Chapter 141 The Carts' Secret

Daisy was extremely aggrieved.

“Mom, the Floyd family got themselves terrible matrimony. They were not satisfied with Sophia being a secret daughter. But they had it coming.”

Daisy was angry. She didn't like Andrew anyway. She felt uncomfortable, especially when she saw the two of them slept together during her engagement ceremony.

Without Andrew, she could still find other young talents. There were many in her social circle.

“Do you still have feelings for William? Do you still not understand?”

Julia gritted her teeth. She simply did not know how to talk sense into Daisy.

As Julia paid to help her family, the Smit Group's stock fell wildly, and the Cart Group was not good either.

Keith was not a sentimental person once she lost the support of her family.

“If Keith and I divorce and Keith married that slut's mother, do you think she is still a secret daughter?”

Julia clenched her fist. Keith had not been back for a few days and moved out to live with that smelly hawker.

Keith's marriage was not as glamorous as it seemed. If she did not hold the last card, Keith would have already broken all ties with her.

“Mom, what are you talking about? You mean...”

Daisy thought that she had heard that the divorce of her parents was really bad for her.

In particular, once Sophia’s biological mother took the position...

Daisy suddenly broke out in a cold sweat. The property of the Carts could only be hers. She was the only heir of the Carts!

“Stop dreaming. Sophia will also be the legal heir of the Carts family.”

Julia drank a glass of water and looked haggard.

The marriage between the Floyds and the Carts acknowledged Sophia’s identity, which meant that she was a member of the Carts.

Sophia would not take advantage of the marriage if the two families did not plot against Jane.

Things became weird when it came to Jane.

“Daisy, listen to me. Go talk to Andrew these days. It’s not settled yet in the Floyds.”

Julia begged Daisy not to be too willful.

After all, Andrew and Sophia had done shameful things, and Daisy was the victim.

If she went to the Floyds a few more times to please Colin, he would definitely be soft-hearted.

The Floyds was very traditional. Colin would never have allowed him to marry a secret daughter if it wasn’t for Andrew’s insistence.

Daisy’s top priority was to read the newest content, everyone! get anything.

So what if someone slept with him? Marriage between rich and powerful families required status.

“If you are still so to read the newest content, everyone! be imagined.”

Julia persuaded her daughter that her family could not be relied on. She would only feel proud if Daisy married into a good family.

At the moment, it seemed that there were no other families that had higher social status than the Floyds.

“Mom, have you ever thought about my happiness?”

Daisy wanted to resist. She came back to the country for William, the person she had missed before.

Now, she clearly had a chance to snatch William away, but to read the newest content, everyone! thought about it. I’ve helped you too. But what happened?”

Julia was very calm and asked, “You claim to be smart. Can you beat Jane?”

Not only could Jane not win, but all she did was make things smoother for Jane.

Therefore, Julia could not allow Daisy to continue being willful. She had to take the first step and takedown Andrew.

“Listen to me. I won’t harm you.”

Julia sighed and touched Daisy’s head with her hand. Daisy had always been obedient, to read the newest content, everyone! to William.

The current situation was a mystery. Why did the Floyd family want a marriage alliance with the Carts? Presumably, they were preparing to deal with the Duncans.

Although Harrison did not say it, Julia was clear that Harrison was too ambitious to be second on anything.

“But, Andrew is dating Sophia now!”

Daisy was very reluctant to snatch a man from a secret daughter. She could not accept it.

“That’s what they showed to people. Besides, the one who is to read the newest content, everyone! Who is the one snatching other people’s boyfriends?”

Julia was angry. If Daisy did not do as she said, both of them could be driven out!

The problem she left behind was very big, and without the investment of the Floyd family, it couldn't be solved at all.

"So what if Andrew did have something with Sophia? You are her sister-in-law. You know that men like it the most..."

Daisy stood up and said angrily, "So this is the reason why you stole her marriage from my aunt?"

Julia was outraged.

She slapped Daisy right on her face.

Julia had a sister who used to be in a relationship with Keith. Julia was not favored at home because of her deep scheming as she made plans to sleep on Keith's bed.

In the end, it was her who was got the marriage instead of her sister.

"Mom, you hit me again!"

Daisy regretted it after saying it out, but she was slapped, and her cheeks quickly swelled up.

"You..."

Julia stood up and was very excited. Her whole body kept twitching and foaming at the mouth.

"Mom, what happened to you?"

Daisy was so scared that she quickly took out her phone and was about to make a call.

"Don't..."

Julia's face was pale, and she twitched twice, trying her best to stop Daisy from calling.

She didn't want anyone to see her like that.

"Daisy, help me up the stairs."

Julia was thirsty and still twitching. Daisy thought of an incredible possibility. She obediently helped Julia to the room.

Julia entered the room, and she seemed to have changed into a different person. Her eyes were bright as she walked to the bed. She pulled the drawer open and got a transparent paper bag inside.

Inside the paper bag, it was filled with white powder.

Julia put it under her nose and took a deep breath with an indescribable expression of piety.

“Mom, is that...”

Before Daisy finished her words, Julia covered her mouth as she pounced over.

No one knew about this.

In the beginning, she used hallucinogens when she was gambling and felt refreshed. Gradually, she fell in love with such a thrill.

Now, she was addicted to it and almost used it every day.

“Mom, you cannot do this!”

Daisy was so anxious that she burst into tears. She went up and hugged Julia. She did not want to see Daisy continue to go crazy.

“Do you think it’s only me? Keith was much more serious than me!”

Julia felt that her body was fluttering in the wind, and she felt exceptionally comfortable.

She liked to be immersed in the illusion, and she never considered the harm.

“Daisy, do you want to try some?”

Julia passed the paper bag to Daisy.

Daisy widened her eyes in disbelief.

“Where did all of these come from?”

Daisy wanted to know the source of these things because she had an even more terrifying thought.

“It belongs to our family.”

Julia immediately confirmed the idea to her daughter.

Now that the global economy was not good, the Cart Group’s jewelry sales performance had been declining.

How could the family stabilize its position? What was more profitable than drug trafficking?

The Cart Group had been doing such things secretly. They tried to make some small deals before. And now they had grown much larger on drug dealing.

None of them knew that the family had been doing this.

Chapter 142 Terrible Couple

The Cart Group grew larger and larger by virtue of drug traffic. Otherwise, in a situation where the economy was in poor condition, how could it maintain stability?

“But, this is a crime!”

Daisy sat on the ground and was so surprised that she couldn’t speak. Did her family rely on these to accumulate wealth? She never knew.

She suddenly discovered a cruel truth. All these years, she had always been a naïve daughter of a wealthy family.

Her mother, who did charity and had prestige, turned out to be a drug dealer.

Mrs. Cart said, "That's why Keith dared not to divorce me although he was annoyed with me using billions from the Cart Group to help your uncle's company."

Mrs. Cart sneered, because both of them got the goods on each other. If they really wanted to fight to the death, then no one would be able to live.

Keith didn't dare, at least not now.

But he was ruthless, and Mrs. Cart had to be wary of him letting her take the blame, so she was also scheming.

"Daisy, we won't be able to get out of here once we start doing this."

Mrs. Cart shook her head. Almost all the jewelry companies in Southeast Asia were doing dishonest advertising.

So, whether it was to compete with Jane for jewelry, she did not care at all.

She couldn't get out of it. She would be toast if someone found her involved in it.

But in her position, money could save everything, so she was not worried about being exposed at all.

"So, you told me not to be stubborn. This is the truth?"

Daisy lost her wits and her spirit.

She returned from studying abroad and was full of passion, wanting to inherit the jewelry company at home. But the cruel reality gave her a resounding slap.

"Do you think that doing a clean business is very profitable?"

Mrs. Cart laughed loudly. Both the Floyd Group and the Duncan Group had a bit of shady business behind the scenes. When William expanded his business in the past, he had forced people to die.

No one's money was clean. Money was a dirty thing.

"But the Clark family's partner ran away and the Clark family was tricked by their relatives again..."

Andrew was investigating this matter. Mrs. Cart had found out through the gossip, so she naturally couldn't hide it from Daisy.

"Well, even if the Duncans' money is clean, their expansion caused Nelson to commit suicide. His son will definitely come for revenge."

Many things had happened in the Duncan Group this time, although they had all been suppressed.

What was so good about being Mrs. Duncan? Jane was kidnapped and stabbed, so badly injured.

Mrs. Cart only wanted to tell her daughter to stay away from William and be careful not to be killed. Daisy might not be as lucky to read the newest content, everyone! dumbfounded and confused.

...

In the winter, shadows were very long under the street lamps.

Jane had a fast meal with her to read the newest content, everyone! She stood by the roadside and waited for someone.

At the corner stood a black shadow, and this black shadow had been following her for a long time.

"Darling, I'm downstairs. Dayton is in the car."

Jane sent a message to William and quickly changed her position. The black shadow also moved as she moved.

Who was this pervert?

She deliberately turned around and entered the small alley next to her. The black shadow also followed in.

Right now!

She turned around to read the newest content, everyone! did a nice shoulder throw!

"My waist is broken!"

The black shadow wailed.

There were no accomplices in the surroundings.

She was a little relieved. She clenched the electric baton in her hand and was ready to beat him.

Nowadays, women had to learn to protect their safety, not to mention that she might be in danger.

“Who the hell are you?”

She used her phone to illuminate the black shadow.

The black shadow was a young man, dressed in black clothes to read the newest content, everyone! look and did not look like a wretched man.

“Hey, don’t hit me!”

The black shadow crawled up from the ground and wailed for a long time.

In the middle of winter, the ground was frozen hard, and it was especially easy to get hurt if one fell.

It was almost the New Year, and he did not want to be paralyzed in bed.

The black shadow did not speak and confronted Jane.

After William finished his meeting, he pushed the documents on the table to Frederic and quickly went downstairs.

He heard that his wife was in the alley, so he rushed over.

“What are you doing?”

The scene in front of him stunned him.

“Darling, you’re back?”

It was rare for Jane to show a smile. She happened to be nearby with her son, thinking of waiting for him to go home together.

It was too late, and Dayton was already too sleepy to open his eyes.

“Just end the meeting.”

William nodded and pointed to the black shadow on the ground.
"Robert, do you want to have a drink?"

"What?"

Jane paused. This name was a little familiar. Someone she knew?

"I don't drink anymore. William, when did Jane learn martial arts?"

Robert Sheen grimaced in pain. It really hurt. He was not pretending!

He had to apply for some medicine when he got home, or he would not be able to get up in two days.

What bad luck! Was he being treated as a wretched man? He didn't do anything. He just thought that Jane was not safe alone at midnight.

Being treated as a wretched man, Robert wanted to cry.

"Well..."

Jane was awkward. Because the black shadow had been there all this time and it was midnight, she thought that he had followed her here.

"I'm innocent! I'm innocent!"

Robert raised his hand, twisted it, and shouted.

He came back from abroad and had not seen William yet. He was in the operation all day long and had just made time to meet his old friend.

He and his sister were both orphans who were abandoned by their parents. It was all thanks to the Duncans that they had achieved what they were today.

William was a benefactor and also a friend to them.

At night, his sister called to praise Jane, so he was also curious.

As a result, he was injured.

"Sorry, you are all in black, and it's almost midnight. I thought you were..."

Jane apologized. Fortunately, she only used a shoulder throw and did not use the electric baton. Otherwise, it would be terrible to cause another injury.

Robert was speechless.

It cost so much just to see William!

“Let’s go. I’ll send you home first.”

William had no expression, but he was gloating, with his eyes full of joys. He had no intention of blaming his wife at all. She was supposed to be careful.

Robert was speechless. He felt like he had been shot in the chest again!

In the car, the atmosphere was lively.

William casually said as he drove, “Robert, have you considered your marriage since we are the same age?”

Robert was depressed. He was already thirty years old, but he had always been studying all the time. Every day, he would face either patients or corpses. How could there be a girl for him to meet?

William asked such a heart-wrenching question the moment he came. It was really unfriendly to a bachelor.

“Why don’t you introduce a girl to me?”

Robert asked shamelessly. He had just returned to China and hadn’t come into contact with women.

“No.”

William decisively refused. When he faced Robert’s puzzled eyes, he added, “Your waist is not good.”

Robert was stunned. Too terrifying! He was going to stay away from this terrible couple!

Chapter 143 Elevator Accident

William parked the car in the underground garage.

He just sent Robert home, so they arrived home about 20 minutes late. Jane and Dayton were quiet. He looked at them in the rear-view mirror. They were already asleep.

William sat in the driver's seat and turned around.

He could only carry one person home at a time. To carry his wife or his son, that was a question.

Jane was sleeping quietly and soundly, breathing evenly.

A few days ago, Jane had a nightmare and unconsciously hugged his arm tightly. Only then did William realize that these incidents actually affected her.

But Jane did not want to show the white feather and kept it to herself.

"Darling?"

Jane slowly opened her eyes. She looked around and found herself still in the car.

"How long have I been asleep? Why not wake me up?"

She glanced at her watch. It was one o'clock in the morning. Jane rubbed her eyes, completely awake.

"I was thinking. Should I carry you home first or Dayton?"

It was difficult to carry two at the same time. William could only hold one at a time.

“Then what’s your answer?”

Needless to say, he would carry Dayton first, because it was dangerous to leave sleeping Dayton alone in the car.

“It’s hard to make a choice, so I can only wait until any of you wake up.”

William said in a relaxed tone. He unbuckled his seat belt and got off the car.

If he had to choose, he would first wake Dayton up, and then he carried Jane home. That was perfect.

“Alright.”

Jane was stunned. She opened the car door and said, “You don’t need to wait. Wake me up, and we go home with Dayton.”

William did not reply. He held Dayton in his arm and walked into the elevator holding Jane’s hand.

William had never expected that they would lead an easy and simple life. He did not like Jane at all before.

Everything had changed in two months.

“Darling, am I very rude today?”

Jane was nervous. She thought Robert creepy and threw him over her shoulder. Robert fell heavily at that time.

Elyse was her assistant, and Robert played a great part in treating Colin. Although it was a misunderstanding, she felt sorry.

“It doesn’t matter. He is dressed in black like a crow. It to read the newest content, everyone! black at midnight and wearing a black hat. It was easy to see him as a bad guy.

William was actually gloating to read the newest content, everyone! he deserved the shoulder throw.

William was also happy that Jane was safety-conscious.

The elevator ascended rapidly. Suddenly, the light above flashed and sparked. Then the light went off and the elevator was plunged into darkness.

They heard something crackle as the elevator stopped. Then it abruptly descended rapidly.

“Dayton!”

Jane immediately pounced on Dayton and held him in her arms.

Soon the emergency gear worked and the elevator stopped.

They were in the pitch dark.

“Darling, are you OK?”

Jane was to read the newest content, everyone! William.

She felt claustrophobic and was not used to the dark. She got a lot on her mind and the memories of the kidnapping were brought back.

“I’m fine.”

William reached out and held Jane’s hand tightly in the dark, giving her warmth.

The emergency button did not work, and the phone was not in service.

“Be prepared for the worst. We may have to spend the night here.”

The battery of William’s phone was running down, and Jane’s was left in the car.

The little battery power made Jane think of the little match girl. After the last light went off, she would be thrown into darkness.

“Darling, turn off the flash. I’m not afraid.”

Jane shook her head. If the phone was luckily in service later, they could ask for help on it.

The elevator broke down suddenly. It did not seem like an emergency. It should be caused by a widespread blackout.

"I am right beside you."

William turned off the phone and took a deep breath. He took off his coat and draped it around Jane.

There was cold air in the elevator, so it was easy to catch a cold if they stayed here for a night.

"Thanks."

Jane felt relieved by the faint smell of mint on the coat. William sat on the ground to save his strength, holding Dayton in his arms.

"Darling, we are unlucky."

They were in complete darkness. Jane leaned against William, feeling his warmth.

Dayton had yet to wake up and was sleeping soundly.

Sure enough, he was still a child.

"Don't worry."

William was calm and seemed not panicked at all. They leaned against the wall at the back in case that the elevator would fall again.

They did not speak. Jane leaned against William's chest and listened to his steady heartbeat.

Dayton muttered in sleep.

He was now in an uneasy sleep and suddenly moved.

Jane touched Dayton's little hand. It was cold.

She took off her down jacket, covered Dayton with it, and covered Dayton's legs with her scarf.

At five o'clock in the morning, the electricity was restored. But the elevator had broken down, so they needed to wait until it was repaired.

They finally came out at seven.

William still looked tidy, his eyes cold.

There should be an emergency plan for a blackout in such a premium apartment building. It was outrageous that the owners were trapped in the elevator for a few hours.

"I'm sorry. I'm really sorry."

The security guard apologized constantly. The widespread outage in the early morning was an emergency. There was originally a set of generators here, but they were borrowed a few days ago and were not returned on time.

"No excuse for that."

William closed the elevator doors, ignoring those who wanted to explain.

After they got home, Jane went into the bathroom to bathe.

Three sneezes sounded.

She felt a little uncomfortable.

After taking a bath, she felt sick with wet hair.

"Mommy, did you catch a cold?"

Dayton had a good sleep and did not find anything wrong. When he woke up in the morning, he found that he was covered with Jane's clothes and scarf.

It was very cold last night. He blamed himself when thinking that his mommy must have caught a cold after taking off the clothes.

"Dayton, mommy doesn't have a cold. Mommy is fine."

Jane was dizzy, but she wanted to be strong for Dayton. So she comforted Dayton.

"Come here."

William's tone was slightly cold. She didn't take care of herself at all.

Dayton had been dressed in warm clothes and was sleeping in his arms. He would be fine. But Jane gave her clothes to Dayton and was cold for a night.

The elevator was too dark, so he did not notice at all.

“Alright.”

Jane sat obediently on the sofa and resisted the urge to sneeze. She softly leaned on William’s chest, waiting for him to dry her hair.

William sighed to himself. Jane did not care about her health, but after all, she covered Dayton with her clothes because she was concerned about him.

Chapter 144 Fever

He didn’t remember since when Jane had changed so much that he suspected that she wasn’t the same person that he knew.

“I thought you were another Jane.”

William said in a soft voice, but startling Jane.

William was really sharp. He could tell it! But she could not admit it.

“A sea change. It’s good, isn’t it?”

The warm air from the hairdryer made her cozy. She wanted to roll on the sofa.

The sofa was narrow. She could only lean on William.

“Don’t move!”

William stiffened and quickly felt the sexual drive. Even if she wanted to flirt with him, it was not the time. Dayton was still here!

“Daddy, let me do this!”

Dayton walked around the sofa, wanting to help Jane dry her hair.

“Dayton, do you know how to order takeout? With daddy’s phone.”

They had not eaten breakfast. He still had a meeting later, and he was most worried about Jane.

“Yes.”

Dayton ran to get his phone that was charging.

After her hair was dry, Jane narrowed her eyes and hugged William’s waist tightly.

“Janie?”

William sighed. Jane clung to him, making him hot.

But he couldn’t satisfy himself now.

Jane adjusted her posture and fell asleep comfortably on William’s lap.

“Daddy, your phone!”

Dayton had ordered the takeout. He quickly told William when he received Frederic’s phone call.

“Dayton, bring the phone to Daddy.”

Jane had just fallen asleep on his lap. There were shadows under her eyes. She did not sleep last night and now needed to rest.

“Mr. William, the meeting will start in twenty minutes.”

Frederic was in a hurry. This was the first meeting about starting the underwater hotel project. It was to read the newest content, everyone! was a workaholic. He normally had arrived at the company at this time. Was he stuck in traffic?

As the special assistant, to read the newest content, everyone! over today’s meeting on behalf of me.”

If William stood up, Jane would immediately wake up. She finally fell asleep, and it would be difficult to fall asleep again if she was disturbed.

He instructed Frederic with a serious face.

Frederic widened his eyes and found something abnormal.

Perhaps William had quarreled with Jane, so he was not in the mood to work.

He was curious and wanted to inquire about it, but William quickly hung up.

What did he say? Did to read the newest content, everyone! Frederic was worried. He was not prepared at all!

William set his phone to silent mode in case that Jane would be disturbed.

When the takeout arrived, the security guard sent it to them. He looked inside as the door was opened.

Dayton took the takeout with a small cold face and then slammed the door.

The guard was speechless. He was just like his father!

“Daddy, can I be with mommy?”

Dayton blinked his eyes and wanted William to eat, so to read the newest content, everyone! decisively refused, warning Dayton not to disturb Jane.

An hour later, William’s legs grew numb. He gritted his teeth and remained motionless.

Jane slept soundly until the dusk.

Only then did William stand up and carry Jane to the bed.

He didn’t go to the company today and had got too much work. There was a lot to do at home. Ramiro’s parents happened to be nearby.

William asked them to take care of Dayton for a day.

“Daddy, I’m not here. You need to take care of Mommy!”

Dayton lingeringly left although William had promised he would.

“OK. Go.”

After Dayton left, the house immediately became quiet.

William dealt with the work in the study. Several parts of Frederic’s meeting minutes were not detailed, so he had to call him and make sure.

...

Jane was sick.

She had a fever in the evening.

She felt very uncomfortable.

She was very thirsty, but there was no water in her room. She struggled to get up in a daze. Then she forced her eyes open and walked out.

How long had she slept? She was groggy and had no idea.

After walking out of the room, she held onto the shelf on which there was a vase. She wanted to go to the kitchen.

Unexpectedly, she was too weak to walk straight, bringing down the shelf and vase.

Jane lost her balance and fell to the ground. The broken vase made a crisp sound.

“Janie?”

William was talking to Frederic on the phone. When he heard the noise, he opened the door. He was stunned by the scene and walked quickly to Jane.

What the hell was she doing?

Jane’s hair was in a mess, and she was pitifully lying on the ground. Her eyes were half open and her lips pouted. The heavy shelf just fell over on her.

William strode to her and quickly pushed away the shelf. He carried Jane in his arms. As he touched her, he frowned.

He reached out and touched her forehead. It was hot.

Before sleeping, Jane had taken ibuprofen.

He thought that she was sleeping because she felt uncomfortable and it was the side effect of the medicine. But now, she did not feel better but catching a fever.

“Water...” Jane was thirsty.

She couldn't even open her eyes as she grabbed something. She wanted to drink water.

Jane was unconsciously touching William's face. He grabbed her hand with a cold face.

She did not care about herself. He did not know if he was angry with himself or Jane.

For the whole day, he didn't notice. Nor did Jane.

William carried Jane back to her room and fed her water. But Jane had a high fever. Half of the water ran out of the corners of her mouth.

William frowned and paused for a moment. Then he held the water in his mouth and fed it to her.

They were kissing, but he did not have the drive. There was only worry in his eyes. In the quiet room, he could only hear the sound of swallowing. Jane in his arms gradually quieted down, but she was still hot.

William put down Jane softly and picked up his phone to call Robert.

He asked Robert to arrive within 30 minutes.

“There is no traffic jam now.”

William said clearly, but Robert thought he had heard it wrong.

It was not about the traffic jam. He was at home now!

It took him 30 minutes to arrive. But he needed time to put on clothes!

Jane's face was burning red, and there were love bites of him on her neck. It showed how hard he had been.

William lowered his eyes and cooled Jane down with ice.

Five minutes later, her temperature still did not drop.

Chapter 145 I Have an Emergency

William called Robert again, threatening, "Ten minutes. If you can't arrive in time, disappear from my sight forever!"

"What? Ten minutes?"

Robert was yelling.

It had only been five minutes and he was just dressed. There were 25 minutes to go, wasn't it?

Did William make a wrong calculation? Why just ten minutes left?

"Hey, please be reasonable..."

Robert tried to ask for more time. If it was that emergent, it might be better to call for an ambulance!

However, he did not dare to say this. His waist still hurt! William did not care about him at all. He thought William so ruthless, making an unreasonable demand on him.

"Robert, what's going on?"

Busy with the launch event, Elyse had just returned home. She was changing her shoes at the door. When she saw her brother going crazy, she hurriedly asked.

“William is crazy. He asked me to get there in ten minutes!”

Robert took his medical kit and was about to run out before he could even put on his socks.

“It’s cold. You don’t wear socks, but at least put on a coat.”

Elyse adjusted her glasses and reminded her brother rationally.

William was so anxious. It was definitely not about himself. Colin was abroad, so it was Jane who was sick.

“Ms. Jane didn’t come to the company today.”

Elyse reminded her brother to hurry over. Otherwise, William would really cut him off. He really would.

“My waist! You don’t care about me either.”

Robert grabbed a down jacket and dashed off without wearing socks.

Yesterday, he was felled by Jane’s shoulder throw. How did she have a fever today?

“Robert, that’s my down jacket!”

Elyse was speechless at the door.

She had just bought that red down jacket for the New Year. It was a classic version for women. It was new, and Robert would be the first one to wear it!

Robert had no time to go back. He went straight to the garage.

To arrive to read the newest content, everyone! had to drive as if he was in the international car racing.

He could make it, but there were difficulties.

Robert drove to read the newest content, everyone! As the woman riding the motorcycle was beside him, she looked at him with disdain. Then she overtook like a gust of wind.

Pearl came out for a ride and saw a speeding car in front of her. The driver was a man wearing a gorgeous lady down jacket.

Disgusting!

Pearl scoffed, quickly leaving him behind.

But soon the car caught up.

“Hey, hey, hey, lady, stop!”

Robert’s eyes lit up as he saw the motorcycle.

If he rode a motorcycle and to read the newest content, everyone! minutes!

He kept waving at Pearl from the back.

Pearl made a sharp turn and stopped, wanting to teach the transvestite in the car a lesson.

She felt disgusted being harassed!

Pearl stopped the car, picked up a small electric stick, and walked towards Robert, “Well, how dare you talk to me! I must teach you a lesson!”

“Lady, I’m not snatching your motorcycle. I have an emergency!”

Robert avoided Pearl’s attack, grabbed her helmet, threw the car key into her hand, and emphasized, “I’ve got something urgent. It’s not robbery!”

His driving license was in the car, so it was easy to find him.

Then Robert sped away, leaving Pearl behind.

What was going on?

She got into the car in a daze. She took out the driving license. The disgusting man was named Robert Sheen. Well, the name was not bad.

Wait, she needed to get him back!

Robert did not know this at all. He went to William at breakneck speed on the motorcycle.

After hanging up the phone, William sat beside Jane and checked the temperature of her forehead again. His gaze fell on her red face.

Ever since Jane was kidnapped, she had practiced yoga, and got stabbed for him. She had indeed lost a lot of weight, and her temperament was very different from the past.

She changed a lot. She always put him and Dayton first, and always tried to be strong before them.

Jane...

Suddenly, his heart ached.

William touched his chest, wondering why he would have this strange feeling.

He was even-tempered. He would just get angry when his subordinates did something stupid.

He did not have strong emotions. Then, why would he have this feeling?

"I'm here! You don't need to cut me off!"

Robert arrived about thirty seconds before the deadline. He rushed over with medicine and needles.

"I'd killed myself to get here. You may need to see me in the police station tomorrow."

It had been just ten minutes since he received the call. He ran the red lights all the way and was scolded by countless drivers who had been overtaken by him.

And he even snatched a motorcycle. He hoped that he wouldn't be arrested by the police tomorrow.

The owner of the motorcycle looked fierce. He might suffer.

It was just a fever. Was it really necessary to be so urgent?

Robert originally thought that Jane had caught a small cold and a low fever. However, when he saw Jane lying on the bed unconscious, her face flushed red, he looked at William in surprise, "What did you do to her?"

She was so seriously ill. Why didn't he send her to the hospital but called him over?

Robert was stunned.

Although Jane had been wrapped, Robert noticed the hickeys on her neck.

"It looks wild."

They were not made recently, so he supposed it was very wild at that time.

As a man, William should be gentle. How could he do this in such a wild way!

"Shut up!" William glanced at Robert coldly.

Robert did not dare to speak, but he was quietly feeling sorry for Jane.

William finally had the sexual drive, and Jane was his only woman, so Robert could understand that he was that wild.

"What are you waiting for? My pleadings?"

William spoke again. Robert quickly walked to Jane. But she was wrapped up like a mummy. He really did not know how to treat her.

"Just treat in this way. She has a fever."

William coughed with embarrassment and said coldly.

"Let me make it clear first. I am a doctor. I touched her because I need to treat her. I am a professional doctor. You can't get even with me later."

Robert covered his face. Doctors treated patients regardless of their gender. He could not even remember how many women he had treated.

Chapter 146 Abnormal Possessiveness

What a society it is! He was just examining how Jane was. William treated him as a thief. Robert covered his face, refusing to look at William.

William did not answer. Instead, he glanced over coldly.

Robert did not dare to delay any longer. He quickly examined Jane. He refused to touch or look at what he shouldn't. In the end, he finally finished examining Jane with a head full of sweat.

He was clearly a western medicine, but he was like an herbalist doctor except for feeling her pulse.

"If there is a red line, I can use the red line to feel her pulse."

Robert joked. It was William's old way, abnormal possessiveness, which was quite scary.

Robert didn't dare to say much. It was just that the fever was a little strong. Jane might not be able to recover quickly after taking the medicine. He could only ask William, who had some clinical experience, to help Jane to give her an anti-fever injection.

It wasn't that he didn't want to do it, but the body part to inject wasn't something he could touch.

Damn, he can't even touch. What a terrifying possessiveness!

Robert rolled his eyes, not knowing what to say. Yes, he and William had known each other since they were young, so, he knew William's eccentricities.

It was rumored that the CEO of the Duncan Group was extremely cold to his wife. There was a basis for the rumors. At least, William had always treated her as air.

Robert had just returned to China and realized that this was not the case!

“William, is that alright? I’ll go back first if you don’t need me.” Robert smiled apologetically when he saw that William’s complexion had softened a little.

Robert was very depressed. Jane refused to go to the hospital even with a fever. Did the couple have a secret?

Perhaps there was something else in it.

Perhaps, Jane got scars all over her.

No, it was domestic violence? No, it should not be, but some kind of eccentricities. Robert could not figure it out for a long time and was still confused.

“Yes.”

Jane’s fever had already subsided. William was too lazy to reply to Robert.

“William, I really have to go!”

Robert walked out gloomily. He shouldn’t have gone to study medicine!

He was sweating profusely to come here. At least William should provide him a cup of water. He was kicked out right after he finished examining!

Hum, different treatment.

“Let me tell you, William is really a beast!”

“I swear I’m not lying!”

After Robert left, he began to send messages to the group. They had a WeChat group, and all of them were elites of different areas. Most of them grew up together and received the Duncans’ funding.

Robert called William a heinous to read the newest content, everyone! of them told him to go to bed. None of them believed him!

“It’s hard to be a man, and even harder to read the newest content, everyone! face and realized that he still had someone to talk to. It was his sister Elyse.

The lights in the room lit up the whole night. William sat beside Jane and accompanied her until dawn. He left till he was sure that her fever had really subsided.

When Jane woke up, her head was still in pain, and now she was even more dizzy and dazed.

It was dawn, and she seemed to sleep for another night.

Jane vaguely remembered that she to read the newest content, everyone! night, and when she occasionally woke up, she found that he was still around. From time to time, he helped her wipe her face.

“Darling, why aren’t you at work?”

After washing up, Jane came out of the room and was surprised to see that William was still at home.

“Don’t just stand there like a fool. Eat first.”

William frowned. When would she learn to take good care of herself? She fell ill in a row.

There was a pot of to read the newest content, everyone! Looking at the color of the porridge, she knew the pot wasn’t burned. And the side dishes were bright and delicious, making them very appetizing.

Seeing that Jane was still standing there foolishly, William filled a bowl of porridge and placed it in front of the seat she used to sit.

“In the future, take care of yourself first.”

William’s voice was cold, but behind the coldness, there was a deep concern.

Yes, she should take good care of Dayton, but she to read the newest content, everyone! In the situation that night, Dayton would not catch a cold even if without the down coat.

On the other hand, Jane had fallen ill one after another, and her body had not fully recovered yet.

"I know."

Jane stole a glance at William and felt touched.

She knew how persistent he was about work, but in order to take care of her, he didn't work for two days.

There were so many maids at home and nurses in the hospital, but he didn't want any of them.

"Darling, I know you're busy. Don't delay your work for me."

Jane meant that she could invite the maids to come and cook for Dayton.

"So, don't get sick. Because if you are sick, I will delay my work."

He did not raise his head. His voice was cold and there was a trace of awkwardness that was hard to detect.

He was worried, and even in the company, he wanted to come back to see the situation.

"Don't worry, I'm really fine."

Jane picked up the bowl and took a sip of porridge.

The taste was unexpectedly good.

A bowl of porridge was quickly finished.

After eating it, her stomach felt a lot warmer and more comfortable.

He is really amazing. After failing once, he immediately mastered the technique of making porridge. Every grain of rice has a strong fragrance.

Seeing that Jane had finished, William stood up again, scooped a bowl for her, and placed it in front of her.

"Darling, I can't eat it."

“Can I eat later?” Jane looked at William cautiously.

“No, it’ll get cold in a while.”

There was no room for negotiation in his words. Although Jane recovered, she still had to rest in peace. She could not get in a draught.

The company’s trivial matters were all handed to Elyse.

“Alright.”

He was so stubborn that Jane had to sit down and eat the porridge. She ate three bowls in a row.

William finally stopped because there was no porridge in the pot.

She breathed a sigh of relief. The fever came quickly, but it wouldn’t last long, and she would get better soon. She knew her physical condition very well.

Indeed, because the original owner of this body was fat and lacked exercise, her body was not good.

In the future, she still had to strengthen her training.

The phone rang.

When William saw it was from Robert, he wanted to hang up immediately.

He would never forget the look in Robert’s eyes before Robert left last night, full of desires. It was not like that!

After much thought, he pressed the answer button, but accidentally touched the speaker.

“William, help!”

Robert was in the police station, while Pearl, who had accused him of robbing a motorcycle, sat next to him.

“What happened?”

Jane cast a curious look.

“Jane, please beg William for me. I’m here because of you.”

Robert was depressed. He had been knocked on the door by the police early in the morning and brought into the police station directly. How unlucky he was!

He wanted to return the motorcycle to the woman and wait for the woman to contact him, but it was the police officer who came.

“Cut the crap. I’m telling you, you disgusting sissy. Do you think I won’t recognize you if you don’t wear women’s clothes today? Let me tell you, I will still recognize you no matter what you are dressing!”

Pearl sat on the chair with her legs crossed and scolded Robert.

Chapter 147 Colin’s Little Trick

“Who are you calling a sissy? Where’s your manner? Watch your mouth!”

Last night, Robert was in a hurry, so he quickly grabbed a down jacket, and he didn’t notice it was for females.

It was an emergency on top of an emergency. Robert didn’t have time to care about his outfit.

Robert was going to save a life! It was a big thing!

“Fine, it’s my fault for stealing your motorcycle. But I was doing it to save a life. By the way, I give you my car, how was it a ‘robbery’?”

Robert defended himself. He did the right thing this time anyway, so he got nothing to hide.

“You intercepted me and rob my car in the middle of the night. I don’t give a fuck what you’re up to. You’re freaking me out.”

It was the first time Pearl saw such a prick! 'You need to make some calls? Who do you think you are?' Pearl sneered.

She just wanted Robert to know that he broke her iron plate!

"Pearl Rich?"

Jane felt that she once heard the voice somewhere, but she wasn't sure about it until she listened to it for a while.

"Last night, I told Robert to show up within 10 minutes. He was in a rush and borrowed your motorcycle."

William wasn't in the chat group, but he was a spy in the other direction. Yesterday Robert dissed William a lot in the group.

There was probably a significant misunderstanding, so he had to stand up for himself.

William cleverly used his words to emphasize that Robert wasn't robbing. He borrowed it for a reason.

"Janie?"

Robert put the call through onto speakerphone, making it convenient for Pearl and Jane to talk.

"It's me."

In case Robert was put into jail, Jane had to get involved in this and defend him.

'Indeed, if he weren't for saving me, he wouldn't have been in such a hurry.' Jane had it in mind.

"Jane, you know this woman?"

Look at her! How could she be a friend of you?" Robert cried out.

Pearl was asking for Jane's health. She was pissed off after hearing Robert's comment, "What do you mean by that?"

"It means nothing."

Robert replied, rolling his eyes and folding his arms.

Pearl moved her wrists and fingers. She really wanted to teach the scumbag a lesson.

But they were in the police station, so she had to dial it down a bit.

“Since it’s a just mistake, you two explain it clearly and shake hands. Case closed. It’s fate that to read the newest content, everyone! coming. The cops didn’t want to ask for trouble, so they let Robert and Pearl make peace.

“Who wants to befriend her/him?”

to read the newest content, everyone! at the same time.

They first glanced at each other and turned around.

“Alright, it’s my bad, okay? If I didn’t feel sick, it wouldn’t be so terrible. How about William and I take you guys to a five-star restaurant?”

The dishes in the underground restaurant she had last time were quite good.

William brought her the takeout last time, but it was tasty. So, if they had it there, it would be much more delicious.

Jane looked at William for his to read the newest content, everyone! there was no seat. Money talked.

“See you tonight, Janie.”

Pearl wanted to say something to Jane, so she left the police station first. Robert at the back rolled his eyes on her.

It was only a few days to the Spring Festival, and William was preparing to go abroad.

A piece of good news came from overseas. Colin woke up from his coma.

“Pick up the video call.”

William said in a straight face, but he sounded a bit anxious. That to read the newest content, everyone! connected, and William first saw Jane on the phone.

“My dear Janie, you seem to lose a lot of weight.”

In the video, Colin’s head was wrapped in gauze and waved at the camera. He spoke in a low voice, but they could hear it clearly.

The operation seemed to be quite successful, and it did not ruin the nerve center.

“Grandpa.”

Jane muffled her mouth and couldn’t help bursting into tears.

She missed her grandpa so much. Now that he had woken up, Jane was blissful.

In the original text, Jane and Colin were dead.

But at the moment, Jane didn’t die, and Colin also survived. Things were changing for the better.

Perhaps the best was yet to come.

“Janie, we’ll be all right. There, there.”

Colin raised his hand to touch the screen as if he was touching Jane’s tear-stained cheeks.

“It’s a blessing to eat and stay healthy. I miss the chubby Janie. You’re skinny now. It’s not a good sign, girl.”

“Grandpa, I know.”

Jane pulled William into the camera. In fact, during the time Colin was in a coma, Jane and William had made some progress in their relationship. They were on the mend.

When Jane was sick, William took care of her. After that, they seemed to be closer than before.

What was love?

Jane had no answer. She had never been in a relationship before, but Jane knew that she couldn’t leave William. As long as he was by her side, Jane would feel secure.

If you put yourself out there, it would backfire.

But she wasn't afraid to do that because she had gained a lot.

"William, did you live with Janie now?

Colin heard from Lainey that Jane moved to the apartment. It seemed that they would live with his grandson in the apartment.

'That would be great. Maybe I will have another great-grandchild soon.'

Colin was gloating at his plan, and he even thought that his sickness helped them a lot.

At his age, how much longer did he expect to live? In the future, when he wasn't around, Jane at least had William.

That's why he made such a big effort to set them up. He needed that William and Jane loved each other.

"Living together is a good thing."

When Colin saw Jane snuggling up to William, he muttered.

Back then, Jane's parents died for him, and Jane was the only person in the world they couldn't let go of.

Colin would try his best to let Jane live a good life, but what if he died?

'If I were dead, it would be tough for Jane.' Colin thought.

He finally saw them living a happy life, and he had no regrets.

"Grandpa, as soon as William settles the company's affairs, we will take Dayton abroad, and then we can celebrate the Spring Festival together."

Jane couldn't hide her joy. Recently, she was at a very low point in her life. Finally, she received good news.

"No, you guys shouldn't come here."

Colin was still recovering, so he couldn't talk too much.

After the surgery, the doctor had him on low sodium and low-fat diet, so he had to spend the Spring Festival in the hospital.

He got Lainey, and several nurses in the hospital took turns to take care of him. When he got better, he would return home.

“Have William brought you to worship the ancestors.”

Colin had this little trick. He was trying to give them the chance to stay together.

He forced his grandson William to marry Jane, but William never accepted Jane. Even if Jane gave birth to Dayton, she and William were still distant.

The Duncans had a rule that the daughter-in-law should go to worship the ancestors. If Jane did this, she would become a member of the Duncans from then on.

In this sense, Jane hadn't been officially accepted by William.

“But worshipping the ancestors will miss the Spring Festival celebration.”

Jane didn't know it was the family rule of the Duncans.

She looked at William, hoping that he could say something for her.

“Okay, Grandpa. I will do that.”

William pondered for a moment and agreed.

“What?”

Jane felt it was odd because the Spring Festival was the day of a family reunion for her. The ancestral shouldn't be as important as the family reunion.
