

Once Rejected, Thrice Accepted

Chapter 96

Walking back into the forest | noticed Sabine standing with six adults that all looked confused and a bit scared to be standing next to a witch. They probably had no idea why they were there and only said yes because their leaders asked them too. I just had to hope that whatever Sabine was throwing at us wasn't going to make them regret their 'yes' or hate me.

"Your better at being on time than your mother ever way."

Sabine teased as I shifted and dressed behind a nearby tree. "Let's see if you a quick learner like her." "Ok." I nodded hello at the pack members with her. "Thank you for helping out with whatever this is." "Of course, Luna. We are happy to help." One of the three females replied with a genuine smile.

"Ok, well lots of things to do in a short amount of time so let's get ready." Sabine moved me over to the side before pointing at one of the guys. "You over here while the others back up just a few steps. I need Gemma to be able to focus on you and what you say only."

He nodded and did as he was told. He seemed to be a bit nervous and jittery with the way his hands were shaking as he stood in front of me.

"Now Gemma focus on him, his aura, the way his chest moves when he breathes, and the way the words sound when he speaks." I nodded still a bit confused myself. "I want you to ask him questions and he will lie on some and tell the truth on others. The lie will vary from a white lie to outright bullshit. Think you both can handle it?"

"What's the point of me listening to all that when I am a human lie detector?"

"You can't always rely on that and you may need help to keep doing it. Plus this strengthens other abilities you may or may not have."

We nodded and she smirked. I think she was enjoying this a bit too much.
Rude. SEARCH the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

"Ok, so... um... What's your name?" Start off easy and hope for the best is the ideology I am sticking to.

"Jack." His aura stayed still and his heart never changed its beat. The answer was verified with Moonlights answer.

"Truth."

"Good. Now let's try some hard ones and actually get practice in. Anything that is a lie I have the numbers to some of their friends and family so I can verify if they fight the answer." She gave the group a knowing glance. I could see them all gulp. "Ok Jack. Do you think the females of this pack should be training and fighting alongside the men?"

His eye widened as he did his best not to look me in the eye. I already knew before he spoke it was going to include a lie. Moonlight was not happy about that being an opinion of a pack mates:

"They can totally train with us. Some of our best... fighters are female." He rubbed his hands on my cargo shorts like they were wet from sweat. "In the battlefield I am unsure about it. Women are the only reason the humankind are still alive."

The first part was utter st from what Moonlight growled out and the way his Aura changed colors. The second part was a bit truer but it felt like his feelings ran deeper than he was letting on. It was more like he wanted us barefoot and pregnant in the house bringing them their meals and putting out when they wanted it no matter when or how much. This was something I would have to talk to the guys about.

"Gemma, what do you think? Lies or truth?" She wasn't smiling anymore as she spoke. He was sweating more so I knew he was stressing that he was asked that.

"Lies and then truth." I held back my anger and just left my face blank. He didn't need to know how disappointed I was in him in front of everyone. I would let Leo and Lucas have a talk with him.

"Ok. Thanks for that Jack. You can head back." She turned away from him effectively dismissing him.

I sent a link to the guys to catch up to him and they agreed.

They knew they lived on the outskirts, but to be that judgment of the women, who are some of the best fighters, doesn't really work for this pack. That was the mentality of a few of our enemy packs which made it even more concerning.

"Next is this one. I can tell a few things about her that will shock you if you ask the right questions." Sabine pointed to the tallest female in the group sending her my way. "Pay attention to her aura. It's an interesting one."

I nodded letting my eyes focus on the spaces around her until her aura stood out. It had its full color but on the edges it was mixed with another. It felt worried, guilty, and unsure of itself as it sputtered around her. Moonlight became concerned but she wasn't sure if it was for this pack member or for the pack itself.

"Let's start with your name." I gave her a comforting smile to help ease her nerves.

"Sydney." Her tone of voice sounded off with a bit of a whine in it. Her aura stayed the same.

"Truth." I didn't wait for Sabine to say anything before answering. "Why do I make you nervous?"

"You don't make me nervous. I am excited to finally speak with our Luna." She said nonchalantly.

"Lie." I almost shouted. I could just feel the ickiness of it being a lie. I wasn't sure how to explain it any farther to anyone let alone myself.

"No, I swear. I just-" She tried to object but I just shook my head at her response.

"Sydney, I can cast a spell that has you telling the truth. So just go ahead. No one will judge you unless its like epically shitty" Sabine told her without even looking at her.

Sydney dropped her head. "I. lused to... with Duncan before.... And then you took him.. Hate you." She mumbled her reply with me only catching a few words here and there but I got the point.

Moonlights teeth bared shaking my body with a growl I did my best to hide. It was before we found him so we didn't have a right to react. She wasn't throwing it in our face or trying to kill us so this was a step forward.

I took a deep breath fighting against Moonlights need for blood. "I am sorry me showing up and being mated to Duncan hurt you. I hope when you find your mate you will understand the pull of the bond and the love that happens."If you are not reading this book from the website: then you are reading a pirated version with incomplete content. Please visit and search the book title to read the entire book for free

She shook her head as she finally let her sobs make a sound. "That doesn't help. You stole the man I wanted. The one I wanted to mate with, have kids with, and so much more. You weren't even a part of this pack."

"I think you should leave." Sabine stepped in letting me off the hook before I punched her pretty little face. "You know about the mate bond and you believe in it as do all wolves.

Don't make an a*s of yourself because the guy you were fg found his mate. If you had you would have done the same thing."

She flinched at the words but nodded. She left leaving us with four more pack members to question. Sabine didn't let me off the hook but instead had me do two at once. She asked the questions this time to add in a twist. Each time I could feel the power grow within myself. Eventually this was going to be a piece of cake. I just had to hope my other powers would end up the same.

Search the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

Chapter 97

"Ok, now that we have finished with the last person and asking of what I feel like was the thousandth question, what happens next?" I asked doing my best to hide how tired I was. Even Moonlight was laying down and panting excited that we were done. "First tell me what you learned about your power and yourself." Sabine stated using her magic to make us seats from the roots of the trees around us. I was instantly jealous that she could do that.

Of course, there was a test afterwards. It's like being back in school and I hated school. Except this was worse since I couldn't be snarky or run off and hide until the next day.

"Well, I learned that I could see auras because I was never mentioned before you. That was a trip." Moonlight rolled her eyes at my snarkiness but dang be able to do this in a few days not one. Most people would've extended their stay if they were helping someone with something but not her. "I learned that not only can I match Moonlights skill of being a living lie detector by just using a few indicators that actually that helps make us stronger. We can see if what they did was malicious or unintentional. We can separate the small white lies that have it on purpose to the big lies about who they are or what they stand for even if it was just the way they were raised and they are able to rewire their brain around everything."

"Fantastic now I want to work on the other power you mentioned about being able to see snippets of where someone's located when they're in trouble" She smiled crossing her legs. "Now I want to see if that works on people you know or people you care about versus it just people in the pack or someone you've met before."

"And how are we going to do that test?" I asked a bit uneasily. She had this murderous glint in her eye that sent all my hackles up.

"It has actually already started. Feel around in your brain and test your connections with people. The only hint you get is that two members of this pack are now in trouble and only you can save them so let's see who gets saved tonight.

"She stood up and looked around us. "After this you're probably going to hate me so I need to go ahead and let you know this now. This war is coming and you will lose someone very important to you but it is avoidable. The only way that it is avoidable is if you sacrifice a few people that aren't as important to you but are just as important to others. You will have to sacrifice several pack members and a few other members from different packs in order to save your one person that's important to you. It's up to you to decide if that's important and if that's worth all of that pain and suffering."

Before I could reply she cut me off with instructions to focus on the now because we only had a little time left so I did as I she said and focused on my connections with my loved ones first starting with my mates.

I couldn't see where they were but I see that they were okay. I could feel that they were happy and safe.

Next, I focused on my brother and Allie. Between their anxiety, their fear, and their overwhelming joy I knew that they were with my nephew and godchild. They were probably telling him he was the smartest thing in the whole world, which I totally agreed with. I was going to skip over checking on Britt just because I knew that she was with several of my friends and they would've fought tooth and nail to keep her safe but Moonlight's ears perked up in a low growl hummed her throat.

"You took my sister? My sister who ran over you over our little dinner together and this is how you repay us." I shouted into the forest. "If she gets hurt I don't care how strong of a witch you are I will find a way to hurt you."

"You could try but you shouldn't waste your energy. She is not the only one in danger and you wouldn't want your pack to think you only save your family." She left with her voice moving through the trees.

I jumped searching all around me for her but nothing. I was alone in the woods which at this point was probably good. I could feel my rage boiling over wanting blood, wanting revenge.

Moonlight growled telling me to get my crap together, so we focused. We focused only on my sister. Her soul, her mind, and her body. We brought memories, happy memories, forward of times we were laughing with each other or at each other. The memory of her being so excited she just beat Lucas on the xbox brought forward the first vision of where she was. Her arms and legs were bound with silver chains. I could smell the scent of burning skin and I could hear her wails. It would've been wailing from the pain but something was blocking it. I could only see the back of her and it was only for a couple seconds.

'Focus on sound map out the pack lands and grids in your mind and focus on starting close to us and moving farther out while listening for her. Think of it like echolocation! If you are not reading this book from the website: then you are reading a pirated version with incomplete content. Please visit www.wildfirebooks.com and search the book title to read the entire book for free

Moonlight instructed. She had started to timber down our rage which I was very thankful for.

There was no noise except the animals in the forest near us. She wouldn't have put her near the packhouse because then any of the wolves would've heard her so she must be further out or she may not even be in the pack lands. I pushed my ears to go behind us toward the border but found nothing.

Another vision shoved itself inside my brain and showed me the front of her. I gasped at the way her face looked with its bruises and cuts. Her outfit was torn with even more bruises and cuts on the rest of her body. Sabine was going to get her a*s kicked and I wasn't going to enjoy every minute of it.

Finally checking near the gardeners that the twins told me about I found her. She was in this little grove of trees with two wolves guarding her and another watching her and getting closer to her. None of them looked familiar but at this point they could still be pack. To me they were just dead meat.

I took off at a sprint shifting into Moonlight and letting her take control. She was faster I gave me time to focus on the other wolf we were missing. I couldn't bring up the memories of them but I could focus on the different parts of the pack lands and see if anything popped up.

It worked. After the third no go section on my virtual map I found her. I hadn't ever interacted with her before, but she felt familiar. Maybe it was just the pack connection which was good

'Don't be alarmed Its Gemma. I am searching for you but I'm only able to vaguely sense where you are!' I linked her focusing on only her. It was hard to link with someone that I didn't know their name of but I focused on their wolf because that's what I could feel the power wise. 'Do you know where you are?' SEARCH THE website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

'Luna Gemma? Help me please. I don't know what happened. I was just out training and I took a water break, something happened and everything went black. 'She replied. I could feel the pain coming from her. 'I think I'm on the northwest corner but there's nothing around here. No one lives here from our pack. It's our hunting grounds. All the trees look the same. But if you could focus on the scent of blood you can find me. I have been bleeding a lot. Can you do that?'

Yes we can do that. Lay still and focus on your healing.

The brood on the ground will be enough if we are going in the right direction.

I linked the guys letting them know what Sabine had done and that I was stuck between saving two different people.

My voice had never pushed a desperate filled whine as it did now. I didn't know how to feel or think. I could feel the danger they were in. I didn't know if it was a spell or she had brought a group of wolves from a different pack onto our lands to hurt people or if she had done something for me to feel this way.

I could feel in my being how much danger my Sister and this other female wolf were in and I didn't know what to do.

I was already running to my sister but she wasn't bleeding.

The other wolf was bleeding but she wasn't surrounded by wolves. I didn't know what to do.

Duncan is the one who made the decision. When I explained what was around my sister and where I felt her at he was closer to there so he started running to join me to save her. Leo and Lucas along with my brother Draco ran to the other wolf. When I described what she looks like and sounded like they told me her name was Betty. They were going to save her. All I could do was cross my fingers that they would be able to do that. Once my sister was safe I was going to head there.

If a

anyone was going to die tonight it was going to be who put them in danger and who helped her out. Her measures were just a bit too drastic.

Search the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

Chapter 98

I was stopped by two of our pack just as I caught sight of her without the help of a vision or whatever they were, She was so still I thought she was dead sending me into shock. I barely heard what the guys were saying in front of me as my hearing went out leaving a loud buzz and my mind turned fuzzy.

"Hey!" The first one shouted in my face moving like he wanted to grab my shoulders, but I stepped back just in time. "You aren't allowed here. Get lost!"

"This doesn't concern you." The other shouted beside him as he rolled his shoulders and flexed his hands into fists. "We have orders to kill anyone who tries to take our prisoner."

'Are we sure they are pack?' I linked Moonlight as I took a few steps back while getting to know my surroundings. There was the two in front of me and the original three by my sister's body. 'Is she dead?'

ck but they smell different. I don't know what it is.' endangering my sister.

No, she is not dead. But we need to get to her soon.' Moonlight growled pushing forward. These guys I focused on the two guys in front of me that acted like I was the danger. That I was the one acting wei I was stopped by two of our pack just as I caught sight of her without the help of a vision or whatever I barely heard what the guys were saying in front of me as my hearing went out leaving a loud buzz an "Hey!" The first one shouted in my face moving like he wanted to grab my shoulders, but I stepped back just in time. "You aren't allowed here. Get lost!"If you are not reading this book from the website: then you are reading a pirated version with incomplete content. Please visit and search the book title to read the entire book for free were. She was so still I thought she was dead sending me into shock. ight turned fuzzy.

"This doesn't concern you." The other shouted beside him as he rolled his shoulders and flexed his hands into fists." We have orders to kill anyone who tries to take our prisoner.

'Are we sure they are pack?' I linked Moonlight as I took a few steps back while getting to know my surroundings. There was the two in front of me and the original three by my sister's body. Is she she dead?'

'No, she is not dead. But we need to get to her soon!' Moonlight growled pushing forward. 'These guys I focused on the two guys in front of me that acted like I was the danger. That I was the one acting wei I ignored the warning growls they were giving me as the other three looked on and singled out their s 'My powers! It's Magic. Their scent is mixed with magic!' I shouted to Moonlight doing my best to hold ck but they smell different. I don't know what it is. endangering my sister.

It was like they were mixed with bubbles or pepper the way my nose itched. It felt the same way when I first started using my powers any smile so no one would know I was getting closer to figuring this s1 out.

Before she could reply Duncan's wolf jumped out landing beside me sending a warning growl to the guys glaring at me. He was pissed and it was sexy as hell. If we got out of this in one piece I was going to jump him and pet the wolf.

Duncan's growls got louder as he pushed his alpha power at them to submit but it didn't work. They did move their concentration to him.

'They are spelled. This isn't their fault.' I warned Duncan as his body tenses ready to spring and go into battle. 'We can't hurt them. There has to be a way!

You. Me. We are the way. 'Moonlight answered in a link to both Duncan and I. 'We are an Alpha female and they are our subjects. We need to get them in line, fast, with fear and obedience!'

'Damn straight. Let's do this. I replied. It was awesome having such a smart and confident wolf. She pushed me to do better and be better.

We tensed our body, our eyes zeroing in on the two in front of us who seemed to be sick of waiting and had started to step toward us, and let my body take over. I felt something, maybe magic, swirling in my chest until it got too big too fast and it was time to let it out.

I let out a roar pushing all that power out with it. It felt like time stood still and everything around me went silent. The two guys in front of me couldn't fight my power and slowly submitted as they landed on their knees and showed their neck. They both whined, which made me sad that we had to stoop to these levels.

Not only did they submit the wolves behind them had fallen into the same pose. Britt's body was shivering but it wasn't that cold out.

Moonlight. Stop. I shouted as she started to use the power again. 'We are hurting Britt.'

She instantly let it all go causing us to slump forward. 'So tired.

She passed out causing us to shift back into our human form with Duncan doing the same. "Are you ok, baby?"

"Fine." I huffed out doing my best to hide my exhaustion and pain that was coming from pretty much everywhere." Check on my sister, please. I will deal with these guys." He nodded and ran off toward her. The five guys were still in their submission pose keeping their eyes on the ground. I stumbled toward the first two before kneeling in front of them.

"Who am I?" I growled out. SEARCH THE website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

"Luga Gemma." They answered

"Why did you block me from getting to my sister?"

"That witch...She.. So sorry, Luna." One of them answered.

The other stumbled over an apology

"You are released." I stood watching them fall back. "I know it wasn't your fault and you aren't in trouble. I do need you to stay close by in case the spell isn't completely gone."
"Ok." They stood up and both caught an arm of mine as I fell forward.

"I might pass out but I am doing my darndest not too.

There is another wolf in trouble. I think her name is Betty."

They helped me move to the other three wolves and do the same questions and release them. Even that took power and I was almost out.

"Did you say Better, Luna?" The one who had been closest to my sister asked with tears in his eyes.

"Yes. Do you know her?"

"She's my mate. Did you save her?" I could feel the worry and rage whirling inside him.

"Your Alpha's and Draco are on it. We had to split up. Let me check my sister and I will send you all with Duncan to head that way"

I looked at Duncan as he finished his check of Britt and saw the worry on his face. fk. If she was this seriously hurt now could I believe Sabine was on our side.

Search the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

Chapter 99

I sent Duncan with three of the guys leaving two with us as I held my sister against me. had sat down Duncan didn't fully believe the guys who had been here were out of the spell yet. I agreed with him bu "You ok, love?" Lucas linked me as I started to rub my sister's back. Her head and chest were in my lap I could feel her heartbeat and her breathing which helped with my anxiety that was trying to take ove 'Fine. I just need someone to get here so we can get Britt back to the doctor. I didn't want to worry hin would be able to find her faster.

They should almost be there. Duncan messaged telling me the guys that were under the spell are still Are they acting okay or do i need to come kick somebody bt?' He was dead serious but it made me They are doing great and the spell is completely gone. You worry about what you need to get done so could feel myself getting weaker. Rest like this wasn't doing anything when my body needed complete Two wolves ran up causing the two guards to stand ready to attack I waved them off. I knew who it wa "Oh my Goddess, Luna. Are you hurt? Are you bleeding?" Cass started freaking out dropping down bes "I am fine. Please you and Cherry grab Britt and I will be right behind you." I shook my head as they st and did what I told them too.

ned against a tree so I could do heal faster and maybe beat passing out. Cass and Cherry were on their way to us.

if worse came to worse I could take these two out pretty easy before passing out. He barely agreed but knew he would find the way there faster.

me.

ain.

had enough on their plate. No one could find Sabine and they were having problems finding Betty. Thank goodness her mate was on his way there. He with you.

all get back together. I love you. Now focus. I cut off the link. It wasn't because I didn't want to hear his voice more or keep talking to distract me but I was confirmed when they shifted back into human form. The two people I needed the most right then. checking my body for any open wounds. SEARCH the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

o fight with me over it. "No just take her go. Her breathing is slowing down and I need you to go." I used a bit of my Alpha power in my voice so they nodded

I could tell they were pissed off but they picked her up gently and carried her between both of them. Cass stopped and shook his head. "George come take my end of our Luna's sister and carefully get he once the three of them were out of earshot Cass kneeled down in front of me and shook his head "What? I needed someone to take Britt to the doctor so I could focus on me. I needed her to be okay a "And you are injured. You lied and we both know it. I know it's not an open wound or anything you can see guard follow us. "I'm taking you back to your cabin and I'm going to link one of the female doctors to "Fine. Play hardball why don't you." I nuzzled my head into his throat and relaxed. "Thank you for beingswesome and I'm sorry that we both been so busy we haven't been able to hang out. Tomorrow supposed to be a girl today but I bet the ladies would love if you joined us."

sn't heavy but she needed the stability of both of them so she wouldn't be jostled.

to the doctor with Cherry." I guess one of the guards that was with me was named George but I never even had the time lo ask. So they did switch off and new you 100 would be fastest and most trustworthy."

but I can feel your exhaustion and your pain. My job is that they that is to take care of my Luna and my Alphas." He gently picked me up and had the other heck you out. Do you agree? If you don't agree with me I will tattle to your mates."

"That would be awesome. I do need to tell you something though" His breathing started to sound more erratic and I could hear every time he swallowed which started to happen more telling me he was freaking out. "Are you okay? No matter what you tell me it stops here, and it stays between us. Nothing you say will ever change how I feel about you.

You were the first one to accept me once I got to this pack and I am so thankful for that." "Okay I haven't been gone because of all of this pack business. I did extended trips fudging a bit of the details but.

Found my mate."

"That's awesome. Do I get to meet him?"

He gasped. "You knew I was gay?"

I lifted my head and smiled. "Of course. No one else painted my nails as good as you or can remember the pink donuts are my favorite especially with the glitter sprinkles like you."

He grinned. "Those are my favorite too. I can't wait for him to meet you. I need to tell your mates and hope they are ok with it and let him join our pack." He looked sad like he didn't think they would be ok with it.

"They love you and they will love him. They will do what's right but if for some weird reason they don't they won't get any pky until they do." I gave him a stern look so he wouldn't argue with me. He knew I was right anyway. He laughed and hugged me. "Love you."

"Love you too."

Search the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

Chapter 100

Where is she?" I shouted as we entered the hospital. It seemed like everyone was in a frenzy with nurses running from room to room and doctors dictating louder than normal as they scrambled their way down to the next patient's room. Something else must've happened but I didn't have time to worry about that. "Where is my sister?" I yelled louder as Cass did his best to help keep me standing.

"Relax, Gemma. There was a few squabbles between Alpha Chances warriors that he brought along and ours so they're a little behind. They would have rushed your sister right in." Cass pleaded doing his best to keep me calm. I guess he knew I was closer to the edge than I had let on.

"Gemma!" A female voice yelled out. I looked around in time to see Cherry from one of the back rooms waving her arms at us.

"Your sisters in here along with your dad."

I rushed back doing my best to avoid any pack members and causing us to fall. They were quicker than I was to move out of the way which I was thankful for. They kept apologizing, calling me Luna and it felt amazing but I couldn't really focus on giving them the same respect back when my mind was in frantic mode. Cass had kept my mind pretty busy on the journey here but now it was going ninety miles an hour. The smells, the white walls, and packed waiting room were sending repressed memories forward pushing me closer to a panic attack.

Cass made me sit in the chair beside my sister's bed and refused to leave the room unless I promised to stay seated.

He barely had time to leave the room before my Dad was all over me checking for any injuries or mental issues caused by a fall or concussion. Cass yelled in about my fatigue and slurred words on the way here. SEARCH the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

Dad almost head bashed him as he stuck his head out the door quicker than I could even try to restrain him and start shouting for a doctor to come check out the Luna. I heard several people jump to attention and a doctor was inside the room within a few seconds. I rolled my eyes at the way he was acting but on the inside my heart I may feel horrible right now and passing out was going to be the best option but knowing that when I woke up the same people that were here with me now would still be with me. It wasn't out of obligation or cover-up. And that was the strangest, most wonderful feeling I have ever felt.

"Doc I'll be okay. We had to use more of our Alpha power than we ever had and it just wore me out." I was holding onto the chair sides to refrain myself from shoving him away from me. I can see the sweat glistening on his skin just from the nerves of working on the Luna. I apparently needed to spend more time with the people in this pack because I was not that type of Luna. My old Luna was the worst and she was horrible to a lot of the pack members. Her food had to be a certain way and she had strict policies on who she allowed where.

"Nothing seems to be wrong on the outside so I agree with the Luna's assessment. Would you like a sleeping pill to help you?" He backed up and smiled down at me. "Your sister refused but I bet if you both agreed it would be better in the long run and everyone can stay with you."

I agreed and he had nurses send us up into a double bedded room with orders for a few more chairs and blankets. We all know at least two of my three mates would be sleeping in the room as long as I was in there. Along with friends and people we thought of his family.

In fact, all three of my mates were waiting in the room for us as soon as we got in there. They made sure to check on Britt but all of her wounds were healing nicely. They would heal a lot faster when she was asleep and she did agree to take the pill as long as I did.

I did my best not to show my fear because I knew she needed me to be strong for her. I was just going to have to deal with those nightmares and non-handle it in front of her. We would sleep, I would fight off the monsters, and then when we finally got to go home I would crawl into my safe place and cry it out.

Once they were done checking on their little sister as they called her they were on me like white on rice. Duncan barely let the nurses in a word in when asking them questions about what happened and what I needed. I apologized to them and gave them time to rush off. Dad took a seat between both beds the same time that Draco, Alpha Chance, Ryder, and Olivia rushed in. Cass hushed them from the door so that we would let the sleeping pills work already.

"Brint I am so sorry." I reached my arm over from the bed they had put me in and she reached across her own to grab it. "I didn't know this is what Sabine was going to do. It sucked that it had to be like this and that no one knew anything about it. I feel confident in the ones that I have maturing even more and any new ones coming at me. I hate that you got hurt in the process and Betty too. Do you forgive me?"

"I am fine. It is all fine." She smiled sleepily. "Although can we ask her to make it a bit less convincing next time?" She laughed as her eyes closed.

My eyelids matched hers as Lucas slid in behind me. "You got it."

I smiled and all that was left was blackness. I could feel Moonlight and Cinder resting with me. Both of them getting stronger. We were so gonna kick some a*s in this war.

Search the website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.