept coming from her eyes and she cried more fiercely.

He was torturing himself as well as her at the same time.

She just hoped what he said was just a whimper and he would not take it seriously.

As soon as the news of HGH's terminating the contract with Vincent Longerich came out, Vincent began to receive calls from other major companies looking for cooperation. But Vincent was a little surprised to receive a call from Trevor Spence of Starixo.

He had a good relationship with Trevor. And he also knew that Starixo has been going through a tough time in recent years.

Trevor used to joke that Vincent should quickly come back and write a new book for him to shoot a movie. If Vincent had written a book, he could have still saved Starixo. However, he had paused his career to take care of Naomi Shuster a few years ago.

"Vincent, I won't talk any nonsense. Let's get straight to the point. I hope you can consider about letting us Starixo film your new drama this time." Trevor was sincere.

Vincent frowned slightly, "Trevor, since you are so straightforward, I will bluntly express my concerns. Does Starixo still have the money and capacity to film this drama?"

Trevor was not a person who always kept up with the times and trends. In addition, after Trevor became rich, rumors and gossips about him were spread all over the city. And he later spent less time on the company management, and the situation of Starixo was going worse and worse day by day.

“I Gotta Find You” was his new book after years, so Vincent never considered working with Trevor this time.

“Don’t worry about this. As soon as I heard that you had terminated the contract with HGH, I immediately managed to bring up a big investment to film your script wholeheartedly.” Trevor tried his best to promote himself and Starixo, “Starixo prides itself at teamwork and film making. I’m going all in this time. We are all counting on your new project to get back on our feet. I’ll take it serious for sure.”

“Are your investors reliable?” Trevor was full of sincerity. Vincent had to come back to this question.

Patting his chest as if he had sworn, Trevor assured, “They are absolutely reliable. Now the money has been credited to the company’s account. You can come to Starixo and check it out if you are worried.”

Vincent tried to double check him, “Who knows if you will spend this money for other purposes?”

How could Trevor not understand what he meant. He quickly said, “Don’t worry. I am not so stupid that even forget what situation Starixo is in now. If I don’t change this situation this time, I will never be able to get back on my feet again.”

“That’s good.” Vincent didn’t say anything more, “I will consider about Starixo. But I have to discuss it with my daughter.” After saying this, Vincent hung up the call with Trevor first.

This man Trevor... Vincent didn’t know how to judge him.

Trevor had the ability to run the company, but he was such a playboy. Especially he was running a film and television company and working with a lot of artists. As time goes by, there were rumors about Trevor and some female artists.

Trevor's wife saw that he had no intention of repentance. So she went abroad to live with their children in a rage. But it was also announced that they would never divorce, and those sluts would never become the wife of Trevor.

Without the control of his wife, Trevor became even more absurd. He didn't even care about the company at all. Vincent couldn't think of anyone that would invest in Trevor. Won't they be afraid that Trevor could waste their money?

Vincent reached the conclusion that the person who invested in Trevor was either a big boss who was so rich that he could only spend money blindly, or a skilled man who is capable enough to hold Trevor down and make Trevor focus on the jobs.

If the latter was the situation, Vincent was willing to help Trevor.

Emelia received a call from Viggo that day. Viggo said on the phone, "I will be at the Capital at noon. And I will attend an awards ceremony in the evening. Shall we have a meal together at noon?"

Emelia couldn't refuse Viggo's invitation for any reason, so she agreed.

The two made an appointment at a restaurant near the hotel where Viggo was staying. Viggo couldn't help but say at the first sight of Emelia, "You've lost a lot of weight."

She was so skinny that he was worried that the winter strong wind in Capital could blow her away. "I did lose some weight, but it also saved me from exercising on purpose." Emelia said with a smile after Viggo's words.

After being seated, Viggo took the initiative to say, "I'm here mainly to talk to you about your labor contract with Tymers.

Entertainment. I think since you'll settle in Capital for a long time, there's no need to rely on Tymers Entertainment. You can work as a freelancer."

Emelia was surprised and moved, "Thank you..." Although her work as a screenwriter at Tymers Entertainment was not that bothering before, she still had to go to the company for meetings or attend some important occasions if necessary. Now that she would be stay in Capital, it indeed would be inconvenient for her to go back frequently.

She had thought about taking the initiative to talk to Viggo about it, but she was worried that Viggo and Tymers Entertainment would think she was arrogant to go solo. So she never said it. She didn't expect that Viggo would take the initiative to bring it up considerately.

Viggo poured her a cup of tea, "The roses in your hand, the flavor in mine. You don't need to worried about it, I'll let HR contact you and deal with the specific procedures."

"Yeah." Emelia replied.

The news of Emelia having dinner with Viggo quickly reached Julian's ears. Julian couldn't help but getting upset. Viggo was really relentless. The filming schedule of 'Princess Leilania' was so packed, and he could still spend time with Emelia.

His reason was to talk to Emelia about the termination of the contract. In fact, he just missed her and wanted to meet her.

How shameless.

It seemed that he has to go to the capital and settle down as soon as possible. Besides Viggo, there was another man, Winston Hopkins, in the capital. As far as he knew, Winston had asked her out twice since Emelia's illness. One was taking her for the exhibition, and another was drinking coffee.

Even though he knew that Emelia wouldn't agree to be with Winston, Julian was still upset about it.

David Brennan knocked on the door and walked in. After reporting his work, David said, "Mr.

Hughes, I got news that Mr.

Longerich had just paid for the house in Cadiz Garden for Ms. Jones yesterday afternoon. The apartment is right next to the building of Nina Sanchez. Do you want to arrange your place here too?"

Julian agreed without any hesitation, "Yeah." He couldn't accept living far away from her. It would be a waste of time to travel half the city to meet each other.

David was a little embarrassed, "But I checked on the house that, among all the room currently for sale in this community, only the one located downstairs of Ms. Jones' place was suitable for you. But if you two live closely, wouldn't she find out you are living there soon?"

As for those other apartments, either the apartment shape was not suitable, or the floor was not suitable. The worse situation was the awful decoration style. His boss needed an apartment that can move in directly, and the decoration of the house must be decent and elegant.

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband - Chapter 344 Secret Appointment

"It doesn't matter, then downstairs it is." Julian decided rapidly.

He didn't want to hide the news from Emelia for too long. As long as Starixo could get Vincent's new project, he would confess to and work with Emelia immediately.

The reason why he made such a detour to approach Emelia was he just wanted to get along with her.

David asked again, "Then do you want to take a look at the place in person?"

Now it was convenient to check on a house even online. A VR tour could help you take a closer look at the whole place. David personally thought that the house was perfect in every way. But after all, it was the place where Julian would live in the future. He might want to see it himself.

"No, I believe in your taste." David has been working for him for so many years. If he can't even handle this, then he would be fired from the position of the special assistant of the president.

David replied, "Okay, then I'll go to place the order right away."

When he was about to get off work, Julian received a call from Nina. Nina invited him to have dinner. If the invitation came from other female stars, Julian would have hung up the phone long ago. But since Nina was Emelia's best friend, Julian certainly won't reject this invitation.

The appointment was at Ezra's restaurant. As soon as Julian entered the door, Nina asked him aggressively, "Why did you tell Emelia that you will wait for her for ten years?"

It made Emelia sad and crying on the phone for a long time. Not to mention how distressed Nina was when she heard Emelia cry.

Julian sat down gracefully, "I'm just telling the truth."

"The truth? Didn't you guys all tacitly agree that the two of you had broken up? Why did you say that?" Nina stood up with her hands on her hips in anger. Her tone was not pleased at all.

Julian frowned, "How on earth can you tell that I tacitly agree to broke up with her?"

Nina snorted, "Haven't you contact with her for so many days? Isn't that the sign of tacitly agree?"

Julian was rendered speechless

Well, from their perspective, his move of not disturbing and giving her time to restore her body and calm her mood became a sign of he giving up on her?

He looked at Nina and tried to explain himself, "I could even die for her. Do you think I'll give up on her in this situation?" Nina stared at him with her hands supporting the table and asked, "What do you mean? You mean that you still love her?" "Of course," Julian declared. "I love her, and I won't give up on her."

Nina frowned and looked at him for a while, then asked, "Then the reason why you don't go to her now, is you giving some time to Emelia?"

Many people thought Nina was a brainless beauty, but she was actually very smart.

"Yes." Julian felt that he didn't need to hide his intentions in front of Nina. After all, he may need Nina's help with many things in the future.

Nina sat down in the chair again, and her beautiful eyes flashed a sense of mockery, "Julian, to be honest, I'm used to think of you as a scumbag before. I feel like I am dreaming when I see your affectionate face now."

Nina said this because she was shocked by Julian's true love for Emelia.

The three-year marriage of Emelia and Julian was indeed so hard and miserable that Julian still had a deeply rooted negative image in her mind.

Although Julian has realized that his love for Emelia and had begun to pursuit Emelia since Emelia returned to the country and although Julian had protected Emelia in the car accident, Nina still felt like she was not sure about his love and emotion.

Until this moment, Julian frankly confessed his feelings for Emelia in front of her word by word, and now Nina had a confirmed feeling and really realized that Julian was serious about Emelia.

Facing the fact that Nina called himself as a scumbag, Julian was not angry. But he asked Nina instead, "You seem to be angry about me?"

Nina didn't hide her emotions, "Yeah, actually, very angry about you."

"Oh?" Julian suddenly wanted to hear how scumbag he used to be, "Then tell me what you think of me before?"

Nina opened her mouth and wanted to scold Julian, but then she thought that all these have long passed, and Julian was very affectionate and loyal now. she gave up her complaint, "Forget it, you didn't love her in the past. Every behavior of you certainly didn't take her into consideration."

Nina didn't want to argue about what Julian had done to Emelia in the past. It's enough for her if he cherishes Emelia in the future.

"She had lived a miserable life. There is no happiness or warmth in her life for so many years. I originally thought that she could finally achieve a happy ending with you. And she might be able to finally have someone love and cherish her in the future. But god knows that these happened again."

Nina's eyes went red as her saying. She felt really sorry for Emelia.

Julian said gently, "You have been friends for so many years. Why can't she be less sensitive just like you?"

"The hell I am insensitive!" Nina resented, "If she was like me, she wouldn't be Emelia anymore."

Julian sighed, "As for this, I wish she could be insensitive and completely indifferent to other's opinions."

After Julian finished speaking, he poured a glass of wine for Nina, raised the glass and implored solemnly, "I beg for your helps of saying something good about me in the future."

Nina glanced at him sideways, couldn't help laughing. But Julian added, "Please, persuade her not to meet that man, Winston Hopkins, oh, and Viggo Johansen."

Nina rolled her eyes, "If you're jealous, at least you can do this decently, okay?"

"Mr. Johansen just invited her to talk about the termination of the labor contract. As for Winston, it was Uncle Longerich who ask him to take Emelia out for relax."

Julian stressed angrily, "These are all excuses! They are taking advantage of me!"

They just took advantage of him that he was inconvenient to meet Emelia. And they took the chance to try their best to show off themselves in front of Emelia.

"Okay, fine. You are the boss. Whatever you say is right." Nina thought that she couldn't resist the man who was lost in the jealousy.

"It'll be her birthday in a few days. Do you have any plans?" Julian asked Nina.

Emelia's birthday was the tenth day of the lunar November. He had never remembered anything about her before. But now every time he learned something about her, he swore that he would never forget it again.

Nina thought about it seriously and said, "I should be filming in the crew."

Julian was dissatisfied, "Your best friend will be celebrating her birthday, whale you go to work instead of thinking about her celebration?"

Nina threw up her hands, “We have been best friends for so many years. And we don’t care about the celebration for a long time.”

Nina certainly knew Julian’s intentions, “Tell me your plan, I will cooperate with you.”

“You can ask her to go out to a hot spring or have a meal together. And I will pretend to meet her by chance.” Julian can only meet her this way. Nina was her best friend, and she should not suspect that Nina was helping him.

Nina was asking, “Oh, you can really think about this trick. What if she finds out that I betrayed her and break up with me?”

Julian stared at her with his dark eyes. Nina had to compromise, “OK, I’ll make an appointment.”

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband - Chapter 345 Unexpected Meet-up

Nina managed to invite Emelia to go to the hot spring, but only on the second day of Emelia’s birthday. Because the Longerich Family wanted to hold a birthday party for her on her birthday, and she couldn’t go out.

This was Emelia’s first birthday since she returned to the Longerich Family. The Longerich Family attached great importance to it. They gathered many relatives and friends to celebrate her birthday together.

The elder couple of the Longerich Family originally wanted to arrange a grand birthday party for her in the biggest hotel in the capital, but Emelia refused.

She understood that the Longerich Family favored her, but she wasn't the kind person that love to show off. And she didn't want to celebrate her birthday in such a great form. So in the end, the old lady and the others agreed with her.

Since she was the birthday star, of course they had to respect her opinion. They only invited people from the Longerich Family and held a small birthday party at the Longerich Family old house.

Nina was also invited to the birthday party. After drinking some wine, Nina wrapped an arm around Emelia's shoulder and couldn't help but said enviously, "I really admire the kind family you have now."

"My family... I can never count on that." Nina's tone was filled with loneliness and self-deprecation. Emelia comforted her, "In the future, you may have your own family. It will definitely be warm and harmony."

Nina said sadly, "If you couldn't marry the man you love, even if you do have a family in the end. How can you say that you are happy?"

"Then try to marry Cameron Dauster." Emelia was certainly aware of Nina's mind.

Nina flattened her mouth, "Forget it. I'm ready to die alone."

Nina suddenly changed the subject again, "Speaking of which, I think it's such a pity that you and Julian broke up like this." Emelia looked at her puzzledly, "Didn't you always support my decision? Why did you speak for him instead?"

Nina always supported any decision she made. Nina supported Julian when she married, and Nina also supported her divorce.

This time, when she broke up with Julian. Nina had also supported her at the beginning. But why did she think it is a pity now? Nina sighed, "Haven't I suffered enough from love? I hope you can cherish this happy relationship you have right now.” Emelia lowered her eyes and murmured, “I want to cherish it too...”

Nina took the opportunity to persuade her, “Let’s ignore all the rumors and gossip, and just do whatever we want, okay?” Emelia knew what Nina meant. She wanted her to stay with Julian, with or without children.

“But I can’t hurt him.” She was still rational, “He is so excellent and extraordinary. He deserves a complete and perfect family.” How could a family without children thought to be complete? How could it be perfect?

Nina snorted, “Then what about the DINK families? They could just break up?”

“Most of the DINK families don’t want children themselves. They are not doing it because they can’t have children. My situation is different.” Emelia asked Nina with a frown when she said this, “What’s the matter with you today?”

Nina ducked the question, “Take it as I am somehow drunk tonight. My brain is a little out of control.”

With that saying, she fell on Emelia’s shoulders as if she was dizzy. Emelia thought she was really drinking too much, so she didn’t think about it anymore.

The next day Emelia and Nina set off for the hot springs. Vincent and Naomi were both very happy that Emelia can go out fora walk. For one thing, it is really comfortable to go to the hot springs in winter. For another, Emelia can also relax.

The two also specially asked Nina to take good care of Emelia and have a good time. It would be fine even if they stay at the hot spring resort at night. Nina smiled and nodded.

Emelia drove, while Nina sat comfortably in the co-pilot’s seat.

“Well, we haven’t had such a leisure time for a long time.” Nina sighed.

When they were in college, the two often traveled together around the country. Ever since Emelia married Julian, she had focused all her life on Julian. There’s no time for them to travel around.

At that time, Emelia was so depressed because of Julian’s neglect, and she was not in the mood.

In addition, Nina gradually gained popularity at that time. Her every move was magnified to the spotlight, and she could hardly go out in private.

So this short-distance trip turned out to be the first time they traveled together in so many years.

“Yeah, it’s hard to do this.” Emelia also felt her heart filled with mixed emotions.

“Nina, thank you.” Emelia knew that the reason why Nina asked her to go to the hot spring was to help her relax.

Nina, who was thanked by her this way, felt somehow guilty. She then said quickly, “It seems a little too quiet. Let me play some music.”

After she said that, she quickly took out her phone, lowered her head, and scrolled the phone to find the song. If Emelia knew that she was going to the hot spring for Julian, she would be sad.

It was noon when they arrived. After a brief lunch at the hot spring resort, they changed into swimsuits and went to the hot spring.

After soaking in the warm pool, Emelia asked Nina puzzledly, “Why is there no one along the way here?” From the time they checked in at the reception until they went to the hot spring pool, they didn’t see anyone except the staff along the way.

It stood to reason that the winter was a good season for hot springs. This resort was also very famous. How could there be no one here?

Nina was leaning on the hot spring wall and said with a chuckle, "I've booked the whole venue."

"Huh?" Emelia was surprised.

Nina said lazily, "I'm a popular actress anyway. I can't just go to a hot spring with a lot of people.

What should I do if the paparazzi take inappropriate photos and make up gossip of me?"

Emelia then understood, "Indeed."

Seeing Emelia has believed this, Nina secretly let out a sigh of relief. It was true that the whole place had been booked today.

But she didn't do this. It was certainly the big boss Julian.

For one thing, Mr. Hughes didn't want people to disturb him from getting along with Emelia. He asked Emelia out with all these efforts, and he didn't want to be disturbed by strangers.

For another, he didn't want Emelia in a swimsuit to be seen by other men. The hot springs here were not separated by men and women. If he didn't book the whole venue, other men would get to see the gorgeous Emelia.

Nina was speechless when she heard Julian's reasons. What would they do when they go to the beach in the future? The beach could be full of nearly naked men and women.

But Nina didn't have any dissatisfaction about Julian's idea of booking the whole place. She also wanted a private and peaceful trip. God knows how inconvenient it is for a popular female star.

Emelia and Nina soaked comfortably in both the indoor and outdoor hot springs. Then they went to take a bath, changed into dry clothes, went to the leisure area on the second floor to eat some fruit or snacks to restore their energy.

They stepped into the leisure area. But Emelia saw Julian and Ezra at the first glance, who were sitting leisurely by the deck chair drinking tea. They were wrapped in the bathrobes embroidered with the resort logo, and they seemed to be preparing to go to the hot spring.

Emelia froze in place and couldn't move. What was going on? Why was Julian here? It was Nina next to her who spoke first and asked the two in surprise, "Mr. Hughes? Mr. Cantillo? Why are you here?"

Nina deserves her credits as an actress. Her surprised expression was so real that Emelia thought their encounter was indeed a coincidence.

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband - Chapter 346 Are You Okay

"We are coming for the hot spring." Ezra answered this question with a smile, and then greeted them again, "What a coincidence! How could you two also be here too?"

Although Ezra strongly disagreed with Julian's continuing pursuit of Emelia, he still respected Julian's choice. Julian asked him to help him with the coincident meet up, so he could only do it.

Phil Henderson had to accompany his wife; and Dr. Arthur Hudgens was busy working. So, he was the only one left to help Julian.

Emelia came back to her senses, turned around asked Nina, "Didn't you say that you've booked the whole place?" "Yeah." Nina was also confused, but the expression was her acting.

"Even so, VIPs still have the rights to enter." Ezra gave this answer.

Emelia pursed her lips. Yes, VIPs like Julian and Ezra were indeed distinguished guests. They must have contacted the owner of this place. Even if the whole place was booked by someone else, they could still come in.

After some analysis, Emelia believed Ezra's excuses. She couldn't suspect that her best friend Nina was colluding with Julian, right?

Thinking of Julian, Emelia's glance fell on Julian who had not spoken. However, her glance happened to meet up with Julian's eyes. The man's gaze at her was intense. Emelia's heart raced faster, and she quickly looked away.

There was even a slight blush on her face. It seemed that there's a very real chemistry between her and Julian that it even made her blush and her heart flutter.

She was the first to fell in love with him, but he didn't respond to her. Later, they went divorced. Although he wanted to get her back later, she ran away from him determinedly. In both cases, there's no chemistry.

Now they were in love with each other, but they couldn't be together. However, their eyes were filled with affection. This was why they got that unspoken thing between them.

Emelia looked away, while Julian said calmly, "Since we were all here, let's sit together and chat for a while." It's an invitation for Emelia and Nina Emelia didn't want to sit over there. She didn't think they relationship between her and Julian was suitable for them to stay together.

Nina didn't want to force Emelia to go there. In that way, she would expose the secret that she was deliberately matching Emelia and Julian?

In the end, it was Ezra who came forward to mediate the situation. He came over and invited them like a gentleman, "Isn't it just a breakup? No one stipulates that you can't have a cup of tea together after you breakup, right?"

Before Emelia could say anything, Ezra pulled her to sit at their table.

She could only sit down beside Julian.

When she was taking her seat, her arm accidentally touched Julian's arm. The moment their skin touched, Emelia felt like she was electrified, the tingling feeling.

Of course, it's quite embarrassing.

After quickly retracting her arms, she asked Ezra, "Aren't you guys in Riverside City? Why did you come here for hot spring?"

Emelia has been wondering about this question since just now. Julian and Ezra were both working in Riverside City. Why did they come here for the hot springs?

Ezra explained with a smile, "Isn't now the end of the year? All kinds of awards ceremonies and banquets will be held in the Capital, and we will be staying in Capital recently."

"Oh." Emelia answered and said nothing.

Why didn't Julian stay in Capital all day long at the end of the year a few years ago?

"Sorry, I need to get this call." Nina chatted for a while but then use this excuse to slip away.

When Ezra saw it, he got up and said, "I'm going to the bathroom."

And he also run away. For the moment, only Emelia and Julian were left at the table.

Emelia felt like she was sitting on fire at the moment. Her brain was running fast, thinking about a reasonable reason to leave here.

Before she could think of an excuse, Julian spoke to her first. But he was quite polite, "How are you doing recently?"

“I am good.” Emelia smiled lightly, somehow alienated.

After she finished speaking, she noticed that Julian didn't take back the gaze that kept staring at her.

Instead, the gaze was a little darker and dimmer, as if he was dissatisfied with her simple words.

She had to ask politely, “How about you? How are you recently?” “Not very good.” Julian was also frank. “I'm very busy at the end of the year. And grandpa is sick again. I'm a little overwhelmed.”

“What happened to Grandpa?” Emelia's attention was instantly attracted by the illness of grandpa.

Julian took a sip of tea and said, “It's still the old problem. Caroline is gone, and I break up with you again. He couldn't take it for now and was hospitalized.”

Emelia lowered her eyes and didn't speak, feeling sad in her heart.

Julian then said, “If you still remember how kind grandpa was, please take the time to go back and visit him.”

Emelia was feeling okay if he didn't say that. But now Emelia felt extremely guilty for grandpa.

Yes, she should go and visit the grandpa.

She originally thought that she would be filial to grandpa after remarrying Julian. But God knew that she would be the one who hurt grandpa the most.

Although she didn't mean to, part of the grandpa's grief was indeed caused by her.

Grandpa liked her so much that he tried his best to promote her marriage with Julian. He must be the saddest one after knowing her physical condition.

Julian could tell the guilt and self-blame in her heart at a glance. He said softly, “Don't think too much. Grandpa was not the kind of old-fashioned person, and he won't mind about your infertility.

The bigger reason of his sadness is that his grandson will continue to be single again.” There was a tinge of sadness in Julian’s tone.

Emelia pretended that she didn’t hear it, and said, “You’ll forget about me after a while, and then it’ll be fine to meet other women again.”

After Emelia said these words, her heart seemed to be blocked by something. She even felt hard to breathe for a while.

“I’ll go and check why Nina hasn’t come back yet.”

She got up and plan to leave. She had just turned around but hear Julian whisper behind her, “Happy birthday.”

Emelia froze for a moment, then realized that Julian was giving her a belated birthday greeting.

She adjusted her mood, turned around and gave him a smile politely, “Thank you.”

They had known each other for so many years, and it was the first time that he has said happy birthday to her. But she didn’t expect to be in such circumstances. Emelia left in a sullen mood.

Not long after Emelia left, Ezra came back. He asked Julian puzzledly, “Why did you let her go?”

Julian lowered his eyes and drank the tea, “What else can I do?”

“Running here and making an appointment with all these efforts, you could at least hug or cuddle her. Doesn’t it suck to restrain yourself like this?” Ezra couldn’t understand what Julian was thinking.

Didn’t he miss her like crazy? Why did he become a gentleman when they meet?

“You think I don’t want to?” Julian said powerlessly, “But if I do that to her now, I’m afraid she will avoid me like I’m a beast , and it will be even more difficult for me to see her.”

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband - Chapter 347 Confession with Drones

Ezra looked at his helpless and aggrieved look at the moment, and suddenly laughed, "What is the old saying? Everything comes with a price."

"You used to neglect her for three years in every possible way, and now you have to spend much more effort to pursue her again."

"When she just returned to the country not long ago, you found out how you feel about her and pursuit her with all your strength.

And now you have to start all over again. Karma is a bitch."

Ezra gloated as he spoke.

Julian didn't bother to pay attention to him. He asked instead, "Have you prepared everything?" The reason why he asked Emelia out was not only to meet her, but also to celebrate her birthday.

Yesterday, the Longerich family held a birthday party for her. He saw it from the photos posted by Nina's Twitter. He also felt the deep love of the Longerich family for her. He felt relieved for her.

But he also wanted to celebrate her birthday for her again in his own way. He also knew that she would not accept any material gift he gave her at the moment, so he prepared something else for her.

"Don't worry, everything is ready." Ezra's answer was affirmative.

Julian believed in Ezra's ability and didn't say anything. They went to the hot spring after the tea.

Emelia found Nina in their hotel room. Emelia thought over along her way to hotel room. Julian and Ezra could never have met them here by chance.

So she stared at Nina angrily, "You told Julian that we are in this hot spring resort, right?"

Seeing that she had guessed it, Nina didn't lie to her. She handed Emelia a bottle of water and said,

“He called me for help, and I can't reject it.”

Emelia sighed, “With you helping him this way, when will he be able to forget me?”

Nina immediately admitted her mistake, “It's my fault, and I dare not do it again next time.”

Nina didn't persuade Emelia to reconsider her relationship with Julian. She knew that this romantic kind of thing was not something they can figure in a few words, so she simply hugged Emelia and kept apologizing to her.

Of course, Emelia wasn't really mad at Nina. She asked Nina again, “When are you going back to Riverside City? I'll go back with you.”

“Aren't we still skiing here tomorrow?” Nina said, “I have booked a flight back tomorrow night. What happened?” “Julian said that the grandpa is ill. I want to go back to visit his grandpa.” Emelia's tone was a little sad.

Nina whispered, “Is he really sick? Could it be the false information that Julian deliberately tricked you to go back?” Emelia shook her head, “It should be real. He won't lie to me with his grandpa's body.”

Nina then said, “Then you can go back with me tomorrow night. The grandpa used to be very good to you. You should indeed visit him.”

“Yeah.” Emelia nodded, took out her phone and booked the same flight as Nina.

During dinner, Ezra knocked on their door and kindly invited them, “Ladies, do you want to have dinner together?”

“No need.” Nina declined. “Although the whole venue is booked, there are still strangers here. If the four of us were photographed partying together, it is estimated that there will be another wave of rumors.”

Nina’s words did make sense. The identities of them were indeed very sensitive.

First of all, she was a popular actress, and Ezra was a playboy. If they were photographed in the same scene, those paparazzi would let their imagination run wild.

Then as for Julian and Emelia. After HGH announced the termination of the contract between Julian and Vincent, the public was wondering about what caused this to happen.

Most people guessed that it was because Julian and Emelia’s relationship went wrong. Julian had confessed his love and claimed to remarry Emelia publicly. Some people thought that Julian had failed to do so, so Vincent terminated the contract with HGH.

Some people think that Julian didn’t love Emelia anymore. How could a rich businessman like Julian fall in love with a woman for a long time.

Ezra didn’t force them, he said goodbye and left.

In order to avoid meeting up with Julian in the restaurant, Emelia and Nina called the takeout to their room for dinner. Nina also ordered the wine. The two chatted while eating quite leisurely.

After dinner, Emelia suddenly received a message from Julian, “Look outside.”

Emelia originally wanted to block and delete all Julian’s contact information. But seeing that he hadn’t done anything cross the line for so many days, she kept his contact.

Emelia stood up in confusion and opened the curtains to look outside, Nina also leaned over and asked, “What’s wrong?” As soon as Nina’s voice fell, she saw numerous drones suddenly rising in the night sky outside.

At first, the image of a huge birthday cake was presented. Nina exclaimed when she saw it, "Wow!"

Emelia was a little stunned. Then there was a string of dates next to the birthday cake. It was her birthday. Emelia then realized that it was Julian celebrating her birthday.

Her eyes turned red in no time. She covered her mouth with her hands, restraining her overflowing sensation in this way.

She was deeply moved... How could someone not be moved?

Nina hugged her and jumped up excitedly, "Oh my God, it's so romantic!"

Emelia was swayed by Nina, staring blankly at the patterns in the night sky.

After the birthday cake and the date, the drones moved their positions again and slow formed into two words, "Happy Birthday".

Then the drones became a huge red heart. The bright red color was dazzling in the night, melting Emelia's heart severely.

Exclamations and screams began to come from the downstairs of the villa. It was the staff of the resort who saw this romantic scene and then came out to have a look.

After the red heart, a silhouette of a woman appeared, elegant and graceful. Maybe strangers would only think it was a silhouette of a random lady, but those who were familiar with Emelia could tell at a glance that it was definitely her.

Nina choked by Emelia's ear, "Julian really came prepared this time. I'm so moved that I am about to cry out..."

Nina didn't know that Julian had planned this drone birthday celebration. She thought that Julian just asked Emelia out just so that they could meet and relieve the pain of lovesickness. She didn't expect him to prepare such a romance.

In the end, the drones shaped into a huge word, "FOREVER"

Emelia's tears couldn't hold back any longer, rushing down her face...

Others may not understand what this word means, but she did.

Did Julian mean to say that his love for her will last forever?

Was he crazy?

Didn't they both agree that they would let go of each other?

"Why is he doing this? Why?" Emelia was crying hard as she leaned in Nina's arms.

She didn't want Julian to be so obsessed with her at all. Life is too short. He should forget about her quickly, find someone else he loves, make up a perfect family, and spend his life in harmony.

After crying for a while, Emelia wiped her tears and said decisively, "I'll go find him."

Make it clear to him that she will never be with him so that he could give this up completely.

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband - Chapter 348

Coward

Emelia went out after she said that. She knew Julian's room number.

When Ezra came to invite them to dine together before, he said that they could chat and play cards with them if they felt bored.

That's when she knew their room number by the way.

Emelia walked to the door of Julian's room with mixed and uneasy mood. However, even she had knocked on the door for a long time, no one answered.

She took out her phone to call Julian again, but it couldn't get through.

Emelia stood outside Julian's room holding her phone. She was at a lost for the moment.

What does Julian mean?

He didn't open the door and didn't answer the phone. Why would she feel that there is a meaning of escape? But after walking around like this, she has calmed down.

After thinking about it, she simply went to the reception.

"Mr. Hughes and Mr. Cantillo had just checked out and left." The receptionist replied with a polite smile, then raised a finger to the door, "The car that took them to the airport has just left."

Emelia looked in the direction of the finger of the receptionist. She could only see the taillights of a car, inexplicably lonely in the boundless night.

Emelia didn't know what kind of emotion was in her mind for the moment. She felt as if she had hit the cotton with a punch. Julian just ran away from it.

In the end, she could only turn around and prepared to leave, but the young receptionist asked her excitedly, "Ms. Jones, is the drone confession tonight specially prepared for you by Mr. Hughes?"

Thanks to Oliver Jones, Yvonne and Julian in the past, Emelia had appeared on the news for so many times that she had long been famous.

But Emelia was still stunned when she was asked by the receptionist. She had no idea how to answer.

The receptionist asked as if she had witnessed a great gossip, "A few days ago, HGH terminated the contract with Mr.

Longerich's new project. Everyone was saying that it's because you broke up with Mr. Hughes. But it doesn't seem to be the case now."

Seeing that the receptionist was almost hype for the gossip, Emelia had to say, "Please, don't tell anyone about what happened tonight."

After speaking, she quickly left.

At the same time, in a car gradually driving away from the hot spring resort, Ezra, who was temporarily dragged away, complained dissatisfiedly, "Well, you came all the way from Riverside City to prepare such a romantic confession. Why don't you wait for her to be moved and find you? I especially told her your room number thanks to me. I am doing this so that she could find you when she was greatly touched."

Just now, Ezra had watched the whole drone show and witnessed how it ended perfectly. And then he planned to take a bath, rest and recharge so that he could go skiing tomorrow.

Unexpectedly, before he could enter the bathroom, Julian asked him to pack up and left hurriedly.

Julian explained that he didn't have the courage to face Emelia, which almost pissed Ezra off.

Why couldn't he face Emelia?

Ezra believed that he understands the girl's emotion the most. After Julian prepared such a romantic confession. Emelia must be greatly moved. And she would definitely find Julian and say something when she was moved.

Lonely man and single girl faced the cold and lonely night together. The romantic atmosphere has been paved. Ezra thought that even if Emelia broke up with Julian cruelly before, she should have changed her mind.

Who knew that Julian himself was holding her back? How can Ezra not be angry? Julian looked at the boundless night outside, and said to Ezra coldly, "You don't know her at all." "She seems to be weak, but she is actually very determined. Once she's made a decision, others could rarely let her change her mind again."

For example, when she divorced him, she was so determined and resolute that he thought it was a dream. At first, he was.

thinking that she would regret it, and she would cry and scream, begging him to remarry her. But turned out that she went abroad the second day they got divorce.

No hesitation at all.

Now she was still determined to break up with him, otherwise she would not have left Riverside City on the same day they broke up.

Julian retracted his gaze from the window, looked at Ezra and said mockingly, "I'm afraid she will come to my room and scold me. She may once again declare her position to me and demand me staying away from her in the future."

Julian did guess what Emelia was thinking correctly, but Ezra was confused.

“Aren’t women easy to coax?” As a playboy, he couldn’t help but ask such a question.

Julian said lightly, “I can only say that it’s because you haven’t met someone who is determined to cut the relationship with you.

Women can’t be coaxed at all when they go mad.”

Julian looked at Ezra meaningfully and said, “In other words, you haven’t met a woman who truly loves you.” If the girl who truly loves him was bullied by him, she definitely won’t compromise by a few words or some romance.

Most women around Ezra wanted his money, fame and status. Even if there are some quarrels and awkwardness, they will not go to war with him. They certainly know how to take advantage of him by receiving his gifts.

Ezra threw up his hands showing that he didn’t understand. He didn’t understand that Julian still loved Emelia, but he only did his romance silently and didn’t face it. He didn’t understand why Emelia would separate from him since she still loved him.

If you adore a flower, you pick it and take it with you; if you love a flower, you water it.

Ezra was the former. His feelings for women were simply adoration.

And Julian was the latter. Because of the deep love, he was so timid and careful.

Emelia went back to the room, and Nina asked her in surprise, “Why did you come back so soon?”

Nina was also moved by Julian’s behavior tonight, thinking that Emelia should have a decent chat with Julian anyway.

Emelia glared at her angrily. Or else could she spend the whole night with Julian?

“He left with Ezra, and the receptionist said that they had just checked out.” Emelia said as slumped herself on the bed.

“What?” Nina was so shocked that her chin was dropped on the floor. “They left?”

“Is Julian stupid?”

Julian prepared such a romance. Why wouldn't he wait for Emelia to talk to him? It is not impossible for him to gain a good impression from her.

“He must be running away from me on purpose.” Emelia still understood Julian's mind. “He didn't want to hear my word of breaking up with her completely.”

“Coward.” Emelia scolded Julian angrily.

“It's really hard for him.” Nina expressed her sympathy for Julian. She could somehow understand Julian's self-deception and escapism.

Sometimes it's the same with her. She often thinks that it would be just fine for Cameron to stay abroad for like this. If he didn't come back, she didn't have to face him or recall their sad history. In that situation, she didn't have to look forward to their future.

But in fact Cameron would return home sooner or later, and they would meet somewhere somehow.

They must come up with a decision about their future.

Whether they would become strangers, or restore their relationship. There must be an answer.

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband - Chapter 349 Meet Again

Emelia didn't sleep soundly for Julian's confession by using the UAV.

Whenever she closed her eyes, she would see the shiny scene in her mind. From time to time, she recalled the birthday cake and her photos. Although she didn't remark, she had remembered every scene.

Those was the romance that her loved man gave to her. How could she not remember it all?

However, the more clearly she remembered it, the sharper the pang in her heart became.

They loved each other, but they couldn't be together. No one could understand how suffered she was.

While she was tossing about, Nina, who loved surfing online, clicked her tongue. "Julian's drone confession has appeared on the trending news."

Emelia was utterly sober. She sat up in a hurry with tense nerves.

Nina passed her phone to Emelia. While the latter bowed her head to read the news, Nina said, "Fortunately, the staff of the resort were sensible. They only uploaded the videos without mentioning it was prepared by Julian for you. They only mentioned a bigwig had confessed his love to his girlfriend and how romantic and beautiful the scene was.

"By the way, we were in a daze, so neither of us thought of recording the scene on our phones. The staff recorded it down. I like their shooting angles a lot. You should save it."

Emelia accepted Nina's suggestion. No matter what her relationship with Julian was now, the scene was the romance he gave to her. Hence, she decided to keep it as a souvenir.

However, Emelia was afraid to be on the trends. Many netizens kept discussing who they were in envy and jealousy.

Fortunately, they focused on guessing the actresses or celebrities who had birthdays recently. For the time being, no one thought about Emelia.

Breathing a sigh of relief, Emelia gave the phone to Nina. "I do admire how mentally strong the superstars are. No wonder many artists suffer from depression."

Nina giggled, taking the chance to brainwash her. "In fact, leading a worry-free life is quite nice."

Emelia glanced at her. She knew why Nina said those words. Nina wanted her to be worry-free without overthinking and be reconciled with Julian.

However, Emelia couldn't be worry-free when facing Julian.

She believed that he deserved a better woman than her.

Hence, Emelia pulled up the quilt and covered herself. "Let's go to bed, Nina. Aren't we going to ski tomorrow?"

There was a ski field in this hot spring resort. They planned to go skiing the following day.

On the following evening, Emelia returned to Riverside City with Nina. Vincent and Naomi agreed with Emelia to go back to visit Julian's grandfather. Thanks to his care and love for Emelia all over the years, Emelia could keep her dignity in her marriage with Julian.

Early morning, in the ward of Grandpa Hughes, Riverside City Hospital.

Grandpa Hughes was having the congee brought by Julian. Glancing coldly at Julian, he asked, "Haven't you moved to the Capital? Why did you come back?"

Julian mentioned moving to the Capital to his grandfather earlier, and the latter knew the reason. He kept heaving sighs but didn't complain or stop Julian.

Julian said calmly, "Even though I've moved to the Capital, I need take care of you."

His grandfather snorted. "Think I don't know what your purpose is, huh? Did you tell Emelia I was sick again? You came here to wait for her to drop by, didn't you?"

"Silence is an art that you should learn about, Grandpa," Julian retorted.

The old man snapped, "Get out of here!"

Of course, Julian heard it but still sat still.

He would stay here no matter what his grandfather would say to him today.

He had received a message from Nina earlier, who said that Emelia and she had arrived at Riverside City the previous night.

After getting up this morning, Emelia would definitely come to visit Grandpa Hughes.

Julian believed that she wouldn't only drop by but also cook breakfast for his grandfather.

His grandfather had eaten the food he brought here, so the old man wouldn't eat Emelia's food. In that case, Julian could have a chance to eat it.

The old man took several sips of the congee. He heaved a sigh and said, "Alas... It's actually my bad.

"If I hadn't insisted on bringing you two together, those heartbreaking things wouldn't have happened."

Since forcing Julian to marry Emelia, he kept expecting Julian could find out how decent Emelia was. He felt relieved as his grandson could have a family eventually, but much to his surprise, something unexpected happened to Julian's marriage.

If Grandpa Hughes hadn't been strong enough, all things happening recently to the Hughes family would have struck him down.

Julian stared at his grandfather and said sincerely, “Grandpa, no matter how my marriage has ended, I know you did it for my own good in the past.”

He knew his grandfather was the only one treating him nicely in the family. It was pretty rare for Julian to speak such sincere words to his grandfather. The latter was taken aback.

Then he sighed and said, “I didn’t expect you to understand my purpose. It turns out love can make a man grow.”

Julian used to hate him to the core because he had forced Julian to marry Emelia.

Julian didn’t speak again. His grandfather continued to eat.

After finishing breakfast, the old man saw Julian bend his head to browse the message received.

Then Julian stood upright and tidied up his clothes.

His grandfather instantly understood— Emelia was coming to his ward soon.

He felt amused and annoyed by Julian’s behavior, so he said in jest, “Do you think it’s because of your appearance that she doesn’t want to reconcile with you?”

“No matter how handsome you look, she won’t spare you a glance.”

Julian instantly stood up and walked to the bathroom solemnly upon hearing his words. He looked in the mirror and tidied up his clothes and hairstyle.

His grandfather was wordless, wondering if Julian was doing it purposely.

When Julian had just left the bathroom, there was a curt knock on the ward door.

He took a deep breath and walked to open it.

Somehow, as soon as he thought he would meet Emelia soon, his heart hammered.

They had married for a couple of years, but why did he still feel nervous now?

When the ward door was opened, Emelia, holding a lunchbox, saw the tall, sturdy, and stern-looking man in front. She stiffened and asked, "Why are you here?"

Right after asking, Emelia regretted it. Of course, he should be here with his grandfather.

"I'm here to see Grandpa," Julian answered her solemnly. Then he moved aside to let her enter.

Seeing the old man on the bed, Emelia ignored Julian and strode to his grandfather.

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband - Chapter 350 I'll Forcibly Take You to Treatment

After Emelia entered the ward, Julian slowly closed the door, curling his lips into a delightful smile.

He couldn't help feeling joyful whenever seeing her.

The old man also had a broad smile when seeing Emelia. "It's freezing outside. Thank you for visiting me, Emelia. You are too considerate."

His flatter made Emelia a bit shy. She hurriedly gave him the lunchbox. "Grandpa Hughes, have you had breakfast?" Grandpa Hughes stroked his belly and said, feeling pity, "Yes, I have. Julian brought me breakfast."

If he had known Emelia would bring him breakfast, he wouldn't have eaten Julian's food.

Emelia didn't mind. "That's good for you."

Then she put away the lunch box, planning to take it back home when leaving.

Julian suddenly said in a hidden complaint, "I haven't had it yet."

Emelia and his grandfather were wordless.

Emelia looked over at Julian awkwardly, wondering if he wanted to eat her food. Didn't he have it with his grandfather earlier?

The old man was quite pissed, glaring at Julian. He asked Julian to have breakfast with him together, but the latter said he wasn't hungry and kept asking him to eat more. It turned out Julian was expecting Emelia's food.

Seeing Emelia was motionless, Julian walked over and took the lunchbox shamelessly.

Emelia couldn't refuse him in his grandfather's presence. Julian picked up the lunch box, turned around, and walked to the living room.

After sitting elegantly on the sofa, he looked at Emelia and asked, "Have you had breakfast?"

Emelia hadn't, but she wasn't in the mood to answer his question.

After cooking the dishes, she brought them over and planned to have breakfast with Grandpa Hughes. She didn't expect Julian to be here as well...

Emelia wasn't good at hiding her thoughts. Both men could tell she hadn't had breakfast. Grandpa Hughes said, "Emelia, go ahead and eat it. You'll be starved." Hence, Emelia had to have breakfast with Julian.

Grandpa Hughes loved Chinese food, so Emelia cooked rice congee, poached eggs, and steamed dumplings that she made the previous night and freshly cooked in the morning. Most of the dishes were eaten by Julian.

He wasn't polite at all. After ensuring Emelia had had enough, he finished all dishes.

Emelia felt amused and annoyed. Grandpa Hughes rolled his eyes helplessly.

He could tell Julian only treasured Emelia after losing her.

In the past, if Julian had cherished his marriage, even if Emelia had health problems, they were still husband and wife. Emelia wouldn't have left him alone either.

Julian ignored what Emelia and his grandfather thought. He only felt all cells of his body become delighted. He also became more determined to win her heart back when he was full.

He couldn't live without her tenderness, good cooking skills, and Emelia herself.

Her existence made him feel that his life was warm, full of hope. He thought that it was worth living.

After breakfast, Emelia chitchatted with the old man. Julian didn't keep staying. He said he would go find Arthur and leave the ward.

Emelia finally could breathe a sigh of relief after he was gone. Grandpa Hughes asked gently, "How's everything in the Capital? Are you used to living there?"

With a bright smile, Emelia answered, "Everything is fine, Grandpa Hughes. I'm staying with my family. Quite nice."

The old man also felt happy for her. "Since I saw you, I knew you were a good girl at first sight. Now all your sufferings have their reward. You deserve to be loved by the Longerich family."

He paused and changed the subject to Julian. However, he didn't defend his grandson. Instead, he stood in Emelia's shoes and said protectively, "In the future, if Julian keeps pestering you, you must tell me. I'll teach him a lesson and ask him to leave you alone."

“Thanks, Grandpa Hughes, but not necessary. You should introduce a few outstanding girls to him, so he won’t have time to pester me,” Emelia said.

The old man glanced at her intensely and answered, “I agree.”

Emelia didn’t want to talk more about Julian. She pulled out a delicately wrapped gift box for Grandpa Hughes in a hurry.

“Grandpa Hughes, this is a gift from my grandfather. He heard you were sick and wanted to visit you, but he was aged and couldn’t take a long-distant trip, so he asked me to pass his gift and best wishes to you.”

“Please thank him on my behalf.” Grandpa Hughes was overjoyed. He took the gift box over and couldn’t wait to unpack it.

Emelia’s grandfather gave him a collectible teapot made of fine porcelain, as a thankyou to him for taking care of Emelia over the years.

After that, Emelia exchanged a few words with Grandpa Hughes. Afraid to hold him up for too long, she left soon.

As soon as Emelia walked out of the ward, she saw Julian waiting for her in the corridor. She turned away without any hesitation.

However, his grandfather’s ward was in the innermost of the passage. Before she could walk far, Julian cornered her to the wall.

Julian pressed his arms on the windowsill, trapping her between his chest and the wall. He asked purposely, “Why are you running away?”

“What do you want?” Emelia kept clinging herself to the wall, distancing herself from him.

She wondered why he was so close to her as they had broken up already.

Besides, nurses came back and forth in the corridor frequently. Emelia didn't want to be seen by others.

Julian didn't have the heart to continue torturing her. He stepped back to distance himself from her and said, "Arthur wants to talk to you."

"Arthur?" She wondered why Arthur wanted to see her.

"You'll know after going to his office." With those words, Julian turned around and strode away.

Emelia could only follow him to Arthur's office.

Emelia learned that Arthur wanted to introduce a gynecology expert to her only after entering the office.

Julian was standing beside them, staring at her solemnly. This subject made Emelia feel awkward.

She indeed wanted to refuse Arthur because she had been disappointed in curing her sickness.

Vincent and Naomi had also taken her to see many gynecology doctors in the past few weeks. She had taken medicines and treatment, but Emelia could tell nothing had worked from those doctors' expressions.

Arthur could tell that Emelia was unwilling. He explained, "This doctor is my mother's alumni in university. She has solved many difficult problems in gynecology. I wanted to tell you about her last time, but you left too quickly."

Arthur was from a medical family. Emelia recalled that his mother was an expert in traditional medicine. Hence, she guessed that the gynecology expert must know traditional medicine too.

Thinking of the herb soup, she frowned.

Before she spoke, Julian interrupted, "If you dare to refuse, I'll forcibly take you to the treatment."

Emelia was speechless.