209 The War!

Soon the series of wars started, the scene like war could be seen everywhere like the sound of gunshots were heard every day and the dense smoke had been seen in the sky every now and then.

The uproar was created in the backward area of South America where people from the Underworld had been staying with the other ordinary residences who were living their lives in poverty.

Initially, the enemy didn't know that their area would be attacked by some enemy to take control of their area, so they had to suffer a few blows due to being unprepared for this sudden attack.

However, they didn't sit back to suffer the blows, they started fighting back to protect their area. Therefore because of counter-attacks from the enemy, many team members under the leadership of Robert and Jack had lost their lives.

Although Liu Juan didn't show it, her body was very weak. Only Bo Xiao knew about this thing, so he was protecting Liu Juan many times. He was giving his food to her to make sure she was getting proper nutrition without letting Liu Juan know about it.

Liu Juan knew that he was trying to protect her during the time of fighting which she didn't know why.

Even Bo Xiao was feeling strange, but he didn't know why he started being protective of Liu Juan. He just knew what his heart was telling him and he was listening to it and did as it accord.

Besides, day-by-day, the mission was getting more difficult because of the counter attacks from the enemy. Many team members were dying, Liu Juan would have died if Bo Xiao hadn't protected her.

Still, nobody stepped back from the mission neither did Robert and Jack's teams nor did the enemy. Now they knew that there would only be one side as a winner or as a loser. At one point of time, it looked like this war seemed to be never-ending and with each passing day, the number of team members was getting reduced at a high-speed rate. Nevertheless, they had no intention of being a loser so they fought back to every counter-attack from the enemy.

Bo Xiao was badly injured, however, this time, Bo Xiao was one who led the team because of his effective performance which other team members had never seen before. He was a natural leader.

He was surprised to see his performance, but he knew that he had improved because of the motivation from Liu Juan. As well as personal guidance during their planning stages.

Whereas, Liu Juan was the worst performer in this mission. If Bo Xiao hadn't protected her, she would have died during the starting point of the counter-attack.

Team members were angry at her, their viewpoint was if she wasn't prepared then she shouldn't have joined for this mission. Why did she stupidity take the risk of her life?

Even though team members had known that they would die sooner or later during the mission, still they valued their life as a precious thing to continue to live their life.

Nevertheless, they didn't waste their time being angry at her and continued to put their attention on the success of the mission.

Days passed with every morning sun that rose and set and even a season was changed from winter to summer but the war still continued.

Everyone who was involved in the war didn't know when was the last time they had rest. Every day they were on edge to protect their life as well as complete what they came to do.

However, as the saying went, everything that has a beginning comes to an end eventually.

So would this war!

After seven months and 24 days, the war came to an end!

Under the leadership of Robert and Jack, but in reality, under the leadership of Bo Xiao, now South America came under their control.

As the war ended, the driver came back to pack the team members who were alive and injured while those who died, the driver didn't bother with them as they were only a part of the team as long as they were alive. After their death, their identity had also gone.

The driver sent another part of the team members who weren't a part of the war but they would look after South America's activities from now on as per the instruction of the man who would control this area.

However, who would control South America between both the brothers? It hadn't been decided yet. As their arrival was unannounced which meant their boss had planned something else.

But, what did he plan?

Well, they would know once they reached back to the villa.

Now, every team member was making their way back to the target location from where they had started.

Those who were injured were supported by the other team members as it was ruled that they couldn't get treatment here. So they had to go back to the villa to get the treatment as it would be a safer option because until they reached the villa. They couldn't trust anyone, not even the other team members.

Why??

As another saying went 'Your friend could be your greatest enemy.'

Based on every mission, every team member would get a promotion unless and until they hadn't died. Moreover, during the mission, they had seen how other parties had performed so everyone knew where they had stood. If one team member was standing in another's way then the latter could kill the former and remove the obstacle in his way.

So it would be better to be wary of your other team members as well.

Bo Xiao knew this very well and now it was time to use it to kill other team members who he hadn't done before.

Unfortunately for him, he was badly injured and didn't have the strength to kill both the brothers.

At that time, his sight went on Liu Juan and a sinister smile appeared on his face.
