

Chapter 69 Shy

The only thing Alyssa lacked was experience!

He waited in the car at ease. An hour later, he saw Alyssa walking out of the club.

Alyssa got into the car and took out her phone and showed Hassan the pictures she had taken.

Hassan looked at a few pictures and asked, "Did anyone see you take these pictures?"

"Susan and this man were having a good time, so I don't think she saw me. This man ... looked back at my side. I don't know if he saw me. There should be no problem."

"You go back and check out this man's profile."

"I checked before. He is a shareholder of Summit Group. However, I don't know when he became so familiar with Susan. It doesn't look like this is the first time they've been here. The security guard at the villa said that Susan goes out for afternoon tea every afternoon, probably to meet with this man. By the way, this man's name is Eden Cooper and he is a rich man. You must know his mother, Kenya Canning, chairman of the Canning Group, whose husband Jerry Cooper died early. After that, she never remarried and raised Eden alone. She is a strong woman. Susan had the previous contact with Eden. Before she became Robert's secretary, she had a relationship with Eden. Eden's participation in Summit Group is a result of Susan's efforts."

Hassan nodded. He really didn't know this. He didn't expect that through Susan, Alyssa had found out so much useful information.

"In addition to that, I found out one more thing." Alyssa looked at Hassan, who happened to be looking at her as well. She said softly, "Susan not only has a relationship with Eden, but also has a relationship with other male shareholders of Summit Group."

"How do you know that?"

"A woman's intuition." She had no evidence of this now, but it did feel wrong. Because just now in the club, she saw Susan take a mysterious phone call behind Eden's back. She followed Susan to the bathroom and outside the bathroom, she heard Susan talking to someone else. She only knew that the person Susan was talking to was a man, but she didn't know the rest.

Women were naturally sensitive. She then felt that the man was related to the Summit Group.

"When will you be able to find out about this?"

"Tomorrow morning."

Alyssa's voice was steady as she responded to Hassan.

Hassan nodded, "Fasten your seat belt. We're going back to the office."

Half an hour later, Hassan and Alyssa returned to the company.

The employees of the company were even more surprised to see them back together.

But they never had any interaction after they came back, which made them, the speculators, feel guilty.

After work, Melany and Trent continued to work overtime.

Alyssa worked on her own, occasionally talking to them.

Hassan also worked overtime as usual. Everything seemed to be normal.

At six o'clock in the evening, Alyssa got up and left.

Melany said discontentedly, "Our case has been stalled. Mr. Wood will be angry if you leave now."

"I'm going to get something. I'll be back later."

She actually wanted to go pick up Leon. Leon should be off work by now.

"But ..."

"Melany, I'll be back soon. Don't worry."

She turned away and drove in the Hunter Group's direction.

Ten minutes later.

Hunter Group downstairs.

Alyssa called Leon.

Leon soon came out.

Alyssa waved happily at Leon as he walked out.

They hadn't seen each other for a day. Why was she so happy?

Seeing her so happy, he was suddenly quite happy too.

He got into the car and fastened his seat belt.

Alyssa started the car.

It was the same red light intersection as before.

Alyssa stopped the car.

She turned her head and saw Leon reading a paper. The light in the car was very low, but he still focused on it.

She looked at his face and couldn't bear to see him reading in this environment.

The green light turned on.

Alyssa started the car hurriedly.

Leon noticed that Alyssa's car went a little faster. He turned his head to look at Alyssa, "The intersection ahead is dark. Be careful."

"It's okay. Don't look at your paperwork yet, it's not good for your eyes."

"I'm a little busy tonight. I have a lot of work to deal with."

"Oh!" Alyssa nodded, "It just so happens that I have to work late after I send you back. I don't know when I'll be back either. You get some rest early after work."

"When are you coming back?"

"I don't know. I still have a lot of information to check probably."

Leon saw the exhaustion in her eyes and frowned, "You're not allowed to work late tonight."

"Huh?" Alyssa froze, "We're really kind of busy today. We have to work late."

"Take your work home."

"They're all working overtime at the office. It's not appropriate for me to work at home. I'll be back soon." Actually, Alyssa didn't know when she would be back. Now she got a lead, but she hadn't found out Susan's relationship with the other shareholders of Summit Group.

Even if she knew how to find out, she didn't have that authority to do so. There were many shortcuts she couldn't take, so she had to use some silly methods. The problems that her boss could solve in a few minutes would take her a long time.

She was already mentally prepared to find out nothing tomorrow.

Leon glanced at Alyssa, sensing the determination on her face, and didn't say anything.

She noticed his displeasure and looked at his papers, "You have a lot of work to do too, don't you? I'll be back when you're done with your work."

Leon looked at Alyssa, "Are you sure?"

Alyssa nodded seriously.

Looking at Alyssa's serious eyes, Leon suddenly compromised, "Then you go!"

Alyssa got permission and got close to Leon and kissed him gently.

Leon froze for a moment.

He got out of the car and watched Alyssa drive away. He touched his face. Should a man do that to a woman, shouldn't he? What kind of a woman had he married? Why wasn't she shy at all?

But ... he liked her, even if she wasn't shy.

At the thought of it, Leon's steps towards the villa were much lighter.

Alyssa didn't go back to the company directly and went to buy takeaway. She bought four simple dinners.

When she arrived at the office, the food was still hot. Alyssa invited Melany and Trent to eat, and then took one to Hassan's office.

Hassan was still busy checking the data. He looked up and saw a takeaway on his desk. When he looked out, he only saw Alyssa walking away.

At that moment, his stomach rumbled.

He took the takeaway.

When Alyssa came out, she saw that Trent and Melany had already started gorging themselves on food. They looked really hungry and weren't picky about whether the takeout was good or not.
