

Chapter Twenty

Author's POV

Amber sat up on the bed, feeling her head pound and she reached out to hold her head for a few minutes trying to stop the ache. When she managed to regain herself, she scrambled out of bed and walked towards the window.

It was morning already and she had been asleep for a whole day. She could see the pack members strutting around the pack house and chatting casually.

Amber leaned on the wall of the window sill and s**t her eyes a little. She had been trying to recuperate from the rejection as it made her fall ill.

She hadn't gone out in a while but she couldn't bypass it any longer. She couldn't concentrate though and even the taunts from the pack members wouldn't allow her to even think about something else. They were mocking her back to back.

Some would even intentionally come to her room to mock her and tell her how stupid she was to think the Alphas will accept her. Lena would argue with them but then how many of them could she fight?

"You should just let them be," Amber had told Lena countless times but Lena was stubborn.

She would insult them. They wouldn't dare to talk back to her because of her mate. Instead, they would ignore her and continue to take Amber for their entertainment.

As Amber walked into the main pack house, she grabbed a rag to start cleaning. Unlike Lena, she was still just an omega; especially a rejected one. She had no chance to relax.

But as she worked, she didn't notice Sophie approaching her.

Sophie was on cloud nine seeing how miserable Amber was. She was so happy that everything in her was jumping in excitement. The alphas had rejected Amber which meant that the pack members would continue to be swayed by her, she would have a chance to make Amber's life miserable and she still had a chance at snagging all the men.

"Didn't I tell you that you have no chance with the Alphas?" She said laughing out loud.

She had forced Amber out of sick bed to start working. She wanted to make a mockery of her in the whole pack.

Amber with her shaky and weak body was doing her job but Sophie didn't stop following her and saying a lot of demeaning words to her.

"Aren't you too greedy? When you want to work your charm, you can't do it on a mere wolf like you. You went ahead for the Alphas. Isn't that too covetous of you, you little wimp?" She taunted with her disdainful smile.

She was just so happy now that she has been rejected. Amber wished that she could disappear from the face of the earth. She didn't want to live in it anymore. Many people were gathered laughing at her.

Amber lowered her head. She was so angry and unhappy. Not because they were all raining abusive words at her but because she couldn't stand up to any of them. The worst thing about being omega was that you couldn't even fight with the rest of the pack or else you would be punished.

Sophie hit her all of a sudden.

"Are you too blind to see that dirt there?" She said with an irritated voice.

She was still so angry at her for being the three Alphas' mate. She thought that she was the reason the men wouldn't even look at her.

Amber groaned in pain but she still did what Sophie said. Sophie still wasn't satisfied and walked forward, kicking her right in the stomach.

Amber immediately hissed grasping her stomach in pain and she spat a mouthful of blood.

Sophie seemed delighted to see this. "So weak!"

She reached out to hit her again when her wrist was suddenly grabbed by someone and the person growled at her. "Don't you dare!"

Author Mila

"

This chapter is a little short but I will compensate with another chapter soon

"

Comments

Vote

Watch videos get points (0/15) >