

Chapter 95 Get Saved

By the light of the moon, Alyssa looked down and found that her whole body was tied with the rope. The rope was wrapped around her body several times, so no wonder she couldn't move.

She turned her head and saw a piece of iron on the ground. Although it was covered with rust, she could try it.

Alyssa managed to pick up the iron and started to cut the rope on her body.

She cut for a long time, but the rope didn't break at all.

Alyssa wouldn't give up and continued to cut the rope hard. She accidentally cut her wrist. Although it hurt, she continued.

Finally, the rope was cut off somehow.

Alyssa felt her wrist could relax a little. She hurriedly continued to cut the rope.

Click!

A faint sound rang out.

The rope broke instantly.

She couldn't care less about the pain in her wrist and hurried to cut the rope on her body.

This iron piece was not sharp, but it still worked well, and Alyssa noticed that it looked like the blade of a knife when she looked closely.

No wonder it worked so well. She was so lucky.

Alyssa sat where she was, not in a hurry to escape.

Right now, she had two options.

First, she stayed here and played the game.

Second, she escaped.

If she escaped, she wouldn't know what Derick was up to.

If she didn't escape, she might not only fail to escape but also be recaptured!

Alyssa pursed her lips. She didn't want to put herself in danger, so she decided to run away first.

Leon had been prepared for Derick. She wasn't worried about him being in danger. Besides, it really didn't seem like this had anything to do with Hunter Group.

When she got out of here, she would tell Hassan about it.

If Hassan didn't believe her, there was nothing she could do.

Although it was humiliating to run away like this, it was better than dying here.

She turned and was about to run when she noticed that a man had spotted her. The man grabbed her by the arm and slammed her to the ground with a loud "bang".

Alyssa, who was thrown to the ground, hurt her back. Her already painful back hurt even more.

She couldn't move for a while, but the man came to her.

He grabbed Alyssa's arm and, as if in retaliation, slammed her to the ground again.

Bam!

Alyssa's head was dizzy from the fall and everything in front of her was shaking.

She felt like she was screwed. She watched as he lunged at her. She told herself in her mind that she couldn't die. Then, she immediately backed up.

With a loud bang, the man missed and hit a nearby table.

He was enraged. He looked at Alyssa viciously and lunged in Alyssa's direction again.

Alyssa immediately picked up the iron piece.

Puh!

The iron blade immediately pierced into the man's chest.

Alyssa couldn't see anything in the darkness around her, but the red and sticky hot blood had splashed onto her.

Feeling the blood, Alyssa suddenly panicked.

She withdrew her hands and saw the man pointing at her but unable to speak. Then he collapsed.

She subconsciously stepped back, but tripped over a rock and fell to the ground in a panic.

Not far away, a car headed this way.

The headlights dazzled her eyes.

She thought it might be the man's friends who were coming. She immediately thought of running away. But before she could get out, she was surrounded by several cars.

Alyssa grabbed a rock off the ground, ready to fight.

Unexpectedly, Leon stepped out of the car parked in the front.

Seeing Leon, she suddenly felt all her grievances come out at that moment.

She fell to the ground as her feet went weak.

Seeing Alyssa on the ground, Leon ran over like crazy and picked Alyssa up in his arms.

The bodyguard in black beside him walked up to Leon and whispered a few words.

Leon's face turned sullen. He turned his head to look at the bodyguard, "Handle it cleanly."

"Yes, Mr. Hunter."

Leon glanced down at Alyssa and noticed the obvious fear in her wide eyes.

He stood in front of the headlights and the light from them shone on Alyssa's body. He could see that she had many wounds on her body, all of which were bleeding. She remained motionless in his arms. When Leon moved slightly, he felt the person in his arms move as well.

He looked down and saw Alyssa clinging to him.

Her little head was hidden in his arms and her clothes were messy. She just looked like a stray cat outside. Hearing her cry, Leon was heartbroken.

For a moment, it felt like his heart was being stepped on hard.

He immediately carried Alyssa to the car and called the driver to go to the hospital.

Half an hour later.

Hospital.

Leon stood upright at the vent smoking. The cigarette at his fingertips moved slightly. Then he said, "Take care of this. I don't want to hear any rumors. Also, tonight you find some people to give him some warning. How dare he touch my woman!"

"But, Mr. Hunter means that we should stay put for now. If you do it now, you'll alert them."

The bodyguard in black was originally sent by Kevin. Because he was worried about Leon, Kevin put him by Leon's side.

It wasn't that Leon didn't have anyone around him, but grandpa was worried about him being in danger.

He did not expect that the people sent by grandpa really came in handy. When he looked for Alyssa, he really hated that he didn't have enough people.

Alyssa was found with the help of grandpa's people. So, he was polite to this bodyguard.

"I'll talk to grandpa about it. You find someone to threaten his daughter ..."

Before he could finish his words, the nurse in the distance rushed over and told him that Alyssa had woken up and wanted to see him.

Leon hurriedly ran to the ward. When he got to the ward, he thought Alyssa would cry and whine to him about how aggravated she was. But he didn't expect to see Alyssa standing up as soon as he walked in.

Alyssa turned to see him and hurriedly ran to him.

He didn't dare move her for fear of touching the wounds on her body.

But she opened her arms and embraced him. She leaned into Leon's arms and realized that she was covered in wounds.

Hearing the woman in his arms whine in pain, Leon carried her to the hospital bed directly.

He skillfully helped her to treat the wounds on her body. Sure enough, several wounds on her body were split open. The red blood turned the clean white gauze red.

She didn't seem to care about her wounds and she just stared at him motionlessly.

Leon was going to get a doctor. But his hand was pulled. He looked down just in time to see the white gauze on her wrist instantly become red.

He frowned, "I'll go get the doctor."
