

Chapter 108 Mr. Hunter Has Been Busy Lately

Last night ... Leon worked so hard.

But why did they work so hard and still have no children?

She took both herbs and western medicine. According to what the doctor said last time, there should be nothing wrong with her body.

Was the problem not in her body?

But in Leon's body?

She shook her head immediately at this thought.

No, Leon would not have a problem. Even if there was a problem, it would be her problem.

It seemed she should follow the doctor's advice, taking her medicine and sleeping more!

Alas!

It was useless to rely on hard work alone for this kind of thing. It also needed luck!

She hugged the quilt and sank into her thoughts. At that moment, her stomach began to rumble. She immediately got up and washed up to have breakfast.

Wendy had already prepared the medicine. As she ate her breakfast, she smelled the smell of Chinese herbs in the room. Maybe this medicine had a calming effect, and she soon settled down.

She still had exams, so she had been studying at home.

At noon, Leon called her.

He asked her to attend a party with him in the evening.

Alyssa wasn't interested in parties. These parties just provided a platform for people who wanted to expand their networks. There would be some commercial exchange and such. She didn't like that kind of environment.

But Leon would go.

He also wanted to bring her with him.

She agreed happily.

She was happy not because she was going to the party, but because Leon was going to bring her.

Alyssa received a gift box at 2:00 pm while she was studying.

Wendy brought the box in, "Mrs. Hunter, this is a gift box from Mr. Hunter. It looks like a dress. Would you like to try it on?"

"Okay." Alyssa put down her book and went to see the dress Leon had sent.

It was a pink dress with pearls and small diamonds embedded in it, sparkling.

Watching Alyssa's fondness show on her face, Wendy hurriedly urged Alyssa to try it on, "Mrs. Hunter, give it a try. If there is anything wrong with it, I will fix it right away."

"Wendy, you still have this skill?"

"I was a tailor when I was young. However, I just did chores. My sewing is not bad."

"Then, I'll try it on now."

She started to change her dress while thinking about how all-powerful Wendy was.

After changing into the dress, Alyssa couldn't help but take a twirl. This dress was as thin as a veil, and with the glittering pearls and diamonds, it looked stunning.

The key was that it looked very thin, but it was not transparent at all. It covered her body very well.

Wendy walked to help her fix her dress and looked her up and down, "Mrs. Hunter, it fits you perfectly. There is no need for any alterations."

"Yes, it looks great!"

Alyssa also thought the dress fit well. She looked down at her slippers and went to the cloakroom to change her shoes.

However, she couldn't find a pair of suitable shoes even after a long search.

She had hardly bought any clothes since she married Leon.

There were a lot of shoes here, but not a single one that matched the dress.

Just when she was worried about the lack of shoes, there was a sudden knock at the door.

Wendy answered the door and soon received another gift box with shoes.

She brought the box to Alyssa, "Mrs. Hunter, Mr. Hunter sent something else."

"Oh." Alyssa came out of the cloakroom, opened the box, and saw a pair of silver crystal shoes. The heel of this pair of shoes was not high, but because of its special design, it could make people look tall. There was also a delicate camellia flower on the heel, which was not only beautiful but also artistic.

Alyssa looked fresh and elegant in the crystal shoes and pink dress that Leon sent her.

She looked at herself in the mirror and thought that she looked most beautiful at twenty.

But as she looked at herself, she suddenly felt that something was missing. After thinking carefully, she realized that she didn't have any jewelry on her. So she opened the drawer and took out the ruby bracelet that Leon had given her.

This ruby bracelet not only highlighted her fair skin but also made her look very noble.

She looked down at the bracelet. Sure enough, Leon had a good eye.

7:30 PM.

Leon picked up Alyssa and took her to the venue.

As soon as he saw Alyssa, he was amazed by her!

He chose the dress himself. When he saw the model picture, he thought the dress suited Alyssa's temperament, so he bought it for her.

She looked better in this dress than the model did.

Once Alyssa got into the car, she saw Leon in a daze. She followed his gaze but didn't see anything.

She thought Leon might be too tired. So, she asked, "Are you too tired from work? Let me drive."

"No need."

Only after hearing Alyssa's words, Leon started the car and drove towards the venue.

Half an hour later.

Leon walked into the venue with Alyssa.

The venue was full of people. Leon led Alyssa forward. During this time, many people greeted Leon. Leon was not as aloof as usual and responded to them politely.

Alyssa felt that she was invisible. She felt a little bored when she saw that her surroundings were about the same as she thought they would be. Fortunately, Leon was right next to her, and she felt that she hadn't come for nothing when she could see him all the time.

She had felt good about not being noticed. But when they came to a stop in the middle of the venue, a lot of eyes fell on Alyssa.

Although Alyssa was very uncomfortable, she still maintained her smile on the surface and pretended to be modest and elegant.

However, her elegant appearance drew the admiration of many men.

She stood in the middle of the party, and from time to time, some well-dressed men greeted her. When many men passed by her, she could hear the voices of some women talking about her.

She heard those words with a jealous tone very clearly.

They were mainly discussing who she was. Why was she with Leon? Leon rarely brought a female companion to a party. She seemed to be the first one.

She was satisfied to hear that. Leon was a decent man. He wouldn't bring anyone else out except her.

However, they had been married for so long. He did bring her out very rarely.

She began to wonder if she didn't look good or what was wrong with her, so he didn't take her out.

When she thought about it, she felt inferior again.

Not far away, a fat figure came to them. That person was bigger in size and hard to ignore.

"Mr. Hunter, welcome!" The fat man walked over and shook Leon's hand, "We haven't seen each other for a long time. I heard that Mr. Hunter has been very busy lately."
