

Chapter 46 Entanglement

"Well." Leon Hunter found Alyssa Graham's voice sounded sick and asked, "Did you catch a cold?"

"No, but it is getting chilly and I am not wearing enough clothes. "

As soon as she finished, Alyssa felt the warmth from behind. She turned around and saw Leon's coat on her.

She wanted to move. Leon Hunter immediately said: "Keep it on!"

Alyssa Graham nodded, but she moved after all, pulling his coat closer.

Leon Hunter saw what Alyssa just did and raised the corners of his mouth. She didn't resist and looked tamed.

"Sit tight and fasten your seat belt. I'm going to start the car."

Hearing Alyssa Graham's warning, Leon Hunter quickly fastened his seat belt.

Alyssa Graham didn't feel cold and drove toward home.

At the intersection where the red light was on, Alyssa Graham stopped the car steadily.

Leon Hunter asked, "What have you been up to recently?"

"I'm preparing for my business English certificate examination."

"When is the exam?"

"I still have three months." Alyssa Graham noticed that Leon Hunter was concerned about it and elaborated a bit more, "I asked my tutor and he said that my English speaking was ok. I should have no problem passing the exam. But apart from this one, I have applied for other exams."

"Like what?"

"Banking qualification certificate, accounting qualification certificate and so on. I have to get all these. Plus, I'm not good at mathematics, which according to Ella, is not good for my grad school application. So I have to study hard for that."

"You mean you are going to apply for grad school?"

"Yeah, I have to. I think it's very important."

Leon Hunter glanced at Alyssa Graham.

"Do you think it's better not to go into grad school?"

"No. If you think it's good, it is good."

Leon thought that Alyssa did not have her mind on the study. Now he realized that's all she has in mind.

They have barely done the husband and wife business.

She kept herself busy when he was swamped by work.

For a moment, Leon Hunter felt that he had become dispensable.

Alyssa Graham cared about Leon Hunter and was sensitive to his feelings. She turned to look at him and found him lowering his head. But he still looked handsome.

She might have been so busy recently that she neglected Leon Hunter.

Studying was important!

But the husband was more important!

Now that she noticed this, she had to make her husband happy tonight.

At home,

they had dinner together, and Alyssa Graham served him tea. She saw that he was busy and did not interrupt.

She went back to the room to prepare for the exams.

When she heard somebody coming in, Alyssa quickly went to bed.

As soon as Leon Hunter came in, he saw Alyssa's eyes closed and was asleep.

Disappointed, he lay down next to her. Suddenly, two little hands went around his neck.

Leon Hunter was stunned.

He saw Alyssa Graham open her eyes and she kissed him on the neck.

Her warm and fragrant breaths felt really good.

Leon Hunter immediately pulled her to his chest.

"You did it on purpose?"

"Surprise, surprise, all for you. I know you thought I have been too busy. See I'm giving you a surprise. Don't be mad at me."

Leon Hunter heard Alyssa Graham's words, holding her warm and fragrant body. How could he possibly be mad?

An hour later,

Alyssa Graham fell asleep in Leon Hunter's arms.

Leon Hunter watched Alyssa falling asleep while holding him, and went over to kiss her cheek gently.

She slept soundly. With the warmth, her face was flushed and looked very cute.

She was getting better and better.

He leaned against her and fell asleep soon.

The next morning,

Alyssa Graham drove Leon Hunter to work as usual.

She would go to school after sending him to work.

In order to go with Leon Hunter's working hours, she always got to school earlier.

The study room was very quiet. She went there to prepare for the test and felt comfortable.

The study room seemed a little different today.

She heard somebody talking inside.

Alyssa wondered who would be earlier than her.

Bang!

The door of the study room opened.

Alyssa saw Ryan Young opening the door.

When Ryan Young saw that Alyssa Graham standing outside, he laughed.

"Alyssa, you are here. I thought you wouldn't come today! See you are 5 minutes later than yesterday."

Alyssa Graham saw the way Ryan Young looked at her, feeling goosebumps.

Listening to Ryan Young's words carefully, Alyssa easily found out that she had been followed by him recently.

No wonder she had been feeling something strange here. It turned out that Ryan Young was stalking her.

It was still early and she did not know whether the monitoring was on or not.

Looking at Ryan Young's face, she sipped her lips and thought that it would be better not to make trouble at school.

She did not talk, just watching Ryan talking.

"Alyssa, what happened last time has come to light. I didn't call the police. You should know how I feel about you. Even if you do something to me, I won't do anything to you. Do you understand?"

Alyssa Graham saw him coming closer and stepped back.

Ryan Young approached her step by step, "Alyssa, are you still angry about the wedding? I've thought about it. It's understandable for you to be angry with me. I know you don't like Leon Hunter. I'm sorry that I made trouble for you and embarrassed you."

He kept moving forward.

Alyssa Graham had to retreat.

The students used to come early.

But today nobody was here.

Where are the people!

Alyssa Graham was hoping that some of them could be here.

If there were other people, Ryan Young wouldn't dare to do whatever he wanted.

But nobody was around.

"Alyssa, can we go back to who we used to be? I really like you. You are the best girl I've ever met. After you, I have even seen anyone comparable to you."

With a genuine face, Ryan Young held Alyssa's hand.

Alyssa Graham looked at Ryan Young's face and felt sick.

She turned her head to look away from Ryan Young, but he pulled Alyssa's body back.

"Alyssa, look at me. Do you still like me? Our relationship has never changed, has it?"

Ryan Young looked sincere and wanted to tell Alyssa Graham that he really liked her.

But Alyssa's heart was very clear. It is true that the feelings between them have never changed, but Ryan Young's motive for her was never pure.

Thinking of what happened in the past life, Alyssa Graham wanted to kill Ryan Young.

She felt uncomfortable whenever Ryan Young touched her.

She threw a punch at Ryan Young.

Unprepared, Ryan Young fell to the ground.

He felt the warm, sticky and bloody liquid coming out and quickly covered his nose.

But between his fingers, he still saw blood coming out.

He sat on the ground looking at Alyssa Graham, and was so shocked that he forgot to stand up.

He knew that Alyssa Graham was really angry. He knelt on the ground in front of Alyssa Graham. He took Alyssa Graham's hand and said, "You're really angry. Why don't you beat me? Alyssa, don't be angry. If I don't have you, what can I do?"

What a shame!

If it was before, Alyssa Graham might have felt that Ryan Young was deeply attached to her.

That kind of sincerity would have deeply touched her.
