

THE PROTECTOR CHAPTER 1

In Erudia, a private jet landed at North Hampton Airport, where all international flights experienced an eight-hour delay because of it.

At the private passageway were five men in suits and leather shoes, standing as straight as a javelin.

Every now and then, they would raise their wrist to look at the time, for a big shot was coming to town. The upper-class society of North Hampton had learned about his arrival, but no one had the capability to get an inch closer to the private passageway.

Even the richest man in North Hampton who came to pay homage was chased away.

Finally, there were movements coming from the passageway.

“God of War!!!” the mass cried out, their eyes filled with awe and veneration at the sight of the undefeatable legend of Erudia.

He, who was dubbed the God of War, was the one and only five-star war God in the history of Erudia.

Once, he’d inflicted a crushing defeat on the strongest battalions in eighteen countries. He was an overbearing and formidable man.

He who overwhelmed the world with his unparalleled power had even created the Five Great Wars Regiment, Cavalry Regiment, and many more.

...

Setting foot on his homeland, Levi Garrison was overcome with emotions.

Once upon a time, he used to be an orphan who was abandoned on the streets of North Hampton and then adopted by the Garrison family.

However, the Garrison family had never been fond of him.

His adoptive parents, who had a tendency to beat and scold him, treated him like an outsider.

As for the outsiders, they treated him as a nobody.

But he didn’t care a stiver. He had always been proud of his surname since he was a child, and he strived to bring glory to this family when he grew older.

At last, Levi had established Levi Group, the largest dark horse in North Hampton’s business community.

With billions of assets, it ranked among the forefront of North Hampton, pushing the declining Garrison family to the top.

However, not only did the Garrison family show no signs of appreciation, they even harbored dissatisfaction towards him. Jealous of his success, they regarded him as a thorn in their flesh and coveted Levi Group.

No matter his wealth and power, unless they were in control, he was just an outsider in the Garrison family's eyes.

Eventually, on Levi's wedding night, the Garrison family plotted a frame-up against him by getting him drunk before tossing him onto his sister-in-law's bed. They wanted to create the illusion that he was doing something untoward to her and was caught in bed by his brother and adoptive parents.

That night, the Garrison family had brutally broken his limbs and left him on the road like a wild dog.

Not only was he handicapped, but he also had to take the flak for something he didn't commit.

From an upstart in the business world, he had become the target of disdain overnight.

And the next day, he had been punished for several crimes and sentenced to six years in prison.

He could never forget the ruthless and sinister faces of everyone in the Garrison family and the ridicule of his friends, classmates, and business partners.

More so, he could never forget the disappointment on his newly wedded wife, Zoey's face.

He had regarded the Garrison family as his home and devoted himself to the family.

Yet, they treated him like trash.

It felt as if a knife was being twisted in his heart every time he thought about this.

How he hated the Garrison family!

But who would have thought that Levi had been secretly transferred away from prison to join the military?

In a few years, he dominated the military world and became the one and only five-star God of War.

Now that he came back, the Garrison family ought to stay on their toes.

"How's it going, Azure Dragon?" Levi asked.

Azure Dragon, the commander of the Five Great Wars Regiment, took a step forward and said respectfully, "Sir, I'm afraid your wife, Ms. Zoey Lopez will remarry at ten o'clock tonight!"

Ever since Zoey's husband was sent to prison on their wedding night, she had been living like a widow.

Only God knew how much pressure she was put under.

And right now, the person Levi couldn't wait to see the most was Zoey.

After a moment of hesitation, Azure Dragon continued, “To add on, Sir, the Garrison family is holding a successful listing celebration banquet at the Crystal Palace Hotel tonight! Many people had invited the God of War just now, including the Garrison family, but I didn’t accept nor refuse directly.”

“What time?” Levi asked tersely.

“Eight o’clock, Sir.”

“Okay. Tell the Garrison family I will attend the banquet!”

Since the time for the two events didn’t clash, Levi gladly accepted the invitation.

The celebration banquet for the public listing of Garrison Group was held at North Hampton’s Crystal Palace Hotel.

With the help of Levi Group, they had become a rich and powerful family in one fell swoop.

The hall was bustling with noise and excitement, and sounds of glasses clinking could be heard ringing in the air every now and then.

“God bless the Garrison family,” said Joseph, the head of the Garrison family. “The younger generations are the stars among men. Garrison Group is now listed and has become an upstart in North Hampton!”

Joseph’s three sons and daughter welcomed their guests with bright smiles on their faces.

The younger generation of the Garrison family was all the smugger and prouder because, after today, the Garrison family would become a powerful family, and they would become one of the top rich kids.

Most of the guests who attended today’s banquet were from the top circle in North Hampton.

“Garrison, do you know what happened today?! Your celebration party is nothing compared to that.” They were gossiping about the major event that had happened today.

“Yeah! I heard that a big shot has arrived in North Hampton!”

“The richest man in North Hampton wanted to meet him but was shooed away. Apparently, he’s not qualified enough!”

“So? Jesse Nielsen had been waiting for five hours in advance at the airport!”

Joseph nodded. “Yes, I know about that too. I even sent someone to invite this big shot to the celebration party!”

“No way! Why would this big shot attend such a party?”

No one believed it.

In fact, as an upstart, Joseph was just trying his luck.

“Dad!” shouted Jaycob, the second eldest son of the Garrison family could be seen running over. “The big shot has accepted our invitation to attend our celebration banquet! He’s on the way!”

“Jesus! God has indeed blessed the Garrison family!”

Everyone in the Garrison family could barely conceal their delight as this was their chance to reach the sky in a single bound.

The grandchildren of the Garrison family gathered together, sunshine flooding their souls.

Levi’s brother, Bryan, and sister-in-law, Victoria, smiled. “Well, it all starts with Levi’s imprisonment that the Garrison family is at where we are today...”

“Right, speaking about Levi, do you guys know today’s the day that kid gets out of prison?!” somebody asked abruptly.

“Really? Isn’t that bad luck? Why did he have to be released on such a big day?!”

“Please, please, please don’t come back! He’s the Garrison family’s biggest disgrace!”

Victoria’s lips tugged into a sneer. “Speaking of which, Levi is the crowning glory of the Garrison family’s status today.”

“That’s what he’s supposed to do!” Bryan said. “He should contribute to the Garrison family for raising him, an orphan! His multi-billion Levi Group means nothing. To put it bluntly, he’s just a dog raised by the Garrison family!”

Someone gave a chortle. “As a matter of fact, I’ve been interested in Levi’s wife for a long time now. She’s still widowed, and I’m so going to marry her!”

The man’s remark caused gales of laughter.

“Everyone, stop what you’re doing. I have an important announcement to make,” Joseph said and went on to announce that the big shot was coming.

A thunderous applause was heard.

But when the applause had died down, there was still someone clapping.

The sound was loud and clear, approaching from afar.

On the red carpet, a man came clapping, looking bold and energetic.

His stride gave off a majestic and imposing aura, which made the mass hold their breaths.

“It’s Levi!” Bryan and Victoria exclaimed.

Suddenly, all eyes were riveted on him.

“I forgot this little brat got out of jail today!” Levi’s adoptive parents spoke in unison.

Ignoring the astonished gazes darted at his way, Levi walked step by step towards Joseph.

“A little bird told me that the company is now listed. How are you feeling, Joseph? Are you happy?”

Levi flashed him a meaningful smile.

“How dare you show up here, you insolent brat! And what did you just call me?” Joseph’s fury sprang to life.

“Who let him in? Didn’t you know he just got out of prison? How inauspicious!”

Bryan rose to his feet. “What the hell are you doing here, Levi?”

Levi sized him up. “Why can’t I be here?”

“Well, for starters, you’re an orphan! The Garrison family has raised you, but you were ambitious and ungrateful. You had inordinate ambitions for your sister-in-law, and you wanted to take possession of the Garrison family! You’d even tried to kill your parents when things go south! Have you no conscience? Do you have any sense of morality left in your heart?”

“You’ve lost your reputation in North Hampton, and everyone knows that. Have you no shame to have the brass neck to come round here?”

THE PROTECTOR CHAPTER 2:

“Everyone knows why you’re back. You want to leech off the Garrison family; you want our money, isn’t it?!”

“You’ve long been expelled from the Garrison family, you ungrateful wretch! The Garrison family has nothing to do with you! Now, get lost!”

Levi’s adoptive parents rose to their feet and pointed at his nose, hurling abusive remarks at him. The Garrison family’s brazenness of distorting the truth was mind-bending.

How disappointing!

He had thought they would feel somewhat apologetic after six years, but they were unexpectedly more aggravated.

They took everything from him, crippled him, and ruined his reputation, turning everything upside down and making everything his fault instead.

The Garrison family didn’t have the slightest bit of compassion to speak of.

Bryan zipped towards Levi, assessing him condescendingly. “Hmph! Don’t you just want money now that you’re back?”

Flap!

Bryan threw a credit card to the ground and lifted his foot, shaking his leather shoe. “My vamp is dirty. Lick it clean, and the one million in this card is yours!”

His words elicited a fresh burst of laughter as the crowd looked at Levi as if they were looking at a dog.

“Oh my! One million? That’s more than enough to cover his living expenses. I bet he’ll lick it!”

Victoria gave a wry look.

“On your knees!” Bryan roared, seeing that Levi was glaring at him. “Now, lick my shoe!”

Levi stared at him coldly and held his peace.

“Kneel!!!”

Bryan rushed to Levi and pressed his shoulders, forcing him to kneel, but the latter didn’t budge.

“I said kneel!!!”

Bryan struggled to rivet him to the spot.

“Drop dead!”

Levi suddenly slapped Bryan in the face, sending him flying almost eight meters away.

Silence engulfed the room; one could even hear a pin drop!

Unbelievable!

Everyone in the Garrison family was stupefied.

What did Levi just do?

Did he just knock Bryan to the ground with a single slap?

Plod!

Bryan was about to get up when Levi stepped on him, crushed him, and crossed over him.

Looking at the approaching Levi, Joseph instinctively stepped back.

Levi went up the stage and adjusted the microphone stand.

Everyone looked at him, wondering what he was going to do next.

“Listen up, everyone...”

“I’m sure you remember what happened six years ago, yes? For the love and care I had received from the Garrison family during childhood, I’m giving you one month to kneel before me for three days and three nights to repent your sins!”

“Remember, that’s everyone from the Garrison family!”

“If I don’t see any shadow within a month, the outcome is simple—I swear I’ll wipe off every single one of you here today!”

Levi’s voice was low and deep.

But as soon as he finished, the crowd was laughing like a drain.

“Did prison life eat his brain or what? What conceited nonsense is he spouting?”

“The Garrison family right now is a juggernaut in North Hampton. He’s just a criminal. Isn’t it a pipe dream to destroy the Garrison family?”

“Did he knock his brain loose or something?”

...

“Bear in mind that I have limited patience. You only have one month! Of course, you may gather your strengths and connections to fight against me! I’ll be waiting.”

Levi then took his leave straightaway, disregarding the mockeries of the crowd.

“Stop right there, you bastard! Did I tell you to leave?”

Ben, Levi’s adoptive father, wanted to stop him.

“Ben, let him go!” Joseph said. “It’s a big day today. I don’t want to see bloodshed!”

He was afraid about the impact that would bring about if the big shot saw this.

“Yeah! There are so much more opportunities to take care of him!”

“He’s in luck that the big shot is on his way!”

With that, Levi left the place under the watchful eyes of hundreds of people.

After Levi had left, Joseph asked anxiously, “Jaycob, where’s the big shot? Isn’t he here yet?”

Jaycob looked dazed. “According to the time, he should have arrived long ago. Let me ask...”

After making a phone call, Jaycob blanched. “Dad, the big shot was here, but he left already.”

“What? The big shot was here?”

“The big shot said that the Garrison family are a bunch of unworthy stupid pigs!”

“I get it. He must have left in a fit of rage after witnessing the ruckus that brat had created!”

“He must have thought that the Garrison family disrespected him!”

Joseph trembled with rage. “That brat will pay for this!”

The multitude reacted accordingly.

Levi has ruined the Garrison family’s glorious event!

He just pissed off the big shot!

That’s equivalent to cutting off the Garrison family’s chance to reach the sky!

Levi Garrison is indeed the sinner of the Garrison family!

At that moment, the Garrison family wished to skin Levi alive.

His adoptive parents, brother, and sister-in-law especially hated him to the bone. “Just you wait, Levi!”

After leaving Crystal Palace Hotel, the next person that Levi was going to look for was his wife, Zoey Lopez.

In this life, he owed no debt to the Garrison family, nor his friends and classmates, but Zoey.

He had been imprisoned on the second day after the wedding, making Zoey lose her reputation. That even put her through six years of widowhood.

This woman has carried too much on her shoulders for six years.

But now that I’m back, I’ll hold your hand, and we’ll conquer the world together!

After hesitating for a long time, Levi pressed the doorbell.

Thud!

The young woman dropped her mobile phone to the ground as the door opened.

Upon taking a closer look at Levi’s face, Zoey broke down in tears.

“Zoey, quick, just get the parcel and come in. It’s almost time for the family banquet! Your grandfather is going to settle your marriage at the family banquet tonight. You can’t get away from this!”

“Yeah! Quickly get dressed! Your grandfather is going to set you up with someone else!”

Zoey’s parents’ voices sounded from the inside.

“Zoey, I’m back!” Levi said excitedly, wanting to fling his arm around her, but Zoey slapped his hands away.

“Why did you come back? I’ve already forgotten about you...”

Zoey’s voice was choked with sobs.

Very soon after, Zoey’s parents, Aaron and Caitlyn, came out, looking horrified.

“How dare you have the nerve to come back? Do you know how much criticism my family has suffered because of you? Especially Zoey. Do you know how much she has suffered for the past six years?” Zoey’s father, Aaron, reproached.

Meanwhile, her mother, Caitlyn, pushed and shoved Levi. “You should know that this relationship between you and Zoey is impossible in this life the moment you went to jail! You’re a criminal! You’re just a street rat in North Hampton! You’re only putting Zoey in harm’s way by coming to see her!”

Naturally, Levi had known of Zoey’s sufferings for the past six years, including her refusal to remarry because of him.

Levi put on a serious face. “This time, I’m back for good. I won’t leave Zoey ever again. I will grant her a bright future and let her own the world!”

Levi’s declaration had Aaron and Caitlyn hooting with laughter.

“You’ve spent six years in jail. How are you going to give Zoey a future?” Aaron asked with a sneer.

“Yeah! With your mouth?” Caitlyn chimed in. “There’s a limit to talking big!”

Nonetheless, Levi smiled. “Don’t worry. I’ll reclaim what I lost in those years! I’ll destroy the Garrison family in a month!”

“Levi!” This time, even Zoey couldn’t bear to listen to his nonsense any longer. “Can we be more realistic? It doesn’t matter if you just get out of prison. Can’t you just be down to earth and start anew? I believe that you will make a comeback one day, but you can’t just indulge in tall talk. Do you know just how powerful the Garrison family is right now? And besides, today’s era is a far cry from what it was six years ago!”

“Zoey, trust me,” Levi said earnestly. “I can make the Garrison family bow at my feet with just a word!”

THE PROTECTOR CHAPTER 3

Preposterous!

Levi’s bravado nearly drove Zoey and her parents round the bend.

Having been caged up for six years, did he finally lose his mind?

“Fine. If you say so,” Zoey said, shoving her mobile phone to Levi directly. “Then prove it! I’d like to see how you make the Garrison family bow their heads with just one word!”

“I...”

Levi was stunned.

It was true that he could exterminate the Garrison family with his words, but he had given them one month; it would be too uneventful to destroy them now.

“See, you can’t do it, can’t you? Then don’t you ever talk big if you can’t!”

Zoey smashed the phone to the ground, marking her wrath.

Following that, her parents pushed Levi away. “Go now. You’re not welcome here. We’ve got a family banquet to attend!”

“No. Mom, Dad, let him in!”

“What do you mean, Zoey?”

“I won’t remarry. My husband is back.”

...

Aaron and Caitlyn couldn’t talk her round, so they could only let him in.

After that, Zoey took Levi to her bedroom.

“Since you’re back, you’re still my husband. I don’t care about the gossips. Besides, I believe you’re innocent, and anyone with discerning eyes can see that it was the Garrison family who’d framed you!”

Levi could feel the warmth in his heart.

She trusted him, and that was more than enough for him.

“But you must promise me to start from zero and be down to earth. I believe you will achieve something great with your ability! I’ll give you five years!”

“That’s unnecessary,” Levi said. “Just give me one month. In a month, I’ll de—”

“Shut up! I don’t want to listen to your nonsensical and unrealistic talks! Why can’t we just be realistic?” Zoey shouted.

“Even if you have nothing now, as long as you take one step at a time, I believe you’ll get back on your feet!”

Levi shut up obediently.

“I bought you these six years ago.” Zoey took out a suit from the cupboard. “Change into it at once and follow me to the family banquet!”

“Zoey, what is up with you?”

Seeing Levi all dressed up, Aaron and Caitlyn were naturally dissatisfied.

Zoey clung onto Levi’s arm. “Mom, Dad, Levi is my husband now! I will make myself clear to Grandpa tonight!”

Aaron and Caitlyn looked daggers at Levi, sighing helplessly, “For Heaven’s sake!”

The Lopez family banquet was held at Golden Port Restaurant, where they contracted the entire restaurant.

Naturally, the Lopez family was not as powerful as the Garrison family, but they were considered above average in North Hampton.

When Zoey and her family arrived at the main hall, they were greeted with strange and jesting gazes.

In the past, when Zoey and Levi had gotten married, Aaron’s family status was the highest in the Lopez family.

But after Levi’s downfall, Aaron’s family had experienced a seismic shift in life, and their status in the Lopez family took a nosedive as they became the subject of ridicule, especially during family events.

“Look! Is that Levi beside Zoey?”

“Yeah! It’s really him! He’s released from prison already?”

All eyes fell on Levi at once.

Harry, the head of the Lopez family, snorted and turned a blind eye to the four of them.

The old man’s favorite now was Fabian, his eldest son, and his family.

Mainly because Fabian’s son-in-law, Samuel Robertson, was of mixed ethnicity who was born rich and had lived overseas.

This time, Harry was going to set up Zoey with Samuel’s younger brother, Chris, who had been casting covetous eyes on Zoey for some time now.

With no one paying attention to them, Aaron and his family could only find a place to sit first.

As they were about to take their seats, a voice was heard. “No, Aaron. You guys can’t sit here.”

It was a reminder from Henry, the second eldest son of the Lopez family.

“What?”

“There are sitting arrangements to the family banquet this time.”

Aaron looked puzzled. “How so?”

“There are four tables for the family banquet! And it’s decided according to the family contribution!”

“For example, the first table is given to the family who contributed over five million to the family in a year; a million for the second table, a hundred thousand for the third table, and less than a hundred thousand for the last table, or should I say no contribution at all!”

Henry smiled smugly. “Our family has made good profits this year, and we’ve contributed just about five million to the family. So excuse me, but this table here is ours.”

“Of course, you can also sit at the first table without contributing. That is if your family has tens of millions of assets.”

“Unfortunately, we couldn’t be any clearer about your family’s situation,” sneered Maddison, Henry’s wife. “Now that there’s an ex-convict in your family, I’m sorry that you guys can only sit at the last table!”

“Mom, Dad, as far as I know, Uncle Aaron and his family didn’t contribute much to the family last year,” said Shaun, Henry’s son, walking over with a glass in his hand. “Their company went bankrupt, and they even borrowed over two million from Grandpa. Clearly, it’s a negative contribution. It’s unfair to the relatives sitting at the fourth table! I say we add a fifth table for negative contributors!”

“Yeah, I agree!”

The rest of the Lopez family concurred.

“Okay, we’ll do as Shaun says! This shall motivate you people!”

Harry gave his consent.

“Hurry up and sit down. Don’t just stand there and make a fool out of yourselves.” Harry glared at Aaron.

With that, Aaron and his family walked over to the fifth table quietly.

“Which table should a ten billion contributor sit at?” asked Levi suddenly, pulling Zoey’s arm.

Levi was the one and only five-star God of War, and wealth to him was just a number.

In fact, he didn’t know exactly how much he had, but he could still fork out ten billion casually for the family contribution on behalf of Aaron’s family.

As soon as Levi said that, everyone was stunned at his query.

After a few moments of silence, the crowd blossomed into an enormous belly laugh.

“Ten billion? You must be kidding me! Even the aristocratic Garrison family may not have that much money!”

“This kid must have a loose screw in the head to come here and embarrass himself!”

“Hey, Aaron. Did you know you have a son-in-law worth ten billion? Hahaha...”

Sensing the jeering gazes and titter from the people around, Aaron and his family wished the ground could swallow them whole.

This is embarrassing!

Too embarrassing!

Zoey’s temper sparked, and her eyes blazed with rage.

“Levi Garrison, is it not enough for you to talk big at home that you have to come here and embarrass me? Do you think you haven’t done enough after all these years?”

Zoey trembled as tears silently rolling down her cheeks.

“But I do have ten billion!” Levi said helplessly.

At this time, no one bothered to listen to Levi’s sheer bull because the star of the day, Fabian’s son-in-law, had arrived.

Everyone, including Harry, went out to the entrance to greet him.

“I’m sorry to keep everyone waiting.” Samuel wore an apologetic expression.

“Your flight was nearly ten hours late. What’s up with that?” Harry asked in concern.

Samuel smiled. “Grandpa, don’t you know? A big shot has arrived in North Hampton, and North Hampton Airport was sealed off for eight hours.”

What? Is there such a thing?

“Who’s this big shot to have the airport sealed off, Samuel?” Harry asked smilingly.

“It’s not just that. It’s said that a hundred planes escorted the private jet of that big shot, and there were a hundred thousand people guarding at the airport.”

“Damn!”

“What?”

The crowd gasped in shock.

“He’s the commander-in-chief of nine military regions, the God of War of Erudia. Haha, you may not believe it if I say this, but I met this great man when I was at a gathering abroad, and we even exchanged numbers. I didn't expect him to take up a post in North Hampton! I'll ask him out sometime in support of the Lopez family. That way, you'll gain a foothold in North Hampton in no time," Samuel said loftily.

"God! That's incredible! How did you even get to know someone like him?"

"My brother-in-law is so cool!"

"The Lopez family's son-in-law is one of a kind! Of course, except for one!"

Everyone looked at Samuel with veneration; the old man was all the more impressed, Aaron and Caitlyn begrudged Fabian's son-in-law, and Zoey was envious as well.

But she believed that in five years, Levi, too, could make her grandfather proud.

Yet, unbeknownst to them, Levi was actually barely stifling in his laughter. This kid is quite something to know that I've arrived.

But his ability to make up nonsense is even more impressive.

"You're saying you know the God of War?" Levi asked.

Samuel raised his head. "Yeah, we had a drink together. Is there a problem?"

Levi chuckled. "Then why don't I recognize you?"

THE PROTECTOR CHAPTER 4

"Huh?"

Samuel froze, and so did the rest.

What does he mean?

Samuel frowned. "Are you saying that you're the God of War?"

Levi smiled. "Yes, I am the God of War. But I never knew you."

The crowd burst into laughter; Samuel especially laughed his head off.

Even old man Harry was amused as he had never seen such a sensationalist before.

Clown!

Levi is such a clown.

"Gosh, Zoey, your husband is hilarious!" Melanie, Samuel's wife, derided. "He called himself the God of War, just to prove himself and save his pride! Do you even know who the God of War is? He's the commander-in-chief of nine military regions who can wipe off a clan with just his words! What? Is the prison a war zone? Jeez, Zoey, what a husband you have there. I feel terrible for you!"

The others also tried to get a word in. "Don't bring him out in the future, Zoey. You might not think it's embarrassing, but we do!"

“Yeah, don’t ever let him attend any of our family banquet in the future. The Lopez family wants to preserve our reputation!”

“Aaron, your family is really rotten. I’m so disappointed in you.” Harry gave Aaron a dark look.

“God! What sin have I committed in my previous life to deserve this?”

Aaron and Caitlyn looked down, their expressions ugly.

This is the most humiliating day ever!

Zoey sat in the corner. In the face of many insults and derision, she didn’t utter a single word, but tears rolled down her cheeks silently.

Never in her mind would she expect to be confronted by such humiliating moments.

Zoey looked at Levi, feeling a little disgusted.

She didn’t mind that Levi was imprisoned, nor did she mind the stigma of him having gone to prison.

All she cared about was Levi’s attitude.

Initially, she thought that he would start from scratch and live a practical life after he got out of prison, but the Levi Garrison right now was a bitter disappointment.

He’s so unrealistic! A sensationalist! Not to mention his damned pride!

What a buffoon!

Zoey didn’t want to admit that this was her husband.

“Okay, aren’t you the God of War?” Samuel refused to let Levi off so easily. “There will be a welcome banquet tomorrow night in North Hampton, specially dedicated to welcome this big shot! I hope to see you there!”

Samuel was up to date.

Indeed, there was such a banquet.

As Levi had decided to settle down in North Hampton, the higher-ups had assigned him as the deputy of North Hampton, which was more reasonable.

After all, his purpose of being here was uncertain, and everyone was afraid of this big shot.

It was easy to cause panic.

For this reason, North Hampton had decided to host a welcome banquet.

“Oh? Can you also attend such a welcome banquet, Samuel?” Harry couldn’t help but ask upon hearing their conversation.

Samuel squared his shoulders and smiled. “I just received two invitation cards!”

In fact, Samuel had gone out of his way to buy two invitation cards for two million just to show off at the family banquet today.

All those present looked at Samuel in awe.

Now that’s two million well spent! He thought to himself smugly.

“Can you get any more of this invitation card, Samuel?” Harry asked cautiously. “If so, your father and I would like to expand our horizons!”

Fabian gazed at Samuel with anticipation in his eyes.

“I’ll get it no matter what!”

Samuel flat out agreed, although he could feel the burn in his pocket.

That’s another two million there!

“It’s just a matter of one phone call!”

Samuel made a call and purchased two more invitation cards.

“Say, Zoey,” Melanie said, scooting over to Zoey. “Will I see you at the banquet tomorrow? Hahaha...”

Zoey’s face darkened, knowing that Melanie was embarrassing her on purpose.

Not long after, a black car stopped in front of Golden Port Hotel, with a man in a suit walking in soon after.

“Aren’t you Riley, the secretary?”

Harry quickly went up to greet him upon realizing who the visitor was.

Riley, who came into contact with the upper management every day, was the secretary of the North Hampton Office Building.

Surely, he had to show his respect.

“Greetings, Mr. Lopez. I’m here for one simple purpose—to send the Lopez family ten invitation cards for tomorrow’s banquet!”

After dropping off ten invitation cards, Riley left in a hurry.

It was a mission assigned to him from the head secretary of North Hampton.

At this moment, the head secretary of North Hampton was sitting in the car outside.

He was afraid of meeting the legendary God of War.

The words of his big boss echoed clearly in his ears, Every important family member of the God of War's father-in-law's family must attend tomorrow's banquet. He was to send out the invitations in a low-profile manner while keeping the identity of the sender unknown.

Hence, he had assigned Riley for the task.

Levi said nothing when he saw this scene.

Samuel, however, was taken aback.

What's going on?

Didn't I just buy two invitation cards?

Why did they send us ten cards at once? And who was it again? Riley, the secretary?

"You're the best grandson-in-law, Samuel," Harry guffawed. "To have the secretary from the office building send us ten invitations at once with just a word; the Lopez family is proud of you!"

Fabian was all smiles.

"Damn! You're amazing, Samuel!"

Shaun regarded Samuel with admiration.

"Melanie has indeed married a good man! You're surely the happiest woman in the world! Unlike Zoey, who married a criminal!"

...

"I'm sorry that my husband is too amazing, Zoey. Just say the word if you need our help in the future. But I dare not get too close to you, though," Melanie paused. "Lest someone tries to jump his sister-in-law..."

Zoey could feel her anger boiling up.

It was obvious that Melanie was insulting her, but she couldn't do anything about it; Samuel's ability to have the secretary from the office building send the invitation cards in person with just a phone call was just too over the top.

Besides, an invitation for a banquet of this level wasn't something the Lopez family could easily obtain.

Aaron and Caitlyn, on the other hand, were even more envious.

With a son-in-law like that, I bet we'll wake up with a smile every morning.

Life will be all about counting money.

Right, isn't Samuel's brother in love with our daughter?

However, the couple couldn't change Zoey's mind, so they didn't muse out loud.

Meanwhile, Samuel was completely flummoxed by the whole thing.

Where in the world do I find connections in North Hampton?

They must be mistaken.

But since it's at this point now, I guess I should just go along with it.

It'll make me look good, anyway!

Samuel chuckled. "I'm sorry, Grandpa. I could only get us ten invitations. After all, there aren't many places available for this kind of banquet."

Harry grinned from ear to ear. "You're the cream of the crop, Samuel! Here, let Grandpa give you a toast!"

Upon seeing this, Aaron was green with envy.

"Grandpa, why don't you distribute these invitations?" Samuel said.

"Sure."

Harry had four children in total. Everyone received an invitation, all except for Aaron's family.

The last few remaining invitations were given to Shaun and some of his favorite grandchildren.

"Thank you, Grandpa!"

Shaun and the others flourished the invitation cards in their hands before Aaron's family.

Without a word said, Aaron's family bowed their heads and remained silent.

In Harry's eyes, they were no better than the younger ones, and they acknowledged it. They could only blame themselves for being worthless.

Just then, someone's voice broke the silence. "Why didn't we get an invitation?"

It was Levi.

THE PROTECTOR CHAPTER 5

Everyone laughed themselves silly at Levi's question.

"Do you think your family is qualified to get an invitation? Have you guys ever contributed to the Lopez family?" Shaun retaliated directly.

"Yeah! Dream on! Can you guys be any more shameless to expect to receive an invitation?" Henry questioned unabashedly.

Zoey and her parents had given up on all hope.

They looked at Levi with nothing but disgust in their eyes.

However, Levi let out a cold snort. "It's for my sake that this invitation is given to you! I intended to give them to my in-laws, and they were given to you passingly."

"Have some pride, Levi!" Fabian exploded. "Clearly, Samuel got these invitations through his connections. What the hell has it got to do with you?!"

"Yeah! Who the hell do you think you are?" Samuel's anger mounted. "How dare you try to take credit for this?"

Soon after, Henry pointed at Aaron. "Just look at your son-in-law, Aaron! Do something about him, and don't bring him to our next family banquet! We cannot tolerate such insolence!"

Levi was about to say something when Zoey pulled him outside. "Come with me!!!"

She couldn't stand him any longer as hot torrents of grief coursed down her face.

"Levi, please, don't embarrass me anymore. I really can't hold on if you keep this up!"

Levi wiped away her tears and asked, "Do you want to attend the banquet, Zoey?"

"Who wouldn't want to? Didn't you see the look in Mom and Dad's eyes?" Zoey said grumpily. "But there's nothing we can do, even if we want to go. It's not like you can get us in, can you?"

"I can!" Levi said decisively.

This was too much for Zoey to handle. Her temper sparked, and she turned on her heels, trying to leave.

"Zoey, why don't you trust me?" Levi asked.

"How am I supposed to trust you when you're behaving like this?" Zoey replied with a question of her own.

Levi chuckled. "I'll definitely get you inside. I, Levi Garrison, am a man of my word!"

Zoey nodded. "Okay, I'll trust you just this once! If you can't do it, we're over!"

"Deal!"

"Fine, I'm going all out on this one!" Zoey said resolutely while wiping her tears. "I don't need this stupid pride! I'm going to continue to attend this family banquet and tell everyone that my husband is capable of getting an invitation for tomorrow's banquet too!"

"Okay, ladies first. Let me just make one call."

...

"Azure Dragon, tell Jesse I'll attend the banquet he's hosting tomorrow," Levi said once the call went through.

"What? So you agree to attend the banquet? Thank God! The higher-ups were so worried that you won't give Jesse this honor!"

"Yes, I'll attend. But please ban some of the people from this event..."

"Roger that, Sir! I'll make the arrangements now!"

Returning inside, Levi saw Zoey holding her head high, looking as proud as a peacock.

It was obvious that she had made the announcement as many pairs of eyes were fixated on him.

"Say, how do you guys think this punk got the invitation? By stealing?"

"Who knows if he bought it for the sake of pretending!"

Samuel laughed. "Don't you guys know that one invitation cost over one million?"

"Aaron's family owes Grandpa about three million. How can they afford to buy an invitation?"

Right then, dinner was served, marking the start of the family banquet.

"I think the four of them can just have a bowl of noodles each. There's no need to serve them. What do you guys think?" Henry asked.

Samuel laughed. "Let's just feed them. Otherwise, it'll look like Grandpa is mistreating them."

"Alright then."

Other tables were bustling with noise and excitement, with everyone toasting each other and currying favor with Samuel, but it was deadly silence at Levi's.

Aaron glanced at Samuel, then back at Levi, sighing, "What's the point of getting envious? Such is my fate!"

Caitlyn glowered at Levi. Can today be any more humiliating?

However, they didn't dare to leave without the old man's permission and could only continue to suffer from the humiliation in awkward silence.

Right then, Samuel came over with a glass of wine, followed by a group of people who had been paying court to him.

He walked past Levi and stood before Zoey. "I was going to introduce my brother to you, Zoey. He's so much better than me! But it seems that you're not fortunate enough to enjoy a good life. It's a pity that you have a bad taste in men!"

Aaron and Caitlyn sighed.

If only Levi didn't show up, Zoey would have been with Chris, and our family would have been rich again.

How amazing is that?

But sadly, it seems that we are plagued by poverty!

Soon, the family banquet ended.

"Let's go to my house. I want to have a good talk with my grandson-in-law regarding the Lopez family's future development and tomorrow's banquet. All of you must sit in and listen. It'll be good for you," Harry instructed.

Aaron and Caitlyn looked at Harry in anticipation, hoping that the Lopez family would lend a hand to alleviate their current livelihood.

But little did they know Harry responded, "Aaron, you guys can go back on your own!"

Aaron hesitated a little. "Dad, but I..."

"No buts! We don't need you here. Besides, your good son-in-law just came back from prison. I don't want him to stain my place with bad luck!" Harry said, then left with the crowd.

Before leaving, Samuel, Melanie, and a few others stood before Levi, waving the invitation cards in their hands. "Don't disappoint me tomorrow night. Don't say you know me if you can't get in. I can't afford to throw my reputation down the gutters."

Levi snickered. "You'll never know who's the one who can't get in when the time comes."

"Alright then. We'll soon see about that."

Everyone left happily with an invitation card in their hands, leaving Aaron and his family sighing and groaning.

Aaron cast a deep glance at Levi.

If only he could bring honor for the family...

It's a pity that he just got out of prison. Even surviving is a problem for him.

After that, Levi followed Zoey home.

Compared to the Garrison family, this was his home—a home where a woman had been waiting for him for six years.

Back home, Levi took the initiative to lay a mattress on the floor, but Zoey let him sleep on the bed instead.

Thereafter, he lay on the bed while Zoey continued to draft a plan at the desk.

“What are you doing?” Levi asked.

“I'm drafting a proposal for an ecological park development project at West City. Even if the chance of success is not even one percent, I'm going to try my best to win this bid!” Zoey smiled.

Until the following night, not once did Zoey complain about him, nor did she show a long face.

But she couldn't help it anymore as it was almost time for the welcome banquet.

“Levi Garrison, I trusted you so much and bet everything on you. But where's the invitation? How on earth am I supposed to believe you now? I'd thought you would come up with ideas to get us in, but you didn't step out from this house nor made a phone call the moment we came home last night. Do you think the invitation will just fall from the sky?”

Aaron and Caitlyn added, “What are you waiting for? Zoey had made a big promise last night. If you don't make this happen, there won't be a place for us to live in the Lopez family in the future.”

Levi glanced at the clock. “It's almost time. Just follow me.”

Driving in Aaron's Haval, they arrived at Paradise Villa, where the God of War's welcome banquet was held.

“Zoey, I will prove to you now that I can do it!”

Levi pulled Zoey and headed towards the entrance.

THE PROTECTOR CHAPTER 6

“Well, well, look who's here. If it isn't Aaron and his criminal son-in-law.”

Along with the mockeries, Harry and the others had arrived with bags of gifts consisted of fine wine, wild ginseng, tea, and so on in their hands.

The Lopez family's plan was simple—to butter up the God of War as much as they could.

“I didn't expect you to come, Zoey,” Melanie said as she moved closer to Zoey, her voice laced with sarcasm. “Where's your invitation card? Show it to me. It's easy to purchase counterfeit ones these days.”

Melanie, Samuel, and the others were not the slightest bit convinced that Levi could get an invitation.

Just look at their status, there's no way they can get an invitation to the banquet!

It's like saying pigs could fly!

“I...”

Zoey hesitated because there was no invitation card, to begin with.

“Come on. What are you hiding?” Melanie laughed. “Don't tell me your invitation card is made of gold that I can't even take a look at it?”

Zoey clammed up, her head lowered.

“Aaron, show us your invitation card!” Harry demanded upon noticing the couple's odd demeanors.

“Dad, I...”

Aaron panicked.

“What? You won't obey even your own father's order? Hurry up and show it to me!” Harry bellowed.

Aaron panted heavily and could only tell the truth. “Dad, we don't have an invitation card... It was Levi who brought us here...”

Soon after they heard it, Samuel, Melanie, and the others laughed so hard that their belly hurt.

“You're such an idiot!” Harry glared at Aaron. “What a disgrace to have a son like you!”

Sensing the mass' scoffing eyes and ruthless laughter, a fresh swell of rage rose in Aaron as his last piece of dignity left in front of the Lopez family vanished without a trace.

Zoey, too, hated Levi to the core, knowing that they had lost all respect from the Lopez family.

“How shameless of you to attend the banquet without an invitation!”

“Let me tell you a fact. No matter how hard you try, your family can never enter this gate!” Samuel taunted.

“Let's go inside, Grandpa,” Melanie said as she held onto Harry's arm. “Don't let them get in the way.”

“You’re right. Knowing them is such a disgrace.”

The Lopez family shot daggers at Levi and hurried towards the gate.

Aaron was about to say something when Levi said, “Dad, look. They won’t be able to get in.”

Standing at the entrance of Paradise Villa were dozens of security guards who were hired to maintain order at the scene.

Samuel took out twelve invitation cards and handed them over. “For twelve, please.”

He said that as he straightened his back, looking proud.

After all, how many were there who could take out twelve invitation cards at once?

But the next second, the security guard said expressionlessly, “You people are restricted from entering and are banned from attending the banquet!”

“What?”

Samuel and the others thought they had misheard the security guard.

“That’s impossible! Riley, the secretary from the Office Building, sent us these invitations in person yesterday!” Harry argued.

Samuel put on a haughty face. “This is my invitation card. Let me in this instance! You can’t afford to mess with me!”

Thud!

Suddenly, a truncheon rested on Samuel’s head.

“Do you not understand human language? You people are restricted from entering! Must I explain to you in action?”

With the cold truncheon aiming at his head, Samuel was so frightened that he almost peed his pants.

But with so many eyes watching him, he mustered his courage and struck back. “I dare you to touch me! Don’t you know who I am? Let me speak to your supervisor!”

Wham!

The security guard knocked him down straight away with the truncheon; Samuel had completely wet his pants, and the Lopez family was all the more petrified.

“What are you guys waiting for? Scram!” the security guard barked.

The Lopez family helped Samuel up and made a dash.

“You were right. They couldn’t get in.”

Aaron was shocked at the scene that unfolded before him.

At that moment, Levi smiled and held Zoey’s hand. “We should get inside!”

“Don’t! We’re going to get ourselves killed. How are we supposed to get inside when Samuel and the rest can’t even get through the security checkpoint?” Aaron and Caitlyn said and back-pedaled in fear.

Zoey’s delicate body trembled as well. “Yeah, can we really get inside? We don’t even have an invitation card!”

“Didn’t you say that you’ll give me one last chance? How do you know if you don’t try?” Levi smiled.

“Okay, I trust you!” Zoey held Levi’s hand tightly.

“Officers!” Melanie’s voice was heard just as the four of them approached the security checkpoint. “Although they are members of the Lopez family, my grandfather had long kicked them out of the Lopez family! They are not related to us!”

“Yes, officers. They have nothing to do with the Lopez family,” Harry said in a flustered voice. “Please don’t take offense at us!”

Levi looked back and sneered.

Such heartless creatures!

When they arrived at the security checkpoint, Zoey even closed her eyes. To be honest, she’d rather die today than being humiliated.

Aaron and Caitlyn shared the same sentiment.

Harry and the others didn’t leave. They were hiding in a distance, intending to watch Aaron and his family make a fool of themselves.

“Welcome, Mr. Garrison and his family! You are our most distinguished guest. Invitations are not required!”

Upon hearing that, Zoey opened her eyes to see dozens of security guards lined up in two rows, saluting them.

As if they had entered fantasyland, Zoey and her parents made their way inside Paradise Villa.

Harry and the others, who were waiting for a good show outside, were completely dumbstruck.

“They... They went in? How is that possible?”

Truth be told, Zoey and her parents felt like they were on cloud nine when they saw the Lopez family’s incredulous faces.

Aaron looked around, still in disbelief. “That was easy. How did you pull that off, Levi?”

It was only then did they feel that their son-in-law was somewhat useful.

At the very least, they managed to redeem themselves from the humiliation they had suffered.

Caitlyn smiled. “Levi also had connections in North Hampton before this, no?”

“You’re right, Mom. I have friends,” Levi replied.

Zoey looked at Levi suspiciously. She had a hunch that things were not that simple.

Almost none of his friends stepped forward when he was in trouble.

There were many who put the boot in instead...

Would anyone help him?

In the villa, Zoey and his parents were careful of their every movement.

After all, they couldn’t afford to break anything or offend anyone on such an occasion.

“Zoey, is that you? What are you doing here? Am I seeing things?”

Suddenly, a voice of surprise sounded from behind.

Zoey’s eyes were filled with disgust when she saw the incoming person.

The four people that were coming her way were dressed in tuxedos and had the bearing of royalty.

The man in the lead was Derrick Johns, the son of the president of Apex Group.

He had lusted after Zoey for ages, even offering millions to sleep with her, but she remained unmoved.

As an act of revenge, Derrick had caused Zoey’s well-developed company to go bankrupt.

“Why can’t I be here?” Zoey said coldly.

Derrick looked Levi up and down. “Is this your criminal husband? Did he bring you in?”

Upon that, he leaned in closer to Zoey and gave a lubricious chuckle. “I don’t care how you guys got in, but with my powers, I can send your husband back to jail again and get him locked up for a decade or two!”

Zoey believed Derrick could do it, given his expedients and abilities.

“What do you want?” Zoey looked at him warily.

“As long as you promise to keep me company, I swear I won’t trouble him! Otherwise, I’ll definitely send him in again!”

THE PROTECTOR CHAPTER 7

“You wish!”

Zoey would rather die than agree to such a condition.

“Fine. Just you wait!”

Derrick grinned insidiously before turning to leave.

Noticing Zoey’s pale complexion, Levi grasped her hand and asked, “Zoey, what happened? Who’s that guy just now?”

Zoey shook her head. “It’s nothing!”

However, she knew Derrick wouldn’t let this rest, so she was perturbed along the way.

Halfway through, a large group of people suddenly surrounded the four of them.

These people were members of the security team, each pointing at them with a gun.

Zoey was scared out of her wits. Her face drained of all colors as she gripped Levi’s hand tightly.

Likewise, Aaron and Caitlyn were paralyzed in terror, as they knew that it was Derrick’s revenge.

The leader of the group, decked out in combat suits, looked at them with cold and merciless eyes under the protective goggles. “Mr. Johns, is this the criminal that you were speaking of?”

“Yes, Mr. Lewis!” Derrick replied. “This guy’s fresh out of prison today. How is he qualified to attend such a banquet? I suspect he has something up his sleeve! If anything crops up on this occasion, can you afford to bear this responsibility, Mr. Lewis?”

“What? Is this for real?”

Ethan Lewis, the deputy team leader of the security team, was responsible for the safety inside. He wasn’t aware of how they had come in.

Derrick flashed a complacent smile at Zoey, then said to Ethan, “No matter what’s the situation, Mr. Lewis, I suggest we arrest him first! We need to get rid of any possible risks!”

“Right! How could he attend this banquet right after he was released from prison? Check their invitations first!” Ethan said coldly.

Zoey and her parents were dumbfounded.

What invitation cards! There were no invitation cards at all!

“Hand over the invitations!” Derrick spoke in an overbearing manner.

“We don’t have them,” Levi replied placidly.

“Haha. Did you hear that, Mr. Lewis? They have no invitations at all! Something is definitely fishy here!” Derrick was elated to hear that they came without any invitation.

“Men, arrest them!” Ethan gave his orders.

At that point, Zoey was already freaking out.

Mom, dad, and I will definitely be fine even if we’re arrested. But Levi will certainly be subjected to Derrick’s manipulation and get sent to jail again.

“Wait! We came in through the security checkpoint. What makes you think we don’t have the right to be here?” Zoey said indignantly.

“That’s impossible!” Derrick sneered. “An invitation is compulsory to enter this place! Even the host of today’s banquet, the God of War, needs an invitation! Something is not right if there’s no invitation!”

“Yes, that’s a first for me as well,” Ethan said with certainty, knowing that everyone, including the tycoons, came with invitations today. “Take them away!”

Aaron and Caitlyn squeezed their eyes shut in horror.

Zoey, too, was terribly frightened.

“Accept your fate, Zoey!” Derrick chortled. “This is the consequence of rejecting me!”

“Whoever told you that one must need an invitation to get in?” Levi’s voice sounded abruptly.

Everyone halted and stared at him with surprise.

Just then, Zoey tugged on Levi’s sleeves, signaling him to stop talking, while Aaron and his wife looked even more horrified by Levi’s retort.

Is he courting disaster?

Levi merely patted her shoulders. “Trust me again, will you?”

“Okay.” Zoey nodded.

After that, Levi’s gaze landed on Ethan. “Call your supervisor and ask him this—can Levi Garrison come in without an invitation?”

“Hahaha... Is he retarded? Who does he think he is?”

Derrick and his companions laughed so hard that their stomach hurt.

But Ethan was angered by Levi’s words, so he did as he was asked. “Okay, I shall ask the team leader if he knows you.”

Standing beside them, Derrick laughed heartily and was happy to see Levi make a fool of himself.

By then, many people had gathered around at the commotion, causing Zoey and her parents to lower their heads in embarrassment.

This is an embarrassment!

Ethan consulted Clement Phillips, the security team leader, through his headset.

When the voice came through the headset, his complexion turned for the worst. His eyes were filled with fear and trepidation as he looked at Levi.

“I-I... I got it, S-Sir...” Ethan stammered as he struggled to make out his words.

Derrick, who was unaware of the situation, looked at Ethan with anticipation. “How is it? Mr. Lewis?”

Slap!

The answer he got in return was an unexpected hard slap on the cheek that sent him flying seven to eight meters away. His mouth was full of blood, and he even lost a few teeth.

“Mr. Lewis, w-why?”

Derrick’s eyes widened as he stuttered.

Ethan stepped forward and threw another punch, causing blood to spurt from Derrick’s wounds.

“Why? You abused your power and deliberately made things difficult for Ms. Lopez! They may not have an invitation, but they are our honored guests who came in through proper means! But you! You had disrupted the order and dampened the mood of the banquet! Men, arrest him and lock him up for a few days!” Ethan ordered.

The two security guards next to him stepped forward and grabbed Derrick, dragging him away as if he were a lifeless corpse.

“Mr. Garrison, Ms. Lopez, a thousand apologies for the trouble!”

Ethan dared not stay there any longer as he led his men and hurried off.

The unexpected twist made Zoey and her parents dumbfounded.

What just happened?

Didn't they come to arrest us?

Why was Derrick arrested instead?

What's going on? This happened right after he reported his name.

The three of them gazed at Levi, with Zoey eyeing him doubtfully.

"Aren't you going to explain what's going on?" Zoey started.

"It's simple! We may not have an invitation, but we came in legally, so we're safe. And what Derrick did just now has disrupted the order of the banquet. You guys saw the horde of busybodies just now, no? That's a bad impression right there. If the God of War learned about what transpired just now, forget about Derrick, even Jesse Nielsen himself can't bear this responsibility."

"I get it now," Aaron responded immediately. "It's fine as long as we prove that we came in legally!"

Caitlyn nodded. "Yeah, that should be it."

Though Zoey felt that something was amiss, there seemed to be no loopholes in his explanation. To her, it sounded perfectly logical and reasonable.

Yet, the moment Levi turned his head, his eyes flickered.

He had heard what Derrick said just now. Instead of locking him up for a few days, he was determined to let Derrick rot in prison.

The dinner banquet was simple, but the people who attended were so great a personage that Zoey and her parents dared not make a sound once they were seated.

"Mom, Dad, why are you guys so tense? Walk around. Wouldn't it be nice to make friends and meet new people?" Levi smiled.

Aaron and Caitlyn exchanged glances. But in the end, they decided to stay rooted to their spot.

Zoey tilted her head, giving Levi a once-over. "Aren't you afraid?"

Levi's outward tranquility gave Zoey and her parents an illusion that he was accustomed to such an occasion.

"Why should I be?" Levi said.

Zoey pondered. He must be accustomed to it from facing vile and vicious people in prison.

Thus, she stopped asking.

In the meantime, there were more and more people arriving at the banquet.

Escorted by big crowds in front and behind, Jesse and a few other North Hampton big shots had arrived as well.

“Hmm? Aaron, I’ve noticed that everyone came with gifts. Even Nielsen’s secretary is carrying a gift box of some kind. I think it’s just us who came empty-handed,” Caitlyn observed.

The rest of the family caught a glimpse, and it was indeed so.

Everyone else brought gifts except for their family.

It was obvious as they were sitting at the corner, unmoving while the others had gathered together, waiting to present their gifts.

“It’s because we didn’t understand the rules. I wasn’t aware of it,” Aaron said as his head drooped.

“Yeah. But Dad, Samuel, and the others had thought about it,” Caitlyn said. “Did you see the gifts in their hands just now?”

Zoey sighed. “It’s all my fault. I wasn’t sure if we could get in.”

Aaron nodded. “Should I arrange for someone to send some gifts now? There’s still time.”

Levi quickly refused. “Mom, Dad, just relax. Perhaps the God of War doesn’t like gifts.”

“No, this is the least we should do,” Zoey said.

However, Levi let out a light chuckle. “I think the God of War will appreciate those who came empty-handed. Do you believe me?”

“I don’t.” Zoey shook her head.

THE PROTECTOR CHAPTER 8

“Did you guys see that? They came empty-handed.”

“Do they not know the rules? Or do they not respect the God of War at all?”

“I don’t think I’ve seen them before. Who are they? Did they sneak in?”

...

Soon, everyone noticed Aaron and his family.

Hearing the various mutterings, Aaron wished the ground would swallow him up.

This is too embarrassing.

It differed from being humiliated in front of someone familiar.

First of all, they didn't have any sense of presence in this place. And second of all, they were just nobodies among the many big shots.

It was a kind of psychological humiliation.

Not long after, the room was in turmoil.

Everyone had shifted their gaze to a few men walking in, dressed in military uniform.

The leader of the group was a bona fide King of War, who carried one star on his shoulder.

His imposing aura had everyone speechless.

“A quick introduction. I served at the Eastern War Zone, code-named Azure Dragon. I'm the God of War's right-hand man!”

Azure Dragon scanned the area domineeringly.

Aaron and his family shuddered in fear when they saw this scene.

“Man, this God of War is too scary! Even his right-hand man is the King of War!”

“Indeed! The God of War is Erudia's first war God with five stars!”

Caitlyn was so anxious that she was about to cry. “We should have at least brought something. What will happen to us if he thinks we are disrespecting him?”

“Azure Dragon, may I ask when is the God of War arriving?” Jesse asked.

Azure Dragon smiled. “Truth be told, the God of War is already in our midst right now. He tends to keep a low profile and hardly ever attends such events. It's beyond my expectation that he actually came.”

His words brought on a storm as people looked around frantically in search of this man.

“Stop searching,” Azure Dragon said sternly. “But keep in mind that the God of War has your every word and action in check. I will act as the mediator today. You can find me if there's anything you need.”

“Well, isn't this a hint?” Aaron whispered upon hearing this.

And the rest seemed to have understood his meaning as well.

“North Hampton Winston Gonzales presents the God of War with a pair of Legendary Pearl!”

“North Hampton Evergreen Chamber of Commerce presents the God of War with a two-hundred-year-old wild ginseng!”

“North Hampton Apocalypse Club presents the God of War with a McLaren P1!”

...

Everyone at the venue rushed to the front to present their extravagant gifts, in which mansions were also on the list.

Seeing them presenting their gifts one after another, Aaron and Caitlyn bowed their heads in utter embarrassment.

Even Zoey wanted to make a run for the exit.

On the stage, Azure Dragon looked at the mountain of gifts piled up before him. His expression turning colder by the minute.

“What do you mean by doing this?”

Azure Dragon’s voice shocked the audience.

Even Jesse, the governor of North Hampton, held his tongue.

Everyone looked at Azure Dragon, not quite understanding what he meant.

“Are you insulting the God of War?”

“No, no. Absolutely not.”

Azure Dragon’s words scared the life out of everyone.

“Mark my words! This is what the God of War hates the most! Don’t use your tricks on the God of War! By doing so, you’re only looking down on him!” Azure Dragon reproached, and everyone understood at once.

Is the God of War short of money?

Not at all!

The God of War has unparalleled wealth and power!

“Please hold your anger, Azure Dragon! We were in the wrong!”

Azure Dragon glanced at the crowd. “Did anyone not give a gift just now?”

Everyone looked at each other and found that there was no one who didn’t present their gifts.

“Dad, raise your hand! This is your chance!” Levi reminded.

Zoey and her parents had been listening. They were relieved to hear that the other party didn't like receiving gifts. Even so, they weren't audacious enough to raise their hands.

"Zoey, raise your hand if you trust me. It's definitely a good thing!"

Zoey raised her hand, and everyone looked over.

Azure Dragon fixed his eyes on Zoey. "Good, very good! Your attitude is right to come empty-handed! That shows your respect for the God of War! Good job!"

Hearing the King of War's compliments, Zoey and her parents stood up subconsciously, overwhelmed by the flattery and honor.

"What's your name?" Azure Dragon asked.

"Nice to meet you, Azure Dragon. My name is Zoey Lopez. This is my father, Aaron..."

Zoey introduced her family courteously.

"Very good. I shall remember your names. I will give priority to you and your family for any good things in the future!" Azure Dragon pledged.

Everyone in the room was amazed, including Jesse.

Zoey and her parents expressed their gratitude in a fluster.

They never dreamed that such a blessing would fall into their laps.

Even at the end of the banquet, they felt like they were floating in the clouds.

"God, this is all real."

Aaron even pocketed a few name cards from big bosses who had expressed their goodwill to him.

"You're so lucky, young lady!" Caitlyn beamed.

Zoey looked at Levi. "Mom, it's all thanks to Levi! He expected that the God of War doesn't like gifts and encouraged me to raise my hand. I wouldn't have done it if it wasn't for him!"

"Levi has really knocked our socks off tonight!"

"Indeed. Do we even have the chance to attend this banquet if it wasn't for him?"

Aaron and Caitlyn's impression of Levi changed for the better.

"That's your luck," Levi said. "I just asked a friend to get us a few invitations, that's all."

Right then, Zoey regarded Levi with a rather different look.

It's as if everything was within his control tonight, as if he'd solved everything with just his words.

Could it be that he has some influential background?

Maybe he's behind all this today?

But how is it possible? He was imprisoned for six years!

Zoey dismissed that idea soon after.

It had been a long and thrilling night, but fortunately enough, it was a happy ending.

Aaron and Caitlyn felt dizzy with excitement now that they had redeemed and especially proven themselves to the Lopez family.

However, Harry called just then, and it was Aaron who picked up the call.

"You and Zoey don't have to go to work from tomorrow onwards!"

"What?"

Harry's cold and merciless voice sounded from over the phone. "You guys have disappointed me so much. When will you pay back the 2.8 million you owe me?"

"Dad, I..."

"Well, since you can't pay back, I'll take back the company and get Samuel and Melanie to take over the business. You're on your own!" Harry hung up.

Aaron's phone fell to the ground with a thud.

After learning about what happened, Zoey and Caitlyn sobbed, hugging each other.

"What's wrong?" Levi asked.

"Grandpa took back the company," Zoey sniffed. "We're unemployed now."

"Hmph, they'll regret this!"

Meanwhile, at the Lopez residence, Fabian asked gingerly after Harry hung up the phone, "Is it okay for us to do that? Levi doesn't have any influential background, does he?"

"Dad, I've already asked around," Henry said. "My friend's former classmate works at the Municipal Water Conservancy Bureau, and he was there at the banquet. He said that Levi is just a nobody who relied on a friend to get inside. What's more ridiculous, only their family didn't bring any gifts. As if that wasn't embarrassing enough, they even took it seriously when they heard that the God of War didn't like receiving gifts."

Everyone cracked up when they heard what happened.

Harry then let out a cold snort. "I must take back their company and make them jobless for disgracing me at Paradise Villa!"

He was simmering with anger because of the incident today.

It was Henry who hatched the plot to have Harry take back the company.

"That's right. They're a bunch of ungrateful buffoons who never treat Grandpa with respect!" Samuel chimed in. "I swear I'll make their life miserable!"

Harry looked at Samuel, his face full of anticipation. "The Lopez family depends on you now, Samuel. I don't think we can make it to West City's ecological park development project tomorrow, but it's okay. You have to work harder, Samuel, and get us more projects through your connections."

"Don't worry, Grandpa," Samuel replied.

The Protector Chapter 9

That night, Zoey barely slept a wink.

"Don't dwell on it too much and go to sleep," Levi comforted. "Harry will come to you in person and ask you to go back to support the business."

Zoey glared at him. "You think Grandpa will come to me in person? Please, I would thank the heavens if Dad and I can get our jobs back."

"Don't worry. I meant what I said. Harry will ask you to go back!"

Levi turned around, went to the balcony, and made a call. "Azure Dragon, put Nielsen on the line..."

The next morning, Harry woke up to a call from the Ministry of Construction, inviting the Lopez family to attend the bidding for the ecological park development project.

It was a pleasant surprise, as Harry didn't expect to have the chance to take part in the bidding given their qualifications.

Harry quickly gathered the Lopez family in the living room. "I heard before that someone is preparing to take part in the bidding. Who was it again?"

"Dad, it's Zoey!" Henry answered instantly. "She'd drafted a detailed proposal. But how could she take part in the bidding with her family's ability?"

Harry stroked his chin. "So you're saying Zoey has a detailed proposal, and we can take part in the bidding with that proposal?"

“Yeah! Zoey is still competent!”

“Where’s Shaun? Hurry over to Aaron’s and get that proposal! Who would have thought that this bunch of trash would still be useful!”

...

In the meantime, Levi, Zoey, and her parents were having breakfast in silence when a knock was heard on the door.

To their surprise, it was Shaun.

Shaun appraised the house with a glance. “You guys are living here in this dumpster? Is this even a hundred and fifty square meters?”

“What are you doing here?” Aaron asked, clearly displeased at him interrupting their peaceful morning.

“I’m here to get the proposal for the ecological park development project. The Ministry of Construction has informed us that we are going to take part in the bidding,” Shaun said.

“No way!” Zoey turned him down flat. “I drafted this proposal myself. Do it yourself if you’re going to bid for this project. This has nothing to do with me. Besides, I was fired.”

Shaun glowered at her. “Fine. I’ll let Grandpa talk to you!”

At that, he handed his mobile phone to Zoey.

“What’s going on with you, Zoey? Aren’t you going to hand over the proposal? Do you not acknowledge me as your Grandpa?” Harry’s angry voice echoed as soon as Zoey answered the phone.

Zoey welled up in tears. “You fired me, Grandpa. What do you need my proposal for? I won’t yield!”

“Hmph, what do you mean? If you don’t hand over the proposal, the Lopez family will break off all relations with you lot today!”

Zoey was all tears upon hearing that.

Levi rose to his feet. He rummaged for the proposal and handed it over to Shaun before consoling Zoey.

“Now, that’s more like it.”

Shaun looked at this family with ridicule written all over his face.

Meanwhile, Zoey and her parents looked disappointed when they saw Levi handed over the proposal.

Isn’t that a cowardly move?

What’s the use of having such a husband?

“Why did you give him the proposal?” Zoey questioned.

“Listen to me. Harry will definitely ask you to go back,” Levi asserted. “We need to go somewhere today.”

“How can I trust you like this?” Zoey raised her voice.

“You guys shall get a divorce if Dad remains silent!” Aaron added crossly.

“Deal!” Levi agreed.

On the other side, after securing the proposal, Samuel and Melanie were entrusted with the important task of taking over Zoey’s company, Imperial Meadows Limited.

Thereafter, they headed straight to the office building responsible for the ecological park project, where there was already a long queue when they arrived.

Thinking that all the Lopez family’s property would belong to him in the future, Samuel’s breathing hastened.

After waiting for one hour, it was finally Samuel’s turn.

Samuel was about to give a long-winded introduction of himself as soon as he entered the office with Melanie when the person sitting at the opposite piped up, “The Lopez family?”

“Yes, that’s right!” Samuel answered quickly in a dazed.

Melanie immediately handed over a stack of papers. “This is our project proposal! Please have a look!”

North Hampton Ministry of Construction was responsible for the approval and decision of this project. The person in charge on-site was Orlando Jennings, the leader of the Ministry of Construction management.

“Why didn’t Ms. Zoey or Mr. Aaron come?” Orlando asked straightforwardly, putting the Lopez family’s proposal under his hands.

“I beg your pardon?”

The question stunned both Samuel and Melanie.

“Allow me to introduce myself, Mr. Jennings. My name is Samuel, Samuel Robertson. I’m the key person in charge of this project of Lopez Group. As for Zoey and Aaron, they have been fired from Lopez Group. May I know why are you asking for them, Mr. Jennings?” Samuel asked curiously.

Hearing that, Orlando nodded with relief. “Oh, is that so? Alright then. You may leave now. The Lopez family is hereby disqualified from participating in the bidding for this development project.”

With that, Orlando pushed the proposal to the front, leaving Samuel and Melanie slack-jawed.

“M-Mr. Jennings, what do you mean?” Samuel faltered.

“Are you saying that this has something to do with Zoey, Mr. Jennings?” Melanie asked.

“Yes, that’s right. After inspections by the leaders, they have discovered that Lopez Group is a very suitable candidate for this project, especially Ms. Zoey’s Imperial Meadows Limited. Hence, it was decided tentatively to have Lopez Group’s Imperial Meadows Limited take on this project. But since Ms. Zoey has been fired, the Lopez family has no business in this matter any longer. We’ll have to choose again,” Orlando explained patiently.

Though it was said to be a preliminary tentative decision, the final decision had been made, and everyone knew what it meant.

“Mr. Jennings, Zoey may have been fired, but we took over Imperial Meadows Limited. You’re right to choose us. These are some documents regarding the takeover,” Samuel said, handing over a pile of documents excitedly. “Imperial Meadows is our responsibility, Mr. Jennings!”

Unexpectedly, Orlando slapped his hand away, scattering the documents all over the place.

“Scram! Don’t you understand a word that comes out of my mouth? I want Ms. Zoey to present me with her proposal. No one else from the Lopez family can replace her! We want to authorize this project to Ms. Zoey and Ms. Zoey only! Do you understand?” Orlando said, pointing at Samuel’s nose.

“Why does it have to be Zoey, Mr. Jennings?” Melanie asked sheepishly. “I’m Melanie Lopez, Zoey’s sister. I’ve studied abroad, and I’m much more capable than Zoey in many aspects. I can handle this project just as well, Mr. Jennings!”

Samuel nodded. “Yeah, Melanie is capable! So much more capable than Zoey!”

“Leave now!” Orlando threw the proposal on the table to the ground. “I’m telling you, unless Ms. Zoey comes in person tomorrow at eight o’clock sharp, the Lopez family will not have the qualification to compete in this project, and I will strike the Lopez family’s name off the list!”

“Get out now before I call the security!”

Orlando’s secretary pushed and shoved them out.

It was only then they realized the reason the project was designated to the Lopez family was not because of the Lopez family’s strength but because of Zoey.

“What did the little bh, Zoey did to be given such a huge project?” Melanie was surprised.

“No wonder the Ministry of Construction called and invited the Lopez family to take part in the bidding! It’s because of Zoey,” Samuel stated the obvious.

As soon as they returned to the Lopez residence, Harry asked, “Samuel, how was it? Did we pass the preliminary selection?”

Samuel wore a gloomy expression. “Melanie, tell Grandpa!”

Melanie told the facts just as they had happened.

“What? It has to be Zoey?” Harry was astounded.

“Yeah, Mr. Jennings has hinted that this project will be assigned to Imperial Meadows Limited, but it has to be Zoey to seal the deal! We almost offended them,” Samuel said.

Thereafter, Harry sent Henry and Fabian to negotiate, but both of them were kicked out as well.

After thinking about it, Harry finally said, “Then go look for Zoey now! Restore her position and secure this project first!”

“Please hurry, Grandpa,” Samuel urged. “If they don’t see Zoey at eight tomorrow, they’ll give this project to someone else.”

The Protector Chapter 10

This time, not only Shaun but Samuel and Melanie also followed.

“What are you guys doing here?”

Aaron was furious to see the three of them, but he didn’t expect them to be so polite.

“Uncle Aaron, Aunt Caitlyn, where’s Zoey?”

They were carrying all kinds of gift boxes in their hands, which made Aaron and Caitlyn even more puzzled.

“Zoey? She’s not at home,” Caitlyn said.

Melanie grinned. “Where did she go, Aunt Caitlyn?”

Caitlyn shook her head. “No idea. She went out with Levi early in the morning.”

“Oh, okay, Uncle Aaron, Aunt Caitlyn. Please give us a call when Zoey comes back. We’ll be off then.”

Aaron and Caitlyn were all the more bewildered when the three of them left.

“What are they up to? Even giving us gifts? Are they sucking up to us?”

“Don’t tell me that Levi’s words actually came true?” Caitlyn mused. “It seems that I’m unable to see through him anymore.”

At this time, Levi and Zoey were wandering about aimlessly at their alma mater.

At Levi's suggestion, Zoey had turned off her phone.

It was already evening when Samuel and the others exited the Lopez residence.

They didn't go far. In fact, they were waiting in front of Zoey's neighborhood.

After waiting for three hours, Levi and Zoey had yet to return.

Harry had also checked in on them several times.

"Where the hell is she? Call Zoey now!"

Samuel grew impatient as he smoked one cigarette after another.

Right that instant, Melanie dialed Zoey's number.

"The number you have dialed is currently unavailable..."

Her expression stiffened upon hearing the automated message.

"She turned off her phone..."

"What? Is she doing this on purpose?" Samuel spat with sudden fury.

Shaun also tried to call, and sure enough, her phone was off.

"But Zoey doesn't know what's going on. Isn't this too much of a coincidence? Why did she turn off her phone?" Melanie said in surprise.

"Oh yeah, who knows Levi's number? He's with Zoey right now," Samuel asked.

"I don't."

"Let me ask Uncle Aaron and Aunt Caitlyn."

After asking, Melanie shook her head in dismay. "He just came back the day before yesterday, so they don't know his number too."

"Fk!"

Samuel lost his temper.

Right then, Harry called to inquire again.

Samuel passed the phone directly to Melanie.

"We don't know where Zoey is, Grandpa. They left home early in the morning. Her phone has been switched off, and no one knows Levi's number. Even Uncle Aaron and Aunt Caitlyn have no clue."

Hearing this, Harry was more anxious than anyone else.

The Lopez family's social status would increase tenfold if we secured this project.

"Then keep searching! I want this settled by tomorrow morning!"

Harry mobilized every connection of the Lopez family to look for Zoey and Levi in North Hampton, including Zoey's classmates, friends, and colleagues.

However, Zoey's whereabouts were not known at all.

"Do you guys think Zoey has left North Hampton?" someone said.

Harry was so frightened that he almost had a heart attack.

He glared at Henry and huffed. "You wastrel! It's all your fault for coming up with that stupid idea! Why did we fire them and took back their company? Just how much will we lose if we can't find Zoey by tomorrow? More than a billion?"

Henry's heart lurched. "Dad, I didn't know things will turn out like this. Who could have ever thought that Zoey is the key! Why did the Ministry of Construction set their minds on Zoey in the first place?"

"Hurry up and find her! If you can't find her by eight tomorrow morning, I'll take back your company as well! You and your family won't get a single cent!"

"Dad, I'll get to it right away!"

Henry almost wet his pants upon hearing his father's threat.

"What are you guys still doing here?" Harry glared at Fabian and the rest. "Get searching! Unless you want to see a billion goes down the drain!"

"We're on it!"

That night, the entire Lopez family didn't rest and had been looking high and low for Levi and Zoey.

By this time, the both of them had long since gone to bed at a hotel.

Zoey was so exhausted from walking all day that she fell asleep right away without even turning on her phone.

Everyone had been calling and searching for Zoey all night, but to no avail.

It was almost dawn, and Harry's heart could barely take it anymore.

"If we missed out on this project, I'm taking three times more of each family's dividends this year! And Henry, I'll be taking back your company. Do whatever you want, you incompetent punks!" Harry chided, slamming the table.

Henry paled and said in a low voice, “Dad, maybe they went out to play, and their phones died. They’ll turn it back on once it’s charged.”

“You think I’m a child? This wouldn’t have happened if it wasn’t for you!”

Saying that, Harry gave Henry a tight slap.

“Okay, it’s almost seven now. They should have charged and turned on their phones by now, yes? Try calling them now!”

Henry trembled as he dialed Zoey’s number, and to his surprise, the call went through.

“Hey, are you crazy for calling at this hour?”

It was Levi who answered the phone.

Everyone was astounded and ecstatically happy at this moment.

“Levi, it’s me, Uncle Henry!” Henry said immediately.

“Oh, Henry. Why did you call? Are you insane?”

Henry was about to explode when he heard that, but he kept his cool. “Levi, where’s Zoey? Put her on the line. I have something important to tell her.”

“She’s still sleeping. Just tell me if there’s anything important,” Levi rejected directly.

Henry tittered nervously. “Levi, it was a mistake to take back Imperial Meadows and fire Zoey. We decided to recall Zoey and let her take over Imperial Meadows Limited again. Come to the Lopez family mansion with Zoey now. Your Grandpa is asking for the both of you!”

“Oh? Reinstatement, eh? No thanks. Zoey has got a new job,” Levi said before hanging up immediately.

“I’m going to kill this bastard!” Henry exploded.

“You idiot! Call them again and asked for their whereabouts!”

Harry gave Henry another slap.

“Okay, okay.”

Henry called again. “Levi, I know we’re in the wrong! This was a mistake on our end. I swear there will be no next time. Give me your address, and I’ll go pick you guys up, okay?”

“What do you think you’re doing? Do you think you can just fire and reinstate someone as you please? Zoey is not a tool for you to mess around with!” Levi snapped.

“You guys can ask for anything as long as Zoey comes back,” Henry said promptly. “Salary is not a problem!”

“Fine, this is what’s going to happen. You want Zoey back? Sure, but whoever fired her in the first place shall be the one to invite her back!”

“It was me! I’ll be the one to invite her back!” Henry said.

“No, you don’t have the right to do that. It was Harry who fired her. Get Harry to come in person! Otherwise, Zoey is never going back!”

Levi was adamant.

Rage nearly consumed Harry when he heard this.

“What? You want me to invite that lass back in person? Are you courting death, Levi?”

At this moment, he could feel nothing but humiliation.

The Protector Chapter 11

In actual fact, Zoey had been awake for a long time now, but she didn't make a sound.

She looked at Levi wonderingly.

He was right.

The Lopez family really wants me back.

But why?

Zoey's heart leaped into her throat when she heard Levi requesting Harry to come pick her up in person.

Harry had always been high and mighty. Never in a million years would he accept Levi's proposal. Levi was just provoking him by having him personally invite her back.

"Fine. Forget it if Harry refuses to come! Bye!"

Levi hung up.

"Are you crazy?" Zoey nudged him. "How could you ask Grandpa to come and get me? I say we go back on our own and forget about everything. There seems to be something very serious going on based on their tone."

"Don't. Just wait. Three, two, one..."

Sure enough, Zoey's phone rang as soon as Levi finished counting down.

"Dad has agreed to go pick you guys up," Henry's helpless voice sounded. "Now give me your address!"

"University City's Borrmann Hotel!"

"And your room number?"

"You don't need to know that. We'll go down on our own when Harry arrives," Levi said.

This was to prevent Harry from not coming.

"Huh? Is Grandpa really coming?"

Having been living in Harry's shadows since she was a child, Zoey was frightened down to the soles of her shoes.

“What are you nervous for? He’s here to invite you back,” Levi said with a smile on his face.

Zoey was so terrified that she had forgotten Levi’s predictions from before—Harry will invite you back in person.

About half an hour later, a Mercedes Benz came to a halt in front of the hotel with Harry appearing in their line of sight.

“Come on. Let’s go down.”

Zoey was still trembling as she grabbed Levi’s arm, not letting go.

When Harry saw Zoey, he subconsciously yelled, “Zoey, you... Oh, get in the car! Grandpa has something important to discuss with you!”

Zoey was dumbfounded to see the pleasant smile on Harry’s face.

When did Grandpa ever smile at me?

In the car, Harry started, “I’ll get down to business, okay, Zoey? Haven’t you been working on West City Ecological Park development project before this? Well, now’s your chance. Mr. Jennings from the Ministry of Construction asked for you to submit the proposal and elaborate the plans to them.”

“You must do your best! I believe you can do this!”

And so, a few minutes before eight, a confused Zoey and Levi arrived at the office building responsible for this project.

“Ms. Lopez, you’re here,” Orlando greeted, shooting up to his feet and went up to welcome them. “Would Ms. Lopez and this gentleman like tea or coffee?”

“Tea for me and coffee for her,” Levi said curtly as he sat down graciously.

Zoey, however, was completely dumbstruck.

He’s Mr. Jennings! The person in charge of management for the Ministry of Construction!

Even Joseph Garrison has to bow down to him when he sees him.

Why is he so courteous to me?

“Did you hear that? Now go and make the arrangements,” Orlando said to his secretary.

“Ms. Lopez, please, have a seat,” Orlando said respectfully to Zoey.

“Come on. Sit,” Levi said, seeing that she was transfixed, he pulled Zoey to sit beside him.

Soon, the coffee and tea were served.

Zoey lifted her cup with both hands, still shaking while Levi crossed his legs, flaunting the bearing of a tyrant.

Orlando stood before them like a server, reverent and respectful.

He didn't even dare to glimpse at Levi.

He's that legendary man!

Taking in a deep breath, Zoey stood up and handed over the proposal. "M-Mr. Jennings, I'm Zoey Lopez. Nice to meet you. This is my proposal! Please have a look!"

Orlando chuckled. "Your ability speaks for itself, Ms. Lopez. We can leave the proposal aside. You have our full confidence."

Cough...

When Orlando's eyes met Levi's terrifying ones, he quickly took over the proposal and studied it with a few other project leaders, with Zoey explaining at the side.

About half an hour later, Orlando got up and said with a smile, "We were right about you, Ms. Lopez! It's perfect! The plan is ninety-five out of a hundred! After revising some details from our end, it's perfect now."

"Does that mean we got the job?" Levi asked.

Orlando nodded. "We received thirty-three bidding documents from the preliminary selection, and so far Ms. Lopez has the highest score! We have inspected Imperial Meadows Limited and Lopez Group's capabilities before this, and you guys are basically qualified to take on this project! Now we just have to go with the flow and sign the contract three days later."

Zoey knew it was all cut and dried!

Levi got up, pulled Zoey away and said passingly, "Thank you..."

"What? No, no. This is what we should do!"

Hearing Levi's words of gratitude, Orlando was so scared that he almost got down on his knees.

Even after coming outside, Zoey still felt as if she was dreaming.

"Zoey, how was it?" Harry and a dozen others gathered around her.

"Grandpa, we passed the preliminary selection and my score was the highest, ninety-five! Mr. Jennings asked me to drop by three days later to sign the contract. I... We will be responsible for the development of this project. But they are still going through the process, so we have to keep it a secret!"

Zoey originally wanted to say that she would work on this project on her own, but seeing Harry, she instinctively changed her tone.

“Very good! I’m so proud of you, Zoey! You’re the Lopez family’s hero!”

Harry was excited, and so were the others.

After all, it was a major project of one billion.

For as long as Zoey could remember, Harry had only complimented her twice.

The first time was when she married Levi, an upstart six years ago.

And the compliment this time felt surreal to her.

“Zoey, are you sure we’re getting this project and all we have to do is sign the contract three days later?” Harry asked again, still feeling a little unsettled.

Zoey nodded. “Yes, Grandpa. I’m sure!”

“Okay, that’s a load off my mind!”

Harry heaved a sigh of relief.

Thereafter, Levi, Zoey, and the Lopez family dispersed and returned home, respectively.

“That was so unexpected, Dad!” Henry chortled. “We really got the job! I’ve asked my friend to ask Mr. Jennings’ secretary about it, and it’s true!”

Harry’s face was glowing. “Yes, it’s a great joy for the Lopez family.”

“Grandpa,” Samuel said, after hesitating for a long time. “Are you really going to give Zoey full authority to handle this project? I’m afraid that with Levi’s wild ambition, this project will have nothing to do with us when the time comes.”

Harry laughed. “Oh, Samuel, I’ve thought about that! Didn’t you hear me just now? Now that the project is ours and all we need is to sign the contract three days later, Zoey has no more use-value for us. Besides, can her small Imperial Meadows Limited develop a project of one billion?”

“So, you guys will go and sign the contract three days later! I only gave Zoey a nominal position. I don’t intend on having her take part in the development of this project.”

Samuel laughed sinisterly. “That’s a sick move, Grandpa!”

The Protector Chapter 12

Back home, Aaron and Caitlyn looked at Levi incredulously. “You were right. Dad really came to invite Zoey in person.”

“Dad, it seems you’ve lost this bet,” Levi said, smiling.

“But how could this project fall into our hands? There are so many stronger companies out there. Why would they choose us?” Aaron pondered out loud.

“Yeah, why did they insist on having me sign the contract?” Zoey blinked, waiting for Levi’s explanation.

She couldn’t help but think that Levi was behind all this. It was as if every word he said would come true.

“Don’t you guys remember what Azure Dragon said at the banquet that night?” Levi asked.

“I get it now!” Aaron said immediately. “It was all Azure Dragon’s intentions! A big shot sure does honor his promises! I mean, who else do you guys think could order Mr. Jennings around?”

Zoey smiled bashfully. “I thought Azure Dragon was just making a casual remark.”

“The words of a big shot must be fulfilled!” Levi beamed.

“Gosh, my family is about to go through the roof once we take over this project! Cook your best dish, Caitlyn. It’s a celebration,” Aaron said.

Perhaps it was because of their good mood, Levi looked much more pleasing to the couple’s eyes.

“Don’t worry about finding a job, Levi,” Zoey said. “Just stay with me.”

“Sure. I’ll make sure to assist you well.”

Three days later, Levi and Zoey suited up, ready to go over and sign the contract.

“Levi, I think I should give Grandpa a heads-up. They’re very concerned about this after all,” Zoey said.

“I don’t think that’s necessary. This is none of their business, anyway,” Levi said.

“Still, I think I should give them a call.”

Zoey dialed Harry’s number.

“What’s the matter, Zoey?”

“Grandpa, I’m just giving you a heads-up that we’re going to sign the contract now.”

“Oh, that, your sister and Samuel are already on their way there, so you don’t have to go. Don’t worry. They’re going to sign on your behalf! Just leave this matter alone and go to work at Imperial Meadows in peace,” Harry said, hanging up soon after.

Zoey was so startled that she almost dropped her phone.

“What is it?”

“Grandpa said that this matter has nothing to do with me and someone has already gone to sign the contract on my behalf,” Zoey sniveled.

Levi’s blood boiled upon hearing that.

The Lopez family is just as shameless as the Garrison family!

“Don’t worry. No one can take away what belongs to you,” Levi said in a low voice.

He turned around and drafted a message, sending it directly to the leader of the Ministry of Construction.

Meanwhile, a dozen of entrepreneurs had gathered at the bidding site, waiting for the announcements of the result.

Ultimately, it was Carlos Wayland, the deputy leader of the Ministry of Construction, who made the announcement.

“I hereby announce that the West City Ecological Park project will be developed by Imperial Meadows Limited of Lopez Group!”

The audience burst into an uproar at Carlos’ announcement.

No one could understand the logic behind Imperial Meadows’ victory.

Samuel, Melanie, and the others who went as representatives of Imperial Meadows rose to their feet and accepted the congratulations from the people around them.

“May we have the representative of Imperial Meadows Limited come to the backstage to sign the contract?”

The person who was ultimately responsible for the signing of the contract was still Orlando Jennings.

The deputy team leader only came to announce the result.

“Hmm? Where’s Ms. Zoey?”

Orlando looked up at the few of them with disgust in his eyes.

“It’s a pleasure to meet you again, Mr. Jennings,” Samuel greeted. “Zoey currently has too much on her plate, so she has sent us to sign the contract on her behalf instead.”

“Besides, the result of the bidding has been made and we’re set on taking on the project. What’s the difference between who should sign and who shouldn’t, Mr. Jennings?” Melanie chipped in.

“Oh, there’s a huge difference, my friend,” Orlando snickered. “Let me ask you a question, for example, if you’re here on behalf of Ms. Zoey to sign the contract, will you be signing her name or someone else’s name?”

“I…” Melanie was stumped.

Surely, they weren’t intending to sign Zoey’s name, but Harry’s.

Wouldn’t Zoey become the sole possessor of the project if they signed her name?

“By the way, Mr. Jennings,” Shaun added. “You may not be aware of this, although the Lopez Group has many subsidiaries, the president is Mr. Harry Lopez, who has absolute control of all companies. This time the contract will be signed under Mr. Harry’s name, and Zoey has also agreed to this.”

Orlando shook his head. “That won’t do! We’ve appointed Zoey Lopez to oversee this project. I don’t know who’s this Harry Lopez that you speak of. But since you people have said so, I’ll give Ms. Zoey a call. If she agrees, I’ll approve it on my side as well.”

The trio became flustered at once, knowing that Zoey had been kept in the dark and never agreed to this.

“Ms. Zoey, may I ask if you consented for someone else to sign the contract on your behalf and with Mr. Harry’s name at that?” Orlando asked straightforwardly once the call connected.

Upon hearing that, it dawned on Zoey that the project would have nothing to do with her from now on if she gave her consent, and if she didn’t, she supposed her grandfather would hate her for life. It was a decision she had to make between interests and her grandfather.

“I… I a…”

Zoey hesitated for a long time and was about to agree when Levi seized her phone.

“No! They didn’t even call! What’s going on? Worse comes to worst, we’ll just give up on this project. Just give it to whoever wants it,” Levi said.

Hanging up, Orlando gave Samuel and his companions a death stare, his face gloomy.

Realizing the graveness of this matter, they lowered their heads and dared not look at Orlando.

“I’d made myself very clear, didn’t I? This project has to be accomplished by Ms. Zoey from beginning to the end! No one else can replace her! If you insist on this, I can only replace someone else! There are so many people who can handle this project.”

“Listen, if you want this project, get Ms. Zoey to come and sign the contract now! Otherwise, we’ll take it as you’ve forfeited!”

Hearing Orlando’s words, the three of them ran like the wind.

“What? It has to be Zoey? I thought anyone could sign the contract!”

Harry was flabbergasted when he learned about it.

“Dad, what should we do now?” Henry asked. “Do we really have to let Zoey take over this project?”

“There’s no other way. But even after Zoey takes over, most of the profits will still be in our hands. Zoey is still obedient to me; we’ll just give them a little something when the time comes. After all, her small Imperial Meadows Limited can’t afford to work on this project by themselves. They’ll need our help,” Harry said.

“But Grandpa, how are we going to get Zoey to sign the contract? This has happened for the second time now,” someone asked.

“Hmph, I’ll go pick her up myself,” Harry sneered. “I won’t take no for an answer. Give her a call first!”

After the call went through, it was Levi who answered. “Huh? You guys don’t have to come. We’re busy.”

At that, Levi hung up directly.

The Protector Chapter 13

Everyone in the Lopez family was baffled.

Zoey would have agreed, but with Levi around her, they weren’t so sure about that.

“What do we do now? Who knows if Zoey disappeared with Levi again. If we don’t find them by afternoon, Mr. Jennings will consider us to have voluntarily given up on the project,” Samuel said anxiously.

“Hmph, she’s threatening me! Even going as far as to give me terms!” Harry retorted, then made a call. “What’s the meaning of this, Levi? You don’t want this project anymore?”

“That’s right, it has nothing to do with me, anyway! Weren’t you guys trying to lay Zoey off? We might as well leave this project alone,” Levi retaliated.

“Levi, Grandpa has no other meaning,” Harry toned down. “Come and sign the contract with Zoey. In the future, Zoey will be in charge of this development project. That’s what Mr. Jennings wants too.”

“Well, I’m not so sure about that. I’m afraid that Zoey would be laid off at any time.”

“Name your conditions, Levi. How can I get Zoey to sign the contract?”

Harry was infuriated, but he couldn’t help it.

“Conditions? Number one, Imperial Meadows Limited will fully develop this project, and no other companies of Lopez Group shall be directly involved. Number two, Imperial Meadows Limited shall be separated from Lopez Group and become an independent company. But Zoey has agreed to hand over some parts of the development project to you. I mean, we should all make money together, right? As long as you agree to the conditions mentioned, I’ll bring Zoey over to sign the contract right away!”

Harry blew a gasket after Levi finished speaking.

Levi is getting Zoey to cut all ties with the Lopez family.

In other words, the Lopez family will have nothing to do with this project, and it depends on Zoey if we want to get a piece of the pie.

But at this critical juncture, we should sign the contract first.

I must have this project.

Harry drew in a deep breath. “Okay, I agree!”

“Verbal promises are not enough. We should go through the formalities immediately,” Levi said.

“You...”

How I wish I can skin him alive! He’s not giving me a chance to think.

“Fine. I’ll send someone to get it done!”

...

In just three hours, Harry had completed all the formalities.

Imperial Meadows Limited was completely separated from Lopez Group and became Zoey’s company.

“Okay, we’ll go and sign the contract now!”

Levi brought Zoey to the bidding site and successfully signed the contract with Orlando.

So I’m in charge of a major project of one billion?

From bankruptcy to taking on such a huge project...

Zoey didn’t dare to think too much about it.

With the contract signed, Harry and the others were overwhelmed with mixed feelings.

“Isn’t Levi being too ruthless? He’s burning all our bridges,” Henry said.

“The nerve of him! Can Zoey even handle this project alone? Can she even sign this contract if it wasn’t for the Lopez family?”

“Yeah, she’s monopolizing everything. I refuse to accept this!”

Shaun, Melanie and the others were upset.

“Don’t worry, you guys,” Fabian chuckled. “We can still get this project! Even if Imperial Meadows Limited has become independent, Dad still owns thirty percent of their shares. Besides, developing a one billion project is not something anyone can pull off. Every bit of human and financial resources is indispensable. It’s impossible for a small company like Imperial Meadows to handle this alone.”

“Yeah, Imperial Meadows Limited is almost bankrupt now, and they still owe Grandpa money,” Shaun said. “Where will they get the funds to work on this project?”

“Well, there’s no need to consider Levi; he’s just a piece of trash, and Zoey has no connections of sorts in North Hampton. They’ll have to beg us to invest in them when the time comes.”

“Hahaha…”

Henry smirked. “Dad, I think we should impose a little pressure on them and get back the 2.8 million first!”

Harry laughed heartily. “You’re the worst, Henry. But that should do it! Shaun, go over in a moment and ask for our money!”

…

Aaron and Caitlyn had been informed.

They were so excited that they specially prepared a meal and waited for Levi and Zoey to come back.

However, Zoey looked glum despite signing a big contract.

“Mom, Dad, we’ve completely offended Grandpa this time! I bet they’re going to hate us for life.”

“Just ignore them! Our status has been the lowest in the family all this while and your Grandpa doesn’t even care about us! This time, we must make a name for ourselves and prove it to him!” Aaron said.

“Yes, I must work hard!”

“Levi,” Aaron said. “Although you contributed nothing to this incident, our family seems to be doing well after you come back. Come, let’s have a drink!”

Just as Aaron brought out a bottle of fine wine, Shaun arrived.

“Grandpa sent me here, Uncle Aaron! This is an IOU. Please return the 2.8 million that you owe us.”

Shaun’s statement hit Aaron and his family like a thunderbolt.

“Grandpa said that he’s going to make an appointment with a foreign specialist to seek medical advice, and he has no money now, so he can only ask you guys to pay him back,” Shaun added. “It’s a little urgent, so you must settle your debt in three days. Otherwise, Grandpa’s health will only deteriorate!”

Shaun left after he gave them the distressing news.

“What’s wrong?” Levi asked.

Zoey bit the bottom of her lips and said, “We’re doomed. There’s no money, not at the company nor at home! The company has just started operating again, and we don’t even have half a million in our account. As for the family, we almost couldn’t afford to pay my brother’s tuition fee.”

Zoey had a younger brother who was studying abroad and was still relying on the family for financial support.

“I knew it,” Aaron sighed. “Dad wouldn’t have let us off that easily. I knew he would drive us into a corner until we pay him back.”

Zoey’s face was drained of all color and animation. “It’s not just about paying them back, we also need funds for the development project. We don’t even have the initial funds to start the project. Investment is needed, but it’s difficult. The project may be shelved when the time comes and the other party might even terminate the contract!”

“You don’t say! We’ve been warned by the bank and we can’t even borrow a single cent now.”

Aaron was on the verge of tears.

After all that talking, it all boiled down to this—money!

They could have solved everything if they had the money, but a man without a penny was no man at all.

Besides, it wasn’t just a matter of a penny now, but 2.8 million!

“I’ve seen this coming,” Aaron continued. “Your Grandpa is tricking us into giving them this project by forcing us to borrow money from them and have them invest in us.”

“If there’s no other way, let’s just give it up and give it to Grandpa,” Zoey said helplessly. “Now that Imperial Meadows Limited is in our hands, let’s take it one step at a time!”

“Why should you give it up?” Levi spoke. “2.8 million is not a problem! Just leave it to me!”

The Protector Chapter 14

Everyone looked at Levi in bewilderment. “What? Leave it to you? You just got out of prison. Do you have the money?”

“I... I’ll come up with something.”

Levi had a card with him, but he didn't know how much was inside.

“Don't force yourself and do anything that is out of line! We'll just let it go if things don't work out,” Zoey said, looking at Levi worryingly, afraid he would do something extreme.

“Don't worry. I'll take care of it,” Levi replied, holding her hands.

The next day, Levi went out alone.

As soon as he arrived at the intersection, a Maybach came to a halt at the side.

Azure Dragon got down from the car and ushered Levi to get in.

“Any updates on the Garrison family? Is anyone coming to apologize?” Levi asked.

Azure Dragon shook his head. “Not one of them are repenting.”

A cold glint flashed across Levi's eyes. “It's time to show them a little something.”

Arriving at the bank, Levi withdrew five million cash in one go.

The staff at the bank looked at him, appalled, and was especially horrified to see the man in military uniform standing next to him.

That's the King of War!

Hans, the general manager of North Hampton Bank's head office, came to serve in person.

In the end, he and Hailey, a tall woman with a pleasant-looking face, helped to carry the briefcases of cash from the VIP passageway.

Hailey couldn't help but steal a second glance at Levi, who seemed familiar to her.

“His identity is so intimidating, even our chief almost ran over here.”

After sending them off, Hans drew in a deep breath.

“Who was that, Mr. Lowery?” Hailey asked curiously. “Is the one next to him in a military uniform someone famous?”

“That person is a bona fide King of War! Having the King of War as his follower... Think about it,” Hans said lowly.

“Damn!” Hailey gasped in shock.

“So don't mention about today and keep everything confidential.”

Hailey nodded. “Understood!”

“No matter who asks, just say it’s a loan, and forge a receipt or something.”

“Yes, sir!”

...

At night, when Levi returned home carrying five briefcases full of cash, Zoey and her parents were dumbfounded.

They counted them three times, and lo and behold, there were indeed five million.

“W-Where did you get so much money? Please don’t tell me it’s from the loan sharks.”

Zoey freaked out.

“What loan sharks! Don’t worry about it! Anyhow, I got the money, so use this to solve your urgent problem first,” Levi said.

“Yes, let’s solve this first,” Aaron concurred.

“But 2.8 million is enough! Why did you get five million?” Zoey asked in confusion.

“You’ll see when the time comes.”

...

Upon hearing the news that they were going to pay up, Henry came to collect the money himself.

“Damn, Aaron. That was fast,” Henry jeered. “You sure there’s 2.8 million? It must be hard on you. I’d thought you couldn’t afford to pay us back.”

Aaron glared at him. “That is none of your concern. Anyway, I’ve put together 2.8 million, and that settles our debt!”

“Who said it’s 2.8 million?” sneered Henry, changing the subject. “We need to take the many days of interest into account. Here’s the IOU. Including the interest, it should be about five million plus, but we’ll just charge you five million.”

“What? Five million? How is it five million? Even the loan sharks are not as demanding as you!”

Aaron and Zoey were thunderstruck.

“Dad lent it to us unconditionally back then,” Caitlyn said. “How can there be interest?”

“My dear Caitlyn, you are so naïve! Dad borrowed the money to help you, but we’re all entrepreneurs; let’s not bring familial affection into this matter. What can I do if you people didn’t read the IOU carefully?”

Zoey and Aaron took the IOU and calculated them, and indeed there was interest.

They finally knew why Levi had brought five million.

However, it was obvious that the IOU had been amended!

How cruel!

I can't believe Grandpa is doing this to me!

Am I just an outsider to him?

Zoey teared up.

Aaron too was crestfallen.

Is he even my biological father?

How could he use such dirty tricks on us?

“What? You won't admit it? Okay, fine! I'll sue you then!” Henry sniggered.

“Why wouldn't we?! Five million, right? Here, take it!”

Levi put five briefcases of cash in front of Henry.

After checking them, Henry and a few others were gobsmacked.

Its real money! And there's exactly five million!

Levi recorded the scene and tore up the IOU.

“Where did you get five million?”

Henry was on the verge of doubting reality.

“That's none of your business. Get lost!”

Levi chased them out.

At the Lopez residence, everyone was staring at the five million on the table with eyes and mouth wide agape.

“How did they get this money? Did they go all out to collect five million just to prevent us from touching that ten billion project?”

Fabian arrived just then.

“Dad, I've found out that Levi borrowed these five million! He seems to have some property that can be used as a collateral,” he said.

“Are you sure?” Harry asked seriously.

“I’m sure! The person in charge of this transaction was Ms. Hailey Stinson, the senior director of North Hampton Bank’s head office. I somehow managed to contact her, and she admitted herself it was a person named Levi Garrison who borrowed it. I’d spent a hundred thousand to get a copy of the invoice!”

After receiving the invoice, Harry confirmed it was true.

“Haha, borrowed? Let see how he’s going to pay it back.”

“The biggest question is, how are they going to work on this project? They would still have to come to us in the end!”

...

Zoey felt it was too surreal to solve such a big issue.

She was touched when she learned from the Lopez family that it was Levi who borrowed the money to settle their debts.

“We should bring in investments and start the project as soon as possible!”

“But that’s another big problem there. We’ll need lots of funds to develop this project.”

According to Zoey’s budget, a start-up capital of thirty million would be required and at least seventy million would be needed subsequently.

Aaron gave a low moan of despair. It was too difficult a task to accomplish.

“Do you have any idea?” asked Zoey, looking at Levi.

Levi smiled. “We’ll just look for big companies then. We’ll try door to door. This project is a gold mine! I’m sure many companies will be interested.”

Zoey nodded. “I know that, but I’m afraid they’ll ask for a lot in return once they agree. There will be many overlord terms!”

“There’s no harm in trying, right? You’ll never know if there’s someone who would invest with no strings attached if you don’t try,” Levi beamed.

“How is that possible?”

Zoey was deeply suspicious.

If truth be told, it was a matter of Levi's words regarding the investments.

"Oh yeah, don't you worry," said Zoey suddenly. "I'll pay back the five million; hopefully we can reel in some investments as soon as possible."

"There's no need for that. Why are we even discussing this topic?"

Levi smiled.

"But you also have to pay back the money, no? How are you going to do that? You haven't got any money."

At that, Levi nodded.

"Once we earn enough money from this project, I'm planning to get a house. It's inappropriate of us to stay with Mom and Dad," Zoey added.

"Do you still remember our marital home?" asked Levi, remembering suddenly.

"I do. You designed that villa yourself, and it was perfect! What a waste," Zoey sighed.

"I'm going to take back that villa," Levi said.

"That villa belongs to the Garrison family now, Levi. Don't do anything reckless. You can't fight them," Zoey persuaded.

"Don't worry."

Levi was determined to take back what the Garrison family took from him.

The next day, Zoey was busy looking for investment while Levi stayed home. He wanted to let Zoey run into a stone wall before making the necessary arrangements.

Aaron and Caitlyn looked at Levi who was smoking on the couch, their brows furrowed and they looked sullen.

"Put out the cigarette and come with me! I have something to tell you!" said Aaron coldly, glaring at Levi in revulsion.

Levi stubbed out his cigarette and followed suit.

"Dad, just fire away!"

Aaron's brows knitted tightly together into a deep frown. "Are you not aware of our situation now?"

"I think we're good." Levi smiled. "We got the project and as long as we reel in some investments, Zoey and our future will be bright as day."

“Yeah, and it’s because Zoey has a promising future, you’re at risk.”

“What?” Levi’s expression changed from delight to puzzlement.

“You should know that once this project is accomplished, Zoey’s net worth will increase by a few billion. She’ll gain a foothold in North Hampton in the future. Do you think you’ll still be worthy of her then?” Aaron said solemnly. “I’m not questioning your abilities, but you have to understand that you just came out of prison and things are different from six years ago. It won’t be easy to start a business again. The gap between you and Zoey will only grow.”

“That’s right,” Caitlyn agreed. “You’re lazing around and doing nothing all day! You don’t even have a decent job. Do you think you’re worthy of my daughter?”

“Exactly! Just imagine how humiliating will it be for Zoey if you’re still her husband by then.”

“We will find a proper time to discuss this with Zoey regarding your divorce! This is for the best, for both you and Zoey! Just prepare yourself,” Aaron sighed.

Levi chuckled. “Mom, Dad, is this what they mean by burning the bridges?”

“What do you mean, burning the bridges? Do you really think that it was you who secured this project? You only butt in a little. It’s because of Zoey’s ability that we got this project, okay?”

“Yeah. In simpler words, this matter has nothing to do with you!”

Levi could only give a half-suppressed laugh in this regard.

“Rest assured, Mom and Dad. I’ll make Zoey the happiest woman in the world!” Levi proclaimed.

Caitlyn glared at him. “And how do you intend to do that? You don’t even have a house! I could have believed when you had that big villa before, but now? You’re just a pauper with zilch! Not to mention you’re staying at my house! Aren’t you ashamed?”

“Just leave for a few days. I don’t want to see you for a while.”

“Yeah, Zoey has been busy recently, and she’s easily distracted when you’re around,” Aaron added on.

Having been kicked out of the house, Levi wasn’t angry.

This was what he owed Zoey.

Downstairs, a Rolls-Royce Phantom pulled over.

Azure Dragon got out of the car and greeted, “God of War, after you!”

Levi got into the car.

“Aaron, come, quick!” Caitlyn, who was watching through the window, suddenly shouted. “I think Levi just got into a luxury car.”

Aaron hurried over and saw a Rolls-Royce driving past his house.

“That’s a Rolls-Royce Phantom! The car owner must be a big shot! How could’ve Levi gotten into this kind of car?” Aaron said quickly.

“I just saw a figure from the back who looked a little like him. I guess I worried too much,” said Caitlyn with relief. “If he can afford to drive a Rolls-Royce, would we even be staying in this hundred square meters dumpster?”

Aaron snorted. “You’re still hoping on this gigolo?”

“Yes. I hope he starves to death.”

In the car, Azure Dragon asked, “Where to now, Sir?”

“To the Royal Villa!”

I must take back my villa!

“Sir, I’ve found out that the person living in your villa right now is Matthew Green! He’s the current general manager of Skyline Media under Garrison International!”

“He’s currently Ashton’s trusted aide! After betraying you, he immediately devoted himself to Ashton.”

Ashton was Levi’s Uncle, Jacob’s son. He had a reputation for being a man about town. And it was he who said that he wanted to marry Zoey at the banquet that day.

He had been coveting Zoey for a long time now.

Levi’s gaze went cold at the mention of Matthew.

He was once his trusted aide, his henchmen.

It was Levi who promoted him. If it hadn’t been for him, he would have committed fraud and gone to prison.

Levi could still remember that after his downfall, Matthew had become the Garrison family’s lackey who immediately contacted the media reporters to smear his name.

He had even forged a good deal of evidences of Levi’s ‘supposed’ crime and successfully sent him to prison.

Thinking about how Matthew once looked respectful before him, Levi found it ridiculous.

Very soon, he arrived at the Royal Villa.

Standing before the villa that he personally designed, rage bubbled just below the surface of his mind.

The nerve of him to stay at my marital home!

Die!

Upon noticing the two of them, the villa housekeeper came out and asked, “What are you people doing here and who are you looking for?”

Levi grinned. “I’m here to look at my house!”

“What? Your house? Are you sick in the head?”

“I’m telling you, the owner of this villa is Matthew Green, Mr. Green of Skyline Media!” the housekeeper sneered.

Levi tugged his lips into a wider grin. “Then did Matthew tell you who was the previous owner of the villa?”

“You think I care? I only know Mr. Green!”

Right at that moment, a Porsche Panamera pulled in.

The housekeeper immediately went to open the door.

Matthew, dressed in a suit, came down with a secretary supporting him at the side. The secretary, who was dressed in business attire, was hot. Her long legs wrapped in black stockings were especially attractive.

Seeing that they came back together, it was obvious they were up to some shenanigans.

“Who are these people?” Matthew asked, displeasure was written all over his face as he looked at the two people standing in front of the villa.

Levi slowly turned around. In the split second when their eyes met, Matthew got the shock of his life.

It just so happened that he had gone on a business trip during the Garrison family’s celebration banquet, so he didn’t meet Levi until today.

Meeting Levi right now, he could feel nothing but blind terror.

It differed from the rest of the Garrison family. Matthew had a psychological fear and awe for Levi.

Especially since he had done something despicable toward him; he couldn’t look Levi in the eye.

“Life seems good, eh, Mr. Green?” Levi asked with a smile on his face.

“W-W-What are you doing here?” Matthew asked, trembling.

“I’m here to have a look at my house!”

Levi sized up the villa.

“This villa has nothing to do with you now. So leave!” Matthew said, bracing himself and looking at Levi.

Levi smirked. “And if I don’t?”

Matthew’s secretary, Queena, glowered at Levi. “Who do you think you are? How dare you behave like a barbarian? Leave now! Or I’ll inform Mr. Ashton, and you’ll be sorry for this!”

At the mention of Ashton, Matthew suddenly got a newfound courage and he retort, “Levi Garrison, taking into consideration that you were my boss, I will not make things difficult for you. So please leave now!”

“Who do you think you are to make things difficult for me?” Levi disparaged.

“Why don’t you take a look at yourself in the mirror, Levi? You’re a nobody now! How dare you talk to Mr. Green like that?” Queena sneered. “Get down on your knees and crawl your way out!”

The Protector Chapter 16

“Slap them!”

Levi ordered softly.

Azure Dragon stepped up and gave a tight slap across Queena’s face.

His slap came with such shearing force that it knocked her off her feet and sent her flying almost eight meters away.

It ripped her flesh apart with deep cuts across her skin, and a few blood-stained teeth popped out from her mouth. Her hysterical screams filled the air, which sounded as if she was being butchered.

Matthew was stunned.

“D-Don’t you even dare lay a finger on me,” he quivered, “or I’ll call the security...”

Slap!

The slap from Azure Dragon came thick and fast, which made him see stars. Blood spurted out like a fountain from Matthew’s mouth. It almost knocked him out.

“P-Please don’t kill me...please don’t kill me...” Matthew shriveled and pleaded.

Gone was his usual shrewd and bossy demeanor when he was the big daddy of the corporate world. He was now just as powerless and utterly hopeless like a trapped animal!

“I want you to move out of the villa by eight o’clock tomorrow morning.” Levi ordered, “Or you’ll live to regret for not heeding my call.”

“This is my villa and I shan’t let anyone stain it and pollute the place.” Levi said with a cold spark in his eyes.

The villa had been the den of Matthew and his guys for the past six years. Levi dreaded to think what kind of filth they had brought with them to the villa – which was absolutely intolerable for someone like him, who had an obsession for cleanliness.

“What?” Matthew could not believe his ears.

What makes you think I’ll give you back the villa, you little rotten punk? You’re just someone who’s fresh out from prison!

Levi took off shortly after he had issued the final notice to Matthew.

Meanwhile, Matthew did not return home but headed straight for Ashton, taking his secretary along with him.

Oblivious to what had happened at the villa, Ashton was having a swinging good time at the club, tucking himself between a blonde on his left and a brunette on his right.

“Something terrible has happened, Mr. Garrison!” Matthew shouted as he dashed into the club, “It’s a disaster!”

He recounted what happened at the villa to Ashton, making it sound worse than it actually was.

“There’s nobody but you who can help me now, Mr. Garrison.” Matthew said piteously, “Look at how badly we’ve been beaten up by Levi.”

Indeed, the swollen faces and puffy eyes of Matthew and Queena resembled more like the faces of pigs than human, which threw Ashton into an instant rage.

“Levi, you son of a b*!” Aston gritted his teeth, “Who do you think you are? How dare you beat up my subordinate?”

He threw a bottle of beer to the floor, smashing it.

“What a useless piece of crap you are!” he glared at Matthew scornfully, “How could you let him trample all over you like this?”

“Mr. Garrison, he’s got someone with him who’s a real tough guy.” Matthew bemoaned, “He’d even warned he would kill the both of us if we don’t handover the villa tomorrow.”

“What’s the big deal? It’s just Levi.” Ashton huffed, “He’s just a nobody to me. Let’s see if he’s got the guts to harm me when I bring my men to the villa tomorrow.”

“It’d be safer to bring more men with you, Mr. Garrison.” Matthew advised, “I’m afraid you’d be outnumbered by Levi’s men at the villa tomorrow.”

“Oh yeah? How about I bring Trey along with me then?” Ashton’s eyes gleamed with bloodlust as he spoke.

“That would be a slam dunk!” Matthew said with renewed confidence, “Everybody knows what Trey is capable of. It’ll be just a piece of cake to him!”

Trey was the notorious gang leader in North Hampton with several hundred men under him, known for their brutality and savageness.

He had stained his hands with the blood of so many enemies that he had virtually lost count of the exact number.

Trey had a good relationship with Ashton over the years, rendering his services whenever Ashton needed help in one of his malls.

All Trey had to do was to send over his men armed with axes and knives. That would be enough to scare the hell out of anyone and make them pissed in their pants.

Meanwhile, Zoey had just returned home after a long day to find that Levi was not in the house.

“Mum, Dad, where’s Levi?”

“I have no idea,” Aaron shrugged without even looking up, “perhaps he has gone to look for a job?”

“Let me give him a call.”

Zoey was about to make the call when Aaron stopped her. “You should focus on your career instead of wasting your time on Levi, Zoey.” he advised, “He would only be a distraction to you if he hangs around in the house all the time.”

“What do you mean by that, Dad?” Zoey stared at her father incredulously.

“That’s true, Zoey.” Caitlyn chimed in, “Can’t you see you’re poised for something huge? You’re in an entirely different league now, and you mustn’t let him smear your name.”

“Dad, mum, how could you say such a thing?” Zoey chided her parents for being ungrateful, “You know I wouldn’t even stand a chance if it wasn’t for Levi who had given me the invitation card to the banquet. It was Levi who helped me bag the project!”

“I know he played a role in this project.” Aaron agreed, “But it was your ability and credentials that eventually won you the contract. It has nothing to do with him.”

“Levi could give me advise. I have no qualms about his ability.”

“So you’re just going to let him cling on to you like a parasite that gives you advise?” Aaron snorted, “There’s no way we’d let him stick around with you, unless he elevates his status to be on par with you.”

“Yes, that’s absolutely true!” Caitlyn nodded, “We’ll never agree to it if he stays in his current condition.”

“Argh! You guys are simply unreasonable!” Zoey shook her head irritably, “Forget about it, I’ll go look for him myself.”

Zoey knew that Levi must have been chased out of the house by her parents. She called up Levi and beckoned him to come back.

Soon Levi was back in the house and he followed Zoey to her room.

“Don’t be mad with my parents, Levi. All you need is a little time to work things out, which I’m sure would help you make your comeback in no time.” she offered her encouragement.

“What about your end?” Levi asked, “Any luck on roping in the investments you needed?”

“It’s frustrating.” Zoey sighed, “Everybody has their own demands. It’s impossible to please everyone!”

“Don’t worry. Let me come along with you.” Levi consoled her, “I’m sure we could make it happen.”

“By the way, can you come with me tomorrow, Zoey?” asked Levi, “I’d like to take you to a place.”

“Sure.”

The next morning, Levi brought Zoey to the villa. The time was exactly eight o’clock.

“I’ll be getting our villa back today, Zoey.” Levi said with conviction, “This is supposed to be our house after we’re married. There’s no way I’ll let someone else stay in our place!”

“Huh?” Zoey was at a loss.

“What nerve you have to show up today?” Matthew grinned with malice when he saw Levi and Zoey.

“Have you already moved out of the place?” Levi asked coldly, “I’m taking back my villa today.”

“Who the hell are you to take away the villa from Ashton Garrison? You must be out of your mind!” A high pitch voice pierced through the air like the shrills of a high-stung cat.

It was the voice of Ashton Garrison, who had brought with him a large group of men.

Immediately, they surrounded Levi and Zoey.

A middle-aged man donned in a classic suit stood beside Ashton. He was cradling in his hands two shining walnuts that gave out a clacking sound. The thick, long scar across his face was impossible to overlook. It exuded an aura of evil.

The man was Trey, the big daddy of North Hampton’s underground society.

Everybody was well aware of his merciless killings and the hundreds of men that worked under him. They would avoid him like the plague.

Trey had brought more than a hundred men with him to the villa today. This was what Matthew had wanted to see.

The ghastly look on the faces of these thugs gave Zoey the chills as she nestled herself closer to Levi.

Ashton was all too delighted to see Zoey at the scene. He leered at her with a lewd smile on his face.

He had set his eyes on her for some time now, and today would be just the perfect opportunity to pin her down. He planned to sleep with her once they had beaten up Levi and made him a cripple.

“What brings you here, Levi?” asked Ashton, in his usual smugness.

“I’m here to take back my villa.” Levi replied with a stony look.

“Your villa?” he screeched, “What makes you think this villa belongs to you, idiot? This is my villa and I’ve given it to Matthew.”

“I’ll never forget how you’ve put me to shame the last time when you pissed off my VIP.” Ashton stepped up and gave Levi a shove, “It’s payback time now, kiddo! I’m going to break all your limbs before I take her away and make her mine!”

“Let’s go now, Levi” Zoey pleaded, “We’re hardly their match.”

“Where do you think you’re going? It’s all too late now!” Ashton shrieked, “Do you think you’d get away from Trey and his men?”

Clack! Clack! Clack!

More than a hundred of Trey’s men zeroed in on Levi and Zoey, waving their steel rods and various other lethal weapons as they tried to intimidate the both of them.

Levi was unfazed. He dialed a number and belted out his instructions, “Azure Dragon, send over a regiment from the North Hampton’s camp now. I want everyone to be armed in full battle gear!” Levi mumbled in his deep voice.

Gripped with fear, Zoey was hardly paying attention to what Levi had just said over the phone, while the rest of the crowd failed to make out what Levi had uttered with his low, deep voice.

“So it looks like you’re getting somebody to help you? And you’re even asking them to put on some kind of gear?” Ashton sneered sarcastically, “Fine, I can’t wait to see what kind of help you’ve enlisted to bail you out of this.”

Trey smirked as he looked at Levi with an amused curiosity.

Zoey on the other hand was shivering all over in horror, she felt as if she was standing on the edge of an abyss.

After about ten minutes, the security guards at the gates of the Royal Villas turned wide-eyed and mouth agape when they saw loads of war trucks, one after another, stormed into the premise. Each truck was full of soldiers.

A few of the trucks were even loaded with heavy artillery.

“Do you think there are more than a thousand soldiers in those trucks?” asked one guard.

“Holy cow! This is an entire regiment!”

The Protector Chapter 17

Levi’s villa unit belonged to lot A-88.

Unbeknown to Ashton and his men, the troops had formed a squarish formation surrounding the lots of A87, A88, A89 to B88.

Each of them stood on full alert, armed with fully loaded firearms that are ready to fire the first strike.

All they need was a command.

Outside the villa.

“So what’s the situation now?” Ashton was still grinning his grotesque grin as he taunted Levi, “Where are your men? Are they all having cold feet now?”

Levi signaled with a click of his fingers.

The next moment.

Thud! Thud! Thud!

The ground seemed to move under their feet as a synchronous marching of troops roared across the silent air.

“What’s going on here? What’s all that sound?”

Trey’s men looked around frantically, bug-eyed and tense as dogs.

The marching was getting denser and louder, the rhythm was so uniform and disciplined that it almost turned into a deafening boom.

“What the hell is that?”

Trey’s men froze when they saw the approaching troops coming at them from four corners.

Matthew, Trey and Ashton were shell-shocked and rooted to the ground like statues. Everybody was muted with horror.

Never had they seen such a formation in front of their eyes. The soldiers aligned themselves in uniform rows, each armed with the deadliest weapons fit for a war!

Thud! Thud! Thud! The thumping continued.

Soon the troops stood in position, forming a human barricade as they occupied the four corners and fenced everybody in.

Everyone lifted their guns and aimed their barrels straight at Ashton and his group of men.

Crack!

Racks of heavy machine guns were set up with their positions adjusted accordingly to point straight towards Aston and his men.

Not to mention those massive weapons that include mortar and artilleries...

Clang! Clang!

The clanging sound of rods and other metal weapons resonated in the air. Trey's men had dropped their weapons and raised both hands in fear.

A few of them had even pissed inside their pants.

A strong, pungent smell of ammonia suffused the air.

Trey himself had dropped the walnuts and lifted his hands as well.

For decades, he had ruled the underground triads with his brutality and violent means. He had seen it all and had never been fazed by any opponent.

He could take down dozens of men in one go, breaking their ribs and even slashing their throats. These were all cakewalk to him.

Yet the scene in front of him belonged to a totally different league. War that was confined to the television was now playing out right in front of his eyes!

Thump!

Matthew dropped to the floor on his knees and pleaded, "Please let me go. I have nothing to do with this!"

Ashton stared at the guns pointed at him. Those soulless clanks of metal stared back at him like a plethora of ghostly eyes. It made his face turned ashen and his legs wobbled with fear.

"N-Neither do I. I have done nothing as well."

The unexpected twist of events had absolutely stupefied Ashton. He had never imagined Levi could summon an entire regiment with just one phone call...

Zoey was blown away as well by the dramatic turn of events. She needed a while to recompose herself before she turned her gaze to Levi.

She felt like she saw a magical halo glowing above Levi.

How is it possible that he summoned such a huge regiment with just a phone call?

A man stepped forward among the troops.

He had two gold stripes and three stars embroidered on the shoulder of his military uniform.

They could tell he was an army official.

“Steven Shaw, Colonel of North Hampton’s First Metallic Regiment, reporting for duty, Sir! We are here to protect the God of War, Sir!”

Steven Shaw cast an ambiguous glance at Levi as he raised his left hand to present a military salute.

Another man in military uniform stepped up from the opposing direction. He had a large gold star embroidered on his shoulder and a group of soldiers at his heels.

He had the colossal air of a warrior, he was none other than the King of War.

“The First Metallic Regiment had completely surrounded the compound, General Azure Dragon! Awaiting further orders, Sir!”

Steven Shaw ran up to Azure Dragon and present another military salute.

Azure Dragon took off his gloves and asked in his impersonal voice, “Do you know who owns this villa?”

“C-Could it be that it belongs to the G-God of War?” replied Ashton with a tremulous voice, while his body jerked uncontrollably as if he was having a seizure.

“Bingo.” Azure Dragon gave a set smile, “All the villas in this area belong to him.”

Ashton sucked in a deep breath. He was so gripped with fear that he almost passed out.

Trey was palpitating in horror when he heard the name. It drained his face of all color and immobilized his body, it was as if his soul had departed and left him with a hollow shell.

He would have never dared to step foot in here if he had known this area belonged to the God of War. It was as good as stepping into the gates of hell.

“Why did you bring your men here?” Azure Dragon glared at Ashton and Trey, “Are you trying to take down the God of War?” he snarled.

The Protector Chapter 18

Thump!

Thump!

...

Ashton, Trey, and Matthew, along with over a hundred of their men went down on their knees.

“It was all a misunderstanding. Just a misunderstanding...”

It was quite a spectacular scene to see over a hundred men going down on their knees, bending over their bodies and slamming their heads on the floor as they beg for forgiveness.

Zoey was so choked with fear that she almost fainted.

The turn of events could not be more theatrical than this.

How could so many thugs all turn into a bunch of crying babies all at once?

“Zoey, why don’t you get inside the villa and let them do their stuff?” Levi suggested.

The petrified Zoey gladly took his advice and dashed for the villa.

“Sir, please, I really have nothing to do with this. I’m just somebody who was hired by Mr. Garrison to act under his instructions...”

“Yeah, we’ve got nothing to do with this!”

...

Trey and his men were desperate to draw a line from Ashton by shifting all the blame to him.

Ashton was so contorted with fear that he spat out a mouthful of blood.

“Let them go!”

What came as a shock to Ashton, Trey and Matthew was when they saw it was Levi who gave the order.

His order prompted Azure Dragon to wave them away, “Get your ass out of here and don’t let me see you again!”

It was clear as day that it was not Azure Dragon, but Levi, who was calling the shots. Could it be that Levi...

It all pointed out to one scary truth they all dreaded to know.

Trey and his men tumbled and stumbled as they fled the scene at their quickest pace, fearing they could end up with a bullet in their heads.

“Please let me go, L-Levi, I’m innocent as well. It was Ashton who...” Matthew tried to dissociate himself from Ashton as well.

“Tell me, Azure Dragon, how do we punish a traitor?” Levi turned to Azure Dragon and smiled abruptly.

“All traitors would be slaughtered!” Azure Dragon gave a deafening roar.

Matthew was on the verge of a complete collapse.

But he knew it was all too late. This was the fate for traitors. Matthew must die!

The doomed fate of Matthew scared the daylight out of Ashton, who instantly got down on his knees to beg for his life “We are family, my dear brother. Please forgive me for not knowing your true identity.” cried Ashton, “We are all waiting for you to come home. I’m sure everybody would be thrilled to see you home again!”

Ashton played the emotional card as his last resort to save his own life.

“Don’t you remember how you guys have broken all my limbs and threw me to the streets like a dying dog?” Levi said sarcastically, “Is that how you’re supposed to treat your family?”

“Oh, that’s just a misunderstanding, my brother.” Ashton was almost to tears, “I’m sure it’s nothing but a misunderstanding!”

“Didn’t you just said that you want to sleep with my wife too?” said Levi as he walked closer towards Ashton.

“That’s just a joke, you know,” Ashton felt his legs were going jelly as he stuttered, “nothing but a joke, my brother...”

“What makes you think you can joke about something like this?”

Levi struck a killer punch right into Ashton’s face, which made him see stars and blacked out instantly.

“Send him back to the Garrisons! Tell them that this is my first present for them!”

Levi ordered, his face devoid of expression.

“Understood, Sir!” Azure Dragon replied subserviently.

“Well done, Steven Shaw.” Levi eyed him with satisfaction.

“Greetings to you, Sir!” A yelp from Steven Shaw led the whole of First Metallic Regiment to raise their right hand uniformly to present a military salute.

Levi reciprocated with a standard salute.

When he entered the villa, what greeted his sight was Zoey all curled up on the sofa, quivering with fear.

The spectacular scene today had left her numbed with shock.

She did not even have the courage to glimpse out of the villa.

“It’s alright now, Zoey.” Levi hugged her, “Everything’s over. The villa now belongs to us.”

“Are you sure?” Zoey lifted her head, her tone was uncertain.

“I’m sure!” Levi reassured her, “But I plan to tear down the house completely and rebuild from scratch. There’s no way we can move in now after those thugs had stayed in the house before.”

“I need to ask you something, Levi.” Zoey asked after she had recomposed herself “I want you to be absolutely upfront with me.”

“Sure, what do you want to know?”

Zoey bit her lips in hesitation, “What is your relationship with the God of War and Azure Dragon?” she demanded, “I need you to tell me nothing but the truth!”

The Protector Chapter 19

“I’ve already told you at the family banquet before,” Levi nodded, “I am the God of War.”

“There you go again.” Zoey dismissed his words and rolled her eyes, “You and your blabber.”

She did not believe his confession, and thought that he was just trying to brag around.

“Alright,” Levi said with a helpless shrug, “I have nothing to do with them.”

“But then how did you get Azure Dragon to show up with just a phone call?” she asked, puzzled, “Not to mention he even brought an entire regiment with him?”

“It was all a coincidence, when I was here last night and found out that Azure Dragon was staying in the same vicinity, I was sure that the God of War must be nearby as well.” Levi made up an explanation, “I know Ashton is bringing his men to the villa today, so I tipped off the authorities in advance. I told them that somebody is trying to harm the God of War, that’s why they sent over an entire regiment to protect him.” he could only put up a lie to appease her.

“That makes perfect sense to me now.” Zoey found his explanation plausible, “I recalled Azure Dragon said the God of War lives around here, which explains why he's on high alert when Ashton and his men came to the villa."

"Do you want to take any of the stuff home with you? There's no way I'm going to stay here!" Levi said with an air of disgust.

"No, let's leave them here." Zoey shook her head, "It would only cause mum and dad to get curious if they see us moving our stuff home."

At Rivervale Mansion, North Hampton.

It was one of the most luxurious mansions in North Hampton. The place was the family mansion of the Garrisons, who had just listed their company shares on the stock exchange.

It had yet struck nine o'clock in the morning and it was still early for the Garrisons to leave for work.

Most of them were still in the house when they carried Ashton into the mansion.

Soon, every member of the Garrison family knew something terrible had happened to Ashton, and they immediately sent him to the hospital.

Joseph, Jaycob, Ben and everybody else rushed to the hospital.

"How's Ashton doing?" Joseph asked.

"I'm sorry, Mr. Garrison." the doctor sighed after he had examined Ashton's condition, "I'm afraid Ashton is not showing any response, he's now in a vegetative state."

"What do you mean he's in a vegetative state?" Jaycob could not believe his ears, "You mean my son has become a vegetable?"

"Ashton suffered from an extremely severe impact that turned him into a vegetable." the doctor explained.

"Who was the one who sent Ashton back to the mansion?" asked Joseph, who had slipped into a dark look.

"They were two guys we've not seen before, dad." Ben lowered his voice, "They left as soon as they sent Ashton back to our house. But they did leave a message..."

"What's their message? Spit it out now!"

The aura from Joseph was one of pure oppression.

"They said that this is the first present sent by Levi." Ben promptly spilled out the words.

"What? You mean this is a present from Levi?"

"So it was Levi who's behind all this?"

“I’m going to skin you alive, Levi!” Jaycob flew into such a rage that he almost flipped the table.

“Tell me, where is Levi now? I’m going to bash his brains in and squash him like the disgusting roach that he is!”

Jaycob was cursing and swearing like a madman, oozing violence and malice.

“Hold on, Jaycob.” Joseph mused over the message from Levi, “Levi said that this is just his first present, so we should expect for his second and third present to come in no time. Looks like Levi has just turned the tables on us, he’s letting us know that he’s now the one calling the shots instead!”

Joseph placed his hands behind his back and gave a brittle laugh.

“I’ve asked Bryan to find out what actually happened, dad.” Ben informed Joseph, “I’m sure he’ll update us soon.”

Soon after, they saw Bryan come running towards them, panting for air.

“I’ve found out what happened, grandpa, dad, Jaycob.” Bryan rasped, “Ashton and Levi had gotten into a brawl because of Royal Villa, which left Ashton being beaten up by Levi.”

“How could this be possible?” Joseph bemoaned, “Didn’t Ashton used to hang around with Trey, that triad leader? How could Levi have beaten the both of them and turned Ashton into a vegetable?”

The Protector Chapter 20

“I can’t figure it out too, since they told me Trey and Ashton had brought over a hundred men with them. So what caused Ashton to end up in such a bad shape?” Bryan shared with them his findings, “I’ve checked with Trey but he refused to say a word about it. All he did was warn us to stay away from Levi and don’t mess around with him.”

“What? How could this be true?” cried Ben in disbelief, “Doesn’t this show that Levi had scared the shit out of Trey? There must be something about Levi that made Trey said such a thing.”

“Judging by his words, it sounds like Trey is terrified of Levi.” Joseph nodded, “What’s going on here? Wasn’t Levi just released from prison? Where did he find the support to oust Ashton and Trey from the villa?”

Bryan’s wife, Victoria, was quick to offer her opinion, “I bet Levi must have become mates with some crooks when he was in prison and garnered their support, dad.” she gave a sly smile, “That could have given Levi the ammunition to stand up to Trey and his men.” While Trey might hold some influence, he was pale in comparison with the real big crooks on the streets.

It was probably one of those crooks who had teamed up with Levi to take out Trey and his men. I mean, didn’t Levi issued us a warning during the banquet to celebrate our share listing last time?

He demanded us to repent and offer an apology in one month's time, or we will have to defend with all we have if we refuse to apologize. It all pointed to the possibility that Levi must have garnered the support of some influential and powerful crooks to back him up.

"Yes, I'm sure that must be the case!" Joseph could not agree more with Victoria, "Levi must have found some real big shots while he was in prison to back him up, so he's now coming after us!"

"Looks like we've underestimated this little bd." Ben stroked his chin and said meditatively, "He's no pushover indeed."

"I don't give a heck what big crooks that's backing him up," Jaycob snorted, "I'll get even with him for turning my son into such a horrible state!"

Vengeance and hatred had blinded Jaycob.

"There's no way we would let him off, Uncle Jaycob." Bryan pointed out, "But we need to get a good grasp of the situation before we strike. We must find out who is backing him and what tricks he has up his sleeve. Even though we are not afraid to confront him directly, we still need to do it the smart way."

Joseph nodded in agreement, "Bryan's right. We should play our cards wisely." Levi is too naive if he thinks he could triumph over us simply because he had ousted Trey. What a joke! Trey is nothing more than just one of our lackeys. Our family is almost untouchable in North Hampton.

Besides, we have powerful connections in all kinds of sectors including politics, business, military, and even the mafias and thugs. So what if Levi had some big crooks as his backup? There's no way he could hurt our family, he won't be able to harm even a single hair of the Garrison family!

"You're right. Levi is too gullible to think he could trample over us with the help of some big guns." Jaycob's eyes gleamed with a bloodthirsty look, "I'll flip open all his cards so he'll never be able to play any tricks on us again. That's when we would make him pay with his blood!"

"But I have a bad feeling about this." Rick said with an ominous tone, "Levi is someone who is cold and calculative. I'm pretty sure he must have it all worked out inside his head. We'd better not be too reckless about it."

"I think you're getting a little paranoid about it, Uncle Rick." Bryan smiled over it, "There's nothing for us to fear given our status and influence now. We are as solid as they come. Whatever tricks Levi try to play on us will never work."

"I agree with Bryan." Joseph chimed in, "There's no need to be too worried by that, Rick."

"I don't know about this, but I think it's better to be safe than to be sorry," Rick sighed, "it's just that I can't shake the feeling that something's wrong!"

It was against Rick's reticent nature to say such a thing, but he had an awful premonition that something bad was going to happen.

He knew there was more to Levi than meet the eye. Levi is simply no pushover in any aspect!

...

At night.

Aaron lashed out at Levi the moment they reached home. "What do you think you're doing? Are you looking to get Zoey into trouble?" he snarled, "Get out of my house if you don't want to stay here!"

"What's going on, Dad?" Zoey and Levi were astounded, "What did Levi do?"

The Protector Chapter 21

"Don't think we are ignorant of what you'd done to the Garrison family," Aaron scoffed, "they have warned us to prepare ourselves for a bloodbath."

"Why do you have to piss off the Garrison family? Are you looking to get yourself killed?"

Caitlyn and Aaron were raving mad.

"If it's not for Zoey, I'd have kicked you out of our house a long time ago." Aaron spat with such fury that his veins stood out in his neck, "You could have been sleeping at the streets by now!"

Zoey did not want to aggravate the hostility of his parents towards Levi, but she felt Levi had acted too rashly as well.

We were lucky to have Azure Dragon bail us out this time. But what about next time? Will we get lucky again?

"Who are you to step on the toes of the Garrison family?" Caitlyn glared at Levi with total contempt, "You don't even have a place to stay on your own!"

"Mum, Levi actually has the villa..."

Zoey was trying to explain to her mum that Levi had just got his villa back, but Caitlyn cut her off abruptly, "Don't give me that crap about his villa. He's simply a ticking time bomb, you shouldn't hang around with him all the time. I'd rather you use your time to source for investors instead!"

"You should know well that the Garrison family is untouchable, not even the Lopez family could hold a candle to them. We'll be doomed should the Garrisons decide to come at us. I'm warning you, Levi, I'll get Zoey to seek a divorce with you if you ever dare to infuriate the Garrison family again!"

The next day.

Zoey and Levi planned to source for investors for their upcoming project. They were about to leave the house when Caitlyn reminded Zoey, "It's going to be the National holidays soon and your cousin is coming over to spend the holidays with us. Can you go and pick her up as your dad and I are too busy with our chores?"

“Sure, mum.”

Levi knew both Aaron and Caitlyn had got their hands full at the moment. Caitlyn worked in the hospital while Aaron had just started a small business.

It was another frustrating day for Zoey. Every investor she met had snubbed her proposal.

However, Levi watched quietly without interfering. All he did was take down the names of those companies who had snubbed Zoey’s proposal.

The string of ill-luck days for Zoey had left her with no choice but to hold back her project as long as she could, since she could not source the investments she needed to kick-start her project. She was just three days away from the commencement date, as stipulated in the contract.

It had definitely stressed Zoey to the extreme.

Aaron and Caitlyn were exasperated and wore a worried look on their faces.

“Don’t be too worried, Mum, Dad.” Levi gave a placid smile, “I’m sure the investors would show up when the time comes.”

He said it with an air of confidence, since he knew he had made all the necessary arrangements.

“You should just keep your mouth shut!” Aaron flared, “Of course it’s easy for you to say that, since it’s none of your business!”

Ding Dong...

The doorbell sounded. It surprised them to see Shaun at their doorstep.

“It’s good that you’re all here, Uncle Aaron and Aunt Caitlyn. Grandpa would like all of you to come for a family meeting tonight.”

Shaun left promptly after he had relayed the message.

Shortly after, Levi, Zoey and her parents came to the family complex of the Lopez family.

It was a vast complex that comprised several buildings. Its structure and scale were one of the most affluent and lavish in North Hampton.

Zoey instantly felt animosity in the Lopez family’s members looks when they greeted her. It was as if she had just snatched away the love of their lives.

It dawned on Zoey and her family that they were no longer seen as part of the Lopez family anymore, now, they are seen as enemy who had taken their cake away and have it all to themselves.

“Come over here, Aaron and you guys. Take a seat.” Harry and the rest of them greeted them with an unusual friendliness.

“How’s your project going along, Zoey?” Harry asked once everybody was seated.

“There’s a major issue with the funding, grandpa!” Zoey sighed, “We’re just three days away from the commencement date but I’ve yet to rope in investors for the project.”

“Hahaha....Didn’t I told you that this is too large of a project for a small company like Imperial Meadows?”

“That’s right, it’s good to know your own limits. Don’t act like some big guns when you’re just nothing but a soft and limp fry!”

...

Everyone started to mock Zoey when they heard about her funding problem.

Zoey and her family could only put up with their sarcasm in silence since she could find nothing to rebuke them. The lack of funding had now put her entire project into jeopardy.

The Protector Chapter 22

“I’m a bit offended, Zoey.” Harry smiled ruefully, “How could you forget about your own family?”

“Grandpa, I...”

“You should have come to me instead. The Lopez Group could work out something for you. You know it’s well within our means to take on that Ecological Park project of yours.”

“I could even provide the startup capital for your project!” said Harry seriously.

“I bet there’s going to be some conditions attached to it?” Levi drove straight to the point. “Or you wouldn’t be so kind as to provide the funding.”

He had seen through the ulterior motive for Harry to fund the project.

“Good, I like to deal with smart people.” Harry grinned, “It’d save me a lot of my time.”

His words prompted Samuel Robertson, who was sitting next to Harry, to pass over the contract to Zoey.

“Take a look at this, Zoey.”

Zoey immediately studied the contract when they passed it to her.

The content was straightforward.

The contract stated that Lopez Group would get up to ninety percent of the profits for the Ecological Park project for providing the funds to Imperial Meadows Limited.

It sent Aaron into a fit of rage after he read the contract.

The Lopez family are simply too cruel to ask for such a huge chunk of the profits.

Aaron was utterly pissed off. He felt that Harry had never regarded him as his own son, but just another prey he was targeting.

“Don’t be mad, Aaron and Zoey. Think about it, in three days’ time, the project would be automatically annulled if you can’t come up with the funding.” Harry’s grin was sly and pernicious, as if he was trying to lure the bait to the hook, “You would end up without a cent once the project was annulled. But if you accept our funding, you’d still get a ten percent cut out of the profits. That would translate to quite a considerable sum of a hundred million. It’s up to you to decide...”

“Unless you’re confident to pull in the funds that you need before the stated deadline.”

Given the tight deadline of just three days, Harry was pretty sure it was nigh impossible for Zoey to secure the funds she needed for the project. This would only leave her with no other options but to agree to his terms.

It would make the Lopez family the biggest winner with a whopping ninety percent of the profits. Even Mr. Jennings could do nothing about it.

“That’s true, Aaron.” Henry chipped in, “We should work together since we’re family. Let’s share the profits instead of having the cake all to yourself.”

“There’s no hurry to sign this. I’ll leave you guys alone to discuss it among yourselves.”

Harry and his company left Levi, Zoey and her parents to talk things out.

“Why don’t we just agree to their terms, Zoey?” Aaron and Caitlyn persuaded, “At least there’s still something left on the plate for us. You should know better that your chances of getting the funds are almost as good as zero!”

Their words almost swayed Zoey to put her name down on the contract. But she held back and sought Levi’s opinion.

“Don’t sign it!” Levi was adamant.

“Trust me, Zoey! I’m sure that I can secure the funding you need before the deadline expires!”

A fuming Aaron intervened before Zoey could fumble out a reply, “Don’t give me that crap again! Do we hold you responsible if we lose that hundred million? I firmly believe we should sign it.”

Zoey was in a dilemma as she eyed Levi skeptically. She did not have complete faith in Levi’s words.

“Alright, how about this?” Levi shrugged, “Since we have three days left to go, why don’t we hang on till the last day to see if we could pull in some investments?” he suggested, “It’s still not too late to sign the contract by then.”

“Sounds like a plan!”

“I could work with that!”

Everybody gave their nods of approval.

The same goes for Harry and his men. They agreed to the suggestion readily.

They were certain that Zoey would never secure the investments that she badly needed in just three days' time.

...

For the next three days, Zoey worked tirelessly from day to night to meet with potential investors for the project.

Yet, there was nothing to show for all her efforts.

Those who were interested demanded a ridiculous amount of return for their investments.

It would make more sense to work with Harry, since his offer was more or less the same than the rest.

Three days passed by without a trace. The deadline was set on tomorrow before ten o'clock to kick start the project, once over the given time, the project would be automatically annulled.

“Come on, we've got to sign the contract with Harry now.” Aaron stood up and said.

“What's the hurry? Why don't we just wait a little longer?” Levi tried to dissuade them from signing, “We have all the time till next morning eight o'clock to sign it.”

“Let's wait until tomorrow morning, Zoey. Don't sign the contract today.” Levi instructed.

“I need to step out for a while.” Levi left the house after he urged Zoey to stay patient for one more night.

The Protector Chapter 23

Levi left the house to meet up with Azure Dragon, whom he had instructed to wait for him outside the house.

“What can I do for you, Sir?” Azure Dragon asked.

“I want you to contact these companies.” Levi handed him a list of company names.

The following morning.

Zoey was woken up by Aaron in the wee hours of the morning.

“Where the hell is Levi? I presume he was out last night to source for funding, but what’s taking him so long to come back?” Aaron said disapprovingly, “He just can’t do anything right. He’s a born loser, a good-for-nothing!”

It angered Zoey to think that Levi did not even bother to inform her when he knew he would be out the whole night.

“We’d better sign the contract before it’s too late. Let’s meet up with Harry now!”

Harry and his men were already standing by at the family mansion when Zoey and her family arrived.

An euphoric smile hung on their faces as they greeted Zoey and her family.

It was all too gratifying for Harry and company to see the three of them come begging with their tail between their legs.

“You should have known better than to make a fool out of yourself, Aaron.” Henry and Fabian jeered at him, “Can’t you see that there’s no way you guys could ever get the investments?”

Aaron lowered his head and said feebly, “We’re here to sign the contract, dad.”

Anger welled up in his chest when he thought of Levi.

Had it not been Levi who advised them to hold back for three more days, they would have signed it on the same day when it was offered to them, It would have seemed more like a respectable deal at that time.

It had become anything but respectable in the eyes of Harry and his company now that Aaron had to beg them for the contract. Knowing the contract was now the last resort for Zoey, it would only make Aaron looked desperate and defeated in the eyes of the Lopez family.

Aaron and his family had never felt such humiliation before. This is all thanks to Levi.

“Yes, we are ready to sign it now, grandpa.” Zoey informed Harry.

“Sure, we can sign the contract. But there will be a change of terms.” Harry’s expression changed and he curled his lips into a grim smile, “We are no longer asking for ninety but ninety-five percent of the profits now. The remaining five percent would be yours.”

“What? Didn’t we agreed on a ninety percent cut for you and ten percent for us?”

A sudden terrible pang of shock hit Zoey as she stared at Harry incredulously. Harry had just dropped a bombshell on her.

“Don’t you know the terms changes accordingly?” Harry said scornfully, “That’s our offer. Take it or leave it.”

Knowing the ball was now in his court, Harry knew it was he who called the shots. The change of terms seemed justifiable to him since it was Zoey who desperately needed the contract.

Zoey winced at the cold-bloodiness of these people!

She bitterly resented her grandpa for his callous and selfishness.

“Fine then, I’ll pass! I’ll give up the project altogether!” she said in a fit of rage, “Nobody would get a dime out of it!”

“How could you say that, Zoey? Five percent would still give us fifty million, at least there’s something for us!”

“Your mum is right, Zoey. We can’t afford to lose it, just sign it!”

The relentless pestering from Aaron and Caitlyn left Zoey with no choice but to sign the contract.

“Stop! Don’t sign the contract!”

Just as Zoey was about to ink the contract, Levi showed up and halted her.

“There’s still time before the deadline,” he wrung away the pen from Zoey’s hands, “why do we have to sign it now?” he questioned.

“What do you think you’re doing, Levi?” Aaron almost wanted to slap Levi across the face “Why are you stopping us from getting the fifty million? Is it because you’re jealous you’ve got nothing for yourself?”

“Ten minutes! just give me ten minutes! Once the time is up you can do as you please.” Levi glanced at his watch and said, “You can sign it in ten minutes’ time!”

“Alright! I’ll give you another ten minutes to prove yourself!” Aaron muttered through gritted teeth, “Make sure you produce something in ten minutes’ time, or I’ll never forgive you for the rest of my life, much less allow Zoey to stay with you!”

“Okay!”

The unyielding attitude of Levi intrigued Harry. He was curious to see what would happen in ten minutes’ time.

“Alright, let’s wait for another ten minutes.”

Henry and the rest giggled with excitement. They could not wait to get their popcorn ready to watch some hilarious comedy in ten minutes’ time.

Ten minutes passed in a flash. Everything was at status quo.

“Just sign it!” Henry threw the contract in front of Zoey. He was certain there would be no white knight coming to her rescue.

Vroom! Vroom! Vroom!

At the same moment, a thunderous roar of engine noises filled the whole of the Lopez family mansion.

It attracted the curiosity of everyone to step out of the building.

What greeted their eyes was a succession of luxury cars making their way into the Lopez family mansion. They all came to a halt when they reached their building.

The Protector Chapter 24

It was a succession of top end luxury cars which included Maybach, Rolls Royce, and many more.

Each of these cars could easily cost over tens of millions!

The Lopez family looked on with a dazed expression. What the hell is going on here?

What are all these cars doing here?

Everyone went pop-eyed when they saw the faces of the people who alighted from the cars. They were a group of impeccably dressed, middle-aged men and women who carried an overpowering air of status and power.

Each of them carried a business savvy look synonymous to the directors of some top corporations.

“Huh? Isn’t that the President of Far East Investments, Mr. Feliciano Hayes? What brings him here?”

“Look, that’s the General Manager of Orc Investments Limited, Mr. Roberto Norris!”

“Isn’t that guy the boss of Starlight Property Development Limited, Mr. Lorenzo Woods?”

“Oh, my god! Even Pedro Zinno, the President of Hercules Property Development Company, is here too!”

...

Fabian, Henry, and the rest of them murmured among themselves into a frenzy.

The names they had murmured were the super-rich and powerful leaders who ruled the corporate world of North Hampton. Each of their net worth were in billions.

Lopez Group looked so insignificant in the eyes of these super rich. Any one of them could easily take out the Lopez Group without even battling an eyelid.

The scale and grandeur of so many big shots coming together was a sight to behold for Harry and his men.

It almost took their breath away.

Harry led Fabian and the rest to hurry themselves forward and greeted the billionaires with fawning attention; “Greetings, Mr. Zinno, welcome....”

However, nobody responded to their greetings. All the billionaires walked past them as if they were non-existent and headed straight to where Levi and Zoey were standing.

“How could it be?” Harry said in disbelief, “Could it be they are here to provide funding for Zoey’s project?”

Harry’s eyes widened in stupefaction, his jaws stiffened with astonishment.

Zoey froze when she saw the billionaires walking towards her. She wondered if her eyes were playing tricks on her. These were the same group of people she had approached before to solicit for their interests in her project, and they had all rejected her proposal.

What’s going on? What are they doing here?

“Hello, Ms. Lopez. I’m Feliciano Hayes from Far East Investments!”

“Good afternoon, Ms. Lopez. I’m Pedro Zinno and I represent Hercules Property Development.”

“Nice to meet you, Ms. Lopez. I’m Lorenzo Woods from Starlight Property Development.”

...

All the billionaires introduced themselves in a humble manner towards Zoey.

Everybody gasped in awe.

Harry and the others from the Lopez family were utterly lost for words.

It was beyond their wildest imagination to think that these billionaires would show up to fund for Zoey’s project.

Zoey was still trembling inside even though she tried to recompose herself, “H-Hello everyone...how are you...”

“Don’t be nervous, Ms. Lopez! We’re here to discuss our cooperation on the project!”

Feliciano Hayes flashed a cheesy smile, “Far East Investments would be interested to invest one billion into your project, Ms. Lopez!”

Lorenzo Woods counter-offered immediately, “Ms. Lopez, Starlight Property Development would be willing to provide up to two billion to fund your project!”

“No, Orc Investments is willing to invest up to three billion!”

“We are more than happy to provide up to three billion in funding and even take over the construction of your project. Please let Hercules Property Development be your partner instead!”

“Spark Corporation would invest up to five hundred million in your project! We would not ask for a share of your profits, Miss Lopez. All we want is to offer our sincere help!”

...

It was like some bidding war that had gone out of control. Every billionaire was competing to provide funding for Zoey’s project.

The highest bidder had offered to invest up to seven hundred million.

Everyone was reluctant to give up on the project, which could not had taken more than a billion in total.

But the bidding war had skyrocketed the total available funding by ten times its original amount.

The unexpected twist of events caused Harry’s blood pressure to shoot up exponentially, causing him to pass out on the spot.

Samuel, Shaun and the rest were almost on the verge of puking blood.

What the hell is going on here?

Why is everyone behaving like maniacs?

It was an earth-shattering feeling for Zoey as well.

She could still recall the smug and dismissive look in their eyes when they snubbed her initial proposal.

Yet the same group of people were now lining up to impress her, begging her to let them invest in her project.

Aaron and Caitlyn were too emotional to say a single word. They could only respond with their quivering bodies.

“Calm down, Zoey.” Levi put his arm around her to offer his support, “Why don’t you say a few words to show your appreciation for their interest in your project.”

“Right, I’m so glad that all of you are keen to invest in my project.” Zoey composed herself and said, “All of you are welcome to invest in my project!”

“Really? That’s good to hear it from Ms. Lopez herself.”

All the billionaires let out a hefty sigh and wiped away the sweat on their brows after they heard this.

The Protector Chapter 25

“However,” Zoey added, “I’m afraid you have misunderstood the amount of funding that I’m seeking. The amount you’ve mentioned is way beyond what I’m asking for. All I need for the project is only a hundred million.”

“Just name any amount, Ms. Lopez.” Lorenzo Woods said with an air of indulgence, “Unless you’re asking for tens of billions, I’m ready to pump billions into your project.”

The words of Lorenzo Woods sent Harry’s blood pressure up a few notches when he heard he was ‘ready to pump billions into your project’. His legs wobbled, and he saw stars spinning around his head.

Zoey’s mind was in a whirlwind as she quivered in her reply, “Everybody, I am humbled by your overwhelming interest in my project. But a hundred and fifty million would be more than enough for my project.”

“How about this?” Feliciano Hayes swept his eyes across the room and suggested. “Since there are fifteen of us here, why don’t we each come up with ten million?”

“That would be the perfect solution! It would give each of us an opportunity to help Ms. Lopez.” Feliciano Hayes said, “Make sure we are not treating this as an investment or loan. It should be a giveaway to Ms. Lopez!”

Gulp!

Aaron and Caitlyn were swallowing so hard that everyone could hear them gulp.

A hundred and fifty million giveaway to our daughter?

What makes our daughter turned into a money spinning machine all of a sudden?

Everybody is begging for her to take their money.

“No, it can’t be a giveaway.” Zoey insisted, “We should treat it as an investment.”

“It’s alright, Ms. Lopez. Ten million is nothing to us!”

“Yeah, it’s just some petty cash to me.”

Each billionaire insisted they should treat the ten million as a giveaway to Zoey.

“Hey, didn’t you hear what she’d just said?” Levi snapped, “She said it should be an investment.”

Levi’s sudden bawl made the billionaires shuddered with horror.

“Yes! Sure! Indeed! It should be an investment!”

Everyone nodded emphatically.

“So, ladies and gentlemen, would you mind coming to my company, Imperial Meadows Limited, to ink the contract?” Zoey asked.

“Of course, we are more than willing to come anytime to sign it!”

They continued their frenzied nodding of heads.

“I’m sorry, grandpa.” Before stepping out of the mansion, Zoey walked up to Harry and said apologetically, “I can’t accept your terms now, but I can assure you that the Lopez family will definitely have a share of the project.”

“You!”

Harry was breathless with anger as he pointed a trembling finger at Zoey. He let out a cry and finally passed out.

Levi and company soon left the mansion amidst a wave of awe mutterings and under the envious looks in everyone’s eyes.

It had been an emphatic victory for Zoey and her family.

It restored Aaron’s self-esteem to think he had finally regained his position in the Lopez family.

The signing went smoothly, and the funds all came in as promised.

Zoey was able to launch the project within the stipulated deadline.

Everything was smooth and went accordingly as planned.

It was already nighttime when they finally made it home.

Zoey and her family were staring at Levi with interrogating eyes.

“What’s happening here, Levi?” Zoey asked, “I’m sure you have something to do with it.”

“Yes, it was all orchestrated by me.” Levi admitted.

“But how did you do it?” Aaron was still feeling the effects from the shock, “It’s simply inconceivable!”

“It’s simple, actually.” Levi quipped, “All I did was show them the details of the project and let them know that this project is too good to be missed.”

“That’s impossible.” Zoey said warily, “Isn’t that what I’d just done when we first presented our project to them? What makes them snub my proposal when I’m sure I had given them a more detailed explanation than yours?”

“That’s because I’ve mentioned some names like Orlando Jennings, Azure Dragon and God of War.” Levi explained, “They agreed to it once they knew the whole story.”

“This...” Zoey went silent. She knew it was something she could never do, given her obstinate nature.

“Haha, even though we are hardly connected to God of War, these shrewd businessmen changed their stance once they find out that the God of War has something to do with this project, they’d even start buttering up to Zoey immediately.” Aaron gave a broad grin.

“That’s right.” Caitlyn agreed, “Since it was Orlando who decided on the project, with Azure Dragon keeping a close tab on its progress. These billionaires must have been under the impression that Zoey had garnered the support of all these people as well.”

The Protector Chapter 26

Their explanation seemed plausible to Zoey.

So, it was only because they wanted to please the big guns like Azure Dragon and Orlando that these billionaires showed up in person to invest in my project.

“So did you explain to every one of them in person?”

Zoey looked at Levi and felt her heart ached when she thought about what Levi must have gone through to get the support of those billionaires.

“Yes, I did. It was quite tiring indeed.” Levi smiled gently.

In actual fact, all he needed was just a call. His word was almost as good as a decree.

“I owe it to you, Levi.” Zoey said with heartfelt gratitude, “It’s all because of you that we’re able to pull this off.”

“You’re right. All credit goes to Levi. It was him who had turned the situation around, I had almost given up hope.”

Aaron was extremely pleased with Levi’s performance today.

“I am still grappling with what’s happening, actually.” Caitlyn gushed.

She was starting to see Levi in a more positive light now.

“Levi, why don’t you change into a new set of clothes since you’ve been wearing them for a while.” Caitlyn said, “Just put the clothes in the laundry basket and I’ll get them wash at the hospital. I am on duty tomorrow and I need to get my uniform washed as well.”

“Sure, mom.” Levi simpered, “Thank you.”

The following day.

Zoey and Levi left the house to follow up on the project while Caitlyn took her laundry to the hospital's laundry department.

Here, she could wash her clothes and get them sterilized as well.

The principal reason was because it was free and convenient since she worked in the hospital.

She had been using the laundry department to do her laundry ever since her family condition went downhill because of Aaron's failing business.

"Hey, you're taking your laundry here again to save on your utilities bill?" A woman walked in and asked in a penetrating voice, "Must you be such a cheapskate? Didn't your family used to run a large company?"

The woman's name was Jelena Keaton. She worked in the same department with Caitlyn.

Along with Caitlyn, she was tipped as the favorite to be the department's next assistant supervisor. There had always been bad blood between the two.

The nomination for the department's assistant supervisor would be out anytime soon.

Neither of them liked each other, since Jelena was a prickly character who would taunt Caitlyn whenever she saw the opportunity to do so.

"What's that got to do with you?" Caitlyn refuted, "You're not the one who's paying the utilities fees anyway!"

With Jelena gone, Caitlyn emptied her laundry into the basket.

Just when she was about to toss Levi's clothes into the washer, she found a lump in his pocket.

"What a careless chap! How could he even forget to clear his pockets?"

Caitlyn emptied the contents out of the pocket.

There was a pack of cigarettes and a lighter, both were of a navy green color. Caitlyn did not read the words engraved on the cigarette box and lighter.

If only Aaron was here, he was bound to recognize them instantly. Those were war zone cigarettes that no amount of money could buy!

One would need special connections to have access to those types of cigarettes.

The rarest of them would be those with a sniper logo. They were so rare that even the big guns could not get their hands on those cigarettes.

As it turns out, those cigarettes were only provided to the Special Operations Regiment...

“He should really cut down on his smoke.” Caitlyn frowned and dumped the cigarettes into the dustbin, “They could only do him more harm than good!”

Then there was Levi’s wallet.

Caitlyn thought for a moment and opened it up.

There was some loose change inside the wallet, together with Levi and Zoey’s marriage photo.

The only items remained were two small cards, a few chips and an identification pass.

One of the two cards was a black bank card. “This guy’s a pauper. How much money could he have in that card?” Caitlyn scoffed and put aside the bank card.

Little did she know that the black card was the worldwide limited edition American Express card with no spending limit attached to it. once used, It could even haul a plane to return to its port of embarkation, even when it had already taken off.

The other remaining card was a navy green card with a sniper logo on it.

The bunch of chips hardly interested Caitlyn. Her focus was on the identification pass.

It was a red color document with ‘Officer Pass’ written on it, which bore the symbol of the Divine Guard Unit.

“Huh! An officer pass for an ex-convict?” Caitlyn sneered, “Do you think that would make you a true officer?”

On second thought, she flipped open the Officer Pass.

The Protector Chapter 27

“What is this? God of War?” Caitlyn squinted her eyes to read the name written on the document, “What’s written here? Garrison something?”

Caitlyn was trying to figure out the full name on the pass when she was startled by a voice from behind, “What are you looking at, Dr. Black?”

Caitlyn had to put the pass behind her before she could get a good look at the name.

“Oh, nothing.” Caitlyn grinned.

The voice belonged to Jelena Keaton, who was eyeing Caitlyn suspiciously.

“I see, fine.” Jelena shrugged and left.

Unbeknown to Caitlyn, Jelena had been standing behind her while she was checking the Officer Pass. She had even quietly taped down the process with her cellphone.

Jelena sheepishly sneaked to a discreet corner of the hospital and took out her phone.

“Officer, I want to report a theft by Caitlyn Black of The Third District Hospital Cardiac Surgery department.” she whispered over the phone, “I saw with my own eyes that she had stolen an Officer Pass along with a bank card. There was a bunch of chips too, I bet there must be some confidential information inside. I have even taped it down as proof, Officer.”

“Whose Officer Pass is that? Did you see the name and rank?” The officer asked from the other end of the call.

“Oh, it belongs to the God of War, Officer! I am absolutely sure of that. I have the photo and the video to prove it.”

“Okay.”

Shortly after, the sharp shrills of police car sirens filled the air. A succession of police cars stormed into the compounds of the Third District Hospital.

A herd of police officers donned in bullet-proof vests charged into the main building.

Soon, Caitlyn was arrested and tucked into the police car. She was utterly confused and frustrated.

The police took away the rest of the stuff, including the photos and videos taken by Jelena Keaton, which would be used as evidence against Caitlyn.

They brought her directly to the City District Police Station, where the defenseless Caitlyn sobbed and wept woefully.

The nature of the incident alarmed the Captain of Patrol Squad, Xavier Fields, since it involved the theft of an Officer Pass.

He inspected the Officer Pass carefully with his naked eye.

“This couldn’t be fake. It’s a genuine Officer Pass!” he sucked in a deep breath and said, “This is unbelievable! It belongs to God of War!”

The others suggested, “We need to be absolutely sure about this, Captain. Why don’t we get someone from the military to examine it?”

“Yeah, I’ve just informed my buddy, Steven Shaw to come and check it out. He’s from the First Metallic Regiment of North Hampton, he should be here anytime now.”

“Captain, we’ve checked through the bunch of chips and those cards. But we were not granted the level of authority to access them.”

“Let’s wait awhile then.” Xavier Fields ordered, “I want you guys to interrogate that woman we’ve just caught!”

Inside the interrogation room.

Caitlyn could hardly stop herself from shaking, even though she had almost run out of tears.

“Come clean with us! Where did you get those documents and cards?”

“T-They belonged to my son-in-law!” Caitlyn said nervously.

“Stop spouting rubbish!!! Do you know the importance of this Officer Pass?”

“I-I have no idea...” Caitlyn stared at them blankly.

“This is an Officer Pass that belongs to the God of War!” The officer yelled at the top of his voice.

Boom!

Caitlyn felt like something had exploded inside her head and clogged her brains.

“Do you know there are military secrets inside the wallet? You are now being accused of divulging top state secrets! If you refuse to come clean with us, you’ll be liable to face some real serious charges!”

“Tell me! Where did you steal the wallet and the Officer Pass?” the interrogation officer snarled abruptly at Caitlyn.

Caitlyn was sick with fear. She could feel nothing now but blind terror.

“I-I-I...this stuff belongs to my son-in-law...I’m not lying, I stole nothing...” Caitlyn sobbed.

Meanwhile, Steven Shaw had arrived at the office of the Patrol Squad.

“Where’s the Officer Pass?” Steven hurried over to ask for the pass.

“Here it is!”

Steven Shaw wasted no time in giving his utmost attention to inspect the pass.

After looking at it thoroughly for almost a minute, he put down the documents and sighed, “Yeah, it’s authentic all right!”

“This Officer Pass belongs to the God of War! Where did you find it?” he asked.

“It came from a woman.” said Xavier Fields, “It seemed like she has stolen it from somewhere.”

Steven Shaw seemed to recall something as his expression changed. “Can you find out the name of that woman,” he inquired, “I need to know.”

The Protector Chapter 28

“Sure. Can you find out the name of that woman in the interrogation room?”

“What is it? Caitlyn Black? Are you sure it’s Caitlyn Black?”

Xavier Fields gave the name to Steven Shaw.

Steven Shaw hoicked Xavier Fields to a discreet corner when he heard the name.

“You’ve got the wrong person! Caitlyn Black is the God of War’s mother-in-law!”

“What? Oh, my God!” Xavier Fields got the shock of his life.

“Listen, Xavier.” Steven instructed, “Just block any information and take it that nothing has happened today. Remember, don’t let out any word about it! I’ll inform Azure Dragon and we’ll leave it to the God of War to deal with this.”

“Alright, I’ll do as you say.”

Xavier Fields was still reeling from the sudden shock. He could hardly stop the quivering in his legs.

...

Levi was with Zoey when he received the call from Azure Dragon. He came down to the police station after they briefed him about the matter.

He took back his wallet from Xavier Fields without making a fuss about it.

Xavier and his men could finally heave a deep sigh of relief.

“Just leave the rest to me, God of War.” Xavier suggested, “I’ll follow up with Ms. Caitlyn Black and make sure everything’s back to normal.”

Levi nodded, giving his approval.

“You may leave now, Ms. Black!”

Inside the interrogation room, Caitlyn was so relieved to hear those words. It brought her to tears again, however, this time, it was the tears of gratitude.

“It was all a misunderstanding, Ms. Black. You’re free to go now, since we found out that the Officer Pass was a fake document. But please remind your son-in-law not to use such fake documents to swindle anyone, he could be arrested for it!”

“Sure, Officer!” Caitlyn nodded fervently, “I’ll make sure he gets the message!”

“Your son-in-law is waiting for you outside. You may leave now.”

Caitlyn walked out of the interrogation room.

Her temper flared the moment she saw Levi standing by the counter, waiting for her.

“Mum...”

“Don’t call me mum, I’m not your mum!” Caitlyn fumed, “You almost landed me in deep shit, you fool! Why do I have such a wicked son-in-law?”

It filled Caitlyn with resentment to be treated like a thief when they arrested her and took her to the police station. She had never been to a police station before, and never did she imagine that her first visit to the station was under such deplorable circumstances.

“You should leave Zoey for good. You’ll only ruin her future with those dirty dealings you’ve picked up in prison!” she ranted, “How dare you come up with the idea of making a fake Officer Pass?”

“The pass was real, Mum.” Levi scratched his nose in frustration, “I did not carry a fake pass with me.”

He could only blame his own carelessness, for he could have prevented the disaster.

“What makes you say the pass is real? Do you think you’re more professional than the officers here? I bet you must have been using it to cheat and swindle innocent folks like me. You’d better not get Zoey involved in your vices, or I shall never let you get away with it!” Caitlyn blasted out at Levi, “I’m giving you one last chance and I’ll keep it from Aaron and Zoey about this. You’ll be out of my house for good if I catch you doing this again, you hear me?”

Caitlyn was so full of rage she was about to explode.

“Alright, mum.”

With that said, they left the station and Levi sent Caitlyn back to the hospital.

When she was back at the hospital, Caitlyn was expecting everyone to cast weird glances at her at the hospital.

Contrary to her expectations, everyone behaved as if it was just an ordinary day at work.

What’s going on?

Didn’t a huge commotion happen just now? How could everyone react with such indifference?

“Are you alright, Dr. Black? I was so worried for you. Thank God you’re back!”

“I know I have been mean and crude towards you in the past, and I’m terribly sorry for that.” Jelena came up to her and said, “I’ve backed out from competing for the post of assistant supervisor now, since I believe you’re the better candidate for the job. I’ve informed the hospital about my decision.”

Caitlyn was completely overwhelmed when Jelena Keaton apologized to her and even offered to back down from the post of assistant supervisor.

It was a post they had both been eyeing for years!

She's backing out from it?

What the hell is happening here?

Don't they know I've just been arrested and sent to the police station? They've even seen it with their own eyes!

But why is everyone behaving so oddly now?

The same goes for Jelena, she seemed petrified of me.

The rest looked equally terrified too.

I could see from their faces and the look in their eyes. I could feel it!

There's something fishy about this. I'll check with Levi!

Caitlyn took out her phone and called Levi, "What's going on here, Levi? Are you hiding something from me?"

The Protector Chapter 29

"I'm not hiding anything from you, mum." Levi repeated, "The pass is real."

"Huh! Do you think I'm a fool to take your word?"

Caitlyn hung up the call when she heard him kept insisting that his pass was real.

She was now certain this had nothing to do with Levi.

Caitlyn concluded that the police must have instructed the hospital to put up a normal front and act as if nothing had happened, in order to avoid tarnishing its reputation.

The project went smoothly for the days that followed.

But they would soon need to halt it because of the upcoming stretch of National holidays.

"Levi, can you go pick up my cousin at the University of North Hampton? Her name is Abigail Rogers." Zoey said to Levi, "I've sent her number to your phone."

She could not take time off from the project at this point of time, so she sought Levi's help to pick up her cousin.

“Sure, leave it to me!”

“But shouldn’t her name be Abigail Black?”

Levi gave her a quizzical look.

“That’s because Abigail has adopted her mother’s surname.” Zoey explained.

Levi called up Azure Dragon after leaving the construction site. “Get me a car, Azure Dragon.” he ordered, “I want to keep a low profile, so a normal car will do.”

Soon after, Azure Dragon showed up with the car.

It was a Maserati Executive GT.

“Whatever!” Levi shook his head helplessly and got into the car.

He parked his car at the main entrance of the east building of the University of North Hampton.

He waited for almost half a day, but there was no sign of Abigail.

Another thirty minutes gone by and Abigail was still nowhere to be seen. Levi took out his phone and dialed the number Zoey had given him.

“Hello, who’s this?”

A pleasant voice answered the call.

“This is Levi, your brother-in-law. I’m here to pick you up at your school!”

“Huh? I thought Zoey said she was too busy to fetch me?” Abigail said in a surprise tone, “I was thinking of going back on my own.”

“Where are you now?” asked Levi, “I’ll come over and pick you up!”

“I see. I’m currently at Dynasty KTV, VIP room 666!”

“Okay, wait for me. I’ll be there shortly!”

In the KTV room, Abigail had just hung up the call when her friend asked, “Who’s that on the phone, Abigail?”

“It’s my brother-in-law, he’s coming to fetch me.”

Abigail knitted her brows in disdain.

“Oh, do you mean that ex-convict, Levi? I know that guy. Everybody in North Hampton knows about his shabby past.”

“So he’s coming to fetch you? Are you sure? Haha!”

“Don’t you feel ashamed to be seen around with a guy like him?”

Abigail clenched her jaw amidst the mockery of her friends. She regretted for having agreed to let Levi come and fetch her.

It was a mere slip of tongue that made her agreed to it. I should have refused it right away.

“Why do you need him to fetch you, Abigail?” A guy asked. His name was Yannick Zann, Abigail’s classmate. He had been wooing her for quite some time. “Why don’t I give you a ride home instead. Didn’t you just see that I’d just got my new car, the BMW x5?”

He came from a rich family who ran a chain of hotels.

The party had been his idea as well.

What the others didn’t know was that he had a sinister motive for holding the party, he wanted to get Abigail drunk so that he could take her to a hotel and rape her.

Dressed in shorts and a cute sling blouse, Yannick could not peel his eyes away from Abigail’s long slender legs and her exposed shoulders which showed her fair skin tone. His blood was raving inside him.

Abigail shrugged. “But my brother-in-law would be here soon.”

“That’s easy. Why don’t you just ask him to go back on his own?” Yannick persuaded, “You know it’s so difficult to get everybody together for a drink.”

Yannick’s desire grew even wilder when Abigail smiled at him. Her rosy cheeks resembled two juicy cherries.

“Come on, let’s have fun and get some booze!”

Abigail’s besties chimed in and suggested they should play some games to encourage her to drink more. They were acting in cahoots with Yannick.

Their motive was to get Abigail drunk.

A few minutes ensued before the door to their VIP room was swung open, Levi walked in.

“Who are you, mister? What are you doing here?”

A few guys stood up and raised their voices at Levi as they flex their muscles in front of the ladies.

Levi gave them the cold shoulder, and merely looked around for Abigail.

When his eyes finally caught sight of Abigail, his gaze settled on her and he said, “I’m here to fetch you, Abigail.”

“Hahaha, so he’s that infamous brother-in-law of yours, Abigail?” Yannick jeered, “I’ve heard so much about him, about how he’d taken advantage of his brother’s wife and how he attempted to murder his adoptive parents. It’s no wonder they called him the ingrate who bit the hand that feeds him. He looked every bit like that type of person to me!”

The Protector Chapter 30

“Hahahaha..,”

The rest of them cackled.

Abigail felt utterly disgraced. How she wished there was a hole for her to hide herself without being seen.

She muttered in dismay, “This is so embarrassing! How could Zoey have asked him to fetch me?”

She refused to even lift her head to look at Levi.

Levi ignored the guys who kept taunting him.

“Shall we leave, Abigail?” he asked.

Abigail finally raised her head and looked straight at Levi, “Why don’t you just head back on your own? I don’t need you to fetch me. I know my way home.”

“But Zoey insists that I pick you up.” Levi’s patience was waning, “Come on, let’s go.”

“Hey, you! Didn’t you hear what Abigail said? She asked you to leave her alone. Are you deaf or something? Who do you think you are to insist that Abigail to leave with you? Get lost!”

“Yeah, Yannick will send Abigail when the party’s over.” The classmates cum lackeys of Yannick tried to get rid of Levi, “You’re not welcome here! Get your ass out of here!”

“You’d better leave with me now!” Levi’s eyes never left Abigail. He knew what nasty tricks her classmates were trying to play on Abigail. “I’ve promised Zoey to fetch you and that’s what I’m going to do!”

“I’m asking you to leave!” Abigail snapped, “Why do I have to go with you when I don’t even know who you are? I’ll go back on my own!”

Boom!

The door to their VIP room was blasted open by a forceful kick.

A guy was kicked into the room.

“What happened to you, Peyton?”

Everybody got up to help Peyton to his feet once they recognized he was one of their classmates.

Another girl was then shoved into the room. Her beaten face had swollen to the size of a pumpkin.

“Oh my God! What happened to you, Mae?”

Abigail and the rest rushed forward to lift her up. They were getting worried.

A teary Mae sobbed, “I ran into a group of bullies when I came out of the restroom. Peyton was trying to protect me so they beat him up too!”

At the same time, a few nasty looking fellows stomped their way into their room.

“Well, well, what have we got here? These little sexy students looked yummy to my eyes! Oh, what a grand feast we’ll be having tonight!”

The group of thugs drooled when they saw Abigail and her female classmates.

Their lecherous gaze swept across the pairs of fair, slender legs with salacious intent.

“So you’re the ones who had beaten up my pal?” Yannick stepped up and asked coldly.

A dozen of Yannick’s classmates stood up behind Yannick. They were all staring at the group of thugs with bulging eyes.

There was no reason for them to fear the thugs, given their numbers.

Besides, they could not wait to show how macho they were in front of their female classmates.

“Yeah, we’re the ones that whacked him upside down, so what?”

The leader of the thugs, a guy with his hair dyed in a freakish silver color, taunted Yannick with an amused look.

“I want you to apologize, or I’ll beat the shit out of you!” Yannick warned, determined to flaunt his bravery in front of Abigail.

“Hahaha, this is so funny it almost choked me, guys. Do you really think a few lame students like you could beat the shit out of us? What makes you think we’ll be taken in by your words? Just because you outnumber us?”

“Hahaha...”

The group of thugs chuckled in response to Yannick’s threat.

“Go! Get our men here! Tell our boss there’s a dozen of young schoolgirls here waiting for him! Get him over here, quick!”

The next moment, the expression on Yannick and the other guys turned wide-eyed, their mouths opened to let out a silent scream.

The thugs had called in their men. There were dozens of them with iron rods and shiny knives in their hands. They waved their weapons with a bloodthirsty look in their eyes.

They all gazed at Abigail and her classmates with a devilish grin, whilst they blocked the exit of the VIP room.

The students had never encountered such a ghastly scene before in their young lives. It scared the living daylight out of them and made them pissed their pants.

Even Yannick was starting to wobble.

Slap! Slap! Slap!

The silver-haired thug smacked at Yannick's face and sneered, "So what now? Where's that gutsy look of yours now?"

"Brother, please forgive me. I-I was wrong..."

Yannick's shoulders drooped and his body slumped like a deflated balloon as he surrendered.

Slap!

The silver-haired thug landed a tight slap on Yannick's face.

Bang!

Next, the thugs shoved and kicked at Yannick with such force that it made him spew out a fountain of blood.

The VIP room had now gone completely silent. Everyone muted and held their breath. They could only whisper a prayer in their hearts.

The Protector Chapter 31

April 15, 2021 by Chapter Novel

The students knew they had been outnumbered by the dozens of thugs who had now occupied their VIP room.

It petrified them when they looked at the faces of these thugs, who appeared to be contorted with menace.

It made their legs wobbled with fear and their eyes filled with horror.

They had completely forgotten about their female classmates now. All they wished now was to flee as far away as they could.

“I want all of you to get down on your knees! Let’s see who’s got the balls to stand when I ask you to kneel!”

The thugs shoved and pushed the boys to the ground, and made them kneel.

The girls followed suit voluntarily, since they had more to fret than the boys.

The leering eyes of these thugs had been all over their bodies.

Abigail was bolder than the rest and she turned only to see Levi sitting in a corner being so inconspicuous that even the thugs failed to notice him.

What a lame duck we have here! She moaned to herself, It’s such a pity that Zoey had married to a weakling like him.

Her disdain for Levi grew when she saw his expression, which somewhat appeared as timid and wimpy in her eyes.

She swore her future husband must never be a coward like him, but a true and fearless hero!

She shouted at the group of thugs with glaring eyes, “I’m warning you, get out of here and leave us alone, or I’ll call the police.”

“Go ahead, my little darling! Do you think we’d let you go?”

One of the thugs stepped forward and stretched out his hand, trying to touch Abigail’s face.

Slap!

Abigail slapped him in the face and her action sent the rest of the thugs into a state of shock.

Never would they have expected her to have the guts to lay her hand on them.

“Who’s the one that have the guts to hit my man?”

Following that, a few guys stormed into the room.

The leader of the group was a man with a big pot belly and tattoos all over his body.

“B-Beck...”

Yannick knew that Beck was one of the gang leaders of the underground society. He was known for his fearlessness and brutality, many had seen him cut up dozens of men single-handedly by himself.

Many of the young thugs worshipped him as their idol.

“This way please, Trey!”

It astounded everyone when they saw another person stepped into the room. It seemed like Beck was just the chaperon today to someone who was an even a bigger shot than Beck himself.

A group of thugs escorted the man into the room. He was cradling two shiny walnuts in his hands. A prominent scar ran diagonally across his face which resembled the teeth of a shark.

“Hiss! Trey is here as well?”

Yannick was so frightened he almost pissed himself in the pants.

As compared to Beck, Yannick knew better than his classmates that Trey was the real daddy of the underground world. He had over two hundred men at his disposal.

“Look at these girls, Trey! Young, bubbly students who look so juicy and tender, doesn’t it make you feel like you want to just gobble them up? Hehe!”

The silver-haired guy buttered up Trey and Beck with an unctuous grin.

There was an aura of pure lust reflected in the repugnant eyes of Trey and Beck.

Beck cast a few glances at Abigail and suggested to Trey, “This one seems like the cream of the crop, Trey. You should take this one.”

“Good.” Trey nodded approvingly, “I like your humility.”

Beck’s demeanor was anything but humble when he turned around to the group of students. “Bashed up all the guys and boot them out of the place. Leave all the girls behind.” he snarled in his raucous voice, “If any of you dare to leak a word or tell the police, I’ll make sure you won’t get to live another day!”

“No! No! This can’t be happening...”

The students were all stricken with horror, especially the girls, who feared for the worst.

All the girls knew what would be waiting for them if they were made to stay behind.

Even the brave-hearted Abigail could not hide her panic as her body quavered in fear.

The boys were utterly shell-shocked.

They had never expected it would end up in such a grisly manner.

“Trey, Beck, please don’t do this to us!” Yannick pleaded while he knelt on the floor.

“Oh? It seems like this guy know us?” Beck laughed.

“Of course I know you, Trey and Beck” Yannick proclaimed, “I’ve heard so much about you guys from the streets.”

“Who the hell are you?”

Trey asked disinterestedly.

“My dad is Felix Zann, President of Marriot Roman Hotel Group.” Yannick informed them, “He have had a drink with the both of you before.”

“Ah, Felix Zann of Marriot Roman Hotel.” Trey nodded, “Yeah, I know him.”

His answer seemed to offer a glint of hope to the students as they all heaved a deep sigh of relief.

Everyone gazed at Yannick with adulation. It seemed like they could lean on him when the going gets tough.

The girls looked at Yannick in a different light as well.

Even Abigail’s eyes glistened with a new respect now when she looked at him.

Yannick beamed with such heroism and courage that they really thought he would be their knight in shining armor.

The Protector Chapter 32

“My dad often speaks highly about the two of you!” Yannick pressed on, “Trey, since you have such a cordial relationship with my dad, why don’t you just let the matter rest and let us leave?”

“I know we are in the wrong, and we are really sorry for everything we’ve done. I’d really appreciate it if you could let us go and I’ll definitely repay your kindness, I promise!”

Yannick was getting bolder as he spoke, straightening his back and thrusting his chest forward.

Given his father’s reputation and his relationship with these guys, Yannick was certain that he could pull this one through.

He was confident that Trey and Beck would definitely spare him together with his classmates, on account of their relationship with his dad.

The room went dead silent again.

After a momentary pause, Trey broke the silence as a spark shined in his eyes. Slap! He slapped Yannick brutally on his face.

The slap was of such magnitude that Yannick bounced back a few meters. A few teeth flew out from his mouth, which was oozing blood. His face was contorted with pain.

“Who do you think you are? What nerve of you to ask me to let the matter rest and let you go?” Trey barked at Yannick, “You think I’d give a shit about you or your father? Even if your father’s here right now, I’ll make him kneel before me too!”

The bestiality of Trey’s demeanor paralyzed everyone and dented their hopes.

Just when they thought Yannick would be their savior...

The girls whimpered while the boys were in a daze. We’re not getting out of here unscathed.

This is it, we’re doomed! What else could we do now?

Abigail tried to calm herself down and tried to think of a way out.

How about asking Zoey for help?

Abigail could not help but turned to look at Levi, who was still sitting at a corner inside the dimly lit room, unnoticeable to Trey and his men.

What a useless piece of crap! An absolute good-for-nothing! Abigail thought to herself, Is he my brother-in-law at all? Shouldn’t he have done something by now to protect me, if he still has the guts of a man?

“Take away all the girls and beat up all the boys!” Beck ordered, “Just beat the hell out of them but keep them alive!”

The dozens of thugs immediately sprang into action and walked towards the group of students.

That’s it! We’re done!

Abigail closed her eyes and murmured a prayer.

“I’m giving you ten seconds to get your asses out of here!”

A sudden loud voice shot up from nowhere and shocked everyone.

They turned and looked towards the corner of the VIP room. What they saw was a man sitting on the sofa. He was hardly noticeable since he was dressed in all black.

“Drag that guy over here. Get him to kneel on the floor!” Beck demanded.

The silver-haired thug came up to Levi and clamp one hand on Levi’s shoulder, looking to jerk him up from the sofa.

But in the next instant, Levi’s eyes flickered as he grasped the thug’s wrist and twisted it around in a flash.

Crack!

The sound was crisp and clear. It was the sound of a broken wrist.

“Ahh!”

The silver-haired thug cried out as he felt excruciating pain and that stunned everyone in the VIP room.

His overturned palm was a gruesome sight to watch. Everyone was bathing in cold sweat, their scalp prickled with horror.

What kind of force would it take to twist a wrist as if he was twisting open a bottle cap?

Abigail was awestruck by the prowess and agility showed by Levi.

It seems like he’s not such a pushover after all.

“How dare you do this to my men? I’m going to make you pay with your blood!”

Beck’s howl resembled a mad beast. He was about to lunge himself at Levi when Trey halted him.

“Let me check him out.”

It aroused his curiosity when he realized they had failed to notice the man sitting in the corner, who had sat through the entire incident seemingly unfazed.

Trey and Beck, together with their men, moved across the room and walked up to Levi.

“Turn on all the lights!” Trey commanded.

Click! Click! Click!

Soon, the room was fully lit, and everything was in plain sight, including Levi who had been sitting on the sofa.

“You son of a bh, how dare you just sit there looking nonchalant?”

Beck yelled heatedly at Levi.

Abigail knew this would be the end of Levi. She closed her eyes in despair.

Thump!

What ensued blew everyone off their mind. Trey slammed his knees to the floor with a thud and knelt in front of Levi.

The Protector Chapter 33

The thud came as a bombshell to everyone when they saw Trey went down on his knees.

Beck was slacked jawed with surprise.

The same goes for Abigail, and everyone else in the room, who reacted with a blank expression on their faces.

The room had become so quiet that they could even hear a pin drop.

Levi lit a cigarette and took a deep puff. The smoke he blew out encircled Trey like a ghostly chain.

“I remember you...”

Levi said nonchalantly.

Trey gave a sad grin when he heard this. I’m done now, this would only spell disaster now that I’m in the bad books of Levi.

Unaware of Levi’s actual identity, Beck was still trying to stamp his authority, “How dare you puff your smoke at Trey? You must be sick of living!”

“Shut up!” Trey stood up and shoved Beck a few meters away with a kick. “Get down on your knees now, all of you!” he blasted at his men.

Thump! Thump! Thump!

Dozens of Trey and Beck’s men fell to their knees, successively like a pack of dominoes.

Beck joined them and went down on his knees, even though he hardly had a clue of what was happening.

Everyone was in a guessing frenzy about Levi’s true identity.

They wondered who could command such an authority that scared the hell out of a powerful thug like Trey and made him kneel before him like a high-strung cat.

Yannick knew better than everyone that Trey and Beck were not somebody you would mess around with, given their notoriety on the streets.

That brother-in-law of Abigail must be someone with supreme dominance to make them go down on their knees.

He felt it more profoundly than everyone in the room.

Abigail's impression of Levi had taken a complete 180. She no longer looked at him with detest, but with curiosity and adulation.

In her eyes, Levi now seemed to carry a halo of valiance above his head.

Even the way he smoked enchanted her.

The rest of the girls were equally charmed by Levi, whose machismo and charisma were acutely absent in their male classmates.

His bravery in such a situation fueled their admiration to the fullest.

"So this would be the second time that we've met?" Levi asked.

"Yes... Yes... Yes..." Trey pressed his face to the floor as he replied. He was too afraid to look into Levi's eyes.

His whole body was shaking uncontrollably and there was a large urine stain on his pants. He had just wet himself.

"So what should we do about it?" Levi puffed, his cigarette smoke curled into a circle.

"Please feel free to punish us in any way you deemed fit, Sir..."

Trey felt only a complete and utter despair at that moment.

"Each of you will leave two fingers behind, that's it." Levi said in a desultory fashion, "There are too many young ones present. I don't want to show them my wrath."

The students were just young punks in the eyes of Levi.

"Yes... Yes... Whatever you say..."

Trey was thrilled when he heard Levi's punishment, it was much lenient than he had anticipated. He picked up the blade and chopped off two of his fingers under the watching eyes of everyone...

Many of the students nearly fainted at the swiftness and brutality of his action, as if they were watching an execution.

Soon the other thugs followed suit to chop off their fingers...

The scene would certainly leave its indelible mark on the minds of Abigail, Yannick and the rest of their classmates.

The harrowing experience would haunt them when they recall the horrifying screams that had seeped into their heads, insidiously like tea from a tea bag.

“Let’s go!”

Levi stood up from the sofa after he had finished his cigarette and grabbed Abigail by her arm to get out of the VIP room.

Yannick and the rest of them hurriedly followed Levi out of the room. They couldn’t wait to get out of there.

Beck, now left with eight fingers, asked in a trembling voice, “Who’s that guy, Trey?”

“He’s somebody you could never afford to mess around with in North Hampton!” Trey breathed deeply and said it with the certitude of a true believer.

Outside the KTV, Yannick was back to his boastful self again, “Are you alright, Abigail? I was just getting ready to throw everything at them if they dare to touch you!”

Abigail scoffed at his words. She could still vividly recall the timid look on Yannick’s face when he was so freaked out that he’d almost peed in his pants.

You are nothing but a coward compared to my brother-in-law.

“I’m fine.” she answered impatiently.

“Why don’t you let me send you home? I’d really like for you to check out my new car today, it’s a BMW x5!” Yannick suggested while he gave the car remote in his hands a click.

A car near them lighted up and gave off a buzzing sound. It was a brand new BMW x5.

All their classmates could barely conceal the envious looks in their eyes.

It would be any student’s dream to drive a brand new, powerful sports car that could cost easily over eight hundred thousand.

All the girls were eager to cast their nets at Yannick.

“You don’t have to send me back.” Abigail snubbed, “I’ll take a cab with my brother-in-law.”

She had been under the impression that Levi did not own a car since she was well aware of Zoey’s family condition.

“I have a car!” Levi led them towards the car park and stopped in front of his car.

“Holy cow!” Yannick blurted out in surprise, “Isn’t this a Maserati Executive GT?”

“This looks like the most exclusive model too!” Yannick added.

Click!

“Get in the car, quick!” Levi shouted at Abigail as he opened the door of the car.

“Alright.” Abigail flashed him a cheerful smile as she ran across to the passenger seat and tucked herself into the car.

Vroom! Vroom! Vroom!

The Maserati emitted a deep and powerful rumbling sound when Levi started the car.

Soon they were cruising on the highway.

At that moment, Levi seemed to feel a pair of eyes staring at him.

He turned to his side and was greeted by Abigail’s bright fever button eyes. They had not left his face since she boarded the car.

The spark in her eyes gleamed with affection.

She winked at Levi when he tilted his head and gave her a puzzled look.

“Why are you staring at me?” Levi muttered, “Turn around.”

“No way. Why should I?” Abigail gushed, “Don’t you know you looked so much better than those young chaps in my school? They’re just a bunch of wimps compared to you.”

There was hardly anyone who could hold a candle to Levi when she scanned through those faces in her head.

“Yeah, I know.”

“How did you do that, Levi?” she asked inquisitively while her eyes never left Levi’s face, “How did you make that two leader kneel in front of you and even chop off their fingers obediently? I know they were equally ruthless in their own ways.”

“Don’t ask. You’re too young to know about these things.”

“But I’ve heard a lot about you. I know my aunt and the rest of them have always treated you with contempt, they think you are just a piece of junk. I bet that’s because they do not know about your true identity.” Abigail pouted her lips and said, “I bet their attitude towards you would change completely if they knew what happened today. Zoey would worship you like her hero!”

“Don’t tell Zoey about what happened today. It’s between you and me.” Levi said to her.

Abigail nodded meekly, but there was a curious look in her eyes.

“By the way, does Zoey know that you are driving such a luxurious car?” Abigail asked with an air of interest.

“Don’t tell Zoey about the car too!”

Why couldn’t Azure Dragon just send me an ordinary car instead? Levi grumbled to himself.

Yet this was exactly what Azure Dragon felt he had done, for in his mind, it was the most unassuming car among the fleet of cars they possessed.

Kirin had even suggested to send Levi a Lamborghini Veneno Roadster, which cost almost nine million.

Soon, they arrived at the vicinity where Zoey’s house was situated. Levi stopped the car a few blocks away from the house.

Shortly after, Azure Dragon then informed his men to come and drove the car away.

Levi and Abigail were back in the house.

“Come in, Abigail.” Aaron and Caitlyn greeted her with open arms.

“I’m so glad you’re finally here, Abigail.” said Zoey, who darted a displeased look at Levi, “What took you so long to fetch Abigail?” she asked.

“Abigail was attending a group event.” Levi explained, “She needs to finish the event before she could leave.”

“Yes, yes, Levi was right.” Abigail played along, “We got held up by the event.”

Caitlyn gave Levi a reproving glance, “Yeah, seemed to me you’re incapable of even a simple task like this. Look how long you took to fetch Abigail?”

“Why don’t you spend a few more days with us, Abigail?” Zoey was thrilled to have Abigail staying with them for the National holidays, “I hope you could stay longer this time.”

“That’s right, we’re celebrating Zoey’s birthday in two days’ time. You must join us, Abigail.” Caitlyn gave an inviting grin.

“Of course, I’ll be more than happy to stay longer this time.” Abigail swooned her eyes at Levi and said, “I’ll stay a week with you guys this time.”

“That’s wonderful news indeed, Abigail!” Caitlyn pulled her over to the dining table, “Look at all the food I’ve prepared for you. Let’s tuck in!”

The food was reserved solely for Abigail since Zoey and her family had already eaten.

“What about Levi? Why isn’t he invited to the table?” Abigail slid a look at Levi and asked.

“Don’t worry about him. He can feed himself with some instant noodles.” Caitlyn snorted, “Why do I have to cook for him? He should be able to take care of himself. It’s only because of Zoey that we kept him in the house, if it were up to me, I’d get Zoey to seek a divorce a long time ago.”

Caitlyn was filled with resentment towards Levi after what happened at the hospital.

The Protector Chapter 35

“What? Divorce? I’m all for it! I fully support a divorce for the both of them!”

Abigail raised her hand eagerly.

“Huh?”

Her reaction drew a quizzical look on everyone’s faces.

Even Levi was baffled by her gesture.

Abigail hastily waved her hands in denial when she saw the pairs of eyes staring at her, “Oh, I was just joking.”

I would gladly become Levi’s bride if Zoey would divorce him! She thought to herself.

When night fell, Caitlyn demoted Levi to the couch, “Abigail will sleep in Zoey’s room. So you’re going to have to sleep on the couch.”

“Why don’t I take the couch instead, Aunt Caitlyn?” Abigail felt bad about it.

“How could we let you sleep on the couch?”

Caitlyn turned and scorned at Levi, “You should know that we are no longer living in the big house with those enormous rooms that we used to have. What’s the problem with sleeping on the couch? Do you think we could rely on you to give us a better life? Zoey is our only hope now.”

“Aunt Caitlyn, actually...” Abigail hesitated if she should tell Caitlyn the truth.

She knew it was well within Levi’s means to get them a bigger house. I mean, just look at the car he was driving? It was a Maserati Executive GT that could be worth more than a house!

Levi could have easily bought them a villa, or even two, Abigail reckoned.

“Actually what? what are you trying to say, Abigail?”

Caitlyn stared at her, looking puzzled.

“Oh, actually it’s nothing important.” Abigail shrugged, “Goodnight, Aunt Caitlyn.”

The next morning.

Despite being the National holidays, Zoey could hardly get a breather from her project. Even Aaron had to put down everything to give her a hand. Caitlyn was out too. She had gone to the hospital since she was on duty that day.

They left it to Levi to take Abigail around for a spin.

“Come on, Levi. Why don’t we go for a spin?”

Abigail suggested, leaning close to Levi.

“I’d rather stay at home.” Levi said lazily, “It’s full of people everywhere.”

He was still lying on the couch.

“Let me take you to a fun place!”

“Come on, get up, Levi...”

...

Abigail came up with several suggestions to tempt Levi to get out of the house. But nothing worked.

“By the way, what present did you get for Zoey’s birthday?” Abigail asked curiously, “You know her birthday is coming up in two days’ time right?”

“Oh yes! It’s time to prepare something for Zoey’s birthday!”

“Okay, come with me!” Levi got up immediately from the couch.

Abigail grimaced and pouted her lips with displeasure.

The all fired up Levi was a stark comparison to the disinterested look on his face just minutes ago, with his lackluster response to her every suggestion.

But the mention of Zoey’s birthday sprang him into action at once, as if it had filled him with renewed vigor.

Azure Dragon had been waiting outside to deliver the car Levi had specifically asked for today. It was an Audi R8 sports car.

“This is unbelievable, Levi! Another luxurious car? I’m sure this Audi R8 exclusive model could easily cost up to three million.”

Abigail had an excellent knowledge about luxury cars since she had worked as a model for car exhibitions before.

She had seen almost every kind of luxury car.

“Stop saying nonsense. Get in the car now!”

Levi stepped on the pedal and the car whizzed off like a rocket.

Inside the car.

Abigail’s eyes never left Levi.

“Why do you keep staring at me?”

Abigail’s gaze was making Levi uneasy.

“Why don’t you get a divorce, Levi?” Abigail suggested, “That way, you won’t have to put up with Zoey and her family again. Look at how they have treated you.”

“So you want me to stay single for the rest of my life?” Levi quipped.

“That’s not what I mean! You could marry me after you’ve divorced Zoey! Can’t you see that I’m as pretty as her, not to mention I’m so much younger too? Why don’t you consider me instead?”

Abigail pressed herself closer to Levi, which gave him the goosebumps.

This girl is bold and even aggressive.

“Why don’t you give me a chance, Levi? I got the looks and the body, and I am really gentle and loving. Not to mention you know how I idolize you...”

Abigail bared her long and slender legs as she inched closer to Levi.

The Protector Chapter 36

“Stop it, or I’ll tell Zoey.” Levi warned, without showing the slightest interest in her.

“Hmph! What a boring guy!”

Abigail slid back to her seat with disdain.

They had come to a building known as North Hampton Center. It was the most bustling and iconic building of North Hampton.

A revolving restaurant sat at the highest level of the North Hampton Center. It was one of the most lavish restaurants in North Hampton, known for its Michelin three-star chefs and its outrageous price tag.

A simple meal would cost easily over a hundred thousand, and it was not available for walk-in patrons.

Anyone who wished to dine in the restaurant would have to make a reservation one month in advance with a deposit of fifty thousand.

The seats would always be snapped up in less than a minute every time they open for reservations on their official website.

It would take more than just mere cash to get a seat in the restaurant.

Those who dined here were mostly wealthy businessmen and famous superstars.

If one was lucky enough to grab a reservation, the restaurant would send a gold-plated dining card.

It was regarded as a symbol of status if one could get to dine in the restaurant.

“Why did you take me here to North Hampton Center, Levi? I know you can’t be here to look for some necklaces for Zoey’s birthday?” Abigail tossed her head and asked, “Are you looking to make a reservation at the revolving restaurant?”

“You are one smart girl!” Levi complimented her with a smile.

“I know you’re not the kind of guys who’d go for the same boring stuff like necklaces.” Abigail winked at Levi, “Why not we turn it into something romantic and special instead?”

However, she turned cautious all of a sudden, “But do you know this restaurant would only accept reservations one month in advance? Besides, they require you to pay fifty thousand as deposit.”

“Oh, really? I didn’t know they have such rules?” Levi was surprised.

He only knew that it was a famous restaurant, and nothing else.

Not to mention those quirky rules.

“I know their rules because the owner of this restaurant is the father of my classmate. He has asked me here for a few times before.” Abigail explained.

“I see.” Levi nodded.

“But I didn’t accept his invitation, Levi.” Abigail was worried Levi might jump to conclusion, “I’m not those who would give themselves away just because some guy takes them to some nice posh restaurant.”

“Why are you giving me an explanation?” Levi frowned.

“Hurry, we need to get to the restaurant now, I don’t care what rules they have.”

Levi and Abigail made their way into North Hampton Center.

The revolving restaurant was at level eighty eight of the building.

Eight servers were standing at the entrance as soon as Levi and Abigail show up at the restaurant.

“Do you mind showing us your dining card?”

The servers were under the impression that Levi and Abigail were here to dine at the restaurant.

“No.” Levi shook his head, “We’re here to make a reservation. I’m looking to reserve the whole restaurant on the 3rd, that’s the day after tomorrow!”

Abigail was in some kind of a bewitched state as she gazed at Levi.

What a bold statement to make! To reserve the whole restaurant?

“I’m sorry, sir. Perhaps you are not aware of our rules here!” The server explained patiently, “We’d only accept reservations on our official website one month in advance, or you’re not allowed into our restaurant!”

“Didn’t you hear what I’ve just said?” Levi lighted up a cigarette, “I said I’m going to reserve the whole restaurant the day after tomorrow!”

Cough! Cough! Cough!

Levi’s cigarettes were war zone cigarettes. They were a peculiar kind of cigarettes with a strong tobacco scent.

Just one puff was enough to suffuse the air in the entire restaurant with its weedy smell, which many of them had mistaken it to be from some cheap tobacco brands.

Not to mention the way Levi was dressed in today was anything but lavish.

The servers gave him a despised look, “This place is not for you to mess around with. Do you know how much it would take to reserve the whole restaurant? It would cost more than all the money you could make in your entire life!”

“That’s right! Get out of here! This is not the place for paupers like you! All of our guests are wealthy and famous people. What makes you think you can compare yourself to them?”

The Protector Chapter 37

Levi took another puff and asked indifferently, “How much does it cost to reserve your whole restaurant?”

“Fine, I’ll enlighten you! It would cost at least five million to reserve the entire restaurant. Can you afford that?”

“Hahahaha...”

The servers laughed out loud when they saw the astonished look in Levi’s eyes.

Levi finished up his smoke and stubbed out his cigarette.

“So that’s all you need to reserve the whole place? Just a mere five million?” Levi said with a sardonic smile. Five million is just chicken feed to me.

“Don’t act like some big shot when you are just a nobody!” sneered the servers, “Look at those cheap stuff you’re smoking! You couldn’t even afford something better than those lousy, filthy, ten for a pack of cigarettes!”

Just when Levi was about to take out his wallet and put down the reservation, a high pitched voice came up from behind, “Who’s the one that’s looking to make a scene here at North Hampton Center? Let me see who the hell is he?”

Levi could feel a few shadows had gathered behind his back.

The voice came from a young man fully clad in Versace outfit with a Rolex Submariner on his wrist. Even his shoes were custom made from overseas.

Together, these would cost more than the life savings of any common folk.

The man was Kyle Jarvis, whose father owned the restaurant.

Kyle was Abigail’s senior in the university as well.

As compared to Yannick, Kyle came from a family that was way wealthier and powerful than Yannick’s. One could immediately tell from the way he was dressed and his charisma.

Kyle was a playboy known for his flings with different women, and his latest conquest was an internet celebrity.

“Oh? What brings you here, Abigail?”

Kyle’s eyes lit up when he saw Abigail standing behind Levi.

“Hello, Kyle!”

“I’m here to make a reservation!” Abigail said tensely.

Several times, Kyle had tried to woo her in the most exaggerated fashion.

Slap! Kyle gave a tight slap to the server next to him after he heard Abigail’s recount of what had happened.

“Don’t you know that she is my dearest classmate? I want you to process her reservation immediately!” Kyle shouted at his servers.

“But it’s not your classmate who wanted to reserve our restaurant, sir.” The server said feebly, “It was this man who wanted to reserve the whole restaurant for one full day!”

“Who’s this guy, Abigail?” Kyle eyed Levi curiously when he heard what his server had told him.

“I...”

Levi was just about to make known his intention when Abigail grabbed his arm and halted him, “Let me introduce my boyfriend to you, Kyle!”

Her words almost gave Levi the goosebumps again.

Abigail clung on even tighter to Levi, pressing her body against his.

Frustration kicked in when Kyle saw the affectionate display from Abigail.

The rage in him was driving him mad!

So Abigail has a boyfriend now?

What made her set her eyes on such an unsightly fellow? Doesn’t he look like some beggars on the streets?

“Are you kidding, Abigail?” Kyle suppressed his anger and forced out a smile, “Why do you have to go get some beggars off the streets to act as your boyfriend? Are you going to such great lengths just to avoid me?”

“Why do I have to lie to you, Kyle?” Abigail rebuffed, “We’ve just stayed in the same place the night before, haven’t we?”

Levi nodded in acknowledgement. Since it was true that they had stayed in the same place the night before.

Little did he know that others would interpret that differently. It was as good as telling them that Levi and Abigail were sleeping on the same bed.

“I’m utterly disappointed in you, Abigail!” Kyle was raving mad as he shouted at her, “How could you give in to his honeyed words? It pains me to know that you are such a loose and disgusting woman who would sleep around with beggars like him!”

His words elicited a cold, hard stare from Levi.

“What did you just say? Say it again!”

How dare you insult the cousin of my beloved wife? Are you looking to die?

The Protector Chapter 38

Abigail was quick to calm things down once she saw that Levi was about to flare up. “It’s fine, let’s not forget what we're here for. We're here to make a reservation.”

Abigail turned to Kyle. “We would like to reserve the whole restaurant the day after tomorrow, Kyle. What do you think?”

“No can do! We would only accept reservations made one month in advance, and there is no such thing as reserving the whole restaurant!” Kyle touched the gold ring on his finger and snorted.

“How about if I double up the price to make it ten million?” Levi suggested.

“So you're telling me that you're flushed with cash?” Kyle grinned shrewdly when he heard that.

But his grin diminished all of a sudden when he turned volte-face. “How about this? Let me add a new rule to our restaurant. I hereby forbid the two of them and dogs to enter our restaurant!”

“Sir, do you mean we would accept any guests apart from the two of them and dogs?” his men intentionally repeated his question to embarrass Levi and Abigail.

“Exactly!” Kyle gave a brittle laugh, “To put it plainly, there are three dogs who would be barred from our restaurant!”

Even the angelic Abigail, whom he used to regard as his goddess, had now been condemned to a bh in Kyle's eyes.

His words infuriated Abigail, and she snapped at him, “What's all this about, Kyle? You're doing all these just to vent your frustration at us and humiliate us, aren't you?”

“So what if I am doing it to humiliate you? This restaurant belongs to my dad, and I have every right to decide who we take in as our guest. I'm determined to shut the both of you out of my restaurant. What else can you do about it?”

The relentless Kyle even spat at Abigail's foot.

“You...”

Abigail seethed, yet she could do nothing about it.

She knew it was beyond her means to go head to head with Kyle, who came from a family that was so much powerful than hers.

Levi gazed at Kyle stoically, “I'm asking you for the last time. Are you taking my reservation?”

“Over my dead body! I will never let the both of you step into my restaurant!” Kyle refused resolutely, “No way!”

Levi merely took out his phone and dialed a number, “I want to take over the revolving restaurant at North Hampton Center and I need to see the acquisition contract in ten minutes!”

“Hahahaha...”

Everyone burst out in laughter after they heard what Levi had just said over the phone.

Even Abigail was too shameful to lift her head.

It was simply outrageous for Levi to say such a thing.

Kyle's family ran an extremely successful food and beverage business empire with outlets that span across the whole of North Hampton. They were more powerful than Trey and Beck, who were mere crooks on the streets.

It was inconceivable that Levi could buy over the restaurant in ten minutes' time!

"Hahaha... this is so ridiculous that it almost made me laughed to death! Did somebody just say he wants to buy out the jewel of our business empire in ten minutes' time? What a joke!"

Kyle and his men cackled in laughter.

They found Levi as ludicrous and dumb as some blockhead.

Even the servers were gazing at Levi as if he was some retarded fool.

They had met countless of the super-rich and A-list superstars who dined in their restaurant frequently.

Even they would never had dared to say such a thing.

"Let's get out of here, Levi." Abigail tugged at Levi's shirt and said in a soft voice, "There are still plenty of restaurants we can choose from."

"No! I've set my eyes on this restaurant and I'm not backing down!" Levi insisted, "Since they refused to accept my reservation. I'll just buy the place and make it mine."

"Hahaha, alright! We'll wait for that to happen!" Kyle theatrically lifted his hand and peered at his watch, "You have five minutes left to do that!"

The doors to the elevator swung opened when eight minutes had passed. A few men dressed in well-pressed suits walked up to Levi and said humbly, "This is the acquisition contract that you've asked for, Mr. Garrison. Please have a look!"

Their words turned everyone dumbfounded.

Abigail quivered in disbelief.

Could it be true that Levi is really buying over the restaurant?

It would be simply incredulous!

“Oh, I’m impressed with your efficiency! So you’ve even brought the contract along, eh?” Kyle scoffed at the scene in front of him, “What makes you think my dad will sign it? This is just too funny!”

Kyle’s mobile phone buzzed at the same time.

“What’s up, dad? Yes, I’m at the North Hampton Center now.”

Kyle did not expect to receive a call from his father.

“You stupid idiot!” Lloyd Jarvis was about to explode in rage as he lashed out at his son over the phone, “Do you know who you have run into? How could you antagonize him? Now you’ve cost us the whole revolving restaurant! It’s gone!”

“Dad, what are you talking about?” Kyle snubbed, “He’s just a dud who looked like some vagrant to me!”

“What the hell do you know? He’s way above our league and not someone we could afford to mess around with! I want you to kneel and apologize to him immediately, or you might not get to live till tomorrow! I’m not joking, son. I’ve already sold the revolving restaurant!”

“And it’s all because of you that made me lose the restaurant! I’m going to beat the hell out of you when you get home!”

Kyle’s face turned pale when he heard the wild rant from his dad.

His face turned as white as a ghost.

He realized with a pang that this was not a joke anymore.

This guy had really just bought over the restaurant in ten minutes!

Kyle cast a wary glance at Levi.

Meanwhile, Levi and Abigail were going through the contract to finish up with the formalities of the acquisition.

Levi finally put his signature to the contract, and he was now officially the owner of the restaurant!

A herd of people rushed out of the restaurant the moment the contract was inked.

Leading the herd was Yahir, the general manager of the restaurant. He ran up to Levi and greeted him with an ostentatious grin, “It’s our pleasure to meet you, Mr. Garrison. You are now the one and only boss of the restaurant. This way, please, Boss!”

“This way, please, Boss!” all the rest of the staff behind him echoed synchronously.

Kyle could only watch with stupefied eyes.

He could not believe what his eyes were telling him. So my family's restaurant now belongs to somebody else?

All in just a matter of ten minutes?

"Hold on," Levi waved at Yahir, "there's still some unfinished business left to do!" he flicked his eyes over to Kyle.

"Didn't you just insulted Abigail by calling her a bh and spat on her? I want you to kneel and lick away all your spit on the floor. The floor has to be spotless before I let you go."

"Who the hell do you think you are to ask me to kneel and apologize?" Kyle hit back at Levi.

Known for his haughtiness in North Hampton, Kyle was fearless of Levi.

"Ahh!"

Levi grasped Kyle's finger at such lightning speed that it caught Kyle by surprise. Before he could figure it out, Levi had already bent his finger back to almost ninety degrees.

Crack!

Levi applied a little pressure, and his finger was broken.

The cracking sound pierced through the air and horrified everyone!

Bang!

Levi thrust his leg forward and shoved Kyle to the floor.

Crack!

Another cracking sound rocked the air.

Kyle's kneecap fractured as he slammed his knees to the floor, right in front of Levi and Abigail.

Thud!

Levi stamped his foot on one side of Kyle's face, with the other side pressed to the floor.

"I want you to apologize and eat up you own spit!" Levi ordered mercilessly.

His foot on Kyle's face was hurting him so badly that he felt his head was about to split.

It was the most torturous pain Kyle had ever suffered in his entire life. He was sure he would never want to go through it again.

"Yes, yes, I'll apologize!"

Kyle finally gave in.

“I’m sorry, Ms. Rogers! Please forgive me!”

Not only had Kyle apologized, he had even eaten and licked away his own spit, under the horrified gazes of everyone.

The scene was too nauseous for many of those who were watching on with saucer eyes. They were utterly shocked to the core!

It bewildered them to think that the once proud and arrogant Kyle Jarvis would stoop to do such a shameful act.

The man whom they called Levi Garrison was ruthless as hell!

Abigail’s heart was thumping so hard and fast that she felt like it was about to burst from the strain.

Kyle had stood out in Abigail’s group of friends as the undisputed leader of the pack. Yet he seemed more like a rat in Abigail’s eyes now, rubbing his nose on the floor like some mouse gnawing on leftover breadcrumbs.

The Protector Chapter 40

Levi is simply amazing!

His heroism had completely swept Abigail off her feet!

How she wished there were nobody around, so she could grab him by his neck and give him a big hug.

Levi and Abigail entered the revolving restaurant after ordering some men to whisked Kyle away.

“There’ll be no changes to your duties and everybody get to keep your jobs. I’m sure you guys are aware that I’m hosting a banquet on the day after tomorrow.” Levi said with a half-smile, “I’ll double your pay if you guys do a good job for me.”

His words were a real shot in the arm for all the staff in the restaurant.

Levi and Abigail stayed behind for their lunch after he had made known his requirements to the staff.

“How I wished there’ll be a guy who would throw me a birthday banquet here too.” Abigail gushed, “I’d be sure to cherish him my whole life.”

Levi turned a deaf ear to what she said and switched to something else, “Now that we’ve got the venue for the birthday banquet, it’s time to choose a birthday present.”

“Huh?” Abigail gave a start, “Do we still have to look for a present?”

“Just follow me.”

Levi took Abigail to a real estate agency in North Hampton Center.

“Isn’t this the real estate agency of Bayview Gardens?” Abigail squealed in surprise, “Are you out of your mind, Levi?”

Bayview Garden was in the most sought after neighborhood in the Uptown District. The minimum price of its apartments starts at seventy thousand.

Given its premium location, Bayview Garden would only fetch the highest price per square footage. The asking price for its apartments came in tens of millions.

“This is the place, Abigail. Let’s go in.”

The office was sparse since this was an upscale property where few could afford.

A female sales executive immediately came up to greet them when they entered the office.

Yet her enthusiasm waned when she saw how Levi was dressed. Besides, he looked relatively younger compared to the typical middle-aged buyers she frequently encountered.

There was nothing in Levi to convince her that he was somebody who could afford an upscale property like Bayview Garden.

“Sir, are you looking to rent a property?”

The sales executive asked with a tinge of contempt in her tone.

“Do you know this is the exclusive sales office for Bayview Garden? This is not the place for you to rent an apartment.” She waved them away impatiently, “This is not something young chaps like you could afford. To rent an apartment at Bayview Garden would cost over ten grand a month, let alone buying one. I’d advise you to go somewhere else instead.”

“You’ve mistaken my purpose for coming here. I’m not looking to rent an apartment, I’m here to buy one!” Levi rebuked her sternly.

“Did you just say that you’re here to buy an apartment at Bayview Garden?”

Mary, the sales executive, looked askance as she assessed Levi from head to toe.

Apart from the pretty girl who came with him, he hardly looked like someone who could afford to buy such an expensive property.

“Do you know how much it would cost to buy an apartment at Bayview Garden?” she eyed them cynically, “Even the cheapest ones are priced at seventy thousand per square meter. The apartments we have for sale ranges between eighty-five thousand per square meter to a hundred thousand per square meter! Any one of them could easily cost twenty to thirty million.”

“How could you afford such an expensive property?” she said with a sardonic grin.

“What do you mean we can’t afford it? How dare you look down on us?” a peppery Abigail fired back at her.

“Let’s be honest here! How could you guys afford a property worth tens of millions?” Mary refused to back down and shouted back at them, “Even a blind person could tell from that beggarly look of yours!”

Their outburst of words attracted the attention of unwanted eyes, who had come over to watch with an air of curiosity.

The leader of the pack was a woman clad in an all-black business suit in skirt and jacket. Her legs were long and slender, which looked extremely sexy in those beguiling black lacy stockings.

Her shapely figure oozed hotness as her voluptuous bosom arced up and down when she breathed.

Men could not peel their eyes away from her pretty face and her curvaceous body when they were here.

The woman was Chloe Macy, the General Manager of Bayview Garden Real Estate Agency.

“What’s going on here, Mary?”

Chloe came up to Mary with a puzzled look in her eyes.

“This couple is trying to stir trouble here, Chloe.” Mary gave Levi and Abigail a hard glare, “They refused to leave even though they know they couldn’t afford to buy our properties.”

“Hmm? Aren’t you L-Levi Garrison?”

Chloe was astounded when she saw that it was Levi.

The Protector Chapter 41

“Oh? It’s you?”

Levi recognized Chloe as well.

Chloe was Levi’s high school classmate. She was one of the most beautiful and popular girls in the school, with plenty of admirers pursuing her.

Chloe had tried to pursue Levi in the past, but Levi rejected her.

After high school, Chloe merely entered a normal university and ceased all contact with Levi.

But she kept herself updated about Levi’s news.

Chloe was especially grateful for Levi's rejection after she heard about his imprisonment. I'd be so embarrassed if we got together back then. I'm feeling mixed emotions facing him in person now, but I am feeling more excited than ever. I finally have the opportunity to flaunt my achievements in Levi's face! I want him to regret his decision of rejecting me!

"When were you released from prison?" Chloe asked.

"A fortnight ago!" Levi answered.

"Ahh, you were once the most successful upstart in North Hampton's business world. Such a pity you were sent behind bars. Otherwise, you might have become one of the richest men in this city. I remember I once confessed to you because you were so excellent and extraordinary. But you rejected me. I wonder if you will accept me now if I confess to you again? Hehehe..." Chloe lamented.

"What? You're an outstanding person now, Manager! You are the manager of Bayview Garden Real Estate Agency, as well as the top sales agent! You're earning a couple million a year, and you have your own house and luxurious car! Not to mention your captivating beauty. He's not good enough for someone like you."

"He must be regretting his decision of rejecting your confession back in the day! He may even offer himself up to you, now that he's released from prison."

"You're too good for someone like him, Manager. He is just a lowly person compared to you!"

...

The other sales agents were experienced and quick to assess the situation. They understood Chloe's intention immediately after she spoke. So all of them cooperated in her scheme.

Levi gazed at the employee's tag on Chloe's chest. She is the manager of Bayview Garden Real Estate Agency. I guess Chloe is a competent person in her profession.

Chloe said with a smile, "With my academic qualifications, I have no other choice but to become a sales agent. Although my achievements and a monthly salary of a few million may be insignificant compared to your earnings in the past, I am still doing better than you currently are..."

Chloe deliberately left her sentence hanging in an attempt to scorn Levi. She could not feel more pleased, looking at Levi's pitiful appearance. He was once the cream of the crop among our peers but look at him now. This must be fate.

Levi smiled. "Indeed, you looked like you're doing well for yourself!"

Chloe pretended as if a thought popped into her mind. "Oh right. We are having a high school reunion on the 7th of this month. Are you coming? If you are, please don't feel inferior by that time. It is a virtue to celebrate another friend's success, after all."

"High school reunion? Sure. I'll be there." Levi nodded.

“That’s great.” Chloe’s cheerful smile did not reflect her disappointment in Levi inwardly.

In Chloe’s opinion, Levi merely wanted to attend the reunion to butter up their ex-classmates.

She grinned. “Oh, are you here to purchase a house? I’m afraid that the cheapest unit available here will cost you at least thirty million, even if I provide you with all the offers and discounts I can. Why don’t you consider houses that are around three million instead? You should be able to afford that. However, you will have to look for properties outside of North Hampton for houses in that price range!”

The Protector Chapter 42

Levi stared at Chloe. “Well, that’s not going to work for me. I want to buy a house in North Hampton only.

“Hahaha…” Mary and the others laughed out loud. How long is he going to put up that act?

Chloe laughed as well. “Old friend, I must remind you. We only accept full payment in cash for properties under our agency. Even if you accept a unit with a mortgage loan, you will have to pay a few million for the down payment. I don’t think you can afford that amount as of now!”

Levi said coldly, “I am making full payment in cash as well!”

“Full payment in cash? Are you sure?” Chloe was shocked. He only dares to utter such outrageous nonsense because he cares too much about his pride. Hmph! I will see if he can live up to his own words. He will only embarrass himself in the end. Then I will spread this shameful incident to our high school friends tonight!

But everyone was dumbfounded after Levi added. “Let me see the most expensive unit you have here!”

Everyone fell silent as they looked at him in bewilderment.

“What did you say? The most expensive unit? Are you sure?” Chloe asked in a low voice.

Abigail scolded impatiently. “Are you deaf? He wants the most expensive unit!”

Chloe regained her senses. Hmph! The most expensive unit, you say? I can’t wait to see how you are going to pay for the house!

“Alright, follow me!” Chloe brought the crowd to the real estate model and pointed at one of the units. “This is the most high-end house in Bayview Garden, measuring at five hundred square meters. We will also include a free underground garage and storage for you. The price for this unit is fifty million!”

“What do you think?” Chloe looked at Levi smugly after she gave them a thorough explanation.

Mary and the others gazed at Levi mockingly. How are you going to pay now, since you talked so big?

Levi nodded his head satisfyingly. “Not bad!”

“I think this is not bad too.” Abigail nodded in agreement.

Chloe smirked. He could win an Oscar for that rhetorical statement! The question remain though, how are you going to afford a fifty million house?

Chloe had resolved to humiliate Levi then and there. She wanted to drive him into a corner with nowhere to escape. “Let’s look at the showroom, shall we? This is a ready unit, available for you to move in right away!” Chloe said with a smile. I will never let him leave so easily.

But she did not expect the subsequent turn of events.

Levi took out a credit card and said, “There’s no need for that. I’ll purchase it now.”

Everyone was stunned.

“What? You are purchasing the unit now?” Mary was the first to snapped herself back to reality.

“Are you sure?” Chloe’s voice trembled.

Levi handed the card to her. “Get on with it now! I have some other matter to attend to!”

Chloe received the card with shaking hands because she recognized the Centurion card she was holding. There’s no credit limit to this card! Is he really qualified to possess such a card?

Chloe proceeded to check out the payment with uncertainty.

The payment was successful after Levi entered the password.

He paid fifty million in one transaction! Chloe, Mary and the other sales agent were shocked to their cores. He really spent that much money to buy a house!

They stared at Levi with disbelief in their eyes.

Even with my capabilities, I have to earn this consistent amount for over ten years to afford that house. But Levi just paid the sum so effortlessly? Chloe thought to herself.

The Protector Chapter 43

What’s going on with him? I know Zoey is not doing well now. That means he relied on himself to afford this house. He is still as successful as before. Perhaps he rebuilt his empire since he was released from prison. From my experience, I can tell his net worth is at least over a billion at the moment. His current status is surely comparable to six years ago!

Chloe felt as if Levi was emitting a holy glow.

She regretted her behavior earlier. If I did not act that way, perhaps there might be a chance for us to be together. At the very least, I know I am prettier than Zoey.

The purchase contract was printed swiftly.

Levi pondered shortly before signing the agreement. "I'm only staying in this house temporarily because the villa will be completing soon. Let's do this instead. You should sign this contract!"

Levi looked at Abigail.

Abigail was astonished.

She signed the papers in a daze. So Levi actually bought the house for me.

Chloe, Mary, and the others were losing their minds. He casually bought a fifty million house for his sister-in-law... How rich is this man?

That transaction attracted the attention of Bayview Garden's boss as well. He hurried over and treated Levi like an honored guest.

Chloe received a whopping commission of one and a half million from that sale alone.

Although she achieved her largest sale thus far, Chloe felt extremely bitter in her heart. I can't believe I missed out on the opportunity to enjoy ten or a hundred billion.

Mr. Wesley, the boss of Bayview Garden handed his name card to Levi. "It is my pleasure to be acquainted with you, Mr. Garrison..."

"Forget about that. You should fire that woman!" Levi looked at Mary. I need to teach her a lesson for looking down on others.

Mary broke down into tears, sprawling on the floor. But her fate had been sealed.

All the employees at Bayview Garden lined up to send Levi and Abigail off in the end.

He turned around and glanced at Chloe with a smile. "Don't worry. I will attend the reunion."

"Okay." Chloe's mood worsened to the brink of despair. Did I just give up a man with a net worth of over ten billion?

Abigail looked at Levi with admiration glinted in her eyes. "Does that mean I have a house now, Levi?"

"I am staying in that house with your sister for now!" Levi corrected her.

"Then I can stay there too." Abigail wanted to move out of the dormitory to stay in that house because she wanted to see Levi every day.

Three days passed in the blink of an eye as Zoey's birthday arrived.

Everyone paused their work to celebrate her birthday together.

Before Levi could inform Zoey about his dinner reservation at North Hampton city center's revolving restaurant, Caitlyn said first, "Someone arranged a birthday banquet for you, Zoey. You will receive a huge surprise soon!"

Aaron agreed with a smile. "She's right. The banquet will be held at Kempinski Hotel!"

Sensing her parents' mysterious behavior, Zoey said, "Kempinski? That place is very expensive. A meal alone costs over ten thousand! I do not need an extravagant birthday party!"

Aaron explained. "We're not the ones that made the arrangements, Zoey. Someone took the initiative. Moreover, we are talking about Kempinski Hotel's most luxurious meal. A table reservation amounts to over a hundred thousand."

Zoey looked at Levi subconsciously upon hearing that.

Caitlyn snorted coldly. "Don't worry, that person is definitely not him! He's not capable to even host a birthday party for you!"

Levi stopped Abigail as she was about to spill the truth about that revolving restaurant's reservation.

A Mercedes-Benz G came to a halt outside Zoey's house shortly after.

A man wearing a white suit with a bouquet of fresh flowers in his hand strode towards the door.

The Protector Chapter 44

Zoey recognized the man as the door swung open. He's the son of one of father's friends. I heard he went to live abroad.

"You're getting younger by the day, Uncle and Aunt! Here's some gifts I brought from overseas." Theo greeted politely.

He gifted Aaron with a few luxurious bottles of wine and Caitlyn with some expensive makeup products.

Aaron and Caitlyn were delighted to receive the lavish gifts from abroad. These presents will become a great topic of conversation with our friends and families. Levi is truly a useless son-in-law in comparison. He has never provided our family with anything useful.

"You're as pretty as ever, Zoey!" Theo leaned closer to kiss Zoey's cheeks as he complimented her. But she tilted away to avoid him instinctively.

Clap!

Levi stood in between Zoey and Theo. "I'm sorry, we do not practice this form of greeting here!"

Theo ignored Levi and said to Zoey with a smile. “Happy birthday, Zoey! You will like the surprise I’ve arranged for you tonight!”

Zoey nodded. “Ah? Thank you!”

Theo shifted his gaze onto her parents. “Uncle and Aunt, my parents will be attending the birthday banquet tonight as well.”

“Oh? Really? That’s great!”

Aaron and Caitlyn were excited to learn that news. We rarely keep contact with our old friends since our family’s downfall, especially Theo’s parents. They are both influential figures in government departments. His father, Steve Nash, is a high-ranking and powerful officer in the Department of Commerce, while his mother, June Webb, holds a leadership position in the Department of Education. With Theo’s family background, he is the perfect son-in-law candidate for everyone. Any girl will be considered lucky to marry him. We had the idea to pair him and Zoey up, but Steve did not want to establish any connection with our family previously. This is a golden opportunity to build a good rapport with Steve and June since they are willing to attend the birthday banquet later.

The thought invigorated Aaron. The best outcome will be for Theo and Zoey to become a couple.

Aaron and Caitlyn exchanged glances to express similar thoughts in their minds. This desired outcome will be rendered impossible with Levi’s existence. Let’s hope Zoey will think wisely for herself. We can tell Theo is interested in Zoey judging from the effort he’s putting in to celebrate her birthday.

Theo and Zoey’s parents chatted while Levi, Zoey, and Abigail sat beside them without saying a word.

“I’ve started a business overseas, and the prospect of the company is bright...” Theo began to describe his experiences overseas.

Aaron grinned. “You don’t really have to do anything on your own either, Theo. You are sufficiently excellent with your parents’ support.”

Before long, a Passat arrived.

Aaron and his family went to welcome the visitors at the door.

A couple got out of the car. They were Theo’s parents.

Steve was dressed formally with his hands behind his back. He appeared to be competent and gave off a stern vibe from the look of his neatly-combed hair.

Standing beside him, June wore a relatively casual outfit. But her outstanding temperament from years of working experience in the governmental department was clear to see.

“Welcome, Steve, June.” Aaron greeted them passionately.

“Hm.”

The Protector Chapter 45

Steve looked at Zoey and said, "I heard about that Ecological Park project you're working on. That's indeed an impressive accomplishment. Keep working hard then."

"Thank you, Uncle Steve." Zoey nodded.

June was friendlier in comparison. With a smile on her face, she said, "Zoey is clearly a competent girl."

Caitlyn seized the opportunity to curry some favor from June and Steve by asking them to help their daughter whenever possible. After all, Steve is extremely authoritative in the field of business.

Steve looked at Levi displeasingly. "Of course we're willing to help your daughter, but have you thought about how others will see us if we assist someone that is not related to us?"

Everyone knew Steve was implying for Zoey to become his daughter-in-law.

June added with a smile. "After all, we have rules to follow in our family. All our family members must have proper conduct and manners."

June was informing everyone indirectly that Zoey can be accepted into the Nash family as long as she completely severs her relationship with Levi.

Aaron responded immediately. "We understand that. How else did you manage to raise an extraordinary kid like Theo here?"

"Come on, It's almost time now. We should head straight for the hotel." Theo said.

"Hm. Let's go." Steve nodded sternly.

"Hold on!" Levi voiced out all of a sudden.

"What's the matter? You have something to say?" Everyone looked at him simultaneously.

Levi looked at Zoey. "Zoey, actually, I've prepared a birthday banquet for you at a restaurant. Let me bring you there."

Caitlyn said impatiently. "Hmph! So what? Theo arranged a banquet at Kempinski Hotel! One table there costs over a hundred thousand. I'm sure the place you've reserved paled in comparison to that."

Theo smiled politely at Levi. "I'm afraid Zoey won't be able to go to the banquet that you've prepared. I will suffer a loss of over a hundred thousand if we do not attend the banquet at Kempinski Hotel. Let me reimburse you the money, perhaps a few thousand is sufficient?"

Steve glared at Levi in dissatisfaction.

Levi returned Theo's smile. "My loss will be greater than yours."

"Oh? Which restaurant did you booked? I reserved the VIP private room at Kempinski Hotel with a minimum spending of one hundred and twenty thousand." Theo was curious.

Everyone gazed at Levi too.

"I made a reservation at North Hampton City Center's Revolving Restaurant." Levi answered.

"What? That restaurant requires a one month advance booking before the desired date. There's also a need to place a deposit in addition to the ridiculously expensive pricing." Theo was astonished.

"Indeed. I heard of that restaurant. Only the wealthiest people in the society and famous stars dine in that place. It's not uncommon for a dish to cost over a hundred thousand." Steve elaborated.

Theo asked with uncertainty. "You really booked a table there?"

"Not just a table. I booked the entire restaurant." Levi replied nonchalantly.

Everyone burst into laughter upon hearing Levi's outrageous claim. Even Steve broke character and sneered.

"What did you say? I'm afraid my ears are failing me. Did you say you've booked the entire restaurant? Do you know what's the requirement to execute that action? Putting aside your status, the money needed to book that place for a day is easily a few million. Are you treating me like a fool?" Theo chuckled aloud.

Caitlyn and Aaron grimaced. Why must Levi always embarrass us whenever there are outsiders? What a despicable person.

"Do you feel proud by your actions? You're just a joke in everybody's opinion."

Even Zoey found it hard to believe Levi this time.

The Protector Chapter 46

I know about the revolving restaurant Levi mentioned. Only someone with a status equivalent to Bryan can reserve the entire restaurant. Who does Levi think he is? This is an impossible feat for him! Moreover, I doubt Levi can afford a few million now.

Steve said, "Let's go and take a look at the revolving restaurant you've reserved then. The time is still early anyway. If anything goes wrong, we can always go to Kempinski Hotel since it's nearby."

"Alright. Let's go have a look at the restaurant then." Theo and June could not wait for Levi to make a fool out of himself.

Aaron and Caitlyn had no other choice but to follow them helplessly.

Zoey's mood dampened. I should really talk to Levi if things go south.

"Aaron, why don't you join us in our car with Caitlyn? Let the youngsters take the other car." Steve was creating an opportunity for his son.

In the end, Zoey and Abigail entered Theo's Mercedes-Benz G.

"I do not think someone as high and mighty as you should lower your status to sit in my car, Mr. Garrison. You should take a cab instead." Theo said to Levi with a smile.

"Take my car." Zoey handed her car keys to Levi.

The three cars arrived at North Hampton city center one after the other.

Zoey started to feel uneasy. Her hands that were wrapped around Abigail's arm, were trembling.

She was actually anticipating the surprise Levi prepared for her. But on the other hand, she was afraid of facing the harsh reality.

Theo stopped in his tracks abruptly and asked Levi, "Oh. I heard that the revolving restaurant would provide customers with a gilded card after a successful reservation. That card is the pass to enter the restaurant."

Steve nodded in agreement. "He's right. The restaurant sends the card to the customer's house in a Rolls-Royce, and the card is coated with real gold. Many celebrities and millionaires even keep the gilded card as a souvenir to signify their status."

Theo narrowed his eyes at Levi. "Where's your card, Mr. Garrison? Can we have a look at it?"

Steve added. "Yeah. We've never seen the card in person. Why don't you enlighten us?"

Zoey's anxiety intensified.

She knew Levi did not have the card as soon as she looked at him. This restaurant requires a one month booking in advance. Levi was released from prison two weeks ago. There's no way he made a reservation in time.

Even Abigail was dumbfounded. We really do not have the card.

Aaron's displeased voice was heard. "Do you have the card or not? Show us if you have it."

Levi said magnanimously. "I do not have the card because I reserved the entire place. This is different from booking a table."

"Hahaha... You don't have to sugarcoat your words if you don't have the card." Theo regarded Levi like he's a fool.

Steve shook his head helplessly. This young man is nothing compared to my son, yet he was the dark horse of North Hampton's business world six years ago? This is the extent of his capabilities?

"I'll apologize on his behalf, Steve and June. Levi never changed his rotten personality of talking big." Aaron explained.

June smiled without a care. "Let's go then. We should hurry over to Kempinski Hotel."

"Wait a moment." Abigail stopped everyone from leaving. She suggested. "Although Levi does not have the card, we can verify his statement once we're there at the restaurant, am I right?"

Steve scoffed. "Sure. Let's go to the restaurant then."

The Protector Chapter 47

Everyone entered the elevator to go to the 88th floor.

Ding!

Zoey could feel her heart pounding heavily and restlessly against her chest as the elevator arrived on the 88th floor.

Thump thump thump...

But the next moment, everyone was showered with pieces of colorful glittery papers the moment they stepped out of the elevator.

"Happy birthday to you..." The birthday song was heard. Unexpectedly, it was a professional band performing the song.

Zoey looked up and saw the entire restaurant was decorated with huge pictures of herself. Every picture was a dear memory of the time she spent with Levi.

The venue was decorated lavishly with flowers. A sparkling chandelier illuminated the floor with a warm glow.

In the middle of the restaurant was a large, multi-tiered cake placed on top of a cart.

"North Hampton City Center Revolving Restaurant wishes you a happy birthday, Ms. Zoey! You are the first and only person to have a birthday banquet here. So we dedicated a souvenir for you to remember this day."

The restaurant manager handed a present to Zoey.

At that moment, tears were already streaming down her cheeks.

How touching! This is the best birthday celebration a girl can hope for! Abigail looked at Zoey in envy.

On the other hand, Theo and the rest were stupefied.

“Let’s go further into the restaurant, Zoey.” Levi held Zoey’s hand and lead her towards the cake placed in the middle of the room.

Levi gave a signal with a click of his fingers just as Zoey was caught in perplexity.

Whoosh!

A series of noises was heard.

Bang!

Fireworks were seen outside the windows swiftly after.

Whoosh!

...

Volley of fireworks were launched upward to the sky, and the people inside the revolving restaurant would get a perfect view of the mesmerizing scenery.

The fireworks were of the best quality as they lasted longer and covered a large area of the sky with dazzling sparks.

In the end, two large and colorful words embellished the sky. Happy Birthday!

Everyone in North Hampton was captivated by the breathtaking show of fireworks that filled the night sky at that moment.

Clarity washed over Zoey. All these arrangements are dedicated to me.

Finally, Levi grasped Zoey’s hands. “Zoey, I promise to protect and cherish you for the rest of my life.”

“I will stay by your side for the rest of my life too.” Zoey hugged Levi tightly.

Aaron and Caitlyn were touched by that scene. Levi really hosted a spectacular birthday banquet for Zoey in this place.

All the colors drained from Theo and his parents’ faces. I’ve made a thorough preparation for Zoey at Kempinski Hotel. But all my effort is completely insignificant compared to Levi’s arrangements.

Steve’s face darkened. His only desire was to leave the place immediately.

The birthday banquet lasted through the night.

Theo, unsettled by the unexpected outcome, began investigating the matter. I do not believe Levi has the ability to book the entire restaurant!

Looking into the matter was effortless with Nash Family’s influence.

Theo suddenly laughed after a few minutes. “Haha. Now I know what’s going on. The young master of this restaurant is Abigail’s senior. Moreover, he’s been pursuing her. I finally understood how Mr. Garrison managed to reserve this place. So it’s all because of Abigail.”

Everyone shifted their gazes onto Abigail, including Zoey.

Abigail nodded. “Yes. This restaurant belongs to my senior’s family. But now…”

Theo interrupted Abigail before she could finish her explanation. “I see. We understand everything now, Abigail. But I can see Mr. Garrison did place the effort to decorate this venue.”

Theo’s superficial compliments were actually an attempt to mock Levi.

They gave all the credits to Abigail for the successful birthday banquet because they thought Levi would never be able to reserve the restaurant without her help.

But Zoey did not let go of Levi’s hands. “I am moved by your efforts no matter what.”

The Protector Chapter 48

Zoey’s heartfelt words were sufficient to fill Levi’s heart with contentment. I could not care less about other’s opinions. All I want to achieve is to please Zoey.

Aaron and Caitlyn’s resentments toward Levi deepened upon hearing the whole story. “He’s just an opportunist!”

Everyone segued into the birthday banquet afterward.

Aaron and Caitlyn presented their gifts to Zoey, followed by Abigail.

Then Steve and June handed the presents they prepared as well.

Theo questioned Levi. “I suppose your gift must be invaluable too, Mr. Garrison?” I must humiliate him in front of everyone!

“That’s right. What birthday gift did you prepare for Zoey?” Caitlyn could not suppress her curiosity.

Levi smiled. “I did not bring my gift. Well, it’s more like I can’t bring the present with me.”

“So what you mean to say is that you did not prepare a present. Isn’t that right, Mr. Garrison?” Theo took out a delicate box and gifted the present to Zoey. “This is my gift for you. It’s a necklace from Cartier, the same design worn by a princess from a foreign country. I spent a lot of effort to lay my hands on this accessory.”

Caitlyn eyed the sparkling necklace. “This must have cost you a fortune, Theo?”

“Not really, Aunt. It’s about eight hundred thousand only,” said Theo with an indifferent tone.

“What? eight hundred thousand? Oh my God!” Caitlyn and the others were shocked.

“Thank you for the goodwill, Theo. As for the gift, I am not going to accept it as it’s an expensive gift.” Zoey rejected him firmly.

But Steve and the others gazed in their direction solemnly. “How can you reject Theo’s kind intention?”

Caitlyn accepted the present in Zoey’s stead immediately.

Theo looked at Levi. “This is indeed a wonderful banquet all thanks to Abigail, Mr. Garrison. You could’ve prepared a gift for Zoey though, even a cheap necklace to express your sincerity will do.”

June smiled. “It is rather inappropriate for you to come empty-handed, not to mention with your ‘special’ status.”

Aaron sighed and lowered his head shamefully.

Caitlyn was even more disgusted by Levi.

“That’s enough. We’re a married couple for so long, so there’s really no need to fixate on that problem.” Zoey smoothed things over in the end.

Levi and Zoey left for a stroll after the banquet ended. “I did prepare a birthday gift for you.” Levi said all of a sudden.

“What?” Zoey was surprised.

Levi took out a bunch of keys with a label. “It is time for us to have our own house and move out of your parents’ house.” Levi explained with a smile.

“What? Bayview Garden?” Zoey was astounded after she read the label on the keys because she knew of the overpriced properties in that area. Even Harry Lopez will not joke about buying a house in Bayview Garden.

“Come on. Let’s go have a look.” Levi brought Zoey to Bayview Garden.

“Oh my God. What did you do?” Zoey was losing her mind.

“Don’t worry. I rented the house. What do you say if I’ll have you pay the monthly rent?” Levi joked.

But he did not expect Zoey to believe in that joke. In her opinion, Levi certainly could not afford that house. He must’ve rented this place. But I’m touched, nonetheless.

“I’ll pay for the rent.” Zoey said in a rush.

Zoey had a wonderful night. She was smiling even in her sleep.

The Protector Chapter 49

At the Lopez family house, everyone was infuriated when they heard about Zoey's extravagant evening.

"Zoey had her birthday party at North Hampton City Center Revolving Restaurant. She's really spending money as she likes now!"

"If it weren't for grandpa help, I bet they wouldn't even be able to enter the restaurant." Melanie roared.

Henry and Fabian were dissatisfied. "Aaron is a disappointment! If we did not help them previously, they would be begging on the streets now, father. How dare they forget about their family after receiving that project?"

Harry grimaced. "I did not expect them to go against me as well. Aaron and Zoey were obedient in the past."

"This is all Levi's fault! Did you not notice the way everything is changing since Levi's back?" Melanie uttered.

A menacing look flashed across Samuel's face. "Hmph! Do they think they will be able to proceed with this project smoothly? Dream on!"

Harry looked at Samuel puzzlingly. "Do you have any good idea, Samuel?"

Malicious intent glinted in Samuel's eyes. "They should not be handling this project since we are not participating. Don't worry, grandpa. I am acquainted with a mafia boss. If he's willing to help us..."

Harry asked. "Who's the boss you're talking about?"

"Everyone refers to him as Nueve!" Samuel answered.

"Oh, you're talking about Nueve. He's infamous for killing over a hundred people with an axe."

"They say no one can match his cruelty and bloodlust."

"I heard Nueve was imprisoned for three years in the same prison as Levi. He was released from jail last year."

Harry and the others were obviously familiar with Nueve's name.

"Alright. You will handle this, Samuel. I will pay for the money." Harry was prepared to risk everything.

At this time, Zoey, Levi, and the others were unaware of the Lopez Family's scheme.

Zoey went to monitor the construction site in person as the project for West City Ecological Park started.

They hired a professional construction team due to their ample funding.

A few buildings were already taking shape because of their high efficiency.

That night, Zoey went to survey the site again. But she was met with a total mess as if something terrible had happened.

Zoey and Aaron jogged toward the scene hurriedly.

They saw two parties standing up against one another. On one side were the construction workers, while the other side were a group of unfamiliar thugs with scary tattoos on their bodies.

They were all carrying knives and other weapons as they closed in on the construction workers.

Following closely behind the thugs were a group of villagers.

“What’s going on?” Zoey and Aaron asked as soon as they arrived.

“Ms. Lopez, they claimed themselves to be ex-residents in this area. They are here to create trouble because of the on-going demolition. They destroyed our constructs and even harmed us.” The team leader of the construction site exclaimed. “This is so scary! They are evidently thugs who do not belong to this village.”

Zoey and Aaron shifted their gazes in the other direction.

The people on the opposite side did resemble criminals who were recently released from prison. Not only that, they gave off a sinister vibe as if they were, in fact, murderers.

“I am the boss of this project. Talk to me if you have any dissatisfaction.” Zoey addressed the crowd bravely.

The person leading the thugs was a muscular man with tanned skin. Horrible scars covered his face, shoulders, and body.

The Protector Chapter 50

The scars were obviously left behind after he recovered from grave injuries inflicted by knives.

The sight of his scars was sufficient to invoke fear in most people.

The man was nicknamed Chopper and he was a famous person in their circle. He was also Nueve’s right-hand man.

Chopper sneered at Zoey while wielding two knives in each hand. “You’re the boss? This demolition is wrong in the first place. You forced your will on us and scammed us, the villagers.”

“He’s right. We want compensation!”

“We will wreak havoc on this place if you do not compensate us!”

Under the thugs’ leadership, the villagers shouted angrily.

Zoey stared at them with all seriousness. “I am sorry, but we’ve acquired the right to develop this area legally. If you feel that the compensation amount is not sufficient, then you should be looking for the department in charge of this matter, not us.”

Chopper jeered. “We don’t care about all those things. We’re all just common folks here, and all we can see is that you are building things on our land. I will give you two choices. Compensate us handsomely, or we will destroy whatever you build here.”

“That’s right! We want compensation!” Everyone shrieked.

Zoey finally got the hang of the situation. They are here to stir up trouble. These thugs must have forced these villagers to cooperate.

“Alright. How much do you want us to compensate you for?” Zoey asked.

“We have made the calculations. You only need to compensate us with one billion.” Chopper answered.

“Impossible! Don’t even think about getting a single cent!” Aaron retorted immediately.

Chopper narrowed his eyes menacingly. “If that’s the case, then destroy everything!”

The few thugs and over a hundred villagers began wrecking things after receiving Chopper’s command.

The workers tried to prevent them. But the thugs threatened them with knives aimed at their throats. “I’ll kill everyone who dares to move.”

Zoey and the workers could only watch idly at the side as they tear down everything that was built in sight, including the worker’s resting area.

After that, Chopper smiled satisfyingly. “I’m warning you now, Zoey. We will come here every day and demolish everything you’ve built if you do not compensate us.”

Then he threatened the workers. “I will kill all of you if you dare to inform the police.”

Chopper led the angry crowd away afterward.

Zoey and Aaron were on the verge of tearing up at the sight of the mess.

Chopper sneered at the villagers after they reached a secluded area. “Go back to your houses now and do not tell anyone about this. I know your address, so I will find you and let you suffer the consequences should you disobey me.”

“We know. We won’t disobey you.”

The villagers left immediately.

Chopper dialed a number and reported cheerfully. “We’ve accomplished the task, Lord Nueve.”

An unpleasant voice was heard from the other line. “This is some easy money provided by the Lopez family. All we have to do is destroy a few buildings.”

“You’re absolutely right. I will visit the construction site again tomorrow night, Lord Nueve.” Chopper laughed out loud in excitement.

On the other hand, inside a clubhouse. A lot of people were seated inside a private room.

Among the crowd was Trey. But he was far from being the center of attention in that banquet because Nueve was the host of that event.

Nueve’s was ranked significantly higher in their circle compared to Trey.

Someone whispered. “What’s the matter, Lord Nueve? Are you facing any trouble? Just tell me if you need any men to do your biddings.”

Nueve, who was dressed formally for that occasion, responded with a smile. “Nothing of the sort. It’s just that the Lopez family gifted me with ten million to stir up trouble at the on-going West City Ecological Park construction site. I thought the task would be tricky, but things ended smoothly.”

The Protector Chapter 51

Trey could not help but ask after listening to Nueve's words. "Is Zoey the boss of that project, Lord Nueve?"

"You're right. There is someone named Zoey there. What's the matter?"

Trey was astounded after receiving Nueve's confirmation. Nueve is in deep shit now.

He warned Nueve cautiously. "I am telling you as a friend, Lord Nueve. Do not meddle in this matter."

Nueve was bewildered. "Oh? Why is that? Is there something wrong?"

"That woman should not be provoked. Let's not participate in this matter anymore, Lord Nueve." Trey said.

Nueve replied mockingly. "Haha. Are you telling me that there is a woman who I cannot provoke? That's interesting!"

Trey muttered. "How should I explain this? She's a unique woman. Anyone who dares to provoke her will face certain death. I'm afraid you'll not be an exception as well, Lord Nueve."

"Who are you to say that, Trey? How dare you belittle Lord Nueve?"

"That's right. You're spouting nonsense!"

Nueve was angered as well. "Fine. In that case, why don't you enlighten me about her background? Who's supporting her?"

"She... Never mind. I hope you will heed my advice and stay out of this matter."

Trey did not reveal Levi's identity after he pondered about it. If I tell anyone about this, I will certainly die a painful death.

"Hmph! Are you looking down on me, Trey? Very well, get lost then!" Nueve roared.

"You will regret it if you do not listen to me!" Trey yelled before he was tossed out of the venue by a few men.

Meanwhile, Zoey returned to Bayview Garden in despair. If this drags on, I will not be able to afford the rent without this project.

“What’s going on? Did something happen?” Levi asked.

Zoey explained everything to him.

He asked her after she was done. “Are you sure they will be there again tomorrow night?”

“Yes. I don’t know who’s the person orchestrating this. But their final goal is to stop me from proceeding with the project.”

“Okay. Leave this matter to me. I will go to the construction site tomorrow.”

...

Levi went to the balcony and made a phone call after Zoey slept. “I need some men tomorrow night, Azure Dragon.”

“You should contact Kirin for this, Sir. He’s got plenty of subordinates.”

Kirin contacted Levi shortly after. “I am the right person you’re looking for, Sir. I’ve been training a special squad in North Hampton since I have too much leisure time here. Their abilities are as good as the men we have in the base after receiving my training. I have a total of two hundred men ready to move out at a moment’s notice.”

“Okay. Bring that squad over here tomorrow night. There’s a mission for them to accomplish.” Levi answered in a low voice with a sullen look.

“Understood, Sir! This is the perfect opportunity to test out their actual combat skills.” Kirin’s excitement was as clear as day.

The five generals working under Levi were granted similar titles, but they had different responsibilities.

Azure Dragon was a war tactician and commander, while Kirin was a demon-like instructor tasked with training special squads for combat purposes.

Kirin had been training a new squad in North Hampton in the last two weeks. He shortlisted two hundred men out of ten thousand candidates.

The next day, Zoey took Levi’s suggestion and proceeded with their construction as usual.

Nueve was made aware of the happenings at the construction site. He said angrily, "What? They have the guts to continue with the construction? How dare they disregard me? Bring more men tonight, and make sure to teach them a lesson, Chopper! Feel free to disable a few of them as long as you do not kill them."

Chopper nodded with a menacing smile.

The Protector Chapter 52

Levi requested Zoey to bring the construction workers away in the evening.

He remained at the construction site with Kirin as they smoked continuously while waiting for Nueve's arrival.

Soon, a huge crowd arrived.

Chopper brought over a hundred skilled fighters with him this time. There were no villagers in sight as they were not needed anymore.

"Oh? It seems like they're missing. What a bunch of cowards." Chopper jeered.

"They are fearful of you, Chopper." The other thugs bootlicked Chopper.

"Well, since there's no one around, we shall level this place!"

Levi and Kirin showed themselves right after Chopper gave the order.

"Aha! There are still people here. Are the two of you workers in this place?" Chopper teased them.

"Yes. We are here to guard this site tonight." Levi took a puff of his cigarette.

Chopper sized up the two men. Then he chuckled. "Judging from your physiques and attires, I'm guessing you guys were from the army?"

"Yes."

"Isn't Zoey looking down on us? Does she think two ex-soldiers will be sufficient to handle us? You over there, do you think you can scare us with that walkie-talkie?"

Chopper looked at Levi and Kirin disdainfully. The men that I've brought with me tonight are equipped with combat skills comparable to ex-militants. "Beat them up, but don't kill them." Chopper commanded without bothering to do anything himself.

Kirin held the walkie-talkie to his mouth and spoke just as Chopper's men moved in their direction. "It's time to rumble."

Whoosh!

A flare shot up into the sky all of a sudden.

Bang!

Chopper and the others looked at the flare in a daze because they had never experienced something like this.

In the next moment, hurried footsteps were heard in every direction.

Anxiety crept into Chopper's heart suddenly.

Everyone's minds went blank as armored and armed soldiers surrounded them within a few seconds.

Bang!

Crack! Crack!

One soldier rushed toward Chopper before he could react and broke his wrists. The knives in his hands fell onto the ground.

Bang!

Bang!

Bang!

...

The thugs were nothing compared to the soldiers despite their experiences of having killed another person.

Their wrists were broken by the soldiers before they could even raise the weapon in their hands. Then they were shoved onto the ground.

In just a blink of an eye, Chopper and the hundred over thugs were left sprawled on the ground as they howled miserably.

One of the soldiers came to a halt in front of Kirin and saluted. "King of War! We, the Kirin's special squad, have successfully subdued all the enemies."

Kirin looked at the stopwatch in his hand. He said with a smile, "59 seconds. You've barely passed the test."

Upon hearing that, Chopper and the other thugs lying on the ground were scared out of their wits.

"What? Kirin's special squad? King of War?"

"Are we in deep shit now?"

"Why is the special squad here to confront us? We're just some ordinary thugs."

Chopper's scalp tingled as the acknowledgment nearly caused him to pass out due to the fear. We are the leading gang in the circle. But I did not expect some special squad to be targeting us.

Everyone understood the situation when they saw the lasers aimed at their bodies.

"Come out, snipers." Kirin ordered.

A team of snipers appeared out of nowhere.

Chopper was in utter disbelief. They even prepared snipers?

"Question their identities." Levi continued to smoke.

The Protector Chapter 53

Chopper looked at Levi incredulously. He's the King of War. Yet he's so polite to this man puffing on a cigarette. Who the hell is he?

Kirin grabbed Chopper by the neck and lifted him up, suspending him in mid-air.

“I’ll talk. I’ll tell you everything! Nueve sent us here.” Chopper blurted everything out as he was scared to death.

“Ask Nueve to meet me in thirty minutes. Do not make me go to him.” Kirin smiled eerily.

“Okay, okay, alright. I will make the call now!” Chopper complied.

Nueve was having the time of his life at that moment inside a bar. “Any update? Have you settled the matter? The people from the Lopez Family questioned our progress earlier.” Nueve asked casually after the call connected.

“Something terrible happened, Lord Nueve!” Chopper’s panicky voice was heard.

“What happened?”

“Please come here right now, Lord Nueve. We are being detained at the moment!”

The call was hung up before Chopper could elaborate further.

Nueve roared after being informed of the situation. “Gather all the men and follow me!”

Multiple vans arrived at the construction site half an hour later.

Hundreds of thugs rushed towards the scene, with Nueve leading the way.

They saw Levi and Kirin standing alone at the site while Chopper and the others lay on the ground.

“Who are you? Do you dare to tell me your name?” Nueve asked coldly.

Nueve was under the impression that he was the most formidable man in North Hampton, despite sensing something was amiss with the bizarre turn of events.

“So you’re Nueve? Who gave you the orders to do this?” Levi asked.

“Who do you think you are? How dare you question me?” Nueve scorned.

Thunk!

Nueve did not expect Kirin to take out a gun and aimed at his forehead. Moreover, the gun was loaded.

Everyone was stunned. Even Nueve's body was trembling. No one had the guts to point a gun at me before...

Nueve raised his arms in surrender as his legs wobbled. "Let's talk nicely. That gun of yours is quite uncommon. I'm guessing it's for military use?"

Nueve had his share of experience in society. He could distinguish that Levi and Kirin's decisive and imposing manners are traits seen only in military men.

Nueve had once seen the gun model in Kirin's hand. That gun is specially designed for soldiers in the Special Operations Regiment.

Kirin did not say a word. But his uniform was exposed when the wind blew open the trench coat he had donned.

There's a star label on his shoulders! He's a war king!

Boom!

Nueve was mind-blown as he gained revelation. What terrible luck do I have to stumble into them!

The lasers pointed at their faces did not help with the ominous atmosphere.

An unprecedented terror filled their hearts.

Clap!

Clap!

Clap!

...

The lights on the construction site were switched on the next second. The venue was suddenly as bright as day.

Everyone finally knew the source of the lasers pointed at their faces. They saw the snipers aiming at them with their sniper rifles from afar.

They were armed to the teeth with a few grenades hanging on their shoulder's vests...

"Kneel immediately, Lord Nueve. They are from the Special Operations Regiment!" Chopper yelled.

Thump!

Thump!

Thump!

...

Nueve and his men kneeled on the floor swiftly.

They threw all their weapons aside.

Trey's warning reverberated beside Nueve's ears at that moment. She is indeed someone I should not provoke. More importantly, Trey knew he could not inform me about these people's identity.

The Protector Chapter 54

"This is a mistake on my part. I will tell you everything. Lopez family's son-in-law, Samuel, contacted me! I have the chat history and receipt of the transaction. Here, take my phone!" Nueve knew that it was the information Levi wanted to know. So he informed Levi of the truth about Lopez family's request.

Kirin handed the phone to Levi.

Levi's face contorted with rage after he scanned through the content. The Lopez family must have got tired of living!

"We were only told to carry out the orders, Chief! Please show mercy and forgive us." Nueve groveled on the floor fearfully.

"I heard you all destroyed plenty of buildings here last night. So it is your responsibility to restore the constructs. I want all of you to work here starting tomorrow onwards! Moreover, you are going to compensate for the psychological trauma you inflicted on those workers. Fifty million should be sufficient." Levi said firmly.

“Okay, okay, okay. I agree with all your requests. We do not mind slaving here!” Nueve did not have the guts to reject Levi. He considered himself lucky to escape death.

Kirin, the King of War picked up Nueve’s knife and crumpled the piece of sharp metal into scrap effortlessly.

Nueve’s underlings were horrified by that sight. Our difference in status aside, this man can easily defeat hundreds of us without breaking a sweat.

“Let’s not wait until tomorrow. You will start working here tonight. I hope to see some results tomorrow morning. Also, the sewage system is not installed. I assume you will handle that task?” Levi added.

Pfftt!

Everyone knew what he was implying. He’s clearly telling us to scoop up others’ wastes.

But Nueve did not dare to oppose Levi’s suggestion.

“May I know your relationship with Ms. Zoey, Sir?” Nueve summoned his courage to ask that question in his mind.

“Oh. She’s my wife.” Levi answered.

Everyone gasped as clarity washed over them.

Samuel contacted Nueve after Levi and the others left. “How’s the progress, Lord Nueve? I’m waiting to pay you the rest of the amount.”

Nueve exploded with rage as he listened to Samuel.

“F you, Samuel Robertson! My brothers are crippled and I almost died because of you. Mark my words, you’ll face the repercussion. I will not forgive you, just you wait!” Nueve hung up the phone afterward.

Samuel was frightened.

Harry asked. “What’s going on?”

“Nueve said his men were crippled, and he nearly died. He also mentioned that he would not forgive us!” Samuel explained helplessly.

The entire Lopez family almost wet their pants, listening to his explanation.

“This must be Levi Garrison’s doing! He’s going to get us all killed.”

“That family is evil! They are deliberately harming us. Sooner or later, we are going to meet our downfall because of them!” Harry Lopez slammed the table furiously.

“What should we do now?” Fabian asked anxiously.

“What else can we do? We are going to ask them to apologize!” Harry screamed angrily.

The next day, Zoey, Aaron, and the other workers were dumbfounded after they arrived at the construction site because there were already people working tirelessly at the site.

Many constructs that were destroyed the night before were restored.

More importantly, the people moving the bricks were covered with tattoos.

“Aren’t these people the thugs from the other night?”

Zoey recognized the men to be the thugs that caused them trouble the other night. This is unbelievable. They may not be good at building things, but these men are great labourers.

“What’s happening?” Zoey and the others were confounded.

A middle-aged man dressed in all black hurried over in their direction with a bunch of subordinates following behind him at that moment.

Zoey and the others were terrified by that group of men closing in on them.

“What’s the meaning of this?” Aaron took out his truncheon.

The Protector Chapter 55

Zoey was afraid that the men were there to stir up a ruckus.

Unexpectedly, Nueve explained cheerfully. “Nice to meet you, Ms. Zoey and Mr. Aaron. You can call me Nueve. I am deeply sorry for causing this mess in the last two days. So I worked through the night to restore the constructs we destroyed the other day. Moreover, you can freely utilize my subordinates until the completion of this project. I have around two hundred men with me, and please leave the sewage system to us. Also, we will not accept any payment for doing all these!”

Two hundred gang members to volunteer at our construction site? No one could fathom the situation. But Zoey had no other choice but to accept the arrangements.

Zoey asked Levi about that matter when she arrived home that night.

“I stayed in the same prison as Nueve previously. We were close to each other, so he did me a favor.” Levi explained.

Zoey investigated Nueve’s background earlier in the day. So she could verify Levi’s statement.

“You should not mingle with that lot from now on. The connections you have with those inmates are not desirable. Did you borrow the five million from those people as well?” Zoey quickly deduced the source of the money.

Levi nodded. “That’s right.”

“Alright. Let’s return this five million once I receive the payment.” Zoey said with determination.

At the Garrison family estate.

Joseph gathered every member of the Garrison family for a meeting.

Bryan informed everyone agitatedly. “I’ve investigated Levi’s background thoroughly. The man supporting him is Nueve. He was imprisoned previously because he killed someone and was placed in the same prison as Levi. Nueve was released from jail one year ago, and coincidentally, even Trey has to obey Nueve’s every order!”

“Did you know, Nueve’s subordinates are helping Zoey out at the construction site.”

Joseph said with a smile. “Now we know who’s the man supporting Levi. So it’s Nueve!”

Melanie asked apprehensively. “Is this Nueve a formidable man, grandpa?”

“He is indeed a formidable man. It is said that no one can match his cruelty and bloodlust.”

“But Nueve is not the most impressive man. That title belongs to Jack Smith, also known as the King of North Hampton. He is in charge of the whole North Hampton with hundreds of men working under him, including the Invincible-13.” Joseph clarified.

“Then should we be fearful of Nueve, grandpa?” Melanie asked again.

Ben sneered. “Nueve is nothing! It is as easy as ABC for us to kill him. However, we should be afraid of Jack Smith.”

Malicious intent glinted in Joseph’s eyes. “Alright. The one-month period Levi given us is around the corner. Let’s establish all our connections before I invite Mr. Smith over. It is time to face your doom, Levi!”

“Hahaha. That’s a brilliant move, grandpa! Nueve will have no other choice but to kneel when Jack Smith is here.”

“I can already imagine Levi’s dumbfounded expression in my mind. Hahaha...”

Everyone laughed out loud.

They thought Nueve was the person supporting Levi. So they wanted to invite the most formidable man in the underworld, Jack Smith, to intimidate him. But little did they know about Levi’s identity...

The next day, the Lopez family’s representatives, Shaun and Samuel, went to meet up with Zoey.

Zoey did not know the reason behind their visit. “What’s the matter? Do you need something?”

“Are you aware of your mistakes? Levi beat up Nueve’s subordinates and infuriated him. What’s wrong with both of you?” Samuel jeered. “You should hurry up and apologize to him. Otherwise, there will be no end to this matter!”

Zoey curled her lips into a sneer. “I see. I suppose you were the one to hire them in the first place?”

“That’s not true. How can you say that? They informed us because Levi hurt them. You need to apologize to him right away. Otherwise, they will blame us for his fault. You should take responsibility for your mess!” Samuel said aggressively.

“Hah.” Zoey laughed dryly. It is so obvious that the Lopez family is behind all these, yet they want me to apologize?

“Handle your own mess!” Zoey turned to leave after she said her piece.

But Samuel and Shaun swiftly blocked her path to prevent her from going anywhere.

At that moment, a group of workers wearing safety helmets hurried over in their direction. The man leading the group was Nueve.

“What’s happening here, Ms. Zoey?” Nueve asked.

“Stay out of this. You’re just a lowly worker.” Samuel shoved Nueve away.

But Samuel and Shaun were flabbergasted to see Nueve’s face after he took off his helmet. “Lord... lord Nueve... what are you doing here?” They were in utter disbelief.

“Beat them up.” Nueve barked an order and countless men rushed to Nueve’s side to give Samuel and Shaun a good beating.

“Don’t worry, Ms. Zoey. I will handle the security in the construction site from now on. No one will dare to step one toe out of line in this place.”

...

After that, The Lopez family guessed there was a friendly connection between Nueve and Levi since they stayed in the same prison.

On the other hand, Levi decided to look past that matter temporarily for Zoey’s sake.

Soon it was the 7th, the last day of a long holiday.

Chloe contacted Levi to remind him to attend the high school reunion.

“I am going to attend a high school reunion now. So I might return home a little late tonight.”

Levi and Zoey were not in the same class during high school. Moreover, Zoey was busy, so she did not have the time to attend the gathering.

“Alright. Go ahead then. Are you sure you want to wear that outfit?” Zoey had to ask after she saw the casual clothes on Levi.

Levi shrugged. “It’s fine.”

Levi saw Chloe exited the sales center after he walked out of the neighborhood.

Chloe drove her car in Levi’s direction after he waved at her.

She’s driving a Porsche Panamera. Her future husband will be a remarkable man, judging from this expensive car she bought for herself at this young age. At the very least, her future husband must be an executive from a large company or multinational corporation because an Average Joe will not satisfy someone like her. Levi thought to himself.

Chloe got out of the car and asked with a smile. “I thought you would bring Zoey to the reunion?”

“She’s busy, and it’s not her class anyway. So there’s no need for her to tag along.” Levi explained.

“Why don’t we go together?” Chloe sounded Levi out.

“Sure.” Levi had originally wanted to call Azure Dragon to send the car over after he exited the neighborhood. But he changed his mind after seeing Chloe.

Chloe thought Levi did not want to drive because of the inconvenience. I will not be surprised even if he drives a car that’s worth a billion. He did spend fifty million so casually, after all. Actually, he’s handsome even if he takes a cab. That’s the way wealthy people try to experience a commoner’s life. There will always be an explanation to justify Levi’s actions because he’s a billionaire.

“Were you released from prison a long time ago?” Chloe asked curiously.

Levi was a little surprised. She’s the first person to raise suspicion about my early release.

“You’re right.” Levi answered.

“What kind of business have you been doing all these years?” Chloe fixated her gaze on Levi despite her duty as the driver.

“I’ve been dealing with firearms...” Levi said. Firearms are the most common things within my reach in the last few years. It’s not a bad idea to use it as a cover up since I’m familiar with the topic.

“Oh! No wonder!”

The Protector Chapter 57

The high school reunion was hosted at the Royal Hotel. Although the place was not as extravagant as the revolving restaurant, a table reservation cost at least ten to twenty thousand. So the Royal Hotel was considered a lavish diner.

For someone receiving an average amount of salary, a meal there would cost three to four months of their monthly earnings. Not everyone in their class was so lucky in life. Some were doing good, while some were barely holding their life together.

A few men clad in suits were welcoming newcomers near the hotel entrance.

They crowded around Chloe’s Porsche Panamera upon her arrival.

“Oh? Isn’t this the prettiest girl in our class? I heard you’re earning a few million a year. I guess that’s true since you’re driving a Porsche!” A few male classmates began to bootlick.

Chloe flashed a shy smile upon hearing the compliments.

But the smile on everyone’s faces froze when they saw Levi getting out of the passenger’s seat.

They did not expect Levi to attend the reunion, not to mention coming to the venue alongside Chloe.

“Oh, it’s Levi, the influential figure back in the day.” A well-dressed man broke the awkward silence. He was the class monitor, Jed Barrett.

Even though he was the class monitor, Levi had always outshone him in the past. So Jed spent his younger days chasing behind Levi, trying to match up with Levi’s accomplishments.

Jed successfully entered one of the top universities and is currently working in a multinational corporation after graduation. He was rumored to be earning a few million a year as well.

Jed's car was a pricey Range Rover. He was one of the high achievers in the class.

Levi greeted him with a smile.

"We thought you wouldn't come, Levi." A few other classmates asked shockingly.

Jed rolled his eyes at the person who asked the question. "Levi is not a narrow-minded person. He's not someone to be bothered by his current situation."

Everyone discussed Levi's matter in the private room earlier. They shared a similar opinion that Levi would not attend the reunion because he would be too ashamed to face everyone else due to his recent imprisonment. But who would have thought Levi showed up in the end.

"You're right. Levi is a tough guy. We will never be able to reach his standard." The other classmates laughed.

They were implying Levi's presence as a show of his shamelessness.

Jed strode past Levi and came to a halt in front of Chloe. "You're finally here, Chloe. Come, follow me into the room now. Everyone is waiting for you."

Jed was interested in Chloe. He knew Chloe was still single, so he deliberately organized the gathering since he had the ability and qualification to pursue her.

Everyone crowded around Chloe and disregarded Levi.

"Shall we?" Chloe stopped to address Levi before he followed them into the hotel.

Many people had already arrived on the third floor of the Royal Hotel.

Some of them even brought along their partners. So the venue was much livelier than Levi expected.

Everyone stood up to welcome Chloe, especially the men.

Chloe was a beauty, a successful beauty, nonetheless. So she was shining brighter than ever in everyone's eyes.

Levi looked for a random seat and sat down.

"Are my eyes deceiving me? Isn't that Levi?" One of the men, Wayne Warren, exclaimed. "It's really him. Levi is here!"

Everyone turned to look at Levi all of a sudden.

Levi was once the most affluent among his peers, the dark horse in the city's business world right after he graduated from university. He was a man with a net worth of over a billion, admired by women and envied by the men.

But after his downfall at the Garrison family's hand, Levi became the most despicable person in everyone's mind. They rebuked and insulted him as much as they looked up to him in the past.

The Protector Chapter 58

"Didn't I told you all that Levi will certainly cause trouble? but none of you believed me!"

"That's right. Levi is a beast. He took advantage of his sister-in-law and almost murdered his parents!"

"His nature was clear as day from the arrogance he displayed in university!"

...

These were the words that were exchanged in the private room before Levi's arrival.

Wayne and a few of his classmates were jealous of Levi's accomplishments in the past, so they never liked him. But they did not have the opportunity to vent their resentment then. It wasn't until now that the gathering provided them with the perfect opportunity.

"What are you doing hiding among the girls, Levi? Join us at our table and tell us everything that happened to you in prison."

"Hahaha..."

Everyone burst into laughter as they eyed Levi disdainfully.

"I heard you were jobless and stayed with your mother-in-law after you were released from prison." Someone sneered.

"I heard every large corporation in North Hampton has blacklisted Levi, so it's not surprising for him to be jobless even with his capabilities." A girl added in a diminished tone.

It was at that moment did Levi found out that the companies in North Hampton had blacklisted him.

Wayne laughed. "Let me offer you a job. My company is hiring for security guard's position. The pay is four thousand with accommodation and meals provided. You should qualify for that job with your physique!"

Chloe could no longer stand listening to their mockeries. "Stop teasing him. He's got his own career now."

"Career? Don't tell me that you're his sugar mummy now, Chloe? Both of you arrived together, after all." Wayne spoke without filtering his thoughts.

But he quickly fell silent when he caught Jed's eye.

"Let's all move on to other topics of conversation." Chloe insisted.

Everyone took their seat afterward. Levi was rooted in his seat while Chloe sat beside him.

Wayne whispered beside Jed's ear. "Chloe is infatuated with Levi. She's sticking up to him even in his current condition. You should try harder, Jed."

Jed sneered. "Don't worry. I'll never lose to a criminal like him."

Levi was surrounded by pretty girls. On his other side was Lina, whose beauty was second only to Chloe in their class.

Lina was a beautiful and rich girl from a wealthy family with assets over a billion. On top of her good looks, Lina was good in her studies as well.

She had always been fond of Levi and sympathized with his tragedy.

"Levi, why don't you join my father's company as a Technical Advisor? The basic salary is eight thousand with additional bonuses. There are plenty of opportunities to receive a promotion too." Lina handed a name card to Levi.

“Okay. Thanks.” Levi accepted the name card because Lina offered him the position out of goodwill.

Chloe smirked beside Levi. Based on his current net worth, He should have more than enough money to purchase the company owned by Lina’s father.

The other girls on the other hand, were not as kind towards Levi as Chloe and Lina.

“We thought you would bring Zoey along with you. Where is she?”

“That’s impossible. Now that Levi’s been reduced to a sorry state, Zoey won’t tag along with him. She will not want to embarrass herself.”

“You’re absolutely right! Even I’m feeling ashamed to be referred to as Levi’s ex-classmates.”

...

The Levi now had become the perfect example of a man who should be avoided by all girls.

“Why aren’t we starting? Is there anyone else who’s coming?” Chloe hurriedly distracted others’ attention.

“The star for tonight’s reunion has yet to arrive!”

A thought popped into Chloe’s mind. “Don’t tell me Stephan is coming?”

“That’s right! Stephan is attending too!”

Levi remembered Stephan Simmons. His father was the director of a department in the district council. Even the headmaster had to condone Stephan’s behavior. He managed to enter one of the top universities, albeit having failed most of his examinations.

The Protector Chapter 59

“You might not know this, but Stephan’s father received a promotion. He’s now the Chief of the district council. So everyone must wait for him to arrive.”

“Jed’s achievements and Lina’s family background are nothing compared to Stephan’s influence.”

The statement sounded like an exaggeration, but that was the truth.

Everyone was not familiar with the concept of societal hierarchy during their university years. But now, after a few years of working in the society, they were made aware of the authority a high-ranking officer in governmental departments held, especially the Chief of a district.

The status of being the son of a district council's chief toppled all other personal achievements in the room combined because power will always be more coveted than money.

Soon, everyone stood up when they heard voices from the hallway.

Jed was especially passionate as he was the first person to welcome Stephan.

Stephan was dressed lavishly in Armani clothes, Gucci belt, Versace shirt, Patek Philippe wristwatch... The items on his person added up to millions.

A gorgeous lady with a slender figure like that of a model followed by his side.

Her voluptuous figure and long legs that were wrapped in black stockings stunned everyone inside the room.

"You're finally here, Stephan!" Jed welcomed Stephan with a bear hug in excitement.

"I see you're doing well, Jed. You're already wearing an Omega watch." Stephan said with a smile after he saw Jed's wristwatch.

Jed glanced at the gorgeous girl next to Stephan. "Aren't you going to introduce the pretty lady to us, Stephan?"

"She's just a random girl." Stephan said nonchalantly.

Stephan did not care to establish a proper relationship as he would change partner regularly.

Wayne's eyes gleamed. "She's a model! I saw her on television before."

The woman acted more arrogantly after Wayne acknowledged her fame.

Others merely looked at Stephan in envy. He can easily lay his hands on a model that we can only see on television.

Wayne shuffled forward eagerly. "Do you remember me, Stephan? I'm Wayne. I used to fight for your sake in the past..."

"Of course. You're Wayne." Stephan nodded.

Stephan's affirmation made Wayne excited. He raised his voice to the others inside the room. "Stephan remembers me! Did all of you hear that?"

"Stephan, my company is currently developing a new project, requiring approval from the district council. I hope you will assist me to speed up the process." Wayne seized the opportunity to ask for a favor.

"Sure. Consider it done."

"Do you need a chauffeur or bodyguard, Stephan?" Wayne's best friend, Robin, asked immediately.

Stephan joked. "I do need a watchdog."

"No problem. I'm the right person for the job. Woof woof..." Robin mimicked the sound of a dog shamelessly. It was his lifelong dream to become Stephan's pet.

Chloe was disgusted by the brazen demeanor of her classmates to butter up Stephan.

Stephan scanned the surroundings after he entered the room. "By the way, where is the criminal who took advantage of his sister-in-law, the pride of our class? Is he here?"

"Hahaha. Of course he's here! He's been blacklisted by every company in the city. He must be desperate to look for your help, Stephan." Wayne suggested hastily.

Jed looked at Levi. "Are you looking down on Stephan? Aren't you going to greet Stephan now that he's here?"

Stephan said mockingly. "Oh, please don't do that. Levi's a famous person in the city back in the day. I am not qualified to be greeted by him. My father even mentioned him a few times and asked me to learn from him. Perhaps he could teach me a few tricks about taking advantage of helpless girls. Hahaha..."

Everyone laughed out loud as well.

Wayne glared at Levi. "What are you doing? Did you not hear what Stephan said? You should build a good rapport with Stephan, so he could help you to look for a job that pays well and tick your name off from the blacklist."

But Levi merely sat in his chair without moving a muscle.

The Protector Chapter 60

Lina and Chloe were already in an upright position.

Chloe signaled Levi relentlessly with her eyes. I know Levi is very wealthy and has connections. But he's facing Stephan Simmons now, the son of the district council's chief. I do not think Levi has the capability to stand against that kind of authority. North Hampton is a commercial zone, so the district's chief has an unimaginable influence in this area.

"What are you doing just sitting there, Levi? Get up immediately!"

"Do you expect Stephan to greet you instead?"

Wayne and Robin gave Levi an earful for the way he was behaving. They even had the urge to drag Levi off his seat.

Jed grimaced as well. "You should show some proper manners, Levi."

Levi merely lit a cigarette and took a puff while disregarding the farce occurring before his eyes.

Fury glinted in Stephan's eyes as he looked at Levi.

His rage intensified upon noticing the pretty ladies sitting on Levi's sides. I've always wanted to sleep with Lina and Chloe. But my plans got ruined by Levi back in the day.

Everyone knew the situation was turning South upon sensing Stephan's wrath.

Jed panicked. Levi is courting death.

Stephan's girlfriend, Crystal, said coquettishly, "Hubby, this person is so arrogant. He's not taking you seriously at all."

Stephan's expression turned grim. Everyone has always treated me with respect wherever I go all these years.

"Get up! That's not where you're supposed to sit." Stephan jeered at Levi.

A dreadful silence filled the air inside the room as everyone held their breaths unwittingly. He's done it now, nothing good ever comes from infuriating Stephan Simmons.

But Levi merely sat motionless and ignored Stephan's existence.

"I'll repeat myself. Get up and get lost!" Stephan ordered harshly. I was not afraid of Levi when he was at his peak six years ago, much less now that he's fresh out of prison! My status is my biggest asset to back me up.

Levi puffed on his cigarette without saying a word while looking at Stephan and Crystal.

Menace flashed across Crystal's face as she grabbed a glass of water and poured the content on Levi. "Are you incapable of comprehending human language? It's time for you to get lost! Are you deaf?" Crystal shrieked.

Everyone did not expect things to progress to that stage.

Jed hurriedly tried to smooth the situation over. "Hurry up and apologize to Stephan, Levi. Then we'll look past this incident."

Wayne added. "That's right. Kneel on the floor and ask sincerely for Stephan's forgiveness. I'm sure he will show you mercy."

...

Everyone condemned Levi as they sided with Stephan.

Chloe and Lina looked at the crowd incredulously. Stephan and his girlfriend are at fault here. She even poured water on Levi, yet they want Levi to kneel and apologize? This is unreasonable and unacceptable! But Stephan always assumed he was in the right because of his unique status.

Levi put out the cigarette he was smoking. Then he met with Stephan's eyes and said casually. "Ask your father to apologize to me in person. Otherwise, I will not let you off."

"What? You want Stephan's father to apologize to you?"

Everyone was completely dumbfounded by Levi's request. They were dazed for some time before slowly regaining their senses.

"Are you crazy, Levi? Do you know who Stephan's father is? Do you think you are qualified to receive his apology?"

"That's right! Who do you think you are? Why is there a need for the district council's chief to apologize to you?"

"You're just a lowly criminal recently released from prison. Know your place!"

...

Wayne, Robin, and the others were going all out to insult Levi at that point.

The Protector Chapter 61

Even Chloe, who was slightly aware of Levi's capabilities, thought he was mad. You are rich and packed with connections. But Stephan's father is the Chief of the district council! Are you out of your mind to ask him to apologize to you? Are you seeking death?

Chloe did not expect Levi to be so full of himself.

Stephan nearly exploded with rage when he heard Levi's words.

He stretched out his hand to slap Levi's face. But Levi grabbed Stephan's hand in a split second and twisted his wrist. Then he kicked at Stephan's knee.

"Arrghh..."

Stephan wailed in pain and fell heavily in front of Levi on his knees.

Clap!

Levi swiftly dragged Crystal and slapped her forcefully, causing her to fall onto the floor.

The couple knelt before Levi in just a few seconds.

"What are you doing, Levi? How dare you hurt Stephan? Did you get tired of living?"

"You're out of your mind, Levi!"

Jed and Wayne yelled and rushed forward at the same time as Levi slapped Stephan across his face.

"Ah!"

"Ah!"

Both men screamed blue murder.

"Stop right there!" Levi commanded.

Everyone stayed still and looked at Levi in disbelief.

Chloe was already shivering fearfully.

Levi patted Stephan's cheek. "You better contact your father immediately and ask him to apologize to me."

Stephan hurriedly fished out his phone and made the call. "Father, come save me. Hurry up!"

Levi snatched the phone from Stephan and said with a smile before the other party could speak. "You're Draco Simmons, right? You better come here and apologize to me swiftly. Oh, by the way, my name is Levi Garrison!"

He's mad! He must be nuts! Levi has now become a lunatic in everyone's mind. He's blatantly provoking Stephan's father.

Malicious intent glinted in Stephan's eyes as he smiled wickedly at Levi after the latter hung up the phone call. "You're doomed, Levi Garrison! I will let you suffer along with Zoey and her entire family. I will never let you off the hook!"

Levi did not say a word and instead grabbed a fork and stabbed Stephan's thigh.

"Arrghh..." A horrible and hysterical scream rang inside the private room.

Stephan wanted to threaten Levi further. But he shut his mouth obediently upon meeting with Levi's eyes.

Everyone shared a similar thought at that moment. Levi's as good as a piece of dead meat now.

Chloe was shocked to her core. I did not expect Levi to destroy his own life like this. No one can save him now.

She leaned closer and whispered beside Levi's ear. "You should escape now. Run as far as you can from this place."

Levi smiled. "Why should I? I am still waiting for my apology."

Chloe was rendered speechless.

About twenty minutes later, rows of cars were parked outside the Royal Hotel as a horde of people rushed into the building.

Stephan was invigorated when he heard the thundering footsteps in the hallway.

Jed, Wayne, and the others were excited as well.

A group of men clad in suits and ties dashed into the room. An extraordinary air and overwhelming presence enveloped the body of the middle-aged man leading the group.

The man in lead was none other than Draco Simmons!

They hastened their footsteps after seeing Stephan and Crystal kneeling before Levi.

“Save me, father! He beat me up!” Stephan begged for his father’s assistance.

But Draco took large strides and came to a halt in front of Levi and asked him with concern, all the while ignoring his son. “Are you alright?”

The Protector Chapter 62

Draco’s subordinates did not have the courage to look at Stephan and Crystal. They focused all their attention on Levi.

“Are you alright? We were so worried when we received the news.” They said in a hurry.

Everyone else inside the room was flabbergasted.

Stephan was in utter disbelief. “I’m your son, father! I’m the one who’s injured.”

But Draco fixated his gaze on Levi despite Stephan’s effort to express his grievances.

“I’m fine. But my clothes are soiled.” Levi answered.

Everyone saw the visible wet stain on Levi’s clothes.

Draco was infuriated. He scanned the room and asked angrily. “Who did this? Who’s the one that poured water all over him?”

The other subordinates raised their voices as well. “Who’s the daredevil?”

Those in the know gazed at Crystal simultaneously.

Crystal lowered her head as her body trembled visibly.

Draco grabbed Stephan by his collar and slapped him mercilessly. "You're a wastrel! Why do I have a son like you? You will be the cause for my downfall!"

Slap!

Thump!

Draco beat up his son furiously. He finally stopped when he was out of breath.

Stephan was confounded. What's going on? Why is my father hitting me? I am the victim of this incident. Why does he concern about Levi Garrison instead?

The other classmates were also bewildered as they looked at Levi differently.

What's happening? Chloe was relatively calm. Don't tell me Levi's status is even higher than the Simmons family? Is that the reason behind his brazen attitude?

At that moment, a man dressed in a suit entered the room holding a briefcase.

"Isn't that the Head Secretary of North Hampton, Cedric Jones?"

"You're right! That's him! The Head Secretary of North Hampton City. He's the secretary of the most influential figure in the city. His appearance carries the same weight as the great Mr. Jesse himself!"

Everyone recognized Cedric as soon as he entered the room.

But Cedric behaved similarly to the others before him. He walked up to Levi hastily and asked him with concern. "Are you alright, Mr. Garrison? I am worried sick about you! Mr. Jesse left over ten missed calls on my phone because he thought something terrible happened to you. He's currently attending a meeting overseas, so he cannot come here in person. That's why he asked me to come in his stead."

Huh? Levi's ex-classmates were astounded to their limits. Who is Levi Garrison? Why is Mr. Jesse so attentive towards him? Oh my God! This is driving me crazy. Can anyone tell me his identity already?

"I'm fine. Jesse got worried over nothing. I'll treat him to a meal someday." Levi said with a smile.

"Yes. Sure. I will convey your message to him. Mr. Jesse will be pleased to hear this!"

The Head Secretary of North Hampton is so excited because of Levi's offer to treat Mr. Jesse to a meal?

Cedric turned to look at Draco sternly. "What's happening here, Mr. Simmons? My boss wanted me to clarify the situation with you!"

"This is all my fault! I failed my duties as a father in educating my child. This is the gravest mistake of my life for my son to offend you, Mr. Garrison!" Draco Simmons bowed deeply in front of Levi and continued. "I am deeply sorry, Mr. Garrison. This is all my fault. Please punish me!"

Everyone gasped after witnessing that scene.

No one expected that the district council's chief, Draco Simmons, to bow so lowly in front of Levi.

Stephan was dumbfounded.

Crystal fell into a daze.

Chloe was astonished.

Everyone inside the room was stupefied.

This is unbelievable. Levi Garrison's status is frighteningly overwhelming.

The Protector Chapter 63

Tap tap tap...

Footsteps rang in the hallway again.

A man dressed in police uniform and another man dressed in a soldier's uniform entered.

Jed voiced out unwittingly after noticing the badges on their shoulders. "The Captain of Patrol Squad and a colonel from the army!"

“I know him. He’s Steven Shaw, the Colonel of North Hampton’s First Metallic Regiment.”

“And that’s Xavier Fields, the Captain of Patrol Squad!”

Everyone’s scalps tingled with unease at that moment. I can’t believe Steven Shaw and Xavier Field is here!

Both men were having a meeting nearby. They rushed over as soon as they were made aware of the situation.

The two fearsome men came to a halt in front of Levi and saluted him.

The crowd could not be more amazed. Who is Levi Garrison, actually? Why are all these remarkable men in society showing such great respect towards him? Even Mr. Jesse nearly rush back to the country from abroad for him. Levi’s authority is beyond our comprehension.

A hint of terror glinted in everyone’s eyes as they looked at Levi. The lowly criminal has become a powerful figure in just a few minutes.

Chloe’s body shivered as she stood beside Levi. Her legs felt heavy as lead, rooting her to her spot. She finally understood the hidden meaning behind Levi’s explanation earlier. He said he’s dealing with firearms. If I think further from that perspective, Levi may be a high-ranking officer in the military.

She did not dare to imagine further.

“Bring them away and never let me see them again.” Levi commanded nonchalantly.

Draco complied without a moment to waste. “I will discipline this useless son of mine. He will not cause any trouble from now on!”

Everyone glanced at Crystal simultaneously.

Crystal knew she was doomed. I made a terrible decision in offending this man.

Draco and the others left swiftly after. But Levi asked for Steven Shaw to stay.

Steven stood politely beside Levi, admiring his idol. “Please give your orders, Sir!” Steven Shaw said.

Levi scratched his nose before he said, "I need one hundred thousand men next week. Convey my request to the regiment."

Levi was preparing his secret weapon to defeat the Garrison family.

Steven Shaw was shocked. But he nodded in agreement anyway. "I will accomplish this mission!"

The private room was already cleaned up by the time Steven Shaw left. The restaurant staff even changed the tablecloth for Levi's table.

Everyone tensed up as they eyed Levi nervously.

They knew Levi had the ability to destroy their future and career with a single word.

"Let's relax ourselves. This is a gathering, am I right? Let's enjoy the reunion then." Levi smiled.

Chloe immediately took the initiative to smooth things over. "Let's take our seats and pretend as if that incident earlier never happened."

Everyone's movements were stiff as they returned to their seats.

Jed, Wayne, and the others who sided with Stephan earlier were trying their best to diminish their presence.

Earlier, all of them felt the urge to bootlick Stephan to win over his favor, but none of them had the courage to do the same to Levi.

"They should be serving the dishes by now. I'm getting hungry already." Levi raised his tone.

Levi helped himself to the food after the dishes were served on the table.

He ate without a care for his image or any dining etiquettes, but no one had the guts to laugh at him.

Levi soon realized he was the only person eating inside the room. Everyone else was tensed and quiet.

He got up from his seat after he was done. "I'm full now. I'll take my leave first."

The Protector Chapter 64

Chloe wanted to send him back, but Levi rejected her offer.

Noises erupted inside the private room after Levi's departure.

"Oh my God! What just happened? Levi Garrison is so scary."

"The Head Secretary of North Hampton, the Captain of Patrol Squad, they were all here. You guys must be so ashamed now, attempting to hook him up with a job."

Jed, Wayne, and the others were beyond embarrassed by that comment.

"Oh? Is this the cigarette Levi was puffing on? I've never seen this brand before." Someone picked up the empty box and asked curiously.

"You're an idiot. This is a cigarette available only for military personnel. Moreover, this must be a rare edition limited only to the high-ranking officers based on the label."

"What's his current status, I wonder? He's so intimidating."

"He's truly an impressive man. He was a successful person six years ago. Now, his achievements are even greater than before!"

Chloe did not join in the discussion. Mixed emotions churned in her chest as she felt grateful and regretful at the same time.

Her phone rang all of a sudden. It was a call from Levi.

"Morris Atkinson did not attend the gathering today?" He asked.

Morris Atkinson was Levi's classmate as well as his best friend. He stayed by Levi's side throughout high school and their university years.

Morris contributed to the establishment and success of Levi Group in the past. But after Levi was tricked by the Garrison family, Matthew Green and the others betrayed him. So Levi assumed Morris to have betrayed him as well since he was the vice president.

Levi attended the reunion with the sole intention of meeting with Morris Atkinson. But he did not expect him to be missing.

“Huh? It’s only natural that Morris Atkinson won’t be able to attend.” Chloe replied, surprised by Levi’s question.

“Why not?” Levi frowned.

“He passed away, didn’t he?” Chloe reverted the question back to Levi. I even suggested everyone not to mention Morris’ name at the gathering in advance because I did not want to dampen the mood.

“Passed away?” Levi was caught in utter astonishment.

“Ah. You really don’t know? Not long after your imprisonment, the Garrison family and Levi Group confronted each other. The news of Morris jumping off a building was made aware to the public shortly after. It was said he committed suicide because he was afraid of facing the punishment for his crime.” Chloe explained.

“What? Something like that happened?” Levi asked astoundingly. I did not investigate this matter because I knew the Garrison family orchestrated everything. So I was oblivious to Morris’ death. But if that’s the case, perhaps Morris did not betray me after all. Someone must have driven him to his death. It is impossible for Morris to commit suicide out of fear of punishments!

“Alright. I understand now.” Levi hung up the phone. Then he contacted Azure Dragon to investigate the matter immediately.

Azure Dragon reported back to him after a few seconds: Morris Atkinson swore to protect Levi Group with his life. But the Garrison family set him up and forced him to jump off a building. The media falsified the news of Morris Atkinson’s embezzlement of company funds to engage in secret affairs. News reported him to have committed suicide out of fear of facing punishment.

“The Garrison family!” Levi punched a hole through the wall in anger. “I’ve misunderstood you, my brother!” Levi muttered to himself guiltily.

Zoey sensed Levi’s abnormal demeanor when he arrived home that night. She asked. “What happened to you?”

“Do you know about Morris’ death?”

Zoey was stunned. “I thought you knew all along.”

Levi elaborated. “I was only made aware of it earlier tonight.”

“Please do not act impulsively. Just let go of the past!” Zoey was afraid Levi would seek revenge against the Garrison family.

“He was my best friend! He’s dead because of me. How can you expect me to let go of this so easily? I will never forgive the Garrison family!” Levi said menacingly.

Zoey consoled him right away. “You need to calm down. Our business is still developing. We do not have the power to confront the Garrison family at the moment.”

Levi responded in an tone. “The one-month period I gave them will be up in another week. I will have them pay the price for what they did to Morris at his grave by that time!”

The Protector Chapter 65

The next day.

Azure Dragon accompanied Levi to Morris Atkinson’s grave.

Morris was not buried in a proper cemetery because of the Garrison family’s interference. He was simply buried in a secluded spot in the wild. Weeds had since covered his long-unattended grave.

Perhaps this grave will no longer be distinguishable after a few more years. “I am here to see you, my brother!” Levi said loudly. You were my first comrade-in-arms to weather the battlefield-like business world. No one will ever comprehend the bond we shared.

Levi cleared the weeds on Morris’ grave with his own hands and fixed his gravestone.

Levi took a limited-edition bottle of wine available only in the army and sat in front of his grave.

“Let’s share this quality wine today, my brother.” Levi gulped the content after he spoke.

“Azure Dragon, inform everyone in the Garrison family to pay the price for their terrible deeds here after six days.” Levi commanded.

“Understood, Sir.” Azure Dragon nodded.

“Kirin, ask Nueve to bring a few men here to fix up this grave. I cannot allow my brother’s grave to be in such a shabby condition!” Levi told Kirin.

Then he continued to drink the bottle of wine while taking a stroll down memory lane. I made a promise to Morris that I would provide him with the most luxurious Rolls-Royce during his wedding.

Levi stayed at Morris’ grave for almost an entire day.

“Let’s go and visit Morris’ parents.” Levi straightened himself.

“I’ve located his parents, Sir. They are staying in a village not far away from the city.” Azure Dragon reported.

Levi grimaced. “What? Morris’ parents worked as governmental staff in the past. They own a house in the city. So why are they staying in a village now?”

Azure Dragon hesitated briefly before he continued. “The Garrison family is behind this. They revoked his parents’ ownership of the house and their pension. So they had no other choice but to move to the village and are now barely surviving.”

Levi’s expression darkened. The Garrison family drove Morris’ parents to the brink of desperation! They would’ve been dead if not for their old age. I must destroy that wretched family!

“Let’s go! I want to visit them. I think of them as my own parents now. Anyone who dares to lay a finger on them will face certain death!” Azure Dragon and Kirin trembled fearfully as they listened to Levi’s unforgiving words. It’s been a very long time since he was so mad. I remember the last time was when he single-handedly faced the strongest battalion from those eighteen countries.

Nueve led a group of men to the spot and refurbished the grave shortly after the trio left.

Trey and all the other mafia bosses from different gangs followed Nueve. They brought no lesser than three hundred men with them. After all, it is our obligation to fulfil the task Mr. Levi gave us.

The village was not far away from North Hampton but was significantly more rural compared to the city.

The people staying in that lawless area all came from complicated backgrounds.

Homeless people and provocatively-dressed women filled the dirty alleyways.

Levi felt a heart-wrenching pain as he took in the surroundings. How can Morris' parents live in such a place?

He finally found Morris' parents abode in a small building with a total of thirty square meters located deep in an alleyway.

"Cough up the money now, you old fools! You're the only family left who haven't pay the fee!" Levi and the others heard the commotion from afar.

They realized what was happening after they entered the courtyard.

A few thugs with blonde hair were collecting protection fees from Morris' parents.

The two of them had visibly aged from when Levi last saw them six years ago. It was obvious they had suffered greatly.

"Please give us a little more time. We will receive our subsistence allowance soon. I will make sure to pay you first by that time!" Morris' father, Rowen Atkinson, was begging for mercy.

"Damn you! You told me the same thing last time." The leader of the gang raised his hand to slap Mr. Atkinson.

The Protector Chapter 66

His hand was stopped in mid-air as Levi caught his wrist firmly.

"Who the hell are you? Let go of me right away!" The leader of the gang threatened.

Bam!

Levi punched his face forcefully. His head snapped back and blood spurted everywhere.

The thug yelped in pain.

Kirin and Azure Dragon handled the rest of the thugs.

All of them scrambled away from the scene on all fours.

The leader of the gang yelled before he fled. "Damn you, old man! How dare you call for backup. I will summon Tiger here. Just you wait!"

They then left instantly.

Mr. Atkinson and his wife closed their eyes hopelessly.

Tiger was the boss in charge of the village. He had no lesser than fifty thugs working for him. And he had the guts to do as he pleased around the area.

Tiger and his subordinates maintained a living by collecting protection fees from the villagers. Anyone who did not submit the fees or was late to hand in the money would get beaten up or even crippled at times.

Tiger was a cruel man who had his share of living behind bars. His name would invoke fear in all of the villagers.

"Thank you, young man. You should leave while you can." Rowen said.

"Uncle, Aunt, it's me! Levi Garrison!" Levi introduced himself passionately.

"Levi? Is it really you? This is great. It's so good to see you after so long!" Rowen and his wife were on the verge of tears. Our dearest son, our only hope in this world, is gone. Seeing Levi now reminds us of Morris. Oh, Morris!

"Uncle, Aunt, please do not worry from now on. I will take care of you for the rest of your life in Morris' stead. No one will ever dare to lay a finger on both of you!"

Anger surged within Levi when he noticed the bruises on the old couple's necks. Bastards! They did not show any mercy to these elderlies!

Rowen glanced at the ground floor and said in a hurry. "Levi, you should leave immediately. They must have informed Tiger. He will be here soon."

"He's right. Your lives will be in danger once Tiger is here. That man is ruthless. You might even get crippled by him. Leave now while you can, my child!"

Morris' mother nudged Levi for him to run away.

"Uncle, Aunt, what will the both of you do if I leave?" Levi asked.

“Do not worry about us. We will at most suffer a beating. Moreover, our lives aren’t valuable anymore. You should survive and return to clear Morris’ name. Avenge him!” Rowen was tear-stricken as he talked.

Levi comforted them. “Fret not. I am now strong enough to protect the both of you and avenge Morris at the same time.”

“That’s not going to work. You’ve never seen Tiger in action. He even has the courage to murder someone!”

I see. This Tiger has instilled fear in everyone’s mind upon hearing his name. Mr. and Mrs. Atkinson are trembling at the mention of Tiger. That means he must have bullied them frequently. Levi thought to himself.

“Please leave now. We do not want to trouble you with this matter!” Morris’ mother was anxious. She urged them to leave while glancing at the ground floor from time to time.

“Uncle, Aunt. Please calm down. Nothing will happen now that I’m here. I want to meet this Tiger in person as well.” Levi turned to look at Kirin. “Ask Nueve and his men to come here.”

Kirin nodded. “Yes, Sir.”

“Go. Go now! It’s dangerous for you to stay.”

“No, wait. It’s too late now. They’re already here!” Rowen said frightfully.

Over ten men, wielding batons and all kinds of weapons, entered their vision. The scary man leading the group was wearing a singlet. The tattoo of a tiger was clearly visible on his torso. “Who the hell punched my brother? Show yourself this instance!”

The Protector Chapter 67

Tiger roared at the top of his lungs some distance away.

The other residents hurriedly shut their windows in fear. They wanted nothing to do with the mess.

The two elderlies grasped Levi’s arms as they heard Tiger’s voice.

Levi patted them. “There’s nothing to be afraid of.”

Tiger and his men reached the staircase swiftly, where Kirin and Azure Dragon were standing guard.

Tiger's face turned sour when he saw Kirin and Azure Dragon's imposing manner.

He sensed danger from the menacing aura exuding from their bodies.

"Who hit my brother?" He asked.

Tiger was furious because no one had ever dared to defy him in the village. He had always gotten his way each and every time. So it was an unprecedented scenario for his subordinate to be hit by another person. That's the reason why he came to seek revenge in person.

Levi said with a smile. "It was me."

"Aren't you the daredevil? Are you Rowen's relative? How dare you call for help to beat up my subordinate, Rowen Atkinson? I will torture you and your wife to my heart's content!" Tiger threatened the old couple blatantly in front of Levi.

Rowen and his wife were scared out of their wits. They begged for mercy right away. "Please forgive my nephew, Mr. Tiger. I beg of you. I promise there will be no next time."

"I can forgive him if you pay me five hundred thousand for the medical fee. I will call it even if each of them breaks one of their arms." Tiger sneered.

"What? Five hundred thousand?" The couple of elderlies were dumbstruck with terror. "You can't do that! They are still young. So please don't break their arms. Please break our arms instead!" Tears streamed down Rowen's cheeks as he begged Tiger.

"That's not going to work! Your arms are not as worthy as theirs. Hey! Are the three of you deaf? Don't force me to break your arms myself!" Tiger's lips curled upward maliciously.

Vroom! Vroom! Vroom!

The sound of tires screeching reverberated in the alleyway as multiple cars closed in on the area.

The sound attracted Tiger and his men's attention. They turned around to look at the source of the noise.

More than ten vans skidded to a stop.

Countless men rushed out from the vans and dashed into the courtyard.

Click. Click. Click...

The men assembled themselves around the narrow space and surrounded Tiger and his subordinates. The newcomers glared at the thugs with a baton in each of their hands.

“Mr... Mr. Tiger... I’ve counted their numbers. They have around two hundred people here, not counting the other one hundred standing outside.” A thug reported shakily.

“What? three hundred people?” Tiger and the other thugs were astounded.

They scanned the surroundings and discovered a problem. Every one of these men is huge and muscular. I can tell that they are skilled fighters because of the sinister aura they are giving off. These people are on a completely different level compared to us. Each of them can defeat five of us effortlessly.

“What’s going on here?” Tiger was trembling in fear as well.

At that moment, a smaller group of people appeared. Nueve walked in front with three other mafia bosses following closely behind him.

“Lord Nueve? And that’s Trey and two other Mafia bosses from North Hampton?” Tiger recognized the powerful men because he was an experienced thug. I am at most qualified to be Trey’s subordinate, while Nueve is certainly a figure far beyond my reach.

“What brings you here, Lord Nueve?” Tiger greeted him politely with a bow.

But Nueve completely disregarded Tiger. He walked towards the staircase and addressed Levi courteously. “Please give us your orders, Mr. Levi.”

The Protector Chapter 68

“What?” Tiger and his men were caught in disbelief as they witnessed the scene unfolded in front of their eyes. Lord Nueve is so polite towards him. Who is that young man?

Everyone was dumbfounded, including the Atkinsons. They stared at Levi incredulously. I can tell these people are far more capable than Tiger based on his reaction. But even they had to pay respect to Levi.

Levi merely waved his hand. "They bullied my godfather and godmother. I'll let you handle the rest."

He led the old couple into the house after he spoke.

Nueve turned around slowly and smiled at Tiger and his men ominously after he received the instruction. "Beat them up. Show no mercy!"

Tiger and his subordinates almost passed out from hearing Nueve's words.

"Rush them!"

Tiger and his gang members were helpless facing the crowd. The fighters barely warmed up themselves, but Tiger's party was already lying on the ground.

Nueve's men hit their opponents with batons mercilessly.

Tiger received the worst beating. Soon, he was lying in a pool of blood as his body twitched continuously.

His men received a similar fate.

Levi could not care less about the things happening outside the house because he had faith in Nueve's competency in dealing with the men and cleaning up the mess. I am quite sure I will not see a drop of blood on the floor by the time I walk through the door.

"You are so impressive, Levi." Rowen looked at Levi in amazement.

Levi smiled. "Be rest assured, Uncle. I have the capabilities now. I will make the entire Garrison family kneel before Morris' grave six days later to pay the price for their terrible deeds!"

"Huh?" Rowen thought the idea was unthinkable. But he felt a tiny bit of hope after what happened earlier.

"Uncle, Aunt, I hope I can have the honor of referring the both of you as my godparents from now on. We will move out of this place tonight!"

Levi brought the Atkinsons away shortly after.

The courtyard was spotless as Levi expected. Moreover, there wasn't a single trace of the crowd left behind in the courtyard.

Levi arranged for Rowen and his wife to stay in a five star hotel that night. He planned to purchase a new villa for them the next day.

Meanwhile, the Garrison family received Levi's invitation.

Bryan Garrison said mockingly, "Levi has the guts to summon all of us to kneel before Morris Atkinson's grave. He must be dreaming!"

Joseph responded nonchalantly. "Levi does not have a clue about the Garrison family's influence, after all."

"Haha, I can't wait to see the desperate expression on Levi's face six days later!" Ben and Jaycob laughed out loud.

Rick was a meticulous man so he couldn't help but asked. "Bryan, are you absolutely sure Nueve is the man who is supporting Levi?"

Bryan reassured him. "I am certain about that, Uncle. Nueve went to clean up Morris Atkinson's grave today and even visited his parents' house in the village. I also heard Nueve beat up the gang leader, Tiger, who's in charge of that area. So I'm sure Nueve is the person! There's no mistake about this."

Rick nodded. "That's a weight off my chest in that case. But we should proceed with caution nonetheless."

"Don't worry, Rick. I've contacted Jack Smith earlier. He promised to come in person and bring along all his men to support us." Joseph put on a wicked smile. "Levi Garrison, we had our ways of ruining your life six years ago. Now, we will force you to realize how easily we can muck up your life again."

The Protector Chapter 69

The next day.

Levi contacted Chloe, but all he could hear was her mumbling through the speaker as if she was occupied.

"Tell me your location. I'll come find you." Levi said impatiently.

“I’m at North Hampton city center’s Sue’s Western Cuisine Restaurant.”
Chloe informed Levi of her whereabouts.

Levi drove his car towards the aforementioned restaurant immediately.

Meanwhile, in Sue’s Western Cuisine Restaurant.

Chloe sat at a table awkwardly.

A middle-aged couple sat beside her. They were her parents, Theodore Macy and Suzy Shorts.

A young man and another middle-aged couple sat opposite them.

Chloe’s parents had forced her to attend a blind date. She was closing in on her 30s, after all. So it was understandable why her parents are starting to get anxious. The young man seated opposite her was Vernon Tate. He has a net worth of over ten million, and owned five properties across North Hampton.

Vernon Tate was determined to get what he wanted for the blind date today.

Although Chloe was an excellent woman, Vernon was certain that he was still better than her. His parents shared the same sentiment, which explained their relatively arrogant attitude during the meeting.

Theodore Macy and Suzy Shorts were satisfied with Vernon Tate as their potential son-in-law.

“If you do not have any objection, Theodore, let’s allow the young ones to get together.” Vernon’s father, Larry Tate, said.

“Ah? That’s great! Vernon is an outstanding young man. He’s the right man for our daughter.” Chloe’s parents were delighted.

Chloe knew Vernon was a good fit for her in every aspect. But the thought of someone flashed across her mind all of a sudden. She immediately rejected the idea. “No way. I think we still need more time to understand one another.”

“What? How much further do you need to understand one another? You’re sufficiently familiar with each other by now.” Chloe’s rejection did not amuse Larry and Vernon Tate.

“This is moving too fast. We’ve only known each other for less than a month!” Chloe steeled her resolution.

Vernon looked at Chloe surprisingly. “We can always get to know each other better after we start dating. Moreover, I think we are already familiar with one another. We are not getting younger, after all. I believe our relationship is heading towards marriage.”

Theodore, Larry and their wives nodded in agreement. “He’s right.”

At that moment, a figure arrived at the scene.

The man was none other than Levi Garrison.

He grabbed Chloe’s arm and ordered assertively. “Follow me. I need to talk to you about something.”

Everyone was dumbfounded, including Chloe.

She did not expect Levi to be in such a rush to the extent of grabbing her by force.

“Who are you? What are you doing? Let go of her!” Larry Tate was the first to regain his senses.

Theodore and Suzy eyed Levi curiously. “Who is he, Chloe? He looks a little familiar.”

Chloe answered helplessly. “He’s Levi Garrison.”

Chloe’s parents were taken aback. “What? Levi Garrison? No wonder he looks familiar. What is he doing here? Why are you still keeping contact with him?”

“We... we used to be in the same class. It’s only natural we kept in touch.” Chloe explained.

Larry Tate questioned immediately. “What is the meaning of this, Theodore? Did you arrange for Chloe to undergo two blind dates at the same time?”

Levi finally grasped the situation.

Theodore quickly clarified. “That’s not it. He’s her ex-classmate. Moreover, he’s nothing compared to Vernon. Levi is just a poor loser who’s fresh out of prison. He doesn’t even have a job.”

Larry Tate's expression softened significantly upon hearing that. They could not help the exaggerated reaction because they sensed the odd emotions glinted in Chloe's eyes upon Levi's arrival.

The Protector Chapter 70

Vernon Tate breathed a sigh of relief. He sized up Levi mockingly. "So, your friend is jobless, Chloe? I do have a security guard position available in my company. I'll offer him six thousand a month because he's your friend. His physique is perfect for the job. What do you say?"

Levi ignored him. He apologized to Chloe. "I'm sorry to have interrupted your blind date."

Chloe shook her head. "That's alright. Did something happen?"

"I am buying a house for an uncle and aunt of mine. So I came to you." Levi said.

"Oh. I see. I didn't know you have an uncle and aunt looking for a house? Hehe..."

Vernon and Larry sneered. A house? I guess Levi can at most afford the tiniest apartment in this city. Any place over two million will be impossible in his case.

From Theodore and Suzy's perspective, they thought Levi was looking for Chloe because he wanted a special offer. Chloe is a manager, so she has the authority to give out special discounts. There has been plenty of people looking for her to buy a house in the last few years because of this reason alone. Those people can save up to a few hundred thousand at times because of Chloe. Levi must be here for the special offer.

"I understand now. You're not satisfied with just Bayview Garden, I suppose?" Chloe was an experienced sales agent. She figured out Levi's intention after listening to him. He's looking for a villa. Otherwise, he could've directly purchased a house at the Bayview Garden Real Estate Agency.

"Yes." Levi nodded.

"I do have a few properties that might interest you. I'll bring you to our company now." Chloe then turned to look at the people seated around the table. "Uncle Larry, aunt, I'll be back soon. I have to handle this matter now."

Larry got up from his seat and suggested with a smile. "Why don't we accompany you? We can take a look at your workplace as well. What do you say?"

"Let us join you, Chloe." Vernon sounded excited. Then he glanced at Levi tauntingly.

Chloe did not agree to their request immediately. Instead, she turned to look at Levi as a gesture to seek his opinion.

Levi nodded. "Sure. Let's go together."

"Alright. We'll go together then."

Vernon paid for the bill before exiting the restaurant.

He said nonchalantly with the receipt in his hand. "A meal for six people that costs less than five thousand. This is cheap."

Theodore added cheerfully. "You must have luxurious meals even on normal days to consider this as a cheap meal, Vernon."

Vernon glanced at Levi before he replied. "Indeed. I spend at least two thousand for every meal because of my work."

Chloe's parents could not be fonder of Vernon.

Chloe said to Levi when they arrived at the underground parking lot. "I'll fetch you there."

"Okay. No problem. You are more familiar with the destination anyway."

In the end, Chloe fetched her parents and Levi, while Vernon brought his parents as they headed towards their destination.

They were almost at the suburbs after driving continuously for over an hour.

Vernon and his father scoffed. "We're almost at the suburbs now. I'm afraid he's going to buy a house in the village."

Vernon's mother added. "He should consider himself lucky to be able to afford a house."

But half an hour later, Chloe's car came to a halt in front of a villa area.

“Why are we here, Chloe? I thought your friend is going to buy a house?” Vernon asked curiously after getting out of his car.

Chloe looked at him in astonishment. “We are here to buy a villa!”

Silence filled the air following Chloe’s explanation.

The Protector Chapter 71

Everyone was astounded as they looked at Levi and Chloe in disbelief.

“Vi... villa?” Vernon asked with a shaky voice.

“That’s right. If we are talking about a normal house or flat, Bayview Garden will have served the purpose.” Chloe said.

Larry Tate and his son were flabbergasted. Our family can barely afford a house in Bayview Garden, not to mention the villas owned by Bayview Garden Real Estate. These villas cost at least thirty million to over a hundred million. Can Levi Garrison really afford a villa? We don’t believe this.

Even Theodore Macy and his wife were doubtful. We are relatively familiar with Levi Garrison’s current condition. He certainly can’t afford a villa. He’s no longer the billionaire he was 6 years ago.

Just as they were pondering about Levi’s current situation, a group of people rushed out from the villa area.

Chloe’s parents recognized the man leading the group of people.

He was Bayview Garden Real Estate’s boss, Jim Spencer, as well as Chloe’s superior. They met with him once during the annual general meeting.

Jim Spencer walked forward hastily in Levi’s direction and greeted him excitedly. “It’s an honor to meet you, Mr. Garrison. You could’ve informed me before your arrival. It is my duty to welcome you in person.”

“Welcome, Mr. Garrison!” All the staff working under Bayview Garden Real Estate lined up in two neat rows to welcome Levi. They even prepared a red carpet and flower petals to celebrate his advent.

Vernon, Larry, and the others were stupefied. What’s with this grandiose formation?

Theodore and Suzy on the other hand started to see Levi in a different light.

Levi said casually. "There's no need to go through all the trouble. I'm only here to purchase a villa."

Levi's words took Larry and his family by surprise.

Theodore questioned his daughter to confirm the thought in his mind. "Did he buy a house from you previously?"

"Yes. He bought the most expensive unit in Bayview Garden and paid the fifty million in cash. He's now the VVIP of Bayview Garden Real Estate." Chloe explained.

Her parents nearly passed out from the shock. This is crazy. He paid fifty million in cash?

"Please follow me, Mr. Garrison." Jim led Levi into the sales center in person.

The sales center was embellished with champagne and decorations in preparation to celebrate Levi's purchase.

"May I know what kind of villa are you looking for, Mr. Garrison?" Jim asked.

"The most expensive one." Levi answered without any hesitation. I will make it up to Morris by treating his parents well from now on. Buying them the most expensive villa is the least I can do.

Levi's nonchalant request frightened the Tate family members. Even if we combine all of our assets, they are not worth even a hundred million, yet Levi is here casually acquiring a villa worth more than our family's net worth.

Their faces reddened in embarrassment when they thought of the insults they threw in Levi's face earlier. Perhaps we are just some clowns in his eyes, making a fool out of ourselves.

"Please follow me, Mr. Garrison. This is the most expensive villa we have. The price is one hundred and twenty million, but we will provide you with a twenty million discount. The size of this villa is..." Jim began to explain the details of the villa.

"Okay. That's good. I want to move in tonight. Can you handle the rest for me?" Levi asked.

“Absolutely! We will also provide you with three housekeepers, a butler, a van, and a chauffeur.” Jim offered.

In the end, Levi paid for the hundred million villa in full amount using his card while everyone stared at him.

Then Levi pointed at Chloe and said, “She’s my agent. The commission belongs to her.”

“Please be rest assured, Mr. Garrison. I understand what you mean.” Jim smiled.

The Protector Chapter 72

Chloe did not know how she should respond to the turn of events. I can receive at least a fifty million commission from this sale alone. But I did practically nothing.

Chloe’s parents now realized Vernon’s success was actually nothing to be amazed by. Their family’s wealth was insignificant either. “Larry, let’s discuss our children’s matter another day.” Theodore said mercilessly.

“Huh? But...” Larry and his family were left rooted to their spot dumbfoundedly while Chloe and her family left swiftly.

Levi brought the Atkinsons to the new villa in the night. “Please stay here from now on. I will take good care of you in Morris’ stead!”

Levi finally felt at ease after he was done arranging his godparents’ accommodation.

...

Meanwhile, the Garrison family was keeping track of Levi’s movements as usual.

Bryan Garrison sneered. “Levi bought a house for Morris’ parents and even vowed to avenge Morris’ death.”

“Hmph. He’s just a piece of trash. I doubt he will ever find out the truth behind Morris’s death, much less carrying out any revenge.” Victoria responded disdainfully.

“Is the Lopez family aware of this matter? Bryan, I want you to inform them immediately. I want them to be present as well five days later. I want the Lopez family to see with their own eyes as I torment Levi. I can finally avenge Ashton after so long!” Jaycob spoke coldly.

Bryan Garrison’s arrival at the Lopez family scared Harry and the others.

Members of the Lopez family were fearful after they were made aware of the gathering at the cemetery.

Bryan threatened them. “I will wipe out the entire Lopez family if I do not see all of you there five days later.”

“Please be rest assured, Mr. Garrison. We will definitely be there!” Harry Lopez’s legs wobbled.

It was only until Bryan left that Harry unleashed his anger. “Levi is really a curse! Why must he go and offend the Garrison family? Now he’s invited trouble for our family too. I’m going to kill him! Let’s go to Aaron’s house now!”

Harry brought everyone to Aaron’s place. He asked Aaron to summon Zoey and Levi as well.

Levi and Zoey saw a lot of cars parked outside the house when they arrived. They were startled to see the crowd inside the house. Every member of the Lopez family was there.

“You’re a bastard, Levi! You’re the cause of the Lopez family’s demise!” Aaron rebuked Levi the moment he walked through the door. Everyone else started hurling abuse at him too.

Zoey shifted her gaze onto Levi incredulously after she knew about the whole story. She sniffled. “I told you not to provoke the Garrison family. Why did you not listen to me? I know you want to avenge Morris, but have you ever thought about us? Have you ever thought about me?”

“I...” Levi was interrupted the moment he started to speak.

“No! You never thought about anything from my perspective! You always do as you please. Now you’ve completely offended the Garrison family and involved my family in this mess! The Lopez family will cease to exist in North Hampton if the Garrison family is dissatisfied with us. Our lives are all in danger now. Do you want to drive me to my death before you’re contented?” Zoey was tear-stricken.

Levi did not explain. They will not listen to anything I say anyway.

“What should we do now?” Aaron panicked.

“There’s only one way to resolve this...” Harry voiced out. “Zoey must divorce him! Cutting all ties with Levi Garrison is the only way to secure ourselves now.”

The Protector Chapter 73

Samuel and Shaun agreed to the proposal. “That’s right. They must get a divorce! This is the only method to protect our family now!”

Although Aaron and his wife were mistreated by the Lopez family all along, they took their side in that argument.

Aaron said coldly, “Deal with your own mess. Do not trouble us. We agree for the both of you to get a divorce as well.”

Caitlyn nodded in agreement. “That’s right. I thought we would be able to live peacefully. But you had to stir up this mess. You no longer have the right to stay in the Lopez family!”

Everyone firmly requested for Zoey to divorce Levi. They did not want him to stay a second longer in the family.

Levi could not care less about the outsiders’ opinion. He only wanted to know Zoey’s stance.

Levi looked at Zoey and asked her. “What do you think? I will respect your decision.” Levi would not oppose Zoey’s wish if she desired to divorce him.

“To be honest, you’ve disappointed me greatly. You gave up a peaceful life to deliberately provoke the Garrison family. This is no longer a problem revolving around yourself because the Lopez family is now involved as well. The Garrison family can crush our family effortlessly if they wish to.” Zoey expressed her thought harshly.

Harry and the others were satisfied with what Zoey had said. Zoey will divorce Levi if she’s blaming him now. In this way, our family will escape this predicament unscathed.

“Can you please take into consideration others’ points of view before you do anything in the future? To prevent dragging my family into this mess, I have decided...”

Levi shut his eyes as he awaited Zoey’s judgment. It seems like she wants a divorce, after all.

“I will leave the Lopez family and sever all my ties with all of you. I choose to stay by my husband’s side and weather through every hardship together.” Zoey took a step forward and stood next to Levi.

Levi fell into a daze as he processed Zoey’s words in his mind.

He was overjoyed. She is indeed my wife!

Everyone else inside the house was bewildered by Zoey’s announcement.

Aaron and Caitlyn shouted simultaneously. “What do you think you’re doing, Zoey Lopez? You must get a divorce! Divorce him!”

Zoey shook her head. “No. I will not get a divorce. Why would I wait for him for six years if I wanted a divorce? Grandpa, if you desire to cut off all ties with Levi, then please banish me from the family.”

“This...”

Harry was reluctant to make the final call because Zoey was her granddaughter at the end of the day. Moreover, she was handling a large project with high returns at that moment.

“Hurry up and make the official statement, Grandpa. We can safeguard the Lopez family by sacrificing her alone.” Samuel urged. Other members of the family convinced Harry as well.

Aaron and Caitlyn had no other choice but to stand aside and watch on helplessly.

Levi’s voice was heard just as Harry was about to speak. “Do you believe in me? I will settle this matter without causing any trouble to the Lopez family. But I will only do so if you promise not to banish Zoey from the family.”

“No one will believe you. Where did you find the confidence to utter those words?”

“Even Zoey is disappointed in you, not to mention us.”

Levi's statement triggered a wave of dissatisfaction to erupt among the members of the Lopez family.

At that moment, Zoey was doubtful as well. So she did not expect anyone else to have faith in Levi.

Harry Lopez glanced at Levi and Zoey in an unforgiving manner before he announced. "I have decided to banish Zoey Lopez from the Lopez family. From now on, she will have no relationship whatsoever with the Lopez family. I will clarify this situation with the Garrison family and make a public declaration as well. We are no longer related to the both of you from now on. You will have to settle your own mess!"

The Protector Chapter 74

Aaron and Caitlyn looked at Levi disappointingly. They insulted him angrily. "You're just a piece of useless trash! You are not even capable of protecting your own wife! How can you stay indifferent after your wife is banished from her family? How can you call yourself a man?"

Levi merely held Zoey's hand and left.

He glanced at everyone else before exiting the house. "All of you will regret the decision you've made today."

"Hmph! Regret? Impossible!" Everyone sneered.

The news of Zoey's banishment was quickly spread all over North Hampton. Everyone knew Zoey because of Levi, so the news became a sensation in no time.

Bryan Garrison laughed out loud after hearing the news from Harry Lopez himself. "Haha. This is great! Even the Lopez family cut ties with him. Levi is truly all alone now!"

"Hmph! Just you wait, Levi. Nueve will ditch you too. I'll see what you can do by that time."

"Go to hell, Levi! Coincidentally, we can bury you next to your best friend in that cemetery."

Everyone in the Garrison family was pleased. In their opinion, Levi would be doomed after a few days.

Levi said with a smile after they arrived home. "You do believe in me, Zoey."

"No. I don't! I don't think you have the capabilities to settle this matter. But I promised to stay by your side for the rest of our lives during the birthday banquet the other night. So I will tough through everything with you." Zoey explained solemnly.

Levi grinned. I am getting more excited now that the time limit I gave the Garrison family is coming to an end.

That night, Azure Dragon suddenly messaged Levi: I've found out the truth behind Morris Atkinson's death. Someone filmed the entire process before he died.

Levi straightened himself in a jerk when he saw the message. His sudden movements startled Zoey.

"I'm heading out for a while!" Levi left in a hurry.

Azure Dragon was waiting for him in an SUV when Levi reached the Bayview Garden neighbourhood's entrance.

Azure Dragon began explaining after Levi got into the car. "Sir, Mr. Morris managed the company well after your imprisonment six years ago. He made the appropriate arrangements to prevent the Garrison family from taking over Levi Group."

Levi knew well of Morris' abilities. He's a business prodigy. He was adept at manipulating the rules and regulations to his advantage.

"The Garrison family wanted to get rid of Mr. Morris because he interfered with their plans. So they laid a series of traps for him and faked evidence to frame him. Embezzlement was one of their tricks. Mr. Morris' bank account was top up with one billion a day before your wedding. A few houses were suddenly registered under his name as well, with women living in those houses. Those women were the mistresses reported by the news. They faked plenty of evidence to falsify crimes against Mr. Morris. The Garrison family even included charges of corruption against Mr. Rowen."

Levi finally understood that the Garrison family had been planning the scheme for a long time after listening to Azure Dragon's detailed report. They wanted to eliminate me, as well as my most loyal subordinates.

"I've already sent people to look for the four mistresses I mentioned. They are in transit as we speak." Azure Dragon added.

Levi met with his eyes. "Then where are we going now?"

"We are going to Queen Private Investigator Agency. This agency has been active for years. They are skilled in digging dark secrets from the past. They possess a lot of dirty secrets of wealthy people and celebrities in North Hampton. Coincidentally, someone from the agency filmed Mr. Morris' death scene." Azure Dragon elaborated.

"Okay. Let's go and have a look at the evidence at Queen Private Investigator Agency."

The Protector Chapter 75

I know the Garrison family orchestrated Morris' death. But I want to know every single detail. The process of how they drove him to jump off the building, everyone involved in the process, as well as every turn of events. I must be informed clearly of all these elements!

Queen Private Investigator Agency was unexpectedly located in a luxurious manor.

Levi would not have believed that place to be a private investigator agency if he wasn't made aware of it in the first place.

Once they reached the entrance, the security guards requested them to get out of the car and undergo a thorough security check before they could enter the manor.

Azure Dragon whispered. "Sir, I did not reveal our identities."

Levi nodded. "Okay."

Levi seized the opportunity to size up his surroundings. This alloy door is custom-made. I think it's bulletproof. These guards are clearly seasoned men. They are unusually calm and collected. I can even sense their menacing aura. Perhaps they are veterans from the battlefield.

The guards searched their bodies while wearing a pair of white gloves.

They allowed Levi and Azure Dragon to enter only after an exhaustive search.

A designated guide led them through a special tunnel after they entered the manor.

Both of them arrived at a meeting room after some time.

A middle-aged man with neatly combed hair sat on a leather sofa. He held a glass of red wine in his left hand and a cigar in his right.

Behind him stood six men clad in suits. Their demeanor and presence revealed their competency in combat. Nueve's men were incomparable to these professional bodyguards. Moreover, they were evidently mercenaries judging from their varied skin complexion.

"Sir, he is the boss of Queen Private Investigator Agency, Francis Hicks, also known as Mr. Secrets. A lot of wealthy people and celebrities fear him the most." Azure Dragon explained.

Francis puffed on his cigar. "Levi Garrison? You're finally released from prison. It is quite a feat for you to be acquainted with Nueve."

Levi and Azure Dragon merely stared at him. I guess he is not just an Average Joe to be able to obtain that information. But of course, I revealed that piece of information myself. My database is highly confidential and classified. There is only one person in Erudia who has the right to access my database.

Levi smiled. "I assume you are aware of my intention here?"

"Of course! You want the video of Morris Atkinson's death." Francis returned the smile.

"What is your condition then?" Levi asked.

"Wonderful! I like dealing with straightforward people like you!" Francis placed down his wine glass and raised his hand. "Five hundred million, and the video is yours."

Azure Dragon gasped. It seems to me this Mr. Secrets is a greedy man.

"Five hundred million? That's a little expensive." Levi replied nonchalantly.

"Ah, you should know that I risked my precious life to take that video! We are talking about the powerful Garrison family, after all. They can easily annihilate me at any time. This video affects too many parties, aside from the Garrison family. A lot of influential forces will be hunting me if I hand this video to you. So five hundred million is a fair amount." Francis complained.

What he did not know was that he had revealed a piece of information unwittingly. There are other parties involved in Morris' death aside from the Garrison family. Levi leaned closer while maintaining eye contact with Francis. "Aren't you afraid I will seek revenge against you?"

Tap, tap, tap...

The bodyguards behind Francis moved in at once as they glared at Levi.

I can cripple Levi Garrison with a single command if I want. Francis puffed on his cigar again and sneered. "I know Nueve's power is almost comparable to Jack Jr., but he is just a mere thug at the end of the day. I do not take him seriously, much less you!"

Francis was a confident man. He could not care less about Nueve.

The Protector Chapter 76

"Haha. You are absolutely right. Nueve is nothing compared to you." Levi said honestly. Francis Hicks's imposing manner alone is superior to Nueve's.

Levi sat on the sofa and poured himself a glass of wine as well. He took a sip and said, "I can tell you firmly, Mr. Secrets. Five hundred million is not possible. But we can negotiate the price..."

Francis glanced at Levi. "I am a decisive person. Offer me a price then!"

Levi did not say a word. He raised his hand as well.

Francis was unsettled by that sight. "Are you kidding me? Fifty million? That's not possible! I can consider if you offer me four hundred million!"

Levi grinned. "You're mistaken, Mr. Secrets. It's not fifty million."

Francis stood up angrily. "Five million? You're outrageous, Levi Garrison! Let me be frank. I do not care about Nueve. You will face the consequences if you infuriate me!"

Levi patted Francis's shoulder. "Calm down, Mr. Secrets. I am a sensible person. So how would I offer you five million?"

Francis's expression softened visibly. He assumed Levi was making a joke earlier. But Levi's subsequent clarification shocked him to his core.

“I’m offering you five.”

The atmosphere inside the meeting room reached its boiling point afterward.

Bam!

Francis slammed the table and yelled at Levi furiously. “Are you fing kidding me? I’ll kill you!”

Crack crack crack...

The six bodyguards behind Francis Hicks drew their bayonets in just a split second.

Tap tap tap...

At the same time, the door to the meeting room swung open. Over thirty men rushed into the room. A total of forty men surrounded Levi and Azure Dragon, leaving them with no room to escape.

Every one of these bodyguards is highly skilled and proficient in combat. Francis looked at Levi mockingly. “Have you never heard of me from Nueve? No one in the entire North Hampton has the guts to lay a finger on me. Even the most powerful Mafia boss, Jack Smith, has to pay respect to me! So how dare a nobody like you dares to make fun of me? You must be tired of living!” Francis was burning with rage.

Levi was unfazed. “I am not making fun of you. I am sincere in doing business with you. five is more than enough to pay for the video.”

Francis Hicks and his bodyguards were engulfed by wrath after listening to Levi’s words. He wants to buy the invaluable video with only five? Is he dreaming?

Francis asked Levi. “Are you serious?”

“I’ve never been more serious my entire life. I’ll pay you five for the video.” Levi nodded.

“Then I should be serious as well! You can either buy that video from me for five hundred million or let me chop off your arms. Make the decision yourself!” Francis panted heavily in anger.

However, both Levi and Azure Dragon burst with laughter after listening to his threat.

Francis and his bodyguards were dumbfounded by their reaction.

“Do you really think you can leave this place unscathed?” Francis put on a wicked smile. “Do you know how I established my influence in this city? These bodyguards are the pillars of my success! Let me be honest with you. They are all mercenaries and veterans from the battlefield. All of them participated in wars and killed over ten people. Their combat abilities far exceed Nueve’s men. No one dares to harm me because of them. Not even Jack Smith himself!”

The Protector Chapter 77

“I’ve spent millions to nurture each of these bodyguards and spend over ten million on them every year.” Francis roared in Levi’s direction. “Who are you to compete with me? Do you think you can fight against me with Nueve’s support? What a joke!”

Based on Azure Dragon’s investigation, Francis Hicks is telling the truth. No one in North Hampton dares to lay a finger on him, despite being just an owner of a private investigator agency. His bodyguards do overpower the underworld forces in this city. “Are you done blabbering?” Levi asked casually.

“Get them!” Francis commanded in rage.

But at that moment, they saw Azure Dragon slowly removing his clothes beside Levi.

Thunk!

Everyone was stunned after Azure Dragon removed his singlet.

What they saw was a staggering amount of horrible scars covering every inch of his skin.

The bodyguards were war veterans. So they were aware of the cause of the scars. Most are bullet wounds. Some are scars left behind from flying shrapnel and the corroded areas of the skin are caused by chemical weapons...

Even people who experienced the battlefield like them could not imagine a person sustaining so many injuries that left so many scars on their bodies.

These wounds are only present on those godlike beings on warzones. They must have participated in thousands of wars to accumulate those scars.

The bodyguards were certain that Azure Dragon was a soldier as well. A legendary soldier nonetheless!

Francis was caught in perplexity when he noticed the terrified expressions on his bodyguards' faces. But he yelled at the same time. "What are you doing? Are you afraid? You're frightened by the sight of a few scars? Take him down, and I will reward the person who did it with a million!"

Finally, one of the bodyguards rushed forward with his bayonet after the order was given.

Bam!

Azure Dragon kicked that bodyguard and sent him flying backward. He crashed against the wall and remained on the ground with his body twitching.

"Gang up on him!"

All of the bodyguards closed in on Azure Dragon simultaneously.

Thump thump thump...

"Ugh..."

Wails of pain reverberated inside the room. A few moments later, only Azure Dragon and Francis remained standing inside the meeting room while Levi sat unmoving on the couch.

All forty bodyguards were lying on the ground, covered in their own blood. The scene was a grotesque sight to behold.

Francis was petrified. He scanned his surroundings in utter disbelief.

"The King of War from the Five Great Wars Regiment of Erudia, Azure Dragon..."

"And the God of War of Erudia..."

The mercenaries lying on the ground finally recognized Levi and Azure Dragon since they once crossed paths with each other on the battlefield.

The God of War's legendary achievements was spread throughout all warzones and battlefields for an extended period of time.

The mercenaries worshipped Levi as their God whenever they go to war. Placing faith in the God of War provides us with hope!

Now, the bodyguards were kneeling before Levi, worshipping him after recognizing him for who he was. "God... God of War... the legendary God of War..."

Mr. Secrets profession was to collect intelligence and exclusive information. So he knew about the God of War's arrival in North Hampton. Francis was even in the know of many details compared to others.

He grasped the situation immediately after listening to his bodyguards. They are the God of War and Azure Dragon in person!

"Can we discuss the price now?" Levi swirled the wine in his glass around.

Thump!

Francis groveled at Levi's feet and begged for mercy frantically. "It's my fault for failing to recognize the almighty God of War. Please spare my life! I beg you..."

Thump thump thump...

Francis slammed his forehead against the floor continuously to express his sincerity.

The Protector Chapter 78

Levi scoffed. "What do I need your life for? I only need the video!"

"I will give you the video, Sir! I will give you anything you want!" Francis was scared out of his wits.

"I'll pay you five as promised." Levi said.

Azure Dragon took out the money from his pocket and tossed it in Francis's face.

"You don't have to pay me, Sir..." Francis forced a hideous smile.

“Just take it...” Levi raised his tone.

Francis kept the five in his pocket obediently and swiftly handed the USB containing the video to Levi.

“Play it.”

Francis hurriedly played the video on the screen after receiving the order.

Soon, a footage was shown on the screen. The background was the rooftop of Levi Group’s building.

A lot of people were there, and they were divided into 3 parties.

Morris Atkinson was by himself. The other party was the Garrison family. Namely Bryan, Victoria, Ashton, Lionel, and Tammy. While the last party consists of a few youngsters, including Philip Hardy, Kit Page, Misty Dennis, and Holly Nelson.

Those youngsters were Morris’ close friends. Holly Nelson was Morris’ love interest as he had been pursuing her.

In the past, Holly promised to become Morris’ girlfriend officially after Levi’s wedding. He was his groomsman while she was Zoey’s bridesmaid.

The rest of the video was easy to comprehend.

The Garrison family threatened Morris to jump off the building. Otherwise, they would kill Holly and the others. They also mentioned about harming Mr. and Mrs. Atkinsons.

Morris had no other choice but to fulfill their wish in order to protect his parents, lover, and friends.

But Holly and the three other people smiled cheerfully after Morris leaped off the rooftop.

I see. So they conspired with the Garrison family since the very beginning to force Morris to jump off the building. The Garrison family easily took control of Levi Group once Morris was gone. Levi grimaced after he finished the video. The temperature inside the room seemed to have dropped below freezing point.

Francis could not help but shudder. This man in front of me is too scary. His wrath will bring countless deaths...

“Let me explain to you, Sir... Holly Nelson and the others joined forces with the Garrison family to set Mr. Morris up. After his death, Holly Nelson received benefits from the Garrison family. She is now the president of Star Entertainment.

Mr. Morris' close friends received promotions as well. They now managed a company of their own, respectively. They are responsible for Mr. Morris' defamation and they are the ones that leaked the falsified information about him to the public.” Francis offered.

Crack-

Francis stared in horror as Levi crushed the wine glass in his hands as it shattered into pieces. “All of them must die!” The words slipped through Levi's gritted teeth.

Francis's legs wobbled. He fell onto the ground on his knees.

“Let's go. We are visiting Holly Nelson tomorrow!” Levi ordered. Then he exited the place with Azure Dragon.

Francis knelt on the floor for a long time even after the both of them had left. His body was drenched in cold sweat. I agreed to Jack Smith's request when he contacted me 2 days ago.

He wanted me to tag along to Morris Atkinson's grave to intimidate Nueve and Levi Garrison. I will not accept that request now, even if I have a thousand lives to spare.

Levi Garrison is the legendary God of War! Now I understand why the only piece of information I could obtain about Levi Garrison during his imprisonment was that he went to the same prison as Nueve. That's because he left the prison a long time ago. His profile is now classified and protected by the army!

The Protector Chapter 79

Levi and Azure Dragon arrived at a manor afterward. It was the place Azure Dragon and the others were staying in.

“The four women are all here, Sir.” Azure Dragon whispered.

“Alright. Bring them in.” Levi ordered.

He scanned through the women’s profile on the couch. These women are executives in large corporations nominally. But they are, in fact, professional mistresses. Their profession requires them to seduce influential and highly-ranked figures and become their mistresses.

Once they’ve successfully established that status, they will deliberately leave pieces of evidence to spread the news of their infidelity and indirectly ruin these influential figures’ reputations. Morris’ case is a perfect example.

All of them tried to get close to him before his death. They purposefully allowed the paparazzi to capture photos of them together. After the fake news was released, the pictures of them entering hotels as a couple became solid evidence to back their identity as Morris’ mistresses. This is their job description, and they are usually paid handsomely after completing their tasks.

The four women entered the room after a short while.

Their appearance, demeanor, and temperament were completely different from the girls in nightclubs. They gave off an aura of that of a woman with professional career.

All of them eyed Levi arrogantly.

Levi compared their faces according to their profiles in his hand. “Nicole, Gina, Tasha, and Sasha.”

“Who are you? Why did you bring us here?” Nicole and the others glared at Levi.

“Perhaps all of you can no longer recognize me. Let me introduce myself. I am Levi Garrison.”

“What? Levi Garrison?” All four women’s faces fell when they heard that.

“Don’t be nervous. I am only here to clarify something with you. What happened to my best friend, Morris Atkinson, six years ago...”

They were startled as Levi raised his tone on purpose.

“I will let all of you leave unharmed if you confess the truth.” Levi stared at them.

Nicole and the other girls exchanged glances before they responded. "What? Everything about him was reported in the news, and that was the truth! He brought that on himself. What do we have to do with that matter? Let us go immediately. Otherwise, you will face the repercussions."

Levi smiled. "But your professions are clearly stated here on your profile. See?"

"You're slandering us! We did not do that! Morris Atkinson lied to us. Moreover, what's wrong with us staying with him if he's single? That useless piece of shit brought that on himself! We've got nothing to do with his death."

"That's right. Let us go now. Otherwise, you will receive a similar fate, Levi Garrison!" Nicole and the others threatened him. They were not afraid of Levi because they had someone supporting them.

"So, you're not confessing?" Levi asked.

"We're not telling you anything. There's nothing to tell anyway." Nicole said in a pompous manner.

Tap...

Levi did not speak further. He placed a gun and a few bullets on the tabletop.

All the colors drained from all four women's faces simultaneously.

"Do bear in mind that I have limited patience." Levi stared at them coldly.

Nicole crossed her arms in front of her chest and sneered. "You're not scaring anyone now. What are you going to do? Kill us?" We have a powerful figure backing us. Does he think we are some immature young girls? We know he's just trying to intimidate us. So there's no reason to be afraid at all.

Levi kept quiet. He disassembled a bullet and poured the gunpowder on the tabletop. Then he lit the gun powder with a match.

Whoosh!

Burning flame erupted as the heat washed over the women.

"Argh!" They stepped backward startingly because they were afraid of getting burned.

The Protector Chapter 80

Azure Dragon grabbed Nicole's arm and brought her forcefully to where Levi was.

Levi disassembled another bullet and poured the gun powder on Nicole's face.

Nicole was already struggling with all her might trying to free herself, but her effort was for naught.

The other girls were trembling in fear because they sensed the dreadful atmosphere.

Click!

Levi lit another match and brought the flame close to Nicole's face.

Levi's slightest mistake could cause a reaction between the fire and gun powder, leading to the disfigurement of Nicole's delicate face.

"No! Please don't! I'll speak. I'll tell you everything!" Nicole yelled hysterically as she stared unblinkingly at the flame.

Thump!

Nicole slumped onto the floor after Azure Dragon loosened his grip.

"What about the rest of you?" Levi looked at the other girls.

Thump!

They knelt before Levi one after the other. "We'll tell you everything. Rick Garrison came to us and orchestrated all these to happen. He registered the houses under Mr. Morris' name too. We are telling the truth. We even have evidence to back our words! They're all in our cellphones..."

All four of them were intelligent women. They knew they had to keep the evidence to protect themselves.

All the pieces of evidence were sufficient to prove Rick Garrison was the mastermind behind the falsifications.

“Ah, I see. So it is him!” I’ve always thought of him as the most righteous person in the Garrison family. He wears glasses, gives off a gentleman vibe, and even graduated from a prestigious university abroad. Moreover, Rick Garrison was the only one who treated me well in the family previously. Perhaps he’s the evilest and most cunning among all of them. Rick Garrison might be the family’s strategist judging from this scheme he pulled off. He must’ve planned this for a long time to overthrow me six years ago.

“Hahaha... I see now... Let them go.”

Nicole and the others were frightened when they saw a few soldiers walking around on their way out. They began to feel curious about Levi’s identity.

“I’ve finally understood everything related to Morris’ death. Very well! I will see for myself how carefree your current life is, Holly Nelson!” Levi curled his lips menacingly.

The next day, Levi went to Star Entertainment early in the morning.

He saw Holly’s posters all over the building’s lobby. She appeared to be radiant and dignified in the pictures.

“She was only an insignificant model in the past. She managed to achieve her success today because of Morris. Ha...” Levi sneered while examining the poster.

Azure Dragon whispered beside him. “I’ve made an appointment with Holly Nelson in advance, Sir. It’ll be our turn to meet with her soon.”

“Okay.”

A receptionist walked up to them after a short while. “Mr. Dragon, please follow me...”

The President’s office was located on the 36th floor.

A few security guards stood near the entrance. They allowed Levi and Azure Dragon to enter only after a thorough security check.

Holly was working inside the office.

She did not spare a glance at the visitors even after she heard movements at the door. “Please wait for a moment, Mr. Dragon. I’ll be there with you very soon!”

Levi voiced out at that moment. "Aren't you doing well, Holly Nelson?"

"Hm?" Holly felt the voice sounded familiar. She slowly looked up and exclaimed when she saw the visitor in her office. "Levi Garrison?"

The Protector Chapter 81

Holly was not afraid of Levi because of her current status. But she was reluctant to meet with Levi because she felt guilty towards Morris.

Levi smiled. "That's me. Why are you so nervous?"

Holly's legs were wobbling. But she put on a tough front. "What are you talking about. I'm not nervous in the slightest."

Levi took a seat on the sofa. "I am here to visit you. You were the bridesmaid for my wedding, after all."

"I am doing well. But we are not really close anyway, so there's no need for us to catch up with one another. Moreover, as you can see, I am busy now. So, you should leave immediately." Holly was quick to chase Levi away.

"Relax. I'm here to talk business." Levi beamed at her.

"What kind of business?" Holly asked curiously.

"It's about a video that I think you'll be interested in!"

Holly rebuked him angrily. "I am not interested in any video! Leave now!"

"Perhaps you should take a look at the video before you say that." Levi suggested.

Holly moved closer to him. "What video is that?"

Levi showed her the video of Morris' death.

Holly's face turned paper white instantaneously. She gasped after watching the video. "Where... where did you get the footage?"

"You don't have to know about that. I am here to talk business with you." Levi kept the smile on his face.

"That's impossible. That video is fake! Why would I harm Morris Atkinson? He was the one who cheated on me in the past!" Holly retorted.

Levi got up from the couch. "Well fine, I should leave then."

“Wait. Tell me what you want.” Holly said. “Alright. I’ll admit. I did harm him, but what about it? You’re not much better than me. You know about the truth, yet you decided to blackmail me instead of avenging your best friend. You are also a scum! What happened to you? Did the harsh reality teach you a lesson? Is that why you’re blackmailing me? To maximize the benefit you can get from me?”

Holly was under the impression that Levi was desperate because he was recently released from prison. So he needed to blackmail her for a living. Little did she know, Levi was merely toying with her.

“I’ll offer you a price. One billion!” Levi smirked.

“What? One billion? Are you crazy? Why don’t you go blackmail the Garrison family instead?” Holly was infuriated.

Levi smiled. “The Garrison family will have the ability to resolve this issue if I leak this video to the public. But what about you?”

“I...” Holly panicked. “But one billion is too much to ask from me. I cannot agree to that.”

Levi offered Holly a piece of his mind. “There are four of you inside the video and you’re telling me one billion is too much to ask for? I’ll give you one day to collect the money. I will release this video to the public if I do not see the money by tomorrow morning. I shall take my leave then.”

Levi got up and left the office with Azure Dragon.

Thump!

Holly collapsed onto the sofa in despair. It’s impossible for me to collect one billion even with my status as Star Entertainment’s president. Frankly speaking, it is already a difficult task for me to gather two hundred and fifty million even if we distribute the amount evenly among the four of us. “This isn’t going to work. I have to discuss with all of them!”

Holly dialed a few numbers swiftly after. The numbers belonged to the few people who stood beside her in the video, Philip, Kit, and Misty.

The three of them were acquainted with Morris through Holly. They became his closest friends, second only to Levi Garrison. But they betrayed him in the end.

The trio arrived at Holly’s office before long.

They were presidents in their respective companies now, with high net worth. Holly described everything that happened inside the office earlier to them.

The Protector Chapter 82

“What? A video? There’s really a video?” Misty was doubtful.

Holly nodded. “Yes. I’ve checked repeatedly. The video is real.”

“Does that mean our crimes will be exposed once the video is released to the public?” Philip asked grimly.

Kit nodded. “You’re right. Everyone will know about the Garrison family’s involvement as well. They will definitely sacrifice us by that time. I believe all of us are quite familiar with Rick Garrison’s tactics.”

Misty was on the verge of tears. “Then what should we do now?”

Holly said helplessly. “That’s the reason why I asked all of you here. We need to come up with a plan together.”

“Is there any other choice? We can only pay the one billion to purchase the video. Otherwise, we will have to face our demises.” Philip said.

“Yeah. What else can we do?” Kit was dejected.

“Guys, we are talking about one billion here. Each of us will have to cough up two hundred and fifty million. Are all of you willing to part with that sum of money?” Misty reminded them.

“Do we have any other choice even if we’re unwilling?” Philip retorted.

Bloodlust glinted in Holly’s eyes. “There is one other way...”

“What?” Everyone looked at her simultaneously.

“We will meet up with Levi Garrison and murder him on the spot!” Holly showed her ruthless nature.

The rest of the group exchanged glances and nodded. "You're right. This problem can be solved with Levi's death. I'll spend a million to hire a few hitmen. There's no need to waste a billion because of this."

Holly nodded. "Alright. it's settled then."

"I will contact the hitmen since I have some connections." Philip volunteered.

"Misty and I will pay for the fee." Kit offered.

"Then I will contact Levi and arrange the venue." Holly said menacingly.

Holly wasn't anxious to contact Levi after they were done with the arrangements.

She waited until 11 o'clock in the night before she dialed Levi's number.

"I've prepared the money, Mr. Garrison. Let's meet at Lufthansa Club at 12 o'clock. Remember to bring along the original video." Holly said.

Levi agreed. "Alright. See you then."

At that moment, Holly and the others were already there at Lufthansa Club.

Philip was the club owner, so they chose that venue to facilitate the execution of their plan.

"I've hired five professional hitmen for one million each." Philip said.

"Okay. All we have to do now is wait for Levi's arrival." Holly was a little nervous. But she was more excited to murder Levi.

Levi and Azure Dragon reached the club a few minutes before midnight.

Holly welcomed them at the entrance. Then they entered a private room.

Levi asked after he took a seat. "Where's the money? How are you going to pay me?"

At that moment, Holly and the gang revealed a menacing smile on their faces.

"Do you think you deserve the money, Levi Garrison? You will not be able to spend the money anyway!" Philip shrieked angrily.

“That’s right. You’re really a fool, Levi. You came here just because we asked you to.” Kit laughed in a sinister manner.

Levi looked at Holly. “What’s the meaning of this?”

“Hand over the original video now, Levi Garrison! I can consider sparing your life if you comply.” Holly demanded.

Bam!

Five professional hitmen entered the private room.

“There’s no use for you to struggle. They are all trained hitmen. You will never escape this place!” Philip threatened Levi.

“Give us the video immediately. Or else, we’ll kill you!” Everyone urged.

The Protector Chapter 83

Levi smirked. “Regretfully, I did not bring the video with me. But I arranged for someone to send it over. I think he will be here soon.”

“What? You did not bring the video with you?” Holly and her friends were enraged.

“Kill him!” Philip ordered.

But Holly stopped them. “Wait! Let’s obtain the video first before we decide on doing anything.”

Francis Hicks arrived at Lufthansa Club with the video shortly after.

Holly wanted to snatch the USB containing the video from Francis, but Levi was quicker.

“I can give you the USB, but you must pay me the money.” Levi smiled.

Kit shouted. “You’re still concerned about the money even under this kind of circumstance, Levi?”

“Do you really think we’ve prepared any money for you? Let me be honest then. We will destroy the video today and murder you as well!” Philip and Misty laughed maliciously.

Holly crossed her arms in front of her chest and sized up Levi in a pompous manner. "You are as ignorant as Morris was on the day of his death!"

Levi slowly looked up when he heard Holly's words.

All the colors drained from Holly and the others' faces when they met with his eyes. What's with him? His eyes... They're so scary.

In that moment, they thought they witnessed the gory and gruesome scenes on the battlefield reflected in Levi's eyes. Screams and wails of agony reverberated beside their ears.

They were completely petrified by Levi's frightening gaze.

Click!

Francis snapped his fingers.

Bam!

Crack!

The door to the private room was bust open.

Over a dozen men rushed into the room.

Crackle, crackle...

All five professional hitmen were left lying in a pool of blood before they could even react.

The scariest part was when Holly and the others felt something pressed against the back of their heads.

They broke out in cold sweat as clarity washed over them.

"This..."

Holly and her friends were dumfounded when they saw the muscular men with various skin complexion surrounding them.

"You're all a bunch of dimwits, Holly Nelson. Do you think five professional hitmen are sufficient to kill this man? What a joke!" Francis sneered.

Holly, Kit and Misty turned to look at Philip incredulously.

Philip explained helplessly. "I didn't know they're this weak! I hired them because they worked for the infamous Jack Jr.!"

Jack Jr. was the son of Jack Smith. He shared a similar influence on Nueve in the underworld of North Hampton. Jack Jr. operates a company providing security services, but in actual fact, it was a cover for a hitmen organization.

Philip spent five million to hire the hitmen from him. But he certainly did not expect them to be so useless.

Philip, Kit, and Misty were trembling fearfully. Holly, on the other hand, was relatively calm. She looked at Francis astoundingly. "Who are you?"

"They are here because of me!" Levi said as he walked up to Holly.

Chills traveled down Holly's spine. She asked frightfully. "What... what do you want?"

"I want to let you know the repercussions of committing a betrayal!"

Levi gave a forceful slap across Philip's face causing him to pass out immediately.

At this moment, Holly was losing her mind. Her legs wobbled uncontrollably as she sobbed unwittingly in terror.

The Protector Chapter 84

Thump!

Philip fell onto the floor.

Misty and Kit yelped hysterically.

"I want all three of you to come to Morris' grave and repent three days later. Obey me, and I can consider sparing your lives. Otherwise, you will all end up like him!" Levi patted Holly's cheek. They will have to pay for their sin with their lives. But I want them to repent in front of Morris' grave first.

Levi left with his men afterward, dragging Philip's unconscious body with them.

Holly and the others were rooted to their spots as they shivered continuously.

They never wanted to be caught up in such a dreadful situation again in their lives.

Levi said to Francis after they left Lufthansa Club. "Buy me a coffin."

The next day.

A commotion broke out in front of the Garrison family's manor early in the morning.

The scream startled every member of the Garrison family.

Joseph Garrison hurried to the front door in his pyjamas. "What's going on?" Everyone was puzzled as well.

They were horrified to see the coffin placed in front of the manor's entrance. The striking red color of the coffin was an appalling sight to behold.

The guards of the Garrison family looked at the coffin warily. No one knew what was inside the coffin because none of them had the guts to move closer.

"Who sent this coffin here?" Joseph yelled. Who dares to provoke the Garrison family? Are they trying to court death?

Jaycob said coldly. "This must be Levi's doing, father! He's sending us a warning."

"That's right. It must be him! Who else would have the guts to do this?"

Joseph ordered. "Someone take a look at the coffin. I want to know what's inside."

But no one dared to step forward because they were scared out of their wits. What if it's a bomb?

Bryan Garrison wanted to go, but he hesitated.

At that moment, Rick Garrison, with his gentle appearance, moved closer to the coffin and shoved the cover.

Everyone gasped when they saw the body lying inside the coffin.

“That’s Philip Hardy.” Rick recognized the person immediately.

“What?” Everyone was shocked.

“Levi is quite something to track them down. I’ll have to question Holly Nelson in person now.” Rick said.

Holly, Misty, and Kit arrived at the Garrison family house after a short while. They explained everything and concluded Levi’s ability to the Garrison family.

“He’s a scary man. There were a lot of bodyguards from overseas beside him last night. The professional hitmen we hired were like toddlers when facing them!” Holly recounted the terrifying experience.

“Hmph! That’s nothing to be afraid of. Can he ever outnumber our family’s force?” Bryan and the others were unfazed.

Rick expressed his thoughts calmly. “We should be more careful, nonetheless. I am acquainted with a group of mercenaries from overseas. I will bring them here since we have time to spare.”

Jaycob smiled. “That’s great! Levi will surely face his doom by that time.”

Holly and her friends could finally relax after realizing the Garrison family’s ample preparations. “How dare Levi asked us to repent? He should just go to Hell instead!”

“I can’t wait to see the surprises my son will be showing us two days later.” Ben Garrison and his wife grinned smugly. They were Levi’s adoptive parents, but they had always treated him like a servant.

Bryan and Victoria laughed wickedly. “Oh, how we wish time would go faster!”

The Protector Chapter 85

While he was at home, Levi received a phone call from Zoey, asking him to visit the construction site.

Surprisingly, Levi only saw Nueve’s men working when he arrived.

Zoey’s workers were nowhere to be seen.

Levi walked up to Zoey and asked. “What’s going on?”

“What’s going on? This is all because of you! My workers knew about my banishment from the Lopez family after the media reported the news. They did not want to be dragged into this mess, so they are on strike temporarily. The same thing is happening at Imperial Meadows too. Even my secretary left her job. What should I do now?” Zoey stared into Levi’s eyes.

Levi could understand the workers’ sentiment. The Garrison family is infamous for their cruelty. No one would want to offend them. It is a given they would want to leave because even the Lopez family banished Zoey to save themselves.

Levi scratched his head embarrassingly. “I’m so sorry. I did not consider this outcome.”

“Are you finally aware of the consequences of your recklessness? Why didn’t you listen to me? Were you not satisfied with our current lifestyle? The Garrison family was not troubling you, and I am given the opportunity to handle this huge project. We had a great life, so why did you have to go to such great lengths to destroy it?” Zoey bombarded Levi with volleys of questions.

Levi took a deep breath and answered with a smile. “You’re right. We were living a peaceful life. But what should I do about Morris? Do you think I can be at ease, knowing how my best friend died and choose to do nothing? I, Levi Garrison, am a man of honor. I do not provoke others deliberately, but they crippled me and falsified crimes against me. They put me behind bars and robbed everything away from me. So how can you expect me to stand by and watch them get their way? You should be the person to know me best. I never take anyone’s possession by force, but I will not allow others to step all over me and remain indifferent! Especially when this matter concerns my best friend’s life and my previous glory. I must retrieve the things that were taken away from me at all costs!”

Zoey looked at Levi in disbelief.

She gained revelation at that moment. I’ve always neglected Levi’s feelings. He is shouldering plenty of burdens as well.

Zoey hugged Levi and sobbed in his arms. “I will stay by your side through thick and thin, Levi.” She glanced at the construction site and continued. “I may lose my life anyway in two more days. So why do I have to care so much about all these things?”

Levi was touched by Zoey's unwavering love for him. "Do not worry, Zoey. I will handle this."

"Okay. I believe in you." Zoey said what she had to because she wanted to encourage Levi. But she did not have any faith in Levi because she could not picture his victory against the Garrison family. Anyway, I've steeled my resolution to accompany him to the end, even if we will die together.

The promised day was nearing in a blink of an eye.

The next day would be the day Levi would confront the Garrison family as he vowed.

Zoey prepared a lot of dishes that night and even brought out the best wine they had.

Levi suddenly said after he gulped a few glasses of wine. "Tomorrow will be the day we prosper, Zoey. Should we give your family another chance to join us?"

"You..."

Zoey's first instinct was to rebuke Levi. He's still talking big! But Zoey smiled warmly after she considered the possibility of them dying together the next day. "Really? Will we prosper?" I should do my best to please him in our final moments.

The Protector Chapter 86

Levi thought that Zoey had believed him, so he said immediately, "Of course it is real! From tomorrow onwards, Levi Group will be returned to us. Isn't it a piece of great news?"

He stared at Zoey and said in a serious tone, "Truth be told, I cannot stand every single one from the Lopez family! However, they are your family members after all, so I would like to give them another chance."

"As long as they agree to support us tomorrow, and accept the Garrison family's repentance and apologies, I will support them. After it is over, Levi Group will take them in and boost the status of the Lopez family in North Hampton!"

Zoey felt really vexed listening to Levi's boasting.

It was impossible.

Firstly, the Garrison family would not apologize.

Secondly, Levi was certainly unable to defeat the Garrison family, and would not be able to retake the Levi Group.

However, considering the last day, Zoey did not interrupt him.

“Alright, then please give the Lopez family another chance!”

Zoey smiled slightly.

Levi successfully got through to Harry’s phone.

“Levi, what are you doing? Calling for help? Let me tell you, there is no way!”

Harry’s frustration could be heard from the other end.

Levi laughed, “For the sake of Zoey, I have called you Grandpa! I have decided to give you a chance. As long as you support me and stand by my side tomorrow, I guarantee that the Lopez family will replace the Garrison family!”

“Scram! Are you a lunatic? What is going on in your head?” Harry shouted into the phone.

After that, Levi then made another call to Aaron.

In the end, Aaron gave him a harsh scolding too.

“By the way, I will come and pick Zoey up tomorrow. If you want to court death, then go ahead on your own!”

Beep beep beep...

Aaron hung up the call angrily.

This time round, Levi kept quiet.

The Lopez family is missing out on such a brilliant opportunity!

Zoey laughed.

It is definitely going to end up like this.

Who would believe all these?

Unless he was a fool!

Zoey teased, "It's alright. Rejecting you will be their greatest regret in life! We gave them the chance, but they did not want it!"

"Mmm, indeed. The Lopez family has missed the chance."

Before they slept at night, Azure Dragon called.

"God of War! The commander-in-chief of the First Army of North Hampton just sent a message saying that everything is ready! The 100,000 soldiers are ready to go!"

"Good, listen to my command!" answered Levi.

Levi and Zoey woke up very early the next day.

Then, they drove Zoey's car to Morris' grave.

On the way there, Zoey saw tanks passing by and a line of soldiers marching forward. The sight of it was beyond her imagination.

There was an approximate number of tens of thousands of people.

A long line of tanks had formed with no end in sight.

In addition to helicopters flying around in the sky, there were also bombers flying by at low altitude, making a loud humming sound.

Zoey was astonished. She asked, "Is there going to be a military exercise?"

Levi laughed and said, "I guess so."

"Isn't it such a large scale exercise? I have never seen one with such a scale before!"

Zoey was shocked.

Why are there bombers and cannons here?

Very soon, the both of them had arrived in front of the grave.

Nueve's men had already prepared the grave, while Levi had also erected a tombstone.

Zoey paid her respects to Morris.

Until now, Zoey could not believe that Levi was able to defeat the Garrison family.

Was Levi going to do this alone?

She thought that Levi would find some people to help him out. Seeing that he was going to be on his own, Zoey was extremely disappointed. No, she was in despair.

Secondly, Levi was certainly unable to defeat the Garrison family, and would not be able to retake the Levi Group.

However, considering the last day, Zoey did not interrupt him.

"Alright, then please give the Lopez family another chance!"

Zoey smiled slightly.

Levi successfully got through to Harry's phone.

"Levi, what are you doing? Calling for help? Let me tell you, there is no way!"

Harry's frustration could be heard from the other end.

Levi laughed, "For the sake of Zoey, I have called you Grandpa! I have decided to give you a chance. As long as you support me and stand by my side tomorrow, I guarantee that the Lopez family will replace the Garrison family!"

"Scram! Are you a lunatic? What is going on in your head?" Harry shouted into the phone.

After that, Levi then made another call to Aaron.

In the end, Aaron gave him a harsh scolding too.

“By the way, I will come and pick Zoey up tomorrow. If you want to court death, then go ahead on your own!”

Beep beep beep...

Aaron hung up the call angrily.

This time round, Levi kept quiet.

The Lopez family is missing out on such a brilliant opportunity!

Zoey laughed.

It is definitely going to end up like this.

Who would believe all these?

Unless he was a fool!

Zoey teased, “It’s alright. Rejecting you will be their greatest regret in life! We gave them the chance, but they did not want it!”

“Mmm, indeed. The Lopez family has missed the chance.”

Before they slept at night, Azure Dragon called.

“God of War! The commander-in-chief of the First Army of North Hampton just sent a message saying that everything is ready! The 100,000 soldiers are ready to go!”

“Good, listen to my command!” answered Levi.

Levi and Zoey woke up very early the next day.

Then, they drove Zoey’s car to Morris’ grave.

On the way there, Zoey saw tanks passing by and a line of soldiers marching forward. The sight of it was beyond her imagination.

There was an approximate number of tens of thousands of people.

A long line of tanks had formed with no end in sight.

In addition to helicopters flying around in the sky, there were also bombers flying by at low altitude, making a loud humming sound.

Zoey was astonished. She asked, "Is there going to be a military exercise?"

Levi laughed and said, "I guess so."

"Isn't it such a large scale exercise? I have never seen one with such a scale before!"

Zoey was shocked.

Why are there bombers and cannons here?

Very soon, the both of them had arrived in front of the grave.

Nueve's men had already prepared the grave, while Levi had also erected a tombstone.

Zoey paid her respects to Morris.

Until now, Zoey could not believe that Levi was able to defeat the Garrison family.

Was Levi going to do this alone?

She thought that Levi would find some people to help him out. Seeing that he was going to be on his own, Zoey was extremely disappointed. No, she was in despair.

The Protector Chapter 87

Zoey stopped worrying.

After all, she was originally going to die with Levi.

So what was there to worry so much about?

Shortly after, a Haval sped by.

Aaron and Caitlyn alighted from the car.

Levi had thought that Aaron would stand by his side to show him support.

However, he did not expect Zoey's parents to come and drag Zoey into the car.

Zoey screamed in shock, “Dad, Mom, what are you doing? Why are you pulling me away?”

“You cannot stay here and court death with this useless piece of trash!” Aaron shouted.

“That’s right, you need to come with us! We won’t let you die with him!” Caitlyn held tightly on Zoey.

Zoey finally realized why her parents came.

They wanted to bring her away.

She was starting to feel anxious as she was about to be dragged towards the car.

Zoey struggled and shouted at Levi for help, “Levi, save me! Save me!”

“Dare he? If he dares, then I will make sure both of us perish together!” Aaron stared angrily at Levi.

Levi looked at Zoey coldly, and did not take any other action.

In the end, Zoey struggled to break free but to no avail. Aaron held onto her as Caitlyn drove away.

She looked out of the windows at Levi, who was standing there alone and cried bitterly.

It seemed that they were going to go on their separate ways from that moment onwards.

However, no matter how much Zoey cried, Aaron was not going to give in.

After taking Zoey home, Aaron and Caitlyn made sure that she was taken care of.

It was the Lopez family’s wish to bring Zoey home.

There was no need for her to die with Levi.

As the Lopez family had ended their relationship with Levi, they would not turn up today.

After Zoey left, Azure Dragon, Kirin, Phoenix, Black Tortoise and White Tiger, the Five Great Wars Regiment appeared in black suits.

Azure Dragon had even brought Rowen and his wife over.

“Has Ms. Lopez left already?” Azure Dragon asked.

“It’s good that she left. I do not wish to reveal my identity yet!” Levi said.

Kirin walked over to Levi and said, “God of War, The commander-in-chief of the First Army reported that they are ready and prepared to set off! They are stationed three kilometers away and can reach in ten minutes!”

After hearing what was said, Levi nodded his head. “Mmm, tell them to wait for my command!”

“Understood!”

Kirin nodded his head.

At this moment, Nueve arrived. He did not bring many people with him.

Those who came were big shots, like Trey.

They had donned their suits. Several people stood by after receiving Levi’s orders.

Azure Dragon stood beside Levi and said, “God of War has just received news that the Garrison family is about to set off.”

At the Garrison family’s manor.

Joseph waited for everyone in the Garrison family to suit up and get ready to leave.

Jaycob was growing really impatient and could not wait any longer.

His son, Ashton, was still lying in the hospital. The chances of him waking up were really slim.

He swore that he must definitely tear Levi up into a dozen pieces!

As for Rick, he had always looked gentle. There was a smile on the corner of his mouth, which made him look very mysterious.

Bryan glanced at Victoria and said, "My little brother was crippled six years ago because of me. I also made you crippled this time round! Do you still remember this baseball stick? That's right, it's the one I used six years ago! Hahaha..."

Bryan revealed a cruel smile as he tossed the baseball stick into the car trunk.

Ben and Winnie smiled coldly. "Son! If not for the fact that we took you in, you would have died! Do you actually want to kill us now? This is ridiculous!"

Holly also arrived together with two others.

The Protector Chapter 88

"Quickly! We cannot wait to see Levi embarrassing himself!"

Joseph leaned against the car door and waited with a walking stick in his hands.

"Dad, all of us are prepared! Also, the mercenaries that Third Brother has hired are in their positions!" Ben said.

Joseph nodded his head, "Mmm, the Garrison family alone can get rid of Nueve several times, let alone Jack Smith and the others! This time around, I will get rid of Levi and at the same time, let everyone in North Hampton know how powerful the Garrison family is!"

"Dad, Jack Smith is here."

Rick ran over.

There was indeed a black car parked in front of the Garrison family's manor entrance.

The second car was a Lincoln limousine.

The car door opened, and an old man walked out. He wore a black traditional Chinese jacket, with two legendary pearls in his hand.

He looked like he was well into his twilight years, giving people the impression that he was dying.

However, there was a light in his eyes that one could not simply ignore.

Especially when he lifted his head, there was a powerful presence lingering that made people breathless.

He was North Hampton's leading mafia boss, Mr. Jack Smith.

As the name implied, the King of North Hampton was here.

There were thirteen people following behind Jack Smith.

They were named North Hampton's Invincible-13.

13 powerful experts!

The Invincible-13 used to be like Nueve and were mafia bosses in their own districts, but they were vanquished and came under Jack Smith as his underlings.

Not only that, Jack Jr. was also here.

He was part of the Palm Killer Organization!

Seeing that Jack Smith had arrived, Joseph brought everyone from the Garrison family over to welcome him.

With the Garrison family's current abilities, they did not dare to compete with him!

"Today, we invited Mr. Jack Smith here to help us show our prowess. There is no need to take action. Your presence alone would definitely scare Levi away! He will not dare to do anything to us." Joseph laughed.

Jack Smith did not care. It was already a waste for him to come down today just to make an appearance on behalf of the Garrison family.

He looked at Joseph and asked, "What about the project you were talking about?"

Joseph immediately responded, "Tomorrow! We can proceed tomorrow!"

It turned out that the Garrison family had lured Jack Smith over with a lucrative project so that he was willing to make an appearance.

"Good!" Jack Smith nodded his head.

Another car arrived shortly.

A middle-aged man alighted from the car.

“This is Smiling Buddha, who controls half of North Hampton’s entertainment clubs! He keeps a very low profile, but apart from me, no one else is his opponent in North Hampton!”

Jack Smith introduced the middle-aged, chubby man to the Garrison family. The chubby man laughed. He looked friendly and kind, but he was actually very cruel.

“As for this person, he is Bob, who is engaged in the jade jewelry business. He is well-known in North Hampton, and Nueve has suffered a big loss before thanks to him!”

“And Jimmy Jacuzzi! Good old Jimmy is outstanding. He owns six casinos in Hong Kong, Macau and other places. He is involved in all kinds of businesses!”

Jack Smith introduced everyone.

The Garrison family were in awe of their presence.

All of these impressive figures from North Hampton’s underground world showed up this time!

Levi’s supporter was only Nueve. There was more than a dozen of them here who could compete with Nueve and were even better than him.

All of these people, combined with the Garrison family’s power, would mean that Levi was in hot soup. Levi was unable to beat them, given their mighty forces.

Jack Smith looked at his watch, and said, “It’s time. Let’s set off!”

“Let’s go!”

Immediately, a long line of cars set off toward Morris’ grave.

The Protector Chapter 89

Many people were surprised to see a long line of vehicles.

What is happening in North Hampton?

The Lopez family was shocked to find out what was happening.

“Jack Smith, Smiling Buddha, Bob and the others have all gone there! It is frightening!” Samuel shook in fear.

Harry drew in a breath. “Oh my god! Levi is going to be in deep trouble this time!

“This is really scary! I heard that there are thousands of people involved!”

“It is fortunate that we have broken all ties with him in time. If not, the Lopez family would be involved as well!”

Shaun and the others drew in their breaths fearfully.

Henry laughed. “Levi, you are really naive! What do you have to fight with the Garrison family? They have become so powerful!”

Zoey had received the news that there was a long line of vehicles on the roads in North Hampton.

She was sobbing hard, knowing that there were so many people and vehicles heading in a certain direction.

How is Levi going to manage this on his own?

“You are not allowed to go anywhere! Even if Levi is dead, you cannot go anywhere!”

Aaron and Caitlyn stared fixedly at her.

The Garrison family and Jack Smith’s army proceeded to the grave in a majestic manner.

On the way there, Jack Smith said to Joseph, “Francis Hicks is actually not coming.”

Joseph laughed. “He is a mafia boss who likes to remain hidden, so he probably does not want to participate in such trivial matters.”

Jack Smith laughed too. “That’s right. If not for the project, I won’t turn up either.”

Everyone was waiting in front of Morris' grave.

Rowen and his wife were a bit worried, and could not help but persuade Levi, "Levi, why don't we just forget about this? The Garrison family is too powerful, and we cannot beat them after all!"

Levi smiled and reassured them, "Please rest assured. I will be able to manage the Garrison family!"

Nueve, Trey and the others also laughed. "No matter who they are, they will succumb to us obediently!"

Very soon, there was a sound of explosion.

Everyone saw the impressive line of cars. Luckily, the surrounding area was big and deserted enough to accommodate them.

Rowen and his wife were shocked at the vast number of vehicles. There were at least tens of thousands of them!

Most of them were MPVs and trucks.

The number of people inside these trucks was unimaginable!

The cars in front were luxury limousines.

One of the car doors opened, and Joseph and the others got down slowly.

Everyone from the Garrison family held their heads up arrogantly. They were high-spirited.

Their purpose today was not only to get rid of Levi and Nueve but also to show the Garrison family's powerful connections to the whole of North Hampton!

They had an air of arrogance around them and completely disregarded Levi.

After seeing them alighting from the cars, Nueve, Trey and the others went pale.

"North Hampton's Jack Smith... Jack Jr... Smiling Buddha... Bob... Jimmy..."

They uttered out all their names in astonishment.

In North Hampton, they were the real big shots. As compared to them, Nueve and Trey were mere gangsters.

Any one of them was able to get rid of Nueve and Trey.

“I’ve got no idea what benefits the Garrison family has offered them, but there are so many of these big shots gathered here!”

Nueve drew a sharp breath.

At the sight of Nueve, Trey and the others looking at them in shock, all the members of the Garrison family laughed.

Things were proceeding according to their expectations.

Nueve and the others saw the King of North Hampton like a fearful mouse spotting a cat.

They could not help it!

The Protector Chapter 90

However, they saw Levi standing there like an upright spear. He had an indomitable spirit and looked inspiring.

The Garrison family members looked angry.

“Levi, do you not realize that danger is about to befall you?” Joseph snorted.

Levi laughed and nodded his head when he saw the Garrison family looking at him.

Bryan and Victoria smirked. “Let’s see how you are still able to keep up that smile of yours later.”

“That’s right! Your supporter, Nueve is nothing more than an ant!”

Ben and his wife could not continue watching this.

As for Jack Smith and the other big shots, they were just for show.

The real trump card was of course their underlings.

“Gosh! The Invincible-13 are here! This is the first time!”

When Nueve, Trey and the others saw Jack Smith and the 13 men behind him, they drew in their breaths.

The Invincible-13 was the group of master experts in North Hampton. For most cases, one or two of them were enough to bring things to order. All 13 never appeared together like this before. Now that all of them had shown up, something major was about to happen.

A large group of people followed behind the Invincible-13. There were hundreds of people, all dressed in black, with weapons strapped to their waists.

Jack Smith had revealed his trump card. There was a gathering of 500 thugs!

Not only that, Smiling Buddha, Bob and Jimmy's subordinates also appeared at once. They followed behind the Invincible-13.

There were about a thousand people in total!

With such a massive scale of people present, something was definitely up!

The Garrison family also did not lack resources and men!

They too took out their trump card. They had spent a sum of money to hire a lot of security personnel. So there were about 500 people in total.

Rick was cautious, so he had hired a group of mercenaries. Even though there were just a few dozens of them, they had the necessary weapons with extremely strong combat power.

All in all, there were about 2000 people.

Nueve, Trey and the others felt fear and trepidation in the face of disaster. Their hearts were in their mouths.

There are too many people!

Rowen and his wife were too shocked as they witnessed such a sight.

There were too many people after all.

Seeing the mass of people behind him, Jack Smith commented, "Mr. Garrison, you are making a big fuss! Just 10% of them will do!"

Joseph laughed in embarrassment, "Sorry! I am quite cautious in my dealings because I want to avoid the possibility of making mistakes!"

"Alright, then. Today, I, Jack Smith will give you a bit more power!"

Jack Smith waved his hand. Nearly two thousand people surrounded the cemetery, stood guard and kept watch on all three levels of it. Not even a bird could get in.

They looked like they had the intent to kill as they gripped tightly on the weapons around their waists.

At the sound of a command, they would rush out and slash intruders into pieces.

Jack Smith stepped forward and sneered, "Nueve and others, are you not going to kneel down already?"

"Yeah! You guys do have some guts to think of competing with us with that little bit of capability of yours!"

Bob, Smiling Buddha and the others laughed grimly.

Nueve and Trey were boiling with rage when they saw Jack Smith mocking them. "King of North Hampton, you are right in saying that we have always respected you. But it is impossible for us to do so today!"

"Seems like all of you want to protect Levi with your lives?"

"What benefits have you gained from him, I wonder? All of you are willing to be his slaves!" Jack Smith teased.

Nueve snorted, "Jack Smith, you will never understand who you're facing today!"

"Hahahahaha..."

After hearing what he said, the rest laughed out loud.

"Isn't he just another piece of trash that has been released from prison?"

The Protector Chapter 91

“Hahahahaha...”

Nueve and Trey sneered this time round.

It made Jack Smith feel strange.

“His status and identity are what all of you desire and aim for!” After Nueve said this, everyone began mocking him again.

No one could believe that a person who had just been released from prison would actually be someone so powerful and admirable.

Rick, who was more prudent, digested Nueve’s words properly to figure out what he meant.

It seemed like Levi had a bit of power and status now.

He could be because he had met a benefactor in prison.

But so what?

No matter how brilliant he was, he was of no match to Jack Smith.

Also, he could not deal with so many groups working together.

No matter what, Levi only had one way out and that was death.

Levi waved his hand. Nueve and Trey kept their mouths shut, and stood at a corner obediently.

Levi looked carefully at Jack Smith and the others, then laughed and said, “Jack Smith?”

“Impudent brat! Do you think a b*stard like you have the right to address the King of North Hampton this way?” Joseph shot angrily.

“That’s right, such a piece of trash like you does not even have the right to talk to the King of North Hampton!”

Ben stared furiously at Levi.

Levi curled his lips into a smile. "Joseph, the Garrison family's connections and strength are incredible! You are stronger than I thought!"

The Garrison family was capable to summon such a huge army. It was enough to prove that they were a rich and powerful family in North Hampton.

"Hahaha... Do you now know our strength? Kneel down now, if you want us to spare your life!"

Bryan and Victoria laughed.

Levi faced the bunch of clowns and sneered, "I have given you a whole month to think about this. Haven't you actually considered why I have so much confidence?"

After listening to Levi, the Garrison family was shocked.

Bryan quickly regained his senses and shot back immediately, "Hmph, isn't Nueve the source of your confidence? Do you think we are stupid? We have checked thoroughly. Nueve and you were in prison together and that was where you met him!"

Upon listening to Bryan's words, Levi laughed aloud. "Hahaha... Seems like Ashton is not awake yet. He will tell you everything once he wakes up."

At the mention of Ashton, Jaycob went insane and exclaimed angrily, "I will definitely not let you off today, Levi! You turned my son into a vegetable. I will kill you today!"

Levi could not be bothered with Jaycob's crazy antics. He looked at Rick and said, "My favorite third uncle who treats me the best, have you not given any thought about why and how we have come to this?"

At this moment, Rick's facial expression changed.

He had indeed felt that Levi was not behaving like usual this month.

But he could not pinpoint why or how.

Everything looked reasonable on the surface but it also seemed unreasonable at the same time.

Rick felt that something was amiss after hearing Levi saying such a thing.

Levi was an intelligent man. Didn't he know that even with Nueve's ability and support, he would not be able to shake up the Garrison family?

If so, then why would he want to challenge them?

Even with so many big shots from North Hampton present, why did that not affect Levi?

That meant that he had enough resources and strength to counter the Garrison family!

He swept his gaze past Levi, and caught sight of the five men behind him. Azure Dragon was amongst them.

Rick felt that the five of them looked very unusual. They seemed to possess special powers and had a unique aura!

What was more, they looked indifferent, as if the presence of two thousand people did not matter at all.

"Mmm? Doesn't that person look a bit familiar?"

The person in front of him, Azure Dragon, looked a bit familiar, but Rick could not remember where he had seen him.

Are these five people Levi's hidden trump card?

The Protector Chapter 92

Ben did not think so much. He stared at Levi and smirked, "You brat, are you not going to greet your parents now that they are here?"

Levi's adoptive mother, Winnie, looked at Levi in disdain. "If I knew that you were going to betray us, I wouldn't have picked you up from the streets. I should have let wild dogs attack you and leave you to die! A b*stard like you shouldn't be allowed to survive."

Breathe.

Upon receiving his adoptive parents' harsh remarks, Levi took a deep breath.

If not for the fact that they had adopted him, these few sentences were enough for him to chop their heads off.

He was bitterly hurt!

His adoptive parents actually treated him like this!

I really hate this!

This is the most heartbreaking thing in my life.

Ben's words pierced Levi's heart. "Honestly speaking, we never think of you as our son. You are merely our tool!"

Levi's adoptive mother, Winnie added, "That's right! We only had one motive when we adopted you last time. You would take up another place in our family, and so we can receive an extra share of the Garrison family's inheritance! That's it! Otherwise, do you think we will raise a b*stard like you?"

The Garrison family spoke in unison, "Yes, our family has valuable connections. Do you think you are good enough to be in this family? You are merely a wild dog with impure blood in you! You are not worthy to be part of the Garrison family!"

Victoria was still unable to see the truth, so she stared at Levi. "Levi, are you still thinking of overthrowing the Garrison family? Stop dreaming! It's not enough just because you have got Nueve on your side. He is merely an insignificant ant."

Levi then broke into a laugh again. "I have already given you all a month to think about it. Why are all of you still behaving like foolish pigs? Do you really think my supporter is Nueve? Do you think he dares even if I lend my courage to him?" Levi raised his voice.

"No, Mr. Garrison!"

Nueve and the others fell to their knees in utter shock.

At this point in time, everyone at the scene saw that Nueve was fearful of Levi.

He has another hidden trump card that we do not know about!

Rick thought about it and a scary thought flashed past his mind.

Levi looked at Holly and laughed. "Now that you are in front of his grave, don't you feel a bit of remorse? Don't you think that Morris is looking down at you from up above?"

To be honest, Holly was feeling a bit remorseful.

However, she lifted her head and said arrogantly, "Hmm, it's better that he is dead. If he were still alive, would I be able to live so comfortably now? He should be glad that he was able to be of value to his goddess as a substitute!"

Levi smiled. "So you don't feel the need to repent at all?"

"Of course!"

Levi then looked at the Garrison family members again. "Do all of you not feel an ounce of remorse too?"

Spit! "You are a b*stard and that is another b*stard who is dead. What is there for us to repent?" The Garrison family kept labelling them as b*stards.

Rowen and his wife were in tears.

Their son died a terrible death, and yet he was cursed and labelled a b*stard!

Who could withstand such injustice?

Joseph was furious and exclaimed in anger, "King of North Hampton! May I trouble you to take action? I cannot watch this any further!"

Jack Smith nodded his head. "Alright, as you wish!"

"I do not want to see them still standing!"

Jack Smith commanded for everyone to charge ahead.

Vroom!

At this point in time, a revving sound came from outside.

Everyone turned their heads to look in the direction of the cars arriving.

The most frightening thing was the sight of a police car in the middle of those cars!

The Protector Chapter 93

The thugs stopped temporarily and looked behind.

Jack Smith smiled after taking a glance. "Mr. Garrison, you really impress me. Are there more people coming? Is there even a police car? This is really impressive!"

However, Joseph, Rick and the rest of the Garrison family were dumbfounded.

They stood there, at a loss.

The Garrison family had exhausted all their resources, and all their connections were already present at the scene.

Why are there more people coming?

Joseph questioned immediately, "Jack Smith, didn't you invite these people?"

Jack Smith laughed. "You are kidding, Mr. Garrison. All those who I have invited are already here."

"That's right. All our connections are here already."

Bob, Smiling Buddha and the others responded.

"That is strange! Who are these people? This is bad..."

As soon as they realized something, they turned towards Levi.

He is so calm. He must have invited these people here.

Very soon, these cars stopped outside.

A few people alighted from the police car...

"Captain of Patrol Squad Xavier Fields, Deputy Captain Derrick King, and Captain of Criminal Investigation Team Alex Williamson..."

Jack Smith was very familiar with the people in the police department. He called their names out one by one.

After listening to their names, everyone was struck.

The Garrison family, in particular, was shocked to see the presence of the police. Ben grew extremely pale and was frightened.

Bryan and Victoria were trembling in fear.

At this moment, some more people alighted from the other cars.

At the sight of all these people, Jack Smith, Bob and the others felt intimidated.

“Oh my god! Leader Mr. Jesse Nielsen, Deputy Leader Zenneth Fuller, Uptown District Leader Draco Simmons, First Secretary Cedric Jones, and commander of the Ministry of Construction and the Ministry of Land...”

Jack Smith was very familiar with these leaders from North Hampton. He mentioned all of their names.

He was going berserk at this moment!

Why are they here?

Even though Jack Smith was known as the King of North Hampton, it was merely a nickname. There were many people who were above him in terms of rank and status in North Hampton.

He was extremely fearful of all these people before him!

If all of them were to put in a bad word about him, he would cease to exist.

Not only was Jack Smith afraid of their presence, but Bob and Smiling Buddha were also fearful.

These people were their enemies!

Although the Garrison family was different from them, they were also afraid of the presence of these big shots!

They were more fearful of the purpose of these people’s arrival. Why are they here?

Rick was very quick to notice that Jesse, Xavier and the others had donned black suits with a white flower pinned to their chests.

It was apparent that they were here to pay their respects to Morris!

His head was about to explode at this moment!

Rick tried to reassess Levi again. Just who exactly is he?

Even these big shots are here to pay their respects to Morris!

Jesse and the others walked over. Xavier furrowed his eyebrows, and yelled, "Make way!"

The thugs were shocked by Xavier and carved out a path for him to walk through.

They were drenched in perspiration as they looked on at Xavier and the others walking past.

Jack Smith, Joseph and the others stood on the other side of the path, waiting anxiously.

At the sight of Jesse and the others, they went over to welcome and greet him.

Xavier yelled coldly, "Scram!"

"Don't block the way!"

Jack Smith and the others were shocked and stood aside, not daring to move.

Jack Smith took out his handkerchief to wipe away the perspiration on his forehead.

Joseph was so frightened that his blood pressure rose and he almost fainted.

Everyone could only stare as Jesse and the others walk towards the grave.

The Protector Chapter 94

When they arrived in front of the grave, everyone simply nodded their heads to Levi and paid their respects to Morris. Then, they walked towards Rowen and his wife to offer their condolences.

Rowen used to work in the department, so he knew who these people were.

He cried tears of joy and lifted his head, smiling, "Morris! Can you see this? Your leaders are here to pay their respects to you!"

The elderly couple started crying.

Dozens of big shots from North Hampton paid their respects to Morris, one at a time!

Jack Smith was disappointed as he witnessed this scene!

They all seemed to have fallen into an icy cold cavern...

Gradually, they understood why Nueve and Trey would sacrifice their lives for Levi.

Jack Smith now understood why Francis Hicks did not want to come, and even warned him not to.

Francis Hicks knew about this!

We cannot get involved in this matter!

Holly, Kit and Misty saw the top leaders of North Hampton paying their respects to Morris.

They had mixed emotions in their hearts.

After all, they did not know what was in store for them.

"I..."

Joseph's legs could not stop shaking. He was speechless.

Jaycob too had no intention of seeking revenge anymore.

Rick was extremely confused.

"This, this, this..."

Ben was too shocked to say anything.

Winnie stared at Levi in disbelief. She did not expect this.

Bryan, Victoria and the others were all flabbergasted.

What is Levi's actual identity?

Why are all the leaders here?

Even those with strong connections could never bring all these people together!

A million doubts and questions filled their heads.

“My condolences, Mr. Atkinson!”

After these big shots from North Hampton paid their respects, they left without staying any longer.

They also did not look at Jack Smith or anyone else.

This made the others present very confused.

What is happening here?

Ben laughed all of a sudden. “I get it now! Mr. Nielsen and the others came here to pay respects to Morris out of respect for Rowen and his wife. They used to old leaders in the department after all!”

“That’s right. After knowing that Levi has caused such a big commotion, it is only natural for them to come here and pay their respects!” Joseph said immediately.

Bryan also thought it through. “If Mr. Nielsen and the others are Levi’s supporters, why did they not come and attack us, but left immediately instead?”

“That’s right, that must be it!”

Jack Smith also agreed.

“So, as long as we do not hurt Rowen’s family and touch Morris’ grave, we will be okay. As for the other people, we can do whatever we want to them!”

Jaycob’s eyes had a murderous look in them.

He had wanted to kill and get rid of Levi a long time ago.

“Yes! I need to make sure that Levi kneels in front of me today!”

Joseph shook his walking stick.

The thugs recovered from the shock they experienced earlier and looked fiercely at Levi once more.

At this moment, Levi waved his hand to summon Azure Dragon and the rest to his side.

“Tell them that we are going to act!” Levi commanded.

“Understood!” Azure Dragon nodded his head.

After that, he took out a walkie-talkie and commanded, “Act now!”

Levi saw the Garrison family members staring blankly at him. He smiled and said, “I’m sorry for the delay and thank you for waiting. The real dish is about to be served!”

Bryan exclaimed, “Levi, what tricks do you have up your sleeve again?”

Whoosh!

...

Just when Bryan stopped talking, a signal flare was launched in all directions.

Bang!

Everyone was at a loss as they saw the signal flare exploding in the sky.

The Protector Chapter 95

Jack Smith had never seen such a thing!

He did not know what kind of messages these signal flares were sending.

However, the mercenaries had a horrified expression on their faces.

Upon seeing the signal flare, they knew that something major was going to happen.

It was a signal flare specifically used by the military!

“This is not good. Mr. Garrison, we need to retreat as soon as possible!” The head of the mercenary reported to Rick.

However, Rick who was inexperienced in this aspect could not understand what he meant.

“Why should we retreat? We have yet to find out what exactly is happening!” Rick responded coldly.

“Then we will retreat. We do not want the money anymore!”

The mercenaries knew what the signal flare represented. Thus, they wanted to retreat and leave.

It was not necessary for them to risk their lives for money!

Boom!

Just when they were about to retreat, there was a sudden movement of the earth, and the ground under everyone’s feet moved.

All of them clearly saw the sand and stones tumbling and shaking under their feet!

The vibrations became more intense and violent. Some people were unsteady and could not remain standing.

It felt as though a giant earthquake was approaching.

The mercenaries bent down slowly and placed their ears on the ground to listen.

In an instant, their facial expressions changed.

This vibration is too loud!

In the past, they had experienced being surrounded by hundreds of enemy mercenaries on the barren battlefield, and the vibration then was loud enough.

However, based on the current vibration and their previous experiences, the scale was much greater than they had encountered.

It would be a rough estimate of about 100,000 people on the battlefield!

100,000 people?

What kind of concept is this? He was unable to imagine it!

Buzz buzz buzz...

This time, there were bursts of low buzzing sounds in the air.

Everyone looked up and was shocked to see small planes hovering in the sky. They could already feel the impending storm.

What was worst was seeing these planes lining up in formation and flying around in groups, circling the sky above.

Everyone was counting the number of planes in the sky.

There were at least hundreds of them!

Not only that, there were hundreds of helicopters dominating the lower airspace as well. They were densely packed and covered the entire sky for miles.

The sky became dark and nobody could see a thing.

The sheer number of these planes had completely covered the sun, blocking out all the sunlight!

There was the sudden arrival of dozens of huge transport planes aimlessly hovering in the air!

Boom boom boom!

The ground below them was shaking violently.

Many people were unsteady on their feet.

“Look!”

Someone standing on the outermost circle shouted, leading everyone to look behind.

A few colossal objects appeared in their line of vision.

When they finally saw them clearly, everyone’s faces had already grown pale.

They were all in complete shock!

The colossal objects were a line of war chariots and battle tanks!

They came in from all four directions.

The mercenaries estimated the number to be at least a few thousand!

It is an epic battle scene!

“Look!”

Everyone saw the infantry among the war chariots. There were so many of them, densely packed together, and they could barely see their individual heads!

Click click click...

The formation of battle tanks was followed by a large infantry. They came at a uniform, world-shaking pace.

“There are four columns in one regiment! As a rough estimate, we can see twenty groups!”

“We can see about 20,000 people!”

“But it is just a small portion. There are a lot more at the back! The main army!”

The mercenaries analyzed the situation using their professional expertise.

The Protector Chapter 96

“What? You can already see 20,000 people from here? Aren’t there still at least thousands of tanks and armored vehicles? And thousands of airplanes and helicopters?”

After hearing the shocking numbers, Jack Smith, Bob and the others were about to explode in fright.

This was definitely not something they could handle, let alone compete!

Why are we here?

Why can’t we just live our lives comfortably?

These gangsters and their subordinates trembled in fear. Their legs grew weak, and they almost fainted.

They thought that they were only here to fight.

Was there a need for airplanes, tanks, and artillery with tens of thousands of troops?

The Garrison family saw what was happening. A chilly stream of air rushed up to their bodies as if to freeze all the blood in them.

This is frightening!

Why are there troops here all of a sudden?

How did this happen?

What on earth is happening?

Rick grew extremely solemn. He was extremely afraid that things were happening accordingly to what he had initially predicted.

Jack Smith thought about it and said, "Could it be a military exercise? This area is extremely suitable for it!"

Joseph took a few deep breaths. "I also think the same way! I received a piece of news in the morning, saying that there are many tanks heading in this direction. It seems to be a military exercise going on, and we just happen to chance upon it! We seem to be in their way!"

Instead of thinking of the worst-case scenario, everyone wished to believe that it was a simple military exercise.

Rick shook his head. "Perhaps not! This has definitely got to do with Levi!"

"All are loaded standard weapons! They have bullets in them! These are real guns and live ammunition! I guarantee it!" The head of the mercenary, James, said in a serious tone.

His experience, together with his subordinates were able to see clearly that the guards had real guns and live ammunition!

Hiss!

Many people drew in their breaths at that instant.

They were panicking.

Boom boom boom...

The war chariots and armored vehicles stopped one by one when they were about 500 meters away from everyone.

However, the infantry at the back passed by the war chariots and armored vehicles and continued to advance.

It was a bone-chilling sight.

There were a lot of people on the vast plain.

Click click click...

The infantry was approaching, closer each time, and now everyone had a better view of the sheer number of them.

“Just now, we only saw a small part of the infantry. Now, the numbers have increased. We can see at least 40,000 to 50,000 people! There is about the same number of people at the back!”

“Tell everyone this piece of bad news: There are about 100,000 people in strength!”

James stated the fact, and he was growing desperate and hopeless at reality.

An infantry of such magnitude would absolutely sweep every single person on the battlefield away!

With this fact in mind, everyone grew dead silent and despondent.

There are 100,000 people!

A full 100,000!

“I... I... I... I... I... I...”

Jack Smith was so scared that his teeth chattered in fear, rendering him speechless for a long time.

Click click click...

The infantry stopped at a distance of fewer than 20 meters from everyone, which was a good distance for their handover process.

These soldiers looked ruthless, holding tightly onto their weapons that had been loaded, and took aim at everyone.

There was no doubt that as long as they fired their weapons, the Garrison family, Jack Smith and the others would be brought down immediately!

In front of all these soldiers, they had no fighting power at all when they saw a series of cold muzzles pointed at them.

Plop! Plop! Plop!

They dropped their weapons on the ground and raised their hands up in surrender.

The Protector Chapter 97

They would not even think about putting up a fight. There were at least 100,000 soldiers around!

Many of them regretted it in their hearts. Why did they join the underground world of all things?

Seeing the army advancing towards them, Jack Smith and the other big shots grew afraid.

The pearls that he had initially held in his hands went missing.

The others, like Smiling Buddha and Bob, felt their blood pressure rising. If not because there were people supporting them, they would have fainted and collapsed onto the ground.

The Invincible-13 had also grown pale in shock. They did not even dare to lift their heads!

Joseph was so afraid that he almost coughed out blood. The muzzles were directly pointed at them, so one more step from the soldiers would mean that the muzzles were about to come in contact with their brains.

It was extremely terrifying!

The mercenaries really hated Rick to the core!

If they knew that this was going to happen, they wouldn't have been lured here by the handsome reward.

They would lose their lives anyway, so how could they spend the money?

At this point in time, there were dozens of transport planes in the sky, and the cabin doors opened.

Whoosh whoosh whoosh...

The paratroopers landed one at a time.

Hundreds of helicopters also moved in the sky, circling above Joseph and the others.

Everyone was able to see clearly that there was a famous sniper in the helicopter, and the sniper's rifle was aiming at them.

There were even machine guns facing them, with their angles adjusted.

The paratroopers descended continuously from dozens of transport planes. After landing, they turned their backs to Levi in a half-squatting posture and faced the Garrison family with their weapons aimed at them.

There were thousands of paratroopers, and they all happened to be guarding the open space.

Boom boom boom...

There was some movement on the outer circle.

The cannons were pushed out with their muzzles pointed towards the sky.

However, the Garrison family, Jack Smith and the others knew that they were facing another layer of doom.

They were surrounded at all sides, and the large weapons and battle tanks with guns had driven up so close to them.

Even the helicopters in the sky were directed at them.

They were completely surrounded this time round. There was no way they could escape from this.

Frightening!

Really frightening!

The mercenary, James, and his counterparts were unable to withstand the pressure.

They threw their weapons down, raised both their arms up in surrender, and said, "We were conned by the Garrison family! We did not do anything!"

And then they lay on the floor and placed both hands on their heads. They looked pathetic.

After that, Jack Smith responded and pointed at the Garrison family immediately, "Everything is done by the Garrison family! They invited us here, saying that they have a project that is worth 2 billion! We are so clueless! We did not know! We are in the wrong! We are in the wrong!"

After saying so, Jack Smith and the other big shots followed what James did. They lay down on the ground and placed hands on their heads.

Plop!

Plop!

Soon, all their subordinates followed suit. They also lay on the ground and placed their hands behind their heads!

One after another!

Following this, all the security personnel, bodyguards, guards and the mercenaries hired by the Garrison family also lay down on the ground. All of them pushed all the blame to the Garrison family.

In the blink of an eye, there were about a thousand or so people surrendering.

The only people left standing were the Garrison family members, Holly and the others.

They looked right and left to see and realized that they had two choices. They could either continue to have the gun muzzles pointed at their heads, or lie on the ground like what the rest were doing.

They had no choice but to lie on the ground!

Levi shouted from afar, "Joseph?"

Upon hearing his name being called, Joseph grew so frightened. His whole body was cold and sweaty, and his face looked so pale as though he was seriously ill.

He looked helplessly at Levi, who was standing not too far away.

"Ben?"

"Winnie?"

"Jaycob?"

"Rick?"

"Bryan?"

...

"Holly?"

...

The Protector Chapter 98

Levi looked at the Garrison family members and called their names out one by one.

They did not dare to say a thing to Levi. It was because when Levi yelled out their names, it felt like he was declaring their deaths.

Everyone stared at Levi blankly. They did not know what he was going to do.

Everyone was utterly confused and was in complete shock.

Levi placed his hands on his back and shouted at everyone in the Garrison family, "Haven't all of you been guessing what my trump card is? I am telling you now. This is my trump card!"

“This magnificent army with thousands of men and weapons is my trump card!” Levi continued yelling.

The Garrison family became deathly still after hearing what Levi said.

Rick closed his eyes in despair.

Things had actually turned out exactly the way he had guessed!

Holly froze, and her teeth could not stop chattering.

At this moment, there was a path created from the outer circle, surrounded by the crowd. A middle-aged man with two stars on his shoulder quickly walked towards the cemetery.

“King of War! He is the King of War!”

The Garrison family was in shock as all of their facial expressions changed drastically.

Everyone directed their gazes at the King of War walking towards the cemetery.

They saw the King of War approach Levi and greet him respectfully, “North Hampton’s commander-in-chief of the First Army, Garfield Perkins, is here to report to the Chief! The assembly of the First Army is complete, Chief! Please give further instructions!”

Many people could not believe their eyes upon witnessing this scene.

It was indescribable!

He was the King of War with 100,000 guards under his charge, yet he actually addressed Levi as his chief?

Who on earth is he?

Oh my god!

It is unimaginable!

This was a huge shock to the Garrison family. They did not expect to see this!

Thus, they could not accept the fact!

Rick shut his eyes tightly.

Garfield's action had cemented the thoughts in his head.

Levi is the one!

"Alright, fire the cannons!" Levi commanded.

Garfield waved his hand, and at that moment, dozens of cannons fired their shots at once.

Boom!

Boom!

Boom!

The cannons fired, shaking the earth like thunderbolts.

"Mr. Morris, rest in peace!" 100000 soldiers shouted in unison.

The voices of 100,000 soldiers sounded like thunder. It was a totally earth-shattering sight to behold.

Rowen and his wife cried again.

Levi had given Morris the best, most respectful and most impressive send-off.

Levi faced Morris' grave and said emotionally, "My brother, this is your belated send-off!"

After everything was done, Levi turned around slowly.

At this moment, Azure Dragon and the others had changed into their military uniforms. Each one of them had a star on their shoulders.

The Five Great Wars Regiment!

Azure Dragon held a set of military uniform and brought it to Levi respectfully.

The Phoenix King of War helped Levi to change out of his black suit and into the military uniform.

After changing into the military uniform, Garfield and the other soldiers looked at Levi in awe.

Standing in front of them was their leader of indomitable military spirit!

He was their role model, the legendary God of War of Erudia!

There was a total of 5 stars on Levi's shoulder!

He was the only God of War with 5 stars in the whole of Erudia's history!

At this sight, Rick had already fainted.

Levi's imposing demeanor was unmatched!

He stared at the Garrison family with indifference and said, "Do you still remember the day you listed your company on the stock market? The God of War said that he would attend the dinner banquet! That was right!"

"Because I am the God of War!"

The Protector Chapter 99

The Garrison family definitely remembered that they would hold a dinner banquet to celebrate the listing of their company.

That day, the God of War had announced that he would come.

That made the Garrison family excited, and they even thought that they would rise in fame and reputation.

However, it was destroyed by Levi.

The Garrison family then saw Levi as a sinner of their family.

This was because Levi was the unlucky one who had disrupted their stroke of luck.

After that, the Garrison family used all means and ways to seek connection with the God of War but was subsequently rejected.

They were most puzzled by the fact that the God of War had come to the dinner banquet, but no one seemed to have noticed it.

They finally understood it now.

It was because Levi was the God of War!

Why else would Levi cause such a huge commotion at the Garrison family's dinner banquet?

Why did he give the Garrison family a month to make an official apology?

Why did he warn the Garrison family time and again?

Why did he have such confidence?

Because he was the supreme God of War!

Like what Melanie had said, the God of War was the commander-in-chief of the Nine Warzones of Erudia, and he could destroy the entire family really easily!

It was already too late.

Everyone had only reacted when it was too late.

Levi put on his military cap slowly and solemnly. After wiping it clean, he looked at the 100,000 soldiers in front of him.

Upon seeing this, Garfield shouted, "God of War!"

"God of War!"

The entire army shouted that exciting title in unison.

They all looked at Levi, who was the first person in Erudia who held onto such an impressive title!

Their collective voices inspired awe throughout the empire.

The Garrison family was also caught in fascination at this awe-inspiring sight.

This man is Erudia's God of War!

Just by his presence, everyone knew that with him around, Erudia would be protected and kept safe for thousands of years!

Levi was firmly captured in the hearts of the millions of soldiers of Erudia!

However, the Garrison family members were knee-deep in regret.

This was because Levi used to be a part of the Garrison family.

He had worked hard and fought hard for the Garrison family!

However, the Garrison family had done so many cruel things to him, even forcing him to leave home.

Levi's gaze landed slowly on the Garrison family members. Then he said mildly, "Did you expect this? The bastard that should be eaten alive by wild dogs! Now I am someone you cannot even touch!"

Upon listening to him, the Garrison family were in shock.

Levi looked at Joseph. "I was supposed to be your grandson, but now I am the commander-in-chief of the Nine Warzones of Erudia with hundreds of thousands of soldiers under my command!"

Then, he turned to look at his adoptive parents. "I was supposed to be your son, but now I am formidable enough to be worshipped by everyone!"

Next, he glanced at Bryan and Victoria and said, "I was supposed to be your little brother, but now I have the power and wealth to hold everything under my control!"

Finally, he gazed at Holly and said, "I was supposed to be your husband's friend, but now there is no one else controlling me but myself!"

Levi's voice was like a knife slicing into the hearts of everyone.

At this moment, everyone no longer felt pain but numbness.

They were all completely numbed in shock.

None of them could feel the pain from their nails digging deep into their palms!

What did they miss?

It was unimaginable!

Everyone's minds went a total blank. They were unable to think clearly on these matters.

The Garrison family thought about it. If they had not dealt so harshly with Levi in the past, how would the Garrison family have prospered?

Perhaps they would have taken control of North Hampton overnight and became the only powerful family, right?

Holly thought about it. If she had not treated Morris badly in the past, who would she have become?

Her husband's brother was a powerful figure in Erudia! Perhaps she would have been the noblest woman in North Hampton, right?

However, there was no room for regrets!

It was too late!

They had to bear the painful consequences!

The Protector Chapter 100

Take revenge and avenge myself!

Levi's facial expression changed suddenly and he roared, "When you raised me as a child, I was proud of the family name Garrison! I secretly swore that I would live my entire life repaying your kindness!

I wanted to fight for the family! I wished for the Garrison family to be proud of me and my achievements! Then, when I made plans to develop the Garrison family into the strongest family in North Hampton, do you know what you did to me?"

"My parents, brother and sister-in-law betrayed me behind my back! My beloved family members broke my limbs and threw me into the trash! You even framed me and sentenced me to prison! Ah? Where is your conscience?"

Plop!

Joseph could not endure such tremendous pressure, so he was the first to kneel down to the ground.

Plop!

Ben and the others kneeled down on the ground too.

They could no longer withstand it.

All of them were drenched in perspiration beneath their clothes and were struggling to breathe.

Levi then looked at Holly. "It's unfortunate that my friend, Morris, has always seen you as his goddess. He treated you like the most precious jewel on earth! Yet you betrayed him, and even plotted to kill him! Whenever you look down from the skyscrapers, have you ever thought of my friend, Morris? Ah?"

"I've even reminded all of you that if you are not going to repent in front of Morris' grave, you will end up badly like what happened to Philip. Did my words fall on deaf ears?"

"I..."

Plop! Holly also fell to the ground.

Kit and Misty had already burst into tears!

Joseph was the first to express his remorse. He exclaimed, "We are in the wrong! We are in the wrong! We confess to all the crimes we have committed."

"We too know that we are in the wrong! We hereby repent!"

The others kneeled down and kowtowed to Levi, one after another!

Holly and the others also kowtowed in front of Morris' grave.

Their foreheads were bleeding from the impact.

Ben continued to say, "Levi, we have admitted that we are in the wrong. Seeing that we have nurtured you in the past, can you please forgive us? Can you spare our lives?"

Winnie added, "Levi, to be honest, we have been treating you like our own. As long as you are willing, we are still your parents. The Garrison family will still be your home!"

Bryan took the chance to continue, "That's right, Levi! My wife and I welcome you back to the Garrison family too! You can be the patriarch of the family. Right, Grandpa?"

Joseph said immediately, "Yes, yes. That's right! Levi, as long as return to the Garrison family, you will be the patriarch!"

Jaycob even said, "Levi, Ashton deserved what you did to him! You should have beaten him to death!"

At the sight of the Garrison family members' desperate looks, Levi sneered and said, "If not for my current identity, do you think you would be kneeling down here in repentance? Would you allow me to return to the Garrison family? Or let me become the patriarch? You wouldn't!"

He could not stop laughing. "All of you are only concerned about the benefits. Relationships and emotions mean nothing to you at all! Ever since I stepped into prison six years ago, I have severed all ties with the Garrison family! Today, I have a very simple goal. I want to seek revenge!"

Levi shot a cold and heartless look at every member of the Garrison family.

"Seek revenge!"

The 100,000 soldiers chanted in unison. It was an earth-shattering moment.

Joseph vomited out blood at this instant.

Looking at Levi's determination, he knew that the Garrison family was doomed!

The Protector Chapter 101

Levi looked at everyone and said, "Bryan, Victoria, Lionel, Tammy, Russell, Patrick, Holly, Kit, Misty, and Rick. Look at me, all of you!"

Everyone's hearts were in their throats when their names were called. They knew what was going on. It's like Hades and his Furies sentencing punishments to us.

All of them had no other choice but to obey Levi's order.

"Did you murder Morris Atkinson?" Levi asked them.

"No..."

Someone was about to deny it. Then his eyes met with Levi's unforgiving gaze.

Everyone nodded immediately. Admitting our crime is a wiser choice now.

"All of you are going to repent by kneeling in front of Morris's grave for 3 days and 3 nights!" Levi commanded harshly.

Garfield Perkins waved his hand. Soldiers brought Rick and the others forcefully to Morris's grave.

Levi looked at Morris's tomb and said with a smile, "Morris! I've brought all the accomplices who conspired your death to repent in front of you! I will send every one of them to accompany you soon!"

Mr. and Mrs. Atkinson were tear-stricken. Levi's effort to avenge Morris touched them.

Levi looked at the other members of the Garrison family.

"Bryan and Victoria, do you still remember how you broke my legs that night?" Levi grinned at them menacingly.

The couple was scared out of their wits.

Tap tap tap...

The scariest part was Levi's continuous advancement in their direction.

Bryan and Victoria wanted to back away from him, but they had nowhere to escape because of the guns pointed at the back of their heads.

Finally, Levi came to a halt in front of them.

He took the baseball bat from Bryan's hand and sized up the stick. "Is this the bat you used to break my legs 6 years ago? I suppose you kept it all this while so you can cripple me again?"

Thump thump thump...

Both of them slammed their foreheads against the ground to beg for Levi's forgiveness as an ominous feeling crept into their hearts. "Please forgive us, Levi! We will not repeat our mistake. Just think of us as your servants from now on."

Levi sneered while tapping the baseball bat. "But you did not show me any mercy 6 years ago."

"That was because we were..."

Bam!

"Argh!"

Levi smashed Bryan's knee with the bat as soon as he tried to explain himself. Bryan howled in pain as his bones shattered.

"This is the treatment I received from you in the past!"

Bam!

"Arghh!"

Levi did not spare any of Bryan's limbs. The latter rolled on the floor, screaming hysterically in agony.

Then Levi looked at Victoria.

"Don't touch me! I'm just a woman!" Victoria shielded herself with her hands.

"But you are an evil woman!"

Bam!

Levi broke Victoria's hands and legs as well. Then he tossed the disabled couple at the side of Morris's grave to repent for their sins.

They are related to that matter, after all! Levi thought to himself as he shifted his gaze onto Joseph Garrison and his foster parents.

Joseph and the others lowered their heads fearfully.

"I never thought we would end up in this situation!" Levi said in a self-deprecating manner. "I can declare that I am innocent! I've worked hard for this family since I was young to repay all of you. Who was the person to bring fame and wealth to the Garrison family in the past? That person was me! Did I not prove my sincerity by treating all of you with kindness?" Levi questioned.

The Protector Chapter 102

"You're absolutely right, Levi!" Joseph and the others said in a hurry.

"I will not harm you because you used to be my grandpa and my foster parents. I am not an insensible person, but I will deprive the Garrison family of all possessions, especially my Levi Group!

I will also sever all ties with you from this moment onwards. Your fates will have nothing to do with me from now on. Also, don't you dare try to do anything by quoting my name. Otherwise, all of you will face certain death!"

Levi's judgment was simple enough to understand. The Garrison family was doomed. They were one of the wealthiest families in North Hampton, but Levi now turned them into an ordinary family without any power or money. That punishment was worse than death in their opinion.

Joseph and his family's years of effort turned into dust with a single order from Levi. The Garrison family's assets, worth up to billions, were taken away from them, leaving them with absolutely nothing. That sudden and drastic change was unacceptable and surreal to the Garrisons.

Levi looked at Jack Smith and the other underworld figures. He sneered. "All of you do not have to die. But you disrupted the peace at Morris's grave. So you will kneel before him for one day and one night!"

"Yes. Yes! Everyone kneel!" All the thugs followed Jack Smith's order and knelt.

“We will also turn this place into a proper cemetery dedicated to Mr. Morris Atkinson after this, sir!” Jack Smith offered.

Levi did not reject his proposal.

Finally, Levi addressed the 100 thousand soldiers. “Thank you for your hard work, brothers!”

“God of War!”

“God of War!”

“God of War!”

The battle without any casualties ended with the war cry.

Zoey did not know how long had passed, but she had cried her eyes out and fainted 3 times.

Aaron called Harry to ask about the situation.

Harry said, “I received an update saying the confrontation has ended. But no one exited the place or saw Levi anywhere. So I suppose he’s dead.”

Harry was concerned about Zoey’s condition because she was still handling that huge project. “How’s Zoey?”

“Zoey passed out for the third time, father!” Aaron answered helplessly.

Harry rebuked angrily, “What are you doing? Is that how you console her? Try harder! Levi’s death is a favorable outcome. In this way, Zoey can marry another person. If Samuel’s brothers are not good enough, then we will look for a better candidate. Bear this in mind. The Lopez family will thrive once Levi is out of the way.”

Harry almost laughed out loud on the other end of the phone. I can finally exploit Zoey and her family to my heart’s content with Levi gone.

Zoey gradually regained her consciousness after some time.

She questioned her parents while looking at them. “What’s the situation now? How’s Levi?”

Aaron sighed. “To be honest, I do not want to tell you this.”

“What’s going on, Dad? Hurry up and tell me!” Zoey grabbed Aaron’s arm.

“I received an update from your grandpa. Levi is dead!”

Zoey slumped onto the floor and shrieked hysterically after listening to her father. “Levi!”

The Protector Chapter 103

Meanwhile, Rick Garrison knelt before Levi.

Rick told Levi he had something to inform him when Levi was about to leave.

“What’s the matter? Spit it out.”

“Mr... No, that’s not right. Sir. Do you really think we, the Garrison family, were capable of pulling off the feat 6 years ago by ourselves, sir?” Rick asked.

Levi narrowed his eyes in response. He seemed to have noticed the problem too. Now that I think about this, there are a lot of details that don’t quite add up. For example, the Garrison family should not have been able to take control of Levi Group so easily. Moreover, there must be someone who orchestrated the multiple charges against me and my imprisonment. I do not believe the Garrison family to be so competent. There is someone else supporting them!

Rick smiled. “We harbored the intention for a long time but did not have the capabilities to execute the plan. But someone suddenly appeared and provided our family with assistance amidst our hesitation.”

“Who is that person?” Levi asked coldly.

“Oswald Rogers. You and Ms. Zoey’s schoolmate in the past, sir!” Rick revealed that person’s identity.

Levi took a deep breath at the mention of Oswald Rogers. Oswald was in the same high school as Zoey and me. He was also Zoey’s classmate. We competed for Zoey’s favor in the past, and I came out as the winner. But Oswald did not give up pursuing Zoey until our wedding day.

Oswald's family background is more than just impressive. The Rogers family's net worth is easily over billions with properties all over the globe. They are the true top-tiered family in North Hampton, at least 10 times more influential than the Garrison family.

Every decision they make can alter the economic standing of this city. If Oswald Rogers is the mastermind, then everything makes sense. He does have the power to place me behind bars effortlessly.

Rick continued. "Oswald Rogers was angry because of your marriage to Ms. Zoey. So he planned everything with the goal to destroy you."

Levi finally understood why the Garrison family decided to execute the plan on his wedding day. This is all because of Oswald Rogers. Well, it is not surprising for him to get mad, knowing the love of his life was getting married to another man.

Rick shook his head in despair. "Oswald would not have gotten the opportunity if we did not harbor ill intent in the first place. Ultimately, this is still the Garrison family's fault."

Levi glared at him. "Glad you know."

Zoey had no other choice but to accept the reality because Levi did not return home after she waited for him for the whole day.

Harry Lopez even hosted a dinner banquet to celebrate the joyous occasion.

Zoey was brought to the banquet venue in a daze by her parents.

"We are having this banquet tonight for very simple reasons. The first being the reinstatement of Zoey Lopez as part of the family. The second reason is to celebrate Zoey's escape from her disastrous marriage. Lastly, the Lopez family will develop the West City project alongside Zoey from now on. So, cheers everybody!" Harry announced with his wine glass raised.

Everyone else in the family raised their glasses as well, with delightful smiles on their faces.

The Lopez family was exhilarated as if they were hosting a New Year's celebration.

Aaron and Caitlyn forced themselves to join in the fun.

Zoey was the only person who stood out like a sore thumb during the banquet due to her lifeless condition.

Harry gazed at Zoey. "Now that Levi is gone, you should consider remarrying, Zoey. There are plenty of excellent candidates in North Hampton to choose from. You will meet a better person soon."

"Who dares to ask my wife to marry another man?" A cold, harsh voice was heard all of a sudden.

Everyone turned to look at the door.

Levi was standing at the entrance, alive and well.

"Le-Levi Garrison?" Harry staggered as he nearly collapsed onto the floor.

"Are you a man or a ghost?" Samuel was close to hiding under the table out of fear.

Everyone was caught in perplexity and terror because a supposedly dead person had returned.

The Protector Chapter 104

"Do I look like a ghost?" Levi entered the venue and walked up to Samuel while the others gasped frightfully.

Samuel touched Levi's arm with his trembling hand. Then he said in surprise, "You're warm. You're still alive! But that's not possible!"

Levi sneered. "So you wanted me to die?"

"Ah? Of course not!" Samuel was panting heavily.

"Levi!" Zoey rushed over to him and wrapped her arms around him tightly.

Levi hugged her as well. "I'm sorry to have made you worried. My bad."

Harry was confused. "This is impossible! The Garrison family and Jack Smith wouldn't have spared your life!"

"That's right! How can you stay alive when the Garrison family is targeting you? This is not possible!" Everyone added.

Even Zoey was looking at Levi curiously. “They’re right. How did you resolve the situation earlier?”

Levi tousled her hair and smiled. “I told you I can handle this matter.”

A thought popped into Zoey’s mind. “I saw a lot of soldiers nearby Morris’s grave just now. Is this related to them?”

Levi answered, “You’re right. The soldiers were having a military practice near that area in North Hampton. They dealt with the Garrison family because of their unwelcoming behavior. Luckily, I’m acquainted with the Azure Dragon. So he punished the Garrison family heavily on my behalf after knowing the whole story and promised to return Levi Group to me.”

Everyone in the Lopez family was dumbfounded after listening to Levi’s explanation. They looked at him incredulously. Levi Group will be his possession again? Does that mean he will have a net worth of billions? So he will regain his former glory!

“Levi, I...”

Harry was about to bootlick Levi when the latter left the banquet with Zoey.

Every member of the Lopez family chased after them.

Harry shouted from behind, “Levi Garrison will forever be our family’s pride. We must follow them. Hurry up!”

But they failed to catch up with Levi and Zoey.

Levi brought Zoey to the revolving restaurant in North Hampton city center to celebrate the success that night.

Harry made no fewer than 20 calls to Zoey, while the other members of the family visited Aaron’s house. They were eager to butter Levi up.

In the end, Levi was annoyed by their relentless pestering. So he said, “I’ll go to Levi Group to take over the business tomorrow with Zoey. Come to the company tomorrow if you have something to say.”

Everyone from the Lopez family finally stopped badgering them. But they could not sleep that night due to their excitement.

Early in the morning the next day, everyone from the Lopez family followed Levi and Zoey to Levi Group. Even Harry Lopez tagged along. Not one of them wanted to miss that glorious moment.

Members of the Lopez family were filled with exhilaration as they gazed at Levi Group's skyscraper, including Zoey.

Levi went to the receptionist and stated his aim for his visit. "My name is Levi Garrison, and I am here to take over Levi Group today."

The receptionist looked at Levi in a daze. "Are you crazy? You're the first person to come here with such a ridiculous request."

Zoey retorted immediately, "The Garrison family stepped down from Levi Group's management, didn't they?"

"They did. But most of the board members are still present. Moreover, they already bought Levi Group's shares which were under the Garrison family's possession," explained the receptionist.

Zoey was confused. "What do you mean?"

"Are you not aware of the parent company behind Levi Group?" The receptionist asked.

Levi gained revelation instantaneously. The Rogers family! They are the holding company of Levi Group. That means the Garrison family never had control of Levi Group, to begin with. This company belongs to the Rogers family!

The Protector Chapter 105

Harry and the others questioned, "What's going on?"

Melanie checked Levi Group's status on the Internet with her mobile phone and explained. "Sky Incorporated is the majority shareholder of Levi Group. This company completely belongs to Sky Incorporated after the Garrison family gave up their shares."

"Sky Incorporated is the holding company owned by the prestigious Rogers family, right?" Henry asked.

Harry frowned. He asked the receptionist with all seriousness, "That means Levi Group has always belonged to the Rogers family, and Levi Garrison is not at all related to this company?"

She nodded. "That's right. The Rogers family took control of Levi Group 6 years ago. I don't know how all of you found the courage to come here demanding to take over the company when Levi Garrison is just a nobody here."

At that moment, a group of people ushered the CEO of Levi Group, Howard Corbyn, into the company.

Oswald Rogers was the chairman of Levi Group, while his trusted aide, Howard, was the Chief Executive Officer.

Howard Corbyn had a busy night as well. I received the news of the confrontation between the Garrison family and Levi Garrison last night. Surprisingly, they stumbled into the God of War amidst their argument while the soldiers were having a military practice nearby. The Garrison family invoked the God of War's wrath and suffered greatly. They had to give up all their family's assets, so I spent the entire night purchasing the shares under their possession. Oswald even told me the Garrison family is a bunch of fools to have infuriated the God of War. He was also amazed by Levi's unbelievable fortune to have escaped the predicament by receiving the God of War's help.

But Oswald and Howard did not know that the God of War was actually Levi.

Howard saw Levi and the others gathering in the lobby as soon as he entered the company building.

He walked up to the crowd with a frown. "What's the matter?"

The receptionist answered, "Mr. Corbyn, these people said that they are here to take control of the company. I suppose they are here to stir up trouble."

Howard eyed Levi and Zoey as he listened to the receptionist. He sneered. "Oh? So it is Levi Garrison in the flesh!"

Howard recognized Levi because he participated in the scheme 6 years ago.

"Are you part of the Rogers family?" Levi asked mockingly.

"That's right. You sure move quick, coming here to take over the company right after the Garrison family's downfall. But let me tell you now. Levi Group is no longer related to you, Levi Garrison. We are now the majority shareholder of Levi Group, so this company is ours legally!” Howard raised his voice.

“Look at this group of clowns! Do you think you can become rich instantaneously by taking over Levi Group? Idiots! Hahaha...” The people surrounding them were laughing hysterically at Levi and the Lopez family.

Harry, Aaron, and the others lowered their heads. This is so shameful! It’s like we are a bunch of country bumpkins. How can the Lopez family continue to stay in North Hampton if this incident spreads around?

“It’s time for all of you to leave! Levi Group does not welcome you! Take them away, guards!” Multiple security guards closed in on Levi and the others after receiving the order from Howard.

Levi and the rest of the Lopez family were chased out of the building by the security guards in the end. “Know your place, you poor people!” The guard rebuked them.

Disgrace! This is the worst humiliation the Lopez family has ever suffered. There will be no way for us to recover from this insult. Everyone in North Hampton will laugh at us from now on. Harry Lopez thought to himself.

Levi grimaced in silence. I did not deal with the situation right away because I want to toy with the Rogers family further. All of you will suffer in despair soon. Just you wait, Oswald Rogers!

The sheer humiliation was unbearable to the Lopez family after being thrown out from Levi Group. All of them stared at Levi hatefully.

The Protector Chapter 106

We tried so hard to please him last night because we thought he’s wealthy. But he is just a poor loser with nothing on him. Not only did we gain nothing, but we also lost our family’s dignity because of him.

“Levi Garrison! Do you care to explain yourself? How dare you come here without grasping the situation properly? I want to strangle you to death so badly right now!” Harry Lopez exploded with rage.

Samuel scolded Levi angrily, “Are you hallucinating by any chance? This company has got nothing to do with you!”

Henry was stomping his feet furiously. "Great! You've successfully ruined the Lopez family's good name. Are you happy now?"

Aaron and Caitlyn were sobbing. "You are truly a good-for-nothing piece of shit. Why are we still related to you? When will you stop daydreaming and be a down-to-earth person? We must've committed unforgivable crimes in our past lives to deserve an awful son-in-law like you. How we hope we can sever all ties with you!"

Zoey could not hide her disappointment either. Levi has crossed a line by doing this. He brought shame to the entire family. The Lopez family is well-known throughout North Hampton, yet we were chased out by the security guards earlier. This is all his fault!

Zoey glowered at Levi. "How many times have I told you that you should be honest, stay calm, and stop indulging in your daydreams? You've truly disappointed me this time. Not only did you fail to make us proud, but you also brought dishonor to the Lopez family! But let's forget about this. I believe in your capabilities, so let's work hard together in the future." Zoey consoled Levi in the end.

This is why I am infatuated with Zoey. She believes in me no matter how disappointed she is with me. Having a woman who places her faith in one under all circumstances is such a blessing. "Okay. I will listen to you from now on." Levi smiled. "But you don't have to worry because I will take back Levi Group sooner or later."

"Stop that bullshit! I can hardly contain my urge to slap you!" Samuel and Shaun were consumed by rage.

Harry warned his son again. "You better monitor your son-in-law well, Aaron. The Lopez family is not related to him in the future. So don't you dare cause any trouble for us!" Then they left resentfully.

Aaron and Caitlyn glared at Levi. "Useless idiot. You're not better than a piece of trash!" Both of them left as well after they spoke.

Zoey comforted Levi. "They are only saying that because they are mad. Don't take their words to heart. I am a little angry at you after what happened too."

Levi smiled indifferently. "It's okay. It's all water under the bridge now."

A gold color, custom-ordered Rolls-Royce arrived at Levi Group's entrance shortly after Levi and Zoey departed.

Howard Corbyn and the other executives hurriedly went to welcome the person. Howard even took the initiative to open the car door.

A man wearing a white suit got out of the car. His entire outfit was custom-made by the best tailor from abroad.

That man adjusted his gold-rimmed spectacles and asked with a smile. "Levi and Zoey left?"

That man was Oswald Rogers.

"They left, Mr. Rogers. Levi was as disgraced as a dog!" Howard reported cheerfully.

Oswald sneered. "I will begin my plan to target Levi and Zoey soon. Levi will meet the same fate as Morris Atkinson, while I will have Zoey sleep with me on her own accord and please me with her body!"

The Protector Chapter 107

April 19, 2021 by Chapter Novel

Howard and the other subordinates put on a menacing smile. No one has ever escaped a terrible fate after being targeted by Mr. Rogers. Any man who offends him is either dead or crippled.

He has never failed to obtain any girl he's interested in either. This is the first time Mr. Rogers is so fixated on targeting someone. Levi Garrison and Zoey Lopez will end up with a worse outcome than 6 years ago, and there will be no way for them to escape this time.

Howard said, "Levi is extremely lucky recently, Mr. Rogers. He encountered the Azure Dragon a few times and even met with the God of War yesterday."

Jealousy glinted in Oswald's eyes. "You're right. He is lucky. I envy his luck to get to meet with the God of War. He stumbled into the man even the richest men in the entire North Hampton like us have never met once. However, Levi also met with me. Our meeting will be the start of his endless nightmares!"

That embarrassing incident involving the Lopez family spread like wildfire as they expected. Everyone in the family could no longer hold their heads high.

Aaron and Caitlyn were also ridiculed by their colleagues.

Zoey did not escape a similar fate. Her friends were deliberately mocking her as well. This is all Levi's fault. Luckily, we are no longer staying with my parents. Otherwise, there will be no end to the insults directed at him. Nonetheless, I am glad that Levi is still alive despite our current circumstances.

Levi left the house early in the morning that day, while Zoey went to work as usual.

He visited Kirin's training base.

All 80 mercenaries hired by Rick Garrison the other day were captured by Kirin and brought to the training base because Levi had a task for those people.

He wanted to keep the mercenaries by his side because it was a hassle for him to transfer men from the North Hampton warzone to do his bidding all the time. Levi was preparing for the future troubles he had to face.

James and the other mercenaries were beyond shocked to receive the offer to become the God of War's bodyguards. We are all familiar with the God of War's legendary achievements and title. He is our motivation to survive in every warzone. This once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to serve him will bring honor to our family!

"I've assigned these people to serve you, sir! I also selected a few outstanding soldiers from the few warzones nearby to form a Special Operations Regiment. So I will need your consent by signing on this order," Kirin said with a smile.

Kirin was a man who was addicted to training soldiers into elite members of the special troop during his leisure time.

"Hand the papers to me. I'll sign it."

"By the way, will you attend our first practice, Sir? The newbies can admire you at that time!"

"Okay." Levi agreed.

Then he left after he was done assigning the tasks to the mercenaries.

Levi saw Abigail in the house when he returned to the Bayview Garden. "Don't you have class today?" Levi asked in surprise.

“There’s no point attending those classes because I am already familiar with the content. I am very smart, after all.” Abigail sipped on her yogurt drink while pacing around the living room in her shorts.

“Oh! My parents will visit North Hampton tomorrow. I will treat my aunt and the others to a meal as well. You must join us, Levi!” Abigail said cheerfully.

“Okay.” I heard Caitlyn came from an influential family. She disregarded the Black family’s opposition and married Aaron of her own accord. Her action infuriated them. I’ve never seen Abigail previously because Caitlyn’s family never attended my wedding 6 years ago.

The Protector Chapter 108

Aaron asked Levi and Zoey to visit his house that night.

He glared at Levi fiercely. “We’ll forget about the incident that happened yesterday morning, but you better don’t embarrass us tomorrow. I’ll kick you out without any hesitation if you dare to act shamelessly!”

Zoey was caught in perplexity. “What’s happening tomorrow, Dad?”

Levi smiled. “Abigail’s parents are visiting tomorrow.”

“Oh? Do you already know? I suppose Abigail told you? He’s right. They are visiting North Hampton tomorrow, and they will treat our family to dinner.” Aaron elaborated.

Caitlyn said solemnly, “Zoey, you are aware of the Black family’s influence, right? I have to remind you in advance not to commit any error tomorrow because of your uncles’ significant social status.”

“Alright, Mom.” Zoey nodded.

Levi asked nonchalantly, “Why are you so nervous? We are just having a meal together.”

“Of course we are nervous. Abigail’s parents are no ordinary people!” Aaron looked at Levi and Zoey. “Do you know why Abigail takes her mother’s surname? That’s because her mother, Pamela Rogers, is a member of the ultra-wealthy family in North Hampton, the Rogers family! They requested for Abigail to take her mother’s surname.”

“I see. No wonder Abigail’s surname is Rogers.” Zoey was informed of that matter for the first time.

Levi’s eyes gleamed pensively. So, they are related to Oswald Rogers and his family.

“Are you aware of the importance of this situation now? Pamela is the Rogers family’s representative.”

Levi and Zoey were only allowed to leave after Aaron nagged them relentlessly to be mindful and stay vigilant when meeting Abigail’s parents.

The next day, Abigail’s parents, Bailey Black and Pamela Rogers, visited North Hampton. They stayed in the Marriott Hotel and hosted the dinner gathering at the same venue.

A normal room in the Marriott Hotel cost a few thousand per night, while the presidential suite was priced at no less than 80 thousand.

It was a must for Bailey Black and Pamela Rogers to stay in the presidential suite of a 5-star hotel whenever they went on a trip.

Aaron and Caitlyn were astounded when they learned of the price because a night’s stay was equivalent to 3 times of Caitlyn’s monthly salary.

Four people were seated inside the VIP private room on the second floor of the hotel when Levi and the others arrived. There was another man inside the room aside from Abigail and her parents.

Levi could sense Abigail’s gloom instantaneously.

She hurried over toward the door when she saw them. “You’re finally here, Levi!”

Bailey, Pamela, and the unknown man stood up simultaneously.

Bailey Black was calm, collected, and dignified.

Pamela, on the other hand, was covered in lavish clothing and accessories. She gave off the temperament of a member of the royalty. Besides, she seemed radiant like a famous celebrity because of her great effort in taking care of her body.

That unknown man was tall and burly, with muscles that rippled all over his body.

Levi knew that man was a soldier with a single glance.

Aaron and his family sat around the table warily after a warm greeting between two parties.

Abigail sat in between Levi and Zoey as if she was hiding from that man.

Aaron did not dare to speak in the presence of Pamela Rogers.

Caitlyn looked at that unknown man and asked, "Who is this, Pamela?"

Pamela answered delightfully, "Caitlyn, this boy is the son of your brother's close friend. His name is Will Ramos, and he is an outstanding child. He is the first-ranking soldier in his camp, so he is selected to participate in the private training camp organized by the King of War, Kirin. Will will be the upcoming military leader in the future!"

The Protector Chapter 109

Levi thought to himself. So, he's one of the soldiers transferred here by Kirin? I guess he told everyone about the selection because that is indeed a significant achievement.

Will Ramos straightened his back and puffed out his chest proudly.

He greeted Caitlyn and her family politely when Pamela mentioned his name.

Lust glinted in his eyes as he glanced at Zoey. Beauty sure runs in their family.

"Do not hesitate to ask me for help in the future, should you require any assistance. I will certainly have the capabilities to settle your troubles," Will said to Aaron, Caitlyn, and Zoey.

Bailey Black nodded in satisfaction. "This boy is highly competent. I am sure he will become one of the highest-ranked soldiers in near future!"

Pamela smiled. "That's for sure. I've never misjudged anyone. He will serve the King of War, Kirin, since he is selected to take part in the Special Operations Regiment training camp. Are you aware of Kirin's great name?"

Aaron replied, "Kirin is the trusted aide of the commander-in-chief for the Nine Warzones, God of War."

"That's right. I guess you and your family aren't completely ignorant. Will will soon serve the God of War. Can you imagine the bright future that awaits him?" Pamela asked.

Aaron and Caitlyn glared at Levi. Then they shook their heads and sighed. "His future must be promising!" Why is our son-in-law so useless when compared to others?

"I can't say the same for your son-in-law." Bailey sneered.

Aaron's face turned sour. "You're right. He's just a nobody."

"Dad, Uncle, that's not true. My brother-in-law is amazing!" Abigail defended Levi while looking at him admiringly.

Anger surged within Will Ramos at that sight. I've always liked Abigail, and I've now received recognition from Pamela Rogers herself. But Abigail still never smiles at me or shows any interest in me. So why is she looking up to this criminal who is just recently released from jail? This is outrageous!

"Don't be fooled by him, Abigail. His achievements 6 years ago were barely acceptable. But now, he's just a piece of human trash," Bailey said unmercifully.

"That's right. You're absolutely right. Levi is nothing compared to Will." Aaron and Caitlyn agreed with Bailey.

Abigail was about to speak further, but Levi held her hand to stop her.

Will noticed the intimate interaction of Abigail and Levi under the table. He gritted his teeth angrily and clenched his fists. But then he said with a smile after regaining his composure. "The day after tomorrow will be the first day of our training camp. I want to invite both of you to the ceremony, Mr. Black and Mdm. Rogers. Perhaps we can get acquainted with the King of War, Kirin, if we're lucky."

Kirin allowed the soldiers to bring their families along to the opening ceremony of the training camp. Will wanted to bring his parents initially, but he changed his mind on the spot and offered the chance to Bailey and Pamela.

“I heard the news of the God of War’s participation in this ceremony as well. Although we will not get the opportunity to get acquainted with him, being able to admire him from afar in person is already a once-in-a-lifetime blessing.” Will was filled in anticipation for the day to arrive. I idolized the God of War and the five Kings of Wars serving him since I became a soldier. It is my biggest wish to meet them in person. So there is no way I can stay calm, knowing I can finally fulfil this greatest wish of my life soon.

“What? Really? Not only can we meet with the King of War, Kirin, but we can also see Protector of Erudia, the God of War in person?” Pamela and Bailey almost leap in excitement.

“That’s right. Each soldier is allowed to bring 3 people to the ceremony, so Abigail should tag along too.” Will deliberately glanced at Abigail.

The Protector Chapter 110

“Okay. We are attending the ceremony for sure! This is awesome! What if I am lucky enough to become acquainted with the God of War? I will be treated with respect even in the Rogers family if that happens.” Pamela began to imagine a better life in her mind.

“We are so jealous of you. This kind of opportunity will never be available to us even after many lifetimes.” Aaron and Caitlyn envied Abigail and her parents because they wanted to meet with those legendary figures as well.

Zoey, on the other hand, was unfazed.

Pamela said arrogantly, “Well, we can’t help you with that, Caitlyn. This ceremony is not available to everyone, after all.”

However, Levi voiced out nonchalantly all of a sudden. “It’s just an opening ceremony for a training camp. We can attend whenever we want.”

Dreadful silence filled the room as they looked at Levi after he spoke.

Even Zoey frowned at him. He’s not able to change his bad habit of talking big even now.

Will burst out with laughter. “Hahaha... what did you say? You can attend whenever you want? What a joke! Do you know the qualifications required to be shortlisted for this training camp? Only the top ten most outstanding soldiers from each warzone are selected. Who are you to join the ceremony anyway, Mr. Nobody?"

Levi chuckled. "I can go because someone invited me. He even told me the ceremony would not proceed without me."

Bailey and Pamela's faces were contorted with rage as they glowered at Levi.

Aaron and Caitlyn grimaced while Zoey lowered her head, desperate to find a place to hide. He's getting more and more ridiculous. The opening ceremony cannot proceed without him? I do not expect anyone to believe him because even I can't bring myself to listen to him.

Abigail thought Levi was boasting too much as well. She was embarrassed by his brazenness too.

Will laughed out loud. "You're hilarious! The ceremony cannot proceed without you? Do you think you're the King of War, Kirin, or the God of War?"

Pamela gazed at Caitlyn and Aaron solemnly. "I am worried about the well-being of your family. This is unacceptable!"

Aaron exploded with rage. "What did I tell you last night? Did I not ask you to behave and stop daydreaming? Are you disregarding my words now?"

"We shouldn't have brought you here in the first place. You bring nothing but shame to our family." Caitlyn glared at Levi fiercely.

Levi sneered. "You can say all you want, but I will attend the ceremony anyway."

Bam!

Bailey slammed on the table furiously. "Is this how your son-in-law behaves, Aaron? He's not respecting us at all!"

Pamela was upset as well. "We don't have to finish this dinner if your son-in-law is so capable! I'm afraid we are too lowly to share a table with your family's high and mighty status. Let's go! We're not staying here any longer."

No one expected the sudden turn of events as the dinner ended disastrously.

Aaron and Caitlyn were startled. We wanted to seize this opportunity to mend my relationship with the Black family with their help. But Levi had to ruin everything as always.

Colors drained from their faces. "Please console your parents, Abigail. This is all our fault. We will apologize to them personally after your parents' anger subside." The couple placed their hopes on Abigail.

"Okay. Leave it to me." Abigail glanced at Levi with complicated emotions in her eyes.

Will leaned against the door and jeered at Levi. "I hope to see you at the opening ceremony the day after tomorrow."

The Protector Chapter 111

Will left the room cockily, leaving Aaron and his family to look at one another helplessly.

Caitlyn said despondently, "The Rogers family and the Black family are both powerful families with strict household regulations. They do not condone this type of behavior. So I cannot blame them for being mad."

Aaron fixated his hateful stare on Levi as he roared, "I can't wait to strangle you to death with my own hands one day!"

He was about to slap Levi when Zoey stopped her father.

"Calm down. We'll just apologize to Uncle and Aunt another day." Zoey comforted her parents.

"Calm down? He tainted our reputations in front of the Black family and the Rogers family! What are you trying to do, Levi Garrison? Do you want to drive us to our deaths before you change that shitty attitude of yours?" Caitlyn pointed at Levi as she rebuked him.

Levi said helplessly. "Father, mother, I really do have to attend the opening ceremony."

"That's not the issue here. You brought shame to our family and offended Bailey and Pamela! So what if you attend the ceremony? That doesn't change anything. You're still a piece of human trash!" Aaron yelled angrily.

Caitlyn could not contain her wrath too. "Perhaps you can participate in the ceremony because you once stumbled into the God of War due to sheer luck.

But he's not acquainted with you at the end of the day. You have nothing to back up your big words as always!"

Zoey immediately dragged Levi away. They will force us to get a divorce if we stay there any longer.

The next day, Abigail contacted Aaron in the afternoon and told him her parents had calmed down. Abigail's parents were willing to accept their apology if they bring Levi along and make him ask for their forgiveness sincerely. But they wanted to deal with Aaron and his family only after the opening ceremony ended.

Aaron ordered Levi to beg for Bailey and Pamela's forgiveness in person. Otherwise, he would have to divorce Zoey.

Levi agreed to his request.

The opening ceremony for Kirin's Special Operations Regiment occurred the next day.

Kirin contacted Levi early in the morning, informing the latter that he would be picking him up.

Levi asked Aaron, Caitlyn, and Zoey if they wanted to tag along with him to the opening ceremony, but they scolded him instead.

Zoey chided him and told him not to interrupt her during her office hours.

Meanwhile, the army sent a car to pick Will up.

Abigail and her family got into the car together with him.

Pamela could not hide her exhilaration for having the opportunity to sit in an army vehicle despite her extraordinary family background.

The soldier driving the car said cheerfully, "You guys are so lucky, Will. The King of War, Kirin, will be instructing all of you personally. Most importantly, the God of War wants to give a motivational speech to all of you too."

Will was fidgeting in his seat as he could barely contain his excitement to meet with his idol, the God of War. "You're right. I can't believe I am blessed with this good fortune." Will smiled in embarrassment.

"That's because of your remarkable excellence. They wouldn't have selected you otherwise!" Pamela complimented him.

The soldier driving the car nodded in agreement. "She's right. You must be an elite soldier to qualify for the training camp."

Will straightened his back proudly as they flattered him. But disappointment rose within him when he turned to look at Abigail.

Abigail was not gazing at Will with admiration as he thought she should be. In contrast, she was acting indifferently.

The car entered the military zone after some time.

They finally arrived at the training base after another hour.

All of them were impressed by the sight of soldiers equipped with actual weapons standing guard all over the place.

The participants for the training camp and their families were arranged to sit in a large, vacated area.

A total of 100 participants were selected to join the training camp. Everyone was looking around enthusiastically as if it was their first day of enlistment in the army.

The Protector Chapter 112

Someone whispered, "It's better to keep quiet in this place to prevent offending anyone here. They're all formidable men."

"You're right. There are plenty of veterans attending the training camp for the first time, but they are already part of the Special Operations Regiment."

Will was not his usual arrogant self after hearing the whispers. He stayed silent and became timid among the crowd.

Pamela and the others were more excited than frightened. The people inside this base are all highly ranked soldiers and impressive men in the army. We can count ourselves lucky to be acquainted with just a few of them.

"Alright. Friends and families, come over here. I want all the soldiers to follow me!"

In the end, the crowd was segregated into 2 groups. The soldiers were crouching in front while their families sat behind on the benches provided.

Pamela and Bailey were overjoyed to see the colonels and officers lined up in front of them.

Pamela began to scan her surroundings as a thought popped into her mind.

She sneered after examining the crowd. "Levi Garrison is a joke. Didn't he say he'll be attending as well? Where is he? I can't even spot his shadow among all these people."

"Don't tell me you believe in that scum's words? I did not even take him seriously last night," Bailey responded mockingly.

Abigail started looking for Levi as well. She thought Levi would come, but she did not see him anywhere.

Will had already searched the crowd with his gaze, and he did not encounter Levi either. He thought to himself sarcastically. Where are you, Levi Garrison? You're just a piece of human trash good at talking big at the end of the day.

"Quiet down, everyone. The King of War, Kirin, will make an appearance soon." An officer waved his hand in front to signal everyone. The crowd fell silent as they held their breaths involuntarily, waiting for the King of War to show himself.

A military SUV drove into the area shortly after. The soldiers and guards saluted immediately at the sight of the vehicle.

A murmur of excitement rippled through the crowd. "The God of War is here!"

Pamela and Bailey stared unblinkingly at the SUV.

A young man dressed in a military outfit with one star embedded on his shoulder got out of the car. That man was the King of War, Kirin.

Every soldier gazed at him with respect after he got out of the car.

All the family members gasped in terror when they saw Kirin's appearance. The King of War is such a young man?

Everyone's eyes were still fixated on the SUV because they assumed the next person to come out of the car would be the God of War. But they were met with disappointment.

Someone was seated inside the SUV, but he did not get out of the car.

Kirin moved forward and addressed the crowd. "First of all, I want to welcome everyone to the training camp's opening ceremony. Next, I have a statement to announce. The God of War himself is seated inside the car. But there are privacy rules to follow in the army. Non-military personnel are not allowed to meet with him."

Everyone was well aware of the privacy rules, but they could not help feeling a little regretful for missing the opportunity to meet with the God of War. Even Will Ramos was disheartened.

Kirin added, "However, the God of War will meet with the newcomers later."

The passion returned to Will's deadpan eyes instantaneously. I can finally meet my idol!

The friends and families of the participants stared intently at the SUV in an attempt to discern the God of War's figure. Pamela Rogers and Bailey Black did that too.

Pamela even put on a pair of glasses to aid with her eyesight.

Abigail looked in the direction of the SUV curiously as well.

Suddenly, she exclaimed subconsciously, "Why does he resemble my brother-in-law?"

Pamela was shocked. "You think so too? That man inside the car does look like Levi Garrison!"

"Let me see!" Bailey Black put on his glasses and narrowed his eyes at the SUV. "I think this person does look similar to him too!"

The Protector Chapter 113

Abigail and her parents exchanged glances with one another as a thought flashed across their minds. Could Levi Garrison be the God of War?

But they quickly erased that idea. That's impossible. If Levi is the God of War, why did he let Aaron and Caitlyn live in such a small room? Why is Aaron still driving a Haval if his son-in-law is so capable?

“Say, will the God of War wear a military outfit if he’s here in the army base?” Bailey asked suddenly.

“Of course! This is such an important ceremony.” Abigail and her mother answered at the same time.

They did not believe the God of War to be Levi despite the resemblance in appearance.

At that moment, someone got out of the car.

That person was Azure Dragon dressed in his military outfit.

Kirin nodded in Azure Dragon’s direction when he sensed his movements.

“That must be the God of War!” Everyone gazed in that direction frantically.

The outsiders thought that only the God of War could trigger such respectful acknowledgement from Kirin. But they did not know it was normal for Kirin to greet Azure Dragon that way because the latter was Kirin’s senior.

Moreover, Azure Dragon’s rank was blocked by the car because he got down from the other side of the vehicle. So the crowd assumed him to be the God of War.

“I am right! There’s no way Levi Garrison is the God of War. I am satisfied with this outcome now. We’ve finally seen the God of War’s great appearance.” Pamela and her husband were exhilarated.

Everyone was under the impression that they had met with the actual God of War. But they did not know that Azure Dragon deliberately got out of the car to ventilate the air inside the vehicle because Levi wanted to smoke.

The opening ceremony ended quickly.

Pamela Rogers and Bailey Black had their wish fulfilled as they were acquainted with Kirin before they left.

However, they did not know that Levi had arranged for Kirin to look for Abigail on purpose. Pamela and Bailey were contented because they thought the meeting with Kirin was due to fate.

The newcomers were gathered together after their friends and families left.

Will and the other soldiers were agitated because they would be meeting the God of War now.

Levi got out of the car and walked toward the group of soldiers with Azure Dragon beside him.

Will was positioned at the back of the platoon, so he could not get a good look at the on-going scene. He barely made out the newly appeared figures.

“Oh? That person’s silhouette looks like Levi Garrison,” Will uttered to himself in astonishment with a frown.

Levi and Azure Dragon stood in front of the platoon.

Clarity washed over everyone when they saw Azure Dragon’s rank. He’s not the God of War. The God of War is the man standing next to him. That man in casual wear!

Kirin came to a halt in front of Levi and saluted him. “Report, Sir! We have gathered all the newcomers. Please provide us with further instructions!”

Kirin’s gesture had indirectly reflected Levi’s status.

Levi raised his voice firmly, “At ease, soldiers!”

All the newcomers made a similar and synchronized movement upon receiving the order.

Everyone panted heavily as they gazed at the God of War in awe, who was merely a few steps away from them.

Color drained from Will’s face after he discerned Levi’s face. H-H-He... He’s the God of War? I’m not mistaken, right? Levi Garrison is the God of War. No wonder he said he could attend the ceremony at will. He even mentioned the ceremony would not proceed without him...

Will’s heart was beating in his throat as adrenaline coursed through his body. He was scared out of his wits.

When he looked up, Will noticed Levi was staring at him with a smile. Fear overwhelmed him at that acknowledgement.

Thump!

Will’s vision went black as he passed out on the ground.

Everyone was stunned. We are excited, but his condition is simply an exaggeration.

Levi asked coldly, "Where is this soldier from? What's with that terrible stamina and fragile body?"

The Protector Chapter 114

"He is Will Ramos from South City's South Warzone, Sir!" Someone reported immediately.

Kirin said furiously. "How did he qualify the selection with that kind of stamina? Send him back to where he came from!"

Afterwards, Levi's brief pep talk to the soldiers marked the beginning of the training camp.

Aaron visited Levi's house when he returned home that night.

He was there to inform Levi that Pamela and Bailey were willing to accept his apology that night because they were in a good mood.

"Okay. I'll go," Levi agreed. He also reserved a table at Grand Royal Restaurant with Zoey.

Abigail and her parents arrived after a short while.

Pamela and Bailey were over the moon as they smiled dazzlingly the whole time. They were even polite to Aaron and Caitlyn when they exchanged greetings.

"Why are you so happy? Let us be a part of the joy too." Aaron and Caitlyn were intrigued.

Pamela was pleased. "This is all because of Will. Not only did we become acquainted with the King of War, Kirin, during the ceremony earlier, but we also got to see the God of War's appearance."

Abigail nodded in agreement.

"Really? You're now acquainted with Kirin?" Aaron was caught in excitement. I want to get to know these influential figures too.

Exhilaration was written all over Bailey's face. "That's right. He even knows our names. He said Abigail looks like his sister."

"What? The King of War, Kirin, knows your names? Oh my God!" Caitlyn was astounded.

Pamela explained, "They had our information as well as Will's, so they know everyone about us. I think Kirin accepted us as part of his circle. Why else would he take the initiative to meet with us?"

Bailey nodded. "Yes. We do have the qualifications and background to be included in his circle. Kirin told us to look for him if we face any trouble in the future."

Aaron and Caitlyn could not be more jealous about Abigail and her family's luck.

"I am very happy today. Do not hesitate to contact me if you need any help in the future, Caitlyn," Bailey said to his sister.

"Thank you, Bailey. Thank you!" Aaron and Caitlyn expressed their gratitude immediately. We've been waiting for so long for him to say that.

Bailey shifted his gaze onto Levi. "But he must apologize first!"

"Yes, that's right. He needs to say that he's sorry. Otherwise, we will never accept all of you." Pamela was determined.

Abigail whispered to Levi as she was caught in a difficult position too. "Please don't mind this, Levi."

Zoey urged him as well. "Just do as they say."

"I'm very sorry, Uncle and Aunt. I shouldn't have talked back to you yesterday." Levi apologized.

"Okay. I will forgive you because I am in a good mood today." Pamela waved her hand.

Bailey questioned him suddenly. "By the way, did you attend the ceremony today? We did not see you there just now."

Pamela stared at Levi mockingly. Let's listen to his excuse.

“I went. But you were not qualified to meet with me.” Levi told them the truth.

But his honesty infuriated Pamela and Bailey. They glared at him in fury.

Aaron and Caitlyn were dumbfounded. We poured in so much effort to finally get on good terms with them. But Levi has to ruin everything again.

Zoey was dazed. What did he say?

The door to the private room was pushed open just as Pamela and Bailey were about to unleash their anger. “Mr. Black, Mdm. Rogers, something terrible has happened. Mr. Ramos was kicked out from the North Hampton Warzone because he’s not qualified to join the training camp due to his poor body condition. They will be sending him into the room now.”

The Protector Chapter 115

Pamela and her husband’s faces turned white upon hearing the news. “What? Poor body condition? Not qualified to participate in the training camp? Is there a mix-up here?” They were caught in utter disbelief. We know Will’s capabilities well. He is definitely strong enough to take part in the training camp.

The door was pushed open again while they fell into a daze.

Two waiters brought Will into the room as he lay on a stretcher. Two men from the army followed behind them. They were tasked to send Will back.

“He’s really here. What happened?” Pamela asked in a hurry.

But Will saw Levi from the corner of his eyes when he was about to speak.

“Argh...” He passed out again.

The soldiers sneered. “Look at that. This is the eighth time he fainted. How can he participate in the training camp in that condition?”

They were puzzled as well. What’s wrong with him? He blacked out whenever we mentioned the God of War. But this time, he fainted before anyone said anything.

Pamela talked to one of the soldiers. "Is there any chance for Will Ramos to reenter the training camp?"

"I'm afraid that's not possible. He passed out in front of the God of War. That's considered an offensive act. The King of War, Kirin, is very displeased with him. I believe that Will Ramos' career is ruined from today onwards." The soldier answered honestly.

"He disrespected the God of War. That's a gutsy move!" The other soldier added sarcastically.

Pamela and Bailey were unsettled by the soldier's elaboration. Did he offend the God of War? Even the Rogers family and the Black family do not have the courage to do that.

No one had the interest to continue with the meal after the soldiers left.

Will regained consciousness after some time.

He was about to pass out again when he saw Levi after he woke up. But Levi quickly ordered, "Don't faint again."

Will finally recomposed himself, but his face was filled with terror and his mind was blank.

"What happened, child?" Pamela asked.

"I... I saw the God of War..." Will stammered.

"But why did you pass out?" Bailey and Pamela were caught in perplexity.

"That's because the God of War is..."

Will looked at Levi in fright as he spoke.

He wanted to inform them of the truth about Levi's identity, but the words stuck in his throat.

The privacy rules of the army surfaced in his mind. I will be exposing classified information protected by the army if I tell them about the God of War's identity.

Everyone gazed at Levi as well. A thought popped into their minds. Perhaps he's trying to tell us that Levi is the God of War? The resemblance between the man seated inside the car and Levi is too uncanny...

They waited for Will to complete his sentence anxiously.

Finally, Will uttered, "The God of War is my idol. My body is weak, so I fainted when I saw him. I am a huge embarrassment to everyone."

"Oh, I see. You almost scared me there. I thought you're trying to tell us that Levi is the God of War." Pamela breathed a sigh of relief.

"That's fine. Take a good rest to recover your health. You don't have to participate in the training camp anymore." Pamela consoled him.

Bailey eyed Levi and asked the question in his mind, "Did you see him at the training base today, Will?"

"Yes!" Will gave Levi a look with complicated emotions in his eyes.

"What? So you really went?" Pamela and the others were in disbelief.

"Mr. Black, Mdm. Rogers, please take me away for now. I would like to rest."

The Protector Chapter 116

Will did not have the courage to stay a second longer in the same room as Levi.

“We’re not finishing the meal anymore. We’ll be leaving now,” Pamela said.

Aaron and Caitlyn were worried. “Have you forgiven us then?”

“Yes! I’ve accepted his apology. By the way, you are allowed to attend Mother’s birthday banquet this year. She has accepted your return to the family,” Bailey Black answered.

Caitlyn was delighted after she was informed of the news. I can finally attend Mother’s birthday banquet since I left my home 20 years ago.

“We will be there!” Aaron said emotionally. We can hold our heads high by the time we attend the banquet because Zoey’s project is progressing well.

Caitlyn glanced at Levi happily after Pamela and her family left. “Alright. We will forgive you this time.”

Aaron pleaded with his wife sincerely, “Will you allow me to hang out with my friends tonight, Caitlyn?”

“Fine. Off you go. Take this bank card with you. I’m warning you now. Do not gamble tonight!” Caitlyn handed a credit card to Aaron.

Levi knew Aaron was a gambling addict since a long time ago. He lost a lot of money in the past. I even had to clear his debt previously. Caitlyn forbids him from taking part in those entertainments afterwards. He’s not allowed to drink with friends too. I suppose she’s making an exception today because her return has been accepted by the Black family today.

“Alright! I’ve quit gambling for a long time now!” Aaron was elated like a child.

Levi was amused by his behavior. He’s a typical henpecked man.

The four of them parted ways afterward.

Aaron went to meet up with his friends.

They were tipsy after gulping a few bottles of wine down.

Alex Glen placed his arm around Aaron's shoulder. "I heard there's a new underground casino in North Hampton. Why don't we try out our luck there?"

Aaron shook his head. "No way! I made a promise to my wife not to gamble anymore."

"Don't worry. We are just going to play a few rounds to try out our luck. You won't lose any money," Alex persuaded him.

"That's right. We did not bring a lot of money with us anyway. We'll play in small amounts, just for fun. What if we get lucky? Do you know Andrew Zafer from the marketplace? I heard he earned 800 thousand from the casino with a mere 3000 starting amount!"

"He's right. We are so jealous of him!"

Aaron's resolution wavered as his friends convinced him. "Fine. I'll go. But I have to say this in advance. I can only fork out 5000."

"Sure, sure..." Aaron and the gang headed toward the underground casino together.

Aaron was especially excited when they arrived at the venue.

A man, dressed lavishly with a glass of red wine in his hand, was seated on the second floor of the casino while he gazed at the crazed gamblers beneath him. He asked with a smile, "Aaron Lopez is here?"

"Yes, Mr. Rogers."

The men engaged in that conversation were none other than Oswald Rogers and Howard Corbyn.

Oswald sneered while looking at Aaron. "I've been thinking of ways to target all of you, but here you are, offering to step into my trap on your own accord."

Howard sought out Oswald's opinion. "How should we proceed, Mr. Rogers?"

"He's going to lose! We'll make him lose everything. Even the Lopez family will not be able to cover his debt. I am going to force Levi to his death with this staggering amount of money!" Oswald grinned like a madman.

Howard nodded. "I'll make the necessary arrangements, Mr. Rogers. I will make sure to let Aaron Lopez learn his lesson well this time."

The Protector Chapter 117

Aaron was oblivious to the incoming danger that awaited him. He was enjoying himself to his heart's content at that moment.

He had won for a few consecutive rounds and earned roughly 100 thousand. On his 10th straight win, Aaron's earnings accumulated to a few million.

Alex and the others persuaded Aaron to continue with his gambling. "You're too lucky today, Aaron! Go on! Let's go big! 10 million is easily achievable with your insane luck tonight!"

A gambling addict caught up in his moment of glory often lost his ability to think rationally. Aaron was confident he could bring home 10 million by the time he was done gambling that night.

Zoey and Levi were startled awake by the ringing from their phones in the middle of the night.

Caitlyn had dialed their numbers relentlessly.

Zoey was wide awake the moment she answered the call. "What? Oh my God!"

Her face went paper-white as the phone slipped out of her hand and fell onto the floor with a thud.

Levi asked immediately, "What's wrong?"

Zoey sobbed. "Father went to the casino and lost 300 million. He's being detained right now because he was caught cheating."

"What? 300 million? How did he lose so much money?" Levi frowned. Something's wrong. Someone must have set a trap for Aaron.

"Where is he?" Levi added.

"I don't know. Let's meet up with Mom for now."

Caitlyn was already tear-stricken by the time Levi and Zoey arrived.

Levi floored the accelerator toward the underground casino after Caitlyn informed them of the location.

The atmosphere inside the casino was unbearable. Deafening noises and cigarette smoke lingered in the air.

A few muscular men came in front of Levi, Zoey, and Caitlyn. "Who are you people?" They inquired fiercely.

Levi stated the aim of their visit directly. "We are here to look for Aaron Lopez."

"Oh. You are that cheater's family. Follow me." They led Levi and the others to the second floor.

Levi sounded the situation out in the meantime. "What happened here, actually?"

"Aaron Lopez cheated after he started to lose money. Then we caught him red-handed. How dare he cheats after losing 300 million to the casino? We need to follow the rules here and chop off his fingers!" One of the men sneered.

Zoey and Caitlyn were frightened as their faces turned to the shade of chalk.

More than 10 men stood menacingly inside a large private room on the second floor with batons in their hands.

Levi, Zoey, and Caitlyn caught the distinctive smell of blood the moment they entered the room.

A person was lying on the floor in a curled position. His body twitched faintly in a pool of blood.

"Dad! Aaron!" Zoey and Caitlyn rushed forward when they recognized the person to be Aaron Lopez.

Levi grimaced when he saw how terribly beaten Aaron was.

"Save me! Save me, please!" Aaron yelled fearfully when he saw his family.

The few thugs surrounded Levi and the others instantaneously.

A scary-looking man sat on the sofa with a gold necklace around his neck, dressed in a leopard-printed shirt.

He tossed a cigarette butt on the floor and crushed it with his foot. Then he looked up. "Are you Aaron Lopez's family members?"

"Yes. That's right. He's my father-in-law." Levi met that man's eyes.

"Let me introduce myself. I am the owner of this casino. My name is Enzo Fielder. Everyone refers to me as Mr. Enzo."

Enzo pointed at Aaron. "Your father-in-law lost 300 million to the casino and tried to trick us. According to the rules of this casino, he will have to settle the 300 million debt and let us chop off all 10 of his fingers to settle the score. Otherwise, he's going to die here! Hehe!" Enzo threatened Levi and the others.

Zoey and Caitlyn were trembling in a terror-stricken manner.

Aaron cowered in Caitlyn's arms as his body quaked uncontrollably.

The Protector Chapter 118

Levi sized up his surroundings and said mockingly, "Why do I feel that this casino is not a place of such high standards that someone could lose 300 million in a night?"

"Hmph! That's because your father-in-law took a great risk. He thought he could win 100 million after earning 10 million. So who is to blame for his greediness? More importantly, no one can condone his cheating behavior in this place." Enzo waved his hand. Alex and the others were dragged forward swiftly.

"Tell them whether I'm speaking of the truth or not!" Enzo ordered.

Alex and his friends answered immediately. "Yes. That is the truth. We told Aaron to stop after he won 10 million. But he wanted to continue gambling to win more money. So he brought this on himself for losing ultimately. We did not expect him to cheat afterwards! Why do we have a friend like you, Aaron?"

Aaron looked at his friends incredulously in a daze. "All of you framed me! You set a trap to frame me!" Aaron roared.

Alex glowered at him. "Did we force you to do anything? You made all the decisions on your own accord!"

Aaron fell silent. True, no one forced me to do anything. I did everything willingly. I can only blame my own greediness.

Zoey understood that it was a set-up, so she whispered to Levi, "Should we call the cops?"

"No. Calling the cops will only worsen the situation. They might resort to desperate measures if we do that," Levi answered.

Unfortunately, Enzo overheard their conversation. He sneered. "Call the cops? Sure, go ahead and do that. He borrowed the money from others, so we have written proof as well as the various documents he mortgaged to us. We carried out every procedure according to the law. Please feel free to contact the cops. The court will confiscate the Lopez family's business and properties by that time!"

Everyone looked at Aaron in bewilderment.

Aaron nodded. I did mortgage the family house and business. I deliberately went to the Lopez family house to steal the documents after I lost all my money. I wanted to get the money to turn the tables around. But I lost everything instead and even incurred a 300 million debt on myself.

"Please don't tell my father about this. He will kill me if he knows what I've done!" Aaron said hurriedly.

Enzo jeered at Levi and the others. "Do you want to call the cops? It's up to you to make the decision!"

Zoey was clueless as to how she should react to the unexpected turn of events.

Levi grimaced. They clearly planned every move to target us.

"Have you made up your mind?" Enzo asked.

"We will not call the cops, and we'll return the money. But we do not have 300 million with us right now. Can you give us a few days to collect the sum?" Zoey proposed.

“Sure. No problem!” Enzo added mockingly. “I am not worried at all. If all of you disappear, then I will look for Harry Lopez instead.”

“But can you please don’t chop off my father’s fingers?” Zoey pleaded for mercy.

“I’ll do you a favor. You can bring him away now. But for every extra day you fail to return the money, I will chop off one of his fingers...” Enzo smiled sinisterly.

“Alright. We agree.” Levi brought Aaron and his family away from the casino in the end.

Caitlyn was on the verge of tears when they reached the entrance. “What should we do? Where can we find 300 million at a moment’s notice?”

“We have no other choice but to say that we’ll return the money. This is the best we can do to delay the situation from turning south immediately,” Zoey lamented.

Aaron rebuked Levi when he saw the smiling expression on the latter’s face. “Why are you smiling? Why don’t you come up with a solution instead, you useless piece of shit! I could’ve settled this issue effortlessly if my son-in-law is a capable person. Regretfully, you are a good-for-nothing piece of crap! You are to blame for everything that has happened today!”

The Protector Chapter 119

Levi was stunned after listening to Aaron. He looked at his father-in-law in disbelief. Is he blaming me for his own wrongdoings?

Zoey was slightly upset. “What are you saying, Dad? You caused this mess yourself. Levi has got nothing to do with this matter.”

“Don’t give me that nonsense! He could’ve paid for the 300 million debt easily if he’s as successful as before. But he doesn’t even have a single dime with him now!” Aaron stared at Levi hatefully. “Aren’t you capable? You said you’re acquainted with the God of War, right? Can you handle this mess now? You must divorce Zoey if you fail to take care of this matter. I am a man of my word!”

Aaron vented all his pent-up anger at Levi after the horrible experience he underwent.

Caitlyn glared at him. "What are you talking about? That's not important. The most important thing is to find a way to collect 300 million as soon as possible. Let's go home now!"

Enzo dialed a number after Levi and the others left. "I've executed your orders, Mr. Rogers."

"Okay. You can pay Harry Lopez a visit directly after a few hours." The person on the other end of the phone replied.

Aaron suggested when they arrived home, "Honey, only your brother, Bailey, can help us now. Let's borrow money from them while they are still in the city!"

"You are only going to infuriate them for knocking on their doors in the middle of the night. We'll wait until tomorrow before we do anything!" Caitlyn glowered at her husband.

Zoey asked her father with a grim expression, "What happened exactly, Dad?"

Aaron described everything in detail from the beginning. He had won multiple rounds consecutively and accumulated winnings up to 10 million initially. But when he seized the opportunity to gamble further, he began to lose...

"I realize now that I've been tricked. Alex and his friends are a group of bastards!" Aaron snarled.

Zoey nodded. "That was indeed a trap."

"We have two ways of resolving this issue now. The first way is to return the money. The second method is to investigate this matter and find out the person who set you up. Personally, I think the second method is a wiser choice. We should investigate deeper before we pay them." Levi offered his idea.

Aaron stared at him fiercely. "Are you suggesting that on purpose? Did you not listen to what they said? Now you're telling me to wait and spend time to carry out an investigation? By the time we find out anything, I'll be left fingerless and even toeless!"

"Alright, let's not argue anymore. We'll go to my brother's place to borrow money from them come morning." Caitlyn was displeased.

Levi left the house quietly afterward.

Zoey wanted to think of an alternative solution, so she left as well.

The next morning, everyone in the Lopez family was still sound asleep when someone busted the door open with a loud bang.

A group of burly men covered in tattoos rushed into the house in an imposing manner.

They went straight to the Lopez family's living room.

Harry and the others hurriedly checked out the situation as they were startled by the commotion. All of them were frightened by the unwelcoming sight.

"What are you doing? You're trespassing on private property, so don't you dare do anything to us!" Harry bellowed in rage.

Enzo threw Aaron's IOU at Harry without saying a word.

Harry and the others were shocked after reading the note. "What? Aaron owes you 300 million? He even mortgaged the Lopez family's properties and business?"

Harry's vision went black as he nearly fainted.

Enzo said with a smile, "That's right. All the Lopez family's possessions are mortgaged to me now, including this house. Aaron Lopez even brought me all the necessary documents, so we are simply following the legal procedures here."

The Protector Chapter 120

Harry hurriedly went to look for the mortgage documents, but he soon realized all the documents were stolen.

"I was wondering to myself why Aaron sneaked into the house last night. So he came here to steal the documents!" Henry said angrily.

"You better pay me 300 million as soon as possible, now that I own all your properties and business. I will have the court to confiscate these possessions if you do not cough up the money!” Enzo urged the Lopez family in a joyful manner.

Harry Lopez did not say a word. I had not distributed the Lopez family’s inheritance previously. So Aaron’s IOU is legally binding because of his status as my descendant.

“You son of a b*tch, Aaron Lopez!” Harry was seething with rage.

“You have one day to return the money to me. Otherwise, I’m sure you know what consequences await you.” Enzo left after he spoke.

All hell broke loose in the Lopez family.

“Let’s go to Aaron’s place right away!”

Aaron and Caitlyn were about to depart from their house at sunrise.

Bang, bang, bang...

Someone banged on their door impatiently.

A group of people rushed into the house with Harry leading the way after Aaron unlocked the door. He slapped his son across the face without a second thought. “What a dumb son I have! What have you done?” Then Harry slapped Aaron a few more times.

“You... You already know, Father?” Aaron asked timidly while covering his face.

“A bunch of people came to stir up a ruckus at the family house early in the morning. What do you think?” Harry panted heavily.

Fabian said with a grimace, “You better start talking.”

Henry sneered. “I heard you lost the money because you gambled again? You are just like your son-in-law, always failing to correct your bad habits!”

Harry fixated his eyes on Aaron. “I’ll chop off your ears if you do not explain everything clearly today!”

Aaron glanced at Caitlyn before he began. “This is all Levi Garrison’s fault!”

“What? How is this matter related to him?” Harry asked in surprise.

Aaron nodded. "Levi lost the money because he went to the casino. I had no other choice but to steal the documents because they wanted to kill Levi on the spot!"

He knew his family would beat him up if he informed them of the truth while their anger was at the boiling point. So he placed all the blame on Levi instead.

They did not trust Aaron's words at that moment, so everyone turned to look at Caitlyn.

Caitlyn said through her gritted teeth, "That's right. It's all because of Levi Garrison. Aaron has already quit gambling for 6 years now. Levi has been gambling because he wants to become rich. Do you still remember the money we paid back previously, Father?"

Harry nodded. "Of course. Don't tell me that Levi earned that 5 million through gambling?"

Caitlyn nodded. "That's right. He did not borrow the money but got it through gambling. This time, he lost 300 million."

Henry questioned her, "But I verified this myself. He really did borrow the money."

Caitlyn responded with a question on her own, "Do you think he can borrow that large amount of money without anything to mortgage, Henry?"

Henry understood instantaneously. "Now I get it. The bank loaned him the money because he has the capability to return the money through gambling!"

Caitlyn's speech convinced every member of the Lopez family.

Aaron gave his wife a thumbs-up internally. She's brilliant! We've successfully placed all the blame on Levi with that perfect excuse.

Aaron seized the moment and said, "Don't you see why Levi is not here? That's because he fled in advance!"

Harry was infuriated to his limits. "I'm going to kill you, Levi Garrison!"

"Let's go and find Levi now!" Everyone left angrily.

The Protector Chapter 121

Aaron drew in a deep breath after the Lopez family had left—they were safe for now.

“Whew—honey, you sure are smart!”

Aaron didn't forget to give Caitlyn a word of compliment.

“Hurry up and go look for my brother and Pamela! Or you'll be the one to lose a finger!” Caitlyn said as she rolled her eyes at him.

The two immediately rushed to the Marriott Hotel.

“Is there something you want for you to see us at this hour?” Pamela asked.

“Bailey, Pamela, I'll cut to the chase then! We want to borrow three hundred million from you! We're in need of money for our business!”

“Don't worry about us not paying you back. You guys should know about Zoey's project. It's a project worth more than a billion. Three hundred million will definitely not be a problem!”

Aaron and Caitlyn went straight to the question of money.

Pamela and Bailey exchanged glances.

“We need to discuss this first!”

After half an hour, the two agreed to lend them three hundred million—mainly because Zoey's project was guaranteed to succeed.

“That's great!” Aaron was exhilarated.

However, at this moment, Pamela's phone rang.

It was Oswald.

Pamela answered the call. “Oswald, what's the matter?”

“Aunt Pamela, I have something to tell you...”

Pamela gave Aaron and Caitlyn a puzzled look. Her expression took on a drastic change the more she listened to Oswald.

“Okay, I got it. I won’t lend it then!”

After hanging up the phone, Pamela snapped, “You people were lying? Do you really need money for your business? Aaron, you’ve lost three hundred million from gambling, didn’t you?!”

“Get lost, now!” Bailey’s fury sprang to life when he learned about the truth. “Come see us again only after you settled your debt!”

Then the couple kicked Aaron and Caitlyn out, leaving them stupefied.

Why did they change their mind after answering one phone call?

“What do we do now?”

Aaron sweated with anxiety.

On the other side, Zoey was trying to find a solution as well, but the most she could come up with was fifty million.

She was at her wits’ end, as they had already invested the rest of the money in the project.

Besides, the project would have to be suspended as well if she took that fifty million away.

It was to check on this matter that Levi had left early this morning.

However, the strange thing was that the other party clearly didn’t cheat. It was Aaron who lost the money after gambling with an expert.

It was clearly a deception, yet it was seamless.

There must be something fishy. I can definitely find out the truth if I call the cops, but Aaron will have to be imprisoned, and Zoey will be heartbroken if that happens.

Levi didn’t want that to see that. He could have easily paid up that three hundred million, but he wanted to find out the mastermind behind this scheme first.

Everyone had thought of every possible way, but they just couldn’t get the money together.

Dread gnawed at Aaron's insides at the thought of having his fingers chopped off tomorrow.

"Honey, what should I do? Think of something! I don't want to have my fingers chopped off!" Aaron shouted anxiously.

Caitlyn creased her brows. "I heard Zoey will contact major investors next to borrow money, but I'm afraid it'll take a little longer. Probably a few days."

"Few days? I don't have a few days! My fingers will be chopped off in a few days, that's for sure!"

Aaron got all sweaty.

"So find someone to replace you during these few days."

There was a bright light in Aaron's eyes. "You mean I should put Levi on the spot and have his fingers chopped off on my behalf?"

"Who else do you think if not Levi? You've thrown the blame on him, anyway!"

Caitlyn gave him an angry stare.

Aaron nodded in approval. "That's right! He's just a good-for-nothing. What's the big deal with having his fingers chopped off? He has to rely on us to feed him, anyway! That's going to be the biggest contribution he's ever made for the family!"

The Protector Chapter 122

Caitlyn sighed. "But the problem is Zoey. If she finds out, she definitely will not agree to this."

"We'll just hide from her then and tell her that the casino is giving us a few more days. We'll trick Levi to come over and have him go in my stead," Aaron said.

"Then we'll have to call Dad and the others over to impose a little pressure on him. They've been looking for him all day, but to no avail," Caitlyn said.

Aaron quickly made the arrangements.

After learning the news of the postponement for a few days, Zoey was much more relieved, but she didn't stop looking for solutions.

When Harry heard that Levi had been found, he immediately rushed over.

Thereafter, Aaron gave Enzo a call, asking if he could let Levi take his place.

To his surprise, Enzo agreed at once.

After hanging up, Enzo called Oswald.

"Mr. Rogers, you were right. The Lopez family is using Levi as a substitute."

"Okay. Let's make it a slow and terrible ordeal for Levi. Send me the footage of his fingers chopped off tomorrow!"

Oswald's cold and crazed voice sounded from over the phone.

...

Levi's investigation was beginning to take shape when Aaron called.

"Levi, come quick! Things have changed! Come straight to the casino!"

Hanging up the phone, Levi made a beeline for the casino. He realized Harry and the others were there when he arrived.

Upon seeing him, they charged forward, pushing and shoving him.

"What the hell? Did you lose three hundred thousand in gambling? You've fking ruined the Lopez family!"

"You're going to destroy the Lopez family! I'm going to kill you!"

...

Utterly confused, Levi stared at the crowd incredulously.

Me, gambling?

It dawned on him that Aaron and Caitlyn had put the blame on him when he noticed their unnatural demeanor from afar.

Thus, it was inevitable that Harry and the others would vent their anger on him as they didn't know the truth.

Aaron seized the chance to come forward, scolding, "Take responsibility for what you've done, Levi!"

"Yeah! Take care of it yourself!"

The mass put in their two pennyworth.

Aaron pulled Levi to a side and said sternly, "You will go to meet Mr. Enzo on my behalf later! Or I'll get Zoey to divorce you if you refuse! I have your marriage certificate and household registration in my hands, so I mean what I say!"

"You'll be our best son-in-law if you go in Aaron's stead!" Caitlyn added. "We won't cast you aside even if you've lost all your fingers. Zoey and we will support you for the rest of your life!"

"Yeah, hurry up and agree! It doesn't matter if you lose a finger anyway," Aaron said in a low voice.

Disappointment!

What a disappointment!

Levi could only feel the indifference and coldness of humanity.

How could they do this to me when the chips are down?!

If it weren't for Zoey, he wouldn't have wanted to stay in this home.

However, Aaron and Caitlyn had no other choice.

"What are you people hesitating for? Send him out and let him take care of everything!" Harry urged.

At this moment, Enzo came with his men, surrounding Levi and the others.

"He'll go!"

Before Levi could react, he was pushed out by Aaron and Caitlyn.

"Levi Garrison, right? Take him away!" said Enzo with a sneer.

With that, Levi was taken away by Enzo's followers.

Aaron and Caitlyn heaved a sigh of relief.

“Let’s go now before we get dragged into this!”

Aaron and Caitlyn departed instantly, afraid that Enzo would go back on his words.

The Protector Chapter 123

“I’m wondering if we can push everything on Levi,” said Aaron with a frown after leaving the underground casino.

Caitlyn’s expression changed slightly. “You mean to transfer the three hundred million debt to Levi and then get him to divorce Zoey and cut off all ties with him?”

“Yeah! That would be killing two birds with one stone; we don’t have to pay the money back and we can send away that odious brat.”

“Drop it, you. You’re the one who lost the money, and you signed the agreement. How are you going to do that?”

Aaron sighed, his heart sinking. “I need to think of a way.”

In the casino, Levi was brought into a small and dark room.

Enzo sat in front of him, surrounded by sturdy men.

“Your father-in-law has pushed you out to have your fingers chopped off on behalf of him, Levi Garrison,” said Enzo with a bloodthirsty smile. “Are you ready?”

Enzo picked up a sharp machete that glowed under the lights.

To the side were people holding cameras in their hands, ready to film.

It was an assignment from Oswald to film the process of Levi having his fingers chopped off.

“Hold it right there!” said Levi suddenly.

Enzo grinned, revealing his rows of gold teeth. “Why? Are you afraid? Haha...”

Levi said nothing and silently lit a cigarette.

Cough...

The next second, everyone was choking and coughing violently.

“What on earth does that cigarette contain?” Enzo asked, inspecting the cigarette. “The smoke is so strong!”

“I think it’s a special cigarette from the war zone, Mr. Enzo,” said a thug uncertainly. “My childhood friend who’s a soldier gave me one before. The tobacco scent is really strong.”

Everyone’s expression changed at the mention of the special cigarette.

Enzo snorted. “Drop it, you guys. You think a crook who just came out of prison can smoke a cigarette like that?”

Levi took a puff of his cigarette and said calmly, “Tell me who instructed you to do this before I finish smoking this cigarette or you’ll be sorry for this.”

Enzo and his men burst into laughter.

Levi’s going to get his fingers chopped off. Why is he even threatening me?

Everyone looked at Levi as if he was a fool.

Who exactly is having it worse?

Enzo guffawed. “Is this kid crazy? Don’t worry. It won’t hurt. It’s just one cut!”

“There’s not much time left,” said Levi, looking at the cigarette that was about to burn out. “You’ll be really, really sorry for this if you choose to remain silent.”

Enzo and his men snickered. “Okay then, show us what you got. We’d like to see what you are going to do to us after smoking that cigarette.”

Everyone watched as Levi finished smoking the cigarette, threw it to the ground, and stomped it out.

He lifted his head and glanced at Enzo and his men. “You’ll soon regret this!”

“Regret, my foot! Not before I chop off your hand!”

Shook with fury, Enzo lifted the knife in his hand suddenly.

Bang!

The door suddenly collapsed with a deafening crash, causing Enzo to stop in fright.

In the next second, sturdy men with different skin colors but uniformly dressed in suits rushed in from the outside.

With an average height of over six feet two, they stood there like mountains.

These people were none other than James and other mercenaries that Rick had hired.

They were currently hiding in the shadows, serving as Levi's bodyguards.

It was through the signal Levi had left that they found this place.

"Attack!" James commanded, and with a loud howl, the mercenaries pounced on their prey like tigers dashing down a mountain.

The Protector Chapter 124

Bang!

Crackle!

"Ugh..."

Despite being at the top of their class, the thugs at the casino were not at the same level as the mercenaries who had been in and out of the battlefield all year round.

They were all knocked down in less than a minute, unable to deal with James and his mercenaries' mortal blows.

While the thugs bathed in blood, their faces disfigured, Enzo was the last man standing.

"Beat him!" Levi ordered expressionlessly.

James grabbed Enzo's face and punched him hard. After seven to eight consecutive blows, Enzo's face sank in and was beyond recognition.

The shrill cries like those of a pig being slaughtered reverberated in the small and dark room.

They'd never expected Levi to have so many bodyguards with extremely high combat effectiveness following him.

"Well, what did I say?" Levi scoffed, looking condescendingly at the battered thugs.

"Now, spit it out!"

After being forced to take Aaron's place, Levi figured out that instead of investigating, he might as well use violence to make these people speak.

"I can't," Enzo said in fear. "I'll be as good as dead."

"Beat him! Beat him until he speaks up!" Levi said coldly.

James and the others were militant and enjoyed crushing their enemies. At his command, they grew more violent, giving Enzo the most terrible beating.

Until everyone was beaten half dead, Enzo raised his arms to surrender. "I'll speak! I'll tell you everything!"

James yanked him toward Levi.

"I-It was Howard Corbyn of Levi Group! We were forced into this!" Enzo confessed, but not daring to mention Oswald's name.

However, Levi knew at once that it was Oswald.

He glanced at the camera on the table and chuckled. "It was he who asked you to film the chopping of my fingers?"

"Yes!"

Enzo nodded.

Levi gave James a look. He immediately understood as he pinned Enzo to the table and put his hand on it, slowly lifting the sharp knife.

Next to him, another mercenary took the camera.

“No! No!”

Sensing the situation, Enzo yelled at the top of his lungs.

“AAAAARRRGH!”

Then he let out a terrible scream.

Thereafter, Levi asked Enzo to send out the video, which Howard showed to Oswald upon receiving it.

“Hahaha... Did you hear his scream? I can’t believe a human is capable of making that sound!”

Oswald had a good laugh.

“Howard, send this video anonymously to everyone in the Lopez family, including Zoey,” he instructed.

Very soon, everyone in the Lopez family received the video.

Seeing that the person in the video had his fingers chopped off brutally, Aaron felt a flash of terror, his expression turning for the worse.

“Damn! That was too scary! Thank God that wasn’t me!”

“They really mean it!” Caitlyn got the scare of her life, and so did Harry and the others.

Zoey, who was still on the hunt for a solution, almost threw her phone to the ground after looking at the footage that she had received suddenly.

“Dad’s fingers were chopped off? Was he trying to comfort me when he said that it was postponed for a few days?”

Zoey quickly made a call. “Dad, what happened to you? Are you okay?”

“I’m fine,” Aaron said.

“Then who was it who had his fingers chopped off?” Zoey asked in confusion.

“I-It was Levi...” Aaron faltered.

“What? Levi? How could it be?”

The Protector Chapter 125

“Why is it Levi?” Zoey sobbed after learning the truth.

Caitlyn snatched the phone over and said, “Sweetie, we had no choice! It was Levi who volunteered to take your Dad’s place!”

“How could you do that? You didn’t even tell me! Wait there, I’m coming home now!” Zoey cried.

Shortly after, Zoey arrived home.

“Sweetie, Levi told us not to tell you!”

“It doesn’t matter if he loses a few fingers anyway, but I can’t lose any,” Aaron said.

A sob caught in Zoey’s throat.

“Sweetie, you’ll have to return the money as soon as possible. That way we can buy Levi a few more days,” Caitlyn said.

“But that just means he’ll lose a finger with every passing day!” Zoey screamed. “How could you bear to do it?”

“It’s not like we have a choice. You can’t just watch your dad suffer, can you? He’s still young so he can take it!” Caitlyn comforted.

“Did you force him to go?” Zoey asked, staring at them.

“He did it of his own free will. We didn’t force him!” Aaron denied.

Caitlyn exchanged a look with Aaron and blurted out, “Sweetie, once we settle this debt, you should get a divorce with Levi!”

Zoey looked incredulous. “What? Divorce? Dad, Levi suffered in your stead! How could you just give him the brush after using him? Are we such heartless people?”

“Sweetie, Levi’s sacrifice won’t go unnoticed,” Aaron and Caitlyn said hastily.

“We’re not ungrateful people. We’ll compensate him with enough money once this is over!”

“You...”

I’m so disappointed in them today...

“But you must divorce Levi! He has never been good enough for you in the first place, and now that his fingers are gone, he’s not worthy of you! I can never tolerate my daughter marrying a cripple with incomplete fingers!” said Aaron adamantly.

Zoey was bemused.

How can they be so cruel to Levi just to save themselves?

“Zoey, you can’t cry over spilt milk now. Just hurry up and pay off the debt if you want Levi to suffer a little less,” Caitlyn said.

Just then, Harry arrived.

“Our turning point is here!”

Harry couldn’t contain his excitement.

“What do you mean, Dad?” Aaron asked quizzically.

“Someone has just come to inform us that there is a person willing to help us pay back the money, but on one condition—Zoey must remarry!” Harry said.

“Really?”

Harry raised the three hundred million check in his hand. “They brought the check! Now the question is—Zoey, will you remarry or not?”

Zoey was momentarily lost, but she knew that three hundred million was too big an amount to get at this moment.

“What are you hesitating for? Go on, say yes!” Aaron urged. Right now, money was gold.

“Just say yes. If you agree now, Levi won’t have to suffer so much,” Caitlyn said, causing Zoey to shudder as the cruel image from the video flashed in her mind.

For Levi!

“Okay, I agree to remarry!” said Zoey.

The adults were instantly relieved.

Harry took out a keycard and handed it to Zoey. “If you agree, go look for him at Sheraton Hotel! We only have the right to use the check once you arrive at the hotel!”

The Protector Chapter 126

“Who is this person, Grandpa?” Zoey asked.

“I don’t know. But we were informed that he’s someone who has pursued you before. As long as you marry him, he’ll pay the three hundred million for us and he promises that the Lopez family will be worry-free for life,” Harry said.

Aaron and Caitlyn looked at each other, their eyes brimming with joy at the blessing in disguise and at Zoey’s remarriage to a super-rich man.

“Go on then! Mr. Enzo has changed his mind and is only giving us one day. If you’re late, Levi will lose all his fingers!” Harry prodded.

Hearing that, Zoey accepted the keycard and dashed out.

Naturally, these were all Oswald’s arrangements.

It was he who gave them that three hundred million check. In his opinion, it was equivalent to not spending a single cent as the money would be returned to him after the Lopez family gave the check to Enzo.

Not only could he turn Levi into a cripple and hound him to death, but he could also get Zoey; it was simply the most profitable business.

With an apprehensive heart, Zoey finally arrived at the hotel.

She knew what it signified, but the primary purpose at present was to pay back the money quickly and relieve Levi of his sufferings.

And only by meeting the said person would he solve their problems.

Arriving at the designated presidential suite, Zoey took a deep breath before opening the door.

Standing in front of the French windows in the vast living room was a man whose back Zoey felt was familiar.

When he turned around, Zoey was stunned.

“Oswald, it’s you?” she asked in disbelief.

She had thought it would be someone else. After all, Oswald had never harassed her for the past six years. He would have made his move long ago if he wanted to have her.

“Are you wondering why I haven’t been looking for you for the past six years?” Oswald said, seeing through Zoey’s mind as he adjusted his gold-rimmed spectacles.

Zoey nodded.

“The truth is—I’ve been watching you all this time during these six years—our number one beauty of North Hampton. I wanted to see how long you two can last, but I didn’t expect you to hold on for six years,” Oswald sneered.

“You set up the whole thing about my dad losing money?” Zoey asked, remembering the matter suddenly.

“How could you say that? No one forced him to gamble.” Oswald shrugged.

“You... You’re a scoundrel!” said Zoey angrily.

“Just give up, Zoey! If I could destroy you people six years ago, I can do it again!” Oswald cackled with laughter.

Thunderstruck, Zoey gazed at Oswald incredulously. “You did that six years ago?”

Oswald sniggered. “How do you think the Garrison family could overthrow Levi six years ago?”

Zoey was as angry as hell upon learning that piece of information.

“I’m giving you two options, Zoey. One, strip naked and lie on the bed. Two, leave now, but it will be disastrous for Levi. His fingers and toes will be chopped off, but I can’t say if he’ll choose to jump off the cliff in the end!”

Oswald’s lips curved into a malicious smile at the thought that his goals of forcing Levi to death and having Zoey get into his bed were about to be achieved.

Zoey was utterly floored.

Oswald had planned everything beforehand, and she was left with no choice but to listen to him. Otherwise, Levi would be either crippled or dead.

The Protector Chapter 127

Meanwhile, as soon as Zoey arrived at the hotel, Harry received a message: You can use the check now.

Aaron headed to the underground casino with Harry.

As soon as they arrived, they were brought up short by the sight of Levi coming down from the second floor, holding a stack of documents of title deeds and so on in his hands.

Most importantly, Levi's fingers were all completely intact!

He was clean from head to toe, with not a single stain of blood to be seen.

They looked at Levi's fingers.

Perfectly intact!

All ten fingers are still there!

How is it even possible?!

His fingers were clearly chopped off from the video!

As their mouths were still wide agape with incredulity, Levi had already come up to them.

"Where did you get this check?"

Levi took over the check and had a premonition of something bad as he studied it.

"H-How are you okay? Didn't you have your finger chopped off?" Aaron was baffled.

Levi ignored them and suddenly raised his voice, "How in the world did you get this check?"

"Uh..." Aaron hesitated.

“Spit it out!” Levi snarled, exuding a breath of hostility that made the two of them hold their breaths as if they were being strangled at their necks. His gaze was especially terrifying.

Intimidated, Aaron gave him a factual account of the chronology of the incident.

“At Sheraton Hotel on Maxwell Street!” Aaron finished.

“How long has it been?!” Levi asked.

“It’s probably too late!” Aaron lowered his head.

Harry nodded. “Yeah, it’s too late, even if you get there in a sports car!”

Levi threw the pile of documents to the ground, pushed them aside, and dialed Azure Dragon’s number as he walked out.

“I need a chopper! Immediately! Now!”

Levi’s voice was cold to the extreme.

Less than five minutes after he left the casino, a military helicopter came to a halt on the square.

Ignoring the astonishment of those passing by, Levi boarded the helicopter.

A sports car might not make it there on time, but a helicopter could.

“I want the Sheraton Hotel’s blueprint layout!”

A gleam of murderous intent flashed in Levi’s eyes.

In Sheraton Hotel’s presidential suite, Zoey was still confronting Oswald.

“There’s no use stalling for time, Zoey! The more you hesitate, the more Levi will suffer!” Oswald chortled.

Of course, Zoey understood that point, but she couldn’t get past the hurdle in her heart. She even wanted to jump off the building and get it over with.

Oswald stood with his back facing the window, appraising Zoey.

“Relax, I won’t force you! I’ll wait for you to get into my bed whenever you wish!”

The grin on Oswald's face widened like a devil from hell.

"Do you want me to broadcast it to you now to see how many of Levi's fingers have been chopped off?"

Oswald was well versed in psychological warfare. He was destroying Zoey's psychological defense to a great extent.

"You're a monster!" Zoey shrieked, glaring at Oswald.

"You're not the first person to call me that! Every woman that I've slept with and every man that I've killed called me a monster!" Oswald gave a broken smile as he inched closer.

Zoey stared at him in horror, moving back slowly.

"What? Is Levi that cripple really so good? How am I inferior to him?" Oswald asked.

"No! You can never match him!" Zoey shouted.

Oswald took out his phone and sniggered. "Howard, tell Enzo to chop off Levi's hands and feet for me and send me the video!"

The Protector Chapter 128

"Wait!" Zoey shouted in panic when she heard that. "I'll listen to you only if you don't make things hard for him! Just don't touch him!"

"Then come on!"

Oswald opened his arms wide, waiting for Zoey to fall into his arms.

Bang!

Crack!

Then, suddenly, the French windows behind Oswald made a sound like ice breaking and it shattered.

A man rushed in from outside—it was Levi!

Bang!

With a hard kick, he sent Oswald flying out of the way.

Boom!

Oswald slammed into the wall, bleeding all over the place.

He was about to struggle to his feet when Levi grabbed his hair.

Oomph!

Levi gave him a sharp punch to the face, causing Oswald's spectacles to crumble.

Oomph!

Then came the second punch.

Oomph!

At the third punch, Oswald passed out.

"Stop... Stop it!" shouted Zoey, coming back to her senses. "He's going to die!"

Right now, Levi had surely lost all sense of rationality.

He had never been so infuriated before.

Zoey was his bottom line.

And whoever crossed that line was a dead man!

Zoey looked at Levi in fear. She could feel his overwhelming hostility.

This is a thirty-story building!

How did he come in from the outside?

He's the devil of a man!

"Let's go!"

Zoey pulled Levi away, afraid that he would really beat Oswald to death if they stayed there any longer.

After Levi had left with Zoey, several bodyguards entered the room.

The sight of Oswald lying in a pool of blood scared them.

“Who did this?”

“No matter who did this, even God can’t save him now!”

“Who the f*ck in North Hampton has the audacity to lay hands on Mr. Rogers?”

Zoey knew they were in deep trouble.

She was keenly aware of Oswald’s identity as the sole heir of the aristocratic Rogers family, not to mention his tens of billions of wealth, his network of connections ramified all over the military, political, and business circles.

He was the true juggernaut of North Hampton!

Compared to the Rogers family, they were as small and insignificant as ants.

She was glad that she had responded quickly. Otherwise, Oswald would have been dead by now and the consequences would have been disastrous.

“Don’t mention any of this when we return,” Zoey instructed.

When they returned home, everyone looked at Levi incredulously.

“What happened? Did they make things hard for you? What about those title deeds and other stuff?”

Levi took out the IOU and tore it off in front of the mass.

“It’s settled. You guys don’t have to bother about it anymore,” Levi said coldly.

“Huh? How did you do it?”

Aaron and the others were utterly perplexed.

It was only then that Zoey noticed Levi had come through all those perils unscathed. Not only did he not lose a finger, he even got the IOU.

“I called the cops once I got a lead. The underground casino should be toast by now,” Levi said.

It wasn't long before the police called.

Not only was the underground casino taken down, but Aaron's matter was also revealed to be a fraud.

All the suspects had been apprehended and the seventy thousand that Aaron lost had been returned to him.

Aaron hugged Levi with much excitement. “Oh Levi, you're the best son-in-law we could ever have! You're a keeper! I can't believe you've settled this!”

Even Harry had to admit that Levi was useful this time.

Caitlyn, too, shed tears of joy.

After all, the Lopez family was almost ruined.

However, Zoey couldn't afford to be happy.

The Rogers family definitely will not let this slide!

The Protector Chapter 129

In Zoey's opinion, offending the Rogers family was much more of a crisis than this.

Reckoning that they would probably exterminate the entire Lopez family for this, she told Levi everything as soon as they returned to Bayview Garden.

“Yeah, I know.” Levi nodded.

“What should we do next? The Rogers family will soon find out about this!”

Zoey was stressed out to the extreme.

“Don't worry. You still got me.” Levi smiled.

Zoey wouldn't have believed it if Levi had said that in the past.

However, the scene of Levi breaking in through the window today was etched in her mind.

It made her feel safe and secure, and she was no longer afraid to take on the world with Levi.

Besides, if the Rogers family were to question them, she felt she could plead with Pamela.

At night, while flipping through different news channels on her phone in bed, Zoey came across a piece of intriguing news that happened on the streets of North Hampton.

There was a military helicopter parked directly on the square with someone boarding it without giving so much of a backward glance.

For some reason, Zoey actually associated the helicopter with Levi.

After all, the figure of the person in the image looked rather similar to him, although it was fuzzy.

Could it be Levi who came to Sheraton Hotel by helicopter and broke in through the window on the thirtieth floor?

There is a possibility!

Otherwise, what other explanation could there be?

I'll have to look for witnesses when there's time to see if it was Levi who boarded that helicopter.

Golden Villa, the top luxury villa in North Hampton, covered an area of over fifty hectares.

It was where the aristocratic Rogers family resided.

That night, the atmosphere at home was somber and dead.

After all, Oswald, the heir of the family, was almost beaten to death and was still unconscious.

The entire Rogers family was infuriated.

At the pitiful sight of his grandson, Glenn exuded an aura of overwhelming force.

Glenn had once fought on the battlefield. Although he had retired from the military, his bold and domineering aura was still palpable.

At the end of his military career, Glenn had served as an instructor.

He had taught many students and some of them could now be found in every major war zone, such as Steven Shaw, the Colonel of North Hampton First Metallic Regiment.

Over the years, Steven had been a great help to the Rogers family.

Besides the Rogers family's own strength, it was the network of connections that Glenn had accumulated in the past, covering the military, political, and business circles, that had enabled the Rogers family to achieve their current level of success.

Therefore, no matter what time of the day it was, his students were always at his beck and calls.

"Who did this?" Glenn demanded.

A gentle-looking middle-aged man stepped forward. He was Anthony, Oswald's father.

"Dad, it was Levi Garrison. This is a sticky business. Oswald was beaten up by him for making indecent moves toward Zoey at the hotel. But the point is, the underground casino has been taken down, and they had ratted out on Oswald."

Anthony's expression was very unsightly.

"Is the underground casino really owned by Oswald?" asked Glenn with a gloomy face.

Anthony nodded. "Yes, it is. Fred Turner from the Criminal Investigation Team just called to confirm. Even the captain, Xavier Fields, knows about this. It's a devil of a tricky problem if we get back at Levi for this!"

"What did Fred say?" Glenn asked.

"They knew about the assault on Oswald, but they advised us to smooth things over and treat it as if it never happened," Anthony said.

“Now is not a good time to meet with a mishap when the Rogers Group’s fortieth-anniversary celebration is just around the corner. The impact is just too big,” Glenn sighed.

The Protector Chapter 130

However, Glenn changed the subject soon after. “But look at my grandson. How can I stomach this?”

“As you said, the celebration is around the corner. Let’s get back at Levi once it’s over,” someone suggested.

“Okay, we’ll give him a few days to fool around, then I want him dead, no matter his background or power!” said Glenn distantly.

Then, having thought of something, he instructed, “Inform those students of mine to attend the celebration!”

Everyone felt a rush of excitement when they heard that.

Some of Glenn’s students served in the war zones, and others were in politics.

In terms of age, they were about thirty to forty years old and each of them was in the prime of their life. All held influential positions, like Steven Shaw.

It would have been a magnificent sight to see such people come together for the celebration.

In the next few days, what Zoey had been worried about didn’t happen and it made her jittery.

Thereafter, she found out through connections that the casino belonged to Oswald, which explained why the Rogers family had left it at that.

“No wonder Levi was so confident. He knew the Rogers family wouldn’t dare to make it public,” Zoey mused, smiling.

In fact, Levi didn’t know about it at all and was still waiting for the Rogers family to take their revenge.

He was shocked when he learned about it from Azure Dragon.

“It is said that the Rogers family will be having their fortieth-anniversary celebration a week later. I supposed they’re afraid of the negativity it will bring about if they make a move on you now,” Azure Dragon said.

Levi tugged his lips into a smirk. “Fortieth-anniversary celebration? Nice, I’ll be there by then to present them with the biggest gift they will ever have!”

The Rogers family must be exterminated!

It wasn’t only Oswald who directed the entire conspiracy back then, but the Rogers family was also part of it.

“By the way, Sir, I’ve found out what you asked me to investigate. The Rogers family only possesses part of Levi Group’s core technologies. Other core technologies have disappeared, but there are corresponding products on the market,” Azure Dragon said.

Inspired by what happened to Oswald, Levi felt that there were probably other forces who targeted him back then as well other than the Garrison family and the Rogers family.

Levi Group, which was founded by Levi, was mainly involved in the fields of medicine and science and technology.

At that time, he had turned the volume up to eleven and broke into the market, and was reckoned to have taken advantage of many people.

The core technology developed by his team was especially terrifying, as it had elevated Levi’s net worth by billions within a year.

Many people had coveted Levi Group’s core technology, and even more people wanted him dead.

Hence, Levi had asked Azure Dragon to find out who was possessing the core technology.

Just as he thought, the Rogers family only controlled part of it, and there were others who also took part in plotting his downfall.

“Keep searching according to those online products!” Levi ordered.

Even if the whole North Hampton was turned upside down, revenge was his ultimate goal!

For the past few days, Aaron and Caitlyn had been very nice to Levi.

Perhaps they felt guilty, but for Zoey's sake, Levi shrugged it off.

When Levi came home at night, Abigail surprisingly showed up at their door.

"Levi, I've got great news!" Abigail beamed.

Levi put on a confused expression. "Great news? What? Are you getting married?"

"Pfft! I don't even have a boyfriend. Who am I supposed to marry? You?" Abigail said, eyeing Zoey with hidden intentions in her words.

"Then what's the great news? Say it," Levi said.

The Protector Chapter 131

Abigail chuckled, deliberately holding him in suspense.

“Abigail’s favorite celebrities are coming to North Hampton,” Zoey piped up. “This girl has been yapping about it all night.”

Abigail glared at her. “Why did you say it?”

Levi frowned. “That’s all?”

Abigail nodded with pride. “Yeah, my idols are coming. How is that not great news?”

“Oh.”

Levi walked away.

Abigail went after him. “Are you upset?”

“Lame.”

“What do you mean, lame? One of them is pretty, and the other is handsome! Here, let me show you their pictures! This is Yelda Zamora. She’s not only pretty, but her singing is superb! She’s the hottest female star out there!”

Abigail showed Levi some pictures through her phone.

Levi flicked a glance. “So-so. She’s worse than your sister though.”

“And this is Zak Copland! Look, isn’t he handsome?”

Levi pushed her out and closed the door behind him.

That’s more like it.

Levi had never been interested in celebrities!

It was always the soldiers who sacrificed and struggled for the glory of the country, but it was these celebrities who received the honor and enjoyed special privileges instead!

No one knew his brothers had died for the country and that their bodies had been left in the wilderness, but these celebrities made it to the news with just a headache and elicited pity from the public with just a paper cut on their finger from filming.

While the martyr’s grave was left collecting dust, an entertainer’s anecdotes were known to all.

It was based on this standpoint that Levi couldn’t get himself to like any celebrities.

Outside the room, Abigail went to harass Zoey again.

“Zoey, do you know they were invited to Rogers Group’s fortieth-anniversary celebration? Uncle said that I can finally meet them on that day!” she squealed.

“Oh.” Zoey gave a noncommittal reply.

“I’ll get some more of those invitation cards. Why don’t you come with Levi?”

Abigail was excited.

“Okay,” Zoey said. “We’ll be there.”

The next day, with time to spare, Zoey went shopping with Abigail and Levi.

After walking around a few malls in a row, Abigail and Zoey bought nothing.

But on the contrary, the ordeal of having to go shopping had tormented Levi, the God of War.

Shopping with women is so much more tiring than killing enemies on the battlefield.

At noon, Levi eventually decided firmly not to continue shopping anymore, so he said, “Let’s eat first! Or else I’m not moving!”

Unable to argue with Levi, Abigail and Zoey could only agree to eat first.

“That’s North Hampton Center up ahead. Let’s go over there.”

Levi was really exhausted.

Arriving at the North Hampton Center, they were surprised to see the crowd that was two times more than usual.

Many people were dressed uniformly, rushing in a direction, and holding what seemed like a light stick in their hands.

Seeing the crowd, Abigail was ravishing with joy.

“God, my idols are here!”

“I can’t believe they’re having an event at North Hampton Center today!”

Abigail dragged Levi and Zoey to the front.

As there was an elevator just ahead, Levi held his peace.

It was only after coming to the center of the mall did Levi realize how scary it was.

There was a stage at the front, which he supposed the celebrities would show up there, and many people behind the stage, where celebrities including Yelda Zamora and Zak Copland were on standby.

They were here to take part in some business activities to earn some quick money before attending the Rogers family's fortieth-anniversary celebration.

However, the worst part was that there were thousands of people gathering around the stage.

The Protector Chapter 132

Not only that, but there were also people around the guardrail on the second, third, fourth, and up to the tenth floor.

Levi couldn't imagine just how many fans had gathered today. Are there at least a thousand of them?

The fans were chanting their idol's name like believers who had been brainwashed, and Abigail joined in as well when she arrived.

More than a hundred security guards were guarding around the stage to keep the fanatical fans outside.

Even the stage was cordoned off with barricade tapes!

Levi couldn't stand such a scene.

Irritated, he pulled Zoey's hands and walked straight toward the elevator.

"Where's Abigail?"

Before he knew it, Abigail had already vanished from his sight.

"She said she's going to meet her idols and told us to eat first. She'll look for us later," Zoey said.

"Okay."

Levi and Zoey were about to enter the elevator when a few security guards stopped them.

"No! You can't take the elevator!" the security guard said coldly, stretching his arm.

"Why?" Levi's forehead puckered.

"Unauthorized persons are not allowed to use the elevator today besides staff members and the celebrity teams," the security guard explained.

Levi snickered. "So you're saying that celebrities have special privileges?"

"Yes! To ensure the safety of the celebrities, you guys are forbidden to take the elevator!" the security guard said ruthlessly.

“Come on. Let’s try the escalators!”

Levi and Zoey came to the escalators, but the security guards stopped them again for the same reason.

Levi looked up to see that all the escalators had been cordoned off from the first floor to the tenth floor.

Just then, Zoey picked up a call from work and took off, leaving Levi with no choice but to eat alone.

“That area is separated from this one,” said the security guard, pointing at the opposite side. “You can take the escalator over there.”

Levi looked around briefly. I can reach the elevator on the opposite side if I pass through the stage area.

He wandered to the front stage, planning to walk through there.

Heedless of others, Levi crossed over the barricade tape directly.

“What are you doing? Stand there!”

“Stop right there!”

Suddenly, more than a dozen security guards rushed over, touching the electric batons behind their backs and locking their eyes on Levi.

Levi chuckled. “Chill! I’m just trying to get to the elevator on the opposite side. I promise I’ll stay out of your way.”

“Get back!” the head of security barked. “No one is allowed to go through here! Didn’t you see the barricade tape?”

“The celebrities who are here today are all A-list celebrities. Can you afford to bear the responsibility if something goes wrong?” another security guard questioned.

Levi sneered, “A mall is considered a public place, no? Why aren’t tourists allowed to pass?”

“You can on usual days! But not today!” the head of security said.

“You people are hogging public resources, are you not? Do celebrities have any special privileges for you to obstruct a person’s passage in a public place?” Levi asked in a low voice.

“Yes! They have the privilege! Their performance fee costs tens of millions! That’s the privilege!” the security guard said.

“What if I insist to cross over?” Levi sneered.

“This place has been cordoned off. You can try!”

A dozen more security guards came, making it over thirty of them glaring at Levi.

Levi flashed a cruel smile. “Fine, a blockade, eh?”

He fished for his phone and dialed a number. “Kirin, bring your troops to North Hampton Center! I want to lay siege to this place!”

The Protector Chapter 133

How are you calling this a blockade?

I'll show you what a real blockade looks like!

Anger overpowered Levi.

Otherwise, he wouldn't have troubled Kirin!

Seeing how Levi was putting on airs about laying siege to North Hampton Center, the security guards laughed themselves silly.

Is he crazy?

Calling the troops to lay siege to this place?

Who does he think he is?

A high-ranking officer of the war zone?

Show us what you got then!

The commotion over here had soon attracted the celebrity team's attention as a few celebrity managers came over, asking what was going on.

The ringleader was Monica, Yelda Zamora's manager. She was the top celebrity manager in the entertainment industry, who had entirely arranged the event today on her own.

In another word, she had the final say!

Monica shot Levi an icy stare. "What is your problem? Can't you see that this place has been blockaded?"

Levi gave a half-suppressed laugh. "Who gave you the right to do that?"

Monica froze at that question.

It was a question which she didn't know and had never thought about the answer.

After all, it had been normal all along for celebrities to go out with bodyguards, occupy a place and cordon off an area. So it became a default rule.

Celebrities had an inherently noble identity with a very high net worth.

And therefore, no one was allowed to come near to them.

So much so that roads would be blocked off to prevent pedestrians from passing by when they were shooting variety shows.

It was as if this privilege was given to them in silent acquiescence, and the passerby would consciously abide by it.

Thus, they were completely caught off guard and didn't know how to answer when Levi raised that question.

"Standing here today are all A-list celebrities of Erudia. They're noble and worth billions. They can enjoy this privilege! If anyone is allowed to come and go freely at this time, then what's the difference between our artists and you ordinary people?" Monica snapped.

Levi laughed. "So you mean to say that celebrities are people of status?"

"Yes, you can put it that way! After all, what they did is beyond what you can think of! It's only right for them to enjoy this privilege!" said Monica solemnly.

"Don't you even think about creating trouble here or we'll hand you over to the police!" She further threatened.

"Bloody f*ck!" Levi cursed. "I just want to ride the elevator and grab a meal, but you guys are here blabbering on and on about blockading this and that. If that's what you want, I'll show you what a real blockade looks like!"

Monica and the others laughed at Levi's bravado.

A real blockade? What the hell is a real blockade?

Are you kidding me?

Monica was about to call security to kick him out when the crowd went wild at the few celebrities walking over.

Monica immediately went up to them.

The two stars in the lead looked very dazzling.

They could be distinguished at first glance, even among a sea of celebrities.

The man, whose skin was fair, was decked out in a white suit. He exuded a feminine aura that was most in line with the contemporary standard of a hunky boy-next-door.

As for the woman, she was wearing a long white dress that accentuated her petite and sexy figure, and as she flaunted her gorgeous face, she looked like an angel descending to the earth.

They were none other than the popular stars, Yelda Zamora and Zak Copland.

"Monica, what's the matter?" Yelda asked.

“This fella insisted on trespassing, and after we stopped him, he said he wants to blockade this place,” Monica sneered.

The Protector Chapter 134

“Just let him go over there, Monica,” Yelda said softly. “It’s no big deal.”

“No, Yelda! What if he has evil intentions? Look at him. I have no reason not to suspect that he’s coming for us!” Zak suddenly spoke, his voice cold. “Where’s security? What are you waiting for? Seize him!”

Zak was especially sick of such a fan who tended to act up to attract their idol’s attention.

To him, Levi was that perfect example.

Yelda looked at Levi and said, “Just let him go! Who knows if he has something urgent to attend to!”

“Hmph, no way! This is dangerous for us! Don’t you know how valuable our identities are? What if he means malice? This is why the place is sealed off! To guard against people like him!”

Zak was uncompromising.

Just as the security guards were about to make their move on Levi, he took out his phone and bellowed, “Kirin, where the f*ck are you?”

“We’re already in position, Sir! Initiating North Hampton Center’s lockdown!” Kirin’s voice was heard.

Everyone could hear their conversation clearly.

Zak and Monica laughed out loud.

“Who are you trying to scare here? Who do you think you are to lock down North Hampton Center?”

“If you can lock down North Hampton Center, I, Zak Copland, will eat a turd!”

At this moment in time, something big was happening outside of North Hampton Center.

Every pedestrian on the square in front of North Hampton Center stopped to look up at the sky.

There were at least a dozen helicopters hovering above North Hampton Center building!

Whoosh!

The helicopter hatch opened. One by one, heavily armed guards came down, landed on their feet and lined up in formation, heading for the interior of North Hampton Center.

“Attention, everyone! The lockdown of North Hampton Center is now in effect! Clear out as soon as possible! Attention, this is not a drill...” A deafening sound was heard from the loudspeakers of every helicopter.

The crowd was in a complete state of panic as they were curious about what was happening.

Inside one of the helicopters, a soldier was operating the computer.

He quickly hacked in and took control of North Hampton Center’s PA system...

Despite the warning outside, it was inaudible inside North Hampton Center.

Zak and Monica were still making fun of Levi. “Well, what are you waiting for? Where are your men? God, this is hilarious!”

Buzz... Buzz... Buzz...

A loud noise reverberated from the PA system inside the mall, making everyone stop all their movements to look up.

“Attention, everyone! This is Yash Warner speaking, the Captain of Kirin Special Operations Force of North Hampton. We’re imposing a lockdown on North Hampton Center right now! Please cooperate with us!”

The announcement made through the loudspeakers was played over and over again.

Before anyone could react, the sound of uniform marching was heard from behind them.

Thump... Thump... Thump...

Everyone looked back to see heavily armed guards, marching in in groups of tens, surrounding them from all sides.

“Freeze! Freeze!”

The security guards were all put to the ground in no time.

Above the high level was a guard who came descending from the sky with a rope tied to his body.

It turned out that they had attacked from above...

All the security guards on the other floors had been subdued at the same time!

The Protector Chapter 135

Everyone got a nasty shock, including Zak, Yelda, Monica and the rest of the celebrity team and security guards.

Levi was just talking about cordoning off this place, and it really happened!

And they're all from the Special Operations Regiment!

The next moment, Levi ripped off all the annoying barricade tapes before their eyes and replaced them with military ones.

The barricade tape the security guards had put up from before was to barricade the public from getting near to the artists, but the point of the military tape now was to encircle the celebrity team.

Everyone huddled together, shivering in fear.

So what if they had fame and status?

They were as scared as ever to encounter the Special Operations Regiment!

Right then, Yash Warner, whose voice was heard from over the PA system, showed up holding a loudhailer in his hand, still warning the people, but at the same time mollifying their anxiety by telling them it was just a simple lockdown.

Yash was armed to the teeth and had several grenades hanging on his chest.

Following behind him were dozens of well-trained soldiers who were jogging up to the front of the stage, standing before Levi amidst the horrified looks of the cadre of celebrities.

“Reporting, Sir!” Yash shouted, giving a military salute. “Yash Warner, the Captain of Kirin Special Operations Force of North Hampton, is here to protect the Chief! Awaiting your orders, Sir!”

A deathly silence filled the atmosphere...

Monica, Zak, Yelda, and the security guards regarded Levi with an astonished look.

Chief?

What?

He's their Chief?

And a very young one at that?

Levi glanced at Yash.

This is great!

Kirin's hellish training is really something!

These ordinary soldiers were as good as the Imperial Guards, despite the short training period.

"Mm, that was fast!"

Levi nodded, then looked at Monica, Zak and the others.

"This is what you called a blockade! Do you understand now?"

Everyone was drenched with sweat at Levi's words. They were so frightened that they almost passed out.

However, one thing they could make out for sure was that Levi was the Chief of the Warzones!

No wonder he was so full of himself when he said he was going to cordon off North Hampton Center.

It turned out that he really had the power to do so!

Zak's face darkened as he remembered what he said about eating a turd if Levi could cordon off this place.

Levi's identity was unexpected.

Who would have thought that a passerby who was just going to grab a meal turned out to be the Chief who could summon the Special Operations Regiment with just a word?

Everyone shuddered when they noticed Levi's stern gaze on them.

"According to your logical thinking, I should be as noble as you, right?" Levi sneered.

Monica and Zak nodded fervently. "Yes, yes, yes! You're definitely someone of noble status, Chief!"

"Then should I also enjoy special privileges and occupy public resources wantonly?" Levi asked.

"Definitely! What are you talking about, Chief? You can do whatever you want!"

Naturally, Monica and Zak became docile and obedient, wanting to make friends with the Chief.

But Levi raised his voice the next second. "Does that mean I should bring along a troop with me to cordon off this place just to have a meal at the mall?"

"Huh?"

Levi's sudden rage had Monica and the rest trembling.

"Privilege? There are so many people with privileges! If everyone behaves like you, wouldn't it be a mess?!"

The Protector Chapter 136

“It’s not wrong for you to organize an event, but is it necessary to block all the places? There are so many people and not everyone is here for you.

They’re like me, who came to eat and buy clothes. Why do we have to wait for hours because of your event? If we’re talking about privileges, what do you think about only continuing your event after I cordon off this place and finish my meal?”

Faced with Levi’s questioning, Monica and the rest looked down and dared not speak a word.

All this while they had only considered the safety of the artists and their own privileges when holding events that they had disregarded the problems of other people’s livelihood.

Perhaps ordinary people were simply not qualified for their consideration in their eyes.

“We were wrong, Chief. We’re aware of our own mistakes and we shouldn’t have occupied public resources! We will definitely think before organizing any events in the future!”

Monica took the initiative to apologize.

Levi gave the crowd a perfunctory glance. “Cancel the event. Yash Warner, take them back and have everyone write a ten thousand-word letter of remorse before releasing them!”

“What?”

Everyone was stunned when they heard that.

Are you kidding me? You’re asking these high and mighty celebrities to write a ten thousand-word letter of remorse?

However, at Levi’s ferocious gaze, everyone lowered their heads.

Lastly, Levi looked at Zak. “I think I’ll not watch you eat turd. It’s too disgusting.”

Zak was badly shaken.

It definitely wasn’t a good thing to be remembered by such a big shot.

After Levi had left, Yash fell back with his men and the celebrities had left as well.

The mall was soon restored to order, and Levi had his meal as he wished.

Very soon after, Abigail found Levi.

“Levi, you totally missed it. A big chief wanted to have a meal, but the place was sealed off, so he put this place on lockdown in a fit of rage. He even took away my idols and they supposedly have to write a letter of remorse. How tragic.”

As Abigail was among the crowd, she only had a general idea of what transpired just now, with most of it having heard from other people.

“They deserve it,” Levi said coldly.

“But I heard the Chief is only in his twenties. Do you think there’s such a young Chief, Levi?” Abigail queried. “I mean, generally speaking, shouldn’t they be in their forties and fifties by the time they earn their qualifications and get to the top?”

“Everything is fair and just in the military. Anyone with the capability can become a Chief! It’s normal to have a high-ranking position in your twenties,” Levi said.

“Oh, I see.”

Abigail continued with regret, “I’m just sad that I couldn’t meet my idols this time. But my uncle has invited me to the fortieth-anniversary celebration. You should come too, Levi.”

Hearing that it was the anniversary celebration of the Rogers family, Levi agreed.

“Sure, no problem.”

At the training base, Yash had just released the celebrities who had finished writing their letters of remorse and was about to report to Kirin when he bumped into Steven Shaw along the way.

“Hey Steven, what are you doing here?”

Yash and Steven were once soldiers of the same class, and they studied together later.

So they had a close relationship.

“Mr. Rogers’ family business is holding a fortieth-anniversary celebration,” said Steven, taking out a gilded invitation. “He invited us over and I’m here to give you your invitation.”

Yash accepted the invitation. “He still remembers us?”

It turned out that Steven and Yash were Glenn’s students.

“Yeah! Many comrades will be there for the celebration, just to see Mr. Rogers,” Steven said.

“Okay, let’s go together,” Yash said.

Steven smiled, looking a little embarrassed.

Yash could tell at a glance that Steven had a favor to ask of him. “What is it, Steven? There’s no need to be polite between us.”

“I’ll be straightforward then! I spoke on the phone with Mr. Rogers just now. He told me to ask you if you could invite Kirin to attend the Rogers family’s grand celebration,” Steven said.

Surely, it was Glenn’s idea.

As for inviting the God of War, the Rogers family wasn’t qualified, and thus Glenn dared not even think about it. But he wanted to give Kirin a try.

Kirin was one of the five great Kings of War under the command of the God of War. It would be the Rogers family’s greatest honor if he accepted the invitation.

“It was for an assignment that I came into contact with the God of War, Azure Dragon, and the others. There’s no substantial relationship or whatsoever,” Steven added. “But you and Kirin are different! He’s equivalent to your master!”

Yash’s expression changed slightly. “Since Mr. Rogers said so, I’ll give it a try.”

Shortly after, Yash came to report at Kirin’s command post.

“Are they gone?” Kirin asked without looking up, his legs on the table.

“Yes, Sir!”

But Yash stood rooted to the spot after finishing his report.

“What is it?” Kirin looked at him in puzzlement. “Don’t just stand there! Say it!”

“Reporting, Sir!” Yash straightened his back. “My instructor, Mr. Glenn Rogers, wishes to invite you to the Rogers family fortieth-anniversary celebration.”

“Oswald Rogers, that Rogers family?” Kirin asked.

He had heard it from Azure Dragon before that the Rogers family was the enemy of the God of War.

“Yes, Sir!” Yash nodded.

Although it seemed like a slim chance, at least he tried.

“Okay, I’ll go!” Kirin accepted the invitation.

“This is great! Thank you, Sir!” Yash saluted.

Immediately, the Rogers family learned that Kirin would be attending their grand celebration.

Glenn was all smiles.

“Haha, God bless the Rogers family! That would be the greatest honor for us if Kirin shows up! Hahaha... He’s the God of War’s right-hand man; it’s equivalent to us having a little something going on with the God of War! Our status will definitely rise after this celebration!”

“Yeah, Dad,” Anthony agreed. “Although we’re one of the top ten wealthiest families in North Hampton, we’re still at the bottom of the list after all. We can definitely move up a few places after this celebration!”

The Rogers family were so excited that they clenched their fists.

The celebration was good news to them as well.

In layman’s terms, it was very likely that their dividends would increase from fifty million to a hundred million.

“Pass on my orders,” said Glenn, looking at everyone. “Ramp up the publicity! And spread the news that the King of War, Kirin, will be our guest of honor for this celebration!”

The attendance list of the Rogers family’s grand celebration spread like wildfire in North Hampton and seeing that the most honored guest was none other than Kirin, the God of War’s right-hand man, many powerful families in North Hampton were envious.

So what if they were rich?

And so what if they had connections all over Erudia?

None of those was equal to Kirin’s attendance at the celebration.

“Dad, Pamela’s daughter, Abigail, wants her brother-in-law and sister to attend as well. As you know, those are Levi and Zoey, and so I said yes,” said Anthony to Glenn.

Glenn patted Anthony’s shoulders. “You did the right thing!”

“We’ll show Levi just how great the Rogers family is!” Glenn chortled.

The Protector Chapter 138

“In fact, we should thank Levi for this,” Anthony added. “We only possess part of the core technology developed by his team, but we’ve made a net profit of at least twenty billion in the past six years, haven’t we?”

“Yeah, that kid sure was capable. Even the richest man in North Hampton remembers him!” Glenn withdrew his smile and continued coldly, “But I can’t stand him beating my grandson to a pulp like this! I must hit him after the celebration!”

“Right, the overseas experts and doctors are arriving soon, aren’t they?” Glenn asked as a thought occurred to him. “Make sure Oswald attends the celebration!”

The Rogers family had hired ten foreign experts to treat Oswald to make sure that he could attend the celebration.

“Dad,” answered Anthony, “They’ll arrive today at twelve midnight! Five days will be enough!”

“Okay, bring them here and make sure nothing goes wrong,” Glenn said.

“Don’t worry, Dad. I’ll pick them up myself!”

At this moment, Levi was at the manor where Azure Dragon and the others lived.

Kirin had just informed Levi about the invitation he received from the Rogers family.

“Mm, you did great. I’m going too as an ordinary guest. But you, you’re the guest of honor, kiddo!” Levi teased.

“Our little Kirin will be the most important guest at the grand celebration,” Azure Dragon joined in.

“Stop teasing me, please!” Kirin said immediately.

Right then, the valiant and heroic Phoenix came forward, saying respectfully, “Reporting, Sir! I just received news that the Rogers family has hired ten foreign experts to treat Oswald Rogers. They’ll be landing at the private zone of North Hampton Airport at twelve tonight!”

“They’re here to treat Oswald?”

Levi’s expression darkened.

“Yes, Sir! The Rogers family wants to make sure that Oswald attends the grand celebration, so they invited top medical experts from all over the world,” Phoenix said.

Levi raised his arm to look at the time. It was a quarter past ten.

“Let’s go and take them down,” said Levi, rising to his feet. “The nerve to treat Oswald!”

North Hampton Airport had always been busy.

But tonight, there were black cars stopping before the private passageway, headed by a Rolls-Royce with dozens of hefty men in suits standing next to it, all of them looking aggressive.

Coming down from the Rolls-Royce was Anthony.

They were here to pick up the foreign medical experts.

Such a grand scene was only in line with the Rogers family's reputation as it brought about an uproar among the crowd.

Anthony glanced at his watch. It was exactly twelve.

"Okay, the experts are coming out soon. We'll leave immediately once we pick them up!" Anthony instructed, his men standing by sternly.

Shortly after, a team of twenty came out from the private passageway.

This included the foreign experts and their assistants, as well as a good deal of equipment.

"Welcome, Mr. Jeffrey and team!" Anthony greeted.

"This way please!"

With a wave of his arm, Anthony's men took over the medical team's equipment and loaded them into the car, and the medical team was ushered into their respective rides.

Chuff... Chuff... Chuff...

However, at this moment, there was a rumbling sound in the sky.

It was the sound of a propeller spinning at high speed.

Thump!

Thump!

Thump!

...

Rays of bright light shone on the car and the people's faces from mid-air, lighting the place up like daylight.

In the face of such strong light, everyone was so shaken that they couldn't open their eyes.

The Protector Chapter 139

The sound in their ears was getting louder like thunder.

The fierce wind the propeller produced was raging and everyone was almost blown away.

Only then did everyone see clearly that those were helicopters in the air.

After taking a closer look at the symbol, everyone's heart sank.

Those were helicopters from the war zone!

“Everyone, listen and stay wherever you are!”

A loud voice was heard from the loudspeaker.

Thereafter, they saw men after men in suits of different skin colors, and height about a head taller than the Rogers family's guards, sliding down the helicopter's ladders.

The hefty men in suits who landed and seized the foreign medical team directly from the Rogers family were none other than the mercenaries under James' leadership.

Along with the medical equipment that had been loaded in the car, everyone and everything was loaded into the helicopters instead.

Anthony and the rest could only look on as the mercenaries took away the medical team and equipment from them.

Firstly, the Rogers family had no ability to fight against these mercenaries.

Secondly, Anthony was afraid of these symbols on the helicopters.

Chuff... Chuff... Chuff...

It was not only until the helicopters had left that Anthony came back to his senses.

What just happened?

These mercenaries are well-trained, and it took them only one minute to raid the place.

It was so fast that we couldn't even react in time.

“What do we do now, Mr. Rogers?” the head of the bodyguards asked.

“Go home. What else can we do?”

Anthony made a sour face.

Returning to the Rogers residence, Glenn was shocked when he learned about the episode at the airport.

“You didn’t stop them?” Glenn asked. “They’re just a bunch of foreign bodyguards!”

But Anthony shook his head. “Dad, listen to me. That group of people was well-trained. You can tell from the way they glide down the helicopters that they must have served in the military. I suspect they’re mercenaries!”

Glenn looked dazed. “Mercenaries? But I don’t know anyone who dares to deploy mercenaries in North Hampton.”

“There is one. Didn’t Rick Garrison hire some mercenaries a while ago? They were detained after the incident and have yet to be released. I think it’s them,” Anthony said.

“So you mean to say that it’s Rick who is using this group of mercenaries?”

Glenn already had an answer in his mind.

Anthony nodded. “Most probably so. Those symbols on the helicopters are military symbols! Who would dare to use these helicopters?”

Glenn was puzzled. “Is there anything wrong with these doctors? Why were they detained?”

“We don’t know and didn’t dare to ask!”

On the other side, Levi had directly sent these doctors out of Erudia.

You want to treat Oswald?

No way!

For the next few days, the Rogers family had been asking around to find out the reasons, but to no avail.

They found nothing solid about these mercenaries.

“Could they be coming for Oswald?” suggested Leo, Oswald’s uncle.

Glenn and Anthony glared at him. “What nonsense are you spouting? How could such a great person hold grudges against Oswald?”

“The only use of these experts is to treat Oswald. Isn’t it obvious that they were detained because the other party didn’t want them to treat him?” Leo analyzed.

“It’s only Levi who doesn’t want Oswald to be treated in the whole of North Hampton,” Glenn retorted. “Are you suggesting that Levi is the God of War?”

“Of course not! How could Levi be the God of War? That’s too ridiculous!”

Leo shook his head.

The Protector Chapter 140

“Oswald is not getting any better. I don’t think he can make it to the celebration,” Glenn sighed.

Anthony knew the importance of the celebration this time. It was basically a guarantee that Oswald would become the heir if he attended the celebration.

“Dad, can we postpone the celebration?” asked Anthony, hoping fervently for his son to attend it.

His words had Glenn’s anger spiked.

“How can we postpone such a big event? What do you think my students will think about us? What if we anger Kirin?”

“No, we can’t postpone the celebration!”

Rogers Group’s fortieth-anniversary celebration was just around the corner, and almost the whole of North Hampton was aware of it.

Everyone was proud to have the invitation to the grand celebration. Many people had even sent pictures of the invitation to their friends to show off their status of being acquainted with the Rogers.

One could see how well the Rogers family’s publicity had been done.

The night before the celebration, Abigail specially came to deliver Levi and Zoey their invitations.

Because of what happened to Oswald, Zoey had been worried to this day. She dared not attend the Rogers family’s celebration, lest they flew into a rage at the sight of them.

“If you won’t go, I’ll go.”

Naturally, Levi wanted to go and Abigail was very happy about that because he would be hers alone if Zoey refused to go.

“You must watch over Levi!” Zoey urged. “He has beef with the Rogers family!”

“Don’t worry, Zoey. Grandpa loves me very much. No one can touch him,” Abigail said.

Aaron and Caitlyn didn’t receive the invitation.

In Pamela’s opinion, they had no rights to attend the celebration.

The next day, the City Convention and Exhibition Center became the venue for this grand celebration.

The street in front of the City Convention and Exhibition Center was taken over by the Rogers family for the day, and a variety of banners and flying balloons were hung on both sides of the dozen-kilometer-long road.

The Rogers family had spent a tremendous amount of money to decorate the venue.

They sure were willing to spend that money. After all, even the invitation cards were gilded with gold.

Not to mention the dozens of A-list celebrities and countless influencers who were invited.

The parking lot in front of the venue was filled with rows of luxury cars.

The Rogers family's network of connections was not to be frowned upon. Everyone who attended the celebration was wealthy and respectable.

The Lopez family was simply out of their league.

Abigail and Levi arrived at the venue and made their way in easily after showing their invitations.

As the celebration hadn't officially started yet, everyone was waiting at the lounge where a buffet was being served.

Levi and Abigail looked for a seat and had just sat down when a voice was heard from behind.

"Levi, is that you?"

Levi looked back to see a graceful woman in a long burgundy dress. She had a voluptuous figure, slender legs, and a charming and seductive temperament.

The woman was looking at Levi with her doe-like eyes.

Levi recognized the woman as May Holland, his and Morris' business partner in the early days, who had both the capability and the creativity to succeed.

Their start-up team was riding high at first, but many had opted out when they started to lose money, leaving only Levi, Morris, and another girl.

Among those who opted out was May.

"It really is Levi!"

Another voice was heard from the side.

Standing before Levi right now were four other people. They were Yoyo Peterson, Leon Watson, Hansen Wood, and Bryce Chadd, his start-up partners from the past.

Yoyo was that only girl who stayed on while the others had opted out.

When Levi's start-up business became successful later on, they had wanted to rejoin, but he rejected them.

Levi could still remember how Leon and the other two guys had come to laugh at him on the day of his imprisonment.

The Protector Chapter 141

The ridicule of his classmates and his partners' betrayal that day had left a deep scar in Levi's memory.

Etched deep in his heart were the faces of Leon and the others.

These people were unforgettable!

Furthermore, Yoyo had refused to back out after their business venture had failed that year.

Nonetheless, she had later gone on to take care of her family's business.

After that, Levi had cut all ties with them, so he was unaware of their current statuses.

However, after leaving the team that year, some of them had gone on to start their own businesses and had become quite successful.

Yoyo and May had done the best. Both of them ran companies with market values of one billion.

Leon's group did quite well too. The three of them were each worth several hundred million.

After all, at that time, only high-achievers could be partners with Levi.

Even so, compared to Levi, they were subpar.

No matter how hard they tried, there was an insurmountable gap between them and the Levi from six years ago.

Later, when they heard that Levi was in prison, Leon and his friends were so happy that they went to gloat over his predicament.

Levi greeted them, "Yoyo, May, you came too?"

Before the girls could reply, Hansen and Bryce said, "Why can't we come? Yoyo and May are the young elites of North Hampton enterprises, and they're worth more than one billion each. Our net worth may not be as impressive, but we're still worth several hundred million. We were officially invited by the Rogers family."

Leon sneered, "That's right. We are definitely qualified to come. Conversely, your eligibility is questionable."

"You have just been released from prison, and you don't run any company. You are penniless. How did you get in?"

The three ganged up to deride Levi.

Glimpsing the invitation card in Levi's hands, Bryce snatched it from him.

“Ms. Zoey? Hahaha... Now, I know. You got in using your wife’s invitation card?” Bryce laughed at his expense.

They were simply stating facts. The name written on the card was Zoey’s.

Leon chuckled humorlessly. “It turns out that you depend on your wife! I heard that Zoey recently received a promising contract, which allows her to barely qualify for this event.”

Hansen mocked, “North Hampton’s best, Mr. Levi Garrison, is now depending on a woman?”

Despite their relentless insults, Levi did not show any reaction.

In his eyes, these clowns were totally worthless.

They were nobodies compared to the Garrison family, let alone today’s giant – the Rogers family.

Nevertheless, to Yoyo and May, Levi was but a shadow of what he had been.

In their opinion, the leader who used to be invincible and was always in control had turned out to be a pathetic bum after six years in prison...

Not only was he depending on a woman for support, he had not challenged nor retorted his tormentors’ verbal abuse.

How full of life and motivation was Levi in his glory days when he founded his business!

At that time, Yoyo had been deeply in love with Levi. Nothing could make her leave him, not even his failure in his undertakings. She had wanted to stay with him for always.

Those days, Levi’s every word and every move had won May’s heart.

May was daring and proactive. Many times, she had pursued and even tried to seduce him.

Nevertheless, she had been rejected by Levi each time. That was the real reason she left when the business failed.

No matter how times had changed, this was the man they had loved so deeply.

The two were deeply moved after seeing Levi’s current state.

However, what they felt was immense luck and joy!

After being rejected, May had left in order to improve herself. Her goal was to succeed so that Levi would regret his decision.

Yoyo’s feelings were not so different. If Levi had been successful and lived happily ever after with Zoey, she would be heartbroken. However, what she felt now was unbridled joy!

The Protector Chapter 142

The bottom line was that the less successful Levi was, the more joy and satisfaction they would feel.

As long as Levi failed and deteriorated, that would prove that their decision to leave him was right.

It proved that Levi was unworthy of them.

They looked at each other, and their thoughts were more or less the same.

They were different from Leon and his two friends in that they felt emotional but they would not ridicule or taunt Levi.

“Enough, you guys, shut up! Do not forget that we were partners before. Even though Levi rejected our joint venture back then, he helped us a lot,” May spoke up for Levi.

She was full of authority, speaking like a queen.

With one sentence, she stopped the trio’s taunts.

Yoyo was different from May in that she gave support quietly.

“Are you doing alright?”

She had a lot that she wanted to say to him but could only force out four simple words.

“Yeah, I am alright,” Levi replied.

Yoyo looked at Levi, and a myriad of emotions surged through her heart.

Where is the man who was in control of everything?

So it turns out that time can really change everything. It can prove that my opinion at that time was wrong.

Time proved that my parents were right when they said that Levi’s surge of energy will die off and that he is not worthy of me.

It’s true, then.

Everything is now proven to be true.

Hansen looked at Levi and laughed, “Levi, I would like to ask you, how do you feel now, looking at Yoyo and May who are each worth a billion?”

“I’m certain you regret rejecting them, don’t you?” Hansen chortled.

Bryce said, “Aside from the fact that Yoyo and May are doing much better than Zoey, Zoey’s company nearly went bankrupt not long ago!”

Leon laughed and said, “You regret it, don’t you? If Yoyo or May helps you now, you will definitely make a comeback. However, you don’t even have this opportunity. You are not worthy of them!”

Hearing all this, neither Yoyo nor May said a word.

May stood with her arms folded, like a goddess on a pedestal.

If Levi were to confess to her now, she would ruthlessly reject him.

She would even reply, “There was a time when you couldn’t be bothered with me. I’m not the same now. Levi, you are not worthy of me.”

Yoyo, too, felt the same, more or less.

If she had another chance, she would not love Levi again.

Seeing this scene, Abigail came over and held Levi’s arm. She sneered, “You are, after all, just ordinary, short-sighted folk! My brother-in-law is still amazing. In his eyes, you are nothing but tiny little ants. That’s why he does not bother to reply to your insults.”

Abigail might not know everything about Levi, but she did have an inkling of his true ability.

Someone who offhandedly named her as the owner of a fifty-million-home and just as casually bought the revolving restaurant in North Hampton Center was not someone to be derided by the likes of May and her buddies.

“Hahaha... Levi, is this your sis-in-law? What a lovely girl!”

May smiled and looked at Levi contemptuously.

It was so difficult to start a business now – more than a hundred times harder than six years ago.

If Levi were to try to reach her level now, it would take him a whole lifetime to catch up.

May laughed, saying, “Old friend, I heard that you are not working yet. If you would like to, come and work for me as a head technician. I’ll give you a handsome salary.”

She imagined the man who once rejected her at his pinnacle of success working under her.

Just the thought filled her with pleasure.

Levi rejected her offer, saying, “It’s not necessary. After today, the Levi Group and the Garrison family’s companies will be under me again along with the Rogers family’s businesses. I’ll have a job then.”

After hearing Levi’s claims, the whole group was stunned into silence.

The Protector Chapter 143

When Levi said this, not only did May and the others doubt him, even Abigail found it unbelievable.

She knew her brother-in-law was amazing.

However, taking back Levi Group and the Rogers family business was too far-fetched.

How is that possible?

Even the Levi from six years ago, who was at the pinnacle of success, could not achieve this!

In the face of the Rogers family, he was no more than an ant.

“Hahaha...”

A few seconds later, Leon and the others burst out laughing.

May and Yoyo looked at each other and laughed aloud as well.

This was the most ridiculous joke they had ever heard all their lives.

A scumbag who just got out of prison is going to wipe out the Rogers family, who is worth tens of billions in industries?

Yoyo and May knew Levi only too well because they had worked together before.

Levi had always loved to ‘brag.’

He always casually mentioned doing something impossible.

Later on, he would really achieve it.

Nevertheless, that was the Levi from six years ago who could move mountains.

He had the ability, the motivation, and the connections.

Everything had been as easy as ABC for him.

However, the Levi they knew today had nothing.

There was no way he could do anything amazing or incredible, least of all, wresting tens of billions worth of businesses from the hands of the Rogers family.

This was just impossible!

It was as possible as the sun rising from the west.

In other words, only in his dreams.

May did not point out the obvious, instead, she congratulated him with a smile, “I congratulate you in advance! Take back the Levi Group and take down the Rogers family!”

The others laughed and agreed, “That’s right, Mr. Garrison, soon you’ll be worth fifty billion. Just help us out a bit when you succeed, anything from five hundred million to one billion would do.”

None of them thought Levi would take it seriously.

Levi told May, “Thank you. When the time comes, I’ll consider you for joint ventures.”

Yoyo looked at Levi with compassion in her eyes.

The Levi in front of her now was simply too pitiable.

From the pinnacle of pride and success, he had fallen so low as to console himself with tall tales.

It was so tragic and sad.

In the twenty or so years of her life, Yoyo had never misjudged any person or situation.

Her only exception was Levi.

She thought he was a winner, but he turned out to be a loser!

Leon patted Levi on the shoulder and sneered, “Garrison, don’t give up. We have faith in your ability. Truth be told, the Rogers family mastered a small part of the core medical technology you developed in the past, and it was so incredible. Did you know that with your technology, they made more than twenty billion?”

May smiled, “It was really incredible! It had the ability to transform a whole clan from rags to riches!”

May looked at Levi, “Levi, my offer to hire you as the head of my technical department is genuine and sincere. You have the ability, but you’ve lost your motivation. I believe in you, and I can give you a future.”

“That’s right. You can come to me too. The Rogers family really made a fortune from your technical skills in the medical field.”

Even Yoyo was interested in hiring Levi.

Pushing this man off his pedestal and then stepping on him was really enjoyable.

“Yoyo, what are you talking about?”

Suddenly, a stern voice was heard.

A tall man wearing a suit and leather shoes appeared. He wore an unhappy expression on his face.

It was Luke, a senior staff member of the Rogers family Group, the super henchman of Leo Rogers, and the second in command of the Rogers family. His position in North Hampton circles was very high, equivalent to representing Leo Rogers.

Luke and Yoyo got along well. It was rumored that they were a couple.

In truth, their relationship was not confirmed, but he seemed to be Yoyo's best choice for a husband.

The Protector Chapter 144

Yoyo would not be moved even if a blast from the past returned in the form of the man she idolized eons ago.

The crux of the matter was that the present Levi was far inferior compared to Luke.

Seeing Levi today, Yoyo became more determined than ever to choose Luke.

May, Leon, and the others quickly greeted Luke when he arrived.

Luke's status was too high, way above theirs.

They should try to associate with him more.

Yoyo smiled as she asked Luke, "What's wrong, Luke?"

"While you were chatting, you mentioned something taboo to the Rogers family..." Luke looked right and left as he replied.

"Oh? Taboo?"

Yoyo's face turned pale.

Luke nodded and said, "Who gave the information that the profits of the Rogers family are related to Levi's core technology?" "Do not listen to rumors!" "The core technology was invented by the Rogers family's own technical team. It has nothing to do with Levi."

"Don't say such things again. It's alright if I hear it, but if any other of the Rogers family members were to hear that, you will get into trouble."

"I understand. I do understand..."

May and the others were afraid when they heard this.

Yoyo nodded her head too.

The truth was that everyone knew what really happened with the medical technology invention.

It must not be said in public, though.

Levi heard and understand exactly what was happening.

He could only feel upset that the Rogers family members were shameless.

Undeniably, they had profited by using his techniques. Yet, no one was allowed to even mention that.

It was absolutely shameless.

Yoyo saw that Luke was accompanied by a dozen bodyguards. In the midst of them, an assistant held a password-protected attaché case.

Out of curiosity, she asked, “Luke, what are you delivering?”

Luke laughed as he replied, “This is a gift for Kirin. It’s priceless, so I need to keep an eye on it personally.”

In an instant, May and the rest became curious.

Even Levi’s curiosity was piqued.

What would the Rogers family give to Kirin, the scoundrel?

Yoyo laughed, “Luke, what’s inside there? Can you tell me?”

Luke whispered, “The gift to Kirin is a watch! It is a custom-made Patek Philippe Starry Night model, the only one in the world, worth tens of millions!”

The crowd gasped in astonishment.

Indeed, the Rogers family was truly wealthy to present such a treasure to Kirin as a gift.

At the mention of a watch, Levi thought of his good friend, Morris.

Rich men generally had the same interests – cars, beautiful women, antiques, and the like.

Morris loved watches.

There were all types of well-known watches in his home, and many of them were limited editions.

Of course, they were all gone now.

Luke smiled and said, “I’ll reveal another secret, but you must keep it to yourselves. This watch was owned by the assistant director of Levi Group, Morris. He had it custom-made in the Patek Philippe headquarters. It is the most expensive piece in his collection of thousands of watches.”

Upon hearing Luke's speech, everyone was surprised and turned to look at Levi.

Fury!

Levi was furious!

It was bad enough that his best buddy's possessions were divided up, but to be used as gifts? It was atrocious!

"Alright, you guys must keep this a secret. It's not to be told to anyone else!"

Luke left with the watch with his bodyguards in tow.

Abigail whispered to Levi, "Brother-in-law, please don't be angry! If it's given to the Kirin as a gift, grandpa and I can't do anything about it."

Levi said nonchalantly, "It doesn't matter as I shall take back the watch soon enough!"

"Hahaha..."

May and the others laughed again.

"How are you going to get it back?" Yoyo sneered as she asked him.

"Do you think you are Kirin, the King of War?" The crowd asked him.

Levi said softly, "When the time comes, Kirin will bring it to me personally!"

The Protector Chapter 145

“You are so disappointing!”

Yoyo shook her head and looked at Levi in disgust.

Are you now depending on tall tales to console yourself?

May and the others were now taking Levi as a joke.

Hansen laughed as he said, “Levi, did you see Luke just now? That’s Yoyo’s boyfriend. How can you compare yourself to him? He is more awesome than you were six years ago when you were at your peak!”

“Haha, Yoyo, do you now see what a poor choice you made at that time? Your judgment was really horrible!”

“Now that you have chosen Luke, you just escaped from a great tragedy!”

...

Yoyo was still feeling glad.

She often imagined Luke’s expression of regret, hoping to see it in person one day.

And now, her wish had come true!

“Brother-in-law, let’s leave. Just ignore them!”

Abigail was so furious that she felt she would kill the two women if she listened to their insults any longer.

“Listen, you guys, truth be told, he was once at the pinnacle of success. Now, he is still at the peak!”

With that, Abigail took Levi away from the place.

The moment they left the guest hall, they ran into the Rogers family.

Leading the group was naturally the domineering Glenn, followed by Anthony, Pamela, and the others.

“Grandpa, uncles, dad, mom...”

Abigail greeted them cheerfully.

However, Glenn and the clan were looking at Levi.

“Levi? Hahaha...”

Suddenly, Glenn broke out in laughter.

Anthony went to Levi and whispered in his ear, laughing, “I promise you that you won’t leave this place alive!”

It was an undisguised threat!

Levi laughed as he replied, “Why isn’t my old classmate, Oswald here? Is he hospitalized and unable to come? “

Pamela and Bailey Black did not know about it. Immediately, they replied, “What nonsense are you talking about, Levi? Oswald is perfectly fine!”

However, Glenn and the others were disturbed.

In fact, they were bursting with fury, ready to kill Levi!

He was challenging the power of the Rogers family!

Levi continued laughing as he said, “Go on with the treatment. Our country, Erudia, has lots of fine doctors. There’s no need to seek any doctors from abroad.”

With these words, silence fell on the group.

Glenn’s countenance looked crazed.

Levi knows about the doctor from abroad!

Other than the Atkinson family and the people who abducted the doctor, no one knew about this.

Everyone looked at Levi with suspicion in their eyes.

Can it be possible that Levi orchestrated the abduction of the doctor?

How can that be possible?

Military helicopters were used, and mercenaries were employed.

How can Levi do all that?

It is impossible!

We have thoroughly checked Levi’s present situation. He has few helpers – only Nueve, Trey, and some others are giving him aid.

We can only suspect that he knows about the foreign doctor, that is all.

“Ho ho ho...”

Levi laughed mysteriously and left with Abigail.

Glenn and the clan were left wondering.

Nevertheless, they were certain deep down that Levi only knew about the doctor and was not responsible for the abduction.

Just then, a staff of the Rogers family ran over to them and reported, "Master, there is a problem with the dinner. We need some help to resolve it."

The dinner and the celebration were equally important. Nothing must go wrong.

Glenn instructed Pamela and Bailey Black, "You both go and resolve the dinner problem. It must go on without a snag!"

"Yes, father!"

The men of the Rogers family must attend the celebration ceremony.

Hence, the only person they could send was Pamela.

By now, almost all the guests had arrived.

Everyone was seated according to their seating arrangement. Due to her relation to Levi, Abigail was seated at the back of the hall, close to the center aisle instead of near the front.

The Rogers family would never let Levi sit near the front.

May, Yoyo, and the others were seated near the front, close to the center.

Before they took their seats, they waved to Levi to show him that they had better seats.

In a short moment, the guests had filled the few hundred seats.

The Protector Chapter 146

The guests were from all walks of life, covering the military, political, and business circles. They were all bigwigs in their respective areas.

It was a testament to the Rogers family's wide network and sphere of influence.

The empty front row seats were reserved for the ceremony's VIPs, who were usually the last to arrive.

Members of the Rogers family had all taken their seats. The scene was a perfect representation of the wealthy and powerful being in a class of its own.

Roaring cheers could be heard when the celebrities, including Yelda Zamora and Zak Copland, made their appearances. The enthusiasm of the crowd was pushed to a climax.

After the celebrities settled down, Glenn Rogers walked up on stage and said a few words of welcome.

Following his opening speech, Glenn said impassionedly, “Now, let us welcome our heavyweight guests of the night...”

“I’m proud to say that the following 20 guests whom I’m about to introduce, are all my mentees throughout my military career.”

“First, let us welcome Steven Shaw, Colonel of the First Regiment of North Hampton!”

“Now, let us welcome Yash Warner, Captain of the Kirin Special Operations Force of North Hampton!”

“Third, we have Warren Klein, Commander of the Special Warfare Command of West Lakebran!”

“Fourth, we have Gilbert Hawkins, District Governor of El Swepel in North Hampton!”

“Fifth, let’s welcome Danny Heath, North Hampton’s Minister of Commerce!”

The crowd was exuberant, and everyone clapped loudly as Glenn introduced his former mentees.

The man’s protégés were scattered all over the country, and all of them were at the pinnacle of their lives and careers.

Around 20 of them were commanders or held equivalent positions, while at least 50 of them were higher-ups in the military or political circles.

Everyone, including the rich and powerful, stood in awe of those former protégés of Glenn.

Each of them was a formidable force not to be trifled with!

With so many outstanding individuals who were previously under the Rogers family’s wing, it was almost impossible to gauge the immeasurable influence of the family.

Every member of the Rogers family was proud to be one of the Rogers.

Glenn was definitely the proudest person among everyone in attendance as he presented his mentees, who were all successes in their own rights.

That was what the Rogers family was made of!

There was no one in North Hampton who would dare to pit themselves against the Rogers family.

The dozens of celebrities who attended the event were proof of the Rogers family’s wealth, while the high-ranking military and government officials demonstrated the family’s vast network.

Witnessing the star-studded occasion, Leo Watson sneered and said, “Look at this grandeur, Levi is definitely no match for the Rogers family.”

May and Yoyo, who were also stunned by the impressive scene, readily agreed. “Honestly, the Rogers family could be considered the most powerful family in the country. What we are currently seeing may not even be a fraction of what they are really made of! They are already beyond the level of conventional riches. It seems like they are truly the creme de la creme of the country! I highly doubt that there would be anyone who would get the better of that family!”

After Steven Shaw and the remaining guests were seated, the front row seats were almost fully filled.

But the center seat was still vacant.

Everyone knew very well who that special chair was reserved for.

It was none other than the Kirin King of War!

In extremely high spirits, Glenn Rogers announced in a bright voice, “Now, ladies and gentlemen, let’s give the loudest round of applause to welcome the legendary God of War of Erudia, one of the Five Great Wars Regiment, the Kirin King of War!”

Clap! Clap! Clap!

The audience responded with thunderous applause.

The Rogers family would definitely have their status elevated even further after today, with the Kirin King of War gracing the ceremony.

Under the crowd’s expectant gazes, Kirin entered the venue, flanked by Anthony, Leo, and a few others.

Everyone was thrilled to be able to see the Kirin King of War in person!

As Abigail had already been in the man’s presence previously, she did not feel the same excitement as the rest of the people.

Levi smiled and said, “Look what a grand welcome Kirin has received!”

What baffled many was that, Kirin was donning his military uniform. With a dignified and domineering air surrounding him, the man looked truly majestic and powerful.

The other military officers, such as Steven Shaw, who made their appearances before Kirin, were all dressed in suits. None of them came in their military uniforms.

After all, they were attending a private event, and it did not seem appropriate to be decked out in military uniforms.

As such, it was mystifying to majority of the attendees that the Kirin King of War had donned his uniform.

It was as if he was out on a mission instead of attending a joyous ceremony.

However, Glenn and the rest did not dwell on it.

They even thought that the man's choice of dressing was a great idea, as it made him look more dignified, intimidating, and revered.

At the same time, it also showed the rest of the guests that being a part of the event meant serious business for Kirin.

This could only benefit the Rogers family, as it created an illusion that, instead of being specifically invited as a guest, Kirin was already on friendly terms with the family, and had specially come to show support for the event!

The Protector Chapter 147

Kirin went up the stage with a stoic face.

The Rogers family had prepared a gift for the man and had arranged for it to be presented to him on stage. This moment had come!

Members of the Rogers family were all in a state of ecstasy as they looked at Kirin standing on stage in his military uniform.

This instant was the highlight of the Rogers family's 40th-anniversary celebration!

The rest of the guests in the audience had looks of envy on their faces as they witnessed this glorious moment.

After today, the Rogers family's status among the wealthy and powerful families was bound to be raised by a few notches.

Overwhelmed with excitement, Glenn announced, "Next, on behalf of the Rogers family, I would like to present the Kirin King of War a token of appreciation!"

Escorted by eight bodyguards, Luke Quarrell walked on stage, holding an exquisite gift box in his hands.

"Look, Yoyo! It's your boyfriend, Luke! He must have gained recognition and is extremely trusted by the Rogers family to be entrusted with such an important task!"

"Exactly! He's one of few who get to be in such close contact with the Kirin King of War! That's so impressive!"

"Yeah! How can Levi compare to Luke?"

Hansen Wood and Leo Watson were engaged in an animated conversation, showering Luke Quarrell with compliments.

Yoyo was all smiles and wore a slightly smug expression on her face.

Her reaction was equivalent to admitting that Luke was indeed her boyfriend!

The woman was also thankful that Levi had previously rejected her. Otherwise, she would not have been able to be a part of such a momentous occasion now!

The other people around, who had overheard Hansen and Leo's conversation, had also turned their gazes towards Yoyo. They seemed to be also admiring her good fortune.

Yoyo was enjoying the feeling of being envied by all and derived great satisfaction from it.

She even felt like standing up and shouting out loud: Do you guys see that? That man over there who is presenting the gift to the Kirin King of War is my boyfriend!

Yoyo deliberately turned around to look at Levi.

It was as though she was silently conveying a message to the man, telling him that he was not good enough for her.

Luke went up on stage and stopped next to Kirin. Holding the gift box with both hands, he extended his arms.

Glenn did a brief introduction of the gift, saying, "This present, which we have specially chosen for the Kirin King of War, was custom-made by Patek Philippe. It's one of its kind and worth ten million! We felt that only a unique timepiece like this would suit the King of War's honorable status!"

Glenn paused and looked at Kirin before continuing, "Please don't misunderstand, Sir. This is purely a token of appreciation from the Rogers family, to thank you for being here with us on this significant occasion. I can promise, in front of the media and everyone else present, that we have no other intentions. It's just meant to be a souvenir, and we hope that you will accept it!"

Glenn wanted to avoid unnecessary rumors about the Rogers family attempting to bribe the Kirin King of War and also hoped to ease any concerns which Kirin might have.

"Open it!"

When Luke opened the gift box, the exclusive watch sprang into sight.

It was indeed a stunning beauty and definitely worth the high value of ten million!

With slightly shaky hands, Luke presented the watch to Kirin.

This could be considered the greatest achievement of Luke's life so far.

The audience held their breaths when Kirin accepted the gift.

Successive gasps of astonishment could be heard among the other guests.

Guests in the front row, who were closest to the stage, even had goosebumps when they took in the sight. They consisted of representatives from other wealthy and powerful families.

Even though the acceptance of the watch by Kirin seemed like a simple gesture, it held profound significance.

This could mean that the Rogers family would have Kirin's backing from now onward!

With this, the Rogers family would dominate the rest of the wealthy and powerful families in North Hampton and might even become one of the most formidable families in the country.

"Sir, would you like to say a few words?" Glenn Rogers asked Kirin tentatively.

Kirin suddenly flashed an unfathomable smile and said, "Where's Oswald Rogers? I've heard since long ago that Mr. Oswald is a rare, unparalleled talent in North Hampton! I don't seem to see him here today?"

The hearts of everyone from the Rogers family skipped a beat when they heard Kirin's question.

Two people had asked about Oswald today.

The first one was Levi Garrison.

And now, it was Kirin!

What were the odds that two seemingly unrelated people had asked the same question on the same day? That raised question marks for the Rogers.

It was almost as though they had discussed it prior and colluded to ask the same question on the same day.

The idea was also reinforced by the knowing smile on Kirin's face.

However, it was merely a passing thought.

Instead of feeling uneasy, the Rogers were actually delighted that the Kirin had asked the question!

The Protector Chapter 148

To the Rogers family, being noticed by the Kirin King of War was a blessing to Oswald!

Anthony Rogers was more exhilarated than any of his other family members. It was a great honor that his son had received such a flattering compliment from Kirin.

Audible whispers could be heard from the crowd.

They were all envious of the attention given to the Rogers family by Kirin.

Kirin had even made a special mention of the successor of the Rogers family! It was almost unbelievable!

Glenn and Anthony shot each other a meaningful look.

They were both burning with hatred for Levi Garrison and wished that they could skin him alive at this instant.

If Oswald had not been injured by Levi, he would have been able to join the other members of the family at today's ceremony and receive compliments from Kirin in person.

It was entirely Levi Garrison's fault!

"Sir, my grandson is still in the hospital recovering from his injuries." Glenn did not dare to deceive Kirin and gave a truthful reply.

"Oh, it's fortunate that he's in the hospital though. At least it's not the crematorium," Kirin said with a wry laugh.

"Huh?" The Rogers family members were puzzled, as they were unable to comprehend the meaning behind the man's words.

However, they still laughed along.

"This way please, Sir!"

Glenn personally ushered Kirin down the stage and to his seat—the center seat of the front row!

It was the seat reserved for the most important guest of the night.

Everyone knew that only the Kirin King of War was deserving of that seat.

No one else would dare to claim that seat.

Once Kirin stepped off the stage, the other military officers, including Steven Shaw and Yash Warner, all stood up respectfully and waited for Kirin to take his seat.

Besides the military officers' veneration for him, Kirin was also revered by a majority of the other guests.

With 20 high-ranking officers and the King of War gathered together to celebrate the Rogers family's anniversary, the family was immensely gratified and felt triumphant!

Glenn Rogers led Kirin to the seat right at the center, which was specially reserved for the man, and said, "Sir, please take your seat! We have specially left the best seat in the house for you. No one else would dare to sit here!"

"Please have a seat, Sir!" Yash Warner said to his commander as well.

However, Kirin remained standing at the spot and did not move.

He neither sat down nor walked away. He was simply in a daze as he stared at the empty seat.

Everyone was at a loss as to what to do or say next, especially the Rogers family.

What could Kirin be thinking about?

It was almost impossible to read the thoughts of a big wheel like the King of War.

Glenn was so nervous that his legs turned wobbly. After taking a deep inhale, he plucked up the courage to ask, "Sir, is there anything concerning you?"

"Did you just say that this is the best seat in the house?" Kirin asked.

Even though Glenn was a little puzzled at the man's question, he gave a firm nod and answered, "Yes, indeed! This is the best seat which we have specially arranged for the most important person here tonight!"

Kirin's lips curled into a faint smile as he said, "If that's the case, I'm afraid I shouldn't be sitting here. I'm not qualified to take this seat, I can at most only take the one beside it!"

Everyone was shocked by the King of War's declaration. People were boggled that Kirin had implied that there was someone more important than him!

"What? Who else would be more worthy than the Kirin King of War?"

A burst of helpless laughter escaped Glenn's lips as he said, "Sir, stop pulling our legs. You are our most prestigious guest of the night, and the only person who's entitled to this seat!"

However, Kirin shook his head and insisted, "No, I'm really not!"

"Huh? Can you please enlighten us then, Sir? Who could be a better fit than you for this chair? We really have no idea!"

Glenn and the rest racked their minds for a potential individual but still could not figure out who else could be on par with the Kirin King of War!

Kirin smiled and said, “The only person who can sit here is not me. It’s someone else instead.”

“There’s someone else?” Glenn was even more confused.

“Yes, he is the only person who’s entitled to this seat. That person I’m referring to is also here with us tonight. I’ve already spotted him!”

Everyone was intrigued by the ‘someone’ whom Kirin was being secretive about.

“There’s someone among us who is of a higher status than the King of War?”

This sudden new revelation caused a great commotion among the crowd.

The Protector Chapter 149

Everyone looked around, but they could not find a person who was of a higher status than Kirin.

The Rogers family was very puzzled, curious as to who it was.

“Who is the person you speak of, may I ask?” Glenn Rogers questioned.

Kirin laughed, “He is my master!”

“Master?”

“Kirin’s master?”

Hiss!

...

Everyone drew in their breaths.

Kirin’s master?

To everyone, it meant that the person shared the same status as the God of War!

Back then, Levi had taught Kirin a lot of valuable skills. Kirin always saw him as his leader and master.

No one could understand the relationship they shared.

“Kirin’s master is also here? Why do we not know about this?”

Glenn, Rogers, and the others also broke into a cold sweat.

The Rogers family did not even notice such an important figure present at their celebration.

This was frightening.

If Kirin were to blame the Rogers family, they would not be able to take the social backlash.

Glenn asked in a frightened voice, “May I ask where your master is? The Rogers family will extend our warmest invitation!”

Kirin waved his hand. “There is no need. I will invite him personally!”

As soon as Kirin took a step, all the senior officials of the Rogers family followed suit, along with Steven Shaw, Yash Warner, and the rest of the distinguished guests.

Thousands of people looked at Kirin and the group of people behind him.

Everyone was curious about the identity of Kirin’s master.

Kirin arrived at the center aisle. He passed the front row and walked straight towards the back.

The first row was eliminated!

Everyone in the middle and back rows began to feel agitated as they looked at each other.

May, Yoyo, and the others were especially agitated.

May asked in doubt, “Who can this person be?”

Yoyo shook her head. “Such an important figure is probably hiding in the corner!”

Very soon, Kirin and the others walked past them.

This made May and Yoyo extremely disappointed.

Everyone wished that they could join Kirin and his group of people.

Their small clique got up immediately and looked towards the back row.

They really wanted to know who the mysterious person was!

Everyone present was excited to find out.

Levi was the only one who remained in his seat, looking stoic.

Abigail witnessed his impassiveness and joked, “Brother-in-law, could it be you?”

Levi responded, “Yes, you guessed right!”

However, Abigail thought that Levi was just joking.

In the next moment, Kirin's group cleared the middle row and walked towards the back row.

A commotion broke out in the back row as people stood up immediately.

The Rogers family felt really nervous at the sight of this.

They had actually arranged for Kirin's master to sit in the back row. The thought of it scared them.

The Rogers family's reputation was about to be ruined!

They reached the back row.

Glenn cast a sweeping glance over the guests. There was no one he recognized apart from his granddaughter, Abigail, and Levi, the person he was going to kill in a while!

There was no one else he could recognize.

Anthony and Leo also felt the same way.

The people in the back row were barely allowed to join the celebration. To the Rogers family, these people were not required to be there.

There was really no one else they could recognize!

However, Kirin's master was in the crowd!

Everyone grew anxious because the answer to their burning question was going to be revealed soon.

Abigail's heart leaped to her throat as Kirin approached them.

Kirin stopped in his tracks all of a sudden.

Everyone held their breaths.

What was even more freakish was that Kirin happened to stop at the row where Levi and Abigail were in!

Abigail felt as though she had won the lottery.

Is he actually in this row?

She looked intensely at Levi.

The Protector Chapter 150

Is his master really my brother-in-law?

She thought Levi was just pulling her leg!

Yoyo and May too noticed that Kirin had stopped at Levi's row this row and whispered among themselves, "Isn't it such a coincidence?"

At the sight of Kirin, the person at the end of the row felt so pressured that he immediately stood up and left his seat.

The others in the row also followed suit.

This was because they clearly knew that they were not Kirin's master, so they had to leave in order to make way.

Tens of people left the row quickly and lined the aisle.

The only people left in the row were Levi and Abigail.

Levi sat there, as calm and steady as he could be.

Abigail stood up and looked at her surroundings. She did not know if she should sit or stand and was at a loss.

She wanted to leave, but Levi was still in his seat, so she did not know what to do.

Oh my god!

Is Kirin's master really my brother-in-law?

In an instant, a thousand pairs of eyes riveted on them.

Levi and Abigail were the center of attention!

Overwhelmed with anxiety, Abigail became breathless.

Time seemed to come to a standstill at this moment.

Everyone was lost in their thoughts, and their minds became a complete blank.

Abigail's teeth chattered, and her limbs trembled in fear. She really wanted to ask Levi, but she did not have the strength to open her mouth.

This man is too mysterious!

Kirin's started to move, his shoes creating a rhythmic beat on the carpet.

As if a sledgehammer had slammed into their hearts, the sound brought everyone back to their senses.

They saw that Abigail and Levi were the only ones left in the row.

Everyone figured out what that meant.

Abigail is a woman, so she definitely cannot be Kirin's master!

There is only Levi left!

He is Kirin's master!

Glenn and the others, who were following behind Kirin, could not respond to this piece of information. They were reeling from the shock.

Every one of them felt like walking corpses as they stood rooted to their spot, mouths gaping.

They could not react.

They could not react at all!

This was because they did not expect such a thing to happen at all.

Levi being Kirin's master would be their worst nightmare come true!

Yoyo, May, and Leon Watson looked on as Kirin moved.

They saw that only Levi was seated there.

Their scalps grew numb as blood rushed to their heads. It felt as though their heads were about to explode.

He is Kirin's master?

Impossible!

Absolutely not!

Levi's ability and reputation had deteriorated, and he was no more than a waste of space! So how could he be Kirin's master?

Even the Levi from six years ago did not have the right to be acquainted with Kirin.

How was he able to become a military big shot after being in prison for six years?

Everyone who knew Levi thought of him this way.

If this was real, then it meant that the Rogers family was going to face a major disaster!

It only took a short while to reach Levi, but to the audience, it felt like a century.

Kirin finally made his way towards Levi and stood in front of him.

Abigail, who was at such close proximity to Kirin, almost fainted on the spot.

Everyone saw Kirin looking respectfully at Levi. After doing a military salute, he boomed, “God of War, Kirin of Northwest War Zone is here to report to you!”

After listening to what Kirin had said, everyone felt as though tons of explosives had gone off in the room, pulverizing their bodies and shattering their souls.

The God of War that Kirin mentioned could only be one person – the one right at the top!

Is the God of War here to grace the Rogers family’s 40th anniversary celebration?

Everyone was deathly silent.

No one said a word.

However, their hearts were beating loudly in their ears!

The Protector Chapter 151

Shocking!

Extremely shocking!

This was definitely the most unforgettable thing ever experienced by the thousand people present at the scene!

Monica, Yelda, Zak, and the others did not think that they would bump into Levi here, let alone come to find out that he was a king among peasants.

Kirin continued to say, “God of War, please follow me to the first row. It is the only place befitting of your status!”

Levi nodded his head, “Mm.”

The audience was slowly recovering from their shock.

Kirin turned around slowly and looked at the Rogers family. He said, “Glenn, didn’t you ask me who my master is? Let me tell you, my master is none other than the commander-in-chief of the Nine Great War Zone, Erudia’s only 5 Star God of War!”

“Oh yes, his name is Levi!”

Upon hearing Kirin’s declaration, Glenn could not suppress the congested blood in his mouth and coughed it out violently.

Anthony’s face darkened. He staggered and collapsed on the ground.

Leo’s blood pressure spiked, and he fainted under the sudden pressure.

Each member of the Rogers family was at the verge of a breakdown.

Levi is actually the God of War!

This was what the Rogers family was most unwilling to accept!

Disaster!

A major disaster was approaching the Rogers family!

The Rogers family was on its way to destruction, starting from the moment Kirin stood beside Levi!

No one was able to rescue the Rogers family!

“What? Levi is the God of War? I don’t believe it! I don’t believe this!” Yoyo was unwilling to accept the fact.

Yoyo had felt carefree after Levi had been ridiculed. The chain of events had allowed her to make a quick comparison between Levi and Luke, and Luke had come above.

She thought that Levi would never be able to match up to Luke in this lifetime!

However, in the blink of an eye, Levi transformed into Erudia's God of War!

Before him, Luke was a nobody!

Yoyo could see a world of difference between them, but she was unwilling to accept the truth.

Leon Watson and the others were shocked to realize that the boy they used to bully had turned out to be someone extremely outstanding!

He is the only 5-Star God of War!

Levi did not retaliate when they insulted him just now, not because he was fearful, but because he could not be bothered with them.

They were insignificant to Levi, so there was no point crushing them under his feet!

May stared in disbelief.

Like everyone, she also thought that Levi had fallen from the peak of his success.

She also tried to step on him in order to derive some sort of pleasure!

However, who would have thought that he could grow significantly stronger and more powerful in a span of six years?

Abigail broke into a cold sweat and looked at Levi in fear.

Levi touched her head and smiled, "Silly girl, why are you so anxious? Regardless of my identity, I am still your brother-in-law."

"Oh." Abigail trailed after Levi.

With everyone looking at them, Kirin took the lead while Levi and Abigail followed behind. They walked slowly towards the front.

When they saw Levi inching closer towards them, May and Yoyo felt as though their hearts were about to fly out of their throats.

At this moment, their hearts felt as though they were about to explode.

Levi then stopped at their row all of a sudden.

At that instant, May, Yoyo, and the others felt like dying.

They felt numb all over as though an electric current had passed through their bodies, electrocuting them.

A gust of cold air rushed up from the soles of their feet, instantly making their blood freeze.

Levi barked, “Get out of the way!”

At his command, the people in the row excused themselves from both ends, leaving only May and the others behind.

The Protector Chapter 152

When May saw Levi’s gaze settle on her, her breathing quickened, and she struggled to breathe.

Hiccup!

Hiccup!

Hiccup!

Leon, Bryce, and others could not withstand such immense pressure. They fainted and collapsed onto the ground with a loud thud.

May and Yoyo were extremely nervous.

With his status, Levi had the authority to sentence them to death!

Levi looked at the two women and laughed, “Just now, didn’t you ask me if I regretted rejecting both of you last time?”

May and Yoyo did not dare to look into Levi’s eyes.

“Let me tell you this now. I have never regretted it! No matter when or what happens, I will only choose Zoey! Whether she is poor or rich, young or old, I will still choose her!” Levi said.

At this moment, May and Yoyo envied Zoey so much.

Six years ago, they had been green with jealousy when Levi and Zoey got together.

They were even more jealous of them now!

Levi was at the pinnacle of the military regime of Erudia. He was invincible and possessed all the power in his hands.

Even if that was the case, he would not forsake or abandon his wife.

This is deep, profound love!

Many people were extremely touched.

Not taking Levi's identity into account, their love and affection towards each other was a subject of envy.

One will not leave, and the other will not be abandoned.

Abigail was the most envious of them.

Finally, Levi said to the two of them, "Like what Abigail said, her brother-in-law was at his peak six years ago, and now, her brother-in-law is still at his peak!"

Thump!

Upon hearing Levi's words, Yoyo and May could not take it and fell onto the ground.

They were drenched in cold sweat.

Levi and Kirin arrived at the front row and sat down.

He had Kirin and Abigail beside him. Steven Shaw was there too!

The moment Levi appeared, people no longer had the word 'master' in mind!

At this moment, everyone understood why Kirin had worn his military uniform.

He was not here to attend the celebration.

He was here on a mission!

Levi waved his hand.

Kirin understood immediately.

Kirin commanded the mass of people, "Except for the Rogers family, everyone else, please leave quickly! Please keep this matter confidential. You will be asking for trouble if you dare to reveal this!"

With this in mind, everyone made their way out, dying to escape from the scene as quickly as possible.

Leo Watson and the others were carried away.

May and Yoyo crawled out.

The venue was cleared very soon. Levi said to Abigail, "Abigail, please wait for me in the living room. I need to settle some matters."

Abigail also left obediently.

After that, everyone from the Rogers family knelt in front of Levi.

They kowtowed before him, begging for mercy.

“Where is Levi Group?” Levi asked.

“Please take it back! Levi Group has always been yours!”

“How about the Garrison family’s properties?” Levi questioned further.

“They are also yours!”

Levi continued, “Rogers family?”

At this moment, everyone in the Rogers family hesitated.

However, Glenn responded immediately and said, “Also yours!”

Levi lit a cigarette and smiled, “Alright, then let’s start discussing more important matters.”

“Back then, you framed me, killed my friend, and even seized everything from the Levi Group. Why did you do that?” Levi questioned.

“God of War, it was you who dabbled in the pharmaceutical and technology markets back then, and the Rogers family coveted your core technologies!” The Rogers family answered honestly.

Levi took a deep breath before continuing, “Give me the names of the others who were involved in this matter back then!”

The Protector Chapter 153

The Rogers family replied, “God of War, even though we planned everything under Oswald’s name back then, the Rogers family actually benefited the least from it.

We only benefited from a small part of the core technologies and took over Levi Group! The bulk of it went to the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce!”

“North Hampton Chamber of Commerce?” Levi furrowed his eyebrows.

“Yes, it is made up of the 4 aristocratic families – the Hendersons, the Williamsons, the Andersons, and the Robinsons. There are also a lot of business associations consisting of rich corporations. They dominate North Hampton, and are in a tight competition with Winston Gonzales, the richest person in North Hampton!” Glenn said.

Levi knew about the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce.

The former hegemon of North Hampton's world of commerce.

It was known that the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce held nearly half of North Hampton's economic lifeline.

Their annual GDP contributions were frightening!

When Levi succeeded in starting his own business, the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce wooed him to join them. However, their condition was that he had to hand over the core medical technologies of Levi Group.

Levi rejected the proposal.

In retrospect, Levi had already been a target of the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce.

Because he had rejected them, he was maimed and imprisoned. His brother had been killed, and his wife had lived as a widow for six years.

The business world was akin to a battlefield and might even be more deadly.

Despite how decent wealthy entrepreneurs looked on the surface, they could actually be bloodsucking cannibals, swallowing people up whole!

The number of people who had lost their lives because of the rich was unfathomable!

Levi was insignificant to them, so many people might have forgotten about him.

He was not worth remembering at all!

At this moment, Azure Dragon and Phoenix had arrived. They informed Levi that those online products were from the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce.

Tap tap tap...

Levi tapped his fingers rhythmically on the armrest.

"Since that is so, let North Hampton Chamber of Commerce disappear!" Levi ordered.

The Rogers family were on the floor, not doubting what Levi said.

The four giants of the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce believed that their wealth dominated North Hampton with their influential businesses. No one could affect them.

Messing with the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce was akin to messing with North Hampton's foundation!

However, they would not expect the God of War to be the one messing with them!

Glenn asked, "God of War, will the properties and businesses under Levi Group and the Rogers family be transferred to you?”

“Transfer them to Kirin!” Levi said.

Within a few hours, all the properties and businesses under Levi Group, the Garrison family, and the Rogers family were transferred to Kirin.

Kirin’s real name was Neil Rhodes.

From then on, Neil became the new owner of all the Rogers family’s assets.

As for the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce, Levi wanted to take his sweet time torturing them. He wanted to see them go insane with his tricks and watch them become fearful as they beg for death’s arrival.

Levi’s gaze fell on Anthony all of a sudden. “Did you say earlier that you wanted to attack and kill me?”

Anthony was shocked to hear Levi’s words. “Please spare my life, spare my life...”

Levi stood up and smiled, “Spread the news! Say that Mr. Rhodes has become the owner of Levi Group and Garrison Group!”

“Understood!” Glenn responded.

“Oh yes, I hope to see Oswald tomorrow morning. He owes my wife an apology!”

There was a look of malice in Levi’s eyes!

After that, Levi left, bringing Abigail along with him.

When they were about to reach the exit, they bumped into Pamela and Bailey.

“Abigail, why are the both of you leaving?” Pamela asked curiously.

Abigail looked at them, feeling confused. “Dad, Mum, the celebration is over.”

Bailey retorted immediately, “What rubbish! It only started 30 minutes ago. The celebration lasts for about 4 hours, doesn’t it?”

The Protector Chapter 154

“It’s really over! Do you not believe me?” Abigail said helplessly.

Pamela stared at Levi and said, “Abigail, why did you even bring him here? How embarrassing!”

“Yes! If not for you, what right does he have to attend the celebration?”

Bailey shot back at Abigail and proceeded to enter the venue with Pamela.

Abigail really wanted to tell them that the celebration ended because of Levi.

However, her parents had already gone ahead.

Bailey and Pamela were in shock when they entered the venue.

There was not a single soul in sight.

They saw Glenn and the others on their knees, drenched in cold sweat.

They tried their best to get an answer from the Rogers family, but no one revealed the reason.

Outside, Levi looked at Abigail whose head was lowered. She seemed fearful of him, so he could not help but ask, “Why are you afraid of me? I am still your brother-in-law.”

Abigail lifted her head all of a sudden and planted a kiss on Levi’s face.

Crash!

Thankfully, Levi was quick to respond, if not, Abigail would have kissed him.

Levi was shocked by Abigail’s reaction, “W-What are you doing?”

Abigail chuckled in delight, “Brother-in-law, you were so cool just now!”

Flabbergasted, Levi almost vomited blood.

Wasn’t she terribly afraid of me just now?

Why did she try to kiss me all of a sudden?

Young girls have such strange ideas these days!

As they headed towards the car, Abigail laughed and said, “Brother-in-law, you are my idol from now on!”

...

Two strange things happened in North Hampton today!

Firstly, the Rogers family’s 40th-anniversary celebration had been suddenly interrupted. All the guests left without a reason. Why was that so?

Secondly, news broke out that a mysterious man known as Neil Rhodes had taken over both the Garrison Group and Levi Group.

With regard to these two matters, the Rogers family kept mum about them, saying that they were trade secrets.

“What on earth is the Rogers family doing, handing over Levi Group and the Garrison Group?”

“What was the Rogers family’s celebration about? So secretive!”

“Who is this person called Mr. Rhodes? How is he related to them?”

...

The news spread across several luxurious villas in North Hampton, attracting the attention of the four giants of the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce.

When Levi and Abigail returned home, Aaron and Caitlyn were around.

Caitlyn stared at Levi, “You are forever frolicking around with nothing better to do. If you are so free, why don’t you help Zoey out? Why bother attending such a celebration? Are you even qualified to be there?”

Bailey humphed, “Yes, that’s right. Levi, we hope that you can rely on your own ability to attend such a celebration instead of depending on Abigail!”

Zoey also felt that Levi liked to join in the fun at such celebrations.

Casting all grievances with the Rogers family aside, she felt that there was no need for Levi to attend the celebration since he did not have the status to do so.

Levi laughed, “Dad, Mum, and Zoey, I was at the Rogers family to deal with something!”

Aaron, Bailey, and the others were dubious when they heard Levi. They asked, “What’s the matter?”

“I went to settle some scores with Oswald!” Levi responded.

Zoey was shocked.

She was afraid that Levi would do something foolish. Things would get out of hand if they were targeted by the Rogers family.

Zoey told her parents about what happened the other day.

“What? So it was Oswald who planned the entire thing! But Levi, what did you do? You almost beat Oswald to death? Do you want to die?”

“If you plan to die, then don’t drag us into it!” Aaron and Caitlyn spoke angrily.

Zoey asked, worried, “What did you do to the Rogers family today?”

Levi said, “The Rogers family will bring Oswald here personally to make an apology!”

The Protector Chapter 155

“Hahahaha...”

After hearing this, Aaron and Caitlyn roared in laughter.

“What are you talking about? The Rogers family will come here to apologize? Are you drunk?”

“The Rogers family is one of the most highly regarded aristocratic families in North Hampton. They have assets worth tens of billions. Why would they come to apologize to you?” “

“Do you honestly think you are such an important figure? Beating up Oswald and even getting them to bring him here to make an apology?”

Aaron and Caitlyn looked at Levi.

They simply could not believe it!

Zoey was not going to believe him either!

Even the Levi who was at his peak six years ago would not have such a capability!

Abigail saw that they did not believe him and smiled in secret.

As she was reminded of what happened at the celebration, she shot a look of envy towards Zoey. In Abigail’s eyes, Zoey was the most fortunate woman on earth.

However, Abigail felt that she had an advantage over her cousin because she knew about Levi’s real identity.

Abigail felt a warm, fuzzy feeling in her heart when she thought about it.

Zoey looked at Abigail and asked, “Abigail, is that so?”

Abigail shook her head, “I don’t know!”

She was in the living room at that time, so it was true that she did not know the details.

Levi said, “I spoke privately with the Rogers family. Abigail was not around.”

“Hahaha...”

“Who do you think you are? What right do you have to talk privately with the Rogers family?”

Aaron and Caitlyn laughed.

Zoey also thought that Levi was bragging, so she did not take it to heart.

Aaron and Caitlyn did not leave that night. They continued to stay in Bayview Garden.

There was a knock on the door the next morning.

Zoey opened the door and got a shock.

Glenn, Anthony, and the others were here. They even brought Oswald, who came in a wheelchair.

“Why are you here...”

Zoey appeared confused.

Aaron and Caitlyn were extremely puzzled.

“Ms. Lopez, the Rogers family is here to make an apology to you! On behalf of Oswald’s foolish behavior, we would like to sincerely apologize to you!”

Glenn, Anthony, and the others bowed.

Bang!

At the same time, Glenn kicked the wheelchair, and it tipped over.

Oswald, who was handicapped, toppled to the floor. His voice trembled, “Ms. Lopez, I-I am in the wrong, I will n-never dare to do it again... Please forgive me!”

At this moment, Zoey and her parents were in total shock. Their minds went blank.

They never expected that the Rogers family would come over to make an apology!

Levi was right!

“In order to express our sincerity, we would like to compensate Ms. Zoey Lopez with a 100 million for any psychological harm caused! The sum of money has been wired into Imperial Meadows Limited’s bank account,” Glenn said.

Zoey’s phone rang. It was a message from the finance department. There was indeed a transfer of 100 million.

“Get up quickly!”

Seeing all these rich aristocrats standing in front of her, Zoey’s heart could not stop racing.

Aaron and Caitlyn were also frightened.

Glenn asked, “Ms. Lopez, can you please forgive us?”

“Yes!” Zoey exclaimed.

“That’s great! Goodbye, Ms. Lopez!”

The Rogers family left quickly, dragging Oswald away.

At this moment, Levi sauntered over, drinking a cup of warm milk, “Have they apologized?”

“Levi, how did you do it? Oh my god! Glenn from the aristocratic Rogers family actually came to make an apology!” Aaron and Caitlyn looked at Levi curiously.

Zoey thought that it was miraculous.

“Very simple! I made things clear to the Rogers family. Besides, they are also quite understanding and reasonable!” Levi said plainly.

Indeed, I reasoned things out with them last night. With guns pointing at their faces, how could they not understand and be reasonable?

The Protector Chapter 156

Aaron said immediately, “Actually, the more powerful they are, the more likely they are willing to make peace. They also pay more attention to morality and etiquette. If not, would they be able to remain in their current positions?”

Caitlyn also nodded her head, “Yes, that’s right. These important figures are reasonable and easy to talk to!”

Zoey felt that something was fishy, but she could not put a finger on it.

She knew that Levi could not compare to the Rogers family in terms of status and ranking.

“Next, let’s prepare ourselves to attend your grandmother’s birthday party. We need to choose some exquisite gifts for her! Let’s brainstorm for a suitable gift and buy it on another day!” Caitlyn emphasized the importance of her mother’s birthday party.

Aaron thought the same. As the son-in-law of the Black family, it would be great if he could shine at the birthday party.

Aaron and Caitlyn were very confident after receiving the huge sum from the Rogers family.

Everything was back to normal. Zoey’s project was starting to take flight again.

There were numerous companies who requested for a collaboration.

After all, with the development of the Ecological Park, there would be markets for the catering of food and beverages, accommodation, and the like.

Companies that were fast and efficient could take advantage of the opportunities available.

“Oh yes, Levi, I will have to attend a meeting to discuss the collaboration in the afternoon. A foreign catering company intends to work with us on western cuisine! Would you like to go?” Zoey asked in the morning.

“Go ahead with the collaboration. I have other things to attend to.”

It was because Levi really had some serious matters to deal with.

Azure Dragon and the others informed him about it.

He arrived at the manor where Azure Dragon and the others lived.

Phoenix approached him with a document.

“Reporting to you, God of War! The Dragon legion of the Iron Brigade has successfully completed its mission and evacuated the frontline. According to the protocol, we will now retreat to the neighboring province of the South War Zone to rest and reorganize! Please give us your orders!” Phoenix reported to Levi.

Levi glanced at the document and nodded, “Alright, let Dragon legion rest and reorganize. Wait for my next orders!”

As the commander-in-chief of the Ninth War Zone, Levi had the responsibility and the power to mobilize the guards.

However, the guards he usually deployed to the frontier battlefields were from the Iron Brigade. He had personally trained them.

The Iron Brigade was divided into several teams. Dragon legion’s combat skills were top-notch. They were the most powerful!

Dragon legion had been fighting at the border for two years in a row, so it was high time for them to rest and reorganize themselves.

“This is quite timely. I will be heading to South City to attend Zoey’s grandmother’s birthday party soon. I will head to South War Zone then!” Levi said.

“That is really good news! The guards from the Dragon legion would like to meet you!” Phoenix beamed.

After returning home that night, Zoey told Levi that the collaboration went well and was successful.

Fick Group sealed the collaboration after putting in a deposit of 30 million.

This was the first sum of money Zoey received for the project.

She gave Levi a card.

“What are you doing?” Levi was stunned.

“Didn’t you borrow 5 million last time? Return the money quickly!”

It turned out that Zoey always had this in mind.

“Alright then, I will keep it.”

Levi kept the card. He then started to look at Fick Group’s contract.

He found out that it was a member of the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce.

“This is a company owned by foreigners. They are given such preferential treatment in terms of the area and policy! The conditions are much better than the domestic companies!” Levi sighed.

It seemed that this area attracted foreigners to come and develop, with policies giving them great access and preferential treatment.

There were even times when they had direct access to certain areas.

Zoey laughed, “Do you only know about this now? It has always been like this! These foreigners always have special privileges when they set up businesses in our country. It cannot be helped!”

Levi grew serious, “Are they so superior? What a joke!”

The Protector Chapter 157

Zoey shook her head, “It cannot be helped. It is true that they are superior! Everyone is in silent agreement!”

Levi frowned, “We are in mighty Erudia. Since when did they become more superior than us?”

“It cannot be helped! Foreigners are welcomed everywhere! Those international students are treated so well in terms of welfare benefits! Moreover, many girls like meeting these international students. When they see foreigners around, they get so excited to hang out with them!”

“This is a common phenomenon, so even if you find it unfair, it cannot be helped.”

Zoey shrugged her shoulders.

It was a recent phenomenon.

In some cases, when people participated in biddings, they focused on the fact that the companies were owned by foreigners instead of looking at the strength and future prospects of the companies.

A coldness shone in Levi's eyes.

"Oh yes, I plan to buy a house for Dad with this money. However, the old house is under his name. He also wants to put the old house under Mum's name tomorrow at the Housing Authority. What do you think?" Zoey asked.

"It's your own money, so you can decide what you want to do with it."

Aaron arrived at the Housing Authority the next morning.

There was a long queue at the entrance of the Housing Authority.

He queued for almost an hour before it was his turn.

When Aaron entered with the document in his hands, two people rushed in front of him and jumped the queue.

"Hey, hey, hey, what are you doing? You are jumping the queue!" Aaron yelled.

The two tall men in front turned around to look at him. They were foreigners.

With a sneer, they flipped him off.

"Stay away from us!"

Aaron was momentarily stunned.

He had queued for almost an hour. Not only was his turn skipped, but he was also yelled at and insulted!

This is pure bullying!

Aaron was not the only one who was unhappy.

The people behind him were also upset.

What right do they have to jump queue?

Everyone was patiently waiting for their turn, so what gave them the right to jump the queue?

It was the peak period. There were at least 70 to 80 people behind Aaron.

The two people had jumped the queue as soon as they arrived. They even had the audacity to cut to the front of the line, angering many people in the queue!

"Queue from the back! Don't cut the queue!"

"Go to the back right now!"

“Regardless of your background, go and join the end of the queue!”

Everyone yelled and shouted at the two foreigners.

It caused a public outrage.

However, the two foreigners were unbothered and did not even bother to turn around.

Seeing that many people were also upset and on his side, Aaron grew more courageous and went forward to shove the men.

The two of them turned around.

One of them said, expressing his displeasure, “What do you want?”

“You cannot just cut in as you please! Walk to the back and join the queue from there! Do you not see all the people in the queue?” Aaron spoke coldly.

The others chimed in, “Yes, go to the back of the line! You have no special privileges! You are just like us!”

The two foreigners sneered, “Hmph! We have never joined any queues since we arrived in Erudia, alright? We have special privileges and are given priority in whatever we do! Besides, our matters are more important than all of yours!”

“What do you mean by priority? Who said that? You need to queue up no matter where you go! What is so important? Quickly, join the queue at the back!” Everyone shouted.

“It’s my turn next! The two of you, go to the back!”

Aaron stepped forward with his document, prepared to enter the Housing Authority.

However, he was stopped by the two foreigners.

One of them snatched Aaron’s document away from him and mercilessly tore it into strips.

The Protector Chapter 158

Boom!

Aaron was stunned.

The others too.

They did not expect the two foreigners to be so daring.

They actually tore up someone's document!

“Lowlife! Scram! Get out of our way!”

The two foreigners pointed their middle fingers at Aaron again. They cursed and insulted him, and even shoved him around.

Aaron was furious. “I will fight you till the end!”

Aaron was certainly not their opponent. They were about 1.9-meters tall. Soon, he had two slap marks on his face.

A huge commotion erupted.

The staff from the Housing Authority appeared.

A middle-aged man said angrily, “I am Neville, the director on duty today. If there is anything, please let me know!”

Everyone shouted, “They jumped the queue! They even tore up someone's application document and hit the man!”

Aaron too cried and complained about what had happened to him.

Despite their complaints, the director immediately sent the two foreigners into the hall.

“Gentlemen, please come with me. You have more important business matters to attend to.”

Neville actually did such a thing with so many pairs of eyes looking at him.

Such an action naturally made everyone angry, and they reacted strongly to the situation.

“Why? Why are they allowed to enter?”

“Yes, why can they jump the queue? Do foreigners have special privileges?”

...

Neville signaled everyone to calm down and keep quiet.

“Let me explain why! Some people have special privileges! They've come to our country to help us develop and generate as much income as possible to spur our economy. Compared to most of you, their affairs are more important! So what if they jumped the queue? They did not really affect you, did they?” Neville made an attempt to explain.

“But...”

“What do you mean but? If you don't wish to proceed, then please leave!” Neville was harsh.

Everyone got back in line and did not protest anymore.

Aaron was furious. He lashed out, “How about what happened to me? Give me an explanation! My document was torn!”

Neville looked at the pieces of paper on the floor and said coldly, “Your document is torn? Then make another application!”

“Then how about them laying their hands on me?” Aaron pointed at his face.

Neville laughed, “My staff said that you were the one who started it first!”

“You...” Aaron was exploding with rage.

Just then, an employee ran out and whispered in Neville’s ear.

Neville’s expression changed as he glowered at Aaron, “Do you still wish to continue with your application?”

Aaron was stunned, “What do you mean?”

“The two gentlemen are really angry with your behavior just now! They want you to kneel down and apologize to them before they can forgive you!” Neville said.

Aaron could not believe his ears, “What? They were the ones who jumped the queue and ruined my document. Why should I kneel down and apologize? What kind of law is that?”

“You are obviously in the wrong!” Neville said in a serious tone.

Aaron was shocked at his response, “My fault?”

“Did you know? The two gentlemen are important figures! Their business enterprises generate a lot of revenue and have provided many jobs. This benefits all of you in North Hampton! Their time is precious, so what’s wrong with them jumping queue?”

“You actually wasted their time, so isn’t that your fault?”

Aaron was shocked at the warped reasoning, “What do you even mean? Me?”

“You? What about you? Do you still want to carry on with the paperwork? I have made myself clear. If you are not going to apologize to them, then you can forget about settling your paperwork! Trust me, I can blacklist you forever!”

Neville was obviously threatening him.

The Protector Chapter 159

Aaron was flummoxed.

He did not expect such a thing to happen.

He did not even think that Neville could be so cruel and harsh to him in favor of those two foreigners!

The onlookers also did not dare to say a word.

Neville was not going to deal with administrative matters if they had something to say.

Everyone could only turn a blind eye to Aaron's predicament.

"What do you think? Spit it out!" Neville commanded in a harsh tone.

"I choose to apologize and redo the paperwork!" Aaron lowered his head at the end of the day.

In order to have a new house to stay in, he bit the bullet and chose to apologize. It was the only way he could ensure the necessary documentation was done.

"Alright, the two gentlemen happen to have time today. They want you to queue at the back! When you get to the front again, you can then apologize to them! Once they are satisfied with your performance, I will proceed with your application and paperwork!" Neville patted Aaron's face after saying so.

Aaron was about to explode from rage.

The two gentlemen said earlier that their time was precious, but when it came to ridiculing him, they actually had the time to wait for him to rejoin the queue.

"Alright, I agree to that!"

Aaron endured once again. He proceeded to join the back of the queue.

The two gentlemen laughed out loud after witnessing what had happened.

They even flashed their middle fingers at Aaron, still cursing him.

Neville grinned at the two foreigners while serving them coffee and snacks.

Aaron stood at the back, fuming.

The more he thought about it, the angrier he felt.

He could not let them walk all over him!

"Maybe I should ask Levi for help!"

When Levi received Zoey's call informing him that Aaron was in trouble, he dashed directly to the Housing Authority.

He found out that there was a long, snaking queue at the Housing Authority!

Aaron was standing right at the end of the line, his expression clouded over. There were two slap marks on his face.

Levi walked over to him and asked, "Dad, what happened to you?"

"Levi, I was hit..."

Aaron acted like Levi was his savior and told him everything that had happened.

Levi grew furious after listening to Aaron.

He had discussed this problem with Zoey last night, but he did not expect it to happen to his father-in-law today.

Levi walked to the front of the line with Aaron in tow.

"Come, Dad, I will demand an explanation for you! How can we just forget all about this and brush this aside?" Levi said angrily.

Once again, Aaron felt a sudden surge of courage and confidence and rushed to the front with Levi.

"Who hit him? Come out now!" Levi stood at the entrance and questioned in a demanding voice.

Neville walked out with several employees in tow.

When Neville saw that it was Aaron, he shot back angrily, "What do you want? Didn't I ask you to queue at the back?"

"Let me ask again. Who hit him?" Levi asked coldly.

"Are you yelling now? Did you get someone to come to your rescue? Let me tell you this, you can forget about settling this paperwork from now on. I will stop you from doing so forever!" Neville flew into a rage.

Aaron was shocked by his tirade.

Levi glanced at his name tag and sneered, "Your name is Neville, right?"

"Yes, so what? Are you going to write me up?" Neville pointed at Levi's nose and yelled at him.

Levi could not be bothered with him. He whipped out his phone and dialed a number.

"Hello, is this Jesse? Please get the Captain of the Housing Authority to make a trip down! Ask him if he knows someone by the name of Neville!" Levi ordered.

Jesse wiped the perspiration on his forehead upon picking up the call.

The First Secretary, Cedric, asked, "What happened?"

"Quickly inform Mark from the Housing Authority to make a trip down there. Someone named Neville has offended God of War!" Jesse instructed.

...

After seeing Levi hand up, Neville snorted, "Why? Are you done with the call? Do you want to get me into trouble or do you want to fire me?"

The Protector Chapter 160

Levi pushed him away and walked towards the hall. His gaze landed on the two foreigners. “Were you the ones who hit him?”

At the sight of Levi, both of them stood up and walked towards him.

“Yes, we were the ones who hit him! Why? Do you want to seek revenge for him?”

The two of them spoke choppy English while looking disdainfully at Levi.

“Apologize! Since you’ve hit him, then you should have the guts to apologize!” Levi ordered.

“Apologize? Impossible! Why should we apologize to you critters?”

Both men looked extremely smug.

Levi and Aaron were considered lowlifes in their eyes.

The two foreigners refused to pay them any attention at all.

“Apologize! You have to apologize for hitting him!”

Levi was very determined. He shot a cold glare at them.

The two foreigners were unhappy with the way Levi was staring at them. As they were much taller than Levi, they looked down at him condescendingly.

One man extended an arm to push him.

Thump!

However, Levi reacted as quickly as lightning and kicked his knee.

The man groaned when his foot made contact and collapsed onto the ground in agony.

Thump!

It was the same for the other foreigner. He kneeled down on the ground and screamed in pain.

The both of them struggled to get up, but Levi stepped on their shoulders. They looked deflated and could no longer get up.

They could only kneel down obediently!

“Dad, do what they did to you! Since they slapped you, you will return them the favor!” Levi told Aaron.

Aaron hesitated for a while before walking towards them.

Slap. Slap. Slap...

He gave them few continuous slaps. The clear, crisp sound filled the room.

Aaron let out a breath that he had been holding in all this while.

“Great!”

“This is great! I feel so good!”

Everyone outside clapped and cheered for them.

Who is able to endure the sight of our own being bullied in our own territory?

This is so good!

“Remember, you are in Erudia. You have to cooperate with us at the very least. This is not where you can throw your weight around because of your special privileges!” Levi chastised.

The two foreigners continued to stare at Levi in disdain. “Such a lowlife! Let’s wait and see what will happen to you!”

Neville continued, “Yes, you are doomed! Do you know what you have just done?”

“I asked them for an apology. Was that so wrong?” Levi replied.

He kicked the two foreigners and commanded, “Apologize!”

“First, apologize for jumping the queue!”

“Second, apologize for tearing up the application document!”

“Third, apologize for hitting people!”

At this moment, Aaron thought that his son-in-law was a domineering person.

How is he a useless piece of trash?

Aaron too exclaimed, “Yes! Apologize!”

“Hey! Do you know what on earth you are doing? You are in deep trouble!” Neville shouted.

Levi did not care about what Neville had to say. He stared furiously at the two foreigners and laughed, “You don’t wish to apologize, right? Alright! I have a way to make you obey. Also, you will be deported and kicked out of Erudia.”

“Do you even know what you are doing? Are you crazy? You are finished!” Neville warned.

Levi laughed, ‘Why? Are you unhappy seeing your foreign masters kneel on the ground? I heard that you were the one who gave them such privileges! I would like to ask you – What right do they have to be granted these privileges? Our fellow countrymen have been waiting in queue for 1 to 2 hours, and yet you let these foreigners jump the queue as they like! Are you going to keep this up?’

“Let me tell you this! I will not settle your paperwork for you from now on!” Neville threatened them.

“Haha... then let’s wait and see!”

At this moment, a white luxury car stopped outside.

The Protector Chapter 161

Two people got out of the car and jogged toward the scene in a hurry.

Neville was surprised to see the people moving in his direction. He quickly welcomed them, “I thought you went to attend a meeting, Sir? Why have you returned all of a sudden?”

Mark stared at Neville hatefully. Then he shouted. “You’re fired, Neville Heath!”

Boom!

Neville was shocked to his core as he looked at Mark in disbelief.

Then he turned to gaze at Levi. I saw him making a phone call earlier. I can’t believe this. Why am I fired?

Neville wanted to retort after recollecting his thoughts, but Mark shoved him aside. “Get lost! I don’t want to listen to your explanation. I am already aware of the entire incident!”

Mark came to a halt in front of Levi in the lobby and addressed the latter with a smile, “Mr. Garrison, I am here to apologize to you after being informed of the things that happened earlier.”

Then, he spoke to his employees, “We will treat our customers on a first come first serve basis according to the rules from now on! Anyone who does not make an appointment will have to wait for their turn. Any employee who makes an exception for any customer will face a similar fate as Neville Heath!”

“Yes!” Everyone agreed with Mark’s announcement.

“Stop processing their documents. They will have to wait in line obediently for their turn!” Mark ordered harshly.

Both foreigners were almost done with the procedures, but Mark erased all their data on the computer. They had no choice but to redo everything.

“That’s the outcome we wanted to see!” Everyone was excited.

Mark then arranged for his employee to reprocess Aaron’s procedure that had been destroyed previously.

The foreigners were dumbfounded. They did not expect Mark to be so adamant.

Mark walked up to them in a displeased manner. “We will not process your documents if you do not apologize. You’ll have to leave the country when the time comes. Consider your options and make a decision now!”

The foreigners exchanged glances and yielded in the end.

They looked at Levi and Aaron. “We are sorry. Is that sufficient?”

“Well, I do not accept your apologies,” Levi responded unexpectedly. “People like you should be deported!”

The crowd supported Levi’s statement. “That’s right! They should be deported. How dare they act like barbarians in this place?”

“Yea! Chase them away!”

Levi contacted Xavier to check the foreigners’ backgrounds.

Xavier discovered a lot of problems with the foreigners’ profiles. For instance, they faked their travel visa. That reason alone was more than enough for them to be deported.

Xavier’s subordinate arrived at the venue swiftly and warned the foreigners to leave the country within a week. Otherwise, they would be deported.

They stared at Levi and Aaron resentfully before taking their leave.

In the end, Aaron achieved his aim and completed the procedure.

He was extremely satisfied with Levi’s performance that day. “You made a wise decision to contact the boss of this place and dealt with this matter effortlessly.” Aaron smiled.

Levi was stunned. Well, technically, the boss came because I ordered him to.

The two foreigners were furious as they went home. We’ll kill you, Levi Garrison!

At that moment, a man dressed in a white suit arrived. He asked the foreigners. “Terry, Drake, have you been given the warning to leave the country?”

The Protector Chapter 162

That man was the owner of Fick Group, Charles Dickens.

Terry and Drake were his younger brothers. They had moved to North Hampton, intending to settle down in the city. But trouble found them almost immediately.

At that moment, Charles's men had already updated him with the news he wanted to know.

"The person who bullied you is my business partner, Zoey Lopez's husband, Levi Garrison!" Charles said coldly.

"We must get our revenge against him!" Drake and Terry said fiercely while covering their swollen faces.

Charles's eyes gleamed dangerously. "Very well. I will toy with his wife since he dared lay a finger on my brothers. Zoey Lopez's body is too alluring to resist. I will make the arrangements to get her into my bed tomorrow. Both of you will join me by that time. You can have your revenge on her any way you like!"

"Hehehe..." Drake and Terry laughed lecherously.

"That's the plan for now. I will invite Zoey Lopez to a banquet tomorrow night. Then we will get her drunk..."

The next day, Chloe was waiting at the entrance when Levi exited Bayview Garden.

"Are you waiting for me?" Levi was surprised.

"Are you free tonight? Let me treat you to a meal. I received my salary today, and thanks to you, the amount was very generous indeed. So I feel the need to treat you to dinner," Chloe said joyfully. I earned a total of 8 million last month because of the commission from the 2 properties Levi bought from me. This is surreal!

"Alright. Tell me the venue. I'll be there later."

Chloe was delighted when Levi agreed to her offer. "We'll have dinner at Grand Imperial Hotel tonight!"

"Got it."

Meanwhile, Zoey was invited to a dinner banquet hosted by the Fick Group to celebrate their collaboration.

Zoey agreed to attend the banquet without any hesitation because of Fick Group's sincerity during their previous discussion.

She did not question their intention because they even invited Zoey's secretary.

The event was held inside the VIP private room in Grand Imperial Hotel that night.

Zoey noticed a lot of people inside the room when she arrived.

Charles introduced the other guests to Zoey as his business partners. They were are eager for an opportunity to collaborate with Zoey's company.

Zoey completely lowered her guard.

Hard liquor was served during the banquet, but Charles deliberately prepared low-alcohol wine for Zoey and her secretary.

Despite the low alcohol content, they were forced to drink continuously due to the rounds of toasts.

Zoey was getting a little tipsy even though she merely sipped her drink every time.

Charles said courteously. "Ms. Lopez, our norm is quite different from the locals in Erudia. We drink with alacrity when we're among ourselves, unlike the businessmen we've seen in this country!"

Charles did not urge Zoey to drink throughout the banquet. But he would utter comments from time to time, indirectly forcing Zoey to drink the wine to get along with the other business partners.

Zoey had no choice but to obey because she did not want to ruin the atmosphere. Soon, she was drunk.

Thump!

After a few more rounds, Zoey finally fell face front on the tabletop as her consciousness faded.

A menacing smile spread across Charles' face at that sight.

Zoey's secretary sensed the peculiar turn of events, but her condition was no better than Zoey's.

The secretary passed out as well swiftly after.

Charles and his business partners laughed salaciously at the sight of the two unconscious women inside the room.

They had, in fact, taken some medication to prevent them from getting drunk in advance, so the hard liquor did not affect Charles and his friends.

Charles dialed a number with his phone. "You can come in now, Drake and Terry."

Then he turned to admire Zoey's unparalleled beauty after hanging up the phone. "You belong to us tonight, baby!"

The Protector Chapter 163

Drake and Terry rushed to the 6th floor impatiently after they received the news. They had been waiting inside the hotel lobby the entire time.

The pictures of Zoey sent by Charles earlier aroused them.

At that moment, Levi and Chloe reached the Grand Imperial Hotel. He saw the familiar figures of Terry and Drake immediately.

“What are they doing here?” Levi and Chloe chased after them curiously.

The two foreigners entered a private room hastily when they arrived on the 6th floor.

“Something’s wrong.” Levi came to a halt in front of the door.

“So, this woman is Zoey Lopez? She’s exquisite!”

“I heard the women in Erudia are extraordinarily charming, but I certainly did not expect to sleep with a girl as gorgeous as her so quickly!”

Terry and Drake sounded excited.

“We’ll sleep with her right here, right now!” Charles said firmly.

Levi turned to address Chloe. “Do not enter the room no matter what you hear later on!”

Chloe nodded subconsciously as she took in the sinister expression on Levi’s face.

Bam!

The door to the private room was pushed open just as the people inside were about to get wild.

Someone entered the room and locked the door behind him.

Drake and Terry yelped when they saw Levi. “That’s him, brother! He’s the one who beat us up!”

Charles narrowed his eyes at Levi. “So, you’re Levi Garrison?”

“Yes. That’s me.”

Levi understood they were targeting him because they recognized him instantaneously.

Charles sneered. “Very well. I’m glad you’re here. You will pay the price for harming my brothers. I’ll tie you up and have you bear witness as we ravage your wife tonight!”

“Hehehe...”

All the foreigners inside the room revealed a similar lecherous smile.

In their opinion, Levi had no other choice but to concede because they had the numbers.

Charles and his friends closed in on Levi.

Thump!

Levi grabbed Charles all of a sudden and kicked him forcefully in his knees.

The latter screamed bloody murder and fell onto the floor.

Thump!

Levi swung a forceful punch at Charles's face.

Charles sprawled on the ground in agony.

“Do you like to drink liquor? I'll make sure all of you drink to your heart's content!”

There was still plenty of liquor inside the private room.

Levi picked up a bottle of hard liquor and forced the contents down Drake's throat.

“Hmmm...”

Drake struggled mightily, but he was pinned on the ground as Levi poured bottle after bottle of hard liquor into his mouth.

Levi forced Drake's jaws together to force the vomit back into his gastrointestinal tract when he wanted to puke.

Drake's stomach was visibly bloated after he was forced to drink multiple bottles of wine. He rolled on the ground in pain as he retched up blood.

Terry and Charles were met with a similar fate.

Levi unleashed his unprecedented wrath on the brothers that night.

The Protector Chapter 164

They must be tired of living to dare lay a finger on Zoey! But Levi did not want to show them mercy by killing them. So he used that method to torture them instead.

Levi finally exited the room with Zoey on his back after a long while. Chloe saw Levi dragging Zoey's secretary along as well.

"I'm afraid we can't have our dinner tonight. I'll treat you to a meal another time. Please help me send her home." Levi asked Chloe to take care of the secretary.

"Okay. Leave this to me."

Chloe caught a glimpse of the room before she left. The gory scene was carved into her mind...

The sound of the ambulance pierced the night shortly after Levi left the venue.

Charles and the others were sent to the hospital to receive treatment. They were diagnosed with gastrointestinal bleeding, severe burning of the throat mucosa, and impairment of internal organs due to excessive drinking.

Everyone was puzzled by the amount of liquor they drank to lead to such a disastrous outcome.

Zoey did not sober up until midnight. She breathed a sigh of relief when she saw Levi beside her.

Zoey was infuriated to learn the truth.

Levi grimaced. Charles and his brothers had invoked my fury. I have shown them mercy by allowing them to live.

Zoey added warily, "You did not kill them, did you?"

"Don't worry. I merely taught them a brief lesson."

The next day, someone knocked on the door early in the morning.

Harry, Aaron, and the other members of the Lopez family were at the door.

"How can you be sleeping at a time like this? Something bad happened!" Harry chided.

"What happened?" Zoey was startled.

"This is all thanks to what you and Levi did last night!" Harry glared at her. "Levi tortured Charles and his business partners last night, causing them to suffer grave internal injuries!"

"Oh? Really?" Zoey's face turned paper-white. This is the brief lesson Levi mentioned?

“You had to offend powerful men like them out of all the people in this world!” Harry pointed at Zoey. “Now you’ve made a mess! The Imperial Meadows and the Lopez family’s business are all ruined!”

“What happened exactly, grandpa?” Zoey asked anxiously.

“Don’t you know? Fick Group is a member of the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce! The chairman of Fick Group’s board of directors, Alaric Taylor, announced his desire to take revenge on us! They cut off all monetary supplies, connections, and business partners related to the Lopez family. Your West City Ecological Park project will be the next to suffer!” Harry explained.

Zoey received a phone call swiftly after as they predicted.

One of the investors of the West City Ecological Park, Feliciano Hayes, had withdrawn his capital.

Another phone call followed. This time, it was Roberto Norris calling to inform her of the same thing.

Soon, all of the investors had pulled out from the project.

Zoey’s face turned ashen. Damn it! It’s over. I’m doomed. The West City Ecological Park project is ruined now that they’ve withdrawn their investments. I will have to pay a large amount of compensation too. Not to mention this huge trouble related to Fick Group...

Tears flowed down her cheeks uncontrollably. Why do I have to suffer the consequences when Charles and the others intended to defile me in the first place?

“They are people from the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce! This is all because of Levi Garrison! Where is he?”

Everyone was looking for Levi because he was the culprit.

“Do you know what you’ve done, Levi Garrison?” Harry wanted so badly to slap him.

The Protector Chapter 165

Levi heard the commotion while he was brushing his teeth, but he responded carefreely, “Don’t worry. There’s nothing to be afraid of.”

“What? The Lopez family’s businesses are collapsing. Even your wife’s company is affected!” Harry yelled angrily.

“You started this mess. So, what do you think we should do now?” Henry asked coldly.

“It’ll be alright. This matter will resolve by itself,” Levi replied nonchalantly.

“Fine! That’s alright. We have a way of resolving our problem!” Harry left furiously with his family.

Aaron looked at his son-in-law helplessly. He thought Levi was impressive when he dealt with the foreigners two days ago, but Levi disappointed him again. Rescuing Zoey was the right thing to do, but he did not need to go to such lengths to teach them a lesson. Now, he caused trouble for everyone because of his reckless actions.

Zoey defended Levi when Caitlyn began to criticize Levi. “Don’t blame him for what happened. This is all because of my careless mistake. There’s no use arguing at this point!”

Aaron’s plan to do a property survey for a new house was ruined. There’s no money to buy a house now, not to mention the possibility of having to compensate others.

Zoey was in a state of agitation. “I’ll figure out a way.”

Levi, on the other hand, was unfazed.

The financial department manager contacted Zoey shortly after. He told her Harry Lopez had withdrawn 100 million from the company’s account.

That sum was the compensation fee paid by the Rogers family because of the psychological trauma they had inflicted on Zoey and her family.

“Father is behaving outrageously! The Rogers family gave Zoey the money. Who gave him the right to take the money from her?” Aaron was mad.

Zoey and Caitlyn were filled with grievances.

Aaron took the initiative to question his father.

“Levi dragged us into this mess, so he should bear the responsibility. It’s not wrong for me to take this money from your family since he is your son-in-law,” Harry retorted.

Aaron clenched his fists. “That’s unreasonable, father. Moreover, you’re committing embezzlement by taking the money away in private. You’re going against the law!”

Harry snorted coldly. “Fine by me. Why don’t you call the cops on me?”

“I...” Aaron fell silent. I can’t do that. Moreover, father is one of the directors in Imperial Meadows’s board of management. The chances of winning an embezzlement lawsuit against him are slim.

Harry added with a sneer, “Have you forgotten about your crime of stealing the documents previously? Your life will be ruined if I turn you in by showing the evidence to the police.”

“I... Anyway, what you’re doing is wrong, father!” Aaron hung up the call furiously.

The Lopez family resolved their family crisis effortlessly after receiving the 100 million sum. They even profited from their selfish action. But Zoey’s company paid the price in return.

Caitlyn lamented, “What can we do? They’ve always been this way. We are used to being mistreated by them. They’ll seize the money sooner or later anyway.”

Aaron and Caitlyn had been victims of familial betrayals on multiple occasions. The Lopez family would butter them up to gain benefits whenever they were doing good. They persuaded Aaron and his family to share their fortune by using the moral obligations of being part of the Lopez family. But whenever Aaron and his family faced troubles, none of their so-called 'family' would show up to lend them a helping hand. The other members of the Lopez family would only think of ways to worsen their predicaments and maximize their own profits. Aaron and Caitlyn's sentiment of treating the Lopez family with sincerity was clearly not reciprocated.

Levi was done freshening up at that time. He poured a cup of warm milk while he questioned Zoey, "Did all of the investors pull out from the project?"

The Protector Chapter 166

Zoey nodded. “Yes. I suppose they’ll be asking for compensation too.”

Levi sipped from his glass and said with a smile, “That’s alright. They’ll regret their decisions soon.”

“What do you mean?” Zoey was puzzled.

“Be patient. Someone will invest in that project very soon,” Levi comforted her.

“Do you have a plan in your mind?” Zoey looked at Levi curiously.

“Don’t worry. This matter will be resolved after today,” Levi assured Zoey and her parents calmly.

But they were not convinced by Levi’s words because they were up against the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce.

Everyone involved in the business world in North Hampton was well aware of the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce’s influence.

The North Hampton Chamber of Commerce was controlled by the 4 ultra-wealthy families in the cities, under the management of 8 council members.

The chairman of Fick Group’s board of directors, Alaric Taylor, was one of the council members.

Alaric wanted to seek revenge on Zoey and her family because of what happened to Charles.

All the investors for Zoey’s project withdrew their capital because of a single command from him.

The North Hampton Chamber of Commerce was a formidable organization as they could easily sever all connections related to the Lopez family’s businesses.

The news of Levi’s violent act spread like wildfire in North Hampton that day. They demanded a large amount of compensation and prevented anyone from investing in Zoey’s project.

A lot of companies were interested in the West City Ecological Park project initially because of its promising prospect. The potential investors immediately erased the thought in their minds because of that warning from the Chamber of Commerce.

Zoey was left helpless and clueless as to how she should salvage the situation while being ostracized by the entire industry.

But the bad news did not end there. Zoey’s employees handed their resignation letters one after another. Even the secretary involved in the incident last night quitted her job.

The secretary also made an official statement. She told the public that Charles and his business partners did not step a toe out of the line. They were having an ordinary dinner banquet when she witnessed Levi entering the room and tormenting everyone mercilessly.

Boom!

Zoey's mind went blank upon receiving the news. Someone must have bribed her. She suddenly became their witness against Levi. Suzie passed out last night. Charles and his friends would have defiled her if Levi did not show up. Levi rescued her, but she betrayed us! I nourished a viper in my bosom!

Zoey could not fathom Suzie's abrupt change in loyalty. I picked her out personally among all the fresh graduates, so I certainly did not expect her to do this. I can understand the other employees' decisions to leave, but Suzie...

Zoey sat in her office gloomily as unprecedented desperation washed over her.

The door to her office was pushed open after some time. A few men clad in suits entered the room.

"Allow me to introduce myself, Ms. Lopez. I am Baker McKenzie from Botts & Ellis LLP. We are hired by Mrs. Dickens to represent her son, Mr. Charles Dickens, in this lawsuit. We came here to inform you about the compensation amount you have to pay our client due to the injuries your husband, Mr. Levi Garrison, inflicted on our client. The sum is 800 million. Please take a look." Baker handed Zoey a piece of paper.

Zoey's face turned pale after she skimmed through the document.

"We will press charges against you and your husband if you do not wish to settle this matter in private. We have a large amount of evidence, including surveillance footage, witnesses from the hotel's waiters, the official statement from Ms. Suzie Bones, and 8 other victims in this incident. Let me remind you – this lawsuit is highly advantageous to us. Please take a look at this injury report too. Do you think you have the liberty to choose, Ms. Lopez?"

The Protector Chapter 167

Botts & Ellis LLP was a law firm established by Zoey's ex-classmate, Arnold Botts. That firm was one of the most prestigious firms in North Hampton. They won almost all the cases they accepted.

Zoey was devastated. She was frightened when she saw the injury report. I can't imagine the things Levi must have done to cause so much damage. But I can certainly picture the troubles we have to face soon.

We will have a tough time ahead because of this injury report alone. Although Charles and his business partners wronged me in the first place, I do not have any evidence that prove their vile acts.

"Also, allow me to inform you this, Ms. Lopez, I am the best lawyer in my firm. Ever since they hired me at Botts & Ellis LLP, the firm had never lost a single case. So trust me, this lawsuit will not be an exception. You should think wisely now!" Baker sneered.

Baker's assistant added, "I heard your husband, Levi Garrison, was released from prison recently. With his record, it is not so difficult to place him behind the bars again.”

The group of lawyers manipulated the situation to their advantage with the sole purpose of driving Zoey into a corner.

“Alright then, we will be waiting for your reply, Ms. Lopez. Consider your options well.” Baker and the others left afterward.

Zoey was left alone inside her office. Tears welled up in her eyes as she thought to herself, Perhaps I can seek help from Arnold. He pursued me in the past, but I rejected him.

Zoey spent a lot of effort to obtain Arnold Botts’s number. Then she called him.

“Oh? Why are you contacting me, Zoey?” Arnold said in a surprised tone.

Zoey forced a smile. “Hello, Arnold. I’ll cut to the chase. I’m facing some difficulties...”

“Yes, I know. You’re talking about the incident involving Levi Garrison and Charles Dickens from Fick Group, am I right?”

“Yes, that’s right. Can you help me with this lawsuit? We can discuss the price to fit your liking,” Zoey pleaded with sincerity.

Arnold grinned. “I am aware of this lawsuit because the best lawyer in my firm accepted the case. I’ll be frank – you’ll have a difficult time trying to win against him for this case. Let me offer you a piece of my mind, Zoey. You should ditch Levi while you can. He’s just a useless man now. Let him return to the jail. Then, you can remarry someone better. Everyone from our high school is doing far better than Levi Garrison. Take me for an example. My law firm, Botts & Ellis LLP, has been flourishing for the past ten years! There are a lot of outstanding lawyers working for me currently,” Arnold persuaded Zoey.

Zoey countered immediately, “Levi did not hurt them on purpose. Charles and his friends tried to take advantage of me after getting me drunk. Levi was merely rescuing me.”

“That’s impossible! I have been friends with Mr. Dickens for a long time now. He’s a gentleman, as far as I’m concerned. He will never do such things. His friends are as noble as him. Do you have any evidence to back your words?” Arnold said.

“You...” Zoey did not expect Arnold to be in cahoots with Charles and his gang.

“Don’t worry, Zoey. I will make sure Baker does a splendid job this time and push for Levi to be sentenced to life imprisonment. You will have the opportunity to ditch him soon.” Arnold laughed wickedly.

“You don’t have to worry about my matters. Moreover, you are not qualified to judge my husband’s character!” Zoey hung up the phone angrily.

Inside the office of Botts & Ellis LLP’s building, Arnold crossed his feet on the table while wearing a suit. He was sipping casually on a cup of coffee.

The Protector Chapter 168

He had accepted this case immediately and devised a plan for Alaric Taylor when he heard Zoey was involved in this matter. Arnold ordered his subordinate, "Inform Mr. Taylor to prohibit all the law firms in North Hampton from accepting Zoey's case using his connections."

His assistant nodded. "Yes, sir."

All the law firms in North Hampton soon received the news: No one is allowed to accept Zoey Lopez's case.

Zoey, on the other hand, was oblivious as she wasted all her time contacting every law firm she could to fight for her lawsuit. But every firm turned her down.

Zoey quickly realized something was wrong after receiving the continuous rejections. Someone is pushing me into the depth of despair. They want to send Levi into prison and ruin everything I have.

Zoey dialed Levi's number without wasting another second.

Levi was astounded by the turn of events when he arrived at Zoey's office. I did not expect this to happen. Perhaps I've underestimated the Chamber of Commerce's authority. Well, Arnold Botts's involvement is out of my initial consideration too.

"We are left with two choices. We can either pay the sum of 800 million or proceed with the lawsuit. But I contacted all the law firms I could, and all of them refused to represent us," Zoey sobbed.

"You don't have to think about the lawsuit anymore. They have planned everything, down to cutting off all your resources and connections. But believe me, this is not the extent of their plans." Levi's smile widened.

The legal team from Fick Group arrived shortly after as Levi had predicted.

They requested Zoey to compensate them with a sum of 300 million for Charles Dickens's injuries and the delay of the West City Ecological Park's progress.

I did breach the agreement. And it is clearly written on the agreement that I have to compensate them with 10 times the amount they invested. Before Zoey had time to catch her breath, Alaric sent his men from the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce to visit Zoey.

They offered to purchase Zoey's company for 300 million, including the West City Ecological Park project.

Boom!

Zoey was flabbergasted. They planned everything. They are pushing me into the traps they laid out for me, one after the other. I'll be left with nothing by the time this incident comes to an end. Alaric offered to buy out my company for 300 million. Then I'll have no other choice but to pay Fick Group with the lump sum for breaching the contract. They will take control of all my assets, worth up to a billion, in a breeze. My assets will depreciate further if I do not agree now since I do not have sufficient cash flow to operate my business at this point. 300 million is already considered a great deal.

Alaric and Arnold were proud of this scheme they devised because they would be able to rob Zoey's possessions while pushing Levi into jail simultaneously.

Alaric's subordinate said with a smile, "Our offer coincides with the amount you have to pay Fick Group for breaching the contract. If you agree to our proposal, let's handle the procedures right away."

Zoey hesitated. I will have to pay this 300 million sum. I really do not have any other choice. Should I just accept this offer?

"Hesitate no more, Ms. Lopez. Your asset may depreciate to 200 million tomorrow," That person urged Zoey to agree to his offer.

Levi suddenly voiced out at that moment. "300 million? That's not a problem!"

Everyone was astounded by Levi's statement. Zoey was not an exception. 300 million is not a problem? He's talking big again.

"Don't worry. I can afford 3 billion, not to mention 300 million. Let's just wait until tomorrow before we decide anything."

Zoey looked at Levi incredulously. “Are you really capable of acquiring the money?”

“Did I say that I’d pay them? Why should we do that? We’re not at fault in this incident.” Levi smiled.

“But they have all the evidence. We have no other choice but to concede!” Zoey rubbed her temples.

“All you have to do now is to proceed with your work as usual. You can approve the resignations of your employees, but you need to make a statement in advance. Tell them that anyone who quits their job now will not be accepted in Imperial Meadows from now on. The employees who stay with the company through this crisis will receive an increased salary and more benefits,” Levi told Zoey what to do.

“But we have no money to fund our operations now. Moreover, no one will dare to invest in my company after that official warning given by the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce,” Zoey said with uncertainty.

“Just do as I say. Someone will invest in your company today,” Levi assured her.

Zoey placed her faith in Levi and heeded his advice.

She made the announcement as Levi suggested. Many of her employees were enraged to receive the notice.

“There’s no need for me to return to this rubbish company anyway!”

“That’s right! Imperial Meadows is going bankrupt soon. What’s the point of acting tough now?”

Zoey merely endured the insults in silent.

At that moment, a Maybach stopped in front of Imperial Meadows’s building.

A few men got out of the car. The man leading the group was dressed in a suit and wearing a pair of sunglasses.

That man was none other than Kirin. Today, he was playing the role of a company’s president instead of a military instructor.

“Hello, please inform Ms. Lopez that Levi Group’s president, Mr. Rhodes, is here to meet her.” The receptionist immediately contacted Zoey after Kirin’s assistant spoke to her.

Zoey came to the lobby to welcome Kirin in person afterward.

Kirin was a skilled fighter and an experienced instructor, but he wasn’t familiar with business talks. Hence, he addressed Zoey in a straightforward manner, “I am would like to invest in an ongoing project under your company, Ms. Lopez. I’ll provide you a 300 million capital for now. Let’s sign the contract now if you agree to my offer.”

His assistant handed the contract to Zoey after Kirin waved his hand.

Zoey was shocked after she glanced through the agreement. This is not a collaboration. He might as well just give me the money!

Kirin added, “We have an ongoing medical-related project as well. I know your company has expertise in this field, so we will let you handle this project too, Ms. Lopez.”

The assistant handed Zoey another document.

That project would only provide Zoey’s company with a 100 million investment, but that was mainly due to Imperial Meadows’s limited capacity.

“Will you agree to my offer, Ms. Lopez?” Kirin inquired.

“Of course! Thank you so much, Mr. Rhodes!” Zoey expressed her gratitude agitatedly.

Then, she gazed at Kirin curiously. “If you do not mind me asking, Mr. Rhodes, why are you choosing to invest in my company when we’re in a tight spot? I have to ask because I cannot think of a valid reason myself.”

Kirin answered, “Firstly, I have faith in your company’s prospect because your business is in demand. The second reason is that I am not afraid of the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce.”

“What kind of relationship do you share with Levi Garrison, Mr. Rhodes?” Zoey questioned.

The words slipped out of Kirin’s mouth subconsciously. “He’s my... He’s someone with great potential, in my opinion. Levi Group’s advancement in the medical field was unparalleled in the past. I acquired Levi Group and the Garrison family’s businesses because I do not want this technology to go to waste. I came here to invest in your company partly because of this reason too.”

The Protector Chapter 170

“Okay. I understand now.”

The investment made by the mysterious Mr. Rhodes spread quickly throughout the entire North Hampton.

The North Hampton Chamber of Commerce was one of the few to take particular interest in that news.

Alaric Taylor, an obese man, was puffing on his cigar inside his office. “Who is this Neil Rhodes? Why have I never heard of him?”

Alaric’s assistant replied. “We’ve investigated his background. There is limited information on him.”

“I don’t know what’s wrong with the Rogers family. Why did they give him Levi Group and Garrison Group all of a sudden? Check out the relationship between Neil Rhodes and the Rogers family,” Alaric ordered. Then, he put on a mischievous smile. “It doesn’t matter to me even if you obtained that investment from Levi Group, Zoey Lopez. You cannot save Levi Garrison anyway. This is the repercussion you must face for harming my godson!”

No one expected Charles Dickens to be Alaric’s godson.

Zoey’s company was finally getting back on track after she received the investment. But I must pay the penalty for breaching the contract. Otherwise, Levi will face time in jail. I’m still worried about this because there’s no way I can collect so much money in this short period of time.

Meanwhile, Levi was hanging out with Azure Dragon and the others.

Azure Dragon laughed out loud when he was informed of the ongoing situation. “Hahaha! What a joke! Is there actually someone who has the guts to send you into prison at this time and age?”

Levi shared his thoughts while smoking a cigarette, “I did not expect these foreigners to have the support of the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce.”

“What are you going to do next, Sir?” Azure Dragon asked.

“Firstly, I’ll visit those people who committed perjury. Then, I’ll deal with the lawyers. The last thing to do is to show the necessary evidence to deport those foreigners,” Levi elaborated.

“Evidence? But there is no evidence as far as I’m concerned.” Azure Dragon was astounded.

However, he quickly gained revelation at the sight of Levi’s sly smile.

Levi Garrison was a man with a plan. He was not only a formidable enemy on the battlefield with unrivaled combat skills, that man was also a brilliant tactician. Dealing with that incident was a piece of cake to him. He had deliberately left traces behind when dealing with Charles and the others last night.

Phoenix took up the responsibility to look for the few waiters in the hotel who had falsified statements as witnesses that night.

Levi and Azure Dragon went to meet with Zoey’s secretary, Suzie. Levi had to deal with matters related to his wife in person.

At that moment, youngsters were dancing to the music inside the Space Bar located in North Hampton.

Suzie treated her friends to party in the bar after receiving a million in cash from Alaric that day. She booked the VIP table in the bar and even ordered the most luxurious meal they had.

Suzie was washing her hand with a bottle of expensive champagne when Levi arrived at the bar.

He sat quietly next to Suzie and chatted with her casually, “Are you having fun spending the money Alaric Taylor gave you?”

Suzie was stunned when she heard Levi's voice. When did he appear next to me?

"Why are you here, Levi Garrison? And what nonsense did you spout?" Suzie recollected her thoughts after a while.

Levi beamed at her. "I remember you were drunk as well last night. I saved you and arranged for someone to send you home."

The color drained from Suzie's face as she listened to him. She refuted his statement firmly. "Nonsense! I wasn't drunk yesterday, nor did you save me!"

"Go on. Please go on with your lies." Levi smiled.

Suzie's male friends stood up and surrounded Levi in an instant. "Who the hell are you, kiddo? What's going on here?"

Levi could not care less about the few lowly men surrounding him.

He continued to stare at Suzie. “Is that so? But I saw with my own eyes how drunk you were.”

“Impossible! I wasn’t drunk! I attended a dinner banquet with Ms. Lopez yesterday. Then, you came in and beat those people up. You even tortured them and warned me not to tell anyone!” Suzie summoned her courage and placed the blame on Levi unwaveringly.

“Oh really?” Levi demanded.

Suzie was not afraid because she had her muscular friends’ support. She shrieked angrily. “Don’t you dare pull any tricks on me, Levi Garrison! I’m telling you, you cannot escape the charges pressed against you!”

“You’re an ungrateful human being. Those foreigners would’ve raped you if I did not rescue you last night,” Levi responded.

Fear crept into Suzie’s heart when she was reminded of the frightening scene from yesterday.

But she braced herself and said, “Hmph! That’s not possible. Mr. Dickens is a well-known gentleman. He’s polite toward all ladies. Don’t go judging him with your despicable standards!”

She’s good at telling lies. Levi took out his phone and pulled up his gallery. He then waved his phone in Suzie’s face. “This is the video of you in a drunken state that I took last night. I wonder who is the person touching you in this video? Oops! I believe these hands belong to Mr. Dickens!”

Suzie was dumbfounded when she saw the video. He took a video of me. This video is proof that I falsified my statements! I’ll face time in jail if I’m exposed.

Suzie’s face turned to the shade of chalk instantaneously.

“Delete that video right now!” She made a fruitless attempt to snatch Levi’s phone. Levi nimble avoided her and got up to leave.

Suzie hurriedly stood up as well. She yelled furiously, “Give me the phone!”

“Why should I give you this phone?” Levi asked.

“Give her the phone immediately!” Suzie’s friends blocked Levi’s path and ordered him in an unfriendly manner.

“Oh please. This is my phone,” Levi said.

One of the men, Clement Marrow, demanded harshly, “I order you to hand the phone over right now! Truth be told, the person in charge of this bar is my brother, Chopper. I guarantee you will not walk out of this place unscathed if you do not give me the phone.”

Her friends' presence boosted Suzie's courage. "You'll suffer greatly tonight if you do not delete the video, Levi Garrison!"

Levi ignored them. Clement reached out to snatch the phone just as Levi continued to walk ahead.

Thump!

Azure Dragon appeared out of nowhere and punched Clement's face. Blood splattered everywhere.

Thump!

Another man fell to the floor.

In a matter of seconds, Suzie's friends were all lying on the ground.

"Who the hell dares to cause trouble on my turf?" A loud voice pierced the atmosphere inside the bar.

A dozen men rushed toward the scene. They were thugs in charge of the security in that bar.

The bar's manager had informed them about the fight, so they came in a hurry.

Levi thought that voice was a little familiar. That's Chopper, who works on the construction site as a helper. He's one of Nueve's men.

Chopper's face turned pale when he recognized Levi's face. "So, you are the bastards causing trouble on my turf?" Chopper strode past Levi and Azure Dragon and came to a halt in front of Clement and his friends.

Slap!

Chopper slapped Clement forcefully across his face as the latter spat out a mouthful of blood and a few of his teeth.

The Protector Chapter 172

Slap!

Chopper slapped another person's face.

The few thugs following Chopper beat up Clement and his friends mercilessly.

The manager was astounded. Why is he beating up our VIP customers tonight? How did they end up becoming the troublemakers?

"I am certain that they stirred up trouble in this bar!" Chopper interrupted the manager before he could explain.

Unexpectedly, Chopper shuffled toward Levi and said to him politely. "I'm sorry to have bothered you with this inconvenience. I've dealt with those idiotic punks, Mr. Garrison."

"Well done." Chopper was elated to receive a compliment from Levi.

Suzie and her friends were puzzled. That's the complete opposite of what happened.

Levi waved his phone at Suzie. "I'll be taking my leave, then."

Levi left with Azure Dragon afterward.

Suzie chased after them immediately because Levi still possessed the video that could ruin her life.

But by the time she arrived at the door, Levi and Azure Dragon had disappeared without a trace.

"Boo hoo..." Suzie knelt on the floor as she cried her eyes out. I'll be doomed if I cannot find Levi Garrison! I'll have no way to escape imprisonment if he turns in the video.

Suzie was overwhelmed by fear and regret. I cannot go to jail now. I just graduated from university, and I have a bright future ahead of me. Oh! How I wish I can turn back time. I lost sight of everything because of that 1 million offer.

Meanwhile, Phoenix had completed his tasks. He tracked down all the transaction histories and call logs of the waiters that witnessed the event. The waiters were cowering in tears before Phoenix.

Inside a luxurious villa in North Hampton, Arnold Botts was puffing on a cigar while a sexy lady lay on his bed.

He eyed the woman on the bed and sneered, "The next person to fill that position on the bed will be you, Zoey Lopez!"

Many of her ex-classmates had always coveted Zoey because of her beauty, especially those who were now successful and accomplished in life.

Arnold was determined to get his way because this was a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity for him to sleep with Zoey. I'll have a taste of the woman who rejected me in the past!

At that moment, someone pressed on his doorbell.

Arnold put on a bathrobe and went to open the door after he cursed that person who disrupted his train of thoughts.

It was Levi who was standing on the other side of the door.

"Oh my! Look at that! Levi Garrison, the man who used to be a powerful figure in North Hampton. Welcome!" Arnold invited Levi into his villa instead of chasing him away.

“Are you here because of your lawsuit?” Arnold asked.

“You’re right. You are the owner of Botts & Ellis LLP, after all. You are the only person I can come to at a time like this.” Levi smiled.

“What’s going on?” Arnold feigned ignorance.

“I am here because no lawyer in the city would represent us in this lawsuit. I was hoping if you could enlighten me on the situation,” Levi answered.

“Haha! Frankly speaking, I arranged for all this to happen. No one in this field will have the guts to accept your case now,” Arnold blurted out the truth because he was not afraid of Levi. In his opinion, Levi was there to beg him for mercy.

“Oh no! It’s you?” Levi pretended to be in disbelief.

“That’s right! I want to drive you and Zoey into a corner. I want both of you to be caught in a helpless and desperate situation. And here you are, coming all the way to my villa to beg me!” Arnold beamed at Levi.

“That means you planned everything with Alaric Taylor’s help?” Levi questioned him.

“Yes! I bribed those witnesses too. My arrangements are flawless! You will have to face death if you do not beg me right now, Levi Garrison!”

Arnold Botts laughed wickedly. You're completely under my control, Levi Garrison! You're doomed!

"So, it is you who have been manipulating every turn of events!" Levi acted as if he was furious.

"That's right! I agreed to accept the case without any hesitation when the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce contacted me previously. I pursued Zoey in the past, but she rejected me mercilessly and even told me that I do not deserve her. But times have changed – I am the person who can alter your fates now!"

Arnold Botts could never let go of the humiliation he experienced in his younger days. But he finally had the opportunity to toy with Zoey. I will play with her to my heart's content!

"You..." Levi put up a scared front.

Arnold moved closer to Levi and jeered at him, "I am your master now, Levi Garrison. You will lose if you fight me in this lawsuit. I will see your face again behind bars."

"But that wasn't my fault. They tried to take advantage of Zoey and threatened me too. I was only defending myself," Levi uttered the words desperately.

"Hehe. I am aware of that, naturally. Charles and his friends are a bunch of sex fiends. They have toyed with plenty of women over the years. They wanted to defile Zoey on purpose as a form of revenge against you. It was also their intention to tie you up and let you witness the entire process. But what can you do even if you know all about the truth now? You don't have any evidence against us!" Arnold challenged Levi smugly.

"Then what should I do, old friend? Can you please help me?" Levi faked a plea.

Arnold put on a cunning smile. "That's very simple. Pay me 200 million and leave Zoey under my care for 1 week. This is not too much to ask, am I right? 200 million should not be a problem now that someone has invested in her company. I'm offering you a fair deal now. Let your wife please me for 1 week in exchange for your safety." Arnold patted Levi's shoulder. "Think wisely, Levi. You're doomed if you cannot fulfill these two conditions. I guarantee you will be sentenced to life imprisonment. You can never escape that place for the rest of your life!"

Levi laughed after Arnold was done threatening him. He sat on the sofa and crossed his legs while puffing on a special cigarette from the army.

His demeanor had changed completely from when he was begging Arnold Botts moments ago.

Arnold stared at Levi incredulously. He's supposed to be begging me. Why is he acting like the boss now?

"What are you doing, Levi Garrison? Are you tired of living?" Arnold screamed.

Footsteps reverberated inside the room all of a sudden.

Arnold assumed the sound was made by the woman he slept with earlier, so he said harshly. "Didn't I tell you not to come out here?"

"I'm not allowed to come out here?" Arnold turned his head around immediately when he heard the voice of a man instead. Then, he saw Azure Dragon walking slowly in his direction with a camera in his hand.

"Who are you? What are you doing here?"

Azure Dragon strode up to Levi while disregarding Arnold. "I've captured the whole process, Sir!"

Arnold tensed up when he saw the camera. He asked frightfully, "You recorded the whole conversation earlier?"

Clarity washed over Arnold instantaneously. Levi put up a pretense by begging me for mercy. He set a trap for me to spill the truth on my own accord. I did not expect him to do this. Levi Garrison is just a nobody, in my opinion. Perhaps I've underestimated him.

Levi checked the footage and said with a smile, "You're right. I wanted to record just the voices with a recorder. But on second thought, filming the entire process will be more convincing."

The Protector Chapter 174

Levi's confidence unsettled Arnold. I'll be a goner if this footage is exposed to the public. My law firm will collapse, so will my life!

Arnold was drenched in a cold sweat at that moment. His anxiety was much more intense than Suzie's. Suzie's concern was merely the fear of imprisonment while Arnold would lose everything, including his wealth, career, and life.

Arnold stared at Levi hatefully, unwilling to give up without a fight. "Hand me the footage now. Then, we can discuss the terms like civilized people. Otherwise, you will suffer miserably."

"Are you threatening me?" Levi grinned at him.

Arnold grasped the situation in a heartbeat. Levi Garrison is a formidable man. He would not think of doing this if he's just an Average Joe as I thought. Threatening him is futile.

Arnold suppressed his undulating emotions. He tried to negotiate with Levi, "Just tell me what you want."

Levi shook his head. "I don't want anything."

"No, wait! I will assist you in this lawsuit if you give me the footage. I can guarantee your victory, and you will receive a handsome amount of compensation too!" Arnold suggested. Levi's only wish at this moment should be to win this lawsuit and free himself from all the charges pressed against him.

Levi's lips curled into a pensive smile. "Why would I need a rubbish like you to help me with the lawsuit?"

Levi got up to leave after he spoke.

"You can't leave now! Let's discuss the terms as you wish." Arnold blocked Levi from moving forward. "I can promise you anything as long as you delete the video!" Arnold was on the verge of tears.

Azure Dragon lifted Arnold and tossed him on the sofa.

Arnold wailed and shrieked, but he could not do a thing as Levi slowly disappeared from his vision.

Outside the villa, Phoenix met up with Levi. He handed him some documents. "Here's the transaction history and call log between Arnold Botts and Alaric Taylor, Sir!"

"Well done. We've gathered all the evidence we need. Place this on Xavier Fields's working desk, Phoenix. He will go through these documents tomorrow."

Levi puffed on his cigarette and disappeared into the night.

That was destined to be a long and unbearable night for Zoey and Aaron because their fates would be determined at sunrise.

That night was not pleasant for the few waiters who committed perjury too.

At 8 o'clock in the morning, a series of police sirens were heard as police cars surrounded the Grand Imperial Hotel.

A dozen policemen got out of the car and rushed into the hotel. Then, they swiftly brought the waiters away.

Inside her apartment, Suzie was distressed by the unexpected turn of events.

“Don't worry, Suzie. You have the support of Arnold Botts and the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce. Levi Garrison will not escape the terrible fate waiting for him with these impressive forces going against him. Don't concern yourself with the video. You only have to stick firmly with your statement that Levi edited the video,” Her friends comforted her.

Suzie felt a little better after listening to her friends. That's right. Levi is nothing compared to the people supporting me!

However, with that thought in her mind, the sound of sirens reverberated through the entire apartment.

Suzie and her friends ran to the windows to check out the situation. They saw a police car parked below the apartment.

Suzie passed out in fear. But she was taken away by the policemen anyway.

On the other end, Arnold went to Alaric Taylor's Alaric Group early in the morning. He was actually Alaric's godson as well.

Inside the chairman's office, Arnold was begging Alaric to help him.

“You must save me, godfather! Levi Garrison has the evidence that could ruin my life.” Arnold's face was paper-white.

Alaric chided while smoking his cigar, “How can you introduce yourself to others as a lawyer when you are such a coward?”

The Protector Chapter 175

Arnold's body shuddered as he explained, "That's not it, godfather. Levi is a capable man. Not only did he trick me into revealing all the truth, but he also filmed the entire conversation. I just received news of the few waiters and Zoey's secretary's arrests for committing perjury! I will be his next target. You have to save me, please!" Arnold begged Alaric.

Alaric stood before the French windows overlooking the city of North Hampton. He said after taking a puff of his cigar, "Who has the guts to harm my godson? Don't worry about this, Arnold. Nothing will happen to you. The vice-captain of the patrol squad needs to pay his respects to me as well. Do you know how much I have contributed to the city's advancement every year?"

Alaric was unfazed. Not only am I one of the council members of the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce, but I am also the owner of Alaric Group, a business worth up to 8 billion. What do I have to fear?

But the next second, a series of police sirens blared in front of the Alaric Group's building.

The sound filled every corner of the skyscraper.

The color drained from Alaric's face when he saw the police cars parked near the entrance of the building.

Arnold was already shivering in terror. They are here to capture me!

Alaric continued to puff on his cigar. His brows were knitted together tightly, but he reassured his godson, "Don't worry, Arnold. No one will dare lay a finger on you as long as I am here."

A few policemen barged into Alaric's office.

They displayed Arnold's arrest warrant immediately.

Arnold was so frightened, he was soaked in a cold sweat.

Alaric raised his voice, "Try and take him away if you have the courage to do so!"

"He's not the only person we are taking away. You are following us as well." A voice was heard suddenly. Xavier Fields showed himself a split second later. In his hands was another arrest warrant to detain Alaric.

"Captain Fields?" Alaric was surprised to see Xavier Fields.

Xavier Fields knew Alaric was a tricky man to handle, so he had to deal with him in person. "Alaric Taylor and Arnold Botts, we have solid evidence to prove your crimes. Please cooperate with us to undergo the investigation. Otherwise, we will take you by force."

Four policemen stepped forward and arrested them after Xavier waved his hand.

Alaric did not expect himself to be targeted. I am the council member of the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce!

Everyone else shared Alaric's sentiment because no one foresaw the arrest of a council member of the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce.

The evidence against them was indeed irrefutable, but both Alaric and Arnold were astounded to see the transaction histories and call logs. We purposefully encrypted this information! So why is it here?

Arnold knew the precautionary measures he had to take as he was a lawyer. The police and investigators shouldn't have been able to crack the security encryption. But they did not know Phoenix was one of the best hackers in the world. He dealt with the issue effortlessly.

With that, Alaric Taylor and Arnold Botts were captured. Charges were pressed against Charles and his friends who were staying inside the hospital. All of them would either be placed behind bars or deported upon their recovery.

This news spread like wildfire throughout North Hampton. Justice had prevailed. However, Alaric Taylor's arrest shocked the public the most.

The members of the Chamber of Commerce were astounded by that matter. However, they had no other choice but to concede because Xavier Fields was the man to take Alaric into custody.

Inside Zoey's office, two people were wrapped in a tight embrace. "So, you've predicted these to happen. You're so smart to deliberately leave evidence at the scene! No wonder you were so calm the whole time!" Zoey's eyes shone as she spoke to Levi.

Levi smiled. They are too young to be competing with me.

The Protector Chapter 176

Levi Group contacted Zoey's company after the crisis was resolved. They wanted to contribute an additional 200 million investment to expand Zoey's business.

Zoey accepted the offer without a second thought.

In the afternoon, Zoey made another announcement. "Any employee who weathered the crisis with us will receive a higher salary and more benefits from now on!"

She even promoted a few of her employees because the majority of the workers had quit.

The announcement made a huge impact on the business world in North Hampton.

Imperial Meadows was also hiring a large number of new employees as they needed to expand their business.

A massive crowd of applicants gathered in front of the company's entrance.

At the recruitment venue, a middle-aged obese man in a suit tossed his resume on the table. "I was the head of the legal department in Imperial Meadows, Elmer Reid. Register my name immediately because I'm coming back to work now."

But the recruiter sneered. "Elmer Reid, you say? You're on the Imperial Meadows's recruitment blacklist. You will never be employed by this company again for the rest of your life!"

"Who are you? How dare you reject my application? Bring the head of the HR department here right now!" Elmer roared.

He was not pleased to be stopped by a few lowly employees at the entrance of the company.

"He's right! We used to be Imperial Meadows's employees. So why aren't you letting us in?"

"We worked in this company for years. Imperial Meadows cannot operate without us!"

"Not only do we want to rejoin the company, we demand to receive the extra benefits too!"

The crowd yelled and screamed at the recruiters, following Elmer Reid's lead.

They were the employees who resigned amidst Imperial Meadows's crisis. They returned to the company after they heard about Zoey's announcement. But all of them were infuriated after they learned that their names were registered on the blacklist.

Elmer Reid said angrily, "Give us a proper explanation. We can sue you for inflicting psychological trauma on us and demand compensation!"

Zoey appeared at that moment. "I warned you of the consequences of leaving the company previously. All of you are on Imperial Meadows's blacklist now!"

The ex-employees cowered when they saw Zoey.

Elmer said with a smile, “We have reflected on our mistakes now, Ms. Lopez. Please give us another chance.”

“That’s right. We are terribly sorry. Please give us another opportunity!” The others pleaded as well.

“I already gave you a chance,” Zoey responded unmercifully.

The employees who stayed with Imperial Meadows before were grateful for their decisions. We would be facing the same situation as them if we followed them previously.

Zoey was adamant. “Anyone who’s on the blacklist will never be accepted in Imperial Meadows!”

“Fine! Do not blame us in that case, Zoey Lopez! We’ll stay here to protest until you return the jobs to us!” Elmer Reid retorted.

All the other ex-employees did as Elmer said. They blocked the company’s entrance to prevent anyone from entering.

“Let’s see who has got more time to waste now!” Elmer added. “I will also sue you for creating this unreasonable rule and infringing our basic human right to apply for a job. I will demand a large amount of compensation due to this horrible psychological trauma you have inflicted on us!”

Elmer Reid is adept at manipulating the law to his advantage. More importantly, we cannot operate as usual if they continue to protest here. Zoey saw Levi just as she was troubled by the predicament.

A large group of scary men followed behind Levi.

“Who dares to stir up trouble in front of the Imperial Meadows’s building?” Levi shouted.

The Protector Chapter 177

“That’s me. Do you have a problem with that?” Elmer accepted the challenge.

Chopper and his men surged forward with a wave of Levi’s hand.

They quickly surrounded Elmer. Chopper patted Elmer’s cheek tauntingly. “What’s going on? Are you causing a ruckus?” Chopper asked with a grin.

Elmer was scared out of his wits when he saw the menacing appearance of the thugs. The scars and tattoos covering Chopper’s skin did not help ease his anxiety.

Chopper’s subordinates took care of the other employees who followed Elmer’s lead.

But Elmer summoned his courage and confronted Zoey, “How dare you hire these thugs to threaten me.

I will sue you! You're dead!"

Zoey jeered at him, "Oh, I'm sorry. I don't know them."

Chopper agreed with her. "That's right! We don't know one another. I am here to settle this dispute because I do not like the way you are causing trouble here! Do you have a problem with that?"

Everyone supported Chopper, "That's right. We don't like how you're bullying the others. We will interfere in this matter regardless of what you say!"

"You..." I know they are acquainted with each other, but I do not have any proof. "What do you want? I am a lawyer, so I am not afraid of you!" Elmer spoke with an unconvincing tone.

Chopper patted his face again. "We don't want anything. Though I do know your daughter is a student at North Hampton Primary School, and your wife is working at Sunshine Hypermarket..."

"What?" Elmer was taken aback by Chopper's words. He's blatantly threatening me. But I can't say or do anything because of how he phrased his sentence!

"This is my bad! I will not repeat my mistake in the future!" Elmer surrendered.

"Don't you know that you should apologize after you make a mistake?" Chopper sneered.

Elmer stood in front of Zoey and apologized, "We are terribly sorry, Ms. Lopez. We will not cause you any more trouble!"

Everyone admitted their mistakes as well. They regretted their decisions. We could've enjoyed these benefits if we did not submit our resignation letters in the past.

Members of the Lopez family were filled with regrets as well.

"What? Levi Group invested a total of 600 million? Imperial Meadows will be expanding its business?" Harry Lopez was astonished.

Fabian nodded. "Yes. They have sufficient capital to expand their business after setting aside the money needed for the West City Ecological Park project. Imperial Meadows will be on par with Lopez Group soon!"

"What?" Harry Lopez was in utter disbelief. I thought I was so smart to take away that 100 million, but the tables have turned. We've messed up our relationship with Zoey at this point! "Perhaps it is time we try to reconcile with Zoey."

Levi was fully occupied by the matters related to Levi Group in the past few days. He decided to rename the company as Morris Group to pay respect to Morris Atkinson as well as to announce his rivalry with the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce.

Zoey's grandmother's birthday banquet was around the corner.

Aaron and Caitlyn were putting a lot of effort into preparing the birthday presents.

Caitlyn purchased a jade statue for her mother because her mother was a collector of those antiques. Aaron, on the other hand, spent 300 thousand on a famous painting.

Zoey bought a set of expensive supplements for her grandmother.

Aaron was satisfied with the presents they had prepared for Caitlyn's mother. He reminded Levi, "You should come up with something too, Levi. This will be your first time meeting with your grandmother-in-law. Remember to buy an expensive gift. Get the money from Zoey if you have to."

Caitlyn glared at Aaron before turning to look at Levi. "The price is not the priority. It is more important for you to put thought into the gift."

The Protector Chapter 178

"You're right! The Black family is almost as influential as the Garrison family. They might even think of the expensive gifts as cheap objects," Aaron said.

I should prepare a thoughtful present since this woman is Zoey's grandmother. "Father, mother, does grandmother have any special hobbies or quirks?" Levi asked.

"I'm not sure about her hobbies, but she does have a bad habit," Caitlyn answered. "She likes to drink and smoke. My mother never listens to our advice."

Levi smiled. "Then I will prepare alcohol and cigarettes for her."

"What? Don't mess around, Levi! My siblings will scold me if you prepare those items as my mother's birthday present. Moreover, with my mother's status, she's not the type of person to just indulge in any alcohol and cigarettes. So you can erase that thought from your mind," Caitlyn warned him.

"It's better for you to go empty-handed than adding to the trouble," Aaron added.

"Alright then." But I will prepare a present for her. And this will be something grandmother has never seen because no one can buy this with money.

The next day, everyone departed for the Black family house.

Abigail tagged along with Levi and the others.

Although Zoey was rich, the money was placed inside the company's account. Aaron did not have sufficient time to purchase a luxurious car either. Hence, they took the train to their destination. It was, after all, only a 40-minute ride.

Aaron and Caitlyn were reassured after they saw Levi leaving the house without a present. They were afraid of Levi's unpredictability and his tendency to worsen every situation.

Forty minutes later, they arrived at the South City train station.

Aaron and Caitlyn walked in front with excitement, followed by Zoey and Abigail. Levi trailed behind them, carrying all their belongings.

South City was hosting a National Economy Forum at that time, so the city council had enhanced the security in every train station and airport.

A security check was placed at every train station exit.

Beep beep beep...

The security alarm was triggered when Levi passed through the gates.

Chaos broke out at the exit immediately. Everyone scrambled to hide in the corners. The security guards were invigorated as the piercing sound of the alarm had startled them.

The security teams assigned nearby the train station hurried over upon sensing the commotion.

Levi stood at the exit, not knowing what he should do as the alarm would not stop beeping.

Everyone stared at Levi apprehensively. Aaron and his family were dumbfounded as well.

“Don’t move! Raise your hands!” The guards loaded their guns and aimed the weapons at Levi.

Levi was not carrying anything because all their belongings had to pass through the security check. As a result, everyone was under the impression that Levi had hidden a dangerous object on his body.

The security team was especially tense due to the ongoing event in the city.

“Please evacuate immediately!” Everyone left the scene under the security team’s arrangements, including Zoey and her family.

Levi was left alone at the security gate after a short while.

“What are you hiding? Reveal the objects immediately!” The security guard shouted nervously.

Levi smiled. “I’m not carrying anything else on me.”

“That’s not possible! Why else was the alarm triggered? We can show you leniency if you hand over the object on your own accord right now!” The guard persuaded Levi.

“There’s nothing to hand over, honestly,” Levi answered carefreely.

He walked through the security gate calmly while reaching into his pockets slowly.

“Do not move! Stand up straight and raise your hands!”

“We will shoot you if you do not comply!”

Everyone yelled frantically as they did not know what Levi was planning to do.

But Levi did not heed their warning. He continued to do as he pleased.

The Protector Chapter 179

The security guards were drenched in sweat under the stressful environment. Everyone could feel their hearts pounding heavily against their chest as that was the most challenging situation they had ever faced.

They stared at Levi unblinkingly while tightening the grip on their guns with trembling hands.

They had orders to shoot Levi on the spot if he took out anything deemed to be dangerous from his pockets.

Swish-

Levi removed the item from his pocket at that crucial moment.

Phew!

Everyone breathed a sigh of relief when they saw the object. It's just a cigarette.

Levi placed the cigarette between his lips and said with a smile. "What's with the tensed atmosphere? I am not carrying anything dangerous on me. Can I borrow a lighter, bro?"

The leader of the security team, Perry Chapman, strode up to Levi and lit his cigarette. At the same time, he searched Levi's body and discovered nothing.

Perry waved his hand. Two other female guards shuffled forward and searched Levi's body again. The result was the same.

Then, one of the female guards scanned Levi's body with a handheld metal detector.

Beep beep beep...

The alarm on the metal detector rang again.

Perry immediately pointed his gun at Levi. The other guards behaved similarly. The atmosphere turned as heavy as before.

The female guard continued to scan Levi's body. The metal detector was triggered when it hovered over his abdomen, chest, back, waist, knees, and other parts of his body.

She ordered Levi with a frown. "Please remove your coat, sir!"

Levi complied because that was the standard procedure.

Nothing was wrong with Levi's coat after the female guard scanned his outerwear.

But the metal detector beeped again when she scanned Levi's body.

"Please remove your shirt, sir!"

The same thing happened.

"Remove your singlet now!"

Everyone was flabbergasted after Levi took off his singlet.

They were horrified by the numerous scars covering his body. The scars were left behind after sustaining cuts, bullet wounds, burns, and all other kinds of injuries.

What kind of person could he be to receive all these scars? There are more of these scars than we can see, judging from how the wounds overlap with one another. Is he a soldier? The thought flashed across Perry's mind.

"Bring this mister to undergo a full-body imaging," Perry commanded.

The security guard subjected Levi to a scan using the equipment available inside the imaging room.

Levi's X-ray was displayed on the screen shortly after.

Everyone nearly passed out after examining the X-ray. There were 13 bullets embedded in his body. Three of the bullets were inches away from his brain, heart, and lungs. The bullet wound would've been fatal if the bullet's trajectory swayed a little.

The rest of the bullets were lodged elsewhere in his body. Luckily, the bullets did not hit his vital organs, so Levi was not affected by the metal pieces inside his body.

At that moment, Perry and the other guards were suddenly regarding Levi with the utmost respect. This man is a soldier who fought for our country. He sacrificed himself to protect our nation! He's not flinching a little, even with all these scars and bullets embedded in his body. Men like him are the reason we can carry on with our lives in peace!

"Sir, these are the identifications we took from him!"

The security guard handed Perry Levi's identification card and military card.

Perry's legs wobbled, and he nearly slumped onto the floor after glancing at his military card.

"God... God of War? He's the God of War?" Perry had never been so afraid in his life. We've heard of the God of War's recent arrival at North Hampton.

The Protector Chapter 180

I did not expect God of War to be here in South City.

At that moment, countless tanks arrived at the South City train station.

Heavily armed soldiers sealed off the entire area with swift motions.

The two soldiers leading the troop were evidently high-ranking officers in the army.

Perry shivered fearfully at the sight of the two people who rushed into the office. He had predicted this to happen.

“Are you Mr. Chapman? Let me introduce myself. I am Mortimer Lambert from the South Warzone.”

Perry was familiar with Mortimer Lambert’s existence. He’s one of the captains in the South Warzone.

Perry shook hands with Mortimer immediately. “It’s a pleasure to meet you, Captain Lambert!”

“This is one of the captains serving under the God of War himself, Captain Alfie Steele. His troop recently returned from the battlefield,” Mortimer introduced the other soldier next to him.

Perry saluted at once. “Captain Steele, thank you for your services!”

Perry was aware that Alfie Steele and his men were actively protecting Erudia on the battlefield.

Alfie returned the salute. “Thank you for your hard work too, Mr. Chapman.” Then Alfie added, “I heard you took the God of War into custody?”

Boom!

Perry was stunned by that question. I’m doomed. More importantly, I cannot explain myself under this circumstance. The God of War is a high and mighty person, yet I subjected him to a security check and even searched his body! I must have offended him!

“That’s alright. All of you did the right thing.” Levi walked out of the imaging room after putting on his clothes.

“Sir!” Alfie, Mortimer, and their subordinates saluted Levi immediately.

Perry and his security team members said helplessly, “We are terribly sorry to have wronged you, Sir. Please punish us!”

“Punish? Nonsense! You did the right thing! We should stay vigilant and tighten the security at a crucial time like this. It is a must for everyone to undergo the security check, regardless of their status,” Levi responded.

Tears brimmed in Perry's eyes. The God of War is such a gracious person. It must be an honor to serve him. I can clearly distinguish the unique pride in Captain Alfie and his men. Other soldiers do not give off an aura like this.

"What are you doing here with all your men, Alfie? Did you come here to wage war?" Levi looked at Alfie sternly.

Alfie answered swiftly, "I did not plan to come here initially, Sir! But I hurried over when I heard you were detained."

Levi chuckled humorlessly after he kept his identifications. "Do you think something bad will happen to me? This is just a normal security check! Ask all your men to retreat right now."

"Yes, Sir!" Alfie quickly relayed the commands.

"Don't worry. I will visit the battlefield once I have the time." Levi dragged Alfie aside and provided the latter with a few instructions.

"Please rest assured, Sir. We have plenty of those things. I'll send the items over on time tomorrow," Alfie smiled.

Levi patted Perry's shoulder before he took his leave. "Keep up the good work! The internal security of this nation is resting on your shoulders."

"I will fulfill my responsibilities and duties, Chief!" Perry saluted with a burning passion.

"Oh, by the way, you guys should retreat after I leave this place."

Levi left first to prevent attracting any attention to himself.

Zoey and the others heaved a sigh of relief when they saw Levi exiting the train station unscathed.

Abigail blurted uncontrollably when she saw Levi. "Did they discover your identity, Levi?"

"Identity?" Zoey and her parents gazed at Abigail simultaneously.

The Protector Chapter 181

Abigail realized that she had let the cat out of the bag.

“Does Levi have any other identities?”

Zoey looked at Abigail dubiously, wondering if they were hiding anything from her.

Levi laughed it off as he joked, “Abigail was just worried that they’d found out that I was an ex-convict.”

“Yeah, I thought that was the reason the alarm went off,” Abigail reacted swiftly to Levi’s cover-up, which managed to temporarily ease Zoey’s suspicion.

“What happened just now? Were you carrying anything that caused the alarm to sound non-stop?” Aaron asked.

“Oh, it’s just my lighter that is made of brass, that’s why it got picked up by the metal detectors!” Levi replied, as he took out his lighter and showed it to Aaron.

“Oh, let’s go then, Bailey had sent someone to pick us up. The car had been waiting outside for a while!”

Caitlyn was also raring to go.

The group was driven to the Hilton Hotel.

Due to the large number of guests invited to the birthday banquet, the guests were temporarily arranged to stay at the hotel.

“It seems like dad and mom had not yet completely gotten over what happened last time! Otherwise, we would be staying at the Black family mansion instead of the hotel, together with the rest of the guests!”

Caitlyn’s disappointment was apparent as she said that.

“Don’t worry, honey, we’re going to impress your family members later. I guarantee that their opinions of us will change for the better after that!”

Aaron was brimming with optimism as he comforted his wife.

It was important to the couple to be recognized by the Black family.

After everyone settled down in their hotel rooms, Abigail went to look for Levi and Zoey. “My cousins from the Black family are having a gathering tonight, do you guys want to tag along?” She asked.

“Sure, we’ll go!” Levi and Zoey accepted the invite readily.

Abigail drove them to the venue in her pink Maserati.

The gathering was held at the Scarlet Aegis Hotel.

A meal there costs at least ten thousand.

Different models of luxury cars could be seen parked in the hotel's parking lot.

Abigail led Levi and Zoey to the private room, where dozens of people had already gathered and were engaged in animated discussions with each other.

“Hey, Abigail is here! Let's welcome her!”

As Abigail was also a part of the Rogers family, she was very well-liked and popular among her cousins in the Black family.

For everyone else in the room, it was their first time meeting Levi and Zoey.

When they saw Zoey, most of them were stunned by her beauty and were eager to know her.

“Abigail, why are you not introducing your friends to us?” One of Abigail's cousins urged.

“This is Aunt Caitlyn's daughter, Zoey. She's our cousin too! This is Levi, Zoey's husband,” Abigail said.

“Oh! So it's our cousin Zoey!”

Abigail's brothers were the first to greet Zoey.

As for Levi, he was being treated as though he was invisible.

There were also a few attendees at the gathering who did not belong to the Black family, which meant that they were not blood-related to Zoey.

The men who belonged to that category couldn't keep their eyes off Zoey. After all, it was not everyday that one would come across such an exquisite beauty.

After some mingling with the others, Levi found out that tonight's gathering was organized by Zoey's cousins, Keane and Quintus.

As the both of them were direct male descendants of the Black family, they were both held in high regard by the rest.

Naturally, they were also the main focus of every discussion topic which went on that night.

Keane laughed as he said, “Zoey, I heard that your husband, Levi, was previously a dark horse of North Hampton's business arena. Even the business moguls and owners of leading enterprises in South City knew his name. What's he up to these days?”

Quintus chuckled and said, “Yeah, I remember that too. But we haven’t heard any news about him in a long while.”

The two men were not trying to take a dig at Zoey, but were genuinely curious.

The Black family was among the wealthiest in the city. Naturally, Zoey and her family would not be important enough for them to pay any attention to.

They did try to find out more about Levi, during the days when he used to be a rising star in the business arena.

However, no one had news about Levi after he went to jail.

The Protector Chapter 181

22/04/2021 by Chapter Novel

Abigail realized that she had let the cat out of the bag.

“Does Levi have any other identities?”

Zoey looked at Abigail dubiously, wondering if they were hiding anything from her.

Levi laughed it off as he joked, “Abigail was just worried that they’d found out that I was an ex-convict.”

“Yeah, I thought that was the reason the alarm went off,” Abigail reacted swiftly to Levi’s cover-up, which managed to temporarily ease Zoey’s suspicion.

“What happened just now? Were you carrying anything that caused the alarm to sound non-stop?” Aaron asked.

“Oh, it’s just my lighter that is made of brass, that’s why it got picked up by the metal detectors!” Levi replied, as he took out his lighter and showed it to Aaron.

“Oh, let’s go then, Bailey had sent someone to pick us up. The car had been waiting outside for a while!”

Caitlyn was also raring to go.

The group was driven to the Hilton Hotel.

Due to the large number of guests invited to the birthday banquet, the guests were temporarily arranged to stay at the hotel.

“It seems like dad and mom had not yet completely gotten over what happened last time! Otherwise, we would be staying at the Black family mansion instead of the hotel, together with the rest of the guests!”

Caitlyn's disappointment was apparent as she said that.

"Don't worry, honey, we're going to impress your family members later. I guarantee that their opinions of us will change for the better after that!"

Aaron was brimming with optimism as he comforted his wife.

It was important to the couple to be recognized by the Black family.

After everyone settled down in their hotel rooms, Abigail went to look for Levi and Zoey. "My cousins from the Black family are having a gathering tonight, do you guys want to tag along?" She asked.

"Sure, we'll go!" Levi and Zoey accepted the invite readily.

Abigail drove them to the venue in her pink Maserati.

The gathering was held at the Scarlet Aegis Hotel.

A meal there costs at least ten thousand.

Different models of luxury cars could be seen parked in the hotel's parking lot.

Abigail led Levi and Zoey to the private room, where dozens of people had already gathered and were engaged in animated discussions with each other.

"Hey, Abigail is here! Let's welcome her!"

As Abigail was also a part of the Rogers family, she was very well-liked and popular among her cousins in the Black family.

For everyone else in the room, it was their first time meeting Levi and Zoey.

When they saw Zoey, most of them were stunned by her beauty and were eager to know her.

"Abigail, why are you not introducing your friends to us?" One of Abigail's cousins urged.

"This is Aunt Caitlyn's daughter, Zoey. She's our cousin too! This is Levi, Zoey's husband," Abigail said.

"Oh! So it's our cousin Zoey!"

Abigail's brothers were the first to greet Zoey.

As for Levi, he was being treated as though he was invisible.

There were also a few attendees at the gathering who did not belong to the Black family, which meant that they were not blood-related to Zoey.

The men who belonged to that category couldn't keep their eyes off Zoey. After all, it was not everyday that one would come across such an exquisite beauty.

After some mingling with the others, Levi found out that tonight's gathering was organized by Zoey's cousins, Keane and Quintus.

As the both of them were direct male descendants of the Black family, they were both held in high regard by the rest.

Naturally, they were also the main focus of every discussion topic which went on that night.

Keane laughed as he said, "Zoey, I heard that your husband, Levi, was previously a dark horse of North Hampton's business arena. Even the business moguls and owners of leading enterprises in South City knew his name. What's he up to these days?"

Quintus chuckled and said, "Yeah, I remember that too. But we haven't heard any news about him in a long while."

The two men were not trying to take a dig at Zoey, but were genuinely curious.

The Black family was among the wealthiest in the city. Naturally, Zoey and her family would not be important enough for them to pay any attention to.

They did try to find out more about Levi, during the days when he used to be a rising star in the business arena.

However, no one had news about Levi after he went to jail.

The Protector Chapter 182

People stopped being curious about him after that. After all, no one would waste time inquiring about a nobody.

Hayden Zeller, a distant relative of the Black family who was from North Hampton, joined in on the conversation and said, "Oh I know what happened! Levi was sentenced to jail after he was convicted of taking advantage of his sister-in-law! If I'm not mistaken, he was only released a few days ago?"

"That's right! It was one of the biggest news in North Hampton when it happened!" Some others, who were listening to the conversation, concurred.

Keane's expression changed when he heard that, but still remained friendly as he asked, "So, Levi, you're currently unemployed?"

Levi nodded and replied, "Kind of!"

After getting the man's answer, Keane and Quintus had totally lost interest in continuing the conversation.

Even Zoey, who had just secured an investment of a few hundred million, suddenly seemed boring to them.

The men changed topics and carried on with their own conversations. Zoey hardly had anything to contribute to their subsequent discussions.

“Oh, by the way, is Russell back yet?” Keane asked all of a sudden.

Russell was his dad’s godson. The man had been outstanding since young, and he’s currently the leader of a subdivision of the Special Security Unit.

Word has it that he was going to be promoted to the Chief of the Special Security Unit next year.

“Speaking of Russell, he’s truly the pride and joy of our grandma!”

Quintus laughed.

That was indeed the case.

Even though Russell was not related to the Black family by blood, he was the elderly Mrs. Black’s favorite.

He had always been conscientiousness and performed well in every endeavor he partook in.

Russell would only be twenty eight next year, so it was an impressive feat that he was already the Deputy Chief of the Special Security Unit.

The Black family had an abundance of wealth, but what the family lacked however, was a talent like Russell.

He was the perfect missing piece to the puzzle for the Black family.

Shortly after his name was mentioned, Russell Black arrived at the gathering, still dressed in his uniform.

“Hi everyone, so sorry that I’m late. I have been really busy with the preparations for the upcoming economic summit these few days! I even had to specially apply for leave to attend grandma’s birthday banquet tomorrow!” Russell explained, and let out an embarrassed laughter.

“Russell is such a busy man, but he knows he’s the apple of grandma’s eye, so he has to be here by hook or by crook!” Someone teased, and everyone else laughed along.

However, Keane switched the topic abruptly, asking, “I heard that there was an incident at the train station today, that even your Chief had to handle the matter personally?”

Russell nodded and replied, “Yeah! You heard about it too? That’s actually the reason I was late for tonight’s gathering!”

“Russell, tell us what happened! I’m sure everyone wants to know about it,” Quintus said.

Russell scanned the curious faces in the room and chuckled, before elaborating, “There was a super big shot who visited the train station today! He came to examine our security measures without informing anyone beforehand. Thank goodness we discovered that it was him!”

Russell let out a gasp, as he recalled the dramatic events of the day.

“So how did you guys find out that it was him?” Everyone was eager to know what happened next.

“When he went through the metal detectors while exiting the train station, the alarm sounded! We stopped him from leaving and did a body check on him. Guess what we found?”

Everyone held their breaths as they waited for Russell to continue.

“We found out that there were 13 bullets and 7 grenade shrapnel lodged inside his body! One of the bullets was even in his skull and another one in his heart! It’s the metal from the bullets and shrapnel that caused the alarm to sound!”

Even Russell himself found it inconceivable.

“What??? 13 bullets and 7 grenade shrapnel???”

Everyone was shocked by what Russell told them and sharp inhales could be heard all round.

“What’s even scarier was that his entire body was covered with scars. From my estimation, there were definitely no less than a thousand of them!”

Everyone went pale with disbelief at Russell’s description of the man. It was unimaginable as to what kind of horrors he must have gone through.

“What was the time when he was there?” Zoey suddenly asked.

“It was around 2.10 in the afternoon!” Russell replied.

Zoey turned to look at her husband. She had registered that it was the same time Levi was held up at the security check earlier today.

Besides, Levi had nothing on him which could have caused the alarm to sound.

The Protector Chapter 183

After Russell's description of the event, Zoey suddenly realized that it could have been the metal pieces lodged inside of Levi's body which caused the metal detectors to go off, instead of the lighter, which was what he had told them earlier on!

She wished that she could see through Levi's clothes, and verify what Russell said with her own eyes that very instant.

Quintus, who was intrigued, asked, "How's that even possible? Russell, who is this guy?"

"We don't exactly know who he is, as his files had been classified as 5s level, which means no one in the entire of South City would have access to it! But I heard from our Chief that he used to be an officer from the Iron Brigade!" Russell replied excitedly.

"Iron Brigade? Isn't that the team that's personally led by the God of War?"

"Exactly! That's the strongest military unit in Erudia! Every soldier who's part of that team is a man of indomitable spirit!"

...

The men at the gathering were all stirred at the mention of the 'God of War' and the 'Iron Brigade'.

Every man, regardless of age, would have dreamed of becoming a soldier at some point in time of their lives.

Being in the Iron Brigade was the greatest recognition and highest honor for every soldier.

"Yeah, when I was at the military academy, my goal was also to join the Iron Brigade and fight alongside the God of War!"

Russell was no exception.

Abigail was feeling proud when she saw the longing expressions of those men in the room.

At that moment, she really wanted to stand up and tell everyone that the God of War, who was revered by all, was none other than her cousin-in-law, Levi!

"If those warriors from the Iron Brigade could be present at grandma's birthday banquet, I bet grandpa and grandma would both be delighted!" Keane said.

"Yeah, grandpa and grandma were once guards as well! They'll definitely be over the moon to meet someone from the Iron Brigade!"

"Exactly! Grandpa and grandma love the special alcohol and cigarettes provided by the war zones, but nowadays they hardly have the chance to enjoy them anymore."

...

Everyone was contributing to the lively discussion going on in the room.

Quintus looked at Russell and said, “Russell, do you think you can pull some strings and invite just one of the officers from the Iron Brigade to join us at grandma’s birthday banquet tomorrow?”

“Yeah, if you can do that, it’ll definitely be the best birthday present for grandma!” Keane added.

Russell hesitated for a second before nodding his head and said, “OK, I’ll try. Hopefully, we can give grandma a surprise tomorrow!”

Even though he agreed to ask around, Russell was not confident at all that he’ll succeed in his task.

The main reason for that was because his Chief, Perry, had told him earlier on that the man who appeared at the train station in the afternoon was someone out of his reach, not to mention Russell, who was only a leader of a subdivision of the Security Unit.

No one at the gathering bothered to talk to Zoey or Levi for the rest of the night, it was just as if the both of them were invisible.

To a big family like the Blacks, they were merely nobodies.

After the dinner gathering ended, Russell specially paid Perry a visit to tell him his thoughts.

Perry was scared out of his wits when he heard the idea. He pointed at Russell and said, “Y-y-you... you have the audacity to invite that man???”

Russell was trembling with anxiety at his Chief’s reaction and replied, “Chief, is that guy someone very important?”

As the information was classified, Perry was unable to divulge any details to Russell.

“That’s right, anyway, you should really stop thinking about it. I’m not even qualified enough to invite Captain Steele from the North Hampton Dragon legion, let alone that man from this afternoon. Just drop the idea completely!”

Perry rejected Russell’s request without giving it any consideration.

“Alright then. But Chief, you have to be there with the Deputy Chief tomorrow, deal?” Russell said.

“Don’t worry, I wouldn’t miss old Mrs. Black’s birthday banquet for the world!”

Everyone was disappointed when Russell conveyed the negative outcome to them, but they did not blame him.

After all, the Iron Brigade had a special status in the military. No one expected that it would be easy to invite them.

Meanwhile, Zoey started having major suspicions about Levi after the gathering.

The Protector Chapter 184

Even though they had been sleeping on the same bed, they had not been intimate, so it was only natural that Zoey had not seen Levi's naked body.

As such, she had planned to examine Levi's body tonight, in order to verify if he actually had those scars on his body.

However, Abigail had requested to share her bed, so in the end, Zoey was unable to carry out her plan.

The next day arrived and it was the day of old Mrs. Black's birthday.

Levi and the rest were being woken up early in the morning, and were all gathered at the hotel lobby.

Shortly after, transportation arranged by the Black family arrived to pick them up to the Black family manor.

Aaron clutched the birthday gift for his mother-in-law in his arms. He was looking forward to impressing his wife's family at the banquet later on.

Caitlyn had also checked with Levi if he had prepared any gift, and only felt at ease after confirming that he had not done so.

The scale of the Black family was comparable to the Garrison family, which was recently listed.

The family manor was extremely posh and grand.

The various luxury cars that were parked at the front porch were sufficient to form an auto show.

The three brothers from the Black family stood at the entrance to receive their guests personally.

The head of the Black family household, Robert Black, and his wife Meredith, were in the main hall of the manor. They were both dressed in red, all ready for the auspicious occasion.

After they were discharged from the military, the both of them started from scratch and managed to build a successful business empire over the years. Because of their hard work and efforts, the Black family had become one of the wealthiest family in the city.

In addition to that, the family was also flourishing. The couple had expanded their family and was joined by their many children and grandchildren.

The two esteemed elderly of the Black family were very contented with their current state of life.

"Dad, mom, look who's here!"

Bailey led Aaron's family to Robert and Meredith.

"Dad, mom!"

Caitlyn was overwhelmed with emotions and shed tears of joy when she met her parents.

Aaron was also feeling emotional and was ready to greet the two elders.

But Robert merely gave a slight nod, while Meredith let out a cold snort and only took a glance at them, before looking away.

Caitlyn and Aaron were both stunned to be given the cold shoulder.

Caitlyn immediately realized that, even though her mom had invited them to her birthday celebration, it would still take some time for her to fully accept them.

However, Caitlyn was already feeling grateful to be able to see her parents again.

The atmosphere in the room turned awkward for a moment.

To ease the tension, Pamela said, "Oh, mom and dad, weren't you two looking forward to meeting Zoey?"

While saying that, she shoved Zoey in front of the two elders.

"Hi grandpa, hi grandma!" Zoey greeted her grandparents politely.

As it was her first time meeting her grandparents, Zoey was a little nervous.

After sizing Zoey up carefully, Robert and Meredith said in satisfaction, "She seems like a good kid, We like her!"

"Oh, I heard that Zoey is really capable. She even managed to secure a few hundred millions of investment for her company!"

The two elders of the family thought rather highly of Zoey, especially Meredith.

That was because the old lady was a successful woman herself, and had never shown preference for boys over girls.

Instead, among her children and grandchildren, she actually valued the females of the family more.

Back in the days, she had also placed high hopes on Caitlyn, but her daughter ended up eloping with Aaron, which broke Meredith's heart.

That was the reason why the mother and daughter had not seen each other for over twenty years.

Bailey shot a glance at Levi and said, "Why are you still standing there? Aren't you going to introduce yourself?”

With a grin on his face, Levi walked towards the elderly couple and said, “Hi grandpa and grandma, it’s a pleasure meeting the both of you. I’m Zoey’s husband, Levi!”

Robert observed Levi for a few seconds, and felt that there was a mysterious aura surrounding him.

But he wasn’t able to pinpoint exactly why.

Either Levi is trying to conceal something, or he is just someone who usually goofed around, was what Robert thought.

“I heard that you were once the rising star in the business circle of North Hampton, but was sent to jail for six years! You just finished serving time recently, right?” Meredith spoke.

Even though Meredith appeared to be unconcerned, she was, in fact, very in touch with what was going on in Aaron’s family.

“That’s right, grandma, I just got released from prison.” Levi answered truthfully.

“So, what are your plans going forward?” Meredith asked.

“Since Zoey is doing so well, my plan is just to assist her whenever she needs me! I’m a lucky man to have a wife I can depend on!”

Everyone froze upon hearing Levi’s words.

The Protector Chapter 185

Looks of shock appeared on everyone's faces.

Especially Caitlyn who was seized by terror.

Everyone was well aware of Meredith's stern and stiff personality. She couldn't tolerate people who behaved in a boisterous manner like Levi.

Someone with a military police background like Russell would be well-liked by her.

Besides, how could a mere foundling gain a foothold in a wealthy family?

Meredith gave Levi a deep look before she left, obviously disappointed in him.

Robert let out a deep sigh before following suit, lamenting about how Zoey, given her status would marry such a husband.

"What the hell are you doing? You're challenging the authority of the old lady. She hates people who fool around like you the most!"

Bailey and Pamela glared daggers at Levi.

"You've ruined us! The old lady has finally accepted us because of Zoey, but you just had to provoke her again, didn't you?!"

Caitlyn almost cried from exasperation.

Would the old lady have accepted us immediately today if our son-in-law weren't Levi, but someone else?

Aaron hugged Caitlyn. "Honey, don't cry. We'll regain our dignity and make the old lady acknowledge us when the birthday banquet officially starts later."

"I supposed that's all we can do."

Caitlyn was physically and mentally frustrated.

Shortly after, most of the guests had arrived, apart from the big shots.

Robert and Meredith personally greeted them at the door, with Levi and the others following behind them.

Soon, several cars marked with the SWAT logo appeared.

Russell was the first to come down. He ran to the back, opened the car door, and greeted the leaders one by one.

“Grandpa, Grandma, let me introduce you. This is Shane Young, the captain of the Special Security Unit; Hugo Gibson, the vice-captain; Frankie Wimmer, the political commissar; Quincy King, the vice-captain of the City Patrol Unit...”

Russell introduced them to about seven to eight leaders in one breath.

There were about a dozen more leaders behind who were at the same level as Russell, all of whom held official positions such as team leaders.

Perry led everyone forward, extending their blessings, “Mrs. Black, may you be blessed with longevity and great prosperity...”

“Welcome, Captain Chapman. Welcome...” Robert and Meredith grinned from ear to ear, seeing the support of so many leaders.

Keane and Quintus chuckled. “You really outdid yourself there, Russell!”

“Mr. and Mrs. Black, I would like to commend Russell,” Perry said. “He has so much potential! I’ll make him vice-captain next year! The Black family will have something to be proud of again.”

Hearing those compliments coming straight from Perry’s mouth, Meredith and Robert were all the more exhilarated as they looked at Russell with satisfaction.

The Protector Chapter 186

Levi had heard of Jennie and Logan just now.

Jennie was the daughter of Xaiden, the eldest son of the Black family, and she was currently the deputy governor of New Alliance Bank in South City.

Her husband, Logan Zachs, was all the more powerful. His grandfather, who had now retired, once served on the front lines of South City.

His father was the deputy director of the Ministry of Economy and also served as a leader in the Ministry of Commerce.

Jennie and Abigail were both Meredith’s favorite granddaughters.

As expected, Jennie and Logan arrived shortly after, together with Logan’s grandfather, Graham, and his father, Felix.

Graham was also a big shot who was formerly the deputy leader at the South War Zone. He had many disciples but had since retired.

Felix was in the prime of his life, holding an important position.

Their attendance had greatly elevated the Black family's social status.

“Happy birthday!”

Graham and Felix extended their wishes one after another.

Meredith grasped Jennie and Logan's hands, smiling brightly with narrowed eyes.

Envy!

They were filled with envy!

Both Aaron and Caitlyn had been dreaming about the day their son-in-law could set the Thames on fire just so they could keep their head up.

But unfortunately, their son-in-law can never compare to that of others!

Just their luck to have met such a son-in-law like Levi.

“Haha, the younger generation of the Black family is full of talents! Let alone our grandchildren, how many people in South City have as many talents and skills as our grandson-in-law?” Meredith said proudly in front of hundreds of guests.

“That's right,” Russell and the others chimed in. “How many are there who are as gifted as Logan in South City?”

Logan adjusted his tie, smiling, “I don't deserve your praise, Grandpa, Grandma. The sons-in-law of the Black family are all outstanding! I heard that there's a son-in-law from North Hampton. Isn't he very powerful? He'd built a multi-billion conglomerate from scratch! Is he here?” Logan asked, looking around.

Knowing that Logan was referring to Levi, Aaron and Caitlyn suddenly felt ashamed. They lowered their heads and pulled Levi aside, wanting to hide.

“Aunt Caitlyn, Uncle Aaron, why are you guys hiding? North Hampton's son-in-law, Levi Garrison, is over here!”

Someone mercilessly pointed out Levi's position.

Everyone around retreated, revealing a large open space showing only Levi and his family.

At once, all eyes zeroed in on them.

“So you are Levi Garrison?” Logan smiled. “I heard that your net worth was over a billion. How about now? I bet it's now worth more than the entire Black family.”

“Yeah, with your potential, hitting ten billion is pretty attainable!” said Jennie.

Being watched by hundreds of noble relatives, Aaron and Caitlyn broke out in a cold sweat.

They were too anxious.

This moment was too humiliating.

It was evident to Zoey that they were deliberately putting Levi in a tough spot.

Just as she was about to speak up for him, Levi blurted, “To answer Jennie and Logan’s questions, yes, it has definitely surpassed that of the Black family since long ago!”

Money was just a number to him.

If he could look down upon the Rogers family who worth tens of billions, what more the puny Black family?

Everyone gasped at Levi’s reply.

Levi’s bravado is really something!

What a load of crap!

“Haha, isn’t that a given, Captain Chapman! Russell has always been the pride of the Black family,” said Meredith unabashedly.

This made everyone envious, especially Caitlyn and Aaron.

How nice would it be if Mrs. Black could be proud of them someday?

Too bad they couldn’t do it by themselves and could only rely on their daughter and their son-in-law.

But could a useless son-in-law like Levi ever make them proud?

Never!

“Grandpa, Grandma, I was going to invite the big shots from the Warzone, but there’s only so much I can do,” Russell said humbly.

“This is more than enough, Russell,” Meredith smiled approvingly. “It’s enough that Captain Chapman and the others could make it!”

“Indeed! With you, Russell, plus Jennie and Logan, it’s the right degree of pomp!” Keane and Quintus both laughed.

“How intimidating! Can you give us an exact number regarding your net worth?”

“Yeah, tell us! Grandpa and Grandma will certainly be proud of you!”

Logan and Jennie laughed out instead of getting angry.

“Levi, don’t!”

Zoey and her parents were so anxious that they almost covered Levi’s mouth.

But Levi slowly raised a finger. “At least this much!”

“At least ten billion?” Logan asked.

“No.” Levi shook his head.

“Could it be a hundred billion?”

Logan winced when he said that number.

Levi chuckled. “You’re wrong. It’s at least one trillion!”

“Pfft!”

“Hahaha...”

Everyone laughed themselves silly at Levi’s words.

The reason everyone was quiet from was before was to see how far Levi could go with his big talk...

But who knew it was out of this world!

At least one trillion?!

What on earth is this?

It’s the equivalent of a hundred times the Black family...

Logan, his grandfather and father all laughed.

They had never seen such a man with such bravado before.

Forget about personal ownership. Even the Ministry of Economy doesn’t have that much money!

The others laughed wildly.

Even Russell, a man of speech and manner, roared with laughter.

As for Meredith and Robert, their faces were turning as black as charcoal.

It was an insult to them!

Levi was blatantly challenging their authority!

“You’re both sons-in-law. How can there be such a huge difference?” Meredith flared with anger.

“Discipline your son-in-law,” she said directly to Aaron and Caitlyn. “He should know what he should say and what he shouldn’t say on such an occasion!”

Aaron and Caitlyn trembled in fright and dared not raise their heads.

Caitlyn was even shedding tears.

She had never felt so upset before.

Even after what had happened at the Lopez family, she had never been so upset.

Caitlyn had been longing to her family for thirty years and now there was finally a chance.

But she was utterly humiliated in front of her relatives when she finally met them for the first time!

She wanted to end her life there and then!

It’s Levi’s fault!

It’s all Levi’s fault!

Aaron’s fist clenched.

He swore he would punch Levi in the face once the birthday banquet was over.

This is too fking embarrassing!

Zoey, too, was disappointed through and through with Levi.

Levi has gotten used to talking big. It’s become a habit.

He wasn’t thinking clearly when he said he had ten billion to the Lopez family.

But now, to the Black family—a trillion?

Does he not understand the concept of money?

How could he say such big words?

Zoey regretted it.

She should have listened to her parents and left Levi at home.

Sure enough, her parents were put to shame as soon as they arrived.

Unfortunately, there was no crying over spilled milk!

“They’re both sons-in-law, but they’re like night and day! One’s a great catch, and the other is trash!”

“I heard that Levi Garrison has a bad reputation. He harbored evil thoughts towards his sister-in-law and almost killed his adoptive parents!”

“Their entire family is trash. Otherwise, Mrs. Black wouldn’t have only met this daughter of hers after thirty years!”

...

Hearing all kinds of comment from the people around, tears flowed down Caitlyn’s face like a river.

How embarrassing!

This was definitely the most humiliating moment in her entire life!

Aaron felt the same too.

He thought that he could steal the limelight at the Black family, but he was utterly disgraced.

“Quickly get inside! What on earth are you doing here?”

The Protector Chapter 188

“Don’t you think you have done enough to embarrass the entire family in front of so many people?!” Bailey chided in disappointment.

Aaron and Caitlyn had no choice but to return to the villa.

“Don’t follow me!” Caitlyn shouted at Levi.

After arriving at the manor’s main hall, everyone was seated according to arrangements.

Aaron and his family were seated at the corner, far away from Meredith.

Only those who Meredith regarded as important could sit at the front.

“Honey, the gift presentation is up next. I’m sure Meredith will be happy to accept our gifts,” Aaron said.

Caitlyn wiped away her tears and waited silently.

When the guests had filled up the room, the host announced the start of the banquet and the ceremonies proceeded one after another.

“Now is the time for gift presentation!”

Everyone started presenting their gifts as soon as the host finished.

There were gifts of a wide variety, but they were all valuable.

Hearing what the others had brought, Aaron and Caitlyn were filled with aplomb.

Because none of those gifts that were presented could be compared to what their family had prepared.

Those gifts were far inferior to theirs!

In the face of all sorts of gifts, Meredith simply nodded indifferently.

“Come on. Let’s go! She will definitely be happy!”

Aaron and Caitlyn quickly pulled Zoey to the front, waiting to present their gifts.

“I see you’re well-prepared, Caitlyn,” said Xena, Caitlyn’s cousin who was queuing at the front with her husband, Samson Fleming.

“Haha, and so were you!”

Aaron and Caitlyn smiled, thinking about how happy Meredith would be upon receiving their gifts in just a bit.

“Up next, it’s the birthday gift of Xena and Samson—an authentic calligraphy painting of an ancient notable artist worth seven hundred thousand—a five-hundred-year-old wild ginseng, and last but not least, a Jade Buddha Xena had sought from the holy mountain to bless Mrs. Black with good health!” the host read out the list of gifts Xena’s family had prepared.

The whole room burst into applause.

Everyone was satisfied with their gifts.

The Jade Buddha especially was thoughtful.

Hearing that, Meredith flashed a smile at last, obviously liking these gifts very much.

“Xena, Samson, I like your gifts very much!” Meredith said.

However, Aaron, Caitlyn and Zoey were dumbfounded.

Because the gifts they had prepared were almost exactly the same as theirs!

Most importantly, the former's gifts were several times more expensive than theirs!

And they were queueing right behind them!

They wondered what Meredith would think of them if she found out their similar but relatively cheaper gifts.

Aaron and Caitlyn were so nervous that they could barely breathe.

“Up next, we have Caitlyn and Aaron's gifts! Hmm?”

Seeing the gifts, even the host himself was stunned.

“What a coincidence.”

“What is it? Is there a problem with their gifts?” someone asked.

The host organized his thoughts and read aloud, “Caitlyn and family have gifted a calligraphy painting worth three hundred million, a hundred-year-old wild ginseng, and a Jade Buddha requested from North Hampton's Temple of Peace...”

“Yes, how thoughtful! They're exactly the same gifts as what Ms. Xena and her family had prepared! Except that they're lower in value by a double!”

Aaron and Caitlyn wished the ground could swallow them whole as soon as the host finished.

How embarrassing!

What a disgrace!

The Protector Chapter 189

Why is life so unfair to us?

Why does such misfortune always befall us?

Their gifts were exactly the same, but the price was twice as low as theirs! And they were queueing right behind them!

Even Zoey felt ashamed. She couldn't bear to stay there any longer.

Xena and Samson looked at Aaron's family helplessly.

They didn't expect that they had prepared similar gifts!

“What do you mean, thoughtful? Isn’t that just a duplicate?”

“At least prepare similar gifts at the same price. Who are they trying to fool?”

“Aren’t they looking down on Mrs. Black? Is Mrs. Black short of that few hundred thousand?”

“Are you kidding me?”

...

The crowd erupted in anger.

Seeing the gifts Caitlyn and her family had gifted, Meredith snorted angrily, “If you don’t want to prepare gifts, just don’t! Why do you keep embarrassing yourself?!”

Robert sighed. What a disgrace...

With no dignity left, Caitlyn longed to bury her head into the ground!

They’ll remember this day forever!

I shouldn’t have come!

It’s all Levi’s fault!

If Levi is powerful enough, we wouldn’t have been reduced to such a state.

If Levi’s worth a dozen of billions, Mom would have been happy with just our presence alone.

Right behind them was Logan’s family.

Graham and Felix casually presented some symbolic gifts.

In fact, with their status, their presence was the greatest gift.

Meredith was thrilled.

“Grandma, I present you with a pair of Legendary Luminous Pearls worth ten million! I had to travel to ten foreign cities in order to get it at an auction,” said Logan.

The crowd seethed with excitement.

As compared to the few hundred thousand gifts from Aaron and his family before, it was an instant kill. The difference was like night and day.

Meredith liked this pair of Legendary Luminous Pearls so much that she personally accepted them.

“See that?” She gave Aaron’s family a look. “This is what you call a gift! Even if Logan’s gift is worth a penny, I would still like it because it’s prepared with intentions!”

Caitlyn and Aaron hid at the corner and dared not look up.

They could only hope for the birthday banquet to end soon and leave South City as soon as possible.

“I’m going out first,” Levi suddenly said to Zoey and vanished from sight, just as Zoey was about to ask him something.

In the main hall, gifts were still being presented.

And with greater value!

Xaiden presented a three-billion project contract. Everyone in attendance was stunned!

Russell and the others presented their gifts as well, with Russell giving a rare special saber instead of gifts worth tens of millions.

“I know you like this stuff, Grandma. I went to great lengths to get this,” Russell said.

“Yes, I like it!”

Meredith used to reign over the battlefield, and hence she liked the saber very much.

Finally, a few other grandsons-in-law also presented their gifts, which made Meredith beam in delight.

“Allow me to speak on behalf of all the sons-in-law in the Black family...” Logan suddenly spoke. “It seems that every son-in-law has presented their gifts besides Levi Garrison from Aunt Caitlyn’s family, am I right?”

“Yeah, he didn’t!”

Everyone shifted their gaze to Aaron’s table, focusing on them again.

“Oh yeah, where is he? Did he run away?”

The Protector Chapter 190

“No way. Doesn’t that mean he didn’t prepare anything? Did he have to run away for that?”

“I know, right? I mean, even if he did prepare something, Mrs. Black wouldn’t have liked it either.”

Everyone sneered.

“Who said I didn’t prepare a gift?” a voice as loud as thunder was heard.

Everyone turned to look in the direction of where the sound came from, only to see Levi standing at the doors, holding two black plastic bags in his hands with a cigarette in his mouth.

Meredith and Robert’s faces scrunched up in disgust at Levi’s frivolous appearance.

They hated it. And seeing the two black plastic bags in his hands that were obviously meant for grocery shopping, what good could come out of it?

“Hahaha, this is hilarious!”

“Could there be vegetables or steamed buns inside?”

...

Everyone laughed so hard that their stomach hurt when they saw those two plastic bags.

Using such a bag to pack his gifts on such an occasion was definitely an insult to the old lady!

“What are you doing, Levi? No one asked you to get any gifts!”

Afraid that Levi was up to no good, Caitlyn and Aaron were about to dash forward to stop him.

It was already humiliating enough.

If Levi did anything to add fuel to the fire, they were as good as dead.

“Sit down!”

Meredith suddenly shouted.

Caitlyn and Aaron could only obey.

“Grandma, what can he even put in that bag?” Logan asked. “Let’s just skip this.”

But Meredith was stubborn. “No! Let him come. I want to see what his gift is.”

“Yeah, let’s see what this son-in-law has prepared.”

Everyone was burning with curiosity.

“Come here, Levi!” Logan grinned, glad to watch Levi make a fool of himself.

After all, Levi was the Black family’s son-in-law who was often bracketed with him back then.

With that, Levi went forward step by step, smoking a cigarette.

Seeing the plastic bags, everyone was guessing what was inside.

With Levi approaching, Perry and the others who were sitting at the front were petrified when they suddenly recognized him.

Perry instinctively shot to his feet and was about to greet him when he stood frozen upon noticing the expression in his eyes.

Everyone looked at Perry curiously.

“What’s wrong, Captain Chapman?” Russell, who was next to him, asked.

Perry sat down quietly. “Nothing! I just got a cramp in my leg.”

Levi came to Meredith and Robert at last.

“How dare you smoke in front of Grandpa and Grandma? Do you have a death wish?!” Logan was very displeased.

However, Robert and Meredith noticed something strange.

The cigarette in Levi’s mouth seemed to be a special cigarette from the war zone.

Especially that strong tobacco scent. It could only be found in the Warzone!

Robert and Meredith were sure of that.

“Shall I open it?” Levi asked.

“Go ahead!”

For some reason, Robert and Meredith were looking forward to it.

As if something good could be found inside this filthy plastic bag.

Levi took out two boxes of cigarettes and two bottles of liquors from the bag and presented them before Robert and Meredith.

“Grandson-in-law Levi Garrison presents two boxes of cigarettes and two bottles of liquors!”

The military green packaging of the cigarettes and liquor was very simple, and its workmanship was very rough.

“Levi, are you crazy?” Logan guffawed. “How could you present such poor quality cigarettes and liquor as gifts?”

The Protector Chapter 191

Everyone caught a glimpse of the packaging and seemed to be thinking along the same lines.

How good could those cigarettes and liquors be from that crude packaging?

Aaron and Caitlyn wanted to hide under the table when they heard that.

No wonder Levi asked the old lady for her preference just now.

If the cheap goods are exposed this time, it'd be over!

Mom would definitely cut ties with us on the spot!

Caitlyn had to hold herself back from strangling Levi!

“Those must be poor cigarettes and liquor!” someone said.

Russell, Perry and the others, however, hesitated for a moment.

It seems to be special cigarettes from the Warzone.

Especially that dragon symbol on the packaging...

Quintus and Logan exchanged glances and laughed, “Grandpa, Grandma, why don't we just throw these poor quality gifts into the bin? They're an eyesore!”

“Shut up!!!” Robert and Meredith suddenly roared in unison.

They took the cigarettes and liquors in their hands, appraising them as if appreciating a work of art.

The careful way they handled the gifts was all the more palpable than holding the ten million Legendary Luminous Pearls just now.

Their knitted brows gradually relaxed as a heartfelt smile flashed onto their faces.

They were much happier than receiving those gifts from before!

Everyone looked at the two puzzledly, wondering what was so famous about these cigarettes and liquor.

After a full minute, Robert and Meredith looked at each other and said excitedly, “It’s real!”

Levi took a drag of smoke, smiling, “I wonder if you like what I’ve prepared for you?”

“Yes! We love it!”

Robert and Meredith nodded incessantly.

Meredith even took over the microphone, beaming, “The gifts from my grandson-in-law, Levi Garrison, are my favorite!”

A deathly silence filled the room.

Aaron and Caitlyn who were waiting for the verdict were especially taken aback and Zoey was filled with disbelief.

Logan, Quintus and the others couldn’t believe their ears as they asked curiously, “Grandpa, Grandma, are you guys mistaken? It’s obvious from the packaging that it’s of poor quality! How could it be your favorite?”

“You guys are too shallow! You will most likely never see these cigarettes and liquor in your lifetime,” said Meredith, waving the boxes of cigarettes and liquor in her hands with unrestrained excitement on her face.

Robert chimed in, “These are special cigarettes and liquor from the Warzone!”

“It’s true that they’re scarce, but it’s not like they’re very rare,” Logan said.

If he wanted it, he could have gotten them through connections.

Meredith glared at him. “Hmph! Do you think that these are merely cigarettes and liquor from the war zone? These are special cigarettes of the Iron Brigade under the command of the God of War, the protector of Erudia! There are special signs on the packaging, such as the dragon and the words at the bottom!”

“Anyone with a little background knows that the Iron Brigade’s special cigarettes and liquor are not available to the public! You can’t buy a glass of the Iron Brigade’s special liquor even if you have tens of billions!”

“Exactly! You can’t get the Iron Brigade’s special liquor, no matter your background or your connections!”

“We had it once at the home of a retired soldier of the Iron Brigade, and we couldn’t forget its taste until today. This is the real Iron Brigade’s cigarette and liquor!”

A hush descended over the crowd at those words.

The Protector Chapter 192

Everyone regarded Levi with an incredulous gaze.

How did he get those special cigarettes and liquors that couldn't be bought with ten billion?

What did he do?

Robert and Meredith were hugging the special cigarettes and liquor as if they were their most precious treasure.

“Dear, we'll just take a little sip of liquor and smoke half a cigarette every day. These things are too rare and they'll be gone before we know it,” Meredith said with distress.

Levi smiled. “If you want it, I can still get it for you. I guarantee you can have them every day! I got a little today because I was afraid you wouldn't like it.”

“Really???” the old couple asked in disbelief, their eyes rounded.

“There's plenty of this stuff,” Levi chuckled. “I promise I can get them. Once the banquet is over, I'll send another car over!”

There are plenty of these with the Dragon Legion.

“That's great!”

“We're proud to have a grandson-in-law like you!”

The old couple had forgotten about everything else and only had eyes for Levi when they saw these cigarettes and liquor.

“Alright, that's about it,” Levi smiled. “Many people are watching.”

Upon realizing the enormity of their faux pas, they laughed bashfully.

“Caitlyn, Aaron, Zoey,” said Meredith, pointing at the said family. “Come sit with me!”

Caitlyn and Aaron could not believe their ears..

They went forward in a daze and sat at the table where Meredith and Robert were seated.

“Let me take the opportunity of the birthday banquet to announce something,” Meredith said. “The Black family has agreed to my daughter, Caitlyn Black's return!”

Caitlyn wept with joy at the announcement.

She had been waiting for this day for almost thirty years!

Aaron was also incredibly emotional.

The Black family had finally accepted them!

Zoey was happy as well.

“Caitlyn, Aaron, you two got yourselves a good son-in-law there.”

Robert and Meredith couldn't help but compliment.

Aaron and Caitlyn were delighted. “Levi, you've made us proud! We shouldn't have blamed you.”

“Mom, Dad, glad that you're happy,” Levi smiled.

Aaron and Caitlyn squared their shoulders, looking at the crowd arrogantly.

Now that Mr. and Mrs. Black have voiced their approval, who dares to make fun of us now?

Our son-in-law is just as capable, thank you very much.

Everyone kept their lips sealed. Instead of mocking them, they were now looking at them with envy.

Because Graham, Felix, Perry and the others were seated at the same table.

That meant that in Meredith's eyes, Aaron's family was just as important as them.

Just then, someone suddenly came in, reporting, “Reporting, Mr. Black. A few military officers outside who claimed to be stationed at the South Warzone want to congratulate Mrs. Black on her birthday!”

Puzzled, Robert asked, “Did they mention their identities?”

“They did! One of them is the head of the Dragon Legion of the Iron Brigade, Captain Steele, and there were a few colonels as well,” the subordinate replied.

“What? The captain of the Dragon Legion of the Iron Brigade?”

Robert, Meredith and the others jumped to their feet.

Even Graham, who was once a deputy leader and Felix, the deputy director of the city's Ministry of Economy, shot up.

The fact that the Dragon Legion was stationed at the South Warzone was well known among the higher-ups.

Quintus and Keane looked at each other. A thought occurred to them as they said, “Damn, Russell! You even invited Captain Steele of the Iron Brigade?! That's a big surprise!”

The rest of the Black family looked at Russell admiringly. “Did you specially prepare this Russell? I thought you said you couldn’t invite anyone from the warzone!”

“Yeah, Russell must have lied to us to give us a big surprise!”

Russell’s parents gave him an approving look.

Robert and Meredith were all the more surprised to hear that they were military officers from the Iron Brigade.

Their eyes crinkled into a smile.

“Not bad, Russell! I didn’t expect so many surprises today! You’re Grandma’s greatest pride and joy!”

Under such circumstances, Russell had to claim credit, even if he didn’t want to.

If not, he was afraid that Meredith would be disappointed.

“Yes, that’s right,” said Russell, bracing himself. “I’ve specially prepared this segment for you, Grandma. Just to give you and Grandpa a surprise!”

Perry, who was sitting beside Russell, was flabbergasted.

Didn’t Captain Steele come because of the God of War?

What has it got to do with you, Russell?

“Russell, what’s going on? Did you really invite him?” Perry asked.

“Yeah, Captain Chapman. I gave it a try at the war zone and it worked!”

Russell kept a straight face.

Robert and Meredith got up and greeted them at the doors, with the latter smiling, “I knew it! Russell is a late bloomer!”

Robert and Meredith were brimming with joy.

Seeing that, Caitlyn and Aaron were surprisingly jealous.

We were supposed to have gained the old woman’s favor, but her attention has now shifted to Russell instead.

They looked at Levi grudgingly...

Getting the Iron Brigade’s special cigarettes and liquors is nothing special!

Inviting the military officers from the Iron Brigade is what counts!

Following behind Robert and Meredith, Russell clenched his fists.

He swore to work hard and turn all these into a reality!

Just then, Captain Steele and the others had arrived at the doors.

Upon seeing Meredith, Alfie came forward, wishing, “Captain Alfie Steele of the Dragon Legion of the Iron Brigade and his three adjutants wish you a happy birthday, Mrs. Black.”

Mortimer, who was standing beside Alfie, stepped forward. “The captain of the South Warzone, Mortimer Lambert, wishes you a...”

Seeing them offering their best wishes one after another, Meredith was very excited.

Coming from the military themselves, they regarded Alfie and the others with more importance than those who were in politics like Graham.

Especially since Alfie came from the invincible Iron Brigade...

This was such a great honor!

Robert and Meredith were most pleased to see Alfie and the others attend the birthday banquet.

However, Russell, who stood at the back was a little nervous.

He was afraid of exposing himself.

He didn't dare to greet them at all because he had never seen them before.

Russell deliberately hid at the back, afraid of getting noticed.

But Meredith pulled him to the front, asking with anticipation, “I wonder what's Captain Steele's comment on my grandson Russell Black?”

Alfie froze. This old lady is so weird. I don't even know who's your grandson; how am I supposed to evaluate him?

But at the thought that she was the grandmother of the God of War's wife, he said politely, “Russell looks sharp and the country will be counting on him in the future!”

“Hahaha, wonderful!”

Robert and Meredith couldn't help but laugh heartily at Alfie's high evaluation of their grandson.

The Protector Chapter 194

“God bless the Black family!”

A blend of emotion fermented inside of everyone in the Black family; Russell’s parents were so thrilled that they could almost cry while Quintus, Keane, and some other of Russell’s cousins were truly stoked.

The place seethed with enthusiasm, and the atmosphere was at its climax.

Because that was an appraisal from the captain of the Iron Brigade, whose words were very authoritative.

Robert and Meredith were so proud that they had forgotten about the special cigarettes and liquor that Levi had gifted them.

Aaron and Caitlyn felt wretched.

The spotlight was supposed to be on them.

The old lady had liked them most!

But before they could bask in the limelight, the attention was shifted onto Russell.

“I’ve heard about Russell Black for a long time,” Mortimer added. “He will have a promising future if he becomes vice-captain of the Special Security Unit before thirty years old.”

Russell was feeling very emotional as well to receive Captain Steele and Captain Lambert’s approval despite the blunder he had made.

“Captain Steele, Captain Lambert, Colonels, please,” Robert and Meredith ushered them inside.

But Alfie rejected the offer, “We just came to greet you, Mrs. Black. We should make our move now.”

“Does Captain Steele have any other urgent matters to attend to?” asked Meredith, with an air of great surprise.

“Yes, that’s right. The God of War of my division is going to inspect the Dragon Legion that I’m leading. I need to go back and get the troops ready,” Alfie said.

Mortimer nodded. “Yes, Mrs. Black. My legion is going to be inspected as well. We need to prepare ourselves.”

“What?” The God of War of the Iron Brigade? He must be a famous general who shines on the battlefield!”

Robert and Meredith were filled with deep veneration.

But as if she thought of something, Meredith pleaded, “I guess we have no time and are not qualified to attend such inspections. Could you allow my grandson, Russell to visit and gain some insight, Captain Steele?”

Seemingly hesitating, Alfie agreed to her plea, “Okay, sure. The inspection takes place in a few hours. Russell, wait for our notice.”

Meredith and the rest of the Black family were all thrilled.

If Russell visits the Dragon Legion, it would be great for his career prospects.

After the Black family had sent them off, the birthday banquet continued.

Meredith was obviously indifferent to Aaron and his family. At most, she would only say a word or two to Levi.

The conversation made during the birthday banquet now revolved around Russell.

Levi was unfazed as he stared at the table of dishes and feasted on them.

In the eyes of the others, his table manners was repulsive.

It was as if he had been starving for over a week.

Especially since Felix, Graham and other big shots were sitting at the same table, Levi’s table manners was a big disgrace to Meredith.

Meredith was displeased, but she couldn’t say much seeing as Levi gifted her the special cigarettes and liquor.

Indeed, Levi was uncouth. He should have watched his manners, especially since he now had Meredith’s favor.

Russell eventually got sick of it. “Levi, come out for a moment. I need to have a word with you.”

Meredith looked at Russell approvingly.

How astute! The problem has been resolved.

Levi followed Russell outside.

“What do you wanna talk about?” Levi started while picking his teeth with a toothpick.

How Russell wished he could punch him in the face at his sluggish appearance.

But he said with a smile outwardly, “I have a question, Levi. How did you get the special cigarettes and liquor of the Iron Brigade?”

The Protector Chapter 195

“I had it delivered, of course,” Levi chuckled.

“Delivered? Could it be someone from the Iron Brigade?” Russell asked quizzically.

Levi nodded. “Precisely. Didn’t you see him just now?”

“What? You mean Captain Steele?”

Russell looked at Levi incredulously.

“Yeah, him! Why else would he be here if not to deliver the cigarettes and liquor?” Levi said.

“Hahaha...” Russell laughed out loud.

This man can really talk big!

“I’ll have another carload sent over,” Levi said.

“Hahaha, nice,” Russell responded sarcastically, looking at Levi as if he was a clown.

I’ll soon find out whether Captain Steele is sending another carload of special cigarettes and liquor or not.

I’m going to the South Warzone after all.

“You were saying that you invited Alfie over, huh?” Levi suddenly asked.

Russell became a little flustered at that question.

But what was there to be afraid of if Alfie didn’t even expose him?

“Yeah, I invited him to congratulate Grandma on her birthday!” Russell admitted tenaciously.

Levi’s grin widened meaningfully, making Russell uneasy as if Levi had seen through his lies.

Not daring to stay with him any longer, he turned around and went back to the main hall.

The birthday banquet finally ended after a few hours.

Meredith had specially called Aaron and his family to stay behind, which made Zoey very happy.

Russell took his leave as well. “Grandpa, Grandma, I just received a notice asking me to hurry over to the South Warzone.”

“Go on now. You’re the pride of the Black family. Everyone must learn from Russell,” Meredith praised.

“You must tell us everything when you come back,” Quintus said.

Thereafter, Meredith checked the headcount. “Is everyone here? Caitlyn, where’s your son-in-law?”

“I have no idea where he went, Mom,” Caitlyn replied.

“Whatever. Just let him be,” Meredith dismissed him, for he was just an unimportant person.

However, Caitlyn and Aaron were furious.

This is clearly a good chance, but that bastard went missing.

How incompetent!

At this time, Levi had called Abigail to send him to the South Warzone.

As Russell was anxious, he made his way to the Dragon Legion’s encampment at the South Warzone as quick as possible.

Upon his arrival, he was like a country bumpkin who had just entered the city; everything was new to him.

He looked around and dared not touch anything, for fear of breaking things.

Alfie had arranged for a soldier to welcome Russell.

Halting before a warehouse, there was a car parked at its entrance with a few men moving boxes and boxes of goods to a car.

Noticing the packaging, Russell thought it looked similar to the special cigarettes and liquors that Levi had brought.

“May I ask what are these, comrade?” Russell couldn’t help but ask.

“Oh, these are the Iron Brigade’s special cigarettes and liquors! The captain has ordered us to load a car of them to send them over to the Black family,” the soldier replied.

Russell was thunderstruck.

Are they seriously sending a carload of these to the Black family?

Levi was right!

What is his identity?

If getting two bottles of liquor and two packets of cigarettes means nothing, then getting a carload of these is a whole different problem.

Russell arrived at the training ground in trepidation.

The Dragon Legion and several thousands of soldiers had all assembled and lined up in columns, looking ever powerful and ever triumphant.

The Protector Chapter 196

Seeing the spirits of the Dragon Legion had Russell's adrenalin pumping.

The pride and fervor in their eyes was so compelling that it could drive one crazy.

They were whom Russell aspired to be!

Their existence was fearsome!

Although his regiment was at the forefront of the South Warzone, they were a far cry from the Dragon Legion.

Russell and the others were seated at the observation deck.

Everyone was waiting for the God of War of the Iron Brigade.

If not for the regulations, Russell would have filmed everything.

He was too excited!

Everyone was waiting in silence. No one dared to speak a word the whole time.

Finally, a car drove into the encampment and made its way quickly to the training base.

Russell frowned when he saw the pink car from a distance.

Where have I seen this car before?

Isn't that Abigail's pink Maserati?

The pink Maserati stopped at the training base.

A girl alighted from the driver's seat.

Isn't that Abigail?

Russell was dumbstruck and when he saw the person coming down from the passenger's seat, he nearly suffocated.

Levi!

It's actually him!

What are they doing here?

That person can't be him, right?

For a moment, it was as if Russell's heart had stopped beating.

Levi told Abigail to stay where she was as he walked step by step toward the Dragon Legion.

Seeing Levi approaching, all the soldiers lifted their chins up and stood upright like a pike.

Alfie and Mortimer jogged toward Levi and saluted him. "Reporting, God of War! The Dragon Legion and the South Warzone Legion have assembled! Awaiting your instructions, Sir!"

What?

God of War?

The group observing was mind blown.

No one had expected that the God of War of the Dragon Legion was THE God of War himself!

What was even more unbelievable to Russell was that Levi was THE God of War!

No wonder Levi acted so arrogant at the birthday banquet.

No wonder Levi could present the special cigarettes and liquor of the Iron Brigade.

No wonder Levi said he had Captain Steele deliver them.

...

It's because Levi is the God of War!

Levi came before the soldiers and commanded in a clear tone, "At ease!"

The uniformed movements of thousands of soldiers were jaw-dropping.

"I'll keep this short. Since you've all come down from the front line, rest and reorganize, but training must still go on. You must always be ready for war!" Levi lectured the Dragon Legion.

He then looked at the legion, smiling, "The soldiers of Erudia are tough! And so is our legion. Catch up on your training and be prepared at all times to sacrifice for the country!"

Despite Levi's brief speech, it ignited the fire in their hearts.

“God of War!”

“God of War!”

...

Thousands of soldiers shouted vigorously.

The scene was earth-shattering.

It was definitely a scene Russell would never forget in this lifetime.

After the inspection, Levi came toward Russell.

“Take a load of cigarettes and liquors with you later. But you should also advise Grandpa and Grandma not to drink too much,” Levi said.

“Yes, yes, yes...” Facing Levi again, Russell was so scared that he was drenched in sweat, even his speech was stuttering.

With that, the carload of special cigarettes and liquors were moved into Russell’s car.

Russell arrived at the Black family’s residence.

“A carload of the Iron Brigade’s special cigarettes and liquors? Did Russell send them back?”

“My grandson is too capable! Oh, my God!”

“God bless the Black family!”

The Protector Chapter 197

The Black family was numb with shock when they saw Russell's car loaded with special cigarettes and liquors.

Robert and Meredith's eyes twinkled.

"God has indeed blessed the Black family! My son is too amazing!" Xaiden praised.

Robert and Meredith grasped Russell's hands, only to make him feel awkward because this had nothing to do with him at all.

"Grandpa, Grandma actually—"

"This is enough, Russell," Meredith interrupted, thinking that Russell was trying to be modest. "This carload of cigarettes and liquors are enough for the rest of our lives."

"Yeah, you don't have to say much, Russell. We understand."

Robert patted on Russell's shoulders.

On second thought, Russell stopped trying to explain, remembering that he had signed a non-disclosure agreement to keep everything he saw a secret before leaving the South Warzone.

"Work hard, Russell. Your Grandpa and I have decided to exhaust all our resources to nurture you," Meredith said.

Quintus and the others were envious, and so were Aaron and Caitlyn.

Didn't Levi say he would send a carload of special cigarettes and liquors?

Where is he?

Robert asked Russell, "So who did you meet today, Russell? Who's the God of War of the Iron Brigade?"

"Yeah, tell us, Russell. We wanna know." The Black family was curious.

Russell gave a nervous titter. "Grandpa, Grandma, as much as I want to tell you, I can never reveal his identity. I've signed a non-disclosure agreement."

"It even involves a non-disclosure agreement?! Oh, God..."

Meredith and Robert looked at each other in the eye with a look of horror.

"But what I am sure of is," Russell continued, "that the Black family will prosper from now on! So Grandpa, Grandma, you guys have to be nicer to all the aunts and uncles, such as Aunt Caitlyn and Uncle Aaron. There's only hope if the Black family unites!"

Because the God of War was the son-in-law of the Black family, and Russell could guarantee that!

Hence, he specifically reminded them by mentioning their names.

"That's a given!" Robert and Meredith promised. "We've accepted Caitlyn and Aaron again. They are one of us now."

Hearing that, Aaron and Caitlyn couldn't hold back their excitement.

"Thank you, Mom and Dad!"

Meredith flashed a look at them. "You should thank Russell."

“Thank you, Russell!” the both of them said in unison.

Russell gave an awkward smile.

“But your son-in-law is not too bad,” Meredith said, be thought of something.

Mom clearly liked Levi’s presents the most just now. How did it become ‘not too bad’ in the blink of an eye?

However, Caitlyn was contented.

At this time, Levi and Abigail had returned.

“Didn’t you say you were gonna send another carload of special cigarettes and liquors, Levi?” Logan sneered.

Levi pointed at Russell’s car. “Didn’t I have them deliver already?”

Just as Russell was about to speak, Logan roared, “Bullshit! Clearly, it was Russell who sent these back. What the hell has it got to do with you?”

“Yeah! You’re too much! All of us saw that it was Russell who sent these back!”

“You do have credit today, but you can’t just take Russell’s credit!”

...

Everyone mouthed off at Levi.

Russell was vexed, but he couldn’t get a word in edgeways.

He’s a God! How could mere mortals judge him?

The Protector Chapter 198

“The fact that you can get those special cigarettes and liquor means you are somewhat capable. As long as you act wisely, you could turn out quite well. But don’t try to seek loopholes and indulge in petty tricks,” Meredith said coldly, displeased with Levi’s behavior.

“You two need to discipline him more. After all, Zoey has a bright future ahead of her,” Robert said to Caitlyn and Aaron.

“Yes, Mom and Dad. We understand!”

At their departure, Meredith asked, “Russell, what do you think about Levi?”

Russell was scared stiff.

How can I comment on this person?

I still want to live.

“No comment,” Russell replied.

“Logan, what do you think?” Meredith asked again.

Logan looked deep in thought. “Levi is indeed capable, seeing how he could get his hands on the special cigarettes and liquor. But since he’d spent six years in jail, his powerful side has probably smoothed out, and he’s picked up on many bad habits. I think it will be hard for Levi to develop.”

Meredith nodded in agreement. “Mm, I think so too.”

The next day, everyone left one after another.

When the Black family offered to give them a ride, Zoey rejected it and requested to take the high-speed rail instead.

Mainly because she wanted to see what would happen to Levi at the security checkpoint.

When they arrived at the security checkpoint, Zoey deliberately let Levi pass first.

Seeing Levi pass through easily, they were stunned.

“Come out and go in again,” Zoey demanded.

Levi had no choice but to enter again. However, the alarm still didn't go off.

Zoey was taken aback.

Have I really mistaken?

In fact, the system had been rebooted since Levi left that day.

He could easily pass through all security checkpoints now without sounding off the alarm.

Just after getting on the high-speed rail, Alfie sent a message. The big shots of the South Warzone and South City just knew about your arrival at South City.

Levi had already left when they came to look for him.

Levi replied immediately. Tell them I'll definitely inform them the next time I visit South City.

On the high-speed rail, Caitlyn said, "Zoey, you should really consider the advice that your uncles have given."

"What is it?" Levi asked.

Aaron sighed, "Zoey's uncles had suggested that she sever all ties with the Lopez family and establish a new company."

"That's a great idea! She should have done that a long time ago!" Levi raised both hands in favor of that suggestion.

They're a bunch of assholes who can never be satisfied.

Aaron shook his head. "It won't be that easy! Dad has shares in Zoey's company. We'll have a tough row to hoe."

Zoey was also worried about this.

She knew Harry far too well.

"Zoey, just go all out. I'll handle it if there's any trouble," Levi said.

He wasn't worried about the Lopez family now, but the retaliation of the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce.

Now that Levi Group was in his hands again, the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce was bound to keep their guards up.

After returning to North Hampton, Kirin told him it was decided that Levi Group would merge with Garrison Group after negotiation and be named Morris Group in remembrance of Morris Atkinson.

Levi would also use Morris Group to destroy the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce.

It was equivalent to Morris himself trampling the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce!

Levi understood that this would surely lead to objection from the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce. But he would be there for the ceremony by then.

The Protector Chapter 199

The renaming of Levi Group had created a storm in the entire city.

Especially since it would be renamed to Morris Group, anyone who knew the ins and outs of the situation knew they were coming after the Rogers family and the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce.

It was an act of revenge.

According to gossip, the person who now controlled Levi Group was Neil Atkinson, someone who had yet to appear in North Hampton.

Everyone was suspecting him to be a relative of Morris.

Because someone had discovered that Morris's parents had moved into the most expensive villa at Bayview Garden from the village and that Zoey's Imperial Meadows Limited had been receiving a huge chunk of investments from Levi Group.

...

The gossips had stated that the relationship between Neil and Morris was not so simple and that Neil was aiming for the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce.

On a small island at North Hampton's Arrior Lake, there were boats surrounding the island. On it stood hundreds of men in black with their waists bulging, obviously carrying a weapon.

They were even military helicopters hovering in the sky from time to time, patrolling the perimeter.

The worse part was that the entire scenic spot of Arrior Lake had been booked today.

And the person who did the booking was on this small island...

On the island were six elders who were sitting by the lake, quietly fishing,

Behind them stood eleven people, which included seven directors from the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce, and four heirs of four noble families in North Hampton, the Hendersons, Andersons, Williamsons and Robinsons.

The four elders fishing at the front were the current heads of the four biggest noble families, Wallace Henderson, Clifford Anderson, Baldwin Williamson, and Eric Robinson.

They were the top four families on the list of the wealthiest families in North Hampton.

The four elders were even more powerful than Glenn from the Rogers family.

While the Rogers family's wealth amounted to fifty billion, the Hendersons, Andersons, Williamsons, and Robinsons's wealth amounted to a hundred billion.

Together, they had established the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce.

In short, they had occupied almost half of North Hampton's economic lifeline. They were the real juggernauts of North Hampton.

The two other elders who were fishing with them were no less than they were.

Grover Cooke, who had now retired, was once the governor of North Hampton.

He had many disciples, and his descendants all held important positions in North Hampton.

Even the current governor, Jesse Nielsen, was his student.

Jesse would often go to Grover to seek advice because there was a saying that Grover's words could make people grovel at his feet.

The other elder was Xander Hoyles, the vice commander-in-chief of the North Hampton Warzone.

Due to a transfer order, the position of commander-in-chief of the North Hampton Warzone had been vacant, which meant that Xander was the leader of the North Hampton Warzone now.

The two of them were friends and classmates with Eric and the others.

It wasn't uncommon for them to meet up for fishing.

On the small island not far away was a platoon of guards.

Any little decision made by these six elders was influential enough to shake up the entire North Hampton.

It was indeed the case because many things in North Hampton were conferred by the six of them.

...

If the four wealthiest families and North Hampton Chamber of Commerce could achieve such success, it was needless to say that their connections ramified all over North Hampton.

From war zones to towns, everywhere had traces of the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce.

Hence there was this saying that ‘messing with the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce was akin to messing with North Hampton’s foundation’.

They were different from the Rogers family.

It wouldn’t be so easy to destroy them.

Besides, if the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce were to be destroyed, they still had Grover and Xander at the top.

The Protector Chapter 200

According to this situation, it was simply impossible for them to be destroyed.

But they didn’t expect that their opponent was Levi—the only five-star God of War in history!

The God of War would crush everything!

...

At this moment, Eric suddenly caught a fish.

After putting it in the basket, he looked at Grover and Xander, smiling, "Grover, Xander, have you two heard about the recent events in North Hampton?"

The grizzled-haired Grover moved his fishing rod and said with a little doubt, "Are you talking about the matter with Director Alaric Taylor of the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce or the matter with the renaming of Levi Group to Morris Group?"

Grover might be retired, but he still had everything under control.

Wallace gave him a meaningful look. "I supposed you can look at these matters as one?"

"You're suggesting that Neil Atkinson of Levi Group is behind all this?" asked Xander.

Clifford nodded. "Most likely. According to our investigations, Neil should be Morris's uncle. He's changing the name of Levi Group to Morris Group to help Morris Atkinson's best friend, Levi Garrison. That's why they invested in Zoey and even took care of Alaric and Charles."

"We've questioned the Rogers family in the past for a few days, but they remained silent about relinquishing the Garrison family's properties and Levi Group," Baldwin said. "They only warned us to be careful, saying that we've met our match this time."

"In a word," Eric summed up. "This mysterious Neil Atkinson is a powerful man. He's definitely something to be able to send Alaric to jail and retake Levi Group and Garrison Group from the Rogers family's hands."

Those were the information that the four noble families had obtained.

It was considered intimidating because other enterprises and families had yet to know about the change of ownership of Levi Group.

“To be honest, I’ve known you guys for over ten years now and I’ve never seen such somber expression on all four of your faces,” Xander suddenly chuckled.

Grover nodded. “Exactly! It’s my first time seeing you guys like this. It means that Neil Atkinson is really stressing you out.”

“Sure, there’s stress, but it’s just enough to get our attention,” Wallace smiled. “He can’t threaten us!”

Eric stroked his long white beard, chortling, “That is without a doubt! No one can mess with the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce.”

Xander nodded. “That’s right! There’s no way they can break apart the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce!”

Metaphorically speaking, the Garrison family and the Rogers family were just growing saplings that could be uprooted by manpower while the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce was a ten-thousand-year-old tree that would probably require ten people to encircle it. It would be impossible to uproot it based on manpower alone.

Clifford flashed a cruel smile. “Although there isn’t a threat, Neil Atkinson is really a thorn in the flesh. We must get rid of him as soon as possible!”

Understanding the meaning behind his words, Grover and Xander smiled, “We can still find out his identity for you guys.”

With that, Xander suddenly caught a fish and threw it into Clifford’s basket.

“Just like this. I caught a fish for you and it’s up to you whether you want to release it or cook it.”

He was comparing the fish to Neil.

The four of them nodded.

The Protector Chapter 201

They moved on to the next topic of conversation afterward.

“The legendary protector of Erudia, the God of War has arrived in North Hampton for so long, yet we’ve never met with him. I am deeply ashamed of myself!” Eric said helplessly.

“That’s right. We all wanted to meet with him just to have the honor of seeing his face with our own eyes!” Wallace added.

Grover Cooke laughed. “The God of War even rejected the wealthiest man in North Hampton, Winston Gonzales’s invitation, much less the rest of you.”

Xander Hoyles let out his laughter as well. “Let me tell all of you something unbelievable. I am supposed to be the highest-ranking officer in the North Hampton Warzone, but regretfully, even I have never seen the God of War in person. He’s active around the North Hampton’s warzone and even hosted a military practice. But he disregarded me and directly transferred the First Army to do his bidding!”

Grover was astounded. “You too? Oh my God!”

“To be honest, to him, I am just an insignificant person. I have to pay my respect to Azure Dragon and the other Kings of War despite their lower rank. They are the strongest military force in Erudia, after all!” Xander explained.

Eric and the others shook their heads in disappointment. “I guess there is no hope for us since even someone like Mr. Hoyles does not get to meet with him.”

Xander Hoyles flashed a pensive smile. “No, that’s not true. There is a chance for you to meet with him. There’s a ceremony to welcome the new commander-in-chief for the North Hampton warzone soon. The God of War will certainly attend the ceremony. There are a few seats open to the public to participate in the ceremony, so all of you can try to seize the opportunity then!”

“Really? That’s great! We can finally meet with the God of War!” Everyone else could barely contain their excitement.

Baldwin grinned. “I heard that not only is the God of War a young man in his twenties, but he is also single! Coincidentally, my granddaughter, Yara, is single as well. She can be the perfect match for him. They will be a great couple!”

Clifford retorted immediately. “Is that so? Are you saying that your granddaughter is better than mine?”

“Hey, all of us have granddaughters as well!” The others voiced out in displeasure too.

Even Xander took part in the heated conversation. “I have a granddaughter too. She’s in the army. Does that count as an advantage?”

“Ah, in that case, your granddaughter certainly has the edge over ours. We should’ve sent our granddaughters to join the army too in the past!”

Eric suddenly changed the topic of conversation. “Let’s talk about business now. Levi Group and the acquired Garrison Group will be changing their name to Morris Group three days later!”

“There’s no other way to handle this matter. We’ll have to sound out Morris Group’s capabilities!”

...

Zoey was made aware of the matter regarding Levi’s group name change into Morris Group’s.

“I heard Neil Atkinson is Morris’s uncle. No wonder he helped us through our crisis. Do you know anything about this?” Zoey asked curiously.

Levi shook his head. “I don’t know Morris has an uncle!” Levi could barely contain his laughter. These people are ridiculous. How can Kirin be Morris’s uncle when he’s clearly 7 years younger than Morris?

“I heard Levi Group will be hosting a name-changing ceremony three days later. Are you going to attend the ceremony to check out the situation?”

Zoey was busy with her matters of establishing a new company, but she was curious about that event. So she asked Levi to attend the ceremony instead.

“Sure. I’ll check out the event.”

What Zoey did not know was that Levi would attend the ceremony even without her reminder.

He decided to bring Mr. and Mrs. Atkinson too.

Levi informed Morris’s parents about that matter when he visited them at Bayview Garden Real Estate’s villa.

The Protector Chapter 202

Levi told the aged couple he would pick them up in person three days later.

He saw Chloe the moment he exited the villa’s neighborhood.

She was there because she was introducing one of the properties there to a customer.

“I’m getting off work now. Why don’t I treat you to a meal if you’re free?” Chloe offered with a smile.

Levi suddenly remembered the promise he made after they were met with the impromptu situation the other day.

“Sure. Let’s have a meal, but it’s going to be my treat!” Levi answered.

Levi was chauffeured to the villa earlier, so he did not have a car. He had no other choice but to let Chloe drive him to the restaurant.

They decided to have their meal in a high-end Chinese restaurant, where their patrons can only be those with the restaurant’s membership.

“I’m sorry, Ms. Macy! All the private rooms are fully booked. We only have open seats left in the hall.” The restaurant staff informed Chloe.

Chloe looked at Levi immediately to seek his opinion.

“Fine by me.” Levi nodded.

They sat at a table close to the window.

Chloe was a regular customer, and she was vaguely familiar with Levi’s preference too. So she ordered a few dishes that suited Levi’s taste.

Levi enjoyed the meal to his heart’s content.

“Is that really you, Chloe?” Someone exclaimed.

Two men dressed in suits stood a few feet away from their table. One of the men was clearly excited to see Chloe.

Levi felt that the man looked a little familiar. Oh, I remember him now! He’s one of my juniors from high school, William Hanks.

William studied Finance and graduated from a university in South City. Levi allowed him to enter Levi Group despite his lack of qualification due to William’s status as his junior.

William appeared to be in a neutral stance after Levi was met with trouble in the past, but he actually sided with Matthew Green.

Chloe did not like William because he was annoying and had been relentless in pursuing her.

He firmly believed he deserved Chloe especially now that Levi Group had regained its momentum.

“Chloe, let me introduce to you. This is the manager of Gatsby Group, Mr. Paterson. We are currently discussing a project that’s worth a hundred million!” William introduced the chubby man next to him to Chloe.

Mr. Paterson looked at Chloe lecherously.

At that moment, William noticed Levi.

He fell into a daze for some time before he addressed him subconsciously, “Mr. Garrison... wait, no. Levi Garrison, you’re here too?”

In William’s mind, Levi does not deserve any honorifics now that he had been reduced to someone with a lowly status.

“That’s right. You’re able to recognize me?” Levi smiled. William Hanks is considered half a traitor. There are still plenty of traitors like him among the current staffs in Levi Group. I have to utilize this name-changing ceremony to reassemble the company’s employees. I’ve regained control of Levi Group for some time now, but I’ve yet to remove these rotten people.

“Hahaha, of course! You were so glorious in the past! I even worked as your driver and valet when I first entered the company...”

William remembered everything that happened in the past vividly.

“I did not get any promotion while you were in charge of the company, Levi Garrison. You’ve never treated me like your junior, always asking me to do those hard and dirty chores! I was promoted and given important tasks to handle after you left, and can finally put my talents to good use! I am now the vice-director of the marketing department!” He pointed at Levi and continued, “Regretfully, you are no longer my boss. You are just someone who, at most, qualifies to clean my shoes...”

Levi and Chloe exchanged glances. Both of them snickered.

Levi scoffed. “Sorry to disappoint you, but I am still your boss!”

The Protector Chapter 203

William was stunned upon hearing what Levi said.

He regained his senses and sneered. “Are you trying to crack some joke, Levi Garrison? My supervisor is the director of the marketing department, Mr. Barclay Burns, while my boss is Mr. Neil Atkinson, who recently acquired Levi Group! Where do you think you fit into this equation?”

Levi did not say a word. He merely regarded William with a smile.

William curled his lips mockingly. “Perhaps you’re going to tell me that you are actually the mysterious Mr. Neil Atkinson? You can stop your day-dreaming! Levi Group is no longer related to you now. Moreover, the company is changing its name too. When that time comes, the company’s final connection with you will be severed too!”

Levi took a sip from his drink. “You will know sooner or later if I am still related to the company.”

William ignored Levi and turned to look at Chloe. “Why are you hanging out with him? Don’t you know? He was placed behind bars for the last six years because he tried to take advantage of his sister-in-law. He's been blacklisted by all the companies in North Hampton, so he's destined to fail now. Moreover, he's got a wife. This man is clearly latching on to you with ulterior motives. You have to be careful not to fall into his traps! You'll regret for the rest of your life if this piece of trash takes advantage of you." William advised Chloe with concern.

Mr. Paterson added, "That's right. You are a successful, young, and beautiful woman. You need to settle down with an outstanding man as soon as possible to prevent a scum like him from attaching himself to you. Look at William. He's young and accomplished. I think he's quite a perfect match for you, Ms. Macy."

Chloe responded coldly, "I'm sorry, but I do not need the both of you to worry over my matters. Besides, I think Levi is a great man. He's even treating me to dinner tonight."

William laughed out loud. "Are you kidding me, Chloe? Levi is treating you to a meal? The signature dishes you've ordered will cost you at least twenty thousand. How is he going to pay for that?"

"That's none of your business!" Chloe was enraged.

William and Mr. Paterson had no other choice but to leave resentfully.

Levi and Chloe left afterward.

William hurriedly followed them.

"What? That poor loser doesn't even have a car! He needs Chloe to fetch him!" William chided.

Mr. Paterson was mad as well. "How can you let an ex-convict like him to surpass you, William?"

William punched the wall forcefully. "Levi Garrison is too cunning! I have to find a way to teach him a lesson! Ah, that's right. I just got an idea..."

William's eyes shone with excitement.

In the subsequent two days, the news of Levi Group's preparation for the name-changing ceremony became heated.

After all, they were a force that could threaten the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce's long-standing influence.

A day before the ceremony, Levi received a call from an unknown number. William's voice was heard after the call connected. "Good day, my ex-boss!"

Levi was puzzled by William's politeness.

"I am here to inform you of wonderful news. After the name-changing ceremony tomorrow, all employees in Levi Group will receive an increment in salary and benefits ranging from twenty to forty percent. All the people who worked for you previously will receive an average of thirty percent increment, so we decided to throw a party to express our gratitude toward you, our ex-boss! You mustn't reject our invitation because we deliberately hosted this party for you. Everyone is eager to reunite with you."

A thought popped into Levi's mind as his lips curved upward. "Sure. I'll be there!" He agreed to attend the party.

"Alright then. I can't wait to see you there!"

The Protector Chapter 204

Over a dozen executives of Levi Group hosted a party in the largest private room in Galaxy Hotel that night.

They prepared a lot of champagne inside the room.

All the executives present were once Levi's subordinates.

Melissa Floyd replaced Matthew Green as the vice-president of Levi Group after his disappearance.

Melissa used to be Levi's personal secretary. She was an elite who was selected by Levi among one thousand candidates.

She was a capable person. Her accomplishment of receiving a promotion from a personal secretary to the vice-president position reflected her abilities.

In the past, Melissa tried to seduce Levi countless times and even borrowed the strength of the media to spread baseless scandals about herself and Levi. Her underhand tactics nearly caused Levi and Zoey to break up back in the day.

After that, Levi exposed her tricks and demoted her to an average employee. So she had always harbored hateful feelings toward Levi.

Melissa also participated in the scheme to cause Imperial Meadows's bankruptcy.

She could not care less about Levi with her current status, but William Hanks offered her an opportunity to humiliate Levi. So she decided to attend to the party too.

She wanted to witness Levi's current condition with her own eyes.

The others who attended the party were Barclay Burns, the director of the marketing department, Eileen Barn, the director of the PR department, Leroy Bird, the director of the legal department, as well as the director of the HR department, Kennelm Pitt.

All of them underwent vigorous training while Levi was their boss because he wanted to cultivate them. They did not receive speedy promotions. Instead, they were forced to learn and experience more as an average employee in the company. However, none of them understood Levi's intention. They hated Levi because they felt he was bullying them and restricted their growth in the company.

So they were the first group of employees to turn against Levi and joined the Rogers family's rank after Levi's imprisonment.

The other subordinates who were loyal to Levi were either drove to their deaths or forced to resign.

Barclay and his peers had the potential, so they managed to climb up the corporate hierarchy and landed jobs as executives.

Even now, they were still not grateful for Levi's cultivation. They were still under the impression that Levi mistreated them. So they loathed Levi deeply.

They blamed Levi all the more because they were promoted immediately and received a high salary the moment Levi was gone.

In their mind, Levi nearly ruined their lives. They were all insignificant employees of the group under Levi's management. But all of them became successful people with an annual salary of over a million after Levi's departure.

So they always shared a private joke among themselves: Thank God Levi went to jail!

"Is he here yet?" Everyone was getting impatient.

Levi and Morris were extremely strict in the past, so their employees did not have the courage to even look them in the eyes. But the high and mighty Levi Garrison six years ago was now an average Joe in the city.

They could not wait for Levi to witness their achievements. All of them wanted to humiliate Levi to their heart's content.

"Oh! Our ex-boss is finally here!" William announced cheerfully.

Levi followed behind him.

He entered the room with an indifferent appearance while giving off an overwhelming presence.

Most of the people inside the room were almost suffocated by his domineering aura.

Everyone was dazed as they did not expect Levi to still carry his imposing manner from before.

They wanted to direct volleys of insults at Levi the moment he entered the room, but they simply could not utter a word.

The first person to break the silence was Melissa Floyd. She came to a halt in front of Levi in her high heels and said with a smile, "My beloved Mr. Garrison, you're finally released from prison? This is not really favorable since that place suited you the most. Why didn't you stay there for a few more years? Personally, I would suggest that you stay behind bars forever!"

The atmosphere inside the room turned heavy after Melissa addressed Levi with the harsh words.

The Protector Chapter 205

Kennelm Pitt, the director of the HR department scoffed. "That's right. Didn't you always admire the military management style, Mr. Garrison? Life in prison suits you the best!"

The director of the PR department, Eileen Barn added, "That's true. You must've stayed behind bars for six years because you enjoyed the environment!"

...

Everyone greeted Levi with insults.

"Please, come in, my beloved Mr. Garrison!" Melissa ushered Levi into the room.

Upon entering, Levi saw the decorations inside the room immediately.

They even hung a couple of banners on the wall.

The first banner read: Thank God for your imprisonment, Levi Garrison. We would not achieve our success today if you did not go to jail.

Printed on the second banner were the words: We hope you stay in prison forever, Levi Garrison.

...

Levi noticed a lot of champagne inside the room as well, but he did not understand the reason behind the large amount of drinks.

Everyone was disappointed to see Levi's reaction because he was not infuriated after looking at the banner.

They asked Levi to sit down, then proceeded to surround him.

Melissa said, "I have to thank you, Mr. Garrison. You forced me to start from the bottom of the company with a monthly salary of a little over four thousand and an annual salary of fifty thousand. Do you know how much I am making per year now? My current annual salary is fifty million!"

Eileen added, "You turned us into a bunch of cheap labors by using the excuse of trying to cultivate us. I did not receive a salary of close to ten thousand previously, but look at me now! My yearly bonus alone is already at least ten million!”

The marketing director, Barclay chided, “Thank you so much, Levi Garrison! I used to go to work on a scooter, but I am now driving a Lamborghini to work!”

The director of the legal department, Leroy was furious. “This is all your fault, Levi Garrison! You nearly ruined our lives. Do you see how terrible our lives were? You were the cause of our miseries!”

Kennelm shouted, “Serves you right for facing jail time! It was because of that only did we get the opportunity to flourish in our lives!”

“Levi Group has been doing so well since the Rogers family took control. The company is worth at least seven billion in the market now!” Someone mentioned.

Levi suddenly laughed. “The company’s value increased only a mere three billion in six years, and yet you’re so proud of that achievement?”

“That...” Everyone was stunned.

Levi continued, “Levi Group was already worth four billion during its first year of establishment. We were growing at an exponential rate. We even did a simulation to project our company’s growth. Levi Group would be considered a failure if the company failed to achieve a market value of less than fifty billion after 6 years!”

Everyone was rendered speechless. They knew Levi was indeed telling the truth because they were informed of the company’s potential in the past.

But Levi Group’s growth turned negative during its second year after Levi’s imprisonment. The company only showed gradual improvements in its performances for the subsequent years.

None of Levi Group’s employees knew that their core technology and advantages in the market were taken away by another party.

William retorted immediately when he saw that everybody had fell silent. “Nonsense! What you said was all hypothetical. How can you rely on that to survive in the business world? Can you guarantee a positive return every year?”

Melissa recollected her thoughts as well. “That’s right! There are so many changes in the market every year. You cannot possibly predict every turn of events!”

Eileen frowned. “Let’s be honest, Levi Garrison. We would only stay as mere lowly subordinates even if the company developed into a fifty billion corporation. There’s no way we would be as successful as we are now.”

Leroy, Kennelm, and the others agreed. “He’s right. Your achievements have got nothing to do with us. We wouldn’t be making as much money as we are now if we stayed under your management!”

The Protector Chapter 206

Melissa said, “You may not know this, Levi Garrison, but Mr. Atkinson has decided to increase all the employees’ salary since he acquired the company. I will be receiving a thirty percent increment as the vice-president of the company. You can calculate the additional amount yourself!”

“That’s right! Look at how generous Mr. Atkinson is. Don’t you feel ashamed by how petty you were?” Others mocked Levi.

Levi put on a wry smile. How can I be oblivious to this? I was the one that made the arrangements, after all.

Melissa lifted Levi’s chin daringly. “My beloved Mr. Garrison, I am not embarrassed to say this. You rejected me when I confessed to you when I was still working as your personal secretary. Do you regret your decision now? Do you still think that Zoey Lopez is better than me?”

Levi beamed at her. “That’s a given. Zoey is and always will be better than you.”

Melissa laughed out loud. “You’re a fool, Levi Garrison! That woman is close to announcing bankruptcy!”

“But she had received the necessary investment.” Levi firmly believed in Zoey’s capabilities. He knew she merely lacked the opportunities to prove herself. So he gave her the opportunity she needed the most.

“Hahaha...”

Everyone inside the room burst into laughter after listening to Levi.

“You’re hilarious, Levi Garrison! Don’t you know which company was the one that invested in Zoey’s company?”

“It’s our company, Levi Group, that provided her with the capital!”

“Although Mr. Atkinson proposed to invest in her company, most of the procedures are handled by us! Ms. Floyd has to sign the papers, and the investment has to go through the Director of Finance Department, Mr. Snyder! They are the people who will decide the fate of that money now!” Everyone sneered.

Melissa pointed at Levi. “To tell you the truth, Levi Garrison. We have the authority to decide whether Levi Group will invest in Zoey’s company. We can always pull out of the deal or postpone the date to transfer the money to them. Perhaps I can pull some tricks so that Zoey has to compensate us in return for violating the contract!”

William patted Levi’s shoulder. “Did you hear that, you arrogant scum? We are the ones that are in control of you and Zoey Lopez’s fates!”

“That’s right. You have to follow our orders obediently, Levi Garrison! Otherwise, we will force you and Zoey to the brink of desperation!” Kennelm laughed wickedly.

“Are you threatening me?” Levi could hardly contain his urge to laugh. I planned to expose these traitors tomorrow at the company. Well, they certainly saved the trouble by surrendering themselves now.

“Of course! Levi Group will pull out of the deal immediately with a single order from me! I will also include Zoey’s company on the blacklist. No one will dare to invest in Imperial Meadows after that. All she can do by that time is to wait for bankruptcy to knock on her door!” Melissa boasted.

“Then what should I do for all of you to let Zoey off the hook?” Levi asked.

Melissa straightened herself and walked toward the cart filled with numerous bottles of champagne. “That’s easy. We will let her off the hook if you obey our orders!”

Melissa Floyd grabbed a bottle of champagne after she spoke.

Bam!

The cork popped open all of a sudden as Melissa aimed the bottle at Levi.

Whoosh...

Levi was doused by the jet of champagne.

Everyone followed Melissa’s action.

Each of them took a bottle of champagne.

Bam!

Bam!

Bam!

...

The corks of the bottles popped open after they shook the bottles vigorously. Then they sprayed the champagnes in Levi’s direction.

Levi was thoroughly drenched in the champagne shower.

He finally knew the reason behind the large amount of drinks. They wanted to humiliate me with the bottles of champagne.

“Hahaha...”

Whoosh...

Sounds of their evil laughter were mixed with the splashing sound of champagne...

The Protector Chapter 207

All of them vented six years' worth of pent-up resentment in their chests at Levi. He was put to shame by everyone.

Soon, they wasted every bottle of champagne on Levi.

Levi did not care about the treatment. He merely acted as if he took a shower with the champagne. I will let them pay the price for what they did and what they are doing to me now tomorrow. They will taste cruelty at its finest tomorrow!

Kennelm was not satisfied. He shouted at Levi, "Get over here and lick my shoes clean!"

Leroy, Barclay, and the others mimicked Kennelm as well.

Levi ignored them.

William jeered at Levi. "You should take a look at yourself in the mirror now! How can you become so useless to the extent of not putting up any resistance? Weren't you a domineering boss six years ago? Where did that attitude of yours go? I can't even bring myself to insult you further after looking at how pitiful you are!"

Talia smirked. "If you kneel and let me ride on you while you crawl around the room, I will promise not to trouble Zoey in the future, Levi Garrison!"

Levi stood still.

Everyone thought he was hesitating.

"Kneel down right now! Don't you care about Zoey Lopez at all?"

"Know your place, Levi Garrison! You only deserve to live a lowly life like this from now on!"

Everyone hurled insults at him.

Melissa crossed her arms in front of her chest and sized up Levi proudly. "Do as I say immediately!"

Melissa could only be satisfied when she gets to step on Levi literally.

After all, she was a mere secretary in the past and was fired by Levi Garrison.

“That’s enough!” A girl stepped forward and stopped everyone at that moment.

Levi recognized the girl. She’s the intern I selected back in the day, Elena Holmes. I remember her for her professionalism.

Elena was one of the team leaders in the Finance Department now.

Inwardly, she was always grateful toward Levi.

“How can all of you forget about Mr. Garrison’s kindness? Do you think you will be where you are now if he didn’t hire you in the past? Moreover, he did not do anything wrong, so why do you hate him so much?” Elena raised her voice.

“Hmph! What are you doing, Elena? Don’t you hate him? Do you think you will accomplish your current success with him managing the company? Are you betraying us? Fine! You don’t have to come to work starting tomorrow. Hand in your resignation letter to the HR department tomorrow!” The director of the finance department, Bob Snyder scolded.

“That’s right. You’re fired!” Melissa spoke as well.

Elena broke down in tears. I was merely expressing my thoughts. Why am I fired?

Melissa said coldly after Elena began to cry. “Damn it! You’ve ruined the atmosphere. Let’s go back now. I need to prepare for tomorrow’s name-changing ceremony anyway!”

She sneered at Levi before leaving, “Don’t worry, Levi Garrison. This is not the end. I will mess Zoey Lopez’s life up if you do not obey me!”

Eileen took out two stacks of cash and tossed the money in Levi’s face. “Pay the bill later. You can keep the change, you filthy beggar!”

“Hahaha…” Everyone laughed. They felt contented after venting their anger and resentment.

Levi and Elena were left alone inside the private room.

“Do you regret what you did?” Levi asked.

Elena wiped the tears off her face and shook her head. “No! They’ve done some pretty despicable things to achieve their current success. I have wanted to part ways with them since a long time ago!”

The Protector Chapter 208

Levi nodded, satisfied with Elena’s determination. “Don’t worry. No one will fire you. Come to work as usual tomorrow.”

At that moment, Elena thought he saw glimpses of the thriving Levi Garrison from six years ago.

“Alright, Mr. Garrison. I will do as you say!” Elena answered.

...

Melissa and the other executives were filled with exhilaration after leaving the hotel.

“This is awesome! I still can’t believe we really toyed with Levi Garrison earlier!”

“That’s right. I can’t even find words to describe this amazing feeling!”

Melissa reminded them, “Alright, settle down. It’s time to go back and prepare for tomorrow’s name-changing ceremony. Levi... Morris Group will become a corporation worth over ten billion starting tomorrow. We are all going to have a better future going forward!”

“Understood!”

Everyone began to imagine how their lives would prosper.

Zoey’s heart ached when she saw how Levi looked when he returned home that night.

“I know everything. They sent me the video!”

William and his friends recorded the scene where Levi was showered with champagne and deliberately sent the video to Zoey earlier.

Tears welled up in Zoey’s eyes as she witnessed Levi’s helplessness.

“I heard you suffered the humiliation on your own accord because of me. This is all because of my incompetence. I can do nothing because Levi Group happens to be the investor! They are in control of my life now.” Zoey was filled with guilt.

Levi smiled. “It’s fine, dear. They will face retribution. I’m going to take a shower now. Help me prepare a set of fresh clothes. I will attend the name-changing ceremony for Levi Group tomorrow.”

“Okay!” Zoey stared at Levi’s figure from behind while thinking to herself. I will not let him suffer anymore in the future. I swear!

The next day, at Levi Group’s building.

Elena went to work as always.

But someone from the HR department handed Elena a discharge letter the moment she walked through the door. “You can leave this place after you receive your salary from the finance department. Elena Holmes, You’re hereby fired!”

Elena was stunned. She thought Levi had made the necessary arrangements for her. I guess he was only comforting me. Moreover, he can’t even protect Zoey Lopez since he was released from prison recently, it’s a given he won’t be able to protect me too. But I do not blame him and I will never regret the words I said last night!

Elena went to the finance department to receive the rest of her salary. Then she went to the HR department to deal with the discharge procedures.

People pointed at her and whispered among themselves wherever Elena went. Not only was she fired by Melissa and her gang, but they had also spread baseless scandals of Elena fooling around with aged men that has cost the company’s reputation.

“Girls like her may appear to be pure and innocent on the surface, but who knows? she might have slept with countless of old men!”

“That’s right! She’s always pretending to be innocent when in truth she’s just a slut...”

“I also heard that she gave birth to children for three aged men at the same time! She’s shameless!”

...

Unbearable insults and abusive remarks rang beside Elena’s ears on her way out of the company.

She could no longer contain herself as tears streamed down her cheeks uncontrollably.

At that moment, Melissa and the other executives saw the scene near the elevator. They sneered, “This is the repercussion for disobeying me!”

The other executives laughed smugly.

Elena ran out of the company with her head lowered.

Bam!

She bumped into someone.

Elena looked up only to see Levi Garrison in front of her.

“What’s the matter? Did they fire you?” Levi asked.

Elena nodded.

“Alright. Follow me. I will seek justice for you.”

Elena hesitated.

“Do you have faith in me?” Levi looked at Elena in an assertive manner.

“I do!” Elena decided to risk everything. I have nothing to lose anyway. What if this turns out to be a success?

The Protector Chapter 209

The name-changing ceremony was scheduled to begin at 10 o'clock in the morning.

However, the new owner of Levi Group, Neil Atkinson, hosted a meeting for all members of Levi Group's senior management at 8 o'clock in the morning.

Melissa and the others were waiting impatiently inside the meeting room.

She took out a compact mirror to check her makeup. “Do you think there's anything wrong with my outfit?” She asked Eileen Barn to help rearrange her clothes.

The others were tidying up their appearances as well.

After all, it was their first meeting with their new and mysterious boss. So they wanted to leave a good first impression.

Melissa was even prepared to offer her body. I will conquer the new owner of Levi Group! I did not climb so high up the corporate ladder with my capabilities alone. I'd achieved my current position because I've slept with Howard Corbyn, Oswald Rogers, and many other influential men. This is my go-to method to receive promotions, after all.

Over a hundred members of Levi Group's senior management had arrived inside the meeting room as they waited in silence.

They tensed up the moment they heard footsteps rang in the hallway.

A young man wearing sunglasses entered the meeting room while being surrounded by multiple assistants and secretaries.

Everyone hurriedly stood up.

Kirin's appearance surprised everyone after he removed his sunglasses. He's so young! I heard there are rumors saying that he is Morris Atkinson's uncle, but he's clearly more suited to be his younger brother!

Indeed, Kirin was only twenty years old at that time.

Melissa's eyes gleamed. I did not expect our new president to be a handsome young man. I can easily handle someone like him. I am sure he will succumb to my allure if I put in just a little effort.

Despite Kirin's young age, his domineering presence was distinguished. Everyone felt chills traveling down their spines when his gaze swept across the room.

"Everyone, please take a seat. Let me introduce myself. My name is Neil Atkinson, and I recently acquired both Levi Group and Garrison Group from the Rogers family. I am currently the acting president of these two corporations."

Melissa said immediately after Kirin introduced himself, "May I know what's the agenda for today's meeting, Mr. Atkinson? Please provide us with further instructions!"

Everyone was not enlightened of the reason behind the sudden meeting hosted by Kirin.

Kirin smiled. "Let's be patient and wait a little longer."

Melissa asked curiously, "Are we waiting for someone else? Do you mean there's another person who is going to attend this meeting, Mr. Atkinson?"

Kirin nodded. "Of course! Did I not make myself clear earlier? I am only the acting president. That means that I am only in charge of showing my face in public when dealing with all company-related matters."

Kennelm Pitt from the legal department raised a question. "Are you saying the real owner of Morris Group is another person and is making all the decisions from behind the scene?"

Kirin smiled. "Yes. You're right. To put this into simpler words, I am only working for my master."

Everyone gasped in astonishment. Neil Atkinson is already capable of taking control of the Rogers family's possession. How much more powerful can his master be?

Melissa responded instantaneously, "So what you're saying is that we are waiting for the real owner of the company?"

"Yes. That's right! He's the one that convened this meeting, and he will be here soon." Kirin answered.

Everyone felt more anxious than before. Who is the new owner of Morris Group?

Time seemed to crawl slower as every minute felt like a century.

Everyone inside the meeting room straightened themselves in their seats when they heard footsteps reverberated in the hallway.

The door to the meeting room was pushed open.

But the person who entered the room was Elena Holmes.

Even Kirin was momentarily dazed. Who is she?

All the executives were enraged to see Elena, especially the director of the finance department, Bob Snyder. He chided at once, "What are you doing here, Elena Holmes? This is an exclusive meeting room for the senior management of the company. You're already fired, so why are you here?"

Melissa was angered too. "Yeah, what are you doing here? Do you think you are qualified to be here? Tell me, who permitted you to come in here?"

The Protector Chapter 210

"I'm the one that permitted her to enter!" A man's voice was heard at that moment.

Levi made his appearance as everyone inside the room stared in his direction. He entered the meeting room together with Elena.

"What is the meaning of this, Levi Garrison? You do not belong here! Melissa rebuked him in rage. Then she pointed at the director of the security department. "What's the matter with you? Why did you allow a scum like him to enter the building? He even managed to come all the way up here!"

"That's right! What are you doing here, Levi Garrison?"

"Do you think Levi Garrison can support you, Elena? He's just a piece of trash!"

Leroy, Kennelm and the others were hopping mad at the moment. What will happen if they offend Mr. Atkinson?

But something unbelievable and unimaginable happened the next moment.

Levi walked toward the front of the meeting room where Kirin was seated.

Kirin regarded Levi with admiration and offered him the seat politely. "You're here?"

Levi took the seat and crossed his legs on the tabletop. He answered cheerfully. "All of you were asking me for a reason behind my appearance. Well, I am here to attend the meeting!"

Kirin reported next to him. "Sir, all 107 members of Levi Group's senior management is here. Please provide us with further instructions!"

Boom!

Kirin's words hit everyone inside the room like a ton of bricks.

Boom, boom, boom...

Everyone was shocked to their cores. They were in utter disbelief. Levi Garrison is the owner of Levi Group?

Elena frowned as her mind went completely blank.

Melissa, who was closest to where Levi was seated, felt her heart stop beating altogether at that moment. Her breathing ceased, and her face turned paper-white like that of a lifeless body.

Barclay Burns, William Hanks, Eileen Barn, and Leroy Bird were petrified.

...

Everyone inside the room was dumbfounded.

No one expected the new owner of Levi Group to be Levi Garrison. Wasn't he released from prison a short while ago? He should be penniless, so how is he capable of acquiring Levi Group?

At that moment, clarity washed over Melissa and the others. Neil Atkinson is not related to Morris Atkinson. Levi Garrison wants to commemorate Morris Atkinson, so he's changing the company's name to Morris Group! He's also the reason why Morris's parents can stay in that luxurious villa. Levi Group is determined to invest in Zoey's company despite the ban ordered by the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce because Levi Garrison is still in charge of the company!

...

All the questions troubling their minds were resolved in that instance.

The thought of Levi Garrison being the new owner of the company never crossed anyone's mind because Levi was totally out of their considerations.

Levi glanced at Melissa and her friends. Then he beamed at them. "Hello everyone, we meet again!"

Kennelm Pitt, who was relatively aged, passed out on the floor with a thud when he was reminded of the insults he directed toward Levi last night.

Barclay Burns and William Hanks trembled frightfully. They felt a hot and humid sensation trickling down their legs as a pool of steaming liquid formed where they stood.

They literally peed in their pants out of fear.

Leroy Bird, Bob Snyder, and the others slumped into their seats as their legs turned to jelly. All their strengths appeared to have seeped away from their bodies.

Eileen Barn cried in terror.

Melissa crumbled under the overwhelming pressure as she saw that Levi was staring at her the entire time.

She felt like puking a mouthful of blood.

Bizarre reactions were observed on those who participated in the gathering last night.

Everyone was confused by that peculiar scene, including Kirin.

Levi slowly took out a cigarette and Kirin hurriedly lit the cigarette for him.

Everyone felt restless and uneasy.

After taking a puff of his cigarette, Levi said. "Tell me, what should I do about what transpired last night?"

The Protector Chapter 211

Levi's words sounded like the Grim Reaper's calling to Melissa and her friends.

Thud!

Thud!

Thud!

...

Melissa and 38 other members of the senior management knelt on the floor.

Thump, thump, thump...

They slammed their foreheads against the ground frantically.

All of them did not seem to care, even as their foreheads were bleeding. That was the least of their concerns because they sensed death closing in on them.

William Hanks and Melissa Floyd were feeling the most fear out of everyone who knelt on the ground because William was the one that suggested the gathering, while Melissa orchestrated the rest.

Levi's voice rang beside William's ears all of a sudden. 'I am still your boss'. He was telling the truth!

Levi waved his hand. "The rest of you stand behind me."

Everyone did not understand Levi's intention, but they gathered behind him anyway.

Melissa Floyd and 38 other people were the only ones left kneeling inside the spacious meeting room.

They did not stop slamming their heads against the floor.

Many were already bleeding profusely from their foreheads.

"Please forgive us, Mr. Garrison! We've made a mistake. We've committed a grave error!"

Oh! How we regretted our actions! Why did we provoke Levi Garrison? This is all William's fault! We would not have sought revenge against Levi in the first place if it were not for him. Levi Garrison was long gone from our minds previously!

Everyone shot a resentful look toward William Hanks. They wanted so badly to rip him apart.

Levi remained indifferent while they begged him for mercy. He ordered loudly, “Bring the things here!”

Over a dozen muscular men clad in black outfit entered the meeting room at once. Each of them carried a tightly sealed wooden barrel with unknown content.

The people kneeling on the floor felt their hearts sank with a thud as they sensed something bad was about to happen, looking at those tightly sealed barrels.

Levi grinned. “Don’t you guys enjoy showing off your allures by soaking yourselves in champagne? Let me fulfil your desires today!”

The burly men removed the caps of the barrels right after Levi waved his hands.

“So smelly!”

A horrible stench filled the room instantly. Everyone felt as if they fell into a cesspit because the reek was unbearable.

“Could it be...”

Everyone had guessed the content of the barrels. Manure!

Whoosh!

...

The muscular men dumped over ten barrels of manure over the heads of Melissa and her gang.

Levi deliberately prepared a manure shower for them.

“Aargghhh...” They shrieked.

All of them dressed glamorously for the meeting, but they were now covered in manure from heads to toes. The filth even entered their mouths...

The others, who witnessed the scene, could never imagined that the highly-paid elites of the society were met with such an outcome. This is the worst punishment ever!

“These people are now fired and permanently blacklisted from reentering Levi Group!” Levi announced.

“Ahhh!”

Hysterical wails filled the meeting room once again. That penalty meant that our lives are officially ruined!

Levi glanced at the miserable crowd and added, “Elena Holmes will be Morris Group’s Finance Department Director from now on!”

Unprecedented excitement washed over Elena. This is unbelievable! Not only am I not fired from the company, but I am also promoted to the department director’s position. This unexpected turn of events is happening only because I stood up against them last night!

Melissa and her friends were astounded to hear Elena’s promotion. Karma really is a b*!

Levi straightened himself and ordered coldly, “Clean up the mess, especially those trashes. I don’t want to see them in here anymore!”

“Yes, Sir!” Kirin nodded.

Levi led the rest of the crowd to another meeting room.

Members of Garrison Group’s senior management were waiting for them in that room.

The first thing that Levi did was to incorporate Garrison Group into Levi Group.

The Garrison family had prepared everything, so all Levi had to do was to sign the papers.

The Protector Chapter 212

The ceremony to change the company’s name was held after all preparations were in place.

All the reporters from every major media and newspaper gathered to witness the ceremony.

A stage and various equipment were installed on the spacious plaza in front of Levi Group’s building.

Levi remained hidden as usual. He sat inside his office, casting his gaze outside the window with the entire North Hampton’s view spanned before him.

He could observe the happenings at the plaza clearly from where he sat.

Kirin would be the person to attend the ceremony this time. But he wore sunglasses to cover up his face as usual.

“Should I attend the ceremony now, Sir?”

“Go ahead.”

At that moment, Levi could see a few mysterious and unwelcome guests lurking around the venue as his eyes swept through the crowd. They are probably men from the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce or other business competitors. I suppose they are here to investigate Niel Atkinson's identity.

The name-changing ceremony began at 10 o'clock.

Kirin walked up the stage with all eyes on him.

The reporters spammed the shutters on their camera continuously.

Countless powerful men in the industry began searching for Kirin's background information as his pictures and videos spread like wildfire.

But Kirin's sunglasses fulfilled its function as everyone had a hard time recognizing his facial features. Their intensive search resulted in nothing. No one could figure out anything about Niel Atkinson.

Standing next to Neil were the people in charge of Levi Group and Garrison Group previously.

Mr. and Mrs. Atkinson attended the ceremony as well. They wanted to witness that significant moment.

Kirin made the official announcement. "Levi Group and Garrison Group has signed a merger agreement earlier. These two corporations will join forces from now on and operates under the name, Morris Group."

Bam, bam, bam...

A stir rippled across the crowd as ceremonial flowers shot up into the sky.

Mr. and Mrs. Atkinson were tear-stricken. They looked up the sky and sobbed. "Are you seeing this, son? The company is now named after you!"

The reporters were getting impatient at that point. "May I know what's your relationship with Mr. Morris Atkinson, Mr. Atkinson?"

"Please describe your relationship with Mr. Neil Atkinson, Mr. Rowen Atkinson."

The reporters were very interested in the relationship between the two parties.

Kirin smiled pensively. "Relationship? Well, all I can say is that we're a family!"

Kirin's statement provided food for thought for the reporters. There was obviously a hidden meaning behind his words, but none of the reporters could figure out what he was implying.

They tried to sound Kirin out with further questions, but Kirin answered without revealing anything.

The question and answer session with the reporters ended swiftly.

The subsequent segment was the highlight of the ceremony. They were going to change the inscribed board of the company from Levi Group to Morris Group.

The name-changing ceremony could only be considered a success after they changed the inscribed board.

The workers quickly brought the new board over and removed the old, inscribed board for Levi Group.

Kirin was about to hang the new inscribed board to officiate the event when chaos erupted at the scene.

“Something is happening! Look over there!” Someone shouted all of a sudden.

Over a hundred men clad in black clothes appeared out of nowhere and headed in the direction of the stage.

They wore face masks to cover up their faces and wielded baseball bats in each of their hands.

Everyone was frightened by the imposing manner of those scary men.

“Break everything! Crash this whole place!” The man leading the way shouted.

The men in black hastened their steps and surged forward.

The media and the guests of honor gathered around the stage were startled.

All hell broke loose at the scene.

The Protector Chapter 213

The men had only one goal. They wanted to disrupt the name-changing ceremony and thoroughly discredit Neil Atkinson as well as Levi Group.

All of them raised the baseball bats in their hands and rushed forward.

They were merely fifty meter away from the venue...

Levi witnessed everything from the president's office.

A voice was heard through the earpiece Levi was wearing. “Sir, all thirty snipers have locked on to the targets. Please provide us with further instruction.”

No one knew that a few teams of snipers had surrounded Levi Group's building by positioning themselves in the skyscrapers nearby. The snipers aimed their rifles at the incoming mob.

They had been waiting for those men in black to show up.

Levi gave the order as the mob moved closer to the crowd. “Shoot.”

Azure Dragon relayed Levi’s order as he commanded. “Attention to all sniper teams. Shoot. I repeat. Shoot.”

thirty snipers began to execute the order simultaneously.

The man charging ahead of the mob lost his balance and fell face first to the floor.

Thump!

Thump!

Thump!

The rest of the men armed with baseball bats were shot after a split second and they fell onto the ground as well.

Kirin and the others stared at the astonishing sight as over a hundred men fell onto the ground and stayed motionless afterward.

No one expected that to happen. What’s wrong with them? Why are they lying on the ground now? They were charging toward us just a few moments ago.

Everyone was puzzled, including those lying on the floor. The angry mob lay on the ground with their bodies numbed. They could not muster any strength regardless of how hard they tried. No one could figure out what had actually happened.

Inside the president’s office.

Azure Dragon’s voice was heard from the earpiece. “Sir, the sniper teams had accomplished their mission.”

“Well done. Retreat.” Levi commanded.

The snipers disappeared without a trace upon receiving the order.

The snipers had loaded their rifles with shots containing anesthetics instead of real bullets.

The dose of the anesthetic shots was potent enough to paralyze even an elephant.

Most importantly, the shots would not leave any visible wound on the skin.

Kirin addressed the crowd after everyone calmed down. “Well, it seems like there’s a lot of people that are eager to congratulate us for the success of this name-changing ceremony. I am beyond honored. Thank you!”

The people lying on the ground felt extremely uncomfortable. Their bodies would not move, so they could not escape even if they wanted to.

In the end, all of them bore witness as Kirin changed the new inscribed board and officially renamed the company to Morris Group.

Xavier Fields sent his men to capture the entire mob after the ceremony ended.

The anesthetics wore off by the time they arrived at the police station.

They had no way to figure out what happened to them at that point. But none of them could escape punishment for harassing the public.

Those men were actually recruited by the North Hampton Whirlwind Security Company.

...

A few elderlies gathered beside a famous lake in North Hampton.

They were Eric Robinson, Baldwin Williamson, and the gang.

Clifford Anderson said grimly. "But that's impossible! I did not turn to the underworld bosses for help because I wanted a secured outcome. So I deliberately assigned this task to the prestigious Whirlwind Security Company. I requested them to complete the task as quickly as possible and flee the scene afterward. I did not expect them to commit such a blunder!"

The Protector Chapter 214

Wallace Henderson was caught in perplexity. “That’s right. Most of the men recruited by Whirlwind Security Company are ex-policemen and ex-soldiers. They are well-known for their efficiency and skills. I heard the team leaders were even mercenaries in the past. So why did they fell flat on their face all of a sudden?”

Eric took a deep breath. “This must be Neil Atkinson’s doing. He made the preparations in advance. But I do not understand how all of them fell at the same time. Even those men who experienced that bizarre fall did not know what happened to them.”

Baldwin stroked his chin. “Perhaps we underestimated Neil Atkinson! By the way, have you figured out his identity yet?”

The rest of them shook their heads. “We’ve utilized all our connections to investigate his identity, but nothing came up. His information seems to be classified.”

At that moment, the heir to the Anderson family, Virgil Anderson, walked hastily toward the elderlies. “Father, Uncles, the vice commander-in-chief, Mr. Hoyles, from the warzone has updated me with the latest news. He told me he is somewhat familiar with Neil Atkinson, and he is still investigating this matter. He wanted me to reassure all of you to be patient because he will find out Neil’s identity sooner or later.”

Eric Robinson’s son, Sheldon Robinson, brought news as well. “Mr. Cooke told me Neil came from the Northwest region. He is still trying to look into other aspects of his background.”

Grover’s information was accurate. Kirin was indeed serving the army in the Northwest warzone.

“Haha! That’s great! We will observe Morris Group’s plan for now.” Eric said.

Clifford nodded. “I’ve dealt with Whirlwind Security Company. The North Hampton Chamber of Commerce will have nothing to do with them.”

...

Inside Morris Group.

Levi proposed future development plans for the company. “We lack staff at the moment because we fired a lot of executives previously. Moreover, we’ve recently acquired Garrison Group as well. First, we have to recruit the company’s veterans who left due to pressure in the past. Then we will absorb talents from all over Erudia into our company.”

Kirin scratched his head embarrassingly. “I am adept at war and training soldiers, Sir. But doing business is not my forte.”

“The North Hampton Chamber of Commerce had taken control of Levi Group’s core technology, but these pieces of information has been carved into my mind. We will produce similar products as them and sell our items at a lower price...” Levi smiled cunningly.

Kirin gave him a thumbs-up. This is a brilliant move. Our products will certainly affect the existing market if we offer a more competitive price. More importantly, they’ve stolen our technology. So they cannot stir up trouble either to prevent exposing their crime. They can only stand by and watch as Morris Group take over the entire market little by little.

“We cannot leave the vice-president position empty. I need to find someone capable of taking up this responsibility. Have you found a suitable candidate?” Levi asked.

Kirin nodded. “Yes, Sir. I’ve shortlisted two very competent candidates. They will be here to attend the interview tomorrow.”

Levi was satisfied with Kirin’s efficiency. “Great. I will participate in the interview tomorrow to select the best candidate.”

Levi returned home late in the night. He spent some time chatting with Zoey.

Zoey was amazed. “Mr. Atkinson is so impressive!” Evidently, she had seen the news report that day.

Levi had the urge to inform her that Neil Atkinson did not know a thing in the field of business.

“Oh! Did you know? My best friend, Iris Anabelle, is returning from overseas. I’m a little busy tomorrow, so can you help me pick her up at the airport?” Zoey asked.

“Okay. I’ll pick her up tomorrow.”

Levi was acquainted with Iris too. She was a top beauty, on par with Zoey, in the past during their high school years.

The Protector Chapter 215

Iris is a very competent person. She obtained two Master’s Degrees from two of the top universities in the country, then she studied abroad and stayed there to develop her career in the finance industry. Zoey was curious. She’s doing so well abroad at the moment. So why is she returning to the country all of a sudden?

Levi was puzzled too. It’s best to not try to figure out a woman’s thought process. They are complicated beings after all.

“What did she say to you?” Levi asked.

Zoey answered joyfully. “She told me she’s returning to North Hampton to develop her career. She has even bought a house here!”

However, Zoey frowned slightly as confusion glinted in her mesmerizing eyes. I wonder which company in North Hampton is capable of attracting Iris’s attention?

The next day, Levi drove Zoey’s car to the airport early in the morning.

Levi waited for a short while at the airport’s exit before Iris Anabelle showed up.

Iris was a slender woman at the height of 170cm. Her long legs were even comparable to professional models. She wore a pair of Ferragamo high heels and a black coat. Iris appeared to be overbearing and indifferent while wearing a pair of shades on her delicate face.

Her temperament was outstanding to the extent of convincing others to think of her as a famous star. Passers-by began taking photos of her with their phones.

Iris recognized Levi immediately. She strode up to him and tossed him her luggage.

“Send me to Morris Group before 9 o’clock. I’m in a hurry.” She demanded.

Levi felt helpless as he thought to himself. I came all the way here to pick you up. Not only did you fail to show your gratitude, but you are treating me like your servant?

But he stuffed the luggage into the trunk anyway.

“There’s only an hour left. Hurry up!”

Iris ordered harshly after she eyed her expensive Patek Philippe wristwatch upon entering the car.

“Alright. I’ll make sure you reach in time.” Levi started the engine.

Iris removed her shades, revealing her delicate facial features and flawless complexion. Iris Anabelle was definitely a woman with beauty comparable to that of Zoey Lopez.

She sized up Levi. “You’re still planning to stay by Zoey’s side?” She asked out of the blue.

“Why should I leave her?” Levi was bewildered.

“Because you do not deserve her! Putting aside your poverty, the fact that you were imprisoned previously was sufficient to make you an unworthy partner for Zoey. I am not discriminating against you, but your tainted record will affect Zoey’s future. Her company is getting on the right track now. She will expand her business after receiving the investment from Morris Group. When that time comes, Zoey can finally cut ties with the Lopez family. She will be one of the most respectable figures in North Hampton’s business world. What about you? What can you contribute to her success except being a burden for staying by her side? Others will jeer at her because of your bad record, not to mention the reason behind your imprisonment will be discussed behind Zoey's back when she's successful. You probably cannot fathom the impact of this issue, but you can see what I'm trying to tell you, right? You and Zoey will not benefit from staying together!"

Iris spoke eloquently as she bombarded Levi with her own opinions.

She continued upon noticing Levi's silence. "Also, I no longer see any fighting spirit in you. You are no longer the same Levi Garrison from before. You bowed down in the face of harsh reality. The Levi Garrison from six years ago will not stoop so low as to chauffeur me from the airport."

Levi glanced at Iris through the rearview mirror. He asked. "So?"

"So you have to get a divorce with Zoey! I will interfere and handle this matter once I settle down here." Iris said domineeringly.

The Protector Chapter 216

Levi put on a wry smile. "You have got to be kidding me! I'm not married to you anyway."

"Zoey is my best friend. I cannot allow her to ruin her life!" Iris said coldly. "Unless..."

"Unless what?" Her words piqued Levi's interest.

"Unless you become successful again. You have to be as accomplished as Zoey to deserve her. Otherwise, I will never agree for you to stay by her side!"

Levi laughed. "I am the one who aided Zoey to achieve her current success, you know?"

Iris grimaced. She questioned Levi in an icy tone. "Are you telling me that you regained control of Levi Group and proposed to change the company's name to Morris Group?"

Levi grinned. "You're a smart lass all right! You're absolutely correct!"

"Can you be a little more grounded, Levi Garrison? You're ridiculous! I've researched everything about Morris Group. The Chairman of the company, Neil Atkinson, has got nothing to do with you!"

Iris kept quiet after she spoke her piece.

Pin drop silence filled the atmosphere inside the car.

Since young, Iris had been an assertive and domineering person, not to mention she had the abilities to back up her attitude.

She became more arrogant after she accumulated experiences and established her reputation in the financial world abroad.

Iris would only treat a few formidable figures in the financial world with respect at that point. I did not care to take Levi Garrison in the past seriously, much less this Levi Garrison who was recently released from prison! I realize he's a really terrible man after that brief conversation we had. Women like me and Zoey are far too good for someone as lowly as him. I've made up my mind. One of my goals for returning to the country is to separate Levi from Zoey!

They arrived at Morris Group after a short while.

"Bring my luggage back to Zoey's place for now. I will contact Zoey again at night." Iris took a few bills and tossed the money at Levi before getting out of the car. "Don't worry. I'm paying you for your hard work."

In Iris's opinion, Levi was a mere servant who can be tasked around with money.

Levi thought to himself as he looked at the money now lying on the passenger seat. She's humiliating me with money! Whatever. I'll bring her luggage back for now.

Kirin called just as Levi was about to leave. "Where are you, Sir? Both candidates have just arrived. We'll be starting the interview at 10 o'clock sharp, as I mentioned previously."

Levi patted his head after listening to Kirin's reminder. I totally forgot about this because of Iris. "I'm already here. I'll head upstairs right away." Levi answered.

"Alright. I will make the arrangements now." Kirin said.

Kirin had settled everything by the time Levi reached his office.

Inside his office was a screen showing the live surveillance footage inside the meeting room. Both candidates would undergo their interviews in the meeting room in a short while.

Kirin was present inside the meeting room. But he was merely there to show his face. The other executives would be the ones to question the candidates. Elena Holmes was one of the executives to participate in the interview.

Kirin was wearing an earpiece to relay Levi's questions to the candidates.

"The first candidate, please enter now."

Thus, the interview officially began. The first candidate was a woman. She had a slender body figure and captivating looks.

Levi was dumbfounded when he saw the woman's appearance through the screen. That's Iris Anabelle! So that's why she returned from abroad. She's here to apply for the vice-president position in Morris Group!

The Protector Chapter 217

No wonder she asked me to send her here. This is all Iris's fault. I would've grasped the situation earlier if she did not bash me with all those insults just now.

Iris's interview started before Levi could recollect his thoughts.

She was indeed a highly competent candidate as she wasted no time to impress the interviewers with her performance.

Levi recomposed himself and began questioning her through Kirin.

Levi's inquiries were all in point and reflected his professionalism.

Iris was amazed whenever Kirin asked her the questions. This Neil Atkinson is a remarkable man! The way he tackles a situation from a unique point of view is simply astounding! He's a business prodigy. My career can only flourish under the leadership of a brilliant man like him. This will be a great opportunity to polish and further enhance my talents.

However, what Iris didn't know was that it was Levi who was coming up with the questions.

She resolved all the queries one after the other in a calm and collected manner.

She'd prepared herself thoroughly before attending this interview. She has considered Morris Group's future and laid out detailed plans to further advance the company in this industry. Levi thought Iris was indeed a capable person for the job. This is the type of talent I need in my company!

"Kirin, tell her she's hired." Levi said.

Kirin hesitated. Then he whispered. "Sir, there's another candidate who hasn't undergo the interview. Don't you wish to compare the candidates?"

"That's not needed. She's the person I need to fill in the position. Ask the other candidate to apply for another executive position." Levi answered.

Inside the meeting room.

Kirin put on a dazzling smile. "Congratulations, Ms. Anabelle. You are officially hired as the vice-president of Morris Group. Please familiarize yourself with the work environment today. You can start working tomorrow once you're done handling the onboarding process with the HR department."

"This..." The other executives inside the room were stunned.

Even Iris was taken aback. I have the confidence to land this job. But to make this announcement right here right now is unexpected. Under normal circumstances, the executives will have to discuss and come up with a decision for a matter as important as this. Moreover, there's another candidate that is waiting outside the room.

Elena asked, "What about the other candidate, Mr. Atkinson?"

Kirin smiled. "Ms. Anabelle is the right person for this job. Ask the other candidate to apply for another position."

"Understood."

Iris was astonished. She could not help but admire Kirin's decisiveness. He's a resolute yet eccentric man. Only great men can possess a personality like this. I've come to the right place!

Iris walked up to Kirin, intending to discuss work-related matters. But Kirin responded in a friendly manner. "I'll be frank, Ms. Anabelle. I'm just another employee of this corporation. The true owner of this company is another man. He was the one who interviewed you earlier."

Shocked, Iris inquired about the company's owner and even requested to meet with him.

"You'll get the chance to meet him in the future."

Back in Levi's office.

Kirin wiped the cold sweat off his forehead. "Isn't that decision too hasty, Sir?"

Levi smiled. "Not at all! That woman is bold and she can think outside the box. That kind of character is needed for a company's constant development. I scanned through the other candidate's resume, and his style is not what I'm looking for."

Levi had already made the comparison in advance. Then he curled his lips and thought to himself. I'm guessing you never expected me to become your superior, am I right, Iris Anabelle?

Iris handled her onboarding procedures at the HR department and toured around the company before exiting with a pile of documents in her hands.

Unexpectedly, she was surprised to find Levi waiting for her at the entrance.

Levi had just reached the entrance too.

Iris eyed Levi confusedly. Then she took out more money from her purse and tossed the cash to Levi after entering the car. "Consider this the fee as well as your tips since you waited for me." Iris said.

She had gotten used to the norm abroad where people would tip the waiters, valets, and cab drivers for their services. In Iris's opinion, Levi was the same standard as those people, perhaps even more inferior than them.

Levi took the cash and stashed the money into his wallet.

Iris shook her head and sighed at that sight. He's willing to accept the money without any complaint. He really doesn't deserve Zoey anymore.

Levi added. "You're even tipping me? Did you strike gold earlier?"

Iris pointed at Morris Group. "Do you know this place?"

Levi nodded. "Of course. This place used to be Levi Group."

"Yes. Morris Group had acquired Garrison Group. This company's assets are worth more than ten billion now, so the prospect is something to behold. I am the newly-hired vice-president of Morris Group. I do not prioritize the salary, but they are paying me seventy million annually." Iris explained to Levi as if that was an insignificant matter. I can earn this much money while I was abroad anyway. I applied for this job in Morris Group mainly to fulfill my dreams.

"Congratulations then!" Levi grinned. He added to himself internally. I'm afraid you will never know this. But I am your boss, I will be the one that get to decide the amount of your annual salary.

Levi brought Iris back to Bayview Garden.

She was stunned after taking a look at the house. "You bought this?" Iris asked with uncertainty.

"Oh, no. We rent this place." Levi answered.

"Hahaha..." Iris laughed out loud. "Don't you feel ashamed, Levi Garrison? You are asking Zoey to stay in a rental house with you? Let me guess, Zoey pays for the rent too?" There's no way Levi can afford to pay the monthly rent for this place. A luxurious house like this costs at least ten thousand a month to rent.

Levi nodded. "Yes. Zoey is paying the rent."

"If I married a man like you, I would've divorced you without any hesitation. You are just a burden to Zoey!" Iris glared at Levi. "Don't you dare spew nonsense about love in front of me. If you do love Zoey, you should leave her with her best interest in your heart!"

Levi sneered. "You're underestimating me too much, woman. Believe me when I say this. I'm the one that gave you and Zoey everything you have."

Pffft! Iris rolled her eyes at Levi. Ridiculous! He's outrageous. The only improvement I can see in him is his ability to talk big shamelessly.

“I don’t mind marrying you if what you said is the truth!” Iris trembled with rage.

“Remember what you just said. Do not regret your decision in the future.” Levi beamed at her.

Iris was about to lose her mind when she saw Levi sizing her up. He’s a scumbag!

She went into the guest room and slammed the door behind her, reluctant to see Levi’s face for a second longer.

In the afternoon, Zoey returned home earlier than expected.

“Let’s go out and celebrate your return to the country, Iris!” Zoey was very excited.

“Sure. It’s my treat today since I got the job!” Iris said with a smile.

“That’s great!” Zoey was genuinely happy for her best friend.

“There will be plenty of opportunities for us to collaborate in the future, Zoey. I’ll definitely help you out with the investments.”

“Let’s go and have our meal!”

Iris said to Zoey straightforwardly when she saw Levi coming out from his room. “I need to talk to you about an unpleasant matter.”

Zoey was confounded. “What do you mean?”

“You should divorce Levi.” Iris added. “I believe your parents and relatives will agree with me for you to split up with him.”

“What? Divorce?”

The Protector Chapter 219

A Porsche 911, worth over a million, was parked outside the house when they arrived at the entrance.

“My car is here!” Iris opened the car door and entered the driver seat.

She had purchased everything she needed before her return to the country. One of the cars she bought was this Porsche 911, while the house she acquired was next to Levi and Zoey in Bayview Garden.

“Get in, Zoey!” Iris shouted.

Zoey hesitated. There are only two seats available in this sports car. What about Levi?

“Hmph! Let him take a cab. Do not drive there, Levi Garrison! The place we are going to does not allow any car below one million to enter.” Iris reminded Levi sternly. I am going to show him the difference between our standards right here and now. He should just take a cab there instead of sticking out like a sore thumb at that high-end restaurant for driving a cheap car.

In the end, Zoey joined Iris in her car while Levi took a cab to their destination.

Royale Club Restaurant was located in a secluded place. The restaurant accepted only customers with advanced booking. Any customer who wished to dine in must register as a member by paying a two million registration fee. Besides, they had to book a table a week, or even a month earlier. The reason behind the hassle was the expensive ingredients that required advanced preparation.

The Royale Club Restaurant was part of Leo Rogers’s business. The place was nominally run by the Rogers family, but Levi was the actual owner.

Numerous luxurious cars were parked outside the restaurant. Even Iris’s Porsche 911 did not seem significant among the expensive cars.

She jeered at Levi. “Do you see this, Levi Garrison? Zoey and I are people who deserve such lavish lifestyle. You don’t have a thing you can provide for Zoey. You are just an embarrassment and a burden to her!”

Levi ignored her.

Iris showed her member card to enter the restaurant, but her card was merely an entry-level silver card.

She waved the member card in her hand. “Do you see this card? I have to pay two million a year just to qualify as the lowest ranking member in this restaurant!” Iris glanced at Zoey. “I’m sorry to say this in front of you, Zoey, but Levi Garrison will never get the chance to step into this place without us.”

Zoey was caught in a difficult position. But she could do nothing about Iris’s blatant personality.

“Welcome!”

For some unknown reasons, every staff inside the restaurant was looking at the trio apprehensively with respect and even fear.

Iris did not know what was going on either. What’s with these people? Am I that scary-looking?

Little did she know, they were actually wary of Levi’s presence. Every member of the Rogers family was afraid of Levi more than anyone else.

The manager of Royale Club Restaurant, Alger Palmer, immediately rushed over to greet them. “Esteemed Mr. Garrison, Ms. Anabelle, and Ms. Lopez, welcome!”

All the other waiters and waitresses raised their voices at once. “Welcome to Royale Club Restaurant!”

Then Alger shouted. “Clear the tables. Ask all the other patrons to leave right away! Our restaurant will only serve Mr. Garrison and his guests tonight!”

Soon, Levi, Zoey, and Iris were the only patrons left.

Zoey and Iris were in disbelief as they witnessed that scene. What? What’s happening? Are they chasing all the other patrons away because of me? But I am only a silver member here. I believe there were other gold, platinum, and diamond-ranked patrons dining here earlier.

In the end, Levi and the ladies were arranged to sit in the best spot inside the restaurant.

Iris was confused. This seat is only open for diamond card members, and that’s equivalent to spending fifty million in this place every year. My card obviously does not fulfil that requirement!

The Protector Chapter

220

Why am I allowed to sit here when I am only a silver card member? Something's wrong. There must be something going on here. I've sensed the bizarre atmosphere since we walked through the door earlier.

"Are you satisfied with our services, Mr. Garrison and esteemed guests?" Alger sought out their opinions while looking at Levi, naturally.

Levi replied with a smile. "It's acceptable."

Zoey was anxious while Iris said coldly. "What are you talking about, Levi Garrison? You're not qualified to voice out your opinion in a place like this."

Clarity washed over Alger Palmer instantaneously. These two ladies must not be aware of Levi Garrison's identity. He quickly smoothed things over. "Please calm down, Ms. Anabelle. We accept every feedback given by our patrons. You can even give us suggestions as to how we can improve our services. We will try our best to please Mr. Garrison!" Leo Rogers's words rang beside Alger's ears as he shuddered fearfully. You will suffer greatly if anyone inside the restaurant displeases Levi Garrison.

Maintaining Levi's good mood was the utmost priority for every staff in Royale Club Restaurant at that moment.

Alger bowed deeply while asking for Levi's opinion. "Do you have any suggestion for us, Mr. Garrison?"

"I do have one suggestion. Hurry up and serve the dishes. I am famished!" Levi said impatiently.

Alger waved his hand at once. "Hurry up and serve the dishes. Bring out all the best dishes we have in the restaurant immediately!"

"That's the spirit!"

Alger was visibly excited to receive a compliment from Levi.

He took out a handkerchief to clean Levi's leather shoes after noticing some stain. "There is some dirt on your shoes, Mr. Garrison. Let me wipe off the stain for you."

Zoey and Iris widened their eyes incredulously.

They stare in horror as Alger crouched down to clean Levi's shoes. Oh my God! What's going on?

They were aware of Alger's elevated status as the manager of Royale Club Restaurant. Most wealthy people had to pay their respect to him because the restaurant was part of the Rogers family's business, after all.

So what is he doing, cleaning Levi's shoes in front of us? Who is Levi, actually? This is unbelievable!

The entire table was swiftly filled with freshly-prepared dishes after Zoey and Iris recovered from their momentary daze.

Iris was shocked when she saw the dishes served on the table. These are not what I ordered. All these dishes are the most expensive items on the menu because of the rarity of the ingredients. This meal alone will cost me over two hundred thousand!

Iris smiled awkwardly. "Is there an error with the kitchen? These are not the dishes I ordered."

Alger answered with a courteous smile. "Please be rest assured, Ms. Anabelle and Ms. Lopez. This meal is completely free of charge. All of you have the right to dine in here anytime, without any booking and payment!"

Iris was bewildered. "This... this... But manager, I am only a silver card member!"

"That's alright. All of you can enjoy more benefits than those entitled to diamond card members." Alger added.

Iris and Zoey were caught in perplexity. They gazed at Levi, who was stuffing his face with the luscious foods at the moment. It seems like he's the crux of all that's happening...

Iris could not contain her curiosity. "Who are you, Levi Garrison? We seem to be receiving all these extraordinary treatments because of you."

Levi responded without even looking at her. "You're right. It is because of me."

“Then who are you?” Iris gulped as anxiety crept into her heart.

Zoey tensed up as well.

Levi wiped his mouth and answered. “I am the owner of this restaurant. So it’s only natural that I can enjoy everything here as I like.”

Silence filled the air after Levi spoke.

The Protector Chapter 221

Zoey and Iris were petrified. They were slightly convinced by Levi’s statement at that moment. This is the only logical explanation. Firstly, they chased all the other patrons away upon our arrival, then they served all their finest dishes to us for free, not to forget, the manager of this restaurant actually cleaned Levi’s shoes for him!

...

Iris’s phone rang all of a sudden. Her lips curved upward after she looked at the screen. I asked a friend to investigate this restaurant’s information after sensing the odd atmosphere. And I’ve received the reply now. Leo Rogers is the single owner of Royale Club Restaurant.

“Hahaha... How dare you tell us this restaurant belongs to you,

Levi Garrison?” Iris questioned him.

“That’s right. Is there a problem?” Levi admitted magnanimously.

Iris glowered at him and handed her phone to Zoey.

All the colors drained from Zoey’s face after reading the message. We were both astounded by Levi’s statement earlier. We really thought he’s the owner of this restaurant.

Zoey smiled. “Please don’t mind him, Iris. Levi likes to joke around.”

Iris sneered. “I realized that earlier. He’s full of big-talks. Can you show us your business license, Mr. Palmer?”

Iris was a meticulous person. She wanted to expose Levi’s lie with evidence.

Alger had no other choice but to show her the business license.

Iris slammed the business license in front of Levi. “Look intently at this. Do you see who’s the owner of this restaurant? This place belongs to Leo Rogers! Do you see your name anywhere on this license?”

Alger retorted internally. He could have the entire Rogers family with a single word.

Iris chided at Levi’s silence. “Please think before you speak in the future, especially when you're in public spaces. Please do not bring shame to Zoey's good name!"

Zoey was still puzzled by everything that had happened. She whispered at her best friend. "What's going on, Iris? Why are we receiving this kind of ultra-luxurious treatment?"

Iris frowned. "The only explanation I can think of is because of my status as Morris Group's vice-president. Most people already know that Mr. Atkinson purchased Levi Group and Garrison Group from the Rogers family. I suppose the Rogers family is treating Mr. Atkinson like a VVIP now. So it is logical for me, his vice-president, to receive similar treatments too."

Zoey was amazed. "Mr. Atkinson is so impressive! But I guess this is not a surprise. Someone who have the capabilities to deal with the Rogers family must be a distinguished man."

Iris smirked. "Let me tell you a secret, Zoey. Neil Atkinson is actually just an employee."

Zoey was taken aback. She asked in disbelief. "Are you telling me there's someone else who's in control of Morris Group?"

Iris nodded. "That's right. I only knew about this after Neil Atkinson informed me that it was actually the real owner of Morris Group who interviewed me virtually. He's indeed a formidable man. He outshines all the other exceptional men I've met in my field in terms of his thought process and his vision of the company's prospects. It is not an exaggeration to say that I'm his fan now!"

Admiration glinted in Iris's eyes as she described Levi's abilities. She was truly captivated by Levi's competency that day.

Levi, who was enjoying his lobsters at the side, smiled. I did not expect Iris Anabelle to become my fan now.

“Really? Then I suppose he’s someone that’s old with a lot of experiences?” Zoey asked curiously.

“That’s not it. Mr. Atkinson told me he’s a young man, about the same age as your Levi Garrison.”

The Protector Chapter 222

Iris looked at Levi and lamented. “They are about the same age, but why are there such a big difference between them?”

Zoey defended Levi “Levi is still a capable person. You should give him a few chances to prove himself.”

Iris turned her head to the other side, not wanting to look at him anymore. “Morris Group is hiring at the moment, but he’s clearly not a good fit. He’s only suitable for positions such as cleaners and security guards.”

Iris was implying Levi’s status to be equivalent to trash.

Zoey smiled. “I suppose you’re eager to meet with this mysterious boss, Iris?”

Iris responded with heightened anticipation. “Mr. Atkinson told me I would meet with him soon. I can guarantee he is an influential figure in North Hampton. I am so lucky to be able to work with him!” After that, Iris shifted the topic of conversation. “Zoey, I really recommend you to file a divorce with Levi as soon as possible. You are progressing so well now in your career. In contrast, Levi is worsening by the day. With the way things are moving, Levi will propose a divorce sooner or later. So you might as well do it now. I can introduce better candidates to you. All of these men are elites in their respective fields, and are more accomplished than Levi ever was or will be.”

Zoey rejected with a smile. “I know you have my best interest in your heart, Iris. But I will only be with Levi for the rest of my life.”

Iris sighed. She knew how stubborn Zoey could be. Perhaps I should target Levi instead. I will force him to leave Zoey.

Iris ditched Levi and sent Zoey back to the house after dinner.

Soon after the ladies left, a group of people surrounded Levi.

Leo Rogers and his men had arrived. “Should I send you back in person, Mr. Garrison?” Leo asked.

“That’s not needed. I will go back on my own.”

Levi lit a cigarette and disappeared into the night.

He decided to return to the house on foot because he wanted to contemplate his strategy to deal with the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce. This Chamber of Commerce is a long-standing organization in North Hampton, after all. This organization's downfall will affect the economic growth of North Hampton, as well as other sectors. A lot of people will become jobless by that time... That is not an outcome I desire. I cannot manipulate North Hampton's development to fulfil my selfish wishes. The best way to handle this situation is to first expand Morris Group to the extent of being able to replace the Chamber of Commerce's position. Then I can corner them with fewer concerns.

At that moment, a Maybach that cost over ten million was parked beside the road, with its turn signal flashing.

Something bad had happened evidently.

A girl's cry for help was heard, but her words were not distinguishable as she mumbled in a panic-stricken manner.

Upon arriving at the scene, Levi saw an aged man suffering from cardiac arrest in the backseat. He deduced that man to be a chronic heart disease patient judging from the medications next to him. His condition is severe.

"I can save your grandfather. Move aside!" Levi said.

The girl did as Levi said. She moved aside to let Levi help with her grandfather's condition.

Levi has the necessary skills befitting that of a professional doctor. He was involved in medical-related business six years ago and had polished his skills on the battlefield. It was a common thing for him to operate on the injured soldiers in the warzone. So he had the confidence to save that aged man.

“What are you doing? Stop immediately!” Someone shouted angrily.

Levi turned around and saw over a hundred men standing behind him.

They were the aged man’s bodyguards.

The bodyguards were about to seize Levi because they thought he was harming the aged man.

“I am rescuing him. Move aside!” Levi ordered harshly.

The bodyguards’ leader warned Levi. “We have a professional medical team. You are not needed here. So you better stop what you’re doing!”

The Protector Chapter 223

“Haha, you call yourselves bodyguard with those slow movements? These medications will not work on him anymore now that he’s ten minutes into cardiac arrest. In a few more minutes time, he’ll be gone forever.” Levi explained with a smile.

The bodyguards’ faces fell after listening to Levi. There are eight more minutes before the medical team is here by taking the helicopter.

The girl grasped the severity of the situation. “That’s right! The medication is no longer effective. Grandfather requires immediate medical attention!”

Levi added. “He’s experiencing a cardiac arrest. Do as you wish and wait all you want then!”

The girl begged Levi. “Please save my grandfather, mister!”

“Alright. Step aside. Let me try and help him!” Levi agreed because it was a life and death situation.

The bodyguards could only stand and watch.

Levi had no other choice but to use his hands to perform the resuscitation procedures since there wasn’t any medical equipment around. He pressed the aged man’s chest repeatedly...

A helicopter landed three minutes later.

A dozen doctors hurried over with a team of helpers behind.

The staggering number reflected the old man's status.

The doctor leading the group of people mumbled to himself remorsefully. "We're late! It's over ten minutes now. His heart must've stopped beating."

The other doctors following him were nervous as well. If he's gone, we will follow him to his grave too! He's too important. That man is the wealthiest person in North Hampton, Mr. Winston Gonzales!

The doctors shoved aside the bodyguards who were rooted to their spots dumbfoundedly and arrived at the side of the Maybach.

"You're finally here, Doctor Woodward! Grandfather entered into a cardiac arrest state for a long while now!" The girl scolded.

Doctor Woodward grumbled internally. Shit!

But when he saw Levi performing the resuscitation procedure, he was stunned. "What's this? What is he doing?"

The group of doctors were horrified.

"He said he could save Mr. Gonzales." The leader of the bodyguards said.

“What? That’s nonsense! This is ridiculous!” Doctor Woodward shouted. This stranger’s interference took away every last bit of hope we have to rescue Mr. Gonzales! He must be dead now. That means we’re all goners too.

Doctor Woodward chided. “Were you all born yesterday? Why didn’t you stop him?”

The bodyguards lowered their heads in silence.

Cough, cough...

At that moment, they heard a series of coughing amidst the commotion.

Everyone bore witness at the miraculous scene as Winston Gonzales, who was experiencing cardiac arrest mere moments ago, straightened himself in a seated position.

Levi got out of the car and fed Winston the medications.

The medications were now effective as his heart was now pumping.

Winston Gonzales was no longer coughing or experiencing shortness of breath after taking the medications.

Everyone was astounded by that amazing sight.

Levi glanced at the doctors and said. “You can now bring him to the hospital to monitor his condition. There shouldn’t be any problem now.”

Winston grasped Levi's hands and expressed his gratitude. "Thank you so much, young man. I would've died today if it wasn't for you."

Levi beamed at him. "You don't have to thank me. You should go to the hospital now to review your condition thoroughly."

A few doctors came to bring Winston Gonzales away on a stretcher.

He reminded his granddaughter before entering the helicopter. "Bring that young man to our house, Una. He is our family's savior."

Linden Woodward wanted to talk to Levi as well. He was curious about the method Levi used to resurrect Winston.

But when Una and Linden turned around, Levi was already gone.

The Protector Chapter 224

Winston was pleased when he was informed of the turn of events. "That young man has a commendable attitude. He must know I am rich after noticing all the luxurious cars and helicopters, yet he still left silently.

I must reward him handsomely. I can turn him into a billionaire

if he comes from a poor family. If he is already a successful person, then I will bring him to greater heights in life. He will become a significant figure in North Hampton!”

Everyone was impressed by Winston’s announcement. He was the wealthiest person, after all. He was a god-like being, in everyone’s opinion. He was someone who can alter another person’s fate effortlessly. His connections with all the influential forces in North Hampton surpassed even the Chamber of Commerce.

“Utilize all possible means to look for that young man. I want to know his identity by tomorrow.” Winston ordered.

That night, over ten thousand men were tracking down Levi’s whereabouts.

Una was filled with regrets. “I forgot how he looks like because I was overwhelmed by fear at that time.”

Zoey and Iris were discussing their future plans when Levi arrived home.

Iris said to him coldly as soon as he walked through the door. “I will move into my new house tomorrow. I hope you can come help me. Do not worry because I will pay you.”

Zoey laughed awkwardly. “What are you talking about, Iris. Levi will help you if he’s free. There’s no need to pay him.”

Iris snorted. She thought to herself. Well, your husband already took my money earlier in the day!

The next day, Iris went to work early in the morning.

She left Levi to handle everything about her moving in.

Levi had no other choice but to play along with Iris's request because of Zoey.

Iris's house was spacious. She purchased brand new furniture for her home. So the movers sent a few lorries of items to her house.

They gave Levi a set of uniform as well.

Levi participated in the movers' rank after he changed into the uniform.

He carried the electrical appliances into the house under the blazing sun.

At that moment, an expensive Ferrari drove into Bayview Garden and came to a halt in front of Iris's house.

A girl dressed in luxurious clothing got out of the car. She revealed her beautiful facial features after removing her sunglasses.

Another woman dressed in a black professional suit got out of the passenger seat with a briefcase in her hand.

Levi had met with the girl last night. She was the granddaughter of the wealthiest man in North Hampton, Una Gonzales, also known as the Princess of North Hampton. Una was fond of playing the piano, so her family purchased three billion worth of insurance to protect her hands.

She rushed forward to meet with Levi excitedly. “It is you, Mr. Garrison!” Una greeted him with a smile

All men from the Gonzales family had failed to locate Levi last night. Just as the time limit given by Winston was about to run out, someone discovered him working together with the movers.

Una hurried over immediately to express her gratitude.

She was certain Levi worked for Ants Movers Company as he was wearing the uniform.

Levi stopped his work at hand and asked, “What’s the matter?”

He did not remember Una because he was focused on rescuing Winston last night.

“Do you remember what happened last night? You saved my grandfather!” Una said.

“Oh. It’s you. Why are you here?” Levi asked.

“I am here to thank you, Mr. Garrison! You have my gratitude for saving my grandfather!”

“You’re welcome. There’s no need for you to come all the way just to thank me.”

Una shook her head. “There is a need to thank you in person, Mr. Garrison. I shall fulfil all your wishes to express my gratitude.”

The Protector Chapter 225

Levi had to continue with his task of moving the furniture. So he said impatiently. “I don’t need anything. A verbal gratitude from you is more than sufficient.”

But Una was determined. “No way! I have to do something!”

“I don’t need anything.” Levi was frustrated.

“Let me tell you my grandfather’s identity. The man you rescued last night is the wealthiest man in North Hampton, Winston Gonzales. I am his granddaughter, Una Gonzales. I am currently working in Miracle Med Corporation, a company under Gonzales Group. My company’s assets are worth over ten billion!”

Levi was stunned after listening to Una’s introduction. I see. So I saved the wealthiest man in North Hampton last night. No wonder that scene last night was so impressive. That helicopter arrived in just eight minutes while carrying an entire medical team.

Una was satisfied with the outcome as she looked at Levi’s dumbfounded expression. Everyone has always reacted in this manner whenever they found out about my identity.

She looked at Levi proudly. “Do you believe that I can fulfil all your wishes now? Just tell me what you want, and I will make it a reality.”

Levi shook his head. “Thanks but no thanks.”

“Why don’t I offer you a hundred million?” Una suggested.

Her assistant pulled out a cheque from her briefcase immediately.

Una signed on the cheque and handed the paper to Levi magnanimously. “Here you go!”

Levi grimaced. He stared at Una displeasingly. Is she trying to insult me? Does she think her behavior is acceptable just because her family is the wealthiest in North Hampton? I’ve accumulated so much money in the last few years even ten trillion is insignificant to me! The wealthiest man in North Hampton is just a nobody in my opinion. Expressing your gratitude by shoving a hundred million cheque to me is a form of insult. I am countless times richer than you, for God’s sake!

Una and her assistant exchanged glances when they saw the changes in Levi’s expression. A similar thought flashed across their minds at that moment. He is a commoner, after all. He must be trying to ask for more now that he’s aware of our status. A mere employee of a movers company is seizing this golden opportunity to earn some big profit. Well, I can’t blame him. This is human nature.

“How about two hundred million then?” Una sounded Levi out.

Levi’s expression was stone-cold as before.

Hahaha! Una almost laughed out loud. He's obviously not satisfied with that amount.

She took a deep breath. "What about a billion? That and my grandfather is inviting you to our house as a guest. You will be our family's guest of honor from now on. No one in North Hampton will dare to disrespect you."

Levi said coldly. "I'm sorry, but I am not interested in money. I do not lack money either."

Then he turned and walked inside the house.

Una and her assistant looked at one another. As expected of an Average Joe, he's not satisfied with one billion. Judging from his attitude, he's probably going to ask for ten billion. The Gonzales family can certainly afford ten billion, but I cannot make this decision on my own. I need to consult grandfather about this matter.

They followed Levi into the house.

An envelope was placed on the table near the door with Levi's name written on it.

Una handed Levi the envelope after she entered the house.

He did not notice the envelope previously.

After he unsealed the envelope, Levi saw a stack of cash that's around a few thousand.

Attached with it was a note: The fee for your hard work today.

Levi slipped the money into his pocket and tossed the note away.

Una and her assistant witnessed everything.

The Protector Chapter 226

He worked so hard the whole day for that little amount of money? But he's not satisfied with one billion? He's too greedy! Una's impression toward Levi worsened instantaneously. I thought he was a kind-hearted and knowledgeable man for saving grandfather's life last night.

But it seems to me he's just a greedy person with a terrible personality. He thinks he deserves ten billion because he saved someone when he can only earn a few thousand from a day's labor. But I cannot unleash my anger on him now because he did rescue grandfather last night.

Una said with a smile. "I'll get back to you after I discuss with my family, Mr. Garrison."

Levi urged them. "Please leave now. I don't need a single cent from you, I'm not short of money anyway."

Una left with her assistant afterward. We know Levi is playing hard to get. He's implying to us that he wants ten billion while rejecting our offers on the surface. There's no way he's sincere about not needing this large amount of cash!

“Let's discuss this matter with grandfather and the others. I did not expect him to be such a jerk. These poor people are the greediest as I expected!” Una's face was contorted with rage.

But little did they know that Levi could not care less about the money. A trillion meant nothing to him, much less a mere billion. Levi was infuriated by Una's sudden and unwelcome visit. He continued to focus on his work after they left.

The Gonzales family house was the largest and most luxurious villa in North Hampton.

The Gonzales family members built a private hospital next to the villa because they were worried about Winston's health. The hospital was equipped with three helicopters and forty medical staff. Their services were exclusive only to the Gonzales family.

Winston Gonzales was resting at that moment. He felt fine after he was brought back to the villa last night and his condition improved significantly compared to before.

Winston was discussing Levi's miraculous techniques with Linden when Una returned to the villa.

Winston asked in a hurry. “Did you find him, Una?”

“I found him. He’s working for Ants Movers Company. There’s no need to investigate further. I have the pictures here.” Una handed a few pictures to her grandfather and other family members.

Levi was working diligently while wearing the company’s uniform under the blazing sun in the photos.

“He’s earning a few thousand from his current occupation. So he’s considered well off among the commoners.” Una said.

Winston questioned her immediately. “What did you do? Did you thank him? I told you to give him a hundred million, didn’t I?”

“I did. But he rejected me.” Una put on a long face.

“What? He rejected a hundred million? That young man has got a great personality!” Winston was impressed by Levi.

“That’s not the case, grandfather. He’s simply too greedy. He rejected me even after I tried to offer him one billion! I suppose he’s planning to get ten billion from us after knowing your identity.”

Everyone gasped after listening to Una’s explanation. Ten billion is a huge amount for an ordinary person working as a mover!

Winston frowned. “Did he say that out loud?”

Una described the incident in detail.

Winston nodded after she was done. “You’re right. He is planning to get ten billion from us.”

“What should we do, grandfather? I think it’s a waste to offer ten billion to someone like him.” Una said.

The other family members were wearing a disdainful expression as well.

“That’s right! I don’t think he will stop at ten billion. He will keep asking for more because of your status as the wealthiest man in North Hampton!”

The Protector Chapter 227

Winston was surprised. “But he did not give off this kind of vibe last night.”

Una shared her thoughts. “I think this is his tactic of playing hard to get. He’s trying to maximize the benefit he can get from us.”

“That’s right. He must have left the scene deliberately last night after discerning our extraordinary status. He wanted us to locate him so he can get more money from us!”

Winston sighed. “Ten billion is not a problem. But I do not think he deserves this money.”

“I’ll look into his background in detail.” Una was annoyed.

...

Zoey’s company was doing well recently. She even had plans to sever all ties with the Lopez family and establish a new company.

But the Lopez family saw through her actions despite how careful she was.

“Traitor! Aaron and his family are all traitors!” Henry shouted angrily.

Harry’s expression darkened as well.

Samuel and Melanie said at the same time. “Grandpa, we already told you that Zoey does not care about you. Look at what she’s planning to do now. She’s cutting ties with the Lopez family!”

“Does she have the guts to do so? I am still one of her company’s shareholders!” Harry roared.

“If she’s planning to establish a new company, then she must have thought of a way to handle this issue, grandpa.” Samuel said.

Fabian asked. “Then what can we do? Zoey’s company received a few hundred million of investments lately. I even heard Morris Group would be collaborating closely with her in the future.”

“That’s the problem. We cannot stop her. She can give up Imperial Meadows at any time with the capital she has currently. Grandpa’s shares will not make any difference!” Henry answered.

Harry sighed as well. He could not think of any way to salvage the situation.

Samuel voiced out all of a sudden. “I have an idea, grandpa!”

Harry and the others looked at him at once. “What’s the idea? Hurry up and tell us!”

“Do you still remember my younger brother? The one that I wanted to introduce to Zoey in the past.”

“Yes.”

Samuel smiled smugly. “My brother is coming to North Hampton tomorrow. He’s a brilliant hacker. He can hack into almost any company’s system. My idea is to let my brother, Chris, to hack into Imperial Meadows’s account and transfer all the money into grandpa’s account. You are one of the company’s shareholders, so Zoey cannot take any legal action against you.”

Everyone contemplated the idea. Zoey will not be able to do anything after the money is transferred to grandpa’s account. She will not have the guts to sue us, much less Aaron and his wife.

Harry pondered about it for a moment before he said. “Yes. That’s feasible. She cannot do anything by the time the money is transferred to my account.” This is the same as before when I took the one hundred million given to them by the Rogers family. They could not do a thing back then either.

“We must screw Aaron and his family over. They are too smug lately! I heard Aaron is announcing to everyone that he’s buying a new house and a new car!” Henry and the other members of the Lopez family were not pleased by Aaron’s good fortune.

They were looking forward to ruining the happy moment for Aaron and his family.

Meanwhile, Zoey and her family were oblivious to the Lopez family’s preparation.

Aaron and Caitlyn were celebrating the family’s success every day while it lasted.

The next day, Chris arrived at North Hampton. Harry welcomed him in person and even treated him to extravagant meals. Then they began to execute their plan.

“I’ll need some information about the company...” Chris said.

Harry Lopez was one of Imperial Meadows’s shareholders, so it was an easy task for him to obtain classified information about the company.

The Protector Chapter 228

He could even lay his hands on some of the most confidential information about the company's account.

“Alright. Leave it to me.”

Samuel and Chris left the house to carry out their plan in a secluded place.

But the brothers were not the only ones at that place. There were three other people on their team.

They began working inside an abandoned factory.

Overnight, They were able to hacked into Imperial Meadows Limited's system and accessed the company's account.

“Haha! There is more than six hundred and thirty five million in Imperial Meadows Limited's account!”

Samuel and Chris were astonished.

“I think Zoey Lopez did not have the time to utilize this money because she received the amount recently.” Samuel said mischievously.

“Great! The money belongs to us now!” Chris laughed suddenly.

All the money within Imperial Meadows Limited's account was transferred away in less than five seconds.

Chris and Samuel smiled smugly. I bet Harry Lopez and his family didn't see this coming. We did not transfer the money to Harry's account. Instead, we moved all the money into a joint account overseas that's under our names.

"We'll target the Lopez family now!" Chris's eyes gleamed with excitement.

"Yes. Let's hurry! I returned to North Hampton two months ago for the sole purpose of collecting confidential financial information about the Lopez family." Samuel put on a pensive smile.

The reason behind Samuel's return to the country was to steal the Lopez family's fortune. He had spent the last two months gaining Harry's trust and collecting crucial information on the family's financial status. A hacker's ability is limited without any information. So the best thing to do is to search for loopholes in advance. I've waited so long for this to happen. Originally, I did not want to carry out my plan so soon, but all my effort will be for naught once Zoey cuts ties with the Lopez family and establish her own company. So this is the best time to take their possessions and flee. We will place the blame on the Lopez family. They can't possibly explain themselves after this. We've been lying to Melanie all this while with our fake rich overseas family background.

"There is one hundred and fifty million in Lopez Group's account! The rest of the branch companies' assets add up to sixty million. They have a total of twenty million in their personal accounts. So we are looking at a sum of two hundred and thirty million from the Lopez family!” Chris and his team hacked into their accounts effortlessly.

Click!

All the money under the Lopez family’s possession was transferred away the moment Chris pressed on the keyboard.

“Hahaha! We have eight hundred million now! This money is enough for us to live carefreely for the rest of our lives!” Samuel and Chris hugged each other tightly.

After that, Chris faked some bank account statements to convince Harry that the money was transferred to his account.

They erased all traces of the other transactions as well by replacing them with fake figures.

For a short while, the members of the Lopez family would still be able to see the balance in their bank accounts, but the money was, in fact, gone. Samuel and Chris would’ve already fled by the time they realize the truth.

Moreover, they transferred the money to an overseas bank account registered under Harry Lopez’s name. So Harry would become the scapegoat as the records of transactions would show that he transferred all the money to his account.

But the money would’ve disappeared without a trace by that time.

Samuel and his brother were able to fake their wealthy family background because they scammed over ten million using that method in the last few years.

“You’re doomed now, Lopez family! It’s a pity that I didn’t get to sleep with Zoey.” Samuel lamented.

The Protector Chapter

229

At that moment, Harry and the others were waiting anxiously for an update.

A message was sent to Harry’s personal number: We’ve successfully transferred all six hundred and thirty five million from Imperial Meadows Limited.

Harry deliberately checked his bank account and verified that it was true.

Little did they know, Harry merely accessed a fake statement because the money was already in Chris and Samuel’s possession.

The brothers returned at midnight. “Grandpa, I think you should inform Zoey and her family that you transferred the money away to save the trouble. They can’t do anything to us if we do that.” Samuel tricked Harry.

Henry nodded in agreement. “That’s right. It will be troublesome for us if they contact the police after realizing the money is missing.”

“Okay. I will go tomorrow.” Harry agreed.

Samuel and his brother exchanged a wicked smile. There’s nothing to worry about now since we convinced Harry Lopez to admit his doing. This matter has got nothing to do with us from tomorrow onwards!

The next day.

Zoey was informed by the finance department of a bad news when she arrived at the company. All their money in the company’s account was gone.

“What?” Zoey was dumbstruck. All the money is gone? There’s nothing left in the company’s account..

Zoey nearly passed out from the shock.

“Stay calm, Ms. Lopez. Our technicians are looking into this matter. They said the money was transferred into a personal account.” The person in charge of the finance department said.

Zoey was puzzled. “How is that possible? How can someone move the money inside the company’s account?”

“This can happen under two circumstances. The first possibility is that we are facing a very skilled hacker. The next possibility is that an insider committed this embezzlement. They know the classified information about the company’s account and are even knowledgeable of the firewall password.”

Zoey said without any hesitation. “Let’s contact the police!”

Harry arrived with his family at that moment. “Is there really a need to call the cops, Zoey? This is a family matter, after all.” He said.

“Huh? What’s going on, grandpa?” Zoey was confused.

Harry put on a gentle smile. “Zoey, I transferred all the money to my personal account because I am worried that you will not make sound judgments with the large amount of money received from the investments.”

Zoey stared at Harry incredulously. “How can you do that, grandpa? This money has got nothing to do with you! That’s the investment capital I received from Morris Group!”

“That’s not right, Zoey! How can you say that? I gave Imperial Meadows Limited to your family in the past, and I am one of the shareholders. So at the end of the say, this company belongs to the Lopez family!”

“That’s right! What do you mean by that? Are you abandoning your family and betraying your ancestors?” Melanie and Samuel placed the blame on Zoey.

“That’s not what I meant, grandpa. I am still a member of the Lopez family.” Zoey’s voice was shaky.

Harry was infuriated. “Let me be frank! I took the money away. We should stick together as a family and share this fortune if you are a member of the Lopez family. If you consider yourself otherwise, then feel free to call the cops on me!” Harry left angrily with the others afterward.

Zoey slumped onto the floor helplessly. Are they even my family? How dare he call himself my grandpa? How can they behave so unreasonably?

Zoey had no other choice but to return home since she couldn’t proceed with any project without any money in the company’s account.

Harry had informed Aaron and Caitlyn in person as well. He acted overbearingly even when he took the money without consent as if Aaron and Zoey were at fault for not handing the money to him in the first place. Zoey and her mother held onto each other and cried their eyes out.

The Protector Chapter 230

“Why are we living such difficult life? We’re both married to useless men. Levi already proved his incompetence, are you trying to match his pace too?” Caitlyn broke down in tears.

Aaron retorted. “I’m not incompetent! Don’t compare me to

Levi Garrison!”

“Then why are you not taking any action when your father bullies us? He took over six hundred million from us. Get the money back for our family! Why are you still here?” Caitlyn chided and pushed Aaron.

Crack!

Aaron smashed a glass on the floor.

“I want to do that too, but you know well of my father’s personality. There’s no way for us to get the money back at this point!” Aaron yelled.

“Then call the cops on him! We have the evidence needed to take legal actions!” Caitlyn added.

“But that’s my father! How can I call the cops on him? That’s an unfilial act! How do you expect me to face my ancestors in the afterlife?” Aaron was mad.

“Then what should we do? Are we letting go of this matter now?”

“Let’s think of a way!”

...

Aaron and Caitlyn were clueless as to how they should proceed.

“I’ll go look for Levi.” He was Zoey’s last and only hope.

Meanwhile, the entire Lopez family was celebrating the joyous occasion.

They were extremely pleased to have finally taught Aaron and his family a lesson as his family had been getting under their skin.

Melanie said to Harry. “Grandpa, this success is made possible because of my husband and his brother!”

Harry smiled. “Don’t worry. I will reward you handsomely.”

However, Samuel hurriedly added because he was worried Harry would discover the empty bank account by attempting a transaction. “There’s no need to rush for the reward, grandpa. Let’s use the money only after this matter settles down. Let’s leave the money alone for now.”

“Alright, Samuel. I’ll listen to you. Let’s distribute the money only after this matter settles down!” Harry agreed.

“Grandpa, I’m accompanying Chris to visit his friend at South City. We’ll be back in two days. You should stay by grandpa’s side, Melanie. Help the family to counter Zoey and her family if they try to do anything foolish.” Samuel suggested.

“Sure. Don’t worry, dear. I’ll be here while you’re gone!”
Melanie smiled.

After that, Samuel and Chris fled swiftly to a destination unknown to the others.

The Lopez family, oblivious to the truth, was indulged in their fantasy of having six hundred million in their possession.

Harry grinned. “The Lopez family is now sitting on near a billion worth of assets. We will focus on expanding our family’s businesses from now on!”

...

Levi was not furious when he learned of the news. Instead, he sensed the peculiarity at the turn of events. “But that’s impossible. Your grandfather shouldn’t have the authority to transfer all the money away, even with his status as one of the shareholders. A transaction like that requires your approval as well as the finance department’s consent.”

Clarity washed over Zoey after listening to Levi’s reminder. “That’s right. It’s not possible, not to mention I am the only person who knows the password.”

Levi smiled. “There’s only one possibility in this case. They hacked into the company’s account and took the money illegally.”

“Are you saying that grandpa hired a hacker?” Zoey asked.

“That’s right. A hacker can easily hack into Imperial Meadows Limited’s account if your grandfather feeds the hacker with the information he knows.” Levi nodded.

“But this doesn’t make any sense. If grandpa did hire a hacker to do the job, he didn’t have to inform me of his doing. He admitted his crime for no apparent reason.” Zoey was confounded.

Levi stroked his chin. He was caught in perplexity as well. “That’s right. This is suspicious. Why did he tell you?”

The Protector Chapter 231

“Let’s do it this way. Why don’t you go home first, and I’ll get a friend to check it out. That way, we’ll know what it’s all about.”

Levi arrived at Azure Dragon’s residence and found Phoenix.

He delegated the job to Phoenix.

Phoenix did not use his privileges, instead, he used his skill and started searching.

“Sir, Money from Imperial Meadows Limited’s account had indeed been transferred elsewhere.”

Phoenix swiftly produced the results.

“Has it been transferred to the account that belongs to Harry or others from the Lopez family?” Levi asked.

“No, it’s an overseas account! Although it was done using Harry’s name, it is now unlisted. There is no record and it’s hard to check. I’ll need some time.”

“Hmm? I’ve found something new! Money from the Lopez Group account and the personal accounts of all 17 of the Lopez family members, totaling two hundred and thirty million has been transferred to this overseas account. This happened within a minute of the time the money from Imperial Meadows

Limited's account was transferred!"

Phoenix made another important discovery.

"What? Money from all the Lopez family members' accounts has been transferred?" Levi asked.

"That's right. Exactly!"

Phoenix explained, "The other party has created a fake account and a fake transaction history. It shows that the money from Imperial Meadows Limited has been transferred to Harry! If they check their accounts now, it shows the money is still there but it's actually fake. There is no money in the account!"

Levi was shocked when he heard this. "This person has scammed the whole Lopez family!"

"Exactly! The Lopez family are under the impression that the money from Imperial Meadows Limited has been transferred to them. But in actual fact, this amount as well as all the money from the Lopez family has been transferred out by this scammer. The Lopez family does not even realize it yet!" Phoenix announced.

"Phoenix, trace this account. We must find out where all the money has gone to." Levi instructed.

"Sir, be rest assured. It's true that the other party is skillful but now that their opponent is me, they'd certainly met their match." Phoenix said reassuringly.

...

Meanwhile, someone from Imperial Meadows had made a police report.

This was because there was evidence of Harry personally transferring the company's funds.

Soon, the police arrived at Imperial Meadows.

Zoey and Aaron were summoned with the others.

All of them got a fright.

"Who made a report? Who reported to the police?" Aaron asked.

Neither Aaron or Zoey would have made the report because they already knew it was Harry's doing, that is, unless they decided to disown their father and grandfather.

They had even issued a warning those who knew about the incident not to report to the police.

However, evidently, someone had made the report.

"No, it's not us. None of us made the report!"

The staff were shaking their heads, for it was as they said, they did not make any report.

Naturally, it was Samuel and his gang that had made the report.

By doing so, they would put all the blame on Harry.

After he had been charged, he would obediently surrender his position.

The brothers had planned everything.

At this time, they had also took down the fake account.

The policeman said without any emotion, “We have received an anonymous call reporting that Harry had transferred more than six hundred and thirty five million of public funds! We have all the evidence we need.”

“We heard that Harry had admitted to you all that he was the one that transferred the funds, is that true?” The policeman asked.

The staff nodded their heads.

“Alright. We have witnesses and evidence. We shall go for Harry now!” The policeman said.

They brought Zoey, Aaron and the others along.

At the Lopez family home, everyone was talking and laughing.

All of a sudden, the sound of police sirens were heard.

A few policemen rushed in and held Harry down.

They had with them a warrant for arrest.

“Harry Lopez, you are under arrest on suspicion of moving public funds, illegally hacking into the network, network theft and other charges.!”

Harry and the Lopez family were shocked to their cores.

The Protector Chapter 232

They stared at Aaron and Zoey in disbelief, their first thought was that these two were the ones that had reported to the police.

It was only mere moments ago when they had been discussing that Zoey and Aaron would not dare to make a police report.

“You... both of you have betrayed your ancestors! Arrgh!”

Suddenly, Aaron spat out a mouthful of blood.

“You two brainless morons!!!”

“How could you do this to your father and grandfather! You are not fit to be members of the Lopez family!”

“Your ancestors must feel so ashamed of you!!!”

The Lopez family rushed forward as if crazed. It seemed as if they would lynch the father and his daughter.

“No... it wasn't us. We did not report to the police!”

“It's not us!”

Both Aaron and Zoey started to wail aloud. They felt wronged.

Harry glared at them, “Do you two want to see me die? Alright, you must be happy now that I'm going to rot in prison! Are you satisfied now?”

“Grandpa, no, we didn't mean to...”

Zoey wept silently.

“Somebody, I want to check Harry's personal account to see if the money is there,” the detachment leader, Captain Timothy Lourdes from West Point ordered.

Soon, the technical department sent a message: Captain, there is no money in Harry's account, not a single cent!

Harry asked in shock, “How can there be no money?”

The other members of the Lopez family were stunned as well.

Harry's personal account originally had ten million.

"What? There's no money in it? Isn't there supposed to be a transaction history?" Timothy asked in shock.

"Captain, we just checked. The money was transferred out again. This time, it was transferred to an overseas account!" The technical department reported back.

"What? Harry, did you actually transferred the money to an overseas account? Seems like you work fast!"

Harry was stunned, "No, I did not! I don't even have an account overseas!"

Suddenly, he realized something and he let out a yell of dismay, "Oh no! It must've been Chris and Samuel who transferred the money!"

"Everyone, quickly! Check your personal accounts and the company's account!" Harry alerted everyone.

Each of the members of the Lopez family checked their own personal bank accounts and the company's account, as well.

Each one of them found out that their accounts had been emptied.

In each one's account, there was not a single cent left!

The company's account, too, had the same fate and was left with zero balance.

“It must be Chris and Samuel!”

Henry and Fabian reacted one after the other.

Shaun Lopez said, “Now I know why they’d left, they were running away. They even set up grandpa to admit to transferring the funds so that grandpa will be charged!”

Thud!

Once Melanie realized the truth, she fainted on the spot.

Harry slapped at his forehead in frustration, “Now, I know what happened. Samuel came back for two months in order to gain my trust! I was gullible enough to believe that the Lopez family’s future could be entrusted to him and I made everything transparent for him. With his brother’s hacking skills, it’s as easy as pie to withdraw the money!”

“I didn’t expect this punk to set me up...”

Harry started seeing stars and nearly fainted.

“Accursed Samuel!”

Fabian was furious.

The technical department checked all the accounts of the Lopez family.

It was confirmed that the Lopez family's total of two hundred and thirty million was also transferred to the overseas account.

Timothy asked, "Can the money be retrieved?"

"Quite impossible! Currently, the overseas account has been closed and the funds have disappeared..."

Everyone heard the conclusion given by the technical department.

Thud!

Flop!

One after the other, the Lopez family members collapsed on the ground.

All of their faces were as pale as death.

Aaron and Zoey, too, had similar expressions on their faces.

The funds cannot be retrieved!

The Lopez family is doomed!

The Protector Chapter 233

Shaun Lopez quickly explained everything to the arresting officer.

The prime suspects were Chris and Samuel.

Timothy said solemnly, “You can’t just bring up two names, Chris and Samuel, and expect us to believe what you say. What we need is proof!”

“Right now, we know that the funds of Imperial Meadows Limited were transferred by Harry. This is shown in the transaction history! All the other monies were also transferred by Harry. Our technical team has searched and discovered that the overseas bank account was opened by Harry!”

“We have all the proof. Harry, what else can you say?” Timothy asked coldly.

“Friends, just think! If it were really my grandpa, why would he tell Zoey and the others?” Shaun Lopez protested.

Timothy sneered, “That’s because Harry wanted to blackmail Zoey with family ties! He is certain that due to their relationship, she and the others would not report to the police. That is the reason why he did so.”

“This...”

Everyone was tongue-tied.

What Timothy had said was exactly what the Lopez family had initially thought, too.

“Besides, our technical team has checked and we know that no one by the name of Chris ever came to North Hampton. There is no trace of him ever boarding a plane or a train! You guys are making it up, aren't you?”

Upon hearing this, everyone realized that all of this was planned way ahead.

There was alibi to show that Chris was never here.

Samuel and his brother are really too crafty!

“Take him away!” Timothy Lourdes ordered.

Harry could do nothing but to accept his fate.

However, at this moment, Timothy Lourdes received a call from Xavier Fields.

“Alright, I'll come back this very instant,” he replied and left immediately with his men.

“Your case will be put on hold. I'll get to the bottom of this!”

This left the Lopez family totally bewildered.

Harry was momentarily safe from being arrested and he immediately gave the instruction, “Quick, call the scoundrel and ask him what the hell is going on?”“

Melanie dialed Samuel’s number and unexpectedly, the call got through.

“Samuel, you beast, what have you done?” The moment he picked up the call, Melanie started scolding him.

“What’s the matter? Did that old fart, Harry, finally been arrested? Serve him right!”

The moment Samuel said this, everyone knew that he was the culprit.

“Samuel, where are you now? Return our money to us this instant!”

Melanie felt like blowing her top off.

On the other end of the line, Samuel sound surprised, “What money? I don’t understand what you’re saying.”

Melanie was so furious that she could cry, “Samuel, stop pretending. You have transferred all the money out of the bank accounts of Zoey’s company and all of the Lopez family members.”

“How can you blame me for this? Wasn’t the money from Zoey’s company transferred out by your grandpa? This is documented in the transfer history. Furthermore, he admitted it himself. So, how could it have anything to do with me? Now that the money's gone, you should question Harry about it instead of me!"

Samuel sneered.

"You..."

Melanie was so exasperated that she almost smashed her phone on the floor.

"Alright then. Where are you now? When are you coming back?"

Melanie took control of her emotions and tried her best to speak calmly with Samuel.

If Samuel returned, the problem could be solved easily.

"Me? Well, I'm overseas now! I'll return sometime later!"

It was noisy at Samuel's end.

Boom!

The piece of news was disastrous to the whole Lopez family.

If he had escaped abroad, it would be very difficult to get him back!

The Lopez family would have to face the current crisis on their own.

Not only did they lost every cent, on top of that, Harry could go to jail.

The consequences were unimaginable.

Harry gestured to Melanie, hinting at her to try and trick Samuel into coming back.

Melanie racked her brain, “Samuel, I’ve not been feeling well for the last couple of days, I am constantly feeling nauseous. You know that don’t you? So hurry back and accompany me to go see the doctor. I think I’m pregnant.”

The Protector Chapter 234

Fabian, Henry and the others gave Samuel a thumbs up.

Melanie was probably with child.

Everybody knew this.

No matter what, Samuel would certainly care about his own child.

Fabian interjected, “Samuel, Melanie is definitely pregnant! Why don’t you take her for a full medical exam? After all, you’re the father of the child and we wouldn’t want to do anything rash!”

“Haha, Fabian, like hell I’ll go! Don’t you know what type of woman your daughter is? She’s a slut! She has slept with numerous sons of bitches. So how can you pin the responsibility on me for her pregnancy?”

Nobody expected Samuel to rant in this manner.

Melanie was angered upon hearing these words, “Samuel, are you a man? How can you say such treacherous words!”

Samuel snorted, “Hah, Melanie, you are an immoral woman! You probably don’t even know who the father of the child is! How dare you try to put this responsibility on me? Get lost! You and your whole family are scoundrels! Beat it!”

With those words, Samuel hung up the phone.

Everyone was surprised. No one had expected this.

Melanie was so upset that she fainted on the spot.

Fabian was seething with anger.

The others quickly called Samuel’s line but he had switched off his mobile.

No one could get through.

After a while, when they tried calling it again, the number was unregistered.

“What should we do now?”

Everyone was speechless.

If they could not find Samuel and his brother, they would never be able to recover even a single cent.

Henry said in despair, “Just now, I asked my friends to check Samuel’s identity. Everything about him is fake. He is an unregistered citizen and certainly not a wealthy man from overseas.”

When the rest heard this, they began to understand.

Right from the very start, Samuel was here to cheat them of their wealth and Melanie was deceived in the process.

He had deceived Melanie for more than a year, using her like a tool. On top of that, he had taken all of the Lopez family’s wealth.

However, the crux of the matter was that they had no evidence at all of his deception.

Even the marriage certificate was fake. Their marriage was never registered.

If they were to go by evidence, Samuel and Chris had never been with the Lopez family at all.

The Lopez family had nothing to show that they existed.

They had no proof at all.

It can only be said that Samuel and his brother had committed the perfect crime.

Originally, the two brothers had planned to deceive Zoey the same way they did with Melanie, but unexpectedly, Levi came back.

Both Caitlyn and Aaron were shocked.

They recall that at the beginning they had considered a marriage between Zoey and Chris.

With the new revelations, they now know that if Zoey had married Chris, not only would they have lost all their money, but Zoey would have been sexually taken advantage of as well.

A trickle of blood appeared at the edge of Harry's lips as he anxiously asked, "Is there any way of locating them? Even if we forego the money, these two bastards must be found!"

"Exactly! If I see these two animals, I'll definitely slaughter them."

"Yes, I swear on my life, I'll slaughter these two animals!"

...

The Lopez family members had the same thoughts. They could lose the money, but they want revenge on Samuel and his brother by taking their lives.

However, with the resources and manpower available to the Lopez family at this moment, it was too difficult to find these two people.

Furthermore, Harry was in a situation where he would get sent to jail at any time.

Zoey had just sought the help of her best friend, Iris.

Iris had replied that It would be very difficult, almost impossible, but she was still willing to give it a try.

Zoey knew that this was a polite reply. This is an impossible task.

“Oh, who can solve this problem? God please, save the Lopez family!”

Harry wailed to the sky above.

“I can locate these two people! I can solve this problem!”

At that exact moment, a voice was heard.

Without anybody noticing, Levi had already arrived at the Lopez family home.

The Protector Chapter 235

“You?”

Henry sneered with disdain.

Fabian was annoyed and he raised his voice angrily, “A piece of trash like you can do nothing constructive but only destroy things!”

Harry followed suit and hurled insults at Levi, “Exactly! What are you doing here? How could the likes of you solve this problem? For goodness’ sake, don’t come and make things worse.”

Melanie was even angrier, “Levi, you trash! Are you gloating at the Lopez family’s downfall and rubbing salt in our wound?”

...

Facing the onslaught of verbal attack from the Lopez family members, Levi replied with disdain, “To be honest, I have nothing to do with the crisis your family is facing. I am only solving the problem for my wife’s sake!”

“When the time comes and I am able to retrieve the money then, I dare you not to take even a single cent!” Levi replied coldly.

Harry sneered and gave him a look of disbelief, “Alright. If you can retrieve the money, we will not take a penny!”

“Okay, when the time comes, don’t you all regret it!”

“Zoey, dad, let’s go!”

Levi left with the both of them.

“Levi is only here to gloat. His intention is only to rub salt in our wounds. How cruel!”

“This piece of trash is no better than Samuel!”

“If he can retrieve the money, I’ll give him my head on a platter.”

“Our family is really unfortunate. Not only did we meet a scammer and now we have to deal with this piece of trash.”

The Lopez family members lamented together.

After leaving the Lopez family home, Zoey asked with uncertainty, “Can you really do it?”

“I can certainly try!”

Levi laughed.

“What can you do? Samuel and his brother are highly skilled. They left no trace. Even the police’s technical team couldn’t track them down, what makes you think you can? Who do you think you are?” Aaron sneered.

Caitlyn spoke, “Levi, don’t you go and complicate matters! Don’t mess it up any further. I hope you’re happy now that Zoey has lost everything. You must feel that you’re worthy of her now, right?”

The two said in unison, “Well, let me tell you right now, even though Zoey might have lost all her wealth, you are still an ex-convict and unworthy of her!”

Zoey, fearing that the situation would take a turn for the worse, hurriedly asked Levi to leave.

“Levi, please don’t get involved in this! The police must have found something. Earlier, grandpa was about to be taken away but then he was released. So, presumably, they must’ve found some new information. “

Zoey elaborated.

At that moment Levi had the urge to say, “I was the one that asked Xavier Fields to let him go.”

“By the way, another batch of Iris’ furniture has arrived. Why don’t you go and help her with the move? I’ll go to her to see if she can help me!”

And so, Levi donned the work clothes of the moving company again and continued to help Iris with her move.

...

Meanwhile, at Villa Private Hospital in North Hampton, the richest man, Winston Gonzales was in the pink of health and he was feeling really great.

After Levi saved his life, his health has been improving steadily.

“Grandpa, I’ve found out who this person really is – he is Levi of Levi Group corporation!”

Una said excitedly.

“It turns out to be him!”

It was apparent that Winston Gonzales knew about Levi.

He was after all, the famous dark horse from six years ago.

They have all heard about him.

“That’s right. His prison term of six years had just ended. He’s currently working in Ants Movers Company and I saw him moving furniture today!” Una said.

Winston Gonzales sighed and lamented, “Six years of prison life can destroy a gifted man. He is now willing to even work as a mover!”

Linden said, “Well, it seems the truth is that he is not willing! After meeting you, Mr. Gonzales, he is not satisfied with one billion. He wants ten billion or even more.”

“Now we finally understand why he wants ten billion. It’s because he wants to make a fortune out of this incident.”

The Protector Chapter 236

One of the managers of Miracle Med Corporation said, “Mr. Gonzales, Ms. Gonzales, I’ve crossed paths with Levi Garrison six years ago. That man is cunning and ruthless. He will do whatever it takes to achieve his goals. I’m afraid you’re his target this time.”

“That’s right. Levi Garrison is a smart man. He will use some underhand tricks if we do not fulfil his wishes. Perhaps he will publicize his heroic act of saving your life and manipulate us into complying his every request.”

Everyone despised Levi at that point. “He’s simply abhorrent!”

Una hated Levi as well. She sneered. “I’ve investigated his background, grandfather. Levi has been jobless since his release from prison. He’s only relying on his wife to survive now. In my opinion, he’s trying to scam a boatload of money from us this time! With that being said, the Lopez family is actually facing some tricky problems now.” Una added.

Her words piqued Winston’s interest. “Oh? What kind of trouble?”

“The Lopez family will announce bankruptcy soon since nearly a billion was taken away from them as well as from Zoey Lopez’s company. Their head of the family, Harry Lopez, may be facing time in prison soon.” Una explained.

Winston's eyes gleamed. "This is a brilliant opportunity!"

Una and the others gained revelation. "Are you saying that we should return Levi's favor by helping the Lopez family through this crisis?"

Winston smiled. "That's right."

"This is a wonderful idea! This way, we can stop Levi Garrison from harassing the Gonzales family from now on!" The others exclaimed.

Winston reminded, "You'll handle this, Una. I'll contact the related departments to exempt Harry Lopez from his imprisonment. I am going to meet with Levi in person after we settle this matter to clear things up once and for all. He saved my life, and now I am rescuing his family. This should be a sufficient repayment."

"Yes, grandfather. I wonder what kind of trick can Levi pull this time." Una said proudly.

...

Just as the Lopez family was at a loss, Captain Timothy Lourdes from West Point detachment contacted Harry and told him he did not have to face jail time because someone else was found to be involved in that issue.

Tears of joy streamed down Harry's cheeks.

A Rolls-Royce stopped in front of the Lopez family house after a short while.

Una visited with a few of her assistants. “Let me introduce myself. I am Una Gonzales from the Gonzales family.”

Shaun, Melanie, and the other members of the Lopez family were shocked to their cores. “The granddaughter of the wealthiest man in North Hampton?” They almost knelt in front of Una as their legs wobbled.

“I am here to help the Lopez family to weather through your current crisis. Please check because there should be money inside your bank accounts now.”

Everyone did as Una said in a hurry.

And lo and behold, their money was indeed returned to them in full. They also found out that the Gonzales family was behind Harry’s exemption from imprisonment.

“You don’t have to worry. This matter is water under the bridge now.”

Harry was tear-stricken. “I only have one question for you, Ms. Gonzales. Why are you helping us?”

Una smiled. “The Gonzales family was indebted to someone in the Lopez family. We’ve returned the favor, so there’s no need to inquire further about the person’s identity. You will have nothing to do with the Gonzales family from now on.”

Una went to Imperial Meadows directly after leaving the Lopez family house to resolve their money crisis.

Zoey and Aaron questioned Una's intention, but she merely gave them same answer she gave to the Lopez family.

The Gonzales family did not want Levi to boast of his achievements for saving Winston's life to prevent him from taking further advantage of the situation. So they did not reveal his identity as the person who helped them.

Zoey contacted Levi just as he was done helping Iris with the move into her new house. "What? The Lopez family's financial crisis is resolved?"

The Protector Chapter 237

Levi was surprised. Did Samuel and his brother gain some conscience, so they returned the money?

"I'll talk to you in detail later in the night. I need to get my work done for now!" Zoey hung up the phone immediately afterward.

Levi was about to remove his uniform when a few luxurious cars appeared before him.

Una got out of the car, followed by Winston and over a hundred bodyguards surrounding them.

Their arrival was so impressive to the extent of attracting attention from the other wealthy people staying inside Bayview Garden.

“Nice to meet you, Levi Garrison. My name is Winston Gonzales.” Winston took the initiative to greet Levi while glancing at his uniform. Seems like he is the worker of this movers company.

“What’s the matter? Are you looking for me?” Levi frowned.

Una said with a smile. “We are here to inform you that we’ve repaid our debt toward you for saving my grandfather’s life.”

A thought popped into Levi’s mind. “Did you resolve the Lopez family’s crisis?”

“That’s right. Mr. Garrison is indeed a smart man. We have paid eight hundred and sixty five million in total to the Lopez family as well as Zoey Lopez’s company. I’ve also exempted Harry Lopez from facing jail time.” Winston elaborated.

Una added, “We’ve cleared out debt. So from now on, you can stop harassing the Gonzales family since we’ll have nothing to do with each other anymore!”

Winston said, “Mr. Garrison, I am someone who does not like to be indebted to anyone. So I seized this opportunity to return your favor.”

“Stop right there!” Levi spoke just as Winston and the others were about to leave.

Una and Winston stopped abruptly and exchanged glances with each other. He's indeed trying to scam us. He's a troublesome man to get rid of.

"Are you not satisfied with the amount of money we paid to your family, Mr. Garrison?" Una could not help but feel disdain for Levi inwardly. You're an overly greedy man. Do you really desire ten billion that much?

Levi shook his head. "That's not it. I can settle this matter by myself, so why did you meddle into our family's business?"

Winston and the others were not pleased to listen to that remark from Levi. Levi Garrison is indeed behaving as we expected. His greediness knows no bounds, and he will do whatever it takes to attain his goal. He wanted to get ten billion from us, but we are trying to dismiss him with a mere one billion. So he's not satisfied with this outcome.

Winston Gonzales was a little mad. "Are you trying to go overboard with your endless requests just because you saved my life previously?"

"That's right, Levi Garrison! What are you trying to pull here? It is a fact that you rescued my grandfather, but we just saved the entire Lopez family. Will you be satisfied only when we provide you with ten billion or perhaps a hundred billion?" Una expressed her stance firmly. "Let me inform you now. There is no way that will ever happen!"

"Indeed. Are you trying to coerce the Gonzales family into fulfilling your greed because you saved Mr. Gonzales? Well, as Una said, that's never going to happen! It is too late now for you to pull any more tricks because the Lopez family had already accepted our kindness!"

...

Winston said coldly, "If I have seen through your personality back then, I wouldn't have allowed you to save me!"

Una lifted her chin proudly. "Let me tell you now! My grandfather is a fortunate man! He would've survived even if you did not volunteer to save him that night!"

"That's right! Mr. Gonzales was fine in the first place. You merely got lucky! We just did not expect you to scam us because of what happened!"

Levi was a loathsome being in everyone's opinion at that moment.

Levi responded with a smile. "You guys are taking this matter too seriously. Don't worry, I've already forgotten about that incident the other night. I don't need any reward, and I don't need nor lack any money!"

The Protector Chapter 238

Levi's words did not impress the others. What a hypocrite! He's telling us he doesn't want anything when he actually wants hundreds of billion from us! How dare he say he doesn't need money when he's just a lowly mover. He's a despicable hypocrite!

Winston, Una, and the rest of the crowd stared at Levi with contempt. He's not much better than a dung beetle in terms of his personality!

"You don't have to meddle in the Lopez family's matter. I will return the money to you." Levi said coldly.

Winston and the others were stunned. Someone as greedy as him is offering to pay us back the money? Does he have eight hundred million with him? What a hilarious joke!

Una said immediately, "Okay. So, you want to return the money? Then pay us the full amount right now!"

Winston added, "Let me witness your capabilities too, Mr. Garrison!"

They urged Levi to return the money on the spot.

But Levi said, "I will return you the money, but not now. So please leave for the moment."

Everyone sneered after listening to Levi's statement. That's hypocrisy at its finest! There's no way he can return eight hundred million to us. He's filled with empty talks.

"That's enough, Mr. Garrison. We'll be leaving now. You don't have to return the money. I am contented so long as you stop bothering my family and never scam another person by boasting about this incident.”

Una said to her grandfather. “He can’t do that now. There are so many people here to bear witness of our conversation.”

Then they left angrily.

Levi Garrison was a man rotten to his core in their eyes.

Levi knew they misunderstood him. The Gonzales family thinks I’m trying to scam them after I saved that old man’s life. Hmph! Winston Gonzales? He’s not someone that I care about. That money is insignificant to me as well. I did not want to pay them just now because I want Samuel and his brother to cough up the money they’ve stolen first.

Levi went to meet up with Phoenix after he changed his clothes.

“Sir, I’ve tracked down and froze the eight hundred million sum. They did not have the time to spend any of the money yet. We will recover the money soon.” Phoenix reported.

“Okay. What about Samuel and Chris? Have you located them?” Levi asked.

That was Azure Dragon’s responsibility.

“Yes. They are still in North Hampton. They are considered smart because they knew how easily they’ll expose themselves in the airport and train station if they leave now.” Azure Dragon answered.

“Let’s go. I want to meet them in person.” Levi said.

Levi was astounded when he found out that Samuel and his brother were hiding in the same village where Rowen Atkinson and his wife stayed previously.

That action reflected the brothers’ wariness of their current situation.

Samuel, Chris, and three other people were playing poker inside a rent house.

A message was sent to Samuel’s phone at that moment.

Samuel and Chris were horror-stricken after reading the message. All the money we’ve stolen has been frozen!

“This is bad. If they have the power to freeze our account, then they must have the abilities to track us down!”

“We need to leave immediately!”

The five of them hurriedly packed their bags and left the house.

But they stumbled into two people at the alleyway.

It was Levi and Azure Dragon.

“It’s you, Levi Garrison?” Samuel was shocked.

Levi smiled. "Aren't you a brilliant man, Samuel Robertson?"

"How did you find us?" Samuel was curious.

Chris's eyes reddened with rage as he took out a knife from this pocket swiftly. "Let's stop wasting time now, brother. We'll murder them and flee right away. What do you say?"

Click click click...

Samuel and the other three people withdrew their knives as well.

They closed in on Levi and Azure Dragon slowly with the weapons in their hands.

They were determined to kill Levi.

The Protector Chapter 239

“Go to hell, Levi Garrison! You’ve been a thorn in my side for a long time now!”

A series of fast-paced footsteps was heard just as Samuel and the others rushed forward with knives in their hands.

Over fifty men appeared behind Samuel and his gang.

The person leading the group was a pot-bellied and menacing man.

He beat up Samuel and his friends effortlessly. Soon, all five of them were lying on the ground wailing in pain.

The thugs walked up to Levi and addressed him simultaneously. “Good day, Mr. Garrison!”

The group of men was none other than Tiger and his gang.

They were aware of Levi’s arrival as soon as he stepped foot into the neighborhood.

Tiger saw Samuel and the others tried to harm Levi when he reached the scene, so he quickly taught them a lesson.

In the end, Tiger sent Samuel and his accomplices to the police station.

That village was under the West Point Prefecture, so Captain Timothy Lourdes handled Samuel and Chris.

They come clean about their plan throughout the interrogation process.

Samuel and Chris mentioned that the money they stole was frozen when questioned about that matter.

Timothy's first thought was that the Gonzales family was behind this because they helped to settle Harry Lopez's situation previously. The way I see it, the Gonzales family really proved their capabilities this time. Not only did they locate the Robertson brothers, but they've also froze the bank account.

The money was transferred to Timothy afterward, with a note telling him to return the money to the Gonzales family.

Timothy sent the money to the Gonzales family house in person after he dealt with the necessary procedure.

Members of the Gonzales family were surprised to receive the money.

They wondered if Levi Garrison was the person who returned them the money.

But Timothy merely responded with a smile. "This has got nothing to do with Levi Garrison."

Everyone laughed. He's right. Levi does not have the ability to return the money. He's just a poor and pretentious man.

Timothy went to the Lopez family house to explain the whole incident afterward.

"That's great news! Let them stay behind bars! Thank you so much, Captain Lourdes!" Tears of joy streamed down Harry's cheeks.

Timothy smiled. "You don't have to thank me. Thank the Gonzales family if you want. They're the ones that tracked down the money and the criminals!"

With that, the Gonzales family thought Timothy Lourdes was the one that returned the money to them, while Timothy and the Lopez family thought the former resolved the matter.

Everyone was happy with the outcome. Samuel and his accomplices were caught, and no money was lost.

Iris hosted a banquet and invited Zoey's parents after she was done moving into her new house.

"First of all, congratulations, Uncle and Aunt, for resolving this crisis." Iris congratulated Aaron and Caitlyn.

They glared at Levi and said, "Didn't you mentioned that you would handle this matter, Levi?"

"Yes. And I did!" Levi replied.

"Enough with that nonsense! The Gonzales family are the ones that settled this matter. They're the ones that found the culprits and recovered the money. You contributed nothing! How can you tell such blatant lies?" Aaron and Caitlyn could not stand Levi's habit of always wanting to show off.

Levi was stunned. How did that happen? Oh, I think I know what happened. Tiger and his men must have dropped Samuel and his friends at the police station without saying anything. They fear the police the most, after all. That's why everyone thinks that the Gonzales family saved the day. Well, whatever. I could not care less about them.

Zoey hurriedly smoothed things over. "That's enough. Levi was just trying to console us."

The Protector Chapter 240

"Hmph! Stop making all these big talks in the future!" Aaron said angrily.

Iris smiled. "Levi has been helping me with the moving in process in the past two days. So he doesn't have the time to deal with any other things."

"Fine. Let's stop talking about him." Caitlyn rolled her eyes at Levi.

Harry sighed, "Say, who do you think the Gonzales family was indebted to in our family? Why did they help us to such extent?"

A thought popped into Zoey's mind. "Could they be referring to the Lopez family from South City? I'm afraid they are the only ones capable of getting acquainted with the Gonzales family."

Aaron and Caitlyn were surprised by Zoey's reminder.

The Lopez family in North Hampton was merely a branch family.

The original Lopez family came from South City, and they were a powerful clan.

With that being said, plenty of people carried the Lopez surname all across Erudia, similar to Harry and his family. So they were not even slightly related to the Lopez family in South City.

In their mind, only the powerful Lopez family from South City could be acquainted with the wealthiest man in North Hampton.

"Alright, let's stop discussing this. Let's talk about you, Iris. I heard that you will be collaborating closely with Zoey from now on?" Aaron looked at Iris.

Iris beamed at him. "We are planning something big at Morris Group currently. There will be plenty of chances to collaborate with Zoey by that time."

"What's the plan? Can you tell us?" Zoey asked curiously.

Admiration glinted in Iris's eyes. "This is related to that mysterious boss of mine. His vision is really extraordinary! We will tackle the medical and technology field soon, producing similar products as the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce, in an effort to replace them in the market!"

Zoey shot Levi a complicated look as Iris elaborated.

"Iris, we all know the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce has Levi Group's core technology in the medical and technology field. How do you plan to produce the same products without that information?" Zoey had to ask. Levi could have rebuild his empire anytime he wants if he has Levi Group's core technology.

Iris grinned. "That's the reason why I am impressed by my boss's abilities. He knows all the data and information!"

"Wow! That's crazy!" Zoey was astonished. She glanced at Levi unwittingly.

Levi had an eidetic memory, so he memorized all the information in his mind. But no one expected him to remember, not even Zoey. The information would amount up to a few hundred thousand pages if printed out, so the feat to recall every piece of information seemed impossible to everyone.

Iris was filled with excitement and anticipation. "My boss is simply too mysterious and amazing. I assume he is still single. I will definitely pursue him if I meet with him!"

Zoey smiled. I know how domineering Iris can be, not to mention the stringent requirements needed by a man to meet her expectations. Iris has never fallen for anyone despite their relatively good accomplishments and rich family backgrounds. Perhaps she even raised her standards after meeting with so many outstanding people abroad in the last few years. I know how rare it is for her to be finally attracted to a man. Even I'm starting to wonder what kind of a person he is!

"Good luck! You will definitely achieve that with your qualifications." Zoey said.

However, Levi butted in their conversation. "That's not possible. You can stop dreaming now. He'll never be interested in you."

"What do you mean, Levi Garrison? Do you think you're my boss?" Iris demanded.

Levi nodded. "Yes. I am your boss."

The Protector Chapter 241

Iris narrowed her eyes at Levi.

“Stop looking at me. I will never be interested in you no matter how pretty you are.” Levi said.

Iris sneered. “Fine, I’m not going to make any comment. You were the company’s boss in the past.”

They did not take that seriously because they thought Levi was merely making a joke.

In the days that followed, Zoey’s career was progressing well. She was close to establishing a new company.

At the same time, Iris had gotten used to working in Morris Group. The first idea she proposed was for them to build a new factory.

Although Levi Group had a factory, the size and production were too small. They needed to expand their production scale if they wish to replace the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce.

Iris suggested for them to look for a new place to build the factory.

Inside Morris Group, Kirin gave Iris a thumbs-up. “Your idea impressed the boss. He'll handle the venue and equipment needed to build the new factory, while you will handle the paperwork so that we can begin our production as soon as the factory is established.”

“Okay. I understand.” Iris was excited. I received a compliment from my mysterious boss! Hmph! How dare you say that the boss will never be interested in me, Levi Garrison? Look at how impressed he is with my performance!

At that thought, Iris asked Kirin. “When can I meet with the boss, Mr. Atkinson?”

Kirin smiled. “Be patient. The boss will meet with you when he wants to.”

Anticipation filled Iris's chest. I am going to pursue him when that time comes!

Levi had been working tirelessly in the last few days to deal with the venue and equipment needed for the new factory.

He only had the time to meet with Zoey at night.

Zoey was puzzled by Levi's packed schedule and when she questioned him about it, Levi only told her he found a job.

Zoey felt glad upon hearing that. She was contented as long as Levi was working hard.

...

The North Hampton Chamber of Commerce kept track of Morris Group's plans.

“Hmph! Do they think they can build a new factory as they like? I will make sure they won't be able to secure any place to build their factory!” One of the council members of the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce, Ron Bale, spoke displeasingly.

After searching for days, Morris Group finally found a new place.

The place was originally a large-scaled clothes factory, but was already abandoned for a long time.

However, the size and the strategic location fitted Morris Group's standards to build a new pharmaceutical factory.

The company paid a fifty million deposit in advance. They would purchase the factory for two hundred million by signing a contract today.

Levi went to sign the contract in person.

The executives and upper management of Morris Group reached the venue before Levi and Azure Dragon.

At the office, a lot of people were cramped inside.

A middle-aged, nearly bald man was seated on a chair.

The man exudes arrogance. He leaned on the back of the chair while crossing his legs on the tabletop. He regarded everyone conceitedly while puffing on a cigarette.

Behind him stood a dozen of muscular and menacing men.

Elena introduced both parties. “Mr. Garrison, this is the owner of this factory, Mr. Mason Pena.”

Levi nodded at Mason. “Nice to meet you. I am Morris Group’s representative, here to sign the contract.”

But Mason merely shook his legs and puffed on his cigarette, all the while ignoring Levi.

Levi stopped Azure Dragon as the latter was about to teach Mason a lesson.

“We have to prioritize the contract.” Levi said.

Mason glanced at Levi disdainfully and tossed him an agreement.

“Sign it!”

One of the men standing behind Mason shouted just as Levi was about to flip through the agreement. “You only need to sign on the contract! Why do you have to read through the content and waste our time waiting for you to finish?”

The Protector Chapter

242

“That’s right. We’ve already discussed everything. All you have to do now is to sign the papers. Why did you pay us the deposit if you’re so cautious in the first place?” Mason jeered at Levi.

“Are you trying to force a deal?” Levi asked.

“When did I do that?” Mason sneered.

Levi disregarded him and started to scan through the agreement.

He grimaced after a short while and turned to ask Elena, “What was the price we agreed upon yesterday?”

Elena answered, “two hundred million. We paid a deposit of fifty million yesterday.”

Levi sneered. “That’s not right, Mr. Pena. two hundred million was the price we agreed upon after the discussion yesterday. Why did the figure become two billion on the agreement?”

Everyone gasped after listening to Levi’s comment. They’ve marked up the price by ten folds!

The other executives were shocked after flipping through the agreement. They questioned Mason. “What do you mean by this, Mr. Pena? Why is it two billion listed on the contract now? You better explain yourself!”

Mason glanced at the crowd nonchalantly. “Explanation? Hmph! I’ll be frank with you guys! two hundred million was the price for yesterday. This factory is worth two billion today!”

“That’s improper, Mr. Pena. How can you amend the agreement without mutual consent at the last minute?”

“That’s right. You are violating the contract.”

Elena and the others chided.

Mason said with a smile. “Is there a rule stating that I cannot amend the price? Over ten companies contacted me last night, telling me they are interested in purchasing my factory. Someone even offered me three billion. So two billion is already considered a cheap price!”

That kind of situation was commonly seen on the business field.

A lot of businessmen would change their stance at the last minute because they regretted the offer they accepted. Last-minute changes were either due to the businessmen’s greediness or due to underhand tactics by competitors.

Everyone looked at Levi to sought out his opinion.

Levi beamed at Mason. “In that case, return us the deposit. We will not be buying your factory now.” It is not a difficult task to look for a similar factory like this. I do not have to concede under this kind of circumstance.

Elena, who was in charge of the finance department, said, "Please return the fifty million deposit to us, Mr. Pena."

Unexpectedly, Mason looked up and asked with a confused look. "Deposit? I don't know what you're talking about."

Elena explained patiently. "We paid you fifty million as a deposit yesterday after the discussion with your company. I even have the receipt here with me!"

Mason feigned ignorance. "Did something like that happen?"

"What's going on? Are you trying to play the fool?" Elena was trembling with rage.

"I am not playing the fool. I really don't know anything about this. Look around and speak for yourself. Are the people who engaged in discussion with you yesterday here in this room?" Mason asked.

Elena glanced at her surroundings. They're not here.

"You got cheated by someone else! Our company went bankrupt a long time ago. They were merely the temporary workers for our factory. I think they stole our company's stamp and signed the receipt for you. They're the ones that scammed your money! So look for them if you want your deposit back because I have got nothing to do with this!"

Everyone was dumbfounded after listening to Mason. First, he changed the price from two hundred million to two billion. Now he's trying to scam our deposit. This is the first time we've seen someone as shameless and despicable as him after working in this field for so many years!

However, Levi merely smiled. “So, you do not plan to return us the fifty million right, Mason Pena?”

The Protector Chapter 243

Mason lowered his legs and straightened himself on the chair. He looked at Levi. “What do you mean by that? I don’t have the money with me, so why are you asking me to return the deposit to you?”

Everyone was infuriated by Mason’s attitude.

“Leave right now if you do not want to sign the contract! You are all not welcome here in my office! Send them away!”
Mason ordered.

The ten burly men stepped forward and they started to shove Elena and the others toward the door.

At the same time, over twenty men entered the room with baseball bats in their hands.

Mason Pena has always been a thug. He had hired a group of gang members after earning some money through the clothing factory in the past. Not to mention, he was infamous around the area.

Mason crippled a lot of his business competitors as well as partners. He did not spare their families from a similar fate too. So, many were fearful toward him.

Morris Group was the only party that dared to approach him for a business opportunity.

In actual fact, the factory was worth at most fifty million. Mason was already committing a daylight robbery by asking for two hundred million, much less two billion.

“Get lost before we cripple every last one of you!” The thugs began to threaten Elena and the other employees. They were frightened by the unprecedented situation because they have been mere office workers their entire lives.

Only Levi and Azure Dragon remained rooted in their spots.

Levi asked, “I’ll give you another opportunity to discuss this matter in a civilized manner, Mason Pena!”

Mason stood up and threatened, “So, you’re not going to leave, are you? Do you want me to break your limbs before you’re willing to leave this place?” He waved his hand. “Men, beat him up!”

Azure Dragon withdrew a gun from his waist just as the thugs were about to take action. He pointed the gun at Mason’s head.

“Wait!” Mason yelled.

He slowly raised his hands. His body, which was now covered in a cold sweat, trembled fearfully as his legs wobbled.

The other thugs looked at Mason astoundingly. They could not fathom Mason's hesitation.

But clarity washed over them when they saw the gun in Azure Dragon's hand. All of them were petrified.

Tap tap tap...

A series of hurried footsteps were heard in the hallway the next moment.

Then a few muscular men with various skin complexion rushed into the office.

They were the group of mercenaries led by James.

Plop! Plop! Plop!

The thugs could not even defend themselves now that they're facing a group of professional fighters.

Within a few seconds, they were left sprawling on the floor, covered in bruises.

Mason and his men were dazed.

Azure Dragon grinned. "Weren't you acting all high and mighty? Why don't you put up that arrogant act once more?"

Mason was scared out of his wits as he reminded Azure Dragon. “Please be more careful with that gun in your hand, sir!” He was afraid that Azure Dragon would misfire and end his life right there and then.

Boom!

Azure Dragon lifted the slightly obese Mason single handedly and tossed him on the floor.

Mason yelped painfully. Then he wailed in agony when Levi stepped on his legs.

“I saw you crossing your legs on the table earlier. Are you telling me to break them for you?” Levi asked with a smile.

“No... No...” Mason panted in pain.

Levi sat on the desk and lit a cigarette. Then he questioned Mason after taking a puff. “Do you admit that you’ve received the fifty million deposit from us?”

“I...” Mason hesitated.

Levi stuffed the lit cigarette into Mason’s mouth ruthlessly without saying a word.

“Arrghh...” The latter screamed bloody murder.

“I admit! I admit!” Mason shouted.

The Protector Chapter 244

“OK then, let me ask you, why has the price suddenly increased? And why did you deny us our deposit of 50 million? Who instructed you to do all these?” Levi questioned.

Mason shook his head and replied, “None, it’s all my own doing. There’s no one else that’s in on this.”

The corners of Levi’s mouth curled into an unfathomable smile as he waved at James, and said, “I heard that you’re an expert at interrogating people, show me how you do it!”

“Understood, Mr. Garrison!”

James stepped forward and flashed a devilish grin at Mason. “Don’t worry, it won’t hurt at all!”

James opened a plastic bag which contained all sorts of knives. Just by looking at it was enough to make one’s hair stand.

James picked up a small boning knife and said with a smile, “Mr. Garrison, I intend to use this knife to slice off his fingernails and toenails first... “

Upon hearing those words, Mason could already imagine the excruciating pain which would be inflicted on him.

“After that... “

“I’ll talk!”

Before James could complete his sentence, he was interrupted by Mason Pena.

“I’ll tell you everything! It’s Ron Bale from the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce who instructed me to do that! He told me not to sell this place to you at all costs. Not only that, but he also asked me to find ways to take advantage of your company!”

Mason did not hold back any information and told Levi everything he knew.

“Very well, so it’s the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce!”

Levi fixed his gaze on Mason as he said, “So, are you going to sell this building to me now?”

James, who was beside Levi, sniggered as he stared at Mason.

Mason wiped off the beads of perspiration on his forehead and replied decisively, “Yes! I’ll sell it to your company for two hundred million!”

“Did I say that that’s the price that I’m going to pay?” Levi asked.

“Huh? Isn’t two hundred million the price we agreed upon?”
Mason was confused.

Imitating Mason’s tone, Levi said, “Oh, the price can be changed anytime! There are currently a few dozens of factory buildings for me to choose from. There’s even one that is as cheap as ten million!”

“I’ve made a careful assessment just now. I think this place is worth at most fifty million! I shall purchase this building at fifty million then!”

In fact, Levi had offered a fair price.

Previously, Mason had considered selling the building to another interested party who had proposed thirty million for it.

“I... “

Mason was at a loss for words.

All he could feel was regret!

A deep sense of immeasurable regret!

If I did not listen to Ron and proceeded with the sale earlier on, I would have already received two hundred million.

Now look at what that plan has caused me, I can only settle for fifty million!

After both parties signed the sale and purchase agreement, the construction team which Iris had already engaged, started renovation works in the building. It was estimated that the works would take three days to complete.

The next step would be to wait for the shipment of the equipment.

Even though Mason was upset with how things had turned out, he had still managed to get fifty million.

That very day, Ron from the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce rang Mason up.

“Mason Pena, what’s wrong with you? You sold the building? And for just fifty million? Are you an idiot or what?” Ron lashed out the second Mason answered the phone.

“Ron Bale, who do you think you are? Who gave you the right to tell me off? Let me tell you, you’ve caused me a huge loss! Don’t let me see your face, or I’ll definitely kill you!”

Mason hung up after saying that, without waiting for Ron’s reply.

Ron was so mad that he almost slammed his phone on the ground.

Also present were three other members of the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce, namely Xawery Yount, Braylen Stewart and Wildan Saenz.

They had grim expressions on their faces as well.

“We have to think of something to deal with Morris Group!”

Ron said frustratedly.

Wildan smiled and said, "I just received news that Morris Group had ordered a huge batch of equipment and apparatus from the Dynatic Medical Apparatus Company in the South City!"

"Is there a way for us to interfere with that?" Everyone asked.

"Of course! The owner of Dynatic Medical Apparatus Company happens to be my dormitory mate in college!" Wildan had an insidious smile on his face as he said that.

The Protector Chapter 245

Wildan gave a call to Wylder Prosser, the owner of Dynatic Medical Apparatus Company, on the spot.

Wylder agreed to his old friend's request.

As Dynatic had already signed the purchase order with Morris Group and had also received full payment for the goods, the only thing Wylder could do was to delay the shipment of the goods for as long as possible.

It would create huge problems for Morris Group if the goods were late by a few months.

According to the plan Levi and Iris had, the medical apparatus had to arrive within a week.

“That’s great! Apart from that, we should also impose strict restrictions on all medical equipment and apparatus businesses to ban them from transacting with Morris Group!”

Ron and the other three men looked at each other with knowing smiles on their faces.

“Morris Group, you’re just a greenhorn. Pitting yourself against the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce is going to make your life really difficult!”

The men’s cunning laughter resonated through the room.

The North Hampton Chamber of Commerce acted quickly and had issued prohibition notices to the relevant companies.

There were not many companies which were engaged in the sale of medical apparatus in the first place.

And limits had been imposed on all of those companies as well.

Any company which attempted to sell equipment to Morris Group would be openly declaring itself as the enemy of the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce.

So it was only natural that no one would dare to take such a risk.

Levi and his team had not realized that they were already in deep trouble.

After all, the company had already finalized the purchase agreement with Dynatic.

Meanwhile, Levi had been busy getting in touch with his former employees.

Those who had previously worked under him were all in dire straits, as they had been blacklisted by the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce, the Rogers family, as well as the Garrison family.

As such, no matter how capable they were, it would still be impossible for them to gain employment.

After more than ten days of recruitment, twenty seven talents had returned to the company.

Some of them were members from the private technical group which Levi had set up previously.

One of the members was Talia Stone, a top student whom Levi had previously scouted from the Pharmaceutical University. She was one of the pillars of the technical team, and Levi was very glad to have her back.

Talia was very excited to be back as well.

“Do you know where the others are now?” Levi asked.

Talia thought for a while before replying, “Mr. Garrison, I only know the whereabouts of our team leader and the two assistant leaders, but I haven’t heard from the rest of the team members.

The two assistant leaders, namely Tom and Charlie have both been headhunted by the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce. I heard that they are doing really well now!”

Levi let out a sigh.

When the technical team was first set up, for security reasons, the core technology was split into three; the team leader and the two assistant leaders each wielded one third of it.

Logically speaking, the technology which the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce currently had possession of, must have been obtained from the two assistant leaders.

However, word had it that the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce was already coming close to having the entire core technology.

That would imply that the team leader, Isaiah, had also divulged his portion of the technology to them.

“How about Isaiah? Has he joined the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce too?” Levi asked.

Talia shook her head and replied, “No, our leader had remained loyal all the way! He would rather die than to betray the team. He remained firm no matter what tactics the other party used on him, whether to tempt or force him into giving up the technology.

He did not budge even when they broke his leg. From what I know, Mr. Wade had opened a small pharmacy and is just getting by! Thankfully, his pretty wife had stayed by his side throughout the entire ordeal. She even used up most of her savings to help him start the business!”

Levi got the address of Isaiah’s pharmacy from Talia.

Around half an hour later, he arrived at the pharmacy, which was in a small alley.

Levi pushed open the door and was greeted by a middle-aged man, who approached him with a limp.

“Sir, are you looking for any medicine?” The man asked.

Levi recognized Isaiah at first glance, even though it seemed like he had aged twenty years...

The man was only in his thirties, but had the appearance of someone in his fifties.

“Isaiah! It’s me!” Levi exclaimed.

“What? You... You’re Mr. Garrison...”

Isaiah took a while to recognize Levi. He was overwhelmed with emotions as tears welled up in his eyes.

The Protector Chapter 246

“You’ve suffered greatly all these years, Isaiah!” Levi glanced at Isaiah Wade’s legs.

Isaiah wiped the tears off his face. “I’m fine, Mr. Garrison. I’m so glad to see you again!”

Levi patted his shoulder. “Don’t worry, Isaiah. I am here to bring you back this time!”

At that moment, an annoying voice was heard. “Why are you crying, you useless junk? Are you reminiscing your dead parents or something?”

A woman walked out from within the house swiftly after.

She wore heavy makeup on her face and was dressed provocatively. Her eyelashes batted in a seductive manner. In addition to her fashionable appearance and mature temperament, her body was voluptuous. Any ordinary man would have a hard time peeling their eyes off her.

Levi glanced at her and saw that the woman was dressed in luxurious clothing. She wore Chanel clothes, carried an LV bag, paired with Ferragamo high heels. Strapped on her wrist was an Omega wristwatch worth over a hundred thousand.

Levi could not imagine such a wealthy woman living inside that little pharmacy. But he had seen that woman before. She was Isaiah’s wife, Sasha Lynch.

Many of Isaiah’s colleagues were jealous of him in the past because of Sasha’s beauty.

Isaiah treated his wife extremely well. He would always hand over all of his salaries to her, and would eat instant noodles by himself for a month in order to save up so that he could afford to treat his wife to an extravagant meal.

Sasha eyed Levi dumbfoundedly for a few seconds. “Levi Garrison? Hahaha! Your ex-con boss is here to visit you, you useless junk! You pieces of trash finally have the chance to reunite.” Sasha laughed uncontrollably.

Isaiah grimaced. He hurriedly said to his wife, “Honey, mind your words please. He’s my boss!”

“What do you mean by that, you useless junk! How dare you oppose me?” Sasha screamed angrily.

Isaiah was well-known for being afraid of his wife. He immediately lowered his head.

“Know your place, Isaiah Wade! I am providing you your daily meals, accommodation, and clothes! Do not forget that I am the person who sponsored this pharmacy! So how dare you oppose you? Did you got tired of living?” Sasha yelled.

“I’m sorry, honey... I will not repeat this mistake anymore...” Isaiah apologized submissively.

Levi felt chills spreading across his chest at that sight. This woman was obedient and polite when Isaiah was successful. She even cooked his lunch and sent the meals to his office every day back then. But look at her now. She’s mistreating him now that he’s down and out.

The Protector Chapter 247

Sasha glanced at Levi and jeered at Isaiah. “Why am I stuck with a useless junk like you? You gave up a job that would pay you ten million annually for this ex-con in the past.

Look at how well Tom Frazier and Charlie Reeds are doing now. They are receiving an annual salary of twenty million, driving luxurious cars, and staying in expensive villas. What about you? You are living in the dumps!”

Isaiah apologized again. “Honey, this is all my fault. I am a piece of trash. But this has got nothing to do with Mr. Garrison!”

“Hmph! Both of you are pieces of shit!”

At that moment, a series of honks were heard from outside the pharmacy.

A Mercedes-Benz worth over a million was parked outside the store.

A man dressed in a suit got out of the car. He appeared to be an elite in the business world.

“What’s taking you so long, Sasha? I’ve been waiting for half a day now.” A man entered the pharmacy.

The man was stunned when he saw Levi.

He was none other than one of the traitors who turned against Levi, Tom Frazier. He was the vice team leader, as well as the person who disclosed one-third of the information related to Levi Group's core technology.

“Oh? I thought my eyes were playing tricks on me. But it is you, the crippled Mr. Garrison! You're finally released from prison. I could've picked you up if you'd informed me earlier!” Tom said cheerfully.

He glanced at Isaiah's leg and jeered at Levi. “You're a cripple, Mr. Garrison, and so is Isaiah. Are you guys preparing to form a team to participate in the Paralympics?”

“Hahaha... That's right! They can be a team of cripples!” Sasha could not contain her laughter.

Levi said, “Do you speak to your parents with that foul mouth of yours?”

Tom was displeased instantaneously. He pointed at Levi. “I cannot say anything to you if you were the Levi Garrison from six years ago. But who are you to insult me now? Do you have a death wish?”

Isaiah chided subconsciously, “How dare you speak to Mr. Garrison with that tone! Do you think you're qualified to carry that attitude in front of him?”

Isaiah thought of Levi as his savior. So he would not allow anyone to criticize Levi.

“Oh? Are you an accomplished man now, Isaiah? Since when do you have the guts to defy me?” Tom patted Isaiah’s face.

Isaiah shouted angrily as he unleashed the pent-up rage in his heart. “You are not welcome here! This is my place, so get out now!”

The Protector Chapter 248

Tom laughed after listening to Isaiah. “Are you hearing this, Sasha? Did he just say that this place is his?”

Sasha slapped Isaiah furiously. “What’s wrong with you? This is my place! You’ve got nothing to do with this store. Moreover, how dare you talk to Tom in that unfriendly tone?”

Isaiah covered his cheek incredulously. “Did you just slap me because of him?”

“That’s right! I slapped you because of Tom. Tom is the only man I love!” Sasha hugged Tom’s arm and plastered her body to him intimately after she spoke.

Tom held Sasha in his arm and deliberately grabbed her buttocks.

Boom!

Isaiah was dumbstruck by that sight.

Witnessing his wife offering herself up to another man was an utter humiliation to a man.

Tom chuckled smugly. “Do you know why I’m here to pick Sasha up? That’s because I’m bringing her to the hotel! Have you taken a look at what your wife is carrying in her bag? She’s going to put on a fashion show for me while wearing clothes that you’ve never even seen!”

Tom took out a few sets of outfit from within Sasha’s bag.

Sasha acted coquettishly toward Tom. “You’re so mean...”

Isaiah felt blood rushing to his brain as his face contorted with rage.

“I must compliment your wife, Isaiah. She’s so great in bed that I can’t get enough of her even after six years!” Tom kissed Sasha to prove his statement.

Sasha laughed skittishly. “You’re amazing too, Tom. This useless junk here is nothing compared to you. I doubt his lower body is still functioning at this point!” She glowered at Isaiah as she made the comment.

Tom added, “Perhaps you’re wondering why Sasha stayed by your side for so long? That’s because she has yet to lay her hands on the information of the core technology in your possession.

Otherwise, Sasha would've left you a long time ago! You're only needed because of those data. Other than that, you're completely useless!"

Sasha said disdainfully, "That's right. Why would I sacrifice so much time staying by your side if not for the information? I have to admit, you are indeed a good secret-keeper. I wasted six years with you, but never once had you divulge the complete information to me!"

Isaiah nearly experienced a cardiac arrest as he listened to those brazen words from the shameless couple. Everything's clear to me now.

The reason why Sasha was reluctant to let me touch her body in the last six years, the reason behind Tom's frequent visits to the pharmacy, the luxurious clothes, and the endless amount of money she has even though she's unemployed. I'm being cuckolded.

More importantly, the man who wronged me is my own apprentice. I trained Tom and Charlie when they were young. They even addressed me as their master back then.

I was moved by Sasha's dedication to staying with me even though she mistreated me all these years. Now I finally understand the reason behind all of these!

The Protector Chapter 249

Isaiah had doubted Sasha since a long time ago, but his affection toward her caused him to place blind faith in his cheating wife.

On the other hand, Levi finally gained revelation as to how the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce managed to get near-complete information on Levi Group's core technology.

So it was Sasha that'd tricked Isaiah into telling her all these years. Otherwise, he's not the type of person to divulge any of the information.

Tom sized up Levi and sneered. "What's the matter? Did you find a helper, Isaiah? Well, I'll be frank with you. Levi Garrison is just a man who's relying on his wife now! He's the same as you, a crippled, useless piece of junk!"

Sasha glared at her husband menacingly. "Since we've told you everything, it's time for you to get lost, Isaiah Wade! This is my place, after all!"

Tom held Sasha closer in his arms. "That's right. You're as good as a piece of trash now that your usefulness has come to an end!"

"Did you know, Isaiah? I've bought two houses and two cars with the salary you've given me in the past. You're just a poor loser now. Do you think you're qualified to stay as my man?" Sasha jeered at Isaiah.

Tom laughed. "I'll let you in on another secret, Isaiah. I am not the only man who cuckolded you. Plenty of others in the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce slept with your wife too. They even praised her for her outstanding techniques!"

"I'll kill you!" Isaiah rushed forward with reddened eyes and veins throbbing visibly on his forehead.

Bam!

Tom punched Isaiah easily and the latter fell backward.

He was about to swing another punch, but Levi caught his wrist.

Tom staggered backward after Levi exerted a little force to push him off.

Levi's idea was to have Isaiah teach the shameless couple a lesson they would remember for the rest of their lives, which was the reason why he hadn't interfere until that moment.

In the meantime, Sasha tossed a suitcase filled with Isaiah's belongings on the floor. "Take your rubbish with you and get the hell out of here!"

Isaiah felt his heart wrenched with pain as he was chased out of the house mercilessly by his wife. I worked so hard in the past with the sole intention of providing Sasha with a comfortable life. Not only did she scammed all my money and cheated on me, but she's also even chasing me away now.

Isaiah stared at the shameless couple with malicious intent. His body was trembling with rage.

Levi asked Isaiah, "Do you want to surpass them, Isaiah? Do you want to render them speechless and make them look up to you?"

"I do!"

"Do you want that slut to grovel on the floor and repent?"

"I do!"

"Do you want that despicable man to kneel before you and beg for your forgiveness?"

"I do!"

"Will you accept my offer if I provide you with such an opportunity now?" Levi asked.

"I will!" Isaiah roared. "I swear to accomplish great success even if I have to work my ass off! I will make these two shameless people pay for their sins!"

Isaiah steeled his resolution as the last shred of love he had for Sasha vanished.

“Great. You are my employee from this moment onward.” Levi announced.

“Hahaha, did you hear him, Tom? He wants us to pay the price for our sins!” Sasha laughed out loud.

Tom leaned against the Mercedes-Benz and sneered. “You’re a fool, Isaiah. Are you expecting Levi Garrison to give you the chance to rise up? He can’t even take care of himself now! Much less give you any kind of opportunity. What a joke!”

Sasha added. “That’s right. Don’t you have a brain you can think with? Levi was recently released from prison. Do you still expect him to be Morris Group’s boss? In your dreams!”

Isaiah narrowed his eyes and shrieked at them. “I believe in Mr. Garrison! He will provide me with a platform to prosper. By that time, I swear to make you pay!”

“Sure. We’ll be waiting for you. You’re such a hilarious brainless git...” The two of them entered the car and left before Isaiah’s eyes.

The Protector Chapter 250

Tears came to Isaiah, a middle-aged man, as he sobbed uncontrollably and cried his heart out.

The shameless couple's outrageous behavior drove Isaiah to the brink of depression.

He apologized. "I've wronged you, Mr. Garrison! I've revealed almost everything I know of the core technology to that bitch! I'm really useless!"

Levi smiled. "Don't worry about that, Isaiah. I foresaw that the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce would lay their hands on the core technology."

Isaiah was a smart man. After pondering for a while, he connected the pieces of information in his mind. Then he asked surprisingly, "Are you planning to fight against the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Garrison?"

"That's right!"

"But Mr. Garrison... You're recently released from prison..." How do you plan to fight against them?

Levi said with a smile, "I suppose you know about Levi Group's recent name-changing ceremony, Isaiah? The company is called Morris Group now."

Isaiah's body shuddered greatly, listening to him. He widened his eyes incredulously. "Are you by any chance the boss of Morris Group, Mr. Garrison?"

"Shh! Let's keep a low profile." Levi gestured for him to keep quiet.

Soon, A Rolls-Royce Phantom swiftly came to a halt next to them.

Let's go. Follow me to the company now. We'll use the shortest time possible to establish a technical team. We are going to regain our previous glory and make them regret!" Levi said.

Isaiah felt his blood boiling with anticipation. He agreed without a second thought. "I've waited this day for so long!"

Tears of joy brimmed in his eyes.

He had spent the last six years learning and following updates in the industry, maintaining and polishing his professional knowledge.

Isaiah took out his phone and dialed Sasha's number.

Sasha said to him mockingly after the call connected, "What's the matter, you useless piece of crippled trash? Did you regret your decision, so you're calling me to beg me? Well, it's too late now. In my mind, you're no better than a stray dog. You should just get lost!"

Isaiah grimaced. "This is the last time I'm calling you, Sasha Lynch! I will make sure you regret what you've done. You will kneel before me and repent for your sins by that time. Don't worry because that day will come sooner than you think!"

"Hahaha, you should consider a career as a comedian! How do you plan to realize your big talks?"

Sasha and Tom's laughter was heard from the other end of the phone.

Then, Tom pressed his body against Sasha. "Should we film our intimate moment today and send that cripple the video?"

"Hmm, you're so bad..."

Isaiah exploded with rage after listening to their interaction.

Bam!

Crack!

He smashed his cellphone on the ground forcefully. Shame! This is the worst shame a man can experience!

Isaiah and Levi were walking on the streets, discussing the company's future direction after visiting Morris Group.

Tom and Sasha found Isaiah at that moment. Their disheveled clothes reflected the activity they were engaged in moments ago.

"Let's go and get a divorce! It's the right time for me to finally ditch you!" Sasha jeered at Isaiah.

"I..." Isaiah hesitated.

Making that important decision at a moment's notice was challenging for him. His relationship with Sasha had lasted for a decade, after all.

Tom immediately mocked him. “What’s the matter? You don’t want to get a divorce? Do you plan to linger around Sasha in the future?”

Sasha pushed Isaiah. “Get lost! You’re no longer worthy of me!”

“That’s it? That’s how easily you’re disregarding our relationship that has lasted for so many years?” Isaiah questioned her with a stern expression.

“Haha! You have the audacity to ask me that question? Let me be honest with you. I only stuck with you for ten years because I coveted your money!” Sasha answered mercilessly.

Isaiah was about to agree to her request to file for a divorce when Levi stepped in. “Divorce? In your dreams!”

The Protector Chapter 251

“I will heed Mr. Garrison’s advice. I will not divorce you!”

Sasha and Tom nearly passed out from anger.

“Fine! Just you wait! I’ll force you to sign the papers if it’s the last thing I do.” The two of them left furiously afterward.

Although Isaiah did not understand Levi’s intention, he believed Levi to have his reasons.

He swore to take revenge on Sasha and Tom from the moment he was chased out of the house.

Soon after that fiasco, Isaiah successfully entered Morris Group and headed the Medical Technology department.

At the same time, Morris Group released a hiring announcement to recruit professionals in medical and technology-related fields with lucrative salaries.

A lot of people put forth their best effort in an attempt to join Morris Group following the announcement.

The news quickly reached Sasha's ears. Coincidentally, she was having a meal with Tom and Charlie.

"Hmph! I can't believe Morris Group decided to hire that cripple!" Sasha was not pleased. I expected him to live a pitiful life on the streets after I chased him out of the house. I certainly did not expect him to get a job so quickly.

Tom was enraged too. "Isaiah Wade's name is blacklisted by all the companies in North Hampton. Morris Group's boldness to recruit him is unbelievable!"

Charlie said with a smile. "Don't worry about it. He's not going to last in Morris Group."

Sasha was confused. "What do you mean?"

"Well, Morris Group will cease to exist in North Hampton soon!

Isaiah will once again become a piece of trash by that time.”
Charlie sneered.

Tom was more focused on the technical side of the business, so he was not informed of some insider information.

He asked, “Is there something wrong with the company, Charlie?”

“Morris Group has been provoking the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce all this while. The councils of the Chamber have begun to take action. Isaiah was brought over to Morris Group to aid in the production of pharmaceuticals. But the equipment needed is no longer available in the market due to the Chamber of Commerce’s influence. Just you wait. Isaiah will be living on the streets soon.” Charlie laughed.

“Hahaha... This is awesome! Isaiah is destined to be a crippled loser. He’s really a joke, thinking he’s able to make us regret the things we’ve done.” Tom said.

Sasha was overjoyed as she listened to Charlie’s predictions.

At that moment, Charlie hugged Sasha and teased her. “Tom said you’re mine for tonight!”

“You’re a meanie, Charlie...” Sasha leaned against Charlie’s chest and acted coquettishly.

Meanwhile, Isaiah immersed himself in his work. He had assembled the technical team too.

Isaiah was a brilliant man. He fine-tuned the previous core technology, allowing Morris Group to produce products with better quality and cheaper prices compared to the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce.

His efforts had pushed Morris Group one step forward in their goal of replacing the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce.

In just four days, Isaiah with the rest of the team had finalized the adjustments.

After all, Isaiah had been ruminating on that matter in the last six years.

They had made the necessary arrangements at the factory as well. So all that was left was to wait for the production to begin.

Iris was holding a meeting when she looked at Doug Rice, the head of the procurement department, and said. “Mr. Rice, what’s going on with the equipment we ordered from Dynatic? The items were supposed to arrive in three days, It’s been five days now!”

Doug wiped the nervous sweat off his face. “Ms. Anabelle, Dynatic recently informed us they are repairing the equipment we ordered from them due to an unforeseen issue. They told us to wait...”

Iris retorted immediately. “That’s not possible! I checked the equipment in person previously. There’s nothing wrong with the machines!”

“Are you saying that Dynatic is deliberately delaying the shipment?” Doug asked.

“Contact Dynatic’s owner, Mr. Wylder Prosser, for me!”

Iris questioned Wylder as soon as the call connected, “Mr. Prosser, where is the equipment I ordered from you?”

“About that, there’s something wrong with the machines purchased by Morris Group. So you will have to wait.” Wylder answered.

“For how long?”

“At least a month.”

The Protector Chapter 252

Everyone gasped after listening to Wylder’s response. They are obviously doing this on purpose!

Wylder added. “I sent the machines back to the original manufacturer to undergo repair and services. Please be considerate since we already speed up the progress to a one month waiting time.”

Iris said, "I'm going to your company to assess the situation in person. You can ship us the other stocks you're keeping. We are in a hurry, so we don't have the time to wait any longer!"

"Oh no, I'm so sorry, Ms. Anabelle. I've sent out all my stocks because other parties purchased the equipment."

"Is that so?" Iris kept her cool. She knew he was provoking her on purpose.

"That's right! I can't believe this coincidence either. Out of all the equipment I shipped out, only the ones ordered by Morris Group are faulty." Wylder smiled cunningly.

Everyone was infuriated by Wylder's tone.

The delay is clearly intentional! We've prepared everything, and those equipment are the only element lacking now!

"Ms. Anabelle, I'm going to have to trouble you to wait for a little longer," Wylder said with a smile.

"I can't! You promised to send the machines here in three days. So what's the deal now?" Iris was hopping mad.

Wylder sighed. "If that's the case, I do have another idea..."

"What idea?" Iris asked.

"You will have to top up more money. I can send you the backup stock from my personal storage." Wylder answered.

“How much are you asking for?”

“You ordered the equipment for five hundred million previously. If you give me five billion now, I will send you the backup stock immediately. You should know that this equipment is my trump card. So the price that I’m suggesting is a very reasonable one.”

He’s outrageously greedy! All the executives in Morris Group were astounded. No one expected Wylder to pull off a scheme like that.

Iris jeered at him. “Do you take me for a fool, Wylder Prosser?”

“Haha. We can call off this deal if you’re reluctant.” Wylder was determined.

“Fine. Then refund us the money. We’re rescinding our order from you!” Iris chided.

“Sure. I will return the money to you. But I’ll be honest with you, you will regret your decision because I am the only person who has the equipment you’re looking for. I’ll be waiting for Morris Group to beg me later on.”

Iris began looking for another supplier after Wylder refunded the money. She contacted all the medical equipment suppliers in North Hampton and cities nearby, but none of them was willing to sell them the machines when they heard Morris Group’s name.

Doug Rice and the other employees were on the verge of tears. They are clearly targeting our company.

“What should we do now. Boss required us to begin the production in these few days. The North Hampton Chamber of Commerce will know of our intention once we drag this any longer.” Iris was anxious. It will be too slow for us to acquire the equipment from other places. The transport will be a huge problem we have to address, due to the possibility of others sabotaging the machines en route to the factory.

Doug asked, “Should we discuss this matter with Wylder Prosser again? The additional cost doesn’t matter. Acquiring the equipment is our top priority now.”

Iris rubbed her temples. “Let me think of another way.”

At the same time, in Bale Group, one of the companies under the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce.

Ron Bale, Wildan Saenz, and others gathered together.

“Hahaha. Let me see how you’re going to resolve this now, Morris Group!” Ron smiled wickedly.

Wildan was delighted as well. “I told my friend, Doug, to request five billion from them.”

Xawery Yount asked the question in his mind, “What if Morris Group is willing to pay the sum?”

The Protector Chapter 253

Braylen Stewart responded cheerfully. “Then we’ll let Doug provide them with the equipment. But we will create some trouble during the transportation to destroy the machines!”

“Hahaha... How much loss will Morris Group suffer by that time?”

The few cunning men were overjoyed.

Another day passed, and Iris failed to come up with any new idea.

She wanted to resolve the issue on her own because she was desperate to prove her capabilities to her mysterious boss.

In the end, Iris contacted Wylder Prosser.

“Hahaha, I was wondering who called. Didn’t I tell you that you’ll regret your decision? So, what’s up?” Wylder said smugly. Morris Group is filled with useless and incompetent workers. They have to beg me, after all.

Iris cut to the chase. “Mr. Prosser, I can pay you an additional one and a half billion at most.”

“You’re decreasing my asking price from five billion to one and a half billion? Haha! I have to say, you’re good at negotiating! I’ll have to host a meeting to discuss this matter.” Wylder did not reject her immediately.

After he hung up on Iris’s call, Wylder contacted Wildan Saenz and the others through a video call. “What should I do now? Morris Group offered to pay one and a half billion instead.” He asked.

After a brief discussion among the four people, Wildan answered with a smile, “Sell the equipment to them, Wylder. We will cause some trouble during the transportation. Those machines will never reach Morris Group!”

Wylder was excited. “Doesn’t that mean I made a billion and a half for nothing?”

“Haha! Exactly!”

“Wait for another day before you get back to her, Wylder,” Wildan suggested.

“Alright. Got it!”

Inside Morris group.

Iris and the other executives were anxiously waiting for Wylder Prosser’s reply.

Isaiah reported to Levi at once after he was informed of the situation.

Levi was surprised after listening to him. I expected us to stumble into such a predicament if we purchase the equipment in North Hampton. That's why I asked Iris to order the machines at South City. I did not anticipate this problem to arise.

North Hampton Chamber of Commerce's extensive influence piqued Levi's interest. It's not fun to target them if they do not provide me with any challenge. "Alright. I'll handle this, Isaiah."

Levi dialed another number. "I need some equipment to arrive at my place by tomorrow."

"Consider it done, Sir!" The person on the other end of the phone answered.

Inside Morris Group.

Isaiah informed everyone that their boss had dealt with the issue regarding the procurement of the equipment.

"What? We can receive the equipment by tomorrow?" Iris was beyond excited.

"That's right!" Isaiah nodded.

Iris looked at Isaiah in envy. He's able to interact with the mysterious boss directly.

Iris asked curiously. "Mr. Wade, what kind of a person is our boss?"

"He's a great person and the man I admire the most in my life!"

Isaiah responded.

Elena agreed as well. “That’s right. Our boss is also my idol!”

Iris’s curiosity intensified after receiving their answers. I must pursue him!

Wylder Prosser contacted Iris the next day at 9 o’clock in the morning.

“What’s the matter, Mr. Prosser?”

Wylder said, “Our company has decided to sell the equipment to you for one and a half billion, Ms. Anabelle. We will send the equipment to you by today once you pay the amount. You are free to arrange your own transportation if you’re worried.”

In Wylder’s opinion, Morris Group would definitely agree to his proposal because they were desperate.

“Oh, you’re calling because of the equipment. That’s not needed anymore. We’ve acquired what we needed.”

The Protector Chapter 254

“What?” Wylder was taken aback. They’ve acquired the equipment? How is that possible? The North Hampton Chamber of Commerce had prohibited every medical equipment company from dealing with Morris Group. So how could they've possibly lay their hands on the machines?

“Are you sure, Ms. Anabelle?” Wylder questioned her with uncertainty.

“That’s right. They are much more efficient. We will receive the equipment by 12 o’clock in the afternoon today.” Iris replied to him.

“Ah? Where did you purchase the equipment?”

“That’s none of your concern. This is our company’s matter. Goodbye!”

Wylder Prosser slumped in his seat, disheartened. There goes my wonderful dream of earning one and a half billion effortlessly.

He hurriedly reported the unexpected turn of events to Wildan Saenz and the others.

The few councils of the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce were astounded as well.

“They’ve procured the equipment?”

All four men utilized their connections at once to investigate the matter. What they found was that none of the medical equipment companies in North Hampton and surrounding cities had sold any machine to Morris Group.

Where did they source out the equipment then?

“The most important thing to do now is to figure out the transportation route of the equipment. We need to stop them immediately!”

They were in a state of agitation.

Meanwhile, Levi was hanging out with Azure Dragon and the others.

Levi received a phone call from Kyrie Duncan, the head of the logistics department in the North Hampton Warzone, at that moment.

“The medical equipment you purchased from North Hampton Warzone’s Defense Research And Development Centre is being transported now, Sir! As you ordered, we’ve arranged a fully-armed squadron to escort the logistic team!” Kyrie reported.

No one expected Levi to procure the equipment from the Warzone’s Defense Research And Development Centre.

Levi nodded. “Okay. Thank you. This set of equipment is bought under Morris Group’s name, Mr. Duncan. I’ve transferred the payment. Please check.”

“Understood, Sir!”

Levi reminded after hanging up the phone call. “Kirin, tell Iris and the others to wait for the equipment at the factory. The machines will arrive in two hours.”

Then he looked at Azure Dragon. “Spread the information on the transportation route, Azure Dragon!”

Inside Bale Group.

“We’ve identified the transportation route! There’s still one and a half hour for us to stop them.” Ron Bale glanced at his watch worriedly.

Braylen Stewart said through gritted teeth, “Should I contact Phantasma? We’ll let him handle this!”

“Okay. Make sure Phantasma destroys those machines!” Their eyes gleamed with malicious intent.

Phantasma was one of the mafia bosses in North Hampton. He ran a credit company, with most of his employees being thugs.

He was a ruthless man who would not hesitate to kill another person. Phantasma often did the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce’s biddings. It was a common thing for him to cripple others while dealing with those matters.

“We can rest assured if Phantasma handles this task.”

“He’s cruel and meticulous. What he does will never be traced back to us even if he murders someone.”

On a secluded highway in North Hampton.

A bunch of vicious-looking men placed plenty of nails on the road and parked multiple cars to block the path.

A long-haired man dressed in a black outfit was seated inside an SUV parked aside. His fingers were covered with rings as he puffed on a cigar.

If one were to look closely, a pupil was missing from one of his eyes, so his appearance was indeed frightening like a ghost. The man was none other than the infamous Phantasma.

“Stay vigilant and work smart later on. They reminded us to cripple a few people as a warning to Morris Group...”
Phantasma’s hoarse voice was capable of sending chills down others’ spines.

The Protector Chapter 255

“Don’t worry, boss!”

Phantasma’s subordinates rubbed their palms together in excitement. Strapped around their waists were various sharp blades.

The logistic team finally arrived after a short while.

The logistic team was made up of thirty cars because the machines were worth up to five hundred million, after all.

The car leading the team came to an abrupt halt upon noticing the row of cars messily parked in the middle of the road.

The rest of the cars stopped as well.

Doug Rice was seated inside the car leading the team.

He was about to get out of the car and check out the situation when he saw over a dozen menacing-looking men advancing in his direction.

Doug was scared out of his wits.

Phantasma and his underlings walked up to the car and he knocked on the car window.

Doug was fearful as he looked at the batons in their hands. He immediately lowered the car window.

Phantasma croaked. "Are you from Morris Group?"

"Yes... That... That's right..." Doug nodded.

"Okay. You may leave now, but those machines will have to stay." Phantasma ordered.

"I can't do that. We can't leave without the equipment..." Doug said.

The rest of his sentence was stuck in his throat as Phantasma's subordinates glared at him.

Doug immediately contacted Iris and informed him of the predicament.

Iris and the others were worried sick.

But Elena was unusually calm. “There’s no need to worry. Boss has arranged everything. All we have to do is wait here patiently.”

Phantasma led his men toward the back of the convoy afterward.

Although the Warzone Defense Research And Development Centre produced the equipment, the logistic team was not provided by the army. Instead, it was Doug Rice who had hired the logistic team.

Phantasma and his men would have fled in fright if they saw that it was a fleet of military vehicles.

All the carriages attached to the cars were covered by black drapes.

Phantasma and his men removed the black drapes and sized up the equipment underneath.

They smiled wickedly when they have ascertained all thirty cars to be loaded with the medical equipment.

Phantasma contacted Ron. “Mr. Bale, I’ve checked all thirty cars, and all of them are carrying the equipment.”

“Excellent! Destroy all the machines, Phantasma! Morris Group can dream about laying their hands on the equipment!” Ron said coldly.

“Okay. I will check the rest of the cars and destroy everything. I’ll also cripple a few men afterward.” Phantasma continued to examine the remaining vehicles.

The rest of the cars were loaded with accessories and spare parts of the machines.

In the end, there were only three cars left to check.

Phantasma felt panic rising within him at the sight of the last three cars. For some unknown reason, His left eyelid was twitching continuously.

With an apprehensive heart, Phantasma walked up to the cars.

He used his baton to part the drapes.

The interior of the car was dark, but he could make out a group of people inside.

One of Phantasma’s subordinates exclaimed, “There are so many people inside!”

Another man added. “These must be the workers to unload the equipment.”

Phantasma ordered harshly, “All of you, get out of the car! Someone come and part the drapes!”

Two of his underlings parted the drapes. Sunlight illuminated the dark interior at once.

Everyone was frightened when they saw the people sitting

inside the car.

Phantasma and his men dropped their batons unwittingly. The cigarettes held between their lips fell as their jaws dropped.

Inside the car were over a dozen men dressed in military outfits. They were pointing their loaded guns at Phantasma and his subordinates.

No one expected to see a group of fully-armed soldiers inside the car.

“Did you just order us to get out of the car?” The company commander leading the group pressed his pistol against Phantasma’s head.

The Protector Chapter 256

Swish...

Everyone got out of the car.

The rest of the soldiers in the other two cars got out as well.

Over a hundred armed soldiers surrounded Phantasma and his men while pointing their guns at them.

Phantasma and his subordinates were scared out of their wits. They were so close to losing bladder control.

The unexpected turn of events was completely unimaginable to Phantasma and the others.

Phantasma and his gang dropped their batons.

Some even succumbed to the heavy atmosphere as they slumped onto the ground.

Phantasma, with a gun pressed up against his head, was trembling fearfully. He raised his hands and shouted. "This is a misunderstanding! This is all just a misunderstanding!"

The company commander said with a stern voice, "I am the North Hampton Warzone Defense Research And Development Centre 8th platoon company commander, Boris Diaw, tasked to escort the medical equipment from the warzone to Morris Group! Who are you?"

Phantasma nearly passed out after listening to his introduction.

His subordinates were worse. Some had already fainted on the ground.

Most of them had already collapsed on the ground in fear.

They finally knew where Morris Group sourced out the equipment. They purchased from the Warzone Defense Research and Development Centre! No wonder there is a platoon of soldiers escorting them. Damn it! I regret taking up this job. I wouldn't have the guts to even come here if I knew where this equipment came from! Ron Bale and his crappy friends scammed me!

Phantasma was on the verge of tears. Why didn't you load these items into military vehicles? We would've fled immediately if that was the case!

"Arrest them!" Boris commanded.

Phantasma and his men were detained. They were aware of the implications following their arrests. Our lives are ruined. Completely ruined! But we must not expose our employer. Otherwise, even our family members will face trouble.

In the end, all the equipment arrived safely at Morris Group's pharmaceutical factory.

The machines were finally installed after half a day's work.

The materials procured by Iris had reached too.

They could begin their production starting that night.

Isaiah monitored the whole process as the technical advisor.

Levi tagged along with Isaiah to survey the factory.

Iris was surprised to see Levi. “Why are you here?”

“Why can’t I be here?” Levi answered with a question of his own.

Isaiah smiled awkwardly. “Ms. Anabelle, Mr. Ga... He followed me here...”

Clarity washed over Iris. “Oh, I understand now. No wonder Zoey said you found a job. Did Mr. Wade offer you a position because you are acquainted with him for so long?”

Levi beamed at her. “So what if that’s the case?”

“Fine. I’ll allow you to stay in Morris Group as one of the technical advisors for Zoey’s sake. But I am your superior from now on. You have to address me as Ms. Anabelle whenever you see me.” Iris said proudly.

Iris had always been a competitive person. She felt excited as she thought to herself. I swore to myself six years ago that I will surpass Levi Garrison when he established Levi Group. So I went abroad to further my career. I can’t help but feel a sense of achievement now that he’s my subordinate.

However, she failed to notice the odd expression on Isaiah and Elena's faces.

The person in charge of the pharmaceutical factory, Luka Parker, reported, "We've calibrated all the equipment, Ms. Anabelle. We can start our production tonight."

"Great! Ask everyone to be on standby. We will begin production at 8 o'clock tonight!"

Iris lamented after she was done with the arrangements, "Our boss is too mysterious, isn't he?"

"That's right. So is Mr. Atkinson. Both of them are often missing." Doug and the others added.

The Protector Chapter 257

Elena and Isaiah exchanged glances. They are indeed mysterious. All of you don't even recognize him when he's standing right before your eyes.

Iris said in front of everyone, "Our boss is amazing. He's capable of purchasing the equipment from the Warzone Defense Research And Development Centre. My admiration for him grows more by the day."

"Ms. Anabelle, since you're still single, you should consider pursuing the boss if he's single too." Doug and the others teased her.

Iris nodded brazenly. “I will definitely pursue him if he’s single! I will become your lady boss in the future!”

Iris had grown accustomed to the culture abroad. She did not shy away from expressing her thoughts.

Levi frowned upon hearing her words. She’s hopeless for harboring an interest in her best friend’s husband.

Morris Group’s procurement spread like wild fire among North Hampton’s business world.

Countless were shocked to their cores, including the wealthiest man in North Hampton, Winston Gonzales. “Morris Group sure has the guts and capabilities to purchase the equipment under the Chamber’s supervision.”

The harsh reality hit the members of the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce harder than anyone else.

Ron Bale and the other councils of the Chamber were losing their minds.

They were overwhelmed by a sense of defeat after failing twice consecutively, in addition to Phantasma’s arrest. Our reputation will be dragged through the mud if the four noble families hear about this.

“Shall we cease all actions and assess their intention for now?”
Ron and the others decided to stop targeting Morris Group temporarily.

Morris Group increased the rate of their production in secret in the last few days.

Levi could finally enter Morris Group freely after Iris appointed him as one of the technical advisors. There are not many people who know my identity anyway.

Nevertheless, Levi appeared to laze around most of the time in the outsiders’ eyes.. They would always see him drinking coffee and puffing on his cigarette while waiting to get off work.

Even Iris was barely suppressing her urge to rebuke Levi’s attitude.

However, none of them knew Levi was the one actually making all the most important decisions in the company.

One day, Azure Dragon and Kirin arrived at Levi’s office while he was sipping on his tea.

“I have something to tell you, Sir. They recently appointed someone to fill in the position of commander-in-chief in the North Hampton Warzone. They will be hosting an appointment ceremony. The vice commander-in-chief, Xander Hoyles, would like to invite you to attend the ceremony.” Azure Dragon said.

Levi smiled. “Do I have to go?”

Kirin answered, “Under normal circumstances, you do not have to attend. But the newly appointed commander-in-chief is someone you’re acquainted with. He’s even one of your subordinates!”

Levi pondered briefly. Then he said, “Could the person you’re talking about be the Iron Brigade’s first platoon commander-in-chief, Percy Covington?” Percy Covington is a brilliant soldier. But he retired from the frontline after suffering an injury. He’s been recuperating in the last two years. He’s my only subordinate who I think qualifies for the commander-in-chief position.

Kirin nodded. “Yes. That’s right. That person is Percy Covington!”

“Alright. Inform the North Hampton Warzone that I will be attending the commander-in-chief’s appointment ceremony. I must witness my subordinate’s moment of glory!” Levi ordered.

“Understood, Sir!”

All the soldiers in the North Hampton Warzone were exhilarated when they received the news of Levi’s participation, especially Xander Hoyles. He was beyond excited. I was worried he would not come previously. Now I can finally rest assured.

Xander Hoyles deliberately informed members of the four noble families, who were in control of the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce, Eric Robinson, Wallace Henderson, and the others.

Eric Robinson and his friends were so enlivened they nearly forgot about the matters related to Morris Group. These matters are insignificant when compared to this groundshattering news.

“Has the most glorious moment of our lives arrived? We can finally meet with the protector of Erudia, the God of War, in person!”

“I can finally die in peace after having this opportunity to meet with the God of War!”

The Protector Chapter 258

“We can even disregard Winston Gonzales if we become acquainted with the God of War!”

“That’s right! How many years have we live under Winston Gonzales’s oppression?”

Eric and his gang could not forget about their dispute with Winston Gonzales after all those years.

They wanted to utilize the opportunity to target him. Winston Gonzales has been restricting the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce from expanding our authority.

We will have to eliminate him if we wish to bring the Chamber to the next level. So this commander-in-chief’s appointment ceremony is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity because only the God of War can overrule Winston Gonzales!

The North Hampton Chamber of Commerce decided to postpone all of its plans to prioritize the appointment ceremony. They could not care less about Morris Group's progress at that moment.

Meanwhile, at the largest and most luxurious villa in North Hampton.

Every member of the Gonzales family had gathered.

Winston Gonzales was seated on an elevated platform in an imposing manner.

His sons and daughters were seated before him, while his grandchildren stood at the back of the room.

Winston Gonzales had built his empire from scratch, attaining the title of the richest man in North Hampton with his own effort.

His descendants did not bring shame to the family as they were all outstanding and extraordinary people.

Their talents bloomed in multiple fields, including the business, military, and political circles. That was the reason behind the Gonzales family's steadfast power.

They were powerful not only because of their wealth but also because of their connections in every field that are comparable to the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce.

The Gonzales family outshone the Chamber because they were tied together by a familial bond.

For example, Winston Gonzales's eldest son, Andy Gonzales. He was the youngest chief of staff in the warzone.

Andy said with a smile, "I have good news to tell you, father."

"Oh? Do enlighten me."

Winston Gonzales's well-being had improved significantly lately.

"My warzone's commander-in-chief position has been vacated for quite some time. They recently appointed someone to fill in the position. That man was a member of the Iron Brigade!"

The news piqued Winstone's interest at once. "Oh? That's great news!"

"Most importantly, the God of War will be attending the commander-in-chief's appointment ceremony. He did not want to attend initially, but he changed his mind after knowing his subordinate was the man selected to hold the position." Andy elaborated.

"Ah? The God of War? He will be attending?" Winston was invigorated instantaneously.

"That's right. Moreover, the ceremony will have slots open to members of the society, and you are one of them!" Andy said.

“That means I can finally meet with the God of War?”
Winston’s voice trembled agitatedly.

He had always admired the God of War. The aged man even went to the airport to welcome the God of War when he received news of his arrival at North Hampton. But alas, he was forced to return when a gun was pointed at his head.

He sent out multiple invitations to the God of War afterward but was rejected too.

“Yes. That’s right. You can even interact with him face-to-face.” Andy answered.

He was in charge of the appointment ceremony, including the attendees’ quota.

He was also responsible in arranging the flow of the event. So he knew there would be an interaction session after the ceremony.

“Oh my God! I can even talk to him? This is so exciting!”
Winston stood up excitedly.

Even Una and the other younger members of the family were eyeing Andy with anticipation. “Are we allowed to attend too, Uncle?”

They were eager to meet with the legendary God of War as well.

“It’s difficult, but I’ll see what I can do... This is definitely a worthy experience for all of you to meet with the God of War.”

Andy said.

“That’s right. I heard that the God of War is about the same age as Una and the others. He’s a very impressive man!”
Winston said cheerfully.

The news of the commander-in-chief’s appointment ceremony spread within North Hampton’s community.

It was a golden opportunity for the public to meet with the God of War.

Some were even willing to pay millions to participate in the event.

The Protector Chapter 259

Morris Group achieved great progress in that period of time. They had successfully produced the first batch of products and sent the finished products for quality control tests by the Quality Supervision Bureau.

They could market their products once they received the Bureau's approval.

Everyone could not wait to witness the impactful effect their products would create in the market. They expected the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce to be taken by surprise by that time.

However, the few council members of the Chamber kept themselves updated with news related to that matter.

Ron even invited Tom, Charlie and Sasha to join in on their discussion.

"I want to ask your opinion on this matter. Why do you think Morris Group hired Isaiah Wade?" Ron and the other council members were confused by Morris Group's intention, so they sought out the newcomers' thoughts.

"Mr. Bale, frankly speaking, Isaiah is indeed a competent person. Perhaps Morris Group is trying to explore the medical technology market. Isaiah is a suitable candidate if that's the case." Tom explained.

“Is there any possibility that Isaiah possesses all the information on the core technology?” That was Ron and the other council member’s primary concern.

“That’s not possible! Back then, Levi Garrison handed one-third of the information to each of us to keep the balance. No one, not even Levi, is in possession of all the information unless the three of us get together.” Charlie said firmly.

The other two nodded in agreement.

“Haha, that means the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce is the only party who knows all about the core technology!” Ron laughed.

“Yes. That’s right.” The trio nodded again.

“But Morris Group has been acting mysteriously lately. I don’t know what they are doing. I’ve arranged my men to investigate, but nothing came up...” Ron sighed.

“You should’ve asked for my assistance, Mr. Bale.” Sasha grinned wickedly at him.

“You?”

“That’s right. I can meet up with Isaiah! That cripple will listen to me. Even though I had a fall out with him, I am certain that he will inform me of everything if I flatter him a little. After all, I was the one who tricked him into telling me the last part of the information related to the core technology!”

“Okay. Then I will let you handle this matter. If you can obtain classified information about Morris Group this time, I will let you fill in the vice director’s position in my company’s PR department!”

“Don’t worry. I’ll show you my capabilities, Mr. Bale!”

Sasha was excited. That’s an executive-level position in Bale Group. I can finally become an official elite member of society.

Malicious intent glinted in Sasha’s eyes after she exited Bale Group’s building. “Do you think you are going to prosper in Morris Group, Isaiah Wade? Well, don’t you worry. I will report your wrongdoing to Morris Group for disclosing classified information after I trick you into telling me everything. I can guarantee your reputation will be ruined by that time. No company in the entire North Hampton will want to hire you in the future!”

They wanted to drive Isaiah to his death.

Meanwhile, Isaiah had been working hard in the factory’s frontline all this while.

He could finally breathe a sigh of relief after the finished products were sent for QC tests.

They subjected their products to two kinds of QC tests.

One batch of the products were sent to the Quality Supervision Bureau, while another batch was sent to the Warzone Defense Research And Development Centre.

Isaiah was confident in the quality of the products.

Levi found him just as he was about to work on refining the next product.

“Did you know why I forbade you from getting a divorce back then?” Levi asked all of a sudden.

Isaiah scratched and shook his head.

“We will be letting them off too easy if you divorce her just like that.” Levi smiled.

“Mr. Garrison, you’re saying...” Isaiah did not understand Levi’s intention.

“Let’s go. Come with me to a place.” Levi said.

“Okay. I’ll listen to you, Mr. Garrison.” Isaiah tagged along.

The two of them got into a car and went all the way to the suburbs.

They finally arrived at their destination after two hours.

Isaiah was terrified and dumbfounded as he looked at the buildings before his eyes.

The Protector Chapter 260

The building in question was none other than the North Hampton Warzone Defense Research And Development Centre.

The head of the logistic department, Kyrie Duncan, welcomed Levi and Isaiah in person.

“There’s no need to raise a commotion. We are only here for a visit.” Levi said in a diminished tone.

Kyrie nodded.

Then he led Levi into the Defense Research And Development Centre facilities.

Isaiah was amazed.

They went straight toward the Quality Control Department.

Kyrie introduced Isaiah to his colleagues, “This is the main designer in producing this batch of products by Morris Group.”

Kyrie’s colleagues stared at Isaiah in surprise.

“You’re so impressive! We’ve tested the quality of your products, and they’re even better than the marketed products by the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce. This medical equipment will create a significant impact if it’s introduced into the market. This will definitely benefit the public!”

Turns out the Defense Research And Development Centre had completed the quality control tests and they were in awe by the designer's prowess.

Levi brought Isaiah to interact with the technicians because he had an idea.

Levi said to Kyrie, "I think Isaiah is a suitable candidate to become the Defense Research And Development Centre's technical advisor in medical equipment. What's your opinion on this suggestion?"

Kyrie beamed at once. "That's great! We do need more talents in this field. Our country's advancement in medical technology is lagging compared to other nations. We will certainly flourish better with the addition of talents like Mr. Wade!"

"Alright. Then you will make the necessary arrangement. Also, provide him with a military rank." Levi ordered.

"Okay. No problem. I will handle this immediately."

Kyrie was done with all the arrangements in less than half an hour.

Isaiah looked at the identifications and the set of military outfit in a daze.

Feeling perplexed, he asked Levi. "Mr. Garrison, does this mean I am considered as a soldier now?"

"That's right! You are now the technical advisor here! But you will have to work harder in the future because you will need to visit this place and guide them too.”

“I will not disappoint you!” Isaiah saluted Levi in a less professional manner.

He grasped the identification and regarded Levi with touching emotions in his heart. He is the man who provided me a second chance in life.

“Remember this. Put your knowledge to proper use. Serve the public and bring honor to our nation!” Levi patted his shoulder.

After Isaiah got off work in the night, Sasha called him unexpectedly.

“Can you spare some time to meet with me, Isaiah? I have something important to talk to you about. Let’s meet at 8 o’clock tonight at Silver Cross...”

Isaiah’s heart softened, listening to Sasha. She’s the woman I loved for over ten years, after all. Even her voice can easily sway my heart.

But Isaiah was sensible enough to seek Levi’s opinion on whether he should accept Sasha’s invitation.

“Of course! You must go. I’ll accompany you.” Levi responded.

In the end, Levi tagged along with Isaiah to Silver Cross.

Levi attached a spy camera on Isaiah and placed a recorder in his hand before entering the building.

“She’s committing extra-marital affairs. So we have to start gathering evidence. Do you know what I mean?” Levi asked.

“Understood!” Isaiah grasped the recorder in his hand. I swear to make that shameless couple pay for what they did!

Levi beamed at him. “Moreover, you’re the technical advisor at the Warzone Defense Research And Development Centre. That means you’re a soldier and her unfaithful act has disrupted a soldier’s marriage.

This offence can place them behind bars for the rest of their lives. Not to mention the other crimes they’ve committed, such as disclosing classified information, business fraud, and many more. They will suffer terribly once we collect sufficient evidence against them.”

Boom!

Isaiah was stunned.

The Protector Chapter 261

It dawned on him that he was a technical consultant for the Defense Research And Development Centre.

He was still married to Sasha.

What she was doing was sabotaging a military marriage.

Suddenly he understood why Levi would not let him get a divorce.

So this was the reason!

Yet, everything was legal as well as reasonable.

It was Sasha who was unfaithful to their marriage, was it not?

They had also been dishonest and leaked the core technology, had they not?

They deserved to face the consequences of their wrongdoing.

After regaining his composure, Isaiah came to the restaurant they had agreed upon.

What surprised him was that Sasha was not alone. Tom and Charlie were also there.

Seeing Isaiah limping in, Tom sneered, "Didn't I say that this cripple would hobble over as soon as he hears Sasha's voice?"

“Is this a dud or a man? He knows full well that his wife is sleeping around, yet he still comes the moment she calls! What a loser!” Charlie sneered.

Sasha kissed Charlie on the cheek, she laughed and said, “Why don’t you guys say it’s because I am irresistible?”

“Haha... that goes without saying!”

On purpose, Charlie grabbed Sasha right before Isaiah’s eyes.

Isaiah was shocked again.

He came to a sudden realization that this slut was not only cheating on him with Tom but was also having an affair with Charlie.

I have become a cuckold by the hands of my apprentices.

How adulterous is this woman in her private life?

She’s no different than a whore!

Isaiah suppressed his raging emotions and sat down in front of the three of them.

“You said you need to see me, right? What is it about?” Isaiah asked coldly.

“Since you’re here, I’ll be frank with you! Tell me what is going on in Morris Group? Tell me everything!”

Sasha did not even attempt to make some small talk. She went straight to the point.

Isaiah sneered, “Why would I tell you?”

“Haha, after being with Morris Group for a few days, you think you’ve grown strong? If you still love Sasha, tell us everything now!” Tom smirked.

Sasha put on a piteous look, beguiling him, “Isaiah, will you keep things from me? If you don’t tell me, I’ll get into trouble...”

“No way! These are company secrets which I cannot reveal to you. You have tricked me before but I won’t fall for your tricks again.”

Isaiah was firm, unlike before.

However, Sasha and the two adulterers merely smiled.

Evidently, they had already thought of a way to handle Isaiah’s determination.

“You won’t tell us? Don’t force us to make you do it!” Charlie said threateningly.

“Are you going to beat me up?”

Isaiah knew he had Levi backing him, so he was not the least afraid.

“You think we won’t beat you? Let me tell you this. Six years ago, I sent some men to break your leg. At that time, I was already sleeping with your wife!” Tom laughed as he said this.

Boom

The news hit Isaiah like a bolt of thunder.

“Remember the forty million in your account? We’re the ones that took it, it was not used to fill the public funds!” Charlie said with a sneer.

Isaiah clenched his fists so tight that his veins popped out.

Sasha laughed and said, "Isaiah, if you don't tell me what's Morris Group planning, I'll shame you in public!"

"Huh? What do you mean?" Isaiah asked in puzzlement.

"Isn't your dignity the most important thing to you all this while? If you don't tell me, I'll tell the crowd here that you are my husband. Then, I will kiss these two men!"

Sasha cackled.

Her plan was to do something so immoral in public before her husband's very eyes.

This was every man's worst insult.

There have been men who had jumped off tall buildings when they were insulted by their wives in this way.

Those were men like Isaiah who valued their pride above all else.

They could never accept the disgrace their wives brought to them.

The Protector Chapter 262

Sasha knew Isaiah's character and his temperament.

She knew that he valued his pride and would never allow that to happen.

So she attacked his weak point!

"You... you, slut!"

As expected, Isaiah was provoked.

He nearly jumped to his feet, clenched his fists and shouted in anger.

If everyone knew his wife was unfaithful and acted shamelessly right in front of him, he would not be able to control himself.

He just could not accept this.

"Well? Aren't you telling us?"

Seeing Isaiah struggling with himself, Sasha felt untold pleasure.

She could abuse Isaiah any time she wished.

Just when Isaiah was struggling within, Levi's voice came through the hidden earpiece in his ear, "Let her do it! Isn't that exactly the evidence we need?"

Levi had been watching the whole scene unfold before him through remote cameras.

Levi's words brought Isaiah to his senses. That's right!

Aren't I here to gather evidence?

What Sasha is threatening to do is exactly the evidence I need!

Isaiah shot daggers at her and spat angrily, "You dare to do it?"

"Why won't I dare?"

Sasha laughed.

She stood up and spoke to the people around her, "Everyone, look this way!"

The crowd did not know what was going on, but they looked anyway.

Sasha was observing Isaiah all the while.

Though Isaiah was angry, he did not try to stop her.

When she saw him unmoving, she knew she had to up her game.

"Everyone look here. This is my husband, a cripple!"

"And now he's pushing me to other men!" Sasha shouted loudly.

Everyone looked towards Isaiah.

Isaiah spoke angrily, "You are the one who has been unfaithful. Why do you say I'm pushing you to them?"

Seeing how stubborn Isaiah was, Charlie stood up, sneering, "That's right! Your wife has been cheating on you!"

Tom laughed in a perverted way, “Both of us have been sleeping with your wife for six years! You’re just a cripple! You can’t do anything!”

“We have been taking care of your wife. What can you do about it?”

They felt no shame at all, going public.

He knew with the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce backing them, this would not be reported in the news.

That was the reason why he was so reckless in order to force Isaiah to speak out.

Sasha then kissed Tom and Charlie on their faces, she laughed and said, “You cripple, I have been cheating on you. But what can you do about it?”

As Sasha and the two men flaunt their immoral acts in public, Isaiah felt his last shred of dignity left him.

Isaiah was furious to breaking point!

Yet, he suppressed his fury .

He felt emotionally unstable.

Sasha and the two men were surprised.

How can this cripple tolerate such act?

This is unbelievable!

“You cripple, you really won’t tell us? Alright, then! Divorce! We will get a divorce!”

Seeing Isaiah standing firm, Sasha changed her tactics and threatened to divorce him.

Isaiah stood up, “Hmph! Let’s do it. We’ll get a divorce as you wish!”

With that, Isaiah turned and started to leave.

Sasha and the two men were dumbfounded.

Something’s not right!

Why did Isaiah not respond to the carrot or the stick?

No! We can’t let him leave without the information we need about Morris Group.

They hurriedly caught up to him.

“Isaiah! You cripple, you can’t leave!”

The three of them were about to stop Isaiah when a man suddenly stepped out in front of them. The man was none other than Levi.

“Move aside, this is between us and Isaiah. It’s none of your business!”

Charlie and Tom tried to push Levi aside but it felt as if they were pushing at a mountain with their bare hands. Levi did not budge at all.

“Get lost!”

They were about to attack Levi.

Smack!

Slam!

Somehow, Levi landed two hard slaps on Charlie and Tom's faces.

The slap threw the men a few meters away and a few of their teeth flew out.

The Protector Chapter 263

Everyone looked at Levi in disbelief.

How is he so strong?

"Aren't you going to scam?" Levi asked coldly, glaring at the bewildered Sasha.

Sasha ran off immediately.

Levi then left with Isaiah.

"Levi, Isaiah, we won't forget this. Just watch out, we're going to get you for this."

As they watched Levi and Isaiah depart, Charlie and Tom were full of anger and hatred.

Before Sasha left, she asked the crowd if anyone had taken photos or video clips.

After confirming that no one did, only then did they leave.

After leaving the restaurant, Isaiah bawled his eyes out.

He was just an ordinary guy who wanted to live a peaceful life.

However, these scoundrels had victimized him and changed his outlook.

How cruel of them to treat him this way.

“I know you still have a glimmer of hope in your heart for Sasha before. But you can finally see the situation clearly now, don’t you?” Levi asked.

“It’s clear now!”

“Mr. Garrison, after this, I shall gather and list down all the evidence properly! I’ll make sure these three bastards stay in prison for the rest of their lives!”

Before this, Isaiah did not have the heart to punish Sasha, but now his mind was made up.

His last vestige of love for her had been completely used up!

“Hmm, good.”

Meanwhile, Charlie and Tom were not satisfied to let things be.

“No! Levi must be crippled, too. I will break Isaiah’s other leg as well!” Tom covered his face with his hand, speaking coldly.

Charlie nodded his head in agreement, “Exactly, these two must be crippled!”

Sasha said quietly, “Shall I contact the hitmen?”

“Yes, who can you get?” The two men asked in unison.

Sasha smiled, "I know some people from a gym. A few of them are Kickboxing coaches who have worked as hitmen before in the underground society of gangsters. One of them had just been released from prison. They are ruthless. If they do the job, Levi and Isaiah will never be able to use their limbs again."

"Great! You go and get these people. Tomorrow, we shall turn those wretches into cripples!" The two men said angrily.

After a night of collecting and sorting, the required evidence was complete.

Just as Isaiah was thinking about the next step, he received a call from Sasha unexpectedly.

"Isaiah, can you come over for a while? I realize I was wrong! I'm not fit to be your wife. Let's divorce, alright? I don't want to be a burden to you anymore."

Sasha sounded humble in order to trick Isaiah into walking into her trap.

"Alright, let's divorce, then!"

Isaiah agreed to her request.

"Can you also ask Levi to come along and be a witness?" Sasha asked.

Isaiah lifted his eyes to look at Levi and the latter nodded his head in agreement.

"Fine, Mr. Garrison agreed." Isaiah replied.

"Okay, we'll be waiting for you at Youth Troupe Commercial Building 2009, opposite the Civil Affairs Bureau!"

Sasha heaved a sigh of relief.

They were ready.

Several muscular fitness coaches were already on standby.

Steel pipes had been prepared.

“Isaiah, you’re really a fool to come whenever I beckon you.”

Sasha smiled, her expression full of malice and cruelty.

Levi and Isaiah were ready to leave for the meeting.

Isaiah called the relevant department, “Hello, how are you? I am reporting someone disrupting a military marriage. I’m serving in Defense Research And Development Centre. My Id is ISA-4031. Yes, that is correct. I have the evidence. The location is Youth Troupe Commercial Building 2009.”

In addition, he called the commercial crime investigation department and told them about Sasha’s commercial and other crimes.

“Come on, let’s go and watch the show!”

Levi and Isaiah arrived at the Youth Troupe Commercial Building and entered room 2009.

Bang!

The door slammed shut.

Several huge strong men appeared before them holding steel pipes...

The Protector Chapter 264

The muscles of these seven to eight people were well-developed, especially the biceps, which were as big as human heads.

The muscles lining the arms and legs bulged so much that they look like there were snakes hidden under their skin.

In addition, they were huge and looked more terrifying than normal gangsters.

These were physiques trained in the gym with the help of protein supplements. They may not be real fighters but their size were frightening enough.

The moment they appeared, Isaiah got the shock of his life.

In their presence, he felt small.

Their arms were bigger than his thighs. Just one punch would be enough to kill him, he thought.

Inside the room, Sasha, accompanied by Charlie and Tom, approached step by step.

One side of Tom's face was swollen, and the same can be said for Charlie as well. They gazed at Levi with malicious intents.

"Haha, Isaiah, are you stupid? You just come whenever I asked you to?" Sasha laughed aloud.

She looked at Isaiah as if he was a retard.

Tom sneered, “Levi, something is definitely wrong with your brain. I didn’t expect you to tag along with him without any hesitation.”

Levi laughed, “This concerns my staff, I’m going to see it through!”

Isaiah was very touched.

If not for Levi, he wondered how these three would continue to use and abuse him.

Isaiah said anxiously, “You... what are you trying to do?”

Charlie looked at Isaiah’s left leg and said with a sneer, “Isn’t it obvious? We want to cripple this leg as well!”

Sasha’s face was pure evil as she said, “That’s right, Isaiah, you dare to defy me. I guarantee for the rest of your life, you can only crawl around.”

Charlie and Tom turned their gaze towards Levi, “Rest assured, we have not forgotten about you, Mr. Garrison. You dared to attack us both, didn’t you? Apparently, you must have forgotten how your leg was broken 6 years ago!”

“Yeah, you recovered after a stint in prison, didn’t you? Today, we will cripple you so Isaiah will have company!”

“Hahaha...”

The three of them looked at each other and laughed hysterically.

In their eyes, with these ruthless fitness coaches as their henchmen, there was no escape for Levi and Isaiah.

“You people are so cruel. Aren’t you afraid of karma?” Isaiah asked.

“Karma? Is there even such a thing? We have enjoyed ourselves throughout these six years, haven’t we? So what Karma are you talking about?”

The three of them laughed gleefully again.

“You... are shameless! Beasts!”

Isaiah who was just a simple, honest and law-abiding citizen was bullied to the extent where he cursed aloud.

Sasha glanced at the two of them and guffawed, “Now, if you both kneel down and apologize, perhaps we will consider letting you off the hook!”

As she spoke, those fitness coaches took a step forward.

They waved the steel pipes held in their hands.

Isaiah was scared out of his wits.

His body was shaking continuously.

Sasha and her two adulterous partners laughed mockingly at the sight of him trembling, “What a worthless trash! Even though Levi is a good-for-nothing himself, at least he is slightly better than you.”

Levi smiled and sat down on a chair nearby.

He crossed his legs and even lit a cigarette.

He did not look even a bit anxious.

The trio were dumbfounded by his actions.

Sasha asked him, “Levi, aren’t you scared? I’m telling you. If you would kneel before me and crawl on the floor between my legs, I’ll let you off the hook this time!”

“And us, too! Mr. Garrison, if you would crawl on the floor between our legs, we will let you live!”

Tom and Charlie were eager to see Levi crawl on the floor under them.

After all, he was their former boss!

This demeaning act would really satisfy their ego!

Levi took a puff of his cigarette, he smiled and said, “If you would kneel down before me, perhaps, I’ll consider putting in a good word for you!”

The Protector Chapter 265

At that moment, Isaiah came to a full realization of the situation and he pointed his finger at Sasha, saying, “That’s right! Sasha and you two other, worthless beasts. Kneel before me and I’ll give you a lighter sentence. Otherwise, you three wretches will definitely regret it!”

At the words of Levi and Isaiah, the trio were stunned.

Have Levi and Isaiah gone crazy?

Don’t they understand the situation?

They’re the ones facing a disaster, don’t they know that?

We are not the ones stuck in a sticky situation!

At Isaiah's words, Sasha and her gang were furious.

"Are you not aware of it yet? You three are dumb asses!" Isaiah sneered.

He had never seen anyone so foolish before.

Sasha screamed, "Bash them up! Kill them! I want them to crawl out of here by the time we're done!"

The fitness coaches who were already impatient to attack rushed towards Levi and Isaiah, waving the steel pipes held in their hands.

Slam!

At that precise moment, the locked door was burst open suddenly by force.

In the next moment, a group of uniformed men rushed in.

They were patrolling police and army guards.

"Don't move! Put down your weapons!"

"Don't move!"

The group of fitness instructors did not even have the time to respond before they were all struck down onto the floor.

The sudden pain that hit them as they struck the floor finally brought them to their senses.

It turned out that their attackers were the troops and patrols.

It's over!

We're doomed.

Using her sex appeal, Sasha had lured the fitness instructors here to beat up Levi and Isaiah.

Never did the muscle men had imagine that they would get into this type of trouble!

However, it was not only them, Sasha and her two male partners were in a world of troubles as well.

Tom looked at Levi and Isaiah in disbelief and shock, he said, "You reported to the police?"

"Not exactly. They're here to see you for other reasons, but since they happened to see that you're armed, I guess they'll have to add another charge!" Levi smiled as he explained.

Sasha and her partners in crime looked on in astonishment.

If it's only a police report, only the patrolling police should be there.

Why is it that the troops are also here?

They felt puzzled!

They were confused and bewildered!

The Captain of the West Point Detachment, Timothy Lourdes led the team. He issued the arrest warrant, "According to conclusive evidence, Sasha and the three of you have committed crimes of intentional injury, commercial fraud, embezzlement of public funds, disclosure of company secrets and so on. You are now under arrest!”

“Oh, that’s right! There’s two more charges, namely immoral activities outside of marriage and armed assault!” Timothy added.

After all, everyone had seen what they were doing moments ago.

These charges were by no means, trivial.

To make matters worse, there were more to be added!

Hearing these, the three were shocked.

It was the end for them.

All their crimes had been discovered and brought to light.

They had to confess as it was obvious.

However, what did the troops appearance mean?

Why are the troops here?

The three criminals were stupefied!

At this time, the first officer with the rank of lieutenant came to Sasha and her partners in crime. He showed them his credentials and said: “I am Kenneth Wayne from the Political Department of the North Hampton Warzone! According to conclusive evidence, the three of you are suspected of sabotaging a military marriage! The Joint Law Enforcement Agency is hereby putting you under arrest! Any objections?”

“What? Sabotaging of a military marriage?”

The three of them widened their eyes in disbelief.

No doubt, Sasha had been immoral in having extra-marital affairs.

But how does that involve any military marriage?

Isaiah is not the member of any troop!

Which military marriage did they get involved in?

“Sir, I have objections. Where did the military marriage come from? We don’t understand!”

Tom asked the question.

“Right! When did we commit any military marriage crime? Sir, have you made a mistake?”

Sasha and Charlie’s eyes were full of bewilderment and they were puzzled.

The Protector Chapter 266

Kenneth Wayne cast a glance at Isaiah and said, “He works for the National Military, so Sasha having an affair is considered as violating the military marriage law.”

“What?! He is a military personnel? No he can’t be. I’ve been with him for ten years, how can I not know if he is?”

Sasha was totally bewildered.

Tom and Charlie were both puzzled, “Yeah! What type of soldier is Isaiah?”

Kenneth sneered, “Comrade Isaiah is in the Defense Research And Development Centre Technical Team! He is of course, considered a soldier, isn’t he?”

“What? Why didn’t I know that?”

Sasha and the other two adulterers were so frightened that their hearts leapt to their throats.

Isaiah came before the three of them, took out his Identity card and waved it in front of them.

Their eyes widened in surprise as they read the information and seal on the card. Terrified, they broke out in cold sweat.

It’s real...

Isaiah is really working for the Defense Research And Development Centre!

When did this happen?

How could I not know?

Sasha's eyes opened so wide in surprise that it seemed like they would pop out anytime...

Tom suddenly came to a realization and he stared at Levi in horror, "Now I know why you didn't allow the divorce to go through last time. Was this the reason?"

Levi smiled and said, "Well, it was a coincidence! No matter what, I would not let this woman dissolve the marriage so easily. Unforeseen by us, Isaiah's performance for the Centre was outstanding and he got the offer to work for them as a technical consultant. So naturally, what you are doing now is against the military's marriage law."

"You..."

Tom was so agitated that he almost fainted while Sasha and Charlie looked at each other in desperation.

They had fallen into Levi's trap!

Even though Isaiah only commenced his job at the Centre just recently, sabotaging a military marriage was a serious crime. They would face the consequences of their heinous actions.

Seeing the three of them in this state, Isaiah felt vindicated.

He laughed, "Hahaha, never did the three of you expect this day, did you? Didn't you say that there is no karma? Now you know, karma does exist. You just have to wait for it!"

A new thought occurred to Tom and he asked, "Do you have evidence to prove that I am violating the law?"

Thought that there was hope, Sasha joined, "Yeah, show us the proof of what you accused us of."

Hearing this, Levi laughed.

He took out a USB memory disk and projected a video on the wall.

It was a video taken yesterday of the three humiliating Isaiah.

Not only did they admit to adultery, but they also confessed to embezzlement of public funds and malicious wounding.

"You bast*rd! You have a camera and microphone on you?!"

After knowing the truth, Sasha and the other two went crazy.

Yesterday, they made sure to check if the crowd had taken any videos or photos but they didn't check on Isaiah.

"So what else have you got to say?" Kenneth Wayne asked.

He exchanged glances with Timothy Lourdes.

Everything that had happened earlier was mind-blowing to the three.

They would spend years in prison!

Levi waved his hand, saying, "Please leave us for now. I want to talk to them in private."

Kenneth and Timothy left them and waited outside the door.

Looking at the three, Levi laughed, "Isaiah, I told you. They are going to regret their actions one day. How do you feel now?"

"Never better! Serves you right!" Isaiah shouted.

Sasha was so anxious that she was about to cry.

Thud!

She fell on her knees, hugging his legs. The woman wept and cried, "Isaiah, forgive me this once. I swear I'll be a good wife and mother in future. I will not mess around anymore!"

"It's true. We're wrong! Master, please forgive us!"

The Protector Chapter 267

They believed that if Isaiah spoke up for them, they would have a chance. At the very least, they could spend less time in jail.

"Slut, you are not worthy of me. Get lost!" Smack!

Isaiah fiercely slapped her on the face.

Slam! Wham! Smack!

"And you beasts! You are unworthy to be my students! Scram!"

Isaiah ferociously kicked the two men a few times.

“No... please...”

Sasha and the two men regretted.

In their whole lives, they regretted this moment the most!

In the end, Sasha, the two men, and the fitness trainers were all taken away.

What awaited them were years of imprisonment!

By afternoon, due to their social status, everyone soon heard the news about Tom and Charlie.

Ron and the others were shocked.

Could this be the end of Levi Group’s two traitors?

This showed that Morris Group was very powerful!

The four giants in the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce were still busy with the commander-in-chief at the ceremony, so they had no time to take care of them.

“Fortunately, the technologies of the Levi Group were leaked by themselves. Otherwise, we would be in trouble this time.” Ron said with relief.

“Yeah, it’s a good thing we were not involved!” Braylen Stewart added.

Wildan Saenz wondered, “We have underestimated the Morris Group. I think they are up to something really big.”

“Agree. However, the Morris Group is so secretive!” Ron said.

Not knowing what your competitors were doing could be a worrisome factor.

At this moment, Xawery Yount rushed in breathlessly.

“I know what the Morris Group is doing.”

Gulping some water, Xawery Yount continued, “They have produced a batch of medical devices, but I don’t know more details of it. Now all of it has been sent to the Quality Inspection Bureau for testing! If they pass the inspection, it will be mass-produced and listed!”

“Who gave you this information?” Wildan Saenz asked.

“A distant cousin of mine who happens to work in the Bureau told me.” Xawery Yount replied.

“It doesn’t matter what Morris Group has produced. We’ll sabotage everything they do.” Ron and the others arrived at this decision.

Xawery Yount smiled, “That’s easy! That is in my relative’s jurisdiction! Without doubt, we can undermine Morris Group’s progress!”

Ron smiled, “Good. No matter what products the Morris Group sends in for inspection, reject them will do!”

Wildan Saenz asked, “Fred, why don’t you ask that cousin of yours to join us sometime? We can’t keep asking him to run errands for us for nothing.”

“Yeah. We will be asking him for help quite often in the future.” Braylen Stewart went along.

“Well, how about dinner at Lufthansa Club tonight? My treat. Let’s invite him!”
Ron stood up and announced with a laugh.

...

The next day, at the Morris Group head office.

Everyone was waiting for the good news from the Quality Inspection Bureau, hoping to start expanding their production line.

Right on time, a vehicle drove up to the entrance and three officers came out of the car.

Iris personally went to receive the visitors.

The leader, a young man, looked at Iris and the others with disdain.

He threw the quality inspection report to Iris and sneered, “What is the Morris Group trying to do? Do you really plan to launch this kind of bad product into the market? What you have produced is a medical device! What if something happens to the users? Can you bear the consequences?”

“Oh? What is the matter? Did it fail the test?” Isaiah asked in a low voice.

“Yes, terribly!”

The Protector Chapter 268

His two companions said in confirmation, "That's right. We tested it three times and it failed all of it! Your product is of inferior quality!"

The young man Tony looked at Iris with disgust in his eyes, saying, "Morris Group, I'm warning you. If you continue to send in product like this, I will still reject them!"

"Hmph, you guys better think over it! The inspection result was way below acceptable!"

"The next test is in a week's time!"

Tony left quickly after that.

Morris Group was not given even a chance to appeal!

Iris and the others hurriedly read the quality inspection report.

Finished reading, everyone was furious.

The reason was exasperating.

Iris and the team suspected that the quality inspection department had failed the product without even examining it.

The issues they had highlighted on were totally irrelevant to their products.

It was ridiculous!

Immediately, they realized that someone had sabotaged them.

The inspectors must have failed their product on purpose.

They didn't want Morris Group's products to be launched.

At this point, Levi walked leisurely toward them.

"What happened?" He asked.

Someone walked him through the situation and Levi was shocked.

It was impossible for that procedure to go wrong.

Seems like they have someone in the Bureau.

"Alright. I'll bring the product to the Bureau personally this afternoon and insist for an inspection on the spot! Let's see who dares to fail it. After all, this has been approved by the Defense Research And Development Centre!" Levi said.

"Will this work?" Iris asked.

"Do you have other alternative?"

Iris was silenced by Levi's question.

Everyone in the Morris Group was anxious.

On the contrary, Levi was calm, sipping his tea and smoking.

In the office, he sat leaning against the back of his chair.

Then he dialed Jesse Nielsen's number, "Jesse, I'll go straight to the point. Who is in charge of Quality Inspection Bureau?"

"Cameron."

"Good. Please tell him that I'm inviting him over to Morris Group for some tea!" Levi smiled and said.

After that, he called the Logistics Minister and asked him to invite Samson, the person-in-charge for DRDC's Quality Inspection Department over to Morris Group as well.

Shortly, Samson arrived.

To him, this was definitely the highlight of his life.

Him having tea with the God of War? Man he could brag this forever!

Even the deputy commander-in-chief would envy him.

However, there's a reason why Samson was invited.

He was asked to bring the quality inspection report of the medical instrument.

Not long afterwards, Cameron arrived in a state of panic.

He left his meeting in a hurry as soon as he heard about Levi's invitation.

"Captain Cameron, don't be nervous. Take a seat!"

Levi smiled as he spoke.

The trembling man obediently sat down on Levi's sofa.

The host waved his hand and Azure Dragon poured Cameron a cup of tea.

Holding the cup in his hands, Cameron dared not take a sip.

This important man wouldn't summon me here for nothing.

"Captain Cameron, do you know why I'm looking for you? Levi asked.

Cameron stood up immediately, shook his head and replied, "Chief, please enlighten me!"

"Recently, Morris Group has produced a batch of medical devices and sent them to your department for quality inspection. Are you aware of this?" Levi asked.

Cameron shook his head, "I am not. My subordinates didn't inform me anything about it."

The Protector Chapter 269

"Oh, okay! Then let me do it. Not long ago, someone from your department delivered this, and told me that those medical devices are way below the passing grades. Not only that, but he also threatened to reject whatever products we send in for inspection!" Levi said.

"Huh? Did this really happen?"

Anxious, Cameron broke out in cold sweat.

"Shh... Let me finish. Before these devices reached the Bureau, I sent it to the Defense Research And Development Centre for quality inspection. After all, they will be used in the medical industry, and I don't want any issues. Guess what? Not only were they qualified, but the results were also perfect in every aspect!"

Levi glanced at Samson and smiled, saying, "Let me introduce you to Samson, the head of the Quality Inspection Department from DRDC."

Samson handed the report to Cameron, "Captain Cameron, we tested this product five times, and not once did it fail the test. In fact, it is way better than all of the models available in the market."

With trembling knees, Cameron started flipping through the report.

At the same time, Levi handed another stack of document to him and said, "Captain Cameron, now this is from your department."

Finished reading everything, Cameron nearly fainted from fright.

The second report's content was obviously nonsense.

They clearly did not know what product they were analyzing, and simply rejected it.

Cameron was furious.

This was done on purpose by somebody.

How can this somebody be in my department?

Worst of all, it involves the God of War!

Isn't he courting for death?

Levi smiled, "Luckily I was careful about the inspection and sent this to Samson first. Otherwise, I'll be doomed!"

“Chief, it’s my fault! I did not discipline my staff enough!” Cameron bowed and said.

“Alright then. Now that we know where the problem lies, let’s solve it. Conduct the second inspection now and I’ll come along. I am sure it will pass, won’t it?” Said Levi while he started moving toward the door.

That tone sent chill down Cameron’s spine.

He knew that this was serious.

Immediately, he went along.

So did Samson.

Azure Dragon drove them to the Bureau.

There were several cars parked at the entrance as well.

Those senior managers from Ron’s side were spotted coming down from the vehicles.

Tony came out personally to greet them with a big smile on his face.

Levi got down from the car, but he instructed Cameron to remain inside.

When Tony saw the group, he snorted, “Hey Morris Group, what brings you here again?”

Hearing the name ‘Morris Group’, smirks were evident on Ron and his subordinates’ faces.

Morris Group wants a recheck?

Dream it!

Levi smiled, "Obviously, we are here for a second inspection."

Tony immediately replied, "Are you all deaf? Didn't I say come back in a week?"

"A week? Since when there is such regulation?"

Not losing his gentlemanly smile, Levi said again, "Besides, there is no issue with our product. Can't we appeal?"

Ron and his men laughed, "I guess you're here to cause trouble. Didn't you hear Tony? Come back after one week. As business organizations, we have to abide by regulations!"

"That's right. Guys, learn from the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce!" Tony said in agreement.

"Please enlighten me. Who made the rule for that one week timeframe?" Levi asked coldly.

Tony replied angrily, "I did. So what?"

"So your word is law in the Bureau?"

"That's right!"

The Protector Chapter 270

Tony was really arrogant, acting almighty.

“That’s true. Captain Tony is in charge of the report section. If he says you pass, you pass!”

“Exactly. If he wishes to fail any product, there you go. In the Bureau, Captain Tony’s word is law!”

In reply, Xawery Yount and Ron laughed.

Tony looked at Levi with disdain, “Today, the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce has also sent their products in for quality inspection. I don’t even need to run through any analysis, and I’ll give them a pass!”

As he spoke, his assistant who was on standby, handed Ron the quality inspection report.

Everyone present watched in disbelief...

Ridiculous!

Taking over the report, Ron looked at Levi and laughed, “Now you know who is the man in charge of the Bureau.”

Tony glared at Levi and barked angrily, “Now get lost! I’m telling you. Within these six months, I will not pass any products you send in!”

“So powerful, aren’t you? Do the Bureau Chief has to obey your word as well?”
Levi sneered in reply.

Tony was taken aback at first but he quickly recovered and laughed, “Of course! Captain Cameron is my mentor who personally brought me into this department! He listens to all my words!”

“So loser, if you have any wild wishes that I’ll pass your product, drop it!”

Levi listened to Tony’s rhetoric.

With a meaningful smile, he shouted toward his car, “Captain Cameron, did you hear that? In the Bureau, Tony’s word is law. Have you been vacated from your position?”

“Hmm? Captain Cameron?”

Tony and his group were stunned. They looked around but saw no one.

“Who are you trying to bluff? Too bad it won’t work! Even if he were here, he would obey me!”

Tony was masquerading ridiculously!

“Tony, you scoundrel! When did the Bureau come under your control?”

Suddenly, an angry voice was heard coming from the car and someone got down in a rage.

“Chief... Chief Cam... I... Yo-you...”

Looking at the person storming toward him, Tony was stupefied and his mouth trembled, unable to speak coherently.

“No, no, no, you are the Chief! I’m your subordinate! Your word is the law here!” Cameron was so furious that he felt like giving Tony a few slaps across his face.

“Chief Cameron, I-I’m sorry... I did not mean what I said!”

Tony almost knelt in front of Cameron.

“What about your arrogant attitude barely a moment ago? Aren’t you the boss here?” Cameron snorted.

“No, Chief Cameron. Master, I was wrong... I didn’t mean to overstep you! I just wanted to share your worries!” Tony spoke hurriedly.

Cameron pointed his finger at Tony’s nose, “You are fired! Never ever step into the Bureau again!”

Boom!

This was a real blow to Tony, Ron and his men.

How could Tony be fired!

Tony asked incredulously, “Master... why? What did I do wrong?”

“You deliberately abused your position to sabotage the Morris Group! Was that not enough?” Cameron shouted furiously.

“No no no. Master, their products are indeed not up to par!”

Even at this point, Tony tried to argue.

Upon hearing that, Cameron’s face became black as thunder and he spoke angrily, “Then tell me. What products did Morris Group send in?”

The Protector Chapter 271

“I...” Tony floundered, not quite knowing what to say.

Because he had no idea at all.

“How could you disqualify them when you don’t even know what they are? Aren’t you abusing your power here? Listen, Morris Group has even sent their products for quality checks at the Defense Research And Development Centre. They’re more than qualified! This is First Lieutenant Samson Yelder from the Quality Inspection Department of DRDC. He’s here to send us the quality inspection report in person!”

Thud!

Tony fell to his knees.

“Please forgive me, Master. I got carried away by lust and greed! I was wrong! I was really wrong! Please give me another chance, Master!”

Tony groveled at his master’s feet.

“I’d expect better of you as my disciple! But you’ve completely let me down!” Cameron was ruthless. “Go talk to the relevant authorities if you have something to say.”

Immediately after he spoke, the authorities arrived and Tony was taken away for investigation.

Ron and Xawery were utterly dumbfounded.

They didn't expect Morris Group to ask Cameron to come forward.

"I'll inspect Morris Group's product myself!" Cameron said.

The inspection took up the entire afternoon, and the quality inspection report showed that their products were qualified to be listed on the market.

When Levi brought back the certificate of conformity, a great cheer went up from everyone in Morris Group.

These products were put into mass production at once, and Iris had already gone to make arrangements with the distribution channels and merchants.

"Publicity must be done on the greatest scale! Hire the best publicity team and the most suitable spokesperson!" Kirin relayed Iris's words.

Now that the problem had been resolved, Levi felt a little more at ease, and he had the leisure to see how things were at Imperial Meadows Limited.

Zoey had already gone through all the procedures for the establishment of the new company, and all that was left was to find a suitable office building to set up the company.

"Have you found an office building?" Levi asked.

"Yeah! It's at Elysium Plaza. I'm going to sign the contract later. I even paid a deposit of twenty million." Zoey beamed.

"Okay, I have time to spare. I'll go with you." Levi said.

"Sure!"

At three in the afternoon, Levi and Zoey headed to the plaza in Zoey's compact car that cost tens of thousands.

“Your car needs an upgrade. You’re a big boss now.” Levi chuckled.

“It’s fine as long as it’s comfortable.” Zoey said passionlessly.

“Honey, you’re not the same now. You’re gonna meet crazy rich people everyday. Imagine how insecure they would be if they want to cooperate with you but they see this petty little car. You look just like someone who would run away after getting a sum of money.”

“Alright, I’ll spare some time to get a car.” Zoey conceded, thinking that his explanation was quite reasonable.

“I’ll buy you one!”

Although Zoey was touched, she didn’t take Levi’s words to heart.

Levi has no money. How is he going to get me a car?

They soon arrived at Elysium Plaza.

When they were waiting for the elevator to go up, they saw Henry and Shaun walking out from the inside.

“What are you guys doing here?” Zoey had a bad feeling about this.

“What a coincidence! Are you here to rent an office building as well? I’m sorry, but you don’t have a chance now. I’ve rented the one that you’re interested in, Zoey.” said Shaun, waving the tenancy agreement in his hand.

The Protector Chapter 272

It turned out that the Lopez family had been keeping a close watch on Zoey's activities.

Harry and the others were against the idea of Zoey breaking off relations with the Lopez family.

Therefore, they were one step ahead when they learned that Zoey was going to rent this office building.

The poor lady was dumbstruck when she saw the agreement in Shaun's hands.

She quickly got on the elevator with Levi and came to the office of the person-in-charge of Elysium Plaza.

"Ms. Lopez, you're here!" Barney Geller, the person responsible for the negotiation of the contract, greeted her warmly.

"I'm here to sign the contract, Mr. Geller." said Zoey. "We were on the phone, remember? I'm renting Block B for five years at thirty million."

Barney looked confused. "Didn't the Lopez family just sign the contract, Ms. Lopez? They said they had already discussed with you and even paid the remaining ten million."

Zoey and Levi exchanged glances and immediately thought of Henry and Shaun.

"Mr. Henry signed the contract on behalf of the Lopez family." Barney said, handing over the contract to Zoey.

Zoey's expression took on a drastic change after reading the contract.

The Lopez family was too evil.

The five-year tenancy agreement was signed in Zoey's name, but the purpose was for the Lopez Group to use it as an office building.

In another word, the Lopez family would be using the office building that Zoey had paid for.

How dirty!

As Zoey had negotiated the contract in her name personally and paid twenty million in advance, the Lopez family could get away with just ten million.

Zoey was on the verge of tears.

How could they be so cruel?

Aaron and Caitlyn too, were infuriated when they learned about it.

But they had no other choice unless they cut all ties with Harry.

"He doesn't think of me as his son at all! He's always been biased toward my brothers and never helped me." Aaron was furious beyond words.

The next day, Lopez Group moved in to the new office.

Harry and the others' faces were glowing.

Moving to a new office for just ten million was a great deal!

But Zoey could only watch helplessly.

“Zoey, you’ve made another contribution to the family! I’m so happy for you.” Henry chuckled.

“You did great, Zoey!” Harry added. “I’m very happy. I will commend you at the annual meeting.”

“I heard that you want to move to a new office building as well, Zoey. Is that so?” Shaun laughed. “What a bummer! Elysium Plaza is fully occupied!”

Zoey balled her fist tightly.

Not only did the Lopez family trick her, but they also even came to humiliate her!

“Imperial Meadows Limited’s office building is pretty nice, Zoey. You don’t need to change. Besides, it’s uncertain that you can move in even if you’ve signed the contract.” Fabian laughed.

“Hahaha…”

Harry and the others cracked up.

Of course Zoey understood that that was a threat.

The Lopez family was set on preventing her from setting up a new company.

No matter how much effort she put in into looking for an office building, her company could never move in.

For a moment, Zoey was aggrieved and felt very weepy.

She cared so much for the Lopez family, but they didn’t take her seriously at all.

It was absolutely impossible for her to establish a new company unless she severed all ties with them.

“Leave it to me, honey.” Said Levi, who was standing next to Zoey. “Just go back and get ready to move in to a new office tomorrow morning.”

“Huh? For real?” Zoey looked at Levi in disbelief.

“Nothing will go wrong if you listen to me.”

After leaving Elysium Plaza, Levi went to look for Chloe.

The Protector Chapter 273

“Can you help me find out if there are any commercial buildings for sale in the city center?” Levi asked.

“Huh? What are you up to?” Chloe replied with a question of her own.

“Zoey wants to set up a new company and I need to find her an office building.” Levi replied.

Chloe was green with envy.

How nice would it be if I’m the heroine?

“Okay, I’ll ask around for you.”

Chloe first reached out to her connections, then contacted the director of Bayview Garden Real Estate.

Finally, after a few hours, there was a response from an old client of Chloe.

He was the owner of Union Square around North Hampton Center, where there was a building that was vacant and could not be more suitable to be used as an office building.

Chloe brought Levi to Union Square to meet the owner, Emmett Browne, who had been waiting for a long time.

Emmett had lost hair over the crown, livid rings around his eyes, and a pale face.

It was obvious at first glance that he had been living a life of debauchery.

Chloe was decked out in a business attire and a pair of high heels that complemented her beautiful long legs that were wrapped in black stockings, looking exceptionally sexy.

Emmett couldn't help but ogle at her.

But he kept his desire under control as he brought them to tour around the building.

Levi immediately took a fancy to it.

It's definitely much better than Elysium Plaza, especially its location.

The price must also be expensive. I supposed it's about eighty million for five years.

"The price is negotiable! Why don't we take this discussion to my office?"

Emmett rubbed his hands in simulated pleasure.

He had his eyes on Chloe for some time now.

In the past, he even wanted her to submit by buying her a house, but he was rejected.

Emmett swore to sleep with her today.

At the office, Emmett chuckled, "As you guys know, Union Square is located at the prime location in North Hampton, second only to North Hampton Center. It would cost two hundred million for five years."

Hearing that figure, Levi and Chloe's complexion changed.

They were fully aware of the market price.

This old geezer is demanding an exorbitant price!

"Don't you think that's a little unreasonable, Mr. Browne?" Levi asked.

True, he had the money, but he couldn't tolerate daylight robbery.

"That is the price for this area. Why did you even look for this area if you can't afford it?" Emmett was uncompromising.

"Then let's negotiate the price. Two hundred million is too much." Levi said.

"Yeah, Mr. Browne. Is it possible to negotiate?" Chloe spoke up as well.

Emmett cast Chloe a lecherous glance. "Of course we can, but it depends on who's the one to negotiate with me."

Emmett looked at Levi. "If it's him, then end of discussion!"

"But if it's you, Ms. Macy, there will be lots of discounts. We can talk about this slowly."

Chloe glanced at Levi to get his permission before nodding, “Okay, Mr. Browne. I’ll do it!”

Emmett grinned. “I don’t like it when there are other people around when I’m talking business. So this gentleman, may I ask you to leave?”

“Wait for me outside, Levi. I’ll handle this.” Chloe said.

After Levi went out, Emmett locked the door from the inside.

Chloe’s face darkened. “What is this supposed to mean, Mr. Browne?”

Emmett smirked, “So that we won’t be interrupted, Ms. Macy.”

“Mr. Browne, please tell me the lowest price you have in mind.”

Emmett smiled lustfully, “That depends on your attitude, Ms. Macy.”

The Protector Chapter 274

Chloe looked surprised. “My attitude?”

“Yeah, your attitude will determine the price!”

Emmett put on a wicked grin. “I’ll be straightforward with you then, Ms. Macy. Just sleep with me for one night and I’ll reduce the price to eighty million.”

“What?” Chloe’s expression changed.

She immediately understood that Emmett had deliberately raised the price.

I knew it! It's only eighty million at most.

He raised the price to two hundred million just so he could coerce me into sleeping with him.

Emmett got up and walked closer to Chloe. "Think about it, Ms. Macy. You are worth one hundred and twenty million! Isn't that a great deal? You're definitely the most expensive woman in the world!"

"Emmett Browne! You did this on purpose! Do you think I'm blind? You know what, that's a big fat no!" Chloe retaliated.

"So what if I did it on purpose? If you don't agree, I swear your friend can never rent an office building in North Hampton! It's a matter of my words with my connections and reputation. Think wisely before you answer me." Emmett laughed cunningly. He couldn't hold back any longer.

Chloe fell into a daze.

Emmett definitely has the ability to do this.

As someone who took Levi's affairs more seriously than herself, she would feel sorry if she couldn't find an office building for him.

In her trance, Emmett lunged toward her.

"Come on. Just give in to me, will you? I'll be nice." Emmett laughed obscenely.

Whether Chloe was willing or not, he was determined to sleep with her today.

He had already arranged someone to take care of Levi so that no one would disturb him.

Bang!

Boom!

In the nick of time, the security door banged open and then crashed on the ground.

Levi's dramatic entrance froze Emmett and Chloe to the spot.

How did Levi kick open the security door?

Is he even human?

Levi slowly approached Emmett while smoking a cigarette.

All the security guards behind him had collapsed to the ground...

Thump!

Levi sent the pervert flying with a single kick and he slammed heavily on the table, spitting blood.

"The nerve of you to hit me! I swear you'll be in for a nasty ride and you can never rent an office building in North Hampton!" Emmett howled.

Levi puffed on his cigarette and sat down in his leather chair. "I was going to negotiate with you as an ordinary person, but I didn't expect you to be someone like this. Well, I'm going to lay my cards on the table. The entire Union Square belongs to me now!"

Emmett snorted, "Keep boasting!"

Although Chloe knew Levi's strength, she thought he was getting way ahead of himself to buy the entire Union Square.

Levi called the head of the Rogers family, Glenn, “Hello, Rogers? It’s Levi. I’ll give you ten minutes. Buy out the entire Union Square!”

Glenn was shocked at first, then he said, “The Rogers family holds the controlling share to Union Square, so it’s practically yours.”

“Okay. Come over and settle the paperwork.” Levi said.

“Buying the entire Union Square in ten minutes? You know, I may have the management right in Union Square, but the Rogers family has absolute control over it.” Emmett was still clamoring.

Five minutes later, the Rogers arrived.

Emmett quickly donned a welcoming smile when he saw them. “What brings you here, Mr. Rogers?”

Emmett’s livelihood depended on the family.

A word from them would decide his life and death.

The Protector Chapter 275

Hence, Emmett was grinning like a Cheshire cat when he saw the Rogers family.

Pow!

Anthony suddenly punched him in the face, causing blood to spurt from his wounds.

Pow! Bang! Crash!

Leo and the rest joined in in giving Emmett a violent beating.

While Chloe wore a blank, flabbergasted expression, Glenn disregarded them as he handed a contract to Levi with a smile. "Union Square belongs to you now, Mr. Garrison!"

Emmett's face lit up with surprise when he heard that.

Who on earth is this man to have the Rogers family hand over Union Square in less than ten minutes?

"Mr. Garrison," Leo said. "I swear this trash, Emmett, will have one hell of a life from here on!"

Then Emmett was thrown out of here.

"That would be nice." Levi said, picking up the contract and walked away.

Chloe looked at Levi's back view with starry-eyed infatuation. Her adoration for this man amplified.

When Levi went back, he accompanied Zoey to Galaxy Hotel. The Lopez family invited Zoey over to the special banquet they were having to commemorate their relocation to a new office.

"Dear Zoey, why do you have to go through all the trouble just to be independent? What's wrong with working side by side with the Lopez family?" Henry said.

"Yeah, unless you don't acknowledge the Lopez family anymore and you want to betray us!" Fabian said, unsparing.

Zoey's fist clenched.

Haven't I been contributing to the Lopez family?

But how have you guys treated me?

At this moment, Harry raised his wineglass, saying, "We owe a special thanks to someone today!"

"And that is Zoey, who paid for the new office building for Lopez Group!"

Everyone cheered.

But Zoey's and her parents' hearts were writhing in pain.

"Tell me, Zoey. What's your plan after this?" Melanie asked. "Hear me out. Hand over the investment money and give Grandpa a free hand to handle the project. As for you, just be a capable assistant and I promise, your career growth will be guaranteed. If Grandpa favors you in the future, who knows you'll be the next head of the Lopez family."

Shaun nodded. "Yeah, Zoey. It's hard for you to fly solo now. No one will agree to it. No matter how hard you try, your efforts will be in vain."

In another word, Zoey would end up the same as today if she sought independence again.

They would rob her off a new office building again and again...

In the end, she left in a huff and Levi immediately went after her.

"Grandpa always prefers males over females, and he never likes me!" Zoey sobbed by the roadside.

“Honey, don’t worry. I’m here.” Levi smiled, handing Zoey the tenancy agreement of Union Square that floored her.

“What?! Ten million for five years?” But how?

She thought about renting an office building in Union Square before this, where the real city center was.

While it would be a demonstration of the company’s strength, it could gain the trust of investors and business partners as well.

However, she could only give up as she had expected the rental to be one hundred million for five years.

“Okay, don’t get too worked up. Get ready and move in tomorrow morning before the Lopez family finds out.” Said Levi.

The next day at Lopez Group’s office building at Elysium Plaza, everyone was still basking in joy when Shaun came running in.

“Grandpa, Uncle Fabian, Dad, we have a problem! Imperial Meadows Limited is actually moving!”

The Protector Chapter 276

The Lopez family was blindsided by the news.

Does that mean they have found a new location?

“W-Where are they moving to?” Harry’s voice quavered.

“I’m not sure where specifically, but I think they’re moving to the city center!” Shaun said.

“Come on, let’s go take a look! We must stop them!”

Shortly after, they arrived at Union Square, which was one street away from North Hampton Center.

This place was the legit city center!

They were surprised to see that the people of Imperial Meadows Limited were actually unloading their things to Union Square with Zoey and her family in command at the entrance.

Harry and the others hurried over to them.

“Zoey, what are you guys doing here?” Harry asked.

“We’re moving.” Zoey smiled. “What’s wrong, Grandpa?”

“To Union Square? Are you sure about that? How expensive it must be!” Harry said.

Zoey's smile widened. "Grandpa, it's not. It's just ten million for five years and it's much cheaper than Elysium Plaza!"

"Ten million?! Oh my God!" Harry almost fainted over.

The Lopez family could only watch as Imperial Meadows Limited moved to a new place. It was too late to stop them.

This place was ten times more upscale than Elysium Plaza!

The Lopez family could feel nothing but regret!

"I mean, how do you guys think Zoey found Union Square?" Harry asked after leaving Union Square. "And for ten million? How is that even possible?"

"I supposed this bitch sold herself?" Henry suggested coldly.

"Huh? How do you mean?"

Harry and the others looked at him curiously.

"From what I've heard, the owner of Union Square, Emmett Browne, is a pervert who have scourged God knows how many women. He promises anything as long as you sleep with him. That bitch must have slept with him. Otherwise, why would he rent it to her for only ten million?"

"Yeah! That bitch must have slept with him!"

"What an unscrupulous bitch!"

The Lopez family cursed.

"What a disgrace to the Lopez family! How are we going to preserve our reputation if word goes out?"

Harry wished he could get it even with Zoey at this instant.

“Dad, hold your fire. Let’s go home first and we’ll come up with something to get back at them.” Fabian said.

Harry spluttered, “Hah, so that’s how it was! And here I am wondering how did she get all those investments recently.”

“Just look at how beautiful Zoey is.” Melanie said grudgingly. “Won’t all the men bow at her feet if she sleeps with them?”

“Haha, sadly that idiot Levi doesn’t know that she has cheated on him!” Shaun said.

...

In front of Union Square, Zoey and the others watched as the Lopez family left woefully.

“This feels so good.” Zoey exclaimed.

“Yeah, what a great day! Did you guys see Henry and Fabian’s faces just now? They looked like they were about to cry.”

“And Dad was totally freaking out!”

Aaron was stoked at his first time triumph against Harry.

“Dad, it’s all thanks to Levi who negotiated the deal! Otherwise, the rental would have been eighty million.” Zoey said.

“My good son-in-law! You have made us proud!”

Aaron patted Levi’s shoulders.

After Zoey took care of things there, Levi returned to Morris Group.

The Protector Chapter 277

Morris Group had been very busy these two days, so much that Iris had slept for only seven hours a day at most.

When Levi arrived at the office, Iris was still in a meeting and he was called to sit in.

The main topic of the meeting was the publicity and endorsement of the product launch.

There was definitely no problem with the reputation of the product. All they needed to work on was the advertisements.

“As for the ambassador and spokesperson, I’ve chosen a few celebrities and influencers. Lil Lacey especially, has a record of bringing in millions of sales from her broadcast. It would be great to have her to promote our products. Does anyone have any comments?” Iris said.

“Nope. With our marketing efforts, nothing will go wrong.” Someone replied.

Levi was about to doze off from listening.

“What’s the matter, Levi? Do you have something to say?” Iris purposely called him out.

Most of the people in the room scoffed at this technical advisor as they didn’t expect him, a once brilliant man, to be muddling along.

But for the sake of Iris and Isaiah, they kept a cool head.

“I disagree.” Levi yawned.

“Disagree???”

Everyone gaped at him.

“In what?”

It was because Iris wanted to listen to Levi’s opinion that she invited him to attend the meeting.

“We’re selling medical instruments! What’s the use of hiring celebrities and influencers as ambassadors?”

Iris’s face clouded with disappointment.

Six years of imprisonment has worn away his brilliance.

It’s only right to look for a popular celebrity when it comes to promoting a product. Only then will the products be made known. With the reputation of these celebrities as guarantees, partners and retailers can buy with confidence and we can ensure maximum profits.

“Okay, dismiss!”

Levi wanted to say further but Iris announced the end of the meeting straightaway.

Levi was startled. What is this woman doing?

Iris glanced at him and chastised, "Don't you ever attend any future company meetings!"

Everyone regarded Levi with disdain, thinking that he was goofing off.

Levi smiled wryly. I'll let Iris have her way first then.

After getting off from work, it flashed upon Levi that he had to get Zoey a new car.

Thus, he went to Coastal Street the next day, where all the 4S dealership stores gathered.

He had been a regular customer here six years ago, so he was familiar with this area.

For some reason, it was really crowded today.

It seemed like there was some sort of event going on, seeing how there were many filming equipment and good-looking personalities along the street.

Levi disregarded them and headed toward the Mercedes Benz 4S dealership store.

"Hold it right there, sir!"

Several salespersons at the door stopped him.

"Hmm? What's wrong?" Levi asked.

“What are you doing here, sir?” The salesperson asked.

“I’m here to buy a car, obviously.” Levi said.

“Oh, not today, sir. There’s an event going on at the moment.”

The salesperson looked askance at Levi.

As this was North Hampton’s largest Mercedes Benz 4S dealership store, customers who were serious about buying cars would have made an appointment and the store would send someone to pick them up.

Having been doing sales for seven to eight years, they could see that Levi was incapable of buying a car.

People like Levi were like those window shoppers whom they had to deal with almost every day.

Hence, fed up with it, they outright rejected him in the name of the event.

The Protector Chapter 278

Right then, a few men in suits arrived.

The salesperson immediately went up to greet him, “Mr. Olsen, you’re here?”

“Yeah, I’m here to buy a car. What’s wrong? Do I need to make an appointment for that?” One of the men asked.

The salesperson smiled obsequiously, “No, sir! Please, come in. You’re always welcomed here.”

Marshall Olsen smiled.

That’s another hundreds of thousands order there, perhaps even a million.

“Hmm? Hold up! Why are they allowed to enter?” Levi asked quizzically.

“Hmph, because they can afford to buy a car and you can’t!” Marshall said straightforwardly.

Several other salespersons looked at Levi with a mocking face as well.

Why should we waste our time on people who have no intentions to buy a car?

“I want to meet your manager!” Levi barked, his face gloomy.

“Haha, who are you to meet him?” Marshall snorted. “He’s busy.”

“What’s with the commotion outside? What’s going on?”

A woman in her thirties came out from the inside. She was dressed in business attire, looking dignified.

“Ms. Guillemine, this guy is forcing his way in when he’s not even here to buy a car!” Marshall said, pointing at Levi.

Mandy was astonished when her eyes fell on Levi. “Well, well, isn’t this the great Mr. Garrison?”

Levi could vaguely remember her as Mandy Guillemine, who was a mere salesperson six years ago.

At that time, she would be subservient and servile whenever she saw him.

He couldn't believe that she was a manager now.

"Yeah, it's me. I'm here to buy a car, but your people wouldn't let me in." Levi said.

Mandy chuckled, "I think what she did was right! Our time is precious, so why should we entertain you when you don't even have the money?"

"Who told you I don't have the money?" Levi retorted.

I can buy every single 4S dealership store on Coastal Street right now if I want to.

What do you mean I don't have the money?

"Enough with the bullshit, Levi. You think I don't know what you're capable of? You just came out of prison and you're depending on your wife for livelihood. Do you think you're worthy to buy a Mercedes Benz?"

Levi sneered, "Is that how you treat your guest?"

"I, for one, am realistic!" Mandy retaliated. "You were worth billions six years ago, and I'd served you like a slave. But now you're nothing, so why should I entertain you?"

"Get lost now! You're not welcomed here, you poor bastard!" Mandy gave him a mouthful.

It was a cathartic experience for her, and she had never felt so refreshed before.

In the past, she worked her fingers to the bone for Levi. She could almost lick his boots just to secure his deal.

Now that Levi was in dire straits, she took her chance to wipe away her own shame.

“Yeah, this is not a place for poor bastards! Just get a motorbike and scram!” Others chimed in.

Levi ignored them and turned toward the Audi 4S dealership store next door.

“Hahaha, you’re going the wrong way. The next doors are Audi and BMW, which are probably more expensive than a Mercedes Benz.” Mandy chortled.

“Ms. Guillemín, should I go take a look?” Marshall sniggered.

“It’s okay! He can’t afford to buy a car.”

Mandy reentered the store.

Levi’s entry to the Audi 4S dealership store was smooth.

“How may I assist you, sir?” Wendy, the salesperson, asked with a smile.

The Protector Chapter 279

Levi drew out a black card directly and handed it to her. “I want all the cars in your store!”

Wendy froze, asking uncertainly, “Can you repeat that, sir?”

“I want all the cars in your store! Immediately! Now!”

Wendy accepted Levi's black card with unsteady hands.

"Is this the world's limited edition American Express Black Card?"

Wendy was thunderstruck when she saw the card.

Not only did the black card have an unlimited quota, but it also came with many privileges. Wendy was completely convinced that she had met the legendary zillionaire.

She quickly informed the manager of the store who ran out shortly after with a few other employees.

"Greetings, sir! Our store has two hundred and forty-eight vehicles in stock and the total price is one hundred and eighty million." The manager faltered.

"Make it two hundred million. Swipe it." Levi said.

The manager was on the verge of tears and so were the others.

Did we just achieve half a year's performance in one day?

"Choose a car that cost over a million for me and proceed with the formalities. I want to drive it back. Send the rest to Morris Group." Levi said.

The manager personally chose a one point seven million Audi RS7.

The body of the car was red, which suited Zoey a lot.

After all the formalities were completed, he called Jace, the general manager of the Audi dealership in North Hampton.

At this moment, Jace was having tea with Corey, the general manager of the Mercedes Benz dealership.

“What’s up?” Jace asked, answering the phone.

“I have great news for you, Mr. Renner! A customer just bought all the cars in my store! He even swiped his card on the spot for two hundred million!”

Jace jolted to his feet upon hearing it.

As Audi wasn’t one of those top luxury cars that cost about tens of millions, he had never seen such a rich person before.

Receiving an order of two hundred million was indeed too good to be true.

“One more thing, Mr. Renner. This customer was kicked out from the 4S dealership store next door! Those idiots from Mercedes Benz think this zillionaire can’t afford to buy a car and won’t even let him in! Hahaha...”

Jace broke into laughter when he heard this.

Thanks to those idiots, we get to snatch this two hundred million deal.

“What’s so exciting, Jace?” Corey asked and Jace told him about the incident.

“Congrats, man! I would love to meet such zillionaire too!”

Corey was envious.

It was a two hundred million deal!

Jace chuckled, “All thanks to your staff, Corey.”

“Huh?”

Corey looked dazed.

“This zillionaire went to your store at first, but your staff stopped him outside and called him a poor bastard, thinking that he can’t afford to buy a car. So he had no choice but to come to my store. Otherwise, how else do I get this deal? Haha...”

Corey froze, his face contorted with blue veins bulging on his temples, and his eyes spelled death.

“Mandy Guillemin, you bitch! Do you know what’ve you done?!”

The Protector Chapter 280

“Okay, I’m done with you. I’m going to meet this sugar daddy.” Said Jace, rising to his feet.

Corey followed. “I’m coming with you. I need to apologize to him. If not, I wouldn’t know how I’ll die for messing with such a big shot.”

The two general managers then left for Coastal Street at full speed.

Meanwhile, Levi was enjoying tea at the VIP lounge with about seven to eight people serving him.

Someone even offered to massage his leg.

In the Mercedes Benz 4S dealership store, Mandy asked, “Is the poor bastard out yet?”

“Nope! It’s been more than half an hour.” Marshall said. “He must be here just to check out the cars.”

Mandy chuckled, "Isn't that so? I've been in this industry for so long. A genuine buyer will never stay more than ten minutes. Only those poor losers will dawdle for half a day and wind up not buying anything."

"Yeah, I knew it at first glance that he's too poor to buy a car." Marshall laughed.

Just then, several staffs of the Mercedes Benz 4S dealership store came in noisily.

"What's with the noise? How improper!" Mandy rebuked, her face ugly.

"Aren't you aware, Ms. Guillemin? Something big is happening on Coastal Street!"

"What is it?" Mandy and Marshall asked curiously.

"The entire Coastal Street is in an uproar! The Audi 4S dealership store next door actually sold two hundred and forty-eight cars in stock at once for two hundred million!"

"That's a first in history! Everyone has gone to spectate!"

Hearing that, Mandy, Marshall and the others immediately went out.

And sure enough, there was a crowd of over a hundred people outside the Audi 4S dealership store.

Everyone came to watch, wanting to get to know this zillionaire who was still sitting in the VIP lounge.

Mandy and Marshall too, joined the crowd.

"Who is this zillionaire? Why didn't he buy a Mercedes Benz from us or a BMW from you?" Mandy asked the manager of the BMW 4S dealership store.

“I don’t know.” The manager replied. “But I heard this zillionaire had been to your store before coming to Audi.”

Mandy and Marshall looked at each other. They couldn’t remember meeting such a zillionaire.

After all, they were many customers today and the only person who had given them the deepest impression was Levi.

But they were certain that he wasn’t that zillionaire that they spoke of.

For some reason, the two of them had a bad premonition.

“I heard that Mr. Renner, the general manager of Audi dealership in North Hampton, is coming to meet this zillionaire!”

“Damn, with that profit, they’re going to get at least a twenty million bonus!”

The peers looked on enviously, and so were Mandy and Marshall.

If they had been the one to secure this deal, Mandy would have gotten a bonus of tens of millions.

Just then, an Audi A8 drove by.

Coming down from the car was a middle-aged man in long sleeves who went straight into the 4S dealership store.

Many people recognized him as Jace Renner.

Following closely behind was a Mercedes Benz and coming down from the car was the general manager of Mercedes Benz, Corey Stone.

At Corey’s arrival, Mandy and Marshall hurried over to greet him.

“Mr. Stone, what brings you here?” Mandy asked with a smile.

But Corey slapped her hard on the face as soon as he saw her. “Stupid bitch!”

The Protector Chapter 281

The stinging slap across the face jolted Mandy.

She covered her face and looked at Corey incredulously. "Mr. Stone, how have I offended you?"

Slap!

Corey gave her another tight slap across the head. "You stupid b*tch, don't you know what you've done wrong?"

"W-What have I done wrong?" Mandy repeated in puzzlement.

Marshall and the others were burning with curiosity as well.

What did we do?

Slap!

Corey slapped her again.

"I really don't know what I did wrong, Mr. Stone," Mandy cried, her face swelling up.

"Do you know about the zillionaire at Audi next door?" Corey asked sternly.

"Yeah, they spent two hundred million at one go," Mandy, Marshall and the others said.

“Then let me tell you something. This zillionaire had gone to our store first!” Corey shouted madly.

“What?”

Mandy and Marshall’s faces fell.

“Huh? The zillionaire really came to our store? Then why didn’t he purchase anything?” Mandy and Marshall asked.

“Why? Aren’t you guys at fault for this? How is he going to buy a car if you guys didn’t allow him to enter?”

“Yeah, I also heard that this zillionaire was kicked out of the Mercedes Benz 4S dealership store! They even called him a poor bastard!”

...

Hearing that, Mandy and Marshall were dumbstruck with terror.

Surely they had chased away many potential customers in the name of the event today, but they didn’t expect a zillionaire to be among them.

“Fools! I’m going to kill you! Don’t you understand what you did wrong? You’ve ruined me!” Corey roared.

At this moment, there was a hubbub inside the Audi 4S dealership store, with a crowd forming around a man as they walked out.

“Here he is, the zillionaire!” someone shouted, and everyone looked over.

Corey quickly went up and bowed in greeting, catching Levi off guard. “Nice to meet you, Sir! I was wrong! I’ve failed to educate my staff!”

“Mr. Garrison, this is Corey Stone, the General Manager of Mercedes Benz,” Jace introduced.

Levi put on a straight face which almost gave Corey a heart attack.

So is this what it feels like to step off on the wrong foot?

“Dear Mr. Garrison, I just found out what happened. It’s my fault for being lax in educating my staff! I didn’t expect to have such unqualified subordinates! Please accept my apologies!” Corey bowed.

Thereupon, he dragged Mandy, Marshall, and the rest to the front.

Levi slowly shifted his gaze to them...

When Mandy and Marshall looked up, they nearly passed out in shock.

It’s Levi Garrison! Levi’s the zillionaire who had bought two hundred over cars at once!

He’s really here to buy a car and our store was his first choice!

But we drove him away...

Where did he get the money to foot a two hundred million bill at once, though?

The Protector Chapter 282

Everyone was scared silly!

Can his gaze be any more frightening?

Why is a zillionaire like him keeping such a low profile?

Why isn't he decked out in designer brands?

Who would have thought that he is the zillionaire?

Is it too late to say that we regret our actions?

Marshall and the others regarded Mandy with resentment. If it weren't for Mandy's vicious mockery towards Levi, they wouldn't have followed suit and acted so badly.

Mandy was scared out of her pants.

Right then, Levi's voice was heard. "I don't accept apologies!"

Corey panicked.

Shit! Is the end of me for offending such an invincible zillionaire?

"Mr. Garrison, I swear I'll fire Mandy, Marshall, and the eight other staff at once," he said hastily. "And any company or 4S dealership store related to Mercedes Benz will never hire them, ever again!"

Mandy and Marshall wanted to faint.

Corey had just cut off their source of income by stripping them off of their high paying job, and that was just about the biggest punishment there was.

“We at Audi shall not employ people like Mandy,” Jace seized the opportunity to announce.

“We at BMW will never hire people like these either!”

“Porsche as well!”

...

Mandy, Marshall and the other’s faces darkened.

All the car brands on Coastal Street had made their stance clear, which was akin to them being banned by the entire industry!

At the very least, they would have no other means of subsistence in North Hampton.

Levi sneered at Mandy, “And they said women have good intuition, I guess not?”

Hearing that, Mandy, Marshall and the others got on their knees, begging, “We were wrong, Mr. Garrison. Please forgive us just this once...”

Levi turned a deaf ear and left straight away, leaving Mandy and the other women a crying mess.

“Somebody get rid of these scum!” Corey yelled.

...

Something magical had happened in front of Morris Group’s office building today.

It was a stunning spectacle in which two hundred new Audi were delivered and parked on the square.

Most importantly, the higher ups of Morris Group were all kept in the dark.

The incident soon alarmed Iris as she hurried down with a group of executives.

Several trucks were still unloading the cars on the square.

“Excuse me. What’s going on here?” Iris asked in a fluster.

The truck driver replied, “The person in charge of the Audi 4S dealership store said there’s a big boss who had ordered two hundred over Audi in a single bill. I was told to send them to Morris Group, and that’s all I know.”

“A big boss? Why did he buy so many cars?”

Iris was all the more confused because she didn’t have a clue who the buyer was, and that was when Isaiah ran out.

“Ms. Anabelle, it’s the big boss who bought them!”

His words sent shock waves through the crowd.

This big boss’s style of doing things is really unfathomable.

Why did he buy so many cars?

Just then, an Audi A8 came to a halt before them.

Coming down from the car was Kirin.

“Mr. Atkinson!”

The employees went up to greet him.

“Since y’all are here, I have an announcement to make,” Kirin said, seeing that almost everyone from the upper management was around. “Morris Group will soon implement a reward system.”

“Rewards will be given according to individual performance. Regardless of whether you are an executive or an ordinary employee, there will be a reward if you perform well. You saw the rewards—cars!

We don’t hold back on rewarding our staff. The Audi parked in the square cost at least four hundred thousand each. As long as you work hard, the two million Audi R8 sports car could be yours.”

The Protector Chapter 283

“But of course, if you don’t want a car by then, it can be converted into cash.”

“I’ve also heard that the big boss has plans to reward you guys with houses and mansions in the future. As long as you make profits for the company, the company will give you a future.”

“Yes, Sir!”

The entire Morris Group seethed with excitement at Kirin’s announcement. The reward system had struck exactly the right note with the employees.

Rewarding a car that costs at least four hundred thousand is too posh! We must work harder! Only then can we enjoy a brighter future in this company!

“Not many departments have shown outstanding achievements as the company has just been established,” Kirin continued. “But we are all witnesses to the achievements of the technical department, aren’t we? With that, the big boss has decided to reward fifteen cars to the technical team!”

The technical team went wild.

Isaiah was so exhilarated that his eyes brimmed with tears.

The others looked on enviously, vowing to work even harder.

“We want to contribute to the company as well! We want a car too!”

“I’m so going to get that most expensive sports car!”

...

Seeing the employees’ spirited demeanor, Iris exclaimed inwardly. How intimidating this mysterious boss is to win over the people’s hearts with just a snap! The additional revenue the company will earn in the future will be far more than these rewards! Who on earth is this big boss?

Meanwhile, Levi was on his way to Union Square.

It wasn’t because he was angry that he bought two hundred over cars on Coastal Street in one transaction, but because he had really wanted to reward the employees.

He had sent thirty cars to the manor that Azure Dragon and the others were staying in, and ten cars to James.

In front of Union Square, Zoey was standing by the roadside glumly because her crappy car had just broken down.

The mechanics had arrived stating that the car needed a major repair that would cost about ten thousand.

As her car cost only thirty thousand, it wasn't worthwhile to repair it.

"I guess I should really get a new car," Zoey muttered to herself.

It was rush hour, and it was too difficult to catch a cab by the road.

But at that moment, a car suddenly stopped next to Zoey. The window rolled down to reveal a young man who was taking off his sunglasses, saying, "Where are you going, pretty lady? I'll give you a ride."

"No, thank you!" Zoey refused bluntly.

"Don't get me wrong, pretty lady. I'm not a bad guy! I work at Union Square too—Saturn Group, right next door to your company. Allow me to introduce myself. I'm Damian Stan, the deputy head of the procurement department of Saturn Group."

Damian came down from the car and handed Zoey a name card. This was his chance to strike up a conversation with her.

He had been observing Zoey all day today and even bragged to his colleagues that he would make Zoey his.

Out of courtesy, Zoey accepted the name card.

"Please, Ms. Lopez. Where are you going? I'll give you a ride."

Damian looked at his car and smiled, "This is my new Tesla, it cost about eight hundred thousand. It's really comfortable inside. You'll be surprised, Ms. Lopez."

"It's okay. I'll just take a cab," Zoey refused nonetheless.

“I’ll drive you,” Damian insisted. “We’re neighbors, what’s there to be afraid of?”

Just as he was about to reach out to pull Zoey, a loud honk was heard.

The Protector Chapter 284

Zoey and Damian stood frozen as they looked at the car.

It was an Audi RS7 that cost almost two million, and it was much classier than Damian’s Tesla!

The car window rolled down, revealing a face familiar to Zoey.

“Honey, get in. Don’t just stand there,” Levi said.

Zoey came back to her senses and quickly hopped on.

Damian was stunned, malice flashing in his eyes.

Just how rich is this woman’s husband to drive a car that costs two million?

And she’s married?

But it’s okay. I’m going to sleep with her no matter what!

In the car, Zoey was full of curiosity.

The interior of this car is too luxurious!

As expected of a two million luxury car!

“Where did you rent this car, Levi? I bet it’s not cheap to rent it for a day.”

Zoey didn’t even think that Levi would buy a car.

“Honey, I bought this car for you,” Levi chuckled. “Didn’t I tell you that day?”

“Are you serious?!”

“Mm, these are the contracts. Have a look.”

Levi handed a pile of documents to Zoey, who went giddy when she saw the contracts.

This car is really mine!

“Thank you, darling!” Zoey expressed her gratitude by giving Levi a kiss on his cheek.

Just as Levi was about to reciprocate, Zoey shouted, “Red light! Red light! Watch out when you’re driving!”

Levi continued driving helplessly.

It was soon known to the Lopez family that Zoey had gotten a new car.

Aaron and Caitlyn had specially come out of the house to see it.

“Mom, Dad, I bought a car for you too. I’ll have it delivered later,” Levi said.

Jeez, how could I have forgotten about them?

Thereafter, Levi called Isaiah and asked him to send over two four hundred thousand cars.

Half an hour later, two Audi were sent to Bayview Garden with the completed paperwork.

Aaron and Caitlyn couldn't be bothered to eat as they rushed downstairs to look at the cars.

They were so in love in their new cars that they could hardly tear themselves away from them.

Even Zoey was also studying her new car.

At this time, Iris had returned from work.

She couldn't help but laugh when she saw the Lopez family's behavior. "What are you guys doing?"

"My son-in-law bought cars for us!" Aaron said proudly.

Iris looked over and saw three Audi.

"Aren't these our company's cars?" she blurted.

"Your company's cars? What's going on here?" Zoey asked.

Iris told them about the reward system.

"The technical team was rewarded with a dozen of cars today, and Isaiah has the right to distribute them. He's nice to Levi, and it was he who brought Levi into the company. Otherwise, how do you think Levi could work in Morris Group?"

“So you’re saying that these cars were given to Levi by Isaiah out of friendship?” Zoey asked.

“That must be it! You guys keep this matter to yourselves. If other employees of the company find out about this, they will be disappointed. After all, Levi was rewarded with three cars for lounging around and doing nothing,” Iris enjoined.

In fact, she wasn’t satisfied either.

How is it that Levi could get three cars without even contributing to the company?

And one of them even cost two million?

If I’m already this unhappy, imagine how the employees would feel.

Aaron’s expression fell.

The Protector Chapter 285

He had thought his son-in-law had brought them glory by buying three cars at once, but they turned out to be gifts gifted out of friendship.

Even though the cars were in their hands, it wouldn’t feel pleasant to drive.

After all, Levi didn’t buy them with his own money.

How suffocating would it if they had to drive in secret and not tell anyone about this!

“Uncle, Aunt, don’t be mad. Levi did it with the best of intentions, after all. Just feel free to drive them. You have my word,” Iris said.

“Thanks, Iris.”

Aaron and Caitlyn felt much more relieved at that, but they were still dissatisfied with Levi.

How humiliating would it be if words get out!

Luckily, Iris has reminded us.

Levi, who was eating, didn’t know what had happened. When he saw them coming back, he even asked them, “Mom, Dad, don’t you guys like it?”

“Don’t you ever do such humiliating things again!” Aaron roared.

“Yeah, we appreciate your kindness, but let this be last time. I don’t want to lose face!” Caitlyn raged as well.

Levi put on a puzzled face. “What’s wrong?”

“Was it Isaiah who sent us the cars?” Zoey asked.

“Yeah, he sent them.” Levi nodded.

Because that was the truth!

“Right then.”

Zoey and her parents remained quiet, leaving Levi baffled.

The next day, Zoey drove to work early.

As Levi exited the house, he met Iris at the doors.

Iris glanced at him and smirked, "Seems like you're still a pretty decent person."

"Hmm? What do you mean?" Levi asked.

"I thought you were going to drive an Audi as well," Iris sneered, then drove off.

Levi simply smiled and jogged out the door.

He had been running to and fro work these days because he was used to it in the army.

He would feel sick all over now instead if he didn't move his body.

Bayview Garden was located in a high-class area with lots of parks, which was a treat to runners.

These parks had joined forces to set up a track several kilometers long within the perimeter.

"Move away! This place has been sealed off! Go somewhere else!"

At this moment, Levi came head-on to a team of security guards who were holding trained police dogs in their hands.

Those who were jogging or playing were forced out.

Levi saw that there were a group of people in the security guards' wake, some lifting cameras on their shoulders, some holding props such as light shields, and others holding computers...

It seemed that a celebrity has come by...

The most conspicuous thing Levi saw was that a beautiful woman was being carried by four men. It was as if she didn't want her feet to touch the ground at all.

"Slow down! You're tipping me over. What a load of idiots!"

Not only was the woman complaining, but she also even threw a banana peel on the curb...

"Isn't that the influencer, Lil Lacey?" someone who recognized her at the side said in surprise. "She seems polite on broadcast, but why is she so different in real life?"

"Yeah, she has the vibe of a girl with positive energy. How can she be so uncivilized?"

A look of bemusement spread across the crowd's faces.

"Haha, a lot of influencers are like this. They just fake it for the camera. What you see on screen is all filtered!"

Levi was slightly annoyed.

How can mere influencers have special privileges to get rid of the locals?

Isn't the park a public area?

Right then, the team of security guards stood before Levi. "Move out of the way! What are you looking at?"

The Protector Chapter 286

Levi stood still.

He had no intentions of giving way.

Who gave them the authority to seal the roads?

Just as the security guards were about to fly off the handle, Lil Lacey, the influencer behind, suddenly slapped one of the four men who carried her in the face with a crisp sound.

“Is your brain filled with shit or something? What the hell are you doing? You almost dropped me!” Lil Lacey screamed.

This particular staff quickly apologized, “I’m sorry. My foot slipped. I’m really sorry...”

But Lil Lacey slapped the staff in the face again, despite his apologies.

The people around burned with anger at her treating her staff with such brutality.

How unkind of her to slap him just because his foot slipped!

A few people even took out their phones to film as they wanted to expose what this influencer was truly like.

“What do you think you’re doing? Did I agree to let you film? Go to hell!” Lil Lacey’s anger spiked when she caught them in the act, then she turned toward her manager and said, “Amelia, look at them! Smash their phones, quick! We can’t let them post the videos online!”

Amelia immediately ordered, "Get rid of their phones now! The videos must never get out!"

A dozen of security guards rushed forward to those who were filming, snatching their phones away and smashing them to the ground into pieces.

These people choked with silent fury. They couldn't afford to mess with that influencer.

There was a tall young man, however, who was still clutching his phone to which two security guards had failed to grab it.

"What do you think you're doing? It's against the law to take my phone!" the man retorted.

"Against the law? Listen, we are the law! We call the shots!"

A few more security guards joined in to snatch his phone away before smashing it to the ground before his eyes.

"Compensate me for my phone! I demand justice, or this will not end!" The young man hit the roof.

Lil Lacey shot a glance at him and said, "Beat him up!"

The security guards charged forward at her command at once, pinning the man to the ground.

"Stop it!"

A voice sounded all of a sudden.

The security guards stopped short and looked over to where the sound came from.

It was Levi.

“Is this how a famous influencer should behave?” he asked with a sneer.

Upon hearing Levi’s words, Lil Lacey exploded, “Who the hell are you? Stay out of this!”

Levi let out a suppressed laugh. “As a man of justice, I can never turn a blind eye to injustice!”

“Fine! Since you’re a nosy retard, I’ll make an example of you!”

Lil Lacey commanded the security guards to make a move on Levi.

“I’ll give you a taste of a viscous dog bite!” the security guard snorted coldly. “Bite him!”

The dogs they were leashing started barking.

Especially after the security guards let go of the leash, they became more and more manic and were ready to rush over.

But the next moment, Levi’s eyes darkened in a slight glint, his body exuding a solemn killing aura.

To everyone’s surprise, these dogs actually prostrated themselves to the ground and their bodies were trembling.

Levi had killed countless enemies on the battlefield and was conferred with the title of ‘battlefield butcher’, ‘war machine’ and many more.

There was a murderous aura about him that had been honed on the battlefield.

The Protector Chapter 287

These animals who had heightened senses as compared to humans were petrified.

Let alone a few vicious dogs, even lions and tigers would prostrate themselves in worship at Levi's murderous aura.

"Hmm?"

The security guards and Lil Lacey gawked.

What's wrong with these dogs?

"What are you people standing there for? Get him!" Lil Lacey and Amelia chorused.

The security guards sprinted toward Levi.

Pow!

Crash!

...

With blows from Levi's fists and kicks from his feet, all the guards lay wailing on the ground thirty seconds later.

The onlookers applauded.

"Nice one, man!"

“You’re strong!”

“These scoundrels need to learn their lessons!”

Lil Lacey and Amelia were scared stiff.

Levi walked over to Lil Lacey and pulled her down in one swoop.

“Have you got no legs? Do you really need someone to carry you around?” Levi questioned.

Lil Lacey wanted to refute him, but she shut her mouth meekly when her eyes met his terrifying ones.

“Lil Lacey, was it? Apologize to them now and compensate for their phones!” Levi said in a commanding tone.

“I don’t—”

“Hmm?”

Lil Lacey was just about to refuse when she heard Levi’s voice. “I’m sorry!” she quickly bowed her head and apologized.

Amelia could only admit defeat as well. “I’m sorry!”

“Compensate them now!” Levi commanded.

Amelia compensated them in the end with the original price of their smashed phones.

“Nice!”

Everyone applauded again.

“Can we leave now, Sir?” Amelia asked softly.

“Hold up! So you’re the famous influencer, Lil Lacey, huh? Is Morris Group working with you?” Levi asked.

Amelia nodded. “Yes, that’s right! Lil Lacey has signed a contract with Morris Group as the ambassador and spokesperson for their new products.”

Lil Lacey gave Levi an inquisitive look.

What’s the meaning of this?

“Okay, I’m dissolving this cooperation between you and Morris Group,” Levi said. “Morris Group will never allow people of questionable character to be their ambassador!”

Amelia laughed, “Haha, this is a bit too much, isn’t it, Sir? Who are you to dissolve our cooperation with Morris Group?”

“I am someone from Morris Group and I am qualified to terminate your contract!”

“Don’t worry. Morris Group will never use unethical people like you!”

Amelia snickered, “Then what’s your name? What happened today will not end here.”

“Remember this, my name is Levi Garrison. You can look for me anytime at Morris Group!”

With that said, Levi left the place.

Lil Lacey and Amelia's eyes were filled with resentment as they looked at Levi's retreating back.

"Amelia, quickly send someone to identify him! I want him gone!" Lil Lacey shook with fury.

She was used to being arrogant and domineering.

Having been shamed in public for this first time, she vowed to wipe Levi off the face of the earth.

Amelia tugged her lips into an insidious smile. "Didn't you hear him, Lacey? He's from Morris Group!"

"Okay," Lil Lacey said. "Quickly inform Morris Group that I want to terminate our contract! I want Morris Group to drown in regret!"

Amelia gave her a thumbs-up. "That's a brilliant move! Even if Morris Group doesn't kill that bastard, he will be fired at the very least!"

The Protector Chapter 288

Lil Lacey's eyes were bloodshot. "I'll kill him with my own hands!"

Amelia nodded. "I'll seek help through our connections and we'll put him to death! What a disgrace today!"

Meanwhile, Iris had just arrived at the office and was having a regular meeting when her secretary suddenly came running in.

"Ms. Anabelle, we're screwed! Everest Entertainment had just called to say that Lil Lacey wants to terminate her contract with us and will no longer be the ambassador and spokesperson for our product!"

A heavy silence fell upon the room.

"Hurry up and patch me through to Lil Lacey's manager, Ms. Mackie!" Iris said instantly.

"What can I do for you, Ms. Anabelle?" Amelia sniggered once the call connected.

"Ms. Mackie, may I know why exactly are you terminating the contract with us?" Iris asked mildly. "Didn't we come to an agreement already?"

"Haven't you heard, Ms. Anabelle? Someone from Morris Group has terminated our contract! We can't work with Morris Group anymore, so we can only make it official from our side first," Amelia laughed grimly.

Iris asked through clenched teeth, "Could you tell me who it is who wanted to terminate the contract?"

“Then listen carefully, Levi Garrison!”

“Not only did he terminate our contract, but he also even beat up our security guards and insulted Lacey in public!”

“So we’re terminating our contract and we’ll never work with your company ever again! Goodbye!”

Amelia hung up directly without giving Iris the chance to speak.

After answering the phone call, Iris slumped in her chair.

“What happened, Ms. Anabelle?” everyone asked quizzically.

“Levi Garrison! He messed with Lil Lacey, and now they are terminating their contract! There’s nothing we can do now!”

Iris wore a look of despair.

“That won’t do! We’re going full blast tomorrow, and Lil Lacey is the star of the show!”

“Yeah, we’re starting with the promotion tomorrow. What should we do now?”

Iris shot up to her feet and said, “I can only go there and talk to them myself!”

At the corridor, she met Levi, who had just arrived, head-on.

“This is all thanks to you, Levi!” she snarled.

“What did I do?”

“What did you do? You messed with Lil Lacey, and now their company is terminating their contract with us! Our main ambassador is gone!”

Iris’s eyes nearly started out of her head.

Levi chuckled, “It’s better that they terminate the contract. Our company won’t stoop so low as to use her!”

“Do you know how much damage it will do to us if Lil Lacey’s contract is terminated? Not to mention the publicity effect will be greatly compromised, we’ll lose twenty million in terms of money alone!” Iris snapped.

“Listen, Lil Lacey is a person of questionable morals. Hiring someone like her to be our ambassador is an insult to our product!”

Levi told Iris about what had happened.

“I’m angry to hear that too, but those are her private affairs and we can’t control it. We only care about her image as an influencer and how much profit she will bring us,” Iris said.

Levi smiled, “You don’t understand? She has the publicity effect, but that’s just temporary!”

“Hmph, how can you do business like this?! You’re the one who doesn’t understand!” Iris huffed and left.

“Where are you going?” Levi asked.

The Protector Chapter 289

“I’m going to beg her!” Iris answered.

Levi disregarded her and went to the office of the technical department, drinking tea and smoking cigarette while Iris went to Everest Entertainment personally to negotiate with them.

However, the other party was adamant about terminating the contract.

“Unless you fire him after he kneels before me and apologizes to me or end of discussion!”

Lil Lacey gave Iris only one way out.

“Yes, that bastard must come and apologize on his knees!”

They were firm in their decision.

Iris’s face paled.

“I can make the decision to fire him, but I need to ask him about the apology. I’ll go back and figure this out!”

No sooner was Iris out of earshot than Lil Lacey and the others burst into laughter.

“You dare to challenge us, Levi Garrison? You’re dead meat!”

Lil Lacey’s eyes were loaded with hatred.

After returning to the company, Iris immediately went to look for Levi.

“Come, follow me to Everest Entertainment!”

Levi looked stunned. “For what?”

“To apologize! They said as long as you apologize to them on your knees, and then I fire you, they will overlook this matter!”

Iris bit her lips. “I can only sacrifice you for the greater good of the company. But don’t worry, I’ll compensate you once you apologize to them.”

Levi shook his head. “You’re asking me to kneel down and apologize to them? Hell no! They should be the ones on their knees apologizing and begging us to sign them!”

Iris’s temper sparked at Levi’s attitude.

He’s the one at fault. Why isn’t he trying to solve it?

“Levi Garrison, you’re the one who created this mess. Are you going to take care of this or not?” Iris asked coldly.

“Over my dead body!”

Levi was very resolute.

“Fine, I’ll get someone who can talk some sense into you!”

Iris left in a fit of pique to call Zoey, telling her the whole story.

Shortly after, Levi received a call from Zoey.

“Listen to me, Levi. Go and apologize to them. The interest of the company is more important, after all,” Zoey said.

“I won’t! How could I apologize on my knees to some trash? Besides, I didn’t do anything wrong!”

Levi stood his ground.

“Okay, even if you’re right, you have to think about the interest of the company, no? And Iris and me? A man has to take responsibility. Besides, it’s because of you that this happened,” Zoey said.

“There’s no way I will apologize! I won’t apologize even if you kill me!”

“You disappoint me so much!”

Zoey hung up the phone in anger.

Knowing that Levi wouldn’t go to apologize no matter what, the entire company was pointing fingers at Levi, including the canteen ladies and uncles.

“Look at him sitting there eating shamelessly.”

“He’s a useless piece of sh*t! Does he really think he has the power? He’s nothing without Isaiah!”

“He should have just apologized and get it over with. Does he think he can stay in the company forever?”

...

Levi felt a little aggrieved at the murmurs of dissent coming his way.

I didn’t do anything wrong.

Why do I have to bear the consequences?

Why do I have to get on my knees and apologize?

What is wrong with this world?

Levi would rather die than apologize.

Iris couldn't help it either.

On the other side, Lil Lacey had found out that Levi had turned his nose up at their demand.

“Okay, Amelia. Let's show them what we got!” she sneered. “I'm going to cut off their publicity channels, including their ambassadors. Let's see what they can do.”

The Protector Chapter 290

Iris stayed in the conference room, rubbing her temples. She was brainstorming solutions with everyone when her phone suddenly rang.

Her face changed dramatically, and her phone almost slipped out of her hand when the call ended.

We're screwed!

We're totally screwed!

It turned out that the caller was the manager of the popular star, Wanda, from Everest Entertainment, who was also one of the signed ambassadors.

The manager had called to inform Iris that they would be terminating their contract as well.

Thereafter, her phone rang again.

“Hello, Ms. Anabelle. I’m the manager of Sean Hanks from Everest Entertainment, and we are requesting to terminate our contract with your company.”

“Hello, I’m Lil Jasmine’s manager from King Entertainment and we want to cancel our contract with you.”

“Hello, nice to meet you. I’m from Star Media. We would like to dissolve our contract regarding the promotion of your product.”

...

The calls came one after another.

A total of ten celebrities and influencers that Iris had approached had called to terminate their contracts, including most of the publicity channels.

Some forum websites had also informed that they could only provide recommended advertisement space on classified pages to Morris Group instead of advertisements on their homepages.

Even the newspaper offices had informed that they would no longer publish any news about Morris Group.

After receiving a dozen of phone calls, everyone’s faces were drained of all color and animation. They came near to a breakdown.

They didn't expect that Lil Lacey's termination was just the calm before a storm, and that the worst has yet to come.

Things were already bad enough without Lil Lacey as their ambassador, and now that various publicity channels had been cut off, Morris Group was completely finished this time.

No one would show interest, no matter how good the product was, because there was no publicity at all. How on earth were they going to sell their products if no one knew anything about them?

"We've underestimated Lil Lacey's power in North Hampton. Offending her is equivalent to offending the whole entertainment industry. No one will sign with us ever again!"

Iris drew in a deep breath.

"It's all Levi's fault! Why the hell did he mess with Lil Lacey? Is she someone he can afford to mess with?" Georgia, Iris's assistant, said coldly.

"Yeah, it's all Levi's fault! Everything is ruined now!"

"I know, right? All the products can't be shipped off now!"

...

Everyone regarded Levi as the sinner of the company.

Right then, Levi swaggered into the conference room, smiling, "What are you guys worried about?"

"What do you think we're worried about? All the ambassadors have terminated their contracts and almost every publicity channel has been cut off! What are we going to do with our products?" one senior executive shouted.

“I’ve told you that those people that you hired are not suitable. It wouldn’t be effective to hire them,” Levi replied. “You guys don’t understand who are your real target audience!”

Iris sprang to her feet. “How could you say that at this point in time, Levi?”

“Our original plan was to start promoting tomorrow and officially launch the products three days later. Who are we going to sell them to now?” Iris yelled.

“Don’t worry. Everything will turn out for the best! It will sell like crazy by then,” Levi said.

“Get out of here! Now! I don’t want to see you for a while,” Iris barked.

How she wished she could fire him right there and then!

But she couldn’t say much for the sake of Isaiah.

Levi was really on a downer.

Is she really chasing me away from my own company?

Fine, I’ll just let this slide until her anger subsides.

The Protector Chapter 291

And so he left the company.

Iris had gathered her employees for a meeting again, and the theme was simple—change nothing and minimize the damage as much as possible.

She also made it a point to tell her employees to keep this matter from Neil, as she didn't want the big boss to find out. It would only reflect badly on her as an incompetent leader.

Azure Dragon had arrived to pick Levi up after he left the company.

"Did you manage to reach out to Benny Quinton?" Levi asked Azure Dragon, who had come to pick him up from the company.

Azure Dragon nodded. "Yes, Sir. Mr. Quinton was so happy to hear from you. He would love to meet you too."

Levi smiled, "Tell Mr. Quinton to come to North Hampton three days later. Just tell him that Levi Garrison needs a favor from him."

Azure Dragon guffawed, "That is wonderful! You, Sir, are the nation's God of War, and Mr. Quinton is the nation's greatest doctor! You both are the nation's greatest treasures!"

One must be living under rock if they didn't know who Benny was.

Benny Quinton was a legend, the star of the medical field who had saved more than a million people over the past few decades with his godly hands.

He would always be on the front lines before a great disaster, leading hundreds of thousands of doctors in defeating the 'enemy'.

He was a god in the hearts of thousands of people.

Coincidentally, Levi had saved Benny once before and ever since then they were as thick as thieves.

They were both defenders of the country who had greatly contributed to their respective fields.

There was no telling how many countries were envious of Erudia for having two great defenders of the country.

“And tell the Rogers family to bring me all the celebrities that they had invited to their last celebration,” Levi said.

“Roger that!”

That night when Levi returned home, Zoey had been giving him the cold shoulder.

“It’s just a small matter, honey. Is this really necessary?” Levi asked in a relaxed manner.

“Small matter? I thought it was just a small matter as well, but I didn’t expect it to snowball like that! The entire Morris Group is affected because of you, do you know that?!”

“I don’t understand. Is it so hard for you to get on your knees and apologize?”

Levi’s expression changed. “Why should I bow down to such lowlifes when I’ve never bowed down to any gods?”

“I know you’re a man of moral fiber! And I know that you’re right! But can’t you just put yourself down this once for the greater good of the company?” Zoey snapped.

Levi shook his head. “No! I will never! I will never apologize for something that I didn’t do wrong!”

“Then go away! I don’t want to see you for a while.”

In the end, Levi was kicked out of the house.

Walking in the courtyard, Levi had wanted to scrounge a free meal off Iris, but her door was tightly shut.

He had no choice but to go home and grabbed a few steamed buns before he hit the streets.

Coincidentally, Una had just finished a meeting and was on her way home when she suddenly saw a familiar figure by the road.

“Jamie, look. Is that Levi Garrison?” Una asked.

“Yeah, it is!” Jamie, Una’s assistant, replied.

“I can’t believe he’s actually eating steamed buns on the streets,” Una said in surprise. “Seems like he got kicked out.”

“Boy, I thought he had it in him! Come on, let’s go over there,” Una said.

Levi was still nibbling on a steamed bun when a Rolls-Royce Cullinan suddenly stopped beside him, honking.

“Eating steamed buns, eh?” Una snickered as she came down from the car.

The Protector Chapter 292

“Is that any of your business?” Levi looked up, a grim smile on his lips.

“No, I mean, I thought you’re doing well. How did you wind up eating steamed buns on the street?”

Una felt an irresistible urge to laugh.

In her heart, Levi was nothing but a rotten person and it felt good to see him in a wretched state.

“Did your wife kick you out of the house, Mr. Garrison?” Jamie asked.

“Hahahaha...”

Una burst out laughing. “I supposed you can survive with your salary right now if you’re still single, but you have a family to feed. Your wife is so brilliant, don’t you think you’re too far behind?”

“It’s none of your business. Get out of the way!”

Levi looked irritated.

Next second, Una took out a stack of cash from her purse and threw them at Levi. “Dinner’s on me then!”

And she left with her assistant shortly after.

Levi couldn’t believe his eyes when the stack of cash fell in front of him.

Did this woman just hit me in the face with money? This is absolutely insulting!

A god shall never be crossed!

“The Gonzales family, was it? You people have been testing my patience! Your glory days are over!”

There was a cold glint in Levi’s eyes.

The Gonzales family and the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce are finished! They must have a death wish for screwing with me!

Una couldn’t be any happier after insulting Levi.

“Did you see his face when you hit him with the money, Ms. Gonzales?” Jamie laughed.

“Hahaha...”

Una was rolling in the aisles.

As soon as she returned home, she recounted the story of meeting Levi to the Gonzales family, who all applauded, including Winston. “Well done!”

“Okay, enough about this,” Clint, the Gonzales family’s second son, interrupted. “Dad, I was just informed that the Great Doctor, Benny Quinton, would be coming to North Hampton in three days!”

“Mr. Quinton is actually coming to North Hampton? That is huge!” Winston gasped, jolting to his feet.

Winston’s health had been going downhill. He had invited Benny to North Hampton many times but was rejected nevertheless.

Regardless of how much he had offered, whether it was a billion or more, Benny was unbending.

Everyone knew that Benny was a man who did not care for social norms. He was the symbol of rectitude in Erudia who despised the bigwigs the most.

No matter how much he was offered to treat a patient, his answer was always a firm no.

He could treat them, however, on the condition that they registered themselves at the hospital that he worked at like any other ordinary patient.

In his eyes, patients were just patients, and they were all to be treated equally.

Benny had been residing in Vermond and had never left the city for decades.

Hence, it was a great shock to Winston when he found out that the Great Doctor was actually coming to North Hampton.

“Did someone invite Mr. Quinton over?” Winston asked.

“Beats me. I can’t imagine who in North Hampton or even the whole of Erudia could make Mr. Quinton come out of his shell. He’s the God of Erudia!” Clint remarked in surprise.

Winston’s eyes flickered and instructed, “Clint, invite Mr. Quinton over when the time comes. I want to host his stay in North Hampton!”

“Got it!”

“How exciting! I can’t believe I’m going to meet both the God of War and the Great Doctor of Erudia!”

Winston was already looking forward to it.

Not only the Gonzales family, but the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce had been informed of Benny's arrival in North Hampton three days later as well.

The four noble families of North Hampton were naturally excited to meet this Great Doctor.

"Haha, let's go pick him up at the airport three days later!"

The Protector Chapter 293

"I can't believe we get to meet the two great gods of Erudia!"

"Benny Quinton has unparalleled medical skills. I want him to see what's wrong with me!"

In particular, the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce accounted for a large proportion of the pharmaceutical business in North Hampton.

It would guarantee the reputation of their pharmaceutical business if they had an acquaintance in Benny.

With the many benefits that they could stand to reap, their plan was simple—they must invite Mr. Quinton for tea at the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce.

...

The next day, the news that the Great Doctor, Benny Quinton, was coming to North Hampton had spread across the entire North Hampton.

Only God knew who spread the word.

Everyone respected Benny as God, and they couldn't wait to meet him.

This only went on to prove the reputable status of Benny Quinton!

Everyone in Morris Group was also discussing this matter today.

After all, a Great Doctor like Benny was looked up to by many.

However, they weren't as excited as the public as it was the first day of the promotion of their products.

And it was an absolute disaster!

In addition to the news of Benny Quinton's arrival, all resources had been monopolized. Morris Group couldn't achieve the result that they wanted at all.

Iris was about to sink into the depths of hopelessness.

With such poor results on the first day, the second day was predictable—it would only get worse.

Iris had considered various ways, but to no avail.

Knowing that Benny would be arriving in North Hampton real soon, every publicity channel and media were reluctant to accept any other advertisements.

Iris braced herself for the worst.

If they couldn't sell their products in the first phase, they would lose at least 1.8 billion!

How Iris wished to jump off a cliff.

She had come all the way back from overseas to further her career, but only to be faced with such a gruesome reality right after she had started to see results.

How was she going to face Mr. Atkinson and the mysterious boss?

Thankfully, Levi hadn't come to the office for two days. Otherwise, he would be adding fuel to the fire.

It had been two days since Iris last saw Levi as well.

But she had no intention of seeing him again unless he apologized and got himself together.

The much anticipated third day soon arrived.

Yet, it was a cruel and unbearable day for Morris Group because there were still no results on the third day.

Iris was still mourning in her chair for the few million that went down the drain when Levi unexpectedly showed up.

"Send me a car. I need to pick up someone at the airport," Levi said.

"Huh? Who are you picking up?"

"How dare you come back, Levi?"

Iris and the others made no effort to repress their fury.

"Just send us the best car you got, Ms. Anabelle. Mr. Garrison and I will go together," Isaiah smiled.

Unable to turn him down, Iris proceeded to arrange for the company's Lincoln limousine to send them to the airport.

“Levi’s a nuisance! Who the fk is he picking up at the airport, anyway?”

The upper management raged.

Naturally, the person Levi was going to pick up was Benny.

Although Benny’s status was incomparable to Levi’s, he was an old-timer whom Levi admired.

And since Levi had a favor to ask of him, it was only polite for him to pick up the Great Doctor in person.

When they arrived at the airport, they were shocked at the crowd.

There were just too many people.

Besides the public, the Gonzales family, the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce, and many other wealthy families had all gathered at the airport.

Even Winston was waiting with anticipation among the crowd.

When Morris Group’s car arrived, a clamor broke out.

“Hahaha, even Morris Group is here to invite Mr. Quinton? No way!” Eric sneered.

The Protector Chapter 294

Everyone was dismissive of Morris Group’s arrival, as too many influential people were present.

In their opinion, no one else was qualified to pick up Benny, but the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce and the richest man, Winston Gonzales.

But there again, who else had the power to invite Benny to North Hampton all the way from Vermont?

Una was waiting at the side with Winston when she caught sight of Levi and Isaiah.

“Hmm? Grandpa, look! Isn’t that Levi Garrison?”

The Gonzales family looked over.

“What is he doing here? Is he trying to pick up Mr. Quinton too?” Winston wondered.

“Dad,” Clint said. “Levi’s a man of no scruples when it comes to achieving his goals. He must be trying to take advantage of Mr. Quinton.”

Winston snorted, “I’m standing here. He’ll never get this chance.”

No one is more qualified than me!

“True that. He probably came along for the ride,” Una said.

At that moment, she saw Levi walking towards them.

The Gonzales family were puzzled, wondering what he was up to.

“Is he trying to blackmail us for having saved Sir before this?” the housekeeper suggested.

Una stared at Levi repulsively. “If that is true, Levi sure is rotten to the core!”

Seeing Levi, Winston greeted with a smile, "How may I help you, Levi?"

Levi looked intensely at Una instead and said coldly, "I will not pursue this matter if you bring your grandfather and your father to come and apologize to me within half a month. Otherwise, I swear the Gonzales family will have to pack their bags and to never step foot in North Hampton ever again!"

Levi's statement was mind-blowing, so much so that the room fell silent in astonishment.

What just happened?

Am I hearing things?

Did someone just provoke the Gonzales family?

And right in front of Winston Gonzales at that?

Even the heads of the four noble families of North Hampton who were standing at the side were flabbergasted.

Who the fk has the nerve to mess with Winston Gonzales?

Even Jesse Nielsen wouldn't dare to say that!

Winston's influence is second to none in North Hampton, be it wealth or political power.

Messing with him is akin to messing with the foundation of North Hampton!

But some insolent brat actually dared to do it!

And that person was no other than Levi Garrison, who had recently got out of jail!

“Hahahaha....”

Winston was howling with laughter.

“I’ve never heard of anyone wanting to destroy the Gonzales family in my life! You’re the first to ask for me for an apology on my knees!”

“I’m warning you just this once. It’s up to you whether you choose to listen or not,” Levi said.

“Who the hell are you, Levi?” Una snarled. “So what if I hit you with money? I’m just being charitable! You’re asking me to apologize to a poor brat like you? In your dreams!”

Levi simply ignored her, and the room fell into silence again.

The Protector Chapter 295

The crowd knew that if it weren’t for Benny’s arrival today, Levi would be dead for sure.

At this time, a large group of media reporters had arrived, holding cameras while waiting in silence.

The arrival of the media reporters made it clear to everyone that Benny would be landing soon.

Levi took out his phone and made a call. “Azure Dragon, bring your men over!”

In the conference room of Everest Entertainment, Noah McCormick, the president of the company, was having a meeting with Lil Lacey, Amelia and a few others.

“How’s it going with Morris Group?” he asked.

“Sir, Morris Group’s new products are listed on the market today and there are zero sales so far,” his assistant replied.

Noah, Lil Lacey and a few other celebrities wore a surprised look on their faces.

“Zero sales?” Lil Lacey asked.

“It can’t be! Despite the impact, isn’t zero sales a little too much?” Amelia questioned.

The president’s assistant smiled, “Word has it that the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce had imposed pressure on them as well. That’s why Morris Group’s new products had zero sales.”

At that, Lil Lacey put on a proud face. “Morris Group? Hah! That is what you get for messing with me, Levi Garrison! I swear the entire Morris Group will down with you!”

“Who would dare to buy their products without Everest Entertainment’s publicity and support?” Noah sniggered. “Barely anyone will know about them.”

“I know, right? With all their publicity channels cut off, the outside world wouldn’t know about their products.”

“Besides, the news of Mr. Quinton’s arrival have taken up most of the headlines in the media recently. Morris Group doesn’t stand a chance,” Amelia said.

“Yeah, Morris Group is going to lose nearly two billion!” Noah said, his voice cracking with glee.

“Now, we shall wait for Morris Group to come and beg us,” Lil Lacey said haughtily, crossing her arms. “I’d like to wait and see if Levi will apologize to us or not!”

“He definitely will! That’s two billion lost there!”

Amelia and the others were confident that Levi would grovel at their feet.

Meanwhile, everyone at Morris Group became taciturn at their depressing sales after the products went online for two hours.

For some reason, a few clients who had agreed to purchase their products had suddenly changed their minds at the very last minute.

Iris collapsed into a heap on her chair, her face pale.

What a failure! Zero sales? What do we do now? How should I explain this to the big boss?

“Our competitors must have taken the advantage to attack us, Ms. Anabelle. Besides, with the news of Mr. Quinton’s arrival dominating all media forums, no one will pay attention to our products,” Georgia, her assistant, said.

“Actually, there is another way,” Justine, the head of the marketing department, piped up. “Why don’t we invite Mr. Quinton to help us with the promotion? Not only can we minimize the loss, but our products will definitely sell like hotcakes!”

“That’s a good idea, but it’s not practical. Even North Hampton’s richest man, Winston Gonzales, has gone to the airport to reach out to Mr. Quinton. Do you think we can still stand a chance?”

Despair washed over everyone at that realization.

“Ms. Anabelle, what we have to do now is to minimize our losses as much as possible. There is no other way.”

“Yeah, I suggest we bring Levi to Everest Entertainment to apologize. That’s our last resort,” a few senior executives proposed.

“Alright,” Iris sighed helplessly. “I’ll go and get him. He has to apologize to them no matter what!”

The Protector Chapter 296

Thousands of people had gathered outside the private passageway of North Hampton International Airport, and the numbers were still increasing.

Right then, the insiders of the airport sent news that the private jet Benny was on had landed and he would be coming out shortly.

The Gonzales family was so shaken that their eyes never left the private passageway.

Levi, on the other hand, had lit up a cigarette and was smoking, as if he could care less about the Great Doctor’s arrival.

A few minutes later, accompanied by noisy footsteps, Benny and the cabin crew came out from the VIP passageway.

Benny Quinton might be in his eighties, but he was still hale and hearty and going strong.

Not only was he the leading figure in the medical field, but he was also athletic. He was skilled in basketball, swimming, sprinting and other sports.

He was an all-rounder, and the healthier he was, the greater the blessings for Erudia.

Benny was extremely down-to-earth. He was only wearing casual clothes and had only brought along an assistant with him.

Most importantly, he was carrying his own bag and pulling his own luggage.

Could this be compared to those conceited celebrities? No.

He was a national treasure!

The whole nation looked up to this guy!

The crowd couldn't help but stand in awe at the sight of Benny.

“Nice to meet you, Mr. Quinton. I'm Winston Gonzales, a local of North Hampton, also known as the richest man of North Hampton. I've been learning to uphold your spirit, Mr. Quinton and I would like to invite you today to my humble abode for a get-together. I'm thinking of contributing to the medical community and I would like to ask for your advice.”

Eric and the others' jaws dropped at Winston's speech.

How smart is he to invite Mr. Quinton on the pretext of contributing to the medical community?

“Thank you for your kind words, Mr. Gonzales,” Benny smiled. “But I'm here this time just to catch up with an old friend.”

Benny rejected his invitation!

Benny actually rejected the richest man in North Hampton!

“Hello, Mr. Quinton. We’re from the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce and we would like to invite you for a get-together with us.” Eric took the opportunity to introduce themselves. “Half of the business of the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce is related to medicine, and we’re the ones who produced all the medical equipment of major hospitals in Vermont. We would love to listen to your advice, Mr. Quinton.”

“Thank you for your contribution to the medical community in Erudia,” Benny replied brusquely and walked past the four of them.

The next ten or so influential figures had come forward to invite Benny as well, but they were all rejected.

The Gonzales family was astonished.

Then who in the world invited Mr. Quinton to North Hampton?

Who is this old friend that he spoke of?

The mass exchanged mystified glances, wondering who would be the one to pick him up.

At this moment, a large group of media reporters had encircled Benny and were bombarding him with questions.

“Are you here in North Hampton on a mission, Mr. Quinton?”

“Mr. Quinton, who is this old friend that you were referring to?”

“Are you here on a private trip or for some other purposes, Mr. Quinton?”

...

Benny's scalp tingled in frustration and his brows bumped together in a scowl, but the reporters had no intentions of letting him leave unless he answered their questions.

Clack! Clack! Clack!

At that exact moment, the neat and unified sound of footsteps was heard with a troop of soldiers came rushing in.

"Get out of the way!"

The troop swiftly split the reporters apart and stood in two rows, guarding Benny at the center.

"Welcome, Mr. Quinton!" the soldiers saluted.

Benny was psyched, as that was the most respectful greeting one could ever receive.

Then a war officer appeared from behind them.

He had a large gold star embroidered on his shoulder, which evinced that he was a King of War!

The Gonzales family's eyes widened.

Because he was none other than Azure Dragon!

The Protector Chapter 297

Azure Dragon came before Benny and gave a military salute. "Welcome to North Hampton, Mr. Quinton!"

Benny's knitted brows became smooth again as he smiled, "Sorry for the trouble, Azure Dragon."

"No worries, Mr. Quinton," Azure Dragon smiled. "Even if it's not on the God of War's orders, I would have come to pick you up myself. You're one of the people I respect."

"Hahaha, that's my honor then!" Benny gave a chortle.

It was at the moment that everyone realized it was the God of War who had invited Benny to North Hampton, and that the old friend that he spoke of must be the God of War himself.

Upon hearing that, everyone heaved a sigh of relief.

Aside from the God of War, who else in North Hampton had the right to invite Mr. Quinton?

They were both Erudia's national treasures!

"Mr. Quinton," said Azure Dragon, suddenly remembering something. "The God of War has asked you to stay for a few more days, as he would like to invite you to attend the North Hampton Warzone commander-in-chief's appointment ceremony. The new commander-in-chief is one of the God of War's men."

"Hahaha, I can't believe I could have this opportunity! Sure, I'll be there!"

Winston, Eric and the others were excited to hear that.

Does that mean we could meet the two greatest gods of Erudia at the appointment ceremony?

Right then, Azure Dragon gave Benny a wink, who then looked in a certain direction and immediately understood his meaning.

“I’ll catch up with you later, Azure Dragon. There’s someplace I need to be. I don’t want to keep them waiting,” Benny said.

Everyone’s curiosity piqued.

Why isn’t he leaving with Azure Dragon?

Where is he going?

“Alright, Mr. Quinton. I’ll see you soon,” Azure Dragon said, then turned toward the media reporters, warning, “You can shoot all the pictures you want and report about this, but don’t let it affect Mr. Quinton or you’ll be sorry for this!”

Azure Dragon’s words made the reporters’ blood run cold.

Thank goodness he didn’t chase us away.

We can still report something newsworthy.

Under the watchful eyes of thousands of people, Benny slowly walked to the back.

Everyone was eager to know who was picking him up.

Vroom! Vroom! Vroom!

At that moment, the sound of an engine roaring filled the air.

A Porsche sports car screeched to a halt.

Iris got down from the car and stormed toward Levi. “Levi Garrison, what the hell are you doing here? Come with me now to Everest Entertainment to apologize! The company is about to be ruined because of you!”

“For what? Can’t you see I’m waiting to pick up someone?” Levi said irritably.

“Is there even anyone for you to pick up? Come with me now! There are zero sales on our new products, do you know that? We’re going to lose a lot of money! At least 1.8 billion!”

“It’s all for your fault! We wouldn’t have lost so much if it weren’t for you!”

At that, Iris grabbed Levi’s arm and was about to leave.

She had her back facing the crowd, so she didn’t know what was going on and that Benny and his assistant were walking toward them.

Levi tried to contain his rage. “Just leave! The person I’m picking up is coming soon!”

“No way! Unless I die today, Levi, you are coming with me to Everest Entertainment!”

Iris was unyielding as she tried to pull Levi away.

“Are you here to pick me up, miss?” a voice suddenly rang out from behind Iris.

When Iris looked back, her heart did a somersault.

The Protector Chapter 298

“A-Are... you M-Mr. Benny Quinton?” she stammered, her body trembling.

As his popularity was known to all in Erudia, Iris could recognize him at one glance.

“Yes, I am,” Benny smiled. “Are you here to pick me up?”

Iris noticed that there were many people looking at her and that many reporters were filming.

She faltered, “You’re mistaken, Mr. Quinton. I-I’m not here to pick you up.”

In fact, Iris wished she could just send him back to Morris Group.

He could have solved their crisis with just his presence alone.

But how was she going to do that when she had nothing to do with Benny at all?

“Aren’t you from Morris Group, miss?” Benny asked.

“Huh? Um...” What does he mean? Is he going to Morris Group?

Levi shot a look at her, then said, “Yes, we’re here to pick you up, Mr. Quinton! Let’s get going.”

Benny gave Levi a knowing smile. At Levi and Isaiah’s invitation, he got into the Lincoln limousine.

Iris watched with rounded eyes as Benny, who was a heartbeat away, got into the car.

Is Benny Quinton the person Levi came to pick up?

Oh, my God!

The rest of the crowd was just as shocked as Iris was.

Who would have thought that Morris Group would be the one to pick up the Great Doctor?

“We gotta get going to Morris Group, quick!”

“Hurry up and publish the news that Mr. Quinton’s purpose of coming to North Hampton is to meet the God of War and visit Morris Group!”

...

The media had gone crazy as they rushed toward Morris Group.

Every newspaper publisher, media, website and forum lost no time in reporting this groundbreaking news.

The eyes of the world were now on Morris Group.

Such intangible publicity effect couldn’t be bought with tens of billions!

It wasn’t only until the media reporters had all left that Iris regained her composure.

Yes, I need to get going to Morris Group now!

Iris drove off at a furious pace in her sports car.

But she couldn't help but wonder. How did Levi manage to invite Mr. Quinton?

Right!

It's the big boss!

Isaiah was there with Levi, and he's basically the big boss's right-hand man.

Levi wasn't fooling around when he said that our marketing efforts were not practical during the meeting.

He had known that the big boss would be inviting Mr. Quinton over and that's why he was so reckless in offending Lil Lacey and wouldn't apologize to them!

So that was the reason...

How exceptional is this mysterious big boss to invite Mr. Quinton to North Hampton!

We're selling medical equipment, and Mr. Quinton is the best ambassador and spokesperson!

Besides, our products are of the highest quality! It wouldn't tarnish Mr. Quinton's reputation!

Iris quickly informed the company to get ready.

In the Lincoln limousine, Levi had a good talk with Benny.

It was only then that it struck Isaiah that his boss was Benny's old friend.

“You seem stronger by the day, Mr. Quinton,” Levi chuckled.

“All thanks to you, God of War, for teaching me the unique approach to wellness. I feel younger every day! Hahaha...” Benny laughed.

The Protector Chapter 299

“Just call me Levi. It’s actually for my own selfish reasons that I called you here, Mr. Quinton. I want you to advocate for my company’s products,” Levi stated directly.

“No, don’t say that!” Benny waved his hands frantically.

“I’ve studied your company’s products with my students in the past few days. They are by far the best on the market in Erudia and are even comparable to those from overseas!

They can stop the foreigners from monopolizing our market and most of all, the price is not even a third of theirs! This is a great thing for the country and the people, and I’m honored to be your ambassador.”

Levi was a little moved.

As expected of the national treasure...

He thinks about the country and the people all the time!

“I’m ashamed of myself, Mr. Quinton,” Levi tittered. “I have selfish motives in manufacturing these products. I want to overthrow the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce.”

“Of course, I’m aware of this. The North Hampton Chamber of Commerce has completely plagiarized your core technology and monopolized certain products, selling them at sky-high prices. I’d even talked about this with some experts. But there was nothing we could do. Only the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce has such product technologies. But it’s all good now since you’re back. The products are much better than theirs and the prices are much lower.”

“Levi, you’re the one who is putting the country and the people first,” Benny praised.

As they were chatting, they had arrived at Morris Group.

The employees of Morris Group had prepared a welcome ceremony. Even the media reporters had been waiting.

As soon as Benny got down from the car, the reporters surrounded him again, eager to interview him.

He wasn’t angry this time as he faced the camera instead.

“Could you tell us why are you here at Morris Group, Mr. Quinton?” one reporter questioned.

Benny smiled, “Okay, I’ll take this opportunity to announce that I will be the ambassador of Morris Group’s medical product. This batch of Morris Group’s new product is on the market today! I, Benny Quinton, guarantee with my reputation that these products are the best on the market in Erudia! And the prices are only a third of the same models in the market!”

The atmosphere was a seething cauldron of emotion at Benny’s announcement.

Everyone at Morris Group was reeling from the shock of having the nation’s Greatest Doctor as their ambassador after losing Lil Lacey.

The media got the news out as fast as they could. Breaking news! A leading figure in the medical field is endorsing Morris Group!

Morris Group's medical equipment beat that of their competitors' hands down and even surpassed that of overseas products!

With just the cost price, Morris Group's medical products cost only one-third of their competitors'!

...

North Hampton erupted at once as all eyes zeroed in on Morris Group's product.

Morris Group had hit the jackpot!

Meanwhile, at Everest Entertainment, Lil Lacey was getting impatient from waiting.

"Why is he not here yet?"

"Just be patient," Amelia said. "He's going to kneel before us in just a bit."

Noah, who was looking at the market dynamics, smirked when he saw that sales of Morris Group were still at zero.

"Morris Group can go nowhere without the artistes from my company!"

But just then, a few secretaries came running in a panic, shouting, "Bad news! Bad news!"

"What's wrong? Why are you guys panicking?" Lil Lacey grumbled.

"Look at your phones, quick!"

The Protector Chapter 300

Noah, Lil Lacey and the others quickly turned on their phones and were petrified when they saw the news.

The Great Doctor has become the spokesperson of Morris Group's products?

"T-T-This..."

Noah blanched, Lil Lacey's blood froze, and Amelia's jaw dropped.

It was then that the market dynamics on Noah's laptop suddenly changed, showing that the first batch of Morris Group's new products was sold out!

That was a one billion order!

...

"Mr. Quinton, Ms. Anabelle, nice to meet you," a stout man greeted. "I'm Teddy Fords, the owner of Stardust Medical Equipment Corporation, and I've just purchased all of the first batch of Morris Group's products"

Iris was taken aback. Did he just buy a billion worth of products in one breath?

Benny nodded. "Thank you for your support! I can guarantee with my reputation that these are the best products you can ever get."

"Haha, don't worry, Mr. Quinton. I will definitely contribute to the medical community. I'm planning to donate some of the products to hospitals in the rural areas," Teddy said.

Levi and Benny looked at each other.

That was the outcome that they wanted to see.

At this point, Iris and Morris Group's phones were exploding with calls after calls.

"Hello, Ms. Anabelle. I'm from Sphinx Bio-Pharmaceutical. I want to place an order for five hundred million."

"Hello, is this Morris Group? I'm from Olympus Hospital Holding Company from South City. We would like to make an eight hundred million order."

"Hello, nice to meet you. I'm calling from the Ministry of Health from South City. We would like to order two batches of your company's products!"

...

Iris was scared out of her mind.

In just a short while, they had received over a hundred orders from almost every part of Erudia.

This was about seventy to eighty times more than the number of products they had planned to manufacture.

So much so that the orders of many companies had to be scheduled for the next year, and some companies had even paid the deposit.

No one had seen this coming at all!

It was mainly the effect of Benny's reputation, and various other factors such as product quality and price, that contributed to such a result.

Iris and the senior executives were lost for words.

The calls were still coming in one after another, with more and more orders being made.

At this rate, ten production plants wouldn't suffice!

Right then, the deans and leaders of various major hospitals in North Hampton had arrived.

While they were here to meet the Great Doctor in person, they also wanted to order a batch of medical equipment that they could use clinically.

Iris could only shake her head helplessly as Teddy had bought all their products.

"Hmm? Sure, you can!" Levi spoke up. "Morris Group has long prepared a batch of products for major hospitals in North Hampton for clinical use."

Iris looked dazed.

When did this happen?

Why didn't I know anything about this?

Isaiah stepped forward and explained, "The boss had asked me to produce more. He foresaw that these products wouldn't be enough."

"..." Who on earth is this boss? Is he a prophet?

Looking at Levi, who was standing next to Benny, Iris suddenly had a suspicion that Levi was the mysterious boss.

What am I thinking? How could Levi be the mysterious boss?

She shook her head and blocked the thought out of her mind.

The Protector Chapter 301

As Morris Group's representative, Isaiah made an announcement to the crowd, "We plan to donate these products to all the hospitals, in order to show our support towards the medical field!"

Clap, clap, clap...

Benny Quinton was the first to clap.

The members of the media and public soon followed suit.

Morris Group had successfully boosted its reputation, gaining the public's favor.

Even the company's share price had risen steeply. All the other businesses owned by or related to Morris Group reaped the benefits as well.

In the afternoon, over twenty famous artists declared that they would help, in publicizing all of Morris Group's products for free.

This was another impactful news that affected a lot of parties.

The support provided by the artists had contributed to increasing Morris Group's sales, and their actions also reflected well on their public images, as celebrities.

Evidently, artists and entertainment companies soon reaped the benefits of Morris Group's prestige, as the netizens had started to applaud their charitable gestures.

Meanwhile, at Everest Entertainment.

Noah was infuriated upon seeing the news.

Slap!

He slapped Lil Lacey's face mercilessly. "Look what you've done, you b*!"

Lil Lacey covered her face in a daze.

"Do you know why Levi Garrison was reluctant to apologize? Well, it's because he couldn't care less about both of you!"

Noah slapped Amelia.

Amelia was aggrieved.

"If I hadn't listened to your plan previously, Everest Entertainment would've become a famous corporate industry, here in Erudia. Our company's market value could've been multiplied by hundredfold!"

Noah trembled in anger.

"We weren't aware that Morris Group was so formidable. We were fools to think that we were above the collaboration they'd proposed previously."

Lil Lacey sobbed.

She had regretted her decision as well. If I'd continued to help Morris Group in publicizing their product, I would've achieved a great leap in my career, making my transition from a net idol to a famous star!

“Let’s go. Let’s apologize to Morris Group. Hopefully, they’ll be willing to provide us with a second chance. They must’ve chosen us previously because we’d possessed the merits they were looking for,” Noah surmised immediately.

They were unaware that it was Iris who had made the final call. Morris Group’s decision-makers were not involved in this matter.

Soon, all the executives of Everest Entertainment led Lil Lacey and ten other artists over to Morris Group.

Iris sneered when she saw the group of people, “What’re you doing here?”

“We’re aware that we’ve made a mistake, Ms. Anabelle! We’d acted like a bunch of ignorant fools in the past! Why are you all just standing there? Kneel and apologize to Ms. Anabelle at once!”

Lil Lacey and all the other artists knelt on the floor, after receiving Noah’s order.

Iris fell into a daze.

She was reminded of something that Levi had told her previously. They should be the ones apologizing to us.

Iris could not believe that Levi’s words had come true.

“Ms. Anabelle, Everest Entertainment is willing to collaborate with your company, without asking for any remuneration. We will provide you with as many artists as you require. Feel free to utilize our publicity channel too...”

Noah was desperate for the partnership with Morris Group to fall through.

He was offering Iris all kinds of free services.

“That’s right. We were fools in the past. From the way we see it now, Morris Group’s products are the best!” Lil Lacey piped up.

Amelia pleaded with Iris, “Can you please consider our offer? We are providing free promotional services to both you and your company. This is certainly a deal that will greatly benefit Morris Group.”

Iris and the other executives were dumbfounded.

They’d been so arrogant previously. Now, they’re kneeling before us, requesting for us to accept their free services, making this collaboration possible? They’re only doing this because of Morris Group’s current influence in the industry. Nonetheless, it’s not a bad idea to have a group of artists, promoting our products at no cost...

“No! I can’t allow unethical artists, such as yourselves to taint Morris Group’s reputation!” Levi rejected their offer.

Iris frowned. “Go away, Levi Garrison! You don’t have the right to speak here.”

The Protector Chapter 302

Although Morris Group’s crisis was resolved, Iris did not think that Levi had anything to do with the matter.

We’d managed to turn the situation around because of the big boss’s strategy. Levi Garrison is merely here because of Isaiah Wade’s assistance. How dare he make the decision for us? Does he really believe that he is one of the company’s leaders?

“Let me make this clear, Levi. Although our previous discussion with Everest Entertainment ended on an unhappy note, they’ve now returned to apologize to us, with their utmost sincerity. Their offer to become our ambassador without any charge will be beneficial to the company!” pronounced Iris.

From Iris’s point of view, any free labor should be utilized by the company, regardless of their work ethics.

That was the norm she had practiced, after spending years, working abroad.

Iris prioritized only the economic growth of the company. She did not care for the other details.

“No! Their personalities are rotten. They’re only here to apologize to us because of how well we’re doing. Why didn’t they express their regrets in the last two days?” Levi glanced at Noah and the others. Then he announced coldly, “Get lost! Morris Group will never collaborate with you!”

Lil Lacey was mad.

She wanted so badly to strangle Levi to death. Iris Anabelle had already agreed to our proposal. How dare he reject our offer? Levi Garrison is indeed Everest Entertainment’s enemy!

Noah accused angrily, “Ms. Anabelle, I wasn’t aware that a mere entry-level staff in Morris Group was making all the big decisions for your company.”

Iris was angered by Noah’s mockery.

There were many reporters at the scene, after all.

I can’t let this news spread, to the public. Otherwise, Levi’s behavior will taint my reputation as Morris Group’s vice-president. “Stand aside, Levi. You’re not qualified to speak here!” Iris chided.

Then, she looked at Noah and his artists. “Mr. McCormick, believe that this collaboration is feasible.”

“That will never happen!” Levi’s voice sounded out.

“Who do you think you are? Do you think you’re the big boss?” Iris bellowed.

“That’s right. I am the big boss, and this is the big boss’s decision!” Levi stared at Iris.

Kirin’s voice reverberated inside the venue, just as Iris was about to accept Everest Entertainment as their ambassador. “Ms. Anabelle, the big boss doesn’t want Morris Group to collaborate with Everest Entertainment. We are placing their names on the blacklist!”

Kirin showed up at that moment.

“The artists from Everest Entertainment are uncivilized. They’d hit passers-by on the street and they’d even resorted to threatening their fans. The media has repeatedly exposed their despicable acts. Mr. Quinton has selected us, so how can we choose to collaborate with lowly people as such? What will happen to our company’s prestige if we do that?”

Iris’s face flushed red after listening to Kirin’s speech.

She was too profit-oriented, neglecting all the other elements in conducting a business.

However, Kirin’s words had caused her to think twice.

I have to change my business philosophy. A company requires a good reputation, to win over the public’s favor. Only then can we maximize our gain!

The media began criticizing Everest Entertainment's lowly behavior. They even exposed the news of Morris Group blacklisting Everest Entertainment to the public.

Soon after, Levi handed a USB over to the reporters.

The USB contained a video of Lil Lacey hitting a worker, throwing her rubbish onto the streets.

Levi had ordered Phoenix to repair the phone, extracting the video saved inside the device.

Lil Lacey's career was doomed, right after the videos were leaked.

Netizens flooded the Internet with their dissatisfaction and anger towards Lil Lacey's behavior.

Everest Entertainment's future became bleak, all of a sudden, as Lil Lacey and the other artists were nearing the end of their careers.

No entertainment company would dare to sign a contract with them after such an incident.

Levi walked up to Iris and chided with a smile, "I've told you, haven't I? These ambassadors aren't suitable for our medical products. Mr. Quinton is the best candidate!"

Iris put on a disdainful smile. "Why are you behaving as if you were the one who'd invited Mr. Quinton to collaborate with us?"

The Protector Chapter 303

“I did invite him!” Levi exclaimed.

“Hmph! Our big boss invited Mr. Quinton. You’ve got nothing to do with this matter,” Iris sneered.

“That’s enough. Let’s stop bickering. Focus on the work at hand! How can you waste your time arguing with me? The upcoming tasks will prove to be a challenge!” Levi smiled.

Iris recollected her thoughts. Morris Group’s workload will increase exponentially from now on. We will be busier than ever. However, this is what I’m hoping for. I can finally put my capabilities on full display with this opportunity.

Zoey visited Levi to apologize to him after she was made aware of the turn of events.

“I’m so sorry! Nonetheless, you’re awesome. You’d known of the big boss’s plan because you were following Isaiah around.” Zoey gave Levi a thumbs-up. “You’re so lucky, getting to meet Mr. Quinton. Do you know how jealous mother is? Mr. Quinton is her idol! She’s telling everyone who would listen to her in the hospital that her son-in-law drove Mr. Quinton around! She’s so proud of that.”

Levi asked her cheerfully, “Would mother and father like to meet Mr. Quinton?”

“Of course! Even I wish to meet with him. What more of my parents!” Zoey answered immediately.

“Okay. You should inform them to prepare dinner and a bottle of good wine when you’ve arrived home. I’ll invite Mr. Quinton to our house tonight, so that mother and father can meet with him!”

Zoey asked Levi with uncertainty as she thought that she had miscomprehended his words, “What? You’re inviting Mr. Quinton over to our house? Your joke isn’t funny at all!”

“I’m speaking the truth. Have I ever lied to you before?”

Zoey thought to herself, Levi did realize all of his promises due to some coincidences. Indeed, he has never lied to me.

“Okay. I’ll trust you this time. However, I cannot guarantee that my parents will share my sentiment.”

Zoey informed her parents of Levi’s intention when she returned home.

“Hmph! Nonsense. Do you know who Benny Quinton is? Do you think Levi Garrison is qualified to invite him over?” Aaron jeered.

“That’s right! I doubt Levi can achieve this. He couldn’t have achieved such a feat, even in his prime, six years ago. Today, Mr. Quinton had rejected the requests of the wealthiest man in North Hampton, along with the requests of the members of the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce!” Caitlyn shared Aaron’s point of view.

Zoey asked, “Do we have to prepare the dinner then?”

“Why do we need to prepare anything? You’re the only one who would believe in Levi’s joke.” Aaron answered.

Zoey was convinced by her parents that Levi was merely kidding. We’re talking about Benny Quinton, after all. He’s one of the most prominent figures in the medical field!

They refused to dwell any longer in that matter and continued with their tasks, afterward.

Soon enough, it was eight in the evening.

Someone knocked upon the door.

Zoey headed over, with the intention to unlock the door.

She turned around and walked back into the house without saying a word after she had seen Levi.

“Hey, where are you going, honey? You should welcome our guest. Where’s father and mother? Ask them to come to the door as well.”

Zoey was taken aback by Levi’s response.

She turned around and saw another person behind him..

Zoey was shocked to her core.

“Hello, Ms. Lopez! I’m here to visit you and your family!” Benny Quinton greeted her with a smile.

Boom!

Zoey’s vision went dark, as she nearly passed out from astonishment.

Benny Quinton! It’s Benny Quinton in person! He’s really here!

Aaron and Caitlyn marched towards the door as they heard the commotion outside.

“What’s the matter? Is there a guest?”

Aaron and Caitlyn looked in Levi’s direction.

Boom!

The two of them were astounded by the person standing before their eyes.

Thump!

Aaron slipped, slumping onto the floor.

Bam!

Caitlyn fell upon the floor, with a loud thud.

That's Benny Quinton!

The Protector Chapter 304

It's the real Benny Quinton!

Zoey and her parents rubbed their eyes in an effort to ensure that this was no dream. That person is, in fact, Benny Quinton! He's visiting our house!

Levi and Benny helped Aaron and Caitlyn to rise from the floor immediately.

The couple was taken aback by the pleasant surprise.

Benny Quinton had helped them up from the floor.

That was a story they could boast about for the rest of their lives.

The people who had helped them up were actually two of the most significant figures in Erudia.

Aaron and Caitlyn were the only people in the entire nation who had the luxury of enjoying such treatment.

"I'm here for a visit, Mr. and Mrs. Lopez!" Benny greeted.

Aaron and Caitlyn were startled.

They did not think they were worthy enough to be on the receiving end of Benny's courteous address.

Levi frowned. "Why are both of you so excited? Did I not ask Zoey to inform you in advance?"

Boom!

Aaron and Caitlyn almost knelt on the floor after listening to Levi's comment.

Indeed, Zoey had informed them. She had even told them to prepare dinner.

Unfortunately, none of them believed in Levi. They did not expect him to be able to invite Benny Quinton over for dinner.

That was an unbelievable feat in their opinion.

"Don't tell me no one prepared dinner?" Levi's frown deepened. How can I explain myself to Mr. Quinton?

Aaron, Caitlyn, and Zoey lowered their heads, remaining downcast.

Zoey was overwhelmed with guilt because she had doubted Levi too.

Levi heaved out a sigh.

Aaron and Caitlyn were embarrassed.

"Mr. Quinton, I..." Levi was unaware of what else to say.

"That's alright, Levi. I can understand this situation." Benny had guessed the reason behind the lack of preparations, made by Zoey and her parents.

"Hurry up and prepare the dinner! Do you want Mr. Quinton to stand here and wait the entire night?"

The trio regained their senses upon hearing Levi's reminder.

They invited Benny into the house and headed straight to the kitchen to prepare dinner.

Luckily, there were some vegetables and meat left in the refrigerator.

Aaron was caught in a difficult situation because there was no good wine left in the house.

“Don’t worry about that, father. I’ve brought two bottles of liquor over, from the Warzone.”

Levi was glad he had prepared the liquor, saving himself from further embarrassment.

Dinner was soon served swiftly, as Zoey received help from her parents inside the kitchen.

It all felt surreal, taking in the sight of Benny, seated around the dining table.

That man was Benny Quinton! The legendary figure in Erudia’s medical field. A person who was as important as the nation’s treasure.

I can’t believe he’s here in our house. This is incredible!

Aaron, Caitlyn, and Zoey even took pictures of Benny in secret. They never imagined the impact that those photos would create in the future.

Although Benny was a high and mighty figure, he was still a down-to-earth person. He had repeatedly praised Aaron and his family for the home-cooked meal and the pleasant wine.

Living these tranquil moments like a normal person was Benny’s favorite lifestyle.

Aaron could not contain his curiosity for long, after having his share of liquor. “Why did you accept my son-in-law’s invitation, Mr. Quinton? We’d thought that something like this would never happen!”

Zoey and Caitlyn nodded in agreement.

Benny gave Levi a meaningful look before he explained with a smile, “The first reason is that I am now acquainted with Levi since he had driven me around today. Besides, I am aware Levi is the founder of this core technology that helped create these medical apparatuses. I sincerely respect people like him.”

“I see! You’re indeed a role model to learn from in the medical field, Mr. Quinton! Cheers!” Aaron raised his glass.

In their opinion, Benny was merely humble enough to accept Levi’s invitation. Hence, they thought of Benny as a generous and great man.

Benny was about to leave after filling up his stomach.

“I’ll be sending Mr. Quinton off now.”

“Okay. Be careful! Take Zoey’s car.”

Ultimately, Levi drove Benny over to Maple Manor.

That was the place where Azure Dragon, Phoenix, and the others lived.

The Protector Chapter 305

“You don’t have to arrange for me to stay in this extravagant place. I’m alright, staying at my current place,” Benny quipped.

“I need to prioritize your safety, Mr. Quinton!”

Levi arranged for Benny and his secretary to stay in Maple Manor. Mr. Quinton’s well-being should be secured since this place is guarded by soldiers at all times.

Morris Group’s increasing fame and their products overwhelmed the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce’s influence all of a sudden.

The Chamber was slow to react to Morris Group’s success, as Morris Group had almost dominated the medical apparatus market.

Even the technicians working under the Chamber were planning to resign, from their jobs and bring their talents to Morris Group.

“Let us merely observe, during this critical moment. We’ll wait until the end of the commander-in-chief’s appointment ceremony before we make any moves.”

Eric and the others were depressed. However, they were forced to endure Morris Group’s advancement.

Even the wealthiest family in North Hampton, the Gonzales family, felt threatened by Morris Group’s rising.

The last time they had felt as such, was when Levi was still the person-in-charge, of Levi Group.

However, everyone was still focused on Benny Quinton's arrival at that moment.

Benny had to stay in North Hampton for some time because he would be attending the appointment ceremony as well.

Many people had invited Benny to their gatherings and events, but he had rejected all of their invitations.

Benny refused to stay idle in the upcoming days.

He went to work at North Hampton City First Hospital.

However, he did not join the hospital as a specialist. Rather, Benny joined as a normal doctor.

All patients would only have to pay twelve bucks to receive treatment from him.

That was a great blessing to every citizen in North Hampton.

A lot of patients who were contracted with complicated diseases went to visit Benny.

Benny even arranged for Caitlyn to become his assistant.

The appointment caused Caitlyn's position to rise in the hospital's hierarchy. It was almost certain, for her to be selected as the director of her department.

Levi smiled wryly after he was made aware of that news.

He had wanted Benny to get some rest while he stayed in North Hampton.

To his dismay, Benny went to work as usual because he was not a man who enjoyed having too much leisure time.

That was one of the reasons why Benny Quinton was one of the most significant figures in Erudia.

Benny worked as a front-liner and treated plenty of patients, for the next few days.

He treated all of his patients fairly, regardless of their family background.

North Hampton turned into a hot spot for medical tourism, all the fruits of labor, of Benny's influence.

Even Caitlyn became a small celebrity, simply working alongside him.

One day, Benny was working in his office.

Suddenly, a group of ferocious men entered the facility in an imposing manner.

They were obviously thugs who were up to no good.

Everyone inside the hallway scurried away after they noticed the thugs' menacing gazes.

The group of thugs, that consisted of no lesser than eight men, disregarded the long queue outside and barged into Benny's office.

"What are you doing? If you're here to receive treatment from Mr. Quinton, then you need to take a number and wait for your turn!" Caitlyn reminded.

Slap!

The man leading the group of thugs slapped Caitlyn's face mercilessly.

She staggered backward and slumped onto the floor, as that man's slap left a visible mark on her face.

The patients seated inside the office were frightened by the scene, so they hurriedly left the room.

Benny was unfazed as he was an experienced man in life. He questioned the group of unreasonable men angrily, "Who are you? Why have you hit an innocent person?"

The leader of the gang raised his hands and answered Benny politely, "I'm sorry to have interrupted your day, Mr. Quinton."

"What do you want?" Benny asked.

He could gather that the group of people must have hailed from a powerful background.

"There's no need for you to be nervous, Mr. Quinton. We are here because we want to invite Mr. Quinton to attend to a patient." The man smiled.

"That person should come to the hospital and wait for their turn if he or she is sick. I will be here in North Hampton in these upcoming days," Benny replied.

"No, no, no, Mr. Quinton. My young master told us to invite you to the house. It is inappropriate for someone with my young master's status to come all the way to the hospital to receive treatment."

Benny rejected him at once, "I'm sorry, but I will not follow you anywhere. I will only accept patients who visit the hospital!"

The Protector Chapter 306

The man's face darkened after listening to Benny's statement. He roared, "You are indeed a stubborn old man! Yield or face the consequences!"

Benny laughed. "What are you planning to do then?"

"I'll have to take you away by force if you are unwilling to cooperate with us! Sorry about this!" The man's eyes gleamed with malicious intent.

"That's right, Mr. Quinton! Don't force us to resort to that method. Moreover, we are only inviting you to attend to a patient. There's nothing for you to be afraid of." The others chimed in.

Benny was determined. "No. This is a matter of principle. I will reject anyone that invites me. However, I do welcome patients who come to see me in the hospital!"

"Everyone reveres you as if you are a Godlike being. But to me, you are nothing but a lowly doctor! How dare you think so highly of yourself, acting all high and mighty in front of us?"

"That's right! It's time to get off your high horse! We are inviting you to follow us politely because of your respectable reputation. However, you should really know your place!"

"You are just a dumb doctor! It is already a great honor for you to receive an invitation from our young master!"

The group's leader grabbed Benny and dragged him out of the office as he spoke.

Caitlyn quickly stopped them from leaving.

Bam!

The thugs kicked Caitlyn's abdomen. She fell onto the floor, drenched in a cold sweat, as pain washed over her.

The group of men brought Benny away from the hospital afterward.

The security guards tried to stop them, but they were swiftly defeated by the thugs.

They boarded several cars and left the hospital after a few moments.

Levi, Isaiah, and the other executives of Morris Group were discussing a matter when Levi received a call from Zoey.

"Levi, something bad has happened! A group of men went to the hospital earlier. They'd beaten mother up and had even brought Mr. Quinton away!"

Levi was upset after hanging up the phone.

"This is outrageous!"

He made a phone call and ordered harshly, "Find out Mr. Quinton's location at once, Phoenix!"

North Hampton City was formed by combining two large cities in the past, namely Hampton City and North City.

The current North Hampton City was actually a newly developed area, combining both Hampton City and North City.

There were regions from the two cities that were not included in the formation of North Hampton. The citizens living in the outskirts preferred to refer to their living area as Hampton City or North City.

At that moment, inside a manor situated in Hampton City.

That manor was overwhelmingly large, close to the size of a town.

It was rumored that the manor was home to the God of War, thus the place was named, 'War God's Mansion'.

Almost two hundred bodyguards were stationed inside every corner of the manor.

Two people were seated inside a gazebo in the middle of a man-made lake.

It was an elderly man, accompanied by a middle-aged man.

The former had appeared to be of old age, as all his hair had turned white.

The middle-aged man was holding a fan in his hand. Printed on the fan were the words, 'God of War'.

They were the owners of that manor.

There was a popular saying in North Hampton's underworld, stating, 'no one can match the cruelty and bloodlust of Jack Jr., Nueve, and the Invincible-thirteen'.

However, there was another saying that went around a long time ago as well, which stated, 'the God of War was the determiner of North Hampton's peace'.

The God of War, Liam Macy, was the true ruler of North Hampton's underworld.

Even the King of North Hampton, Jack Smith, was Liam's apprentice.

That fact alone was sufficient enough, to underline the terror, that Liam's had caused.

He was the true boss of North Hampton's underworld.

Liam had reigned over Hampton City and North City's underworld before the two cities had combined to become the current North Hampton.

He resided in the outskirts after the geographical change and had been living a low-profile and secluded life in recent years.

Hence, the God of War, Liam Macy, began fading from everyone's awareness.

Most people were only familiar with the King of North Hampton and the Invincible-thirteen, at the mention of North Hampton's underworld forces.

The newcomers who had joined any of the underworld gangs were no longer aware of the God of War's existence.

However, the God of War was the real King of North Hampton.

The God of War's influence far exceeded the King of North Hampton, Jack Smith, even at that point in time.

The Protector Chapter 307

The person seated before the God of War, Liam Macy, was his son, Nathan Macy.

Nathan Macy was different from his father. He was a domineering man who would resort to violence, in order to resolve every issue he faced.

Nathan would have taken control of the North Hampton's underworld, obliterating people such as Jack Smith, if not for Liam's restrictions.

He did not fancy staying in the outskirts, but he had to obey his father's command.

Nathan was playing chess with Liam at that moment.

A young man dressed lavishly approached Liam all of a sudden. "Are the two of you playing chess, grandpa, father?"

"You're here, Andy." Liam gazed up at his grandson, Andy Macy, with affection.

Liam had established Macy Group, a corporation involved in over a dozen industries, in recent years to legalize their family's business.

Liam cared deeply for his grandson, even going as far as to treating Andy as his heir.

That was the reason behind Andy's arrogant and self-centered personality. It had caused him to frequently stir up trouble.

Andy glanced at Liam and announced, "Grandpa, I'd noticed your deteriorating health recently. Hence, I've arranged for a surprise for you!"

Nathan and Liam gazed at Andy curiously. "Oh? What's the surprise?"

"You should be aware of Benny Quinton's arrival in North Hampton, I suppose?" Andy asked.

"Yes, we do."

"I've invited Benny Quinton over to our house so that he can examine grandpa, father, and mother's health conditions!" Andy answered with excitement.

Liam and Nathan were surprised after listening to Andy. "What? You've invited Benny Quinton? He has never accepted any invitations, as far as I'm concerned. He'd even rejected Winston Gonzales and the others!"

Andy smiled. "That's right. He's indeed a stubborn old man. I can't believe he'd wanted grandpa to visit the hospital and wait for your turn! With our status, he should be coming to us!"

Liam sensed something from Andy's words. He could not help but ask, "So?"

"I've brought him here by force since he's unwilling to cooperate with us!" Andy pronounced cheerfully.

Nathan nodded. "That's right. That old and stubborn fool is too arrogant. Your decisions are absolutely correct, son!"

However, Liam frowned. "This could be troublesome. I'm afraid that something bad will happen since we are talking about Benny Quinton, after all."

"What's there to be afraid of, father? We haven't done anything wrong anyway. We are only inviting him to attend to your sickness. We've paid our respects to him, even though we were using a rather extreme method to invite him over."

Nathan did not think that there was anything wrong with Andy's way of handling the matter because of his assertive nature. He even thought that it was a polite way of inviting Benny over to their house.

Andy nodded. "Father is right, grandpa! We are not harming Benny Quinton in any manner. I am sure that he will be delighted after we pay him a huge amount of treatment fees for his effort."

Liam was convinced. "You've got a point there. Moreover, why do I have to be afraid? It's not wrong for me to invite him over. No one has the right to reject the Macy family's invitation in this world!"

Benny was brought over to ‘the War God’s Mansion’, swiftly after.

“Hey, old man Ben! Hurry up and conduct a health checkup for my grandpa. I’ll reward you handsomely if your treatment is effective!” Andy sneered, with his hands tucked inside his pockets.

To his dismay, Benny merely regarded him with a cold stare.

“Oh my, what’s the matter? Are you unhappy because we aren’t paying you in advance? In that case, I’ll give you some money immediately. Then, I will top up the rest of the amount after you’re done with the treatment. I can even build a private hospital for you!” Andy jeered at Benny.

Nathan came to a halt in front of Benny. “I am terribly sorry to have brought you here by force, Mr. Quinton. But you will receive a lot of benefits if you attend to my father’s sickness.”

Benny shook his head. “I refuse to do so. I’m not attending to anyone’s sickness!”

Momentary silence filled the air after he spoke.

The Protector Chapter 308

“What did you say, old man? I dare you to repeat yourself!” Andy was infuriated. “Do you know who we are? My grandpa is the most formidable person in North Hampton. He’s nicknamed the God of War! You should consider it an honor, for us to bring you here!”

“That’s right! My father is Liam Macy. I am Nathan Macy. Our family is rather powerful in North Hampton. Although we are living a secluded life now, my father used to rule North Hampton's underworld in the past!" Nathan announced with a smile.

Nathan's humble pretense in his speech did not dampen his insolence.

Benny looked at the pair of father and son in disdain. Can your family's background match up with my close friend, the God of War?

"Don't worry, Mr. Quinton. We will send you back to the hospital after you are done with my father's treatment. Not only will you receive a large amount of reward, but you will also be considered as the Macy's family's friend!" Nathan reassured.

Others would have been shocked to their cores by Nathan's offer because countless people had tried all that they could, to befriend the Macy family.

Despite Liam's current secluded lifestyle, plenty of influential figures would visit him every day.

They were putting forth their best efforts to be acquainted with him.

Unfortunately, only a selected few had truly befriended the Macy family.

Benny shook his head again. "I do not need that many friends. You should bring me back as soon as possible. Otherwise, the Macy family will be in deep trouble."

Nathan and Andy exchanged glances after receiving Benny's advice. Then, both of them laughed aloud.

There were three untouchable forces in North Hampton.

The wealthiest man, Winston Gonzales, the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce, and the God of War, Liam Macy.

It was an impossible task for anyone to defeat these three powerful forces.

“Oh? Are you a fortune teller, Mr. Quinton? When will trouble befall our family?” Liam croaked. He crossed his hands behind his back and walked up to Benny slowly.

Liam shared the appearance of an ordinary man. But he exuded a domineering and impressive aura from his body.

Benny felt Liam’s overwhelming presence at once.

Benny had met with people from all walks of life. He was certain that Liam’s imposing manner was one of the most spectacular he had ever witnessed.

“I respect you, Mr. Quinton. I’d wanted to send you back to the hospital because I did not want to cause anyone any inconvenience. But I am intrigued by what you have just said. I do wonder, who has the capabilities to inflict trouble on the Macy family?” Liam questioned coldly.

Benny persuaded him, “I advise you to send me back at once. Otherwise, you will invite trouble to yourselves. Some things are beyond my control.”

“Hahaha... I heard that no one has ever successfully invited you to any event or gathering. I shall be the first person to achieve this accomplishment! Let’s see how long I can make you stay in my house!” Liam was uncompromising.

He wanted to take the risk of going against Benny’s advice.

Nathan and Andy wore smug expressions on their faces.

Members of the Macy family were overbearing. They did as they pleased and disregarded all the rules whenever they had yearned, for things to go their way.

They did not care about the Gonzales family or the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce.

The Macy family was the family that had caused the most problems to arise for Jesse Nielsen because of their extensive influence and volatile nature, unlike the relatively docile Gonzales family and the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce.

Any unpredictable move from the Macy family would be disastrous to North Hampton, yet there was no way to restrain them.

Benny smiled. "Then we'll see what's going to happen."

Right then, the news of the incident that had happened in the hospital spread like wildfire in North Hampton.

Some people had abducted Benny Quinton from City First Hospital and had even beaten up over a dozen hospital staff, including doctors, nurses, and security guards.

All the citizens were enraged by the news.

Everyone in North Hampton began searching for Benny's whereabouts.

The Gonzales family and the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce were utilizing all of their connections to locate Benny as well because that was a golden opportunity for them.

Anyone who could rescue Benny Quinton would become acquainted with him, receiving endless bouts of benefits from that mere connection.

The Protector Chapter 309

The police did not intervene in the matter because no one had filed a report.

Unfortunately, there was actually another reason behind such a peculiar turn of events.

Levi had decided to take charge of the matter related to Benny. Hence, no one else had the right to meddle.

Half an hour later.

All the formidable forces in North Hampton received news of Benny's current location in 'the War God's Mansion', in Hampton City.

They were also made aware of the identity of the person who had kidnapped Benny. That person was the God of War, Liam Macy's, grandson, Andy Macy.

Inside the most luxurious villa in North Hampton.

Winston Gonzales put on his clothes and announced, "Let's go. We are going to the Macy family's house in the outskirts!"

The Gonzales family sped in the outskirt's direction.

Their cars arrived at 'the War God's Mansion', after a short while.

Another fleet of cars came to a halt in front of the Mansion from another direction at the same time.

Eric Robinson, Wallace Henderson, and the lot alighted their cars.

They were people from the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce.

The Gonzales family and the people from the Chamber were the first to arrive at the scene.

“Let’s head in together! We will make further discussion after rescuing Mr. Quinton!” Winston Gonzales urged.

“Alright. Let’s do this together!” Eric Robinson and his friends agreed to Winston’s suggestion.

Then, they followed him to the entrance of ‘the War God’s Mansion’.

The door to the Mansion was tightly shut, without any guards around.

Clint stepped forward and knocked on the door after Winston waved his hand.

“Please inform your master, Winston Gonzales from the Gonzales family and the four noble families from the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce, Eric Robinson, Wallace Henderson, Clifford Anderson, and Baldwin Williamson are here to meet with the God of War!” Clint demanded.

The people inside the War God’s Mansion gasped after listening to Clint’s announcement. Did we underestimate Benny Quinton’s significance? The two most formidable forces in North Hampton have arrived so swiftly? Even Winston Gonzales is here in person.

Nathan informed Liam of that news immediately after he was made aware of their arrivals.

“Hm? They’re all here?” Liam was mildly astounded.

“What should we do, father?” Nathan asked.

Liam's lips curled into a sneer. "I do not care about anyone else in North Hampton except for Jesse Nielsen. Winston Gonzales and the others are at most having the same social status as me. However, I could not care less about them, to be honest. We've got nothing to worry about!"

Nathan nodded. "Yes, father!"

Winston and the others waited for over ten minutes outside 'the War God's Mansion', before the door was finally pushed open.

A young man marched through the door. He was Andy Macy.

Andy cupped his hands and announced, "Please return, everyone. My grandpa will not be able to entertain any guests, as he is recuperating."

"Andy, will you pass along a message for us? We are here today because we have something urgent to discuss with your grandfather!" Winston was determined.

Andy's eyes gleamed with a menacing glint.

"Guards, send them away!"

Hurried footsteps closed in immediately, after he spoke.

In a split second, over a hundred guards surrounded Winston and the others.

"Leave!" All of them shouted at the same time.

Winston and the other leaders of the noble families from the Chamber exchanged glances with one another.

They knew that Liam was taking them lightly.

They were left with the single option of entering the Mansion by force, to rescue Benny. Unfortunately, Winston and the rest did not have the courage to do so.

They had no other choice but to leave depressingly because they did not want to suffer a loss by clashing forces with the Macy family.

Phoenix reported the news to Levi after he laid his hands on that piece of information.

“The God of War, Liam Macy? Is he powerful?” Levi asked.

“He’s very powerful! He’s the real ruler of North Hampton’s underworld. Even the King of North Hampton, Jack Smith, is Liam’s apprentice. His capabilities are on par with Winston Gonzales. Even Mr. Nielsen has to pay his respects to Liam Macy!” Phoenix explained.

“Someone of his caliber exists in North Hampton? This is my first time hearing his name.” Levi was astonished.

“Sir, Liam Macy has been living a secluded life in the outskirts of North Hampton. Most people in the city are no longer conscious of his presence.” Phoenix elaborated.

Azure Dragon and Kirin asked, “What shall we do now, Sir?”

The Protector Chapter 310

“Is Mr. Quinton safe?” A cold glint shone in Levi’s eyes.

“He’s considered safe at the moment. It was Liam’s grandson, Andy, who’d brought Mr. Quinton away. He’d wanted Mr. Quinton to check on his grandfather’s condition.” Phoenix explained.

Levi slammed the tabletop with his hand. “He’s ridiculous!”

“I have an idea, Sir...” Azure Dragon piped up.

“Speak...”

“I am certain that Mr. Quinton will not wish for this matter to spiral out of control. So, I think we should resolve this matter in secret. Let’s ask Jack Smith to inform Liam to release Mr. Quinton and apologize to us since Jack Smith is Liam’s apprentice.” Azure Dragon suggested.

“Okay. You’re right. Mr. Quinton is not a fan of hassle.” Levi nodded in agreement.

“Bring Jack Smith here immediately!” Kirin went out to execute Levi’s order immediately.

Jack Smith, who was hanging out with his friends at that moment, was baffled by Levi’s summon.

He was frightened after Levi enlightened him of the on-going situation. Why did Master anger Levi Garrison out of so many people in this world?

Levi took out a piece of paper and wrote a few words, The God of War, Garrison.

“Hand this piece of paper over to Liam Macy and tell him to release Mr. Quinton right now. I want him to surrender his followers who’d hit those innocent people in the hospital too!” Levi commanded.

“Understood!” Jack Smith received the piece of paper with trembling hands and swiftly left Levi’s sight.

Meanwhile, over a hundred bodyguards had been positioned outside ‘the War God’s Mansion’.

The reason was that over a dozen people with high social statuses in North Hampton visited the place, in an attempt to rescue Benny, after Winston Gonzales and the people from the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce left.

Even Liam was impressed by Benny’s influence. Benny Quinton truly lives up to his reputation. It’s like I am the one who’s at fault here for offending someone as great as him!

However, Liam ordered his bodyguards to chase their visitors away because none of them was significant in Liam’s opinion.

“Is there any news on Mr. Nielsen?” Liam asked.

“Nope, father! I did not see any police here as well. I suppose they are turning a blind eye this time!” Nathan answered.

Liam nodded. “Great. I have nothing to worry about, as long as Mr. Nielsen stays silent.”

Jack Smith arrived right after a few groups of people were chased away by the bodyguards.

He was startled by the bodyguards' formation in front of the Mansion.

"Who are you? Leave at once! Otherwise, we will not go easy on you!" One of the bodyguards bellowed, after noticing Jack Smith's advance.

"I, Jack Smith, am here to visit my Master!" Jack Smith introduced himself.

"Oh, it's you, Mr. Smith! Please, come in. My father welcomes you into the house!" Nathan welcomed Jack in person.

Inside the sitting room in 'the War God's Mansion'.

Liam was sipping on his cup of tea with Benny seated beside him.

"Why are you here, Jack?" Liam asked.

Thump!

Jack knelt before Liam before speaking a word.

Liam was taken aback by Jack's unexpected gesture.

"Why are you doing this, Jack?"

Jack lowered his head and stammered, "Master... I... I do not dare to speak..."

"There's no need to hesitate!" Liam was puzzled.

Nathan and Andy were caught in perplexity as well.

Benny's lips curved upwards into a smile as if he knew what was going on.

"Speak!"

Liam raised his tone and grimaced.

Jack was shocked. He took out the piece of paper that Levi had handed to him earlier, as his body shuddered uncontrollably.

“Master, someone wants you to have this. He commands you to release Mr. Quinton immediately and apologize to him. He also wants you to surrender the few people who’d caused trouble in the hospital,” Jack spoke through gritted teeth.

“What? Who’s this outrageous b? How dare he demand an apology from the Macy family? He must have a death wish!” Nathan and Andy responded.

The Protector Chapter 311

Even the Gonzales family and members of the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce had to concede to the Macy family.

Liam could not think of another person who would have the courage to challenge his family in North Hampton.

He received the piece of paper without saying a word.

“The God of War, Garrison?” Liam read the words written on the paper.

Liam understood the message immediately. The Macy family’s trouble is here.

Logically speaking, the God of War was the only person, with the family name Garrison, who’d dared to refer to himself as the God of War in North Hampton.

Most of the elites in North Hampton were aware that the God of War’s family name was Garrison, after all.

Normally, any other person would have figured out the message written on the piece of paper instantaneously. However, the members of the Macy family were oblivious to that matter.

The reason was due to their misconception of the term, ‘God of War’.

Liam Macey’s nickname was ‘God of War’, so they would naturally think of Liam at the mention of the God of War.

None of them would relate the term to the God of War in the army.

The term varied between those two individuals.

'The God of War' was referring to a military rank, in Levi's case, while that term was merely Liam's nickname.

Liam frowned. "What does this mean?"

"Master, you've offended someone very powerful this time. I think that you should quickly release Mr. Quinton," Jack suggested.

He did not reveal Levi's identity for his own selfish reasons.

Jack had never successfully surpassed his Master, Liam, no matter how hard he had tried, or how influential he became, due to Liam's constraint.

So, he wanted to seize that opportunity for Levi to eliminate Liam.

In that way, Liam's family business would fall into his possession.

Jack could finally be the one true king of North Hampton.

Jack was deliberately provoking Liam to let the latter's ego overwhelm his rationality.

"Are you warning me?"

Andy surmised, "The meaning behind this message is clear as day. You are the God of War while this person with the name Garrison desires to rescue Benny Quinton. He's trying to threaten you with a family name!"

Liam and Nathan laughed aloud after listening to Andy's analysis.

“A person with the family name Garrison in North Hampton? Could this person be from the Garrison family? That Garrison family that requires the Rogers family’s support? How dare he threaten the Macy family?” Liam roared.

“Bring me a piece of paper and pen!” Liam ordered.

Liam wrote a few more words on the back of the piece of paper, The God of War, Macy, Death.

The meaning behind the message was simple. Anyone who had the courage to defy the Macy family would have to face death.

Liam Macy was well-known in the underworld, as well as the upper-class society in North Hampton.

Anyone who was acquainted with Liam, sought out his help whenever they had faced trouble in recent years. Liam would often leave them with a piece of paper. Written on the piece of paper were the words, The God of War, Macy.

Those few words were all it took to resolve all their predicaments.

Any party that saw the message would be fearful because those words were like a direct threat coming from Liam himself.

No one had the guts to go against those who were under Liam’s protection.

Jack had relied on that matter, on multiple occasions, to instill fear in his enemies. They knelt before him once they had seen Liam Macy’s name printed on Jack’s fan.

“Return this piece of paper to that person. Now!” Liam ordered coldly.

Even Winston Gonzales and the members of the Chamber would have to yield before that message, not to mention a mere Garrison family member.

“Understood, Master. I’ll do as you say right away.” Jack received the piece of paper with shaky hands.

Jack made a swift return, to Levi.

Levi and the others were stunned as they read the few words written on the back of the paper.

“He’s so arrogant?” Levi uttered with a smile. Then he gave Jack a meaningful look.

Jack felt as though his intention was exposed, as Levi fixated his piercing gaze on him.

“What a daredevil, Liam Macy! How dare he refer to himself as the God of War?” Kirin was mad.

The Protector Chapter 312

Levi lit a cigarette and smiled. “I’d wanted to resolve this matter peacefully, but he’s not accepting my kindness! Kirin!”

“Yes, Sir!”

“Transfer your Special Operations Regiment here. Let’s go!”

“Yes, Sir!”

A bizarre scene was observed on the main streets of Hampton City swiftly after.

A convoy of tanks sped in the direction of 'the War God's Mansion'.

Many passers-by gathered around to watch, but they were unaware of what was happening.

Over a hundred bodyguards were still blocking outsiders from entering the Mansion at that moment, as they continued to chase away groups of people.

The bodyguards chuckled as they thought to themselves, These people should learn to know their place. Even the wealthiest man, Winston Gonzales, has to yield to the Macy family, not to mention, what more of people like them?

Then, the bodyguards saw Jack Smith marching toward the entrance again.

However, this time, a few people were following behind him.

"Please head back, Mr. Smith. Mr. Macey had given us some orders. You are not allowed to go into the Mansion," the leader of the bodyguards informed Jack.

Jack was wearing an odd facial expression. His voice trembled as he muttered, "No... It's not me. They are the ones who want to enter the Mansion."

The bodyguards turned to look at Levi and the others after listening to Jack.

The bodyguards' leader sneered, "Please go back. No one is allowed to enter the Macy's family house today!"

His subordinates stared at Levi and the others menacingly.

Levi beamed at him. "What if I am determined to enter?"

"Then you'll have to face death!"

Kirin met with the leader's eyes all of a sudden and took out a gun from around his waist. Then he aimed the gun at the latter's head and questioned him, "What about now? Can we enter the house now?"

Anxiety crept into the leader's chest as he did not expect Kirin to draw his weapon.

Crash!

The rest of the bodyguards shuffled anxiously while eyeing Levi and the others angrily.

The bodyguards' leader was equipped with a tough mindset. He responded with a smile, "Don't be rash. This gun does not guarantee your entry into the Macy's family house!"

The other bodyguards jeered at Kirin. What a fool. How dare he provokes us, at 'the War God's Mansion'? He's obviously tired of living. We are talking about the Macy family, after all! The most influential family in the city!

"Does that mean that we are still not allowed to enter the place?" Kirin asked.

"Of course! Winston Gonzales and the people from the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce failed to enter too!" The leader announced, mockingly.

"Okay. Advance!" Kirin waved his hand.

Deafening noises erupted from behind them all of a sudden.

Twenty tanks entered everyone's vision and rumbled forward, towards the entrance.

All the bodyguards were scared out of their wits at the sight of the tanks. They could only stare at the scene in a daze.

They hurriedly moved backward as the tanks advanced in their direction, without showing any signs of stopping.

The tanks finally came to a halt as the bodyguards had their backs stuck to the wall.

Whoosh...

A platoon of fully-armed special troops alighted the tanks. They wore custom-made masks to cover their faces.

The Special Operations Regiment consisting of three hundred members lined up in a few rows and marched toward the War God's Mansion.

The bodyguards' leader peed his pants in fear while Kirin continued to press the gunpoint against his head. I'd thought that he was a mere fool. But d it! I did not expect the Special Operations Regiment to be here! Is this even real?

Thump!

Thump!

Thump!

All the bodyguards groveled on the floor while covering their heads with their hands. There's no way we can fight them. He has summoned the entire Special Operations Regiment!

"Aren't you too full of yourself, Liam Macey? Why are you not welcoming the God of War when he's at your doorstep?" Azure Dragon sneered.

"Pfft! The only person who can qualify the title of the God of War in North Hampton is my grandpa! Everyone else is nothing but trash!" Andy bellowed furiously after hearing Azure Dragon's voice.

He pushed the door open and charged forward in an imposing manner as he retorted.

The Protector Chapter 313

Tap tap tap...

However, Andy was dumbfounded when he took in the Special Operations Regiment's formation outside the house, as the sound of the soldiers marching reverberated beside his ears.

"This, this, this..."

Andy could not recover from the impact he received after witnessing the Special Operations Regiment lined up before him.

His subordinates following behind him were about to shout unwelcoming speeches at the people outside the house when they were immediately pinned to the ground.

His men did not even have a second to react.

The soldiers charged into 'the War God's Mansion' and even dragged Andy along with them.

Anyone who stood in their way was dealt with and shoved aside.

Levi and the others entered the Mansion, after the Special Operations Regiment cleared away all the hindrances.

The bodyguards inside the Mansion thought that someone had barged into the house.

They wanted to counter the intruder at once.

To their misfortune, the sight of the soldiers scared the life out of the bodyguards.

In less than thirty seconds, all the bodyguards inside 'the War God's Mansion' were subdued.

Moreover, the soldiers infiltrated the Mansion without making any excessive noise. They had successfully taken control of the place without anyone else noticing.

Kirin's harsh training was effective, as he had turned the normal soldiers into an elite troop.

The soldiers lined up in two rows from the house entrance to the meeting hall after they conquered the War God's Mansion.

Levi, Azure Dragon, and Kirin marched forward.

Inside the meeting hall.

Liam sipped on his cup of tea while sitting calmly in his chair.

Nathan was slightly worried. "Could something bad be happening outside the hall?"

Liam smiled. "Don't worry. Andy is more than capable of handling everything!"

Benny merely put on a pensive smile without saying a word.

Boom!

The door to the meeting hall was knocked over, by a huge force, as soon as Liam spoke.

A dozen soldiers rushed into the meeting hall the next second.

They quickly lined up into two rows inside the hall.

Liam and Nathan were startled by that sudden scene. Why are there soldiers inside my house? Moreover, these men appear to be a well-trained army!

“Aren’t you a daredevil, Liam Macy?” A group of people entered the meeting hall, echoing a thunderous roar.

The soldiers saluted the people who had walked through the door at once.

Liam was terrified by what he had just witnessed, while Nathan’s legs almost gave way.

Members of the Macy family should have had experienced all kinds of occasions in life. Nonetheless, the sight of the soldiers was too scary and incomprehensible to them.

What on earth is happening?

Benny stood up only after he saw Levi.

Clarity washed over Liam. That’s the person whom Benny Quinton is waiting for. The person that is capable of inflicting trouble upon my family!

“I’m glad that you’re alright, Mr. Quinton!” Levi grinned.

“Yes. They did not give me any trouble,” Benny relayed.

Nathan felt his strength seeping away from his body as Azure Dragon fixated his gaze on him. No words came to Nathan at that moment. Who the hell are these people? Do people like them exist in North Hampton? Why haven't we heard anything about them?

Liam was a veteran in life. He was able to regain his composure and asked, “Who are you?”

“I am the person who'd sent you the note earlier,” Levi answered.

“The God of War, Garrison?” Liam frowned. He was bewildered. “Please forgive my foolishness. I did not know that there was someone as accomplished as you in the Garrison family from North Hampton.”

Liam and Nathan were caught in perplexity.

“Mr. Macy, why don't you let your imagination run free for a moment. A God of War with the family name of Garrison who is currently staying in North Hampton...” Benny reminded Liam.

“A God of War with the family name of Garrison? I don't know this person. God of War? Garrison? Wait...”

Liam's face turned ashen, as he was shocked to his core.

He looked at Levi and exclaimed in astonishment, “Don't tell me you're the legendary God of War?”

The Protector Chapter 314

“Yes. You’re absolutely right!” Kirin smiled.

Levi exclaimed, “No, no, no. You’re the real God of War!”

Boom!

Liam almost passed out from fear, listening to Levi’s comment. The God of War? This is just a nickname given to me by people in the underworld. This is completely different from the real God of War. I can’t believe something as melodramatic as this is actually happening today! The God of War had warned me by sending me a note, yet I did the most ridiculous thing to threaten him! Wait, something’s not right. I think Jack Smith screwed me over!

Liam glanced at Jack. He knew that his apprentice was setting him up. Jack could have explained Levi Garrison’s identity to me, but he did not. He’s trying to eliminate me by utilizing the God of War’s authority.

Thump!

Liam got down on his knees.

“Sir, everything that has happened today is just a misunderstanding! I invited Mr. Quinton to my place because I’d needed treatment.” Liam explained in a hurry.

Levi sat in Liam’s seat and responded with a smile, “Okay. Let’s put aside this matter related to Mr. Quinton. How should we address the incident that has happened in the hospital?”

Liam looked at Andy immediately. “Hurry up and summon the men whom you’d assigned to the hospital earlier!”

All eight men were brought forward after a short while. All of them knelt on the floor in fright.

“This is just a misunderstanding! We were impatient just now!” The men shivered fearfully.

Liam piped up after noticing their conditions, “Sir, I will make sure that they receive the appropriate punishments for hitting those innocent people by following the law.”

Levi’s lips curled into a sneer. “Well, I want to deal with this matter by using my way today because of a reason!”

“Reason?” Everyone was astounded.

“Do you remember hitting a female doctor?” Levi asked.

The men exchanged glances with one another.

The only person who had fitted Levi’s description was Benny Quinton’s assistant, who had tried to stop them from leaving at that time.

They nodded after a moment of consideration.

“Oh, just so you know, that person is my mother-in-law!”

Dreadful silence filled the air after Levi spoke.

Everyone was stunned.

So, they hit the God of War’s mother-in-law? Where did they find the courage to do something like that?

Liam was drenched in a nervous sweat, as his face turned pallid, after a split second.

He had never been more afraid in his entire life.

Liam and Nathan finally understood how terribly they had raised Andy, by constantly showering him with affection, fulfilling his every wish.

Andy grew up to become an arrogant, self-centered brat who would do anything as he pleased.

Now they had to suffer the consequences of their bad parenting.

Andy, soaked in a cold sweat, regretted his decision as well, for accidentally harming the God of War's mother-in-law.

"Who hit her?" Levi asked.

All eight men, groveling on the floor, shuddered. None of them dared to admit their sins.

"So, you're not confessing?" Levi's voice was heard again.

The rest of the men took a step back to expose the culprit.

The culprit, Tig, shook with fear.

"Did you hit my mother-in-law?" Levi questioned him.

Tig wanted to answer him, but he could not utter a single word.

Bam!

Levi kicked Tig in his face as the latter flew a few meters across the hall.

Tig was dragged to Levi's feet again.

Slap!

Levi slapped Tig's face forcefully and sent him flying across the room again.

Then, he was dragged to face Levi's wrath again.

The process was repeated by at least twenty times.

Tig's face had turned into a bloody mess after Levi was done. His facial features became misshapen and disfigured.

Everyone else inside the hall was petrified by Levi's ruthlessness.

Even the big boss of the underworld, Liam, was trembling.

The Protector Chapter 315

“Is that the way you should treat hospital staff? How could you have to gall harm them, when they've been working hard to rescue lives? Did they offend you? Where is your conscience?” Levi directed volleys of questions at Liam and his men.

Pin-drop silence lingered in the air inside the hall, as no one dared to make a sound.

Levi knew that he had every right and reason to punish those people for what they did.

“I want all of you who’d hurt the hospital staff to kneel and apologize to them at the hospital. Then you will fully compensate them, for the damage you’ve done!” Levi demanded.

“Okay. I will make the necessary arrangements!” Liam answered.

Levi then turned to glance at Liam. “The Macy family shall retire from now on!”

Boom!

That announcement was a bolt from the blue to the entire Macy family.

Levi had determined the Macy family’s fate with a single command.

The Macy family would cease to exist in the underworld from that moment onwards.

Jesse Nielsen may not have had the authority to uproot the Macy family’s influence, but Levi could.

No!

No!

Andy and Nathan looked absolutely miserable.

They had wanted to inherit the Macy family’s possession, ruling over North Hampton’s underworld in the future.

Levi’s order had shattered their dreams.

Liam, on the other hand, was calm and collected. He accepted the family's fate without any protest.

In his opinion, it was already a blessing for them to remain alive, after that incident.

However, he knew that the Macy family's enemies would soon target them after they lose their status. So, the chances for them to survive would be slim.

The Macy family's crisis had truly arrived.

At that moment, Jack Smith, who was hiding amongst the crowd, smirked. Everything is proceeding as I'd planned. Levi Garrison has eliminated Liam Macy as I'd expected. I can finally become the most powerful person in North Hampton's underworld. Hehe...

However, Levi turned to look at Jack, just as the smirk crept across his face.

"Do not think that I'm unaware of the scheme that you were planning, Jack Smith. You are going to retire alongside the Macy family!"

The smile on Jack's face wavered, after listening to Levi.

He stared at Levi in utter disbelief. How can this be happening?

To his misfortune, Levi did not stop there.

He had eradicated all the underworld forces in North Hampton that day.

That news shocked everyone in the whole of Quebec.

Ultimately, Benny returned to the hospital unscathed.

The wrongdoers knelt before the hospital to express their remorse, compensating the hospital staff with a large amount of money. Soon after, all of them were detained.

Nonetheless, the most important consequence following that incident was Liam Macy's downfall.

However, the reason behind his downfall was a secret.

To his dismay, members of the Gonzales family and the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce understood, that the turn of events was due to the God of War's interference.

Liam Macy had truly offended someone he should not have.

Caitlyn stayed at home to recuperate after she had suffered that terrible injury.

She felt relieved after knowing of the wrongdoers' willingness to compensate and apologize.

Caitlyn turned to look at Levi and Aaron seated beside her bed. Then she muttered coldly, "The two of you are spineless men! No one would have dared to bully me if you were slightly capable."

Levi knew that his mother-in-law was merely venting out her anger.

I can't imagine that some thugs would dare to barge into the hospital, hitting innocent passers-by, even with my status as the God of War!

Levi arranged for a few bodyguards to protect Benny at all times, after that incident.

He did not want to risk Benny's safety anymore.

Things stayed normal, as life went on afterward.

Soon enough, one day, Iris received a piece of news. There was a problem with Morris Group's product.

Their medical apparatus had caused a patient's death, while the patient was receiving treatment in a clinical setting!

The authorities had investigated the issue and determined that the apparatus was the cause of the sudden death.

Morris Group's medical devices were deemed to be faulty!

"That's impossible! All of our products were subjected to stringent quality control tests! There should not be such an issue!" Isaiah was astounded.

Iris sighed, "Perhaps someone is trying to frame us." It is not surprising for us to be targeted by business competitors since our products are monopolizing the market. Nonetheless, this is too much to cause a person's death!

The Protector Chapter 316

The matter spread to the public before Iris had time to contain the news.

The media and newspaper publishers swiftly reported Morris Group's error as a headline topic, The medical devices endorsed by the national treasure, Benny Quinton, were deemed defective. Use of the medical devices in a clinical setting had resulted in the death of a patient!

That news became an instant sensation that spread all over Erudia.

Benny's appointment as Morris Group's ambassador had boosted Morris Group's reputation and sales to the top in the business field.

The company's market value increased steeply as well.

Morris Group's exponential growth had limited the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce's control over the market.

Unexpectedly, a disaster occurred just after a few days of success.

A patient's death was a taboo in the medical field.

Unfortunately, Morris Group had to face the predicament.

At eight o'clock in the morning.

Quebec's Department of Business and Management, Department of Work Safety, Consumers' Association, Department of Commerce, Department of Commercial Products' Quality Assurance, and State Police Department joined forces to investigate that matter.

They halted Morris Group's factory production and operations at once.

All six departments had assigned a special task force to Morris Group, temporarily suspending Morris Group's business license.

The entire organization that was running smoothly before had collapsed, all of a sudden.

Iris and the other executives were discussing ways to deal with the issue when a group of people marched up to the meeting room.

The door to the meeting room was forcefully pushed open.

“Can I meet with the person-in-charge in this place? We are from the special task force established by the six main departments in Quebec. We are tasked with the investigation of the grave error found in your company’s products!”

The man leading the group of people was Keith York, the deputy director of the Quebec Police Department. He was nicknamed ‘Justice Keith’, for his righteous personality.

No one expected a special task force to be established with the sole purpose of handling that matter. So, it was clear to see the impact of the flaw in Morris Group’s medical apparatus.

Iris stood up frightfully and explained, “I am the vice-president of Morris Group, Iris Anabelle. I am the person-in-charge for now.”

Keith introduced himself in a cold tone, “I am the captain of this special task force, Keith York. Request for your company’s president and chairman of the board to show themselves at once!”

“This...”

Iris was caught in a difficult position.

All the other executives were exchanging glances, one amongst the other because even the majority of them had never seen Morris Group’s big boss.

Their president, Neil Rhodes, was not frequently seen in the company as well.

“Mr. York, I am the main handler of Morris Group at the moment. You can speak to me directly if there’s anything urgent,” Iris relayed.

Keith sneered, “A vice-president is running the entire company? Maybe Morris Group’s faulty internal management is to blame for this flaw in the company’s production! I am now suspecting Morris Group’s owner to be on the run after committing a crime!”

“No, that’s not it…” Iris hurriedly shook her head.

“Okay. Then why don’t you tell me what’s going on?” Keith stared at her.

“I…” Iris did not know how to describe Morris Group’s management style because their big boss and president, Neil Rhodes, were extraordinary men.

“So, you can’t tell me anything?” Keith jeered at Iris.

“I hereby announce all on-going processes in Morris Group to be halted and every member of the company to be subjected to inquiry. The employees related to the production department will undergo rigorous questioning. The police will now begin to inspect Morris Group. Anyone who is involved in this fatal incident will be severely punished!”

All members of the company’s upper management were anxious after listening to Keith’s speech. If the police can prove Morris Group’s negligence in this matter, the company will meet its downfall, and all of us, executives, will certainly face time in prison.

Iris and her colleagues defended themselves, “I hope you will uncover the truth, Mr. York. There is absolutely nothing wrong with our products. We’d even received multiple certifications from the Quality Control Department. Moreover, we even have Mr. Quinton to guarantee our products’ quality. There must be someone out there who’s trying to frame us!”

The Protector Chapter 317

“Is that so? But are you able to guarantee the quality of every item produced by your company? From what I’ve heard, Morris Group has been rushing the production's progress lately. Other manufacturers took half a year to produce a similar machine, while Morris Group's production used less than a month.

I can't help but feel suspicious about your manufacturing speed. Indeed, Mr. Quinton is your company's ambassador. No one will dare to question the product's quality because of Mr. Quinton's prestige. In that case, did you manipulate his honorable reputation to bypass the quality control processes?"

Iris was rendered speechless, as she could not refute Keith's suspicions.

At that moment, the people from North Hampton Commercial Crime Investigation Section arrived as well.

"Who's the person-in-charge here? We've received an anonymous report that Morris Group plagiarized the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce's core technology. We have discovered this report to be truthful, after a series of investigations. Morris Group's products are almost identical to the Chamber's, but the Chamber has been producing these products for years!"

Boom!

Everyone was stunned after listening to the false accusation.

The North Hampton Chamber of Commerce had filed a complaint against Morris Group for plagiarism when they were the ones who had committed the crime.

Keith smiled after hearing that statement. "No wonder there is an error with the medical apparatus. You'd plagiarized the core technology from another source but had failed to produce products with the same quality!"

"Yeah. That must be it. The medical apparatus must be flawed because of that!"

Members of the special task force jeered at Iris and her colleagues.

All the media began publishing news related to that topic, The authorities have proven Morris Group to have plagiarized the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce's core technology. Plagiarism is the primary cause of the fatal incident.

Netizens flooded the Internet with angry comments after the news was spread to the public. Morris Group's market value plummeted. A huge crisis befell the company, as they faced the risk of bankruptcy.

That was not the full extent of the impact of that incident, because even Benny was dragged into the mess.

Some media sources released information of Benny receiving a huge amount of ambassador fees from Morris Group. They estimated the sum to be close to three hundred million.

The media rebuked Benny for his lack of professionalism and unethical personality, to guarantee the quality of Morris Group's products even when he was in the know of their products' subpar quality.

Some even referred to Benny as a hypocrite.

Meanwhile, Morris Group's trouble continued to snowball.

The police officers arrived after being summoned by Keith.

"Iris Anabelle, Isaiah Wade..."

The majority of Morris Group's executives were brought away by the police.

The severity of that incident was as clear as day.

At that moment, in City First Hospital.

Benny was treating patients as usual in the clinic, while Caitlyn helped him out as his assistant.

Right then, a commotion erupted in the hallway.

“What’s going on?” Benny frowned.

He was not afraid for his safety, as Levi had arranged for skilled bodyguards to protect him.

A few patients’ family members rushed into the office swiftly after.

“You’re an unethical doctor, Benny Quinton! How can you live such an unethical life?”

“How can you spend the three hundred million without any guilt or remorse?”

“Don’t you feel sorry for killing your patients?”

They pointed at Benny and reprimanded.

“You’re a beast, Benny Quinton! You’re the worst doctor in Erudia!”

“That’s right! You do not deserve to wear that white coat! All of you are terrible human beings!”

The family members were agitated. They would have physically harmed Benny if the other doctors and nurses did not stop them.

“Boohoo... you died for no reason, my hubby! Your sickness was not severe in the first place!” A middle-aged woman knelt in the office and cried hysterically.

All the other family members began thrashing the office, as they continued to curse Benny.

“What has happened?” Benny was confused.

“Mr. Quinton, a patient in the hospital used a medical apparatus produced by Morris Group last night and died because the machine had broken down. The patient was merely diagnosed with a mild sickness,” A doctor informed Benny of the truth.

Boom!

Benny slumped into the leather seat after he listened to the doctor’s explanation.

The Protector Chapter 318

Even Caitlyn, who was standing aside, turned pale. Someone’s dead! This is a huge problem! Mr. Quinton had assured the public of the product’s quality, after all. Everyone will be targeting him before Morris Group if there’s anything wrong with the medical apparatus.

“How is this possible?” Benny could not believe the turn of events.

After all, he had tested and analyzed the medical apparatus with his students. Moreover, Morris Group had received two different quality assurance certifications.

The only explanation is that someone intended to frame Morris Group. However so, this method is simply unacceptable. They’d caused a person’s death!

Benny slammed his hand upon the surface of the table. “I, Benny Quinton, will handle this matter!”

He told Caitlyn to inform the hospital to hold a press conference for him.

Benny attended the press conference that was held, soon after.

His message to the public was simple. He assured everyone he would investigate the incident, to uncover the truth. If the patient's death were truly due to the quality of the product, Benny told the media that he would be willing to end his own life, to make up for his mistake.

That issue attracted more attention after the press conference ended.

No one expected Benny to be so determined, as he was willing to give up his own life to make amends for his error.

On the other hand, in Bale Group.

Ron Bale, Xawery Yount, and the other two council members of the Chamber gathered.

"How are things now, Ron? Did you make the proper arrangements?" Wildan Saenz asked worriedly.

Ron smiled. "Don't worry. I did not leave any traces. My men had destroyed the surveillance footage in the hospital when we'd secretly changed the medical apparatus. Even the police will never recover the footage with their technology!"

"Does that mean that Morris Group will face their demise with utmost certainty this time?" Xawery was ecstatic.

"That's right. Morris Group is doomed! Moreover, the special task force assigned to investigate the matter is unmerciful in carrying out their duties. No one can help Morris Group this time, regardless of the support that they have!"

“I know about this. Even Mr. Nielsen can only keep himself updated with the investigation progress. He does not have the authority to interfere!”

Everyone laughed.

Ron’s eyes gleamed with malicious intent. “Although we hate that old fool, Benny Quinton, we do have to thank him! It is because of his prominent reputation that’d caused Morris Group’s flaw to be magnified and disseminate by the public. This matter has become so critical that even Mr. Nielsen cannot intervene.”

“Hmph! That’s what he gets for deciding to help Morris Group publicize their products!”

“Benny Quinton is just a hypocrite. He’s acting high and mighty, but who knows how much money he had received from Morris Group in secret?”

Wildan and Xawery sneered.

“Not only did we manage to eliminate Morris Group this time, but we’d also increased our sales by a large margin. So what if our products are more expensive? The consumers will still pick us because our products are safer to use!”

“Hehehe...”

The group of cunning men smirked.

They were truly evil and unprincipled businessmen who prioritized their own benefit, above all. They did not care about sacrificing others to satisfy their greed.

Ron and his friends could not care less about the patient who had passed away in the hospital. They had not even felt sorry, for his death.

They could remain nonchalant because they were already numb from committing similar crimes, one too many times.

Sacrificing innocent people to achieve their goals had become a norm to those members of the Chamber.

The public was urging for Morris Group to disband and for authorities to detain the owner of the corporation.

The reason was that Morris Group's boss had yet to show himself since the beginning of that incident. Iris was the highest-ranking executive to address the public thus far.

Aside from Morris Group, Zoey's newly-established company was facing a difficult time as well.

Her new company would dissolve, following Morris Group's disbandment.

Coincidentally, Zoey was discussing a possible collaboration with a foreign enterprise from Keera, at that moment.

The potential partnership would fall apart if Morris Group succumbed to the plight.

Benny met up with Levi immediately.

Levi was livid after he was made aware of the on-going situation.

"There's no doubt that the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce is behind this!" Levi spat out.

The Protector Chapter 319

Upon discovering that the Morris Group was expanding its businesses swiftly, it was evident that the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce would suffer the most losses.

However, it was unexpected that they would take such drastic actions!

“The most difficult thing to do right now is to uncover the truth. I’m certain that all the clues would have been destroyed by now,” Levi declared.

As of now, Phoenix was already investigating the matter.

“Sir, the CCTV footage from eleven-thirty to twelve at the City First Hospital was deleted!” Phoenix reported.

“That could only mean that someone had entered the hospital during that time period to take action,” Benny suggested.

Levi inquired, “Phoenix, can you fix it?”

“I need the video source. Even if it was corrupted on purpose, I can fix it,” Phoenix replied.

“Okay, we’ll go right now.”

Soon, Levi and Benny arrived at the hospital’s control room.

However, the door was guarded by a few men who refused to let them enter.

Benny was straightforward. "I'm Benny Quinton. I need to get last night's CCTV footage..."

"No! I don't care who you are. No one but the special task force can enter," the men insisted. They refused to let anyone in.

"Fine, let's go take a look at the devices that were affected."

Levi and Benny headed over to the room, only to be informed that the devices had been removed.

Only the special task force had access to the devices.

Upon hearing that, Levi contacted Jesse at once.

"Nielson, I need the CCTV footage from City First Hospital," he announced.

"I can't help you with this! The special task force was sent by the South Warzone in South City, Quebec. We, at North Hampton, received orders not to interfere in their investigation. I'm really sorry." Jesse seemed torn.

"By the way, my teacher, Grover Cooke, was the one who suggested it. To avoid suspicion, no one in North Hampton is to intervene. Besides, they are to come up with a conclusion in three days' time," Jesse professed.

"Okay, got it."

After hanging up, a smile appeared upon Levi's lips.

He had heard about Grover, as that man had connections with the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce.

Well played, North Hampton Chamber of Commerce.

You kicked up a fuss so the South City would send someone to deal with it. You've refused to allow anyone from North Hampton to intervene. By pinning it on us, you can take down Morris Group in the fastest way possible!

"Azure Dragon, find out who's the captain of this special task force," Levi ordered.

Soon, Azure Dragon brought back news. "Sir, the captain is Keith York, deputy director of the Quebec Police Department. York is famous for being an incorruptible police officer. He won't let anyone intervene in this case!"

"Okay. Relay my order. Tell Keith York to come and meet me!" Levi pronounced.

Shortly after, a car arrived at the manor.

Alighting the car was Keith, the captain of the special task force.

Azure Dragon led Keith to the room.

In the room, he saw both Benny and Levi.

"Greetings, God of War," Keith greeted him politely.

"Keith York? Do you know why I've summoned you here?" Levi inquired.

Keith was taken aback. Gritting his teeth, he muttered, "I know of your relationship with Mr. Quinton. I'll be frank here. You can't intervene in the Morris Group's case. I won't allow you to do as such."

"No one in North Hampton is allowed to intervene. I remember that you're the deputy of North Hampton, so please understand my plight."

"If you insist on intervening, it'll be over my dead body!"

Keith's tough demeanor stunned everyone in the room.

The Protector Chapter 320

They finally realized why this was no easy feat. Even Jesse's hands were tied.

Levi questioned, "Mr. York, how's your investigation going?"

"We only have three days' time to settle this case. From the evidence we've gathered, Morris Group's products were of inferior quality. We're almost certain that it was Morris Group's problem. So, we'll arrest those involved and stop production of the related products," Keith explained.

Although he knew that something went wrong with the CCTV, the technical department still could not fix it.

"What if I insist on intervening?" Levi asked.

"It's as I'd said earlier. If you insist on intervening, it'll be over my dead body!" Keith refused to relent.

Suddenly, Levi smiled.

"Mr. York, I believe that you aren't aware of this. My soldier, Kirin, and I are both involved in this case. We can't stay out of this."

"Ah?" Keith was confused.

"No, you're not involved in it," Keith assured.

"You're saying that without thorough investigation?" Levi demanded icily.

“Sir, I don’t understand you...” Keith lowered his head anxiously.

“Morris Group is being managed by its vice president now, right? What about its president and chairman?” Levi inquired.

Keith immediately blurted out, “That’s still under investigation. I believe that we’ll discover who they are soon!”

“No need. Kirin is the president, and I am the chairman,” Levi revealed.

Boom!

It was as if thunder had struck Keith, as he stared at Levi in shock.

He came to his senses immediately.

If it weren’t for Levi, why would Benny Quinton arrive in North Hampton and promote the products?

Furthermore, why would Levi produce inferior quality products in the first place?

Someone is framing Morris Group.

He belatedly realized what was happening.

“Allow my men to assist in your investigation,” Levi ordered.

“Got it!” Keith agreed at once.

Soon, the corrupted video source was sent to Phoenix.

Levi, Benny, and the rest went to view the affected devices themselves.

After checking the devices, a smile appeared on Levi's lips. "Mr. York, these products don't belong to Morris Group!"

"Huh?" Keith and his men were stunned.

"During production, I'd instructed the technical department to print some special codes secretly on our devices, to prevent disputes from happening. However, these devices don't have the codes! You can confirm this by checking the other products from Morris Group."

Keith told his men to validate Levi's claim instantly.

After comparing the devices, the men confirmed that Levi was speaking of the truth.

The devices manufactured by Morris Group indeed had special codes printed on them! These devices here didn't have any!

"Find out where the devices are from!" Keith ordered.

Meanwhile, Phoenix quickly recovered the CCTV footage.

Upon watching the video, everyone was shocked.

Indeed, someone had switched the medical device!

They were framed.

"Find out who's the man in the video!"

Keith flew into a howling rage.

He was an impartial, being a mere police officer.

If not for Levi's assistance, he would have certainly dealt with the case wrongly.

Hence, he blew his top.

On the other hand, Kirin handed Keith another file.

"Inside this file is the evidence and clues on how the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce stole Levi Group's core technology."

"Okay, I'll investigate this matter as well!" Keith nodded.

He was full of admiration for Levi.

Levi's really capable, solving problems easily and efficiently, he thought.

The matter had been resolved.

Even Mr. Quinton was relieved.

The Protector Chapter 321

"What a pity that we've lost two of our men. They are innocent," Mr. Quinton sighed.

Levi shook his head helplessly. "Well, the business world is akin to a battlefield. Six years ago, I'd encountered an unexpected disaster and had nearly died!"

"We need to uncover the mastermind behind this scheme. We won't let the perpetrators off easily!" Mr. Quinton bellowed out, in rage.

That night, at home, Zoey was terribly worried about Iris.

If everything were true, Iris would be sent to jail.

Right then, Harry arrived with the others.

“Haha! Zoey, you and the trash are fine? We’d heard that something had happened to Morris Group, so we’d thought that you’d been arrested.” Henry chortled.

Both Shaun and Melanie were smiling. “Seeing as how Morris Group is done for, Zoey’s company will be closed down too. Zoey, what is your plan?”

“Are you going to return to the Lopez family?” Fabian teased.

“I…” Zoey seemed helpless.

Her company was in trouble and would be acquired soon.

Harry grinned. “Zoey, calm down. I am here to strike a business deal with you.”

Zoey was confused. “Huh? What business deal?”

“About buying out your company. I plan to acquire your company at two million!” Harry replied.

“Two million?” Zoey was incredulous.

Even if Morris Group were to stop investing in my company, it’ll still be estimated at around one to two billion.

It’s impossible for someone to acquire it at a mere two million.

This is so absurd.

“Haha! Zoey, aren’t you aware of your circumstances? Once Morris Group goes bankrupt, your company will be largely affected. By then, you won’t even get two hundred grand, let alone two million.”

“Yes. Moreover, if you sell your company to Grandpa, you’ll still be able to work at Lopez Group,” Shaun and Harry sneered.

“Hey!” Zoey exclaimed furiously.

They’re merely here to add insult to the injury!

“Zoey, I’ll give you two days to consider my offer. Don’t delay it any further, or you’ll be sure to receive less than two million.”

“Besides, I’ve also heard that you’re striking a deal with a company in Keerea. Let me handle that, alright?” Harry offered icily.

After the Lopez family took their departure, Levi consoled Zoey, “Don’t worry, honey. Everything will be fine.”

Three days passed in a flash, and the special task force was about to announce the results of their investigation the next day.

That same night, Ron, Xawery, and Wildan were celebrating at the club.

“Haha! I’ve heard that Keith refused to allow anyone to see the evidence,” Ron chuckled.

“Yes. Keith’s an incorruptible police officer. He wouldn’t allow anyone to interfere with his decision!”

“We just have to wait for the results to be announced tomorrow. By then, Morris Group and their upgraded technology will belong to us! Hahaha...” Xawery was so excited that he was about to sing out loud.

He placed his arms around Wildan’s shoulders and started singing along with him.

Bang!

Momentarily, someone kicked the door to their VIP room open.

Over a dozen police officers rushed into the room.

Ron and the other men were stunned.

Someone stepped into the room, flanked by the surrounding men.

He took out his ID and announced, “Keith York, captain of the special task force!”

“What? Keith York?”

Immediately, Ron and the others turned pale.

The Protector Chapter 322

“Mr. York, your reputation precedes you!” Ron and the others smiled in greeting.

They had no idea why Keith had showed up so abruptly.

“How can you still be in the mood to sing? Don’t you know of the trouble you’re in?” Keith scoffed.

“Ah? Trouble? What trouble?” Ron and the others inquired in shock.

“You are all arrested!” Keith announced as his expression darkened.

His colleague showed them the arrest warrant.

“Huh? What? We’re arrested?” Ron and his friends asked incredulously.

“Unfortunately, the CCTV footage was recovered by an expert. We’ve found the culprit, and he’s given us your names!” Keith laughed coldly.

Boom!

They were so stunned and almost passed out.

The next day, everyone waited eagerly for the results to be announced.

However, the results shocked them.

It was now apparent. The four council members of the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce were the ones who had framed Morris Group.

All the culprits were arrested and sentenced.

Morris Group’s innocence was proved, and everyone was happy about it.

The group even compensated the victims’ families with money, receiving public praise.

Benny was glad by how the matter was resolved.

He admired how Levi had dealt with the matter. He was impressed by his attitude.

The Lopez family was dumbfounded. They wanted to buy out Zoey's new company for two million, but Morris Group had emerged unscathed in the end.

After that incident, many hospitals released the results of their clinical trials regarding Morris Group's medical devices. In conclusion, the devices were of outstanding quality and performed better than the previous versions of the device.

Soon, Morris Group's business resumed with its regular activity.

This time, the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce suffered heavy losses.

Their market value dropped by at least ten billion.

The four noble families could do nothing but watch, as their losses increased.

Their only hope was the God of War.

The North Hampton Warzone's commander-in-chief's appointment ceremony was about to happen soon. It was said that the commander-in-chief, Percy Covington, was about to arrive in North Hampton.

Eric and the others were excited.

Even the Gonzales family, who was the wealthiest family around, was eager for that day to arrive.

Meanwhile, Andy brought good news to the Gonzales family... Una and her cousins were allowed to join the ceremony.

Of course they were elated when they had learnt of the news.

The young ladies and gentlemen of the upper-class society took events like this seriously.

To them, this was a great opportunity to raise their social status and brag about how they were invited to such an event.

“Haha! Now that the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce is weakened, I only have to bootlick the God of War to gain control over it, sooner or later,” Winston announced, utterly delighted.

“Sir, a Mr. Park Guk-chang from the Kappei Corporation in Keerea is here to see you,” the housekeeper came to inform Winston.

“Okay, let him in.”

Winston had plenty of partnerships with companies in Keerea, and Kappei Corporation was something he had considered trivial.

Nonetheless, he was in a good mood today, so he agreed to see the man.

Soon, Park Guk-chang entered the hall.

His request was simple. He was going to develop his business in North Hampton, so he came to curry Winston’s favor.

The most interesting thing was that Park Guk-chang Kappei Corporation was the company from Keerea that Zoey was going to collaborate with.

“Mm, I know your teacher well. I’ll provide you help, wherever it is needed.”

Upon Winston’s agreement, Park Guk-chang was ecstatic.

The wealthiest man’s promise meant that he could gain a firm foothold in North Hampton.

The next day, Levi was in his office when he received Zoey's call.

"Levi, I'm in a middle of a discussion. Abigail needs some business data for her internship. Can you help me deliver it to her?" Zoey asked.

The Protector Chapter 323

She was currently discussing a collaboration with Kappei Corporation from Keerea.

"Okay, I'll send it over to her!"

After receiving the data, Levi headed to the University of North Hampton.

It took him a while to find Abigail.

Levi handed the file to Abigail and was about to leave when she stopped him.

"Levi, you haven't had lunch yet, right?" Abigail asked.

"Of course. I came to deliver the file to you," Levi responded.

"Come, I'll buy you a meal. Shall we eat at the canteen?" Abigail gazed at Levi expectantly.

Levi could sense his stomach grumbling upon hearing Abigail's suggestion.

He had not had a meal in his alma mater for years.

“Okay, let’s go to the canteen!”

“Let’s go!”

Abigail held Levi’s arm as they walked in the campus.

Levi did not think much about it, as she used to do the same thing when Zoey was accompanying them.

He merely thought of her as a young girl.

However, the other students did not think that way.

Abigail was popular in the university as she was pretty.

She had been single since she had arrived, and many students were curious as to when she would get a boyfriend.

Today, an unusual scenario appeared before their eyes... The pretty Abigail was holding a man’s arm in public!

Everyone who had witnessed that was stunned.

It was definitely shocking news.

Even though the man seemed to be older than her, he was good in every way.

At once, everyone was certain that he was Abigail’s boyfriend.

Soon, the news of Abigail’s boyfriend spread quickly throughout the campus.

Levi sensed that everyone was staring at him strangely, while Abigail was smirking silently.

She wanted to fool others into thinking that Levi was her boyfriend.

As she inched closer to Levi, her pursuers were about to slam their tables in rage.

“I never knew that Abigail liked older men!” the young men exclaimed in anger.

Finally, Abigail and Levi reached the canteen.

Levi chose a table which was at a corner, but everyone could not peel their eyes away from him.

When Abigail arrived with the dishes on a serving tray, Levi was exasperated. “Turns out you’re quite popular on campus, huh?”

“Of course! I’m one of the prettiest students in campus!”

Abigail leaned closer to Levi and asked in a low voice, “Levi, everyone thinks that you’re my boyfriend. What should I do? I’ll never get a boyfriend if this happens.”

Levi grinned. “Not a problem. I’ll inform the broadcast room...”

“Hey, you’re no fun!” Abigail pretended to be mad.

As the dishes were served, Levi started gobbling the food.

He did not realize that the crowd surrounding them was growing larger.

After filling up his stomach, Levi stood up to leave.

“I’ll send you off,” Abigail pronounced, trailing behind him.

She was gazing at Levi affectionately, so everyone immediately knew what was going on.

Many young men’s hearts were broken into pieces. Abigail really has a boyfriend!

As Levi and Abigail stepped out of the canteen, a group of people approached them, blocking their exit.

Levi tried to leave, but they would not allow him to do so.

These people were dressed in Taekwondo uniforms, appearing to be fierce.

“Park Heung-tae, what are you doing?” Abigail yelled angrily.

This exchange student from Keerea was skilled in Taekwondo, and he was an overbearing young man. He had punished all the boys who had tried to get to know Abigail.

Ignoring Abigail, Park Heung-tae glared at Levi, warning him in broken English, “Abigail’s mine! Stay away from her!”

The Protector Chapter 324

Upon hearing that, a smile appeared upon Levi's lips.

The exchange student's behavior made him extremely upset.

Abigail disagreed and demanded, "Park Heung-tae, stop spewing nonsense. When did I become yours?"

"You are my girlfriend, Abigail. Everyone in the University of North Hampton knows it," Park Heung-tae chirruped, smugly.

His friends from the Taekwondo Club immediately cheered for him.

The others were furious, but they had not dared to say a word.

These exchange students were arrogant, as they got to enjoy several privileges on campus.

Park Heung-tae himself had a black belt in Taekwondo, so no one dared to offend him.

"Leave Abigail now, or you'll end up in a sorry state," Park Heung-tae threatened icily.

"What's happening?"

Right then, a voice sounded, all of a sudden.

Abigail's senior, Kyle walked towards them.

He recognized Levi at once.

His father had told him that Levi Garrison was a big shot, whom he should befriend.

At that moment, Kyle knew his chance had arrived.

“You?” Park Heung-tae’s face darkened.

He had investigated Abigail’s pursuers, and his strongest contender was this man, Kyle Jarvis.

“Park Heung-tae, this is my friend. Don’t cause a scene,” Kyle announced with his hands in his pockets.

“Who the f are you to order me around?”

No one expected that Park Heung-tae would start cursing all of a sudden.

Even Kyle was stunned.

Previously, Park Heung-tae had treated me with respect.

What’s happened to him today?

He was unaware that Park Heung-tae’s father, Park Guk-chang had gained Winston’s support, so his son had grown increasingly arrogant.

“Park Heung-tae, what do you mean? Are you being cocky right now?” Kyle bellowed in anger.

You’re embarrassing me in front of Levi!

“Ha! Do I need to show you respect? You Erudian monkey!” Park Heung-tae reached out to pat Kyle’s cheek.

“D it!”

Kyle’s face fell as he took off his shirt, ready to fight.

I must teach him a lesson today!

“You want to fight with me? Good, good!” Park Heung-tae was excited.

As two famous students in the university were about to fight, a massive crowd had formed around them.

I must win this fight!

Kyle roared and rushed towards his opponent like a ferocious tiger, generating a powerful force.

As Kyle charged towards him, a murderous glint flashed across Park Heung-tae’s eyes.

Thud!

He shifted slightly to avoid Kyle’s attack before giving him a forceful kick.

Kyle was immediately flung back several meters. After he landed on the ground, he groaned, unable to rise again.

“D!” Everyone gasped.

Kyle had learned to wrestle since he was young, and he was good at it. However, he could not even handle Park Heung-tae’s punch?

How strong could Park Heung-tae be?

Elated, Park Heung-tae swept his gaze across the crowd. “Is this how Erudians fight? What a load of crap. Compared to Keerea’s Taekwondo, it’s nothing but trash!”

“Erudian wrestling is trash! I’ve heard that Kyle was an expert in wrestling, but he is useless!”

“That’s right! Erudian wrestling seems exceptional in movies, but is actually useless in reality!”

The Taekwondo Club’s members mocked continuously.

Park Heung-tae snickered, “Erudian wrestling is trash! Today, I, Park Heung-tae, welcomes anyone who disagrees to fight me. There are no rules, so if you’re hurt, it has nothing to do with me. This applies the other way around, as well.”

The Protector Chapter 325

The crowd fell silent, and no one dared to look at him.

Smiling, Park Heung-tae declared, "No one wants to take up my challenge? Does no one dare to prove your Erudian wrestling? What a bunch of losers."

He taunted the Erudians mercilessly before their faces.

Who on earth could bear with that?

However, everyone was helpless.

Even Kyle, who was an expert, was defeated, let alone, what would befall the rest of them?

Those who dared to accept his challenge were seeking death.

Right then, everyone who met Park Heung-tae's vicious grin hurriedly lowered their heads in shock.

"Hahaha! No one in Erudia is going to prove that Erudian wrestling works? How disappointing. Your country is declining!"

To show off in front of Abigail, Park Heung-tae had blatantly provoked the entire country.

In a small voice, Abigail asked, "Levi, is he that good?"

Levi replied with a smile. "He's nothing but an ant."

Five years ago, Levi had encountered many men like this on the battlefield.

The Keerean soldiers were the worst of them all.

Right then, Park Heung-tae turned his sharp gaze to Levi. “What’s wrong? Do you want to challenge me?”

As Levi was standing beside Abigail, he had wanted to teach him a lesson from the very beginning.

Levi said nothing as he walked towards Park Heung-Tae.

The young man was thrilled. “Haha! Great! Finally, someone is willing to challenge me!”

As he stared at Levi, who was making his way over, dozens of ways to torture Levi appeared in his mind.

Soon, I’ll show Abigail what a real man is like!

In a blink of an eye, Levi was less than five meters away from Park Heung-tae.

Levi extended his right fist.

“Trash. What an idiot,” Park Heung-tae scoffed.

To him, Levi’s punch was full of flaws.

He reached out to block the punch instinctively.

However, the moment he touched Levi, his expression changed drastically.

Levi’s fist was faster than he had expected and was growing bigger in his eyes.

Thud!

The forceful punch landed on Park Heung-rae's face as he flew back like a broken puppet.

A gush of blood flew through the air, along with several of his teeth.

The punch threw him dozens of meters away. Park Heung-tae crashed through two trees before he finally collapsed to the ground.

"Ugh..." Park Heung-tae yelled in agony, as he rolled on the ground in pain.

"Young man, you can't insult Erudian wrestling," Levi reprimanded him before leaving with Abigail.

Silence ensued.

No one had expected that the devil incarnate, Park Heung-tae would end up in such a situation.

Levi had simply punched him once, but he had ended up badly hurt.

Now, it seemed like Taekwondo was trashed instead!

The news spread like wildfire.

Right then, in Zoey's new company at Union Square.

Zoey was discussing her collaboration with Park Guk-chang.

After gaining a foothold in North Hampton, Park Guk-chang surveyed the market, before realizing that Zoey's company had huge potential and would be the perfect partner for him.

At this moment, he received a phone call.

“What? My son is in the hospital because someone has beaten him up?”

Park Guk-chang’s expression darkened.

“Ah? Are you okay, Mr. Park?” Zoey inquired.

“Ms. Lopez, I have to go. My son has been beaten up, and he’s in the hospital right now. I need to go to him,” Park Guk-chang explained.

“Let me come with you,” Zoey responded, as their collaboration was extremely important to her.

“Sure.”

They soon arrived at the hospital.

“Who did this to you?” Park Guk-chang urged.

“A man named Levi Garrison!”

“What? Levi Garrison?”

Zoey’s face fell.

The Protector Chapter 326

Park Guk-chang demanded, "Do you know him?"

"He's my husband," Zoey answered honestly.

"Ha! What a coincidence. Your husband did this to my son? How?" Park Guk-chang was furious.

The medical report showed that Park Heung-tae had sustained multiple fractures, including facial fractures.

The punch left him a helpless wreck. He was lucky enough to have survived.

"Think about how you should settle this matter. I demand an explanation! I'll be frank with you. The wealthiest man, Winston, is my backer! I will pursue this matter!" Park Guk-chang uttered in a stern tone.

Zoey walked to a quiet zone and called Levi at once. "Do you know you're in trouble?"

Levi was surprised. "Huh? I'm in trouble?"

"Did you punch someone?" Zoey snapped.

"Yes, I did. But it was a friendly competition. The other party said that if he got hurt, it would have nothing to do with me," Levi replied.

"Ugh. Why do you like to get into trouble? You're in deep s now!"

Zoey was so infuriated she hung up at once.

She returned to Park Guk-chang. “Mr. Park, we’ll take full responsibility for this. I hope that we can settle this out of court. We’ll pay for the hospital bill and compensate you.”

Park Guk-chang glared at her. “No! I won’t go easy on you!”

Zoey asked, “Then what do you want me to do?”

“Easy. Your husband should suffer twice as much as my son has. My son fractured twelve ribs, so your husband has to fracture twenty-four ribs. The same goes for the other injuries, too.”

“Then, you shall sleep with me for one night. I will stop pursuing this matter if you agree,” Park Guk-chang suggested.

The first time he saw Zoey, he was attracted by her beauty.

This was the perfect opportunity for him to score her.

“No!” Zoey declined at once.

“I insist on compensating you. We can pay any amount that you demand,” she uttered.

Park Guk-chang sneered, “Compensation? Do you think that I need money? You’ll have to play by my rules!”

“If you don’t agree, I’ll ask the Gonzales family to talk to you!”

A cold glint shone in Park Guk-chang’s eyes.

Zoey’s face darkened, as her heart lurched anxiously.

It was obvious Park Guk-chang was trying to force her to cave in by threatening her with the Gonzales family.

If the wealthiest family around intervened in this matter, they would be in deep trouble.

However, if this were brought to court, Levi would be jailed for a few years.

If they settled it out of court, the Gonzales family would ensure that Levi was punished twofold and she would be sexually assaulted as well.

Compared to the Gonzales family, they were nothing.

“I’ll give you a few hours to think about it,” Park Guk-chang snorted.

After leaving the hospital, Park Guk-chang rushed over to the Gonzales family house to ask for Winston’s help.

“Mr. Gonzales, are you the most powerful man in North Hampton?” Park Guk-chang asked.

Winston’s face fell as he admitted, “Yes, I am. Everyone fears me in North Hampton.”

“But my son was assaulted after mentioning your name. He’s now lying in the ICU,” Park Guk-chang complained.

“What? He’d mentioned my name but was assaulted?”

Winston stood up abruptly.

No one in North Hampton dared to disrespect him!

Park Guk-chang showed him the medical report and explained the incident briefly to Winston.

“How ridiculous! How dare he hurt someone under my protection?” Winston was infuriated.

The Protector Chapter 327

The other Gonzales family members reacted similarly.

Their family’s reputation was very important to them.

“Tell me. Who’s the culprit? I’ll make sure he pays for what he’s done!” Winston raged.

He had just agreed to protect Park Guk-chang, so he needed to fulfill his promise.

“The man’s name is Levi Garrison,” Park Guk-chang told him, frankly.

“What? Levi Garrison?”

Upon hearing the familiar name, Winston and the others stiffened slightly.

Park Guk-chang was astonished. “What’s wrong? Is he a difficult target?”

“No, he’s someone whom we all hate.”

Una divulged the past incidents to Park Guk-chang at once.

Park Guk-chang let out an icy laugh. “This Levi is nothing but trash. He was hugging his sister-in-law in public. My son fancies his sister-in-law. He said something to them and got assaulted. Mentioning your family didn’t work, too!”

“How dare he look down on our family?”

Winston was infuriated. “He’d even beat up your son. I’ll make sure that he pays for what he did!”

Park Guk-chang was elated.

It had turned out that so many people had hated Levi, including the Gonzales family.

That’s good news!

With the Gonzales family’s support, I’ll get to avenge my son and sleep with Zoey.

“Tell Luke to come see me,” Winston ordered sternly.

Soon, the Gonzales family’s security team leader, Luke Gonzales, showed up.

Luke was a retired mercenary, and he was a skilled fighter.

He was known as the top fighter in North Hampton!

Even the God of War, Liam Macy’s subordinates could not defeat him.

Hence, Luke was Winston’s trump card.

“Luke, accompany Mr. Park to meet Levi and tell him what he should do. Say it’s Winston Gonzales’ order!” Winston announced.

“Yes, Sir!”

A menacing glint flashed across Luke’s eyes.

At night, when Levi returned home, he got scolded by an angry Zoey.

“You’re in deep trouble. Park Guk-chang is backed by Winston. How should we fight against him? Besides, why did you beat him up? Are you crazy?” Zoey roared.

“Zoey, you’re wrong. Park Heung-tae was the one who’d kicked up a fuss. He said it was a friendly competition and that if he got hurt, it would have nothing to do with us. Besides, he had also hurt my senior!” Abigail explained to her.

“Yes, he might’ve said that, but it’s different now because he’s hurt!” Zoey still appeared to be upset.

Right then, someone knocked on the door.

When the door was opened, they saw Park Guk-chang with Luke and his men.

“You’re Zoey and Levi, right? I’m Luke Gonzales, here by the order of Mr. Gonzales. Before midnight, at twelve, if the both of you come to the Lafite Mansion to receive your punishment, he’ll let you off the hook. Otherwise, the Gonzales family will do all that we can to punish you!” Luke threatened.

“Yes, you must pay the price!” Park Guk-chang yelled.

“You’ve got it wrong. Your son was the one who’d started it. He’d said that it was a friendly competition and that it was fine to get hurt!” Abigail defended them.

Clap clap! Park Guk-chang clapped his hands.

Instantly, dozens of her friends appeared behind him.

“No! Levi was hugging Abigail on campus. Park Heung-tae saw them and wanted to stop them, but Levi beat him up!”

“Yes, Levi was the one who’d started it.”

“I’d heard it with my own ears. Levi kept insulting them, claiming that Taekwondo was trash!”

Abigail was stunned.

How dare they twist the facts?

The Protector Chapter 328

“Nonsense! Park Heung-tae started insulting Erudia first. As Erudians, where is your conscience? Did you forget how he’d insulted our country this morning?” Abigail cried.

These students stiffened, but swiftly retorted, “Ha! Did he? No, he didn’t. Park Heung-tae is a kind person. How would he insult Erudia?”

“Yes, you have an affair with your brother-in-law and had beat him up because he’d caught you in the act!”

A repeated slander made others believe it.

As so many people were condemning Levi and Abigail, even Zoey was embarrassed by their accusations.

“No! Park Heung-tae hit Kyle first! We can ask Kyle to prove our innocence!” Abigail suddenly suggested.

At the same time, Kyle revealed himself. He was standing at the back of the crowd the whole time.

“Impossible. Levi was the one who’d hit me. I was condemning him with Park Heung-tae, but he did this to me!”

Kyle was glaring at Levi viciously.

Park Guk-chang was smug. “What else do you have to say?”

“Levi and Abigail have to apologize! Levi must pay for what he’s done!” Kyle and the dozens of students shouted.

It was as if Levi was in the wrong.

Between the Gonzales family and Levi, Kyle chose the Gonzales family.

Thunderstruck, they instantly understood what was going on.

The Gonzales family and Park Guk-chang had arranged for everything to happen.

No matter how wealthy Kyle’s family was, he dared not go against the Gonzales family.

They pushed the blame to Abigail and Levi, using the Gonzales family’s influence to twist the truth!

Levi felt chills spreading across his chest upon that sight.

Where are their consciences?

Back then, when Park Heung-tae insulted Erudia, everyone was involved.

When I took action, they cheered for me.

But now, they are turning their backs to me by framing me.

Well, that's disappointing.

Abigail knew why these students were willing to commit perjury. Besides the Gonzales family and Park Guk-chang's coercion, Park Heung-tae was an exchange student, so they had no choice but to do so.

If they offended the exchange students, they'd be ostracized by other students, as exchange students enjoyed a high status on campus.

Right then, the Lopez family rushed over after hearing the news.

Even Iris who lived next door, arrived.

After hearing the claims, they started hurling out accusations.

"I was right! Levi's nothing but a beast! He's harbored indecent thoughts for my sister-in-law, and now, he's involved with his other sister-in-law!"

"He's even offended the Gonzales family. He's dead meat for sure!"

"I suggest for Zoey to divorce him as soon as possible!"

Fabian and the others spoke up.

Even Iris appeared exasperated. "Why did you beat him up with no reason? You're in deep trouble now, for offending the Gonzales family."

“Isn’t Zoey good enough for you? Why did you seduce Abigail?”

Indeed, Levi and Abigail were rendered speechless.

This time, Park Guk-chang and the Gonzales family had an absolute advantage.

“From what I know, Park Heung-tae holds a black belt in Taekwondo. You must be good at fighting, huh? Why don’t we fight?” Luke stared at Levi, seemingly interested in him.

“What? You’re Luke Gonzales, the top fighter in North Hampton?”

Harry and the others’ expressions changed abruptly.

They had heard about this man. Normally, he would stay out of minor matters. However, if he took action, he would often cripple or kill his opponent.

Levi was done for!

He was screwed.

“Remember, come to Mr. Park before twelve, at midnight. If you don’t show up, everyone here should prepare to suffer from the Gonzales family’s wrath!”

The Protector Chapter 329

Luke left right after warning them.

Before Park Guk-chang left, he shot Zoey a smirk.

I must sleep with her no matter what.

After Luke and his men left, the Lopez family started cursing.

Levi had brought them into this mess by offending the wealthiest Gonzales family!

No one could afford to offend them.

“Quick, go see him now!” the Lopez’s urged.

Caitlyn was sobbing profusely. “Why won’t you stop inviting trouble? We’re finally living well, but you had to do this to us!”

Aaron sighed, “Why did you offend the Gonzales family out of a sudden?”

“You must go for Zoey’s sake!” Iris told him.

However, Zoey refused to let Levi leave. “No! If you go, they’ll beat you up!”

“Levi, if you’re a man, you should bear the responsibility for your own actions!” Iris, Harry, and the others reprimanded.

“Okay, I’ll go,” Levi agreed.

“I’ll come with you.” Zoey stood up.

“There’s no need for that. I can handle it myself.”

Meanwhile, Park Guk-chang was waiting at Lafite Mansion.

Luke had left earlier on, as the Gonzales family was only used to intimidate them.

Finally, at twelve, Levi arrived`.

“Mm? You’re here alone? Zoey must be here, too!” Park Guk-chang chortled.

With the Gonzales family’s support, he was certain that he would get Zoey soon.

Upon seeing Levi, Park Guk-chang’s men surrounded him immediately.

To their astonishment, Levi was not nervous at all. He plopped down onto the sofa and lit a cigarette.

His calm demeanor caught Park Guk-chang by surprise.

What is he doing?

“Winston Gonzales is your backer right?” Levi inquired.

“How dare you address Mr. Gonzales in such a manner!” Park Guk-chang roared.

Smiling, Levi replied, “Winston Gonzales? He’s a mere prey to me.”

“What? How dare you insult him?”

Park Guk-chang and his men were incredulous.

“So what if I’d insulted him? I can beat him up too!” Levi smoked as he told them calmly.

“What? The nerve of you! Today, I’ll help Mr. Gonzales punish you! Beat the crap out of him!” Park Guk-chang demanded furiously.

Dozens of men rushed to Levi at once.

Bang!

However, right then, the door crashed open with a huge bang.

Dozens of mercenaries with different skin colors rushed into the mansion.

Crackle, crackle...

The team of mercenaries led by James was so skilled, that Park Guk-chang's men were defeated in no time.

"Him, too!"

Levi pointed at Park Guk-chang.

James strode over to Park Guk-chang and grabbed his collar as though he was a little chick.

Thump!

He punched Park Guk-chang so forcefully that blood spurted out from him.

Park Guk-chang was stunned.

Thump!

Thump!

James continued punching Park Guk-chang until he fainted, his blood pooling on the ground.

In the end, Levi finished his cigarette before leaving the scene.

When Levi returned home uninjured, everyone was shocked.

“Huh? What happened? Didn’t they find fault with you?”

They stared at Levi, utterly confused.

“No. I’ve solved the matter. It’s fine, you can go home now!” Levi answered.

Meanwhile, Winston was asking Una, “How did it go? Did Park Guk-chang cripple Levi?”

“Grandpa, let me ask them.”

Una wanted to see Levi getting beaten up too.

“What? Park Guk-chang is in the hospital because someone had beaten him up? He’s faring worse than his son?”

Una was dumbfounded to hear that, after she made the phone call.

The Protector Chapter 330

It was late at night, but Winston, Una, and the others rushed to the City First Hospital.

Park Guk-chang had survived, but he was still unconscious.

Upon seeing Park Guk-chang wrapped up like a tortilla in the ICU, Winston could feel his anger boiling up.

Park Guk-chang was small fry, but he was backed by Winston.

As he had gotten beaten up, it had harmed the Gonzales family's reputation.

Winston could not allow that to happen.

"Levi Garrison! I can't take this anymore! Since you keep provoking me, I won't let you off the hook!" Winston howled angrily.

"Levi knew that Park Guk-chang was backed by us, but he'd hurt him nonetheless. He paid no heed to us and has insulted us!"

The other members of the Gonzales family were infuriated.

"We must cripple Levi! Otherwise, it'll be detrimental to our reputation!"

Soon, news about Park Guk-chang's injuries spread to the Lopez family.

They were shocked to hear such news.

It was revealed that Levi had handled the matter by beating him up.

"B! I'll kill him now!" Harry was enraged.

Zoey received his phone call and immediately woke Levi up.

"What did you do? Did you hurt another person? Do you want to ruin my life?" Zoey almost burst into tears in anger.

How can Levi court disaster so easily?

"Don't worry, the Gonzales family will apologize to me in no time," Levi replied confidently.

“You’re beyond saving.”

Zoey could not sleep and went to Iris for help, while Levi resumed in his nap.

The next day.

News spread around North Hampton swiftly that someone had provoked the wealthiest man around... Winston Gonzales, in public.

Beating Park Guk-chang was akin to humiliating Winston.

In the morning, the Gonzales family’s fleet of cars was lined up outside.

Winston wanted to teach Levi a lesson to show the entire North Hampton that he was still as influential as he had been, previously.

Before they left, Winston’s son, Andy ran towards him.

“Dad, what are you doing?” Andy inquired curiously.

“We’re going to teach Levi a lesson!” Winston replied.

“You can’t go now. The new commander-in-chief, Percy Covington, is about to arrive in North Hampton. The North Hampton Chamber of Commerce will find out about his arrival soon. We must pick him up before they do!” Andy seemed anxious.

“So soon?” Winston was surprised.

“Yes, I have no idea why Commander-in-Chief Covington arrived in North Hampton earlier than expected. After receiving the news, I came over at once,” Andy responded.

“Hurry! Let’s go and pick him up now. We can’t let the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce get ahead of us!” Winston urged.

“Grandpa, what about Levi?”

As Una wanted to humiliate Levi as soon as possible, she was impatient.

Winston thought about it and consoled her, “We’ll have plenty of chances to punish him in the future. Besides, Commander-in-Chief Covington has just arrived. We shouldn’t leave a poor impression on him now.”

“Grandpa, you can go and pick Percy up while I bring Luke over, to teach Levi a lesson. He’s just a commoner, so it won’t leave a bad impression,” Una suggested, refusing to give up.

“Sure. You can take care of Levi.”

Winston turned to order Luke, “Protect her well!”

Luke nodded. “Don’t worry, Sir. I’ll be right by her side!”

Luke was confident that he could cripple an ordinary man like Levi in no time.

He thought that he was overqualified for the job, actually.

The Protector Chapter 331

“Let’s go, Luke.”

After Winston had left, Una led Luke and his men to Levi.

Soon, the Gonzales family arrived at the airport.

“Dad, this is Percy’s personal trip. He took a commercial flight. I can’t go to meet him, because even Xander won’t be here,” Andy professed.

Winston grinned. “Don’t worry, I’ll handle this. Today, I’ll bring Commander-in-Chief Covington... No, Mr. Covington around!”

Percy’s flight landed after a while.

Once Winston and the others had spotted Percy, who was dressed in a plain outfit, they immediately went over, to welcome him.

“Hello, Mr. Covington. I’m Winston Gonzales from North Hampton. After hearing news of your arrival, I am here to welcome you,” Winston smiled and greeted.

Percy was taken aback. Greeting Winston in return, he spoke, “Mr. Gonzales, I’ve heard of you.”

“Mr. Covington, I was wondering if you’d come over to my place?” Winston offered.

Percy grinned and rejected his invitation, “Mr. Gonzales, I am here in North Hampton to visit my relative. Sorry!”

Percy and the others were stunned. "Mr. Covington, you have a relative in North Hampton?"

"Yes, I regard him as my relative. He's the third most important person in my life, other than my parents. He's given me a second chance in life, so he's a close relative to me!" Percy chuckled.

"Let me give you a ride."

Percy was about to say no, but Winston hurriedly added, "Mr. Covington, please don't refuse. Others will find out about your arrival in North Hampton and come to you. If you don't want them to disturb you, I can arrange for your trip to be a smooth one."

On second thought, Percy realized that Winston was right.

He could send him away, but others with the same intention would come to disturb him.

"Thank you, Mr. Gonzales."

In the end, Percy got into Winston's car.

"Where are you heading, Mr. Covington?" Winston inquired.

"Bayview Garden," Percy answered with a smile.

Indeed, he came to North Hampton earlier so that he could meet Levi.

If he arrived in North Hampton just in time for his appointment ceremony, he would be busy with work.

The reason he arrived earlier was so that he could spend some time with Levi.

“Bayview Garden? Sounds familiar,” Winston mused. However, he thought little about it.

Meanwhile, Una arrived with her convoy of cars.

Hundreds of men alighted from the cars and strode towards Levi’s house menacingly.

Everyone who saw them hurriedly stayed out of their way, and the security guard had already disappeared.

Zoey and Iris were next door, when the men had arrived. Zoey instinctively wanted to head out, but Iris stopped her from doing so.

“You can’t go! The Gonzales family sent these men, so Levi has to handle them himself!” Iris urged.

Thump, thump, thump...

The Gonzales family’s security team knocked on the door continuously.

Their incessant knocks woke Levi up. He came to the door, utterly annoyed.

“You’re so noisy!” he roared once he opened the door.

“How insolent! Levi Garrison, do you know what you’ve done wrong?” Luke demanded.

“What did I do wrong?” Levi retorted.

“You knew that Park Guk-chang was backed by the Gonzales family, yet you’d harmed him repeatedly. Are you paying no heed to us?” Una questioned angrily.

“How dare a lowly family like yours act up in front of me? You have a death wish!”
Levi was furious.

“Levi Garrison, d you!” Una glared at him.

The Protector Chapter 332

Even Una was cursing angrily.

Right then, Winston’s convoy arrived at Bayview Garden’s entrance.

The security guard at the entrance was wondering, why has another convoy arrived? Is something going on?

“Thank you, Mr. Gonzales. I don’t think that you should come, as he dislikes strangers,” Percy smiled and thanked Winston.

“Okay, see you later, Mr. Covington!”

Winston and the others watched, as Percy walked into Bayview Garden.

However, they did not leave at once.

“Find out who’s the relative that Percy was talking about. I want details about that man!” Winston ordered.

“Yes, Sir!”

Winston summoned two of his men. "Come, let's find out which building Mr. Covington is heading to."

Meanwhile, Levi and Una were still glaring at each other.

Luke stepped forward with a mocking smile on his face. "I normally wouldn't have to deal with nobodies like you, but as you've insulted the Gonzales family one too many times, I'm here to teach you a lesson!"

Una sneered, "If you're willing to grovel at my feet, I might consider letting you off the hook."

Levi fixated his gaze on Una.

Suddenly, he slapped Una across her face without warning.

Slap!

That was a crisp and loud slap. Everyone who saw that happened was stunned, let alone Una herself.

As Una felt a stinging pain on her cheek, she belatedly realized that he had slapped her.

"You... How dare you slap me?" Una held her cheek as she stared at Levi in disbelief.

"B! Luke, get him!" she yelled in fury.

Upon receiving her order, Luke took action at once.

Boom!

He struck his fist out, which was accompanied by a blast of air.

The force generated from his punch caused everyone to take a step back.

His punch was so powerful!

It was no wonder that he was the top fighter in North Hampton!

Levi stood rooted to the spot as if he were dumbfounded, so Luke was certain that his powerful and swift punch would wound Levi badly.

Thud!

When Luke's punch was about to land on Levi's face, someone suddenly appeared in front of him and took his punch.

Luke immediately sensed a powerful energy attacking him.

He stumbled six steps back before he came to a stop.

His gaze was filled with shock as he stared at Percy, standing right before him.

Levi did not expect him to show up in person.

Percy might have retired because of his injury, but he was still a skillful soldier.

He was once a courageous soldier on the battlefield who had protected Erudia.

There were no wimps in the Iron Brigade!

"How dare you gather in public? Have you no respect for the law?" Percy inquired icily.

Una defended herself, “Ha! The Gonzales family is the law in North Hampton! You seem skillful. Do you want to work for us? We are going to beat this man up today. Get out of our way!”

Luke was still staring at Percy. It had been ages since he had encountered someone as skillful as him.

“I hate bullies, so I’ll intervene in this matter today!”

Levi might be the God of War, but he would also intervene, even if Levi was an ordinary citizen.

“Do you want to die?” Luke exclaimed in fury.

“Stop!”

When he was about to take action, someone reprimanded him.

Everyone looked back to see Winston approaching them.

“Grandpa, I thought that you’d gone to pick Mr. Covington up from the airport? Why are you here?”

The Protector Chapter 333

Una was curious.

Winston was close to exploding in anger.

Fools! Commander-in-Chief Covington is standing right in front of you!

“Grandpa, we were about to teach Levi a lesson when this fool had showed up. Luke, deal with him!” Una ordered.

Before Luke could take action, Winston strode up to her, slapping her, hard.

Una’s right cheek swelled up at once, and her pretty face was swollen like a pufferfish.

Una was dumbfounded.

She did not expect to be slapped twice in such a short time.

The others including Percy were astounded, too.

“Grandpa, why did you slap me?” Una wailed.

Luke questioned curiously, “Sir, what’s going on?”

Winston barked angrily, “Do you know who he is? He’s the commander-in-chief of the North Hampton Warzone, Percy Covington!”

Everyone gasped in shock upon hearing his words.

They were utterly flabbergasted!

It turned out that the man was a warzone's commander-in-chief.

What a huge misunderstanding it was!

Luke belatedly realized what he had done.

He instantly broke out into a cold sweat.

Even Una was rendered speechless as she gazed at Percy.

She had never imagined that he would be the commander-in-chief.

S, I'd even insulted him and claimed that the Gonzales family was the law in North Hampton!

After Percy figured out what was going on, he scoffed, "So you're from the Gonzales family. You're so different from Mr. Gonzales. He's kind, yet you've acted like a tyrant, claiming that the Gonzales family was the law in North Hampton!"

Even Winston was shocked by Percy's words.

Commander-in-Chief Covington is holding us accountable!

"Commander-in-Chief Covington, the ignorant are not guilty. It was a slip of the tongue. Please don't take it to heart," Winston apologized at once.

"Yes, Commander-in-Chief Covington, we're sorry. Please forgive us!" Una and the others hurriedly apologized.

Luke was so frightened that he was about to grovel at Percy's feet.

“Ha! You should be apologizing to him instead of me! How dare you bring so many people to disturb him in the morning?” Percy uttered in a wintry voice.

“Mr. Garrison, we’re sorry for disturbing you. Let’s call it even!”

Winston was a sly fox and hinted that he would stop finding fault with Levi over Park Guk-chang’s matter.

It was a show, for Percy’s sake.

“Yes, yes. Park Guk-chang and his son deserve to be beaten up!” Una chimed in.

“We’re sorry, Mr. Garrison!” Luke led his men to apologize to Levi.

Upon seeing their actions, Percy nodded in satisfaction.

“This is much better. Mr. Gonzales, I won’t pursue this matter again. Think of it as me returning your favor, as you’ve given me a ride here,” Percy announced.

If we were elsewhere, these people should die, for insulting my God of War!

Percy decided not to pursue the matter further as he did not want to make a big deal out of it.

“Err...” Winston seemed stumped.

It will be hard to bootlick Covington after what has happened.

“I will bring these fools away. See you later, Commander-in-Chief Covington!”

Winston was about to leave with the others when someone spoke up.

“Wait. Did I tell you to leave?”

It was Levi. He was glowering at Winston and the others.

The Protector Chapter 334

Percy won't pursue the matter, but I will!

"What?" Winston and the others were incredulous.

Percy allowed us to leave, but Levi won't?

Is he a leech? Who does he think he is? How dare he provoke our family?

"You've disturbed me this early in the morning. Do you think I am an easy target?" Levi uttered icily.

Winston and the others remained indifferent, but Percy was terrified.

He knew that Levi was mad.

Winston tried to suppress his anger as he inquired, "Mr. Garrison, then what should we do?"

"If you want me to let you off the hook, everyone in the Gonzales family should come and kneel in front of me for one day! Otherwise, you'll suffer from the same ending as the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce by disappearing from North Hampton!"

Levi's voice was like a sharp knife.

Percy was certain that Levi really meant it.

North Hampton is crumbling, and the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce will be taken down as well, he thought.

“Hahaha!” Una burst out laughing.

“Levi, do you think you’re an influential man? Are you using Commander-in-Chief Covington’s influence to threaten us? You’re nothing but a leech! Dream on!”

Winston was infuriated too. “Commander-in-Chief Covington and us, hold no grudges against each other. Don’t use him to threaten us!”

Levi merely sneered, “I’ve warned you the last time, but you’d refused to pay heed to my warning. Fine, go down together with the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce!”

Levi’s statement sent Winston and his men into fits of laughter.

It turned out that Levi was an ambitious man who’d wanted to take down both the Gonzales family and the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce!

“Haha! What a joke. No one in North Hampton can take down our family and the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce! Not even Mr. Nielsen can do so!”

“Yes, no one is capable enough of doing so!”

Winston and his entourage were full of pride.

Messing with them was akin to messing with North Hampton’s foundation!

Who was capable enough of doing so?

“Just wait and see how I’ll deal with your family,” Levi announced coldly.

“Alright. We’ll soon see about that,” Winston and his entourage chortled.

After bidding Percy goodbye, they left immediately.

They were unafraid of Levi. Instead, they were afraid of offending Percy.

“God of War, I am here to see you.”

Percy gazed at Levi excitedly and he was about to kneel.

Three years ago, before he retired, if Levi had not saved him on the battlefield, he would have been dead by now.

Levi was the one who had given him a new life.

“Covington, why are you here earlier than expected?” Levi asked.

“God of War, I am here to see both you and your wife,” Percy smiled and replied.

“Come on in!”

Levi brought him into the house.

Meanwhile, Zoey’s movements were still restricted by Iris.

“Hmm? Why is it so quiet out there?”

Iris went to the window, but realized that everyone was gone.

She ran out together with Zoey. Those people had already left.

“Is Levi in trouble?”

Zoey and Iris entered the house at once.

The moment they entered the house, they were stunned by what they saw.

Levi was talking to a stranger.

Percy spotted Zoey and stood up at once.

“This is?” Zoey asked curiously.

“Covington, this is my wife. That’s her best friend,” Levi introduced.

“Honey, this is my good friend, Percy Covington. He has just arrived from Vermont.”

Zoey greeted Percy warmly upon hearing Levi’s introduction, but Iris folded her arms arrogantly.

She was looking at Percy, her gaze full of disdain.

Levi’s friend? How good can his friend be?

The Protector Chapter 335

She had met plenty of people and thought that she saw right through Percy.

Percy might seem imposing, but he has lost his edge.

Judging from his outfit, he must be in dire straits.

Hence, she was uninterested in him.

“By the way, where’re the Gonzales family’s men? I’d thought that they were here to take revenge on you? Why are they gone?” Iris questioned.

“They’d scuttled away in fear. Just wait and see. They’ll come to apologize to me soon,” Levi declared.

“Ha! The Gonzales family? Apologizing to you? Dream on!” Iris refused to believe him.

Zoey was not going to believe him either.

Percy merely grinned, “I bumped into them, so I talked to Mr. Gonzales and he’d agreed to call it even.”

Iris scoffed, “Who do you think you are? Why would Winston listen to you?”

At once, Zoey made a call to confirm Percy’s claims.

“Iris, it’s true! The Gonzales family agreed to call it even!” Zoey exclaimed happily.

“What? Did that really happen?”

On second thought, Iris proclaimed, “Ha! Mr. Gonzales was kind enough to forgive you guys.”

Percy smiled and kept silent.

Meanwhile, at the largest and most luxurious villa in North Hampton.

“Sir, I’ve asked around, but no one knows who Commander-in-Chief Covington’s relative is,” the housekeeper reported in disappointment.

Winston answered, "That's within my expectations. We would've found out about it if someone else had known about it."

"We'll send someone to spy on Commander-in-Chief Covington to find out who his relative is."

"No, Sir!" Luke hurriedly cut in.

"Mm? Why?" Winston questioned.

"Commander-in-Chief Covington is someone who I had yet to grasp the depths of his abilities. He's almost comparable to me! If you send someone to spy on him, he'll discover for sure," Luke explained.

"What? The commander-in-chief is that strong?" Clint drew in a sharp breath.

"I've heard that everyone in the Iron Brigade is horrifyingly strong. Looks like the rumor is true!"

"We should wait to attend the appointment ceremony."

Winston shot a look at Una. "Una, dress up nicely. You must attend the event in your best attire!"

"Why so, Grandpa?" Una did not know what her grandfather was planning.

"I've heard that the God of War is in his twenties, and he's still single. What if he fancies you?"

Winston's words scratched at Una's heart.

The God of War was the biggest hero in Erudia.

Every woman dreamt of marrying him.

Now that she was given a huge opportunity to meet him, of course, she was elated.

“Yes, we’ll set you up with him. You’ll be a perfect match for him. You can be the God of War’s wife!” Clint exclaimed in delight.

Winston stroked his chin. “Yes, now that we’ve gotten to know Commander-in-Chief Covington, we can ask for his help. That’s very likely to happen.”

Their words immediately stirred Una’s imagination.

She wished that the ceremony would start immediately, so she would get to see the God of War!

The Gonzales family’s plan was to marry Una to the God of War.

“What if the God of War doesn’t fancy her?” someone questioned.

Everyone was rendered speechless by that question.

That was highly likely, too.

Luke suggested, “I have an idea. We can trick the God of War to sleep with Ms. Una. He cannot undo his actions, so he would have to marry her after that!”

Winston’s eyes gleamed. “That is a brilliant plan!”

The Gonzales family was scheming so that Levi would end up marrying Una.

The Protector Chapter 336

While the Gonzales family schemed, the members of the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce were also busy making plans of their own.

After all, Morris Group was finally becoming a threat that they could no longer ignore. Things were getting out of their control, and they were running out of ideas for what to do.

The only plan they had was to somehow find a way to associate themselves with the God of War and Commander-in-Chief Covington.

That was why they had invited Grover Cooke over tonight. They hoped that he would be able to help them come up with an idea.

“Morris Group has been developing at a rapid pace recently. A lot of companies are offering them all sorts of preferential treatment! I guess since it’s helping the economy of North Hampton, that’s a good thing,” Grover mused.

“But at this rate, they’ll soon be taking over our market, which leaves us in a very precarious situation!”

“They’re so ambitious that they’re even going after the Gonzales family businesses! It’s only a matter of time before they come after us next.”

Eric and the others fretted.

“Do you have any ideas, Mr. Cooke?” Clifford asked.

The man in question shook his head helplessly. “Nothing much will come of working from the shadows. You have seen for yourselves their ability to resolve all problems thrown their way.” He paused before suggesting, “Maybe you should try forcefully buying over Morris Group?”

“That might just work!” Eric and the other men’s eyes gleamed viciously.

Baldwin seemed doubtful as he stated, “I don’t think it’s going to be that easy. I’ve heard about how mysterious the boss of Morris Group is. Nobody knows who he or she is.”

Shaking his head, Wallace rebutted, “It’s not that hard. Have you forgotten how we used to buy over the other companies?”

The men exchanged sly looks.

“Alright then, you guys should probably focus on preparing for the ceremony. I’ll have Jesse introduce you to the God of War and Commander-in-Chief Covington when the time comes. With those two supporting you, you’ll still be fine even if you dance a little too close to the illegal side of things,” Grover finished with a smile.

“Thank you so much, Mr. Cooke! The North Hampton Chamber of Commerce shall forever be grateful to you!” the men fervently expressed.

After the incident at the hospital, Morris Group had been flourishing at a quick pace.

The celebrities endorsing their products were also reaping the benefits of this with a huge upsurge of advertisement invitations.

By contrast, business for Everest Entertainment had been getting increasingly worse. It was only a matter of time before they went bankrupt.

Lil Lacey and her manager, Amelia, had it even worse. They had been blacklisted by the entire industry and had not been able to find a single way around the ban.

Their only options left were to either leave the country or change professions.

But there was no way they would just let this go. To them, this was all Levi Garrison's fault. He had destroyed everything of theirs, and he had to pay!

He had to die!

They had been searching for an assassin to hire for several days now. Strangely enough, the underworld of North Hampton had been incredibly quiet, and they failed to find anyone.

In the end, they finally managed to locate a reliable killer who hailed from South City.

Presently, they were lounging on a luxuriously large bed in a five-star hotel. Both were stark naked as they cuddled against a man with a devil tattooed on his chest.

He was Quentin Lane, an underground boxer who they had only been able to hire through some connections.

Notorious in the illegal fighting rings for being ruthless, he had once killed forty-eight men in a single year.

Currently ranked number five in underground boxing, he was nicknamed 'Devil'.

Other than boxing, he was also known for taking on contract jobs like killing or maiming someone. Whatever his mission was, he had never once failed.

Most people would not have been able to hire him. It was only because Lil Lacey and Amelia were willing to sleep with him that he had agreed to come. Of course, they still had to pay for his services.

The Protector Chapter 337

“Mr. Quentin, the underground in North Hampton has been strangely quiet recently. I couldn’t even find an assassin...” Lil Lacey pouted.

Quentin snorted and replied, “That’s because the God of War, Liam Macy, and the King of North Hampton, Jack Smith, have been taken out. Someone cleaned up the underworld, so that’s why nobody took up your contract.”

A worried look crossed her face, “Then are you sure you’ll be okay?”

“Hmph! The North Hampton rules can’t stop me. As long as I kill off the man and immediately return to South City, nobody can do anything to me!” Quentin said confidently.

In the past few years, a lot of rich people hired him to assassinate someone or another. It did not matter if it was within the nation or out; he had never once been caught after killing someone.

This time was no different to him, and he did not think much of his target.

With that, he pinned Lil Lacey beneath him...

One hour later, he got up to put on his clothes.

“Give me his photo. I’ll leave after I’m done with him,” he ordered.

Lil Lacey hastily handed a photo of Levi over to him.

Accepting it, he scrutinized the photo closely, memorizing the man’s features.

From beside him, Amelia piped up, “The money has already been transferred. Please check your account!”

“Alright. Wait for my good news; this shouldn’t take me more than an hour!”

Tossing that over his shoulder, Quentin left.

The two women exchanged gleeful expressions, their eyes shining coldly. “Levi Garrison, you dare to ruin us? Well, you can go to hell! This day next year would be the anniversary of your death!”

Quentin had not actually come alone. He had brought four men with him, each an excellent fighter themselves.

Stabbing a dagger through Levi’s photo to pin it to the table, he commanded, “Find out where he is!”

On the other side of things.

Levi was eating BBQ with Benny and Percy at the aptly named BBQ Street.

With his carefree personality, it was no surprise that Percy got along with Ben perfectly.

The three of them chatted happily about anything and everything under the sun, taking hearty gulps from their cups as they toasted each other.

Being a street that mostly sold food, the appearance of Quentin and his men did not attract too much attention.

However, the menacing aura they gave off had passers-by subconsciously backing away.

They stood just around the corner, spying on the three men drinking and eating BBQ.

One of the men Quentin had sent out came back to report, "Mr. Quentin, it's confirmed. That man is Levi Garrison!"

Quentin nodded. "Okay. Everyone, wait for my signal!"

One of his subordinates queried, "What about the other two men?"

"Kill them too!" A bloodthirsty look entered Quentin's eyes. Right now, Levi was nothing but another dead body in his mind.

"Three!"

"Two!"

"One!"

The group of five dashed toward Levi, with their hands tightly gripping the weapons hidden underneath their suit jackets.

Within seconds, they were upon the three unsuspecting men.

Or so they thought.

In truth, Levi and Percy had detected their presence long ago. They abruptly turned around, taking the five killers by surprise.

"Levi Garrison? Someone badly wants you dead. Now, die!"

Quentin pulled out a dagger from underneath his suit, the glade glinting coldly as he swung it toward Levi.

His four subordinates did the same, attacking Benny and Percy.

Their movements were as quick as lightning and as fluid as water. No wonder they were experts!

All Benny could see was the steel blade flying toward him as he froze to the spot in shock.

The speed was just too fast!

The Protector Chapter 338

A chill wrapped around Benny's body, and he swore his blood was freezing in his veins.

At that moment, it was almost like his spirit had already left his body behind.

So this is what approaching death feels like!

Excitement coursed through Quentin at that moment. His weapon was less than one centimeter away from Levi's neck now. All he had to do was stick it in, and his mission would be complete.

Ding!

The next instant, there was a ringing sound, and he could feel pressure being applied to the blade.

To his shock, Levi had halted the dagger by clenching it between two fingers.

Crack!

Unbelievably, all it took was a deft twist of his fingers, and the blade broke into two.

Squelch!

The broken dagger stabbed into Quentin's body.

How terrifying!

Quentin had been underground boxing for twenty years, yet he had never seen a more terrifying man than Levi.

Thump! Thump!

...

Quentin stared in disbelief as his men were sent flying by Percy, blood spraying out of their mouths.

What kind of fing monsters are these two?

The five of them were some of the best fighters in the underworld, yet before these two men, they were practically trash!

Realizing there was no way they would win, he quickly called out, "Retreat!"

The five men scrambled to get out of there as fast as they could.

Before they could go far, a huge group of men came into sight at the end of the street ahead of them. There were at least a hundred men or more.

The veritable army of men charged toward Quentin and his ilk.

These were Nueve and Trey's men. They had come to help the moment they caught wind of Levi being in trouble.

The assassins' faces fell, and they turned around to head back in the other direction.

They had barely taken a few steps when another throng of men appeared before them.

These strongly-built men were different in that they had varying skin tones and were clearly foreigners.

Leading the group was none other than James.

"Holy cp!"

Quentin could have torn his hair out with frustration as a cold sweat broke out all over his body.

Just who the hell did we piss off? If I had known this man would be so powerful, I wouldn't have come! Now I'm in deep sh! Will I even survive this?!

"Lil Lacey, Amelia Mackie, you bches! You set me up!"

"Brothers, these men actually dared to attack Mr. Garrison! Get them!" James yelled.

Immediately, the two big groups of men swarmed the killers.

Even with their fighting prowess, Quentin and his men were already suffered injuries beforehand. There was also the fact that they were severely outnumbered. In no time at all, they were beaten till they were close to death. Countless bones had been broken, and their own blood stained them crimson.

To add insult to injury, they were tossed into dumpsters at the end.

Shortly after, Levi received a message and departed.

It was from Azure Dragon, who said he had already found out who sent the assassins.

At Hilton Hotel.

Lil Lacey and Amelia were growing more and more anxious as they waited in their hotel room.

One hour passed, and still, there was no news from Quentin.

Needless to say, they were more than a little worried.

“Why isn’t he reporting in?” Lil Lacey gripped her phone and stared at it intensely. It was as if by doing so, it would miraculously chime with a message or phone call.

Certain something was wrong, Amelia urged, “We should leave North Hampton right this instant! I keep getting the feeling like something bad is going to happen.”

“Alright!”

They quickly packed their bags before Amelia went to open the door.

Boom!

The door was slammed open with a kick from the outside.

Crash!

The force behind the kick was so much that Amelia was knocked unconscious by the door.

Azure Dragon and Levi appeared in the doorway.

“And where do you two think you’re going?” Levi asked with a smirk.

“What? How are you still alive?” Shock and fear shone in Lil Lacey’s eyes.

With a smile playing on his lips, he answered casually, “Hahaha, that’s because the men you sent to kill me are trash! I’m pretty sure they’re dead by now!”

“What? No, that’s impossible! He’s Quentin Lane, the Devil of the underground boxing ring. He’s supposed to be one of the best killers out there! There’s no way you could have survived him!” she shrieked madly.

The Protector Chapter 339

“You have been proven guilty of attempted murder. Men, take her away!”

At Levi’s words, Xavier Fields came into the room with a squad of police behind him. Within moments, Lil Lacey and the unconscious Amelia were arrested and dragged away.

Levi was not impressed by this so-called ‘Devil’.

The impudent fool thought he could kill him? Hah! He bit off more than he could chew.

Within the night, news of how the Devil of South City, Quentin Lane, had come to kill Levi but had been killed instead spread like wildfire.

“Hahaha! Does Garrison know no fear? Quentin Lane is the godson of Sebastian Lopez! Killing Lane is basically asking for death!” Winston Gonzales roared with laughter.

Una had an excited look on her face. “Grandpa, does this mean Garrison won’t be able to escape death this time?”

“Of course! Mr. Lopez doesn’t have any children of his own, so Lane was basically his everything. Garrison has really done it this time!” Winston stroked his beard as he chuckled.

“Hah! How dare he threatened our family? This is really karma coming to bite him in the ass!”

Una could already imagine what fate would befall Levi, and she just could not wait.

The appointment ceremony was three days away. Percy had gone back to North Hampton Warzone to prepare, so Levi also went back to work at the company.

Iris, who had just come out of a meeting, received a phone call. A few seconds later, she hung up with her face pale.

Everyone around her could tell something was off about her. One concerned staff asked, “Ms. Annabelle, is everything okay?”

She shook her head and replied, “I’m fine. Casey, could you prepare a car for me, please? I need to go out for a bit. Remember, no driver!”

After that, she left alone to head toward North Hampton International Airport.

When she arrived, a bespectacled man in a suit got in the car when he caught sight of her.

“Louis Lont, get out of my car! I never said you could come in. You’re going to dirty my seats!” she hissed furiously.

Louis took off his glasses and wiped his lens. A smile played on his lips as he said, “Iris, I’m your ex-boyfriend. You should be a little courteous at the very least, don’t you think? Why the sour attitude?”

Rage twisted her pretty face as she growled, “Hmph! Who would want to be courteous to a scumbag like you?”

When she went overseas, she had had a brief relationship with this man. To her disgust, it did not take her long to discover that he was a true scumbag. He had been with eight other women while they were still dating. Eight!

She had instantly demanded to break up and treated this incident as a matter of personal shame.

Proud as she was, she refused to let anyone know about her brief lapse in judgment. Hence, even Zoey did not know about him.

“Why did you come to pick me up at the airport if you didn’t still have any feelings toward me?” Louis chuckled.

He even had the audacity to try and grab Iris’ hand!

“Go away!”

She shoved him away violently and spat, “I didn’t come to pick you up. Just tell me what I have to do before you’ll hand over those things?”

“What’s the hurry? I’m a trustworthy person, really! I’ve helped you keep them secret for so many years and have never once shown them to anyone!”

“You – !” Iris gritted her teeth so hard her jaw ached.

Ever since they broke up, he had been holding a very personal secret of hers over her head and used it to blackmail her.

She had already given him several million in the past few years.

“Speak! How much before you’ll give them back to me?” she asked.

“What I want this time might be a little difficult for you, but you still have to agree. If you don’t, I can assure you that I’ll immediately release your secret to the public. You can be certain that your reputation will be ruined then!” he threatened.

The Protector Chapter 340

“You...” Iris was furious, yet there was nothing she could do about it.

She had thought she would be able to escape him by coming to North Hampton, yet here he was.

He was like a nightmare that she could never shake!

In a chilly tone, she queried, “What are your conditions? How much do you want this time?”

Snickering, he answered, “I don’t want money.”

Money was not something he was currently lacking. The North Hampton Chamber of Commerce had already paid him ten million to come here and had promised him forty million once he got the job done.

Indeed, they were going to use him to buy over Morris Group.

They had searched far and wide before they finally discovered him and his history with Iris. Realizing he held valuable blackmail material over her head, they had hired him to do their bidding.

This was one of the methods they loved to use to obtain other companies. They would either dig for blackmail material on the opposing company's upper management or find the weakest link and use them to attack from within.

Another more ruthless method would be to threaten the upper management staff with their families' lives.

When it came to forcefully buying over a company, loss of life was inevitable.

After all, the business world was like a battlefield.

Lives were lost and blood was shed.

...

This was why the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce was so confident in its ability to obtain Morris Group.

A confused expression crossed Iris' face. "Huh? Then what do you want?"

Chuckling slyly, Louis stated, "I heard you're some bigshot who controls Morris Group now. Your current net worth is probably more than one billion, right? You seem to be doing much better here than when you were overseas!"

A fissure of unease shot through the woman. In a cautious tone, she asked, "What do you want?"

"You're in charge of Morris Group, aren't you?"

"I'm only the vice president, but most of the decision-making power is in my hands."

"So that would mean the president actually leaves you to deal with running the company?"

She nodded. "Yes, that's right."

"Great! Then you can make the decision right now if I want to buy over Morris Group, right?"

His words had the color draining from her face.

She shouted, "What? Are you crazy?! You want to buy over Morris Group? Do you have any idea how much the company is worth? Close to twenty billion! Where are you going to get that much money?"

"Well, not me per se, but my boss!" he amended.

The uneasy feeling in her grew, and she sensed there was something else going on here.

"Who's your boss?"

"The North Hampton Chamber of Commerce! They deliberately sent me here to negotiate with you," he declared as his eyes scrutinized her closely.

"What? The North Hampton Chamber of Commerce?" she repeated dumbly in shock.

The next second, realization dawned, and she could have slapped herself.

They were purposely using Louis to threaten her exactly because he held something of hers!

He uttered, "You have two options. One, Morris Group joins the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce and becomes one of their members. Two, they outright buy over Morris Group."

Immediately, she shook her head. "No way! Morris Group and the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce are business competitors! Our company will never agree to join them."

"They knew you wouldn't agree. That's why I'm here. You said you were in charge of Morris Group, didn't you? Then I would suggest you seriously consider joining them. It would be better for you in the long run." That infuriating smile was still curling his lips.

"Never! We'll never join them no matter what! You can forget about it!" she refused.

The Protector Chapter 341

Tsking, Louis crooned, "Iris, do you seriously think you have a choice? If you don't agree, I'll share what I know with the public. I wonder what they'll think about this rising star of the business world being such a sty woman in private?"

He casually glanced down at the magazine he held in his hands, where a picture of Iris smiled back at him.

It was the cover photo taken when the media had interviewed her previously.

Presently, she was probably even more popular than some other celebrities!

She knew if word got out about her secret, she would be ruined for life.

Thus, there was no way she could allow that to happen!

Foregoing her previous stubborn and hard attitude, she weakly protested, "No matter which option it is, I can't make this decision for the company!"

He spoke up in a confident voice, "Who are you trying to fool? The North Hampton Chamber of Commerce is well-aware you call the shots in the company. All it takes is one sentence from you, and the company is sold!"

Iris felt her mind go blank. They had come after her specifically, which meant they had already planned out everything.

More importantly, she really did have the power to sell the company.

It would not be illegal either. She could just walk off without having to look over her back all the time.

Having given her the stick earlier, Louis thought he would give her the carrot now. “Think about it; even if you offend someone in the process of doing this, the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce will still back you up. They can also promise you the job position you want!”

“Oh yes, by the way, this offer only lasts for today. If you still can’t make up your mind, I’m going to release your secret!”

Face ashen, Iris asked, “One day is too short! Can’t you give me more time?”

“Sure! You just have to meet me at Wonder Hotel tonight. Also, remember to bring ten million with you. Otherwise, no dice!”

With that said, Louis exited the car without waiting for Iris to say anything.

As he walked off, he called Eric’s son, Phineas, “Mr. Robinson, it’s done! That bh Iris will definitely sell off Morris Group within three days!”

“Good job. Have another ten million for your efforts!”

“Thank you, Mr. Robinson!”

Hanging up, he was beyond ecstatic.

“Looks like Lady Luck is smiling on me! At this rate, I’ll be able to earn 60 million AND sleep with Iris! What a wonderful day!”

Although he had Iris’ most personal secret as blackmail, the two of them had not actually slept together before she found out about him dating eight women simultaneously.

That was probably one of his biggest regrets, but it would seem he would finally have the chance.

Iris was slumped in her car seat with a look of absolute despair on her face.

If only she had not been so stupid as to allow him to find her secret...

But hindsight was twenty-twenty, and there was nothing she could do to change the past.

If she were being honest with herself, she felt like that secret of hers was more important than even her life.

She really would kill herself if that got out.

“What do I do? Should I really sell off Morris Group?”

She had no idea what she was supposed to do now.

“Either way, I should head back to the company first.”

She knew what Louis meant by tonight. He was forcing her to sleep with him to extend the time limit he gave.

Lost in a daze, she did not know how she managed to drive back to the company.

Screech! Bang!

Just in front of the company building, she rammed right into another car.

The Protector Chapter 342

The other driver got out of his car, yelling furiously, “What the hell? Are you blind or something? My signal lights were clearly on, yet why did you continue forward and crash into me? You – Eh? Iris?”

It took Levi several moments to register that the other driver was Iris.

To think he had just been cursing how the driver was swerving around the road like a drunken person!

Levi’s loud voice snapped Iris back to her senses. “Huh? What happened?”

His voice was cold as he demanded, “What the heck, you were out of it the whole time? You hit my car!”

He got the feeling something was not quite right with the woman today. She seemed incredibly distracted.

Had something happened?

“Oh. Sorry?” she apologized sheepishly.

After that, she called the garage, and the two cars were towed away.

Frowning slightly, he queried, “Hey, are you okay?”

“I’m fine!” she murmured vaguely.

Levi suddenly said, “Your bra strap is showing!”

“What? Where?” She turned her head to check over herself. It was several beats later before it occurred to her that he was lying.

Pushing this incident to the back of his mind, Levi made his way to his office in the technical department. As usual, he settled down to have some tea and a smoke.

Isaiah approached him, saying, "Mr. Garrison, we don't have enough technicians in the department, so I wish to cultivate some more men."

"Okay. Go ahead!" Levi answered.

Isaiah continued hesitantly, "But we would need a huge sum of money for that..."

"Money isn't a problem. You can cultivate whoever you wish; just let me know, and I'll arrange it!"

"Got it, Mr. Garrison!" Isaiah replied in a delighted tone.

He really enjoyed working with Levi.

Everybody could tell Iris had something on her mind as she seemed incredibly absent-minded today.

She had not reviewed a single document and had basically sat there in her chair dumbly for many hours.

Everyone who worked with her closely on a daily basis was worried about their boss. She used to be so passionate and energetic, nothing at all like the zombie she was today.

"Maybe she's on her period?"

This was the only explanation anyone could come up with.

On the other side of things.

Having suddenly obtained twenty million in a day, Louis was currently enjoying himself at a nightclub.

There were more than a dozen beauties in the small private room he was in, and he had his arms wrapped around the closest two.

“Lont, you little sh, you’ve really hit the jackpot this time!”

The voice who had spoken belonged to a bald man sitting near him. This was Zack, the boss of Bar Street. Some of the biggest bars in North Hampton were under his protection.

Around Zack were several of his most capable men, each built like an ox.

Last time, Louis used to lead an adulterous life and could often be found spending his nights in nightclubs. That was how he grew so familiar with all these thugs.

In the end, it was because of his gambling addiction that he had borrowed more than one million from Zack. Unable to pay the thug back, he ran off overseas to escape his clutches.

Now that he was back and had obtained such a huge sum of money, he wanted to return the money he borrowed.

“Zack, give me your account number, and I’ll transfer you the money immediately!”

One million was practically nothing to Louis now. He had plans to remain in North Hampton for the foreseeable future and would need to maintain a good relationship with Zack if he wanted to run a business here.

Zack puffed on a cigarette, a sleazy smirk on his lips. “By the way, I heard you’re planning on sleeping with Iris Annabelle from Morris Group tonight?”

“That’s right! I hold her deepest, darkest secret in my hands, so she has to spend the night with me!” Louis answered smugly.

The Protector Chapter 343

Zack chuckled and responded, “Just the thought of that bh has me hungry!”

One of his subordinates piped up, “Yeah! She has a smoking hot body. With how cold and innocent she acts all the time, imagine how she would be like in bed!”

Ever since they saw Iris on the front of the magazine, they lost all interest in other women.

It did not matter that there were more than a dozen other beautiful women in the room with them now, all Zack wanted was her.

Compared to her, these women were nothing.

Zack smacked a meaty hand down on Louis’ shoulder. “How about this, Lont. You let us get a turn at her tonight, and I’ll forget all about the money you owe me! Also, from here on out, you’ll be my brother, and I’ll protect you from everything!”

Louis instantly agreed, “Sure! You can have first dibs, Zack, and I’ll go second. The rest of your men should come too! Let’s all see for ourselves how good she can be in bed, shall we? Hehehe...”

“Hahaha, good man!” Zack could not wait!

One of his men asked, “Boss, do we need to prepare some equipment?”

A wicked smile twisted Zack’s face in response. “But of course!”

...

In her office, Iris was staring off into space when her phone rang.

It was Louis.

“Iris, it’s nearly time for you to get off of work. Have you made up your mind yet?”

Clenching her teeth, she squeezed out, “I-I...I have...”

“Okay, then head to Wonder Hotel after you get off work. I’ll come down to personally escort you to my room.”

After he hung up, Louis told Zack and the rest about the good news.

They were absolutely delighted and anticipation had them hurrying to the hotel as quick as they could.

At last, it was time to get off work.

Iris transferred one million to a bank card and stuffed a pair of scissors into her bag before she left her office.

Her actions had the staff feeling puzzled.

Before, she would always work overtime till eleven or even twelve midnight. Yet today she’s leaving at six?

How strange...

But they were just her subordinates, so they did not bother themselves too much with her personal life.

At that moment, Levi finally woke up from his long nap. Stretching out the kinks in his back, he got ready to head back home.

“Don’t you guys think Ms. Annabelle has been acting so oddly today? She hasn’t gotten any work done at all and seemed strangely preoccupied with something.”

“I know, right? It’s so abnormal to see her like this. I’m sure she isn’t on her period either. It’s so weird!”

“I think it started this morning after she got that phone call...”

...

As Levi walked through the company, he overheard some women gossiping about Iris.

Their words had him freezing as a bad feeling rose in his gut.

“Oh no, I think she’s in trouble!” he muttered to himself.

He thought the car accident earlier this morning was a random event.

But it was starting to seem like there was really something strange going on here.

He hurriedly called Phoenix. “I need you to find out where Iris has been and who she’s talked to today!”

“Understood, Sir!”

...

At this time, Iris had arrived at Wonder Hotel.

Louis was already waiting for her in the lobby.

Taking a deep breath to steel herself, she headed toward him.

“We’re not in any hurry, so let me check the money first.”

Despite his eagerness to sleep with her, he still had his head on straight.

He had to get the ten million first before he would indulge himself.

Satisfied he had the money, he lead the way upstairs.

Clutching her handbag tighter, Iris followed along behind him meekly.

A few minutes later, they entered the presidential suite he booked.

Before she could say anything, five men walked out from the depths of the suite.

The baldheaded man at the front was watching her with a greedy smile on his lips...

The Protector Chapter 344

Sensing a bad vibe from these men, Iris backed away warily.

“Who are you guys? What do you want?”

Rubbing his hands together, Zack replied, "Babe, no need to be scared. I just wanna be friends with you! Hehehe..."

The rest of the men chortled as they neared her. "Yeah, baby! We all just want to be friends."

"Louis Lont, you bastard! I'm leaving!"

Spinning around, Iris made to leave but was too slow.

In a flash, Zack had moved between her and the door. Locking it, he turned to step closer to her.

"Why the hurry to leave, babe? I promise I'll be gentle!" he leered as his eyes seemed to be undressing her.

Louis sniggered and stated, "Iris, meet Zack. Don't worry... He just wants to get to know you better!"

Feeling trapped, she shouted, "Louis, what the hell is the meaning of this? What are you trying to do? Have you already forgotten about the deal with the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce?"

Louis twitched slightly as he was reminded of his primary reason for being back in the country.

"Well, didn't you say you wanted more time? Fine, I'll make a deal with you! If you sleep with all of us tonight, I can give you three more days. Decline, and I'll let the whole world see those photos of yours! Oh wait, I have a better idea. Zack, you guys wanna see her private photos? I can show them to you!"

Clearly impatient, Zack was quick to agree, "Of course! Hurry up and let me see them!"

“Wait!” Iris yelled in frustration and anger, “Louis Lont, you’re a devil!”

“Thank you for the compliment!” Louis laughed.

She insisted firmly, “I’ll pay you twenty million, but I’m not doing anything else with you.”

“Zack, just do it! This woman is very conservative and proud. She values her reputation above all else. So as long as we record everything, she’ll definitely listen to us from now on!” Louis revealed.

“Hell yeah! I’ve been waiting a long while for this!”

Zack was about to pounce on her when she pulled out the scissors from her bag.

“Don’t come any closer!” she threatened as she swiped at them with the weapon.

Zack took one step forward before he swiftly punched her wrist. The pain had her yelping and dropping the scissors.

Instantly, she was swarmed by the men, and they dragged her to the bedroom.

Thump!

Zack tossed her unceremoniously on the bed.

Tears of shame and fear dripped down her face.

Despair!

Utter despair!

She had underestimated how heartless Louis could be.

Now there was no one to help her.

All kinds of recording equipment had been set up in the room as well.

She was doomed!

Just the thought of what was about to happen had her wishing to commit suicide.

Eager to get started, Zack hastily undressed and swallowed some pills.

“Let’s begin, eh, boys?”

Just as he was about to crawl on the bed, a voice drawled from behind them.

“What fun this looks like. Do you guys mind if I join the party?”

Louis, Zack, and the other men whipped around in shock, only to see Levi standing there smoking.

“Who are you? What are you doing in my room?” Louis demanded.

A savage expression crossed Zack’s face, and he snarled, “Get him, boys! Beat him up good! I absolutely loathe it when people interrupt me just as I’m getting down to business!”

The Protector Chapter 345

At Zack’s order, his four subordinates lunged toward Levi.

A bloodthirsty look flashed through his eyes. His hand came up in a fist, and he punched the first thug.

Thump!

The thug sailed back a dozen meters before crashing against the wall heavily. When he fell to the floor, he did not move to get up again.

Wham!

Another punch sent another thug flying back.

The last two had it the worst.

Two vicious kicks to the crotch downed them like two sacks of potatoes.

They rolled around on the floor, clutching their lower bodies while letting out pained howls.

Everyone present was dumbfounded.

Who knew that Levi would be so brutal in his attacks?

Schick!

Zack yanked out a dagger from nowhere and stabbed it toward Levi, who dodged it with ease.

Wanting to have another ago, Zack abruptly found his wrist squeezed in a pincer-like grip.

Snatching the dagger from the thug's hand, Levi threw it aside before punching the man.

Agony exploded through Zack's body, and he screamed in pain.

All the blood had drained from Louis' face, and he was as pale as a ghost.

Huge beads of sweat dripped down the sides of his face, wetting his already soaked shirt.

How frightening!

Levi's deadly gaze slowly moved to land on him.

"I-I...It wasn't me...I d-didn't...T-this has nothing to do with m-me..."

He was so terrified that he was babbling.

Levi questioned, "You have some personal secret of Iris', don't you?"

Louis shook his head furiously. "N-no, I-I don't..."

Levi did not speak, merely cracked his knuckles menacingly.

"Y-yeah, I d-do..."

Stretching his hand out, Levi wiggled his fingers. "Give it here."

"Well..." Louis hesitated.

"Pfft!" Levi's fist smashed into Louis, causing the man to scream in pain.

"Give it to me," Levi repeated.

Knowing the consequences of his hesitation, Louis handed his briefcase over to Levi.

“They’re in my briefcase!”

Accepting it, Levi opened it up to reveal a stack of photos and a USB drive.

“Do you have any more copies?” He punched the other man for added measure.

Wailing in pain, Louis truthfully replied, “No! I already planned on giving her everything! With her strong personality, I knew she would kill herself if I pushed any further!”

“That’s good.” A cold glint appeared in his eyes, and his leg lashed out.

“AHHHH!” At that moment, Louis experienced what all men dreaded the most as excruciating pain flared in his body. His whole body was flushed red as he cradled his family jewels, rolling around on the floor.

Struggling to look at Levi, he gasped out, “Y-y-you went back o-on your w-word!”

An innocent smile curled Levi’s lips. “Did I ever say I wouldn’t touch you after you gave me the items?”

“I...” By then, the pain was getting too much, and Louis was close to passing out.

The last thing he heard was Levi saying, “Since you guys can’t seem to control your desires, I’ll help you!”

Lighting up a cigarette, he watched the moaning men on the floor with a grin tugging at his lips.

Just then, the unconscious Iris woke up.

The first person she saw was Levi, standing there calmly as he smoked.

The Protector Chapter 346

Then, Iris saw how Louis and the rest of the men were holding their crotches and whimpering in pain.

Scared and confused, she scurried to Levi's side.

She asked, "D-did you save me?"

Smiling, he nodded and replied, "Yeah. Of course I was the one who saved you."

Glancing around, she could not help disbelieving him. "Impossible! There's no way you're my savior!"

He frowned at her words.

Is there something wrong with this woman? Does she see anyone else around here?

"It must be the big boss! Yes, he must have rescued me!" she cried out in agitation.

Speechless and annoyed, he muttered, "Yeah, that's right. He was the one who saved you."

Technically, he was the big boss, so what she said was true.

"Is he here?" she asked eagerly while scanning the room.

“Nope. The men he sent here have already left. He told me to take you back home.”

“Alright then, let’s go!”

As Iris moved to take a step forward, her knees buckled, and she couldn’t walk an inch. Then, she turned to look at Levi helplessly.

Shaking his head wryly, he mumbled, “How troublesome.”

In the end, he had no choice but to carry her on his back.

Before he left, he made sure to confiscate Louis’ phone.

Sprawled against his back, she felt oddly warm and safe.

Maybe he’s not such a bad person after all.

Even though the person who had saved her was the big boss, the one who was bringing her away from this hell was still Levi.

She burst into tears when she recalled how her secret was still in Louis’ hands.

As if realizing what she was crying about, he handed her a briefcase.

When she saw the contents of the bag, her tears stopped.

“You didn’t sneak a peek, did you?” she asked suspiciously.

“I’m not interested in you at all!” was his reply.

She seethed furiously, “You...”

But what was more important was that she had finally gotten these items back.

These were actually photos of her in revealing clothing or other more explicit photos.

For someone as conservative and proud as her, she did not want her image ruined by having these leaked out.

Louis had copied these from her computer without her knowing when they had still been dating.

Ever since then, he used these as blackmail material for all these years to ransom money from her.

“By the way, don’t tell Zoey about this matter!” she suddenly uttered.

Getting a little annoyed with her, he said impatiently, “I don’t have time to gossip about you.”

She fell silent, pressing her face against his back.

While she felt like Levi was a useless person and did not have many praiseworthy traits, it was incredibly hard to find a man as reliable as him nowadays.

No wonder Zoey refused to let him go no matter what.

After sending Iris back home, Levi went back as well.

“Hmm? Why do I smell a woman’s perfume on you? And blood?” Zoey’s sharp nose immediately detected these unusual smells.

“Huh? Really?” He did not smell anything.

“You even have a woman’s hair on you!” she accused as she plucked a long hair from his shirt.

He hurriedly explained, “It belongs to Iris!”

“Why were you two so close?” She puffed her cheeks up in anger and glared at him. Jealousy flashed in her eyes.

She did not care that it was her best friend; nobody was allowed to be in such close contact with him!

“I-I...”

He did not know what to say. He wanted to explain what had happened, but Iris had insisted he keep her secret.

“I see. Can’t explain it, can you? Well, since you two are so intimate with each other, we should get a divorce! You can go live with her then!”

The Protector Chapter 347

Levi was dumbstruck at the extent of Zoey’s jealousy.

She was even packing her stuff and getting ready to leave!

Fortunately for him, Iris arrived at that moment.

She was traumatized by her earlier experience and was scared to sleep alone tonight. That was why she had come to find Zoey.

Seems like the two of them are arguing over me.

Hastily fabricating a lie, she explained, “Zoey, please don’t misunderstand! I twisted my ankle, and it took me a lot of effort to convince him to carry me back home.”

Zoey relaxed. “Oh. Darling, I’m so sorry for wrongfully blaming you!”

Smiling, he replied, “Honey, you never have to worry. I’m not interested in this woman at all!”

“As if I would be interested in you!” Iris retorted.

Yet somehow, those words seemed wrong the moment they left her lips.

That night, the two women shared a bed while Levi slept in another room.

At the same time.

At Emperor Hotel, Phineas Robinson was busy hosting a very esteemed guest.

This guest came from the Lopez family and held a venerable position in the family.

Only someone from the main Robinson family had the rights to host this person.

It was none other than Wesley. He was here on behalf of the Lopez family for an event.

“Phineas, do you know who Nueve, Trey, and Levi are?” he asked curiously.

The other man replied, “Of course! Levi is currently the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce’s enemy number one!”

“How powerful are they?” Wesley pressed.

“Not that weak, but nothing compared to the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce. Why the sudden interest in these insignificant men?” Phineas wondered.

Wesley sighed. “Well, you know how my second uncle’s godson was killed here in North Hampton two days ago? These three are the culprits.”

Phineas nearly jumped out of his seat in shock. “What? Mr. Lopez’s godson was killed here in North Hampton? I thought his godson was Quentin Lane, the Devil of the underground boxing ring!”

Wesley sighed again. “Yeah. Quentin was supposed to be one of the best fighters out there, yet he still croaked. That’s why I’m asking you about those three men.”

“Well, I would say there’s nothing extraordinary about them. They probably used some sly tricks to kill off Lane. Does Mr. Lopez want revenge? I can help him!”

Wesley shook his head. “No! Quentin is Uncle’s favorite, and now that he’s dead, Uncle is way beyond furious. He vows to get revenge personally! I’m only here as a scout to find out some things for him. As for how we’re going to get revenge on Garrison, that will have to wait for Uncle’s arrival.”

“Mr. Lopez is coming to North Hampton? That would really shake things up!”

Just the thought of it had Phineas shuddering in fear.

Garrison has really done it this time! Of all the men he could have pissed off, he had to piss off the one with the title of Hades!

“Oh, by the way, Wesley, I’m not sure if you know this, but Levi Garrison is part of Morris Group. I’m guessing this incident has something to do with them. Otherwise, why else would he have dared to touch a hair on Lane’s head?”

Phineas deliberately brought Morris Group into the mix, wanting to shift the other man's ire toward the company.

There was a frosty look in Wesley's eyes when he answered, "I know. Someone must be backing Garrison up, or he wouldn't have had the guts to make such huge waves. I don't care who it is; we'll deal with them as well!"

Phineas chuckled.

After Wesley left, Phineas abruptly thought of Louis.

"I wonder how things are going on his side? We're in a hurry here!"

He dialed the other man's number. Before the latter had a chance to speak, he queried, "How are things, Louis?"

"I'm afraid Louis has been, ah, crippled."

The voice coming from the other side of the phone had Phineas tensing.

The Protector Chapter 348

In a terrified voice, Phineas demanded, "Who are you?"

"Levi Garrison!"

"What? You're Levi Garrison?" The shock he was feeling bled into his voice.

Speak of the devil indeed.

“W-what did you do to Louis?”

“I already told you. I crippled him,” Levi said with a chuckle.

Just then, one of Phineas’s men came hurrying over with a box. “Mr. Robinson, somebody sent this to you.”

Curious, he ordered, “What is it? Open it!”

When he saw the bloody contents of the box, he turned as white as a sheet.

“This is...”

Levi’s voice spoke up from the phone, “Louis’ manhood, of course.”

Sucking in a breath, Phineas felt sick. “Garrison, you sick man!”

Levi laughed before saying, “He couldn’t control his lower body, so I took the liberty of controlling it for him.”

A thought occurred to Phineas, and he questioned, “Does this mean Iris’ secrets are with you now?”

“Yup. You should give up on trying to buy over Morris Group.”

“Damn you, what the hell does this have to do with you? You’re just an insignificant staff member!”

Phineas was infuriated. Things had been going so well until that damned Garrison had come along to mess it up!

“You went after my wife’s best friend. Enough said. Besides, I’m a part of this company too! Who do you think got them all those medical supplies?”

A look of confusion descended on Phineas' face. "What? I was wondering how Morris Group managed to obtain all those technologies. It was you!"

In the next instant, he understood.

It was not Neil Atkinson who had dipped his finger in the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce's pie, nor was it the mysterious boss of Morris Group.

It was Levi Garrison!

He had somehow gotten his hands on all those technologies!

This guy has to die!

"I'll say this again. You better not have any ideas about Morris Group!" Levi warned.

"Fine! I'll admit defeat this time. But this isn't the end of this matter!"

After Phineas hung up, he knitted his brows deeply.

There was no way he could let Levi go just like that.

But with the appointment ceremony coming up, this would be a bad time for the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce to be involved in any shady business.

"That's right! Wesley!"

That night, he rushed to meet with Wesley.

"Wesley, I know you said you were only here to find out more information on Levi Garrison, but I think you should just get rid of them once and for all. That way, you could take credit for their deaths. I'm sure Mr. Lopez will be incredibly grateful to you for that!" Phineas suggested.

Wesley's eyes gleamed. Although Sebastian Lopez was not the head of the Lopez family, his words still carried a lot of weight. Other than the head of the family, he did not respect anyone else.

If he, Wesley, really did resolve this matter, then Mr. Lopez would definitely hold him in high regard. When that happened, the chances of him becoming the man's heir would be very high.

"You have any ideas, Phineas?" he asked.

Phineas chuckled slyly. "I'm sure you've heard about what's been going on with the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce recently, so you should also know that now is a bad time for us to do anything. I can lend you my men to deal with Garrison."

Still uncertain, Wesley asked worriedly, "But they must be pretty strong if they can kill Lane."

"Relax! The men I'm loaning you are all top-notch fighters. The Robinson family went to great lengths and spent a lot of money on cultivating these killers. All thirty of them have been raised since young to be the perfect killers and have learned all kinds of fighting skills. I bet you even the elites of the military are no match for them!"

The Protector Chapter 349

"These men are stone-cold killers. As long as you pay them, they'll be willing to kill anyone you want! Nueve and Trey are nothing compared to them!"

Phineas snapped his fingers, and thirty men filed into the room.

Each was solidly built with bulging muscles, not a hint of fat on any of them. Their faces were blank, but a murderous look was apparent in their eyes.

Even Wesley was taken aback at the intense and menacing aura they projected.

Never had he ever seen such malicious-looking men, even in the South Warzone.

Excitement coursed through him and he exclaimed, "Alright! If this mission succeeds, I promise I'll make it up to you in the future!"

For the rest of the night, he was so excited that he could hardly sleep.

The next day.

Levi, Zoey, and Iris left the house together to head to work.

"I'll make an exception today and take you to work," Iris offered as she opened the car door and gestured for the man to get in.

Zoey nodded in permission, asking him to get in as well.

At that moment, in a private villa somewhere.

Nueve was lying on a bed with two women snuggled up on each side.

Crash!

The window was smashed open before ten men charged inside aggressively.

Nueve leaped to his feet, shouting, "Who are you?"

Wham!

The man in the lead, an expert in Muay Thai, knocked Nueve unconscious with one blow.

Meanwhile, in another private condominium apartment.

Trey had just gotten out of bed when someone knocked on his front door.

He had barely opened the door when several men barged inside. Before he could react, they knocked him out cold.

Back at Bayview Garden, Iris had only just started up the car and driven a few meters when –

Screech!

A van suddenly blocked her way, causing her to slam on the brakes.

Ten men exited the van before making their way to her car.

“Roll down the windows, now!”

Terrified, Iris did as ordered with trembling hands.

By contrast, Levi seemed completely unfazed. He still had an arm hanging out the window lazily.

The man in charge took out a photo and glanced between it and Levi. “You’re Levi Garrison?”

Levi nodded. “That’s me. What’s up?”

“Come with us quietly, or suffer the consequences!”

“Why should I?” Levi retorted.

“Because you pissed off someone!”

Frowning, Levi mused, “Who did I offend?”

Getting impatient, the man growled, “Hurry up and come with us! Don’t force our hands!”

“I can go with you, but at the very least tell me who it is?”

“Listen closely! You pissed off Sebastian Lopez of the South City Lopez family. Thus, you have to die today!”

The man directly yanked open the car door and dragged Levi out.

Levi did not resist, allowing himself to be taken to the van. He wanted to get a look at who was after him this time.

Slam!

The van door slammed shut before departing swiftly.

Iris could only stare off into space in shock.

Just then, Zoey came driving past.

Iris quickly hailed her. In a teary voice, she cried out, “Zoey! Something terrible has happened; Levi has been kidnapped!”

Zoey paled rapidly. “What? Levi was abducted?”

She felt herself grow faint at the thought.

Anxiety swamped her as she demanded, “Who did it? We have to save him!”

Iris repeated what she had heard earlier, “I think they said it was Sebastian Lopez of the South City Lopez family. I wonder who he is? The man also said that Levi had to die today!”

Zoey’s eyes brightened at the name. “The South City Lopez family? I have to find Grandpa; he’ll know what’s going on!”

Equally worried, Iris insisted, “Let me come too! Nothing must happen to Levi!”

Ever since he had saved her last night, she had changed her views on the man.

The Protector Chapter 350

The moment Levi was pushed into the van, his captors had blindfolded him to prevent him from seeing where they were going.

He took this chance to rest his eyes as his posture slowly relaxed.

Soon, the van drove through the gates of a private villa.

This was the personal property of the Lopez family in North Hampton, and nearly no one knew about it.

Levi was pulled out of the car before being taken to the basement.

When his blindfold was taken off, he saw Nueve and Trey kneeling beside him. Their faces were swollen badly, showing they had taken a beating before he had arrived.

The two men were clearly surprised to see him. “Mr. Garrison, you too?”

Levi shot them a smile but did not speak.

Though, the sight of him served to relax the two men.

They had been worried about whether they would survive this, but now that he was here, there was nothing to worry about anymore.

Nueve bellowed, “Who are you? Do you have any idea who we are?”

The thirty men remained silent, merely staring at them with killer intent in their eyes.

At that moment, the door swung open, and several men walked inside.

The middle-aged man walking at the front was dressed in a black suit, with a pair of golden-rimmed glasses perched on his nose.

He sneered, “Levi Garrison, Trey, and Nueve, right?”

“Who the f are you?” Trey demanded.

“Let me introduce myself. I am Wesley Lopez of the South City Lopez family!”

“What? The South City Lopez family?” Nueve and Trey exchanged glances with grim expressions.

Comparing the Robinsons to the Lopez family was like comparing a kitten to a tiger. The latter was the biggest family in South City.

While North Hampton took the lead in economic development, South City was just better in general for everything else.

“You know the guy you killed, Quentin Lane? He’s my uncle’s godson.”

Nueve and Trey nodded. “Yeah, we did. However, we only retaliated because he tried to kill Mr. Garrison first!”

Wesley’s expression darkened at their words. “The way you phrase it makes it sound like you both answer to him?”

The two men snickered before Trey spoke up, “But of course! We live to serve Mr. Garrison!”

“It doesn’t matter what you do to us, but your biggest mistake was going after Mr. Garrison!” Nueve added meaningfully.

“Hmm? Why?” A sliver of unease rose in Wesley.

...

Zoey and Iris got to the Lopez family residence as fast as they could.

When Harry caught sight of Zoey, he snorted. “Why have you decided to grace us with your presence so early in the morning?”

“Grandpa, I need your help!” Zoey said tearfully.

At her words, Harry and the rest of the family guffawed.

“To think a day would come where you come asking us for help! You’re the great president, Ms. Lopez, aren’t you?” Henry mocked.

If she had to, Zoey would get down on her knees and beg. As it was, she pleaded, “Grandpa, Levi has been kidnapped! Please save him!”

“Hahaha! Isn’t this just perfect? He pissed off someone he shouldn’t have and is going to get killed for it!”

“Yeah! Good riddance, I say! Rather than leave such trash lying around in the family, might as well get rid of him as soon as possible!”

...

Everyone was chortling merrily at the news of Levi’s misfortune.

Harry took this chance to suggest, “Zoey, Grandpa thinks what has happened to Levi is a good thing as well. You can use this opportunity to divorce him and marry someone else.”

“Grandpa, I won’t divorce him, ever! All I want to do now is save him. Only you can help him now! Please, help us!”

With a thump, Zoey fell to her knees before Harry.

“Zoey Lopez! Have you gone mad? You’re actually kneeling for a rapist?”

The Protector Chapter 351

“Yeah! What’s so great about that little weasel? Is it really worth it for you to resort to this?” Everyone muttered angrily.

Harry furrowed his brow and asked, “Did you say I was the only one who could save him? What did you mean by that?”

“Grandpa snatched a member of the South City Lopez Family! He got on the bad side of someone named Sebastian!” Zoey truthfully reported.

“What? The South City Lopez family? Sebastian?”

Fear struck Harry like a bolt of lightning, turning his legs to jelly.

“What’s wrong with the South City Lopez family. Grandpa?” Shaun asked, puzzled.

“You may be unaware, but we are distantly related to the South City Lopez family. We’re part of the massive Lopez clan. Let me put it this way. We, the South Hampton family, are still leagues away from the South City Lopez family. They would not even grace us with a second look, much less permit us to recognize them as blood relatives! This Sebastian character is even more frightening. His nickname is Hades, and he’s notorious for slaughtering people without mercy! Offending him is the equivalent of earning a ticket to hell!”

After Harry’s elucidation of the situation set in, chills ran up Zoey’s spine.

Levi pissed off such a demon?

This is even more terrifying than the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce!

What do we do now?

“Grandpa, you’re familiar with the South City Lopez Family. You have to know of a way to save Levi!” Zoey burst out, her voice tinged with anxiety.

Harry only shook his head. “Impossible! I’m but a mere bug in the eyes of the South City Lopez Family! I have no right to vouch for Levi at all!”

“I’m begging you, Grandpa! I can’t let anything happen to Levi! Please!” Zoey pleaded desperately, tears raining down her cheeks.

“It’s too difficult! It might end up causing trouble for our family!” Harry shook his head helplessly.

“Grandpa, please help me out just this once! I want to give it our best shot at the very least!” Zoey was out of options.

Harry was unconvinced.

“Please try Grandpa! I’ll agree to anything!” Zoey’s tears gushed out of her eyes.

At her words, Harry’s eyes lit up. “Okay. You said it yourself. You’ll really agree to anything I say?”

Zoey nodded vigorously. “Yes. I will. Grandpa, as long as you save Levi, I swear I’ll do anything you want!”

“Okay then. I’ll see what I can do! If Levi makes it out, you are to transfer the entire company to me and back out of your own accord!” Harry announced.

Zoey froze. Sadness crept over her heart.

Even at a time like this.

Grandpa still chose to plot against her.

“Fine. You have my word!”

She was ready to sacrifice everything in order to save Levi.

“Your word isn’t enough. We’ll sign a contract to seal the deal!” Harry said.

Henry immediately typed out a contract.

After reading through the terms, Zoey signed it.

The Lopezes were delighted.

All of Zoey’s inheritance was finally theirs.

It had been a long and arduous wait for this day.

They trusted Harry inexplicably.

Since he had given his word, success was guaranteed.

Harry was extremely confident.

Decades ago, he had attended one of the Lopez family’s annual meetings. He was granted assurance that the South City Lopez family would support all the family branches.

The South City Lopez family promised to help them with one instance.

Harry had been holding on to this chip for years.

He was wisely biding his time in order to wait for the perfect opportunity.

A window of opportunity had finally shown itself.

After all, Zoey's inheritance was worth close to a billion.

"Okay, let me call and try!" Harry grabbed the receiver of the landline.

"Hello Sir, I am Harry from North Hampton. Unfortunately, I'm calling to trouble you. I would like to activate the promise given to me at the annual meeting!"

The Protector Chapter 352

"Are you certain you want to use it now, Harry? You only get one chance!" The voice on the other end of the call coldly warned.

"Yes, I'm sure!" Harry nodded enthusiastically.

"Okay then. What do you need?"

Harry recounted Levi's situation to the Lopez family.

A moment later, a call was returned.

"The matter has been settled. Sebastian agreed to let him go!"

The South City Lopez family was unaware of Wesley's scheme. Sebastian only agreed to let the matter regarding Levi rest.

Harry was absolutely overwhelmed by this result.

Both Zoey and Iris let out sighs of relief.

Levi was safe.

“Someone print the final contract for the transfer! Once Levi shows his face, we’re signing it!” Harry could not be more eager.

Although bitterness pricked her, Zoey had no regrets.

If Levi’s safe, losing him for the company is worth it!

Meanwhile, in the underground cellar of the Lopez family’s private manor.

Wesley glared daggers at Levi and the rest. “I don’t care who you are! No matter what it takes, I’m taking your decapitated heads to my uncle! Someone come and chop their heads down now!”

After issuing his order, Wesley turned to avoid the imminently gruesome scene.

Thirty men lunged forward, poised to strike Levi and the rest.

With a loud bang, Levi managed to escape his bonds and struck his attacker.

His victim was sent flying across the room.

Another loud bang resonated. This time, he had launched a spinning kick which propelled another attacker backwards.

Levi was taking on the battle by himself.

He weaved into the crowd, throwing a series of rapid attacks. Each extension of his limb resulted in the collapse of at least one of his opponents.

Within thirty seconds, all thirty mercenaries were sprawled over the ground.

All of them had at least seven or eight broken bones.

Nueve and Trey were frozen in shock.

They had never seen Levi in action and assumed he was a regular man.

Neither expected him to be a master of combat!

Wesley sensed that something was wrong and slowly turned around.

The moment he turned, terror seized him.

All the trained experts were defeated?

It's insanely impressive!

“Sebastian was it? Send him a gift on my behalf!” Levi stalked over and came to a stop right in front of Wesley.

Wesley spluttered, “What gift?”

Bang!

One swift kick to the shin and a horrible cracking sound echoed through the room.

Crack!

Crack!

Crack!

Three more kicks followed in succession. All of Wesley's limbs had been broken.

With a strangled howl of agony, Wesley finally understood what Levi meant by 'gift'.

He succumbed to the darkness shortly after.

"Dig into the identities of these people! They were no ordinary men!" Levi instructed Nueve and Trey.

Once they departed the manor, Levi started on his journey back to Zoey.

In the Lopez family residence.

"Grandpa, is Levi out of danger yet?" Zoey urgently pressed.

"I'm sure he's fine, Sebastian gave his word that he would drop the matter!" Harry muttered dismissively.

"Let's give it a while more. As a last resort, we'll just call the police!" Iris did not trust the Lopez family at all.

Just then, Levi strolled in.

"See? I told you he was fine!" Harry grinned triumphantly.

The rest of the family gazed at Harry with unadulterated admiration.

Grandpa is amazing. He managed to convince the South City Lopez family to release Levi after a single phone call.

Even Iris had to admit Harry was impressive.

The moment Zoey laid eyes on Levi, she leapt into his arms, pulling him close.

The Protector Chapter 353

Zoey had never been more fraught with worry in her life.

“I’m fine! There’s no need to cry! Let’s go back!” Levi murmured comfortingly.

“Why don’t you head to work with Iris? I have some business to discuss with Grandpa.” Zoey said.

“Okay.”

Iris led Levi out and they made their way to the office.

Zoey signed the transfer papers and Harry insisted on taking them to a lawyer’s office for verification.

“From now on, Ms. Lopez will have nothing to do with Imperial Meadows.” The lawyer declared.

“Yes, yes, I know.” Zoey could not stop the tears which surged and overflowed.

“Wait, you’re so capable Zoey. Why don’t you come work for my company?” Harry offered facetiously.

“No thanks!” Zoey resolutely turned him down and left the family residence, her cheeks wet with tears.

“Hahaha...”

Uproarious laughter erupted from the rest of the family.

Only a few months till Zoey’s inheritance becomes all ours!

At long last, the day has finally come!

“Tonight, we’re celebrating at the best hotel in town!” Harry was at peak jubilation.

“Father, should we invite Aaron?” Harry giggled smugly.

“Of course! We need to let the unfilial maggot see for himself how I’ve gained control of his family’s properties! Hahaha...” Harry guffawed gleefully.

Zoey scurried back to Bayview Garden.

She had lost everything.

She would most likely be unable to afford the rent from then on.

But she had no regrets.

Levi was safe, and that was all that mattered to her.

Iris neglected to inform Levi of this development, hence he was none the wiser.

“Mr. Garrison, we’ve found the information you requested! Those people were trained assassins who belong to the Robinson family!” Nueve reported.

Things instantly clicked for Levi. The Robinsons were the ones pulling the strings.

“Good. Once the swearing-in ceremony is over, you guys will be the first to go!” A flash of steely hostility crossed Levi’s gaze.

After work, Iris brought Levi back.

Before she exited the car, Iris issued an austere remark, “Treat Zoey well. The burden of the family rests on your shoulders from now on!”

Levi found her words strange.

I’ve always been good to Zoey!

Back home.

Zoey looked like she had been crying.

“What’s wrong, honey? Why the tears?” Levi asked with curious concern.

“It’s nothing. I just felt like crying for some reason...” Zoey dried her eyes.

“You have a weird hobby...” Levi smiled.

Suddenly, someone pounded on their door.

When Levi opened the door, Aaron and Caitlyn bolted past him straight towards Zoey.

“What’s wrong with you, Zoey?” They asked in surprise.

Zoey’s voice caught in her throat and she struggled to come up with a reply.

“What’s wrong? Did something happen to Zoey?” Levi was bewildered by their reactions.

Aaron shot Levi a glare. "Don't you know what happened? Because of you, Zoey gave her entire inheritance to the Lopez family!"

"Exactly! She's now penniless!" Caitlyn roared.

"Wait. What?" Levi was floored.

"You were captured by the South City Lopez family so, in order to save you, Zoey agreed to Father's terms. Your safe return in exchange for her entire inheritance!"

"Since you were saved, Zoey had to make good on her word!"

"It's all your fault! We were beginning to see the light at the end of the tunnel, but you wrecked it! Why did you have to offend the Lopez family?"

Aaron and Caitlyn were ready to unleash their fury on Levi.

The Protector Chapter 354

"I admit to pissing off the South City Lopez family. But Harry was not the one who saved me. I managed it by myself! It had nothing to do with him!" Levi explained in frustration.

He turned his attention to Zoey. "You've been tricked. It really wasn't Harry who saved me. Why didn't you just ask me?"

Zoey was stunned.

She believed Levi.

“As if! Don’t you know who Sebastian is? They’re on par with the most elite family from North Hampton. How would you be able to make it out on your own after incurring their wrath?”

“Exactly! We all saw Father make the call to Sebastian, who promised to let you off!” Aaron and Caitlyn snapped.

Zoey was also looking at Levi suspiciously.

None of them would believe his claims.

Levi did not bother to explain himself any further.

After all, regardless of what he said, his words would not be taken seriously.

Harry had chosen the perfect opportunity to wrap everyone around his finger.

Further elaboration was futile.

“Levi, please reflect on yourself! Zoey made the ultimate sacrifice all for your sake! She lost a multi-million company!” Aaron was close to tears in distress.

Levi was visibly touched by Zoey’s sacrifice.

She really loves me.

After all, a few million is more than enough to test one’s loyalty.

Yet, she chose to save me even if it meant losing a few billion.

“Since the company has already been transferred, there’s no point in crying over spilt milk! I’ll help Zoey start up a whole new company, one which will take the world by storm!” Levi asserted.

It aligned perfectly with the plan he was about to execute.

Soon, he would be purging North Hampton.

When the time came, there would be a surplus of resources in the market.

It would be the perfect opportunity for Zoey to step in.

She would also be helping Morris Group to share the load.

Then, no one would care about the crummy company the Lopez family stole.

“You’re all talk. Luckily, you work for Morris Group, else I would beat you to a pulp!” Aaron and Caitlyn smiled wryly as they exited.

Zoey beamed. “Stop teasing me, honey! As if I would be able to take the world by storm!”

“I’m serious! North Hampton is about to undergo a big shift! Just wait and see!” Levi announced.

He’s just trying to comfort me. I need to smile for his benefit.

“The Lopez family better watch their backs! I won’t let them get away with it so easily!” Levi’s eye glinted menacingly.

As the sun slowly disappeared below the horizon, the Lopez family was enjoying a stupendously lavish banquet.

“They didn’t even bother to show up!” Henry and a few other people screeched.

“Father, I suggest we scratch their names entirely off the family register! They’re as poor as church mice now!” Henry suggested.

Fabian nodded in agreement. “Yes, that’s right. We’ve milked them for all they’re worth! What’s the point in keeping them around!”

“Yes yes! The Lopez family is now worth over a billion! How could we accommodate people like Aaron? How humiliating!”

“They’ll definitely come crawling back for help in the future. How bothersome!”

The rest of the people jabbered and brayed.

Harry was slightly tipsy and he nodded excitedly. “Okay! We’ll remove them from the family register at the family meeting tomorrow! From then on, we won’t have anything to do with them!”

“Hahaha. That’s great!” Henry and the rest applauded delightedly.

The next day.

Zoey and Levi were still slumbering.

An urgent call woke them abruptly and tore them from away Morpheus’ realm.

The call was from Aaron, who told them to hurry down to the Lopez family ancestral home.

The Protector Chapter 355

By the time Levi and Zoey rushed to the scene, Aaron and Caitlyn had already arrived.

The location had been intentionally picked to be the family ancestral halls.

“Dad, Mum, what’s wrong? What’s the rush?” Levi asked, puzzled.

“We don’t have a clue either! We were just told to meet at the ancestral halls. I think they’re announcing something big!” Caitlyn answered.

Aaron knitted his brows. “My right eyelid won’t stop twitching!”

Shortly later, Harry arrived with the rest of the Lopez family party at the ancestral halls.

Henry and the rest smirked sinisterly.

An uneasy feeling settled in the stomachs of Levi and the other three.

But they were certain of one thing. Nothing good could come out of this.

Harry seated himself on the wooden chair in front of the shrine and the rest took their seats according to seniority.

Harry quickly scanned the scene and sternly boomed, “Is everyone here?”

Fabian nodded in response. “Everyone is here Father!”

Harry was the first to offer up a joss stick.

“It’s been some time since we had a family meeting at the ancestral hall! Today’s meeting was called to announce...” Harry’s gaze fell on Aaron.

“After a long discussion with the family, I, of the North Hampton Lopez family, have decided to expel Aaron and his family from our clan!” He stated plainly.

Once the last word left his lips, every person present gaped in astonishment.

Levi and his family's faces fell.

“What? Kicked out?”

The news was earth-shattering for the three of them. They could almost see their world crumbling around them.

We're being removed from the family register!

What could be worse?

Such a blow threatened to push them off the cliff into the chasm of insanity.

Aaron looked at Harry in utter disbelief.

Caitlyn immediately dissolved into tears.

Tears were brimming in the rims of Zoey's eyes.

Grandpa just robbed me of my assets worth close to a billion. How could he go so as far as to burn all our bridges? How could he force us out of the family?

She could only sigh in resignation.

“All in favor, raise your hands!” Aaron yelled.

In a flurry of movement, the hands of Fabian and many others shot into the air.

“It's settled! The move to remove Aaron and his family has the majority vote!” Henry chuckled.

He was completely indifferent to the feelings of the four people in question.

“Good luck to you guys. From now on, the North Hampton Lopez family shall have absolutely nothing to do with you! Please do not involve us in your matters from here on out!”

“I, Harry Lopez, are henceforth severing all ties with you! We shall be no better than strangers from now on!”

“Get out!” Harry ordered cruelly.

“Get out of the family! Get out of the family! Get out of the family!” The rest of the people chanted with ruthless determination.

“Might I suggest you change your last names? You’re undeserving of the Lopez name!” Henry sneered.

Zoey’s body was shaking with the force of her wails.

She was indignant!

She had never been wronged to such an extent in her life.

I don’t even deserve the Lopez family name now.

This is even worse than losing all my assets.

My own grandfather wants nothing to do with me.

Right after he snatched away close to a billion from me!

Caitlyn was not doing any better.

But neither of them was in worse shape than Aaron.

His birth father had cut ties with him and he was erased from the family register.

What more could be worse?

Seized by rage, Aaron spat out blood.

“Father, Aaron...”

Zoey and Caitlyn rushed to catch the teetering Aaron.

Aaron did not speak. He only glared directly at Harry.

“What? Haven’t given up?” Harry leered.

“Right. It’s not over!” Levi exclaimed.

The Protector Chapter 356

“What does useless scum like you have to be upset about? You’re grossly unfit to be part of the Lopez family!”

“Exactly! Get out of the Lopez family! You useless scum!”

“You have no right to be here! Get out and stay away!”

Levi opened his mouth and the room fell silent.

“Harry, would you believe me if I said you’ll live to regret this?” Levi hissed, his lips curled upwards in a malevolent smirk.

“Haha. Me? Regret? Impossible! I hold all of Zoey’s assets. What do I have to regret?” Harry retorted with an equally hostile smirk of his own.

The rest of the people stared at Levi like he was an idiot.

Aaron wiped away the blood at the corner of his mouth and fixed his eyes on Harry incredulously. “Father, must you go this far? What did I do wrong that you insist on kicking me out from the family?”

“Yes! The Lopez family has always had strict rules. Erasing anyone’s name from the family register can only be a punishment for something egregious. What did Aaron and I do?” Caitlyn asked, choking back sobs.

Zoey’s gaze was also boring into Harry.

Harry exchanged a look with Henry before coldly replying, “Don’t you even know what you did? I worked to raise you and even opened a company for you. What about you guys? You contributed nothing to the family! You even committed deplorable acts! But you want to leave the Lopez family! It’s the equivalent of betraying your ancestors!”

“Yes! Zoey’s company leaving the Lopez family is the equivalent of betraying the ancestors!”

“The punishment for betraying your ancestors is expulsion form the family!”

“Get out of the Lopez family!”

Henry and the rest chided and raged. They even shoved the four of them.

Aaron gazed at Harry despondently and asked, "Father, I'll ask you one last time. Must you take it this far?"

"Leave! Never call me Father ever again! You're no longer part of the Lopez family!" Harry rebuffed heartlessly.

He struck off the names of Aaron and the rest from the family register.

Aaron was no longer a member of the Lopez family. It was official.

At that moment, despite being a picture of masculinity, Aaron broke down into bawls of agony.

"Dad, Mum, Zoey. Let's go!" Levi dragged the three of them out.

Despite trying to saunter away, their figures appeared forlorn.

"Hahaha..."

The Lopez family guffawed and laughter resonated throughout the room.

We've finally got rid those burdens!

"From this day onwards, our family shall prosper!" Harry bellowed.

In the car.

Aaron and his family huddled together, sobbing.

This was the darkest hour of their existence.

They never would have imagined that the day would come where their names were erased from the family register.

They no longer belonged to the Lopez family.

Levi could only offer warm words. “The three of you are too nice! You’ve suffered silently at their hands for ages! All this time, you prioritized family, and allowed them to step all over you! If you think about it, they’re the ones who aren’t fit to be related to you! Look at how they treated you. After leaving you with nothing, they even kicked you out of the family! But this might be a good thing. From now on, you can focus on working hard without anything holding you back! I’ll make them pay! You can just sit back and wait for the day when I make them kneel before you and beg for forgiveness!”

The trio was in the throes of despair and merely took Levi’s words and passing remarks of comfort.

The Lopez family did not stop there.

The news spread like wildfire through the North Hampton media outlets.

‘Aaron Lopez and family betrayed the Lopez family and plotted to get ahold of all the Lopez family estates.’

‘Harry Lopez had no choice but to harden his heart and expel them from the family.’

Countless savage condemnations fell upon them.

Page after page depicted Aaron as a callous fiend, an ungrateful bastard.

The Protector Chapter 357

“Such scum should just be sentenced to death! Why keep him around?”

“Yes! He even betrayed his family. He’s no better than a traitor!”

Aaron and Caitlyn did nothing to defend themselves.

Any attempt to do so would just result in more rebuttal and insults.

They were slandered!

Such malignance!

After getting wind of the news, Una could not hold back her broad grin.

“Who would’ve thought even Levi would come to this? Even your wife has fallen from her grace. Let’s see how you crawl out of this hole.” She sniggered spitefully.

Even Winston was elated to receive the news.

A man of Levi’s position would normally never have caught Winston’s eye.

But he caused trouble one too many times and Winston was practically boiling with rage.

“All I had to do was dangle some meat in front of the mutts and they took the bait” Winston grinned widely.

Oh, I can’t imagine there exists joy greater than this!

Not only was he attending the next day's swearing-in ceremony for the commander-in-chief, but to receive such news as well, he was bursting with happiness.

"Now everyone, focus on preparations for tomorrow's swearing-in ceremony!"

That night, these powerful figures of North Hampton struggled to get some shut-eye.

In a luxurious mountain villa somewhere.

The kingpin behind the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce, Eric Robinson, who also stood at the head of four noble families, invited Grover Cooke and Xander Hoyles over.

"Mr. Cooke, Mr. Hoyles, I ask for your assistance tomorrow!" Eric appealed.

"How do you want us to help?" Xander asked warily.

"Tomorrow you are to arrange a meeting between us, the God of War and Mr. Quinton. Winston Gonzales cannot, under no circumstances, know about it! I'll leave this matter in your hands! The North Hampton Chamber of Commerce is in grave danger!"

The faces of the men in front of him soured.

"Okay, leave it to us! I'll also have Jesse come up with a plan to help the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce!" Grover replied calmly.

"That's great!" Eric and the rest were thrilled.

Their fates rested on the shoulders of Xander and Grover.

“Hehe. When the time comes, we’ll have both Morris Group and the Gonzales family under our thumb!”

They could not wait for the next day to arrive.

The next day.

The North Hampton Warzone had completed all preparations and were more than ready. The commander-in-chief’s swearing-in ceremony would begin at exactly 9 o’clock.

Andy, who was in charge of the event, bustled about incessantly.

The last step was to ensure the God of War would be making an appearance to formally introduce Percy as the new commander-in-chief.

Andy was overwrought with emotion.

Even the God of War had to follow the schedule he set out.

How wonderful was that!

In the morning.

Levi addressed the family before him, “Dad, Mum, Zoey, let’s go out and have some fun!”

The trio did not protest and obediently climbed aboard the car.

Soon, Levi had driven them out of the suburbs.

Zoey did not pay much mind. She assumed Levi was taking them to the countryside or to a scenic location.

But as the ride went on, she sensed something was off.

There were many cars on the road, most of which were of high-end brands like Maybach and Rolls-Royce.

They were all moving in the same direction as Levi.

Is there an event going on?

“Honey, where are you taking us?” Zoey enquired.

“I’m bringing you to see the world, and enjoy yourselves while we’re at it!” Levi grinned.

After about two hours, they were almost out of North Hampton.

They had finally arrived at their destination.

When they took in the surroundings, the three Lopezes were stunned.

They were at an army camp!

We’re actually at an army camp!

The car had only just halted when soldiers came marching over for inspection.

The soldiers were all armed to the teeth. Zoey and her parents could not help but feel on edge.

The Protector Chapter 358

“Sir, as this car is not sanctioned by the Warzone, you are to park there, on the left. You may enter afterwards!” The soldier informed Levi.

“Sure!” Levi drove the car to an empty slot and parked.

After they got out of the car, Zoey and Aaron scanned their surroundings with fascination.

How are we allowed to be in such a solemn and sacred place?

What are we doing here?

They were burning with curiosity and fear as they held the military in high regard.

Zoey also spotted the luxury cars which they passed on the road, parked around them.

Something’s definitely going on!

“Levi?”

At this moment, a shocked voice called out.

Levi turned to see the Gonzales family making their way over to him.

There were a large number of members present, ten of them to be exact.

Una walked right up to Levi and asked with a smile plastered on her face, “What are you doing here? Is this a place you’re allowed to be at?”

Winston broke out into a smile as well.

After all, it was no easy task getting an invitation to the ceremony.

It had posed somewhat of an issue even for an elite such as Winston, much less for commoners.

Yet, Levi came?

What kind of joke is this?

Levi replicated their expressions. "I'm here for the swearing-in ceremony of course!"

"Hahaha..."

The Gonzales erupted into peals of laughter.

There were 'regular' people who were given invitations to the event, but they were gentries such as Winston and the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce.

The Rogers family, who were worth five billion, might stand a chance.

But Levi was far from being included in the realm of possibilities.

He had nothing to his name and was even kicked out of the Lopez family.

"You seem to be in a good mood Mr. Gonzales! Why are you laughing?"

The heads of the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce appeared.

Winston smiled. "Do you know Levi, Robinson?"

Eric and his three companions froze momentarily before regaining his gait. “Of course I know him!”

Phineas Robinson kept his eyes trained on Levi.

The lucky bastard. Wesley was this close to ending his life.

Who would have expected Sebastian to drop the case?

Thanks to him, my thirty masters are gone.

Wesley must have brought them back to South City.

“Levi is also here to attend the swearing-in ceremony.”

After Winston’s revelation, the Robinsons dissolved into cackles.

“Who gave him the right to show his face here? Ha!”

The Robinsons scoffed before departing.

Levi was worth nothing in their eyes.

Before the Robinsons left, they made a slicing gesture across their necks.

“Sooner or later, your head will roll, Levi Garrison.”

They sauntered off.

Aaron and the rest were breathing raggedly.

The tension from the interaction with North Hampton’s elite had been too overwhelming. They felt almost suffocated.

They could not believe Levi had made enemies of such people.

The last few seemed to bear intense hatred for Levi as well.

Just how much trouble did he cause?

“I have to say, hats off to you! You managed to piss off so many big-shots with one swing!” Aaron smiled wryly as he did not know how to react to this.

“Dad, Mum, it’s fine. After today, those people will all fall!” Levi chuckled confidently.

“Moving on, can you take us in? To the swearing-in ceremony?” Zoey asked.

“No problem!”

Levi led them into the camp with no problems.

A representative from the camp greeted them and gave them a tour.

The Protector Chapter 359

Levi decided that he didn’t want them to attend the Grand Opening Ceremony in the end.

He felt that it wasn’t worth going, and they might as well have a tour around.

Winston and his group made their way into the hall of the barracks. He started to interrogate his son, Andy when he finally sat down.

“Is Levi or Aaron on the guests’ list?”

Andy shook his head, “Nope. The list had long been ready. But Levi’s name is nowhere to be found.”

“Hahahaha...”

Winston and a few others laughed.

“Besides, Levi and the others aren’t even here in the hall. How is he supposed to attend the Grand Opening?” asked Andy.

Winston grinned brightly.

Levi was just a clown in their eyes.

Besides sheer luck, that clown had nothing else.

When the Gonzales family was dealing with Levi, Percy happened to be there to resolve the crisis.

And Harry was there when the Lopez family from South City intended to deal with Levi.

.....

“Your good luck is going to be used up one day!” Una sneered.

Inside the hall arranged by the North Hampton Warzone, guests who were there for the ceremony flocked to their pre-arranged seats.

Winston and the other upper-class members of the society were seated in the first row.

Governor Jesse Nielsen and his men were also in the front seats. Even though Grover had stepped down, he was still more than qualified to be seated in the first row.

Xander Hoyles and Benny Quinton had also arrived and were seated.

Soon, most of the seats were filled up.

But there were still six empty seats in the first row.

Everyone knew what this meant.

These six seats were reserved for the God of War and his subordinates, the Five Great Wars Regiment.

Any one of them alone was enough to make the North Hampton tremble in fear.

Not to mention the God of War.

This is exciting!

This is really, really exciting!

Winston had never been so excited in his life. He was about to meet the legendary God of War!

Oh, how long have I waited for this day to come...

And it finally came!

There was a different meaning to it today.

The God of War and Benny Quinton were going to make their appearance together.

The commander-in-chief in charge was also the famed general of the Iron Brigade.

This would be quite a historic moment to witness.

Winston kept glancing towards the passageway. The anticipation he was feeling was overwhelming.

The younger generations of the Gonzales family were feeling honored and prideful from the bottom of their hearts.

Among all those from the younger generation of the North Hampton, who else was fortunate enough to attend such a ceremony?

This was the power of the resources they had.

The experience and networking they had accumulated were definitely enough to crush their competitors.

The billionaires of the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce were of no exception.

Compared to Winston, the God of War was relatively more like their last hope.

Because the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce was in distress and the markets were disintegrating.

They would suffer if there wasn't anyone to back them up.

The attendees quietened down after a short while.

Not long after, Percy marched into the venue with his military uniform on.

The attendees slowly stood up and welcomed Percy.

After all, he was going to be the commander-in-chief of the North Hampton Warzone after today.

But Percy didn't walk over to the stage. He waited at the passageway instead.

Soon, Azure Dragon, Kirin and Phoenix arrived.

They were the Five Great Wars Regiment!

Their intimidating aura overwhelmed the audience in the hall.

This was the first time the famous Five Great Wars Regiment were onstage together.

Even Xander felt his blood boiling with anticipation.

Just the five of them was enough to kill an army of a thousand men.

Azure Dragon and the others stopped at the passageway too. Six of them including Percy stood in two rows as they waited.

Everyone knew what this meant.

They're waiting for the arrival of the God of War!

Everyone stood up as they held their breaths and paid full attention to the passageway.

Tap...tap...tap...

Sounds of footsteps could be heard shortly after.

A mighty silhouette had appeared at the passageway!

The Protector Chapter 360

“Salute!” Percy yelled and gave a standard military salute.

All the soldiers followed suit.

Once the figure returned the salute, he began to walk into the hall with Percy and the others flanked beside him protectively.

Everyone’s hearts were pounding as it wasn’t an exaggeration that the seven people in front of them could save the world.

This is exciting!

He’s the God of War!

He’s Erudia’s one and only 5-star rated God of War!

Una’s heart thumped as she watched the tall figure from afar.

Now that’s a true hero!

He’s the man of every woman’s dream!

Una fell in love with the man just by the sight of him.

The Gonzales family had also planned to do whatever it took to get Una to sleep with the God of War that night.

Una was very confident that she was going to be the God of War's wife soon.

I'm going to be the wife of Erudia's most respectable God of War.

Una could already see the bright future she was going to have.

The faces of Winston and his group were glowing. After today, I, Winston Gonzales, am going to be the Grandpa of the God of War!

The Gonzales family is going to prosper and become Erudia's most powerful aristocratic family!

Before long, Levi and his group were finally in the hall and got to their reserved seats.

The attendees in the hall could only see the back of the God of War. He sat in a tall and upright manner, like the backbone of the nation; the Great Wall of Erudia.

The five stars on his shoulder shined brightly.

Right now, he was the biggest focus of the audience.

"One should have a son like the God of War!" exclaimed Winston.

"Don't you think the God of War looks familiar?"

Winston and his group who were sitting a bit further behind couldn't see quite as clearly.

So Winston, Eric, and the others started to put on their glasses.

“His back seems really familiar... I feel like I've seen him somewhere before!” said Winston.

“That's right! He looks familiar to me too, but I just can't remember who he is...” said Una.

Meanwhile, Xander and Andy, who were sitting in the first row, broke out in cold sweat just after a glance at the God of War.

They had seen photographs of Levi before.

But they didn't expect Levi to be the God of War.

Thud!

Andy didn't sit tight and fell onto the ground, attracting the attention of everyone in the room.

“What's wrong with Andy? How can he make such a rudimentary mistake?” said Winston angrily.

The Gonzales family wore an unsightly expression on.

The ceremony finally began.

Almost an hour had passed since the ceremony started and Percy stood on the stage as he waited.

“Lastly, let's welcome the God of War!” announced Xander.

Xander stood up and shouted to the audience, “Salute to the God of War!”

“To the God of War!”

Thousands of officers and soldiers shouted in unison.

Levi got on the stage in the midst of the shouts and stood facing everybody.

The attendees went crazy when they saw the face of the God of War as their dream finally came true.

All these years, the God of War was the military spirit of the soldiers.

They could die without any regrets now that they finally saw the God of War in person.

“I want to take a good look at how the God of War really looks like.”

Una and those who were younger immediately paled as they were shocked to see who the God of War really was.

Boom!

Everyone was shocked at the revelation. It was like a bolt that came out of the blue sky.

Levi Garrison!

No one had expected Levi to be the God of War.

It was beyond their wildest imagination.

It's actually Levi!

Una was dumbfounded.

Clint was dumbfounded.

Robinson was dumbfounded.

.....

“Huh? What’s wrong with you guys? Are you shocked?”

The Protector Chapter 361

Winston and the rest were confused as to why the younger ones were so shocked.

“We should take a look too!”

They turned.

Winston, Eric, and the others almost fainted when they saw Levi’s face.

“Levi? It’s Levi?”

“No way! How could it be Levi?”

“I don’t believe it! I must’ve seen it wrongly.”

Winston and the others couldn’t accept the reality. They just couldn’t believe it even though they saw it with their own eyes.

Even North Hampton’s highest leader, Grover Cooke, paled upon seeing Levi.

“This- Isn’t this Levi Garrison? Levi is the God of War? I’m not dreaming, am I?”

Those who knew Levi felt as though their life was about to collapse soon.

The young man who had once been imprisoned had transformed into an unparalleled general in a blink of an eye!

He was a capable and powerful person now!

It was unimaginable!

The scene before their eyes was just too shocking.

The upperclassmen were absolutely dumbfounded, it was as if they had been struck by lightning.

Levi, who was still on stage, said with a smile, "Sorry to disappoint you! But I am indeed the God of War!"

Boom!

The audience from the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce was about to go crazy when they heard Levi admitting it.

They finally understood why Morris Group's progress had skyrocketed.

The Morris Group had the God of War backing them up all along!

Who the hell would be able to stand against them? And there was Neil Atkinson too. They saw Neil's name on the guests' list.

Neil is Kirin!

Pfft!

Winston couldn't stand it anymore and coughed out a mouthful of fresh blood.

The God of War was the one who saved him from his sudden heart attack previously.

Winston tried to repay the God of War by offering him money so that the latter could live a new and better life, but Winston was rejected which led to the Gonzales family thinking that Levi was a scoundrel and a hypocritical clown.

The Gonzales family thought that Levi was going to use the incident to gain more money.

So the Gonzales family had constantly been targeting Levi. They even tried to kill him!

Winston was about to suffer from a brain hemorrhage due to the shock and fear he was feeling.

So the person I've been targeting constantly has been the God of War all along!

He really didn't care about my repayment at all! After all, the God of War wouldn't be lacking any money! Of course he wouldn't need me to give him a new life!

The Gonzales family is finished!

Winston suddenly recalled all those times Levi had warned him.

Besides someone with a status like Levi, no one else would be brave enough to force the Gonzales family to kneel in front of him and apologize.

Back then, when commander-in-chief Covington said that he was going to visit his relative, he must be referring to Levi!

I'm such a fool!

I should've figure it all out earlier!

Pfft!

Pfft!

.....

Winston continuously coughed out a few more mouthfuls of blood.

The truth hit Una harder than anyone else.

She had always been in contact with Levi and had the greatest conflict with him.

Una had even hit Levi with money previously!

It was an act of impiety!

What have I done?

I've been humiliating the God of War all this time?

Una immediately burst into tears.

She had single-handedly ruined the Gonzales family!

Up on stage, Levi held the Decree of Appointment and announced, "I hereby appoint Percy Covington as the commander-in-chief of the North Hampton Warzone!"

Percy accepted the Decree of Appointment while the attendees clapped.

It was the most glorious moment of his life!

I thought I had left the Iron Brigade, but I didn't expect that I would be personally appointed by the person I respect the most!

Levi didn't get down from the stage immediately. Instead, he scanned through the audience and said with a smile, "I'm going to use this opportunity to say a few words to some of you."

Boom!

The attendees were stunned by Levi's words, especially Winston and his group.

Their expressions had changed drastically.

They realized that something bad was about to happen soon.

Sh*t!

The Protector Chapter 362

Percy and the higher-ups of the North Hampton Warzone looked at Levi with curious eyes.

They knew nothing of the upheavals of the North Hampton.

But Xander, Grover, and a few others already knew that something was up.

They broke into cold sweat.

"Winston is here, right?" Levi asked suddenly.

Boom!

Winston was about to have a heart attack at that moment.

He coughed out another mouthful of blood!

“Is Winston here?” Levi increased his volume into a thunderous roar.

Everyone in the room felt the powerful aura Levi exuded.

“H-here... I’m here...”

Winston almost fell on his knees out of fear.

“How did you treat me when I saved your life the other day?”

Thud!

Both Winston and Una fell onto their knees.

“How dare you repay my kindness with enmity? Your granddaughter threw money at me to humiliate me. She kept provoking me and even tried to kill me!”

The attendees were shell-shocked upon hearing what Levi had said.

The leaders of North Hampton looked at the Gonzales family in disbelief.

Where did they find the courage to do that?

They actually tried to kill the God of War?

Who on earth could bear with that?

It seems like even Xander Hoyles would have to destroy them!

“Will the Gonzales family retreat on your own, or do you need me to use my powers to make you disappear?” Levi asked coldly.

Levi said the words as though he was on a trial.

Crap!

We’re really doomed!

North Hampton would never have stories about Winston the billionaire anymore!

“There’s also a personal grudge with the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce. Six years ago when my business start-up became successful, you coveted my skills and techniques. So you purposely set me up. You crippled me and sent me to jail. You coveted what I had so you took everything away from me!”

“What kind of punishment do you think you deserve?” asked Levi.

Thud!

Eric Robinson and the others fell on their knees one after another.

At this very moment, they finally knew why Levi didn’t go against them right away.

He wanted to slowly replace North Hampton with Morris Group!

“You’re all the same as the Gonzales family!”

Levi looked at Jesse, “Nielson, arrest all those who are in the wrong!”

Boom!

Eric and the others paled and they started to break into cold sweat.

They had done many things that violated the regulations in the years of expanding their business to its current state.

It was enough to get them all locked up!

Not to mention that there was solid evidence of them making a move against Levi Group. They couldn't escape from evidence.

The group of people quickly looked towards Xander and Grover, hoping that they could save the day.

However, both of them lowered their heads.

They could at least have a say if it was the North Hampton.

But this is the freaking God of War!

He could stand his ground simply based on his strength and the law!

Grover quickly said, "The North Hampton Chamber of Commerce is problematic!"

Jesse nodded as he said, "God of War, I'll definitely get it done!"

"Alright, dismissed!"

No one had expected the Appointment Ceremony of the new commander-in-chief to end in this way.

The world of North Hampton had changed after an hour.

The most powerful North Hampton Chamber of Commerce and the Gonzales family are ruined!

After they left the hall, Levi changed into casual clothes while Percy followed by his side.

The duo found Zoey and her group.

“Today has really been an eye opener!”

Aaron was in a great mood after a tour around the military camp. All the sorrow he felt earlier was gone.

“Mom, Dad, let me introduce you to my friend. This is Percy Covington. It’s all because of him that I’m able to get here today.” Levi said as he introduced Percy to the elderly.

Aaron shook Percy’s hands excitedly.

They were shocked.

Levi has friends like this too?

“May I know what your position is, Covington?” asked Aaron curiously.

The Protector Chapter 363

“I’m just a lowly commander. It’s not worth mentioning,” said Percy with a smile.

Caitlyn nudged Aaron and said, “That’s classified information! Why are you asking that?”

“Haha. That was rude of me!”

Aaron laughed.

The few of them enjoyed their dinner together afterward.

Aaron still had questions on the way out, “I think a new commander-in-chief was appointed today!”

“That’s right!”

“Well, we don’t need to think about people like him. But you did really well today, Levi. We’re really happy for you!”

Aaron grinned as he spoke.

“Let us have good fortune and happy events happening one after another after today!”

Levi smiled at that.

Zoey was swiping through her phone as they spoke. Suddenly, an alarmed look appeared on her face and she almost dropped her phone onto the floor.

“What’s wrong, sweetie?”

Everyone looked at her curiously.

“Something big happened! North Hampton is crumbling!”

Zoey took a deep breath.

“Winston Gonzales and all from the Gonzales family opted to quit Gonzales Group! North Hampton Chamber of Commerce announcing dissolution! Eric Robinson of the four noble families from the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce and dozens of higherups have been arrested due to commercial crimes!”

.....

The eye-catching headlines were shown on the phone.

Zoey, Aaron, and the others were about to go insane.

This was definitely the biggest news of North Hampton!

Both the Gonzales family and the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce had crumbled at the same time.

This is unbelievable!

Zoey’s puzzled eyes landed on Levi. There was something mysterious about this man.

Can he predict the future?

He even told me that the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce and the Gonzales family were doomed!

It came true in a blink of an eye!

“Levi, is there anything that you know of?” asked Aaron.

“I heard from Percy that the God of War got back at them at the Appointment Ceremony earlier.”

Levi smiled.

“Oh, I see! They offended the God of War. I told you so. No one else in North Hampton would be able to destroy them!”

Aaron felt a sense of relief.

The news of North Hampton’s powerful figures crumbling had quickly spread all over Quebec.

Two mighty mountains had collapsed in an instant.

This meant that the North Hampton market was currently vacant. Anyone would want a share of the pie.

In just a blink of an eye, South City and multiple other places were preying on that pie.

In the meantime, Morris Group, which had received orders from their boss, expanded their business and took up the market share.

North Hampton was too big. It wasn’t possible for them to take over it completely in a short period of time.

In any case, Levi’s plan was simple. It was to quickly restore North Hampton’s order without shaking up its economy.

Rogers Group had also gotten the order from Levi and had joined in as well.

All of a sudden, Rogers Group became the richest aristocratic family in North Hampton.

Glenn had never expected all these to happen.

Levi did it out of respect for Abigail. It was also because he wanted to stabilize North Hampton as soon as possible.

“Zoey, do you still remember what I said previously? I’m going to help you rise to the top again. Just you wait!” Levi said with a smile.

Zoey was actually looking forward to it when she saw how mysterious Levi was acting.

The Lopez family was also really excited at this particular moment.

They had earned so much money and properties recently. Now that the North Hampton market was empty...their opportunity was finally here!

As long as the Lopez family worked hard, having a corporate with a hundred million of net worth wouldn't be a dream anymore.

“As expected, once we chased Aaron out of the family, our luck has been good!” Henry said while laughing.

Harry looked up to the sky and cried out, “God bless the Lopez family!”

“We’re in big trouble! Something bad has happened!”

The Protector Chapter 364

Shaun and Melanie Lopez shouted.

“What are you up to? Why are the both of you so frantic? Didn’t I tell you to move the company?” said Harry as he frowned, obviously displeased.

After he took over Zoey’s company, the first thing he did was to move his company to Union Square.

After all, Union Square was at the center of the city.

It feels good to have a company building in the middle of the city.

“Grandpa, the company has been moved. But there’s some other stuff...”

“Grandpa, we don’t know what happened but... Just this morning, large numbers of the Company’s workers resigned. What’s more, it was none other than the executives who led them to resign! It’s a huge loss to the company!”

Shaun panted.

Melanie’s face was extremely sullen.

“What? Did all these really happen?”

Harry and the others’ expressions changed.

It wouldn’t matter much if it were only low-ranking workers who left.

But it would be a huge problem if the executives left.

Melanie's phone rang.

"What? Seven more executives left?"

Melanie was stunned.

Henry's phone rang too.

"What? The construction team of the West City Ecological Park Project canceled the contract and all of the workers left? Even the security and the guard dog left?"

Henry's eyeballs were about to pop out upon hearing the news.

The West City Ecological Park Project had become a complete mess.

Shaun received a text message. He was immediately left dumbfounded after he read the text.

"What? The company is insolvent? The funds have long been used up in the development and now the company doesn't have any cash flow?"

Shaun was about to have a breakdown soon.

The person in charge of the project from Morris Group called Harry right at this moment.

"Hello Mr. Lopez, why is the project we're collaborating with Imperial Meadows Limited halted?" Morris Group asked.

"Uh... Due to some recent internal affairs of the company, there has been a delay in the progress. It'll be back to normal soon!" Harry said and smiled awkwardly.

Morris Group was like the God of Wealth to the Lopez family now.

“Mr. Lopez, please take a good look at the contract. There’s still two days’ time. If the project invested can’t resume, you’ll have to compensate us due to breach of contract! According to the contract, you’ll have to pay one billion if that happens.”

Harry almost peed himself upon hearing what the person in charge from Morris Group had said.

Harry was trembling when the call ended.

“What’s happened? Have the collaboration projects with Morris Group been halted?” asked Harry.

Fabian quickly went to check.

Fabian was sweating buckets when he was done checking.

“Father, the collaboration project with Morris Group is just too big! If we want to continue, we’ll have to dump in more money!” said Fabian.

“What happened? Didn’t Zoey’s company get a big investment fund? How did this happen?”

Harry was about to vomit blood.

“The treasury department of Zoey’s company is currently empty. Not only have the funds been cut off, it seems like the company is also in debt...”

What Shaun said made the Lopez family tremble in fear.

“Huh? That’s not possible! Zoey’s company had been growing so well! Her company even moved to the Union Square!”

“That’s right! The company’s market value of almost a billion isn’t fake!”

The faces of Harry's and the rest were full of disbelief.

"I understand now! It's all an illusion made by Zoey! She deliberately made a good financial report and crafted a perfect company image just to attract investments and collaborations!"

"Yes! There have been quite a few companies looking to invest and collaborate with us. It must be because they were attracted by the financial report made by Zoey!" analyzed Fabian.

The Protector Chapter 365

"God damn it! I thought we actually had a billion in our hands. But who knew all we got is this mess?" said Harry furiously.

In the meantime, a car stopped in front of the Lopez family's residence.

There were a few men and women in suits.

"Which one of you is Mr. Harry Lopez?"

"That's me. And you are?"

Harry had an unsettling feeling.

"Hi, we are the person in charge of Union Square. We're here to inform you that the lease contract of the company is a temporary contract. This is the official contract. Naturally, the prices will be revised accordingly.

It will be revised from the previous ten million every five years to a hundred million every five years. Please pay as soon as possible or you will be ordered to excavate within three days!" One of the persons in charge from Union Square said coldly.

Boom!

A wave of shock washed over Harry and he almost lost his balance.

Shaun took the new contract with trembling hands and read through it.

The more he read, the darker his face got.

The Lopez family was at the verge of going mad.

Isn't this just too unlucky?

Zoey's lease was only ten million, yet it became a hundred million for them.

"Hurry up and settle this!"

With that, those from the Union Square left.

But this was only the beginning.

Someone came again.

"Hello, I'm Hailey, the general manager of the North Hampton Bank. Imperial Meadows Limited had previously loaned eighty million from us.

Now the total amount is a hundred and ten million including interest. Lopez Group will have to settle everything within seven days! Otherwise, you'll have to go through judicial processes!" said Hailey relentlessly.

Thud!

Harry was shocked and fell onto the ground.

We owe the bank more than a hundred million?

Is Zoey crazy?

More importantly, the Lopez family has to clean up this mess!

Hailey left soon after.

But someone else came again.

They were a dozen other companies who came at once.

“Hi, Mr. Harry Lopez. I’m from Harper Investment. I’m here to collect your debt of twenty million!”

“Hi Mr. Harry Lopez, I’m from Allison Corporation. I’m here to collect your debt of fifteen million!”

“Hi Mr. Harry Lopez, I’m from Hilton Group. I’m here to collect your debt of thirty million!”

.....

Thirteen companies, all without exception, were here to recover the debts.

Together with Union Square and the bank, the Lopez family had a debt amounting to a total of four hundred and eighty million!

Everyone from the Lopez family was about to faint.

They didn't gain a single cent, yet they have to settle a debt of approximately five hundred million now?

Pfft!

Everyone was about to cough up blood soon.

"Hang on. Zoey's Imperial Meadows Limited is the one that owes you the money. It's none of Lopez Group's business!" Shaun immediately tried to justify themselves.

"Hmmp! Why are you still trying to come up with excuses? Lopez Group officially bought over Imperial Meadows Limited. So naturally, the debt of Imperial Meadows Limited will have to be settled by you!"

"That's right. What does this have to do with Ms. Lopez?"

"Hurry up and pay us back! Or you'll have to go through the judicial process. Everyone from the Lopez family will have to go to jail by then!"

The representatives from all thirteen companies were tough. They didn't even give the Lopez family a chance to breathe.

"Seven days! We'll only give you seven days!"

When all representatives from the thirteen companies left, everyone in the Lopez family were deathly silent.

Everyone was soaked in cold sweat and was breathing heavily.

Tap...tap...tap...

Suddenly, footsteps could be heard from the outside.

A group of workers wearing safety helmets rushed into the Lopez family's residence.

They were contractors from Imperial Meadows Limited. It was payday.

When the workers heard that the company was in a crisis, they had rushed to the Lopez family to get their pay.

“Harry Lopez! Pay us immediately!”

“Right! Quickly pay us, or you won't be able to handle the consequences!”

The Protector Chapter 366

A hundred men or more had the Lopez family completely surrounded.

They made a big ruckus out of it.

The Lopez family were completely stunned.

Did a bunch of workers come out to protest?

Previously Zoey had arranged for the contractors to be paid at the end of the month and it just so happened that today was the payday.

The Lopez family might have to foot the bill in her stead.

“Zoey is the one who had your money! Find her if you must but it has nothing to do with us!” yelled Shaun angrily.

“What nonsense is this? Shouldn’t it be the opposite? Ms. Lopez has nothing to do with the company anymore!”

“That’s right! Ms. Lopez has already been disowned by the Lopez Group. How could she be a part of this?”

“We won’t leave until we receive what we were owed!”

The workers were starting to be unreasonable.

“You are trespassing on private property. Get out of my sight or I’ll have the cops arrest you!” warned Shaun.

“Even better. I’ll have them know that our wages are due!”

The contractors did not seem to mind at all.

“Fine, I’ll do just that!”

Shaun believed that the contractors were only putting on a facade.

“Wait! Don’t be rash and think this through. Should you get the police involved, things might just blow out of proportion. Wouldn’t it be bad if the media finds out about this?” said Fabian as he attempted to stop Shaun.

Shaun came to his senses immediately.

Indeed. If such a scandal were to reach the ears of the media, the Lopez Group would be in deep trouble.

“Then what should we do?” asked Shaun.

“Settle it!” said Fabian unambiguously.

“But uncle...”

Shaun was unwilling to give these people money, especially not on behalf of Zoey.

“My word is final,” responded Fabian coldly.

Shaun, Melanie and the CFO of the company wasted no time in auditing the accounts.

There were a total of seven contractors, they would have to fork out at least 5.7 million this month.

It wasn't until both parties had agreed to settle things cordially that the contractors finally left with their workers.

The Lopez family could finally take a breather.

More than five million gone in the blink of an eye.

Oh, how much it hurt!

The main thing was that this wasn't a business investment, so they wouldn't be able to get a single cent out of it.

The Lopez family slumped helplessly on the floor, drenched in cold sweat ever since this morning.

This was the biggest predicament they have ever faced.

A debt of five hundred million!

Even if they had Harry sold, would they even be able to pay off this debt?

How did things turn out this way?

They just couldn't fathom what happened.

"How did this happen? Are you guys stupid? Why did you investigate Zoey's company beforehand?" yelled Harry.

"Well...The Imperial Meadows appeared to be doing great. They had a few billions of highly liquid assets and some big-name investors backing them up. There was no doubt that the company had a bright future ahead," whimpered Shaun.

"How would you explain this then?" asked Harry.

Everyone had their heads lowered, no one seemed to have an apparent answer to that question.

They did not expect this to happen at all!

"So what are we going to do now?" Harry shouted.

"I knew it, this is the doing of Zoey! Ten billion in exchange for Levi's life, it isn't that hard of a choice for her to make, is it?"

"That's right, knowing how despicable this little harlot is, she would definitely have made that choice! In order to climb the ranks of society, she was even willing to sleep with countless older men!"

"If she were given the choice between Levi and five million, she would have undoubtedly chosen the latter. Not to mention this is ten billion that we are talking about right now. It is definitely intentional!"

As Shaun and Melanie were busy badmouthing Zoey, Harry's eyes gleamed and appeared to be in dismay.

“Are you saying that Zoey was searching for a scapegoat as she could no longer keep up with the operations of the company, and we just so happened to be there?”

“That is certainly the case! A wicked woman like her would be all too glad to witness our downfall!”

The Protector Chapter 367

“I swear I’m going to kill this harlot!”

“Pfft!”

Harry was seething with anger.

“Zoey you little b*tch! You tricked me?”

At this moment, the Lopez family were all sold with the idea that Zoey was having them clean up her mess.

But she had no idea at all.

When she was at the helm of Imperial Meadows, things were doing well. The business was growing and the company had sufficient capital.

Little did they know that Levi was actually the one behind it.

Within the span of a night, he had changed the fate of Imperial Meadows for the worse.

“Grandpa, I think it would only be reasonable for Zoey to return and clean up her own mess!” suggested Henry.

“Yes, we should do just that! We’ll let her solve her own problems!” responded the crowd angrily as they agreed to Henry’s proposition.

Zoey was currently at the Morris Group.

Even though she had lost her company, her abilities were . She planned to put her skills to good use at the Morris Group.

However she was stopped by Levi.

Levi had plans for her to start her own company.

Zoey was sulking at Levi for not letting her to do what she wanted.

At that very moment, she received a call from Harry.

“Zoey you goddamn harlot! How dare you trick me! Don’t you dare tell anyone that you are related to Lopez family!”

Just as the call was connected, Harry was blasting at Zoey with full force.

“What happened, grandpa?”

Zoey seemed to be puzzled.

“What happened you say? Imperial Meadows of yours a debt of four billion! Your company’s senior management have collectively resigned. This is such a huge matter, don’t you dare pretend that you don’t know about that!”

“Huh? How did it end up like this? I don’t have the tiniest inkling about that!”

Zoey was stunned, that wasn't surprising as she did not know what had unfolded behind the scenes.

"You are driving me crazy!"

Harry was on the verge of exploding in rage as he thought that Zoey was feigning ignorance at such a point in time.

"There were times where I had restless nights, feeling guilty for exiling you from our family. Who would have thought that you were actually plotting against us the whole time. A pox on my pity!" yelled Harry from the other side of the phone.

"Grandpa, what are you talking about? I really don't know anything about that."

Her company was doing well, how could it incur such a huge amount of debt?

Impossible!

"Zoey you little harlot, how dare you play me for a fool! If only I could slap the hell out of you!"

Harry was boiling with rage.

"Also stop calling me your grandpa, I don't have a vile granddaughter like you!"

Zoey was in a bind, she did not know what to do.

"However I'll give you a chance to redeem yourself! Reinstate yourself as the director of Imperial Meadows and clean up your own mess. I'll welcome you and your family back if you do so!"

Harry was employing the stick and carrot method.

He knew Zoey's and Aaron's personality like the back of his hand. They perceived the honor of the family being more important than their own lives.

When they had their names removed from the family registry, Aaron cried in agony.

To them, there are things that worth more than their own lives.

Harry firmly believed that if he were to mention the reinstating them back into the family, they would immediately seize the opportunity.

“As long as you agree to return and solve your company's issues, I'll have your family reinstated right now. I'll even promise that I won't interfere with your company's affairs from now on!”

“Grandpa might have overreacted for a bit, but I hope you will understand my circumstances as your company is currently in deep trouble.”

Harry had gone to great lengths to manipulate his granddaughter.

And indeed, Zoey was moved by his words.

Not only would she be able to get her company back, but she would also be reinstated to the Lopez family.

That would be killing two birds with one stone!

Zoey bit her lips, she couldn't resist agreeing on such a good deal.

The Protector Chapter 368

“Zoey should you agree to it you may now come to the Lopez family residence and I’ll personally reinstate your family!”

Harry had foreseen that it wouldn’t take long for her to agree, she just needed a little push.

“Grandpa, I...”

Just as Zoey was about to agree on it, Levi snatched her phone away from her hands.

“Who the hell are you? It would be best for you to stop harassing my wife or I’ll beat you up!” said Levi angrily.

“Levi, it’s me! Did you not recognize your grandpa?”

Harry was furious but he had no choice other than to hold it in.

“Grandpa? Never heard of him. Now scram!” shouted Levi before he hung up the phone.

He even blocked all the contacts of the Lopez family.

Harry tried to call her again, but to no avail.

The others tried but they had the same result.

“Zoey has blocked us all!”

“It was Levi! That man had berated me!” said Harry.

His complexion was eerily pale.

“What is the meaning of this, Levi? Why did you scold grandpa?” asked Zoey.

There was a tinge of discontent in her tone.

“What did I just tell you that day? Are you going to just let them walk all over you?” said Levi angrily.

Zoey bit her lips, before stuttering for a bit. “But...It seems that the company...”

“Is that even your company in the first place? What does it have to do with you now? Or are you a member of the Lopez family? If my memory serves me right you have already been exiled from the Lopez family!”

“But grandpa said that he will reinstate us...”

“Are you really that dumb? He only agreed to reinstate you back to the family because he wanted you to clean up his mess. After you are done, he’ll get rid of you without hesitation!

Zoey bit her lips a little harder this time. It took her a while before she came back to her senses.

“Fine, I’ll go along with what you had in mind,” responded Zoey.

Levi immediately ordered Aaron and Caitlyn to block the contacts of the Lopez family.

Not only that, but Levi had also even arranged a holiday trip for Caitlyn and Aaron.

It won't be so easy for you Harry!

"People will only take advantage of your kindness. You need to know that the Lopez family has nothing to do with you right now." ranted Levi as he shook his head.

When will Zoey realize she's too kind for her own good?

Or else she would be bullied by the Lopez family for the rest of her life!

The Lopez family was in a state of panic as they couldn't contact Zoey or her family at all.

"Grandpa, no matter where I looked I just couldn't find Zoey's whereabouts. Not to mention Caitlyn and Aaron are on a vacation to god knows where. It would take them at least ten days to come back!" said Shaun who was panting heavily.

"The heavens want us dead!"

Harry was on the verge of tears.

"Curse that bastard Levi! Zoey was about to agree to it!"

"Why am I not at all surprised that Levi was backing Aaron and his family?"

"I really want Levi dead!"

Just when the Lopez family was about to descend into madness, a few cars came to the family residence.

"Allow us to make a brief introduction. We are the co-developers for West City Ecological Park. What happened to the construction of Ecological Park? I've heard that the construction workers and even the security guards had all left.

What is the meaning of this? Did you intend to run away with our money?” asked one of the co-developers.

Their pressure was overwhelming, there were at least twenty brawny brutes behind them.

“Huh? No, that has nothing to do with us!”

Shaun could feel his sanity slipping away.

“What do you mean it has nothing to do with you? The contract says that the Lopez Group is now fully in charge of the West City Ecological Park!”

That rendered Shaun speechless.

The Protector Chapter 369

“With the project coming to a halt, the construction workers gone and your company facing cash flow issues, we would like to terminate the contract. Of course, it goes without saying that you will have to pay us back the amount that we have invested!”

“We have already appointed our lawyers, why don’t you have a nice long talk with them?”

It seems that the co-developers had already made their preparations.

“Why would you involve the lawyer at such an early stage? Did we say that we disagree to it?”

Shaun was about to lose himself.

“Thump!”

A brute had stepped forward and threw a punch at Shaun’s nose, causing blood to spew everywhere.

“How dare you hit me!” said Shaun angrily.

“Just you wait, I’ll call the cops!”

The brute gave Shaun a cold sneer before saying, “Call the cops if you wish, but I’m just a passerby. I just couldn’t bear to look at you.”

“You...”

Needless to say the Lopez family was enraged by this, but there was nothing that they could do.

A phone call cut the tension that was starting to build up.

It was Mr. Jennings from the Ministry of Construction. “Mr. Lopez what’s the matter? What in the world happened to the West City Ecological Park? If I were you I would refund the money to the co-developers, or else there would be a hell of a price to pay!”

It was an order from the Ministry of Construction.

“Shaun, give the money back to them!” said Harry as he did not dare to defy orders.

“Alright, grandpa!”

They had no choice but to give them their refund.

Fortunately, the payable amount was slightly lower than the previous one, totaling up to 12 million.

Just today they had already given out at least 20 million and this wasn't even a major part of the debt.

If this goes on, the Lopez family would inevitably fall.

They thought they could rise higher by forcefully acquiring the company, but who would have thought that things would end in tragedy.

Tears were flowing out of the rim of Harry's eyes.

Greed!

Greed was the main cause of their downfall!

Or else why would this even happen in the first place?

Harry started to sob.

The others followed him soon after.

If this goes on, not only would their future be ruined, but they might also even end up in jail.

It was at this moment Henry ran in with long strides while panting heavily. "Dad, I've found out where Zoey and Levi are! They are at Morris Group!"

"Great, we'll meet them at once! Zoey is our last hope!"

Harry brought along the other members of Lopez family as they headed towards Morris Group.

As Zoey and Levi looked out of the window of their office, they could see a bunch of unexpected visitors right at the gate.

“Why are they here?” asked Zoey puzzledly.

“Of course it is to make you the scapegoat! Why else would they be here? The burden of the failing Imperial Meadows could only be thrown to you!” explained Levi as he let out a few laughs.

It wasn't until now they Zoey understood the situation of the Lopez family. “Why did all sorts of problems occur once I had left the Imperial Meadows? It is as if someone is behind this!”

“You know you are not as slow-witted as you have led me to believe! Yes, I was the one behind this.” answered Levi as he laughed.

Levi seemed to be having a little too much fun.

“You? That's impossible! If you were capable of this you wouldn't be spending all day sipping tea over here!” said Zoey as she shook her head in exasperation.

Meanwhile, Harry was leading his family hurriedly towards the Morris Group's front building. As they attempted to trespass, they were met with several shouts.

“Hold it, hold it! Do you think you own this place? Coming in as you please?” yelled the security guards as they attempted to block the trespassers.

“Mate, I'm here to see Zoey” said Harry as he gave out a few fake laughs.

“Zoey? Have you mistaken? There's no one with that name over here! What are you all here for?” yelled the captain of the security angrily.

“Oh no, we are actually looking for Levi. Could you please tell him that we are here?” said Harry as he rephrased his words.

He even slipped in an envelope to the security guard, it was full of cash.

“Did you say Levi? I’ll help you ask.”

Levi and Seth had a close relationship, and so he was able to dial his number directly.

“Mr. Garrison, there is someone looking for you!”

“Tell him that I’m busy!”

The Protector Chapter 370

As Seth had his phone on speaker mode, Harry and his family members could hear it clearly.

What? He is not going to meet us?

“Hey Levi, it’s me! Your grandpa!” said Harry immediately.

“Who the hell do you think you are? Why don’t you call me grandpa instead!”

And with that, Levi hung up immediately.

“This...”

The Lopez family were dumbfounded.

It was a force of habit that these words had slipped from his mouth.

Seth stared at Harry and the people behind him before saying, "You all are not here to seek for trouble, are you? I can't believe you just called yourself Mr. Garrison's grandfather."

The other guards were also staring at them.

While Levy was given the cold shoulder by Iris and the upper management inside the company, he could get along well with the security guards and also the janitors.

They were always seen hanging around smoking or chatting during tea breaks.

So naturally, Levi had a good reputation among them.

To be hearing someone calling himself as Levi's grandfather, the security guards immediately turned hostile.

"That's right! They don't look like people with good intentions!"

The other guards also chimed in.

Shaun was in a bad mood before arriving here, and to be picked on by the security guards, he could no longer hold it in. "Did you mistake yourself for someone important? You are just some lowly guards! Now scram!"

"That's right, who the hell do you think you are! It would be in your best interest to summon Levi right now or I'll see to it that you lose your jobs!" said Henry.

After all, the Lopez family had a net worth of around ten billion.

How could they stomach the humiliation of being ridiculed by security guards?

Anger stirred within Seth when those words reached his ears.

“These thugs are trying to mess around, throw them out!”

Seth had given the order.

A number of guards gladly obeyed the orders of their captain and threw them out of the compound.

Shaun had been beaten up once before, and now again.

Harry was exasperated. He had never experienced something like this in his entire life.

“Slap! Slap! Slap!”

The slaps landed perfectly on the face of Shaun and Henry.

“What did you come here for? We came to ask for a favor! Not to act like a gangster!”

Harry was so close to losing it.

He went forward and filled the captain’s pocket with a lot of cash.

Seth happily accepted it.

He gave Levi a call once again.

“Tell them that if they wanted to meet me, it would only be right for them to show some sincerity by prostrating themselves on the ground,” said Levi from the other side of the phone.

“Did you hear that? If you really wanted to ask Mr. Garrison for a favor, then prostrate on the ground right now!”

“Levi you piece of shit!”

Just when Shaun and Harry were about to burst from rage, their father stopped them.

“What are you doing? Have you not come back to your senses yet? On your knees!”

Under the instruction of the head of the household, Fabian, Shaun, Harry and the rest all knelt before the building.

How humiliating!

Words can't describe such humiliation!

To think that there would be a day where they would have to kneel before Levi.

The passers-by were amused by such a scene and some even took pictures of them.

This made the Lopez family feel even more humiliated!

Their pride and honor were being trampled on publicly.

Each and every one of them swore to take vengeance on Levi.

They would give it back to him tenfold!

Harry felt humiliated despite not being the one kneeling down.

The Lopez family's honor was tarnished.

But in order to meet Zoey, he could only endure the pain.

Zoey and Levi were watching from the window of their office, they had the best front-row seat all to themselves.

Looking upon the scene of her arrogant uncles kneeling before her, Zoey found it especially entertaining.

But she also felt bad for them.

“Levi, don’t you think that we have gone too far? They might not be able to recover from this mental anguish after all!”

The Protector Chapter 371

Zoey was just too kind for her own good.

“Are you actually feeling sorry for them? Don’t you know what the Lopez family meant by kicking you out of the family? They wanted you out of their sight!” Levi chided.

Zoey slowly nodded.

That was not false...

“Hey, Seth? Why is he still standing? Tell him to kneel!”

Levi was visibly annoyed while Zoey began to panic.

“W-what are you doing? He’s my Grandpa! How can you tell him to do that?”

Zoey's breaths quickened as her heart was gripped by horror.

"He has never thought of you as a granddaughter, has he? Don't get yourself involved. Leave it to me!"

There was a tone of finality in Levi's voice.

Meanwhile, on the plaza, Seth approached Harry slowly.

"Can they see me?" Harry asked.

"Of course! Why aren't you kneeling? Get down now!" Seth demanded.

"Me?"

Harry shot him a look of confusion.

He had not expected to be forced to kneel as well.

He had thought that getting Fabian to kneel before Zoey was already sincere enough.

Why are they after me now? He thought.

Are the two of them crazy?

Do they even care about their seniors?

Such unfilial children!

"Hey! Did you hear me? Stop acting like you're so special! You're here to plead someone to do your bidding, for goodness' sake!"

Seth was visibly enraged.

Harry began to tremble uncontrollably. "A-are you telling us to get on our knees?"

"Obviously! Kneel now or scram!"

Seth glared at Harry impatiently.

Crash!

As the Lopez family looked on in horror, Harry fell to his knees in front of Seth.

The pride of the Lopez family fell with him.

What a shame!

Levi Garrison! We're going to kill you!

That was the thought coursing through every Lopez family member's minds.

Even Harry felt utterly humiliated when he knelt in front of Seth.

He had admitted defeat to Levi Garrison!

Harry could feel his self-confidence crumbling into the ground when he noticed the passersby's curious looks.

He wished he could bang his head against a wall and kill himself.

However, he had to stay strong for the sake of the Lopez family.

Zoey, who had been sitting in her office, was shocked by the sight before her.

Harry Lopez was on his knees!

She began to feel guilty but could not help but look at Levi curiously.

This man seems different after coming out of jail... She thought.

He had become a literal fortune teller.

He had predicted the fall of the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce and the Gonzales family.

He had speculated Harry Lopez to show up, kneel before them, and plead for their help.

...

Is he God?

Is he a prophet?

She started to wonder if the whole thing had been orchestrated by Levi and the entire Lopez family.

However, that seemed almost impossible.

“What are we going to do now?” Zoey asked.

“Leave them there.”

By the end of the workday, Harry and company had been kneeling outside the office for a good three hours.

Levi told Zoey to get in Iris' car and leave the scene.

Meanwhile, he waltzed out of the entrance to the office.

Everyone in the Lopez family grinned from ear to ear when they saw him.

Their last lifeline had arrived!

Levi headed straight for Harry and smiled at him. “Well, old man, you’re an obedient one, aren’t you?”

“Weren’t you and Zoey the ones who told us to kneel here? Where is she? Has she agreed to our requests?” Harry hurriedly asked.

“That’s right! We’re still waiting for her to come back and deal with the situation!”

The others began to panic as well.

Levi simply smiled. “I’m sorry, but I think you’ve misunderstood us. This has nothing to do with Zoey.”

The Protector Chapter 372

“What? Are you saying she doesn’t know a thing about this?”

Harry was dumbfounded.

“That’s right. What requests did you have, by the way?” Levi asked.

The entire Lopez family froze for a moment.

Indeed, they had been kneeling for three hours without mentioning their requests.

“Are you messing with us right now?”

Harry glared at Levi, disbelief evident in his eyes.

The members of the Lopez family felt as though they could go crazy any moment.

“What? No, of course not! It’s not like you told me anything before you kneeled!” Levi sneered.

The Lopez family looked like they were about to burst into tears at any moment.

“Alright then. If there’s nothing else, I shall take my leave,” Levi declared, before turning around to walk away.

“Wait! Where’s Zoey!” Shaun yelled after him, rushing forward to stop him.

“Why should I tell you? Go away!”

“I’m not letting you leave until you spit it out!” Shaun yelled.

“Get out! Are you tired of living?”

Seth and his army of security guards soon rushed to the scene.

Within seconds, Shaun and his subordinates were lying face-down on the floor with their hands behind their backs.

That was the third beating he had received that day.

The Lopez family could only watch in despair as Levi left the scene.

The people of Morris Group had been overworked recently, the lights in their office staying on even in the wee hours of the morning.

That was because the market was no longer saturated after the collapse of the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce and the Gonzales family.

Morris Group needed to expand as quickly as possible to snatch the newly-available market shares.

Recently, companies from South City and Quebec have flocked to North Hampton in an attempt to get a slice of the cake.

At that moment, Levi received a call from Aidan Wright, his former subordinate.

“Mr. Garrison, I’ve just come across a promising company that might be of interest to Ms. Lopez.”

“Tell me about it,” Levi said.

“It’s the Oriental Star. Its biggest shareholder used to be the Gonzales family, and it has several different projects under its management, including its recent ventures into the entertainment industry. The collapse of the Gonzales family has left it with close to no sponsors. They’ll be auctioning off the company tomorrow at the suburb resorts. Do you need me to buy it over?” Aidan asked.

“No need. I’ll go there myself,” Levi answered, smiling.

He wanted to take Zoey on a vacation to escape from her unreasonable family members anyway.

Zoey was still fretting over the matter when she got home.

“Pack your things!” Levi exclaimed suddenly.

“What? Why?” Zoey asked, widening her eyes in surprise.

“We’re going on a vacation!”

“Why are we going now?” Zoey questioned doubtfully.

She was worried about her job, her future and her family.

Going on vacation was the last thing on her mind.

Even so, Levi insisted on taking her along to the Clear Sky Resort, where the auction would take place.

She was still in the dark about his true intentions.

By the time they arrived at the resort, it was already late at night.

Even so, the parking space outside the resort was packed with luxury cars, making even Zoey’s Audi RS7 look cheap.

“Wow! Isn’t that Cloudscape’s chairperson? Why is he here too?”

“That’s Fortune Source’s CEO...”

Zoey looked excited to see so many tycoons gathered in one place.

At the same time, she could not help but wonder why they were all there.

She finally got the answers to her questions after the registration.

Oriental Star Group was going to hold an auction at that venue the next day.

Those tycoons were there to compete for its ownership.

“Looks like I’ve underestimated the number of conglomerates that fell with the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce and the Gonzales family!” Zoey sighed.

The Protector Chapter 373

“What do you think of the Oriental Star Group?” Levi asked.

“It’s an extraordinary corporation! I’m just amazed at how they managed to break into both the property and the entertainment industry. Look at how well their artistes were doing!” Zoey exclaimed happily.

Levi stroked her head lightly. “Alright then, it will belong to you tomorrow!”

“Hahaha!” Zoey laughed loudly.

“Stop joking! It’ll cost you at least two billion to even stand a chance!”

Levi had indeed promised to help her rise to the top, but buying the entire Oriental Star would be impossible.

She figured he was just trying to comfort her.

“Let’s just treat the auction as a learning opportunity, shall we?” She smiled.

Just as the two of them were about to take the lift to their hotel room, a voice rang from behind them. “Are you Zoey?”

They turned around to see a young man dressed impeccably in a suit. Despite looking like he was in his thirties, he gave off the aura of a business veteran.

“Hm? Terence Gibson?”

Zoey recognized him immediately.

He was the son of one of Aaron’s classmates.

Aaron’s classmate had once tried to matchmake Terence with Zoey, but she had rejected him outright.

“It’s really you! I thought I might have gotten the wrong person.”

Terence smiled and glanced at Levi scornfully.

“Are you working here, Terence?” Zoey asked.

Terence stood upright and put on a proud expression. “That’s right! I’m the general manager of the Clear Sky Resort. Here’s my name card.”

He proceeded to hand over a copy of his name card to both Zoey and Levi.

“Wow, Terence! You seem to be doing great!” Zoey said politely.

“A few million a year, perhaps? I can’t compare with you,” Terence said arrogantly.

“Oh, that reminds me. I heard your company has been taken over by the Lopez family a few days ago, and that your name has been crossed out from the genealogy book. My sincere condolences!”

He glanced at Levi once again and continued, “Besides, your husband is pretty useless this whole time. Didn’t he just come out of prison?”

Seeing that both of them were silent, Terence continued his speech, “Bro, aren’t you embarrassed that you’re living off a woman’s salary? Just divorce her already. You’re dragging her down!”

“What makes you think you’re a better husband than me?” Levi retorted.

Perfect! Terence thought.

It looks like he knows he doesn’t deserve her...

Terence’s gaze was deep as he looked at Zoey with starry eyes. “Zoey, I’m thirty-two this year but I’m still single. I’ve been waiting for you this whole time! If you’re willing to marry me, I can take you back to one of my mansions immediately. I have all the money you will ever need, and a Porsche at home!”

Zoey felt her cheeks heat up in embarrassment.

In Terence’s eyes, her flushed cheeks were a sign that she was moved by his show of wealth. He began to fantasize about their future adventures in bed.

“You can take over Clear Sky Resort once you marry me! I’ll establish another resort for myself,” Terence promised, smiling.

He was sure Zoey would not be able to resist such a lucrative offer.

“How much is this resort worth?” Levi asked while smiling.

“Two hundred million!” Terence answered proudly.

Levi took out his phone and dialed a number. “Hello? It’s me, Levi Garrison. We’re buying Clear Sky Resort!”

The Protector Chapter 374

Levi's straightforward words came as a shock to Zoey and Terence.

However, Terence started to chuckle after a few moments.

"Bro, have you been watching too many movies? Are you sure you can afford to buy my resort?" Terence scoffed.

Hahaha! What a maniac! Who does he think he is? A millionaire or something? He's just an attention-seeking jerk!"

The group of resort employees standing nearby began to poke fun at Levi.

He's being ridiculous! Zoey thought.

She did not care about her own dignity in front of Terence, but Levi just had to make a massive joke out of the two of them...

"We're heading to our room, Terence! See you around!"

At that moment, Zoey wanted nothing more but to escape from the hellhole she was in.

She dragged Levi away by the arm.

"Zoey! Keep my name card on you! Come and look for me if you need anything. I'll be keeping my promises!" Terence yelled after them.

Afterwards, he turned around and told his employees, "Find out which room they're in and give me a spare room card."

A lewd smile appeared on Terence's face.

That was not the first time he had fantasized about getting intimate with her.

The chance had come, and he was not going to miss it.

"Hmph! Just you wait, Zoey!" He snickered inwardly as the flame of desire inside of him began to burn unbearably bright.

Meanwhile, Levi and Zoey had arrived at their room.

Levi received a call from someone just moments later.

"Hello? Is it done? Alright, send me the contract tomorrow. I'll deal with it then," He said into the phone.

Zoey rolled her eyes. "There's no one here but me. Can you stop with your acts?"

She was still convinced Levi was making things up.

However, what she did not know was that the Rogers family had already done Levi's bidding. They had purchased the entire Clear Sky Resort on his behalf.

Afterwards, they went to a restaurant to have dinner.

The employees that had been stalking the two of them ran back to report their movements to Terence.

This is my chance! He thought gleefully.

He walked into the kitchen.

"Where are the orders from Table 8?" He asked casually.

“They’re here!” the chef answered, pointing to a tray of food sitting on the table by the side.

Terence took out a packet of powder and emptied it into a couple of dishes discreetly.

That was from his stash of sleeping drugs.

He had used it several times over the years.

Every time a pretty girl came to his resort, he would spike her food with that drug and sneak into her room at night.

None of them would remember anything the next day.

Terence walked over to Table 8 with one of the waiters.

“Zoey, here’s a gift from me to you. Enjoy!”

“Thank you!” Zoey said.

Levi was still skeptical of Terence.

He bent down to take a whiff of the food and the wine, and lo and behold, both the food and the wine had been spiked.

However, he did not say anything about it.

He dug in with Zoey as though nothing had happened.

Terence watched everything unfold before his eyes from the other end of the restaurant.

Time to have some fun tonight! He thought.

The sleeping drug would take effect in about an hour, and Zoey would be his in no time.

...

Still ignorant of her precarious situation, Zoey poked Levi's arm and gestured for him to look to the side.

After Levi took one look at the table next to them, he almost spit his food out.

There were three men sitting by the neighboring table.

The three of them were tall and muscular, but their faces were caked with makeup.

To Levi's bewilderment, the men sounded and acted like women.

They would even kiss each other from time to time...

They're gay!

That was the only thing Levi could think of as he watched those men go about their business.

The Protector Chapter 375

Not only were the young, handsome guys coming out as gay, but even the most manly-looking men might also surprise everyone with their sexual identity.

The contrast between their appearance and their demeanor was astonishing.

The more Levi looked at the three men flirting with one another, the more uneasy he felt.

Zoey could feel goosebumps appearing on her arm.

“Let’s finish our food and leave, darling!” Zoey whispered.

“Alright,” Levi answered.

They stuffed the rest of their food into their mouths and left afterwards.

Zoey began to feel drowsy soon after the meal, and she collapsed onto the bed in their room as soon as they returned.

The sleeping drug had, without a doubt, taken effect.

However, Levi seemed immune to its effects, and he decided to sit on the sofa to wait for his prey.

Meanwhile, Terence was getting jittery as he sat waiting in his office.

He had waited for an additional half an hour to make sure that the drug had taken effect.

Walking on his tiptoes, he slowly made his way to Levi and Zoey's room.

He pressed the doorbell a couple of times, only to receive no reply.

He proceeded to bang on the door loudly – still no response.

Relieved, he took out his spare keycard and let himself in.

He turned on the lights to see Zoey lying on the bed, fast asleep.

Lustful thoughts overtook his mind, but not before he noticed Levi's absence.

“Wait...where's Levi?”

He began to search for the man.

Bam!

Suddenly, someone popped out from behind his back and smacked a heavy object onto his head, knocking him out cold.

Levi stood behind his limp body, taking his own sweet time to smoke a cigarette.

Afterwards, he dragged Terence by the arm to the door of another room.

He pressed the doorbell lightly.

That room had belonged to the three gay men they had encountered earlier.

The door flew open in seconds.

To the three men's surprise, there was no one outside, except for a young man stripped to his birthday suit.

It was none other than Terence, still out cold from the blow that Levi gave him.

The three men exchanged dirty grins.

In a flash, they picked Terence up and disappeared into their room.

For the rest of the night, everyone in the vicinity could hear terrified screams coming from the three men's room.

The other guests assumed they had been watching horror movies and decided to ignore them.

Meanwhile, the employees of the resort were huddled together in a gossip circle. "Is Mr. Gibson up to something again?" One of them asked.

"Yeah! Haven't you heard? It's his dad's classmate's daughter this time around! She's gorgeous!"

"I bet he's having a whale of a time right now. I saw him slip into her room just moments ago!"

However, the reality was far from what they had thought. Rather than bliss, Terence was in a state of confusion.

He could not tell if he had been dreaming or not.

He vaguely registered getting manhandled by three muscular men.

His entire body was throbbing in pain.

The next morning, he woke up to white-hot streaks of pain coming from his backside. He slowly opened his eyes to find himself lying on a large bed.

Did I succeed last night?

Terence was overcome by joy for just a second.

Did I finally get to spend a night with my goddess?

I don't seem to remember anything about it though...

Terence rubbed his throbbing head.

Afterwards, a wave of fatigue washed over him like a tsunami.

He could feel stabs of pain from every part of his body; his lips, his neck, his arm, and even his backside. He felt as though he had been torn open from the inside.

What even happened last night?

Was Zoey crazier than I thought?

Terence could not figure out why he was feeling that way.

He blinked to clear his vision before reaching out to check if there was anyone next to him.

The flesh his fingers came into contact with was as hard as a rock.

He froze when he realized who had been sharing a bed with him.

The Protector Chapter 376

“Ahhhhh!”

Terence let out a piercing scream that could almost tear the roof of the building.

He began to wonder how he had gotten himself into that situation.

Where did my clothes go?

What happened here?

Who can tell me what's going on?

Terence felt like breaking down there and then.

His scream jolted the three men awake.

They looked at him flirtatiously and cooed, “Oh, baby, you're awake?”

“Urgh...”

Terence almost puked his dinner out when he heard those words.

Disgusting!

Terence stumbled off the bed and glared at the three men warily. “Who are you? Why are you here?”

“Baby, you came here yourself! You were completely naked!”

“Are you running away after enjoying yourself? Ew! What a jerk!”

...

Terence could feel his sanity slipping away as he stared at the three men.

What in the world happened between us?

He knew he had to get out of there.

Terence wrapped a blanket around himself and made a run for the door, but before he could get there, the three men formed a line and blocked his way.

“Did we say you could go, baby?”

“What the hell are you doing? I’m going to kick the three of you out later on!” Terence threatened as bolts of pain continued to shoot through his flesh.

“Why don’t you take a look at what happened last night yourself, baby?”

One of them handed a camera over to Terence.

The more he watched the sinful action unfold, the more he wanted to wither into the ground.

He had indeed been manhandled by the three men!

“Argh! I can’t stand it anymore!

He was going crazy from anger.

“Levi Garrison! He must have tricked me! I’m going to kill him!” He yelled the moment he put two and two together.

I have to leave this place!

Terence knew he had to get out no matter what.

“Baby, don’t leave! If you leave, we’ll put this video online!” The three men threatened.

Terence was scared out of his wits when he heard them.

If that video ended up online, he might just be left with no choice but to disappear from the face of the earth.

His parents would die of embarrassment!

Crash!

Just like that, the three men threw Terence onto their bed again and resumed their roughhousing.

Terence gripped the sheets tightly as angry tears flowed down his cheeks.

It was the most shameful moment of his life.

No man would be able to stand being humiliated like that!

When Terence was finally released from that prison, he could not even walk straight. He had no clothes to wear, so he ended up borrowing one of the men’s clothes before he could go out.

His tears never stopped flowing, and he felt numb all over.

He wished he could just end it all.

How could this happen to me? He thought sorrowfully.

“Hm? Terence? Why are you limping around? Are you crying?”

Zoey’s voice rang down the hallway all of a sudden.

Terence looked up, only to jump in shock as Zoey and Levi appeared before him.

Levi piped up as well. “Yeah, bro! Why are you crying? What happened?”

“Why are your lips bleeding? And what’s with the hickeys, lipstick marks and perfume...” Levi asked, frowning.

Every word of Levi’s was like a grain of salt on Terence’s wounds, reminding him of the suffering he had gone through.

All those markings were remnants of the three men’s crimes towards him!

“Where were you last night? Are these clothes even yours?”

More tears spilled out of Terence’s eyes when he heard that.

His chagrin grew when he noticed Zoey’s revolted expression.

This is it.

This is the end!

She’s going to hate me forever!

Levi suddenly leaned forward and sniffed Terence’s body before turning to Zoey, saying, “Honey, can you smell that? Doesn’t he smell like those three gay men we saw yesterday?”

The Protector Chapter 377

Boom!

Terence could feel his head exploding.

Levi, you're going too far!

Why are you rubbing salt on my wounds?

If anyone hears about the tragedy he had gone through, death might just be the only option left for him.

In particular, his dignity would be reduced to naught if Zoey found out.

Zoey breathed in deeply and said, "Yeah! It smells familiar! I remember that scent!"

"Oh dear, bro! Don't tell me you slept with those three men last night? Gosh, I didn't know you had such a kink. No wonder you aren't married yet!"

Levi's exaggerated tone attracted the attention of everyone around them.

"Yeah! I remember those clothes as well. It belongs to one of them! Don't tell me you're..."

Zoey looked at Terence quizzically.

Terence's dignity was in shambles; he decided to make a run for it.

Pitter patter...

He scampered down the hallway with his head down.

Tears of despair ran down his cheeks as he ran off.

“Ew! I didn’t know he was interested in that! Hubby, I don’t want to see him ever again,” Zoey snarled.

“I know, right? I almost puked my guts out when I saw him!” Levi chuckled while smiling.

Terence ran back to his room and burnt the clothes on his body.

He dived into the shower room and used up a whole bottle of body wash to scrub every inch of his skin down after that.

He finally got out of the shower after a long, long time.

He had been trying to wash the marks of humiliation the men had imprinted on his skin.

He put on a fresh set of clothes and showered himself in perfume in an attempt to mask the scent of those three men.

“It must have been you, Levi Garrison!” He snarled to himself.

His mind was clearer than it had ever been.

From Levi’s reaction just moments ago, Terence could tell that he had been the mastermind behind all this.

After all, he had passed out just moments after entering Levi and Zoey’s room.

It must have been him!

He ran over to the security room and pulled out the CCTV footage from last night.

When he saw Levi dragging his limp body to the three men's room, he banged his fist on the table in a fit of anger.

"I'm going to kill you, Levi Garrison!" He growled loudly.

He could almost explode on the spot.

He deleted the footage immediately afterwards.

The security guards in charge of the CCTV footage began to snicker amongst themselves. "Boss, how was last night? Why don't you tell us about her? We heard she's as pretty as a goddess!" One of them quipped.

Slap!

"Shut up!"

Terence slapped the person who had just spoken across the face.

He had just been violated by three men!

There was no way he was going to tell them about such a thing!

Afterwards, Terence rushed to Levi and Zoey's room with a group of security guards behind him.

"Zoey Lopez! Your husband is a thief! We caught him stealing the belongings of other customers on camera!" Terence bellowed.

He did not care about his image anymore.

All he wanted to do was to beat Levi into a pulp.

Even so, he needed an excuse to do so.

“Huh? That’s impossible. He was with me all along!” Zoey argued.

“Move aside! Take Levi Garrison away!” Terence yelled.

The guards rushed forward to tackle Levi.

“Terence! What are you doing?”

A loud voice boomed down the hallway, followed by hurried footsteps.

“Hm? Mr. Zielger? Why are you here?”

Terence turned around, utterly confused.

The boss of the resort strode down the hallway and stopped in front of him.

“Someone has bought over the resort. I’m here to settle the paperwork,” Mr. Ziegler said.

The Protector Chapter 378

“What? Someone bought the resort?”

Terence froze in his tracks.

Zoey was shocked as well.

Could this be a coincidence?

Did Levi actually buy the resort last night with that phone call?

“That’s right. The paperwork was done last night, but he only requested to see it today.”

Mr. Ziegler’s words hit Zoey like a train.

She tossed Levi a quizzical look. Was it you? She questioned with her eyes.

“M-Mr. Ziegler, w-who bought the resort?”

Terence began to stammer as the scary truth dawned upon him.

“He’s right in front of you!” Mr. Ziegler said, smiling.

Mr. Ziegler took one step forward and bowed low to Levi. “Mr. Garrison, the ownership of the Clear Sky Resort has now been transferred to you. Here is the contract for your reference.”

Boom!

It was as though a meteorite had landed upon Terence when Mr. Ziegler spoke those words.

He felt as though he had been cracked open from the head down.

It was him all along!

He actually bought the resort last night!

He had thrown out two hundred million in exchange for the resort with just one phone call!

Terence was utterly dumbfounded.

Wasn't he just an imbecile who leeches off his wife's fortune?

Even Zoey could not believe her ears.

Did he actually buy the resort?

She stared at Levi, absolutely stupefied.

Levi simply smiled. "Never mind with the paperwork. The resort belongs to me now, doesn't it?"

"That's right!"

"They answer to me now, right?" Levi asked, pointing at the group of security guards behind Terence.

"Of course!"

Levi suddenly raised his voice and hollered, "Well then, why don't you tell me what valuables were lost last night?"

The security guards and Terence felt as if they could suffocate on the spot.

The security guards exchanged looks before glancing at Levi and Terence.

Noticing something was amiss, Mr. Ziegler began to grow agitated. "Say something! Spill the truth!"

The leader of the security team was the first to speak up. "Nothing of such sort happened Sir! Terence told us to use this as an excuse to beat you up, Sir!"

Flop!

Terence collapsed onto the ground.

"I'm sorry! Mr. Garrison, Zoey, please forgive me! I won't do it ever again!"
Terence cried.

Levi smirked. "Can someone send him to room 1409 for me?"

Terence began to panic the moment he heard the room number.

His eyes were swollen as his body began to tremble like a leaf.

"No...no, no! No!"

"Please! Let me go!"

"Send him there now!" Levi snarled.

"No!"

Terence turned around to run away, but his unstable gait made it difficult for him to do so.

Within seconds, he was tackled onto the floor by the security guards.

That room was hell to him.

As he struggled against his restraints, the security guards dragged him to room 1409 and threw him inside.

“Um...what’s with room 1409?” Zoey asked curiously.

“Remember the three men? That’s their room!” Levi whispered.

“Huh?”

Zoey decided not to ask any further.

Levi’s eyes held a dangerous glint.

That was the least he could do to punish Terence for drugging his wife.

Soon, the time came for the auction of the Oriental Star Group.

The participants filed into the venue as soon as the doors opened.

Zoey and Levi headed in as well.

Just as they had expected, the room was filled with the tycoons of the city.

Not only were the prominent businessmen of the local economy present, but Zoey also caught sight of several foreign investors in the crowd.

The Oriental Star Group was a lucrative business that anyone would long to have a piece of.

“Hey, beautiful! Care to be my friend?”

Suddenly, a group of people rushed towards Levi and Zoey.

The Protector Chapter 379

The man leading the group smiled brightly at Zoey while completely ignoring Levi.

Zoey returned a smile. “Apologies. I’m already married.”

“Well, that doesn’t mean we can’t get to know each other! I’m Zayn Suarez of the South City Suarez family!”

The man handed Zoey a copy of his name card.

Everyone was shocked to hear his name.

“What? Zayn Suarez? The third Young Master of the South City Suarez family? Why is he here? They’re just as affluent as the Rogers family! Were they after the Oriental Star as well?”

“What’s the point of competing with them? We should just give up.”

The tycoons around them looked defeated.

They knew that many tycoons from South City have come to North Hampton to snatch a portion of the Oriental's shares.

However, they had not expected to meet someone from the Suarez family in person.

Zayn seemed satisfied with this reaction.

The prominent families of South City were treated like royalty in North Hampton. It was as though they were visiting monarchs from faraway kingdoms.

"Do you think I'm good enough for you?" Zayn asked proudly.

The young masters of South City have long been looking forward to paying a visit to North Hampton, where there was a large population of beautiful women.

Zayn had fallen for Zoey the moment he saw her.

She was prettier than any movie star he had ever seen!

He did not care if she was married or not, as he just wanted a taste of her sweetness.

"No!"

Levi spat a single word of rejection into Zayn's face and pulled Zoey over to their designated seats.

Zayn watched them leave with an evil grin on his face. "Fine then, wait till the auction's over! You can't escape from me, woman!"

Soon, the seats were filled, and the Oriental Star Group representatives filed into the room.

After a brief introduction of the Oriental Star Group, the auction officially began.

“The starting bid is one and a half billion. Bidding starts now!” The auctioneer announced.

“1.53 billion!” The Cloudscape chairperson yelled, raising his paddle.

“1.55 billion!” The Fortune Source CEO hollered, raising his paddle as well.

...

Soon, the bid rose to 1.7 billion.

Everyone raised their bids tentatively, each bid only a little higher than the previous one.

“Is this a joke? Why are they increasing their bids by only ten million at a time?” Levi growled, visibly annoyed.

Zoey grinned. “We’re just here on a learning journey. There’s no need for us to get involved.”

After that, she glanced in the direction of Zayn and his party. “Besides, I think it’s pretty obvious that he’s going to win the auction in the end!”

“Oh, really?” Levi said, smirking.

“Two billion!”

Zayn, who had been silent the whole time, raised his paddle and shouted his bid without warning.

The sudden addition of three hundred million shook everyone to the core.

More than half of the participants could no longer afford to go any higher.

Zayn glanced at the crowd, warning them to stay back with his piercing gaze.

“2.1 billion!” Someone yelled, refusing to back down.

“2.2 billion!”

...

The tycoons decided to give up if the price went over two and a half billion.

“Three billion!”

Zayn yelled out an astronomical sum yet again.

The crowd roared, and everyone turned to stare at Zayn in shock.

“The Suarez family really is scary!”

“I knew we wouldn’t be able to win the moment I saw him!”

...

The crowd chattered amongst themselves fearfully.

Even the Oriental Star Group representatives were getting excited.

They had not expected the bid to go so high.

Zoey smiled bitterly and looked at Levi. “I knew it. They’re going to win.”

However, her face fell the very next second.

Levi had raised his paddle!

Is he going to bid?

The Protector Chapter 380

Zoey had wanted to stop him, but it was too late.

Everyone's eyes were trained on him the moment he raised his paddle.

“Three billion, one!”

The entire crowd froze for a moment when they heard that.

By the time Zayn had given his three billion bid, most of the tycoons had already given up.

They were ready to accept the reality that the Oriental Star Group was going to belong to Zayn.

To their surprise, however, someone was still going!

He had increased the bid by just one!

It was obviously a move to provoke Zayn Suarez.

The Oriental Star Group representatives began to panic.

Who even does that?

Besides, there was an unspoken agreement amongst the bidders to increase the price by ten million with each bid.

Everyone from Zayn's party stared at Levi in anguish.

How dare they provoke us?

Zayn, however, merely kept his evil grin on his face.

You dare threaten me?

You're asking for trouble!

"3.1 billion!"

Zayn raised the bid by another hundred million and glared at Levi.

Let's see how long you can keep up!

"3.1 billion, one!"

Levi did not give up.

"You..."

Zayn was about to explode from anger.

This man is definitely messing around with me!

Everyone else could only stare at Levi in shock.

Where did he get the guts to mess around with the Young Master of the Suarez family?

He's dead meat for sure...

Zoey was concerned as well.

She knew exactly how powerful the Suarez family was, and she did not want to get into their bad books.

Levi was playing with fire!

However, it was too late for her to stop him.

"3.2 billion!"

Zayn continued to increase the bid.

His family had budgeted for a three million bid, but Levi's appearance had forced him to scrap their plan.

He had no choice but to add another two hundred million.

I'm going to kill you and sleep with your wife once this is over! He snarled inwardly.

Levi remained unfazed. "3.2 billion, one!"

"You...you bd!"

Zayn stomped his foot on the floor while the rest of his party fumed in silence.

Hasn't he had enough?

Meanwhile, everyone else in the crowd looked on with frowns on their faces.

This boy is doing it to the extreme!

“Fine then. Let’s see if you can take this!”

Zayn raised his paddle again and yelled, “3.5 billion!”

“Woah...”

The crowd drew in a collective gasp when he announced his bid.

The Oriental Star Group representatives were ecstatic.

That was way more than they had expected!

Zayn glared at Levi again arrogantly.

3.5 billion was the most he could afford as there were other expenses the Suarez family had to take care of.

All he wanted to see was if Levi had the guts to increase the bid any further. If he did not, Zayn would get the Oriental Star Group like he was supposed to.

If Levi were stupid enough to bid any higher, Zayn would step aside and watch his desperate attempts to produce 3.5 billion worth of cash.

All eyes were trained on Levi at that moment.

Zoey held her breath anxiously.

To everyone’s surprise, Levi raised his paddle slowly and yelled, “Four billion!”

“What?”

“Four billion?”

The room went deathly silent after Levi announced his bid.

Everyone had been expecting him to increase the bid by just one.

Who knew he would add another five hundred million instead?

Boom!

Zayn and his party could only gawk at Levi.

Looks like he had not been messing around after all...

Zoey, on the other hand, began to panic.

Is he crazy?

Four billion?

Where is going to get the money from?

Is he joking?

“Going once...going twice...sold! Oriental Star Group has been purchased by Mr. Levi Garrison for 4 billion!”

The Protector Chapter 381

The auction ended as quickly as it started.

The Oriental Star Group representatives had reaped almost twice the amount they had planned for.

It made them jittery with excitement.

Bang! Bang! Bang!

Zayn slammed his fist against the chairs over and over again.

Veins began to appear on his neck as his face contorted into an ugly scowl.

The Suarez family had planned to take over the Oriental Star Group as a crucial first step to break into the North Hampton market.

He had failed his entire family.

Zayn raised his head and glared at Levi coldly. "Well, Sir, may I ask how you're going to produce the four billion you promised?"

Everyone snapped out of their shocked trance when they heard that.

It's four billion!

Does he really have that much money?

Even Zoey was not convinced.

Since when did he have four billion?

A few members of the staff walked up to Levi. “Sir, you need to prove your assets to take part in the bidding. You are the only one here who has yet to do so. We hope you understand,” They explained with a smile.

Levi took out a black card and said, “I’m paying by card.”

No one believed him.

It’s four billion, for goodness’ sake!

What kind of credit card could hold so much money?

All of their expenses came directly from their companies’ reserves.

Five minutes later, a huge group of staff members rushed over to Levi’s side.

They looked as though they were ready to kowtow to him.

“Mr. Garrison! The transaction was successful! Oriental Star Group now belongs to you!”

“Here is your card.”

The manager bowed deeply and handed the bank card to Levi with two hands.

The crowd let out a collective gasp.

“It...It went through?”

“He paid four billion by card?!”

Zayn and his party's eyeballs looked as though they were going to pop out of their sockets.

They had not expected to meet such a plutocrat on their first trip to North Hampton.

However, no one could compare to Zoey in terms of how bewildered she was.

She was still reeling from the shock of witnessing Levi buy over the entire resort that morning.

She could not believe her eyes when he had thrown out another four billion to buy the Oriental Star Group.

Where did he even get that money?

He was completely broke six years ago!

"Mr. Garrison, please come with us to settle the paperwork," The manager said politely.

"Oh, before I forget, I bought Oriental for my wife. Let her sign the paperwork," Levi said.

"What? It's all for his wife?"

"She's so lucky! Who even gifts a whole company to their wife?"

Everyone at the scene were shocked.

"I..."

Zoey covered her mouth with hands, unable to make a sound.

She was touched and moved to tears by this gift.

He had promised to help her rise to the top ever since she had been chased out of the Lopez family.

She had not expected anything like this.

Zoey stared at Levi lovingly, tears spilling from her eyes onto her porcelain cheeks.

“Let’s go, honey! Time to sign the paperwork!”

Levi took Zoey’s hand and followed the staff backstage.

Zayn watched as they left the scene with a gloomy expression.

“No, I can’t just let him go so easily! I have to secure the Oriental Star for my family! I want that woman for myself too...”

“What should we do, Young Master?” His subordinate Harold Walker asked.

“How many people did we bring this time round?” Zayn asked.

“Thirty fighters!” Harold replied.

“Alright. Tell them to get ready and intercept Levi and Zoey when they’re about to leave. I’m not going to let them get back to the city!” Zayn ordered.

A bloodthirsty glint flashed across Zayn’s eyes.

The Protector Chapter 382

Backstage...

It took them half an hour to settle the paperwork.

Zoey Lopez had officially become the owner of the Oriental Star Group.

Her hands could not stop shaking even after she signed her name on the contract.

It was unbelievable.

She felt as though she had been living in a fantasy all along.

Zoey stroked Levi's face lightly. "Hubby, are we still asleep?"

"Are you confused?" Levi asked.

"Does it hurt if I pinch you?" Zoey asked before pinching Levi's skin with all her strength.

"Ow! It hurts! You should have tested it on yourself..."

Levi took a step to the side to avoid her fingers.

My wife is so silly!

It took a while, but Zoey finally registered the situation.

Everything had been real!

“Did you just buy an entire corporation for me? You’re too nice...” Zoey sobbed, hugging Levi tightly.

“Where did you get so much money from? Are you hiding something from me?”

Zoey furrowed her eyebrows and stared at him with much doubt in her eyes.

“I...” Levi began. But he was cut off by the ringing of Zoey’s phone.

It was a call from Iris.

“You’re really happy now, aren’t you Zoey?” Iris asked, smiling.

“Huh? How did you know I’m happy now? Are you at the resort too?” Zoey asked, puzzled.

“Haha...our mysterious boss took notice of your exceptional talent and bought the Oriental Star Group for you! He needs your help urgently, so do your best!”

Upon hearing Iris’ explanation, Zoey’s face fell.

She looked at Levi with a grim expression.

She had thought he had a stash of cash somewhere that he used to be her hero.

The last thing she expected to hear was that the person who had secured the deal was the boss of the Morris Group.

Levi took advantage of the Morris Group to accomplish all this!

Despite her disappointment, she was touched by his sheer determination.

Instead of exposing him outright, she smiled and said, “Levi, you’re amazing! You should work hard so you can climb the ranks at Morris Group!”

Levi was utterly befuddled by her words.

I’m already the boss of Morris Group...

Why do I still need to climb the ranks?

The couple took their leave after signing the contract.

They passed by a group of people carrying Terence on a stretcher headed for the hospital as they exited the resort.

Levi scoffed. I could have killed you for plotting against my wife, so be grateful that I let you live.

As soon as Levi and Zoey got onto their car, Zayn appeared behind them.

“What? They already left? Kill the man and bring me the woman! I want to force them to hand over the Oriental to the Suarez family!”

A cruel grin appeared on Zayn’s face.

Even his companions shuddered at the sound of that. “Third Young Master, are you suggesting we take over the Oriental Star Group without spending anything?”

“Why not? We’ve only just started our conquest of North Hampton. We have to be as dominating as we can! We need everyone in North Hampton to fear the Suarez family!” Zayn declared.

“Let’s get going!”

Meanwhile, Zoey was nodding off in the car.

The effects of the sleeping drug had long worn off, but she still felt very sleepy after getting on the car.

Levi glanced at the vehicles following them through the rearview window and grinned.

Are they looking for trouble?

After a short while, a car appeared right in front of Levi's car and stopped him in his tracks.

The cars behind them also picked up speed and had their Audi surrounded within seconds.

The Protector Chapter 383

A few dozen people gushed out of the cars.

All of them were armed with metal sticks as they charged towards Levi and Zoey's car.

Levi slipped out of the car quietly to avoid waking Zoey up.

Harold stormed over to Levi and snarled, "You're a brave one, aren't you? Didn't expect you to get out and face us rather than running away!"

Levi calmly lit a cigarette and breathed out a ring of smoke before replying, "My wife is sleeping. Get out of my face, or else."

“Hahaha!”

Harold and his group of fighters burst into raucous laughter.

“That’s enough! Let’s beat him up!”

The group of fighters charged forward at Harold’s command.

Bam!

Levi sent a flying kick at the first person.

Pow!

The person launched into the air before crashing onto the ground with a loud thud. His limbs spasmed for a few seconds before he went limp.

Everyone froze for a second after witnessing Levi’s strength.

“Beat him up!” Harold yelled, enraged.

At the same time, Levi began to fight back.

With two mighty punches, he sent another two people flying.

Within seconds, he had appeared right in front of Harold and grabbed him by the shoulders.

Bang!

Levi raised his knee and knocked it against Harold’s face.

“ARGH!” Harold screamed.

Blood and gore smeared all over his face by the time he fell to the ground, making him almost unrecognizable.

Afterwards, Levi went into full battle mode.

Within a minute, the dozens of men Harold had brought along were all lying on the ground, unable to move.

Their limbs had all been broken and rendered useless.

He's strong!

He's way too strong!

Harold and his fighters had grossly underestimated his strength; Levi was unbelievably skilled.

Although Harold and his fighters were masters of underhanded tactics, they had been defeated in minutes.

They watched in horror as Levi dragged the cars they had used to block his path away with nothing but his bare hands.

Those cars weigh several tons!

Is he even human?

Harold's eyeballs were going to pop out from their sockets the more he stared at Levi.

His gaze was filled with fear.

The last thing he had expected to meet in North Hampton was a superhuman!

Suddenly, James rushed over to Levi's side with a few of his men.

"I'm sorry for coming late, Mr. Garrison!" He apologized.

"Don't worry. They were just a bunch of thugs," Levi said.

"Stay here and beat up anyone they send as reinforcements. Oh, and remember to spare one of them to act as a messenger," Levi stated before getting on his car and leaving the scene.

Zoey had been fast asleep the whole time.

An affectionate smile appeared on Levi's face at the sight of her.

He would have buried those people alive if they woke his wife up!

Meanwhile, Zayn was getting anxious.

He felt starved whenever he thought of her beautiful features, as well as his failure to obtain the Oriental Star Group for his family.

"Hurry up! I'm sure Harold and his men have already settled things!"

Zayn gave Harold a call, but it went unanswered.

"He must be beating that scumbag up," He snickered.

Zayn arrived at the scene five minutes later.

He grinned evilly when he saw the wreckages of cars strewn about the road.

"Get ready to die, Levi Garrison!"

Zayn rushed into the fray, only to be horrified by the sight that appeared before him.

The broken forms of Harold and his thirty fighters were all lying lifelessly on the ground.

“What happened?”

Zayn could not believe his eyes.

He could not see Levi’s car anywhere.

Bang!

Suddenly, the door to the car right next to him opened.

Several foreigners alighted from the car, their huge bodies making them look like mountains of flesh.

The leader, James, stared at him in mild interest.

The Protector Chapter 384

“Who are you? Where are Levi and Zoey?” Zayn asked.

“Well, Mr. Garrison told me to take care of you,” James answered, baring his teeth in a cruel grin.

“W-what do you want?”

Zayn began to panic as the muscular guys began to close in on him.

He was tiny compared to them...

Slap!

James slapped Zayn across his face without warning.

That slap almost knocked him out cold.

A buzzing sound ensued as he struggled to recover from it.

Crack!

The slap was not the end of it.

James stomped his foot into Zayn's leg, breaking it into pieces with a loud snap.

Crack!

His other leg was broken as well.

Crack!

Crack!

His arms were gone in seconds.

Zayn could do nothing but scream at the top of his lungs.

Not only did he lose an entire company to someone else, but he also got crippled by some foreign jerk.

Within minutes, all of Zayn's men were lying on the floor and writhing in pain.

Only one person remained.

"Let me remind you that North Hampton isn't a place you can just waltz into and call yourself the king!" James spat before turning around and taking his leave.

After just a few hours, word spread far and wide amongst the Quebec nobility. Not only did the Suarez family fail to snatch even a portion of the Oriental shares, but its Third Young Master and his men had also been beaten severely and thrown out of North Hampton.

It was the breaking news of the day.

Many people had considered going to North Hampton to vie for its market shares, but that incident had scared them off.

North Hampton had no shortage of leaders despite the collapse of the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce and the Gonzales family.

The Morris Group, for one, was a rising star.

It was rumored that someone from the Morris Group had crippled the Third Young Master of the Suarez family.

For a long time after, the Suarez family disappeared from public view, as though they had retreated to observe the situation from the sidelines.

The other families followed suit.

...

Meanwhile, Levi and Zoey made their way to the Oriental Star Group as quickly as they could.

The higher-ups of the Oriental rushed out of the building to welcome their new boss.

The media was contacted, and a press conference was held.

When Zoey arrived, a succession ceremony was being held, followed by the press conference.

On the other hand, the Lopez family continued to suffer.

“All of you! Get out!”

The manager of Union Square kicked the Lopez Group out of the office building.

They even went as far as throwing their things out of the door.

The Morris Group continued to bombard them with phone calls, reminding them that they only had one day left.

If they failed to evict themselves by the deadline, they would have to pay a fine of one billion.

The companies the Lopez Group had taken loans from continued to pester them for their repayment.

The Lopez family spent the night trying to contact Zoey to no avail.

By the next morning, Harry’s hair had turned snowy white.

“What are we going to do? Are we going to jail for this?” Harry muttered.

Everyone else looked as though they had not slept in days, with their dark eye bags and tired expressions.

They were running out of ideas.

Suddenly, a piece of news on the TV caught their attention.

“Hey! Isn’t that Zoey?” Melanie exclaimed.

“What? Zoey?”

Everyone looked towards the TV to see Zoey sitting behind the desk at the Oriental Star Group press conference.

The channel was reporting about the Oriental Star Group’s transfer of ownership to Zoey, as well as her appointment as the chairperson and CEO of the company.

“According to estimations, the Oriental Star Group is worth around five to six billion. Ms. Lopez’s spectacular leadership skills would help the Oriental grow and flourish even more!” The reporter said, smiling.

“What? She’s the chairperson of the Oriental Star Group now?”

“How can it be? Wasn’t it worth at least five billion?”

The Protector Chapter 385

“How did she do it? Am I dreaming?”

...

The members of the Lopez family could feel themselves going crazy.

They had not expected to be caught in this situation.

They had envisioned Zoey begging in the streets after being thrown out of the family, yet she had defied their expectations. She had become the chairperson of a huge company worth billions!

They regretted it immensely.

Harry, in particular, wished he could turn back time and right his wrongs.

Slap!

Slap!

He slapped Henry and Fabian across the face roughly.

“How dare you suggest that I cut Aaron’s family out of our lives? Look at Zoey now! We’re never going to be able to bask in her glory now! I bet buying the company was easy for her!” Harry yelled.

Henry and Fabian fell silent.

Weren’t you the one who made the decision?

Why are you pushing the blame onto us now?

What were you doing before that?

“How did she even do it?” Melanie asked, confused.

“I bet she got in bed with some tycoon! I can’t think of any other way she would be able to accomplish that!” Henry huffed.

“Yeah! That’s disgusting!”

“Luckily, she isn’t part of our family anymore! We would’ve been so embarrassed by her!”

“She’s so shameless!”

...

The Lopez family continued to rant about Zoey.

Harry nodded. “We all know what underhanded methods she used, but she’s the boss of the Oriental Star Group now. What can anyone do about it?”

“There’s only one way left, and that is to beg her for help!”

They made their way to the Oriental Star Group immediately.

They managed to bump into Zoey the moment they arrived at the office.

Though the members of the Lopez family despised her, they still plastered a smile on their faces as they approached her. “Oh Zoey, we’ve finally found you!” Harry exclaimed. “I’m sorry for everything that’s happened to you before. It was all your uncles’ fault! I’ve punished them severely.”

“As long as you’re willing to come back, you’ll be a part of our family again! Can you help us out, for my sake? Look at how crippled I look now!” He continued pleadingly.

Harry indeed looked about ten years older after just a couple days of separation.

“Zoey, you’re the boss of the Oriental Star Group now, so you have the power to help us out! It’ll be good for you in the future too!” Harry pleaded as the rest of the family looked on pitifully.

Zoey genuinely felt sorry for them.

“Hey, honey, what are you doing? Let’s go home!”

Just as she was wondering if she should help them, Levi appeared behind her.

The Lopez family fumed in silence when they saw him.

He’s up to no good again!

“Zoey, let’s talk about this in private. This has nothing to do with Levi,” Harry said hurriedly.

Levi quickly took Zoey’s hand and led her away. “Didn’t I tell you to ignore these people? Have you forgotten what I said?”

“I…”

Zoey bit her lip, unsure of what to say.

“You’re no longer a member of the Lopez family. Why care about their matters?”

When will she realize she’s too kind for her own good?

“What the hell do you mean, Levi Garrison?” Shaun yelled in a panicked voice as Zoey was dragged further away from them by Levi.

“Get out! We won’t help you!” Levi declared.

“Fine then! Do you want to know how Zoey got hold of her position at Oriental Star?” Shaun snickered.

“How?”

“She slept with another man!”

The Protector Chapter 386

Shaun pointed a finger at Levi as he scoffed, “You don’t know about it, do you? How do you think Zoey managed to convince those investors? How do you think she paid for that office in Union Square? She did all that by sleeping with other older men! You have been cheated on!”

“Hahaha! That’s right! Levi Garrison, you idiot. Did you really think Zoey would wait six years for you? In your dreams! She’s slept with countless men during that period.”

“Yeah, that’s right! Zoey is a hooker who brings shame to the Lopez family!”

“You disgusting b*! Do your parents know you are a slut?”

The situation had already turned sour, so the Lopez family could not care less anymore. They jumped in and kept insulting Zoey.

Sob! Sob!

Zoey teared up immediately after being ridiculed by her family.

Shaun scoffed, “What are you crying for? You don’t actually feel wronged, do you? Don’t think we don’t know about all the vile things you’ve done! We only kept quiet because it’s embarrassing, idiot.”

Shaun felt a chill run down his spine as soon as he finished speaking.

It felt as if he had been kicked into icy water.

When Shaun turned and saw Levi’s gaze, the former got so frightened that he almost fainted.

What the hell is that?

A monster?

A murderer?

That kind of gaze could puncture anyone’s heart, and one look was sufficient to trigger nightmares.

Boom!

Levi was standing in front of Shaun at the very next second.

The former kicked a leg out forcefully.

Spat!

Shaun spat blood after crushing into the wall and falling.

He hadn't even stood up before Levi showed up right in front of him.

Levi lifted Shaun, pressing him against the wall.

Levi's right hand was on Shaun's neck; it was becoming tighter and tighter...

"Urgh.. Argh..."

Shaun's face turned purple soon after, and his eyes turned white as his legs kicked around aimlessly.

He was suffocating!

Levi is going to kill him!

The Lopez family came around quickly. They hurried over to stop Levi.

Unfortunately, Levi kicked every single one of them away before they could stop him.

It was hopeless.

Levi was intent on killing Shaun.

Shaun's face was turning dark...

"Levi, no! You'll get in trouble for that!"

Zoey rushed over and pried Levi away.

Thump!

Shaun fell onto the floor after Levi loosened his grip. Unfortunately, Shaun fainted as he had been out of air for too long.

“Hurry and take him to the hospital!”

The Lopez family quickly carried Shaun and rushed him to the hospital.

Harry and the others wanted to threaten Levi, but when they saw Levi’s murderous gaze, they became so frightened that they couldn’t speak.

That’s a lunatic. We can’t mess with him.

Zoey shouted angrily, “I will no longer be a part of the Lopez family! Don’t come looking for me again because I won’t help any of you!”

Zoey and Levi left the place after.

If Zoey hadn’t stopped Levi, he would’ve killed them for what they said.

How could he let anyone insult his wife like that?

The Lopez family were utterly hopeless.

Zoey had mercilessly rejected them; their last shred of hope was gone.

They were on their own. They would have to pay a debt of one hundred million and a legal damage claim of one billion...

That was enough to land all of them in jail.

Harry gave up and readied himself to be taken into custody.

Still, he was angry because the other members of the Lopez family were still too young.

Shaun and the others were still in their twenties!

That was one of the most torturous nights for the Lopez family.

Many of them had aged a decade within that one night.

Everyone sat together the next day as they waited for the inevitable.

A few cars drove up to the house.

When the Lopez family heard those cars coming, they turned devastated.

The Protector Chapter 387

A group of people entered the house soon after.

Harry looked up and realized that he did not know any of the intruders.

The middle-aged man who looked like he was the boss came in and saw everyone looking devastated.

He yelled furiously, "What is the meaning of this? Why is the Lopez family of North Hampton in such a terrible state? You lot bring shame to our family!"

"Huh?"

Harry and the others were stunned.

Were those men not here to demand payment?

“Excuse me, but who are you?” inquired Harry.

“You don’t even recognize me, Harry Lopez? I am Dustin Lopez from South City!”
Dustin barked.

“What? The Lopez family from South City?”

Harry stood up immediately; he would’ve gone on his knees out of respect if that was appropriate.

Henry and the others stood up politely too.

It was a member of the Lopez family from South City!

As far as Harry and the others were concerned, that family were like royalty.

It was as if the kings and queens were visiting when members of the Lopez family from South City came to visit.

“What happened?” asked Dustin cruelly.

Harry quickly shared everything with him.

After learning everything, Dustin scoffed, “Fine, the Lopez family from South City will deal with it.”

“Huh?”

Harry and the others were flabbergasted.

The Lopez family from South City will deal with everything?

Is this a gift from heaven?

“We want to expand our business into North Hampton. You lot will play an important role, so your troubles must be solved,” Dustin clarified.

That made the others even happier.

The Lopez family from South City is coming to North Hampton? Does that mean we would benefit from their expansion too?

The Lopez family of North Hampton would play an important role in South City’s Lopez family’s development into North Hampton.

North Hampton’s Lopez family had great connections in the city. That would help the South City’s Lopez family build a strong foundation when they came.

Hence, it didn’t matter if Harry owed over a billion. The South City’s Lopez would help anyway because they would be earning hundreds of billions in the future with Harry’s help.

A mere billion didn’t mean much under those circumstances.

It took Dustin less than a day to solve all of Lopez Group’s troubles.

Harry and his family’s net worth also grew exponentially because the Lopez family of South City would be heading over soon.

With an ally that powerful, they didn’t need to care about Zoey anymore.

“What? Zoey is that unfilial?” Dustin growled in fury after hearing exaggerated and misleading stories from Harry and the others.

“Yeah, but this is all my fault. I did not guide her well, and that brought shame to the Lopez family.”

Harry looked like he was about to cry.

“Why didn’t you demand her to renounce her family name? Women like that have no right to use our surname!” said Dustin.

Harry complained in tears, “I have no right to do so. I could only remove her from our family tree. She would not agree to change her surname, and that bitch has risen to be a CEO by sleeping with others. We have no choice.”

Slam!

Dustin slammed his hand on the desk and growled, “Damn it! That woman brings shame to our entire family. I must force her and her family to change their surname. I will personally go after her since you lot can’t do it!”

“Also, my uncle, Sebastian, will be here soon. I want this matter solved before he reaches, so that minor issues like these don’t bother him,” added Dustin.

“What? Sebastian is coming? Thank heavens,” said Harry excitedly.

Dustin’s eyes shone with cruelty when he instructed, “You will come with me tomorrow, and we will solve this issue with Zoey together.”

The Protector Chapter 388

The Lopez family never thought they would see the day when they reached a new level.

They were under the protection of the Lopez family from South City.

That night, they were so excited that they could barely sleep.

They were all looking forward to hurting Zoey the next day.

They could finally their revenge.

The next day.

The Lopez family's fleet of cars marched proudly to Oriental Star Group.

"Excuse me, do you have a reservation?" asked the receptionist immediately when she saw the group of people coming.

"I am here to talk to Zoey Lopez!" scoffed Dustin, who was leading the way.

"Oh, you're here for Ms. Lopez? Have you made an appointment? Ms. Lopez just joined us, so she is extremely busy now," replied the receptionist with a smile.

They had seen Zoey clocking in before 7 a.m. that day.

Dustin scoffed, "As if I need an appointment to talk to her?"

“Wait, sir. You must call ahead if you want to talk to Ms. Lopez. I just looked into the system. Ms. Lopez doesn’t have any appointments with anyone today. Please do leave,” the receptionist said politely.

Slap!

Dustin suddenly slapped the receptionist.

That slap was so hard that the receptionist fell onto the floor and teared up...

Everyone was surprised.

No one thought Dustin would be that cruel.

“Security. Someone call security!”

Some spectators shouted instantly.

A group of security guards showed up soon after.

“Who’s the troublemaker?”

Dustin scoffed and instructed, “Take them down.”

The four muscular men standing behind him attacked.

Moments later, over twenty security guards were lying on the floor and groaning in pain.

Harry and the others were delighted to see that sight.

The Lopez family from South City truly was something else.

They were too cool!

They were so powerful that they didn't need to care about anything!

Dustin demanded cruelly, "Have Zoey Lopez come see me right away!"

More and more people gathered around the living room, and they stared at Dustin with their guard up.

Everyone saw just how powerful the four men with him were.

The situation became so dire that Zoey was alerted, and she and a few top managers went over.

Zoey's expression changed when she saw Harry and the others there.

"That's Zoey! That's the unfilial woman who has been tarnishing and destroying our family name."

Shaun and Melanie informed right away.

Dustin's domineering gaze turned to Zoey. "You're Zoey Lopez?"

"And you are?" asked Zoey curiously.

Shaun scoffed, "Listen up, Zoey. This is Mr. Dustin Lopez from South City, and by right, you should refer to him as grandpa. However, you are not worthy of doing so!"

"Huh? The Lopez family from South City?"

Zoey's expression changed, and her eyes shone as she had her guard up.

“Zoey Lopez, you will change your surname today. You are not allowed to keep it because your claim has been revoked!”

Dustin glared evilly at Zoey.

“Excuse me? My surname is revoked?”

Zoey refuted, “Well, it’s true that I have been removed from the family tree, but my name is Zoey Lopez, and no one can change that. The law accepts my name, and the name on my identity card and account will remain as Zoey Lopez!”

“No one can change that!”

Henry and the others stoked the fire by adding, “See? She has always been that unreasonable!”

Zoey’s attitude infuriated Dustin, and he shouted, “This is not up to you! The country has its laws, but the family has rules too! I represent the Lopez family from South City, and I say that you are changing your surname!”

The Protector Chapter 389

Zoey was angry too, and she insisted, "And I say that it will not happen! My name is Zoey Lopez, and no one can change that!"

"Fine, you forced me to do this. Guys, take her away! She will change her surname one way or another!" commanded Dustin.

The four men who had come with Dustin took Zoey away forcefully.

Oriental Star Group was in a mess.

Still, their opponent was a powerful figure from South City, so what could they do?

"This is our family's internal matter, and if anyone dares to butt in, the Lopez family from South City will show no mercy!" threatened Dustin before he left.

That frightened everyone even more.

In the end, Zoey was dragged back to the family's home.

They forced Zoey to kneel in front of the Lopez family's' ancestral hall.

"Sir, we have talked to the related departments, and Zoey's surname can be changed at any time."

Upon hearing that report, Dustin turned to Zoey and scoffed, "Pick any other surname. You are not worthy to be called a Lopez."

Zoey shook her head. "That will never happen! My name is Zoey Lopez, and I will not stand idly by even if you have the departments legally change my name. I will just change it back."

Everyone was shocked by Zoey's persistence.

"Damn you, Zoey Lopez. How dare you disregard the family rules?"

Dustin could feel his authority being challenged, and that infuriated him.

"Sir, that is how she has always been. She has never respected the Lopez family in North Hampton or in South City."

Shaun and the others kept stoking the fire from the side.

"I will order you one last time. Change your freaking surname!"

Dustin growled as he forced his anger down.

Zoey remained stubborn and ignored her safety then.

"No freaking way! You can demand a hundred times, but my answer will remain the same."

Dustin didn't look angry. Instead, he laughed and commented, "Fine then, you're being stubborn! Guys, prepare the whips in accordance with the family rules. I will hit her until she bows down!"

Dustin had just finished speaking when two of his subordinates approached with a long whip.

The more powerful a family was, the crazier and stricter their rules were.

Those in the family who disobeyed the rules would inevitably be whipped.

The whip would be so strong and harsh that its victim would need at least ten days of bed rest to recover.

Even Harry trembled at the sound of it.

He had seen the consequences of being whipped before.

One whip was sufficient to break its victim's skin and tear its victim's flesh.

Harry had seen a man suffer ten whips; he had taken a month to recover.

Harry never thought Dustin would do that to Zoey.

Zoey's stubbornness had obviously triggered Dustin, and the latter said, "I will carry that punishment out!"

Dustin took the whip and grinned like a cruel demon when he turned to Zoey.

"Zoey Lopez, you are an unfilial member of the Lopez family and have ignored our rules. You even abandoned our ancestral teaching, and as such, you will be punished."

"You will be removed from the family tree and will change your surname!" commanded Dustin cruelly.

"We will start with ten whips!"

Dustin could already see how horribly Zoey would bleed after being whipped.

Harry grew nervous then.

It didn't matter how angry or disappointed he was at Zoey.

She was still his granddaughter, and he had seen just how terrible the whips were.

Zoey would have trouble surviving if she were to be whipped ten times!

“Hang on. Let me talk to her first.”

Harry then walked to Zoey and advised, “Zoey, listen to me. Just agree to his terms. It’s just a surname, isn’t it? It’s not a big deal. You won’t be able to handle the whips.”

Zoey’s expression remained dark, and she scoffed, “Thanks, grandpa, but I will never agree to it. Come at me! I’m not afraid.”

“Then so be it!”

Dustin was extremely furious as he lifted his whip to attack Zoey.

The Protector Chapter 390

Harry was so scared that he closed his eyes.

Zoey closed her eyes too and felt hopeless as she readied to suffer through everything.

Boom!

Bang!

A surprising incident happened at that moment.

The heavy living room door had been kicked down, causing dust to fly everywhere.

Dustin was so surprised that he paused and stared stupidly.

When the dust settled, a figure walked out slowly.

“Huh? Levi?”

Shaun blurted in surprise.

When Zoey saw Levi there, she quickly broke free and rushed to him.

Sob! Sob!

Despite Zoey standing her ground earlier, she had been terrified.

Levi didn't say anything. He simply narrowed his eyes and glared at the Lopez family.

Anyone who knew Levi would be frightened because Levi was looking absolutely terrifying and cruel at that moment.

If they were on a battlefield, Levi's enemy would meet their end.

There was a saying about Levi that went, “When the God of War is angry, a million hidden soldiers will rise!”

“Are you the one who was going to hit my wife?” demanded Levi.

“Yes, that's me. You're Levi Garrison? How convenient! My uncle is coming after you too, so I will destroy you in advance. That would make an excellent gift for my uncle,” sneered Dustin.

The Lopez family from South City knew all about the notorious Levi Garrison.

That man was partially responsible for killing Quentin Lane.

He had also been there when Wesley became a cripple.

“Take him down,” ordered Dustin.

Dustin’s four subordinates walked towards Levi slowly.

“Step aside for now, honey. I’ll deal with this.”

Levi led Zoey aside.

Boom!

Levi saw one man coming at him, so he rushed forward too and punched the man’s face. That punch broke over ten of the man’s teeth and distorted half of his face.

Boom!

Another left hook swept across another man’s face.

Pfft!

The man fell down and fainted from that one punch.

Boom!

Boom!

The two remaining men were punched too and would need at least one month of bed rest.

“What? He’s that strong?”

Levi’s strength surprised everyone.

He’s that good of a fighter?

The one who was most afraid was none other than Dustin Lopez.

He knew just how powerful the four men he had brought with him were.

Dustin felt a little scared when he saw Levi approaching him.

“Do you even realize what you’re doing?”

Dustin had the whip in his hand when he warned, “Levi Garrison, you are dead because you kept challenging the Lopez family of South City! My uncle is coming all the way over just to defeat you. If you go down on your knee and beg for my forgiveness now, I might think about letting you go.”

Levi sneered.

He snatched the whip away from Dustin the very next second.

Levi checked the whip out and chuckled, “So this is the whip for carrying out the punishment? It’s quite sturdy.”

Dustin couldn’t help but sweat in fear as he scolded, “I’m warning you, Levi Garrison! Calm down! Don’t act impulsively or you and your wife will suffer dire consequences.”

Levi grinned, “I heard that you were going to whip my wife ten times. Is that right?”

“Huh? No, I...”

Whip!

Levi suddenly slashed the whip at Dustin.

One whip was all it took to tear through Dustin’s clothes and leave a deep and bloody wound.

“Ahhh!”

Dustin screamed in agony.

That painful shout got Harry and the others to back away.

Whip!

Levi whipped Dustin once more.

That second whip got Dustin’s clothes to fall from his body, and the second bloody mark on his fat body gave everybody goosebumps.

The Protector Chapter 391

“Ahhhhh!”

Dustin was rolling on the floor and screaming in pain.

Whip!

The third whip landed.

Dustin was dying of pain at that moment.

All he could feel was agony, and he had shouted so much that he lost his voice.

He felt as if his soul had left his body.

Whip!

Whip!

.....

Levi kept whipping until all ten whips had been delivered.

Dustin soon stopped screaming. His body had been so mercilessly whipped he stopped moving. He curled up in agony.

He didn't die, but everyone could tell that Dustin was basically crippled.

Those ten whips had kicked the life out of him, and he would be on bed rest for at least a year!

“How weak,” Levi scoffed before he tossed the whip aside and left.

“Quick, call the ambulance and take him to the hospital!”

Harry got nervous.

Things had gotten out of control.

Dustin was the next in line to inherit the Lopez family’s estate in South City!

Yet, he had been gravely injured in North Hampton, and Harry and the others will likely be punished harshly for what had happened.

“That Levi is too freaking stupid and brave. How dare he attack a member of the Lopez family from South City?” Shaun gaped as he grinned.

“You know, you’re right. Under these circumstances, there is no way the Lopez family from South City will let him live!”

“Right. Isn’t the famous Sebastian coming to destroy him?”

Melanie and the others were anticipating the future fight excitedly.

In the end, Dustin survived the incident, but the hospital reported that he would have a lot of complications in the future.

For example, Dustin might go into a coma and never wake up.

It was also likely Dustin would become a lunatic.

.....

Neither situation was what the Lopez family of South City wanted.

That was their next commander.

It would be a total joke if he turned into a lunatic!

The Lopez family could not accept a humiliation like that.

When the Lopez family in South City learned of what had happened, they got angry.

They announced they would avenge Dustin, even if it meant toppling the entire North Hampton.

Three men were in line to succeed and lead the next generation of the Lopez family.

Quentin had been killed.

Wesley was crippled.

And Dustin might be comatose!

Who would be okay with something like that?

The famous Sebastian was going to head to North Hampton in the following week, but he showed up the following day after hearing about what had happened.

In a backyard of a mansion in South City.

An elderly man in an old-fashioned outfit was sitting by the table, enjoying his tea.

That man was the renowned Sebastian.

There was a saying in South City that went, 'One would rather face the devil than go against Sebastian'.

That proved just how powerful and terrifying Sebastian truly was.

His title as the man who could overthrow the devil was not unfounded.

He had been cruel and bloodthirsty when he was younger, and his hands had taken countless lives.

They say that the number of people he killed was equivalent to the number of stars in the sky.

Sebastian later stepped back to settle into retirement. He would drink tea, do some gardening every day, and would go to the temple on some occasions.

He did that to be Zen and to change his violent life.

Unfortunately, he overdid it.

The incident with his godson, Quentin Lane, had turned him back to his former self.

He was even angrier after his two nephews got hurt.

"Everything is ready, sir. We can head to North Hampton tomorrow," reported Sebastian's servant, Simon.

Simon was actually a skilled fighter, too.

Sebastian sipped some tea before instructing calmly, "Go get the Black and White Guards out from prison."

"Huh? Are you sure you want to do that?" Simon trembled.

The Black and White Guards were simply too terrifying.

“Yes!”

“Okay. I will arrange for that right away,” replied Simon.

After that, Simon took a deep breath and left.

Sebastian’s fame and the fear he inspired was partially owed to the Black and White Guards.

Those two men were crueler than him; they were cannibals.

The two of them had gotten into a battle with two hundred men and won. That battle made them famous.

The Protector Chapter 392

Sebastian’s notoriety was immeasurable.

The cruel part of that notoriety was linked to the Black and White Guards.

Those were the masters of cruelty. Rumor had it that they grew up with wolves and ate raw meat every day.

They had single-handedly defeated an army of two hundred and rose to fame.

They later joined an underground boxing tournament, but they were so cruel that they were disqualified.

There was a story about how, during a match, one of them tore his opponent's rib out and used that rib to stab the guy to death.

They later joined Sebastian's team and raised hell everywhere.

They had killed so many people that there were many powerful figures and families who didn't even dare look them in the eye.

The mere mention of the Black and White Guards got people to tremble in fear.

The Black and White Guards had gotten too violent and caused a lot of trouble, so Sebastian has locked them up.

Sebastian taking the Black and White Guards to North Hampton meant that he was getting serious.

When the citizens of South City learned that the Black and White Guards were being released from prison, everyone grew nervous.

Those two being released meant that someone was definitely going to die.

The citizens sighed a breath of relief when they learned that Sebastian was taking those killers to North Hampton.

However, they started praying for North Hampton.

They wondered which unlucky bastard had angered Sebastian so much that he released the Black and White Guards.

Everyone knew that anyone who offended Sebastian would face dire consequences.

Death would've been a better option because the Black and White Guards' inhumane methods had always terrified everyone.

.....

The network in North Hampton was still pretty good.

When Glenn heard the news, he immediately went to look for Levi.

“Mr. Garrison, something bad is about to happen. Sebastian will come to North Hampton tomorrow with the Black and White Guards!”

Glenn wiped his sweat off.

“So what if they come? Why are you so scared?” chuckled Levi.

“Mr. Garrison, maybe you don’t know it, but those three are nuts! They are like a time bomb that would go off at any moment!”

“You know Liam, don’t you? He is strong and undisciplined... The ones who defeated him were Sebastian and the Black and White Guards! Liam had to go on his knees and beg them for mercy. His life was spared because of that, but they still crippled all his limbs!”

Glen took a deep breath before he continued, “The Black and White Guards are especially brutal. They killed everyone in the orphanage when they were ten, and their violent tendencies only worsen as they age. They have killed countless men, and rumor has it that they are cannibals! They’re basically demons.”

Levi laughed.

He had seen all kinds of lunatics during his time in the army.

Many places had similar ‘demons’ who had murdered thousands before, but he had defeated them all.

“Be careful, Mr. Garrison. They are here to destroy you,” Glen warned.

“Well, since they’re coming to North Hampton, then we’ll trap them here,” said Levi cruelly.

“Huh?” Glen blurted, stunned.

Isn’t this dude a little too full of it?

Trapping Sebastian and the Black and White Guards?

Glen didn’t think it was plausible, but he wasn’t in a position to say anything.

The news of how Sebastian was heading to North Hampton with the Black and White Guards had spread.

Everyone started avoiding the place, simply staying home.

Some powerful families, however, got ready to welcome the three men.

It seemed that Sebastian wasn’t just there to seek vengeance. He was also there because he was expanding into North Hampton.

The powerful families thought that if they left a good impression on Sebastian, they might benefit from it in the future.

Harry and the others stood guard at the hospital.

They were excited but also scared to hear that Sebastian was heading over.

With Sebastian there, North Hampton would practically be dominated by the Lopez family.

As such, they would benefit from it as well.

They were also afraid, though, because Sebastian might blame them for what had happened.

The Protector Chapter 393

“It’d be great if Dustin could wake up before Sebastian gets here,” sighed Shaun.

When the doctor heard that, he blurted, “I have an idea that might help with that...”

“What is it? Tell us. If it works, we will reward you handsomely,” Harry said, whose eyes lit up immediately.

The doctor replied, “A medical expert I know might be able to cure this patient, and there’s a good chance that he knows how to wake the patient up.”

“Really?” asked Harry, whose eyes shone with hope just like his family’s eyes were.

“Yes, he is definitely the top in the medical field in Erudia. However, I heard that he will be catching a plane and leaving North Hampton tomorrow,” said the doctor.

“Are you talking about Benny Quinton?” asked Fabian.

“Yeah. Who else would be that skilled?” The doctor nodded.

Harry looked troubled as he said, “But I heard that Benny Quinton no longer takes patients in. He will definitely reject our request if we ask.”

“We have to try! Sebastian will be here tomorrow.”

Harry and his family soon got to the place where Azure Dragon and Benny Quinton lived. They asked Benny to help cure Dustin, but as expected, Benny rejected their offers.

Harry and the others kept trying to come up with another solution after that.

The next day rolled by soon after.

A bunch of cars showed up in North Hampton.

The last few cars had about a dozen men in black outfits. They got out and stood at the side.

Simon drove the Rolls-Royce in the lead. He got out and circled around to open the door for Sebastian.

Sebastian was wearing a black, old-fashioned outfit, and was holding a walking cane with a dragon’s head carved on it.

He oozed a domineering aura as he scanned the place.

After that, he walked to the black luxurious car at the end.

The car seeped a chilling aura, and it shook so violently that it seemed that it might topple itself over.

“Stay in the car and do not leave until I give the say so,” instructed Sebastian. Only then did the car stop shaking.

Simon was trembling in fear because that was the car the Black and White Guards took.

If those two showed up on the street, the entire place would definitely turn upside down.

Simon later led Sebastian into the hospital, and they headed into Dustin's room.

Thump!

Harry and the others got down on their knees in front of Sebastian.

"This is all our fault, Sebastian. We did not keep Dustin safe. We were wrong, so please punish us as you see fit," cried Harry.

Sebastian scanned everyone and replied cruelly, "Get up. This has nothing to do with you. Those people are not easy to deal with, or Quentin and Wesley would not have been defeated."

Harry replied softly, "I don't dare to. Levi is my grandson-in-law, yet I did not teach him the rules. I didn't know he was that strong."

"I said, stand up!" Sebastian suddenly raised his voice.

That made Harry and the others jump up in fright.

They stopped bullshitting then.

Sebastian went to check on Dustin.

"What did the doctor say?" He asked.

"It's not good. He will not be able to wake up for the time being and might stay in a persistent vegetative state," answered Harry.

Sebastian looked devastated then.

“However, there is still hope. Benny Quinton is in North Hampton, and he is the best expert in the medical field. We asked him to come over yesterday, but he rejected our offer. His plane will be taking off today, and he should be boarding in two hours.”

Sebastian’s eyes shone with a cruel glint upon hearing that. “Simon, go get Benny Quinton over! Do not let him board that airplane.”

The Protector Chapter 394

Harry then added, “Still, you shouldn’t hold out so much hope because Benny has a rule about how he doesn’t do private calls. The God of War, Liam Macy, dragged Benny over once. Things did not end well.”

Sebastian’s eyes burned with untamed fury as he roared, “That puny Liam Macy is nothing compared to me!”

“I can hire anyone he can hire, and I am capable of convincing people he can’t convince.”

“Go get Benny Quinton over right away. He must cure my nephew!”

Simon nodded, “Understood. There isn’t a person on Earth who wouldn’t come at your command.”

“That’s right. Those who disobey me will meet an untimely end,” scoffed Sebastian.

Harry and the others trembled as they stood at Sebastian’s side.

Sebastian's aura was too strong.

Everyone felt the weight of mountains crushing on them when they heard him speak.

As such, they were all sweating then.

Simon departed immediately to get Benny Quinton.

Henry and the others started saying, "Sebastian, this is all Levi's and Zoey's fault. They are close with Nueve and Trey, and they thought they can do whatever they want because of that. They don't respect the Lopez family from South City."

"Freaking Levi Garrison. I am here just to deal with him. I don't care who he has supporting him; I will not forgive him!"

"Also, I will be staying here permanently. My plan is simple. I will make it so that everyone in North Hampton trembles in fear when they hear our name," declared Sebastian.

Harry and the others were ridiculously excited.

Was it finally their chance to shine?

It didn't matter how useless they were. Being a member of the Lopez family would be sufficient.

North Hampton would soon belong to Sebastian.

Liam Macy, Winston Gonzales, and the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce would all fall.

No one could beat Sebastian!

At that moment, Harry and the others had started fantasizing about their future.

Simon hurried over to the airport with about ten men.

Levi had personally driven the car to take Benny Quinton and his assistant to the airport.

At first, Levi wanted to use a military plane to take Benny straight to Vermont, but Benny rejected that offer.

That was how Benny Quinton was.

He was an ordinary doctor with a pure soul.

Levi kept them company until they went into the waiting lounge.

Unfortunately, a van stopped at the airport after Levi had left.

Simon and over ten men rushed into the airport.

Benny and his assistant had just gotten their boarding passes and were heading towards the gate.

However, over ten men showed up in front of them.

“Mr. Benny Quinton, please come with us!”

Simon was swift.

He never gave Benny a chance to talk before he grabbed them.

When Benny and his assistant finally came around, they were already in the van.

“Let’s go!” instructed Simon before the car departed.

At the hospital.

Benny Quinton and his assistant were forcefully dragged into the patient’s room.

Everyone turned serious and polite when they saw Benny Quinton there.

Sebastian, however, glared in disdain and scoffed, “I hate educated people like you. So pretentious.”

Benny grinned, “Then why do you insist on bringing me here?”

“Because you are a doctor who can cure patients. That is all you are worthy of!”

Sebastian pointed at Dustin, then ordered cruelly, “Treat my nephew right now! If you succeed, I will give you a total of one billion. If not... You can choose if you’d like to keep your arms or your legs.”

Sebastian’s barbaric style stunned Benny.

Liam Macy had been a powerful bully too, but even that man had shown a little respect to Benny.

The man in front of Benny was utterly despicable and unrestrained.

He looked like a madman.

The Protector Chapter 395

“No. You have your rules, but so do I,” refuted Benny.

“As I said, educated people like you are horrible. Isn’t your job to cure the sick? Why aren’t you treating him? Where is your so-called moral?” scoffed Sebastian.

“You were immoral and kidnapped me, so I have no obligations to help you,” persisted Benny.

Sebastian laughed aloud. “There are just too many ways to force your hand. Simon?”

Simon received the message immediately.

Slam!

Simon kicked Benny’s assistant to the floor.

“Arg...” The assistant cried.

“What the hell are you doing?” demanded Benny in a worried tone.

“I will cripple him if you refuse to treat the man,” said Simon as he increased the pressure on the assistant’s ankle. That prompted the assistant to shout even more.

Harry and the others were horrified when they saw that.

Sebastian was too cruel.

All he knew was to tap into his violence to solve his problems.

Benny had no choice but to nod and said, "Okay, fine. I'll treat him."

"Wouldn't it have been much better if you had just agreed to do so early on?" gloated Sebastian.

There were simply too many ways to force Benny's hand.

The cruelest among them was to lock Benny and his assistant in with the Black and White Guards.

Benny probably would've raised the white flag in under thirty seconds.

Benny and his assistant quickly dove in to treat Dustin.

"You better treat him well, or you will end up just like him!" threatened Sebastian.

After taking Benny and his assistant to the airport, Levi returned to Morris Group.

Morris Group had just expanded once more and would soon be the top enterprise in North Hampton.

Hence, many people had their eyes on them.

A tv show had even done a special interview.

Iris found Levi and scoffed, "You love to show off, don't you? Well, then here's your chance."

"Huh? Me? Showing off?" blurted Levi suspiciously.

“The North Hampton Television Network wants to do a special on Morris Group in three days. I’ve already helped you accept the invitation, so you may not bail on it.”

“These are the interview questions and other materials. Don’t embarrass me!”

Iris left after tossing a stack of documents to him.

Urk!

Levi almost vomited blood.

She is making me do an interview and show my face to everyone?

Is she fg kidding?

Still, he had no choice but to participate because Iris had already accepted it.

“Well, it’s for my own company, anyway,” murmured Levi before he started studying the materials.

His phone rang up at that moment.

The call was from Azure Dragon.

“I think something bad happened. The airport called and said that Mr. Quinton never boarded the plane, and we can’t find him at the airport either,” said Azure Dragon, whose voice was obviously quivering.

“What? He’s missing?” said Levi, whose expression took a sharp turn.

He had not gotten a private plane for Benny, but Levi had talked to the managers at the airport and asked them to keep an eye on him.

Benny was missing, and that meant that something must've happened.

"Investigate it immediately! Mr. Quinton must not get hurt," instructed Levi.

"According to the CCTV at the airport, someone dragged Mr. Quinton into a van," reported Azure Dragon soon after.

"Call Xavier and the people responsible for the traffic. Find out where that van went!" said Levi anxiously.

He would not let anyone go off that easily if Benny had a hair off his head!

"Got it! The van went to the hospital, and there were witnesses that claimed they saw Benny there!"

Levi stood up and announced evilly, "Okay, got it. I will personally head over to the hospital."

The Protector Chapter 396

Inside the hospital.

Benny and his assistant examined the patient thoroughly, and Benny's conclusion was that it would take Dustin a long time to recover. The treatment would go on for at least four months.

"How about this? I will take this patient with me to Vermont and will personally treat him there," suggested Benny.

Benny had a lot of work to tend to in Vermont; he couldn't stay in North Hampton.

Simon, Harry, and everyone else grinned when they heard that there was hope.

Sebastian, however, frowned and asked, "Why can't you treat him here in North Hampton?"

"Because I work in Vermont, and a lot of patients are waiting for me there," explained Benny.

Sebastian shook his head. "No! You must stay here and treat my nephew. You are not to leave or treat anyone else during this period. Focus only on my nephew, and you may leave when he is back on his feet."

"You may reject my offer, but he will have to stay, and who knows how long he'll survive?"

Sebastian was staring at Benny's assistant at that moment.

The assistant trembled in fear.

If he stayed, he would definitely be killed.

Sebastian had always been that barbaric, and he didn't give Benny a chance to say anything else.

"You..."

Benny was so frustrated that he felt as if he would explode.

He couldn't stay in North Hampton because he simply had too much to do in Vermont.

"Sir, I promise I'll revive him in Vermont. Can I please take him there?" asked Benny.

"No! There will be no further discussion. You will stay right here in North Hampton, and you will treat my nephew."

Sebastian's eyes shone with fury.

"Oh right, I just remembered that North Hampton has a private hospital. Transfer him over right away. Benny Quinton, you will come with us!" ordered Sebastian.

"I'll get started on the paperwork right away," replied Simon.

Benny was nervous then.

Is this Sebastian guy going to imprison me and force me to treat his nephew?

.....

Levi arrived at the hospital at that moment.

He paused when he saw the cars there.

However, he had not stopped because there were over ten similar cars parked in a straight line. He had stopped because he had sensed two dangerous auras seeping out of one of the cars.

There were a number of good fighters in North Hampton. Some examples would be Jack Smith's Invincible-13 who were all amazing fighters.

However, compared to the two men inside the car, all thirteen men seemed puny.

Despite all that, the aura only made Levi take one look.

He had been on the battlefield for five years, so he had seen all kinds of outstanding fighters before.

He was simply curious as to why someone like that would show up in North Hampton.

Levi was about to enter the hospital when he bumped into a group of men.

Simon had made the arrangements to transfer Dustin Lopez, and Benny was there with them.

"Mr. Quinton?" blurted Levi.

Benny sighed a breath of relief as soon as he saw Levi there.

I'll be fine with him here.

Simon looked displeased as he asked, "What's going on?"

Harry rushed over immediately and complained, "That is Levi Garrison! He whipped Dustin ten times and put Dustin in that state. He was also involved in the incidents that hurt Quentin and Wesley."

"That's right. He's Levi Garrison! You should kick his ass right away!"

"He has always been disrespectful to the Lopez family and often insulted Sebastian."

.....

Shaun and the others started bullshitting once more.

Simon became furious when he heard that. "You're responsible for this?"

The Lopez family's bodyguards all turned and glared at Levi right away.

"Yeah, I did that. You guys want Mr. Quinton to treat him? Nope, no one is allowed to treat him!"

Levi's voice sounded even, but his tone was evil.

The Protector Chapter 397

Even Simon was stunned.

There are people brave enough to be that disrespectful to the Lopez family of South City?

That was basically asking the devil himself to come to collect one's soul.

Simon and the others didn't buy it when Harry and his family bullshitted.

Meeting Levi in person showed Simon that the brat was even more arrogant than how Harry described.

"Let's go, Mr. Quinton!" said Levi.

"No one is leaving! Take them down," ordered Simon angrily.

The handful of men following his lead attacked instantly.

However, those men were no match against Levi.

It only took him a moment to knock all of them out.

"Quick, get the others over!"

Simon hurried to get more help.

However, Levi left with Benny and his assistant before Simon returned.

Levi was more than capable of defeating Sebastian, but they were at a hospital, after all. It would be bad if things escalated.

That was why Levi had taken Benny away first. Levi would deal with the other issues afterwards.

Sebastian exited the hospital with a bunch of men soon after.

Simon also returned after asking over ten men to follow him to the entrance.

“Where is he? Where is Levi Garrison?” demanded Simon.

Sebastian came as soon as he heard the news that Levi was there to rescue Benny, but he didn’t meet the man.

“Huh? That is not possible. He was here just a second ago!”

There were too many people at the entrance of the hospital, so Harry and the others couldn’t even tell when Levi had slipped away with Benny and his assistant.

“You can’t even keep an eye on one man?” reprimanded Simon.

Sebastian turned even angrier; he was on the verge of exploding.

Levi Garrison, the man who had crippled three of his successors, had taken Benny Quinton away from right under his nose!

That was an insult to Sebastian.

It embarrassed him!

He had been in North Hampton for less than a day but something that embarrassing had already happened!

Sebastian was so angry that he was going crazy.

He had always viewed his notoriety as something crucial.

Most people in Quebec would tremble in fear when they heard his name.

Yet, someone had utterly disregarded him!

He would not stand by it!

“Send our people out right away and bring me Levi Garrison and Benny Quinton!”

“If you can’t manage that, I will have the Black and White Guards take over!”

Sebastian’s eyes were burning with fury then.

Boom!

Simon’ entire body trembled.

Letting the Black and White Guards out of their cages when we have just arrived in North Hampton?

If those two monsters were released, North Hampton would be drenched in blood.

Simon was scared of it.

The others were even more terrified.

“I will send our people out right away, sir. Let’s not let the Black and White Guards loose unless it is absolutely necessary,” said Simon.

Harry got curious and asked, "Who are these Black and White Guards?"

"I'll teach you all about them if I have the time," puffed Sebastian.

For some reason, Harry could feel a chill running down his spine.

.....

On the other side.

After Levi got Benny into the car, the former got a private plane to take Benny to Vermont immediately.

Azure Dragon followed behind Levi and asked, "What do we do? Sebastian is too powerful; even Liam is not a match against him."

"Moreover, the powerful families in South City and other remarkable places are going insane and trying to get to North Hampton, too. They want to profit off of Sebastian's arrival."

"Nielson is one of those men, and he wants me to ask you if that's okay."

Levi's eyes were cruel when he answered, "Welcome anyone who is here to contribute. If they are only here to cause trouble and steal resources, then tell them to f off!"

Azure Dragon trembled. "Understood."

Levi lit up a cigarette and looked into the distance before he instructed nonchalantly, "As for Sebastian... I will deal with him myself!"

Azure Dragon shivered even more.

That man was truly unlucky to have inspired Levi to personally deal with the matter.

The Protector Chapter 398

Inside the Lopez family home.

Sebastian was waiting for the news.

Simon soon rushed over and reported, “Sebastian, something bad had happened. Benny Quinton has left North Hampton and has reached Vermont!”

“What?”

Sebastian jumped up.

“Those people are too much! They showed no regard for me at all,” roared Sebastian.

Simon nodded. “Levi Garrison really is freaking arrogant. He even publicly announced that he will not let anyone treat Dustin’s condition.”

“That asshole! He’s making it personal!” shouted Sebastian. He was holding a cup at the time, and a single squeeze shattered it.

Harry and the others were flabbergasted.

Sebastian is that strong? He really is an expert!

Simon looked troubled as he said, "Now that Benny Quinton is back in Vermont, there is no way we can get him back here."

"I know! There are too many experts in Vermont, and even I can't break them."

Sebastian added, "But I must make Levi Garrison pay!"

Simon quickly said, "I've looked into the matter. Levi Garrison may look like he has Nueve and Trey supporting him, but the truth was that all three of them are being supported by the mysterious man behind Morris Group."

"Morris Group? I've heard of that company. They say that aside from the Rogers family, the Morris Group is the most powerful enterprise," said Sebastian.

"What should we do?" asked Simon.

Sebastian thought about it and replied, "Host a party tonight and invite everybody who is anybody in North Hampton. I want the whole of North Hampton to know that I am here!"

"We'll have the party right here in the Lopez family's mansion in North Hampton!"

"Understood," replied Simon as he nodded.

That got Harry and the others excited.

It was their moment to shine, and that was all thanks to Sebastian.

No one in North Hampton would ever look down on them again.

The elites in North Hampton soon received their invitation.

Winston Gonzales, the four representatives of North Hampton Chamber of Commerce...

Glenn Rogers of the Rogers family, and all other wealthy families were also invited.

Even Liam Macy and the others got their invitation.

Inside the office of Morris Group.

A secretary came in and reported, "Ms. Annabelle, someone from South City has dropped by."

"What do they want?" asked Iris.

"They are here to send us an invitation card," the secretary spoke as she handed an invitation card over.

"Oh, and the man said that the invitation card must be handed to the boss," added the secretary.

Iris opened the invitation card, and it said that the invitation was from Sebastian Lopez.

The content of the invitation, however, sounded barbaric; it felt more like a royal decree than an invitation.

"Sebastian of the South City? Isn't he related to Zoey?" Iris said suspiciously.

After that, she contacted Neil to tell him about the invitation.

Neil, in turn, brought the invitation card to Levi.

"Sebastian is hosting a party today, and he has actually invited you over. Are you going?" asked Neil with a grin.

Levi smiled mysteriously and read the invitation card as he planned his next move.

.....

Everyone in North Hampton was nervous at that moment.

They knew Sebastian Lopez had suddenly travelled to North Hampton.

Worse still, there were rumors about how he had brought the gods of assassinations known as the Black and White Guards over.

It seemed that a bloody storm was inevitable in North Hampton.

What worried everyone, even more, was the fact that Sebastian seemed interested in extending his business to North Hampton.

To some, that news was devastating.

Sebastian could single-handedly force everyone in North Hampton to bow down to him, and his cruel methods horrified everyone.

He had thrown a party that night, and it seemed that his intention wasn't pure.

The Protector Chapter 399

Sebastian had thrown the party for two reasons. The first was to tell all of North Hampton that he, Sebastian Lopez, was there.

The second was to have everyone pick a side. Those who stood with him would be fine, and those who chose otherwise would die before they know it.

Harry personally looked into all the details of the party and quickly decorated the place.

When evening rolled by, many luxurious cars drove to the Lopez family's house.

Everyone who was anyone in North Hampton had shown up.

All their net worth was over ten billion, and they used to treat Harry and the others like they were nothing.

However, those same people had been bowing down to Harry and greeting him politely that day.

Harry was delighted.

He had never enjoyed a treatment like that before.

It seemed that having someone strong supporting them had made all the differences.

Shaun Lopez was having fun too. Back in the days, he was the one who had to bow down to the other wealthy kids and appease them.

Even Melanie was benefitting from all that. Many young and powerful men had approached her to chat and flirt with her.

That put Melanie on cloud nine.

“Zoey Lopez is not so great. She is nothing now!”

Henry laughed, “Yes, that’s right. I am so proud to be a member of the Lopez family.”

“Hello, Mr. Lopez.”

Winston, Eric, and a number of other elites greeted Harry.

Harry was so excited that he almost fainted.

He hadn’t even dared to fantasize about such a thing in the past.

The most powerful men in North Hampton had come to greet him!

Even one of the most popular guys in North Hampton, Glenn Rogers, had approached Harry.

When eight o’clock rolled by, almost everyone who had been invited had shown up.

Everyone sat in their seats as they waited patiently for Sebastian to show up.

Sebastian got out of a locked room inside the Lopez family’s house at that moment.

The locked room rang up with roars.

The men making those noises sounded grouchy and scary.

The cold aura spewing out of that room made everyone shiver in fear.

Simon warned Fabian, “Remember to keep an eye on this door. Do not open it, or you’ll die before you know it.”

“Understood,” replied Fabian.

He had no idea what was locked in there, but given how Simon had warned him, he was certain that whatever’s inside was horrifying.

Unfortunately, the more scared Simon was, the more curious Fabian got.

Fabian stood nervously by the door, and he peeped through the small window.

One look was all it took.

“Ah!”

Fabian was so scared that he fell backwards.

No one knew what he saw through that window, but he shouted fearfully, and he turned pale while dripping with sweat.

After that, he hurried out of there...

That night, everyone waited in the party hall.

“Sebastian Lopez is here.”

Everyone stood up to welcome him.

Sebastian exuded an extremely powerful aura and his gaze was enough to get everyone trembling.

If the legendary Black and White Guards were to show up too, everyone would be even more frightened.

Everyone knew Sebastian being there meant that North Hampton was pretty much his.

It would be extremely difficult to live with him because he would not share any of his resources with anyone.

“Sebastian,” greeted Winston and the other men who were sitting at the front.

Sebastian swept his gaze across them before he scoffed and asked, “Who’s the head of Morris Group?”

The entire place turned quiet after Sebastian spoke.

Everyone looked to one another, but no one dared to answer.

“So? Where are the people from Morris Group?” asked Sebastian with a smile.

“Sebastian, um, the people from Morris Group never showed up,” someone piped up.

Sebastian narrowed his eyes, and a terrifyingly cruel glint shimmered past his eyes.

“Who said that the people from Morris Group aren’t here?”

A voice suddenly rang out.

The Protector Chapter 400

Everyone turned around.

All they saw was a team of uniformed security guards walking in.

The one leading them over was Seth, the head of security.

He had a rolled-up scroll with him.

“Huh?”

Everyone was stunned.

All other companies and family had sent their best and brightest as their representatives, but Morris Group had sent a group of security guards instead.

That was such an arrogant move.

It seemed like they weren't afraid of Sebastian at all.

“Interesting.” grinned Simon.

Sebastian narrowed his eyes, but he laughed, “Morris Group really is something else for sending their security guard over.”

Seth stood forward and grinned before he said, “Sebastian, please allow me to introduce myself. I am Seth Wilson and am the head of security for Morris Group. My employer has asked me to send you a scroll with some words on it.”

Everyone gasped in shock when they heard that.

Morris Group's arrogance was ridiculous!

They had sent the head of the security guards as if someone of that rank was all Sebastian's invitation was worth?

They were blatantly challenging Sebastian!

No one, not even the ones with inside knowledge, knew what game Morris Group was playing.

Glenn, for example, was totally clueless.

He was a little worried about Levi's challenge going over the board and things spiraling out of control.

Sebastian and the Black and White Guards were lunatics, after all, and if they were cornered, they would do something crazy.

"You are nothing but a freaking security guard, yet you dare to talk to Sebastian? Drop-dead, asshole."

Shaun already hated Seth, so the former wanted to use Sebastian's power to destroy the latter.

"Guards! Come and cripple these idiots!" shouted Henry angrily.

"Hang on...."

Sebastian spoke up, "I'm curious and would like to see what the head of Morris Group has gotten for me."

"Go get it."

Upon hearing that, Simon walked forward to take the scroll from Seth.

“We will take out leave now,” replied Seth before he turned around to leave.

Shaun wanted to stop Seth, but Simon glared at him.

The Lopezes had no choice but to watch as Seth and the other security guards walked away.

Simon brought the scroll to Sebastian.

“Open it and see what’s inside,” instructed Sebastian, who was curious.

Simon’s long arm held the scroll as it rolled down.

Boom!

Everyone was stunned when they saw the content of the scroll.

A pin-drop silence fell over the room.

Their jaws dropped because the content was simply that surprising.

Sebastian sensed that something was off, so he walked around to look at the scroll.

Sebastian almost died of high blood pressure and anger when he saw it.

The scroll read, “Fg Leave North Hampton!”

That was absolutely barbaric!

Turned out, sending the security guards over wasn’t the only arrogant act they had prepared.

The true display of arrogance was what happened next.

No one had ever blatantly demanded Sebastian to leave a place before.

In fact, Sebastian had been in that industry for several decades, but he had never been treated that way before.

“Destroy Morris Group!”

Simon and the Lopez family’s security guards could not hold it in anymore.

They wanted to crush Morris Group then and there.

Simon suddenly realized why Levi had acted so freaking arrogantly.

How could he not be arrogant when he had a boss who acted like that supporting him?

Everyone sitting opposite the stage had their heads down. They were waiting for the inevitable storm.

Infuriating Sebastian Lopez was a terrifying thing to do.

The river would run red with blood, and mountains of bones would rise...

It seemed that a bloody storm was heading for North Hampton.

Sebastian turned to everyone else and asked, “What do you guys know about the head of Morris Group?”

“He’s very mysterious and has never shown his face before. Even his subordinate, Neil, rarely shows up.”

“However, he is probably extremely powerful because he was able to compete against the North Hampton Chamber of Commerce and the Gonzales family.”

.....

Everyone chimed in.

“And what do you think, Mr. Gonzales?” asked Sebastian.

The Protector Chapter 401

“I suggest Sir to retreat out of North Hampton immediately. Your safety is of utmost importance. That man is not someone you can afford to cross.”

The moment Winston finished speaking, everyone froze, including Sebastian.

What? You’re asking me to leave North Hampton?

“Yes. The North Hampton Chamber of Commerce agrees with Winston. North Hampton is vastly different from what you’ve imagined. You might die here,” Robinson and the other three said.

In the end, even Liam chimed in, “That’s right. You can’t afford to cross that man!”

The three powerful men of North Hampton were persuading him not to stay.

Their words were shocking.

Winston and the rest would not have said something like this in the past.

However, after seeing the contents of the painting Seth had shown them, they realized what that man's intentions were.

If Sebastian insisted on attacking North Hampton, he was doomed for death.

Sebastian and the rest were staring at the speakers in shock.

I can't afford to cross the Morris Group?

Is this a joke?

Other than one man in Quebec, there was no one Sebastian could not afford to cross.

Moreover, that man was now in South City, not North Hampton.

"Oh, I see."

Abruptly, Sebastian laughed.

He finally understood why the people of North Hampton did not want him to stay; he was intruding upon their territory.

That was why these people were using the boss of Morris Group to pressure him to leave.

However, he refused to do as they say.

The more he could not afford to cross him, the more he wanted to try.

This piece of cake in North Hampton had to be his.

He was going to destroy the Morris Group and kill Levi Garrison.

Not even God could stop what Sebastian wanted to do.

Looking at the crowd, Sebastian sneered, “The theme for this banquet is simple. I’ll expand my territory into North Hampton along with everyone. If you trust me, give me a sign. From now on, your business is my business.”

Sebastian’s words were simple to understand.

He wanted everyone present to pick sides.

The time had come.

Everyone’s hearts skipped a beat.

Liam, Winston and Eric were the first to express their stances. “We’ve retired. We no longer participate with any disputes in North Hampton.”

“Very well. And the others?”

Sebastian looked at the rest.

“I choose to follow Mr. Lopez.”

“Me too!”

.....

Everyone was quick and in a hurry to stand on Sebastian’s side.

“I choose to be neutral.”

“Same!”

.....

A portion of the men decided to pick no sides.

In the end, the three wealthy families that had the same standing as the Rogers family—Jenkins, Welch and the Hardy family had chosen to be neutral.

After all, their families had tens of billions. They could expand their territories by themselves.

Upon hearing these three men's choices, Sebastian became upset.

His expression frightened the rest.

Sebastian might not go against them, but their happy days would be numbered.

Soon, each family had expressed their stances.

Half had chosen to follow after Sebastian, and most chose to be neutral.

"Who's next?" Sebastian asked.

Everyone turned to look at Glenn.

The only one who had not expressed their stance was him.

"Mr. Glenn Rogers, what is your answer? I know you're powerful now. Please pick your decision wisely," Sebastian laughed.

Glenn knew what he meant.

No matter which decision he made, he would remain as Sebastian's ultimate archenemy.

Now, the decision he would make was important.

It was time for him to pick sides.

If he chose to be neutral, Sebastian would not target him.

However, he would not pick neutral, and neither would he choose to follow after Sebastian.

“I choose to stand on Morris Group’s side.”

The Protector Chapter 402

A chorus of gasps sounded out.

The moment Glenn’s words left his mouth, the crowd fell silent.

Next were the sounds of people drawing in their breaths.

Their eyes were close to popping out of the sockets as they stared at Glenn in shock.

Everyone could barely believe their ears. A third choice had been voiced out.

They could not believe that someone had chosen to side with the Morris Group, which was Sebastian’s archenemy.

It was as if Glenn was courting for death.

Sebastian's terrifying gaze landed on Glenn, and it sent a shudder down his spine.

Now, terror had gripped tight onto him.

"I'll ask you one more time. What is your choice?" Sebastian repeated his question in a deep voice.

Anyone who was not blind nor deaf would realize that Sebastian was angry.

The continuous provocation had made Sebastian furious.

The trembling of Glenn's body was evident.

However, he would not change his decision.

That was because standing on Morris Group's side meant that he was standing on Levi's troops' side.

Levi's the God of War!

No matter how impressive you are, Sebastian, you can never surpass the God of War.

The reason behind him being number one in North Hampton was because he was a follower of Levi.

If not for him, the Rogers family would have been bankrupted long ago.

This was the time for him to express his loyalty to Levi.

"I repeat my answer. I choose to stand with the Morris Group. Whoever is the enemy of the Morris Group will be the Rogers family's enemy," Glenn declared.

No one could understand Glenn's decision.

They thought, Even if you don't want to follow after Sebastian, you can choose to be neutral.

Why do you have to go against Sebastian?

Do you have a death wish?

"Alright, alright," Sebastian said.

Even he was stunned by Glenn's answer.

He thought that everyone in North Hampton would bow to him the moment he commanded them to.

Yet, it was only his first day here and he was already provoked several times.

Levi had humiliated him.

The Morris Group had forced him.

The Rogers family had chosen to go against him.

.....

This was humiliating!

Sebastian's pride was destroyed in a blink of an eye.

Fury!

It was an unrestrainable fury!

Sebastian laughed, “Has everyone forgotten about me because I haven’t come here for a long time?”

“We wouldn’t dare!”

The crowd was shocked.

Sebastian said to Simon, “Simon, it seems like we need to do something to remind them that I hold the title of Hades.”

Simon nodded, “Sir, I’ll arrange for it immediately.”

Their conversation scared the living daylights out of the crowd.

Sebastian was about to make his move.

Even Glenn was afraid.

He doubted he would be able to leave the Lopez family’s estate alive tonight.

Henry and Shaun took the opportunity to sneer, “You have no fear of death! Did you have to force him to do this?”

Sebastian walked towards Glenn and patted his shoulders. “Don’t be scared. I won’t kill you tonight. In near future, I’ll show you why your choice is a mistake.”

At the end, when Glenn left the Lopez family’s estate, his clothes were soaked with cold sweat.

The remaining left with pounding hearts.

Everyone knew that for North Hampton, tonight was destined to be a sleepless night.

After the people had left, Sebastian narrowed his eyes and announced, "We'll deal with Nueve and Trey tonight!"

"Assign Black and White Guards on it," Sebastian added.

Simon drew a sharp breath.

He knew that Sebastian was serious about it this time.

Harry and the rest exchanged a look. They knew what the Black and White Guards were.

They must be what was kept in the forbidden room.

Fabian, who had seen them personally, started perspiring in fear.

The Protector Chapter 403

When he thought back of that scene, his knees went weak.

.....

Levi knew what had happened at the Lopez family's estate.

"That coward Glenn actually stood on Morris Group's side!" Levi laughed.

"No matter how cowardly he is, he knows how powerful the God of War is," Azure Dragon chuckled.

Kirin added, "I'm afraid Sebastian will be exacting his revenge maniacally now. That man is a lunatic!"

"The faster he makes his move, the earlier he dies," Levi chortled.

Sebastian Lopez was not worth his attention.

Recently, Nueve and Trey were giddy with delight.

They had abandoned the terrible things in their past.

Now, they were focused on their businesses, hoping to contribute to North Hampton.

Moreover, they were in collaboration with several other successful businessmen. They frequently had discussions on methods of business expansion.

Most of their businesses were involved with bars and karaoke clubs.

Tonight, at Crown Karaoke, Nueve, Trey, and five other businessmen were in a meeting.

Right then, screams traveled into their ears from the corridor.

Nueve and Trey's men were lying scattered across the corridor.

As the karaoke room was soundproofed, Nueve and the rest did not hear the screams.

Bang!

Right then, the door to the room was kicked open.

A group of people entered.

"Who are you?"

When Nueve and the rest recognized none of the intruders, they became wary and stood up defensively.

"Neuve? Trey?" The leading man asked.

"That's right. Who are you? What are you doing here?" Neuve hissed.

No one in North Hampton dared to provoke him.

"There are two people who wish to meet you," the man replied as he laughed.

"Who wants to meet us?"

Nueve's curiosity grew.

Just then, the dozens of men by the door moved to the sides, leaving a space in the middle.

With the sounds of footsteps, two men came in.

One in black, and the other in white.

When Nueve saw them, the color drained from his face. His voice trembled.
“What? B- Black and White Guards...”

Nueve had lived a life in the underground society for decades.

He had heard of the Black and White Guards.

However, he did not expect these two gods of death to look for him.

“Black and White Guards?” Trey shrieked.

The Black and White Guards were taboos.

There was no good ending for those who encountered them.

“Let’s fight till the end. We have no other way!” Nueve hissed.

Sebastian’s guards went out, leaving the Black and White Guards in the room.
When they left the room, they locked the door.

“Ugh!”

“Argh!”

Agonizing wails traveled out of the karaoke room.

Even Sebastian’s men had cold sweat beading on their foreheads when they heard the screams.

They could not imagine the bloodbath that was going on in the room.

They could not imagine what torture Nueve and Trey was experiencing.

Indeed, the room had turned into hell.

The screams continued for half an hour.

Finally, the Black and White Guards exited.

Both men's hands were covered in blood, and they were sucking it as if they did not want to waste even a drop.

That night, that place in North Hampton had gone through its worst history.

In one night, Sebastian had shown the people of North Hampton the definition of cruelty and the weight of Hades' arrival.

It was an act too cruel.

Excluding the countless deaths and injuries, many had their bones simply removed from their bodies.

“Levi, bad news. Sebastian went to settle off Nueve and his gang last night. Countless are dead and severely injured. Even Nueve and Trey are on the verge of death!”

Early in the morning, Azure Dragon came with horrible news.

“What? They actually dared to make a move?”

Levi was stunned.

The Protector Chapter 404

“Yes. Sebastian is a madman!”

Azure Dragon sighed, “Apparently, he has two terrifying subordinates who are ruthless. Many were bitten to death. Although Nueve and Trey had many men with them, they were no match for those two.”

“They must be the Black and White Guards that Glenn mentioned,” Levi mumbled.

“Do you remember Chopper?”

Levi nodded.

Chopper had been a great help to him.

“Chopper died from blood loss after the Black and White Guards sucked out his blood while he was alive,” Azure Dragon told him the terrifying truth.

“Hm.”

Levi looked calm, but on the inside, anger was boiling.

“Let’s visit Nueve.”

When they reached the hospital, they saw Neuve and Trey swaddled in bandages.

With one glance, Levi knew how terrible last night had been for them.

“Neuve has 87 broken bones and 105 cuts on him. Trey has 76 broken bones, and he has 88 cuts.”

Azure Dragon informed Levi of their injuries.

“It seems like it’s a miracle that they survived. They can only live as a cripple from now on,” the doctor explained.

Azure Dragon whispered to Levi, “Sir, I think the Black and White Guards intentionally left Nueve and Trey alive. It’s a warning for us.”

Levi nodded. “Yes, I’ve noticed. They have more than a hundred wounds, but each cut avoided the vital points. It seems like those two are quite impressive.”

“How cruel,” Azure Dragon gritted out.

“If we don’t deal with them, they might end up hurting Ms. Lopez. That’s a consequence we don’t want to think about.”

Kirin suggested, “Let me deal with this.”

Levi shook his head. “No need. It’s time for White Tiger to exercise a little.”

“Huh? White Tiger?”

Azure Dragon and Kirin were bewildered.

He was a man with a great reputation and influence.

White Tiger, the King of War, had a nickname on the battlefield— War Machine.

That title was the nightmare of many enemies.

That was because White Tiger was a maniac and also the devil of the battlefield.

In the Five Great Wars Regiment, he was the best fighter.

Once, White Tiger had fought his way out of tens of thousands of enemies without a scratch on him.

In that battle, he had killed over six thousand people all by himself. That battle was the one where his reputation was established.

However, he was the cruelest and most controversial one.

As long as White Tiger made a move, his opponent will die. There were no other options for them.

Once, he murdered tens of thousands of prisoners, and he nearly went to the military court.

Hence, that was why Levi had made him stay low for such a long time.

Every time White Tiger made a move, a disaster ensued.

“Yes. It’s time for him to act.”

Levi was determined.

.....

Sebastian’s act of sending out the Black and White Guards to create a bloodbath in the underground world frightened everyone.

Sebastian’s title as the Hades had returned overnight.

People from all corners of North Hampton were trembling in terror.

They were scared that they would be his next target.

After all, the enemy was in the shadows.

Glenn was distressed.

The entire Rogers family was feeling dreadful.

Last night, it had been Nueve and Trey.

The next in line would definitely be the Rogers family.

Glenn started sobbing.

He could not cross both sides.

Crossing either side would result in death.

They thought that the Rogers family had finally reached their prime, but now they were facing an impossible obstacle.

At the Lopez family's estate.

Sebastian was satisfied with the reactions of the people in North Hampton.

"Violence is needed for them to feel fear. If not, there's always someone who's trying to provoke me," Sebastian sneered.

"Who should I deal with next?" Sebastian contemplated.

The Protector Chapter 405

Henry stepped forward and uttered, "Sir, I have a suggestion. It's a plan that will kill two birds with one stone."

"Speak your mind. If it's satisfactory, I'll reward you for it," Sebastian said.

"Glenn Rogers has a granddaughter named Abigail Rogers. Moreover, Abigail Rogers is Levi's sister-in-law, and they're close to each other," Henry cackled.

Upon hearing this, Sebastian's eyes gleamed.

"Wonderful! Simon, bring Abigail to me," he instructed.

"Yes, Sir."

Sebastian then turned toward Henry. "You have quite a lot of ideas. Follow me from now on."

"Thank you, Sir, for this honor."

Henry immediately got to his knees and kneeled to Sebastian.

If he followed Sebastian, his life in North Hampton would be easy.

Abigail was currently doing an internship in market research.

In the evening, when she and her classmates were about to return home, several large men came towards them.

"Ms. Rogers, please come with us."

Instantly, one of the women started dragging her away.

“What? I don’t know you.”

Abigail had a displeased look on her face.

Among Abigail’s classmates were her admirers. They swiftly intervened.

“What are you all trying to do?”

A few tall classmates stepped in front of Abigail to protect her.

Smack!

Smack!

.....

Their answers were in the form of a punch. Instantly, their faces were bloodied and their noses were broken.

Abigail was taken away as the others watched.

Levi was drinking tea in the Morris Group’s office.

Right then, Seth Wilson, the leader of the security team, called.

“Levi, bad news! The Lopez family said that your sister-in-law is in their hands. If you don’t reach the Lopez family’s estate by twelve, Abigail will be handed to the Black and White Guards,” reported Seth anxiously.

“What? Abigail’s been caught? They must have a death wish!” Levi fumed.

He had sent his men to protect Zoey, but he had not thought the possibility of Abigail being caught.

It would be horrendous if Abigail ended up in the Black and White Guards' hands.

From what he heard, the Black and White Guards were not only cruel executioners, but they were also perverts.

On the other side, Glenn Rogers had also received news of Abigail's capture.

Glenn was in a panic; this was his beloved granddaughter.

In the evening, at the Lopez family's estate, Abigail was locked in a room.

However, there were sounds and movements from the other side of the room. It was as if there were two pacing beasts breathing heavily.

Fortunately, there was a window between the two rooms, and both sides could see each other.

When Abigail looked through the window and saw the two beasts, she shrieked in horror.

One was dressed in black, and the other was dressed in white. Both men had far too much hair on them to look human.

Not only were their arms and legs covered in thick hair, but their faces were also hairy.

They looked like savages.

The two men had grown up in a pack of wolves. Their habits and behaviors were similar to those of a wolf.

The two were baring their teeth at Abigail, and she could smell the pungent scent of blood.

Their eyes were the eyes of beasts. One look and Abigail was crying out of horror.

Sebastian went to the forbidden room and smiled. "This girl is your reward. After you've enjoyed her thoroughly, help me kill her later."

"Hmm."

The Black and White Guards nodded as they eagerly looked at Abigail.

"No! Don't!"

Abigail knew what was coming next, but Sebastian was already gone.

Before he left, he threw the keys to the two men.

Clang!

The Black and White Guards swiftly unlocked the door.

The Protector Chapter 406

The two beasts quickly opened Abigail's door and rushed in.

She closed her eyes in despair.

"Levi, save me, please..."

Levi's face emerged in Abigail's mind.

Just as the Black and White Guards were about to pounce on Abigail, they suddenly stopped.

Slowly, they turned their heads to look.

Nearby, there was a man in green military attire. His cap blocked his face.

The only thing they could see was that he had a cigarette between his lips, and he was taking a long drag.

He beckoned the Black and White Guards.

Cracking sounds came from the joints of the Black and White Guards.

Both were looking at that man in excitement.

Their eyes were an eerie green, and it was as if they had turned into wolves.

The sense of danger which that man exuded made them interested.

That man was White Tiger.

He had finally stepped into the sun after arriving in North Hampton a few months earlier.

Whoosh!

In the next second, the Black and White Guards charged.

They struck out as swift as lightning.

It was as if two wolves were charging towards White Tiger.

Like claws, Black Guard swung his hands at White Tiger.

However, White Tiger was as quick as them; he dodged it easily.

He then grabbed Black Guard's waist and slammed his knee onto the other man's body.

Crack!

A blow from his knee broke Black Guard's back.

"Ow—"

Black Guard howled like a beast as he collapsed on the floor, unmoving.

His spine was broken.

It was now impossible for him to muster any strength at all.

Instantly, White Guard's attack came too. Swiftly, White Tiger tilted to the side to dodge it. Before White Guard could attack again, White Tiger had already restrained his arms and in one move, he bent them.

Crack!

Crack!

.....

Both of White Guard's arms were torn out from their sockets by White Tiger. He threw the arms onto the floor, where they still wiggled.

Abigail was terrified by the scene, but she could not tear her eyes off it.

"Close your eyes!"

A voice traveled into her ears and made her feel at ease.

"Levi, you're finally here!"

Abigail jumped into Levi's arms and hugged him.

The Black and White Guards were looking at White Tiger in disbelief.

Never in their life had they encountered a man as skilled as him.

It was incredulous!

White Tiger looked at the two and shook his head in disappointment.

To him, these two were too easy of an opponent.

He had thought that a skilled fighter was waiting for him, but he ended up meeting two pieces of trash.

Instead of leaving immediately, White Tiger kept stepping from left to right and vice versa.

When the Black and White Guards noticed it, they wailed.

They saw thin threads encircling every part of their body.

These thin threads were deadly and sharp. A gentle touch of them would make the fingers bleed.

No!

What he's about to do is...

When the Black and White Guards realized what White Tiger was doing, they were terrified.

This was the first time they had felt fear in their lives.

This was the first time they had met someone who was stronger and crueler than them.

White Tiger walked forward as both of his hands held onto a thin thread each.

Pft!

He tugged his hands back. The threads straightened and glided through the Black and White Guards' bodies.

Without another sound, the Black and White Guards were dead.

Moreover, their bodies were sliced into multiple pieces.

In the end, when they left, Levi carried Abigail on his back as White Tiger followed behind them. On his face was a look of dissatisfaction.

In the Lopez family's living room.

Sebastian was still sipping on his tea and waiting for the news.

"Is Levi too scared to come now?" Simon questioned.

Henry laughed, "He must be. Levi would not risk his life to save someone like Abigail."

The Protector Chapter 407

"Hahaha! Isn't Levi a cocky man? What's wrong? He's afraid now?"

Even Sebastian was laughing.

Simon chuckled along, "Sir, it's mostly because what happened last night was too terrifying. Now, the entire North Hampton is afraid of you. How does Levi dare to come?"

Just then, Glenn brought the Rogers family to the Lopez family's estate.

"Hahaha! It's the grandfather. He's here. Levi is indeed a coward!" Sebastian guffawed.

Trembling, Glenn said, “Mr. Lopez, come at me if you dare. You’re just a coward if you take my granddaughter.”

“That’s right. We’ll agree with anything you want. Let Abigail go,” Anthony and Leo said.

“I only have one principle—I will not let anyone who’s related to you go,” Sebastian uttered.

As if realizing something, Glenn paled. “Y- You didn’t do anything to Abigail, did you?”

“Hahaha! I don’t know. I left her with the Black and White Guards.”

A cruel smile grew upon Sebastian’s lips.

“Y- You’re an animal!”

Glenn was infuriated.

“Take us there now!” Anthony urged.

“Yes. Let’s go and take a look. What a shame the cowardly Levi isn’t here.”

Sebastian felt somewhat regretful about it.

The group came to the spot behind the Lopez family’s estate.

“If everything’s going smoothly, the Black and White Guards must be playing with Abigail right now,” Sebastian crowed.

However, they had only taken a few steps before they stopped.

When Sebastian saw the pieces of Black and White Guards strewn across the bloody floor, he was stupefied.

“Is this... the Black and White Guards?”

Despite their separated states, Sebastian recognized them.

After all, their attires were distinguishable from the others.

Boom!

The scene was a bolt out of the blue for Simon and the rest.

The Black and White Guards are dead?

How can this be?

They're powerful beings!

There is barely anyone in South City who's a match for them.

How can they die in North Hampton?

And in a cruel way like this too!

Glenn and his party did not care about the Black and White Guards. They rushed into the room, but Abigail was long gone.

They let out sighs of relief.

Evidently, Abigail had been rescued by someone.

In the next second, the call they received from Abigail reassured them completely.

Outside, the Lopez family was silent.

It was some news too shocking for them.

There's someone in North Hampton that can wipe out the Black and White Guards?

Sebastian and Simon exchanged a look.

The person they immediately thought of was the mysterious boss of Morris Group.

Glenn sneered, "Do you know how powerful the North Hampton is now? That man is someone you can't afford to cross."

Upon hearing Glenn's words, Sebastian shuddered.

A look of disbelief flashed past his eyes.

No wonder Winston and Liam were persuading him the other day; he really could not afford to cross him.

At the very least, while he was on North Hampton soil, he could not cross him.

Glenn gleefully said, "Mr. Lopez, I'll give you a chance now. Kneel at the Morris Group's office for the entire night. Perhaps that man will let you off the hook."

"Impossible! How could I bow to him?"

Sebastian immediately instructed, "Simon, take your things. We're returning to South City. Any later, and we won't be able to go back."

No one expected the situation to end up like this. Sebastian had come to North Hampton with a grand entrance but now he was leaving in a such flurry.

He knew what the consequences of his prolonged stay were, so he was swift to leave.

The news of Sebastian's departure reached Levi's ears.

“Ha. Does he think he can come and go as he pleases? If he's here, he'll have to stay in North Hampton forever.”

The Protector Chapter 408

“Understood.”

Azure Dragon and Kirin shared a look.

By now, Sebastian, Simon and the rest of his gang were already out of the metropolitan area of North Hampton.

They were rushing their way towards South City.

“We’re finally out of North Hampton,” Sebastian heaved a sigh of relief.

He was fearful of actually dying in North Hampton.

That man is too ruthless.

He managed to deal with tough opponents like the Black and White Guards.

Sebastian knew that if he continued his stay, only death awaited him.

Since his opponent was so strong, he chose to avoid him.

“I’ll remember what Morris Group has done. I’m coming back after I get help from South City!”

It was impossible for Sebastian to let this matter go.

“Sir, I think something’s wrong.”

Simon's instincts were sounding the alarms in his mind. It felt as if something bad was going to happen anytime soon.

"Don't worry. No one can come after us here," Sebastian sneered.

Fwoosh!

Right then, the driver pulled the brakes abruptly and nearly threw Sebastian and the rest out of the car.

The road in front of them was blocked.

Sebastian's fleet of cars was forced to come to a stop.

"What's going on?" Sebastian urgently asked.

Right then, a group of shadows appeared from behind the roadblocks.

The man in lead was James.

They had been waiting in this spot for a long time.

"Mr. Sebastian Lopez, since you're here, why don't you stay forever? Why are you leaving?" James said with an accent.

"Get rid of them!"

The look in Sebastian's eyes turned cold.

The bodyguards of the Lopez family charged forward.

Bang! Bang! Bang!

However, they were worlds apart in skills from mercenaries like James.

Soon, the bodyguards of the Lopez family were all on the ground.

Sebastian and Simon looked at James and his men in shock.

Knowing that he was disadvantageous in the situation, Sebastian surrendered instantly.

“Take them with us!”

In the end, James brought the escaping Sebastian back to North Hampton.

They came to a villa in North Hampton.

In the villa, a group of people was staring at him.

Shakily, Sebastian asked, “What are you trying to do? I want to meet with the boss of Morris Group.”

Kirin laughed, “You want to meet my boss? You have no right!”

“W- Who are you?”

Sebastian warily looked at Levi.

“Neil Atkinson.”

“What? Neil Atkinson?”

Sebastian was stunned after hearing his words.

Neil Atkinson was only a step away from the most mysterious figure he had ever heard.

“What are you going to do to me?”

Sebastian panicked.

Neil laughed, “I’m going to give you a chance...”

“What chance?”

Neil’s smile widened. “A chance for you to stay alive. How much do you think your life is worth?”

Wham!

Comprehension crashed into Sebastian’s mind.

The worth of his life was now calculable in money.

Neil had the intention to get a large sum of money from him.

Sebastian knew that if he refused, he would not live to see the next morning.

“A...”

Sebastian was about to say a hundred million when Neil interrupted, “I heard that you’re a prominent figure in South City, aren’t you? I’m sure you’re worth at least billions.”

Bastard!

Sebastian’s fists were clenched tight as he cursed in his heart.

Neil is outrageously greedy!

“What about this? Ten billion. An amount fitting for someone like you. I’m sure that won’t be a problem, will it?”

The smile on Neil’s face was as sly as a fox.

“You-”

Sebastian was close to exploding in anger.

Ten billion!

He wants ten billion!

The Morris Group is too greedy!

Simon was shaking in rage, but he could not do anything about it.

“Hm? Do you think your life isn’t worth ten billion?”

Neil’s expression changed as a murderous aura began to exude from him.

It made the hair on the back of Sebastian’s neck stand up. He felt as if he was a rabbit watched by a fox.

The Protector Chapter 409

He knew Neil was warning him that if he could not fork out ten billion, he was as good as dead.

After looking at Simon for a moment, Sebastian relented.

“Alright. I’ll give you ten billion, but you have to let me go.”

Neil nodded. “No problem. As long as you give us exactly ten billion, it won’t be worth it for us to take your crappy life.”

“Pft-”

Sebastian nearly spat blood in the midst of his fury.

Not only was he blackmailed of ten billion, but he also had to endure humiliation.

“Simon, transfer the money to them now.”

Swiftly, Simon and Elena transferred ten billion to the Morris Group.

Neil chuckled, “Mr. Lopez, you’re welcome to visit us at North Hampton again. Thank you for your contribution.”

Crash!

Sebastian stumbled and fell onto the floor.

He was at the worst moment of his life.

Sebastian had come to North Hampton with such grandeur and he left in three days.

The Black and White Guards were permanently left behind in North Hampton, and so was his ten billion.

The news quickly spread.

People from all parts of Quebec were shocked when they received the news.

Even Sebastian Lopez, Hades, was kicked out in such a sorry state?

Is North Hampton that horrifying of a place?

Haven't the three prominent figures in North Hampton collapse?

Is there another frightening presence in North Hampton?

More and more powerful families started observing in silence.

They had slowly come to realize that North Hampton, as great as it was, was not an easy piece of cake to get.

No one was capable of rising in North Hampton unless they were obedient to the rules and sincere in contributing to North Hampton. Otherwise, they would all end up like Sebastian Lopez.

This was Sebastian's greatest humiliation in life.

Everyone knew that Sebastian would not let the matter go.

One day, he would return to North Hampton to take his revenge.

.....

The one who had planned to take ten billion from Sebastian was naturally Levi.

“Sir, we have ten billion now. What do we do with it?” Kirin and Elena queried.

“Invest it all into North Hampton’s development. Firstly, set up a foundation to allocate the funds to help those in need. Secondly, build more nursing homes, orphanages and free schools. Thirdly, invest the money in the poorer areas of North Hampton for its development, like their agricultural products,” Levi instructed.

After listening, Kirin and Elena’s eyes lit up.

Levi’s mind was at a level that they could not dream of reaching.

They had thought that Levi would use the ten billion for the development of Morris Group.

Elena worriedly said, “Mr. Garrison, Sebastian would definitely come back. He’s not one to take such losses quietly.”

Levi huffed in laughter as he held onto his cigarette.

“That’s great. It won’t only be ten billion next time. Honestly, I hope idiots like Sebastian come more often. It’s a great help for North Hampton’s development.”

“Pft-”

Kirin and Elena nearly spat blood when they heard his words.

If his words were heard by the prominent figures in South City, they might just die from a heart attack.

No one in North Hampton had thought that Sebastian would leave the place as disheveled as he was.

The one who benefited most from his departure was the Rogers family.

That night when they went against Sebastian, everyone had thought that it was the end for the Rogers family.

However, the loser turned out to be Sebastian.

After defeating Sebastian, the Rogers family and Morris Group's shares soared.

Now, both of them were the pillars of North Hampton.

On this day, Levi had just arrived in the company when Iris came to him.

"Quick. Prepare yourself. You have a press conference in a moment. Tidy yourself up to look livelier later."

Iris handed him a suit.

However, Levi did not wear it.

He did not see the need to.

Soon, the reporters arrived.

"Huh? Why is it you? Levi?"

The Protector Chapter 410

The pretty reporter was stunned as she blurted out her question.

Levi rubbed his eyes and took a good look at her.

Now, he remembered.

The pretty reporter in front of him was the young intern that joined North Hampton Television Network six years ago.

Back then, she had interviewed Morris and him.

Levi remembered that this young reporter was no honest woman.

Her attempts to seduce him had failed. She then tried to seduce Morris, but failed as well.

In the end, Levi reported her to her superior.

She was penalized, and her internship was canceled. From then on, she was blacklisted from the television station.

Yet, unexpectedly, she was still working in the station. It seemed like she was one of the older and experienced reporters in her company.

Indeed.

Back then, Margaret had been fired by the station after Levi's complaint.

However, Margaret slept with one of the persons-in-charge in the station, and managed to return to her post.

From then on, her career was smooth. Now, she was the golden child of the station and the most vital reporter there.

Furthermore, she was pretty and elegant. She was well-respected among her peers, and she was the ace of her company.

As Morris Group's development had been going fantastically, the television station assigned their ace to interview them.

Before coming, Margaret had been anxious.

After all, Morris Group was the main support of North Hampton.

She was worried about interviewing a company as large as the Morris Group.

At the same time, she wanted to become acquaintances with them.

It would be best if she could be acquaintances with Neil or the mysterious boss behind Morris Group.

Margaret had prepared stockings and some other items in her purse; she was ready to use her body to achieve her goal at any time.

Yet, she did not expect the interviewee to be Levi.

"Ms. Ward, this man is Levi Garrison. He's our company's representative for this interview," Iris' secretary introduced.

Margaret frowned and asked curiously, "Would you please tell me who Mr. Garrison is?"

“Oh, he’s the technical adviser. I don’t know why Ms. Anabelle assigned him as the representative for the interview. Honestly, I think he’s the least qualified. If it were up to me, I’d rather send a security guard or a janitor,” Iris’ secretary whispered her complaints into Margaret’s ears.

“If Ms. Ward isn’t happy about the situation, I can suggest to Ms. Anabelle to have someone more important to come for the interview,” the secretary suggested.

Margaret smiled. “No need. I’m alright with him.”

“Very well. Please begin, Ms. Ward. You can look for me if there are any problems.”

After the secretary left, Margaret looked at Levi from head to toe.

“Levi, you must not have thought of a day that we’ll meet again like this, have you? I didn’t think you’ll still be in the Levi Group,” Margaret mocked.

Levi chuckled, “And I didn’t think you’ll still be working at North Hampton Television Station. Weren’t you fired?”

The cameraman at the side sneered, “Please be mindful of your words. Ms. Ward is the ace of our station. She’s the best reporter we’ve got.”

Margaret gleefully smiled at Levi.

“How did you do that? Did you...”

A look of surprise emerged on Levi’s face.

“You-”

Knowing what Levi was about to say, Margaret trembled in rage.

“I got to where I am with my own talents. I’m not like a certain someone, who I’ve heard was earning a living by pulling a little strings here and there. Apparently, he’s much more useless than the guards and the janitors. That’s true. After all, you were just released from prison. It’s a miracle that you even have a job,” Margaret ridiculed.

The other staff on sight could not help but say, “Ms. Ward, isn’t the Morris Group too much? They sent an ex-convict for us to interview. They’re obviously looking down on us!”

The Protector Chapter 411

“That’s right. We won’t conduct an interview like this. Let’s go back.”

An evil thought popped in Margaret’s mind, and she laughed, “No, no. We have to continue the interview. The Morris Group is North Hampton’s top company. They’re not looking down on us.”

“Get ready, Levi. We’re starting the interview now,” Margaret announced.

“Sure.”

Although he despised this woman, he had to continue with the interview.

Otherwise, he would not know how to explain to Iris.

When the camera started rolling, Margaret presented herself in the perfect way she always did. That was the professionalism she had honed throughout the years.

After introducing the interview while facing the camera, she started interviewing Levi.

“Mr. Levi Garrison, I heard that you were jailed on the charges of adultery. Is that true?”

Without any changes in expression, Levi nodded.

“Yes.”

“Was your jail term six years?”

“That’s right.”

“When were you released from jail?”

“Three months ago.”

“I heard that you entered the Morris Group by pulling strings after your release?”

“Who was the one who got you into the company?”

“As Levi Group’s ex-president, how do you feel working in the company that used to be yours?”

“I heard that your private life is a mess, and you were interested in your sister-in-law. Is that true?”

.....

The staff at the station was dumbfounded just after the interview started.

The questions that Margaret was asking Levi were not the same as the ones in the script.

Originally, the interview would be about Morris Group's future developments, but every question Margaret asked was in relation to Levi.

Moreover, every question was ruthless and a personal attack on him.

Margaret's sinister intentions were obvious to Levi.

However, if he did not take the interview obediently, Iris would definitely complain about him again.

Therefore, he answered every question Margaret asked.

Half an hour later, the interview ended.

Margaret immediately dropped the professional smile from her face.

"Levi, are you pleasantly surprised? After all, you'll be on television soon," Margaret asked with a smile.

Then, she asked the others to leave the room.

"Levi, you never expected this, did you? Not only was I not fired, but I'm also doing well at North Hampton Television Station. Are you angry? Let me tell you this- Morris and you are insolent fools. I was kind to give you a chance back then, but you were ungrateful, and you even reported me to my superior! Did it do anything? Crushing you now is simple for someone of my status. It's easy to ruin your reputation."

Margaret stared at Levi with gloating eyes.

Levi chuckled, "The road you're on is a short one. Karma is around the corner."

He knew with a glance that Margaret must have climbed the ranks by sleeping with the superiors.

“Hmph. Is that so? It’s been years, and I’m still doing fine. Also, I’ll be going to South City Television Station next.”

The gloating look was still in Margaret’s eyes.

Levi gave her a meaningful smile. “Is that so? You won’t be able to go there.”

“Levi, I still remember you reporting me six years ago. Now, let me tell you this. I’ll definitely take my revenge. Just you wait!”

At that, Margaret left the conference room.

However, she did not leave the building.

In the name of collecting materials for the interview, she started wandering around the Morris Group’s office.

She handed her contact number whenever she met male executives.

In the end, she went to Iris.

“Ms. Anabelle, will I get the chance to meet the Morris Group’s boss or Mr. Atkinson today?” Margaret inquired.

The Protector Chapter 412

Margaret's eyes were gleaming.

She was involved with the upper-class society in North Hampton, and she knew about every recent big event.

For example, she knew everything about Sebastian Lopez's failure in North Hampton.

She also knew that the one who defeated Sebastian was Morris Group's boss.

If she were able to win over the boss or Neil Atkinson, her bright future would be guaranteed.

Margaret was a beautiful and elegant woman. She was the beauty of the station.

Margaret was confident of her charms.

She was sure that she would be able to win the mysterious boss and Neil's heart when she met them.

Once they went up on her bed, she was confident none would be able to come back down.

This was her survival skill.

Otherwise, a young intern with no background like her would not be able to have tens of millions, eight properties and a villa in North Hampton.

These were not gifts that fell from the sky.

“Unfortunately, they’re not in the office today,” Iris replied with a polite smile.

Even I haven’t seen the boss yet. What gives you the courage to ask this?

“Ms. Annabelle, I’ll apply for an exclusive interview with the Morris Group’s boss and Mr. Atkinson when I get back to the station. This will be advantageous for the Morris Group. I’m sure I don’t need to elaborate on why.”

A bright smile hung on Margaret’s lips.

“Sure. I’ll try my best to make arrangements for it,” Iris answered.

It was mostly because she wanted to meet the mysterious boss too.

After that, Margaret left.

On her way out, she winked at the numerous passing men.

In the corridor, she even encountered Levi.

She sneered, “You tried to destroy me back then. Now, just watch as I destroy you.”

Levi ignored her words; she was not even a threat to him.

Even someone like Sebastian had to pay up ten billion in the end.

At that moment, Jesse called.

“What’s wrong, Nielson?” Levi asked.

“Sir, I’ll be straightforward with you. We’ve discussed the recent matters and the changes in North Hampton’s market. We’ve decided on holding an investment promotion conference. The main purpose of it is to attract foreign individuals and companies to invest. It'll stabilize North Hampton's market, and it'll also help with the development. What do you think about it?" Jesse queried.

Levi brightened up. "Not bad, Nielson. That sounds great! Everyone's been wanting a piece of North Hampton recently. The earlier we deal with this, the better it'll be. It's a fantastic idea. You have my approval!"

Jesse hesitated before saying, "But I need to go to Vermont for a meeting soon. I'll be there for about a month. You'll have to take the full responsibility for the investment promotion conference this time. After all, you're the deputy of North Hampton."

"That's fine. Leave it to me."

"Great!"

Levi, too, felt that it was an outstanding plan.

He welcomed everyone to the market as long as they were contributing to North Hampton.

After establishing this rule, North Hampton was running smoother than before.

After getting Levi's approval, North Hampton promulgated the policy, and the investment promotion conference was swiftly declared to take place in three days.

The host of the conference would be Deputy Garrison.

The moment the North Hampton Television Station received the news, they started reporting and promoting it.

Soon, the head of the station came to look for Margaret.

“Margaret, you’ll be doing full-day interviews at the exhibition center these few days. We’ll be depending on you for it!”

After hearing his words, Margaret’s eyes lit up.

An investment promotion conference as large-scale as this meant that she would be able to socialize with more prominent figures and expand her social network.

Margaret was more than willing to do this.

“Also, the host for the conference is the new deputy of North Hampton. You have to find a way to get an exclusive interview with him. If you do this, you’re definitely getting the promotion next month!”

The Protector Chapter 413

The head of the station was confident in her skills.

Margaret reassured, "Sir, I guarantee I'll do it well!"

"Yes. After all, you're our ace. Hehe..."

The man's eyes started wandering across Margaret's body.

"Thank you for giving me this chance," she giggled as she intentionally made herself slip and fall into his arms.

Soon, an explicit scene took place in the office.

.....

After the interview, Iris came to Levi.

"How was the interview?"

"It should be fine."

Levi nodded.

Iris said to him solemnly, "Levi, you have to understand that I'm trying to give you a chance. This is a way for you to make yourself more important in the company. Otherwise, Zoey will leave you far behind."

Iris' arrangement this time was a selfish decision.

She wanted Levi to have more chances to become a more impressive person.

“Alright, thank you, Ms. Anabelle.”

Levi smiled wryly.

“Sure. All we need to do now is to wait for the interview to be broadcasted.”

Iris was sure that Levi would become more reputable once the interview was out.

That way, she would be able to arrange a better position in the company for him.

On that day, Levi left work earlier to pick Aaron and his wife with Zoey.

When the couple found out that Zoey was now the chairman of the Oriental Star Group, they were overjoyed.

Zoey laughed, “Dad, Mom, Levi’s doing not bad too. Iris has assigned him to an interview with North Hampton Television Station. It’ll be broadcasted tonight. When that happens, Levi will be well known in North Hampton too.”

“That’s great!”

Aaron sneered, “That old man shouldn’t have been only nice to Fabian and Henry. Look at how well we’re doing. Hmph!”

Caitlyn was also proud of them.

After all, they had gone through much suffering in the Lopez family.

The ones that the head of the Lopez family looked down on most were them.

Now, they had finally made a name for themselves.

In the evening, Levi and the other three sat in front of the television and waited for his interview to come on.

“Here it comes!”

Instantly, everyone’s gazes were fixed on the television.

The first to appear was Margaret. She gave a detailed explanation of the Morris Group.

“This reporter’s great. She’s a well-known reporter in North Hampton. I always see her on TV,” Aaron praised.

Caitlyn nodded. “That’s right. She’s the best reporter in North Hampton. She has even interviewed the director of the hospital!”

“The reason behind Morris Group’s success was the hard work of their brilliant employees. I took a trip around the Morris Group, and I’ve realized that the talented ones are all here.”

Then, Margaret changed the topic. “However, after a long while, I’ve finally found an employee who doesn’t fit into the Morris Group. His presence in the Morris Group is a disgrace to them.”

In the beginning, Margaret had used several minutes to pour praises on the Morris Group.

Now, she was pinpointing on a single employee. It was easy to understand what she was trying to tell the audience—the next section she was going to talk about was only directed to a specific person instead of the Morris Group.

However, the audience in front of their television held their breaths in shock at the turn of events.

Besides Levi, the rest of the family was looking at each other.

A sense of unease shot through them.

“I shouldn’t point out who that employee is, but the Morris Group is the hope of North Hampton. I can’t possibly allow a douchebag like him to taint Morris Group. It’s quite an interesting matter, actually. This employee is Levi Garrison, the founder of Levi Group, which was the company before Morris Group.”

The Protector Chapter 414

Hiss!

The moment Margaret said his name, the audience gasped.

“What? Levi?”

Aaron, Caitlyn and Zoey all turned to look at Levi.

Didn't they say that if Levi takes the interview, he'll become a reputable figure?

Why did he become a douchebag employee?

What's going on?

Levi was silently watching the interview.

What a daring reporter.

The interview continued.

Margaret laughed, “Maybe you think that he's someone talented to be able to join the Morris Group, but I've done my investigation. Levi has joined the company by pulling strings, and he hasn't been doing much every day. At work, he only drinks his tea, smokes his cigarette, and sleeps at his desk. He does nothing. His reputation in the company is terrible. More than 80 percent of his colleagues hate him, but because he's associates with the executives, they can't do anything about him. Only some old staff from Levi Group has a better impression of him. But as an outsider, I can't bear to watch it continue. A cancerous tumor like him will end up ruining the Morris Group. Morris Group is the hope of North Hampton now. They're our hope! I can't allow a poisonous person like him to remain in the company! Furthermore, Levi has a poor character, and his private life is a mess. He was once interested in his sister-in-law, and even now, he's still in an ambiguous relationship with her. These aren't my guesses; these are the results of my investigation. I've also interviewed him, and he has admitted to what he's done."

Soon, the interview with Levi was played.

Margaret asked, "I heard that your private life is a mess, and you were interested in your sister-in-law. Is that true?"

Levi answered, "Yes, that's true."

Margaret continued, "Did you embezzle public funds when you were in Levi Group?"

Levi admitted, "Yes, it did happen."

.....

The questions Margaret asked Levi in the interview were all sensitive topics.

However, Levi said yes to all her questions.

The interview was a bolt from the blue.

Zoey and the rest were stunned after watching the interview.

They looked at him in shock and asked, "Levi, are you stupid? Why did you answer everything she asked? Why did you admit to things you haven't done?"

"That's right. Have you gone mad? How can you say such ridiculous things?"

Zoey had a look of disbelief on her face.

On the other hand, Levi was calm.

What a cunning woman.

She's really trying to destroy me.

There had been no problems with the questions she asked.

However, the interview that was broadcasted had been edited.

She had intentionally edited Levi's answers for the other questions.

It made it look as if he had admitted to having a relationship with his sister-in-law.

Generally, no one would believe in an interview like this.

Anyone with a hint of analytical skills would realize that it was an edited video.

However, this was broadcasted by a television station. That meant it was official, and there was a sense of authority about it.

If it was released to the public, that meant the video was reviewed, and that the contents were true.

Even those who had doubts would have to believe in it.

This was what Margaret could do.

This edited video made Levi seem like the cancerous tumor of the Morris Group.

It was that simple to ruin a person in nowadays' society.

From now on, there was no place for Levi in the Morris Group.

No major companies in North Hampton would dare to take in Levi either.

In fact, some restaurants and public spaces would refuse Levi's patronage.

If it were someone else, if it had been someone average, this would be the end of them.

The Protector Chapter 415

However, the one Margaret was trying to set up was Levi Garrison.

On-screen, Margaret raised her right hand high. “So, I’m raising a petition. I hope the Morris Group will fire Levi Garrison. Also, I hope that everyone can stand with me and boycott this toxic man. Restrict his right to purchase, and restrict his traveling...”

Many responded positively to Margaret’s petition.

Major media companies started boycotting Levi.

Furthermore, executives in the Morris Group agreed to the petition and announced that they were going to fire Levi.

Many restaurants and public spaces also announced their stance to boycott him.

Soon, Levi had become the sinner of North Hampton.

Once again, he became a street rat that disgusted everyone.

It was the same situation as six years ago, except that he had not gone to jail this time.

It was the times of advanced communication, and news spread swiftly.

Levi’s troubles were piling up.

Right then, Iris, who was living next door, came to knock on his door.

“Levi, what’s gotten into you? How can you just say anything you want to? Are you out of your mind?” Iris roared.

However, Levi lit up his cigarette and muttered, “Iris, do you think I’m that stupid?”

Iris’ furious expression turned into shock. “Did she edit the interview to target you?”

“Yes. Didn’t you notice that the interview had nothing to do with the Morris Group? She’s clearly coming after me,” Levi answered.

It was only then realization struck everyone.

“But are you at odds with her?” Zoey queried.

“Back when she was an intern, she tried to seduce Morris and I when she was interviewing us. I reported her behavior to her superior, so she has hated me since then. Now that she has the chance to take revenge on me, she wouldn’t let it slip past her,” Levi explained.

Iris furrowed her brows.

“But the interview has already been broadcasted. We have no evidence of her tampering it. She’s a representative of the TV station; she’s the authority. I don’t know how we’re getting you out of this. Moreover, there are lots of people agreeing with her petition. Even the executives in the company are calling me and asking me to fire you. If this matter gets out of hand, it won’t be good for the Morris Group.”

When Zoey and the rest heard Iris’ words, they panicked.

“Iris, think of something! You can’t let her ruin Levi like this!”

Iris was at a loss as well. "I want to help him too, but I can't think of anything right now. Everyone's talking about this interview at this moment. If I insist on keeping Levi, the Morris Group would be forced into a corner. Let me go back and think of a way. I need to come up with the perfect plan."

Levi chuckled, "You can leave this to me. I'll deal with it myself."

"You?"

The four people stared at Levi with a frown.

It was not that they did not believe in Levi's capability, but this matter was gradually getting out of hand.

He would not be able to get the situation under control alone.

Not unless he was the most powerful figure in North Hampton.

Not unless he could change North Hampton Television Station's stance with just a sentence.

The only way out for him now was for the television station's director to clear up the situation by telling the truth in public.

Otherwise, he was doomed.

After all, this woman's plan was flawless.

They ignored Levi and started coming up with plans by themselves.

"I'll ask Mr. Atkinson about this. Let me see what he thinks about it."

Later in the evening, the situation worsened.

Many were asking Levi to get out of North Hampton.

They did not want a toxic person like him to remain in North Hampton.

The Protector Chapter 416

Levi ignored it and went on with whatever he did, much to Zoey's disappointment. If it were in the past, he would have come up with a way to settle the matter on the spot instead of dragging it out.

However, he lost that part of him now, and he was smoking even at a time like this.

Margaret called him before he slept just to mock him. "How do you feel now, Mr. Garrison?" She chuckled.

Levi smiled. "Is that all that you've got? It doesn't hurt that much. No, scratch it. I don't feel a thing."

"Yeah, keep acting and maybe you can start a career that way. Don't you know the situation you're in right now?" She sneered, "Just you wait. Tomorrow is going to be even worse for you. But if you want to settle this, just grovel before me, and I might just let you go.

If you don't, then you can kiss North Hampton goodbye." Margaret cackled. Oh, destroying someone's life is so much fun! Especially when the guy is someone I hate! Dragging him down to hell. Mmm...

Levi smiled. "We'll see who has the last laugh."

Margaret veered away from the topic, "It's a shame Morris has died, otherwise I would have done the same thing to him too.

Levi's eyes revealed a hint of viciousness. How dare she disrespect the dead.

Levi went to Morris Group as usual the next day, but everyone looked at him weirdly the moment he came in.

Seth came up to him and whispered, "Are you sabotaged, Levi?"

"I can handle this." Levi gave a nod as he chuckled.

Not everyone saw things as clearly as Seth did though, and most of them thought everything Margaret said on the interview was real.

All the top management now looked at Levi in disgust. They could ignore most of the little transgressions he did in the past, but things have been different since that interview.

"How dare you come here, Levi? Scram! Don't make this hard for everyone."

"Yeah. Morris Group might be a new company, but we will never allow a disgusting man like you here!"

...

Iris was troubled, for all the top management requested for her to fire Levi. Left with no choice, she called for a meeting to vote on Levi's fate. There was no question about the result as most people wanted him to leave.

It was hard on her, but still, she came to tell Levi that he was sacked. "I have no choice, Levi. I'll think of some ways to salvage this though." Iris felt guilty.

"It's fine." He left the company in the end. Levi was going to work on getting new funds, so he couldn't work at the company anyway. Well, just as I planned.

When the news of his sacking was announced, the whole company cheered in joy, but Elena and Isaiah smiled bitterly. Have fun while you still can. Once he comes back, you're the ones who're getting sacked.

Levi went to North Hampton's exhibition center to monitor the decorations, and the person in charge was shocked to find that he was here.

"Mr. Garrison! So far, we've received 74 registrations, and all of them are big companies! The registrations are still piling on, and here's the list so far! Please have a look!"

The Protector Chapter 417

Levi skimmed through it and noticed the name of many big companies on it. “Mr. Garrison, North Hampton’s news channel and media outlets are planning on filming the venue for publicity. Is that fine by you?” The person in charge asked.

“Of course. Do it as much as possible. It will do good for us. Oh right. Who’s the reporter for this session?” Levi asked.

“Let me check. Oh, it’s someone called Margaret,” he replied.

Levi smirked. Well, what are the odds?

At the same time, Margaret and the other reporters were waiting outside the hall. She had just gotten the news about Levi’s sacking, and it delighted her.

Yeah, so this is how it feels! She sneered. “This is just the beginning, Levi. It’s going to get harder for you. You might even starve to death because you’d be out of cash to buy even a grain of rice!” Margaret suddenly laughed.

“What happened to her?” Some reporters asked.

“Nothing. I just destroyed my old enemy and got him fired.” Margaret grinned.

“That’s good news,” everyone buttered her up.

“Thanks. I’ll treat you guys to a meal after this.” Margaret was elated.

“OK, you guys may head in now. Some things must be kept secret, so don’t go doing anything you shouldn’t. You know the rules,” the staff told them.

“Of course.” Everyone picked up their gear and entered the hall, while Margaret went up to the staff and asked, “Mister, who is this boss you’ve been talking about?”

“Keep this a secret. The boss came here today to monitor on the progress of the event. He’s such a responsible guy.

Everyone calls him Mr. Garrison and he is the second-in-command of this event. I saw him just now, and he doesn’t look a day older than twenty-eight,” the staff replied.

Margaret’s eyes shone. That’s the job the channel asked me to do! The mysterious Mr. Garrison is here today? Great! I must interview him.

Apart from getting an interview, Margaret hoped sparks would fly between them, since he was young and successful. Little did she know that the spark she had anticipated turn out to be the exact opposite of her imagination.

Everyone got on to their work after entering the hall. Margaret was a true professional, and she beat everyone else by finishing her job first. Even so, she kept strolling around in the hall.

She had been looking around ever since she came in to catch a glimpse of Mr. Garrison, but none of the guys she saw fitted the bill. He might be in the backstage.

After a while, she went to the backstage, but there were many rooms there, so she searched them one by one.

After searching a few dozen rooms, she finally came into one that was crowded with a young man in the center.

Judging by the vibe he was giving off, she was sure this was Mr. Garrison. He looks familiar though. Where have I seen him before?

Trepidation and excitement swirled within her. Now that I found him, I'm not going to let this chance go to waste. Time for an interview!

The Protector Chapter 418

"What are you doing tiptoeing around?" When she was about to move forward, someone boomed from behind, shocking her.

She turned around and saw a few guards boring their eyes into her. "Don't take this the wrong way. I'm Margaret, a reporter. Here's my ID." She quickly handed her ID over for confirmation. "I want to interview the leader in there for a bit," she told them what she had in mind.

"No. He doesn't accept any interviews. Everything they talk about is top secret, so please leave." She was chased out of the backstage abruptly. It wasn't easy for her to meet Mr. Garrison, so she wouldn't give up now.

"We should leave now, Margaret. Everyone else has already left," her partner urged.

"You guys go ahead. I'll wait for him at the passage." Margaret came to the hall's secret passage. Few people knew about this, for this was exclusively for leaders. Even so, Margaret easily found it and waited here.

She believed Mr. Garrison would leave via this passage, so she would take the chance to interview him then. Margaret staked out at this place, but she almost fell asleep after waiting for god knew how long. Unbeknownst to her, Levi would be staying here for a couple of days because he would be making the plans here.

Meantime, Levi was already taking a nap on the sofa. Margaret thought he would come out in the end, so she waited until dusk, but still he didn't appear. "I can't give up! This chance is too important for me," she cheered herself up.

When it was time to get off work, Levi checked around and left from the front gate, since he didn't know where the secret passage was.

It wasn't until almost nine in the evening did someone come out from the secret passage, and Margaret's legs were already numb. She quickly went up and asked, "Is Mr. Garrison coming out soon?"

"Huh? He left a long while ago," the staff replied.

Margaret almost exploded. "What? He left? When? I've been waiting right here all the time!"

"You waited here? No wonder you missed him! He left through the front gate. It's been almost two hours."

Margaret almost went mad. "What!?" I've been waiting at the wrong spot all this while!? It's alright, I have no regrets. I'd come back again tomorrow.

Margaret's whole body was sore after going back, and she felt angry. "Oh yeah, I can vent this on Levi." She fished out her phone and punched in the latter's number soon after.

His case was still spreading like wildfire, so everyone was still talking about it. At the same time, someone anonymously exposed Levi's wife, his parents-in-law, their working places, and their house address.

Suddenly, Zoey and her family were dragged into this. She was the boss of Oriental Star Group, so many people started boycotting the company, resulting in a significant loss overnight.

The medical staff called and asked Caitlyn to refrain from coming to work for a few days, or else it would look bad on the hospital.

Aaron's department also suspended him for the time being, putting his salary on hold. Everyone didn't want this matter to affect them, and nobody could see the matter snowballing to this degree.

"Didn't Levi say he can handle this? Then why is this matter getting more serious?"

The Protector Chapter 419

Aaron was fuming, and Caitlyn was vexed. Initially, the company had released the documents officiating her promotion to department head, but now it was delayed. If the matter was not resolved, someone else might take her place. To make matters worse, she couldn't even return to work now.

Zoey called Iris over to ask for her opinion. "Let me talk to Margaret. This can only die down if she clears things up herself." Iris called Margaret.

"Hey, Miss Iris. Is there anything I can do for you?"

Iris replied, "Margaret, I hope you can stop what you're doing right now. Don't make it worse for Levi. He's already having it hard."

Margaret sneered, "Hard? The people he destroyed had it harder. Has he ever thought of that? No. Besides, why are you interfering in this matter? Isn't it great that I helped you get rid of a canker?"

Iris was slightly annoyed. “You did help the Morris Group, so technically speaking, I should thank you. But on a personal level, Levi is my best friend’s husband. So, I want to talk to you about this. What are your terms?”

Margaret said, “I can stop this if you want to, and my terms are simple. Arrange an interview for me tomorrow, and I want the interviewees to be Neil and the boss behind Morris Group. If you can do it, I’ll take everything back and lay off Levi’s back.”

“Very well then. I’ll try.” Iris hung up and called Neil, “I have something to trouble you...”

Kirin listened to what she had to say before replying, “Let her come to the company tomorrow then we’ll see.”

That must mean Neil agreed to the interview... At least that was what iris thought and she conveyed the message to Margaret.

Margaret guaranteed that she would take back all the accusations she made against Levi after the interviews were done.

“Thank you, Iris. Levi should be here bowing to you. You saved him!” Aaron told her, and he was struck by the impulse to have Levi kowtow to her.

Iris came to the company early next morning, but Neil was already there. “Oh, Mr. Neil, you’re here. Is the boss here yet?” Iris looked around and blushed, for she was about to meet the man of her dreams.

She never did any makeup in the past, and even if she did, it was a light touch up at best. However, she took two hours to do her makeup today. “Take it slow. The boss knows everything, and you’ll know who he is soon enough.” Kirin smiled.

When the clock struck nine, in came Margaret with a group of people. She dolled herself up for the occasion, and her goal was simple: get the scoop on Neil and the mysterious boss no matter what.

“Let me do the introduction. Miss Ward, this is Mr. Neil,” Iris introduced.

Margaret took one look, and she was dumbfounded. He’s so young, and so handsome! Probably the most handsome out of all the guys I’ve seen!

“Hello, Mr. Neil. I’m Margaret from the TV channel. It’s an honor to interview you today.” Margaret came up and extended her hand while winking at him.

“Scram! A trash like you have no right to interview me!” Kirin bellowed, much to everyone’s shock.

The Protector Chapter 420

Even Iris was shocked by the roar, while the smiles were wiped off of Margaret and her partners' faces. They looked at Kirin, dumbfounded.

“Guards! Throw these people out! Do they hire trash to be reporters now? What a disgrace!” Kirin looked displeased, and Seth came in with the security guards, ready to chase Margaret and her team out.

“What? I thought Mr. Neil agreed to the interview today. What happened?” Margaret looked at Iris.

Neil laughed. “Let me explain. I don't mind interviews, but not if you're the reporter.”

Iris looked down, her face ashen. She didn't know why Neil disliked Margaret, since this was just their first time meeting. If he refused Margaret's interview, Levi's matter wouldn't die down.

It took everything Iris had to get Margaret's agreement, but the former couldn't do anything now, so it was hard for Iris.

Since she was in Morris Group, Margaret didn't fly into a rage. “It's fine if you detest me, Mr. Neil, but you don't call the shots here. Maybe the boss will agree to my interview,” she answered with a lovely smile.

Kirin said nothing and called Levi to tell him about what happened. “Tell her to f*ck off! I don't take interviews from trash!”

Iris and Margaret were equally shocked to hear the roar, and Margaret left without saying a word. However, before she left, she sneered at Iris, “Looks like I won't be letting Levi off the hook then.”

This was troublesome news for Iris. “Mr. Neil, why do the both of you...” Iris wanted to know the reason.

“This is the boss’ idea.” That stopped Iris from asking further.

After going back, Margaret took it out on Levi by exposing his and Iris’ address.

All of a sudden, the crowd graffitied the walls with insults and smeared it with rotten food.

Aaron and his wife stayed indoors, for there were many strangers here who were keeping an eye on them. They couldn’t go out; even their delivery would be snatched away.

For the time being, Aaron and the others were stressed out by the situation. If this kept up, they would be driven mad.

At this crucial time, no one knew where Levi had gone to.

Levi, of course, was in the exhibition hall.

“Mr. Garrison, we added three hundred more companies to the roster in one day! And seven of them are giants in South City!” The person in charge was excited, for this would benefit North Hampton greatly.

Levi flipped through the list, and he saw the Suarez Family as well as the other big names from South City. “If you’re here to mess North Hampton up, I will make you pay dearly.” His eyes gleamed coldly.

A staff member approached him and asked, “Mr. Garrison, a reporter from North Hampton Television Network plans to interview you. Do you want to go ahead with it?”

“She’s Margaret, isn’t she?” Levi didn’t even look up.

“Huh? How do you know? Will you accept it?” The staff asked carefully.

Another staff member came and asked softly, “Mr. Garrison, North Hampton Cultural Channel wants to have an interview too.”

“And the reporters from the economic section wants one too.”

The Protector Chapter 421

The news outlet came for interviews after knowing Mr. Garrison was the host of the event. It didn't take long for Levi to make up his mind on which interviewer he chose, "Well, we're short on time, so I can only take one interview. Hmm, let's go with Margaret from North Hampton Television Network."

"What? Mr. Garrison only accepts my interview?" Margaret was delighted after knowing that. I'm so lucky! There are a lot of reporters here, and I am the lucky one who gets chosen?

"Alright. Please tell Mr. Garrison that I won't let him down," she guaranteed.

The event would start soon and representatives from corporations elsewhere arrived earlier to survey the market.

Powerful corporation like the Morris Group and the Rogers family had a lot of people asking for collaboration, and many were looking for potential ones like Oriental Star Group that was helmed by Zoey.

More than thirty corporations talked about collaboration with her, and after some careful review, Zoey chose four from South City to work with. There were four representatives to talk with, so they agreed to talk about this over dinner one night.

Zoey was cautious of her dinner meetings now. She would bring some males from top management with her. This time, she brought Levi together just in case.

The four representatives from South City sat in Wyvern Hotel's room, and the oldest one, who went by the name of Draco, was on his phone, "Don't worry, Mr. Shorts. I'll make Zoey pay tonight. Just wait and see how I torture her," he snickered.

The four corporations were backed by the Suarez family, and they were going to set Zoey up tonight. Before Zoey came, they and their lackeys took some sobering pills.

After that, Zoey came in with her entourage. "Oh, what's the meaning of this, Ms. Lopez? Are you worried we might do something to you?" Draco looked displeased.

One of the top management quickly explained, "Mr. Johannes, Ms. Lopez almost got into trouble back then, so she must bring us along whenever she goes for negotiations.

We can hold it if you're okay with us here, but if it's impossible, then we can stop it here."

Draco and his group looked at one another, and they knew it would be hard to get them away. "Oh, of course we can. We're here to negotiate, so this won't be any trouble." He grinned.

A moment later, everyone sat down and had small talk before cutting to the chase. Collaboration wasn't a problem, but the agreement on profit sharing was. Zoey wanted to have ten percent more, but they didn't want to budge on this.

Draco raised his glass. "You should know that us southerners can be... fierce. We have our own rules here."

"Of course. I've experienced it myself," one of the top management replied.

"Great, so the rules here are simple. We'll have a drinking competition. If we lose, then the ten percent is yours, but if you lose, then that's it," Draco suggested.

"Sure, no problem," Levi agreed.

Zoey glared at him, for she knew Draco and his gang must have the confidence in winning the bet, or else they wouldn't propose this. Levi is too rash.

“Great. Including the driver and our assistants, there’s a dozen of us here, so pick any number you want from your side,” Draco said. They had taken sobering pills beforehand, and they were heavy drinkers, so they were confident this would be a landslide win.

Levi smiled. “Very well then. Ms. Lopez and I will take the challenge on our own.”

“The hell?” That shocked Zoey. Is he mad? Two against twelve?

The Protector Chapter 422

If she knew that they had popped the pills before the dinner, Zoey would have been horrified at Levi's announcement. Levi must be mad!

Zoey's subordinates were flabbergasted. Hey, they said we can call anyone we want! At least call two dozen here before going ahead with it. Two against twelve? Is he stupid?

"Very well then! If that is what you say, then we'll start right now!" Draco mocked Levi silently and made the decision for them, worrying that Zoey would go back on her word.

"No. I—"

Zoey was about to say something, but Draco smiled. "Ms. Lopez, you can't go back on your word, can you? That would be an insult to us. If that's the case then there's no point in continuing the negotiation."

"No! Let's do it!" Zoey had no choice but to accept it.

Draco and his gang smirked, for they thought this was victory for them. They grinned at the thought of them ravaging Zoey. Is this guy on our side? Man, this is a big help. What a dumba!

Levi grinned at them. "You'll have to get past me to drink with Ms. Lopez."

"Challenge accepted!" Draco and his gang were raring to go, for they thought Levi couldn't win against all of them, especially not after they had taken the sobering pills.

“Oh, right. We only allow those who participates in the drinking game to stay during the competition. It’s a southerner rule.” Draco looked at the top management. He had to chase these guys away, otherwise they couldn’t do anything to Zoey.

“Why you...” The staff glared at Levi, blaming him for ruining this negotiation. They were fairly confident about taking the ten percent profit, but now Levi botched it.

The competition went under way after they had left. “Hey bro, if we go by the rules, you have to take a shot for every shot we take.” Draco grinned.

“Yeah, sure. I’ll take twelve shots for every shot you guys take. Let’s begin.”

“I like you!” Draco thought Levi was an idiot now. A moment later, twelve glasses of wine sat before Levi, and Zoey was concerned. How long can he last? A round?

Draco and his gang finished their wine in no time. “Your turn, buddy.” He smirked.

They thought Levi would lose out after taking all twelve shots, but what happened next shocked everyone. Levi, always the showy guy, took two shots at once, and he finished all twelve in less than a minute.

“He’s fine?” Draco and his gang were taken aback. He’s a good drinker too. Well, that explains his impulsive behavior, but he can’t win against all of us, not when we took the sobering pills.

“Get on with it.” The second round started, and Levi downed twelve shots like it was soda, shocking everyone.

“On with it!” The third round came, then the fourth, the fifth, and finally, the tenth round came. A hundred and twenty shots later, anyone would fall, but not Levi.

Him still standing not only shocked Draco, but Zoey as well. They thought Levi was acting tough, but now they knew he wasn't. Even though Draco and the gang had taken sobering pills, ten shots still made their stomach churn.

"Well, go on. Are you guys scared?" Levi provoked them, and the competition resumed.

Draco and his gang refused to believe they would fail, so they wanted to see how much longer Levi could go on. Another ten rounds came, but Levi was still fine. On the other hand, the alcohol started kicking in for Draco and his gang, torturing them.

The Protector Chapter 423

The competition ensued, and cartons after cartons of wine were served. At this point, Draco and his gang started worrying about the bill. How much can one guy drink? Is he Dionysus or something?

“Mr. Johannes, let’s put in another rule: no toilet breaks!” Levi suggested.

Draco couldn’t hold it in anymore, but he could only agree at this point. Another bout started, and the more Levi drank, the clearer his head became. Wine usually makes people drunk, but Levi was an anomaly.

Apparently, Levi was the only anomaly here. Draco and his gang felt like their stomachs were going to explode, as well as their bladder.

The competition had dragged on for too long, so the sobering pill’s effects had expired. Now they felt the alcohol kicking in, and the group couldn’t hold on any longer.

They couldn’t understand how Levi managed to take so many shots. He must have drunk more than a thousand shots now, but surprisingly, he looked fine. This guy must be Dionysus himself!

“Carry on!” Levi shouted.

“G-Give me a minute! I can’t hold my pee in any longer!” Draco sat on the chair, not even moving an inch, but before he could react, Levi force fed him one shot of wine.

Shhhhh.... They could hear the sound of water flowing, then hot air came up from below, while a rancid smell spread.

Zoey quickly covered her nose and stayed far, far away. Draco peed in his pants!

This was the most embarrassing thing Draco had done in his life.

“March!” Levi took twelve more shots, forcing them to continue.

“No! We can’t!”

“Just do it!” Levi pressed another guy down and forced another shot down his throat.

That made him puke, and he fell down on his barf. “Your turn!” He forced another guy to drink, and that made him roll on the floor in pain, for his stomach bled.

The other guys couldn’t hold it anymore, so they peed in their pants. It made the whole room rancid, then they heard something explode. Everyone looked in the sound’s direction, and what greeted them was their comrade in agony, for his bladder exploded.

Zoey screamed in terror. Terrible fates befell all twelve of them. Shame, embarrassment, and grievous injuries swam among them, and these people took sobering pills beforehand. If they didn’t, they would have been in worse condition.

“Carry on, Mr. Johannes! I’m just getting started!” Levi came up to Draco with a few bottles of wine.

Is he even human?! That’s not how a human works! He’s fine even after drinking that boatload of wine?! ”I-I can’t keep this up anymore!” Draco shook his head.

“Oh, no can do. The fight’s just getting started.” Levi grinned.

“I’ll sign it! I’ll sign it, okay?” pleaded Draco.

“You should have done that in the beginning.” Levi smiled.

Worrying that Levi might force him to drink more wine, Draco quickly signed the contract and let Oriental take ten more percent in profit.

“Let’s go, honey. We got the contract.” Levi grinned toothily, while Zoey looked at him, stunned. For some reason, Levi was shining. Wow, he’s awesome! He got the contract through drinking?

Who would have thought? Ten percent of profit is huge! A few hundred million at that!

After they came out, Zoey looked at Levi. “Are you fine, honey?” Levi said nothing, but then he fell against her groggily.

The Protector Chapter 424

“What’s wrong, darling? Are you alright!?” Zoey held him tightly, feeling frightened. It took her a moment, but now she realized Levi took a few thousand shots, and it could kill him.

She started sweating in fear, but then she felt electrified. Realizing Levi was feeling her up, Zoey blushed and let him go. “Did you just scare me for nothing?!” She looked away.

“Hey, I just got us the contract, and now I don’t even get a thank you?” Levi asked.

Zoey glared at him. “Stop messing around. How do you feel? Do you need to go to the hospital? You drank a lot.”

Levi smiled. “Do I look hurt to you? No? There’s that then. But...”

“But what?” She looked at him curiously.

“But well, you know, drinking always leads to something else. Here, give me some sugar.” He tried to kiss her, but she ran away.

“You pervert!”

That night, as they lay in bed, Levi quickly hugged her. Zoey was shocked, but she also looked forward to what would happen next.

She might be Levi’s wife, but Zoey was still a virgin. She wanted to consummate the marriage, but now that they were about to do it, Zoey was nervous. If he’s going for it, should I accept him? Or should I say no?

Zoey only wanted Levi as her husband. When he took all the drinking for her earlier, Zoey saw him as her knight in shining armor. If he wanted it tonight, Zoey would give it to him, but...

She was still in a dilemma when a snoring sound snapped her out of it. He's asleep. For some reason, she felt disappointed, so she turned around and glared at him. "Is sleeping all you know! Go away!" Zoey shoved him away.

"Why did you push me, honey?" Levi asked.

"Just turn around!" Zoey said angrily.

"Why are you mad?" A perplexed Levi asked, and he thought women were weird. They get angry for no reason every time. At least now we know that behind every angry woman lay a man who didn't know what he did wrong. Levi was an example of that.

When morning came, Oriental was hit with the shocking news of Zoey snagging a contract that gave them an extra ten percent of profit, much to the top management's disbelief.

At the same time, Draco and his gang were in the hospital. "Trash, all of you! You can't even handle one woman, and all of you got hospitalized! Trash, trash, trash!" Tristan was livid.

Draco and the others shivered in fear. They thought they would win, but Levi was an unexpected variable. They thought nobody could drink that much, but Levi proved them wrong. Is that guy a God?

"Resign, you trash. I'm already in North Hampton, so I'll take care of this matter myself," Tristan said coldly.

"Young master Tristan, please—" Before they could even explain, Tristan had hung up. Never did he imagine that all it took for him to lose hundreds of millions and his future was a drinking session.

North Hampton was in high spirits today, for scores of merchants came today. Everyone was shocked, for the number of participating companies in this event was twice their projected estimate. They weren't complaining though, for this was great for North Hampton.

The Protector Chapter 425

In North Hampton Television Network's office, Margaret and her colleagues were going through the scripts for the next day's interview. This was a great chance for her, so she wouldn't let it go. She wasn't Elsa.

"You're awesome, Margaret! There are 38 outlets that want to interview Mr. Garrison, but he only gives that chance to us!"

"Yeah, and he specifically asked for Margaret! He obviously thinks highly of her!"

"He must have only chosen us because of Margaret! Treat us to something good after this, Margaret!"

Margaret felt smug listening to all the praises, but she pretended to be calm. She was a famous person in the channel as well as the industry. Now, with the mysterious Mr. Garrison giving her the chance to interview him, it would consolidate her place in this world.

Now, everyone in the channel listened to her, including her boss.

"Tell us whatever you need, Margaret. We'll do anything for you," her boss kept telling her that.

"Margaret, I heard Mr. Garrison is single. If you guys can be a couple, it'd be sweet!"

"Yeah! He's a leader, while you're the best employee of the channel. It's a good match!"

Margaret was riled up by this, for she was planning to do that. Intelligence was her forte, and with experience on her side, she knew Mr. Garrison had a bright future, for Jesse handed such a big event to him.

He might be a deputy now, but this was only the beginning, so Mr. Garrison would climb to mayhap the top spot.

If she could snag him, Margaret would be set for life, and the idea made her chuckle. This must be divine providence. There are more than three dozen outlets, but he chose me! "This chance has always been mine to begin with." Margaret looked confident.

"Margaret, Levi is in a bad situation. I heard their place got splashed with paint and sewage! His parents-in-law can't work, and his wife's company is affected!" Margaret's lackey reported.

Margaret bellowed happily, for she thought Lady Luck was on her side. First, she could interview Mr. Garrison; Secondly, she would be promoted after finishing her job; and finally, she managed to back Levi into a corner.

"I have already told you never to cross a woman, Levi. But you just wouldn't listen. So, this is what happens." Margaret's eyes gleamed coldly.

"Of course he's dead if he offends you, Margaret. You're so much more powerful than he is." Her colleagues laughed.

Then, someone came for Margaret. When she walked out, a Rolls-Royce was waiting for her, much to her surprise. After getting into the car, she saw a man in his thirties, looking dignified and elegant.

"Hello, Ms. Ward. I'm Zachary, from South City's Suarez family." Zachary puffed his cigar.

Margaret was shaken to her core as she looked at him and stuttered, “T-the Suarez family? You’re young master Zachary?! I know you! I’ve interviewed your family!”

“It’s good that you do.” Zachary nodded.

The Protector Chapter 426

“Is there anything I can help you with, Mr. Shorts?” Margaret asked with a flirtatious wink.

“Are you after Levi and Zoey recently?” Zachary asked.

“Yes, yes, yes. That’s right! Are you related to Levi?” Margaret looked at Zachary cautiously.

Zachary shook his head, “No, he is my enemy. My brother had all his limbs amputated by him! If it weren’t for fear of the Morris Group that was behind his back, I would’ve killed him ages ago!

You are doing a good job for now. To think that you can subdue Levi’s family to this point! I’m able to kill him right away as soon as he is forced to leave North Hampton! There’s nothing Morris Group can do about it!”

Margaret was smart and immediately replied, “Mr. Shorts, should I step up the game a little?”

“Yeah, you’re perceptive and a fast-learner!” Zachary beckoned to his assistant, and he brought a suitcase. After opening it, a big load of cash could be seen contained in it.

“Here’s an advanced five million! I’ll pay you another five million after the job is completed!” Zachary said.

Margaret’s eyeballs were about to pop out from their sockets when she saw the money.

Five million!!! Who could've expected that I could be paid for settling my personal feud? Ten million in total? Is this my lucky day? This is quadruple happiness!

"Wait for my good news, Mr. Shorts. Let me add fuel to the fire. I can assure you that Levi will leave tomorrow!" After Margaret put away the money, her smiling eyes turned into crescent shape.

"Very well! You'll be rewarded in the future when the Suarez family begins its development in North Hampton," Zachary said.

Margaret replied with a lovely smile, "I'm honored to devote myself to the Suarez family. Everything I have belongs to the Suarez family!"

Margaret was feeling ecstatic.

Now that I'm acquainted with the Suarez family's young master and had turned to them as my backing. Isn't it safe to say that my future is pretty bright?

At this time, Levi and Zoey were standing in front of Bayview Garden.

Levi looked calm, but Zoey was infuriated.

"These people are such a bully! It's too much!" Zoey sobbed in a soft voice.

The house's door was splashed with different colors of paints, and it gave off a pungent smell.

The wall next to it was splashed with manure, emitting a horrible stench.

Levi had no doubt that these people might pour dung water into the room next time.

"Dad, mom. Are you facing this situation as well?" Zoey became infuriated after receiving the call.

Despite Levi's calm appearance, he was actually extremely furious.

He paid no attention to a small-time reporter like Margaret because he figured she couldn't do anything to him.

But he found out that he was wrong. It was now evident that this person could affect him in his daily life.

"Levi, why don't we move out of here? I don't think this is gonna work. I got a strong hunch that things are gonna become worse."

Zoey was afraid because things were seriously affecting her life.

Caitlyn and Aaron could only hide in their room every day.

They didn't dare to step out of the house.

There were only two days' worth of food supply left in the house.

She began to worry about the safety of her parent's lives.

"We should pick up dad and mom secretly at night. If something were to happen, we'd be in trouble," Zoey cautioned.

"We'll not move out!"

Levi took out his phone and made a call to Margaret.

"Hey, Levi? Hahaha! Was it too unbearable that you've decided to call me?" Margaret laughed arrogantly on the other end of the phone.

"Are these your handiwork?" Levi asked.

“You bet! There’s nothing you can do about it. Hit me if you dare!” Margaret sneered.

Levi warned with a deep voice, “I’ll give you one more chance to explain your previous interview!”

The Protector Chapter 427

“Levi, don’t you understand the current situation? You’re at my mercy now. Why does it sound like the opposite? Are you stupid? Hahaha...”

“Okay. I’ve given you a chance, but it seems like you don’t appreciate it,” Levi replied coldly.

Margaret became angry and said in a cold tone, “Then let me tell you something as well. Even if you lick my shoes and drink my foot-washing water, I won’t give you another chance. Just you wait!”

After hanging up the call, a murderous intent flashed across Levi’s eyes.

“Honey, give me one more day. I’ll be sure to settle it,” Levi declared.

“Huh? How are you gonna solve it?” Zoey found his words hard to believe.

“Anyway, just wait until tomorrow afternoon. It should be done by then.”

In the evening, there was another breaking news from the TV station. Six years ago, Levi Group expanded its business by way of replacing human labor with machines. This has disrupted the market and caused many to go unemployed. It was believed that at least thirty thousand people were unemployed because of Levi Group. The main culprit was Levi Garrison!

Zoey and the rest were going crazy after the news came out.

The situation is worsening! First and foremost, this news was taken out of context! It was just a normal industrial development. How can they blame it on Levi? Besides, the amount of revenue generated by Levi Group’s advanced technology was incomparable to those of the outdated technology.

But after such news was reported, those who were unemployed thought that Levi was the cause of their misery.

Levi had become the sinner of North Hampton!

Many people formed an alliance to protest against Levi and drive him out of North Hampton.

Some even began to foresee that Levi's life would be in danger.

Due to the investment promotion fair, there had been a higher degree of attention to hot news lately.

As a result, Levi and the others were under more pressure.

"Darling, why don't we leave North Hampton for a while? We can't continue living like this." Zoey was afraid.

Levi remained level-headed and said with a calm face, "Don't worry, honey. Everything is gonna be alright. It will be settled by tomorrow afternoon."

At this moment, Zachary and Margaret were relaxing on a big bed in a five-star hotel, and they were paying attention to the news.

"Hahaha! Good job, babe. Levi will have no choice but to leave North Hampton tomorrow." Zachary was satisfied.

"Yeah, the authorities can't even intervene when it was the laid-off workers who force Levi to leave!" Margaret smirked while lying in Zachary's arms.

Zachary made a call and ordered, "Pay attention to Levi's whereabouts. Cut off his limbs immediately as soon as he leaves North Hampton."

“Hahaha... Take me there with you when the time comes, Mr. Shorts. I want to see his miserable looks with my own eyes.” Margaret laughed and sneaked under the covers.

There she goes again!

Zachary was reeling from fear as the thought crossed his mind. He dared not think of what would become of him if he were to defy her.

This woman is something else. I'm no match for her at all!

The following day, North Hampton's exhibition center was bustling.

Thousands of companies were gathered in the largest investment promotion fair known in North Hampton.

Margaret and her colleagues had arrived in the exhibition center early in the morning.

“Margaret, you have a major role to play in handling the content of the forum and interview Mr. Garrison today!” The head of the station showed his concern to her.

“Haha! Rest assured. I'll get it done nicely.”

Margaret began to put on makeup and prepared herself to be in her best form while everyone looked at her enviously.

After all, she was the only person who had the chance to interview Mr. Garrison.

The Protector Chapter 428

“Margaret, I’m so jealous of you! It great that you have the privilege to interview Mr. Garrison.”

“I know, right? What incredible luck! But to be honest, Margaret is the best in North Hampton.”

“Ain’t it the truth? Isn’t Margaret the best in professionalism, beauty, and temperament?”

...

Margaret was basking in the compliments from her colleagues.

What an exciting day. I’ll get to interview Mr. Garrison soon and receive another five million. Will the time go faster please?

Representatives of major companies arrived one after another to the exhibition hall.

The prominent families and leading corporations in South City had also shown up one after another.

Zachary and his group of people were one of them.

In fact, the Lopez family of South City had sent their representative. But he was here to exchange views on behalf of Harry.

Soon, the investment promotion fair started after the officials of North Hampton made a speech.

The exhibition center was divided into many areas, covering every sector of businesses.

Among them, Rogers Group and Morris Group had the most merchants in front of their booths.

Everyone knew that these two companies had great prospects and were eager to cooperate with them.

However, those leading corporations had their sights set on other things. They wanted to grab as many deals as possible and dominate a larger share in the North Hampton market.

However, every deal signed on this occasion was legal and beneficial to North Hampton's development.

Levi watched every movement in the exhibition hall from backstage.

The person behind him was Aurora Newt, a personal secretary arranged by Jesse Nielsen.

"Mr. Garrison, it's true that the policy enforced by the officials in the Investment Promotion Fair was in North Hampton's best interest. Otherwise, those corporations and influential families will flock into North Hampton lawlessly, causing bad competition and negative effects," Aurora said with a smile.

Levi nodded, "I have to commend Nielsen's great insight!"

Aurora smiled bitterly. He is the only person who dares to address the governor like that.

"By the way, Mr. Garrison, it's time for the TV station's interview session. Shall we?" Aurora glanced at the time and said.

Levi replied, "Alright. Let them in."

Following that, Levi and several other leaders waited in a conference room.

Outside the conference room.

"Thanks, Ms. Newt. I owe you a meal," Margaret said with a smile.

Aurora smiled in response, "Ms. Ward, please."

Everyone came to the conference room under the guidance of Aurora.

Even though Margaret had done this kind of interview before, she couldn't help but feel a little nervous today because there wasn't much information about Mr. Garrison.

About ten officials were sitting in the conference room.

Margaret panicked a little when she caught a glimpse of it.

"Hmm?"

She became stunned the moment she caught sight of the official's faces. One of them looked particularly familiar.

In order to confirm her sight, Margaret took a few steps forward.

It's Levi! He's sitting in the middle alongside the other leaders.

Margaret was puzzled by what she saw. What is Levi doing here?

Her colleagues were equally confused.

No wonder Mr. Shorts said he couldn't locate Levi. Because he was here!

Margaret said instinctively, "Levi, what are you doing here? You don't belong in this place!"

The entire conference room fell silent after her speech.

Margaret was taken aback when she noticed everyone staring at her strangely.

"What are you talking about, Ms. Ward? This person is Mr. Garrison," Aurora said in confusio

The Protector Chapter 429

“Huh? Mr. Garrison? It can’t be! Isn’t he Levi? The target of disdain who is a hot topic in North Hampton these few days.”

“That’s right. A malignant tumor like Levi should be driven out of North Hampton forever!”

Margaret and her colleagues commented.

“Know your place!”

“How dare you insult the name of the leader?”

At this time, the Minister of Commerce became furious.

“That’s right! Where did this reporter come from? Who is she to insult Mr. Garrison like that? What’s the meaning of this?”

“You’re from the North Hampton Television Network, right? Call Director Charles Yorke here!”

...

The other leaders also voiced out one after another.

The remarks of Margaret and her colleagues completely angered them.

After hearing the scolding, Margaret and her colleagues finally understood that they’ve gotten into deep trouble.

“What is the meaning of this, Ms. Ward? The person sitting in front of you is the Deputy Leader of North Hampton, Mr. Levi Garrison. Besides, he is also known as the one and only 5-Star God of War in Erudia,” Aurora stated the facts.

Boom!

Margaret and her colleagues were frozen instantaneously as if a thunderbolt had hit them from the sky.

Deputy Leader of North Hampton? The God of War? Levi Garrison? NO! It can't be! This isn't real!

Margaret and her colleagues remained rooted in a state of trance as their minds went blank completely.

Bang!

At this moment, the door of the conference room was opened.

A plump middle-aged man came running in while panting heavily.

This man was the director of North Hampton Television Network, Charles Yorke.

He looked at all the leaders present while gasping heavily.

He noticed a familiar face when his gaze landed on Levi.

Isn't he the brat that Margaret was after? Why is he sitting here?

“What's going on?” Charles looked at the crowd and asked curiously.

“What's going on?’ How ignorant can you be?”

The person speaking was the leader of Uptown District, Draco Simmons.

Bang!

The man slammed the table hard.

“Huh?”

Charles became increasingly baffled, and his body was trembling.

“Do you know that a reporter from your station had insulted Mr. Garrison for no reason when she saw him?” The other leaders chided in anger.

At this moment, a secretary distributed a few tablets to Draco and the other leaders.

The content was about the details of Margaret framing Levi.

Everyone burst into anger after reading the contents.

“Look at what you’ve done, Charles Yorke! Your good days are over!” Draco said and threw the tablet to Charles.

“It seems like you have no idea. So let me tell you, the person who your station slandered is the Deputy Leader of North Hampton, Mr. Levi Garrison! He is also the God of War! Figure it out yourself!”

Thump!

After hearing this, Charles fell to the ground in horror.

His face was covered with cold sweat, and he was terrified.

Oh my god! How much trouble did I get myself into? This person is the God of War!

Levi smiled and said, "The director of the TV station? Is that how the content review works? How dare you release edited content? What's going on?"

Charles almost wet his pants at Levi's question.

"No... Mr. Garrison, I-I don't know how this happened... It was Margaret who released it..."

"Margaret, how dare you set me up?"

Slap!

Charles gave Margaret a hard slap across her face.

The Protector Chapter 430

Margaret finally regained her senses after being slapped.

Thud!

Her body went limp, and she fell to the ground.

It never crossed her mind that Levi would have such an identity.

Otherwise, she would never even dream of doing such a thing.

“Margaret, do you still remember the call I made?” Levi had a menacing smile on his face.

Boom!

Margaret was in a state of shock after the epiphany.

How could I forget? Levi even called to give me a chance. But I was too foolish to realize my mistake.

“I-I was wrong... It’s all my fault, Mr. Garrison... Please forgive me...” Margaret immediately kneeled on the ground and begged for mercy.

Thud!

Thud!

Charles punched and kicked Margaret.

“You have the nerve to ask for forgiveness?”

He wanted to kill her there and then.

“What a vicious woman you are, Margaret! You drive people to their death by abusing your power. If it wasn’t for my identity, do you think I can still stand here?” Levi asked with a smile.

Everyone in the conference room felt a chill down their spine.

Levi is angry!

“What are you standing here for, Charles? Hurry and expose the wrongdoings of Margaret and clear the name of Mr. Garrison!” A few leaders bellowed.

Charles reacted and replied, “Okay. I’ll do it right away!”

Soon, an urgent news update was released on North Hampton Television Network. Exposed! Reporter Margaret deliberately framed Levi Garrison with edited content.

Margaret’s reputation was ruined after a series of evidence was presented, and the previous negative remarks about Levi and his family dissipated eventually.

...

“Charles, you’re responsible for this matter. Therefore, you’ll be relieved of your position!” Draco announced.

Charles nodded immediately, “Got it.”

“All the people involved in this matter must be penalized. Any individual that had dealings with Margaret should be arrested or punished!” A few leaders ordered at once.

Margaret laid on the ground, became paralyzed, and felt like her body was no longer hers.

Levi glanced at Margaret and said, "Falsity will never prevail. You know the things you did to get to your current position today. The truth will be uncovered eventually!"

Margaret felt regretful and penitent.

None of these would have happened if she didn't offend Levi.

It was not known how Margaret managed to leave the exhibition hall.

"This is the bi*ch that lied to us and made us blamed the wrong person!"

"Yeah. If it weren't for the discovery, we would've driven an innocent person to death!"

...

There was a huge crowd gathering outside the exhibition hall.

The crowd started pouring buckets of foul-smelling dung water all over her as soon as she appeared.

"Ughhhhhh..." Margaret puked immediately.

But the manure continued to splash on her again and again...

This was how a vicious person would always end up being.

After the matter was resolved, Zoey immediately called, "Darling, that was awesome! How did you do that?"

Levi smiled and said, "Justice always prevails."

After Zachary got the news, he found Margaret as soon as he could.

Zachary clutched his nose and stayed far away from Margaret because there was a horrible stench on her.

"What happened?"

Margaret cast a glance at him with a miserable smirk, "I advise the Suarez family to give up, leave North Hampton and stay in South City."

"Why?" Zachary looked baffled.

"Because he is someone you can't afford to provoke! If you insist on pushing your luck, the Suarez family will be wiped out from the face of the earth," Margaret warned.

The Protector Chapter 431

“Hahaha! What a joke! Do you really think we, the Suarez family would be afraid of anyone? Just wait and see. Soon enough, we’ll have our own territory in North Hampton.”

Zachary didn’t give a second thought to what Margaret had said.

Thus, the week-long investment promotion fair ended on a fulfilling note.

Many businesses from overseas had given their all into investing in North Hampton’s developments.

That was exactly the results Levi wanted to achieve.

However, he had heard of a few larger families forcing a few small and medium-sized corporations into handing over their companies. Within just a few days, many of those corporations had already been bought over.

“Mr. Garrison, what should we do? Should we start taking action?” The Rogers family asked.

Levi shook his head. “We’ll just observe for now. It wouldn’t be too late for us to take action only after they’ve succeeded. After all, it’s only fair for them to make contributions to the North Hampton’s economy first.”

When everyone caught sight of the smirk hanging off Levi’s lips, they understood what his true motives were.

Levi was planning to fatten them up slowly and surely. The moment they were ripe and plump enough, only then would he sink his teeth into them.

Back in the Lopez family mansion, Sebastian was looking frazzled.

He'd aged quite a bit under the stress from the recent events.

Staying put without taking revenge wasn't his style of confrontation at all.

"What happened? Did he agree to it?" Sebastian asked.

"Yes, he did, but he asked for you to go and invite him personally," Simon said.

"Yes, of course I will!"

"Sebastian, I never would have thought that you'd call on him." Simon's eyes trembled in fear.

Sebastian scoffed, "If it weren't that urgent, would I have gone for this option?"

"It's not a bad thing. In fact, if he takes action, then the boss behind the Morris Group has nowhere left to run!"

Murderous intent glazed over Sebastian's gaze. "That's right. That man is the one and only person I've ever feared of. If he didn't go into hiding, would I even have the chance to be where I am today in South City? He's the real head of Quebec!"

"That's right. The Morris Group has been playing games for far too long. It's high time this man appeared to stop them."

The Suarez family had been gobbling up businesses left and right in North Hampton. So far, they've gotten themselves quite the collection.

"No! I can't just let the injury my brother suffered go that easily. The Oriental Star Group must be ours." Zachary's gaze was chilly.

That very afternoon, Zachary brought a group of his men to the Oriental Star Group.

Zoey had no choice but to meet them.

“It’s Zoey, isn’t it? I’ll keep things short. I’m here to take over the Oriental Star Group,” Zachary said instantly.

Zoey, however, refused just as quickly. “That’s impossible. I’ve just taken over the company, and we’re developing pretty well. Why would I ever sell the company to you?”

“That’s right! Mr. Suarez, did you hear any false rumors? The Oriental Star Group isn’t up for sale. Were you expecting to buy us over?”

The other higher-ups looked at Zachary questioningly.

Zachary just chuckled. “Well, the Suarez family wishes to take over your company, so you have to sell it to us.”

“What kind of twisted reason is that? Aren’t you just forcing us to give it up to you?”

“What kind of society are we living in? I didn’t know such hegemony existed.”

The higher-ups of the Oriental Star Group all disagreed with his outlandish request.

“That’s right. The Suarez family is simply used to such methods. I’ll give you 24 hours to clean up before I come back here to take what’s mine. If you turn me down, trust me, you’ll regret it,” Zachary said coldly.

Three loud bangs resounded as one of Zachary's men tossed three throwing knives and landed them each on the words, 'Oriental Star Group' that was printed on the wall behind them.

The Protector Chapter 432

That was a threat.

It was a threat; plain and simple as that; laid bare for all of them to see.

That was a warning to everyone in Oriental Star Group that if they dared to go against him, they'd regret that decision for the rest of their lives.

"Remember, none of you have the right to retaliate against the Suarez family, so don't even try," Zachary said coldly before leaving.

In the end, the higher-ups were left staring after him in disbelief.

Was the Oriental Star Group about to get bought over right after they'd just begun developing?

"Ms. Lopez, I think it'd be for the best if we let them buy the company."

"That's right. The Suarez family has been buying companies left and right. The ones who tried to retaliate ended up defending themselves to death."

"The Suarez family has way too much power in South City. We don't have the power to fight back against them. In fact, we might end up dead, too."

The higher-ups of the Oriental Star Group had given up completely.

Zoey, however, remained silent.

Deep within, her heart was crumbling in hopelessness.

Why did they have to get on the Suarez family's bad side?

Zoey was ready to give up.

Based on everything that had happened recently, the Suarez family would stop at nothing to get what they wanted.

In order to force the hands of those business owners, they had used all kinds of twisted methods.

Zoey was especially terrified that her parents or her husband would get into trouble because of her.

Recently, Levi had been rather satisfied with how North Hampton was coming along.

There were a couple of obstacles along the way, but overall, everything was going smoothly.

Once he reached home, however, the first thing he saw was Zoey's unhappy face.

"What happened, honey? Did something happen at work?" Levi asked, concerned.

Zoey shook her head. "I'm just frustrated because of the recent developments with the company."

The next day, Zoey had just stepped foot into the company when she caught sight of Zachary strolling in with a bunch of his underlings.

Everyone else shivered at the sight of the man from the other day who had used the throwing knives with such ease.

“So, Ms. Lopez, what’s your final decision?” Zachary asked with a smirk on his face.

“You could at least try to be a little more sincere with your request. What’s your price?” Zoey asked.

Zachary was taken aback for a second before replied, “One billion!”

Everyone inhaled sharply at the sound of Zachary’s price.

The Suarez family was truly overbearing!

How dare they try to buy a company with a net worth of six billion for only one billion?

Zoey scoffed coldly, “Mr. Suarez, are you insane? How could I possibly sell it to you for a mere one billion?”

Zachary burst out laughing.

Coldly, he jabbed, “Ms. Lopez, I don’t think you know what’s going on right now. You’re in no position to make any negotiations. I named my price to save you some face. If you piss me off, you’re not going to get even a cent from me.”

Ridiculous!

How could the Suarez family be this ridiculously overbearing?!

Sadly, they could only seethe in silence.

Two days ago, someone tried to retaliate against the Suarez family. They ended up with four broken limbs and their family got dragged into it too.

Who wouldn’t be afraid of such a force?

“This is the contract. Sign it now, and the money will be transferred to you instantly.” Zachary tossed the contract to Zoey.

“If you refuse to sign this, Aaron Lopez and Caitlyn Black will be joining me for dinner tonight.” Zachary laughed chillingly as he laid his threats down.

His meaning was clear enough. If Zoey refused, he’d find a way to get rid of Aaron and Caitlyn, and it didn’t matter whether they were dead or alive.

“You’re being unreasonable!” Zoey shouted in anger.

Even after so long, she had never met such an overbearing person.

Sadly, she couldn’t do anything about it.

“Ms. Lopez, just sign it!” The other higher-ups started clamoring.

“I don’t think so.”

Right at that moment, a voice called out.

Levi was here.

He had noticed Zoey’s worrisome expression during dinner the other day. He did some investigations of his own to find out what was wrong.

To think that it was caused by the Suarez family!

“Levi Garrison? What are you doing here?”

Zachary had seen Levi in pictures before, and the very moment he laid his eyes on him, he knew he hated his guts.

The Protector Chapter 433

It's normal for enemies to want to finish off each other upon meeting. Zachary couldn't help but want to kill Levi on sight.

With a deep frown on his face, Levi asked, "Who are you? Have we met?"

"I'm Zachary of the Suarez family. Zayn Suarez is my brother."

Levi nodded. "Oh, that cripple!"

"You-!"

The moment he heard of the way Levi referred his brother, Zachary's anger flared up.

"You should have stayed in South City. What are you doing here in North Hampton? Are you asking to be killed here?" Levi asked.

Zachary laughed coldly. "Don't go thinking you're safe with the Morris Group behind you. I'm warning you, the Suarez family is not going to stop until we've conquered a good part of North Hampton! You'd better sign the contract before you regret it."

"Just screw off already." Levi shoved Zachary away.

"You asked for it!"

Zachary's subordinates started moving toward Levi.

Zachary stopped them.

“There’s no need for that.”

Zachary smiled at Zoey and asked, “Ms. Lopez, I hope you’ve thought about this properly. You’ll regret it if you make the wrong move.”

“I told you to leave, didn’t I?” Levi yelled.

“Okay, okay. Just you wait and see.” Zachary smiled menacingly.

“Mr. Shorts, why didn’t you just get rid of that guy?” After they exited the area, Will Brown asked Zachary in confusion. Will was the strongest fighter on Zachary’s team.

Zachary looked pissed. “You think I didn’t want to? That man has the Morris Group backing him up. Even Sebastian Lopez faced a hard time with them.”

“Then, what should we do? Just take it?” Will said in anger.

Zachary, on the other hand, smirked mysteriously. “Of course not! We’ll settle the Oriental Star Group first.”

“What about Levi Garrison?” Will Brown asked.

“I heard about Sebastian Lopez wanting to make a comeback.”

“Huh? Even the Black and White Guards suffered greatly. What could Sebastian do?”

Zachary smirked. “It will be a whole different story when Sebastian managed to call on him.”

“Him? Wait... could it be?”

Will suddenly looked terrified at the thought of someone and inhaled sharply.

“Sebastian Lopez is truly putting in his all. How’d he manage to call upon someone who’s been in hiding for the past thirty years?!”

The others were just as amazed.

“That’s right! That’s the real boss of Quebec and the one Sebastian is scared of the most.”

“The Morris Group is really something. They managed to drag him out of hiding,” Zachary said.

Will figured something out and smiled. “Mr. Shorts, you’re waiting for Sebastian Lopez and that man to get rid of the Morris Group before getting rid of Levi, right?”

“Yes. Without the Morris Group behind his back, how is Levi going to act all high and mighty?”

In South City, there was a small, rundown temple in the corner of Mount Amethyst.

Anyone in the upper class of South City knew that this temple was off-limits. That was because it was the home to the most terrifying figure in South City, and even all of Quebec.

He had once ruled over Quebec.

Thirty years ago, he retreated back here and became a vegetarian. Apart from that, he started reciting Buddhist mantras everyday.

Highly skilled professionals surrounded the temple and no one was allowed to go near it.

However, today, the Lopez family approached the temple.

Sebastian knelt in front of the temple personally, waiting for him to appear.

“Sir, the Lopez family is in trouble. Quentin Lane has been killed; Wesley Lane and James Lane have been crippled, and the Black and White Guards have been spliced into pieces. I, Sebastian Lopez, beg you to get rid of them. In exchange, I will give everything I have.”

Sebastian begged with all his sincerity and kowtowed three times.

The Protector Chapter 434

Everyone present at the temple instantly held their breaths at that sentence.

They stared at Sebastian in disbelief.

What could possibly have pushed Sebastian to make such a daring exchange?

He was even willing to give up his fortune in order to beat this mysterious person, or force.

Sebastian continued kneeling as he waited for an answer to come from within the temple.

Finally, after about ten minutes, the rundown wooden door of the temple creaked open.

A man dressed in a suit walked out of the temple. Everyone looked on in shock and fear as the godson of the ex-ruler of the underworld walked toward them.

Even Sebastian looked terrified.

The young man said simply, "Sebastian, please return. My godfather will handle this."

"What?"

"Thank you, sir!" Sebastian yelled in glee.

He agreed!

That meant the Morris Group was done for.

To Sebastian, this man was practically on the same level as God himself.

There was nothing in Quebec that he couldn't get his hands on if he were willing to step up.

Right after that, the news of this man finally returning to society started spreading around South City like wildfire.

Once, he had been the ruler of Quebec. He had locked himself away for thirty years, but he was finally emerging once more.

Everyone could tell that North Hampton was about to undergo great changes.

The fact that this man was willing to show himself once more meant that Quebec was about to go through a massive transformation.

All the other forces and families in South City started preparing for this man's arrival.

Early on the next day, the ten most powerful families of South City gathered along the twisting and turning roads of Mount Amethyst in two lines as they waited for this person's arrival.

Sebastian stood among them.

There was finally some people coming from the end of the road.

They had come down the mountain on foot.

This group of people surrounded an old man with white hair and a ruddy complexion who looked full of spirit.

Even though he was already 80 years old, his steps were steady and he was clearly of good health.

He was once the ruler of Quebec, Scott Yates.

Everyone in Quebec called him by 'sir' and 'sir' only.

At first sight, he looked like any other esteemed figure, perhaps a well-read professor or master.

No one would have connected him to the role of an underworld ruler.

Apart from Fernand Yates, Scott's godson, there were four other people walking next to him. They were also known as the Four Mighty Generals.

The first one was all skin and bones, and resembled a walking skeleton. His skin stretched taut over the angular frame of his skull. He was known simply as Bones.

The second stood at around 2 meters tall and looked like a human mountain. He was named Golem.

The third was as bulked up as a bull and his head was completely bald. There were six scars on the thin skin of his scalp. His name was Titan, and he was a priest.

The last one appeared completely normal, and nothing stood out about him. However, he was the most fearsome among all.

The Black and White Guards were an indestructible force in South City.

But in the face of these four, they were mere ants.

In South City's extensive underworld, the Black and White Guards would only be the fifth or sixth most powerful forces.

The first four places belonged to these four generals.

These four taking action was just as terrifying as any natural disaster.

They were much too scary.

They were rumored to be able to beat an army of thousands.

"Congratulations Sir, on your return!"

When the families saw Scott Yates and his lineup, they welcomed him enthusiastically.

So what if they had countless riches?

So what if they had enough money to overthrow the country?

All that could disappear at any second with just a word from Scott Yates.

As compared to Liam Macy and Sebastian Lopez, Scott Yates had experienced much more. He had made his breakthrough during the peak of Quebec's underworld, so he had a much stronger background.

There was nothing he could say that Quebec wouldn't obey to instantly.

Sebastian stepped up. "Sir, now that you are back, there's a favor I have to ask from you."

The Protector Chapter 435

“Sebastian’s reputation has been completely ruined!”

“The Morris Group? Is that a new corporation?” Scott Yates asked.

Sebastian nodded. “Yes, sir. The Morris Group appeared only recently. They appear to be run by the Rogers family. The collapse of the three main pillars of North Hampton have a lot to do with the Morris Group.”

Scott Yates stayed silent at that.

His godson, Fernand Yates, piped up, “Yes, I’ve taken notice of that as well. The reason that this Morris Group managed to gain so much power in such a short time is due to someone extremely powerful working behind the scenes. Furthermore, it’s next to impossible to find any information about their mysterious boss or Neil Atkinson.”

Fernand also held a lot of power. Despite Scott Yates lived in seclusion away in the mountains for the last thirty years, the family business had continued under Fernand’s management. However, he had chosen to stay subtle about it and only worked in the background.

Anyone in South City knew that Scott Yates was number one when it came to accumulated wealth.

“How dare they act like this in North Hampton? There must be a powerful figure behind the scenes.” Scott Yate’s expression changed abruptly. “Investigate! No matter who that person is, I will chase him out of Quebec regardless.”

“Understood. I’ll begin investigations right away,” Fernand replied.

The citizens of South City let out a sigh of relief.

With Scott Yates helping them out, the Morris Group would definitely be done for.

They could finally gobble up North Hampton with ease.

Every time anyone tried to take over North Hampton's businesses, they either got held back by the law or got targeted by the Morris Group and the Rogers family.

The people of South City had been holding back their frustrations for a long time. The Suarez family and the Lopez family were especially bothered by that.

Despite that, all of them were more than aware of the fact that the Morris Group would be done for the moment 'Sir' left the mountain.

It didn't matter how strong and powerful the Morris Group was.

It didn't matter what their reputation was in South City.

In Quebec, Scott Yates' word was the law.

Even a dragon would find it hard to control a snake in its old haunt.

North Hampton wasn't as closely updated, so they had no clue of the imminent danger.

Zachary had caught wind of Scott Yates' return.

He couldn't be more ecstatic at the news.

"The end of the Morris Group is near! We should quickly wrap up our deal with the Oriental Star Group."

The Oriental Star Group was an essential component of the Suarez family's battle plan.

The entertainment department of the Oriental Star Group was something the Suarez family urgently needed.

"Mr. Suarez, the Oriental Star Group has recently been shooting seven blockbuster online-only movies. This was all produced by Zoey Lopez. Around fifty million was invested into each production. They'll probably increase as time goes by. The final cost has to be around five hundred million at least!" Will Brown reported.

"Hmph! Zoey Lopez, I bet you were trying to make a real profit, weren't you? Well, not a chance!" Zachary murmured as he chuckled darkly.

Zoey Lopez was definitely eager to make some achievements.

The property arm had already been established.

Naturally, she had to pay more attention to the entertainment segment.

Today, Zoey decided to visit the set personally.

This set belonged to the movie that they had invested the highest amount of money in, which was around seventy million.

They didn't spend that much money on special effects or the plot. Most of the money had been invested into casting the male and female leads, who were both top-notch actors in the industry.

Casting the both of them would cost around fifty million at the very least.

The actual cost of the production itself was only about twenty million.

However, she believed that the movie would become a hit and generate a sizeable return given the actors' fame.

The crew was currently preparing for filming while the actors were going through their lines.

Niall, the male lead, spotted Zoey once he lifted his head.

"Who is that?" he asked his assistant.

"This is the new boss of the Oriental Star Group, Zoey Lopez."

Niall's eyes lit up as he smiled. "I have to get to know her well then."

The Protector Chapter 436

So far, Niall was the most famous actor in the Oriental Star Group. He was extremely popular and had a ton of fans.

However, anyone who knew him personally knew how messy his private life was.

He slept around with fans and other female celebrities alike.

He had even had a fling or two with his assistants and makeup artists.

He had no problems hooking up with female higher-ups of various companies that had their eyes on him.

From just his appearance alone, Niall had risen from a barely-there social media influencer to a highest-paid actor within just three years.

Every time he took on a new job with a new company, he would immediately flirt with the female higher-ups as long as they were decent enough.

Even if the female boss in question was old and ugly, he'd still say yes if she was willing to pay a huge amount of money or benefits.

Niall was entranced the very moment he laid his eyes on Zoey.

How could there be such a beautiful and young boss in the industry?

The appearance and figure of all the other celebrities he had met so far paled in comparison to Zoey.

On top of all that, she was the boss of a multimillion company.

Zoey was watching the crew do their work when a scented breeze suddenly blew past her.

She lifted her head to see a tall and handsome man looking at her.

“Hi, nice to meet you. My name is Niall Xander!” Niall reached out his hand for a handshake.

“Niall Xander?” Of course Zoey knew who he was.

“I’m sorry, my husband doesn’t allow me to have physical contact with other men,” she turned him down.

Niall lowered his hand awkwardly.

He hadn’t considered the fact that Zoey was a married woman.

Despite that, a glint of ecstasy flashed in his eyes.

He loved married woman.

They were on an entirely different level from immature young girls.

He had already set his sights on Zoey as his next target.

“Wow, I can’t believe how young you are, Ms. Lopez. The fact that you managed to pull off filming seven movies at the same time is really impressive,” Niall complimented.

Zoey smiled. “It’s also thanks to your contributions as an actor. Hopefully, it’ll bring us good results.”

“Of course it will! I’ll put my everything into this movie,” Niall promised.

Gerry Wade, who was in charge of the entertainment department, reported, "Ms. Lopez, we've officially started advertising on the seven movies to the public. So far, the ones with Niall in the cast are the most well received. Based on our early calculations, we can earn up to four hundred million. In fact, it might end up being even more."

Zoey smiled in excitement and said, "Mr. Xander, you are truly the hope of Oriental. Please, if you need anything at all, just let us know."

Zoey understood what was going on.

In order to gain the most out of the movie, they had to treat Niall and their female lead like royalty.

"Of course! In fact, I wanted to ask if you are free tonight. I have something I need to discuss with you. It has to do with the future developments of Oriental Star Group," Niall said with a smile.

Gerry whispered to Zoey, "Ms. Lopez, Niall's management team is pretty impressive. They're the ones we hired for a huge sum last time. In my opinion, you should say yes."

Zoey agreed. "Alright. Since I'm new to the entertainment industry, it'll be great to have a light to shine my way."

Niall exchanged glances with his assistant and he smiled.

The fish had taken the bait, and he would be enjoying it tonight.

"Niall, what are you doing here? We were going through our lines just now," Yvonne, the female lead, asked unhappily.

She had always liked Niall.

The company was also desperate to sell Yvonne and Niall as a couple, to which she was more than happy to oblige.

All along, Yvonne had seen the girls Niall took interest in as enemies.

When she saw the way Niall looked at Zoey, she was instantly furious.

“Who are you? Why are you interrupting our practice?” Yvonne asked frostily.

The Protector Chapter 437

Niall yelled, "What are you doing? This is our new boss, Ms. Lopez!"

"So what if she's our boss? She shouldn't disrupt our practice!"

Yvonne was the star of Oriental Star Group, so she was haughty and did not care about others.

"Alright then, I shan't be disturbing you! Mr. Xander, please don't forget about tonight!" Zoey reminded in good nature.

Niall was excited and nodded immediately, "Don't worry, I'll make the necessary arrangements!"

Yvonne was enraged by this. She knew what Niall was up to.

For the entire shoot today, both Niall and Yvonne were distracted.

To begin with, both of their acting skills were mediocre.

The quality of the shoot was especially bad that day, but the directors had to call it a good take.

After all, they could not afford to offend either of them.

Yet, the two of them were involved in five major movies that day.

"Nevermind if the quality is bad. They have a large fanbase. We'll get our money's worth from their fanbase alone!" the directors, scriptwriters, and other crew members consoled themselves.

That day, Levi returned to the Morris Group once again.

Iris did not let him slack off and arranged for him to be an interviewer.

Even though she felt that Levi was incapable, he had a good eye for talent.

Hence, Levi spent the entire day conducting interviews.

A few young men came for an interview.

Levi glanced at the contract and was puzzled. He inquired, "You're from the North Hampton Film Academy? You're trained as an actor? Why are you applying for a job in sales?"

"To be honest, Sir, the entertainment industry is too stressful and competitive. Without a good background or funding, it's difficult to make a name for yourself! We're all from the countryside and have neither of them, so we're struggling to make ends meet. We wanted to find a job to survive." The youngsters hung their heads in disappointment.

That was not an uncommon sight. There were only so many successful artistes. Most artistes did not even find success as internet celebrities and had to find another job, even if they were talented actors and actresses.

When he heard about the entertainment industry, Levi immediately thought of his wife's firm.

He recalled that they were expanding the scale of their entertainment business and were lacking manpower.

"In that case, you guys have a minute to perform something for me. You have a minute each. Feel free to exercise your creativity!" Levi smiled.

The interviewees were confused, but Levi was the interviewer after all. They did as he asked.

“Not bad. You really have talent!” Levi commended sincerely.

These men were all skilled actors, but their talents were not appreciated.

Sadly, there were many talented actors who did not get a chance to act. The movies were all filled with famous stars with poor acting skills, resulting in low-quality films.

“Please show me any other skills you have!”

Some of them showcased their dancing, singing, and other skills.

“All of you are great! Sign this, please!” Levi smiled.

“I beg your pardon?” they were all bewildered. You can get a sales job just by singing and dancing?

They had no idea that Levi was giving them the opportunity of a lifetime, transforming them from people barely making ends meet to superstars.

Meanwhile, at night, after work.

Zoey made a trip to the drama department.

“Hi Ms. Lopez, Mr. Xander is too busy and has returned to his residence. After that, he has to attend a dinner. Time is tight, so if you’re looking for him, please head to his home!” his assistant said.

“Alright, please lead the way,” Zoey replied. She did not dwell too much into it and followed the assistant to the artistes’ lodging.

She did not have any stray thoughts.

For one, the place was crowded.

For another, Niall was a star and would not do anything to harm his reputation.

The Protector Chapter 438

But Zoey was wrong.

His management team had long known about him and he did not care about his reputation at all.

Zoey headed to Niall's room. He had just finished taking a bath and walked out in a bathrobe, showing off his muscular body.

Zoey immediately turned to leave.

"Ms. Lopez, why are you leaving? It's fine!" Niall hurriedly blocked Zoey.

Zoey turned around and smiled embarrassedly, "Sorry for coming all of a sudden. I didn't expect you to be in the shower."

"I'm a simple man. Ms. Lopez, please, have a seat!" Niall offered.

Zoey questioned him, "Mr. Xander, you said earlier that you had something important to discuss. What is it?"

"Winnie, help me get something!"

Niall waved her off. Winnie, his manager, left with a knowing look.

Zoey had no idea that Winnie would not be returning.

Before Winnie left, she closed the door behind her.

Zoey became alert the moment the door closed.

After all, she was alone with another man in a room.

Niall smiled and enquired, “Ms. Lopez, how do you feel about me?”

“You’re a great star who has a large fan base!”

“No, I meant about my looks. How’s my figure? Did I get your heart racing?” Niall flirted directly.

“Huh? What do you mean?” Zoey felt something was amiss.

Niall closed in and explained, “Ms. Lopez, I decided to give you a chance – a chance to have me for one night!”

In the past, when Niall said this, those rich lady bosses would have pounced on him.

However, Zoey’s reaction was far from what he had expected.

She was not tempted by the offer and was even filled with an icy rage.

“Mr. Xander, please show some self-respect! I’ll be off!” Zoey spat.

“Wait, hold on. Let’s talk things through!”

How could Niall allow her to escape?

“Let me go! If you try anything funny, I will be sure to persecute you!” Zoey roared.

Niall scoffed, “Woman, I looked for you because I felt you were worth it. Stop being so full of yourself. Do you think you’re the boss here? I’ll tell you honestly. In the Oriental Star Group, I’m the real boss! You have to listen to me!”

“You...” Zoey was fuming.

She did not expect to meet an artiste like that!

Niall sneered, “Zoey Lopez, you’d better obey my every command. I’ll guarantee that all of your movies sell well and Oriental Star Group’s business excels! Otherwise, I’ll cripple your company!”

Zoey bit her lip and glared at Niall.

“Come, as long as you listen to me, we will both benefit from it!”

Niall was about to pounce upon Zoey.

Bam!

The door slammed opened and Yvonne entered.

Whew! Zoey heaved a sigh of relief.

Meanwhile, Niall was enraged.

This stupid woman is at it again! Why does she have to ruin everything?

“Zoey Lopez, you wench! As the owner of the Company, you’ve overstepped the boundaries and seduced your own artistes! How shameless!” Yvonne accused her.

Zoey was bewildered. Niall was the one who tried to seduce me. Why am I in the wrong now?

“Zoey, you’re so shameless! I’ve heard that you were even married for six years! How could you even do that!”

“You slut!”

Niall fell silent and acknowledged Yvonne’s actions.

The Protector Chapter 439

He wanted to maintain the stance that he was not in the wrong and that it was all Zoey's fault.

Zoey flared up, "Niall, you'd better explain what's going on here!"

At this point, Niall's manager and a few assistants had arrived.

"I'll explain alright! Zoey here seduced me and was refused by me, simple as that!" Niall sneered.

When she heard Niall twisting the facts, Zoey was about to burst with rage.

"Bullshit! You were the one who tried to rape me!" Zoey screamed.

Yvonne pushed Zoey and spat, "Stop pretending to be innocent! I saw everything earlier. You were clearly seducing him!"

Yvonne loved Niall, so even if Niall were in the wrong, she would protect him and push the blame to someone else. This was one such example.

"You two..." Zoey nearly fainted from the rage.

Winnie sided with them as well, "Ms. Lopez, you can't do that! Even though you're the boss, there are limits! Niall is an actor. If word got out, his career would be destroyed and your company would suffer as well!"

"That's right! A woman like you can get any man you want. Let Niall off!"

"That's right, Ms. Lopez, don't make life difficult for him!"

...

Niall's manager and team started to defend him anxiously.

"You... I... It wasn't me..."

Zoey was livid but she did not know how to explain herself.

She was framed and everyone present were on his side.

She would not be able to defend herself even with concrete evidence.

"Ms. Lopez, please leave. We will pretend this never happened and won't pursue this matter!" Winnie said as she dragged Zoey off.

Zoey was flabbergasted. I'm the victim here! Why did I suddenly become the villain and even get blackmailed by them?

Zoey's first reaction was to fire all of them.

She dialed Wade's number and informed him of this.

"You can't do that, Ms. Lopez. Oriental Star Group's entertainment business depends on Niall and Yvonne. We can't possibly fire them. Calm down and hear me out, Ms. Lopez! This will not benefit the company in any way!"

"I...!" Zoey clenched her teeth angrily.

I am the victim here! Yet, there's nothing I can do about it!

...

In Niall's room, Yvonne scorned, "How could you do something so reckless? This woman isn't any ordinary person. The moment she gets ahold of your weakness, you're toast!"

"Hmph! I'll get this woman someday!" Niall spat. He was still angered by Yvonne for ruining his opportunity. Otherwise, Zoey would not have been able to escape back then.

"Alright, Ms. Wren. Calm down. Niall is still young and reckless. It's okay," Winnie persuaded her.

At this point in time, Winnie received a call.

"Huh? What? Mr. Suarez from South City wants to meet Niall?"

Meanwhile, Yvonne's manager also received a call.

The contents of the call were the same.

"I'm not meeting anyone tonight! I don't feel like it!" Niall declared angrily.

"But you just have to meet this man! He's from the Suarez family in South City. No one can afford to offend him!" Winnie explained.

Soon, a car came to pick Niall, Yvonne, and a few other artistes up.

These ten people were all the pillars of Oriental Star Group.

The Protector Chapter 440

Zoey was fuming with rage but there was nothing she could do about it.

She had to wait for the movies to finish filming.

“Honey, is your company’s entertainment side short on manpower?” Levi queried.

Zoey nodded, “Yep, we’ve always been understaffed and were on the lookout for new talents!”

“Well, it happens that I’ve signed all of them for you during the interview yesterday. I’ve interviewed them all myself. Their acting skills are superb, but they don’t have a chance to showcase their talents!”

Levi told her about what happened during the interview earlier.

“What a pity. They were trained in acting and singing but had to find work elsewhere,” Zoey sighed.

“I’ll get them to look for you tomorrow!”

“Sure.”

The following day, shortly after Zoey arrived at her office, the four men hired by Levi appeared.

A man and a woman caught her attention immediately.

The man was Maurice Lorraine while the woman was Helena Engler.

At least, they had the looks.

Normally, they would both have an opportunity to become famous. However, they did not have the background since they were from rural areas, and at the same time, they were unwilling to play by the unspoken rules.

Hence, they ended up in this state.

Zoey got professionals from the entertainment department to interview them and they all passed.

After signing the contract, they officially became artistes under the Oriental Star Group. Even if they had to start from the bottom, the four of them were excited.

They also knew that with Oriental Star Group's reputation in North Hampton, this would not have been possible without Levi's help.

Helena immediately sent a message to Levi to treat him to a meal.

At the drama department, Niall, Yvonne, and the other top artistes were usually lazy and treated work lightly.

However, that day, they were slacking even more than usual.

Forgetting or memorizing the wrong lines were common.

At times, Niall's expression even wandered and did not look at the camera at all.

The stage crew was furious, but there was nothing they could do about it.

After all, they were famous stars that no one could afford to offend.

They could only take scene by scene and hope for the best during editing.

Niall and Yvonne exchanged knowing looks and had an elated expression.

This had happened because of what occurred the previous night.

Both of them were angry at Zoey and wanted to get their revenge. At this point in time, Zachary called them up and strengthened their resolve. They were bent on getting revenge on the Oriental Star Group.

“Let me introduce everyone. These are artistes newly signed by the company. They graduated from North Hampton Film Academy and are very talented. That’ll reduce the burden on the drama department!” Gerry announced as he brought the four over.

Many were disgusted by the four daft-looking individuals. Most people disliked newcomers.

“Can we treat them as we like?” Niall asked.

Gerry responded, “Of course. Niall, you’re their senior. Ordering them around is a privilege to them!”

Helena and the others recognized stars like Niall and Yvonne. They were eager to be of help to them.

If they could establish a good relationship with them, their career would be set!

“Alright then! You, go get me some water!” Niall pointed towards Helena.

“Me? Sure!” Helena felt privileged by this gesture.

She immediately went to pour him a cup of water and carefully brought it in front of Niall.

“Senior, please have some water!” Helena offered him with a smile.

Niall scrutinized Helena carefully. This lass has got the looks. She isn't inferior to Yvonne in any way.

"Ahem," Yvonne cleared her throat. Only then did Niall take the glass of water.

The Protector Chapter 441

“Pfft!”

“Argh!” Niall screamed and spat the water out on Helena.

“What the hell?”

Splash!

Niall splashed the remaining water in the cup towards Helena.

“The water is so hot! Were you trying to burn me?” Niall roared.

“Huh?” Helena covered the parts of her body which were wet and was taken aback.

“Newcomer, what’s up with you? Did you do this on purpose? What’s with the hot water?”

“Yeah! What’s up with this? Do you not want to act anymore?”

“Are you looking for trouble?”

Several people started accusing Helena.

Several dozens of people ganged up on a young lady.

Helena was frightened and started sobbing.

“Heh, see? Zoey is here to make life difficult for us!” Yvonne started fanning the flames.

“That’s right! The timing was too coincidental! The newcomers came right after what happened last night!”

“She’s sent them to deal with us!”

They quickly pushed the blame to Zoey.

Niall cast his gaze upon Helena and demanded, “Hey! Kneel down and apologize! Otherwise, I won’t let you off!”

“That’s right! Kneel!” the others chanted.

Helena was frightened out of her wits.

It was her first day and something so major had happened.

If she had known earlier, she would have stuck to sales.

Just as Helena was about to kneel down, Maurice stopped her.

“Apologize? What for?” Maurice demanded.

“She gave me a cup of boiling water on purpose! She’s clearly trying to scald me,” Niall burst out in rage.

Maurice argued, “You only said to get you some water. You didn’t specify if you wanted it hot or cold! That’s your own problem.”

Niall scoffed, “You could have asked! That’s common sense. God gave you a mouth for a reason. If you don’t even have this much common sense, you shouldn’t be an actor!”

“I...” Maurice was speechless when faced with the unreasonable Niall.

“Is this the way you should be talking to a senior? I didn’t offend you, did I? Do you really take me for granted?” Niall continued ferociously.

Maurice was scared as well.

Offending a famous star like him would mean the end of his career.

They were just some commoners from rural areas, to begin with. They were no match for these people.

“W-we’ll apologize...” the other two stammered.

They were worried that things would blow up.

Niall sneered at Maurice and pointed at the water on the ground. He demanded, “You’ll kneel down to apologize to me as well and lick the water on the ground clean. If you do that, I’ll forgive you!”

Maurice was a hot-blooded youth and got angered by Niall.

“Don’t push your luck. I’ve got nothing to lose here!” he spat as he glared at Niall.

Slap!

Niall slapped Maurice hard on the face.

Maurice was bewildered.

“You’re a few years too young to talk back to me like that!” Niall scoffed.

“I’ll kill you!”

Maurice was about to pounce on him, but several people held him down.

At this point in time Niall, Yvonne, as well as the other actors Zachary had assembled exchanged glances.

They would carry out the plan the Suarez family had requested.

Bam!

Niall kicked a camera aside and yelled, "Damn it! I'll quit! This is taking things too far!"

The Protector Chapter 442

Crash!

Niall went berserk and smashed anything he could see.

“Right! We’ll stop acting! This is just bullying us! They got a few newcomers to come and pick on us!”

Wham!

Yvonne kicked the equipment aside as well.

“Zoey is trying to force us to quit by using these newcomers! Why bother acting? I won’t work for her!”

“Exactly! What’s the point?”

The other artistes and managers were livid and started destroying the equipment.

The other filming crew was scared out of their wits. Have the actors gone mad? Surely being offended by two newcomers won’t warrant such a reaction! What’s going on?

The ones who were most confused were the four newcomers.

Their illustrious career had ended the moment it started, just because they had offended a few top actors.

They had no way to take responsibility. Even the men started crying out loud.

Unbeknownst to them, Niall and Yvonne had planned this from the start. They were bribed by the Suarez to destroy Oriental Star Group.

They were simply being used as an excuse. Even if they had not shown up, Niall would have found trouble with someone else!

Not only that, but the top artistes from other groups had gone on strike as well! The part that was affected the worst was that Niall and Yvonne had co-starred in five movies.

Several filming sets worth of artistes had gone on strike.

...

“Ms. Lopez! Something terrible happened! Actors and actresses from seven different sets have gone on strike! They even started smashing the equipment and the scene is in a mess! Follow me and have a look yourself!”

Zoey was shocked when she received Gerry’s call.

However, she quickly calmed down.

There must be a reason for the strike. First, I offended Niall Xander. Second, Zachary Suarez might be behind this.

Zoey rushed to the scene as soon as possible.

When she saw the set in such a mess, Zoey’s heart sank. Why do things like this happen all the time?

Gerry had arrived at the same time. He inquired, “What happened? What’s going on?”

Winnie scorned, “Mr. Wade, Ms. Lopez is trying to make life difficult for us!”

“Huh? What’s wrong?”

“The four newbies you just brought in were here to make life difficult for us! One of them tried to scald Niall with boiling water while the other tried to hit him! If you want to fire us, just say it outright! Why does it in such a roundabout manner?” Winnie demanded.

“That’s right! Just fire us! We’ll be welcome everywhere else!” Yvonne and the other artistes burst out in rage.

Gerry took a look around and questioned, “Is that so?”

The others agreed, “It’s true! These newcomers were clumsy and making life difficult for Niall!”

“That’s right! Ms. Lopez, Mr. Wade, I’ll have to discuss things with you two. There’s nothing wrong with getting new members, but you’ll have to train them first before sending them here. How could you just send them here?” Shaw Timmons, the director with a neutral stance, grumbled as well.

He did not care about who was in the right and who was in the wrong. All he was concerned about was that these newbies had affected his shoot.

“You guys? You’ll be the death of me!” Gerry was furious. However, since they were brought here by Zoey, he did not dare to comment too much.

Zoey bit her lip. She knew that this was no simple matter and these newcomers were simply unlucky.

Niall and the others used Helena as an excuse to vent their frustration.

She had to admit that that was a powerful move. It was the perfect excuse!

The Protector Chapter 443

“Mr. Wade, we’re going on strike. This isn’t fair at all!” Niall protested.

Gerry consoled him, “Niall, please calm down. This is a small matter!”

“How can we calm down? You’ve already pushed us so far. If you’re unhappy, just fire us!” Yvonne snarled.

Zoey asked, “What are your terms?”

Niall smirked, “Someone’s quick on the uptake. Winnie, tell them our terms!”

Winnie looked Zoey in the eye and began, “Ms. Lopez, if you want us to continue to work, you have to be sincere about it!”

“Well? How much do you want?” Zoey had seen this coming. They will definitely ask for an increase in pay.

Winnie held up three fingers and demanded, “We want triple the pay for all seven films with the ten actors involved! Otherwise, we will continue going on strike!”

Boom!

Gerry was stunned. Triple the pay! That’s fifty million! The budget for the seven movies combined was fifty million already. Yet, they were demanding for all fifty million to go to the cast! Have they gone mad?

Director Timmons inhaled sharply. That’s outrageous!

However, they were in no position to bargain. The Oriental Star Group's entertainment business only survived because of these ten actors and actresses! If they left, the entertainment business would crumble. They were severely disadvantaged and had nothing to bargain with.

"Wait, can we..." Gerry tried to negotiate.

Niall interrupted him, "Triple. I won't be taking a cent less!"

Helena and the others were perplexed. Because of them, Oriental Star Group was now in a crisis.

"Zoey, you're new to this place, so you don't know how important we are! Oriental Star Group only made it to the top of North Hampton because of us! Why else will Gerry listen to our every demand?" Yvonne declared fearlessly.

Gerry hung his head and did not say anything in response. They're right! These ten people are our source of income! We need to take good care of them!

Niall sneered, "Not only that. If you want this matter to be resolved, I want the rights to deal with the two of them as well!"

He then pointed at Helena and Maurice.

Helena was a beauty that he had set his sights upon.

Meanwhile, Maurice had attempted to defy him. He would not let him off easily.

Gerry pleaded softly, "Ms. Lopez, please agree to their terms! Even if we make a loss here, we need to keep them!"

Niall looked at Zoey smugly.

"Give us a day to reconsider. I'll give you a reply tomorrow!" Zoey decided.

“Alright! A day off today then!”

With that, Niall and the others left.

Maurice, Helena, and the others ran towards Zoey and apologized, “Ms. Lopez, we’re sorry. This all happened because of us!”

“It’s not your fault. This would have happened anyway,” Zoey assured them.

Meanwhile, Levi, who was in the office, heard of this matter from Helena.

He immediately looked Zoey up.

“Why are you hesitating? Fire them all! How hard is it to hire a new star?” Levi scorned.

Under Levi’s encouragement, Zoey called Niall and the other actors’ managers and said, “Let me inform you that you’ve been fired!”

The Protector Chapter 444

When they received the call from Zoey, Winnie and the other managers had a smug look on their faces.

They had not expected Zoey to fire them.

Impossible!

“What did you say? Repeat yourself!” Winnie nearly dropped her phone onto the floor.

“Let me repeat myself then. Niall, Yvonne, and the other eight actors have been fired by the company!” Zoey roared.

“Tch, don’t regret this, Zoey!” Winnie had an icy expression.

“I won’t regret it! Get the paperwork done and leave. Oriental Star Group doesn’t welcome you!”

When Zoey finally hung up, she felt immense satisfaction.

She had finally gotten a weight off her chest.

“What? Zoey actually fired us? That’s impossible!” Niall and the others were fuming when they heard this.

How dare Zoey fire us?

In the past, they had acted arrogantly because they were the Oriental Star Group's pillars of support. They were sure that Zoey would not dare to fire them. Yet, the result was not as they had expected.

"Tell that to Gerry! I'll make sure she regrets it!" Niall instructed with his eyes narrowed.

Yvonne smiled, "Just wait. Sooner or later, Zoey will beg us to return!"

When Gerry and the upper management of the company found out about this, they confronted Zoey.

"Ms. Lopez, you can't do this!"

Zoey was adamant, "Give up. I've already made my decision!"

"Please rethink your decision! Without these ten people, Oriental Star Group's entertainment business is a goner! We owe our viewership to them!" Gerry pleaded between tears.

"That's right! The loss is too great! The moment they leave, the seven movies we've planned are toast! We'll lose fifty million!"

"That's right! We'll lose all of our contracts in the entertainment business!"

The others tried to highlight the severity of the issue.

At this point in time, Levi laughed, "What do you mean? The show must go on! We'll just get another actor!"

"You're not from the industry, so you wouldn't understand! The advertising had already been done and the movies will only earn money because of their popularity! If you change the cast, you'll still lose money!" Gerry spat angrily.

“Hehe, perhaps I’m not from this industry, but from the point of view of the audience, the quality of the movie matters the most. If the movie is entertaining, it will spread through word of mouth and definitely sell well! In fact, movies that star famous actors have been losing a lot of money!” Levi defended himself.

Gerry and the others were speechless. That is indeed the case! Nowadays, the movies to be screened in cinemas no longer hired actors who had a large fanbase. The poor quality of the movies often resulted in losses. Most of the movies that starred these internet celebrities were online movies which targeted fans with a hit-and-run policy.

“You’ll definitely earn money from the fans by hiring celebrities to act, but your reputation will only get worse! Without good reviews, it’ll eventually be toast!” Levi continued.

Gerry sighed.

Levi was right.

The first movie would earn the greatest revenue, but the rest will have diminishing profits.

There would be an increase in the number of complaints online as well.

In essence, if the quality of the movie were bad, the fans would no longer watch them to support their idols.

The Protector Chapter 445

03/05/2021 by Chapter Novel

“How about this? Zoey, the four people I’ve recommended have good acting skills. Get a few good actors and let them be the lead actors instead!”

That way, we’ll be saving a lot since we’re not paying the celebrities. We can spend that money on special effects and other scenes! Other than that, we’ll increase the commission for the directors, scriptwriters, and editors. If we focus on quality for these seven movies, I don’t believe that they won’t sell!” Levi declared.

Zoey felt that it made sense and agreed, “Alright, we’ll do it as you say!”

Gerry agreed with Levi’s proposal but hesitated, “We’ve already announced the cast for these movies. If we change the cast at the last minute, there’ll be a lot of protests!”

“That’s a good opportunity! The fact that there’s protests would mean that many people pay attention to this. We’re using new actors without any fame, so this will pique the attention of the audience!”

The advertising team can just create some hype for this movie. When the movie airs, we’ll become popular through word of mouth and the movie will definitely sell!” Levi explained.

Gerry’s eyes lit up, “Mr. Garrison, you’re a sharp man! Although Niall and the others left, we can use their popularity to hype up our new movies!”

Levi nodded, “Just go ahead and do it! Nurture a few new stars and I’ll try my best to advertise the movie when it screens!”

Meanwhile, Niall and the others were still waiting for Zoey to apologize.

When Gerry arrived, he declared sternly, "This is the official statement. All of you are fired. Leave now!"

"Huh?" Niall was perplexed.

Gerry came to fire us? What's wrong with him?

"Gerry, have you gone mad? If we leave, what will happen to the seven movies? What will happen to Oriental Star Group?" Niall and the others spat furiously.

Gerry was livid as well. After all, he had let these people lord over him for such a long time.

He scoffed, "All of you are cancer to Oriental! If you stay, then we truly are finished! As for these seven movies, we've already found replacements for all of you!"

Gerry glanced at Helena and Maurice, who were trembling with fear.

"Maurice, Helena, you'll be the main lead!"

Helena and the others were bewildered. What a roller coaster ride! Earlier, we just got ourselves in trouble! Moments later, we're suddenly the lead of a movie with a budget of fifty million!

"Hahaha..." Niall, Yvonne, and the others burst out in laughter.

"Gerry, have you gone mad? You're getting these newbies to act in a fifty-million movie? How will you secure your box office? You'll definitely lose everything! Idiot!"

To these artistes, getting newbies to act in such a movie is absolutely impossible!

Without our fame and fanbase, they'll definitely make a loss!

“Haha, let’s leave! We’ll just watch them struggle! Don’t beg us to come back when that happens!”

With that, Niall, Yvonne, and the other eight artistes left promptly.

Gerry was nervous as well. After all, no one had dared to try such a plan before. The road ahead was full of unknowns, and if they had made the wrong bet, Oriental Star Group would be a goner.

After leaving Oriental Star Group, the ten artistes immediately got a contract under Shanks Entertainment under the Suarez family.

The news quickly spread across the entire North Hampton.

They regretted it!

Gerry and the others had regretted it after all. Even Zoey started to wonder if she had made the wrong call.

They had essentially sent their aces to their competitors for free.

They would use them to deal a huge blow to Oriental Star Group!

“Oriental is full of idiots! Especially Zoey! Oriental Star Group will be mine sooner or later!” Zachary was unbelievably excited.

He suddenly felt that he had overestimated Zoey this whole time.

The Protector Chapter 446

“Hahaha, next, we’ll create seven online films to air at the same time as their movies! I’ll have them wallowing in regret!”

“Sure, no problem! We’ll put in our best effort and destroy Oriental Star Group!”

Niall and the others looked forward to it.

“How about this? We know their script, so let’s create seven movies with similar content as well!”

Zachary was bent on destroying Oriental Star Group.

“Good idea, President Suarez! If the content is similar, we’ll take up all the viewership! Their films are full of newbies, so no one will watch them! Their fifty million will go down the drain!”

“After that, we can sue them for copyright! They’ll be a goner!” Yvonne suggested.

Zachary smiled, “You’re more devious than I am! We copied their ideas and are even suing them for copyright!”

“Hahaha... We’ll wait for the downfall of Oriental Star Group!” All of them laughed maniacally.

...

That was no time for regrets.

Since she had already made such a decision, Zoey would have to do her best to make it happen.

She assembled the cast, directors, screenwriters, and producers for a meeting.

“I’ll triple your pay for these seven movies! If the film succeeds, I’ll give you a bonus as well!” Levi suggested. Shawn and the others were extremely motivated by that.

It was useless to give a motivational speech or anything like that. Money was the most reliable motivator.

If you paid them well, they would help you earn more revenue.

“Ms. Lopez, Mr. Garrison, relax! We will take this seriously! Furthermore, I’ve decided to change these seven movies into two! We will release the best quality films in the shortest time frame possible,” Shawn declared.

To begin with, these seven movies had never focused on quality. There were seven of them so that they could scam the fans of seven times the money.

They focused on quantity rather than quality.

However, this was different. With sufficient funds and support, they could produce a film of good quality.

The screenwriter, Sylvester Zoldyck, nodded, “Alright, I’ll improve the script to keep the audience hooked throughout.”

“Alright, we can guarantee the special effects. Back then, the funds were all spent on the cast and we barely got enough money to do it well. Now that we have sufficient funds, this is no problem!”

The special effects team nearly burst out in laughter. That was the first time in decades they had so many funds.

Several millions worth of funds on special effects; that was something they had previously never dreamed of having.

“I will make sure everything runs smoothly, so don’t worry, Ms. Lopez!” the producer assured her.

The young cast knew that this was a rare opportunity, so it was a given that they would do their best.

The production of the movie was set.

The only problem left would be advertising.

The advertising team had already started to work on promoting the movie, but Helena and the others were completely new actors. It would be hard to maintain the hype.

“Nevermind, let’s focus on finishing the movie first!” Levi smiled.

He had predicted that Zachary would steal their content as well, so he had recommended for the drama team to lock up all information such that he would have no idea what they were filming.

After Zoey heeded his suggestions, there was no news from Zachary.

“Hmph! So what if they film in secret? We already know the script of all seven movies!” Zachary scoffed.

Shanks Entertainment continued to film the seven movies as they had previously planned.

The Protector Chapter 447

At this point in time, Shanks Entertainment was gaining popularity in North Hampton.

The change of company by Niall and the others was a hot topic.

The audience and fans looked forward to the movies produced by Niall and the others for Shanks Entertainment.

As the days passed, the Morris Group and Rogers Family progressed greatly as usual.

However, the business in the city was not doing badly either.

In the short time span of one month, they've bought over several enterprises and finally got a taste of profit.

Business in North Hampton was great. It was the top economy in Quebec after all.

This was coupled with the fact that there was no regulation on their extreme measures. Hence, they decided to take things up a notch.

More and more people moved into North Hampton to get a piece of this pie.

The Suarez family was a notable example. Zachary had entered to test the waters and lead the way for his father and uncles.

The Lopez family was progressing in secret as well, taking advantage of Harry's influence.

In this month, Scott had been checking on the background of the Morris Group.

It was no easy task, so it took an entire month.

“Godfather, as of now, we aren’t able to find out who is backing them. Moving forward, we’ll have to wait for the search results from the dark web. After that, we can make a move on the Morris Group.” Fernand reported.

The so-called dark web referred to sites which specialized in intelligence in the dark web.

These websites had a membership system, and there were less than a hundred members in the entire Erudia.

In the entire Quebec, only Scott was a member. Other than him, no one else could gain intel from the dark web.

“Alright. Tell Lopez to be prepared. I’m ready to take down the Morris Group!” Scott replied plainly while fiddling with the prayer beads in his hand.

Throughout the course of the month, the Oriental Star Group worked overtime to finish the two high-quality films.

Helena and the others did not disappoint and displayed all their skills.

They were truly skilled actors and actresses!

“These are the two most perfect movies I’ve filmed!” Shawn sighed.

The other crew members were excited as well due to the sheer quality of these movies.

No other movies could compare.

On the other hand, the Suarez family's Shanks Entertainment filmed all seven movies in that one month.

The content was shabby and the quality was mediocre. However, Niall, Yvonne, and other famous actors were starring in them. There were a lot of pre-booked tickets from fans, amounting to a total of four hundred thousand in revenue.

Coupled with the fact that they had done their advertising in full force, they expected the total number of pre-bookings to total one million!

Niall and Yvonne scoffed, "Let's destroy the entire Oriental Star Group!"

Both movies had already been sent to the National Radio and Television Administration for screening.

As long as they passed the screening, they would be able to start airing immediately.

Shanks Entertainment had bought over all the main pages of major streaming sites. To them, the cost was no issue. They simply wanted to drive Oriental Star Group out of business.

"What should we do about advertising? All these proposals are no good!" Zoey expressed her dissatisfaction with the proposals given to her.

That was why there was no hype for the two movies up to that point.

The only news about those movies was how Niall and the others had flamed Oriental Star Group.

"Let me handle it!" Levi requested. He had plans for advertising.

"I'll leave it to you, then!"

Zoey had a fair amount of confidence when it came to Levi.

The following day, the headlines read: Oriental Star Group's seven newest movies had copied content from Shanks Entertainment!

The news spread across the entire North Hampton.

The Protector Chapter 448

For the past month, Oriental Star Group and Shanks Entertainment had been exchanging blows.

Now that such a thing had happened, everyone was shocked.

These seven movies were copied? Has Oriental Star Group gone mad?

The one who reported such news had even listed evidence.

He did a side-by-side comparison of the plots of the seven movies.

Anyone could tell that it had been copied.

To the fans, the screenwriters used were Yvonne and Niall's private screenwriters and did not belong to Oriental Star Group. After they were fired, they had become a part of Shanks Entertainment. Hence, to them, the Oriental Star Group's seven movies were all copied!

The net was suddenly bustling with people criticizing the Oriental Star Group.

This was especially so for the fans of the ten artistes who had left Oriental Star Group. Some fans had already organized protests on the internet attacking Oriental Star Group. They were prepared to stop at nothing to drive Oriental Star Group's entertainment business out of business.

The relevant departments had even formed an investigation team and prepared to look into this.

The Oriental Star Group was shocked by this.

“That’s playing dirty!” Gerry slammed the table.

“I know, right! They copied our script and now they’re accusing us? How despicable!” the other executives spat. They were enraged as well.

Zoey laughed, “Levi, you’re so smart! You predicted their moves up to this point. Do they honestly think that they can sue us for copyright? How naïve. We’re airing two movies instead of seven, and the content is greatly different!”

Gerry was excited, “I can’t wait to see their faces when they see our movies!”

Levi had a glint in his eyes, “And here we were worrying about advertising! Let’s leave the internet be about the copyright issue. The more they attack us, the better! This will be free advertising for our movie!”

Zoey’s eyes lit up. Levi is a genius in finance and business!

“Alright, I’ll get straight to it!”

Levi added, “Release the news that Oriental Star Group’s movies will be airing soon. Don’t give away any titles or information! Just keep it as mysterious as possible!”

“Alright, got it!”

...

The news of Oriental Star Group’s film being aired in all major streaming sites had spread soon.

For some unknown reason, the media started attacking them more heavily.

All major mass media, blogs, and news channels were filled with criticisms.

It was as though they were going to force Oriental Star Group out of business entirely.

“That was brutal of them! That’s a few dozen times worse than what we had expected! Have we stirred up a public outrage?”

Niall, Zachary, and the others were excited.

Oriental Star Group would soon crumble and Zachary would be able to purchase it at a low price.

Yvonne analyzed this calmly and felt skeptical, “Why do I feel that something is amiss? The attacks on Oriental Star Group seemed to have increased tenfold, as though someone was behind it.”

“You worry too much. It’s just because the Oriental Star Group was accused of copyright. Soon, the investigation group will take action!” Niall replied.

Yvonne bit her lip, “I sure hope I’m overthinking things.”

“You definitely are. It must have been the people I’ve planted to attack the Oriental Star Group!”

“Furthermore, I’ve talked to the leader of the investigation team. They’ll be able to delay the release of Oriental Star Group’s screening by a week,” Zachary added.

The Protector Chapter 449

“Haha, our movie will be airing in three days! By the time their movie airs, we’d have already stolen the entire market! They won’t get a single cent!” Niall quipped excitedly.

The others looked forward to it as well.

...

The following day, the National Radio and Television Administration and related agencies formed an investigation team and headed to Oriental Star Group.

“We’re the investigation team! We’ve received a public complaint that the movie you’re about to air has copyright issues! Get your boss here!” Johnny Lerner, the head of the investigation team, demanded emotionlessly.

In the meeting room, Zoey, Gerry, and the others had arrived shortly.

“Zoey Lopez, was it? Your movie was accused of copyright infringement and we have sufficient evidence! How would you like to defend yourself?” Johnny demanded as he passed a thick stack of evidence over.

Zoey did not bother looking at that so-called evidence.

The others were calm as well, as though nothing had happened.

This made Johnny infuriated.

Bam!

Johnny slammed the table and got up.

“Why? Are you proud of the fact that your work is copied? Are you happy that you’ve violated copyright laws? No wonder everyone says the Oriental Star Group is a lousy enterprise! I’ve finally seen it for myself!” Johnny bellowed.

Deep inside, he was laughing.

Before this, Zachary had instructed him to stir up as much trouble as possible.

This made things a lot easier for him.

“Oriental East Group! What’s the meaning of this? Can’t you see that we’re angry? Why are you laughing?” the other members of the investigation team were fuming as well.

Johnny pointed at Zoey and demanded, “I order you to pass me a copy of your film now! I’ll investigate it!”

Zoey chuckled, “I’m sorry, the film has been sent to the National Radio and Television Administration for screening. Now, the film is top-secret and no one has the right to order me to give it away!”

“Bullshit!”

“I’m the leader of the investigation team. How dare you ignore me?” Johnny spat.

“Tell the related departments to delay the screening of Oriental Star Group’s movie by at least two weeks!” Johnny instructed.

“Got it!”

Johnny then turned to Zoey, “Zoey Lopez, I’ll ask you this one last time. Will you cooperate with the investigation? Otherwise, I’ll decide that you’re guilty of copyright! When that happens, you'll be blacklisted, your reputation will be ruined, and you'll have to pay the penalty!"

Zoey laughed, "I didn't copy anything. Do whatever you want!"

"You..." Johnny was bursting with rage.

How can the Oriental Star Group be so calm? It's like they don't care at all. Have they given up?

"Very well then," Johnny sneered. "Since you refuse to cooperate with the investigation, I'll hereby conclude the investigation!"

"Oriental Star Group is charged with infringement of copyright! Below are the penalties. Firstly, the entertainment business of Oriental Star Group shall be shut down for half a month. Secondly, the movie shall be modified and its airing delayed. Third, a fine of ten million! Finally, the person in charge will have to make a public apology!"

Gerry and the others' faces fell. They did not expect the investigation team to deem them guilty of infringement of copyright directly.

Even if they had not copied anything, they would not be able to screen those two movies. At this point in time, Levi dialed a number, "Hello? Aurora, I need you to contact the person in charge of the National Radio and Television Administration in North Hampton!"

The Protector Chapter 450

Now that Levi had a personal secretary, Aurora, his work became a lot smoother.

Aurora immediately contacted the man in charge of the National Radio and Television Administration in North Hampton, Colin Shanks.

She then told him everything.

Colin got the shock of his life. He set aside all of his work and brought his men to the Oriental Star Group.

The Oriental Star Group conference room was filled with dead silence.

Many had a worried expression while Johnny was smug.

“How’s that? Do you still refuse to cooperate? To tell you the truth, I decide whether your movie gets to air or not! If you have a better attitude, perhaps I’ll reconsider my decision,” Johnny kept dropping hints.

He had already received a bribe from Zachary, so he wanted to get some benefits from the Oriental Star Group as well.

Everyone in the National Radio and Television Administration knew that this was a part of the competition between two companies.

It was not necessarily the case that Oriental Star Group was copying them.

Johnny was no exception. He knew that this investigation team was just a sham. Since he could get some benefits out of it, he would try to milk them as much as possible.

He would side with whoever paid him more.

“Sir, what do you mean by that? I’m a little slow, so you need to explain it in simpler terms,” Levi requested.

Johnny smiled, “Stop feigning ignorance. Well then, let me make this clear. I alone decide whether you guys are copying or not. As long as you guys make me happy, I can choose the fate of your movie.”

“Johnny Lerna, how dare you!”

The door to the conference was slammed open.

Colin and the other executives of the National Radio and Television Administration burst in.

“Huh? Sir, why are you here? I can’t possibly trouble you for such a trivial affair,” Johnny and the rest of the investigation team said.

“If I didn’t come, you’d be a disgrace to the entire National Radio and Television Administration!” Colin spat.

“What do you mean by that?” Johnny was perplexed.

“I’ve heard everything you said earlier!” Colin roared.

Johnny hurriedly attempted to cover it up, “That was a misunderstanding! I was scaring the Oriental Star Group. I had no choice since they refused to cooperate with the investigations!”

“Wrong! You’re completely wrong!” Colin glared at him.

“Huh? Who’s in the wrong, sir? What’s wrong?” Johnny and the others were perplexed.

“Why should the Oriental Star Group cooperate with you if they haven’t copied anything? This entire matter is absurd!”

“Sir, please be clearer. I don’t understand at all!”

Colin threw the script at Johnny and bellowed, “Take a look at this! Copyright? Shanks Entertainment made seven movies, but Oriental Star Group only made two! Can you even count? Look at the content! It’s completely different and it’s much better than Shanks Entertainment’s movies!”

Johnny immediately understood after seeing the scripts.

Zachary didn’t get the situation clear at all! He didn’t know what Oriental Star Group was filming and accused them of copyright infringement! So that’s why Oriental Star Group filmed in secret! They didn’t want others to know what they were filming!

“Johnny Lerner, you and your investigation team did not investigate based on facts and carelessly believed others, causing misjudgment. All of you are suspended for three months without pay! We’ll settle things based on your future performance!”

The Protector Chapter 451

Colin Shanks immediately doled out the punishment.

“What?”

Johnny Lerna and his gang grew infuriated.

We didn't get a single cent, but we still need to be suspended without pay for three months?

Isn't this a huge loss to us?

But this guy is someone powerful... so what can we do?

“Additionally, two movies from the Oriental Star Group have passed the audit. We'll start showing them after three days!” Colin announced.

Meanwhile, the higher-ups from the audit department exclaimed, “We've never seen such a well-produced movie! This will be a huge hit!”

Zoey and her colleagues breathed a sigh of relief.

The person in charge of the National Radio and Television Administration grinned and said, “Ms. Lopez, are you happy with this result?”

However, Colin stared at Levi, who stood by the side.

“I'm pretty satisfied! Mr. Shanks really is amazing!” Zoey smiled and said.

“It's alright!” Levi answered.

“Phew!” Colin breathed a sigh of relief.

It doesn't matter if anyone else isn't pleased with the results; only her opinion matters.

Shanks Entertainment received the news in no time.

Meanwhile, Johnny's investigation came to a dead-end because he couldn't delay the release of the Oriental Star Group's films.

They needed to release their movies three days later.

“Useless! You can't even do a simple task like this!” Zachary Suarez was irate.

Niall Xander grinned. “It's fine, Mr. Suarez. We already achieved the effect we wanted. They will definitely lose to us when our movies are released concurrently!”

“That's right. The movies' contents are identical, so they will definitely watch ours instead. Besides that, I already bought a lot of spots on the recommendations list on streaming websites. On the other hand, the viewers can't find their movies even if they wanted to. How can they possibly compete with us?” Zachary was confident.

Their promotions undoubtedly completely overshadowed Oriental Star Group's efforts.

Besides that, the plagiarism accusations plaguing the Oriental Star Group doomed them.

That was what Zoey and the gang were the most worried about.

“We contacted most of the streaming websites just now. They said that there weren't any spots left in the recommendations list on the main page and even the subpages, because they have all been bought by Shanks Entertainment. It will spell disaster for us if this continues. Our movie qualities are good, but the viewers can't even find it." Zoey sounded frustrated as she spoke.

Levi stroked her hair. "Honey, forget about the promotions for now. Things will get better as time passes. When they compare our movies with theirs, our movies' reputations will soar. Besides that, we are still popular from the plagiarism accusations! Everyone is waiting to compare our movies to see if we copied them!"

"Hahaha! You're right. Our haters are our fans as well. They'll probably turn into real fans when they watch our movies!" Zoey chuckled.

Levi flashed an indecipherable smile. "Besides that, I still have some tricks up my sleeve I can use after the movies get released!"

The day everyone was waiting for finally arrived.

It was eight p.m.

Seven movies from Shanks Entertainment were released at the same time on four major streaming sites.

They hogged all the spots on the recommendations list on the main pages; the first thing one would see if they opened the streaming website was advertisements about their movies.

As their popularity soared, a few million people were waiting expectantly for their release. They all rushed to watch it when they came out.

The reviews quickly came pouring in.

Terrible!

All seven movies are terrible!

The acting, special effects, and plot are terrible. Everything's terrible! There's nothing redeemable about it!

Apart from a few good reviews by some fans, the rest of the viewers gave bad reviews.

The average score for all seven movies was only six point seven.

“Oh, right. Isn't the Oriental Star Group's movie plagiarized from somewhere? I think it got released today too. Let's go watch it!”

Everyone started to search for the Oriental Star Group's movies.

The Protector Chapter 452

In the Shanks Entertainment's president's office.

Niall, Zachary, and a few other people were present. They all looked displeased as they watched the real-time box office results.

Niall snorted. "It seems like the audience isn't that gullible anymore!"

The manager, Winnie said, "That's right. Viewers nowadays tend to care more about the content of the movie. Movies rarely cast young, handsome men now! Focusing on production quality is important!"

Niall chuckled. "Yes. That is why we need to take this opportunity to scam the dumbass fans' money!"

Yvonne Wren agreed with that statement. "That's right! The fans are stupid and easy to scam. We need to hurry up and make more movies of this kind! Once the dumbasses realize what's going on, they won't be so easy to scam anymore!"

If their fans heard what they said, they would probably blow up in rage.

"Oh, aren't the Oriental Star Group's movies being released as well? How are they doing?" Zachary couldn't help but ask.

Niall chuckled. "I tried searching them in the streaming websites just now, but I still can't find them."

"They're destined to fail! Even though our movies are trash, we are hogging all the spots in the recommendations lists! They can't possibly succeed!" Yvonne chuckled coldly.

“President Shorts said he found their movies. They only have two of them, not seven!” The assistant showed Niall the tablet.

“Haha! Are they afraid of cutting a loss? They only filmed two movies, and who the f are the main actors? I haven’t even heard of them! They should be prepared that their movies will become a box office bomb!” Zachary guffawed as he played the movie.

After about three years, the netizens finished watching the two Oriental Star Group’s movies.

“Can those who already watched the movies tell us if it’s good or not?” Some netizens were eager but afraid to watch the movies. They were scared the movies might turn out horrible.

“It’s amazing! It really is super good!”

“This is the most well-produced movie I’ve ever watched!”

“The plot is well-thought-out, the art is tasteful, the pacing is appropriate, the special effects are perfect, and the acting was superb! I give five stars out of five!”

“This movie is showing in the cinemas! It’s so amazing! I need to watch it again!”

Good reviews started to appear all over the internet.

The netizens regarded the Oriental Star Group’s two movies as masterpieces!

Furthermore, the ones who gave good reviews weren’t fans. They were the ones who had lambasted Oriental Star Group before for plagiarism. They had watched the movies just because of the scandal.

When the higher-ups in the Oriental Star Group saw the good reviews and the rising popularity of the two movies, they breathed a sigh of relief.

“Well done! Levi, you’re amazing!”

Zoey hugged Levi.

Cough cough... Levi coughed out of embarrassment.

Zoey’s face immediately flushed red because Gerry Wade and the others were in the office. She had been so excited she forgot that they weren’t alone.

Levi chuckled. “Let’s officially start our promotions! Try to generate as much public attention as possible, including doing what Niall did before. In short, do everything you can to promote the movies!”

“Alright!”

The higher-ups were excited. Judging by how things were progressing, the two movies might generate more revenue than they have ever imagined!

“I still have a trump card. I’ll use it tonight!” Levi chuckled.

“I’ll be looking forward to it!”

Levi grinned. “Besides that, the people in charge of those streaming websites will start knocking on our doors soon enough!”

The Protector Chapter 453

“What? I can’t believe their movies are this good! Even I was engrossed!”
Zachary seemed genuinely entertained after they finished watching the movies.

Niall, Yvonne, and the rest were anxious.

“How are their movies so good? Look at how their popularity is booming! I can’t find a single bad review!”

“Even though they’re not on the recommendations list, they’re one of the top ten most popular movies right now! Their popularity is still rising too!”

“What now? Should we do something about it?”

The artists were as anxious and as nervous as cats.

The fact that the Oriental Star Group’s movies were spectacular was a huge embarrassment to them.

More importantly, the main actors were the rookies that they’ve seen before.

How are they so good at acting?

This made them feel indignant.

Their manager, Winnie sighed.

She was good at judging the current consumers’ needs.

People like Niall are more suited to join variety shows or just become a public figure.

Acting in movies requires actual acting skills, which they lack.

Oriental Star Group's two movies' popularity was rising in streaming websites.

"I get it now. The fact that Shanks Entertainment said that Oriental Star plagiarized their movies is a whole ruse to sabotage them! You have seven movies and they only have two, how dare you accuse them of plagiarism?"

"Yeah! Can your seven terrible movies be compared to their two masterpieces? How shameless can they get?"

"Everyone listen to me. Don't watch those terrible movies anymore. Go and watch the Oriental Star Group's two movies instead! They really are good!"

An intense discussion sparked in the comments section of the seven movies starred by Niall and the rest.

While everyone was lambasting the seven movies, everyone went to watch Oriental Star Group's two movies instead.

Furthermore, the Oriental Star Group's publicity team reignited the discussion about the plagiarism accusations to hype the movie up even more.

They then brought up the incident where Niall and his gang had acted all high and mighty and quit their jobs.

There was even video proof about how Niall had splashed Horace Engler with water, and how he had beaten Maurice Lorraine up.

The netizens were enraged when they caught hold of the news, and they started to lambast artists like Niall and Yvonne.

Even their fans started to attack them.

“Niall Xander, you bd! Give me back my fing money!”

“This bastard only knows how to scam people! He can’t even act! What a piece of trash!”

“Helena Engler is my idol from now on! Yvonne Wren can get lost!”

“Pigs like Niall Xander don’t deserve to be artists. I’m gonna be Maurice Lorraine’s fan from now on. He’s so handsome and so good at acting!”

After that incident, Shanks Entertainment not only suffered a major loss, Niall and the other actors’ and actresses’ reputations were tarnished as well.

In no time, everyone knew that Shanks Entertainment’s seven movies were horrible; no one bothered to watch them anymore.

The only ones watching them right now were the ones who wanted to lambast them.

On the other hand, Oriental Star Group’s two movies rose in popularity even though they weren’t on the recommendations list.

They quickly took the first and second spot in the popularity rankings.

Bang!

Crack!

Zachary was so furious that he smashed the tablet on the floor.

Niall and his colleagues had thunderous expressions as they fell silent.

At that moment, Zachary received a phone call.

“Hello, President Shorts, I am a representative from Penguin Films. I’m here to inform you that your films have been kicked off the recommendations list!”

“Hello, President Shorts, I am a representative of Kiwi Films. I’m here to inform you that your company’s seven movies’ reviews were too bad, so we took it off the recommendations list!”

“Hello, President Shorts, I am a representative from U-Cool. Your movies are not gaining enough revenue, so we’re planning to take them off the recommendations list!”

The Protector Chapter 454

Zachary felt despondent when he received the calls.

He had never thought the major streaming sites would call him one after another to inform them that they would remove the seven movies from the recommendations lists.

Eventually, none of the movies they produced were left on the recommendation lists.

All seven movies were replaced by the two movies from the Oriental Star Group; those two movies dominated the main page of the streaming websites.

Furthermore, Zachary had spent about fifty million to buy the spots on the recommendation lists, while the major streaming sites had offered the same thing to the two movies from the Oriental Star Group of their own volition without requesting any form of payment.

The popularity of the two movies continued to rise!

Zoey beamed brightly when she saw the real-time box office results.

The production costs of the movie were two hundred million; they gained that much revenue in just six hours.

This broke the box office records of all the major streaming sites.

It was originally estimated that it would take about one week for the movie to offset the costs.

“It’s time to use the trump card!” Levi chuckled.

Not long after, the superstars from Erudia, Zak Copland and Yelda Zamora started their promotions at the same time.

“Up next, I would like to recommend two movies... they are absolutely awesome! I guarantee that with my honor!”

“If you don’t like it, I can refund you your membership fees! I, Zak Copland, promise you that!”

Twenty of the country’s A-list stars stated to promote the Oriental Star Group’s movies together, and its popularity boomed once again.

The members they gained exceeded fifty million, and they were about to reach the one hundred million members milestone.

Furthermore, all the major media companies started to give coverage to those movies as well.

The two movies were considered the pinnacle of the film industry.

The industry experts were excited as well. Everyone started to guess how much the movies would gain in revenue in a month.

One billion is probably a piece of cake. Can they reach two billion?

A box office result like that used to be reserved for movies traditionally shown in cinemas. But movies streaming online managed to achieve such a spectacular result! It’s unbelievable!

However, while some rejoiced, some suffered.

For example, Shanks Entertainment was one of those who were in a tough spot.

The negative influence from the public opinion about the movie itself was overwhelming. That caused a lot of investors to revoke their funding.

Their artists started to terminate their contracts as well.

In no time, a crisis befell the company, something Zachary had not been expecting.

After all, the Shank family's venture into the entertainment industry was their most successful one. Yet now, everything was crumbling apart in just one month!

Zachary's father, uncle, and grandfather all called to berate him.

"Useless pieces of trash! You can't even act! Why are you even acting? What were you fing doing?" Zachary vented his rage at Niall, Yvonne, and the rest of the actors.

Slap!

Slap!

He slapped them forcefully; they didn't dare to say anything.

"Get lost! Get the hell away from here! Give me back your salaries. I'll kill whoever wants to keep the money!"

Zachary flailed around furiously and chased all the people out.

When the actors stepped outside, Niall discussed something with his team and manager.

"We never thought something like this would happen! We can't stay in Shanks Entertainment anymore!"

The manager, Winnie, replied, "Yeah. Your reputations are heavily tarnished! We can't keep doing this anymore! How about we go back to Oriental Star Group?"

Yvonne asked anxiously, "Can we really do that?"

"Sigh. They will definitely be angry, but no matter what happens, we can still bring profits to them. I don't think they won't take us back!" Winnie said.

Niall nodded. "That's right. After all, we were the most important artists there! They don't even have anyone else except for us! And those rookies? They are not even experienced!"

The Protector Chapter 455

“We shouldn’t have left. We would’ve executed the direction of those films much better. Our wealth and reputation would’ve increased as well. Let’s go back and get those guys to plan something for us,” Yvonne said coldly.

She had a feeling Helena and Maurice were popular only because the movie itself was good.

The next morning.

“Ms. Lopez, Niall Xander’s and Yvonne Wren’s managers want to meet you!” Gerry Wade approached her and said.

“Alright. Let them in!”

A posse of people showed up in the office in no time.

“Ms. Lopez, we were foolish. We’ve made a mistake. Please forgive us!” The manager, Winnie, said.

Zoey smiled. “It’s alright. You all just wanted to go to a better company. They really are stronger than us!”

“We really made a mistake! We hope to rejoin your company now. After all, we were once a team, and we know each other well!” Winnie smiled.

At that moment, Levi suddenly appeared and mocked, “How shameless can you get? Didn’t you say we will regret our actions? What happened then? Are you here to get a taste of our wealth now that our movies became popular?”

Niall and the rest felt indignant, but they still needed to keep their tempers in check. After all, they were the ones asking for a favor.

Niall stared at Zoey and asked, “Ms. Lopez, can you tell us what we should do to rejoin your company?”

Zoey was about to say something when Levi interrupted her. “Rejoining Oriental Star is a piece of cake. You just need to show us how sincere you are.

How about kneeling here for six hours? It shouldn’t be that tough, right?”

“You...”

Niall was about to lose his temper before Winnie stopped him.

“Alright. We agree with that. I hope you keep your promise as well!”

“Yeah. I promise!” Levi guaranteed.

Thud!

Thud!

Niall and the rest kneeled on the ground; that pleased everyone.

After all, Niall and his gang had bullied them for the longest time.

They kneeled for six whole hours, and Niall was utterly embarrassed.

Phew!

He exhaled sharply and smiled coldly. “Alright, we’ve kneeled for six hours already. I hope you keep your end of the promise!”

“What promise?” Zoey asked.

“Didn’t you say that if we kneeled down for six hours you would let us rejoin the Oriental Star Group?” Niall almost shouted.

Zoey smiled. “Go and look for the one who promised you that!”

“The man beside you just now promised us that. Why are you eating your words right now?” Niall tried his best to suppress his anger.

“I’m so sorry. That guy isn’t even an employee from our company. Did you really just do whatever he said?” Gerry chuckled.

“Hahaha...” Everyone else laughed too.

“D-Did you trick us?” Niall and his team soon realized that they had been fooled.

“We are not responsible for that. You haven’t seen that guy before, have you?”

Niall exchanged a horrified glance with his team because they knew she made sense.

They had indeed never seen him before.

“I’ll kill you!” Niall finally lost his temper.

“Security, chase them out!”

The security guards kicked Niall and his team out of the building.

Zachary hit a stump. He started to ask about what was happening in South City.

At the same time, there were some news on the dark web today.

“Stepdad, the Morris Group’s boss doesn’t have an interesting background, but he’s very sly and methodical! That was how he managed to devastate Winston Gonzales and his allies!” Fernand Yates said.

Scott stopped turning the prayer beads in his hand as he slowly opened his eyes and said coldly, “Alright. Let us begin now!”

The most prominent character in Quebec was about to make his move.

The Protector Chapter 456

“Stepdad, I’ll bring someone there!” Fernand Yates volunteered himself.

“Alright! Bring Bones, Titan, and Golem with you! The fact that they can handle the Black and White Guards signifies that they are pretty powerful!” Scott Yates ordered.

His Four Mighty Generals were individually stronger than the Black and White Guards, so the fact that Scott dispatched three of them was a testament to his resolve.

Fernand hesitated for a while before saying, “Stepdad...”

“Bringing Typhoon along is out of the question! He’s way too intent on killing! It took a lot of effort over the past few decades trying to tame him, so we can’t afford to let him massacre everyone in North Hampton!” Scott said.

The Four Mighty Generals under Scott all had their own individual strengths.

Bones was ruthless and apathetic. During a underground boxing battle where he had to face a few hundred opponents at once, he pulled someone’s ribs out and used it as a weapon to kill everyone.

Titan was exceptionally skilled in wrestling ever since he was young.

Golem was like a beast because his body was as tough as steel. Normal weapons couldn’t dent him.

However, the strongest of them all was Typhoon.

He had been raised by an assassin's organization ever since he was young.

The organization adopted one hundred orphans and made them fight and kill each other after a few years of training. Only the final child left standing had the right to enter the organization.

Typhoon was the one who had killed all of his comrades and made it out alive.

His murderous intent was overwhelming, and at least seven hundred people have been killed by him.

Once his bloodlust was triggered, he couldn't be stopped.

Scott was once captured during a war in Quebec's underground scene, and Typhoon had killed a few thousand people just to rescue him.

He derived pleasure from murder, and he was quite literally the harbinger of death.

That was why Scott wouldn't request his service unless it was necessary because Typhoon would cause a whole flurry of catastrophes.

"Besides, the three of them will be enough to handle the Morris Group! I can't take responsibility for the consequences that might arise if we use Typhoon this time!" Scott sighed.

Fernand was incredulous. "What? Stepdad, why do you have something you can't responsibility for? How is that possible?"

"Have you forgotten who's in North Hampton right now?" Scott asked.

Fernand's expression changed as he said in horror, "Are you referring to the God of War?"

“Yes. He will definitely turn a blind eye to the melee in North Hampton, but if Typhoon went there and stirred up trouble, he might step out personally to deal with it...”

Scott was afraid of the God of War.

“Wow, stepdad, you really are prudent. I never thought of that! I’ll go to North Hampton now in that case!”

“Go and take care of that issue quickly. Keep a low profile. If things spiral out of control, I won’t be able to help you anymore,” Scott reminded him.

When Fernand took his leave, a casually dressed, average-looking man appeared.

He was the Harbinger of Death, Typhoon.

He said, “I heard the God of War has a team called the Five Great Wars Regiment, and they are all exceptional. I want to challenge them...”

“Hahaha. Typhoon, what are you saying? We can’t possibly offend them! Regardless of how strong we are, we are still mortals, and they are gods! They can kill us with just a snap of their fingers!”

When Sebastian found out about Fernand’s plans, he headed to North Hampton with Fernand.

“Three Mighty Generals are here! I thought Mr. Yates would only send one of them with us!”

Sebastian was excited when he saw that Bones and the other two mighty generals were embarking on the same mission.

He had thought only one of them was required to solve the problem; he had never expected Scott to send out three of them at once.

This is a piece of cake. Morris Group will definitely be obliterated.

“North Hampton, just you wait for the South City’s ire!”

The Protector Chapter 457

Sebastian was excited when they arrived at North Hampton.

Zachary and his friends, who had received the news of their arrival beforehand, waited for them at the highway.

“Mr. Yates, Sebastian, we are being oppressed by them ever since we came from South City! The people in North Hampton kept bullying us because we didn’t have anyone around, so it’s great now that you’re here! They can go screw themselves!” Zachary said.

Everyone started to exaggerate about what happened to them during their stay in North Hampton, and that infuriated Sebastian and Fernand.

On the surface, Fernand seemed poised and methodical, just like a sly fox. However, he was actually a ruffian!

He had committed a lot of crimes and was cocky and arrogant.

He just never showed that side of himself because Scott loomed over him at all times.

Now that he came to North Hampton and no one was here to control him anymore, he wanted to unleash his wild side.

“Hmph! Underestimating the South City? They’re digging their own graves!” Fernand exclaimed furiously.

“Mr. Yates, what should we do next?” Sebastian asked.

“Didn’t the Rogers family publicly support the Morris Group? We’ll go to the Rogers family’s residences in that case!”

A menacing glint flashed in Fernand’s eyes.

Meanwhile, in the Rogers family’s house.

The Rogers family was having dinner together.

The Rogers family’s wealth had boomed lately; their assets had already exceeded a hundred billion in value.

Even though they were just taking care of the money on behalf of Levi, they were still overjoyed by it.

Bang!

A loud bang could suddenly be heard as the dining room’s door was kicked open.

A large horde of men barged inside with menacing expressions on their faces.

Glenn Rogers recognized a few of them. Sebastian and Simon among the others.

However, Sebastian wasn’t the main character today.

They stood aside as a young man stepped forward.

The young man looked docile and polite, yet the three people standing behind him were terrifying.

Golem was two meters tall; he towered over everyone and everything.

Moreover, Bones was emaciated to the point where his bones could be seen. His face was deathly pale.

Titan's bald head was shiny, and he had a murderous expression on his face.

The three of them had an oppressing aura, and the atmosphere was suddenly suffocating to everyone.

Glenn knew Sebastian would never forgive him. That prospect seemed even more unlikely now.

"Glenn Rogers, let me introduce them to you. This is the stepson of Scott Yates from the South City, Fernand Yates!" Sebastian grinned.

"Scott Yates?" Glenn gaped in shock.

Isn't that the person rumored to oppress the entire Quebec area?

Scott Yates!

The most powerful figure in Quebec!

Even people as powerful as Sebastian need to show that man respect.

"Hm? Didn't you say he's retired for thirty years already?" Glenn asked.

Fernand smiled. "Thanks to the Morris Group, my stepfather came out of his retirement."

"What? He came out of his retirement?" Glenn was so shocked he almost shrieked.

"Yeah! My stepfather said the Morris Group should be exterminated!"

Fernand then approached the dining table, sat down and smiled, "It looks delicious! Make me an extra portion!"

He was being cocky and rude.

One of the younger people from the Rogers family snorted. "Get up! Who do you think you are? How dare you come to the Rogers family's territory and make a scene! Are you looking for trouble?"

The Rogers family have been doing very well lately, and they were a powerful presence in North Hampton.

That was why they looked down on everyone, especially people who taunted them.

Glenn was about to warn him, but it was already too late.

Of course he doesn't know who Scott Yates is!

Fernand didn't speak. Instead, he just glared at Franklin Rogers.

"What are you staring at? Are you gonna beat me up?" Franklin shouted angrily.

Bang!

In the next moment, Titan suddenly swung a punch at Franklin's head.

The Protector Chapter 458

Poof!

Franklin was sent flying, and when he landed on the floor, blood flowed out of all of his orifices.

He was undoubtedly, dead!

One punch from Titan was enough to make someone bleed profusely.

Suddenly, the room was as silent as the dead.

“Who are you? How dare you kill my son! Bds!” Franklin’s father, Alexander was furious. Something like this shouldn’t happen in the Rogers family’s territory!

Alexander and his wife, Snow Wahlberg, pounced at them.

Thud!

Golem landed a kick on Alexander’s head, causing everyone to be dumbstruck.

On the other hand, Bones swung a punch as fast as lightning and felled Snow.

At that moment, the Rogers family was petrified, and they didn’t dare say anything anymore.

Zachary and his friends, who had come along with Fernand, were mortified by the gory scene as well.

They tried to stop themselves from puking when they saw that, and they finally understood how Scott Yates could rule over Quebec.

They are absolutely merciless!

Snow squirmed on the floor in pain, her shrieks lasting for a few minutes.

“They are Mr. Yate’s Three Mighty Generals – Bones, Titan, and Golem. Don’t move!” Glenn soon recognized who they were, and he started to perspire out of horror.

“Happy now?” Fernand smiled and asked.

The room immediately fell silent. No one dared to speak or doubt their power because they were the kind of people who killed without hesitation.

Crossing them would only mean certain death.

“Where’s my cutlery?” Fernand asked.

“Go and get it!” Glenn instructed.

In no time, the cutlery was prepared.

Everyone stood and watched. They trembled while Fernand ate.

“Come, eat! What are you doing?” Fernand smirked.

Glenn forced a smile. “We already ate. We won’t be joining you. Mr. Yates, please enjoy your meal!”

Fernand looked up and scanned through the people present in the room, his gaze lingering on the women.

“Eating alone is so boring. Come and eat with me!” Fernand stared at the women in the Rogers family and said.

Sebastian and Simon knew Fernand was a pervert and that his tastes were very varied.

He fancied all types of women, from ten-year-old girls to forty-year-old ladies.

The women in the Rogers family were quite attractive, so they suited Fernand’s taste.

“Hm? Mr. Yates, do you want us to accompany you?” Glenn’s voice wavered.

Fernand’s expression changed abruptly. “Get lost! Do I look like I need a man to eat with me? Are you playing dumb or are you actually dumb?”

The Rogers family exchanged glances of apprehension because Fernand made it very clear what he wanted.

He doesn’t want a man, so that means he wants women, right?

The Rogers family’s women trembled out of fear.

They realized Fernand probably didn’t just want them to eat with him!

He wanted to sleep with them as well!

Anthony immediately said, “Mr. Yates, you like pretty ladies, don’t you? I’ll arrange a few for you. You can have anyone you want, from celebrities to models! North Hampton is famous for its ladies!”

Leo added, “Yeah. We can get any woman you fancy for you!”

The Protector Chapter 459

Fernand glared at both of them. "I don't want any other woman because the women I want are right here. You... you, you, you, and you..."

Fernand pointed at seven or eight women present in the room.

Anthony's and Leo's wives, as well as their cousins' wives, were included in Fernand's list.

Besides that, the wives of the younger people in the Rogers family were included as well.

"No! We can't do this! Mr. Yates, please find someone else! They are ordinary ladies!" Anthony's cousin, Silas Rogers, said.

Smack!

Zachary slapped Silas forcefully.

"How fing shameless can you get! Mr. Yates wants those ladies! How dare you talk back to him!" Zachary shouted.

Silas rubbed his face and said pitifully, "But that is my wife! No, means no!"

Rumble...

Golem, who was as tall as a large boulder, approached him and picked him up.

Wham!

He then slammed Silas forcefully on the floor.

Crack!

The cracking sound signified that Silas' waist had been broken.

"Ahhhh..."

Everyone felt numb when they heard Silas' screams, and they could feel their blood run cold.

"Hm? Keep talking!" Zachary laughed.

"What are you doing? Go to Mr. Yates!" Zachary commanded.

Silas' wife and the other ladies approached Fernand.

"Ahhh!"

Fernand pulled two women into his arms, and they screamed while the other women surrounded them.

Fernand groped and kissed them from time to time.

"What are you two doing?"

Zachary stared at Anthony's and Leo's wives, Fiona and Marybelle.

He then stepped forwards and forcibly pulled them towards Fernand.

Fiona and Marybelle urgently shot Anthony and Leo looks of desperation.

"No!"

“Yeah! Not in your wildest dreams! How can our wives be humiliated like this?”

The brothers Anthony and Leo protested vigorously and they were about to pounce on Fernand.

However, Bones and Titan approached them as well.

Anthony and Leo felt their chests constrict because they could feel a menacing aura.

“No, no!” Glenn immediately stopped Anthony and Leo in their tracks because he didn’t want his sons to die.

“Anthony... Leo...” Fiona and Marybelle cried out helplessly.

They were then trapped in Fernand’s arms and molested.

The men in the Rogers family watched as their wives, daughters, and sisters get violated, yet they couldn’t do anything even though they were furious.

They could only stare as the scene unfolded.

This is so utterly humiliating!

When Anthony and Leo saw their wives getting groped in front of them, they clenched their fists so hard that their fingernails dug into their flesh and bled.

They felt so despondent that tears started to stream down their face.

“Get out! Or do you want to stay and watch the show?” Fernand chuckled.

The men in the Rogers family were so angry they almost lost their marbles because they knew what Fernand was about to do.

How could they tolerate the fact that Fernand harassed their women in their own territory?

However, they couldn't fight back because death awaited them if they did so.

They were all chased out of the dining room. The three mighty generals guarded the entrance so they couldn't get in.

Shrieks of horror were heard from the dining room.

Thud!

Anthony and Leo kneeled on the floor and exclaimed, "Revenge! We must have our revenge. Let's go and look for Mr. Garrison!"

The two brothers exchanged a glance.

The Protector Chapter 460

Glenn had that thought too. Only Levi could stand up against Scott.

He was the only hope the Rogers family had!

However, Sebastian stopped them in their tracks.

“Are you about to ask the boss of the Morris Group for help? It doesn’t matter anyway because Mr. Yates is here to deal with him too! It’ll be great if you asked him to come over!”

Glenn had a despondent expression because they didn’t even get the chance to ask for reinforcements.

An hour passed, and Fernand soon stepped out of the room with a tired expression.

In the dining room, the women’s clothes were tattered, and they huddled together and wept softly.

“Ah!”

Leo and Anthony bellowed in rage.

They wanted to kill Fernand right there and then, but they fell silent when they saw Bones, Titan, and Golem.

Pouncing on him would only mean death for them!

“From now on, we will be staying here!”

Fernand really took it too far; not only did he humiliate the Rogers family, but he now wanted to live in their house.

The Rogers family's women were horrified when they heard that because this meant they would fall victim to him again.

Glenn had a sudden realization that Fernand was forcing them to call Levi over!

If they didn't call Levi, Fernand would never leave.

"Hm? Are you not happy with Mr. Yates staying here?" Golem asked in a low voice.

The Rogers family didn't dare protest.

"It's an honor to the Rogers family that Mr. Yates is staying here!" Glenn immediately answered.

The news that Fernand Yates was staying in the Rogers family's house quickly spread across North Hampton.

Everyone in North Hampton soon knew Scott's stepson was here along with three of The Four Mighty Generals.

The Mighty Generals were way more powerful than Sebastian, so everyone in North Hampton felt terrified.

The Mighty Generals were the ones who had oppressed Quebec, and their arrival meant that the person who had retired for thirty years had come out of his retirement!

Besides that, Fernand Yates' behavior was absolutely abhorrent.

He headed straight to the Rogers family after he arrived at North Hampton, killed a few of their men, and raped their women.

He was even living in the Rogers family's house now!

Furthermore, Glenn Yates was forced to extend his warmest welcome to Fernand and satisfy his every need!

He was willing to go that low to protect the Rogers family.

Glenn knew that if they angered the three Mighty Generals, they would probably massacre the entire Rogers family.

Meanwhile, at night, Fernand was visited seven or eight times in the Rogers family's house.

He wore a bathrobe and swirled his glass of wine as he chuckled and said, "My stepfather suppressed me so much back in the day! This is how I'm supposed to be living! I think I need to extend my stay in North Hampton."

Being in North Hampton meant that he could do whatever he liked.

"These two movies are pretty popular these days. I can see them everywhere! The main actress is pretty good. I heard that she's a rookie," Fernand said in amusement.

Zachary, who stood by his side, immediately said, "Mr. Yates, I know who the main actress is. Her name is Helena Engler, and she's under the Oriental Star Group."

"Oh? You know her?" Fernand looked up and asked.

"I'll bring her to you if you're interested!" Zachary chuckled.

Fernand patted Zachary and exclaimed, "Good. You know your place. The Suarez family is blessed to have someone like you!"

"I'll bring her over right now! Um... but..." Zachary hesitated.

A hint of frustration could be seen on Fernand's face. "What's wrong? Why are you stuttering?"

"The Oriental Star Group's female president, Zoey Lopez, is a stunning beauty as well! Let me show you some pictures of her!"

Zachary wanted someone else to do the dirty work for him.

The Protector Chapter 461

Since Levi isn't that easy to sabotage, I'll let Fernand do the dirty work for me.

Fernand's eyes sparkled when he saw the pictures.

"How is she so beautiful? It's the first time I've seen someone as pretty as her!" Fernand exclaimed in surprised.

Zachary grinned. "Mr. Yates, I guarantee that she's even prettier in real life!"

"Alright! I'll leave this to you! Bring Helena and her to me!"

Lust started to overwhelm Fernand's senses.

Sebastian joined their conversation. "Mr. Yates, I'll recommend someone to you as well. The vice president of the Morris Group, Iris Annabelle, is a beauty as well! She might not be as pretty as Zoey Lopez, but I assure you that she's a looker!"

"Hahaha... I don't care if this Iris is pretty or not! I only want her just because she's the vice president of the Morris Group!" A crazed expression appeared on Fernand's face.

Zachary hesitated a little before saying awkwardly, "Mr. Yates, I can bring Helena Engler here, but I don't dare to do the same to Zoey Lopez and Iris Annabelle because something bad has happened to me before!"

"What a loser! Bones, go with him!"

Fernand waved his hands.

“Alright, I promise to bring them to you!” Zachary guaranteed as a smug smile appeared on his face.

Helena was the talk of the town lately; she had amassed a following of a few million fans.

Despite that, she still stayed humble and honed her craft every night.

Bang!

Suddenly, the door was opened, and an extremely skinny, deathly pale man appeared.

Helena trembled in fright. “W-What do you want?”

“Come with me. Someone wants to have a drink with you!”

Right as he said that he appeared in front of her, and she lost consciousness.

“Zoey Lopez and Iris Annabelle are next! They’re neighbors!” Zachary chuckled

In no time, they appeared at Bayview Garden.

Iris had just finished her bath and was reading through some finance news with a tablet.

At that moment, a gust of wind blew from the balcony, lifting the curtains.

“Didn’t I close the window...”

Iris stood up and went to close the window when a pair of emaciated, pale hands suddenly appeared from behind the curtain.

“Ah!” She shrieked in terror.

Soon after, Zachary and his colleagues appeared.

“Nice to meet you, Ms. Annabelle. Mr. Yates extends an invitation to you!” Bones said coldly.

“Who’s Mr. Yates? I don’t even know him! Besides, you’re trespassing in my property, and that’s illegal!” Iris bellowed furiously.

“I guess we have to do it the hard way!” Bones approached Iris in an instant and knocked her out cold.

“Zoey Lopez is next!” A maniacal smile rose from Zachary’s lips.

As compared to the Morris Group, his biggest enemies right now were Levi and Zoey.

Zoey needs to be captured, and Levi needs to be killed!

This is the best opportunity I have!

I’ll have Bones kill Levi for me to avenge my brother!

“Mr. Bones, things might be a little dangerous from now on,” Zachary said suddenly with a tinge of fear in his voice.

Bones was puzzled. “Dangerous?”

“You might not know this, but Zoey Lopez’s husband, Levi Garrison is someone skilled in combat! The Suarez family has suffered a huge loss because of him. I’m scared to come in contact with him!” Zachary trembled as he spoke.

“Hmph! What a piece of garbage! You can’t even handle a small fry!” Bones scoffed.

He then walked towards Levi’s house.

Zachary flashed a bright smile.

Got him!

Levi, be prepared to face your death!

He then caught up to Bones quickly.

The Protector Chapter 462

When they entered Levi's house, they realized that no one was there.

"Huh? Is she not here?"

Zachary took a look around and he couldn't spot anyone.

"Where did she go? Go and look for her!" Zachary commanded his subordinates.

Bones waved his hand and said, "No need for that. We'll send the two people back because Mr. Yates is waiting!"

"Alright. I'll bring Zoey with me once I find out where she is!"

Afterwards, Helena and Iris were sent to the Rogers family's house.

Fernand's eyes sparkled with ecstasy when he saw how pretty they were. He thought they were worth his wait.

However, he had already come because he couldn't help himself just now.

That was why he needed to wait a while longer to be able to rape the two ladies.

"Mr. Yates, should we go look for Zoey Lopez now?" Zachary asked.

Fernand replied, "Go quickly. We still have time!"

Incidentally, Levi and Zoey had gone to their parents' place tonight and returned to their house afterwards.

“Huh? Why did Iris sleep so early tonight?” Zoey exclaimed when she saw that the lights in Iris’ room were turned off.

Iris would usually keep her lights on until one or two in the morning because she was a workaholic.

“Something’s amiss!” Levi had a bad feeling because he had received news from Nueve that Fernand Yates had come to North Hampton.

Originally, he didn’t dwell on the matter. However, he sensed something was wrong with Iris, so he immediately recalled this piece of information.

“Honey, go home first. I have something I need to do!”

After Levi asked Zoey to head back, he arranged for someone to protect her.

Azure Dragon immediately drove to pick them up when they stepped out from the Bayview Garden.

“God of War, Ms. Anabelle has been abducted along with Helena Engler! Fernand Yates is in the Rogers family’s mansion right now, and he is committing all kinds of brutalities!” Azure Dragon said.

“Is he powerful?” Levi asked.

“Fernand’s father, Scott Yates, is the top figure in Quebec, and The Four Mighty Generals under his command can wipe out a whole army by themselves!”

Levi listened in amusement and instructed, “Alright. Ask White Tiger to come here. Tell him he’s about to square off against powerful opponents! The Black and White Guards were too weak for him, and he’s been complaining about that ever since!”

“Alright. Got it!”

In the Rogers family's manor.

Everyone in the Rogers family was kneeling on the ground while Fernand was patiently waiting as the three Mighty Generals stood by his side.

"Who are you? What do you want?" Helena and Iris had woken up, and they stared around in horror.

"Haha! Let me introduce myself. I am Fernand Yates from South City! I invited both of you to have a drink with me!" Fernand chuckled.

Helena was afraid, so she hid behind and Iris.

Iris, on the other hand, was poised. "I don't even know you. Why should I drink with you?"

"You know me now, don't you? Besides that, Morris Group is about to be ruined, so isn't being with me a better choice now?" Fernand grinned.

"What? The Morris Group is about to be ruined?"

Iris knew there was bad blood between South City and the Morris Group, so she immediately realized they were seeking revenge on them.

"Is this the Rogers family's manor?" Iris exclaimed in surprise when she saw the people kneeling.

How strong can this guy be to bring the entire Rogers family down?

"You're Iris Annabelle, aren't you? Let me tell you something..."

Iris was dumbstruck when Sebastian told her what had happened to the Rogers family.

This Fernand guy is terrible!

How dare he humiliate the Rogers family like this!

When Fernand saw how shy Helena was and how coy Iris was, he became excited again.

He waved his hands to chase everyone out.

“No... what are you doing?” Iris had a sudden realization as she stepped back instinctively.

The Protector Chapter 463

Thump!

Fernand threw Helena and Iris on the bed.

He was skilled in martial arts; the ladies couldn't fight back.

Helplessness flashed in the Rogers family's eyes as they watched the scene unfold.

What an impudent person!

Is he really gonna do the deed when so many people are around?

I feel so miserable for the two ladies targeted by Fernand!

Bang!

Crash!

At that moment, the manor's door collapsed, and all the windows shattered.

The loud noise startled everyone. It caused them to stop in their tracks.

Even Fernand, who was about to pounce on the ladies, stopped as he stared at the door.

Four people stood by the entrance.

Kirin and White Tiger stood beside Levi, who was smoking a cigar.

“Huh? Levi? From the Morris Group?”

“Are you Neil Atkinson?”

Zachary and Sebastian Lopez exclaimed with an expression of horror.

“Huh? What? Someone from the Morris Group?” Fernand put on his bathrobe and approached them eagerly.

At the same time, Bones, Titan, and Golem were excited as well.

“Haha, you really are digging your own grave!” Fernand chuckled.

Zachary and Sebastian were agitated as well. The people from the Morris Group finally arrived, but the only fate that awaited them was death.

We can finally avenge the Suarez family and the Lopez family!

“Levi, be prepared to die!” Zachary guffawed.

“Kill them!”

Fernand waved his hands, and the three Mighty Generals stepped forward, glaring at Levi and his posse menacingly.

White Tiger took a step forwards and beckoned them to come over by wagging his finger.

“Come at me, all at once!”

White Tiger’s smugness shocked everyone.

How dare he act so boastfully when facing Fernand and the three Mighty Generals!

“Die!”

Titan had the hottest temper out of the bunch, so he roared and pounced on White Tiger like a ferocious beast first.

He was skilled in martial arts, and he had enough strength to kill a tiger with just one punch.

Screech!

His punch made a very jarring noise.

Titan could kill someone with a punch, but White Tiger responded with a punch of his own instead of dodging it.

White Tiger’s punch seemed weak, but maniacal murderous intent and immense power were infused in it.

When the punch reached Titan, his expression changed drastically.

It’s so powerful!

Wham!

Their fists crashed into each other and made a dull noise.

Pfft!

Blood spurted out of Titan’s mouth as his right arm exploded from the impact.

Screech!

Besides that, he was sent flying by the punch. When he landed on the ground, blood gushed out from his orifices, and he died on the spot.

Killed with just one punch!

Everyone was dumbfounded.

“I’ll kill you!”

Bones was the next one who pounced on White Tiger.

He moved as fast as lightning, and one’s eyes could barely make out his silhouette from the speed he was travelling at.

Whack!

However, White Tiger was even faster. He grabbed Bones’ wrist.

Crack!

White Tiger twisted his hand gently and snapped Bones’ wrist.

“Ugh!” Bones shrieked.

Crack!

Afterwards, White Tiger shattered Bones’ arms, ankles, and legs. He left Bones lying limply on the ground like a skeleton.

Bones looked absolutely miserable.

“Die!”

In the next moment, Golem’s bulky stature loomed over White Dragon as he came crashing down.

Bang!

White Tiger gripped Golem’s head and smashed it onto the ground.

Bang!

Bang!

Bang!

After eight consecutive punches, Golem’s head was a bloody mess, and a huge dent was imprinted on it.

Thump!

Golem’s colossal body fell on the ground with a resounding Thud.

White Tiger had defeated Fernand Yate’s three out of Four Mighty Generals all by himself!

The Protector Chapter 464

After White Tiger defeated the three people, he took out a clean handkerchief and wiped his hands.

He chuckled. "The last guy was pretty sturdy. It took me eight whole punches to kill him!"

Everyone held their breaths and fell silent because this wasn't what anyone was expecting!

After all, those were the infamous killing machines from Quebec!

They were even feared by The Black and White Guards, but they had been defeated by a single man!

Sebastian finally realized he was mistaken.

He originally thought The Black and White Guards had a drawn-out battle against White Tiger, but now he realized they hadn't even stood a chance against him.

On the other hand, Zachary was so terrified he almost peed his pants.

Fernand trembled in fear as he stared at White Tiger.

"No! This is impossible!"

To Fernand, the Four Mighty Generals were the strongest fighters around; they could never be defeated.

However, they had been defeated in an instant by one man!

Fernand's assumptions were completely destroyed.

"You're Fernand Yates, aren't you? Since you came to North Hampton, stay here forever!"

White Tiger suddenly kicked Fernand's chest.

Pfft!

Fernand flew a very long distance and slammed against the wall forcefully.

A wide streak of blood formed on the wall, signifying Fernand's demise.

"Gasp!"

Everyone was driven insane when they saw the numerous cracks on the wall.

Is he even human?

This is madness!

Total madness!

White Tiger smiled, and it seemed like he was pleased by his opponents tonight.

"He has a stepfather, doesn't he? I hope he's stronger than this!" White Tiger had an expectant expression.

Everyone in the Rogers family was stunned.

He's so powerful!

Kirin stared at Sebastian and Zachary and asked, "Didn't we tell you that since you came to North Hampton, you should stay forever?"

Kirin's question was a death sentence for Sebastian and Zachary.

No one expected Scott's stepson and the three Mighty Generals to only enjoy their stay here for half a day.

They were all dead except for Bones; even he was on the verge of demise because a few dozen of his bones had been broken!

In the end, Bones couldn't make it to South City alive because he couldn't bear the pain anymore.

This was the worst defeat Scott had faced in ten years.

On the other hand, Levi brought Helena and Iris along with him.

Helena stared at Levi with an expression of gratitude because he turned her from jobless to a superstar.

Besides that, not only did he change her life, but he had also saved her today too.

Because of that, the way Helena looked at Levi was a little different now...

"How did you know I was here?" Iris asked.

This was the second time Levi had saved her, even though he didn't necessarily do the dirty work.

"Zoey saw that the lights in your room were turned off, so I thought something bad happened to you," Levi explained.

Iris said somewhat shyly, "Thank you for saving me again."

She now blushed furiously whenever she saw him.

"If you want to thank someone, thank Zoey instead!"

After that, Levi sent Helena home first. When she got out of the car, she said shyly to Levi, "Levi, I'll repay you soon for saving me today!"

Meanwhile, in the Rose Gold Manor, South City.

Scott was making some tea while Typhoon sat opposite him and remained silent.

"A monk gave me this packet of tea. I'm reluctant to drink it!" Scott grinned.

However, not only did Typhoon not talk, but his expression also remained stoic as well because nothing could ever faze him anymore.

"Master, we're in trouble! Something really bad has happened!" An uproar could be heard from outside at that moment.

Scott was displeased. "Why the hell are you making so much noise!"

On the other hand, Typhoon still sat motionless despite the uproar.

"Master, something bad has happened!" Theo, one of Scott's old butlers, exclaimed in shock.

Share

The Protector Chapter 465

He had served under Scott for fifty years, so he resembled Scott in demeanor and personality.

Theo was never this anxious before, which meant that they were in very big trouble!

Scott stood up and asked, "Theo, what happened?"

"Master, just take a look for yourself... I-I don't know how to say this..."

Theo wiped his tears away.

Scott soon realized something terrible must've happened, so he rushed out the door.

A lot of South City's powerful figures crowded in the opening in the middle of the manor.

Corpses were placed in the opening, and they were covered with white cloths.

"What happened?"

Everyone automatically made way for Scott when he arrived.

"Sir, please be strong!" The head of the Suarez family and the Lopez family said while they sobbed uncontrollably.

Scott shut his eyes helplessly when he heard that.

His body trembled, and his outstretched hands hovered around the cloth, reluctant to uncover it.

Typhoon, who stood behind him, stepped forwards and uncovered all seven corpses.

The corpses of Fernand, the three Mighty Generals, Sebastian, and Zachary were revealed.

The Suarez family and the Lopez family had already wept for quite some time, but that wasn't the case for Scott.

Thud!

Scott felt as if his head were about to explode when he saw the body of his stepson's and his subordinates.

He broke down completely at that moment.

That was the saddest day in the fifty years of his life.

He hadn't killed anyone for thirty years already, but now a pang of bloodlust struck him.

When Typhoon saw his three partners' bodies, he squinted and exuded an overwhelming menacing aura.

Everyone could feel the temperature dropping sharply, and they unwittingly shuddered.

Everyone knew something terrible was about to happen!

From this day onwards, peace will not visit Quebec again.

Even God can't save the people who did this to Scott!

Scott never expected that the three Mighty Generals, along with his beloved stepson, to die.

Scott didn't have any children, and his best friend had died to save Fernand, so Scott had always treated Fernand like his own son.

His heart ached now that Fernand was dead.

"My brother, I couldn't protect your son! It's all my fault!" Scott screamed to the heavens.

"Master, what should we do now? You need to take charge. If not, the Morris Group will rule over Quebec!"

Scott bellowed in rage, "Theo, tell this to everyone. Prepare the funerals in three days because I want to send my son and my brothers off with honor! I want everyone in Quebec to know about this funeral!"

"Understood, Master!"

"Secondly, gather all our former subordinates and reinstate them in three days! Thirdly, inform my twenty-four disciples to come to South City with all their men!"

Everyone shuddered when they heard Scott's commands.

There were thirteen cities in Quebec, and all except North Hampton were under Scott's rule.

The remaining twelve cities were ruled by Scott's former subordinates or disciples, but they had gone on their own ways since his retirement thirty years ago.

Despite that, Scott commanded them to gather within three days to head towards North Hampton and ravage the Morris Group.

No one could imagine what kind of chaos would unfold, but they knew Morris Group was doomed for sure!

The Protector Chapter 466

As soon as the news broke, everyone in Quebec went into a frenzy.

Everyone from the upper class society to the underworld were shocked!

Mr. Yates is already causing great commotion the moment he came out of retirement after thirty years.

Gathering his former troops and his disciples?

The guy must be out of his mind!

Something big happened at Quebec!

Mr. Yates had been angered!

Everyone from the underworld from all thirteen cities in Quebec gathered up their men and headed towards South City as soon as the news broke.

It was a terrifying scene to see busloads of men being sent to South City.

Not only that, but Scott's disciples also were scattered throughout the thirteen cities, and were engaged in various types of occupations.

They gathered their forces to prepare for the funeral in three days.

Someone estimated that they would be able to gather at least tens of thousands of people in three days!

Once again, everyone was shocked!

Scott Yates is the real king of Quebec!

Even after retiring for thirty years, he barely had to lift a finger to gather an army!

Everyone in Quebec was aware of his actions.

Even if South City turned a blind eye, it would be hard to deal with Mr. Yates if he is provoked.

As long as they don't cause any civil unrest, they were free to organize the funeral however they want.

At Mount Amethyst.

Scott and Typhoon sat opposite of each other.

Typhoon looked calm and collected as usual, as if he had ceased to concern himself with worldly affairs.

As for Scott, his hair turned white overnight, making him look old and aged.

"Master, people from all thirteen cities in Quebec have gathered. We have eleven thousand people thus far. Not only that, your disciples from several provinces nearby are also on their way. I estimate we will have thirteen thousand people in all," Theo reported.

Scott nodded in acknowledgement.

His gaze landed on Typhoon and said, "In the past, I've always tried to quell your bloodthirstiness because I didn't want you to be inhumane and ended up like a beast!"

Typhoon kept quiet. His bloodthirstiness had indeed toned down over the past thirty years.

“But now, someone is forcing our hand. Typhoon, it’s time to pick up your sword again. I want you to start killing! As many as possible!” Scott said viciously.

Theo, who was at the side shuddered at his tone.

This was the first time Scott had asked Typhoon to go on a killing spree.

In the past, he was worried that Typhoon would kill too many people. However, he was asking Typhoon to kill as many as he could now.

This was enough indication to show Scott’s fury.

The death of Fernand and the others had struck a nerve within him.

Typhoon lifted his eyes and said hoarsely, “I will make everyone in North Hampton join them! Boom!”

Theo was scared out of his wits that he started to break out in cold sweat.

No one could stop Typhoon if he were to go all out.

This time round, the city streets would surely be bathed in blood!

The number one mass murderer of Quebec will stop at nothing.

God knows how many people would perish by his hands this time round.

Meanwhile, Levi who was in North Hampton flashed a thin smile when he received the news. “Hah, someone dares to gather an army right under my nose? Are they trying to die?”

Azure Dragon and Kirin gave each other a look and exclaimed, “God of War, it didn’t occur to us that Scott would be so powerful. He managed to gather so many people in three days, and the numbers are still growing!”

“He certainly is Quebec’s number one. Compared to him, Jack and Liam seemed too weak! This is what a real boss looked like!” Levi smiled and said.

On the flip side, White Tiger was looking forward to it. He smiled and said, “I heard there’ll be a lot of professionals coming! I can’t wait!”

Others would think that White Tiger was out of his mind if they heard him.

The Protector Chapter 467

However, everyone who knew him well enough knew that he was a total psycho, not to mention a killing machine.

It's not like he had never faced tens of thousands of people by himself before.

At that moment, Glenn hastily rushed over.

"Mr. Garrison, this will be tricky. No matter how powerful you are, things will still be dangerous if these people unleash their madness. Tens of thousands of people coming right at us all at once, it feels scary just to think about it."

Glenn shivered at the thought.

Nonetheless, Levi said in a relaxed manner, "Glenn, prepare a coffin to be sent to the funeral."

"Huh? What do you mean, Mr. Garrison?"

Glenn was confused.

Wouldn't sending a coffin to Scott be provoking him?

"What is it? Are you questioning me?" Levi said.

"I wouldn't dare. I will arrange for it immediately!"

Cold sweat broke out on Glenn's forehead.

After Glenn left, Levi asked, "Where is the Cavalry Regiment?"

“They’re currently located at the Northwest Great Desert, sir!” Phoenix said.

“I hereby summon the Cavalry Regiment to come to North Hampton tomorrow!” Levi said coldly.

It was at that moment, Azure Dragon and Kirin knew Levi was serious about it this time.

Everyone knew that Levi’s personal army is the invincible Iron Brigade.

However, few were aware that Levi had personally built several small troops which were invincible as well.

For example, the Cavalry Regiment was formed of 18 powerful professionals.

They were the embodiment of destruction.

Once, Levi led the Cavalry Regiment to war. They annihilated twenty thousand people in one night and destroyed a small country with a mere troop of nineteen people.

These eighteen psychos were like a steel knife stabbing right into their enemy’s heart.

It was a taboo to even mention the names of these soldiers in the battlefield.

Because one will not even be aware when their entire barracks got destroyed...

“Also, tell Alfie to start moving! He must be out of shape now after having rested for so long in the South Warzone,” Levi said.

The Dragon Legion and Iron Brigade troops stationed at the South Warzone got really excited as soon as news broke.

They could finally let off steam after holding it in for two or three months!

Alfie quickly gathered everyone.

“Listen up! We have an important mission in three days! Moreover, we will be fighting alongside the God of War!” Alfie shouted.

Boom!

Upon hearing that they would be fighting alongside the supreme God of War, everyone went into a frenzy of excitement.

They were so excited that every single one of them teared up.

This is such a rare opportunity!

“Please don’t embarrass me on the battlefield. I hope we will be able to settle everything without having the God of War and his guards lift a finger!” Alfie yelled at the top of his voice.

“Can you promise me that?”

“Yes!” everyone shouted at the top of their lungs.

“Can we do it?”

“Yes, we can!”

“Let’s all do well in this mission! Show them the Dragon Legion’s wrath! We must let the God of War know we can still be at our best even when we’re out of our element!” Alfie shouted enthusiastically, so much that his voice turned hoarse.

“The Dragon Legion is invincible!”

“The Dragon Legion is invincible!”

...

The outcry of these soldiers shook the heavens and earth!

Everyone in the South Warzone were stunned!

Their ruthlessness is terrifying!

Is something going on since they have been assigned a mission?

Everyone in the South Warzone were trying to find out what was happening.

The Iron Brigade were supposed to be on break. It must be something big since they're being mobilized!

The Protector Chapter 468

Inside South Warzone's commander-in-chief's office.

The commander-in-chief, vice commanders-in-chief, and a few higher-ups each sat on their seats with their brows tightened.

"Commander-in-chief has no idea what is going on. There're no battles in Quebec or in the nearby provinces."

"Yeah. I've tried asking Alfie but he said it's top secret, and instructed personally by the God of War!"

"I wonder what the commotion is about..."

...

A few of them reported.

South Warzone's commander-in-chief, Mike Pence, sighed, "I'm just worried that the problem is within our territory. I wouldn't want the God of War to settle it for us when we're not even aware of it."

"Report, sir, I think I've figured it out!" Captain Mortimer said.

"Well, what is it?"

"Scott Yates from South City has been the talk of the town lately. He has been gathering his old troops and his disciples. I heard that he is planning to invade North Hampton!" said Mortimer.

“Oh, I got it. Scott’s godson and the Mighty Generals have stationed themselves at North Hampton. Now that I think about it, who else in North Hampton can stand against Scott aside from the God of War?” one of the vice commander-in-chief jumped in.

“Do you mean that Scott is going to fight the God of War head on?” Mike asked in surprise.

“Exactly! Scott has gathered his old troops and disciples for the sole reason of having his revenge!”

“I bet he doesn’t know that he will be facing the God of War!” someone else chimed in.

“How presumptuous! How dare he disrespect the God of War?”

“Mortimer, bring your troops to destroy Scott Yates!” The hot-tempered Mike said angrily.

“You must not do that, commander-in-chief! The Dragon Legion are already in the midst of preparation. This means that the God of War wants to deal with Scott personally. We must not overstep our boundaries!” someone else advised.

“That makes sense, but keep an eye out on the situation. Resolve the matter immediately if anything unusual occurs! First division, eighty-ninth division, and the rest of the legions should be prepared for what is to come!” Mike commanded.

“Yes, sir!”

...

There was only one day left before the funeral.

Approximately eight thousand people had gathered at Mount Amethyst, and the numbers were still growing.

Meanwhile, at the meeting hall stood a group of people.

This group of people consisted of the thirteen leaders from Scott's former troops and about ten of his disciples.

One of them was a guy wearing a gold-rimmed glasses called Garfield Perkins. Not only was he very highly regarded by Scott, but he was also the strongest among Scott's disciples, the leader of Quebec's third city, Edge City, and the leader of the underworld.

Moreover, he had been doing business for the past couple of years, increasing his net worth to tens of billions.

"Don't worry teacher. I will make them pay with their life regardless of their backgrounds or their capabilities!" Garfield said angrily.

"It's payback time!"

...

A thousand people shouted at the top of their lungs.

Upon seeing that, Scott nodded, pleased.

"Theo, relay my orders. Tell all twenty eight members of the senior management from Morris Group to attend the funeral at Mount Amethyst tomorrow. They are to act as pallbearers, carry out the burial, and kneel at the cemetery for three days and three nights to repent for their sins! Kill anyone who is absent!" Scott instructed.

News soon traveled to Morris Group.

Iris and the rest of the higher-ups were shocked, especially those who had heard the rumor that they were about to be invaded by ten thousand people.

All of a sudden, everyone in Morris Group flew into a panic.

They had gone through many life-threatening situations through years of doing business, but this was the first time someone had threatened them so arrogantly.

The Protector Chapter 469

“Focus on your work, guys. This has nothing to do with all of you,” Levi couldn’t help but said angrily.

“You’re right. Let’s all just focus on our work!”

Iris immediately felt reassured at the thought of the impressive individual who had rescued her that night.

The next day.

Mount Amethyst was decorated in black and white as rows of flower wreaths were placed by the wall.

The funeral of the century had attracted a lot of attention, where even the sky was gloomy and the atmosphere was tense.

Two man stood in front of the mourning hall.

One of them was Typhoon, looking cold and indifferent.

The other man was Scott, with his bent back and grayish-white hair that made him looked older.

Nevertheless, his eyes shone bright.

He had been in retirement for thirty years now, he was like a ferocious lion who had fallen into a deep slumber.

However, today shall be the day that said ferocious lion awakens.

A lot of people will perish as a consequence of the lion's awakening.

Inside Mount Amethyst's vast space stood South City's elites who came to pay their respect with thirteen thousand people gathered behind them.

Everyone was dressed in a black suit with a white flower pinned to their lapel, and a white headband.

It was a majestic sight.

No one else in the entire of Quebec could gather a crowd this big.

To gather thirteen thousand people in three days.

That was the power of Scott Yates.

Everyone in Quebec called him 'sir'.

Angering him was equivalent to angering the heavens.

All the powerful families in South City were afraid of him.

A lot of people thought that Scott had lost his touch during his retirement period.

Some even thought he could be replaced by Sebastian Lopez.

But now, it looked like the joke's on them.

For who could stand against the omnipotent Scott Yates now?

And who could replace him?

Scott straightened the white flower on his lapel and said, "Heh, I didn't think I'd be meeting all of you in such an occasion. I'd like to thank everyone who came to send my three brothers and my godson off! Thank you!"

Scott bowed.

Seeing their leader bow down agitated all thirteen thousand people as anger rose in their hearts.

"Sir...Sir..." everyone shouted emotionally.

"I'm supposed to be retired, but some outsiders provoked Quebec repeatedly, took over our territory and our property, and even massacred our people. They're robbing our lives!"

"Today, I, Scott Yates, hereby declare that I will strike down Morris Group with everything I have!" Scott exclaimed in a loud voice.

"Strike them down! Strike them down!"

"An eye for an eye! An eye for an eye!"

The battle cries of these people shook the heavens.

Surely this was enough to make everyone in Quebec tremble in fear!

He was too strong!

Anyone who stood in Scott Yates' way shall be eliminated!

"Sir, we have ten more minutes before the funeral starts, all that's left now is Morris Group." Theo reminded.

Scott nodded.

“Teacher, what shall we do if the people from Morris Group is absent?” Garfield asked.

A gleam flashed through Scott’s eyes as he replied, “Then we will mow Morris Group to the ground and drag the whole of North Hampton down to hell!”

“Understood, teacher. I’d be willing to join the vanguard forces!” Garfield took the initiative to volunteer.

“Excellent!” Scott was pleased. He loved this side of Garfield.

“The people from Morris Group has arrived!”

At this moment, a loud voice sounded.

Crash!

Everyone turned to look at the entrance and were dumbfounded with what they saw.

The Protector Chapter 470

What they saw were four men marching in carrying a coffin.

Clearly, they were trying to provoke Scott by attending the funeral with a coffin in tow.

Everyone felt fury pulsed through their veins!

All they wanted at that moment was to shred these four men into pieces.

Scott calmed everyone down with a wave of his hand.

They watched on in anger as the four men marched to the vast land in front.

Bang!

The coffin landed heavily on the ground.

“Greetings, Mr. Yates, I’m here to relay a message from the Master of Morris Group!” the leader of the four men said.

“Who do you think you are?” Garfield said angrily.

Since when can some nobody speak to my Godfather directly?

“Never mind, let him speak!” Scott said.

“He hopes Mr. Yates can experience this moment every year from now on!”

“Gasp!”

Silence filled the air the moment those words left his lips as everyone held their breath.

This is unbelievable!

To say something like that at a funeral is the worst curse of all!

“Godfather, I will lead a troop of people to North Hampton right this instance and dye the streets in blood! I want to tear everyone from Morris Group into pieces!”

Garfield was furious.

Scott’s former troops and his disciples were also boiling with anger.

“Tear them into pieces!”

Everyone below could not contain their anger as well. Their actions mimicked a beast who had been freed from its cage.

“Hahaha...” Scott burst into laughter instead.

Even Typhoon smiled.

And it was the rarest of sight.

The reason behind Scott’s laughter was because it was the first time he had met such an impudent fool after ruling for so many years.

I have really seen it all now!

“The younger generation these days sure is cocky!” Scott chuckled.

“Mr. Yates, this coffin is for you! He said you’ll need it sooner or later!” one of the pallbearer spoke up.

Boom!

Garfield and the rest of the guests were furious. Their fists were balled tight as their eyes filled with rage.

They couldn’t stand the incessant provocations from Morris Group anymore!

Their actions were enough to have anyone and everyone to have the urge to tear Morris Group into pieces!

“Damn it! Damn it all to hell!” Theo said through gritted teeth.

How could they be so cruel?

“Morris Group is pushing it too far! How dare they provoke us like that? They showed no respect to Sir at all!”

Garfield balled his fists tightly. He could no longer hold back his murderous intent.

Swoosh!

Someone from the crowd couldn’t hold it in anymore. He rushed forward with his sword pointed at the four pallbearers.

“I’m going to kill all of you!”

He swung his sword at them.

Bang!

However, a huge force knocked the sword out of his hand and broke it in half.

“Stand down! Let them leave!” Scott said coldly.

Typhoon was the one who had broken the sword in half with just a small stone.

It was a terrifying display of his capability.

In the end, the four pallbearers left.

Scott tried to suppress his anger as he said, “Let’s proceed with the funeral! Send my brother and my son off on their final journey!”

“Rest in peace!”

“Rest in peace”

...

Everyone emptied the glass of wine they had on hand.

Crack!

Crack!

...

After that, everyone smashed the wine glass on the floor. It was a spectacular sight to see thousands of people doing it together.

“Sir, should we lower the casket now?” Theo asked.

“No, the leader of Morris Group must be the one to carry and lower the casket!”

“Let’s head to North Hampton right this instance. I’m going to turn North Hampton into a living hell!” Scott cried out.

The Protector Chapter 471

“To war with North Hampton! To war with North Hampton! To war with North Hampton!” Over ten thousand men chanted fervidly. Every one of them filled with anger and itching to vent their fury.

Equipped with swords, they each also had a white flower pinned on their chests and a white band tied around their heads.

And they were all ready to march.

The Suarez family, the Lopez family, and all the other famous families knew that Scott was going all out this time.

However, it would not achieve anything other than Scott’s death.

Before it came to that, Scott may have flattened North Hampton and taken revenge on the Morris Group.

“Split into ten groups and head for North Hampton! Men, carry the coffins of my brothers and my sons! And don’t forget the one that he sent us. Let’s march!” Scott commanded.

Ten thousand men spread out into ten groups and marched zealously towards North Hampton.

Scott and Typhoon personally led a group. Together with Theo and Garfield, they formed the vanguard.

Five coffins followed them with another three thousand men behind.

They were all marching towards North Hampton.

The scene was a magnificent yet terrifying one. They were prepared to kill anyone who stood in their way.

It would be wise for anyone who ran into them to hide.

Even South City didn't dare stand in their way despite being aware of their plans.

Simply because this was a group of fanatics, and there was no stopping them.

Whoever that tried would have to pay a heavy price.

Furthermore, they didn't receive any communications from North Hampton. Hence, it would be unwise to take any action on their own.

The other nine groups went in vehicles, forming a large convoy towards North Hampton.

Their mission was simple. Before Scott arrived, they would need to take North Hampton.

Ideally, that would include defeating the Morris Group and presenting Scott with the head of their leader.

Everyone in Quebec was aware of Scott's massive action.

All the powerful families in South City began to hide, afraid of being dragged into the fight.

There were thirteen thousand men, and the situation was extremely chaotic.

The other cities in Quebec trembled in fear, anxious that war would spread to their territories.

No one knew how it was going to turn out.

Everyone prayed for the safety of North Hampton as it would soon become hell on earth.

This group of madmen would unleash maximum bloodshed.

Whoever that was related to the Morris Group would not escape their clutches.

By now, North Hampton had heard the news.

Nueve, Trey, and the others were terrified.

Compared to what Scott had, they were defenseless.

Scott is being ruthless!

Is he really going all out?

When Jesse heard the news, he quickly checked with Percy to see if they needed to take any countermeasures.

Yet, Percy's answer was simple. As long as that person was around, they should just do whatever was required.

Only then was Jesse's mind put at ease.

Or else they wouldn't even be able to have the meeting.

If the matter escalated, there was no way he could hide.

As Scott led his troops through the narrow roads, the three thousand men in the funeral garb scared everyone they passed by.

No one spoke the whole journey there.

Even when they traversed through the hills, the troop maintained its formation.

After all, they were Scott's elite soldiers.

"Sir, we are an hour away from North Hampton," Theo reported.

"Alright, press on!" Scott coldly commanded.

After marching some time, Typhoon noticed something immediately.

Stopping in his tracks, he scouted ahead.

There was an SUV parked not far from where they were.

A man was sitting inside.

"Scott, I have been waiting for you a long time!" the man declared with a smile.

It was Levi!

The Protector Chapter 472

Beside him stood three men – Kirin, Azure Dragon, and White Tiger.

White Tiger looked at the three thousand men in front of him in anticipation.

Seeing them, Scott waved for his troop to stop.

“Have you been waiting for me?” Scott asked.

“That’s right,” Levi replied, puffing his cigarette.

“Are you the leader of the Morris Group?”

“Of course.”

Scott was shocked to see how young Levi was.

“This is unexpected. I thought you would be a lot older,” Scott lamented.

When Levi caught a glimpse of the coffin they were carrying, he laughed. “It appears you are well aware of the current situation. You even brought your own coffin to prepare for your death.”

“Hmph, I prepared it for you!” Scott snorted.

Levi chuckled. “I’m sorry, I’m still young. Unlike you, it’s going to be a long time before I became dust.”

“You...”

Scott was no match for Levi when it came to taunting opponents.

The next moment, he changed the subject. As his eyes sparkled, he exclaimed, "Who is the one who killed my brothers and godson? Step out now!"

White Tiger acknowledged with a smile, "It's me, but you don't deserve to know my name!"

White Tiger was right.

Despite how high Scott's position was, White Tiger only cared about actual fighting strength. Therefore, Scott had no right to know who he was.

"Very well, do the four of you plan to stand against three thousands of us?" Scott sneered.

White Tiger chuckled in reply, "I'm sorry, it will only be me alone."

"How dare you!"

Boom!

Suddenly, Garfield and his ten best men charged forward in unison.

Whoosh! Whoosh! Whoosh!

Eleven swords glistened in the sun as they were thrust at White Tiger's vital organs.

Meanwhile, White Tiger calmly tore off a piece of clothing and covered his mouth.

He wanted to protect his mouth from the blood that was going to be splattered.

“Enough of your tricks!”

With a quick dash, Garfield thrust his sword towards White Tiger’s throat.

Clang!

However, White Tiger’s reflexes were as fast as lightning. He grabbed Garfield’s wrist and turned the sword in Garfield’s direction.

“Ugh!”

In a blink of an eye, the sword pierced through Garfield’s body.

He collapsed to the ground with disbelief written all over his face.

The next moment, the ten elite warriors attacked simultaneously.

But White Tiger managed to use his clothes to bind all ten blades together.

Jumping into the air, he kicked four to five of them away while finishing the rest with a single punch each.

Blood splattered everywhere.

In less than ten seconds, all ten men had fallen.

It was a spectacular sight!

Scott was impressed by what he saw.

This man is really strong!

Everyone knew the reason Garfield was the top dog at Edge City was due to his unrivaled strength. Even his ten subordinates were equally invincible.

However, no one expected them to be disposed of in mere seconds.

Scott and Theo now understood why Bones and Golem died.

They were no match for their enemy.

“No matter how strong you are, can you withstand the force of the three thousand men behind me?” Scott scowled.

Typhoon stopped him and declared, “Let me have a go at him first!”

They were shocked to see Typhoon’s expression.

He looked like a beast that had not seen any victims in a long time. Both his eyes gleamed in a terrifying manner as if he were eyeing his prey.

Boom!

Just then, Typhoon emitted a frightening burst of energy that blasted the dust and leaves around him away.

At that moment, everyone noticed the stench of blood that permeated the air.

They knew the butcher within Typhoon was back, who enjoyed killing for pleasure and sport.

Despite retiring for thirty years, his strength continued to grow.

Licking his lips, Typhoon glared at White Tiger as if he was his prey.

The Protector Chapter 473

He began to approach White Tiger slowly.

Despite his slow steps, every stride covered tens of meters in distance.

He managed to close the distance of over a hundred meters in a blink of an eye.

“My brothers-in-arms! Listen to me! Tear the other three men limb by limb!” Scott commanded.

Owoooooo...

At that moment, the howl of wolves broke the silence of the forest.

Everyone looked around in shock as they saw wolves emerge from both sides of the forest.

Their bodies were much bigger than that of ordinary wolves.

There were nine on the left and another nine on the right.

What made the sight more terrifying was that each wolf had a man riding on top. They were dressed in black with a mask covering their faces. All that could be seen were their bloodthirsty eyes.

These eighteen men had crossbows and guns slung behind their backs. In their hands, were grenades, military blades, daggers, and other types of advanced weaponry.

They formed the Cavalry Regiment of the God of War and were the nightmare of enemies on the battlefield.

Every single one of them could defeat a thousand men.

At the sight of all eighteen men, the morale of the three thousand men was sapped.

Confusion started to reign among them as they looked towards their sides.

Since when do men ride on wolves? We have never heard of it before.

“What are you panicking for? Attack!” Scott bellowed.

“Remember, kill everyone who stands in your way!”

Scott’s encouragement managed to set alight the flames of his men’s fighting spirit.

With three thousand men, there’s no need for them to be afraid.

Could this eighteen men really stop them?

Owoooooo...

At that moment, all the wolves let out a long howl before commencing their attack.

Boom! Boom! Boom!

As all eighteen wolves charged down the hills, the ground rumbled with a thunderous roar.

Smashing into the three thousand troops, the wolves easily mowed down many of them, throwing the troops into disarray.

“Argh!” Cries of agony were heard throughout.

Meanwhile, the other nine groups of Scott’s men were fast approaching North Hampton.

Screech!

Suddenly, the lead car jammed its brakes and caused the whole convoy to stop.

There was a group of men standing right in front, they were all dressed in the same uniform.

They wore military green tank tops, similarly colored pants, and black battle boots.

However, they were all unarmed and were obviously the Dragon Legion under Alfie’s command.

They, too, were split into nine battalions to stop the enemy.

Alfie’s orders to them were simple – it was to complete the mission with their bare hands.

It caused the beast-like group to cheer fervently as they had not battled in months.

Despite seeing Alfie’s troops, Scott’s men were not deterred.

“How dare they block our way unarmed. Brother-in-arms, let’s kill them all!”

As Scott’s men drew their swords, they marched towards Alfie and his troops.

From their perspective, it didn't matter how well Alfie's men could fight. Bare fists could never beat cold steel.

Today, they were about to be chopped into minced meat. It would be the same for all the other eight groups.

As all of Alfie's men attacked, both sides quickly clashed.

Soon, cries of anguish filled the air.

Meanwhile, Typhoon had reached within five meters of White Tiger.

Boom!

Suddenly, Typhoon picked up speed and charged forward, generating a blast of air behind him.

The leaves on the ground were blown back while two deep-set footprints could be seen where he just stood.

Swoosh!

Coming out of nowhere, a black and gold dagger emerged in his hands.

Boom!

The moment the dagger appeared, it set off a strong gale. The wind would sting anyone it came into contact with, as it could cut like a blade.

Typhoon's form was perfect in terms of its angle, power, and speed when he thrust his dagger forward.

He resolutely wanted his strike to draw blood.

The Protector Chapter 474

Meanwhile, White Tiger's blood boiled with excitement when he saw how fearsome his enemy's attack was.

He didn't expect the underworld to have someone so powerful left.

The attack came in a flash.

White Tiger bent backward so much that he almost touched the ground. With that, he was able to avoid the strike.

Swoosh!

Crack!

Typhoon's knife missed and pierced the tree trunk behind him that was as thick as a man's waist.

Suddenly, the tree cracked from the top to the bottom before exploding into smithereens, sending pieces of tree bark flying everywhere.

It was an extremely terrifying sight!

No wonder he was known as the greatest warrior in Quebec!

However, White Tiger only responded with a smile. "That's pretty impressive. Now it's my turn!"

With that, he lunged forward with a single punch.

At the same moment, Typhoon countered with his dagger.

Crack!

Somehow, White Tiger caught the dagger between his fingers and smashed his fist into Typhoon's body.

Boom!

Upon impact, Typhoon was sent flying backward and crashed into a large tree.

Before he could pick himself up, White Tiger was upon him.

Bang!

He smashed another punch into Typhoon's face.

Ooof!

Blood started to ooze out of Typhoon's mouth.

He tried to counter but was held down by White Tiger, who gave him no room to maneuver.

Bang!

With Typhoon pinned, White Tiger pounded his fists repeatedly, just like a piledriver.

After more than twenty consecutive punches, Typhoon was covered in blood and no longer breathing.

It was a gruesome sight.

Scott and Theo's eyes widened so wide as if they could pop out anytime.

Was the gap in strength so big that Typhoon had no chance to defend himself?

Typhoon was the best warrior in Quebec. What sort of madness is this?

It simply didn't make any sense!

They were now aware of why the Morris Group acted with such impudence.

With so many formidable characters among them, they definitely deserved to behave that way.

If only Scott had as many powerful subordinates as possible under his command, all the surrounding territories would be his. He wouldn't just be ruling over Quebec.

When they turned to check on the battle behind them, Scott and Theo gaped.

They had expected an easy victory given the overwhelming odds of three thousand men against eighteen.

However, they were not prepared for what they saw. The ground was strewn with their men.

The three thousand men were slaughtered into disarray by the eighteen wolf riders, who were unstoppable.

All their men were fleeing, as no one had any courage left to fight.

The Cavalry Regiment's attack was so devastating that it felt like the Gods were punishing man.

No ordinary man was able to withstand God's judgment.

The Cavalry Regiment was the equivalent of nuclear weapons on the battlefield.

Against such a weak enemy, they seemed to be in excessive use of power.

Three thousand men were simply too few to provide a challenge. Thirty thousand men would have stood a better chance.

Back to the other nine groups.

When Scott's subordinates clashed with Alfie's men, they realized they had misjudged the enemy.

These people are mad! They're too strong for us!

In their twenty years of fighting, they had never met such a formidable foe.

In a blink of an eye, the formations of the other nine groups were broken up. All of Scott's subordinates collapsed on the ground while grimacing in pain.

All it took was two minutes to finish them off.

Thirteen thousand men were routed in a very short duration.

No one had expected such an outcome.

In their eyes, Scott was invincible. However, in the face of true strength, they couldn't even last more than three minutes.

At that moment, Scott was dumbfounded when he realized Typhoon was dead and all three thousand of his elite troops had been routed.

What else did he have left? Nothing at all.

“Sir, the other nine groups have reported that they have been defeated! We’re finished. Everything is lost!” Even Theo was almost in tears.

The Protector Chapter 475

Scott closed his eyes in despair.

It's all gone!

They had not expected such a swift ending.

The coffin they carried was indeed meant for him.

"Your biggest mistake was to attack North Hampton, or else you would still be able to live."

Scott was jolted when he heard Levi's voice.

Opening his eyes, he asked Levi, "Before I die, can you tell me your identity?"

Suddenly, Theo interrupted with a trembling voice, "Sir... I know who they are!"

"What?" Scott asked.

"It's North Hampton! Who can't we afford to offend in North Hampton?" Theo reminded.

When Scott saw the wolf riders, he exclaimed, "Are those the infamous Cavalry Regiment? Does that mean he's... the God of War!"

Scott caught his breath as he mentioned the name of the supreme warrior.

He had not expected it at all.

It was no wonder that the head of the Morris Group was a mystery, and no information could be found about him.

The only rumor they heard was that no one knew where he was from.

It didn't matter, since he was the legend himself.

Instantly, Scott was filled with regret.

He despised the fact that Sebastian had provoked him to lead his army out.

Finally, the incident that had caused so much panic dissipated just like that, and no one was the wiser.

There were many rumors that perceived the incident as a fabrication. Scott had never gathered ten thousand men in the first place.

No such thing ever happened.

Nevertheless, one rumor was absolutely true. Scott had disappeared.

Overnight, Quebec's underworld was wiped out.

Something that couldn't be done over more than ten years was accomplished within one night.

The masses were cheering in joy.

After all, Scott and his men were like parasites, and they had continuously terrorized the populace.

When Levi had men investigate Scott's assets, it came up to over a hundred billion.

He ordered all the money to be used for charity. Whoever dared to abuse it, he would personally hold them accountable.

With that, the populace cheered the decision.

Such a popular decision would certainly increase the cohesion within the city's residents.

Now, the Morris Group's objective was to continue developing North Hampton and spend the funds for the benefit of the populace.

Meanwhile, Jesse asked Levi if he was interested to go to South City and develop Quebec.

However, Levi rejected him for the time being as he still wanted to stay by Zoey's side.

He had told his wife that he wished to give her the future she wanted.

Therefore, he would only move to South City if that were what Zoey longed for.

After the battle, South City and all the other cities' family-run industries operated in peace.

Everyone was aware that North Hampton was untouchable, and therefore no one dared to attack it.

If they did go there, it would be to develop North Hampton first while profits were secondary.

Hence, the development of North Hampton accelerated very quickly.

One day, Azure Dragon went to see Levi.

“Do you still remember Scott’s hundred billion worth in assets?” Azure Dragon asked.

“I do. What about it? Did someone abuse the funds?” Levi frowned as he asked.

Azure Dragon shook his head, “It’s actually worse. Someone discreetly acquired the company’s assets. The eighty billion that was meant to be invested in public charities are all gone!”

“What? How did that happen? Did someone secretly siphon the money out?” Levi exclaimed in shock.

How could the funds I had specifically earmarked encounter such a problem?

“Have you investigated it thoroughly?” Levi inquired.

“More or less. The one responsible is the largest company in Quebec, the Triple Group from Keerea. They acquired the company and accessed the eighty billion!” Azure Dragon explained.

The Protector Chapter 476

“How dare they do something like that right under my nose? Are they looking for trouble?” Levi fumed.

Levi realized that these foreigners were accorded many special benefits in Erudia.

Meanwhile, his own countrymen didn't get any special privileges.

“It's not going to be easy. The Triple Group contributes a significant portion of Quebec's GDP and creates a lot of job opportunities. Therefore, they are allowed to act with impunity as the local government turns a blind eye to their actions. In fact, the government is going to introduce many policies that favor their business.” Azure Dragon explained.

“What does South City have to say about it?” Levi inquired.

“South City is not keen on pursuing the matter and has agreed with their actions. They said that the Triple Group has promised to increase their contributions towards public welfare and charity.” Azure Dragon sighed.

Bang!

Suddenly, Levi slammed the table forcefully.

“This is unacceptable! How can the great Erudia be manipulated by a foreign company? Why do we allow them to dictate what we do?” Levi thundered.

Azure Dragon was caught by surprise at how angry Levi was.

“Tell South City to deal with this immediately!” Levi barked.

“Alright, I understand.”

Levi was aware that Scott’s assets were very valuable, and many parties had their eye on it ever since Scott’s demise.

The Suarez family and the Lopez family knew the truth about what happened, so they stayed away.

However, the Triple Group didn’t and did whatever they wanted due to their powerful position as a foreign company.

They used about a billion to acquire an asset worth a hundred billion.

That came up to a profit of eighty billion!

Perhaps South City could tolerate the issue, but it was unacceptable to Levi.

The funds were supposed to be used for good; hence, whoever dared touch it would feel his wrath.

With that, Azure Dragon was sent to South City to deal with the problem.

Meanwhile, Levi arrived at Oriental Star Group to meet with Zoey and was told that Zoey was in the midst of discussing a collaboration.

Outside the meeting room, Gerry related to Levi in delight, “Mr. Garrison, the stars, which we have groomed – Helena and Maurice, are now wildly popular. The Triple Group invites us to form a collaboration today. They want Helena to be their product spokesperson, and I heard her fee would go up to a billion! Also, this is only the beginning. There are plans for a series of projects later on.”

The more Gerry shared, the more excited he became.

When Levi heard that the Triple Group was involved, he frowned.

“Did you mean the Triple Group from South City?” He asked.

“That’s right!”

After a short while, the negotiations for the partnership were complete.

The groundwork for the collaboration had been laid. What came next was the discussion on price and the signing of the contract.

Zoey was all smiles.

Ever since their two blockbuster movies, the number of companies who wanted Helena to be their spokesperson or attend their commercial events increased significantly.

Even the contract with the Triple Group was worth more than a hundred million.

The Oriental group had opened the door for them to make it big in the entertainment industry.

Helena and the other stars’ value jumped many-fold.

“Ms. Lopez, If there aren’t any unforeseen issues, we will sign the contract tomorrow. I have run this through our big boss, and he has agreed to all your conditions.” Horace confirmed with a smile.

Horace from Triple Group was responsible for the negotiations.

“Alright, no problem!” Zoey nodded in agreement.

When she returned to her office, Levi asked, “Are they signing a spokeswoman to showcase their electronic products?”

Everyone knew that the Triple Group's electronic products were top-notch.

Zoey shook her head. "No, the electronic products will come later. They are signing Helena now for a charity event."

"What? A charity event?" Levi furrowed his eyebrows and could feel something wasn't right.

The Protector Chapter 477

“That’s right. The Triple Group plans to organize a charity event in South City. They have invited many celebrities and prominent figures to the event. In fact, if Helena participates in it, she will receive a handsome appearance fee.”

“The Triple Group is being very generous this time. I hear that they will be donating ten billion to charity, and it’s an impressive amount of money. It’s rare to find companies that do good now.” Zoey couldn’t help but sigh.

“It’s all a sham! How shameless can they be!” Levi fumed as soon as he understood what was going on.

Zoey was shocked at his reaction.

The Triple Group was devious. They took away eight hundred billion initially earmarked for charity and only used about ten billion from it to placate South City by organizing a charity event.

What was even more infuriating was the fact that they organized it under the Triple Group’s name and invited A-list celebrities to further bolster their reputation.

They were just promoting the Triple Group’s brand under the pretext of charity.

The benefits they stood to gain were worth more than ten billion.

It was simply despicable.

“Honey, don’t sign the contract tomorrow!” Levi demanded.

Zoey was puzzled. "Huh? Why?"

"Honey, do you know why Triple Group wants to donate to charity?" Levi asked.

"To elevate their image in society as a caring organization?" Zoey replied.

"No! The Triple Group needs to fulfill the requirement that South City has set for them. Before this, they had gained access to a hundred billion worth of charity funds..." Levi related the whole incident to Zoey.

"Why don't you get it back instead?" Zoey questioned.

Levi smiled wryly. "Firstly, the Triple Group acted swiftly. Even though the funds were earmarked for public welfare, they managed to acquire the company discreetly. Secondly, South City turns a blind eye to their actions as long as they continue expanding there."

"They're really despicable. These bloodsuckers pretend to be a company that cares despite having stolen the hard-earned money from the poor. It's just a charade, damn them!"

"In that case, I won't sign the contract. I don't want their dirty money!" Zoey raged.

Although she usually tolerated common business practices, this was something too big for her to ignore. Therefore, she was firm in her decision.

"Mm, that's my wife for you!" Levi complimented Zoey with a thumbs-up.

On his way out of the company, Levi bumped into Helena and the others.

They were polite with Levi as they acknowledged him as their benefactor.

Without him, they would still be making two to three thousand a month and living in a dark basement.

They would definitely not have the opportunity to live a life that allowed them to sign a contract worth tens of millions.

However, Maurice's attitude seemed to have changed. He reminded Levi, "Mr. Garrison, now that the four of us are famous, I hope that you won't share with others the fact that we used to work in sales. To us, that was a shameful part of our lives."

Meanwhile, Helena tried to push him away, but Maurice was adamant. He added, "We will definitely give you an incentive fee. Why don't you tell us how much you want, and I'll get someone to pay you? After that, we will pretend that we don't know one another. If you let our secret out, I will definitely make you pay!"

It was common knowledge in the company that Maurice was full of himself ever since he became successful. He did not respect anyone else anymore.

"Incentive fee? Fine, give me ten billion then!" Levi replied.

The Protector Chapter 478

Everyone was stunned to hear Levi's demands.

Maurice looked at Levi in disbelief. "You're really greedy! I'm warning you not to go overboard!"

Levi ignored him and left.

"Why is he like that?" Maurice fumed.

Helena admonished him, "Maurice, how can you speak to him so rudely? Mr. Garrison is our benefactor!"

"Hmph, I admit we do owe him. But the reason I'm popular now is because of my own efforts and acting skills. He probably contributed about ten percent of our success. That's why I wanted to give him some money to repay his kindness. Instead, he wanted to take advantage of me!" Maurice sneered.

Helena glared at him before she left, fuming.

In life, there were many people who became famous or rich overnight.

It was hard to stay grounded as most people couldn't help but let success get to their heads.

After Maurice became famous overnight, his attitude changed significantly.

He didn't care for his old friends and broke up with his girlfriend of seven years.

In the office, he would always put on airs. Other than Zoey, he would not treat anyone else with respect.

To the extent that he accepted private jobs for additional income.

Rumor had it that his personal life was also in a mess.

Zoey was now aware of his behavior.

“Are you not going to do something about him?” Levi asked.

“Given that the two movies are doing very well. We can only turn a blind eye for now,” Zoey replied with a helpless expression.

Suddenly, her tone changed. “However, he has gone overboard. He and Helena were supposed to be paid a few hundred thousand for acting in the films. But, when he saw how popular the movie became, he demanded a bonus of at least ten million. Or a salary of at least twenty million for his next film.”

“To be honest, he really is very popular and well worth the money. By the way, what about Helena?” Levi asked.

Zoey responded with a smile. “Helena and the rest are really grateful and have left all the decisions to the company. Their attitude hasn’t changed much despite their success.”

“That’s very good!” Levi laughed.

The next day, Triple Group’s representative, Horace, came to continue the negotiations.

Maurice and Helena were also present.

Being the spokesperson, Maurice was feeling excited. Once the contract was signed, he would receive over ten million as spokesperson fees.

He had planned to buy a mansion and luxury car with the money.

Everyone waited in the meeting room until Zoey arrived.

“Ms. Lopez, if you don’t have any issues, please sign the contract,” Horace suggested with a smile.

Smiling back at him knowingly, Zoey replied, “I’m sorry Mr. Waller, I won’t be signing it today.”

What!

Zoey’s decision was as shocking as being struck by lightning. Everyone in the room was stunned as they looked at her in disbelief.

Didn’t everything go well yesterday?

The Triple Group is being very generous with a hundred million worth of spokesperson fees.

Why did she change her mind?

Before Gerry and the others could respond, Maurice couldn’t sit still anymore.

“Ms. Lopez, why? Where else can we find a collaboration like that? Of all the recent offers we received from other companies, the Triple Group has given us the best terms.” Maurice stared at Zoey in disbelief.

Levi, who was sitting beside, sneered, “The management has decided not to sign it. Are you doubting the management’s decision?”

“You... I...”

Maurice was dumbfounded at Levi’s challenge.

No matter how arrogant he got, he realized that he was still dependent on Zoey.

“Why don’t you keep quiet as Ms. Lopez has her reasons!” Helena and her colleagues held Maurice back.

The Protector Chapter 479

Maurice was now becoming increasingly arrogant. During the management meeting, he insisted on interrupting.

He was upset but forced himself to suppress his anger.

Meanwhile, Gerry questioned, "Ms. Lopez, what happened? We didn't hold a meeting to discuss this, so why are we rejecting the contract now?"

All the other members of management were puzzled.

Horace too inquired with a smile, "Ms. Lopez, may I know what the problem is? Weren't we clearly on the same page yesterday? Why are you going back on your word today?"

Just then, Maurice couldn't help but interrupt, "That's right. Ms. Lopez, your decision shows that you are untrustworthy. You can't let your personal agenda affect how you run the company. As actors, credibility is important to us too. Even if you are the boss, you can't diss us like that!"

"Know your place!" Zoey bellowed suddenly, shocking everyone present.

"The company management is having a meeting. Since when do you have the right to speak? You are becoming increasingly presumptuous!" Zoey snarled as she couldn't tolerate Maurice's behavior anymore.

Meanwhile, Levi was secretly gloating.

Despite his wife's gentle demeanor, she would snap back when cornered.

“I’m sorry, Ms. Lopez.” Maurice apologized and hung his head in silence.

He was utterly embarrassed after being admonished by Zoey in front of everyone.

As it was the most humiliating moment of his life, all he felt was anger.

Clenching both his fists tightly, he promised himself, “Zoey and Levi, just you wait. I’ll have my revenge!”

Zoey explained to Horace, “Mr. Waller, I did some research last night and realized that your company is not being honest. The charity gala you are organizing is a sham!”

Hearing that, Horace’s expression darkened.

Does Zoey know the truth?

“Therefore, I won’t participate in an event that goes against my conscience. I also won’t allow my employees to do the same too. Hence, I won’t sign the contract because I’m worried such a despicable matter would negatively impact Oriental’s reputation!” Zoey scoffed.

Horace sniggered, “Very well, it’s just a bunch of celebrities. It’s a joke that you think I can’t find them elsewhere. Next time, don’t expect to ever work with the Triple Group again!”

Fuming, Horace prepared to leave.

“I would like to give your company some advice. If you keep taking advantage of other people, karma will come for you! Especially when it involves a hundred billion. Do you know how many people that hard-earned money belongs to?” Zoey warned.

“You...”

Further infuriated, Horace slammed the door as he left.

Meanwhile, there was silence in the meeting room.

Everyone looked at Zoey with a puzzled expression.

“Alright, all those who are the management, please stay back. The rest, you are dismissed.” Zoey instructed.

She wanted to explain to the rest of the management the reason she didn’t sign the contract.

Since it involved the secrets of the Triple Group, she didn’t want too many people to know as it might put their lives in danger.

Maurice then left with dissatisfaction written all over his face.

Once outside, Helena asked in a low voice, “What do you think the reason was for Ms. Lopez to reject the contract?”

“I’m sure she has her reasons. I think it’s a good idea we didn’t sign it,” someone remarked.

“Haha, I know the reason why Zoey doesn’t want to sign the contract!” Maurice exclaimed.

“What is it then?” Everyone looked at him curiously.

“It’s because I offended her husband! She wants to make things difficult for me on purpose. Didn’t you see how she singled me out during the meeting? My guess is that she doesn’t want me to sign any spokesperson contracts or take any advertisements. She plans to blacklist me instead!” Maurice declared viciously.

“Maurice, your imagination is running wild. Ms. Lopez isn’t someone like that.” Helena defended.

“Hmph! I’m sure about it. She’s definitely biased against me!”

The Protector Chapter 480

In the meeting room, the management board agreed with Zoey's decision after she explained herself.

"These bloodsuckers are despicable for using the public's money to do charity work!"

"That's right. If the Oriental Star Group is involved with them, it would be devastating for our reputation when the truth is discovered." Gerry and the other members of management were outraged.

"I'm worried that the Triple Group would seek revenge against us. In terms of both financial capability and influence, aren't we weaker compared to them?" someone asked.

"Definitely. The Triple Group's financial prowess is the strongest among all, and no one can stand in their way!"

Zoey laughed in response. "Let them take their revenge. Don't forget we still have the Morris Group supporting us."

Meanwhile, Horace didn't leave North Hampton. Instead, he went to look for a different entertainment company, given that North Hampton had the most developed entertainment industry within the region.

There were many good drama schools there that naturally led to better entertainment companies.

At night.

Horace was inside a five-star hotel.

Standing in front of him was Maurice, Helena, and other new stars from Oriental Star Group's stable.

Horace didn't want to give up on them as their new film had been a blockbuster recently.

Hence, they were too popular to be ignored.

Smoking a cigar, Horace grinned. "I'm sure all of you know why I have asked you to come."

Helena and the others felt uneasy.

However, Maurice was direct. "Do you plan to sign us as spokespersons?"

"That's right, you're a smart one!" Horace laughed.

Helena interjected, "But we can't do this, Mr. Waller. You have to go through our company first. Furthermore, Ms. Lopez has rejected you earlier in the day."

Taking a puff from his cigar, Horace beamed. "I've seen the contract you signed with Oriental. The restrictions they placed on you are rather lax."

Everyone including Helena was aware of that.

Zoey valued freedom, so she didn't impose upon them the draconian terms that would limit their options.

Their contracts allowed them to take on freelance work.

Other entertainment companies would impose rigid contracts upon their artistes to tie them down to the company.

The terms would be so draconian that the company would even determine what food they ate.

Horace continued, "Therefore, you don't have to worry about accepting freelance work. The company has no legal basis to take action against you."

With a wave of his hand, Horace's assistant brought out a set of contracts.

"You will get fifteen million each. After that, our company will sign you on as spokespersons for our electronic products. We will offer you a salary of at least eighty million annually." Horace declared.

At that moment, Maurice's eyes sparkled as he replied, "Fantastic! I'll sign it. The money isn't important as long as I can have the opportunity to work with a company as big as the Triple Group!"

"Wonderful! You do know what's good for you, I'm impressed!" Horace remarked.

Maurice signed the contract in front of Helena and the others.

Ding!

In less than ten minutes, fifteen million arrived in his account. Maurice was ecstatic.

After slogging through two movies for Oriental, all he received was five hundred thousand.

Now, he received fifteen million just for participating in a charity event.

A mansion? Luxury car? Beautiful women? He was able to buy anything he wanted now.

Everyone else looked on in envy as no one could deny the temptation of fifteen million.

“Helena, what are you still waiting for? Sign it! It’s fifteen million! You don’t have to feel bad for the company as their contract doesn’t restrict us from carrying out freelance work.” Maurice persuaded the others.

“So what if they find out? We should do whatever we want!”

The Protector Chapter 481

Helena throat moved as she gulped.

She came from a poor village and naturally wanted the money too. Fifteen million was undeniably a lot.

At that moment, she was stuck between the temptation of money and maintaining her principles.

“Mr. Waller, thank you for the kind offer, but I have to decline,” Helena rejected the contract.

“I won’t sign it too!” Helena’s other two companions followed suit.

“We’ll sign it!” Another three supporting actors couldn’t resist the temptation and agreed to accept the contract.

Before Helena and the other two left, Horace openly threatened, “Ms. Helena, despite how popular you are now, you have just limited your own options by rejecting the Triple Group’s offer. Haha...”

After Helena and the others left, Horace patted Maurice on his shoulders and smiled. “I think Zoey has something against you and wants to destroy your career.”

Then, Maurice told Horace about the incident with Levi.

“Haha, so you did offend her husband! What a joke! Besides, her husband isn’t much of a benefactor anyway. All he did was to use you as cheap labor by only offering you five hundred thousand. Do you know how much both movies made so far? Six billion!” Horace burst into laughter.

Bang! Bang! Bang!

Maurice slammed his fist on the wall repeatedly and hissed, "Damn you, Zoey! I made six billion for you, and all I got was five hundred thousand?"

"So, why don't you join me. I will guarantee that we will make you a superstar! I'm sure you are aware how powerful the Triple Group is." Horace offered.

Maurice smiled in response. "Mr. Waller, My sentiments exactly! I can no longer stay with Oriental."

"Alright, but you have to stay with them for now. When the time comes, I'll sign you over. By the way, I heard that their directors and screenwriters are very capable too. I have a job for you. Get them to join us, and I'll pay you a million for every single person you convince!" Horace smiled diabolically.

He planned to recruit the core members of the Oriental Star Group.

When he heard that he would be compensated for his efforts, Maurice readily agreed.

In fact, he volunteered, "If you are interested in Zoey, I would try my best to get her in bed with you."

At the thought of Zoey, Horace licked his lips. "That would be wonderful!"

Maurice, too, fantasized about Zoey. He smiled slyly. "By then, don't forget to share her with me. She's someone that's just irresistible. It's just that I don't dare express myself to her in the company. If she weren't the boss, I would already have taken her."

Meanwhile, Horace stood up with a grin. "Maurice, I have prepared a surprise for you. Enjoy!"

After Horace left the room, Maurice's eyes gleamed when two pretty girls entered.

They're more gorgeous than my girlfriend!

I'm not going to let that ugly country bumpkin tie me down my whole life.

With that thought in mind, Maurice pulled both women into his embrace and stepped into the tub with them.

Little did he know that the room was filled with pinhole cameras, and all his actions were captured from every imaginable angle.

The cameras did not miss a single detail.

The next day.

Maurice came into the office looking exhausted.

"Maurice, come quickly! The Union Square has an event that requires your presence." A member of the staff informed him.

"How much are they paying?" Maurice asked.

"The appearance fee is five hundred thousand. It's the highest we have received recently." The staff replied.

"Five hundred thousand? That's peanuts! I'm not going."

The Protector Chapter 482

Everyone present was shocked at Maurice's remarks.

In their eyes, Maurice was someone so ambitious to the point that he would accept work for fifty to a hundred thousand.

So why did he turn down a job worth five hundred thousand?

"Maurice, the appearance fee is five hundred thousand. Did you mishear it as fifty thousand?" The staff clarified with him.

"I didn't get it wrong. Is five hundred thousand a lot? Do they think I'm that desperate?" Raising his voice, Maurice caused the staff to tremble in fear.

"Are you aware that the two movies I acted in grossed seven billion? That means I'm worth at least tens of millions. So, are they looking down on me by just offering five hundred thousand?"

With fifteen million in hand, five hundred thousand was peanuts to Maurice now.

"Maurice, are you crazy?" The staff couldn't help but retort.

"Of course, the movies made the company a lot of money. But don't forget that you are just a newcomer. The company not only provided you the opportunity but also gave you five hundred thousand. Furthermore, they spent a lot of resources on promoting you. Isn't that fair enough?"

"Besides, you were the one that signed the contract willingly." The other members of staff added.

Maurice scoffed, “The fact is I made them seven billion, but they only gave me five hundred thousand. Why don’t we make it public and let our peers decide whether they are taking advantage of newcomers?”

“Maurice! What are you doing? Come with me now!” Helena pulled Maurice aside to somewhere private.

“Maurice, as your long-time classmate, I would advise you to stop going down this route. In life, we should have a conscience when making choices, or else we would end up with a bad reputation.” Helena cautioned him.

Meanwhile, Maurice brought out a set of car keys and swung it around his fingers. It was obvious those keys were for a Ferrari.

“I don’t think it’s such big a deal. I’m driving a luxury car and staying in a mansion now. Isn’t it wonderful? Why do I have to stay back here and suffer?” “Helena, my advice to you is to sign the contract with Mr. Waller. I remember that your parents are seriously ill and need surgery immediately. Also, your siblings still have to attend school, and you were worried you couldn’t afford their school fees. Don’t you want them to live a comfortable life? All you need to do is to say yes. Your parents could live a life free of pain, and they would be happy. Isn’t that what you want?”

Helena was dumbfounded at Maurice’s words.

“Helena, listen to me. Sign the contract with the Triple Group. With the one-off buyout worth tens of millions, your family’s fortunes will be changed forever!” Maurice continued to tempt her.

After struggling within herself, Helena was adamant. “No! I’ll still stick with Ms. Lopez. I don’t mind making less money as long as I can sleep at night.”

Seeing Helena leave, Maurice berated her, “You’re a fool! Stupid girl!”

The next few days, Maurice acted with impunity within the company. He would scold the staff and other newcomers without reason.

However, due to the popularity of the movie, everyone had no choice but to endure.

Meanwhile, Zoey had begun to notice that Maurice was wearing clothes that cost hundreds of thousands and wearing watches that cost more than a million. On top of that, he drove a luxury car. It was obvious something wasn't right.

Not only that, but a few of the other up-and-coming stars were also visibly less motivated in their work.

They rejected most of the projects offered and simply lounged around the office while putting on airs.

As they largely didn't break any rules, Zoey had no basis to intervene.

Finally, the Triple Group managed to organize their charity gala in South City, and it was a resounding success. Both the media and public came away praising how the Triple Group was a socially responsible organization.

After that, the Triple Group planned to organize a charity gala in North Hampton.

The Protector Chapter 483

As the Triple Group continued to expand, South City was no longer enough to satisfy it.

They wanted to penetrate the city with the largest economy in the region, which was North Hampton.

Soon, the list of guests for the charity gala was announced.

“Ms. Lopez, take a look at the guest list quickly!”

Gerry and his staff brought over the list hastily.

“Morris!, Wilford, Trisha...” Zoey read out their names solemnly.

There were ten in total, and they were all new stars who the Oriental Star Group was promoting.

They had surreptitiously signed a spokesperson’s contract with the Triple Group without the company’s knowledge.

Zoey was infuriated. “Didn’t I say that we would decline to work with the Triple Group? Why did some of them still sign a contract still? Go and get all of them here!”

Meanwhile, Gerry replied, “Ms. Lopez, please calm down. Our contracts with them do not contain any clauses that bar them from freelance work. Hence, what they’re doing is not illegal and neither does it breach the contract terms. If there’s any conflict with them, it would not benefit us at all. Given how well received the two movies are currently, it would damage both our reputation and financials if we offended the lead actors.”

“Are you suggesting that we just bear with it?” Zoey fumed.

“For now, that’s our only choice. We have to pretend that we don’t know anything about it,” Gerry concluded reluctantly.

He did not expect to have been promoting such an ingrate. Maurice was even more difficult to deal with than Niall.

“Ms. Lopez, Maurice wants to see you.”

At that moment, Maurice arrived and threw a set of accounts onto the table.

“Zoey, the movie has grossed ten billion now!”

Zoey picked up the accounts and took a look.

Aren’t these the respective accounts for the two movies?

The accounts were supposed to be confidential. Other than the company and large broadcasting websites, no one had access to them.

“Where did you get the accounts from?” Zoey demanded.

Meanwhile, Maurice sat down and sneered, “It doesn’t matter where I got it from. I just want to know – how much are you going to pay me now that you made ten billion?”

“Maurice, stop being rude! You’re speaking to Ms. Lopez!” Gerry reprimanded him.

Maurice scoffed, “So what if she is? She’s still human. What’s wrong with my question?”

Zoey smiled in response. "Five hundred thousand. Your pay for both movies is simply five hundred thousand!"

"It has been decided in the very beginning that all the actors' salaries combined would not exceed ten million. The company still needs to spend on special effects and pay the scriptwriters. Everyone knows that."

Maurice nodded. "I understand that. But it's obvious that the movies have made a profit of ten billion. Are you serious in just paying me five hundred thousand?"

Zoey's lips widened into a broad smile. "That's right. It's because the contract states that your fee is five hundred thousand. Whether the film is a success or a failure, it has nothing to do with you."

"Hahaha, didn't you always emphasize that Oriental is a people-centric company? In the end, you still choose profits over ethics. How could you only pay the male lead five hundred thousand when the movie has made ten billion. Isn't that simply unfair?" Maurice challenged.

Zoey remained expressionless. "I speak based on my principles and will follow the contract to the letter. No more, no less."

"Fine, shall I expose this issue and let the public decide who is in the right?"

Maurice was smart to use the film's popularity to blackmail the company.

"No, don't! Maurice, please calm down. Everything is open for discussion," Gerry interjected.

If the matter got out, it would be very damaging to both the company's reputation and financial position, regardless of who was in the wrong.

"Maurice, name your price!" Gerry demanded.

“Three billion!”

The Protector Chapter 484

Gasp!

When Maurice stated his price, everyone present caught their breath.

Three billion, is he crazy?

Maurice laughed. "What is it? Do you think I'm being greedy? Both the movies are expected to earn eighteen billion in the end. Even after you paid me three billion, you still have fifteen billion in profits left. More importantly, if word gets out, the reputational damage would be devastating. Taking that into account, three billion isn't too much to ask for." Maurice explained confidently.

Gerry and the others exchanged glances as they weighed their options.

If Maurice blew the matter up, the controversy would easily cost the company more than three billion.

More importantly, the loss in credibility would be beyond repair.

"Maurice, let's discuss it further. Could you lower your demands? In return, we will pay you more for your next film," Gerry asked, trying his best to negotiate.

"No! It's three billion. Take it or leave it!"

Since Maurice had planned to sign a contract with the Triple Group, he didn't care about the next movie.

Gerry and the others were running out of ideas. All they could do now was look to Zoey for her decision.

“Ms. Lopez, what do you think?”

By now, Maurice no longer respected Zoey.

Looking at him, Zoey scoffed, “No way. We won’t give you anything, so stop dreaming!”

“Uh...”

Gerry and the others were stunned as they expected Zoey to continue negotiations.

Instead, she rejected Maurice outright.

Maurice, too, was caught off guard as Zoey didn’t even bother to negotiate.

“Very well. What an unethical boss!” Maurice sneered as he left.

“Ms. Lopez, are you sure that’s alright? The impact will be huge if it blows up.” Gerry was feeling doubtful.

Zoey replied firmly. “If we compromise, it will open the floodgates for others to do the same.”

At night at North Hampton’s Grand Manor, the Triple Group held their charity gala there.

It was a massive event.

Everyone who was somebody in North Hampton was invited. Even Grover attended the event.

Many of them were the rich and famous of North Hampton who came from all industries.

Actors and actresses were definitely included.

Meanwhile, the media broadcasted Maurice's arrival live as he was the most popular actor then.

Everyone's attention was focused on him as the viewers who tuned in exceeded ten million.

The gala was hosted by Horace.

"The Triple Group has decided to make a one-off donation of ten billion to North Hampton's charity and public welfare organizations. It would be used to build retirement homes, orphanages, schools, etc." Horace announced at the end of the night.

At the same time, he handed a cheque of ten billion to the President of North Hampton Charity Association, Sanford Collins.

All the media were focused on reporting and showcasing that particular moment.

"The Triple Group is a socially responsible company. Not only did they donate ten billion to South City, but they also donated ten billion to North Hampton."

"That's right! Although they are a Keerean company, they have contributed significantly to the development of Quebec."

"From now on, I will only buy Triple Group's electronic products!"

When the broadcast of the charity gala was over, the internet cheered.

Perception towards the Triple Group improved significantly soon after that. In just over ten minutes, the online sales of Triple Group products in Erudia increased by a few billion.

Most of its electronic products were sold out.

Meanwhile, Levi was watching the broadcast and was infuriated.

The trust fund that he had painstakingly set up had not only been usurped by the Triple Group but used to further their commercial interests.

At that moment, Azure Dragon informed him that South City sent their apologies.

They did not expect the Triple Group to have extended their claws over North Hampton.

“Hmph, don’t blame me after coming here to taunt me!” A frosty glint flashed across Levi’s eye

The Protector Chapter 485

With her fist tightly clenched, Zoey, too, was trembling out of anger.

“This really is a capitalistic society. Power and influence can not only cover up the truth but also whitewash sins into virtues!”

Meanwhile, the charity gala was still being broadcasted.

The Triple Group had lined up ten poor kids in front of the cameras. Horace declared, “The Triple Group will take care of these ten kids up until they graduate from university!”

“That’s great!”

Many in the audience were clapping and cheering.

Thunderous applause rumbled throughout as the atmosphere there was ecstatic.

The Triple Group had won a decisive victory in both reputation and financial gains.

They were now known as a socially responsible organization.

“Ladies and gentlemen, our next segment may not be aligned with tonight’s theme. But I feel it’s an opportunity to help someone redress an injustice.” Horace changed the topic of the night.

“Oh? Does someone want to expose an injustice done?”

Everyone was curious to know what it was about.

At that moment, Maurice, Wilford, Trisha, and the rest stood on the stage.

“Let me introduce to you the most popular male actor currently, Maurice. Followed by supporting actor and actress, Wilford and Trisha respectively...” Horace presented.

Given how popular their movie was, everyone recognized who they were.

“What’s going on? Were Maurice and the rest treated unjustly?”

Everyone was puzzled.

Horace then passed the microphone to Maurice.

Looking at the crowd in the eyes, Maurice explained, “Everyone knows that I’m the male lead in the two recent blockbuster movies. Up till now, the Oriental Star Group had made more than twenty billion in profits. However, do you know how much I am paid for the films? Please take a guess!”

“Fifty million!”

“No, that’s too much. Guess lower!” Maurice yelled.

“Ten million!”

“No!”

“It can’t be less than five million, can it? Even if they paid five billion, it would still be reasonable.” Someone questioned

“Fine, let me tell you the answer! I, alone, am paid with a meager sum of five hundred thousand!”

When Maurice exposed the answer, there was an immediate uproar.

Everyone's face was filled with disbelief.

"What? They only paid the lead five hundred thousand after making twenty billion? Is that even possible?"

"This is outright absurd! Oriental Star Group is practically abusing the rights of their employees! Five hundred thousand... are they kidding me?"

"The Oriental Star Group is a malignant tumor that must be removed from the industry! How can they lowball their actors like that?"

Everyone present was angered by the injustice that they had just heard about.

Meanwhile, Maurice was satisfied with the impact he made.

"This is not something I made up myself. I have proof as I even kept the receipt!"

Changing the subject, Maurice asked again, "Do you want to know how much my friend was paid?"

Taking over the mic, Trisha reported her salary, "I was paid three hundred thousand!"

Then it was Wilford's turn. "I was also paid three hundred thousand!"

"I was paid even less, two hundred thousand!"

"I, too, received two hundred thousand only!"

"I'm the lowest at a hundred and fifty thousand!"

When the supporting cast exposed their salaries, the outcries from the audience were deafening.

Many of them were cursing and swearing at Oriental.

“This is a joke! A movie that garnered twenty billion in profit only paid less than three million in salaries to their cast?”

“The management of Oriental are bloodsuckers! How could they do such a thing?”

“How can we have such an unethical company in North Hampton? They should be blacklisted!”

Just like that, public opinion turned against Oriental.

It wasn't only those in attendance that were angry, but even those online were berating Oriental.

There were calls to boycott Oriental. In fact, some even urged revenge!

“How could they shamelessly twist the facts!” At that moment, Zoey was so furious that she almost smashed the TV.

The Protector Chapter 486

Zoey knew that Maurice would take revenge, but she didn't expect him to do it by defaming Oriental Star Group on the night of the charity gala.

Horace took the microphone and spoke into it. "I'd like to make an announcement. Maurice Lorraine and the ten directors here had been personally invited to attend this event. Their presence here tonight has nothing to do with Oriental Star Group."

"Huh? How is that so?"

Some were confused.

"That's right. It was a private invitation!" Horace explained with a smile. "I once proposed to Oriental to invite a few directors to the event, but the president turned me down.

She doubted my kind initiative and thought we were planning to use the charity gala's reputation to earn blood money, so she refused to cooperate with us! Sigh... Triple Group sure has it rough. We get flamed when we don't take part in charity, but when we finally involved ourselves, our motives end up being questioned. This is just cruel!"

"What? Oriental is that despicable? Why would they question someone else's kindness?"

"How shameless can they be? Triple Group has really been doing charity work; they've already donated over two billion to South City and North Hampton! Is that not charity?"

“Oriental is a joke. A company like this deserves to fail. Let’s join forces and bring them down!”

...

With Horace adding fuel to the flame, the crowd became enraged.

They now utterly despised Oriental Star Group and wanted the company to fall into ruin.

The situation was even worse online.

Thousands of netizens began to boycott Oriental Star Group.

Let’s flood their movies with horrible ratings!

Within an hour, two major films received tens of thousands of bad reviews.

The films suffered greatly in regard to sales and reputation.

Oriental Star Group was now in a mess.

Horace continued, “I’d like to attest to Maurice Lorraine and the rest of the directors here. Even though it isn’t a huge amount, they had offered their contributions.

They disregarded the company regulations and are risking their jobs just to be a part of this charity gala! Therefore, I’d like to request for a round of applause for these youngsters!”

“Wonderful!”

“I’ll invest in any movie you make in the future!”

“Yeah! Maurice Lorraine should become North Hampton’s charity ambassador!”

Many big shots gave their responses.

A thunderous applause ensued.

The Internet was filled with positive comments about Maurice and the rest of the directors.

The ten directors were now regarded as powerful and fearless charity heroes.

Upon seeing this, Maurice curled his lips into a smile.

He didn’t expect things to turn out so well.

All the fame and fortune are now mine!

Then, he thought of Helena Engler.

“You must have a few screws loose! Now that Oriental is finished, so are you!”

Maurice announced to the crowd, “I refuse to work under such a despicable company! Is there anyone who’s willing to take me in?”

Wilford Boyd and the others chimed in, “Same goes for us! We don’t want to remain in Oriental anymore. We’ve had it with this trashy business!”

“Come work for us!”

Many bigshots were more than happy to hire Maurice and the others.

Horace smiled. “I’d be willing to give you guys a chance if you’re interested.”

“Please! Working for Triple Group is all we could ever ask for!” Maurice and the rest responded, immediately accepting the offer.

However, Maurice added, “But I’m still under contract with Oriental. They might refuse to let me go.”

“Don’t worry about that, Mr. Lorraine. You have the support of everyone here!” the audience exclaimed.

“In that case, I’d like to sign with Triple Group!” said Maurice and the others.

And just like that, all of them joined Triple Group.

The Protector Chapter 487

Zoey shook with rage in front of the television.

She was on the verge of tears.

She didn't think that Horace and Maurice would pull such a trick.

Oriental Star Group has become public enemy number one.

Just the public's opinion is enough to put the pressure on Oriental, not to mention if all the huge corporations decides to close in on us.

"Don't be mad anymore, honey," Levi assured her as he pulled her into his arms. "Let him sit on that high horse of his for now. I'll make it clear to them that it's just as easy for them to hit rock bottom as it is to be loved by everyone!"

"Do you have a plan in mind, Darling?" asked Zoey.

"Not at the moment, but remember the saying, the heavens are always watching!" Levi replied with a smile.

The charity gala was a success.

Horace achieved two of his goals.

One, to bring fame and fortune to Triple Group.

Two, to send Oriental Star Group into chaos.

The next day, Zoey arrived at work and noticed how gloomy the atmosphere was.

Gerry Wade and the others hadn't slept all night, so their eyes were extremely puffy.

Everyone turned to Zoey for help.

Evidently, the current situation was beyond their control. There was no way they could handle what was happening.

"Mr. Shawn Timmons and a few screenwriters are here to see you, Ms. Lopez," the assistant said to Zoey.

"Let them in."

Zoey knew what was about to happen.

Shawn Timmons walked into the office with over thirty other people following closely behind.

"Sorry, Ms. Lopez. We'd like to resign. We can't carry on working for Oriental Star Group after what happened," he explained.

Everyone else lowered their heads, feeling rather awkward.

Zoey smiled. "It's fine. You have every right to leave. I accept your resignation."

Shawn and the others were stunned.

They didn't think she would let them go so easily.

Over thirty directors, screenwriters and producers had just given in their resignation notice.

These individuals were the foundation of Oriental Star Group.

Aside from actors, they were the most important crew members when it came to making a film.

That was right.

Shawn and the rest had been bought over by Maurice Lorraine.

In fact, Horace had offered Shawn thirty million to get everyone else to leave the company.

Shawn stopped by the special effects studio before leaving.

“Come with us, James. There’s no point staying here with Oriental Star!”

Shawn tried to convince the special effects team to join him.

The head of the special effects department, James Wood, responded with a smile, “I’m good. You guys go on ahead! I’m indebted to Oriental. I’ve worked for many companies, but this is the only one that has ever treated the special effects team with respect and taken us seriously. I’ll never leave, no matter what.”

“You’re just a stubborn old fart who refuses to change!” Shawn raged at him. “You won’t have it easy!”

He then walked away with his group.

“Come join us, Helena. You’re famous now, so you shouldn’t stay here anymore!”

The man tried to recruit Helena Engler too.

With this, Horace would have to give me at least three million.

However, Helena turned him down. “I won’t leave. I’ll always stay with Ms. Lopez!”

“Fine. You can keep giving yourself airs then. You’ll only starve if you keep up with that attitude!” Shawn sneered.

Zoey was touched to see everyone who stayed.

“This crisis will be over real soon. Please trust me on this!” she declared.

She believed in Levi.

If Levi said he could solve this, there was no doubt he could.

After all, he had the mysterious owner of Morris Group backing him.

He’s omnipotent!

If the man could easily deal with Scott Yates and Sebastian Lopez of South City, whatever Oriental Star Group was facing right now would be a piece of cake.

The Protector Chapter 488

Maurice Lorraine was giddy with delight.

The more viral he became, the higher his net worth got. Even his assets grew exponentially.

Today, he and Shawn Timmons, along with several others, had come to Triple Group to sign their new contracts.

Maurice immediately signed his contract without even going through it.

Everyone else did the same, simply because joining Triple Group meant receiving money and fame.

Shawn and his group received a settlement fee of several hundred thousand just from joining the company.

They, too, signed their contracts without even taking a look at the details.

Horace couldn't help but laugh as he glanced at his several dozen new employees. "Incredible! All of you are practically the foundation of Oriental Star Group. You'll certainly go far by joining me."

He then left with a smile.

Maurice gathered everyone to discuss their future.

"Huh? There's something weird about this contract!" exclaimed Steve White, a screenwriter.

“What’s wrong?” asked Shawn and the others.

“Take a look at your own contracts! Something doesn’t add up here,” Steve urged.

Everyone began to flip through their own contracts.

Very quickly, a few screenwriters exclaimed, “We’ve been tricked!”

“This is like a slave contract! All of our reputation and copyrights will belong to Triple. We’re practically their slaves now! And what’s with the pay? I only get a fixed salary of three thousand a month!?”

Steve nearly passed out.

He was the one who had written the script for the two major films from before, and Zoey Lopez rewarded him five million for that.

Yet, he was going to be paid a mere three thousand a month while working for Triple Group?

Who could ever accept such a difference?

“Sh*t, mine’s a slave contract too. They’ve deprived me of all my rights! And I’m only paid eight thousand a month?”

Shawn was about to lose it.

He had earned eight million from directing the two previous films.

Now, he was going to receive eight thousand instead.

The other screenwriters shared the same contracts.

They were all subject to become Triple Group's slaves—for life.

“Hurry up and take a look at my contract!”

Even Maurice had started to panic.

Steve went through Maurice's contract and remarked, “Yours is pretty much a slave contract too, but it's slightly better than ours. However, you'll only get a payment of at most a hundred thousand for each movie though.”

“What? A hundred thousand!?”

Maurice was about to go insane.

Only a hundred thousand for each movie?

This is madness!

Everyone quickly realized that they had been duped.

Triple Group had offered them benefits at the start and allowed them to sign their contracts while their guard was down.

“Let's terminate our contracts! How can we ever agree to this?”

Maurice trembled in anger.

Steve delivered a cold, hard truth. “We'll need to cough up a hundred million as penalty for breaching our contracts, as for yours, it will be a billion.”

Boom!

Maurice slumped to the floor.

One billion?

I only have a few million at most. Where will I ever get a billion?

Shawn was hopping mad. "F*ck! Why'd you do this to us, Maurice? You son of a b*tch! We were doing so well at Oriental. I've never made more money anywhere else than when I was working for them!"

"He's right," Steve chimed in. "A screenwriter never earns more than five hundred thousand for writing a script, but Oriental paid me five million!" He began to sob.

Everyone else followed suit.

What they felt at that moment was regret.

They truly regretted.

Wasn't it great working for Oriental?

Why did we have to join Triple?

Now look at us.

We're doomed.

We're going to be Triple Group's slaves for the rest of our lives.

The Protector Chapter 489

Just a while ago, they had even laughed at Helena for being stubborn. Thinking about it now, the woman certainly made the right choice.

Shawn whacked his own forehead. "I should've known! Triple Group is ruthless and greedy. They've had their dark past dug up in recent years. There's no way we'd ever get a single cent out of them. We were too naive."

Steve dashed their hopes even further. "Most importantly, we can't reveal any of this. The contract says we'll end up in jail if we expose what's happening."

Everyone gasped.

"Horace Waller, you're an abomination!"

Maurice kicked the door as tears streamed down his face.

At that moment, the door opened and Horace walked in.

Behind him were about a dozen bodyguards watching over his safety.

"So, you've read your contracts, I presume?"

Horace smirked insidiously.

"I'm taking you down with me, Waller!"

Maurice rushed toward him, only to be held back by the guards.

Shawn scoffed, "You're being way too underhanded, don't you think, Mr. Waller? This isn't an agreement at all. It's clearly a slave contract."

Even though this was commercial hegemony on Triple Group's part, it would always be difficult to protect one's rights when contracts were involved.

One could go to court for years, and it still wouldn't necessarily guarantee their victory.

Especially when one was up against the almighty Triple Group. There was practically zero chance of winning a lawsuit against them.

"If you didn't like the contract, you could've chosen not to sign it. Did I ever coerce you into signing it?" Horace remarked.

"I..."

Everyone suddenly fell silent.

What he said was true, Horace didn't force them into signing their agreements at all.

"But I wouldn't have signed it had I known what kind of contract it was! You tricked us!" Shawn raged.

Horace smiled. "Did I not let you read your contracts? You could've chosen not to sign them if you didn't agree, but did you even read the terms? I certainly gave you ample time to go through the details."

Shawn was so exasperated that he felt like coughing up blood.

They had all signed the contracts without going through the details, simply because they believed in Triple Group's power and wealth.

Who would have thought that it was all a trap?

“Of course, you can leave if you want! Just pay your penalties and I promise you’ll be free,” Horace chuckled.

Silence ensued.

Who would ever have that much money?

Horace smirked triumphantly. “If you can’t pay up, you’d better obey me and serve Triple Group well!”

Maurice was livid. “Do you think that we’re your dogs!?”

“Are you not? Remember, you’re Triple Group’s dogs now. Do your jobs well and maybe you’ll get to eat some bones! Hahaha!”

Horace was beyond delighted.

Spending just a few million to obtain a group of slaves who would rake in billions for the company was a genius idea.

He had practically bought over an entire entertainment company.

Ba-thump!

Everyone fell to the floor after Horace left.

“What should we do now? Are we really going to be their dogs until the day we die?” Steve asked in misery.

No one would accept such an outcome.

Everyone was now at the peak of their careers; why would they ever allow themselves to work like dogs?

“I’ve got it!” Maurice suddenly exclaimed.

Everyone turned toward him.

“We can ask Oriental for help! Let’s get Zoey Lopez to pay for our penalties and hire us again!”

“You’re right. That’s a great idea. There’s a high chance she’ll help us, since we can make money. The benefits outweigh the costs of breaching our contracts, after all. Besides, the company’s in danger now that we’ve all left. She’ll definitely agree to help us if we ask her to!”

The group headed toward Oriental Star Group under Shawn’s lead.

The Protector Chapter 490

The staff of Oriental Star Group were puzzled.

Just this morning, Shawn had left haughtily with a bunch of other people. So what is he doing back here now?

Are they here to show off?

It doesn't seem like it though.

They look so tense, as though something bad has happened.

Zoey's assistant immediately informed her about Shawn's return.

"Hold them off. Don't let them come in," Zoey ordered.

Levi had just texted her about what Maurice and the others had gone through.

Shawn and his group were stopped at the entrance.

"What's going on? Let us in! Don't you know who I am, Zane?" Shawn bellowed at the security guard.

Maurice chimed in, "You're just a bloody security guard! What right do you have to stop us?"

He despised those who worked as security guards and janitors.

A few guards responded angrily, "You're no longer an employee of Oriental Star Group, so you can't enter however you please!"

“You...”

Shawn froze.

He had submitted his resignation letter earlier this morning, so he was indeed no longer a company staff.

However, Maurice scoffed arrogantly. “Let me tell you this, you stinkin’ guards. I’m here to discuss a project that’s worth a few billion with Ms. Lopez. Do you think you can afford to waste my time?”

“That’s right,” Shawn and the others added. “Who do you think you are? How dare you try to stop us!”

To think that these well-known directors were being held back by a few lowly security guards, their prides won’t allow it.

The guards refused to budge. “You can’t enter!”

Zoey had personally instructed them not to let anyone in.

Thus, they had nothing to fear!

“So is it money that you want? Here! Take it.”

Infuriated, Maurice took out a stack of cash and slapped the guards across the face with it.

“You’re nothing but some lowly security guards, and that’s all you get to be your whole lives!”

The security guards fumed in anger but remained silent.

It wasn’t unusual for them to be treated this way.

In the eyes of these white-collar elites, being a security guard was an inferior job.

The men could only suppress their rage and do nothing.

This was simply a common occurrence.

“What’s going on?”

A voice suddenly rang out.

It was Levi.

“Mr. Garrison...”

The guards’ eyes lit up when they saw him.

Their pillar of support was here.

Levi got along well with all the security guards, whether they were from Morris Group or Oriental Star Group.

“You’re looking down on these guys? What’s wrong with being a security guard? Are they inferior to you?” Levi asked coldly as he stared at Shawn and the others.

“I...”

Shawn was at a loss for words.

They knew how powerful Levi was. He was also Zoey’s husband, so they dared not tick him off.

Even Maurice was holding himself back.

We still need Zoey Lopez's help. We can't piss him off.

"Apologize," Levi demanded.

Everyone in the group exchanged glances.

Did we hear wrongly?

Apologize to these lowly guards?

Who do you think we are!?

"I said apologize to them, or get out of here!" Levi ordered.

Fine! Just bear with it!

Shawn gritted his teeth and said with a bow, "I'm sorry!"

"Sorry!"

Steve and the others apologized too.

Maurice did the same. "I'm sorry. I shouldn't have disrespected you."

The security guards were pleasantly surprised.

These famous stars and directors are actually apologizing to us?

"It's fine! It's fine..."

They quickly waved their hands.

Levi turned to the security guard called Zane. "Go give him a slap in the face."

“Huh?”

Zane was taken aback.

“He hit you with his cash, didn’t he? It’s not that different if you were to give him a slap now,” Levi pointed out.

The Protector Chapter 491

“Don’t push your luck, Garrison!” Maurice roared.

Levi merely raised his voice. “Go. Slap him in the face!”

Zane broodingly walked toward Maurice.

Maurice was filled with rage.

How am I going to hold my head up high after being slapped by a security guard!?

Shawn and Steve held onto Maurice while giving him glances, signaling him not to move.

“Hit him!” Levi ordered.

With that, Zane violently slapped Maurice across the face.

In an instant, Maurice’s head spun as his vision blurred, and half of his face turned numb.

The sensation was quickly followed by pain. It felt as though he was being pricked by needles continuously.

Everyone was dumbfounded.

The huge celebrity, Maurice Lorraine, had just been struck by a security guard.

Maurice glared at Zane and Levi ferociously, as though he wanted to eat them alive.

What a disgrace.

This is way too humiliating!

Levi asked coldly, "Do you accept what just happened?"

"I-I do. I hit him with my money and he slapped me in the face. It's a fair trade!" Maurice replied while clenching his teeth.

"Alright, so what do you guys want?" Levi asked. "Haven't you quit already? Why are you here again?"

Shawn quickly explained, "We have something important to discuss with Ms. Lopez, Mr. Garrison. Please let us in!"

"And what is it about?"

"We'll talk about it when we see Ms. Lopez," Shawn answered with a smile. "It's something that will benefit the company!"

Levi returned a smile. "I'm sure you know how busy Ms. Lopez is. Not any Tom, Dick and Harry gets to meet her. You should leave."

"What are you talking about, Garrison? I just got slapped and you're chasing us away now? Who the hell do you think you are?"

Maurice just about had it.

"He's right, Mr. Garrison. Be reasonable!" Shawn chimed in. "We stopped picking on the security guards out of respect for you. Shouldn't you show us some respect too?"

In other words, they had apologized not because they knew they were wrong; they only did it to make Levi happy.

Levi was furious. "Who the hell do you think you are? Why should I show you any respect?"

Maurice had lost all his patience. "And who the hell do you think you are, Garrison? You're just a nobody if you weren't Ms. Lopez's husband."

Slap!

Levi sent two of Maurice's teeth flying with just one slap across the face.

A bright red handprint immediately appeared on the latter's cheek.

Maurice was completely taken aback.

Just one slap was almost enough to kill him.

"You dare hit me, Levi Garrison?"

Maurice was so livid that he could kill someone.

"What's wrong with that? A foul mouth deserves a slap, no?" Levi asked.

"I dare you to hit me again!" Maurice roared.

Levi was amused.

"Guys, have you ever seen someone ask to be hit?"

"Hahahah!"

The security guards burst into laughter.

Levi instantly delivered another slap across Maurice's face.

The left side of Maurice's face instantly swelled up and the slap marks looked especially distinct.

The man was utterly floored.

Everyone else couldn't believe their eyes.

"You're the one who told me to hit you," Levi said with a grin. "I was just granting your wish."

"Maurice Lorraine is being attacked! Come and watch!"

"Hurry over and witness this! Someone's attacking the superstar, Maurice Lorraine!"

"Isn't there anyone here who stands with justice!?"

Trisha Sullivan and Wilford Boyd suddenly began to cry out.

Passersby swarmed over upon hearing it was Maurice Lorraine and glared at Levi.

"How dare you attack my idol? Someone call the cops!"

The Protector Chapter 492

Over a hundred people showed up in a blink of an eye.

Everyone immediately assumed Maurice was the victim after seeing the piteous state he was in.

They began to confront Levi.

At this very moment, Zoey walked outside.

“What’s going on?”

“We wanted to talk to you, Ms. Lopez, but your husband kept stopping us and he even attacked Maurice! Your security guard also slapped Maurice in the face.”

Shifting the blame onto the innocent now, huh?

Zoey smiled. “And?”

“You know what could happen, Ms. Lopez,” said Shawn. “Your husband’s going to be in a world of trouble if word gets out. He had struck a celebrity, for God’s sake! He might even end up in jail!”

“What should I do then?” Zoey asked.

“To be completely honest with you, Ms. Lopez, we’ve been tricked into signing a slave contract with Triple Group. We want to leave, but there’s a huge penalty to pay...”

Shawn trailed off.

Zoey chuckled. "So you're saying you want me to pay for the penalty and buy you guys over?"

The entire group nodded fervently. "That's right, Ms. Lopez! We did some calculations. All the penalties add up to exactly two billion. It's actually not a lot! Think about it; wouldn't it be a breeze to gain back the two billion if you had such a great team like us and a brilliant actor like Maurice?"

"He's right! I believe we'll be able to earn you two billion in just a year!"

They were full of confidence thanks to the two films that had been released.

Maurice walked over to Zoey while covering his face. "The company is now in chaos after we left, isn't it, Ms. Lopez?" he said with a smile. "Without us, it'd be tough for you to form a new team so quickly. I'm presenting you with an opportunity right now; we'll come back if you agree to pay for our penalties. With us back, we'll bring your company profits beyond your imagination! Not only that, but I'll also even let go of the fact that your husband attacked me."

Maurice was full of conceit.

They had originally come over to beg Zoey for help, but now he made it seem like Zoey was the one having to do the pleading.

Trisha and Wilford chimed in, "It's a win-win situation. We're giving you a chance. The only question now is, are you going to take it?"

Gerry Wade and the others wanted to throw up upon hearing that.

You're the ones who'd racked your brains trying to find a way to come back, but now you're talking about giving Ms. Lopez a chance?

Could you all be any more shameless?

Everyone's eyes were on Zoey, waiting for her answer.

To Maurice and the group, Zoey would definitely agree to their proposal.

It wasn't just because Oriental Star Group couldn't do without them.

She also had to say yes for Levi's sake.

"I refuse! You're no longer part of my firm, so your problems have nothing to do with me. Besides, we have a rule of not working with traitors. Have a good day!"

With that, Zoey turned and walked away.

Job well done!

Levi nodded in approval.

Zoey had changed rather drastically throughout this period.

She was now much firmer in terms of her work and personality.

"What? Did she just turned us down?"

Maurice and the rest of them were flabbergasted.

Shawn was filled with disbelief.

"Do you not care if your husband's fate, Zoey Lopez!?" Maurice yelled. "Just you wait and see how I'm going to make your husband suffer!"

Shawn and Steve quickly stopped him. "Don't do anything rash, Maurice! Remember what we're here for!"

“Yeah! We should behave ourselves. We’re here to ask for Ms. Lopez’s help, not to threaten her!” said the others.

The Protector Chapter 493

Maurice glanced at Levi, who was standing nearby, and said, "Then we'll give it another try. If she turns us down again, I'm going to send Levi Garrison behind bars!"

Levi calmly took out his phone and dialed a number. "It's about time to destroy Maurice Lorraine."

"Hahahaha!"

The people next to Maurice burst into laughter when they heard Levi's words.

Is he an idiot?

Does he really think he can ruin a celebrity with just a phone call?

Who's he trying to kid?

Maurice glared at Levi coldly and smirked. "I'd like to see how you plan to do that."

Very quickly, all the major media outlets fought to report the following news: Famous celeb Maurice Lorrain's private life exposed, spotted sharing hotel room with two women.

Horace Waller had arranged for someone to secretly follow Maurice that very night.

Pictures and videos of the incident immediately surfaced.

Netizens were in complete shock.

Maurice's dark past surfaced as quickly as he shot to fame.

Another heavyweight news article made headlines: Maurice Lorraine dumped girlfriend of seven years, was abusive and made her sign an agreement to keep relationship secret.

...

More scandals began to surface, such as news of Maurice fooling around with multiple women at nightclubs.

The media outlets also released articles clarifying that Maurice was once taken in by Oriental Star Group while job hunting; the company had offered him a contract worth five hundred thousand.

Everyone now understood Maurice's true character.

"So he betrayed Oriental after everything they've done for him? Despicable."

"What an ingrate. He dumped his girlfriend after becoming famous and bit the hand that fed him!"

"I wondered why this guy kept trying to make Oriental look bad. Now I get it."

...

The Internet was now filled with comments antagonizing Maurice.

The man's reputation as a celebrity instantly hit rock bottom.

It's over.

It's all over.

Maurice was completely dumbstruck once he found out what just happened.

"How could this happen!?" he looked up and yelled at the top of his lungs.

His phone rang at the same time. It was the banks calling to tell him that all of his accounts had been frozen.

This was also Horace Waller's doing.

Maurice Lorraine was completely finished.

The only choice he had left now was to serve Triple Group as a slave for the rest of his life.

Levi walked over with a smile. "It's as easy to tear you down as it is to raise you up."

Thump!

Maurice flopped to the ground and stared at Levi in disbelief.

He really did it with one phone call.

For the very first time, Shawn and the others realized how frightening Levi was.

This is too much.

"We're sorry, Mr. Garrison."

Shawn, Steve and the rest of the group knelt on the ground.

“We promise to serve Oriental Star Group for the rest of our lives if you and Ms. Lopez redeem us, Mr. Garrison.”

They bowed with their heads directly touching the floor.

Levi scoffed. “Didn’t you hear what my wife said? She never works with traitors.”

Boom!

Levi’s response struck them like lightning.

Their lives were over.

Taking care of Maurice indirectly restored Oriental Star Group to its glory.

Levi returned to Morris Group.

“Where have you been, Mr. Garrison? You’ve been away for so long!” Seth Wilson and the other security guards greeted him with a smile.

Iris Annabelle happened to spot Levi at the same time. “Where’d you disappear to? You didn’t even ask for a leave of absence.”

Iris looked rather upset, as though something had happened.

Levi asked immediately, “Is something wrong?”

Iris hesitated for a moment before nodding. “Yeah.”

The Protector Chapter 494

“What happened?” Levi asked.

Iris rubbed her temples. “Didn’t the big boss tell us to organize a one billion charity program recently? We built the Hope Elementary School, Old Folk’s Home and Orphanage. We funded many poor students too. Yet, after pumping in our money and doing all this, someone else ended up taking all the credit.”

Levi was stunned.

How could such a thing happen?

Someone actually made an issue out of charity money?

He frowned. “Who did it? They sure have some nerve.”

“It was Triple Group! They organized that one billion charity gala two nights ago and not a single cent came out of their own pockets. They took the money we contributed for the charity program and made it theirs. All the charity certificates, documents and processes ended up becoming theirs!”

Iris was utterly furious.

And so was Levi. “So we paid for the charity event but they get all the credit!? And now everyone thinks that Triple Group is the one being charitable and that it has nothing to do with us?”

“Exactly! Triple Group is getting so much positive feedback from it. All the students and old people we’ve helped are sending them appreciation banners. The school, orphanage and old folks’ home are now hanging posters on the wall, thanking Triple Group for their kindness. Nobody knows that we’re the ones who actually came up with the money! Most importantly, we asked the Charity Association why this was happening, but they refused to acknowledge our contributions. They said everything about the charity program was done by Triple!”

The woman fumed in anger.

Bang!

Levi landed a fist on the wall.

Iris jumped in fright.

“This is unacceptable! They’re even trying to interfere with a charity program. How shameless can they be?” Levi raged.

The fact that Triple Group could do all this had to be because everything was agreed upon with the Charity Association.

“That’s not all. I know that Triple’s general manager’s been involved with a few 14-year-old girls! Urgh! How I want that scumbag gone!” Iris added.

A cold look flashed in Levi’s eyes. “Now that he’s pissed me off, I’m going to make him pay.”

Iris glanced at the man’s stance.

Does he think he’s some boss?

“I’m about to personally head over to the Charity Association and find out what’s going on.”

The more she thought about this, the more exasperated she felt.

“Okay. I’ll come with you,” Levi responded.

They soon arrived at the North Hampton Charity Association building.

“Hello, do you have an appointment?”

“Yes. It’s under Iris Anabelle of Morris Group.”

Aware of Iris’ status, the Charity Association assigned a high-ranking director, Jon Harvey, to attend to her.

“Hello, Ms. Anabelle. How may I help you?” Jon asked with a smile.

Iris got straight to the point. “I’m here for just one thing today, and that is to look into the donations made by Morris Group for the charity program!”

“Oh? Has Morris Group contributed to the program recently?” Jon asked, perplexed.

Levi chuckled.

They’re all playing dumb.

Iris suppressed her anger and remarked coldly, “Morris Group has made a one-billion contribution to your association eight days ago. How could you, as a director, not know about this?”

Jon Harvey merely smiled. “Sorry about that, Ms. Anabelle. I’ve been abroad for a while so I really have no idea about this. Give me a moment to look into this matter.”

The Protector Chapter 495

After making a phone call, Jon turned to them. “Have you perhaps been mistaken, Ms. Anabelle?” he asked with a smile on his face. “The only one-billion donation we’ve received is from Triple Group. There are no records of any contributions made by your company.”

“What the—what on earth are you talking about? That one billion came from Morris Group, but you wrote it off as Triple’s? What the hell is going on?”

Iris was so livid that she nearly cussed.

“Please calm down, Ms. Anabelle. We really have no records of any donation you’ve made.” Jon replied with a pretentious smile.

“Then tell me what this is!”

Iris slammed some documents of the donation made in front of Jon, along with the company’s proof of having set up the charity program.

Jon went through the documents and said in confusion. “This can’t be. How could these records be exactly the same as Triple Group’s? Even the charity program is completely identical! You wrote your own company’s name over Triple’s, didn’t you, Ms. Anabelle?”

Iris was about to go insane.

How shameless can they be?

Now they’re making it seem like we’re the guilty ones.

“Besides, Triple Group really did host the charity gala recently and donated one billion during the conference. It was their money; what does it have to do with Morris Group? Even I’m starting to wonder if you’re harboring any ill intentions, Ms. Anabelle.”

Jon appeared confident that the money belonged to Triple Group.

“Hah! Well then, since we have all the bank transaction records, how about we use them to find out who donated the money?” Iris suggested with a smirk. “Let’s head to the bank right away, Mr. Harvey. Then we can make some comparisons with your finance department.”

Jon’s expression took a turn at the mention of the bank.

He began to ask, “Before that, may I ask why you donated the money in the first place, Ms. Anabelle?”

“To help people in need, of course,” Iris answered.

“That’s right. The purpose of the Charity Association is to help others, and since we’ve achieved this goal, does it really matter who was the one who helped?”

The man proceeded to poison the well in an attempt to make Iris look bad. “Don’t people show acts of kindness in anonymity nowadays? Are you donating money just for the fame, or for an award or certificate? I’m really starting to question your motives now, Ms. Anabelle! Since it’s all about charity, does anything else matter as long as our goals are met? So what if the money came from Morris Group? If you insist on taking the credit that much, fine! I’ll send you a pile of certificates.”

“You…”

Iris felt rage flowed through her like lava.

Yes, the goals have been met.

We don't care about the fame either.

But there's no way I'd allow Triple Group to take the credit!

Clap, clap, clap.

Levi couldn't help but clap his hands.

"You sure have a way with words! Claiming the moral high ground now, are you?" Levi said, smirking.

Jon scoffed, "What do you mean by claiming the moral high ground? This is how charity has always been; if everyone only contributes for the fame, they're better off not contributing at all. Honestly, it doesn't really matter who donated!"

Levi raised his voice. "Does that mean you can write someone else's donation off as Triple Group's? Who gave you the right to do that?"

"I—"

Jon wanted to say more, but Levi cut him off. "If the credit doesn't matter, why does Triple Group need it then? They announced the news everywhere and even hosted a charity gala."

"That's not the same. Triple Group needs the credit!" Jon replied with a smile.

The Protector Chapter 496

“So Morris Group doesn’t need it, but Triple Group does? Such double standards,” Levi scoffed.

“Triple—”

Levi cut Jon off again. “I want to know who gave you the right to write Morris Group’s contribution off as Triple Group’s. That’s some serious power right there, changing a one-billion project just like that.”

Levi arrived at the root of the problem with his sharp words.

Jon was overwhelmed.

“Who is this man, Ms. Anabelle? Are you both here just to stir up some ruckus? So you want to look into the internal affairs of the Charity Association that badly?” he raged.

“Sure. Why don’t we investigate?” Levi replied coldly.

“Get them out of here!”

Jon wasn’t having it anymore and immediately ordered someone to take them away.

But Levi persisted. “No! I have to find out exactly what’s going on! How did Morris’ charity program end up becoming Triple’s?”

Jon was beyond livid. “So what if I don’t admit it was Morris’? What can you do about that, even if I say it’s been written off as Triple’s?”

Levi's lips curled into a profound smile. "Fine. Don't regret it then!"

"Me? Regret? Hah! I'm going to say this one more time. Triple Group's the one who donated the money and it has nothing to do with you! Send them out!"

Iris and Levi left the building. "You see that? I can't believe that's how the Charity Association behaves!" Iris lamented with a wave of her hand. "I have to go back and ask Mr. Atkinson what to do. We can't just leave things this way."

The two returned to Morris Group.

Levi headed to his own office and contacted his secretary, Aurora Newt.

"Aurora, who's the person in charge of the North Hampton Charity Association?" he asked.

"The president is Mr. Sanford Collins, Sir."

"Alright. Tell him to come over. I have something to discuss with him."

Levi sounded as cold as frost.

It didn't take long for Sanford Collins to arrive at Morris Group with several other high-ranking associates.

The five of them stood inside the office with their heads lowered and covered in cold sweat.

They didn't even dare to wipe at their foreheads.

The man sitting before them was way too intimidating.

He's not just the deputy of North Hampton, he's the God of War!

How did Scott Yates die?

It was thanks to this man!

And why has Triple Group suddenly appeared out of nowhere to do whatever they please in Quebec?

It's mainly because Scott Yates, the man who had been keeping a tight rein on Triple Group, is no more.

This is the man who had single-handedly gotten rid of Scott Yates!

"Do you know why I've called you over?" asked Levi.

Sanford Collins and his men exchanged glances before shaking their heads. "No we don't, Mr. Garrison."

"You don't? Then do you know where you are right now?"

Levi tapped his desk with his knuckles.

"We're inside Morris Group. Ah! Is this perhaps about Morris Group's charity program?"

Being the smart man that he was, Sanford quickly grasped the situation.

"So, you do know why you're here," Levi said coldly.

"Tell me what's going on," he said with a smirk. "How did the money Morris Group donated for the program end up as Triple Group's?"

Suddenly, his expression took a sharp turn. "I was just at the Charity Association to ask about this, but they insisted the money came from Triple and even chased me out of the building!"

Boom!

Levi's words struck them like lightning, instantly petrifying them.

Thump!

Sanford lost his balance and staggered to the floor.

Seriously?

This man got kicked out of the Charity Association?

Who had such nerve to do that?

The Protector Chapter 497

This is blasphemy!

It's over.

The shit's about to hit the fan now.

Sanford breathed deeply and said, "We had no idea such a thing happened, Mr. Garrison."

Levi tapped on his desk again. "That's the second issue. Let's talk about the first. If I don't get a good answer from you, I'm going to start looking into it on my own!"

The men nearly coughed blood out of fear.

Look into it on his own?

Jesse Nielsen's going to ruin us before that happens.

"I'll talk! I'll tell you everything!"

Sanford jumped in and explained himself clearly.

"It was the general manager of Triple Group from Erudia, Horace Waller, who came looking for me. He told me to put Morris Group's one-billion donation under Triple Group for the charity program! I did it only because he promised to donate two billion to North Hampton in the future!"

Levi smirked. “He promised to donate two billion? Did you sign an agreement with him?”

“No. It was a verbal agreement,” Sanford answered. “But he’s the general manager of Triple Group, so I believe he’s a man of his word.”

Bang!

Levi slammed his hand onto the desk.

Sanford and his team nearly wet themselves.

“So you’d believe whatever people tell you? Are you a f*cking elementary school student!?” he roared.

“I’m sorry, Mr. Garrison. I was wrong. I shouldn’t have believed him!”

Sanford immediately got down on his knees.

“Let’s go! We’re going to check the Charity Association’s records!” Levi demanded.

Sanford immediately agreed. “Understood, Sir. We’ll head over at once!”

Iris saw Levi bringing a group of men over to her just as she hung up a call with Kirin.

Sanford said to her, “Hello, Ms. Anabelle. Allow me to introduce myself. I’m Sanford Collins, president of the Charity Association. I’m here to apologize and request you to come with us to the Association to settle some matters.”

Iris was dumbfounded.

I just called Mr. Atkinson half an hour ago to ask for help, and the president of the Charity Association is here apologizing to me already?

Just how powerful is this mysterious boss?

Incredible!

Iris admired this unknown man so much that she was now thinking of him as a lover.

Everyone quickly headed toward the Charity Association once again.

“Get Jon Harvey to attend to me!” Levi ordered the front desk receptionist.

It didn't take long for Jon to angrily show up with a group of bodyguards.

“What? Must you insist on causing trouble, Morris Group? I kicked you out just a while ago!” Jon raged.

Levi scoffed. “What's this? Is this how you attend to a guest?”

“Who the f*ck do you think you are that I have to attend to you? You wanna die?” Jon bellowed at him.

“What's your problem? Why are you acting like such a tyrant?” Iris argued. “Am I not allowed to check your accounts? My company gave you a one-billion donation, for crying out loud!”

“No!” Jon turned her down right away. “From now on, no one from Morris Group gets to step into this building. We won't accept your donations either!”

“What a bold statement. You must think you're so formidable,” Iris remarked.

“That’s right,” the other directors began to speak out. “We’re the ones who have the final say in North Hampton’s charity industry! If you have a problem with that, that’s too bad!”

Levi shook his head in frustration as he glanced at these men.

So this is how the Charity Association normally behaves.

And it looks like these directors really gain a lot from their work.

With one glance, Levi easily noticed that quite a few of these men wore luxury watches that was worth millions.

“How dare you!”

An explosive roar erupted in the lobby.

It was Sanford Collins, president of the Charity Association.

The Protector Chapter 498

“You f*cking—it’s you, Mr. Collins?”

Jon immediately paled in fright as he gazed at the group of men in disbelief.

“Mr. Jung? Mr. Yeager? What are you all doing here?”

Jon and the other directors were beyond horrified.

“Hmph! The company would’ve been shut down if I weren’t here!” Sanford said with fury.

“Huh? That can’t be, Mr. Collins. Why would the Charity Association be shut down?”

Jon smiled sheepishly, not realizing that the man standing right in front of him was capable of tearing the entire company down if he wanted to.

“You’re all fired. You’d better prepare for all the investigations you’ll all be going through!” Sanford said coldly.

Boom!

“What!?”

Jon and the other directors felt as though they had just been struck by lightning.

Sanford then turned to the four vice presidents behind him. “When this is all over, we’ll have to resign and go through the investigations too.”

“We understand!” the vice presidents immediately agreed.

This was the best way for them to save themselves.

Jon and his team were even more astounded.

Who on earth is behind Morris Group that our president is voluntarily resigning?

“Alright, let’s go check the records! Stop dilly-dallying,” said Levi.

“Yes, Chief!”

Sanford and his men immediately lead the way.

Iris stared intensely at Levi.

He’s actually acting all tough.

The only reason why he got to put on such a show was because of Mr. Atkinson.

And they’re calling him Chief?

What a pretentious guy you are, Levi!

The truth unveiled itself not long after everyone arrived at the Charity Association.

The one billion donation was indeed from Morris Group. It had nothing to do with Triple Group at all.

“I believe I don’t have to tell you what to do next,” Levi remarked.

“Not at all, Chief! I’ll take care of everything!”

Sanford instantly arranged for an announcement to be made, confirming that it was Morris Group that had donated the money.

Then, he contacted all the publishers and large media outlets to report Morris Group's acts of charity.

He also presented Morris its rightful award and certificate.

"I don't actually need these things, but you'll have to prepare them. They're all part of the legal process."

Levi glared at Sanford, causing the latter to tremble in fear.

"By the way, let the world know that Triple Group never donated a single cent during the charity gala," the man instructed.

Triple Group's thinking of gaining without even doing anything?

Like that'll happen.

"Uhh..."

Sanford hesitated for a moment.

After all, Triple Group was a powerful foreign corporation.

This was certainly a tough matter to deal with.

"Hmm?" Levi hummed coldly.

"I'll take care of it right away!"

Triple Group was nothing compared to this man, after all.

Very quickly, all the large media outlets began to ask the following: When will Triple Group donate to the charity program?

Is it really for charity, or are they doing it just for clout?

Even the Charity Association confirmed what was going on.

Hence, the news quickly spread across North Hampton.

“So Triple Group is nothing but a scam? Didn’t they donate a billion during the charity gala?”

“The guys from Triple Group are nothing but leeches! It was Morris Group’s money and it ended up becoming theirs!”

“How shameless! They even slandered Oriental Star Group that night. What a bunch of dogs.”

...

The tide quickly turned. Triple Group was now in crisis after having its reputation destroyed.

Meanwhile, inside the office of Triple Group in North Hampton.

Horace Waller was smoking on a cigar while looking extremely grim.

“Something’s fishy. I discussed everything with Sanford Collins and bought over a few of his vice presidents and directors. Why is this happening?”

Horace was puzzled.

At this very moment, someone from the Charity Association asked to meet him.

The Protector Chapter 499

“Hello, Mr. Waller. We won’t force you to pay the one-billion donation, but you’ve already made your decision that night at the charity gala, so I think it’s best if you don’t go back on your words. It’d be bad publicity for Triple Group otherwise.”

Horace gritted his teeth and paid up.

He was fuming with anger.

Triple Group never had any intention of paying such an amount. This was simply a loss resulting from not carrying out his tasks well.

Bang! Bang! Bang!

Horae hit his desk in fury.

“Damn you, Morris Group!”

At that very moment, he received a phone call.

The person on the line proceeded to chastise him.

With a gloomy face, Horace silently listened to everything that was being said to him.

“Mr. Park Hae-Jin will arrive in North Hampton soon. You’ll be in charge of welcoming him! Leave all of North Hampton’s matters to Mr. Park from now on. All you need to do is assist him.”

Horace’s expression instantly took a turn upon the mention of the name.

Park Hae-Jin was the son of Park Cheon-shin, the regional manager of Triple Group in Erudia.

They were the direct descendants of the family that ruled Keerea's Triple Group, and had control over all affairs in Erudia.

It was this father-and-son duo who caused Scott Yates to lose all his affiliations.

Park Cheon-shin was someone who could go up against Scott Yates.

His son was even more terrifying.

Horace knew what Park Hae-Jin was coming to North Hampton for.

That man was a complete deviant!

At four o'clock in the afternoon.

Horace waited at a highway intersection with a large group.

A row of cars arrived shortly after.

The second vehicle was a LaFerrari worth forty million.

The door opened and out came a young man in a suit. He had blue hair and his ears were pierced.

A corner of his lips curled slightly as he stood in front of Horace.

"Welcome to North Hampton, Mr. Park!" Horace bowed and said with a smile.

Yet, the Keerean man suddenly grabbed Horace by the hair, pulling him forward.

Horace cried out in pain.

Pow!

Hae-Jin punched Horace in the face, blood immediately spurted everywhere.

Pow!

Bam!

...

He continued his vicious assault on Horace.

The poor man now looked like a complete mess.

Wham!

Finally, Hae-Jin kicked Horace in the stomach, sending him flying eight meters backwards.

The latter clutched his stomach and writhed in pain.

This was exactly why Horace was afraid of Park Hae-Jin.

Fortunately, he was the general manager in Erudia, and thus still of value to Triple Group.

Otherwise, Hae-Jin would have already sent him to meet with his maker!

“Trash! You’re all trash!” Hae-Jin raged.

“What’s the point of looking after trash like you? We lost one billion just like that, not to mention Triple’s reputation was tarnished!”

The man was so livid that he brought a few of Horace’s men forward and proceeded to beat them up.

“It’s all my fault, Mr. Park Hae-Jin! I swear I’ll gain back what we’ve lost!” Horace promised while kneeling in front of Hae-Jin.

Then, he continued, “I’ve also prepared a few lovely ladies for you, Mr. Park. They’re all actresses who have recently made it big, such as Trisha Sullivan and Hazel Levine. Please enjoy your time with them!”

This was the only way to protect his own life.

Park Hae-Jin’s temper died down slightly. “Now that’s what I’m talking about!”

Perhaps, not even Trisha Sullivan would have expected something like this to happen to her after betraying Oriental Star Group.

Hae-Jin suddenly remembered something. “I heard that the most popular actress right now is Helena Engler. Her boss is a real beauty too.”

“Uhh... I don’t think I can do anything about that, Mr. Park...”

Horace began to tremble.

Hae-Jin scoffed. “Then forget it. I’ll take care of it myself! Remember this. North Hampton is at the mercy of Triple Group. That’s exactly why I’m here!”

The Protector Chapter 500

Park Hae-Jin was extremely full of himself.

However, Horace didn't question him at all.

Because he knew what Triple Group was capable of.

What Park Cheon-shin and his son were capable of.

In fact, Park Cheon-shin and his son indistinctively held more power than Scott Yates did.

But why did they never confront each other head on?

The main reason was that the losses were too huge, even if they would have won.

It would be akin to killing a thousand of Scott's men but losing eight hundred of their own.

Now that Scott's faction had collapsed, Triple Group stood alone and firm in Quebec.

They could now do whatever they pleased!

Triple Group had no issues taking over South City and ten other areas.

The toughest nut to crack was North Hampton.

Park Cheon-shin had immediately sent his son over after Horace's screw-up.

That night, Trisha Sullivan and the other women who had signed Triple Group's slave contracts were given hell.

The next day, they were carried straight into the hospital.

Horace shuddered at the news.

Park Hae-Jin was an absolute pervert who treated women like playthings.

Many of them died.

Those who didn't either ended up with depression or remained in the hospital...

Maurice was petrified too.

Hae-Jin walked out and bumped into him.

"I heard you made it pretty big, but you're nothing but a street rat now. How are you even going to make me money?" Hae-Jin asked coldly.

"I can act," Maurice answered while trembling. "I can shoot lots of movies!"

Slap, slap.

Hae-Jin patted the man's cheeks. "Do you think anyone's going to watch your movies?"

"I..."

Maurice froze on the spot.

ptooey!

Hae-Jin spat on the ground.

“Lick it up. I’m a guy who spits wherever I like. From now on, your job is to lick up all of my spit,” he said with a laugh.

“No... No...”

Maurice instantly paled.

How could a celebrity like him do such a thing?

“Now!”

Hae-Jin kicked Maurice to the ground.

Maurice had no choice but to lick it clean.

Hae-Jin ended up spitting on the floor all day.

Despair.

Endless despair!

Maurice would have remained a trending celebrity had he stuck with Oriental Star Group.

His future would have been full of riches, glory and splendor.

Sadly, he could only go through such suffering now.

...

At Bayview Garden.

Iris picked Levi up for work in her Porsche.

Zoey smiled helplessly.

Her snobbish best friend was actually driving Levi to work.

It must be because he's that charming.

Zoey smiled.

While driving, she suddenly spotted a Ferrari speeding recklessly on the left lane, disregarding all traffic rules.

All the surrounding vehicles tried to evade it.

Those who didn't make it in time ended up crashing into other cars or the guard rails.

"What!?"

Zoey's eyes widened in disbelief.

The Ferrari suddenly turned to the right lane and began zooming toward her.

Zoey wasn't driving slowly, but it was already too late to switch lanes.

Crash!

The two cars violently collided.

The airbag was instantly deployed, protecting Zoey.

No one was injured.

However, the vehicles were a different story. The Ferrari's head had completely caved in, and Zoey's Audi RS7 was severely damaged too.

Slam!

The owner of the Ferrari got down. He looked extremely menacing with his blue hair and pierced ears.

Behind the Ferrari were several other vehicles. Dozens of men in black began to exit and walk over.

“How the hell do you even drive!?”

Park Hae-Jin's attendant, Park Chang-wook, ferociously gave Zoey's Audi a few kicks.

The Protector Chapter 501

Getting out of her car, Zoey yelled furiously, "I'm not the one to blame here! You guys were the ones who were going in the opposite direction! How is that my fault?"

She was not the slightest bit afraid of them as she was certain that she was in the right.

After all, they had been driving in the opposite direction first. A fact that could be proven easily, since this entire stretch of road had multiple surveillance cameras.

Chang-wook sneered and replied, "Heh! I come from Keerea so I'm not familiar with the traffic laws in your country. All I know is that you've rammed into Mr. Park's car, a Ferrari that costs more than forty million! Look how badly damaged it is! We expect you to take full responsibility for this!"

"You-!" Zoey was so mad that she could have screamed. She had never met such a shameless person in her many years of life!

You come from Keerea so you don't know our traffic laws? What kind of logic is that?

"How could you talk in such a manner to such a beautiful woman?"

A powerful voice rang out before Park Hae-jin appeared.

Chang-wook moved aside quickly, to allow his boss a clear path towards Zoey.

Hae-jin swept a lecherous gaze across the woman's body, desire and possessiveness gleaming in his eyes.

“I have long heard about how North Hampton is a city filled with all kinds of pretty women. Seems like the rumors are true! You’re a gorgeous woman indeed!” Hae-jin praised with a smile.

Zoey raised an eyebrow at him before asking coldly, “Were you the one driving just now?”

“Yeah. What’s wrong?”

“Why didn’t you obey the traffic laws? You’re just lucky that nothing serious had happened this time and that nobody was injured. Would you have been willing to bear responsibility if anything happened?” Her chest was heaving with the fury that was currently coursing through her body.

Hae-jin chuckled and replied arrogantly, “You probably don’t know this, but I’ve been in Erudia for a very long time now. I have never once bothered myself with traffic laws. The only laws I obey are my own! Is it so wrong for me to want to go a little faster when it’s so congested on the roads? My business deals are worth billions, or even tens of billions. Every second that I waste is a major loss of profits. Who will reimburse me for that? Besides, all those pesky rules and regulations are created for poor people. Why should I, a person who drives a car worth more than forty million, obey them?”

Hearing him spout such nonsense made her itch, wanting to slap some sense into him.

“Firstly, it doesn’t matter where you come from. As long as you’re here in Erudia, you’ll have to follow the rules. Secondly, everyone is equal here in this country. It doesn’t matter if you’re royalty or a commoner- The punishments are the same! Violating the law is violating the law. Nobody cares how much your car is worth!” she tried to reason with him while staring him down, straight in the eyes.

Her strong personality surprised Hae-jin as well, as he soon felt his intrigue grow.

Feisty and pretty. How rare!

Scoffing, he responded in a haughty tone, "I don't care! I've always done things my way, following my own rules and no one else's. You've damaged my car so you'll have to pay me back for it! How about this? I'm feeling a little generous today. All you need to do is pay me back forty million, nothing more!"

Zoey was immediately astounded, as she had grown spitting mad at the audacity of the man.

The nerve of this man! This collision happened because of him, yet he dares to ask me for compensation? And forty million as well!

"Are you crazy? I'm going to call the police!"

She took her phone out and was just about to do that when a dozen men in black clothing surrounded her. One of them snatched her phone from her hands before she could stop him.

"Hey! Give me back my phone!" she yelled.

The crowd that had formed at the first sign of a traffic accident stirred slightly, but the presence of the burly men deterred them from actually doing anything to help.

Hae-jin toyed with Zoey's phone, a smirk curling upon his lips. "Pay up if you want your phone back!"

"As if I would actually pay you forty million! Dream on!"

She would rather die than pay him any money!

Her response had his smirk widening, as he started to take on a perverted edge. He took two steps forward so he was closer to her. "You don't want to pay me? Fine! Sleep with me for a week and you won't need to give me anything else. That's seven million a night. Quite profitable, wouldn't you agree? I'm pretty sure that there's nothing else you can do that will earn you that much in a single night."

"Hehehe..." The rest of his men sniggered and leered at her.

The Protector Chapter 502

Hae-jin was already being pretty polite and respectful by giving Zoey a choice. Previously, he would not have wasted so much time and effort on any woman that had caught his interest. He would have simply dragged the woman away without a care for her protests.

Of course, this was most likely because she truly was a beautiful woman.

“You’ll have to compensate me one way or the other. The choice is yours to make! You have one minute.”

Zoey was starting to panic at her current predicament. She was alone and she could not even use her phone to call for help. The serious expressions on the aggressive-looking men’s faces told her that they were not playing around.

“What’s going on here?”

Just then, a familiar and welcomed voice rang out.

Levi!

She spun around and threw herself into his arms, crying out, “Darling, they’re bullying me!”

Tears pricked at the corner of her eyes as frustration and helplessness threatened to overwhelm her.

She had seen her fair share of unreasonable people, yet, this was the first time she had ever met someone so outrageous.

Thankfully, Levi had arranged for some people to keep an eye on his wife, from afar.

Those men had instantly informed him when they had received the first signs of trouble, whereupon he instantly told Iris to turn around and head back.

Iris was notorious for her short temper, which had come into play now. “You were driving in the wrong direction! Why should we have to pay you back? Shouldn’t it be the other way around!”

“That’s right! That man really was driving against the flow of traffic! I saw it with my own eyes!”

“That Ferrari driver is the one who’s at fault here! He did not obey the traffic laws!”

...

Finally getting an opportunity to speak, the crowd began to point their fingers at Hae-jin as they spoke up against the injustice happening.

“You felt that the road was too narrow to show off your shitty car, so you had to drive over into the opposite lane, is that it?” Levi sniped in a cold tone.

“I don’t care! I’m from Keerea; the traffic laws in your country don’t apply to me! Besides, I’ll do what I want! She collided with my car so she’ll either have to cough up forty million or she can choose to spend a week with me!” Hae-jin insisted cockily.

He had always done as he had pleased in South City and nobody had dared to do anything to stop him. As long as nothing incredibly serious happened, everyone would typically turn a blind eye to what he had done.

Here in North Hampton, he thought that he could do the same.

“What? So what if he’s a foreigner? That doesn’t give him the right to be so impudent! It’s not like that makes him smarter than us either!”

“You’re in Erudia now, not your own country. Either obey our laws or get the hell out of this country!”

“Yeah, exactly! Having money and status doesn’t give you the right to act so willfully!”

...

The crowd buzzed like a hive of angry bees at Hae-jin’s arrogance.

“Shut up, you commoners! You have no right to speak here! Do you have any idea who I am? My father is the regional manager of Triple Group in Erudia! Why else do you think that nobody has come to settle this matter yet? That’s because nobody dares to do so!” Hae-jin stated smugly.

It was only then that everybody realized that there was some truth to his words.

Indeed, it had been a while since the accident had happened, yet no one had appeared to handle the matter. The only explanation for that was that nobody wanted to offend him!

Even Levi had not foreseen that he would run into the son of the regional manager of Triple Group.

Grinning triumphantly, Hae-jin continued, “Now, which option will you choose? Pay me back the money or spend the week with me? Make your decision now or don’t even think about leaving!”

His men swiftly surrounded Levi and the others, their posture threatening.

Fear coursed through Iris and Zoey as they wondered how they would be getting out of this situation.

Levi did not appear to be afraid as he chuckled and answered, “We won’t leave. At least not without settling this issue first!”

Digging out his phone, he dialed a number. “Xavier, come here this instance, to handle this problem! I don’t care who he is or what connections he has! Either you deal with this, or I will!”

On the other side of the phone, the captain of the Patrol Squad paled dramatically.

A short while later, the loud wailing of sirens gradually grew louder.

A row of patrol cars came speeding towards Levi and the others, before screeching to a halt nearby. Xavier exited the lead vehicle, followed by the chief and deputy chief of the traffic police.

The Protector Chapter 503

At this point, they had already checked the surveillance tapes and had a rough idea of what had happened.

Now, all they needed was to interrogate the crowd for their accounts of the event.

The arrival of Xavier seemed to dampen the spirits of Hae-jin and his men. Despite that, they still had an arrogant air around them and were not particularly respectful towards the policemen who had questioned them.

According to Hae-jin, Triple Group was an incredibly important company that would greatly aid the development of North Hampton in the future. Since he would be the successor someday, that meant that he was not someone whom they could touch.

In no time at all, Xavier had reached his verdict.

“After a thorough investigation, I hereby pronounce Park Hae-jin guilty of wrong-way driving! He is to bear full responsibility for the reparation costs of the accident, both for himself and for Ms. Zoey Lopez. At the same time, his driver’s license shall be revoked and he is not allowed to sit for the driver’s license test in Erudia, for the next five years. In addition to that, he is to be detained for the next fifteen days.”

After he was done with that announcement, he quickly snuck a glance at Levi.

Zoey nodded, “Captain Fields, there’s no need for Mr. Park to reimburse me. I’m already insured so I just need to talk to my insurance company. Thank you for serving me justice!”

The crowd cheered and applauded as well, evidently happy with his decision.

Xavier could feel his blood pounding in his ears as he flushed in pleasure.

Who knew that serving the people would feel so good? What a sense of accomplishment!

“What!” Hae-jin was stunned at what he was hearing.

Previously, he had done something even worse than this at South City, and yet, he had not even gotten a single demerit point.

Now, his driver’s license was being revoked and he had to be detained?

Infuriated, he yelled, “Do you know who I am? Retract your punishment immediately or you’ll be sorry!”

Xavier glared at him coldly and ordered his men, “Take him away! Arrest whoever dares to interfere too!”

With that, Hae-jin was dragged away by the policemen.

Chang-wook and the others wanted to stop his arrest, but unfortunately, they were too helpless to do anything. All they could do was stare, as their boss was shoved inside one of the police cars.

Before he entered, Hae-jin snarled at Levi, “Rest assured that I’ll be out soon enough. Just you wait!”

Completely ignoring the threat, Levi instructed the captain, “Set the bail money for... at least five million. Use that money on the development of North Hampton.”

“Okay, understood!” Xavier nodded. Respect and admiration shone in his eyes as he looked at Levi.

Even now, all he can think about is the future of North Hampton!

“Honey, I’ll drop you off at work first before getting you another car.”

Zoey and Iris were shooting Levi curious glances.

All it took was one phone call from him, and this entire matter was settled.

The two women exchanged glances, seeming to understand what the other was thinking.

The boss of Morris Group must have been the one to resolve this issue. There’s no way that it was Levi!

Meanwhile, inside the office of Triple Group in North Hampton.

“What! Mr. Hae-jin was arrested?” Horace’s tone was disbelieving, matching the shocked expression on his face.

He demanded, “Who has actually dared to do that? Don’t they know who he is?”

“It was Xavier Fields himself!”

Horace’s face fell before he uttered, “He personally arrested Mr. Hae-jin? Come with me, quickly! We have to bail Mr. Hae-jin out!”

It did not take him long to arrive at the police station.

Upon hearing that the bail was set at five million, he was taken aback.

“Mr. Waller, you have to understand that wrong-way driving is quite a serious crime.”

Horace did not hesitate in paying the bail. Regardless of whether it was ten million, or even one hundred million, it was not like he had any other choice but to pay.

Thus, Hae-jin was released from jail.

Gritting his teeth, he bit out, "I want you to conduct a background check on a few people for me. I won't let them go for doing this to me!"

"No worries, Sir. I'll see to it immediately!" Horace assured.

"Give me the car keys!" Hae-jin demanded with his hand held out.

"Ah, I can't do that, Sir! Your driver's license is still revoked, so you're not allowed to drive in Erudia for the next five years!"

Disregarding the other man's protests, Hae-jin snatched the keys from him. His lips pulled up into a sneer and he boasted, "So what if I'm driving without a license? As if anybody would have the guts to do anything about it!"

The Protector Chapter 504

“It was just a stroke of bad luck that I was arrested this time. But who in the entire city of North Hampton would dare touch me a second time?”

Hae-jin was visibly enraged.

He had been in Erudia for many years, yet never once had he suffered such humiliation before.

With a loud roar, the car sped off into the distance.

Horace sighed in exasperation and annoyance, not knowing whether it was a good thing or not that he had allowed Hae-jin to drive off.

Just then, Park Cheon-shin called him. The moment he accepted the call, the furious voice of his boss blared out, through the speakers, “How useless can you be, you piece of trash? Why can’t you do anything right? Do you have no power in North Hampton?”

“N-no, that’s not it. Boss, I-”

Cheon-sin interrupted him, “I don’t want to hear any more excuses! This is the second mistake you’ve made. You know the consequences of a third!”

A cold sweat broke out across Horace’s body. He was well aware that Park Cheon-sin was not a man to be trifled with.

For all of that, Scott Yates was truly a terrifying man; he was still someone who had valued loyalty and righteousness.

Unfortunately, Park Cheon-shin was Keerean. He was ruthless, cruel, and he did not abide by any rules other than his own.

Anyone who had a brain would know why they had to be scared of him!

Horace hastily dialed a number. "Gather all the men that we have in North Hampton and protect Park Hae-jin at all costs! Nothing must happen to him!"

In an instant, all of the men that he had scattered across the city began to mobilize.

If anything happened to Hae-jin, thousands of men would be able to rush to his aid in less than ten minutes.

Back at Oriental Star Group, Zoey was saying, "Darling, leave the matter of my car to the insurance company, okay? They'll know what to do to reimburse me. Don't involve yourself in this anymore."

Levi shook his head, insisting, "No way! Whoever ruined your car has to pay!"

"Huh? There's no need for that, is there? He's already been punished!" she mumbled with a small frown.

She was mainly worried that Levi would create more trouble than it was worth.

Grinning, he reassured her, "I never said that I would let him off the hook so easily! Relax. A new car will be waiting for you before you finish work for the day. Just you wait and see!"

Besides, that minor punishment was administered by Xavier, not him. He still needed to get his revenge on Hae-jin for what he had tried to do.

After he returned to Morris Group, he sent Phoenix off to locate Hae-jin.

“Sir, Park Hae-jin is at Ocean Villa!”

“Okay, I’ve got it.”

He headed downstairs and went looking for Seth.

“Seth, I need you to take me somewhere.”

“No problem, Mr. Garrison!”

Being an observant man, Seth could instantly tell that Levi was going out to handle a ‘problem.’ He smiled as he queried, “Shall I bring more men, Sir?”

“There’s no need for that. The two of us should be enough.”

At Ocean Villa.

Hae-jin was currently in the gym, venting out his frustration.

He was standing in an arena, dressed in only a singlet that had boasted his muscular figure.

Six men surrounded him in a loose circle, each bloodier than the last.

“C’mon then! Come at me, you useless trash!” he bellowed before bursting into motion.

He was a master at Taekwondo and he was one of the strongest fighters in the world.

The six men were soon sprawled on the floor, moaning in pain.

Yet, that was simply not enough to appease Hae-jin. In a few swift moves, he proceeded to break all of their limbs with several horrible cracking sounds.

“Ahhhh!”

The agonized cries of the crippled men reverberated in the gym, causing Hae-jin’s men to shiver.

Hae-jin was incredibly cruel and aggressive, a true psychopath. Anyone that had sparred with him had always ended up with some grievous injuries.

“Sir, I’ve found out the information that you’d wanted!” Chang-wook yelled as he dashed into the gym.

Wiping away the blood on his hands, Hae-jin snapped, “And?”

“The woman involved in the accident with you is the chairwoman of Oriental Star Group, Zoey Lopez. The man who’d helped her is her husband, Levi Garrison, while the other woman is the vice-president of Morris Group, Iris Anabelle,” his assistant reported.

Hae-jin’s eyes brightened at the information and he exclaimed gleefully, “Hahaha, what a coincidence! Those are exactly the people that I’m here to deal with!”

“What shall we do now, Sir?” Chang-wook questioned.

The Protector Chapter 505

“There’s no way I’ll let them go free now.” A wicked smirk played upon Hae-jin’s lips.

Bang!

The doors to the gym were kicked wide open, banging loudly as the two halves slammed into the wall.

“Where is Park Hae-jin?” A deep voice boomed out.

Everyone in the gym whipped their heads around in the direction of the noise, only to see Levi and Seth striding inside.

“Sir, isn’t that Levi Garrison?” Chang-wook pointed out.

Upon realizing that it was indeed Levi, Hae-jin smiled cruelly. “Shut the doors! Don’t let them escape!”

His men did as they were ordered before moving so that they had Levi and Seth completely trapped.

“You have some serious guts to deliver yourselves to my doorstep! Even better, now, I don’t have to go looking for you!” he thundered.

Levi lit a cigarette calmly as if he were not currently surrounded by more than a dozen enemies.

“Listen up, punk! The only way for me to let you off the hook is if you hand over your wife to me for some fun. Hahaha!” Hae-jin guffawed loudly, his men joining in soon after.

Through it all, Levi remained silent, as he merely stared at the chortling men.

The menacing look in his eyes caused fear to course through Hae-jin.

“W-what are you doing here?” Hae-jin found himself asking.

Levi’s voice was placid but there was an undercurrent of steel to it. “You’d rammed into my wife’s car and ruined it, so now, you have to pay up!”

Once again, Hae-jin and his men roared with laughter.

The expressions on their faces clearly showed that they had thought that Levi was a fool.

To dare ask Park Hae-jin for compensation, he really must be an idiot!

“You want me to pay up?” Hae-jin asked for confirmation.

“That’s right! Her car costs at least two million, you know. Now, pay up!”

“Let me tell you a cold, hard fact: I have never reimbursed anyone for anything before! I never have and never will. You’ve said that you want my money? Only in your dreams!”

Taking a puff of his cigarette, Levi stated indifferently, “What if I insist on receiving compensation from you?”

Raucous laughter greeted his words.

Hae-jin had even thrown his head back, his stomach aching with the force of his chortling.

Being so bold while the police captain was around one matter.

It was another matter entirely to demand compensation from him while on his turf.

This guy must have a death wish!

“Hahaha... Oh, my aching sides...Urgh!”

Hae-jin’s mocking laughter was abruptly cut off when Levi suddenly stabbed his still burning cigarette into the other man’s open mouth.

“Argh!” Hae-jin screamed in agony.

His men were dumbfounded at what had just happened.

Levi had moved so fast that even Hae-jin had been unable to react in time.

A deathly silence descended upon them.

Nobody had expected Levi to attack so suddenly.

Even Seth was amazed at the speed of his movement.

“Is it really that funny?” Levi asked with a frown.

Face scrunched up and red with pain, Hae-jin roared, “Beat them up! I don’t want to see them standing after this or else!”

Acknowledging his orders, his men prepared to rush forward, at Levi.

“Are all you fers bored of living already? C’mon then, make a move! I dare you!”

Whipping out two batons, Seth stared the men down without a hint of fear on his face.

He was a retired military scout who had seen more than his fair share of wars. Facing down these normal men was nothing compared to what he had faced on the battlefields.

This was the reason that Levi had hired him on, as the head of security.

“Do you regret coming with me, Seth?” Levi wondered aloud.

“Hah, as if! Since you treat me as a brother, I’m more than happy to do the same!” came Seth’s proud reply.

Smiling, Levi answered, “That’s good to know.”

Enraged, Hae-jin snarled at his men, “What the hell are you guys still standing around for? Get them!”

The Protector Chapter 506

“Charge!” Hae-jin’s men gave out a battle cry as they rushed at Levi and Seth.

Thud! Thud!

...

Armed with his batons, Seth showed that just because he was retired did not mean that he had lost his combat abilities. Nobody could get close to him at all as they were swatted down like flies.

Levi’s side of things was even scarier.

Thud!

One punch from him would send his opponent flying back more than ten meters.

...

“Ugh...”

A short while later, all of Hae-jin’s men were collapsed on the ground, groaning and whimpering in pain.

Hae-jin and Chang-wook were utterly dumbstruck, as they stared at the other two men with wide-eyed disbelief.

How can they be so powerful?

Despite being a Taekwondo master, Hae-jin could tell he was no match for Seth, let alone Levi.

Wham!

With a harsh smack from Seth's baton, Chang-wook was soon sent sprawling to the ground.

Before Hae-jin could retaliate, the ex-military scout kicked him and he was swift, to crumple to the floor.

At long last, he was dragged forward and tossed at Levi's feet.

"Well then. Are you going to pay up now?" Levi patted the defeated man's cheek gently.

Hae-jin may have been domineering and arrogant, but he was no fool. He knew that it was better to back down now to lick his wounds. Revenge could come later.

With that thought in mind, he nodded. "Yes, I will as you want."

"Great! Let's go and select a brand new car, shall we?"

And that was how Levi came to choose a McLaren 720s for Zoey, a car that had cost more than four million.

Humiliation!

Complete and utter humiliation!

Hae-jin's face was flushed with shame as he seethed in impotent anger.

Not only had he been beaten up, rather, he was also being forced to pay compensation as well!

Before he left, Levi gave him one last parting warning, “Your driver’s license has been revoked, so don’t ever let me see you driving on the road again. Otherwise, I won’t have mercy on you, the next time around!”

“You-” Hae-jin was sorely tempted to retort that it was none of his business if he drove without a license. However, he knew that all that would bring him was another round of beating.

Gritting his teeth, he replied, “I-I... understand...”

When Zoey got off work and spotted the brand new McLaren waiting for her, she was stunned.

“T-this... W-where did you get this from?”

“It’s compensation!” was Levi’s cheerful reply.

“Huh? Compensation? Why would he buy me a car as compensation?”

“I convinced him with virtue and managed to make him see sense. Of course, he would make it up to you somehow.”

She shot him a suspicious look, certain that things were not as simple as he had made it out to be.

After Levi and Seth left, Hae-jin practically exploded with rage.

“Useless pieces of trash! I wasted millions on you and you can’t even defeat a single security guard!”

He did not hold back as he lashed out at his men, each blow breaking their skins and causing their blood to splatter to the ground.

His bodyguards bore their punishment silently, feeling as though they deserved it since they had lost to a security guard, even with their advantage in numbers.

Right then, Horace finally arrived at the scene.

Sweat dotted his forehead and dripped down his face.

Cheon-shin's warning about making the third mistake echoed in his ears. How could he have known something would happen to Hae-jin yet again, even after all the efforts he had put in?

With a thump, he fell to his knees before Hae-jin.

"Sir, this is all my fault! I did not handle this matter properly. Please punish me!"

Wham!

Hae-jin's foot darted out in a hard kick, sending Horace flying back several meters.

"All of you are worthless!" the infuriated man bellowed.

Crawling back to Hae-jin, Horace pleaded, "Sir, please give me another chance! I promise that I'll deal with this matter properly this time!"

"Where were you when I was getting beaten up? I thought you'd said that you had everything in control, here in North Hampton?" Hae-jin demanded.

Crack!

"Ahhhh!"

Horace rolled on the ground in agony as the other man snapped his arm in two.

“S-sir, w-what would you have me do? I-I’ll do anything that you tell me to!” he wheezed through his pain.

The Protector Chapter 507

Hae-jin took out his phone and dialed his father's number. "Dad, I was beaten up by someone. I hope that you can send Lee Da-jong and Lee Da-yong over to aid me. Please!"

"Okay, no problem."

A crazy smile spread across his face at his father's easy agreement. "With the two of them by my side, I won't have to be afraid of anyone in North Hampton!"

Lee Da-jong and Lee Da-yong were two of his father's personal bodyguards. Together, they were on par with Typhoon, in terms of combat ability.

The two men, brothers, were two of Keerea's best Taekwondo masters. In fact, they were the disciples of Lee Jae-shik, the chief coach of Keerea's soldiers.

In Keerea, Lee Jae-shik was like a god to the people.

Having perfected his form over the years, his Taekwondo skills were second to none, in the entire world.

Not only that, but he had also trained Keerea's Special Operations Regiment. All of the men that underwent his training were powerful individuals in their own right.

It was rumored that two of his beloved disciples had inherited fifty percent of his skills. They, too, used to be part of the Special Operations Regiment and had killed hundreds of enemies on the battlefield by themselves.

For the past few years, they had been by Park Cheon-shin's side as he carved a territory for himself in Erudia.

The recent events had pushed Hae-jin over the edge and he had had no choice but to ask for their help.

With a cold laugh, Hae-jin exclaimed, "Someone had once told me that I would be unable to act out without a driver's license. Well, I'm not entirely convinced about that!"

Knowing that Hae-jin was beyond reason now, all Horace could do was select two hundred of his best men to protect the other man.

That night, Azure Dragon brought news to Levi.

"Sir, South City is saying that they can't do anything about Triple Group stealing those hundreds of billions from Scott Yates. Not unless they outrightly confront them about it. They are rather reluctant to do that, as Triple Group and South City are working together on a lot of projects."

Levi snorted and replied, "Seeing as they're so hesitant about this, I'll handle this matter myself! I've already said that nobody is allowed to touch that money!"

If Triple Group had only been satisfied with confining themselves to South City, he would not have minded them. Yet, now they were getting greedy and extending their reach into North Hampton.

Levi was having none of that. This was just giving him more reason, to want to deal with them.

Meanwhile, Hae-jin was as excited as a child on Christmas morning.

The reason for his high spirits? Lee Da-yong and Lee Da-jong had arrived.

The two men stood there like tigers, waiting to pounce, muscles coiled and ready to strike. The menacing aura they had exuded sent shivers racing down Horace's spine. Suddenly, he felt his body turn cold, all over.

“Who in North Hampton would dare to touch me now?” Hae-jin stated arrogantly with a mad cackle.

The next day, Hae-jin was still doing as he had pleased, racing down the roads in a luxury sports car.

Following closely behind him was a black sedan with the two brothers inside.

All around them were two hundred of Horace’s men, everybody dutifully following Hae-jin as he weaved and darted through the traffic.

He was completely ignoring any and all traffic laws.

Wrong-way driving was only a minor crime amongst the list of other rules that he was currently breaking.

When he saw a zebra crossing, he would accelerate, watching gleefully as the pedestrians threw themselves to the side, to avoid him.

One of the main roads of the city was even suffering from heavy congestion, due to his rampant driving. He had caused quite a few cases of traffic accidents at several intersections.

The strange happenings at that main road soon caught the attention of the staff at the Traffic Bureau.

Using the surveillance cameras, they were able to quickly locate the source of all the trouble- Hae-jin’s sports car.

“I thought that his license was revoked and I believe that he’s not allowed to sit for another test within the next five years? Why is he still driving on the roads?”

Shocked and puzzled, they quickly reported this incident to their superiors.

Hae-jin was feeling particularly satisfied, upon looking at what he had caused, at that main road.

“Yeah, I’m driving without a license! So what? Come and arrest me if you can!” he shouted at one of the surveillance cameras before pointing his middle finger towards it, in an obscene gesture.

The camera perfectly captured the smug and haughty expression on his face.

“Levi Garrison, I’m driving without a license! What are you going to do about it?”

The Protector Chapter 508

The record of the list of laws that Hae-jin had flouted had swiftly found its way over to Xavier's desk.

He did not immediately resolve the issue, instead, he decided to inform Levi about it.

"Sir, what do you think we should do?"

Xavier was trembling slightly from where he was standing in front of Levi. He could clearly sense that the other man was furious.

Hae-jin's actions were not only a snub at the God of War himself, but rather, it was also directed to the laws of Erudia!

"I'll see to this matter personally!" Levi bit out harshly.

"Understood!"

In truth, Xavier was also incredibly pissed off at what Hae-jin had done. However, he was in a difficult bind, and so, he could only turn a blind eye to the situation. He knew that quite a few people were in the same boat as him. Thus, he was quite relieved that the God of War was going to handle this matter himself.

Finally, someone is going to teach that arrogant brat a lesson!

Levi stated, "I'll head over there now."

He was honestly surprised that such an egoistic person even existed in this day and age.

“Seth, I need you to drop me off somewhere.”

Once again, he headed to his destination with Seth as his only backup.

At that moment, Hae-jin had moved on to one of the coastal roads. He was driving in the opposite direction again, going against the flow of traffic.

The Traffic Bureau’s hotline was ringing incessantly as reports of his wrongdoings poured in endlessly.

Horace, who was observing everything from a distance, was extremely worried at the actions of the younger man.

He’s pissing off way too many people in one go! How stupid can he be? Provoking the government of North Hampton by driving without a license is a phenomenally dumb idea! At this rate, he’s going to doom Triple Group!

However, Horace knew that this was all part of Cheon-shin’s plan.

Cheon-shin was allowing his son to do this, even encouraging him!

The reason for that was simple- to exert pressure on North Hampton.

He wanted Jesse Nielsen, the governor of North Hampton, to understand Triple Group’s intentions. They were going to break into the North Hampton market, one way or the other.

Hae-jin abruptly stopped his car.

“Aw, c’mon! I’ve been doing this for so long yet not a single person dares to confront me about it? How boring!”

Vroom!

In the next second, an Audi screeched to a halt before him, as two men soon exited the car.

Hae-jin's face darkened, the moment he had laid eyes on them. Soon enough, his blood began to boil in his veins.

It was his most hated enemy, the man who had humiliated him time and time again- Levi!

Upon getting out of the car, the first thing Levi did was lunge towards Hae-jin.

He grabbed Hae-jin by the collar before the other man could react.

“Didn’t I remind you not to drive without a license?” Levi growled in a chilly tone. There was a dangerous gleam in his eyes.

“I-I-I...” Fear had Hae-jin stuttering and he could not even finish his sentence.

Bang!

A sedan charged towards them and stopped before two men stepped out of the car.

It was Da-yong and Da-jong.

The atmosphere changed at their appearance, becoming tense as the temperature seemed to drop, by several degrees.

Unease curled in Seth as he watched them warily.

What a terrifying aura!

The two men locked their gazes on him and Seth's Adam's apple bobbed as he swallowed. It was like having a deadly viper targeting you.

Horace's men arrived soon after, swiftly encircling Levi and Seth and blocking them from escaping.

Seth could feel himself tensing at how dangerous the situation was turning out to be.

Despite that, he was still not unafraid!

Levi paid no mind to the men around him, his attention focused on Hae-jin alone. "Well? Haven't I warned you before?"

"Such insolence! Let go of Mr. Park!" Da-jong's low voice warned.

Dismissing the man's warning, Levi patted Hae-jin's cheek condescendingly. "Still not willing to answer me? That's just asking for a slap from me, you know."

Da-jong thundered, "You dare?"

Scoffing, Levi raised his hand and gave Hae-jin a hard smack across the cheek.

Slap!

"Hmm? What are you going to do about it?" he mocked with a grin.

Da-jong's face purpled with rage at how the other man had blatantly ignored his warning and hit Hae-jin.

The Protector Chapter 509

“You bd, what did you do!” Da-yong cried out in shocked anger.

Levi smiled and uttered in an innocent tone, “Oh, you didn’t see? Okay, let me show you one more time!”

Smack!

Another ringing slap landed on Hae-jin’s face.

Within seconds, his face swelled up badly, as Levi had not held back his strength when hitting him.

There was a loud intake of breath from everyone present before their jaws dropped open in astonishment.

The Lee brothers were utterly stupefied.

Someone had actually dared to hit Hae-jin right in front of them, in a deliberate act of provocation.

How humiliating!

How were they going to explain this to their boss, Cheon-shin?

No, they simply could not endure this anymore!

They could not stand by and keep still, as the situation had escalated!

Hae-jin was beyond furious as he shrieked, “Kill him! Kill them both!”

Da-jong sprang into action, pouncing forward in Levi's direction.

In the blink of an eye, he had crossed the ten meters separating both him and Levi. He raised his leg up high, sweeping at the latter's head.

Whoosh!

The speed and force behind his kick caused it to whistle through the air.

