Chapter 1181: Kayden (9)

Kayden felt something odd when he heard the doorbell ringing, how could it not? He didn't actually live in this house and he just rented this house only for last few days, nor did he have any friends to come visit him, so it was impossible for Kayden to have a guest.

And Kayden's suspicions proved correct. From behind the curtain, he could see two uniformed policemen standing in the doorway.

Of course this was a strange and unreasonable thing. Why did the two police officers come to his house after last night's incident?

Yet, it was make sense since there was the fact that he just knew a few days ago, which was Tiana's ex-lover, Oliver, was the son of a policeman who has a high rank in this city.

Hence it was right to assume that Oliver could freely use his parents' power for his own interests.

This whole thing was really messed up...

After seeing that the two cops were checking the car parked in his yard, Kayden didn't have to wait long or confirm his suspicions, because the only things on his mind were; to save Tiana from here.

Therefore, without waiting any longer, Kayden immediately ran back into the house to tell Tiana about this, that they had to leave now.

"We have to go right now." Kayden pulled Tiana's hand, so she immediately stood up.

"What is it?" Tiana looked confused, but the fact that she was no longer afraid of being around Kayden made him feel better.

"Police," Kayden replied curtly and with that one word, Tiana could immediately understand the situation they were in.

"What should I do?" Tiana asked, she looked towards the front door and the sound of the bell ringing scared her.

"Listen," Kayden said, he placed his hands on both side Tiana's face so the girl could only focus on him. "I want you to do what I say," Kayden said quietly.

Tiana then looked at him, her eyes glazed over, but she tried to focus on what Kayden was about to tell her.

"Go to the bedroom and put some clothes in the duffel bag in the closet, then go to the park and wait for me there." The park Kayden was referring to was only a block away, so Tiana should be able to reach it in just five minutes of running.

Tiana nodded her head, but then she remembered something. "Then what about you? What will happen to you?" she asked.

Kayden chuckled when he realized that Tiana was worried about him.

"Don't worry about me, I will be fine," Kayden said lightly. It's not a big deal for him to deal with humans.

"Are you going to kill them?" Tiana asked suspiciously, her eyes wide with shock at the words she had spoken herself. "Don't kill them."

Kayden took a deep breath. His mate was adorable, but he needed to do something else right now.

"I will not kill them. No lives will be lost here," said Kayden in a reassuring voice. "Listen. Wait for me at the park and don't go anywhere, okay?"

Tiana looked at Kayden for a moment and nodded before the man finally let go and Tiana ran into the room to follow what Kayden just said.

=====

"The car is in the name of Tony Gestova," said one of the policemen, they came with a warrant and searched the house.

Meanwhile, Tiana had left the house without the two policemen noticing.

"That's my father's name," Kayden replied. He scowled because it turned out that what he had brought was his father's car, because so far they had never questioned the name under the car they bought was.

Torak could no longer use his name because of a case many years ago. Torak Donovan's name as a shifter and non-human being became a byword in society and was reported everywhere when the veil that separated the world of humans and the astral beings disappeared.

All of his companies were forcibly shut down and he couldn't use that name anymore, during that time, Torak spent most of his time in the pack.

But, actually all that was not a problem because shifters have a very long life while humans didn't, and they have limited memory and information about it.

Therefore, it only took a few years, until things calmed down, for Torak to be able to expand his business again with a different name, while still managing everything.

"You are Tony Gestova's son?" asked the policeman.

If the cop hadn't mentioned the name, maybe Kayden would have been confused about remembering what the name under the car was actually.

"Yes, he is my father," Kayden replied calmly.

"Then tell us where you were at around midnight last night?"

=====

If it wasn't for Kayden's amazing senses, maybe he wouldn't have been able to find Tiana so easily, because not only was the girl waiting in the park, but she was also hiding under the slide, where Kayden had a hard time seeing her, hugging the backpack that Kayden asked her to take.

Meanwhile, Tiana almost screamed very loudly when she saw the white lycan approaching her if only Kayden didn't quickly turn into his human form.

"Hey, calm down, it's me, I..." Kayden immediately approached Tiana and calmed her down. "I thought you wouldn't be surprised anymore."

"I am not used to seeing that..." Tiana muttered while groaning in fear. Her body was still shaking, but she didn't resist Kayden's touch, which was a good thing.

"We have to get out of here now, let's go," said Kayden as he took the backpack from Tiana's hand and carried it while his other hand reached out for the girl.

Tiana then took Kayden's hand and tried to stand up, patting her pants, to remove the dust and dirt that had stuck to her because she was sitting on the ground.

"What about the two policemen? What did you do to them?" she asked worriedly because Kayden might do something she didn't expect.

"Don't worry, they are fine," Kayden said calmly as he pulled Tiana to the main street and waited for a taxi.

Kayden knew what was going on in his mate's mind and so he explained in detail that he had just let them wait in the living room while he sneaked out of the house.

"They can't see you in your other form?" Tiana frowned in disbelief. "But, why can I see you?"

"Because you are different," Kayden answered quickly.

Tiana's frown deepened when Kayden said that. "I feel bad when someone as odd as you says that I am different. Is that a compliment?"

Kayden laughed at that. "I will explain later, and yes, you can take that as a compliment."

A taxi then stopped in front of the two of them and Kayden held the door open so Tiana could enter first, after which she said an address as their destination.

"Where are we going?" Tiana asked confusedly, Kayden seemed to know very well what to do and how to deal with this situation. It goes without saying that this man is a trustworthy leader.

"We are going to stop by one of my family," Kayden replied. He was running out of money and one of the most essential things in running away was money.

"Your family? Your mother and father?" Tiana asked wide-eyed. "I don't think I..."

"No..." Kayden immediately cut her off and grimaced. He still didn't want to go back home, even though he knew that his father could solve this problem in a snap of his fingers. "He is a close friend of my family who is considered family."

=====

"Is he a dwarf?" Tiana asked in a very low voice, like a whisper, looking up at the creature that was no more than her knees tall.

"Yes, his name is Nutdrouk," Kayden replied as he stepped into the room filled with various items while Tiana clung to him and looked scared to explore the big house filled with strange furniture.

"I heard that, lady," said Nutdrouk in a hoarse voice, like the sound of a crow. "And I am not your family, so why do you come here?"

Nutdrouk stomped his short legs and looked at Kayden with a puckered nose, as if he didn't like the sudden visit.

Yes, indeed there were not many things that the dwarves like...

"I just killed people, so I need a car to escape and also money," Kayden replied calmly, while Tiana looked panicked when Kayden said all that honestly.

Could they believe the creature in front of them, who seemed that he didn't want to be involved in any trouble Kayden delivered to him at all.

And the fact that the creature wasn't even surprised when Kayden said it was he, who had killed someone didn't escape Tiana's attention.

"Your father could have solved your problem quicker, so go to him," Nutdrouk grumbled. "And you don't have any money anyway, so go away. I do business here."

"Just put it on my dad's bill," Kayden replied lightly.

"No," replied Nutdrouk curtly.

"Are you fighting with your father?" Tiana asked curiously, but Kayden just waved his hand, as if he didn't want to talk about it. That's not the right topic for now.

Kayden then stepped over to Nutdrouk and crouched down in front of him. "You're really not going to help me?" he asked in a threatening tone, his eyes staring straight into Nutdrouk's green eyes and making the dwarf groan in annoyance as he thought how troublesome this young man was.

Chapter 1182: Kayden (10)

Nutdrouk knew that these two fathers and sons had almost the same traits.

Both stubborn and fond of threatening someone else to get what they wanted, only, the part that irritated him the most was the fact that he can't fight either of them.

No, even Raine and Aurora have the same tendencies and the two women could become very terrible if their wishes were not fulfilled.

It seemed Donovan had bad influence to their surroundings.

Every time the Donovans visited him, it was certain that Nutdrouk would get endless headaches and this really annoyed him, but in any case, they gave him a lot of money.

So it can be said that the relationship between the two was a kind of love- hate relationship.

"I am not going to give you what you ask for until I get the right price and the money," Nutdrouk said in a voice that sounded very determined, but actually it took all his willpower to refuse Kayden's request.

"Are you seriously going to do this to me?" asked Kayden, now his black eyes stared at Nutdrouk fiercely, as if he was ready to pounce on the dwarf. It's really annoying when someone refused your request right in front of your crush or, in Kayden's case... his mate. It was really annoying and Nutdrouk did that to him.

"Y...yes..." Nutdrouk replied unsure of what he was saying. Well, Kayden was as scary as Torak.

"You will see how I destroy your small business once I get my position as an Alpha," Kayden said in a sinister voice. "You know what my problem is and why I ran away from my pack and my father?"

Of course news of Kayden ran away from the pack had already spread, only because Torak didn't take action could his naughty son still roam free.

But, if Kayden came back and took on his responsibilities as an Alpha, of course the problem would be solved in an instant.

"I can destroy you just this easily." Kayden then snapped his fingers and that's not an exaggeration because that's how easy it was for Kayden to destroy Nutdrouk and his small business.

The dwarf looked very angry. He thought he'd been immune to the Donovans' threats, but Kayden had really pissed him off.

It's just that, apart from obeying the orders of this future alpha, what else can he do? Because it was impossible for him to fight it.

He then stomped his short legs and cast an annoyed look at the girl standing not far from Kayden, as if she had such a big mistake against him.

"Careful with your eyes," Kayden warned him.

"I'll put this on your father's bill. You have to remind him to pay for it, or Raine or whoever. I want my money!" Nutdrouk grumbled. He didn't care where Kayden got the money, he just wanted all of this annoying brat's requests to be paid off. They were a very rich family, why did Kayden have to complicate matters by running away?

"You take it easy," Kayden said, patting Nutdrouk on the back, as if they were old, close friends.

Then, Nutdrouk walked with furious steps, took Kayden's wish list which Tiana was holding roughly and walked away to collect the items they needed on this ridiculous escape.

=====

"Is... all of this, all right?" Tiana asked with a disbelieving face. She still wasn't sure what she was going through.

They got a car, a large box of money and also some equipment such as clothes, pants and other things, all of which were ready in the car they were driving now.

"How did you... how did you get all this?" Tiana looked at Kayden who was driving beside her with disbelieving eyes. "Are you... a rich man?" she felt stupid to say that.

At this point, Tiana tried to remember the names of the rich people in this city. Or maybe Kayden wasn't even from this town...

Meanwhile, hearing Tiana's statement, of course it was very funny for Kayden and this made the man laugh.

"Sorry," he said, trying to be polite, but Tiana shook her head and didn't look the least bit offended by what Kayden had done.

"No, no need to apologize, just answer my question," she insisted.

"Well, you can say that..." Kayden said confidently, he really enjoyed the admiring gaze of the girl next to him, not only that, Tiana even asked a few questions after that and looked amazed after hearing Kayden's answer.

While their conversation seemed to never run out of topic, the sky outside was getting darker and the lights from tall buildings could be seen.

"You mean you own several companies? But under a different name because you guys are shifters and have to cover up your identity?" Tiana wanted to be sure about this and saw Kayden nod. "Then, which are your company buildings in this city?"

Tiana then waved her hand at the buildings in front of them that were so tall and beautiful, especially at night like this. They exude luxury as well as extraordinary charm.

"Hm... all," Kayden replied calmly. He didn't mean to brag about this, but indeed they were in the center of town, where the entire building there belonged to his family, but of course under a different name.

"No way..." Tiana couldn't believe it, she looked at Kayden, waiting for the man to laugh and say that he was just joking, but unfortunately, Kayden didn't do that. He only glanced at Tiana and focused himself on the road in front of him. "Are you serious?" Tiana asked.

"I am serious," Kayden reassured his mate.

Tiana was speechless for a moment then she glanced at the box in her lap which was filled with money. "You're not afraid to give me this much money?" Tiana asked, gazing the box.

And once again Kayden laughed happily, as if what Tiana just said was like the funniest joke he had ever heard.

"I can give you more than that," Kayden said in a serious tone, although a sweet smile still adorned his lips.

Tiana felt her heart beat faster when she heard Kayden's statement and couldn't understand how she could meet this man and what made Kayden want to do all this for her.

Since the only way to get the answer was to ask, and that's what Tiana did.

"What made you do all this for me?" Tiana asked with a serious face.

=====

Tiana woke up when it was midnight and when she looked at the driver's seat, she panicked a little when she saw that Kayden wasn't there.

But then she saw the man was inside a minimarket, seemed to have bought something and now they were at a gas station.

And after seeing that Kayden was really there, Tiana started to feel relieved again. She thought that she was abandoned, but apparently not...

And when she looked at the clock on the dashboard of the car, it was already midnight, which meant that Kayden had been driving this car for ten hours non-stop.

Tiana felt guilty for causing so much trouble to the man, but only, Kayden was so stubborn and forced to drive the car, not giving Tiana a chance to take turns.

This reminded Tiana of the answer he gave a few hours ago, before she fell asleep very soundly.

'Because you are my mate.'

It was a simple word, with such an extraordinary meaning, that Kayden had told her to answer his curiosity.

Tiana didn't know that the term actually existed in the world of shifters, but she had heard it from her grandfather.

Yes, actually, it could be said that Tiana knew about the shifters' lives from her grandfather who was always telling her stories about these astral beings and how they had lived among humans decades ago.

His grandfather believed that even now these astral beings still live among humans, only that they went back into hiding because humans were annoying creatures.

Tiana often laughed when she heard this, but not now. She knew that humans were annoying creatures and now she agreed with it.

Especially humans like Oliver, he was the kind of human that must be exterminated and should not be allowed to roam around in this society.

"Oh, did I wake you up?" Kayden asked when he got into the car and found Tiana already awake, the girl was looking at him with a sleepy face and slightly messy hair.

"No, I just woke up." Tiana then yawned at the end of her explanation. Seeing that, Kayden ruffled the girl's hair and made Tiana slightly dodge.

"Sorry, I'm not used to it," said Tiana in a low voice, but Kayden didn't seem to mind at all, he then handed a large plastic bag of food to Tiana's lap.

"I don't know what you like, so I bought what I thought was good," he said as he ran the car out of the gas station.

Tiana knew that she didn't need to be this defensive towards Kayden and the fact that this near-perfect man loved her unconditionally because of the mate bond that existed between them, made Tiana feel much calmer, but of course, she still didn't expect this to be the case.

"Are you sure you want to take me all the way to my parents' house?" Tiana asked while eating the sandwich she found.

"Of course," Kayden replied confidently.

They should be able to get there two days from now if they had to stay overnight, but something happened on the second day of their trip.

Chapter 1183: Kayden (11)

Kayden took a room for the two of them to stay in before continuing their journey on the next morning.

And the place Kayden took was a luxury hotel which made Tiana widened her eyes.

"We don't need to stay in a hotel this expensive," Tiana said, she didn't agree with the value of money that had to be spent for them to stay here, which was not even half the day.

"No, I am not taking you to a cheap hotel," Kayden replied as he unpacked a large bag of clothes and took a boxer from inside. "Do you want to take a shower first, or should I take a shower first?" he asked.

Tiana opened her mouth to say something, but then she shook her head. "If you have enough money to rent a room in this place, then why are you only renting one room?"

Kayden shrugged his shoulders nonchalantly. "It would be a waste of money if we had to rent another room," Kayden answered, then he walked to the bathroom to take a shower first. It was already night, so they had to rest soon, because their journey tomorrow would be very long.

"If you think it's a waste of money, then why are we here?" she asked cluelessly.

But Kayden couldn't hear the protest, because he had turned on the shower and started bathing.

Meanwhile, Tiana could only sit there, waiting while changing several news channels on television.

How did she end up with Kayden? It was the most absurd thing that had ever happened in Tiana's life and she would never thank him enough for what he had done for her.

While out there, Oliver, her ex- boyfriend, who she had been dating for the past eight months, was trying to hurt her, and here, she felt safe with a stranger she hadn't even known for a month.

Tiana stared at the television screen, even though she wasn't actually watching it, because her mind was elsewhere and she couldn't stop thinking about all of this after she met Kayden.

No one knew how long Tiana pondered in this matter, but as soon as she realized, Kayden had come out of the bathroom, his short hair was wet and water ran down his broad chest.

Okay, this is too much... is Kayden teasing her?

"What are you doing?!" Tiana half screamed in panic when she saw the man standing right in front of her wearing only boxers, while one hand was drying his hair with a towel.

"You're looking at me intensely, therefore, I'm trying to help you get closer look, do you like what you see?" he asked. And Kayden was happy when he saw the blush on Tiana's cheeks, indicating that she was embarrassed.

But her next words didn't show that at all, especially when she shoved Kayden away from her, groaning.

"Do not be too confident. You are not the only man with a good body in this world," Tiana said fiercely. She didn't mean to say it so sharply, but her embarrassment at having been caught staring at Kayden so intently, made Tiana unable to help but get defensive.

Tiana then used that moment to flee to the bathroom and even have time to lock the door.

It took a second slower for Kayden to realize this. "How many male bodies have you seen!?" he asked irritably.

The fact that Tiana already had a boyfriend before even meeting him was already upsetting him, especially with the other fact that she had seen another man's body. That's very annoying.

=====

Kayden couldn't sleep well because the sofa he was laying down was very uncomfortable. However, what was most obvious reason for him was because Tiana was sleeping not far from him and was in a fragile state and this made his heart flutter...

He could hear the sound of her breathing as well as seeing her body wrapped in the blanket and this was driving him crazy. When he could touch her, but couldn't because it would only complicate what was between them.

Tiana didn't reject him yet, but maybe it was also because she was afraid that Kayden would stay away from her while she knew for sure that right now, in critical times like this, he was the only one she could rely on.

That fact was a bit disturbing, but Kayden didn't mind it at all.

Annoyed, Kayden threw down the blanket and walked over to the bed and carefully lay down on it.

Kayden tried not to make any sudden movements and wake Tiana up.

For a while, Kayden just lay on his side and stared at the girl's face, but then after he was sure that Tiana was deep in her sleep, Kayden reached out his hand carefully and hugged the girl very gently.

Crazy. Crazy. Crazy...

Kayden kept cursing himself for doing this to Tiana, but he couldn't help. What else could he do?

He had been tossing and turning restlessly on the sofa for almost an hour and couldn't sleep at all.

Okay, this may sound stupid and this justification can't be justified, but Kayden was trying to convince himself that he was doing this for both of them.

He needed rest, or else their trip would be delayed.

And when Tiana was in his arms, Kayden could breathe a sigh of relief, he kissed the top of the girl's head and hugged her tighter, Tiana even snuggled closer toward him, resting her head on Kayden's chest without her realizing it, because she was looking for a more comfortable position, and laying her head on the man's chest was making her sleep more soundly.

"It's better this way," Kayden said in a low voice as they both found a better position.

=====

Neither of them talked about last night's events, or the fact that the two of them had woken up hugging each other.

Kayden thought Tiana would be mad, but it seemed she just looked embarrassed and quickly packed up.

Today's trip was much more fun than before and they both felt that this was not an escape but just a picnic.

And it feels good.

On the way, this afternoon, Tiana found out that Kayden was a bad singer. He was completely tone-deaf and she teased him for it.

A tease that moved to other tease and the awkwardness between the two of them just melted away.

"What are we going to eat?" Kayden asked when it was time for them to have dinner, and the sun had set an hour ago.

"Maybe we can buy snacks," Tiana suggested. "My parents' house is only about twenty minutes away, I'm sure they have better food than any restaurant around."

Kayden smiled. "Okay fine." It's been a long time since he tasted home cooking.

And they both decided to stop the car at a small shop on the side of a quiet road.

Only, before Kayden could get out of the car, someone had come to the side of his car and shattered the windshield.

Kayden could see the shards of glass flying right in front of his eyes, but out of the corner of his eye, he could also see that another man would do the same to Tiana.

Oh, hell! He won't let his mate get hurt.

Thus, without thinking, Kayden grabbed Tiana's body and hugged her tightly, using his own body as a shield, while his foot kicked the door on his right side open.

With great difficulty, Kayden pulled Tiana out of there very carefully, so that the shards of glass wouldn't scratch her.

Only, as soon as his feet hit the ground, a punch flew to his face and made Kayden fall, and so did Tiana.

"You think you can run away from me?!" a voice of man roared, very frighteningly and violently, while Kayden struggled to his feet, amidst the rain of fists slamming into his face.

He was really fed up with all this.

And when he saw Oliver grabbed Tiana's hair and drag her between the shards of glass. Kayden couldn't see anything anymore, except darkness as his anger clouded his vision and he turned into his white beast.

There were about ten people there and they were driving four cars parked haphazardly around this deserted place.

Meanwhile the people in the small shop, not far from them, were a group of middle- aged people who could do nothing but shout for them to stop.

Kayden had really run out of patience and when he was in his lycan form, he wasted no more time and instantly tore into those who came into contact with him.

Meanwhile, on the other hand, the ten people were shocked to see Kayden's body suddenly disappear from their sight and one by one their friends roared in pain, before their bodies cut into two or had their heads separated from their bodies.

It was the most terrible thing they had ever seen and before they could understand what was really going on, it was too late, for they were already dead.

Only Tiana was able to see the whole incident and was very shocked when she saw how savage and brutal Kayden's real figure was in his beast form.

Even Tiana didn't notice when Oliver released his grip on her hair and tried to run towards the car.

It's just, too bad... Kayden had crushed his head in a very sadistic manner and made the blood spray around him and splashed at Tiana.

The girl sat limply, no longer able to feel the pain in her body...

Chapter 1184: Kayden (12)

Tiana was frightened when she was seeing how Oliver's head was crushed by the white beast, in his firm grip, Oliver's head seemed to have no meaning. This was done very easily.

Even Tiana did not have time to close her eyes to cover herself so as not to see such a terrible thing.

Tiana's body trembled and her legs went limp as the thick red blood splashed onto her face and more blood splattered around the bodies of the other ten people who had died helplessly at the monster's hands.

And when everything was over, there was an eerie silence that ensued as the white lycan stared at Tiana through its bloodshot eyes, as red as the blood he had shed.

And not only that, when the lycan walked up to her with his face still covered in blood, Tiana couldn't move an inch, as tears of fear rolled down her face.

Realizing that his mate was frightened by being around him, this made the lycan negated his intentions and stood in his place, before finally the white beast transformed into Kayden that Tiana knew.

The man looked at Tiana gently, but the wrinkles on his eyebrows indicated that he was worried about her.

"Tiana," Kayden called in a trembling voice. His face was a little pale and he didn't look in good condition at this time. Was it due to the effect of the slightly dim light of the street lamp?

Tiana couldn't figure out the answer because in the next second, Kayden's body had fallen to the ground and he was motionless.

What else is this? What is wrong with him? Is he hurt?

The questions kept spinning in Tiana's head, but she couldn't find the answers, because what she saw now was the figure of Kayden lying helplessly on the solid asphalt among the corpses of the humans he had killed.

What is wrong with him?

Tiana was scared, she wanted to approach Kayden, but her body didn't want to compromise with her, she couldn't even move a finger now.

Luckily, some old people who were nearby, in a small shop they were about to approach, immediately came to her.

Small commotions and screams that could be heard, revealed how terrifying the scene was, continued to echo around Tiana. This made her head spin.

People around her asked how she was and what happened, but Tiana had no answer to offer them, she just shook her head weakly.

Until someone shook her body.

"Do you know the man over there? He is still alive. I saw you two getting out of the car together, are you his friend?" asked an old man standing in front of Tiana, blocking her view of the remnants of what had just happened.

"Still alive?" Tiana asked, her voice distant and filled with emotions that were hard to describe.

"Yes, still alive," the old man reiterated.

"Yes, I know him." A strange sense of relief flooded Tiana and she no longer thought about the misfortune that Oliver and his friends had to endure.

Kayden is still alive....

Tiana clutched Kayden's cell phone while waiting for her family to come to be with her at the hospital.

Until this moment, the doctors didn't know what happened to Kayden and they didn't understand why he still hasn't regained consciousness after being examined, because there were no serious injuries on his body, one could even say that he wasn't injured at all.

Not only that, there were no signs that he had hit his head which could cause him to be in a coma like now.

No one understands...

However, Tiana knew some things that they didn't. Kayden was a shifter, probably there was differences between treating the shifters and normal human.

"What should I do...?" Tiana sobbed softly. She sat in front of Kayden's room, holding his cell phone.

Maybe this was inappropriate for Tiana to do this, but she didn't think there was any other way she could find to save Kayden.

Since Kayden was a shifter, then maybe the person who understood him was another shifter.

So, with that in mind, Tiana opened Kayden's cell phone which luckily didn't have a password and searched his phone's contact list.

All names related to his home or parents and after some time, she found a contact name that read 'mother'.

With trembling hands, Tiana pressed the call sign on the number and waited a while when the incoming call tone rang.

Tiana's body trembled and she felt her blood rise to her head, causing her vision to become blurry. Maybe this was called a panic attack.

Tiana didn't know what to tell Kayden's mother about her child or how to start telling her about this horrific incident.

Was it okay to call his mother? Or maybe she should call his dad? Because what mother wouldn't be hysterical when she found out her child had just killed ten humans in such a brutal way...

But, what Tiana didn't know was; Kayden's mother has killed more than her son has ever done...

The ringing of the call ended. Nobody picked it up.

Tiana dropped her hand limply. Should she try calling again? Or should he wait for Kayden to wake up? Because according to what the man said, he was having a feud with his family...

But, before Tiana could decide, the cell phone in her hand vibrated again and the same number she had called earlier called her back.

"Hello?" Tiana said in a low voice.

There was no answer for a while, before finally a soft- sounding female voice asked her a question.

"Who's this? Isn't this Kayden's phone?"

"This... my name is Tiana... and Kayden..." Tiana stammered when she started telling her the story. It's very difficult to repeat a terrible story, especially one that traumatized you.

Because by retelling it, it meant you have to remember the incident again. However, Kayden's mother listened well.

=====

Tiana was being hugged by her father and mother, they looked worried at Tiana's condition and told her to go home, but the girl insisted on accompanying Kayden there. She wanted to be there when Kayden woke up or when his family came.

Tiana estimated that Kayden's family would come in about two days because it was quite far from where they were, therefore, it was fine for her to go home.

But somehow Tiana didn't want to leave Kayden alone there. She felt much safer with this man.

And when the sun was shining brightly and Tiana was still asleep from exhaustion, she was woken up by her mother because there were some policemen looking for her.

"Who?" Tiana asked with a pale and frightened face, hearing the word 'police' certainly made Tiana imagine Oliver, where his father was a high-ranking policeman.

So from that reason, he could act arbitrarily and do whatever he liked, because not only was Oliver's father an important official, but he also spoiled his only son.

"A policeman is looking for you," said her mother with a worried face, because she felt there was something strange about this policeman.

Tiana had not had time to ask further or listen to her mother's explanation, when the hospital room door had opened and a man, whom Tiana knew was Oliver's father, walked into the room.

"Tiana, we meet again," he said. However, from the way she called out her name, Tiana could tell that there were various terrifying threats hidden behind his seemingly harmless smile. "Can we talk for a minute?" he asked.

"You know him?" her mother asked worriedly.

"Yes, I know him," Tiana replied in a choked voice. She then gave her mother a smile and told her to wait outside. "It's okay, mom. He is the father of a friend I know," Tiana explained.

Only then did Tiana's mother leave the room, but with a worried expression on her face.

Especially when she walked out and saw that there were two policemen standing guard at the door. They didn't look friendly at all.

When it was just the two of them, Reymond, Oliver's father, sat beside Kayden's bed, he stared at the young man lying unconscious with a disdainful and disgusted look.

"So tell me what happened?" the man asked with authority.

"I don't know..." said Tiana. It's not that she didn't know what happened, but she can't explain it, because what had happened couldn't be explained with common sense. And again, Tiana couldn't possibly tell anyone that Kayden was a shifter.

She remembered well the story from her grandfather who told her there was a time when the shifters were being hunted down.

"You did not know?" Reymon asked fiercely. "I can kill him and say I don't know."

Tiana was shocked when she saw Reymon unplug Kayden's oxygen tube. "Stop it!" Tiana screamed in panic. "You can kill him!"

"Of course I can kill him and no one will know. I can put you in jail, and accuse you of doing it and no one will ever know."

=====

Torak helped Raine down the flight of stairs and took her by the hand into the car that was waiting for them.

"Don't scold him when you meet him," Raine reminded Torak, he still looked grouchy when he heard his son made such a mess. "I don't condone what Kayden did, but you would do the same if it happened to me."

Torak glanced at his mate and frowned.

"He took your ugly traits, so accept it," said Raine mercilessly. "Now you can feel how hard it is to face yourself. Stubborn men..."

Chapter 1185: Kayden (13)

Tiana stared wide-eyed at what Reymond had done to Kayden. He was a total jerk for pulling out the oxygen tube from Kayden.

"Stop it! You will kill him!" Tiana cried with rage, she stepped forward, intending to do whatever it took to hurt Oliver's crazy father.

Now Tiana knows where Oliver got his madness from.

But, then casually, Reymond took out a gun from his waist and pointed it at Kayden's forehead while smiling sweetly at Tiana.

"Now tell me who killed my son?" Reymon's calm voice was far scarier than anything and his eyes flashed the vengeance.

"Me! I killed your son!" Tiana exclaimed, she saw Kayden was having trouble breathing, even when his eyes were closed. "Now put the oxygen back on him."

Hearing this statement, Reymon burst out laughing, as if he had just heard the funniest joke he had ever heard in his life.

"Tiana... you didn't expect me to believe that, did you?" he asked in a hoarse voice, but then he saw Kayden's condition and decided to put his respirator back on.

This made Tiana feel a little relieved, even though Reymon still had the gun pointed at Kayden's head.

"You expect me to believe that you killed my son? And his ten friends?" Reymond snorted, he looked at Tiana with hateful eyes. "If it weren't for Oliver saying he just wanted to play with you, you wouldn't be able to approach my son with your status."

Tiana clenched her fists at her sides and looked deeply into Reymond's eyes. If it weren't for him holding a gun and being able to kill Kayden at any moment, Tiana would have cursed him and punch him on the face.

Unfortunately, the situation didn't allow her to do that.

Tiana wasn't sure that Kayden would survive if Reymond actually shot him in the head at close range, whether he was a shifter or not.

"Now, tell me what you know. Who is this man?" he asked.

=====

Torak and Raine walked down the hospital corridor, along with several lycan warriors who were walking behind them with Jack, the Gamma, in the lead.

However, there was a commotion that caught the attention of both of them, as it came from the room where their son was being treated.

A middle- aged woman was arguing with two men who were guarding in front of a room, and upon further inspection, it was indeed Kayden's room that Tiana had told her about.

"What is this?" asked Raine seeing the commotion.

"Don't interfere, go ahead and continue walking away!" exclaimed one of the men. He didn't even lift his head to take a closer look at Raine, because the woman in front of them was raging to enter the room.

Hearing the harsh answer from the man, of course Torak did not remain silent, immediately, his facial expression changed and he looked cold and stiff.

"No one talks to my wife like that," he said in a gruesome tone.

"Get out of the way, it's none of your business!" shouted the other men, he still didn't realize what danger lurked him for that arrogant attitude.

Only, Torak wouldn't get that away easily, not after they treated his wife like that.

So, instead of walking away, Torak came up to them and grabbed the man by the neck, lifting him up with one hand and causing an uproar from the onlookers.

"Torak," Raine warned him. "Do not do it."

Torak glanced at Raine, his wife's furrowed brows made him give up his intention to kill this man.

"Fine," Torak answered simply as he threw the man across the room until his body hit the wall and left a mark there.

Jack, who witnessed that, whispered to Raine. "Should I call Belinda now to erase these people's memories?" he asked.

"Yes... call Belinda," replied Raine with a deep breath.

She then grabbed Torak's outstretched hand and stepped into the room where Kayden was being cared for, after Torak told Jack, "Take care of them," he said simply.

On the other hand, Tiana's mother looked surprised, she couldn't believe that a human had this ability. For a moment, she just stood frozen in place, until a young woman gently pulled her hand away, and smiled at her.

"You must be Tiana's mother, right?" asked Raine, while Torak put his arm around her, while Jack and several bodyguards were cleaning up the mess that Supreme Alpha had caused.

"Yes... and you?" she asked timidly.

"I am Kayden's mother, Tiana's friend," Raine replied casually and the two of them entered the room, only to see a much more shocking sight.

A man was sitting by his son's bed with a gun to Kayden's head, while Tiana was standing on the other side of the room, looking terrified, but anger could be seen in her beautiful eyes.

"Tiana," She immediately approached her daughter and hugged her tightly. "What's going on here?" she asked.

Seeing this, Raine was worried about her son, but what she was much more afraid of was Torak's reaction.

"My love," Torak called her, but the affection didn't sound sweet to Raine's ears at the moment. "Could you take the two of them out of this room for a while?"

"Torak," Raine called. "Don't overdo it," she said.

"Don't worry."

Precisely when Torak told her to not worry, it was a sign for Raine to start feeling worry.

However, this was not the time to argue with her husband, she then smiled sweetly at Tiana and her mother, holding out her hand.

"You must be Tiana, nice to meet you, let's chat outside while drinking tea," said Raine in a soft voice.

"But..." Tiana still looked hesitant to just leave Kayden, but Raine reassured her that everything would be fine.

And when she was outside, Raine told Jack to keep an eye on Torak. "Don't let him overdo it." The word 'overdo it' here, of course involved someone losing their life.

=====

"Who are you?" Reymond asked with narrowed eyes when he saw Torak before him. He could guess who he was, but he just wanted to confirm this.

"Can you get your gun off my son?" asked Torak coldly. He then casually took the sofa and sat there.

"You pointed a gun at my son."

Of course the aura emanating from him was so strong that it made Reymond feel uneasy.

"Who are you?" Reymond ignored Torak's question and kept his gun pointed at Kayden's head.

Because his words were not heeded, this made Torak a little annoyed. There was no one who did not listen to what he has to say, especially one who threatened the safety of his family.

Thus, he reached out his hand and grabbed a ball-shaped display from the table and quickly threw it at Reymond's head.

Torak knew that the man wouldn't be able to accidentally fire a bullet at Kayden, because the gun was still on safe mode and wouldn't fire.

"Fuck!" Reymond growled furiously. "You do not know who I am!?"

Torak tilted his head when he heard the question. "I don't need to know who you are, but I think you need to know who the person you're dealing with."

Hearing those words, Reymond lost his temper, he then quickly grabbed his gun and fired it straight at Torak's chest.

But, alas, Torak saw the movement and he had gone through more battles to be able to dodge a bullet with ease.

"What?" Reymond didn't even notice that Torak was walking towards him, as he watched how he could dodge a bullet so accurately. "What is this..."

And in the next second, Torak had banged the man's head against the wall leaving a bloodstain there.

"I hope he doesn't die, otherwise mother will be very upset with you."

Hearing the voice, Torak turned around and looked at his son accusingly. He wanted to be mad at Kayden, but he didn't want to make a fuss with Raine.

This situation really sucks. Why did his wife always defend their children?

"No, he's just sleeping soundly." Torak kicked Reymond's body which had fallen at his feet and confirmed that the man had simply lost consciousness. "How was your sleep, kid?" he asked.

"You're making a lot of noise, how can I sleep so well," Kayden grumbled, he then removed his respirator and pushed himself up so he could sit down. But, it seemed that it will take him a while to do that, because his head ached so much.

"How many people did you kill?" asked Torak, he then sat back down on the sofa he had sat on, letting Reymond's body just lay on the floor.

Out there, Jack must have been struggling to cope with the people from the hospital trying to get in because they heard gunshots and the commotion the two Reymond's? people were making.

"I don't remember," Kayden replied, shaking his head. "Ten, eleven... I didn't count them."

"And you fell unconscious right away?" asked Torak.

"Yeah, I guess so," Kayden grumbled.

Torak has known this for a long time, that his two children, as well as the children of his other siblings have the same thing.

They couldn't kill humans, because the effect would be so strong against them. Luckily Kayden was only unconscious for a day.

"We have a lot to talk about," Torak said in a serious tone.

"Can't it wait until I feel better first?" Kayden complained.

"Drop your complain, you're the one who started this."

"Where's mother?"

"Even your mother won't be able to help you."

"Are you sure, father?"

Torak: "..."

Chapter 1186: Kayden (end)

Reymond was furious, when he woke up, he was in one of the wards in the hospital and his superior was sitting beside him.

With great difficulty, Reymond tried to sit down and straighten himself, before he finally spoke in a low voice.

"Sir, why are you here?" Reymond asked his superior, he looked at the old man in amazement.

This was not a natural thing for your superior to visit. Especially at a time like this.

But then he remembered the man who had beaten him into pulp and instantly anger began to run through his veins.

Could it be that his superiors had come here to tell him that they had arrested the madman for daring enough to attack a policeman?

"You know who you're dealing with?" asked the old man, his face contemplative and displeased. "You should first find out the person behind that young man."

Reymond frowned in confusion.

"The murder case of your son and ten of his friends will be closed and will not be followed up, they died from a wild animal attack, and the evidence from their injuries supports that theory."

Reymond's face was very difficult to describe, but the main thing was; he did not believe that his son's case would be closed just like that. How could such an absurd thing happen?

Then the superior continued. "You will be reassigned to another city and it will take effect as soon as possible."

And after dropping all the shocking information, he stood up and said his last words.

"You never saw me here and don't find out who that man is, or else you'll be in unimaginable trouble."

=====

"Why do we have to stay at their house?" Torak continued to grumble while they were in the car, alone with Raine, while Kayden and Tiana were in different cars.

Today, after four days in hospital, Kayden was finally allowed to go home. Actually, when Kayden had gained his consciousness he could have gone home soon, it was just that they had some things to take care of, so Kayden was better off at the hospital.

"If we're not in that house, then where are we going to stay?" Raine asked, while leaning her head on Torak's shoulder and holding his hand so this husband of her could calm down a bit.

"We can find a hotel or an inn." Torak refused because he has to live in a human house and from what he could see, Tiana was not from a wealthy family.

Let's just say he's arrogant, but he didn't want to live in a foreign house that didn't have good service.

And Raine understood all of that. As a shifter who used to live in luxury and once hated humans because he thought they were very weak, of course this became a habit for Torak.

But, they have to do this for their son right? At the very least, they had to let Tiana's parents know that their daughter was in the right hands, so they could bring the cute girl back to their pack and Kayden could ascend the throne as Alpha.

Kayden had agreed on this after a long conversation with Torak. Raine suspects that Torak was threatening, rather than a conversation, their son to take over his place, with a murder case being as his leverage. Even towards their own son, this man was full of calculations.

But, things seemed to be going smoothly now, although Kayden still looked annoyed at his father and Torak didn't seem to care, at least the two of them weren't clawing and biting at each other like they had last time.

"No," said Raine firmly. "We have to get along with Tiana's parents."

"Their house must have no servants," Torak grumbled.

"Oh, stop grumbling like old geezers." Raine rolled her eyes.

"I'm hundreds of years older than you," said Torak.

And Raine laughed when she heard that. "Yes you're right. You are very old. I don't know why I can be with you."

"Of course because you can't stay away from me." Torak then saw Raine raise her eyebrows. "Yes, and I can't stay away from you," he said in a defeated tone.

=====

Tiana's house could be said to be simple, but also very beautiful to look at, and not only that, she has a large yard, where at night they could have a barbecue party outside the house and that's what they were doing now.

Torak was chatting with Tiana's father and it was easy for him to win the man's sympathy and pave the way for his son to face his mate's father.

Supposedly, his son thanked him for this.

But then, Torak saw Kayden was talking to Raine and his expression was a little suspicious, therefore, when Raine left, Torak immediately approached Kayden and he had a chance to see what was the thing in the blue velvet box.

"Where did you get the ring from?" Torak surprised Kayden with his question.

"I got it from Nutdrouk," Kayden answered lightly. "I intend to give this ring to Tiana."

Of course he would give the ring to Tiana, who else would he give it to, but it didn't matter to Torak.

"How did you pay Nutdrouk?" Torak remembered well that he had frozen all of Kayden's cards, one of the most subtle ways he could get his son home, instead of rallying all the lycan warriors and hunting him down, but how could he still buy such an expensive item from Nutdrouk?

Torak knew very well the price of the ring. It was only because Raine didn't want it that the ring could be in Kayden's hands now.

"I'll pay for it later," replied Kayden, he then closed the box and smirked at Torak.

However, when he was about to walk away, Torak stopped him. "You forgot that I froze your account?"

Kayden then folded his arms and looked at his father. The two blue eyes stared fiercely at each other, which made Raine a little worried.

"Father, did you forget that if I take my place as Alpha, then I will have all access?" Kayden smiled very sweetly. "It was in our agreement, isn't it?"

Insolent child...

Torak growled, but all he could see was his son turning around and walking away, smiling triumphantly.

Kayden considered freezing Torak's money the next time he went on vacation with his mother as they had planned, when he became Alpha.

Kayden was a little curious, how angry his father would be...

Chapter 1187: Selena

Selena felt happy, anxious, scared, panicked, worried, elated, and everything that can be said now to describe her feelings after meeting her mate.

He was a grown man she met a few days ago.

Selena was about to cross a street and the man passed by on his racing motorbike, looking so bright under the light of the sun.

He passed her and didn't even look at her, and the two- second encounter had her on the cusp for two whole weeks.

Two precious seconds to realize that the man was her mate and also two damned seconds because she has absolutely no idea who this man was, where he lived, or more importantly... how did she ever find that man again?!

Selena was frustrated. Really frustrated that she couldn't find a way to find him again.

Now, she lived far from home, since they were always moving from place to place and no longer lived in the same house.

Because no one would believe that she was the daughter of Kace and Hope, as they were both not old enough to have a child who has reached early adulthood.

Her parents looked like a young couple and acted like one.

Therefore, this time Selena chose to live in an apartment that she had been dreaming of for a long time.

And she had only been in this city for two days when she met her soul mate.

Those two seconds really made Selena desperate.

"Argh!" Selena threw her pillow against the wall and let out an annoyed roar. The beast within her wanted to meet her mate. Hey, she wanted the same thing. But, where is the sexy man?!

And it was only after almost giving up, two months later, that Selena met the man again.

At the supermarket, while he was buying a pack of cigarettes at the cashier.

It was nighttime and not many people were in the area, and although many would say it was unsafe for young women to walk alone, this supermarket was the closest to Selena's apartment.

And she almost screamed with pleasure and jumped for joy when she saw the sexy man again, clad in a black leather jacket and messy looking hair. He looked very mature and very handsome...

Well, this was a very subjective judgment, since the man was her mate, but for the next few seconds, Selena indulged herself by standing right behind him, enjoying his distinctive, masculine scent. He was tall and Selena's head would only reach his shoulders.

"Excuse me, your item?" asked the cashier who was standing next to the cashier, who was serving her mate.

And Selena hated the fact that she was trying to be friendly to her mate, but, seeing how his mate treated her coldly, certainly made Selena smile proudly.

Selena then walked to the cashier next to her and gave her all her groceries, but just at that moment, her mate left, holding a cigarette in his right hand and stepping outside into the cold night air.

"Oh, damn!" Selena cursed loudly. She then immediately rushed off after the man. Hell, she wouldn't lose him again.

She ran out of the supermarket, ignoring frustrated calls from the cashier handling her groceries, which she just left without paying.

The cold night breeze blew against Selena's face as she ran, she pulled up a blue bear- print jacket, which wasn't attractive at all.

Not in this outfit Selena wished she could meet her mate, but she had no other choice.

And to run back to her apartment to put on more appropriate clothes, of course that wasn't an option at all.

On the other hand, the man walked briskly towards his black racing motorbike, parked a little further from the supermarket he was visiting and also near a group of young men who were rotating their cigarettes at each other.

The man was seen checking all the pockets of his jacket and pants, while a cigarette tucked between his full lips. It was a sight that made Selena's heart flutter.

He looked absolutely amazing under this moonlight.

Oh, Selene. This man is so perfect... Selena exclaims in her heart.

However, one thing Selena realized after that, that this man was not a shifter. He was just an ordinary man...

Or, is he?

Because in the next second, when the man realized that he couldn't find the match in the pocket of his pants or jacket, he flicked his own hand and from the tip of his finger there was a small flame that burned the tip of the cigarette.

Selena held her breath when she saw the sight. What's that? Is he a wizard? She wondered to herself.

And the fire that was at her fingertips was extinguished when he took a deep breath and exhaled white smoke from his lips into the air.

It wasn't unusual for Selena because she had seen several witches do this. Which meant her mate is one of them?

Selena had to reconfirm about this.

And to do so she immediately walked over to the man, but her curiosity and enthusiasm overcame her common sense which told her to make this meeting as natural as possible.

Instead...

"Hey!" Selena exclaimed as she got close to the man, surprising him with an unexpected greeting. "Are you a wizard?" she asked excitedly.

The question slipped from his lips before he could even stop it and by the time Selena realized it, it was too late.

The man looked at Selena with a strange look, his eyes narrowed, as if he was observing a strange young girl wearing a bear jacket in front of him.

But, instead of answering the question, the man walked back to his motorbike, ignoring her.

"Hey, I'm talking to you!" Selena sprinted at a brisk pace to keep pace with his, ignoring the stares of the four young men there waiting for some drama to unfold in the evening.

The man walked briskly to his motorbike, but Selena already ran ahead and leaned against it.

"Get out of the way," he said coldly.

Ugh! Looks like he doesn't feel the mate bond... Selena complained. Well, this will be a challenge then...

Chapter 1188: Selena (2)

Xander didn't know what this young girl in front of him wanted, he continued to stare at her intensely, as if she was about to swallow him up just by looking at him like that, but it wasn't a problem for him.

Because the main question was; what is this shifter trying to do by staring at him like that?

Yes, Xander knew that this girl was a shifter. werewolf? Werebears? He was not sure about that, but as a non-human being, he was not clueless about the other creatures.

"Get out of the way," Xander said coldly.

However, the girl didn't get off her bike either, she was still sitting there and Xander didn't like anyone else touching something that belonged to him.

"Get out of there before I hurt you," Xander said with sharper and threatening words. However, all he got was an expression full of interest.

This girl must be crazy.

The other women he met would have run away if Xander had shown his current dark mood.

They were indeed attracted to this dark side of him and kept trying to get close to him because of the mysterious aura he had attached to him, but once they crossed the line and Xander showed hostility openly, they would stop.

But, not with this girl. Either she was too stupid to grasp the threat behind Xander's words, or she was too brave to challenge him.

This time, Xander didn't say another word, but immediately removed the girl's body from his motorbike.

Only, as soon as they touched, there was something tickling, a sensation he had never felt before, but before his mind could decipher what it was, Xander heard the girl's voice screaming beside him.

"You feel it too, don't you? You feel that, don't you?!" Selena squealed in delight when she saw the surprised look on her mate's face.

Xander narrowed his eyes when he saw the enthusiasm of the girl. He then jumped to the side when the girl tried to touch him again.

Xander had never seen a girl as fearless and shameless as her.

"You feel it too, don't you?" Selena asked Xander, her big eyes wide with enthusiasm.

For a moment, Xander seemed to be hypnotized by those blue eyes. Her eyes radiated warmth and that was something that was missing in his life.

And after all, he doesn't need warmth when on many occasions he burned anything he touched.

"Don't touch me," Xander growled, when he saw the girl was about to touch him again.

Selena pursed her lips when she saw the rejection from her mate. "Why? Are you afraid that I will do something to you? Don't worry, I'm an honorable lady."

Oh, of course she's a lady of honor, she's from the Donovan line.

However, on the other hand, Xander was completely at a loss for words when he heard what the girl had to say. Not only was she shameless, this girl distorted the fact that she was the man here, didn't in general, if something happened between them, it was him who benefited?

Xander then threw his cigarette on the ground and stomped it, he was about to leave this strange girl, but his jacket was pulled back.

"What do you want?" Xander growled, couldn't she see that he was trying to hold his temper?

Selena didn't even know what she really wanted, so the question just slipped from her lips. "What's your name? May I have your phone number?"

Xander's jaw hardened when he heard that. He didn't answer the question, because just at that moment, four teenagers who were not far from them approached.

"If he doesn't want to give you his number, I can give you ours." One of them, who had black hair and wore a red shirt, said in a screeching voice.

"If he doesn't want to play with you, just play with us," said one of his friends who wore a yellow shirt with lots of piercings in his ears.

Selena frowned disapprovingly, she then turned to look at her mate, checking how he would react to this.

But, unlike what Selena expected, her mate was not really care as he started the engine of his motorcycle.

"Hey, isn't this the time when you should be helping me and beating up those four people?" Selena pointed at the four people who were bothering her, clutching her mate's jacket.

However, very viciously, Xander waved the girl's hand while saying, "pass."

After that, he rode away from there, leaving Selena to face the four men alone in an empty parking lot.

"Seriously..." Selena complained as she watched the big motorcycle drive away. She didn't even care about the danger that lurked her from the four people near her, because she didn't think that they were any danger at all.

"See, he doesn't want to be with you, so you can just be with us," said the man when, he tried to touch Selena's shoulder, but she moved faster and avoided him, without even looking at him, while her eyes were still glued to the corner where her mate had disappeared. .

"You don't have to beg when you're with us," said the yellow t-shirt man, and the four of them began to speak in inappropriately dirty words.

Only, Selena wasn't really listening, her mind was still fixated on the fact how she could meet her mate again, of course, she had memorized her vehicle number, maybe she could get something out of it.

But maybe it's not necessary...

A calculating smile etched on Selena's lips, she then turned quickly to the four men who were still demanding her attention.

"Hold my hand," Selena said as she reached out her hand to one of them. "Quick, hold my hand," Selena said impatiently.

The four men then frowned, of course this girl's change in attitude made them confused.

"Quick!" Selena exclaimed fiercely, which automatically made all four men grabbed her hands together, even though they still didn't understand what this girl wanted.

But, not long after, they could hear the sound of motorbike engines blaring in the distance and a sly smile on the girl's lips.

This girl is scary...

Chapter 1189: Selena (3)

Xander didn't think he was a moral man, but still, the image of him leaving a girl in the hands of four men haunted him.

He kept reminding himself that the girl wasn't human, she was a shifter and she had more than enough ability to fight the four men off. The shifter girl could beat the four of them and solve the problems she was faced with without needing anyone's help.

But then, one keyword bothered him; she was a girl. Shifter or not, she was a girl and leaving her in the hands of four assholes was not something he was proud of.

Well, Xander did a lot of things he wasn't proud of at all, but at least he didn't want to add this one to the lot too.

Thus, with a growl that overpowered the sound of his motorcycle, he changed directions and returned to the deserted parking lot where he left the strange girl along with the four other men.

Xander swore he would just kick the four men out and then leave immediately. He had no obligation to drive her home or anything like that.

After he chased away the four men, then he would surely leave.

And with that thought, Xander rode his motorbike back to the parking lot and saw the girl was a crying mess, while the four men grabbed her hand.

Xander's jaw clenched tightly and he got off his motorbike not far from them, turned off the engine and took off the helmet he was wearing.

"Let her go," Xander said calmly. A moment of serenity you should be wary of and apprehend.

The man wearing the yellow shirt, walked forward and pushed the girl to her three friends who were standing behind.

"Go away you asshole," he said mockingly. "She has agreed to play with us."

"Help me..." Selena said in a trembling voice full of fear. Her big, beautiful blue eyes were flooded with tears.

Xander would always feel a headache coming whenever he saw a woman cry. He did not like it. Not in a sweet sense, of course. He really hated women who cried, because they looked and sounded annoying.

"Let her go before you guys regret this," Xander said, this time walking up to them. The sooner this problem was resolved, the better.

However, the four men did not respond well to his threats and preferred to take the hard road.

And when the man in yellow approached Xander quickly, while throwing his fists, Xander moved swiftly and kicked the man's lower abdomen in a very fast motion.

It sent the man falling to the ground with a groan of pain.

Seeing his friend being kicked down, the three men immediately let go of Selena. They surrounded Xander while throwing insults and curses before attacking him simultaneously.

Oh, shit. He didn't expect himself to be in trouble again tonight, but this was the problem he was looking for, wasn't it? Xander could have gone and ignored this. But no, he just had to come back and become the girl's hero.

Sometimes what he knew and what he wanted, did not run synchronously.

It didn't take long for Xander to finish off the three men, and they fell one by one after being hit for just one time.

Receiving a single blow from Xander, felt like being punched hard for at least a dozen times. Was there a human who had such ability?

Too bad they didn't know that Xander wasn't human...

When the four men fell to the ground while groaning in pain, Xander didn't want to spend too much time there, so he quickly left, without even checking the girl's situation or saying anything to her.

However, as soon as he started the motorbike and put his helmet back on, he saw someone moving on his left and this made his heart beat faster as the handlebar of the motorcycle he was holding heated up, as if on fire.

His hands let out those damn flames again when he felt surprised or threatened, but luckily, Xander could control this much better now.

"I'm afraid to go home alone," Selena said in a low voice, and without permission, she climbed onto the back of Xander's motorbike, tightened her grip on the man's waist, hugging him from behind.

"What are you doing?!" Xander exclaimed in annoyance, finding the girl already on his motorbike. "Get down right now!" he ordered.

But, instead of getting off the bike, Selena buried her face in Xander's back and shook her head violently. "I'm scared."

"That's your business, not mine," Xander growled, but instead he heard the girl cry. And the only option to get rid of this girl was to throw the girl off his motorbike and drive away from there.

=====

Xander didn't end up throwing Selena off his motorbike, but instead he drove her home, or not...

"This is your house?" Xander asked, looking at a small restaurant in front of him, meanwhile, Selena got off the motorbike and tidied her hair which was messed up by the wind. She looked so cute with his black hair that now resembled a bird's nest.

"No," Selena answered lightly. "I haven't eaten yet, so I want to stop by here to buy some food, I'm hungry," she said.

Xander didn't know whether to cry or laugh when he heard that. Did this girl think that he was her personal chauffeur? Didn't she think it was too late? But, apparently not so with Selena.

"Have a good meal," Xander said sarcastically, he then started the two wheeler again and was about to leave.

However, Selena quickly turned it off and pulled out the key. "Let's eat first, I will treat you to repay your kindness for saving my life and my pride as a woman," Selena said, using exaggerated words.

"Give me back my keys," Xander tried to contain his emotions, he gripped the handlebars tightly, so he wouldn't lose control, but sadly, it didn't help enough, because Selena could see that.

"Or what? You're going to burn me?" she asked boldly, nodding at Xander's hand which was now puffing up a thin layer of smoke.

Following Selena's gaze, Xander immediately came to his senses and took a deep breath.

Witnessing that, Selena just laughed cheerfully. "You're too hot, you need to cool down," she said in a naughty tone. "I think they have plenty of cold water inside to cool you off."

Chapter 1190: Selena (4)

Selena ordered a bowl of spicy noodles for herself and a hot tea. But, her mate only ordered a bottle of mineral water and didn't order anything else, even though Selena had said that this time it would be her treat. But apparently, he didn't heed it at all.

"Indeed a cold bottle of water is what you need right now," Selena said nonchalantly, actually she was quite happy because this man agreed to accompany her to eat.

Actually Xander wasn't doing this voluntarily, but this girl in front of him was crazy enough to put his motorcycle keys in her shirt pocket close to her chest.

Then she casually told Xander if he wanted he could take it himself.

Xander had stolen, beat people and even killed, but of course he wouldn't lower himself to molesting a woman. It wasn't in his life dictionary.

"My name is Selena, what's your name?" she asked as she stretched out her hand after she finished eating the noodles she ordered and took a sip of her tea.

Selena put away the empty bowl calmly and looked at Xander intently.

"At least tell me your name," Selena said in a low voice, sulking.

"Give me the keys to my motorbike," Xander said impatiently.

"Your name," Selena insisted at her own pace and when Xander closed his eyes, a mischievous smile bloomed on her lips. "I don't know what you are, but I think you should hold back your emotions."

Xander then opened his eyes and glared at Selena fiercely, but then the girl looked at his hands and her facial expression turned into one of panic.

"Your hand!" she cried, whisper-shouting at him.

Automatically, Xander turned to look at his hands. He thought that he was burning something again, but there was nothing to fret about, so he looked back at Selena, who was grinning.

"Your hands are so beautiful, I mean," Selena said lightly, then leaned over and stared at Xander intently. "You look really tense."

Xander couldn't stand being around this girl anymore, he couldn't get used to seeing a smile on her lips or her demeanor being so calm and carefree, like she had nothing to worry about.

Maybe there was nothing to worry about, because she was not the kind of person to burn people when she was upset or angry.

Therefore, Xander immediately got up from his chair and walked away.

Seeing that, Selena let him be, because she knew Xander couldn't have gone far, as long as the keys to his motorbike were with her.

Selena sat there for about a minute, drinking her drink, then she left, but when Selena was about to pay for her food, the waitress there told her that Xander had paid for the food.

"Your boyfriend has already paid for it," the servant said.

Hearing the words 'your boyfriend', Selena's mood improved, she then smiled sweetly at her before leaving.

Outside, she found Xander sitting on his motorbike smoking a cigarette. Not many people were passing by in this area, or maybe it was because it was already late into the night.

"Where are my keys?" Xander said as he breathed out a thin puff of white smoke into the air.

"Your name." Selena is still stubborn.

Xander took a deep breath, before he finally said, "Xander."

"Lie."

Xander narrowed his eyes, as if Selena had just insulted him.

"So, your name is really Xander?" Selena then said the name again, feeling the way it rolled off of her lips. "Xander... Xander.... Beautiful name...."

"My keys." Xander didn't want to join Selena's creative imagination and make things warmer between the two of them, because he had no intention of being around this girl.

Reluctantly, Selena handed over the keys to Xander's motorbike and immediately jumped onto its pillion seat.

"What else now?" Xander frowned.

"Take me home..."

"Get down! I am not your personal chauffeur!"

=====

Sean often said that Selena always got what she wanted. His twin sister had her own way of getting what she wanted, by any method.

Selena seemed to have her own spell to make others submit to her wishes, a spell like a magician.

And it proved to be true.

When Xander emphatically said that he wasn't going to take Selena home, he ended up breaking his own words and now he was in front of the girl's house.

"Thanks for driving me home," Selena said as she looked at Xander. "But, there's one more thing I'm curious about you."

Xander stared at Selena silently, as if to say; what else do you want to know?

"Are you a magician? You can get fire out of your hands." Selena raised her finger, stopping Xander from interrupting his sentence. "Don't dodge, I saw you light a cigarette with your fingertips smoldering. So, are you a magician?"

"No." Xander didn't understand why he was responding to Selena, maybe the same reason why he agreed to take her home. A reason he still didn't know.

"No?" Selena tilted her head. "Then what are you?"

It might also be because this was the first time he had met another supernatural being who didn't immediately consider him an enemy. Because most of them would see it as a threat if he stumbled into their territory.

"I don't know," Xander answered honestly. "I can control fire."

"So you're a firebender?"

Those blue eyes flashed with enthusiasm again and maybe it was because of those beautiful eyes that stared at him without judgment, that Xander felt a little comfortable around her.

"I don't know what my kind are called." Then there was silence between them, while Selena seemed to be in thought. "Are you a shifter?" Xander asked. This time it was his turn to ask.

"Yes, I'm a lycan," Selena replied proudly.

Xander nodded slowly. Lycan... a powerful shifter...

"Then why are you following me around?" Xander asked, he could see Selena's face immediately turned red.

"That... hmm..." she looked shy and hesitant when she was about to finally say it. "This is something related to shifters..." She didn't know where to start. "You know, that every shifter has a mate..."

Xander's brow furrowed, but saw how Selena's demeanor turned shy and remembered the sensation he felt when they touched. Xander had to admit that he liked the sensation.

"Oh, no..." he mumbled. "Don't say that..."

"You're my mate," Selena said, finishing Xander's sentence.

Xander's eyes narrowed when he heard that. "Impossible," he hissed.

"Of course it's possible," Selena replied firmly. "You are my mate."

"This is crazy..." Xander whispered.

"Of course not, it's amazing!" exclaimed Selena excitedly.

Xander shook his head again.

"So, since you're not a shifter, may I mark you now?"
