

Chapter 82 Life Only Comes Once

In the hospital.

She sat quietly in the corridor.

It was noon and there were not many people in the hospital.

She had just finished the examination and was waiting for the result.

At that moment, she suddenly heard a cry. She looked up and saw a woman crying and clutching a man's hand, who firmly shook the woman's hand away.

The woman lost her weight and fell to the ground.

But the woman hurriedly stood up and re-gripped the man's hand, "Honey, honey, don't go! I can definitely give you a boy. Let's try again! Don't go, okay?"

"How many girls have you aborted? I told you long ago that if you still have a girl this time, we'll break up."

"But it's not up to me to decide whether to have a boy or a girl. You just heard what the doctor said. The doctor said it's up to both of us. Honey, I still love you very much. I want this family. Can you please not leave?"

"I've had enough of you. You stay home every day, eat well and live well. I work alone to support you. Do you know how much pressure I'm under?"

"We talked about it before, didn't we? If I give you a son, I won't have to go to work. I can have whatever I want."

"You're just making an excuse for not wanting to go to work. Let me tell you, I can't live this life."

The man turned around and walked away, ignoring the people around him who were watching. Probably later he felt humiliated and ran twice as fast as before.

The woman just sat on the ground and cried.

Alyssa felt annoyed and walked to the side.

Women married men because of love. Later, the birth of the child was also because there was love at the beginning. How could two people be together without love?

There was no need to choose to have a boy or a girl. She had never bothered with this issue.

Right now she was more worried about whether she could have children.

It didn't exist in her time.

She didn't know the reason for it, but she only felt that this woman had no shame and dignity now.

At some point, the act of crying had become a means for women to take advantage.

She was upset and wanted to leave as soon as possible.

Before the drama was over, the doctor had called her name.

She rushed in and sat on the side. She was still a little nervous as she looked at the serious female doctor.

The female doctor smiled when she noticed Alyssa's nervousness, "Alyssa?"

"It's me."

"Your test result comes out. There's nothing wrong with your body. Have you been too tired lately? It's normal for young people to work hard, but you also need to get enough rest. There is nothing special about your body. But you need to rest more. When you rest well, your body will get better."

"I have no problem?" Alyssa's mood instantly got better.

"Of course! How old are you? How could you possibly have a problem?"

"That's good, thank you."

Alyssa walked away with a smile on her face. But just as she walked out the door, she saw a lot of people gathered around the door talking about something.

Several of them pointed upstairs. She followed those people's hands upward and saw a woman standing on top of the building. That woman was the one who had just sat on the ground and bawled.

Alyssa saw that she had stepped over the parapet and was about to jump down. Her mind suddenly flashed to the image of her last life suicide.

She quickly ran upstairs.

A few minutes later, the sound of the police car rang out. The police car had just stopped and Alyssa had already run to the top of the building.

She looked at the woman who was about to jump and tried to stop her. But thinking of her determined attitude in her last life, she felt that this woman must have made up her mind about jumping off the building. What she said would not only not stop the woman, but would provoke her.

She simply said nothing and hid to the side, observing the surroundings.

Alyssa watched from the corner as the woman stepped over the parapet. If she jumped forward, she would be able to end her life easily.

She couldn't rush to stop the woman. She also panicked a little. At that moment, she suddenly heard a panicked cry. She turned her head to the woman and found that she had just accidentally stepped off the ground. Now half of her body had fallen. She clung to the roof railing to keep from falling.

She rushed over and took the woman's hand.

Her hand suddenly emerged and became an instant lifeline for the woman. That woman held Alyssa's hand tightly. Alyssa was happy at first, but after a while, she could feel the woman's hand trying to let go of hers.

She held her tightly, "You have to hold on to me as tightly as you just did. Don't let go."

"Just let go of me! I don't want to live anymore. My husband wants to divorce me. I'll have nothing left, not even a home. What's the use of me being alive!"

Alyssa cursed the woman in her heart. She simply yelled, "Are you fucking stupid? Do you only have men in your life? Don't you have anything else in your life besides men? Work, study, friends, family? You can pursue love, but you have to pursue what is worth pursuing. Never mind, I'm too lazy to bullshit with you! Life only comes once. If you don't grab it now, you'll have nothing left later!"

Alyssa's voice was not small.

The woman heard it clearly, and her hand unconsciously re-gripped Alyssa.

She knew that if she really jumped here, she would die.

She could never start over again.

Alyssa finally felt the woman's grip tighten on her hand. She hurriedly pulled her hand upward as hard as she could. Just as she felt she was running out of strength, there were suddenly several hands behind her. Those big hands were steady and strong and soon helped her to grab the woman up.

The woman cried as soon as she was pulled up, and Alyssa walked to her, "Are you fucking stupid? You just almost died. I can assure you that when you die, the man who can't give you home will immediately give another woman home. I really haven't seen anyone as stupid as you."

"I ... I have no choice. Otherwise, what can I do?" The woman cried in anguish. She was already like this, but why was she still being scolded?

"There are many things you can do. You can try to live better, work and study well, so that people who don't want you can understand that you can live well alone. Look at how useless you are now! Even I look down on you for being like this."

Alyssa turned around and walked away.

The woman heard Alyssa's words and looked at her back and suddenly stopped crying.

She suddenly felt that those words made sense.