A wave of hot air slammed into Seth and his face felt like it was burning.

What was even more terrifying was the killing intent, that was emanating from Da-jong. It was the kind of aura that could only be honed out on the raging battlefields, amongst a sea of corpses.

He's strong. Incredibly strong!

The wave of pressurized air left behind in the wake of Da-jong's kick was enough to force Seth back several steps, a fact that had worry for Levi springing up in him.

Levi will definitely die if this kick lands on his head!

However, it was too late for him to do anything about it now.

Right before Da-jong's foot was about to connect with Levi's head, the latter moved.

Da-jong's eyes widened when his instincts screamed at him that danger was coming.

Levi's leg snapped out, his speed a lot faster than Da-jong.

Wham!

Like a sledgehammer, his kick landed on Da-jong's abdomen and sent the man soaring back.

Thud!

Da-jong crashed to the ground hard, his face pale and twisted with agony.

Nobody but him would know that Levi's single kick had injured his internal organs badly.

Everyone was speechless upon witnessing what had just happened.

If even a skilled fighter like Da-jong was no match for Levi, then just how powerful could he be?

"Die!" Da-yong roared before disappearing from view.

He appeared behind Levi and there was a silvery glint, as something slid into his hand from his sleeve.

Schnick!

Brandishing the dagger in his hand, he stabbed it towards Levi's neck.

He had done all of this in one fluid movement, not a single motion wasting any more energy than necessary. It was perfection, honed from hundreds of battles and kills!

As expected of the famous Lee Jae-shik's disciples, one was a master at the art of Taekwondo, while the other had trained his body into the perfect weapon.

His move was simple and direct, yet incredibly fast, deadly and accurate.

Seth and Hae-jin, the two men standing closest to him other than Levi, could feel a coldness seeping into them. The hairs all over their bodies stood on end and they froze, unable to even twitch a muscle. It was almost as though they had been plunged into icy waters.

At that moment, it was like death itself was breathing down their necks.

Seth squeezed his eyes shut, unable to bring himself to see what would happen next.

Mr. Garrison has met his match this time. If he can't dodge this attack, there's no way he'll survive!

Excitement overwhelmed the fear that Hae-jin was feeling.

This time, Levi Garrison is a dead man for sure!

The dagger neared Levi's neck. The closer it got, the more exhilarated Da-yong felt.

Once it slides into his neck, he's dead!

The Protector Chapter 510

Within the next second, the smile on Da-yong's face vanished.

Something black flashed in his vision and his dagger seemed to have stabbed into stone, unable to move forward at all.

When he realized what he was seeing, shock and horror crossed his face.

Levi had actually pinched the blade between two fingers, halting it in its tracks.

The force exerted on the weapon from those two fingers was tremendous.

Since when did North Hampton have such a terrifying man?

Crack!

Da-yong's eyes nearly popped out of his head.

The blade was broken.

The blade was broken with two fingers.

What kind of a crazy psycho is he?

This dagger was part of the equipment given to him when he had been in the Special Operations Regiment. It was made from a special material that was said to be nearly indestructible. Even a bullet would not have dented the metal.

Now, someone had actually broken it with two fingers!

Thud!

Before he could regain his senses, Levi lashed out with a vicious kick that sent him flying backward.

“Ahhh!” he howled in agony as he crashed to the floor.

More than a dozen of his bones were broken from that one kick.

Hae-jin was filled with utter shock, as he was suddenly feeling incredibly faint.

Who is Levi Garrison, truly? Even the Lee brothers aren't his equals!

The remaining two hundred men were shaking in their shoes, absolutely terrified. No one dared to even take a step forward.

After all, they were not suicidal.

Levi locked his gaze on Hae-jin's figure, repeating his earlier question, “Did I warn you about driving without a license?”

“Y-yes... You d-did...” Hae-jin nodded vigorously, his previous arrogance nowhere to be seen.

“Then why hadn't you listened to me?”

“I-I...” was the stammered response. Hae-jin did not know what to say.

“Since you can't seem to control yourself, I'll help you!”

Wham! Crack!

Levi kicked at one of Hae-jin's legs, breaking it immediately.

“Ahhhh!”

Crack! Crack! Crack!

Three more strikes from Levi and the rest of Hae-jin’s limbs were summarily broken as well.

The crippled man crumpled to the floor, rolling around as he screamed in pain.

A smug smirk tugged at the edges of Levi’s lips. “Okay! Now you won’t be able to leave your house and drive around without a license! Every time I see you behind the wheel, I’ll snap your limbs all over again!”

“You monster! You devil!”

This was the first time that Hae-jin had come to meet someone even crazier than he!

Despite being on the same side as Levi, Seth was rather fearful as well.

What a vicious man!

When Levi moved, two hundred pairs of eyes were fixed on him, with terror shining in them. They parted like the Red Sea before Moses, allowing him to walk away unhindered.

By the time Horace arrived and saw the scene before him, he knew that he was doomed.

Hae-jin had been beaten up and had become crippled on his territory, so this would be his responsibility.

“What the hell were you guys doing! You fing useless pieces of trash!”

Slap! Slap!

The enraged man began to slap his underlings.

“Sir, it’s not our fault! That guy was simply too powerful! Look, even Lee Da-yong and Lee Da-jong were no match for him!” they cried out pitifully.

“Then what are you still waiting around for? Send them to the hospital!”

Just then, Hae-jin spoke up in a weak voice, refusing, “No! Take us back to South City!”

Horace could do little else but obey.

He called Cheon-shin and reported to him about everything that had happened.

“Mr. Park, please punish me! I would be willing to die for my crimes!”

Horace was already steeling himself for his inevitable death.

The hard tone of Cheon-shin answered, “I understand that what had happened this time had nothing to do with you. This matter is not something that you’ll be able to resolve. I’m personally coming to North Hampton!”

Horace’s heart skipped a beat at his boss’ words.

Things were about to get serious.

The Protector Chapter 511

Park Cheon-shin was coming down to North Hampton.

At Noblesse Villa in South City.

This was the residence of Park Cheon-shin.

Presently, he was watching, as several men carefully unloaded his injured son from a car.

He was absolutely incensed!

His precious son was crippled and two of his best bodyguards were barely clinging on to life.

This was a huge slap in the face for Triple Group!

Not even Scott Yates had dared to do this!

In fact, the leaders of South City would not have dared to do so either!

Yet a puny little city had had the audacity to go up against the might of Triple Group?

How outrageous!

However, upon looking at the condition that the Lee brothers were in now, he knew that the opposition was no weakling. It was likely they had more power than Scott Yates.

The only way to resolve this matter was if his own men were even more powerful.

“Dad, you have to avenge me! North Hampton has some psychopath protecting it!” Hae-jin shouted.

Cheon-shin pondered his next course of action carefully before calling the Keerea headquarters of Triple Group. He quickly explained the situation, ending with, “Please send Master Lee Jae-shik to Erudia to oversee this matter!”

Since he was in charge of making sure that Triple Group had dominated the extremely profitable Quebec market, he would do whatever it took to accomplish his mission. Certain sacrifices would have to be made if he had wanted to have the chief coach of Keerea’s help; sacrifices that he was more than happy to make, as he did not want to give up just yet.

“Yes, okay. As long as Mr. Lee agrees, he can come immediately. I’ll arrange for everything.”

On a small island somewhere in Keerea.

An elderly man with snowy hair was fishing.

Sitting incredibly still, he exuded a calm aura, almost unnaturally so.

As if he had some sort of power, the waters beneath his fishing rod were teeming with fish. The swarm only seemed to grow larger, as time passed, and more and more gathered around.

It was a strange and unexplainable phenomenon.

Right then, hurried footsteps sounded from behind him.

“Master, something bad has happened! Mistery Lee Da-yong and Lee Da-jong were beaten up by someone in Erudia! They’re badly injured and whether they’ll survive is unknown!”

A man reported in a panicked tone before he kneeled on the ground in front of the old man.

Boom!

The old man suddenly yanked on his fishing rod and a loud rumbling sound could be heard. The waters began to spin rapidly, forming into a huge vortex.

Several seconds later, massive waves reaching tens of meters high rose up.

Thousands of fish flopped on the beach, tossed out by the churning waves.

Everybody present was stunned at the majestic sight, wondering if the old man had some sort of superpower.

“Mr. Park Cheon-shin is hoping that you will head to Erudia to aid him. Firstly, to assist in Triple Group’s expansion into the country, and secondly, to get revenge for Mistery Lee Da-jong and Lee Da-yong!” the man kneeling on the floor continued pleadingly.

Behind him, more than a hundred men got down on their knees as well, shouting, “Triple Group wishes to call upon Master Lee Jae-shik to assist it in dealing with some matters! Please come out of retirement, Master!”

Their voices merged into a cacophonous roar, echoing up into the skies.

It had been many years since Jae-shik had retired from the Keerea military and he had originally planned on never involving himself with the outside world again.

However... A gleam entered his eyes and he spoke up, "Fine. I would like to see the hometown of the God of War anyway!"

As he said this, a tiny bit of fear curled up inside him.

He was well aware of how terrifying the God of War of Erudia was!

There was a loud roar of approval from the men, as they took his words as agreement.

After ten years of hiding himself from the world, Keerea's number one Taekwondo master was finally coming out of retirement. He was heading for Erudia to aid Triple Group in taking over Quebec.

Cheon-shin was ecstatic when he heard the news and came close to dancing in glee.

With someone as powerful as Jae-shik on their side, taking over Quebec would be child's play.

After that, they would move on to the surrounding cities.

The Protector Chapter 512

Levi had just gotten off from work when an unexpected visitor came for him.

It was one of Scott's old subordinates, Theo.

Since he was not directly involved in the incident last time, Levi had not killed him.

Curious at the other man's sudden appearance, Levi asked, "You were looking for me?"

"I'll be frank with you, Mr. Garrison. I'm sure that you know that my boss has accumulated hundreds of billions in wealth in the past decade or so. He is also an avid collector of priceless artifacts. Amongst his collection, three are unique and incredibly rare pieces. You could say that they represent the very culture of Erudia itself!"

At this point, realization dawned upon Levi as he blurted out, "Don't tell me that Triple Group has stolen them?"

"Thankfully, no. When my boss had retired, he deliberately entrusted ten of his most precious artifacts to the North Hampton Chrisler Foundation. Now that Mr. Yates is gone, the foundation is actually claiming the artifacts for themselves! What's even more infuriating is that they are going to have an auction for these treasures! I have heard rumors that Triple Group is intent on bidding for those items. These are practically the national treasures of Erudia and I don't want them to land into the hands of some other country, a sentiment that I'm certain that Mr. Yates would agree with! Please help me, Mr. Garrison! Mr. Yates went through a lot of trouble to buy back those three artifacts from an auction at another country."

Theo crashed to the floor on his knees as he begged Levi for his help.

Even though Scott and his ilk had used to bully anyone that they could, as they had gone around committing many horrible crimes, they were still extremely loyal to their country

Chuckling grimly, Levi replied, "I'm quite certain that the auction is merely a front. Triple Group and the Chrisler Foundation have probably already come to an agreement that these artifacts are to be theirs. They're just putting on a show for everyone else so that it would appear as though Triple Group had obtained the artifacts through legal means."

Theo blinked in surprise before exclaiming, "T-that's right! Since those artifacts are national treasures, Triple Group would not be able to take them that easily. Thus, they had probably conspired with the Chrisler Foundation to have this auction. Triple Group is truly shameless! Not only did they steal hundreds of billions from Mr. Yates, now, they even want to snatch away his most precious treasures! How despicable!"

"Alright. Tell me the location and the time. I'll deal with it!" Levi assured with a dark look on his face.

Is there any end to Triple Group's greed?

"Eight o'clock tomorrow night at Lakeside Villa!"

Color was slowly returning to Theo's pale face.

Now that he had passed this matter off for Levi to handle, he could finally relax.

Jae-shik had insisted that the news of his coming to Erudia should be kept secret.

Anyone who had fought in a war knew that Erudia was basically off-limits because the God of War himself protected it.

Who had dared to attack Erudia with such a legendary figure guarding it?

Even Jae-shik, who had retired from the military for ten years, was still wary of outrightly invading the country.

It was a bone-deep sort of fear that could never truly be forgotten.

In the past five years, the God of War had single-handedly defeated the eighteen nations.

Hence, Jae-shik wanted his arrival to happen with as little fanfare as possible. He did not want the God of War to find out about it, or that would spell great trouble for him.

After successfully entering Erudia, he threw all caution to the winds.

From now on, nobody would be able to stop him from doing what he wanted.

As long as I stay away from the God of War, I should be free to do as I wish.

At the airport in Quebec, South City.

Cheon-shin had arranged for half the airport to be sealed off to welcome Jae-shik.

More than a dozen black cars were parked on the tarmac, with hundreds of men in black clothing standing there, waiting in neat lines.

Upon exiting the plane, Jae-shik was taken aback at the sight before him.

How extravagant!

This was practically announcing to the world his arrival!

“Welcome to Erudia, Master!” hundreds of voices chorused.

In the eyes of these men, Lee Jae-shik was like a god!

His Taekwondo skills were undefeatable!

Who would dare to challenge him?

The Protector Chapter 513

Park Cheon-shin was already fantasizing about taking over the seven southern regions, with the assistance of this powerful figure.

Lee Jae-shik patted Park Cheon-shin on the shoulder and gave him a piece of advice, saying, "Don't do anything so extreme again in the future. Come straight to me if you're facing any problems and I'll help you in dealing with them!"

"I... I understand..." Park Cheon-shin's voice trembled slightly.

"By the way, Master, I'd heard that you like to collect antiques! There will be an auction tomorrow night and I'm planning to bid for an original piece of Erudian artwork, an ancient Erudian porcelain vase, and also Quebec's Legendary Pearls. I'll be sure to gift them to you!" Park Cheon-shin offered earnestly, trying to curry favor with him.

"Oh? What a delight."

Indeed, Lee Jae-shik enjoyed collecting antique artwork.

He had a collection of antiques from every country in the world.

All except for Erudia.

This was one of his greatest regrets!

Now that an opportunity had arisen, he, a Taekwondo master of his generation, could barely contain his excitement.

“Very well! As long as you bring me those things that you’ve just mentioned, I’ll get rid of all the obstacles that you might face in Erudia!” Lee Jae-shik vowed.

“Yes, master! I won’t let you down!”

This was exactly what Park Cheon-shin had been waiting to hear.

With Lee Jae-shik backing him up, all his worries would be erased.

He could probably even do as he had pleased, without fearing the repercussions.

After the auction, no one will be able to stop me from avenging my son!

“Come. Let’s go see how those two students of mine are faring.”

As usual, Lee Jae-shik was devoted to his students.

The next day.

After getting off from work, Levi met up with Zoey.

“Honey, there’s somewhere that I want to take you to!” Levi announced with a bright grin.

Zoey eyed him suspiciously and asked, “You wouldn’t be thinking of causing trouble again, would you?”

“What the hell! Am I really just a troublemaker in your eyes?” Levi retorted accusingly.

“Yep.”

Zoey nodded solemnly.

Half an hour later, Levi's car pulled up at Lakeside Villa.

"It seems like there's an auction here. Are you participating in it?" Zoey asked.

"Yeah. I'm thinking of buying a few antiques, as gifts for both Mom and Dad!" Levi grinned.

Zoey pinched him on the shoulder and chided him, "Stop joking around! The items being auctioned off tonight are worth more than a few hundred thousand. They can easily go up to millions! But here you are, joking about wanting to give them to Mom and Dad?"

Meanwhile, in Lakeside Villa.

Horace held his phone to his ear, listening to Park Cheon-shin's instructions.

"Remember, Horace. This is your last chance! All of Scott Yates' ten artifacts must be delivered to me as well! I'm sure that you're aware of the consequences that will befall you if you fail!"

Horace was so fearful, to the point where he had broken out in cold sweat.

If he failed, death was the consequence!

"Don't worry, boss. I have made all the necessary arrangements at the auction! All the bidders have been briefed. They'll raise the bid a couple of times each round, just for formalities sake!"

"I'll assure you that tonight, no one would dare to bid against us!" Horace spoke with conviction.

He had spread the word just a while ago, informing everyone that Triple Group was determined to get all of the artifacts put up for auction, meaning that no one should stand in their way.

Triple Group would consider those who had done as such to be their sworn enemies!

Horace had also invited many media reporters to display a live broadcast of the auction.

They wanted to let the whole of South City and Erudia know that these priceless artifacts were obtained by Triple Group through proper means; not by robbing!

Triple Group was dealt a good hand, and they would win if they had played it well.

All they needed to do was be patient!

The best part was that they didn't need to spend a single penny to acquire the ten artifacts.

After Levi presented his entry ticket, he entered the auction event with Zoey, without any mishaps.

Their seats were at the far back.

To put it bluntly, they were merely here as extras for the sake of livening the atmosphere.

After all, the auction tonight was rigged.

Before the auction began, Horace ran through everything, one final time, with the person in charge of the Chrysler Foundation.

The Protector Chapter 514

“Don’t worry, Mr. Waller. Everything is ready!” Kenneth West, the person in charge of Chrisler Foundation, reassured him.

“Good. If all goes well, you and your foundation will be richer, by 3 billion,” Horace guaranteed.

“That’s great news!”

Kenneth could barely contain his joy.

All the guests were seated in the auction room.

Horace’s seat was in the center of the first row.

Before taking his seat, he swept his gaze over the crowd, the warning in his sharp and menacing eyes apparent for all to see.

He was warning everyone that all the artifacts tonight belonged to Triple Group. Not a single one of them was allowed to touch them!

The crowd immediately received his silent message and became too afraid to even think about bidding.

Soon, the auction officially began.

“The first item for tonight’s auction is an ancient manuscript, known as Lantingji Xu! The starting bid is ten million and each bid must be increased by at least one million!” the host announced excitedly.

“The bidding starts now!”

“Hold on!” Horace abruptly stopped the host.

“Mr. Waller, is there a problem?” the host questioned curiously.

Horace glanced at the crowd and announced, “All of North Hampton’s elites have gathered here for this auction! Everyone’s time is precious! I think that it’s better to put all the auction items out at once!”

“Uh...”

The host hesitated upon hearing Horace’s suggestion and looked at Kenneth who was amongst the audience.

The latter made an ‘okay’ sign with his fingers.

“Very well. We will present all of the auction items at once!” the host declared.

Horace addressed the crowd this time, “Does anyone object to this?”

“We’ll go with your suggestion, Mr. Waller!”

“Yes! May the highest bidder win!”

...

Everyone echoed their agreements.

Who would dare to go against Triple Group?

“I agree!”

Levi also raised his hands in full support.

An all-at-once auction? Count me in!

It's definitely more time-saving, compared to bidding for each item one by one.

Zoey rolled her eyes at him. "Why are you so excited? This auction is clearly rigged! Triple Group is going to bid for the artifacts all at once! What are you applauding for?"

"Then I can bid for all the artifacts all at once too!"

The edges of Levi's mouth lifted upwards.

"All ten items have been presented now. These are antiques collected by Scott Yates throughout his entire lifetime! This is an original piece of Erudian artwork by a well-known figure during ancient times! This is an ancient porcelain vase, and this here is Quebec's Legendary Pearls. These three artifacts are Erudia's national treasures and the pride of the nation!"

"The starting bid for all ten items is five hundred million, with an increase in the bid of no less than ten million!"

"The bidding starts now!" the host shouted.

"Five hundred and ten million!"

"Five hundred and twenty million!"

...

The paid bidders arranged by Triple Group began to bid.

The bid increase was very slight, each time.

“I bid...”

North Hampton’s real estate tycoon, Jaxon Franklin raised his bid paddle.

“Huh?”

Horace whipped around to glare at him.

“Forget it! I’m out!”

Jaxon was frightened by the threat in Horace’s gaze, instantly forfeiting his bid.

The other tycoons who had the ability to bid gradually gave up as well.

These antique treasures were tempting, but they couldn’t afford to get on Triple Group’s bad side!

Everyone was all aware of Triple Group’s ruthless methods.

They were truly merciless people, who would cut down anyone and everyone who stood in their way!

“Mm. Good,” Horace muttered under his breath.

A satisfied smile appeared on Horace’s face when he saw that everyone giving up.

Only death awaited those who had challenged Triple Group!

When the bidding price had reached a certain amount, Horace raised his paddle and shouted, “Six hundred million by Triple Group!”

When he revealed his identity, the scene quietened, as everyone held their breaths.

No one dared to bid anymore.

The paid bidders also withdrew, one after another, since they had already fulfilled their purpose.

The Protector Chapter 515

All the media reporters were watching Horace closely.

Faced only with utter silence at the scene, Horace and Kenneth exchanged glances and wore matching victorious grins on their faces.

The host cast his glance at the audience. “Six hundred million going once!”

“Going twice!”

...

Horace was already grinning from ear to ear.

It’s a mission success!

And my position as the general manager in Erudia is still secure!

“One billion!” Right before the third and final call, a loud voice suddenly rang out.

The host immediately swallowed back the words at the tip of his tongue.

Kenneth and Horace were both stunned, and so was everyone else.

...

Everyone looked behind them simultaneously.

Zoey timidly tugged on Levi's arm because he was the one who had raised the bid!

"What? It's them?"

Horace recognized Levi and Zoey with only a single glance.

This was something that he had never expected to happen.

He had given strict orders to Kenneth, instructing him to control the guestlist for tonight's auction event. Hence, he never thought that these two people would be allowed in.

Horace panicked slightly and countered, "Isn't this a little too inappropriate? I'd obviously bid six hundred million first!"

"Pfft! Haven't you been at an auction before? The final call hasn't been made yet!" Levi spat in return.

"You..."

His words instantly caused Horace to silence himself.

"Does anyone want to bid higher than one billion?" Levi asked.

The host reluctantly repeated Levi's question as well.

"1.1 billion!" Horace forced the words through his lips.

"1.5 billion!" Levi yelled, determined to be the last bidder.

"You..."

Horace's anger skyrocketed.

This guy is obviously here for me!

"1.6 billion!" Horace reluctantly raised the bid.

He had to complete the mission given to him by Park Cheon-shin.

"2 billion!"

Levi raised his paddle once again.

Gasps filled the room as everyone drew in sharp breaths.

The crowd gaped at Levi in disbelief.

This is absolute madness!

Is he going to fight Triple Group to the death?

He must be crazy!

He's blatantly disrespecting Triple Group!

"You... You..."

Horace was going mad with fury.

Originally, he could have gotten the artifacts with a budget of six hundred million, but Levi had raised the bid up to 2 billion.

He had to top it by at least a few million if he had wanted to win.

“F it! 2.5 billion!” he stammered out.

Horace was giving it his all, to complete his mission.

“3 billion!” Levi shouted, with a disdainful look on his face.

“Pft!”

Horace’s blood pressure spiked.

3 billion exceeded his budget by 2.4 billion in total!

He had to cough up the money, out of his own pocket if he had wanted to outbid Levi!

Moreover, Levi had arrived fully prepared, so he would continue to raise the bid.

“I withdraw...” Horace stated in defeat.

However, he shot Kenneth a look and the latter discreetly gave him an ‘okay’ gesture in response.

Levi couldn’t be allowed to get his hands on those artifacts!

Even if they had to kill him to make sure that he didn’t get them, they would commit as such.

This was Park Cheon-shin’s orders.

Otherwise, it would be the end for Horace.

...

“3 billion, sold!”

“These ten items now belong to Levi Garrison!”

“Mr. Garrison and Ms. Lopez, please come backstage to settle the payment!”

The staff led Levi and Zoey to the backstage.

However, before leaving, Levi discreetly brought with him a copy of the auction’s catalog.

“Congratulations, Mr. Garrison for becoming the owner of these ten priceless artifacts. You’ll have to pay a total of 20 billion! How would you like to make the payment?” Kenneth smiled politely.

“Wait...”

Levi frowned and asked, “Shouldn’t it be 3 billion? Why has it become 20 billion?”

“Sir, I think that you’re unaware that all the items tonight aren’t auctioned off in the local currency! So, after converting and including the handling fees, the 3 billion you’d bid would come to a total of 20 billion!”

The Protector Chapter 516

Kenneth explained it with a straight face.

Boom!

Zoey was beyond stunned.

This is clearly a scam!

After the auction has commenced, they're suddenly saying that it's not in the local currency?

I've seen swindlers, but never ones that are as shameless as these people.

This is an act of fraudulence!

There's really no limit to how far Triple Group is willing to go, to get what they want!

Realization dawned upon Zoey once again.

On the contrary, Levi remained unfazed.

He had already guessed that things wouldn't progress smoothly.

"Not in the local currency? Who said that?" Levi challenged.

"Me, of course! As you know, the organizer has the final say!" Kenneth sneered.

He had promised to assist Horace in acquiring all of these ancient treasures. Hence, he deliberately changed the currency, so as to force Levi into withdrawing.

“Is everyone else aware of that?” Levi continued asking.

“Of course! If you don’t believe me, follow me and I’ll show you!”

When they returned to the auction room, Kenneth asked the crowd of people, “Was everyone aware that tonight’s auction wasn’t in the local currency?”

“Yes, of course! That’s why no one dared to raise the bid! Triple Group’s bid of six hundred million would be two billion after conversion! Who would dare to bid against that?”

“Yeah! Everyone knew about the foreign currency!”

...

These people who claimed to be aware of the currency conversion were all pre-arranged by Triple Group.

Levi also noticed that they had taken away everyone’s auction catalog.

The catalog was given to each person upon entry. It stated all the details regarding tonight’s auction, including the price of each auction item.

Just then, Horace walked over with a smile and queried, “What’s wrong Mr. West?”

“Mr. Waller, I’d appreciate it if you could help me out. Is tonight’s auction in a local or foreign currency?” Kenneth asked.

“Foreign, of course. That’s why I’d given up because 3 billion would be equivalent to 20 billion!”

Horace and Kenneth sang the same tune.

“What? Don’t tell me that Mr. Garrison and Ms. Lopez weren’t aware of this?” Horace feigned surprise.

“That’s right. The moment these two realized that it came to 20 billion after conversion, they refused to pay up!” Kenneth complained.

Horace’s smile deepened as he replied, “I suggest that the two of you give up! Paying 20 billion for these antiques is really not worth it!”

Zoey lightly elbowed Levi, implying that he should back down.

They would only end up getting their aes handed to them, by competing against Triple Group.

Horace couldn’t stop smiling upon seeing this.

It seems like the issue has been resolved.

“If it’s 20 billion, then 20 billion it is. No problem at all!” Levi broke out into a smile of his own.

“What? You’re alright with paying 20 billion?”

Horace and Kenneth were so shocked that their eyes had almost popped out of their sockets.

They had planned to scare Levi away with this 20 billion.

To their utter shock, he had agreed to pay such an amount.

“I can pay 20 billion. The question is whether you’ll be able to spend it all!” Levi smiled mysteriously.

“Let’s settle the payment now.”

Boom!

Kenneth and Horace were completely caught off guard.

He’s really going to pay?

All of them went backstage.

Levi took out his black card and directly transferred 20 billion.

Kenneth and Horace felt as though they were trapped in a daze, rejecting the possibility that this could be real.

“Done. Send all the artifacts to my home; all ten of them!” Levi demanded.

Before leaving, Levi smiled and muttered, “I hope that you’ll be able to finish spending it as soon as possible!”

Kenneth didn’t understand what Levi had meant by that and could only watch as Levi left.

On their way back.

Zoey stared at him agape. “Honey, I know that you participated in the auction tonight for Morris Group’s big boss, but that 20 billion was obviously a scam! Why did you agree to it?”

“Haha! Don’t worry, honey. They won’t be able to spend that money!” Levi snickered.

Everything had been in the palm of his hands since the very beginning.

The Protector Chapter 517

At Lakeside Villa.

Horace and Kenneth finally arrived at their senses after a long while.

“He had really transferred 20 billion?” Horace was skeptical.

“Yes! It has already been transferred into the account!” Kenneth confirmed.

“You must transfer all 20 billion to me now so that I can at least offer Mr. Park an explanation!” Horace urged him.

Kenneth immediately instructed his staff to make the transfer.

“Mr. West, something’s wrong! The 20 billion has been frozen! It says here that a fraudulent transfer was detected, and thus, our bank account has been frozen!” the staff exclaimed in horror.

“What are you waiting for? Call the bank now!”

Suddenly, Levi’s earlier words rang in Kenneth’s mind.

He told them to spend the money as soon as possible.

“Mr. West, the bank has said that the Bank Regulatory Bureau intervened and that they were the ones who had frozen the account!”

Horace and Kenneth’s expressions morphed drastically upon hearing this.

“What? The Bank Regulatory Bureau did this?”

Beep beep beep...

All of a sudden, ear-splitting police sirens could be heard, coming from outside the villa.

Several police cars came to a stop at the entrance.

There were also cars from the Ministry of Commerce, the Bank Regulatory Bureau, as well as the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

“Good evening, we are a joint law enforcement team, comprised of four major departments. We received a report just a moment ago regarding the suspicious activity at the auction organized by Chrisler Foundation!”

“Firstly, you are suspected of consumer fraud, for demanding 20 billion when 3 billion was the agreed price!”

“Secondly, you are suspected of violating the law by engaging in acts, such as unfair competition!”

...

“Most importantly, all the items put up for auction belong to Mr. Scott Yates, and thus, they should be handled by the successor appointed by Mr. Scott Yates. You had no right to auction them off!”

Kenneth was already panicking, by the time the third offense was being stated.

They knew that they had brought this disaster upon themselves when they had switched the currency all just to dispel Levi.

Just then, Xavier Fields scoffed derisively as he held a copy of the auction catalog in his hand. “It’s clearly stated here that the bidding would be done in local currency, so how did 3 billion suddenly become 20 billion?”

“Ah?” Kenneth paled instantly.

Didn't we settle the matter regarding the catalogs?

How did they get their hands on one?

Never in a million years did he expect Levi to be a step ahead of them, handing a copy over to Xavier.

“We've conducted an investigation and have discovered that the successor appointed by Scott Yates before his death was his butler, Mr. Theo Kirby, who had agreed to give all of the artifacts to Mr. Garrison, without any conditions! Hence, you shall immediately return the 20 billion to Mr. Garrison!”

“From this moment onwards, Kenneth and all who were involved are suspected of fraud, along with the previously listed crimes. All of you will be arrested and brought in for investigation! Chrisler Foundation will also be shut down temporarily for a thorough inspection!”

“Additionally, Triple Group will receive a fine of ten million for suspected market share violations, and the person in charge will be suspended under further notice!” Xavier declared sternly.

Boom!

Horace and Kenneth almost passed out from everything that was going on.

Upon realizing that these artifacts were being given to Levi for free and that Chrisler Foundation was implicated as well, Horace began to fume.

He could not accept how things had turned out!

Since most of the reporters were still present at the scene, word of this spread like wildfire.

North Hampton and even the whole of Quebec had heard about it.

Park Cheon-shin was no exception either.

Triple Group has once again been humiliated in North Hampton?

Being slapped a fine is a small matter, but our image will be utterly ruined because of it!

Park Cheon-shin immediately contacted Horace.

“Horace, look what you’ve done! I gave you one last chance, didn’t I? It was such a simple task, but you couldn’t even do a proper job!” Park Cheon-shin was infuriated.

“Mr. Park, I...”

Horace was on the verge of tears.

“Come to South City to receive your death sentence! If you don’t, your wife and daughter will take your place!” Park Cheon-shin growled into the phone.

“What’s wrong? What’s gotten you so worked up, Mr. Park?”

Lee Jae-shik, who happened to be beside him, questioned him, with a smile.

“Master, the antique artifacts that I’d planned to give you were robbed from us. This is the same person who had injured your disciple, along with my son!”

The Protector Chapter 518

“Master, I specially arranged for those artifacts to be ours, but someone just had to get in my way! He didn’t just rob us of those ten artifacts, rather, he had even humiliated Triple Group and had us fined!”

Park Cheon-shin’s breathing had turned erratic due to anger.

Lee Jae-shik’s expression changed subtly as he asked, “Is he difficult to deal with? It seems like this isn’t the first time he’s caused you trouble!”

“Well, yes. He’s a rather slippery fellow. But if we want to execute Triple Group’s plan, North Hampton must be tackled! This is the key to moving forward! So, I hope that you can help us in dealing with this issue, master!” Park Cheon-shin explained with a cold glint in his eyes.

Lee Jae-shik conducted a brief analysis before replying, “So, at the end of the day, Morris Group is the one pulling the strings?”

“Yes! I’ve received news that has confirmed that even the Rogers family from North Hampton is under Morris Group’s control! The owner of Morris Group is very mysterious and has powerful forces behind him! It was he who had taken down, Scott Yates, the former ruler of Quebec!”

Just speaking about it made fear creep up along Park Cheon-shin’s insides.

“Alright. Then send out an invitation to Morris Group in the name of Triple Group and request for a negotiation! A buy-over or a collaboration; it doesn’t matter. If they refuse, I will use force to get rid of all the obstacles. So you do what you have to do!” Lee Jae-shik affirmed coldly.

Park Cheon-shin’s eyes lit up.

“Thank you, master! I was just thinking of a way to cause a stir in Morris Group that would give us a chance to eliminate them. Negotiation is the perfect solution!”

If the negotiation were a success, Morris Group would concede defeat.

If the negotiation failed, he would have an excuse to get rid of Morris Group.

With the top Taekwondo master on his side, he feared no one.

“When it comes to negotiations, kindness and severity go hand-in-hand. Choi Hong-man, follow him to the negotiation!”

Lee Jae-shik gave his orders to the man standing next to him, who was close to two meters in height, bearing a weight of more than two hundred pounds.

“Yes, Master!” Choi Hong-man nodded.

He was the champion of Keerea’s free fighting competition, and not once did he lose, in all the years he had participated.

More than half the opponents he defeated had lost their lives, while the rest were either crippled or had spiraled into depression.

He was known as the ‘human-sized weapon’.

Later on, his already impressive fighting skills improved when Lee Jae-shik took him under his wing.

Since then, Choi Hong-man was practically invincible.

Lee Da-yong and Lee Da-jong combined were not even a match for him!

He was also rumored to be bulletproof.

Park Cheon-shin was overjoyed. “Okay. No problem! I’ll send my most capable subordinate to lead the negotiation. Over the years, she has never failed when discussing a collaboration! With Choi Hong-man backing her, this matter can be resolved, without the need for you to personally step in.”

The next day, the general manager of Triple Group in Erudia was switched out for someone else.

A woman took over Horace’s position.

No one knew about Horace’s whereabouts.

The woman was from a rather unique background. Firstly, she was an Erudian.

Secondly, she was Park Cheon-shin’s nephew, Lee Jung-jin’s fiancée, and the two of them would be marrying in five days.

According to the rules and regulations set by Triple Group headquarters, it was compulsory, for the general manager to be an Erudian.

Park Cheon-shin planned to control all the assets under Triple Group through this arrangement.

As of recent, Triple Group had been thrown into the center of public scrutiny, with the people possessing contradicting opinions about them. Nonetheless, their reputation suffered a great hit and they were currently being torn apart by various markets in North Hampton.

Under the oppression from many parties, Triple Group was losing its footing in North Hampton.

At Morris Group.

“Ms. Anabelle, just a while ago Triple Group had sent someone over, to invite us to a negotiation. It will be held in a conference room in Dynasty Hotel this afternoon! They had wanted to discuss the future development in North Hampton!”

Iris’ assistant relayed the message to her.

“What is Triple Group up to this time?”

Displeasure lined Iris’ features.

Triple Group had been doing many shady things recently.

They had even sent headhunters to target Morris Group’s executives, to convince them to jump ships.

Besides that, they had also been causing small disturbances to the distribution channels and merchants, disrupting Morris Group’s normal operations.

Although it did not harm the company’s substantive interests, their little ploys were getting increasingly unbearable, day by day.

Many employees at the company were beginning to complain, with all of them sending in requests for Iris to settle the matter.

The Protector Chapter 519

“I think that Triple Group wants to solve the problem once and for all! If we don’t attend the negotiation, I’m afraid that those shameless bs will resort to playing dirty!”

“I think that we should go too! Allowing them to continue harassing us like this just won’t do!”

“Yeah, it’s fine even if they propose a collaboration! We can all make money and work together in North Hampton’s development!”

...

Iris contacted Neil after receiving everyone’s opinions on the matter.

Kirin replied that the big boss had also agreed to negotiate.

“But this time, we are the ones who have the upper hand, so we have to take the high road for it to stay that way. I don’t think that the executives should go. Send Levi instead!” Iris had a pensive look on her face.

If we’d agreed to negotiate, still sending them an insignificant person to do it, it shows that we don’t fear them.

This would no doubt put pressure on Triple Group!

Even if we end up collaborating, Morris Group will still benefit from it.

“Huh? You want to send Levi?”

“We know where you’re coming from, but sending him would only make things worse, don’t you think so?”

Everyone was confused.

“No, no. You don’t understand. Levi is an expert when it comes to these things! So, it’s settled then!” Iris stated.

In truth, she had personal motives.

She had wanted to promote Levi, but convincing the others was a real headache.

The only way was to help him improve on his performance.

She believed that letting him attend the negotiation with Triple Group would do the trick.

“What? Me?” Levi was stunned as much as the others.

“I’ll write down the points to be put forward during the negotiation, so all you have to do is follow them!”

Iris even made all the necessary preparations for Levi.

She was doing everything in her power to give Levi that promotion!

Little did she know that Levi was the boss of Morris Group.

“Mm, fine. Just get Seth to send me there.” Levi seemed slightly irked.

As for the negotiation details Iris had written down, Levi did not even spare it a glance.

Does Triple Group want to negotiate?

Fat chance!

Even getting down on their knees wouldn't suffice!

Levi was curious to know just what Triple Group was up to.

At three in the afternoon.

In a conference room at Dynasty Hotel.

The representatives of Triple Group were already present.

A sophisticated and career-driven woman, who was clad in professional attire was surrounded by a group of people.

The moment she arrived, the other women present were overshadowed by her, paling in comparison.

Her aura was too powerful!

She was the newly appointed general manager of Triple Group, Lauren Fletcher.

Lauren was a capable woman who had successfully made it into South Hampton University and thereafter, went abroad to further her studies.

After working for several years, she worked for a headhunting company under Triple Group.

Her expertise was scouting talents from other companies for Triple Group.

In the past five years, Lauren had broken the record by personally recruiting more than 370 talented individuals for Triple Group.

Especially during times when Triple Group had implemented their corporate strategies on other companies, they would first release their headhunters to recruit those companies' talented and experienced individuals.

Headhunting companies sounded fancy, but in the industry, they were considered to be insidious and loathsome occupations.

All they did was steal employees from other companies.

Besides being an expert headhunter, Lauren was an even better negotiator.

As long as she was the one who was leading the negotiation, the deal would be closed.

Park Cheon-shin had complete trust in her and since she was also a local in North Hampton, he decided to offer her the position as general manager in Triple Group.

He had also arranged for the marriage between his nephew and her.

Lauren trailed behind Choi Hong-man's gigantic figure. Everyone that he had passed shook in fear upon seeing him.

Seth drove Levi to the meeting location and they arrived shortly after.

"Levi Garrison? What are you doing here?"

Lauren's face showed surprise when she saw Levi.

The Protector Chapter 520

“Lauren Fletcher?”

Levi immediately recognized her as well.

He had been matchmade with this woman, even before his high school years.

It was because when they were both children, his adoptive parents had arranged for her to be his betrothed.

Lauren’s father, Isaac Fletcher, was good friends with Levi’s adoptive father.

The Fletchers were considered to be a prominent family, but they weren’t up to the Garrison family’s level.

Not long after they had adopted Levi, Lauren was born. Hence, Isaac had put forth the idea of a childhood betrothal, with the intention of sinking his claws into the Garrison family.

Although Levi’s adoptive parents didn’t quite approve of the Fletchers’ status, they agreed to it anyway, since Levi was adopted.

When Levi prospered, the Fletcher family was over the moon.

After all, if Levi became a force to be reckoned with, it would prove that the Fletchers had bet on the right horse.

Lauren had become infatuated with Levi, following him everywhere like a lovesick puppy.

Ultimately, the Fletcher family had only agreed to sever all ties, upon seeing that Levi and Zoey had gotten together. Thereafter, they had cancelled the betrothal, spitting out threats that Levi would come to regret his decision.

Since then, Lauren wasn't mentioned again and he had only heard that she had gone to study abroad.

On the day of Levi's imprisonment, Isaac had even visited him to add insult to his injury.

Lauren was also thrilled to know that Levi had been imprisoned, taking great pleasure in his misfortune.

This was especially apparent when she found out that Zoey had been living a widow's life. Her heart had almost burst with elation.

She had always held Zoey responsible for taking away what should have been hers.

The title of lady boss of Levi Group should have been hers!

"Hehe! You can still recognize me? Consider me impressed!" Lauren smiled sweetly.

Immediately after, the smile fell from her lips. "What? You can't possibly be the one whom Morris Group has sent to negotiate on their behalf, right?"

"I am! And you're representing Triple Group?" Levi threw back a question at her.

"I'm guessing that you still don't know who I really am," Lauren smirked, while announcing in a mocking manner.

"Enlighten me." Levi raised his brows.

“Listen up. Standing before you is the general manager of Triple Group!” someone beside her immediately introduced.

The man continued asking, “And who might you be? How dare Morris Group send you to negotiate?”

Before Levi had the chance to speak, Lauren’s assistant came over with a tablet stating, “Ms. Fletcher, Levi Garrison is a technical consultant at Morris Group. In fact, he doesn’t have a proper position; it’s merely an empty title! Besides, it was the supervisor of the technical department, Isaiah Wade, who had brought him in!”

“In short, Levi Garrison was hired through connections!”

Lauren’s smile grew upon hearing this.

The headhunting company was the best at digging up information.

They had already found out about Levi and his involvement with Morris Group, including those who had hated him. She knew everything that she had needed to know.

According to the information that they had retrieved, most of the people at Morris Group were very dissatisfied about Levi getting hired through connections.

He had been fired before, but later on, he had entered once again, through the backdoor.

Morris Group had conducted a questionnaire with ‘most hated employee’ as one of its questions.

Eighty percent of the employees wrote down Levi’s name because all of them relied on their own abilities to earn a place in the company.

Levi was the only one who got in, through the easy way!

“Levi, I thought that after you were released from prison, you would return to your former glory. I didn’t expect you to be finished for good! I see that you’re fooling around every day! How did you become this way?” Lauren asked with a smile laced with venom.

When she heard that Levi had come on behalf of Morris Group, her first thought was that he was the boss of Morris Group.

After she read the detailed information on him, her heart finally eased.

It turned out that Levi’s imprisonment had taken a toll on him and that he was now completely useless.

The Protector Chapter 521

“I must say, I’m quite disappointed in you, Levi! You used to be a dark horse! Now, you’ve resorted to relying on your connections!”

“Logically speaking, Morris Group should be yours. How did you end up as a small-time technical consultant?” Lauren let out a derisive laugh.

She was in a particularly good mood now.

She was initially prepared to fight a hard battle.

But in the end, it was her ex-fiancé from during her childhood, Levi Garrison, who had turned up!

Not to mention, a completely ruined version of him.

She was ecstatic and felt fully confident about the negotiation that was about to begin.

“Wait, Ms. Fletcher! Something’s wrong. If Morris Group sent a useless person like him here, it means that they’re not taking this negotiation seriously at all!” her assistant exclaimed.

The smug smile on Lauren’s face immediately vanished.

She had actually thought about this too.

Did Morris Group deliberately send a useless person here?

Doesn’t that directly reflect their thoughts about this negotiation?

Even if they're the ones who have the upper hand, they're blatantly disrespecting Triple Group!

"What is Morris Group trying to do? Did they send a piece of trash over, to humiliate us?" Lauren threw the question to her assistant.

She purposely raised her voice so that Levi could hear her.

Her assistant replied, "Ms. Fletcher, I've just received the confirmation! Levi Garrison is the person they had sent to negotiate on the company's behalf! He is authorized to make any decision!"

"In that case, let's begin!" Lauren ordered in a cold tone.

While everyone was setting up the venue, Lauren approached Levi with a sneer. "Levi, I really never expected us to meet again like this! I had never believed the statement that people had said, stating that everything in life is temporary until I had seen you once again. Oh, how things have changed!"

Levi nodded. "Yeah! You've grown so much since the last time I saw you."

"I know, right?" You've changed even more though! The Garrisons were clearly billionaires who had successfully listed their company. What happened in less than a month to make them fall so low? Now, all of the Garrisons are barely scraping by! They're all just a pathetic bunch!

They used to be so high and mighty. Even though your father and mine were good friends, I knew that your father looked down on my family and saw us as peasants!

"But now, my family has a market value of two billion! I'm also the general manager of Triple Group in Erudia! We are the ones looking down on your family now! Including you! All of you are merely fit to lick the dirt from our boots!"

Lauren abruptly changed the topic. “Of course, you’re not doing too bad. At least you can still fulfill your basic needs, but you’re still considered a low-life!”

Levi who remained silent the entire time sighed softly when she was done.

Reality is simply too cruel.

A pure and kind little girl had turned into this kind of person...

One side of Lauren’s mouth lifted. “You can sigh all you want, but the reality is a b*! Don’t look down on others, because you’ll never know when they would rise and walk all over you! That’s what we Fletchers are doing right now; walking all over the Garrisons!”

Levi wasn’t angered by her words, but Seth on the other hand, couldn’t continue listening to her insults anymore.

When Lauren noticed that, she announced with a smile, “Alright, enough talk about this. My wedding is in five days! I’m marrying Lee Jung-jin, the nephew of Triple Group’s regional general manager, Park Cheon-shin! You must come, yes? Here’s the invitation!”

Levi accepted the invitation from her hand, with surprise sprawled across his face. “A Keerean?”

“Yeah! He’s a greatly valued executive of Triple Group and owns company shares too! Even the old you can’t compare to him!” Lauren flaunted arrogantly.

Levi smiled in response. “Sure. I’ll be there.”

The Protector Chapter 522

When Levi ignored her jab at him, Lauren immediately softened her tone, changing tactics. “Oh well, no matter what, we grew up together Levi. I’m like a sister to you, am I not? You’ll come for my wedding no matter what, right?”

Lauren had wanted Levi to attend her wedding so that he would realize that choosing Zoey over her was the biggest mistake of his life!

“Mm, alright. I’ll definitely attend your wedding!”

Although he felt nauseated by the current Lauren, she was still his childhood betrothed, and he had regarded her as a younger sister.

Since she was going to get married, he would attend her wedding just for the sake of it.

Lauren nodded in satisfaction. “Don’t forget to dress up nicely too!”

“Mm. I wish you happiness!” Levi offered her a bland smile.

“I...” Lauren hesitated for a brief moment.

Truth be told, she didn’t have any feelings for Lee Jung-jin.

Nonetheless, because of his status as Park Cheon-shin’s nephew, as well as his competency, Lauren had agreed to marry him.

She wanted to gain more power for herself, as well as for her family so that they could become a noble family.

Park Cheon-shin suggested a marriage between her and his nephew because he saw her potential.

Once Lauren became his daughter-in-law, all of Triple Group's assets would be his to control.

In fact, he had wanted to kick Horace out of Triple Group a long time ago.

However, the higher-ups from the headquarters did not allow that, because the position could only be occupied by a capable Erudian.

Coincidentally, Horace had been showing poor work performance as of recently. Thus, Park Cheon-shin successfully had him sacked and allowed Lauren to replace him.

Lauren was currently so excited that she had immediately called her father, Isaac. "Dad, guess what? I ran into Levi Garrison! He has promised to attend my wedding!"

"Hahaha! Really? That's wonderful! We'll show him exactly who the Fletchers are, along with how outstanding my daughter is! He's the one who isn't worthy of you! Damn that piece of trash!"

Isaac shared his daughter's excitement.

He wanted Levi to witness Lauren's monumental wedding and regret his choice back then!

"Ms. Fletcher, everything is ready! Please, have a seat," informed her assistant.

At the same time, Levi moved to take his seat, across from hers.

Lauren glanced at Levi with disdain gleaming in her eyes and proclaimed, “The negotiation has officially begun! I’m sure that you know the current situation. I want to hear your take on it...”

“Sure. Then, I’ll go ahead first!”

With that, Levi got down to business. “Firstly, Triple Group must pay back the 80 billion that they’ve stolen from Scott Yates’ faction. This huge sum of money is supposed to be for the development of Quebec! Triple Group isn’t allowed to do anything until the money has been paid.”

Before anyone could react, he continued, “Secondly, make a public apology and confess to all the crimes that Triple Group has committed over these past few years.”

“Thirdly, Triple Group must either get lost from Erudia, or follow its laws.”

“These three points are what I want to bring across.”

After Levi was done saying his piece, silence blanketed the room.

Lauren was dumbfounded.

Everyone had varying expressions on their faces.

Even Seth was wearing a look of utter disbelief on his face.

Aren’t you going a little overboard, Mr. Garrison?

Everyone knows that Quebec is dominated by Triple Group now.

Nonetheless, he spoke such arrogant words!

Did he just tell Triple Group to get lost?

Has he gone mad?

Who in Quebec has the balls to do what he has just done?

It took Lauren a whole minute to return to her senses.

“Levi, what nonsense are you spouting? When did Triple Group steal 80 billion from Scott Yates? Where did you hear that rumor?” Lauren angrily rebuked.

She was, in fact, shocked on the inside.

How did he know?

“Rumor? Hahaha...” Levi burst out laughing.

Has Lauren become as shameless as Triple Group too?

“The truth will always come to light. Triple Group shouldn’t assume that their shady dealings will remain hidden forever! That money was specially gathered to support the construction and development of Quebec! Unfortunately, Triple Group had the guts to take that money. How preposterous!”

The Protector Chapter 523

The moment he proclaimed as such, even Lauren was taken aback.

Her anxiety spiked because Triple Group was actually still losing sleep over that money.

Firstly, the amount involved was simply too enormous.

Secondly, that sum of money was specially funded by South City.

Hence, they had tried their best to do charity, in order to clear their guilty conscience.

Mentioning that sum of money was a direct hit on Triple Group's weakness.

Levi repeated in a chilly tone, "Today's negotiation will revolve around the three points that I had stated. Number one, return the money; number two, make a public apology; number three, either get lost or obey the law!"

His words were simply too cool!

Seth was so awestruck that he had almost cried!

Mr. Garrison is a real man!

Lauren was beyond stunned.

The negotiation wasn't supposed to go like this...

Even so, what the hell is this?

“Didn’t you say that you were getting married? Triple Group has five days! Don’t blame me for being merciless if you fail!”

Levi gave them a deadline.

“Levi, the points I was going to bring up today were-”

Lauren was cut off mid-sentence.

“I’m sorry to say this, but you have no right to do so! Since you’ve asked for a negotiation, everything is up to me!” Levi left no room for discussion.

“Fine. So, you mean that everything you say is equivalent to Morris Group’s decision?” Lauren scoffed.

“Of course! Since I’m here, it means that I represent the entire Morris Group!” Levi nodded.

“Are you sure that this is how you want today’s negotiation to go?”

“Yes.”

Lauren’s lips curled in disdain. “Then, can you bear the consequences?”

“Bear the consequences? I think that I should be the one asking Triple Group this question. I’m only giving you five days! If you don’t do what I have asked, I will personally take everything back and drive Triple Group out of Erudia!”

Levi sounded impassive as though he was talking about the weather.

“Hahaha...”

Everyone, including Lauren, erupted into fits of laughter.

Drive Triple Group out of Erudia?

He must be crazy to be able to say something like this, right?

Even the leaders of South City have turned a blind eye to this matter.

Who in Quebec would dare to go head to head with Triple Group?

A measly company like Morris Group?

They're indeed a tough nut to crack, but they're still nothing, compared to Triple Group.

“Levi, do you really think that you possess authority just because they had sent you here to negotiate? They clearly did that as a mere formality, but you've seriously thought that you were some kind of important person?” Lauren snickered.

“Oh and what about you? Stop dwelling over unimportant matters and just relay my message to your superior!” Levi retorted.

“Who dares to speak so arrogantly?”

Just then, a voice sounded, as a voice sounded out, speaking in imperfect English.

Lee Jung-jin appeared in a suit.

“Honey, this is the guy who I was betrothed to when I was a child! Now, he's just a piece of trash!” Lauren whispered.

Lee Jung-jin glanced at Levi, with a surprise filling his eyes before sneering. “My dear, he isn't worthy of you!”

“So, you’re the one who wants to drive Triple Group out of Erudia?”

Lee Jung-jin sized Levi up with a contemptuous look.

Boom, boom, boom.

The sound of thunderous footsteps shook the ground as Choi Hong-man, who was two meters tall, bearing a weight of more than two hundred pounds, appeared.

He resembled a God, as he looked down his nose at Levi and Seth.

Seth could feel the dangerous aura that Choi Hong-man was emanating, immediately explaining, “Don’t get the wrong idea. We have only come to relay the message! This is our boss’ decision!”

Seth didn’t want to cause a conflict.

He felt that Levi was no match for Choi Hong-man, so he chose to retreat for now.

“Yes. I was the one who had said that! So why don’t you try and see what would happen if you failed to deliver, on the three points I’ve just stated, within five days?”

Levi stared straight at Lee Jung-jin, answering his question.

Oh no!

Seth gave himself a mental slap.

Levi was stepping forth, full throttle.

Choi Hong-man took a menacing stride forward as he announced in a frosty tone, "Try and see?"

The Protector Chapter 524

Choi Hong-man's gigantic body resembled that of a beast's.

His booming voice sounded like thunder, and he gave off an extremely intimidating aura.

Everyone retreated out of fear, including Lauren, leaving Levi and Choi Hong-man in the middle.

Choi Hong-man glared at Levi, as though he were a predator, with Levi being his sole prey.

Seth looked on anxiously, knowing full well that he would be beaten to a pulp if he had faced off against Choi Hong-man.

He's an amazing fighter!

Levi's in deep trouble this time...

"You'll know the consequences in five days!" Levi declared with a smug grin.
"Let's go!"

Levi turned around to leave, with Seth following him closely.

Boom!

Without warning, Choi Hong-man dragged Seth over and pinned him down, against a chair.

Seth froze up, his reflexes as an ex-military scout failing to kick in.

He could only stare at Choi Hong-man in shock as he was held hostage, in a tight grip against the chair.

Seth was utterly shocked.

He's too powerful!

He's stronger than I had thought!

Levi won't stand a chance against him!

We're done for...

"Who has given you permission to leave? The negotiations are not over yet!" Choi Hong-man bellowed, making the ground shake.

Lauren and her party roared in excitement.

Levi's manipulative tactics had made them hesitant to put forward their terms, and Choi Hong-man had proved that violence was the only way to get them out of this sticky situation.

"That's right!" Lauren jeered. "We haven't even put forward our terms yet! Why are you leaving?"

Lee Jung-jin scoffed. "That's really rude of you. Do you really think that we're going to back down so easily?"

"Yeah! You shouldn't be walking out just like that!"

The party from Triple Group started to grow cocky.

Choi Hong-man pointed at Levi and yelled in broken English, "You! Come! Sit!"

Levi grinned. "Can't you just let me leave?"

"Hahaha!"

Lee Jung-jin and Lauren exchanged looks and burst into laughter.

They glanced at Choi Hong-man to put across a signal to Levi that he would have to get past Choi Hong-man first before he could leave.

Lauren left the room after that.

Park Cheon-shin had given her two schemes for the negotiations and had instructed her to let Choi Hong-man threaten the Morris Group party if things went south.

In fact, the second scheme was to mobilize Choi Hong-man.

What was to follow after that was none of her business.

"Be gentle, Mr. Choi..." she had announced earlier on with a grin. "I need him to show up at my wedding."

Lee Jung-jin left after shooting Levi a look.

It was time for Choi Hong-man to shine.

The party from Triple Group filed out of the room and closed the door behind them.

"Did you hear me?" Choi Hong-man bellowed, glaring at Levi.

Levi merely stared at him. "Let that person go. This is not your country, and you have no right to act like you own the place!"

Levi's voice was calm yet authoritative, as though he was leading an army of a million men.

It could make anyone who was listening to him cower in fear.

Even Choi Hong-man was startled for a second, but he soon regained his footing quickly. "Hmph! I do not let people go easily! You too!"

He charged forward upon uttering those words.

Despite possessing a burly body, he moved at what seemed to be lightning speed. Before anyone could react, he had already grabbed Levi by the shoulders, ready to throw him onto a chair.

Levi was close to two meters tall, but that was nothing compared to the two-hundred-pound wall of muscle before him.

Seth and his allies closed their eyes in defeat.

The Protector Chapter 525

However, to Choi Hong-man's horror, Levi did not even move a single inch.

He was shocked...very shocked.

He could throw an elephant into the air with ease, yet Levi stood rooted to the ground, no matter how hard he had tried to lift him.

"Get out!" Levi shouted all of a sudden, his booming voice echoing across the room.

Boom!

To everyone's shock, Choi Hong-man staggered backward, due to the sheer force of Levi's voice, only stopping after crashing into the table in the middle of the room.

His eyes were filled with fear, yet, he refused to back down.

"You're asking for trouble!" Choi Hong-man hollered like a feral beast before charging forward once again.

Boom!

He leaped into the air like a cannonball before crashing down onto the tables and chairs explosively.

Everyone staggered backwards from the shockwave that he had created, its searing heat almost burning through their skins.

Crack!

The tables and chairs crumbled into a pile of debris under his weight.

Choi Hong-man had gone all out!

Seth hissed in fear.

He's simply too strong!

A single kick from Choi Hong-man could break a stone apart!

Choi Hong-man howled, as the veins on his legs popped.

Boom!

Levi's bangs fluttered in the air, as the vibrations that Choi Hong-man was creating had soon shaken the room, around them.

Choi Hong-man focused all his energy on his right leg, ready to deal a fatal strike.

He was confident that he could shatter the thickest walls in the world with one kick, let alone a scrawny man like Levi Garrison!

Levi has become dead meat...

Seth had lost all hope.

He's too strong!

Simply too strong!

He's a one-man army!

No wonder he's the best fighter in Keerea! He's like a battle-weathered sword!

No wonder everyone calls him a 'human-sized weapon'!

Levi stood rooted to the ground, as though he was frightened out of his wits as well.

However, just seconds before Choi Hong-man's leg made contact with his head, his fist flew out like a released spring.

He punched Choi Hong-man squarely in the leg, creating a deafening boom that had almost caused everyone's eardrums to burst.

It's over...

There's no way that Levi has survived that...

However, much to everyone's surprise, Choi Hong-man was launched into the air, as though he had been rammed into, by a car. His right leg was bent at a weird angle.

Crack!

Crack!

Crack!

...

Choi Hong-man's body reduced a dozen tables into dust and shattered the glass door, yet his momentum did not diminish by a single bit.

He flew outwards for another few seconds and crashed through the railings of the second floor, hurtling towards the first floor.

Meanwhile, Lauren and Lee Jung-jin walked in, side-by-side towards the first-floor lobby.

“What do you think Choi Hong-man is planning to do to Levi, honey?” Lauren asked with a wide smile.

Lee Jung-jin scoffed. “That man is a beast! There is simply no way that Levi Garrison could survive all of that!”

“That’s great!” Lauren chirped happily.

Levi’s arrogant attitude had angered her immensely, and she was more than willing when it came to witnessing Levi getting himself crushed by Choi Hong-man.

“Alright! I think it’s about time we head back.”

The two of them returned to the meeting room, only to be greeted by a loud crash.

“W-what’s that?” Lee Jung-jin exclaimed in terror.

A huge figure plummeted down from the second floor...

The Protector Chapter 526

Lauren froze in her tracks and Lee Jung-jin started to tremble in fear.

Crash!

The figure landed heavily, with a thud, making the ground shake as though an earthquake had just occurred.

Choi Hong-man's body spasmed, as he frothed at the mouth, spewing out a mixture of blood and teeth all over his face.

"W-what in the world is going on?" Lauren stammered.

"Are my eyes playing tricks on me? Did a person just fly out?" Lee Jung-jin asked perplexedly, seeming as though he had been utterly confused.

"Let's go in and take a look!" Lauren exclaimed, setting off into a run.

"Yeah! Maybe it's Levi!" Lee Jung-jin added.

Soon, they arrived at the spot where the person had landed, only to see Choi Hong-man having a seizure on the ground.

"What?" they exclaimed in unison. "Choi...Hong-man? Why are you here? Where is Levi Garrison?"

The two of them stared at Choi Hong-man, dumbfounded.

This is outrageous!

After a while, Choi Hong-man stopped moving completely. It was almost as though his soul had left his body.

Why would a champion fighter get thrown out of his arena so easily?

How did he end up on the first floor?

How is this even possible?

“T-T-This...” Lee Jung-jin was at a loss for words.

He would never be able to forget the scene that he had just witnessed.

As a Keerean, he knew just how strong Choi Hong-man was.

To Keereans, Choi Hong-man was an undefeatable force, with rumors stating that his body was immune to all types of weapons.

Once, he had managed to wipe out an entire cult, despite being shot in the chest seven times.

The bullets had merely pierced through his skin, leaving both his organs and bones unharmed.

His body was impenetrable!

What in the world happened just now?

This is unbelievable!

“What are you waiting for? Send him to the hospital!” Lee Jung-jin screeched.

“I’m going to find Levi Garrison!” Lauren yelled back, as she bounded up the stairs.

To her horror, there was no one in the meeting room.

Levi was long gone!

“I’m certain that someone from Morris Group had swooped in to save him!” Lauren muttered to herself in anguish. “Who could be stronger than Choi Hong-man?”

Meanwhile, in South City, Park Cheon-shin received a call from his nephew Lee Jung-jin.

“Huh? What happened?” Park Cheon-shin exclaimed, dumbfounded.

“Levi Garrison beat Choi Hong-man up... He’s in the hospital now, and we don’t know if he’ll survive...” Lee Jung-jin stammered nervously.

Park Cheon-shin’s phone fell to the ground with a loud thud, as he stared off into the distance, with a shocked look upon his face.

“What’s wrong? Were you actually convinced that Choi Hong-man was undefeatable?” Lee Jae-shik asked calmly as he sipped on his tea.

Park Cheon-shin glanced at him in disbelief. “Did you see this coming, Master?”

“Of course I did!” Lee Jae-shik answered. “Even a random security guard from Morris Group can defeat Lee Da-yong and Lee Da-jong. What makes you think that Choi Hong-man is any stronger?”

“Are you sure, Master?” Park Cheon-shin asked.

“Haha! Only strong ones are worthy of my attention! It’ll be pretty disappointing if Choi Hong-man had wiped him out with one strike,” Lee Jae-shik announced, smiling.

Park Cheon-shin grinned as well. “I should ask them about the negotiations!”

Taking out his phone, he soon began to dial a string of numbers.

The Protector Chapter 527

“What? You’re only giving us five days’ time?” Park Cheon-shin yelled, with his fists clenched.

After hanging up, he relayed Levi’s three warnings to Lee Jae-shik.

Bang!

Lee Jae-shik slammed his palm against the table. “How dare they threaten to kick us out of Erudia? It’s simply ridiculous!”

“Master, please calm down!” Park Cheon-shin pleaded. “We need your help!”

“Of course I’ll help you!” Lee Jae-shik exclaimed, his eyes alight with a furious flame.

All three of his disciples had been beaten up, becoming utterly humiliated, and he could no longer tolerate it.

“Master, my nephew’s wedding is in five days’ time,” Park Cheon-shin reminded him. “Can we settle this after his wedding?”

“Sure!”

“I would also like to invite you to his wedding, Master. I’m sure that it’ll make the wedding unforgettable for everyone there!” Park Cheon-shin pleaded.

“Of course! We’ll head straight to North Hampton after the wedding to settle the score with Morris Group!”

...

Lee Jung-jin relayed the message to Lauren immediately after he had received it.

“What? Master Lee is going to attend our wedding?” Lauren exclaimed excitedly, her gloominess from earlier completely gone.

“My uncle told me to focus on the wedding and to ignore Morris Group for the time being!” Lee Jung-jin relayed. “We need to get the media’s attention too!”

The wedding was not just a wedding- It was a publicity stunt by Triple Group.

Soon, news of their wedding spread to every corner of North Hampton, with headlines such as, ‘The General Manager of Triple Group Erudia Branch, Lauren Fletcher, To Get Married To The Nephew of The Chief Manager of Triple Group Erudia Branch, At Bayfront Manor In Five Days’ Time’, taking over the front page of every local newspaper.

In addition to that, the residents of North Hampton were shocked to find out that the renowned master of Taekwondo, Lee Jae-shik, also known as the chief instructor of the Keerean Army, was going to be one of the witnesses at the wedding.

The news shook everyone in North Hampton, along with the entire Quebec region to its core.

The public had been eyeing the wedding for a long time, but they had not expected someone as well-known as Lee Jae-shik to grace the wedding with his presence.

The sheer publicity the wedding was getting was unbelievable.

Everyone looked forward to the day of the wedding with much excitement.

Meanwhile, in the Fletcher family mansion...

“That’s amazing! We should thank the Gods for this!” Isaac Fletcher exclaimed in high spirits.

Lauren’s grandfather Jenson hobbled over on his walking stick, trembling in excitement. “What? Master Lee is going to attend the wedding as well?”

“That’s right, Dad!” Isaac announced, his voice trembling. “His presence is worth more than any other celebrity! Only someone like Benny Quinton will be able to compare to him!”

He respected a foreigner more than his own countrymen.

“Hahaha! We truly have been blessed by God!” Jenson exclaimed, with a hearty laugh as he gazed at Lauren lovingly.

“That’s right!” Sam affirmed as happy tears rolled down her face. “My daughter has become a general manager and is now getting married to a Keerean. Furthermore, a well-respected Master is attending her wedding too! I’m so happy for you, Lauren!”

“Wow, imagine what would have happened if she had chosen to marry Levi instead...” Isaac sighed.

“That would be terrible! That scumbag doesn’t deserve my granddaughter!” Jenson growled out loud.

When Levi chose to marry Zoey all those years back, Jenson had taken it upon himself to beg, in front of Joseph Garrison, only to be humiliated by the entire Garrison family.

He would never forget the shame that he had felt that day.

The Protector Chapter 528

“Before I forget, please ensure that you have invited Joseph Garrison to the wedding! I need him to know what my granddaughter deserves!” Jenson added.

I need to get my revenge!

“Of course! I’ll pay a visit to the Garrison family right now!” Isaac agreed, as he got into his car and made his way to the Garrison family’s home.

The Garrison family had lost all of their assets to Levi, all except the house they had stayed in.

They were basically a bunch of forgotten souls.

The luxury cars that had used to line their yard were all gone, now replaced by motorcycles and a Mercedes Benz.

Isaac felt thoroughly refreshed, looking at such a gloomy sight.

Oh, how the tables have turned!

Don’t you remember how you had used to humiliate us as though we were your slaves?

Everything is different now!

You’ve fallen from grace, while the Fletchers have risen up to the top!

Isaac laughed at the thought of that.

Doesn't it sound ridiculous?

"Hm? Isaac? Why are you here?" a voice ran out.

Isaac looked up to see Levi's adoptive parents, Ben and Winnie, walking towards him with confused expressions on their faces.

They approached him with much trepidation.

"Where's Joseph Garrison?" Isaac scoffed, with his hands in his pockets.

He could not bear to look at Joseph in the eyes for the longest time, but everything was different now.

He no longer saw Joseph Garrison as a threat.

Soon, the entire Garrison family gathered themselves in the yard.

"What's wrong, Mr. Fletcher?" Joseph asked apprehensively.

Ever since their reputation had gone down the drain, the Garrison family's self-confidence had spiraled downhill.

Joseph kept his head down as much as possible, as a result.

"I'm here to announce that my daughter's wedding is in five days' time! All of you must ensure that you are present on that day!" Isaac ordered.

"Congratulations! We'll definitely be there! Thank you for the invite," Joseph thanked with a smile.

Isaac's grin grew wider. "Do you know how capable my daughter is? Her year-end bonuses, as the general manager of the Erudia Branch of Triple Group, could be as high as two hundred million! Her fiancé is a member of the Lee family, the founders of Triple Group! He holds at least ten billion worth of shares! Even you couldn't compare to them at your peak!"

"That's amazing!" Joseph exclaimed. "Ms. Lauren is a genius!"

"Glad to see that you've acknowledged it!" Isaac proclaimed smugly as he glanced at the other members of the Garrison family. "Don't you remember how arrogant you had looked when we had begged you not to void the marriage agreement?"

Joseph could feel his cheeks heating up in shame.

He's striking back...

"Oh, by the way, didn't you say that Levi deserves better than my daughter? Look what has happened since then! Hahaha!" Isaac continued forth with a laugh.

However, his smile melted off his face swiftly, as he had yet to receive an answer from the Garrisons.

They had been replying enthusiastically to his every statement, yet they fell silent the moment he had mentioned Levi.

Their faces began to darken as they glared at Isaac.

Isaac began to get annoyed. "What? Are you still skeptical of my daughter?"

Ben and Winnie exchanged looks and nodded. "That's right! Levi deserves better!" they cried out in unison.

The others remained silent, but their stand was clear.

Lauren Fletcher is no match for Levi!

He's the God of War, for goodness' sake!

Your daughter doesn't deserve a man like him!

The Protector Chapter 529

“What?”

Isaac flew into a rage the moment he had heard those words.

“What makes you think that Levi is better than my daughter?” he demanded, jabbing his finger into Ben’s face. “So what if he had used to be a tycoon in the city? My daughter leads the Triple Group! Don’t you know how powerful Triple Group is? Don’t you know who my daughter is getting married to? Levi Garrison is nothing compared to my daughter, and that’s a hard fact!”

“Hahaha!” Ben jeered. “Oh, Isaac, why are you so proud of the fact that your daughter is getting married to a foreigner, and is sucking up to foreign executives? Is it really something to boast about? Besides, it doesn’t matter what position she holds in her company. She’ll never be good enough for my son,” he added with a cold grin.

“That’s right! What’s there to be proud of, about working for a Keerean company? Dream on!”

The crowd buzzed around Isaac, as they continued to hurl insults at him.

Despite all the despicable things that they had done, along with the questionable morals that some of the members had, the Garrisons were die-hard patriots.

They did not see marrying a Keerean as something to be proud of.

Isaac, on the other hand, stomped his foot in anger.

“How dare you! Things are different now! Stop being so arrogant!” he hollered.

“Isaac, we’re more than happy to be able to attend your daughter’s wedding,” Ben announced. “However, Levi can’t be there. You’ll regret it if he shows up.”

“That’s right!” Winnie agreed. “You’ll be the one who will come to regret your actions, rather than him!”

“He’ll outshine everyone at the wedding! He’ll make your entire family regret everything!” Joseph added.

However, Isaac refused to believe them.

“I don’t care! He’d better show up at the wedding!” he yelled. “Just how is he going to outshine my future son-in-law?”

He did not believe in superstitions or prophecies.

After he had departed, Ben sighed and muttered, “What an idiot! He’s making the same mistakes as we had!”

That night, at Bayview Garden...

“Levi, look! The girl that you had gotten set up with is getting married to that handsome Keerean boy!” Zoey exclaimed with a smile.

“I know that. Everyone’s talking about it,” Levi announced, with a slight hint of annoyance in his voice.

“Are you regretting everything now? Lauren’s so pretty and talented!” Zoey asked, staring into his eyes.

“Since when did you learn how to get on my nerves?” Levi quipped as he reached out to tickle her.

Zoey evaded his tickle attacks and pleaded for mercy. "I'm sorry, darling! By the way, did you get an invite to her wedding?"

"That's right. I've already confirmed our attendance," he answered.

Zoey clenched her fists. "We need to take this seriously. I'll buy you a set of clothes tomorrow."

"There's no need for that!" Levi uttered with a smile. "I already have the perfect outfit for the occasion."

He had decided to show up at Lauren's wedding, donning his God of War attire.

The Protector Chapter 530

“That’s great!” Zoey exclaimed, nodding profusely. “I think that I’ll decide to stay out of this. The Fletchers aren’t particularly fond of me.”

“Haha!” Levi laughed. “She’s like a sister to me. She’s not someone whom I’ll marry.”

Zoey grinned. “Oh, darling, you’re so ignorant! She doesn’t see you as a big brother! Why don’t you make it up to her with a gift? Here, take this!”

She handed him a credit card, earning her a few affectionate head rubs from Levi.

Only Zoey could be this kind...

Any other woman would have barred me from attending any wedding, let alone the wedding of someone whom my parents had set me up with, all those years ago!

I won’t even receive an allowance to buy gifts with!

Levi smiled. “Why didn’t I think of that? Thanks for the money! I’ll make sure to buy the best gift that I can find.”

Afterward, he told Azure Dragon to prepare a gift for Lauren at the wedding.

Meanwhile, Triple Group began to infiltrate every sector of the North Hampton economy, prior to the wedding so as to wriggle their way back into the market.

The wedding was nothing more than a tool to establish their footing in North Hampton.

Everything that they had been doing was nothing more than the prelude to absolute control!

On the other hand, Levi told his forces to hold still and leave them alone.

Four days passed in a blink, and it was soon the day before Lauren and Lee Jung-jin's wedding.

The Fletcher family was ready for the wedding, and Bayfront Manor was transformed into a wedding venue.

"I bet that no one would want to miss out on my daughter's wedding!" Isaac joked, with a proud laugh. "Take a seat, everyone!"

"You'll officially belong to the Lee family tomorrow, Lauren," Jenson congratulated her happily. "You're making us proud!"

The Fletchers beamed at one another.

Meanwhile, Lauren stood before the mirror, trying out gown after gown as she tried to pick one that would bring out her beauty the most.

I'll be the star of the show tomorrow!

I'll show them how irreplaceable I truly am!

I'll make them regret every insult that they've uttered!

"Who would you like to see the most tomorrow, Lauren?" Sam asked.

"Levi Garrison!" Lauren answered, a cold glint flashing across her eyes.

The Fletchers knew how hurt Lauren had been when Levi had chosen Zoey over her, hence, her love for him had turned into hatred, as time went by.

She despised him.

She told herself that she would work hard to outshine everyone, in order to prove herself worthy.

She had been waiting for the day where she would rise above Zoey and Levi and be able to look down upon them.

I'll make him regret everything!

I'll walk down the aisle with a man a hundred times better than you right before your eyes!

You don't deserve to be my husband!

Just you wait!

Lauren wished that time could pass faster.

She longed to see the looks of remorse on Levi's and his family members' faces.

The Fletchers continued their lighthearted banter as Jenson turned on the TV.

"According to an overseas sources, a necklace named the 'Love of the World' was sold at an auction for eight hundred million. The buyer was rumored to be an Erudian, as the necklace is currently being shipped towards Erudia."

"I heard that the necklace is used as a wedding gift! It's represented pure and innocent love for centuries. I wonder which lucky Erudian bride it's going to?"

The news piqued the interest of the Fletchers, particularly Lauren.

Lee Jung-jin had prepared a limited edition necklace, as a token of love, which had cost him millions.

All her friends had been awestruck by its beauty.

The Protector Chapter 531

Her face fell, the moment she saw the necklace onscreen.

I wish it belonged to me...

I'll be the prettiest bride on Earth if I wore that to my wedding!

"Whatever. I won't be the one who is getting that necklace," she uttered, sighing dejectedly.

Before breaktime, Lauren gave Levi a call to remind him about the wedding.

"Don't worry, I won't forget about it!" he assured her. "I've even gotten a gift for you!"

"Gift?" Lauren scoffed. What gift can you even afford?

"You'll see tomorrow!" Levi proclaimed with a grin.

The next day...

The wedding of Lauren and Lee Jung-jin was in full swing, and Bayfront Manor was filled with excited guests.

Luxury car after luxury car pulled up in front of the entrance as hordes of guests alighted from them, carrying mountains of gifts in their arms.

"The Yalemans of North Hampton wishes the bride and groom all the best for their future endeavors!"

“We are the Jeffersons of North Hampton...”

“Greetings! I am Dylan Hunt, CEO of Skyward Group...”

...

To the Fletchers’ surprise, none of their own contacts showed up at the wedding.

“Hahaha! It looks like we’re finally getting noticed by the nobility!” Jenson announced, with a wide grin.

“Glenn Rogers, master of the Rogers family!”

“Eric Robinson, master of the Robinson family!”

“Wallace Henderson, master of the Henderson family!”

...

The Fletchers stared in shock, as more guests arrived at the manor.

All of them were the masters of the most prominent families of North Hampton!

They represented the cream of the crop in North Hampton.

In particular, the Fletchers rejoiced, when Glenn Rogers had appeared at the entrance of the manor.

Glenn was the richest man in North Hampton, and the Fletchers had not expected him to show up at Lauren and Lee Jung-jin’s wedding.

“Haha! Since when did we become so popular?” Jenson queried, his breath quickening.

The Fletchers looked on, with their hearts thumping against their chests.

Isaac grinned. "Calm down, everyone! I'm sure that they're here because of Triple Group!"

"That's right! I bet Triple Group had invited them!"

Everyone relaxed upon hearing Isaac's words.

As time went on, more prominent figures of North Hampton joined the party, making the grin on Lauren's face grow wider.

I would never have guessed that my wedding would be such an important occasion to these North Hampton tycoons!

"Do you see that, Levi Garrison?" Lauren muttered to herself gleefully. "This is how my wedding looks like! Even people like Winston Gonzales and Glenn Rogers are here. You will never be good enough for me!"

She searched the crowd for him, but unfortunately, it was to no avail.

However, the Garrison family had already arrived.

"Hahaha! Look who's here? The once-glorious Garrison family!" Isaac sneered.

The crowd turned around to face the Garrisons.

"Why are they so shameless? Weren't they the ones who had voided the marriage agreement between Levi Garrison and Lauren Fletcher?"

"Oh, how the tables have turned! How embarrassing!"

"I wouldn't have dared to come if I had been one of them!"

...

Joseph pretended not to hear the various insults hurled their way.

“Congratulations, Ms. Fletcher! I hope that you have no regrets about this,” Joseph uttered, with a smile.

“What do you mean ‘no regrets about this’? Are you trying to say that she’ll regret not marrying Levi? How ridiculous!” the crowd scoffed.

“Don’t worry. I won’t regret this,” Lauren affirmed with a grin, before changing the subject. “By the way, where is Levi?”

The Protector Chapter 532

Ben smiled. "He'll be here soon."

He's the VIP of this wedding, after all!

"You should get ready for what's going to happen next. I don't want you to faint on the altar," Winnie added.

"Not just you, Ms. Fletcher. Tell your family to prepare themselves too," Joseph proclaimed. "Especially you, Mr. Jensen Fletcher! I hope that your heart can handle it!"

The Fletchers flew into a rage almost immediately.

"What the hell do you mean, Joseph Garrison? Are you cursing my dad?" Isaac yelled, jabbing his finger into Joseph's face. "We aren't the same as we were before! My son-in-law is a shareholder of Triple Group, and my daughter is in charge of the Erudian branch of Triple Group! What about you? You're nothing but a bunch of dogs!"

"What makes you think that Levi is better than Lauren? Ridiculous!"

The Fletchers jeered at the Garrisons relentlessly.

Lauren scoffed. "Thank you for your well wishes. In fact, I think that Levi should be the one preparing himself for the shock he's about to receive. My husband is a million times better than him, so shouldn't he be the one who's regretting everything?"

Ben burst into laughter. "Oh, trust me! You're going to be the one who will regret everything," he murmured flippantly. "Besides, our sole fate depends on Levi. He can make us the richest family of Quebec if he'd wanted to, let alone North Hampton!"

The Garrisons looked at the Fletchers smugly.

Despite everything Levi had claimed, the Garrisons still regarded him as one of them.

They were proud of him!

"Hahaha!"

The crowd burst into raucous laughter.

"What's wrong with them? What makes them think that we don't know how Levi Garrison's doing?"

"He's just a useless scumbag that goes around beating up security guards!"

The jeering continued, as Lauren crossed her arms across her chest and stared at the Garrisons, mockingly.

Levi is nothing when compared to me!

"What's wrong, darling?" Lee Jung-jin asked, walking over to join her.

Dressed smartly in a suit, he outshone every other man in the manor, the moment he had stepped in.

"Wow! He's so handsome! Isn't he a shareholder of Triple Group and a descendent of Triple Group's founder?"

"I'm so envious of Lauren!"

...

The crowd buzzed in excitement and surprise, and it began to further inflate Lauren's ego.

Do you see that?

Everyone admires my husband!

You'll never compare to him, Levi Garrison!

Several tycoons of North Hampton, some of them no less affluent than Joseph Garrison at his peak, crowded around Lee Jung-jin, in an attempt to offer him their name cards.

Lee Jung-jin caught everyone's attention, the moment he had appeared.

"Lauren Fletcher is so lucky! How did she manage to find someone like him, after getting dumped by Levi Garrison?"

"I bet Joseph Garrison regrets voiding the agreement all those years ago!"

The Protector Chapter 533

“Look at how the Garrisons are doing now! How shameless of them!”

The crowd smirked at them.

“They said that I’ll regret everything once I had seen Levi!” Lauren whispered to Lee Jung-jin, who soon burst into laughter.

“You’re so funny! Even the son of the richest man in North Hampton won’t compare to me, let alone someone as insignificant as Levi Garrison!” he announced, glancing at the Garrisons. “Just ignore them, darling. Those pieces of trash aren’t worth your attention!”

He did not even regard the Garrisons as people, as he believed that they were nothing, compared to Triple Group, even while at their peak.

Lauren looked at the Garrisons smugly, although their stony expressions had succeeded in causing her annoyance.

Wait... something feels amiss.

Shouldn’t they be wallowing in sorrow, now that they’ve witnessed everything?

Why aren’t they saying anything?

The Fletchers were confused as well.

Meanwhile, a motorcade was journeying on its way, from South City to North Hampton, carrying the VIPs of the wedding- Park Cheon-shin and Lee Jae-shik.

They were headed for the wedding, but their ultimate goal was to claim the entire North Hampton market as their own.

However, their convoy was stopped, the moment they had entered North Hampton.

Seth Wilson approached their car warily.

“What’s going on?” Park Cheon-shin asked, with a displeased expression upon his face.

They had a bad feeling about this.

“May I ask who is the leader of Triple Group?” Seth queried.

“It’s me. What’s wrong?” Park Cheon-shin asked, as he alighted from his car.

“Did you receive the warnings issued during the negotiations?” Seth asked.

“Yes, I did,” Park Cheon-shin answered, as he stared straight into Seth’s eyes.

“So? What is the decision? Are you here to apologize?” Seth questioned with a smile.

“Shut up!” Park Cheon-shin yelled. “I refuse to be intimidated by your fearmongering!”

“That’s right! No one has ever dared to threaten us!” the others added angrily.

Seth shook his head, appearing exasperated. “It looks as though you’re not going to apologize... I’m pretty sure that my boss has made it very clear that this is the last chance that you’re going to get before he kicks you out of the country!”

“Hahaha!” the party from Triple Group laughed.

They stared at Seth as though he was a lunatic.

He's telling us to get out of Erudia?

That simply won't happen!

"Hahaha! Tell your boss to watch out for us! There's no way he'll be able to kick us out of Erudia!" Park Cheon-shin scoffed.

What's there to fear, with Lee Jae-shik around?

I'll get rid of Morris Group once and for all!

When the motorcade finally arrived at Bayfront Manor, the crowd erupted in a loud applause.

That's the Chief Manager of the Triple Group Erudia Branch!

The net worth of Triple Group in South City was around a hundred billion, which was more than any corporation in South City.

Factoring in the extra hundred billion from the Yates, Triple Group was worth around two hundred billion in total.

In layman terms, Park Cheon-shin was the richest man in Quebec.

The Fletcher family held him in great respects, and was proud of the fact that he was going to become Lauren's uncle-in-law.

We're going to be rich!

Everyone's going to respect us!

“May we welcome Mr. Lee Jae-shik, Master of Taekwondo and the chief instructor of the Keerean army!” someone shouted, as Lee Jae-shik stepped into the manor.

The excitement in the manor was at its peak, and tears were streaming down Lauren’s face, out of pure happiness.

Even someone as well-respected as Lee Jae-shik is here to attend my wedding...

You don’t deserve me, Levi Garrison!

The Protector Chapter 534

Even the noble ones like Glenn Rogers and Winston Gonzales stood up, to welcome Lee Jae-shik to the venue.

Someone like him was superior to all of them, even if he was not an Erudian.

They had to be as polite as possible.

Even the Garrisons started to grow worried.

If Levi had not been the God of War, people might actually trample over him to get to Lee Jae-shik.

The Fletchers have certainly found themselves a powerful ally!

Meanwhile, the Fletchers were elated to witness the standing ovation that was made for Lee Jae-shik.

In particular, Lauren was feeling proud of herself.

How much better could a wedding get?

I'm the luckiest woman in the world!

"You're going to become part of the Triple Group family from today onwards, Lauren!" Lee Jae-shik praised. "Remember your status and try not to entangle yourself in trivial matters!"

His words were a confirmation of Lauren's new title.

He had meant to remind her that as part of the nobility, she was not to interact with people from the lower ranks, as they were not worthy of her attention.

“As for the Fletchers, we’ll be more than happy to provide you with any assistance that you may require in the future!” Lee Jae-shik announced, turning over to the Fletchers.

Boom!

It was as though a meteorite made out of pure luck and prosperity had descended upon the Fletchers, almost making them pass out in happiness.

Jenson turned to Joseph and yelled, “Didn’t you say that we’ll never be worthy of your attention? Look at us now! Look at how much we’ve changed since then!”

The Fletchers finally received the sweet revenge that they had craved.

Who knew that we would be able to rise above you one day?

“Thank you for ditching me, Levi! If not for you, I wouldn’t have been able to find myself such an amazing husband to spend the rest of my life with!” Lauren cried, happy tears streaming down her face.

She turned to the Garrisons and continued, “Thank you too, for voiding the agreement and for setting me free of that nonsense! Thank you so much!”

...

The Garrisons glared at her.

‘Thank you’?

You’re merely insulting us!

“Where’s Levi?” Lauren asked.

She had long imagined him kneeling on the ground and begging for her to change her mind, while bawling his eyes out.

Soon, it was time for the wedding ceremony, and the guests took their seats to watch.

The Garrisons picked a corner and settled down, but the Fletchers forcibly pushed them to the front to humiliate them.

To make matters worse, Park Cheon-shin and Lee Jae-shik were right next to them.

“Five more minutes! Please stand by, Mr. Lee and Ms. Fletcher!” the emcee announced.

Lauren peered off into the distance, hoping to catch a glimpse of Levi, when he was to arrive.

He has to be here!

I must humiliate him!

He can’t just skip the wedding!

Suddenly, the butler ran over and proclaimed, “Ms. Fletcher, someone has arrived with a gift for you!”

“Huh? Just accept it then. Why are you panicking?” she asked, frowning.

“The person insists that you head over to receive it in person,” the butler replied.

“Alright then. Tell them to come in,” she agreed.

Soon, a private helicopter appeared in the skies above the lawn, attracting the attention of every guest.

Lauren's jaw dropped open, out of shock.

What kind of gift requires a helicopter to deliver it?

The Protector Chapter 535

The six men in suits got off the helicopter; one of them was holding an exquisite gift box.

The others cautiously surrounded him as if they were afraid the box would fall.

Looking at how careful they were with the gift box, it seemed like it contained something priceless.

The crowd was puzzled.

What gift is it?

Everyone's eyes zeroed in on these men.

"I know them! They're from the internationally renowned Skywolf Security Company, which only escorts items worth hundreds of millions. They even escorted this item via helicopter. Looks like it's at least five hundred million!" exclaimed Park Cheon-shin in shock when he noticed the wolf logo on the men's clothes.

"Wow!"

Everyone gasped when they heard him.

A five hundred-million gift?

What kind of treasure is this?

Lauren was exhilarated yet nervous.

I'm not so influential that my friends and classmates would give me something so expensive, right?

The most expensive gift I received today is only a million.

Soon, the six men escorting the gift box approached Lauren.

"Ms. Fletcher, please open this!"

The man holding the gift box presented it to Lauren.

"Open it and see what's inside," urged the crowd.

With trembling hands, Lauren carefully lifted the top of the exquisitely designed box.

"Thud!"

Everyone was dumbfounded.

Holding their breath, they all fixed their eyes on the box.

There was a necklace lying in the box, with a huge dazzling sapphire encrusting it.

It sparkled so brightly that everyone could barely open their eyes.

"What?"

"My goodness!"

After taking a closer look at the necklace, her eyes bulged. Lauren was so shocked; she felt like she had been electrocuted.

The reason was that the gift was the famed Love of the World, which had recently been auctioned off overseas for eight hundred million.

The necklace, made ten centuries ago, symbolized the purity of love.

It was the greatest testimony of love!

“Ms. Fletcher, let me introduce to you: This is the legendary treasure——Love of the World. It was bought for eight hundred million by an esteemed guest during the auction. It is definitely authentic! Here are the certifications of authenticity from various international organizations.”

As he spoke, someone passed her a huge pile of certifications.

Lauren was so excited that tears streamed down her cheeks.

“Who is it?” asked Lauren emotionally.

“He doesn’t want to reveal his name. However, he’ll be coming to the wedding ceremony later. Here, he wishes in advance that you, Ms. Fletcher, will be blessed with love. This necklace represents his well-wishes for you.”

After passing her the gift, the men left instantly.

“Who could it be?”

This was the question lingering in everyone’s mind.

Lauren was even more curious.

Amongst her friends and family, who would give her such an expensive gift?

After thinking about it, she still could not identify anyone that fit the criterion.

Forget it.

Isn't he going to appear later?

I'll just wait for him.

The Fletchers were overjoyed for the ultra-luxurious gift that Lauren received.

"Looks like the rise of the Fletcher family is unstoppable, huh?"

"Never in my dreams would I expect someone to give an eight hundred-million gift at my daughter's wedding."

The Fletchers were all smiles.

"But who is this person? Is it someone with a crush on my daughter?" mumbled Isaac to himself.

"Perhaps. I can't figure out who it is, either."

Despite racking their brains, no one could figure out who had sent the gift.

At that moment, the Garrison family exchanged glances with one another and laughed.

"What are you laughing about? You look like you know the mystery sender!" grumbled Isaac furiously.

"Yeah, we know who sent it!" admitted Joseph.

The Protector Chapter 536

Before Isaac could say something, Jenson scoffed coldly, “Cut the crap! If the Garrisons know such a person, why would you fall to such a miserable state?”

The Fletchers decided to ignore the Garrisons.

To them, the Garrisons were like clowns.

We only invited the Garrison family to the wedding to humiliate them. They wouldn't be here if not for that reason.

Naturally, they don't have the right to speak here.

Everyone eagerly anticipated the arrival of the person who gave the Love of the World, especially the Fletchers.

Next, it was time for the guests to give their cash gifts for the wedding.

After the Fletcher family's status rose, many of the cash gifts they received amounted to tens or hundreds of thousands.

An example was Glenn Rogers, who gifted a hundred thousand.

Park Cheon-shin even gave a cash gift of ten million, causing Jenson and the rest to laugh in delight.

They earned twenty to thirty million just by organizing a wedding.

Not to forget, there was even the eight hundred-million necklace, too.

They profited so much from today!

After everyone finished giving their gifts, Hailey, the supervisor of the North Hampton Bank headquarters, walked over.

“Ms. Stinson, why are you here?”

Many people present recognized Hailey.

The Fletcher family greeted her respectfully as they would be interacting a lot with the headquarters in the future.

“Are you here to attend my daughter’s wedding, too, Ms. Stinson?” asked Isaac with a smile.

Hailey shook her head. “Hello, Ms. Lauren. I’m here to pass a guest’s wedding gift to you. As it’s very expensive, I came here myself.”

“Huh?”

Lauren was shocked yet delighted.

How expensive must the gift be that warranted such a high-ranking supervisor from the headquarters to make an in-person visit?

“You’ve received the Love of the World, right?” asked Hailey with a smile.

“Huh? Yes, I’ve received it...”

Lauren was astounded, not expecting the person who gave her the necklace to give a cash gift, too.

“He already sent me a gift. Is he still giving me a cash gift?”

Lauren felt a little embarrassed.

“Of course. They’re separate matters, anyway.”

Hailey took out a cheque and read, “The person will be giving you a cash gift of 888888888!”

When Lauren saw the long string of numbers on the cheque, she almost fainted from the shock.

The cash gift is more than eight hundred eighty million?

What a grand spectacle!

What kind of person is he?

“Here’s the cheque. My task is complete!”

Hailey and a fellow bank staff then left.

Lauren held the cheque with trembling hands, confirming over and over again that there were nine “8”s written on it.

Hailey had delivered the cheque to her personally, so it was definitely not forged!

Oh my!

Who is it?

He gave me an eight hundred-million necklace and a cash gift of an even greater amount.

The Fletchers were over the moon.

With such a friend, they felt extremely proud of themselves.

The Fletcher family would be the most powerful family in North Hampton in the future!

This time, even Park Cheon-shin and Lee Jae-shik were stunned.

This person is so extravagant, having spent nearly two billion in one go.

His gifts indicate that he must be extremely wealthy.

Wait, something's not right!

Park Cheon-shin frowned.

He had investigated the Fletchers' background thoroughly. They were not associated with anyone so powerful!

He had even investigated their distant relatives, but no such person popped out.

Who is it?

Lauren felt that everything was like a dream.

Do I have a friend like that, who would give such grand gifts at my wedding?

She urgently wanted to know the identity of that mysterious person.

"Ma'am, it's time for the wedding. Do we start now?" asked the host.

"Wait for a while! He hasn't arrived yet," replied Lauren.

Although she did not know who it was, the wedding could only begin after he arrived.

Oh, right.

Why hasn't Levi come?

The Protector Chapter 537

“Does Levi still dare to come here and cause a ruckus? He probably returned after being intimidated by the many luxurious cars parked at the entrance.”

“That’s right! Levi is a smart guy. He knows that if he attends the wedding, he’ll definitely be humiliated. How would he still dare to come?”

“What a pity! I cannot witness the scene of Levi bawling his eyes out in regret.”

Isaac and the rest shook their heads helplessly.

This was a pity to Lauren, too.

Why isn’t Levi coming?

I want to show him the necklace and the cheque.

Then, I’ll tell him personally that this is my wedding!

When Ben heard them, he scoffed coldly, “Don’t worry, Levi will come. He’ll definitely not miss this wedding! However, you should mentally prepare yourselves. I’m afraid that you won’t be able to bear the shock!”

“Shut up! Don’t say anything.”

When Isaac heard his words, he became furious and wanted to beat Ben up.

At that moment, a few ordinary cars arrived at the entrance of the villa.

The receptionist at the entrance saw the cars and laughed coldly. “How could someone with a car like this dare to attend such a grand wedding?”

However, his expression froze upon seeing the people getting off the car.

It was a group of extremely prestigious people—the leaders of North Hampton.

When they arrived at the wedding, a huge commotion erupted amongst the crowd.

Other than Park Cheon-shin and a few others who did not know what was going on, everyone else stood up.

“Mr. Nielsen, why are you here?”

“Even the three deputy captains are here, too. Secretary Davies, Captain Fields, Director Evans...”

Jenson almost staggered to the floor after seeing the arrival of Jesse Nielsen and the major leaders of North Hampton.

Do such prominent people attend weddings, too?

Isaac and the others widened their eyes in disbelief.

“Congratulations on your nuptials, Ms. Fletcher! We’re here today on personal account. You don’t have to be nervous,” explained Jesse with a smile.

Lauren had to pinch her cheeks to confirm that she was not dreaming.

Even the leaders of North Hampton came to attend my wedding?

What a huge honor!

Jesse Nielsen and the rest greeted Lee Jung-jin and congratulated the groom.

“We’ve heard of you, Mr. Park...”

Jesse and the rest then greeted Park Cheon-shin.

The Fletchers exchanged glances; they now understood what was happening.

Jesse and the others came for the wedding because of the Triple Group.

With this new understanding, Lauren instantly wondered if the person who gave her the necklace was also related to the Triple Group.

Did the Triple Group send him here?

And why hasn’t Levi arrived yet?

He’s missing out on so much.

When Lauren thought of him, she called Levi instantly.

“Are you here yet?” asked Lauren.

“I’m reaching. There’s a traffic jam on the roads. I’m reaching soon!” explained Levi.

“It’s great that you’re coming!” said Lauren with a grin.

“I’ll definitely make a grand entrance at your wedding and treat it with utmost importance!”

Levi really treated her like a younger sister. After all, she always stuck to him when they were children.

After being reminded by Zoey, Levi treated this wedding with great importance.

Soon, a few tanks stopped at the entrance of the villa.

Two rows of soldiers dashed into the wedding venue, lining the two sides of the red carpet.

This sudden scene shocked everyone. Lauren also stared at the entrance in surprise.

After that, some people wearing military uniforms appeared at the entrance.

A towering figure appeared, surrounded by a few people.

He was wearing a green military uniform, with five golden stars embroidered on his shoulder!

The Protector Chapter 538

When the two rows of soldiers entered the venue, everyone held their breath and stared in silence.

Even Lee Jae-shik and Park Cheon-shin's expressions froze, their eyes widened in shock.

Why did soldiers suddenly barge into the wedding venue?

Everyone, including Jesse and the rest, stood up and focused their attention on the entrance.

They knew who the person was.

The gloomy expressions on the Garrisons' faces had disappeared; they were now grinning brightly.

"He's finally here!"

One after another, men in military uniforms appeared. All had stars embroidered on their shoulder pads.

Other than Percy who had two stars, there were five men with one star on their shoulders. The Kings of War!

This was an extremely shocking sight.

Lee Jae-shik understood what this meant.

“Are they here to congratulate my daughter for her wedding?” exclaimed Isaac in surprise, so overjoyed that his eyes were almost popping out of their sockets.

This was the first thought in the Fletchers’ minds, too.

Everyone thought that the person who gave Lauren then Love of the World and the eight hundred and eighty million cash gift finally appeared.

“Wow, I never expected the person to be a high-ranking military officer!”

“This is the most honorable moment of the Fletcher family!” yelled Isaac, so delighted that he burst into tears.

The most prominent people in the military, government, and business had all gathered at Lauren’s wedding.

As the Fletchers were all wiping their tears away emotionally... a question surfaced. Who was the one who sent the gifts?

Lauren stood there in a daze, still unable to figure it out. After all, she had no connections with the military...

Lee Jae-shik kept trembling as cold sweat formed on his palms.

He feared meeting Erudia soldiers the most...

He never thought he would be confronted by the five Kings of War!

Park Cheon-shin and Lee Jung-jin were stunned.

A mere Fletcher family managed to mobilize the top leaders of North Hampton. And now, even a few Kings of War have arrived.

Are they really the Fletchers?

They had investigated the Fletchers thoroughly. However, the Fletchers they knew had a clean history with no powerful forces backing them.

This made the Fletchers easier to control.

However, it now seemed like they were the most powerful family in the city!

Jesse, Xavier, and the rest walked towards the newly arrived guests instantly.

Taking a deep breath, Jenson wiped his tears away and hurriedly rushed towards them. Meanwhile, the Fletcher family followed behind him.

Even Lauren was extremely excited and nervous.

“Oh, right. Isn’t Levi coming? He mustn’t come at this juncture! If he offends these people, he’ll be doomed.”

While Lauren followed the rest, she made a call quickly.

Although the call went through, no one picked up!

“Pick it up quickly! What are you doing, Levi?” muttered Lauren anxiously.

What made her even more nervous was that a ringing tone sounded somewhere in front of her.

“It can’t be that coincidental, can it? Did he really arrive at this moment?”

Lauren was almost frozen to the spot.

“Levi, pick it up quickly!”

She was so anxious that she could barely think straight.

Lauren soon arrived in front of everyone else and could clearly see the faces of Percy, Azure Dragon, and the rest.

It was really the five Kings of War!

Lee Jae-shik took a deep breath, wishing for nothing more than to hide in a hole.

At that moment, someone strode in, accompanied by a ringing tone on his phone.

Lauren closed her eyes in despair...

Why did Levi come at this moment?

Damn it!

“Oh right! I should turn off my phone quickly!”

Lauren responded in time and hung up the call instantly.

However, when she raised her head, she saw an extremely familiar face.

Levi has come!

The Protector Chapter 539

“Le...”

The Fletchers and everyone else saw Levi, too. However, when they were about to call him, they realized that something was amiss.

The Kings of War all parted and formed a path for Levi.

The scariest part was that Levi was not wearing a suit!

Instead...

What?

He's wearing military uniform?

When Lauren and the rest saw Levi in military uniform, their jaws dropped in shock.

They widened their eyes to take a closer look, repeatedly trying to confirm that they were not dreaming.

Levi was really wearing a military uniform.

Then, the hundreds of people present turned their attention to Levi's shoulder pads to check out his military rank.

One...

Two...

Three...

Four...

What?

Five?

Five stars?

Five whole stars?

A five-star God of War?

There's only one five-star God of War in the entire Erudia—the protector of the nation!

What?

Is Levi the God of War of Erudia?

This... This...

By the time everyone figured out what all this meant, their expressions changed drastically and they stood stupefied on the spot.

Lee Jae-shik glanced at Levi, then at Kirin and the rest.

The God of War was always accompanied by his Kings of War, who were brigadier generals in their own right.

There was no doubt that Levi was the God of War!

He was the God of War who defeated the Eighteen-Nation Alliance with his unparalleled wit and power. He was the one feared by all nations in the world!

The God of War, the nightmare of mercenaries all over the world, the most terrifying presence known to foreign countries—and the very person Lee Jae-shik feared the most!

Oh my, how could I meet the God of War here?

Thud!

When Lee Jae-shik met Levi's gaze, he could not hold himself back anymore and dropped to his knees.

He looked nothing like the most powerful Taekwondo fighter.

Even Park Cheon-shin was utterly terrified.

Levi is actually the God of War?

The only five-star God of War in Erudia?

I understand now!

I understand everything!

The Morris Group had the God of War backing them all along!

Otherwise, why couldn't I find out the backer's identity?

That also explains how the Morris Group could conquer the entire North Hampton in such a short time...

...and why Scott failed so terribly?

It's all because of the God of War...

No wonder he dares to threaten the Triple Group like that!

We're doomed.

This is the end of us.

Park Cheon-shin's legs weakened and he fell to his knees with a loud thump.

His entire body was drenched in cold sweat.

Everyone was flabbergasted.

What's going on?

Why are the two prominent members of Triple group kneeling in fear?

Jesse and the rest walked towards Levi and addressed him simultaneously,
"Greetings, God of War, Sir!"

This was a blatant announcement to everyone that he was really the God of War!

"God of War? Seriously?"

"I actually met the God of War in my lifetime?"

A huge commotion erupted amongst the crowd with everyone staring at Levi in utter admiration.

He's Erudia's God of War!

He's everyone's faith!

The Garrison family felt extremely proud when they saw this scene.

No matter what, Levi was still from the Garrison family, and was once part of the Garrisons!

Joseph and the rest glanced at the Fletchers.

As if they had been struck by lightning, the Fletchers stood there paralyzed. They were lost in their thoughts and their minds became a complete blank.

Tap, tap, tap...

With his military boots, Levi walked slowly towards Lauren and Lee Jung-jin.

He said with a smile, "Congratulations on your wedding, Lauren! I hope you'll be blissful forever. You're like a little sister to me."

Lauren raised her head slowly and met Levi's gaze; her mind was still blank.

Tears streamed down her cheeks as she was unable to hold back her emotions anymore.

The Protector Chapter 540

Levi then glanced at Lee Jung-jin and said, “Since she has chosen you, you must treat her nicely!”

“I... I...”

Lee Jung-jin was still traumatized that his body quivered and his teeth chattered.

What should I say?

With Levi standing in front of me, I feel extremely intimidated.

Lee Jung-jin could barely breathe from the pressure.

In fact, he wanted so badly to kneel in front of Levi.

On the other hand, Lauren had already burst into tears.

The venue was so quiet that everyone could even hear a pin drop.

Only Lauren’s sobs echoed across the hall, sounding extremely miserable and pitiful.

The more one listened to it, the more chills one would feel running down the spine.

“Mr. Fletcher, Mrs. Fletcher. Long time no see!”

With a grin, Levi greeted everyone in the Fletcher family.

“Argh...”

Thud!

When Jenson took a closer look at Levi’s face, he screamed. But before he could finish his sentence he had already fainted.

Isaac, Sam, and the rest could barely walk anymore. Their legs were trembling.

Sweat started to form on their foreheads as they were consumed by astonishment.

How could this be?

How is this even possible?

How can Levi be the God of War?

Didn’t he go to jail?

How did he become the unparalleled God of War?

This news was too much of a shock for them and they could barely accept the fact for the time being.

They were on the verge of a mental breakdown.

If they could not bear it anymore, they might even die of heart attack!

Now, they finally understood why the Garrison family said that they would regret it...

They already knew Levi’s identity!

Hence, they had warned the Fletchers to not feel any regret and be mentally prepared.

The old Mr. Fletcher was too overwhelmed by the revelation that he fainted.

In the eyes of the Garrison family, the Fletchers had been acting like clowns!

Immense regret engulfed each and every one of the Fletchers.

The Fletchers now felt empty inside, as if they had lost something terribly important.

This mistake would be an eternal pity for them.

The Garrisons were right.

Levi had no regrets. The only ones feeling that way would be the Fletchers!

In the face of the God of War, Lee Jung-jin was a nobody.

So what if he's from the Triple Group?

How deserving is he?

He's not even worthy enough to stand beside Levi!

The Fletchers collapsed onto the ground one by one. As if all their strength had been sapped from their body, they could barely even raise their arms.

This is just too alarming!

Today will forever be a tormenting and unforgettable event to us.

On the other hand, Joseph and the rest thrust their chests out proudly.

To them, Levi was the pride of the Garrison family!

By then, Lauren had been sobbing for a long time.

The person I like is already a mighty general, the legend of the entire nation.

The person I like is the most powerful person in the world, unparalleled in all fields.

My judgment was never wrong. The person I like is a hero!

Zoey, whom I always despised, is actually the happiest woman on Earth.

Oh! How I regret it!

Lauren wailed loudly as tears streamed down her cheeks.

She knew what she had missed out on.

She also understood that she would never be worthy of this man.

No matter how much effort she spent or how accomplished she became, she would never be on par with him, let alone cause him to regret!

That would be something she would never achieve in her lifetime.

“You received the gift, right? I’m happy that you can find love.”

Levi smiled, taking out a handkerchief and wiping Lauren’s tears away.

Naturally, the gift he was referring to was the Love of the Century.

“When I was younger, I did not handle that incident well! I’m sorry for that. However, now that you’re married, I’m really relieved.”

The Protector Chapter 541

“For your marriage, I must make a grand entrance and treat it with utmost importance. You must be happy, okay?”

With that, Levi spun around and left.

“No... No... I’m not going to marry anymore.”

Suddenly, Lauren sprinted towards him like she had gone mad.

With the sound of fabric tearing, she ripped apart the outer layer of her wedding gown and tossed her hair accessories away.

Running towards Levi, she wrapped her arms tightly around him.

Thud!

The bouquet in Lee Jung-jin’s hands fell onto the ground.

He, and everyone else present, were dumbfounded.

She’s not marrying anymore?

No one expected this outcome.

In such a circumstance, however, no one dared to stop her or say anything.

“I’m not going to marry! I’m not going to marry!” cried Lauren, sounding like she was choking up.

Levi was about to break free from her sudden embrace when Lauren whispered, "Can I just hug you for a while? Just a while!"

Levi nodded.

Lauren pressed closely against Levi's back, enjoying this moment.

She understood that Levi would only belong to her for this brief moment.

Afterward, he would have nothing to do with her anymore.

Hence, all she cared about was this exact moment.

At the very least, she could feel like she had Levi to herself for the briefest moment...

Everyone stared at both of them silently.

After a minute, Lauren released her arms reluctantly as tears gushed out of her eyes again.

She was about to miss the love of her life.

"I don't want you to abandon the wedding for my sake," said Levi with his back facing her.

"No! I figured it out earlier. I don't want a marriage like this, marrying a person whom I don't even like! If I were to marry, I want to do so for love. Pure love without anything else corrupting it!" exclaimed Lauren.

Then, she looked at Lee Jung-jin. "I'm sorry, but I never liked you. I only married you for my self-interest."

"I... respect your decision. We'll call off this wedding."

With much difficulty, Lee Jung-jin reached a decision, too.

Yet another commotion immediately broke out amongst the crowd.

This wedding, which has been publicized as the wedding of the century, is being called off?

But Levi's appearance made everyone realize that the wedding had indeed been derailed.

It was the right choice to call it off!

"Okay. As long as it's your own choice."

With that, Levi left the venue.

Looking at Levi walking away into the distance, Lauren suddenly yelled, "Other than you, I'll never marry anyone else!"

Thud!

After shouting her heart out, Lauren collapsed onto the floor.

She had decided that she would not marry for life.

Now that things had progressed to this stage, it was clear that the Fletchers were doomed.

Everyone left gradually.

Before the Garrisons took their leave, they scoffed coldly, "We told you to be mentally prepared, but you ignored our advice!"

“We’re leaving, too!”

Lee Jae-shik, Park Cheon-shin and their group left in fear.

They only wanted to return to South City as soon as possible!

If they knew what was going to happen, they would not have come to North Hampton.

Suddenly, they remembered the warning Seth gave them when they got off the train.

“Oh no! Today’s the deadline!”

Cold sweat dotted Park Cheon-shin’s forehead.

However, the most terrified person was still Lee Jae-shik.

After all, the God of War was their ultimate enemy. How could they not be frightened?

Members of the Triple Group scurried away in their cars.

When they had just left the road outside the villa, their path was blocked by an olive green SUV.

Levi was sitting on the top of the car with the Kings of War all standing beside him. They all stared coldly at the cars in front of them.

“Why are you so eager to leave? Well, it’s simple to enter North Hampton, but not so easy to leave,” drawled Levi with a smirk.

The Protector Chapter 542

Park Cheon-shin, Lee Jae-shik and the rest stepped out of their car and shuffled towards Levi. Their heads drooped downward, making them look like children who had done something wrong.

Levi scanned them, his gaze landing on Lee Jae-shik.

“You escaped to Erudia?” asked Levi.

“Huh?”

Lee Jae-shik froze in fear.

He actually knows me?

“I know you. The losers from Keerea are your students, right? You’re the chief coach of the millions of Keerea’s soldiers. Instead of staying in your country, why did you come to Erudia?”

Levi suddenly raised his voice, causing Lee Jae-shik to feel so scared that his knees gave way.

“I’m wrong, God of War! I’m wrong! I shouldn’t have entered Erudia! It’s my mistake...”

Kneeling on the floor, Lee Jae-shik groveled at Levi’s feet.

His clothes were drenched in cold sweat, which dripped down his hair.

It was not because the weather was hot, but because he was utterly terrified.

The other members of Triple Group were astounded.

No one expected the nation's ultimate Taekwondo master to be so fearful!

White Tiger licked his lips. Sounding interested, he said, "I heard that he is the best Taekwondo master. I want to have a match with him!"

"King of War, White Tiger?"

Lee Jae-shik's face turned pale as he immediately identified the speaker correctly.

"I wouldn't dare! I wouldn't dare! I don't dare to do anything in Erudia..."

Lee Jae-shik was overcome with regret.

Oh, how I regret it!

Knowing the God of War is in Erudia, why did I still come?

"That's not going to happen! You shouldn't have come to Erudia. If you want to leave, you'll have to accept my punch!"

White Tiger strode towards him.

"Remember, you can only leave if you remain standing after receiving my punch," added White Tiger.

Lee Jae-shik understood that because of his identity, death was certain once he set foot in Erudia.

If he wanted to leave the country alive, he must accept this punch and put in his best effort.

“Come at me!” yelled Lee Jae-shik furiously as he stomped on the ground with a booming thud.

As expected of a master, his moves were extremely powerful.

He stood there motionlessly like an unmovable mountain.

As White Tiger came close, he suddenly accelerated and threw a punch at Lee Jae-shik.

Lee Jae-shik’s eyes sparkled. He moved as quickly as lightning.

Boom!

With a sweeping kick, the most classic move in Taekwondo, he attacked White Tiger.

Although it was an ordinary move, it was fatal when deployed by Lee Jae-shik.

The kick was so powerful that it felt like a hurricane that was demolishing everything in its path!

Boom!

A ferocious wind blew across the surroundings, causing tree branches and pebbles to fly into the sky. Everyone around them was forced to stagger a few meters backward.

Thud!

Thud!

The dozens of trees around them exploded!

Compared to this kick, White Tiger's punch looked extremely ordinary.

A deafening bang sounded when the kick and punch collided.

Lee Jae-shik was instantly sent flying backward for ten meters. After crashing into a large tree with a huge thud and splitting it into halves, he did not stand up anymore.

White Tiger stroked his bloodied fist and smiled in satisfaction. "I've finally met someone who can take up a fight!"

As Lee Jae-shik did not survive this punch, he could never leave Erudia anymore.

When everyone saw how easily the Taekwondo master was defeated, they froze in fear.

Even Park Cheon-shin pissed his pants...

"You're Park Cheon-shin, right? Did you hear my three warnings?" asked Levi as he turned his gaze to him.

"Yes! I completely understood them and will carry them out instantly!" promised Park Cheon-shin.

"It's too late. Crawl out of Erudia! I'll give you one day. If I still see anything related to Triple Group in Erudia, I'll go looking for you."

Levi sounded assertive, leaving absolutely no room for negotiation.

The Protector Chapter 543

Park Cheon-shin fainted in fear.

I'm doomed!

It's all over!

The Triple Group's ambitious plan to dominate the Erudia market has been ruined.

"We'll leave right away, God of War!" said Lee Jung-jin, quivering.

"I said, crawl out of Erudia!"

Levi's gaze was sharp and ruthless.

Alarmingly, the high-ranking officials of Triple Group were then seen sprawling across the ground as they slowly crawled out of North Hampton.

It would be an understatement to describe the crawling men as "pathetic".

After a few hours, Triple Group suddenly announced that they would return the donations worth eighty billion.

After another hour, Triple Group organized a press conference. They apologized to Erudia for the crimes they had committed, promised to return the money they had scammed and laundered, and made a promise to compensate the victims.

Everyone following the event online erupted into cheers.

The Triple Group headquarters then declared the company would withdraw from the Erudia market: they would remove all of their products in Erudia within a day.

This was breaking news!

Everyone was astounded.

The Triple Group, which has been climbing up the ranks, is suddenly leaving Erudia?

What's going on?

On the other hand, the companies and individuals who had been oppressed by Triple Group cheered in delight.

The Triple Group was like a cancerous tumor in the business world.

They did all sorts of evil things and exploited countless people.

Yet, many of the victims did not dare to expose the company and merely hope the company would fail.

Now that their wish was fulfilled, they were so overjoyed that they wanted to hold a big celebration!

As Triple Group mainly sold electronic products and there were many similar companies in the market, its departure did not create a huge impact.

That day, Levi told Iris, the person in charge of Morris Group, to add another basket of goods to the company's portfolio: electronic products.

They would strive to create the most cost-effective electronic products to crush other immoral companies!

By creating products that could benefit the masses, they could promote healthy market development while doing good to the people.

This was what the Morris Group had always done.

Whether it was medical apparatus or other products, they always strived to sell the best quality products at the cheapest prices.

Their motto was to promote the city's development and wellbeing of the people.

Hence, the employees of Morris Group all gave their work their best effort.

Aside from being able to reap the financial benefits, they would feel honored, too!

The young people in North Hampton were proud of working at Morris Group.

Morris Group had already been manufacturing electronic products. Now, they were simply increasing the scale of their production.

As Triple Group left the market, other companies were able to tap into its market share.

Iris even gave a part of the electronics business to the Oriental Star Group.

Zoey was very capable, too. Within a short period of time, the Oriental Star Group's profits skyrocketed under her management, a role she had gladly accepted.

When she reached home, she asked, "Darling, how did the wedding go?"

Levi smiled helplessly. "Well, I made up for my regret and she made the choice she wanted."

“That’s good, then! But it’s a pity how her wedding went. The Triple Group withdrew so unexpectedly just as she became the general manager of their Erudia branch.

She sighed. “The wedding is only memorable because of the regrets it left.”

Levi knew that Zoey was thinking about their wedding six years ago.

It was not a fruitful wedding, and it became his and Zoey’s regret.

“Honey, I’ve decided to re-organize a wedding for you! By then, I’ll tell you some things.”

Levi decided to organize another wedding for Zoey.

At that time, he would reveal his true identity to her.

The Protector Chapter 544

Zoey's eyes curved into tiny crescents as she smiled. "Okay! I'll wait for you to give me a fruitful wedding!"

"Alright. Let's pick a suitable date!"

Levi nodded.

Zoey thought that Levi was joking. She was not expecting him to be serious.

That wedding was later named the grandest wedding of the century.

Of course, all these were in retrospect!

Life would return to normal afterward.

Sitting in his office, Levi smoked and had some alcohol.

He then received a call from Azure Dragon, saying chaos had broken out in South City.

After the fall of the Triple Group and Scott's faction, the other prominent families started to frantically claim control of the available territories.

Even some external forces became involved.

In short, the entire South City had descended into chaos.

Levi did not expect this to happen.

Initially, he thought that after eliminating Scott and Triple Group, Quebec would become peaceful again and that everyone would behave properly.

Yet, instead of warning them, his actions caused these people to descend into madness.

To them, after the collapse of the two major forces, they now had more territory and businesses to seize!

“It’s hard to control South City...” said Azure Dragon hesitantly.

“Okay, I’ll personally make a trip to South City. As all these happened because of me, I need to set things straight.”

A cold glint appeared in Levi’s eyes.

At night, he told Zoey that he was going to South City.

Zoey’s eyes lit up. “That’s just right! Abigail was telling me that she wants to return to South City as something urgent has happened in the family. The Black family did not say what exactly was so urgent, so my parents are very worried. Go back with Abigail and see what happened to the Black family.”

“Sure, no problem,” agreed Levi.

The next day arrived.

After Abigail entered the car, she instantly wrapped her arms around Levi’s neck.

“Levi, you’re so cruel. Why didn’t you visit me for such a long time?”

A resentful look appeared in Abigail’s eyes as if she was his wife.

Levi pushed her aside quickly.

“Just speak normally. Don’t touch me!”

Abigail glared at him and said, “Are you seeing someone recently?”

Levi frowned. “Huh?”

“I heard that you attended your childhood friend’s wedding and flirted with girls. Even my sister’s best friend started liking you. Helena, the new celebrity in my sister’s company, is obsessed with you, too! Am I right?” complained Abigail as she pouted.

“What are you talking about?”

Levi frowned.

“Let me tell you this. I’ll only like your sister. The other women are none of my business! Even if I’m involved with them, it’s because of your sister. You’re one of them...”

When Abigail heard his words, her expression fell immediately.

Tears of indignance brimmed in her eyes as she tried to hold them back.

So Levi is only nice to me because of Zoey!

“What’s wrong, Abigail? Why are you crying?”

Levi suddenly realized that Abigail had burst into tears.

“It’s nothing...”

She wiped her tears away and stayed silent for the entire ride.

Levi had no clue how he offended Abigail, so he remained quiet, too.

Soon, they reached South City.

When they entered the city, Levi called Alfie from the Dragon Legion.

“Tell the South City leaders that I’ve arrived,” instructed Levi.

When he attended the Black family’s birthday banquet, he had promised he would definitely inform the city management the next time he arrived.

“Understood, Sir!” replied Alfie instantly.

Alfie then contacted the commander-in-chief of the South Warzone and the major leaders of the city.

The Protector Chapter 545

Instantly, the entire of South City was in a frenzy.

The God of the War is coming.

The fact that no one knows why he's coming is even more terrifying!

When the Triple Group committed their outrageous acts, the God of War didn't even come.

Yet, he's coming now?

This means that something major has happened!

After exiting the highway, Levi drove to the Black family home.

His car zoomed along the roads when suddenly he caught sight of two luxurious cars from the rearview mirror.

One was a Lamborghini, while the other was a Ferrari 458.

Vroom! Vroom! Vroom!

The two luxurious cars sped past Levi's Mercedes, deliberately cutting his path.

There were two people sitting in each of the cars.

They were the wealthy bachelors of South City.

The most famous of them was Derek, who came from the wealthy Davies family.

Recently, the Davies family had been flourishing, having snatched control of multiple territories and reaped a lot of benefits.

“She’s Abigail, right? I recognized her with just a single glance!” exclaimed Derek with a grin.

“Yeah, she’s Abigail,” agreed the rest.

When they were at the intersection earlier, they noticed Abigail sitting in the car. Hence, they instantly chased after her to confirm.

“I heard that the Black family arranged a marriage for Abigail, right?” Derek asked his underling, Zachary.

“Yeah, but I want to tease Abigail today. She’s so pretty. I’ve actually been lusting after her for a long time. Haha...”

When Derek thought of Abigail, he could not hold himself back anymore.

Initially, as the Black family was much more powerful than the Davies family, he did not dare to do anything.

However, in the recent shakeup of territories, the Black family had chosen to keep a distance while the Davies family participated aggressively.

Now, the Davies family was in a much more powerful position than the Blacks.

Naturally, Derek became braver and wanted to toy around with Abigail.

After cutting in front of the Mercedes, the two cars slowed down gradually.

In the end, they were only driving at a slow speed of 20km/h.

It was obvious that they were doing it on purpose!

Fury appeared in Abigail's eyes.

“Levi, they're doing this on purpose! Hmph!”

However, Levi did not respond.

Suddenly, he spun the steering wheel to the right and accelerated.

At the speed of lightning, he surpassed the two luxurious cars instantly and sped off.

Vroom!

When Derek and the rest saw the car zooming past them, they were stunned.

What the heck is this?

It's driving so quickly that I can't even react in time!

“Quick! Chase after that car!” yelled Derek.

The Ferrari and Lamborghini accelerated, speeding up so quickly that they looked like two streaks of lightning on the road.

A Mercedes could never accelerate faster than sports cars on a straight road.

Soon, Levi realized that the two cars were about to reach them.

However, instead of being flustered, he continued accelerating.

Although there was a sharp curve in front, Levi ignored it and kept increasing the speed.

“Huh? Levi, slow down!”

Abigail was so scared that she almost closed her eyes.

However, a calm expression remained on Levi’s face while the car continued speeding up.

When Derek and the rest saw that, they were so shocked that cold sweat started to dot their foreheads.

“Damn it! Is this guy crazy? There’s such a sharp curve ahead with a few slopes. Yet, he still dares to accelerate?” exclaimed Derek in surprise.

“Yeah! Curves like these are the most accident-prone. Does he still dare to accelerate? He must be a madman!”

“It might be safer if a sports car zoomed across the curve. But a mere sedan? That’s crazy!”

The Lamborghini and Ferrari started to slow down, wanting to drive past the curve steadily.

However, the Mercedes in front dashed onto the curved road as it accelerated.

“They’re doomed! The car will be destroyed and the passengers will definitely die.”

“Poor Abigail. She’s so pretty!”

Even Derek closed his eyes in despair.

The Protector Chapter 546

“Hah!”

However, everyone seemed to be in hysterics in the next second.

The Audi drifted in a controlled arc as it swept along the sharp bend in the road with a screech.

“What?”

“How’s that impossible?”

Everyone’s eyes were bulging out of their sockets.

In the Audi.

Levi smirked. “You can open your eyes now, Abigail.”

After Abigail opened her eyes, she found that the car was advancing steadily along a straight road.

We’ve passed that deadly turn already?

Abigail had a look of shock on her face.

There were many sharp bends along this road, but Levi did not slow down at all.

No matter how good the performance of an Audi was, on a straight road, its speed could not compare to that of the other two sports cars.

Despite that disadvantage, Levi managed to overtake the other two sports cars very quickly because he did not slow down at any of the sharp bends along the road.

They tried to catch up, but it was to no avail; the Audi had already completely disappeared from their sight.

“Holy f!”

Derek was completely floored.

He had joined many well-known racing clubs before, but he had never once seen such a skilled racer.

“Bring him to me! I want him found this instance!” Derek bellowed.

Soon after that, Levi and Abigail quickly arrived at the Black family’s residence.

As soon as the Blacks saw Abigail, they were elated.

However, their expressions changed the moment they laid eyes on Levi.

Both Robert and Meredith acknowledged Levi only because of the special cigarettes and liquors he had gifted them previously.

“Mr. and Mrs. Black, do you still have enough of the special cigarettes and liquors?” Levi asked with a smile.

“Yes! It can probably last us a few years!” Robert replied.

Meanwhile, Bailey and the others were glaring at Levi.

Pamela, on the other hand, scoffed and went so far as to say, “Do you think Russell would’ve brought us anything less than he did?”

“Yeah. Russell was the one who brought it for us. What does it have to do with you?”

The others sneered at him.

Upon seeing this, Abigail quickly changed the subject. “Grandpa, Grandma, why did you call me back so suddenly? I was scared out of my mind when you said something serious happened.”

Hearing that, Levi perked up his ears as well.

After all, Zoey had tasked him with this job.

He would only feel relieved after making sure the Black family was safe and well.

At that moment, Bailey and Pamela exchanged an excited glance.

Robert also had a similar look on his face.

“I’ll do the honors! Someone has come forward with a marriage proposal!” Meredith announced.

Abigail was taken aback and pointed to herself in surprise. “Huh? To me?”

“Yes, that’s right! Your Grandpa’s chief and I will personally accompany his grandson to come here tomorrow for the official proposal. He’s taken a fancy to you!”

“Your Grandpa and I approve of this marriage! We have met that boy, and he’s very outstanding!” Meredith beamed.

Robert nodded as well. “Yes, I completely agree! That boy is probably the most outstanding person I’ve ever seen!”

“I refuse!”

Abigail rejected it without even thinking it over.

“What are you talking about, Abby? How can you reject the proposal just like that? You haven’t even met him yet,” Pamela countered unhappily.

Bailey backed her up as well. “Do you know who he is? He’s Timothy Caesar, the heir of the Caesar family from South Hampton! The Caesar family is practically royalty!”

When wealthy families from all over Erudia transcended a certain level of influence, they weren’t only judged by their economical standing but more often than so by their physical might and the presence of a martial arts master in the family.

Those kinds of families weren’t addressed the usual way.

In the event of surpassing the Gonzales family from North Hampton as well as other influential families such as the Robinsons, the status of royalty would be bestowed.

Families regarded as royalty were by no means built from scratch just a couple of decades ago.

Most of the royalties had a history of more than a century and were prominent families passed down from generation to generation.

The Protector Chapter 547

These families could be traced back to a couple of centuries.

In simpler terms, the royal family was established by the hard work of several generations over the span of centuries!

It wasn't a level a normal person could single-handedly reach in just a few decades.

This was the difference between a wealthy family and a royal family!

There were only a handful of families in Erudia who were of royal status.

South Hampton, for instance, was the economic center of Erudia.

That was where a true royal family resided.

Quebec, on the other hand, never had the privilege of having a royal family.

And the man arranged to be Abigail's betrothed, Timothy Caesar, was from a quasi-royal clan.

A quasi-royal clan was slightly more powerful than a regular wealthy family but a few decades away from becoming true royals.

Despite that, the Caesar family managed to crush all the families in Quebec!

Even Scott Yates and his family were no match for them!

Timothy's grandfather, Richard Caesar, was a formidable general in the army when he was young, and no one dared to underestimate his family.

Thus, when Richard suggested a marriage proposal to the Black family, Robert and Meredith were so excited that they didn't get a wink of sleep.

If Abigail were to marry Timothy, firstly, the Blacks would be able to fortify their standing.

Secondly, Abigail would want for nothing.

Meredith spoke up, "Abigail, aren't you going to change your mind? Marrying into the Caesar family will help the Blacks reach unimaginable heights! Luck has chosen you, so cherish it!"

Robert nodded in agreement. "Your grandmother's right! We are nothing but an ant beneath their boot! Do you have any idea how lucky you'd be if you marry into the Caesar family, Abigail?"

"What are you waiting for? Quickly thank your Grandpa and Grandma for giving you such a good opportunity!" Bailey and Pamela prompted Abigail.

"That's right! Not only are the Caesars powerful, but Timothy Caesar is a fine young man too. He was trained to become the head of the Caesar family from a young age, so he's definitely the best of the best! Marrying him would be the smartest choice you ever made in your life, Abigail!"

Keane and Quintus both chimed in, "Yeah. You'd be the lady of the Caesar household from then on. With such a prominent title, the whole of South City would envy you!"

"Exactly! Now that mayhem has descended upon South City, all the influential families are fighting for rulership, and they're all searching for strong backers! Even though we're currently staying out of it, we would inevitably be affected; it's only a matter of when. But if you marry into the Caesar family, no one would dare to touch our family!”

...

Everyone listed out the benefits of this arranged marriage, one by one.

More than anything, they wanted to overcome the obstacle looming over them.

With all hell broke loose on South City, the Black family was too weak to fend for themselves.

Their entire family could be crushed if they didn't find a backer soon!

Fortunately for them, it just so happened that the Caesar family proposed a union by marriage.

And the Blacks accepted their proposal right off the bat.

Abigail felt helpless.

She originally thought that she could escape the fate of marrying into a powerful family against her will.

But alas, it turned out that her fate was sealed from the very beginning.

“No! I refuse to! I don't care how outstanding he is; I'm just not interested!”

Abigail was on the verge of tears, and she sent Levi a pleading gaze.

“What do you mean by you refuse to? You should at least meet the boy first, don't you think so?” Robert urged.

Abigail shook her head vigorously. “No. I don’t want to!”

“Insolence!” Meredith bellowed all of a sudden.

Her loud roar of anger startled everyone.

“You’re getting more disobedient nowadays, Abigail! I’ve pampered you all these years, but here you are, rebelling against me!” Meredith yelled angrily.

“But I don’t want to, Grandma...”

Tears were rolling down Abigail’s cheeks.

“Tomorrow, the Caesar family will be coming to make the marriage proposal, and you will join us, whether you like it or not.”

Meredith was so tyrannical that no one dared to refute her.

And Abigail fell into despair.

“You can’t force Abigail to do anything. Not on my watch.” A commanding voice abruptly broke through the silence.

Everyone turned to stare at Levi with wide-eyed disbelief.

The Protector Chapter 548

Levi's authoritative statement immediately brought Abigail back to her senses.

That's right!

So what if they're from a powerful background?

Can they be more powerful than my brother-in-law?

Abigail instantly sidled closer to Levi. "I'll only listen to you, Levi!"

Swoosh!

As one, all of the Blacks transferred their gazes back to Levi again.

"Excuse me, but who do you think you are? What gives you the right to speak here?" Jonathan was visibly enraged.

At the same time, Leonard pushed his glasses higher up his nose bridge, seemingly irked as well. "Exactly. How dare you speak to your elders in such a way? Have you lost your mind?"

Even the youngsters, Keane and Quintus, were infuriated.

They wanted so badly to give him a few tight slaps!

As for Bailey and Pamela, they were livid as well.

"Since when have my daughter's affairs become your business?" Bailey literally roared out the words.

Robert was glaring daggers at Levi, whereas Meredith couldn't stand the sight of him.

"Get out of our house this instant! You're not welcome here!"

"Of all the youngsters I've raised since young, none of them ever dared to speak to me that way!" Meredith pointed a finger at Levi as she berated him.

She was right – everyone in the Black family had an extremely strict upbringing.

The youngsters never dared to raise their voices in front of Meredith or Robert.

Hence, Levi outright provoking them was an atrocity through and through!

Levi's eyes flashed with a hint of anger.

I won't allow anyone to force Abigail into doing something she doesn't want to do!

"Why are you looking at me like that? Get out right now!" Meredith yelled.

Abigail was afraid that the matter would blow up into something serious, so she quickly interjected, "Why don't you go first, Levi? I'll just check things out tomorrow. It's not like I have to agree to it anyway!"

With that, Levi finally left under Abigail's mild urging.

"Grandpa, Grandma, don't blame Levi. I'll go tomorrow, okay?" Abigail promised.

"Now that's more like it!"

Only then did Meredith promise to refrain from taking action against Levi for his disrespectful behavior.

Not long after Levi left, Russell sped back home in his car.

He had recently been promoted to the Deputy Chief of the Special Security Unit.

He was the busiest during this period of time due to the chaos across the entire South City.

Even so, when he heard that Levi was visiting, he immediately put everything down and rushed over.

“Grandpa, Grandma! I heard that Levi and Abigail are back!”

Russell jogged into the villa.

“Yes, they came back. Why?”

Confusion lined Meredith’s features.

“Hey, Abigail. Wow, you’re even prettier than the last time I saw you.”

After Russell gave Abigail a perfunctory greeting, he immediately cast his gaze around. “Where’s Levi?”

“You mean that b, Levi? He was just driven away by Grandma!” Jonathan stated with displeasure.

Thud!

Russell staggered backwards, almost falling to the ground.

His face was drained of color and as white as a sheet.

His Adam's apple bobbed as he swallowed hard before asking with mortification sprawled across his face, "What? Levi was driven out of the house?"

T-T-This...

Russell felt his head spin.

They actually drove away the God of War?

Where in the world did they find the courage to do that?

Why, oh why, didn't I arrive sooner?

"Yeah! He talked back to Grandpa and Grandma! He was lucky he was only driven out. If it were up to me, I'd give him a good beating and teach him a lesson!" Keane gritted out.

What?

Russell felt his blood pressure shoot up.

He wants to teach who a lesson?

What are his balls made out of? Steel?

"Let me go find Levi..."

Russell bolted out immediately after.

"Huh? What's up with Russell?"

Jonathan was perplexed, wondering why his son was acting so out of character.

“Yeah, I noticed something off about Russell too. He’s acting all strange when we mention Levi as if Levi is some kind of powerful figure,” Robert added in.

The others were equally baffled as they nodded in agreement.

The Protector Chapter 549

To everyone's surprise, Meredith laughed. "You're all too emotionally driven! Russell is the opposite of that, and it's something none of you have the ability to understand!"

"What do you mean, Grandma?" Keane queried.

"Russell is a humble and polished man. He sets aside his emotions and treats everyone equally. So, even though Levi is a b, he still treats him as his family. His ability to remain rational in every situation is the reason for his success!"

Meredith admired Russell because of that.

"Yeah. We can't compare to Russell in this aspect! There's a lot we need to learn from him!"

...

Everyone showered Russell with praises.

Meanwhile, Abigail's shoulders slumped helplessly.

It's because Russell knows Levi's true identity...

If Russell knew about the situation here right now, he'd definitely laugh and say something along the lines of 'My ability to remain rational? He's the damn God of War, for heaven's sake!'

At the same time, Alfie came to personally pick Levi up from the Black family's residence.

He always obeyed Levi without a single question or protest.

Alfie was dressed in casual wear and drove an ordinary car.

They were keeping an extremely low profile.

"Sir, the officials in South City are all keeping a low profile as per your command. Tonight, they wish to have you join them for a simple meal, and they promise that it won't be anything too over the top!" Alfie reported in a low voice.

"Sure. I'll join them for dinner tonight," Levi replied.

Then, Alfie drove Levi to the South Warzone first.

Besides Zoey, the only place that felt like home to Levi was the military base.

Meanwhile, Russell was combing through the whole of South City searching for Levi.

Halfway through his search, he got a call from Meredith. "Russell, I just received news that the Caesar family from South Hampton has arrived! Could you please pick them up and arrange for them to stay at our Tropical Villa?"

"Alright, Grandma. Just leave it to me."

After that, Russell quickly went to meet the Caesar family.

They had three cars in total.

A Rolls-Royce was trailing behind an ordinary car that was charged with clearing the path ahead, while a Toyota Elfa brought up the rear.

An elderly man and a young man were seated in the backseat of the Rolls-Royce.

The elderly man had a head of white hair and was dressed in traditional clothing.

People were often deceived by his age, but a closer glance showed that his eyes had a dangerous glint to them.

The head of the Caesar family, Richard Caesar, was a fierce general in the army during his early years, never showing mercy to those who crossed him.

After stepping down, he remained untouchable in South Hampton.

He leaned on his cane, while beside him sat a fair-skinned young man with a pair of gold-rimmed glasses.

He wasn't here for a vacation, though.

He was here because he was Abigail's potential suitor, Timothy Caesar.

Besides being the number one bachelor heir in South Hampton, he was also a member of the South Hampton Prince Gang!

The purpose of his visit wasn't as simple as everyone thought.

And his marriage proposal to Abigail was just a ruse.

He wanted to take over South City through the Black family and make a huge fortune out of it!

The Caesar family planned to invade South City and expand their power.

All of them had ulterior motives.

Just then, Richard explained to Timothy the matter of his marriage proposal to the Black family.

“Yes, Grandpa. I understand! Women are only tools! I’ll marry Abigail as you wish!”

A cold glint streaked across Timothy’s eyes.

Richard nodded in satisfaction. “Yes, you’re right! After we establish our position in South City, you can deal with Abigail however you please!”

“Yes, Grandpa!”

The corners of Timothy’s mouth lifted.

What he had in mind was simple. He was going to use the marriage as a cover and treat Abigail as his plaything.

Russell arrived soon to guide Richard and his entourage to Tropical Villa, letting them settle down there.

A group of people arrived not long after Russell left.

The Protector Chapter 550

These people were young and rich heirs, all of whom were from the most prominent families in South City.

Melvin Jacobs, Silas Ferguson, Channing Jakeman, as well as Derek Davies were all present.

Their families had all actively participated in the recent battle of territories raging all over South City, reaping an abundance of benefits in the process.

All of them were seeking powerful backers from South Hampton.

As soon as they caught wind that the Caesar family from South Hampton was visiting, they rushed over to curry favor with them.

When Richard saw how eager they were to please, he blandly said to Timothy, "Establishing a good relationship with South City's local families could be beneficial to us in the long run. Go ahead and see to our guests, Timothy."

Timothy nodded. "I understand, Grandpa."

"Mr. Caesar, since this is your first time in South City, welcoming you is the least we could do!" Melvin from the Jacobs family was the first to speak.

No matter how much they flaunted their power in South City, they were nothing compared to South Hampton's number one heir.

Adding on the fact that he was a member of the South Hampton Prince Gang, the entire southern region of the nation was aware of the amount of power he held.

The Prince Gang was an organization similar to a club formed by South Hampton's most powerful heirs.

Every member of the organization was either from a quasi-royal clan or a royal family.

The Prince Gang members were an untamed bunch who did as they pleased.

They answered to no one!

Besides frolicking, they created a reputation for themselves.

No one would dare to mess with those who associated themselves with the Prince Gang.

The ultimate goal of the young heirs residing in South City was to replicate the South Hampton Prince Gang, and they did so by establishing a club of their own.

Unfortunately, their club was too far behind the Prince Gang in every aspect.

Hence, they went green with envy upon meeting a member of the South Hampton Prince Gang.

When Derek found out that a member of the Prince Gang was arranged to be Abigail's betrothed, he almost wet his pants.

Meanwhile, Timothy was busy enjoying being flattered by so many people, basking in their compliments.

Just then, Derek approached Timothy and spoke under his breath, "Mr. Caesar, I have some bad news for you..."

Timothy's face showed displeasure as he inquired, "What is it?"

“I met Abigail by coincidence yesterday!”

“And?”

“She was sitting in a car with a man, and they seemed really intimate with each other. They look like a couple!”

Derek was a simple man. Since he couldn't have Abigail, he thought that he might as well teach Levi a lesson.

Upon hearing this information, Timothy's expression changed drastically.

They weren't officially engaged yet, but to him, Abigail was already his.

She was sitting in a car with another man?

F that!

“Yeah! That man had some mad driving skills too! Our sports cars couldn't even catch up with his Audi!” Some of the others piped in.

Timothy almost popped a vein after hearing that.

His woman had been touched by another man.

How could he not be infuriated?

“Who is he?” Timothy asked in a frosty voice.

“I'm still investigating, Mr. Caesar. I'll let you know the moment I find out!”

Derek shuddered slightly from the insidious look on Timothy's face.

At the same time, Melvin, Silas, and the rest tried to diffuse the tension. “Let’s put all of these upsetting matters aside for now, Mr. Caesar. We’re here to celebrate your arrival. Plus, we’ve prepared a little something for you that we hope you’ll enjoy!”

The men chuckled meaningfully.

Of course Timothy knew what they had in mind.

Women. What else?

“I’m bored of low-grade women, so I’ll pass,” Timothy coldly rejected.

As a man of his status, all kinds of women threw themselves at him.

“Hear me out first, Mr. Caesar. I hand-picked these girls from North Hampton’s drama academy. But most importantly, they’re all virgins!” Channing said with a chuckle.

The crease between Timothy’s brows slowly loosened.

“Indeed, North Hampton’s drama academy is known for its campus beauties!” Timothy chuckled along.

The Protector Chapter 551

The mood took a sharp turn as a somber expression appeared on Timothy's face. "But this must be kept a secret! I'm meeting Abigail tomorrow, so a prickly matter such as this must never be disclosed to anyone."

"Don't worry, Mr. Caesar. The place we arranged is very discreet!"

Timothy shook his head. "That's not enough! It must be completely hidden. I want to make sure that nothing will go wrong!"

Derek immediately chimed in, "I have an idea, Mr. Caesar. I think I know just the place. It's a club called The Abyss. That club can be said to be the most hidden place in the whole of South City, and we can only gain entry through special connections! Not just anybody can enter!"

Seeing Timothy's interest perked, Derek continued, "Many big figures in Quebec choose to discuss matters there because everything stays within those walls! No one outside will ever hear a whisper of what goes on inside."

"Then, The Abyss it is!" Timothy nodded in approval.

"No problem, Mr. Caesar. We all have connections in The Abyss! Let's book the entire club tonight, shall we?" Melvin and the others were all smiles.

In the South Warzone.

"Sir, it's time to leave," Alfie said as he opened the car door for Levi to get in. "All the arrangements in South City have been made."

There were several people standing behind Levi.

The Captain, Mortimer Lambert, was of course among those people.

The rest comprised of Mike Pence – the commander-in-chief of the South Warzone, two deputy commanders-in-chief – Hank Damon and William Stewart, as well as several chiefs of staff.

Everyone was dressed in casual wear, obeying Levi's order to keep a low profile.

Otherwise, the sight of a group of men in military uniform eating in public would scare the living lights out of people.

"Has the meeting point been set?" Levi asked.

"Yes, it's at a club called The Abyss, sir! This club is known for its secrecy. Because it's located in a remote area in the suburbs, many people choose to have their secret meetings there, so we won't have to worry about anyone spying on us."

"South City's authorities realized the sensitivity of this matter, so they chose The Abyss. But the food will be self-prepared, and nothing too extravagant! Besides, everyone will go Dutch, so there won't be any unwanted problems," Alfie clarified.

"Mm, good. I see that they were quite thorough in their planning!" Levi nodded, impressed.

Meanwhile, the leaders of South City were all gathered in The Abyss located on the outskirts of the city.

However, everyone was dressed in a very low-key manner. In fact, their attire was so casual that it made them stick out like a sore thumb in the club.

Tim Cronan, the leader of Quebec, asked, "Has the God of War, I mean, Mr. Garrison, arrived?"

The mayor of South City, Stephen McKay, nodded in response. “Yes, sir. Alfie just called and said that they’re on their way. They should be here soon!”

“That’s good!”

Tim wiped the sweat off his brow.

“Why do I feel nervous?” he mused.

“We’re all nervous too, sir! We’ve been sweating way before we even arrived!”

All of South City’s officials took in deep breaths, fretting over the God of War’s imminent arrival.

They had gone to Jesse Nielsen for advice earlier due to his experience with the God of War.

Yet, Jesse had only given them two words – Stay calm.

However, it was easier said than done.

They were literally drenched in cold sweat due to the level of anxiety they were feeling!

Before long, Levi and his party of people arrived at the entrance of The Abyss.

Vroom, vroom, vroom.

Just then, the sounds of engines revving disrupted the silence.

More than ten sports cars sped towards their direction, all coming to a sudden stop in front of The Abyss.

It was Timothy and the other young heirs.

“Mr. Caesar, welcome to The Abyss!”

After alighting their respective cars, everyone crowded around Timothy and ushered him towards The Abyss.

“Hey! It’s that guy, Mr. Caesar!” Derek exclaimed the moment he spotted Levi.

The Protector Chapter 552

Immediately, everyone fixed their gazes on Levi.

“Is that really him?” Timothy asked, frowning.

“That’s him, Mr. Caesar. That’s the guy with really good driving skills!” A few of Derek’s followers said hastily.

In a split second, Timothy’s expression changed abruptly. “I don’t give a damn who he is, but as long as he has any kind of contact with Abigail, get him out of my sight!”

As a member of the Prince Gang, this was how Timothy normally handled things – in the most arrogantly self-assured way possible.

Derek exchanged a look with his followers before immediately saying, “As you wish, Mr. Caesar!”

Striding forward quickly, Derek caught up with Levi and his group to intercept them.

“Hey, where are you going? Stop right there!”

However, Levi and his group just ignored Derek’s shouts.

“Hey, hey! Are you all deaf? Didn’t you hear what I just said? Hold it right there!”

Derek suddenly raised his voice loudly, throwing his hands open to block Levi and his group from moving further.

Displeased expressions appeared on Alfie and Mike's faces, as well as the other military officials present.

South City was their territory. Thus, they could not believe that there were people here who still dared to block their path, especially when the God of War was traveling with them.

How embarrassing!

Mike and the others were visibly annoyed.

If the fool were lucky, he would only embarrass himself in front of the God of War.

But in the worst-case scenario, this same fool might end up losing his job over charges of negligence.

Mike and the others were raring to reveal their actual identity to this hapless fool, but Alfie stilled their protests with a wave of his hand.

"What's your business?" Alfie asked in his deep voice.

Derek ignored Alfie, looking directly at Levi instead. He pointed his finger at him. "You, come over. I have something to tell you."

His tone of voice was an unmistakable order.

Completely thunderstruck, Mike and the other eight personnel in charge of the South Warzone could only stare dumbly. More than a little fear filled their hearts.

Does this fool have a death wish?

He's literally hollering at the God of War!

Not only was Derek shouting and ordering the God of War around, but he was doing that in front of all the highest-ranked commanders of the South Warzone.

Right then, Mike could not hold himself back any longer. His voice burst out in an angry shout. "Do you know who he is?"

"I don't care who he is! The only important thing is that Mr. Caesar of the Caesar family wants to see him right now, and he's going to do just that," Derek said while smiling coldly.

While it was true that Derek did not know who Levi was, but he still had Timothy Caesar to back him up.

Hence, Derek was confident that no matter how prestigious Levi's societal standing was, there was no way he could be more powerful than Mr. Caesar

Mike, Alfie, and the other officers just exchanged disbelieving glances.

The entire situation was ludicrously embarrassing to the point of being hilarious.

They would not have any dignity left after allowing something unthinkable like this to happen in front of the God of War.

But the jarringly comical side of the entire affair was that these rich heirs had somehow managed to offend the God of War himself.

"And why should I listen to you?" Levi's smile was equally as cold as Derek's.

"Y-you... this is Mr. Caesar we're talking about! The Caesar family practically controls South Hampton, and if you know what's good for you, you'll come with me!" Derek found his embarrassment turn into sputtering anger.

Suddenly, Timothy spoke from somewhere behind Derek. "What's happening, Derek? Can't you handle even something as minor as this?"

Timothy's taunting jabs just made Derek angrier. "You have three seconds to come with me! One, two – I said stop! Don't leave!"

Before Derek could make it to three, Levi and his group just shoved past him to enter The Abyss directly.

"Hey, are you all deaf? Hold it right there!"

Derek could shout himself hoarse, but Levi and his group did not have any intention to acknowledge him.

Seething angrily, Derek looked like he was going to charge into the club after Levi.

"Wait!" Timothy walked over slowly, followed by his people.

"Ah, Derek, aren't you supposed to be quite influential in South City?" Timothy's face was a mask of disappointment when he looked at Derek.

At that moment, Derek just felt his anger spike to new heights.

He clenched his fists tightly, vowing that he would make Levi regret the day he was born.

After they entered The Abyss, the anxiously waiting leaders of South City immediately stepped up to welcome Levi and his group.

But upon actually seeing Levi, everyone looked at each other in disbelief.

They did not expect the mighty God of War, who made the world tremble with his very existence, to be a young man.

However, that disbelief quickly turned into respect.

The Protector Chapter 553

Levi was both agreeable and approachable, setting all of them at ease.

It was no wonder that Jesse Nielsen, the leader of North Hampton, just told them to treat the God of War as they would any other normal young man.

Even the boss of The Abyss, Orion Sinclair, followed behind them in awe.

He was genuinely both excited and on edge at the same time. These were definitely the biggest shots his club had welcomed ever since he started operating it.

These people arrived in a group of more than twenty. Even the God of War was here, a fact that still made Orion rub his eyes in disbelief.

Outside The Abyss, Derek faced a dilemma.

“So, they entered the club. Aren’t you and your men supposed to be the heavy hitters of South City? Just surround this place and force them out, now!” Timothy said coldly, lighting up a cigarette.

“At once, Mr. Caesar,” Derek said hastily. “Watch this!”

At this moment, Channing, Melvin, and the other rich heirs just laughed unkindly.

Then, they approached the entrance of The Abyss.

“Mr. Jacobs!” The manager of The Abyss came out to welcome them personally, immediately greeting them respectfully. He recognized these rich heirs as regulars at The Abyss.

Melvin took a look into the interior of the club. “I need you to do two things. First, get your boss out here. We’re reserving the entire place tonight, and I don’t want anyone else coming in. Two, kick out all those who went in just now!”

In addition to that, Silas did not even bother to pretend to be respectful as he roared, “Get going, now!”

Usually, if the rich heirs visited the club, the staff of The Abyss would scramble to comply with their orders immediately.

However, the manager actually hesitated today.

“I’m sorry, Mr. Jacobs, but we’re unable to arrange that for you and your friends tonight,” the manager said carefully, feeling backed into a tight spot.

“Oh? What’s the matter?” Melvin demanded as his expression changed abruptly.

If he did not get his way, it was akin to being humiliated in front of Mr. Caesar.

“Someone else already booked The Abyss today, Mr. Jacobs. I’m sorry, but you didn’t notify us earlier, so our hands are tied. The only thing we can offer you now is a waive on you and your friends’ bill the next time you come to our club,” the manager apologized in a low voice because he did not want to offend the various rich heirs.

But when Melvin heard that the club was fully booked by someone else, he immediately flew into a temper.

He kicked the door of the club forcefully, making a loud crash. “Do I look like I’m broke and need you to waive my bill?”

“Yeah, get out of here! We don’t need your charity!” The other rich heirs shouted angrily.

“I’m telling you – we don’t care who reserved the place tonight. Kick him out and tell him to get lost! We’re booking The Abyss today. You better do it now, or don’t blame us if things get unpleasant,” Melvin snarled.

“I’m sorry, sirs, but we really can’t do that! The other party already booked the club in advance. We have to follow procedure,” the manager said helplessly, looking miserable.

Right then, a ringing slap resounded through the air. In a flash, the manager held his face in shock as Melvin slapped him.

“Useless scum! In South City, you play by our rules. Now get your boss out here and kick them out!”

To add insult to injury, Silas sent the manager crashing onto the ground with a single kick.

“Do you know who that is? That’s Mr. Caesar, the oldest son of the Caesar family, the quasi-royal clan of South Hampton! I’m interested to see how you’re going to continue operating your club if you’re planning on offending him,” Channing said while pointing at Timothy, who was standing nearby.

Still holding his face, the manager gritted his teeth tightly. “With all due respect, sirs, no matter what you do, we still won’t allow you to do that.”

“I’ve been too effing nice, apparently. Beat him up!”

With that said, Melvin and the others proceeded to thrash the manager, giving him a vicious beating. Not even the few security guards present were spared. All of them were beaten black and blue by the rich heirs.

the resulting commotion was loud enough to the point where even the patrons inside the club could hear it.

At the same time, Levi and the others had just taken their seats.

Listening to the praise of the various big shots about his club, Orion was in a good mood.

“Boss, there’s trouble at the door! Big trouble!” One of his staff shouted breathlessly as he ran up to him.

“What’s wrong?” Orion demanded immediately.

“A few of the rich heirs are beating up our people outside,” the staff member clarified quickly.

As soon as the words left the staff member’s mouth, Tim suddenly stood up.

The leader of Quebec slammed his palms onto the table loudly and growled. “I can’t believe something like this is happening under our noses! I’m going to take a look.”

The Protector Chapter 554

“What do they want?” Orion hurriedly asked the staff member.

“They seem to have something against this gentleman here, boss.” The staff member shot a trembling glance at Levi.

“What?”

Orion’s shocked exclamation perfectly encapsulated the unbelievable bombshell that was just dropped on all of them.

Hearing the staff member’s words, the crowd descended into a furor. Everyone had a look of disbelief on their faces.

Who in South City has the guts to do something like this?

Who dares to pick on the God of War?

This is madness!

Challenging the God of War?

“It’s true! Just now, when we were outside they already came for the General – erm, Mr. Garrison,” Mortimer said quietly.

“Yeah, that’s right! They challenged Mr. Garrison without any reason.” The other people from the South Warzone all started to pipe up.

Levi remained silent, but anyone who knew him knew that he was slightly angry.

“How dare they!” Tim was beyond furious.

The other leaders of South City, such as Stephen, were infuriated as well. Their eyeballs fairly bulged from their sockets in outraged surprise when they heard that.

It was just outrageous – an unscrupulous case of bullying like this happened right under their noses as soon as the God of War arrived.

How would the God of War regard us after this incident?

How are we going to live down this embarrassment?

It was infuriating, and the thought alone made their anger skyrocket.

“Uh, boss, it’s not only that. They also want you to... kick everyone out of here,” the staff member added, cringing slightly.

The gathered crowd was now thunderstruck in addition to their shock. Their tempers flared even further.

“Come on, let’s go have a look at this! We’ll handle this matter seriously,” Tim barked.

Stephen and the other leaders followed behind Tim with dark expressions clouding their faces. Their anger was palpable.

It was their first meeting with the God of War. Hence, they were determined to make a good impression, and yet something like this happened.

Their reputation was going to be shot to pieces – it was utterly humiliating.

Outside The Abyss, the brutal beatdown was still in full swing. Melvin and the others already drew blood from the managers and the security guards they were beating up, but they showed no signs of stopping.

At this rate, the manager and the others were going to be beaten to death soon.

Flanked by the crowd of rich heirs, Timothy watched the sickening violence without a single change in his expression.

He said coldly, "Let me be clear that this situation doesn't exist in South Hampton. I'll destroy anyone who dares to challenge me back there."

It was obvious that Timothy was reprimanding the various rich heirs of South City for doing a poor job.

Wham!

Without warning, Melvin's fist sank into the manager's face, causing bright red blood to splatter everywhere. "Get Orion Sinclair out here right now!"

"Mr. Jacobs! Why are you doing this? Let's have a reasonable discussion, shall we? It's no good for anyone if we continue like this," Orion said hurriedly as he ran out to mediate the situation.

Only when Orion came out, Melvin stopped whatever ruckus he was causing, then he looked at Orion coolly and said, "I said – we're booking the entire club today! So get rid of the people inside now, or I'll tear your club down."

Nevertheless, Orion remained calm. "Sirs, as my manager already explained earlier, someone had booked the club before you, so please come back another day! I promise you that everything's on the house on your next visit. Let's not antagonize each other now, eh?"

“Piss off!” Melvin roared. “We’ll be reserving this club today, one way or another! Mr. Caesar came here personally today. Are you going to disrespect him just like that?”

“The Caesar family?” Orion took a step back in surprise, expression changing abruptly.

He never expected the leader of South Hampton’s Prince Gang to come in person. On a normal day, The Abyss would have rolled out the red carpet to welcome him.

But today was no ordinary day.

The patrons currently inside his club were in an entire league entirely. As a matter of fact, they were so powerful that he shuddered just thinking about them.

Channing patted Orion’s face mockingly with an icy smile on his face. “I’m asking you this one last time. Are you going to disrespect Mr. Caesar?”

Everyone turned expectant eyes on Orion. If the man remained silent, they were dead set on tearing down his club tonight.

“I’m sorry, but not today,” Orion said firmly, schooling his expression back into an implacably calm mask.

“Fine! You’ve said it yourself!” Melvin bellowed furiously. “Then the Abyss doesn’t need to exist any longer!”

Grinning twistedly, Channing made a call immediately. “Hello, I’m Channing Jakeman. I want you to bring more men to demolish The Abyss now. Do you hear me? Right now!”

The Protector Chapter 555

Orion retorted immediately, “Hah! I’d like to see which one of you has the balls to tear down my club! Who gave you the right to do this?”

However, Melvin, Silas, and the other rich heirs just laughed uproariously. “Listen up, old man, we’re the kings in South City! We call the shots!”

“Well, that’s some spine you’ve got. Since when are any of you the highest authority in South City?” A cold voice rang out from the interior of the club.

“Look, someone’s got a death wish!” Melvin sneered coldly. “You’ve got the guts to stand against us?”

I’d really like to see which idiot is still challenging us.

Seeing the sudden situation, Orion immediately said, “Sirs, please just leave! None of you can afford to cross the people inside the club.”

“Forget Mr. Caesar of South Hampton; I’m pretty sure nobody else can afford to provoke them,” one of Orion’s staff members added helpfully.

Naturally, the staff of The Abyss hoped that the situation could be resolved peacefully without any conflict.

But the more they tried to defuse the situation, the more Melvin and the others grew furious.

“You’re kidding us, right? What do you mean by we can’t cross them? I couldn’t care less about who is inside that club! We’re kicking them out today.”

Evidently, Melvin and the others had made up their minds.

The sudden sound of fast-moving footsteps filled the air.

Following the chorus of footsteps, a crowd of people appeared at the entrance of the crowd.

“Who’s making trouble here?” Tim’s expression was a thunderously dark cloud.

“We are! You got a problem with that?” Melvin and the others challenged insolently.

Seeing how rude and arrogant the rich heirs were, Tim and the other leaders were practically shaking with anger.

“Since when did South City allow bullying riffraff like this to exist?” Tim growled at Stephen.

Stephen hung his head. “It was my fault.”

“There’s only one thing to do about tumors like this. Remove them immediately!” Tim bellowed loudly.

“Such bravado. Who are you, anyway?” Timothy smiled coldly and slowly walked forward.

He turned that frosty smile on Melvin and the other rich heirs. “All of you are rather useless as well, aren’t you? None of you can even handle ordinary people like these?”

Feeling their faces burning at Timothy’s accusations, Melvin and the others wished fervently just to vanish on the spot.

“Who are you?” Stephen asked icily.

“You might get a heart attack if you know his identity, old man. Listen carefully – this is Timothy Caesar, the heir of the Caesar family, the quasi-royal clan of South Hampton!” Derek said loudly.

“Scared now?” Derek added nastily as an afterthought.

However, a moment later, Timothy belatedly realized that the people facing him did not even bother to react to Derek’s statement.

And that made his blood boil.

How can they still ignore me after they know who I am?

“Alright, but do you know who we are?” Stephen asked suddenly.

Caught off guard, Derek and the others could only frown. “You? You do look a little familiar...”

The big shots of South City made appearances on the big screen or in the news regularly enough. However, Tim and the others were dressed casually today, like any other normal civilian.

Although they could not put a name to them, Derek and the others still found them annoyingly familiar.

Timothy’s frosty smile did not change. “Very well, then. Do tell us who you are, gentlemen. Let’s see if you can shock me with your identity.”

“Yeah! I’d like to see just who you are. Tell us your names if you have the guts to!” Melvin and the other rich heirs urged tauntingly.

Is there anyone in South City that can still scare Timothy Caesar?

Of course not!

A few years ago, perhaps Scott Yates and the Triple Group could still put up some form of resistance.

But anyone else aside from them could not be even considered an annoyance, much less an actual threat.

“Listen up, then. My name is Tim Cronan!” Tim said angrily, taking care to articulate each word clearly.

“Tim Cronan? Who the hell is he? I’ve never heard of him.”

“You’re right. What nonsense is Tim Cronan anyway?”

Melvin and the others exchanged confused glances. They truly did not have any idea of Tim’s identity.

“Tim Cronan is the leader of Quebec,” Orion supplied. He was fighting the urge to cover his face with his hand.

It was at that moment, all of Melvin’s thoughts were interrupted abruptly.

Orion’s words left them all thunderstruck, shocking everyone present.

The Protector Chapter 556

Melvin gaped soundlessly.

Derek was stunned.

And Silas, well, he was staring in shock.

Everyone was rendered speechless with their eyes bulging out of their socket while frozen in place.

Even Timothy found himself struck dumb. The cigar he was smoking dropped to the ground from his limply gaping mouth.

Tim Cronan?

This is The Tim Cronan – the Leader of Quebec?

“I’m the Deputy Leader of Quebec, Woodie Emil!”

“And I’m the head of the Police Department, Wright Hector!”

“I’m Stephen McKay, the mayor of South City.”

“I’m the Deputy Leader of the South City, Korey Madisen.”

“My name is Thorn Keene, and I’m the Captain of City Patrol Unit for South City.”

One by one, the gathered crowd stepped forward to proclaim their identities loudly.

Sh*t!

When Timothy and his group heard them announce their various titles, they almost lost their minds. Derek and his cronies were even more terrified, shaking like a leaf in the wind as cold sweat beaded on their forehead.

Just then, another crowd appeared at the entrance of the club.

Timothy and his group recognized them as the entourage that accompanied Levi earlier when they entered the club.

“Hey, we couldn’t let you all have all the fun when there’s a commotion out here. We’re here to join in.”

“Guess what? I’m Mike Pence, commander-in-chief of the three hundred thousand troops stationed in South Warzone!”

The sound of people choking in horror grew louder.

“I’m his deputy commander-in-chief, Rex Hanson!”

“I’m the military strategist of the South Warzone, Hector Christensen.”

“I’m Mortimer Lambert, captain of the South Warzone regiment!”

“And I’m Alfie Steele, commanding officer of the Iron Brigade Dragon Legion!”

What the...

Silence descended over the crowd of people.

Suddenly, a few loud crashes were heard.

After Alfie and the other military officers had made their identities and titles known, Timothy and his friends just sat weakly onto the ground in their shock.

Their legs trembled as their bodies went limp, making them fall onto the ground in a very undignified way.

Humiliatingly, most of them even wet their pants.

Dark stains spread across the front of their pants and felt warm in the cold air. The rank stench of urine started to assault the noses of everyone present.

N-no... T-this can't be happening.

Never in their wildest dreams did Timothy and the other rich heirs ever expect that they were crossing paths with the top leaders of Quebec. Not one, not two, but more than ten of those leaders.

All of those leaders were gathered here, with not a single person missing from their ranks.

It was definitely a huge taboo that Timothy and his friends just broke. They were in serious trouble now.

A high, thin sound was coming from Derek's throat. He was out of his mind with fear, frothing at the mouth and convulsing periodically.

It's too goddamned scary!

Faced with such powerful opposition, no one sane would choose to take their opponents head-on.

But we met them and did just that!

How could we be so stupid?

The rich heirs here did not just stand their ground stupidly, but they arrogantly challenged those big shots as well. Every one of their cocky words just became a death warrant that they signed willingly.

Too late to do anything now, the sudden realization dawned on them as to why Orion and the manager would rather risk offending them than bow to their demands.

It turned out that they really could not afford to cross the people reserving the club today.

Simply put, they were in deep sh*t now.

Right then, someone started bawling their eyes out in a very undignified manner.

Even on a good day, the rich heirs here were not exactly strong-willed men. Now, faced with this situation, most of them were terrified out of their wits.

Melvin and the others just burst into tears, sobbing grossly.

If they had pissed off anyone else, they could probably still salvage the situation. But now that they crossed these high-level VIPs, even their families could be in danger.

If the elders at home ever got wind of this incident, they would probably beat them to death to teach them a lesson.

Timothy was fairly petrified as well.

He was so scared that his entire body was clammy with cold sweat.

If he was involved in an incident like this just as soon as he arrived at South City, his standing in the Caesar family back in South Hampton was also in danger.

At that moment, Timothy could already imagine how his grandfather, Richard, was going to tear him to pieces.

Nobody would reasonably expect the rich heirs of South City to be lying on the ground wetting their pants.

If the people of South City were around to witness the sight, they would need to pick up their jaws from the ground. It wasn't every day in which one could see the rich heirs of South City have the living daylights terrified out of them, after all.

But unfortunately for these rich heirs, they had the misfortune of meeting people even more powerful than them.

"Do you have any idea who the people inside the club are?" Tim continued bellowing at the terrified heirs. "The man inside is—"

Alfie interrupted Tim smoothly before he could reveal anything. "Someone you really can't afford to offend."

"Yes! None of you should offend him, one way or another," Tim said calmly after realizing his slip.

Hearing Alfie's cryptic statement, Timothy and the other rich heirs quickly concluded that the man inside the club was on the same level as Tim and the rest.

In short, it was yet another man who could make their lives a living hell if they offended him.

The Protector Chapter 557

None of them expected the mysterious man inside the club to be the God of War himself!

This was the man who intimidated the rest of the world into toeing the line with his presence alone.

If only they knew the man they just insulted was the God of War.

Some people would literally be scared to death just knowing that.

“A peaceful resolution, Mr. Cronan,” Alfie reminded him.

Despite everything else, Levi wanted to stay incognito.

With that, Tim acknowledged the statement with a nod.

He turned to face Timothy and the rest again with a warning look. “All of you can leave now, but rest assured if I ever see any one of you acting out of line again, I’ll deal with it personally!”

However, the Warzone commander-in-chief snorted disapprovingly. “No, I don’t think so. We can’t let them off so easily. Get their parents to come and pick them up!”

Stephen agreed, “That’s a good idea. It’s normal for the parents to apologize on behalf of their children’s wrongdoings.”

“What?” Once again, Derek and his gang were scared out of their wits.

If our family knows the trouble we just landed ourselves in, we're gonna be dead meat.

Right then, Stephen's secretary promptly started contacting their parents.

"No one leaves without my permission!" Tim warned before going back into the club.

Sprawled on the ground, Timothy and the other rich heirs could only stare blankly, waiting for tears that refused to come.

Nobody expected things to take such a turn for the worse. It was beyond horrifying.

Soon, a few luxury cars arrived on the scene.

These respective cars were from the Jacobs family, the Jakeman family, the Ferguson family, and the Davies family. The heads of all the rich families had arrived, and all of them were angry at the trouble their unruly children had unwittingly brought on them.

Stephen's secretary had already explained the process of the entire incident to them, sparing no detail.

Aside from being thunderously angry at their progeny, the heads of the families were terrified out of their wits as well.

"Of all the people to offend, these rascals offended these people?"

"They could ruin our families with just one word!"

As soon as they got down from their cars, the heads of the families made a beeline for Derek and his gang.

Thump!

Mr. Davies sent Derek flying a few meters backward with one kick.

Thump!

Yelps pierced the air as the other rich heirs were promptly taught a lesson by their respective parents.

Soon, they were shrieking in agony as their parents beat them mercilessly. The anguished shrieks almost sounded like pigs being sent to the slaughter.

All the heads of the families present were aiming for the kill. Once they got their hands on any of their sons, nothing else mattered except for a vicious beating. They did not show any mercy at all.

When Timothy saw blood splattering across the ground as the rich heirs of South City got their behinds kicked thoroughly by their parents, he felt fear squeezing his heart tight.

If his grandfather, Richard, ever found out about this incident, Timothy would be spending at least a month in bed after being on the receiving end of that volatile temper.

“Let’s get out of here,” Timothy said quickly, slinking away discreetly with his followers.

In the end, the rich heirs of South City left the scene being pulled away in ambulances.

The humiliating incident made waves in the social circles of South City. Everybody and their mother were wildly guessing about what could cause all of the rich heirs to be sent to the hospital after a vicious ass-kicking.

When Timothy slunk back to the Tropical Villa, Richard was waiting for him with a suspicious look on his face. “Back so soon?”

“The others were too high profile, Grandpa, so I thought it was better if I returned home first. I still have to meet Abigail for the engagement ceremony tomorrow. Thus, it would be bad if someone got an angle on me now.” Timothy rubbed his nose uneasily.

Hearing that, Richard’s frown eased into a satisfied smile. “That’s my boy, the future of the Caesar family! Fooling around is okay, so long you can grasp the timing.”

“I’m going to go rest now, Grandpa. I promise I’ll be in my best condition for tomorrow.” Timothy hurriedly spun an excuse.

He was still scared out of his mind, feeling every fiber of his body being strung tightly. There was no way he could admit to his grandfather that he was in huge trouble.

Hence, Timothy already decided that the best course of action was to keep concealing the truth from his grandfather as long as he could. The alternative was too terrifying to think about.

Panicking, he quickly made his escape.

As soon as Timothy left, the butler spoke up, “Mr. Caesar, don’t you think there’s something wrong with Timothy? He usually never looks that pale unless there’s some trouble.”

Richard shook his head vehemently. “No, there can’t be. Who could give our family trouble in South City?”

“Ah, that’s true. Who can dare to offend the mighty Caesar family anyway?” The butler laughed.

The Protector Chapter 558

Richard stroked his beard thoughtfully before breaking into a smile. “You know, seeing Timothy growing into a sensible young man does make me feel rather proud. By the way, tell the Black family to prepare for our visit properly. I’ll personally bring Timothy to ask for Abigail’s hand tomorrow.”

“Will do, Mr. Caesar!”

Back in his room, an anxious Timothy paced about uncontrollably.

Now that the higher-ups of Quebec recognize me already, there’s no way the Caesar family can still expand into Quebec. If we still try, I just know we’re going to die painfully.

Cold sweat beaded on Timothy’s forehead again. He stroked his chin, unconsciously mirroring his grandfather’s pose as he racked his brain. I need to find a way to make Grandpa give up the fight to control Quebec.

Back inside The Abyss, Levi was talking to Tim and the others.

After exchanging the customary pleasantries, Levi went straight to the point. “I had indirectly caused most of the problems that the Triple Group and Scott Yates stirred up, so I’m planning on cleaning up this mess once and for all.”

“Ah? It’ll be more than enough if you help us tidy up the loose ends, Mr. Garrison. How can we ask for more than that?” Tim and the others were genuinely fearful.

“Don’t be too kind. I caused the problem in the first place, so it’s only natural if I solve it!” Levi said determinedly.

He continued speaking, “Besides, I’m planning on a large-scale development in Quebec with Morris Group as a starting point. You’ve seen our achievements in North Hampton. I’m confident my company can do the same good for the people of Quebec as well!”

“I understand now, Mr. Garrison! Please, if you have anything at all that you need, we’ll provide it to you immediately,” Tim said emotionally.

When he and the other leaders heard about Levi’s plans of developing Quebec, they were all excited beyond belief.

At the same time, their respect for him increased enormously as well.

Levi was a hero who swore to fight on the battlefield, killing their enemies and protecting Erudia.

And yet, this war-weary man could still think about the people of Erudia, doing his best to develop and modernize his country.

This God of War was truly one in a million.

That night, Levi graciously refused any special treatment and went to the South Warzone to room with the soldiers there instead.

Early in the next morning, he received a call from Abigail.

“Levi, I’m getting matchmade today. Can you please come over later? I don’t really feel secure if you aren’t here,” Abigail pleaded sincerely.

“Relax, Abigail. With me around, no one is going to force you to do anything you don’t want to,” Levi said calmly.

“You’re literally the best brother-in-law I could’ve asked for. I bet you’re reluctant to see me get married off too, huh?” Abigail teased, sounding far happier now.

“Of course! You’re Zoey’s little sister. There’s no way I’m going to let anyone bully you,” Levi said seriously.

“Oh, so it’s all because of Zoey?” Abigail sounded slightly disappointed, but she was still cheerful for the most part. “That’s okay, Levi. I’m happy so long you’re willing to take care of me.”

By eleven o’clock, the Caesar family were finished with all their preparations in Tropical Villa.

Two luxury sedans were lined up by the gate. The security car that followed behind the sedan was filled with numerous chests of valuable treasures like gold, silver, and even a vaunted Legendary Pearl.

“As the Caesar family, we can’t hold back when we go to ask for someone’s hand,” Richard said as he stroked his beard.

He turned around to face Timothy, a sudden look of astoundment crossing his face. “Timothy, what happened to you? Didn’t you sleep well last night? The dark circles under your eyes are darker than the abyss. You look like a car ran you over, boy.”

Timothy smiled awkwardly. “Yes, I couldn’t get used to the bed, so I didn’t sleep well.”

That was a lie. In reality, Timothy had been too terrified of his grandfather to rest, much less sleep.

For the entire month, he lay awake the entire night in fear.

“Oh, that’s all? Don’t worry, my boy, after the Caesar family has a reliable base in South City, you’ll have plenty of time to get used to your room here.”

Richard stroked his beard and smiled, a grand blueprint of the Caesar family’s planned expansion flashing across his mind.

In his view, the Caesar family was just a few days away from completely conquering South City.

On the other hand, Timothy tried not to let his utter terror bleed into his expression.

He wants me to stay in South City long-term?

Ever since that incident, Timothy was petrified of even going out of the house.

“Grandpa, can I discuss something with you?” Timothy rubbed his head ruefully.

“What is it, my boy?” Richard asked.

“Let’s just pull out of South City, Grandpa! Forget the proposal. It’s meaningless!” Timothy blurted, unable to contain his words any longer. They fell out in a tangled rush.

Listening to Timothy’s desperate exclamation, Richard’s eyes narrowed into slits.

The Protector Chapter 559

“What’s the matter? Explain it to me right now!” Richard demanded with fury.

“Grandpa, I think that Quebec is pretty much a red ocean, and the developments there are not worthy of the Caesar family’s resources. Moreover, there’s nothing impressive about Abigail’s background, so I don’t think she’s a good match for me!” Timothy explained.

“What the hell do you know?” Richard bellowed. “After the fall of Scott Yates and the Triple Group, the turf there is now wide open!” The Caesar family could only take up about half of the resources, and yet you’re telling me that it’s not worth your time and effort?

In order to keep our foothold in the South City, we need to cultivate a puppet. Who better than the Blacks? It has to be Abigail!

“Grandpa, are you aware that the South City is basically in chaos at the moment? We’re only going to burn more than half the resources that we invest into it if we set foot in South City right now!”

Timothy was terrified at the notion, because he did not wish to stay a second longer in South City.

“Bullsh*t! Why don’t you have any confidence in yourself? What are we afraid of in the South City? Who could have threatened us?” Richard was incensed at this point.

“Grandpa, I...”

“That’s enough!”

Richard's roar made Timothy shudder.

After a moment, they arrived at the Black family manor.

Robert, Meredith, and all the Blacks were out at the entrance to greet them.

"Greetings, Chief! It's been a long time..."

Meredith and her husband were excited at the sight of the Caesars.

Bailey and Pamela were all smiles at the sight of Timothy too.

They were very satisfied with their future son-in-law.

Abigail, however, snorted at the sight of Timothy, "He's so lacking compared to Levi! Look at those dark eye circles. I bet he must've been doing illegal businesses at night!"

Initially, Timothy was indifferent toward this marriage proposal today.

However, his eyes glinted at the sight of Abigail.

She's so pretty!

There are a lot of pretty girls at South Hampton, but wow! I don't think anyone could compare to her!

Besides, I heard that she still goes to college.

At the sight of her, Timothy changed his mind right then and there.

I'm going to win over Abigail first.

Whether I'm staying in South City or not, that's a problem for another day.

The Black family was quite content with the marriage arrangement this time.

Especially after seeing their future son-in-law in person.

"Abigail, you're so lucky. He looks like a decent man."

The Blacks could not help but praise Timothy.

After that, Richard and Meredith exchanged pleasantries at the entrance of the Black family manor.

"Even though we're very close, we still have to observe the necessary formalities! Here are my wedding gifts," Richard ordered his bodyguards to present his wedding gifts to the Blacks.

The Caesar family's bodyguards carried boxes of wedding gifts into the Black family manor.

Abigail wanted to interject but was stopped by Pamela.

Meredith and Robert were both grinning from ear to ear.

The Caesar family is only taking the formalities seriously because they have immense respect for us, Blacks, and Abigail.

"Welcome!"

Richard and his people were welcomed warmly into the Black family manor, where the two families engaged in jovial exchanges.

All of a sudden, Richard signaled for everyone to keep quiet.

“Now, I would like to listen to how the two betrothed really think. Timothy, how’s your impression toward Abigail?”

Richard cast a glance toward Timothy.

Timothy grinned, “Grandpa, very good. I’m willing to marry Abigail!”

“Wow!” The Blacks were excited to hear him.

That’s great!

Abigail is going to marry into the Caesar family.

The Black family is going up the social status totem pole.

Richard glanced at Abigail next, “What do you think, Abigail?”

All eyes were on Abigail, anticipating her answer.

“Well, sucks for you, cause I’m not!”

She made herself loud and clear.

Murmurs and whispers filled the air, astonished at her blatant rejection.

The Protector Chapter 560

All of them cast looks of disbelief at Abigail.

They thought the marriage proposal was going to be moot since it was near impossible for Abigail to reject a man as perfect as Timothy.

In spite of it all, things did not take an expectant turn.

Nobody would have imagined that Abigail would slap the Caesars with an outright refusal.

The more shocking point was that the quasi-royal clan of South Hampton, the Caesar family, was brutally rejected. It was even humiliating when the head of household, Richard, was the one who led the marriage proposal on behalf of Timothy!

This piece of news would bring great dishonor to the Caesar family.

The dynamic of the relationship between the Blacks and the Caesars changed drastically the moment Abigail rejected the marriage proposal.

She was not merely saying no to her marriage with Timothy. Instead, she was essentially putting the relationships between the Blacks and the Caesars at stake.

The Black family would pay a great price for her audacity.

Richard and Timothy widened their eyes in disbelief at Abigail as her rejection was beyond their expectations.

“What did you just say?” Richard demanded.

“I said, I don’t want to marry him!”

Abigail repeated with a resolute tone.

“What? How dare you, Abigail! What the hell are you saying?” Meredith and Robert were taken aback by their daughter’s rebellion and bellowed at her.

They hurriedly added, “Abigail! What are you doing? You should just agree to it!”

Leonard and Jonathan chimed in, “Exactly! Abigail, how could you have possibly rejected this offer? We can’t afford it!”

“Abigail, you have to agree to this! Don’t be rash!”

The Blacks all pressured her into agreeing to the marriage.

Because they knew they would be done for if they had indeed caused embarrassment to the Caesars.

Hence, Abigail must agree to it – at all cost!

Tears rolled down her cheeks as she looked at the others. “Don’t I get to choose who I’m marrying? It’s already the 21st century, so why are you people still practicing the archaic arranged marriage culture? Are you all fossils, for crying out loud...”

Richard’s face sank at her remarks.

Is she calling me a fossil?

It was apparent to everyone that Richard was displeased.

We're really finished this time.

In the meantime, Meredith was incensed at Abigail's remarks as well. She reprimanded her granddaughter openly, "Abigail, I could have accommodated to your usual whims, but I will not tolerate it today! You know what? You're right – you don't get a say in your own marriage!"

Robert sighed and chimed in, "Abigail, you have to agree to this today. You have to put yourself in our shoes!"

Baily and Pamela hurriedly added, "Mr. Caesar, we agree to his marriage proposal on behalf of our daughter! We're sure she will agree to it eventually."

However, Richard waved his hand to dismiss them, "No, I want to hear her saying it!"

Timothy was enraged as well, "That's right, we have to hear it from her!"

No woman has ever rejected me.

After the both of them said that, all eyes were on Abigail again.

"What are you waiting for? Say yes!"

All of them egged her on.

In her entire life, Abigail had never been so torn in making a decision before.

Just then, a silhouette flashed across Russell's mind.

"Wait a minute, grandma and grandpa. Why do we have to force Abigail when she's reluctant to marry? We are quite an established family as well. There's no need to stoop so low as to beg at others." Russell spoke up all of a sudden.

He knew about Levi. Hence, it was only natural for him to stand by Abigail and be the only one in the Black family to support Abigail's decision.

Moreover, he knew that everyone would come buttering up to the Black family if they had Levi.

There wouldn't be a chance for the Caesar family to even make a sound.

"Ah... It seems like the Blacks don't think much of my family. Tsk tsk..." Richard mocked after that.

Feeling displeased, Timothy chimed in as well, "It seems like the Blacks are not satisfied with you, grandpa."

"Chief, that's not what we meant! Nobody dares to disrespect you and the Caesar family!" Meredith and Robert hurriedly explained.

The Protector Chapter 561

“Slap him!” Bob, the butler, was infuriated.

“Russell, slap yourself!” Meredith said in a stern tone as a response to Bob’s suggestion.

She was infuriated at Russell’s brash comment.

All this while, Russell was one of the younger members of the Blacks whom she had no need of worrying.

However, she did not expect Russell to go against them at this critical point.

“I’m so disappointed in you, Russell! Slap yourself!”

Robert also felt disheartened at Russell’s rebellious attitude.

Yet, Russell shook his head stubbornly, “I don’t think I’ve done anything wrong, grandpa and grandma. I will not apologize!”

“You’re wrong for refuting Mr. Caesar!” Meredith roared at him.

“Who proposes in such a tyrannical manner? What does he take Abigail for? A toy?” Russell asked. Clearly, he was not giving in either.

Abigail agreed, “Yes! That’s right! Why do we have to cater to the Caesar family’s every whim?”

Richard laughed as he listened to their exchanges.

“You may be right, but the Caesar family is indeed stronger than the Blacks. If I say you’re wrong, then you’re definitely wrong!” Richard said condescendingly.

Meredith relented, “Yes, it’s survival of the fittest. We are indeed weaker than the Caesars. So, we could only listen!”

She was an iron lady herself, so she knew better than any of them.

Thus, she could only give in when life demanded her so.

“So we are wrong simply because we’re weaker?” Russell asked.

“That’s right. You are wrong, so slap yourself, and I will drop the matter!” Richard shouted.

Then he looked at Russell like Russell was no more than an ant in front of him.

But Russell stood his ground and shook his head, “No, I will not surrender. I’ve done nothing wrong!”

“Yes, Russell did nothing wrong. Why does he have to slap himself?” Abigail supported him.

They insisted because they knew Levi was going to back them up.

Nonetheless, she would not agree to this arranged marriage even if there was no Levi.

“Meredith, Robert, you really amuse me with how you discipline your younger generation...” Richard sneered at them.

When Richard said that, Meredith and Robert could not help but feel offended.

Then, she took a step forward and slapped Russell across his face.

For a brief heartbeat, drop-dead silence ensued.

Russell looked at Meredith with disbelief.

Ever since young, Meredith had never slapped him before.

But now she's slapping me because of the Caesar family? How absurd!

The Blacks sighed.

Who would want to stoop so low if it weren't for our deteriorating family status?

"Russell, you have to understand my position..." Meredith whispered to Russell.

Then, she turned over and ordered Abigail, "Say yes, Abigail! You have to agree to it today, no matter what!"

Robert said angrily, "Yes. You don't have the right to reject!"

Richard would really be enraged if we keep this up, and we would suffer because of it.

Richard and Timothy regarded the Blacks with great interest, anticipating their next move.

They enjoyed toying with people with their power and influence.

"Abigail, what say you?" Timothy sneered as he looked at her.

"I will not marry you!"

A sound could be heard right then and there, and along came Levi.

Russell and Abigail's eyes glinted with delight at Levi's appearance.

"Levi, you're here!"

Abigail rushed to his side at once.

All of them were stunned at the sight.

Levi is here?

Timothy's face contorted after he saw Levi coming in.

Even though Timothy had no idea who Levi was, he presumed that Levi wasn't just a nobody. After all, he had unrestricted access to that place.

Levi glanced at Richard, "I heard that you want to beat up someone?"

The Protector Chapter 562

Meanwhile, Richard did not take heed of Levi and glanced in the direction of Robert and Meredith instead, “Who is this? Is he one of the younger members of your family too?”

Meredith and Robert sighed and lowered their heads.

They were indirectly saying yes to Richard’s query.

“Hah! Do all the younger members of the Blacks disrespect their elders?”

Richard deliberately mocked in a louder voice. As a matter of fact, he was almost roaring.

Meredith and Robert were terrified at the sight.

Richard is really mad right now.

They were well aware of the Chief’s temper.

He never lets people off the hook easily when he’s enraged.

The Black family would soon face an unparalleled crisis.

They glared at Levi angrily.

Russell has already pissed off Richard enough. Why does Levi have to appear and anger him too?

Haven’t we done that enough?

Levi laughed and glanced at Russell, “Did he ask you to slap yourself? Go, slap him back!”

“I...”

Russell hesitated.

My family would never agree to me slapping Richard Caesar.

On the other hand, this is an order from the God of War himself.

Russell was on the fence about his next course of action.

At the same time, the others widened their eyes in disbelief at Levi’s brazen suggestion.

What? Did he just ask Russell to slap Richard Caesar? Is he crazy?

Even Richard was stumped at Levi’s audacity.

Nobody had dared to disrespect him. Not in South Hampton, let alone in Quebec.

Not to mention a youngster like Levi.

“Russell, what are you waiting for? Slap him! This is an order!” Levi’s tone was determined.

Russell straightened his back unconsciously at Levi’s orders.

I’m doing it!

If anything should happen, I have the God of War backing me up anyway.

Moreover, Russell thought it was impossible for them to be bullied by an outsider in his own manor.

With that thought in mind, Russell dashed toward Richard, his right hand was already in mid-air, ready to slap Richard across the face.

Richard froze on the ground, baffled at Russell's brazen move.

This bastard dares to hit me?

"Russell, what are you doing?"

Meredith and Robert panicked at the sight.

They tried to stop Russell from advancing.

"Get away! All of you!"

Richard bellowed all of a sudden.

"Huh?"

The Blacks were taken aback.

"Go away. I want to see who dares to lay a finger on me today," Richard shouted.

He did not believe that Russell would really slap him.

Yet, the Blacks did not move a muscle.

What if Russell really slaps Richard across the face if we do not stop him?

The Black family will be wiped off the surface of the earth.

“I’ll say it one last time. Go away!” Richard roared.

He ordered his bodyguards as well, “Do not stop him. I want to see if this bastard really dares to hit me!”

The Blacks were terrified to see Richard all red from fury and finally decided to stay out of Russell’s way.

As for the bodyguards of the Caesar family, they had to stand aside too.

They were certain that Russell would not really hit Richard.

Unless... he’s crazy or an idiot!

At that moment, Richard beckoned at Russell.

The Caesars looked at Russell with wry smiles on their faces, positive that he wouldn’t strike.

“I will make sure that the Black family suffers if you don’t hit me today!” Richard said in an attempt to challenge him.

“I...”

Russell was torn, yet again.

“Slap him!”

Levi’s voice could be heard loud and clear.

Hearing that, Russell seemed enlightened by Levi’s orders.

He stepped forward and slapped Richard across the face, hard.

Whack!

The crisp sound shook everyone to their core.

Pin-drop silence ensued, once again.

Everyone held their breaths at the unexpected turn of events.

Richard was stunned.

Not knowing how to respond, he froze on the ground.

The Protector Chapter 563

Richard let out a cry in pain after some time.

Everyone gasped in shock, their eyes widened in bewilderment.

A youngster from the Black family had slapped the quasi royal household head from South Hampton!

How dare he?!

Talking back to someone his station was already disrespectful enough, but a slap across the face was a whole new level of disgrace.

At the same time, Meredith and Robert were about to faint at the sight.

Is Russell freaking crazy? He really hit Richard!

Russell had always been the most capable and obedient child among the youngsters of the Black family.

However, he defied everyone's expectations of him today. It was as if he had gone cuckoo.

Why did he do everything that Levi asked him to do?

The Caesars were equally surprised at Russell's bold strike.

What a lunatic!

They were under the impression that Robert wouldn't even dream of berating Richard, even if he were given the permission to do so.

Let alone slapping Richard across the face!

But Russell had done the unthinkable.

Richard cupped his slightly swollen cheeks and gave Russell an incredulous look.

The pain emanating from his cheeks made him grimace.

"Looks like we have a ballsy one here, eh?" Richard was oddly calm.

But everyone knew he was livid with fury.

Richard Caesar was someone who would not let anyone who enraged him off the hook.

In fact, he would fight till the point of life and death.

Otherwise, there wouldn't be an end to it.

But how could a powerless family like the Blacks fight against the Caesar family?

It would be like an egg dashing itself against a rock.

Hence, Russell knew things had gone to the point of no return.

It was either the Blacks or the Caesars who would survive.

He felt extremely apprehensive as well.

When he was trying to come up with an answer, Levi did him a favor by replying, "Yes, he is. So what?"

"You..."

Richard was about to speak when Levi interjected him.

"You asked for Russell to be slapped, and he slapped you back. It was fair and square," Levi grinned.

Timothy, who was used to act with impunity, held himself back from striking Levi because he did not know Levi's true identity. Otherwise, he would have slapped Levi across the face right then and there.

He was afraid of Richard knowing the incident from the night before as well.

Thinking that Levi was ridiculous, Richard burst into a derisive laugh, "Fair and square, you say?!"

He looked over at Meredith and Robert, "You guys have done such a good job in educating your younger generation! Hahaha!"

It was clear as day that Richard was mocking them.

Then he added, "We are all players of the survival of the fittest game. Weaker players like you are doomed to be trampled all over! Robert Black, I came all the way from South Hampton to Quebec for this marriage proposal, observing every formality required to honor your family, and this is how you repay me?"

Richard then proclaimed, "From now on, I am cutting off all ties between the Blacks and the Caesars! I will stop at nothing till only one of us remains standing!"

The Blacks were in an uproar at the proclamation.

All of them shuddered at hearing it.

Are the Caesars and the Blacks fighting to the death?

Doomsday for the Black family is approaching.

The Blacks paled at the proclamation.

We are all going to die just because of these two idiots!

Turning over to Levi, Richard sneered and said, "Young man, did you know you are the culprit for the wipeout of the Black family?"

The Caesars burst into a laugh.

The Blacks are so naïve to think that they could fight against us.

The Protector Chapter 564

This moment was akin to doomsday for the Black family.

They would not be able to fend against the Caesars.

Levi grinned, "You had the audacity to say that you're going to wipe out the Black family!"

Russell was visibly relaxed to hear Levi.

The Blacks cast puzzled looks at Russell.

Has he gone nuts for real? How could he still smile in face of the possible crisis of a wipeout?

Meredith and Robert were about to stop Levi from degrading Richard further. However, Richard waved his hands to dismiss them, "Everybody stop talking!"

"Young man, do you think I am not capable of wiping out the Blacks?" Richard bellowed at Levi.

Levi smirked enigmatically, "From now on, I will be right here waiting. You could ask however many people you want to come here. I will succumb to defeat if I could not handle anything that you throw at me!"

Richard was not enraged by Levi's frivolous remarks. On the contrary, he burst into a chuckle.

"I am so impressed that the Blacks manage to cultivate such overconfident youngsters!"

And then, Richard's eyes burned with rage.

"Excellent! We will accept the challenge. I will give you one week to contact every possible connection that you could find. You guys better be well prepared, and don't ever accuse me of bullying the Blacks!"

Levi and Richard had agreed to a fight... All this had transpired without the head of the Black family uttering a single word.

"Let's go!" Richard left with his bodyguards and took the wedding gifts with him.

In the car.

Richard was fuming with rage.

This was the first time a youngster had provoked him.

"Grandpa, is it really okay for us to burn the bridges with the Black family this way?" Timothy couldn't help but ask his grandfather.

He was still apprehensive about Levi's true identity.

"What is there to worry about? It's impossible for us to cultivate a puppet from the Blacks right now. We are only left with the option of marching right into the South City to grab our portion of the market! Seven days later, I will let everyone in the South City know the Caesar family's wrath! All of them have to give way to us Caesars then!" Richard snorted.

Meanwhile, drop-dead silence stretched between the Blacks.

Meredith and Robert had slumped to the floor, spent from the confrontation just now.

Despair was written all over other family members' faces.

We are essentially committing suicide for offending people like the Caesar family!

On the other hand, Levi looked calm and composed. He ruffled through Abigail's hair, "Don't worry, I'm here. Nobody could force you into doing anything you refuse to do."

Russell was overjoyed, grateful for Levi's presence.

Otherwise, the Blacks would be trampled all over by the Caesar family.

He was not at all worried about the upcoming fight between Levi and Richard.

The Caesar family has a death wish!

However, the Blacks could not understand this.

After regaining their composure, Bailey and Pamela approached Levi and reprimanded him, "Garrison, who do you think you are? Who are you to intervene in our family matters? You don't have the right to interfere with my daughter's marriage!"

"Yes, that's right! Who do you think you are? Did you do it on purpose?"

"That is the Caesar family from South Hampton! They're from the quasi-royal clan! How dare you offend them?"

Leonard and the others were infuriated at Levi's recklessness too.

All of them cast death glares at him, wanting to skin him alive for them putting them in such a dire situation.

Meredith and Robert, however, did not confront Levi first. Instead, they turned to Russell.

“Russell, would you mind explaining why you did such a thing today?”

“That’s right. You’re usually the calm and composed one. Why are you behaving like a lunatic today? Don’t you know how strong the Caesar family is?”

They were immensely disappointed in Russell.

Their disappointment was a mirror of their high hopes in Russell since they had plans to cultivate him to become the next head of the Black household.

Having said that, it seemed near impossible that they would keep up with the plan.

The Protector Chapter 565

“You have to give us a viable explanation!”

Russell spoke up with his head held high, “My reasons are simple. First of all, I will not stand idly by as the Caesars bully us. Second of all, their intention to marry Abigail was clear as day. They’re obviously planning to exploit our network here to get their foothold in the South City. I could never let these things happen!”

“Nonsense! You are so blind to your own errors!”

Just then, Robert could not hold it in any longer and slapped Russell across his face.

Despite being slapped across the face, Russell still stood his ground.

“I’ve done nothing wrong!” Russell insisted, “I will never admit that I’m wrong, even if you guys beat me to death!”

Meredith sighed aloud, and her knees almost buckled from her fury. All the others hurriedly steadied her when they noticed it.

Robert then explained his stand, “Do you think we are really oblivious to the intentions of the Caesar family? Do you think we have no idea that they’re oppressing us?”

“But what choice did we have? We are specks of dust compared to the Caesar family! Frankly speaking, the Caesar family only needs to move a single finger to annihilate us all!”

Meredith said furiously, “Exactly, Russell. When have you ever seen me stooping so low? Do you think I’m really happy to marry off Abigail just like that? That we are so happy to cater to the Caesars' every whim? We just don't have any other option. The Caesar family's far-reaching influence is beyond our imagination... If we were stronger than the Caesars, why would I have to bear with them? I would have chased them out our door! You're dooming us, Russell! Richard Caesar will pulverize us all, and we will suffer a fate worse than death! This is all thanks to you and Levi!"

Meredith looked at Russell in utter disbelief, "Why did you do what Levi told you to do?"

"I..." Russell was at a loss. He did not know how to explain it all.

Levi chimed in at this moment.

"I don't think he went overboard when he returned Richard Caesar's slap."

Everyone turned their attention toward Levi.

"Levi Garrison, did you know you've made a grave mistake?"

Meredith could not help but question him.

"Who gave you the right to invite the Caesar family to a fight? You're just an outsider. What does anything from the Black family have to do with you?" Quintus and Keane roared at him.

"Do you even understand the consequences of your actions toward the Black family? We're going to be ruined for sure, and it's even possible for us to lose our lives!"

Bailey felt the urge to slap Levi.

"Anything to do with Zoey is my business, so don't worry. I will handle this on my own!" Levi was confident.

Crossed by his delusional remarks, Meredith spat at him, “I’m going to get someone to talk some sense into you!”

Meredith then called Caitlyn and Aaron. She recounted everything that happened to the two.

It was not even two hours before Aaron and Caitlyn rushed to the Black family manor together with Zoey.

“Is it true?”

Aaron and Caitlyn were about to faint when they knew about the incident.

Especially, Caitlyn – she was very agitated, “Garrison, did you know you’ve stirred up huge trouble? Why did you have to cause us trouble as soon as you reached South City? Do you wish to see us all die?”

She broke into an uncontrollable sob.

Aaron’s face sank.

Even Zoey had a despondent look on her face as she glanced at Levi.

She thought he was finally going to make himself useful after coming to the South City. However, she did not expect him to bring such a disaster to the Blacks.

“You’d better come up with a good explanation for this...”

Zoey gave Levi a death glare.

The Protector Chapter 566

Nevertheless, Levi was all relaxed in his manner, “Don’t worry, I will take care of this!”

“And how exactly do you plan to do so?” Aaron challenged him right away.

Caitlyn was still sobbing, “Didn’t you see that the Blacks are all reduced to tears already? How are you going to deal with this? With that smart mouth of yours?”

“Why did you have to do this? Why can’t you just stay at North Hampton? And what are we going to do with this trouble that you’ve caused?” Zoey cried out of despair.

Not long after, Jennie and Logan reached the Black family manor as well.

“What happened? What’s wrong with you, Levi? Do you know you’ve offended the Caesar family? They’re the quasi royals of the North Hampton!” Logan could not help but bellow at Levi.

Jennie looked at Zoey and her parents in contempt, “I’ve long said that nothing good could come out of you guys coming here!”

“Logan, do you have any idea how to deal with this?”

Keane and the others rushed to Logan’s side, hoping that he would have a solution to their woes.

However, Logan’s face sank, “I’ve just heard the news that the Caesar family is going to go all out on this. What could we do anyway? The Zachs family still has some influence in the South City, but we will not be of much help here either. Why did you guys have to offend the quasi-royal clan of South Hampton?”

The Blacks were devastated to hear Logan's reply, to say the least.

They had always depended on Logan.

If even Logan couldn't do anything about their predicament, then they were truly doomed.

"Russell, what's the matter with you today? You always seem like you know what you're doing, but why did you do something so stupid today? Don't you know who Richard Caesar is? Why did you slap him? Huh?" Logan chided Russell as well.

It was futile to play the blame game since the incident had been blown out of proportion. The piece of sensational news had traveled far and wide.

Hence, it was impossible for Richard to keep quiet on this matter that concerned his dignity.

There was no doubt that he was going to take action against the Black family.

"I don't think I've done anything wrong! The Caesar family is obviously being the bully here, so I can't just turn a blind eye to that!"

Then, he glanced at Levi, "Moreover, we have Levi here. We will surely get this settled!"

Levi admired Russell's firm stance.

This is what the Black family lacks.

"Right, keep bluffing! Yes, you have a bright future ahead. But this is the Caesar family from South Hampton that we're talking about here. I don't think even Scott Yates and his Triple Group could have dealt with this mess! The two of you really went cuckoo to have attempted a fight with the Caesar family. How are you going to fight against them?"

Logan was exasperated at their nonchalant attitude.

Russell was getting irritated at their ignorance as well. "Why don't you guys believe in me? Don't worry. This matter will be resolved!"

Logan glared at him, "You want us to believe in you?"

Then, Logan approached Meredith and Robert, "Grandma, grandpa. I swear to handle this crisis with all my resources. Leave this to me!"

"Alright, we have to depend on you to deal with this mess. There's nothing much we could do!" Meredith replied.

"But please don't get your hopes too high on this since the Caesar family is quite powerful. I will try my best to minimize the losses, though. Even though the Blacks would be spared in the end, you guys still would have to make some sacrifices..."

Logan meant that the Black family could only keep their essential members.

People like Russell and Levi might have to be sacrificed.

"Great! We don't expect to come out of this unscathed. We just hope that we could minimize the damages!"

Logan sighed, "Grandma and grandpa, you guys could only depend on me during this critical time!"

Meredith nodded her head, "Yes, Logan! The rest are useless trash!"

The Protector Chapter 567

Logan was exasperated as he cast a glance at his grandparents, “I’ve told you both that they had gone out of touch with the Black family matters. They would only cause trouble if permitted to come back. And voilà, look at what happens as soon as they’re back...”

Meredith glared at Caitlyn and her family, “You’re right, Logan. We regret not listening to you! We shouldn’t have asked them to come back...”

At the same time, Caitlyn was almost drowning in her own tears.

She was finally accepted by the Black family after such a long time.

And now, Levi had ruined it all...

“Garrison, what did we owe you? Why did you have to avenge us so?”

Aaron couldn’t help but shed a tear.

“Mom and dad, don’t be too sad. Maybe I could try asking Iris to seek help from the Morris Group!”

“Right, Levi also works for the Morris Group. He wouldn’t stand idly by!” Zoey added.

Aaron’s eyes glinted with delight, “Correct! Morris Group’s boss is very capable. I’m sure he would be able to help.”

With that, Aaron then approached Meredith and Robert, “Mom and dad, don’t be mad. Zoey knows someone really capable. He would be able to settle this...”

Logan questioned him right then and there, “Could you guarantee that you would solve this?”

“I...” Aaron hesitated.

“Hah! What kind of capable people would you guys know? What a joke! Nobody could compete with the Caesar family in the whole of Quebec!” Aaron retorted.

“What? Is the Caesar family really that powerful?” Aaron gulped.

Meredith then dismissed Aaron and his family, “Get out! You guys are an embarrassment!”

She did not wish to see them for a second longer.

Then, she added after recalling something, “Right, not one of you should leave the Black family manor this week! Keane, keep a close watch on them!”

“Understood!” Keane and the others exclaimed.

“Huh?” Zoey and her family paled.

Grandma is grounding us.

We could only leave after settling this.

They were going to be the scapegoats.

What do we do?

Zoey was worried about her work.

“Zoey, I’m sorry to say this, but you have to work from home in the meantime.”

In the end, Zoey and her family were grounded at the Black family manor.

“Levi, look at what you’ve done! How would you explain yourself this time?”

Aaron and Caitlyn glared at Levi.

“Mom and dad, why don’t you guys think of this as your holiday? We would head back to the North Hampton with our heads held high.”

Levi sounded casual. It was as if he was really here for a vacation.

“Levi Garrison, how do you still have the heart to joke around at this hour?” Zoey shouted at him.

Zoey was fierce toward Levi when her mother and father were around.

But as soon as her parents left, Zoey said to her husband, “Darling, I understand that you did it all for Abigail!”

“Good, at least you get me.” Levi smiled.

He was not afraid of not being able to solve the problem.

Actually, Levi was more apprehensive about having nobody to understand him.

“But this has been blown so out of proportion that you couldn’t solve it.” Zoey furrowed her brows.

“Don’t worry. Just leave this to me.” Levi grinned.

“How are you going to deal with this when we can’t even get out of here?” Zoey was stumped.

Levi, however, was all smiles, “Don’t worry. I could get out of the Black family whenever I want. I’d like to see who would dare to stop me.”

The Protector Chapter 568

The Blacks had imprisoned Levi and his family in another heavily guarded villa.

Levi walked over to the entrance of the villa, and the security guards swamped him.

“You can’t leave! You’ve got to stay right here!”

The head of the security guards bellowed at Levi.

“What if I insist?” Levi grinned cheekily.

“You could try!” All of them glared at Levi. They would stop at nothing to prevent him from leaving this villa.

“Who gave you the right to restrict other people’s freedom?” Levi challenged them.

“We are at the Black family manor, and we play by their rules. You cannot go anywhere! Do you understand?” One of the security guards warned him.

Upon hearing that, Levi’s lips curved into a smile, “There is nowhere that I, Levi Garrison, cannot go.”

“Get out of my way!”

But the security guards did not move away and inched closer to him instead.

Then, Levi made his move and turned into a shadow, slithering his way out of the group of security.

With a few plops, all of them slumped to the floor.

They were all exorbitantly-priced security guards employed by the Black family.

However, Levi was the God of War – the undefeatable legend on the battlefields.

These security guards were mere mole crickets and ants to him.

When Zoey sensed that something was wrong and dashed outside, she was greeted by the sight of the security guards tumbling on the ground while wailing in pain.

As for Levi, he was already nowhere to be seen.

“Did he do all these?”

Zoey widened her eyes in disbelief, stumped by the sight before her.

The Blacks knew the news of Levi’s escape not long after.

Meredith and Robert rushed to the scene.

“You guys did a good job in educating your children!” Meredith and Robert mocked as they glared at Aaron and Caitlyn.

“Mom and dad, we have no idea that Levi escaped...”

Caitlyn and Aaron were indignant at the accusation.

Meredith scorned, “What do we do now? I don’t suppose he’s going to be back to deal with his own mess!”

Bailey and Leonard added, “He must have escaped and left this huge mess for us to follow up!”

“So despicable of him to leave right after he’s stirred up such a huge trouble!”

“He wouldn’t run away!” Zoey, Abigail, and Russell exclaimed at the same time.

Abigail and Russell knew about Levi’s true identity.

As for Zoey, she had faith in Levi’s personality. She believed that he wouldn’t leave her alone to face all this trouble.

“I will never understand why you guys defend him so.” Meredith and the Blacks looked at the three of them incredulously.

“I…” Abigail and Russell exchanged glances with each other.

However, they bit their tongue and did not say anything further.

It was a top military secret that they would be divulging after all.

Just then, Zoey held her head high and declared, “Because he’s my husband!”

At the same time, Levi left the villa and came to the Abyss.

Azure Dragon, White Tiger, Kirin, and Phoenix had all arrived at the South City.

“God of War, upon investigation, we have found out that the families that are recently snatching turfs are all backed up by certain forces. To conclude our findings, external forces are coveting to make South City theirs!”

“The Caesar family is here for the very same purpose as well. They want to make the Blacks their puppets to put a foothold in South City.”

Phoenix had obtained first-hand information.

Levi smoked on his cigarette and smiled thinly, "They're going to make the commoners suffer because of their battle for territories. I will not let innocent people sacrifice for their selfish gains!"

The Protector Chapter 569

“Understood!”

The four of them nodded.

“Give me a list of all the forces that are stirring up trouble in South City recently. I want to get rid of them once and for all!” Levi ordered.

“Yes, sir. I will get to the bottom of this,” Phoenix replied.

“After Phoenix has identified them all, Kirin, please organize a banquet and invite them all under the name of Neil Atkinson. Let them decide the venue.” Levi said to Kirin.

Kirin nodded in acknowledgement.

Meanwhile, two breaking news spread like wildfire in the South City.

The first one was: The Black family and the Caesar family will engage in a life-and-death fight one week later.

The second one: Neil Atkinson from the Morris Group had arrived at the South City and had invited all the influential forces in the city to a banquet.

The piece of news on the fight between the Caesar family and the Black family did not have any suspense to it.

There was no doubt that the Black family would be wiped out of the South City a week later!

However, nobody had expected the second-in-command of the Morris Group would come to the South City.

Nobody knew what was going on.

The influential forces, who were invited to the banquet, were puzzled as well.

They did not know what was up Morris Group's sleeves and started to engage in discussions with each other.

After a while, they came to a conclusion – that the Morris Group was here at South City for a foothold as well.

“Impossible! We will not tolerate such a thing!”

“We have not touched the North Hampton as well. How could they mark their territory here?”

This time, the forces were oddly allied on this front.

It was mainly because Yates's departure had cleared off quite some space for the emergence of a new dominating force.

The local forces did not wish for others to make a mark on their very own piece of land.

The outsiders would have to step over their dead bodies.

“The Morris Group is really naïve to let us decide the venue. Do they have a death wish?”

“What kind of idiot he is to leave this to us?”

“What if we set the venue at Jagged Club?”

All of the leaders burst into a laugh.

They found it amusing because Jagged Club was actually the largest underground boxing arena in South City.

It was full of the finest underground boxers in the East.

They planned to make it a trap for the Morris Group.

All of them agreed on triumphing over the Morris Group at the Jagged Club three days later, and that included beating Neil Atkinson to death.

“Brothers, let us show our trump card and let them witness the locals’ power!”

“Sure, we can’t let them leave South City well and alive. How dare they think of taking over the South City?”

They were anticipating the sight of Morris Group swarmed by thousands three days later.

On the other hand, the Black family was still shrouded in gloom.

They were so disheartened that they skipped dinner altogether.

The Blacks pinned all their hopes on Logan. Even then, they knew their chances were slim.

Since Logan’s grandfather had retired, his words did not carry much weight as they used to.

Even though the Zachs family indeed had a great network, they would probably not risk offending the Caesar family just because of the Blacks.

All of a sudden, Meredith turned to glance at Zoey and Abigail, “Didn’t the two of you say that he would come back? Where is he?”

“Um...” Abigail was at a loss for words.

“Grandma, don’t worry! Levi will be back after resolving the trouble he caused,” Zoey replied in a determined tone.

She had just gotten news from Iris saying that Neil from the Morris Group was coming to the South City, and she planned to contact him for help.

Hence, she seemed confident in her reply just now.

“Zoey, why won’t you believe that he’s escaped? Let me be frank with you, I’ve asked for people to track him down, and there’s no sign of him in South City...”

The Protector Chapter 570

The Black family had already done a round of search, but there was no trace of Levi. At all.

“He must have already left South City. Stop waiting for him foolishly!” Keane said coldly.

Aaron and Kaitlyn agreed as they said, “Sweetie, why are you still holding on to hope? He must have run away!”

“Yeah, why else would he disappear suddenly?”

In her defense, Zoey replied, “Dad, Mom, you know how Levi is as a person...”

“This time, the situation is not the same! We are talking about the Caesar family. If I were him, I would also run!”

“That’s right! If you don’t believe us, just wait and see if he shows up!” Caitlyn added angrily.

The couple was already determined that Levi had run away.

However, Zoey was conflicted.

Indeed, the opponent this time was too strong.

No one could be certain of the situation.

After all, the Caesar family was a quasi-royal clan, and they were at a different level from them.

However, she believed that Levi would never leave just because of the power of the Caesar family.

Darling, where are you? Come back quickly to clear up everyone's misunderstanding!

Zoey desperately wanted Levi to appear now.

If only he could descend like a god and settle the matter directly.

Yet, on the following day, Levi had not appeared.

On the third day, he did not appear as well.

There was no news of him for the past few days. Whenever Zoey called him, his phone would be switched off.

Now, even Zoey was panicking.

Did he really run away?

But in her heart, she still firmly believed that Levi did not run away. She believed in his character more than anything else.

"Look, here you are, still foolishly waiting. How about Levi? He hasn't appeared yet!"

"Now that he turned his phone off, what else is it if he did not run away?"
Everyone in the Black family ridiculed her aggressively.

Bailey sneered, "I just asked someone to search in North Hampton, but they couldn't locate him at all. I guess he really ran away!"

At this time, Russell said, "Everyone should return to doing what they usually do! Levi will definitely show up and resolve this matter!"

Everyone got stumped by his words.

Meredith stared at Russell incredulously and asked, "Are you implying that we are worrying for nothing?"

Russell shook his head and said, "Grandma, I'm just saying that Levi will come back. Rather than these useless chatter, it's better to go on with our lives."

Slap!

Meredith slapped Russell's face all of a sudden.

The slap sounded crisp and loud, shocking everyone.

The last time Meredith gave a slap was due to the Caesar family and not her own intention.

But that day, she intentionally slapped the junior she valued the most.

"Grandma, you..." Russell covered his face and looked at Meredith, baffled.

"How could you say that? If it weren't for you and Levi, would the Black family end up this way? You caused big trouble and are still speaking such nonsense. Are you able to solve this matter?" Meredith trembled violently with anger.

Russell stared at her seriously and said, "Yes, I can!"

"How are you going to solve it?" Meredith asked.

"As long as Levi is here, the matter will definitely be resolved..." Russell stated stubbornly.

“He’s not even here now, and you still expect him to solve the problem? How ridiculous! Are you still in your right mind?” Meredith scolded.

“You guys don’t have a clue. Actually, Levi is...” Forced into a corner, Russell wanted to reveal Levi’s identity.

“What?” Everyone looked at Russell curiously.

Even Zoey was getting suspicious.

Did Levi have an identity unknown to them that Russell knew and supported him so surely?

The Protector Chapter 571

“I...”

Russell then remembered the confidentiality agreement and stopped abruptly.

“What? Say it!” Meredith urged.

“In short, I believe in Levi. Since he dared to declare a battle, he must have had confidence!” Russell stated with tightly clenched fists.

His face was contorted, and his veins bulged as he decided to endure the grievance.

I have to endure!

I must!

A few days later, everyone will find out what is going on.

“Hah, how naive!” Meredith scoffed.

“Russell, we are so disappointed in you!”

As everyone looked at him with a downcast expression, he couldn't help but feel upset about it.

“Sooner or later, you will know the truth!” Russell bit his lip fiercely.

Soon, it was three days later.

In the Jagged Club, more than two dozen forces were gathered.

The strongest of them were the Cayman family, the Herman family, and the Oliver family.

These three, plus the Lopez family, were the giants in South City.

The Lopez family was not involved in the battle because they were still recovering from their previous loss.

Therefore, these three families became fearless in South City. They robbed wherever and whatever they went.

After all, the ones who held them down before had fallen.

In addition to the three families, there were seven or eight big clans.

Of course, there were also several big names from the underworld.

Apart from Scott Yates and Sebastian Lopez, the Grandmaster was in control of the underworld of South City.

Once a follower of Scott, he later formed his own clan and grew his clan in secret over the years.

Many experts came under his following, and he was invincible in South City.

After Scott and Sebastian fell, he stepped forward and took over everything.

Of course, there was another formidable character, who was the owner of the Jagged Club – the Stone Buddha, Brock Green.

He owned the largest underground boxing arena in South City and had more boxing experts than those ranked in the East.

Everyone was afraid of him!

That night, Jagged Club was fully prepared.

In the huge banquet hall, there sat more than twenty big bosses from South City.

Just then, Brock announced, "I have arranged 100 boxing experts in my underground boxing ring. We're just waiting for them to come."

"Haha, that's really great. Morris Group will not be able to set a foot out once they step in!" Exclamations came from the crowd. Everyone was ecstatic upon hearing that.

They knew that Brock had the strongest underground boxers in the city.

"Stone Buddha, can you tell us what experts are there?" Someone asked.

"They include the Beast of Death, the Wolf King, and Hades, who were undefeated in the Eastern Deathmatches for a consecutive of ninety-nine, a hundred, and one hundred and eighty-eight matches, respectively," Brock answered, and everyone trembled in fear.

"What? These three are here?" The crowd exclaimed.

The Beast of Death was from W City and was undefeated in ninety-nine consecutive deathmatches.

Meanwhile, The Wolf King was from the grasslands, and he was undefeated in a hundred consecutive deathmatches.

Lastly, the identity of Hades was unknown, and his record was the most terrifying. He broke the record of the Eastern Deathmatches – a total of a hundred and eighty-eight consecutive deathmatches undefeated.

There were rumors in South City that these powerful men under Brock could easily crush and kill the Four Mighty Generals under Scott.

Everyone was aware that Brock was, in fact, the most mysterious figure in South City.

Hence, when Scott's faction fell, Brock immediately invited dozens of Eastern fighters to South City.

His motive was clear – to take over South City.

“Hades is here too?” Hein Cayman, the head of the Cayman family, gulped nervously and asked.

Hades was also known as “the Thousand Slayer” because he once slaughtered thousands of pirates alone, shocking the East...

The Protector Chapter 572

Everyone was surprised and ecstatic.

They had originally heard that Brock had dozens of underground boxing experts who could top the ranks in the east.

Little did they know that these three legends were here!

With that, everyone broke out in cold sweat.

If there was anyone who wanted to have a go at Brock, they didn't dare to now.

Without mentioning anything else, Brock could sweep everything in South City with only these three people.

They looked at Brock in astonishment and drew in their breaths.

He must have spent much money even to invite Hades.

Brock nodded his head and said, "Yes, he's here too."

The crowd let out a collective gasp.

"Then things are set in stone today!" The crowd chattered excitedly.

They all had the same target today – they must chase out Morris Group.

In addition, they made a mental note that Brock Green was not to be provoked.

Who would have thought that he would invite these three masters!

“We are also prepared. We have gathered thousands of combat experts. No matter the motive of Morris Group, leaving is not one of their options!” The Grandmaster said gleefully.

Brock took a sip of his tea and said, “Well, it’s up to us on how to deal with our problems within South City. It’s not appropriate for an outsider to intervene!”

“That’s right!” The crowd voiced their agreement one by one.

The Grandmaster smiled and asked, “Stone Buddha, I’m very curious. What is Hades’s background?”

“Yes, we’re all very curious. Perhaps you could enlighten us?” Questions came from the crowd, and everyone looked expectantly at Brock.

They had heard the legend of Hades many times.

He was the strongest fighter in the East in the past two years, and anyone who challenged him ended up dead.

Yet, they had no clue about his background at all.

Brock smiled and said, “Do you know how much I spent by inviting him?”

Everyone shook their heads.

“One billion for a year!” Brock answered.

Everyone took a deep breath.

Big bosses like them would usually hire some combat experts to be their bodyguards, so they had a good idea of the market price.

Generally, those costing over five million a year were the pros in their league.

They did not expect that Hades cost him a billion for a year.

It was crazy.

“He’s definitely worth the price!” Brock said firmly.

“Hades was actually a guard...”

As Brock said that, everyone was shocked.

“However, he was not simply just a guard. He was once the most powerful God of War in L Nation and was invincible on the battlefield. He was known as Hades, the God of Military.” Brock finished.

“Oh? He’s the God of War of a country? Aside from the fact that L Nation is a small country, his identity is then equivalent to that of Erudia’s God of War!” the Grandmaster exclaimed.

Brock nodded, “Yes, that’s right. Otherwise, how could he be so scary?”

“Stone Buddha, there’s something I can’t figure out. Why would a God of War come to participate in the battle?” Hein Cayman voiced his doubts.

Everyone also turned their gaze to Brock with curiosity.

“The reason is simple. Erudia’s God of War destroyed L Nation, and he had kept a low profile since. In order to survive, it’s normal for him to do so.” Brock replied.

The crowd exchanged gazes and inhaled sharply. “Still, Erudia’s God of War is more terrifying!”

“There are so many things you all don’t know. Back then, Erudia’s God of War only sent his subordinate – the White Tiger, along with the Cavalry Regiment and in total nineteen of them to destroy a country!” Brock recounted emotionally, as though he had been part of it.

“Haha, with Hades, Morris Group can give up on leaving this place!” The crowd became excited as they looked forward to it.

Who could defeat Hades?

The Protector Chapter 573

Brock glanced at the vacant chair and said coldly, "Someone move this chair away!"

"If Neil is eating with us, he has to stand! This is South City. This is the rule!"

"Yes!" Everyone clapped their hands in agreement with Brock's decision.

The chair was moved away soon after.

Shortly after, Levi and his party arrived at the Jagged Club.

White Tiger smiled and said, "I hope there are skilled experts today..."

"They will certainly not disappoint you," Levi said with a smile as he lit a cigarette.

Several waitresses came out to the entrance of the Jagged Club and led his party into the banquet hall.

As they entered the banquet hall, everyone in the room looked shocked upon seeing Levi and the young faces in his party.

Everyone was surprised.

They wondered if everyone from the Morris Group were as young as them.

"You're here with only four people?" Someone sneered from the crowd.

"Why not? Unless this is a trap?" Levi answered with a smile.

“It is a trap. Anyone with a working brain knows that. Is that Neil Atkinson?” Hein asked with a sneer.

Kirin replied with a grin, “It’s me. But the one in charge today is my boss, not me.” He finished and looked at Levi.

Everyone was shocked again.

They had expected the second-in-command, Neil, to come that day, but they never expected that the mysterious boss of Morris Group would come in person.

Everyone in South City knew that the boss of Morris Group was mysterious and powerful, and even Scott Yates and Triple Group had suffered losses in his hands.

Due to the mysterious force he had behind North Hampton, North Hampton was now a forbidden place, and no one dared to covet the area.

Almost everyone in Quebec was speculating the identity of the boss behind Morris Group.

No one had ever expected him to come that day.

They scrutinized Levi with doubtful gazes as they had never seen him before.

Before this, some people suspected that he might be a member of the South Hampton Prince Gang.

However, they dispelled this doubt after seeing him in person.

He was not one of them.

Levi scanned the room and immediately understood that these guys did not leave a seat for him.

“What’s wrong? Are there any doubts?”

The Grandmaster held a folding fan in his hands and asked leisurely with a smile.

Levi asked in a cold tone, “Where is my seat?”

Everyone laughed at his words.

“Seat? Do you have a right to sit?” Hein Cayman argued.

The Grandmaster laughed and added, “No, you should say, would you like to risk your life sitting?”

Brock stated, “In South City, you only deserve to stand!”

Levi took a puff of his cigarette, then he smiled and said, “But I insist on sitting today!”

“How arrogant! This is South City and not North Hampton! Your words don’t count, so just bear with it!” Next to Levi, Draco Herman – a member of the Herman family, said angrily.

Hearing that, Levi’s gaze slowly fell on Draco Herman.

Draco raised his head and looked at him proudly. “What are you going to do? Straighten up!”

Wham!

Draco was sent flying with a kick by Azure Dragon in a flash.

Everyone was stunned.

Kirin then moved Draco's chair behind Levi, and Levi took a seat.

Everyone present was shocked and looked at Levi in shock.

They did not expect that Levi would make a move so easily in such an aggressive and domineering manner.

Everyone was flabbergasted with their mouths gaping wide open.

Draco got up from the floor and roared, "How dare you touch me? You're seeking death!"

"What's with the noise? I'm trying to have a meal here." Levi frowned.

The Protector Chapter 574

Kirin stepped forward, pulled Draco in front of him, and slapped him.

“You...” Draco was just about to speak, when Kirin gave him a slap again.

Slap!

Slap! Slap! Slap!

Draco’s mouth and cheeks were swollen after several consecutive slaps, and he could not speak another word.

Of course, he dared not speak anymore even if he was given a chance.

He would only be asking for trouble.

“Boss, it’s quiet now. He can’t talk anymore.” Kirin came forward to Levi and said.

Levi nodded in response, picked up his fork, and tasted the food.

Everyone present was dumbfounded.

He had slapped Draco in front of all the big bosses from South City.

In short, it was equivalent to slapping all of them!

He did not have any respect for them at all.

Morris Group really was as domineering as the rumors had said!

“You guys are courting death!” Someone in the crowd couldn’t bear it any longer and got up to say.

“Quiet! What’s all of this noise over a meal?” Brock immediately stopped the commotion, and everyone calmed down.

However, he glared at Levi angrily. This man was eating the dishes nonchalantly and enjoyably, as though he really came for a banquet.

The Grandmaster also said, “Let’s eat peacefully!”

With that, everyone picked up their forks.

However, no one was in the mood for food except for Levi.

He looked as though he really came for the food, and everyone stared at him, getting angrier as he ate.

All this while, no one had ever dared to disregard them!

Only after an hour did Levi finish eating. After he wiped the corners of his mouth, he looked at everyone and smiled, “Why didn’t you all eat?”

“This is the last meal. Who would dare to eat?” Someone sneered from the crowd.

He was implying the fate of Levi.

Brock smiled and said, “Your invitation can’t be as simple as inviting us to a meal, right?”

Levi explained directly, “Okay, then I will explain why I came to South City. My purpose is straightforward. I want to quell the unrest! You are all on my list, so listen. If it’s not your territory, don’t snatch it. If it’s not your money, don’t take it!”

Everyone inhaled sharply.

How domineering!

He came to quell the unrest in South City?

No one had this right in the whole of Quebec.

Besides, he asked us to listen?

Hah! He's delusional!

"You guys are too much!"

Bang!

Hein couldn't help but slam the table.

Meanwhile, the others glared at Levi with anger.

How dare he come to our turf and be this domineering!

He's asking for death!

Brock slammed the table too and raised his head to look at Levi. "How dare you speak in that kind of tone! And you want all of us to listen to you?"

Levi nodded and said, "Yes. You have no choice!"

Upon hearing that, Brock laughed, and everyone joined in the laughter.

Is he out of his mind?

Saying something like that in front of all the big bosses from South City!

The Grandmaster released his folding fan in a swift move and said with a smile, “What is your trump card? How are you so sure that we will listen to you?”

Levi smiled, and behind him, his three men also smiled.

Immediately, everyone understood.

The three men behind him were his trump card.

How ridiculously arrogant of him – to dare to come and make demands with only three men!

Just when everyone was in a state of shock, White Tiger said, “I’m sorry, but three’s a crowd. I can take on everyone alone!”

In addition to being shocked, everyone was stunned.

“Three’s a crowd”?

“I can take on everyone alone”?

This is madness! This guy is as delusional as his boss!

Levi added, “That’s right. My friend here is enough to deal with you mere people!”

The Protector Chapter 575

Even Brock Green, who had the nickname of Stone Buddha, felt that they were going overboard with their bullying.

“I am aware of all your actions these days. Many innocent people have been implicated, and many people have died because of all of you. Do you all enjoy lives built on their misery?” Levi turned to question them.

However, he did not get any reaction from them at all.

Perhaps, it was more fitting to say that they were all numbed to the deaths of innocent people.

Therefore, his words could not trigger them at all.

Moreover, during that period of time, they were snatching territories in South City, and as a result, there were many casualties.

Many people lost their jobs and homes.

However, these big bosses were indifferent to their predicament.

“Does it have anything to do with you? Besides, so what if people died? So what if people are injured? What a f*cking busybody! If you dare stop what we are doing, then be prepared to face our wraths!” Everyone was totally unmoved and scoffed at Levi.

They were dumbfounded that he was even bringing such a matter up to them.

“This is the reason I came today. You lot are not going to cause turmoil in South City anymore! Period!” Levi said harshly.

“In that case, you have to show us your true capability!” Brock exclaimed and smashed his cup on the ground.

Bang!

Bang!

In an instant, all six doors of the banquet hall opened simultaneously, and a large group of people poured in from the outside.

All of them were armed with weapons and were all skilled experts.

At least three hundred men filled the originally spacious banquet room to the maximum capacity.

Not only that but the corridors outside were also crowded with people.

Thousands of fighters had surrounded this place.

All of them were awaiting just one order, and they would chop Levi into pieces.

The big bosses from South City smiled and straightened their backs with newfound arrogance.

They have revealed their trump card now and believed that Levi could no longer remain arrogant.

“Now, what else do you wanna say?” Hein asked triumphantly.

Levi smiled brightly and replied, “I’ll still say the same thing – Listen!”

“Hahaha, are you blind? Can’t you see the masses? Are you still in a daydream?”
Someone from the crowd scoffed.

The Grandmaster showed little but contempt as he said, “Young man, it’s fine to be a little arrogant. Now we will give you a chance. As long as you kneel and kowtow three times, we will consider letting you go!”

In the eyes of the Grandmaster, Levi had no chance of escape.

Even if Levi’s men were very skilled and defeated the thousands of combat experts present, there were still more than a hundred skilled fighters in Brock’s underground boxing arena.

Not to mention the three legends, one of whom was the L Nation’s Hades!

They stood absolutely no chance against them.

Levi didn’t speak.

Instead, White Tiger smiled – he was excited.

“Well... Are there anymore?”

White Tiger licked the corner of his mouth eagerly.

“Huh?”

Everyone was taken aback at his bold statement.

Was he complaining that there were too few opponents?

Even in this dire situation, he is that arrogant?

Is he daft? Or crazy?

“Since you want us to listen to you, then we should play by the rules!” Brock said.

“Go on, please enlighten me!” Levi said in response.

Brock explained, “We will only listen to you once you defeated us. Otherwise, you shall listen to us and turn Morris Group over to us!”

Brock Green was a wily old fox.

He would never give up the chance to turn the situation into something favorable to him.

Immediately, Levi nodded and agreed, “Okay!”

“We will send out only one person from our side...”

Levi pointed at White Tiger.

Then he dropped the shocking remark, “As for yours, it doesn’t really matter how many you send over...”

Having heard that, the big bosses glared at Levi and his party angrily.

The Protector Chapter 576

Excuse me! This is South City, for Pete's sake – our territory! How dare he humiliate us in OUR city!

“Okay. I hope you get to keep your arrogance later!” Brock said coldly.

He added, “Let's change a venue!”

Soon after that, they moved to the underground boxing arena, where it could hold the thousands of people, and all of them surrounded the arena.

The big bosses had all flashed their trump cards.

The Grandmaster looked at Levi with a sneer and said, “You said it yourself that you are sending out only one person, so don't blame us for the one-man fight!”

With that, the Grandmaster gave an order, and immediately hundreds of experts rushed towards White Tiger.

The long swords in their hands dazzled chillingly, overflowing with murderous intent.

Looking at his attackers, White Tiger's smile gradually became cheekier.

Boom!

He punched the first striker head-on and sent him flying several tens of meters away.

Then he landed on the ground and remained still instantly.

Boom!

Boom!

Bang! Crash!

Hundreds of people attacked simultaneously, and it was an awe-struck scene.

Even if White Tiger could fight all of them, the onlookers were sure that the never-ending attacks would tire him out.

Looking on as hundreds of people drown out White Tiger, smiles burst out from the corners of everyone's lips.

White Tiger is sure to lose!

But after only a few seconds, everyone's faces changed.

More and more of their men were sent out flying by White Tiger...

A minute later, everyone's faces became solemn.

Three minutes later, everyone's faces were full of disbelief.

Five minutes later, everyone's eyeballs were about to fall out of their sockets from the sight.

They were all shocked to the core from seeing hundreds of people falling to the ground and screaming in pain.

Meanwhile, on the boxing arena, only White Tiger remained standing.

He was too good of a fighter!

He only used five minutes to defeat four to five hundred people with his bare hands!

Everyone exchanged glances as they gradually realized why Levi only sent out White Tiger.

He was strong enough to defeat them all!

“Is that all? Send everyone out! I will beat all of them!” White Tiger couldn’t get enough of it.

“Atrocious!” Brock said angrily.

There was no room for outsiders to act brazenly on his turf.

Very quickly, he gave an order, and hundreds of boxing experts under him appeared one by one.

Of course, the three strongest players have not yet appeared.

He didn’t think it was necessary for them to appear.

“Attack! Attack him one by one! I don’t believe he will keep it up!” Brock roared.

Hundreds of top-ranked boxing experts rushed up to challenge White Tiger one by one.

Boom!

“One!”

“Two!”

“Three!”

...

“Eighty-eight!”

“Ninety-nine!”

White Tiger became more spirited as he fought, and he did not look tired at all, much less exhausted.

The boxing experts from South City were knocked down by him one after another.

In the end, Brock’s face darkened.

The talents of his underground boxing arena were all completely defeated.

White Tiger was too good of a fighter...

He was not even defeated after being challenged by hundreds of combat experts!

“This is thrilling, but there is no real master at all! Don’t you have anyone stronger?” White Tiger shouted.

The big bosses looked at each other.

How arrogant!

How could they tolerate such arrogance in South City, much less on Brock’s territory?

“Stone Buddha, you must show your last card! This b*stard is too strong!”
Everyone pleaded with him one after another.

Brock squinted his eyes with a glint and said coldly, “Let the Beast of Death and Wolf King out!”

Soon, the Beast of Death and the Wolf King appeared.

Immediately, the two emitted extremely dangerous auras, which filled the place.

The atmosphere became so tense that everyone felt a numbing sensation on their scalps, and their blood seemed to have coagulated.

The Protector Chapter 577

Originating from W City was the Beast of Death. He was only about five-foot-six, but his skin was a golden bronze, like cast metal, giving people a sense of strength.

He studied and practiced ancient Thai boxing for thirty years and took down each of his opponents in ninety-nine deathmatches within thirty seconds previously.

As for the Wolf King, dense hair covered his face, and his eyes glowed, resembling a real wolf.

When he was a child, the Wolf King grew up with a pack of wolves. His fighting skills blended with that of the wolves and were so strong that they were unimaginable to a normal person.

As soon as the two appeared, they threatened the onlookers with their imposing auras, making it difficult for them to breathe.

The most powerful fighters always brought the threat of death at first sight.

“Whatever you do, just don’t kill him!” Brock gave the order.

The Wolf King stood aside and didn’t move. Meanwhile, the Beast of Death nodded and stepped forward.

He wanted a one-on-one with White Tiger.

However, White Tiger beckoned with his finger and said, “Come at me together and save me some time!”

The Beast of Death and the Wolf King exchanged glances, and their eyes were filled with disbelief.

They seemed to be surprised by White Tiger's stupidly cocky behavior.

"Since he said so, then you should both go!" Brock shouted. His eyes were filled with murderous intent.

The Beast of Death and the Wolf King exchanged looks again, and the Beast of Death made his move first.

With every step he took, the floor formed cracks.

Boom!

Crack!

After he took three steps forward, the underground boxing arena blew apart.

That scene was simply shocking.

Everyone knew that the underground boxing arena was made of special materials. Yet, he crushed it with only a few steps.

Just how much power did he possess to be able to do that?

Soon after, the Beast of Death was in front of White Tiger, and he charged towards with his knee up.

That move was definitely comparable to being rammed by a car, and the impact was absolutely not less than that of a sports car speeding at a few hundred yards and crashing into a train...

Almost at the same instant, the Wolf King also made his move.

Whoosh!

He possessed the agility and speed of a wild wolf. When he leaped forward, he swept towards White Tiger with a swift attack at a distance of tens of meters.

It didn't matter if it were the Beast of Death or the Wolf King, any one of them would definitely split White Tiger into pieces with their killer moves.

Over the years, they had long become killing machines.

They would dedicate their time every day in their lives to find out ways to kill more effectively.

What they had been doing was just terrifying!

White Tiger smiled as he felt Wolf King and the Beast of Death close at hand.

Boom!

He struck his left fist towards the knee of the Beast of Death and his right fist towards the claws of Wolf King.

“He is courting death!”

“Isn't this a futile endeavor?”

The onlookers exclaimed. All of them thought that White Tiger was over-confident in himself.

Boom!

His left fist landed on the knees of the Beast of Death.

Crack!

The Beast of Death's knee, which was as hard as diamonds, cracked open at once, and he was sent flying out from the impact.

Boom!

White Tiger smashed and distorted the Wolf King's entire arm with a fist, and the Wolf King fell on his knees directly in front of him.

At that instant, everyone was sent into a state of shock, and they looked on with their eyes wide open.

The two legendary fighters, who were undefeated in ninety-nine and a hundred deathmatches respectively, were beaten even though they had teamed up?

The Beast of Death and the Wolf King let out cries of agony, and their cries brought everyone back to reality.

Both of them were defeated by White Tiger.

At that moment, Brock could no longer sit still, so he stood up.

He was more formidable than anyone expected.

On the other hand, Levi had a smile on his face.

With his buddies around, there was no need for him to make a move.

Oh, how lonely it is for me to be invincible.

"However many of you are left, go up all at once! Stop wasting time!" Levi called out.

Hearing Levi's words, Brock was completely riled up with anger.

He roared, "Call out Hades!"

Hein, the Grandmaster, and the rest were beyond excited.

Finally, the strongest fighter is coming!

Suddenly, a black shadow was cast on the arena, and an oppressive aura gradually filled the place.

The Protector Chapter 578

Hades was here.

He was not only the record holder of the deathmatches, but he was also L Nation's God of War.

The former details were not that important.

However, the latter, his identity as a nation's God of War, certainly was.

In ancient times, he would be an invincible God of War.

In the past, everyone only regarded him as a fighting machine. However, after realizing his identity as L Nation's God of War, everyone's impression of him had changed.

In the secular world, he was a god-like existence among ordinary people.

The God of War wore a simple black sweater and a hat. What was terrifying was that he wore half of a wolf mask.

As soon as he appeared, the focus of the whole audience was on him.

Hades came to the middle of the arena step by step, and the temperature dropped sharply.

An overwhelming murderous aura engulfed the place.

As soon as those ordinary onlookers felt his suffocating aura, it became difficult for them to breathe. Their faces turned pale, and they looked as if they were at death's door.

This was a true imposing aura!

Since he was the God of War, Hades must have at least slaughtered a thousand people.

His murderous aura was honed out on the battlefield and was not something an ordinary fighter could compare to.

Brock and the others immediately got excited when they saw Hades appear.

Even if the White Tiger could fight very well, they presumed that he was not Hades's opponent.

"Kill him, and I will reward you ten billion!" Brock shouted.

"I'd add another billion!"

"And I, three billion!"

...

Everyone started to add motivation, and the reward rose gradually.

As long as Hades killed the White Tiger, he would be rewarded twenty billion!

It was an amount that many people dreamt of, and Hades was no exception.

His eyes lit up fiercely.

For that amount of money, he would kill anyone in his way.

“Where is the person?” Hades asked in a low voice.

Everyone pointed to White Tiger.

Then, he walked towards White Tiger step by step as he exuded a dangerous air around him.

It was as if the actual Hades himself was reborn from hell.

If he unleashed his wrath, there was no doubt that there would be at least a million corpses with blood flowing into a river...

It was absolutely terrifying!

Hades stood in front of White Tiger and looked up at him.

When their eyes met, Hades's face changed drastically.

It's him!

This can't be!

H-he...

His lips twitched, but he could not say a word for a long time as he watched White Tiger.

He could never forget this person!

Hades could never forget the night, where a total of nineteen people destroyed tens of thousands of his men in L nation head-on! It was him and the Cavalry Regiment!

Subsequently, nineteen of them killed their way into L Nation. They were invincible and wiped out the nation right then.

In just one night, L Nation was utterly destroyed.

As L Nation's God of War, he was also defeated, and he could only watch as they annihilated the country.

By far, Erudia's God of War was the most terrifying existence he had ever seen.

His men were brave and good at fighting, and they were invincible in the world.

This person in front of him, especially, brought him the trauma of a lifetime.

It was the lingering nightmare that would haunt him all his life!

Every night, he was haunted by the recurring dream of L Nation's destruction, and every time, White Tiger's ruthless face appeared in the dream.

And every time, he was always jolted awake from the nightmare without fail.

That person is simply too strong!

He would never forget how he broke into the camp of ten thousand people and killed his way back and forth.

Today, he actually saw it again here.

He realized that Erudia's God of War and his faction were too strong.

Even if he had a hundred years to prepare, he wouldn't be able to take revenge.

Now he could only continue to participate in fighting competitions to vent his emotions and grind away the trauma that Erudia's God of War had brought unto him.

Never in his wildest dreams did he think that he would meet White Tiger again.

Suddenly, he recalled that Erudia's Five Great Wars Regiment were almost inseparable from Erudia's God of War.

If White Tiger is here, that means that Erudia's God of War should also be here...

The Protector Chapter 579

Sweeping his eyes across the place, he saw Levi sitting at the back.

Suddenly, Hades became dizzy and almost passed out.

Meeting Levi's gaze, he felt as if he was suffocating.

In an instant, his whole body was drenched in a cold sweat, and he couldn't stop trembling.

His legs had a mind of their own as he knelt in front of White Tiger with a loud thud.

The sound was loud enough for everyone to hear, giving everyone a huge shock.

No one had expected it.

Even Levi was shocked.

He wondered what was the matter with Hades.

He was supposed to fight White Tiger, but he knelt in front of him as soon as they met.

Brock and the others also couldn't understand it.

What's with Hades? Is this all a joke?

Why is he kneeling in front of the enemy?

Everyone rubbed their eyes, wondering if they were mistaken with what they saw.

This was the strongest fighter in the Eastern Deathmatches, who was undefeated in one hundred and eighty-eight consecutive matches!

He was invincible!

Why did he kneel as soon as he sees White Tiger?

They didn't understand, but White Tiger gradually gained realization.

Even though Hades was wearing half a wolf mask, but White Tiger still recognized him from his eyes and his aura.

"You... Are you L Nation's God of War – Hades?" White Tiger asked tentatively.

Hades nodded and shouted, "The defeated warrior of L Nation pays his respects to Erudia's God of War and White Tiger!"

Everyone inhaled sharply upon hearing his address.

Erudia's God of War?

White Tiger?

What was that all about?

Everyone couldn't react to the turn of events for a while.

After hearing the address from Hades, Levi rubbed his temples helplessly.

He had planned not to reveal his identity on this trip to South City, so he resorted to using force to solve the mess.

But lo and behold, he did not expect to encounter the defeated warrior of L Nation.

Wouldn't my cover be blown?

Levi smiled helplessly.

"Hades! What are you doing? Quickly kill him for me!" Brock shouted anxiously.

"Yeah, why are you kneeling to him?" Everyone couldn't understand it and looked on in disbelief.

Hades did not speak. He looked at the crowd and slowly took off his mask.

Now, everyone could clearly see what the other half of his face looks like.

There were multiple crisscrossed scars, and his face looked extremely terrifying.

Hades then said in a low voice, "Do you know who left these scars on me?"

Brock and the rest looked at him with puzzled faces.

"It's White Tiger, who left them to me during the destruction of L Nation!" He finished.

"What? In the destruction of L Nation?"

"Could it be that Erudia's God of War..."

Everyone's faces changed drastically.

Then, they returned to their senses one by one.

Hades had addressed Erudia's God of War and White Tiger earlier.

"You guys are so bold to dare to make a move on just about anyone!"

Hades suddenly raised his tone as he continued, "Listen! Standing in front of me is the White Tiger – one of the Five Great Wars Regiments of Erudia! Back then, he destroyed my L Nation single-handedly!"

Then, he turned to look at Levi, who was sitting not far away from him.

"And he is the world's most invincible, the nightmare of all countries, the greatest devil in the eyes of all guards – Erudia's God of War!" Hades said with jealousy.

As soon as his words settled, pin-drop silence fell.

The Protector Chapter 580

That moment was too shocking for Brock and the others.

They couldn't believe that the person they were going to deal with turned out to be Erudia's God of War.

Now they understood why Scott's faction fell, why Triple Group withdrew from Erudia, and why Morris Group was invincible.

All of that was due to Erudia's God of War!

Otherwise, who else could move the two forces?

Besides, South City authorities were more than eager to offer various preferential policies to Triple Group. Thus, it was impossible that the city's authorities would chase them out of the city.

Judging by how Erudia's God of War returned to North Hampton just a few days ago, the timing was right.

In an instant, they all understood.

Thump!

Thump!

...

Everyone knelt down one after another.

No wonder they dared to take on thousands of them with just one person.

It was White Tiger, the King of War, who destroyed a country with only nineteen people in his troop!

Sure enough, they had no choice but to obey.

“We were wrong! Please spare our lives!” Brock cried out loud.

Everyone kowtowed their foreheads on the ground.

Levi stood up, walked to the front of Hades and said, “You will follow me from now on!”

“Understood,” Hades answered with a nod of his head.

Levi then looked at Brock and the rest.

“Why would I want your lives? Now, what you all should be doing is to listen to what I’ve been saying! You can’t take things that are not your own. I don’t care who has your back. If you are not satisfied, you can take me on.” When Levi said that, everyone was almost frightened to death.

Who would be so courageous to take on Erudia’s God of War?

No one would dare to even if we have nine lives!

“God of War, we dare not!” Brock and the others said in embarrassment.

“Also, do not spread the news. I would like to see who dares to covet South City.” Levi said coldly.

When Levi said that, Brock and the rest broke out in a cold sweat.

Erudia's God of War was going to take the opportunity to attack whoever was coming for South City.

At that instant, they immediately thought of a person – Richard Caesar.

A few days later, he would be attacking the Black family and even more forcefully into South City.

“In addition to that, make compensations to those whom you have hurt! Make sure everyone is taken care of, and I will send someone to keep tabs!” Levi said.

“Understood, God of War!” Everyone answered and nodded their heads fervently.

“God of War, I am willing to spend two billion for charity!” Brock offered.

Others also spoke, “I would like to devote one billion to charity!”

Soon, tens of billions of charity funds were being offered.

The leaders of South City were all stunned.

As expected of Erudia's God of War, he solved the turmoil in South City easily with his intervention.

He even raised tens of billions of charity funds in a flash.

“Sure enough, ruthless people need to be treated with ruthlessness, huh?” Levi lamented.

Everyone laughed.

Another day passed.

Levi never appeared and was still out of contact.

To be honest, Zoey was a little anxious.

She wasn't worried about Levi running away. In fact, she was mainly afraid that something bad had happened to him.

Just then, Logan arrived at the Black family where they were still at a loss over the situation.

"Logan, how is it?" Meredith asked agitatedly.

"Grandma, I have disappointed you. I tried my best!" Logan said helplessly, his head drooping.

"What?"

The news was tantamount to a huge blow to the Black family.

Logan was their only hope!

"What happened, Logan?" Meredith asked nervously as her body trembled.

The Protector Chapter 581

Logan sighed and said, “Grandma, during this period of time, my father, grandfather, and I have used all the connections we can find and asked them to persuade the Caesar family to let the matter go. However, they are unyielding in their stand, and it didn’t matter who went.

They are determined to deal with the Black family! Russell’s slap had made Richard very angry, and he vowed to use all the resources of the Caesar family to deal with us!” Logan explained.

“What?”

“The Black family will then cease to exist!”

Everyone in the Black family panicked.

“Grandma, there is no other solution. The Caesar Family has set their hearts to be ruthless this time! Their target is not only the Black Family but the entire South City!” Logan pointed out the facts.

The Black family was just a sacrifice.

“I can’t accept this!” Meredith cried out, on the verge of tears.

“Grandma, there is only one way now...” Logan said.

“What is it?” Everyone in the Black family looked over to him.

“Surrender to the Caesar family and give up everything to them!” Logan then glanced at them and whispered, “In addition to that, hand over Russell, Levi, and Zoey to them!”

“Only by compromising in this way will the Caesar family let us go! Otherwise, we will end up exterminated!” Logan’s proposal resonated among the members of the Black family.

Bailey and the others agreed one after another, “Yes, that’s right. Where there’s life, there’s hope. We can always rise again!”

Meredith and Robert exchanged glances, and they said helplessly, “Well, it can only be so.”

“Grandpa, Grandma, don’t be stressed out! First of all, Russell is just an adopted son. Secondly, Aunt Caitlyn’s family was already expelled from the Black family. So, these people are not essential. It’s okay to give them up.” Logan said.

Everyone looked at each other.

What he said was true.

They were not the direct bloodline of the Black family.

Hence, it would make more sense to give these people up to preserve the Black family’s direct lineage.

“Okay, let’s do it!” Meredith gritted her teeth and decided.

Although Zoey and her family were a distance away from them and could not hear what everyone was discussing, they were all smart enough to understand what was going on.

“Looks like Grandpa and Grandma are going to abandon us...” Zoey said.

Caitlyn was already sobbing uncontrollably, and Aaron was visibly stressed.

Zoey understood through this incident that the Black family still didn't accept them.

At that moment, all she could feel were grievances and grief.

Darling, where are you?

Zoey missed Levi very much.

Later on, a few days passed by quickly.

Yet, Levi still did not appear.

In a blink of an eye, the day where the Black family and the Caesar family were due for a battle had finally arrived.

"Haha, are you still waiting foolishly? He already ran away!" Logan sneered.

Zoey stubbornly shook her head, "No! My husband will show up!"

Caitlyn and Aaron roared with anger, "You still believe him at this time? It's over for us! Why don't you ask him to show up now?"

"I..." Zoey muttered under her breath worriedly.

Where's Levi?

"The biggest regret in my life is marrying my daughter to this scumbag!" Aaron shouted and threw a fist at the wall violently.

Caitlyn added helplessly, “Me too! The worst thing that happened in my life was meeting Levi.”

In their opinion, this incident happened all because of Levi.

On the other hand, both Abigail and Russell said in unison, “Don’t worry. He will show up!”

Soon afterward, there was a noise outside the Black family’s manor.

The Caesar family was here...

The Protector Chapter 582

It was a shocking scene outside the manor.

The guards of the Black family were so scared that they almost knelt on the ground.

Cars arrived one after another.

Soon after that, more than two hundred black sedans surrounded the entire manor.

Clack!

Clack!

Clack!

The doors of the cars opened one by one, and burly men dressed in white alighted from them.

Everyone had the word “Caesar” embroidered in front of their chests on their white clothes.

The men stood neatly in formation around the manor, completely locking down the area.

The Caesar family was serious about this.

They even dispatched their family’s skilled experts!

There must be at least seven to eight hundred skilled experts present!

This was the consequence for whoever dared to provoke Richard or slap him.

There were several cars surrounding a Lincoln limousine.

The door of the Lincoln opened, and Richard Caesar alighted from the car.

He glanced at the Black family's manor and sneered, "I shall see how the Black family escapes from my clutches!"

Beside him, Thomas Caesar, the top expert in charge of the Caesar family's security, sneered and said, "Master, today, our eight hundred men will flatten the Black family and take down South City!"

Hearing his words, the Caesar family's eight hundred white-robed men shouted together, "Today, eight hundred men of the Caesar family will flatten this place!"

The impact of the sound and the great momentum sounded like thunder in the sky, terrifying everyone in the manor.

"Gosh, how many of them are here?"

Meredith and Robert hugged each other as they and the rest of the Black family trembled in fear.

"This is bad! We're all surrounded!"

Right at that moment, their guard ran in in a panic, staggering to the ground in fright.

"Yes, they are everywhere! They are dressed in white clothes with the word "Caesar" written on them. The guards outside said that there were at least eight hundred of them. They have surrounded us!"

Having heard that, the color drained out of Meredith's face.

We're doomed.

The Caesar family is too terrifying.

They were serious about this!

"What should we do?" Robert panicked.

"Is Logan not here yet?" Meredith asked.

At that moment, Logan became her only support.

"I can't reach him. I called Jennie too, but she didn't pick up either." Keane and Quintus replied.

Meredith just clenched her fists and said, "I'm afraid that Logan's method will not work now. The Caesar family has prepared too large of a scale for the battle!"

"It seems that Logan won't be coming. We can solve it ourselves." Although they were currently in a bad situation, Russell looked relaxed as he said that.

Everyone couldn't refute Russell's words.

They knew very well that Logan had run away since he surely wouldn't let the Zachs family be implicated.

"It's only right for Logan to protect himself and not come. After all, he contributed much to the Black family!" Meredith said, then she looked at Zoey and her parents with a sneer and added, "What about her husband, Levi? He caused the trouble, yet he ran away and couldn't be contacted..."

When Abigail and Russell heard that, they really wanted to curse.

However, Meredith was their grandmother, so they could do nothing about their frustration over her words.

Meredith glanced at Robert and said softly, "You may lose a lot today, so please be mentally prepared!"

"I am! I just hope the young ones will be safe!" Robert looked at Quintus and the rest with a conflicted expression.

He was ready to sacrifice himself.

Boom!

Right at that moment, the door of the Black family's manor was blasted open with a kick, and it fell to the ground with a loud thud.

The Protector Chapter 583

The Caesar family launched their first attack by sending eight hundred men from their White Army.

They swarmed and completely overwhelmed the few dozen guards from the Black family as they continued their onslaught.

After that, they quickly arrived at the main hall and surrounded it completely.

At that moment, the Black family was scared out of their wits by the sudden incursion.

This never happened before!

Even Meredith and Robert gaped in shock as it was a sight that could only be seen in the military.

Only then, Zoey and her family came to realize how powerful the Caesar family was when they saw the formidable regiment.

No wonder they all say that they are unmatched in Quebec!

They really are the most powerful family in South Hampton!

To think Levi got himself into so much trouble!

Zoey gaped in shock while Caitlyn was on the verge of tears.

“Levi, you good-for-nothing scoundrel! You got all of us in trouble, but you ran away first! I will skin you alive!” Caitlyn yelled.

Aaron took a deep breath and deduced, “He must’ve escaped because he saw how powerful the Caesar family is!”

Very quickly, the Black family was forced to a corner as they awaited the Caesar family’s punishment.

Thump! Thump!

The chaotic sound of footsteps boomed through the entire room, and everyone knew that signified the arrival of the head of the family.

The White Army automatically made way for a group of people, and the person leading the posse was Richard.

A few dozen men, including Timothy, followed behind him, and they were the Caesar family’s experts in combat.

The moment he stepped into the room, he started to look for Levi, and he breathed a sigh of relief when he realized Levi wasn’t there.

Our intelligence is reliable – Levi really did run away.

Now that he’s gone, nothing can scare me anymore!

As long as the powerful people in the South City don’t interfere in this, we, the Caesars, can do as we please.

After all, who can even match us in strength?

Definitely not the puny Black family!

Richard walked to the middle of the room and scoffed, “What happened? Didn’t you ask for reinforcements? Don’t tell me that the Black family didn’t even try to find a single ally? How dare you disrespect the Caesar family like this?”

The Black family was petrified when they heard that.

“You must be mistaken! We have a lot of respect for your family!”

Meredith and Robert almost kneeled down.

“Hmph. If that’s so, why did one of your youngins slap me?”

Ignoring Meredith and Robert’s pleas, he chuckled. “Since you challenged us to battle, don’t blame us if we go all out! Let me introduce my companions to you. These four are former Navies; these three are commanders from the army; these seven are some of the best from King Cobra Assassin Organization. Besides that, these ten are bodyguards that we hired from all over the globe, and they all served under the rulers of their country before. Meanwhile, this is Black Panther from South Hampton’s underworld. We also alerted all our allies about this war. If for some reason we cannot handle this ourselves, we can summon the powerful figures in South Hampton with just one call! Don’t blame us for going full force. After all, you started it first!”

The Black family gaped in shock when they heard Richard listing out all his connections.

How do we even stand a chance against them?

I bet even the most powerful families in the South City aren’t their match as well!

Even if the eight hundred members of the White Army weren’t involved, the few dozen experts around Richard could plow through us with no trouble!

The Protector Chapter 584

“By the way, where’s the person who slapped my father?” Patrick Caesar, Richard’s son, asked in a cold voice.

When he and his siblings heard that their father was slapped in the face, they almost launched their attack that very day.

After all, this was something completely unacceptable to the Caesar family.

This is absolutely preposterous!

How dare someone slap the Richard Caesar?

Simply unbelievable.

“I did it!”

Russell stepped forward and stared at Patrick bravely.

“Hah! Very well then! An insolent fool like you dares to slap my father?!” Patrick bellowed.

“Indeed, I was the one who slapped him! He asked someone to slap me, so I slapped him back to return the favor! An eye for an eye.”

Russell stared at Patrick fearlessly.

Russell’s words enraged the entire Caesar family as the eight hundred White Army soldiers glared at him menacingly.

This was a matter of honor, so slapping Richard was akin to showing the Caesar family the utmost disrespect.

They definitely wouldn't take that lying down.

All they needed was a command for them to rip Russell into pieces.

This time, Russell really messed up by stepping over the Caesar family's bottom line.

Patrick laughed maniacally. "I heard that the Black family's younger generation are all boastful little brats, and I got to see that for myself today! By the way, where's that girl, Abigail? Who does she think she is to reject my son?"

He bragged before that no lady in Quebec would ever reject his son's advances, so imagine the irony he felt when Abigail rejected Timothy!

That was why the entire Caesar family was curious to see how Abigail was like.

Upon hearing that, the Black family panicked.

It's fine if Russell gets into trouble, but Abigail mustn't get involved in all this!

After all, she's a direct descendant of the Black family!

Despite their concerns, Abigail stepped towards Patrick fearlessly and smiled. "I'm Abigail. I'm sorry, but I'm really not interested in your son!"

Patrick scrutinized her before saying, "Not bad! However, you're not worthy of my son. Brilliant ladies are hard to find, but pretty ladies are littered all over the city. My son can get a pretty lady any time he wants, so of course, there's no way you're fit for him!"

"That's right! Does she even look in the mirror? How dare she reject him?"

“Apart from her pretty face, does she even have anything else?”

The Caesar family lambasted her at that instant.

Abigail’s expression turned into a contemptuous one as she snorted, “You’re right! I am not worthy of Timothy, so why are you are looking for me now?”

“What I heard was true then – Youngsters from the Black family really are cocky!” Patrick sneered.

“Oh, there’s also that person... the one that challenged us, Caesars, to battle! Where is he?” Patrick changed the subject.

In an instant, the hall fell silent as everyone exchanged glances of apprehension because they didn’t know how to answer his question.

Patrick was stunned for a moment before he burst into a chuckle. “Don’t tell me he’s not even here?”

Everyone lowered their heads in shame when they heard that.

However, at that moment, Zoey stepped forward.

“I am Levi Garrison’s wife! I will take responsibility for my husband’s actions!” she declared.

At that, Caitlyn, Aaron, and the entire Black family froze in shock because they never expected Zoey to make such a declaration.

Meanwhile, Abigail stared at Zoey in admiration.

Originally, Abigail thought that Zoey didn’t like Levi that much, but now she realized they both respected and adored each other.

“Hahaha...” Patrick chortled.

“What a joke this is! A man actually ditched his wife and forced her to bear the brunt of his actions!”

“Who said I ditched her?”

The Protector Chapter 585

At that moment, a resonant voice echoed across the hall.

“Levi!!”

“Darling!!”

“Is that Levi Garrison?”

Abigail, Zoey, and Russell immediately squealed in joy when they heard the familiar voice.

At the same time, the Black family looked in the direction of the voice as well and saw an unmistakable figure.

Levi had an imposing aura that commanded attention, and everyone’s gazes were drawn to him as he strode towards the center of the hall.

Timothy’s heart sank to a bottomless pit when he made eye contact with Levi, and his right eye inexplicably started to twitch.

He had a very bad feeling about it.

Meanwhile, Richard’s temper flared when he saw how Levi was as smug as usual.

The person that slapped me was Russell, but Levi was the mastermind behind all this!

Besides that, he was the one who challenged us to battle as well!

“Honey, what’s wrong? Why the tears?”

Levi pulled Zoey into his arms and wiped her tears away with a piece of tissue while everyone was watching.

“You’re here at last! I waited for you for seven whole days! Where did you go? They all said that you ran away and left me behind...” Zoey sobbed uncontrollably.

“I told you that I will handle this, so of course, I will come back here. I just went to take care of some other issue over the past few days.”

After Levi calmed the unrest in the South City, he donated tens of billions of charity funds to help everyone in need.

Not only that, but he also established the Morris Group in the South City’s market ahead of schedule.

By doing that, he managed to expand the Morris Group’s operations to serve the general public better.

On the other hand, Abigail and Russell were getting emotional as well. “Levi, we waited for you for so long! A lot of terrible things happened while you were gone...”

“Don’t worry. As long as I’m still here, I will make sure that no one dares to trespass into our territory!” Levi announced coldly.

At that, the Black family was utterly shocked.

Are you kidding me, Levi? Why are you so freakin’ cocky?

Meanwhile, while they spoke, they completely ignored the Caesar family.

It was as if the Caesar family was invisible to them.

When the Caesar family realized that, they were infuriated.

Thud!

Patrick kicked the door violently, and the loud bang shocked everyone.

Zoey, who was in Levi's arms, was visibly startled as well.

Meanwhile, Levi's expression contorted into a menacing one as he turned around slowly and glared at Patrick.

"How dare you startle my wife. You will face the consequences of that!"

While he said that, he had remembered every single mole and feature that Patrick had. Patrick's face was strongly imprinted in Levi's mind.

I'll make sure he pays the price for his actions!

Patrick sneered, "Really? That is such a joke! Didn't you say you'd admit defeat if you can withstand our attack regardless of how many reinforcements we call for?"

Levi nodded in acknowledgment. "Yeah, I did say that. You can call all the reinforcements you want! I'll admit our loss if you defeat us!"

"Haha..."

At that, everyone in the Caesar family chortled.

What a foolishly cocky man he is!

Patrick smiled and asked, "Are you gonna ask for reinforcements too? Are you thinking about going into battle without any reinforcements?"

"Well, that's not really the case. After all, you're not powerful enough to warrant my involvement!" Levi pronounced.

But even if Levi really did want to get into battle, Kirin and Azure Dragon wouldn't let him.

Patrick bellowed furiously. "Where are your reinforcements then? Ask them to hurry up, or we'll launch our attack first!"

The Black family trembled in fear when they heard that.

The Caesar family is getting serious this time!

What should we do now?

Damn it, Levi!

Did you really think that you can oppose the Caesar family?

Meanwhile, Levi took out his phone and called someone. "You can all come now!"

The Protector Chapter 586

“Haha...”

The Caesar family burst into laughter when they saw Levi making a call because they thought that it was an act of pure stupidity.

Just imagine the Black family’s embarrassment right now!

We know Levi way too well!

So what if he calls every single powerful figure in North Hampton?

The Caesar family can crush them with just a flick of the finger.

Besides, Levi isn’t powerful enough to do any of that!

On the other hand, Abigail breathed a sigh of relief because Levi finally retaliated.

Meanwhile, Russell felt excited at the prospect of battle.

Richard sat on the chair and mocked, “I am curious to see what kind of reinforcements you called!”

Following that, Patrick commanded, “Tell our brothers outside to let everyone in no matter who they are.”

In a matter of a few minutes, numerous luxury vehicles filled the streets.

The few Black family's guards who were apprehended were shocked when they saw that.

"Did they all come?"

They watched as swathes of men entered the manor.

"Have they arrived?"

The Caesar family was excited when they heard the commotion outside.

"Who's there? Announce who you are!" Patrick demanded.

The Black family was dumbfounded when they saw the guests because they were all powerful figures from the South City.

"I'm the head of the Goldson family, Hunter Goldson."

However, Patrick wagged his finger and said, "Nope, you don't make the cut. Next!"

"I'm the head of the Johnson family, Tommy Johnson."

"Nope!"

After a few rounds, Patrick replied while smirking, "None of you make the cut! Gosh, no one here interests me at all!"

The ten families that arrived were some of the most powerful families in the South City, yet they were still miles behind the Caesar family.

"I'm the head of the Cayman family, Hein Cayman."

Everyone, including Richard and Patrick, was stunned when that name was uttered.

The Caesar family was a quasi-royal clan, but one of the four most powerful families in the South City, the Cayman family, showed up, and they had the power to threaten the Caesar family.

“I’m the head of the Herman family, Draco Herman.”

That name reverberated through the entire hall like a sonic boom.

“I’m the head of the Oliver family, Stanley Oliver.”

Like an atomic bomb, that name blew everyone’s minds!

Three out of the four noble families in South City had arrived!

The Caesar family started to panic at the prospect of facing them and the other ten powerful families.

“Is that enough for you? Am I, Alexander Stark, invited to the party?”

A middle-aged man wielding a staff appeared at that moment.

“Are you the Master of South City’s underworld?” Patrick’s voice started to tremble.

The Caesar family was now officially panicking because they knew how powerful they were!

“Can I join too? The Stone Buddha – Brock Green, reporting for duty!” an orotund voice spoke.

Brock Green had arrived with a hundred experts from the underground boxing scene, some of which were like caged beasts waiting to wreak havoc.

Upon their arrival, the Caesar family's White Army sensed danger in the air.

"Is... the Stone Buddha here too?"

Richard and Patrick were absolutely dumbstruck.

They knew that they couldn't possibly afford to cross Brock because he might be even more powerful than Scott Yates.

That was why the Caesar family was determined to avoid Brock at all costs when they came to the South City to assert their dominance.

He really is here!

This spells nothing but disaster to us!

"Let me introduce three more friends to you!"

With a clap of the hands, three figures appeared behind Brock.

"This is the Beast of Death, who scored 99 victories the Eastern Deathmatches!"

Gasp!

Everyone drew in a sharp breath.

The Protector Chapter 587

All of Richard's troops' expressions darkened instantly when they heard that, so it was obvious that they heard about the vicious reputation of the Beast of Death before.

"Next up, we have the Wolf King, who had 100 consecutive victories in the Eastern Deathmatches!"

The Wolf King emitted a dangerous aura that made a chill run down everyone's spines.

"I know who he is! He came too?" The bodyguards beside Richard were scared out of their wits.

It wasn't an exaggeration to say that the Beast of Death and the Wolf King could deal with a few dozen of them at once.

"Finally, we have Hades, who broke the record of the Eastern Deathmatches by having a total of 188 consecutive deathmatches undefeated."

When Brock said that, the hall went deathly silent.

The Caesar family had been searching for powerful fighters on the local and international scale over the past few years, so they were familiar with internationally famous combatants like Hades.

They received some news a few days ago saying that Hades was hired by someone else with an astronomical price, but they never expected that Brock was the one who hired him.

Hades emanated a cold and murderous aura honed through countless battles when he stepped into the hall.

In his presence, everyone felt their extremities tingling from the cold as a chill permeated their entire body.

Just his presence was enough to intimidate everyone there!

However, it was not unexpected as he was the strongest fighter from the Eastern Deathmatches.

“It... really is him...” Richard’s men started to tremble in fear as they gave Hades a cautious look.

They say that he kills without even blinking his eye!

Even with the help from the eight hundred people from the White Army, he’ll cut through all of us like butter!

It was evident now that the Caesar family didn’t have the home advantage in the South City.

Hades gave Levi a courteous bow before scanning through the Caesar family menacingly.

“Those who want to challenge the Black family must get through me first!”

The Caesar family was shocked when they heard that, and they fell silent afterward.

We really can’t afford to cross him!

The Caesar family was between a rock and a hard place now because they couldn’t attack or retreat.

Even though Richard seemed like he was sitting down calmly on the chair, his fingers were trembling anxiously.

This was the biggest obstacle the Caesar family had ever faced.

Meanwhile, the Black family stared at Levi in disbelief.

How did he even do that?

Even the Zachs family isn't able to ask all the powerful figures in the South City for help!

But now, the all-mighty Brock and Alexander are both here.

And not to mention Hades! Goodness, gracious! That guy intimidated the entire Caesar family with just his presence!

Bailey, Pamela, Meredith, and Robert were all dumbfounded.

Just who the heck is this Levi?

How is he able to ask so many powerful figures for help?

Meanwhile, Abigail and Russell felt an overwhelming sense of pride.

On the other hand, Caitlyn and Aaron could feel the nuances in the atmosphere because the Caesar family seemed more subdued now.

What is Levi's identity actually?

Zoey was, too, curious as she wondered how her husband managed to pull it off.

Does he have a secret identity of some sorts?

The Protector Chapter 588

The piece of news was just like a bolt from the blue to the Caesar family.

Is someone else coming?

Is this just the start of a nightmare?

Timothy's pupils suddenly constricted as he realized something.

He almost fainted at that realization.

Coming to the South City was a very bad decision!

That person is no ordinary man!

The Black family was taken aback as well.

Is someone else coming?

A few more cars arrived shortly, and their license plates indicated that they were powerful figures from the South City.

After that, a group of people dressed in suits rushed towards the main hall of the manor.

Even the White Army standing guard outside the manor was frightened when they saw those people. The guards could tell that from their auras that their power was overwhelming.

Tap tap tap...

Both the Caesar family and the Black family was shocked when they heard the sound of footsteps.

Someone else is here!

When Meredith and Robert saw those people, they almost fainted.

“What? Oh my God!”

The rest of the Black family were astonished beyond belief as well.

The most powerful figures in the South City are all here!

Levi actually managed to accomplish something that Logan and his entire family couldn't?

That's insane!

Richard didn't recognize those people, but he could tell that they weren't the usual next-door neighbors.

Meanwhile, Timothy was absolutely terrified when he saw Stephen, Tim, and the rest.

It's them again? Weren't they at The Abyss that night?

Timothy's body trembled violently out of fear.

We're screwed!

Regardless of how powerful the Caesar family is, we still are no match for them!

“I am Tim Cronan from Quebec. I heard that someone was causing trouble to the Black family, so I decided to see for myself what’s happening.”

Richard and Patrick almost passed out when Tim revealed who he was.

He’s the governor of Quebec!

If he’s here, that means that the people behind him are...

“I am the South City’s mayor, Stephen McKay. Who are you? Why are there so many people outside?”

“I’m the Deputy Leader of Quebec, Woodie Emil.”

“I’m the head of the Police Department, Wright Hector.”

“I’m the Deputy Leader of the South City, Korey Madisen.”

They all introduced themselves one by one and made the Caesar family tremble in fear.

Richard panted heavily as if he was out of breath, and Patrick’s face turned paper white.

Meanwhile, Timothy’s legs gave way as he lost balance and stumbled.

He really asked all of the most powerful figures in the South City for help!

How is it possible for the Caesar family to even match that?

It’s impossible!

The Caesar family was stuck in a very difficult position right now, and they didn't know what to do anymore.

They couldn't afford to cross anyone present in the hall.

Hades is powerful enough to take on our entire army, and Tim has more authority than all of us combined!

We have no leverage at all!

We are so screwed now.

On the other hand, Abigail and Russell gave Levi a gaze of admiration.

They knew that this was only a small taste of Levi's abilities because he was powerful enough to rule the entire world if he got serious.

Similarly, Zoey was very proud too because her husband turned the tables and saved the Black family.

In the meantime, Aaron stood up straight and Caitlyn wiped away her tears as their expressions seemed to say – "As expected of our son-in-law!"

However, Levi wasn't finished yet. He asked, "Are you already afraid now? Don't worry. We still have more to come!"

The Protector Chapter 589

The implications of his words were visible in the shocked expressions of the Caesar family.

What?

Someone else is coming?

Is this not the end yet?

Oh my God!

How can we even handle this?

Thump!

Timothy seemed to have realized something at that moment. In just a split second, his vision blurred as he fainted and fell to the ground.

However, the other members of the Caesar family were busy worrying about their own safety, so they didn't even pay any attention to him.

Meanwhile, outside the Black family's manor.

There were about four hundred of the Caesar family's men standing on guard here to prevent anyone from the Black family from leaving.

Thud! Thud!

Suddenly, the rhythmic pulsing of a marching army was heard amongst the crowd.

The earth trembled between their feet and made everyone dizzy as dust clouds formed in the air.

“Is there an earthquake?”

Everyone’s first thought was that an earthquake was happening.

“No, it’s not an earthquake. I can hear the sound of footsteps!”

“It’s coming closer by the minute!”

As the stomping grew louder, everyone started to panic.

“Look!”

“Oh my God!”

Someone screamed and directed everyone’s attention outside.

They saw squads of fully armed soldiers running towards them from all directions.

There were four columns for each squad from every direction – north, south, east, and west.

“I-I...”

The White Army was scared senseless.

They thought that they would reign victorious in their onslaught today, but that was before the arrival of that platoon!

Everyone noticed that there was something unusual about the uniforms the platoon was wearing; there were some special symbols and certain words on them that were uncommon.

At that moment, their flag-bearer raised a flag that was adorned with a dragon, and everyone was struck with a realization.

“I... I see it now! This is the Dragon Legion from the Iron Brigade under the God of War’s rule!”

“That’s right! I saw them on the news before! They managed to overcome an enemy a few times their size!”

“Oh my God! Is that really the Iron Brigade?”

They watched as the Iron Brigade closed in on them while gaping in shock. It was as if a tsunami was threatening to swallow them whole.

Thump!

Thump!

Everyone kneeled to the ground as they were drenched in cold sweat because of fear.

Once the Dragon Legion got into their formation, Alfie appeared from behind the platoon.

“Charge!”

As soon as his command was given, the Dragon Legion marched onwards from all directions.

The few hundred members of the White Army were caught off guard as they saw nimble figures climbing across the walls.

Before they could react to the sudden attack, they were all subdued in an instant.

It took less than twenty seconds to defeat the few hundred men, and when everyone realized that, they peed their pants out of fear.

What the f*ck is this?

If we had known that the Black family would ask the Iron Brigade for help, we wouldn't have dared to come here!

Meanwhile, the people in the main hall remained blissfully ignorant of the commotion outside because the onslaught happened too quickly.

They couldn't even hear any signs of the few hundred men outside being subdued by the foreign army.

Levi smiled as he counted down with his fingers. "Three, two, one..."

As soon as the countdown ended, a loud rumbling could be heard from outside.

Thump! Thump!

The footsteps of a thousand men made it seem like the earth was a drum as the bass vibrated in everyone's chest.

In the next moment, Alfie barged inside with his soldiers.

When Richard saw that, he grunted in shock and fainted right away.

Right then, the Caesar family had officially suffered an overwhelming defeat.

The Protector Chapter 590

Patrick kneeled on the ground.

Thump!

Thump!

At the same time, the few hundred members of the Caesar family kneeled down as well.

Even the military is here!

We're screwed!

Wait, no!

They are the Iron Brigade, for f*ck's sake!

To the people of Erudia, the Iron Brigade was even more powerful, and their responsibilities were even more sacred than that of the military.

They are the true guardians of our country!

How unlucky can we get...

Meanwhile, Meredith and Robert exchanged a glance and broke into a huge grin because they were overjoyed.

They recognized that from this point onwards, the Black family's standing in the South City was secured, and no one would dare to hurt them anymore.

“Captain Steele, you’re here! The Black family extends our heartfelt thanks to you.”

“I thank you, on behalf of the entire Black family!”

Meredith and Robert cried tears of joy as they almost kneeled in gratitude.

“Haha, no worries! We were marching in the wilderness when we heard that the Black family is in trouble, so we decided to come and check it out.” Alfie smiled and said.

Hearing that, the Caesar family almost lost their minds.

Who are you kidding?

Who even marches when they’re fully armed?

It’s so obvious that they have their targets on us!

At that moment, Russell stepped forward and saluted Alfie. “Captain Steele!”

Alfie patted Russell’s shoulders and chuckled. “I heard about what you did, and I must say that I’m impressed. You defied the Caesar family just to stand up for yourself!”

Russell smiled awkwardly and replied, “I can’t really offer any help, so I need to thank you for lending a helping hand to the Black family!”

Russell then saluted him once again.

The Black family thought that Alfie was just being polite, but later on, they realized that Alfie genuinely admired Russell.

That means Alfie helped us out of respect to Russell!

Maybe they really were just marching, but Russell must've been their driving force to come here nonetheless.

Meredith immediately explained, "Captain Steele, we have misunderstood Russell! We thought that he was just being reckless when he slapped the head of the Caesar family in a fit of rage. But we realize now that he's a very sensible and thoughtful person. Of course, he wasn't scared of the Caesar family because he has the support from a well-respected man like you!"

Robert chimed in. "That's right! Russell, we misunderstood you. You were right all along. The Caesar family can't oppress us just because they're more powerful than us! We need to stand up for ourselves!"

Meredith bowed down. "Russell, I apologize for slapping you for no legitimate reason!"

"Grandma, um..."

Russell had an awkward expression.

That incident has nothing to do with this, right?

Alfie was dumbfounded as well.

That incident isn't even related to Russell!

What are you even talking about?

Meredith suddenly thought of something.

Russel is now the Deputy Chief, so does that mean that Tim, Stephen, and the rest came just for him?

“Mr. Cronan, Mr. McKay, thank you for helping out the Black family! Please take care of Russell too!” Meredith smiled and said.

Robert grinned too. “Mr. Cronan, Mr. McKay, you must’ve come here for Russell’s sake, and it seems like you value him a lot. We will teach him well and make sure he doesn’t disappoint you!”

Bailey was on the verge of tears as well. “Russell really is the hope of the Black family! All the powerful figures in the South City came just for him!”

“Russell really is amazing! All the leaders came just for his sake!”

“Russell is so cool! No wonder he slapped the head of the Caesar family, yet he still seemed unfazed; who knew that he had it all planned out!”

The Protector Chapter 591

However, the South City's leaders' expressions darkened when they heard that.

Tim, Stephen, and the other leaders were rendered speechless.

What's happening here?

Didn't we come because the God of War asked us to?

What does that have to do with that Russell guy?

We don't even know him, so naturally, we wouldn't offer him any help!

What is the Black family even thinking?

They must've misunderstood something.

As the Black family expressed their gratitude, Tim and the rest looked embarrassed.

They stared at Levi, and he just nodded understandingly.

At that, Tim declared, "That's right! I admire Russell a lot, and the Black family represents excellence in the South City by contributing to society tirelessly. I definitely felt the need to step up when you are in trouble!"

Stephen chimed in. "Well said. Russell really is an amazing young man! We like him a lot!"

After they sung their praises, Russell blushed furiously out of embarrassment.

I didn't even do anything, but my family keeps thinking otherwise!

He snuck a look at Levi and saw that Levi didn't seem to be angry, so he breathed a sigh of relief.

On the other hand, the Black family was excited beyond belief.

Firstly, the Caesar family's onslaught is successfully thwarted.

Secondly, all the powerful figures are praising our boy, Russell!

This is such a blessing to the Black family!

"Long live the Black family! With Russell here, the Black family will stand tall for years to come! I now formally declare Russell as the next head of the family!"

Right then and there, Meredith appointed Russell as the new head of the Black family in front of everyone without any regard for Bailey and the rest.

Even so, Bailey and the rest didn't complain about it.

With Russell's capabilities, he will bring the Black family to greater heights, and we'll all benefit from that.

"Mr. Cronan, what do you think about that?" Meredith asked.

Tim smiled and replied, "That works! He's competent enough to take on that role!"

The Black family cheered excitedly, but Caitlyn and Aaron couldn't bring themselves to feel happy about it.

They only managed to stand up for themselves when Hades and Tim arrived, both of whom had intimidated the Caesar family.

Naturally, they thought that Levi was the one who planned this, so a sense of pride overwhelmed them as they wanted to brag about their son-in-law to everyone.

However, in the end, Levi had nothing to do with it, and instead, Russell was the one who took the credit.

It was only natural they couldn't accept that "fact".

Levi came in and turned the tide of battle, but in the end, it had nothing to do with him!

I-I don't know what to say about this...

Zoey felt the same way as them.

She thought that Levi led them all to victory, but the credit was forcefully snatched away from him.

Meanwhile, Abigail couldn't take it anymore.

Levi was the mastermind behind this! Russell had nothing to do with it!

"Grandma, Levi was the one who called them. Undeniably, Russell deserves some credit, but Levi should be the one recognized for it," Abigail said to everyone in a huff and shocked everyone.

It did seem like Levi was the one calling the shots back then.

In hindsight, Russell had nothing to do with it...

Bailey retorted out of displeasure, "Abigail, what are you talking about? Mr. Cronan and Mr. McKay admitted that they came for Russell's sake, so what does it have to do with Levi?"

Abigail snickered. “Uncle, tell me then, why did Levi make the call earlier?”

The Protector Chapter 592

Bailey smiled and said, “The answer is simple! Since Russell is unwilling to show off, I attributed everything to Levi’s efforts. Can’t you tell?”

“Yes, that’s right! Given how Russell normally keeps a low profile, he’ll definitely not be interested in something so showy. Leaving to Levi was only natural.”

Meredith and Robert nodded in agreement before responding with, “That’s right, Abigail. Russell is normally quite circumspect, so he just let Levi have the limelight this time.”

Everyone else murmured in agreement.

“You guys!” exclaimed Abigail in exasperation. She was pissed off as this was obviously Levi’s doing.

However, not only did the Black family refuse all good intentions, but they also even insisted that Russell did this while deliberately letting Levi take the limelight.

“Do you have any idea...” retorted Abigail, but before she could complete her sentence, she was interrupted by Levi. “Abigail, let it go. It doesn’t matter who did it,” he said before continuing. “The Black family crisis has been averted, and we should now focus on the Caesar family.”

Hearing Levi’s reminder, everyone bristled. The Caesar family was their main concern, after all.

“What?” stammered Patrick. Now that all eyes were on him, he was afraid.

“You may set foot in South City, but don’t think of getting away so easily,” responded Levi with a smile.

“Yes, that’s right,” piped Alfie. “Nobody will let you!”

“I... I... I’m leaving it all up to you!” stammered Patrick once more. He lay on the ground and dared not lift his head.

“I’ve heard that the Caesar family wishes to contribute to the development of South City? How about this then – give us half of your family fortune to be invested in the city’s growth!”

“What?” There was a collective roar of disbelief from the Caesar family the moment Levi uttered those words. They looked at him like he was crazy.

Half of the family fortune? Were they trying to ruin the Caesar family?

“Don’t worry. I’m not done yet. I did say it was easy to come here but hard to leave, no? If you want to leave, we want ten million each in payment. Surely this is reasonable?” Levi smirked as he uttered this.

“What? One million per person?” Patrick balked at the figure, feeling like his eyes were about to pop.

There were nine hundred people in total, which added up to ten million each. It was a whopping nine billion!

Yet, Levi was far from done. “Wait, there’s even more! The Black family had suffered a lot of mental distress. Let’s put that to about one billion then!”

Patrick huffed, feeling his blood boil.

Ten billion and half of the family fortune, they might as well ask for our lives!

“By the way, couldn’t you at least bring some gifts to South City for charity? I hear that some projects could use your help, so why don’t you take up some of those?”

Levi smiled again, after saying his piece.

Patrick felt like his soul was about to leave his body out of anger. This is preposterous!

A few of Tim Cronan's associates responded immediately, saying, "That's right! There are seven of such projects, and they're short of about seven hundred million!"

Smiling still, Levi said, "This amount shouldn't be of any trouble to you, right?"

"N-no, it's no problem," replied Patrick, stuttering. Right now, he truly wished to die.

In this dispute, the Black family emerged victorious, while the Caesar family suffered a crushing defeat.

This was a massive blow to the Caesar family.

"My word, look at your son-in-law in action! It's like he's truly in charge here," came Pamela's disdainful remark, directed at Caitlyn.

"Yes, this was clearly Russell's decision, so why is Levi showing off here?"

"Isn't it so? He's here pushing his luck, so I'm really not used to seeing this!"

"He has his uses, I guess. If Russell had solved it, he probably wouldn't have even raised the issue of mental distress and that hefty sum. Only Levi would be that shameless!"

The Black family ridiculed him, one after the other. However, since Levi did have his merits, they did not give him that much flack.

After everyone left, Meredith and Robert embraced Russell. “Oh Russell,” they cried, “you truly are the greatest pride of the Black family!”

The Protector Chapter 593

The two cried with joy, and shed tears of happiness.

“Our family is so lucky to have someone like Russell!”

Everyone looked at Russell with adoration and admiration.

From today onwards, Russell became the most important member of the Black family. He would be the cornerstone of the Black family’s development in the future.

Meredith directed her gaze at Levi and remarked, “Well, you deserve some credit as well since you were at the forefront with Russell.”

Of course, some credit had to be given to Russell’s upstanding character. He was approachable and treated everyone in the family justly. Even though we saw you as just average, Levi, Russell convinced us to treat you well and value your presence, she thought.

“In the future, Levi, you should learn more from Russell. He was very optimistic about having you around. Follow him, and you’ll turn out fine.”

While she was obviously praising some of Levi’s merits, it became mostly praise for Russell as well.

Meanwhile, Russell felt embarrassed and lowered his head. He had not dared to look at Levi.

His fists were tightly clenched, and he secretly wished the ground would swallow him whole.

Even Abigail felt slightly ashamed.

Russell was being praised to high heaven, but only if they knew he had nothing to do with it.

Meredith then turned to address both Caitlyn and Aaron. "I know you have been wronged in the last few days," she said, "but Russell values the both of you. You can always call on the Black family if you need us in the future."

"Thank you, Mom and Dad!" replied Caitlyn and Aaron.

"If you want to thank someone, thank Russell," said Meredith haughtily.

With that, Aaron and Caitlyn made their way to Russell, thanking their nephew profusely.

"Aunt, Uncle, really, there's no need," said Russell, putting a stop to the display immediately.

If he made Levi angry, there would be hell to pay.

Just then, a car drove into the compound.

Logan and Jennie had arrived.

Earlier, when the Black family was facing trouble, they disappeared without a trace. But when the problem had been resolved, they appeared out of nowhere.

"Remember that issue involving Grandpa and Grandma? I summoned all those important people! My father and the rest had to plead with them so hard before they relented!" said Logan, without any shame.

"Huh? That was you?" Meredith was stunned.

“Wasn’t it Russell?” Murmurs came from everyone in the room.

Russell immediately jumped in and clarified, saying, “That really had nothing to do with me!”

“You heard him!” replied Logan smugly.

Meredith tried to recall the earlier scene. True enough, when she brought up Russell to Cronan and the others, something was odd about the way they looked.

How embarrassing!

Come to think of it, it was not because of Russell.

Except for the Zachs family, who had a political background, nobody could have convinced these other bigwigs to act.

“Oh Logan, you truly were a savior at our most dire moments!” exclaimed Meredith as she hugged Logan.

The others also thanked Logan, eyeing him enviously.

Oh, to have had such power!

Logan felt a little embarrassed. “Actually, the credit doesn’t belong to me alone,” he said. “Russell also had a hand in this, from bringing in Captain Steele and everyone else. That’s all his doing!”

Russell was about to protest, but seeing the look in Levi’s eyes, he could only hold his tongue.

However, he and Abigail looked at Logan, feeling upset.

When the Black family was in distress, he kept his distance. Now that the danger had passed, he came to steal the credit.

What the f*ck did this have to do with him at all?

But this was a world where people like these existed. They ignored those in hardship but only showed up to receive the credit when work was done, though obviously not by them.

“Well then, you and Russell are the biggest heroes of the Black family!” said Meridith as she laughed gaily.

The Protector Chapter 594

Logan was enjoying the moment, but Russell was embarrassed.

There was a sharp contrast between the two men.

Suddenly, Logan spotted Levi and could not help but smile. “Levi, you have to have some credit as well!” said Logan. “Were it not for you fighting against the Caesar family, we would not be able to have this show of strength!”

“Yes, if it weren’t for you picking a fight, how would Grandma and Grandpa know that my Logan was so great?” tittered Jennie unabashedly. She decided to capitalize on this as well.

Abigail, on the other hand, could no longer take this.

“I’m not here to rain on anyone’s parade, but what does this have to do with either of you, Jennie and Logan?” questioned Abigail.

If credit were being given to Russell, she could tolerate it. But seeing how Jennie and Russell came to steal all the credit was beyond her capacity to tolerate.

Logan looked unhappy. “Abigail, what is the meaning of this? How is this not related to me?” asked Logan. “Did I not bring in Mr. Cronan and Mr. McKay? Without them, how would this crisis be resolved?”

Jennie also sneered at her, “What do you mean, Abigail?”

“What do I mean? You know exactly what I mean,” Abigail snickered and continued, “Where were you earlier? Are you only here now that the matter is resolved to steal all the credit?”

Abigail had always had a sharp tongue, so she would say whatever needed to be said.

“Abigail, are you implying that the leaders we invited had nothing to do with us?” roared Logan, raising his voice at her.

“Yes, you can’t just make blatant accusations like that, Abigail!” yelled Jennie. “What do you mean by us stealing all the credit?”

The corners of Abigail’s lips were raised in a mocking smile. “Didn’t you say that you invited all the leaders? In that case, why don’t we call them to verify this?”

“Well...” Both Jennie and Logan were taken aback. They both swallowed audibly and had a nervous expression on their faces.

“Alright, Abigail, think about it for a moment. Russell may have been amazing, but Mr. Cronan needn’t have shown up in person. Logan’s father and grandfather fought on the front lines with him, so it must have been no easy feat to ask!”

Meredith’s timely intervention made Jennie and Logan breathe a sigh of relief.

If Abigail had insisted on making that call, they would have been exposed.

But thank goodness Meredith was here.

“Grandma and Grandpa, I’ve booked us a table at the Wonder Hotel to celebrate this victory. Why don’t we all go and make merry?” asked Logan.

Meredith nodded and replied, “Splendid, I was just thinking about it! Who knew you had this arranged already! I’m so pleased that to have both of you in the family – Logan and Jennie. All of you youngsters, learn from this!”

“Yes, especially your son-in-law, Caitlyn. See to it that he learns to be less harsh!”

Abigail snorted coldly.

Meanwhile, Caitlyn and Aaron looked at each other, their expressions dark.

As always, their status in the Black family was still low. They could no longer rely on Levi.

It was up to Zoey now.

In the evening, the Black family arrived at the Wonder Hotel.

At the dinner table, Caitlyn and Aaron practically did not exist.

The two wanted so badly to be acknowledged by the old couple.

Finally, Meredith's gaze fell on Zoey.

"How have you been doing lately?" asked Meredith gently.

Caitlyn knew the opportunity had arrived and was prepared to seize it. "Mother, don't you know how well she's doing? She's the director of the Oriental Star Group. The market value of the company is worth almost five billion! Have you seen the two very popular movies recently? The ones starring Helena?"

"Yes, I know the ones by Helena. Zoey's company produced those movies?"

"Zoey, I love Helena! Can you please help me get an autographed photo?"

Everyone showered envious praise on Zoey.

The Protector Chapter 595

“What? A market value of five billion?” Meredith and Robert were even more surprised.

The Blacks were considered a large family, but their portfolios only added up to about ten billion altogether.

Is Zoey’s net worth going to surpass the Blacks?

“That’s not all, Zoey’s company is also trying to penetrate the electronics market!” Aaron carried on joyfully. “What the upper echelons of North Hampton actually intend is for Morris and Oriental Star to make up for the need in the electronics market. Since the departure of Triple Group, that is. Zoey’s future is potentially limitless!”

She could finally hold her head up high in the Black family.

“That’s great!” remarked Meredith and the others, their eyes fiercely lit.

She immediately gave Zoey recognition. After all, she was also a member of the Black family.

Russell’s foresight was correct after all – it was necessary to treat Zoey’s family a little better.

“Zoey, if you need anything, just let us know! The Black family is your strongest backing!” promised Meredith.

Zoey smiled and said, “Grandpa and Grandma, the company is going to take its business to South City. When that happens, I might have to call in a few favors.”

The distribution of the Morris Group in North Hampton had been completed. Thus, the next step was to enter South City.

Oriental Star Group was the vanguard of this operation!

“Really? That’s wonderful!” Robert and Meredith looked at each other in awe.

If Zoey owned such a large company that was interested in penetrating South City’s market, it would really benefit the Black family.

Unlike the Lopez family, they were not trying to claim Zoey for themselves. What they wanted was a mutually beneficial relationship.

The Black family could support Zoey, and Zoey could support the Black family in return.

“Don’t worry, Zoey! Rest assured, when you come to South City, we will pave the way for you. Russell will be able to quell other troubles in your path as well. Since Logan is with the Ministry of Commerce, he will be able to help you. Your sister is also the vice president of the New Alliance Bank. Many problems can be resolved with ease,” promised Meredith.

“Thank you very much, everyone.”

Initially, Zoey was worried about how the subject matter should be broached.

But now, it was much better since Meredith took the initiative to propose.

“Come on, let me propose a toast to our double happiness – The Black family is no longer in distress, and Zoey will be expanding to South City! “

Robert raised his glass.

After finishing a glass, Levi turned to Zoey and said, "You're coming here to grow, so who would dare stop you? I doubt you need anyone's help."

Levi desperately wanted to protect Zoey, so he felt that they didn't need anyone else.

Bailey, who happened to overhear this, sneered, "What's this? Dismissing the Black family's help?"

"What's going on?" inquired Meredith.

"Mom and Dad, Levi just said he didn't need our help," remarked Bailey as he gave Levi a cold stare.

Aaron and Caitlyn's expressions shifted immediately. It was not easy to get the Black family to help Zoey.

Was this supposed to be bad? On what grounds did he have to refuse their help?

Meredith and Robert looked at Levi unhappily. "You said that?"

"Yes, I did. My wife does not need any help because she is perfectly capable. If you need help from Zoey, just say so. But we don't need your assistance," answered Levi in all seriousness.

As he said this, Caitlyn and Robert huffed. They were seething with anger.

Meredith and Robert's expressions had turned dark.

What is the meaning of this? Are you looking down on us? Are you implying that we, the Black family, need to curry favor with Zoey instead?

There was a loud bang. It was Meredith who slammed her fist on the table, shocking everyone.

The Protector Chapter 596

Meredith hissed. Immediately, silence befell the room.

Everyone was frightened and dared not even breathe.

Right then, Meredith did not stop the barrage of questions she had for Levi.

“What does Zoey’s company have to do with you? Are you in any position to decide for her? You really think you’re all that, don’t you?”

Others had also chimed in angrily, “Yes, she owns the company. How does that concern you? What charade are you trying to pull here?”

“You’re obviously underqualified here, so shut the hell up. At best, you’re a kept man!”

Levi’s words had drawn the Black family’s ire.

Zoey, hearing the commotion, tried to pour oil over troubled waters. “Alright, Grandma and Grandpa. Don’t mind him,” she soothed. “He meant well and just did not wish to trouble you, that’s all.”

Meredith stopped but retorted sarcastically, “Well, I’m sure he thinks that way!”

Logan then looked at Levi and smirked, “Have you ever considered how unworthy you are of Zoey?”

Jennie echoed her husband’s words immediately, “That’s right! Zoey’s company has a market value of five billion and is backed by the Morris Group! What do you have?”

“Yeah, it’s obvious! In the Black family, the both of you are not equal in status!”

The dinner was very unpleasant, with Meredith looking sour the entire time.

“Zoey, stay for a moment, alone. I have something to ask you,” said Meredith.

After the event, Zoey went up to Meredith alone, nervously. “What’s wrong, grandma?”

“Zoey, I have a personal question to ask,” said Meredith, as she gently stroked Zoey’s hair.

“Oh? What is it?” replied Zoey, puzzled.

“All this time, have you not planned to have kids with Levi?” queried Meredith.

Upon hearing the question, a hint of bashfulness flitted across Zoey’s features. “Not yet, grandma. For now, we’re focusing on our careers.”

“No, I think you’ve misunderstood. I’m asking you in all honesty – have you slept with Levi yet?” asked Meredith again, more directly this time.

“W-what?” stammered Zoey. She was stunned, and her face was a deep shade of red.

Out of everyone, she did not expect her grandmother to ask such questions.

“Be honest. What is the situation like between the both of you?” questioned Meredith.

Zoey felt her breath quicken.

“Grandma, he hasn’t touched me yet,” came Zoey’s truthful answer.

“Alright, I understand,” nodded Meredith.

After Zoey left, Meredith summoned Robert, Bailey, and some of the others.

“I just found out Zoey and Levi are only man and wife in name but are neither in reality,” said Meredith.

“Mom, you can’t possibly mean that...” Bailey trailed off. Everyone understood what she meant.

“Yes, that’s right! I want them to divorce and for Zoey to remarry!” exclaimed Meredith truthfully.

Bailey, Pamela, and everyone else present raised their hands in agreement.

“They should have divorced ages ago. Levi is obviously unworthy of Zoey! What a joke!”

“Yeah, we don’t like Levi. He’s incompetent and has a fiery temper!”

Meredith nodded and continued, “Well, I don’t like him either. Before this, I couldn’t interfere because she wasn’t a member of the family. But things are different now. She’s an important part of the Black family, and I can’t let this slide. She needs to divorce him, and I will find her suitable in-laws!”

“Yes, Zoey is growing as a person, and Levi will only hold her back,” echoed Robert.

“How about this? To prove that Zoey is still untouched, you will need to take her to the hospital for a comprehensive check-up tomorrow. I won’t be at ease until I see the report!” ordered Meredith.

The Protector Chapter 597

Meredith was still a bit anxious over what Zoey said.

She needs to go for an examination, only then will I be relieved.

Later on, she could arrange a suitor for Zoey after the report proved her virginity.

That way, the groom's family would not have any concern in regards to this.

"Mom, Dad, there might be a problem," said Pamela hesitantly.

"What would that be?" asked Meredith, looking over at her.

"If you get a divorce, will Levi agree to it?" Pamela asked.

Everyone immediately spoke up, echoing the sentiment. "Levi will definitely not agree! Why would he give her up?"

Robert snickered and retorted, "Who said we need his consent for the divorce? Just hand in the cert after it's done! This matter needn't involve him at all!"

Everyone laughed.

With the reach of the Black family, quietly arranging a divorce was a walk in the park.

Until then, Levi would only realize he was divorced when he received his divorce certificate.

“Mom, shouldn’t we inform Caitlyn and Aaron about this?” asked Jeremy worriedly.

“You can go ahead and bring them here.”

Soon, Aaron and his wife arrived at a complete loss.

Then Meredith filled them in on the details.

When Meredith finished, the couple looked at each other, dumbfounded.

“I’d suggest you listen to me regarding this matter. Soon, Zoey’s net worth will be tens of billions, and Levi will become her weakness. All unsavory incidents like going to prison or bullying her sister-in-law will be exposed. This will destroy Zoey!”

After hearing what Meredith had to say, the couple sighed. They had never considered this problem.

With Zoey’s personal development becoming better and better, her momentum was strong, impeccably so.

Levi, on the other hand, was a ticking time bomb waiting to explode. The one who would be hurt the most was Zoey.

Furthermore, Levi was far from worthy of Zoey.

“Just listen to me,” urged Meredith. “I’ll tell you the truth. Their divorce will be good for Zoey and the Black family. To prove our sincerity, if they divorce, we will immediately invest two billion in Zoey!” said Meredith sincerely.

The couple looked at each other again before deciding. “Alright, mom and dad. We’ll listen to you.”

They could not see the harm in this. Receiving the approval of the Black family and helping Zoey be rid of Levi was something they dared not even think about.

“As for Levi, I will give him a settlement sum,” said Meredith decisively.

The next day, the Black family collectively went to the hospital for Zoey’s examination. Levi attended as well.

By the afternoon, the results were out.

Meredith looked at Zoey’s report with joy.

“The girl was right – Levi had not touched her at all! This is splendid!” she exclaimed with excitement.

“Bailey, arrange for their divorce at once!” urged Meredith.

“I’ve already made the necessary arrangements, Mom and Dad. The Civil Affairs Bureau did not even require the marriage certificate or household registration,” said Bailey gleefully.

“Perfect.”

An hour later, Bailey produced the two divorce certificates.

“Haha, this is wonderful!” Robert and Meredith smiled.

Everyone in the Black family was happy. After all, this was very beneficial to them.

“This matter is finally resolved!” said Caitlyn and Aaron as they collectively breathed a sigh of relief.

But the pair did feel sorry for Levi since he did not perform too badly throughout this period.

After that, Meredith gathered everyone around her.

“Go and bring Levi to me. I have something to announce. But keep Zoey away for now!” ordered Meredith.

She would not announce this in front of Zoey.

The Protector Chapter 598

When Levi arrived at the Black family's foyer, he noticed that something felt off.

"Did you ask for me?" queried Levi.

Meredith and Robert shared a look before announcing, "Yes, to tell you something. You and Zoey are now divorced!"

As soon as the news came out, Levi was stunned.

Abigail and Russell, who did not know of the plot, were also shocked.

What? Divorced? When did this happen?

Levi quickly regained his composure. "I divorced Zoey? That's funny, but how was I unaware of this?" he asked as a matter-of-factly.

With that, Bailey tossed the divorce certificate at Levi.

Levi picked it up and had a look.

There was no doubting the authenticity of the certificate as it was also stamped with an official seal.

This is hilarious. How can the couple involved not know about this?

"It's clear now, right? You and Zoey are divorced, so stop pestering her in the future. She no longer has anything to do with you," said Meredith smugly.

After a while, Levi burst into peal after peal of wild laughter.

Meredith and the others were surprised. What was he laughing at?

Levi held the certificate and snickered, "I have a question to ask. Shouldn't a divorce only occur with the consent of both parties? When was my marriage controlled by other people?"

As he said this, a violent, domineering aura filled the space.

Suddenly, the hall was filled with the sounds of people gasping for air, as if an immense pressure had entered the room.

The air was heavy, in fact, suffocating.

Levi was furious.

Fortunately, he had restraint.

But with his murderous aura, no one in the room would remain unscathed!

Meredith and Robert were both shocked as they were rooted to the ground like corpses, unable to move.

At this moment, they felt like they were in a trance.

For some reason, it was as if they were on the battlefield.

Standing in front of them was an invincible, unchallenged, and furious God of War.

He had the aura of someone who felled thousands of enemy troops alone.

Who dares challenge me? I am the God of War!

“What? Why can’t we decide? You are unworthy of Zoey, so naturally, we had to take charge!” retorted Bailey, squaring up to Levi.

Meredith and Robert eventually came to their senses and responded as well.

“We are Zoey’s elders,” said Meredith. “Who’s to say that we can’t decide for her?”

“Of course, we knew you wouldn’t divorce her, Levi. You wouldn’t leave even if it meant death, so we had to pull a few strings!”

“Divorce or not, we want you gone!”

Pamela and the others also joined in.

In this marriage, Levi was only a tool to be manipulated, with no decision-making power to be held.

“What’s more, Zoey’s parents are here. They consented to this too. If you don’t believe me, go ahead and ask them!”

At the mention of them, Aaron and Caitlyn shifted uncomfortably. After all, what they did was wrong.

Hence, they felt guilty towards Levi.

Upon hearing this, Levi looked at the two of them and sneered, “Mom, Dad, did you both agree to it then?”

The couple looked uneasy and did not dare look Levi in the eye.

However, they did nod and reply, “Yes, we did.”

“Alright then, I know now,” said Levi.

Meredith snickered, “I told you – everyone agrees that you’re both divorced!”

“Yes, you are not good enough for her! Get a divorce now!” echoed the junior members of the Black family.

Abigail and Russell, however, took Levi’s side. “No, we do not agree to this!”

Levi waved a hand and said, “I don’t care for your opinions. The question is, did Zoey agree to this?”

Saying that, Levi surveyed the room and asked, “Where is Zoey?”

The Protector Chapter 599

Meredith shook her head and said, "Let me tell you, Zoey did agree to this! She merely didn't have the heart to tell you. That's why she isn't here right now!"

"Yes, she agreed! How could you get the certificate otherwise?" echoed everyone else.

"No, I refuse to believe this! Tell Zoey to tell me this in person!" yelled Levi, his eyes turning red.

"LEVI GARRISON!" roared Logan. "Don't think for a second that we're unaware of your schemes! You're unwilling to divorce, and you want to beg for her back!"

"Don't even bother coming here to see Zoey!" said Logan firmly.

"Yes, that's right! With us here, don't even think about seeing her!" sneered Meredith.

"Now that the divorce certificate has been issued, and you're fully aware of the situation, leave! And stop being delusional, but Zoey is out of your league!" said Robert mercilessly.

Meredith shot a look, and Pamela stepped forward to present Levi with a check.

"The Black family will not let you divorce in vain, of course. Here is your compensation of ten million!"

Again, Levi was stunned.

Damn, I thought the Lopez family was heartless enough, but the Black family is even worse!

Ten million to buy back his marriage to Zoey? This is complete bullsh*t!

Seeing Levi's expression, Pamela thought he was faking it. "Stop pretending and take it!" she urged. "Ten million is enough to last you a lifetime!"

Abruptly, Pamela stuffed the check into Levi's hand.

The onlookers laughed, seeing how Levi accepted the check.

He was a plebeian, for sure. Ten million was enough to win him over.

"I told you he wasn't worthy of Zoey!" sneered Logan.

Abigail and Russell watched the scene unfurling in front of them, completely dumbfounded.

What was the Black family thinking, letting Levi divorce Zoey?

Did they not know what they've missed? Did they also have no brains?

Levi, who did so much for them, and yet they did not notice anything at all?

Without him, the Black family could've been destroyed!

Why were they all so confused?

Abigail and Russell were both so anxious they could cry.

They're all idiots!

“Hurry up and leave already! Don’t even think of setting foot beyond these doors!” urged Logan.

Levi snickered and replied, “Very well.”

With that, he turned around and left.

“Wait, Levi! Don’t go!” Abigail and Russell tried to chase after him, but they were stopped.

“Don’t you dare!”

Pamela and Jennie laughed. “Here I was, thinking that this kid had something in him! I didn’t expect him to just take the check and leave!”

“Indeed. I was expecting him to tear up the check,” said Logan scornfully. “Who knew he would be that spineless!”

“Can you blame him? It’s ten million! How could he possibly give up that sum?”

Laughter was heard coming from the Black family.

Their impression of Levi had truly hit rock bottom.

Unbeknownst to them, however, Levi threw the check into a nearby bin after he left the residence.

Did they think he would be swayed by money?

This scene was discovered by a servant of the family, who quietly ran forward and fished out the check from the bin.

In the foyer, Abigail was questioning Meredith. “Grandma, Grandpa, does Zoey know about all this?”

Meredith smiled and replied, "It wouldn't matter even if she did. Levi had already taken his copy of the certificate."

"You have to ask for Zoey's consent at least," cried Abigail, close to tears.

"By the way, Abigail, you are forbidden from telling Zoey about this for now. I'll tell her later!" asserted Meredith.

In the meantime, Russell was already sneaking away.

"No, Zoey must know about this," he muttered and ran off to tell Zoey.

The Protector Chapter 600

At this time, Zoey had already started working.

She was making preparations for Oriental Star's entry into South City.

Little did she know that all these happened in that short amount of time.

Now, the Black family would have everything sorted out for her. She would never be allowed to leave, let alone see Levi.

There were ten people guarding the door.

The moment they saw Russell heading towards them, they held him back.

"Get out of my way. I want to see Zoey!" said Russell coldly.

Having noticed that it was Russell Black, they had no choice but to let him in.

"Russell, why are you here?"

Zoey looked up and saw Russell standing there. She could not help but be surprised.

"Zoey, something terrible happened!" said Russell urgently. "Grandpa and Grandma went through divorce proceedings for you and Levi!"

Russell recounted all that happened in her absence.

The news struck Zoey like a bolt from the blue.

“What? I divorced Levi? How did I not know of this?”

Zoey slumped to the ground.

She then understood why Meredith had asked her such personal questions and even asked her to go for an examination at the hospital.

“Now they have notified Levi and driven him away,” announced Russell.

Zoey shook her head, “Impossible! As long as I don’t consent, there is no divorce!”

“Zoey, while it is true that this is your marriage, but after you’re married, your families become a part of the deal,” said Russell helplessly. “Their opinions hold equal weight, unfortunately. Plus, I think Levi is very upset.”

Zoey burst into tears as she could only think about how sad Levi would be right now.

“No! I wanna find Levi!” cried Zoey.

“Okay, I’ll take you!”

With that, Russell successfully whisked her away.

Zoey managed to reach Levi on his phone. Upon seeing him, she rushed into his arms, crying bitterly.

“Why did you agree? This is between the both of us. What does it have to do with them?” asked Zoey, choking back tears.

Levi stroked her hair in silence.

“I’m sorry! My family keeps hurting you again and again. I’m truly sorry!”

Zoey was even apologizing to him.

Levi smiled and replied, "It's alright. Knowing that you care about me is enough!"

"Then why did you agree to a divorce and even took the certificate with you? We'll remarry right away! I'll get rid of this right now," said Zoey, ripping the certificate apart.

Levi smiled meaningfully, "Do you remember when I said I wanted to reorganize a wedding ceremony for you?"

"Of course, I remember. I never forgot!" said Zoey tearfully.

"Well, it just so happen that now, I can court you again. And then we can get married again!" replied Levi with a grin.

Immediately, Zoey understood why he left.

He wanted to marry her all over again, to follow through on that promise he made her.

Zoey wiped away her tears. "Well, you can court me again, but promise me you won't go after other women!"

Zoey loved Levi very much. She already loved him then, but it would only grow deeper now.

Even if Levi could not bear the brunt of her love, she had made her choice.

What she chose was for a lifetime, and nobody could stop them!

"I promise! That wedding will tell everyone that you are the most beautiful woman in the world!" exclaimed Levi, hugging her.

Seeing this scene, Russell smiled. The Black family could still be salvaged.

Just then, the sound of screeching tires was heard as cars stopped in front of them, one by one.

“LEVI GARRISON! What are you doing, still pestering Zoey?” roared Logan.

In mere seconds, the Black family members rushed out of the cars in rapid succession.

The Protector Chapter 601

Meredith pulled Levi away from Zoey.

“Since both of you know the truth, then I will be straightforward. Zoey, from now on, you will treat Levi as nothing more than a stranger. Understand?” Meredith ordered sternly.

Zoey nodded obediently. “Understood.”

Her face was still full of smiles.

Everyone was confused.

Is it so easy to talk Zoey into something?

Or perhaps she’s always wanted to divorce Levi?

“Levi, let me warn you. If you ever harass Zoey again, I’ll skin you alive!” Logan threatened Levi in a menacing tone.

Both Caitlyn and Aaron exclaimed, “Since you’ve accepted the ten million, you must do as we say and leave Zoey alone from now on.”

Levi sneered, “Why must I stay away from Zoey? I have returned the money to you!”

“Bah! Don’t lie to us! Since when have you returned the money to us, huh? What nonsense!”

The Blacks were now boiling in rage, as they have seen clearly with their own eyes that Levi had the check in his hand earlier.

How dare he say he's returned the money to us?

This kid really is full of lies!

"Okay, why don't you tell us who have you returned the money to?"

Everyone in the Black family was now glaring at Levi questioningly.

"I've thrown it into the trash can on the right side of the manor's gates."

With that said, Levi left the place.

Everyone at the scene hurriedly returned to the Black family's manor.

Once they got off the car, they immediately rushed to the trash can Levi mentioned earlier.

"Someone come and empty the trash can for us!" Logan ordered anxiously.

A few servants showed up at once and poured the contents of the trash can onto the ground.

With his nose pinched, Logan rummaged through the trash scattered on the ground for the ten-million cheque.

After half an hour of digging and poking around, Logan still did not manage to find the cheque.

Quintus and Keane also joined the search, but to no avail.

“That brat must have lied to us!” Logan howled in rage.

Zoey commented in a hurry, “That’s not possible! If Levi said the cheque is in the trash, then it must be in the trash!”

She didn’t believe that Levi would lie just to get his hands on the ten million the Black family had offered him.

“Zoey, you just can’t accept the truth that he lied, right?”

“Let’s search the other trash cans!” Logan sniggered.

With the servants’ help, the Blacks dug into the other trash cans, but they still could not locate it after much hustle.

“It’s not possible! It must be in one of the trash cans around the house! Someone must have gotten ahold of the cheque!”

Zoey was starting to feel panicky.

I can’t let Levi take the blame here!

I won’t allow that to happen!

In the first place, the Black family was the one who bullied Levi.

If the same thing happened again, Zoey would not forgive herself.

“Why don’t you ask around? Perhaps someone picked it up from the trash can!”

Zoey was panicking.

Meredith ordered all the servants to gather in front of her and bellowed at them, “Did anyone see a cheque lying around? The lot of you better be honest! If I catch any of you holding on to the cheque, the punishment will be severe!”

Nonetheless, all of the servants shook their heads. “We didn’t see anything at all!”

“Also, if we find anything valuable, we’ll definitely report it to you!”

However, one of the servants had a streak of fear in his eyes.

He clenched onto the side of his shirt with his sweaty palms, but no one noticed.

Boom!

Zoey’s mind went blank.

Is this how things will turn out?

Levi will be framed for something he hasn’t done again?

Logan snickered, “What do you have to say now, Zoey?”

“How could Levi pass up so much money? Perhaps he already knows the two of you are not fated to be with each other, so why not take the cheque? That way, he could at least gain something out of this whole drama? “

Jennie also jeered at Zoey, “That’s right, Zoey. I think he doesn’t even love you at all! If he really loves you, then he would have torn the cheque right in our faces!”

“How dare that rascal cheat us! No, I can’t let him get away with this!”

Meredith’s blood was boiling.

“I need an explanation from him!”

The Protector Chapter 602

Robert shook his head profusely. "It's alright. We can leave him alone now. He's nothing to do with our family anymore! Just let him be!"

"Yeah, Grandma! Just don't mess with him anymore! Who knows, he might have other tricks up his sleeves?"

It took all the Blacks to convince Meredith that it was not worth her time to hound Levi down.

Meredith then exclaimed to Zoey, "Although it costs us ten million, I think it's all worth it now that you've seen his true colors."

"No, Grandma! Levi's a good person, believe me!"

Zoey had complete faith in Levi when he said he threw the cheque into the trash can at the Back family's residence.

There was a high chance that someone had seen it and picked it up.

Right now, Zoey wanted nothing but to prove that Levi was innocent.

Robert added, "My dear, that man has nothing to do with us from now on. Whether if he's a good person or not, we don't care."

"Yeah, it doesn't matter to us anymore whether he lie!"

The rest of the Blacks also chimed in.

Even though everyone in the Black family said they could not care more about Levi, Zoey knew they would bring the incident up from time to time to shame him in the days to come.

Alas, there was nothing she could do.

Now that Zoey was officially out of her marriage, Meredith wanted to set her up with another man right away.

With Zoey's current achievements and the powerful Black family at her back, she would be a woman sought after by many.

"The two of you just relax. I will definitely find Zoey a husband that stands out from the rest. You two just have to wait and watch her walk down the aisle!"

Having heard Meredith's words, Caitlyn and Aaron could now picture in their head their daughter's wedding and how they would be all tearful yet excited for her.

Once again, Meredith called for a meeting with the rest of the family.

"Zoey, you remember how Grandpa and Grandma promised you to invest two billion into your company if you part ways with Levi? Now that you have broken off from him, we will honor our promise!" Meredith proclaimed to the family.

Zoey was surprised. "Really, Grandma? That's so awesome!"

"You still have any problems on your side? Tell us," Meredith asked her granddaughter in a caring tone.

Zoey paused to think for a while before replying, "Grandma, I'm afraid I do have a problem."

"Just tell me, my dear."

“We’re about to enter the electronics market in the South City, but my company still doesn’t have a suitable place for our office. Also, we still lack production centers and our technical team is underdeveloped,” Zoey hurriedly added.

“That’s simple! I’ll settle it for you.”

Logan let out a hearty laugh.

Zoey’s problem was a piece of cake to Logan.

“Logan, I don’t think things are simple at all. Morris Group has already handed to us all of its e-commerce business. As of this moment, our target is Triple Group before they pulled out of the market. I think it’s a bit too much for us. Our initial target is set at around fifty billion.”

Gasp!

Everyone in the room took a sharp breath.

Their initial target is fifty billion?

How is that even attainable?

It’s true that the two billion Meredith had promised Zoey was already a hefty sum.

But in comparison to Zoey’s current target of fifty billion, it was a speck of dust.

“This is what I’m worried about. Morris Group said that they will provide us with the funding, but we still haven’t settled the logistics and manpower. I really have to own everything that Triple Group had before I could embark on my mission.”

Zoey had a gloomy expression on her face.

This mission is impossible!

The affluent families in South City have already laid their claims on parts of Triple Group's old playground!

Zoey had no idea on how to reach her target.

Robert queried in an astonished tone, "Zoey, you mean we have to reclaim every property of Triple Group?"

"Yep, that's right! And let's not talk about the issues with finding an office. The demand for electronics in South City can only be met if we have Triple Group's enormous production capacity! Everything they owned was bundled together, which made it cost-effective for them to operate on such a large scale."

Zoey's words left everyone in the room speechless.

Everyone knew that in the previous feud between all the great families in South City, Triple Group's properties were split up into many fragments, each of which was now under a different family.

They also knew that the Black family did not have enough power to reclaim everything.

The Protector Chapter 603

Out of puzzlement, Pamela questioned Zoey, “Zoey, Morris Group really have such high hopes for you?”

“Pamela, I have no idea why Morris Group sees me as their superstar too! This task is insurmountable!”

Zoey herself was flummoxed.

She could understand if Iris were trying to help her out.

But there was no reason for the head of Morris Group to have so much faith in her capabilities.

Why? I just can't find an answer to it!

Pamela now viewed Zoey in a different light.

She was a Rogers, and naturally, she knew that the Rogers family was the most influential family in North Hampton.

However, it was Morris Group that bestowed that much power upon the Rogers family.

Thus, she knew better than anyone in the room that Morris Group was indeed a force not to be reckoned with.

“Mom, Dad, Zoey's net worth is sure going to boom in the future! Morris Group holds her with so much regard. Mark my words, she can easily become a billionaire in the future!” Pamela uttered matter-of-factly.

“A billionaire? Gasp!”

Even Meredith and Robert both had their jaws dropped to the ground.

If Zoey were really that terrific, the Black family could emerge as one of the noble families in South City.

“Since Zoey is the rising star in Morris Group, we have to help her tackle her problems at all costs!” Meredith declared to everyone.

“With that said, I need all of you to pull whatever strings you can to aid Zoey in her conquest to reclaim Triple Group’s markets,” Robert chimed in.

If Logan and Russell were the guardians of the Black family, then Zoey was the fertilizer of their growth.

Her success was crucial in determining the future of the Black family. If she managed to come through, the Black family would be geared up to climb onto the upper echelons in South City.

As such, Zoey’s mission was also the Black family’s mission.

After a lengthy discussion, they split off to negotiate with the other prominent families in South City about renting their production facilities and offices.

Jennie and Logan came to the house of the Oliver family, one of the four noble families in South City.

The head of the family, Mark Oliver, welcomed the two of them into their manor.

“Sir Oliver, I shall cut to the chase. The Black family would like to rent three of the office buildings originally under Triple Group. We are willing to pay you handsomely for it, so please, just give us a number!” Logan said with a deferential smile.

“Bah! The Black family has no right to make use of our assets! Please leave!” Mark sneered with derision.

Right away, Logan and Jennie were ushered out of the house.

The two of them then visited the Cayman family and the Herman family, but were also turned down by them.

Back at the Black family, the air around the place was heavy and suffocating.

Everyone was down in the dumps.

Literally, all of them were turned down in their attempts to request favors from the prominent families in the South City.

Right now, they had no means to tackle the current issue they had at hand.

Zoey could only sigh when she received the unfortunate news her family members brought home.

“Zoey, I’m afraid you’ll have to take the matters into your own hands. Still, do not let your spirits be dampened, everyone! At least, we have successfully pried Levi away from Zoey. Now that he is not around her anymore, Zoey can soar high without any burden tying her down!” Meredith exclaimed gladly.

At that moment, Levi was contacting the Rogers family of North Hampton on the phone.

“I need you guys to start on the construction of the Royal Villa as soon as possible. It will be my future home. I will send you the blueprints right away!”

Six years ago, Levi designed and built a mansion for his future family, but it was demolished as he did not want anyone to tarnish his home before his family could move in there.

Right now, Levi was trying to have the Royal Villa rebuilt so that Zoey's wish could be granted.

From now on, he would devote all of himself to the preparations for a wedding of the century.

"You want me to stay away from Zoey? Over my dead body!"

Levi's lips curled up into a wicked smile.

At the Morris Group's office in North Hampton.

Iris Isabelle received orders from her boss to send a team to South City to assist the Oriental Star Group in making a head start in the markets over there.

In the name list of the people to be dispatched, Levi was included.

He was responsible for the team's safety on this mission.

The office, the production factories, as well as the research center of Triple Group were recovered at an earlier date. All of them were ready to start operations anytime now.

The team only had to show up and get the production line moving.

Their current objective was to fill in the gap that Triple Group left behind.

The Protector Chapter 604

For the past two days, Zoey was flustered because of two things.

First, she had to settle her divorce papers with Levi.

Second, her work was haunting her in her dreams every night.

The Morris Group handed the mission to her in hopes that she would perform well, but Zoey made little progress.

She was so stressed that her nights were sleepless.

Little did she know, the Black family was aware of the state she was in.

Late in the night, Meredith and Robert were pacing in their house.

They seemed to be more anxious than Zoey herself.

After all, Zoey's mission would rule the future of the Black family.

"What should we do?"

Even Logan was sighing.

"We have already tried everything we could. The issue at hand is that the Black family does not have the power to request anything from the noble families whatsoever," Bailey spoke in disappointment.

Zoey also sighed, “If we are already at the end of our wits, how about I just turn in the mission for someone else at Morris Group to take over? It’s indeed a difficult task that I don’t think we can conquer.”

“No!”

Zoey’s decision received the disapproval of everyone in the Black family.

“Where can we ever find such a good opportunity again? How can we just give up?”

“That’s right! Zoey, you must complete the mission at all costs!”

“We’ll help you with any obstacles you face on your way!”

The Black family was in an upheaval.

“We can surely find a way ourselves to secure us an office, but as for the production factories and the research center as well as the equipment required, we will have to beg for it! I volunteer myself!” Robert uttered determinedly.

The research center was the centerpiece of Triple Group’s operations. Now, it was in the possession of Brock Green.

Brock was a smart and insightful person.

Even though he wasn’t producing any electronics himself, he knew to get his hands on Triple Group’s research center ahead of all of his competitors.

He even recruited the original researchers at that particular research center at the first chance he got.

He knew the research center would be most valuable in the future. By then, many would be dying to have it.

His goal was actually very simple. He wanted to sell it at a sky-high price and earn a lot from it.

As of this moment, he had been visited by over twenty prospect buyers of the research center.

He was just waiting for someone to show up with the highest price.

He was dead certain that he could profit at least five billion from the research center.

However, Brock suddenly received an order from the God of War to surrender the research center unconditionally.

Without any hesitation, he transferred both the research center and his priced team of researchers to the God of War right away.

“The Black family has split Zoey and Levi up. How foolish they are!”

Brock’s subordinate informed Brock of Zoey and Levi’s divorce.

“What?”

Brock leaped to his feet.

“Are they crazy? They want Zoey to divorce the God of War?”

Brock was beyond shocked. His eyes were almost flying out of his eye sockets.

“Can you believe it? Mr. Garrison was chased out of their household!”

Even Brock’s subordinate was in disbelief.

Brock growled in rage, "The Black family are fools!"

Coincidentally, Robert and Bailey showed up at Brock's doorstep at that instant.

"It's our utmost pleasure to meet you, Stone Buddha!"

Robert greeted Brock in a careful yet servile tone.

However, he noticed there was something wrong with the latter's expression.

It was as if Brock was watching two clowns at the biggest circus in town.

"So you're from the Black family?" Brock replied with a sneer.

Tsk, I really want to see what's inside your head!

Is it full of garbage?

How foolish the bunch of you are for making Zoey break up with Levi! The fact that you even chased him out of your house is even more embarrassing!

Who in the right mind would do any of this?

"We have a request, Stone Buddha."

Robert was on pins and needles

"Alright, just tell me what you're here for."

Brock was straightforward.

"We are here on behalf of the Black family to request your permission to rent the research center in your possession, which once belonged to Triple Group. I believe my son-in-law, Logan Zachs, has paid you a visit before too,” Robert responded politely.

“Oh, about that...”

Brock answered wryly with a smile. But before he could finish, Robert interrupted in a desperate tone.

“The Black family is willing to pay you an annual fee of one billion!”

The Protector Chapter 605

Indeed, Robert Black offered a handsome sum of money.

The Black family was very determined in renting the research center currently under Brock, even if that meant shelling out a large portion of their savings.

The benefit that this transaction would bring them was definitely more than fifty billion.

Brock stroked his chin and laughed. "One billion for a year is indeed quite a lot."

However, his tone changed in a snap. "But who do you think I am? You think one billion is anything to me?"

"No! That was not what we meant!"

Robert was desperately trying to defend himself.

Flop!

He knelt on the ground.

In all sincerity, Robert pleaded, "I beg you, Stone Buddha! Please let us rent the research center! The Black family will forever be indebted to you!"

Brock scoffed disdainfully when he saw Robert on his knees.

What a fool!

Who asked you to chase away Levi?

Pfft! With him around, you can have every research center in the world!

“My, my, I am touched by your sincerity. However, I have bad news for you. Someone has taken away the research center from me. I advise you to forget about it,” Brock said with a straight face.

“What? Someone else has gotten ahead of us?”

Robert’s mind exploded at the unexpected piece of news from Brock.

Crap! We have no hope now!

“Yep, that’s right! Everything once owned by Triple Group is now under another person’s possession. You guys have to accept your fate.”

“What? Someone has taken away everything?”

Robert was dumbfounded.

“C-Could you tell me who’s that person?” Robert inquired with his voice shaking.

“Fine, I’ll let you in on a small tip. This person is so powerful that not a single soul in Quebec would dare to offend him.”

Robert could feel all embers of hope inside his heart stomped out by Brock’s words.

Now that the Black family could not lay their hands on any of Triple Group’s past properties, Zoey’s mission was basically done for.

With her failure to deliver, Morris Group might give up on her.

It’s a 50-billion project! There’s no way Morris Group will allow this project to fail!

I cannot accept this!

This is so unfair!

But what can we do?

Even Brock said that person is dangerous. Will the Black family dare confront that person?

When Robert told his family about the current state of the research center, everyone in the room fell dead silent.

They were in total despair.

The sole reason why the properties of the Triple Group were able to survive until today was because they were collectively well-established as an effective system for product development and production.

If any part of the system were to be replaced, the efficiency would definitely be lowered.

It's time.

To call the time of death on this mission.

Zoey let out a long sigh.

Of course, she was disappointed, as it was her long-awaited chance to shine.

She did not think it would turn out like this.

However, Meredith was even more bummed out than her.

To Zoey, this might be only just a challenge she had failed.

Yet to Meredith, it was a big loss, as the Black family had spent several billions to get things going.

The loss was most probably unrecoverable in the near future.

“Do we really have no other solutions?”

Meredith’s breathing was heavy as she spoke.

“I’m afraid in such a short period of time, we might not find any replacements! This project is too much for us to handle!”

Jennie Black also shook her head helplessly.

Meredith gazed forlornly at the night sky. “Perhaps, the Black family was fated to be ordinary.”

“Alright, Grandpa, Grandma. I will let Morris Group know that I will be getting off this project tomorrow.”

Zoey had totally surrendered to her fate.

It was mission impossible.

No matter how much hard work she put into it, she was bound to fail.

“I failed.”

“Zoey, don’t be sad! You’ll definitely get another chance to prove that you’re capable!”

Meredith consoled her granddaughter.

Regardless of everything, Zoey was still the hope of the Black family.

The Morris Group was not the only channel through which the Black family could prosper.

For instance, Zoey could also marry a powerful man to strengthen the Black family's influence in the South City.

“I can solve this problem if you let me!”

Out of the blue, a familiar voice came from outside.

“Levi Garrison?”

The Protector Chapter 606

Zoey Lopez was stunned for a second before she was overcome with joy.

“Levi is here?”

The next moment, Levi appeared in front of the Black family.

Everyone was flummoxed.

What is he here for?

“Levi Garrison, what’s your purpose in showing up at our household? I don’t think our business is any of yours.”

Logan questioned Levi in an unfriendly tone.

“Yeah! From the moment you left the gates of our manor, you have no right to set foot in this place ever again! Get out of our sight now!”

Everyone in the Black family was spitting threats at Levi.

A few of the Blacks’ security personnel stood in the path of Levi to block him from approaching.

They were just waiting for their master’s order to throw him out.

“What’s up with you now? Are you regretting your actions? Oh, I know! You don’t want a divorce!” Logan snickered in mockery.

“Logan, why are you still wasting your time talking to him? Let’s throw him out now!”

The younger ones in the family were about to chase Levi out when Meredith bellowed, “Hold your horses, people!”

She strode forward and asked Levi, “You said you can help us with our problem?”

“That’s right!” Levi responded with much confidence.

“Do you even know what problem we are facing?”

Meredith wanted to test Levi’s knowledge of their situation.

Levi grinned perfunctorily. “What problem are you facing? Pfft! Doesn’t your problem only concern Zoey? Anyway, I know you guys are trying to get your hands on the production system left behind by Triple Group.”

“Huh?”

Everyone was again shocked, as they had no idea that Levi would know.

“Are you sure you can solve it?”

Meredith followed on with another question.

“Of course I can!”

“Hehehe!”

Logan broke up into a scornful fit of laughter. “Levi, do you really take us for fools? Perhaps you don’t know about it, but the news has it that Triple Group is now taken over by a powerful mogul!”

Levi nodded. "Yeah, you're right. In fact, you're looking at that mogul now."

"Pfft!"

"Hahahaha!"

In an instant, everyone in the Black family was laughing uncontrollably.

They stared at Levi as if he were the dumbest person to have ever lived on this planet.

"Levi, you are actually nuts!"

"Do you think we will buy your nonsense?"

However, Levi had no time for them.

He went straight to Zoey and told her, "There's nothing to worry about now. I've already settled everything for you."

Zoey smiled beautifully in response.

She still had total faith in Levi.

"Alright, then I will see you first thing tomorrow morning. By then, everything should be settled."

Having said what he needed to say to Zoey, Levi turned to leave.

"Wait! Did we say you can go?"

Logan and a few of the younger ones in the Black family halted Levi in his steps.

“Do you think you can come and go as you please? Is the Black family a public park to you?”

Jennie scoffed, “Oh right, didn’t you say you can help us with our problem? Show us what you’ve done. You think you can fool us?”

“This guy’s really got issues with his personality. He took ten million, but lied and said he threw it into the trash can!”

“Yeah! I hate this kind of person the most!”

Everyone in the Black family was expressing their dislike for Levi.

“I threw the cheque into the trash can by the gate! I’m not going to repeat myself!”

Levi had a dour expression on his face.

“You’re lying! We looked through not one, but all the trash cans near the gate. Still, we couldn’t find the cheque!”

“Yeah, let’s see how much longer are you going to lie to us!”

“Huh?”

Levi was bemused.

Did someone pick it up?

Never mind. I’ll have someone to track down the flow of the money from the cheque later.

“Let’s get him out of here! I don’t want to let him ruin my day.”

Meredith glared at Levi with abhorrence.

Again, Levi was kicked out of the Black family's manor.

"Let's see if our problem will magically be solved by tomorrow morning," Meredith scoffed.

"Haha! Meredith, you don't have to expect anything out of that brat! He must be lying again!" Logan guffawed in a demeaning tone.

The next morning, the Black family was roused awake by a commotion in front of their house.

Someone was shouting in the front yard. "Oh, no! Brock Green is here! Wait, aren't those people from the Cayman family and the Oliver family? Oh crap! Are we in trouble?"

The Protector Chapter 607

The commotion in the front yard awakened everyone in the Black family's household.

They gathered in the living room.

"What's going on?"

"I think those people are here for the matters regarding Triple Group."

Everyone in the Black family was shocked. "What?"

Was Levi actually not lying when he said he will solve the problems we are facing?

Are our problems actually solved?

Very soon, Brock and the rest showed up.

Meredith and Robert were about to greet Brock and the others when they walked past without even glancing at them.

It was as if Meredith and Robert were transparent to them.

"May I know which one of you is Zoey Lopez?"

Brock stood in front of the Blacks and sized up the lot of them.

"It's me!" Zoey answered in a hurry.

She had a hunch about what was going to happen.

“Ms. Lopez, it’s a pleasure to make your acquaintance. From now onward, both the research center owned by Triple Group and its team of researchers belong to you. Please look through this contract on the transfer of ownership.”

Brock was straight to the point. He then handed the said contract to Zoey.

Pfft!

Robert almost passed out when he saw what was rolling out ahead of him.

Brock Green actually brought the contract to us himself?

Could it be that the mogul Brock has mentioned has something to do with Zoey?

“Hi, Ms. Lopez! Here is the contract for the original production factories of Triple Group! Everything in the production factories, including the materials belongs to you now.”

“Nice to meet you, Ms. Lopez! This is the lease for the office buildings once owned by Triple Group! They are all yours now!”

One by one, the head honchos from the prominent families in the South City passed Zoey the contracts to the properties of Triple Group they held on to.

Right now, Zoey had the complete set of the production system that kept Triple Group running.

What on Earth just happened?

This is not a dream, right?

Our problem is solved!

“Oh my, so our problem is actually solved?”

Caitlyn and Aaron exchanged a joyful glance with each other.

Meredith was so overjoyed that she was tearing up.

Robert was also on cloud nine.

The bearer of the 50-billion mission, Zoey, could not contain her elation.

Now that Zoey was successful in completing her task, the future of the Black family was filled with hope and light.

The Black family would surely prosper in the very near future.

“We did it! The Black family is going to join the ranks of the noble families in South City soon!”

Logan Zachs and Jennie Black were leaping in excitement.

The entire Black family was in a hurrah.

“This has nothing to do with Levi, right?” One of the Blacks asked.

Everyone in the Black family was taken aback by the question.

If Levi is the person behind all of this, then how are we going to face him ever again?

Will he make us pay for our mistakes for rejecting him?

Everyone feared the consequences for throwing Levi out of the house now that he had offered so much to the Black family.

Zoey asked politely, “Mr. Green, could you tell us who’s made all of this happen?”

All of the Blacks wanted to know the answer to Zoey’s question.

They were staring at Brock with so much curiosity in their eyes.

“Hahaha, I’m afraid you have to find out the answer yourself, Ms. Lopez! You can start with the office buildings of Triple Group,” Brock answered amusedly.

“Alright! Thank you so much!”

Right afterward, Zoey took off.

Almost everyone from the Black family went with her.

They wanted to know which saint had saved them from their troubles.

When the lot of them arrived at the building that used to be the headquarters of Triple Group, they were astounded.

The 50-storey tower looming ahead of them in such a magnificent splendor.

The Black family was reduced to nothing in front of what represented the wealth of Triple Group.

However, from that day on, the tower belonged to Zoey.

In other words, the tower was in the possession of the Black family.

The crowd was super excited.

By the time the Blacks sauntered to the entrance, there was already someone waiting for their arrival.

“Ms. Lopez, this way, please!”

The person at the door was given specific instructions to welcome Zoey on her first day there.

He took Zoey and the rest to the CEO’s office.

“Ms. Lopez, he’s waiting inside for you! All of you can enter this room whenever you like.”

All of a sudden, the Blacks were on tenterhooks.

Who’s the person inside?

It can’t be Levi, right?

What if it’s actually Levi?

We just forced him to divorce Zoey!

If he’s actually as powerful as everything so far has suggested, we are so screwed!

Meredith and Robert were both covered in a cold sweat.

The two of them awkwardly wiped the sweat off their foreheads.

An anxious Logan was hiding behind everyone else.

Zoey had a feeling that Levi was waiting for them inside the room.

After all, he said to her the day before that they would meet the next morning.

As the door was opened, everyone froze in their places.

The Protector Chapter 608

A stranger was in the office, and it was not Levi.

“Nice to meet you, Ms. Lopez, I’m Neil Atkinson.”

It turned out that this man was Kirin.

“Oh, nice to meet you too, Mr. Atkinson!”

Zoey was pleasantly surprised.

Neil was only a step away from the most mysterious figure in the Morris Group.

Even Iris could barely see him.

Yet, he actually came here personally!

The Black family had also heard of Neil.

They were shocked as Neil being here showed how much he valued Zoey.

At the same time, they breathed a sigh of relief as well.

Luckily, it’s not Levi!

They were scared out of their wits earlier.

“Ms. Lopez, you’ll pioneer our entry into the electronics market! The boss believes in you and has specifically sent a team to assist you!” announced Kirin.

“That’s great!” Zoey replied with a smile.

Having Morris Group as her backing filled her with more confidence.

“Well, the team will meet with you later! I’m taking my leave!”

Soon, Neil left.

“Hahaha. I was wondering who is this person who we can’t mess with? It turns out it’s the boss of Morris Group!”

“You have to work hard, Zoey. We fully support you! Looking at it now, we’ve underestimated your potential.”

“In the future, you’ll definitely be the most powerful person in Quebec!”

The Black family was thrilled.

Meredith thumped her chest and said, “Fortunately, I asked you to divorce Levi! Considering your future achievements, he will be a drag if he’s with you! It’ll be troublesome over time!”

“Grandma, you’re so clever!”

“Mom, you’re so clever!”

Everyone in the Black family could not help but praise Meredith for her judgment.

Meanwhile, Aaron and Caitlyn exclaimed in excitement, “Getting a divorce is the right choice!”

“Levi doesn’t deserve to be Zoey’s husband! By the way, didn’t he claim that he’s the one that solves this matter? Where’s he now?”

Logan suddenly thought of Levi.

“Yeah, he’s nothing but a liar! How can he be so shameless that he actually claimed to solve this matter?”

Before long, the team sent by Morris Group arrived.

Everyone was surprised to see Levi on the team.

The Black family was struck dumb when they found out that Levi was also a member of the team.

They realized why Levi went to their house last night and left them in suspense.

The matter’s really solved, but does it have anything to do with you?

It’s solved by the owner of Morris Group!

Another problem also plagued the Black family.

Wouldn’t this give Levi a chance to be in contact with Zoey?

“We object to this! Levi can never come into contact with Zoey!” Meredith protested.

“Sorry, Ma’am, you don’t have the right to do so! Levi Garrison is appointed by the company! Even Ms. Lopez has no right to reject!”

“Umm...”

Meredith was stunned.

She dared not to go against Morris Group.

“Well, I’d like to know what Levi’s job is,” she asked.

“He’s in charge of our logistical support and our safety!”

Logan gave a cold snort. “So he’s a security guard?”

“Pretty much, yeah.”

“Hahaha...”

Everyone burst out laughing.

They initially thought that Levi had an important position in the team.

Unexpectedly, his position was similar to that of a security guard and chef.

This kind of trash would never be good enough for Zoey.

No matter how hard he worked, he was only a low-ranking employee of Morris Group, whereas Zoey would be at the top in the whole of Quebec in the future.

They were from two worlds so different that there could be no comparison between them!

Fortunately, Levi and Zoey had divorced!

Meredith warned Levi, “Listen, don’t ever get close to Zoey! It won’t end well for you if I find out!”

Everyone in the Black family threatened Levi and also told Zoey not to interact with him.

The Protector Chapter 609

With the help of Morris Group, Oriental Star Group successfully settled in South City.

In just a few days, the preparation works were done, and the project kicked off.

With the strong support of funds and talents, the prototype of their electronic products had taken shape.

The Blacks were also basking in the reflected glory.

Feeling proud, Meredith and the others were in a good mood every day.

The younger generation of the Black family, like Russell and Zoey, was so successful.

“I’ll look for a good husband for Zoey. You guys can ask around too. He must be a perfect and outstanding man, otherwise, he’s unworthy of her!” Meredith announced with a smile.

She was also treating Aaron and Caitlyn better.

This made the two of them very excited.

Everything had indeed become better after Zoey left Levi.

They were once again glad that they had divorced.

People in other places noticed a strange phenomenon in South City.

There was actually no powerful figure and family in the city that sought to assert control over the many territories left by Triple Group and Scott's faction.

Oriental Star Group was left gnawing at the huge piece of the pie.

Many external forces and families in other provinces began to look into the background of Oriental Star Group.

They utilized all their resources, only to find out that Oriental Star Group did not have any impressive connection except for Morris Group, with which they were cooperating.

Morris Group was well-known by now.

"I know Morris Group is very powerful, but it can't be so overbearing that it wants to lord over everyone."

"That's right. Isn't it good for everyone to get a share of the huge pie?"

"Humph, I don't believe that I can't get my hand on it."

It turned out that the external forces were all watching from the sidelines during the previous tussle in South City.

Now that peace had descended, everyone was eager to act.

The Davies family in South City.

Ever since the incident that night, Derek had been staying at home and did not go out for a long time.

Bang!

The gate of the Davies' residence suddenly blasted open.

A dozen people in black rushed inside, taking everyone in the Davies family by surprise.

“Who are you?” questioned Leslie, Derek’s father, coldly.

There was no response from them.

A Rolls-Royce Phantom drove into the front yard and pulled up.

A young man got off the car.

Dressed in a blue suit, he was holding a prayer garland, and had a pair of sunglasses over his eyes.

Standing next to him were two men, one in black and the other in white.

Both of them were wearing a gruesome mask, exuding a presence that was as cold as ice.

Those near to them could even feel the chill brushing against their faces.

“Who are you?” a bodyguard of the Davies family asked.

The masked man in white shot him a cold look.

Swoosh!

What happened next was horrific.

The severed head of the bodyguard suddenly fell to the ground, and blood spurted out from the big wound.

Silence ensued.

Everyone in the Davies family was petrified.

All color was drained from the faces of Derek and Leslie.

Plop!

One after another, they fell to their knees in fright.

Who is he?

How can he kill others with just one glare?

How terrifying!

The blue-suited man in the middle stepped forward and patted Leslie on the face. “Don’t be afraid! You’re all of value to me, so I won’t kill any of you!”

“T-Tell me what you need. I won’t I-let you down!” Leslie, who had long drenched in his cold sweat, replied tremblingly.

“Very well. I’m here for a very simple purpose—I want to be the boss of South City!”

The man in blue sounded extremely domineering.

The Protector Chapter 610

“Boss of South City?”

The eyes of Leslie and Derek were popping out of their heads with astonishment.

Does he know what he’s talking about?

Never has anyone been so pompous!

Not even the quasi royals of South Hampton, the Caesar family.

How big of an appetite must he have to take over South City?

But this group of people was far more vicious than anyone they had ever met.

It was terrifying to see that one glare could decapitate someone.

But of course, one glare could not literally kill someone.

It was mainly because that man attacked so fast that the human eye could not catch the movement, resulting in such an illusion.

He was definitely the best of the best, whom even Scott and Typhoon were no match for.

The man in blue took off his sunglasses, revealing an evil face.

He said with a smile, “Why are you all on your knees? Get up.”

After the man talked, only then did Leslie and his family feel relieved.

But their knees were still weak, so they could not stand up at all.

The man in blue pulled a chair over and sat down. With his eyes on the Davies family, he asked, "Who is the boss in South City now?"

"The Grandmaster controls the underworld, but the strongest man in South City is actually Brock Green, the Stone Buddha. He owns the largest and most underground boxing arenas, with hundreds of top fighters around him. No one dares to cross him! I heard that he even keeps the Caesar family from South Hampton in check!" Leslie gasped.

"Great. I'll visit the Grandmaster and Stone Buddha tonight then!"

An evil smile appeared on the face of the man in blue.

"Huh? Are you sure you want to go and meet them, Sir?" Leslie asked in surprise.

"Can't I?" The man in blue smiled.

The two masked men behind him shot Leslie a warning glance.

He immediately lowered his head in fright.

Their glare will kill me!

The masked man in black suddenly placed his hand on the stone table.

Thump!

There was a rumbling sound.

Crack!

The stone table cracked from the top to the bottom, and was blown to smithereens, filling the air with dust.

The Davies family was struck dumb.

The masked man in white killed with a single glare earlier, and now, the one in black shattered a stone table.

Are they even human?

How horrifying!

Leslie, who was about to stand up, fell back to his knees, whereas Derek wet himself.

Life was fragile in the face of these two experts.

One would be killed in an instant if they were offended in the slightest.

Leslie and Derek no longer questioned their capability anymore.

They were not pompous or reckless!

They were totally capable!

Delighted, the man in blue asked with a smile, "Do you have doubts about my identity?"

"No, we wouldn't dare to!" replied Leslie with his head down.

No matter who the man was, the Davies family could not mess with him!

“Well, let me tell you who I am! My name is Jacky Lawson!”

“Huh?”

Leslie and the others had a look of incomprehension on their faces.

We’ve never heard of this name.

Jacky leaned in and whispered in Leslie’s ear, “I come from...”

After listening to what Jacky had whispered into his ear, the look on Leslie’s face changed drastically.

His face was instantly drained of all color, looking white as a sheet.

Intense horror could be seen from his eyes.

It was a horror that came from the depth of his heart.

“Oh, you’re Jacky. My warmest welcome! I apologize for the delay.”

After Jacky revealed his identity, Leslie knelt and touched the ground with his forehead so hard that it started to bleed.

The Protector Chapter 611

The Davies family and the other family members were dumbfounded.

What kind of identity does he hold that can make Leslie so afraid?

What exactly is his background?

The Davies were all trembling with fear.

Leslie wasn't as afraid even when the two masked men pulled the earlier godlike tricks, but he got so scared after the man's identity is revealed.

Why is that?

Jacky must be someone very powerful!

At this moment, Leslie had no more doubt about Jacky's desire to take over South City.

He did not think there was any sort of exaggeration as Jacky could totally achieve it in his capacity!

Jacky smiled and said, "As long as you obey me and do what I ask, I promise that the Davies family will prosper. In the future, you can replace whoever you want in South City!"

"Thank you, Jacky! The Davies family will do anything you ask of come hell or high water!"

Leslie was overjoyed.

Despite the earlier fright, the Davies family could see a complete change in its fate and prosper by following Jacky.

Leslie immediately patted Derek on the shoulder, and said, "Make a dinner reservation for tonight at the best restaurant in South City to welcome Jacky!"

"Okay! I promise it won't be a let-down!"

Derek sprang into action right away.

Meanwhile, Jacky readily accepted their arrangement, and stayed at the Davies family's residence.

Afterward, Leslie went to Jacky's bedroom with a few beautiful women.

"You may go in, but these women need to get lost!" the two masked men said coldly at the door of the bedroom.

Shocked, Leslie simpered and said, "You've misunderstood. I've got them here for Jacky!"

"Master isn't a promiscuous man. He particularly dislikes this type of ordinary woman!" replied the masked man in white indifferently.

"That's right. If you want to pledge your allegiance, it must at least be the most beautiful woman in South City, so that it may interest him!" the other man echoed.

"Oh, I see."

Leslie was floored.

Every single man from the prominent families and major forces he met was lecherous.

So it was the first time he met one so chaste and virtuous like Jacky!

Those who had such a strong ability to resist a temptation were the ones who really did great things.

On second thought, he came from that particular force, so of course, he could resist temptations.

Training from an early age allowed Jacky to turn it into a habit.

Therefore, he would never waste his time on alcohol and women!

After a short while, Derek returned and went to Leslie.

“Dad, who exactly is Jacky?”

He was not the only curious one, as the other members of the Davies family were curious as well after having seen how frightened Leslie was following the revelation of Jacky’s identity.

Leslie took a deep breath and said, “Listen up, then...”

“What?”

Upon hearing it, everyone’s eyes were popping out of their heads.

Plop!

Derek even fell to the ground with fear.

“Let me warn all of you, we must ensure that nothing goes wrong while helping Jacky out, lest we’ll be doomed!”

“Understood!”

Everyone in the Davies family nodded their heads in unison.

In the evening, the Davies host a welcome dinner for Jacky at the most luxurious restaurant in South City.

After the dinner, Jacky announced with a grin, “Let’s go find Stone Buddha!”

Both Leslie and Derek froze for a moment.

Is he going to take it out on Stone Buddha so soon?

This is way too fast, isn’t it?

“Let’s go. Are you afraid?”

Jacky’s lips curled into a smile.

“No, Jacky. This way, please!”

Leslie bit the bullet and showed him the way.

Soon, they came to Jagged Club.

“Tonight’s the time to change the owner here!” declared Jacky as he looked at the plaque of Jagged Club and laughed arrogantly.

The Protector Chapter 612

As soon as Jacky finished speaking, a bodyguard behind him suddenly rushed forward.

Crack!

He halved the plaque of Jagged Club with a single kick!

The sight sent fear coursing through the Davies.

How impudent!

No one in South City had ever dared to challenge Brock like this!

Jacky was seemingly set to create havoc in South City!

However, as someone in his capacity, he absolutely had the right to do so!

The loud noise from damaging the plaque of Jagged Club attracted a lot of attention.

Swish.

Hundreds of people rushed out of the underground boxing arena and surrounded Jacky and his party.

The man leading the group asked coldly, "Did you damage the plaque?"

"Yes, I did!" Jacky grinned.

“Insolent fool! How dare you! Do you know what this place is?”

The group lashed out at them.

They did not understand why someone actually had the nerve to cause a scene here.

With the prayer beads in his hand, Jacky replied with a smile, “Yes, I do! I just wanted to give this place a new owner!”

“What?”

His words baffled everyone.

Give this place a new owner?

Doesn't that mean he wants to drive Brock away?

Who does he think he is?

How dare he even think of doing so!

“Guys, take down this group of shameless brats!”

Under the command of the leader, hundreds of people rushed over.

Derek and Leslie were so scared that they hid behind Jacky's party.

Considering that Jacky had only brought twelve men over, they could not help but wonder if he and his men could handle the group of hundreds.

Not to mention that Brock also had hundreds of top fighters.

Seeing hundreds of people charging at him, Jacky remained calm without even batting an eyelash.

Other than the two masked experts behind him, the other ten bodyguards stepped forward to fight.

What happened next left Leslie and the others in shock.

These ten men are actually so strong that they are on the winning side, even though there are hundreds of opponents.

Very soon, the hundreds of people were defeated and hid in the underground boxing arena.

“Let’s go in!”

Jacky led everyone into the underground boxing arena.

At this moment, there was a boxing match going on with a large audience.

But everyone’s attention was attracted by the ruckus in the arena.

Thump! Thump! Thump!

The security guards of the underground boxing arena were seen flying through the air from outside.

Then a group of people emerged.

Everyone looked over.

“What happened?”

“Oh no, someone’s here to cause a scene! Inform Stone Buddha now!”

Before long, Stone Buddha was made aware of the situation, and went to the arena with all his experts.

“How dare you come to make trouble at my place, Leslie Davies!” shouted Brock coldly after he recognized Leslie at a glance.

“I...”

Terrified, Leslie was stumped.

He could not have a conversation with Brock.

Meanwhile, Jacky spoke, “I made him come here! Look over here!”

“Huh?”

Brock was stunned.

Everyone started to scrutinize Jacky.

No one had expected that he was the head.

Besides, he did not look like he was from South City as he did not look familiar.

“Stone Buddha, they’ve damaged the plaque and claimed that they want to give this place a new owner!” a subordinate immediately told Brock what happened.

Brock took a look at Jacky.

“That’s right, I did it. You’re Brock Green, right? You’ve occupied this place for a long time. It’s time for this place to get a new owner!” he said calmly, but his words were domineering.

There were really no young people in South City who had the nerve to provoke Brock.

He was taken aback.

This is the first time I meet such an arrogant young man.

Other than the God of War, of course.

He’s a God, and not a man!

Brock asked, feeling curious, “Forgive me, but may I know who you are?”

The Protector Chapter 613

Jacky suddenly stopped turning the prayer beads as he sneered, "You're not worthy of knowing it!"

Such arrogance!

He's pure arrogance!

Brock chuckled. "Young man, don't be too arrogant. More than ten young people have died by my hands over the years!"

Jacky's eyes suddenly turned bright with a gleam of menace. "You have two options now, Brock Green. The first one being you kneel before me and call me 'Master'; the second, your death!"

Whoa!

Everyone gasped after listening to his words.

Isn't he afraid of death by challenging Brock like this?

Brock laughed.

A man next to him immediately shouted in anger, "Who do you think you are? How dare you be so arrogant in front of Master?"

Right after he finished speaking, the masked master in white next to Jacky suddenly glared at him.

In an instant, he turned into a blur of motion and appeared in front of that man, raising and swinging his knife.

By the time he put away his knife, he had already returned to Jacky's side.

His movement was too fast to be captured by the naked eye.

Everyone thought he had been standing at the same spot and never moved at all while merely glaring at the man.

Thud!

A severed head fell to the ground, while blood spewed all over the place, splattering the faces of everyone around the man.

Such a gruesome sight scared them out of their wits.

How can he kill someone with just one look?

Having seen it for the second time, Leslie and Derek were still thunderstruck.

The expression on Brock turned solemn as he said, "What lightning speed he has!"

He was one of the few people at the scene to have really seen what happened.

"Kneel or death?" prompted Jacky.

"Humph! Over our dead bodies!"

The Beast of Death and the Wolf King showed up at that moment.

Although Hades had become Levi's subordinate, Brock was still the strongest having these two experts by his side.

"Kill them!"

As soon as Jacky gave the order, the two masked experts rushed over.

Wolf King and the Beast of Death also made their moves.

The masked expert in white was much faster than the Wolf King.

After they passed each other on the path, there was a slit on the latter's neck.

Thud!

The Wolf King collapsed to the ground and died.

Meanwhile, the masked expert in black was going head-to-head with the Beast of Death.

He got punched in the chest while he landed a punch on the Beast of Death.

He was fine, but the latter was not as his chest suddenly exploded.

Brock's two strongest experts died in an instant.

The two experts who had never suffered any loss in the Eastern Deathmatches were as fragile as glass.

Gasp!

At this moment, everyone was struck dumb, including the hundreds of experts behind Brock.

Since the two of them can't defeat them, it's even more impossible for us to defeat them!

Brock was shocked to the core.

I can't afford to cross this man!

"May I know why do you come to South City?" Brock asked calmly.

A devilish smile appeared on Jacky's face. "I want to be the boss of South City! I heard that you're the strongest here, so I came to you first!"

Gasp!

Brock's breathing turned heavy.

Although this man is arrogant, he has the ability to do so!

"I admit that I'm no match for you! But it's impossible that I'll allow you to swallow the entire South City up!"

"Oh?"

Jacky was intrigued.

"Because South City isn't a place where you can simply cause troubles! I advise you to leave as soon as possible, or you will die!" urged Brock.

"Hahaha..."

Jacky burst into laughter.

His men followed suit.

“What I said is true! There’s a very powerful man here in South City. Regardless of who you are, you’re no match for him!”

The Protector Chapter 614

Brock knew about Levi.

No matter what powerful background Jacky had, he would be doomed after crossing Levi!

Moreover, Jacky was targeting the territory in South City, which was a behavior that the God of War hated most.

They would definitely meet, and Jacky would die!

“Alright. Who’s that man? Tell me, so that I can go to him!” Jacky asked with a smile.

He believed no one in South City could stop him.

“It’s better you not know! Take my advice, leave South City now!” Brock urged again.

“Kill him!”

As a man of action, Jacky gave the order to his man, and the masked expert in white instantly turned into a blur of motion.

Swoosh!

With a flash of the blade, Brock slowly slumped to the ground.

Before he died, he pointed at Jacky and uttered, “So you’re…”

Thud. Brock's body fell stiffly on the ground.

Apparently, he recognized who Jacky was the moment before he died.

The entire underground boxing arena was in chaos.

"Calm down, everyone! From now on, I'll take over here! Those who join me won't be mistreated!" Jacky shouted.

"At your service, Sir!" hundreds of people shouted at the top of their lungs as they got down on their knees.

After taking over Jagged Club, Jacky looked at Leslie and asked, "Who's that man Brock Green said?"

"I don't know. I've never heard of such a person in South City! I think he made it up to scare you away!" replied Leslie.

One of Jacky's men also said, "We've checked before coming, Sir. There's no such a person!"

"Alright, then. Let's go to our next stop—the Grandmaster!"

Jacky's eyes were glinting with cold malice.

It was definitely a night where South City was left to twist in the wind!

A force that suddenly appeared first killed the Stone Buddha and then beheaded the Grandmaster in a whirlwind!

More than a dozen forces were instantly destroyed in a row!

Twenty-seven underground boxing arenas and hundreds of territories were all taken over by Jacky.

What happened this time was far more damaging than the fall of Scott's faction and Triple Group.

At least, the two previous events did not affect anyone else.

This time, not only were many affected, but Jacky and his party were also extremely cruel!

Anyone who did not submit would be killed mercilessly!

Within a short period of time, everyone was consumed by panic and fear.

All the powerful families grew anxious as they were worried that troubles would come to them, and they might be the next one to die.

The fact that both the big shots, Brock and the Grandmaster, were killed showed just how terrifyingly strong Jacky was.

Most importantly, they did not know the real identity of this force as they could not find out anything about them!

Leslie and Derek were more in shock than anyone else because they followed Jacky the entire time he quelled more than a dozen forces.

They even witnessed how Jacky killed Brock and the Grandmaster.

He's so strong!

Unbelievably strong!

They grew pleasantly surprised.

It's such a stroke of luck that our family actually gets selected randomly by Jacky.

Jacky asked the Davies to take care of the territories he had taken over, which was a huge leap forward for them in every aspect.

Jacky was satisfied with his accomplishments tonight, but he was not proud, as if he had done something commonplace.

Upon return, Jacky made a phone call, and respectfully said, "Master, I've wiped out the underworld of South City according to your instructions! Please give me your further instructions!"

"Very well. You have free rein to do whatever you want next. Just wait for me to go to South City myself!" an old voice was heard saying from the other end of the line.

The Protector Chapter 615

“Understood, Master! I’ll definitely not let you down!”

Jacky was thrilled.

Meanwhile, Leslie and Derek lowered their heads as if they had done something wrong, feeling horrified deep down.

Someone else’s coming, and it’s even Jacky’s master?

Considering that Jacky is so strong himself, his master must be really powerful!

News about what happened quickly spread the next day.

Russell deliberately went to the Black family and reminded them, “Recently, a group of mysterious force has come to South City. Even Brock Green and the Grandmaster have been killed. Be extra careful, everyone!”

While shocked, they made a mental note of what Russell had said.

Thinking of something, Meredith could not help but say, “I have to get Zoey a bodyguard! It’s so dangerous recently! I must make sure nothing happens to her!”

After a short pause, she added, “Moreover, having a bodyguard can also keep Levi away from Zoey!”

Robert smiled. “That would be killing two birds with one stone!”

Hesitating, Meredith said, “We can’t take this matter lightly. The bodyguard must be the best in all aspects, and preferably a woman. Jennie, Logan, since the two of you know a lot of people, can you look for a suitable candidate?”

Jennie flashed her a smile. “You’re in good hands, Grandma. There just happened to be a good fit in our social circle recently!”

“Oh, really?”

Meredith was taken aback.

“Recently, I met a woman, who used to be a soldier and has just retired from the front line of the West! She’s nicknamed Female Hades, and is said to defeat a hundred opponents alone!” said Jennie.

“She’s the one then! Hurry up and get her here!”

It came as a pleasant surprise for Meredith.

Jennie hesitated before she replied, “The price may be a little too high, Grandma. It’s a ten million annual salary, a car, and a house. Is that alright?”

Meredith cared about Zoey a lot, so she was willing to pay any price.

“No problem!”

Shortly after, Jennie brought the female soldier over.

Standing at a height of 1.8 meters, she gave off a strong murderous vibe.

“Nice to meet you, Mr. Black, Mdm. Westbrook. My name is Syllas Whitfield! I used to serve in the Special Force of Tiger Squad of the West Warzone! I’ve killed 277 opponents on the battlefield! Being a bodyguard is not much of a problem for me!”

With a sharp look on her face, Syllas exuded an intimidating presence.

The Blacks instantly took a fancy to her.

“Alright, Syllas, you’re hired! We have two requirements—first, keep my granddaughter safe, and second, don’t let Levi Garrison get near her. Here’s a photo of his!” Meredith said.

Syllas took the photo and glanced at it before replying, “Okay, no problem. This is an easy task. I’ll definitely get the job done!”

A look of confidence and relaxation was apparent on Syllas’ face.

Compared to killing enemies on the battlefield, this was almost like she was taking a vacation.

Although Zoey did not want to have a bodyguard, she could not do anything as Meredith had made the arrangement.

The worst part was that Syllas had to be with her round-the-clock.

In other words, she would not have the chance to meet Levi.

As usual, when Levi came to Zoey’s office and was about to open the door to enter, he noticed a tall person who was a few centimeters shy of his height standing outside the door.

The surprising bit was that it was a woman.

“You’re not allowed to enter!” Syllas stopped him with a cold voice.

“Who are you?” Levi asked in surprise.

He had never seen this woman.

“I’m Ms. Lopez’s bodyguard!” replied Sylas.

Levi was stunned.

Since when did Zoey get a bodyguard?

“I’m her husband! You may move aside now!”

Then Levi proceeded to walk inside.

“No! I have another duty, which is to keep you away from Ms. Lopez!”

Sylas stopped him right in his tracks.

The Protector Chapter 616

Levi instantly understood what was going on.

This was a bodyguard that the Black family had hired to keep him from interacting with Zoey.

“Are you sure you can stop me?” He chuckled.

Sylas simply glared coldly. “I’m not even scared of fighting to the death on the battlefield, much less someone like you.”

She had already thought of 34 ways to get Levi under control.

To her, a commoner like him had no chance against her.

It was kind of a waste of her talent to send her after someone as plain as this.

Levi was taken aback for a second before grinning as he asked, “Oh, you served in the army before?”

“Yes.” Sylas nodded.

“In which warzone?”

He looked at Sylas a little more closely and noticed the soldier-like rage that seemed to surround her like an aura.

It was almost murderous.

She had definitely killed enemies on the battlefield before.

She must be a pro!

Sylas would normally not pay attention to someone like Levi.

However, Meredith had commanded for her to keep him away from Zoey at all costs.

Sylas decided to get rid of him once and for all so she could worry about one less thing.

“Well, I just defeated the Tiger Squad of the West warzone about a month ago! In my three years as a soldier, I’ve killed 277 people.”

As Sylas bragged about her body count, her eyes glinted murderously.

She wanted to scare the wits out of Levi.

She hadn’t expected for him to be completely undeterred.

Levi asked, “Oh, you’re one of that little punk Ezra’s soldiers?”

When Sylas heard him say Chief Williamson’s name, she was surprised.

He knows Chief Williamson?

Chief Williamson was the commander-in-chief of the West warzone!

He was an idol to many soldiers of the West, second only to the God of War.

But most commoners wouldn’t even know of Chief Williamson’s power.

The West warzone was on the frontlines, after all.

How could someone in South City know about him?

Wait, what did he just call Chief Williamson? Little punk?

Once she finally came to her senses, Sylas was practically radiating anger.

She was pissed.

How could he call Chief Williamson a 'little punk' so casually?

How rude!

Sylas glared at Levi as if she wanted to wring the life from him. "What did you just call Chief Williamson?"

"A little punk. Why?" Levi answered nonchalantly.

He had been the one to personally train Ezra and send the latter to the West after all.

Is it wrong for me to call him a little punk?

To Sylas, however, it became extremely disrespectful.

How dare Levi insult the invincible war god of the west?

He had to die!

"How dare you treat him with such disrespect! Apologize immediately!" Sylas roared.

Levi frowned. "What did I do? Why should I apologize?"

“You insulted Chief Williamson! You have no right to call someone like him a little punk! Apologize now!” Sylas pressed on.

Levi scoffed coldly. “Even if Ezra were right in front of me, I’d still call him a little punk! In fact, he’d be perfectly happy about it, so who are you to stop me?”

Levi was practically Ezra’s master and role model.

With just one word, Ezra would destroy entire villages and burn down forests for Levi.

If he called Ezra a little punk to his face, the latter would be happy for the rest of the week, probably.

Sylas was just getting angrier and angrier.

“I’ve already left the army and no longer wish to have any blood on my hands, so don’t push me. Are you going to apologize?” Sylas asked in a low voice.

Levi was already dead in her eyes.

Levi just chuckled. “I did nothing wrong, so no. I won’t.”

He was feeling speechless.

Ezra was pretty good if he could create such an amazing female soldier.

She’d have been even more amazing if she could use her brain properly, though.

Since he dared to call Ezra a ‘little punk’, shouldn’t she have figured out his relationship with Ezra?

The Protector Chapter 617

“Okay. You’ve brought this upon yourself,” Sylas said coldly.

She wasn’t going to hold back anymore.

Despite the small space they were in, Sylas suddenly raised her slender right leg swiftly.

At a speed like lightning and with the force of thunder, she aimed at Levi’s face.

Everything Sylas had trained for in the army was to kill.

If she acted, then it was to kill.

With this one kick, Levi would probably suffer at least a broken nose, if not a completely ruined face.

He’d definitely have to lie in the hospital for a couple months.

“You’re asking for it!” Levi roared.

He was angry too.

Right as the kick was about to land, Zoey’s voice suddenly cried out, “No!”

Zoey had opened the door.

Sylas’ foot stopped in midair, barely a centimeter away from the tip of Levi’s nose.

Levi looked unruffled.

“Sylas, he’s my husband! I forbid you from hurting him!”

Zoey was trembling in fear.

Sylas put her leg down and looked at Levi, her expression icy. “I’ll forgive you just this once. If this happens again, I won’t hold back.”

Levi grinned. “Zoey! You saved her!”

Levi was really about to fight back just now.

Sadly, Zoey had appeared in the nick of time.

“You...” Sylas was furious.

You were the one in danger just now! How dare you say she saved me?

I hate you!

No wonder everyone in the Black family hated him and wanted to keep him away from Zoey.

“You’re not allowed to meet Ms. Lopez anymore. If you do, I’ll kill you on sight,” Sylas warned.

Zoey gestured for Levi to leave, indicating that she’d take care of Sylas.

After Levi left, Sylas finally calmed down. She suddenly thought of something.

How did he know about Chief Williamson?

Why did he have the guts to call Chief Williamson a 'little punk'?

He didn't seem like he was doing it spitefully either.

In fact, it seemed like he was simply doing it out of habit.

Could he be someone important?

That's impossible!

Why would someone with the power to call Chief Williamson a 'little punk' be working in a plain old company?

As a guard, no less.

That was truly impossible!

He was probably just some military nerd.

It wasn't hard for someone like that to know so much about the military.

"Levi, was it? I won't forget you. One day, I'll really teach you a lesson!"

Sylas was as short-tempered as they come, and she really couldn't stand Levi.

Of course, Levi couldn't care less about someone like Sylas.

She was strong, but she wouldn't have expected for Levi to plant a bodyguard by Zoey's side.

He had let Hades go at first so that he could use the man to protect Zoey.

Hades was practically the perfect candidate for it.

After all, he was almost a god of war himself.

Sylas had never guessed that there was a pair of eyes in the shadows, watching her every move.

She didn't feel a single thing.

Levi was just logistics support, so he didn't have much to do.

He went to Kirin and Azure Dragon's residence.

"Did you hear about what happened yesterday?" Azure Dragon asked.

"What?" Levi asked, genuinely confused.

"Brock Green and the Grandmaster are dead! Some crazy powerful group just arrived in South City and killed the Beast of Death and the Wolf King in mere seconds! They've already taken care of most of the underworld and the underground boxing rings, who have been lying low since then," Azure Dragon answered.

"What?"

Levi's eyes flashed coldly at the news.

"Who dares act so brashly on my territory?"

"Whoever they are, they're probably after South City. They might be after Oriental Star Group next. Do you think Ms. Lopez needs guards to protect her?" Azure Dragon asked.

"I'd like to see who dares to even touch a hair on her head!" Levi bellowed.

The Protector Chapter 618

Azure Dragon automatically offered, "Should I go and protect Ms. Lopez?"

"There's no need to worry about her safety," Levi answered.

With Hades protecting her, she was as safe as she could be.

Even though L Nation was destroyed, Hades was still as powerful.

He wasn't someone to mess with.

"Who could it be? Wasn't what happened to the Caesar family bad enough? Who would dare to come after that?" Levi asked.

Azure Dragon shrugged. "I've already sent someone to investigate. They're unidentified as of now, but we know for sure that they're the strongest people that have ever challenged us. The fact that they could destroy South City's underground in one night is enough proof."

"I don't care who they are. As long as they're a threat to this city, I won't let them go," Levi announced coldly.

Since Levi was there, Tim and the others didn't care too much about this new group of threats.

They knew no one could cause any trouble with him around.

While the other well-known families of South City investigated Jacky Lawson's identity, the Davies family was having a field day.

Naturally, they'd be in charge of all the businesses that had been affected.

They could earn a pretty penny from all that.

This left a smile on Leslie's face for the rest of the week.

He had sworn allegiance to Jacky till death.

Jacky asked, "The Oriental Star Group is doing pretty well these days, huh?"

"I've done some research on them. Their boss's name is Zoey Lopez. Apart from having the Black family behind her, there's nothing else to her name. Why does the whole of South City just watch her gobble up the market like it's no big deal?" Leslie wondered.

"It's all thanks to Morris Group. The families of South City are mostly terrified of Morris Group, who have her back at all times." Jacky chuckled.

Even though they weren't from Quebec, he knew more than Leslie did.

Through their research, it was highly likely Morris Group destroyed Scott Yates and Triple Group.

"Is Morris Group really that powerful?" Leslie asked.

"Of course! Not only is their boss completely mysterious, but there are also a bunch of hidden talents in there! They have a super powerful professional among their guards who defeated Scott Yates' Four Mighty Generals," Jacky said.

"You know my master came to South City just to get rid of Morris Group, right? Quebec is simply too irresistible!" Jacky said, his face full of greed.

Leslie inhaled sharply at that.

Wasn't that a bit too greedy?

Jacky wanted South City, but his Master wanted the whole of Quebec!

Leslie asked, "What do we need to do to help? The Davies will definitely give their all to help!"

"I won't touch Morris Group for now. As for Oriental Star Group and the other big families of South City, I want them all!"

A cold glint flashed across Jacky's eyes.

Leslie asked in a shaky voice, "A-Are we also gonna kill our way to the top like we did last night?"

Jacky suddenly laughed. "Nope! These are a completely different breed of people we're talking about here. We could defeat the likes of Brock Green and the underworld clubs through brute force, but these are all high-class wolves in suits. If we kill even just one or two of them, there'll be an uproar. South City will really go after me then."

"Then what should be our course of action?" Leslie asked.

Jacky smiled sinisterly. "We fight fire with fire. I'd love to meet the boss of Oriental Star Group. Let's invite her over! In fact, let's do it tonight."

Leslie couldn't help but ask, "What if she doesn't want to come?"

Right as the words left his mouth, Leslie regretted speaking.

He felt a cold glare sweep across him, freezing him to the spot.

The Protector Chapter 619

As expected, Jacky was already staring at him with icy eyes. "That's your problem! I want to see her tonight, that'll be my problem."

"Understood! I'm sorry, I promise I'll do exactly as you asked!" Leslie said, hurriedly pressing his forehead to the floor in a deep bow.

Jacky's meaning was clear enough. No matter how, he wanted to meet Zoey that very night.

"If you can't even get this done, then you'd better start thinking of your last words," Jacky said mildly.

The moment he left, Leslie wiped off his cold sweat with the back of his hand.

He nearly died in there.

He couldn't risk making that mistake again.

"You, get this done."

Leslie passed the baton to Derek.

To him, it was way too embarrassing for him to personally invite someone over.

"Of course! Don't worry, Father, I'll be sure to prove myself to Jacky." Derek smiled.

The Triple Group's building had been renamed under Oriental Star Group.

In Zoey's office, the secretary reported, "Ms. Lopez, someone who claims to be Derek Davies is asking to see you."

"Bring him in." Zoey nodded.

Recently, a number of South City's family business representatives visited her. She hadn't turned anyone down yet.

Soon enough, Derek and the others reached the reception area.

"You're Ms. Zoey Lopez?" Derek asked snidely.

To Derek, there was no one in South City who he couldn't afford to mess with.

He had always been straightforward and cocky.

"Yes. May I know what you're here for?"

Zoey already didn't like his tone very much.

"My master wants you to join us for dinner tonight! I'm just here to pass on the message. I'll send someone over to pick you up later tonight."

Derek clearly didn't care about whether Zoey agreed or disagreed.

"Get ready. I'll be back to pick you up in a while."

After that, he turned to leave.

"Hold it right there," Zoey said in a crisp voice.

"What?"

“Who is this master you’re speaking of?” Zoey asked.

“You’ll know tonight. Either way, he’s way more respectable than you can even imagine. Just listen to whatever he says.”

Derek had just finished speaking when Zoey called out, “Send him off.”

“What’s that supposed to mean?” he asked in disbelief.

“Sorry. I don’t accept invitations from strangers,” Zoey declined.

Derek laughed. “Zoey Lopez, I’ll have you know that you may turn down everyone else in South City, but this will be the one person you aren’t allowed to decline! In fact, there’s no reason for you to do so.”

Jacky had already killed Brock Green.

Who would dare to turn him down?

“Then why don’t you tell me who he is?”

Zoey was already clearly furious.

“His identity is to be kept secret, so you’ll only know when you see him! If you turn him down, you’ll really regret it. Do you know how Brock Green and the Grandmaster died last night? My master killed both of them!” Derek announced proudly.

“That’s not a reason. Send him away!” Zoey commanded.

The guards forced Derek out of Oriental Star Group.

“I wasn’t done!” Derek screeched urgently.

“What do we do now? That woman clearly isn’t willing to do this the nice way!” one of his subordinates asked.

“If she won’t play nice, we won’t either! Once she gets off work, we’ll bring her back by force.” Derek chuckled. “Jacky already told us he wanted to see her no matter what!”

“Understood. We’ll keep watch right here,” his subordinates replied.

The Protector Chapter 620

Zoey got off work right at 7 p.m..

She dragged her exhausted body out of the building.

She was supposed to work overtime, but the Black family was worried about her safety and demanded that she work at home.

Not far off, two of Derek's subordinates were preparing to attack after spotting her walking out of the building.

"Slow down! It's not a good idea to attack her here. We'll wait until she's almost home!" Derek said.

They had no idea that their every move was under someone else's control right now.

Levi knew everything that was going on.

Despite that, he wasn't the least bit worried.

Very soon, the chauffeur drove out.

Sylas followed Zoey into the car.

Derek instantly followed them.

The Black family manor was in a rather secluded area, so there weren't many cars on the way to the manor.

Suddenly, the driver stepped on the brakes.

The road before them was blocked by a few cars.

A few people stepped out of the cars.

Derek knocked on the window with a wide grin. "Ms. Lopez, would you so kindly follow me? I'd like if you could follow me willingly. If not, I'll have to use force."

There were over ten people behind him.

With just one command, they would kick the door down and drag her away.

Zoey simply frowned stubbornly. "No. I don't accept invitations from strangers!"

"Okay, I see how it is! Do you really think you're some big shot now? Jacky asked me to invite you because he respects you! Don't let that get to your head, you b*tch! I'll ask you one last time, are you going or not?" Derek roared.

"No. I won't go." Zoey turned him down firmly once again.

"Okay, you asked for it!"

Derek was just about to bark a command.

Bang!

The other door suddenly swung open.

A six-foot-tall woman got off the car, surrounded by a strong aura.

Slam!

Sylas's face remained emotionless as she swung a kick toward Derek's head.

He immediately got thrown backward, slamming into one of their cars.

"Kill that b*tch!" Derek roared.

All of his subordinates rushed toward them, roaring.

Slam! Slap! Bang!

In less than a minute, everyone was lying on the floor and moaning in pain.

All of his subordinates were skilled fighters, but they had unfortunately met a soldier who had just left the squad.

They couldn't even compete with her.

"Screw off! If anyone else comes to mess with Ms. Lopez again, I'll kill them!" Sylas warned coldly.

Derek was on the verge of tears.

How is this woman so good at fighting?

At the other side of town, in the Davies family's restaurant, Jacky sat down at a prepared table as the family members crowded around him.

He lazily asked, "It's already 8 p.m.. Is she here yet?"

Leslie started to panic.

Where is Derek? He'd been gone for half the day now!

Is he unable to do even such a simple thing?

“What are you doing here? I asked you to bring her over, didn’t I?” Jacky asked coldly at the sight of Leslie, who practically wet himself after being called out.

“I-I sent my son to do it! I had t-to stay behind and make... sure all your demands were met, right? In case anything happened...” Leslie stammered.

“I said 8 p.m., didn’t I? She’s three minutes late. What’s up with that? Do you just not give a sh*t about whatever I told you?” Jacky started raising his voice, causing Leslie to fall to his knees.

“I’ll immediately ask for their whereabouts!” Leslie instantly placed the call.

“You piece of trash, where are you? Where is Zoey Lopez?” Leslie bellowed.

“Things aren’t looking good! Zoey has a super strong female bodyguard that beat all of us!”

“What? She beat all of you?” Leslie said in shock.

“What’s the problem?” Jacky asked coldly.

The Protector Chapter 621

“Zoey turned you down, Jacky! She even let her bodyguard beat them up!” Leslie replied.

“How dare she?” Jacky roared, his eyes glinting murderously.

“No one should have the guts to turn me down! Whoever turns me down is already a dead person in my book!” Jacky said furiously.

At that very moment, Derek returned with his subordinates.

They all sported black eyes, split lips and a multitude of bruises and injuries.

Derek instantly collapsed in a bow in front of Jacky and cried out, “You have to help us!”

“Tell me everything that happened!” Jacky’s face was as dark as coal.

“We went to invite Zoey over on your behalf, but she was incredibly disrespectful! When I brought up your name, she even swore at you! We were about to use force when her bodyguard beat us all up!” Derek took some liberties with his storytelling.

Jacky couldn’t care less about how true the story was.

From that, he understood Zoey had turned him down and beat his subordinates up.

This was a clear slap to his face!

“You’re all garbage! You can’t even bring one person to me! What do I keep you all around for?” Jacky roared in anger.

He hadn’t thought that he’d need to personally step out for something like this.

Leslie was terrified.

Jacky changed the topic. “Still, there’s no one on earth that I can’t invite!”

He looked at Leslie. “Go and tell Zoey Lopez that she has to come bow before me before tonight ends. If not, they’ll all end up like Brock Green!”

“Understood!”

Soon enough, Leslie arrived at the Black family manor.

By now, everyone knew Leslie was one of the puppets of the mysterious force that had taken over South City.

They were terrified at the mere sight of him.

“What are you here for, Mr. Davies?” Bailey asked respectfully.

“Bring Zoey Lopez out right now!” Leslie commanded in a cold voice.

Very quickly, Zoey walked out of the house with Syllas by her side.

“Zoey, this is your last warning! Jacky demanded for you to go and kneel before him by tonight, or else all of you will suffer the same fate as Brock Green!”

After that, Leslie left.

“Who’s Jacky? In fact, what happened to Brock?” Zoey asked, confused.

“Zoey, you’re in big trouble!”

After Meredith and the others told Zoey what was going on, her expression changed to one of terror.

She hadn’t known that her mysterious inviter was such a terrifying person.

The Blacks were all incredibly worried.

They had purposely invited Sylas to be Zoey’s bodyguard so they could prevent her from getting in danger.

They hadn’t expected her to really cause trouble!

“What should we do?” Bailey asked.

Zoey said firmly, “I’m not going. I don’t even know him! Why would I go?”

Sylas nodded. “That’s right. I’m on Ms. Lopez’s side. With me here, no one can hurt her, anyway.”

Bailey instantly rebutted, “It’s no longer about whether you go. You have to go! Jacky is much too strong. He killed people as strong as Brock and the Grandmaster! If you don’t go, we’ll all be in big trouble.”

Russell asked, “If she goes, won’t she be in danger?”

“No, of course not. Jacky purposely invited her. If he really wanted to harm her, he wouldn’t have sent someone over to invite her. He would have just snatched and killed her,” Pamela mused.

They all saw sense in that.

Meredith said, "Zoey, you should go! Do it for the sake of the family. Don't worry, nothing will happen to you!"

"Grandma, I-" Zoey was finally wavering.

"She's not going!" A voice suddenly rang out.

The Protector Chapter 622

Levi had arrived.

He scoffed coldly, "If he wants to invite her, then he should come to beg for himself!"

They became outraged at his comment.

"What are you saying, Levi?"

"You better not let Jacky hear you! If not, you'll die a really painful death!"

"What are you even here for? You and Zoey are already divorced. You have no right to boss her around!"

The Black family members glared at Levi, their gaze full of hatred.

Levi smirked, "I have no right? Have you forgotten that we're still business partners? Since this has to do with Zoey's safety, of course I have to butt in!"

When she saw Levi, Zoey became much more at ease.

However, Meredith glared at Syllas. "Didn't I tell you not to let Levi near Zoey? Get rid of him! While you're at it, you can really prove yourself to us."

Meredith just wanted to use Syllas to teach Levi a lesson.

She wanted him to stay far away from her granddaughter.

"Grandma, I'll go, alright? Don't bother Levi."

Zoey finally agreed.

Only then did Meredith relax.

“Okay. Go, quickly. Sylas, follow her. If anything happens, let me know!”

After they walked outside, Levi called out, “You’re not going.”

Sylas looked at Levi before saying, “Ms. Lopez, I might hate his guts, but he’s right. You can’t go.”

“Okay, I’ll listen to you two,” Zoey said with a nod.

The three of them booked a hotel room to stay in for the night.

Back at the Davies family, Jacky and the others were still working.

“Jacky, I’ve already told her to come! Even if she doesn’t want to come, the Black family will still force her to come. In fact, they just called to say that she’s on her way!” Leslie reported with a smile.

Jacky nodded, satisfied. “Looks like the Black family knows their stuff.”

Leslie and some others chuckled. “You really broke records with what you did last night! Now, the entire South City is scared of you!”

“Is that so? Now we wait.”

Jacky closed his eyes to rest them for a bit.

At 10 p.m., the doors remained closed.

It stayed the same at 11 p.m..

At midnight, Jacky's eyes shot open.

"Where is she?" he asked coldly.

"She has yet to arrive," Leslie reported, bowing his head.

He had set up some people on watch nearby, but they hadn't spotted Zoey at all.

"Would you like me to ask the Black family?" Leslie asked cautiously.

"There's no need. She's not coming," Jacky said with a chuckle.

Leslie, Derek and the others waited with bated breath around him.

Despite his chuckle, he was actually furious.

This was already two huge slaps to the face.

He couldn't just take that lying down.

"She clearly doesn't give a sh*t about me. Oh, well, I still refuse to believe that I can't force her to come!" Jacky said with a sinister smile.

"I'll slowly force you out of your little hiding spot!"

Jacky continued chuckling darkly to himself.

Clearly, he already had a plan.

Besides, his master wasn't here yet, so he could take his time.

Nothing happened the whole night.

The Black family were under the impression that Zoey had really gone to Jacky.

The next day, she arrived at her office and spotted a gift box on her desk.

“Who is this from?” Zoey asked.

“I don’t know, Ms. Lopez. It’s been here since just now,” her secretary replied, just as confused.

“Open it and check,” Zoey said.

The secretary seemed a little nervous, not daring to open it up.

“I’ll do it!”

Sylas stepped forward and opened the box.

“Oh!”

The moment the box opened, Zoey and Sylas immediately went pale in terror.

Thump.

The secretary, who was in no way as brave as the others, collapsed on the ground in a dead faint.

The Protector Chapter 623

The reason behind that was simple. The box contained ten fingers that had been chopped off, and they were still oozing blood at the time.

If Zoey wasn't mentally strong, she would've passed out right then and there.

Sylas, on the other hand, remained calm.

"I'll go deal with this. Don't worry," promised Sylas before she took the box away and took the secretary to the infirmary.

"Ms. Lopez, this is obviously their doing!" claimed Sylas with a grim expression on.

She had thought that her job as a security guard would be simple, never would she expected to encounter something that serious on her first day.

That was fine for her, though, because it would've been too boring otherwise.

"Ms. Lopez, should I go deal with the perpetrator?" asked Sylas.

Sylas was a warrior, so she was fearless.

"No, you can't go!"

The phone in the office rang at that moment, and Zoey went to pick it up.

The unfamiliar voice of a man came through, "Is this Ms. Zoey Lopez?"

"Yes, and who are you?" asked Zoey.

“Ms. Lopez is so forgetful. I sent an invitation twice yesterday, and you’ve already forgotten about me. I am Jacky Lawson. Remember that.”

“You!” growled Zoey as an icy expression settled on her face.

“By the way, Ms. Lopez, have you received my gift? Do you like it?” asked Jacky before he chuckled aloud.

“Are you threatening me? Well, too bad, because I am not afraid!” replied Zoey coolly.

“Ms. Lopez is so imposing. You are the first person who ever dared reject my request, and I admire that. However, I will be giving you a gift every day from now on. Please look forward to it.”

Beep! Beep! Beep!

Jacky hung up immediately after.

Zoey sighed a long breath of relief.

She was eerily pale at the time, and she’d be lying if she said that she wasn’t afraid.

A gift every day? I got bloody fingers today, so what’s next? An arm? A leg? Or maybe even a human head?

When Zoey thought about that, her breathing became uneven, and she was so terrified that all the color drained from her face.

It seemed that she had gotten herself into a heap of trouble.

“Sylas, should I just go to him? We can’t let this go on.”

Zoey was already starting to raise her white flag.

She was worried about making a bigger mess if she persisted.

“Ms. Lopez, something terrible happened,” said an employee suddenly as he rushed in nervously.

“What’s wrong?” asked Zoey.

“Someone just discovered Barry from the sanitization department on the washroom floor. All ten of his fingers were chopped off...”

“What?”

Boom!

Zoey’s mind went blank, and even Sylas looked affected.

So the “gift” I just received...

Seems like they had already looked into everyone close to me, and they might target anyone.

Barry of the sanitization department is the victim of the day. My secretary might be the next victim, and members of the Black family might be targeted as well.

Zoey was devastated when she thought about that possibility.

She felt out of breath.

That was when Meredith called her suddenly.

“Zoey, did you not go to the Davies family residence yesterday?” asked Meredith anxiously.

“No, I didn’t, grandma,” replied Zoey honestly.

“Ah, you’ve made a huge mess this time, young lady. A handful of the Black family’s maids went missing today, and we still can’t reach them,” informed Meredith, who sounded worried.

“You know what? Find a way and go clean up the mess you’ve made, or we might be the ones who go missing next!” urged Meredith.

Boom!

Zoey was on the verge of breaking down.

That was just the first day, and her family might be the ones getting hurt in the following days.

What do I do?

Two streams of tears rolled down Zoey’s cheeks silently.

The Protector Chapter 624

“Ms. Lopez, I will go deal with them right away,” growled Sylas angrily.

Zoey shook her head and replied, “That won’t do. They are operating from the shadows while we are wide open.”

Sylas was stumped.

She could deal with anything if it were all laid out in plain sight, but she was not good at dealing with schemes and hidden traps.

“Then what should we do?” asked Sylas, who felt a headache coming.

That was only their first day!

Zoey calmed her employees down and sent the injured to the hospital, but she was getting more and more worried.

An invisible threat was looming over her head, and she was in a position where she couldn’t do anything even though she knew that she was in danger...

“I should’ve listened to grandma last night and drop by the Davies family residence,” murmured Zoey, who was starting to regret her decision.

She didn’t realize that rejecting a simple invitation would bring about a problem that big.

Even Sylas couldn’t help but bite her lip a little.

I shouldn’t have acted so impulsively and caused such a mess.

At the Davies family's residence.

"The Black family is in a mess now, Jacky, and the people at Oriental Star Group are terrified as well," informed Derek with a smile.

Jacky grinned evilly. "That's what I was aiming for. Zoey Lopez rejected my offer, in return, I shall make her live in fear for the rest of her life!"

Leslie laughed aloud and said, "Hah, rejecting Jacky Lawson. That woman doesn't know what's good for her."

Jacky laughed as well. "Honestly though, I am curious about the kind of woman who dares to go against me."

"I have a photo of her, Jacky. Here," said Derek as he showed Jacky a few photos of Zoey.

"Huh?"

Jacky's eyes glowed when he saw Zoey's photos.

He grinned as he examined the photo closely, and it seemed like he was extremely excited about it.

Jacky's reaction surprised even the two fighting experts standing beside him. One of the fighters wore a black mask while the other wore a white mask.

Master has never been lustful, nor has he ever been attracted by any women. Why is he acting strange this time? Did he see someone exotic?

"She is stunning," murmured Jacky.

Ever since Jacky was a kid, his master had been telling him that women and gambling were things that he cannot get close to. His master claimed that they would affect his future and that Jacky was destined to be great.

That was why Jacky had always been strict with his private life, and he had only ever been with a few women.

He would only be with those who truly captivated him and would ignore the rest.

It was obvious that Zoey had captivated Jacky.

He instantly changed his plan and decided that he wouldn't keep threatening or scaring Zoey.

Instead, he would make her become his!

One look at Jacky's expression, and Leslie knew just what the former was thinking.

Leslie immediately said, "Don't worry, Jacky. I will have that woman delivered to your bed tonight."

Jacky shifted his gaze to Leslie and glared, "I have lost faith in you two, so you will not carry out this mission!"

"I..."

Leslie and Derek both have their heads down.

"Spread the news in the underworld. Anyone who can deliver Zoey Lopez over to me tonight will receive ten territories and two underground gambling centers," ordered Jacky.

"Understood."

The entire underworld of South City stirred upon receiving that news.

Ten territories and two underground gambling centers?

For people of underworld, the offer was simply too alluring.

Whoever gets their hands on the reward would be turned into a major player in the underworld of South City, and they would be entitled to receive Jacky's protection.

That was the kind of privilege that would tempt others to kill even the Grandmaster and Brock Green.

The entire underworld was plunged into chaos.

Over thousands of people were persuaded, and everyone wanted to personally hand Zoey over to Jacky.

Naturally, Zoey was unaware of the fact that every criminal in South City had their eyes on her.

The Protector Chapter 625

The building where Zoey's office was located, in particular, had a lot of random strangers showing up.

Everything about Zoey was learned and shared in real-time.

Over a thousand men had their eyes on her.

Leslie couldn't help but admire Jacky's strategy.

Jacky got the entire underworld to work for him, so neither he nor his subordinate needed to show up.

That kept Jacky's identity a secret.

He's good, really good.

"I've also learned that Zoey is still a virgin, even though she has been married for over six years. Her husband never slept with her," shared Derek.

Jacky tapped on Derek's shoulder in appreciation after hearing that. "Good, that is great news. I wouldn't have minded if she is married, but it's even better if she's a virgin. Tonight is destined to be a beautiful night. Derek, go get the room ready," said Jacky.

Leslie immediately chimed in, "Jacky, I promise that you will have a great time tonight."

"Hahaha..."

The men all laughed aloud.

Night fell soon after, and the entire city fell into darkness.

Zoey and Sylas realized that the parking lot was empty when they walked out of the elevator. A chill ambushed them and made them shiver.

Sylas had her guard up as she scanned her surroundings. She sensed that something was off.

“Ms. Lopez, please get in the car before me,” instructed Sylas sternly.

Her instinct told her that they were not alone.

Zoey got into the car obediently and urged, “Sylas, hurry and get into the car too. Let’s leave as quickly as possible.”

“It’s too late for that,” replied Sylas.

She had just finished speaking when shadows jumped out of every corner of the parking lot.

Bang! Bang! Bang!

A number of cars stopped simultaneously, and a handful of men got out of each car.

There were at least a few hundred men, and they surrounded the two women.

“What is going on?” blurted Zoey, who was scared witless.

She had never seen anything like that before, so she fished out her phone to ask for help.

However, she soon realized that her phone couldn't receive any signals.

A fierce-looking hooligan rushed over at that moment.

Sylas stood her ground, like a mountain of cold steel.

"F*ck off! We only want Zoey Lopez, and bystanders can leave," barked the leader cruelly.

"You will have to get through me to get to Ms. Lopez," scoffed Sylas, whose eyes shone with determination.

"Attack!"

Over hundreds of men rushed over, and they seemed as overwhelming as a tsunami.

Sylas growled and faced them head on.

Sylas was a female warrior who had fought on the battlefield, after all, so she was ridiculously powerful.

Her skilled battle techniques shone through as soon as she started fighting.

She was so good that she knocked over a dozen men down with a single hit.

Sylas was ruthless, and she showed no mercy, so the experts from the underworld couldn't even get close to her.

A few minutes later, Sylas knocked over fifty men down.

Seeing that got the others to fear her a little.

“Boys, we will be rewarded with ten territories and two gambling centers if we capture Zoey Lopez! Attack now. She is but a woman, and she can’t keep up no matter how strong she is.”

Someone had shouted from the crowd and that inspired the men to push forward as if they had been drugged with a serum that gave them courage.

Sylas was the obstacle in their quest to getting rich, and everyone wanted to destroy her.

Even though Syllas was strong, there were simply too many against her.

With hundreds of men attacking simultaneously, she was slowly but surely pushed back.

Bang!

Someone finally landed a kick on Syllas.

Syllas forced herself to stand up, despite having over a dozen cuts on her.

“Kill her!”

A few men had a dagger with them, and they rushed over.

Syllas’ life was on the line...

Zoey wanted to get out of the car and save Syllas, but she didn’t even have the time to do so. All she could do was watch.

The Protector Chapter 626

Boom!

At that crucial moment, a force that could rival that of an insanely aggressive tornado flew over, and the men who were about to kill Syllas were forced to back away.

Thud! Thud! Thud!

A series of pained moans could be heard after that.

Over a dozen men lost their ability to fight within those few nanoseconds.

All Zoey and Syllas saw was a dark shadow showing up in front of them.

The shadow was none other than Hades.

Levi's order for Hades was that he must protect Zoey, even if it meant sacrificing his own life.

As such, his mission was to destroy every single person in front of him.

Hades attacked.

He was like a leopard dashing towards his prey.

Hades had a reputation of having killed over a thousand men, and he was a country's God of War.

Compared to the soldiers in the army, the underworld hooligans were nothing but sniveling babies.

When Hades fought, he made others feel as if they had somehow fallen into the cruelest and deepest pit of hell.

It only took him about ten minutes to crush everyone and get them to moan in pain on the floor.

No one was left standing.

Both Zoey and Syllas were stupefied.

He is too powerful. H-he just crushed over a hundred men in mere minutes?

After dealing with the men, Hades walked over to Syllas and spoke in pieces. It was like he was a foreigner who was struggling to speak their language. "I here, no one hurt Ms. Lopez."

Hades left after saying his piece with a heavy accent and terrible grammar.

Brock Green's old comrades and over a hundred other experts had surrendered as soon as they saw Hades.

They didn't realize that Zoey was protected by a man that powerful.

In short, anyone who knew Hades had backed away out of fear.

Hades had, in effect, destroyed the entire underworld all on his own.

That was precisely why Levi had assigned the task of keeping Zoey safe to Hades.

Both Zoey and Syllas were surprised.

Zoey, in particular, was utterly speechless.

Someone else is protecting me? Someone that powerful, no less. His accent... He has to be from a foreign country.

“What?” shouted Jacky, who soon received the news.

“Zoey Lopez’s bodyguard crushed over hundreds of men on his own? And everyone who went was defeated?”

Jacky’s eyes bulged so much that it seemed like they were about to pop out of his sockets.

Everyone was in shock.

They knew that the man had, in effect, destroyed the underworld of South City.

Derek immediately added, “Zoey’s personal bodyguard is too powerful, Jacky.”

“Looks like I’ve underestimated her. No wonder she dared to reject my offer. Turns out she had something up her sleeves,” mused Jacky.

“Seems like my investigation on Zoey isn’t detailed enough. How about I look into her bodyguard as well?” asked Leslie.

“That won’t be necessary. I refuse to believe that there is someone out there that I can’t get my hands on,” replied Jacky as he shook his head. After that, he added, “Hey, you two.”

Jacky turned to the two men wearing masks.

“We’re listening, master,” replied the two men while standing up straight.

“Go and get Zoey over for me and kill anyone who gets in your way,” barked Jacky coldly.

“We promise to accomplish our mission, master.”

Leslie and the others drew a sharp breath.

They’re both going? Isn’t that a little too much?

Leslie and the others had only ever witnessed those two masked men working twice.

The men were weird, and they moved like they were performing a magic show.

One glare could literally kill someone, and a single touch could pulverize their victims.

No one can stop them.

Jacky laughed aloud. “Who would’ve thought that I’d find someone that powerful in South City?”

“Jacky, isn’t it a little too over-the-top to send both men in?” asked Leslie, who thought that sending in one of them was sufficient.

“That is why you can’t get anything done right! I want to be a hundred percent sure that this is done right,” shouted Jacky as he glared over.

“Understood. Thank you for teaching me a lesson, Jacky,” replied Leslie.

Meanwhile, the two fighting experts with their masks on had arrived at the Black family’s manor.

“Let’s just kill everyone in there,” suggested the man in the white mask as his eyes shimmered with cruelty.

The Protector Chapter 627

“Sure.”

Just as the two experts were about to walk in, a shadow suddenly appeared in front of them.

Or, to be more accurate, two shadows showed up.

One of the men was hiding behind the other guy and was taking his time to reveal himself.

He had a cigarette between his lips, and the glow at the end of his cigarette was especially bright in the dark.

That man was none other than Levi Garrison.

“Barging into my territory, are we? Seems to me you have a death wish!” said Levi softly.

The two masked experts turned to one another before they attacked.

The one with the white mask specialized in speed, and he could kill without anyone seeing. His speed was so incredible that he could trick the naked eye.

Zip!

The man showed up in front of Levi in an instance, and the sharp dagger he had with him exuded a horrifying aura.

The white-masked man was simply too fast.

If anyone else was around, they would see that he was still standing in his original position.

The fact, however, was that he was already standing in front of Levi.

Swish!

The dagger seemed to be engulfed in a murderous aura.

The white-masked man was confident that he could kill Levi, but another man suddenly showed up in front of him. A huge shadow loomed over the white-masked man and blurred his vision.

“What the hell?” blurted the white-masked man as his expression changed sharply.

He couldn't believe that someone could actually keep up with him.

A sense of danger encompassed the white-masked man at the very next second.

Bang!

His chest was punched hard, and his organs were instantly crushed. His bones also shattered.

He was flying wildly like a kite with a broken string as he flew backward.

Naturally, the one who attacked was Hades.

The other expert, the black-masked man, was stunned.

He immediately rushed over and threw a merciless punch at Hades.

The black-masked man was strong, and his strength had never met its match before.

The black-masked man had once crushed a marble table and the Beast of Death with a single touch.

He could do that because he mastered the Ancient Arts of Qi, which was a traditional fighting technique thought to be mythical.

The Ancient Arts of Qi could shatter anything the hand touched, and a human body would crumble when hit.

Despite that, Hades never avoided or backed away from that attack. Instead, he used the same technique and threw his punch at a similar angle.

Bang!

The two fists met, and the booming sound of thunder was heard.

“Urk!”

The black-masked man fell backward. He spat blood at the very next second.

Crack!

Half of his mask even broke off.

Levi clapped his hand when he saw that. He praised, “Not bad, not bad at all. I made the right decision keeping you around all those years ago. White Tiger and the others no longer need to come all the way over to solve the issue.”

“I am glad to be of service,” replied Hades, who looked like he was truly glad to have received the compliment.

Levi and Hades walked forward.

Hades tore the white mask off of the other expert as well.

That was when they saw that the masked men had the word “slave” carved on both their faces.

At that moment, both men were trembling in fear.

Turned out, Brock Green was right. There was a being in South City that they could not afford to offend.

At the Davies family’s residence.

“Hmm... The two of them had been gone for so long. Nothing bad could’ve happened to them, could it?” murmured Leslie, who seemed a little nervous and worried.

“Pfft, that is not possible. Those two are my master’s slaves. One of them has been learning the Ancient Arts of Qi ever since he was a kid, while the other trained his speed with a leopard. They have reached a level that you cannot even imagine, so they couldn’t have possibly failed,” bragged Jacky as he grinned proudly.

That was why he brought those two to South City. He was confident that they were strong enough to deal with anything.

“I’m glad to hear that,” said Leslie, even though his heart was still thumping with anxiety.

“My guess is that they are busy killing everyone. Given their style, it is likely that the Black family will go extinct tonight,” said Jacky as he smiled.

His eyes burned with a hint of lust, and it seemed like he couldn't wait to meet Zoey.

Leslie gasped upon hearing that.

"Is that so?" asked a voice that suddenly rang from the other side of the door.

Bang!

Bang!

Two corpses were tossed into the room at the same time.

The Protector Chapter 628

Jacky, Leslie, and the others were stunned when their gaze fell upon the two corpses.

A-aren't these my master's slaves? H-how did they die?

Jacky's eyes shone with surprise and confusion, while Leslie's jaw dropped so far that an egg could hatch between his lips.

Both experts were annihilated? How is that possible?

Both men were the ones who crushed Brock Green's illegal boxing match and had the entire underworld of South City on its knees!

Their strengths were practically god-like, and their techniques were like magic.

How did they die?

"N-no, tell me this isn't true," demanded Jacky with a look of mania in his eyes.

He couldn't believe what he was seeing.

Those two slaves had been with him ever since they were kids, and they had killed countless experts.

They had never been defeated before, but they died that day.

Jacky simply couldn't believe it.

What kind of monster is capable of killing them?

Tap! Tap! Tap!

A series of footsteps sounded, and Levi and Hades showed up.

“W-who are you?” asked Jacky in surprise.

“We’re the ones who have come to kill you,” answered Levi calmly.

Zip!

Ten men, all of which were Jacky’s bodyguards, hurried over to protect him.

“Die!”

Hades attacked.

All ten men fell to the floor soon after, and the other men were utterly flabbergasted.

Leslie and Derek had become so terrified that they knelt on the ground.

They realized that they had offended someone they should never have bothered.

Jacky, however, couldn’t adapt to the new situation. He stared blankly at Levi and asked, “Who are you?”

“Fine, let me help you understand why you must die. Zoey Lopez is my wife, and South City is under my protection. Anything I say goes. You killed in my territory, and that is nothing less than an invitation to death,” replied Levi.

Boom!

Jacky felt like he had been struck by lightning after hearing what Levi said.

Jacky remembered what Brock said just before he died. Brock talked about a being in South City that could not be defeated and warned Jacky to flee as quickly as possible or he would die.

Looks like this is the guy Brock warned me about... And he is Zoey Lopez's husband!

Jacky had calmed down by then, and he looked serene when he grinned. "You truly are strong. My useless subordinates must've made a fool of themselves in front of you. May I know more about your identity?" asked Jacky.

Levi grinned.

Looks like this man is skilled in his own way. He can stay calm despite having death looming over him. No wonder Brock and the others are no match against him.

Hades scoffed, "You are not worthy of learning who he is."

"Sir, why don't we be friends instead? We haven't had any direct conflicts, and this is all just a misunderstanding. I hereby apologize for it. Moreover, my subordinates had been killed, so how about we call it even?" suggested Jacky, who tried to settle the issue.

"Oh, calling it even just like that, huh? Who do you think you are?" sneered Levi.

Jacky smiled and replied, "You don't know this, but my identity is not something an ordinary guy can handle. Settling this matter peacefully benefits you as well."

"Too bad I don't believe in any of your words. Kill him!"

Levi's eyes shot two sharp glares over.

Hades walked towards Jacky upon receiving his orders.

Jacky panicked.

“W-what do you think you’re doing? Do you know who I am? Don’t do something you’ll regret!”

Leslie chimed in and advised as well, “Let’s calm down for a moment, sirs. He truly isn’t just a regular guy. We’ll all be in trouble if you hurt him.”

“It’s true. The power supporting Jacky is not something anyone can handle,” added Derek.

Jacky calmed down a lot upon hearing that.

Levi, however, simply roared cruelly, “Kill him!”

Hades continued moving forward upon hearing that.

“I am He-” shouted Jacky as loudly as he could.

The Protector Chapter 629

Zip!

Like an arrow that flew out of a bow, Hades shot forward and killed Jacky with a single touch.

Thump!

Jacky's body fell straight onto the floor.

In the end, his evil deed caused him to pay the ultimate price.

The Davies family was in shock.

They actually killed Jacky? Before he even told them who he is?

"I know you are powerful, sir, but Jacky honestly was someone who was protected. His true identity is simply too scary," said Leslie

"I don't care who he is," said Levi as he glared coldly at him.

Hades' eyes shone with mockery.

Seriously? They're talking about true identities and protections? With this guy? Almost everyone trembles in fear when they hear this guy's title, so it's just stupid to think that he can't handle whoever's coming.

Levi and Hades left after that.

They left the Davies alone because as far as Levi was concerned, those people were nothing more than maggots that didn't deserve his attention.

The news about the demise of Jacky and his subordinates was spread throughout the underworld in South City.

Everyone was surprised to hear that.

That man was defeated?

"Our investigation finally bore fruit. The murderer is Hades, who used to be Brock's subordinate!"

"Hades truly is powerful, but he definitely bit more than he can chew this time."

"Right? I heard that Jacky's identity is feared throughout the Southern region of Erudia!"

The underworld went wild.

Everyone knew that the person protecting Jacky would be there soon, and the war had just begun.

The Davies family was particularly nervous because they knew who Jacky really was.

They understood that Jacky was just the vanguard. The rest of the army would be there soon, and that was when everything would truly change.

The news of Jacky's death was shared quickly.

Somewhere in South Hampton.

“What? My student died in South City?! Such insolence! I will have every single one of their heads for this!”

Meanwhile, Levi and Hades were at the Black family’s front yard.

“Let them know that the matter has been settled,” instructed Levi.

He didn’t want anyone to know about his identity just yet.

Instead, he wanted to tell Zoey the truth on their wedding day.

There’s no point in telling her everything now. I’ll surprise her when we have the wedding of the century!

“Understood,” replied Hades.

He walked into the Black family’s residence and went to Zoey’s place.

Sylas was injured earlier, but those were just minor injuries. Hence, she was fine after some simple treatments.

She guarded outside the door and was surprised when she saw Hades walking over.

Isn’t this the guy who rescued us earlier?

“Ms. Lopez, the man who rescued us earlier is here,” informed Sylas immediately.

Zoey rushed out upon hearing that.

“Ms. Lopez, I’ve dealt with the troublemaker, and everything is fine now,” reported Hades before he turned around to leave.

“Wait, Um, thank you for your help. May I know who you are?” asked Zoey as she chased after him.

However, Hades simply left without even turning back.

“Sylas, hurry after him and find out who he is,” requested Zoey.

“Okay,” replied Sylas.

She was curious about Hades’ true identity as well.

Something about Hades felt familiar, and Sylas was certain that she had met him before, even though she never saw his face.

The Protector Chapter 630

Sylas later saw someone she definitely knew... Levi Garrison!

Isn't he Ms. Lopez's ex? I almost beat him up two days ago. Huh... Who would've thought that he was the one keeping Ms. Lopez safe? Wait, why is the expert following him around? Didn't the Blacks say that he is useless?

He is just a security guard from Morris Group, isn't he? So how did he pull all that off? Hold on, he also knows Ezra, from the Western Warzone... perhaps it isn't a coincidence that they met?

Countless questions were swirling inside Sylas' mind when she heard Hades asking Levi, "God of War, should I drag her out?"

Levi grinned and called out, "Come on out. You've already crouched and hidden for so long."

Upon hearing that, Sylas was startled.

She had always been proud of her skills to stay hidden.

She was at the top of her squad in that field.

Darn it, they caught me.

Sylas had no choice but to show herself. She asked curiously, "H-how long have you known?"

"I knew you were following me the second you left the house," replied Hades as he glared grouchily at Sylas.

Sylas finally saw Hades' face, and she gasped, "Y-you are Hades from L Nation. Y-you...."

Sylas remembered how, a few years ago, Ezra led the army from the Western Warzone to fight against the army from L Nation.

Hades was so strong that he defeated the Western warriors over a dozen times.

In the end, the God of War had to step up and personally lead the army to defeat the L Nation's army.

The L Nation army was pulverized.

However, Hades had already left a lasting impression on the Western warriors, and that was why Sylas recognized Hades.

She was practically traumatized.

Her expression turned, and she stared at Levi with astonishment shining in her eyes.

Who the hell is he? How did he get Hades to protect Ms. Lopez? Is he someone of importance? Or perhaps a rich guy?

Levi chuckled when he saw her reaction. "You actually recognize him. Well, that is understandable. After all, you've battled against Hades when you were serving under that punk, Ezra," commented Levi.

Boom!

Levi's words blew Sylas' mind.

How does Levi Garrison know about all that? Who the hell is he?

“W-who are you?” asked Sylas.

Levi took a puff from his cigarette and grinned before instructing, “You tell her.”

Hades turned to Sylas and answered, “The man standing in front of you is the nightmare of every soldier in every other country. He is the weapon of mass destruction and the devil of the battlefield, and his title is the God of War of Erudia!”

Boom!

Sylas’ legs instinctively gave way upon hearing the answer and she slumped onto the ground.

The God of War? Holy cr*p! It’s the legendary God of War. No wonder he knew all about the battle at the Western Warzone and got Hades as his personal guard, he even called the head of the Western border chief, Ezra, a punk...

Sylas was horrified when she learned everything.

She knew that she had made a grave mistake.

I can’t believe that I actually attacked the God of War!

Sylas stood up unsteadily before she bowed to Levi. “I, Sylas, an ex-warrior of the Western Warzone, am honored to meet you, God of War.”

As far as the soldiers of Erudia were concerned, meeting the God of War was a great privilege.

Sylas was proud of herself.

She didn’t realize that her job was protecting the God of War’s wife.

Levi greeted politely as well.

“Please punish me for my mistakes, Chief!” said Sylas.

“Punish you? Why?” asked Levi as he frowned.

Sylas felt a little embarrassed as she reminded him, “I was rude to you the other day and almost attacked you. Please punish me for it.”

Levi suddenly burst out laughing, and that got Sylas curious.

The Protector Chapter 631

“It’s true that if my wife didn’t show up that day, I would’ve taught you a lesson, but you almost died protecting my wife. That deserves a reward, so I will ignore the previous incident. Just continue keeping my wife safe,” informed Levi.

It’d save Levi a lot of trouble if someone as capable as Sylas was protecting Zoey.

“Understood. I promise I will protect Zoey with all I’ve got.”

Sylas had already retired from the battlefield, but she still had the heart of a warrior.

From that moment on, she vowed to protect Zoey with her entire being.

After Sylas returned, Zoey asked, “How is it? Did you find out who he is?”

Sylas shook her head and replied, “I was discovered as soon as I left, Ms. Lopez, so let’s not talk about it anymore. Still, you should know that the person protecting you has to be someone who cares deeply about you.”

The first person that Zoey thought of was Levi, but she quickly dismissed that idea because the man seemed too powerful to be Levi.

South City turned quiet after Jacky met his demise.

However, those in the inner circle understood that the silence was just the calm before the storm.

A bloodbath was on the horizon.

The Black family knew nothing about that, of course. They simply thought that their troubles were over.

Meredith even pushed Zoey to go on blind dates.

The former had looked through a lot of profiles, but none caught her eyes.

“I feel like no one in Quebec is good enough for Zoey,” claimed Meredith proudly.

“Indeed. At first, I thought that it would be a piece of cake to find Zoey a suitor. Now that we’ve looked, I see that there are none good enough for her, and if we aren’t satisfied with these men, there is no way that Zoey would be interested in them either,” said Robert who looked troubled as he sighed.

Logan and Jennie entered the room at that moment.

“Grandma, grandpa, we looked into the matter like you asked and found the perfect candidate. He meets all of your requirements, and I am certain that Zoey would love him too!” bragged Jennie.

“Tell us.”

Both Meredith and Robert were excited.

“The guy is incredible. He is of mixed-blood with the perfect genes, and he is a legitimate heir. His mother is royalty from a foreign country,” shared Jennie.

“Huh? A mixed-blood? That’s perfect! They’re tall and handsome, and have good genes,” said the Blacks, who were satisfied so far.

That was a time when mixed-bloods were popular.

“What’s his family like?” asked Meredith.

“Oh, his family is ridiculously powerful. His grandpa is the major shareholder at the place I work in, New Alliance Bank. In other words, his grandpa is the renowned Kurt Gates of South Hampton.”

“What? Kurt Gates?”

Both Meredith and Robert were stunned.

Kurt was a reputable and respectable man in South Hampton and the president of the South Hampton Chamber of Commerce.

The fact that South Hampton was the economic district of Erudia would mean that the president of the Chamber of Commerce in that district had to be extremely powerful.

The man was probably so powerful that even an overview of his power would scare most to death.

He was one of the leading men in South Hampton’s economic circles, and his wealth was comparable to that of a country.

He managed over a hundred private banks and had a great reputation in South Hampton.

He also had countless disciples and was regarded as a God among men.

In fact, he was like a mythical dragon roaming in the sky.

His grandson has got to be perfect as well.

“It was a coincidence, but his grandson, Landyn, came to New Alliance Bank to participate in an event, and I bumped into him,” informed Jennie as she grinned.

“But would he agree to the marriage? Zoey’s net worth is fifty billion, but that is not a lot.”

The Blacks’ worries had shifted. Now, they felt like they weren’t good enough for him.

Jennie chuckled and replied, “You guys probably don’t know about this, but Landyn was Zoey’s senior when she studied overseas. He was the one who came to me, and he was delighted when he heard that Zoey got a divorce. I think he will definitely agree to a wedding. Moreover, I heard that Landyn tried to court Zoey back in the days...”

“That is great news!”

The Blacks were all excited and happy to hear it.

They could finally merge with a powerful family!

The Protector Chapter 632

Oriental Star Group.

In the CEO's office.

"Ms. Lopez, something bad seems to have happened," said Sylas all of a sudden.

Zoey was stunned, "Huh? Something happened?"

"Check it out. There are a lot of cars parked on the ground floor," informed Sylas, who was staring out the window.

Zoey walked over to take a look.

As promised, ten Rolls-Royce were parked at the entrance of Oriental Star Group's building.

Multiple men in tuxedos got out of the cars and stood at the side.

After that, a tall guy in a white tuxedo got out of one of the cars.

He looked like a mixed-blood, and his mere appearance got the spectators to praise his beauty.

He brought his men and walked right into Oriental Star Group.

When asked, the man's subordinate showed the receptionist and the security guard his identity card. They were let in immediately after.

“Please take me to Ms. Lopez,” requested the man.

The man was brought to Zoey’s office soon after.

“Huh? Landyn?” blurted Zoey, who recognized the man.

That was the senior who courted her when she was an exchange student in a foreign country.

The guy even gave her an extravagant gift when she got married.

“You remembered me?” asked Landyn as he grinned.

“How could I forget? You helped me out a lot back in the days,” replied Zoey with a smile.

Sylas had her guard up as she stared at Landyn.

She had been paying attention to the men around Zoey ever since she received her orders from Levi.

Sylas didn’t like the guy standing in front of her. Not. One. Bit!

“Aren’t you working overseas, Landyn? What brought you here?” asked Zoey curiously.

Landyn chuckled. “Aww, that proves that you have never paid any attention to me. I am actually a citizen of Erudia.”

“Huh? I know that you’re a mixed-blood, but I never realized that you’re from Erudia,” blurted Zoey in surprise.

“Yeah, my grandpa and dad are from South Hampton while my mom is from a foreign country.”

“Oh, I see.”

Landyn had his eyes on Zoey when he asked, “By the way, Zoey, I heard that you got divorced.”

“I...” said Zoey, who didn’t quite know how to explain the situation.

A piece of paper couldn’t change the love she shared with Levi.

Moreover, Levi planned on throwing another wedding, so...

“Hahaha, yeah, I know all about it,” said Landyn, who then added, “Do I have a shot with you now?”

Zoey was stunned to hear that question all of a sudden.

She couldn’t turn him down even if she wanted to.

After all, she and Levi had signed the papers and were officially divorced.

Hence, Landyn had every right to court her.

“Let’s not joke about that, Landyn. I am focused on my career and have no plan to worry about my personal life for the time being,” replied Zoey politely with a smile.

“You need a man to keep you safe. Hasn’t the past two days taught you anything? Your business is growing exponentially, and the danger you’ll face will only become worse,” reminded Landyn as he grinned.

Given his influence, it was easy for him to learn all about what Zoey had been through.

Zoey was surprised. She turned to him and asked, "Wait, were you the one who rescued me?"

Zoey suddenly recalled how the expert who saved her couldn't speak the language well and sounded like a foreigner.

Thinking back, that man could be Landyn's subordinate.

"I just remembered that the guy who rescued me has a heavy accent," blurted Zoey happily.

Sylas stood nervously at the side.

She wanted to voice up, but she was not in a position to do so.

The one who saved you was Hades, and he was there on Levi's orders!

Sylas turned to Landyn. She was curious about how he would reply.

Landyn was also stunned when he heard what Zoey said.

"Aww, you guessed it. That takes all the fun and mystery out of it. Yeah, you're right. I'm the one who sent the guy to keep you safe, and I am the one who personally dealt with the matter," claimed Landyn with a straight face on.

Upon hearing that, Sylas felt like vomiting blood.

The Protector Chapter 633

Just how shameless is this guy? How dare you claim all the merit? The God of War was the one responsible for it, and it has nothing to do with you! Besides, what makes you think you can get Hades to work for you? L Nation might be a small country, but he is still a God of War!

“Huh? So it really is you, Landyn? Thank you so much!” replied Zoey with a smile.

“I wasn’t going to tell you anything, but you guessed it all,” said Landyn as he grinned.

Landyn shamelessly admitted to it because he didn’t see any issue arising from his lies.

All he had to do was get someone to contact Hades and get the guy under his payroll.

“Thank you for rescuing me and my family while we were in grave danger,” said Zoey appreciatively.

“I will keep you safe for the rest of your life,” promised Landyn before he added, “Alright, I’ll take my leave now so I don’t disrupt you working.”

Landyn could tell that Zoey felt awkward, so he left immediately.

After all, he was a smart man, and he knew how to take advantage without overstepping.

After leaving Oriental Star Group.

One subordinate asked, "Given your background, you can have any woman you want, so why her? Zoey Lopez seems pretty ordinary."

"It's true. There are tons of women just like her out there," chimed in another subordinate.

Landyn replied with a smile, "To tell you boys the truth, I have had hundreds of women, and no one had ever rejected my advances before. She was the first, and I feel like she is special. There is no reason I can't conquer that woman."

The others grinned mischievously. They finally understood what Landyn was aiming for.

"Besides, grandpa is gravely ill, and the fortune teller said that I can repel all bad luck if I marry that woman. Only then would grandpa's illness be cured. The wedding would also bring good fortune to the Gates family. In short, she is nothing but a tool to bring good luck and cure grandpa. It just so happens that I want to conquer her as well, so there's that. Why else would I marry a divorcee?" informed Landyn as he smiled.

Everyone instantly understood that marrying Zoey was primarily to bring good fortune.

That night.

Everyone was smiling when Zoey got home, and that got Zoey suspicious.

"Zoey, I found a great suitor for you," informed Meredith with a smile.

"What?" blurted Zoey, who was stunned.

"Zoey, this suitor is really something else. His grandfather is the president of the South Hampton Chamber of Commerce, his father is the head of the New Alliance Bank in Erudia, and his mother is the president of the Association of Foreign Enterprises.

To top it off, his maternal grandfather is also royalty in a foreign country! His family owns hundreds of banks, and anyone who wanted to do business in South Hampton would need his family's permission first," informed Jennie.

It sounded exaggerated, but it was true.

"Given his family background, the actual guy doesn't seem so important, but Zoey, he is amazing as well! He owns over a dozen racecar clubs and about ten electronic companies. His influence is everywhere! He is also tall, handsome, and is a mixed-blood. He basically doesn't have any shortcomings."

Everyone had praised Landyn so much that it sounded like he was an angel from heaven.

Realization dawned on Zoey soon after.

They're probably talking about Landyn.

"Oh, and you actually know this guy, Zoey," added Jennie.

That confirmed Zoey's suspicion.

"Thank you for all the effort you put in, grandma, but I won't be dealing with my personal life at the moment. I have my eyes set on my career, and this is a crucial moment, so I don't want anyone to distract me," replied Zoey politely.

"Hahaha..."

Meredith laughed aloud.

"Zoey, if this is just an ordinary guy like Levi Garrison, I definitely wouldn't let him get in the way of your career. However, we are talking about the heir of the Gates family! Marrying him would not negatively affect your career. In fact, it would give your career a tremendous boost!"

The others chimed in as well. "It's true. All it takes is one word from him, and you will be raised to the top."

"I've also looked into the matter and know that he used to court you. He has been in love with you this entire time, Zoey," said Jennie as she grinned.

Meredith also insisted, "Zoey, this wedding must happen, and I will be planning for it."

The Protector Chapter 634

The Black family was overjoyed.

Meredith and Robert had already made their decisions.

They were only informing Zoey about it.

“Grandpa, Grandma, I...”

Zoey was about to speak when Robert interrupted, “Zoey, you have no reason not to like him. My decision is final.”

“Dad, Mom, Mr. Gates is here!”

Instantly, Jennie rushed outside to welcome him in.

Landyn Gates had arrived with ten Rolls-Royce.

His subordinates were the ones to carry his many gifts.

They slowly moved them into the Black family’s home.

Robert and the rest were grinning from ear to ear.

It was then Zoey realized that she had been sold by her family.

They had made their decision on this matter a long time ago.

All she needed to do was to marry Landyn.

“Here are some small gifts. I hope you’ll accept it,” Landyn uttered politely.

The “small gifts” he mentioned were expensive and rare supplements.

The smiles on the Blacks widened.

Even Graham and Felix had come.

After all, Kurt Gates was the President of the South Hampton Chamber of Commerce.

He was wealthier than many countries, and he had a certain amount of control over the economy.

His status in the society was much higher than them.

Graham and Felix praised, “This is amazing. He’s reputable yet friendly! God must favor Zoey for her to be able to marry a man like him!”

Meanwhile, Aaron and Caitlyn had returned from North Hampton. When they saw Landyn, they were thrilled.

Someone as great as him is interested in Zoey?

“Zoey, look at how many capable young men you have missed out on because of Levi,” Caitlyn grumbled.

Aaron laughed boisterously. “I like this son-in-law!”

Caitlyn urged, “Dad, Mom, you’ll be the ones to decide. Hurry up and settle their marriage.”

They left no room for Zoey to pitch in her opinion.

In fact, she was even chased out of the conversation.

“Don’t meddle in this. We’ll decide this for you. We’re only doing this for your own good,” Caitlyn fumed.

At the manor.

The Blacks, the Zachses, Landyn, and Zoey’s parents were having a discussion about Zoey’s marriage.

“What we’re hoping for is to let the two of you engage and marry as quickly as possible. What about you? What are your parents’ thoughts?” Meredith asked.

Landyn smiled. “My grandpa and parents told me it’s up to me. How about this? Let’s pick a date for the engagement first.”

Meredith and the others were ecstatic to hear Landyn’s agreement on it.

“I’ve looked at the dates. The day after tomorrow is an auspicious day. Why don’t we set the engagement on that day?” Robert suggested.

“Sure. No problem. My grandpa and parents will be there too,” Landyn laughed.

Everyone in the Gates family knew about it.

Recently, Kurt had fallen ill, and the doctors had said that he might not have long left.

A fortune-teller had told them that Landyn had to marry Zoey to change his fate. That way, Kurt would recover from his illness.

Furthermore, their marriage would bring fortune to Landyn.

Marrying Zoey brought no disadvantages to the Gates family.

In other words, Zoey was but a tool for them.

The Gates family had only chosen her because Landyn liked her and because she was a virgin.

Otherwise, Kurt would never let his grandson marry a divorced woman.

Their marriage was only for the sake of Kurt's illness.

In different circumstances, the Gates family would have been humiliated by their choice.

"Now that all of you have agreed to it, what about Zoey? I'm afraid that she won't agree to this marriage," Landyn said.

The crowd stiffened before they shared a look.

Caitlyn smiled. "Don't worry, Mr. Gates. Zoey is beyond delighted. Why wouldn't she agree with it?"

The Protector Chapter 635

Aaron added, "That's right. If Zoey didn't agree to it, she'll already be kicking up a fuss. But look. She's nowhere to be found, so that means she agrees to it."

The Black family were lying through their teeth.

Jennie was keeping an eye on Zoey and making sure that the latter could not even get a chance to speak.

"Is that so? I'm relieved then. We'll have the engagement on the day after tomorrow at Stardust Hotel. My family will come too," Landyn replied.

"Of course. We'll meet again on the day after next."

Meredith and the others could not keep their smiles off their faces.

Soon, the shocking news spread across South City.

The grandson of Kurt, Landyn, was marrying the granddaughter of the Black family.

As Kurt's grandson, Landyn was instantly placed under the spotlight.

After all, Kurt was a prominent figure in the South Hampton corporate world.

Every neighboring country had heard of his name.

He was the president of the South Hampton Chamber of Commerce.

He was the man who ruled over the economy.

The Gates family were like royals.

They owned hundreds of private banks.

Zoey, too, was in the spotlight.

She was married for six years before she divorced, and her ex-husband had been in jail for six years.

Essentially, it was as if she had never married.

Furthermore, the Blacks had intentionally slandered Levi's reputation. They told the public that Levi was a horrible man who had left her after receiving ten million from them. Not to mention, Levi had refused to admit that he had taken the bribery from the Blacks.

With that, many were cursing at Levi.

Soon, the entire South City found out about Zoey and Landyn's engagement.

Even the citizens of South Hampton had found out about it.

A commotion broke out in the upper echelon society in South City.

The reason being Kurt would be attending his grandson's engagement the day after the next.

For a man like him to come to South City was as though God himself was arriving.

Anyone who managed to build a relationship with Kurt would have a bright future secured.

Many upper-class families began to envy the Black family. They could barely believe their good luck in having a union marriage with the Gates family.

The Black family was destined to be a powerful family in South City. In fact, it was likely that they would rise to become the wealthiest family there.

In the course of just one afternoon, dozens of significant figures came to visit the Black family.

Once upon a time, these people looked down on the Black family.

Both Meredith and Robert were beyond excited.

From now on, the Blacks would have connections with people in the military, corporate, and political world.

They had Russell in the military world, Logan in the political world, and Zoey in the corporate world.

The Black family was about to rise to the top.

Even Caitlyn and Aaron were sighing in disbelief at the consequences of Zoey and Levi's divorce.

The fact that they were going to be Landyn's future parents-in-law stunned them.

From now on, they were free to do anything in Quebec and even South Hampton.

They dared not imagine this in the past.

"You're still too inexperienced. If Zoey had been by my side earlier, this would have happened long ago," Meredith lamented.

Aaron flashed her an embarrassed smile. “Mom, you’re definitely much better at planning than us.”

“Hahaha! Of course!”

Meredith and Robert were proud of how things had turned out.

Just then, Zoey ran over to them.

She had just found out about her engagement with Landyn; the Black family had never told her about it.

She could not believe that the entire South City had heard about it but her.

“Grandpa, Grandma, why did you arrange a marriage for me without asking for my opinion? Why did everyone find out about the engagement before I did?” Zoey seethed.

“Zoey, your marriage has been decided. This is all for your own good.” Meredith waved her hands dismissively.

“No! I don’t agree with this marriage. I don’t even love him!” Zoey rejected.

“Then who do you love?” Meredith asked in a grave tone.

“The one I love is Levi Garrison!”

The Protector Chapter 636

Her words made everyone present stop in their tracks.

She still loves Levi?

Everyone had thought that Zoey had given up on Levi.

“I’ll be honest with all of you. I won’t marry again. Even if I do, the only husband that I’ll accept is Levi,” Zoey announced with a look of resolve in her eyes.

“You...”

Meredith jumped to her feet, furious. At that moment, she was tempted to slap Zoey.

“You don’t have a choice. You must marry Landyn, and you must attend the engagement ceremony tomorrow,” Meredith hissed.

“Sylas, keep an eye on her,” Robert ordered.

It was then Sylas argued, “Although it’s not my place to say anything, I still want to say my piece. It’s inappropriate for Ms. Lopez to marry into the Gates family. It’s rumored that the Gates family agreed to Landyn’s marriage with Ms. Lopez because they need her to change Kurt’s fate. If she marries into the Gates family, she won’t be happy. She’s nothing but a tool for them!”

“Nonsense!”

Meredith slammed her hand onto the table.

“Are you telling me that you believe in those baseless rumors?”

Meredith raged, “Furthermore, Mr. Gates truly loves Zoey. He used to court her, and that is a fact. Zoey will only be happier after her marriage. She won’t have a hard time there.”

“Mrs. Black, I’ve done my investigation. Mr. Gates has a chaotic private life. He has been with more than hundreds of women. He’s a black hole, and you’re pushing Ms. Lopez into it!” Sylas argued.

“Stop with your nonsense! You’re slandering Mr. Gates. If you don’t want to do your job, you can quit it!” Meredith roared.

“I-”

Sylas wanted to do as Meredith said.

However, when she thought about how Levi had tasked her with protecting Zoey, she decided to stay.

“I won’t marry him. Grandma, you’d better give up.”

Zoey was uncompromising.

Meredith scoffed, “Are you still hoping to marry that horrible man, Levi?”

“Your Grandma’s right. After all, he’s someone that took ten million but lied and said he threw it into the trash can,” Robert added.

“Exactly. He refused to admit it despite us exposing him on the spot. That man is nothing but a shameless piece of trash.”

By now, the others were furious too.

“You...”

Zoey was about to refute them, but she realized she did not have any evidence to back herself up.

Left with no other choices, she silently endured their words.

“Sylas, take her back to her room to rest. She will attend the engagement ceremony tomorrow and that’s final,” Meredith commanded.

Thus, Sylas could only bring Zoey away.

If they stayed, they would only become more infuriated.

“Look at your daughter. Is she blind? Why is she still longing for Levi?” Meredith spat.

Robert was solemn as he muttered, “If things don’t work out, I’ll chase Levi away. If he doesn’t appear in her line of sight, she won’t think about him.”

“That’s a good idea. Let’s just chase Levi away once and for all,” the others gave their approvals.

They were sick of Levi since forever.

Now that Levi was stopping the Black family from becoming one of the wealthiest, they would not stand aside and do nothing.

“Once she’s engaged tomorrow, he wouldn’t dare to harass her anymore. The Gates family will surely destroy him if he dares to pester Zoey again,” Meredith chortled.

Right then, Russell rushed toward them, dragging a servant of the Black family, Zeek along with him.

“What’s going on?”

Everyone turned to look at Russell, curious.

Russell shot a glare at Zeek before he sneered, “He’s the one who picked up the ten million check. We’ve wronged Levi. He really did throw the check into the trash can.”

The Protector Chapter 637

Russell was glad that he could expose the injustice done to Levi.

“From the beginning, I’ve suspected someone had picked up the check. Therefore, I asked my friend who works in an IT department to look into it. Finally, I found out that our servant, Zeek, was the one who had taken it,” Russell explained.

Meredith and Robert gave Zeek a stern look. “Did you take it?”

Thump!

Zeek collapsed onto the ground as he begged, “Mr. Black, Mrs. Westbrook, indeed, I was the one who had taken it. That day, I saw Levi throw it into the trash can, so I took it without telling anyone about it. Please don’t call the police. I’ve only used a hundred thousand. I’ll return you the rest!”

After realizing what had happened, Meredith and Robert huffed in rage.

They were not angry that Zeek had been the one who had taken the check, rather, they were angry that he had been found out.

After all, Levi was meant to be the one who had taken it.

Everyone had accused Levi of taking the ten million for himself.

They had never thought that someone would investigate the matter.

Now that it was revealed Levi was not the one who took the money, they felt humiliated.

Russell laughed, "Grandpa, Grandma, I was right. Levi wouldn't do something like that. Let's tell Zoey about it and clear his name!"

"Hold on." Meredith stopped him before instructing, "Russell, you don't need to bother yourself with this matter anymore. Go back and pretend as if you knew nothing."

She then turned to instruct Zeek, "I can forgive you for this, Zeek, and I can turn a blind eye to the amount you've spent. But you'll need to agree to my terms."

"I'll agree to anything!"

"Good. From now on, no matter who asks you about it, you'll say that Levi didn't throw the check into the trash can. You'll tell them that you witness him leaving with the check in his hands!" Meredith ordered.

"I-I understand! I'll definitely do that," replied Zeek immediately.

"Good. Now leave. Pretend you've never taken the check for yourself. Levi's the one who had taken the ten million," Meredith repeated.

Russell stared at Meredith in disbelief. "Grandma, how can you twist the facts? Levi didn't do it. Why must you pin the blame on him?"

Russell did not approve of the Black family's methods.

"Russell, you must keep your lips sealed about this. Never tell anyone, especially Zoey!" Meredith snapped.

"Why, Grandma? Give me a reason!" Russell exclaimed.

"Ha. You know full well that the rumors of Levi taking the ten million for himself have spread across the city. The Black family was the one who slandered his reputation. If you tell the public the truth, you'll be humiliating the Black family. What will happen to our family then?" Meredith questioned.

Russell gave a solemn smile, "Does that mean we can destroy Levi's life for the Black family's reputation?"

Robert hissed, "That's right. Who is he in comparison with the Black family's reputation?"

Russell breathed out a trembling laugh. "Fine. Very well. Do as you please then. Sooner or later, you'll understand what the Black family has done wrong. You'll have missed an opportunity you'll regret for the rest of your life."

"Hahaha! It's just Levi. What will we truly miss?" The crowd disagreed.

With that, Russell left, huffing furiously.

His grandparents who he thought were righteous people, were the ones to orchestrate this.

He was thoroughly disappointed.

He immediately called Levi.

Meanwhile, Levi was at North Hampton designing his new family home when his phone rang.

"What's wrong, Russell?"

"Bad news, Levi. Zoey is going to be engaged tomorrow!"

The Protector Chapter 638

Boom!

The news struck Levi like a bolt from the blue.

Zoey is getting engage?

But I'm still at North Hampton. Who is Zoey going to get engaged to?

After Russell walked him through the situation, rage nearly consumed Levi.

He once had a good impression of Meredith and Robert, at the very least, they left a better impression on him than Harry did.

However, now it seemed like no one could stick to their morals when power and money were involved.

"Time and place," Levi demanded.

"Stardust Hotel at ten," Russell replied.

"Got it."

The next day.

At the Black family's manor.

Meredith and Caitlyn forced Zoey to dress herself up for the ceremony.

Right then, a fleet of cars arrived outside the manor.

Harry, Henry, and the others had arrived.

Even the Lopez family of the South City was here.

When Harry heard Zoey was about to marry a rich man of South Hampton, he had hurried to South City overnight.

As for the Lopez family, they once refused to acknowledge Harry's family as a part of the Lopez family. However, when they heard Zoey was marrying Landyn, they came instantly.

Now, they were all claiming Zoey as one of the Lopez family.

"One of us is engaging today. Obviously, the Lopez family has to be here," Harry said.

At the same time, the Lopez family of South City added, "We're proud that someone like you is in the Lopez family."

As the Lopez family of South City was reputable, the Black family was more than happy to welcome them despite knowing that the former was only here to butter up the Gates family.

Zoey was exasperated.

Do they think of anyone else but themselves?

Do they feel anything for others?

"Congratulations, Zoey! I told you shouldn't stick to Levi. He's but a burden for you. Look at how great you are now. You're about to marry into a genuine, wealthy family!" Shaun, Melanie, and the others muttered as they laughed.

“Levi is the worst of the worst. He gave up Zoey for ten million!”

“I know, right. I even heard he insisted that he had thrown the check into the trash can despite taking the money for himself.”

Everyone chattered away.

At the side, Russell was displeased to hear their words.

Why does Levi have to endure these slanders silently?

At the same time, Zeek had an ashen face.

It was as though he was afraid someone would ask him about the matter.

Russell could not help but mumble, “No...”

Meredith stopped him immediately. “Russell, what are you trying to do? Are you trying to humiliate the Black family?”

“I...”

And so, Russell could only swallow his words.

Soon, everyone headed to Stardust Hotel.

Many of them were keeping an eye on Zoey, fearing that she would escape.

A fleet of luxurious cars was parked right outside the Stardust Hotel.

People from the upper-class society were all gathered here today.

Although they were unable to join the engagement banquet without an invitation, they were here in hopes of meeting Kurt.

Meanwhile, the Gates family had long arrived.

Like Landyn, his father, Fred, looked like a capable man, exuding an imposing aura.

After all, he was the man who had control over hundreds of private banks.

He had the nickname of the God of Wealth within the corporate world.

In other words, he was rich.

Beside him was Landyn's mother, a foreign woman. She exuded a noble aura that attracted the people's gazes yet kept them at a distance.

She was the president of the Association of Foreign Enterprises; she had a say in every foreign enterprise that entered the local market.

After Fred and his wife gave Zoey a once-over, they nodded in satisfaction.

"This way."

With that, Meredith and the others entered Stardust Hotel.

The Protector Chapter 639

Everyone was anxious.

They were about to meet the legendary Kurt Gates.

In the hotel, an old man in his wheelchair was coughing quietly.

When they saw Kurt, the crowd was dumbfounded.

They thought Kurt would be an imposing and healthy man; they had not expected to see a sickly-looking frail man sitting in a wheelchair.

For some reason, the rumors of Zoey marrying into the family to change Kurt's luck surfaced in their minds.

Zoey was all but a tool.

Caitlyn and Aaron were the ones that suffered the most shock.

They felt as though they had really sent Zoey to hell.

Kurt slowly opened his unfocused eyes and asked, "They're here?"

"Grandpa, this is Zoey."

Landyn pointed to the woman.

Kurt straightened his back and started sizing her up.

Beside him was a middle-aged man in a suit. He whispered, "Mr. Gates, she is the one."

That man was none other than the fortune-teller who told them that Kurt would recover from his illness after Zoey married into the family.

"Very well. It's her then. Pick a date quickly and get married soon," Kurt urged.

His impatience was audible to everyone present.

The fortune-teller murmured, "Mr. Gates, five days later will be the perfect date for the wedding."

After sweeping his gaze across the crowd, Kurt nodded. "All right then. Let's get the engagement ceremony done as soon as possible. We'll hold the wedding in five days' time."

"W-What?"

His words stupefied Meredith and Robert.

That's hasty!

It's as though the wedding isn't of any importance to them.

All Kurt needed was a word from the fortune-teller before the marriage date was set.

By now, Meredith and the others were starting to wonder if the rumors had been true.

That Zoey was but a tool for Kurt's illness.

And that the Gates family was uninterested in having Zoey as their daughter-in-law.

But that did not matter to them.

Regardless of whether she was a tool or genuine feelings were involved, Zoey was going to become Landyn's legal wife.

This was something everyone knew—that Zoey Lopez was destined to become the daughter-in-law of the Gates family.

Moreover, Landyn's love for Zoey was genuine.

Since Kurt was here in South City despite the severity of his illness, that meant this marriage was important to him.

Hence, this marriage had to continue.

Both the Black family and the Lopez family shared the same thought, Zoey must marry into the Gates family.

"I hope you don't mind that my father is in poor health. Let us begin the engagement ceremony now," Fred announced.

"Sounds good to me. Let's start the engagement ceremony. As for the wedding date, the Gates family will be the one to arrange it," Meredith answered with a smile.

Fred returned the smile. "From now on, we're a family. The wedding will be something both families shall discuss together."

Just as the engagement ceremony was about to begin, Zoey abruptly voiced out loud, "I'm sorry, Landyn. I can't get engage with you, nor can I marry you."

Boom!

Zoey's words struck like lightning to everyone present.

Even Landyn was stunned.

He had thought that Zoey was here because she had agreed to it.

Anxious, Meredith shouted, "Zoey, what are you saying? Shut up now!"

Fred's expression turned darker than night. He stared at Zoey and queried, "You don't want to marry my son?"

Zoey shook her head. "That's right, I don't want to marry your son."

"Hahaha!"

Suddenly, Fred burst into laughter.

She's obviously disrespecting the Gates family.

I have never heard of anyone saying no during the engagement ceremony.

"Zoey, what are you talking about? You have to marry him!" Meredith bellowed.

She was not going to give Zoey any chance to protest.

Fred sneered, "That's right. We're already holding the engagement ceremony. Even if you say no, you still have to do it."

"Zoey, it's not like you have a choice," Landyn laughed.

Right then, a roar echoed in the hall. “Let me take a look at who are the ones trying to put my wife in a tough spot. Do you have a death wish?”

The Protector Chapter 640

Bang!

A group of men rushed in from outside as a man of tall stature emerged.

That man was none other than Levi.

The crowd gasped in shock at the sight of him.

“Darling,” Zoey called out softly.

Despite receiving the divorce certificate, Levi would always be her husband.

“Honey, with me here, no one is going to harm you anymore.”

Levi pulled Zoey into his embrace.

Boom!

The crowd was stunned and stared at them in disbelief, especially the Gates family whose faces were all red in anger.

For a stranger to gatecrash their engagement banquet and embrace their future daughter-in-law, it was a grievous insult.

Furthermore, Levi rubbed salt in their wounds by claiming Zoey as his wife, utterly humiliating the Gates family.

Landyn closed his eyes and took a deep breath.

For the Gates family, it was just a matter of pride.

But for him, he was being blatantly cheated on.

How was he going to face the world after that?

Meanwhile, the Black and the Lopez families were stupefied.

No one expected Levi and Zoey to put on such a spectacle, which was a direct provocation aimed at the Gates family.

By declaring that the lady Landyn was engaged to was his wife, Levi humiliated Landyn outright.

Meanwhile, Meredith's heart sank as she knew something disastrous was going to happen.

Fred Gates let out a long sigh.

This is unacceptable. I cannot tolerate any of this!

No matter what, the Gates family's reputation needs to be safeguarded.

This matter has to be kept a secret even if everyone has to die.

He turned to look at Meredith and the others.

"Did you arrange this?" Fred demanded.

Despite his calm tone, it was obvious that he was suppressing his anger.

“Mr. Gates, you misunderstand. This has nothing to do with us. Furthermore, they are divorced and we even have the documents to prove it,” Meredith explained with a panicked look.

The Black and the Lopez families were frightened of offending the Gates family.

At this point, they might as well prepare themselves to be destroyed.

Aaron and Caitlyn were infuriated as Levi foiled their plans yet again.

Is he out to throw a spanner in our works every time?

“Grandma, we told you long ago that if Levi doesn’t repent, we should have kicked him out. But now, the matter has already escalated,” Jennie roared furiously.

Meredith, Robert, and Harry were all trembling with rage as they couldn’t wait to kill Levi.

He was responsible for causing the Black and Lopez families a lot of grief.

Hence, he deserved to be nailed on the pillar of shame.

“Mr. Gates, this is all Levi’s own doing. It has nothing to do with the Black and Lopez families.”

Everyone at the scene pointed their fingers at Levi.

Fred and Landyn then looked towards him.

“Don’t you know Zoey is getting engaged to my son today?” Fred asked coldly.

Levi replied, “I do.”

“In that case, how dare you come here and even call her your wife. What’s the meaning of this? Are you here to cause trouble on purpose?”

Fred raised his voice into a loud roar, terrifying everyone present.

“I would like to know have you ever asked Zoey for her opinion on the engagement?” Levi asked.

“Of course we asked her. Zoey herself agreed to it,” Landyn replied.

Meredith and Robert quickly added, “That’s right. We’ve asked her. Or else, she wouldn’t be willing to come here.”

Levi sneered.

He turned towards Zoey and asked, “In that case, in front of everyone, let me ask you. Are you willing to marry Landyn? Are you willing to get engaged with him?”

At that moment, everyone waited for her answer with bated breath.

The Protector Chapter 641

All of them stared at Zoey intently as suspense filled the air.

Just when Meredith was about to comment, Fred cut her off. “Let her speak for herself.”

When she saw that everyone’s attention was focused on her, Zoey took a deep breath and exclaimed, “No! I’m unwilling to do so.”

Turning to Landyn, Zoey apologized. “Landyn, I’m sorry to have disappointed you. But Levi is the one I love.”

“If you were unwilling, why did you come?” someone yelled.

“The Black family forced Ms. Lopez to do so,” Sylas explained.

Boom!

Meredith and Robert closed their eyes in despair.

It’s over! It’s truly over.

The Gates family was a lot more powerful than the Caesar family.

Just a word from Kurt alone could close all doors on the Black family, destroying them as a result.

The atmosphere became silent as everyone awaited the incoming storm.

Finally, Fred exclaimed, “You’re unwilling? Just like that?”

Immediately, he changed the subject. Lowering his voice, he growled, "Tell me then, what should the Gates family do now?"

"We have publicized the engagement banquet throughout South City and South Hampton. Even now, there are tons of people outside. Tell me, how is the Gates family going to walk away from this without being humiliated?"

The other members of the Gates family joined in and yelled, "Tell us! Give us an answer!"

"I..." Zoey was stupefied by the amount of pressure being piled onto her.

She did consider the possibility of the current scenario occurring but didn't have a solution for it.

Landyn sneered, "Zoey, what a shame that I wasted my feelings on you. This is how you repay me?"

"If you disagree, why didn't you say so earlier? Why must you wait until now to regret your decision?"

"Your ex-husband barged in on my engagement banquet, embraced you, and called you his wife. If this gets out, how am I to face the world? Do you know how humiliated I'll be? And what about the disgrace this will bring to the Gates family?"

"You owe me an explanation. Or else, don't blame me for being cruel. Despite my good nature, I'm willing to do anything to protect my family's honor."

Amidst Landyn's barrage of questions, Meredith's heart sank to its lowest depths when she saw how furious the Gates family were.

In the face of the Gates family's questions, Zoey was at a loss.

“You want an answer? Hahaha.” Levi burst out in sudden laughter.

“What are you laughing at?”

Landyn felt insulted by Levi’s response.

“What am I laughing at? The reason you wanted to marry Zoey is just to complete your charade. Your Grandpa, Kurt, is dying. The only reason you’re marrying Zoey is because a fortune-teller said so,” Levi replied coldly.

“Nonsense! There’s no such thing,” Landyn bellowed as Levi exposed his hypocrisy.

“I really love Zoey. Therefore, I never married because I was waiting for her. When I heard she got divorced, I went to see her immediately. Can you tell me how many men can do what I did?” Landyn roared.

“That’s right, Landyn is very loyal when it comes to love. It’s surprising someone of his status is willing to marry a divorcee.”

“Mr. Gates is such a good man!”

The crowd began to praise him.

However, Levi sneered, “Landyn, all these years, you have philandered with at least seven to eight hundred women if not in the thousands. Putting that aside, just on the third of last month, you even slept with a high school girl. While on the seventh, you forced yourself onto a married woman...”

“You b*stard! Kill him!” Landyn roared furiously.

It was obvious Levi had found Landyn’s weakness.

The Protector Chapter 642

Levi smiled. "What's the hurry? I haven't even finished."

"You're slandering me! I have been celibate for many years," Landyn retorted angrily.

However, everyone stared at Landyn suspiciously.

The more agitated he was, the more guilty he made himself out to be.

Even his men hesitated as to whether they should take action.

Despite being filled with rage as he glared angrily at Levi, Landyn was at a loss as to what to do.

Just then, Fred stepped forward and pushed Landyn aside. He shouted at Levi, "Who do you think you are? Since when does my son's personal life need to be scrutinized by you?"

He continued, "Based on the Gates family rules, you have committed four crimes and will be punished accordingly."

"Firstly, you've trespassed on and disrupted my son's engagement banquet. Secondly, you claimed my son's fiancée as your wife. Thirdly, you slandered my son. And lastly, you disrespected the Gates family!"

"The punishment for breaking the four rules is to have your four limbs broken on the spot."

The moment Fred passed the sentence, the elite warriors of the Gates family guarded the exits to prevent Levi from fleeing.

Fred then looked towards the Lopez and Black families. “The Gates family is not one to be messed with. Anyone from South City that challenged us will also be punished.”

Both the Lopez and Black families trembled when they heard his words as they knew it was directed at them.

Landyn’s mother was even more furious. She glared at Levi and barked, “Kneel before me!”

She was royalty from a foreign country and had always looked down upon commoners.

In her eyes, Levi and Zoey were just society’s scum.

How dare they disrupt my son’s engagement banquet?

They’re asking to be killed!

Two foreign bodyguards approached to try and take Levi down.

Meanwhile, Levi clapped his hands and let out a sarcastic smile. “These are serious crimes. I’m impressed.”

However, he changed his tone immediately. “Does the Gates family not respect the country’s laws? Since when do you have the authority to pass judgment on others?” Levi smiled smugly.

When Fred listed out the four crimes, it was obvious that the Gates family was used to throwing their weight around all the time.

They had indirectly declared hegemony over their territory.

Within their sphere of influence, the Gates family was the law. They exercised their authority over all who lived there.

Therefore, they were the ones to decide the fate of others, including life and death.

Levi was furious.

He had been fighting hard outside against the nation's enemies, to protect the country's sovereignty and its people.

And yet, prominent families such as the Gates acted with such impunity within the nation itself.

Hence, he felt disillusioned.

Fred scoffed, "Today is my son's engagement banquet, hence I only charged you with four crimes. If it were any other time, going against the Gates family is punishable by death. I would have sentenced you to death on the spot."

Such shocking dominance!

The Black and Lopez families were astounded at how powerful the Gates family was.

No wonder they were considered South Hampton's topmost prominent family.

Meanwhile, all the other members of the Gates family looked cold when they heard Fred's words as if they were accustomed to it.

It was clear that that the Gates family did as they please and killed as they willed.

Meanwhile, Zoey was unnerved by the Gates family's show of strength.

She was especially worried when she heard about the four crimes which required Levi's limbs to be broken.

"In the eyes of the Gates family, does Erudia still matter? Do the laws of the country still apply?" Levi asked.

"Let me make it clear to you. Wherever the Gates family is, that's where we are the law and everything we say, counts. Do you understand?" Fred replied in an assertive tone.

He wasn't stupid. It was just that their family was simply too powerful.

All these years, he had always dealt with everything the same way.

Hence, in the eyes of the Gates family, they were the law.

That was all there was to it.

Suddenly, Levi burst into laughter, to the extent that everyone became curious.

His laughter also caused the Gates family to feel offended.

The Protector Chapter 643

“You... what are you laughing about?” Fred demanded coldly.

The way everyone saw it, Levi’s laughter was extremely annoying.

“I’m laughing because the Gates family is about to be destroyed. No matter how powerful a person or family is, they cannot override the sovereignty of the country.” Levi smiled.

How dare they claim to be the law in front of the God of War.

Are they not afraid of death? As that is the equivalent of challenging Erudia’s sovereignty.

Without a doubt, they need to be taken down.

“Hahaha, the Gates family is finished? What a joke! Who can touch us? Who even dares to touch us? You?” Fred broke into a haughty laugh, followed by the rest of the Gates family.

With our family’s influence, we are untouchable, let alone within South City itself where we are second to none.

“That’s right, me!” Levi grinned.

“I don’t want to see him still standing. He needs to kneel, now!” Landyn’s mother bellowed.

In response, Fred glowered. “Men, punish him for the four crimes now. Break his limbs so that he can feel the wrath of the Gates family.”

Upon his orders, four elite warriors emerged and headed towards Levi.

Zoey was terrified as she knew that they were helpless in front of the powerful Gates family.

Even if Russell and Logan went to get reinforcements it would still be too late.

Furthermore, the reinforcements might not even be enough as the Gates family was just too strong.

At the crucial moment, Zoey stepped in front of Levi and declared, "Whoever wants to hurt him will have to get through me first."

When he saw the petite figure in front protecting him, Levi chuckled.

My honey is so adorable.

But this is no longer six years ago. Now, I am the God of War, a Five-star God of War in fact.

With me here, no one can harm you.

"Break both their limbs!" Fred ordered.

The Black and Lopez families wanted to stop them but were restrained by the Gates family elite warriors.

By then, Zoey closed her eyes and resigned herself to fate. Even if her limbs were broken, she was at least together with Levi.

However, Levi was calm.

If the Gates family laid a finger on them, they would immediately be destroyed.

“Wait!” At that moment, an old gravelly voice was heard.

Kurt was pushed towards the front on his wheelchair as he coughed continuously.

“Don’t touch the girl! She must be married into the Gates family,” Kurt declared.

He desperately wanted to survive.

The fortune-teller told him that she could cure him if she was married into the Gates family. Therefore, he couldn’t let the opportunity slip by.

Landyn must marry Zoey.

By hook or by crook, Zoey had to be married to a member of the Gates family even if they needed to kidnap her.

In response, Fred offered, “Zoey, as long as you agree to marry my son, I will guarantee that I won’t hurt Levi. Or else, he will definitely end up a cripple.”

Hearing that, Meredith and Robert finally realized that Landyn wasn’t really serious about marrying Zoey.

The Gates family’s main objective was to cure Kurt based on what the fortune-teller said.

Therefore, it wasn’t what Meredith and Robert wanted for Zoey, and they realized now that it was a trap.

However, they had already pushed Zoey into it and there seemed to be no way to escape.

It was impossible to renege on the wedding now.

Meanwhile, Fred turned towards Meredith. “As long as Zoey is married to my son, I will guarantee the Black and Lopez families will become the topmost families in South City.”

Tempted by Fred’s offer of power, Meredith and the others second-guessed themselves.

Even Zoey considered it. To her, Levi’s safety was her top priority.

“Honey, let’s go. I’m curious to see who is going to stop me.”

At that moment, Levi grabbed Zoey’s hand and wanted to leave.

“Stop them!” Landyn yelled immediately.

The Protector Chapter 644

Fred grew desperate too. If they let Levi go, the reputation of the Gates family would be in tatters.

Their family would no longer be able to face the world and they would also lose all authority.

Therefore, Levi must not be allowed to leave.

At that moment, a group of elite warriors of the Gates family approached Levi and Zoey to seize them.

“How dare you leave after all the trouble you have caused?”

Fred ordered, “I want him dead! And she must marry my son!”

The Gates family’s desperation and intimidation caused the Black and Lopez families’ hearts to sink.

Levi would die today while Zoey would be forced into marriage.

In fact, the whole matter had doomed both the Lopez and Black families as well.

As everyone trembled in fear, no one dared to say a word.

In the face of the elite warriors, Levi sneered, “Are you sure you want to challenge me?”

“Why? Do you think I don’t dare to touch you?” Fred laughed deviously.

“Why don’t you take a look outside first?” Levi laughed in response.

“What’s going on outside?” Fred was curious and so was everyone else.

Meredith and the others stared at Levi in disbelief.

Does he have some powerful backup? Or else how would he have dared to come alone to rescue Zoey?

“Oh no! Mr. Gates, there’s trouble!”

At that moment, the Gates family’s bodyguards rushed in.

However, Fred was furious at them for panicking in public as it wasn’t good for their reputation.

Wouldn’t this made us a joke to outsiders?

“Hasn’t there always been a lot of people outside? All of South City’s socialites have gathered here,” Fred retorted.

“Mr. Gates, it’s not them. There are others. You have to see for yourself,” The bodyguard replied anxiously.

With that, Fred could no longer remain seated.

He got up and went to the hotel entrance to take a look.

When he saw what was outside, he was shocked.

A large group of men had filled the plaza outside Stardust Hotel and they were all dressed in black suits.

They numbered two to three thousand men and every single one of them looked intimidating.

There was a man standing right in front. He exuded a terrifying vibe as if he had just walked out of hell itself.

The man was Hades.

Behind him were three thousand men. They were all former members of the underworld and Brock Green's former followers.

Now, they were all under Hades' command.

When everyone saw the magnificent formation of men, they were all shell shocked.

The Gates family especially was caught by surprise.

Since when did so many men gather outside?

The Black family, Lopez family, and other guests gaped in disbelief as they wondered the same thing.

"See that? Do you still dare to stop me now?" Levi smiled.

With one word, Levi brought Fred back to reality.

"What do you plan to do? Do you think you can challenge the Gates family with this rabble? If so, you're being too naive!" Fred sneered.

In the face of the great Gates family, these men were considered nothing.

"That's right! Anyone who dares to go against us will die," Landyn threatened.

Levi's lips curled into a smirk. "In that case, I'll leave with my wife now. You can try and stop me."

With that, Levi walked to the hotel's main door with Zoey in tow.

“Stop them!”

The moment Fred gave the order, a roar was heard outside.

It was so loud that it caused the ground to tremble.

“The three thousand men of South City are here to escort the men of Morris Group home!”

“Whoever gets in the way will be killed!”

Hades yelled together with the three thousand men and it sounded like a thundering roar.

The Protector Chapter 645

At that moment, the elite warriors of the Gates family were stunned.

No matter how strong they were, they were still no match for three thousand men.

What are we going to do?

Fear flashed across Fred and Landyn's eyes as there were simply too many men outside.

In fact, every single one of them looked like a formidable fighter, and they were definitely not a bunch of rabbles.

Despite that, the Gates family's honor was at stake.

If Levi stepped out of the door, their reputation would be destroyed.

Therefore, they had to defend their honor to the death.

"Stop them!" Fred insisted.

On his cue, more than ten elite warriors charged at Levi to kill him.

However, Levi and Zoey walked on and ignored everything around them, as if nothing happened.

Their enemies suddenly appeared behind them.

At the same moment, Hades made his move and his figure turned into a blur. In the blink of an eye, he appeared in front of Levi and Zoey.

Bam! Bam! Bam!

Hades dished out his attacks with the speed of light, leaving afterimages wherever he struck.

Boom!

Boom!

Boom!

One by one, the Gates family's warriors were thrown back.

Thump!

All of them crashed at Fred's feet.

After struggling a moment, they either lost consciousness or died on the spot.

It was a magnificent sight.

"If you're not afraid to die, you can try coming at me," Hades declared coldly.

Thud! Thud! Thud!

The three thousand men moved forward a few steps and were about to enter the hotel.

Their movements caused the ground to tremble and struck fear into every member of the Gates family.

At that moment, Fred was overwhelmed by terror.

Although the Gates family was powerful, their base was still in South Hampton.

However, they were now in South City.

If anything untoward happened, reinforcements would definitely not arrive in time.

That being said, their pride still had to be defended.

“Have you thought it through properly? Do you really want to make enemies of the Gates family of South Hampton?” Fred asked again.

He swore to himself that once he gathered his men back at South Hampton, he would definitely destroy everyone in front of him now.

Hades replied with a sneer, “I don’t care if you are from the Gates family or not. But these two are under my protection.”

“That’s right. On the orders of the Morris Group’s head, we are here to escort Mr. Garrison and Ms. Lopez. Anyone who stands in our way will die!” the three thousand men outside yelled.

Hades looked at the Gates family again and warned, “Whoever wants a quick death can try and stop us!”

At that moment, the Gates family including Fred fell silent.

All of them could only watch as Levi led Zoey away.

This was the most humiliating event ever to happen to them in their family’s history.

Someone had stolen their future daughter-in-law and they were powerless to stop them.

However, Kurt who was behind them didn't give up. "Cough, cough... stop them. They cannot leave... the Gates family's reputation..."

As for Fred, he was almost in tears.

"Dad, let's just bear with it. These men are fanatics. If we fight them, we might all die here."

Meanwhile, tears of humiliation were already flowing down Landyn's cheeks.

Ever since he was young, he had never been insulted to this extent.

With that, Levi left with Zoey together with the three thousand men.

The Gates family of South Hampton was utterly disgraced in South City.

Fred ordered immediately. "Once we return to South Hampton, we must gather all our forces. I will make sure there is a bloodbath in South City. Every one of the three thousand men just now must die!"

"I agree! We must wash away the shame that we experienced today. Or else I swear I will die!" Landyn bellowed in anger as he too was infuriated.

Furious at what just happened, Kurt roared, "Send out the order in my name!"

The Protector Chapter 646

Even after they left, Zoey couldn't shake the feeling that it was all a dream.

What had just unfolded was simply too shocking.

She did not expect that Levi would be able to rescue her from the clutches of the Gates family.

"By the way, Darling, did they say they were acting on the orders of Morris Group boss just now?" Zoey asked in curiosity.

"Yep, that's right. Other than him, I don't think anyone else can mobilize so many people," Levi replied.

"Both of us are considered members of the Morris Group. For him to rescue us does make sense. I wonder what's the boss like?" Zoey was very curious.

"He's probably like me!" Levi laughed.

"Stop blowing your own trumpet."

Back at the hotel, the Gates family quickly left South City while the Lopez and Black families went home disappointed.

When they returned to the Black family manor, they were surprised to find Levi there.

They moment they saw Levi, they were all enraged.

“Levi, you are the death of us. I’m going to kill you!” Meredith bellowed.

The other members of the Black family shared the same sentiment.

Ever since Levi came to South City, he caused a lot of trouble.

Before this, he offended the Caesar family, and now, he insulted the more powerful Gates family.

As a result, the danger they were facing now was more serious than ever before.

As Levi had utterly humiliated the Gates family, they were definitely going to gather their strength and seek out revenge.

To wash the shame off, the Gates family would likely attack with all their might.

“Levi is just a troublemaker. Look at the devastation he wrecked when he was in North Hampton,” Harry mocked.

“That’s right. He has been an orphan since he was little. That itself is a sign that he is cursed. Look at how the mighty Garrison family has fallen because of him. And now, he is here to curse your family!” Henry added.

Aaron and Caitlyn glared at Levi and questioned, “Alright, explain to us what is going on? You have divorced Zoey, what else do you want?”

“Levi smiled, “Divorced? Did you even ask us for our opinion? You abused your authority to have a divorce certificate issued, how is that considered a real divorce?”

“Haha, Levi, aren’t you being shameless? Didn’t you agree in the end? We gave you ten million to divorce Zoey.”

“Yeah! You accepted the ten million, so that means you agreed. Are you denying that now?”

“Are you still a fing man?”

The Black family berated Levi and had the urge to violently beat him up.

Robert bellowed, “How can you say we didn’t ask for your opinion? Didn’t you accept the check for ten million?”

Pamela sneered, “That’s right! I handed the check to you myself!”

Levi replied with resignation, “I told you I threw the check into the trash can.”

“Preposterous!”

“Liar!”

“I looked through all the garbage bins at home and never found the check. You’re such a liar!” Logan yelled back.

“Then someone else must have taken it. I did throw it away,” Levi insisted.

“Who could have taken it? We’ve asked everyone in the Black family and no one saw it. Why do you insist on lying?” Logan retorted angrily.

At that moment, one of the servants outside, Zeek, suddenly turned pale when he heard their argument.

“Stop lying! Just admit that you’ve taken the check,” Meredith demanded unabashedly despite knowing the truth.

Just then, Russell suddenly spoke up, “I can vouch for Levi. He did throw the check in the dustbin, however, one of the servants, Zeek, picked it up.”

His words shocked everyone.

The Protector Chapter 647

“What?”

Zoey’s eyes suddenly sparkled as she always wanted to clear Levi’s name.

As expected, it was picked up by someone else.

Meredith and Robert looked at Russell in disbelief as they didn’t expect him to expose the truth.

“Russell, what are you babbling about? What’s this about Zeek taking the check?”

Logan desperately winked at Russell for him to keep quiet.

“I have proof! Zeek even spent tens of thousands from the check.” Russell ignored all the signals the members of the Black family gave him.

“I don’t believe it. All of the Black family’s servants are of the highest integrity,” Bailey insisted.

“If you don’t believe it, you can get Zeek here to ask him yourself,” Russell suggested.

Pamela and the others protested, but Meredith agreed. “Alright, bring Zeek in for questioning.”

In a brief moment, Zeek arrived, trembling.

He was terrified and didn’t dare to look Levi in the eye.

“Very well, Zeek, I have a question for you and you have to answer truthfully,” Russell instructed.

“A-alright, Mr. Black... please go ahead and ask,” Zeek replied with his head lowered.

“Did you see Levi throw the check into the dustbin the other day?” Russell asked.

Both the Lopez and Black families waited with bated breath for his answer.

Even Levi and Zoey’s gaze were fixated on him.

Trembling violently, Zeek was extremely nervous. He lifted his gaze to give Meredith a glance and answered, “Mr. Black, I didn’t see Levi throw the check in the dustbin.”

Boom!

The moment he replied, Russell and Zoey were stunned.

As for Meredith and the others, they smiled triumphantly.

“Zeek, you’re lying! You’re the one who pick up the check and now you’re denying it in front of everyone,” Russell bellowed in desperation.

“Mr. Black, I’m innocent! I really didn’t pick up the check. On that day itself, I saw Levi leave the manor with the check. Everyone else saw the same thing,” Zeek continued his lie without even batting an eyelid.

“That’s right, we saw him leaving with the check, it was never in the rubbish bin,” the rest added.

Russell almost burst a blood vessel hearing that.

Why do such people even exist?

He looked towards Meredith in disbelief.

She must have planned everything.

Nevertheless, I must prove that Levi is innocent!

“Russell, you’d better keep quiet and not throw unfounded accusations around,” Meredith yelled.

“I...” Russell stopped himself mid-sentence.

But how can I win against the whole Black family?

Meredith looked towards Levi, “What else do you have to say?”

Levi smiled, “There’s nothing more to say. I just feel that all of you are scum.”

Levi had already investigated the check’s record and was disappointed at how manipulative the Black family was.

“You b*stard, who are you calling scum?” Everyone was infuriated.

Levi’s words were obviously directed at everyone present.

“You don’t deserve to enjoy the cigarettes and wine!” Levi remarked coldly.

“Sheesh! Those cigarettes and wine were brought in by Russell, what have they got to do with you?” Robert retorted while the others piled on the insults.

Suddenly, Meredith stopped them.

Looking towards Levi, she asked, "Let me ask you, what do you want to do?"

Levi glanced at Zoey and said, "Six years ago, I was framed. The wedding wasn't perfect and caused too many regrets for Zoey and me. Therefore, I want a fresh start with Zoey, to propose to her again and have another wedding to make up for the regrets we have."

Zoey replied with a choking voice, "I will marry you!"

"Impossible! Zoey must be married to the Gates family," Meredith quipped.

The Protector Chapter 648

Previously, they wanted to marry Zoey out to improve the family's future prospects.

But now, it was simply to placate the Gates family.

Since Kurt needed Zoey to fulfill the fortune teller's prophecy, they hoped the Gates family would not seek revenge on them.

Therefore, after some discussions within the family, Meredith decided to marry Zoey off to the Gates to mollify their anger.

Levi wants to marry Zoey?

No f*ing way!

Besides, he will be a dead man soon enough for offending the Gates family.

"It's not up to you. As long as Zoey is willing, I will marry her!" Levi exclaimed.

"Haha, you plan to marry Zoey? You will be better off worrying about how to protect yourself. The Gates family's army will soon be here to kill you," Logan burst into demented laughter.

"If the Gates does come, I will destroy them." Levi's eyes gleamed with menace.

This family has long acted with impunity and challenged the sovereignty of the nation. There's no way I'm letting them off easy.

“You’re being ridiculous. I hope when the Gates are here, your words can still be as sharp!” Everyone sneered at Levi.

“Russell, Sylas, protect Zoey. I’m going to deal with the Gates family,” Levi ordered.

“Yes...”

Both Russell and Sylas were about to acknowledge his instructions instinctively but decided otherwise when they saw everyone looking at them with strange expressions.

With that, Levi left.

He was confident that Zoey was in safe hands. Even if the two of them failed to protect her, Hades would be watching over her from the shadows.

“Hahaha, isn’t this just Levi trying to flee?” Logan laughed smugly.

“Of course he’s trying to flee, or else why wouldn’t he bring Zoey along?”

All of them scoffed at Levi’s behavior.

From what Zoey could see, Levi must have gone to gather reinforcements and request help from the Morris group’s boss.

It seemed their debt to that man kept increasing.

However, she began to grow suspicious as to why the leader of the Morris Group treated her and Iris so well.

He helped her buy the Oriental Star Group at the auction and gave her full authority to run the business at the electronics mall.

Furthermore, he had saved her and Levi on many occasions.

Who is he?

After leaving Russell, Levi arrived at a large mansion, which was Azure Dragon's residence in South City.

The mansion was known as Guardian Mansion but was abandoned long ago.

Ever since Azure Dragon and the others arrived, they had been staying there.

That day at the Mansion, Levi noticed that it was crowded. There were even military dogs guarding the entrance.

Once they saw Levi, everyone gathered outside.

There were about sixty of them which gave Levi a shock.

Why are there so many people here?

"Good day, Chief!" All sixty of them saluted Levi.

"Good day, comrades!" Levi returned the salute.

"God of War, let me introduce you. These are the captains of the reconnaissance troops from the South Warzone. They have come to practice their skills," Azure Dragon explained with a smile.

Ever since he arrived at Guardian Mansion, he had guests visiting every day.

Most of them were there to learn and improve their technique.

As of now, half of them were drenched in sweat in their tank tops. They had obviously been sparring with Kirin.

“Chief, some of our comrades had the illusion that they could take on White Tiger just now. However, they got their asses handed to them instead,” someone reported.

When Levi saw a group of men who were badly bruised and beaten sitting in a corner, he laughed.

Go toe to toe with White Tiger? That’s just suicide.

Given that they were all comrades, White Tiger let them off easily.

“Sir, is something wrong?”

Azure Dragon could sense that something was amiss.

“I expect someone to come for me soon,” Levi explained with a smug grin.

The Protector Chapter 649

Just as Levi spoke, the sixty odd officers were incensed.

Who dares come for the God of War? Do they have a death wish?

How is this even possible?

The God of War is the military paragon of all the soldiers from the Nine Warzones of Erudia.

Whoever dares to even disrespect the God of War cannot be forgiven!

All of us will defend the symbol of the army with our lives.

“Who dares to come for the Chief? Are they nuts? I, Macfay, will be the first to strike them down!”

“I, Macdonald, will never allow it!”

“I, Mackenzie, forbid it!”

One by one, the captains of the reconnaissance troops roared angrily with a ferocious look on their faces.

“Very well, we will stay. I want to see with my own eyes who dares to challenge the Chief’s authority.”

“That’s right. Don’t worry, Chief. Let us deal with this for you.”

“Damn it, it’s time to teach this bunch of rabble a lesson.”

Everyone was outraged.

Levi smiled in response. “Very well, I won’t fight over them with you. You can be my guest!”

He had a different plan to deal with the matter but didn’t expect the mansion to be filled with so many people.

It was just a wonderful coincidence that they could help resolve it.

As a result, his mind was also put at ease.

Once they received Levi’s permission, everyone was filled with anticipation.

They wished that the enemy would arrive sooner so that they could demonstrate their capabilities to the God of War.

“Come, let’s continue with our practice. So that we can thrash them straight later.”

All the men were wild with excitement.

Meanwhile, at the Gates family residence.

The plaza in front of their villa was filled with men.

All of them were tall and strong. Standing at attention, they exuded a terrifying vibe.

They were men of different races but they all had one common trait – they were insanely powerful.

“Dad, I have gathered the Five Hundred Dragon Guards of the Gates family,” Landyn reported.

The Gates family was as wealthy as a nation and no one was their equal in terms of financial power.

All these years, Kurt had spent a lot of money amassing and maintaining a private army that would later be known as the Dragon Guards.

Every one of them was an elite warrior in their own right.

They were either famous mercenaries from overseas, top-ranked assassins, and retired members of black ops from major countries. Furthermore, there were also martial artists skilled in the ancient arts of Qi, Thai boxers, and etcetera.

Every year, the Gates family spent two billion maintaining the Dragon Guards.

This was something unattainable by any other prominent family.

Although there were only five hundred of them, their fighting strength was more important than their numbers.

These were extremely powerful men and would strike fear in anyone who came across them.

Even the Caesar family's eight hundred White Robes were no match for them.

The Dragon Guards were fearsome warriors and wherever they went, blood would flow like rivers.

In their minds, Levi's three thousand men from South City were nothing but a bunch of rabbles.

They would not last more than ten minutes in front of the Dragon Guards.

They were confident that no one would be able to protect Levi. With Levi out of the way, Zoey would then be captured and brought back to marry Landyn.

“Alright, let’s head out!” Fred ordered.

Aside from the Dragon Guards, they had also recruited a hundred additional warriors using Kurt’s name.

As a result, the army of around six hundred men headed towards South City in high spirits.

One by one, their cars formed a long snake-like convoy which was a magnificent sight to behold.

By evening, the convoy arrived in South City.

The whole city trembled upon their arrival, especially the Lopez and Black families who prayed hard that they would escape the Gates family’s wrath.

“Father, where shall we go first? I have the address of the place where Levi is holed up in,” Landyn inquired.

“We will look for Levi first and then clean out the South City’s underworld. Finally, we will seize Zoey so that both of you can get married,” Fred barked his orders.

“Understood, Father. Let’s roll out!”

With that, the Gates family army headed towards Guardian Mansion.

The Protector Chapter 650

Half an hour later, the large convoy arrived outside of Guardian Mansion.

Thud!

Thud!

One by one, the men got out of the cars.

In a blink of an eye, the five hundred Dragon Guards and one hundred warriors assembled.

“Surround the place and don’t let anyone escape!” Landyn barked.

Thud! Thud! Thud!

The six hundred men spread out and sealed off all escape routes from the mansion.

The encirclement was six man thick. Even a bird couldn’t escape, let alone a man.

The Dragon Guards alone were stronger than the force of five thousand men combined.

After that, Fred and Kurt got out of the car.

“Let’s enter from the front,” Fred ordered.

A group of men arrived at the front door.

Bark! Bark! Bark!

A group of military dogs barked ferociously at them.

Crack!

Landyn pushed the metal gate forcefully and bellowed, "Levi, come out this instant!"

After waiting for half a day, the captains of the reconnaissance troops finally got their wish.

They were all filled with excitement.

However, they didn't go out until after Landyn shook the gate for a few minutes.

Finally, Macfay, Macdonald, and Mackenzie emerged.

The three of them were wearing green tank tops, showcasing their rippling muscles.

"Why are you causing a ruckus? Who are you looking for?" Macfay questioned as the three of them walked towards the gate.

When Landyn saw how intimidating the three men were, he couldn't help but feel a shiver of fear run down his spine.

Realization dawned on him that these were not ordinary men.

Nevertheless, with five hundred Dragon Guards behind him, he was afraid of no one.

"Is Levi Garrison inside?" Landyn demanded arrogantly.

“So what if he is? Who are you people?” Macfay inquired.

“Listen well, we are the Gates family of South Hampton and are here to seek revenge on Levi. He must die today!”

“Behind me are five hundred Dragon Guards. I’m warning you, even if you have three thousand men, you won’t be able to protect Levi,” Landyn sneered.

Everyone on the Gates family’s side assumed that Macfay and his men were in the same group of underworld members that escorted Levi away in South City.

They had no idea that these were military veterans.

Hearing Landyn’s answer, Macfay and the others furrowed their eyebrows.

Did our ears deceive us?

These men want to kill the Chief?

How dare they!

“Insolence! What gave you the gall to do such a thing? Do the nation’s laws mean nothing to you?” Macfay barked.

“Haha, I have always said that the Gates family is the law! Wherever we go, our word is final!” Fred declared arrogantly.

His words gave Macfay and his companions a shock as it was rare to encounter anyone who acted with such impunity nowadays.

Setting aside their blatant disregard for the nation’s laws, they even wanted to kill the God of War!

What sort of madness is this?

“Get Levi out now to kneel and accept his execution. Don’t force us to drag him out ourselves,” Fred threatened.

“You are asking for the impossible as it is our duty to protect him.”

Macfay and the other two captains were resolute in their stand.

“Hahaha, with just the three of you? Don’t you think you’re overestimating yourselves?”

In the eyes of the Gates family, the trio were already dead men.

“What if you include us?”

The moment the voice was heard, a group of men in army green tank tops emerged.

There were sixty of them in total who assembled in a neat formation, giving off a strong and magnificent vibe.

“This...”

Fred and his men were perplexed when they noticed the group in front of them came off differently from what they expected.

They didn’t look like men of the underworld, but Fred couldn’t put his finger on who they were yet.

Macfay scanned his gaze around and sneered, “You are forbidden to enter. Whoever tries to trespass will only meet with death!”

The Protector Chapter 651

The moment Macfay spoke, everyone was stunned.

Is that a challenge?

Is he challenging us not to barge in?

Who can resist such a challenge?

“Break down that door!” Landyn couldn’t resist the taunt.

Crack!

Crack!

Boom!

Upon his orders, a few warriors approached and tore down the giant metal gate by force.

“How dare you tear down the door! Do you know what this place is?” Macfay bellowed in rage.

Woof! Woof! Woof!

The military dogs barked ferociously as they tried to lunge forward but were held back by their restraints.

Fred’s expression darkened as he barked, “Men, breach and secure Levi! Kill whoever that gets in your way.”

Thud! Thud! Thud!

At that moment, the Dragon Guards tried to barge in.

“Stop! How dare you!” Macfay bellowed.

The other captains also warned the Dragon Guards to back off.

“Why don’t I dare? Charge!” Fred ignored their warnings.

“Do you even know what this place is?”

Macfay roared, “This is the Warzone compound and is considered a restricted military area. You are all trespassing and have violated the forbidden zones!”

Upon hearing Macfay’s words, the attacking Dragon Guards stopped in their tracks and stared at him in shock. In fact, they seemed to even be a little fearful.

Boom!

The news was so shocking that Fred and his men thought they were hit by lightning.

“I think I understand what’s going on...”

Fred and his men suddenly understood one thing.

From the beginning, they could feel Macfay and his men were different but couldn’t quite put their fingers on the reason.

Given that they were wearing army green tank tops, it became clear who they were.

They are all soldiers!

Even the dogs looks different.

Those are fing military dogs!

At that moment, Fred and Landyn panicked.

If this really were a restricted military zone, they would be in very big trouble.

It would be worse if all these men were also soldiers.

What should we do?

Should we charge in or leave?

But leaving is impossible as the Gates family cannot be humiliated again!

Fred sneered, "Do you think just because you claim this is a military zone makes it so? Are you trying to scare us away?"

"I'll repeat myself. Get Levi out here to kneel before me. Or else, I will tear this place down and kill everyone!" Fred declared furiously.

Meanwhile, the Dragon Guards were all ready for action. Upon receiving their orders, they would tear into the building.

"This is your last warning!" Macfay declared.

"Men, charge in and capture Levi!" Fred wasn't the least bit appreciative of the offer.

His words infuriated Macfay and all the other captains.

“Damn you b*stard, how dare you cause trouble within my territory!”

Whipping out his phone, Macfay quickly dialed a number. “Hello, it’s Macfay! Pass down my orders. Gather the troops in full battle gear and come to the Guardian Mansion at the outskirts of the city. We have to protect the God of War!”

After that, Macdonald barked into his phone. “Hello, it’s Macdonald. Assemble the men and have them head to the Guardian Mansion armed to the teeth. We are to defend the God of War!”

Lastly, Mackenzie ordered, “Hello, it’s Mackenzie. Get the team to head for the Guardian Mansion now! We have an important battle to fight!”

This continued on with the other captains.

The Protector Chapter 652

One by one, the captains ordered their respective teams to head for Guardian Mansion.

At a single moment, thirty regiments were mobilized which was an impressive display of strength.

Meanwhile, the Gates family and their strong army of six hundred were all stunned.

One by one, they could be heard gasping.

Even Landyn and Fred were stupefied while Kurt couldn't stop coughing.

Regardless of whether they were lying or not, Macfay and his men definitely made it look intimidating.

Are all sixty men army captains?

In that case, is this place really a restricted military area?

Who is the person inside?

How highly positioned is he to have more than sixty officers protecting him?

The Gates family were stumped.

The Dragon Guards, who were at the vanguard, started to tremble and grew weak in their knees.

What if what they claim is true?

They knew what the consequences would be.

In that situation, ten Gates family combined wouldn't even stand a chance, let alone one.

If it came to that, the Gates family would be in an extremely precarious situation.

Should we attack?

But we don't dare to.

Should we not attack?

But the Gates family will be humiliated.

At that moment, Levi, Azure Dragon, and a few others emerged.

Boom!

At the sight of Levi, the Gates family stared daggers at him.

After all, he was the man who brought their family their greatest humiliation.

Meanwhile, Landyn couldn't help but have the urge to kill Levi because Levi had snatched his fiancée away in front of everyone in South City.

His hatred for Levi was simply overwhelming.

As for Fred and Kurt, they were equally incensed.

At the sight of Levi, their animosity towards him grew exponentially.

We must kill him!

Just when Fred was about to give the order, he hesitated when his gaze fell upon Macfay and the other captains.

But what if their calls were real? If so, the Gates family will be done for!

Levi smiled at the Gates family when he saw them. "I heard you are looking for me?"

"Levi, you..." Landyn almost exploded in anger.

"Well, I'm standing right here now. Come on then!" Levi smirked at the Gates family.

When they saw Levi's mocking expression, both father and son almost burst a vessel.

"Come on? What's wrong? Are you afraid? Isn't the Gates family fearsome? Aren't you the law wherever you go? What is it now? You don't even have the guts to enter this door?"

In the face of Levi's taunts, the Gates family was outraged.

However, all of them were breathing rapidly as they tried to keep their anger in check.

Even the machetes in their hands were raised.

Fred was struggling with himself.

To attack or not to attack. What a dilemma!

Everyone else felt the same.

If Macfay was a real army officer, they would be in big trouble.

When he noticed that the Gates family was hesitating, Levi sneered, “What are you afraid of? Isn’t the Gates family the law itself? Don’t you also rule over this piece of land?”

“Doesn’t your authority override that of Erudia’s? What’s wrong now? Why don’t you dare set foot in here?”

“Come on, don’t disappoint me, you wimps!”

In the face of Levi’s provocations, Fred breathe heavily and was drenched in cold sweat. As his whole body trembled, his eyes almost popped out of their sockets, especially when he saw Levi’s haughty expression.

He couldn’t resist the urge and finally exploded.

“Men, attack! Levi must be captured alive!” Fred roared with all his might.

“Charge!”

The Dragon Guards no longer held back as all of them dashed forward.

“Let them come!” Macfay got into his fighting stance and prepared for battle.

Boom!

At that moment, the sound of a loud engine rumbled across the sky.

It was so loud that it caused the ground to tremble.

There was a combat helicopter circling in the air.

The Protector Chapter 653

Just that scene alone caused everyone to stop what they were doing and looked into the sky, dumbfounded.

As it was already nightfall, the helicopter shone a spotlight on the Gates family's men.

All of the Dragon Guards surrounding the mansion were caught in the light.

As the light was extremely bright, everyone had to shield their eyes from being blinded.

The Gates family were all stunned.

"This is a restricted military area, who are you?"

"We are the South Warzone's airborne unit. What are you planning to do?"

A voice from the helicopter blared out through its speakers which shocked the Gates family.

So it's true!

They were telling the truth!

These men are really army officers.

Thud! Thud! Thud!

In the next moment, the Gates family could hear the rumble of footsteps marching behind them.

Whirr...

It wasn't just footsteps, there was also the sound of vehicles and a lot of other noises all mixed together.

It sounded as if an entire army itself was approaching.

"One, two, three, four!"

Along with the commands being shouted out, groups and groups of soldiers emerged behind the Dragon Guards.

The Gates family was shocked to their core while the Dragon Guards were struck with fear.

It's really true!

They really mobilized thirty regiments.

What are we going to do? This really is a restricted military zone.

We're doomed!

Thud! Thud! Thud!

Despite their fame and the two billion spent on them, the Dragon Guards dropped to their knees one by one with their hands over their heads.

The only ones left standing were Fred and a few others.

However, it was more because Fred's mind drew a blank. His face was all pale and cold sweat broke out profusely.

"Dad, I can't stand any longer." Landyn's knees buckled and he too dropped to the ground.

Finally, Fred also did the same as he lost all strength in his body and could hardly move.

Trembling violently, he couldn't even say a word.

When Levi saw how they looked, he sneered, "What's wrong? Have you given up? Isn't the Gates family above the law? Why are you on your knees?"

"Y-Y-You..." Fred stammered in a frantic voice and didn't dare continue.

Cough! Hack! Cough!

In the midst of his hacking cough, Kurt barely forced out a question. "You... who are you really?"

Prior to this, when Hades led three thousand men to protect him, it didn't pique their curiosity as to who Levi was.

However, there were thirty regiments of soldiers from the South Warzone protecting him now.

It indicated that Levi was someone a lot more important than they had imagined.

"To be honest, the Gates family have no right to know my identity."

Levi shot them a cold glare.

“Men, capture all of them. Since no one dares to touch the Gates family, I’ll be the one to do it!”

“I want to see for myself how capable is a prominent family that declared themselves to be the law of the land,” Levi bellowed.

Boom!

Kurt and his men closed their eyes in despair.

The Gates family are finished!

Meanwhile, back at the Black family manor.

“Grandpa, Grandma, I have bad news. The Gates family have brought five hundred Dragon Guards to South City,” Logan reported while being out of breath.

“What? So soon?”

Meredith and the others’ expressions changed as they were struck by fear.

“This really means trouble!”

“Do you know where they’re headed?” Meredith asked.

“They are looking for Levi as of now. I heard they want to kill him and wipe out South City’s underworld,” Logan replied.

Meredith began to pray. “I hope when Levi is killed, the Gates family would be appeased.”

“Grandma, what are you saying?” Zoey fumed.

The Protector Chapter 654

Meredith and everyone else stared at her. “Zoey, don’t tell me you really believe Levi can deal with this issue?”

“The Gates family are going to kill him. Even the three thousand men who protected you will die tragically,” Logan explained the reality of the situation.

“Huh?”

At that moment, Zoey finally understood the gravity of the matter.

“Oh? Is that so? Then why am I still alive?”

At that moment, a voice emanated through the room, causing Logan to drop to his knees in horror.

“It’s a ghost!”

“What fking ghost are you talking about? I’m still alive and well,” Levi grunted in exasperation.

“Are you really alright?”

Meredith and the others stood up and looked towards Levi.

“What can happen to me?”

“What about the Gates family? Weren’t they looking for you?” Meredith inquired in disbelief.

“Oh, I destroyed them. They no longer exist,” Levi replied casually.

“What? How is that possible?”

Meredith and the other looked at him doubtfully.

At the same time, Logan quickly checked on the latest news with his contacts.

After that, his expression changed drastically.

“It’s true... the Gates family has disappeared from South City and no one knows where they have gone. I-I-Its...” Logan was so bewildered that he was stumped for words.

“So it’s true?”

Meredith, Robert, and everyone else looked on in disbelief.

At that moment, Russell let out a relaxed smile.

For the Gates family to challenge Levi, isn’t it the same as having a death wish?

Zoey grabbed Levi’s hand and murmured, “Was it the mysterious boss of the Morris Group that did it again?”

Levi was stunned for a second before nodding.

As he was the boss of the Morris Group, what Zoey said wasn’t wrong.

“We owe him yet another debt of gratitude. By now, I don’t even know how we’re going to repay it,” Zoey remarked with a smile.

Grinning, Levi replied, “Worse comes to worst, I’ll sell myself to them.”

“That’s unacceptable! Anything else but that.”

Zoey shook her head as her love for Levi was now rooted deep in her bones.

All this while, her expectation of a husband was that he would be a respectable, mature man with a heart of gold.

But as of now, no matter what Levi was doing, she would love him for it because she knew that he had always been protecting her.

“Grandpa, Grandma, and everyone else. Today, I declare that I will be the one who’ll have the final word on my marriage. I will still marry Levi and will wait for him to organize the perfect wedding for us.”

In front of both the Black and Lopez families, Zoey made her stand clear.

Hearing her declaration, Levi was touched. All he cared for was Zoey’s trust in him.

Both families sighed in response.

Why can’t we escape from Levi! Karma is a b*!

In the end, Meredith had no choice but to give up her plans.

After being taught a harsh lesson, she had enough.

South Hampton.

It was Erudia’s economic capital, hence was also known as the Devil’s Capital.

South Hampton was at an even higher level than the first-tier cities of North Hampton and South City.

The reason being a few royal families had established themselves there and their economic power was immense.

However, South Hampton's high society was shaken today because Kurt Gates, president of the South Hampton chamber of commerce had been decimated, along with the entire Gates family.

Although the Gates family was not as powerful as the royal families, they still controlled a significant portion of South Hampton's economy.

For them to disappear without a trace struck fear into many.

What's going on?

Wasn't the Gates family supposed to have a wedding in South City? How can they disappear just like that?

Within a short period of time, the citizens of South Hampton began to grow anxious.

Meanwhile, within the deep forests outside South Hampton, there was a luxurious villa.

Outside the villa, there were hundreds of men kneeling at the door.

"Master, please avenge Jacky for us!"

The Protector Chapter 655

24/05/2021 by Chapter Novel

As hundreds of men were shouting, they were all slamming their heads onto the ground, to the extent that blood was oozing out of their foreheads.

What made it more shocking was that they had been kneeling there for three whole days.

Ever since the news of Jacky Lawson's death spread, the men began to gather in front of the villa.

They were all Jacky's fellow disciples of the same master.

Their master does have the intention to head for South City, but it just wasn't the right time yet as he was still in the midst of his solitary meditation.

But now that Jacky was dead, his fellow disciples could wait no longer.

Hence, they were pleading with their master to end his mediation earlier.

Sigh!

Suddenly a loud sigh was heard from within the villa.

The hundreds of disciples who heard it began to feel excited.

Their faces which were previously pale with despair were now glowing brilliantly.

Creak!

In the next moment, the villa's door slowly opened.

Thud! Thud! Thud!

Suddenly, two rows of bodyguards dressed in red marched out.

Upon their clothes, the word "Heimler" was embroidered onto it.

After that, an old man surrounded by a group of six bodyguards emerged.

All six of them were wearing masks and were dressed exactly like the two men Jacky had brought with him.

The old man was wearing a white robe and did not look any different from any other men of his age. His eyes were cloudy and he had an unsteady gait, as if the wind could cause him to fall anytime.

"All hail the master!"

The hundreds of disciples chanted.

All of their faces were filled with respect and admiration.

"Is Jacky really done for?" The old man asked in a trembling voice.

"Master, Jacky will be staying in South City forever and is never coming back," his disciples answered.

Upon hearing the news, the old man looked up and heaved a long sigh.

Throughout his life, his disciples numbered in the hundreds if not the thousands.

Even for many of his current students, he didn't even remember their names.

However, amongst all of them, Jacky was his favorite.

In fact, he was training Jacky to be his heir given that he had no sons.

Or else, he wouldn't have sent Jacky on such an important assignment such as taking over South City.

Two days ago, he had just spoken to Jacky who reassured him that everything was going well and that South City's underworld had been wiped out.

However, not long after that, he received the news of Jacky's death.

"Who killed him?" The old man demanded.

"Master, it was the current leader of South City's underworld, Hades. He is the current champion and record holder of the Deathmatch championships."

"Therefore, we have not taken any action yet and have been waiting for you to finish your meditation," the students replied.

"I can't believe that South City has such a formidable warrior. Jacky has died in vain indeed!" the old man lamented.

"Master, don't worry, once we combine all our strength, we can seek revenge for Jacky."

"Yeah! we shall not rest until we have avenge Jacky!" the hundreds of disciples chanted in unison.

"Where is his body?" The old man looked toward the crowd.

At that, the crowd fell silent as no one showed any concern as to what befell the body after his death, to the extent it was likely still left in South City.

Witnessing their silence, the old man was infuriated.

“You keep harping on about revenge and yet you didn’t even bother to bring his body back!”

The old man’s voice thundered through the crowd and was a big contrast to his feeble demeanor.

The next moment, the hundreds of disciples trembled in fear and bowed their heads on the ground.

They were so terrified that every one of them was drenched in cold sweat.

Their master was furious. They knew what would follow will be earth-shattering due to his terrifying identity.

Once his identity was revealed, the whole of southern Erudia would be quaking in their boots.

The Protector Chapter 656

The old and seemingly feeble man was none other than the leader of the Southern Union, Grover Cooke.

Most of the Southern Union's branches were based along the coast where the economy thrived with many different industries.

There were innumerable martial art experts within the Southern Union. In fact, all of the experts in the south itself originated from the Southern Union.

They were so powerful that the underworlds of all major cities would tremble at the mere mention of the Southern Union.

Even Scott Yates came from the Southern Union but hardly anyone knew about it.

Every year, he had to pay a tribute of five billion to the Southern Union.

No one really knew why he had to live the life of a recluse for thirty years.

The real reason was that his influence had expanded too quickly and clashed with that of the Southern Union.

Hence, if he continued to expand any further, the Southern Union would have to take him down.

Therefore, Scott had no choice but to shun the world to prevent the Southern Union from taking action against him.

Ever since then, the tribute Scott had to pay the Southern Union increased to ten billion.

Only then could he ensure his own safety.

Furthermore, even the Triple Group had to pay billions in tribute to the Southern Union.

The fact that an international conglomerate such as the Triple Group had to bow down to its knees to the Southern Union demonstrated how domineering they were.

In summary, anyone with any sort of influence in the south had to pay their respects to the Southern Union.

Nevertheless, the Southern Union was not obligated to help them out in return.

This showed just how powerful the Southern Union was.

In fact, all the underworlds within southern Erudia were controlled by the Southern Union.

As long as they gave the word, any of the groups could be wiped out.

However, things happened differently in South City.

Firstly, Scott's faction was destroyed, followed by the collapse of the Triple Group.

When the tributes from both groups stopped, the Southern Union realized something had happened in South City.

Hence, Jacky was sent to resolve the matter.

As South City formed a huge part of their business, the head of the Southern Union, Grover, had to personally deal with it.

Every single disciple of Grover's was an elite within their own industry.

Anyone who was weak would not even qualify to be one.

Over the last few decades, Grover, who loved receiving students only accepted seven to eight hundred of them.

Therefore, it was safe to say that every single one of them was a genius in their own right.

Not only did he have a lot of students, but he also had an army of subordinates and a massive network of contacts.

In fact, just a word from Grover and the whole of south Erudia would acknowledge it.

That was how powerful the head of the Southern Union was.

"Master, it is our fault! We should have brought Jacky's body back immediately."

"Master, please give us a chance. We will definitely reclaim Jacky's body."

One by one, his disciples pleaded.

Meanwhile, Grover shot a quick glance around and exclaimed, "You have disappointed me enough! I will avenge my disciple myself!"

"Johnny Lawrence?" Grover called out.

"Master, Johnny at your service," A middle-aged man stepped forward and said.

“I order you to head over to South City. Before the Southern Union army arrives, you must reclaim Jacky’s body,” Grover instructed.

“Yes, Master!”

With that, Johnny left.

Johnny was an integral member of the Southern Union as he was among the Southern Union’s best warriors. Of the Four Kings and Eight Slaves, he was one of the Four Kings.

Other than the head of the Southern Union, the Four Kings were next in line in terms of the chain of command.

The Four Kings of the Southern Union were so strong that they could easily defeat Scott Yates.

“Jacky died a tragic death. Prior to this, I was even planning to declare him as my heir at the upcoming Union conference.”

As he spoke, Tears rolled down Grover’s eyes.

The Protector Chapter 657

“Johnny is on his way to South City. Once Jacky’s body is brought back, I want to hold a funeral for him there,” Grover declared.

“Yes, Master. We will definitely give Jacky a grand funeral.”

Turning towards the crowd, Grover ordered, “Next, you will need to investigate and find out who was involved in Jacky’s death. After that, we will bury all of them alive together with Jacky!”

At that moment, Grover’s whole being exuded an icy cold aura, overwhelming the surroundings with a chilly pressure.

Everyone suddenly shivered as the cold spell engulfed them, it felt as if they had fallen into an icy lake.

They could feel the surrounding temperature drop by seven to eight degrees.

It was real and wasn’t an exaggeration at all.

Grover was an elite martial artist who practiced the Ancient Arts of Qi.

The reason he was in solitary meditation was to further enhance the power of his Qi.

“Understood, Master. We will proceed to investigate and leave no stone unturned,” his disciples answered.

All of them trembled at the idea that Grover was going to bury alive a bunch of men together with Jacky.

It was such a terrifying notion to them.

However, that was the consequence of offending the head of the Southern Union.

Meanwhile, in South City, Levi and Zoey had no inkling of the looming crisis.

In fact, Levi had even forgotten about Jacky, let alone expected someone seeking to avenge him.

The last thing he was interested in was to find out who Jacky really was.

In recent days, the Davies family felt a sense of dread.

Leslie and his son didn't eat nor sleep well as they were constantly worried.

The reason being they knew Jacky Lawson was part of the Southern Union and was the Union leader's disciple.

Therefore, ever since Jacky had died, they grew increasingly anxious as they knew the Southern Union would not rest until Jacky was avenged.

In fact, they expected themselves to be dragged into the matter.

Left with no choice, they could only wait. It wasn't until one afternoon that a group of men finally arrived.

It was one of the Southern Union's Four Kings, Johnny, and his men.

As Leslie's eyes brightened, he approached them quickly. "We have been expecting you, dear sirs."

"We, the Davies family, are of no use at all. We weren't able to protect Jacky," Leslie confessed.

“There’s no need for that, I know you’re not to blame,” Johnny remarked impatiently.

“Tell me, where is Jacky’s body?” Johnny asked.

“Huh?”

Stunned for a moment, Leslie quickly replied, “Sir, Jacky’s body was taken away by Hades’ men and I don’t know where they threw it.”

“What? Threw?” Johnny exclaimed in anger, blasting an intimidating pressure across the room.

It left Leslie and the others breathless.

Both Leslie and Derek were shocked when they realized Johnny was more powerful than the Slaves that Jacky had brought with him.

Who is he really?

“That’s right, sir. They said they wanted to throw Jacky’s body into the garbage dump.”

“I reckon his body must have rotted off away at a dump somewhere.”

Upon hearing Leslie’s words, Johnny was utterly furious.

Bam!

He slammed his fist on one of the walls in frustration, causing the wall to collapse into rubble.

“Damn it!”

“If I can’t find Jacky’s body, I will make sure the whole of South City will be buried together with him,” Johnny declared with a terrifying expression on his face.

At the same time, Leslie and Derek could feel an immense pressure that forced them to their knees.

Such strength!

Such immense power!

He is stronger than anyone we’ve seen before.

“You will take me to see Hades!” Johnny ordered in a frosty tone.

In a short while, a group of men appeared at the entrance of the Jagged Club.

Leslie felt more confident this time around because he knew Johnny was one of the powerful Four Kings.

The Protector Chapter 658

“What do you want?” The moment the guard at the entrance asked, two lightning-fast slashes made quick work of him.

After that, Johnny and his men entered the club.

Inside, the club was as lively as usual.

Johnny went straight to the club’s DJ booth, turned down the music, and switched on all the lights.

Every corner of the club was illuminated as if it was broad daylight.

At that moment, the hundreds of patrons in the club stopped dancing and turned to stare at the DJ booth.

The atmosphere became boisterous as the club’s staff rushed towards the booth.

Picking up the mic, Johnny instructed, “Silence! I have something to say.”

Upon his orders, everyone kept quiet and gave him their attention.

“Let me introduce myself. I am Johnny Lawrence.”

“Huh? Johnny Lawrence? That name sounds familiar.”

“That’s right, where did I hear it before?”

Everyone in the club felt the name sounded familiar.

Johnny continued, "I am from the Southern Union and a subordinate of Grover Cooke."

Boom!

When Johnny revealed his identity, everyone went ballistic and looked at him in disbelief.

"My God! It's one of the Four Kings of the Southern Union."

"It's really Johnny of the Southern Union. This is unbelievable!"

"Johnny is really here in South City! Something big must have happened!"

The club was in an uproar. When everyone heard that it was the Southern Union, they were filled with excitement.

As gangsters in the underworld, their dream was to join the legendary Southern Union.

To them, it was as good as their religion and was an achievement that would bring honor to the family.

In short, they considered it their Holy Land.

At the same time, it was also the most frightening of places.

Anyone who offended the Southern Union would be hunted down and killed.

There would be no escape even if one fled to the ends of the earth.

For the gangsters, it was an unbelievable sight that one of the legendary Four Kings of the Southern Union, Johnny, was standing before them as many of them worshipped him.

In fact, some even had his face tattooed on their bodies.

As Johnny was courageous and battle-hardened, there was an air of invincibility around him.

“Today, I’m here to look for the body of my master’s disciple, Jacky Lawson.”

The moment Johnny changed the topic, everyone was stunned.

Johnny’s master?

Isn’t that Grover Cooke of the Southern Union?

Grover’s disciple’s body?

Suddenly, everyone thought of the same haughty person, Jacky, from a few days ago.

He’s actually one of the Southern Union’s disciples?

This means big trouble as it now involves the Southern Union.

No matter how strong Hades is, it’s not going to be of much help.

“Johnny, this has nothing to do with us, it’s all Hades’ doing!”

“That’s right, we were not involved at all.”

At that moment, everyone present disavowed their involvement while only a few were hesitating.

They were former followers of Brock Green who had switched their allegiance to Hades.

As the rest of the crowd moved aside, they were left standing in the center.

Johnny instantly understood what was going on.

He asked them, "Were you the ones that took Jacky's body?"

His tone was calm but so domineering that it felt suffocating.

"Yes, so what if we were?" one of them replied.

"Where is the body now?" Johnny demanded word by word.

At the moment, an immense pressure filled the club and everyone felt their hearts racing.

"We threw it away at a garbage dump," the man replied.

"Well done! All of you will have to die!" Johnny roared.

"Who are you? How dare you cause trouble in my territory?"

The Protector Chapter 659

Just then, a voice boomed from behind.

A man with a mask covering half his face appeared.

It was Hades.

As Levi was with Zoey today, Hades didn't need to watch over her and therefore came back early.

What he didn't expect was to find a ruckus in his club.

"Who are you?" Johnny bellowed.

"Johnny, he's Hades! He is the one who killed Jacky and the two Slaves. I saw it with my own eyes!" Leslie reported.

"That's right, he killed them!" Derek and the others chimed in.

When Johnny realized that the man was his enemy, Hades, he felt especially invigorated and his eyes gleamed with murderous intent.

"Seize him!" Johnny ordered.

More than ten of his men scrambled down from the DJ booth and charged towards Hades.

All of them were formidable warriors who used all kinds of weapons.

Some used chain whips and spears while others wielded giant cleavers.

The group of fighters were extremely well-coordinated and were able to put Hades on the defensive.

It was a sight that shocked many as everyone knew how formidable Hades was as a fighter.

Hades is being beaten back!

The Southern Union does live up to its reputation!

Every member of the Union is indeed an elite warrior.

“Argh!”

However, in the next moment, Hades exploded in rage as he hurled his invincible fists forward.

Bam!

Bam!

Bam!

One by one, the Southern Union warriors were sent flying back.

Johnny’s eyes narrowed as he felt a chill down his spine.

No wonder he was able to kill Master’s Slaves. What a formidable warrior indeed!

Perhaps I should wait for Master to arrive before deciding on the next step. My mission today is just to locate Jacky’s body.

As for Hades and his men, Johnny decided not to take them down as he remembered Grover wanted to bury them alive with Jacky.

“Stop!” At the wave of his hand, all his warriors stopped their attacks.

“You must be Hades. I will let you off today! So tell me, where have you thrown Jacky’s body?” Johnny asked.

“It’s at Far East Road, you can look for him there,” someone shouted.

“Very well, I look forward to our next encounter, Hades!” Johnny sneered.

“Haha, fine. I’ll be waiting for you.” Hades burst into laughter.

If it were the old days, he would have been worried.

But now with Levi backing him, there was nothing for him to be afraid of.

With that, Johnny left.

His followers were left puzzled, “Johnny, why didn’t you allow us to kill him?”

“He’s really strong and you’re no match for him. Even for me, we might just be evenly matched. If he has further support, we will be at a disadvantage. Therefore, it’s better to wait for Master’s arrival before we decide on our next course of action,” Johnny explained his concerns.

“We understand now,” Johnny’s followers replied.

Arriving at Far East Road, they searched around the whole night.

Finally, they managed to locate Jacky’s body in the garbage dump. It was surrounded by flies and had long since decomposed.

Enduring the stench, Johnny brought Jacky's body back.

At the same time, Leslie ordered a crystal coffin so that Jacky's body can be frozen inside.

After Grover heard what happened, he was absolutely livid.

"I will personally deal with them!" he thundered.

Back in South City, Hades related what happened to Levi.

"The Southern Union? I know of them," Levi remarked.

"The overseas branches of the Southern Union are even more terrifying as they are packed with formidable warriors. Many countries have suffered under their hands."

Levi's eyes sparkled with excitement. "This is really interesting. White Tiger, you have an opportunity to go all out now."

The Protector Chapter 660

White Tiger squinted his eyes and smiled, "I have also heard that the Southern Union is filled with capable warriors. I had the honor of fighting some of them overseas and they have proved themselves to be very skilled. I hope I will meet someone who I can fight without any reservations."

Azure Dragon sighed, "Isn't there a saying? All the best warriors originate from the Southern Union."

Kirin's eyes glistened, "Unfortunately, they have offended the wrong people. The audacity of them to act with such impunity in front of us is just pure insolence!"

However, Levi smiled to himself deviously as he had a different plan.

Meanwhile.

"He was killed just because he courted a lady?" Johnny asked curiously.

"That's correct. Jacky had repeatedly tried to ask a lady out but was rejected every time. Finally, he was killed instead," Leslie related.

"Who is she?" Johnny's expression darkened immensely.

"Her name is Zoey Lopez, she's the boss of Oriental Star Group. She has the support of the Morris Group."

Johnny sneered coldly, "Damn that Morris Group! We will annihilate them this time!"

Once Master arrives in South City, Morris Group will be eliminated regardless of who they are and who their boss is.

The next day, Grover personally led the other three Kings and other six Slaves to South City.

They were not alone as a massive number of Southern Union members accompanied them.

With a wave of his hand, Grover was able to gather tens of thousands of Union members easily.

That was the influence the Master of the Southern Union wielded.

The Davies family residence was to become their base.

Both Derek and his son had never in their wildest dreams expected to meet the legendary Master of the Southern Union in person.

“Where’s Jacky?”

The moment Grover arrived at the Davies residence, he made a beeline towards Jacky’s corpse.

“Master, please follow me.” Johnny quickly led the way.

When Grover saw Jacky inside the crystal coffin, he could no longer contain his emotions.

Jacky was his favorite student whom he treated like a son.

After brooding in front of the coffin for a long time, he called out to his men.

“Master, your orders?” the Four Kings and Six Slaves answered.

“In three days’ time, we will hold a funeral of the highest honor for Jacky based on the Southern Union’s ceremonial rites. The leaders of every Southern Union branch must attend,” Grover ordered.

“Understood!” the men replied in acknowledgment.

“As for all those who were involved in Jacky’s death, capture them so that I can bury all of them together with him,” Grover roared.

“Master, from our investigations, we have narrowed down the main suspects to eleven people. The four main figures are Hades, Levi Garrison, Zoey Lopez, and Syllas Whitfield.”

At that, Grover released his aura of intense pressure that seemed to be able to move mountains.

“As for the rest, they include both the father and son of the Davies family.”

The man gave Derek and Leslie a cold stare.

The father and son duo fainted in shock upon realizing that they still had to be buried alive in the end.

“Very well, before the funeral begins, those responsible must all stand before me,” Grover insisted angrily.

“Yes, Master!” the Four Kings shouted in unison.

“I heard that Jacky died because of a woman?” Grover asked.

The crowd hesitated but nodded in the end. “Yes, that’s right.”

“Master, the lady is a daughter of the Lopez family which is one of South City’s four noble families,” someone explained.

“Very well. In that case, the funeral will be held at the Lopez family residence. Their whole family will be held accountable for the actions of their young,” Grover said coldly.

Johnny requested, “Master, I volunteer to be the vanguard to take down the Lopez family.”

The other three Kings followed and requested the same.

“As you wish, now let’s head out!”

The Protector Chapter 661

The Lopez family in South City did not expect the Southern Union to come after their blood.

The most important thing was that they had nothing to do with that matter.

And now, the Southern Union's army was at the Lopez residence, quickly defeating the guards stationed at the Lopez mansion were quickly defeated.

Patriarch Leon Lopez, the eldest brother of Sebastian Lopez, hurriedly brought the entire Lopez family outside.

The outside of the luxurious manor was densely packed with members of the Southern Union, and they were all dressed in red.

Six masked men, who stood in front of the crowd, were carrying a crystal coffin.

The first four brave men standing in front glanced at everyone in the Lopez family with a domineering look. They were preventing the Lopez family members from running away.

Behind the huge crowd, a car was heading towards them. The word "Heimler" was engraved on the car.

The Lopez family fell into a frightened silence.

They were completely bewildered.

Who could these people be?

Since the fall of Sebastian Lopez, the Lopez family had laid low and stayed away from unwanted attention.

They had never encountered any enemies thereafter.

Why then was there such a powerful adversary at their doorstep?

“Who...who are you people?” Leon Lopez asked, trembling with fear.

“Johnny Lawrence, of Southern Union.”

“Jael Ellison, of Southern Union.”

“Yadriel Larson, of Southern Union.”

“Connor Hill, of Southern Union.”

After the four men reported their names, there was a loud thud.

Crash!

The old patriarch, Leon Lopez, had fallen onto the ground in fright.

Other elderly members of the Lopez family were also frightened, their faces drained of all color.

As for the younger members of the Lopez family, they were stupefied, and they had no idea what was happening.

“T-T-This...”

Leon Lopez was almost foaming at the mouth.

This is too frightening!

The Four Kings of the Southern Union were all here together.

What kind of trouble had we, the Lopez family, gotten ourselves into?

And what had brought the legendary Four Kings to be here as one?

T-This...

“Who are you people?”

The youngsters of the Lopez family had an incredulous look on their faces.

“These are the Four Kings of the Southern Union!”

When the elderly uttered the truth, the entire Lopez family was absolutely shocked and turned pale in fright.

Everyone had heard much about the legendary Southern Union.

Especially about the head of the Southern Union, the Four Kings, and their god-like existence.

“Everyone get out of the way. Whoever gets in the way will be killed with no mercy.” Johnny Lawrence said coldly.

When the Lopez family heard that, they quickly gave way.

With the Four Kings in the lead, the Six Slaves carried the crystal coffin into the Lopez family manor.

Behind them, the mighty members of Southern Union entered one after another.

And lastly, Grover entered.

When the Lopez family realized that Grover was here in person, they fell to their knees in terror.

Everyone was petrified.

They had no idea what was going on.

“Listen up! Master’s favorite student died because of Zoey Lopez. The entire Lopez family will have to take the blame for the trouble caused by Zoey. You will all be buried together with Jacky.” Johnny said coldly.

Everyone in the Lopez family nearly passed out from shock.

What kind of trouble had Zoey gotten us into?

Why should we take the blame for it?

They wanted to flee, but they were closely watched and heavily surrounded; they were trapped.

Soon afterward, words about Jacky’s funeral spread far and wide.

The head of the Southern Union and the Four Kings would personally conduct the funeral rites.

All of a sudden, the entire South was shocked.

Disciples of the Southern Union from various places came rushing to South City.

Even big bosses of the underworlds of all major cities were also on their way.

They had to come and pay their last respects.

The funeral was to be held three days from now, and it was bound to cause a huge commotion in the South.

Instantly, South City came to know about the earth-shattering news.

Even the head of Southern Union came in person.

Hence, it was impossible for them to not know.

The news of the upcoming funeral in three days reached Levi's ears.

“What? They want to capture me and bury me alive? Together with Jacky?”

Levi looked surprised.

The Protector Chapter 662

Hades chuckled, “God of War, you and your wife are on the list. By then, you will all be buried alive.”

“How bold of them to threaten to bury me,” Levi sneered.

Azure Dragon and Kirin laughed. “God of War, the Southern Union is indeed powerful. They are completely different from the Gates family and the Caesar family.”

“That’s right. They are more organized.”

“Grover can gather the disciples of Southern Union from all places, with just a wave of his hand.”

White Tiger smiled insolently. “Very well. The funeral is in three days? Then, I will fight them all the way to the end. Oh, and this time, you can’t transfer your men to do your bidding.” White Tiger pleaded.

“Yes, I won’t. I have a plan in mind. We’ll talk about that later.”

Levi had earlier on mapped out a strategy for a situation such as this.

“Hades, I’m assigning you to protect my wife. She has finally settled down in her work, so I don’t want her to know anything about this or to be disturbed,” Levi ordered.

“Understood. I will risk my life to protect her.”

On the other side, after the Southern Union had taken over the Lopez family, they were about to make their next move.

“Master, how are you going to deal with Morris Group this time around?” Johnny asked curiously. “I’ve heard that many people who were gotten rid of earlier on did not even have the chance to meet the Morris Group’s boss in person.”

Grover thought deeply and said, “Find the boss and drive him out.”

“Understood.”

Subsequently, the Southern Union made their move.

One by one, they captured those who were involved in Jacky’s death.

In the end, the only people left to be captured were Levi, Hades, Zoey, and Syllas.

But then, the Southern Union hesitated to make the move.

Except for Levi, the other three were always together.

In order to capture Zoey, they had to get past Hades.

“Hades killed the Two Slaves single-handedly. He’s just too powerful.”

“I’ve personally seen it with my own eyes too. At the very least, he has a fifty percent chance of beating me,” Johnny said.

“Master, I’ve managed to check Hades’ identity. He was once the L Nation’s God of War. After he was being defeated by Erudia’s God of War, he went incognito and appeared in Eastern Deathmatches.”

Among Grover’s hundreds of students, few of them were good at digging up information. Thus, very quickly, Hades’ true identity was revealed.

“So he’s L Nation’s God of War. No wonder he’s so powerful.”

It was only then realization struck everyone.

“If that is the case, then the four of you should go together. Show him how powerful the Southern Union can be. If Euradia’s God of War can defeat him, then so can I,” Grover ordered.

“Understood!”

Johnny Lawrence and the three Kings obeyed.

That day, Zoey went to work as usual, and Sylas came to pick her up.

Halfway to work, Hades showed up in front of them.

He handed Sylas a note that read, “Go to the destination written above. Leave immediately.”

Sylas read the note, immediately started the car, and sped off.

Hades, who had been guarding them from a distance, sensed danger in the air all of a sudden.

This time, he actually feared the worst was going to happen.

And he wasn’t sure if he could handle it.

Immediately, he asked Sylas to take Zoey to the Warzone compound to look for Levi for protection.

“Phew!” Hades breathed a sigh of relief when the car left.

He slowly walked to the other side of the road.

Just then, four silhouettes appeared in the dark alley.

Johnny Lawrence and the three Kings appeared together and glared at Hades with their ferocious eyes.

Seeing Hades walking towards them step by step, Johnny said coldly, "You're a dead man."

The Protector Chapter 663

In the narrow and dark alley.

Hades and the Southern Union's Four Kings attacked one another.

Southern Union had always prided themselves to be a homage of strength.

There were three ways to obtain a high position.

First, martial arts.

Second, financial resources.

Third, brains.

To possess one of the criteria was frightening enough. What more if someone possessed all three criteria.

There was a way of saying in the Southern Union about the Four Kings and the Eight Slaves that represented the three most powerful echelons.

The strength of the Four Kings was unmatched, and that was the key to the Southern Union's expeditions, resulting in countless territories being claimed.

Thump! Thump! Thump!

Boom! Boom! Boom!

In the long and narrow alley, an earth-shaking battle was going on.

Both sides of the alley walls collapsed from the fight. Even the surrounding buildings, one after another, were extensively damaged.

At first, Hades was able to fight off the Four Kings. But gradually, he was at the losing end.

Each of the Four Kings fought him with similar strengths. With the four of them combined, he was certainly of no match against them.

Thud!

Ten minutes later, Hades was kicked forcefully by Johnny.

Just when Hades was about to get back on his feet, three violent blows slammed on his body.

Crack!

More than a dozen of his bones shattered, and he lost his mobility.

“Don’t kill him!”

A cold glint flashed across Johnny’s eyes as he took out a small knife. Very swiftly, he severed Hades’ tendons in his arms and legs.

The defeated Hades fainted from the unbearable pain.

At last, Hades was carried away. He was going to be buried together with Jacky Lawson’s body.

“What about those two women?” Yadriel asked.

“Hades has fallen, so where else are they going to run to? Send someone to catch them,” Johnny smiled.

To him, Hades was the biggest obstacle.

As for Zoey and Syllas, he was not in the least worried. Thus, ordering his men to capture them.

At the same time, Syllas sped towards the destination written on the note.

Soon, they arrived at Levi's base – Warzone compound.

Both women rushed into the basecamp in a panic, colliding with Levi.

“What's wrong?” Levi asked.

“I don't know. The man protecting Ms. Lopez handed me a note and asked me to bring Zoey here,” Syllas said anxiously.

Levi was taken aback.

He could only blame his own carelessness by underestimating the Southern Union.

He thought that since the unrivaled L Nation's God of War was on his side, no one from the Southern Union was good enough to be an opponent.

Right now, it seemed like he was wrong.

Hades must have realized he was not going to be able to hold back the powerful Southern Union. And that's why he asked Syllas to come here.

Sure enough, the saying was true – all the best warriors originated from the Southern Union.

It appeared that there were a few strong fighters in Southern Union who were able to defeat Hades.

“You can sleep here for tonight.” Levi said.

Zoey was unsure about the place but stayed anyway.

She was filled with curiosity about Levi’s identity.

The bodyguard, who was guarding them from a distance, sensed something was about to go wrong and urged them to come here.

He’s a man of mystery.

Meanwhile, twenty martial arts masters sent by Johnny had actually made their way here.

It was easy to see how highly efficient the Southern Union was.

“Probably it’s around this location. Let’s search around, and I’m sure we’ll find them here,” the martial arts masters coordinated.

When they were about to enter the area, an old man in a green shirt came running out from the pavilion and said, “Leave! You’re not supposed to be here.”

“Ha! Is there such a place that we are not supposed to be?” they remonstrated.

“This is the forbidden area in South City.”

The Protector Chapter 664

The disciples of the Southern Union burst into laughter from what the old man had said.

“Forbidden? For people like us in Southern Union, there is no place where we can’t set foot in.”

“Young men, listen to me. You have no right to enter this area,” the old man persuaded.

The old man was not only a gatekeeper but a veteran as well.

“We are going in. So what are you going to do about it?”

The Southern Union’s martial arts masters stepped further in brazenly.

“This lot has a death wish.” The old man sighed in exasperation as he watched the men’s retreating shadows.

As the men went further in the area, people along the way persuaded them to leave, emphasizing that this was the forbidden area.

This puzzled the Southern Union’s martial arts masters.

Very quickly, they reached the Warzone compound.

“Look, it’s Zoey’s car. They are here.”

After seeing a car that was parked at the entrance, one of the martial arts masters exclaimed.

Just when they were about to rush in, a man suddenly appeared in front of them. He was casually dressed and holding a cigarette between his lips.

White Tiger!

At that moment, Levi and his men were watching from the rooftop. They were all guessing how many seconds it would take White Tiger to get rid of these pieces of trash.

Levi guessed White Tiger only needed a second.

White Tiger glanced at the twenty men and asked, “Who sent you lot to come here? Don’t you know that you guys are not allowed to enter this place?”

The Southern Union’s martial arts masters were taken aback.

Why do we keep hearing that this place was forbidden to us?

What is it about this place?

It seemed ratty and shabby, more like a slum than anything else.

How could such a place be the forbidden area in South City?

“Ha! There is no place we can’t set foot in. Now, get out of the way!” the leader of the martial arts experts shouted.

White Tiger chuckled and said, “Let me take a puff first.”

After White Tiger took a pull at his cigarette, he made his move.

He was like a bolt of lightning passing through those men.

Their visions went black, and all of them lost consciousness.

When they woke up, they found themselves lying in a pile of garbage.

They had been thrown out of the street and were terrified of what had happened to them.

For starters, they didn't even know how they were attacked in the first place.

This was really a forbidden area and not a place that anyone could break in to.

Retreat!

The group of men quickly fled.

In Lopez Villa.

The Four Kings had personally captured Hades, and everyone was in a hurrah.

"Master, don't worry. Soon, we'll be able to capture that woman," Johnny said.

He had sent a few men to capture Levi, Zoey, and Sylas. It was going to be an easy job.

At that moment, the twenty martial arts masters came running back, looking disconcerted.

"Master, Four Kings... Something really bad has happened..."

The men were badly battered, clearly injured.

"What happened?" Johnny's expression turned sour and asked angrily.

“Zoey and Syllas are hiding in a compound in South City. That place is so weird. Whoever we came across kept telling us it’s a forbidden area, asking us to leave. We also met a strange man, and he knocked us out before we even saw it coming.”

When the martial arts experts recounted the event, Johnny and the others were taken aback.

These twenty men were all martial arts experts, so how were they overpowered by a man?

And they didn’t even get to take a good look at the man’s face?

He must be really powerful.

“What? Is there such a place in South City?”

“Why didn’t I know about this? Scott and Brock are the strongest men in South City, am I right?”

A tremor went through them.

He questioned Leon Lopez and the rest, but no one knew that there was such a forbidden area.

Although Grover’s students went digging for information, nobody was able to explain why it was so.

Because that place was a restricted military area, it was highly confidential.

Hence, it wasn’t possible for them to find any information regarding that.

“No way. Bring them back to me.”

The Protector Chapter 665

Grover was fuming mad. “I don’t care if it’s a forbidden area. Bring them back to me!”

The Southern Union was known to be arrogant and self-confident about themselves.

Thus, it wouldn’t make sense for them not to enter a small city like South City.

To them, this was all just a joke.

With that, the Four Kings said, “Master, we promise to bring them back here.”

Immediately, Johnny and Yadriel of the Four Kings led hundreds of martial arts experts to that particular block.

“Attack!”

Johnny’s eyes flashed, and with a wave of his hand, he sent hundreds of martial arts experts into that block.

The men approached closer to the Warzone compound swiftly, preparing to infiltrate.

It was a spectacular sight.

Soon, the men came to a crossroad.

“Left, left, left, right, left...”

But at that moment, they heard loud commands being shouted out.

Thud! Thud! Thud!

It was accompanied by the sound of a uniformed pace.

“Halt!”

Johnny waved his hand, and all the men stopped at the crossroad.

They quietly observed the surroundings for any movements.

The footsteps were getting closer, and the commands being shouted out were getting louder.

They saw army officers marching at the left, right, and front of the crossroad intersection. The army officers were undergoing field training by marching.

There were at least a few hundred army officers with the size of two or three battalions.

“Stand still!”

Upon seeing Johnny, the commander of the army officers shouted out the command. They halted their steps and stared at Johnny and his troops.

At that time, Johnny and his men were dumbfounded.

Everyone exchanged glances and didn't know what to do.

Why were there army officers having their drill in this place?

Johnny was astonished.

He supposed these army officers were also astonished.

Why were these people gathered at the restricted military area?

Were these people here to cause trouble?

The army officers knew they could not let Johnny and his men infiltrate the compound.

A sharp glint flashed across the commander's eyes, and he commanded, "Move forward!"

Clack! Clack! Clack!

Army officers from all three directions continued to advance and pressed towards Johnny and his men.

The footsteps of the army officers were loud like beating drums, and the bass of it vibrated in everyone's chest. At that moment, Johnny and his men felt like their hearts would explode.

Tap tap tap...

Everyone instinctively went backwards.

As the army officers marched forward, they stepped backward.

Johnny and his men broke out in cold sweat.

No matter how powerful they were, they still felt afraid and apprehensive in facing the army officers.

"Retreat!"

At the orders of the Four Kings, the men fled and quickly disappeared.

Once they were out of the block, Johnny heaved a sigh of relief and said, "We almost got into trouble just now."

"Phew!"

Yadriel Larson and the rest also shared the same expression.

If they had taken a step further, it would have been a disaster.

The Southern Union may be strong, but could they possibly be stronger than these people?

Alas, no matter how skilled one was in martial arts, it was useless against military arms.

Just then, Connor, one of the Four Kings, exclaimed, "So that's what forbidden area meant. That place is the restricted military area."

"Phew! I have to say, Zoey found a good place to hide," Jael replied.

Yadriel sighed and asked, "So what should we do now? Do you want to ask Master for advice?"

"It's useless to ask Master. It's not like we can send someone here to abduct her," Johnny said helplessly.

"What should we do then? Are we just going to let this woman go?"

Yadriel and others were obviously heavy-hearted.

Johnny thought for a while and said, "I have an idea."

The Protector Chapter 666

“What idea? Spit it out.”

The other three Kings immediately turned to look at him and asked anxiously.

“I don’t believe she will hide here forever. We’ll just wait here until she comes out,” Johnny said.

“Sounds like a plan. That’s all we can do for now then.”

Yadriel ordered his men, “All of you stay undercover here, and keep an eye at all times. Notify me immediately once she comes out from hiding.”

Soon after that, the Four Kings returned to the Lopez residence and updated Grover on what happened.

Grover was furious. “What? Hiding in the Warzone compound? That’s outrageous! You ordered your men to be undercover near the Warzone compound without consulting me. Did you think that I couldn’t think of any other way?”

“Master, if we were to fight with them, we’re as good as dead,” his students immediately consoled him.

They were actually afraid that Grover would charge over without thinking.

“Master, we can’t be too impulsive.”

“The only option now is to wait. Sooner or later, she’s bound to come out from hiding,” Johnny said.

Grover sighed heavily, his face contorted in anger.

The next morning.

The Four Kings received news that Zoey had come out from hiding.

Hearing that, they headed towards the hideout as soon as they could.

But they fell into a deathly silence when they saw the scene before them.

Zoey had indeed come out from hiding. However, she was escorted by four military cars.

The average person wouldn't be able to tell.

But to Johnny and his men, they knew that these four military cars were in an escort formation.

At that moment, Johnny was in despair as Zoey was well-protected.

As powerful as the Southern Union was, they did not dare to confront the army.

Meanwhile, Zoey had no idea what was going on and went to work as usual.

Everything was as arranged by Levi, and no one was to disrupt Zoey's normal life.

Just when Johnny was in deep thoughts on what to do, a little boy walked up to him and said, "Mr., someone asked me to pass you this note."

Johnny took the note and read it. The note read: I will be at the funeral – Levi

So, Levi knew about the funeral.

This man who killed Jacky alongside with Hades.

“Very well. How daring of you to decide to show up.”

A sneer appeared on Johnny’s lips.

After returning to the Lopez residence, he filled in Grover on the whole situation.

“What? The military is protecting that woman?” Grover gritted his teeth and roared.

However, he was helpless.

“But her husband, Levi, said he would come to the funeral. He’s probably trying to appease us,” Johnny said.

“After all, we are hiding in the dark. This is our chance to kill them,” Yadriel Larson said.

“Good. Then I’ll wait for him to show up. He must be buried together with my disciple,” Grover said angrily.

On the second day, Jacky’s funeral was officially held.

Everyone who was anyone in Southern Union came to attend the funeral.

It was safe to say that these men who were gathered here were the foundation of Southern Union.

In fact, these people were very angry.

At the day of the funeral procession.

Thousands of Southern Union disciples came to pay their respects, and they were all dressed in black, with white flowers pinned on their chests.

Everyone looked solemn.

The coffin was placed in the middle of the mourning hall.

At the side of the coffin, Hades and others were bound and gagged, unable to cry for help.

Later on, they would be buried alive together with Jacky.

“The first batch of the Southern Union is here to see Master Jacky off.”

“The ninth batch of the Southern Union is here to see Master Jacky off.”

“The twenty-third batch of the Southern Union is here to see Master Jacky off.”

The Protector Chapter 667

The Southern Union had a total of thirty-nine branches scattered around the southern region of the country.

On that very day, all members of the union gathered to attend Jacky Lawson's funeral.

"I'm Walter Holton from Bellwater, and I'm here to see Mr. Lawson off! Mr. Cooke, I'm sorry for your loss."

"I'm Frank Carson from Faircrest, here to see Mr. Lawson off! Mr. Cooke, please accept my sincere condolences!"

"I'm Tommy Johnson from Dawnfrost, and I'm here to see Mr. Lawson off! Mr. Cooke, please don't be too sad and take care!"

...

Not only the members of the Southern Union were there, but even all the big shots from the southern region of the country were also there to attend the funeral too.

In comparison to them, the families from Quebec did not even have the right to be there.

This showed how huge and respectable an organization the Southern Union was.

But if the funeral were held in South Hampton, the event would be several times more crowded.

Meanwhile, Grover had been looking ominous throughout the whole process.

He had been much bothered by his failure to capture Levi, Zoey, and Syllas here himself.

“Grover, all the guests are here,” Johnny whispered next to his ear.

“Okay!”

After giving all the guests a scan, Grover started his speech by saying, “First of all, I would like to express my utmost gratitude for everyone to be here to attend my disciple’s funeral.”

In an instant, the entire mourning hall plunged into silence as all eyes were on him.

“To be honest, Jacky had always been the one I preferred the most out of my eight hundred disciples. In fact, I was intending to make him my successor, the next leader of Southern Union, and announce my decision during the Union Conference this year. But unfortunately...”

When he reached that part, his voice became slightly croaky. “It was totally out of my expectation that he would be killed so mercilessly in South City!”

“Revenge! Revenge! Revenge...”

“Whoever did that must be killed for his sin!”

“Whoever did that must be killed for his sin!”

...

At that moment, all the members of both Southern Union and Northern Union were chanting vehemently as they demanded to avenge Jacky’s death.

Their roaring voices was so thundering that it could be heard from afar.

The moment Grover lifted his hand in the air, they immediately stopped chanting, and the place fell silent in an instant.

“Now, I’ve captured everyone who was involved in Jacky’s death and broken all tendons in the limbs of Hades, who mercilessly took Jacky’s life! They are all kept at one place waiting to be buried together with Jacky in his tomb!”

Immediately, he changed the topic by adding, “Yet, we still have three culprits who are on the loose right now! I can’t do anything to them at the moment because they are being protected by some powerful figure. I’m so frustrated at myself for not being able to kill them on Jacky’s behalf!”

His voice was croaky as tears started streaming down his face.

“Kill them!”

“Kill them no matter who’s protecting them!”

“We have to pursue them no matter where they’re hiding, and we have to kill them!”

“They have to die!”

All the members of the union were shouting in unison.

Their faces were laden with fury.

By hook or by crook, they vowed to track them down and butcher them for having done something so humiliating to Southern Union.

Having taken a deep breath, Grover announced, "As the leader of the Southern Union, I hereby issue an order for all members to hunt them down and kill them! All branches of the union have to carry out the mission at all costs!"

Looking furious, Grover issued the order.

"Yes, sir!"

"Yes, sir!"

...

Up to a thousand members of the unions shouted their response with a burning desire to kill in their eyes.

That was how efficient things got done in Southern Union!

The members were all ready to get their hands dirty as soon as they received his instruction.

It was only then did Grover feel better.

After all, he believed it was only a matter of time before Levi and the other two were killed.

"By the way, is the guy named Levi Garrison here?" he asked.

"I suppose he must be too scared to be here because he knows he's gonna get killed as soon as he arrives!" Johnny replied.

"Who told you that I'm too scared to be here?"

At that moment, a voice was heard.

The Protector Chapter 668

The voice was loud and clear enough to be heard by everyone.

In an instant, it caught the attention of all members present there.

Right then, two figures emerged at the door of Lopez Villa.

It was Levi and White Tiger.

Even Grover appeared genuinely surprised to see them there because he didn't expect Levi would actually be here.

"They've got some guts! Johnny sneered.

"I suppose he's trying to bear the responsibility himself so that his wife won't get implicated," Yadriel opined.

"That seems to be the case because I can't see any other reason for him to be here."

Under the watchful gazes of nearly two thousand people, Levi and White Tiger made their way into the mourning hall one step at a time.

At last, they stopped around ten meters away from Grover.

Levi questioned, "Are you Grover Cooke, the leader of Southern Union?"

"Yes, I am!" Grover nodded at him before he bellowed, "Don't you think you should get on your knees now?"

“Why should I do that?” Levi countered.

“You killed my disciple as well as my other subordinates! Now, you must kneel in front of him to repent your mistakes. He shouldn’t have died!” Grover yelled at the top of his lungs.

“Kneel down and repent your mistake!”

“Do that now!”

...

Up to two thousand members of Southern Union shouted at the same time; their booming voices sounded powerful and magnificent.

Upon hearing them, Levi sneered, “Shouldn’t have died? Haha, I think he deserved it more than anyone else!”

Levi made a shocking remark that silenced the entire mourning hall.

Everyone was glaring at him resentfully.

How dare he say something like that in front of all the members of the Southern Union?

It was an outright provocation!

“You’re risking your neck!”

The Four Kings and the Six Slaves were enraged.

A look of utter disbelief appeared on Grover’s face.

“W-What did you just say? Did you say Jacky deserves to be killed?”

“That’s right! Jacky deserves to die for killing other people recklessly!” Levi said firmly.

“How dare you say things like that after killing one of us! It seems like you don’t take us seriously at all!”

Instead of looking furious, Grover laughed out loud.

It had been years since he came across someone as arrogant as Levi.

To his utter surprise, Levi nodded his head and replied, “Yes, Southern Union is indeed too small for me to take it seriously.”

Boom!

His remark sent the people in the mourning hall uproarious at once.

A babble of voices soon broke out among them as they all freaked out.

He was not allowed to say something like that!

There was no way he was allowed to make such a rude comment about them!

In fact, they could deal with Jacky’s death albeit begrudgingly, but humiliating Southern Union was a total taboo.

They had to do their best to salvage the dignity of their organization even if they had to risk their lives!

Therefore, when Levi showed how he looked down upon Southern Union, all hell broke loose.

“Kill him!”

“Bury him together with Jacky!”

“Bury him now!”

“Bury him alive!”

...

With their eyes reddened with fury, the members of the Southern Union yelled.

If it weren't because Grover had yet to instruct them to do anything, they would not hesitate to slaughter Levi on the spot.

“Hahaha... throughout the fifty years I've been with Southern Union, I've never come across anyone who didn't take it seriously. You're the first!”

“What gives you the confidence to harbor that kind of opinion?” Grover queried.

Levi chuckled as he slowly lifted both fists in the air. “It's because I have these!”

Everyone was stunned by his cocky attitude.

How arrogant was he to have the guts to do something as provocative as that in front of all the martial arts masters of Southern Union!

Indeed, he was trying to challenge the entire Southern Union, and he was clearly asking for trouble.

“Do you think you can fight all of us here with only your fists?” Grover chortled.

At that moment, White Tiger spoke, "You guys aren't worth getting his hands dirty. Let me clean up the mess!"

The Protector Chapter 669

Everyone gasped in shock when they heard him.

Most of the martial arts masters of Southern Union were a bunch of cocky men themselves, but even they had not come across someone as arrogant as the two.

Did White Tiger just threaten to kill them all on his own?

How prominent his martial arts skill must be to be so full of confidence?

“Today, I’ll leave my buddy here to handle you guys. His failure will be deemed as mine!” Levi declared with a smile.

“Very well. I must say your attitude is admirable, young man!”

Shortly later, Grover waved his hands at his men and shouted, “Guys, kill him!”

“Joshua, the Iron Fist, from the thirty-sixth branch of Southern Union volunteering for this mission!”

“Gregory, the Golden Sword, from the seventeenth branch of Southern Union reporting for duty!”

“Finnley, the Crippled Man, from the twenty-eighth branch of Southern Union volunteering for this mission!”

...

Immediately all the martial arts masters of the union were fervently asking to be assigned the mission.

Meanwhile, White Tiger beckoned them over and barked, “You guys may fight me together!”

“He’s clearly tired of living!”

Soon, around ten martial arts masters of the union charged toward him.

They were the top martial arts masters of the union who were considered better fighters than Scott Yates’s Four Mighty Generals.

Therefore, their joined force would be an invincible one!

Thump! Thump! Thump!

Yet, it only took White Tiger a short time to send those prominent martial arts masters flying away.

Everyone gaped at the scene in utter disbelief.

“He’s indeed something! Let’s go and take him!”

The rest of the martial arts masters of the union immediately advanced upon White Tiger, but none of them was his match.

One after another, they were flung some distance away by him.

Hundreds of them were soon defeated.

This time, the entire Southern Union was left flabbergasted.

Their eyes were filled with astonishment seeing how incredibly powerful White Tiger was.

None of them in the union was his match.

How scary is that?

“Six Slaves, go on and teach him a lesson!”

Looking ominous, Grover waved his hand and commanded.

The Six Slaves then complied with his instruction by attacking White Tiger at the same time.

At last, it turned out that they were only slightly better than the last batch because they lasted just a bit longer. However, they were, too, sent flying away.

“Let’s deal with him together!”

Icy glint shone in the eyes of the Four Kings.

Every single one of them was strong enough to take on the God of War independently.

Therefore, it meant White Tiger was going to fight four equivalents of the God of War at the same time.

The five of them soon embroiled in an intense fight.

Explosions occurred in the air continuously, and the tiles on the floor started cracking because of the intensity of the battle.

Every single attack they executed was powerful enough to blast anything into halves.

Bang!

Bang!

Bang!

Bang!

In the end, White Tiger successfully tamed the four of them.

Slumping on the floor, the four of them appeared nonplussed.

Needless to say, they were great martial arts masters as they had started training since they were little.

But since White Tiger was someone who had defeated the God of War of L Nation before, they had failed to handle the he who was standing in front of them.

Who is he?

Why is he so incredibly strong?

Thus far, he was the strongest fighter they had ever encountered.

All the members of Southern Union, both onstage and offstage, were staring at White Tiger alarmingly.

Surprisingly, they were scared!

They actually feared the presence of White Tiger!

Just like what he had said earlier, he really managed to handle all of them on his own.

The people of Southern Union were curious about where this person was from as they had never seen anyone as strong as him before.

At that moment, White Tiger let out a howl in relish.

Ever since he retired from the frontline, he had never had such a great time sparring with other people.

Levi, too, broke into a grin.

Being the most combative among the Five Great Wars Regiment, Levi knew the peaceful days lately must have bored him badly.

Therefore, this came as the best opportunity for him to get a kick out of it.

At that moment, Grover looked stupefied as he eyed both White Tiger and Levi with disbelief.

White Tiger lay his eyes upon him and shouted, "I was told that you're the best fighter of Southern Union. Now, come and battle me!"

Yet, Grover remained motionless.

After staring at the two of them dazedly for a moment, he asked, "Are you guys from the army?"

The Protector Chapter 670

Being the leader of the Southern Union, Grover managed to detect some issues after observing the battle the whole time.

In fact, martial arts skills were learned to kill instead of to perform.

Therefore, all the martial arts masters of Southern Union were taught only moves that were lethal enough to kill.

Yet, he found that White Tiger's moves were simpler yet more efficient.

None of his moves were redundant, and every movement of his was capable to kill.

Anyone who was attacked by him would end up either getting injured or dying.

Also, he noticed that White Tiger's movements were more inclined to practicality.

Anyone who knew enough about martial arts could discern that White Tiger's moves were honed to be both efficient and practical through countless battles.

In short, only someone from the army could have such a straightforward combat style.

Immediately, Grover realized that Levi and White Tiger must be two prominent fighters from the army.

At first, he only assumed Levi and Zoey were protected by the army, but little did he know, Levi turned out to be from the military himself.

The rest of the members of Southern Union took a sharp intake of breath when the truth struck them.

“You’re really observant!” White Tiger complimented in astonishment.

Although his speculation was verified, Grover suddenly became edgy.

What kind of status could they have in the army having such powerful combative skills?

“A-Are... A-Are you guys working for the God of War?” Grover asked them in a trembling voice.

It went without saying that he knew that the God of War had gone into seclusion in North Hampton at the moment.

At this moment, he could only associate White Tiger and Levi to the God of War judging from how great they were in martial arts.

White Tiger commented with a smile, “Levi, he’s spot-on!”

“Your guess’s right! I’m White Tiger, one of the Five Great Wars Regiment, who works for the God of War!”

“Say what?”

“Goodness gracious, he’s White Tiger – the King of War!”

Everyone within the Southern Union went wild when they heard that.

White Tiger was well-known for his mercilessness on the battlefield.

He was famous worldwide for his effort in wiping out the entire L Nation together with the Cavalry Regiment.

Many of them in the Southern Union worshiped him like a deity because he achieved greatness in wars.

Tap, tap, tap...

When White Tiger's identity came to light, Grover stumbled a few steps backward and almost collapsed onto the floor.

At that moment, he was seized by an urge to kill himself on the spot knowing that he was dealing with White Tiger.

How about this guy over here?

When a horrendous thought popped up in his mind, he slumped to the floor immediately.

He dreaded to even look up at Levi.

"I guess all of you here must be able to see who my boss really is. Yes, he's indeed the God of War – Levi Garrison!"

The moment White Tiger made that announcement, it was as though the world just stopped spinning.

Time halted, and everything went still.

Everyone thought the scene looked too surreal as though they were in a dream.

"Now I realize why the Gates family and the Caesar family collapsed..."

At the moment, Grover's eyes looked hollow and blank.

Also, it dawned upon him that the woman Jacky had tried to invite over here before this was actually the God of War's wife...

Upon that, he realized he would not be able to redeem himself for offending the God of War so terribly.

“It’s my honor to meet you, God of War!”

“It’s my honor to meet you, God of War!”

Grover, who finally figured everything out, cued the entire Southern Union to kneel in front of Levi and greeted him respectfully.

“We were wrong! We made a grave mistake, and we are willing to receive any punishment for that! Also, I’ll bear the responsibility for what Jacky had done!” Grover pleaded.

As powerful as Southern Union was, it was nothing in the presence of the God of War.

On top of that, White Tiger had made everyone well aware of his capability just now.

He was able to finish them off on his own!

Therefore, Grover was certain that all of them would be doomed if they refused to show Levi the white flag.

At a steady pace, Levi made his way toward Grover and said, “In fact, I already thought of the punishment for y’all several days ago!”

“What?!”

The Protector Chapter 671

Everyone was stunned beyond words.

As it turned out, the God of War did not take them seriously at all, to begin with, and he had long had a plan ready to deal with them.

“God of War, we’re ready to receive your punishment!” Grover responded.

“Very well. From now on you guys are only allowed to carry out legal business!”

“We can do that!”

“You guys are not allowed to kill recklessly!”

“We can do that!”

“On the other hand, I want a share of your business profit to fund the military expense, and you have to do that every year from now on. Are you okay with that?”

“I’m okay!”

Grover agreed without hesitation.

Levi glanced at the martial arts masters of the union and commented, “All of you here are abusing your talents by using it to bully people who aren’t physically trained. Don’t you guys feel ashamed of that? You guys should’ve just joined the frontline to defend the country! It will be a waste of your talent to stay here doing nothing!”

“All men in Erudia should be men of indomitable spirits whose priority is contributing to the country. This applies even more so for all of you here who possess immense talent!”

Everyone glanced at one another dazedly as they slowly began to understand what Levi’s plan was all about.

Firstly, he wanted them to surrender all the dirty money they had earned over the years to fund the army.

Secondly, he wanted all of the martial arts masters to join the army and contribute to the country.

“Are you guys not willing to do that?” Levi questioned them with a smile.

“We’re willing to join the army!”

“In fact, I’m getting tired of this quiet life I’ve been leading! I should have joined the army sooner to defend my country!”

“Yes, I should use my talent at the right place!”

Levi’s words received a positive response from them.

In fact, some among them did not think that joining the army a great idea, but in the presence of the God of War, they had no choice but to agree.

Excitement was surging in Levi’s blood when he stared at the crowd of martial arts masters in front of him.

He started picturing a troop formed by them and what sort of effect that would have.

He was sure they would be invincible!

They would be undefeatable especially in carrying out ambushes and invasions.

Since every single one of them possessed their own unique skill, he believed they would be able to dominate the battlefield.

Right at that moment, the war at the country's south border happened to be in a critical situation.

If he dispatched a troop consisting of the members of the Southern Union there, he was sure they would be able to make a huge difference.

This had been his plan all along.

“Since every one of you has agreed to join the army, I'll start briefing you guys about what's next!” “I'll line you guys up and form a troop with the name of 'Beasts', and I'll be the direct commander of it.”

“You guys are to gather at the South Warzone tomorrow where each and every one of you will go through a special training!” “During the training, you guys will be helped to get rid of your bad habits and will gain military knowledge to become a better soldier!” Levi announced.

Although these guys were talented, they were still amateurish.

Hence, he would entrust Kirin with the duty of transforming them into an invincible troop.

“Understood!” all of them shouted in unison.

The thought of becoming soldiers directly under the command of the God of War had never occurred to any of them.

Even those who were unwilling to join the army just now started counting themselves lucky because they had landed the dream job for many of the male population within the country.

On the other hand, Levi did not compel the Four Kings and the Six Slaves into joining him, because after all, they worked directly for Grover.

At the same time, he needed to count on them to generate more profit to fund his army.

Just like that, Southern Union was tamed by Levi in the most unexpected fashion.

After getting it done, Levi returned to the office appearing as though nothing much had taken place.

To his surprise, Zoey came to visit him.

“Can we talk?”

It was only reasonable for her to be suspicious of the things that had happened so fast lately.

Hence, she saw the need to ask for an explanation from Levi.

When she arrived at his room, she confronted him, “Levi Garrison, how many more secrets are you hiding from me?”

The air was charged with tension in an instant.

The Protector Chapter 672

Levi answered her with a smile, "I'm not hiding anything from you."

"You aren't being truthful to me. What happened last night? Why did the man who protected me ask Syllas to meet you?"

"There's something very suspicious with the things that happened lately because you seemed to be able to resolve all problems that came your way."

"I reckon you must have got something to do with everything." Zoey suddenly raised her voice at him.

"Did you really spend the past few years in jail? Why do I find it so unconvincing?" she pressed on.

In fact, Levi had left enough traces behind after doing things for Zoey to discern if she paid enough attention to it.

Things had become especially obvious after Hades revealed plenty of stuff the previous night when he accidentally blurted out the location of the headquarter.

"Zoey, what're the two of you discussing?"

At that juncture, Iris suddenly pushed the door open and interrupted their conversation.

"Huh? Nothing too important. What's up, Iris?" Zoey asked, looking surprised by her visit.

“Oh... I was just thinking – since I’ve finished with the task at North Hampton, I’ll move here where all the important work will be done,” Iris explained.

“By the way, there’s something important that I have to share with you, Zoey. The boss of the Morris Group will reveal himself by making a public appearance soon!”

Upon hearing what she said, Zoey started getting excited about it too. She was very curious to see how that mysterious man actually looked. Not only that, but she also wanted to learn about the reason he had been so willing to help Levi and her on so many occasions before.

“Levi, have you met him before? He told everyone that he is going to make a public appearance at your wedding ceremony!” Iris asked.

“Say what?!”

Zoey, too, eyed Levi with astonishment right after Iris posed him that question.

In fact, she had been suspecting Levi of having a close relationship with the boss of the Morris Group.

Now, what Iris said just cemented her speculation.

Levi nodded at her and replied, “Yes, we kinda know each other.”

“Please tell me what kind of a man he’s like!” Iris requested.

“I think I should keep it a secret for the time being. You will be able to make a judgment yourself on the day of our wedding ceremony!” Levi responded.

Iris went speechless; Zoey and she both glared at him resentfully.

Morris Group had officially ventured its business in South City. Besides, with the help of Oriental Star Group, the company managed to build a solid foundation in the city, which made work easier for Iris.

Therefore, she was able to enjoy the leisure days to follow.

At the same time, the preparation for Levi and Zoey's wedding ceremony had been ongoing in an orderly manner.

The preparation mainly centered on the renovation and construction of their family home.

In the meantime, the business of Morris Group was heading on the right track to slowly replace the electrical products produced by Triple Group in the market with their own.

Products like smartphones and laptops produced by the company were ready to be released to the market.

On the other hand, two movies and a drama produced exquisitely by Oriental Star Group were about to be aired soon, too.

Helena Engler, as well as other celebrities, were hired to be the ambassadors for the electrical products of Morris Group.

The future looked bright as the businesses in different fields were benefitting one another.

In the meantime, Levi had been spending every single day enjoying tea and smoking because he knew all he had to do was to reveal his identity at the wedding ceremony.

As for Zoey and Iris, they preferred to focus their attention on the business instead of making the effort to care about what he did.

With the two hardcore businesswomen around, Levi would have a comfortable life without the need to do anything.

One day, Abigail visited him all of a sudden.

“What are you doing here?” Levi asked her in consternation.

“I’m going to start my internship soon!” Abigail replied with excitement.

“Why don’t you just intern in North Hampton? There are so many more companies there than in South City,” Levi said.

Abigail glimpsed at him and countered, “Of course, I have to come here because you’re not staying in North Hampton.”

“Eh? What has it got to do with me?” Levi looked puzzled and resigned.

“Someone at school told me that you’ve divorced Zoey. Is that true?”

“Yes, it is.”

“If that’s the case, can I start dating you now?”

Levi went speechless in response.

The Protector Chapter 673

Pfft!

As soon as he heard Abigail's answer, Levi spurted out the entire mouthful of tea he just drank.

"What's wrong with that? Why can't I date you now that you're single after the divorce?"

Abigail stared at him confusedly.

Levi responded with a smile, "I'm indeed single, but I think you should get Zoey's permission first before asking me out."

"Well, I'll do that now!"

Abigail left after that.

When she was in North Hampton, she was so thrilled to hear about Levi's divorce that she actually lost some sleep for several nights because of that.

She couldn't wait to make her way over to South City so she could start dating Levi!

Finally, her golden opportunity came.

She immediately visited Levi when it was time for her to do her internship.

Zoey was having a business discussion with Iris when Abigail visited her room.

“Abigail, how come you’re here? What’s the matter?” she questioned with a trace of astonishment in her voice.

“Yes, I have a question for you!”

Abigail spoke with a poker-faced expression.

“Let me give you girls some space.” With that, Iris prepared to leave the room.

“Iris, you may stay.”

Then, Abigail looked at Zoey and asked, “Zoey, are you and Levi divorced?”

“Yes. I even received the certificate of it.”

“Since both of you are single now, may I ask him out?”

Her question came as such a shock for both Zoey and Iris that their eyes widened in disbelief.

Is this girl crazy? I can’t believe she’s going to ask Levi out.

That was what both of them were secretly thinking at that time.

“Abigail, are you serious?”

Zoey staggered backward as she asked Abigail in a quivering voice.

Abigail nodded at her and affirmed, “I’m serious! I think he’s a nice guy who fits most of the requirements of my ideal man. Since he’s single now, I’m going to ask him out!”

Iris bit her lips in anxiety.

At that moment, she found herself resonating with Abigail because she, too, thought Levi was a nice guy.

Ever since he had saved her life that night, she had changed her views on him.

Yet, Zoey snapped with a crease on her forehead, “No, you can’t do that!”

“Huh?” Abigail appeared puzzled.

“Zoey, why can’t I? I mean, he’s single now!”

“Even though we’ve divorced, he’s still your brother-in-law! It’s inappropriate of you to date him, and it’s weird! Also, you should really focus on your studies since you’re still a student,” Zoey spoke sternly.

“I’m no longer a kid because I’m graduating soon. Besides, I have the right to ask him out as long as he’s single. Now that you are no longer his wife, you have no authority to stop me from dating him!”

Abigail looked determined.

No one could stop her from doing things that she had set her mind to!

Seeing how resolute she appeared, Zoey let out a sigh.

Why didn’t I notice Abby had a thing for Levi back then?

How on earth did she fall in love with him?

“Zoey, I’ll ask him out if you can’t give me any valid reason,” Abigail vowed.

“I…”

Zoey struggled to come up with an answer.

Fortunately, Iris came to her rescue. “Abigail, the truth is, someone else from your family filed for the divorce on their behalf. In fact, Zoey and Levi are still together now, and they will remarry each other soon. In fact, Levi’s been busy organizing a wedding ceremony for your sister lately! That’s to say they aren’t divorcing each other!”

“Say what?”

The moment Abigail learned about the truth, she fixed an incredulous gaze at Zoey.

Things went so tense and awkward that Zoey dreaded to even meet her eyes.

Bang!

Abigail stormed out of the door with tears dribbling down her face.

Because of the misunderstanding, things went rather awkward between the three of them.

After the incident, both Zoey and Levi decided not to go out and search for her.

However, a mishap befell Abigail when the night fell.

The Protector Chapter 674

After their awkward encounter, Levi and Zoey didn't go out and search for Abigail, preferring to give her some space.

However, when night fell, there was still no news from Abigail.

She hadn't gone back to her house, and the people at her usual haunts reported that they hadn't seen her all day.

She seemed to have disappeared without a trace.

The Black family was thrown into chaos.

"Abigail told us she's coming back today. Why isn't she answering her phone, and why is there no trace of her anywhere? Did something happen to her?"

Bailey and Pamela were so frightened that they burst into tears.

Beside them, Meredith and Robert broke out in cold sweat.

Zoey was so anxious that she was nearly crying.

"This is all my fault..." she murmured, silently castigating herself.

She would never forgive herself if something had really happened to Abigail.

Iris tried to calm her down. "This has nothing to do with you. Nobody would have thought that Abigail's crush on Levi was real..."

Zoey let out a series of miserable sighs.

When Levi caught wind of the fact that Abigail was missing, he immediately sent his men out on a city-wide search for her.

The whole city was on the lookout for the missing girl.

Levi felt extremely guilty. This would never have happened if he hadn't sent Abigail to look for Zoey.

How was he to know that Abigail was truly in love with himself?

She was really in love with him...

If something had happened to Abigail, he would never be able to forgive himself.

Unknown to everyone, Abigail was currently drinking herself silly in a private bar.

After the sadness of the day's events, she had gathered a few of her friends from high school and headed to the bar to drink her woes away.

After drinking the entire night away, Abigail was completely drunk.

If it hadn't been for her friends who had held her back, she would have been wasted a long time ago.

At that moment, however, a few more ex-classmates arrived to join their little group. They were all muscular and built, and the average height between them seemed to be roughly 1.9 meters.

They had been in the same class as Abigail in high school and were now studying in sports schools.

Upon hearing that Abigail had drunk herself silly in a bar, they quickly came over.

Their leader was a man named Drake Lindon. He had developed a huge crush on Abigail in high school.

He had been the school bully back then and had used to force himself upon whichever girl he happened to fancy.

However, he had never dared to lay his hands on Abigail, the Black family's precious daughter.

When it came to Abigail, he could only try to woo her like a respectable suitor.

However, she had rejected him in the end.

It had been many years since, but Drake still hadn't gotten over the idea of luring her into his bed.

When he found out that Abigail was drinking in a bar, he had took off for the bar immediately.

Seeing her lovely, intoxicated figure, Drake felt a strong rush of excitement.

Abigail, you won't be able to escape from me tonight!

Drake knew that, for all her scandalous drinking habits, Abigail was an exceedingly conservative person.

If he got her to sleep with him, Abigail would have no choice but to marry him.

When that happened, Drake would become the son-in-law of the Rogers, the most prestigious family in North Hampton, and the Blacks.

Thinking about this drove him nearly crazy with desire.

Turning to Abigail, he said, "Abigail, let's drink until we're drunk tonight!"

He poured her a drink.

Try as they might, the girls couldn't hold him back.

What Abigail needed most now was wine to drown her sorrows in. Drake managed to convince her to down a few more glasses of wine until she passed out completely.

Drake had already booked the hotel room in advance. Now, all he needed to do was to find a way to bring her there.

While that was going on in the bar, a manhunt for Abigail Rogers was happening in South City.

The disciples of the underworld and the Southern Union were combing the entire city for any sign of the missing girl.

Phoenix and Russell had joined the search, too.

At that moment, Levi received a lead from Derek. "Mr. Garrison, my men have found her. She's currently at Majesty Private Bar."

Hearing this, Levi made his way to Majesty Private Bar immediately.

At the bar, Drake had grown tired of waiting. Trying to get everyone to leave, he announced, "We've all been drinking too much. Everyone, take your friends home first. I'll send Abigail back to her house."

A few of the girls tried to protest. "No, we'll send her back home!"

Drake glowered angrily at them. "Trying to go up against me, aren't you? I already said I'll send her home!"

The girls could only watch helplessly as Drake led a drunk Abigail towards the exit.

Bang!

Just as Drake was about to drag her out of the door, someone gave the door a kick, and it flew open with a loud crash.

The Protector Chapter 675

A man walked into the room, a stormy expression on his face.

Without a single word, Levi walked over to Abigail and picked her up in his arms before leaving the room.

Levi had acted so quickly that Drake and his cronies had no time to react until he had already disappeared out of the door.

When they recovered from their shock, they immediately dashed out of the room and caught up to Levi and Abigail.

Accosting them in the front yard of the bar, Drake and his men surrounded them to stop them from leaving.

Drake bellowed, "Who the hell are you? Where do you think you're going with this girl?"

He was very angry indeed. He had already arranged for a hotel room beforehand and had successfully managed to make Abigail drink herself drunk after a great deal of effort.

However, this stranger had thrown a wrench in his plans by whisking Abigail away right under his nose.

To Drake, this was intolerable.

Levi was undeterred. "Don't test my patience," he warned. "I'm not in a very good mood right now."

He didn't want to start a fight with these kids.

Drake refused to back down. "Tell me who you are! And put that girl down—she's my ex-classmate!"

His cronies glared at Levi, preparing to strike.

"I'm her brother-in-law, and I'm here to pick her up," Levi replied, completely nonplussed.

"Huh?" Drake was so shocked that he felt rather dazed.

This man was Abigail's family member?

If that was true, there was no way Drake's plans were going to succeed!

However, he wasn't about to let go of this golden opportunity so easily.

He had to succeed in getting Abigail into bed with him!

Foolishly, Drake bellowed, "Abigail's brother-in-law? I've never heard of you! Put her down right now and get out of my sight immediately!"

Levi scoffed. "Get out of my way! I don't want to hurt you guys."

Hearing this, Drake burst into laughter.

He was specially trained in mixed martial arts and wrestling at school.

There was nobody he couldn't beat in a fight.

Did this man seriously think that he was going to be able to defeat him?

How laughable!

Drake tried again. "Put her down immediately! We have to guarantee her safety."

To his chagrin, Levi simply ignored him and walked away with Abigail still in his arms.

Thoroughly annoyed by now, Drake roared at his men, "After him!"

Because Drake and his cronies were all from sports schools, they were pretty confident that they would be able to take down Levi in a fight. They rushed towards him, preparing to strike him down.

At that moment, a loud bang sounded as the gates of the main entrance collapsed.

A crowd of people rushed into the yard. All of them looked tall and threatening, and some of them were even armed with weapons.

Very quickly, the entire yard filled up as hundreds more people flooded in through the broken gates.

The number of people in the yard continued increasing without any sign of stopping. More reinforcements were waiting to enter outside.

This flurry of activity sent Drake into a panic.

Had these people been summoned by Abigail's brother-in-law?

Levi announced coldly, "Take care not to kill them."

"Beat them up now!"

A few hundred people dashed up to Drake and his men and surrounded them. The people in the innermost ring of the circle started beating them up without mercy.

Levi carried Abigail all the way home, where he and Zoey watched over her the entire night.

The next morning, Zoey left before Abigail woke up. Before she stepped out of the room, however, she instructed Levi to stay behind.

“You must make your intentions clear to her!” she said.

She didn’t want Abigail to do anything so silly again.

When Abigail finally woke up, the first thing she saw was Levi’s face.

“Levi, you...” Her words trailed off awkwardly as she didn’t know what to say.

Levi asked gently, “Do you know what happened to you yesterday night?”

“I think I drank a little too much...” Abigail replied sheepishly, massaging her throbbing head.

Levi pretended to be angry and said, “In the future, you’re not allowed to drink outside, or have your phone switched off! Even if you wanted to drink your sorrows away, there was no reason for you to behave like that. Do you know how worried the whole family was? You put yourself in so much danger yesterday night!”

Abigail laughed to hide her awkwardness. “Drinking my sorrows away? I hope you and Zoey didn’t take yesterday’s matter too seriously. I was just joking! I can’t believe the both of you actually believed me.”

“Good. In the future, listen to us and keep yourself out of trouble!” Levi said, smiling.

Abigail nodded.

The next moment, however, there was a swoosh of blankets, and Abigail had thrown her arms around him.

Levi froze and looked at her in disbelief.

:

The Protector Chapter 676

Too afraid to move, he remained completely still. “What—what are you doing?”

“Stop talking! Let me hug you for just ten minutes. For these few minutes, you belong to me.”

Hearing this, Levi stopped himself from breaking free of her grasp. He simply stood still and let her hug him silently.

After ten minutes, Abigail let go of him.

That very day, Abigail left South City for her internship in South Hampton.

Both South City or North Hampton contained her memories of Levi, and she needed to leave them behind for a while.

In the end, the three parties involved wrapped up the incident with a laugh.

However, all of them knew exactly what had gone on in Abigail’s heart.

With the help of the Black family, Abigail arrived at her lodgings in one of the five-star hotels of South Hampton.

When she walked into the lobby, however, she immediately heard someone mention Levi’s name.

Immediately, she stopped in her tracks and listened to their conversation intently.

A few people were chatting on the sofas nearby.

“Are you sure? Is he really called Levi Garrison?”

“Yes! This man was adopted by the Garrison family of North Hampton. He was an orphan before that.”

“He has been missing since he was a kid. I can’t believe they finally found him in North Hampton! They actually found the kid!”

“Exactly! I only heard about this recently because the Gates and the Caesars have gone down to South City to make trouble again...”

...

Hearing this, a rush of excitement coursed through Abigail’s veins.

What?

Are they talking about my brother-in-law’s birth family?

Are Levi’s birth parents and family in South Hampton?

Although Abigail had known for a long time that Levi was an orphan, nobody had ever mentioned his birth family to her.

She couldn’t believe that she had discovered such an important piece of information about him in South Hampton.

She wondered if she should call Levi and inform him.

However, after deliberating on it for a long time, she decided not to tell him.

After all, she had already made up her mind to forget him. It would be best if she refrained from contacting Levi for the time being.

The Edburg Manor in South Hampton had been built in an architectural style that was distinctly German. Within it, stately villas stood like trees in a forest.

This was the family home of the Joneses, who were one of the royal families in South Hampton.

The Joneses were one of the few clans that had actually earned their position. They were much more powerful than the average aristocratic family.

Even members of the Gates family had to humble themselves before the Joneses.

Their enormous wealth alone wasn't enough to illustrate the massive scale of their achievements and power.

Like the other royal families, the Joneses understood the importance of having family members in every sector of society ranging from the business world to politics to the military.

Only by extending the sphere of their influence in society could they maintain their powerful position for generations to come.

When it came to their offspring, things became even more complicated. Determined to ensure the proliferation of their clan, the Joneses men left their seed everywhere they went.

At that moment, someone dashed into Edburg Manor, yelling as he went. "Bad news, Mr. Jones, bad news!"

The head of the Jones family, Michael Jones, was seated in the drawing room, his legs crossed like a Turk. He was sipping tea slowly, his brows furrowed in deep thought.

Recently, the Joneses had encountered a difficult issue. As powerful as he was, even Michael was unable to find a solution for it.

A dark cloud hung over the entire Jones family as everyone wondered how the matter was going to be resolved.

Hearing the loud yells of the man, Michael frowned in disapproval.

The housekeeper beside him hissed angrily, "Who's that making such a racket? How utterly disgraceful!"

Very quickly, the person had arrived in the drawing room. Kneeling before Michael, he said, "Mr. Jones, I've discovered something of utmost importance!"

Michael looked up from his teacup and gazed directly at the man. "Well, what have you discovered?"

"Do you still remember Miss Emma's son? The one who was called Levi!"

Hearing this, Michael shot up from his seat. His bulging eyes were full of disbelief.

Utterly shocked, he demanded, "What do you mean by Emma's son? Didn't he die of exposure on the streets a long time ago? How is he still alive?"

The man replied, "He's still alive! After he was abandoned in the streets of North Hampton, the Garrison family took him in and raised him as their own. When I went down to South City to investigate the conflict between the Gates and the Caesars, I coincidentally discovered that he's still living there. He's still alive, Sir!"

"So my grandson is still alive?" Michael asked, bewildered.

Levi Garrison was the son of Emma Jones.

That made Michael his maternal grandfather!

"Send our men down to fetch him back quickly!"

The Protector Chapter 677

Hearing Michael's urgent demand, the man replied immediately, "Got it, Mr. Jones. I'll send our men to find him now!"

After he left, the housekeeper walked up to Michael and said, "Mr. Jones, if Levi Garrison is truly Miss Emma's son, there's an idea I'd like to propose."

Michael understood her words immediately. Rather nonplussed, he said, "Do you mean that Levi can help resolve our family's problem?"

The housekeeper smiled and said, "Exactly! If he comes back and claims his place among us, we can simply make him accept the punishment on our behalf. That's one big problem resolved for us!"

Hearing this, Michael smiled as well. "There is a God, after all!"

"What a coincidence that Miss Emma's son showed up just as our family was facing this problem! The gods must have sent him to help us!"

In South City, life returned to normal for Levi and Zoey after Abigail left.

However, there was a feeling of unease in the air.

One day, the head of the security detail, Seth Wilson, gave Levi a call. "Mr. Garrison, there's someone looking for you downstairs!"

"Looking for me?" Levi felt a little startled.

When he arrived at the plaza in front of his office, Levi found a Rolls-Royce waiting for him.

Seth pointed at the car and said, "That's them, Mr. Garrison!"

At that moment, a few people got off the car and walked towards them.

The leader, a middle-aged man, looked at Levi and exclaimed in surprise, "Are you Mr. Levi Garrison?"

"Yes, that's me." Levi was very confused. He didn't know any of these people at all.

"Would you happen to be the orphan taken in by the Garrison family?"

Levi asked, "Yes, is something the matter?"

Clasping Levi's hands warmly, the middle-aged man shed a few tears of happiness. "Mr. Levi Garrison, we've finally found you!"

"You might not know this, but after you went missing as a child, our family spared no effort in searching for you! We finally found you today..."

The middle-aged man's expression did not change even as he lied straight to Levi's face.

Actually, they had found out about his location by a mere coincidence.

The Jones family had never bothered to search for him at all.

Given how powerful they were, they could've found him in a jiffy if they wanted to.

Besides, Levi was very famous in North Hampton.

He looked at the men and frowned. "Who are you guys?"

“Mr. Garrison, we’re from the Jones family in South Hampton. My name is Julian Jones. The current head of the family is Mr. Michael Jones, your biological grandfather!”

Hearing this, Levi froze in shock.

That unfamiliar word sent shock waves rippling through his body.

When Levi was old enough to start remembering things, he was already an orphan.

At that time, he had sworn to himself that he would never go looking for his biological family!

If they were cruel enough to have abandoned him, why should he bother to strike up a relationship with them now?

There was no need for him to search for them.

He was fighting for the glory of the Garrison family, and living for the sake of Zoey Lopez.

As far as Levi was concerned, he had no biological parents or family.

Actually, considering his status in South Hampton now, it would be the easiest thing in the world for Levi to find out who his biological parents were.

However, he had never done it.

They had abandoned him, and he was determined to steer clear of them for the rest of his life.

Hearing Julian mention the word ‘grandfather’, Levi was extremely stunned.

Julian smiled. “Mr. Garrison, please pack your things and return to South Hampton with us to claim your position as the young master of the Jones family! The Jones family is one of the royal families of South Hampton. Once you enter our family, you’ll have the whole of Quebec under your thumb!”

These weren’t empty words.

Rather, it was a promise that only a royal family like the Joneses could make.

They were quite different from the Gates and the Caesars.

The Jones family had no interest in Quebec. To them, it was too small of an enterprise to be worthy of their attention.

Julian handed Levi a credit card. “To prove that we’re really from the Jones family, here’s a bank card from Mr. Michael Jones. Treat this as your pocket money—there’s one hundred million in it!”

He swiped it on a nearby card reader, and found that it really did contain one hundred million.

Julian was quite confident that Levi wouldn’t turn down their offer.

The Protector Chapter 678

He refused to believe that anyone would reject an offer like this.

Which ordinary person would refuse an offer to become the young master of one of the royal families overnight?

From then on, they would have unapparelled power. Backed by the status of the Jones family, they would be able to lord it over everyone else.

They could have as much money, women and power as they wanted.

Their every need would be satisfied.

Who would reject such an opportunity?

To Julian's surprise, Levi turned him down without so much as glancing at the bank card.

Coldly, he snapped, "Please go back. I have no relation to the Joneses. In fact, I have no parents or relatives from that family!"

Huh?

His answer stunned Julian and the other men into silence.

They all looked at him in shock.

How could he have rejected their offer?

It was a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity for him to get his hands on one hundred million, and he had turned it down?

Was there something wrong with his brain?

“Remember this. Forget this ever happened, and don’t ever come back to find me in the future!”

With that, Levi turned around and left.

“...” Julian looked extremely chagrined.

He had really turned them down!

Turning to his subordinates, he demanded in confusion, “What’s going on?”

“He won’t turn us down! In fact, he’s just playing hard to get. If he had simply accepted our offer, he would come across as weak-willed and greedy. He probably really wanted to say yes!”

“Exactly! He’s a smart person. He knew we were going to come and look for him one day, so he purposely put on airs and acted as though he didn’t care about our offer.”

His subordinates analyzed the situation, suddenly feeling more confident.

Julian nodded. “That’s what I think, too. Nobody has ever been able to resist the temptation of becoming the young master of the Jones family!”

Someone butted in, “Perhaps he thinks the entire Jones family is beneath him!”

“How’s that possible? It takes someone of incredible power to demean us like this. How could he have that sort of courage?”

“Right? He might have Quebec in the palm of his hands, but that’s nothing compared to the Jones family! What a joke.”

“Besides, we’ve investigated his background thoroughly. All he does is sit around and make merry all day!”

Hearing this, they all burst into laughter.

Very quickly, news of Levi’s rejection came back to Michael Jones.

“What? He pretended that we’re beneath him and turned down our offer?” Michael asked in disbelief.

With their offer of money, Michael had thought they had Levi Garrison in the bag.

The housekeeper laughed, “Mr. Jones, he’s just acting coy. He probably wants us to invite him a few more times!”

“Alright, let’s satisfy that desire of his! After all, he has finally become useful to us!”

With that, he announced, “Tell all the males of this family to gather up for a meeting!”

Quickly, three generations of the Jones family’s males filed into the drawing room.

Only Michael and a few of the elders were seated comfortably in chairs. The rest of them remained standing.

Everyone had a downcast expression of their face. It was evident that they were all worrying about the Jones family’s recent troubles.

“I have something to announce to all of you. We’ve finally found Emma’s long-lost son!”

A murmur rang through the crowd.

Everyone looked up at Michael in shock.

“The boy who was abandoned by the Garrisons has been found?” asked Michael’s oldest son, Daniel Jones.

The housekeeper replied, “Yes! Mr. Jones has already sent his men to fetch him back.”

The younger boys giggled mirthfully. “What’s the point of bringing a homeless man back into our family? He can’t contribute anything to this family.”

Michael thundered, “That’s rubbish! If we accept him back into our family, he’ll be my biological grandson! Won’t he be considered a legitimate heir to the Jones family then?”

Everyone concurred. “Yes!”

Michael continued, “Since he’ll be a legitimate heir to our family, we can send him to bear the punishment on our behalf! No one can say anything about that!”

“Oh my gosh, is that true?”

The Protector Chapter 679

Everyone in the Jones family was ecstatic.

The problem that had been pestering them for so long was finally going to be resolved.

As people always say – when there's a will, there's a way. In this case, they've found Michael Jones' grandson.

The younger ones were especially excited, so much so that they almost screamed out loud.

At last, they've managed to find a scapegoat.

Recently, the Jones family had gotten involved in a deadly feud during their business trip to Quebec. They had provoked a certain warlord in Quebec and were severely punished by the local military.

The compensation was fifty billion. Not only did they have to expend profits from multiple projects, but they also had to send 10 people from the Jones family to prison for a sentence of 30 years.

Those who would be sent to prison were basically giving up their lives.

The living conditions in the prison were hellish. The prisoners there were tortured every day and usually died a few months after imprisonment.

Besides having to send 10 members of the family to prison, another condition they had to fulfill was that among the 10 members, two of them had to be a male and a female who were direct descendants of the main family.

This was to appease the warlord.

The people who had to suffer needed to be from the main branch of the Jones family, so other branches of said family couldn't substitute them.

Michael wasn't willing to let his sons and grandsons suffer.

He didn't want them to die in vain.

Each one of them were the Jones family's future.

They were his precious sons and grandsons.

Patriarchal thinking was deeply ingrained within the Jones family.

The female descendant had already been decided. Even though it was Michael's own granddaughter, he had no qualms sending her over.

However, he was reluctant when it came to the male descendants.

The Joneses have been struggling with this matter for the past few days.

Now that another grandson has appeared, he could replace them as a scapegoat.

They were finally able to work out a solution.

They hurriedly asked, "Grandpa, where is this person? We need to bring him over immediately."

Michael smiled and replied, "You all won't need to worry about this. I've already sent some people to pick him up."

The eldest son, Daniel Jones, had questions of his own. "Dad, I don't think it's a good idea to use Levi as a scapegoat recklessly. If the Garrison family finds out, the blame is...."

"Don't worry about it. He's been abandoned by the Garrison family. Otherwise, why has the Garrison family not searched for him even once in the past 20 years? There's no such person in the Garrison family tree! We don't have to worry about anything."

Everyone was relieved when they heard Michael's definitive answer.

The Jones family problem was finally resolved.

No one could say anything if Michael's grandson, Levi, was sent to prison.

"Dad, you must have been doing a lot of good deeds to receive God's blessing like this," Daniel stated with a smile.

"That's right. Did you think such a grandson would appear out of nowhere?"

Everyone cachinnated.

The younger generations, in particular, were exceptionally joyful.

Some of them were performing badly, so they were constantly worried about getting chosen to become the scapegoat.

With the appearance of Levi, nothing was going to happen to them anymore.

Michael stroke his beard and laughed. "Since this kid is going to take the fall for the Jones family, we shouldn't let him go in vain. We will fulfill all his wishes until then."

"Dad, don't worry. We'll take care of it!"

Everyone in the room was excited.

The entire Jones family was waiting for Levi Garrison's arrival.

He had no idea that he was already selected to become the Jones family's scapegoat.

The situation was far worse than he had imagined.

The sudden appearance of his grandfather caught Levi off guard.

Parents? Family? Relatives? Are they related to me? If they really did care about me, would they have abandoned me? If they really regretted leaving me behind, they should have found me a long time ago!

The Protector Chapter 680

It has been almost 30 years, and no one has ever come looking for me. Yet now this so-called grandfather decides to make a sudden appearance? From the looks of it, the Jones family is up to something.

Levi was an old-timer, so he knew something was up with the Jones family instantly.

Soon, Phoenix's call came.

"Sir, the Jones family of South Hampton really aren't what they seem. They've offended the Quebec warlord Elijah. Now, they require a male and a female descendant from the main family branch to go to prison for 30 years. The Jones family most likely selected you as the male descendant, sir."

"Heheh..." Levi laughed as soon as Phoenix finished speaking.

I knew it wasn't a coincidence. Everything happens for a reason.

He knew one had to differentiate between familial love and business when it came to big families such as the Joneses.

This was especially true for a homeless man who had been abandoned by his family for almost 30 years and was of no use to them.

Why would they want someone like that back? They even offered money and power. It's not like they're sick or anything.

The only reason he could think of was that such a man was of use to the family.

In this case, the family wanted Levi to become their scapegoat.

“Hahahaha....”

Levi laughed out loud.

How ironic.

So this is what 30 years' worth of familial love is like.

Having such cruel intentions even though they're my grandfather and uncles.

They're no different from the Garrison family of North Hampton.

On the other end of the call, Phoenix could clearly hear Levi's breathing change.

He was angry.

This man was angry.

Phoenix asked tentatively, “Sir, the Warlord Elijah was almost wiped out by us three years ago. Should we send White Tiger to finish the job?”

Levi shook his head. “No need for that since they aren't messing with us. This is the Jones family's business. It has nothing to do with me.”

“Remember this – the land Erudia is my only family. The rest have nothing to do with me,” Levi declared.

“Yes, sir!”

Phoenix and the rest of them were all orphans, so they understood how Levi was feeling.

No one would be fine if a relative emerged out of the blue and demanded to be treated like that.

“Levi, what’s wrong? You seem unhappy.”

Levi had an unusual look on his face when Zoey came visiting him.

She had never seen him this way before.

“I’m fine,” Levi replied with a smile.

“I heard somebody came looking for you early this morning. Is everything alright?” Zoey was a little worried.

“I’m fine. I would definitely tell you if something happened!”

“Alright then. We’ll have dinner tonight, so wait for me.”

Levi and Zoey walked side by side as they got off from work. This was when Julian Jones and his men intercepted them.

“Honey, wait here. Let me take care of something quickly.”

Facing the Joneses, Levi stated impassively, “Didn’t I tell you all to leave? Why are you here again?”

Julian laughed and answered, “Young Master Garrison, we’re here to escort you back to South Hampton! You’ve been wandering around for almost 30 years. It’s about time you reaffirm your identity. You have the blood of a noble, so you shouldn’t be in a place like this.”

Julian had orders to bring Levi back to South Hampton regardless of what it took.

This was why Julian tried his best to convince Levi to return. If it didn't work, he would have to resort to some extreme measures.

Levi retorted with a smirk, "Leave! I couldn't care less about becoming a young master of the Jones family. I wouldn't do it even if the Master of the Jones family begged me."

With a wave of his hand, Levi left the scene.

Julian and his men fell deep into thought as they watched Levi's figure fade away in the distance.

After some time, Julian spoke up. "If this doesn't work, we'll just have to capture him."

The Protector Chapter 681

Naturally, Zoey wanted to know what happened.

Levi told her everything, excluding the part where the Jones family plotted to turn him into a scapegoat.

“That’s right! How dare they! Where were they before?” Zoey was furious.

She hugged Levi tightly and said, “Darling, no matter what you choose, I’ll always be by your side.”

“You’re all I need. I’ve never treated them as family before!” Levi stated.

Julian waved his hand. “Follow him and see where he lives. We’ll kidnap him at night!”

Levi knew he was being shadowed when he and Zoey had dinner. However, he didn’t care.

After sending Zoey back to the Black family, Levi returned to the Warzone compound as usual.

Julian, together with several men, surrounded the Warzone compound soon after.

“He’s telling me that he doesn’t care about becoming a young master of the Jones family when he’s living in such a shabby place? What a farce,” Julian exclaimed in a satirical manner.

The Warzone compound was in a dilapidated state. Its walls were peeling off and the main door was demolished by the Gates family two days ago.

It appeared horrendous.

“Move out. Leave as soon as you capture him,” Julian instructed.

Four men jumped into the compound nimbly and headed to where Levi was.

Ten seconds later.

Wham!

Thump!

...

The four men flew out of the compound.

A shirtless man came walking out. He sneered, “What? Are you trying to steal something?”

The shirtless man spotted the van parked in front of the compound. With a thrust of his fist, the entire front of the car was crushed.

Julian and his men were dumbfounded.

How was there an expert in such a place?

Before they were able to react, the car door was ripped apart by force.

Julian and his men were forcibly dragged out.

“Stealing? Or kidnapping?” Alfie questioned.

He was just about to do some physical training when he was interrupted by four brats.

This infuriated Alfie.

With the blaring of police sirens, Russell arrived swiftly with the special police force.

Julian and his men were taken into custody...

In the Edburg Manor of South Hampton.

“What? Julian was arrested? How incompetent can he be? He’s making more problems instead of solving them!” Michael roared.

The butler added, “Yes, that’s right! Julian invited Levi twice but was rejected both times. He wanted to kidnap him in desperation but was met with this!”

“What an idiot!” Michael was enraged.

He can’t even bring one person back. Doesn’t that make him an incompetent idiot?

“However, it seems Levi has stated that he wouldn’t come even if you begged,” the butler continued speaking.

“I understand. This kid is blaming me for not inviting him personally. Haha! Tell Daniel to invite him personally. Try to invite him over as politely as possible. After all, he’s a valuable asset to us.”

Michael sent his eldest son to extend an invitation to Levi.

Daniel Jones arrived in South City that night. The first thing he did was bail Julian out of prison.

On the second day, Daniel got up early in the morning and personally waited at the company.

As soon as Levi turned up, Daniel immediately stepped forward to greet him.

“Another member of the Jones family?”

With a glance, Levi instantly recognized Julian and his men standing behind.

“Levi, my poor nephew. Your uncle is finally able to meet you!”

With tears in his eyes, Daniel tried to rush forward and give Levi a bear hug.

Levi dodged it quickly.

“Levi, I’m your uncle! Your mother, Emma’s eldest brother, Daniel Jones!”

Levi stared at him blankly.

The word mother moved him slightly.

The Protector Chapter 682

I'm still her son, whether I admit it or not.

I can never erase this identity of mine.

He felt moved when he heard the endearment.

So her name is Emma Jones.

Despite feeling repulsed, her name was etched into Levi's memory instinctively.

“Levi, it's all our fault that you've been orphaned for years. Supposedly, grandpa should come and bring you home personally, but he's unwell now. That's why uncle is here to take you home. Don't worry, Levi. I've prepared a grand reception to welcome you back. Twenty Rolls-Royce and ten limousines are waiting outside to pick you up.”

“Other than that, I'll make you the boss of a large conglomerate and transfer ten billion to your bank card. You'll be staying in a luxurious villa in South Hampton. In order to make amends to you, we'll make you the head and heir of the Jones family as well, and you'll have the final say in all our family affairs,” Daniel babbled on.

He was trying to sweet-talk Levi into returning to the Jones family by offering him the best of everything that the Jones family had, even the entire Jones family.

I would have been so touched if I hadn't known what happened to the Jones family recently.

Daniel seems to yearn for my return wholeheartedly by making these offers.

How touching that he's willing to give the entire Jones family away!

Nevertheless, making me the heir of the Jones family is in fact a trap.

They want me to take the blame and go to jail in place of the Jones family.

Daniel's promises left Julian dumbfounded.

The Jones family put in so much effort into getting Levi to return home.

When Daniel saw Levi's expression soften, his lips curled up in a smile, and he was on the verge of laughing out loud.

He's only an innocent child, after all.

I can easily lure him into saying yes with wealth and power.

No one can resist this kind of temptation.

After that, Daniel cast a look of disdain at Julian.

Look, I've settled this matter with only a few words. You're a useless piece of junk.

In the next second, Levi's voice came to them. "I'm sorry, Mr. Jones. I'm not interested in the Jones family at all. And we're unrelated, so please don't address yourself as my uncle."

Boom!

Hearing Levi's rejection, Daniel gawked at him with mouth agape.

How could he reject my offer?

Is he really not into the Jones family?

“Seth, escort our guests out,” Levi commanded.

Immediately, Seth sent Daniel and his men out the door.

Standing outside, Julian said helplessly to Daniel, “He’s really stubborn. He refuses to come home even when you come personally to pick him up.”

Daniel was fuming with rage.

He was second only to Michael Jones in terms of influence and status in the Jones family.

How dare Levi reject me!

He has no respect for me at all.

“How shameless of him! He’s only a tool to the Jones family,” Daniel yelled angrily.

“Maybe he wants Sir to come personally to bring him back?” Julian analyzed the situation and said.

“How insolent! As an unwanted orphan, he doesn’t deserve to have my father to come over and pick him up. He’s pushing his luck!” Daniel replied in anger.

“What else can we do since he refuses to go back? We can’t be taking him back home by force.”

I tried this approach once, and it didn’t end well.

This is the most extreme method we can use.

Suddenly, Daniel seemed to have thought about something. “Hah! We’ll get it done using the hard way then. He’s so wrong to think that I can’t deal with him. I’ll make sure that he’ll kneel and beg me to take him home.”

Daniel’s face was grim as a conspiracy gradually formed in his mind.

The Protector Chapter 683

Levi knew that this was not the end, as the Jones family was desperate to make him take the fall.

Hence, they definitely had some alternative plans.

But Levi couldn't care less about it.

So what if the Jones family is royalty?

Why should I care?

Even the Warlord Elijah, whom the Jones family fear, almost died at my hands.

If I wanted to, I can wipe the Jones family out without breaking a sweat.

In the tower opposite the Morris Group.

Daniel asked coldly with a stern face, "Is everything ready?"

"Yes, everything is ready."

In the afternoon, Zoey went out for a business appointment together with Syllas.

At that time, Hades was away for medical treatment.

But they had no rival against them now, as the entire South City was under Levi's control.

The two pulled over in front of their business partner's office tower.

Just when Zoey was about to get out of the car, Sylas discerned that something was wrong.

There was a light reflected from the top of a building faraway, which was likely the reflection from a sniper scope.

“Get down!”

Sylas promptly pushed Zoey down in her seat.

Pfft!

Bang!

In the blink of an eye, their car was under attack.

The front right tire was punctured, and the whole car jerked violently.

The sudden blow startled Sylas.

Is someone trying to kill Zoey?

“Head to the office now!”

Sylas took cover while bringing Zoey into the office tower.

When they stepped in, a man in a sweater and a ski mask was walking toward them, and his eyes glinted with malice.

Screech!

He took out a dagger and lunged at Zoey.

Sylas hurriedly shoved her away while tossing her phone in front of them to block the stab. Her phone was smashed into pieces at once.

After a failed attempt to kill Zoey, the man retreated and disappeared in no time.

With a face as pale as a sheet, Zoey broke out in a cold sweat, while Sylas was terrified.

It's not safe here!

Immediately, Sylas took Zoey's hand and ran to the basement carpark.

Then she skillfully stole a car and drove Zoey away.

While she was driving, she saw a few men sprinting toward them through the rearview mirror.

This frightened Sylas, and she was drenched in sweat.

She promptly stepped on the gas and sped away.

After driving some distance away, the two heaved a sigh of relief.

But the next moment, Sylas' expression changed, as a car came out of nowhere right in front of them.

Bang!

The two cars collided head-on, then Sylas and Zoey passed out on the spot.

When the two regained their consciousness, Levi and Seth were already here.

Fortunately, both Sylas and Zoey were uninjured but petrified.

Looking at the two women, Levi's face turned frigid as a man's face popped into his mind.

Goddit!

Then Sylas reported to Levi, "Mr. Garrison, something just doesn't sit right with me. We went through four attacks, and it felt as if someone was controlling it behind the scenes."

"During the first attack, for some reason, the sniper missed us and shot the car tire instead. This makes no sense."

"After that, the man with a dagger could have tried stabbing Zoey again after the first failed attempt."

"At the basement carpark, some people waited in ambush before we arrived. They could have attacked us earlier, but they only did it when we drove away."

"In the accident, it seemed like the driver only wanted to bang our car. He had no intention to kill us."

"I feel that the person behind the scene is trying to intimidate us instead of killing us," Sylas said conclusively.

Levi remained silent with a sullen face.

The Jones family did this to warn me.

When Levi went back to his office, he bumped into Daniel at the entrance.

Daniel sneered, "How was it, Levi? Is your wife alright? How lucky."

Then his tone turned aggressive as he added, "But she may not be as lucky next time."

This is a threat.

He's threatening me so blatantly!

The Protector Chapter 684

He's here to hint at me that he has directed those attacks, and he can kill Zoey anytime he wants.

In other words, Zoey's life is in his hands!

Levi sniggered at his words.

Who does he think he is to threaten me?

He's messing with the wrong man.

Daniel continued saying, "Next time, the bullet and the knife won't miss their target. Oh, there'll be a deadly ambush and car accident as well."

"How fragile human life is. Sometimes, you're bound to lose your loved ones no matter how well you protect them."

Daniel's tone was threatening.

He's saying that Syllas won't be able to protect Zoey.

And Zoey will probably lose her life the next time he attacks her again.

"I wonder if she has offended anyone that she has been attacked four times in such a short time. I'm sure no one will dare touch her if she's a part of the Jones family."

While talking, Daniel handed Levi a note with a contact number on it.

His message was very clear.

Zoey would be safe as long as Levi returned to the Jones family.

Daniel was having fun threatening Levi.

If Levi truly cares about Zoey, he will beg me to take him back to the Jones family.

After Daniel went back home, he laughed out loud. "I've won. He can't stand against me this time."

"Mr. Jones, now we shall wait for Levi to come and beg us to take him back."

Everyone else let out a menacing laugh.

Meanwhile, with a grim expression, Levi was giving off a vicious vibe.

How dare he harm Zoey!

He had crossed the line.

I won't tolerate Zoey getting frightened, let alone getting hurt.

The four attacks in a row had traumatized Zoey, and she was now on the brink of losing her mind.

As a result, Levi was smoldering with fury.

The Jones family were getting on his last nerve!

Now he was about to make a move against the Jones family.

Levi had never admitted the kinship between him and the Joneses.

Besides, even if his so-called grandpa came to bring him back, he was only a scapegoat in their eyes.

So what if I lay a hand on the Jones family?

To me, they're only outsiders.

In the meantime, Zoey felt much better after coming back to the office.

As smart as she was, she already figured out that the Jones family was behind those attacks.

"Levi, if there's no other choice, would you like to go home and take a look?" Zoey asked.

"No way, I'll never go back! I'll make them pay for this," Levi said with a scowl on his face.

Standing outside the office, Sylas said apologetically, "I'm so sorry. I didn't keep Ms. Lopez safe."

"No worries, Sylas. You've done your best. Just leave it to me from now on."

On the other hand, Daniel and his people were waiting for his phone to ring.

Julian asked, "What's going on? Why hasn't he called us after so long?"

The others followed and said, "Yes, he should be here by now."

Daniel felt puzzled too. "Maybe I didn't scare them enough. I should've let that woman get injured."

“I think so. Perhaps he thinks that we dare not hurt them because he’s Emma’s son,” Julian told of his assumption.

Daniel let out a loud snort. “Damn it! As the heir of the Jones family, I personally went to him to bring him back, but he brushed me aside. Who does he think he is? He’s just a son of a bitch! Well, since he’s not afraid of me, I’ll chop his wife’s limbs off. Then he’ll come and beg me for mercy. Ask all the assassins to strike them now. This time, there’ll be bloodshed!”

On Daniel’s command, a dozen of assassins who attacked Zoey this morning went after her again simultaneously.

The Protector Chapter 685

Lurking in the dark where Zoey might show up, the assassins were ready to pounce on her. These assassins were highly skilled that any of them could take Zoey's life effortlessly.

However, Daniel had only instructed them to injure her.

At the office's basement carpark, a figure appeared. Within a few seconds, he had pried open Zoey's car door and secretly gotten in the car.

The moment Zoey comes in, I'll be able to hurt her in a split second.

Just as the assassin was feeling smug, he suddenly realized that there was a man in the front seat who was gradually turning his head around to look at him.

And it almost scared the daylights out of him.

Before he could escape, the man got hold of him with one hand.

Bang!

The man slapped him with another hand, and blood spurted all over the car.

"Who's next?"

Levi wiped his hand and lit a cigarette before walking away.

Subsequently, the other assassins who were hiding inside the office and around the building were taken down one after another.

Soon after, all the assassins had been annihilated.

“What’s going on? It’s already noon, but none of the assassins are back yet.”

After waiting for a few hours, Daniel became restless.

None of the assassins came back, and there’s no news from them as well.

Something must’ve happened.

“This doesn’t make sense to me. Can’t those top assassins take down an ordinary woman?” Julian said in bewilderment.

“Contact the assassins now and find out what they’re doing.”

Daniel paced up and down in distress.

Julian tried to call each of the assassins, but not one of them picked up his call.

“Has something gone wrong? But what can happen to all our top assassins?”

Daniel did not believe that there was anyone capable enough to deal with so many assassins single-handedly.

Just then, there was a knock on the door.

“Sir, here is your parcel.”

A delivery man came in and handed Julian a box.

“A parcel?” Julian asked with a quizzical look.

Then he suddenly caught a whiff of a weird smell.

“What? Why is there a parcel? Does anyone else know that I’m in South City?” Daniel asked in astonishment.

“Open it and see what’s in it.”

Hiss!

When the box was opened, everyone gasped in shock.

There were fingers soaked in blood inside the box.

Immediately, Daniel’s face turned ghastly pale, while the others looked equally terrified.

“Are these... Are these the assassins’ fingers?” Daniel asked in a trembling voice.

Boom!

Suddenly, the door was kicked open, and a large group of people marched in.

“Hit them!” the leader commanded, then the group of fighters darted toward them.

Although Daniel had bodyguards with him, these fighters pounced on his bodyguards aggressively and took them down in no time.

Only Daniel and Julian were left untouched.

“Who are you people? Do you know who we are?” Daniel shouted hurriedly.

“How dare you cause trouble in my territory in South City without asking me? You’ve gone overboard!” the leader snickered at them.

It suddenly dawned on Daniel that these people were members of the South City underworld.

It's true that we should've greeted and informed them before doing anything in their territory.

This is an unspoken rule.

After all, we are from South Hampton.

But do I need to follow this rule?

I don't think so, because I'm the eldest son of the Jones family in South Hampton.

Why should I be afraid of these people?

"Hah! Do you know who I am? I'm Daniel from the Jones family in South Hampton. Do you still think that you deserve my greetings?" Daniel was all puffed up while sneering.

In his eyes, the people from South City were of a lower class than him, as he was superior and royal.

However, these people had no regard for his identity. "Beat him to death!"

"Hey, didn't you hear me? I'm from the Jones family in South Hampton!"

The Protector Chapter 686

Daniel shrieked furiously.

Usually, no one would dare lay a finger on him after knowing his identity.

Back then, the Caesar family alone was enough to oppress everyone in South City when they were only a quasi-royal clan.

But the Jones family was the true royalty.

Anyone who dared mess with the eldest son of the Jones family was only digging his or her own grave.

“I don’t care who you are. Anyone who breaks the rules has to be punished. Go get him!”

Yet, these people couldn’t care less and darted forward to beat him recklessly.

In the end, they broke all his limbs, and Daniel sprawled on the floor like a dog with an appalled expression.

Did I just get beaten up by a bunch of gangsters?

This is outrageous!

“This is only a warning from us. Bear in mind that there’s no place for any monkey business for an outsider like you in South City. If you ever repeat it, you’ll be dead.”

After reprimanding him, the group of people left.

In fact, they came here on someone's command.

They had quite a few powerful individuals backing them up, so the Jones family was nothing in their eyes.

In fact, Levi was the one who orchestrated this.

He had handed over the South City underworld to the head of the Southern Union, Grover.

As a result, those gangsters no longer committed any heinous crimes, but all of them had proper jobs now.

As soon as Levi gave his order, Grover sent his people over.

Breaking Daniel's limbs was only a minor punishment.

Otherwise, he would not make it out of South City alive.

The next morning at the manor in South Hampton.

Daniel, Julian and a dozen of the Joneses were laid in an orderly manner in front of the door.

All of them were paralyzed, groaning in agony.

"What?"

When Michael and his people came out and saw this scene, they were completely dumbfounded.

"Who did this? Who broke my son's hands and legs?" consumed by rage, Michael bellowed with a surly face.

The others were filled with anger too.

It wasn't only about their people getting beaten up, but it was also about the Jones family's reputation.

They could not believe that this happened in the seemingly insignificant South City.

How embarrassing for the Jones family!

And they might lose their foothold in South Hampton.

"Someone... Someone from the South City did this to us..." Daniel stuttered with his head facing the floor and dared not look at anyone.

Tears of agony escaped Daniel's eyes as he felt overwhelmed with humiliation and sorrow.

How embarrassing! I can't face my family anymore.

Getting my limbs broken in the small city is a shame that I'll bear for the rest of my life.

"The gangsters from the South City underworld crippled us because we broke the rule and messed around in their territory," Julian whined.

"What? A group of gangsters beat you up?" Michael said in disbelief.

I'll be so embarrassed if this news gets about.

The people in South Hampton will probably look down our family as well.

"Why didn't you tell them your identity?" Michael asked in frustration.

These Joneses are worthless pieces of junk!

“We did, and that’s why they broke our limbs!” Daniel said indignantly and started weeping.

“What? This is ridiculous!” Michael shouted.

How dare these gangsters from South City challenge the Jones family! Do they have a death wish?

“Father, it’s all Levi’s fault! He’s so haughty. He disrespects me and insists on having you go to him and bring him back yourself.”

Though Daniel didn’t know that Levi was the mastermind behind this incident, he still put all the blame on Levi.

The Protector Chapter 687

“What? He wants me to pick him up myself? Who the hell does he think he is?” Michael yelled at the top of his lungs.

The others were enraged. “How dare a nobody like him behave as if he’s a big shot?”

“You’re right. In fact, not a single person in Quebec is qualified for grandpa to bring him back himself.”

“I guess Levi is as useless as his parents!”

Despite feeling furious, the butler said, “Anyway, we still have to bear with him. We still need him, don’t we?”

“Let’s just abduct him back here. I really can’t stand his arrogance!”

“Grandpa, please hurry up. It’s only five days away from the deadline Elijah set for us.”

“We must get it done as soon as possible, lest Elijah demand for more from us.”

Everyone voiced out their opinions one by one.

Then Michael’s eyes glinted with malice as he said, “Alright, let’s abduct Levi, and I want everyone from the South City underworld dead!”

Suddenly, the brightest man in the third generation of the Jones family, Tyler said, “Grandpa, could Levi be the one who sent the gangsters to cripple uncle?”

Perhaps he did this as a counterattack since uncle hired assassins to attack his wife.”

It was obvious to him that Levi did this.

His words shed light on the matter and make everyone ponder this possibility.

This can't be a coincidence.

“Does he have any hidden capability and background connections?”

Even Michael became suspicious.

“Maybe he has some backup? Is that why he ignored our offer?” one of the Joneses asked.

“It'll be frightening if he indeed has some hidden capabilities.”

Just then, Michael's phone rang.

It was a call from Grover, the head of Southern Union.

“Good day, Mr. Cooke. How may I assist you?”

Michael's attitude became courteous immediately.

Even though The Jones family was royalty, they were not as powerful as Grover, who held a major influence in the South.

“I heard that your son caused trouble on my turf and got his limbs broken.”
Grover asked.

“What? Is South City your territory?”

Michael was baffled by his words.

“You’re right, I’m now in charge of South City. Your son hired assassins and caused trouble on my turf without my permission. He broke the rule, so I broke his limbs. Do you have any objections?” Grover asked with a dignified expression.

“No, no objection. Mr. Cooke, I apologize to you on behalf of my son,” Michael hurriedly said.

On the other hand, Michael actually felt slightly thrilled in his heart.

Now I’m certain that Daniel’s injury has nothing to do with Levi.

So Levi is still an ordinary man, as shown in his biography.

And that makes me feel relieved.

“Alright, let’s drop this subject. You’re a royal family. How could you not know about this rule? You didn’t even know that South City is my territory,” Grover rebuked him.

“I’m sorry, Mr. Cooke. It’s all our fault.”

After a brief pause, Michael added, “By the way, Mr. Cooke, we have something to attend to in South City. I hope you will allow us.”

“What else do the Joneses want to do in South City?” Grover asked.

He didn’t know about the history between Levi and the Jones family, because he dared not ask Levi about it.

Michael chuckled. “It’s kind of embarrassing. I have an unfilial grandson in South City, and I’m going to abduct him back home.”

“What’s his name?” Grover asked.

“His name is Levi Garrison,” Michael answered honestly.

“How dare you!”

The Protector Chapter 688

Grover's sudden roar startled Michael that he jolted and almost flung the phone away.

What's wrong?

Why does Mr. Cooke react this way when I mention Levi's name?

Is Levi some kind of taboo to him?

Meanwhile, anger was stirring within Grover.

Last night, Levi instructed me to send my people to beat someone up, so I did.

I only realize today that the person is Daniel Jones.

Though the Southern Union is more superior compared to the Jones family, I still have to confront them about this matter.

Now I discover that Michael is actually Levi's grandpa...

"Mr. Cooke, what... what's wrong?" Michael asked in a shaky voice.

"Okay, it's up to you what you want to do in South City. But I have to warn you, it's better that you avoid coming to South City now. You'll probably lose your life here."

Grover dared not get involved in this matter.

No matter how their relationship is, they are family, and I shouldn't meddle in their family affairs.

Michael was perplexed.

What's so scary about South City that I'll probably lose my life there?

Why did Mr. Cooke get so edgy just now?

"Father, what's going on?"

"What happened, grandpa?" Everyone turned to look at Michael.

"I've found out the truth. Daniel's injury has nothing to do with Levi. The Southern Union did it because South City is their turf," Michael explained.

"Oh, I see. No wonder the gangsters are not afraid of the Jones family."

"So Levi is only a loser."

Everyone felt relieved.

Then Michael urged them, "I've asked for Grover's permission, so we can do whatever we want in South City. But he advises me not to go to South City too. Maybe there's someone important over there. Therefore, we'll have to keep a low profile when we go to South City."

"Yes, we got it."

After that, Michael gathered his people and headed to South City.

The deadline was approaching, so they had no time to spare.

“Oh, bring Mia along too. After dealing with Levi, we’ll send him to the Oriental together with Mia,” Michael commanded.

Soon, an adorable girl in a long dress came into sight.

She was Mia Jones, who was a direct descendant of the Jones family. She had been selected to be presented to Elijah.

Sob...

Mia’s parents were sobbing uncontrollably because they know that Mia would be tortured once she was sent to the Oriental, if not dead.

They wished to stop this, but they had no power or influence, so they could only watch her go.

Mia was the most brilliant one among the girls in the Jones family. She was an all-rounder who had mastered seventeen languages and held six master’s degrees.

At the same time, she was quiet, gentle and docile.

During the selection, all the other girls in the Jones family conspired among themselves and voted Mia, so that none of them would have to go through such torment.

Yet, Mia still appeared calm and fearless.

She glanced at her parents and said, “Dad, Mom, I’m willing to go for our family’s sake.”

In the meantime, Levi took Zoey to the hospital for a medical checkup.

After being counselled by a psychologist, Zoey had recovered completely.

“I’m fine, so don’t worry.”

Zoey gave Levi a comforting smile.

“Levi, maybe you should go back. After all, he’s your grandpa. I believe your grandma, uncles and aunts miss you very much and want you to go home as well.”

Zoey tried to persuade him using familial love.

Then Levi laughed all of a sudden.

I’ve seen the Joneses’ true colors.

There’s no way that I’m going back!

“Levi, why are you laughing? Let me ask you, what will you do if one day, your parents show up and stand in front of you?”

The Protector Chapter 689

Levi was rendered speechless by Zoey's question.

He could hardly imagine how it felt to have his own parents.

Even his adoptive parents treated him like an outsider and had never shown him love.

Nonetheless, he felt moved on the inside when he heard about his parents, although he refused to admit it.

"I... I don't know..." Levi answered.

"Just listen to me and go home. They're your family, after all," Zoey said with a smile.

"Maybe they'll come to me before I go home."

Levi knew that the deadline given by Elijah was only days away.

The Jones family must be extremely anxious about it, so they would surely come looking for him.

But Zoey misunderstood him and said in surprise, "Is your grandpa coming to pick you up himself? He's so good to you. The head of such a prominent family is coming to bring you back home himself. He must be sincere then."

I guess Michael truly loves Levi, and that's why he's coming to take Levi home himself.

I feel envious.

In the afternoon, Michael and his people arrived in South City.

Thinking of Grover's advice, Michael kept a low profile and discreetly checked in to the Sapphire Villa in South City.

"Well, I'm here in South City already. Bring him to the hotel to see me. As the head of a royal family, I'll never go to him myself!" Michael made a fuss and tried to lord it over Levi.

Suddenly, someone shouted, "Oh no, Mia ran away!"

"What? Mia ran away? Why didn't you watch over her? Hurry, find her now!" Michael yelled angrily.

I'll be in trouble if she goes missing.

Who am I going to present to Elijah if both Mia and Levi are gone?

The Joneses started looking around for Mia.

Meanwhile, in Levi's office.

"Mr. Garrison, someone is here to meet you," Seth said over the phone.

"Is it an old man?"

"No, it's a girl, She's as beautiful as Ms. Lopez."

Seth's words made Levi felt curious.

Why does the girl want to see me?

When Levi came to the hall, he saw an unfamiliar face.

The girl seemed quiet and sweet, and she carried a vibe like that of a girl from a respectable family.

“Are you looking for me?” Levi asked.

“Are you Levi?” Mia asked him with a surprised look.

“Yes, it’s me. Who are you?”

“I’m your cousin, Mia Jones. Levi, hurry and run away now! Grandpa and uncle want to take you back to our family, only to make you take the fall and go to jail on their behalf. And you’ll probably die in there,” Mia said anxiously.

Levi was stunned at her words.

Why would someone from the Jones family come to warn me that I’m in danger?

A warm and fuzzy feelings overflowed in Levi’s heart.

Other than his military partners and Zoey, no one had ever cared about him.

Then Mia went on to tell Levi every detail about the Joneses’ scheme.

“Levi, run now, or else it’ll be too late,” Mia urged him.

She’s kind-hearted, and she couldn’t bear to see Levi become a scapegoat, so she came to warn him.

“Are you the other one?” Levi asked.

“Yes,” Mia lowered her head.

“Alright. I’m here now, so no one can send you to jail,” Levi declared.

I’ll save this girl since she came all the way to warn me.

“What? Stop kidding, Levi. I’ve been chosen, so I have no choice.”

Just then, a large group of men ran over to them.

“Mia, what are you doing? Why did you look for Levi? Did you tell him everything?”

The man leading the group raised his hand, wanting to slap Mia’s face.

The Protector Chapter 690

“Ah!”

Mia shut her eyes in fear, but the slap never landed on her face.

It turned out that Levi had held the man’s wrist.

“Let go! Let go of me now!” Wales demanded furiously.

He yanked his hand forcefully to break free, but Levi clutched his wrist tightly in a vice-like grip.

“Are you trying to hit her?” Levi asked.

“I’m only disciplining my own family members. What does that have to do with you?” Wales scolded him.

“Ouch...” in the next second, Wales shrieked in agony.

The pain in his wrist made him slowly collapse on the floor.

Everyone present could hear the sound of bones cracking.

Mia couldn’t stand it and hurriedly said, “Levi, please forgive him.”

Then Levi let go of Wales, who then bent down and gasped for breath.

Shortly after, a bunch of the Joneses came over and surrounded them.

Mia bowed her head and kept silent, looking like a child who was caught red-handed.

“Mia, you’re a traitor to our family!”

“How could you tell him about it?”

“You’ve brought shame upon the Jones family!.”

The Joneses reprimanded her out of rage.

Levi had already refused to come back before. Now that he knows about our plan, surely he will never come back.

All the Joneses wished they could choke Mia to death.

While they hurled insults at Mia, she broke down and started weeping softly.

“Come here! Why are you standing beside an outsider?” Wales shouted.

Mia instinctively walked over, but Levi stopped her in her tracks.

“You’ve called me your cousin, so you’re my family now. No one can bully you!” Levi said coldly.

“You? What can you do to us? Hahaha!”

Wales and the others let out a few sarcastic laughs.

What can a loser who has been homeless for about thirty years due to the royal Jones family?

He has totally overestimated himself.

“Mia, just to let you know, you’ve made a huge mistake! Are you still on his side? Do you want to betray your own family?”

Mia flinched at every rebuke with tears streaming down her cheeks. “No, I didn’t... I didn’t betray my family... No...”

Since birth, Mia had been taught to put her family first, and her family’s reputation was more important than her own life.

That was why she became agitated the moment she was called a traitor to the Jones family.

“Then why haven’t you come to our side?” Wales shouted at her in an icy tone.

Mia darted a pleading glance at Levi before running across the hall to the Joneses.

Staring straight at the Joneses, Levi declared coldly, “From now on, I, Levi Garrison, will protect my sister, Mia Jones. Anyone who lay a finger on her shall die!”

Whoosh!

Immediately, a gust of ice-cold air came out of nowhere and sent shivers up everyone’s spine.

What an intimidating gaze.

As everyone looked at Levi, a sense of crippling fear overwhelmed them.

After a while, Wales mustered up the courage to ask Levi, “Who do you think you are? Mia belongs to the Jones family, and our family affairs are none of your business!”

“Yes, it’s none of your concern!”

“By the way, let me tell you this since you already know the truth. A man like you is not worthy of being a part of the Jones family. We want you back only to make you a scapegoat!”

Levi sneered. “You’re such shameless jerks!”

“Don’t even try to run away. You won’t be able to escape being sent to the Oriental and get tormented by the Warlord.”

“Hahaha! What makes you think that grandpa will come and bring you home himself? You’re so full of yourself!”

Levi gave them a half-smile. “I won’t run, and I’ll be waiting for you to seize me.”

“How impudent! Just you wait!”

After saying that, the Joneses stomped away in fury.

The Protector Chapter 691

With a wave of his hand, a subordinate went to Levi.

He ordered, "Monitor that woman closely. If anything happens to her, report it to me right away."

He did not expect Mia to warn him about his situation.

It is rare to have someone so kind within an emotionless family like the Joneses.

She deserves my acknowledgement.

Back at the villa, Wales dragged Mia into the living room.

Plop!

Mia cried in pain when Wales kicked her knees. They buckled, and she fell to her knees in front of Michael.

Then, Wales asked, "Grandpa, do you know who she ran out to meet?"

Curiously, Michael responded, "Who did she go to?"

"She went to Levi and told him everything," Wales complained.

"What? Are you telling me that Levi knows that we are going to make him a scapegoat and send him to jail?" Michael stood up immediately and shouted.

Wales confirmed, "Exactly!"

“This is absurd! You are a piece of shit!” Michael was livid that he almost had a fit.

The rest of the Jones family also looked at Mia with hatred and started to chatter about her.

“She is a betrayer! How dare she rat out on our family?”

“By turning your back against Grandpa, do you know how big a mistake you have made?”

“You are throwing the entire family in a ditch! If Levi does not go to jail, we will be doomed!”

Mia was still on her knees with her head hung so low that it was about to kiss the floor.

She knew that she had committed a grave sin.

Michael yelled furiously, “Do you know your actions will destroy every single one of us here?”

“Grandpa, I’m sorry. It is my mistake...” Mia cried.

“Mistake? You aren’t even the scapegoat we chose to send to jail! Why do you seem to have a grudge against us that you wish to harm us in this way? Huh?” Michael roared.

At a loss, Mia continued to weep. “No, Grandpa. It’s nothing like that! I do not hate the Jones family nor do I want to see any of you get hurt.”

“You are clearly trying to bring us down! I won’t be surprised if you already planned to betray us in the first place.”

The rest of the Joneses viciously scolded her.

“Father, this won’t do. Mia committed a serious offense that concerns the survival of our family. She has broken our family rules, and we have to enforce the rules. Otherwise, they will mean nothing if we do not punish her,” Wallace suggested.

“Yes! She has to be punished!”

“Mia has violated several family rules, and she has to take responsibility for them. Otherwise, more people will take those rules for granted, and there will be more who will do the same in the future.”

Persuaded by the rest, Michael nodded in agreement. “Alright, we shall punish her based on our rules then. Please hand me the ferule.”

Then, he glanced at the butler and asked, “How many strokes should she receive for such an offense?”

“Based on the rules, she should receive a hundred strokes. However, since she is a female, she will be spared and will have to take sixty.”

The rest of the family gasped in surprise at what the butler said.

They had seen family members being punished in the past.

There was a man from the Jones family who received twenty strokes. At the end of the punishment, his skin was split open, and there was blood everywhere. Besides, he could not even leave his bed for three months.

In this case, Mia had to take sixty strokes, three times what that man received. With such soft and tender skin, she might die from the punishment.

“We will not show mercy to those who break the family rules. Mia, the fifty-third generation of the Jones family, has made a mistake and is responsible for putting the family in danger. She will receive sixty strokes, and it is a lesson to never mess with the Jones family rules,” Michael announced his decision coldly.

“Father, please spare her! Mia is still a child,” Mia’s parents begged.

Heartlessly, Michael immediately responded, “Whoever pleads for Mia’s leniency will receive the punishment with her!”

The Protector Chapter 692

Instantly, everyone who thought about pleading for Mia backed away.

“Both of you shall receive ten strokes each! I will increase the number if you continue to beg,” Michael cruelly snapped.

With that, Mia’s parents did not dare to continue.

On the other hand, Michael did not feel sorry that Mia had to receive such brutal punishment.

He would not care even if she were beaten to death.

After all, she is a woman.

If she dies, I can easily replace her with another one.

Only the men’s lives matter to me!

All the males in this family are precious to me, and I will hate to lose any of them.

Deeply rooted within this family was the patriarchal thinking, where they preferred males over females.

Even in this age and era, the perception was still ingrained in their minds.

“Go to South Hampton and bring me the ferule now!” Michael ordered.

Since it was a family punishment, he thought they should use the Jones’ ancestral ferule.

He left no room for discussion.

“Dad, since Levi knows everything, what should we do now?”

Everyone was curious.

Michael coldly replied, “It’s simple. Since he is aware, we only have to capture him. Doesn’t he have a wife? I believe he will agree to come with us if we promise to take care of her and the rest of his family on his behalf.”

Then, he continued, “After we are done with Mia’s punishment, we shall send someone to go after him. Of course, please don’t let him get away!”

Wales chuckled. “Don’t worry, Grandpa. I always have my men monitoring him, so there is no way for him to escape.”

It did not take long for Levi to find out that Mia had to receive the family punishment.

“Sixty strokes on a small girl? Aren’t they afraid that she will die from it? The Joneses are heartless. We live in a new era, and I can’t believe they still have such traditional family rules in place. What a joke!” Levi spat.

“I will not let anyone touch Mia in my presence.”

He was furious. Deadly daggers were shooting from his eyes, which scared Seth and the rest.

At the Sapphire Villa, Mia and her parents were kneeling in the middle of the living room.

They were surrounded by the other Joneses who watched on expressionlessly but seemed to be mocking them.

Sitting at the front was Michael, who had a domineering aura around him.

The butler beside him said, "Today, Mia was unfilial and broke the family rules. According to the book, she will receive sixty strokes. Give me the ferule!"

With that, a man brought a plate covered by a red cloth to the living room.

The butler removed the cloth to unveil the ferule.

"We shall carry out the punishment now!" Michael commanded.

A fierce-looking man walked towards Mia, with the ferule in his hand.

Mia had long given up hope and knelt there, soaking the floor with her tears.

Her parents were wailing as well.

They had no power within the Jones family and could not even save their daughter.

"Hmph! Just the sight of them makes me angry!"

"It is an honor if you are chosen to go to jail. That is a sacrifice for the family."

"What is there to complain about?"

The crowd made various sarcastic remarks.

They made it seem like one should be proud to be the sacrificial lamb for the family.

"The first stroke!" The butler called out. Obediently, the burly man lifted the ferule and was about to bring it down onto her.

Mia was terrified and started shaking.

With one stroke, it would probably shorten half her lifespan.

Bang!

At that moment, a brick, thrown from outside into the living room, flew towards the burly man's face.

Immediately, he tried to dodge and failed to land the first stroke on Mia.

A loud sound was heard when the brick landed on the ground, startling everyone.

Next, a man walked in.

The Protector Chapter 693

“Have I ever warned you that Mia is under my protection?” Levi spoke as he walked into the room.

He scanned the crowd and continued, “I will kill anyone who touches her.”

It took a few seconds before everyone could react.

“What? He is Levi?”

Many people present had never seen him before and were startled.

In particular, Michael was surprised too and he scanned Levi from head to toe.

Then, he responded, “You have certainly inherited your parent’s values.”

Mia was also shocked to see Levi. She anxiously said, “Levi, what are you doing here? You should be hiding now!”

Like Zoey, she was kind and was worried that something might happen to Levi because of her.

“Mia, don’t worry. No one can bully you as long as I am here.” Levi smiled.

“Look at this! Even up to now, Mia is still helping this outsider. She is clearly a traitor!”

“Yes! She is a bi*ch!”

Slap! After one of the Joneses commented, Levi gave her a tight slap.

It left her dumbstruck, while the rest of the family were equally shocked.

Who is this guy, Levi? How dare he slapped one of our family members in front of everyone else?

Levi scowled at the woman and sneered, “Who taught you this horrible habit of insulting your family members?”

In response, Michael roared, “Levi, how dare you lay hand on one of the Joneses?”

“I will hit anyone who speaks unfavorably of Mia. This is the result of the poor upbringing in your family. I can’t believe you brought up such trashy people,” Levi scoffed.

“Levi, you must be courting your death! How can you act so presumptuously in my residence?”

As though Levi had caught hold of their weakness, the Joneses started to curse at him, one by one.

They looked like they wanted to kill him.

Sternly, Levi questioned, “In my eyes, your family is just a bunch of gangsters. Who is in charge here?”

“You are so gutsy. Why are you not kneeling in front of your grandpa?” Michael stood up and scolded him with a dark expression on his face.

Judging from Levi’s actions, he clearly does not respect me.

Levi replied harshly, “I have no grandpa. Besides, even if I did, he would not set me up and want to send me to jail.”

“You...” Michael stuttered in embarrassment.

Levi had found his Achilles heel.

If others find out about the truth, it will tarnish our family’s reputation.

Besides, I still need Levi to go to jail.

“I will not argue with you anymore. Since you are here, it makes everything easier, and I will suck it up.”

Michael tried to suppress his anger and continued, “So what are you doing here? Are you trying to save Mia?” barked Wales.

“Of course! I told you that I would protect her. I will kill anyone who lays a finger on her,” Levi announced.

Michael ignored his words and said, “Mind your own business. I will deal with you later, but for now, we are going to carry out the punishment.”

Then, he glanced at the burly man and instructed, “Carry out the punishment now!”

Once again, the ferule was lifted, and the burly man was about to strike Mia with it.

In a flash, Levi appeared in front of him and caught the ferule.

Bang!

Levi snatched it from him.

Crack!

With a flick of his wrist, he broke it into two.

Hiss!

The whole room went silent.

This ferule was a symbol of the Joneses' dignity with a three-hundred-year history behind it.

Now, it is broken...

It was as though he was stepping on the entire Jones family.

The Protector Chapter 694

The Joneses were stunned and couldn't believe it.

This ferule was passed down three hundred years ago and represented the family's supremacy.

In other words, it was the embodiment of the Jones family spirit.

Now, their 'spirit' was destroyed today.

Every single one of them was in a stage of shock.

Boom!

Mia's eyes widened.

This is the end.

When standing in front of the ferule, the Joneses would be in fear.

To go against it would mean one was challenging the Joneses power and was a signal of betrayal.

However, Levi had the guts to break it.

It was as good as provoking the Joneses and declaring war on them.

Bam!

Levi threw the broken ferule aside and chuckled. "Forget about your patriarchal rules. I will reinvent the rules for you instead. The first step is to break this dumb ferule and abolish the family rules!"

Levi's words brought everyone back to their senses, and they started to chatter among themselves.

"What the hell did you just do?"

"He broke our ancestral ferule?"

"Is he courting death?"

Everyone babbled and sounded like they were out to get Levi.

"Do you know what you have done? You will never be able to redeem yourself for the offense you committed today! How dare you break the ferule? You are obviously trying to declare war on us!" Michael raged.

"What's wrong with that? Can't I go against the Jones family? Does all of you think that your family is the most powerful one out there?" Levi ridiculed.

Previously, he got rid of the Gates family, who proclaimed themselves to be the most powerful.

"You are very daring...to challenge my family. We have to kill you. Get him!" Michael exploded.

"Sir, we can't do that! We still have to keep him as our scapegoat!" The butler tried to stop him.

The others wished that they could kill him there and then too.

However, they had no other choice.

They had to make him take the fall for them.

Therefore, no matter what mistakes he made, the Joneses could not kill him.

Michael shook in anger. "Alright, count yourself lucky! Instead, I will send you outside of Quebec to be imprisoned by the Warlord. You will suffer there."

He had a death glare, and his expression was contorted.

He wanted Levi dead as the latter had offended the entire Jones family.

"Since you are here, you can forget about leaving. Just be good until we send you to the prison outside Quebec in a few days."

"Haha..."

Every one of the Jones family began to laugh.

The most important thing was he came here himself, regardless of whether he broke the ferule.

Thud!

Then, the strongest few from the Jones family closed the living room door.

There is no way Levi could escape now.

"Aren't you very close to Mia? Both of you can suffer together then!" Wales laughed.

Mia could not help but sigh.

Though she was touched that Levi came to rescue her, she could not bear to see anything happen to him.

“Levi, since you know what our plan is, let me add in a word here then. It is not because I’m heartless, but you are just like your parents who were born to be a sacrificial lamb. You should be honored that you are doing something for the family!

Besides, you broke our ancestral ferule and went against our family rules. Therefore, it is only fair for you to pay us back by going to jail.” Michael stated.

“You should pay for your offense!” Everyone else chanted in unison.

This time, there was a valid reason for them to send Levi to jail.

Levi snickered, “Who will dare to stop me if I walk out of here?”

The Protector Chapter 695

The Joneses were appalled by Levi's atrocious tone.

"How dare you use such an arrogant tone when you speak to us? We are one of the royal families! What makes you think you can defy us?" Wallace snorted.

Laughter erupted among the Joneses.

We are invincible in South City! Even the Gates family and the Caesar family have to obey us!

Ignoring the Joneses, he grabbed Mia's hand and said, "I promised to protect you, Mia. Come with me!"

"What?" It took a moment for Mia to recover from the daze. "I can't, Levi. I have to go to jail!"

Levi scoffed, "I won't allow that to happen! Why don't they go to prison themselves?"

"What the hell do you mean, Levi Garrison? Since when do you have the audacity to question our decisions?"

"We have cast our votes for Mia to go to prison as her punishment. Serves her right for going against our family rules!" The Joneses tried to make the decision sound reasonable.

"Firstly, your family rule doesn't apply to me because I'm not one of you. Secondly, I won't allow any of you to hurt Mia! She is a sister to me!" Levi grabbed hold of Mia and walked away.

“Stop them!” As soon as Wallace gave the order, several men moved forwards to block Levi.

Within minutes, Levi sent all the men flying across the room with his powerful slap.

The Joneses gasped collectively in horror. “He is a martial arts expert?”

Recalling his previous encounter with Levi, Wales yelled, “Grandpa, he’s well-trained! Don’t let him get away!”

“Seize him!” Michael ordered.

A group of martial arts experts leaped out of nowhere and surrounded Levi. They were the secret weapon of royal families and that was not something that other prominent families could contend to.

“Let’s see if he can still run away with his limbs broken!” Wallace scoffed.

“Yes! He won’t be able to escape after that!” Michael agreed to it.

All of a sudden, a man in gold-rimmed glasses yelled, “Father, no!”

The man, Dustin Jones, was one of Levi’s uncles. He was on good terms with Emma, Levi’s mother.

“Father, we already owe Emma so much! We can’t be so cruel to her son now!” Dustin persuaded.

“He’s right, father. We can use him as the scapegoat instead of disabling him!” Ella Jones, Levi’s aunt chimed in.

Michael hesitated. “Well...”

“Punish him, father! An arrogant imbecile like him doesn’t deserve to be spared!”
Wallace and a few others hollered.

Michael’s butler whispered in his ear, “Sir, I don’t think this will look good on us if words go out. We don’t have to go as far as to keep them confined. It might destroy our reputation!”

“Grandpa, I think he’s right! Why do we have to be afraid of the two of them when we are so powerful? We will become a laughing stock if anyone hears of this!”
Tyler added.

At last, Michael gave the order for his men to retreat.

“Count yourself lucky today, Levi!” Michael spat, “We are only letting you off because you mean nothing to us. Try anything funny and I will imprison you for real.”

After Levi left, Michael commanded, “Shadow, keep an eye on them!”

The Protector Chapter 696

A person's silhouette streaked across the room as soon as Michael gave his order.

He was none other than Shadow, the most powerful martial arts expert in Jones family.

An expert in assassination and stealth, no one would have the time to defend themselves when he struck.

Not even a bullet could harm him if he moved fast enough.

Wallace felt rest assured with Shadow in charge of monitoring Levi's actions.

"Shadow can appear anywhere without anyone noticing him! Levi and Mia won't be able to get far when he's out spying on them!" The Joneses exclaimed confidently.

When Levi and Mia were halfway on the road, Levi noticed someone following them.

He chuckled under his breath, "Huh! They think I'm stupid."

Even the most skillful martial art expert of the Jones family couldn't trick him.

Shadow? What a joke!

Levi arranged for Mia to stay at Morris Group with Zoey for the time being.

Knowing that Mia was the only relative who was on good terms with Levi, Zoey was very fond of her.

“Mia, Zoey will take care of you from now onwards.”

Although Mia was treated kindly by Zoey, she couldn't muster up any joy knowing that she and Levi could not escape their fate. They would still be sent to prison in Orientana in a few days.

Meanwhile, the Joneses were cursing Levi in Jones Residence when Michael got a phone call from the Warlord, Elijah.

Michael switched to a polite tone, “How can I help you, my lord?”

“Have you prepared the money?” Elijah asked.

“Yes, the fifty billion is ready!”

“And have you chosen who to go to prison on behalf of your family? I hope you don't try anything funny with me. I've made it clear that your punishment for breaking my rules is to send at least two of your direct descendants to jail!” Elijah demanded sternly.

“As you wish, my lord!”

“Good. I'll come to Erudia personally to get the money and take two of your descendants.”

“Oh? You'll come? Then... Then we'll be waiting for your arrival!”

...

After Elijah hung up, Michael sighed heavily.

“What is it?” everyone asked.

Michael’s face turned pale before he finally announced, “Elijah, the Warlord is coming to Erudia personally!”

Elijah’s arrival meant that the fate of the Joneses was subjected to more variables. What if Elijah changed his mind and demanded harsher punishments?

Besides that, they would have to ensure that Levi and Mia did not escape.

“What? The Demon King is coming?”

Everyone turned pale from horror at the thought of the merciless warlord’s upcoming presence in Erudia because he was not someone that can be messed with.

Anyone who dared to challenge him would either end up with their whole families massacred or the women in their families sold off as slaves and prostitutes.

Not even the Jones family, one of the greatest royal families, could escape Elijah’s wrath.

They made the mistake of offending Elijah during their business trip to Orientana earlier.

If they decided to fight back, they would only end up with a failed business and the warlord’s revenge, which was probably a massacre that consisted of hundreds of assassins.

The Joneses could not afford the dire consequences of defying Elijah again.

“Then we must keep an eye on Levi and Mia! We can’t let them get away!”

With that said, the Joneses commanded three more martial arts experts to monitor Levi and Mia. It would be easier to capture them by the time Elijah arrived.

The Protector Chapter 697

While Mia spent the next few days in agony, Levi was quite relaxed because he couldn't care less about the Joneses.

Four days later, Elijah arrived at South City with a fleet of cars armed with loaded weapons.

Although he was the warlord of Orientana, he tried to keep a low profile because he was in another territory, Erudia.

When the fleet of cars reached Sapphire Villa, Michael led his family members to welcome Elijah at the front door.

Deep down, everyone was nervous when they saw the merciless warlord in front of them.

Michael immediately ordered, "Tell Shadow to bring Mia here now! Tell her if she refuses, I will send her parents to jail instead!"

Soon, Elijah arrived with two hundred armed bodyguards surrounding him.

He had multiple scars that enhanced his ferocious look and a cigar in his mouth.

Elijah's immense wealth enabled him to acquire an army of a hundred thousand soldiers well-equipped with the most formidable weapons.

One wrong word from the Joneses and they would find themselves at the mercy of those weapons.

Elijah's imposing manner was intimidating enough for the Joneses to cower.

As he swept his gaze across the Joneses, Michael stepped up and greeted, "Welcome to Erudia, my lord!"

Elijah's adjutant reported, "Sir, this is Michael Jones, head of the Jones family."

"You," Elijah bellowed in his deep voice, "You are the one who intruded my territory with that filthy business of yours! How dare you defy me and hurt my soldiers?"

Everyone froze in place.

"My lord, I'm afraid it's all a misunderstanding..." Michael fumbled for words hastily.

"Well, since you're willing to apologize, I'll let this matter rest if you add another fifty billion," Elijah concluded.

"What?" Everyone gasped collectively.

This is totally a daylight robbery! That's a hundred billion in total! Our family may never recover from this blow!

In fact, the Joneses had prepared themselves for more daunting news, but they never expected Elijah to be so ruthless and cunning.

Elijah smirked, "Is that a problem?"

"I have thirty thousand men on standby not far from South Hampton. Believe me, they are very impulsive. I cannot assure you of your safety once they know that you defy me again..." He threatened menacingly.

The Joneses turned pale when they realized that Elijah was threatening to destroy their family if they didn't agree to his conditions.

Knowing that they wouldn't stand a chance against Elijah, Michael finally gave in. "There's no way we will defy you, my lord!"

As Michael showed Elijah into Sapphire Villa, the rest of the Joneses completed the 100-billion transaction.

"Get the ten prisoners ready. I'm leaving soon!" Elijah ordered.

Despite being tyrannical, he dared not prolong his stay at Erudia.

He planned to return to his territory once he got what he came for.

"No problem!" Michael commanded his subordinates to capture Levi and Mia.

Not long after, Levi and Mia were surrounded by Michael's men.

"Please come with us, Ms. Jones. The warlord is already here. Your parents will have to go to jail if you don't show up!"

Mia panicked. "Levi, I have to go now!"

Levi stroked her head lightly. "Alright, I'll come with you!"

The Protector Chapter 698

Levi couldn't have cared less previously. However, when he heard that Elijah was in South City, he became angry.

*How can we allow this mad warlord to wreak havoc as he pleases in Erudia?
Does he have a death wish?*

“What?” Mia exclaimed.

The bodyguards appeared to be astounded as well because none of them thought Levi would go with Mia.

Meanwhile, in Sapphire Villa, Elijah appeared to be beaming at the successful transfer of 100 billion to his account, but he was actually worried because Erudia was a dangerous place for mercenaries like him.

He would be in trouble if the military discovered his presence in South City.

However, he was willing to take the risk to get an extra fifty billion.

“Where are they? Bring them to me quickly!” He urged.

Soon enough, Levi, Mia, and eight other Joneses were sent to Elijah.

Michael and a few others smirked at the sight of Levi surrendering himself.

He must have come to his senses finally! He will never be able to fight our men anyway.

Lust glinted in Elijah's eyes when he laid eyes on Mia. Once he made sure of Levi and Mia's identity, he nodded satisfactorily.

"Good. Seize them!"

Michael and the others only dared heave a sigh of relief after Elijah and his soldiers left Sapphire Villa. "We may have lost fifty billion today, but at least we are finally free from more trouble!"

The only thing the Joneses were upset about was the money. Except for Mia's parents, none of them cared the least about the fate of the Joneses who were taken by Elijah as captives.

Mia's parents were the only ones weeping.

"How can you be so ruthless, dad? They're your grandchildren!" Mia's parents wailed at the thought of never seeing Mia again.

"Don't be such a crybaby! They should be proud to be able to contribute to the family! It's a glory of a lifetime!" Michael stated as if his decision of sending Levi and Mia away was an honorable one.

On the other hand, Elijah ordered his men to speed up.

Leaving Erudia immediately was the only way to avoid the possible dangers and ease his tension.

Positioning himself in front of the captives, he scoffed, "All of you belong to me from today onwards!"

Mia and the others cowered and avoided Elijah's gaze except for Levi. He was the only one that stared right into the warlord's eyes bravely.

Elijah was puzzled by Levi's calmness. "You... You're not afraid of me?" he inquired curiously.

A laugh escaped from Levi's mouth. "Why should I be afraid of you?"

"Of course you should be! The Joneses always cower when they're around me! Look at them!" He pointed at Mia and the others who were shivering in fright.

"Are you really not afraid of me?" Elijah asked again.

"I'm never afraid of anyone else. Instead, everyone should be afraid of me," Levi chuckled.

"Ha! Are you saying that I should be afraid of you?" Elijah snorted.

The Protector Chapter 699

Levi nodded seriously. “You might pee your pants in fright if I reveal my identity.”

“Hahahaha...”

Elijah was laughing out the loudest among everyone who burst into waves of laughter because he thought the notion was too ridiculous. What could Levi be capable of when he was merely someone that the Joneses presented as captives? Even the formidable Michael Jones had to obey him and give him a hundred billion.

This is outrageous!

Mia tugged on Levi’s sleeves to signal him to stop talking because she didn’t want him to get into trouble with Elijah.

Smiling, Levi remarked, “Your swift departure shows that you’re afraid.”

“What?” Elijah was thrown off momentarily because he didn’t expect Levi to read his fear.

How does he know? He must be no ordinary person!

“I’m afraid? That’s impossible!” Elijah denied.

“You sneaked into Erudia when you clearly know that mercenaries are banned here, didn’t you? Aren’t you scared that the military get words of this?” Levi bombarded Elijah on his weak spots.

It turned out that the warlord was terrified of the soldiers of Erudia because he nearly died in their hands years ago.

“That’s impossible! I wouldn’t go to Erudia if I’m afraid. Mind you, I have a hundred thousand soldiers in my command! If anyone should be afraid, it should be the soldiers of Erudia!” Elijah boasted.

Levi taunted, “Have you ever thought of the possibility that the military knows about your intrusion?”

Elijah felt his mind go blank when he heard Levi. Slowly realizing that he overlooked a serious problem, it was his turn to turn pale and shiver.

I must have underestimated Erudia! I should have found it suspicious when nobody stopped my fleet of cars!

“That’s ridiculous! We won’t be discovered because all of my men are skilled in stealth!” Elijah made another attempt to cover up his fear.

After giving Levi one last glare, he strode to the front and ordered his driver to hit the accelerator and stay alert of the surroundings.

“I’ll let you off for now. Once we reach Orientana, I’ll see if you can still spout nonsense when I try the cruelest tortures on you!” Elijah threatened Levi.

“I’ll be looking forward to it,” Levi replied calmly.

They had a smooth journey for the first three hours.

When they finally reached a hidden landing in the woods, Elijah felt the weight lift off his shoulders. There were dozens of helicopters waiting in the landing to take off.

“I must be worrying for nothing all because of that stupid guy! Erudia’s soldiers didn’t notice us at all!” Relieved, Elijah laughed.

However, Levi’s voice sounded from the back of the car. “I’m giving you a final chance to surrender yourself, Elijah! You won’t be able to beg for mercy later!”

“What the hell are you blabbering about? I will rip your mouth if you continue your nonsense!” Elijah snapped furiously.

Just as they got off the cars and moved towards the helicopters, something unforeseen happened.

“Ow-”

Elijah looked around frantically in horror as the sound of wolves howling echoed through the woods. Eighteen wolves with riders appeared on top of the hill opposite them.

It was the Cavalry Regiment!

The Protector Chapter 700

“What the...”

Elijah’s men were appalled by the scene.

They had never seen such enormous wolves with pure white fur that emitted dangerous auras. Nor had they seen riders on wolves who were equipped with traditional bows, modern guns, and grenades at the same time.

The Cavalry Regiment that was once the nightmare of almost all enemies on the battlefield reappeared in the forest.

Although Elijah outnumbered the Cavalry Regiment by hundreds of men, they were frozen by their commanding aura.

“All mercenaries who come to Erudia without permission shall die!”

Elijah almost fell to the ground because his knees gave way when one of the cavalry members bellowed.

When he spotted five other men emerging from the corner of his eyes, he broke into a cold sweat as realization dawned on him.

“Ow-”

The Cavalry Regiment started their attack and rushed down from the hills at top speed.

In a blink of an eye, they closed the distance of over a few hundred meters.

Plop!

Bang!

Argh!

Where their paths crossed, Elijah's men dropped to the ground dead.

The Cavalry Regiment fought ferociously. Soon, most of Elijah's few hundred well-trained soldiers were reduced to piles of corpses.

The rest of them tried to run away, but it was only a matter of seconds before the Cavalry Regiment caught up with them.

Elijah and his men were absolutely crushed by the invincible Cavalry Regiment in no more than two minutes.

Now, the remaining was kneeling on the ground and surrendering themselves.

It was the most terrifying battle they ever encountered because the Cavalry Regiment seemed to be immune to bullets.

Meanwhile, Elijah fell to his knees when the five men he saw from the corner of his eyes two minutes ago stood before him.

Just as Levi predicted, Elijah wetted himself.

He would never forget these men in front of him who almost wiped out his troops three years ago.

The other eleven mercenary troops were destroyed on the same fated night because they came across the undefeatable Iron Brigade in Erudia.

Elijah never expected to find himself at the mercy of the Five Great Wars Regiment, who were the leaders of the Iron Brigade again.

Could the eighteen riders be the legendary Cavalry Regiment?

“I... I...” Elijah could only manage to stutter because he was too scared.

“How dare you come to Erudia? Are you tired of living, Elijah?” Azure Dragon scoffed coldly.

White Tiger chuckled, “Shall I destroy your army in Orientana now?”

“No... Please don't! It's all a misunderstanding...” It was ironic to see the previously arrogant warlord sobbing like a child.

“I assure you, it's all a misunderstanding!”

“We're only here to settle personal matters! We didn't do any harm to Erudia!” Being the only man who wasn't cowering in fear, Elijah's adjutant explained hastily.

“Yes, you've mistaken! We didn't stir up any trouble in Erudia! We wouldn't dream of doing that!” Elijah wailed.

Azure Dragon merely scoffed, “Are you sure? Do you know who have you captured?” His tone suddenly became stern.

Elijah felt his mind being blown into pieces as he thought of someone.

The Protector Chapter 701

Levi! He told me a lot of things earlier. He said that everyone else was afraid of him and that if I had not gotten on my knees then, I wouldn't even have a chance in the future! He also said that I'd be begging for my life when I learned about his identity! Don't tell me... No, it can't be this much of a coincidence!

Elijah felt like his head was going to explode from the overload of information.

If he really is that man, then I'm toast! I'd have lost my life for a mere fifty billion. It's not worth it! Not worth it at all!

Levi hopped off the car, even though Mia had advised him against it as it was dangerous.

The moment Levi arrived, Azure Dragon and the rest of the Five Great Wars Regiment had a solemn expression.

Even the eighteen White Wolves of the Calvary Regiment had prostrated themselves in front of Levi.

"Greetings, God of War!" dozens of men echoed in unison.

...

Elijah nearly passed out when he heard this. This is the one time I wish I hadn't guessed correctly! Levi really is that man after all! He was right when he said that I would be scared out of my wits. Anyone in the world would!

Slap!

Azure Dragon slapped Elijah across the face, bringing him back to his senses.

Bam! Bam! Bam!

Elijah got onto his knees and bowed his head onto the ground repetitively in reverence.

His forehead was bleeding from hitting the ground too hard, but he would not stop.

“That’s enough for now! Firstly, how dare you set foot in Erudia!” Levi scoffed.

“I-I...” Elijah was trembling and lost for words.

“I can give you a second chance. However, you’ll have to pay a hefty sum so I can make sure that you’ve learned your lesson!” Levi offered.

“Really?” Hope rekindled in Elijah’s eyes.

“Give me three hundred billion! I’ll spare your life for that amount!” Levi declared as he extended three fingers.

“Huh?” Elijah was taken aback.

Including the one hundred billion the Jones family paid him, his net worth was but four hundred billion in total.

Yet, he had to throw three hundred billion away! This was akin to destroying him financially, but he had no choice.

As long as he was alive, he would have a chance to amass another three hundred billion someday.

“Thank you for sparing my life, God of War!” Elijah exclaimed with his head bowed low.

With the help of Phoenix, the three hundred billion was transferred from Elijah’s account to Levi in a flash.

“Alright then, we’ve been doing quite a lot of charity in Quebec recently. Let’s use this three hundred billion for business and investment instead! I’m sure Quebec will welcome increased investment!”

Levi then instructed Tim to use the three hundred billion to invest in the redevelopment of Quebec.

“Send the rest of them back to the Jones family and leave!” Levi commanded.

Elijah hurriedly followed his orders and brought the survivors, as well as Mia and the other hostages, back to the Jones family.

Argh, I shouldn’t have come after all. The entire floor is lava here at Erudia! This trip nearly cost me my life, and I had to pay an entire three hundred billion for this! What a waste!

Meanwhile, in Sapphire Villa.

Just as the Jones family had packed up and was about to return to South Hampton, several cars arrived at the gate.

“Bad news! Elijah is back!” someone alerted the entire Jones family, sending them into a state of panic.

Michael nearly passed out when he heard this.

The fact that Elijah had returned meant that he had come to make more unreasonable demands.

What a greedy fellow!

Unfortunately, the Jones family was not in a position to bargain.

“Argh, what a misfortune!”

Michael brought the rest of the Jones family to welcome Elijah at the door.

When Elijah got off the car, the Jones family was dumbfounded.

They had not expected him to get down on his knees in front of them...

The Protector Chapter 702

Even Elijah's generals and men kneeled down in front of them.

The Jones family was stunned by the sight and stared at them in shock.

What's going on? What's up with Elijah?

"Please don't do this, my lord. The Jones family isn't worthy of it!" Michael exclaimed. He nearly fell onto his knees at the sight of this.

What on earth does Elijah mean by this? Is this... another trap?

"Mr. Jones, I was in the wrong. This is the greatest mistake of my life! I came here to apologize and return the hostages!"

Elijah then raised a hand and his men released Mia and the others.

Mia and the other captives were stunned.

They had been in the car this entire time, unaware of what was going on outside.

The moment they got out, they realized that they had been sent back to the Jones family! What's going on? Where's Levi? Where did he go after he got off the car? Is he in danger?

Mia was worried for his safety. What's going on?

"My lord, can you please explain all of this? I'm afraid I don't understand what's going on," Michael asked.

The rest of the Jones family were equally perplexed. What is going on? Elijah has not only returned the hostages, but also kneeled down to apologize to us.

They were bewildered by the sudden change in events.

“Ah! I was too arrogant and got punished by someone while lording all over Erudia!” Elijah sighed.

“In the future, I won’t restrict the Jones family from doing business in my turf. In fact, if there’s anything you need help with, feel free to look for me! Please put in a good word with that man so that I can survive...” Elijah pleaded while he was on his knees.

Even if Levi let me off this time, he won’t go easy if I offend him another time. I need to get his grandfather to put in a good word for me.

“Huh? Who? I’m afraid you lost me here,” Michael queried.

The others were equally confused.

Who would Elijah be so scared of? Does such a person even exist?

“Mr. Jones, you don’t have to keep this a secret from me. This time, it was the God of War who stepped forward to help the Jones family. Several hundreds of my men died and I was nearly crippled as well! Please forgive me, Mr. Jones. I didn’t know that the Jones family was related so closely to the God of War! Otherwise, I’d never have dared to lay hands on the Jones family!” Elijah cried.

He had never expected that Michael was the God of War’s grandfather!

“God of War? You mean the highly revered man in Erudia, the God of War?” Michael questioned.

“That’s right! Everyone fears the God of War across the lands!”

“My lord, are you saying that the Jones family has connections to the God of War?” Michael repeated his question.

“That’s right! The God of War came down personally and even mobilized the Five Great Wars Regiment and the Cavalry Regiment! I got the fright of my life!” Elijah explained.

“Why don’t we know about it then?”

The Jones family stared at each other in shock. Since when have we known anyone related to the God of War?

“Alright, Mr. Jones, I’ll be leaving now that I’ve returned the hostages. He might be coming for me at any moment!” Elijah brought his men and prepared to leave.

“Hold on a moment, my lord. Could you tell us how the God of War is related to us?” Michael queried.

“That’s right! Tell us, my lord!”

The Protector Chapter 703

Elijah was stunned.

He had assumed that Michael and the others knew Levi's identity and were playing dumb, but their actions showed otherwise.

That's right! His identity is a state secret. It won't be surprising if his family doesn't know about it! I can't be the one to let them know either.

"I'll just put it this way — the God of War has a close relationship with the Jones family and will continue protecting you as long as you are willing to accept him!"

Elijah then left Sapphire Villa with his men.

He fled Erudia, worried that Levi would change his mind.

"Is it really true that the God of War who defeated eighteen nations and triumphed over every battle is related to the Jones family?"

Michael remained doubtful of this.

"It has to be! Look at how frightened Elijah was! Who else could it be?"

"I heard that the God of War has retired and is currently in North Hampton."

...

"But how is the God of War related to us though?" Michael frowned.

"Grandpa, you forgot about Uncle Anson!" Tyler reminded him.

Michael had seven children, and his youngest son, Anson, had joined the armed forces at a young age.

It was said that he was part of the special forces and his role was shrouded in secrecy.

He had not returned home for five years.

He was only allowed to call his family once a year, mostly to reassure them that he was still alive.

The rest of the family had given up on Anson and had not expected him to contribute much to the family.

However, they did not expect him to be related to the God of War!

This was indeed a great surprise to the Jones family!

“That’s right! Anson told us last year that he was a part of the God of War’s Iron Brigade! I didn’t tell you guys this because it was a state secret. Being part of the Iron Brigade means that he reports directly to the God of War. He might be a general for all we know! The God of War must have stepped in for Anson’s sake!”

If the God of War himself helped Anson out, this must mean that he’s holding a very high rank!

Michael was overjoyed when he thought of that.

“The Jones family has the God of War as our backer! It’s finally time for the Jones family to rise now!”

The rest of the Jones family were thrilled as well.

They had not expected the God of War of Erudia to help the Joneses.

“Anson is the pride and joy of the Jones family! We could all stand to learn from him!” everyone cheered.

On the other hand, Mia remained skeptical.

Something's wrong. It feels like this has something to do with Levi.

“Where's Levi?” Michael asked.

“He has probably escaped in the chaos!” someone suggested.

Wales scorned, “Mia, after how you've treated him as a relative, he's fled in the face of danger and abandoned you!”

“No, you don't understand...” Mia tried to explain.

“You're no longer allowed to interact with Levi anymore! Otherwise, I won't let you off!” Michael warned.

He then instructed Wallace, “Inform Levi that he's now disowned! I, Michael Jones, do not acknowledge him as my grandson and he's no longer allowed to call himself a part of the Jones family!”

Wallace and the others nodded, “That's right! Now that the matter with Elijah is settled, he's no longer of use to us! We won't let him make use of the name of the Jones family any further!”

The Protector Chapter 704

Three hundred billion in exchange for Elijah's life.

Levi was in a terribly good mood.

To him, there was an even bigger surprise.

Elijah had placed thirty thousand soldiers for reinforcement outside of South Hampton's sea.

This was not just a tactic to scare the Jones family, but there really was thirty thousand soldiers.

After locking onto the target, the five Kings of War led the Beasts and attacked Elijah's troops.

It was a good opportunity to take a look at the progress of the Beasts who had been training for a month.

Under the attack of the Beasts, Elijah's thirty thousand soldiers were pulverized and had to retreat.

That was how strong the Beasts were!

Each one of them was powerful even when they fought alone.

Hence, when they were grouped together, they were practically undefeatable.

"Mm, the result is not bad."

Levi smiled with satisfaction.

At this moment, the Joneses had dared to find him.

“What do you want?”

Levi’s faced turned rigid.

Wallace sneered at him. “Levi Garrison, I came to see you for two things.”
“Firstly, you have broken our family’s rules. The Joneses will not pursue the incident of breaking the ferule either!”

“Secondly, from now on, you don’t have any relations with the Jones family!” “I hope you will not continue to use the Joneses’ name for your benefits!”

“If it weren’t the need for a scapegoat, the Joneses would have never recognized your identity! Now that things are settled, you’d better know where you stand!”

“A person like you will never have the right to step through the doors of the Jones family!”

“I am telling you now, the God of War is supporting our family! The Joneses will only grow stronger, so trash like you will only pull down the Joneses’ standards!”

“Don’t ever think of stepping foot into the Jones Residence, because you are not worthy!”

...

The younger Joneses snickered and sneered.

“In the future, if I ever heard you using the Jones family’s name again, I will break all your limbs. You just mark my words!”

Wallace warned him sternly then left with the other Joneses.

Levi shrugged. "How childish!"

Zoey who was on the side, witnessed everything clearly.

Levi was quite pitiful.

He had finally met his relatives, yet he was treated so badly.

"Darling, that identity is not important, what's so great about the Joneses anyway!"

Zoey comforted Levi.

He nodded, "Yes, it isn't anything."

"Darling, don't worry, with our collective efforts, there will be a day where the Joneses will look up to us with envy!"

Zoey was extremely motivated. She needed to buck up and make Levi exceptional, more so than the Joneses.

Levi smiled.

Honey is the one who cares for me the most.

"Leave it to me! Be it now or in the future, the Joneses are fated to be unworthy!"

Levi made this bold statement with confidence.

The appearance of the Jones family had never affected Levi. Nothing had happened after they left.

After a few days, Levi reached the South City Warzone.

Kirin had some matters to discuss with him and conveniently asked Levi to inspect the Beasts, despite knowing that thirty thousand of Elijah's soldiers were pulverized by just a mere thousands of them.

They comprised of individuals who were highly skilled in combat and properly trained. Should their military tactics be of standards, the Beasts would be unstoppable.

Seeing the vigor Beasts in training, Levi was very satisfied.

Kirin was Erudia's best military instructor.

Coupled with a group of elite soldiers, the chemistry was off the charts.

The Beasts shall be the most terrifying regiment!

"There are no flaws! Their assets are all displayed! I am very impressed!"

Levi praised them.

"But what are you here for? It can't just be for me to observe the results of their training right?"

Levi asked.

The Protector Chapter 705

Kirin sighed, "I don't know how Ezra Williamson found out, but he knows I am training the Beasts! He was rather envious and wants to borrow the Beasts to test them out!"

"I am the one who trains my soldiers. If there is any tests, I will be to one to do them personally! Who is he to test them!" Kirin exasperated.

Levi chuckled.

These people are so interesting.

We are one unit, there is no need to be so calculative.

As for how he found out?

The news of the Beasts bashing Elijah's troops had probably leaked out.

"That's your business, I don't care!"

Levi declared.

"The problem is not me, if Ezra Williamson were to personally come down and make a request, I will have no choice but to agree to his request!"

Levi smirked, "For now, the Western Region is still considered the front line. Ezra has it hard too, so I will lend him the Beasts for now."

The news of the Western Region Commander-in-chief, a tiger on the battlefield, Ezra coming to South City was leaked unintentionally.

In no time, there were many prepared to welcome him.

Famous tycoons were all ready to butter up Ezra.

Since they could not contact the God of War, getting connected with the Western Region Commander-in-chief was not a bad idea.

He had also achieved many great feats and was an invincible God of War.

In addition, Tim had swiftly settled the three hundred billion that came easily.

It would be used for the development for the whole of Quebec.

This was a huge sum!

It would also be used to formulate corresponding policies!

Once the news had spread, Quebec and many neighboring cities' big enterprises and families developed a deep interest.

Even South Hampton's Jones family had received the news.

They knew better than anyone the origin of the three hundred billion.

Out of the three, one hundred billion was from the Joneses.

The Jones family was rather sore about it.

"Our Jones family must get an investment project, and even keep a foothold in Quebec!"

Michael Jones commanded.

“The reason is simple. One hundred billion belongs to our Jones family, you all try to get as many projects as possible to recover our losses!”

“The God of War is also interested in the development of Quebec, if we do well; we can earn points in his favor.”

Michael analyzed.

“We have understood your intentions!”

In the past, the Joneses had no interests in the small Quebec.

However, because of the God of War they had to try their best to make their presence known.

“During this period, I am prepared to use the Joneses’ reputation to invite the God of War, and express our gratitude to him personally!”

Michael had already conjured a plan in his head.

“Grandpa, are we able to invite the God of War? I have checked but he has rejected every single invitation from countless reputable families!”

Tyler voiced his dilemma.

“Are we even similar to them? My son is a General in the military, the right-hand man of the God of War! Regardless of all the circumstances, the God of War has to meet us!”

Michael said smugly.

After the incident of Elijah, he thought that his son, Anson Jones, was definitely on par with a King of War.

Little did he know, Anson was only the First Lieutenant in the army.

If one were to go by military ranks, he could only dream of meeting Levi.

“Haha, that’s true! The God of War is the backer of the Jones family. There is no reason for him to turn down the meeting!”

With that said, everyone in the Jones family was excited.

Ever since they came back, they ran amuck in South Hampton.

They answered to no one.

With the support from the God of War, there was no one they should be afraid of?

Now, inviting the God of War was all for the progression of the Joneses.

“Grandpa! I have an idea!” Tyler Jones chimed.

Tyler Jones chimed.

The Protector Chapter 706

“Say it, Tyler.” Michael immediately responded.

“Grandpa, if we want to thank the God of War, he will definitely reject any material gifts. However, I have a better idea to express our gratitude...”

“How about we build a statue of the God of War in South City to show our gratitude!”

Clap! Clap! Clap!

The moment Tyler finished his sentence, everyone started to applaud.

“Building a statue is a good idea!”

“As expected from my grandson! That’s a good idea!”

Michael cackled.

The God of War will have no reason to reject them if they were to build him a statue of him.

Furthermore, others will know that the relations between the Joneses and the God of War are tightly knitted!

This is simply killing two birds with one stone!

“Since we have decided, we shall build it immediately! Tyler you are in charge of this project!”

Michael commanded.

The Joneses were now showing their gratitude to the God of War with hidden intentions.

“Father, according to rumors, the Western Region Commander-in-chief, Ezra Williamson, will be coming to South City!”

Wallace informed.

“Go! We must welcome him in the Joneses’ name! A person like Ezra Williamson is General of the God of War. We have to welcome him with the utmost respect, and extend goodwill to the God of War!”

Michael made up his mind again.

“Although Anson’s status is still a secret, I have a feeling his rank is close to Ezra Williamson. Anson could very well be a Commander-in-chief for one of the Nine Warzones in the future!”

The Jones family sure had expectations...

Reality however was often cruel, Ezra Williamson was a King of War.

On the other hand, Anson Jones was only a mere First Lieutenant. These two were worlds apart.

News of Ezra Williamson’s visit spread like wildfire.

Even Sylas Whitfield got the news.

Sylas went to Levi feeling a little embarrassed. “Sir, I...I want to apply for leave!”

“Hm?”

This stunned Levi.

Sylas was a rigid person, why would she apply for leave?

“Sir, please listen to my explanation. Isn’t Chief Williamson coming? We have all heard of the news, so a few of the retired soldiers wanted to meet up with Chief Williamson. There will be a war retirees’ gathering and I am unable to reject them.”

Sylas was stuck between a rock and a hard place.

“Alright, no problem. Your leave is approved. I will be around so there will be nothing to worry about.”

Levi assured her.

“Thank you, Sir!”

Sylas saluted.

She was probably the luckiest bodyguard in the world for a very simple reason.

The great God of War of Erudia had personally covered her shift.

If this news were leaked, the whole world would be shocked beyond belief.

However, that was how things were, and it happened.

Levi chuckled helplessly. “This punk is here to borrow soldiers yet he has stirred such a big commotion! He even made it a bigger deal than me. He should take a page out of Percy’s book!”

In the past when Levi returned to North Hampton, he brought hundreds of fighter jets and a hundred thousand soldiers for a reason.

It was to send a message to the other countries to show that Levi did not leave his post but merely paying a visit to his hometown.

This was to announce to the other nations that he was still the God of War of Erudia.

With that, the other countries or forces that intended to make a move stayed put and stopped harboring the thought of launching an attack on Erudia.

Levi didn't like such a grand and extravagant entrance.

However, he had no choice but to do it that way.

Sylas had just left when Tim's secretary, Sean, visited personally.

"Mr...Mr. Garrison, Mr. Cronan sent me to see you. There was something he wishes to discuss."

Sean trembled slightly as he said.

"What's the matter?"

The Protector Chapter 707

“Mr. Cronan said that you’ll be fully in charge of the investment of the three hundred billion, Mr. Garrison,” said Sean Zucker.

“Why?” asked Levi curiously.

“Because once the policy was passed, tens of businesses have come to pay Mr. Cronan a visit. They’re all successful entrepreneurs from South City and have done a lot for the development of the city. It’d be too difficult for Mr. Cronan to reject their requests. So in order to avoid any controversy and to be completely impartial, he’s decided to hand over the matter to you,” explained Sean.

Levi gave it some thought before answering. “Very well. I’ve got some free time on my hands recently anyway, so I’ll take care of it.”

“Thank you, Mr. Garrison. Please let us know if you need anything.”

Soon enough, all news outlets were reporting that the person in charge of the three hundred billion investment project had changed hands and was now being handled by Mr. Garrison.

This news immediately drew the interest of plenty of entrepreneurs across South City.

This of course also included the Black family. They weren’t going to let such a great opportunity slip through their fingers.

The Blacks gathered everyone for a meeting, including Zoey.

“This is the perfect chance for us Blacks! Our family has been stagnant for the past few years, so it’ll be great if we can just get our hands on a few of these projects.”

Meredith’s eyes scanned across the crowd. “So, everyone needs to work hard to get us as many projects as possible! Oh, and I’m counting on you especially, Zoey!”

“I’m sorry, Grandma. But our company won’t be in the run for any projects this time.”

With the number of resources and funds the Morris Group had, they didn’t need to get involved in the competition at all.

“But you need to think for the Black family. What Grandma is saying is for you to acquire some projects on behalf of us,” insisted Meredith.

“I’m afraid that’ll be a little difficult, Grandma. I can’t bid for those projects using my company but if I use my own, it will be very tough.”

Zoey didn’t want to use the company’s resources for personal matters.

Meredith’s face darkened. “Frankly, I don’t care.”

“We should give Zoey a mission that she can’t refuse. After all, remember she insists on marrying Levi Garrison?” chimed Jennie.

Meredith’s eyes widened at Jennie’s reminder. “That’s right! Zoey, here’s your mission! You have to get us a project worth at least fifty billion!”

“Why are you forcing this on me, Grandma?” asked Zoey couldn’t seem to understand.

“Because... you want to get married to Levi, don't you? None of us Blacks support this marriage of yours. But as long as you get us a project worth fifty billion, then neither we nor your parents will stop you. Otherwise, as long as we're around, you can forget about marrying Levi!” asserted Meredith firmly.

What?

Zoey froze to the spot.

She thought that the Black family would be better than the Lopez family. But as it turned out, they were all the same.

They all treated her as if she were nothing but their pawn; a tool to be used.

With such massive profits tempting them, they didn't even care if their demands were unreasonable.

“Don't worry. With your resources, this shouldn't be a problem for you at all. Moreover, I'll be helping you too. I'll get in contact with the person-in-charge as soon as possible,” smiled Logan.

Zoey looked at the people around her. “Grandma, I won't agree to this! Why do I have to do this?”

“Fine, you can turn me down. But you can kiss your plans to marry Levi goodbye as long as I'm alive. I swear I'll do whatever it takes to stop you!” seethed Meredith.

Everyone else in the Black family had the same attitude too.

The Protector Chapter 708

The Black family didn't want to let this opportunity slip past them, but they didn't exactly have the capabilities to grab on any projects.

Zoey, on the other hand, was different.

She had the Morris Group backing her. In fact, as long as she wanted to, it wouldn't even be that difficult for her to get her hands on a few of the bigger projects.

Besides, if Zoey didn't succeed, they would then have the perfect excuse to keep Zoey and Levi apart.

After that, they could just find a better man for Zoey and marry her off into a rich, aristocratic family.

Either way, it was a win-win situation for the Blacks.

"Zoey, you have to understand that this is the best move for you and your parents," said Robert.

"I have given your father an executive position at Black Corporation. As for your mother, I've also pulled some strings to have her transferred to one of the top hospitals here in South City, and she's even been appointed as the head of her department. So they are both very supportive of this plan," explained Meredith.

Zoey looked at the people in front of her. "So what you're saying is, as long as I successfully land a project worth at least fifty billion, then none of you will meddle in my relationship with Levi anymore?"

“That’s right! And we promise to keep up our end of the bargain. Even your parents will have no further say,” nodded Meredith.

“Alright. I’ll agree then,” conceded Zoey.

For the sake of her relationship with Levi, she needed to give it a try.

Later that day, after Zoey returned to the company, she immediately started looking into everything concerning the investment conference.

Her secretary came up to her. “Ms. Lopez, even though the investment conference is organized by South City, the person-in-charge isn’t actually someone from here. It’s rumored that they are completely impartial, and that they’ll award the projects to the best applicants.”

“It’s good to hear that such a person is in charge. Otherwise some of the bigger conglomerates and rich families would have split the majority of the projects amongst themselves.”

Zoey’s eyes were shining. This was undeniably good news for her. It meant that she would have a better chance of succeeding.

Right then, Levi walked in. He had dropped by to see her.

“You look troubled. What’s wrong?” asked Levi.

Zoey told Levi about the mission the Blacks had forced upon her.

“A project worth fifty billion? That’s easy. And here I thought you were worried about something unfeasible,” chuckled Levi.

He was the person in charge so all the decisions were going to be made by him.

So, like he said, it was literally easy enough.

That being said, he wasn't actually worried about the threat from the Blacks or Zoey's parents to keep them apart.

He just found it troublesome.

If Zoey's family was going to cause problems for them at every turn, then it was going to be pretty annoying.

So it would be best if everything could be taken care of in one go.

Zoey stared at him with her eyes wide. "Huh? Easy? I'm talking about a project worth fifty billion here. Not to mention I'm not bidding for the project using Morris Group but personally. This is so hard that it's nearly impossible!"

"Why're you so stressed out? Just one word from me, and you'll get your project," grinned Levi.

"You're not going to pester the boss of Morris Group again, are you? I've just asked Iris, and she said that the boss isn't involved with any of this. So do you still have a way?" asked Zoey.

The Protector Chapter 709

“Just relax. You’ll get your project soon enough. However, you should suggest to the Black family that even though the project will land in their laps, you should still be the one who’s in charge,” stated Levi.

Zoey found herself unable to look away from Levi.

It was as if he had some superpower. Each time he stated something or made a claim, her problems would always just resolve magically on their own.

If she didn’t know better, she’d think that he was the one taking care of things for her.

However, this time she couldn’t bring herself to believe him, especially when the boss of Morris Group wasn’t going to help him out.

Thus, she was very curious to see just what Levi would do.

Levi noticed the doubt in her eyes, but he didn’t say anything more on the matter.

He decided he would just go ahead and delegate a project to her during the investment conference.

Recently, there were two major events that were keeping South City abuzz. The first was the investment conference, and the second was the arrival of Ezra Williamson from the Western Region.

When Ezra made a big show of his upcoming arrival to South City, Levi immediately knew what he was up to.

Soon enough, Levi received a call from Ezra.

“Ezra, you rascal. You’re trying to pull one over on your enemies by being so high-profile, aren’t you?”

Ezra chuckled. “I really can’t get anything past you, boss! Our Warzone had been battling Wheldrake, and it has been particularly difficult to break through their defense line. So I’m being intentionally loud with my whereabouts to attract their attention. Once the Beasts join us, I can then circle back and catch them by surprise,” grinned Ezra sheepishly.

This was the main reason why Ezra wanted everyone to know that he was going to return to South City.

“Looks like you’ve learned well from me.”

“Aww, shucks, boss! I still have a lot more to learn from you,” said Ezra humbly.

“I’ll see you soon then!” Levi was quite eager to see Ezra too. He was not only one of his soldiers, but was like a brother to him too.

“Hehe! By the way, I have a present for you, boss. I’ve gotten quite a few goodies from Wheldrake,” grinned Ezra.

“Oh? As long as it’s not women from Wheldrake!”

“Haha! Then what kind of women do you want, boss? Just say the word and I’ll grab you a dozen!”

If Syllas ever found out that the Chief she revered so much was actually such a person, she’d probably be shocked speechless.

At the end of the day, once Levi, Ezra, and the rest of these ruthless warriors removed their armor, they were still just ordinary people.

They were someone else's son, and some were even a father to others.

But they donned their military uniforms and braved the frontlines just to protect this land.

It was because of heroic people like them that others had the chance to lead a peaceful life.

Speaking of Syllas, she had gone off to join a veterans' gathering. Unexpectedly, Levi had also received an invitation as a guest.

It was mainly the comrades from when he first joined the military.

But they lost touch once Levi was reassigned to another squad, so none of them knew of his real identity.

The Protector Chapter 710

Those veterans had found out that Levi was in South City, so they sent him an invitation too.

When Levi saw what the invitation was, he decided to attend it at all cost.

At that moment, the veterans' gathering had started.

Most of the men there were retired soldiers from the Western Region. They had all once been elite warriors on the battlefield.

However, there were also some "less elite" veterans among them. They were ones who had never done much during their military careers but somehow kept collecting military medals left and right.

This gathering was not only attended by those from the Western Region but there were also some who came from other Warzones that Syllas had never met before.

Now that they were all gathered together, the most common topic of conversation was their current jobs.

A number of them had changed careers and gone on to other fields, but the majority had continued to work as bodyguards or security personnel.

One major point of interest for the gathering was Syllas.

There were actually quite a few other females around, but Syllas was arguably the prettiest out of the bunch. Especially now that she had dressed up, she looked as beautiful as any celebrity out there.

Naturally, a lot of the men there were interested in her.

When they were in the military then, none of them dared to mess with this warrior princess.

But things were different now.

“Sylas, I heard that you’re currently employed as a personal bodyguard?”

“That’s right,” nodded Sylas.

“How’s the pay? I’m guessing it’s at least seven or eight hundred thousand?”

“I was lucky enough to find a good employer. My salary is about ten million plus a house and a car,” answered Sylas candidly.

“What?”

Everyone stared at her in disbelief.

Hearing the salary alone was enough to stun the crowd into silence.

This also startled the men who were previously interested in her. They had to reconsider things now that she suddenly seemed out of their league.

“Sylas, is your boss still hiring? We’re all available!”

“Sure, I can ask.”

With that, Sylas stepped outside and gave Levi a call to check with him.

“Actually, I was just thinking about forming a first-class security team, so I am indeed hiring.”

Levi already had such a thought in his mind when he decided to attend the veterans' gathering. Now that Sylas had called him for this same reason, it was as if it was meant to be.

Sylas went back in and told the men that her boss would be personally coming over to do the selection and hiring.

This news undoubtedly thrilled them.

As time went on, more and more people arrived at the gathering.

There were veterans from all over, including those from the North, East, and South.

Altogether, there were more than one hundred veterans in attendance.

When everyone was seated, the conversation somehow turned into a bragging competition.

Those from the North laid it on especially thick, and wouldn't stop boasting about their military achievements.

"Back then, the three of us managed to infiltrate the enemy's command post, and we were all given first-class merits. Our whole company was also awarded a third-class merit thanks to us."

"And don't forget when the whole regiment lost their base, but our company managed to secure ours successfully. That was because of our effort too, and we were awarded yet another first-class merit!"

"Our whole military career actually was quite boring. We only just got two first-class merits, five second-class merits, and eight third-class merits. That's all."

And as if their words weren't enough, they even started to lay out all those military medals on the table.

The Protector Chapter 711

This naturally drew a lot of envious looks from the crowd.

However, Sylas really despised such behavior.

Nearly everyone in attendance had military medals, and yet no one took them out.

“Oh, and do you remember how we almost got a special class merit but it was stolen by another soldier from our squad? That was such a pity!”

“I know! We were the ones who came across the intel, but that dude just stole the credit right out from under us!”

“Oh my gosh! I still hate that guy even to this day! If it weren’t for him, I’d be so much better off right now!”

The group of men were all grumbling.

After all that bragging, the other veterans came to learn their names, which were Brad Guzman, Xerxes Lewinski, and Gordon Wheeler.

Sylas never expected that those men were once Levi’s comrades.

Levi had started out as a private before being secretly reassigned to the Northern Region.

So these men must be in the same squad as him.

And frankly, all the merits they had obtained had pretty much nothing to do with them.

They were all thanks to Levi putting his life on the line.

It was Levi who managed to infiltrate the enemy's command post, but the trio then unashamedly came to steal the limelight.

It was also because of Levi that their company was the only one that successfully defended their base when the whole regiment lost theirs. The trio again stole Levi's thunder.

All those merits that they were boasting about so smugly were all because of Levi. They had done nothing but brazenly taken the credit.

The trio had always been nothing but bums who skated through life. Their families wanted to make men out of them, so they enlisted them in the military.

So despite donning military uniforms, they had never been a soldier at heart.

Thus, they enjoyed all sorts of special treatment, but they never put in the effort during training and even caused all sorts of trouble. When they went to the battlefield, they were always the first to duck and run too.

So in the end, they had plenty of military awards to brag about despite only being in uniform for a short while.

In fact, Levi couldn't comprehend why his merits and glory had fallen in their hands.

But he was never the type to care about credit and honor.

Besides, the medals were going to the men in the same squad and sharing the same dorm with him, so he never spoke out about their doings.

However, their behavior soon worsened.

He was always the one fighting deep in the trenches while the trio silently lounged in the back and collected the awards.

That final special class merit that they spoke about earlier was one that Levi finally refused to concede. This immediately sowed a seed of hatred in them.

If they had gotten that special class merit, then they would've enjoyed a much better lifestyle after being discharged from military service.

So all these years, not only did they not feel any gratitude towards Levi, but they even spent most of their time talking smack about him.

This time around, they had actually learned that Levi was in South City; thus, they intentionally extended an invitation to him.

In Levi's case, he absolutely could have done something about them audaciously stealing his glory.

But because they were his first batch of comrades-in-arms, he chose not to make a big deal out of it.

Right then, someone in the crowd jumped up and suggested, "For the meeting with Chief Williamson, why don't we have Brad Guzman and the other two represent us?"

Everyone nodded in agreement. "That's a good idea! The three of them have the most military medals out of all of us, and their military careers have also been the most outstanding. They definitely deserve the honor of meeting with Chief Williamson!"

The Protector Chapter 712

All the soldiers happily agreed to this plan and there wasn't one dissenter in the crowd.

Brad, Xander, and Gordon couldn't keep the smug looks off their faces.

Not much later, Levi arrived at the hotel with his invitation in hand.

When Sylas saw him, she immediately got up to greet him, but she was overtaken by Brad and the other two.

"Garrison, you're finally here! It's been ages!"

The trio leaned in and hugged Levi to give the others the impression that they were all very close.

"Everyone, listen up! Let me introduce you to someone who used to be in our squad, Levi Garrison!"

"He's none other than the person who stole the special class merit from us!" Brad then turned to Levi and gave him a joking smack on his back. "We're still holding that against you by the way, you little rascal!"

The trio was smiling and looking as if they were joking, but Levi still caught the flash of resentment in their eyes.

"I heard that you're working as a security guard now?" asked Gordon as he patted Levi on the shoulders hard.

"That's right."

“Out of all the veterans, it looks like you’re the one who’s doing the worst now. Why are you working as a security guard? The least you could do is find a job as a bodyguard or something.”

“That’s right! We’ve got a female soldier who’s doing very well. That’s her over there — Sylas,” said Xerxes as he pointed over to Sylas. “She’s working as a bodyguard, and she has an annual salary of ten million. Her boss even threw in a house and a car for her!”

Sylas stood up and gave Levi a sheepish grin.

Never in a million years would she have thought that they were Levi’s comrades.

“Garrison, you’re an embarrassment to us in Northern Region!” snickered Brad.

Levi remained silent, but his gaze had traveled to the bunch of military medals laid out on the table.

A look of awkwardness flashed across the trio’s faces when they noticed where Levi was looking.

Naturally, they knew those military medals belonged solely to Levi, and that they had nothing to do with them at all.

But they weren’t going to cave in so easily. “Are you jealous? If you had been a little braver and fought alongside us, then you would’ve gotten your own medals too! Besides, you’re just working as a meager security guard even after you swiped our special class merit. On the other hand, we are just short of that one merit, otherwise, we would’ve received all the military achievements. It is really such a shame!”

The other soldiers also started to chime in. “Comrade, that’s not very loyal of you. You shouldn’t have stolen their credit, especially since you were from the same squad,” one sneered.

Levi scoffed in response. "I was the one who put in the work so of course, I deserve the medal. What did that get to do with them?"

"You deserve it? How ridiculous! Who's going to believe that?"

"I certainly don't!"

Clearly none of them believed Levi.

"They were awarded so many military medals throughout their careers, that also show that they have the ability to be awarded the special class merit too. But look at you, were you awarded any other medals apart from that one medal?" snorted another.

Brad was sneering at Levi too. "That's right! You don't have any other medals other than that one special class merit, do you?"

"Are you guys sure you want to compare military medals with me?" smirked Levi.

The Protector Chapter 713

He actually had long forgotten about all his medals.

But now that these lots were foolishly harassing him, he decided it was necessary to take care of things once and for all.

The trio broke out into waves of mocking laughter. “Ha! Compare military medals? With us? Have you lost your mind?”

If Levi really had that many military medals, then there was no way he would be working as just a security guard.

The thing was, Levi had left their squad because of a severe injury.

Thus, they naturally assumed that his military career ended then as well.

But unbeknownst to them, Levi had only just been reassigned to a top-secret squad.

Levi whipped out his phone and placed a call to Phoenix. “It’s me. Bring some of my military medals to Oceanic Restaurant.”

“Hahahaha...” The trio doubled over in laughter.

“Just how many medals do you have that you need someone to deliver them over to you? Stop fooling yourself, Garrison!” snickered Gordon.

The other veterans also had visible smirks on their faces.

They were having fun being entertained by Levi’s little show.

The thing was, the trio really had too many military medals and was undeniably the most lauded amongst everyone at the gathering.

The other veterans, as successful as their careers had been, didn't even have half as many medals as them.

So Levi was clearly only going to make himself look stupid, especially since he was quite ordinary when compared to everyone else.

Seeing all this unfold made Syllas extremely anxious. A cold sheen of sweat broke out all over her body.

She wanted to tell everyone about Levi's real identity, but she changed her mind after seeing the determined look on his face.

Levi turned his attention back on Brad and the other two. He perked an eyebrow at their smug expressions. "Can you sleep at night knowing that you took what should've been mine? Don't the three of you even feel one ounce of shame?"

"I..."

The trio hesitated for a little before quickly regaining their composure.

"What on earth are you blabbering on about? We were awarded these medals because we put our lives on the line. Everything is properly documented in the files, and an easy search will prove us right. Who are you to try and steal this from us?"

"You're despicable, Garrison! How dare you claim our medals for yourself?"

All the other veterans had believed Brad and his friends, so they naturally assumed Levi was lying through his teeth here too.

“And you call yourself a warrior of Erudia? You’re an embarrassment to all of us! Do you have nothing else better to do than to covet military medals that have nothing to do with you at all?”

Most people in the room were getting angry.

“Don’t tell anyone you served up North. We don’t want to be associated with shameful people like you! What? You don’t like what I said? Then come, let’s fight it out!” growled one muscular-looking warrior.

Sylas quickly stepped up, hoping to diffuse the situation. “We’re all comrades here. There’s no need to get fired up.”

“Fine. Since you’re the one asking, I won’t do anything. But, if no one delivers those supposed medals of his, then I can’t guarantee I’ll keep my cool,” the same guy roared.

Thus, everyone stared at Levi expectantly, waiting for those medals of his to arrive.

Soon enough, casually dressed Phoenix rushed into the scene. In his arms was an army green box.

Bang!

The Protector Chapter 714

The sound of the box hitting the table startled everyone.

Phoenix turned to Levi and whispered to him. “You have too many medals. I could only manage to grab one case.”

All of Levi’s medals — and there were really a lot — were in Phoenix’s care.

Levi gave a small smirk. “Don’t worry. These are more than enough.”

The duo’s conversation shocked those standing around them.

Did he say too many military medals?

Wait. How many medals does he have that he needs such a big case?

And... there’s more than one case?

Brad, on the other hand, still had the same sneer plastered across his face. “Open the case and show us then! There’s no way there are medals inside!”

“Exactly! Who do you think you’re fooling with that box?”

Gordon and Xerxes naturally refused to believe him too.

Levi had gotten injured and then was discharged very early in his military career. The Special Class Merit had to be the only medal he had ever been awarded.

Levi glanced lazily at Phoenix and instructed, “Open the box.”

Phoenix dutifully grabbed a key, unlocked the box, and pulled the lid up.

The sight made everyone's jaw drop. There were at least a hundred military medals nestled in the box.

Even the trio started to panic.

This... this can't be real, right?

But if they're fake, where on earth would Garrison find so many fake medals on such short notice?

Besides, he wouldn't have purposely asked someone to send them over if they were just going to be fake, right?

Levi dipped his hand into the case and grabbed a black-colored medal.

"Special Class Merit?" gasped a few of the men.

Levi sneered. "This medal is the one that you said I stole from you."

Clack!

Levi threw it gently onto the table, before reaching for yet another black-colored medal.

"Wow! That's another Special Class Merit!"

"This medal, I received five years ago during the battle at Catskills when I beheaded the enemy's commander-in-chief."

What!

There had been four hundred thousand soldiers fighting in the battle at Catskills.

Yet, Levi was the one who beheaded the commander-in-chief?

Just who is he exactly?

Levi ignored the shocked expressions on their faces and continued to pull out yet another black-colored medal.

Another one!

Everyone inhaled sharply at the sight.

“I received this because I was the first one to infiltrate the enemy’s stronghold up at the Northern Region.”

Clack!

Levi again tossed it onto the table.

Everyone stared at the three medals lying there. They couldn’t believe their eyes.

These are real medals!

Real freaking medals!

The trio was in complete panic mode now. They stared at Levi with their eyes wide and their mouths agape.

However, Levi wasn’t done yet. He continued to draw one medal after another out of the box. There were a couple dozen of them, and all were Special Class Merits.

“These were awarded for similar reasons, so there’s really nothing much to say.”

This comment nearly threw everyone into a fit.

Nothing much to say? There are at least seventy or eighty Special Class Merit medals there and he says there’s nothing much to say?

Just who is this person?

Where exactly did he come from?

Everyone then turned their eyes onto Brad, Xander, and Gordon.

It was as if their eyes were silently accusing the trio of withholding information.

Didn’t you three say he was a mere security guard? Why would a mere bodyguard have so many Special Class Merits!

The trio’s faces were completely distorted by then.

They didn’t know what was going on either.

The Protector Chapter 715

Levi then nonchalantly grabbed a purple-colored medal out of the box.

“Huh?”

This medal confused everyone.

It was purple-in-color, and one that no one had seen before.

What class is this?

Could it be of a higher class than the Special Class Merit?

On closer inspection, there was a beautifully engraved image of a Kirin on the medal.

“This Kirin Military Medal was awarded three years ago when I was in the East battling against Arendelle. I eliminated three hundred thousand enemies and captured another hundred thousand!” stated Levi.

Holy cow!

The men’s faces paled.

They had all heard of the battle between the Eastern Warzone and Arendelle.

That war lasted three whole days and three whole nights, and they managed to fight their way right into the capital of Arendelle before ultimately decimating it.

The whole of Erudia celebrated triumphantly.

Levi then pulled out another purple-colored medal. “This was another one I received three years ago. Felle Nation launched a sneak attack on the Southern Region and caused us extensive damages. I led our troops to charge after them, and we even wiped out the whole of Felle Nation.”

Again?

More sharp inhales could be heard echoing through the room.

They could more or less guess Levi’s identity after hearing his account.

The battle he had just spoken about was one that was a must-hear story among soldiers and had been retold again and again.

So everyone knew the story like the back of their hand.

Brad had a very unpleasant expression on his face, as if he were choking on a fly.

Levi ignored him and pulled yet another medal out of the case.

This time, it was a gold-colored medal.

There are gold-colored medals?

No one has seen gold-colored medals before! Heck, I’ve never even heard of anyone mentioning them before!

The engraving on this medal was of a magnificent dragon.

Everyone knew that dragon was a symbol of Erudia.

This meant that the medal itself could very well be a symbol of the country too!

The purple Kirin Military Medal was awarded to those whom the country placed great value on.

Thus, the gold medal could only be one that was awarded to Erudia's ultimate God of War.

Levi held the heavy medal in his hands as he spoke, "This medal is called the Dragon Military Medal, or just the Dragon Medal. This is the only one of its kind in the history of Erudia!"

Crash!

Levi had just finished speaking when the trio suddenly collapsed onto the floor.

They were so shocked that it wouldn't be surprising if they blacked out right then.

Who would've imagined that their fellow comrade, the one who had once been in their squad, would turn out to be someone who owned the only Dragon Military Medal in Erudia!

Everyone else was trembling in their shoes too.

Even Syllas, who was well-aware of Levi's true identity, wasn't exempted from being affected by the atmosphere in the room.

Finding themselves standing in front of such a highly-revered man made their blood pound with exhilaration.

But Levi wasn't finished yet. "Two years ago, with my very own fists, I had defeated an army coalition with the Eighteen-Nation Alliance. In order to honor me for my unmatched capabilities, Erudia awarded me with this Dragon Medal and promoted me to a five-star ranked God of War. I am also the only God of War with five stars in the history of Erudia! That was the pinnacle of my career, and my name has been written into history. I'll never forget the day that I was awarded this medal..."

Levi's voice trailed off as he became swept up in his memories.

The Protector Chapter 716

Everyone held their breath as Sylas saluted and announced. "Salute to our Chief! Salute to our Hero!"

...

Sylas' voice was like a wake-up call to everyone else as they quickly saluted to the God of War with their body trembling and eyes filled with tears.

The tears weren't only for the honor to meet face to face with the God of War, but also the stories behind each and every badge that he earned.

The man standing in front of them was the protector of Erudia, the one who gave them the peace they'd been living in.

Everyone was excited. It was as if they had returned to the military camp.

"We will fight by your side if there is war!" Sylas shouted and everyone repeated after her.

Even Phoenix straightened his body as he remembered the time when they fought the invasion from the alliance.

It was a time of darkness, but also a time of miracle.

As the world thought that Erudia was going to fall, Levi led the army to turn the tide, and defeated the Eighteen-Nation Alliance.

The God of War had slain thousands of god-like warriors sent by the eighteen nations with his iron fists. It was that fight that made Erudia one of the superpowers it was now instead of a developing country.

The three had their bloods drawn from their faces.

They didn't need to suspect Levi's identity anymore for the truth had been spoken.

Levi glared at the three of them and challenged, "Do you still want to compare the number of medals?"

"I-I-I-I..." Brad Guzman was at a loss for words.

"I have dozens of medals here. Do you need me to tell you the story behind each and every one of these medals?"

The three had nothing more to say except kneeling before him and begged for forgiveness. They didn't even come close to comparing themselves with Levi.

Levi scoffed and slowly put his medals back into the case before setting his eyes on Brad's medals on the table. "I was going to let this slide, but you three have crossed the line. I was the one who risked my life to complete the mission for these medals and yet you guys took credit for it. Now, are you still claiming that these belong to you?"

"N-no..." Brad and his partners in crime quickly shook their heads.

"Even if I ignore your wrongdoings, I still have to take back whatever that belongs to me. Even if it's a third-class award, it's still an honor that belongs to me. It's proof of my sacrifice. Phoenix, take these medals away and strip them of their achievements!" Levi ordered.

The Protector Chapter 717

“Yes, Sir!” Phoenix responded immediately.

“You guys are worthless!” Levi roared and threw Brad and his companions out, leaving the others cowering in fear.

The purpose of the gathering was to discuss how they should welcome Ezra. Yet, instead of doing that, it turned into an event where they witnessed the true face of the God of War.

Everyone finally understood the reason for Ezra, Western Region’s commander-in-chief, would come to South City. They finally had their answer.

He came to see the God of War.

“You guys don’t have to be so tense,” Levi stated. “I still have something to announce. Sylas, please.”

Sylas nodded. “The boss I was talking about earlier is the Chief. I have been hired as a bodyguard to the Chief’s wife.”

“Let me make it simple. I’m planning to build an indestructible security team at Morris Group, so I would be glad if anyone here is willing to join us,” Levi explained.

“Count me in!”

“Me too.”

...

Everyone began to volunteer as if it was a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity, which it was. To them, there would be no bigger honor than to work for the God of War.

“I don’t need to be paid!” one shouted.

“No, everyone here is getting paid according to the market price. I only have one request. Guard the company with all your might.”

Levi was feeling very happy after taking care of that matter. The safety of Morris Group’s employees was now solved.

With that, Levi and Phoenix left so that the gathering could continue.

On his way back, Levi ran into a familiar face.

It was none other than Tyler, who was leading the Joneses.

The building that Morris Group and Oriental Star Group now owned once belonged to Triple Group, a high-rise building that was situated in the center of South City.

Tyler and his people were inspecting the surroundings so that they could build a statue of the God of War.

“Hold it! Did I say you could leave?” Wales stopped Levi.

“What do you want?” Levi was a little angered by Wales’ action as that spoiled his mood. “Looks like you are playing it smart and aren’t messing around with the Joneses’ name.”

“Are you looking down on us?” Tyler questioned.

Levi was rendered speechless at the question as Tyler’s action was contradicted with what he said in the past.

“Whatever. Get the hell out of here. You in our way of building the statue of the God of War.” Tyler waved his hand to chase Levi away.

“What did you say?” Levi was surprised to hear his own title.

“Are you deaf? We’re looking for the best location to build a statue for the God of War!”

“Just give up. The God of War doesn’t like all these craps.”

The Protector Chapter 718

“What did you say?”

Everyone was stunned by what Levi had just spouted and stared at him unbelievably.

“The God of War won’t like it? Did you really just say that?”

“Yes, I did,” Levi nodded.

“What? Are you implying that you’re the God of War?” Tyler laughed.

“That’s right. And I don’t like it.”

“This guy is delusional!” one of the Joneses laughed as the others looked at Levi as if he was a total buffoon.

They would rather believe that Levi had a billion in his account rather than him being the God of War as the punishment for impersonating the guardian of the country could land one in jail for a few decades.

“Get the hell out of here! Like it has anything to do with you!” Tyler laughed. “I can assure you that the God of War will be very fond of this new statue!”

“We Joneses will be the first to build a statue of the God of War in Erudia to commemorate his great contribution and achievement to the country.” Tyler declared proudly.

The Joneses had a smug look on their faces. If they could complete the statue, everyone in Erudia, and even the whole world, would shift their focus to their family. They could gather wealth like no one had ever seen before.

They also believed that the God of War would like the statue, and that was their main goal.

“You’re just wasting your time. Still, do whatever you like,” Levi said and turned to leave.

If the Joneses were erecting a statue of him to show their gratitude, Levi would’ve let them be. He would even thank them for doing that.

The only problem was that the Joneses were never the kind people who would do things that wouldn’t benefit them, and Levi did not like that one bit.

“Stop! Who do you think you are?” Wales yelled while Tyler stood next to him with his arms crossed. The latter always looked down on Levi as he was an important member of the Prince Gang in South Hampton. If any of his friends learned that he had a cousin like Levi, they would definitely make fun of him.

“You’re just like your mother, a nobody! You don’t deserve to be a part of our family!” Tyler mocked as Levi left.

Even though their progress was held back a little by their run in with Levi, the Joneses finally found a perfect place and began their construction of the statue.

As for Levi, he put his back into the investment conference as soon as he got back to Morris Group since he promised Tim that he would handle it.

Levi even transferred Aurora from North Hampton to South City for the project.

Without wasting much time, Aurora got a handful of tender documents for Levi, which he read through thoroughly one by one.

He had high hopes for businesses from other regions to develop in South City through the investment conference.

The Protector Chapter 719

Levi was a genius in doing business from the beginning. He could instantly make out which companies would benefit South City as soon as they got their investments. The most important part of the project was to generate healthy competition in the industry.

“The Joneses?” Levi raised a brow when he noticed the Joneses’ tender.

He immediately frowned after reading through the document as the Joneses were trying to win the bid by using their royal status. The tender documents that the Joneses submitted were in a complete mess.

Thus, Levi marked a huge red cross on the document without even thinking twice.

“Oh? Isn’t this Logan and Jennie’s company?” Levi smiled. It was evident that they were trying to gain a huge profit from the conference.

Another red cross was marked at the second document.

The next tender document belonged to the Black family, which was drafted by Zoey. The only problem was that Robert and Meredith’s names were noted down as the people in charge instead of Zoey’s.

Levi took the matter into his own hands and crossed Robert and Meredith’s names off and replaced it with Zoey’s name before marking a tick on the document.

For the next few days, Levi was completely immersed in inspecting all the tender documents that were submitted and came up with a list of names.

On the other hand, there existed a powerful group called the South City Chamber of Commerce. They held the power to control every market in South City.

Yet, they would use their influence to cut off all investors from other regions in order to monopolize the businesses in South City and had caused a great deal of trouble because of that.

In the office of the chamber, the president and a few directors were holding a meeting.

Wardell Becker, President of South City Chamber of Commerce, spoke in a cold tone. "The investment conference is just days away. I noticed quite a number of companies from other regions are trying to do business here by winning the bid."

"I noticed that as well. The policy is encouraging them to develop and invest here. They are going crazy!" Joel Fraley, Vice-president of the South City Chamber of Commerce, nodded in agreement.

"The three hundred billion should belong to South City! Technically speaking, we, the South City Chamber of Commerce should be in charge of handling the money! Why would the higher-ups give such an important task to a young'un instead?"

"I know, right? If he divides the money to the companies from other regions, we would lose a lot of shares!"

The rest of the directors agreed as well.

"That's what I'm worried about the most. I've heard that this young man is an advocate of attracting investment from other regions to promote the development of Quebec! What a load of crap!" Wardell scolded.

"Don't worry. As long as we butt into this matter, even companies from other cities of Quebec can't even get a single cent from the project! That money belongs to us!" Joel stated confidently.

Their views were simple. To keep the three hundred billion away from companies from other regions. As long as the money was distributed to companies in South City, they could make a lot of profits from it.

“Mr. Becker, what should we do?” one of the directors asked.

“We just have to make the head of the project one of our own,” Wardell suggested.

“I’ve already found out who the head is. He’s Levi Garrison from North Hampton,” Joel said. “He’s not part of the business circle. I’m confused as to why the higher-ups would let him lead such an important project.”

The Protector Chapter 720

“That’s none of our business. We just have to know who the person in charge is,” Wardell smiled. “Joel, you and I are going to pay this Levi a visit.”

As Levi was leaving his office, he was greeted by a group of people.

“Are you Mr. Levi Garrison?” Joel asked. “We’re from the South City Chamber of Commerce. Is it possible to have some of your time? We would like to make a proposition.”

Levi was surprised that the Chamber of Commerce would catch up to him so soon.

They most probably found out about me when Aurora was moving the documents.

“Of course.” Levi followed Joey into a Lincoln where a person was waiting inside for him.

“Allow me to introduce myself first. I’m Wardell Becker, President of the South City Chamber of Commerce. We would like to discuss with you about the upcoming investment conference.”

“Go on.”

“Even though we aren’t part of the government, we are still an organization formed by the businessmen of South City. We represent the interest of all businessmen in South City and to stabilize the market. We heard that Mr. Garrison is interested in attracting businesses from other regions to invest in our city. We believe that this would harm our interests, which is something that we cannot ignore.”

“I see,” Levi smiled. “Then, what do you propose?”

“We propose that while companies from other regions could participate in the bid, only businesses from South City can win the projects. As long as you agree to our proposition, this will be yours,” Wardell smiled as he handed Levi a check.

Levi took a peek at the numbers and wasn’t surprised to see a hundred million written on it.

“These women will be yours as well.” Wardell pointed at the four gorgeous women sitting in the back seat. Calling them supermodels would be an understatement.

“This car could be yours too. Mr. Garrison, I know you hold the power to decide who can or can’t invest in the project. That power will still belong to you, as long as you make sure that only the businessmen from South City will win all the bids. With this, it will be a win-win situation. You also get something from it. Isn’t it a great deal?”

“You’re right. No matter what I choose, it won’t harm my interest.” Levi returned the smile.

Both Wardell and Joel were glad to see that Levi was on their side, or so they thought.

“From this day onwards, you’ll be a friend of the South City Chamber of Commerce. Just let us know if you run into any troubles in the future,” Wardell offered as he tried to hold his laughter back.

The president of the chamber could not believe he could dupe the young man in front of him so easily. He was already picturing the huge amount of shares he could get when the three hundred billion find its ways to the businesses in South City.

His net worth would shoot up by a least ten times.

Levi looked at the check and smiled, which froze both Wardell and Joel.

The Protector Chapter 721

The reason being it was a mocking smile, and it puzzled both Wardell and Joel.

Levi opened the door and got out. "I don't need any of you to tell me what to do."

With that, he slammed the door of the car that was worth millions as hard as he could.

Wardell and Joel turned to stare at each other.

"Did he just reject our offer?" Wardell could not believe what was happening.

"So, we're playing this the hard way, eh?" Joel immediately chased after Levi and stopped him. "Stop right there!"

"What now?"

"Are you sure you want to refuse our offer? Either you're our friend or you're our enemy. If you choose to be the latter, you'll meet your maker soon enough."

Joel's threat was clear. If Levi refused to agree to their terms, his life would be in danger.

"Do whatever you want. Your threat means nothing to me."

It was Levi's turn to hold his laughter back. Not only had he dealt with Kurt, President of the South Hampton Chamber of Commerce, he'd also taken down most of the big shots in South City.

He could not believe that even after that amazing feat, there would still be some mindless people trying to mess with him.

Yet, dealing with businessmen was a different problem. If one messed with their interest, they would retaliate even worse than the underworld.

Moreover, the South City Chamber of Commerce represented all of the businessmen in South City. To them, the three hundred billion that Levi was charged to distribute belonged to these businessmen.

If Levi decided to attract businesses from other regions, their profit would be affected. If things got out of hands, the business owners would retaliate.

Levi finally understood the reason Tim assigned him to handle the investment conference.

The local businesses had contributed a lot to the development of South City, which led to an ease in related policies. As things went on, the South City Chamber of Commerce became the organization in charge of local businesses.

It was the same situation with Triple Group robbing Scott of his money. It was impossible for Tim to stay calm at that incident, but the Triple Group did contribute a lot to society and it would put him in an awkward position if he were to accuse them openly.

It explained why Tim let Levi handled the situation. He hoped that the young man could solve the problem in his place and cleanse the local business circle at the same time.

“You leave us with no choice then!” Joel roared.

For the next few days, Levi was followed by Joel’s people. Since he didn’t want to waste time on some nobodies, the God of War decided to ignore them.

For the time being, Levi still stayed in the Guardian Mansion and Joel's men found out about it.

“Now that we know where he lives, it's time to show him some colors!” Wardell grinned and ordered Joel. “Get it done! I want him to come and beg for forgiveness tomorrow!”

The Protector Chapter 722

As the clock struck midnight, four excavators drove straight towards the Guardian Mansion with a truck full of armed men behind them.

The four excavators lined up in front of the compound and drove straight into the walls, tearing them down.

The military canines barked endlessly at the excavators, but all four vehicles did not reduce their speed and continued to tear down the buildings.

They only had one order from Joel, to take down the building that Levi was temporarily staying at.

Levi rushed down the stairs as soon as he heard the commotion. The sight that first came into his eyes angered him right away.

The God of War never even blinked when Elijah the Warlord sent thousands of soldiers to attack his country. The only thing he feared was when normal citizens played dirty. Levi never expected that Wardell and Joel would do something so absurd.

One of the excavator stopped only half a meter in front of Levi.

The driver glared at Levi and yelled, "Get out of the way! Don't blame me if you get hurt!"

Of course, it was just a hoax as these normal drivers wouldn't dare to harm people.

Yet, Levi remained standing there as he glared back at the driver like a fierce beast ready to pound its prey. The drivers were so intimidated by his stare that they froze.

Suddenly, dozens of men walked down from the truck with iron bars in their hands. They walked up to Levi and ordered, "Get out of my sight! We have been ordered to take this place down!"

Unlike the excavators, these people received the order to beat anyone who tried to stop them.

"Do you even know what this place is?" Phoenix's face darkened.

Everyone was furious as the uninvited guests were trying to take down a place where even the Gates family wouldn't dare step foot on.

"So what? Like hell we care where this is!" the leader of the group scoffed. "I'll only say it once! Get out of our way or we'll beat you to a pulp! I'm going to count to three! One! Two! Three!"

Even after finishing the countdown, Levi, Phoenix and White Tiger remained standing still.

"Fk! Take these three idiots down!" the leader ordered and everyone charged.

When the person leading the charge came close to Levi, a loud bang could be heard and that person was sent flying away with a kick.

That person flew for more than a hundred meter. When he fell to the fall, his body twitched for a bit before passing out.

Everyone froze and stared at Levi. Even White Tiger and Phoenix could not believe their eyes.

It was clear that Levi was furious.

The Protector Chapter 723

Levi cracked his knuckles as he got ready to take them down in one go.

His steps hastened as he rushed towards them, giving each of them a heavy blow.

In less than thirty seconds, Levi knocked them all out and the fifty men dropped to the ground motionless.

Their bones were broken and it was difficult to tell if they could even survive.

Levi would have never lifted a finger against them—not unless they messed with his home.

So this time, he struck them down mercilessly.

Even White Tiger was shocked.

This was the first time he had seen the God of War this angry ever since he came back to North Hampton.

It must be because Levi loved his home deeply.

For six full years, he never hesitated to fight courageously at the front line just to protect the land he called home.

Although this Guardian Mansion was just a temporary shelter for Levi, White Tiger could tell this place was home to him.

Levi would not spare anyone who destroyed his home.

“Bam!”

“Crash!”

He kicked the excavator hard and the strong impact dug the whole machine deep into the ground.

Everyone was dumbstruck. But before they could come back to their senses, the whole excavator broke and crumbled into pieces in a loud boom.

The deafening clangor did not seem to stop. Levi booted another excavator and it fell apart too.

And just like that, he effortlessly broke two excavators.

His power left everyone terrified.

What kind of superpower is this?

Did he really just destroy two ten-ton excavators?

Is he even human?

He must be a God!

Four frightened excavator operators scrambled to flee the scene like madmen.

Never in their life had they seen anything like this before.

“Should I go check out who’s behind this?” Azure Dragon asked Levi.

“There’s no need. I know who did it.” Levi’s voice was ominous and suppressed as he looked at the orange sky.

The sun was already breaking through the horizon.

Over on the other side, Wardell and Joel happily gathered in the South City Chamber of Commerce.

“Mr. President, we’ll get some good news real soon. I bet that bastard is shivering in fear right now!” Joel mocked.

Hearing this, a sinister smile broke out on Wardell’s face as he said, “Wanna mess with me, young man? You won’t stand a chance against me!”

“I know right? He probably didn’t know hundreds of people have died in our hands! Who does he think he is?” Joel sneered.

As the two were gloating about their evil plan, Pamela and Bailey from the Black family arrived.

It seemed like the Black family was in full swing preparing for the project.

They heard that the South City Chamber of Commerce always had good connections, so they got in touch with them.

The Black family was here to ask for a big favor.

“Thanks for taking care of the investment conference,” Bailey said, handing Wardell a check.

Wardell took a look at the figure on the check—5 million. He smiled.

This was the second time the Black family visited him and paid him the same amount.

They were really generous.

“Don’t worry about it. I’ll make sure everything is settled nicely.”

The Protector Chapter 724

Wardell finally agreed.

The Black family was really desperate. This meant money would keep flowing in for Wardell.

This deal was worth three hundred billion.

After he sent the Black family off, Wardell started thinking.

He just got the money and he was sure more would come in the future.

Wardell planned on buying two villas in North Hampton and South Hampton, each for his two little lovers.

Just as Wardell was busy fantasizing about his life, the sound of frantic footsteps echoed down the corridor.

The excavator operators came rushing in.

“What’s up?” Wardell questioned with a hint of surprise in his voice.

Joel’s eyes opened wide in curiosity.

The operators were panting and gasping for air. Their legs gave way and they collapsed to the ground out of fear.

“We... we saw him! The monster!” they gasped.

“What on earth are you talking about?” Wardell shouted.

His gut feeling told him something was not right.

“Did you demolish the place?” Joel asked.

“Yeah. We did,” the operators replied.

“Good,” Joel said shortly, giving a sigh of relief.

Now everything was settled.

He almost thought they failed the mission.

“But we messed with the wrong person,” the operators explained.

Before they could even continue, the secretary dashed in and reported, “Mr. President, there’s a guy called Levi outside.”

“I knew it! I knew he would come!” Wardell exclaimed with a haughty laugh.

Joel waved his hands, gesturing the operators to leave them alone.

They turned and walked away awkwardly.

Soon enough, Levi arrived.

Wardell and his lot greeted him with the brightest smile.

“So? Have you finally made up your mind? You should’ve just done things our way. Why force us to make things ugly?” Joel jeered.

Wardell stretched and rested his legs on his office table as he smiled contently. “You’ll get everything I offered you yesterday the moment you sign the contract. I’ll also give you an extra fifty million,” he said.

Wardell signaled his secretary, who quickly came up to him with two checks worth one hundred and fifty million in total.

This had always been Wardell's best tactic—offend first and placate later.

This was how he control other people.

“Alright, since what's done is done, let's be friends from now on. Let's bury the hatchet, shall we?” Joel suggested. He walked towards Levi, wanting to give him a friendly pat on the shoulder.

Bang!

Before Joel could even touch him, Levi raised his leg and kicked him aside.

Joel landed right on the table and the table broke in half.

He groaned as his face contorted in pain.

The others watched in horror because they did not expect Levi to attack Joel. But only Joel knew full well the intensity of Levi's kick.

Levi's cold glare swept across the room as he said, “You guy's shouldn't have touched my home.”

His voice was calm, but everyone felt the chilling threat in his voice.

“What are you doing? How dare you raise your hand against us?” Wardell shouted.

The Protector Chapter 725

Joel looked at Levi and cried out in anger, “How dare you do this to me? I’ll kill you!”

Who does he think he is?

It’s time I send him to hell!

“Take him down!” Joel commanded.

A few men in black quickly rushed in and surrounded Levi.

They were personal bodyguards hired by the South City Chamber of Commerce just to protect Wardell and the others.

These bodyguards had killed countless people throughout their service to the chamber of commerce.

But still, Wardell felt fearful seeing Levi’s glare.

He retreated unknowingly before he shouted at Levi again. “I’m giving you one last chance. If you beg for your life and listen to us now, we won’t hold this against you. If not, don’t even think about leaving this place alive!” Wardell threatened.

The thirty bodyguards charged towards Levi but he remained unmoved.

He let off a slight scoff and kicked away the chair blocking his way.

“As I said, you shouldn’t have touched my home,” Levi reiterated.

He was enraged. Now that he saw the culprits himself, Levi's anger intensified.

White Tiger would have been petrified seeing Levi like this.

"A stubborn mule. Get rid of him!" Wardell ordered.

Just as the bodyguards rolled their sleeves getting ready to beat Levi up, a commotion burst out outside.

"What's happening outside?" Wardell turned around and asked.

Wardell and a few others quickly flocked to the window to check out what was happening outside.

Their face turned pale as they processed what they saw.

Fear and horror seized them and they could not even bring themselves to talk.

Seeing their reaction, Joel struggled to get on his feet so he could go over and take a look. "What's the matter? What is it?" he asked worriedly.

Joel was struck with terror when he saw it.

He dropped to the ground weakly and his lips quivered in fear.

Outside their building, countless battle tanks lined up in an orderly manner, besieging the building and leaving them with no exit route.

There were even tens of fighting vehicles following close behind.

Armed soldiers disembarked from the vehicles and tanks as they marched concertedly towards the Chamber of Commerce.

Soon, the thuds of their footsteps could be heard drumming down the corridor.

In a split of a second, the soldiers kicked down the door and swarmed in, filling up the spacious meeting room in no time.

Each of the soldiers was fully equipped with weapons and they pointed their guns at Wardell and his friends as they awaited a command.

The bodyguards clambered to hide under the table as they saw they were clearly outnumbered. Some of them were so scared they wet their pants and a pungent smell soon wafted through the crowded room.

“Move! Let me see the bitch who dared to wreak havoc in the restricted military zone! I’m gonna beat the shit out of him!” A coarse and assertive voice came from the multitude of soldiers.

The Protector Chapter 726

Following the commanding voice, a bulky man in uniform appeared with a machine gun on his shoulder.

After making an entrance, the army official stood still and surveyed the people. He spotted Levi and quickly saluted, saying, "Chief, this is South City Warzone Black Panther Regiment's Zebedee reporting!"

It turned out that the Guardian Mansion Levi was temporarily living in was Black Panther's territory.

As soon as he found out that someone tore down the Guardian Mansion, Zebedee summoned the regiment and hunted the culprits down.

"Chief?" Wardell and Joel looked at Levi in disbelief.

It instantly dawned upon them why Tim entrusted the investment conference project to Levi.

Because he was a big shot in the army!

They thought Levi was merely someone Tim had connections with.

Wardell and Joel never once thought that Levi could actually be someone important.

Zebedee pointed his machine gun towards Wardell and shouted in a condescending tone. "Who gave you the permission to knock down the buildings in the Guardian Mansion? You've got some nerves, haven't you? Well, it's true that we are not supposed to harm innocent civilians, but you fools had brought it on yourself after what you did!"

“Why is your gun pointed at us? What do you want to do?” Wardell’s voice became shaky.

“Hah! You’re scared? I bet this is not the first time you’ve done something like this. I’m not gonna go easy on y’all!” Zebedee threatened.

Levi walked impassively towards the oval table. With a kick, he shattered the table into pieces.

Dust and debris dispersed in the air before settling into a thick layer of grey powder on the ground.

“Please! Please stop!” Wardell begged, his voice choked by a cough.

The others quickly followed suit and begged for their lives.

“Chief, it’s our fault! Please forgive us. If we knew it was you, we wouldn’t do something like this!” the others implored.

“There will be a reckoning for people like you and I mean business. Go through their criminal records and investigate everything, including their exploitation of other people, trespassing of military bases, and demolition of public property!” Levi ordered.

Wardell Becker swooned and dropped to his knees upon hearing this.

This could be the end of him.

On the same day itself, the South City Chamber of Commerce was shut down for further investigation.

Many people were thrilled to hear this.

Many merchants had long been mistreated by the South City Chamber of Commerce; many had even died because they went against the organization.

Many of them had long coveted justice—and it was finally delivered.

Words spread around in no time and people cheered, especially those lower-level merchants. Their rights and benefits had long been abused and overlooked—and they were vindicated at last.

Of course, this called for a celebration.

It turned out that the South City Chamber of Commerce's corruption was way more entrenched than thought.

The organization had siphoned public funds worth more than thousands of billions.

After confiscating the embezzled fund, the authorities channeled the money into infrastructure maintenance.

The public was appeased by how the case was handled and Levi could finally breathe a sigh of relief.

Indeed, one man's misfortune was another's fortune.

The Black family was now in hot waters.

The Protector Chapter 727

The ten million they spent were all in vain.

Since the investment conference was already around the corner, they now put all their hopes on Zoey.

Meredith and Robert beckoned Zoey over and inquired about how things had been progressing.

Zoey said she had done everything she could—but she was still unsure about how things would turn out.

Nevertheless, she remembered what Levi told her.

He said the results were entirely within his control.

Since Levi was so confident, she should also trust him.

They would face it together even if they lost.

“I think the project will be ours!” Zoey said.

“Are you sure?” Meredith’s eyes glimmered with hope.

Robert was so excited he stood up and exclaimed, “Really? Are we gonna win the project?”

“Of course! We will nail it!” Zoey repeated. She was sure Levi would make it.

This was how much Zoey trusted her husband—she trusted him no matter what came their way.

As long as it was something Levi was confident about, she would stand by him without a doubt.

“That’s great! Success has always been on your side, I’m sure it will be the same this time too!” Meredith said, almost bursting into tears of joy.

This project was worth fifty billion. This meant the Black family would pocket at least tens of billions of profit.

This was a big fortune.

“But I have a condition,” Zoey said.

“What is it?” they asked unanimously.

“This project will be under the Black family, but I want to be in charge of all the details,” Zoey pronounced her condition.

“What?” they murmured. They did not seem pleased with what they just heard.

How could Zoey be the only person in charge of how the project was rolled out?

This was unreasonable.

“No way. This is the Black family’s project, how can we let an outsider run things?” one of them protested.

“Yeah! It won’t look good on us if outsiders find out about it!” another agreed.

Voices of disagreement quickly spread among them.

“Zoey, you should stand clear of the Black family’s finances to prevent any misunderstandings, don’t you think so?” Jennie suggested.

“Yeah, I agree. Imagine what would the old folks make of it?” Logan said.

“This is my condition. It’s either y’all accept it or just forgo the project,” Zoey said adamantly.

“Alright then. Grandma and grandpa accept this condition. You will take full charge of the project!” Meredith promised.

After getting a satisfactory answer, Zoey finally left.

After she left, Bailey and other people grumbled. “Dad, mom, how could y’all allow that?”

“Well, we just need to wait till the project comes to us. By then she won’t even have a say in it,” Meredith said gleefully.

“But I thought you promised her?” someone asked.

“I don’t have to admit it! When the time comes, all of you just have to be my witnesses and say I never promised her anything.”

Hearing what Meredith said, the Blacks smiled slyly.

The Protector Chapter 728

They used the same trick all over again. They knew it was someone from the Black family who took the ten million check last time, yet they accused Levi.

This time around, they knew Zoey would not stand a single chance against them.

However, Quintus was a little worried. He said, "Grandma, that won't be foolproof right? You still have a reputation to keep."

"I will gladly trade my reputation for the Black family. Besides, given Zoey's unswerving loyalty to Levi, this project will ultimately go to him if we allow her to have her way," Meredith said.

"True. We should never let Zoey have things her way," Logan and Jennie said.

Zoey was too naive to believe the Black family.

Meredith was a reliable person in Zoey's eyes and she took her word for it.

But all this was just an illusion.

The day went by quickly and at last, the investment conference commenced.

Merchants from all over convened at the exhibition center.

Thanks to the collapse of the South City Chamber of Commerce, local low-level merchants got the chance to participate.

As the person in charge of the event, Levi had to make sure everything worked out well.

As soon as he arrived at the exhibition center, a familiar voice held his step.

“This must be an unlucky day. I can’t believe we ran into him again!”

It was Tyler.

He and his friends were here for the investment conference as well.

Their status gave them all the reason to behave snobbishly—the Jones family was the biggest player in the conference today.

The South Hampton royal family came second to none.

“Are you here for the investment conference?” Wales asked.

“Else why am I here?” Levi said.

“Aren’t you just a security guard? Why? Are you here to bid for an investment project too? Or you’re here because you want to sell your identity as the Jones family’s grandson so you can earn some money?” Wales teased.

Hearing this, Tyler warned Levi, saying, “Don’t let me catch you sneakily using our family’s name. I won’t let you off the hook that easily!”

“Sadly, I’m not here to bid for an investment project,” Levi replied accordingly.

“Then?” Tyler asked.

“I’m here to decide who wins the project,” Levi answered.

“What a joke! Are you trying you say you’re in charge here?” Wales derided.

“Not bad! I see you like role playing,” Tyler joked, shaking his head in disbelief.

Two days ago, Levi said he was the God of War; today, he said he was the chair of the investment conference.

.....

This was pure foolishness to Tyler.

Dude, this is not how you get our family's attention.

You'll need to have some substance. If your net worth were thousands of billions, we might consider taking you in.

Or at least, you should be the King of War—else don't expect us to receive you as one of us.

You're just a nobody!

Levi glanced at the Joneses and said, "You guys may leave now. You won't get anything out of the investment conference today."

The Protector Chapter 729

Tyler was taken back.

What do you mean?

We will not get anything out of the conference today?

Are you kidding me?

It's the organizers' honor our family graced the event today!

We won't land a good investment deal?

That's utterly preposterous!

If our family failed to strike a deal, no one can!

Our family controls pretty much everything that happens here.

“Don't be absurd! No one dares to cross the Jones family,” Tyler said with a crooked smirk on his face.

None of them believed anything of the sort would happen.

“Don't say I didn't warn you when you get chased out later,” Levi advised before striding into the venue.

“Hah! What a contemptuous fellow! Who does he think he is? We'll watch and see who gets driven off later,” Tyler said as the lot swaggered in.

Upon arrival, the Joneses headed for the front row seat.

“Move!” Wales yelled as he dismissed those merchants who had already taken their seats in the first row.

Everyone was seething in silence—they knew full well that woe would betide whoever upset the Joneses.

But not long after they sat down, a few guards came up to them and started asking them to leave. “You guys can’t sit here, please leave now,” they requested.

“What?” Tyler and the others could not believe they heard the guards right.

“What are you talking about?” Tyler asked.

“Please leave now, you guys are not on the guest list of the conference today,” the guards answered.

Tyler gave off a laugh. “Hey, I think you got the wrong people. Don’t you know who we are?” he questioned.

“Yes, we are well aware that you guys are the Joneses. Please, make a move and leave before we have to chase you all out,” the guards said in a serious and harsh tone.

Tyler and the others were completely stunned.

What? Wait! Isn't this what that fellow said earlier on?

They are legit asking us to leave?

No way!

“Well, since you know we are the Joneses, who gave you the guts to ask us to leave?” Tyler interrogated.

“Please leave now! We are not here to answer questions!” the guards ordered.

“I’m sorry but there is nothing you can do to make us leave,” Tyler said nonchalantly.

I doubt anyone in the South City has the balls to do anything to us!

Wales and the others followed suit and hoarded the seats without moving a muscle.

The guards took out their walkie-talkies and asked for aid, “This is Team X speaking, please send back up!”

In less than a minute, around ten security guards came to the scene.

Without another word, the guards dragged them and threw them out of the exhibition center.

“Hey? What do you think you’re doing?! Let me go! I’m the eldest son of the Jones family! Don’t you dare touch me!” the Joneses started shouting as they struggled to free themselves but to no avail.

“Who do you think you are? I’ll make sure you guys pay up!” Wales hurled threats at the guards after every one of them was chased out of the center.

“Sure! We will be waiting for the Jones family! Make sure you get my name right! I’m South City Black Panther Regiment’s First Lieutenant Sirius!” one of the men in uniform retaliated.

The Protector Chapter 730

“I’m South City Black Panther Regiment’s Captain Dave!” another one reported.

“And I’m South City Black Panther Regiment’s First Lieutenant Fillin!” another soldier stated.

.....

After each of them took turns to announce their identity. Tyler and the others were startled.

What? The organizers mobilized the military soldiers because of this investment conference? What the heck?

“We’re so sorry, we must’ve been out of our mind. Please forgive us,” Tyler and Wales quickly apologized.

Shoot! What were we thinking? They are the military!

I hope this never gets to the God of War! We need to make a good impression!

But this is really weird! Why would the investment conference deploy South City Warzone’s military personnel?

Also, everything happened exactly as Levi said!

Wales and Tyles eyed each other in confusion.

“Don’t tell me Levi Garrison is behind this. Is he the person in charge here?” Wales asked the others.

Tyler frowned as he rubbed his chin, thinking. "This is really weird. We are just here to attend the investment conference. Maybe this really has something to do with Levi Garrison."

Just as they were busy trying to figure things out, a car pulled up in front of the exhibition center, and out of the car came Zoey Lopez.

She did not go into the center herself, but rather, she sent her secretary.

"Tyler, do you know who this woman is? She's Levi's wife!"

Wales did a thorough research about Levi and he knew exactly who this woman was with just a glance.

"Let's go and ask her!" Tyler said, leading the others towards Zoey.

"Are you Levi's wife?" Tyler inquired.

"Yes, and you are?" Zoey replied as she squinted her bright and beautiful eyes in confusion.

She looked at the man in front of her from the top to the toe, wondering if he was Levi's friend.

"This brat scored big, didn't he? His wife is too good for him!" the Joneses said among themselves.

Tyler smiled courteously at the charming lady and said, "Ms. Lopez, if I were you, I'd take a good look at who I married instead of being too trusting. I don't know who Levi said he was, but he is not who he claimed to be. The Jones family will never acknowledge him and we have nothing to do with him."

"Thanks for giving me a forewarning, but don't you worry. Levi is not even interested in returning to the family," Zoey replied politely but tersely.

She would never allow anyone other than herself to criticize Levi—she would readily defend him in front of others.

“Don’t say I didn’t warn you then,” Tyler replied with a smirk as all of them turned and left.

Zoey watched them leave. A question popped up in her brain when she was talking with Tyler.

Is this how Levi nailed the project?

The leader of the Morris Group would not just sit and watch.

Zoey could not figure out how Levi did it at first, but after talking to Tyler, she thought she knew.

Levi probably bid for the project by telling people he was the grandson of the Joneses.

If people knew he was a member of a South Hampton royal family like the Jones family, getting a project worth fifty billion would not be a problem at all.

So this is how he did it.

Zoey felt really touched.

She knew how much Levi hated that family, and yet he said he was one of them just to help her get the project.

The Protector Chapter 731

Levi revealed his identity – the grandson of the Jones family – to bid this project for me.

After the investment conference ended, Zoey's secretary handed over a project proposal to her excitedly.

“Ms. Lopez, we won the bid! We obtained the investment!”

When Zoey flipped through the project proposal, she couldn't help but feel shocked.

It was indeed a project worth fifty billion of investment.

At this moment, Levi happened to come into the room.

“Did you get it?” He asked smilingly.

“Yes, thank you for your help!” Zoey immediately thanked him.

However, Levi was curious that she didn't ask him how he won the bid.

He wasn't aware that Zoey thought he utilized his identity as the grandson of the Jones family to bid on the project.

“Okay, I'll tell Grandpa the news now.”

When Zoey returned to the villa of the Black family, almost all family members were already waiting for her.

They smiled in unison as soon as Zoey entered the house.

“Zoey, how is it?” Meredith asked.

“Grandma, I did it! I have obtained the fifty-billion project! Here’s the information about the project!”

When Zoey spoke, she handed over the documents to them.

Soon, everyone was overjoyed after reading through the documents.

It is indeed a project worth fifty billion.

“Zoey you’re really awesome! You achieved it effortlessly!” Meredith complimented her.

“So, Grandma, you have to keep your word!”

“First, the Black family, including Mom and Dad, won’t interfere in the relationship between Levi and me anymore. Second, I will be fully in charge of the project worth fifty billion,” Zoey looked at Meredith and said seriously.

Puff!

All of a sudden, the atmosphere in the living room turned tenser while everyone looked somewhat sulky.

Zoey was startled once she noticed the change.

What’s going on?

The next moment, Meredith asked curiously, “Oh? Did I say that before?”

Meanwhile, Zoey was stunned when she heard it from Meredith.

Bang! She was shocked and rendered speechless as if lightning had struck her.

“Grandma, you... what do you mean? Didn’t you make me the promises? Why are you going back on your word?” Zoey asked in disbelief.

“Zoey, I’m not going back on my word. Instead, I don’t remember I have promised you such things! When did I make the promises?” Meredith answered calmly.

At the same time, Jennie and Logan added, “That’s right, Zoey, Grandma never made you such promises!”

“Besides, we were here too when you discussed with Grandma, and you never mentioned such things on that day. Zoey, are you confused? Or did you misremember it? I mean, Grandma never agreed with such things!”

Furthermore, even Robert interrupted, “Exactly. Zoey, We won’t lie to you! But the truth is you never mentioned such things on that day!”

“Hahahaha...” Since the Black family said unanimously, Zoey laughed pitifully.

She decided not to argue with them anymore.

The Protector Chapter 732

More importantly, she would never win the argument because all members of the Black family “testified” that Meredith never promised her.

What should I do?

At this moment, Robert and Meredith’s attitude flew in the face of her impression of them.

She only realized now that they were the same as Grandpa, and to a certain extent, far more shameless than him.

How could they trick me into getting the project! They don’t treat me as their family member at all!

Now, she began to understand why Levi chose not to acknowledge the Jones family as his family.

After all, the more prominent the family was, the more cold-hearted the people were.

Zoey sneered, “Grandma, I never thought that you would do such a thing! Your granddaughter is totally surprised!”

“Zoey, what do you mean? You are disrespecting your elder!” Logan immediately scolded.

“How dare you disrespect Grandma! Do you want me to slap your face?” Jennie threatened her too.

After a while, Zoey gave them a wry and pitiful smile and said, “Are you stopping me from saying it even after you guys did such a shameless thing?”

“You deserve to be slapped in the face!” As soon as Jennie finished, she came up to Zoey and lifted her palm.

Nevertheless, Zoey successfully dodged it.

“How dare you resist?” Jennie yelled furiously.

“Stop it!” Before Jennie wanted to continue slapping her, Meredith suddenly yelled.

As such, Jennie stopped and stood aside while staring at her.

Then, Meredith looked at Zoey and said, “Since you contributed a lot to the family, Grandma will take the high road and forgive you! But don’t do it ever again!”

“Exactly. You’re always obedient, yet what happened to you today? I think you must have learned the bad habits from Levi Garrison!” Robert said angrily.

Once Robert said it, everyone in the living room seemed to have recalled something.

Indeed, Zoey used to be very obedient and won't disobey us. Why is she different today?

After that, Zoey glanced at everyone in the room and said, “I don’t want the fifty billion project anymore. Take it if you want! But if any of you wishes to interfere in the relationship between Levi and me, don’t blame me for what I do in response.”

“Who are you to say such things to us?”

Robert and Meredith yelled, "As long as we are alive, don't ever think about being with Levi. We will stop you at all costs!"

"All of you can't interfere in the personal matter between the two of us!" Zoey flung the door and left once she finished.

"Look at her, why she is so bad-tempered now? Will she even respect us if she is really in charge of this project?" Jennie was apparently displeased when she said it.

"Indeed, she showed no respect to the elders now! I can't imagine how she will behave in the future!" One of them added.

Meanwhile, Meredith and Robert were exasperated.

"Damn it! She can never be together with Levi Garrison!" Meredith scolded.

After Zoey ran out of the house, she didn't cry but remained calm instead.

As a matter of fact, after Levi came back to her, she had grown up a lot and became stronger mentally.

When Zoey found Levi, she said straightforwardly, "From now on, I will live with you."

Levi was stunned for a moment. Nevertheless, his face turned somewhat pale once he sensed that something was wrong.

"Did they bully you?" Levi asked.

The Protector Chapter 733

Since Levi could sense her feelings, Zoey decided to be honest with him.

After she explained everything, he said icily, "Let's go and seek justice from the Black family! We can't just let it go!"

"I don't think it's necessary. From now on, we will stay away from each other."

Apparently, Zoey didn't wish to return to the miserable place.

"You can't be soft to them at this juncture! If you are soft to them now, they will take it as a sign of weakness and do it again!" Levi said.

"Alright, I'll go with you!" Zoey became more determined after he persuaded her.

If a similar incident happened in the past, Zoey would ask Levi to let it go and wouldn't think of seeking justice.

Meanwhile, the Black family was overjoyed because they could reap a profit worth more than ten billion from the project valued at fifty billion.

Apart from growing its wealth drastically, the family would also reap more invisible benefits such as fame and clout.

"I must admit that Zoey is indeed competent. After all, she successfully won the bid that we could never get!"

"Unfortunately, she isn't obedient anymore after being mesmerized by Levi. Otherwise, she would help our family to reap even more benefits!" Logan and Jennie said discontentedly.

After a while, Meredith also added seriously, “I think Levi Garrison most probably brainwashed her!”

“Oh? Why have you come back?”

The next moment, they saw Zoey came back to the house with Levi.

“I’m here to seek justice!” Zoey said coldly before everyone.

Initially, she didn’t want to pursue it because no one would help her. Nonetheless, now that Levi was here with her, she wasn’t afraid anymore.

“To seek Justice? Hehe, you even got your reinforcement!”

“What do you want? Do you want to create havoc in our house with Levi Garrison?”

Logan and Jennie scolded at them.

Also, Meredith gazed at her and asked, “To seek justice? Who are you seeking justice from? When did the Black family owe you justice?”

“It’s you! Grandma, you owe me justice!” Zoey said icily once Meredith finished.

“When did I owe you justice?” Meanwhile, Meredith asked her again coldly.

“I accomplished the things that I promised to you, yet what about you? What about your promises to me? Instead, you schemed with all of them by pretending that you didn’t know about the promises. Grandma and Grandpa, I respect you as elders! But what about you? Do you behave like elders when you went back on your word and distorted the truth?” She answered blandly.

“I think we should punish you!”

Logan and Jennie rushed toward her at the same time and wanted to slap her.

Bang!

However, Levi threw a kick at Logan and sent him flying before he could even touch Zoey.

As such, everyone in the living room was startled and fell silent.

When Jennie lifted her hand, he grabbed it with one of his hands and slapped her in the face with another.

“How dare you touch her? You’re asking for trouble!”

Since Levi was here, he would never allow them to bully Zoey.

On the other hand, the Black family still hadn’t uttered a word as they were totally shocked.

After a while, some of them finally broke the silence and yelled, “Levi, how dare you hit them? Do you know you have committed a grave mistake?”

The Protector Chapter 734

Jennie covered her swollen face while Logan struggled to stand up. After that, both of them stared at Levi wickedly.

Levi glanced at Meredith and scolded, "You and the old man are indeed shameless!"

"Why are we shameless? Besides, who are you to accuse us of something like this?" Meredith asked angrily.

"Did you renege on your promises to Zoey?" He asked firmly as soon as Meredith finished.

"I didn't renege on any promises. In fact, I never made such promises! Moreover, everyone in the Black family can be my witnesses!" Meredith looked unexpectedly composed even when she was lying.

"Exactly! We can testify that she never made any promises to Zoey!"

"Zoey made this up! There are no promises made whatsoever!"

The members of the Black family began to argue and asserted that Zoey made everything up.

Meanwhile, Zoey couldn't help but sneer when she felt the cold-heartedness of the Black family once again.

"Meredith, do you dare to look me in the eyes?" Zoey said furiously.

"Why not?" Meredith sneered.

“How dare you say that you didn’t promise Zoey anything? Look into my eyes and answer me with your conscience. Did you make the promises?” Suddenly, Levi interrupted and bellowed at her with a deep voice.

Much to everyone’s surprise, Meredith answered hesitantly when she met Levi’s terrifying gaze, “I... I didn’t promise her anything...”

“You hesitated! Zoey is your granddaughter, but is that how you should treat her? Is that how you behave like an elder? Don’t you ever worry that your ancestors will condemn you? Alas, you used to serve in the military. Is that how you are supposed to deceive your own granddaughter?” Levi asked a series of questions and didn’t give her a chance to interrupt.

Since Levi was rather aggressive, Meredith was frightened and breathed heavily. As her body was shivering, she dared not to look into his eyes.

“Humph! You don’t even have the guts to look at me now. You are clearly lying and feeling guilty about it! Besides, Zoey respects you a lot as an elder. Is that how you should treat her in return?” Levi continued to question Meredith.

Puff!

Actually, Meredith tried to remain composed to disguise her sense of guilt in the first place. Now that Levi kept triggering her with words, she soon couldn’t help but feel panicked.

Since Meredith couldn’t withstand his direct questioning, Robert stood up and yelled, “Who are you to question us?”

“Well, are you afraid to be questioned by me?” Levi couldn’t help but laugh when he replied.

“Why should we be afraid? The truth is no promises were made!” Even though Robert said firmly, he began to sweat from his forehead.

The Black family couldn't help but feel a sense of guilt because he was imposing and aggressive when questioning them.

In particular, his eyes looked as sharp as a knife that could pierce through their hearts in no time.

As such, many of them were petrified by merely looking into his eyes.

"Who are you to question us? This is the house of the Black family. Get out of here now!" Bailey suddenly yelled furiously.

"That's right. This is the house of the Black family. An outsider has no right to taunt us here! Get out now! Or else you shouldn't blame us when we resort to violence!"

At this time, the other members of the Black family were exasperated as well.

The Protector Chapter 735

They managed to turn their sense of guilt into a rage and vented it at Levi.

“Hehe, no one can force me to leave if we can’t get a satisfying answer tonight!”

Given that Levi made up his mind to seek justice for Zoey, he refused to settle for less.

“Zoey, what’s your motive of bringing along an outsider to make trouble here? Will you be satisfied only after Levi Garrison creates havoc to the Black family?”

Pamela began to target Zoey, knowing that she was apparently more soft-hearted.

“I...” Zoey was lost for words.

Nevertheless, Levi stood before her to face the entire Black family and said, “Come and face me! How dare you bully her instead?”

“Robert Black and Meredith Westbrook, if you two refuse to give us a satisfying answer today, I will not leave!” He said determinedly.

“Fine! Since you don’t want to leave, I’ll make sure you regret your choice!”

As Logan was infuriated, he immediately picked up the phone to call his men.

Soon, dozens of men with iron rods in their hands surrounded Levi.

“Are you certain that you refuse to leave our house? Alright, I will cripple your legs today and ditch you out!” Logan sneered at him.

At the same time, he could imagine the bloody scene in which they beat the hell out of Levi.

Robert and Meredith added heartlessly, “Beat and cripple him! We don’t mind taking care of him for the rest of his life, exactly like how we pet a dog!”

My goodness!

Zoey was nervous when she realized that the Black family was serious about it.

They really want to cripple Levi!

“Go now!”

Once Logan gave the order, all of his men rushed toward him.

Meanwhile, Zoey almost closed her eyes because she felt hopeless about what would happen next.

Bang!

She could hear that the brutal fight ensued right after she closed her eyes.

Nevertheless, about ten seconds later, the living room fell silent.

When she opened her eyes, she saw dozens of men rolled on the floor and shrieked in pain.

On the other hand, Levi stood still and was safe and sound.

Is he that strong?

Apart from Zoey, all members of the Black family were startled too.

They stared at him and couldn't believe their eyes.

In fact, no one expected that he would be strong enough to defeat dozens of men by himself.

Furthermore, Logan, who stood in front and closest to him, couldn't help but shiver.

After coming up to him, Levi lifted him and threw him out of the living room.

Bang! His bones were probably fractured when he fell.

The next moment, Levi threw a kick and smashed the table before him.

"If we can't seek justice today, I will resort to violence to solve all problems!" He said imposingly.

Meanwhile, the entire Black family stayed silent because Levi was proven too strong for them to handle.

However, Robert still plucked up the courage and said grumpily, "So, do you want to beat us all?"

Meredith immediately added, "Touch me, and you will face the consequences!"

Even Bailey had the cheek to say to Zoey, "Zoey, you have betrayed the family! How dare you inflame an outsider to beat us? Are you thinking of killing your family members for the sake of your so-called justice?"

The Protector Chapter 736

Zoey looked up at Bailey and replied, “I don’t intend to do such things but only to seek justice! Instead, you people menaced and even wanted to beat us. So, we merely exercised the right to self-defense as a result.”

“Enough! It looks like you have been totally brainwashed by Levi Garrison.”

Meredith was pissed off and continued, “Justice? No way! I will say this one more time – I never promised you anything! Instead, you made up everything by yourself! Now, I order you to leave our house along with the outsider! This is not the place for you to make trouble!”

After meeting Levi’s gaze, Zoey said firmly, “We can leave today on a few conditions. First, the Black family must promise that it will never interfere in the relationship between Levi and me. Second, I will be fully in charge of the fifty-billion project!”

“Dream on! This is impossible! We will not agree to it!”

Robert answered overbearingly, “First, the project worth fifty billion belongs to the Black family and has nothing to do with you. Second, we will stop you from marrying Levi Garrison at all costs!”

However, Levi interrupted smilingly, “Well, I do have a way to seek justice!”

After that, he dragged Logan back into the living room and moved toward them.

“What... what do you want to do?”

Meredith and the rest were scared to death.

“As I said, violence can solve all problems!” Levi sneered.

Crack!

The next moment, he threw a kick at Logan’s leg and fractured his bones.

“Ah...” Logan looked ferocious and shrieked in pain.

At this moment, the entire Black family panicked.

“You... don’t act recklessly!” Robert advised him.

Given that Levi was cruel, they were extremely afraid of the consequences.

However, since they still refused to agree to Zoey’s demands, Levi announced smilingly, “Another leg!”

Crack!

The Black family was terrified when Logan shrieked pitifully once again.

Levi Garrison is a terrifying man!

“Zoey, did you see what he did? Why didn’t you stop him!” Bailey yelled at Zoey.

Nevertheless, Zoey answered blandly, “To tell you the truth, it was actually Levi who obtained the project worth fifty billion! He did it on one condition: I have to be fully in charge of it! You have only yourself to blame for everything that turned out this way!”

“What?” The Black family was startled.

“Next will be his arms!” Levi sneered blandly.

“Grandpa, Grandma, please save me... I don’t want to die...”

Logan peed his pants because he was frightened.

“Levi, please don’t do it!”

At this time, Russell, who was on duty today, returned to the villa.

Meanwhile, the Black family was relieved to see Russel because the backbone of the family had finally arrived.

Bailey and some of them immediately screamed, “Russell, take down this wild animal now! He beat and hurt a lot of people just now!”

Much to their surprise, Russell kneeled before Levi and begged, “Levi, please give me a chance and don’t make it difficult for the Black family.”

Russell was well aware of the severe consequences if Levi was infuriated, yet the Black family didn’t understand it.

Moreover, he couldn’t do something that amounted to a disciplinary offense.

Since Levi’s identity was highly classified, he had to keep it secret at all costs.

The Protector Chapter 737

“I can leave only after I have sought justice for Zoey!” Levi replied emotionlessly.

“Grandpa, Grandma, what have you done?” After asking them, Russell eventually got the full picture of the incident.

“Grandpa, Grandma, you must be fair to Zoey, or else this will never end! Let me handle this!” Russell made the order.

Meredith and Robert looked at each other but dared not reject his suggestion.

In fact, they had no choice but to compromise to prevent Levi from creating havoc.

“Besides, you must write it down and affix your seal!” Levi demanded.

“Hey! Don’t go overboard!” Meredith yelled.

Much to her surprise, Russell immediately persuaded her and said “Grandma, listen to me. Write down their demands on a paper!”

At last, Meredith had no choice but to write down two statements to fulfill her promises to Zoey.

“Also, you must apologize!” Levi added.

“Nonsense. You are going overboard!” Meredith refused since she felt that the dignity of the family was at stake.

“Grandpa, Grandma, please save me...” At this time, Logan begged them again because he felt that his arms were almost broken.

“Alright, Zoey. It’s Grandma’s fault. I’m sorry!” Meredith finally apologized to Zoey.

“Grandma, I hope that it won’t happen again. But still, I’ve always respected you,” She replied composedly.

“You...” Meredith was exasperated deep in her heart.

She would always remember that this was the most humiliating day to her.

Much to her surprise, the humiliating day hadn’t come to an end yet.

After Meredith apologized to Zoey, Russell continued, “Grandma, I think you owe Levi justice concerning the incident about the check.”

“What? Russell, you...”

Meredith got increasingly nervous again.

Russell brought Zeek, the servant of the Black family, into the living room and continued, “Tell us everything about the check, or else I will send you to prison. Remember, I have all the evidence!”

Hence, Zeek had no choice but to explain honestly, “I took the check! It has nothing to do with Mr. Garrison!”

“My god! What have we done?”

At this time, Meredith felt humiliated but could do nothing about the dramatic turn of events.

From now on, she would be embarrassed whenever she saw Levi and Zoey.

On the other hand, Zoey was overjoyed that Levi finally cleared his name.

However, she didn't expect that the Black family had been doing similar despicable things in the past.

"Grandpa, Grandma, this is just too much!" Zoey scolded angrily.

"We did it for your own good. You will understand our kindness one day." Robert said.

At last, Zoey and Levi left the villa of the Black family after seeking justice.

"From now on, no one can ever bully you. Tell me if someone lays his hands on you again!" Levi reminded her.

On the other hand, the Black family fell silent once they left.

This was perhaps the most humiliating day in the history of the Black family.

Although Levi overbearingly made all sorts of demands, they could do nothing about it.

Hence, they were infuriated and could hardly accept the outcome.

Also, they were exasperated that Logan's legs were broken by Levi.

"No way! I can never let it go!"

Meredith said grumpily, "Exactly. If we let it go now, the Black family will hang its head in shame forever!"

Soon, all members of the Black family looked ferocious because they shared the same feeling.

The Protector Chapter 738

Logan was the most furious among all of them because his legs were broken. After a while, he said angrily, "I swear to take revenge against Levi Garrison!"

Even Jennie added, "I will tell this to the Davies family now. I'm sure they will find Levi Garrison and beat the crap out of him at all costs!"

At this time, all members of the Black family held deep grudges against him and desperately wanted payback.

Even though Russell remained silent, he would stop them from taking revenge against Levi if that really happened.

Meanwhile, once they left the villa of the Black family, Zoey heaved a long sigh of relief and shouted, "It feels so good!"

For many years, she tolerated both the Lopez and the Black families and had never been so firm like today.

She was especially overjoyed when Meredith was forced to apologize and fulfill her promises.

"By the way, you looked terrifying just now. I didn't expect you would break Logan's legs!"

As Zoey spoke, she was still a little shocked and looked at Levi curiously.

"They deserved to be beaten! Worse things might befall them if they slap you." Levi replied.

As soon as Levi finished, she hugged him and could feel the warmth exuded from him.

Levi dared to go against the prominent families and even fought the entire Black family for me.

Even if he has nothing left and becomes a nobody in the future, I will be with him forever!

At last, they chose a house built by the Triple Group.

Zoey was satisfied with it because the house was near her company.

In that case, she wouldn't go home late even if she had to work overtime in the company.

Also, she could avoid being disturbed by the Black family since the house was far from theirs.

"Should we get married as soon as possible?" It appeared that Zoey couldn't wait anymore.

She felt that it would be a ticking bomb so long as they weren't married.

However, Levi answered smilingly, "Don't worry. Others can never interfere with our relationship. Besides, I haven't finished preparing the surprise for you."

"Alright! In that case, I'll wait for the day when you marry me!" Zoey looked forward to their wedding very much.

From now on, she had to shoulder heavy responsibilities. Apart from the Oriental Star Group, she had to be in charge of the fifty-billion project.

On the other hand, Levi seemed to have more leisure time lately. He would occasionally check the progress of building their house for marriage.

The news about the arrival of Western Region's commander-in-chief Ezra Williamson at South City in a few days had become a popular topic among the residents.

After all, Ezra wanted to publicize his visit so that everyone in the city was aware of his arrival.

Hence, many wealthy and powerful figures in the city had prepared a grand welcome ceremony for him.

The Jones family even blockaded half of the airport with the help of its connections to welcome Ezra.

Furthermore, the Jones family had come all the way from South Hampton to Sapphire Villa to ensure that the preparation went well.

"Did you hear me? You must prepare everything perfectly for the welcome ceremony tomorrow!" Michael purposely reminded his employees.

The next day, the entire T1 airport terminal of the South City International Airport was blockaded.

Michael and the Joneses were waiting at the airport to welcome Ezra.

Moreover, all prominent families in South City had been here to welcome his arrival as well.

The only group that wasn't here were the ones from the warzone.

After all, it was reported outside of South City that Ezra came to the city for treatment and rest.

Nevertheless, it was actually an excuse to confuse the enemy because Ezra was safe and sound.

After waiting for quite some time, Ezra finally came out of the airport.

The Protector Chapter 739

Michael brought celebrities with him as the welcoming committees, “Welcome, Chief Williamson! You’ve been fighting hard at the frontline, so we thank you for your service!”

“On behalf of the Jones family, I would like to express our highest respect!”

Michael almost knelt in respect of Ezra before he was stopped.

“You’re too kind, Mr. Jones. I was only carrying out my duty,” responded Ezra who was dressed casually. After all, his excuse for coming back was to recover from his injuries.

“Our family made this banner just for you, Chief Williamson.”

Written on the banner, which Michael ordered to be presented, was “National Treasure”.

Although the Jones family was only doing that as a form of flattery, Ezra was definitely qualified to have that title bestowed on him.

With a wide grin on his face, Ezra accepted the banner, “You would not have spoilt me with such flattery if you knew of the prodigy in your family.”

Before Ezra came over, he did some research on the relationship between Levi and the Jones family, and what he found out was how foolish the Joneses had been to not recognize the nation’s God of War in their midst.

Instead, they put their effort on flattering me.

“Pardon me, Chief Williamson. A prodigy in our family, you said?”

“Were you referring to my son, Anson? I heard that he’s reached the top ranks in the Iron Brigade and that he’s become the right-hand man of their God of War,” asked Michael excitedly.

“What?” exclaimed Ezra in bafflement.

*I know everyone in the Iron Brigade’s top brass, and none of them has the name ‘Anson.’ Much less the right-hand man to God of War. What a load of bullsh*t!*

“Yes, that’s the one!”

Ezra was only giving Michael a perfunctory answer, but it was enough to convince Michael.

Anson really is the right-hand man to the God of War!

“We, the Jones family, finally showed our strength!” shouted Michael in excitement.

Ezra wanted so badly to knock Michael on the head for his ignorance.

The Jones family has already shown their strength with the God of War of the nation.

“This way, please. We’ve prepared the perfect place for you to heal your injuries, Chief Williamson,” invited Michael.

Since he was there to put on a show anyway, Ezra accepted the kind offer.

“After you, Mr. Jones.”

Michael was thrilled to see Ezra accepting his invitation because that meant Ezra recognized the Jones family as allies.

Convinced that he had become allies with both the God of War and Ezra, Michael was walking with his head held high.

Nobody would dare oppose the Jones family now!

In the end, Ezra decided to stay at Sapphire Villa, where the Joneses prepared a grand feast for him.

The Joneses were pleased to see Ezra accepting whatever kindness they had to offer because that meant their relationship with Ezra would only become stronger.

On the other hand, the people disagreed with Ezra leaving the warzone and spending his time in luxury with the rich and the famous.

The Protector Chapter 740

Within a short time, Ezra's popularity dropped significantly.

People were even going to Sapphire Villa deliberately to scold Ezra.

"Don't mind them, Chief Williamson. They're just jealous that we have you as our guest," comforted Michael with a smile.

"We've built a statue for the God of War and we'd like to know what you think. What do you say, Chief Williamson?" asked Tyler.

"Sure."

Afterward, Ezra followed Tyler and the others to the city center, where the ten-meter-high statue had been erected.

"What do you think, Chief Williamson? If you're satisfied with it, we can erect one for you too!" offered Tyler eagerly.

Seeing how Ezra was frowning at the statue, Michael and Tyler started to get nervous.

Is he not satisfied with the statue? If he's not, that's going to spell trouble for us.

"What's wrong, Chief Williamson?" inquired Michael.

"Whose statue is this?" asked Ezra.

"It's the God of War himself!"

“Do you know what he looks like?”

Ezra’s question hit the nail on the head.

“We don’t an actual photo of him. But from the information that we’ve gathered, that’s what he looks like,” explained Tyler.

“Bullsh*t! He doesn’t look like that! The God of War looks like... him!”

Suddenly, Ezra pointed at Levi.

“Isn’t that Levi?” asked Michael as the shocked Joneses turned to look at Levi, who just happened to be nearby.

Could Levi really be the God of War himself?

Levi did mention that he’s the God of War.

He even claimed to be the person in charge of the investment conference and drove our family out.

Could it really be him?

Ezra then continued, “You can’t just say that’s the God of War based on the information you found online! That’s like randomly picking a stranger on the streets and calling him the God of War since nobody’s actually seen him before.”

“Phew! As long as it’s not Levi.”

Michael and the others breathed a sigh of relief when they realized that Ezra pointed at Levi randomly.

“One more thing. the God of War definitely hates things like statues. If you don’t want to get on his bad side, you better remove it soon,” warned Ezra coldly.

“Really?”

Tyler and Wales exchanged perplexed looks with each other because they could not believe that Levi was actually right about the God of War’s hate for statues.

The two still felt like something was off though.

After the statue had been removed, Ezra made up an excuse to leave.

“Shadow, follow Chief Williamson and report his whereabouts to me. Do what you can to protect him,” ordered Michael.

After receiving his order, Shadow followed Ezra all the way to a remote alley and saw Ezra knelt before a man.

The Protector Chapter 741

“God of War, my lord. This is Ezra Williamson, King of War of the Western Region, at your service!” shouted Ezra.

“Get up. There’s no need for such formalities.”

Naturally, the person standing before Ezra turned out to be Levi.

Shadow, the most skillful of the Jones family, was shocked to find out that Levi was the God of War all along.

Ezra wasn’t pointing randomly after all. Levi’s the real deal!

The God of War looks like Levi because he is Levi!

Still stunned by his discovery, Shadow suddenly heard a voice asking him, “This the second time that you’ve followed me. Do you really have to wait for me to call you out?”

Shoot! I’ve been spotted!

Did he say ‘the second time’?

Shadow trembled with fear when he realized that Levi had spotted him.

Thinking that he was the best there was at hiding, Shadow never expected to be discovered by anyone.

Now that the God of War had discovered him, Shadow, clad in black, was convinced to come out to the open willingly.

He then knelt before Levi and pleaded, "Forgive me, God of War! I only followed you because I was ordered to do so."

"If I wanted it, you'd be dead already," stated Levi coldly.

"Go back to the shadows. I need you to take care of those who might follow us later," ordered Ezra who needed Shadow to deal with the spies from Wheldrake.

"Understood!" responded Shadow before disappearing again.

Ezra then informed Levi seriously, "My lord, I'll attack Wheldrake tonight when they least expect it."

"So soon?" asked Levi looking surprised, for he thought Ezra was going to stay a few more days.

"The people will only hate me more if I stay any longer. Besides, there's no better time than tonight. Once Kirin's done gathering the Beasts, we'll strike at midnight!"

"Whatever you do, just don't die on me!" encouraged Levi before giving Ezra a strong pat on the shoulder.

"So I've heard that you're remarrying Ms. Zoey soon. Unfortunately, I wouldn't be able to attend the wedding, but you can be sure you'll get my gift!"

"Come, meet my soon-to-be wife!"

Levi then brought the excited Ezra to the company.

Looking at the stranger beside Levi, Zoey was a little dumbfounded.

On the other hand, Syllas was about to explode with excitement when she saw Ezra.

It's Ezra Williamson!

Chief of the Western Region!

My true superior!

Sylas was so excited that she stumbled onto the ground before greeting Ezra, "Hello... Hello, Chief."

After looking at Ezra for quite a while, that was the only greeting Sylas could come up with.

"Chief?"

Zoey was as surprised as she was perplexed by Sylas' greeting.

Why did Sylas call him 'Chief'?

Is that his title?

"Hello there. Try not to get too excited," advised Ezra before shifting his focus to Zoey, "Nice to meet you, Ms. Zoey. I'm Ezra, a good friend of Levi's. We came from the same place."

The Protector Chapter 742

Zoey thought Ezra meant that he and Levi came out of the same prison.

“Nice to meet you too. Please, sit. Have some tea, Sylas.”

Zoey was being very hospitable.

“Thank you, but I’m good. I have to go soon. Levi told me about the wedding, which I, unfortunately, can’t attend, but I have something for you.”

Ezra then took out an army-green box, and inside it was a gold medal inscribed with the words ‘King of the West.’

It was a symbolic medal, made of pure gold, awarded to the commander-in-chief of the Nine Warzones.

Zoey could see Ezra’s utmost sincerity when he gifted her with the medal.

“You should just take it. Ol’ Williamson here really wants you to have it,” advised Levi.

Not knowing the true value of the pure gold medal, Zoey took the medal from Ezra after thanking him.

Sylas was stunned at the sight of the medal handed over to Zoey.

In a certain sense, one could command the entire army of the Western Region with that medal, so that meant Zoey had an army in the palm of her hand.

After bidding Zoey goodbye, Levi and Ezra went to the city streets and sat down at a barbecue stall before Kirin and the others soon arrived.

It was a rare moment indeed for the brothers-in-arms to have such a leisure time together.

The moment Kirin saw Ezra, he started complaining about how Ezra was going to take the Beasts away from him.

“Don’t get your panties in a bunch! I’ll return them to you once I win the war. I’ll even add in some ladies from Wheldrake. How does that sound?” asked Ezra.

“Forget the ladies! You better bring them back unharmed. Not even a single hair lost!”

Kirin was treating the Beasts like a bunch of babies.

“Whatever you say. I’ll be in the battlefield myself by then, and I’ll die before I let anything happen to your boys.”

Ezra then downed his hard liquor.

“Now that’s what I want to hear! But you better make it back alive. Otherwise, who’s going to send my boys back to me?” toasted Kirin.

Looking at how the two were bickering, Levi could not help but let out a hearty laughter.

As much as the two liked to bicker like children, Levi knew that they would both give their lives to protect each other on the battlefield.

At that moment, a group of men appeared on the street with knives and sticks in their hands.

Watching them from the darkness was both Jennie and Logan in a wheelchair who wanted to exact their vengeance on Levi.

Logan swore to break Levi's limbs and keep any doctor from treating them in time so that he would lose them forever.

The goal was to make sure Levi stay bedridden for the rest of his life.

As for the Black family, after Levi offended and angered them just a few days before, they expected nothing less to happen to Levi.

The Protector Chapter 743

Only getting Levi bedridden would relieve them of their hate for him.

“I’ll make him pay!” promised Logan viciously.

To live up to that promise, Logan had hired dozens of brutes to get the job done.

While Levi, Ezra, and the others were reminiscing about the good old days, they suddenly noticed a crowd of people approaching them.

Every one of them looked vicious and was armed with sticks and clubs.

Annoyed at the sight, Ezra, Kirin, and the others put their liquor down and frowned at the crowd.

“You guys carry on. They’re here for me, so I’ll handle them,” notified Levi.

“Your business is our business. There’s no need for you to move a muscle when you’ve got us around,” assured Ezra with a smirk.

Cursed with a bad temper, Ezra had always been the most ruthless killing machine in the army, and he would violently mow down anyone who dared to touch Levi.

Suddenly, Levi smirked, for Shadow and the Jones family’s elites had appeared, “Looks like we don’t have to do anything at all.”

After figuring out who the Shadow was, the brutes got so terrified that they begged for mercy before running off.

Watching from afar, Logan and Jennie were puzzled by the situation.

“What happened?”

“The Jones family, royalties of Erudia, is watching over this street!” explained the head of the brutes.

“What? Did you mean the Jones family of South Hampton? Ezra Williamson of the Western Region must be on this street then!” stated Logan whose face quickly turned pale.

If Ezra knew about this, both the Black and Davies family would be ruined!

“Then we better run! We’re no match to either Ezra or the Joneses,” urged Logan.

Before leaving, Jennie took another look at Levi, “You got lucky this time. Let’s see how long that luck lasts.”

“We’ll get our chance. For now, we live to fight another day,” advised Logan who was terror-stricken.

After the gathering, Ezra went back to Sapphire Villa while Shadow reported to Michael.

“So what did Ezra do today?” inquired Michael before the Joneses all looked expectantly at Shadow.

“He... He went to see the... God of War.”

At that moment, Shadow, who was usually calm like the ocean, was short of breath and seemed extremely abnormal.

After all, that discovery was the most shocking thing in his life.

“What? The God of War?”

The Joneses were more concerned about the God of War than how abnormally Shadow was acting.

“Well, what does he look like?” asked Tyler eagerly, who did put in a lot of effort to find out what the God of War looks like for the statue.

The Protector Chapter 744

“The God of War is... is Levi,” stuttered Shadow.

“You mean the God of War really does look like Levi?”

Michael misunderstood what Shadow was trying to tell them.

“I thought Chief Williamson was just randomly pointing at somebody. I didn’t expect them to really look alike,” stated Tyler and the others.

Shadow nodded helplessly, “Yes, they do look alike.”

“Shadow, you should’ve notified us sooner so that we can all go see the God of War himself. What a shame!” sighed Michael.

“He’s right. You really should’ve let us know sooner!”

The others joined Michael to blame Shadow, who was then left with no choice but to provide an excuse, “There was a group of trouble-makers approaching the God of War and his friends. I was late because I had to take care of them first.”

“What? There was a group of people who dared to go up against the God of War?”

Michael found it hard to believe while the rest of the family got anxious.

“I’ve already looked into it. It’s the Black family,” revealed Shadow.

Michael then gave an order, “Wallace, go to the Blacks and teach them a lesson! It seemed that they’re forcing my hand to destroy them.”

Before Logan and Jennie even had the time to inform the Black family of what happened, Wallace and his men stormed in.

After Wallace announced his identity, Meredith and the others were more than surprised.

He's a South Hampton royalty!

His family is much stronger than the Gates or Caesar family.

Every member of the Black family quickly greeted Wallace courteously.

“Did you, or did you not, make trouble on Peace Road just now?” asked Wallace.

The Blacks’ eyes were wide open when they realized how much trouble they were in.

“Speak!” roared Wallace.

“Yes... Yes, it was us. We’re dealing with some personal matter,” Logan and Jennie quickly came clean.

Slap!

Wallace walked up to the two and gave them both ten hard slaps on the cheek, after which their face got badly swollen.

While Logan’s face darkened, Jennie cried in pain.

Why do we keep getting hit these days?

“Do you have any idea who’s on Peace Road? How dare you send a group of trouble-makers to where the God of War and Chief Williamson are! You’re this close to disappearing from the face of the earth.”

Wallace then kicked Logan off his wheelchair while Meredith and Robert's faces turned pale after hearing Wallace's words.

The God of War himself? How can that be?

The Black family could not believe who they almost offended.

"You guys better do some serious reflecting. If this happens again, I'll make sure the Black family is turned to dust!" Warned Wallace before he stormed off and left the Black family to ruminate in dead silence.

Our family was this close to being ended.

The Protector Chapter 745

“I can’t believe the luck Levi had! How did he just happen to be around both the God of War and Ezra?”

“Well, I can’t believe we almost ruined our family for going after Levi.”

Meredith and the others still found it hard to believe that they brushed shoulders with the God of War and almost got wiped out.

On the internet, more and more people were starting to call Ezra a deserter who abused his authority and brought harm to the people.

It was obvious that someone from Wheldrake orchestrated the online activities, for the people of Wheldrake hated Ezra for how he had defeated them.

Even if they could not beat him on the battlefield, they could still ruin him with the power of public opinion on the internet.

At midnight, Ezra sneaked out of Sapphire Villa to meet with the Beasts, who were already prepared to head off to the Western Region with him.

Before dawn, Wheldrake was suddenly attacked in the Western Region.

With unmatched strength, a thousand troops attacked head-on and broke through the four lines of defense surrounding Wheldrake before Ezra’s army in the Western Region joined in to press their attack.

Wheldrake was completely defeated on the battlefield as they kept retreating from the frontline.

The stalemate between the two sides was no more, and the battle was a complete victory for Ezra and his army.

Erudia began to cheer for Ezra when they realized it was all in his plan all along.

After hearing of Ezra's victory, Levi could not be prouder of the soldiers he had trained. Both Ezra and the Beasts.

"When you get back, Ezra, I'll personally see to it that you get a feast to celebrate!" Levi contacted Ezra the second he caught wind of the good news.

People were praising Ezra for his valor, and the Beasts made their debut. It was a battle to be recorded in the annals of history.

Even the God of War was given some credit, but the Jones family got nothing but embarrassment.

All of South City was laughing at the Joneses for panicking over Ezra's disappearance that night.

It was only then that the Joneses realized they were part of Ezra's plan, so that meant they were due some credit for the great victory.

But the Joneses were not happy about that because they did not achieve their goal after all.

What they cared about was their own interests, not the welfare of Erudia.

"We've become the joke of the city and he just left?"

The Joneses were not satisfied with the outcome at all.

Michael shook his head, "We can't just let him go like that. We haven't even met the God of War yet!"

“Is that even possible?” Members of the family were skeptical.

“Chief Williamson has already confirmed it. Anson is an elite in the Iron Brigade and the right-hand man to the God of War himself. If we were to request to meet the God of War as Anson’s family, I believe it would work,” explained Michael.

“You’re right! There must be a reason why the God of War took care of Elijah for us,” agreed Tyler.

“Then come with me to the South City Warzone and we’ll meet the God of War himself!”

The Protector Chapter 746

Afterward, Michael arrived in the South City Warzone with the other Joneses, where they were stopped at the entrance.

“State your business.”

“Let me introduce myself, comrade. I’m Michael Jones of the Jones family in South Hampton. We’re here to see the God of War!” stated Michael with a smile.

“What? The God of War?” the sentry was puzzled by Michael’s words.

Not even we, the sentries, have seen him before, much less this random person.

Besides, the God of War’s identity is top secret, so not just anybody can meet him.

“Do you think this is funny, sir?” asked the sentry.

“We’re not pulling your leg. Please just inform the God of War. Tell him that Anson’s family has come to see him. That’s Anson of the Iron Brigade,” explained Michael panickily.

Even though the sentry had no idea who Anson was, his face turned pale at the mention of the Iron Brigade.

“Okay, I’ll notify them. You wait here!”

After the sentry left to pass the information along, Michael boasted proudly, “See how well-known Anson is? His name was all it took to get the soldier moving.”

“Uncle Anson is impressive indeed! He’s the hope of our family!” agreed the Joneses.

Because it was the God of War whom Michael requested to meet, the news quickly reached Mike, the commander-in-chief in the South City Warzone, and the deputy commander-in-chief.

“What? Here to see the God of War?”

“Who the hell is Anson? I’ve never heard of him!”

Everyone was perplexed by the news before Alfie of the Dragon Legion reported, “I’ve found him! Anson Jones is just a regular soldier, not a general in the Iron Brigade.”

“How can a regular soldier possibly be the right-hand man to the God of War?” Mike squinted in bafflement.

“Run a background check on the Jones family!” ordered Mike.

Soon, everyone on the scene was shocked by the result they got.

“Michael Jones is the grandfather of the God of War.”

Not familiar with the relationship between Levi and the Joneses, Mike and the others’ faces darkened when they got the news.

“Hurry up and invite Mr. Jones in! Forget it, I’ll invite him myself!” Mike hurried to the entrance with a group of people.

“Hello, Mr. Jones. I’m Mike Pence, commander-in-chief in the South City Warzone. Please, do come in.”

One by one, Mike and the others introduced themselves before inviting the Joneses into the warzone.

Every member of the Jones family was thrilled by the hospitality.

The Jones family's about to rise!

Just mentioning Anson's name was enough to get the commander-in-chief and his deputies to welcome us.

This indirectly speaks of Anson's importance in the Iron Brigade.

The right-hand man to the God of War is indeed important enough to make the entire South City Warzone tremble!

We're invited in like VIPs!

The Protector Chapter 747

Michael's heart was racing in excitement, but he tried his best to contain his emotion.

We'll soon be one of the wealthiest family in Erudia!

The other Joneses were almost just as excited as Michael was.

What they did not know was that it was all because of Levi. Otherwise, they would not even have made it past the gate.

Hearing that Alfie was the leader of the Iron Brigade, Michael had to ask, "Mr. Steele, how's Anson doing in the Iron Brigade?"

"Well... "

Alfie hesitated with his answer, for even though Anson was but a regular soldier, he was the uncle of the God of War.

"He's excellent! You can say he's one of Iron Brigade's most important members," answered Alfie awkwardly.

The scene was similar to when the Black family asked him about Russell.

"Great! That's wonderful to hear!" Michael was laughing out loud with satisfaction while those at the South City Warzone looked perplexed.

What a strange reaction. His grandson is the God of War!

Michael and the other Joneses were taken to the reception room, where they received the highest level of hospitality.

Throughout their stay, they were accompanied by Mike personally.

Michael was overjoyed to see how well they were taken care of because that spoke to Anson's level of importance.

"That boy should've told us how important he is in the army!" mumbled Michael to himself.

"Mr. Jones, the South City Warzone would like to present a banner to the Jones family." notified Mike before ordering his man, "Bring the banner!"

Soon, someone came into the room with a banner, and on it was 'The pillar of the nation.'

When The Joneses saw it, they were so excited that they could no longer remain seated.

"This is for us?" asked Michael in delight as he did not expect to receive a banner after giving one to Ezra.

"That's right!"

"On my command. Salute!" ordered Mike to his man on the scene.

"The son of the Jones family has served well to protect our nation!"

"Thank you! I'm very proud of him!" responded Michael with a burst of hearty laughter.

The other Joneses were just as exhilarated to receive such an honor.

We have a pillar of the nation in our family!

The Jones family will never be the same again because we can now rival the top family in South Hampton.

The only problem was that Michael and Mike were not referring to the same person.

Mike was presenting the banner because of Levi while Michael thought it was because of Anson.

Nonetheless, both sides were happy with the outcome.

On top of that, Mike made them a promise, "From now on, if the Jones family needs anything, all you have to do is ask."

The Protector Chapter 748

“Wonderful! This is just marvelous!” exclaimed Michael, who was already fantasizing about ascending to the top in South Hampton.

Although he was utterly thrilled, Michael did not forget their purpose of going to the South City Warzone.

“Commander-in-chief, is the God of War available to see us?” asked Michael with a smile.

“Let me find out.”

It was only after calling Levi that Mike realized it was all a big misunderstanding, for Levi no longer wanted anything to do with the Joneses.

I knew it!

Why would Michael come here to see Levi if they're really that close!

I can't even have the banner back since it's already been gifted.

“Get them out of there now!”

Even though that was Levi's order before hanging up, Mike could not just drive the Joneses out like that.

“Apologies, Mr. Jones, but the God of War is not available at the moment and we don't have the authority to be informed of his location. I'm afraid you'll have to wait for our call,” informed Mike euphemistically.

“That’s fine.”

After what they had received, the Joneses had no regrets about going over to the South City Warzone, even if they did not get to meet the God of War.

After all, they had already seen how important Anson was in the army.

“From now on, the Jones family will rule South Hampton!” exclaimed Michael ambitiously.

The rest of the Jones family was also just as excited, especially Tyler and Wales.

As members of the Prince Gang in South Hampton, their status was mediocre at best.

Once we announce our relationship with the God of War, I, Tyler Jones, would finally ascend to the highest position in the Prince Gang, that is, the title of ‘prince!’

“How fortunate of us! I thought we’d be ruined by the warlord, Elijah. Now that the God of War himself is on our side, Elijah will be under our thumb!” boasted Wallace and a few others.

“We’re right to not let Levi, that low-life, into our family. He’d only be an embarrassment to us!” sighed Wales in relief before Michael gave him a look, “Never mention that name again! He’s unworthy of discussion! Now even less so, considering our current status. He doesn’t deserve to be my grandson!”

Suddenly, Shadow appeared, “Master, you might want to keep that to yourself.”

He was worried about the trouble they might get themselves in if the God of War heard those words.

“What does that mean, Shadow?” inquired Michael curiously.

“No matter what, you can’t change the fact that Mr. Garrison’s your grandson. I believe that it’d better for you and your family if you keep your thoughts about Levi to yourself,” explained Shadow.

“What are you trying to say, exactly? And why do you seem different? You used to hate speaking out. What happened to you?”

Michael sensed that something was off, but he was not aware of the fact that Shadow knew Levi was the God of War.

The Protector Chapter 749

“Forgive me. I talked too much,” apologized Shadow, who was actually trying to hint at Michael.

Unfortunately, Michael thought too little of Levi to ever expect him to be anyone important.

To show their new status, the Joneses returned to South Hampton with the two banners held high and flapping in the wind.

For the time being, the Black family was afraid to go after Levi while Zoey got busy with work.

Besides working on a fifty-billion project, Oriental Star Group had recently released a big-budget movie that starred Helena.

The movie became a legend in the industry for breaking the record when it made more than one billion in just three days.

Iris entered Zoey’s office when Zoey was still busy at work.

“Huh? What’s this?”

Iris could not help but pick up the dark green box she saw on the desk.

“Can I take a look?”

“Sure.”

After opening the box, Iris was curious to see a gold medal inside.

“What does ‘King of the West’ mean? Could it be referring to the king of the Western Region?”

“He led the attack that defeated Wheldrake, and it was all over the news,” stated Iris casually, but Sylas, who was just beside them, was shocked to see Iris figuring it out so quickly.

Does that mean we're exposed?

Zoey raised her head and chuckled in response, “This is a wedding gift from a good friend of Levi’s. I don’t even know what ‘King of the West’ means.”

She had also heard the news, but there was no way she could have known that Ezra was the King of the West.

He was drinking with Levi the night the battle happened. How could it be him on the battlefield?

It's not like Ezra can teleport!

“A friend of Levi’s, you said? Must be my mistake then,” responded Iris naturally.

There's no way that any friend of Levi's could've been in the Western Region battle.

Unless he's a prisoner there.

Zoey continued to joke, “Like you, Sylas almost mistook Levi’s friend to be some Chief.”

“I know, right? I almost thought this piece of gold is a symbol of the King of the West!” exclaimed Iris before putting the medal back onto the desk.

Seeing how Iris was convinced, Sylas breathed a sigh of relief.

That's not just any piece of gold but a mark of the God of War, who commands the millions of troops in the Western Region!

With that medal, Zoey can summon the army of the Western Region to protect herself any time she wants.

Sylas could not help reminding Zoey, “Ms. Lopez, I think you better put that box away before you lose it.”

Her words quickly attracted both Zoey’s and Iris’ attention.

“What do you mean, Sylas? Is the box special in any way?” asked Zoey.

Suddenly reminded of how strange Sylas acted the day they met Ezra, Zoey could not help but notice something off about Sylas.

The Protector Chapter 750

“It’s just that I have special feelings for military things and that medal looks like one, so I have this urge to protect it.” lied Syllas quickly.

“That’s understandable. I’ll keep it locked in the safe, then,” assured Zoey with a smile before Syllas breathed a sigh of relief.

After that, Zoey looked at Iris and inquired, “Is there something I can help you with?”

“Because your company’s movie recently broke the industry record, Star Entertainment, South Hampton’s top entertainment company, will be sending their people here in the afternoon to learn from yours. If you managed to take good care of them, there may be cooperation in the cards,” explained Iris.

“Sure. Leave them to me! I have time anyway,” responded Zoey with an ‘okay’ sign.

Star Entertainment is one of the top three domestic entertainment companies, and they have big-shot stars and online celebrities.

Even though the Oriental Star Group was growing rapidly, they still had a long way to go since Helena was the only valuable star they had.

There was much to be gained from working with a giant like Star Entertainment.

Zoey deliberately cleared her schedule to wait for their arrival.

In the afternoon, three sedans and four MPVs parked outside of the Morris Group building.

The Star Entertainment group had arrived, and Zoey was thrilled to see their chairman, Pierre leading the group himself.

Seeing how sincere Star Entertainment was about the meet-up, Zoey welcomed the group along with her team.

Still sleeping, Levi was suddenly awakened by the noise.

“What the hell is going on?” asked Levi frustratedly before Seth replied with a smile, “Star Entertainment has sent a group to visit Oriental Star Group. Everybody’s gone to see the many famous stars and online celebrities in the building. Do you want to go take a look?”

The minute Levi heard that there were stars and online celebrities, he lost interest.

But if it helped with his wife’s career, he thought it would not hurt to let them carry on.

Star Entertainment almost sent over every one of the best.

Not only did they send Pierre and eight others from management, eighteen of their hottest superstars and online celebrities were also there.

The online celebrities then started to live stream and record everything around them, including almost everything in the Morris Group building.

Seeing how it was, Seth had to step in to stop them from broadcasting the company’s internals, many of which were confidential.

He then brought two men with him to approach the broadcasters.

“Excuse me. Live streaming is not allowed in the building! Thank you for your cooperation,” advised Seth, but the live streamers could not be bothered to listen to him as they continued with the streaming.

Seth then had to repeat himself, “Excuse me. You’re not allowed to do your live stream here. Please stop immediately!”

“You’re nothing but a bunch of lowly security guards. Who are you to tell me that I can’t do my live stream here?”

The Protector Chapter 751

One of the online celebrities, Sarah, even pointed the camera at Seth and his men before speaking to her online audience, “Now let me show you this bunch of no-good security guards who are trying to stop our live stream. What does everyone think I should do about them?”

The audience in the live broadcast immediately began to insult Seth and his men. They even threatened to expose them and their family online.

“Get lost! I’m telling you that you can’t afford to interfere with my live stream, you got it?” insulted Sarah before trying to walk away.

Naturally, Seth could not oblige her, so he quickly got in front of the live streamers once again to stop them.

In situations like that, Seth was very much like Levi, for he, too, could not tolerate them.

“We have two problems here. First, you’re not allowed to live stream here, so please stop immediately; second, you have to apologize for insulting us!” insisted Seth determinedly.

“We will not apologize, and we will continue streaming. What are you going to do about it?” provoked Sarah with a cold sneer.

“Then, you’ll have to excuse us for throwing you out of this building,” warned Seth sternly.

“Hey, what’s going on?”

Pierre and the others from the management team came over, with Zoey following close behind.

“These security guards are trying to stop our live stream! They even threatened to throw us out if we continue,” complained Sarah in tears.

Then, Pierre quickly turned to question Zoey, “What is the meaning of this, Ms. Lopez? Are we not welcome?”

“Don’t worry. Let me handle this.”

After calling Seth and his men aside, Zoey asked them to be patient with their guests.

“Okay, Ms. Lopez. For Levi’s sake, I’ll be patient. Otherwise, I’d have definitely thrown them out, even if it costs me my job!” agreed Seth while he tried to suppress his anger.

Afterward, Zoey took Pierre and his party to visit the entertainment area of the Oriental Star Group.

After the tour, Pierre sneered at what he had seen, “This doesn’t look like a place that can make good movies. I believe Helena’s the only one holding this place together.”

Helena then quickly explained, “Oh no, I only played a small part in the success. Excellent quality is the real reason why our movie was a commercial success!”

“Your company doesn’t really seem to have what it takes to produce that level of quality, though. Did you guys resort to plagiarism?” continued Pierre.

“Careful now, Mr. Pierre,” warned Zoey, who noticed the real reason why Star Entertainment came that day. They were not there to visit but to show how much more superior Star Entertainment was compared to Oriental Star Group.

To Zoey, who was already annoyed, the accusation of plagiarism was the last straw.

“I was just kidding, Ms. Lopez,” explained Pierre smiling before he boldly made Helena an offer, “Have you ever considered joining us? Even though you’re making good progress here with online movies, you should consider moving on to theatrical features! You’re better off with us.”

The Protector Chapter 752

It seemed that Pierre was openly provoking Zoey, who decided to agree generously, “Helena, that’s an offer you should definitely consider.”

“Do you see how understanding Ms. Lopez is, Helena? Come, join us,” continued Pierre as he laughed at Zoey’s response.

“Thank you for the offer, but I’ll stay.”

Helena had sworn that she would stay at the Oriental Star Group unless Levi and Zoey asked her to leave.

“Then, you better not regret that decision!” threatened Pierre in front of everyone.

Seeing how arrogantly Pierre acted as a superior, Zoey could only imagine how ‘humble’ Star Entertainment’s stars and online celebrities could be.

Obviously, the group from Star Entertainment did not come over to visit but to show off and challenge Oriental.

After the tour, Pierre inconsiderately smoked a cigar in the reception room.

“There’s something I have to tell you, Ms. Lopez.”

“Go ahead.”

Zoey was starting to lose her patience with Pierre.

“I plan to acquire the entertainment department of your company. What do you think?” asked Pierre as he smoked his cigar, choking Zoey and making her cough.

“An acquisition? That’s not going to happen. We’re doing well, and we have no plans to sell the department,” rejected Zoey, to which Pierre laughed in response, “You don’t understand. You have let it go because I’m the one making the acquisition, and I always get what I want!”

That was how overbearing Pierre was in the South Hampton entertainment industry.

It was common for him to make acquisitions and buy copyrights forcibly, which was why people in the industry feared him.

Zoey then smiled in response, “I’m afraid that I can’t just let you have what I want to keep.”

“If you reject me, Ms. Lopez, I promise you that your company will be finished. I’ll make sure that you lose access to every possible resource in this industry!” threatened Pierre boldly.

“You think I’m scared? I’ve seen worse.”

Zoey was determined not to let Pierre have his way.

“Very well. We’ll see about that. Nobody gets far without my say-so!” After issuing his final threat, Pierre got up and walked out of the building, leaving the executives of the Oriental Star Group worried.

“Do you know how many potential entertainment companies Star Entertainment has ruined over the years? We’re in grave danger.”

Even though Zoey was just as aware of how powerful Star Entertainment was, she was not just about to give in to them that easily.

At that moment, Levi came and inquired, “Where are the bunch of arrogant celebrities I’ve heard about?”

He got furious after Seth told him about them.

They’re clearly challenging me, and I will not tolerate that.

The Protector Chapter 753

“Forget it. They have left. There’s no point to keep pursuing the matter anymore.”

Zoey shook her head discouragingly.

She was fearful of exacerbating the situation.

After all, there was nothing to be gained from that.

“They better pray hard that I don’t get to lay my hands on him. I will make him meet his maker sooner,” threatened Levi angrily.

He would never let Zoey suffer.

“Ms. Lopez, Star Entertainment’s actual objective in visiting South City is not to tour our office. Instead, they’re going to film a variety show at the South City Warzone. Their initial plan was to film it at South Hampton, but they were rejected. Yet, for some unknown reason, the South City Warzone permitted them.”

The secretary explained the matter.

“I see. So that’s what happened.”

Zoey did not care much.

Levi, on the other hand, was full of anger. With rage written all over his face, he lashed out, “What are you talking about? They’re going to shoot some variety shows in the South City Warzone?”

“Yes,” confirmed the secretary.

“This is ridiculous! Where did they get that courage from? How dare they do filming at the South City Warzone?”

Levi’s face was a brewing thunderstorm.

This made Zoey and the secretary feel that something was amiss.

Why is he so angry?

He spoke as if he was the Chief of the South City Warzone.

“No way, we must not set a precedent for them! How can they just fool around at a military base? I won’t agree to it!” yelled Levi furiously.

“Why are you so agitated?” chided Zoey, mystified by his reaction.

“I just don’t want to tolerate this kind of unruly insolence!” retorted Levi as he left, fuming.

The secretary asked curiously, “Ms. Lopez, what’s wrong with Mr. Garrison? He acted as if he was an army officer.”

“I guess he just not used to our way of handling things,” answered Zoey.

After Levi left them, he headed straight to the South City Warzone.

He wanted to find out who was the one who authorized Star Entertainment to film a variety show in the middle of the South City Warzone.

They are simply too foolhardy.

Around this time, Star Entertainment had already arrived at the South City Warzone.

The filming team, the logistics team, and the celebrities were all staying at the dormitory inside the warzone.

The equipment team had finished setting up the systems needed and was waiting around for the variety show to start.

Several online influencers like Sarah were still live-streaming and filming the dormitory which the military base arranged for them.

“What’s this? How can anyone sleep on this bunk bed?”

“The floor of the dorm is all covered in mud. I dare not step on it!”

“It’s so dirty! And it’s so humid and wet here!”

Realizing that they would be stuck here for the whole month to film their show, these influencers and celebrities could not stand the living condition. A string of complaints escaped their mouths.

“I can only see a bunch of stinky, smelly, sticky soldiers everywhere! I really can’t stand it anymore!”

Sarah wrinkled her nose.

Pierre was coolly smoking a cigar as he burst out laughing, “Everyone! Just bear with it for a month! After filming this show, I guarantee that your popularity will skyrocket!”

Hearing Pierre’s assurance, Sarah and the others started to relax.

The Protector Chapter 754

Although the living and working conditions were tough, the shooting of the variety show in the barracks proceeded without a hitch.

They endured, for they knew that they were doing something different, and the outcome should be great. Most importantly, they would make a lot of money.

As they settled in slowly, they got used to the pace of life there. Seeking to further increase her popularity, Sarah queried, "Boss, can we broadcast live-stream from the barracks? My fans want to see what the army dorms look like."

Pierre puffed a cigar and replied, "It's up to you all. Let me tell you something. Since I'm the one who brought you all into this place to film a show, there's nothing I can't handle."

"You're amazing, boss! We admire you!" Sarah and the others cheered.

"It's nothing! After all, I have connections all over Erudia. There's nothing I can't do!"

Pierre boasted as he gave his cigar the last puff before casually flicking the butt onto the grass.

A small patch of the grass where his cigar butt fell was burnt.

Following his permission, the internet influencers started their live-streaming.

With one influencer assigned per team, the whole production crew started roaming around the barracks and filming.

“My dear fans, look! This is how a military base looks like. Here’s the battle tank, and this is the army-trained dogs...”

Sarah’s live streaming brought her to a phalanx of tanks.

“Dear fans! Behold, a tank!”

She sounded excited as she introduced the sight. “I’ll jump onto the tank later and show you how it looks like!”

Sarah not only filmed the tank formation, but she was also daring enough to climb up and shoot the inside of the tank.

“Excuse me, comrades! Filming is forbidden here. Please go back to where you came from!” Immediately, one of the soldiers rushed to stop her.

“Ugh, you smell bad. Do you even shower? You reek of sweat!” Sarah furrowed her brows as she insulted the soldier.

“Comrade, please return to where you come from! No form of shooting or recording is allowed here!” repeated the soldier patiently.

“Hey, do you know who I am? Don’t you dare to obstruct me from doing my job!”

Sarah was starting to get annoyed. “Furthermore, we entered this base legally. Did you see anyone stopping us? Why do you have to be such a busybody? If your superiors blame you later, can you afford to shoulder the responsibility?”

Sarah coldly replied.

“Get out of my way quickly! I’ll leave after I’ve done my broadcast. If you continue to hinder me, I’ll make sure you face the repercussions!” She insisted on barging in.

“Comrade, please back off. This is top-secret. Any photography and videography are strictly prohibited,” insisted the sentry on duty.

“Humph! What is there to be secretive about? It’s just a tank after all. Why are you acting like no one has seen it before? It’s plastered all over the televisions, but no one said anything about it being top-secret.”

With Pierre backing her up, Sarah had become arrogant and paid the sentry no heed.

As an authorized civilian in the base, she felt herself to be out of the barrack’s jurisdiction. She just wanted to do her things without any restrictions.

“Those on TVs have explicit permissions. Currently, this area is off-limits! You do not have clearance to film or take photos!” The sentry insisted persistently.

“I demand you to get out of my sight immediately! If you try to stop me again, I promise I will report your conducts to your superiors! Your future and career will be ruined,” Sarah threatened again.

“No means no! Unless you have received orders from our superiors, you’re not allowed to film here!”

Sarah was completely furious.

“I don’t believe you! I must finish my live stream today by hook or by crook. No one can stop me!” She snidely added, “Especially a stinky soldier like you!”

Despite all the warnings, Sarah still insisted on barging in.

“Who are you calling stinky?” At this moment, a fierce voice boomed.

The Protector Chapter 755

Without her realizing, Levi had shown up out of nowhere.

His booming voice shocked Sarah to the core.

She spun around just in time to see a stern man staring at her. She glared back incredulously. "Who are you? What are you doing here?"

Seeing Levi in his plainclothes, she became bolder. Since he's not a soldier here, he must be an average worker.

Perhaps, he belongs to the production crew.

In that case, I shall give him an earful.

"Which team do you belong to? Is it the equipment team or the logistics group? How dare you try to control what I do? Do you have a death wish?" Sarah challenged furiously.

Hearing such a disrespectful tone, Levi became enraged.

The moment he arrived at the barracks, all he saw were groups of influencers and teams of live-streamers.

By making his military base into such a public spectacle, Levi felt it was a great insult to the pride and discipline of the men and women who had pledged their lives to serve their country.

That was something he absolutely abhorred!

From the corner of his eyes, he spotted the famous influencer, Sarah, insisting on filming the tank. He immediately rushed over.

This is prohibited.

Isn't her action tantamount to leaking military secrets?

If the model, structure, or even the schematics of these tanks were leaked out, they would be rendered useless.

In addition, he heard the insult of “stinky soldier”.

This disrespect statement completely angered him.

If it weren't for us soldiers, protecting lives and sovereignty as well as keeping the peace...

Can you even broadcast your live-stream nonsense right now?

Can you even live lavishly with sumptuous food and clothes?

Levi stared at Sarah coldly and commanded, “I want you to apologize to the guards immediately for those insults you've said!”

Seeing her adamance, he emphasized harshly, “Now! Immediately!”

The rest of the guards saw the furious expression on Levi's face.

They did not want to imagine nor experience the depths of his wrath!

Sarah was petrified by Levi's terrifying outburst, not knowing what to do.

“Who are you? What right do you have to impose on us?”

The production team next to Sarah was irked as they stared at him.

“I’m a soldier. A soldier who can’t stand your behaviors!” Levi retorted coldly.

“Since when does a stinky soldier like you have the authority to butt into our business?” Sarah rebuked him arrogantly.

In their eyes, Levi looked too young and was too casually dressed to be a military officer. He must be a mere private, at most a low-ranking soldier.

A military officer was usually at least thirty-four years old.

With that thought in mind, Sarah did not mince her words as she voiced her insult.

Instead of flying into a rage, Levi smirked. “Seems like you’ve offended me too. I demand an apology from you as well!”

“Apologize to you? In your dreams! You’ve disrupted and delayed my live-stream broadcast. You are the one who should be apologizing to me!”

She was irked by his smirk further so she demanded, “Kneel and bow down to me immediately. Then, I’ll consider forgiving your mistake.”

Not only did the production team refuse to apologize, but they also demanded an apology from Levi.

This was something Levi did not expect, not even in his wildest dreams.

There are actually arrogant people like them in the world?

Moreover, this kind of arrogance was openly displayed in a military base!

Such insolence! Do they think that they’re the mightiest here?

Do they think that rules no longer apply to them?

“If I were to apologize, I’m afraid you won’t be able to bear the consequences.”
Levi grinned.

“Hah! Do you mean I can’t handle an apology from a small fry? What a joke!”
Sarah snorted coldly.

Without further ado, she haughtily urged, “Hurry up and apologize. I don’t have so much time to waste on you.”

At that moment, she wanted so badly to slap him.

The Protector Chapter 756

A glint of cold malice flashed from Levi's eyes as he kicked Sarah's legs. With a loud thud, she fell onto her knees in front of him.

"I'm willing to apologize, but only if you kneel and listen," Levi stated coldly.

Sarah was dumbfounded.

So was her production team.

All the soldiers nearby secretly gave Levi a thumbs-up upon witnessing such a scene.

He is such a ruthless man!

They had been instructed by the superiors not to cause trouble to these online celebrities. Therefore, despite all the disrespect they had received, these guards had no choice but to keep their chagrin at bay.

However, right now, the person standing in front of them was on a totally different level. He had the guts to do whatever he wanted.

Snapping out of their bewilderment, Sarah and her team were now in an uproar.

"You... What did you just do? You actually assaulted someone!"

"Do you know who Sarah is? She is one of the top influencers in the country with a following of more than tens of millions of fans!"

"You're just a lowly-ranked soldier! How dare you lay a hand on her!"

Sarah's manager and crew started shouting angrily.

“Cut the crap and just kneel!”

Levi unleashed a few more kicks continuously. The kicks were swift and precise, and no one had any time to react.

Thump!

Thud!

No one had the chance to defend themselves before falling to their knees as they were caught by surprise.

Their knees and calves were as heavy as lead, and they could not stand up at all.

As a result, they were all kneeling in front of Levi.

“Are you out of your mind? You have a death wish, huh? I, Sarah, swear that I will not let you off easily! I will utilize all the resources I have to make you suffer!” Sarah was so enraged that she was shouting at the top of her lungs.

The escalated confrontation caught the attention of even more people.

Soon, the whole place was crammed with onlookers, including the other internet celebrities and their team.

“What are you doing? How dare you assault someone?”

“Don't you know who we are? Now that you've raised your hand against someone, you'll have to bear the serious consequences!”

Voices of protest rang out louder and louder from the influencers and celebrities.

When Sarah saw that her colleagues had arrived, she threw an even bigger tantrum.

The whole place descended into a chaos.

“Come and see! These soldiers are beating up civilians! Come and be my witnesses. These stinky soldiers are assaulting civilians!” shouted Sarah exaggeratingly.

Smack!

Just as she finished shouting, Levi gave her a slap on her face.

“Say that one more time, and I’ll slap you once more!” he threatened.

“You stinky soldier!”

Smack!

She could barely finish the phrase as another slap landed on her cheek.

“Stink... You damned stinky soldier...” Smack!

Even before she could finish uttering her insult, another heavy slap landed across her face.

“Try saying that again...” Levi looked down icily upon her, his hand raised in preparation for another slap anytime.

This time Sarah covered her face and sobbed softly.

She dared not say anything anymore.

Levi's overbearing ruthlessness shocked everyone.

"You stinky soldiers can't even handle any criticism, huh?" A male celebrity stepped out to speak in Sarah's defense.

Bam!

With a well-aimed dropkick, the busybody was sent kneeling on the ground as well.

"You can only talk to me on your knees," Levi said coldly.

"Well, I want to see who dares to trouble my people." Pierre's voice bellowed from the midst of the crowd as he made his way through.

The Protector Chapter 757

After seeing their pillar of support, Sarah and the rest relayed what happened to Pierre in an exaggerated manner.

Sarah sobbed continuously, with the red marks left by Levi still printed on her cheek.

When Pierre saw that, he became enraged.

“Who are you? How dare you hit my people?” yelled Pierre.

Pierre

Which soldier is so foolish that he dares to offend my people?

“Who are you?” asked Levi.

“Listen up, then. I’m Pierre Javens, the CEO of Star Entertainment. We came to the South City Warzone to film a variety show,” stated Pierre coldly.

“Who permitted you to film a show in the warzone? Don’t you know that the military base is a sacred ground that cannot be infringed? Look at the mess you people have made in the military base!” said Levi coldly.

A laugh escaped Pierre’s lips. “Who gave me the permit? With my vast connections, it’s a piece of cake to get a special permit to shoot in the warzone. Furthermore, I’m filming a show here to promote the soldiers. This is a positive and motivational show. Who are you to be such a huge busybody?”

“Firstly, the military base is a sacred ground that must not be infringed. Outsiders are prohibited from entering. Secondly, why do the soldiers of Erudia need you to promote them? Go overseas and ask around. Which country doesn’t fear the soldiers of Erudia?” stated Levi angrily.

“Thirdly, you are live-streaming in the military base without any permission. Filming without any restraints is already an infringement of the rules. There’s even someone who tried to film the internal structure of the tanks. This would constitute a huge crime of leaking military secrets! Lastly, your people have insulted soldiers. Just these four points will be sufficient to make you spend the rest of your life in jail.”

Levi listed out their crimes point by point.

“Yeah! The military base is not a place for you to act brazenly!”

The other soldiers clapped and cheered as they were rather moved by the speech.

After all, Sarah and the other celebrities had gone overboard.

They had been suppressing their fury for a while because no one had shown up to back them up.

Yet, Levi’s powerful presence intimidated Sarah and the rest. They were so terrified that they stayed silent, not daring to utter a single word.

On the other hand, Pierre was enraged. “Who are you? How dare you question what we do?”

“That’s not for you to know. I’m asking you, who permitted you to film in the military base?”

Levi was curious about that.

“Listen up, you rascal. It’s the Head of Culture and Media Department who gave me special permission. He’s a good friend of mine!” declared Pierre proudly.

“Bring him to me right away. If I don’t see him within ten minutes, I won’t bother meeting him,” ordered Levi coldly.

“Who’s so arrogant to demand me to meet him? Does he have balls of steel?”

With a booming voice, Jenson Grant, Head of Culture and Media Department, arrived.

Pierre relayed what happened to Jenson in an exaggerated manner.

The Protector Chapter 758

“How dare you? You actually assaulted someone? Tell me which platoon do you belong to?”

Jenson was furious.

“You are in no position to ask me that,” replied Levi frostily.

“See, Mr. Grant? Look at how horrible his attitude is. He was worse when you weren’t around just now. He assaulted us directly!”

Pierre fanned the flames, trying to stir up his anger.

Jenson seemed to be cross at his complaint. “That’s it. I don’t care which platoon you’re from. Since you hit someone, you must apologize to them!” instructed Jenson furiously.

“We’ll only accept your apology if you kneel,” added Sarah and the others.

However, Levi merely smirked. “My stance remains the same. None of you can bear the consequences of my apology!”

“Aren’t you being too insolent, you rascal? We can’t bear the consequences of your apology? Well, I’d like to try that out!” rebuked Jenson furiously.

“Are you sure?”

Levi narrowed his eyes, a cold glint flashing within them.

For some reason, Jenson felt himself quiver uncontrollably at Levi’s glare.

This rascal has such a powerful aura!

“I’m... I’m sure! Apologize right away!” demanded Jenson.

“Let me ask you something first. Are you the one who permitted Star Entertainment to film in the military base?” Levi’s question took a sudden turn.

“Yeah, that’s right. I permitted them!” admitted Jenson defiantly.

“What’s the objective?” asked Levi.

“Of course, it’s to promote our army and let the public see the true conditions of a military base. I think that it’s very meaningful!” explained Jenson in a matter-of-fact tone.

With a cold smirk playing on his lips, Levi said, “I know that you’re just trying to film a variety show, dragging the soldiers along to participate in this act. How insolent! You’ve severely disrupted the military base’s conduct.”

“Hmph! What we’re doing is to explore the military base in-depth and understand the daily life of soldiers. It’s not all that serious!”

“But it is! Are you saying that you allow them to film the battle tanks and weapons? Are you saying that it’s acceptable to leak military secrets?” Levi abruptly asked.

“Huh?”

Taken aback, Jenson quickly clarified, “Of course, that’s not allowed! I believe that the celebrities of Star Entertainment will know what to do.”

When Jenson said that, he could sense that the atmosphere took a strange turn.

Pierre and the rest were lowering their heads silently.

A flash of guilt and embarrassment even appeared on Sarah's and the other celebrities' faces.

"You... You guys didn't actually... film it, right?" asked Jenson in astonishment.

"Mr. Grant, they're just curious! Even I'm curious, so I am sure these kiddos would be too."

As expected of a man who had been around, Pierre immediately tried to diffuse the tension.

Satisfied, Jenson nodded. "Did you hear that, rascal? Everyone's just curious. They didn't do anything over the board."

"Huh! Really? Then look at the footages in their cameras," stated Levi angrily.

The Protector Chapter 759

At that moment, Sarah and the rest became flustered.

They had taken many photos and videos earlier, which included a large part of the military base.

They knew that these were definitely classified as military secrets.

Hence, if an investigation unfolded, the consequences would be really dire.

However, the more restricted the content was, the more exciting it was to the audience, and the more publicity the show would reap.

This was why they still chose to film and live-stream the military base.

“You rascal! You’re deliberately making things difficult for me, right? Apologize right away. Otherwise, I’ll throw you out!” threatened Jenson.

When Levi heard Jenson’s’ threat, he chuckled.

“Fine. But if you want me to apologize, all of you must kneel!”

Frowning, Jenson bellowed furiously, “Who the f are you? How dare you be so arrogant?”

“You’re asking who I am? In that case, you might only get an answer from Mike Pence!” said Levi with a smirk.

“What? Mike Pence? How dare a mere private like you say the Commander-in-chief’s name?”

This time, Jenson was completely enraged.

“Hah! Why can’t I call Mike Pence’s name directly? Aren’t names supposed to be called?” rebuked Levi.

“You... You... You’re such a cocky bastard!”

Jenson’s body shook in rage.

Who in the South City Warzone dares to call Mike Pence by his full name?

Isn’t he asking for it?

“Mr. Grant, with him around, I think that our show cannot continue anymore. We’ve had no choice but to leave. I think that I’ve placed you in a tight spot today. After all, I didn’t expect you to have so little authority in the military base,” lamented Pierre deliberately, trying to stir up a conflict.

Pierre refused instantly.

“You don’t need to go! With me backing you up, who dares to stop the shooting?” assured Jenson.

An awkward expression appeared on Pierre’s face. “Aren’t we making things difficult for you? Look at the situation now!”

The more Pierre said that, the more enraged Pierre became.

“Do my commands not throw any weight here? Huh?”

Bellowing at the top of his lungs, Jenson glared at Levi viciously.

The other soldiers were well aware that he was the Head of Culture and Media Department.

However, with a nonchalant smile playing on his lips, Levi said calmly, “Yeah, your words are useless to me. You don’t have the right to dictate what I do!”

The moment Levi uttered those words, Jenson flew into a rage.

“Are you from the Warzone? Why are you wearing casual clothes? Could it be that you’re from Pierre’s team?” yelled Jenson.

“Mr. Grant, he’s not from our team. I don’t know him,” replied Pierre hurriedly.

“So he’s not from the Warzone, huh? Someone, throw him out! If he resists, lock him up in the detention room for a week!” cried Jenson.

His subordinates rushed forward, trying to restrain Levi.

Bang!

At that moment, a gunshot reverberated in the air.

The Protector Chapter 760

Everyone was shocked to the core as they trembled in fear.

They looked around and tried to discover the source of that sound.

“Who the f dares to touch him? This is outrageous!”

A furious bellow rang across the compound.

They saw Mortimer, captain of a troop, and a bunch of men sprint over.

As Mortimer headed straight towards Levi, he instructed someone, “Inform the Commander-in-chief and Captain Steele immediately!”

“What brought you here, Captain Lambert?” asked Jenson with a flattering smile when he saw Mortimer.

Although he was a department head, he still worked a desk job.

Hence, he did not have a lot of authority.

Perhaps, he would be important in festive performance, but the military base was dominated by fists. The strongest person wielded the most power.

“What are you doing?” bellowed Mortimer angrily.

“Captain Lambert, he’s not from the Warzone. He snuck in from outside, trying to disrupt the shooting of Star Entertainment’s variety show. However, I stopped him,” explained Mortimer.

However, when Mortimer heard him, his anger intensified. “Since when did the military base become a circus for these clowns?”

“Captain Lambert, let’s not talk about that first. I’m talking this troublemaker right now!”

Jenson changed the topic of conversation hurriedly.

Actually, he was the only person who permitted Star Entertainment to film the variety show and gave them the authority to enter the military base.

In reality, not many people were cognizant of this, including Mike Pence.

He was hoping that before Mike Pence and the rest caught wind of what was happening, the variety show would have already ended.

On the other hand, after receiving a call earlier, Pierre became even less fearful.

He had just talked to the head of the Jones family from South Hampton.

The Jones family was one of the shareholders in Star Entertainment’s

Hence, they were aware that Star Entertainment came to film a show at the South City Warzone.

The head of the family even informed Pierre that even the Commander-in-chief of South City Warzone needed to treat the Jones family with due respect.

His son, Anson, was one of the more prominent soldiers of the Iron Brigade.

In fact, he was the God of War’s most trusted aide.

Hence, he assured Pierre that everything at the South City Warzone would go smoothly according to his wishes.

After hanging up the call, a look of extreme delight crossed Pierre's face.

His ego was now inflated beyond imagination.

Initially, when he heard that Mortimer was a Captain, he was still a bit worried.

Now, he felt completely relieved.

With the Joneses backing him up, there was nothing for him to fear.

"Answer my question directly. Who allowed these people to enter the military base?" asked Mortimer sternly, demanding an answer.

Jenson felt very embarrassed.

First, he was interrogated by Levi, and now by Mortimer again.

This was a complete humiliation for him.

When he noticed Pierre's disappointed gaze, Jenson became angry.

"Mortimer Lambert, you have no authority to interrogate me! I'm dealing with this man right now. Move aside!"

Ignoring Mortimer, Jenson insisted on throwing Levi out.

"Do you know who he is?" asked Mortimer with a cold smirk.

"I don't give a f! Someone, tie him up."

Jenson was adamant on doing this, no matter what.

The Protector Chapter 761

Clang! Clang! Clang!

Boom! Boom! Boom!

At the next moment, the ground started to tremble, as if there was a giant army rushing in their direction.

Everyone glanced around in fear, only to see a huge troop of soldiers surrounding them.

The soldiers' expression changed as they realized that this troop was the Dragon Legion from the Iron Brigade.

"I want to know who dares to touch the God of War?" bellowed Alfie as he strode over.

Boom! Boom! Boom!

The Dragon Legion arrived simultaneously, blocking all possible paths of escape.

Sarah and the other influencers were shocked to their core by this intimidating scene.

After all, they had never seen anything like that before.

Pierre and Jenson exchanged a bewildered gaze as their expressions drastically changed.

These men seem to be coming for Levi!

Leading the Iron Brigade, Alfie stopped in front of Levi.

The entire troop surrounded Levi as they glared at Pierre and the rest menacingly.

“Who gave out the instruction to throw the God of War out?”

Alfie’s ruthless glare swept across Pierre’s and Jenson’s faces.

“This... This is a misunderstanding, right? The God of War isn’t here,” blurted Jenson.

“There’s no misunderstanding! You’re the one who gave the command, right?” asked Alfie aggressively.

Jenson was so scared that his resolve wavered.

As he quivered, he glanced at Levi with suspicion in his eyes.

Could it be that he has a special identity?

Is he telling the truth when he said that no one can bear the consequences of his apology?

He even dared to call Mike Pence by his full name!

What kind of identity does he hold that he can do all that?

Firstly, Mortimer, the Captain, came.

Then, even the Iron Brigade arrived to protect him.

Who exactly is he?

Jenson knew very well that the Iron Brigade was ranked so high in the Warzone that not even Mike had the authority to deploy them at will.

Yet, they were actually mobilized to protect a young man.

This seems to imply something...

At that thought, Jenson's forehead was already dotted with sweat, his body quivering.

I might have just gotten myself into huge trouble.

At that moment, Pierre saw the flag fluttering in the air. He asked, "Are you from the Iron Brigade?"

"Yes, that's right." Alfie nodded. "What about it?"

"Then, you should probably know Anson Jones, right?"

An arrogant expression crossed Pierre's face.

"Huh?"

Alfie was shocked to hear that name.

The head of the Jones family just asked him about two days ago.

"Yes," replied Alfie honestly.

However, Pierre interpreted his reply as an affirmation that Anson was an important personnel of the Iron Brigade.

After all, he was so significant that anyone would know him.

The Jones family has such strong connections, huh?

Now, Pierre was confident that Alfie would kowtow to the Jones family.

“Good that you know. Anson is the God of War’s most trusted aide, and the pride of the Joneses,” declared Pierre with a smile.

Levi interrupted him, “Wait a moment. The God of War’s trusted aide? Why don’t I know that?”

The Protector Chapter 762

“Huh? Who are you to know Anson? What a joke!”

Pierre shot a disdainful glance at Levi.

Anson is the right-hand man to the God of War. Naturally, an insignificant person like you won't know him.

“He's the God of War you're referring to!” announced Alfie.

“What?”

A look of astonishment appeared on Pierre's and Jenson's face. The color had been completely drained from their faces.

“How is that possible? How can he be the God of War? I don't believe you.”

Naturally, Pierre was unwilling to face the reality.

“He's really the God of War. Sir, Captain Mortimer reports!”

Mortimer saluted him.

Witnessing this scene, Pierre and Jenson felt like a bombshell had been dropped on them.

They were utterly dumbfounded.

If one person's account were unreliable, the second person would do the trick.

“Sir, Commander Pence reports!”

At that moment, a group of people rushed over.

The person at the front was Mike Pence, the Commander-in-chief of the South City Warzone, who saluted Levi.

The deputy commanders and military officers behind him saluted Levi as well.

“T-T-This...”

Pierre and Jenson gasped in disbelief. They felt like their blood had frozen in their veins as shivers ran down their spines.

If the verdict of two people was still unreliable, what about that of three, four or five people?

What if a dozen of them said that he was the God of War?

In that case, he's indeed the God of War!

The God of War?

How can it be that he's the God of War?

He's such a young man and so low-profile.

We have actually messed around with the God of War?

This is the unluckiest thing to happen to them.

They could've offended anyone else but the God of War!

Not only were the two of them terrified, but Sarah and the rest, who were kneeling on the ground, also started sweating in fear.

Their eyes widened in disbelief.

The God of War?

The stinky soldier we were referring to is actually the supreme God of War!

“Oh no...”

Sarah’s manager moaned in shock and fainted right away.

Staring at Mike, Levi asked, “Mike Pence, what’s going on? Why is the military base in such a mess, with a bunch of clowns filming here?”

Jenson’s heart was pounding so frantically that it was almost leaping out of his throat. Indeed, he dared to call Mike Pence by his full name.

“Sir, it’s my mistake. I’m completely oblivious to this.”

He whirled around to glare at Jenson. “Is this your doing, Jenson Grant?”

“No... No. I... I...” stuttered Jenson, not knowing how to explain himself.

“That’s enough! The shoot ends right now. Everyone from Star Entertainment just gets lost! The military base is not a place for you to unleash your madness!” bellowed Mike furiously.

Pierre was terrified.

Now, his connections were completely useless in this situation, not even the Jones family.

When he was up against the God of War, even the Joneses could offer no help at all.

Levi's gaze suddenly landed on Sarah and the rest. "Do you still need me to apologize?"

The Protector Chapter 763

Levi's question came like a bolt from the blue, causing Sarah and the rest to be struck by lightning.

Their bodies were already drenched in cold sweat.

He still remembers this?

Initially, when Sarah insisted on demanding an apology from Levi, he claimed that no one could bear the consequences of his apology.

He even had the audacity to say that everyone must kneel when listening to his apology.

Back then, everyone scoffed disdainfully at his presumptuousness.

Now, they all understood finally.

Indeed, no one could bear the consequences of his apology!

After all, he was the mighty God of War!

Who would dare to force an apology out of him?

Furthermore, he was not even in the wrong!

Instead, he stood on the side of justice.

“You're the influencer, Sarah, right? Who do you think you are? How dare you insult me to be a stinky soldier?” asked Levi coldly.

Pierre and the rest were at an utter loss for what to do for their minds were in a complete mess.

Err.....

She actually dared to say something such absurd as calling the God of War a stinky soldier?

She really must have a death wish.

“I’m a very fair person. I will neither accuse an innocent man, nor will I ever spare a sinner. Your evil deeds have been recorded in the cameras! Alfie, bring them to me,” commanded Levi.

Soon, Alfie confiscated all the equipment.

After playing the footage, they discovered that the footage exposed all of the activities in the military base, including the secrets involving the battle tanks.

If such footage were leaked, these people could be sentenced to death!

Reviewing the pieces of evidence, Levi scoffed coldly, “What else do you have to say for yourselves? Do you still want me to apologize?”

“We’re sorry! We’re terribly sorry!”

Sobbing, Sarah and the other celebrities started to beg and cry.

Even Pierre was so terrified that he burst into tears.

“You, apologize! Start live-streaming now and apologize!” instructed Levi as he pointed at Sarah.

Sarah followed his instructions. She started a live-stream and apologized to the few soldiers she insulted as “stinky soldiers”.

When Sarah was about to apologize to Levi, Alfie stopped her. “Get lost! You’re not worthy to apologize to the God of War!”

“Here’s your punishment. Star Entertainment will cease all operations for three months. All employees must undergo a mandatory etiquette program, and they can only continue working after they’ve passed it. As for all these people, round them up and teach them a proper lesson. Also, apologize to Zoey Lopez from the Oriental Star Group.”

No one dared to disobey Levi’s commands.

However, if Star Entertainment put all activities on hold for three months, they would lose a third of their current profit.

However, Pierre dare not disobey Levi’s order.

In the end, all these celebrities and production teams were chased out of the military base.

After the shareholders of Star Entertainment caught wind of this incident, they all called to ask about it.

The Joneses were one of them.

In fact, Michael personally called to ask, “Pierre, what’s going on? Why did you suddenly terminate such a heavily invested project? If we incur a loss, are you going to compensate?”

The Joneses actually invested in this show.

“Mr. Jones, you may not know this, but we’ve been kicked out of the military base,” lamented Pierre helplessly.

“Didn’t you mention my name?”

The Protector Chapter 764

“I did. Not only did I mention your name, but I also even brought up Anson’s name. Then, I got chased out...”

Pierre was overcome with worry.

Having offended the God of War, I’m doomed.

What’ll happen to me in the future?

“What? It didn’t work even after you mentioned mine and Anson’s name? Were you mistaken? How dare Mike disrespect the Jones family!” Exclaimed Michael furiously.

“Mr. Jones, you don’t know this, but the God of War came today! This man is Erudia’s legend. Mentioning anyone’s name would still prove futile.” Replied Pierre agitatedly.

“What? In that case, there’s no way around it. But the Jones family is acquainted with the God of War. Didn’t you mention Anson’s name to him? Anson is his right man! I don’t think he’ll make things difficult for you as a favor to Anson.” Said Michael, feeling puzzled.

“Don’t even mention it. The God of War said he doesn’t even know Anson. I was almost shot dead! Mr. Jones, you’re so unreliable.”

Michael was confused.

Something’s wrong.

How is it possible for him to not recognize Anson?

He must be saying that out of fury!

That must be it.

Pierre must have angered the man to the extent that no one could change his mind.

“You probably provoked him, didn’t you? Useless! You almost sabotaged the Jones family!”

Michael hung up the call quickly.

Afraid that the Jones family would be ruined as well, he no longer wanted to speak with Pierre.

When Levi returned to the office, Zoey asked in surprise, “Where did you go?”

“I went to teach Star Entertainment a lesson!” Replied Levi.

“Hah! Stop boasting. I don’t buy that!”

Zoey did not pay much attention to what he said.

However, her secretary and Helena rushed in soon after.

“Ms. Lopez, something bad happened! Pierre brought a bunch of people to the office. Looks like they’re up to something bad!” Exclaimed the secretary in worry.

The other company directors were extremely worried too.

After all, Star Entertainment was one of the incumbents in the industry.

It was not a good thing to be targeted by them.

Yet, it was obvious that Pierre brought people here to take revenge.

“Let’s go and take a look!” Commanded Zoey with a cold expression, not afraid of Pierre.

Soon, she arrived at the lobby.

Even Seth came along, wanting to protect Zoey.

They strode into the lobby aggressively and confronted the group of men.

“Let me warn you! Don’t do anything rash. I won’t be courteous to anyone who dares to create trouble here.”

Seth stood at the front with the security guards, glaring daggers at Pierre and his men.

Zoey too, eyed Pierre coldly, waiting to see what tricks they were up to.

Thud!

To their utter surprise, Pierre and the rest fell onto their knees.

The Protector Chapter 765

All of them knelt in front of Zoey.

That included Star Entertainment's boss and eighteen of its most popular celebrities!

What's going on with them?

This sudden scene caught everyone off guard.

Why are they kneeling?

Zoey and the others had no clue of what was happening.

Aren't they supposed to come for revenge?

Zoey, the secretary and Seth exchanged incredulous glances with one another.

The first person who simultaneously appeared in their minds was Levi.

Does this really have something to do with him?

Kneeling on the floor, Pierre groveled at her feet, "Ms. Lopez, I'm sorry! I shouldn't have sabotaged you, or threatened to acquire your company."

Thud! Thud! Thud!

Pierre kowtowed so forcefully that his forehead bled.

As Levi had specifically asked him to apologize to Zoey, he did not dare to take it lightly.

Other than him, all the celebrities and influencers joined him too.

They should not have pretended to be arrogant big-shots.

Sarah even begged for Seth's forgiveness for the words she had said to him.

On the other hand, everyone on Zoey's side was stunned, unable to comprehend what was happening.

What are these?

"Ms. Lopez, Star Entertainment will suspend all activities for three months, and you can use our resources whenever and however you want!"

Pierre even offered to activate all their connections to help Zoey develop her company's entertainment projects for three months.

"Ms. Lopez, please accept our favors!"

Speaking, Pierre sprawled on the ground.

"Okay, I'll accept it. But can you tell me what happened?" Asked Zoey confusedly.

This was everyone's query too.

What made Pierre and these arrogant people change their attitudes so drastically?

"Ms. Lopez, we broke some rules and received a harsh lesson. We've realized our mistake now." Explained Pierre helplessly.

“Ms. Lopez, we’ll take our leave first! With regards to Star Entertainment’s resources, I’ll send someone over immediately.”

With that, Pierre and his men left.

They were going to roll out an orientation on proper etiquette for all their celebrities.

When Pierre left, the secretary received an update.

“Ms. Lopez, they probably committed a mistake at the military camp and was chased out!” Reported the secretary.

“But this is a good thing for us. We can use all of Star Entertainment’s resources for three months!”

Zoey nodded in approval.

“It’d be a waste for us not to use them. Coincidentally, Helena’s new movie is going to be released soon. Let’s tap on their resources for that!” Suggested Zoey with a smile.

At that moment, Levi pushed the door open and entered.

“What happened? Did those guys come and apologize?”

The Protector Chapter 766

When Levi said that, everyone glanced at him with bated breath.

Zoey and the other two had the same idea.

Could it be that this is all Levi's doing?

The timing is just right.

Previously, Levi said that he'll settle this incident.

When he returned, Pierre and the others came.

It must be him!

But how did he do that?

Star Entertainment is one of the top three entertainment companies in the nation.

How is it possible for Pierre to cave in to him and even stop business for three months?

These questions circled around their minds.

They were exceedingly confused.

"Yeah. They left after apologizing, and even begged us to use Star Entertainment's resources to our heart's content." Replied Zoey.

Levi nodded and said, "Good then."

Zoey felt too embarrassed to ask Levi how he did it.

However, she thought of a possibility.

After Levi left, Zoey instructed her secretary, "Check how Star Entertainment's stocks are doing."

The staff checked it quickly. "Other than Pierre, the Jones family in South Hampton owns the highest share of 20%!"

"Indeed!"

Zoey heaved a sigh of relief.

Earlier, she guessed that Levi managed to achieve it through tapping on his connections with the Jones family in South Hampton.

Now, she was certain.

The Jones family was Star Entertainment's biggest shareholder.

Making Pierre do all that was merely a piece of cake for them.

"Darling, thanks for your help!"

Zoey was extremely touched.

She knew Levi hated the Jones family and would not even deign to acknowledge them.

However, this was the second time he asked the Jones family for a favor on her behalf.

This was equivalent to him throwing his pride aside.

Furthermore, Levi was one of the most prideful people she knew.

Darling, I'm very touched...

However, unknown to Zoey, that was not what happened at all.

The Jones family had nothing to do with this.

As everything was too coincidental, she misunderstood.

However, Zoey decided to keep everything a secret and did not ask Levi about it.

Then, with the help of Star Entertainment, the new movie released by Oriental Star Group skyrocketed to unprecedented popularity.

Helena, the female lead, rose to stardom and became one of the nation's most popular A-listers.

The movie star never imagined all these to happen.

Half a year ago, she was still an unknown celebrity, worrying about her meagre monthly income of three thousand.

Six months later, she became a popular celebrity in the country.

Everything was all because of Levi and Zoey, hence Helena was extremely grateful to them.

Not only that, but she also even donated some money in secret to help those in need.

“Helena, if all of the celebrities are as kind as you, I wouldn’t be so angry.” Said Levi with a laugh.

The Protector Chapter 767

Zoey was very pleased with Helena's results and character.

"Helena, your popularity skyrockets recently. A lot of people might be seeking you out now. Please resist the temptation and not fall into any traps." Advised Zoey.

"I understand, Ms. Lopez."

Helena was too popular now.

Numerous advertisers sought to hire her as their spokesperson, while many agencies tried to steal her away by offering high salaries.

However, Helena was not tempted at all. Instead, she followed all Zoey's arrangements.

When the billionaires from overseas offered high amounts of money to invite Helena to drink with them, she refused.

Yet, what she did not expect was that she caught the eyes of the South Hampton Prince Gang.

At that moment, a group of youngsters were smoking and drinking together in a luxurious club at South Hampton.

Tyler and Wales Jones were amongst them.

They were the notorious Prince Gang of South Hampton.

How impressive was the gang?

Timothy, the eldest son of the Caesar family, was merely one of the most insignificant members in the gang.

Even Tyler was only in the middle of the hierarchy.

In other words, the wealthy youngsters, who were predicted to be the most powerful people of South Hampton in the future, were all there.

They represented the entire nation.

Those men at the top of the hierarchy were even more impressive.

They belonged to the most powerful families of South Hampton. Even a royal family like the Jones would have to look up to them.

“Did you guys hear? There’s a new female celebrity called Helena!” Exclaimed Bentley Brooks with a grin.

“Of course! She’s such a chaste woman. Some wealthy businessmen offered her hundreds of millions just to drink with them, but she’s not tempted at all!”

“That’s expected. After all, she had never been in a relationship! Hence, she can still stick to her principles after becoming popular.”

Everyone were discussing enthusiastically.

Even Tyler and Wales were interested.

“I like this woman!”

A voice suddenly rang out.

Everyone, who was initially discussing excitedly, fell silent and looked at the person respectfully.

It was Lucas Quinn!

He was the future heir of the Quinn family, which was one of the top three royal families in South Hampton.

He was considered the true big-shot.

Even Tyler was nothing compared to him!

The Quinn family's influence was four times bigger than the Jones family.

This was, quite precisely, the difference between the both of them.

As the eldest son of the Quinn family, Lucas was considered a genius.

Not only was his academic outstanding, but he was also skilled in combat.

He was one of the top three members of the Prince Gang, only second after the 'Prince'.

When he spoke, everyone paused mid-action.

Twirling a cigar between his fingers, an unreadable expression crossed Lucas' handsome face.

"Wow, it's so rare for a woman to catch your eyes, Lucas." Flattered Tyler.

From what they recall, Lucas' girlfriends were all top beauties. It was very uncommon for him to fancy anyone.

Taking a puff of his cigar, Lucas said, "I've investigated this woman. She suits my taste. But what delighted me more is her boss, Zoey. She's a greater beauty! I want both of them."

The Protector Chapter 768

Everyone gasped in shock.

Lucas certainly pulled no punches this time.

Exchanging glances with each other, Tyler and Wales subconsciously said, “We know Zoey. She’s indeed one of the best! Although she’s married, she’s still a virgin.”

Lucas glanced at them suspiciously. “How do you guys know her so well?”

Wales explained, “Because the Jones family...”

At that moment, Tyler interrupted him, “It’s because we saw Zoey personally during our trip to South City. I think she’s a much better choice.”

As he spoke, he fiercely glared at Wales, reprimanding him for almost mentioning Levi’s name.

The Jones family refused to acknowledge Levi’s identity and existence.

Revealing his identity was a humiliation for them.

Especially in social circles like the Prince Gang, it was better if no one else knew about Levi.

After all, it was a disgrace to the family.

It’s very likely they would hear mocking like “So there’s such a homeless hobo in the Jones family, huh?”

By then, they would be deemed as outcasts by everyone else.

Not finding anything suspicious, Lucas grinned. "That's great! They'll definitely be mine."

"Lucas, let's go to South City, shall we?" Suggested the others.

"Okay. We'll set off tomorrow."

Finished speaking, Lucas took a puff of his cigar again.

Naturally, Zoey and Helena were completely oblivious to their impending danger, and were still preparing for the fan meeting.

That day, Meredith and Robert went to Zoey's office personally.

Under the facade of visiting Zoey, they were actually trying to check on the progress of the fifty-billion project.

The pair met Levi at the corridors coincidentally.

Seeing how lively and vigorous he was, they became consumed with anger.

Logan was still lying in the hospital, yet Levi looked completely unscathed.

How could they not be infuriated?

"Don't be too delighted yet, youngster. The Black family will never spare you." Meredith warned, whispering softly beside Levi's ears.

"Bring it on then." Replied Levi with a cold smile.

How can I even be bothered by the Black family?

If it were not for Zoey, it'd be a piece of cake for me to destroy the Black family.

The old couple then went to Zoey's office and checked the progress.

"Are you sure you want to marry Levi?" Out of the blue, Meredith asked.

Zoey nodded. "Yes. Regardless of how the both of you try to stop me, I'll still marry him!"

Her attitude was firm.

With a smile, the grandmother said, "Zoey, of course you can marry Levi! However, he must make changes until we're satisfied with him. Only then will we not stop your marriage. We met him earlier! He's still a listless and unambitious man. How can you marry such a man!"

Zoey asked directly, "Tell me your conditions, grandma."

The Protector Chapter 769

“It’s simple! There’s still some time before your marriage. Before that, Levi must earn one billion, depending on his own capabilities.” Meredith declared.

Zoey’s eyebrows knitted together.

It’s a short time before the wedding day.

How can he earn one billion by then?

Oh, right.

The Jones family!

Zoey agreed instantly. “Sure! One billion it is then.”

“Remember, no one else can help him.” Reiterated Robert.

“Yeah, that’s right! Six years ago, he gained a net worth of billions within a single year. Now, he has to depend on himself to earn a billion. We want him to recreate what he was capable of back then!”

After listening to their points, Zoey knew she had fallen for their trick.

It was simply too difficult for Levi to earn one billion without any resources.

Meredith and Robert probably dared to suggest that because they knew Levi wouldn’t be able to achieve so.

“Zoey, since you’ve agreed, you must not go back on your words!”

A delighted smile appeared on the grandparents' faces.

After they left, Zoey slumped onto the chair, blaming herself for agreeing too quickly.

How can Levi earn one billion in such a short amount of time?

However, as she had already agreed, she had no choice but to look for Levi.

When he heard what she said, he burst out into laughter. "Just one billion? I thought it'd be ten trillion."

When Zoey saw Levi's confident expression, she was taken aback.

How could he be so confident?

Is one billion really a piece of cake for him?

"You probably didn't hear the conditions right. No one is allowed to help you. You can only depend on yourself!" Reminded Zoey.

"Okay, no problem!"

Levi chuckled.

His black credit card held much more than a billion.

Meredith and Robert would be utterly dumbfounded if they knew how much money he had.

"Okay, then do your best. I'll pay attention to you, but I won't offer any assistance at all." Said Zoey.

However, for the subsequent period of time, Levi disappointed her.

He did not take any actions at all, still resuming his listless days of doing nothing.

Zoey ignored him and went on with handling Helena's fan meeting.

On that day, Zoey and Helena went together.

The fans erupted into cheers.

They were already happy enough to see Helena, but they did not expect her boss to be even more attractive.

This trip is definitely worth it!

From afar, a few men stared at the two women on stage.

"Lucas, did you see her? I'm right when I said that Zoey's a beauty, huh?" Asked Tyler as he chuckled.

"Not bad. If I get them, you will get your reward!"

Taking off his sunglasses, Lucas' gaze never left Zoey and Helena.

No preys which he had his eyes on could ever escape.

The Protector Chapter 770

Lucas commanded, "After the fan meeting, invite them to our party."

"Understood, Lucas. Consider it done." Chorused everyone simultaneously.

The man left afterwards, waiting for the two women's arrival at a French restaurant.

He loved formalities, always ensuring that everything was romantic.

Otherwise, it would be such a waste to just sleep with these women.

As the atmosphere must be perfect, he instructed the others to invite the ladies over instead of forcing them to come.

In the evening, Helena and Zoey were about to leave after the fan meeting ended.

However, there was an Rolls-Royce parked at the entrance.

A few servants, all wearing suits, stood at the side of the car.

The butler at the front bowed in a gentlemanly manner. "Hello, Ms. Lopez and Ms. Engler. On behalf of Mr. Lucas Quinn from South Hampton, I extend his invitation to dinner to both of you."

Right that moment, Levi drove to the front and blocked the Rolls-Royce's path.

"Hop in. I'll treat you to a meal." Said Levi.

Hence, Helena and Zoey refused the butler's request. They entered Levi's car directly and sped off.

The servants stood there in a daze before returning to their senses.

"What happened? Who took them away?"

Everyone was flabbergasted.

Not only did they fail to invite them, but a man also fetched them away!

"Quick! Chase after them!"

But Levi's car was nowhere to be spotted.

Everyone was dumbstruck.

How were they going to explain it to Mr. Quinn?

In the French restaurant, Lucas looked at the servants in front of him and laughed.

"Someone fetched those women away right in front of your eyes?" Asked Lucas as he ate his steak, holding a knife in his left hand and a fork in his right.

The middle-aged butler lowered his head. Trembling, he replied, "Yes, Mr. Quinn. We didn't manage to catch up with them. However, I've already sent people to look for them."

Lucas beckoned him with his finger. "Come!"

Confused, the butler walked toward him.

“Sir, what can I do for you?”

Suddenly, a cold glint appeared in Lucas’ eyes.

Swoosh!

He stabbed the fork in his hands into the butler’s body.

Swoosh!

Swoosh!

Swoosh!

Lucas repeated his actions forcefully.

Blood splattered everywhere.

After a dozen stabs, the butler had already stopped breathing.

His body toppled straight onto the floor with a loud thud.

“You useless pieces of shit!” Bellowed Lucas.

“We’re sorry, Mr. Quinn...”

The other servants were so scared that they fell onto their knees, begging for mercy.

Lucas walked to them with the cutleries in his hands.

Swoosh!

Swoosh!

He stabbed frantically at the rest of the servants, causing blood to spew everywhere.

The Protector Chapter 771

Only when the knife became bent did he stop.

However, by then, all of his servants were dead.

Walking back to his seat, Lucas took out a white handkerchief and wiped the bloodstains away from his hand.

“Someone, give me a new set of cutleries!” Ordered Lucas.

Then, he continued savoring his steak.

The corpses sprawled on the ground and the metallic stench of blood filling the room did not affect him at all.

He still had the appetite to eat.

Those who understood Lucas knew that he often had unpredictable mood swings.

On one hand, he could create a romantic atmosphere in a French Restaurant; Yet on the other hand, he could instantly transform into a crazy murderer.

In simpler words, Lucas was a psychopath.

As long as something crossed him, he killed.

In recent years, he had killed more than a hundred of his family's servants and butlers, let alone the others.

The Quinn's young master could be considered a demented mass murderer.

Hence, many people in the Prince Gang were terrified of him.

Even though Jones family had the God of War as their protector, Tyler dared not boast about it to Lucas.

If he angered the man, he might be killed mercilessly.

Hence, he had no choice but to keep flattering Lucas.

Soon, the corpses were removed and the members of the Prince Gang arrived one by one.

“What? Someone fetched the ladies away?”

Everyone was surprised.

Who would dare to do such a thing?

Do they have a death wish?

“I want to know who he is too.”

Lucas drank the red wine elegantly.

No one could tell that he had killed five people earlier.

“For snatching the women you like, the person must die!”

“Don't worry, Lucas. We've already sent someone to investigate. Soon, we'll find out where they are.” Assured the rest flatteringly.

News arrived ten minutes later, saying that they had found out where Helena and Zoey were.

They were eating at the Stardust Hotel, located in the city center.

“Let’s go. I want to take a look at the bast*rd!”

Lucas stood up, looking very curious as well.

The Prince Gang rushed to the Stardust Hotel as fast as they could.

Helena actually suggested to buy the couple a meal to express her gratitude.

Levi did not stand on ceremony either, and directly brought them to the most expensive Stardust Hotel.

When someone saw the car parked at the entrance, he pointed at it and declared, “Mr. Quinn, Helena and Zoey entered this car!”

A smile played on Lucas’ lips. He glanced at the car and said, “Let’s go in.”

They entered the lobby and saw Zoey and the rest seated beside the window.

“It’s him?”

Tyler and Wales spotted Levi instantly, and decided to back off.

If they went over, Levi would recognize them.

They could not afford to be embarrassed by him.

Furthermore, Levi had angered Lucas.

The Protector Chapter 772

“Lucas, something happened in our family. We need to return to South Hampton.”

They thought of an excuse quickly.

“Leave. Don’t affect my mood.”

Tyler and Wales did not want Levi to beg them for mercy when he was going to be killed.

Not only would it embarrass them, but they might also get involved if Lucas found out about their relationship with Levi.

It was better for them to escape.

In the restaurant, Lucas walked toward Levi and the other two with the Prince Gang following along.

The three of them, who were initially eating and chatting, sensed something amiss.

Raising their heads, they noticed those men standing beside them.

Each of them wore luxurious clothing, exuding a dignified aura.

“How can I help you?” Asked Zoey.

“Hello, Ms. Lopez and Ms. Engler. I’m an admirer of yours.” Lucas introduced himself politely.

“And you are?” Asked Zoey.

“I’m Lucas Quinn from South Hampton! Can I get to know you?”

Lucas was full of smiles.

His courteous attitude made it hard for anyone to refuse.

“No!”

At that moment, a voice rang out.

It was Levi, who was still eating.

“No?”

Lucas and everyone else turned their gazes to Levi.

“We’re eating. Please don’t disturb us.”

Without even raising his head, Levi continued eating.

His cold attitude upset the Prince Gang.

After all, no one had shown such disrespect to them in the past.

Maintaining a gentlemanly front, Lucas said, “Sir, I did not ask you. I was asking the two ladies.”

“I know, but they’re both my women. I’ve rejected you on their behalf. Go quickly! They don’t want to know you.”

His remarks were so shocking to the Prince Gang that they almost burst into laughter.

So there's someone who isn't fear of death!

How dare he disrespects Lucas?

Hearing that, Lucas chuckled. "Are you saying that both of them are yours?"

"Yeah. What about it?" Replied Levi coldly.

Lucas noticed that Zoey's expression remained calm, while Helena looked shy.

He seems to be telling the truth.

There's something wrong with the three of them.

Interesting...

"Then, I want to buy a drink for your women. How's that?"

A sick, domineering and arrogant smirk appeared on Lucas' face.

He had shown his true self.

Lucas was the type who found it exciting to invite a woman in front of her man.

"They're not free. Hurry up and leave!"

Levi was already running out of patience.

"Haha! Okay. I'll take my leave now. However, I'll be waiting for you at the entrance."

Lucas actually left courteously, and went waiting at the entrance.

“What should we do? It’s obvious that they are here with malicious intents.”

Zoey and Helena panicked.

“Let’s pretend nothing happened.”

With a calm expression, Levi continued eating and drinking his wine.

The Protector Chapter 773

Although Levi could still keep his cool, the ladies were completely flustered.

They could tell that Lucas and the rest were not ordinary person.

From their clothing and aura, apparently they came from a powerful background.

They might get themselves into trouble if they crossed those men.

“Don’t worry. Since I’m here, nothing will happen to you.” Said Levi with a smile.

For some reason, Zoey and Helena felt assured when they heard his words—especially Helena, who gazed at Levi admiringly.

To her, Levi was a mysterious man who was not as listless as how everyone had said.

To her, Levi was exceptionally impressive, and had a good eye and great foresight.

He was definitely a prominent man.

“After the meal, Syllas will send you back. I’ll settle them.” Announced Levi calmly.

“Be careful. Call me if anything happens.”

Zoey was not concerned.

As he was related with the Jones family in South Hampton, she assumed no one would dare to make things difficult for Levi.

She had a mindset: Levi used his identity as the Jones family's grandson to solve problems.

After dinner, Syllas fetched Zoey and Helena away from the back door.

Levi lit up a cigarette and swaggered out of the entrance.

There was a Rolls-Royce parked at the entrance, and a dozen sports cars blocking the road too.

They were disrupting the hotel's business.

However, when the boss learned about their identities, he did not dare to say anything. Not only did he let them park there, but he also even sent some waiters to attend to their needs.

The gang surrounded Levi the moment he stepped out of the hotel.

"You are a courageous soul, huh?" Mocked everyone.

Lucas glanced behind him and asked, "Where are the ladies?"

"They've left." Replied Levi.

"Huh?"

Everyone was stunned. Why didn't we realize it?

They left through the back door!

Those men were instantly filled with regret.

A furious look flashed across Lucas's face as he said coldly, "Sir, that's a bit dishonest of you. I said I want to invite your women over for drinks. Why did you ask them to leave beforehand?"

This was how domineering Lucas was.

He was blatantly inviting the ladies for drinks in front of their partner, yet he made it sound like it was the most natural thing to do.

"Do you think that you're really cool?" Levi suddenly asked.

"Huh?"

Everyone was taken aback, especially Lucas.

No one had ever said that to him!

Everyone he interacted with were all very deferential to him, not even daring to breathe loudly.

It was interesting to meet someone as straightforward as Levi.

"How would you like me to say it then? In a cruder manner? Alright. Bast*rd, lend me your women. I want to sleep with them tonight." Declared Lucas.

"Hahaha!"

The Prince Gang erupted into laughter as they looked at Levi mockingly.

The Protector Chapter 774

However, they did not notice a cold glint that flashed across Levi's eyes.

He could tolerate it if they joked about him.

However, Zoey was out of bounds!

Death was certain if they touched his raw nerve—and Zoey was his bottom-line.

“So you like to be crude and straightforward, huh?”

“Yeah dude. Lucas wants to sleep with your women! Be obedient and send them to his bed!”

Everyone guffawed.

Lucas also smiled and said, “That’s what I meant. Looks like I shouldn’t be so gentlemanly in the future. Why are you glaring at me? Do you want to hit me? Come and punch me, then.” Provoked the Quinn’s heir with a smirk.

He even brought his face closer to Levi.

Lucas had done this multiple times, yet no one ever dared to hit him.

Usually, the person would end up on his knees, begging for mercy and then send his wife to him.

Boom!

Suddenly, he felt a powerful gust of wind as a black shadow filled his vision.

His expression changed drastically.

With a crisp and loud sound, Levi slapped Lucas' cheek harshly, sending him flying almost ten meters away.

He landed on a sports car heavily, with a couple of teeth knocked out of his mouth.

The gang was utterly stunned as they looked at Levi in disbelief.

He actually hits Lucas?

Lucas lay on top of the sports car with a numb expression as shock filled his eyes.

That was certainly not something he had expected.

Then, a wave of excruciating pain hit him.

For a whole minute, everyone stood frozen to the spot before returning to their senses.

“You actually hit him! Do you know who he is?”

“He is the eldest son of the Quinn family, one of the top three royal families of South Hampton! He's also one of the three ringleaders of the Prince Gang.”

“Do you know how stupid you were? You have just caused your family's demise.”

The Prince Gang started rebuking him.

In the southern region of Erudia, let alone in South Hampton, no one would dare to slap Lucas.

Yet, someone from the insignificant South City did so.

This was something unbelievable to the rest, as if they had just witnessed an ant fighting against an elephant.

They could hardly comprehend what had happened!

“You deserve that.”

Eyeing Lucas, Levi continued, “Consider yourself lucky. If it’s in the past, you’d be long dead.”

His tone was extremely cocky and arrogant, but he was not lying.

In the past, after his departure from the battlefields, Lucas would die the moment he said something like that.

With that, Levi prepared to leave.

“Stop that man!” Bellowed Lucas.

The Protector Chapter 775

The Prince Gang did it accordingly.

“How dare you leave after hitting Lucas? Do you think that we’re just props? Are you looking down on the Prince Gang?”

Many of the members were very cocky people. Now that they met Levi, who was way more arrogant than them, they could not stand it anymore.

Levi laughed. “Why? Do you want me to beat him till he dies?”

“You... You... You’re such a cocky bast*rd!”

The Prince Gang was astounded.

They had never seen such an impudent man like him.

He was up against the Prince Gang, the most feared organization in the entire southern region.

“You’re the first person who dares to act so haughtily in front of us!” Yelled everyone furiously.

“So are you forcing me to stay just to see how arrogant I am?” Asked Levi with a smirk.

“Do you want to die?!”

“How dare you hit Lucas?!”

“Today, I’ll definitely break your limbs, knock your teeth off, rip all your hair out, tear your nails, and stab your kneecaps. I’ll make you apologize to Lucas on your knees!”

Everyone in the Prince Gang threatened Levi menacingly.

They had many ruthless methods up their sleeves.

To them, Levi was nothing but a punchbag.

They had already thought of how to torment him.

“Cripple him right away. I don’t want to see him standing anymore!”

The searing pain from his hand and mouth caused Lucas to bellow in rage.

The Prince Gang attacked instantly.

Bang!

Bang!

Bang!

However, they were up against the unparalleled God of War, who was so powerful that even other nations dared not cross him.

Although some of the members of the Prince Gang were skilled in combat, they were simply too weak in Levi’s eyes, as weak as mere defenseless women.

Levi took them out punch by punch.

Soon, all of them were sprawled on the floor as they miserably howled in regret.

Initially, they thought no one would dare to offend them in South City.

Hence, they did not even bring their bodyguards along.

This was what led to their pathetic defeat.

“How dare you beat us? You’ll die!”

“You’ll regret it!”

Threatening Levi, the Prince Gang still refused to relent as they lay on the ground.

Slam!

Levi stepped onto them.

“Ugh!!!”

Screams of agony escaped their mouths.

Stepping on the bodies, Levi strode over slowly amidst their miserable howls.

Not only did it hurt, but their pride had also been trampled under Levi’s feet.

Despite being the mighty Prince Gang, they were now being stepped on.

What an utter disgrace!

Levi reached Lucas at last.

The latter panicked. “What... What do you want?”

The Protector Chapter 776

When Lucas saw Levi's harmless smile, he felt that he was confronted by the grim reaper.

Levi looked like the epitome of terror.

His gaze was so sharp that Lucas felt like Levi was looking right into the depths of his soul, even the terror that was filling him right now.

What's going on?

Lucas' body quivered uncontrollably.

He had never feared anyone in his life, despite having met many prominent people.

However, for an unknown reason, he felt an inexplicable sense of fear facing Levi.

"Didn't you stop me from leaving?" Asked Levi.

"I... I... I didn't..." Stuttered Lucas, unable to complete his sentence.

"Looks like I can only leave after you're dead!"

A ruthless glint flashed across Levi's eyes.

Thud!

Lucas was about to say something when Levi aimed a punch on his face, causing blood to spurt out from him.

Thud!

Thud!

Thud!

After a few consecutive punches, Lucas was covered in blood.

“You can’t mess around with anyone’s woman!”

As Levi wiped his hands and walked away, Lucas toppled straight onto the ground with a loud thud.

Having lost his consciousness, blood dribbled down his mouth.

The Prince Gang regretted now. Why did we stop him from leaving?!

“Quick! Go to the hospital! We have to save Lucas.”

The group then sped off to the hospital.

In the office building, Zoey heaved a sigh of relief when she saw Levi return unscathed.

However, she did not ask whether the matter was resolved.

To her, she believed that it would definitely be settled due to Levi’s association with the Jones family.

“Sylas, pick two elites from the security team to protect Helena. There’s been a lot of people harassing her recently.” Instructed Levi as he glanced at Helena.

“Understood!” Sylas nodded.

The new security team was made up of discharged soldiers. All of them were top-notch fighters, armed with great combat skills.

Iris wanted Helena to be protected too.

Recently, Morris Group’s electronic products were released in the market. With Helena as their spokesperson, the sales had been amazingly good.

Zoey invested the Black family’s fifty billion in the electronic industry. This meant the Morris Group had helped the Black family reap the most profits...

“Levi, follow me. I have something to tell you.”

Zoey summoned Levi to her office.

“Levi, did you think of a way to earn that one billion?”

Zoey wanted to ask about Levi’s progress.

However, he did not seem to be taking it seriously.

“One billion... Hmm... Are they looking down on me? How about we add the amount to one hundred billion?” Suggested Levi with a chuckle.

“Stop joking. Do you care about me at all?”

The Protector Chapter 777

Levi was taken aback by Zoey's sudden question.

"Huh?"

"By asking you to earn one billion in a short amount of time, Grandpa and Grandma wants you to prove that you're worthy of me. Then, they will have no reason to separate us.

No matter what, it's an unchangeable fact that they're my relatives. The only thing we can do is to satisfy them to the best of our abilities, so that it is a win-win situation.

But I think you aren't even taking it seriously. Other than sleeping and eating, you don't do anything else." Stated Zoey furiously.

Levi smiled. "It's easy to settle this. Just wait and see."

Indeed, it was a piece of cake to him.

He could produce one billion whenever he wanted to.

However, Zoey assumed that Levi's method of resolving the issue was to use his identity as the Jones family's grandson.

It was extremely easy to earn one billion by using the Jones family's name.

This could convince the Black family, but Zoey was not pleased.

What she cared about was Levi's attitude, instead of him resolving everything using that identity.

She hoped Levi could work hard like six years ago and build his success with his own effort.

"So be it." Said Zoey with a sigh.

As she watched the man leave, she whispered, "I wish I'm marrying to the unparalleled, wealthy and formidable Levi."

However, judging from the current situation, Zoey knew it was only her wishful thinking.

Levi was no longer as driven as before.

Although it was impossible for him to meet her expectations, she was still hopeful.

Naturally, Levi did not understand what she meant.

He simply thought that she was being ridiculous.

At that moment, the Prince Gang was in a private hospital, each of them covered with bruises.

They heaved a sigh of relief when the doctor declared that Lucas was fine.

Only his nose bridge and brow bone were broken.

If something bad happened to Lucas, the entire South City would be in an uproar.

After all, he belonged to the top three families of South Hampton, whose power was four times greater than the Jones.

The mighty Quinn family would definitely be infuriated.

By then, who could afford to bear the consequences?

At that moment, they suddenly heard a commotion in the hospital ward.

Entering the room, they saw Lucas stabbing a doctor over and over again.

The doctor's white coat was completely stained with blood!

Lucas was trying to vent his anger by stabbing everyone within his sight.

He was really an inhumane murderer!

"Don't be too agitated, Lucas. The doctor saved you!"

Everyone held him back, who yelled furiously, "I've been so utterly humiliated. So what if he cures me? I'll definitely skin that bast*rd alive!"

The Protector Chapter 778

“We understand your rage, Lucas. That bast*rd humiliated us too!”

“He has destroyed the South Hampton Prince Gang’s reputation. Only by skinning him alive can we vent our hatred!”

Everyone else was equally furious.

“Lucas, you should focus on recovering first. Once you get better, we’ll go teach him a lesson. Anyway, there’s nowhere for him to escape to.” Persuaded the rest.

“To hell with recovering! If I don’t kill that man, I can never tolerate this!”

Lucas was harsh even on himself. Ripping the needles from the infusion bottles away from his hand, he got off the bed.

The nurses and doctors were taken aback.

“I’ll seek treatment after I kill that man!”

Lucas left just like that.

However, his entire face was swollen, with only his eyes and mouth discernible.

What happened today was beyond everyone’s wildest imagination.

No one would expect the Prince Gang to end up in such a miserable state.

Not only was the rest beaten up, but even Lucas was also badly hurt...

If the others in South Hampton knew about this, there would be an uproar.

“Whatever happened today must not spread to South Hampton!” Instructed Lucas.

The men placed great importance on their reputation.

If anyone knew about this, they would be a joke forever.

“But we’ll definitely need more men if we want to kill that bast*rd.”

Someone asked, “Should I summon more men secretly?”

“No. Someone will notice if a skilled fighter in South Hampton is summoned. If my Grandpa asks about it, I won’t be able to give him a proper explanation.”

Lucas shook his head.

“What should we do?” Asked the rest.

“The Four Kings of the Southern Union have control over this area. I’ll request Yadriel to lend me some skilled fighters.” Answered Lucas.

When they went to Yadriel’s villa, the man and the rest were shocked.

“How did you end up this way?”

Yadriel was taken aback.

To be honest, even the Southern Union needed to be wary of the Prince Gang.

Even Grover had warned the members to not cross the gang.

If a conflict started, the gang would definitely not give up so easily.

In fact, they would be up against the combined forces of all the wealthy families in South Hampton.

Hence, he was utterly shocked at the miserable state the gang was in.

“Yadriel, I’ll cut straight to the point. Lend me a hundred men. Don’t ask me why. Also, I hope this stays between us.” Said Lucas.

Yadriel had no choice but to agree to Lucas’ request.

He immediately selected a hundred skilled fighters for the latter.

With these experts, the Prince Gang was all ready to confront Levi.

The Protector Chapter 779

In the villa, Yadriel was still wondering who beat Lucas up.

That person must be a gutsy person.

This is equivalent to him opposing the entire Prince Gang!

“Sir, this is so strange! Who in South City would dare to beat Lucas?”

“Yeah! I can’t think of anyone. Even in South Hampton, no one would dare to beat him, right?”

His subordinates were equally puzzled, unable to think of a logical explanation.

Yadriel stroked his chin. “It’s probably a private matter. He doesn’t even dare to tell me.”

“No, there’s one person in South City who would dare to do so...” Reminded someone suddenly.

Everyone exchanged knowing glances. Immediately, Yadriel realized who he was talking about.

Previously, the Southern Union suffered a great loss in the same manner!

He was absolutely certain that the person in mind was the one who offended Lucas.

There was no one else in South City who would dare to beat him up.

“Quick, catch up with him! This is bad! Let’s hope it’s still not too late!”

Yadriel chased after them with a few of his men.

If Lucas offended that person, the entire South Hampton Prince Gang would be destroyed.

Even their families would be ruined.

It was critical to stop them in time!

However, Lucas and the rest were simply too fast, having disappeared from Yadriel’s sight soon.

“Lucas, we’ve found out that the guy is called Levi Garrison. He’s staying in Morris Group’s apartment building with Zoey.”

The insight came very quickly.

“Okay. Lead us there!”

A cold, ruthless glint flashed across Lucas’ eyes.

“I will massacre everyone there, before breaking Levi’s limbs and crippling him. Just torture him in any method possible. I want him to die in agony!”

Still not satisfied, Lucas continued furiously, “I’ll even sleep with both of his women right in front of his eyes.”

Then, looking at the rest, he announced, “After I have a go with the ladies, you guys can sleep with them one by one, right in front of him. I want to torture him to death!”

Everyone gasped in shock.

Indeed, Lucas is a pervert.

He is more terrifying than we have expected!

Not only does he plan on tormenting Levi emotionally and physically, but he also wants to torture him to death.

This is absolutely frightening!

We must never offend him.

Everyone followed the man fearfully and soon arrived at the apartment building owned by the Morris group.

They were stopped by the security guards at the entrance.

“Who are you? What are you doing here?”

The security guards were Syllas’ battle mates. They stared at Lucas and the rest warily.

At that same time, they reported what was going on to the control room through the walkie-talkie.

“What are we doing here? We’re here to kill!”

With a ruthless glare, Lucas gave a command.

The hundred skilled fighters drew their knives and charged forward.

The Protector Chapter 780

“What are you doing?”

At that moment, Levi and a few men arrived.

Zoey and Helena had also rushed over after hearing the news.

Looking at the hundred-armed men, they quivered in fear.

“Stop!”

With a wave of his hand, Lucas gestured for everyone to stop.

“Bast*rd, you’ll pay a huge price for what you’ve done!” Yelled Lucas.

It was a meeting between enemies!

When the South Hampton Prince Gang saw Levi, it was like they had gone mad.

They wished for nothing more than to devour Levi’s meat and drink his blood.

No one, other than him, had humiliated them so badly.

Lucas was particularly enraged. The moment he saw Levi, he was shooting daggers at the latter with his eyes.

In his mind, he imagined Levi ripped apart into a dozen pieces.

The ladies recognized them too.

Zoey's mind became completely blank.

She thought Levi had resolved the matter, but she did not expect his solution was to beat them up.

Back at the Black family's house, she had already realized how skilled Levi was at fighting.

"You actually beat them up?" Asked Zoey in disbelief.

"They asked for it." Replied Levi calmly.

"But... But you've gotten yourself in so much trouble! Look at how many people there are!"

Zoey was getting a little angry at Levi's attitude.

On the other hand, Helena started to panic.

"This is all because of me. I'll just accompany them for a drink. Nothing will happen." Said Helena apologetically.

She thought this entire mess was created because the men wanted to flirt with her.

Yet, she did not know that Lucas had already set his eyes on her and Zoey way back at South Hampton.

"It's fine. As long as I'm here, I won't let that happen!"

Zoey was a good leader who cared for her subordinates.

Hence, she would never permit something like that to happen.

Levi laughed. "Leave it to me. It's just a piece of cake!"

"You?"

Zoey glanced at Levi in surprise. The first thought that surfaced in her mind was that Levi was going to use his identity as the Jones family's grandson again.

"You're Levi Garrison, right? How dare you hit us? We are from the South Hampton Prince Gang!"

"The person you hit is Lucas! Let me tell you this. You've just gotten yourself into deep trouble!"

The Prince Gang started to hurl threats at them.

When Zoey heard what they were saying, fear gripped her heart.

They are from South Hampton.

We certainly cannot afford to offend them.

"So? Are you not satisfied with your beating in the evening? Do you still want to get beaten up?" Asked Levi as he smirked coldly at Lucas and the rest.

Looking at how arrogantly Levi was acting, Lucas and the rest could not tolerate it any longer.

"Cut him up into pieces!"

There was only one thought dominating Lucas' mind: Kill Levi Garrison.

Yet, an unexpected scene occurred.

The Protector Chapter 781

Clang!

All the members of the Southern Union kneeled on the ground abruptly and shouted uniformly, "Good evening, Mr. Garrison!"

Their roaring voices were deafening to the ear, vibrated the chest of everyone at the scene.

Helena, Zoey, Lucas and the rest of the people were left in shock.

...

Everyone's jaws dropped as they stared at Levi in surprise.

They were in utter disbelief. Everyone thought their eyes were playing tricks on them.

What's going on? Who is he that these people have to kneel before him? Can someone please explain what's actually happening now?

They couldn't get their head around the scene in front of their eyes.

Lucas and his men were flabbergasted the most among all.

What the hell is this?!

The members of the Southern Union weren't out of their mind. They were sane and sober.

Grover was a smart man. He had secretly shown the picture of Levi to all the members of the Southern Union and warned them about his capability. If they encountered him, the first thing to do was to kneel and avoid any conflict at all costs. On top of that, they couldn't reveal his identity to anyone.

For that reason, all of them recognized Levi at the first glance, and they were horrified to know that their target was the latter. So, they kneeled right away in order to save their own lives.

“Hey, why are you lots kneeling? He is the man I want to kill! Get on your feet!” Lucas roared anxiously.

But no one paid him any heed, and they remained in the same posture.

It was likely that they'll not move a muscle if Levi didn't give them further instructions.

“What are you doing?” Lucas yelled as his edginess grew.

His expression gradually became tense due to the increasing agitation. As a result, the wound on his face almost tore open, and he gritted his teeth in pain.

Still, they remained on the ground and didn't budge an inch.

An epiphany occurred when Zoey saw the happening, and she assumed that those people were on their knees because Levi was one of the Joneses.

Otherwise, it would be unthinkable that they'd do such a thing.

The only reason behind their bizarre action would be his identity as a royalty.

Moreover, the way they addressed him furthered reinforced her assumption.

So he had been using the influence of his family to settle issues lately. It seems like he's doing the same again, but at least the problem is solved.

“What are you waiting for?” Levi queried in a cold tone.

“We're sorry about this, Mr. Garrison!” They apologized in unison.

Right after that, they rose to their feet and disappeared into the shadows.

Leaving Lucas and the bunch behind, who were calling out for them.

That left the gang in an awkward situation. The fighters they hired bailed on them. We're just a group of defeated foes. There's no way we can exact revenge on Levi anymore. We should retreat now.

“Hold on. Did I give you permission to leave?” Levi stopped them.

The Protector Chapter 782

His voice immediately brought them to a standstill as they recalled the pain and horror of being beaten up by Levi in the evening.

Then, they began to tremble.

We'll lose all our faces if we're beaten to a pulp again. In the case, death would be a salvation.

“You’re coming and going as you like in my territory! Am I invisible to you?” Levi snapped in an icy tone, sending chills down everyone’s spine.

The crowd gasped in shock.

Whoever upsets him is running out of luck!

“Let’s forget about it, Levi. You’ve already beaten them up, and the problem is solved anyway. To err is human, to forgive is divine.”

Zoey didn’t want things to get out of control, so she took the initiative to intervene.

“Alright then. Consider yourself lucky today. Get lost!” Levi bellowed.

The Prince Gang ran for their lives immediately after they were released.

“Okay. Let’s all go back now. Do not say a word about what happened tonight.” Zoey ordered.

Thereafter, Levi thought she would inquire about the reason those people got on their knees.

However, she didn't do so. It was like she already had an answer, which was rather puzzling to him.

Zoey has been acting weird lately. She's not even curious about all the unusual things I've done recently. It's like she is used to it.

But little did he know that Zoey had been assuming him to utilize his identity as a member of the Jones family to settle things.

Meanwhile, Yadriel, who came rushing, bumped into the hundred fighters who were retreating.

"Mr. Garrison had us released." The person leading the group noted.

Yadriel clapped his hands as his suspicion had proven to be right.

I knew it! It's really Mr. Garrison!

"This is bad! They're so screwed!"

Following that, the man picked up his pace at once. Nevertheless, he stumbled upon Lucas' group shortly after he dashed with all his might.

"Hmm? Did he not give you a hard time?" Yadriel gazed at them in bafflement.

Judging from Mr. Garrison's personality, it's unlikely he'll let them go. What happened?

"Levi didn't want to release us at first. He only did it after his woman talked him into it." One of them explained.

At this, Yadriel heaved a sigh of relief. “Thank goodness... Oh yeah. I’ve made some arrangements to escort you out of this city. You should head back to South Hampton at once. Staying here will spell doom for all of you.” He urged.

These people can’t stay here! They’ll most likely push Mr. Garrison’s button again, and they’ll be dead meat for sure! I have to send them away now. Anyhow, I’m acquainted with the Quinn family; seeing one of theirs playing with fire certainly doesn’t sit well with me!

“Stop right there!” Lucas beckoned at him.

Once he came to a halt, Lucas stared into his eyes and asked, “What in the world is going on? Why did your people kneel and call him Mr. Garrison the moment they saw that guy?”

“They seemed to be afraid of the one called Levi.”

“Who is he that even the Southern Union members are terrified at the sight of him?” The Prince Gang wondered.

“Yeah, who on earth is he?”

The Protector Chapter 783

This question put Yadriel in a difficult spot.

Should I tell them? What if the higher-ups put the blame on me? I'll be in deep trouble then!

Just as he was contemplating, a voice could be heard saying, "You're not worthy to know who I am!"

Soon after the voice, a figure slowly emerged.

Yadriel's eyes almost popped out from their sockets after he got a good look at that person.

Did he tail them here? I knew he wasn't planning to let the Prince Gang go! At the end of the day, this is who Mr. Garrison truly is!

Right before he was about to kneel, Levi gestured him to stand aside.

Lucas and the rest on the other hand, were thrown into a panic state after seeing him.

What is he doing here? Didn't he let us go?

"Yadriel, I want you to get rid of him for me today! Whatever the cost!" Lucas bawled, his voice implying he wanted Levi killed.

"I'll pay you ten billion!" Lucas named a hefty sum of money after seeing that he remained unfazed.

Considering the amount he was willing to pay, one could roughly gauge the level of his madness and the intensity of his loathe for Levi.

Everyone drew a sharp breath after hearing his words.

He's insane! Ten billion for Levi's head! What an amount to squander!

To his surprise, Yadriel remained uninterested and moved to the sidelines.

"Handle your own mess! I won't interfere!" Yadriel replied indifferently.

Ten billion surely is alluring. But if I take the job, I'll be dead before I even get to spend a single cent.

The turn of events had caught Lucas off guard.

What do I do now? Our men are all in South Hampton. We're basically sitting ducks here.

"D-didn't you give your word to let us go?" Lucas asked with a trembling voice.

The egoistic Prince Gang was docile as a lamb in the face of Levi. They began to fear for their lives and dreaded the individual called Levi Garrison.

"It was my woman who promised to let you go, not me!"

Everyone was rendered speechless by the words of Levi while his lips curled up into a sneer.

"W-What do you want?" Everyone was shuddering.

After all, they had a phobia after being beaten up by him.

Even a madman like Lucas was frightened by his absurdity.

I need to be more ruthless to go against someone like him!

“I dare you to let me go back!” Lucas challenged in a cold tone.

Once I'm back to South Hampton, I swear I'll amass a large group of men enough to wipe out the entire South City! It doesn't matter if I lose my face or honor; I will cut you into pieces! Just you wait!

“What do you say? I see that you're also a ruthless man like myself! Let's arrange a showdown! Dispatch every man you have!” He continued after seeing a ray of hope.

“Yeah! Do you have the balls? If you're a man, then let us go! We'll have a face-off with real swords!” The others seized the opportunity to provoke Levi.

Having said that, Yadriel who was on the sidelines was dumbstruck.

The Prince Gang wants to fight with Levi! Will he accept it?

The Protector Chapter 784

Needless to say, Levi understood the intention of these people. It was so that they could gather enough forces to pay back for what he did.

“You stay back. The rest of you, scram!” Levi pointed at Lucas while commanding.

“Huh? Why are you detaining me?” Lucas was baffled.

Levi nodded, “I don’t take innocent lives anymore, so I’m not gonna kill you. But it doesn’t mean that you’ll escape being punished. You must kneel for three whole days to repent for your ill behaviors. Only after you’ve done that will I release you.”

With a wave of his hand, Azure Dragon, who was on standby, instantly restrained Lucas.

The rest of his friends could only stare helplessly as the scene unfolded.

“You must come to my rescue! Send people to save me!” Lucas cried out at the top of his lungs.

Kneel for three whole days? That’s not happening! Do you think that I, one of the three ringleaders of the Prince Gang, will bow my knees before anyone? How very insulting! But I can only place my hope on the reinforcements now!

It went without saying that the news of Lucas being detained must not reach the ear of Zoey.

For this reason, he was transferred to Guardian Mansion.

By this time, the walls and doors in the compound had been fixed.

“Kneel!” A commanding voice could be heard.

However, Lucas wouldn't give in to the order.

Thud!

Azure Dragon kicked the back of his knees, and he immediately fell onto the ground.

Shortly, his hands and feet were bounded.

At the same time, there were many large dogs keeping watch over him.

The pain and humiliation had almost caused even a man like Lucas to weep.

He became increasingly infuriated when the thought of having to go through this odious experience for another three days crossed his mind.

Yet, things surely didn't go well for him as a piece of rag was stuffed in his mouth.

This was the most tormenting moment of his life.

Even if I managed to survive this ordeal, I'd be the laughingstock of all.

Levi had none but one single rule: as long as his prisoner didn't die from starvation, anything would be fine.

Therefore, his subordinates paid little attention to the one who was on his knees.

With the situation getting out of hand, the escaped members of the Prince Gang returned to South Hampton as quickly as they could.

Naturally, none of them dared to inform their own families after getting themselves into such a big trouble, let alone the Quinn family.

Thus, they hurriedly reached out to the remaining two ringleaders of the Prince Gang early the next morning.

One of them was the leader of the Prince Gang, Jaron Goel, who was awarded the epithet “Prince”.

He was the most outstanding man among the younger generations in South Hampton and happened to be the heir to the biggest royal family in the city – the Goel family.

Be it strength, capabilities, background, or the other aspects, he excelled in all of them.

Not to mention his unchallenged mastery in the Ancient Arts of Qi.

Rumor had it that he could go toe to toe with Grover.

Surely, no one dared to challenge his position as the leader of the Prince Gang.

Thus, all the young heirs of the prominent families in South Hampton would regard him as the “Prince”.

At the present moment, Jaron was wearing a bathrobe while gazing at the men in front of him.

There was a worried expression on his handsome face as he declared, “Since this matter is pertaining to the Prince Gang, I shall deal with it personally!”

The Protector Chapter 785

“Give the order to everyone! Gather all our forces and we shall head to South City at once!” Jaron commanded.

Once the instruction was given, the other ringleader, who was regarded as an equal to Lucas, Jackson hastened to gather his men right away.

With that, all the Prince Gang’s top fighters were assembled and left for South City together.

It was considered the biggest incident that had ever happened to the Prince Gang over the past decade.

Not only did one of their ringleaders take a beating, but he was also detained.

It was beyond an insult to them.

To them, preserving their honor was more important than their own lives.

If they lost it, they would use every means to get it back.

The Prince Gang was utterly enraged this time that even their notorious Prince had come in person.

Yadriel was stunned when he heard this.

“Even the Prince himself is coming?” He was clearly surprised by the fact.

“It seems like Jaron has brought all his top fighters with him this time. He must be really pissed.”

“Jaron is an arrogant person. He answers to no one other than that man. This time however, he’s gonna get hurt as his target is you-know-who.” Yadriel sighed.

“Sir, should we give them a heads up?” One of his subordinates queried.

“Do you have a death wish? The purpose of detaining Lucas is so that he could get rid of the Prince Gang once and for all. Why are you trying to get us involved in their battle?” Yadriel glared at his man.

Lucas was totally exhausted after kneeling all night, and for that reason, his body quivered uncontrollably.

If it wasn’t for the binding ropes, he would’ve fallen to the ground.

He had fainted around seven or eight times throughout the entire night.

Lucas was someone with great stamina from his routine martial art practice. If even he couldn’t stand it, it proved just how unbearably torturing it’d be like for an average joe.

Any normal person would’ve met their demise after kneeling for such a long period with untreated injuries and inflammation.

Even Lucas himself knew that he could only hold on for another full day at most.

He could be in grave danger if this were to go on.

“Why are they not here yet?” Lucas was on the verge of total breakdown.

He cried so much last night that even his tears had dried off.

Being treated like a house dog was the part that infuriated him the most.

The food he was given looked exactly like kibble.

Yet, in order to gain energy, he had no choice but to eat them.

This was definitely the darkest and most humiliating moment in his entire life!

His honor and dignity had been utterly trampled by Levi, so he could never get over it unless Levi was killed by his own hands.

Vroom...

Just as he was about to fall into despair, the sound of car engines could be heard from afar.

Lucas forced his drooping eyes to open and peered toward the sound. His eyes gleamed the moment he identified its source.

Y'all are finally here!

Joyful tears spilled out from his eyes. Had it not been for the rag in his mouth, he would like to let out a few shouts.

A while later, dozens of cars came to a stop in front of the Guardian Mansion, and hundreds of men got out of their vehicles.

Among them stood their leaders, Jaron and Jackson.

The Protector Chapter 786

The second Lucas saw the Prince, he knew this issue was as good as resolved.

He was not afraid of Levi's connection with the Southern Union anymore because Jaron was greater than them.

Jaron wouldn't compromise especially when it came to dealing with the issues of the Prince Gang.

Hahahaha... Lucas laughed inwardly.

You screwed up big time, Levi! You're finished!

Thereafter, he was scheming on how to torment Levi, Zoey and Helena.

His mind was filled with scenes of Levi being chopped into pieces and his remains boiled in a pot.

Thud! Thud! Thud! Thud!

In no time, units of bodyguards marched toward the Guardian Mansion and got into their formation.

Everyone was equipped with weapons.

Having said that, some of them were bare-handed, yet they were undoubtedly elite fighters judging by the air around them.

After the Prince made his appearance, he was followed by two rows of men.

Each of them was carrying an ancient dagger.

These men were the Prince's personal bodyguards. All of them were highly-skilled fighters.

Together they could take down the Four Kings of Southern Union.

It just showed how powerful these people were.

Including the bodyguards of the other members, there were a total of two hundred top fighters at the scene.

The Prince Gang's members were burning in anger after seeing Lucas's miserable appearance.

This is public shaming! Our honors have been trampled! This is totally unbearable!

In a heartbeat, someone came to the front of the compound but was stopped by Jaron before he could cause a ruckus.

In a split second, Jaron raised his gun and pulled the trigger.

Bang!

The gunshot caused a spark from the muzzle.

Whoosh!

In an instant, one of military dogs tasked to watch over Lucas were headshot.

The noise caught the attention of the people inside.

In the blink of an eye, Levi, Azure Dragon, and the others dashed out to examine the situation.

“What happened?”

Everyone became furious the instant they saw their military-trained dog lying in a pool of blood.

This dog has been with us for a long time... This is too much!

A sharp glint flashed across Levi’s eyes as he put on a calm expression.

It was as clear as daylight that he was angry!

For these dogs were no different than any human to him.

To kill them in front of him was equivalent to ask for death.

The sound of the gun had alarmed the surrounding people, and they gathered around after hearing that.

Over a hundred people showed up in a blink of an eye, and they were glaring at the Prince Gang angrily.

“Identify yourself!” Azure Dragon fumed.

“Jaron of the Goel family in South Hampton. My friends usually call me ‘Prince’.” The leader remained dignified.

Scanning the crowd at the scene with his sharp gaze, he said in a cold tone, “I was entrusted by the patriarch of the Quinn family to pick Lucas Quinn home.”

“Yes. We’re here to pick Lucas home!” The Prince Gang members shouted.

Simultaneously, a unit of bodyguards formed a line in front, got on their knees and apologized, "We're sorry for coming late. Please forgive us, sir!"

At this, Jackson narrowed his eyes and chided, "You're in deep trouble now! Release our friend this instance, or else you're gonna get it!"

The Protector Chapter 787

Jaron exhorted coldly, "You'd better let my man go now. I'm running out of patience."

Seeing that the other side didn't respond, he added, "I'll count to three."

Right then, he started the countdown.

"Three!"

"Two!"

"One!"

The Prince Gang became enraged at the fact that Levi and his men were unmoved even after Jaron finished counting.

The next moment, Jaron signaled to his men and ordered ferociously, "Charge! Bring Lucas out!"

In the nick of time, Lucas spat the rag out of his mouth and cried out, "Prince, halt the charge!"

"Hmm?" Everyone was frozen in place while staring at Lucas in bewilderment.

After a light-bulb moment came to him, Jaron instructed, "Stop!"

Following closely, he glanced at Levi's group and continued, "I've changed my mind. I'll not charge in. Instead, I want you to bring him out yourself."

Lucas nodded in acknowledgement. He gets me.

Lucas yelled at Levi's group, "I'll make you regret for messing with me!"

His intention was simple—he stopped Jaron from rescuing him so that he could get Levi to bring him out willingly.

The Prince Gang had put together such a grand spectacle just to rescue him.

Even Levi and his subordinates must be shivering in fear by now. At least, that was what he assumed.

Out of terror, Levi will bring me out politely. Not only will I feel satisfied, but we'll also regain our lost honor.

"I want the six of you to bring Lucas out with your knees on the ground! The time limit is by tomorrow morning. Otherwise, I'll purge this place! It'll be a bloodbath. You're acquainted with these onlookers, right? I'll wipe out everyone in this place, including you!"

After Jaron had set the deadline, Lucas let out a laugh and said, "Well, I for one hope that you won't release me. With that, I'll get to see everyone in this area killed."

"Hey, buddy! We will wait at the entrance of the street! Hang in there!"

Finished speaking, Jaron led his men out of the compound and waited at where he said.

"Don't you worry, Prince! I can hold on much longer! But I'm afraid that they might bring me out! It'd be boring that way! I wanna see all of them die!" Lucas cackled hysterically, like a loony.

Next off, Azure Dragon asked, "What should we do next, Sir?"

“Okay. I’ll wait until tomorrow morning and see how he plans to kill the people here!”

Levi was truly exasperated this time as those dogs were his favorites.

“Bury them.” Levi commanded.

Later on, Lucas glanced at Levi arrogantly and sneered, “That’s right, keep it that way! Don’t bring me out and wait until the next daybreak! Mmm! You know my taste very well! I’m fond of killing! I love to see people die!”

The Protector Chapter 788

If he dares to keep me here, Prince will slaughter everyone in this street. I'd love to see that happen; If he brings me out, I'll get to burn the scene of Levi carrying me out on his knees like a dog into my memories. I'm more than happy to see that, and we get to regain our honor as well.

Levi smirked at his words and patted his cheek, "I will never let you go. You should worry about yourself first. See if you could survive tonight."

"Hahaha! Of course I will! This time round, the city streets would surely be bathed in blood!" Lucas proceeded to laugh like a lunatic.

Dozens of cars were blocking the entrance of the street.

The Prince Gang was waiting over there until the appointed time.

"Prince, it seems like they don't plan to bring Lucas out!"

A gleam of epiphany flashed across Jaron's eyes, and he commented, "Looks like we aren't as famous as we thought."

"Well, it'd be unlikely for the people from a rural city like this to hear about us, let alone be afraid of us."

"That's right. They wouldn't even try to detain Lucas if they knew about us."

As everyone was analyzing the situation, the two ringleaders stared at each other and declared, "We shall decimate the citizens of this street tomorrow! There shall be bloodshed in every corner. We won't stop until the entire South City is terrorized at the thought of our name. In the future, they'll wake up in a cold sweat from a nightmare each time they recalled of this incident."

Jaron might seem polite on the outside, but he was a resolute and obstinate person.

He leaned toward solving problems with extreme measures and always resorted to violence.

“Listen! We will station here tonight! Then, we will eradicate everyone in this street tomorrow!” Jaron ordered.

“Yes, Prince!” Everyone responded in unity.

Jackson remarked with a smirk, “I think they might bring Lucas out. Given the duration, they should’ve found out about us by now.”

“You’re right, Jackson.” Everyone agreed.

After a considerable time, Lucas remained on his knees while Levi showed no means to let him go.

Although he was exhausted, and his body was at the edge of collapsing, he had an excited look on his face.

After a long night waiting, there was no sign of Lucas getting out at all.

“These people have decided to oppose us until the end!”

At the crack of dawn, Jaron puffed on a cigarette, then threw the butt on the ground.

“Let’s go!” Jaron gave the instruction.

There were about two hundred fighters following the Prince Gang as they marched toward the Guardian Mansion.

Everyone had a murderous look on their faces.

The tension in the atmosphere was so thick that one could cut it with a knife.

The Protector Chapter 789

Soon, they arrived at the Guardian Mansion.

“Send a few units to keep all the alleys of this area off limits! Kill anyone who tries to escape!”

Jaron’s gaze became cold, and he exuded a murderous aura that sent shivers down everyone’s spine.

Dozens of men immediately guarded the exits of every passageway to stop anyone from passing through.

At this very moment, Lucas was nearly worn out after mustering every single ounce of strength he could find in his body. He was persevering with sheer willpower alone currently.

Nonetheless, he was elated when he saw Jaron charging in with his men.

In the meantime, Levi and the others also emerged from his room.

“Hahahaha...” Lucas burst into laughter right when he saw them.

“Don’t fret, punk! Once you’re dead, I’ll take care of your women! I’ll be sure to torture them with all my might! Hahaha...” Lucas said in a psychopathic tone.

Throughout the entire time being on his knees, the man thought of nothing except the ways to torment Levi and the likes. His twisted mind had already come up with more than a hundred ways to gratify his sadistic pleasure.

“Prince, take out everyone except this one! Leave him to me!” Lucas bawled.

“Alright!”

After saying that, Jaron turned to focus on Levi and proclaimed, “Now, you will pay the painful price for your foolish behaviors! I will kill everyone here!”

“Kill them!”

At Jaron’s gesture, all the fighters began their indiscriminating killing spree on the people in this area.

Apart from the ones who were guarding the alleys, there were still a hundred and fifty men.

As bodyguards of the Prince Gang members, all of them were elite fighters in their own right.

They could hurl threats at the Southern Union with forces like this.

Swoosh!

Twenty fighters sprinted to the frontline promptly.

Screech!

Those men drew the swords from their backs. The sharpness of the weapons was unmatched, and the reflections on their edges were dazzling to the eyes. With that, the top fighters charged toward their targets.

Seeing that, Levi and his men simply chortled.

Unbeknownst to their opponents, the God of War and the Five Great Wars Regiment were invincible and unstoppable on the battlefield. They were the nightmare of those who make enemies of them.

If the rest of the world came to know these ignorant warriors were trying to kill the God of War and his company of five, everyone's jaw would drop to the floor.

The following would be their first response. Who gave them the courage to do this? Are they out of their mind?

However, before the fighters could even reach Levi, there was a two-meter muscular man blocking their way.

Clang!

Clang!

Clang!

The fighters tried to strike the man. Yet, as if their swords were slashing on a hard surface, they created a series of resonant metallic sounds.

That almost caused a spark.

I could feel the strike. It definitely reached his skin... but it feels like striking on a steel.

"Kill them!"

They started another wave of attack and struck again.

Crack!

Crack!

Crack!

They were taken aback at the sight of their broken swords.

The Protector Chapter 790

There was a dead silence after that.

Everyone was flabbergasted.

W-what...?

Is he the Iron Man?

His skin is impenetrable!

Even the high quality sword is broken?

How terrifying!

“Ah!”

As the muscular man roared, his tank top was ripped into pieces.

The man had a shredded look, with well-developed muscles covering every inch of his skin, and they were hard as steel.

The Black Tortoise!

He was overly eye-catching due to his bulky physique. Hence, Levi had always reminded him to keep a low profile and avoided sending him on missions.

But he was summoned today as there were people who came for a showdown.

The Black Tortoise was a martial art practitioner. His skills made his body impenetrable, like a layer of steel covering his skin.

Levi found him on the battlefield four years ago. During that time, he was a fearless and undefeatable warrior.

The man had blocked countless gunfire for Levi in the past. With his steel-like body, none of the bullets were able to pierce his skin, let alone some swords.

Bam! Bam! Bam!

Like a bulldozer, the Black Tortoise crushed the fighters of the Prince Gang.

Within a short while, hundreds of fighters were left sprawling on the floor and screaming in agony.

It was a gruesome sight.

The Prince Gang was left in shock.

Hundreds of our top fighters couldn't stand a chance. What is this...? We know the strength of our men, yet they were utterly defeated! Is that guy a human?

Lucas, who was still on his knees in the compound, gazed at the happenings blankly.

After this, the smugness of the Prince Gang disappeared into thin air almost in an instant.

Everyone was petrified beyond belief.

Right then, Jackson squinted his eyes while Jaron furrowed his brows and glared at Levi's group.

Things are getting tricky!

The turn of events had Jaron felt a little stumped.

“Take his head!” The leader of the gang demanded coldly.

Those twenty fighters who had been following him drew their swords and darted forward.

These men were his trump card.

The swords they used weren't ordinary ones; they were ancient dagger with extremely sharp edges.

Screech!

The cold edges of the ancient daggers struck hard on Black Tortoise's body.

Clang!

He moved a few steps backward after many slashes, and white marks began to appear on his body.

If the attacks were to continue, even the likes of the Black Tortoise would be injured.

The ancient dagger is really something else!

The Prince Gang members put on a smile on their faces after witnessing the scene.

Meanwhile, Lucas heaved a sigh of relief.

Prince is as amazing as always! Who would still dare to challenge him?

“Back off, Black Tortoise. These are ancient daggers. You can’t handle their sharpness.” Levi ordered.

After hearing the command, he stepped aside with his body full of white marks.

Jaron peered at Levi and scoffed, “Looks like I’ve underestimated you. However, you still can’t escape your eventual death. Kill him!”

The Protector Chapter 791

The twenty men raised their swords up high, charging toward Levi and his men.

Whoosh!

Suddenly, a powerful gust of wind roared to life and there was a silhouette flickered passed them like a bolt of lightning.

It was White Tiger.

Among the Five Kings of War, Black Tortoise was the best at defense while White Tiger was the best at offence.

Wham! Wham!

White Tiger weaved through the crowd of men, his punches snapping out so quickly they were a blur.

Within moments, he stopped in his tracks.

Thud! Thud! Thud!

All twenty of his opponents crumpled to the ground like puppets that had their strings cut.

A dead silence descended upon the scene.

Jaron's face paled dramatically.

How is he so powerful?

These men were supposed to be the best of the best, the elites of his family's men. They had all been trained since young to be the perfect fighters.

He had once conquered the Southern Union using only these twenty men. No one had been able to stop them back then!

Yet now, they could not even defeat one person.

That was a testament to how powerful White Tiger was.

Seemingly satisfied by their prowess, White Tiger praised, "Not bad! You guys are stronger than those people from the Southern Union!"

Crooking a finger at Jaron, he continued, "Your turn!"

He could tell that Jaron was even more powerful than the twenty men he had just downed.

"Die!" Jaron bellowed as he leaped at White Tiger.

The two men clashed together violently and a ferocious battle broke out.

The destruction they left was terrifying, with the walls of the yard crumbling to pieces and the wooden gates splintered.

Even the ground was cracked badly, with the brick turned to dust in some places.

The Prince Gang was gaping at the scene with wide eyes while Levi and his men were also rather impressed.

Jaron was definitely the strongest opponent White Tiger had ever fought so far.

Erudia really was a country with plenty of hidden talents!

It was likely they would run into more in the future.

Even watching the fierce battle had the blood in their veins boiling with adrenaline and excitement.

Wham!

After exchanging more than a hundred blows, White Tiger sent Jaron flying with a well-placed kick.

Crash!

Slamming to the ground, Jaron coughed up a mouthful of blood. He stared at White Tiger in disbelief.

How can someone who looks around the same age as I be so much more powerful?

His Master once told him that he was the most talented fighter he had ever seen and estimated that there was nobody else like him in the entire Erudia.

The proof of how wrong his Master had been standing right in front of him.

“W-who are you people?” Jaron asked in a trembling voice.

The members of the Prince Gang were absolutely stunned at the turn of events.

It was only now did they begin to wonder about Levi and his men’s identities.

At first, they thought Levi was a weakling they could play with as they pleased. Never did they consider there might be more than meets the eyes with him and his men.

Azure Dragon sneered and replied, "You brats are not worthy of knowing our true identities!"

To Levi and the rest, the members of the Prince Gang were no different than children.

Lucas, who was still kneeling in the yard, broke into a cold sweat as he recalled how hundreds of men from the Southern Union got down on their knees before Levi.

We pissed off someone we shouldn't have.

Jaron struggled to his feet, wiping the blood trickling from the corner of his lips before stating, "Gentlemen, how about we brush this aside as a misunderstanding and put it all behind us? We'll apologize to you and be done with it!"

"Who gave you the right to call this a misunderstanding?" Levi answered in a cold tone.

The Protector Chapter 792

Jaron and the other members of the Prince Gang were frozen to the spot at Levi's words.

It was finally sinking in that they were in deep trouble this time.

At the rate things were going, they might just end up dying here in South City.

This was why they had to resolve this matter as peacefully as possible.

Jaron lowered his head slightly in submission, representing the Prince Gang's defeat.

This was the first time since the founding of the Prince Gang that they had actually lost to someone.

Every time before, they were always the ones pushing others around and stepping on their defeated enemies.

Unfortunately, they had run into someone even more difficult than them this time.

Today was a day of utter humiliation for the Prince Gang, the very first time they had suffered such a shame!

Not only were they disgraced as a group, but it was also a major blow to their individual egos as well.

As the head of the Prince Gang, Jaron was not a person unwilling to compromise.

He planned on appeasing Levi now and then return to South Hampton another time to rise up again.

Chuckling bitterly, he uttered, "Sir, we were wrong to have provoked you first. We should not have insulted your woman either. But all things can be worked out peacefully! Having a friend is better than making a new enemy!" However, the other man's reply was like a brutal slap to the face.

Levi scoffed, "Sorry. I'm pretty sure my enemies are numbering in the thousands already. A few more really doesn't make much of a difference."

"Don't you think you're being a little unreasonable? I'm already putting my pride aside here! Besides, each and every one of us come from an influential family in South Hampton. All of us will one day be the heads of our families. Going against us would be going up against all of the prominent families in South Hampton!" Jaron said arrogantly.

His words had the other members of the Prince Gang straightening their backs proudly.

That was right! They were from the most illustrious families in South Hampton! Who dared to offend them?

No matter how powerful Levi and his men were, there was no way they would have the courage to go up against the Prince Gang.

If not out of respect for the members of the gang themselves then at the very least for the various families they came from.

Levi looked amused. "So?"

"So, you have to accord us the right amount of respect! This matter is to be settled pleasantly without any more fuss!" Jaron stated with a smile.

Despite the calm tone, there was a commanding undercurrent to it with no room for argument.

One way or another, the Prince Gang would get the respect they thought they deserved.

Seeing that Levi did not say anything more, Jaron added, "You're a formidable person in your own right. Isn't it better to have more friends, especially if they're from the wealthiest families in South Hampton? You would only benefit from such a relationship!"

At last, Levi responded, "So I'm just supposed to forget that that guy over there insulted my wife and tried to kill me several times? I'm also supposed to disregard the fact that you killed my beloved dog and threatened to massacre a whole block of civilians? Is that what you're saying?"

"That's right! It's all just a huge misunderstanding; no big deal!" Jaron smirked. "Don't you think you're being rather petty? Aren't they just dogs? What does it matter?"

"And if I insist on pursuing this matter?" Levi questioned lowly.

"Then you make enemies out of all the prominent families in South Hampton!"

A wicked gleam appeared in Jaron's eyes.

The Protector Chapter 793

Smack!

Levi's hand darted out and he landed a ringing slap on Jaron's face.

"Then so be it! It might just be a dog to you but to us, it was a living, breathing creature! It was a precious life! It was our friend, our comrade-in-arm!" Levi roared in rage.

He was well and truly mad this time.

One of the dogs had been his constant companion when he was still in the military. Playing with it always served to brighten up his day and helped with the stress of fighting a war.

They had been on the frontlines together and fought plenty of battles.

After they retired from the military, he brought it back here with him.

Now, Jaron killed his precious dog and had the audacity to say it was "just dogs".

"To me, its life is infinitely more valuable than you scum!"

His commanding aura exploded around him, exerting immense pressure on everyone present.

Being so close to him, Jaron swore the surrounding temperature dropped several degrees, making him shivered.

“That guy killed so many people ever since he came to South City! Look at the doctor! He was someone who worked hard to save lives! That man saved that jerk but how did the lunatic repay his kindness? Were all these no big deals to you? What about your intention to slaughter everyone on this street then? Was that a small matter to you too? If we were just some feeble men, we could have been dead by now!”

Levi’s questions slammed into Jaron like bullets, rooting him to the spot.

The rest of the Prince Gang were pale in their fear. None of them dared to breathe too loudly in case that would focus Levi’s ire upon them.

A hard glint entered Jaron’s eyes and he queried, “Does this mean you won’t let us go then? Not even on behalf of the South Hampton families?”

“Did you seriously think I would? All of you, kneel!” Levi ordered.

White Tiger and the others leaped into action.

Within minutes, not a single person was standing before Levi.

“You can speak on your knees!” Levi looked down at the kneeling Jaron as he said this.

How very insulting!

This was probably the most humiliating moment Jaron had ever felt in his life!

He was the leader of the Prince Gang! A prince among princes!

Yet here he was kneeling before someone else.

This is unacceptable!

He bit out through clenched teeth, "You have some guts to do this to us! You're a dead man! Just you wait and see!"

A cruel smirk curled Levi's lips. "Now, it's time to settle the score with each of you!"

He headed for Lucas and stopped before the other man. "Since you were lusting after my wife, castrate him!"

"No!"

Agonized screams ripped from Lucas' throat and with a gush of blood, he became a eunuch.

Next, Levi focused his attention on the members of Prince Gang. "You guys were thinking of killing me, weren't you?"

"N-no! W-we weren't..." They cried out in protest.

"Break their legs! Since their parents won't discipline them properly, I'll do it for them!"

Another chorus of pained screams rang out while the legs of the members of Prince Gang were systematically broken.

It was absolutely terrifying!

When Levi fixed his gaze on Jaron, the latter began to panic. "W-what are you going to do to me!"

The Protector Chapter 794

Levi's eyes flashed and he uttered coldly, "Breaking an arm for killing my dog isn't excessive, is it?"

The threat had Jaron's face flushing red in alarm and he struggled to escape.

He was a prince! If one of his arms were snapped just like that, his reputation would be ruined forever! He would never be able to look anyone in the eyes again!

"No, please. Let's talk about this, okay? I'll give you anything you want!" He babbled anxiously.

At that moment, his disheveled appearance made him look just like any other normal person. Gone were his arrogance and princely demeanor.

"I want my dog!"

Eyes wintry with his rage, Levi glared at him.

Jaron was stumped at his words.

His dog is already dead. How am I supposed to give it back to him?

In the next second, there was the metallic glint of a blade swishing down.

Jaron's right arm flopped to the ground uselessly.

Immediately, blood sprayed forth like a crimson fountain.

“AHHHH!”

His howls of pain mixed with those of Lucas and the rest, echoing in the vast courtyard.

Thus, Levi had every single member of the South Hampton Prince Gang crippled.

The only exceptions were the Jones brothers, who had left earlier and were not involved in this incident.

This was a stain that could never be erased from the reputation of the prestigious Prince Gang.

In the blink of an eye, they had fallen from grace.

Nobody had expected this.

Jaron shrieked, “I can promise you that we’ll be back for revenge! I’ll kill you! I’ll kill all your family and friends! I won’t stop until every single one of them is dead!”

Levi smiled grimly and replied, “None of you were ever properly disciplined when you were young.

All you know how to do is bully the weak and throw your weight around.

No crime is too evil for you. All I’m doing is teaching you a lesson on your parents’ behalf. But I don’t think that’s enough...”

Checking his watch, he continued, “Before the stroke of midnight tonight, your families are to kneel before me and apologize for your actions. Otherwise, there will be consequences!”

“You... That’s just preposterous! How dare you demand that! You really are outrageous!”

“Toss them out of here!” Levi dismissed them with a wave of his hand.

His men were quick to do as he said.

In their current states, the members of the South Hampton Prince Gang really were a sorry sight.

Jaron’s face was dark as he snarled, “Let’s get back to South Hampton! We have to tell our families about what happened. Whoever was involved in what happened just now needs to die! I’m going to strip his skin from his flesh and drink his blood like it’s the most exquisite wine out there! I’ll carve his meat from his very bones! When I’m done with him, he’ll be begging to die!”

“Get revenge! We must be avenged!” The others yelled out in agreement.

There were no words to describe the extent of their hatred toward Levi.

Meanwhile, back in South Hampton, Tyler and Wales were chatting idly.

“Have you heard from Lucas in the past two days? I wonder if he managed to get Zoey and Helena?”

They had not received any news from the others ever since they returned to South Hampton.

The Protector Chapter 795

Wales chuckled and answered, "This is Lucas we're talking about. Getting a woman for himself is child's play for him!"

Tyler thought over that and had to agree.

Lucas was a domineering person who always did as he pleased in South Hampton. Nobody had ever dared to stop him here, so who would have the courage to do so at South City?

"But then why isn't he back yet? And there's been no news from him either! I tried calling him but strangely enough, his phone is turned off!"

Being a little more meticulous than his brother, Tyler got the vague feeling that something was about to happen.

"He's probably having too much fun! I wouldn't mind sleeping with those two beauties either!" Wales commented with a lecherous grin.

Furrowing his brows, Tyler mulled over everything that had happened so far.

He abruptly suggested, "Do you think he ran into some trouble?"

"Why would you say that?"

"I heard Jaron and the rest of the Prince Gang left South Hampton as well but nobody has any idea where they went. I'm starting to suspect something happened to Lucas and they went to aid him." Tyler mused.

His brother patted his shoulder. “Oh, c’mon. You’re overthinking things! Just think about who is by Zoey’s side. It’s just Levi! Do you honestly think he can do anything to Lucas? It’s not like he’ll be able to cripple Lucas of all people.”

“That’s true! Levi is just a useless piece of trash!”

“What are you two talking about?” Michael’s voice suddenly rang out from behind them.

“Grandpa, we’re discussing about Levi.” Wales answered.

Instantly, Michael’s expression darkened. He snapped, “Didn’t I say to not mention Levi Garrison again! He’s not worthy of our attention!”

“Grandpa, it’s like this...”

Tyler swiftly informed Michael about the incident with Lucas.

When he was done, a smile broke out on the older man’s face. “So that’s what happened. Levi is doomed now that Lucas has his eyes set on him! In truth, Levi is a loose end of the Jones family that might come back to bite us in the ass in the future. Unfortunately, we can’t just get rid of him! This is a wonderful opportunity that we must thank Lucas for!”

Wales grinned maniacally at his grandfather’s words. “That’s so true! There’s no way Levi will survive a confrontation with Lucas. We won’t need to worry about him anymore!”

Tyler frowned and expressed his concerns, to which his grandfather responded with, “Tyler, you’re really overthinking things! Be it another person, Lucas might be in danger. But this is just Levi! I don’t think he’s even capable of stirring up any trouble, let alone being a threat to Lucas!”

Michael gave a disdainful snort.

Comparing Lucas and Levi was like comparing a kitten to a tiger.

The Protector Chapter 796

At one of South Hampton's downtown areas.

Despite being a downtown area, this particular neighborhood was empty. Not a single soul could be seen within a ten-kilometer radius of it.

This strange phenomenon could be attributed to the guards patrolling every single road that led to it as this area was listed as private property.

As for who the property belonged to, it was none other than the most prominent family in South Hampton – the royal family of Goel.

The Goel family was said to have existed here for nearly a thousand years, a testament to their prowess.

At that moment, there were several people lying on the ground before the gates of the manor.

Every single one of them either had their arms or legs broken.

One poor soul had obviously been castrated as blood kept spurting from between his legs.

The only thing they had in common was that all of them looked extremely pitiful.

Within moments, the doors to the mansion swung open and a large group of people poured out.

Among them was an elderly man with snowy white hair holding on to a dragon-headed cane.

The old man seemed to be close to a hundred years old. While he was not as agile as he used to be, his eyes still shone bright and sharp.

The elderly was none other than Xabian Goel, the patriarch of the Goel family.

In South Hampton, he was respectfully referred to as Elder Goel by everyone else as he had the final say in most matters.

His words were ultimate, deciding the future of the city or the fate of someone.

Everyone was both in awe of and fearful of him, thus treating him with the utmost respect.

Jaron was his favorite grandson and also the one he was most proud of.

He had spent the last twenty years of his life nurturing and grooming his grandson to be his successor.

Hence, when he saw that his precious grandson was missing an arm, he exploded!

Bang!

He slammed his cane down on the floor and the stick of wood instantly splintered.

“RAAAARGH!”

He tossed his head back as he bellowed his fury to the heavens.

The rest of the Goel family also cried out in outrage at the mistreatment of one of their own.

In South Hampton, they were practically gods for all the respect people gave them. Everyone was always bending over backward to serve or please them. In fact, oftentimes whoever spoke to them did so on their knees.

They were the most powerful and prominent family in South Hampton!

The fear everyone felt toward them was so ingrained that many would suffer from insomnia at the mere mention of their names. Some would even instinctively feel the urge to get down on their knees.

This led to nobody daring to offend Jaron and his friends, who were the other various young heirs to the prominent families.

What nobody had expected was that someone would be so bold as to chop off the Prince's arm.

Despite losing an arm, amusement danced on Jaron's face. "Unfortunately, we met an incredibly powerful opponent this time. I killed his dog and he cut off my arm in revenge! He also crippled every single one of us from the Prince Gang. Not only that, but he's also saying that our parents have to go to him before midnight today and kneel as you apologize!"

"Who did this?!" Xabian roared.

The Protector Chapter 797

Silence followed the patriarch's question.

None of the other family members had ever seen the old man so enraged.

Oh no, Elder Goel is utterly infuriated this time!

"A man from South City called Levi Garrison. He has several expert fighters with him. I wasn't a match for his strongest." Jaron explained.

"By the way, Elder Goel, they seem to be related to the Southern Union. We personally witnessed as the members of the Southern Union knelt before him!" One of the Prince Gang members chimed in.

"So what if they're connected to the Southern Union? As if I'm afraid of them! I don't care who he is; I'll kill him even if he's from Oakland City!"

Xabian's eyes gleamed menacingly as he ordered, "Contact all the other families involved in this incident. Tell them to gather here right away. Tonight, I shall personally lead them to South City! I would like to see who in that damn city dares to accept an apology from me!"

Everybody present was astounded at his words.

They had not thought a day would come where Xabian would go to such a small city as South city himself.

In no time at all, the patriarch of the second royal family of South Hampton, Mario Hunt, arrived. He was incensed when he found out his grandson, Jackson had been crippled.

The patriarch of the Quinn family, Hayden Quinn, was even more furious. His dear grandson had been castrated like some animal!

That was just unacceptable!

A short while later, the various heads of families were all present.

Of the top thirty prestigious families in South Hampton, the only family not here was the Joneses.

“Remember, this matter involves our reputations! We must keep a low profile for now! Whatever else can wait till after we deal with these barbarians at South City!” Xabian ordered firmly.

As expected, everyone immediately agreed with his plan.

With that, the twenty-nine families headed for South City together.

Since they had to keep a low profile, they did not bring many men with them. However, those they brought were the best fighters they had.

This group of top fighters in South Hampton was more than enough to destroy the Southern Union several times over!

At the Guardian Mansion of South City.

Levi was watching as Azure Dragon and the others repaired the walls.

His face was twisted in an annoyed expression as he muttered angrily, “This is the second time these walls have been destroyed! Next time, I’ll shove a cannon up the ass of whoever wrecks them!”

Kirin piped up cheerfully, “Sir, that might happen a lot sooner than you think, maybe even tonight! I’m pretty sure those brats have gone back to call for reinforcements!”

“I’ll be waiting!” was the bored reply from Levi as he put the matter out of his mind.

Right then, several people appeared in the courtyard.

He recognized Mike, the commander-in-chief of the South City Warzone, and Percy, the commander-in-chief of the North Hampton Warzone.

However, the other six were unknown to him.

The eight men came to a stop before Levi and saluted him. “Good day, Chief!”

Smiling, Percy spoke up, “Sir, the eight Warzones are considering a joint exercise sometime soon. These men are the commanders-in-chief of the other six Warzones.”

The Protector Chapter 798

“This is the Commander-in-chief of the South Hampton Warzone, Clark Pond!”

“Hello Chief! It is such an honor to meet you!”

Clark said excitedly.

The South Hampton Warzone was a very important area. From the military viewpoint, it was more important than both the North Hampton and South City Warzones.

Correspondingly, Clark’s position was more important than Mike’s and Percy’s.

Levi smiled, “I’ve heard of you!”

Clark was surprised that the God of War actually remembered him.

This was an honor of a lifetime for him.

Percy began introducing the others.

“This is the commander-in-chief of Haven Warzone, Xayden Fairfield.”

“Chillshire Warzone, Weston Zink!”

“Southlake Warzone, Stanley Hodge!”

“Here, Darren Mackson from the Northlake Warzone!”

“And lastly, Zayden Ziggler from the Westview Warzone!”

....

Levi shook hands with the other five. This made them so excited and emotional, as if they had just met their idol.

They were completely caught by surprise!

Little did they expect that the legendary God of War himself would be so approachable and down-to-earth!

“Chief, what happened to these walls and floors here?”

Clark asked curiously.

“Nothing much, someone pummeled them!” Levi said.

“What? Someone fought in here?”

Clark and the other leaders had to take a deep breath.

Firstly, they were surprised that there were people who dared to fight in there.

Secondly, to create such damage, the person must be a master.

“No big deal, they are just a bunch of kids. Their parents are coming tonight to apologize!” Levi smiled.

In his eyes, the Prince Gang was really but a bunch of kids.

His experience in the past six years was more than what many people had experienced in sixty years.

The man was way too mature, much like an old bogeyman.

“It’s good to know that they are coming here to apologize. Silly of me to think that someone have the audacity to offend you, Chief.”

Clark and the rest laughed as they followed Levi into the house.

Very soon, the eight warzones were about to launch their joint exercise. They wanted Levi to give some suggestions, as their main objective was to pay tribute to him.

Edburg Manor, South Hampton.

Michael called for Tyler and Wales.

“Something might happen soon.”

Michael said.

“Oh? What’s going on?”

Both of them looked at their grandfather curiously.

“I have just received the news that Elder Goel has left South Hampton. No one knows where he has gone to.”

Michael said.

“What? How is that possible?”

“The man has not left South Hampton for the past fifty years, hasn’t he?”

Tyler was extremely shocked.

For Xabian Goel to leave South Hampton meant that something colossal was about to happen!

He had not gone anywhere for decades.

Tyler said, "Could Lucas' matter have to do with it?"

The Protector Chapter 799

“That’s impossible! After all, it’s just two women. What could have happened from there? Moreover, who else in the South City would dare to do something to Lucas? Let alone make Elder Goel to leave this city for him?”

Michael and Wales exchanged glances.

They were still very certain that Lucas was fine, and that Levi was unable to cause any ripples.

“Tyler, you are overthinking this. Think about it, what waves could Levi possibly cause?”

Michael could not help but say.

“Grandpa, why don’t I make a trip to South City to see what’s going on?” Tyler suggested.

“Alright, go and take a look so that we can all be more at ease. In case anything happens, we can get the first-hand information.” The older man nodded in agreement.

As he helmed the large family, he was full of strategies.

At the other side.

Yadriel Larson reported the incident to Grover.

“What? I guess Xabian Goel will definitely be coming to South City to seek trouble then!”

The master was surprised.

“That’s right, he might have arrived by now!” Yadriel said anxiously.

“That won’t do. I’ll go and stop him!”

Xabian’s troops had already surreptitiously infiltrated South City.

However, they were stopped the moment they entered the city.

Just when they were about to bristle with rage, they recognized Grover.

“What are you doing here, Grover?” Xabian asked coldly.

“Go back now! You’re going to get into deep trouble!”

Grover advised him.

“Hah! I know you are related to that person. However, no matter what background he has, I will get him!”

Xabian could not listen to anything at all.

“Say no more. The decision was made that moment I stepped out of South Hampton.”

His attitude was more determined than ever before.

Grover could not persuade him at all and had no choice but to return.

Very quickly, Xabian brought his group to a mysterious neighborhood.

This particular lane was very quiet and sparsely populated.

It was easy to do things in quiet places like this.

No one would know even if something big happened.

“Woof woof woof...”

The dog barking in the Guardian Mansion alerted Levi and his group.

“Our guests have arrived!”

Levi smiled.

“Chief, do you mind if we go and see who this person is? He sure has the guts to beard the lion in his den.”

Clark and the rest were very curious. Who could actually behave so atrociously before Levi and made the Guardian Mansion such a horrific state?

“Not at all. Who knows he could be someone you know.” Levi smiled.

Clark and the rest followed behind him.

Going out the door, they saw that the entrance was full with people and each of them had great temperament.

Clearly, they were the masters of the masters!

They were definitely stronger than those from the Prince Gang!

The Protector Chapter 800

“Grandpa, it’s them! They are strong. The one standing in the middle leads them!”

Jaron pointed Levi out.

However, he did not expect to see another eight strangers to turn up out of nowhere.

But he did not care.

With his grandpa here, even another eight hundred people would have been useless.

Upon seeing Levi and his men, the leaders of the twenty nine top families in South Hampton fixated their gaze on their enemies.

They could barely wait to swallow them alive.

How dare somebody crippled their precious child!

Xabian suppressed his anger forcefully and asked coldly, “Was it you who chopped off my grandson’s arm?”

“Indeed, it was me. He killed my dog and all I did was breaking one of his hands. That was already very merciful of me.” Levi said calmly.

“Are you telling me you could have killed my grandson just because of a dog?”

Xabian could not be more infuriated.

Jaron, the most noble young talent of South Hampton, was being compared to a dog?

How could he take this lying down?

The key was that his grandson's arm was chopped off because of a dog!

"That's right, an eye for an eye, which is very fair. However, I spared your grandson's life. Perhaps the entire Goel family should be thanking me instead!"

That line started everyone.

All of them fell silent and stared at him in complete disbelief.

"H...how can he say something like that?"

"The Goel family has to thank him?"

.....

This was unthinkable for each of the prominent families from South Hampton.

The man on the other side were clearly declaring war to the first family of South Hampton, the Goel family!

"Great. You are very courageous! No wonder my grandson lost to you!"

Instead of angry, Xabian laughed out loud instead.

"Did you castrate Lucas Quinn as well?" The patriarch continued asking.

"Yep. Since he had no control over the lower part of his body, I took over the control!" Indifferently, Levi replied.

“So, you crippled the entire Prince Gang?”

Xabian narrowed his eyes.

“Yes, I did! Since their parents did not teach them properly, I did all of you a favor and taught them a lesson.”

Levi’s eyes stared directly at Xabian as well.

“Excellent, we all heard it. He has admitted to all the crimes!”

Xabian told the other people.

Everyone shouted out loud. “An eye for an eye! Revenge! Revenge!”

Levi’s voice popped up. “Eh, aren’t you here to apologize?”

“Hmm?”

Xabian was taken aback.

“Before I released them, I told them to get their parents here to kneel and apologize!”

Levi retorted sharply, “Parents should bear the burden for their children’s sins! Don’t you agree?”

All the leaders were taken aback.

He was actually provoking them now.

The Protector Chapter 801

Even Clark and the rest of them were confused.

Weren't they supposed to come and apologize?

Why did they all look so ferocious, as if they were here to eat someone up?

Clark had a conflicted look on his face as he hid all the way at the back.

When he first stepped out, he had instantly recognized all of them.

They were all the top-notch leaders of South Hampton.

Especially Xabian, who was the most important person from South Hampton.

How could he not know him?

Of all people, who would have thought that they had offended Levi?

“Hahahah...”

Xabian burst out laughing when he heard Levi.

He was overjoyed.

It's been too long since he had met such an arrogant young man.

He had met arrogant young men before, but he killed all of them.

He believed that Levi would be one of them as well.

“Kiddo, you really don’t know who I am, do you?”

Xabian asked.

“I don’t, and I don’t need to know either, because I know that you are not my match.”

Tyrannical.

Arrogant.

Insufferable.

However, Levi had a certain calmness about him that controlled the entire atmosphere.

This made Xabian panic a little.

He recalled how Grover had attempted to stop him.

Was this kiddo really an heir from Oakland City?

“Are you from Oakland City?”

Xabian asked him tentatively.

“No, I was born and bred in North Hampton.”

Levi said.

“Good then!”

Xabian smiled.

“Kiddo, let me tell you, there are some people in this world that you cannot afford to offend! One example would be my grandson. I, Xabian Goel, have said before that I will destroy the families of whoever that dares to even touch my grandson! It’s been twenty-four years, and no one has dared to even touch my grandson. You are the very first one, and you chopped off his hand!”

Xabian spoke calmly as if he were just narrating a story.

However, everyone caught the chills and began perspiring as they heard him speak.

“What do you think I should do with you?”

Suddenly, Xabian lowered his tone and growled at him.

“Kill me?”

Levi chuckled.

“Yes, and to slice you into thousands of pieces! None of your family members will live to see the day either! Every single one of you will be chopped up into pieces to feed the dogs!”

Xabian hated Levi to his very core.

“You like dogs, don’t you? I’ll chop off both your hands and have the wild dogs eat them bit by bit! I want you to watch it with your very own eyes!!!”

No one had ever seen such a frightening Xabian before.

It has been fifty years, and only Levi has been able to push him to the edge like this.

“Excellent speech! However, you can’t do anything to me!”

Levi was applauding him.

“Why? Let me tell you, I don’t care who you are, I am definitely taking you down today!”

Xabian roared savagely.

“Haha, when it comes to who I am, you may not be able to afford to offend me!”

Levi suddenly laughed.

He looked at Clark and the rest of the group as he smiled, “Or rather, you can’t afford to offend anyone of us here.”

The Protector Chapter 802

“Oh? Then who are you?”

Xabian asked.

Levi smiled, “Guys, introduce yourselves!”

All of them stood up and began introducing themselves.

“Xayden Fairfield, commander-in-chief of the Haven Warzone!”

“Weston Zink, commander-in-chief of the Chillshire Warzone!”

“Stanley Hodge, commander-in-chief of the Southlake Warzone!”

“Darren Mackson, commander-in-chief of the Northlake Warzone!”

“Zayden Ziggler, commander-in-chief of the Westview Warzone!”

“Percy Covington, commander-in-chief of the North Hampton Warzone!”

“Mike Pence, commander-in-chief of the South City Warzone!”

...

Xabian and his group were all dumbfounded when that group introduced themselves one by one.

Every single one of them gaped as if they had just been struck by lightning.

In fact, one might even be able to stuff eggs into their gaping mouths.

At this juncture, Clark stood up as well and shouted, “Clark Pond, commander-in-chief of the South Hampton warzone!”

Bang!

When they saw Clark, Xabian and the other South Hampton leaders were completely shocked beyond words.

It was too shocking for them to see Clark Pond!

They did not completely believe in the self-reported identities of the seven people before him.

However, every single one of them knew who Clark Pond was.

He was the real deal, which meant that the others were real too!

The commanders-in-chief from all eight warzones were gathered here!

What kind of background does he have?

Xabian was so powerful, he was not afraid of the Southern Union nor the prominent families from Oakland City. However, no matter how strong he was, he could not help but bow to this group of people.

Who is he then?

Three hundred over eyes all fell on Levi, as they were all curious about who he really was.

“Go on, continue!”

Levi urged them.

“Azure Dragon, serving the Western Region as the King of War!”

“Phoenix, serving the Southern Region as the King of War!”

“White Tiger, serving the Eastern Region as the King of War!”

“Black Tortoise, serving the North Region as the King of War!”

“Kirin, serving the Central Region as the King of War!”

.....

The five Kings of War stood up together to introduce themselves.

Shocking!

Extremely shocking!

Bang!

Bang!

Bang!

.....

Each of the prominent leaders from South Hampton knelt down on the ground one by one.

Their knees had become so weak they could not support their bodies any longer.

Frightening!

It was absolutely horrifying!

Not only were the eight commanders-in-chief there, but even the five Kings of War were also there!

What else was left to do?

No background?

He was his own strongest background!

Jaron stared at White Tiger and suddenly understood why he had lost.

The White Tiger was the renowned unstoppable killer on the battlefield.

It was just natural for him to be defeated!

In total, there were more than ten of them, and each of them was top army leader!

What could they do now?

Next, every single person looked at the same person in complete unison — Levi.

The five Kings of War were there, and the eight commanders-in-chief were all there.

Could he be....

The Protector Chapter 803

That thought alone made everyone go numb and their blood curdle, as a stream of chilly air raced through their bodies.

In front of everyone, Xabian's face fell.

C-c-could he be...

Could he be that legendary figure?

The only Five-Star God of War in the entire history of Erudia!

The God of War himself!

That explained why he was so nonchalant about everything.

No wonder he dared to touch the Prince Gang...

Turns out he was the God of War!

Xabian had heard that the Gates and Caesar families were wiped out because they came to South City.

Also, it seemed that the Master of the Southern Union had come to South City for the sake of his disciple, only to lose all contact after that.

.....

Now it was all clear. They were all defeated by this colossal god.

With his presence, so what if all the prominent families in South Hampton banded together?

Regret!

Utter regret!

Grover had come to him personally to advise him to leave.

He paid no heed to that advice as he was too anxious.

Come to think of it now, it was a close shave!

For Grover to come and advise him, it showed that he was really not Levi's match.

"I am Xabian Goel of South Hampton, here to pay my respects to the God of War!"

Bang! He fell on his knees in front of Levi.

"All of us are here to pay our respects to the God of War!"

Everyone followed suit as they knelt down and shouted together.

Jaron and the other younger ones were all too stunned by what they saw and could not react at all.

When they saw their grandfathers and fathers kneeling down on the floor one by one, they were completely dumbfounded.

"Kneel down! Why are you still stunned?"

They were forced to get down onto the floor and to all kneel before Levi.

“We did not know who we were dealing with and we offended you, Sir. Please punish us! All I ask of you is to protect the Goel family lineage!”

Xabian’s head was stuck to the ground as he begged fervently.

Having offended the God of War, all he hoped for was to be able to keep his family lineage.

It was the same for everyone else.

They could handle any punishment, as long as Levi allowed them to save one descendent in order to keep their lineage.

Levi looked at Clark and the rest of them, “It’s all your fault! I was about to just kill a few of them. Because of you, my identity is exposed!”

“It’s our fault, Chief!”

Clark and the other leaders all looked down like guilty children.

“Let’s do this. You can all escape death but there will still be punishment! From now on, all of you will have to yield to me! Every year, you have to provide for the military expenses, do charity work, and contribute to South Hampton’s development!”

Levi said.

“We are willing!”

They were simply overjoyed that Levi was willing to let them off.

At least they could protect their families.

Clark and the others shook their heads with bitter smiles.

Before Levi had even reached South Hampton, he had united all the twenty-nine prominent families from South Hampton.

Xabian said, "Sir, twenty nine out of the top thirty prominent families of South Hampton are here, except for the Jones family. What do you think?"

The Protector Chapter 804

Levi was delighted when he heard that question.

He did not expect to gather all thirty families, except for the Joneses.

What a coincidence!

The Joneses did not see this coming at all.

All of the thirty prominent families were now under Levi, except for the Jones family.

“There is no need to do anything to the Joneses yet.”

Levi smiled.

“Yes, sir!”

Xabian had a harsh look in his eyes. With just one look from Levi, he immediately understood that there was bad blood between the Joneses and Levi.

From then onwards, the twenty-nine prominent South Hampton families completely ostracized the Jones family.

Even the other families’ followed suit as they were all controlled by Xabian and the other prominent families.

With that, the entire South Hampton had effectively ostracized the Jones family...

Just that they had no idea at all.

The South Hampton prominent families immediately left.

They had never expected that after this trip, they would lose control over their own families, and would be controlled by one person from now onwards.

Tyler rushed there as he felt that things were going terribly wrong.

From the various clues, he guessed that Lucas was in trouble.

This group of people did not say anything about it, which meant that it was a huge problem.

On the way, Tyler ran into Xabian and group.

“What? Elder Goel is really at South City?”

Tyler was completely shocked and immediately got down from the car to greet him.

“Hmm? The Joneses?”

Because of Levi, everyone suppressed themselves when they saw Tyler.

He felt that they had grown a lot more distant.

The Joneses were at least in the top six of the royal and prominent families, so they were extremely familiar with them.

Why are they behaving this way?

“What are you doing here?”

Xabian asked impatiently.

If not for Levi's instructions, he would have destroyed the Jones family.

"I was worried about Lucas, so I came here to take a look."

Tyler said.

"That's right, he is in trouble. Big trouble, in fact."

Xabian said coldly.

"Oh, big trouble?"

Tyler was taken aback.

Indeed, for Elder Goel himself to come and settle this, it must be a serious matter.

Indeed, something big had erupted.

Something massive.

"Mmm, Lucas was castrated, while the other members of the Prince Gang had their legs chopped off! Even I have lost an arm!"

Jaron said as he walked to the front.

When Tyler saw that Jaron had lost one arm, he was so startled he nearly fainted.

The heir of the Prince Gang actually had his hand chopped off.

This was unimaginable!

If it was in Southern region of Erudia, who would dare to even touch Jaron?

It would be an understatement to say that the Goel family's power and influence were second to none in the South.

However, someone actually chopped off one of his hands?

And castrated Lucas too?

What courage is this?

Both of Tyler's legs trembled as he stammered, "Wh-who did this?"

The Protector Chapter 805

Jaron gasped in shock, "It's God of War!"

Gasp!

"What?"

Tyler staggered backwards and almost fell to the ground.

Of all the people, they offended God of War.

No wonder so many people got incapacitated.

"So you all didn't manage to take revenge?" Tyler asked.

"Are you kidding? Do you think I can defeat the God of War?" The Goel patriarch took a step forward and gave him a killer stare.

"No, this is not what I meant. I'm just impressed by the fact that you managed to escape from God of War!" Tyler immediately sucked up to him.

"Get lost!" Xabian exclaimed.

"What has become of the Joneses? What a shame!"

...

Other family heads started laughing at Tyler.

“Huh?”

Tyler got more and more confused.

What’s going on?

Why is everyone making fun of the Joneses?

Tyler had no clue what was happening, but he could feel they were boycotting him.

It was as if the Jones family had lost its footing among the South Hampton’s elite class.

Everyone left since they did not bother to entertain Tyler anymore.

After knowing the problem, Tyler returned to South Hampton at once.

At the Joneses’ manor, Tyler exclaimed, “Grandpa, bad news!”

“What happened?”

Michael and the rest cast him a curious glance.

Tyler reported everything to his family members.

“Say that again? Lucas offended the God of War? All members of the Prince Gang were crippled?” Michael was stunned.

“Hold on. Isn’t it Levi we were talking about? What has he got to do with the legend?” Wales wondered.

Tyler shot daggers at him, “Are you stupid? God of War knows everything since he’s in South City! He must have known Lucas’ whereabouts the moment he stepped into the city.”

“I guess you’re right.” The brother rubbed his head in embarrassment.

“But why would God of War deal with all these insignificant people? Is it even worth his time and effort?” Michael asked in suspicion.

Tyler let out a sigh, “I’ve been thinking about this too, grandpa. I suspect God of War has found out Levi’s identity.”

The grandfather was dumbstruck, “You mean... God of War took care of Levi because he knows Levi is my grandson?”

“Yes! I can’t think of any other logical explanations. He must have learned that Levi is a member of the Joneses and went to his aid.” Tyler was very sure about it.

“Levi should be ashamed of himself for dragging the God of War into this!” Michael was infuriated.

“We nearly got Lucas to get rid of him, yet this happened. How can he be so fortunate?”

The Protector Chapter 806

Michael was exasperated.

Instead of eliminating Levi, this incident brought him even closer to the Jones family.

Why is it so hard to get rid of him?

What should we do next?

“Grandpa, Levi will be the death of the Joneses. We have to kill him before he destroys the family.” A fierce glint flashed through Wales’ eyes.

Michael nodded, “He’s a threat to us. We’ll be in deep trouble if his identity is exposed!”

“If that happens, we have no choice but to accept him into the family. The Joneses will then turn into a laughing stock!” Wales sighed.

Tyler gave it a thought and proposed, “Grandpa, what if I get someone to wipe out his identity?”

“That sounds like a good idea. As long as his records are all wiped out from the system, no one could associate him with our family anymore.” Michael responded in excitement.

By hook or by crook, the Jones family just wanted to distance themselves away from Levi as quickly as possible.

But after finding out about Levi's true identity, the Joneses went begging for him to return and acknowledge his relationship with the family.

Of course, this turn of events would only happen later on.

"Alright! Wales, do it as soon as possible. He'll then have to flee South City or even be forced to leave Erudia! We'll be able to live in peace after this!" Michael instructed.

Once Wales left, Tyler frowned and said, "There's something else I wish to tell you, grandpa. I was talking to the Goel patriarch and the rest but they seem hostile, as if they wanted to beat me up. I'm not sure what was going on."

It was as if all of these prominent families ganged up on the Joneses.

Tyler felt something was amiss, but he could not quite put his finger on it.

"Don't overthink! I think it's all because you went to South City with the group and came back in one piece, whereas the others were all incapacitated. They must be mad about it." Michael analyzed.

"That's true! The entire Prince Gang was crippled, and only Wales and I were spared. I guess I can understand why they're mad at me." Tyler was enlightened.

That, however, was not why they were boycotted.

At that moment, Wales had arrived at the said department. He pulled some strings and was ready to get them to remove Levi's records from the system.

The officer immediately complied with his order as soon as Wales revealed his identity.

In a short while, the department officer, who was sweating bullets, walked out of the office.

He looked panicked as if he had encountered a big problem.

“Did something go wrong?” Wales asked.

“Yes, we can’t erase Levi Garrison’s record from the system!”

The officer wiped the cold sweat of his forehead.

“What? How come?”

The Protector Chapter 807

Wales was surprised. How difficult can it be to remove a person's identity from the database?

“So? What’s the problem? You’re authorized to remove a person’s records, aren’t you?” Wales questioned.

“Sir, I don’t even have the authority to access his file, let alone remove his record from the database!”

The officer took a deep breath.

“What do you mean you’re not authorized? Are you kidding me? He’s just an orphan. Why would someone limit the access to his file?” Wales uttered in disbelief.

“Not only we have limited access to Levi Garrison’s file, but it’s also classified as the SSSSS-class! That is equivalent to the nation’s top official secrets! No one in South Hampton has the power to retrieve his file!”

“Deleting his records from the system is just like wringing water from a stone!”

Even the officer got a shock handling such a highly confidential document for the first time. His face turned pale and the man broke out in a cold sweat.

How can he asks me to clear his records? Is he trying to get me into trouble?

He gasped and tried to regained his composure.

“Are you sure?” Wales gritted his teeth and asked. He still found it hard to believe the younger man’s words.

“100% positive. I’ve checked over and over again.” The officer exclaimed.

“Alright then. Thank you.” Wales had no choice but to leave in disappointment. He had to tell the Joneses what happened here.

After Wales left, the officer collapsed onto a chair near him.

One of his colleagues once tried retrieving an S-class file and alarmed the entire department.

And today, he almost opened a Pandora’s box by attempting to access an SSSSS-class file!

The shock was just too much for him.

Suddenly, the control room in the department received a mysterious call.

Soon, the department head gathered everyone.

The officer turned ashen-faced, and his forehead was soaked in sweat.

Everyone wondered what was going on.

“The head of National Security Agency and commander-in-chief of South Hampton’s army called to find out if we’re investigating Levi Garrison!” He shot an angry glance at everyone.

“That person’s information is Erudia’s top secret! The head of the NSA warned us that the act of retrieving his file is a crime, and he’ll come personally to look into this matter.”

Bang!

The officer who helped Wales to check on Levi's status passed out and collapsed onto the ground all of a sudden.

He did not expect this to happen.

Who is this Levi Garrison? What is his identity?

Are all Joneses as idiotic as Wales? Where on the earth did they find the courage to wipe out his records?

Many people were aware of what happened earlier, but no one dared to say anything about it.

They too, broke out in a cold sweat.

They couldn't imagine what was like to have an identity like Levi's.

The Protector Chapter 808

Meanwhile, Wales arrived home after leaving the department.

“Everything settled? That’s fast.” Both Michael and Tyler asked as they were surprised to see him back so soon.

“Nope, grandpa. They can’t delete his records from the database!” Wales had an unpleasant look on his face.

“How come? They can’t even remove the records of someone as insignificant as Levi?”

Both of them refused to believe Wales.

The latter nodded, “Not only that. They are not authorized to access his file at all!”

“What?” The grandfather stood up right away.

Tyler was also dumbfounded.

“Not authorized to access his file?”

They widened their eyes in disbelief.

“That’s right! His file was classified as SSSSS, which is equivalent to the country’s top secret! Even the officers there got the shock of their lives! Unbelievable!”

The color drained out of Wales’ face as he recounted the incident.

“How is this possible? Levi’s file is classified under the SSSSS class? Levi Garrison? But he’s a nobody!”

Michael and Tyler were completely stunned.

Wales said in a helpless tone, “I even double confirmed with the officer to make sure the name was correct, and all I got was the same answer!”

“But how?” They could not accept this.

Tyler’s eyes glistened and gently patted the back of his head, “I think I know why.”

“Why?”

Michael and Wales turned their attention to Tyler.

“We all know Levi’s background, right?” Tyler asked.

“Of course. He’s from the Garrison family from the capital city. To them, even the Goels are just nobody.” Wales said.

Tyler nodded, “See, that’s it! Since the Garrison family had deserted Levi, of course they would think of ways to erase all his connections with them.”

Michael’s eyes flickered with hope, “So you’re saying, the Garrisons did this?”

“That’s right! This is the only logical explanation I can think of. Only the Garrisons have the power to classify people’s personal records under the SSSSS class!”
Tyler nodded steadily.

“You’re right. The Garrisons do have the power to do so!” Michael responded with a smile.

Wales shot out a vicious stare and said, “Levi Garrison is a bast*rd. He doesn’t even know who his parents are, yet he still tries to cling onto the Jones family!”

Michael did not show any changes to his expression when Wales was bashing Levi.

He was not even bothered by how Wales indirectly attacked his daughter.

This clearly showed how much he hated Emma!

“I’ll never allow such a bast*rd to enter the Jones family. Over my dead body!” Michael roared.

The Protector Chapter 809

“Grandpa, though we don’t want to admit our relationship with Levi, we cannot deny the fact that the God of War has rescued him. One day, we’ll still have to repay his kindness!” Tyler said.

“What should we do then?” Michael asked.

“Perhaps we should give the legend a gift?” Tyler suggested.

“What should we give?” Michael stroke his chin as he pondered.

“Paintings and jewelry might be exquisite, but I don’t think he’s into these things. As a warrior, he must be fond of weapons. Grandpa, we do have an ancient bronze sword, don’t we? Shall we give it to him?” Tyler proposed.

Upon hearing the suggestion, Michael burst out laughing, “You’re indeed the man the Jones family can rely on! Brilliant!”

“With this gift, not only can we repay his kindness, but we might also gain his favor as well!”

“Come on, let’s send the gift over!” Without hesitation, Tyler immediately had the gift delivered to South City Warzone.

Mike looked at the gift and did not know what to do with it. He contacted Levi and told him about the gift from the Joneses.

“Keep it.” Levi ordered.

In just a short while, Seth delivered the gift to Morris Group.

Unwrapping the gift box, a bronze sword that was covered in rust showed itself. It carried a musty metallic odor.

The sword was an antique the Jones family bid during an auction for three hundred million.

“How generous of them.” Levi smirked.

“I wonder how would they react if they find out the sword is with me?”

Levi then instructed Mike to inform the Joneses that he was pleased with the gift and had accepted it.

Upon receiving an update from the God of War, the Joneses were exhilarated, especially Michael. He was so excited that he could not sleep the whole night.

After all, it was the first time the God of War communicated with them directly.

The Jones family were utterly pleasantly surprised.

Imagine how Michael would react if he found out the man he regarded so highly for was none other than Levi?

Though the Joneses viewed the bronze sword as their family’s prized possession, Levi treated it as a toy.

“You bought a fake sword from Amazon? It looks like someone is very free today!”

Iris could not help to grumble when she noticed Levi was playing with a sword.

A sudden frown warped her face. Clearly, she was not in a good mood after attending a meeting.

She became even more frustrated after seeing Levi wielding his sword like he did not have a care in the world.

“Since you’re so free, why don’t you focus on your work? Do you still remember about the one billion deal with the Black family?” Iris reprimanded him.

“What’s wrong with you? Why are you so mad?” Levi felt something was amiss with her.

“That five billion project! One of the vendors has yet to clear its payment. We don’t know what to do with them anymore!”

The Protector Chapter 810

Morris Group had recently won an electronic product-related project from a foreign company that was based in South Hampton.

The project was worth five billion. But this company, which was headquartered in Raysonia, still had not settled 70% of the payment.

Iris had deployed her team to chase the payment from them but to no avail. The company even sent people to bash them up.

At this point, Iris did not have any tricks up her sleeves anymore.

That was the agenda for the meeting she attended earlier.

Yet, they still could not figure out the best solution to end this nightmare.

All they could do was to wait.

But the more they dragged, the greater the financial losses Morris Group had to bear.

Levi was shocked, "What? Who has the guts to owe Morris Group money?"

Levi had no respect for people like this.

How could he tolerate this kind of people now that they had stepped on his toes?

"Yes! The boss is simply a hooligan. He even ordered his man to beat our people up. I really have no idea what to do now."

Iris sighed and massaged her forehead.

“Leave it to me! I’ll take care of it!” Levi said.

“You?” Iris thought she heard wrongly.

“Don’t you trust me? Since you can’t handle him, why don’t you let me give it a shot?”

Iris thought what Levi said made sense.

Oh well, I guess we can give it a try.

She then passed the file to Levi and said, “Alright, here you go. Try your best but don’t push it, okay? They’re not easy to deal with.”

Iris did not have high hopes for him to solve the problem, anyway.

In her mind, she was already thinking of getting help from Neil and the mysterious boss.

Though it was not a small sum, Iris felt embarrassed to trouble the two men.

This was why she insisted of handling this matter on her own.

Levi then left the office for South Hampton with the file.

If you play with fire, you get burned!

“Come with me, Seth!” Levi called Seth and get him to drive him there.

South Hampton was about one and a half hours away from South City.

Very soon, the two arrived at their destination – Vision Group.

It was a foreign company that was headquartered in Raysonia.

Its owner, Kameda Ichiro, was a capable businessman and had close ties with many prominent families in South Hampton.

The fact that Vision Group was able to sustain its business in the highly competitive South Hampton clearly showed they were a force to be reckoned with.

Since Vision Group was already an influential business entity in South Hampton, Morris Group, to them, was an insignificant business partner.

They kept delaying the payment just because they had the leverage to do so.

Levi and Seth were stopped from entering the company when they arrived at the front desk.

“Who are you?” The security guards could not speak the language well. It was clear that they were Raysonians.

“We’re from Morris Group, and we hope your boss can settle the payment as soon as possible!”

Upon hearing what Levi said, everyone at the foyer burst out laughing.

It was as if they were watching two clowns making a fool of themselves there.

The Protector Chapter 811

“What’s so funny?” Levi asked in a cold voice.

“Morris Group still has the guts to send you here? Your boss sent 13 groups of men here, of which 8 ran away because they were so afraid of us, and another 4 fled after being beaten up. We even turned the last group of men into cripples. They’re just not giving up, aren’t they?” The security guards looked at them in disbelief.

Levi said calmly, “Oh yes. We’re also here to demand for medical fees and an apology.”

Everyone around the front desk laughed even louder.

Levi and Seth instantly became the laughing stock of the day.

“Medical fees and demand an apology from us? What a joke!” Roars of laughter resonated in the building.

“You want to ask for payment? Come, follow me.”

Instead of throwing Levi and Seth out, the security guards brought them to the chairman’s office.

“Ah!”

All of a sudden, the two of them heard a loud cry while they were walking along the corridor.

Soon, they saw two men dragging an unconscious man toward them, and the man was covered in blood.

“He’s also here to ask us to clear our payment.” The security guard said with a smirk as if he were warning Levi he would suffer the same fate too.

Levi took a glance at the person.

So that’s their usual tactic to get rid of anyone who got in their way. How atrocious!

How can we allow these foreigners to wreak havoc as they pleased in Erudia?

A fierce glint flashed through Levi’s eyes.

He was really keen to know who on earth was this Kameda Ichiro.

A voice emerged from the office, “What now? Someone asking for their payment again?”

“Yes, sir! It’s Morris Group again.” The security guard answered in a respectful manner.

“Bring them in.”

Levi and Seth then entered the office, where they saw many vicious-looking men.

These were all dressed in a traditional robe and had a longsword as their weapon. Those men exuded an aura that would frighten anyone near them.

This was also why people who demanded payment would not achieve what they came here for.

These armed men would have intimidated them and frightened them off.

Bang!

One of the men shut the door, while the others stood around Levi and Seth and shot daggers at them.

Kameda was leaning against a leather chair and puffing at a cigarette.

“From Morris Group?” He asked.

It seemed he had spent a long time in Erudia since he could speak the native language very well.

“What do you want?” Kameda puffed at his cigarette again.

“You still owe us 3.5 billion, so please pay up. In addition, you injured our men, so we’re here to demand their medical fees and an apology!” Levi said.

Whoosh!

All of a sudden, two of his samurais drew out their longsword and placed it on Levi’s and Seth’s necks.

The Protector Chapter 812

It was as if time stood still.

The tension in the room was so thick one could cut it with a knife.

The edge of the sword was so icy-cold that it sent chills down Seth's spine.

Sweat droplets also started rolling down from his forehead, and he could not help but gasp.

The sword would have cut through his neck if it had tilted a little.

On the other hand, Levi remained calm and did not show any changes on his expression at all.

As if he felt nothing on his neck.

After a while, Kameda sat straight up and looked at Levi, "Aren't you afraid?"

"No."

"Why not?" Kameda was curious.

"Because I'll smash his skull before he could do anything." Levi said nonchalantly.

"Try me if you don't believe it."

Kameda and his men were stunned by how steady Levi was.

“Put down your swords.” Kameda signaled with a hand wave, and the two men retracted the swords from their necks.

“You’ve got a lot of nerve, young man. Others would have dropped to their knees right away!”

Kameda was impressed with how courageous Levi was.

“Cut the crap and do what I said. Clear the payment, settle the medical fees, and apologize immediately!”

Levi was running out of patience.

Kameda’s men took a step forward and gave Levi and Seth a murderous stare.

“How dare you come here and make all these demands?” Kameda slammed the desk with his hand.

“The man you saw earlier came for the same thing too, and he’s now half-dead after being beaten by my men!”

“Everyone in South Hampton knows I don’t deal with this ‘clear payments’ nonsense! Every year, I turn at least 100 people into cripples because of this demand. Yet, you people still come after me. Erudians are plain stupid!” Kameda said condescendingly.

“You’re not an Erudian, right?” Levi asked.

“That’s right! Not an Erudian but a Raysonian! What’s wrong?” Kameda wondered what was on his mind.

“You’re not an Erudian, yet you behave like a barbarian on our land?” Levi’s face darkened.

“This is how I run my business empire!”

“No one in South Hampton would dare to challenge me. Everyone here knows that!” Kameda exclaimed.

“Does that mean your word is law in South Hampton?” Levi sneered?

“Of course! I control everything in South Hampton. I am the law!”

Kameda took a sidelong glance at the two and said, “Bow before me and I’ll consider letting you off. Otherwise, be prepared to lose your legs!”

Levi ignored him. He took out of his phone and made a call, “Xabian, I thought you’re the most influential person in South Hampton? How come someone from Raysonia claimed to be the master of this land?”

The Protector Chapter 813

The phone call Levi made shocked Kameda and all his men in the office.

Who did he call?

Xabian?

“Who is Xabian?” Kameda did not know what was going on.

“Xabian Goel, the patriarch of the Goel family!” His assistant reminded him.

“What? Mr. Goel?”

Having lived in South Hampton for nearly two decades, Kameda certainly knew who Xabian Goel was.

He's the number one man in South Hampton!

None of the prominent families here would dare to defy his order!

“Are you kidding me? This lad gave Mr. Goel a call?” Kameda chuckled.

Did the young man just claim that he was calling Mr. Goel, the mysterious man who sits on top of the social pyramid in South Hampton?

An errand boy like him has access to Xabian Goel? Are you kidding me?

Everyone in the office burst out laughing.

South Hampton the most economically advanced city in the entire Erudia. Hence, a lot of prominent families were based here.

There were just too many prominent families here, but there was a hierarchy.

They were generally divided into the common prominent family, quasi-royal family, and true royal family.

The Goel family occupied the top spot of the royal family.

No ordinary folk, not even Kameda, was qualified to associate themselves with the Goel family.

Kameda did not have even have access to the quasi-royal families. At his level, he could at most reach out to a few common prominent families, and that was just about it.

Yet, Levi did what he couldn't.

How is it possible?

“Very well. Let's see if you can get Mr. Goel to come and back you up!”

Kameda puffed at a cigarette and could not wait for these clowns to make a fool of themselves.

Over at the other end of the phone, Xabian broke out in a cold sweat after hearing Levi's voice, “Are you in... South Hampton?”

“Haven't I made myself clear?” Levi smirked.

“The Raysonian you mentioned earlier is...?” Xabian asked.

“Kameda Ichiro from Vision Group. He owed my company 3.5 billion and refused to clear the payment. He even bashed my men up! This fellow also claimed to be the most influential person in South Hampton. Are you going to allow this foreigner to dominate this area? You’re from the royal family here, for goodness sake!” Levi reprimanded aloofly.

“I... I’ll come over right now! Who gave Kameda the permission to call the shots in South Hampton!” A vortex of anger swirled inside Xabian.

“I’ll give you 20 minutes. Come to Vision Group right now!” Levi ended the call.

“Did you just instruct Mr. Goel to come here? What a joke!” To Kameda, Levi was cooking up some bullshit to buy time.

The businessman might believe Levi if he said he knew Mr. Goel.

But looking at the way this young man spoke so arrogantly over the phone, who would buy his story now?

No way!

“I’ve never seen someone as idiotic as him!”

Kameda’s men had enough of his crap and were ready to strike.

Kameda stopped them right away, and he smiled at Levi, “Fine. Let’s not talk about Mr. Goel. If you’re capable of getting just one of the common prominent families to come to Vision Group, I’ll bow to you and settled all your payments!”

The Protector Chapter 814

“Did he say 20 minutes? Fine! I’ll give him 20 minutes!” Kameda let out a mirthless laugh.

If no one appears after 20 minutes, I’ll incapacitate him!

Five minutes later, they began to hear footsteps along the corridor.

Kameda received a call from the front desk receptionist, who warned him that a group of men were heading toward his office.

Bang!

In a split of a second, a group of well-suited man swarmed in after kicking down his office door.

Kameda immediately stood up from his chair after seeing this group of men.

This was because he knew every single one of them.

They were the heads of prominent families from all over South Hampton.

More and more people started flocking into his office, and Kameda started panicking.

Soon, almost 40 heads of the prominent families gathered in his tiny office.

In other words, all the patriarchs from the common prominent families in South Hampton had gathered here.

“Hello, Mr. Davies!”

“Good to see you, Mr. Kernet!”

“Hey, Mr. Hocker!”

...

Kameda instantly crouched over and greeted every single one of them.

“Hmph!”

“You’re doomed!”

...

All the heads snorted dismissively.

Kameda was so confused and did not know what was going on, but he still mustered up the courage to greet them one by one.

Anyone of them right there could easily crush him like a bug!

For them to be recognized as a common prominent family, their net worth must at least hit fifty billion.

And all these people had met this minimum requirement!

Just when he thought no one else would show up in his office, more people started coming in.

And this time, there were 20 of them.

Kameda's heart nearly leapt into his throat when he saw them walking into his office.

They were the patriarchs from the 20 quasi-royal family!

The other family heads, who arrived earlier, made way for them to come through.

Quasi-royal families were a stratum above them!

"What brought you all here?" Kameda was about to drop to his knees.

The common prominent families could already destroy him easily, not to mention these quasi-royal families.

Even if they had spat on the floor, Kameda had to cup his hands to collect the fluid.

In South Hampton, this was a classic example of survival of the fittest as the social structure here was highly hierarchical!

Kameda did not know them very well. Even when he greeted them respectfully, all these influential men just ignored him.

He was not qualified to talk to them. He was not qualified to talk to them.

Hold on!

What's going on?

What are all these influential figures doing in my office?

The large group of people had clouded Kameda's mind.

As soon as he regained his composure, he suddenly thought of the most terrifying question ever – why are they here?

Instinctively, he turned around and looked at Levi.

Could it be because of him? All because of the phone call he made earlier?

Didn't he give them 20 minutes? All these people literally turned up in the blink of an eye.

At this point, Kameda was already sweating bullets and trembling in fear.

All of a sudden, a voice emerged from the corridor, "Mr. Goel has arrived!"

The Protector Chapter 815

At the sound of this voice, the Masters of these common prominent families in South Hampton stood upright with solemn faces.

This was Xabian Goel's prestige in South Hampton.

When he gave an order, all the noble families must follow.

Kameda Ichiro's heart leapt to his throat.

With just one phone call, he had invited South Hampton's top man, Mr. Goel to make an appearance.

What type of person was he?

Kameda Ichiro's legs trembled and he couldn't stand still.

The samurais behind him were even more frightened.

This was no ordinary person!

If they remembered correctly, when the dagger was pressed against his neck, his reaction had already shown how extraordinary he was.

I've been rash!

I've really been too rash!

In the next instant, Xabian Goel brought the patriarchs of the other eight royal families.

All royal families in South Hampton were present with the exception of the Jones family.

When the rest saw Xabian, they bowed low and greeted him respectfully, "Greetings Mr. Goel!"

However, the elderly took no notice of them. He brought all the royal families and the quasi-royal clans to meet Levi. In unison, they greeted, "Greetings, Mr. Garrison!"

It was like a thunderclap in the atmosphere!

In that instant, the atmosphere was filled with shock.

The dozens of heads of the nobles could not believe their eyes.

The samurais, too were shocked.

Kameda Ichiro was astounded.

What's happening?

The patriarchs of the royal families were greeting a young man with respect.

Who could this person be? There was a sense of mystery in the air.

The key person was Elder Goel!

He is the most important person, isn't he?

Yet, he is bowing to the waist to greet this person.

This is the most frightening aspect of the situation.

Xabian Goel turned around, pointed at all other common prominent families and said, "Mr. Garrison, you haven't met these nobles yet. Let me introduce you to them!"

Levi nodded his head slightly.

"Listen well! This Mr. Garrison standing in front of your eyes is the Master of the nine royal families and the twenty quasi-royal families! From now on, you giants will also take orders from Mr. Garrison! His identity is beyond your imagination!" Xabian announced to those present.

Although the heads of the common prominent families were surprised, they shouted together in obedience, "Hail, Mr. Garrison! We will serve you as our Master in the future!"

They did not need an explanation.

All they had to do was to follow Xabian's instructions.

If Elder Goel served Mr. Garrison as his Master, who were they to question him?

They only had to trust and obey as there was no other way.

"Mr. Garrison, from now on, the top 100 South Hampton giants will follow your orders, except for the Jones family of course!" Xabian Goel declared.

The Jones family was from this moment isolated in South Hampton.

"Well, that's okay."

Levi laughed.

"Oh, I stray from the matter at hand."

Xabian suddenly called out, "Who is Kameda Ichiro?"

The Protector Chapter 816

Thud!

When Kameda Ichiro heard his name being called, he was overcome by fear and collapsed onto the ground.

Splash...

Following that was the sound of liquid spilling and a strong stench.

Kameda's trousers became wet.

He was so scared that he urinated...

The samurai with him were also wetting their pants.

What Bushido was this?

In the face of real power, they were reduced to wetting their trousers.

A long time ago, Levi met some samurais from the country of Raysonia.

At that time, Levi's proud words had made the Raysonia warriors fearful to this day – "What is Bushido?" What I do is Bushido!

"I heard that you haven't paid the balance due?"

Xabian asked as he hit the ground with his new walking stick which was carved into the shape of a dragon head.

“I... I... I... I... I’ll pay now!”

Kameda was beside himself with fear.

On the spot, he asked his assistants and finance guys to hand over a check worth 3.5 billion to Levi.

“I also heard you beat someone up so badly that hospitalization was necessary. Is that true?” Xabian continued asking.

“I will pay for the medical bills and apologize!”

Bang! Bang! Bang! Kameda hit his head on the ground to show remorse.

He then paid another 10 million for medical expenses.

“Goel, since I got what I want, I’m returning to South City now.” Levi finally said.

“Phew!” Kameda heaved a sigh of relief.

Finally, it was over and despite much fear, there was no harm done.

Unfortunately, Levi’s order was heard loud and clear in the next instant, “I don’t want to see him in Erudia anymore.”

Boom!

It was just a few words, but for Kameda it was a heavy sentence.

He was being deported from Erudia!

“Mr. Garrison, we understand! We, the people of Erudia have always been a great example, welcoming friends from all over the world to come and prosper together with us. But today, I will be the first to drive this kind of trash out of our country!”

“I will also make a statement. I myself will investigate all the immigrants in South Hampton. Whoever commits any kind of violation that hurts our countrymen will be deported at once!” Xabian declared his stance to Levi.

The other patriarchs followed suit.

Those who just wanted to make a fortune and abuse the citizens for a profit be warned.

“Hmm..., that’s great, Goel. You’re good!”

Levi praised the elderly.

This word of affirmation made Xabian feel valued.

In fact, he was quite overjoyed.

“Stay, I’ll leave on my own!”

After Levi left, the patriarchs of the common prominent families started discussing, “Elder Goel, who is this Mr. Garrison?”

“The Highest Military Merit Of Our Nation.”

This was all that Xabian would reveal but the crowd was thunderstruck.

It was a simple phrase but it was too shocking.

That was the ultimate pursuit of every warriors!

It represented the top military commander at the moment.

This was none other than The God of War! It was a shocking moment!

Retch!

Kameda finally reacted and blood spewed out of his mouth.

Levi who was about to get into his car, suddenly caught sight of a familiar figure – Wales.

The Protector Chapter 817

“Hey? What are you doing here?” Wales, immediately blocked Levi’s way and asked curiously.

“Why is that your business?” Levi sneered.

“You aren’t thinking of coming back to the Jones family, are you? Making all your way here to South Hampton.” Wales suddenly shouted.

From his point of view, Levi’s only purpose for being in South Hampton was to be recognized by the Joneses so that he could be admitted back into the family.

“Let me tell you this! The Joneses will never recognize your identity! Stop dreaming!” Furiously, Wales made his point.

“Ridiculous.” With that, Levi got into his car and left.

Immediately, Wales went back to Edburg Manor and reported everything to Michael.

“What? He has returned to South Hampton? It’s obvious that he wants to return to our family, isn’t it? What should we do?”

The grandfather panicked.

“I have no idea what he’s doing here. Anyhow, he came out of Vision Group.” Wales voiced his puzzlement.

“I should be able to find out after asking around.”

Tyler reached out to his contacts to investigate the reason for Levi's presence in the Vision Group.

"He came to Vision Group to collect a debt of 3.5 billion and managed to do so."

The news came quickly.

"How could that be possible? Why did Kameda Ichiro give him 3.5 billion so easily?"

Michael was all suspicious.

"It is said that Kameda Ichiro was pressured by the royal families. He has now left the country." Tyler reported.

"Levi is really smart. He actually does things in the name of Jones family!"

"I guess that royal families refer to us." Wales suddenly said aloud.

Unfortunately, they had misunderstood. The royal families included all but the Joneses.

Michael clenched his fists in anger, "Isn't that so? As soon as Levi revealed his identity as the grandson of Jones family, Kameda is bound to fear him!"

Tyler punched the wall in anger, "It seems that we have underestimated Levi! He is now using our family name for his own purposes! What would he do in future?"

The Joneses were all determined that Levi had used their family name to procure the balance of the debt.

It was just a small matter, so naturally they wouldn't go deep into it.

"We have to do something about this. Let's inform the Morris Group!"

Following that, Tyler contacted Iris and told her their so-called conclusion.

Iris was surprised as she did not know about Levi's relationship with the Jones family.

Quickly, she told Zoey this version of the story.

Bingo!

Zoey was stunned and then her face was full of certainty.

This had proven her theory.

All the while, that was what Levi had been doing to achieve his successes.

This time, it was no exception!

No wonder Levi volunteered to go collect the balance of the debt.

Iris arrived at this conclusion.

Right at this moment, Levi returned.

"Iris, I've collected the balance!"

The Protector Chapter 818

When Levi handed the check to Iris, the two ladies were indifferent and their faces showed no reaction.

“Hmm?”

Levi was puzzled.

He had brought in the final payment of 3.5 billion.

That solved Iris' huge problem.

How could she not show some reaction?

This is not normal!

Zoey might not know what was happening and so her indifference was acceptable.

What's with Iris?

“I've brought back the balance.”

Levi reminded her again.

“Oh, I see.”

Iris' face was still expressionless.

Levi was puzzled as he said, "Something doesn't seem right with you."

"Oh, alright. Should I praise you? You're awesome! You can settle what we can't do so easily! From now on, we shall let you collect all debts."

Iris praised him vehemently.

However, Levi still even more weird.

"It's okay. That was nothing!" Levi said nonchalantly. In any case, he did not take it to heart.

He had no way of knowing that Iris had received a call from the Joneses, nor that she and Zoey thought he was flaunting his connection with the Jones family.

Iris would be more pleased to see Levi solving this problem on his own without depending on the Joneses.

Like Zoey, she hoped that Levi would make it on his own.

Hence, she was displeased.

And so, even though the check had been procured, she showed no expression on her face.

"Iris, Levi really hates the Jones family. But because of me, he has asked for their help multiple times. I'm really touched." Zoey said.

Iris bit her lips, saying, "Nevertheless, I'm worried that he will deteriorate!"

"Do you mean that the convenience brought by being a grandson of the Jones family will make him less and less progressive? And that it may lead to terrible results in the end?"

Zoey reacted to Iris' words.

"Exactly. This status will destroy him."

Iris' gaze was full of worry.

"Furthermore, the one billion the Black family asked him to earn will definitely be derived from the Jones family!"

"Forget about it. It's going to be the Morris Group biannual celebration soon. I have to prepare for the event."

Levi did not know about all that was going on between Iris and Zoey.

He returned to his place and started playing with his ancient bronze sword.

At this moment, a call came from the Jones family.

"Yo, Levi! How smart you are!"

Wales voice was heard speaking in a weird manner.

"If you have something to say, just spit it out!"

Levi replied impatiently.

"You should know what you have done, shouldn't you?"

Wales sneered.

"What have I done?"

Levi was puzzled.

“You know best why you came to South Hampton. It’s about the debt from Vision Group, isn’t it?”

“And?”

“Why are you stooping so low? You used our family name to get the money, didn’t you? Yet there you were saying that you do not admit to being related to the Jones family.”

The Protector Chapter 819

Levi did not bother to explain himself to Wales.

He simple hung up the phone.

But that made him understand why Zoey and Iris acted so cold toward him.

It was obvious that the Jones family told them the same thing.

That was the reason for the two girls' strange reaction!

So be it!

Levi felt it was unnecessary to explain for himself.

As the God of War, it was below his dignity to bother about a nest of ants.

However if the Jones family kept on provoking him, he would have to take action against them.

If they were to cross the line, he would let them know what cruelty he was capable of.

At this moment, Kirin called and asked, “Sir, it will be the biannual celebration of Morris Group soon. All the top executives would like to meet you, especially Iris.”

Levi laughed, “Now that the Morris Group is stabilizing, it is high time for me to reveal myself!”

Levi seemed to spend most of his time drinking tea and sleeping, but his decisions and directions were what shaped the growth of Morris Group.

It could be said that his hands was what pushed Morris Group forwards.

“Fine, I shall inform the management and staff.” Kirin smiled and said.

Soon, everyone in Morris Group began to cheer.

Except for those pioneers, the others had never seen the boss at all.

Hence, everyone was very excited to hear that the mysterious boss would make an appearance.

After all, the boss had given them a lot of expectations.

“Oh yeah!” Iris was the most eager one to meet the boss.

The moment she received Neil's notification, she cheered and danced.

She could finally meet the legendary boss. The man was literally her idol!

Since the day she came back from abroad, no man could win her heart.

Levi was the man she had most contact with.

Not that she was not disinterested in romance, but she wanted a man she found desirable.

The mysterious boss had left a deep impression within her heart.

Iris vowed. If the boss were single, she would do everything in her power to pursue him, regardless of how he looked.

What she valued was his talent.

The progress of Morris Group up to now was due to this boss' hard work behind the scenes.

She was just the implementer.

Iris danced and skipped right up to Zoey's office, "Zoey, I have good news for you. The boss of Morris Group will make an appearance at our biannual celebration!"

“You will come, won’t you?” Iris invited her.

“That would not be appropriate, would it? We are just business partner.”

Actually, Zoey was also curious about what the boss of Morris Group would look like.

“What’s so inappropriate? Don’t forget that I’m the vice president.”

The Protector Chapter 820

“Furthermore, don’t you want to see this mysterious boss of Morris Group?”

“Besides, Levi will be attending for sure! I heard that he and my boss are friends. This celebration wouldn’t do without him.”

Zoey nodded her head, “In that case, okay, I shall attend.”

Following that, the whole company was busy preparing for the biannual celebration.

Finally, they decided that the celebration would be held on an island. The staff would also be holidaying as well.

When Iris bumped into Levi, she laughed, saying, “Levi, you are attending our biannual celebration, right?”

Levi smiled, “Of course. Without my presence, this celebration would be totally meaningless!”

Levi was the most important guest.

Everyone wanted to meet him.

So, it could be said that this biannual celebration was held in his honor.

If he did not attend, the celebration would be in vain!

“Boast all you can! The celebration will go on with or without you.”
Iris replied, glaring at him.

She thought the man was just talking nonsense.

“As for me, I want to see how my dream lover looks like. Just imagine that! Oh! I’m so excited!”

Levi frowned as he asked, “What? Your dream lover?”

When did I become the man of her dreams?

“Absolutely! The mysterious boss has always been my dream lover! The day we meet, I shall look my best, even more attractive than Zoey!”

Iris cried excitedly, like a teenager in love.

Levi was speechless!

The man glared at her and replied, “At your best? As if he hasn’t seen you before.”

Puzzled, Iris replied, “What did you say? The boss has seen me before?”

“Absolutely. There isn’t one staff member that he hasn’t met, including Zemo the cleaner and Lewis the chef.” Levi replied.

Iris’ countenance changed.

Finally, she realized what the matter was about.

They did not know who the boss was, but that did not mean that he had not met them.

“Oh, that’s not the same. This is our first official meeting! I must look beautiful! Possibly, it’s the start of a romance.”

Iris was fantasizing about the first meeting and her expression was full of sweet dreams.

“Poof!”

Levi was repulsed.

Iris is secretly in love with me?

She’s my wife’s good friend!

“You look fine just the way you are. There’s no need to make up or dress up.” Levi told her.

“Don’t worry. I’m not doing it for you!”

Iris gave Levi a prideful glare. Then she turned around and left.

The remaining days were spent getting ready for the biannual celebration.

The news spread quickly to South City, North Hampton and then the whole of Quebec.

Although the Morris Group was low-key, everyone knew that after the reshuffling of the major players in North Hampton and South City, the biggest beneficiary was the mysterious boss behind the company.

Everyone was curious about him!

All of them wanted to know who he was.

The Protector Chapter 821

Within half a year, he had taken Morris Group to the next level.

The Black family called Zoey over when they heard about the news.

“Grandpa, grandma, what’s the matter?” Asked Zoey.

“Zoey, I heard that Morris Group is going to hold its biannual celebration? Are you going to participate?” Asked Meredith anticipatingly.

“Yes. Why are you asking this?”

“That’s great!” Meredith ignored her question and continued asking, “Is it true that the mysterious boss is finally going to show his face?”

“It’s true!”

With a glint of excitement in her eyes, Meredith exclaimed, “That’s great news! I heard he is one of the most edible bachelors! Rumors have it that he has a strong background, which is why he got the last laugh when his company survived the financial market upheavals in North Hampton and South City.”

Robert concurred with his wife, “Indeed! He is a competent man since he managed to get a foothold in the market.”

Meredith coaxed, “Zoey, you should seize this opportunity to get in touch with him! This time we won’t interfere, and you can do as you please.”

“Grandma! What are you talking about?” Zoey was displeased as she regarded Meredith with incredulity, “I already have Levi! How could you ask me to set my cap at another man?”

“Uh-uh!” Meredith feigned an angry look on her face. “You’re still single! What’s wrong with interacting with other men? It’s not against the law, is it?”

Zoey gave a resigned smile. “Grandma, do you really think that the boss of Morris Group would take a fancy on me?”

“It might be impossible for other people to take his fancy, but you’re different! He is always there to help you when you face any difficulty. Don’t you wonder why he treats you differently?”

Zoey’s heart skipped a beat at Meredith’s words as they reminded her of her suspicions.

No one in the world was obliged to lend a helping hand to another person. Except for our family and friends who might step forward out of love, those who offered to help ‘gratuitously’ definitely had ulterior motives.

It had been weighing on her mind, Why would the boss of Morris Group help me? Is it like what grandma said...

Does he have feelings for me?

Although none of them had seen the mysterious boss, Zoey knew the boss had his eyes on them.

Meredith persuaded her smilingly, “Zoey, don’t let this opportunity slide! Maybe you would fall for him once you meet him!”

“Alright.” Zoey answered compliantly, giving her grandma a put-off. I will never fall in love with any man other than Levi. When I meet him, I will ask him why did he help me so that I could return his favor.

The Black family, on the other hand, held a different thought from Zoey. They believed that if Zoey could win the boss' fancy, it would be in everyone's interest.

Soon, it was Morris Group's biannual celebration.

One day before the celebration, the employees of Morris Group, including Zoey and Levi, were sent to the island.

The Protector Chapter 822

Iris carried her four pieces of luggage, full of her clothing for the trip. She planned to try them on and choose the one that looked best for the celebration.

Levi was rendered speechless by her act. Iris is making a big thing of it. Will she be angry once she knows that I am the mysterious boss?

“Levi, I wonder why the boss of Morris Group helped me in the previous times... What are your thoughts on this?” Zoey asked curiously.

“I guess he has fallen head over heels for you because you’re such a gorgeous lady.” Levi replied earnestly.

Zoey gave him a playful punch and mumbled to herself, “There ain’t no such thing as a free lunch; I believe there must be a reason behind his action.”

“Well... Maybe he looks up to you because of your talent. You have made some achievements and contributed to the company, haven’t you?” Levi caressed her hair, trying to put her mind at ease. “That’s it! Relax!”

Iris chimed in as their conversation caught her attention. “I also think that the boss is acting weird! Zoey is not an employee of Morris Group, but why is he treating her so nicely?”

Then, she eyed Levi warily and asked suspiciously, “Don’t tell me that you’re the mysterious boss!”

Levi openly admitted, “Yeah, it’s me. That’s why you don’t need to dress up.”

“Hahaha!” Iris was amused.

Zoey gave a wry smile. How nice it would be if Levi is the boss of Morris Group... That carries a lot more weight than the identity as the grandson of the Jones family.

But sadly, it was irrefutable evidence that he had exploited the Jones family when he collected the debt from Vision Group.

After a few hours' drive, they finally arrived at the resort located a few hundred kilometers away from South City. This place was a well-known tourism spot famous for its beautiful scenery.

The hospitable workers welcomed them upon their arrival.

Before the room allocation, the workers repeatedly reminded them to not wander off the island as the residents here were all hard-hitting two-fisted people.

If there happened to be a conflict between them and the villagers, they would find themselves in serious trouble since the latter could easily call out hundreds of men.

Meanwhile, at the Jones Residence, Tyler was reassuring his grandpa, "Grandpa, don't worry! I have it all planned out! This time, I managed to get help from the local tyrant. Levi Garrison will be dead on the remote island, and no one will ever find out about it."

Michael was pleased. "Perfect!"

It turned out that the Joneses knew that Levi was going to attend Morris Group's biannual celebration, so they planned an assassination to get rid of him.

In the resort, everyone was engaged in the preparation work for the celebration, except for the lazy bum — Levi, who was wandering around aimlessly.

Iris was scornful of his behavior. "Hmph! He acts as if he is the boss!"

Kirin arrived soon after.

Iris and the others welcomed him with open arms and allocated the best room to him.

After dinner, Levi left his room and headed toward Kirin's room.

Right at that juncture, Iris and Zoey who were taking a stroll caught glimpse of his figure in the corridor.

Zoey asked curiously, "Where is he going? That isn't the way to his room, is it?"

"Let's follow him, and we'll find out!" Iris grabbed Zoey by the wrist as they followed Levi down the corridor.

The Protector Chapter 823

The two followed Levi all the way to the presidential suite.

Iris was surprised when she saw him standing in front of the presidential suite. “This is Neil Atkinson’s room! Is he looking for Mr. Atkinson?”

Zoey too was curious. “Do they know each other?”

Iris shook her head. “No, they don’t. Mr. Atkinson has come to the company several times, but I have never seen them talking to each other.”

“Then why is he looking for Mr. Atkinson?” Asked Zoey.

“I’ll tell you why... But could you promise that you won’t be angry with me?”

“Sure. Go Ahead.”

Iris planned her speech before saying, “I think Levi is here to ingratiate himself with Mr. Atkinson.”

“Is that so?” Zoey was slightly dejected. “I know Levi pretty well... He is not a fawner!”

Iris shook her head at Zoey’s naivety. “Zoey, Levi is not the guy you used to know anymore. He has been using his identity as the Jones’ grandchild to achieve his successes, so it is no surprise that he would fawn over Neil.”

At this moment, the room door was opened. Kirin noticed that Iris and Zoey were hiding in the dark, spying on them, so he covertly gestured to Levi to leave before slamming the door shut.

The ladies saw Levi shook his head helplessly as he left; they thought Neil had given Levi the cold shoulder.

“Look, he is slighted by Neil!” Iris flashed a smug smile, thinking she had successfully gauged Levi’s mind and his conduct.

Zoey sighed in resignation as the truth was plain as day, so she could do nothing but to accept it.

Levi was once a man with unyielding character; he had always abhorred snobs who were easily swayed.

He would never try to pull strings, bootlick, or use underhand tactics to achieve his goals. However, it seemed like Levi had changed. He was no longer his old self.

...

Levi has yield to reality.

Zoey sighed at the thought of it. It seems like time and life experiences could really cut a person down to size and dampen his pride.

In the past, Levi used to be a man full of pride and confidence. But now, his arrogance is long gone with the wind. He is no different from any other ordinary man being weighed down by the burden and hardship of life.

But fortunately, we love each other to the moon and back.

They met Levi on the ground floor. “Where have you been just now?” Asked Iris.

Levi gave her a put-off, “Just walking around... Why are you asking?”

It ascertained their suspicions that Levi was sucking up to Neil when he evaded her question.

“Nothing.” Iris decided not to pursue the matter further.

Just then, one of the employees of Morris Group came running and yelling as soon as he saw Iris, “Ms. Anabelle, something terrible has happened! We’re in big trouble!”

The Protector Chapter 824

Iris frowned slightly as she uttered, "What's wrong? Slow down and tell me what happened."

The employee gabbled in panic, "Just now, a few of us were strolling around. All of a sudden, a group of people appeared and asked for money. We got into an altercation, and they started beating us up. Now, they have held some of our employees captive for ransom."

All of them recalled the resort workers' reminder — the locals were all two-fisted folks who liked to look for trouble.

However, none of them paid heed to the advice as they would never have expected something like this to happen on the island.

"Oh no! It must be Oliver Ross!" With a worried expression, one of the resort workers gibbered, "The bustle of the preparation work for the upcoming celebration must have caught his attention."

"Who is this Oliver Ross?" Asked Levi.

The worker explained, "He's the local tyrant of the underworld; the lake and dozens of the surrounding islands were all his territories. We pay him huge sums of money every year so that he won't disturb the tourists on the island."

Then, he scratched his head in confusion. "Usually, the tourists will be safe as long as they don't wander off the island. But what's wrong with him today? Why did they come onto the island and harm the tourists?"

"Let's go and check it out!"

Soon, everyone arrived at the scene to see six Morris Group employees being tied to the trees. They were flanked by dozen of men.

The leader of the group was a 6'2 feet tall, pot-bellied, menacing-looking man. His intimidating aura suggested that he was none other than Oliver Ross, the local tyrant.

These men instantly fixed their gaze on Iris, Zoey and other female employees, drooling over them.

They could hardly control themselves as none of them had seen so many beautiful women in their lives.

It turned out that they were the ones engaged by the Joneses to get rid of Levi.

“Oliver, what is going on here?” Asked the resort manager, who was shaking like a leaf.

Oliver bellowed, “Just now, we caught them peeing into the lake.”

The employees denied his accusation, “That’s a bloody lie! Why would we pee into the lake? You guys appeared out of nowhere and suddenly asked for protection money. You even beat us up when we refused to pay it.”

“You didn’t?” Oliver sneered, “You guys did it before my very eyes. The lake is my territory, and I have the right to hold all of you captive for what you have done.”

“Sir, the employees of Morris Group are all civilized university graduates. They will not behave like a brute, peeing in the public.” Retorted Iris.

Oliver and his gang flew into a rage upon hearing her words. “What do you mean? Are you trying to say that you guys are noble and we’re brutes?”

“How dare you look down upon us!”

“Huh, I have never seen civilized and cultured people who would pee into a lake!”

The employees countered, “We didn’t! This is a false accusation! We would never do something like that!”

The Protector Chapter 825

“Hah!” The tyrant snorted, “There is no use in denying because we have witnesses!”

“Witnesses? Where are they?” Asked Iris. She knew that Oliver was up to no good.

“Bring them!” Oliver ordered.

The reeds surrounding the lake rustled. The next moment, hundreds of burly men appeared. All of them had murderous expressions on their faces, and they were holding cold weapons.

Iris and the others panicked when the men besieged them.

As white-collar workers, they had never experienced any sorts of violent confrontations since they were under the protection of Seth when they were in North Hampton and South City.

They couldn't help feeling scared in the face of a clash with the locals on a remote island.

Iris was panic-stricken. Unlike in North Hampton or South City, she couldn't get help from anyone on this island.

She was in deep regret of her decision. I shouldn't hold our biannual celebration at this place... No one would find out even if we are dead here today...

“We saw them peeing into the lake!”

The staffs of Morris Group were intimidated when hundreds of men roared in unison.

Oliver gave a devilish grin and said, "I have almost three hundred witnesses here. Are you still not going to admit your misconduct?"

At this moment, they realized that they were set up. However, they could do nothing but admit the false allegations.

"Do you still dare to say that you didn't pee into the lake?" Oliver wielded his sword and held one of his captives on sword point.

The staffs were drenched in sweat, and his face was drained of all colors. "I... I did pee in the lake..." He reluctantly admitted.

Oliver pointed his sword at another employee. "What about you?"

"I... I peed as well..."

...

All six of them admitted when Oliver put screws on them.

"Firstly, they have admitted their misconduct. Secondly, I have three hundred witnesses here." Oliver stared at Iris and the others as he continued, "So now, what have you got to say?"

"Fine. I give up." Iris sneered, "Just tell me what you want so that you'll release my employees."

Oliver started to reason with her, "Since you're on our island, you should follow our rules. Your staffs should be heavily punished for their shameful behavior."

His subordinates concurred with him, "That's right! They deserve heavy punishment!"

The employees were almost scared to death.

Oliver proposed, "Ten billion! We can settle this if you agree to..."

"Impossible!" Iris cut in before he could even finish his sentence.

"Young lady, I'm not done yet!" He added, "Besides the ten billion compensation, I want you and your other female colleagues to sleep with me for one night."

The Protector Chapter 826

With a lecherous smile on his face, he uttered, “We can only settle this matter if you agree to my conditions.”

“Hahaha...” His subordinates burst into gales of laughter and exchanged nasty grins with each other.

They had long lusted for Iris, Zoey and other women.

Their boss could have the two stunners while they spent the night with the rest of them.

“Shameless!” Iris was fuming in rage as she never expected them to be so shameless. Not only did they ask for a sky-high price, but they also even want us to sleep with them!

No one noticed the grim expression on Levi’s face.

Apparently, they had gotten under his skin. Those who covet Zoey shall die! I will never let anyone lay a finger on her!

Oliver leered at Iris and asked, “What do you think?” His face grew serious as he threatened, “If you don’t agree to my conditions, my men won’t let you leave the island.”

As the local tyrant, Oliver could do anything he wanted in his territory as no one dared to stand up against him.

Iris and the others were at his mercy since they were unable to leave the island.

He gave an ultimatum, "You have three seconds to answer me!"

"I..." Iris was at a loss for words.

At that moment, a voice rang out from behind. "As expected of a local tyrant... It looks like you have come up with your own law, huh?"

Everyone turned their heads to look at Levi.

Oliver shifted his gaze at Levi and noticed that, unlike the others who were shuddering in fear, Levi had a good grip of his composure and a smile on his face. Isn't he afraid?

"Levi Garrison, aren't you afraid of me?" Asked Oliver.

Levi let out a chuckle.

He wasn't ruffled when someone threatened to cut his throat with a Raysonia katana a few days ago.

He didn't bat an eyelid when ten thousand soldiers besieged him on the battlefield.

Wouldn't it be funny if he were to be afraid of a petty local tyrant?

Without bothering to answer Oliver, Levi lit a cigarette and took a deep puff on it.

Everyone was stunned when they saw him blowing cigarette smoke in Oliver's face.

Where in the world did he find the courage to do that?

How dare he tries to provoke the local tyrant when his safety is in jeopardy?

He must have had a death wish!

“You...” Oliver was also dumbfounded.

As fury surged through him, he snatched the cigarette from Levi’s lips and hurled it to the floor, stubbing it out with his foot.

“I’m going to beat the crap out of you!” Levi roared.

“How dare you snatch my cigarette?” Asked Levi, looking at Oliver in somewhat disbelief.

Oliver was puzzled by Levi’s reaction. “So what? What are you going to do with me?”

“That’s simple. You have your rules, and so do I. You should compensate me for snatching my cigarette. Well... I guess 20 billion will do! Don’t worry, I’m not interested in spending the night with you and your men.”

The Protector Chapter 827

Both Iris and Zoey broke out in a cold sweat when they saw Levi paying the local tyrant back in his own coin. Is he trying to aggravate the situation?

Zoey knew that Levi was good at fighting, but she doubted if he could fight against three hundred people.

Oliver and his subordinates were thunderstruck by Levi's shocking remarks.

Did he imitate me just now?

How dare he even asked for 20 billion?!

Is he out of his mind?

Levi raised his brow and said, "I have witnesses who saw you snatching my cigarette just now. Aren't you going to admit your misconduct?"

"I snatched your cigarette, so what? What are you going to do with me, huh?" Oliver went livid with rage.

Levi stood his ground and stared Oliver in the eyes. "I'm now asking for compensation!"

"Levi Garrison, dream on! Don't blame me because you asked for it!" A malicious glint flashed across Oliver's eyes as he ordered, "Take all of them to the resort, except Levi Garrison. I'm looking forward to spending a lovely night with the ladies, so I don't want them to be horrified by the gruesome scene."

His subordinates complied.

“No!” Zoey screamed and resisted. She knew what would be lying ahead of Levi once he was being left alone with Oliver.

With a smile on his face, Levi reassured his wife, “Honey, I will be fine! Wait for me. I’ll come back with 20 billion.”

Oliver was amused. “I’m impressed, mate. You’re still full of big talk when your life is at risk.”

Levi took Oliver by surprise when he slapped his face forcefully. “Are you calling me ‘mate’? Who do you think you are to call me your mate?”

Everyone gaped as they never thought someone would have the courage to give the local tyrant a slap on the face.

For a whole minute, they stood frozen to their spots.

Oliver finally returned to his senses when a wave of excruciating pain hit him. He grimaced in anger, giving Levi the death stare as he ordered, “Kill him!”

Levi waved his hand. “Hold it right there!”

Oliver raised his voice, “Are you afraid? It’s too late now!”

With a confident smile, Levi threw him a question, “I bet someone has sent you to mess with me, am I right?”

The resort owner told him that they had reached a consensus with Oliver that the latter would not cause trouble on the island in return for the former paying huge sums of protection money every year.

But now, Oliver was deliberately messing with him. This showed that someone was scheming against Morris Group.

In addition, Oliver called him by his name even though he had never met him before, which further proved that he was their target.

They had to send Zoey and the others away to kill him.

This was clearly a premeditated assassination!

Levi asked another question, “Do you dare tell me who is the one who wants me dead?”

Oliver was slightly bewildered, but he then gave Levi a pitying look and replied smilingly, “I guess it doesn’t matter telling you the truth. It’s the Jones family from South Hampton! They asked me to kill you and extort money from Morris Group. By the way, I need to thank you as you have made things a lot easier for me by showing up in front of me. The Joneses want you dead, so bid your farewell to the world, mate!”

The Protector Chapter 828

The Jones family! I knew it!

At the present moment, Levi was quite certain that, out of his many enemies, the Joneses were most likely the ones who would assassinate him.

Does my presence really irk them so much?

Levi understood that in the eyes of a prominent family like the Joneses, each person was classified into a social hierarchy and given labels.

To these people, he was right at the bottom of the pyramid, belonging to the lowest class.

As long as he was alive, the Jones family would constantly worry that others would find out his relationship to the family and bring disgrace to them.

The best solution was to get rid of him once and for all!

“Kill him!” Oliver ordered.

The three hundred strong men under him, who were all armed with swords, charged toward Levi at once.

From their imposing manners, it looked like they were determined to hack Levi into pieces!

Whoosh!

A signal flare was ignited, giving off huge plumes of smoke in the air.

Everyone, including Oliver, was shocked by the sudden loud explosive noise and stopped in their tracks while looking at the skies.

Vroom! Vroom! Vroom!

Just one second later, the noise became even louder and more intense.

Hundreds of drones, which were travelling at fast speeds, appeared in the air.

Whoosh! Whoosh! Whoosh!

Suddenly, flames were seen spurting out from the drones in all directions. A web of fire was formed in midair and came crashing down toward the ground.

Thuck! Thuck! Thuck!

Oliver's subordinates were shot at their wrists and blood jetted out from their wounds.

Clang! Clang!

Sounds of metal hitting the ground could be heard continuously as the men dropped their weapons.

Ouch! Ahhh!

Each of them were holding onto their wrists as they let out agonizing cries of pain.

Just one round of attack was sufficient to cripple Oliver's subordinates and render them immobile.

That was the power of drones.

Not only were they useful for tracking purposes, but they could also double up as firearms.

Oliver was completely dumbfounded.

He stood motionless on the spot and was at a loss.

However, that was just the beginning.

Boom!

Deafening noises which sounded like rolls of thunder erupted the next instant.

At the same time, beams of bright light shone from the sky, illuminating the surrounding area and blinding Oliver and the rest of the people.

Helicopter!

Military helicopters were hovering in the air!

Lasers from the helicopters were pointed at the men's faces.

It wasn't difficult to guess what that meant.

The tyrant and his people were probably being targeted by sniper rifles!

They knew that if they move, they would be shot at immediately.

Vroom! Vroooooom!

That was not all! A loud noise suddenly sounded from the adjacent lake, accompanied by a gust of strong wind that created huge waves on the surface of the lake.

It turned out that dozens of naval ships were sailing toward the shore.

Armed soldiers disembarked from the vessels and aimed their weapons at Oliver and his men.

Immediately, the number of red dots pointing to Oliver and his subordinates increased exponentially.

The tyrant, who had already fallen into a complete state of panic, dropped his weapon to the ground at once.

His wobbly knees finally gave way and he collapsed onto the ground with fear.

The Protector Chapter 829

All his subordinates fell to their knees, one after another, covering their heads with their hands.

They had never expected that Levi would be so difficult to deal with!

It's the military!

Does that mean Levi Garrison is also from the military?

“So do you still want to get rid of me?” Levi laughed mirthlessly.

“Boohoo... “

Oliver, the local tyrant, was scared to tears and had even wet his pants.

Levi let out a sarcastic smile and said, “I’m sure this local tyrant has been constantly terrorizing everyone who passes by here. This threat should be eradicated once and for all!”

After giving his instructions, Levi walked away and left it to his men to tie up the loose ends.

All he knew was that there would be no local tyrant from then on.

As for the helicopters, they were mobilized with just one phone call from Kirin.

When Levi returned to the hotel afterwards, everyone was stunned to see him safe and sound. The man was even behaving as if nothing happened.

“Are you alright?” Zoey asked while carefully sizing him up.

“Why wouldn’t I be?” Levi answered smilingly.

“How’s that possible? What happened to the local tyrant?” Iris stared at him in disbelief.

“Oh, I’ve gotten rid of him! Don’t worry, we can all sleep in peace tonight.” Levi grinned.

However, Iris was not convinced and headed outside with a few other people to verify his words. A tranquil sight greeted them and there was no trace that a fight had occurred.

“What happened?” It was inconceivable to Iris, whose eyes had widened.

“Told you, I’ve already gotten rid of him!” Levi smiled coolly.

Just then, the owner of the resort rushed over and exclaimed, “I’ve wonderful news! Oliver Ross, the local tyrant, and his group have been annihilated. From now onward, the dozens of surrounding islands, including us, no longer have to be constantly on our toes, for fear that he will pick on us!”

Both Zoey and Iris turned their attentions to Levi when they heard what the man said.

“Was it really you?”

“Well, there’s nothing I can do if you don’t believe me.” Levi shrugged and spread his hands helplessly.

Just then, a thought struck Zoey. She pulled Iris aside and said, “It’s not Levi.”

“Then who could it be?” The friend asked curiously.

“Your boss, of course!” Zoey prompted Iris, who then smacked herself on the head and exclaimed, “Oh my God! How could I not have thought of that? I must have been too overwhelmed with shock, that’s why! With both our boss and Mr. Atkinson around, there’s nothing I need to be afraid of! It’s as easy as pie for them to handle the local tyrant!”

Zoey chuckled and replied, “Exactly! The local tyrant is nothing as compared to the omnipotent mysterious boss.”

“Oh right, it has suddenly occurred to me that he hasn’t arrived yet. He is supposed to attend tomorrow’s ceremony, so he will definitely be here right?” Iris asked uncertainly.

“Actually, he might already be here!” Zoey had a strong gut feeling about it.

“Are you saying that he is hidden amidst the crowd?” Iris had a shocked expression on her face.

Zoey nodded, “I think the real owner of Morris Group is among the people present. In fact, he might be disguised as one of the employees!”

The Protector Chapter 830

Wham!

Zoey's words hit Iris like lighting.

That was a strong possibility.

Otherwise, how else would the boss be so clear about the happenings in the company?

It didn't seem possible for him to have heard all of those from someone else.

The only explanation was that he had experienced everything firsthand as an employee of the company.

Who could it be?

For both ladies, Levi was the first person to be eliminated from their lists of possible candidates.

They had not even considered Levi due to his status in the Jones family.

“Let me try finding out from Mr. Atkinson!”

Iris and Zoey visited Neil in his room together.

“Mr. Atkinson, has our boss arrived yet?” Iris asked expectantly while feeling slightly nervous.

“Yeah, he’s already here.” Kirin gave a positive reply.

“So, was it our boss who helped to settle the matter with the local tyrant earlier on?” Iris continued asking.

“That’s right, he did step in and help to extinguish that group of people.”

Kirin answered both questions honestly without concealing any facts.

When Kirin finished speaking, Iris and Zoey exchanged glances and said softly to each other, “Indeed, it has got nothing to do with Levi.”

“You said our boss is already here? Where is he staying at then? I’ve reserved the best room in the resort for him.” Iris asked expectantly.

Kirin shook his head and answered, “Yup, he’s here, or maybe it’s more accurate to say that he has been here all the while. I don’t know where he is staying at though!”

“What? He can’t really be one of the employees, right?” Iris gaped in astonishment.

“Yup, he is!” Neil confirmed her doubts.

Wham!

Kirin’s reply was another huge blow to Iris.

That was indeed the case.

The mysterious boss of Morris Group was one of the employees whom she might have unknowingly interacted with on a daily basis.

That also meant that he was aware of her every single move.

It was exactly like what Levi had told her— At your best? As if he hasn't seen you before.

Who could it be?

Iris started running through each male employee the company had in her mind.

However, given the massive scale of the company, it seemed to be an impossible task as there were many employees whom Iris had not yet met.

There was no way she could easily determine which one of them was their boss.

“Will he be revealing himself tomorrow?” Iris wondered.

“That’s the plan.” Kirin answered clearly.

“Mr. Atkinson, is our boss good-looking?” Iris was filled with anticipation as she asked that.

“He’s better looking than me at least!” Kirin laughed.

Iris was getting increasingly excited and could not wait to meet the boss after hearing Kirin’s words. “Is he married? Or rather, is he currently attached?”

With a pensive smile on his face, the man replied, “He’s still single and not married yet!”

Well, he wasn’t lying.

Levi and Zoey had already divorced, so technically-speaking, he was a single man.

Iris' heart was already fluttering uncontrollably by then.

He's the man of my dreams!

Boss, here I come!

The woman had made up her mind to pursue her boss and was already devising all sorts of strategies in her head.

Zoey was amused while she looked at her friend behaving like a teenage girl in love.

She had never seen Iris so enchanted and being so serious over a man.

After they left Kirin's room, Zoey teased, "You should get some rest. I'm worried that you would be too excited to sleep tonight."

The Protector Chapter 831

It was a long night for Iris.

In fact, she did not manage to fall asleep at all.

She felt extremely lethargic the next morning and when she looked into the mirror, she could see obvious dark circles under her eyes.

The woman had gotten out of bed early to dress up and put on makeup.

Even though their mysterious boss had already met her in person, she had not presented her best front to him.

Iris was determined to appear in front of him looking stunning. She wanted to be the most beautiful woman in his eyes.

Meanwhile, Zoey did not have a restful night as well. All this while, she had been curious about the identity of that mysterious man and was hoping to have a chance to thank him in person later.

However, she received a phone call early in the morning, alerting her that something serious happened to her entertainment company and that her presence was required immediately.

When Levi heard that, he made arrangements for Zoey to head back immediately and also sent someone to protect her.

Levi had planned to reveal his identity as the owner of Morris Group to Zoey that day.

He had not accounted for such a sudden disruption but there was nothing much he could do about it.

“You should hurry back. Give me a call if you need help!” Levi urged her.

After an eventful morning, the ceremony was finally due to commence at 9 a.m.

Levi arrived at the event venue together with Seth and his team.

As it was an internal event, there were no reporters around.

Following Seth and the security team, Iris made a grand entrance, looking dazzling in her gorgeous cocktail dress.

Being a natural beauty, she was looking as angelic as a goddess after putting in the effort to doll up.

The aura she exuded was overwhelming and even more imposing than most top models or celebrities.

Iris was very satisfied with her appearance that day after getting countless admiring stares from the crowd.

Surely, he would be happy with my look today?

Iris scanned her surroundings, hoping to catch a clue on who that mysterious boss might be.

After Iris and Kirin summarized Morris Group's achievements for the preceding year, it was time to reward the employees.

It turned out that the Audi cars Levi previously purchased had all been given out.

The updated recognition policy of the company was to either give out monetary rewards to the employees for each contribution they made or to incorporate the amount into their year-end bonuses.

That was why Morris Group's employees were a motivated bunch!

Not only were they receiving competitive remunerations, but they could also do their parts for the society in the meantime.

It was truly a wonderful company to work at.

For young graduates, Morris Group was very often their first choice prospective employer.

The awards presentation was completed smoothly and next up was the most anticipated moment of the night—the mysterious boss of Morris Group was about to reveal himself!

Only Seth, Elena and a handful of other people present knew Levi's true identity.

All the others were kept in the dark.

Iris was breathing heavily and her heart was thumping so hard as if it was going to explode.

She was finally going to meet the man of her dreams and took the chance during that interval to make sure that she was still looking impeccable...

Iris took a deep inhale and readied herself to welcome her mysterious boss.

“Very soon, our very own boss of the Morris Group would be coming up on stage.”

“Everyone, please give a round of applause for him!”

Clap! Clap! Clap!

A thunderous applause erupted as everyone clapped enthusiastically.

Kirin turned toward a corner and shouted, “Boss, stop hiding!”

The Protector Chapter 832

Most people, including Iris, turned their gazes toward the same direction as well.

Everyone was in shock.

Could the mysterious boss really be someone among the crowd?

Everyone wondered as they turned their heads around.

Wham!

Iris was thunderstruck when she noticed that Kirin was looking toward Levi and his security team.

You've got to be kidding me?

The mysterious boss is someone in the security team?

Iris was familiar with the guys in the security team.

For a moment, she thought it could be Seth, but he wasn't better looking than Neil. Furthermore, his personality was too reckless and was also too old to be the boss.

Who else is there then?

Iris could not seem to think of any person who fitted the description of their boss.

Well, there was Levi, but he was the first person who got eliminated by Zoey and also Iris herself.

Who else could it be?

Just then, Levi, who was right next to Seth, stood up suddenly and strode toward the stage.

WHAM!

That was the final blow to Iris. It was as if her world just came crashing down. The woman could not believe what she was seeing at that moment!

Levi...?

Oh my God! It's Levi!

What in the world!

Unbelievable!

Iris was shocked to the core and stood motionlessly on the spot.

She was unable to snap out of her daze and merely watched him approaching the stage.

“Huh? It's him?”

“Levi is our mysterious boss? That's impossible!”

“Goodness! There's no way I'm gonna believe this. How can he be the boss?”

The entire scene was thrown into a frenzy as discussions ensued among the people present. It definitely came as a surprise for most people.

That was because Levi had never been taken seriously in the office before.

He was even a thorn in the eyes to the majority of his co-workers.

After all, Levi had been fired from the company once as a result of an unanimous vote by the rest of the employees.

When he rejoined the company, everyone treated him as a good-for-nothing and most of the employees were not very fond of him.

No one would have thought that the leader of Morris Group would be Levi!

The senior executives of the company were particularly dumbstruck by the sudden revelation!

They finally understood why was it that their boss knew everything that went on in the company. It was exactly because he was also one of them and had witnessed everything with his own eyes.

Furthermore, Levi was in a favorable position to observe the company's daily activities.

He was aware of every action of employees of all levels, from the lower-level staff such as the security team and the cleaners, to the upper management, including Iris.

Thud!

The minute Levi stepped on the stage, everyone's hearts did a double somersault and their gazes were focused on him intently.

Levi took over the microphone and said smilingly, “Hi everyone, I’m Levi! And I’m also your boss!”

That came like a bolt from the blue.

Everyone still found it hard to believe and could feel their scalps prickle.

Some could even feel their blood pressures shoot up.

As for Iris, she was completely numbed with shock and stood frozen on the spot.

After hearing Levi’s speech, she slowly turned her head and looked at the man in disbelief. “You... you’re the boss of Morris Group?”

The Protector Chapter 833

Levi grinned and replied, "Have I ever said I am not? I remember telling you a long time ago that I own the Morris Group! Oh, by the way, you look gorgeous today."

Boom!

Levi's definitive reply was another huge blow to Iris, whose mind went blank, as if she had just been struck by lightning.

She could not believe that the very first person to be eliminated from her consideration was actually the boss!

Levi? Our mysterious boss?

It was entirely unimaginable to Iris, who was truly shook to the core.

It felt as unreal as a dream to her.

However, things started to make sense to her once she cleared her mind and thought about it.

Throughout that period of time, it was always Levi who saved the day whenever the Morris Group encountered difficulties.

Iris had assumed that Levi got those instructions from the boss, but little did she know that he was the boss himself!

Suddenly, she was able to piece the details together.

The boss of Morris Group had helped Zoey time after time, including buying the company at the auction for her and clearing any obstacles that were in her way.

He had basically made sure that Zoey was able to progress smoothly without any difficulties.

Who else, other than Levi, would have done all of those?

The various clues had all pointed to Levi being the mysterious boss!

Other than him, no one else would be able to accomplish all that he had.

It was Iris who had jumped to conclusions and ruled out Levi right from the start.

Besides, Neil had not lied to them.

What he told them was the truth.

The boss was single and also an employee...

Iris was unwilling to accept the reality as it was a world of difference from her original expectations.

How could it be Levi!

All her hopes were dashed.

Iris had done so much to impress the boss with the hope that their meeting would be the start of a beautiful fairy-tale.

In the end, that person was Levi!

The man of her dreams was her best friend's darling!

Just then, Levi, who was still at the microphone, let out a chuckle as he noticed the stunned faces of everyone present. "Guys, please don't be too shocked. It might be easier for everyone to process it if you think about these two points. First, the fact that I was able to establish Levi Group and succeeded under unfavorable circumstances was a testament to my abilities. Second, the reason for the change in name of the company to Morris Group was in remembrance of my best friend, Morris Atkinson."

Everyone quickly grasped the situation after Levi's enlightenment.

Why else would the company suddenly change its name from Levi Group to Morris Group?

Obviously, it had to be Levi's doing!

Almost everyone's faces were flushed red with embarrassment after recalling themselves voting for Levi to be fired previously.

And it turned out that he was their boss!

"Don't worry, I am very open-minded and won't bear grudges. Nothing else matters to me as long as you give your best at work and uphold high ethical standards."

The employees let out a huge sigh of relief simultaneously upon hearing that.

"Everyone, let's cheers to Morris Group's bright future!" The boss beamed as he raised his wine glass.

After Levi finished his speech and went off stage, Iris was the only person who was still behaving awkwardly as she brooded over how she was going to face Zoey.

“Ms. Anabelle, please come over for a moment, I would like to have a word with you!” Levi called out to Iris.

The Protector Chapter 834

Levi chose a secluded corner to talk to Iris and when it was just the both of them, Iris did not even dare to look at the man in the eye.

“Hey, why are you not looking at me? Are you really in love with me?”

As soon as Levi said that, Iris jolted her head up and replied, “Why would I be?”

“I’ve something serious to discuss with you!”

“What is it?”

“Please don’t let Zoey know about this yet. I intend to reveal my identity to her during our wedding and give her a surprise. You have to keep it a secret for me yeah!” Levi requested.

“Sure, that’s not a problem. I have a question though. What happened during the six years when you were in jail?” Iris asked, feeling baffled.

“The truth is, I have never been in jail! I’ll tell you more about it in due time.” Levi smiled.

The ceremony lasted all the way till night and everyone went back home the next morning.

Levi was very concerned about Zoey, who left in a hurry to deal with the unforeseen event which had happened in her entertainment company.

He headed straight to Zoey's office once he reached Morris Group.

Only after seeing Zoey in her office did he feel slightly relieved.

"What happened?" He asked.

Zoey took a deep breath before replying, "Someone splashed acid on Helena's face and disfigured her!"

"What?! Who could be so vicious!" Levi bellowed furiously.

"The culprit managed to escape and is still at large! Helena is currently receiving treatment in the hospital but things are not looking good. The doctors informed us that the only way for her to regain her looks is to undergo cosmetic surgery! Not only is this a huge blow to her career, but the company would also be suffering serious losses as well." Zoey sighed.

Levi understood that Helena was currently at the peak of her career and her sudden disfigurement would have an immense negative impact on the company, as well as her future as a celebrity.

The artiste would most likely have to retire from the entertainment industry after that.

"It's obvious that someone is trying to destroy my company! I will find out who did this!" Zoey said coldly.

Levi figured that it was likely that the Jones family was behind that.

It was possible that the Joneses had changed their target to Zoey after their failed attempt to kill Levi.

They are out to ruin everything for me.

“Oh yeah, there’s something else. All of Star Entertainment’s resources have suddenly been cut off and we have been barred from utilizing anything. It’s just so strange. Could it be linked to Helena’s disfigurement?”

A cold glint flashed across Levi’s eyes.

By then, he was pretty sure that the Joneses were the ones behind all those.

The Jones family was the main shareholder of Star Entertainment and definitely had the power to control the allocation of resources.

Damn you, Jones family!

Even the nicest person would retaliate when being driven up the wall!

Do you really think that I, Levi Garrison, am that big of a pushover?

Just then, he received a call from Wales.

Wales sneered, “I’m sure you’re already aware of what happened. All I can say is that you’re a really lucky punk! Treat this as a warning to you for using the Joneses’ name. If you dare to do it again, you won’t be our only target!”

Levi’s gaze suddenly became terrifyingly cold.

He understood that Wales was implying that his next target would be Zoey!

The Protector Chapter 835

At the Jones Residence in South Hampton.

Wales hung up the phone and smirked. "I can't believe Levi is trying to challenge the Joneses. He's going to regret it."

Tyler sighed. "This brat sure is lucky. He actually managed to escape this time!"

"We need to get rid of him! Otherwise, I'll never be able to rest easy! The Joneses are destined to surpass the Goel family and rise to the top of South Hampton! How can we allow such scum to be associated with us? He's just like that wretch of a mother of his. Thank god we chased her out of the family early on. If not we could be knee-deep in her crap!" Michael growled.

"Don't worry, Grandpa. We'll regroup and come up with a better plan. I promise to dispose of Levi before the Jones family anniversary meeting," Tyler and Wales proclaimed confidently.

Michael was eager to get rid of Levi because the Jones family anniversary meeting was just on the horizon.

Every branch of the Jones family all over Erudia will be in attendance.

This anniversary meeting was going to take place at the Jones residence in South Hampton, and it was of the utmost importance to the Joneses.

The spotlight of Erudia would be beating down on them.

This is why everything has to go well. Not even a fraction of an error will be condoned.

A pest like Levi needs to be eradicated before then.

*If the rest of the family finds out we have a homeless b*stard for a grandson, we're sure to become the joke of the family.*

We'll never live it down.

Under no circumstances can I allow such a thing to happen.

Nothing is more valuable than dignity.

Every trace of Levi has to be destroyed!

“Many members of the Jones family will be at the upcoming anniversary meeting, including the Chillshire and Southlake branches! All I ask is that we trample all of them beneath our feet to emerge as the most powerful Joneses among the Jones diasporic families in all of Erudia!” Michael bellowed.

Every anniversary meeting included a competitive segment. The South Hampton Jones family was unable to live up to expectations during the previous two meetings. Hence, Michael was placing all his hopes on this one.

“We were just unsure of ourselves at the previous meetings! The Chillshire branch is comparable to us, after all. However, this time everything will be different! Anson is not only a member of the Iron Brigade but is also the right-hand man of the God of War! The other families don't stand a chance!”

Michael shook his head as well. “They won't stand a chance!”

“Moreover, even the warlord Elijah has to bow down before us. How can the other families even hope to compare?”

“They won’t be able to!”

“Lastly, and also most importantly, our family has the God of War backing us. He accepted our sword as a gift two days ago, signifying his allegiance to us! The other family branches aside, even the Goel family can’t hold a candle to us!” Anson exclaimed, bursting with pride.

“Exactly! With the God of War by our side, we’ll be able to cut down our enemies in seconds!”

“I can’t wait for the anniversary meeting! It’s going to be spectacular!”

Michael kept his gaze straight as he prayed for time to fast forward.

A thought struck him. “We have to completely erase Levi from existence!” Michael shrieked passionately.

The Protector Chapter 836

“We cannot allow the rest of the Joneses to find out I have such a grandson. It also goes without saying that we have to prevent him from appearing at the anniversary meeting! Otherwise, we’ll be humiliated for the rest of our lives!” Michael sneered.

“Don’t worry, Grandpa. I’ll take care of it myself!”

A murderous glint flashed across Tyler’s eyes.

Meanwhile, Levi was livid after receiving Wales’ call warning him.

The audacity of the Jones family.

It looks like they’re gearing up to launch an attack on me and Zoey.

If so, they can’t blame me for retaliating! I’ll make them pay!

“Let’s go! We have to see Helena!”

When the pair arrived at the hospital, they were greeted by Helena’s bandaged face.

Yet, she remained composed.

The moment she caught sight of them, she burst into tears.

A woman's greatest asset was her looks, after all.

"The Jones family must pay!"

He clenched his fists tightly.

"How is she, doctor?" Levi enquired.

"Her burns are extremely serious! There's no chance of her recovering her original features unless she undergoes plastic surgery."

The doctor's response pierced Zoey and Helena like a deadly arrow.

They knew that even if the plastic surgery were a success, Helena would still be unable to regain her natural countenance.

Helena would rather not go through with the operation.

"I won't get plastic surgery! I would rather end up looking like some horrible beast!"

Helena still had her pride.

She knew that her career was essentially over.

"Doctor, can I take a look at the report?" Levi asked.

When he was handed the report, Levi studied it carefully.

He possessed impressive medical skills, honed from experiencing thousands of battles.

After meticulously going over the report, Levi's brows slowly relaxed.

She could be saved!

There's a way to save her!

There was a military doctor named Fredrick Greg in the Iron Brigade. He came from a family of traditional medicine practitioners but was also competent in other medical disciplines.

In fact, he was at the forefront of the entire medical field.

In order to repay his country, he volunteered to be deployed as a military doctor on the battlefield.

He and Levi had been inseparable on the battlefield. They cheated death together on numerous occasions.

He's saved my life more times than I can count.

All my medical knowledge comes from watching and learning from him.

My back full of scars is even more serious than Helena's condition.

But Greg has said that he would be able to remove all my scars. He said he would be able to wipe them all clean.

If he can even salvage these old and ingrained injuries, Helena's case should be nothing to him.

He'll definitely be able to help Helena!

He can give her her old face back!

“Don’t worry girls, I have a way to help Helena regain her original face!” Levi cried out excitedly.

Neither of the women believed him.

In fact, not one person present believed him.

After all, her case had been deemed unsalvageable by the best burn specialist in South City.

It was rational to doubt that a normal person like Levi could prove him wrong.

The Protector Chapter 837

Helena gave Levi a wry smile. “Thank you for trying to help, Levi. I know you’re just trying to make me feel better. Don’t worry about me. I’ll be fine!”

Zoey rolled her eyes at Levi. “Levi, you shouldn’t give her false hopes! You’re hurting her rather than helping.”

“Do you really think I’m lying to protect her feelings? I truly have a plan!” Levi spread his hands out in exasperation.

The doctor shot him a glare. “Why don’t you take a crack at it then, since you claim to have a solution?”

“I can’t do it. But I know someone who can!” Levi announced.

“Just leave! The patient needs to rest! The more nonsense you spout the worse her mood will be. She needs to stay positive in order to recover.”

The doctor and nurses shooed Levi out of the room.

No one believes me!

Of course, they find it ridiculous that such a severe degree of burn can be repaired.

It seems impossible unless she goes through plastic surgery.

Levi was incredibly vexed.

With one wave of his hand, Azure Dragon materialized by his side.

“Azure Dragon, head to the Northern Region and fetch Fredrick here!” Levi ordered.

“Yes, sir!”

Azure Dragon immediately set off.

Levi also sent Phoenix out to find the person who poured sulfuric acid on Helena.

No one is going to escape my wrath, Jones family or otherwise.

While Levi continued to plot, Tyler and Wales were doing the same.

Wales had a simple proposal. He wanted to dispatch a few assassins to dispose of Levi.

“A few assassins won’t be enough to end Levi’s life. I heard that he has some tricks up his sleeve. The fact that he belongs to the Morris Group also makes things more difficult. The God of War is in South City with the troops. If we send out assassins and they fail, the consequences will be dire. The God of War could sniff them out with both eyes closed!” Tyler’s tone was disapproving as he analyzed the situation out loud.

“You’re right. If we want Levi gone, we can’t leave any loose ends. His very existence needs to vanish,” Wales assented.

“Exactly! If we want Levi to disappear, the killer also needs to leave no trail behind. We need to engage the best of the best!” Wales concluded.

Tyler nodded in agreement.

Wales' eyes lit up. "Do you already have someone in mind, Tyler?"

"I do! Have you heard of Assassin 47?" Tyler asked.

"What? The foreign The King of Assassins known only as Assassin 47, whose fee is upward of ten million and who killed 1899 people in the ten years he's been active?" Wales' pitch rose as he jumped to his feet.

"The one and only Assassin 47. He's already on a plane on his way to Erudia."

Tyler nodded.

"Is it overkill to hire The King of Assassins just to kill Levi?"

"It is overkill! But we need to guarantee Levi's complete annihilation. Thus, it'll be worth it!"

The Protector Chapter 838

A trace of hardened determination streaked across Tyler's gaze. His resolution to wipe out Levi could not be more apparent.

"Let's see how you escape your doom this time, Levi." Tyler sniggered menacingly.

Tyler chuckled gleefully as well.

They were finally going to get Levi out of their hair.

The two men beamed like children on Christmas morning.

The anniversary meeting is definitely going to be an event to remember.

We're going to be the center of attention!

"Oh yeah, Grandpa wants us to invite the God of War to the anniversary meeting!"

Tyler suddenly remembered their grandfather's instructions.

"Do you think the God of War will come?" Wales asked doubtfully.

The God of War is our family's trump card for subduing the rest of the Jones family.

If he doesn't come, the South Hampton Joneses will be finished!

“Don't worry, he will! Uncle Anson has already sent word. He has probably already greeted the God of War. If we invite him now, he's sure to come. He has also accepted our gift. It's a sign that he will protect our family,” Tyler replied with confidence as a wide grin crept over his face.

“Great! Let's send him the invite now!” Wales replied with a smile of his own.

At the same time, Phoenix swiftly rounded up the perpetrators, then Levi locked them all up temporarily.

The Jones family is next. They'll regret ever crossing me.

At this moment, Mike Pence personally delivered the invite to the Jones family anniversary meeting.

After reading the invite, a smile spread across Levi's face. “The once in a decade Jones family anniversary meeting in South Hampton?”

“Yes, sir! The South Hampton Jones family humbly seeks your attendance at the anniversary meeting!” Mike said politely.

“Fine. Mike, tell the Joneses I'll be there! I'll personally attend it!”

Levi's gaze shone sinisterly.

All grievances shall be settled at the anniversary meeting.

When Mike informed the Jones brothers of the God of War's attendance, the brothers immediately set off for South Hampton.

They reported the news to the rest of the family as soon as they could.

The Jones family erupted with delight and Michael's face was flushed with elation.

"I, Michael Jones, have waited for this day for almost seventy years! This time, the Joneses from South Hampton shall step into unending glory!" Michael screamed with overwhelming exuberance.

If the God of War comes, the entire event will unfold within the palm of my hand. Nobody will be able to threaten me anymore!"

"All of you must remember to keep the God of War's attendance at the anniversary meeting a secret! Under no circumstances can it be leaked out!" Michael anxiously warned.

It's best to keep this under wraps first. When we reveal him at the anniversary meeting, it'll shock everyone. By then, we'll be instantly propelled to the top.

"How's the situation with Levi coming along?"

The Protector Chapter 839

Levi is just like a pest. I won't be able to rest easy until he's completely gone.

“Grandpa, the foreign King of Assassins 47 is scheduled to arrive today. Levi will draw his last breath tonight!” Tyler smirked viciously.

“Good. Well done!” Michael praised.

“Dad, we've settled the issue about Levi, but what about his wretch of a Mother Emma Jones?” Wallace questioned.

“Yeah! She smeared the Jones family name! She'll definitely embarrass us!”

The family members buzzed in discussion.

“No worries. She won't! Emma Jones was sent to a prison in Oakland City ages ago! She'll never be able to step foot out of there!” Michael coldly replied.

“Really? She's in jail? Here I was wondering where she has been all this time.” The family members were all shocked by this revelation.

The Jones family had always assumed that she went missing.

They had no idea she was situated right in the middle of North and South Hampton.

“We can forget about her! The wretch is getting what she deserves! She’ll never be able to shame us again! Don’t mention her from now on. The Garrison family will be pissed off if they ever hear about it.”

Michael’s order promptly sealed the lips of everyone present.

At the same time, at the South City International Airport, a foreign international airplane slowly descended upon South City.

Shortly after, a man with a towering figure, dressed in a hoodie and cap emerged. A mask further obscured his face from view.

He was carrying two large suitcases.

“How strange. He’s carrying two enormous but empty suitcases!”

“This foreigner is probably trying to steal our resources.”

The luggage security checker and airport staff mumbled in surprise to each other.

The man then made a beeline for the restroom.

He soon walked back out.

Now, he was dressed in a completely different attire.

He was outfitted in a leather jacket and black aviators. He looks like a whole other person.

Even the suitcases were different.

He was completely unrecognizable from minutes before!

He was Assassin 47.

The foreign King of Assassins with the codename 47.

Ever since entering the profession ten years ago, he had never failed in any of his jobs.

His past targets included wealthy elites, political figures as well as members of the military.

He was a cold-blooded killer.

Along with the job came the inevitability of being on the international wanted list. He ranked SSS on it, which was the category reserved for the most dangerous individuals in the world.

His presence was enough to turn the tables in any situation, regardless of the magnitude.

Once he exited the airport, he climbed into a taxi and handed the driver a piece of paper.

There was an address written on it.

Soon, they arrived at the written address.

Around him were several buildings still in the midst of being built.

The man quickly arrived on the top floor.

After surveying his surroundings and ensuring that he was safe, Assassin 47 opened the suitcase.

It was no longer empty.

The Protector Chapter 840

There were several weapons concealed inside.

His arsenal included a pistol, SMG, sniper rifle and even a rocket launcher.

He also had a dagger, a katana and other secret gadgets.

These had all been prepared by the Jones family.

They had discreetly swapped the empty case for the one full of weapons with him at the airport.

Assassin 47 went through his supplies. When he was done, he smiled broadly.

He was clearly satisfied with the provided resources.

In a flash, he stabbed a dagger through a picture on the wall.

The person in the punctured photo was Levi Garrison.

Assassin 47 locked his gaze onto the photo as the corner of his lip curled upward malevolently.

Levi was nothing but another prey to him.

He fished out a phone and dialed a number. "I'm here. The target will be taken care of tonight! Wire the money over now!" Assassin 47 barked curtly.

"Understood!"

Tyler, who was on the other side of the call, immediately transferred ten million into Assassin 47's offshore account.

He made payment before the job was done as he had unquestionable faith in the man's abilities.

Moreover, the killer had a reputation he needed to uphold and his own rules to live by, one of which included payment upfront.

In the close to two thousand targets he had encountered, none had managed to escape him.

These reasons allowed Tyler to trust him wholly.

Once Assassin 47 checked that the money had arrived in his account, he destroyed the phone.

He had to obliterate any connection between himself and the Jones family.

This was the terrifying reality of being a top assassin.

After killing the target, one had to evaporate into thin air.

Naturally, an assassin cannot be traced to his employer.

Even if he died during the job, his employers would remain anonymous.

Being the King of Assassins, this man could accomplish this better than anyone.

His competence was what justified such exorbitant fees.

Regardless of the target, he never missed.

Assassin 47 carved the image of Levi into his mind and proceeded to burn the picture.

He neatly separated the weapons, concealing each one on his person. Only the rocket launcher was left to be hand-carried.

Then, he picked up his bag, slung it over his back and popped a piece of gum into his mouth. His eyes glowed with deadly intent.

With a few steps, he strode into the blanket of darkness.

Levi dies tonight!

Levi was still ignorant of the impending danger.

He was at the hospital tonight.

Azure Dragon had just delivered Fredrick Greg from the Northern Region.

“God of War!” Fredrick respectfully and enthusiastically greeted him.

“Thank you for coming,” Levi replied.

“Fredrick, I asked you here for a private favor. Sorry for the trouble.”

Fredrick wiped tears away from his eyes and smiled. “God of War, my life is in your hands. Please don’t hold back and ask away.”

“Okay then. Please come this way to see the patient!”

Levi was about to lead Fredrick into the ward when they were blocked.

“Who are you? A doctor? A doctor from where? Why have you come to our hospital?”

The Protector Chapter 841

Helena's attending doctor, Keith Shawn, was a responsible man. Upon seeing that a stranger was giving treatment to Helena, he went up to stop him.

"Yes! I'm a doctor!" Fredrick nodded.

"Where is your ID card? Let me have a look," said Keith with concern.

Fredrick had no choice but to take out his green military ID card and handed to him.

Keith took a look, and suddenly, the expression on his face changed.

"You're Fredrick Greg? The military doctor of the Iron Brigade?" Keith asked with great respect.

"You're right. That's me!"

"Wow... You're amazing. I've heard a lot about you! You'd saved so many soldiers before, and you even saved the God of War several times! You are my role model!" Keith was excited.

"You're exaggerating. I'm just doing what I can!" Fredrick shrugged with a beam on his face.

"Please, come in. I believe you can do something about Ms. Engler's face."

Keith then led Fredrick into the ward courteously.

Levi was dumbfounded.

He tried every means to stop me. But when it comes to Fredrick, he invites him in?

After giving Helena a thorough check, Fredrick was confident that Helena could recover, and the treatment period would not take too long.

Compared with Levi's scar treatment, Helena's case was just a piece of cake.

"Let me start first for a week, and you can then follow my instructions and apply herbs on her face for another month. With that, she will recover in no time."

Fredrick told them a specific treatment cycle time, and Helena was overjoyed to hear that. She really looked forward to it.

At the same time, she began to admire Levi a little bit more.

He's so amazing. Where did he find such a great doctor?

After leaving the hospital, Levi and Fredrick returned to the Guardian Mansion.

"God of War...I heard that 47, the King of Assassins, is here in Erudia. But I'm not sure who his target is this time," chatted Fredrick casually.

"47? I know him. He once assassinated an official in the mysterious area of 51st District overseas. But he went into hiding after that. I even heard he took the head of a God of War during a desert battle!" Levi said indifferently.

“But how dare he come here? Erudia is a forbidden place for mercenaries and assassins!” Levi’s stare became intense.

“Exactly! I think he’s way too bold, even though he is the King of Assassins!” Fredrick could not help but snigger.

“I’ll ask Phoenix to check his whereabouts. A killer like him is a potential threat to Erudia even if he’s not doing anything,” said Levi.

Soon, both of them arrived at a desolate block. The place was so empty, and there was no one on the road.

Even the street lights were dim, and they looked like they were going to go out at any time.

It was quite an uncanny and eerie atmosphere.

“Well, this place is so quiet. Guess no one’s gonna bug us back here,” Fredrick laughed at his own jest.

However, Levi did not respond to him and squinted his eyes.

Bang!

The next moment, they heard a gunshot and a bullet was fired.

The Protector Chapter 842

“Watch out!”

With a tremendous lurch, Levi leaped to Fredrick swiftly.

Bang!

A bullet was fired to where they stood and left a fist-sized hole in the wall.

What if the bullet hit our head? We will explode like a watermelon!

“Sniper!” Fredrick screamed before taking a deep breath.

He had had experiences on the battlefield, so he knew exactly what kind of weapon could be so powerful.

Bang!

Before he could react, another gunshot was fired.

Levi and Fredrick continued to dodge.

Another hole appeared in the wall causing the wall to shake continuously.

Bang! Bang!

Bang! Bang!

Bang! Bang!

.....

A series of gunshots were fired by 47, using his sniper rifle in the dark.

Levi and Fredrick had to evade at full tilt.

In the end, they had no choice but to jump into the courtyard and hid behind a bunker quickly.

Boom! Boom! Boom!

However, even the thirty-meter-long bunker collapsed.

It was crashed into pieces by another series of gunshots.

“47!”

Levi and Fredrick looked at each other and immediately knew who he was.

47, the King of Assassins is here for me? Levi chortled.

Well...he's indeed something!

Not only he knew how to occupy the high ground and lock his targets, but he also had consummate sniper skills!

Perhaps, the only person in the world who could escape from his shot was Levi.

Even a master like Alfie might not be able to get away in such a situation.

But when 47, who stood on the high ground, saw Levi get away, he was shocked.

He had never missed his target in the past ten years, and there was no need for him to shoot the second time to vanquish his target completely.

But I have fired ten gunshots today and still couldn't get him. Damn! This is ridiculous!

There was a hint of excitement in 47's eyes.

It was the first time in ten years that he had met such an opponent, and he was getting excited.

And He had never been so excited before.

I must kill him!

It must be a great accomplishment if he were able to kill his target this round.

Hence, without further ado, he jumped down from the twenty-story building and chased Levi from behind.

On the other side, Levi, hiding behind the bunker, was on his nerve. He had to stay alert with movements around him.

In fact, he could hear even the faintest noise around him now.

47 was fast.

In a flash, he had moved a few hundred meters and was close to Levi now.

Clank! Clank! Clank!

While running, 47 assembled his weapons at the same time.

And as soon as he reached the bunker where Levi and Fredrick were hiding, he had the rocket launcher ready.

Snap!

Besides that, he had assembled all his other firearms too.

Running, assembling, and loading the weapons...

47 could do almost everything in one go as if he did them at the same time.

“Go to hell!”

Boom!

47 then fired the bunker where Levi and Fredrick were hiding.

Bang!

The rocket launcher scored a direct hit on the bunkers before they collapsed and were engulfed in flames.

Upon seeing the scenario, 47's lips curled into a grin...

The Protector Chapter 843

You can dodge my shots; let's see if you can hide from such a large-scale attack? Do you think you can escape? Either you're blown up or being burnt alive now!

However, 47 frowned in the next moment.

Because he couldn't see any bodies in the sheet of flame!

There must be traces of bodies either burnt or detonate! Why can't I smell any dead body odor? Don't tell me...

Right then, 47 felt as if someone was watching him.

He felt his scalp went numb, and his hair stood on end. The thought of what might happen next sent shivers down his spine, and he even felt his blood hardened.

As an assassin, he was always the one targeting his prey and was never being targeted.

This was the first time in his life that he had this kind of feeling.

When he turned around slowly, two men were standing in front of him. They were Levi and Fredrick!

They didn't die in the fire? They survived! Why?

47 was stunned and amazed.

They were behind the bunker just now. How did they escape?

47 was confident that his speed was beyond the human limit. The time he took to reach Levi and Fredrick from jumping off the high ground was so short, and it was impossible for them to escape from the bunker.

How did they make it?

“The answer is simple. Because I’m better than you!” Levi said indifferently.

The weak can never imagine how the strong do things. This is so true! Levi is faster, more alert, and more vigilant than me!

“Go to hell!”

Suddenly, 47 glared at them with a piercing stare. He took out a pistol and pulled the trigger.

He is indeed the King of Assassins...His speed...Not many people in the army could do that.

Although he was swift, Levi moved faster than him.

Levi pulled out a scalpel from Fredrick’s pocket and threw it out.

“Ouch!”

The scalpel hit 47’s wrist precisely, and his gunshot went askew.

However, 47's made another counterattack. The moment he missed his shot, he reached out for his machine gun with his left hand.

He then shot the machine gun with just one hand!

At that critical moment, Levi had no choice but to kick a small pebble under his feet.

The small pebble then made a whistling sound in the air before it bored through 47's left wrist.

"Ouch!"

47 let out a scream, and the machine gun in his hand fell to the ground.

Seeing that, Levi made a move and sprinted to 47.

Once again, 47's hair stood on end. He had no choice but to pull out a Swiss army knife quickly and dashed forward.

Both of them were moving so fast, and Fredrick could only see two blurred shadows fighting in front of him.

With the Swiss army knife in his hand, 47 made his last effort and lunged forward to stab Levi's neck.

The Protector Chapter 844

However, Levi made darted faster than 47.

He grasped 47's wrist and snapped it hard. The tip of the Swiss army knife was then pointed back to 47 and it slit directly on his neck.

Whoosh!

A gush of blood was ejected. With cold glitter in his eyes, Levi just watched calmly from the side.

It seemed like it was only a small matter to him.

Spash!

47 then sagged to the ground in no time.

Before he died, he still looked astounded.

Did I kill myself?

“God of War! It's great to see you back in action again. You're so incredible! But you look so scary when you fight.” Fredrick smiled elatedly.

At that time, Kirin, Azure Dragon, and the rest came to their rescue.

Their location was quite far from the Guardian Mansion. However, they could all rush over in such a short time. Thus, this showed how fast they were.

All of them hurried over as soon as they heard the noise just now.

They were relieved only when they saw both Levi and Fredrick were fine.

“God of War, we’ll send someone to protect you from now onwards. It’s too dangerous like this.”

Kirin and Azure Dragon said simultaneously.

However, Levi refuted, “Have you forgotten my skill?”

Even White Tiger was shocked to hear that and took a deep breath.

“Get rid of the body! And keep it confidential!” Levi commanded instead.

On the other hand, after arriving at the Guardian Mansion, Phoenix managed to track 47’s overseas account.

“Someone remitted ten million to his account! And the remitter is the Joneses!” Phoenix exclaimed.

“Well, well. Looks like the Joneses are willing to spend ten million just to kill me. They are indeed generous. And this only proved that how important the anniversary meeting is to the Joneses!”

“Then I should start thinking about how to make a scene during their anniversary meeting!” Levi guffawed as he finished his words.

A night without any news...

The Joneses were waiting patiently.

Although there was nothing to worry about for an assassin like 47 to carry out the mission, the Joneses still felt uneasy.

After all, everything was unknown before they received any confirmed news.

At dawn the next day, Michael came to ask about the outcome.

“Grandpa, don’t worry. Everything’s going according to plan. I’d talked with 47 on the phone before he went off last night. And he told me Levi is not going to live until sunrise today,” said Tyler with confidence.

“He also said he’ll leave as soon as he’s done. He won’t be contacting us again.”

“Then who can tell me whether Levi is alive or dead now?” Michael said with his hands in the air.

“Erm...” Tyler was stunned for a moment.

“How about this...Wales, you make a trip to South City personally to find out!” Michael instructed.

“Noted. Grandpa!”

Wales then went to South City straight away.

In the morning, Levi brought Fredrick to the hospital to see Helena again.

Helena played an important role in Zoey’s career.

Hence, Levi valued her greatly.

While Fredrick was giving treatment to Helena, Levi went outside to smoke.

Just then, Wales arrived and saw Levi as soon as he got off the car.

“What?” He was dumbfounded and stunned.

The Protector Chapter 845

Levi also saw Wales and gave him a smirk.

The Joneses are here to check if I'm dead? How dare they send someone to assassinate me?

They really underestimated their opponent, didn't they?

Wales was panicking when he saw that Levi was looking at him.

“Ghost....Ghost...Ghost...” he stammered.

He could not believe Levi was still alive!

47 is the King of Assassins! How could he survive? It's impossible!

He would rather believe that the man he saw now was a ghost. Otherwise, it would be hard for him to believe what he saw.

When Wales saw Levi walked over to him fearlessly, he was terrified.

“Ghost! Ghost...” He screamed.

He wanted to run but was too intimidated. He felt listless, and his legs seemed to be glued to the ground. He could not even move an inch.

He could only watch as Levi came to him.

“Hey, are you bewitched? What the hell are you screaming for?” Levi patted Wales’s face.

“Are...are you a human or a ghost?” Wales was so petrified that he almost peed in his pants.

“Do you see ghosts in broad daylight?” Levi chortled.

“You...You’re still alive? You’re not a ghost?”

Wales gradually came to his senses when he saw Levi was standing in front of him in person. He is real!

“Pardon? Do you want me dead? Did you send someone to kill me?” Levi asked.

“No... It’s not me!” Wales denied as beads of perspiration formed on his forehead.

He was scared out of his wits. He never thought Levi would still be alive!

How is that possible? The King of Assassins could kill the official in the mysterious area of 51st District overseas. Levi is just an ordinary man! What’s going on? Is 47 not here for his mission?

But Tyler talked to him last night, and he had taken all the money. Why is Levi here? What has gone wrong? Where the hell is the King of Assassins now?

“Well... Did anything happen to you last night?” Wales was dying to find out.

“I slept very well last night. What’s wrong?” Levi pretended to look surprised.

“Erm... Nothing....”

With that, Wales hurried back to South Hampton and told everything to the Joneses.

“What? Levi is still alive, and there is no news about The King of Assassins now?” The Joneses were all stupefied.

“Hurry! Give The King of Assassins a call and find out what had happened!” Michael urged.

Tyler began to search the King of Assassins' whereabouts through various channels, such as underground networks and connections.

But to no avail.

It seemed like The King of Assassins went missing all of a sudden!

“What’s going on? I’m very sure he was in South City. He even took all the weapons I’d prepared for him,” uttered Tyler.

“I think the only reason he’s uncontactable now is that he’d met a great opponent in South City and disappeared.” Michael pondered.

Wales then voiced out his concerns, “What if he was killed? Do you think it’s possible that he was killed when assassinating Levi?”

The Protector Chapter 846

“No way!” Michael and Tyler refuted simultaneously.

“He’s the King of Assassins. He had done this more than two thousand times and never missed a target before. Those who he assassinated were all powerful and influential people, and I seriously doubt Levi can escape from him.”

“Maybe 47 caught the attention of the God of War? Isn’t Erudia a forbidden territory for mercenaries and assassins?” Wallace suggested.

“Well, guess that’s how we should think about it. Levi can’t counter-attack!”

Michael could not accept the fact if Levi had the King of Assassins killed...

“What’s your plan, Grandpa? Do you have plans to kill Levi again?” Wales asked.

“Not for the time being. If God of War finds out we hire assassins to Erudia, it will have a bad impact on us,” answered Michael.

“Levi is such a nuisance, but yet we can’t get rid of him!” Wales was infuriated.

“Just make sure we can get rid of him before the anniversary meeting!”

Suddenly, Michael thought about something and asked, “By the way, how is your brother, Wallace?”

Daniel was still lying on the bed with all his limbs broken.

“He’s recovering. But it’s impossible for him to recover fully before the anniversary meeting,” said Wallace as he sighed.

“Then what should we do? If the other Jones knew Daniel is lying on the bed with all his limbs broken during the anniversary meeting, it’s gonna shame us!”

This is another threat no less than Levi... We would be humiliated!

“Dad, I’ve gathered many prominent doctors, but to cure Daniel, they still need some time.”

“Grandpa, I think I knew someone who can help dad!” Tyler interrupted.

“Who is it?” Michael and Wallace asked simultaneously.

“I’ve heard that Fredrick Greg, the notable military doctor, is here in South City. He is good at fracture treatment,” said Tyler.

It seemed like everybody knew the arrival of Fredrick after Keith announced it.

“Really? Why is the legendary doctor here?” Michael asked in surprise.

“Heard that he’s here for Helena. It’s said that he can recuperate Helena’s burned face to how it is before without any transplant or plastic surgery.” Tyler explained.

“What? Helena? No way! We must get rid of her too! After all, she’s close with Levi. We can’t let her receive any treatment,” said Michael maliciously.

“Wallace, go to South City and bring back Fredrick for me. He can’t be giving treatment to Helena. I need him here to treat my son. I want to make sure Daniel can walk before the anniversary meeting!”

Michael wanted to snatch away Fredrick for himself.

“Grandpa. I don’t think it’s a good idea. Fredrick is an Iron Brigade, and he has a noble status. If we bring him here without careful consideration, we might offend him, and it’s definitely not wise to offend such a person!” Tyler voiced out his concerns.

“Have you forgotten about Uncle Anson?” Michael then shot a glance at him.

The Protector Chapter 847

You Can Call As Many People As You Want

Suddenly, Michael's word dawned on Tyler. He exclaimed immediately, "Yeah, you're right. Uncle Anson is also an Iron Brigade. He will not blame us even if we go overboard."

"Yeah...Anson is a General. It's not wrong for us to summon a military doctor, right?" Michael said in disdain.

Michael did not give a damn about anyone else except for the God of War now.

Straight away, Wallace followed Michael's instructions and headed to the City First Hospital in South City.

When he arrived, he brought his men and went straight to Helena's ward.

At that moment, Fredrick was applying medical herbs on Helena's face.

Suddenly, the ward's door was pushed open, and a group of unknown people rushed in.

They knocked over the herbs in Fredrick's hand and removed the herbs on Helena's face. They even detached all the infusion tubes.

After that, they grabbed Fredrick and led him out of the ward.

“Who are you? What are you doing?” Fredrick exclaimed.

“Mr. Greg. Please bear with us. We’ll explain to you later.”

Wallace gave him an apologetic smile before leaving the ward.

“Let me go! Or else, don’t blame me for being rude!” Fredrick roared.

“Don’t worry, Mr. Greg. We will not hurt you!”

Even the doctors and nurses in the corridor could not stop them.

Soon, Fredrick was led by the men to the hospital lobby.

Right at that moment, Wallace ran into a man head-on.

“Get out of my way!” Wallace bawled.

But as soon as he raised his head to take a look, he saw Levi.

Wallace was startled!

He never expected to meet him here.

“What are you guys doing?” Levi asked.

Upon seeing Levi, Fredrick’s eyes lit up.

Phew! It’s Levi. I’m safe!

“It’s none of your business. Get out of my way!” Wallace rebuked.

However, Levi said coldly, "Let him go, and I'll let the matter rest!"

"What the hell is going on with you? You should get out of my way! Is he related to you? Why are you bugging us?" Wallace roared.

"He's my friend. And I have the right to know." Levi said, showing a flash of killing intent in his eyes.

"I don't care what's his relationship with you. I want to bring him to the Joneses. Get out of my way now!"

But Levi shook his head and answered, "No way!"

"You seem to prefer rough treatment, don't you? Get him!"

As soon as Wallace gave out his command, all his men lunged to Levi.

However, after ten seconds, all Wallace's men fell to the ground and whined.

Bang!

Levi then flung Wallace out with a forceful kick.

"How...how dare you hit me? You're so disrespectful!" Wallace said and acted as if he was an elder.

He thought it was intolerable and outrageous for Levi to hit him.

"Fk off!"

Levi gave him another kick.

“Levi, how dare you ruin our plans? The Joneses will get even with you for this; just you wait.” Wallace chided before he left.

“I will be right here waiting. You can call as many people as you want!” Levi sneered.

The Protector Chapter 848

“Fine, just you wait and be prepared to see how I’m gonna finish you off!”

With that, Wallace left in a hurry to give his family a detailed account of what happened.

“Say what? Levi got him away?”

Michael was so rattled to hear that his eyeballs nearly popped out from their sockets.

“How useless are you that you couldn’t even handle Levi Garrison?” Michael admonished in exasperation.

“Remember this—you must bring Fredrick Greg back at all costs!”

Wallace looked especially sulky after having been kicked twice by Levi.

Immediately, he summoned his men and made a trip to the hospital.

Just as they were about to step foot on the premise, they were suddenly besieged by a large group of gangsters which consisted of around a hundred men.

“What are you guys doing here?” Wallace questioned them.

“How about you guys? You guys aren’t supposed to be here. Just get lost!” The gangsters snapped furiously.

“You...”

Wallace was panic-stricken to see them there because he had assumed Levi would be there waiting for him alone.

As it turned out, Levi had arranged such a large group of gangsters to await his presence.

In Levi’s opinion, the Joneses were not worth his personal time.

Therefore, he just casually made a call and had a large group of gangsters ambush the hospital instead.

“Fine, we’ll go!”

“I’m afraid it won’t be that easy. Beat them up now!”

At last, Wallace and his men were badly beaten up by the gangsters.

In the end, Wallace managed to escape and scrambled his way back to South Hampton.

“What? Levi summoned a group of gangsters to beat you up this badly?” Michael looked utterly disappointed because both his sons had let him down big time.

“Hold on. Did you say Levi was with a group of gangsters?” He suddenly questioned in astonishment.

“Yes. He was with a bunch of gangsters! He colluded with the scum of the society!”

“What a piece of trash he is!” Levi’s clearly not good enough to be my grandson. As someone who carries the noble blood of my family, it’s such an embarrassment for him to actually mingle with a bunch of gangsters!

I can’t reveal his identity to the public in any event or it will bring great disgrace to the Jones family!

At that moment, Michael became more and more convinced that Levi was not good enough to be one of the Joneses.

He was just scum of the society who led a lowly life outside.

“We’re a very distinguished family. We won’t accept such scum to be one of us because he’ll just tarnish our reputation!”

Everyone from the Jones Family viewed Levi with repulsion.

“Dad, what should we do about Fredrick Greg now?”

With a cocky look, Michael replied, “I’ll just summon him to visit us here at our place. I’m sure he will have no choice but to comply after we reveal Anson’s identity to him.”

“You’re right! Since Anson is a highly ranked officer in the Iron Brigade, he certainly will have the authority to give an order to a mere military doctor!”

“Bring me a pen and a paper as well as Anson’s official stamp. I’m going to issue an order to summon Fredrick Greg here myself by using Anson’s authority!”

After completing the order, Michael instructed one of his subordinates to deliver it to Fredrick.

The moment Levi and Fredrick received the order, both of them looked befuddled.

The Protector Chapter 849

They were especially shocked to see the one word which was written especially large on the letter—'Order'.

The content of it was straightforward. It was an order summoning Fredrick in the name of Anson to make a trip to the Jones Residence in South Hampton at haste. In the event he defied the order, he would be punished according to the military law.

The content was succinct but powerful enough to leave Levi as well as Azure Dragon dumbfounded.

"Damn it, who is this Anson Jones guy? Does he work for me? Is he from the Iron Brigade?" Levi asked in consternation.

As the commander-in-chief of the Nine Warzones, Levi was of course a busy man.

However, he knew each and every member of the Iron Brigade because the troop was in charge of his safety.

Still, Anson's name didn't ring a bell in his mind at all.

Fredrick explained with a smile, "God of War, I know this guy pretty well because he used to be my patient. However, he belonged to another platoon instead of the Iron Brigade. On top of that, he was a deserter who later became a captive of our enemy."

Fredrick continued, "He was rescued by one of us after that and was then imprisoned because he possesses some confidential information of our enemy. Every year he is allowed to write back to his family and I guess he's been telling them he's one of the Iron Brigade soldiers to make himself look good."

Levi responded with a laugh, "That makes sense. After he wrote back telling his family that he's from the Iron Brigade, somehow a tale was spun within the family that he has become some sort of a General!"

Michael, I bet it will shock the wits out of you when you learn that Anson, whom you think is a big shot in the army, is just a deserter and a captive of our enemy.

He's imprisoned at the Iron Brigade instead of being one of its Generals!

Everyone was amused with that thought in mind.

It was especially hilarious as Michael had drafted the order very well.

"God of War, what should I do now since the Joneses threatened that I will be punished if I defy their order?" Fredrick quipped with a chuckle.

Everyone burst out laughing as soon as he said that.

How dared they speak of military law in the presence of the God of War!

"What's written on that is pure bullsh*t!" Levi bellowed angrily, "Now, help me to write a reply to them!"

Soon, the Joneses in South Hampton received a letter from Fredrick on which only a sentence was written: 'Who the hell is Anson Jones?'

Also, Michael was told to pay Fredrick a visit and kneel down in front of him if he wanted the latter's help.

Michael's anger hit the ceiling when he saw the content of the letter.

"How dare he said something like that about Anson? Is he trying to pick a fight with us? Anson is from the Iron Brigade and he works for the God of War! He's hailed as the successor of the God of War! I can't believe Fredrick isn't taking him seriously! This is outrageous! How dare a mere military doctor like him makes such an arrogant remark? He must be sick of living!"

Rage was driving Michael mad.

"Grandpa, I think the tone of the letter sounds more like Levi instead of Fredrick," Tyler pointed out.

"What? Levi wrote that?" Michael questioned in bewilderment.

Then, he shouted, "Levi Garrison, you're indeed something! What makes you think you can refuse to take Anson seriously when you're just a gangster yourself?"

Pacing back and forth in frustration, Michael was so pissed off that he even harbored the intention to kill Levi.

"What should we do now? Tell me how should I deal with it now?"

The Protector Chapter 850

“This is tricky because Levi is with a group of gangsters and he’s physically trained himself too.” While average guys would not be able to handle him, sending any proficient fighters over would not be such a good idea too because their presence would surely catch the attention of the God of War.

Scratching his head with a troubled look, Tyler exclaimed, “This is one knotty issue!”

Never had Michael thought that his family, which was one of the royal families, would turn out to be such a toothless tiger in front of Levi the little gangster.

“Well, we’ll have to take it one step at a time now then.”

Without any further interruption from the Joneses, Fredrick was able to carry out his treatment on Helena in peace during the following week.

It was only after making sure there were enough medical herbs for her did he return to North Warzone.

After that, Helena recovered well.

With the medical herbs prepared by Fredrick, she was expected to be fully recovered in a month’s time.

In the meantime, the entertainment department of Oriental Star Group had been suffering immense pressure from all parties for the huge loss incurred due to Helena’s condition.

The situation became especially dire because the media companies had been vehemently spreading negative news about Helena around.

Because of the crisis, Zoey had had a stressful time.

By the time Helena made a public appearance again with her beauty restored a month later, Zoey believed many of those people who had been looking down upon them would get a good slap in their faces.

At the same time, it was seven days away from the decennial anniversary of the Jones family.

The Joneses invested heavily in the event. Everything, including the decoration of the venue, marketing as well as the invitation of the guests, was done in an orderly manner.

One day, Levi was fiddling with an ancient bronze sword at home when Seth informed him that he had a visitor.

When he came out of his mansion he spotted several luxurious cars parked outside which carried car plates from Chillshire.

A middle-aged man who appeared to be the leader of the bunch questioned, "Are you Levi Garrison?"

"Yes, I am. Who are you?"

"Please allow me to introduce myself. I'm Travis Jones from the Jones family in Chillshire. According to the family tree, I'm considered an uncle of yours," answered Travis with a smile.

"Oh," Levi gave him a nonchalant reply.

He knew the Jones family had a lot of branches in the country and the Chillshire branch had been vying with the one in South Hampton to become the strongest branch of all.

“I suppose you’ve learnt the truth about your identity by now? You’re the grandson of Michael Jones from South Hampton and your mother, Emma Jones, is my younger sister!” said Travis with a smile.

“Oh, I don’t acknowledge my relationship with any of you. You may go if you have no other business with me here.”

With that, Levi turned around and walked away.

“He’s indeed one haughty guy,” one of Travis’ guys commented while watching Levi’s back.

“We aren’t concerned about his character. All that matters is we’ve confirmed that Michael Jones indeed has an illegitimate grandson. Just watch how I’m going to humiliate him during the coming anniversary dinner!”

Travis broke into a triumphant smirk as soon as he said that.

Soon, Michael received a call from Westley Jones, the leader of the Joneses from Chillshire.

“Michael, I’m surprised to know that you actually have an illegitimate grandson out there. How can you be so cruel as to let him wander alone outside and become an unwanted bastard?”

Michael shuddered when he heard Westley’s voice from the other end.

Still, the cat was let out of the bag in the end.

Meanwhile, he had enough on his plate because he had yet to come up with a way to deal with Levi...

The Protector Chapter 851

“Westley!”

Michael was livid with rage when he heard Westley’s comment.

“Michael, I’m afraid you really made a grave mistake by handling the matter this way. Yes, Emma was wrong to give birth to him back then but still, he is your grandson! How can you let him live on his own outside and be labelled as a bastard by everyone else?”

Michael was left stumped in the face of Westley who was glib-tongued.

At the same time, he knew the Joneses in Chillshire had gained an upper hand by discovering Levi’s existence.

“I reckon you will let the kid attend the coming anniversary dinner? Alternatively, you can kill him before that and I will pretend I know nothing about him.”

Westley deliberately said so to provoke him.

Michael had no other choice but acknowledge Levi’s identity. “As he’s my grandson, of course he will attend the anniversary dinner. In fact, I wanted him to live on his own outside so that he could become tougher and more independent.”

He understood that if he refused to admit to the fact that Levi was his grandson, Westley would immediately reveal it to the public through the media.

By the time it happened, his family would suffer great embarrassment.

“Very well, I will look forward to see the kid there.”

Westley ended the phone call feeling satisfied.

Bang!

Crack!

Immediately after the phone call, Michael smashed his phone on the floor and broke it into pieces.

“Levi, oh Levi. What a troublemaker you are! You’re going to destroy my family!”
Michael cursed angrily.

The rest of his family were incensed to learn about Westley’s phone call.

“Levi has always been a ticking time bomb for our family. Now, he’s about to blow up any minute and bring us down with him!”

“I’m sure the other branches will seize the chance to humiliate us at the anniversary dinner because of him. Are we able to bear with such a degrading moment at that time?”

“Exactly! Our family is going to be ruined for good just because of him. Now, not even the God of War can come to our rescue and he might even give us a piece of his mind because of the scandal!”

...

The face of all of them flushed with anger as an overwhelming desire to slaughter Levi immediately grew in their minds.

They could already picture what would take place during the anniversary dinner.

Everything was going to be destroyed by the bastard and the Jones Family in South Hampton would be turned into a laughing stock.

Michael fumed, "I really can't figure out how those in Chillshire found out about Levi's identity."

"Grandpa, I was told by one of my men that Levi had a secret meeting with Travis from Chillshire earlier today! I bet they've been in touch all along!" Tyler said.

He added, "Things are becoming very clear to me now. I'm sure Levi must have contacted those in Chillshire to ask for their help so that his identity as your grandson could be properly acknowledged! How cunning he is!"

Every one of the family looked enraged because of Levi.

"I told y'all not to underestimate Levi long before this! In this way, not only will he be properly recognized as the heir of our family, but he can also make sure we treat him nicely instead of bullying him with the protection of those from Chillshire."

Michael got breathless with anger after pointing that out.

"Grandpa, what should we do now then?"

A deep crease emerged on Wales' forehead.

The Protector Chapter 852

“What else can we do? Of course we have to bring him back! Otherwise, do we want the media to tell everyone in Erudia that I have an illegitimate grandson?!” Michael bellowed fiercely.

“Grandpa, we won’t go and invite him back because he’s just a piece of crap who isn’t worth our effort.”

Wales and Tyler expressed their reluctance to bring Levi back.

“We won’t do that either!”

The rest of the family rejected to take the task too.

“Just let Mia and her family do that!”

Everyone pointed their fingers at Mia and her family who had the weakest say in the family.

“Sounds good to me.”

Before long, Mia and her family traveled to South City to visit Levi.

“Levi, are you finally happy now?” Mia’s father, Calvin Jones confronted him with a note of sarcasm in his voice.

Because of Levi, they were shunned by the rest of the Jones family in South Hampton.

Things just got worse because Levi was going to put the entire family in embarrassment.

As one of the Jones family, hatred was the only sentiment they had for Levi!

“Eh? What do you mean by that?” Levi questioned him in puzzlement.

“Hmph! You deliberately revealed your identity to the those in Chillshire to compel my father into acknowledging you as his grandson, didn’t you?”

Calvin’s anger only intensified by the confused look on Levi’s face because he assumed Levi was feigning innocence.

“You should be pleased because you’ve successfully achieved your purpose now! My father is willing to acknowledge you as his grandson and he sent us here to tell you about that,” Calvin snapped angrily.

“Haha...” Levi chuckled.

Michael might want to acknowledge him but the intention was not mutual!

What the hell was this all about?

“Come back home with us now if you want or you must show up at the anniversary dinner five days later!” Calvin barked.

“Okay. Tell Michael I’ll be there!” Levi responded with a smile.

He would attend the event as the bastard of the family as well as the God of War.

“Haha...” Calvin gave him a scornful laugh.

At first, he thought Levi would have enough backbone to give up the identity as one of the Joneses and refuse to attend the anniversary dinner.

To his surprise, he agreed to be there so readily.

Because of that, Calvin despised him a great deal.

“Levi, please don’t take what my father said too seriously. He just cares too much about the image of the family but he means no harm.” Mia walked over to console Levi.

“I’m not bothered by it.”

Levi liked his younger sister Mia fairly well.

“Mia, what are you telling him? Get back here now! You’d better stay away from him in the future! Even when he becomes one of us in the future, you should refrain from getting too close to him because the blood that runs in him isn’t as noble as ours. You will put yourself in embarrassment if you are seen hanging out with him!” Calvin warned her sternly.

As pious believers that people were divided into different classes, everyone in the Jones family deemed Levi as one who belonged to the lower class while all of them belonged to the higher class.

“Dad, what nonsense are you talking about? Levi is one of us too!”

Mia then spun around to shout at Levi, “Levi, I’ll wait for you at the anniversary dinner!”

“Great, I’ll be there!”

The Protector Chapter 853

The anniversary meeting of the Jones family was advertised so well that even Zoey was aware of it.

“Are you going to be there?” She looked for Levi and asked him about it.

In fact, she was mainly curious to see how he thought about the event.

As far as she knew about him in the past, he would not want to waste his time attending the event nor would he want to accept the identity as one of the members of the Jones family.

Staring at him with anticipation palpable in her eyes, she fervently hoped to hear the answer she preferred from him.

“I’m going to be there because they invited me,” Levi replied nonchalantly.

What?!

At that moment, Zoey’s eyes were filled with much disappointment because Levi was no longer the lofty guy who thought he was superior to everyone else in the world.

What took its place was a soul that was willing to compromise for some worldly gains.

This wasn’t the version of him she would like to see...

Levi then asked her with a smile, “Would you like to go with me?”

He wanted to bring her there to see how he was going to shine and leave the Jones family in stupor because of his glory.

To his dismay, Zoey turned him down decisively. "I'm not going. You may attend the event on your own!"

In her opinion, it was utterly humiliating for Levi to accept the identity as one of the Joneses.

On top of that, she was really taken aback by his sudden change of attitude because he had told her that he would ignore them for the rest of his life some time ago.

Iris, who happened to come by, noticed the exasperated look on Zoey's face. Out of curiosity, she queried, "Zoey, what's the matter?"

"Levi just said he's going to attend the anniversary meeting of the Jones family!" Zoey grumbled resentfully.

"Huh? Is there anything wrong with that?"

"Iris, by attending their anniversary it shows that he's going to yield to them. The moment he accepts the identity as one of them, he will lose his backbone and embarrass himself. Didn't you hate him for doing things like that too before this?" Zoey asked in befuddlement.

"I..." Iris trailed off hesitatingly as she had no idea how to answer Zoey.

Back then, she indeed loathed the fact that Levi got things done by using his connection with the Joneses because she had no idea who he really was at that time.

But now, she knew Levi was the owner of Morris Group who clearly did not need help from the Joneses.

"Zoey, things aren't how you may imagine them to be at all. Perhaps Levi is going to be there to show off his might," Iris suggested with a grin.

Zoey shot her a supercilious glare and retorted, "Show off his might? Who is he to show off in front of the Joneses? They are one of the royal families in South Hampton!"

"Maybe..."

“Iris, that’s enough. It’s so obvious that Levi has lost his backbone by deciding to yield to the Joneses! I can’t believe he’s still going to attend their anniversary after how badly they bullied him!”

Zoey went on to lament, “Perhaps it’s because my career has been thriving so well lately that he wants to become better so that he is good enough to be my partner. Yes, he’s right! He will become good enough or even too good for me once he accepts the identity as one of the Joneses! However, I can’t help but look down on him when he gives up his spine like that! I would rather he fight for his career with his own effort. Even though his achievement might not turn out too great, it will still be the fruit of his effort!”

The Protector Chapter 854

Seeing how Zoey misunderstood Levi so badly, Iris was so anxious that she felt a burning desire to tell her that Levi was in fact the owner of Morris Group and even everything she owned was given by him!

He wasn't losing his spine but instead, he had become even stronger and more powerful than six years ago!

However, she managed to hold back the urge when she recalled what Levi had told her before.

While Zoey was complaining, tears started trickling down her face.

"Does he see me as a vain girl? It doesn't make any difference to me whether he is one of the Jones family members or not!"

Iris consoled, "Zoey, I think you really should believe in him. Since he was already so talented six years ago, I believe he won't be too bad now too! I have a feeling that he's become stronger after going through the challenging times in the past six years."

Zoey shook her head and insisted, "I can't see that, Iris. I can't see any hope in him especially after he started interacting with the Joneses! He's been using his connection with them to settle things very frequently and he will slowly lose the will to fight hard because he's too used to getting things done through the easy way!"

Iris hurriedly said, “Zoey, please give him more time and I’m sure he will be able to prove his talent to everyone soon! For example, I think he will prove it to you at the wedding ceremony by making sure everyone knows that you’re the most respectable lady of the entire world!”

She could only reveal the time when a change would come so that Zoey could be hopeful about things.

“Haha.” Zoey flashed her a faint smile.

It was probable that she only saw what she said as a joke.

Immediately, Zoey changed the subject of their conversation by asking Iris, “By the way, you have yet to tell me who’s the boss of Morris Group. Every time I tried to ask you, you would always give me a vague answer.”

Iris’ expression turned stiff when she heard her question.

It was all Levi’s fault that she was put in such a quandary!

Did he really have to go this far just to reveal his identity to Zoey?

“Oh, there’s no point telling you that because you don’t know him anyway.”

Iris had no choice but to answer that way.

“Seems like he’s not a good-looking man so that’s why you aren’t interested in him!”

Much to Iris’ relief, Zoey decided to laugh it off instead of pressing on.

In the blink of an eye, the day of the Jones family's anniversary had arrived.

As the venue of the event, the old manor of the Joneses in South Hampton was decorated extensively so that the event was a vibrant and merry one.

Two sides of the road leading to the manor were adorned with big red lanterns and family flags which fluttered along with the wind.

In fact, it was said that the Joneses had splurged a staggering amount of two billion during the preparation of the event!

It was easy to see how grand and magnificent the event would be.

On the day prior to the event, Mia drove to fetch Levi to South Hampton.

Soon, she returned to Edburg Manor together with him.

A board on which two large words 'Jones Family' were written was attached to the wall above the main door; it gave the place an imperial and domineering aura.

That was the manor which was resided by the royal family!

A large troop of security officers stood outside the manor in a line to maintain the safety of the place.

"Levi, this way please!"

Mia showed him the way inside.

However, just as Levi was about to enter the manor, a voice came, "It's not that easy to step into Edburg Manor!"

The Protector Chapter 855

Shortly after the voice, Wallace, Calvin, Tyler and Wales emerged.

Escorted by a large entourage, Michael too appeared holding a walking stick decorated with a sculpture in the shape of a dragon head.

Almost all direct descendants of the family were there.

Looking intimidating, they stood in front of Levi, who stared at them with a faint smile.

“Wait a minute. Levi, I can see that you’ve been trying very desperately to be here for quite some time already. Do you really want this so badly?” Wales taunted.

“Finally you’re able to realize your dream after working hard for such a long time. Congratulations for officially becoming one of us!” Tyler said sarcastically.

Every one of them assumed that Levi had single-handedly plotted against Michael to force him into acknowledging his identity.

“But, I have to warn you that it won’t be so easy to become one of us!” Michael growled all of a sudden.

“That’s right! You have to abide by our family rules if you want to become one of the family!” Wallace chimed in.

“Oh? What are the rules?” Levi was amused to hear that.

“There are three conditions that you must fulfill before you are approved to be one of us.” Michael stuck out three of his fingers as he explained.

“Tell me all about it!” Levi was curious to know about the rules.

“First of all, you have to kneel down in front of the memorial tablets of our ancestors as well as the seniors of the family!”

“Secondly, you have to change your surname! In the future, you will go by the name of ‘Levi Jones’ instead of ‘Levi Garrison!’”

“Last but not least, you must train yourself to become resilient so that you are tough enough to endure all challenges that come your way in the future. Therefore, you have to be slapped by all the direct descendants of the family!”

Looking cold and detached, Michael added, “You’ll only be allowed to enter the place and be recognized as my grandson after fulfilling all three conditions!”

What?!

Mia was flustered the moment she heard about the three conditions.

She had never expected that her family would make such a rude demand which was clearly aimed at giving Levi a hard time.

The family had at least two to three hundreds direct descendants. If Levi were to be slapped by each and every one of them, would he be able to survive after going through that?

Also, it was very humiliating for him to kneel down to the seniors in the family in front of so many people.

Lastly, demanding him to change his surname was the most degrading condition of all!

All eyes were on Levi at that moment. “What do you think? Are you scared or are the conditions too demanding for you?”

“You have to be very clear that we have to follow our family rules because we are a huge and distinguished family! Not every Tom, Dick and Harry can be accepted as one of us!”

“If you would like to become one of us, you have to follow the rules!” said Wallace as well as some of the Joneses.

Noticing Levi’s hesitation, Michael fumed, “Answer me now! Either you complete the three conditions or you get out of here now!”

It was agreed beforehand that they would accept Levi as one of them but he needed to go through some torture before that.

They would never let him in too easily!

Tyler sneered, “Levi, you have to know that nothing is free in this world. You have to complete the three conditions if you want to become one of us!”

“Hahaha...” Levi let loose a round of guffaw all of a sudden.

The Protector Chapter 856

His laughter left every single one of them flummoxed.

What was he laughing about?

He seemed to be mocking them!

Wallace questioned him puzzledly, "Lad, what're you laughing about? Is our family a joke to you?"

"Don't think you can bypass it through any other ways! There's nothing you can do to avoid completing the three conditions!" Michael stared at Levi sternly.

"Yes, that's right! You have no other way out! Now, do you want to kneel down first or do you want to be slapped first?" One of the Joneses asked.

"Do I have to kneel down to every one of you here? Who do you think you are?"

"Do I have to change my surname? Who do you think you are?"

"Do I have to be slapped by every single one of you here? Who do you think you are?"

Levi bombarded them with three continuous questions and left them all dumbfounded.

The words 'who do you think you are?' kept on resounding in their minds.

"How dare you guys treat me this way? You guys don't deserve any of that!"

Michael chuckled, "We don't deserve any of that? We've been one of the royal families and a powerful presence in South Hampton for centuries! We own several hundred billion worth of assets and we have properties around the globe! Not only that, but we also have an abundance of talent in the army, the government as well as the business world!"

...

"Our family has so many merits and achievements that I simply don't have the time to list them all down for you. How dare you say that we don't deserve your respect?"

Staring right into Michael's eyes, Levi sneered, "Do you think you guys deserve it? I can destroy every one of you right away just by giving out an order. Do you believe me?"

His imposing and presumptuous confrontation sent each and every one of them in raging fury.

"Y-You are looking for trouble, aren't you? There's no way you can step foot into the manor now!" Wallace as well as some other of the Joneses seethed.

"Then I, Levi Garrison, am going to do just that tonight and no one will be able to stop me from doing so!"

With that, Levi strode off toward the main gate of the manor.

"You aren't allowed to go in there!" Wales immediately stepped forward to block his way.

Smack!

Levi landed a slap on his face.

"How dare you?"

Smack!

Tyler was slapped too.

Everyone was dumbstruck at the moment as none of them expected such aggressiveness from him.

Whoever tried to stop him would be slapped by him!

Most importantly, no one dared to retaliate knowing that he was physically trained.

“Levi, you’re getting out of control! I dare you to take one step further now!”

Smack!

To no one’s surprise, the person who said that ended up being slapped too.

Smack!

Smack!

...

Wallace, Calvin as well as the others were slapped and sent flying away by Levi after trying to stop him.

As none of them was able to contain him, they could only watch on as he made his way toward the main door of the manor.

The moment he was only inches away from reaching the gate, Michael suddenly yelled, “Stop him now!”

The security officers standing outside the manor encircled Levi in an instant in an attempt to get him under control.

However, it only took Levi a short time to get rid of them as they were flung away by him. Slumping on the ground, all of them groaned in pain.

Despite being such a huge family with so many family members, no one was able to stop him.

At that time, Levi spun around and shot everyone a contemptuous glance. “You Joneses are such a disappointment,” he commented with a smirk.

The Protector Chapter 857

Smack!

Levi walked past the gate and then strode off toward the manor.

His firm pace made him look unstoppable like a divine figure who had just descended onto the mortal world.

At the same time, he treated the three conditions laid down by Michael as if they were non-existent.

To the Joneses, Levi being allowed to step foot in the premise was a great humiliation.

Watching Levi's back, Mia squinted to avoid the glare because his body seemed to be glowing with a powerful aura at the time.

All by himself, he managed to deter all of the Jones family members from laying a finger on him.

That was so cool and domineering!

The mockery he made about the family just now hurt all of them immensely like a dagger that was stabbed through their hearts.

Just a single comment from him was enough to ignite blazes of fury deep down inside them.

Infuriated, Michael thundered, "Shadow, throw him out of the manor now!"

Shadow, who was standing next to Michael, stood motionless despite the order.

There was no way he dared to do as Michael ordered.

Since Levi was the God of War, Shadow knew he was no match for him.

He broke out in cold sweat when he thought of the day Levi found out that he had been secretly tracking Ezra down.

Apart from that, he was also well aware Levi could kill him as easily as killing an ant.

Therefore, he was not dumb enough to attack him.

“Hey! What are you waiting for? Go on and get rid of him now!” Michael shouted anxiously when he noticed Shadow wasn’t moving as told.

“Master, I...”

Shadow lowered his head to conceal his fear.

“What are you trying to do, Shadow? Are you defying my order or are you afraid of Levi?” Michael confronted him.

His question soon drew everyone’s attention. Was Shadow afraid of Levi?

How was that even possible?

At that moment, Levi had already walked past the gate and was about to reach the inside of the manor.

Shadow opined, “Master, I think we should not make too big a fuss out of it because it will look bad on us with so many people around.”

Michael couldn’t help but let out a sigh of frustration.

“Grandpa, please just let him go for now. If we really throw him out, those from Chillshire as well as other branches will surely taunt us because of that! I think we should put up with it for the time being and only deal with him after tonight!” Tyler suggested.

“Sounds like that’s the only way to go then.”

In the end, the Joneses decided to make a compromise by allowing Levi in.

No one mentioned the three conditions again because whoever did that would become a laughing stock.

In order to make sure the event went smoothly, they had no choice but to treat Levi well.

After dinner, Michael approached him and warned, “Don’t assume you’re one of us just because you are invited to be here! Although I recognize you as one of my family members on the outside, it’s not my genuine intention to do so because I don’t think you’re good enough to be my grandson at all! You’re a bastard just like your mother! None of us will admit being related to you in any way!”

Levi narrowed his eyes at him and asked, “What did you just say? Say it again!”

“You are a bastard just like your mother!”

The Protector Chapter 858

After Michael spoke, the atmosphere became tense.

Everyone held their breath in anticipation of what was going to happen next.

Mia and the rest of the Joneses stared at Michael in disbelief.

Michael is too much!

As expected, Levi furiously glared at Michael, with lasers shooting out of his eyes. At that moment, everyone could sense the murderous aura that he emitted.

A chill ran down their spines.

It's terrifying to see this side of Levi!

Nonetheless, these people were not the only ones who noticed the change in mood.

Michael was horrified. His pupils constricted, and his Adam's Apple bobbed around as he swallowed nervously, feeling breathless.

He is too scary!

Levi seemed like a wild animal on the loose, and his gaze alone could kill.

With Levi's eyes fixated on him, Michael was covered in sweat, and he felt like puking.

Thump!

Unable to take it any longer, his knees gave way. He collapsed onto the ground.

The glare scared and pushed Michael to the edge.

This man is crazy!

"Apologize," Levi ordered.

Everyone was shocked by his words.

Who knew a bastard child would not only have the guts to step foot into the Jones Residence while everyone was there but also demand Michael's apology?

He is being ridiculous!

Ironically, Levi managed to threaten the entire Jones family even before revealing his identity.

To him, the Joneses were as insignificant as ants.

"I won't." Michael scowled at Levi.

"There is no way I will apologize to a bastard like you!"

Michael would rather die.

“Haha. Michael, you called your own grandson a bastard. You should apologize for your mistake now,” a voice chided as a group of people streamed into the venue.

It came from Westley, the leader of the Joneses in Chillshire.

“You...”

Pft!

Michael was fuming with anger.

Oh no, Westley saw the scandal!

Funny. The more I dread something, the more likely it happens.

This is all Levi's fault.

“Exactly. Michael, you are at fault this time. You should apologize to the bastard... I mean the child!” Westley mocked.

This group of people came to watch Michael's family make a fool of themselves.

They were more than willing to see the head of the Joneses in South Hampton apologizing to Levi.

They didn't feel bad for Levi, a bastard child. However, they were looking forward to seeing Michael become a laughingstock.

Meanwhile, Levi could read their intentions from their expressions, and he swiftly yelled, “He is not the only one who needs to apologize. You should, too!”

The Protector Chapter 859

His words hit everyone like a ton of bricks. All the Joneses were stupefied.

Westley and the rest of his family did not expect Levi to direct his anger toward them, too.

“Do you think I can’t tell what all of you are thinking? In your eyes, I am nothing but a bastard child, similar to a wild animal brought up in the wild,” Levi snorted.

To Westley, it was unthinkable that a junior would speak to him this rudely.

“That’s not wrong. You don’t even know who your father is. Aren’t you an illegitimate child, then? We are indeed just interested in witnessing Michael apologizing to a bastard child.”

Michael was insulted, but he was helpless.

This is all because of my illegitimate grandson!

Westley and the rest of his family started to laugh.

In contrast, the Joneses from South Hampton hung their heads low in shame.

It was humiliating, but there was nothing they could do about it.

Everything is Levi's fault.

Without him, the Joneses from South Hampton would be superior and formidable.

Regardless, we have the backing of the God of War, so these people pose no threat to us.

On the other hand, Levi could not stand being labeled as a 'bastard child'.

Although he was indifferent and uninterested in his parents, they still gave birth to him and brought him into this world.

That was still a sacred action that should be honored.

These people were insulting his existence and dishonoring that action.

They deserve to die!

Levi slowly stood up and turned his deadly gaze to Westley and a few others.

"What... what do you want?" they stuttered, terrified and threatened by him.

He looks like he wants to kill us.

They could feel the heat from Levi's murderous glare, and it felt like they would die in the next moment.

"Please, Levi... no..." Mia, who was in front of them, stopped him.

She was afraid that something bad would happen if the situation persists.

Immediately, she dragged Levi out.

Phew!

Levi let out a sigh of relief when he stepped out.

I almost reverted to my heartless self-earlier, as though I was back on the battlefield.

If Mia did not stop me in time, I would have killed everyone there.

It doesn't matter. I'll deal with them at the anniversary meeting tomorrow.

After Levi left, Westley grinned and mocked, "Michael, now I understand your position. If I had a bastard grandson like this, there is no way in hell I would acknowledge him either. How is it possible for a child brought up in the streets to be associated with our superior bloodline?"

"Exactly! He even wanted to act all righteous and cut ties with us. How can your family in South Hampton produce such a grandson?"

Michael gritted his teeth and clenched his fists as they humiliated him.

He wanted to kill Levi there and then.

The Protector Chapter 860

If he returns to the Jones Residence, he will only bring disgrace to our family!

Besides, with that unsophisticated mother of his, they will only make us look worse.

These two disgraceful individuals have brought so much shame to our family.

Furthermore, this is just the start.

At tomorrow's meeting, hundreds of Joneses from Erudia would be attending, and we will probably face the most humiliation then.

We might even drown in the spit of those who have something to say about it.

That will definitely be the most embarrassing situation in the history of the Joneses from South Hampton.

Nonetheless, we can only think of ways to salvage what we have lost right now.

"Oh yes, have we confirmed the attendance of all our guests?" Michael asked Wallace.

"Yes, we have," Wallace replied promptly.

“How about Anson? What time will he come?”

“Father, Anson will be arriving at nine tomorrow morning. That is the earliest he can come,” Wallace responded.

“Tyler, how about the God of War?” Michael turned to Tyler.

“I have made inquiries, and Mike, the commander-in-chief, replied that God of War has reached South Hampton.”

This was a surprise to the Jones family.

If the God of War came here a day in advance, he must take their anniversary meeting seriously.

The Joneses could finally smile.

“We have to keep his attendance a secret. We will only reveal it tomorrow so that Westley and rest get a taste of how powerful we are,” Michael exclaimed with pride. “With that said, where is he then? Did we arrange anything for him?”

Tyler happily replied, “He said that it was alright and will be there tomorrow.”

“Then it’s settled! Everyone, make preparations to welcome him. Our family’s reputation will rely on the God of War’s presence.”

Michael could already picture the shocked faces on the other Jones’ faces.

Meanwhile, Levi was whining to Mia, “Mia, please bring me around. It’s too suffocating for me to stay here.”

He was afraid that his intention to kill someone would flare up if he stayed here any longer.

It would not do him any good if he killed someone.

“Well, coincidentally, I have a gathering with a few other friends. Levi, you can come along!”

“Sure! Let’s go.”

Not long after, they arrived at a lavish restaurant with live music.

There were a few foreigners playing jazz, setting a rather sentimental mood.

“Mia, look over here!” someone suddenly shouted.

In the distance, they saw a group of formally dressed youths that consisted of three males and two females.

From their appearance, anyone could tell that they were rich kids.

Mia led Levi over to their table.

“Mia, I thought you didn’t have the time to come. Don’t you have to prepare for the anniversary meeting tomorrow?” one woman asked curiously.

At the same time, she scanned Levi from head to toe before asking, “Who is he?”

Mia smiled and replied, “Let me introduce everyone to my cousin brother, Levi.”

Instantly, one of the men laughed, “Are you the rumored bastard child of South Hampton?”

The Protector Chapter 861

Whoa!

The group gasped after hearing that, and they all looked at the speaker, Kyle.

“Why are all of you looking at me? That rumor has spread across South Hampton. They said that Levi is a bastard child who only has a mother, while his father’s identity remains unknown. They even labeled him as the Jones family’s disgrace,” Kyle bluntly stated.

Boom!

Mia’s brain was about to burst.

She thought that leaving the Jones Residence would do Levi some good, yet who knew that they would meet someone who labeled him as a bastard child too.

“Did you call me a ‘bastard child’?” Levi calmly asked.

“Yes, I did. What’s wrong with that?” Kyle sneered.

He knew the Joneses looked down on Levi and could not wait to get rid of him.

As such, there was no need for him to be afraid of owning up to it.

Besides, if he taught Levi a lesson, the Joneses would probably thank him.

“I dare you to repeat it.” Levi coldly challenged.

There was a hint of anger in his eyes.

“You are a bastard child with only a mother and no father. Happy?”

Kyle arrogantly looked at Levi, his gaze filled with amusement.

Even his friends around him could not take it.

“Kyle, you are going overboard. After all, he is Mia’s brother,” one of the women, Xenia, could not help but scolded.

Kyle conceitedly chuckled. “Well, I am not the only person who is spreading it. In South Hampton, who doesn’t know that Levi is an illegitimate child? “

Slap!

Kyle had just finished his sentence when Levi gave him a tight slap across his face.

Pft!

The impact made Kyle cough out blood, together with a dozen of his teeth.

Unbelievable!

No one expected Levi to do that.

It only took one slap for him to make a few of Kyle’s teeth fall out.

“You!” Kyle angrily shouted when he regained his senses a few seconds later.

“How... how dare you hit me?”

Short of a few teeth, his speech became unclear. He looked at Levi in shock.

“You aren’t the only one I will hit. Whoever mentions it or curses at me, I will hit each of them till everyone shuts up.”

Although Levi sounded composed, one could sense the domineering presence he exuded.

It made Kyle shake in fear.

“My teeth!” he exclaimed and went crazy after seeing his broken teeth strewn across the floor.

“Watch out! I will get my revenge against you today!” he yelled.

Knowing that the relationship between Levi and the Joneses was not the best, he was not afraid of being questioned by the Joneses.

He had to get his revenge on Levi for knocking out his teeth.

“If you are bold enough, you will wait till I bring my men here!” Kyle threatened.

Although the others tried to persuade him otherwise, it was no use.

“Mia, I think you should leave. If Kyle summons his subordinates, your brother will be in trouble!” Xenia pleaded.

“Don’t worry, I will wait for him,” Levi interrupted.

“I will punish everyone who calls me a bastard child, and I will do this till no one dares to speak of it again.” He coolly took a seat.

The Protector Chapter 862

Xenia and the other girl were stunned.

He is so assertive!

They had never seen anyone as bossy as he was.

“Levi, let’s leave. There is no need to get upset with such people!”

Mia was worried for Levi.

“Mia, you don’t have to worry. If I can’t even handle a brat like him, then I do not live up to my name.” Levi shrugged and even poured himself a glass of wine.

He looked unaffected, as though the situation did not concern him at all.

Xenia and Alice’s eyes were shining with admiration as they looked at him.

Levi was charming and attractive.

Since the Joneses would likely not step in to help him, Xenia and Alice anticipated watching him deal with Kyle.

It did not take long for Kyle to bring a large group of his subordinates over, who rushed to surround Levi.

Kyle's gums were still bleeding and throbbing with pain.

He announced, "You are really something! I can't believe you are still here. Very well, since you broke my teeth, you will have to pay. I want to knock out all of your teeth too. Then, I will pluck out all your nails from your hands and feet until you beg."

With hatred, he looked at Levi.

Then, he cursed, "You filthy bastard child!"

Boom!

Crack!

In the next moment, Levi picked up the wine bottle and smashed it on Kyle's head.

Blood gushed out, and Kyle almost fainted.

In the same period, another gathering was happening on the second floor.

They all looked unique. Some had bandages on their legs, and some had bandages on their arms.

They were the Prince Gang from South Hampton and their leader, Jaron Goel.

The crash of the wine bottle caught their attention.

"Oh? Go take a look at what is happening," Jaron ordered.

Everyone looked over at the fuss.

“It is Kyle trying to teach someone a lesson,” someone reported.

Jaron glanced over at the scene and saw a familiar figure.

Immediately, his eyes widened, and he jumped to his feet.

“That is the leader of South Hampton, Levi Garrison!” Jaron gasped in surprise.

Everyone came to a realization.

He is really Levi, their leader!

“What the hell! Kyle is playing with fire!”

Everyone angrily stood up and rushed toward them.

After being hit by the bottle, Kyle looked at Levi with disbelief and anger. “You... must die. All of you, I want you to kill him! I will bear all consequences!” he screeched like a monster, livid.

The Protector Chapter 863

Crack!

Another man came forward and smashed another wine bottle on Kyle's head.

Blood splattered everywhere, and there were glass shards strewn across the floor.

Being cruelly attacked on the same spot, Kyle became disoriented.

He furiously turned and demanded, "Who the hell hit me?"

"It's me," the man behind him replied coldly.

"M-Mr. Goel?"

Just as he was about to explode, Kyle saw a familiar face that made him cower in fear.

Isn't he Jaron, the head of Prince Gang?

"Mr. Hunt? Mr. Quinn?..." Kyle proceeded to call out the people present.

It occurred to him that to forty people from the Prince Gang were there, and they were the most powerful members.

They also belonged to either quasi-royal clans or royal families.

"All of you... were here?" Kyle stuttered in shock.

Although he was also from a wealthy family, he could not outrank those from the Prince Gang.

Typically, one would turn away to hide if they saw them.

Yet, he met them today.

“What’s wrong? Can’t we be here?” Jackson asked frigidly.

“Of course not! You can!” Kyle hurriedly replied.

He broke out in a cold sweat and felt so numb that he no longer felt the pain.

However, he did not understand why the Prince Gang would approach him, much less bother to smash a bottle on his head.

“What were you trying to do?” Jaron questioned.

Kyle chuckled. “Sir, I am teaching someone a lesson. He is the bastard child from the Jones family, Levi. He had the guts to hit me.”

As he spoke, he pointed at Levi.

Jaron and the rest of Prince Gang took a step forward and knelt in front of Levi. In unison, they called out in unison, “Greetings, Master!”

Everyone from the Prince Gang, even those unknown, greeted Levi as their master.

The situation was alarming.

Xenia, Alice, Mia and Kyle were all confused.

What is going on?

How did the bastard child from the Jones family end up being the master of the Prince Gang?

Are we dreaming?

Mia's mouth was wide open as she tried to piece it all together.

No wonder Levi dared to challenge the Joneses. It was because he has the ability to do so.

Even the Prince Gang calls him 'Master'.

On the other hand, Kyle refused to buy it. He thought Jaron and the rest were mistaken.

"Sir, what is wrong with all of you? He is an illegitimate child from the Jones family! Why are you calling him 'Master'? Have you mistaken him for someone else?" Kyle questioned as his eyes widened.

Instantly, Jaron shot him a sharp glare.

Bang!

He sent Kyle flying with a kick.

The Protector Chapter 864

Boom! Boom! Boom!

Kyle crashed into several tables before he landed on the ground. Blood filled his mouth, and he felt like dying from Jaron's kick.

"I will kill your entire family if you call our master a bastard child," Jaron roared.

"Yes! The Prince Gang will haunt down whoever who has anything bad to say about our master."

The rest of the members sounded one by one.

Boom!

The short few remarks took everyone in the restaurant by surprise.

They affirmed Levi's identity as Prince Gang's leader.

"Why... How..."

Flung onto the ground, Kyle struggled to get up.

He was about to go crazy from the knowledge.

“Truth to be told, he is not only the master of Prince Gang but also the head of the hundred prominent families in South Hampton.”

Jaron’s words were as sharp as a knife, and it took everyone by surprise again.

Shaking with fear, Kyle’s subordinates fell to their knees too.

“I told him I would beat everyone who calls me a bastard child, and I will do so to the entire South Hampton until no one dares to mention it again,” Levi calmly said.

“Understood! I will do so immediately! I will find all those who dare to speak ill of you, and I will meet them one by one. As for Kyle, your family is finished.”

Naturally, Jaron called the shots.

A few moments later, they threw Kyle and his subordinates out of the restaurant, and it finally quietened down.

“Don’t worry, you guys can continue with your night.”

Everyone could finally let down their guards after Levi spoke.

Xenia and Alice stared at him in wonder.

He seems like a gentleman, but is a beast inside.

How charming!

They secretly asked Mia, “Is Levi married?”

“Not yet, but he will be soon.”

“Since he is not married, it means that we still stand a chance.”

That night, Levi rejected both women’s invitation to their homes and headed back to the Jones Residence with Mia.

The Joneses had finished the preparations and were ready for the anniversary meeting to start.

Everyone was unhappy to see Levi return.

“Levi, why did you go out? Aren’t you aware that the whole South Hampton knows you as the bastard child? My family’s reputation is going to be destroyed because of you!” Tyler growled.

By now, everyone in South Hampton knew Michael had an illegitimate grandson.

The news was spreading like wildfire, and everyone was mocking the Joneses.

This was all because of Levi’s presence.

Therefore, the Joneses were furious with him and wanted him out of sight.

They even thought of killing him.

Michael commented, “Since you are part of the Joneses, I will set a rule for you, Levi. I will lock you up in the Jones Residence forever. From now on, you can never set foot out of this place.”

The Protector Chapter 865

He could no longer afford to let Levi roam free because everyone in South Hampton knew Levi was a bastard by now.

As long as he was free to move around, he would remain a disgrace to the Jones family which they wanted to avoid.

Their only plan was to imprison Levi permanently in the Jones residence and prevent him from ever stepping out.

Although people knew he had arrived at the Jones Residence, they would forget about his existence as long as he didn't venture out.

Therefore, the damage and impact he would cause the Joneses would be greatly reduced.

Michael had learnt this tactic from someone else.

Levi's mother, Emma Jones, was permanently imprisoned and wasn't allowed to leave that place.

Until now, they had kept her in captivity for almost thirty years.

She was locked up since the day Levi was born.

Prior to this, Mia would definitely worry for him.

Not anymore. She found out about Levi's identity when the prominent Goel family acknowledged him as their master.

She knew the Joneses were powerless against him.

If there was any conflict, he would definitely not be at the losing end.

In fact, she hoped Levi could teach the Jones family a lesson.

Levi laughed. "I can move anywhere that the sun shines and river flows. No one can stop me. Furthermore, there's no cage that can stop me."

"Just wait and see if we manage to keep you locked up."

Michael was dismissive of Levi's boasts.

He wanted to wait till after the anniversary meeting to torture him properly.

Michael had another idea. If he failed to imprison Levi, he would get Anson to take the bastard back to the military to be trained.

That way, it would be good for the Jones' reputation and also remove Levi the troublemaker.

If the ten thousand warriors of the Iron Brigade knew about it, they would laugh until they dropped.

To have a deserter bring the God of War back to camp to be trained was going to be a terrible joke.

At night, Levi gave Zoey a call.

However, she was still angry and hung up on him.

Hmm? Why is Zoey behaving like that?

Levi realized the reason very quickly.

She must think that I have compromised with the Jones family for the sake of attending the anniversary meeting.

Zoey, you are mistaken! I don't need to depend on the Joneses. At my command, the hundred prominent families in South Hampton would bow at my feet.

Levi smiled wryly.

They didn't talk the whole night.

The next day, the Jones family anniversary meeting which was held once every decade began.

Levi and the Joneses arrived early at the Jones family's ancestral home.

Family members from all over Erudia and even those from overseas were present.

The anniversary meeting was finally about to begin.

The Protector Chapter 866

“Later, don’t go shooting your mouth off. You better stay in this corner and keep quiet.” Michael came over on purpose to remind him.

Since he couldn’t hide his relationship with Levi, he had no choice but to acknowledge him.

That was all Michael could do to prevent him from humiliating other Joneses.

The courtyard within their ancestral home was large enough to accommodate a thousand people.

Hence, representatives from Jones families based all over the world were gathered there.

There was a chair in the ancestral hall reserved for the head of the family.

On it sat an old man with white hair. He was as thin as a stick and looked as if he could fall anytime the wind blew.

However, his eyes glistened with energy, and he was in high spirits. He exuded an intimidating aura.

He was Joey Jones. At 123 years old, he was the eldest member of the family in Erudia.

He was the most senior member of the Jones diasporic families and had authority over all the individual Jones families.

There were four other chairs on each side of his seat where Michael, Westley, and others sat.

They were the heads of the eight most powerful Jones families.

They placed the rest of the thousand participants according to their seniority.

Levi was among them. But no one could see him as he was placed in a secluded corner.

Sitting in the chair and holding his staff, Joey exclaimed, “Hmm, what an amazing sight! All our descendants are strong and capable. Within Erudia, there are few who are stronger than the Jones family itself.

“Michael and Westley have done especially well. Within, ten years they have elevated their families from quasi-royal clans to royal families. There are eight other prominent families who were elevated to quasi-royal clan status. I am impressed!”

“Thank you for your compliments, Father. We wish you a long and prosperous life. Also, we wish the Jones diasporic families everlasting glory!” Michael and Westley both stood up to congratulate everyone.

The crowd repeated in unison, “We wish you a long and prosperous life. Also, we wish the Jones diasporic families everlasting glory!”

Joey replied with a smile, “Next, why don’t you tell us one by one what you have achieved in the last ten years.”

Michael and Westley’s achievements were a league above everyone else. Joey couldn’t stop praising them.

However, Westley explained with resignation, “Joey, the Chillshire Jones family has some regrets. We have reached the pinnacle of the business world, but there is no one in our family who has done well in government or the army. My son, Franklin, has not shown he is exceptional as he is just an ordinary government leader. While my grandson Aiden is only a colonel in the army which is nothing to shout about. As for my brother, Xaver Jones, he is just a second-tier leader in Chillshire but will be promoted to a first-tier leader next year.”

Hiss!

Everyone gasped in awe at how powerful the Jones family of the Chillshire branch was.

It was very impressive of them to have influential members in business, government, and the army.

Despite his humble tone, Westley was trying to outdo Michael.

He understood that in the south, both his family and Michael’s were evenly matched.

In terms of the government and army, his family definitely did better than the Jones family of South Hampton.

The Protector Chapter 867

“Impressive! You have lived up to the reputation of being a Jones. Our ancestors are proud of you.” Joey clapped with joy.

He turned his attention to Michael as it was now the latter’s turn to present his family’s achievements.

Michael glanced at Westley before presenting. “The South Hampton Joneses isn’t as glorious as Chillshire’s. We do not have any exceptional members. The only one worth mentioning is my seventh son, Anson.”

Westley interrupted immediately, “Oh? I heard Anson is a prodigal son, to the extent you forced him to join the army. So, how is he doing now?”

“Anson behaved badly in the past and was every bit the prodigal son you heard about, but he straightened out after joining the army. Today, he is one of the God of War’s close subordinates as a Brigadier General in the Iron Brigade. He is a fearsome warrior and the God of War’s right-hand man,” Michael explained with aplomb.

“A Brigadier General in the Iron Brigade?” Westley’s eyes almost popped out in disbelief.

If what Michael said was true, his family’s achievements would pale in comparison.

Hiss!

When the crowd heard what Michael said, all of them caught their breath in awe.

That’s really impressive!

As part of the God of War's personal troops, his status is a lot higher than that of ordinary generals.

After all, it's the God of War we are talking about here!

"Hahaha!"

At that moment, someone burst into sudden laughter.

That person was Levi.

Anson was a useless bum. Ever since he joined the army, he never saw himself as a soldier. All he did was pass the time eating and drinking.

In the end, he deserted the army and was taken prisoner by the enemy. He almost leaked out the army's secrets too.

How did this man end up being one of the Iron Brigade's King of War as claimed by Michael?

There are no wimps in the Iron Brigade, let alone a deserter like Anson.

Even if a member of the Iron Brigade is faced with ten thousand men alone, he would rather charge at the enemy and die in the blaze of glory.

As everyone was quiet, Levi's laughed was especially jarring, which caused them to turn their attention to him.

Michael was infuriated.

Is this he here to cause trouble?

Will he not rest until we're all dead?

Meanwhile, Westley was delighted to see Levi.

However, he maintained his stern expression. “How can one even laugh during such a solemn moment? It’s really rude. Do you even respect the rules of the Jones family? Who is it? Come out right now!”

“That’s right, whose dares to be so rude?” Even Joey was outraged.

“Grandfather, it’s Michael’s own grandson, Levi Garrison,” someone from the crowd replied.

The crowd was in an uproar.

Michael’s eyes were filled with dread.

The Protector Chapter 868

“Levi Garrison? Come out here!” Joey ordered angrily as he slammed his staff on the ground.

As the person with the highest authority within the Joneses, he was furious to see such conflict during a solemn event like this.

The junior members of the Jones family should always be respectful!

At that moment, everyone turned their gaze toward Levi while the members of the South Hampton Jones family hung their heads in shame.

The time to be humiliated has begun!

It's all because of Levi!

He is the source of our humiliation!

However, Levi didn't move despite being ordered to do so.

Joey shifted his sharp gaze to Levi.

“I'm talking to you. Can't you hear me?” Joey's voice deepened.

However, Levi ignored him as he never acknowledged that he was related to the Jones family.

No matter how much authority Joey had as Patriarch of the Jones family, he had no power over Levi.

Joey was furious at Levi for ignoring him again.

At the same time, Michael and the others were equally infuriated.

Levi is like a plague to us and keeps bringing us shame.

Joey then turned to Michael. "Is this how you teach your grandson? To turn a deaf ear to my command? Is he really deaf?"

Boom!

The Jones family of South Hampton were trembling uncontrollably at the patriarch's reprimand.

"Levi! Step forward!" Michael yelled at the top of his lungs.

Everyone else began yelling, "Levi Garrison, step forward!"

However, Levi refused with a smile. "You don't have the authority to order me around."

Everyone looked at him in disbelief.

Isn't that just ridiculously rude?

How could he be so brazen in front of the entire Jones diasporic families?

He does not respect anyone at all!

“Michael, you really have a wonderful grandson,” Joey scolded.

Before Michael could explain, Westley interjected, “Father, based on what I know, this grandson of Michael’s was left on the streets since he was young. He grew up in a ghetto and inadvertently picked up many bad habits. He doesn’t deserve to have the noble Jones family blood flowing through him.”

“That’s right! Despite having half the noble Jones family blood, he is a despicable person to the core. How can someone like him attend the Jones family’s anniversary meeting?”

“How can he even be allowed to stand in the ancestral hall? He is a disgrace to our bloodline!” Aiden complained angrily.

Levi’s expression darkened and retorted, “Noble bloodline? In that case, I want to see how noble is your blood. Let me extract to examine its color.”

He walked toward Aiden.

“Wait! What are you doing?”

Everyone was shocked as the scene turned chaotic.

When Michael saw that Levi was filled with murderous intent, he resigned himself to despair.

The Protector Chapter 869

Although he hadn't known Levi for a long time, he was still aware of how cruel his grandson was.

He knew Levi would have no qualms about drawing his knife and extracting blood from Aiden.

If Levi and Aiden were drawn into a conflict, the South Hampton Jones family would be done for.

The shame brought upon the family could never be washed away.

"Insolence! What are you trying to do?"

Aiden could feel how terrifying Levi was as he instinctively retreated a few steps.

The crowd berated Levi one by one, "How dare you cause trouble during such a solemn occasion?"

Joey was outraged as he stabbed his staff into the ground loudly.

"Why is there such a bastard within the illustrious Jones family?" he lamented as he watched Levi approach Aiden.

"What is this ruckus all about?"

At that moment, a voice rang out in the courtyard.

A man dressed in military fatigues carrying a green backpack entered.

“Oh? It’s my seventh son! Anson has returned!” Michael yelled in excitement.

Wallace, Calvin, and Tyler were all ecstatic to see Anson.

The pride of the Jones family has returned!

He is a real King of War!

He is also a member of the Iron Brigade under the God of War!

Everyone’s attention was focused on Anson.

“Dad, I’m back!” Anson exclaimed.

Michael hugged his son affectionately as he scrutinized him from head to toe.

You picked the right time to be back!

“Oh? Son, is there something wrong with your uniform?” Michael asked, puzzled.

He noticed there weren’t any military signs on Anson’s uniform.

His armband and the shoulder ranks were gone. Even his serial number and all other insignias were left empty.

Being a deserter who almost leaked army secrets to the enemy, he was stripped of everything, leaving nothing on his uniform.

Staring at his empty uniform, Michael and everyone else were surprised.

In their minds, Anson was supposed to be wearing the uniform of a Brigadier General with a single star on his shoulder.

However, not seeing anything there disappointed them.

They started to doubt Anson’s identity.

“Anson, where’s your uniform? Aren’t you a Brigadier General?” Michael asked.

“About that, the Iron Brigade has very strict disciplinary rules. On such an occasion, we are not allowed to deck out our uniforms in full colors. All ranks and insignias have to be removed to keep a low profile,” Anson explained without batting an eyelid.

He didn’t dare to tell his father the truth for fear of being beaten to death.

“Oh! So that’s it. Just as I’ve said!” Michael smiled in relief.

“Bullshit, who came up with that rule? Why didn’t I know about it?” Levi interjected suddenly.

The Protector Chapter 870

Levi had never set such a rule in the Iron Brigade.

In fact, he would encourage his men to put on their Iron Brigade armbands when they returned home because it was a prestigious symbol.

Any family who had a son serving in the Iron Brigade would feel extremely honored.

Levi's words brought everyone's attention back to him, including Anson's.

He sneered at Levi, "Who are you? Do I know you?"

"Are you a member of the Iron Brigade?" Levi asked.

"That's right! Brigadier General Anson Jones of the Iron Brigade at your service," Anson replied.

Levi was amused. "You're in the Iron Brigade and yet you don't know who I am?"

Soldiers from other divisions may not know him, but the Iron Brigade was under his personal command. Every member knew him by the face.

It was impossible for his subordinate not to recognize him.

It only means you are not from the Iron Brigade.

“I don’t know you. A-Are you also in the Iron Brigade?” Anson panicked.

If his lie were exposed, Michael would definitely punish him severely.

“Don’t listen to his nonsense. He is Emma’s son, Levi Garrison,” Michael reminded.

Upon hearing that, Anson heaved a sigh of relief.

He glared at Levi and bellowed, “Are you even from the Iron Brigade? Why do I need to know you? Who do you think you are?”

Levi replied with a knowing smile, “If you are really from the Iron Brigade, you will definitely know who I am.”

“Dad, is this guy being rude and disrespecting all the elders here?” Anson stared daggers at Levi.

“Just ignore him! Come over here to greet the Patriarch.”

Anson followed his father and approached Joey.

“Grandfather, it’s my honor to meet you.”

Joey stood up and looked at Anson emotionally. “The Jones diasporic families finally have a member who brings the greatest honor to the family. So what if one is extremely wealthy or if one’s wealth rival that of nations? It pales in comparison with what you have achieved! You are the right-hand man of the God of War and a famous general of the Iron Brigade. I am extremely proud of you!”

The South Hampton Jones family was ecstatic to hear that.

To be acknowledged by the Grandmaster in front of the Jones diasporic families was considered the highest honor and the envy of the other families.

As a result, Westley's face darkened.

"Come, give Anson a seat," Joey ordered.

Other than the head of prominent Jones families, no one else was allowed to sit in front.

By inviting Anson to have a seat, Joey was demonstrating how much he valued Anson's achievement.

Michael arranged for two chairs to be brought in. One for Anson while the other for a guest of the highest honor, the God of War himself.

When Levi saw the empty chair, he commented with a smile, "It appears the Jones family knows what's good for them by reserving a seat for me."

Just as he spoke, he proceeded to take his seat.

The Protector Chapter 871

“Levi, what are you doing?” Anson stopped him when he saw Levi sitting down.

“I’m taking the place they have reserved for me,” Levi casually replied.

“Are you out of your mind? Look at how many elders are standing, so what gives you the right to sit?” Anson scolded.

“Is Michael’s grandson sick in the head? Or is he just arrogant? Since when is he qualified to sit there?”

“That’s right! He keeps behaving rudely in front of the Patriarch. Michael, what’s the meaning of this? Are you doing it on purpose?”

After berating Levi, the crowd turned their attention toward Michael.

“I…”

He was close to bursting a vessel.

To him, Levi was an idiot who insisted on creating unnecessary drama.

Meanwhile, the South Hampton Jones family stared at Levi as if he was their mortal enemy.

If not for his presence, they would have outshone everyone else during the anniversary meeting.

Amongst the crowd, Calvin pulled Mia over and warned her, "Mia, you should not have anything to do with Levi from now on. Or else, he will be the death of you!"

"Why? He has always treated me well. Don't worry, he won't harm me," Mia replied with a smile.

"You're still young, so what do you know? I know a scum when I see one." Calvin hated Levi's guts now.

Mia retorted, "Dad, you're the one that's ignorant. If Levi's true identity is revealed, he would outshine everyone here. No one can compare to him."

Calvin gave her an exasperated look. "Did Levi poison your head?"

Mia replied in glee, "Dad, you will know soon enough."

Meanwhile, Westley suddenly remarked, "Michael, what's the meaning of this extra chair? Did you prepare it for your grandson?"

"Hahahaha..."

The crowd burst into laughter, causing Michael to feel humiliated.

"Michael, tell me. Who is that seat for?" Even Joey was concerned.

At that moment, Michael knew he couldn't maintain his secret any longer. "Joey, I wanted to give you a surprise at the end. Given the current circumstances, I have to choice but to tell you now."

Westley's heart sank when he realized Michael must have invited someone extremely important to the meeting.

He knew Michael planned to solidify the South Hampton Jones family's position in one move.

Westley began to panic as he did not make any other preparations.

When he turned to look at the South Hampton Jones family, all of them looked extremely confident.

It was obviously someone very important who would help them reinforce their position.

In his curiosity, Joey couldn't help but ask, "Hmm? I am very interested to know who this person is?"

Michael replied with a smile, "I'll not hide it from you any longer. The seat is prepared for the God of War."

The Protector Chapter 872

It was a shocking revelation to them.

Just as Michael spoke, everyone gasped as if they had been struck by lightning.

Other than the South Hampton Jones family, everyone else was stupefied.

Although Westley guessed it was someone important, this was still beyond what he had imagined.

It is the God of War himself!

Joey was so emotional that he teared and even dropped his staff.

“Is it true? Is the honorable God of War coming to attend our anniversary meeting?”

His body was visibly trembling.

“Father, it’s true. To be honest, the God of War has been a supporter of the South Hampton Jones Family for a long time.”

“Do you remember when we were attacked by Elijah? It was the God of War who saved us.”

After receiving an affirmative answer, Joey shouted in elation, “The status of the Jones is going to be further elevated! Going forward, the entire Jones diasporic families in Erudia will be placed under your authority.”

Pfft!

The declaration dealt a crushing blow to Westley, but it was the best news the South Hampton Jones family could hope for.

Although Levi’s appearance had humiliated them and angered the Patriarch, the South Hampton Jones family still had one more trump card—the God of War.

Michael almost jumped in joy when he realized all the Jones families in Erudia would have to take orders from him.

In his mind, a blueprint took shape.

He planned to leverage on the strength of the Jones families in Erudia to create a royal family. Not only was he going to rule South Hampton, but also the whole of Erudia in the end.

“When is the God of War arriving?” Joey asked in anticipation.

“Ordinary people like us are not privy to his itinerary. However, he has promised us that he would be here,” Michael answered confidently.

At that moment, no one noticed Anson was trembling in a corner as he didn’t expect the God of War to come in person.

When he arrives, wouldn’t I be exposed?

It would be impossible for the God of War not to recognize him, given that he claimed to be a King of War, the God of War’s right-hand man.

When that happens, where am I going to hide?

The more he thought about it, the more fearful he became. He was shivering incessantly.

In fact, he was so frightened that he could wet his pants anytime.

“Anson, why are you shaking? What are you afraid of?” Michael asked in surprise.

Curiosity flashed in his eyes.

Why is he so frightened when I mentioned the God of War?

What’s going on with him?

Joey came to Anson’s defense. “Michael, don’t you know? As the God of War’s right-hand man, Anson must be excited to see him.”

It suddenly made sense to Michael. “Oh, right! That’s true.”

A voice rang out. “No! He is afraid that once the God of War arrives and doesn’t recognize him, his lie will be exposed.”

The Protector Chapter 873

It was Levi.

Damn it, it's Levi again!

Michael couldn't be anymore outraged.

While Anson was trembling, he didn't expect Levi to bring up the topic again.

He looked at Levi in horror and wondered if the latter really knew something.

He didn't dare rebut as he was overwhelmed by fear.

“Levi, what are you babbling about? Anson really is a King of War in the Iron Brigade. You're accusing him of being a fraud. Are you for real?”

“That's right! Are you causing trouble on purpose?”

The whole South Hampton Jones family was up in arms at Levi's attitude.

If the other families weren't watching, they would have definitely killed Levi.

Meanwhile, Westley was happily watching the unexpected turn of events.

So what if the South Hampton Jones family has many achievements?

Having a King of War no longer matters when they have a crazy person like Levi running loose.

His actions alone negate all their accomplishments.

He is a disgrace to the South Hampton Jones family and deserves to be nailed to the pillar of shame.

Going with the flow, Westley inquired, "Levi, how do you know he is a fraud? Do you know something we don't?"

Anson's face turned pale while cold sweat broke out on his forehead.

"Because I know every single person in the Iron Brigade and he is not one of them," Levi replied in amusement.

Michael retorted, "What do you know? Do you think you're one of the Iron Brigade?"

Before Levi could reply, Michael interrupted him further, "I've investigated everything about you. Other than being imprisoned for six years, you were at North Hampton. What connection do you have with the Iron Brigade?" The gloves were off for Michael.

Not afraid of being laughed at, Michael revealed the fact that Levi went to prison on impulse.

Everyone was shocked by the revelation.

Michael then explained to Joey, "I know this is embarrassing but I'm sure you're aware of the shame my daughter, Emma, experienced. However, her son is even more of a disgrace! If Westley hadn't declared our relationship to the world, I would never have acknowledged him. Today, in front of you, I declare he is not fit to be my grandson. I will never acknowledge him as my family."

Joey and Westley were shocked at how harsh Michael was.

“Do you want me to acknowledge you? I can! Just show me your achievements. If you can be a colonel in the army, a government leader, or even own a billion in assets, I will acknowledge you once you accomplish any of those. Do you even have any? You’re nothing but an absolute loser and an ex-convict. Do you deserve to be part of the Jones family?”

Michael was ballistic as he bombarded Levi with questions.

At that moment, someone ran into the courtyard.

“Tyler, Wales, the Prince Gang is here!”

The Protector Chapter 874

18/06/2021 by Chapter Novel

“The Prince Gang is here?”

Both Tyler and Wales were stunned for a moment.

Although they had greeted the Prince Gang before, they were ignored by Jaron and his companions then.

Why are they here?

Join Telegram Group For Fast update and Novel Query

Regardless of the reason, it's a positive development.

At least they will provide us with a show of strength.

After all, the Prince Gang was considered a prestigious organization.

Every one of its members represented South Hampton's most prominent families.

Holding that thought, both men were ecstatic as they went out to receive them.

“Father, they are part of Tyler's network. They're an organization of youths called the Prince Gang, and are made up of all the heirs of South Hampton's prominent families.” Michael grinned.

Join Telegram Group For Fast update and Novel Query

“That's very good. I have heard about the Prince Gang before, as they are famous. These young men have a promising future, which is impressive,” Joey continued his praise.

Amidst the crowd, Mia's eyes were sparkling with excitement while her lips widened into a smug smile.

She mumbled to herself, "It appears Levi is going to make his move soon."

She was looking forward to seeing Levi revealing his identity and shocking everyone present.

I wonder how the Jones family will react later. I really can't wait!

Calvin asked out of curiosity, "Mia, what are you babbling about? What has this got to do with Levi?"

"Dad, just keep watching," Mia replied with a smile.

Calvin was none the wiser but continued to watch the situation unfold.

In a brief moment, Tyler and his brother led the members of the Prince Gang in.

Leading the group was Jaron and Jackson.

"Father, this Jaron Goel, leader of the Prince Gang and heir to South Hampton's most prominent family, the Goel family. Beside him is Jackson Hunt, heir to South Hampton's second most prominent family, the Hunt family..." Michael started to introduce the members of the Prince Gang.

"Very good. With such powerful friends, the Jones family will definitely be further elevated. Michael, not only do you make me proud, but the younger members of the family also never cease to amaze me. It seems the future of the Jones diasporic families lies in your hands," Joey remarked emotionally."

The other Jones families looked on in admiration and envy.

"Jaron, Jackson, let me introduce you. This is..."

Before Tyler could introduce them to Joey, Jaron led the Prince Gang members away and headed in a different direction.

“Oh? What’s going on?”

Everyone was caught by surprise while Tyler and Wales were stunned.

Huh? Aren't they here to support us?

Why have they left? Do they have a different reason for coming?

When he saw the direction Jaron was heading, Calvin’s heart began to race in suspense.

Is what Mia said coming true?

He gave her a thoughtful look.

Mia’s eyes were glistening with pride.

The thousand-odd attendees were staring in the direction Jaron was heading.

When the group arrived in front of Levi, they dropped to their knees with a thump.

The Protector Chapter 875

All the members of the Prince Gang were kneeling in front of Levi. They shouted in unison, "The South Hampton Prince Gang is honored to see you, Master."

Their spirited greeting echoed reverberated like rumbling thunder.

There was total silence, as if time had stopped and space had frozen.

Everything was suspended at that very moment.

Tyler was stupefied, and so was Michael and Joey.

The thousand-odd members of the Jones family were all astounded.

Everyone felt as if they had been struck by lightning and burnt to a crisp.

As Calvin and Mia were standing close by, he saw everything unfold right before him. Unable to fully process what was going on, he felt as if he was going to faint anytime.

Luckily, Mia was there to support him.

Bam!

Someone couldn't accept what was going on and fainted on the ground, causing a loud thump.

The sound brought everyone's senses back.

They were all gasping for air.

It is unbelievable!

It must be the end of the world!

No matter what, they could not accept what had just unfolded in front of them.

The South Hampton Prince Gang is actually kneeling in front of Levi?

W-What's going on?

Isn't he a bastard?

I thought he was just rabble?

Did he really spend six years in prison?

Who is he for the Prince Gang to kneel before him?

A barrage of questions bombarded everyone's mind.

They were filled with doubts and didn't know where the disconnect was.

Among the thousand men present, all that could be heard was the sound of heavy breathing.

It was obvious no one could fathom what was going on.

Tyler and Wales couldn't help but ask, "Jaron, Jackson, are you paying your respects to the wrong person? The one who is the most senior among us is Joey, the Patriarch. And he's right over here."

Hearing that, Jaron looked at Tyler and his brother. "If you are still a member of the Prince Gang, come over here and kneel!"

"Huh? Kneel? To him? Never! I can kneel to anyone but him!"

“That’s right. What are you talking about? We will never kneel to a bastard!”

Tyler and his brother made their stand.

Jaron suddenly stood up and stormed toward both of them.

Slap! Slap!

He gave each of them a forceful slap.

“I will personally kill whoever dare calls our master a bastard,” Jaron bellowed.

“From now on, you are both banished from the South Hampton Prince Gang!”

Jaron made a decisive decision.

Everyone was shocked that Tyler and Wales were kicked out.

“The next time you utter the word ‘bastard’ against our master again, I’ll kill both of you.”

The Protector Chapter 876

None of the Joneses understood Jaron's threat.

What's going on?

Who exactly is Levi?

This is such a surprise.

The Prince Gang not only called him 'master' but also defended him. Why is that?

After teaching Tyler and Wales a lesson, Jaron returned to kneel in front of Levi.

"Enough, get up," Levi casually said.

Upon his orders, all the members of the Prince Gang stood up.

At that moment, Michael's mind went blank.

He and the other Joneses could not comprehend how Levi could become the master of the South Hampton's Prince Gang.

Puzzled, Michael and Tyler exchanged glances and recalled that Lucas went to South City a few days ago.

Was Lucas crippled by Levi?

And yet, that was only the beginning.

“Sir! Sir! For some reason, a lot of luxury cars are arriving outside. From the looks of it, there are almost a hundred of them,” the butler rushed in suddenly to report what was going on outside.

“Oh? Do we still have guests?”

Michael was surprised as he was no longer expecting anyone.

Could it be the God of War?

But the God of War wouldn't come in a hundred-car convoy.

So, who else could it be?

Thud! Thud! Thud!

The next moment, they could hear a flurry of footsteps.

It sounded as if there were many people.

“Quick, look who's here?”

Everyone looked out in anticipation.

A hundred odd men arrived in front of the ancestral hall.

Luckily, the courtyard was big enough to contain all of them.

When he saw who was heading the group, Michael was astonished beyond belief.

It was Xabian Goel and the other nine heads of South Hampton's royal families.

Behind them, there was still a large entourage.

"Xabian, didn't you say that you could not attend our anniversary meeting? Why have you suddenly come?" Michael approached and asked curiously.

He had earlier invited them because they were part of his local network in South Hampton.

However, all of them rejected his invitation as they felt it inappropriate for outsiders to attend a Jones family anniversary meeting.

And yet, here they were, which confused Michael.

"Hmph! Why should we attend your family's anniversary meeting?" Xabian snorted.

"That's right, what has your family event got to do with us?" Mario of the Hunt family retorted.

Hayden of the Quinn family also sneered, "Michael, do you think we are idiots?"

"This..."

The Goel, Hunt, and Quinn families were the top three of South Hampton's ten royal families.

Therefore, Michael didn't dare offend them.

He carefully pried, "In that case, are you here for someone else?"

“Mmm, of course.”

Xabian and the others walked toward Levi.

Hiss!

The courtyard fell into complete silence again.

The Protector Chapter 877

When Xabian and the others arrived in front of Levi, they too dropped to their knees.

The Joneses felt as if their hearts were going to burst.

Those are South Hampton's finest!

That is the head of the Goel family, Xabian!

It was such a magnificent sight that everyone was enthralled.

Xabian greeted, "The South Hampton's Goel family is honored to see you, Master."

Next, Mario greeted, "The South Hampton's Hunt family is honored to see you, Master."

Then, it was Hayden who greeted, "The South Hampton's Quinn family is honored to see you, Master."

However, that was just the beginning.

One by one, the head of the other families paid their respects to Levi.

Finally, a total of ninety-nine prominent families knelt in front of Levi and greeted him as their master.

Of the hundred prominent families of South Hampton, ninety-nine of them had gathered in front of Levi.

Only the solitary Jones family was left out.

In other words, only the Jones family had not greeted Levi as their Master.

What's going on?

It's unbelievable!

It's just unimaginable!

At that instant, everything Michael believed in was in tatters.

Pfft!

His heart sank as he felt a choking sensation in his throat.

If not for him forcibly suppressing it, he would throw up anytime.

Meanwhile, the entire courtyard was silent, even the sound of breathing was non-existent this time.

Drip! Drip! Drip!

The only sound that could be heard was cold sweat dripping onto the floor as every single member of the Jones family was sweating profusely.

They were so nervous that they were already drenched in sweat.

Even Mia, who knew Levi's identity, was breathing rapidly and had broken into a cold sweat.

She had thought that him being the Master of the Prince Gang was impressive enough.

Little did she expect that was just the beginning.

Except for the Jones family, every other prominent family in South Hampton had recognized him as their master.

It was unbelievably shocking.

The Jones family couldn't believe what they just saw as their hearts beat so furiously that they could explode anytime.

As their breathing increased in pace, their breathlessness made them feel as if they were being suffocated by a rope.

Is that all?

No.

Not yet.

"Mr. Grover Cooke of the Southern Union and his Four Kings are here!"

A shout was heard from outside.

The Protector Chapter 878

Boom!

Michael and the other Joneses were so shocked that they felt as if they had been struck by lightning again.

This time, the Joneses knew that Grover and the Four Kings were here to see Levi too.

The next moment, Grover led the Four Kings inside, followed by the Six Slaves.

The eleven of them walked toward Levi and dropped to their knees in a thud.

As all of them knelt in front of Levi, they greeted in unison, "Mr. Garrison!"

Everyone was stupefied.

Grover is just as famous as Elder Goel.

Even the Four Kings who arrived with him are heroes in their own right.

And yet, they are all kneeling in front of that brat?

This is simply inconceivable.

What is Levi's true identity?

Isn't he a bastard as what the Jones family claims?

It's impossible for a hooligan to be accorded with so much respect.

Meanwhile, Joey, Westley, and all the other Joneses turned to look at Michael.

It was obvious from their gaze that they were asking the same question. Is he really the hooligan that you claim he is?

His status now is already higher than all the Joneses combined.

Despite such influence, Michael had the gall to say that Levi didn't deserve to be part of the Jones family? And that he will never acknowledge Levi?

He even set three conditions for Levi?

Levi's current position is so high that even the Jones family can only aspire to achieve it.

Does he even need the three conditions?

The South Hampton Jones family are a bunch of fools and Michael is the biggest fool of them all!

Joey glared angrily at Michael till his face was red.

All you needed to do was treating him better and he would become one of us.

With his capabilities and network, Levi could lead the Jones family to greater heights.

However, you made a mess of your relationship with him!

If Joey knew the Jones family had tried to assassinate Levi a few times, he would likely have beaten Michael to death with his staff.

As the atmosphere eased, everyone's heavy breathing could be heard.

It was a terrifying experience.

Everything they experienced today would never be forgotten for the rest of their lives.

“Y-Y-You...” Michael stared at Levi for a long while but couldn’t even spit out a single word.

It shocked every single one of the Jones family when they realized many of the previous misunderstandings could now be resolved.

Why Daniel was beaten to a pulp, why Lucas ended up a eunuch, why the Prince Gang was destroyed... up to the fact that the local tyrant Oliver was overthrown, and why the King of Assassins had suddenly disappeared. All these events were linked to Levi.

They had previously thought it was just a coincidence that all the above parties bumped into the God of War. But now, they knew it was all because of Levi.

He alone was strong enough.

“What do you want to ask me?” Levi smiled.

“I told you long ago that I don’t care about the Jones family at all, let alone if you acknowledge me. I’m stronger than all of you! Can’t you see that?”

The Protector Chapter 879

Tyler was the smartest in the Jones family, and he laughed before saying, "I'll admit that you are powerful, even though I don't know why or where you've gotten your power from. The important bit, however, is that the Joneses truly are not a match against you. Unfortunately for you, my family has something up our sleeves. We are supported by someone who is powerful, and everything that you have will be nothing but illusions once he shows up!"

His words made everyone gasp, and they soon regained their composure.

Levi's network and connection had frightened them so much that they had actually forgotten about the guy having their backs. The Joneses had an extremely powerful ally.

Tyler's words served as a reminder to everyone that the Joneses still had the God of War on their side!

Everyone heaved a sigh of relief when such a thought came to mind, as the color gradually returned to their cheeks.

They hadn't lost!

Or rather, the Joneses of South Hampton were just beginning.

"That's right! We have the God of War on our side, so don't you gloat, Levi Garrison."

"Wisdom comes with age, and you are simply too young to fight us," proclaimed Michael, who smiled arrogantly once more.

Joey forgave Michael for the time being.

Everything can be settled, with the God of War on our side.

“Is the God of War here yet? We’re merely minutes away from the opening ceremony,” asked Joey impatiently.

Westley murmured suspiciously, “Will the God of War really show up?”

“Of course. He is the God of War, so he will definitely keep to his word,” defended Michael immediately.

“Then why isn’t he here yet? It’s true that he is tied to his words, but the Joneses truly are too weak to get his attention.”

“He doesn’t need to come if he doesn’t want to. It’s not like you can do anything about it anyway,” reminded Westley, whose words had caused Michael to shiver a little.

He’s right. Regardless of what the God of War has said, the Joneses are still rather weak, when compared to him. He doesn’t need to show up if he doesn’t want to, and there is nothing that we can do about it.

Michael turned to his son at that crucial moment and barked, “Anson, can you get in touch with the God of War? Hurry and ask him where he is right now!”

“Huh? Um...” fumbled Anson awkwardly.

He had been lying the entire time, and he didn’t know the God of War at all! How was he supposed to get in touch with the guy?

Anson cleared his throat and announced awkwardly, “Dad, you might not be aware of this, but the God of War’s daily routines are all top secret. The password to get in touch with him changes every day.”

Michael immediately ordered, “Tyler, call the commander-in-chief right away and ask him why the God of War hasn’t shown up yet.”

The Joneses were all nervous then, and they had begun to sweat, once more.

The Joneses were done for if the God of War wasn’t going to show up.

Joey instructed, "Put it on speakerphone."

"Hello commander-in-chief, I am Tyler Jones of the Jones family. I, uh, I'd like to ask if the God of War has left yet? We don't see him around."

The voice rang up, from the other end of the line, "The God of War has already arrived. Didn't you see him there?"

The Protector Chapter 880

Tyler was so surprised that his hand had slipped, and his phone had fallen onto the ground.

The God of War is here? Why haven't we heard anything about it? I don't see the God of War anywhere. In fact, the only people here are Levi Garrison, the business tycoons of South Hampton, and the members of the Southern Union.

"Commander-in-chief, the God of War is nowhere to be seen. Maybe you made a mistake?" asked Tyler, who couldn't help himself.

"Maybe he's on his way. Let me check."

Michael appeared calmer and insisted, "The God of War is probably already on his way over, Joey."

"Yes, that has to be it. I'll have my people head over to welcome him," added Tyler.

"No, you will all go in person to show him how much we respect him," instructed Michael.

Wallace, Tyler, and the others all went out of the house to welcome the God of War.

"I don't care how powerful you are, Levi Garrison. You are nothing compared to Anson. He is the King of War-Iron Brigade, and he has the God of War watching his back. Your power doesn't matter under such circumstances!" growled Michael.

Joey glared evilly at Michael upon hearing his words. "You... Why must you speak in such a manner? Must you make an enemy out of him? He is your grandson, your biological grandson, and our blood runs in his very veins! He is also a member of our family, so why are you being so mean?" scolded Joey, before he turned to Levi and added, "Kid, the previous incident is merely a misunderstanding. They had only acted that way because they weren't aware of who you were. If they had known your true identity, they would've treated you differently and they might've even trained you to become the next head of the family. You silly kid, why did you keep your identity a secret? You could've told us the truth from the beginning."

Joey's intentions were simple.

He had wanted to appease Levi, clear all rifts, and convince him to join the Jones family.

He got the business tycoons in South Hampton to see him as their leader, and if the family could merge with a power like that, it would definitely benefit both sides greatly. The Jones family would definitely rise to become one of the top families of the country.

Naturally, Joey didn't want to let go of an opportunity like that.

"He's right. I was wrong earlier and I didn't see how talented you were. Why didn't you inform me of your true identity earlier? I would've gone to welcome you in person," announced Michael immediately. He caught what Joey was thinking and planning.

Levi chuckled.

"And what if I were not as powerful as I am now? Would you still take me in as a member of your family? Would you still welcome me with open arms, Michael?"

"I..." fumbled Michael, who didn't quite know what to say.

Joey was stumped as well.

If Levi weren't as powerful as he was, everyone would continue treating him like a bastard.

"Hmph, let me share something with you. The Jones family means nothing to me!"

Tyler, Wales, and the others returned at that moment.

"Huh? Is the God of War already here?"

The Protector Chapter 881

Michael immediately looked ahead, with hope burning in his eyes, but he was soon disappointed.

The God of War wasn't there, and Tyler and the others were the ones who had arrived, along with a servant.

The servant had a gift box with him.

The Joneses thought that the box looked quite familiar, but they couldn't quite remember where they had seen it before.

"What's going on, Tyler? Didn't I ask you guys to go and welcome the God of War? Why did you return with this?" asked Michael.

"Calm down, grandpa. This guy is not an ordinary guy. He is the God of War's messenger and he is here with the God of War's gift to us."

Tyler's words got Michael excited.

He quickly rushed over to check it out.

Anything related to the God of War, even a stinky dog, would be viewed as a luxury, in his eyes.

Michael would have gone on his knees to accept the gift if he had needed to.

“Sir, what did the God of War have you deliver over?” asked Michael.

“An ancient relic. A bronze sword,” replied the man calmly.

“Huh? A bronze sword?”

The Joneses took a closer look and realized that it was the same sword that the Jones family had gifted the God of War, back some time ago.

That was good news, because if the sword was there, then the God of War had to be close-by as well.

Levi Garrison would mean nothing, when the God of War were to arrive.

He can either join the family and contribute accordingly, or he can rot in hell!

The Joneses were all ecstatic to see that.

“Sir, may I know why the God of War had you deliver the bronze sword over in advance?”

The Joneses guessed that the sword was meant to signal the arrival of the God of War before the real deal had shown up.

The man holding the box ignored them. He looked around and scanned the surroundings before he suddenly walked over to Levi.

Boom!

That gesture sent a dangerous message that had almost frightened Michael and Joey so much that they had fallen onto their knees.

Is the bronze sword a gift to Levi? How does he know the God of War?

As they pondered on this thought, the delivery man approached Levi and presented the box politely.

Levi opened the box and took the bronze sword out to swing it around a little.

The somewhat rusty artefact suddenly turned strangely bright, as it soon appeared powerful.

T-that gift is for Levi? H-how does he know the God of War? Or does it mean that the God of War is here?

They thought about how Levi had seemed to know everything about Anson and the Iron Brigade.

Is Levi a member of the Iron Brigade?

Wales couldn't help but scold Levi when the former saw the latter play with the sword, "Oy, what are you doing, Levi Garrison? That bronze sword is a gift from the Jones family to the God of War, and you have no right to play with it like that!"

"He's right! Put it down. You have no right to do that," chimed in the other Joneses.

Levi kept playing with the sword. He chuckled and asked, "There's a question that you guys should really think about."

"And what is that?"

"Could it be that I am the God of War?"

The Protector Chapter 882

Levi's words rained heavily on the Joneses' parade, and it was as though he was trying to administer the Joneses a heart attack.

The Joneses turned quiet instantly.

Their expression froze, their minds went blank, and their irises constricted. It was as almost as if their souls had suddenly left their bodies.

Levi's question was simply too overwhelming.

The Joneses couldn't even imagine the dire consequences they would face if what Levi had claimed was true.

It would be total annihilation, and they didn't want to think about it. They didn't dare to either.

"You? The God of War? Please... Aren't you afraid of offending the real deal?" mocked Wales, who immediately voiced out his suspicion.

Tyler laughed and shared his analysis as well, "Levi Garrison, you are powerful. In fact, you are so good that you have even crushed the Goel family. However, you being the God of War? That is simply impossible. You were imprisoned for six years, and that took you out of the equation, because the God of War rose to power while you were still in prison. I'm guessing that you had met some powerful gangster when you were in prison. That is why you are as powerful as you are now. The business tycoons only follow your tunes because they are afraid of the gangster that you had met in prison. Am I right?"

Levi's power was something that Tyler couldn't make sense of, nor understand.

The only rational explanation that he could come up with, was that Levi had met someone powerful while in prison.

The other members of the Jones family accepted that analysis as well.

After all, they didn't want, or dare to accept any other alternative.

This was seemingly apparent, as they didn't want to accept the bit where Levi might have been the God of War.

Levi laughed aloud and exclaimed, "You're smarter than you appear. You're right. I was given an opportunity while I was imprisoned."

A secret government department chose Levi and took him away while he was in prison.

In a way, he met someone powerful in prison; someone who had raised him to the top.

"You're pretty good. You've managed to get in touch with the God of War even though you've possessed a criminal record," pronounced Tyler as he grinned, "However, the Jones family is still slightly more powerful than you are! Even if we ignore the God of War's close relationship with our family, my uncle, Anson, is still a subordinate who works directly beneath the God of War! That alone trumps any connection that you might have formed with the God of War."

Levi grinned, as he shifted his gaze towards Anson, who was trembling at that very moment.

“Alright then, I’ll wait and see how terribly I will end,” mocked Levi, before he continued playing with the sword.

The Jones family, on the other hand, continued waiting nervously for the God of War to show up.

They were drowning in anxiety, when they finally heard footsteps coming.

Wallace stood at the front and had his head down, as he welcomed the few men standing behind him.

The Joneses instantly recognized one of the men.

It was the Commander-in-chief of the South Hampton Warzone, Clark Pond.

If that guy is there, then the God of War has to be in close proximity as well!

About five other men were standing beside Clark, and they were the Five Great Wars Regiment, serving under the God of War.

However, the Joneses didn’t know any of them and assumed that one of them was the God of War.

“The God of War is finally here!” announced Michael happily.

Joey and the other superiors of the Jones family walked up to welcome everyone, but were unfortunately ignored by Clark and the rest, who walked towards another man instead.

That man was Levi!

The Protector Chapter 883

“No way... Could it be...?”

A bad feeling crept up, upon Michael and the others.

They thought that one of the six men was the God of War, but that had turned out to be untrue.

The insignia on their shoulders suggested that they were five Kings of War instead.

Five Kings of War... Everyone quickly thought about the Five Great Wars Regiment who had served directly under the God of War.

All the Joneses had their eyes on Clark and the others, as they strode towards Levi.

As suspected, the men stopped in front of Levi and greeted simultaneously, “Greetings, God of War.”

Boom!

It felt as though lightning had filled the sky and tore everything apart.

Tyler was flabbergasted.

Wallace was left in shock.

Joey was stunned.

Michael was lost.

...

Over a thousand members of the Jones family had acted as though they had been struck by lightning.

They stood there, petrified, like they had been turned into stones.

The light in their eyes had diminished, as their minds had gone blank.

They were practically mindless zombies at that moment.

Six Kings of War, with five of them being the Five Great Wars Regiment... No one could get them to greet him like that... No one, except the God of War!

Levi Garrison was the God of War!

That was the truth, and it could not change, no matter how much they had wished it could.

Levi grinned and ordered, "Go and get a chair for me. I'm tired."

Levi's words got everyone to turn their gazes to the chair, placed in front of the ancestral shrine.

They still remembered how Levi had requested for that seat, when Michael was arranging the chairs.

Back then, the Joneses had stopped Levi from sitting on that chair and had even mocked him endlessly.

At that moment, it looked like no one else would dare to take that seat, all except for Levi.

After all, it was prepared solely for him.

Azure Dragon quickly grabbed the chair and placed it by Levi's side.

Levi sat down and chuckled, "I told you that this seat was reserved for me, but you lot had refused to believe it."

"Urgh!"

A sweetness spread across Michael's mouth, and he couldn't hold it in anymore. He literally spat out blood.

Thump!

Wallace, on the other hand, had fallen onto the floor, after his feet had softened, giving way to the ground.

Tyler knelt down as well, and so did Wales.

Their scalps felt tingly, as though their brains were about to explode.

Levi Garrison is the God of War!

Their worst nightmare had come true, and they couldn't believe that it actually was real.

Recalling the past incidents, they realized that they were wrong, even from the very beginning.

A guy who could control the business tycoons of South Hampton and the Southern Union couldn't be an ordinary guy, and a gangster couldn't pull something that crazy off.

Moreover, if a gangster were capable of all of that, he would have been too powerful to have been thrown in prison, in the first place!

Tyler felt his scalp going numb when he suddenly made that connection.

Ugh, and Levi's six years in jail, that is, his six years of being out of the public's eyes, coincided with the God of War's rise to power!

The timeline had matched perfectly! Why didn't I think of that sooner?

Tyler smacked his own head.

"Urgh!"

Tyler spat blood as well.

The Protector Chapter 884

It was simply too scary, and that prompted them to turn a blind eye to all the signs.

Why did the King of Assassins go missing all of a sudden? An ordinary man could not have destroyed a man like that.

Lucas was destroyed, the Prince Gang was crushed, and even the head of the Goel family, who had remained powerful in South Hampton for over fifty years, was defeated in South City...

Every single one of those incidents suggested that Levi was the God of War.

Michael stared at Levi in disbelief. The former then asked, "B-back then, the warlord, Elijah, s-shouldn't have captured you."

"Hahahaha..."

The other Joneses laughed aloud, and so did Elijah, the warlord.

They laughed at Michael's misfortune because he couldn't have guessed that the guy he had chosen to take the fall, was none other than the God of War himself.

"No wonder you've never accepted any invitation from the Jones family. It's because they're not worthy of your attention. You weren't being proud. We were merely too weak to make it to your radar."

Michael laughed pitifully. He had already turned pale by then.

Every question that the Joneses had, like why the bronze sword they gifted the God of War suddenly showed up with Levi, was already answered.

It turned out that the God of War was never on their side.

They were merely helped, because Levi was one of their blood-related relatives. The others who had been nice to the Joneses got them to assume that the God of War was on their side.

The help that they had received, plus the fact that Anson was the Iron Brigade, had pushed them into thinking that they were in alliance with the God of War...

Wait, something isn't right. Didn't Anson say that he was the God of War's right-hand man?

Over a thousand pairs of eyes shifted to Anson.

Anson was trembling at that moment, and he had his head so low that it looked like he was hiding his tears.

He knew that his lies would be exposed, as soon as the God of War had arrived.

He was never a King of War. In fact, he wasn't even a foot soldier. He was a deserter and a captive.

"What the hell is wrong with you, Anson? Why aren't you coming over to greet the God of War?" scolded Joey.

Anson was curled up, currently trembling at the side.

He didn't dare to even take a step forward.

“W-what is wrong with you? Aren’t you the King of War, also known as the Iron Brigade?” asked Joey and the others. Everyone was nervously waiting.

“Let me tell you guys the truth. Anson is a military deserter who was captured by the enemy. The real Iron Brigade had rescued him, before locking him up because he had almost spilled military secrets,” shared Levi with a smile.

“Huh? You’re a deserter? No wonder your uniform doesn’t have any insignias.”

“You’re a military deserter? How did our family produce a shameless idiot like you?” roared Michael, before he strode forward with his walking cane and beat Anson up.

Anson was their last hope of getting out of their troubles in one piece, but that hope was never there.

“Stop hitting him already. The other members of the Jones family aren’t that honorable either. Now, what do we do about you trying to assassinate me?” asked Levi suddenly.

The Protector Chapter 885

Boom!

Hearing that question at that moment got Michael's vision to turn dark, and he had almost passed out.

The God of War is making us answer for our crimes!

Thump!

Michael got on his knees, and the other members of the South Hampton Jones family soon followed suit. They fell to their knees, one after the other.

Calvin and Mia were on their knees as well.

Unlike the other members of the Jones family, Calvin was actually a little excited.

His daughter had always trusted Levi, and she was the only one who Levi had seen to be family.

Does that mean that my future will be bright? At the very least, they would have to promote me within the family and no one would dare to offend me. After all, my daughter is the God of War's family member!

"My sweet Mia, I will never learn to be as good as you in judging others," praised Calvin.

“No, dad, I am good at judging others. You guys are simply too narrow-minded. You only have your eyes on profits. Levi is related to us, after all, and he should be treated as a part of the family. I didn’t know who he was earlier either,” replied Mia.

That was when Calvin learned a very important lesson. The kind ones will always be protected in this world.

“A-assassinate?”

Joey’s eyes bulged so much that they had almost flown out of his sockets.

That Michael is too crazy! He had actually tried to kill the God of War?

“That’s right. There were two attempts. He hired the King of Assassins from overseas to carry the mission out. He also came after my wife twice!” Levi threw forth, calmly.

Joey fumed and rushed to Michael upon hearing that.

Bang! Bang! Bang!

Joey’s cane landed mercilessly on Michael’s head, and the dragon-shaped handle of the cane made Michael begin to bleed.

Joey didn’t stop, even after all of that.

“I also heard that you’ve searched for your grandson just to send him off to the warlord, Elijah, to be tortured! Are you even human? Are you trying to destroy the entire family?” growled Joey, as he caned Michael like a lunatic.

Levi soon caught sight of Mia, who was standing there, and he smiled before saying, "Mia, come over. You don't need to be on your knees."

Mia walked to Levi while everyone else watched.

Levi moved aside so that Mia could have a seat.

Envy.

Everyone on site was envious of the lady who had been offered a seat, right beside the God of War.

What a great honor she has received!

The Joneses from South Hampton were stunned.

They had always bullied Mia, but she had become the most powerful individual in the family.

Calvin also started regretting his decision.

Would things have been even better if I hadn't stopped her from being nice to him?

Endless regret filled Calvin's heart.

"The Joneses tried to kill me twice and troubled my wife twice as well. How shall we settle the score?" asked Levi calmly.

Levi's words did not match his calm tone, and they were as domineering as they could get.

Thump!

Joey was the first one to get down on his knees.

Westley and the other thousand Joneses got down as well.

That was no longer the South Hampton's Jones family's issue.

The fate of all the Joneses of Erudia hung on the balance, at that very moment.

“God of War, we admit our crimes and we are willing to receive our punishment. All we ask is that you let our children go, so that our bloodline doesn't end,” pleaded Joey.

The Protector Chapter 886

Levi laughed boisterously. "Aren't you Joneses from a noble bloodline? Why are you on your knees now? I honestly feel like whipping you, just to see how you would bleed."

Throughout his life, the Joneses had claimed that their bloodline was noble, as they repeatedly called him a bastard, whose blood was tainted by a lower-class clan.

Levi had always felt repulsed by such a saying.

Suddenly, a sob was heard.

Westley's grandson, Aiden, cried instantly out of fear.

Just a moment ago, he was the one who had talked to Levi about having noble blood.

"Aren't you guys crazy proud? Why are you bowing down to a bastard like me now, huh?" mocked Levi with a grin.

"We were wrong! Please forgive us."

Over a thousand members of the Jones family were on their knees now, fervently begging for mercy.

They banged their heads on the floor to beg, so much so that their heads were bleeding soon after.

All they had asked was for, was for Levi to show mercy to their kids. They had simply wanted their bloodline to survive.

Everyone turned silent in the next second.

They were waiting for Levi to come to a verdict.

Mia suddenly spoke up. “Levi, please show us some mercy. Won’t you give everyone an easier punishment? We are a family, after all...”

Levi grinned and promised, “Alright, I’ll go easy on them for your sake.”

Levi then turned to Michael and asked, “Michael Jones, will you confess to your crimes and accept your punishments?”

“Yes, I confess! And I’ll accept any punishment, even the death penalty.”

“I am not interested in your life. However, I do want you to forgo your position as the head of the family. Mia will take over your position from today onwards, and no one is to complain about it!”

All it took was one word from Levi, to take Michael’s position away and hand it over to his least favorite granddaughter.

As far as Michael was concerned, that was worse than death.

Unfortunately, that was the God of War’s order, and Michael had no choice but to obey.

The other members of the Jones family stared on, in utter astonishment.

Mia Jones, the one who has always been bullied by the family, is the new head of the family?

No one could accept that, but they had no choice but to comply.

Mia was flabbergasted as well.

Me? As the head of the family?

“Mia, I’ve investigated you, and you are strategic, smart, and hardworking. You have everything it takes to do this. Also, you can continue to be kind, despite your new position. I will help you in chasing all of the darkness away,” promised Levi before he turned to Tyler and the rest, “All three of you had hired assassins to kill me and that alone was enough to subject you to death sentence. However, I will spare you and instead, sentence you to life in prison!”

“Urgh!”

“Urgh!”

...

Quite a few people vomited blood at that moment.

Karma arrived too swiftly, and their punishment was worse than death itself.

“Anson Jones, you had faked your identity and had claimed to be a King of War. For that, I will rescind your right to be a member of the Jones family. You are on your own now,” added Levi before he continued, “Westley Jones, you had tried to ambush me using dirty tricks, so you must be punished as well. You will donate half of your estate to charity, and I will have my people monitor everything. So, don’t bother trying to get out of it. The rest of the family members will have to donate as well, and I will monitor everything.”

...

What happened next was that Levi had begun to punish every sinner within the family.

They were fortunate, because Levi wasn’t a bloodthirsty monster.

If he were, more than half the Joneses would be dead.

Levi suddenly recalled something, and he couldn’t help ask, “By the way, why did all of you call me a bastard?”

The Protector Chapter 887

“Huh? That...”

All of the Joneses were scared out of their minds.

Are we going to be further punished?

“No, no, we were wrong, please forgive us!” pleaded Michael, who was on the verge of crying.

If only I had taken the boy in as my grandson... Things would've been so great. Why didn't I treasure that opportunity?

“I am simply asking you a question! My mother is your daughter, Emma Jones, but you had called me a bastard, so my biological father must have been the one whom you had hated, right?” asked Levi.

Levi had always been curious about that.

It made sense that the others would call him a bastard, but even the Joneses had called him that.

That part was strange.

After all, my mom is a member of the Jones family after all.

Michael scanned his surroundings before asking, "God of War, can we speak privately?"

Michael had thought that there were too many people around.

"Okay," agreed Levi.

Both men walked to a secluded corner after that.

"God of War, I will now tell you a bit about your mother. She was the most talented and powerful amongst the rest of my children, and I spared no expense, to train her to become the next head of the family. I set everything up for her and had even arranged her marriage, but she went to Oakland City right before her wedding and returned pregnant, with you. I was so furious that I had almost killed her..."

Michael paused when he reached that part of the story. He snuck a peek at Levi, and when he saw that the latter wasn't angry, he continued, "I asked her who the father was, but she refused to say anything, not even after I had laid a hand on her. The wedding I had arranged for her was about to take place when her suitor learned that she was pregnant! Rumor spread across the entire city. Everyone knew that your mother had fallen pregnant out of wedlock and that the father of her child was not her fiancé. Hence, they called the baby a bastard. She had brought shame to the family, and I had chased her out of the family, in a fit of anger. That is why the Joneses view you as their enemy. This isn't about you. They are angry at your mother."

Levi then asked, "Tell me, was my mother okay with you arranging her marriage?"

"She wasn't thrilled... Okay, she wasn't happy about it at all. She had said that she had wanted to fight for her own happiness and marry someone whom she loved. She had also claimed that she was willing to forgo everything, even her life, to be with your father," murmured Michael.

“Then she is not at fault! You are,” growled Levi cruelly.

*How is it wrong to fight for her own happiness? Why do the others think that it's right to call her a b*tch for that? Furthermore, how does that make her son a bastard?*

Levi's heart stirred.

He finally understood that his mother had her reason for not looking for him.

Her life had been terrible, and she was no better off than he was.

“Is my mother still alive?”

The Protector Chapter 888

Initially, Levi wasn't concerned about his birth parents at all.

They didn't come looking for him, so he pretended that they didn't exist either.

Everyone could have acted like the strangers that they were meant to be.

After hearing his mother's sorrowful tale, Levi became touched and soon, his heart was stirred.

They had their reasons for abandoning me!

That made Levi curious about his parents.

"Yeah, she's alive, but her life is worse than death," replied Michael.

My mother is living in a terrible condition?

Levi's eyes darkened.

He endured his hardship and rose to the top, but his mother might not have been able to do as he had.

In fact, she might still be suffering right now!

Michael's words gripped Levi's heart, and it ached.

"A life worse than death? What is that supposed to mean?" demanded Levi.

“We had thought that your birth father was merely an ordinary man and that your mother had gotten in bed with a random stranger to get pregnant, to disrupt the wedding. As it turned out, your birth father was a powerful man as well! The Joneses were not a match against him, in fact, even the most powerful family in South Hampton, the Goel family, was mere ants to him. Even now, all we know, is that he is from Oakland City and that his surname is Garrison,” claimed Michael as he sighed.

“Huh? Even you can’t learn anything about him?” blurted Levi, who was rather delighted to hear about it.

The Jones family was pretty prominent, yet they couldn’t even get much information about the guy.

Is my birth father really that powerful? I should have Phoenix look into the matter and see just how powerful he is.

“Keep talking,” ordered Levi.

“Not long after I’d chased your mother out of the family, an elite fighter visited the Joneses and killed over a hundred of our men. As it turned out, he had just arrived to warn me not to contact your birth mother ever again. He said that if I had done so, the entire family would have been annihilated too. He also ordered us to keep the news about your mother’s pregnancy a secret. We were not to let anyone else find out about it. What’s strange, is that after that night, South Hampton lost all traces of your mother’s existence. It was as if she was never here in the first place!” shared Michael sadly.

Hmm... He can cover up a trending rumor within a night. That is pretty impressive.

“My birth father did all that?” asked Levi.

“Yes, or to be more accurate, your birth father’s family did that. Their motive was simple. Your birth father’s family was too powerful, and as far as they were concerned, your mother was no different from an unworthy villager. She would have simply brought shame to their family if she had married into it. I still remember the exact message that individual had sent both me and your mother,” explained Michael as he laughed mockingly at himself.

“He said... Emma Jones, you are from a horrid bloodline and you are not worthy of my son or my family. You will never be my daughter-in-law, so you can forget all about it! Also, the child in your womb is nothing but a bastard. Giving birth to him will merely taint my family’s legacy.”

The Protector Chapter 889

Boom!

Michael sensed a horrifying aura, as soon as he had finished speaking.

Levi was furious.

*Bloodline again? What freaking noble bloodline is this now? Also, how do they even divide humans? I don't give a sh*t about all the other countries, but everyone in Erudia is born equal! Everyone has a head and two arms, don't we? What? They have an extra one or something? And how is their blood nobler? It's not like they bleed gold! Freaking hell, I will murder every idiot who talks about bloodlines from now on!*

“Continue,” instructed Levi.

“It was obvious that your birth father’s family were discriminated against your mother and they had refused to allow her to marry into the family. It didn’t matter that she was pregnant at the time. They refused to let her join the family, and they certainly weren’t going to recognize the child as one of their own. Your birth father’s family only had one mission after that; and that was to make your mother experience a miscarriage. They refused to allow the child to be born because, as far as they were concerned, the tainted bastard had no right to live,” relayed Michael.

Levi chuckled.

Oh, so I was almost killed before I was born, huh?

“What happened next? Why didn’t my mom get an abortion?” asked Levi.

“Your mom begged them to let you live and fought to give birth to you. She had even claimed that she was willing to kill herself so that you could live. All she ever wanted was for them to let you live. Your birth father's family later requested for your mom to kneel in front of their house for three continuous days. Only then did they agree to spare both you and your mother's life."

...

Levi felt tears swirling in his eyes when he heard that part of the story.

Every parent loved their child, and they would not abandon their child unless they didn't have a choice in the matter.

There is no such thing as a heartless parent. Hell, even a cruel tiger won't eat its own cub.

At that moment, Levi understood that his mother had never abandoned him. It was quite the opposite. She sacrificed everything for him.

Evidently, his mother's greatest gift to him was his life and making sure that he had survived.

She would even sacrifice her life just so I could live.

"Mother..." murmured Levi as his lips trembled. He then asked, "What happened next?"

"Your mother actually knelt in front of the house, and the Gods showed no mercy. It rained heavily for three whole days, and your mother was drenched the entire time. She persisted and survived through it, but her body had also reached its limit," shared Michael, who was also tearing up, as he recalled the painful past. Despite everything, she was still his daughter.

"After that incident, she was left with dozens of medical complications that couldn't be completely treated. She aged a decade within three days, and her muscles would ache, every time it rained. The doctor said that the trauma her body had endured had shortened her life span by about thirty years..." admitted Michael, who couldn't keep going.

"Mother!" blurted Levi as he clenched his fists.

The Protector Chapter 890

A pregnant lady had kneeled under the heavy rain for three continuous days!

How strong did she have to be, to kneel for so long under those circumstances?

She had gone through all of that, just to protect her child.

That was unimaginable and unbelievable.

A weak woman would turn strong when she became a mother.

That was just how a mother was.

She was merely an ordinary mother amongst the thousands of mothers on Earth.

It seemed that parents could transform into heavenly angels when their kids were threatened.

A parent would keep the sky afloat just to shelter their children. There are no gods in this world, but there are plenty of regular parents who would do anything for their children.

Michael wiped his tears aside and continued, "In the end, your birth father's family kept to the end of their bargain, to allow both you and your mother live, but they had one condition."

“Huh? What was it?” asked Levi.

“You were allowed to be born, but your mother must not have been one who would raise you. Instead, you were to be abandoned, to the street, and your mother was not to contact you at all. Their reasoning was simple. The kid must not have been traced back to their family. They had cut the ties from the source so that you would remain nothing but an orphan, abandoned by both of your parents. Your mother had to agree to their terms so that you could live. After giving birth to you, she abandoned you at a random spot. We didn’t think that you’d end up on the streets of North Hampton, adopted by members of the Garrison family who had lived there.”

“Mother...” whispered Levi as he clenched his fists.

He stomped his foot in anger, and the marble floor under their feet had cracked. The spider-web-like pattern spread across the floor, until every inch was practically shattered. The scary bit was that over a hundred men could stand on the floor without damaging it, but Levi’s stomp had managed to do as such.

The mere sight of Levi’s strength surprised Michael and the others.

Is he even human?

Levi was touched to know that his mother did so much just so he could live.

It could be said that she had dedicated her entire life to him.

They hadn’t seen each other in decades, but that only happened so he could merely survive.

He truly believed that his mother was living in a random corner of the Earth, missing him dearly, everyday.

She must miss her birth son a lot, especially after such a long while.

“What happened to my mother afterwards? I’m guessing that the Garrison family of Oakland City wouldn’t have allowed her to leave that easily?” asked Levi.

“You’re right about that. To keep your identity a secret, they had to remove all traces of your existence, and the same goes for your mother. The Garrison family hated loose ends. What if your mother showed up at the family manor one day or suddenly decided to announce her existence? The Garrison family didn’t want that to happen, and they refused to risk it!” informed Michael.

“So? What did they do?” demanded Levi as he held his breath.

Michael replied, “They imprisoned your mother and allowed her to rot there. To make matters worse, she was imprisoned for life and she was not allowed to take one step out of that place!”

The Protector Chapter 891

Levi hissed before he growled, "That is truly cruel!"

"The Garrison family locked your mother up, to keep her away from the rest of the world. They wanted to make it seem like your mother had never existed, so that she would never appear to have had any connections with their family," informed Michael.

"And my mom just stayed put and never stepped out of the city?" asked Levi.

From what he had come to learn about his mother, there was no way that Emma Jones would ever come to fear death.

She is the kind of person who would ignore everything and come looking for me, anyway. The fact that she never did, meant that there was another issue.

"She had never left because the Garrison family had placed a tombstone in the yard, where your mother had lived," announced Michael.

"A tombstone? Whose grave is it?" asked Levi, who didn't understand what Michael had meant.

"Yours. The name carved on the tombstone is Levi Garrison. The tombstone served to remind your mother that if she ever dared to step out of the place, the Garrison family would hunt you down and kill you. It prevented her from searching for you, or from exposing the Garrison family's secret," answered Michael.

"Oh, the Garrison family is cruel indeed," commented Levi, who couldn't help but crack his knuckles.

"That is why you and your mother's identity was never exposed, even though it has been decades. It was as if the Garrison family never had any connections to either one of you," informed Michael as he grinned bitterly.

Levi suddenly thought of something, and he couldn't help but ask, "And what about my birth father? What did he do while my mother was suffering? Why didn't he stop them? How is he okay with my mom kneeling in the rain for three continuous days, getting imprisoned for the rest of her life? My mom loved him, didn't she? So he must have loved her dearly as well, right?"

Levi was curious about what his biological dad had done, the entire time.

"Your father remained silent, throughout the entire incident. He let his family take care of matters, while he stood at the side and ignored everything. He watched, as your mother suffered, and he never once voiced up for her," responded Michael to Levi.

Levi's fist clenched, and fury burned in his soul when he heard that.

How can my biological father be that cruel? What kind of man is he? And to think that my mother had loved him so much.

"The reason he had kept silent was simple. He was the sole heir of his family, and if he had spoken on behalf of your mother, his family would have taken away his rights to inherit everything. Hell, they might have even disowned him. That is why he had chosen to remain quiet, merely standing idly by. All that, just for his personal gain and money!" insulted Michael.

Boom!

Levi was so angry that he had gone borderline insane, upon hearing what Michael had said.

My mother was willing to die for me, whereas that ahole abandoned his family for money?

The Protector Chapter 892

How can anyone be that cruel? Mom was too blinded by love and she didn't see him right. A man like that is not worthy of her love! She had gotten pregnant because of him, and she had given birth to his son, while he remained distant and ignored everything!

"What about after? Did he visit my mother even once?" demanded Levi.

"No, not even once. Naturally, the Garrison family wouldn't allow him to do so, even if he had wanted to," informed Michael.

"Hmph, as expected. It would be weird if a guy like him had actually visited," growled Levi.

"Let me share something else with you. Your birth father had married another woman and had started another family right after his family had finished dealing with both you and your mother," muttered Michael, whose words had succeeded in getting Levi's jaw to drop.

"What? He had married another woman and had another child?" blurted Levi in disbelief.

"Hmph, that's right. If I've done the proper calculations, the child should be merely two years younger than you. The woman he had married was the daughter of another wealthy family, and the Garrison family regarded their marriage as the unification of two noble bloodlines. They supposedly had the best genes and had produced the most powerful heir!" scoffed Michael.

Michael knew that Levi had hated it, when others had spoken about noble blood, so the former deliberately used those words.

"Noble bloodline my a! We're all just humans, aren't we? What? Can that ahole fly or something?" roared Levi.

Bang!

Levi was so angry that he had punched a boulder at the side, successfully pulverizing it.

Michael was stunned, because Levi was truly furious at that moment.

It's bad enough that the man had abandoned both his lover and his child, but marrying another woman and having another child immediately after? That is merely infuriating!

Levi had never felt anger like that before.

It has been decades! Has he no conscience? Does he even remember that he has a child whom he has abandoned, along with a woman who is suffering because of him?

"Just you wait. I, Levi Garrison, swear that I will find you. I will have you answer to all the pain and suffering that my mother has endured!" swore Levi, as his eyes shone with determination.

Sooner or later, I will kick the Garrison family's front door down, and I will take my mother with me. We will stand in front of that monster and make him regret everything he has done!

"By the way, do you know where my mother is locked up?" asked Levi, who had desperately wanted to meet his mother.

Michael shook his head and replied, "I don't know where she is either. I only know that she is locked up, but the Garrison family won't tell us the exact location."

"Fine, I will investigate on my own. She is Levi Garrison's mother, and she can go anywhere that she wants! No one would dare to stop her," announced Levi, as his entire body exuded a domineering aura. It was the type of aura that could be the reality itself.

Michael would assume that the guy was bullsh*tting, if he were anyone else, but the guy standing right there was Levi Garrison.

No one dared to question his words and his promise.

The Joneses' anniversary meeting ended, after Levi and Michael had returned.

Everyone left.

Levi had Phoenix locate his mother's prison after that.

The Protector Chapter 893

Phoenix started looking for Emma Jones immediately after that.

"It is a little tough to crack. Someone covered everything up to prevent anyone from locating her. This will take some time," admitted Phoenix as he frowned.

Levi gritted his teeth.

My birth father's family truly is powerful. The fact that Phoenix is having trouble tracing everything, can only mean that the Garrisons had done an impressive job covering everything up.

Levi strode around Edburg Manor and asked Mia to show him the place where his mother had used to reside in.

It was a small, separated villa.

Everything inside was fine, and it was clear that it had been cleaned regularly.

"Grandpa had actually loved Aunt Emma the most, and he had kept everything in her room maintained," explained Mia as she sighed.

Levi didn't reply.

He understood that Michael was a father after all, and that Michael had only treated Emma so poorly because he was afraid of the Garrison family from Oakland City.

Levi scanned every corner of the place, to find a trace of his mother's past.

She is Levi Garrison's mother after all, and she has to be welcomed. Anyone who had dared to imprison her is an enemy of the God of War!

Levi was lost in his thoughts while sitting in that room, when Zoey had suddenly called him.

Zoey was still furious about the incident, but she was also worried that the Joneses might have bullied Levi, so she called to ask how he was faring.

"The anniversary meeting is over, right? When will you be home?" asked Zoey, whose tone remained distant.

However, Levi grinned when he heard that, because it was evident, that she was worried about him.

"I have to deal with some matters here, but I will be back soon."

"That's fine. I'm hanging up now."

Zoey hung up without saying or wasting another word.

Levi's grin became brighter. That idiot of mine is obviously still upset.

Just then, an incident happened at the Edburg Manor's front door.

Eight men carried a coffin and walked in.

Bang!

The coffin was placed at the front door.

The Joneses' security guard rushed over and had the men surrounded immediately. "Oy, what are you guys doing here?"

The security guard soon caught the emblem engraved on the men's uniform, making the security guard begin to tremble.

The emblem signified a powerful family in South Hampton.

"Tell the b*stard, Levi Garrison, that the Gonzales family has given his mother, the b*tch, Emma Jones, a coffin. They wish her a lifetime of suffering, and for her to continue being a b*tch in her next life!" announced the leader of the men, who had carried the coffin.

The men left immediately, upon delivering both the message and the gift.

The security guards were flabbergasted, as they stared at the coffin dubiously.

*Someone actually gave Emma Jones a coffin and had called Levi a b*stard?*

The Joneses had learned of Levi's true identity by then, so they were all rightfully terrified.

No one knew what dire consequences were awaiting the people who had sent the coffin and insulted the man.

The security guards turned to one another before they ran in to deliver the message.

"Something terrible has happened!"

"Something terrible has happened!"

...

Troubled screams echoed throughout the Edburg Manor.

That was definitely a terrible situation that had to be reported, without any form of delay.

Michael soon received the news, and he went to Levi immediately.

"God of War, something terrible has happened..." informed Michael, in a grim manner.

The Protector Chapter 894

Levi asked, "What's going on?"

"Come with me!" Michael led him to the front gates of the house.

Seeing the coffin that lay beside the gate, Levi's eyes grew cold. He demanded, "What is the meaning of this? Is this for me?"

"No, it's for your mother! They had said..." Here, Michael hesitated and shook with fright, too afraid to repeat what he had heard just now.

"Say it!" Levi ordered, raising his voice in a menacing manner.

Gritting his teeth, Michael replied, "The Gonzales' had arrived with a message for you, their bastard child Levi Garrison. They've sent your mother this coffin to congratulate her on being a wretch, and they had mentioned that they would pray that she would continue to be a wretch in her next life!"

Immediately, everyone felt the tension in the room rise.

The temperature seemed to drop by a few degrees Celsius.

A chill shot down the spines of the onlookers.

Levi stared frostily at Michael. "Back then, you had arranged for a marriage between my mother and the son of the Gonzales family, right?"

Michael nodded. "That's right. I had betrothed your mother to Klaus Gonzales, back when she was still alive."

“When Klaus Gonzales had discovered that your mother was pregnant, he had nearly killed her. He had announced her pregnancy to the whole of South Hampton and had humiliated your mother for being a sl*t and an adulteress. He had even told everyone that you were a bastard child.”

“When news of your mother’s pregnancy got out, your mother and the Jones family became the butt of South Hampton’s cruel jokes. Every day, people would leave all sorts of trash outside our house, vandalizing our walls with filthy words...”

“At that time, the Jones family had lost all respect in South Hampton, and your mother was their biggest source of their shame. Whenever she appeared in public, people would hurl vulgarities and even throw things at her.”

Levi sucked in a deep breath. “So all of this has been caused by the Gonzales family?”

“Exactly! When he had found out that your mother was pregnant, Klaus Gonzales had only one thing on his mind—to destroy both your mother and the Joneses! He would have liked nothing more than to see your mother become the shame of South Hampton, and for everyone to remember her as a wh*re!” Michael announced.

Levi mused aloud, “How cruel! He had put her through so much physical and mental torture.”

“If the Garrison family hadn’t issued a stern warning, your mother’s story would still be floating around in the city today!” Michael admitted.

Levi changed the topic. “So now Klaus Gonzales wants to change the target of his anger, and use me to carry out his revenge instead?”

Michael looked down and shook slightly. “As far as we know, that’s probably the case. The Gonzales family are aware that you have returned, so they’re taking this chance to get their revenge on you!”

Michael laughed silently to himself.

What a pity! The Gonzales family has chosen the wrong person to pick on.

Levi is a Demon King!

The Gonzales family would be so shocked if they knew that the bastard child that they were talking about was the God of War!

Suddenly, Levi threw his head back and burst into a fit of laughter.

“The Gonzales family wants to provoke me? I must hand it to them. They have got some courage!”

The Protector Chapter 895

Hearing this, everyone in the Jones family knew what was going to befall the Gonzales family.

They could have picked a fight with anyone. Why did they have to choose Levi?

Levi continued, "How does this Klaus Gonzales like? There must have been a reason behind my mother's reluctance to marry him."

Klaus Gonzales hesitated before admitting, "Yes, there was a reason, behind your mother's actions! Klaus had a reputation for being quite the playboy back then. He used to do nothing but fool around with his parents' money all day long. Your mother had even witnessed him, sleeping with another woman, with her very own eyes!"

Here, Michael didn't dare to continue further. Sensing Levi's anger, he bowed his head and remained silent.

Levi asked angrily, "Even while knowing this, you had chosen to marry my mother to this man?"

"I had no choice in the matter! Marriages in clans like ours are largely decided by the elders in the family, and neither your mother nor I had a say in it. Besides, Klaus had taken a liking to your mother and had insisted on marrying her. I couldn't reject his offer."

"Back then, I'd agreed to allow your mother to marry him because I had hoped that an alliance between our families would be beneficial to us, the Joneses!"

"However, that was the biggest mistake I had ever made in my entire life!" Michael gave out a huge sigh.

"Is the Gonzales family very powerful?" Levi asked.

To the best of his knowledge, the most powerful royal family in South Hampton was the Goel family.

“They’re powerful, very powerful! Xabian Goel might be the most famous in South Hampton, but he’s nowhere near being the strongest!”

Michael sucked in a deep breath. “The most powerful forces in South Hampton is actually the Restaurant of Peace, started by The Three Musketeers and Osborn St. Jacques.”

Levi pressed forth imperiously, “Well, tell me more about it!”

Michael explained, “The Restaurant of Peace has existed since a very long time ago. There’s a legend in South Hampton, saying, that any criminal, no matter how heinous his crimes, is safe, once he enters that restaurant. No one will be able to punish him, regardless of their position in society.”

Levi was incredulous. “Can the Restaurant of Peace really grant amnesty to criminals? If I go into that restaurant after killing hundreds of people, will I be safe? Can nobody touch me?”

Michael nodded. “Yes, that’s right. Hence, everyone regards the Restaurant of Peace as the strongest forces in South Hampton.”

Levi smiled. “Wow, it must be a restaurant of great reputation then. Continue!”

“The second most powerful group of people in South Hampton are The Three Musketeers. The first Musketeer is Lionel Gonzales, and the second Musketeer is Ritchie Fulmer. Finally, the last Musketeer is Perseus Emil.”

“Klaus Gonzales is the son of Lionel Gonzales. That’s why I’d gone ahead with the marriage, despite my own misgivings.”

Michael was very clear about how powerful the Gonzales family was.

Levi smiled. “By sending this coffin to your doorstep, isn’t the Gonzales family trying to announce how poorly they regard the Jones family?”

“Exactly! The Gonzales family doesn’t even humble itself before the Goel family sometimes. Of course, they aren’t going to care about a small clan like us,” Michael replied carefully.

Hence, this year’s anniversary meeting was extremely important. Michael wanted to take the opportunity to climb the ranks for his family.

Levi gritted his teeth. “I don’t care how powerful the Gonzales family is! Since they’d humiliated my mother in the past, I’m going to get my revenge!”

The Protector Chapter 896

At that moment, a discussion was taking place at the prestigious Azure Dragon villa, in the suburbs of South Hampton.

The entrance of the villa was carefully guarded by an elite squad of more than a hundred security guards. It was impossible for anyone to get in without being noticed.

The Three Musketeers had gathered up that day, for a game of cards in the drawing room.

All three of them were ancient and white-haired, but they still appeared energetic and vigorous. From time to time, a keen, insidious look flashed in their eyes, which was enough to make anyone shiver in fear.

Aside from the three old men, another middle-aged man was present. He was attired in very expensive clothes, and he had evidently paid careful attention to his appearance. There was nothing about him that could be considered greasy or old-fashioned.

This man was Klaus Gonzales.

On the surface, he looked to be a nice, scholarly gentleman. Many even mistook him for a university professor at times.

However, he was truthfully a merciless tyrant.

At that moment, a young man ran into the room.

“Father, the coffin has been delivered to the Jones family’s house!”

This man was Klaus’s son, Paulie Gonzales.

Klaus laughed gleefully. "Good, good!"

Lionel asked curiously, "Paulie, Klaus, what are you talking about?"

"Father, the Jones family has found Emma Jones's bastard son recently. He had even attended their anniversary meeting!" Klaus responded immediately.

With a loud bang, Lionel slammed his cards onto the table, enraged.

Angrily, he hissed, "What? They had found Emma Jones's bastard son, and the Joneses had even allowed him to attend their anniversary meeting?"

Ritchie Fulmer and Perseus Emil had recovered from their shock as well. Immediately, they started to rant and rave about the situation.

"What does Michael mean by this? Does he wish to disrespect The Three Musketeers in such a manner?"

"Exactly! By inviting that bastard child to their anniversary meeting, he's officially acknowledging the boy as his grandson!"

"Are the Joneses trying to humiliate the three of us? Are they tired of living?"

The Three Musketeers had good reason to be angry.

More than twenty years ago, Emma Jones's pregnancy had caused an indelible stain on all three of their reputations.

Back then, they were intent on murdering Emma Jones and killing her unborn child too.

In the end, the Joneses had disinherited Emma. She had disappeared into the bowels of South Hampton, and the child had become an orphan.

The Three Musketeers had thought that this had been the end of the matter.

Now that the Jones family had welcomed the boy back with open arms, The Three Musketeers felt as though they had been slapped in the face.

Of course they were mad! They had every right to be.

“In any case, her bastard son is now living in the Jones family’s Edburg Manor. This means that they’ve acknowledged his status within the family.”

Klaus continued, “Just now, I had gotten Paulie to deliver a coffin to the Jones family’s residence.”

Furious, Lionel snapped, “That’s hardly enough to warn them! Paulie, go to the Jones family’s residence and ask Michael Jones what he means by all of this! I want him to kneel before The Three Musketeers and give us a proper explanation for his actions!”

Back at gates of Edburg Manor, Levi and the others were still discussing what they should do with the coffin.

At that moment, a few cars pulled up to the gate.

The door opened, and a slew of bodyguards exited the vehicle, their bodies completely shielding a young man who looked to be the son of a rich clan.

When they saw the man, the Joneses faces changed.

The moment he got out of the car, Paulie Gonzales yelled, “Which one of you is the bastard son Levi Garrison?”

The Protector Chapter 897

Levi stood at the gates of Edburg Manor, staring coldly at him.

The Joneses were frightened to death.

Paulie Gonzales was either really foolish or really brave!

How could he call Levi Garrison a bastard son to his face?

If Levi decided to take revenge, even God wouldn't be able to save him.

Mia Jones walked forward and whispered timidly into Levi's ear, "That's Paulie Gonzales, the son of Klaus Gonzales."

Upon realizing Paulie's true status, a frosty expression flashed across Levi's face. He stared unblinkingly at Paulie, as though considering his next move.

Michael yelled, "Paulie Gonzales, how dare you come and stir up trouble in front of the Jones Residence when you're junior to all of us here?"

Nonchalantly, Paulie stuck his hands into his pockets. Looking tauntingly at Michael, he replied, "Michael, are you questioning me? What right do you even have to do that?"

"You..." Michael was so angry that steam was practically blowing out of his ears.

He would have swallowed his anger if The Three Musketeers had been the ones castigating him.

However, there was no way he could stomach being disciplined by a member of the younger generation.

Paulie continued brazenly, "Michael, my three grandfathers have demanded that you give them a proper explanation as to why you've accepted Emma Jones's bastard son back into the Jones family. Are you acknowledging him as one of your own?"

Michael yelled, "Yes, and what about it?"

"By acknowledging that boy as one of your own, your family clearly means to insult The Three Musketeers! My grandfathers want you to kneel before them and give them a proper explanation!" Paulie yelled in response.

Michael retorted, "That's not going to happen!"

In the past, Michael would never have dared to say something so outrageous. However, now that he had Levi's backing, he was no longer afraid of The Three Musketeers.

Furious, Paulie spat, "Good on you, Michael! Are you openly declaring war on us? I'll tell my grandfathers exactly what you've said—let's see if your family will live until tomorrow morning!"

However, before he left, Paulie asked, "Where's the bastard son Levi Garrison? Has he hidden himself away, out of fright?"

As soon as he spoke, Levi stepped out of the crowd and walked towards him.

Seeing him, Paulie asked with contempt, "So you're the bastard son Levi Garrison?"

Levi didn't reply. Suddenly, he lunged forward and gave Paulie a tight slap across his face.

With a loud smack, Paulie's cheeks started bleeding profusely, as a few of his loose teeth began to fly out of his mouth.

An awed silence fell over the entire crowd.

Paulie's bodyguards were so stunned that they couldn't react on time.

Clawing at his bleeding face, Paulie screamed at Levi, "How dare you hit me, you filthy bastard?"

What followed was a series of horrifying clicks, as Levi lunged at him and delivered powerful kicks to his leg. In a flash, Paulie's legs had been broken.

He staggered and collapsed before Levi.

With another loud crack, Levi broke both of Paulie's arms.

Paulie lay on the floor, his limbs completely broken.

Like a pig in a slaughterhouse, he screamed in pain.

At that moment, Paulie's bodyguards finally snapped out of their daze. "Kill him!"

The Protector Chapter 898

In a flash, Levi had managed to break all of their limbs as well.

Paulie and his bodyguards were laying on the ground, groaning in pain.

Levi ordered, "Someone put this man into the coffin, and send it back to Mr. Klaus Gonzales!"

Back in Azure Dragon, The Three Musketeers and Klaus were still playing their cards.

At that moment, someone ran into the room, looking extremely frightened. "Sirs, something horrible has happened! The Jones family has sent the coffin back to us, and Mr. Paulie isn't back yet!"

"What?" The Three Musketeers and Klaus hurried outside to take a look.

Seeing the coffin by the gates, Klaus exploded in anger. "The Jones family must be crazy! How dare they send the coffin back to us?"

Just then, they heard a distinct sob as someone hammered against the walls of the coffin.

Klaus's expression morphed into one of panic. "I think that there's someone inside the coffin! Open it up quickly!"

When they finally managed to pry open the lid of the coffin, they found Paulie Gonzales lying in it.

His entire body was covered in blood, and all four of his limbs had been broken. He looked up at them, sobbing piteously.

The Three Musketeers and Klaus gasped. Immediately, their expressions changed into that of anger.

How dare the Jones family break Paulie's limbs and send him back in a coffin?

Wasn't that a direct challenge to them? Was that an effort to taunt them?

Seeing his son's pitiful figure, Klaus felt his heart convulse with pain. "You Joneses will pay for this!"

The Three Musketeers were so angry that you could practically see steam coming out of their ears.

How dare the Joneses do this to us?

Even the Goel family, the most prominent family of South Hampton, wouldn't have the balls to do such a thing.

The onlookers hurriedly lifted Paulie out of the coffin.

"Who did this to you, son?" asked Klaus.

"It was that bastard son of Emma Jones— Levi Garrison!" spat Paulie.

He would never forget his grudge against Levi Garrison. He swore to himself that he would devote the rest of his life to getting his revenge on Levi.

Lionel Gonzales fumed, "The Jones family must be crazy! How dare they allow their bastard son to injure my grandson like this?"

Paulie burst into tears. "My three grandfathers, and my father, you must exact revenge for me, or I'll never be able to swallow this anger for the rest of my life! He nearly killed me by sticking me into that coffin! He's warning us that we will die by his hands..."

Lionel replied angrily, "We will definitely seek vengeance! How dare the Jones family behave in such a preposterous manner? I'll have to destroy their entire family!"

Beside him, Ritchie Fulmer and Perseus Emil seethed along with him.

Klaus jumped in. "Father, Uncles, don't be angry. I'll settle this matter by myself. I'm going to go to demand an explanation from Michael Jones right now!"

"Alright. Make sure that you bring enough men with you!"

Soon enough, a large group of people had assembled in front of the gates of Jones Residence.

All of them were clothed in black, and a few words had been sewn onto their clothes—Gonzales, Fulmer and Emil.

These people had been sent by The Three Musketeers.

There were hundreds of them, and they lined up in neat rows outside of Jones Residence, surrounding the gates completely.

In the middle of them all, Klaus stood in his white clothes, appearing immediately recognizable.

He hollered, "Michael Jones and Levi Garrison, come out at once!"

The Protector Chapter 899

Soon, Michael walked out into the open, with Levi Garrison in tow.

Levi was interested to see Klaus Gonzales for himself.

When the Joneses saw the crowd of people descending upon them, they started to panic.

If it weren't for Levi, they would unquestionably be trampled over without a second a thought.

Klaus and his men really did look extremely intimidating.

Klaus yelled in anger the moment he had spotted Michael. "Michael Jones, look at what you've done!"

However, Michael merely chuckled in response. "Oh? And what have I done, Klaus?"

"Don't you dare call me that! You had better explain yourself for what you've done to my son!" bellowed Klaus.

Michael smirked. "Your son ran his mouth and insulted others, so he was taught a little lesson. You should really spend more time teaching your son how to behave, Mr. Gonzales. Because if you don't, someone else will certainly 'educate' him for you."

Klaus was thoroughly peeved. "How insolent! Neither I nor my father has ever disciplined this precious son of mine! So what gives others the right to even touch a single hair on his body? Just who gave you the right to discipline my child, Michael!"

Michael's smirk only deepened. "Actually, I wasn't the one who had disciplined him. He had insulted someone he wasn't supposed to. And so, that person kindly took it upon himself to teach your son a lesson."

"It was Levi Garrison, wasn't it? Get him out here right now!"

At that moment, a calm voice cut through the tension. "I'm right here."

When Klaus identified Levi, he nearly blew a gasket.

This is that bh's son?

He forced his anger down before speaking again. "What's this? You Joneses actually welcomed Emma's son back into the family? Does this mean that you're acknowledging him as one of yours?"

Michael didn't dare to answer on Levi's behalf, so he glanced at the younger man instead.

He mentally heaved a sigh of relief when he saw Levi giving him an affirmative nod. It appeared that he was okay with being formally known as Emma's son.

"That's right. He's now here with the Joneses, which means that we're acknowledging his birthright! He is indeed my daughter's son!" declared Michael firmly.

Klaus glared at him angrily. "You do know that you are blatantly insulting me by doing this?"

Michael scoffed, "Just what has any of this got to do with you? It's not like you're related to him anyway."

"Emma was my fiancée back then, but she had slept with some other man and had given birth to this bastard! What about my reputation, huh? That bh has already humiliated me enough, and now you Joneses are going to pile on?" roared Klaus.

"Your fiancée? The only reason she became your fiancée was because you had forced me to marry her off to you! All because you took a liking to her!" retorted Michael.

"Fine! Say what you will. You have the balls, I'll give you that, Michael. But aren't you afraid that a certain someone will come after you? They ensured that the Joneses, including Emma, broke all ties with that bastard child back then, but now you're so flagrantly welcoming him back? What do you think is going to happen to you when they find out?"

The Protector Chapter 900

Klaus' words sent a chill through Michael.

The image of that man descending upon the Joneses residence twenty years ago and easily wiping out all of their bodyguards flashed across his eyes, and goosebumps broke out all over his body.

But Levi was by his side now, so he had nothing to fear.

"What do I have to be afraid of? We Joneses can take anything that comes our way!" announced Michael coldly.

"Fine then! So you insist on acknowledging Emma's bastard son? Even if it means going against the Gonzales family?"

"Yes, that's right!"

A blood-thirsty glint flashed across Klaus' eyes. "Then, the Joneses will no longer have a place in South Hampton!"

"What did you just say?"

It was Levi who spoke up just then, and it took Klaus very much by surprise.

How dare Emma's bastard son talk back to me!

"I said, your mother is a bh and that literally makes you a son of a bh! Also, were you the one who had crippled my son?" seethed Klaus.

Levi, with a completely unbothered expression, slowly made his way over to Klaus.

"I'll make you pay for hurting my son! I'll make you pay tenfold, nay, a hundredfold!" affirmed Klaus as he glared at him.

Soon enough, Levi walked right up to Klaus and stared him down.

"Did you just call me a son of a bh and a bastard?"

"Yes, that's right! You're a bastard, and your mother is a bh! Your whole family is nothing but trash!" spat Klaus.

His hatred for Levi knew no bounds.

For the past thirty years, his resentment towards Emma had not only not decreased, but rather, it had also grown exponentially.

That was one humiliation that he could never live down.

Klaus wanted nothing more than to kill Emma with his own two hands.

But unfortunately, he didn't have the chance to do so.

So when he heard that Emma's bastard son had been brought back to the Joneses, he became so enraged that he yearned to end Levi too.

The son should bear the mother's burden, and so Levi needed to pay for his mother's sins.

Thus, he immediately ordered a coffin and had it delivered.

Slap!

A slap from Levi brought Klaus out of his reverie.

It was such a hard slap that the skin on Klaus' face immediately split open. Blood spurted everywhere, and even a number of teeth fell out of his mouth.

Just one slap was enough for Klaus to feel as though half of his life force had been slapped away. He stood there in a complete daze, not able to move even an inch.

The men around him, as skilled as they were, didn't even have a chance to react.

Slap!

Slap!

Slap!

...

Unfortunately, that slap was only just the beginning because Levi then followed on with a dozen more.

After the tens of slaps, Klaus' face no longer even resembled a face, and he was barely hanging on by a thread.

Klaus crumpled onto the ground, shocking everyone.

No one had expected Levi to act so ruthlessly.

"This is what you get for insulting both me and my mother," stated Levi in an almost-bored tone.

"Men! Kill them! Wipe out every last member of the Jones family!" ordered Klaus through gritted teeth.

Immediately, hundreds of men dressed in black surged forward.

The Protector Chapter 901

The Joneses began to panic upon seeing a horde of people swarm in.

Quite a few of them even squeezed their eyes shut from fear.

Just then, five people appeared before the doors of the Jones Residence.

They were the Five Great Wars Regiment.

They charged into the thick of the crowd. Thump! Thump! Thump!

Although the men that Klaus brought were the best of the best, these five men were invincible killing machines straight out of the battlefield.

One down.

Two down.

Three down.

...

Ninety-nine down.

...

The Joneses witnessed a bloody battle.

One where five men crushed a few hundred men.

There were constantly men sent flying across the expanse.

A few minutes later.

The floor was littered with men in black who were howling in pain.

The only ones who were standing tall were six men, including Levi.

Five of them were standing in a protective circle around him. Not a single drop of blood from the battle had splattered onto him.

Across from Levi, Klaus Gonzales was dumbfounded.

He scanned the perimeter around him, noticing that the few hundred men that he had brought with him were all lying on the ground. *Who are these people really? Isn't this complete madness? Five of them had defeated a few hundred elite fighters under The Three Musketeers! Even if the news of this spreads out, no one would believe it. Nonetheless, it really did happen! It looks like these five men are that bastard child's subordinates. No. Wasn't that b*tch Emma Jones' bastard child left out on the streets and orphaned? He didn't have any resources since young, or anyone to cultivate him. How did he obtain these five elite fighters? It's unbelievable.*

Upon meeting Levi's frightening gaze, Klaus subconsciously shrunk back. The look in this bastard's eyes is terrifying! It's almost as though he wants to swallow me whole!

"Still dare to call me a bastard now?"

Levi smirked.

"Don't... Don't you know who I am?" Klaus spoke in a trembling voice.

"You're the son of Lionel Gonzales, one of The Three Musketeers!" Levi answered.

When Klaus saw that Levi was aware of his identity, he immediately became smug.

He was certain that Levi would, at the most, rough him up a little; he wouldn't dare to kill him. After all, which sane person would dare to kill me upon knowing that I'm Lionel Gonzales' son? No one! Absolutely no one!

"You're a bastard, and your mother's a b*tch! A b*tch would certainly give birth to a bastard. Your whole family is filthy to the core!" Klaus roared without restraint. Bang!

Levi's answer to his insults was a powerful kick. Pfft!

Klaus flew across the distance and crashed into a car with blood spewing out of his mouth.

A look of utter disbelief was sprawled across his face.

Never in a million years did he expect that Levi would dare to harm him with the intention of killing him. He really has the guts to kill me!

"You... You're going to kill me?" Klaus asked, unable to wrap his mind around it.

"Let's play a game, shall we? I'll give you a ten-minute head start to run. After ten minutes, I'll come after you! If I catch you, I'll kill you!" Levi suggested with a grin.

Klaus immediately spat out, "Fine. Then don't regret it!"

"Your time starts now!"

Levi glanced at his watch, his mouth arching up into a bloodthirsty grin.

The Protector Chapter 902

Klaus wasted no time at all. He climbed into a car and sped away. He reached the maximum speed and beat the red lights all the way.

He understood that he would be a dead man if he fell into Levi's hands.

Meanwhile, Levi watched as he escaped.

"Sir, should we go after him to see where he's headed off to?" Azure Dragon asked.

Levi shook his head. "There's no need for that. He's definitely going to look for The Three Musketeers."

"The Three Musketeers' base is at Greenfield Mansion, located in the western suburbs!" Michael stated.

Levi lit a cigarette and ordered, "Alright. Move out after ten minutes. We're going to Greenfield Mansion."

Ten minutes later, Levi growled softly, "No one is allowed to insult my mother!"

Levi, Azure Dragon, and the rest headed straight toward Greenfield Mansion where The Three Musketeers were at.

What was usually a one-hour journey only took Klaus forty minutes as he floored the accelerator.

"Huh? Klaus, what's happened to you?"

Upon seeing the miserable state that Klaus was in, The Three Musketeers were all stunned.

"Father, Mr. Fulmer, and Mr. Emil, I've encountered a monster! That b*tch Emma Jones' bastard is now a very formidable person, especially while accompanied by his five terrifying subordinates. They defeated all of the men that I'd brought there earlier!"

"He's coming to kill me now. Father, Mr. Fulmer, and Mr. Emil, please save me!"

Klaus was paralyzed with fear.

Lionel Gonzales scoffed derisively as he spat out, "Outrageous! Kill my son? There's no one in South Hampton who has the guts to do so!"

"He's even planning to do so on our territory?" Ritchie Fulmer's tone oozed with disdain.

"Does he really think that The Three Musketeers are getting old and useless?"

Perseus Emil roared, "Gather all of our men and await my orders. I'd like to see who would dare to barge into Greenfield Mansion!"

Very soon, all of The Three Musketeers' ultimate trump cards were assembled.

All of these people were the ones who lay the groundwork for The Three Musketeers during the battle in South Hampton back then.

Each of them was an elite warrior and they were all ruthless in their own way.

Who in South Hampton wouldn't be afraid of them?

"How dare they beat up my son and grandson! Don't worry, Klaus. I will bring you justice!" Lionel reassured his son.

His anger shot through the skies when he saw Klaus all beaten up.

Klaus' whole body was trembling with pain. "Father, you must save me. I have a feeling, a very strong feeling, that I'm about to die!"

An ominous sensation washed over Klaus. He only had one thought in his mind. Levi Garrison is going to kill me!

"Don't be afraid, Klaus! With the three of us here, even Hades can forget about taking you away, let alone a bastard child!" Ritchie and Perseus erupted in anger.

Lionel was the angriest amongst them. "I vow to massacre the entire Jones family. I'll chop that bastard into pieces too before I feed him to the dogs!"

Boom!

Right at that moment, Greenfield Mansion's enormous gates were blasted open with a single kick, resulting in a loud crash.

"Come out to receive your death, Klaus Gonzales!" A thunderous voice of reckoning stretched through every corner of Greenfield Mansion.

The Protector Chapter 903

Thud!

Hearing the familiar voice, Klaus fell to the ground with fear gripping his heart.

“He’s here... He’s here...” Klaus’ voice shook.

Levi resembled a demon straight from the fiery pits of hell who instilled great terror within him.

Lionel was beside himself with rage upon seeing his son so petrified.

“Let’s go. I’d like to see just how capable this bastard is!”

Perseus and Ritchie tagged along as well.

“Father, you must finish him off or he’ll kill me!”

Klaus was almost in tears.

In Greenfield Mansion, The Three Musketeers’ ultimate trump cards were dispatched at the same time, standing neatly in front of them as they stared Levi and his men down.

“Stop right there!”

“Whoever takes another step will be killed!”

All of the elites were surrounded by a murderous aura as they pinned Levi and the rest with killer gazes.

“What can I do? I’d like to step forward.”

A smirk played on Levi’s mouth as he walked forward without a care.

The Three Musketeers’ men retreated in tandem as they watched the intruders with vigilant eyes.

“The purpose of my arrival is simple, really. It’s to kill Klaus Gonzales! Those who have nothing to do with him, step aside!” Levi uttered frostily.

“Hmph! You wanna lay a hand on Mr. Gonzales? Over our dead bodies!”

Everyone began to cage Levi and his men in.

“You’re gutsy to have caused trouble on The Three Musketeers’ territory!”

Following that angry roar was the appearance of Lionel and his two associates.

The three of them had heads of white hair, but they still exuded an air of danger.

Their razor-sharp gazes could pierce straight through one’s heart.

It was especially the case for Lionel Gonzales who had an unparalleled kind of dominance surrounding him!

After Lionel cast his gaze around, he fixed it on one man in particular and asked, “So you’re Levi Garrison?”

“That’s right. I’m Levi Garrison, and I’m here for your son’s life!”

Levi had a broad smile on his face, looking eerily docile.

However, his words completely contradicted his demeanor!

He could be considered the most arrogant one amongst them all!

He must be insane to announce that he’s here to kill my son in front of us, The Three Musketeers.

Levi's words had stunned The Three Musketeers.

He's taken bluntness to a whole new level.

He didn't even bother to be discreet about his intentions.

Isn't he too full of himself?

"So, please hand over Klaus Gonzales! I came here today to kill one person only. I won't make trouble for the rest of you."

There was a heavy sense of authority in Levi's tone.

The Three Musketeers were taken aback.

They were lost in a daze for quite some time.

This young man is far too conceited!

"What did you say?" Lionel finally reacted after a full ten seconds.

"You think that you can kill my son, just because you've said so?"

"You're just Emma Jones' bastard son. Even if you were Hades himself, you wouldn't be able to claim my son's life today!"

Perseus and Ritchie expressed their animosity as well, sneering, "That's right. Why don't you ask around and see if anyone has ever dared to kill someone under The Three Musketeers?"

The Protector Chapter 904

"Hahaha..." Levi laughed.

His eyes flashed with deep ridicule.

The Three Musketeers felt greatly humiliated by this.

No one had ever dared to laugh at them.

“Then let me tell you something. There is no one that I, Levi Garrison, can’t kill!”

Levi’s gaze sharpened as a cold glint flashed in his eyes.

“Men, seize them!”

Under Lionel’s orders, their subordinates immediately propelled forward.

“Clear a path for me. I’m going in, to get Klaus Gonzales!” Levi instructed indifferently.

“Understood!”

Azure Dragon and his four comrades formed a circle around Levi and hacked their way forward.

Black Tortoise’s mountain-like body opened a path at the front, like a chariot bulldozing its way through the crowd.

Azure Dragon and Kirin flanked Levi, while the remaining two brought up the rear.

All of the elite fighters who attacked were defeated by the four of them.

Levi, who was in the middle, calmly walked through the courtyard as he smoked his cigarette in a leisurely manner.

A path was cut right through the hundreds of men.

Beneath them, men fell, one by one, lying on the ground and unable to get up.

The Three Musketeers' jaws were hanging off their hinges.

They finally understood what Klaus meant when he said that these five men were formidable!

They were practically indestructible!

A few hundred men couldn't even stop the six of them.

A few minutes later.

Levi and his men reached the front of the mansion.

At that moment, Klaus Gonzales was cowering inside the mansion.

The remaining fighters who were blocking the path into the mansion stared at Levi and his men with anxiety and horror.

They were traumatized after being handed their asses by Levi's men.

Levi's men had cut down hundreds of men as they made their way forward. Those men were now curled up and shrieking in pain as they rolled on the ground.

Everyone was dumbstruck!

Lionel and his two associates weren't faring any better either.

Those few hundred men were their ultimate trump cards.

They were the key to their strong foothold in South Hampton!

Those hundred men had the power to wipe out all of the influential families in South Hampton.

However, half of them were taken down by these six men in a matter of minutes.

How terrifying!

Levi glanced at the ones who were still standing their ground, albeit slightly shaky and fearful. He smiled and challenged, "Would you really want to stand in our way? Are you sure you can stop us?"

"We..."

They were thrown into a frenzy.

Levi and his men were too powerful, causing them to feel fear in its purest form.

Inside the mansion, Klaus opened the window with quivering hands and looked down when he heard the commotion.

The sight of all the men wailing on the ground below scared him witless.

Levi Garrison has forced his way in.

He doesn't even care that is The Three Musketeers' territory.

He is absolutely terrifying.

With fear coursing through his veins, he shouted at Lionel and the rest, "Father, you must save me! Stop him or he'll really kill me!"

Levi tilted his head up to look at Klaus with a smile. "Stop resisting it. You'll never escape my clutches!"

Levi's penetrating gaze chilled Klaus to the bone.

He felt as though he would be scared to death at any moment.

The Protector Chapter 905

“Ram down the front door!”

Upon Levi’s orders, Black Tortoise surged forward and broke through the men’s formation.

A huge section of them was attacked by White Tiger and his comrades as well.

The remaining ones didn’t dare to block their way anymore.

With nothing in the way, the door was about to be broken down.

“Quick! Get the Dual-Serrated Monks!” Lionel yelled.

The Dual-Serrated Monks were the top fighters working for The Three Musketeers.

The two of them were said to have crushed all the invincible fighters in the whole of South Hampton.

Everyone in South Hampton would cower before them.

The Dual-Serrated Monks had practiced the Ancient Arts of Qi from a young age, and their skins were impenetrable.

The number of times they had blocked bullets and arrows for The Three Musketeers was innumerable.

Just when Black Tortoise was about to break down the door to the mansion, a murderous aura filled the area.

Boom!

An iron rod shot through the sky at lightning speed.

Bang!

The iron rod hit Black Tortoise's body, forcing him to take a step back.

Bang!

A strong gust of wind was the only warning before another man appeared out of nowhere. The iron rod in his hand landed on Black Tortoise once again, making a dull sound reverberate through the air.

Other than taking a step backward, Black Tortoise was otherwise unharmed.

"Huh? You're trained in the Ancient Arts of Qi?"

The two monks who were blocking the entrance asked in surprise.

There was no one in South Hampton who was able to withstand two consecutive strikes from them.

It was too rare of a sight.

They finally met their match.

However, the Dual-Serrated Monks were filled with excitement.

For so many years, they had not encountered anyone even close to their caliber.

Black Tortoise yelled a war cry before clashing head-on with the Dual-Serrated Monks.

Both sides were well-trained in wrestling and the Ancient Arts of Qi. Their bodies were as hard as iron.

It was hard for them to defeat one another.

Hitting their bodies was equivalent to hitting metal, with only a clanging sound as the result.

Upon seeing the Dual-Serrated Monks successfully holding Black Tortoise back, The Three Musketeers heaved sighs of relief.

Finally, they had a winning chance in this.

However, White Tiger stepped forward the next second and stated, "Fall back Black Tortoise! Allow me!"

White Tiger strode forward menacingly. After swapping places with Black Tortoise, he launched a fierce attack on the Dual-Serrated Monks.

Every strike caused the Dual-Serrated Monks' faces to flush redder.

It was evident that White Tiger was exerting pressure on them.

Boom!

After a short while of battling, White Tiger was still fully energized as he launched a kick at one of them.

Bang!

The one called Dragon Monk was instantly sent flying.

There was a dark bloodstain on his supposedly impenetrable body as blood streamed out of his body.

Bang!

White Tiger landed a kick on the other one, Tiger Monk, to which the latter was sent flying as well.

Bloodstains appeared on his body too, looking like spider webs.

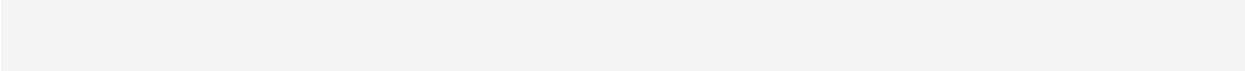

Their bodies were as strong as iron due to practicing the Ancient Arts of Qi.

However, it was useless when faced with White Tiger, because sufficient force could definitely break through their Qi!

The Dual-Serrated Monks were defeated.

The Three Musketeers were completely stunned.

“Hurry up and take Klaus away! The rest of you, stop them!” Lionel roared anxiously.

The Protector Chapter 906

The rest of the men at the scene rushed up and formed a human barricade in front of the mansion's doors, so as to impede Levi and his company from entering.

In the meantime, Klaus was frightened out of his mind inside the mansion.

Just then, the butler brought a few people up to look for him.

"Mr. Gonzales, you can't stay here. Come, we must escape at once! They're going to be here any minute now!" the butler urged.

A look of despair took its place on Klaus' face. "Even the Dual-Serrated Monks were no match for them. Who in South Hampton will be able to defeat them?"

"Where else can I run too, anyway?"

The butler answered, "There is one place!"

A sliver of hope entered Klaus' eyes as he recalled something. He asked in an enthusiasm-laced voice, "Do you mean Peace Hotel?"

"Yes, that's right! As long as you pass through the doors of Peace Hotel, you'll be safe! No matter how powerful those men outside are, they won't be able to harm you there! Peace Hotel provides first-rate protection services. No one would dare to cross them!"

"Take me there right now!"

"Yes. We will escape through the secret passageway and head toward Peace Hotel!"

The butler led Klaus out through a secret passageway.

Although The Three Musketeers were powerful in South Hampton to the point that even the Goel family was no match for them, they had still dug up a hidden passageway in Greenfield Mansion, just to be safe.

Such a passageway was made so that in the face of danger, they would have the means to escape.

The passageway was put into good use by Klaus today.

This showed how important it was to take precautionary measures.

Outside the mansion, more than a hundred men stood shoulder to shoulder as they blocked Levi and his party from passing.

Bang!

Black Tortoise hurtled forward like a chariot in the next second.

The human barricade was knocked over.

Crash!

The mansion's doors were smashed into smithereens.

"None of you can stop us. So why even try?" Levi shook his head.

"If you want to kill my son, it'll be over my dead body!"

As a last resort, The Three Musketeers used their bodies to hinder Levi and his men from moving forward.

"I don't know what my son has said or done, Mr. Garrison, but I'll apologize to you on his behalf. I only ask that you spare his life!"

The Three Musketeers could tell that Levi was no ordinary person.

Emma Jones' son was no doubt a dragon in human skin.

They were no match for him.

They only wished that Klaus could keep his life.

If it meant that they would reach a peaceful settlement, they would willingly bow their heads in submission.

If peace were out of the question, they would then proceed to stall for as long as possible to give Klaus the necessary time to escape and seek refuge at Peace Hotel before Levi could get to him.

“Stalling for time, I see. It’s useless. No matter where he goes, I’ll still catch him!”

Levi grinned.

“Come on! You’ll have to get through past the three of us if you want to kill my son!”

The three of them still wanted to give Klaus more time, so they continued standing in Levi’s way.

“Get lost!” Levi roared angrily.

The Three Musketeers were thrown to one side.

Levi successfully entered the mansion with his men in tow.

The Protector Chapter 907

However, Klaus Gonzales was already long gone.

“Boss, that b*stard has escaped!” Kirin exclaimed.

“Boss, I have found a secret passageway. Klaus Gonzales must’ve escaped through it,” Azure Dragon reported as he made a slow-jog over.

"Phew!" Lionel and his party sighed in relief.

Ritchie bellowed with laughter. "You should just give up! Even if you find him, it'll be to no avail!"

Perseus laughed along as well. "That's right. Take a piece of my advice and just give up now! You lot won't be able to do anything even if you find him!"

Lionel nodded in agreement.

Levi was amused. "Oh? And why is that?"

"Because he went to a secret place and you'll be powerless even after finding it!" Ritchie cackled.

"You mean Peace Hotel?"

Levi suddenly recalled the mention of Peace Hotel that Michael had informed him about before.

Entering Peace Hotel would guarantee one's safety.

No one could take someone out from that hotel.

"Well, it looks like you're quite knowledgeable, punk! Give up! My son is already at Peace Hotel. You won't be able to lay a finger on him as long as he stays there!"

Lionel threw his head back with laughter.

"Of course you're welcomed to wait! My son can stay in Peace Hotel forever, but can you bear to wait as long as him?" Lionel raised his brows tauntingly.

Levi's mouth curved upwards with a mocking smile. "Oh? Since he can enter Peace Hotel, why can't I go in and drag him out?"

“Hahahaha...”

The three of them laughed maniacally upon hearing his question.

They looked at Levi as though he was an idiot, as though his words were completely idiotic!

“Don’t you know that the moment a person enters Peace Hotel, the people inside would use all of their resources to protect that person! No matter your power or background, Peace Hotel would never allow harm to befall its guests.”

“Let alone allow you to barge in there to kill my son!”

“You should know that the owner of Peace Hotel, Osborn St-Jacques, is a legendary figure. No matter which line of business you’re in, you’ll have to pay him respect! That’s why the myth about Peace Hotel is still intact! Whoever dares to break in would face imminent death!”

Lionel had a smug look on his face.

“Is Peace Hotel really so amazing? I don’t buy it! I’m going to go there to drag someone out and no one can stop me!”

Levi smiled brightly.

He didn’t believe in myths and legends!

No matter how amazing, resourceful, or powerful Peace Hotel’s background is, they can’t stop me!

Unless they’re more powerful than me!

Which is impossible!

“Let’s move out. We’re going to Peace Hotel!”

Levi brought his five men and headed toward Peace Hotel.

Meanwhile, Klaus had successfully entered the hotel under the guidance of his butler.

“Phew!”

After stepping into the hotel, Klaus heaved a sigh of relief.

“I’m finally safe!”

“Levi Garrison wants to kill me? In his dreams! Don’t even think about killing me in this lifetime of yours, b@stard!”

The Protector Chapter 908

Laying down on the floor, Klaus took in huge gulps of air.

That was when he felt a sharp pain on his face.

Seeing that he was overwhelmed by fear earlier, he had been completely numb to any form of pain.

“Didn’t Emma Jones’ bastard son end up on the streets? How did he become so powerful?”

Klaus was very puzzled by this.

A bastard nobody has become so powerful that even South Hampton’s Three Musketeers were unable to suppress him.

“Thank goodness I ran quickly enough, otherwise, that punk would’ve definitely killed me!”

Klaus felt that he had literally escaped death.

“Mr. Gonzales, stay here for the time being. I’ll keep you updated on the situation,” the butler advised.

Just then, Levi and his group had arrived in front of Peace Hotel.

The hotel had an antique design.

It didn't look very impressive on the surface.

However, when Levi and his men wanted to enter, they were stopped by a group of people.

"Greetings, gentlemen. You need to make an appointment in advance to enter Peace Hotel! Guests who do not have an appointment are not allowed to enter!" the security guards by the door politely informed.

Not everyone could enter Peace Hotel.

One would either have to make an appointment beforehand or get the owner's permission.

Levi caught a glimpse of the thick calluses on the security guards' hands, as well as the slight dents in their knuckles.

They were no doubt good fighters who were no less skilled than the Beast of Death and the Wolf King.

The fact that they were measly security guards at Peace Hotel served to show just how terrifying this place was.

Despite his observation, Levi didn't take them seriously.

"Apologies, I'm not here to stay at your hotel."

"Then, how may we help you, Sir?"

The security guards were perplexed.

"I'm here to kill someone! Don't worry, I'll leave right after I'm done with him and I won't cause you any trouble!" Levi spoke calmly.

However, it sounded like a cannonade of bombs to the security guards' ears.

Their minds were in complete shambles!

Peace Hotel had a history of at least two centuries.

Its rules had also stood for the same amount of time.

However, this was their first time hearing someone say this!

Here to kill someone? At Peace Hotel?

The words seemed to roll off his tongue just now.

If word of this gets out, the entire South Hampton will be shaken.

How can there be someone foolish enough to have come to Peace Hotel hoping to kill someone?

He's either insane or unaware of the rules of Peace Hotel.

Other than that, there isn't a third possibility.

It has been so many years and no one has dared to force their way into Peace Hotel.

"Sir, this is Peace Hotel," one of the guards reminded.

They thought that perhaps he didn't know that this was Peace Hotel.

"I am aware of that, but I want to go in and kill someone! Do you understand now?"

With that, Levi prepared to head in.

"No. You can't enter!"

"There are rules at Peace Hotel. You can't enter, let alone kill someone!"

The guards stood in his way.

The Protector Chapter 909

Very soon, a man clad in formal attire walked out.

From his gait and aura, one could tell that he was from the military.

“What’s going on here?”

The security guards explained the situation to him.

“Good day, gentlemen. I am Peace Hotel’s manager, Herman Sanders. I’m sure that you’ve all heard about the rules at Peace Hotel, right?”

“Once a person enters Peace Hotel, they will become our distinguished guests! Peace Hotel will ensure their safety! You cannot enter our hotel, let alone kill our guests! Please leave!” Herman warned.

He was bewildered upon encountering a group of people who had the nerve to force their way into Peace Hotel.

Anyone who knew about the rules here would never do this.

Furthermore, after so many years, not one person had the guts to disobey the rules!

“You have your rules, and I have mine. Even God can’t protect the person that I’m set on killing!”

Levi’s lips arched into a profound smile. “You’ll ensure the safety of your guests the moment they step into Peace Hotel? Well today, I’d like to see just how you’re going to protect him for me!”

“Charge in and kill Klaus Gonzales!”

Levi’s eyes flashed with murderous intent.

“Since you’re hell-bent on forcing your way in, don’t blame us for being rude! Throw them out!” Herman commanded.

Eight security guards immediately charged toward them.

These eight, skilled men resembled cannonballs as they rushed toward Levi and his men at a frightening speed.

It wouldn’t be an exaggeration to say that these eight men were on par with the Dual-Serrated Monks.

The two monks were The Three Musketeers’ trump cards.

However, they had met their match and they were bested.

Bang!

Bang!

Bang!

...

Azure Dragon, Kirin, and their comrades did not hesitate to strike.

In little to no time at all, all of the eight security guards were sent hurtling through the air.

Crack!

Peace Hotel’s glass doors were shattered by the impact of their flying bodies, causing the ground to be littered with broken shards.

Herman was completely dumbfounded.

These eight men weren't even a match for them?

The people in the hotel lobby were scared witless.

This was especially the case for Klaus, who was still catching his breath in the lobby when the big glass doors were suddenly smashed open.

Soon after, a few familiar figures walked in from outside.

Levi Garrison!

Upon seeing Levi, Klaus was so terrified that his eyes almost bulged out of their sockets.

Why is he here?

He's even barged into Peace Hotel?

Levi's eyes locked onto Klaus as a smile crept onto his lips. "We meet again!"

Klaus' voice cracked as he stuttered out, "How... How are you here? How dare you break into Peace Hotel? You've got some balls of steel!"

Everyone in South Hampton had one thought when it came to Peace Hotel; this place was sacred land.

It wasn't a place where one could just break into.

By doing this, Levi was putting his own neck at great risk.

A cruel smile played on the corners of his mouth. "There is no place on this earth that I cannot go to. Look, I'm here now, aren't I?"

Klaus shook violently in his seat as Levi approached him.

The Protector Chapter 910

Klaus scrambled to his feet and ran further into the hotel. "Save me! He's going to kill me!"

"Isn't Peace Hotel supposed to be a safe place? How did he get in? What the hell is going on?" Klaus shrieked at the top of his lungs.

Herman and the other hotel staff had embarrassed looks on their faces.

This situation was completely unprecedented.

Nothing like this had ever happened in the entire history of this hotel.

Hence, this was an utter humiliation to Peace Hotel.

All of the hotel staff were not exempted from it either!

If news of this spread, Peace Hotel would become the laughing stock of South Hampton.

They simply could not allow something like this to happen.

"Stop right there! One more step and you'll all become enemies of the entire Peace Hotel!" Herman yelled in warning.

An increasing number of security guards came to check in on the commotion, totaling up to approximately eighty of them.

Every one of them was an elite fighter in their own right.

Each one would be able to conquer a land alone.

They were no less powerful than even Scott Yates and Brock Green.

However, they were willing to settle for measly positions as security guards.

There were a multitude of them.

This was, in fact, very unusual.

It was evident how powerful Peace Hotel was.

The owner, Osborn St-Jacques was no doubt an exceptional man with a wide range of skills.

Levi's curiosity about its owner was piqued.

Why is he considered the strongest person in South Hampton?

White Tiger shook his head. "Oh look, so many fighters have suddenly appeared. Interesting!"

Levi continued to stride forward. "So what if we become enemies of Peace Hotel? This hotel doesn't even impress me!"

His seemingly casual words were, in fact, shocking beyond words.

Everyone gaped at him in disbelief.

In South Hampton, and probably the whole of the South, who would dare to be so disrespectful toward Peace Hotel?

I've seen crazy people, but never ones who are as crazy as him!

Klaus was petrified as he hid behind the lines.

Peace Hotel had always been considered to have a sacred existence.

But at that moment, he began to doubt its credibility.

"You guys have to stop him! He's a lunatic and he isn't joking around now!"

"If he breaks in and kills me, Peace Hotel's reputation will be done for! You can all forget about keeping the business running as usual!"

Klaus triggered everyone at Peace Hotel with his words.

All of the guests had fearful expressions on their faces.

Peace Hotel would completely lose its face at this rate.

All the hotel employees were responsible for upholding the hotel's reputation.

Their faces were flushed red with anger and embarrassment.

They would lose their jobs if their boss were to pursue this matter.

Herman glared at Levi as the latter stepped over his so-called demarcation line and growled out, "Don't say I didn't warn you! Take them down!"

Peace Hotel was built on sacred land and all intruders would be cut down.

Levi had just broken the rules and had challenged Peace Hotel's authority by intruding.

All of a sudden, about eighty security guards rolled into action.

They resembled wild beasts that were let loose from their chains.

Compared to the hundreds of men belonging to The Three Musketeers earlier, these men were by far more capable.

Both were on completely different levels!

The Protector Chapter 911

“Beat them up! I don’t want to see them standing anymore!”

Levi took a puff of his cigarette.

White Tiger and the rest of the Five Great Wars Regiment clashed against the eighty skilled fighters.

As expected, these people were more challenging, and taking them down required more energy.

Levi understood why Peace Hotel could protect all of their guests with the bold claim that once they stepped into the hotel, they would be safe.

With so many powerful fighters guarding this place, who could possibly lay a finger on them?

Forget about eighty of them. Even the eight men guarding the entrance would scare anyone in South Hampton from breaking in.

Unfortunately, they were up against Levi Garrison this time!

The battle grew more intense.

All the staff at Peace Hotel were dumbstruck.

The walkie-talkie in Herman’s hand had even fallen to the ground.

Sweat covered his whole body, not from heat but from fear, because the security guards of Peace Hotel were incapacitated one after the other.

Ten minutes later, not even one out of the eighty security guards was left standing.

All of them had collapsed onto the ground.

“That was fun! Anyone else? Give us a hundred more of them!”

White Tiger was high from the battle and couldn't help himself from challenging them.

The crowd fell silent.

No one in Peace Hotel would have expected these six men to have skills of the highest level!

Not even one security guard from Peace Hotel was their match!

They had finally met someone powerful enough to overcome them!

“You... You people aren't from around here!” Herman deduced.

Peace Hotel kept records on all of the powerful figures in South Hampton and even the entire South.

However, Levi and his five men were definitely not in their records.

They seemed to have been materialized out of nowhere.

“Indeed, we're not!”

Then, Levi coldly ordered, “Azure Dragon, bring him over to me!”

Klaus was on the verge of having a mental breakdown.

He was hiding behind a few hotel staff as he pleaded, “Save me. I... I don't wanna die!”

“No. You can't take him away!”

“You can't break the rules at Peace Hotel!”

Herman and a few of them tried to stop Azure Dragon.

“Beat them up!”

“Beat anyone who gets in our way!” Levi growled out.

Bang!

Those who were standing in their way were sent flying by Azure Dragon.

In an instant, all of the hotel staff were lying on the ground, unable to stand.

Klaus swept his gaze around the hotel, already at his wits' end.

He was the only one left standing.

Didn't they say that once we were inside Peace Hotel, we'd be safe?

How did Levi Garrison force his way in here?

He's even defeated all of Peace Hotel's top fighters!

“No...” Klaus looked at Levi and shouted in horror.

Azure Dragon picked him up with one hand and went over to Levi before throwing Klaus at his feet.

“I beg you, please. Don't kill me! I was wrong! I've realized my mistake now!” Klaus wept as he begged for mercy.

“Please, forgive me!”

Levi's eyes turned cold. “Oh, well. Apology not accepted!”

He slowly raised his right hand, but before he could sweep it across Klaus' face, a loud voice sounded out, “Wait!”

The Protector Chapter 912

A group of people poured out of the hotel.

In the middle of the crowd stood an old man in traditional clothing.

He was none other than the owner of Peace Hotel, Osborn St-Jacques.

When he had first heard about someone causing a scene at Peace Hotel, he paid it no heed.

After all, who would dare to cause trouble here?

However, he had no choice but to show up after receiving the latest news about it.

“Young man, I am Osborn St-Jacques, the owner of Peace Hotel! I’m sure that you know the rules here. Do you have an explanation for all of this?”

Although Osborn’s tone sounded amiable, it had an edge to it at the same time.

Levi chuckled and uttered, “Oh, my apologies, but I’ve always been a rule-breaker. And today, I’ve broken the rules of your hotel!”

“You...” Osborn’s anger skyrocketed.

Despite his rage, one glance at the wailing people on the ground told him that Levi wasn’t someone that he should underestimate.

“Rules are made to restrain those weaker than us, but it’s useless against me because I’m stronger than you!”

Levi’s mouth arched upwards.

"Since the beginning, I'd already stated that I'm only here to kill someone and that I wouldn't trouble the rest of you!"

"I clearly said that I would leave once he was killed!" Levi added.

"No... Save me... Mr. St-Jacques, you have to save me! I'm Lionel Gonzales' son!"

"If I were to be killed right under your nose, Peace Hotel wouldn't be able to keep operating in the future. You'll become the laughing stock of the entire South Hampton!" Klaus yelled, grasping for straws.

His words magnified Osborn's concerns.

If such a situation came true, he would certainly lose his foothold in South Hampton.

Especially when Klaus was the son of one of The Three Musketeers! He had an identity that was far too important.

"Let him go, and I'll allow this whole matter to slide!" Osborn coldly demanded.

"And if I don't?"

What Levi hated the most was being threatened by others.

"Then you'll become an enemy of Peace Hotel, as well as a common enemy to all of Osborn St-Jacques' connections!"

"When that happens, bigwigs from all walks of life will unite against you. Do you think you'll be able to survive that?"

Several people behind Osborn challenged Levi.

"Do you know why no one dares to break the rules at Peace Hotel? And that no matter how grave the mistake, those who step into Peace Hotel would be safe?" Osborn asked.

"Please, enlighten me!"

Levi was rather interested in knowing the answer.

“Firstly, there are many skilled fighters within the walls of Peace Hotel. All of them owe me and are willing to work as security guards here.”

“Secondly, I have connections all over the business, politics, military, and various other fields! You could say that the big shots in the South, and even from the North and East, all owe me favors. One word from me, and they’ll offer me their aid, no questions asked. This is the real reason that no one dares to mess with Peace Hotel!”

“Provoking Peace Hotel is equivalent to offending half of the East!”

Osborn leveled his gaze with Levi as he suggested, “So, cut me some slack! Let’s be friends instead!”

The Protector Chapter 913

Osborn was smiling broadly when he continued, “I’ve treasured peace my entire life. Making one more friend is better than one more enemy. What do you say, young man?”

“Let him go on my account. Just take it as me owing you a favor!”

The crowd was shocked.

They could hardly believe that Osborn had lowered his ego as he offered to befriend Levi.

This was an extremely rare occurrence.

People had always owed Osborn favors, not the other way around.

It wouldn’t make sense for Levi to turn him down!

This involved Peace Hotel’s reputation as well!

Out of everyone's expectations, Levi sneered in return. "Your friendship means nothing to me!"

"Nonetheless, after I've settled my matters, perhaps we can still talk about being friends!"

Klaus became a bundle of nerves when he heard what Levi had uttered.

"Mr. St-Jacques, you have to save me!"

Slap!

Levi swung his palm at Klaus' skull

Every orifice of his head began to bleed.

His life seeped out of his body in a matter of seconds.

Thump!

Klaus' body went limp as he slumped onto the ground.

This man had repeatedly insulted Levi's mother and was also the culprit who had pushed her into an abyss.

If he had not constantly tried to claim Levi's mother for himself, his mother would not have ended up with her current fate!

Levi's eyes were terrifyingly cold.

Boom!

Things happened too quickly, catching Osborn and the rest completely off guard.

Before they could react, Levi had already attacked.

Everyone could barely believe their eyes.

Levi had actually killed Klaus Gonzales in Peace Hotel, right in front of Osborn St-Jacques.

He's simply too foolhardy!

This was the first time that something like this had happened in the hotel's entire history!

He completely disregarded Osborn St-Jacques, the most powerful figure in South Hampton.

At that moment, everyone's heads were spinning.

"Y-Y-You..."

Osborn stared wide-eyed at Levi and couldn't formulate a proper string of words. He felt as if he could vomit blood at any given moment.

Outrageous!

Simply outrageous!

Levi's actions were against Peace Hotel's rules and completely stripped the hotel of its dignity.

The hotel could no longer operate in South Hampton from thereon forth.

Peace Hotel was famous all across South Hampton because of its unique code— as long as you were a guest at Peace Hotel, no one would dare to lay a finger on you.

However, their code was completely destroyed today!

Not only did someone break into Peace Hotel, rather, they had also killed a guest right in front of the owner.

This was the biggest humiliation that Peace Hotel had ever faced in their entire long history of operation!

It was also a scar that would never heal for Osborn!

"Alright. My work here is done. Let's go."

Levi wiped his hand with a nonchalant smile on his face before he turned to leave with Azure Dragon and the rest.

“Stop right there!” Osborn bellowed at Levi.

“Do you think that you can leave after making a mess at my hotel? Who do you take me for?” Osborn roared furiously.

Levi paused in his stride and grinned. “What? Are you trying to stop me?”

The Protector Chapter 914

Levi’s question stunned Osborn.

Stop him?

It would take a whole lot more to be able to stop him.

All of my top fighters are incapacitated, so who’s going to stop him for me?

“I can’t stop you, but you’d do well to remember this! Since you’ve broken the rules of Peace Hotel and humiliated me, from today onwards, I, Osborn St-Jacques, will use all of my connections and power to come after you! I will make your life a living hell!” Osborn yelled at Levi.

“Sure. I’ll be waiting for you, then!”

With that, Levi turned on his heels and left.

Thump!

Osborn stumbled back and fell on his bum.

He was on the brink of tears.

From this day onwards, Peace Hotel would cease to exist.

Osborn would be worse off.

At Greenfield Mansion, upon seeing Klaus' corpse, The Three Musketeers burst into tears as well.

News spread like wildfire across the entire South Hampton.

The Three Musketeers and Osborn St-Jacques had to bear the shame of a lifetime!

Someone had publicly walked all over a group of South Hampton's powerful figures.

This news filled the Jones family with endless regret.

This was especially the case for Michael.

Putting aside benefits and purely based on family relations, Levi would be considered his grandson.

His family had truly risen to the top.

After everything was settled, Levi went back to South City.

During these two days, Zoey was staying with the Black family.

"Did Levi go to South Hampton in the past two days?" Meredith asked.

"Yes, he had some things to settle there."

Zoey did not disclose the news about the Jones family, lest the Black family got any ideas.

Robert smiled and uttered, "I heard that something huge happened in South Hampton during the past two days. It was nothing short of a magnitude ten earthquake!"

"Oh? What happened there?"

Everyone gathered around for some juicy gossip.

“They said that a group of people suddenly appeared in South Hampton. First, they crushed the prominent families there and made them bow before them! Then, they killed the son of Lionel Gonzales, one of The Three Musketeers. They had done that by breaking into Peace Hotel and killing him right in front of the hotel’s owner, Osborn St-Jacques! The moment this group of people appeared in South Hampton, they wiped out all of the influential families in one go!”

“This was all done in a few short days!” Robert exclaimed.

“This is way too scary! This group of people won’t come to South City, right?”

Everyone shivered slightly in fear.

“Don’t worry. A small city like ours isn’t on their radar!”

Zoey’s brows furrowed slightly. As soon as she heard about the serious commotion in South Hampton, Levi was the first one who came to her mind.

Levi can’t be the one who’d caused all that trouble in South Hampton, right?

Impossible!

She immediately dismissed that possibility.

Levi went to attend the anniversary meeting of the Jones family. He went there to butter them up and get into their good books.

Thus, he couldn’t possibly have had the power to do something like this.

Robert continued, “That’s right. They definitely won’t come to South City. That’s because the leader of the group went to South Hampton to avenge his biological mother! I heard that he is an orphan. He killed anyone and everyone who’d insulted his mother!”

“Biological mother? Orphan?”

Zoey instantly thought of Levi again.

The Protector Chapter 915

He's an orphan.

In addition to that, his biological mother came from the Jones family.

He seems to match the details of this incident.

Nonetheless, how could it have been Levi?

How could he have turned the whole of South Hampton upside down by himself?

He had even trampled all over the powerful families there?

That's rather impossible.

Meredith was green with envy when she uttered, "If only there was someone like that amongst our younger generation. Not to mention, turning South Hampton upside down is equivalent to turning South City upside down. If we had a descendant of such caliber, I'd be so happy that I wouldn't be able to sleep."

She sighed before continuing, "The Black family can only rely on..."

As one, everyone's gazes fell on Zoey.

Amongst the younger generation in their family, she possessed the most potential.

If it weren't for Levi's appearance, the Black family would probably have risen through the ranks by now.

However, they believed that Levi would not be able to fulfill their condition of making a billion with his own two hands.

Hence, they weren't worried at all in the least because very soon, they would have a valid reason in stopping Levi and Zoey from being together.

When the time came, they would arrange for a good husband for Zoey who would bring their family infinite benefits.

Of course, Zoey knew what they were planning.

If they knew about Levi's identity as the grandson of the Jones family, they would immediately stop trying to tear them apart and immediately pounce at the chance to join families.

However, Zoey did not want to see something like such.

She greatly disliked this sort of mindset.

More than anything, she hoped that Levi could support her on his own instead of relying on his family background and other factors.

Before long, Levi returned home.

Iris politely inquired, "How was the anniversary meeting?"

"Not bad!" Levi smiled.

Zoey was surprised.

Why is Iris being so polite to Levi?

She wasn't like this previously!

She's treating Levi like he's her boss now.

Zoey cast her questions aside and rolled her eyes at Levi before going back into her office.

Levi immediately went after her.

However, Zoey had closed the door to her office, preventing him from entering.

She was still angry about Levi attending the anniversary meeting of the Jones family.

“Zoey, there’s something that I need to discuss with you!” Levi raised his voice to be heard as a helpless look appeared on his face.

Only then did Zoey open the door.

However, her expression was as cold as ice.

“Get right to it. I’m busy.”

Zoey was impatient.

“I’ve discovered my biological mother’s whereabouts!” Levi answered.

“What?”

Zoey sprung up from her seat.

“I went to South Hampton and learned about my past. It turns out that there was a reason that I was abandoned on the streets and became an orphan! My mother had even sacrificed her life to let me live...”

Levi told Emma Jones’ story to Zoey.

Zoey teared up with emotion upon listening to her story.

“She’s a great mother!”

“I support your decision to bring her back!”

The Protector Chapter 916

“Zoey, I’ve decided to bring you along while I get my mother. What are your thoughts on this?” asked Levi.

“But... “ Zoey blushed because this meant that she was going to meet her mother-in-law. Seeing as such, she was nervous about it. “Okay. I’ll accompany you.”

Levi nodded as he smiled. “Get ready then. We’ll be setting off tomorrow.”

Phoenix was able to deduce where Emma was currently being held; she was in Margo City, a small city located in the center of North Hampton, South City, and South Hampton.

Having never thought of such a place, Klaus and the Joneses were brought to shame, in view of the fact that the woman they had wanted to kill lived just less than an hour’s drive away from them.

Levi was equally as surprised to discover that his biological mother had been nearby all along.

As for the Garrison family’s background, Phoenix had informed Levi that the information was SSSSS-level classified.

This meant that it was only a level lower than the information on Levi himself.

Authority was required to gain access, so there were only two ways to get information.

Levi could either acquire the required authority from Oakland City or gain access to the information by force. Unfortunately, none of those options would work for Levi.

Due to some deep-seated issues, Levi would never contact Oakland City to make such a request.

On the other hand, if he were to access Haunted by force, he would surely be spotted. That's going to cause a lot of problems. It's not that I can't solve them, rather, it's that I can't afford to be distracted by petty things like that right now.

"Continue your investigation. I'm sure that you'll find a way." Levi's idea was merely to take things slowly for the moment. The Garrison clan will definitely find out when I get my mother back! When it comes to such, they'll reveal themselves to me, so I'm in no hurry at all.

At night, Zoey made all of the necessary arrangements as she put Iris in charge of her work, for she expected her business in Margo City to take her a few days.

At that moment, Levi received a call from Mia.

"I've heard that Osborn and The Three Musketeers are planning to deal with you. Nevertheless, we can't be certain as to how or when they're going to strike. You'd better be careful," warned Mia.

"Don't worry, Mia. They'll find that it's not that easy to get rid of me. By the way, I'll pick your aunt up in a few days, so you should come to see her and your sister-in-law too."

Levi smiled while Zoey blushed when she overheard the conversation.

Zoey was as nervous as she was excited to meet Levi's family. I think that we'll be very happy together from now on.

The next day, Levi and Zoey set off for Margo City early in the morning.

Sylas was their driver, and it took them about an hour before they reached the small city.

The Protector Chapter 917

Chapter 917 The Tomb of Levi Garrison

Upon stepping out of the car, Levi took a deep breath as he looked at the word "Oakland" that was engraved on a stone monument beside the road.

At that point, the furious man mumbled to himself, "So, this is where my mother has been imprisoned for nearly thirty years?" What a cruel thing it is to have imprisoned someone here for the rest of their life. It's almost like binding a person by invisible shackles, forever reminding them that they're incarcerated and that they would rather die. How could the Garrisons have been this ruthless? How could my biological father have married another woman while his wife was suffering in such a place? Does the man not have a conscience? Heck, is he even a man at all?

Conscious of the fact that Levi was rather tempted to smash the stone monument, Zoey soon uttered, "Don't overthink it. I know that it's unfortunate that Emma met a scumbag, but we can give her a better life from now on. We'll make it up to her."

"Okay, but he won't be getting away with this! I shall find him!" promised Levi angrily, causing Zoey to be frightened by his response.

"Why can't we just live a good life with Emma? Why do you insist on going against the man? As you've mentioned before, his family is so powerful and influential that even a royal family like the Joneses are forced to obey them. Making that man your enemy is practically suicide!"

Zoey had heard from Levi about how powerful the Garrisons were, so she was certain that Levi would be no match for them.

Hence, Zoey was worried that Levi would die trying to do the impossible while hoping to avenge his mother.

"I am aware that the Garrisons are powerful. So what? I'm not afraid of them," muttered Levi softly. "Let's go!"

Sylas then drove them to the courtyard that Phoenix had found.

Thinking that the place would be bigger, Levi was surprised when he discovered that it was merely a small place with tattered gates and cracked walls.

In the courtyard was a small house estimated to be around twenty to thirty square meters.

Left exposed, some of the bricks inside the cracked walls of the house had already fallen out.

If an earthquake of magnitude four or five were to happen, the house would surely collapse.

At only a few square meters large, the yard was surprisingly smaller than the house.

Other than some plants, in the middle of the yard stood a tombstone engraved with Levi's name.

The Garrisons threatened Emma that if she stepped out of Margo City, they would complete the engraving to "Tomb of Levi Garrison."

The Protector Chapter 918

It would have been hard for anyone to have missed the tombstone in such a small yard; hence, Emma was constantly reminded not to leave Margo City.

The tombstone was not just a reminder of the Garrisons' threat. To Emma, seeing the tombstone was like seeing Levi, so nothing made her happier than spending her time thinking about her son in front of it.

Hence, Levi felt infuriated as he gazed upon the tombstone along with his mother's prison.

Zoey and Syllas shivered when they sensed that Levi was about to explode with rage.

As a member of royalty in South Hampton, my mother was supposed to enjoy a luxurious life! Nonetheless, she was imprisoned here by that scumbag! Seeing as such, how could I not be furious about it?

"Let's have a look inside."

The door was unlocked so Levi got it open easily.

Although it was dilapidated, the yard was rather tidy as the flowers only served to make it cozier.

Holding back his anger for the eyesore of a tombstone, Levi approached a room and knocked on its door, only to find that there was no response.

He entered the small room and found it to be neat and clean.

There was nothing else in the room other than a table, a bed, and a cabinet.

Levi could avow just how miserable his mother was for the past few decades, seeing the old clothes that were hanging on the drying rack. The clothes were so old that the colors had faded from them.

While Levi was seething, tears rolled down Zoey's face when she caught sight of such a scene.

The next moment, the three noticed a photo frame on the bedside. They were shocked by the photo that was kept inside it.

It displayed the image of a good-looking couple who were holding a child together; the pair looked like a match that was made in heaven.

Levi had heard from Michael that Emma was the most beautiful woman in South Hampton when she was younger.

Levi's eyes blazed with hatred as his eyes fell on the man in the photo. This is the irresponsible man who should be held accountable for my mother's imprisonment. He is the reason that I grew up an orphan!

Levi was surprised to find that his mother had kept the photo because it meant that she still missed the man. She has no idea that he has married someone else, having children with another woman.

"I'll make him pay!"

The photo evoked nothing but hatred in Levi; nonetheless, he wasn't aware that Emma had begged and kowtowed to have had the photo taken.

Emma wanted a memento of the man, so he agreed and requested that she should never share the photo with anyone else. Otherwise, his identity would be exposed.

The Protector Chapter 919

Chapter 919 Meeting His Biological Mother

Wishing for her son to gain control over the Garrison family, Emma hoped that her son would make something out of himself. Hence, she gave Levi his first name. Unfortunately, the Garrisons forbade him from carrying their family name because they saw him as a bastard who did not deserve it.

Levi was supposed to be a Jones, but Emma begged once more for her son to be able to keep his biological family's last name, and at long last, the biological father agreed.

This was the only request from Emma that the man had ever agreed to.

A sharp glint flashed across Levi's eyes; he swore to avenge his mother, uninformed of the fact that he had almost lost the right to become a Garrison.

"It seems that Emma was sick," stated Zoey. She had found some medication in the cabinet.

Levi momentarily remembered that his mother had knelt at the Garrisons' for three consecutive days when she had borne him.

It was raining back then, which only served to deteriorate Emma's health.

Levi's eyes turned red as he imagined his mother being in pain and agony. I should have discovered this sooner! My mother would not have had to suffer for this long if it were otherwise!

"Where else could my mother be, if not at home?" asked Levi.

"She's probably working to support herself, seeing that she lives alone. Though, the money that she earned must have gone to these medications."

Levi could not imagine how his mother had survived on her own upon hearing the heartbreaking truth that Zoey had pointed out.

"Let's search for her!"

Levi asked Phoenix to look up his mother's occupation and workplace while searching around the courtyard with Zoey and Sylas.

They searched through an entire block but it was to no avail.

A garbage truck was rumbling nearby as a group of workers was actively trying to unclog the sewer. Unfortunately, no matter how far in they inserted the tube, they found that they could not remove the clog.

Seeing as such, the job would now have to be done manually, but unfortunately, there were no volunteers.

"Anyone willing to do it will get fifty as their reward," offered the team leader.

All of the workers shook their heads in refusal; the sewer was far too smelly and dirty.

"I'll do it."

At that moment, a woman in sanitation raised her hand to volunteer.

"Good! Deal with the clog and you'll get your fifty, Emma," promised the team leader to the woman.

"Emma?"

Levi and Zoey widened their eyes at their mind-blowing discovery.

The Protector Chapter 920

Chapter 920 Tears Of Men

That's Emma? The two turned to gaze at the woman in shock. Soon, Levi received a message from Phoenix: Emma Jones has been working as a sanitation worker.

The hacker even sent him a photo, to which Levi compared to the woman across from him. It's the same person. That is my mother, Emma Jones!

Emma was only in her fifties, but her hair had already turned gray. Her face was as wrinkled as a seventy-year-old woman.

She was so skinny that it looked as though a gust of wind could blow her away.

Time and illness had not been kind to Levi's mother.

Looking at Emma's miserable state, Zoey could not help but cry.

Levi was not faring any better either, for tears had started to flow down his face.

As a man, it was only natural for him to have cried over someone whom he held so dear to him.

When Emma heard that she would be rewarded with fifty, joy flashed across her face. With that money, I can finally get myself some quality pain medications.

Emma put her gloves on, readying herself to go down into the sewer to unclog it.

"Mom!"

The sudden shout shocked the workers, who all turned around to glance at the source of the voice.

Bewildered, Emma did the same, wanting to find out who shouted.

“Mom!” shouted Levi once again before he rushed over to his mother.

Emma was stunned when she realized that the man was calling out to her. Did he mistake me for someone else?

However, like a bolt from the blue, Emma suddenly recognized the familiar face when Levi approached her.

It looked at least half as similar to the face of the man whom she had loved so much. There’s no mistaking this face. This is my son!

When Levi reached his mother, he wrapped his arms around her tightly.

“I’m so sorry, Mom!” shouted Levi.

Dumbfounded, Emma looked at Levi in disbelief before she asked in a shaky voice, “Are you... Are you really Levi?”

“Yes, it’s me!”

Thud!

Levi knelt before his mother and kowtowed to her. “I’m sorry, Mom! I should have found you sooner.”

Emma could no longer contain herself as she burst out into tears. “You’re really Levi! My son! My sweet boy!”

The mother also knelt to embrace her son as the two sobbed in each other’s arms.

Minutes passed before Levi helped his mother up. “Let’s go home, Mom.”

“Not yet, Levi. I’m still at work.”

"You don't have to work anymore. I'll take care of you," promised the son.

"No."

Emma approached the team leader and bowed to him. "My son is here, so I'd like to take a leave. Thank you, Sir."

Witnessing how lowly his mother had seemed, Levi could feel the tears rolling down his face once more.

The Protector Chapter 921

Chapter 921 A Dream Come True

“Go with your son, Emma. Thank you for your hard work,” affirmed the team leader.

Levi then gave the man an earnest glance to show him his gratitude.

“Let’s go, Mom.”

The son supported his mother, and the two were ready to go home along with Zoey and Sylas.

Emma was surprised to see such a beautiful woman with them.

“This is Zoey, your daughter-in-law.” introduced Levi with a smile.

“I’m so sorry for what you’ve been through, Emma!” Zoey’s eyes had already reddened from all her crying.

After briefly introducing Sylas to Emma, they returned to the courtyard.

Emma had dreamt of seeing her son again for nearly thirty years, and she was willing to die for it no less. However, she also understood that she could never leave Margo City.

She never expected anyone to find her, much less to see her son again.

Still, her dream came true, and her son appeared before her very two eyes. He had even brought her daughter-in-law along.

The tears never stopped flowing down Emma's face on their way home, but they were tears of joy.

"Levi, how did you know that I was here?" asked Emma curiously, for she was certain that the Garrisons had made it impossible for anyone to have found her.

"I received some help."

On the way home, the mother felt like she had a multitude of questions to ask her son.

When Emma returned to the courtyard and saw the tombstone, her face turned grim. "Levi, don't mind this."

Emma then covered the engraving on the tombstone with her body.

"It's okay, Mom. You don't have to do that. I know that my name is on it."

The mother's face fell because she would rather have kept her son in the dark about it.

After getting inside the house, Emma wanted to serve her guests. Nonetheless, Zoey stopped her.

"Allow me to do so."

"I'm so happy, Levi! Not only has my dream come true, rather, you've also found yourself such a kind and beautiful wife. Now, I can die without regrets."

"You still have a good life ahead of you, Mom. I'll make sure that you become the happiest mother in the world!" promised Levi as he held his mother's hands tightly.

"Seeing you is enough for me," responded Emma with a smile.

"Mom, have you ever thought of leaving?"

"I can't do that. Didn't you see the tombstone? They'll kill you if I leave this place."
"Are they using that rock to keep you here?"

“No. They’ve also got people watching me, and they’ll never allow me to step foot out of Margo City.”

The Return of the God of War [The Protector]

Chapter 922

Chapter 922 Nobody Bullies My Mother

Emma continued, “It’s not just Margo City. For almost thirty years, I was only allowed to move within this block. They warned me that if I ever stepped out of the boundary, I’d receive a serious beating.”

Levi widened his eyes so much that they could almost drop out. “What? You were only allowed to move within this block for almost thirty years?”

What’s worse than being imprisoned in a city for almost thirty years is being confined to a single block. Those ruthless scumbags!

“Yes. The Garrisons had ordered the people in Margo City to imprison me here. To make it foolproof, they deliberately narrowed the range down to just this block.” Emma sighed.

When Levi heard her words, rage pulsed through his veins, and a murderous intent flashed across his eyes.

“Emma, have you been a sanitation worker all these years?” The thought of it broke Zoey’s heart.

“Yes. They control everything that I do, including my job. I was only allowed to be a sanitation worker because they’d wanted me to struggle,” replied Emma with a nod, who then smiled at the tearful Zoey. “I was fine, though. On top of my salary, scavenging around was enough to help me get by.”

Even so, everybody else could see how things really were, for it was impossible to forget seeing what Emma was willing to do for fifty.

“But your health...” Zoey choked before she could finish.

“It’s nothing. As long as I continue to take my medications, I’ll be fine. The pain does get a little worse during cloudy and rainy days, though,” explained Emma casually.

Still, her sickness made her look at least twenty years older than she was.

Momentarily, Emma suddenly remembered something. “You guys had better leave now. You shouldn’t stay here for too long.”

“Why?” asked Levi and Zoey in confusion.

“They’re always watching me. For almost thirty years, nobody was allowed to enter this courtyard or even talk to me. That was why I didn’t have to lock the door. Nobody would dare to come by. If they find you here, you’ll all be in danger. There might even be a serious beating.”

In a panic, Emma tried to hurry the three out, but Levi would not budge.

“It’s okay, Mom. Nobody will lay a finger on you while I’m around.”

Levi sneered. “Nobody bullies my mother!”

“We’re no match for these people, so please just go! They’ll see you!” begged Emma anxiously.

The Return of the God of War [The Protector]

Chapter 923

Chapter 923 Beat Her Up A Lot

Emma was well aware that she was constantly being watched, so it was only a matter of time before her son and his companions were spotted.

“Just go!”

Emma even pushed her son to get him to leave.

Creak!

Emma’s face fell when she heard the door opening.

“Oh, no! They’re here!” exclaimed Emma with a pale face.

“Hey, old swine! Someone’s here with you, aren’t they? Did you forget the rules? How dare you bring outsiders home with you!” threatened a voice from outside.

Seeing how terrified his mother was, Levi realized how she was treated before.

“What do we do now?”

Emma was as anxious as a mouse in a cattery.

“We’ll be fine, Mom. You have me now,” assured the son.

“Let’s go and check it out.” Levi and the others then went out to the yard to meet a few fierce-looking young men.

“So, you really do have people here, you old swine! Are you trying to get beaten up?” sneered the group leader.

Seeing how his mother had shrunk behind him in terror, Levi was infuriated. “Do you guys beat her up a lot?”

“We do. So what? She’s nothing but an old piece of trash,” ridiculed the leader before the other men laughed. Unfortunately, none of them realized the severity of Levi’s rage.

“Get yourself over here and kneel before me, you old swine! You’ve broken the rules, so that means that it’s time for a beating!” shouted the man.

Emma was so frightened that she trembled all over; it was evident that she had been beaten up before.

There was no way that her frail and sickly body could take such a beating.

“Hiding, are we? I’ll drag you out if I have to!”

The man then rushed toward Levi to grab Emma.

Slap!

Levi slapped his hand onto the man’s wrist to grab hold of it.

“What the... “ The man tried to break free, but it was to no avail.

“Release me before I beat you up too,” threatened the young man.

Kick!

A cold glint flashed across Levi’s eyes before he lifted his leg to kick the young man. The thug was soon sent tumbling backward.

“Get them! Get all of them!” roared the young man as blood dripped out of his mouth.

The other men rushed forward, but Sylas took care of them all with only a few kicks and punches.

Emma's jaw dropped when she saw how powerful her son and his companions were.

The men got back up before threatening, "So, you've got yourself some help to leave Margo City, huh? We'll see about that, Emma. You're not out of the woods yet!"

"No, that's not it. I... I'm not going to leave Margo City," denied Emma immediately.

"Then, how would you explain this? There's no denying it. Just you wait!" shouted the men before retreating.

The Return of the God of War [The Protector]

Chapter 924

Chapter 924 In This Together

"It's all over now. Get as far away as possible, and don't ever return. Seeing you once more is enough for me. I have no other regrets."

Emma had completely broken down. "If you don't leave now, they'll return to kill you."

She was not to contact the outside world, much less allow anyone to find her. That was the rule.

She was told that anyone who found out about her existence would be killed, and that was how the Garrisons ensured that nobody would ever find her.

"To tell you the truth, I came here to take you away with me, so pack your things. We're leaving, Mom."

“What?”

Emma could not believe what she had just heard. I hadn't even dared to leave this block, why would I leave the city?

She had been imprisoned in that city for nearly thirty years, and the invisible shackles on her had become part of her.

Even in her dreams, she could not escape the purgatory. I don't have the courage to do it.

Anything but leaving Margo City!

“I understand what you're trying to do for me, but the Garrisons have set the rule that I'm not to step out of this city, ever! If I do, they'll kill you. You saw the tombstone, right? That's for you!” Tears were already dropping like rain from Emma, but the idea amused Levi.

“Nobody can kill me. Not yet anyway.”

The man had survived the battlefield for six years, and no matter how bad things got, he would always come back alive. Thus, why the heck would I be afraid of the Garrisons? Besides, a small place like Margo City doesn't scare me.

“Listen to me, Mom. One way or the other, I'm going to get you out,” insisted Levi.

“Do you know who's keeping me here? He's the most powerful man in the city, The King of Margo City himself! The Garrisons got the man to imprison me for nearly thirty years. He's practically the city itself! He has eyes all over the place and he knows exactly who is in his city.”

Emma continued to dissuade her son. “I know that you're an extraordinary man, but you're no match for The King of Margo City, let alone the Garrisons. Levi, listen to me and leave now!”

Even Zoey was starting to worry for her husband. How is Levi going to fight against all of these people?

“Levi, maybe we should leave first and come up with a plan later,” suggested Zoey.

"You do that, Zoey, but I'm staying," insisted Levi.
"No. We're all in this together!"

The Return of the God of War [The Protector]

Chapter 925

Chapter 925 Kill Them All

Emma grew anxious as she wondered what to do about the hard-headed couple.

Vroom!

Several cars arrived at the courtyard, and dozens of men stepped out of them.

"Emma, you old swine! I'd heard that you'd gotten yourself some help to escape Margo City. Oh my, the audacity this woman has!"

Shivers traveled down Emma's spine when she heard the voice.

It was Erwin, the son of Amos Braus, The King of Margo City.

Amos had already delegated his son to watch over Emma because he wanted the Garrisons to recognize Erwin

This would be a great help to his son's future.

When Erwin heard that Emma was trying to escape, he quickly brought a group of men over.

"So it's true." Erwin sneered at Levi and the rest.

“Didn’t you use to kneel whenever I arrived, Emma? What’s changed? Grown a pair, have you?” Erwin continued to sneer as anger flooded through Levi’s veins.

I’ll ensure that these people shall pay for what they have done to my mother for the past twenty years!

“I’m sorry, Mr. Braus. I’ll do it right now.”

Emma was about to kneel before the man, but Levi stopped her.

“Don’t, Mom. You shall bow to no one.”

“Mom? So this is your son?” Shocked, Erwin shifted his focus to Levi. “This is Levi Garrison? Tell me, old swine, how did this bastard find you?”

Erwin was surprised because he always heard his father promising the Garrisons that nobody would know that Emma was in Margo City, especially not those who were close to her.

Never did they expect Emma’s son to have found her.

If the Garrisons were to find out about this, their family alone would be ruined, if not massacred.

Erwin perspired all over at the thought of it.

“Well done, Levi. I didn’t expect you to have stumbled upon this place,” admitted Erwin after taking a deep breath.

“Emma, you should know the rules. Whoever knows about you and your location will be killed, let alone your son. He’ll never walk out of here alive because we can’t have the world know of your true identities.”

A murderous glint flashed in Erwin’s eyes before he coldly ordered, “Kill all three of them!” If it were the usual, Erwin would have captured a beauty like Zoey for his own enjoyment. However, there was too much at stake then.

The Protector Chapter 926

Chapter 926 Breaking The Rules

When Emma and Zoey heard that Erwin wanted them killed, both of them panicked.

"Please spare my son, Mr. Braus. I'd never said that I wanted to leave Margo City.

Heck, I wouldn't even leave this courtyard!" begged Emma after kneeling before the man.

"Mom, what are you doing?"

Levi quickly helped his mother up.

"What if he spreads the information that you're here or goes to the Garrisons? I can't allow that to happen. My father would never allow it! Killing them is the only way to avoid complications," insisted Erwin.

"Kill me if you have to, but please let my son live!"

Emma stood determinedly before her three guests.

"You've broken the rules, Emma. They'll have to die."

With a wave of his hand, dozens of Erwin's men rushed inside with shiny daggers in their hands.

"Close your eyes, Mom. You too, Zoey," instructed Levi.

The two women did as they were told, and the frightening noises that followed only made them more afraid to open their eyes.

After a while, silence fell upon the scene. Afraid that something had happened to Levi, the two finally opened their eyes, only to see the other men lying motionlessly on the ground.

Staring at the unscathed Levi, Erwin was dumbfounded.

The man could not believe his eyes when he witnessed Levi crushing his men effortlessly. How can someone who had grown up an orphan be this powerful?

“Tell The King of Margo City that I’ll be waiting for him here. He kept my mother here for nearly thirty years, didn’t he?”

I want him to watch as I walk away with her,” commanded Levi calmly.

“What?”

Erwin was stupefied by how arrogant Levi was.

Why would he want to do it in front of my father, The King of Margo City?

Levi glanced at the tombstone. “This is what you’ve used to keep my mother here for more than twenty years. I’m going to destroy it today.”

Crack!

Levi broke the tombstone into pieces with a strong kick while Erwin and Emma watched on with widened eyes.

It had been almost thirty years since the Garrisons had erected the tombstone there, and it was finally destroyed that day.

Its destruction was a challenge to the Garrisons and the rules that they had set for the past few decades.

Erwin was so horrified that he quickly took off to find The King of Margo City.

“We’re in trouble now, Levi! The Garrisons will never let us get away with destroying the tombstone,” stated Emma.

The Return of the God of War [The Protector]

Chapter 927

Chapter 927 The Ancient Family Of Erudia

"It's simple, Mom. Nobody will erect a tombstone for me while I'm alive. Anyone who tries to do so will die," responded Levi with a smile.

"You're too young to fully understand what you're up against, Levi. You have no idea how powerful the Garrisons are." Emma shook her head helplessly.

"Is that so? I'd like to see it for myself."

Since Phoenix was unable to gain access to their information, Levi was curious to find out.

"Did you know that the prominent families in Erudia are century-old, while the ancient ones are millennia-old? The Garrisons happened to be the most powerful family of them all, and they were known as The Head of Erudia!"

Over the years, the Garrisons had gradually hidden themselves to the point that even their identities' had become top secret. Still, those who knew anything about powerful families knew that the Garrison family was the most powerful in Erudia.

"The Joneses were considered a prominent family in South Hampton, but when compared to the Garrisons, we're nothing. Because of the inferior blood that runs in my veins, I'm not worthy of being part of the Garrison family. They refused to allow me to stay with your biological father, let alone allow you to be born," continued Emma.

"The Head of Erudia, huh? Interesting," responded Levi with a smile.

No wonder the files on the Garrisons were SSSSS-level classified. I didn't know that they were so powerful.

The corners of Levi's mouth lifted higher as he smirked.

Too bad for them, the confidentiality of my files is SSSSSS-level, a level higher than theirs. So what if they are the most powerful ancient family in Erudia? They're no match for me.

"What the most powerful ancient family says shall go. They allowed me to give birth to you, but in exchange, I was to be imprisoned here. You'd broken the rules when you'd destroyed the tombstone, and they won't take it lightly."

Emma was in despair because she knew that the Garrisons would never allow any of them to leave Margo City.

Not to mention, letting the world know that Levi was a Garrison.

They had every reason to make the four disappear from the face of the earth.

I don't mind dying, but I don't want to see my son being killed. I'd only just met him.

The thought was enough to bring Emma to tears once again.

Zoey was almost as frightened as her mother-in-law when she heard about the Garrisons.

Even the Joneses of South Hampton submit to them, so how can we hope to fight against a family that is so powerful?

They'll probably merely have to lift a finger to obliterate us.

Zoey shuddered when she thought of how superior the Garrisons were.

To her, it was like a battle between gods and mortals.

Zoey then glared at Levi before she scolded him, "Levi, you're far too impulsive! You may not care about yourself, but you've endangered your mother. Why can't we just think of another solution?"

The Return of the God of War [The Protector]

Chapter 928

Chapter 928 The One Who Imprisoned My Mother

Emma could not help but agree with Zoey because her daughter-in-law was right about her son being impulsive.

I'm happy that my son is capable, but he has to learn how to pick his fights.

"Now that the tombstone has been destroyed, it wouldn't make a difference even if I stayed, so let's get out of here before The King of Margo City arrives!" requested Emma.

"We're in no hurry, Mom," responded Levi with a smile.

"What?"

Both Emma and Zoey were stunned by Levi's response.

What is Levi thinking? He's the one who wanted me to leave with him earlier. Now that I've agreed, why are we not leaving?

"Don't worry. We will leave eventually, but I have a score to settle first," assured Levi when he noticed how confused the two seemed.

"I'll make them pay for what they'd done to you for over twenty years, so we'll wait for them here."

"The past doesn't bother me. What's important to me is your safety. Trust me, you wouldn't want to face The King of Margo City. Let's just leave!"

"Sylas, get them out of here," ordered Levi after forcing his mother and wife into the car.

Sylas then quickly drove away, leaving Levi alone.

Before long, The King of Margo City arrived with a dozen cars and several trucks, as hundreds of men stepped out of the vehicles.

As the title suggested, the man was the king of the city, and he could summon hundreds to the courtyard with a raise of his arm.

When The King of Margo City, Amos, and his son arrived, they only saw a calm-looking man.

The man, with his hands behind his back, looked as though he was waiting for them.

"Where's Emma that old swine?" shouted Amos.

"She probably took off. We just spotted a car outside," answered Erwin.

"Father, let me go after her."

"No. I have eyes all over Margo City. They won't get away," stated Amos coldly before entering the courtyard to stare at Levi. "So, you're Emma's bastard son?"

Without a hint of emotion, Levi remained silent.

"Weren't you an orphan who was abandoned to the streets? How did you find this place?"

Amos was curious as to how Levi had done it.

"Answer my father, you bastard! Are you dumb?" roared Erwin.

"You're not worth it."

The arrogant answer stunned Amos, who never expected anyone to speak to him in such a manner.

"So you're The King of Margo City? The one who'd imprisoned my mother for almost thirty years?" asked Levi.

Amos laughed out loud before replying, "That's right. I'm the one who's kept that old swine here."

The Return of the God of War [The Protector]

Chapter 929

Chapter 929 Reward For Killing Levi

"The Garrisons only wanted me to keep the old swine in Margo City. It was me who decided to imprison her in this city block, forbidding anyone from socializing with her. I also made her clean the sewers and deliberately raised the prices for the medications to torture her."

The man seemed to enjoy remembering how Emma had suffered. "You may not have seen it before, but it was amazing to watch her writhe in agony during the rainy days. I'll never forget the sight. There's only so much a person can take before they succumb to the pain."

Levi's face darkened as he clenched his fists.

"Are you even a human being? Do you have a conscience?" asked Levi coldly.

Amos laughed once more. "Calm down, boy. You should blame your mother because this is what happens to people who have offended the Garrisons. I could have treated her a lot worse, you know?"

Erwin agreed, "It's true. I only give her a casual beating once every three days and a serious one, once every five days."

"The old swine can really take a beating, can't she? She's still alive after all of these years. What a miracle!"

Listening to their conversation, Levi tried his best to hold back his tears. These heartless animals!

"Look at how upset he is. I think that he wants to kill us." "Look at how scary his face is."

The men ridiculed Levi for being angry and had a good laugh for themselves.

Levi then smiled with a murderous intent.

"I'm guessing that everyone present had a hand in bullying my mother, right?" asked Levi coldly.

"That's right. Every single one of us has hit your mother before. So what?"

Then, Amos and all his men continued to laugh.

"Good. I just needed to hear you say it because you'll all pay for hurting my mother!" promised Levi before his mouth curved into a disturbing smirk.

He had not had a good fight since he had gotten back from the front line of the warzone.

Even taking Assassin 47 was a breeze.

Today's going to be different because these people will suffer my wrath. How unfortunate for them to have met the God of War!

"Make us pay? Who do you think you are?"

"Look around. You're outnumbered!"

Once again, the men laughed as though Levi had made a fool of himself.

"I've heard that he's skilled at fighting. Let's put that to the test. Seize him!" ordered Amos as dozens of men rushed forward.

"The Garrisons will reward me for killing this boy."

Amos laughed in excitement.

The Return of the God of War [The Protector]

Chapter 930

Chapter 930 The Horrifying Side Of Levi

The King of Margo City was sure that his dozens of elites would have no problem in regard to dealing with Levi.

“Kill him!”

The men gave it their all to take Levi’s life.

Thud! Thud! Thud!

The next moment, Amos froze in terror because he had witnessed the impossible.

The men that he had sent to kill Levi were driven back as if they had been hit by a truck.

Thump! Thump! Thump!

One by one, the men fell to the ground with blood gurgling in their mouths.

Their bodies twitched and squirmed before coming to a halt.

The men merely passed out because of their broken ribs. Levi thought that the bone fractures were punishment enough for them and that there was no need to kill them.

“What?”

Amos and his remaining men were dumbfounded at the sight that lay before them.

How can he be that powerful?

“We’ve underestimated him, father. We need to send everyone over,” suggested Erwin.

“Go! All of you!”

At Amos’ command, hundreds of men broke through the courtyard walls and doors to swarm in like locusts.

“You’re vastly outnumbered! Let’s see how long it’ll take before my men tire you out.”

Amos looked at Levi and cackled.

“Let’s see how good you are.” Then, as though they were getting ready for a good show, Erwin lit some cigarettes for his father and himself before leaning casually against a car.

Due to the crowd, the two could not actually bear witness to how the battle was going, but they believed that Levi would die from exhaustion if he had not been beaten to death.

The father and son merely had to wait for the result.

A minute later, they started to notice their men backing away from the courtyard.

Peeping through a gap in the crowd, the two were surprised to see a mountain of fallen men in the courtyard.

The men were only backing away because there was hardly any space left inside.

There are people everywhere on the ground, and some are even stacked up upon others.

Levi must have defeated them all! Nevertheless, how is that possible?

The two were so horrified that they both dropped their cigarettes as they began to break into a cold sweat.

Then, they finally spotted Levi, the God of War himself.

Wherever the God of War went, people were bound to drop like flies.

Like a powerful weapon, the man could break bones just by swinging his iron fists.

The invincible God of War had no problem in defeating hundreds of Amos' men.

Horror! It's pure horror!

The situation that unfolded next was rather unbelievable.

The Protector Chapter 931

Chapter 931 My Mother Got Lucky

Like a cannon, Levi shot his right fist into a man and sent him flying toward the crowd. It was as if the man had been hit by a sports car with five hundred horsepower.

Crack! Crack! Crack!

In an instant, more than thirty men were sent flying as the sound of bones cracking filled the air.

Those who were hit by Levi either had broken ribs, broken backs, or broken legs.

None of them walked away without a bone fracture because Levi's punches were unbelievably powerful.

Amos was stupefied at the sight.

How can someone be this terrifying?

Levi put on a show as he cruelly beat up hundreds of men, making them wail helplessly.

Instead of killing those men, Levi crippled them as punishment for hurting his mother.

Sigh!

Levi sighed with relief as he dusted off his hands.

Around him were people laying over all the place, stacked up like mountains.

While Levi stood there with his chest puffed, the Brauses froze with their mouths wide open.

The two had trouble believing what they had just witnessed.

Is he even human?

He just crippled almost six hundred men by himself.

These men will be bedridden for a year!

Thud!

Erwin slipped from the car and sat down helplessly on the ground.

This is just too frightening. I've never seen anyone this good.

"You're next!"

Step by step, Levi walked toward the two.

"We... We're sorry! You should know that we've actually treated your mother fairly. We never... We never gave her a hard time," stuttered Erwin.

"That's funny. Didn't you just tell me about how you used to torture her?" Levi sneered.

Amos smiled apologetically before responding, "We... We were merely kidding. Why would we torture your mother? We wanted nothing but the best for her."

"It's true. We've been good to her. Just think about it, Mr. Garrison. It's been nearly thirty years. How could she have survived if we weren't good to her?" reminded Erwin.

"She would have passed away a long time ago if we'd tortured her, but she's alive and well. That proves that we've been nice to her," added Amos with a smile.

"That's because she got lucky! She was strong!" roared Levi suddenly, which scared the living daylights out of the Brauses.

"Why don't you take a guess at what I'm about to do to you guys," suggested Levi with a smirk.

The Return of the God of War [The Protector]

Chapter 932

Chapter 932 Going Against The Garrisons

The Brauses knew well that Levi's smirk could only mean trouble for them.

"Please spare us, Mr. Garrison! We were only following orders."

"We're no different than dogs!"

The two quickly begged Levi for his forgiveness.

"The masters may be despicable, but the dogs aren't any better."

A murderous glint suddenly flashed across Levi's eyes before he grabbed Amos by the collar and lifted the man off the ground.

Amos kicked his legs in the air as his face quickly turned red from suffocation.

Thump!

Crack!

Levi punched Amos on the ribs, and immediately, the sound of bone cracking could be heard.

The punch had completely fractured the man's ribs.

"Argh!" Amos cried out in agony.

Thump!

Crack!

“Argh!”

The other side of his rib cage was broken too.

Thump!

Crack!

Next was his breastbone, which collapsed after it was struck.

Thump!

Crack!

Another punch landed on his nose, and Amos' face was sunken in.

Thump!

Crack!

Thump!

Crack!

Levi smashed every bone in the man's body, including his arms and legs.

The King of Margo City had bone fractures all over his body.

His bones were so smashed up that they were almost powder-like.

Amos passed out eight times during his beating.

He would wake up when Levi's punches landed on him before passing out again, and he continuously screamed with pain.

“Now, it’s your turn!”

Levi threw Amos aside before picking Erwin up.

Like what he had done to the man before, Levi broke Erwin’s bones, one by one, with his punches.

Erwin was weaker than his father. The son passed out thirteen times and screamed even louder.

The two went through hell at Levi’s hands and could only lie motionlessly on the ground because all of their bones were broken.

“Compared to what my mother has been through, this is mercy. I should have simply killed you,” stated Levi calmly.

The Brauses looked at Levi with fear because they knew that the man would continue to haunt them in their dreams.

“You’re only alive because I need you to send the Garrisons a message,” explained Levi.

“Tell them that Levi Garrison’s back and that nobody is to imprison my mother. I’ll kill anyone who tries to do so! One more thing. Tell them that I’ll pay them a visit soon. The most powerful ancient family in Erudia is now my enemy!”

The Return of the God of War [The Protector]

Chapter 933

Chapter 933 We Will Not Bow To An Orphan

“I... I admit that you’re powerful, but you’re nothing... Nothing compared to the Garrisons.”

It took every bit of strength in Amos to force out those words.

They're the most powerful ancient family in Erudia, The Head of Erudia!

There's no way that one man can overthrow a millennia-old ancient family.

They'll never bow to a bastard like Levi.

"That's also why I didn't kill you. I want you to witness how I crush the Garrisons," explained Levi calmly.

Thump!

He then stomped on the ground with both of his feet, causing the house that had imprisoned Emma for nearly thirty years to collapse and turn into billows of smoke.

After that, Levi turned to leave the place.

He had finally destroyed his mother's decades-old prison that day and undermined the Garrison's authority.

Glancing at Levi's back, the Brauses scoffed, "You can't escape the Garrisons. You'll see eventually."

At that moment, Sylas had already left Margo City.

Although there were obstacles along the way, they were nothing that she could not handle.

On top of that, Zoey had powerful allies watching over her, like the fully-recovered Hades.

Most of the obstacles along their way were already taken care of.

"What happened to my son? Please. We have to go back," begged Emma in tears.

Zoey was also worried about leaving Levi alone.

"Don't worry. Mr. Garrison is fine," assured Sylas confidently.

She was somewhat regretful that she did not get to see the God of War in all of his glory.

“Sylas, you seem to have a lot of faith in Levi.”

It was by women’s intuition that Zoey noticed how Sylas had changed her attitude toward Levi.

Sylas used to see Levi as her enemy, but she has since changed and she now seems to revere him.

The same thing happened to Iris.

Somewhere along the line, she began to treat Levi differently, as if he was a changed man.

Like Sylas, she’d put a lot of faith in Levi and had seemed to revere him too.

What happened to the both of them?

Zoey was starting to get paranoid and thought that everyone was hiding something from her.

“Mr. Garrison is not a reckless man,” explained Sylas.

At that point, a call came in from Levi, so Zoey and Emma finally heaved a sigh of relief.

“He wants us to return to South City without him. He’ll meet us there.”

Zoey then asked Sylas to continue driving.

“Emma, the border is just up ahead. When we pass it, you will have finally stepped out of Margo City,” uttered Zoey as she looked sympathetically at Emma.

What a poor woman!

She’s been imprisoned here for half her lifetime.

“No! I can’t do it!” exclaimed Emma suddenly when she was reminded by Zoey.

“If I step out of Margo City, we’ll be doome

The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 934

Chapter 934 Live And Die Together

“What’s wrong, Emma?” asked Zoey in confusion.

“I will have broken my vow if I leave! The Garrisons will surely kill Levi! I know better than anyone just how powerful they are. You may not know this, but the Garrisons had sent a servant to silence the entire South Hampton.

The servant made sure that everyone in the city said nothing of me. He was merely a servant to the Garrison family, and he alone was enough to frighten an entire city! Imagine what the entire family can do!”

When Zoey and Syllas heard that, they both took a deep breath, for they had a new understanding of the Garrisons’ strength.

If their servant was powerful enough to control the entire South Hampton, it’s hard to imagine how much more powerful the Garrison family is.

“The King of Margo City was nothing to the Garrisons. He’s not even worthy of being their guard dog. That’s why I can’t leave this city.

For Levi’s sake, I insist on staying here!”

Emma then quickly got out of the car.

“You can’t do this, Emma! I know Levi. He’ll never give you up, not even if he has to go against the Garrisons or die trying. He won’t let you walk away like this.”

Zoey immediately stopped Emma, who pessimistically responded, "I don't want anything bad to happen to the both of you. It doesn't matter how hard we try, we'll never beat the Garrisons."

"That's fine with me. From the day I married Levi, I've sworn to be by his side no matter what. We will live and die together! Whatever comes, we'll get through it together!"

"Good girl! Levi is blessed to have a wife like you."

Emma was moved by her daughter-in-law's words.

When they reached South City, Zoey immediately brought Emma to barbershops and beauty salons in the malls to give her mother-in-law a makeover.

"Emma, we'll get the best doctors to treat you, and you'll be in the pink of health again," promised Zoey as she held Emma's arm.

The three were about to enter a barbershop when a car suddenly drove toward them.

Then, Meredith, Robert, and the others stepped out of the car.

"What are you doing, Zoey?" asked Meredith coldly.

"Grandpa, Grandma, let me introduce you to... "

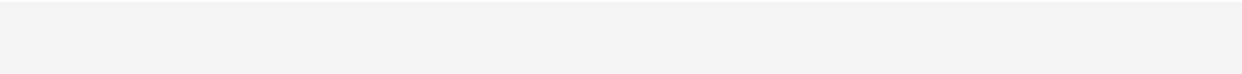

Before Zoey could finish, Meredith interrupted, "There's no need for that. We know who this is. She is Levi's mother, isn't she?"

Meredith glanced at Emma with disgust.

She looks older than I'd thought.

Not only does she look dirty, rather, but she also reeks.

"Let go of her now! She's filthy!" commanded Meredith.

The Return of the God of War [The Protector]

Chapter 935

Chapter 935 Stay Away From Her

Self-conscious, Emma lowered her head and dared not to look at the well-dressed Meredith.

Nearly thirty years of hardship had taken its toll on the woman. Emma went from being a rich girl to a lowly old woman.

Thinking about her son was the only thing that kept her alive.

Otherwise, she would have already killed herself.

Feeling inferior after what Meredith had said, Emma subconsciously moved her arm and kept her distance from Zoey.

“Grandma, this is Levi’s mother, but she’s also my... “

Meredith interrupted her granddaughter once again, “Are you trying to tell me that she’s your mother-in-law?”

You and Levi are divorced, so that man has nothing to do with you anymore, much less his filthy mother. Just look at how dirty she is! And the horrible smell! How can you be related to a beggar like her?”

Meredith’s words only further deprecated Emma’s self-esteem.

She knew that she was only a liability to her son and daughter-in-law, regardless of her identity or other aspects.

“Grandma! How can you say that?” exclaimed Zoey.

“Do you even know what you’re doing, Zoey? Have you no idea who you are? You’re the director of the Oriental Star Group, and your net worth is more than ten billion! You’re even in charge of a fifty-billion project! Let me also remind you that you’re the granddaughter of the prominent Black family.

How can you stand next to a beggar? To make things worse, she’s the mother of your Ex-husband! Are you not ashamed of yourself?”

Meredith did not give her granddaughter a chance to speak. “You’re a famous entrepreneur in this city.

People look at you as you walk down the street, and paparazzi stalk you. Imagine if they’d caught you walking around with a beggar. It’ll ruin both you and your company. Not to mention the Black family! Have you not thought of these consequences?”

“Your Grandma is right. Our family may not be of noble descent, but we’re respected in South City. We’ll let go of what happened between you and Levi, but we’ll never agree to you hanging out with his filthy mother! Now come with us!” chimed in Robert, who then forced his granddaughter into the car.

“You too, Sylas!”

Meredith pushed Sylas to the car herself, and there was nothing that Sylas could do about it.

After all, she did not want to argue with Meredith, so she secretly texted Levi.

“If I see you disturbing my granddaughter again, I’ll kick you out of South City, you beggar!” threatened Meredith before leaving.

Vroom!

Left alone in a strange place, Emma felt as though her surroundings were spinning around her.

The Protector Chapter 936

Chapter 936 The Tragedy Of A Wrong Match

Emma began to regret leaving Margo City.

Not only have I upset the Garrisons, but I've also affected Zoey's life and business. Possibly even her relationship with Levi!

Zoey's family was right in keeping their distance from me.

That way, the Garrisons won't go after them.

Looking around, Emma only felt increasingly self-conscious and afraid.

I'll probably be doing everyone a favor if I'd just killed myself.

"Mom!"

Just when Emma was considering suicide, she heard her son's voice.

"Levi, your wife... "

"I know, Mom. Don't blame yourself. No one despises my mother!"

Afterward, Levi gave his mother a makeover, which caused her to look much younger than before.

Although traces of her age and the hardship that she went through could not be removed, Levi believed that things would only get better for his mother from thereon forth.

The son promised to never allow his mother to suffer again.

“Mom, do you want to go to South Hampton?” asked Levi. Surprisingly, Emma shook her head.

“No.

Bad things have happened to people around me. The Jones family was almost ruined because of me.”

“Then, we’ll stay in South City for now. After Zoey and I get married again, we’ll move to North Hampton.”

Levi did not want his mother to be in danger, so he brought her back to the Warzone compound.

Emma was relieved to see the compound again.

She would have been uncomfortable if she were to stay in a big manor.

Looking at the compound, Emma was smart enough to figure out why Zoey’s grandparents had wanted nothing to do with her or her son. Zoey had a net worth of tens of billions, while Levi was evidently worth much less.

Zoey would make a wonderful daughter-in-law, but she’s out of our league. This kind of mismatched marriage can only end in tragedy.

Emma harbored such thoughts to herself.

Isn’t that what happened to my own marriage?

The Joneses were not worthy of the Garrisons, and hence, my tragedy.

I should dissuade Levi from marrying Zoey because I know that it’s not going to end well.

At the compound, the Azure Dragon and his gang knelt before Emma when they found out who she was.

“Oh, there’s no need for such courtesy! Please get up.” Emma chuckled.

“They are family to me, Mom. You’ll be safe here with them. Nobody’s going to bully you when they’re around,” assured Levi.

As comforting as that sounded, Emma was not convinced that any of them could stop the Garrisons.

If only it were that easy.

The Return of the God of War [The Protector]

Chapter 937

Chapter 937 Get Rid Of Them

Little did Emma know that kneeling before her was the Five Great Wars Regiment.

Other than the God of War himself, no one else could match them.

In fact, the Cavalry Regiment was also hiding in the dark and ready to pounce.

With those warriors around, nobody would dare to attack the compound.

On the other side, Meredith had Zoey kneel on the ground back at home as punishment.

“You’ll only get up when you admit to your mistake!”

Rage flowed through Meredith like lava.

“What’s going on, Mom? What did Zoey do?” asked Aaron and Caitlyn as they hurried over.

“You’ll never guess who she’d gone out with today. It was Levi’s filthy mother!” shouted Meredith as she glared at the two.

“Isn’t Levi an orphan? How would he have a mother?”

The couple looked at each other in bafflement.

“You two really don’t know, do you? Levi’s no orphan because his mother is alive. It’s a shame that she turned out to be a beggar, though. The woman looked older than me! The wrinkles on her were horrifying! She was dirty and smelly like someone who had just crawled out of the sewer,” complained Meredith.

“I think that she is a sanitation worker. I noticed the uniform that she was wearing,” added Robert.

“Zoey was walking around with that beggar on a bustling street. If the paparazzi took a photo of that, Zoey would be in big trouble. Besides, she’s already divorced from Levi, so who is she to go shopping with the man’s mother?” continued Meredith furiously.

Aaron and Caitlyn were upset as well when they heard that. “You’re in the wrong here, Zoey. Why did you go out with Levi’s mother? Didn’t we tell you to stay away?”

“Levi was never a capable man. You’re way out of that kept man’s league! And now, he’s even brought his beggar of a mother along. The two of them are trying to live off of you!”

“Levi’s filthy mother must have heard about you. That’s why she’s deliberately trying to take advantage of you.”

The couple exchanged looks before Zoey finally voiced out, “Mom! Dad! It’s not what you think it is! She’s not that kind of person.”

Zoey wanted to tell them the truth about Emma so badly, but it did not seem like a good idea.

“I don’t care what kind of person she is, and I have no interest in finding out either.”

“We have only one thing to tell you. From now on, you and Levi are over. You’ll have nothing to do with that man anymore. Even if our family has to exhaust every resource and call in all favors, we’ll make sure that the two of you are separated!”

“Or, we’ll simply drive Levi and his mother out of Quebec,” threatened Robert and Meredith in unison.

The Blacks were hellbent on separating Zoey and Levi, no matter the cost.

The Return of the God of War [The Protector]

Chapter 938

Chapter 938 One Man Against A City

Zoey was stunned, for she never expected her parents and the entire Black family to oppose her marriage.

“You will kneel until you learn your mistake!”

Meredith glared daggers at Zoey.

“Hurry up and admit that you’re wrong, Zoey. Apologize to your Grandma,” ordered Caitlyn and Aaron.

“I’ve done nothing wrong,” insisted Zoey.

“Then, you shall continue to kneel. Let’s see how long you can keep this up,” responded Meredith angrily.

She never had any problems in regard to controlling the other young ones in the family.

Zoey was the only one who was always rebelling against her grandmother, and that was why Meredith felt that her authority was challenged.

Meanwhile, in Margo City, Amos and his men were being carried away by family members because nobody could move.

It did not take long before the one handling Amos heard of what happened.

Amos only knew that the man's name was Caleb and that he was a servant to the Garrisons.

Caleb was the servant who had rampaged through the entire South Hampton, silencing the city overnight.

Amos was unable to imagine just how powerful the Garrisons were, seeing that their servant could do that much to a city.

The man trembled all over when his phone rang.

"Do you know what you've done, Amos?" asked a cold voice.

"I... I do."

Amos was so frightened that he could almost cry.

"You'd better have a good explanation for Emma's absence in Margo City. Even her courtyard was laid to waste!"

"To tell you the truth, Emma's bastard son came for her, and he was insanely powerful. My men were crippled and so was I. Mr. Garrison, you have to avenge us. He had even said that he was not afraid of your family and that he'll be seeing you soon."

Amos exaggerated the incident, in hopes of getting the Garrisons to avenge him, but Caleb merely laughed in response.

"That bastard thinks that he can challenge the most powerful ancient family in Erudia? He's not even worthy of being my opponent, let alone the entire Garrison family. Heck, he's not even worth mentioning to the Garrisons."

Levi thought that the Garrisons would hear about him when he instructed Amos to send the message, but little did he know that he had not earned a mention yet.

The man's appearance was not even worth mentioning to the Garrisons. Such news had merely reached the family's servant.

“Since Emma has broken the rules, the Garrisons no longer have to abide by the agreement.

Levi and his mother are nothing but a nuisance to the family, so the only way to deal with them is to kill them!” exclaimed Caleb as a murderous intent flashed across his eyes.

“Excellent.”

Amos almost cheered out loud.

The Return of the God of War [The Protector]

Chapter 939

Chapter 939 Is This Your Mother

“Even the servant despises Levi, let alone the Garrison family. What makes him think that he has a chance against the Garrisons?” Erwin gritted his teeth in anger.

The man was not exaggerating because the Garrisons were indeed unbelievably powerful.

In the Brauses’ opinion, no matter how powerful Levi was, he would not be able to do a thing about the Garrisons.

Going against the most powerful ancient family would only get the man killed.

The Brauses were about to celebrate when they heard Caleb’s voice. “This will be the last mistake that you’ll ever make.”

Boom!

Suddenly, the Brauses’ heads exploded.

A prominent family like the Garrisons would never have allowed the Brauses to live. They had always been decisive in tying up loose ends, and they would never tolerate mistakes.

Seeing what happened with Emma, they had to contain the situation.

“But... “

There was a deathly silence in Amos’ eyes.

Even with his bones broken, Amos thought that he could at least live, but things did not turn out as he expected.

That night, anyone who knew about Emma disappeared along with the Brauses.

On the other side, Zoey had knelt for a full day but still believed that she did nothing wrong, so Meredith decided to stop the corporal punishment. After all, Zoey was the hope and future of their family.

Meredith and her husband then had a discussion with Zoey’s parents. “Let’s find Levi and his mother.

Then, we’ll drive them out of Quebec so that Zoey will never see them again.”

“I believe that this will work. We should also buy them off.”

Aaron and Caitlyn immediately agreed with the suggestion before heading off to the Warzone compound with Meredith and Robert.

Levi was surprised to see them there. “What brings you here?”

“Where’s your mother, Levi? Call her out,” ordered Meredith.

“What’s going on, Levi?”

Emma stepped out when she heard the commotion.

Both Aaron and Caitlyn grimaced when they caught sight of how weak and old Emma was. They soon realized that Meredith was not exaggerating at all.

What a disgrace!

Having her with us would be an insult to the family!

This ugly-looking thing shall never be our in-law!

Levi was bad enough, but his mother is even worse!

We were right to insist on the divorce.

Mother really does know best!

This time, we'll make sure that Zoey doesn't end up with Levi again.

"So, this is your mother, Levi?" asked Aaron.

"That's right. What about it?"

"Hahaha!"

Suddenly, Aaron burst out laughing.

The Return of the God of War [The Protector]

Chapter 940

Chapter 940 Get Out Both Of You

Levi was puzzled, but the sensitive Emma could tell that Aaron was mocking her.

The mother felt terrible for bringing shame upon her son.

"Aren't you an orphan? Seeing as such, why would you have a filthy... I mean, is this a joke?" inquired Aaron.

Levi shook his head. "I'm not joking. This is my mother."

"So, you'll live with your mother?" chimed in Caitlyn.

"She's my mother. Of course, she has to stay with me."

"You're a good son, but have you thought about your future?" asked Aaron seriously.

"What does that mean?"

"Didn't you say that you'd wanted to marry Zoey and have a grand wedding? Now that you've found your mother, are you planning to have her stay with you and Zoey?"

Aaron was trying to control his anger.

"Of course! Zoey's already met my mother, and they had no problem getting along. I don't see why we can't live together."

"I don't think so!" roared Aaron suddenly.

"Do you know what people say about you?"

Almost everyone at Morris knows that you're a deadbeat. Are you and your mother planning to live off of Zoey for the rest of your miserable lives?"

Caitlyn then chimed in, "Are you going to bring your father home with you too? Do you seriously think that Zoey owes your family that much?"

Supporting you wasn't enough? Now, she has to support your parents too?"

"We wouldn't complain if they'd at least looked decent, but just look at your mother! She's nothing but a disease-carrying old hag!"

"You've brought shame to Zoey. What has she done to deserve this?"

Under the couple's barrage of insults, Emma broke down in tears.

I'm nothing but a liability to my son!

"Besides, Zoey's the star entrepreneur of Quebec. Her net worth will reach fifty billion, if not hundreds of billions, in the future. She'll be one of the elites in the upper class while your mother will remain a lowly sanitation worker. You and your family are not worthy of Zoey!" voiced Meredith.

"People will make fun of us for having in-laws like you!" added Robert.

Emma trembled all over when her worries actually came true.

She knew that her son could never be with Zoey because their relationship could only end in a tragedy.

"So what? What exactly are you guys here for?" asked Levi with a smile.

Aaron and Caitlyn were acquainted with Levi, so it was hard for them to be straightforward with the man.

"We want you and your mother to leave Quebec!" Meredith sneered.

The Protector Chapter 941

"You need to realize that you'll never be with Zoey! You're not worthy, so we won't let you have her."

"Not only that, but you also have to leave Quebec. Having you here will only affect Zoey, so we want both you and your mother to leave."

Seeing how straightforward Meredith was, Robert quickly added, "Of course, we'll make it worth your while. You'll receive fifty million and you'll be assigned jobs in real estate. That should be enough to last you a lifetime. Our only condition is that you leave Zoey alone."

Aaron took a deep breath while Caitlyn sighed. "We're friends, right? Hence, please do this for Zoey and us."

"You should take the offer, Levi," urged Emma with mixed feelings.

"Huh?"

Meredith and the others were surprised to find that Emma was not a gold-digger like they had expected her to be. They never expected her to agree with them.

"I'll be honest with you, Levi. Zoey's a nice girl, but she's out of your league. It'll only end in tragedy. Just look at what happened to me."

Emma had also wanted to keep Zoey safe from the Garrisons, and asking Levi to let go of her was the only way.

"Did you hear that, Levi? You should listen to your mother. You may have a big mouth, but it's time to face your reality," snickered Meredith.

Levi gazed deeply into his mother's eyes as he began to think to himself.

You may think that I'm out of Zoey's league, but that's only because you don't know how powerful I've become.

There's no one in Erudia that can match me.

With a wave of her hand, Meredith signaled Jennie to hand a check and other things over to Emma.

"We don't need such things or your pity!"

Levi stopped Jennie in her tracks.

"You should know that I go wherever I please. I'm in charge of my own fate! I will not let go of Zoey because we're truly in love with each other. Nobody can come between us."

Levi made his intentions crystal clear.

As long as Zoey loves me, no one can separate us.

The God of War was afraid of no one.

"Do you still call yourself a man? Are you not ashamed of yourself for clinging onto Zoey like that? Even your mother has asked you to let go of her, so stop bothering Zoey!" shouted Jennie furiously.

"Stay out of my business," responded Levi after glaring at the woman.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 942

Robert and Meredith then stormed off and were determined to drive Levi and his mother out of the city.

"No matter what, Levi will never be good enough for you, so don't even think about marrying him!" shouted Zoey's parents when they got back home to her.

Zoey already knew what they had done, and she wanted so badly to reveal Levi's relationship to both the Joneses and the Garrisons.

However, that would probably only make things more complicated, seeing that the Blacks were terrified of the Garrisons.

Zoey could not help but feel sorry for Levi and his mother.

Not only did they have to deal with the Garrisons, rather, but they also had the Blacks breathing down their necks.

What should I do about this?

Zoey got anxious when Meredith and the others started to discuss how they would drive Levi and his mother out.

"Levi's good at fighting, so we have to get someone better if we want them out."

Meanwhile, Emma was crying. "I'm so sorry for the trouble that I've caused, Levi. You wouldn't have had any problem in marrying Zoey if it weren't for me. Now, we'll both be chased off."

"I won't allow it!" stated Levi furiously.

"You're safe here, Emma. We'll make sure of it," promised Azure Dragon, Kirin, and their comrades.

Not even the president himself can do a thing to Emma while we're around.

However, Emma still seemed worried.

This is just the beginning.

Getting kicked out of this city is nothing compared to what the Garrisons are going to do to us.

That night, it was quiet as usual at the Joneses' residence.

The council members of the Jones family were having a discussion in the meeting hall.

Leading the group was Mia, with the ever-helpful Michael by her side.

Thump!

Rumble!

Suddenly, a loud rumbling sound came from the yard, and the earth shook beneath their feet.

"What's going on?"

Everyone quickly rushed out to the yard, only to catch sight of a figure standing there.

The figure sank its feet into the ground and left deep footprints on the yard.

It turned out that the figure's footsteps were the cause of the rumbling.

Michael was scared stiff when he saw the person.

Twenty-eight years ago, that same person killed all the elites in the Jones family and silenced the entire South Hampton, stopping all information from getting out.

Now, he's returned!

Reminded of the horror, Michael immediately fell to his knees.

"You've honored us with your presence, my lord!"

It was Caleb, the servant of the Garrison family, who had arrived.

His cold eyes fell on Michael before he shouted, "How dare you tell that bastard of where Emma was!"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 943

"There must be some mistake! I did no such thing. I don't even know where she was kept!"

Michael panicked as he knelt before the furious servant who could easily destroy his family.

"If you didn't tell him, how did the bastard find out?"

Caleb did not think that Levi was capable of such a feat.

"Who are you calling a bastard? You'd better mind your manners," rebuked a cold female voice.

It was Mia, who would not tolerate anyone calling Levi a bastard.

Michael and the others were stupefied by how she had spoken to the man who took on the entire South Hampton.

Caleb then shifted his focus to Mia. "Who are you?"

"Levi's my brother, and I won't allow you to insult him. Besides, you don't get to speak ill of him."

Mia kept her eyes fixed on Caleb.

Levi's the invincible God of War!

Nobody insults him!

"You'd dare to speak to me in such a tone? Aren't you afraid that I'll kill you?" asked Caleb after sizing the woman up.

Boom!

Caleb's body exuded a murderous aura so terrifying that the color drained from Mia's face.

Suffocating because of her fear, Mia clawed at her throat as though an invisible pair of hands were choking her.

Faced by death itself, Mia could not help but break out into a cold sweat.

Caleb cackled before asking, "What are you going to do if I call Levi a bastard again?"

Even though Mia had difficulty breathing, she forced herself to respond, "I... I will stop you. I'm not... Not afraid of you."

"You've got guts! I like that. I'll spare you for now because I want you to watch me when I kill that bastard," stated Caleb coldly.

"He's going to kill you instead. Do you think you can take on my brother? Dream on! Not even the entire Garrison family can beat him, let alone a servant like you!" shouted Mia with every bit of strength in her.

She had complete faith in Levi even before she knew about his identity, and she was certain that he could beat anyone with his iron fists.

"Hahaha!"

Caleb suddenly cackled because he found it amusing that someone would have such faith in the bastard.

Has this woman lost her mind?

Or is she just not thinking straight?

"So he wants to fight the Garrisons? Then let me tell you of the true strength of the Garrison family... "

When Caleb was done sharing the information on the Garrison family, there was dead silence at the scene.

The Joneses always knew that the Garrisons were powerful, but they never knew just how powerful the family was until that moment itself.

“Do you still think that your brother stands a chance against the Garrisons?”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 944

Mia had a determined expression on her face. “I’ve told you this before. Provoking my brother would be a grave mistake on your end!”

“Sure, sure. Just you watch-I’ll deliver his head to you soon!” Caleb laughed.

Initially, he had plans to exterminate the Joneses that very night.

However, his plans changed with Mia’s appearance.

He wanted the ignorant, innocent lass to witness just how powerful he was-just how fearsome the Garrison family was.

He also wanted her to see just how powerless her brother was when compared to the most powerful ancient family in Erudia.

When Caleb arrived at Greenfield Mansion, the place in which The Three Musketeers were, a funeral was being held, much to his surprise.

He was soon made aware of what happened.

A cold look appeared in Caleb’s eyes. “What? Emma’s child killed Klaus Gonzales in front of Osborn in the Peace Hotel? That b*stard!”

“He’s too arrogant and powerful!”

“We’re discussing how to get rid of him...”

The Three Musketeers wanted to weep but failed to shed a tear.

Although The Three Musketeers and Osborn were nothing in Caleb’s eyes, he had already subjugated them once twenty years ago.

However, they were talking about South Hampton’s strongest presence, after all.

To think that a lowly orphan could do all of this? That’s terrifying!

“Well, he has the blood of the Garrison clan flowing through him, after all. While he is a lowly commoner, that doesn’t mean that he’s weak!”

Caleb chalked Levi’s power up to him having the Garrison clan’s blood running through him, negating the latter’s own efforts and merits in the progress.

“It’s no surprise then that he’s so exceptional. He would only be more powerful if we’d given him more resources,” The Three Musketeers remarked, flabbergasted.

“Yes, that’s right! If we allow him to continue to do as he pleases, there will come a great calamity, posing much threat to the family!”

“Therefore, I will kill him myself!” Coldness radiated from Caleb’s eyes.

Originally, he had planned to send The Three Musketeers to get rid of Levi, because if he had done it himself, he would have risked revealing his identity.

Although he was merely a servant, he was rather invaluable.

Hence, someone like Levi had no right to be granted the honor of getting killed by him.

However, his interest was piqued once he caught news of just how powerful Levi was.

Killing a prodigy would grant him a great sense of achievement.

"If you're the one who's going to kill him, then he's just as good as dead already!"

"After some investigating, we've found out that he's currently at South City."

The Three Musketeers grinned widely.

Klaus will finally be avenged.

That night, Emma had a horrible nightmare.

The servant, Caleb, who once had the whole of South Hampton under his thumb, had come to kill both her and Levi.

Shluk!

In the nightmare, she saw Levi getting stabbed in front of her very two eyes.

She woke up with a start.

When she opened her windows to get some air, she realized that it was not a dream.

It was real!

Caleb's really here!

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 945

On the wall of the Warzone compound, a shadow was cast.

Emma knew all too well who that shadow belonged to; it was Caleb.

The Garrison family had sent someone in their inner ranks.

"Come on out, Emma and her commoner son!"

That one sentence enveloped the entire courtyard in silence.

At this moment, the military dogs started barking.

It turned out that they had not even noticed Caleb until he had spoken.

Emma fell to the ground in fear.

Now that Caleb's here, we're all as good as dead.

I don't care if I die.

All I care about is Levi. He cannot die!

"Sleep well, mom." Levi's voice rang out while he shut the windows.

The next moment, Levi and Azure Dragon appeared in the courtyard.

"Hmm, not bad! That's to be expected of the b*stard with our noble blood flowing in his veins! It's no wonder the peasants all want to climb to nobility! Having noble blood sure is great. Just a little will change the entire course of your life!" Caleb laughed coldly.

In the most powerful families, bloodlines and statuses were extremely important.

For example, Caleb used to have a different first and last name, but when he became a servant of the Garrison family, he was given his current name.

He was extremely honored, and immediately tossed his old name aside.

To him, his new name was a status symbol.

"How insolent! You're merely a servant, yet you dare to talk to my boss in this manner?" Black Tortoise warned in a low muffled voice.

"You sure are capable, punk, to have been able to chase us down all the way to Oakland City! Nonetheless, this is a mistake on your part!"

"I came to kill both you and your mother today!" Caleb shouted coldly.

As soon as they heard that he was here to kill Levi, they all started laughing.

Is he an idiot?

"Do you have a death wish?"

White Tiger had a ruthless smile on his face.

He was excited to finally have a worthy opponent.

"No, let me do it!" Levi stepped forward.

He had heard from his mother that the Garrison family did not care about her at all. For nearly thirty years, the one who controlled her was Caleb, the servant, while The King of Oakland City was his dog.

Therefore, it could be said that Caleb was the one who had brought suffering upon his mother.

I must kill him myself!

"Phoenix, hand me a knife!"

Phoenix handed him a military knife with his name carved on it.

"Interesting, to think that someone who served would challenge me! I wouldn't have thought that a worthless b*stard like you would've served the country!"

As expected, Caleb was extremely skilled in combat- one could tell from his mannerism and his choice of weapon.

"You sure are insightful!" Levi laughed and walked toward Caleb with deliberate footsteps.

"You think you can kill me? What an idiot!" Caleb laughed coldly.

He drew a long knife slowly, and it shone with a pale blue light.

Over twenty years ago, he had conquered South Hampton using this very knife.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 946

"Getting killed by me should be an honor!" Caleb charged forward as soon as he said that.

He was so fast that human eyes could not keep up with him, and it seemed as though he was teleporting.

He was ten times as fast as the King of Assassins.

There were about ten meters of distance between them, but he crossed that in a flash of an eye.

"He's so swift!" Azure Dragon and Kirin exclaimed.

Even on the battlefield, there were not many people who could rival this speed.

Caleb swung his knife with such force that it created a gust of wind so strong that it seemed to have created a forcefield.

However, he did not expect Levi to be swifter than him.

The two of them passed each other and stood still for ten seconds.

Levi blinked.

He was unscathed.

Meanwhile, blood flowed down Caleb's neck.

He widened his eyes in shock.

To think that I would meet my end because of a b*stard like him?

His lifeless body fell to the ground.

If word got out that Caleb was killed by Levi in just a few seconds, many people's jaws would have dropped to the floor in shock.

"Haha, boss, to think that after having not fought in such a long time, you've only gotten stronger." White Tiger laughed heartily.

"As expected of the most powerful ancient family in Erudia- even a mere servant is so powerful!" Azure Dragon analyzed.

"That's right! It's a common saying that the people of Erudia are not to be underestimated."

"What a shame that the Garrison family had met such a monster on the battlefield!"

Upon handing the knife back to Phoenix, Levi uttered indifferently, "Send his body back! I'm officially declaring war on the Garrison family!"

In the room, Emma was still trembling.

"Mom, everything's fine now. Get some sleep." Levi smiled.

"Huh? What happened to Caleb?" Emma was both anxious and fearful.

"He's been taken care of. You're going to be safe from now on," Levi comforted her.

Emma was astonished.

He's so powerful that he could even kill Caleb?

Have I been underestimating him?

Could it be that he actually does have the capabilities to go against the Garrison family?

No.

That's not possible.

No matter how powerful he is, he can't go against the Garrison family.

They're legendary- I would liken their power to that of a dragon.

In the past, Levi's power could be likened to that of an ant, but even now that he became stronger, he's still nothing more than a sparrow.

How could a mere sparrow defeat a dragon?

The Garrison family is way too powerful!

What should we do next?

Once they get news of Caleb's death, the Garrison family will come knocking for sure.

Soon enough, they'll send over someone who is even more powerful than Caleb!

Will Levi be able to defeat that person?

If the Garrison family were to come, the only thing I can do is to plead for them to spare us.

I'll agree to anything that they'll suggest.

If worst comes to worst, I'll die for Levi. After all, I have a valuable secret in my hands.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 947

When Caleb's body was sent back to South Hampton, Osborn and The Three Musketeers were at a loss for words.

Caleb's dead?

Judging from the state of his wound, he was defeated in mere seconds.

Caleb was a legendary presence who conquered South Hampton by himself twenty years ago. To think that he's been killed!

This...

Try as they might, they could not wrap their heads around it.

Someone as powerful as him was defeated in mere seconds?

If word gets out, the world will be shaken!

That Levi- he's so powerful despite being a mere servant.

The fear that the mention of his name brought was remembered vividly, even to this day.

"Just... Just how powerful can he be?" The Three Musketeers began to panic.

Their previous unquenchable thirst for revenge dissipated in an instant.

Besides, who would even dare to take revenge? Nobody would unless they have a death wish.

"Our top priority is to send Caleb back!" Ritchie exclaimed.

"Nevertheless, where do we send him? It's not like we have that many connections," Perseus pressed forth.

When compared to the Garrison clan, they were not even as good as whimpering dogs.

“Mr. St-Jacques, we can only count on you. You have many connections.” The Three Musketeers looked toward Osborn.

He shook his head. “Even so, I don’t have connections with the most powerful ancient family in Erudia. I don’t even have the right to kneel at their door!”

The Three Musketeers sighed in defeat.

The Garrison clan is way too powerful.

To think that even Osborn isn’t acquainted with them!

“However, I do know of a patriarch of one of the Garrison clan’s branch families- Jonah Garrison,” Osborn admitted.

Amongst all the families, there were regular families too; they were called royal families.

Above them, there were imperial families.

It may have been a bit of an exaggeration, but it could be said that, in the past, they would be equivalent to the relatives of the emperor.

Of course, that was simply a metaphor.

And “imperial family” was, after all, just a title.

Not only did they reach the top using terrifying strength, but they also had hundreds of years of heritage and experience under their belts.

Normally, the imperial families would reign for five hundred years, or even more than a thousand years. Hence, the sheer power of a family that had maintained its status for that long could only be imagined.

Yet, the Garrison family was merely a branch family of the Oakland City Garrison clan.

That was the sheer strength of the Garrison clan.

“Alright, seeing as such, let’s send Caleb to the Haven Garrison clan so that they’ll know about this as well!” The Three Musketeers agreed in unison.

“Hopefully, they’ll send someone really powerful this time to take care of that punk!”

“My anger will never cease!” Osborn shouted.

...

At this moment, the Black family was wracking their brains on how to get rid of Levi and Emma.

“Sending someone to chase them out should be reserved as the last alternative! Does anyone have any better ideas?” Meredith asked.

Logan turned toward her and grinned. “Grandma, I have an idea! Let’s do this...”

After he revealed his plan, Meredith immediately started applauding. “That’s good!”

“Logan’s idea is great! With this, we’ll definitely be able to chase them out!” Everyone in the room had a smile on their face.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 948

Logan’s plan was simple.

It was to restrict every aspect of Levi and Emma’s lives, making their lives in the city unbearable.

That way, they would willingly leave on their own.

"Grandma, let's put this plan into action immediately!" Logan exclaimed. *Just watch, Levi! I'll make it so that you and that wh*re of a mother of yours can't do anything in South City!*

A few days passed, and Emma had gradually gotten used to life in South City.

After she made breakfast for Levi in the morning, she went to the market nearby to buy fresh meat and vegetables for dinner.

After she picked out the vegetables, she handed them to the stall owner.

He was just about to weigh them when he got a good look at Emma's face.

"No, I can't sell these to you!" He immediately took them back.

"Huh?" Emma was startled.

That was strange.

Why would he not sell them to me?

However, she did not let it get to her and went to the stall next to it.

To her surprise, she was met with the same response. "Leave!" The stall owner chased her away.

She noticed that the other stall owners acted as if they had seen a ghost whenever they laid their eyes upon her, and they all avoided her like the plague.

It was at this moment that she realized that something was wrong.

She walked to the other end of the market, far away from where she was.

"I'm not selling these today!" Yet another stall owner yelled as soon as he saw her.

She was puzzled. "Aren't they buying it?" She pointed at the other customers at the stall. "So why can't I?"

"You're right. I can sell my vegetables to anyone, just not you! Go away! Don't disrupt my business!" The stall owner chased Emma away forcibly.

Emma wandered around the market, exasperated.

She tried to buy from the stall owners again, but nobody was willing to sell anything to her, no matter whether it was vegetables, meat, or other goods.

It was as if she had been shut out by the entire city.

Everyone avoided her as soon as they saw her.

She tried going to another market, but the result was still the same.

Nobody was willing to sell a single thing to her.

It was the same even at the supermarket.

This time, they would not even let her in.

At this point, she realized that someone was behind all of this.

She tried going to other places.

The shopping mall, the restaurant, the hotel- none of them let her in.

...

It was as if she was on some kind of blacklist- for everyone in the city.

She could not even board a bus or taxi.

It seemed as though someone had made it so that it would be impossible for her to go about her life in the city.

It was a cloudy day, and her illness was already acting up.

She wandered around aimlessly on the streets while bearing with the pain.

Gradually, the terrible pain built up, leaving her forehead full of sweat.

Her knees buckled and she could not even walk.

With great difficulty, she finally found a pharmacy and hurriedly entered it.

She grabbed some medicine to alleviate her symptoms.

“Get out! You’re not welcome here!”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 949

Emma was just about to exit the pharmacy when someone shoved her from behind.

She staggered and fell onto the ground.

The pain from both her fall and her illness made her eyes spin.

However, she did not give up and continued to search for other pharmacies.

She visited four or five other pharmacies, but the result was still the same.

They did not even let her set foot in the door.

In the sixth pharmacy, the owner was slightly more kindhearted than the rest.

“Just leave! I’m sure that you’ve already visited all of the pharmacies in South City. No one will sell the medicine to you! You should go to another city! Don’t blame it on us, okay? We have no choice in the matter.”

Emma finally gave up.

Someone's deliberately making life difficult for me.

Even all the shops in the city are in on this.

Especially the pharmacies.

The pharmacies were the most important to her.

She could survive for a few days without food, but not without her medicine.

She would die from the pain.

I'll persuade Levi to leave this city when I get back.

And to stop troubling Zoey.

I know that I'm a bearer of ill luck.

Anyone who comes into contact with me will surely have misfortune befall them.

This time, it was my son and daughter-in-law.

As she walked back, she felt her head spinning.

She fell onto the ground with a thump.

When she woke up, Phoenix was by her side.

"Aunt Emma, what's happened?" Phoenix was so anxious that she was on the verge of tears.

Emma told her everything that had happened.

"Phoenix, please help me to persuade Levi to leave South City!" she begged.

“What? They all shut you out and refused to sell anything to you?” Phoenix was about to explode from anger.

Preposterous!

We’re talking about the God of War’s mother here!

To think that she would be treated this way!

Phoenix brought Emma to the market to see what would happen, and sure enough, she was chased out of every shop.

Phoenix wanted to take care of the matter right then and there but decided that it was better to inform Levi of it first.

Hence, she brought Emma to the hospital and used acupuncture to temporarily ease her pain.

Bang!

Very soon, Levi arrived, panting from having rushed to the hospital as soon as he heard what had happened.

“What’s going on? The pharmacies refused to sell you medicine?” Levi demanded.

“Yeah, it’s not just the pharmacies, either. All the other stores have Aunt Emma on their blacklist too. They won’t sell anything to her!” Phoenix uttered in a low, muffled voice with her head down.

“The Black family? Just you wait!” Levi was increasingly furious.

His mother was his Achilles’ heel, and the Black family knew that.

He wanted to laugh.

The whole city’s tormenting my mother, huh?

She’s already so old and frail, and now they want to treat her like this?

She's done nothing wrong!

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 950

Very soon, Emma's medicine was delivered to their doorstep, courtesy of Alfie.

The medical department of the Dragon Legion had all kinds of medicine available.

"Huh? Weren't we shut out by the entire South City? How have we gotten the medicine?" Emma asked, puzzled.

"Mom, don't worry about it and just take it. What happened today is just a trivial matter for me," Levi replied.

Big, hearty bouts of laughter rang out in the Black family courtyard.

"Haha, did you know, Grandma? Levi's mother fainted from pain!"

"Restricting where she can get medicine is equivalent to restricting her very survival! This way, I'll say that we don't even have to control the other markets!" Logan and Jennie laughed.

They were behind everything that had happened that day.

There was no merchant who would dare to go against their demands.

They were overjoyed, especially upon seeing Emma in great pain. They had even filmed it with their phones and went around displaying the humiliating video for everyone to see.

"Haha, they'll definitely be gone from South City within three days!" Logan uttered.

"That's right. If this continues, even if Levi's mother doesn't die by hunger, she'll die from pain!" Meredith followed.

"Levi's a worthless wretch, too- he won't do something until his back's against the wall. It would have been so easy for him to have just taken the fifty million and left when we'd offered it, but no- he had to force us to take things into our own hands!"

"Isn't it so pathetic that they're going to have to leave on their own accord now? He's not getting a single cent!"

"Hahahaha!"

"If he has the guts to go against the Black family, then he had better be prepared for how we'd fight back!"

Everyone in the room burst out laughing.

"What are you doing? What are you looking at?" At this moment, Zoey walked in.

"Nothing!" Everyone hurriedly avoided her as they hid the phone.

"This has to do with Levi and his mother, right?" Zoey asked coldly.

Meredith admitted to it. "Yes, you're right. We're going to chase them out of Quebec so that there'll be no one here to cause you any more trouble."

"What? I never agreed to this!" Zoey was astonished.

"You don't have to concern yourself with this! They'll get out of here on their own accord within three days," Jennie and Logan explained.

"You can't stop us unless you sever all your ties with your parents and the rest of the Black family," Meredith announced bluntly.

All Zoey did was to look at them with anger in her eyes, because they were right- there was nothing that she could do.

However, there was no way that she would merely sit and watch the disaster unfold.

“Oh, Levi... To think that we were still worried about how to stop him and Zoey from getting together. We didn't expect that he would have brought that wh*re of a mother with him. Isn't that just giving us a golden opportunity?” Meredith smirked.

Zoey glared at her and went back to her room.

Having enacted punishment on Levi and his mother, the Black family was in over their heads.

That night, something big happened in South City without their knowledge.

The Protector Chapter 951

Chapter 951 My Son Is As Powerful As A God

The next day, all the shops that had chased Emma out received a stern warning.

Some were even forced to shut down.

The reason was simple- not only did they disrespect the basic rights of consumers, rather, they had also gone as far as to insult and use physical force upon one of their customers.

There was not a single person who was not shocked by this unexpected turn of events; the Black family was especially shocked.

Upon receiving the news, Logan immediately contacted the relevant people in charge.

He got a very simple answer- the previous day, someone had filmed the store owners refusing to serve Emma and had used that to file a report against them.

This caused not only Logan, but the whole Black family to become furious.

Just when we were celebrating how well this plan had worked out for us, we've received news that it was reported?

Of course, they would never have thought that Levi was the one behind all of this.

All they could do was complain about what good luck Levi had, which was something that seemed to be happening rather often these days.

In the morning, Levi told Emma that he was going to take her somewhere.

While she was doubtful, she followed him anyway.

It turned out to be the market that she had visited yesterday.

“Oh, you’re here! I’ll pick out the freshest vegetables for you!”

“Please come here, I’ll sell you the best meat and I’ll even throw in some freebies!”

“You’re finally here! I’ve prepared these medicinal herbs for you!”

...

The stall owners who had turned her away yesterday seemed to have done a complete one-eighty.

Not only did they now want to sell their goods to her, but they also wanted to give her freebies as well.

Levi brought Emma to many other places.

The store owners were all overjoyed to see her and were willing to sell their goods to her.

When they got to the pharmacy that Emma had visited the previous day, the owner bent his head deeply in apology.

After all, it was a much bigger deal for a pharmacy to have refused service- in the worst-case scenario, the customer may suffer a fatality from not being able to obtain the necessary medicine.

“Levi, this...” Emma was shocked.

Yesterday, I was met with disdain from everyone and was shut out by the entire city.

And now, I feel like as though I am some kind of celebrity.

“See, Mom? I told you that you could trust me. All these are but trivial matters to me.” Levi smiled.

Emma spaced out.

No, it’s a good thing that my son is powerful.

She sucked in a deep breath. Overwhelmed by her sudden realization, impulsive thoughts such as bringing him to the Garrison family popped up in her consciousness.

Just you wait- I'll show you that my son isn't a worthless commoner- his power is on equal terms with the Garrison family!

However, she knew that this was all just an overinflated desire of hers.

No matter how strong Levi is, he will never be able to take down the Garrison family.

It's foolish to think that Levi's measly twenty years' worth of training would be enough to rival the sheer power of the Garrison family, which has countless generations of heritage under its belt.

At this moment, to their disbelief, Zoey pulled up.

"Aunt Emma, let's go. I'll take you somewhere." Zoey smiled mysteriously.

Levi felt rather suspicious. What does she have in mind?

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 952

Chapter 952 Zoey Got Slapped

Very soon, they reached a top-tier neighborhood.

By this time, Levi had already understood Zoey's intentions.

She definitely bought a house for Mom.

When they got off the car, as predicted, Zoey had brought them toward a neat row of manors.

They were all elaborately renovated and were ready to be moved into immediately.

“Mom, I bought this house for you. You’ll live here from now on!” Zoey beamed. “Also, I’ve hired a nanny to take care of you.”

As soon as Emma heard that, she burst into tears.

I have such a good daughter-in-law.

To think that she would buy me a house- a manor, even!

“No, no. There’s no need to worry about me. I’m alright with staying with Levi. This is way too expensive,” Emma refused.

“How could I allow that when he can’t take even take care of people?

Besides, this house is close to my office, so it’s convenient for us to visit you.” Zoey smiled.

She had spent twenty million on this manor.

While her net worth was high, most of it was invested in her company.

She only had a couple of millions in hand, and buying the manor had cost her half of that.

“Mom, Zoey means well, so just accept it!” Levi smiled. “And she’s right- the location is great.”

He had wanted to buy his mother a big house himself, but Zoey beat him to it.

“Levi, Mom shouldn’t have to head back. You should go and bring her things here,” Zoey instructed.

Try as she might, Emma could not turn Zoey down, so she had no choice but to accept the manor.

Very soon, the nanny had arrived.

She was a gold-standard nanny selected very carefully by Zoey.

During her free time, she was even able to accompany Emma to go shopping.

“Zoey, we owe you too much. Levi will make it up to you,” Emma admitted, touched.

Zoey laughed, saying, “I’m just asking for him to cause less trouble for me.”

Looking at the peaceful, harmonious scene before him, Levi felt extremely blessed.

He decided to bring Morris’ parents over in a couple of days.

When they heard that his mother was back, they wanted to see her.

When the old folks gathered together, they could keep each other company and keep each other from getting lonely.

Besides, Levi’s circumstances allowed for this luxury.

At night, Zoey reached home and was about to enter the house when she was stopped by Meredith and the other members of the Black family.

“Grandpa, Grandma, what’s going on? And Dad, Mom, what are you all doing?” Looking at the group in front of her, Zoey was confused.

“Do you even know what you’ve done?” Meredith asked coldly.

“What?” Zoey asked.

“How could you say that? You’d bought a manor for Levi and his mother! How could you?”

“And you’d even hired a nanny at such a high price! Do you want to go with Levi?” Meredith shouted.

“It’s not that big of a deal. She’s Levi’s mother, so she’s my mother, too,” Zoey replied stubbornly.

Slap!

All of a sudden, Zoey was slapped harshly across her face.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War

[The Protector] Chapter 953

Chapter 953 Get Stronger

Caitlyn was the one who hit Zoey.

She stared at the latter and yelled furiously, "Your mom? I'm your only mom!"

Zoey was flabbergasted to be slapped so suddenly and stared at her mother in disbelief.

That was the first time someone had ever hit her since she was born.

"Zoey, you're such a disappointment!" Her father, Aaron sighed.

"Why would you be so stupid as to buy a house for Levi's mom? What on Earth was going through your head?"

"Are you intending to leave the Lopez family and the Black family? You want to live with Levi and his family from now onward?"

Everyone was taking turns to reprimand the woman.

Zoey covered her face with her hands, feeling extremely aggrieved.

She did not think she had done anything wrong.

"Let me tell you this. If you are going to treat Levi's mother as your own mom, don't call me mom anymore!"

"Go and be with them if you wish! We will sever all ties from today onward! My stance is very clear!"

After she finished speaking, Caitlyn walked out and slammed the door, leaving Zoey standing there, looking absolutely stunned.

The younger ones in the Black family were all trying to persuade Zoey to change her mind. "Zoey, we can't be too easygoing when it comes to marriage matters.

As a member of the Black family, we should marry someone of comparable status. Besides, it's you, the hope of both the Lopez and Black families."

That was indeed the truth.

The main reason for the families' wrath was that Zoey was their greatest hope. Naturally, her marriage would be a serious affair to them.

Judging by the current situation, Zoey clearly knew that she had only two ways out. Her first option was to become so strong that she would no longer be subject to the control of both families – she will be able to do whatever she wanted.

The second was for Levi to come up with a big surprise during their wedding, something big and grand enough to shut the mouths of the families up.

Otherwise, both the Lopez and Black families would continue to object to her union with Levi.

However, Zoey quickly dropped the second idea; she wasn't sure if she could count on Levi to deliver on his word.

It was easier for her to become stronger than to depend on Levi to do anything to stop her families' objections.

It was perfect that Morris Group had launched a major technology project recently, and Zoey decided to speak to Iris and request to be in charge of the project.

As long as that particular project proceeded smoothly, Zoey's career would be elevated to the next level. Her net worth would surely skyrocket.

By then, she would be free to do anything she wanted and not be trapped in the current situation where she had to be subject to her families' scrutinizes.

Zoey was the type of person who acted on her words.

She immediately contacted Iris and asked to be in charge of that project.

To her surprise, her friend agreed to her request readily.

“Sure, it’s yours then. You’ll have free rein.”

“Huh?”

“Don’t you need to consider anything? This is a project that is worth hundreds of billions, Iris!”

Zoey was bewildered by the other woman’s carefree attitude towards the project.

“Indeed it is, and you’re now in charge of the project,” Iris replied.

Well, your husband is the boss of Morris Group, so everything is already yours. Whatever request you have will certainly be granted.

“But this is such an important project. Shouldn’t you have a discussion with the rest before coming to a decision instead of handing it to me straight away?”

Zoey asked in shock.

“Trust me, no one will object to this decision! If you don’t believe me, I can call them right now to ask!”

Iris then personally rang each of the higher-ups and asked for their opinions on the project being handed over to Zoey.

“Ms. Lopez would like to handle that project?”

“I’m totally for it!”

“Oh, Ms. Lopez wishes to do so? I don’t have any comments then!”

Iris carried on calling the board members, and each one of them agreed instantly when they heard that it was Zoey who wanted the project.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War

[The Protector] Chapter 954

“Wow.”

Zoey looked totally perplexed; the whole thing felt like a dream to her.

Weren't the higher-ups of Morris Group supposed to be the crème de la crème?

Is this how a project that's worth hundreds of billions supposed to be handled?

Why did they agree to it once they heard my name?

What's the meaning of such readiness?

Ever since those people found out that Levi was the boss, Zoey had immediately risen to the top of their priority list.

She was now their lady boss after all!

“Iris, I didn't expect your influence in the company to be so strong! They only agreed to it because of you, right?”

The only reason Zoey could think of for the higher-ups' willingness was that she was Iris' friend. She thought it was on that account that they trusted her with the project.

“Why would I have such influence... “

They only agreed because you're our lady boss. I'm merely your employee.

Meanwhile, Emma was busy boiling chicken soup at their new house. She intended to deliver it to Levi and Zoey when lunchtime arrived.

Just then, someone rang the doorbell.

The nanny opened the door and asked, "Who are you looking for?"

"Is Emma Jones in?"

Emma rushed out of the kitchen immediately. The people standing at the door were Zoey's parents, grandma, and a few of their other relatives.

"Oh, hello! It's so nice to see all of you. Come on in!" the woman welcomed them all in a friendly manner.

"Ha! Seems like you are already seeing yourself as the owner of this place, aren't you?" Caitlyn yelled suddenly.

"Huh... " Emma was shocked at that sudden outburst.

"The house was bought by my daughter. Who gave you the right to stay here?" Zoey's mother glared at Emma.

"Zoey bought this place for... for me... " the latter mumbled.

"Who do you think you are? Why would she buy it for you?"

"I... " Emma was stumped.

It didn't seem right to say that Zoey was her daughter-in-law.

After all, her son and Zoey were still officially divorced. No matter how she looked at the situation, it indeed seemed as if she and Zoey were completely unrelated.

It did seem that Zoey had no reason to buy her a house.

"See! She can't even come up with a proper explanation!

That's because Zoey is not related to her in any way! I suspect she cheated my daughter into buying her this house!" Caitlyn sneered.

Meredith agreed with her right away, saying, “Yup! Our Zoey is kind and innocent. She definitely fell into your trap!”

“This house is worth tens of millions.

Why would Zoey buy such an expensive house for a stranger? Anyone with just a bit of common sense would know what happened. Surely, Zoey was duped!”

“There are too many wicked people around these days!”

After everyone shared their views on the matter, their accusatory gazes landing on Emma.

Aaron then berated, “Come clean this instance! How did you manage to swindle Zoey?

If we find evidence of you doing so, we’ll ensure that you serve jail time!”

“Yup! If you don’t tell us what happened, we’ll get someone to investigate the matter and send you straight to jail!”

Everyone began hurling threats at poor Emma.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 955

The woman tried to explain herself anxiously, “I did not cheat her! I really didn’t! You guys have misunderstood the entire situation. If you don’t believe me, you can check with Zoey directly!”

“Ha! You think it would be helpful to ask her since she has already fallen for your trick?

I see that you’re indeed a cunning woman!” Meredith shot a look of contempt at Emma.

“Hey, excuse me? Who are you guys? You are causing a disturbance to us! Can you please leave?” The nanny, Nancy, was unable to tolerate their behavior any longer.

“Who the hell are you? You have no right to speak!” Meredith glared at Nancy and chided her.

“Besides, do you even know who bought this house? My daughter did! I’m her dad, and she is her mom!” After Aaron stated his relationship to Zoey, Nancy did not dare speak her mind any further.

“Emma Jones, you have to give us an explanation today.

How did you trick my daughter into buying this house for you? We are going to make your life really difficult if you refuse to say anything!” Caitlyn proclaimed coldly.

The woman and her entourage had already set their minds on teaching Levi and his mother a good lesson.

“I did no such thing! Zoey really bought it for me on her own accord. I didn’t cheat her into doing anything. Please believe me... “

Emma was in such a deep state of panic that she almost burst into tears.

“I’m her biological mother, yet she did not even buy an ordinary house for me, not to mention a villa like this. You’re just an outsider.

Do you think it’s normal for her to buy you such a nice villa to stay in?”

Emma was at a loss for words; she did not know how to reply to Caitlyn’s accusation.

In fact, she herself was not able to explain why Zoey had done such a thing for her.

“Well, say something! Explain it to us!”

Caitlyn and the rest glared at Emma, sizing her up.

The latter could only purse her lips and say, “There’s nothing I can tell you! I can’t think of a reason why Zoey would buy me this villa, but the truth is that I had never conned her into buying it!”

“Haha! So you do know that it’s ridiculous for Zoey to buy a house for you?

Then why are you so shamelessly staying here?”

“Emma, don’t you feel guilty staying here? Or are you enjoying it very much?”

“I’ve never met someone as thick-skinned as you. Not only are you staying in someone else’s house, but you’re also even boiling chicken soup?”

Do you really think you’re some rich madam?”

Members of the Black family started throwing all sorts of insults at Emma.

“Why? Why are you looking at me with such a murderous expression? Do you want to hit me? Since you’re staying in my daughter’s house, you should be bowing and thanking me instead.

But here you are with the actual nerve to glare at me?” Caitlyn yelled.

“Emma Jones, do you really think you can continue staying here? It’s my daughter’s house, so we have every right to chase you out of here!”

“Pack up all your rubbish and scam immediately! You’re not welcomed here! It’s our house. You have no right to stay here!”

Meredith and the rest chased Emma away.

The nanny could no longer stand the way Emma was being treated and stepped forward to question, “Does Ms. Lopez know about this?”

“We are her parents. Do we even need to inform her of such a trivial matter? Anyway, you will have to leave together with this shameless b*tch as well!” Caitlyn roared; she could not wait to chase those two women away.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 956

Emma smiled when she heard that.

She knew that things were not as simple as they seemed.

However, she did not expect trouble to start right from the first day they moved in.

Zoey was a good woman, and her family was not at fault.

Emma only blamed herself for being a burden to Levi. Her presence in his life did not benefit him at all – it only brought him trouble and ridicule.

“Why are you still standing here like an idiot?

You should be packing your things right now!”

Meredith was itching to throw Emma and Nancy out of the house that very instant.

After a long moment, the two women began to pack their belongings.

“Scram immediately!”

In the midst of the yelling from the crowd, Emma headed to the kitchen and packed the chicken soup she had boiled into two separate containers.

“I’ve been boiling this chicken soup for a long time.

I want to bring it to Zoey as a way of expressing my gratitude towards her,” Emma said.

However, Logan suddenly stepped forward and snatched the containers from her.

Splash!

The man then proceeded to pour the soup into the drain.

“You’re still thinking of harassing Zoey? I bet your real intention is to plead with her. Let me tell you that that’ll be impossible!” Logan said harshly.

Jennie concurred. "He's right. Besides, do you think Zoey would actually drink the soup that's been boiled by you? Anything made by you will surely be disgusting, seeing as to how you're so dirty. I'm sure she'll spit it out after trying one scoop of it!"

"Hurry up and leave! Zoey would not drink something so filthy!" Caitlyn gave Emma an angry stare.

In the end, Emma and Nancy were tossed out of the house.

Bang!

Logan slammed the door shut once the both of them were outside.

"Ha! We've finally managed to chase that annoying woman away. It feels so good!" Aaron laughed.

Meredith frowned and replied unhappily, "Not entirely; her scent is still lingering in the house. Quickly, open the windows to allow the revolting smells to dissipate!"

"I must say, Zoey sure has good tastes in houses!"

Both Logan and Jennie were very satisfied with Zoey's housing choice.

"How about this, Grandma shall make the decision to let the both of you have this villa!

As for Aaron and Caitlyn, you two would be able to stay anywhere you want to next time at the rate Zoey's net worth is soaring."

Meredith gifted the villa to Logan and his wife right away.

"Sure, we don't mind that arrangement. As long as it's not Levi's mom staying here!"

Aaron and Caitlyn's target was solely Emma. They did not actually care about owning the villa at all.

"Thank you, Grandpa, Grandma, Aunt Caitlyn, and Uncle Aaron."

Logan was delighted to receive such a luxurious villa as a gift out of the blue.

Meanwhile, Emma and Nancy had already reached the entrance of the estate. They bumped into Levi there.

“Mom, Aunt Nancy, what’s going on?” Levi asked.

“Mr. Garrison, you probably aren’t aware of this, but Zoey’s parents have chased us out!”

Emma had not intended to tell her son about it, but Nancy had spilled the beans upon seeing the man.

“What? Come, let’s head back together! This is outrageous!”

Levi dragged the two women back to the villa with him.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 957

Even though Emma was extremely reluctant to return to the place, she could not win against Levi.

Levi was, in fact, overwhelmed with guilt as it was already the second time his mom had to endure such suffering ever since she moved in with him.

The man had planned to change the entire team of security guards to his subordinates so that no one would be able to get near his mother again, not to mention hurting her.

Ding-dong! Ding-dong!

Members of the Black family had puzzled expressions on their faces when they heard the doorbell ring.

“Logan, go open the gate and see who’s outside.”

Once Logan opened the door, a furious bellow was heard. “Who gave you all the audacity to chase my mom out?”

Most of the Blacks jumped in shock when they heard that voice.

“It’s Levi!”

The next moment, they saw Levi walking in with Emma.

“We chased your mom away. What’s wrong with that?” Logan replied haughtily.

“This is my mom’s house. Who gave you the right to chase her out?” Levi said coldly.

“This is your mother’s house? My foot! This house was bought by Zoey. What has it got to do with your mom?” Jennie shouted angrily.

Logan smiled and added, “Well, this villa belongs to me now. Grandpa and Grandma have already gifted it to me.”

Robert and Meredith nodded and said, “Yup, this villa is now Logan’s. Your mom has got nothing to do with it.”

“Ha! And who do you think you are? Who gave you the right to give Zoey’s house to someone else?” Levi asked.

Meredith let out a curt laugh and replied, “Levi, do you hear how unreasonable you’re being now? You and Zoey have already divorced. Her assets are not linked to you in any way. However, we are her family, and that gives us the right to handle her assets.”

“If that’s the case, I’ll inform Zoey about it immediately!”

When Levi took out his phone to ring Zoey, Meredith and the others’ expressions changed instantly.

It would complicate matters if Zoey knew about the situation.

After Levi told the woman what had happened, Zoey arrived at the villa shortly after.

“Dad, Mom, what did you guys do? I bought this house for Aunt Emma. Why did you chase her away?” Zoey was enraged.

“That won’t do! Why would you buy a villa for her when you two are unrelated? You’ll be the butt of the joke if word gets around. If that happens, you’ll bring shame to the family!” Her father’s stance was firm.

Zoey let out a helpless smile and replied, “Fine then, what do you guys want in order for Aunt Emma to continue staying here?”

Meredith shot a glance at Levi before answering, “Since you asked, I’ll let you know what I think. That woman can stay in this villa only if Levi pays you back for the house!”

“Grandma, aren’t you intentionally making things difficult by saying that?”

Zoey grew anxious.

The villa was priced at more than twenty million! Where was Levi going to find the money to pay her?

“If Levi can’t afford that, his mom will not have the right to stay here!”

“That’s right, a pauper shouldn’t be staying in a villa,” everyone else agreed coldly.

“Sure, I’ll pay! It’s just a mere twenty million anyway.”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 958

Everyone was stunned when they heard that; they stared at Levi blankly.

Did he just say that amount is a mere twenty million?

“Very well! It sounds like twenty million is peanuts to you. I want you to show us that money right now!”

Meredith was infuriated by Levi’s attitude.

“No problem! I’ll transfer the money to Zoey right away!”

Levi then transferred twenty million to Zoey under the watchful gazes of the people present.

“What? He really just did that! How does he have so much money?”

Once the transfer was completed successfully, everyone looked at Levi in disbelief.

It seemed entirely unreal to them for a ruffian like Levi to have so much money.

If he could easily pay twenty million, it meant that what he had was way more than that amount.

However, Zoey did not find it surprising.

After all, Levi was one of the Joneses, and it was not entirely impossible that he had such large amounts of money.

Even though the man had not earned the money himself, it had helped them solve the problem at hand.

“Fine, Levi Garrison. You’re really something! But Zoey, you are not allowed to transfer the money back to him!”

In the end, Meredith and the rest had no choice but to leave the villa, feeling totally defeated.

Logan and Jennie were the most upset among the group as they had lost the villa they had deemed as theirs.

After the whole ordeal, Emma could continue staying there without any worry.

Besides, the entire security team had already been changed to Levi’s men.

As such, his family would be safe from then onward.

No one would be able to get near Emma, not to mention bully her in any way.

Levi’s mother unpacked her belongings and placed them back into her room again.

She specially positioned her family photo beside her bed.

Levi picked up the photo frame and said, "Mom, just throw this away."

"No!" She snatched it back immediately and hugged it close to her.

"This is my only memento. I have to keep it."

The man pursed his lips and replied, "Mom, do you still miss that man?"

Emma did not answer her son's question directly, but the answer was clear from the look in her eyes.

His dad was definitely still in her heart; she did not regret any of her past choices.

"You miss him so much, but he does not think about you at all. After settling matters with you, he went back to Oakland City and married another woman immediately.

They even have a child who's only two years younger than me." Levi finally told his mom the truth.

When his mother heard that, she was shocked to her core.

Emma's eyes were filled with disbelief as she said, "What?"

He married someone else? And they even have a child together?"

She was absolutely astounded.

She retreated a few steps subconsciously and almost staggered to the floor.

"He told me that I'll be the only woman he loves in his entire life. It was his family who insisted on locking me up. He was not powerful enough to go against them. He vowed that he would not marry anyone else; he had vowed and that his bride would only be me!

Because of that vow, I have been waiting for him all these years. I have always dreamed that he would come for me one day and marry me officially."

Emma was sobbed uncontrollably as she spoke.

“Turns out that it was just my wishful thinking. He’s been lying to me all this while! How could he marry someone else right after I left!”

She was crying hysterically and was feeling utterly miserable.

When Levi heard what his mom said, he clenched his fists tightly, rage pulsing through his veins.

He couldn’t believe that it was how a man from Erudia’s number one ancient family behaved.

That sort of conduct felt more like it was from a hooligan who was full of lies.

Noble blood?

What a joke!

It’s the greatest joke of the century!

Because of his selfish promise, Levi’s mom had waited for him in vain for more than twenty years.

And that man?

He got married to someone else long ago.

The man should not have made a promise if he did not intend to keep it.

This bastard deserves to die a thousand times!

A murderous glint shone in Levi’s eyes.

“Don’t worry; your good days are coming to an end soon! After Zoey and I get married, it will be doomsday for the Garrison family.”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War

[The Protector] Chapter 959

Zoey pursed her lips as she listened to Levi rant.

Her blood was boiling as well, and she wished she could punch that bastard right at that instant.

She wanted to interrogate that heartless man and ask him why he had done such a cruel thing to Emma.

But who was he?

He was the heir of the most powerful family in Erudia, and his presence was akin to a mythical dragon roaming in the sky.

Not to mention interrogating him, it wouldn't even be possible to meet him face to face.

So what if Levi was the most prominent character locally?

He was still no match for Erudia's first ancient family!

Besides, Levi was a nobody.

Being a member of the Jones family was his most prestigious identity, but even a servant of the Garrison family could easily crush the Joneses.

It was just not possible for him to challenge the Garrison family and seek justice for his mother!

Revenge did not seem to be within their reach in this lifetime.

They should simply strive to have a peaceful life and be contented with venting to each other whenever they needed to.

"Mom, what's his name?" Levi asked.

"Tyrone Garrison!" Emma recited that man's name through gritted teeth.

"Alright. I'll remember it! That name shall be disgraced very soon!" Levi said coldly.

Meanwhile, early in the morning in Haven, the body of Caleb, a servant of the Garrisons, was laid at the entrance of the imperial Garrison family.

It turned out that Osborn had brought him there.

Osborn met Jonah, the head of the imperial Garrison family from Haven, and told him what happened.

"Mr. Garrison, I don't have any connections to the Garrison family in Oakland City, so I could only send him here," Osborn explained.

Jonah was in deep thought for a while before saying, "That bastard has grown to be so formidable that he was even able to kill Caleb? Caleb was an elite who was sent by Oakland City's Garrison family to guard the South. The fact that he was the only person who was sent there is telling of his abilities."

"Exactly! Who would have imagined a bastard to be so powerful!" Osborn was unable to wrap his head around the whole situation as well.

After all, the reputation of Peace Hotel was now ruined.

"For the honor of the Garrison family, that mother-and-son pair must die! If word gets out that they are still alive, it will only bring shame to our family! Oakland City's Garrison family does not need to know about this matter. A bastard like him is not worthy of their attention. Leave it to me to settle it."

Jonah spun his two legendary pearls in his palms and shouted towards the gate, "Gather our men immediately.

We're setting off to South City to kill Emma Jones and her bastard son!"

“What? Sir, you’re heading there personally?” Osborn was surprised.

He had initially thought Jonah would send an expert assassin to get rid of Levi and Emma.

He had not expected the head of the imperial family to attend to the matter personally.

“Mr. Garrison, is Levi Garrison that big of a threat to you?” he asked, unable to contain his shock.

Jonah chuckled and replied, “Of course not, he’s just a small fry!

Why would I feel threatened by him? He is definitely not important enough for me to deal with him personally.”

Osborn was a smart man; he immediately understood what Jonah meant. “Could it be that Mr. Garrison has other matters to attend to at South City?”

“Yes, that’s right. I’ve heard a while back that the God of War has returned to South City with the Five Great Wars Regiment. I had planned to go there earlier on and was already making preparations. This is the perfect opportunity for me to make the trip,” Jonah shared.

“Does Mr. Garrison have a history with the God of War?” Osborn asked.

“Yes, indeed. Kirin, the King of War, is under the God of War. He is the benefactor of our Garrison family in Haven. Three years ago, if it weren’t for him, our entire family would have perished overseas,” Jonah sighed as he recalled what had previously happened.

That year, Jonah had led several other key members of Haven’s Garrison family to take part in an overseas collaboration.

However, they were ambushed there and were almost wiped out.

Kirin was the one who had saved them.

As such, the Garrison family from Haven began treating Kirin as the family’s benefactor from then on.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 960

Osborn smiled in realization. “Oh, I see! You can also take this chance to meet the God of War! Other people might not be granted an audience with the general, but he will definitely want to meet you.”

“Yes, that’s what I intend to do.

I have always wanted to meet the God of War in person! I’ve heard that he’s also a Garrison. Do you think he could be one of the Garrisons from Oakland City?”

Jonah had that suspicion when he heard ‘Garrison’ was the God of War’s last name.

The man had even tried to search the files for more information.

However, the God of War’s files were classified SSSSSS – a confidentiality level even higher than that of Oakland City’s Garrison family. Hence, Jonah was not able to find out anything.

Osborn immediately replied, “Yup, I think that’s highly likely!

A God of War who is a Garrison, other than the Garrison family, the number one ancient family, no other family would be able to have such a formidable descendant!”

“Yeah, it can’t be wrong! The Garrison family has produced countless talents.

For a twenty-something-year-old man to be a Five-Star God of War, he must be from the Garrison family.”

Jonah was very confident in his guess.

“Oh yeah, it seems like that bastard is quite powerful now. Bring more men along. Get some fighters from the Tang Sect as well,” Jonah ordered.

The corners of Osborn's lips curled up when he heard that the martial arts experts from the Tang Sect would also be going.

Tang Sect was a legend.

It was also one of the ancient families and was known for its usage of secret weapons and other martial arts techniques.

Tang Sect was still in existence during modern times, though they lived in seclusion, away from the crowd. As such, ordinary people wouldn't have heard of their existence.

There were many other martial arts experts in the Sect who were employed by the powerful families in Haven.

Out of all the numerous families, the Garrison family was served by the most number of experts from Tang Sect.

Word was that those experts from Tang Sect were all highly skilled and ruthless assassins.

As such, Osborn was relieved, knowing that no matter how formidable Levi was, he wouldn't stand a chance against those fighters from Tang Sect.

The Garrison family was ready to leave by the next day and soon set off for South City.

Knowing that the Garrison family from Haven had arrived at South City, all of the city's powerful and noble families got ready to welcome them. Even the upper echelons from neighboring cities had also joined in, including the royal families from South Hampton, which were under the leadership of the Goel family.

Each family had sent out a welcome party to receive the Garrisons, and the streets were lined with colorful welcome banners.

That was the kind of reception that only an imperial family would get to enjoy.

Once news got out that the Garrison family was visiting, hundreds of powerful families gathered to welcome them.

Even though the Garrison family from Haven was an imperial family, it was merely a division of the Garrison clan in Oakland City.

If Oakland City's Garrison family arrived at South City, the welcome party would definitely consist of tens of thousands of other clans.

Such a welcome ceremony would only be fit for the head of all the powerful and noble families – Erudia's number one ancient family, the Garrison family.

Right then, the aisles of the street were already crowded with people who were kneeling on the ground, worshiping the Garrisons.

It was their way of welcoming them in order to show respect for the imperial family.

Jonah sat in his car, very satisfied with what he saw outside the window.

"Hmm, this is quite a ceremony. Look, the Garrison family is God-like to the people! Whenever anyone hears our family name, they drop to their knees and worship us."

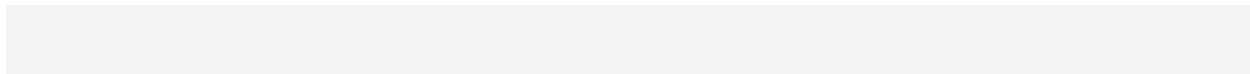

The next moment, he changed the topic and said, "The prestigious name of the Garrison family holds weight globally. If the public finds out that the heir of the Garrison clan from Oakland City has a bastard child and an ex-lover here, our reputation would be ruined!

It would be so shameful for us! Therefore, it is of utmost importance that these two people disappear from the face of the Earth! They remain a threat to the Garrisons as long as they are alive."

His eyes shone with killing intent as he spoke.

"Dad, where should we go now? Should we kill Levi and his mom first? Or should we head off to look for the King of War, Kirin, first?" Jonah's eldest son, Seamus, asked.

"Of course we'll pay a visit to Kirin first. How can that bastard be compared to the King of War?" Jonah snorted.

The Protector Chapter 961

Trembling in fear, Seamus said, "Dad, you're right! My priorities are all messed up. We can always finish off Levi anytime we like!"

His father replied agitatedly, "I'm glad you finally realize your mistake, boy. Don't be intimidated by Levi just because he killed Caleb. Caleb was at most just a servant of our family! You guys are really a disgrace to the Garrison family to be scared of Levi!"

The youngsters of the Garrison family from Haven all kept their eyes downcast guiltily like a bunch of kids who had just broken something valuable in the house.

They felt embarrassed to be intimidated by Levi, who was just an illegitimate child of their family.

"Levi doesn't deserve to be treated so seriously by us! He's clearly not that important!" Fenton, Jonah's favorite grandson, emphasized in a cold voice.

Jonah was pleased to hear those words. "You guys should learn from Fenton. That's how a man from our family is supposed to behave!"

If the Garrison clan from Oakland City know how intimidated you lot are by Levi, I don't think I will be able to put up with the embarrassment!"

"Master, we've found out where Kirin resides in. We can visit him right away," the butler informed Jonah.

"Great! I can't wait to meet him!" Jonah guffawed.

Soon, Jonah and his family arrived at the Warzone compound.

Azure Dragon and the rest were still staying there, although Levi had moved out.

The commotion of the Garrisons' arrival soon caught their attention.

Assuming that the Garrisons were there to look for their trouble, Azure Dragon and the others strutted out of the building, all the while exuding a murderous aura.

“What are you lot doing here? Are you here to pick up a fight with us?” White Tiger, who looked ready for a combat, confronted them.

White Tiger was excited to find quite a number of skilled fighters in the middle of Jonah’s entourage.

All the fighters were experts in their fields who were evidently stronger than Caleb. The man had visited the compound last time and was easily killed by White Tiger and his entourage.

“It’s been such a long time since I come across so many admirable skilled fighters!” White Tiger remarked with a chuckle.

“Kirin, you’re the benefactor of our family! It’s an honor to finally meet you,” Jonah boomed.

With the help of his sons and grandsons, Jonah walked up to Kirin and got down on his knees.

Meanwhile, the rest of his family knelt on the ground around him in front of Kirin.

“We, the Garrison family from Haven, are here to pay respect to our benefactor – Kirin!”

The Garrison family from Haven’s eyes were brimming with gratitude as they spoke.

Without Kirin’s help back then, the entire Garrison family in Haven would not have existed.

In the meantime, Osborn was flabbergasted by such a sight.

He was shocked to see a family as powerful as the Garrison family kneeling down humbly in front of the Five Great Wars Regiment.

If the Garrisons were acting that way in front of the Five Great Wars Regiment, Osborn dreaded to imagine how much more powerful and authoritative the God of War must be.

“Mr. Jonah Garrison! It’s been three years since we last met each other.” Kirin immediately approached the man and helped him to his feet.

All the Garrisons were elated to see that Kirin still remembered them.

“Kirin, I rushed here as soon as I heard you gracing the South City with your presence. I wonder who these gentlemen are?” Jonah glanced at the other members of the Five Great Wars Regiment, curious.

“Let me introduce them to you! This is Azure Dragon, White Tiger, and Phoenix...”

Kirin introduced his peers to the Garrison family.

With his back hunched, Jonah shook hands with the rest of the Five Great Wars Regiment in an ingratiating manner.

Men from the Five Great Wars Regiment who’ve been the right-hand men of the God of War for ages!

They are famous for being ruthless and merciless on the battlefield.

I can’t believe I’m meeting them all in one go now!

This is huge!

Although Jonah was the head of an imperial family, he still needed help from groups like the Five Great Wars Regiment to bolster his force.

Not only Jonah needed their aid – even the Garrison clan based in Oakland City would have to take the Five Great Wars Regiment seriously too.

If the group decided to pay the Garrison clan a surprise visit, the family would have no choice but to invite them in cordially.

“Would I have the honor to meet the God of War too?” Jonah asked, anticipation written all over his face.

Everyone in the Garrison family was desperate for a chance to meet the God of War.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 962

Kirin answered his question with a pleasant smile, "Of course you can meet the God of War. In fact, he's a pretty friendly and approachable guy."

"Is that so?" Jonah, as well as his family members, looked thrilled upon hearing what the man said.

Meeting the God of War in person was probably the greatest wish of everyone from the prominent families.

An idea struck Kirin, prompting him to ask Jonah, "Mr. Garrison, I bet there's something else that inspired you to come all the way here. Care to enlighten me?"

The latter replied with a breezy smile, "Meeting you is, of course, my top priority. However, you're right – I'm here to run some unimportant errands."

"Unimportant errands? What sort of errands would that be?" Kirin asked curiously.

Sounding somewhat stiff, Jonah answered, "I'm going to deal with a traitor of our family. In fact, it's too trivial a matter to be worth discussing with all of you here."

"Oh, it's a domestic affair. In that case, we'll leave you to it then."

Kirin and the rest of the Five Great Wars Regiment couldn't be bothered with the Garrison family's troubles.

Then, Kirin invited Jonah and his family inside the Warzone compound.

His friendly gesture took them all by surprise.

After all, few people in the world had the honor to be welcomed into the Warzone compound by the Five Great Wars Regiment themselves.

In the meantime, Levi moved to stay with his mother's place for the time being.

Emma had been enjoying quite a peaceful stay in South City so far. However, something had been nagging at the back of her mind – she had a feeling someone would come after them soon after Caleb had failed to kill Levi and her.

That was a danger they could avoid only via death.

“Ms. Jones, I was told that the Garrison family from Haven have come to this city. The streets outside are crowded with businessmen and tycoons who are eager to welcome their arrival. Is Mr. Garrison related to them? He does share their surname.” Nancy, who had just come back from the market, prattled on.

“Say what? The Garrison family is here?” Emma’s heart gave a lurch after listening to what the nanny said.

At last, the situation she had worried about the most had come.

Although Levi had fought his way to become the most powerful and influential figure in South City, he was still a nobody in the presence of the Garrison family from Haven, not to mention the Garrison clan based in Oakland City, which was the most powerful of all imperial families.

Yet, the woman’s face still shone with determination.

No matter what happened, she would do all she could to protect Levi and keep him out of harm’s way.

Jonah and his family left the Warzone compound later that night.

“Mr. Garrison, I’m sure you will get to meet the God of War tomorrow,” Kirin promised.

“That’s great! I’ve prepared some gifts for him and his mother. I hope they will like them!”

As soon as Jonah learned that the God of War’s mother was here too, he had immediately dispatched some of his men to make a trip back to Haven to pick a gift for her.

The gifts would reach them by the end of that day.

“Mr. Garrison, that’s very kind of you,” Kirin commented with a smile.

Soon, the Garrison family headed back to the villa they were going to stay in during their time in South City.

“Has anyone found out where Levi and his mother live?” Jonah asked the rest of his family.

“Yes, we have. They’re staying somewhere not too far away from here, and everything is under our control at the moment,” answered Seamus.

“Well, there’s no rush to deal with them now. After we meet the God of War tomorrow, we can finish them off the night before we return to Haven.”

Putting on a stern expression, Jonah glared at his sons and growled, “What’s wrong? Are you guys still scared of Levi, the useless bastard?”

It was obvious that Jonah did not take Levi seriously.

In his opinion, the man was just like one of the ants crawling on the ground that he could kill easily by stepping on it.

Why are all my sons and grandsons so scared of the bastard?

Why do they all see him as a threat?

Levi is clearly a nobody. What makes him so special?

“As my sons and grandsons, how can all of you be so timid and useless?”

I’ve told you guys this over and over again – we can finish Levi and his mother off very easily! Haven’t I made myself clear?” Jonah seethed.

“Dad, you’re right! Levi Garrison is a nobody in the presence of our family!” Seamus shouted vehemently.

“That’s more like it! Now, we should focus our attention on preparing the meeting with the God of War tomorrow!” Jonah instructed.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War

[The Protector] Chapter 963

Emma woke up early the next morning to prepare breakfast for Levi and Zoey.

As she had no idea how long such peaceful and happy days would last, she decided to enjoy every day like it was the last.

While they were having their breakfast, Zoey asked Levi, "Are you heading out later?"

"Yes. Kirin told me someone wants to see me, so I have to head out."

He had no idea who Kirin wanted him to meet.

Despite that, he still decided to be there for his subordinate's sake.

"Okay. Let's talk tonight after you're back then," Zoey proposed, her face flushing with embarrassment.

"Sure, that shouldn't be a problem."

Meanwhile, the gifts prepared for the God of War and his mother had arrived from Haven.

All the gifts were nicely kept in three exquisite wooden boxes.

After making sure that the gifts were to his satisfaction, Jonah broke into a contented smile.

Every member of the Garrison family from Haven dressed up to the nines before they set off to the Warzone compound.

To show their utmost respect to the God of War, they made their way to the destination on foot.

All the tycoons of the city couldn't help but be astonished when they saw the Garrisons walking along the streets.

Jonah, as well as his family, arrived at the Warzone compound in the morning.

“Mr. Garrison, Boss will be late. Please do wait for him patiently,” Kirin informed.

“Sure! It’s our honor to wait for the God of War!” Jonah laughed heartily.

Seamus chimed in, “Exactly. Few people in the world have such an honor to wait for him. At least I’ve never heard of anyone having the honor before!”

For Jonah and his entire family, it was an esteemed honor to be awaiting Levi’s arrival.

They were more than willing to wait for days – or even months – to meet him.

Will we become the talk of the town after word spreads around about our meeting with the God of War?

About an hour later, Levi finally arrived.

Jonah and his entourage were stunned to see him.

Firstly, they thought Levi looked too young to be the God of War.

Secondly, the man looked too much like a commoner for him to be someone as prominent as the God of War.

Levi was dressed casually, so he looked no different from a commoner when he was not in action.

Could he possibly be the God of War?

“Boss!”

It was only when the Five Great Wars Regimen greeted Levi did Jonah and the rest of his family believe him to be the God of War.

“Are they all here to meet me?” Levi asked.

"It's our utmost honor to meet you, God of War!"

Jonah, as well as his sons and grandsons, knelt down in front of Levi in unison.

"Boss, please allow me to introduce to you the head of the Garrison family from Haven, Jonah Garrison! He and I go way back," Kirin shared.

"The Garrison family from Haven?" Levi scoffed.

I'm almost sure that they're related to the Garrison clan from Oakland City.

"Yes! Esteemed God of War, I'm Jonah Garrison of the Garrison family from Haven!"

With his head pressed firmly against the ground, Jonah couldn't resist but ask, "God of War, is it true that you share our surname?"

Levi nodded his head. "You're right. I am indeed a Garrison."

All at once, Jonah and his family members heaved out a sigh of relief.

All of them felt euphoric to have their speculation verified by the man himself.

In their opinions, the God of War must be one from the Garrison clan in Oakland City or other major branches of the family, considering that he was talented enough to become such a prominent figure.

Jonah and his family were pleased with the prospect of being considered as the God of War's relatives.

How could they not be elated upon hearing that piece of news?

Jonah swallowed hard before looking up at Levi with anticipation in his eyes. "God of War, would you be kind enough to answer one more question from me?"

"Go ahead," Levi answered.

"If I'm not mistaken, I suppose you are one of the greatest talents produced by the Garrison clan in Oakland City. It's because they're the only ones who have enough resources to train you into becoming such a skillful fighter."

Although Jonah emphasized that it was nothing but his presumption, the man sounded very sure about what he said.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 964

Everyone from Jonah's family couldn't wait to hear Levi's confirmation.

If Levi were indeed someone from the Garrison clan in Oakland City, the situation would be very beneficial to them all.

They had to rely on the Garrison clan in Oakland City for support as they were just a small branch of the Garrison family

Now that they were lucky enough to have a chance to establish a connection with the God of War, their future seemed bright in their eyes.

"The Garrison clan from Oakland City? Haha! They aren't worthy to have a descendant as great as me!"

Levi's answer drove Jonah and his family to despair.

The God of War isn't related to the Garrison clan from Oakland City? What?

How's that possible?

Other than the Garrison clan in Oakland City, which branch could possibly have the resources to train him?

Jonah could not think of any other Garrison branch who could be capable of nurturing a descendant like Levi.

Just like them, the branches in Northeast City, Northwest City, and Chillshire could never have had the resources to train their descendants into someone like Levi despite them being an imperial family.

“Huh?”

You aren’t from the Garrison clan in Oakland City? How can that be? I can hardly believe other branches of our family have the resources to train you!”

The eyes of Jonah and his family went wide in shock, all filled with utter disbelief.

They did not think other branches of their family had what it took to train someone like the God of War.

“You guys are wrong to think that Boss ever relied on anyone to achieve his success.

Just like everyone else, Boss started out at the bottom and slowly worked his way up to become the God of War through sheer hard work,” Kirin quickly explained.

Levi glanced at Jonah and the rest of his family before announcing, “Listen to me very carefully – I’m not related to any branch of the Garrison family, especially the Garrison clan in Oakland City.”

Jonah and the others gasped in shock at his bold statement.

How could someone from an ordinary background be the God of War of Erudia?

Those who were born into rich and powerful families did not think those who came from poor families stood a chance at achieving success.

In their opinion, someone from a poor background could never be a match for those from rich and powerful families; it was because they could never have the same education, resources, and connections the latter could have.

Those from poor families, who managed to achieve something, would be quickly eliminated by those who come from rich and powerful families.

Therefore, Jonah and his family found it hard to believe that the God of War actually came from a poor family.

“Well, please get up. We’ll talk then,” Levi urged.

“Thank you for gracing us, God of War!”

Jonah and the rest of his family rose to their feet and followed Levi to his room.

“Are you guys a branch of the Garrison clan in Oakland City?” the latter asked.

“Yes, that’s correct.”

Levi flashed him a meaningful smile as he asked, “I suppose you guys are here to carry out another mission then?”

The air in the room froze as soon as he posed that question.

Everyone, including Kirin, gaped at Levi in utter astonishment.

How does he know we have a mission?

With that doubt in mind, Jonah experienced a mixture of feelings, his eyes brimming with disbelief.

The rest of the Garrison family were left stupefied; they knew the God of War was referring to their plan to kill Emma Jones and her son.

Jonah took a deep breath to calm his nerves.

I’m surprised at how fast words travels. How is even the God of War aware of our intention to kill that b*tch and her son?

Bad news spreads like wildfire indeed.

Now that even the God of War is aware of our plan, I bet the news will become widespread in a jiffy.

By the time that happens, those in Oakland City will become the laughing stock of the entire country!

As a branch of their family, sure enough, our family will be implicated too!

It will be hard to live with that kind of embarrassment.

In order to prevent the disastrous situation, Jonah made up his mind to kill Emma and his son as soon as he could and tie up any loose ends.

Jonah had actually planned to execute the plan the night before they returned to Haven. However, he changed his mind, deciding to play safe and not delay things any further. Jonah looked up at Levi and replied somewhat reluctantly, "Yes, we're here to get rid of a traitor of our family!"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 965

Levi broke into a smile which grew wider and slowly turned into a sneer in response to Jonah's answer.

They're really here to kill me.

I knew they weren't only here to visit the God of War!

"A traitor? I heard from the grapevine that he is quite a prominent skilled fighter. You guys better summon more help to handle him!" Levi chuckled.

Levi's answer only cemented Jonah's opinion that the God of War had already discovered everything there is to know about Emma and her son.

Even the God of War knows that Levi is a tough nut to crack. I bet our family has become the laughing stock of the town right now because of that bastard and his mother!

"God of War, thanks for your concern. However, please don't worry about us. I'm sure we will be able to finish them both off!"

A dangerous glint flickered in Jonah's eyes when he said that.

"Well, I'll wait for your good news then." Levi nodded.

"Huh?"

Jonah's eyes gleamed with hope at once.

Does the God of War also want to get rid of Emma and her son?

Wait, of course he does. After all, he is one of the Garrisons too!

I bet he couldn't tolerate the scandal Emma and her son have brought upon the Garrison family!

No matter what, there is no reason to keep the both of them alive!

I'll be there myself later tonight to make sure the two of them are killed!

"By the way, we've prepared some gifts for you, your mother, and your wife. We really hope you like them!"

Jonah beckoned his sons to bring the gift boxes over.

"What does this mean?" Levi questioned with a sharp edge in his tone.

Kirin came to Jonah's rescue by saying, "Boss, please accept their gifts! I'm sure Mr. Garrison means nothing but goodwill!"

Levi smiled in amusement.

He had never received gifts offered to him by any other people.

Yet, he couldn't see the reason why he should not accept the gifts from Jonah and his family, considering that they were there to kill him.

Why shouldn't I take their gifts?

"Sure." Levi agreed to accept the gifts readily.

Jonah delightedly presented the gifts to him one by one.

The first box contained shiny armor made of a special metal.

"God of War, this armor was made according to a combination of traditional and modern techniques.

What makes it stand out is its sturdiness. It can protect its wearer from knives, swords, and even bullets. It's much better than an ordinary bulletproof vest because it can withstand high temperatures. This armor is perfect for you. You can wear it on the battlefields," Jonah elaborated.

Levi picked the armor up and examined it.

Indeed, the craftsmanship was fabulous.

"I like this," he commented.

Feeling thrilled, Jonah moved on to the second box to reveal red, wild ginseng.

"God of War, here's some red ginseng for your mother! It's a herb famous for its immense benefits for health."

"This is great. I'll keep it too," Levi responded.

Jonah, who tried hard to subdue the excitement coursing in his blood, continued to open the third box. "This is a topaz pendant for your wife! Please send my greetings to your mother and your wife on my behalf!"

Levi accepted all the gifts happily. "You're really great at choosing gifts. I love them all!" he commented with a friendly smile.

"If there's nothing else, I've got to go now. I hope your mission of eliminating the traitor goes well later," Levi said with a barely noticeable smirk on his face.

Jonah and his family were ecstatic as the God of War had not only accepted their gifts – but he also even showed care and interest in their mission.

It seemed to them that they had successfully built a strong bond with the God of War through this trip.

It was not hard to imagine what a promising and prosperous future they could have!

With the bond with the God of War, they might get to act with more backbone the next time they interacted with those in Oakland City next time.

"Kirin, we shall not disturb you guys any further then."

In a buoyant mood, Jonah brought the rest of the family back to the villa.

Immediately, the man started preparing for the mission to finish off Emma and her son later that night. He was determined to make sure that their plan allowed no loopholes.

"Emma and her son will soon be unable to see the rising sun of the next morning!" Jonah sneered.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 966

Jonah had a clear idea of who he needed to implement his plan.

He recruited six skilled fighters from Tang Sect, all of them masters in wielding concealed weapons.

In addition to that, he dispatched eighteen top skilled fighters trained by the Garrison family to guard all exits of the neighborhood, giving Levi no chance to escape.

Last but not least, he and the rest of the family would be supervising everything from outside the neighborhood to deal with emergencies.

“Levi Garrison, I can’t believe even the God of War sees you as a skilled fighter too. Tonight, I’m going to witness you in action with my own eyes!”

Jonah looked forward to the violence that would be unleashed.

Meanwhile, Levi brought the gifts he had received from Jonah back home.

He was overjoyed to receive the red ginseng, as that was what his mother needed the most at the moment.

In order to cure Emma’s illness, he had sent some of his men on a search for rare and precious medicinal herbs over the past two days.

Much to his pleasant surprise, he received red ginseng from the Garrisons right at his doorstep.

The red ginseng, if used properly, could cure his mother of her chronic illness, boost her health, and even help her achieve longevity.

To be more precise, the red ginseng could help with his mother’s skin condition too.

In short, the red ginseng was a very timely gift.

After consulting Fredrick, Levi prepared a soup with red ginseng for Emma.

When Zoey got back home, Levi casually passed her the topaz pendant.

“Someone sent us a gift each. This is yours,” he said.

“Thanks.”

Zoey, who did not know much about jade, kept the topaz pendant away like it was just an ordinary jade pendant.

It was unbeknownst to her that that topaz pendant was actually a priceless item – the rarest of its kind.

After all, the Garrison family would never give out anything shabby as gifts.

Anyone who knew something about jade would have to pick their jaws up from the ground when they saw the topaz pendant Zoey had received from the Garrison family.

Zoey would only realize the real value of the topaz pendant sometime later.

“Hey, didn’t you say you had something to discuss with me?”

Levi remembered the woman telling him that that morning.

“Yes. Let’s talk in the bedroom.”

The man couldn’t help but be curious when she dragged him into their bedroom surreptitiously.

“I suppose you know that I’m handling a project worth a hundred billion right now,” Zoey began.

“Yes, I know about it.”

It went without saying that Levi knew about the project. Zoey was working at the company owned by him, after all.

Of course you’re free to grab any project you like. You’re the wife of the boss!

“When the project is officially launched, my net worth will soar, and I’ll be free from the control of both the Lopez family as well as the Black family. By then, I’ll have the freedom to make decisions in my life, like getting married to you,” Zoey said.

Only then did Levi understand why she was so eager to be in charge of the project.

Solemnly, the woman stared at him. “Just to be safe, I need to do something extra to make sure my parents and Grandma have no chance to stop us from marrying each other.”

“I actually don’t think that’s necessary because I will be able to settle all the problems.”

Levi had intended to announce his true identity to Zoey’s family at their wedding ceremony.

He believed the Lopez family and the Black family would not have any objections against their marriage once they learned about his true identity.

She cast a fleeting glance at him and snapped, “No way. You’re unreliable!”

Looking resigned, he was rendered speechless.

He knew that Zoey still assumed he was depending on the Joneses up until now.

In her opinion, he was a useless guy. Someone who was not capable of solving the issues she was facing at the moment.

“I’ve already come up with a plan which can ensure they have no grounds to object to our marriage!”

Zoey smiled craftily before quickly lowering her head to hide the embarrassment on her face.

“What’s this brilliant plan of yours?” he asked, curiosity written all over his face.

“We... We...” Zoey stammered, having a hard time revealing her plan.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 967

Levi scratched his head, looking puzzled.

“What exactly is on your mind?”

Despite him being the God of War, who had vast experience on the battlefields, he knew nothing about relationships.

Therefore, he had no idea how to gaug

e what was on Zoey's mind.

The woman shot him a glare. "You really can be such a blockhead sometimes. I'm thinking about getting pregnant!"

"Huh? Oh, I-I see..." It finally dawned upon him what she was thinking about.

So, her getting pregnant is her plan!

That's quite brilliant, actually.

As soon as she's pregnant, her family will have no choice but to accept our marriage.

"As long as I'm pregnant, there's nothing the Lopez family and the Black family can do to stop us from marrying each other. On top of that, I'll be getting so rich at that time that they will no longer be able to exert any more control on me!

I'll be free to decide who I'd like to marry, and no one will be able to stop me from doing that!" Zoey announced agitatedly.

Yet, Levi had his reservations. "It's not very appropriate, is it?"

"Why do you think so?"

"You know that I'm a very conservative man. I've always wanted to give you the best of everything, and I respect you a lot. I really think we should think about getting a child after we remarry each other. Right now, we're officially still a divorced couple."

"Zoey, getting pregnant at this juncture will do nothing but tarnish your reputation, and that's the last thing I want to see!

It pains me to see you suffer something like that as you've had gone through more than your share of hardships during these years. So, why don't we only think about having a child after we remarry each other?" Levi tried to convince Zoey earnestly.

The latter was touched by his words.

“Levi, you’re indeed the nice I’ve always thought you to be! I’m so glad because it means that all the effort I’ve made so far for you are worthwhile! Listen to me – having a kid is the only way we can get rid of my family!” Zoey insisted with tears welled up in her eyes.

She did not mind going through some hardships upon seeing how much Levi cared about her.

“Alright, I’ll do as you say.”

Levi beamed at her reply.

He had always wanted to have a kid with her.

However, he dared not propose that idea, considering he had owed her too much over the past six years.

“We can’t do anything frisky tonight. I’ll be busy later,” Levi spoke all of a sudden.

He was not in the mood to spend time with Zoey in bed because Jonah and his family were coming to kill him soon.

“Who said we’re going to do it tonight?”

the woman shot him a supercilious glance.

Levi suddenly felt himself heat up and quickly walked out of the mansion to let the breeze cool him down.

With one wave of his hands, someone materialized from the darkness.

“How can I help you, God of War?”

“Tell everyone guarding the neighborhood to retreat immediately!”

“Understood!”

Soon, the heavily guarded neighborhood became defenseless after all Levi's men had left on his order.

The action was necessary. Levi was worried that Jonah's men might not be able to get through the line of defense.

As the sky grew darker, Levi sipped on his cup of tea, enjoying the cool breeze outside the manor.

At the same time, Jonah and all his men had gathered outside Levi's neighborhood.

"Everyone, it's time we get to work! We have to kill Emma Jones and her son at all costs tonight!" Jonah commanded.

Six skilled fighters from Tang Sect, as well as eighteen skilled fighters from the Garrison family, crept their way into the neighborhood. They soon vanished into the darkness.

Dozens of skilled fighters were dispatched by Jonah to guard the surroundings of the neighborhood. They were to make sure no one was able to escape.

They had found out Levi's address ages ago, so they were quite familiar with the layout of the neighborhood after meticulously studying it.

The eighteen skilled fighters from the Garrison family were entrusted with the task to guard all the exits of the neighborhood. They were to ensure that Levi would not be able to run away.

Meanwhile, the six skilled fighters from Tang Sect were tasked to kill Levi and his mother.

While Levi was examining a stain on his shirt in front of the main gate of the mansion, the six skilled fighters from Tang Sect started closing in on him from less than fifty meters away.

"That's Levi Garrison! Kill him!"

After making sure the man they saw was indeed Levi, the six skilled fighters launched their attack on him.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War

[The Protector] Chapter 968

Swish, swish, swish...

The rustling sound of something moving in the air at a rapid speed could be heard.

Up to a hundred concealed weapons swooped down at Levi dangerously at one go.

The skilled fighters from Tang Sect were aiming to kill Levi with a single strike.

They were very sure that their concealed weapons would be able to kill the man, leaving his body filled with holes.

Clank!

Clank!

Clank!

Much to their consternation, sparks flew and the sound of metal on metal could be heard.

“What is this sorcery? Is he wearing armor? Let’s give it another go!”

The skilled fighters from Tang Sect reacted promptly by launching another round of attack on Levi without further ado.

Clank...

Yet, the same thing happened this time – their weapons were unable to pierce through Levi’s armor.

“Damn it! He’s wearing the Golden Armor! It’s one of our creations!” One of them let out an exclamation after taking a closer look at the armor Levi was wearing.

"It can't be! How did he get his hands on the Golden Armor?"

"The thing he's wearing looks very much like it, though."

"We've failed our mission! Retreat immediately!"

The six skilled fighters immediately retreated after a brief discussion.

Levi broke into a smile as he broke into a smile.

I must say, this Golden Armor is indeed fantastic!

If Black Tortoise were here, he would have gotten injured by the concealed weapons.

Even though Black Tortoise's skin is impenetrable to ordinary weapons and bullets, he is defenseless to the weapons used by the fighter of Tang Sect.

This Golden Armor Jonah gifted me is even better than all the bulletproof vests I've been wearing!

Levi couldn't help but marvel at how sturdy the Golden Armor was.

The fighters, who were guarding the exits, were horrified to see the fighters from Tang Sect running away from Levi's manor.

"You guys should remain here," they told the eighteen skilled fighters.

Outside the neighborhood, Jonah looked very much at ease. "I guess Levi and his mother have already been killed by now. I have a lot of confidence in the skilled fighters from Tang Sect."

At that juncture, the six skilled fighters he mentioned made a beeline for where Jonah was standing.

"What went wrong?"

Judging from their pale faces, Jonah knew their mission had gone awry.

“Mr. Garrison, this is bad. Levi Garrison is wearing armor that looks very much like the Golden Armor – a creation of our sect! He can’t be hurt by our concealed weapons at all!”

Another man from Tang Sect chimed in, “If my judgment is correct, he is indeed wearing a Golden Armor!”

“What?”

How could something like this happen?”

Soon, a person popped up in Jonah’s mind. It was the God of War whom they had gifted a Golden Armor earlier that day.

Yet, they did not reckon that there existed any association between Levi and the God of War.

One of them was the God of War of the country, whereas the other was the bastard of the prestigious Garrison family.

It seemed extremely unlikely that the two could have any connection.

There was only one plausible reason that could explain the situation – Levi just so happened to be wearing something that looked extremely similar to a Golden Armor.

Indeed, it was human nature to avoid what they feared and try to convince themselves that the things they feared did not exist.

“Levi really is a force to be reckoned with. No wonder even the God of War thinks highly of him. I think he’s wearing some sort of flexible body armor; that’s probably what’s protect him from some weapons.”

“Come on, let’s go and check him out ourselves! If assassination doesn’t work, we should launch a frontal attack on him then! Let’s see how he’s going to defend himself this time!”

Jonah, together with all the skilled fighters, charged toward Levi’s manor.

The eighteen skilled fighters guarding the exits began advancing on the manor too.

Meanwhile, Levi was still sitting leisurely at the gate of the mansion.

Just then, silhouettes of Jonah's people emerged from the darkness.

"Levi Garrison, today is your doomsday! You are going to die a horrible death this time!"
At Jonah's command, the eighteen skilled fighters charged at Levi in unison.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 969

The Garrison family had spent a fortune on training the eighteen skilled fighters who had never acted together before that day.

They were confident that their joined forces would be capable of finishing off anyone.

Exuding a murderous aura, the skilled fighters closed in on Levi.

Swish!

The blades of their swords swept past the icy air toward Levi.

Clank!

Levi allowed them to slash his body with the swords, not doing anything to defend himself.

.

To the utter dismay of the skilled fighters, only a dull thud was produced when the blades landed on Levi's body as their swords failed to cut through him

"Mr. Garrison, did you see that? He's wearing a powerful armor that can protect him from the swords!" one of the skilled fighters from Tang Sect pointed out.

Clank!

Clank!

Clank!

The eighteen skilled fighters tried attacking Levi again and again, but their efforts were futile.

The blades of their swords only ended up being dented.

What kind of armor is Levi Garrison wearing?

His armor must be very strong because our swords are powerful enough to pierce through bulletproof vests made with the most advanced techniques.

"I have a feeling that Levi is wearing the Golden Armor. If he wasn't, there's no way he'll be able to last this long," Seamus whispered to his father.

"He's really something!" Jonah tried to catch a glimpse at what Levi looked like, but he couldn't see the man's face clearly. He was standing too far away.

Suddenly, a sinister glint shone in Levi's eyes while the eighteen skilled fighters were attacking him.

"It's my turn now..."

Thump!

As soon as Levi spoke, he flew into action, sending the skilled fighters flying some distance away by forcefully kicking them one by one.

The eighteen skilled fighters suffered from his attacks, tossed around as if they were mere figurines.

Soon, all of them slumped on the ground quite far away from Levi.

It was a mind-blowing sight. The Garrison family from Haven could not believe their eyes.

They knew the eighteen skilled fighters well enough to know that they were all extremely talented. The combative power of one of them was equal to the total combative power of ten men like Caleb.

Yet, none of them had been a match for Levi.

“Kill him! Slaughter him now!”

“We have to get rid of Levi tonight, or he will go on to become a great disgrace to our family! Now that even the God of War is aware of his presence, we have to kill him to spare ourselves from the embarrassment!”

Panic-stricken, Jonah dispatched all his men, ordering a full-blown attack on the man at once.

In an instant, a hundred skilled fighters were charging toward Levi.

The man approached them one step at a time.

Clank!

He allowed them to strike blows after blows at him, not bothering to dodge or fight back.

Levi knew he was well protected by the Golden Armor; he would not be harmed no matter how they tried to hurt him.

The skilled fighters soon discovered something bizarre.

Regardless of how they swung their blades, all strikes were directed by an invisible force, making all blows land on only Levi's body.

They could never seem to reach the more vulnerable body parts of his, like his neck or his head.

While Levi could withstand their attack without getting hurt, all of them were vulnerable to his attack.

Thump!

Thump!

The ground Levi walked past was filled with the fighters who had collapsed.

In the end, none of the skilled fighters dared to go near Levi, considering that he was literally invincible.

There was nothing much all of them could do at the moment.

Eventually, Levi forced them to retreat about one hundred meters.

He was moving closer to Jonah and his family and would reach them soon.

“T-This can’t be happening...”

The eyes of Jonah and his family were filled with utter disbelief when they saw the skilled fighters being defeated by Levi so effortlessly.

How can that bastard be such a prominent fighter?

Why does he seem invincible?

Although Levi stood meters away from them, they still could not make out his face because the surroundings were dimly lit.

“Kill him! Finish him off now!” Jonah bellowed at the top of his lungs.

At that moment, Jonah was seized by a spasm of fear seeing that Levi was only meters away from him.

The latter commented with a hearty laugh, “Jonah, I must say this Golden Armor from you is really as fabulous as you put it! I’m giving it a score of ten out of ten after trying it out with real weapons just now!”

Upon hearing his comment, Jonah and his family looked as though they had been struck by lightning.

That voice certainly rings a bell...

What did he say just now? A gift from us?

Realization slowly dawned upon Jonah and his entire family.

When did we ever give Levi a Golden Armor?

Damn it! Could he be...

Jonah and his family were mortified when they finally realized the truth.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 970

Jonah was left gob smacked. He felt as though his head was going to explode, and his eyeballs were going to pop out of their sockets any minute.

Levi received a Golden Armor from me?

Didn't I gift that to the God of War earlier today?

Could Levi possibly be the God of War? How could he be such a prominent figure?

While Jonah went lost in his own thoughts, Levi had already made his way right in front of them.

The Garrisons turned to face Levi and what greeted them was a face they had seen earlier that day.

Isn't this man the God of War?

Having met during the day, the two parties encountered each other again, albeit in a much more awkward manner.

"Jonah, I really love this Golden Armor from you! It's so much better than the usual bulletproof vests I've been wearing."

Levi flashed the group a good-natured smile.

For some reason, Jonah and his family felt as though their legs just turned into jelly.

Thud!

Thud!

One after another, they collapsed onto the ground and knelt before Levi.

The skilled fighters standing around them were left at a loss.

."What are you lot waiting for? Get down on your knees right now!" Jonah snarled

Thud!

Immediately, all the skilled fighters were on their knees too.

Levi let out an amused laugh. "Why are you guys kneeling in front of me? Come on, kill me now! Jonah Garrison, aren't you here to kill me?"

The man he directed his question to was left speechless.

At that moment, everyone in the Garrison family from Haven was made aware of one thing – Levi Garrison was the God of War!

That was certainly a staggering discovery to them.

No wonder the man had been reluctant to admit to the fact that he was one of the Garrisons. No wonder he did not take the Garrison clan in Oakland City seriously.

No wonder he knew about the other purpose of their visit to South City...

No wonder he tipped them off by saying that the bastard of their family was a tough nut to crack and advising them to bring more men with them.

As it turned out, Levi was the God of War!

At that moment, the Garrisons from Haven realized they had made a serious misjudgment.

If Levi were indeed a useless man, how could he have killed Caleb?

How could he have brought his mother back with him?

How could he have destroyed that tombstone?

On top of that, they had made a fool out of themselves by happily telling Levi all about their plan to kill him earlier that day.

After so much hassle, the bastard they had planned to kill turned out to be the God of War.

“We were wrong! God of War, we’ve made a very grave mistake!”

Jonah was scared out of his wits, and his body was drenched in a cold sweat.

He could not believe they had just tried to kill the God of War!

If what they did was known by the army of the Erudia, his entire family would be massacred.

They had really made a grave mistake this time.

“Aren’t you guys an imperial family?”

Isn’t the blood that runs in you guys a noble one? Is it appropriate of you to kneel in front of a bastard like me?” Sarcasm was evident in Levi’s tone.

“God of War, it’s our honor to get down on our knees in your distinguished presence!” Jonah was eager to butter the man up.

“Are you trying to say that I deserve to be mercilessly killed by you guys if I am not the God of War?”

Jonah and his family were startled when they heard Levi suddenly raise his voice.

“Isn’t the reason why you guys have been trying so hard to hunt my mother and I down because you guys see us as a disgrace to the Garrison family?”

Don't you guys think that the blood that runs in me is so filthy that I will only bring nothing but an embarrassment to the family?" The man yelled furiously.

"This..." Jonah was left stumped because it was true that they had thought of Levi and his mother that way.

In their opinion, bastards did not deserve to exist in this world.

"I really wonder what makes you guys think you're superior to me. Is the blood that runs in you guys? Does that make you think of yourselves as nobler than us? Or is it just because you guys are part of the Garrison family?"

"Now that I'm the God of War, am I finally be good enough to deserve some respect from you? From an orphan, I fought hard and worked my way up to achieve success.

Has anyone from your distinguished family achieved something like that?"

"What about Tyrone Garrison? Isn't he the successor to the head of your family? Out of Tyrone and I, who do you think deserves more respect?" Levi nearly growled at them.

The Protector Chapter 971

With a note of awkwardness in his voice, Jonah responded, "God of War, of course, you deserve more respect. Tyrone is nothing compared to you!"

Jonah spoke only the truth.

No matter how powerful and influential the Garrison clan and Tyrone Garrison were, the God of War was still way out of their league.

"If that's the case, what gives him the right to look down on me and call me a bastard? Do he and his family have the right to treat me in such a disrespectful manner?"

"No, of course, they don't! They have no right to be so rude to you!" Jonah replied eagerly.

At the same time, the man was so terrified – his body was shaking.

"How dare they even think of killing me? Do they have what it takes to do that?" Levi scoffed.

"Very well. You guys are free to send as many men as you like to kill me. I can easily handle them all!"

Thump!

Thump!

Jonah and his family quickly offered several bows to plead for Levi's mercy. "God of War, please spare our lives! We made a mistake by trying to kill you! We didn't know you were the God of War!"

The entire family pressed their heads against the ground so hard that their foreheads started bleeding.

Jonah looked like he was on the brink of passing out.

“We will accept any request you make as long as you spare our lives!” he implored in a fit of panic.

He knew his entire family would be annihilated if they incurred the God of War’s wrath.

They should not have made their way over to South City.

Never in their wildest dreams did they imagine Levi, the bastard, to turn out to be the God of War.

With a disdainful smile, Levi gave his verdict.

“Get lost! I’m not going to kill you guys today! None of you are worth my effort, and your blood will only dirty my hands! The gifts from you lot do offer some compensation, though. They are quite to my liking!”

Jonah and his family let out a sigh of relief when they realized that they would not be killed on the spot.

They were glad that they had sent Levi some gifts earlier that day – that gesture had seemingly successfully saved their lives.

“Will you guys be able to reach Tyrone Garrison?” Levi asked them out of the blue.

“Y-Yes, we can...” Jonah replied.

“Very well, go back and tell Tyrone that my mother and I are still alive and kicking! Ask him to wait for me as I might decide to visit him anytime when I am in a foul mood!”

“But don’t you dare reveal my identity to him.

For the hard work, I’ll reward you guys with a huge gift,” Levi instructed.

In quivering voices, the Garrisons responded in unison, “Alright, we’ll convey your message to Tyrone!”

“Get lost now then!”

As soon as Levi allowed them to go, all of them immediately made a run for their lives.

However, Jonah and his sons did not leave right away.

Instead, they approached Kirin and explained everything to him.

“You guys are incorrigible!” Kirin was livid.

No wonder Boss already knew what they were up to earlier today!

They came here to kill Boss!

“There’s nothing left to be said now. From today onward, I will have nothing to do with you guys! If you dare pull something like this again in the future, I will be the first to punish you!” Kirin snapped angrily.

Jonah and his family made their trip back to Haven that night.

They knew they had to lie low during the days that followed if they wished to survive.

“Dad, should we inform the Garrison clan about this? Should we tell them the truth?” Seamus questioned.

“No, we shouldn’t tell them anything! Judging from the God of War’s tone, there must be a feud between him and the Garrison clan! Do we want to get implicated by their clash?” Jonah seethed.

“No, we don’t! After all, they don’t take us seriously – they see us as a bunch of nobodies!”

Everyone nodded in agreement.

“Make a phone call to Tyrone for me now. I’m going to convey the message to him, and then I’ll leave him to settle the mess himself!”

Just as Jonah was going to dial Tyrone’s number, he received a call from the Garrison clan.

“Dad, someone from the Garrison clan is calling. Seems like they’ve gotten a sniff of what happened already!” Seamus exclaimed.

“Pass me the phone.”

Jonah picked up the call. “Hello...”

An aged and feeble voice came from the other end.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 972

“Jonah Garrison?” said the elderly man in a cool tone.

Jonah’s expression took a sharp turn, and he spoke respectfully, “Greetings, Mr. Edward.”

Jonah’s change in attitude showed just how powerful the other party truly was.

The person speaking to him wasn’t even a high-ranking member of the Garrison clan.

It was a mere servant who had more influence than Caleb.

Edward was the personal attendant who had been assigned to take care of Levi’s biological father, Tyrone Garrison. In fact, the man had been working by Tyrone’s side ever since Tyrone was born.

It could be said that Edward was responsible for dealing with every single matter regarding Tyrone.

Moreover, the man wasn’t just Tyrone’s bodyguard – he was also the latter’s right-hand man.

That was the reason that Edward held incredible power within the Garrison clan, even though he wasn’t a member of the family.

Even the master of the Garrison family in Haven had to bow down to him.

They were simply not on the same level.

The Garrison clan of Oakland City was too powerful; even a servant was seen as royalty.

“How did things go? Has everything been settled?” Edward inquired.

Obviously, Edward had already known all about Levi and Emma, despite it being a secret.

Still, given the power of the Garrison clan, it was just a matter of time before they learned all about it, anyway.

“Uh...”

Jonah was a little hesitant to reply.

Edward’s tone turned stern immediately. He demanded, “What? Don’t tell me you failed? Jonah Garrison, you are the head of the Garrison clan from Haven! How could you have been bested by a bastard? The Garrison family and I are so disappointed in you. Seriously, what’s the point of keeping trash like you around? All you do is embarrass the Garrison clan!”

Jonah grew upset after being scolded by him.

He’s the freaking God of War! No one can deal with someone like that.

“Why are you staying quiet? Are you discontent? Well, tough luck! There’s no point in being discontent. My gosh, you can’t even kill a bastard. You lot really are nothing but trash,” growled Edward.

“There’s a reason I couldn’t kill him. It doesn’t mean the Garrison family of Haven is weak. We’re certainly not the trash you claim us to be!” yelled Jonah angrily.

“Fine, then tell me what that reason is,” said Edward in an amused tone.

“The reason is that this whole ordeal doesn’t have much to do with me, anyway, so I don’t want to do anything about it. Satisfied?” scoffed Jonah.

"Hah! That is nothing but an excuse coming from a useless man. Well then, I will personally deal with the matter for Master Tyrone. You'll see how easy it is to kill that b*tch and that bastard!" growled Edward.

Jonah grinned and replied, "In that case, allow me to deliver a message from Levi to Tyrone. He said he and his mother are leading a good life now, but he tells Tyrone to be patient, for there will come a day when they knock on the Garrison family's door."

Jonah knew that, as far as the Garrisons from Oakland City were concerned, the extended family members were nothing more than mutts.

Even a mere servant was allowed to insult the extended family.

That poor treatment made Jonah upset, and he suddenly wanted to see Levi crush the Garrison clan in Oakland City.

"What? Did that bastard really say that?" demanded Edward, who was obviously furious. After that, the man added, "You're actually delivering a message for that bastard? My gosh, Jonah, you really are an embarrassment to the Garrisons. You're worse than a scoundrel!"

"Go ahead and diss us all you like. I'll sit back and watch how miserable your attempt to kill him will be."

There was no way Jonah would warn Edward about Levi's power after being insulted so thoroughly by the man like that.

"Jonah Garrison, just you wait, you useless piece of shit!

I will report this to the higher-ups soon, and the Garrison family of Haven will definitely be disowned!"

After saying his piece, Edward hung up furiously.

"He is really too much!"

Jonah smashed his phone onto the floor out of anger. He later looked into the distance and murmured, "Why do I get the feeling that he has the ability to crush the Garrison clan in Oakland City?"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War

[The Protector] Chapter 973

“How is that possible? So what if he is the God of War? There’s no way he can do anything to the Garrison clan. The clan spent the past thousand years building a firm foundation!” said Seamus, who didn’t believe in Levi.

“We’ll have to wait and see then.”

On the other side of the line, Edward was still waiting in the Northern region.

The man looked grouchy.

“Trash. Utter trash! They can’t even kill a bastard, so how can they be allowed to call themselves a part of the Garrison clan?” he fumed.

“That’s right! The Garrison clan has plenty of members in Erudia, but none of them are of any use. Stupid trash! They’re not worthy of being a part of the Garrison clan, even if they bear the same surname!”

A few others chimed in and gave their two cents as well.

“What do we do next, Edward? Should we deliver Levi’s message to Master Tyrone?” someone asked daringly.

“No! We can’t let this matter affect Master Tyrone at a crucial moment like this. We have to deal with everything in secret,” informed Edward grimly.

“The Succession Ceremony is right around the corner, and Master Tyrone is about to be named the head of the Garrison clan. If news about that b*tch and bastard gets out at a time like this, trouble will most definitely follow.”

“Moreover, if Master Tyrone becomes the new head of the Garrison clan, we will become the most powerful servants within the clan.

Such a matter will affect our future as well!” chimed another member.

Edward’s eyes shone with eccentricity as he said, “Exactly! As the servants, it is our duty to protect Master Tyrone and help him become the next head. We shall kill anyone who threatens his position, be it Levi Garrison or Emma Jones. As for how we’ll go about doing that... Well, I have a great idea.”

Edward’s lips curved into a cruel smile.

Tyrone had long craved the position of the head of the Garrison clan.

The man once said that he would forgo everything and be as cruel as he needed to be to claw his way up to that position.

That was why the act of abandoning Emma and Levi meant nothing to him.

Compared to the position as the head of the Garrison clan, Emma and Levi were nothing.

Edward received a call at that moment.

The call was from Damien – Tyrone’s legitimate son.

He was the son Tyrone had with his wife, whom he married after he abandoned Levi and Emma.

Edward and the others had been there at every stage of Damien’s life.

Hence, they knew just how cruel the man really was.

Tyrone alone was a heartless and merciless being, but Damien somehow managed to be ten times worse than his father.

The man will definitely be a force to be reckoned with in the future.

“Edward, I’ve learned about everything. My dad is on the verge of succeeding in obtaining the position as the head of the Garrison clan. You know what will happen if those two show up at a time like this, don’t you?” sneered Damien.

"We know what to do, Mr. Damien.

We will definitely kill your brother, Levi Garrison, and his mother," replied Edward was quick to speak, and he accidentally used the wrong term in the process.

"He is not my brother! That man is nothing but a bastard, and he is not worthy to be called my brother.

I will soon be the successor to the most prominent family in Erudia, and he will stay a useless bastard. I'm warning you right now. Damien Garrison does not have a brother. I am my father's only son. Do you hear me? Kill them! You must kill both that bastard and his mother. Do not let them survive," Damien barked endlessly on the other end of the line.

All it took was one word from Edward to infuriate Damien.

As far as Damien was concerned, calling Levi his brother was a huge insult.

Damien regarded himself as the heir of two noble bloodlines, whereas Levi was nothing but a bastard with mixed blood. His blood is tainted, and he's inferior! How can they compare a noble being like me to that... thing?

"If you fail to crush those two, you will be the ones I kill," threatened Damien grimly.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 974

Edward and the others present were scared senseless.

The former, in particular, realized that he had made a mistake and that the only way out of it was to kill Levi Garrison.

"By the way, Levi sent a message over, Mr. Damien."

Edward later told Damien everything Jonah had told him.

The latter was infuriated when he heard the message. "What? That bastard wants to come over and walk into our home?"

"I think so. I'm guessing he refused to let go of this rare opportunity after learning about his family background.

He will do anything to get into the family and force the Garrison clan to recognize him as a member," suggested Edward.

"That is ridiculous! He wants to join the Garrison clan? Who does he think he is? He is nothing but a bastard, so he can dream on.

The Garrison clan is the best of the best, and we don't take in useless bastards like that. No way am I going to let that bastard be a member of our family and be listed in our family tree. Not a chance in hell!" Damien shouted.

"I don't think he will let this opportunity go so easily, Mr. Damien. He already knows who he is, and he knows that his life will be elevated once he is recognized by the family."

"He can forget about ever stepping foot in the Garrison clan home! Hell, even thinking about kneeling before us and our ancestors is a privilege he is not worthy of," roared Damien cruelly.

Both of them misunderstood Levi's intention.

They assumed that the man would be begging to be admitted into the family and be recognized as one.

However, when Levi said he would be visiting the Garrison family home, he meant that he would be kicking the door down and bringing chaos.

"And that is why you have three days. He must die in three days! That bastard has been breathing for too long as it is, and that itself is a huge enough insult to the entire Garrison clan."

Damien was furious and murderous when he thought about the so-called brother he had never met before.

"Understood. I promise it will be done discreetly."

Edward took off that very night, and he brought his men with him to South Hampton.

The Garrison clan had an enormous base in the city – it was practically the economic pillar of South Hampton.

However, it operated in the dark, so no one knew about it.

Even the most prominent family in South Hampton, the Goel family, was unaware of its existence.

All outsiders knew was that there was a company named Pinnacle Group.

They didn't realize that it was one of Tyrone's companies and that he used it to manage the Garrison clan's assets in the South.

It turns out that the company was under Caleb's management.

Zoey had been busy working on the new project those few days.

Unfortunately, Iris came running that day, telling her that the project had hit a snag.

At first, they didn't have any competitors, allowing Morris Group to take over easily. Everything had been set in stone and ready.

However, a large-scale company popped out of nowhere that day, and it threatened to snatch the project away in the most domineering way.

Iris had rushed over to inform Zoey about it.

"Which company are we talking about?" asked the latter curiously.

"It's a company called Pinnacle Group from South Hampton. It popped out of nowhere, but its powers are incredible. The company basically controls South Hampton's economy, and Morris Group is definitely not its competitor," replied Iris.

Zoey investigated Pinnacle Group right away.

The company's information had never been a secret, but it was a little difficult to learn about them.

She spent some time on it and eventually discovered something.

"The company is owned by Tyrone Garrison... That name sounds familiar. Where have I heard this name before?" she murmured before she recalled who the man was, and a chill ran down her spine. She then let out a gasp. "Wait, Tyrone Garrison... Isn't he Levi's biological dad?"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 975

Competing against the Garrison clan? What chance do we really have of winning if we do such a thing?

Zoey's first instinct was to give up.

After all, what were the chances of her actually succeeding? Especially if they already had it out for her.

Iris' secretary walked into the office at that moment to deliver a message.

The woman turned pale upon hearing Zoey's words. She then informed, "Pinnacle Group's person-in-charge will be here this afternoon. I'm guessing they are here to talk about the project. You should attend that meeting."

"Okay."

Zoey took a few deep breaths.

So what if Tyrone owns the company? So what if the Garrison clan is ridiculously powerful? I'm the one who got the project first. I will not let Pinnacle Group take it away from me!

Levi examined Zoey closely during lunch and commented, "What's wrong? You look troubled."

"It's nothing. I'm just dealing with some issues from work."

She never told him about the issue with Pinnacle Group.

She worried that unnecessary mayhem would ensue if he knew about Tyrone's advances.

It's probably a better idea to keep quiet. After all, there is no way a puny enterprise like ours can deal with a corporate giant like that.

That afternoon, a number of luxurious, black cars drove up.

The people from Pinnacle Group had arrived.

Zoey personally welcomed them.

The ones in charge were a woman and two men. Their assistants were following close behind, and all of them were obviously out for blood.

"Zoey Lopez? So it really is you!" said the woman before she chuckled aloud.

"And you are..."

The woman had on a pair of sunglasses, so Zoey could not recognize her.

The latter trembled, and her eyes shone with surprise when the woman took her sunglasses off. She then mumbled, "I-it's you!"

"You remember me? Aw, I thought you'd forgotten all about me," replied the woman as a stunning grin appeared on her face.

"Y-you're the person-in-charge of Pinnacle Group?"

"Thanks to you. I've been well after you guys chased me out of North Hampton, and I am now the vice president of Pinnacle Group!" The woman smiled.

That woman was Lyndsay Granger, Zoey's ex-BFF and senior.

She was the one who brought Zoey into the field and was, in a way, the one who taught Zoey most of what she knew.

Lyndsay had cared for her in every way.

However, she later discovered that it was all a lie.

Lyndsay had only been nice to her to get close to Levi.

At the time, the man had already founded Levi Group, and his career was taking off at an incredible speed.

Lyndsay's greed slowly showed itself soon after.

She continuously hurt Zoey from behind the scenes and created a number of illusions to make Levi misunderstand Zoey.

Lyndsay's worst scheme in her quest to separate the couple was having her men drag Zoey into a hotel, where they almost raped her.

When Levi learned about all that, he chased Lyndsay out of North Hampton.

Hence, the two women were now enemies.

That made Lyndsay an eyesore for Zoey.

The latter scoffed and said, "Then I guess there is no need to enter the building. Our company does not welcome vile b*tches."

"What is that supposed to mean, Zoey Lopez? I am Pinnacle Group's representative. How dare you turn Pinnacle Group away!" growled Lyndsay.

In the end, Zoey had no choice but to lead all of them into the building.

Once they got inside the meeting room, Zoey immediately said, "Let's get to the point, shall we? I'm busy."

Lyndsay grinned and replied, "We're here about the project. We heard your company has already accepted it."

"That's right. The project has already been taken. You guys have no shot at obtaining it anymore. You can't exactly steal it now, can you?" Zoey stated firmly.

Lyndsay smiled. "We're actually here to steal that project."

The woman then stood and looked her up and down before adding, "Zoey, I'm sure you've learned all about what Pinnacle Group is capable of. I am here on behalf of the company and am commanding you to give it up. Hand the project over to us!"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 976

Domineering, arrogant, and blatant cruelty.

That was Pinnacle Group's style.

Lyndsay and the others knew just how powerful the force supporting Pinnacle Group was, so they did not refrain from making demands.

They had never been afraid of anyone because of that knowledge.

In fact, the entire southern region would know about Lyndsay if Pinnacle Group's motto wasn't to stay in the dark and to control everything from behind the scenes.

Zoey was taken aback by the woman's direct and domineering words.

They're going to snatch it away just like that? And she's daring enough to command me without a hint of shame! They have no right to do such shitty things.

She had been tempted to give the project up when she learned that Pinnacle Group was after it.

However, that option had become one she would never opt for when she laid eyes on Lyndsay.

Why should I give up?

“Sorry, but you are not my boss. You don’t have the authority to command me to do anything. Moreover, our company has already gotten the project. You guys can’t snatch it away even if you want to!” scoffed Zoey.

“And who told you that you already have the project?” Lyndsay asked cruelly.

“Our client, of course. We’ve already met and discussed everything. The project belongs to Oriental Star Group, and you guys are too late. Please leave.”

Zoey had just discussed the terms with the client – she had even paid the deposit.

It was then that Lyndsay let out a small smile.

“Oh, the project belongs to you? Have you signed the contract then?”

“I...” blurted Zoey, who was somewhat stunned. She later added, “Regardless, I have already paid the deposit. If the client goes back on his word, he will have to pay for the legal damages.”

Zoey held her head high as she glared at Lyndsay.

The former suddenly received a call at that moment – it was from the client.

The client was willing to pay three times the legal damage to terminate their collaboration with Morris Group.

“Feel free to continue competing for the project, though. At first, there weren’t any viable competitors against Morris Group, but one showed up recently,” informed the other party via the phone.

The project was more scientific in nature, so Pinnacle Group wasn't exactly equipped to be too involved.

Getting the other party to cancel the collaboration was the most Pinnacle Group could do.

As a result, Zoey was in fair competition against Tyrone's company.

"So? Are you still certain that the project is yours?"

Lyndsay crossed her arms and asked arrogantly.

"You..." growled Zoey. She was fuming at that moment.

She had known Pinnacle Group to be powerful, but she hadn't expected them to have such a strong influence. It was strong enough to get the client to breach the contract. They did all that just to get to us.

However, the more unreasonable Pinnacle Group was, the more Zoey wanted to fight.

She wanted to get back at her competitor if nothing else.

"You've seen what we're capable of. Are you sure you want to go against us?" taunted Lyndsay with a smile.

"We've investigated you, Ms. Zoey Lopez. Oriental Star Group won't even make it to our radar if it doesn't have Morris Group backing it up. As far as we are concerned, Oriental Star Group is nothing but a powerless maggot," said a representative of Pinnacle Group.

Everyone else chuckled tauntingly.

Lyndsay grinned and added, "It's even less of a deal when we don't even give a shit about Morris Group. Just hand the project over without making a fuss, Zoey. There's actually something in it for you if you do so. Moreover, going against us will only destroy you. It might even get you killed."

"Are you threatening me?" Zoey questioned sharply, her expression turning grave.

Lyndsay feigned innocence and claimed, "How could that possibly be a threat? I am simply... giving you some suggestions as your BFF. You'll get something great out of it."

“My BFF? I don’t have friends like you! Don’t bother putting up an act in front of me,” Zoey gritted out.

“Haha, you just wait and see then. Not only will this project be ours, but your company will also soon belong to us,” announced Lyndsay before she laughed aloud.

Pinnacle Group was already planning on acquiring a few sizable enterprises, and both Oriental Star Group and Morris Group were already on their list.

“Oh my, how arrogant of you.”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 977

A voice rang up at that moment, and everyone turned to see Levi strolling into the conference room.

“You! Levi Garrison!”

Lyndsay gritted her teeth, revealing her nasty nature as soon as she spotted the man.

Levi had been cruel in chasing Lyndsay out of the city after her evil plan was exposed.

“Acquiring Oriental and Morris? Dream on, woman!” scoffed Levi.

When Levi first heard that Pinnacle Group was there to cause trouble, he looked into the company. He was surprised to see that it belonged to his biological father, Tyrone.

He had rushed over immediately after.

As suspected, a meeting was ongoing.

Shameless vixens like Lyndsay are thriving in Pinnacle Group. Guess that proves what a terrible company Pinnacle Group really is.

“Your Oriental and Morris? Hahaha..” Lyndsay let out a boisterous laugh.

Levi stared at her like he was looking at a lunatic.

“How shameless of you to say that, Levi Garrison. Oriental Star Group belongs to Zoey and might, in a way, be yours. However, what does Morris Group have anything to do with you?” scoffed Lyndsay.

“I’m going to be frank with you all. We’re definitely acquiring Morris Group, and Oriental Star Group is going down with it!” someone from the side chirped.

Pinnacle Group had always operated from the dark, and Tyrone was the sole reason it was making itself known at that moment.

Tyrone was about to inherit the position as the head of the Garrison clan in Oakland City.

To achieve that, he needed to earn the approval of every member of the Garrison clan.

That was why he needed ridiculously amazing achievements on his resume.

The man owned corporations all over Erudia that all operated from the shadows. Now was the moment they needed to show themselves to the world. He needed to expand their operations ten folds within a short frame of time.

Pinnacle Group, which was under Lyndsay, was tasked with acquiring Morris Group and other sizable enterprises.

“Okay, we’ll see who comes out on top,” Levi replied sweetly with a smile.

Tyrone wishes to acquire my company? Hah! Dream on, old man. There’s no saying which company will end up acquiring the other.

“So, Zoey, are you sure you’re not going to back down?” asked Lyndsay.

"I'm very sure!"

"Okay, just you wait then. I'll defeat you mercilessly, and after I acquire your company, I will force you to get on your knees!"

Lyndsay and the others walked away proudly after saying their piece.

Zoey bit her lip lightly before she turned to Levi and asked, "So you've learned about everything?"

"Yeah. You didn't need to hide anything from me, though. Tyrone and I are bound to meet eventually," he replied.

She nodded.

That actually makes sense.

She then thought about how they were about to go to war with Tyrone's company.

"Pinnacle Group is too powerful. It's the secret entity controlling everything in South Hampton. I'm not confident about going against it." She sighed.

She had only been that persistent earlier because she was at odds with Lyndsay.

However, the difference in their power was too great in an actual war.

"Why are you worried? They don't get to cause mayhem in our territory," commented Levi; he didn't see Pinnacle Group as a threat at all.

"I'm not a coward, but Pinnacle Group is too strong. Even Morris Group has no shot against it," replied Zoey exasperatedly.

The difference in the strength of the two companies was too much, and it was not something that hard work and determination could make up for.

"So, are you giving up on that project?" Levi asked.

"No way! I'll be sure to fight for it," Zoey declared firmly.

She thought about how the project would elevate herself and make it so that neither the Lopez nor the Black families could control her anymore.

That thought alone pumped Zoey up.

“You can work on other projects if you want to let this one go. Just inform Iris about it,” said Levi.

You’re the boss. All you have to do is say the word, and you can get another project.

“Levi, that project values over a hundred billion. There aren’t many projects like that out there. We can’t just pick and choose to switch as we please.”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 978

Zoey stared at Levi incredulously.

How could he change the project so casually?

This is a project worth hundreds of billions.

Has he gotten too used to being a lay about?

How could he make everything sound so casual?

Little did she know that it only took one sentence from her to change a project.

The Pinnacle Group owned a large building in South City, which Lyndsay and the other senior management members returned to.

“It’s simple. Just get rid of this hundred billion technology project first. We can then chip away at Morris Group bit by bit!”

Lyndsay and the others had already planned out the annexation in detail.

They were in deep discussion when the door to the conference room was suddenly pushed open.

Seven people walked in.

An old man dressed in a green suit was leading the group. His imposing mannerism combined with the murderous aura he emitted made everyone present hold their breaths.

“W-welcome, M-Mr. Edward, thank you for honoring us with your presence. W-we apologize for...”

The few senior management members of Pinnacle Group immediately knelt down in his presence.

“Kneel immediately!”

Trembling with trepidation, Lyndsay and the rest all got on their knees.

The Garrison clan imposed very strict rules on their members; they were expected to kneel the moment any of them met a person of high ranking.

Otherwise, it would be considered as a show of disrespect, which was akin to a straight path to hell.

Jayden Yolander, the current leader of Pinnacle Group, understood that this meant that something big was about to happen.

Someone of Edward’s level would not appear even once in thirty years.

Therefore, for him to make an appearance meant that something big was about to happen.

“I heard that you all have done quite well, seeing as to how you already have South Hampton’s economy under your control. Continue your expansion and fight to acquire all the property in the South. This will be of incredible help to Master Tyrone once he secures his position as the leader of the Garrison clan!” Edward proclaimed loudly.

"Understood. We're now planning to acquire Morris Group that is basking in the limelight right now. This will definitely be an added advantage to us," Jayden informed.

He then asked bravely, "Are you here for that bastard, Mr. Edward?"

"Indeed I am. He has already become a snake in the grass, and I have to get rid of him personally!" Edward replied coldly.

"Which bastard?"

Lyndsay and the rest were all puzzled by his remark.

"Of course I will let you know who he is! He's actually right here. He's Levi Garrison..."

Edward told them the gist of everything.

Lyndsay flew into a rage when she heard that the man Edward was referring to was Levi. "People like him should have been killed a long time ago!"

"Oh, would you mind elaborating further on why you're so angered?" Edward asked her curiously.

"Levi is an unscrupulous, materialistic, and insidiously cunning person! I think he will definitely make use of his position as an Oakland City Garrison to do something... I know his character very well! I have no doubt that he will use himself and his mother to threaten the Garrison clan!"

Edward turned furious. "Indeed, once a bastard, always a bastard! So what if he has noble blood running through his veins? Clearly, he's a bastard who's unworthy of belonging in our family. How can such a despicable person call himself a Garrison when he is filled with nothing but deep-rooted shamelessness?"

Edward felt that Levi had become a huge invisible threat.

"Die, the bastard must die!" the former shouted vehemently.

"Mr. Edward, how do you propose we deal with him? Will you be personally handling it?" Jayden asked.

Would it be overkill to have Edward deal with it directly?

“It is not appropriate for me to do such a thing as it could impact Master Tyrone negatively if people notice it,” Edward replied firmly.

“Now, you go ahead and release a kill order on the dark web. Whoever kills Levi Garrison and Emma Jones within one day will be rewarded with three billion!”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 979

Lyndsay inhaled sharply when she heard that.

Three billion just to take Levi’s wretched life?

Isn’t that being overly generous?

How could Levi the low life be worth that much?

She was not the only one who felt that the price for Levi’s head was a little too high.

Nonetheless, this was Edward’s command, and it was imperative that Jayden follows through.

The man immediately released this information on the dark web.

Swiftly, numerous elite fighters and assassins heeded the call.

The top fighters outside of Erudia could not do anything but watch enviously as the deadline was way too short for them to make a trip for the mission.

They could barely reach Erudia in time, let alone kill Levi.

Suddenly, all the elite fighters of Southern Erudia had gathered enthusiastically.

Nobody had any time to lose.

After all, three billion was being offered!

“Mr. Edward, within thirty minutes, around one hundred top assassins have heeded the call. The number is still growing!”

Jayden smiled in glee as he reported to Edward.

“Alright, no matter how much of a genius Levi Garrison is, he will not escape this time!”

In comparison to Jayden, Edward was completely calm.

The latter was suddenly reminded of Jonah Garrison, so he gave the man a call.

“You better watch out, Jonah, you piece of trash. You’re going to see how Levi is going to die in one day.”

Stunned, the other man on the line immediately shouted, “Edward, listen to me and get yourself back to Oakland City as quick as you can! Tell Tyrone about this and let him handle it. Don’t get yourself involved in this.”

“Haha, why should I do that? Should I be afraid of him? I can handle something small like this on my own. Why would I need to trouble Master Tyrone?”

Edward was full of confidence.

He could not imagine what kind of ability Levi would possess in order to survive under such extreme conditions.

“Fine, don’t say I didn’t warn you.”

“Hmph, all of you useless good-for-nothings! And you dare call yourselves Garrisons?”

Jonah let out a bitter laugh. “Another ignoramus.”

Edward completely disregarded the man's words, merely viewing him as a useless coward.

Moreover, what waves could a bastard like Levi raise?

Lyndsay was the happiest of them all when she found out that Levi was about to die.

The woman still held a deep grudge over how Levi had driven her out of the city six years ago. Revenge had always been on her mind.

She had the intention to kill both Levi and Zoey, and the opportunity was being presented itself before her right now.

After Levi died, she wished to torture Zoey to death.

The workers of Morris Group finished their work when night fell.

Levi and Zoey were about to head home when they saw Lyndsay waiting for them.

"What's the matter? Old friends can't come looking for each other? Are you two actually going to ignore me like this?"

Lyndsay sniggered.

"Can we help you?" Levi asked coldly.

"I'm here to deliver a piece of bad news."

Lyndsay couldn't help but chuckle in anticipation at seeing the look on their faces.

"Oh?"

Levi was baffled. She's here to tell me what?

"Zoey, please give us a moment. I've something to say to him!"

Levi patted Zoey lightly in assurance and the woman walked to one side.

"Alright. What sort of news are you here to tell me?" Levi asked.

"You're about to die!"

Lyndsay stared at Levi, a ferocious expression playing on her face.

"You will not live to see tomorrow morning's sun! I've been waiting for this day to come for a very long time. It's a pity that you'll be unable to watch how I'll torture Zoey after your death. Don't worry though, she will surely come and keep you company in hell!"

Lyndsay then let out a loud laugh maniacally.

"I'm about to die? Hahaha..."

Upon seeing Levi laugh, Lyndsay looked at him, confused.

Wasn't... wasn't he afraid of death?

"I'm telling you, you are definitely going to die soon, despite who you may be!"

She gritted her teeth in anger.

With a deepened smile, the man said, "Let's have a bet, shall we? I bet that I will still be alive tomorrow! Just you wait and see!"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 980

"Alright, if I see you alive tomorrow, I'll kneel in front of you right here, at your company entrance!"

Lyndsay agreed to the bet he proposed right away.

She knew about the plans that had been set in motion and also knew that Edward was the one overlooking the fight.

There was no way Levi will be able to avoid death.

This was why she was able to engage in the bet.

“Alright.”

Levi then approached Zoey from behind.

The latter asked curiously, “Why was Lyndsay look for you?”

“She says she wants to kneel in front of me tomorrow...” Levi answered nonchalantly.

The woman stared at him with astonishment. “Oh? Has Lyndsay gone mad? She actually wants to kneel in front of you?”

“She might have just found her conscience! We shall wait to watch her kneel tomorrow.”

Zoey was still befuddled by the whole situation. “That’s strange. Why would she suddenly say such an absurd thing?”

After dinner that night, Levi left the manor.

From what Lyndsay had told him, he knew that the Garrison clan was about to take action on him.

The matter was no longer about the different branch families. It was definitely the Garrison clan from Oakland City.

Hence, he needed to do some preparation to counter their attacks.

Levi soon arrived at the warzone compound.

“Phoenix, run a check on all the strangers that have entered South City today and sieve out all the targets!” Levi commanded.

"Alright, but there is a certain level of difficulty here. I will need to activate the Iron Brigade's Skynet in order to run such a check."

Phoenix frowned.

Levi nodded. "Alright, I'll grant you the access authority!"

The Iron Brigade's Skynet would aid Phoenix's investigation as it covered every corner of the city.

This would mean that the elite fighters, who had come into the city to murder Levi, had nowhere to hide. They were all covered by this Skynet.

"At the same time, get the Cavalry Regiment ready. When Phoenix confirms the targets, Azure Dragon, get rid of every one of them!"

"Yes, Sir!"

Azure Dragon nodded.

After giving all the instructions, Levi headed home to accompany his mother and Zoey as if nothing had happened.

Meanwhile, at Golden Plaza.

Edward and Jayden, together with the rest of them, were paying constant close attention to the situation.

Lyndsay was very concerned about this particular matter, so she had requested to stay.

"Mr. Edward, up till now, three hundred and eighty-eight elite fighters have arrived! The numbers are growing, and it is expected to grow till five hundred before twelve o'clock!"

Jayden chuckled quietly. "Five hundred elite fighters? No matter how powerful he claims to be, Levi won't know what hit him!"

"All of them are top assassins! He will have no chance at survival!" Edward growled coldly.

This was because they had purposely set a prerequisite when they released the mission on the dark web – only top elites were allowed to take up this mission.

Levi was about to be assassinated by the top five hundred elite fighters.

Lyndsay was extremely excited to hear of such plans.

Death will surely claim Levi, even if the man has ten lives!

How could he place such a bet saying that he will survive the attacks?

Hah, what a joke!

Levi Garrison, you still want me to kneel before you?

That won't ever happen!

You will never have such an opportunity in this lifetime!

I will not give it to you!

Finally, twelve o'clock arrived.

"How many people have now gathered?" Edward questioned.

Damien had already pressed him about the situation once.

It seemed like the Garrison clan of Oakland City was growing anxious about the matter.

"There's currently a total of five hundred and thirty-eight people! The reward is abundant, so people are rushing to make their way here!" Jayden informed gleefully.

"Alright, let them begin their hunt!" Edward commanded.

The leader of Pinnacle Group immediately released the command in the dark web:
Commence action!

"Levi, don't blame me for killing you. Bastards simply have no place in this world!"

A chilly glare flashed across Edward's eyes.

Once the command aired, people began hunting Levi Garrison, roaming every corner of South City for him.

Many fixed their eyes on Levi's residence, planning to target him there.

The Protector Chapter 981

Levi was already serenely asleep in his bed.

He knew nobody would be able to get close to his manor that night.

At the warzone compound, Phoenix was busy controlling a few computers. There were dense red dots on the map above.

The red dots indicated their targets – the elite fighters who had heeded the Garrison clan's call to assassinate Levi.

"They have started to take action!"

Through the Skynet surveillance, all the assassins were clearly seen moving towards the city center.

"Alright, let the Cavalry Regiment begin action!" Phoenix ordered.

"On top of that, there are other people who are still trying to get into South City!" she informed.

"Leave that matter to us! From now on, we will not allow anyone to enter the city."

Azure Dragon and Kirin, together with their team, soon began to take action, keeping all the elite fighters from entering the city to join the hunt.

Amongst these elite fighters, the speediest team had to be the Southeastern Tigers. These three brothers had been practicing martial arts since they were young and were incredibly skilled.

They made their way near Levi's manor very quickly.

“We’re the first to arrive here. Once we kill Levi and his mother, the reward of three billion will be ours.”

With excitement in their eyes, the Southeastern Tigers rushed into the manor.

However, at the very next moment, two figures appeared in front of them.

The two of them were Lionfang Knights.

Bang!

Bang!

Zlopp!

In an instant, the Southeastern Tigers lost their consciousness and fell onto the ground...

More assassins soon emerged around the manor. The moment they attempted to enter the residence, a few more figures appeared before them.

They all shared one similarity – they were all Lionfang Knights.

One by one, they disappeared.

For each assassin that popped up, another would definitely vanish.

The number of assassins who arrived was rising rapidly...

One hundred...

Two hundred...

Five hundred....

Five hundred thirty eight...

In the end, more than five hundred people had disappeared – none of them had managed to get close to the manor.

Once all the assassins had been taken care of, eighteen figures around the manor dissipated immediately.

The Cavalry Regiment had completed their mission.

At the Golden Plaza.

Jayden and the rest could not help feeling a little anxious.

“It’s already been half an hour. Why has there been no news at all?”

They began pacing up and down the room.

Lyndsay was not present there. She had left when she found out that the elite fighters were headed to kill Levi.

“Mr. Edward, should I send someone there to check what’s going on?” Jayden asked worriedly.

“There is no need for that. Such big movements will only attract attention. We cannot reveal our identities,” Edward cautioned.

“Can’t you all have a little patience? What are you afraid of? You think Levi did not die? That’ll be impossible!”

Edward shot daggers at all of them.

“Understood.”

So, everyone continued waiting with bated breath.

However, another hour soon passed, and something had yet to happen.

By now, Edward could no longer maintain his calm composure.

How could five hundred elite fighters take so long to kill Levi and his mother?

Something must have gone wrong...

Someone analyzed the situation and insinuated, "Let's wait a little longer. There could have been a conflict when they were fighting over the job. After all, the killer gets three billion. Anyone would fight for this!"

"That's true! Out of more than five hundred people, there will only be one person or one team that will end up with that three billion. They must all be fighting to murder Levi right now!"

Edward agreed with such an analysis.

Hence, everyone continued waiting.

However, another hour passed with no news being reported.

"This..."

Edward was growing increasingly impatient.

"Oh no, oh no..."

At that moment, someone ran in bearing bad news.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 982

"What happened?" Edward immediately questioned.

"The experts have vanished inexplicably, all five hundred thirty-eight of them! It's as if they were never even here!"

What?

Everyone felt as if they had been struck by lightning when they heard this piece of shocking news.

“What? They all vanished? Every single one of them?”

Edward was in shock and disbelief, just like everyone else around him.

“That’s right! It’s too strange! Everyone actually disappeared! On top of that, there was no sign of fight nor struggle at the scene. None of them actually reached Levi’s residence. They just vanished into thin air...” the person reported in a hurry.

“How is that even possible? Five hundred over elite fighters disappearing into thin air? That’s clearly not possible!”

Jayden was shocked to the core.

Edward took a deep breath before he spoke. “Someone must have taken action against them! Otherwise, how can one explain the disappearance of more than five hundred elite fighters? Such an occurrence is simply absurd!”

Everyone was just as confused as him. “But who has the ability to make more than five hundred elite fighters suddenly disappear without a trace? Such a feat is clearly impossible!”

“Yes, who could possess such abilities and power? It definitely can’t be Levi; he doesn’t have such strong abilities!”

Levi was the first person they eliminated from their list of possible suspects.

Edward suddenly thought of something and asked, “Has there been someone prominent who arrived here not too long ago?”

“Come to think of it, Mr. Edward, there is indeed someone prominent here. The God of War is here, and he has apparently killed a number of prominent figures,” Jayden told him.

“Then, it must have been the God of War who noticed these elite fighters. With his power, he can definitely make more than five hundred people disappear instantly!” Edward contemplated out loud.

“In this case, is Levi really that lucky? Did the God of War actually save his life?” Jayden exclaimed helplessly.

Edward was suddenly reminded of Jonah's warning.

The latter had already warned him not to take action.

"What could the Garrison family of Haven find difficult about killing a bastard? How can that be possible? I guess Jonah and the rest have already met the God of War."

Everything soon made sense to Edward.

"Yes, that's possible. I heard that Jonah was once saved by Kirin, who reports to the God of War. Hence, it's only logical that he would not dare to do anything under their watchful eye!"

Jayden affirmed Edward's speculation.

Bang!

Edward slammed his hands on the table violently.

"That's to say, as long as we are here, we will not be able to kill Levi?" Edward snarled.

"It seems like it! Whatever we do will be observed by the God of War, and there is no way of escaping his scope."

"How can one bastard be so lucky?" Edward sneered.

Damien had said that the rest of them would have to die if the bastard did not.

"Think of a way to get Levi and his mother out of here. Get them to a place where we are not under the sight of the God of War!" Edward ordered as he tried to keep the tone of exasperation out of his voice.

"Yes, sir!"

"Oh yes, Mr. Edward, I've heard that the God of War is also a Garrison. Could he be one of the Garrisons of Oakland City? Apart from the Garrison clan of Oakland City, no other Garrison branch has the ability to produce a superior talent like this!"

Jayden could not help but ask.

“Oh yes, when the God of War appeared out of nowhere, we assumed that he was a Garrison talent! However, after we investigated, we found out that it was not so! Both the Grand Master and Master Tyrone wishes he were a Garrison too!”

“If the God of War belongs to the Garrison clan of Oakland City, our position will surely be further elevated!”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 983

Edward was hopeful as well.

The Grand Master, Kenny Garrison, Tyrone’s father, who was also Levi’s supposed grandfather, had once said that if they were ever to meet the God of War, the man was to be their god-grandson.

They shared the same last name anyway; their positions and ranks also perfectly matched.

“Come on, if this bastard had even one-tenth of the God of War’s powers, would the Garrison clan need to kill him? Master Tyrone and even the Grand Master himself would need to plead for him to return to the family!”

Edward sighed.

Jayden allowed himself to smile. “How could you say such a thing, Mr. Edward? How could you compare a bastard to the God of War? There is no point of comparison between the two of them at all!”

“That’s true. The bastard is miles and miles beneath the God of War!”

Edward's eyes scanned the room before he said, "Think about how we can get the two of them out of there!"

To which Jayden replied, "Mr. Edward, I have an idea!"

"Out with it then!"

"Mr. Edward, you could use the Garrison clan of Oakland City's name to issue a command to the South Hampton's Joneses. You could instruct them to bring Emma Jones home and reinstate her identity as a Jones. With that, Emma and Levi will definitely leave for the Jones residence. By then, won't they be ready for slaughter?"

Jayden chuckled menacingly after he shared his thoughts.

Edward nodded in satisfaction, saying, "Brilliant! We will go with what you have proposed then!"

He then added, "I will arrange for a group of top assassins to lie in ambush throughout their journey. The moment Levi appears in South Hampton, they will instantly decimate him."

That night itself, Edward brought his men to the Jones residence in South Hampton.

"Michael, since Emma has been freed, reinstate her identity! This is an order from the Garrison clan!"

Edward delivered his command directly.

Michael, the head of the Joneses, did not think too much about such an order.

When he heard that he was allowed to bring Emma home, he was very emotional and immediately agreed to do so.

The next day.

Everything went about as normal among Levi's family; it was as if nothing had happened.

However, a huge earthquake had occurred last night...

Zoey and Emma were completely ignorant about it.

"Zoey, you should head to work first. I have something to do here," Levi informed.

He then headed to the warzone compound to find out more about last night's situation.

Lyndsay was hiding in a dark corner in front of the Morris Group building, observing her surroundings the entire time she was there.

She was camped out there to confirm Levi's death.

She had resorted to such measures as Jayden had not cared to update her on anything.

"Oh? Only Zoey is here. And she's walking in such a hurry? Levi is definitely dead!"

Lyndsay almost laughed out loud.

Her most hated enemy was finally dead!

"Levi, take a look at how I will torture Zoey now!"

Lyndsay laughed once more before she put on her shades and walked towards the entrance of Morris Group.

"I'm here for Zoey!"

She walked into Zoey's office with an air of arrogance. "Oh, you're still in the mood to come to work, Ms. Lopez? Why don't I see you crying?"

Such a statement made Zoey very confused.

What's up with Lyndsay?

Is there something wrong with her?

She said she wanted to kneel in front of Levi yesterday, and here she is today, spouting strange things.

What's wrong with her?

"Are you alright?" Zoey asked.

"I'm just here to see you. Mentally, you're a lot stronger than I expected you to be. And here I was expecting you to collapse. Or do you actually not love Levi nor care about him at all?"

Lyndsay was intrigued by how the other woman behaved; it was as if nothing had happened.

"What do you mean I don't care about him? Of course I love him."

Zoey was getting more and more befuddled.

What is she even doing here?

At that very moment, the office door opened, and in walked Levi.

"Ghost!"

Lyndsay screamed out loud when she saw him.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 984

"Ghost?"

Zoey grew even more confused.

Why on earth is Lyndsay spouting nonsense?

"Do I look like a ghost to you?"

Levi chuckled at her question.

Lyndsay gawked at the man with a frightened and incredulous expression.

“She’s acting really weird. Why does she keep talking gibberish?”

Zoey’s beautiful brows furrowed slightly, and bewilderment glinted in her big, round eyes.

“She’s here to kneel before me.”

With that, Levi dragged the terrified woman out of the office and to the front of the company’s entrance.

Only then did Lyndsay slowly regain her composure.

“You... You’re not dead?” she asked in disbelief.

“I told you I wouldn’t die, didn’t I?” Levi chuckled.

The woman hurriedly sent a text to seek confirmation on the matter, and Jayden soon verified that Levi’s death did not occur as planned.

“How are you still alive? It should’ve been impossible!”

She couldn’t wrap her head around this fact.

“Why do you say so? Did you send someone to murder me?”

The grin on Levi’s face grew even wider as he spoke.

“No, no... I should actually get going...”

Turning around, Lyndsay tried to scurry away.

“Hold on. Did I say you could leave?”

Levi's voice echoed in her ears.

"What? How can you stop me from leaving? What are you trying to do?" she retorted fearlessly.

I'm not scared of him. He's just an illegitimate bastard who's going to lose his life anytime.

"Do you still remember our bet yesterday?"

His words made Lyndsay's expression fall. Yet, the woman gritted her teeth, denying it. "Our bet? What bet are you talking about? I don't know a thing about it."

"Besides, you're not qualified to have ever placed a bet with me," she added.

"You said it right here yesterday evening. You told me that if I'm still alive today, you'll kneel before me now," Levi stated slowly, enunciating every word.

"No way! No such thing happened! Why would I agree to such a lame bet?" Lyndsay denied adamantly.

"Move aside! I'm leaving!"

She attempted to shove him out of the way, but he caught ahold of her and said, "I'll let you go only if you kneel to me."

Levi's voice was ice cold and intimidating.

Lyndsay's face flushed in embarrassment.

Of course I remember the bet. But there's no way I'm going to kneel to this bastard! That'll be the humiliation of a lifetime! I'm the vice president of the Pinnacle Group and a prominent figure under the Garrison clan of Oakland City. According to the norms in the upper echelons of society, I'm nobler than the others because of my close association with the Garrison clan. It'll be so embarrassing if I kneel before a lowly illegitimate son like him. So there's no way I'm going to admit it.

"You claimed that there's a bet between us. Do you have any proof of it?" she asked, continuing to insist that she had nothing to do with whatever bet the man was talking about.

Only Levi and I were here yesterday, so I'm sure he has no proof.

Levi burst into mocking laughter.

"You want proof? I have it."

He took his phone out and played a recording of what Lyndsay had said yesterday.

Her voice sounded from the phone speakers, and it was clear that she had indeed said she would kneel to Levi if he wasn't dead.

"You... You..."

Never had she thought that he would have recorded their conversation.

She wasn't aware of the fact that Levi actually made a habit of keeping pieces of evidence whenever he was dealing with cunning people like her.

"What else do you have to say? Kneel before me now," he sneered at her.

Lyndsay shot him a death stare and said, "So what if you have proof? The recording must be fake! Even if it's real, I was only joking. How dare you ask me to kneel? Dream on! Never in your lifetime will you be qualified for me to kneel before you. It'll be impossible for you to make me do such a thing!"

Lyndsay continued to insist on leaving shamelessly.

Levi scowled. Alright. I guess there's only one way to handle a scoundrel like her.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 985

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 985

The only way for me to get my point across would be me hitting her.

Slap!

Crisp and loud, a tight slap landed on Lyndsay's cheek.

She was dumbstruck by the sudden blow he had landed on her, so she stared at Levi in utter disbelief.

"How dare you slap me?"

"I only did so because you refused to kneel before me."

Slap!

Levi then gave her another slap.

Within seconds, the woman's reddened face swelled up severely.

"I'll hit you once more if you don't get on your knees."

Slap!

“Are you going to kneel or not?”

Just when he was about to slap her for the fourth time, Lyndsay fell heavily to her knees with a thud in front of him, begging with a whimper, “I... I will kneel now... Don’t hit me anymore...”

Thud! Thud! Thud! Thud...

She knelt before Levi ten times.

In the meantime, the employees of the Morris Group looked at the two with curiosity in their eyes.

Even Zoey and Iris were watching the scene play out.

“Iris, what’s going on? Why would the arrogant Lyndsay Granger kneel in front of Levi? This is unbelievable!” Zoey exclaimed.

A secretary beside them agreed, “You’re right. Lyndsay is the vice president of Pinnacle Group. Why would she do this?”

Iris only gave the woman an awkward smile without saying a word.

Because he’s the omnipotent boss of Morris Group.

Staring at the scene downstairs, Zoey was intrigued by Levi, the enigmatic man.

He sure is a man of mystery.

Levi stood at the company’s entrance and flashed Lyndsay half a smile. “You wouldn’t have gotten slapped if you had just been honest and knelt before me.”

The woman scuttled away hastily once she finished kneeling to him.

Her eyes were full of hostility and resentment as she left in a hurry.

Six years ago, he chased me out of North Hampton, and that moment was the biggest shame in my life. Now, he made me go through such terrible humiliation again.

Her hatred toward him began to grow even stronger.

“Just you wait, Levi Garrison. I won’t let you off the hook for this!” she growled at him through gritted teeth.

However, Levi couldn’t care less about her and her threats. “You couldn’t stand against me six years ago, let alone now.”

Lyndsay rushed over to ask Jayden about Levi, and the latter gave her a straightforward answer, telling her that she had no right to enquire about the matter.

It was late at night when Levi reached home.

He saw Emma oozing delight and excitement when he stepped into his house.

“Mom, what made you so happy?” he asked.

“Levi, your grandpa has asked me to head back to the Jones residence. He’s going to reinstate me as the daughter of the Jones family and rewrite my name on the family register in our family’s ancestral shrine,” his mother replied with much enthusiasm.

The woman didn’t have many wishes. Returning to the Jones family was one of them.

Nevertheless, Levi’s brows knitted together at his mother’s words.

The Joneses never mentioned this before. Why do they want to reinstate Mom all of a sudden?

He let out a snicker as a wave of realization hit him.

This must be an order from the Garrison clan. Michael must have thought the Garrison clan has decided to let bygones be bygones and thinks that they’ve stopped going against mom and I. Little does he know that this is just a scheme of theirs. The Garrison clan is trying to lure us out of here so that they can kill us on the way to the Jones residence or in South Hampton.

Michael came to pick Emma up himself the next day.

The father-and-daughter duo delightedly chatted for a while upon seeing each other.

Emma asked inquisitively, "Dad, did the Garrison clan really ask you to reinstate me as your daughter? Does this mean they won't pursue the matter anymore?"

Michael let out a light laugh while nodding his head. "That's for sure. I believe they will stop holding you accountable. That's why I'm allowing you to come back home."

She shed tears of joy at the news.

"Finally, my son and I are safe. We can now live in peace."

Levi chose not to debunk the scheme too early. I'm okay with it as long as mom is happy.

The Protector Chapter 986

“Mr. Garri... Levi, let’s head off then.”

Thankfully, Michael reacted quickly enough not to address Levi wrongly.

“Sure, let’s get moving.”

Soon, a large convoy of the Jones family’s luxurious cars could be seen headed to South Hampton.

This time, Michael had employed the most impressive homecoming etiquette because of the guilt he felt toward his daughter and Levi’s status.

In the car, Emma could barely contain her eagerness to head home.

The Garrison clan has finally overlooked the grudges between us. Hence, I can now live a worry-free life with dignity.

The moment the convoy of luxurious cars departed, Edward was notified right away.

“Alright, we should get going too. It’s time to send Levi a great gift,” Edward said with a sneer.

The Jones family’s cars soon crossed the border into South Hampton, heading toward the suburbs, where the Jones residence was located.

Emma had fallen asleep on the way there.

Gazing at the woman, Levi made a vow in his heart. Mom, I'll protect your dream and hopes. There's no way I'll let the Garrison clan harm us.

On the other hand, Emma's father was engrossed in his grand plans for his family.

With his mother around, Levi had no choice but to accept this man as his grandpa.

As a result, the future of the Jones family seemed secured.

Bang!

The convoy of cars screeched to a stop abruptly.

"What's going on?" Michael immediately shouted, demanding answers.

A group of fighters dressed in black appeared on both sides of the road with murderous looks on their faces.

Michael got out of the car and saw a few familiar faces, including Edward's.

"Mr. Edward, what is the meaning of this?"

The man was baffled by what he saw.

"Hahaha! The God of War was present in the vicinity of Levi and his mom's place, so it was inconvenient for us to make any moves against the two. That's why we lured them out. Thanks to you, we now have a golden opportunity to seize them."

Edward let out a sinister laugh.

Only then did Michael realize that he had been fooled.

I was wondering why the Garrison clan chose to let go of the enmity out of the blue. They even allowed Emma to join the Jones family again. Turns out that it was just a scheme to lure Levi out to his death.

Moments later, Emma got out of the car too, and she shuddered the second she laid eyes on Edward.

I can never forget this man. After all, he's Tyrone Garrison's butler.

"Ms. Jones, we meet again. It's been thirty years," Edward said with a smile.

However, his tone soon turned vicious. "It's a shame that I'll have to bid farewell to you when we've just met."

Emma gave him a bitter smile. "Why can't you guys let my son and I off?"

"Hahaha... No way! You and that bastard don't deserve to live! How can you not understand this even after thirty years?"

Edward laughed out loud scornfully at her.

"What about Tyrone? Can he really bear to kill me and his own flesh and blood?" the woman questioned exasperatedly.

Edward only sniggered in response. "His own flesh and blood? Master Tyrone has only one son – Damien Garrison. Olivia Garcia is his only wife."

"Who are you two in the eyes of Master Tyrone? Does he even know you? Stop humiliating yourself! You'll never be able to marry into the Garrison clan!"

Edward's insults were like a sharp blade that was stabbing Emma's heart over and over again.

The immense heartache made her feel as if her heart was bleeding.

"You, together with that bastard you gave birth to, will vanish forever today! Master Tyrone will not be troubled anymore."

The man broke into a fit of laughter after speaking.

"Do you mean we're going to die?" Levi asked suddenly.

"Are you the bastard?" Edward asked him in return, his eyes ablaze with anger.

Levi sneered in an icy voice, "If my mom wasn't beside me now, you would've been dead after you said such things."

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 987

He refused to show the violet and murderous side of him in front of his mother. Otherwise, these people would've been long dead.

Emma stared intently at her son, and a pang of terror washed over her once she caught a glimpse of brutality in him.

Levi's words briefly stunned Edward and his men.

"How arrogant! You actually think you can kill Mr. Edward? That's ridiculous!"

"How dare a bastard like you be so boastful? You're digging your own grave!"

Edward's men retorted in anger.

Unexpectedly, Edward grinned instead of growing mad. "That's the difference between Mr. Damien and this bastard. Mr. Damien proves himself with his ability, but this bastard is all bark and no bite. The two of them are worlds apart."

Right then, Michael warned him coldly, "Mind your language, Edward! You despicable old coot."

Edward and his men could not believe what they had just heard from the head of the Joneses.

"What? Michael, how dare you talk back to us? You sure have got a lot of nerve."

All this while, a mere servant like Caleb was sufficient to oppress the entire Jones family. Michael used to be too timid to utter a word in the presence of the Garrison clan.

But he had the guts to shout at Edward today.

His behavior was totally unacceptable in their eyes; they didn't know that the man was completely unafraid of them now.

Michael smirked. Why should I be afraid when Levi is here?

"Damn you, Michael! How dare you speak to me that way! Believe it or not, I can get rid of the entire Jones family with only a few words!" Edward shrieked in rage.

Michael's heart skipped a beat at the man's threat.

Caleb alone – not to mention Edward – had the capability to wipe out the Jones family.

Such a feat was a piece of cake for them; they were way too powerful.

"I don't believe you! The Garrison clan has always been haughty in Oakland City, and now you're behaving atrociously everywhere else! Do you really think no one is able to stand against you?" Michael refuted.

"Are you really going to side with the bastard and his mom against our family?"

Edward shot daggers at him.

"Yes! So what if we go against you? We're not afraid at all!" Mia, the head of the Joneses, suddenly declared.

"Yes! No one can touch my daughter and grandson as long as I'm around. Not only will I protect them, but I'll reinstate them. She's my daughter and a part of the Jones family!" Michael bellowed firmly.

Edward was enraged by his words. Wherever he went, everyone had revered; no one had dared to oppose the Garrison clan.

The Joneses were the first.

They had actually outrightly challenged the majestic Garrison clan.

According to the rules set by the Garrison clan in Oakland City, all the Joneses had to be slaughtered for this act alone.

“Fine! You and your family are out of your minds for wishing to go against the Garrison clan. You lot indeed have balls of steel!” Edward growled.

He then sneered, “Do you really want to protect the mother-and-son duo? How are you going to do that? Or does the Jones family have what it takes to save them? What a joke!”

The man waved his hand, and dozens of fighters showed up instantly.

He had brought these highly skilled fighters from the Garrison clan along with him. Every one of them was comparable to Caleb.

There was no way out for the Joneses today.

“I’ll protect them even if it costs my life!”

Michael went all out, not just for his family’s sake, but also for Levi to see his determination.

“You can’t protect the Jones family!”

Edward was merciless.

“What if we join him?”

A voice suddenly rang out.

“Charge!”

At the next second, countless figures emerged from the woods on both sides of the road.

About a thousand of them appeared on each side – a large crowd forming behind and in front of them.

The men surrounded the place in no time.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War

[The Protector] Chapter 988

Such a massive formation startled everyone, including Edward and his fighters.

Never had they expected there to be so many men waiting in ambush.

Despite their unparalleled capabilities, Edward and his fighters couldn't help panicking on the inside.

The Joneses were taken aback by such a sight, but they soon snapped back to their senses and were over the moon when they recognized the faces of some of those men.

Among the crowd stood an old man – he was no one other than Xabian.

Xabian stepped forward and bellowed, "Xabian Goel and the top hundred prominent families from South Hampton are here to welcome Ms. Jones."

The rest of the men gathered around him followed his lead and shouted, "Welcome home, Ms. Jones!"

Their deafening voices shook everyone present to the core.

Meanwhile, Emma gaped at them in astonishment and disbelief.

What's going on here?

Xabian cast a glance at Michael. "What are you waiting for? Take Ms. Jones home now."

Snapping out of his trance, Michael glanced at Edward, hinting to Xabian that the latter and his fighters were still in his way.

Squinting his eyes slightly, Xabian said in a cold voice, "Who dares stand in the way of the top hundred prominent families from South Hampton?"

"Yes! Who dares stop us from welcoming them home?" the others followed and yelled.

This is ridiculous!

Fury spiked within Edward at the sight of the huge crowd.

I thought the Joneses were the only ones who had the audacity to resist the Garrison clan. But now, even the top hundred prominent families from South Hampton are on Emma's side. Are they trying to challenge our authority?

"Hold on. Don't you dare leave!"

With a dignified expression, Edward scanned through Xabian and his men. "The Garrison clan demands Emma Jones' and her son's lives to be taken. Do you understand?"

"Leave now! No outsider is allowed to meddle in this matter, especially peasants like you," someone from the Garrison clan reprimanded.

Hearing that, Xabian chuckled. "Firstly, South Hampton is our territory. Secondly, Ms. Jones is under our protection, so one shall touch her."

"That's right! None of you can oppress us in our territory!"

"Michael, take them away! I'll see who dares to stop you from leaving. We don't go around stirring up trouble, but we're not cowards. We'll go all out to fight against anyone who provokes us!"

Xabian was adamant in his decision, undaunted by the fighters that were glaring his way.

The attitude of the top hundred prominent families enraged the members of the Garrison clan.

Since when does the Garrison clan from Oakland City have no authority here? Are these people mad? How dare they resist us and meddle in our affairs?

"Xabian, have you thought this through? Are you sure you want to poke your nose into the Garrison clan's affairs?" Edward scowled.

"Yes, I'm sure. Whoever lays a hand on Ms. Jones and Mr. Garrison will be considered our enemy. We'll fight with all we have even if we're no match for you! So what if you're members of the Garrison clan? We're not afraid of you! We'll not let you off since you're causing havoc in our territory."

Xabian squared them up, showing the resolution of the prominent families to war to the knife.

Edward was now smoldering with rage.

There's surely a bunch of lunatics if they're crazy enough to cross the Garrison clan!

The Jones family's cars began on their journey once again, ignoring Edward and his fighters, who were bottling up their wrath while watching them leave.

The fighters clutched their weapons tightly, prepared to pounce on and kill Levi and his mom on Edward's command.

Thump! Thump! Thump!

The entire place was in pin-drop silence; everyone's racing heartbeats were almost audible.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 989

A fight was about to break out as the tense atmosphere enveloped every one of them.

If the Garrison clan made the first move, the top hundred prominent families would not back down, even if such actions would cost them their lives.

The Garrison clan fighters were still waiting for Edward's command.

However, the man didn't utter a word even after the Jones family's cars disappeared out of their sight.

What's happening? Has Mr. Edward given up? Are we not going to kill them?

The fighters were baffled.

Why should the Garrison clan fear these men from South Hampton? Back then, even Caleb could handle them single-handedly.

Staring at Edward, Xabian said, "Give it a try. I don't mind sacrificing my life fighting against you."

All the men on Xabian's side glared at the fighters, ready for a fight to the death.

In the end, Edward didn't give the killing command, allowing the Jones family's cars to drive away.

"Retreat!" Xabian instructed, and the top hundred prominent families left in unison.

Soon, only Edward and his fighters were left standing there.

"Mr. Edward, why didn't you give us the command to kill them?"

Puzzled, his men questioned him.

Edward heaved a sigh. "I don't understand why the top hundred prominent families stood up for Emma. What makes them so determined to do so? They didn't relent, even after we warned them."

The others couldn't understand why that had happened either. "We have nothing to fear, Mr. Edward. They only had a few thousand men. It wasn't a threat to us at all."

"Yes, I'm aware of that. But if we chose to start a fight, both of us would've gotten hurt badly. After all, there are only dozens of men with us now. They outnumbered us greatly.

Besides, the news will get about if we make a big deal out of this." Edward analyzed the situation and broke it down for the fighters to understand.

"You're right. If we pushed them over the edge, they might tell the whole Erudia about our deeds."

"But are we just going to endure their disrespect?"

Edward sneered, "What else can we do? Kill them? Do you think that is possible? Let's head back first. We need to strategize our next move."

This time, the Garrison clan had lost miserably.

We could've killed them without breaking a sweat, but the prominent families from South Hampton saved them. Something is not right. Back then, Caleb alone could oppress the entire South Hampton, but the people are now willing to risk their lives to protect the mother-and-son duo. There must be something fishy going on.

Meanwhile, the Jones family's cars had arrived at the Jones residence.

Emma was still in a state of bewilderment.

Why did the prominent families in South Hampton protect me? They even had the nerve to go against the Garrison clan.

Before she could piece the pieces together, she found herself in front of the ancestral shrine.

There was a set of complicated procedures to go through in accordance with the family law. Nevertheless, Michael couldn't wait any longer to write his daughter's name on the family register.

He couldn't help shooting a few glances at Levi.

However, the latter simply stroked Mia's head and said, "Make it simple."

Mia nodded in agreement. "Right, let's make it simple."

After getting approval from both Levi and the head of the family, Michael simplified the procedures.

Before the last step of the reinstatement, Emma called out to Michael, causing everyone to turn and look at her with perplexed expressions.

“Father, are you sure about reinstating me?” she asked.

“Yes, I’m positive.”

Her father nodded firmly.

“But the Garrison clan has yet to agree to this. If you do it, you’re going against them, and they’ll certainly place the blame on us. Aren’t you or the Joneses scared?” she asked.

“Don’t worry. I’ve already thought it through. How can I let my daughter and grandchild be orphaned and homeless? I’ll fight against the Garrison clan if they ever blame us. I’ll do whatever it takes to reinstate you.”

Levi nodded in agreement. “Why should we be afraid of the Garrison clan?”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 990

Hearing Levi’s comforting words, Michael felt assured that he was making the right decision.

Whatever happens, he’ll be here to back us up.

“I’m going to reinstate Emma Jones as a part of the Jones family in front of our ancestors today...”

Soon, the rituals ended, and Emma’s name was on the family register once again.

The woman had been waiting for this day for way too long.

Tears of joy escaped her eyes once the ritual was completed.

I thought my life was over. But much to my surprise, I reunited with my son and was reinstated as a part of the Jones family. I'll be happy even if I die now. Yet, my biggest wish is to declare in front of the Garrison clan that my son isn't a bastard, but a supreme ruler, whom all of you must look up to. However, that's out of the question, as the Garrison clan is too powerful. No matter how competent Levi is, his thirty years of accomplishments are nothing compared to the Garrison clan, which has built a strong foundation over a few thousand years.

After Emma's reinstatement, the Joneses from all over Erudia called to congratulate her.

Emma felt as if she was dreaming.

When she used to get into trouble, all the other extended families, other than the Jones family in South Hampton, shunned and cut ties with her right away.

Why are they congratulating me this time? I don't get it. From Elder Goel's attitude to the prominent families' actions, everything just seems so odd.

Never had she thought that things had turned out this way because of her son.

At night, Emma finally had a reunion dinner with her family after thirty long years.

Meanwhile, Edward and his men were still lingering somewhere in South Hampton.

They dared not go back without killing Levi and his mother.

Damien would probably end their lives if they headed back empty-handed and bearing no good news.

"We can't find out why Xabian did such a thing even after knowing that it's the Garrison clan's affair."

After hours of searching, Edward and his men had managed to find nothing, not even one clue.

“Could it be because of Levi? That man seems mysterious to me.”

Someone voiced out their suspicion.

“Levi? You think that’s actually possible? I won’t need to kill him if he has the authority to command the top hundred prominent families in South Hampton. If that’s truly the case, Master Tyrone will bring him home,” Edward refuted coldly.

“That’s true. The bastard can’t be that powerful.”

Everyone nodded.

Just then, a call from Damien came.

“Edward, how’s everything going? Is it settled? Three days should have been more than enough for you to carry out your task.”

The man’s rough voice sounded on the other side of the phone.

“Mr. Damien, I...”

Edward was silent for fear of angering Tyrone’s son.

“You’ve got to be kidding me. Haven’t you killed that bastard?”

Edward shuddered at his voice.

“Mr. Damien, please allow me to explain...”

“No! I don’t want any excuses from you! How is it that you haven’t killed him? You worthless piece of shit!”

His reprimand sent shivers down Edward’s spine.

The man knew Damien's way of doing things better than anyone else. The latter was a vicious and ruthless psycho who could take someone's life without so much as batting an eye.

Imagining the consequences scared the daylights out of Edward.

"Mr. Damien, there's been a change in the situation. Perhaps we should rethink the decision of killing Levi," he suggested carefully.

"What? Why can't we kill that bastard? Are you out of your mind?" Damien roared.

"Mr. Damien, something happened when..."

"Do you want me to kill that bastard myself?"

"No, Mr. Damien. You shouldn't need to handle such a small matter yourself."

"Small matter? It's been three days, but that bastard's still alive! And yet, here you are, telling me that it's a small matter?"

Damien then paused briefly, curious. "Is that bastard really that strong and tenacious? Is it really so hard to kill him?"

The Protector Chapter 991

“He’s just so lucky. He managed to escape our attacks unharmed every time we tried anything.”

Edward then went on to explain everything that had happened.

“Hmm. Logically, the bastard should’ve been starved to death much earlier. Yet, this lowlife lives longer than I expected.”

Damien abruptly changed the subject. “But it’ll be such a disgrace that the Garrison clan can’t even kill a bastard. Do you know that? You’ve ruined our family’s reputation! Kill Levi and his mom, or you’ll die! By hook or by crook, you must get this done. Do you understand me? Kill whoever from South Hampton tries to stop you too! If anyone of them spread the news, massacre the entire city! Spare no one who knows about the past incident.”

His violent voice echoed on the other side of the phone.

Edward gasped in shock.

Massacre the entire South Hampton?

“Mr. Damien, at least a few thousand people in South Hampton already know about this. Do you really want us to kill them all?”

His Adam’s apple bobbed as he swallowed hard.

“Yes, kill them all! No one shall know about this! Plus, those people in South Hampton are a lost cause anyway,” Damien instructed resolutely.

How brutal! Mr. Damien is way crueler than his father and grandmother. A man like him is surely meant to do great things. He will certainly be more accomplished than Master Tyrone.

"I got it, Mr. Damien. We've only one night to do this as Levi and his mom will be going back tomorrow," Edward informed.

"Alright. Kill them at all costs! I know our family has many fighters in the South. I'm now giving you the authority to mobilize them," Damien told him.

"Understood!"

Two hundred fighters gathered in front of Edward at midnight.

The Garrison clan had been secretly training and keeping these men at various places in the South.

Such training was to ensure the influence of the most powerful ancient family across the whole of Erudia. It was also a backup for any unforeseen circumstances.

"Kill them all!" Edward ordered.

"Xabian Goel, none of you will be able to escape this tonight. You shall all rot in hell! This is the price you shall pay for going against the mighty Garrison clan!"

A glint of malice flashed across Edward's gaze.

The fighters were soon on the move, aiming to slaughter everyone in South Hampton.

It showed how influential the Garrison clan was.

Anyone who messed with them had a death wish.

In the Edburg Manor.

Emma was busy catching up with her family while Levi stood outside, puffing away at a cigarette.

Just then, Ezra called from the West Warzone.

“Boss, I think I’ll be able to make it to your wedding because the mission will be ending earlier than expected,” he informed excitedly.

“Great, I’ll be waiting!”

It’s great that Ezra can attend my wedding.

“I’ll be coming with Wyatt from the North, Rogier from the South, and Colton from the East. Someone from each of the Nine Warzones must attend your wedding. Despite our status, you’re still our boss and master. Hence, we can’t be absent,” Ezra continued enthusiastically.

I’m going to attend the boss’ wedding together with the Commander-In-Chief of the Nine Warzones. We have to be there to witness the most important moment in our boss’ life.

“Okay, I’ll be sure to prepare a ton of wine for you guys.”

At that thought, Levi grew more eager for his wedding day to come.

“By the way, boss, there’s one more thing...”

Before he could finish his sentence, however, Levi interrupted him. “Hold on. Something’s not right.”

He had sensed something unusual happening around him.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 992

Tension quickly escalated when some fighters appeared around Edburg Manor.

“Mr. Garrison, it seems like there are many of them,” Shadow from the Jones family noted as he came closer to Levi.

Over on the phone, Ezra's voice rang loud and clear in Levi's ears. "Boss, did you bring anyone along?"

"No, I came alone," Levi replied.

"Come on, there's no need to tackle these scums on your own. By the way, as I said, I'm done with the Beasts. They're now at South Hampton. As for the Amethyst Guards of the West, they are on the way back with the Beasts. I'll ask them to go over to assist you," Ezra reported.

"Good. I was just wondering if I'll have to dirty my hands getting rid of these people," Levi replied with an approving nod.

The Amethyst Guards of the West were known for striking fear in their enemies. Every single member of the group had impeccable skills – they were on par with the Beasts.

Outside the Edburg Manor, a good two hundred fighters besieged the building; they were all ready to break their way in.

"Make sure you spare no one, especially those on the list!" A commanding voice rang out from the multitude.

Just as the two hundred Garrison clan fighters were about to launch the attack, shadows fled across their view, and the ambiance chilled.

The smell of death pervaded the air as the fighters saw members of the Amethyst Guards and the Beasts appearing before them.

Their gazes hardened as they moved around, eyeing the two hundred men, looking like predators waiting for an opportunity to dig their blood-thirsty fangs into their prey.

Fighters from the Garrison clan shuddered at the sight and began to cluster together.

"What should we do?" someone whispered.

Everyone was reluctant to make the first strike.

The fighters had definitely not foreseen such formidable enemies from South Hampton.

And it was not just one of them they had to fight – there was a whole group of them ready for battle.

They were fighting against the entire coalition of the Beasts and the Amethyst Guards—how could they not feel afraid?

“Kill them! Protect the God of War!”

With a shout of command, the Beasts and the Amethyst Guard charged towards their enemies like a pride of roaring lions.

In no time, the two sides clashed in a fierce and intense fight.

The Beasts and the Amethyst Guards fought like animals with an insatiable appetite, slaughtering fighters of the Garrison clan without showing the slightest mercy.

Never had those fighters seen anything like that.

The coalition fought like madmen. Every blow they dealt was fatal, and every step they took was calculated.

It was obvious that they were well-trained – the team worked together seamlessly.

In the face of such relentless opponents, the fighters from the Garrison clan crumbled in less than five minutes.

Some of them collapsed while some of them fled.

“Go after them! Don’t lose any of them!”

The Beasts and the Amethyst Guards pursued their enemies like wolves hunting down headless sheep.

In no time, the fighters from the Garrison clan were nailed down and brought back.

Even in their defeat, they still had not wrapped their heads around who they were fighting against.

Not far away, Levi stood watching the bloody commotion from above as his lips curved in a proud smile.

As expected, the Amethyst Guards never let me down.

Their fighting capability is indisputable.

As for the Beasts, they've gotten more skilled with more experience. They instill fear wherever they go.

"Make sure you don't lose any of them!" Levi shouted an order.

"Roger that!" the Amethyst Guards and the Beasts cried out in unison.

Over on the other side, Edward sat deep on his couch with his legs crossed. He hummed a tune leisurely, anticipating good news.

He had sent out the best fighters he had, so there was no way anything could go wrong.

"There will be a bloodshed in South Hampton tonight," he jeered.

"This is what you get for crossing the Garrison clan! Now you know we mean business if you ever go against us!"

A smug smile spread across his face as he crossed his hands before his chest.

Bang!

Click!

Edward and his company jerked at the loud noise that was coming from the outside. The gate of the residence was knocked down, and the glass windows were in pieces.

A few hundred men in black battle suits planted themselves right in front of the unguarded residence.

Sensing an intrusion, Edward and the others got on their feet as their blood ran cold.

Edward rushed outward and questioned, "Who are you?"

"Surrender yourselves! Or we'll strike!" the group warned.

The butler smirked and pursed his lips. "Surrender? Do you even know who I am? There's nothing you can do to us!"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 993

Edward and the others showed no signs of retreat in the face of the Beasts and the Amethyst Guards.

After all, they were members of the Garrison clan from Oakland City. No one would dare do anything to them.

Everyone from the family stood unfazed as they stood guard over their residence.

"We don't care who you are! Seize them all!"

The Beasts and the Amethyst Guards stormed in at the command.

Although Edward and the others were skilled fighters, they were no match for the Beasts and the Amethyst Guards. They dropped to the ground in no time.

"Do you know what sort of crime you're committing? We're the Garrison clan from Oakland City! Tyrone Garrison is the family's heir and I'm his personal attendant! Let me go and I'll spare you!" the butler yelled at the top of his voice, trying to affright the enemies.

Pow!

Before Edward could utter another threat, one of the fighters from the Beasts kicked him in forcefully in the face.

“Do you think we care about who you are in the Garrison clan?” a voice followed.

The only order the Beasts and the Amethyst Guards received was to protect the God of War.

They were not asked to kneel to anyone—regardless of which family they were from.

They would do anything to eliminate anyone who had plans to kill the God of War.

“Who are you people?” Words seethed through Edward’s mouth as he stumbled and recovered from the blow.

He guessed that these people must be related to Levi, but he had no idea who they were.

But the Beasts and the Amethyst Guards did not answer his question. Instead, they bound them and brought them to a rugged warehouse, where all the defeated fighters from the earlier confrontation were all locked up.

When Edward saw the injured and wounded fighters he had sent out there, he instantly knew that his plan had failed.

They had lost to their enemies.

Who are these people? Think, Edward! Wait... They’re all wearing the same uniform... This can only mean one thing...

Edward’s blood froze, and he looked around in fear.

Just as he wrapped his head around who the group of men was, the door swung opened, and a familiar figure appeared at the entrance of the warehouse.

Why does this person look familiar?

Edward poked his head out to get a closer look.

Levi Garrison? It's actually Levi Garrison! What? How?

Is this all his doing?

No way... This is impossible!

Terror gripped Edward, and he started stuttering. "You... Why... How..."

"You want to know my identity?" Levi finished his sentence for him.

"Those fighters who subdued you are all my men. And yes, just in case you're wondering, I'm the one who stopped the top 100 prominent families in South Hampton. I'm also why the five hundred skilled fighters you gathered on the dark web went missing."

Levi's answers to all the burning questions boiling in Edward's mind hit him like a bolt from the blue.

When did this bastard become so powerful?

I bet he didn't achieve all these on his own.

After all, he's just a bastard who has Garrison's blood running in his veins.

Why am I even surprised?

"Master Levi! Your servants are so glad to see you again! I always knew you would do something great one day!"

Knowing full well that he could not afford to get on Levi's bad side, Edward instantly changed his tone, even going as far as calling Levi "Master."

"Yes, Master Levi! We're so happy for you! We can't wait to share the good news with Master Tyrone and the Grand Master!" the other servants quickly flocked over and agreed.

"Really? You guys don't seem very happy though," Levi sneered as he looked at the butler from the corner of his eyes.

“Give me a chance to explain myself, Master Levi. The whole family was against you last time because we didn’t know you would achieve something this great. But lo and behold, you’re a man of impressive accomplishments now. This is a pleasant surprise for all of us! You’ve surpassed a lot of the Garrisons, and the whole family is extremely proud of you! I’m sure they will invite you back to the family in the most honorable fashion possible!”

Edward paused and surveyed Levi’s face before he carefully continued, “I’m sure Master Tyrone and the Grand Master will welcome you with open arms if I share this piece of good news with them! You’ll return with the greatest honor!”

“Welcome me back to the family? Who do you think the Garrison clan is? They are not worthy of me,” Levi rejected crudely.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 994

Everyone was dumbfounded. No one could believe what they had just heard come out of Levi’s mouth.

The Garrison clan is not worthy of you? Who do you think you are?

Not a single person in Erudia dares mention the name of Oakland City’s Garrison clan without holding their breath.

“Master Levi, I’ll admit you’re a man of capability. The fact that you managed to catch me speaks a lot about your ability. But you shouldn’t insult the family like this. Ultimately, the Garrison clan is still a powerful family. Even among the younger generation of the clan, there is easily a handful of them who are far better than you. Take Mr. Damien for example – he’s way better than you are in every way. He’s humble although he’s capable,” Edward reminded Levi.

“Yeah. Master Levi, humility is a virtue. A humble man goes a long way! Besides, given the clan’s enormous resources and extensive connections, we’re sure you’ll achieve something greater if you return to the clan!” the other servants agreed.

“Bullshit!” Levi stared at them with a contemptuous glare.

“Humility? Keep your advice for the Garrison clan! The family is powerful? What a joke. Don’t even talk about the younger generation of the clan—the entire family is no match for me!”

Levi straightened his back and cocked his head as he stood his ground before the servants, his gaze hard and unyielding.

The Beasts and the Amethyst Guards stood upright in an assertive position at the voice of the God of War.

The two groups knew the man came in second to none.

Levi was the one and only in the whole of Erudia. Never had there been anyone like him—and there would never be.

He was the only Five-Star God of War.

The man was way out of the league of the youngsters from the Garrison clan.

Edward’s body shook subtly as he sensed the shift in the atmosphere.

He soon got lost in Levi’s commanding aura, which compelled him to revere the man standing before him.

“Yes, Master Levi, we know you’re powerful like no other. We are at your mercy. Please, let us go so we can bring the good news home. The family will definitely await your glorious return,” Edward begged.

The other servants trailed their gaze towards Levi, looking at him imploringly.

“Oh? So you guys are not interested in killing me anymore?” Levi questioned.

The butler flashed him a servile smile and shook his head nervously. “Of course not! I’m sure the family will give you a warm welcome! You’re a great asset to our family!”

“What about my mother?” Levi asked coldly.

“Ms. Jones is your mother, so how can we not treat her with respect? Things might indeed be a little awkward since Master Tyrone is already married, but I’ll try my best to persuade him. I’m sure he’ll allow Ms. Jones to come back. As long as you agree to return, there’ll always be a place for your mother in the family,” Edward replied.

The man believed that he had made a proposal good enough to leave no room for rejection.

Once Levi agreed to come back, he would have a place in the Garrison family—the most prominent family in Erudia—the Head of Erudia!

There was no way Levi would turn this offer down.

Levi would be able to clear Emma’s name and give the woman a legitimate place in the Garrison clan.

“Master Levi, please let us go. I’m sure your mother will be happy to hear that the family is finally acknowledging her. Doesn’t she want to marry Master Tyrone? All this is not impossible! You only need to let us go. Now that you’ve made a name for yourself, your mother will definitely regain her place in the family. This is a chance to help her realize her dream!” Other servants chimed in, trying to convince Levi.

They were taking every opportunity they could to free themselves; they knew Emma Jones would be their best shot to move Levi.

However, the man was clearly not buying it. His face remained unperturbed as he looked at them in a detached manner. Yet Edward was not planning on budging either. “Master Levi, I’m sure you don’t want to live in the shadow of the past anymore. This is a golden opportunity for you to undo that shameful title of a bastard. All you need to do is say yes—and I will make sure you become a legitimate member of the Garrison clan!”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 995

Levi burst out laughing upon hearing their solemn advice and desperate pleas.

In front of him, the butler and the other servants exchanged startled looks in complete silence.

They knew Levi was mocking them. Before long, Edward finally spoke up, “Master Levi, are you doubting what I just told you? I’m dead serious. If you let us go, we’ll guarantee your glorious return, and your mother will regain her status. The Garrison clan will never let go of someone as powerful as you are!”

“I’m not doubting you—I just find your stupidity amusing. I’ve never taken the Garrison clan seriously, so why would I covet a place in the family? Also, I don’t know where you got the idea from, but my mother couldn’t care less about the Garrison clan. Marrying Tyrone Garrison? Who does he think he is? He doesn’t deserve my mother—the entire Garrison family doesn’t deserve her!”

Levi’s voice bellowed in the spacious warehouse as he recalled the shame and pain he and his mother had gone through all those years.

Edward and the others shook their heads in disbelief when they heard what he had to say.

Did you just say Tyrone Garrison doesn’t deserve Emma Jones?

The Garrison family is the most prestigious family in all of Erudia. You should be thankful you have Garrison blood in your veins! This noble bloodline carries thousands of years of an ancient legacy.

The Garrison family doesn’t deserve Emma Jones? Who is she?

She’s from a mere royal family in South Hampton!

She’s nothing compared to the Garrison family! She’s despicable in our eyes!

She’s the one who is not worthy of the Garrison family!

You must have lost your mind to say something this ridiculous!

But just as they thought that that was all he had to say, Levi let off a scoff and continued dispassionately. "You said this is an opportunity for me to give my mother a better life? It's exactly because I want a better life for her that I won't allow the Garrison clan to ever come near her again. The family doesn't deserve her, and neither does Tyrone Garrison."

Opposite him, Edward's jaw dropped at Levi's impudence. The others frowned and squinted their eyes, appalled by how the latter had butchered the family's honor.

Geez, I can't believe you have no regard for the Garrison family.

Yes, you're indeed much more powerful now, but your accomplishments amount to nothing compared to the family!

Who do you think you are? Your position in the family is only slightly higher than a mere butler; you're in no way close to the important figures in the family!

So don't even dream about comparing yourself to the entire Garrison family!

Edward's patience was wearing thin under Levi's constant bashing. "Don't be too arrogant. You'll regret it when you see a glimpse of what the Garrison family can actually do!"

"Ha! I can't wait to see that!" Levi ridiculed.

Edward's glare intensified, and his blood boiled as he faced the haughty man.

He could not wait to let him experience what the Garrison family was capable of.

"Master Levi, I dare you to let me go. I'll show you what the Garrison family can do! You will regret not joining us when we extend an olive branch!" the butler challenged.

"Well, I don't mind sparing your worthless life. I only need you to bring Tyrone and the others a message—they won't even have a chance to regret not killing me when I eventually set foot near the Garrison family."

A confident smile broke across Levi's face as he drilled his gaze into Edward's fierce glare; the butler did not shun his stare.

"I'll make sure your insolent remarks reach their ear. It's time you start counting down to your death!"

Zap!

Crack!

Ow!

Edward's smirk disappeared as his face contorted in pain. Levi had pushed him to the ground and broken all of his limbs.

Before the other servants could react, they were also pinned to the ground.

Agonizing shrieks echoed through the warehouse as the servants groaned in unbearable pain.

"I'll let you all go, but everyone will have to crawl back!" Levi sneered as he looked at the bunch of crippled servants who were now wallowing in a pool of their own blood.

It would be difficult for them to crawl their way back judging from their injury—but they did not have to—because the servants were all thrown out of South Hampton like stray dogs at the end of the day.

As Edward struggled to move, his phone rang, and a clear voice came through. "Is he gone?" Damien demanded.

"Mr. Damien, we're good as dead. Levi is not as useless as we thought he was!" the butler replied, his voice almost breaking in tears.

"What? That bastard was able to do something to you lot?" Damien questioned, his tone betraying his disbelief.

The Protector Chapter 996

“Yeah! He’s the one behind everything that has happened recently! We thought he simply got lucky, but it turns out that he has a trick or two up his sleeves!” Edward said while panting in excruciating pain.

Damien refused to believe what he had just heard from the butler. “Are you sure? He’s just an orphan! He doesn’t have any connections and resources. It’s impossible that he’s the one behind all this! I can’t believe he managed to defeat you!”

“I’m just as surprised as you are, Mr. Damien. But remember that the man still has Garrison’s blood in him. He’s bound to do exceptional things! As long as he has our bloodline, he’ll definitely shake up the world one day!” Edward tried registering the gravity of the problem to his skeptical master.

“True that. He’s a Garrison, after all. How bad can someone from our family turn out to be? Even a Garrison bastard is better than an average person,” Damien conceded.

To people like him who grew up in a prominent family, they had always attributed success to one’s bloodline.

It was never a matter of individual effort whenever someone did well in life.

Thus, it was natural for them to give credit to the Garrisons instead of acknowledging Levi’s own capability.

“I’m sure Father and Grandpa will welcome him back to the family after they find out about his success. Yes, everyone in the family has great achievements, but we won’t say no to another genius like him joining us. There are still ways in which the bastard can be of service to the family,” Damien noted.

The younger generation in the Garrison clan was talented and competent, and they were at the very least, top fifty in Erudia. All of them were deserving of the family name.

The fact that Levi could outdo them meant that he was not to be underestimated at all.

“Mr. Damien, he might be accomplished, but he’s too arrogant for his own good. He has no regard for the Garrison family—not even you or Master Tyrone! He even wanted me to convey a message to Master Tyrone. He said we would regret it when he made his way to the Garrison family’s residence!” Edward complained.

Bang!

Over on the other end, Damien slammed his fist on the table. “Come again? What did he say? Sure enough, a bastard’s always a bastard. He might share our noble blood, but he’s obviously unrefined! I shouldn’t have expected something good to come out of a bastard who grew up in a questionable environment. He’s nothing compared to us! And since he has no respect for the family, I can only say it’s his loss. He won’t go far with his haughty attitude. His pride and his narrow-mindedness will be his undoing!” Damien shouted into the phone.

Damien nodded his head weakly at the man’s outburst. “I agree, Mr. Damien. His pride is way bigger than his accomplishments. He needs to know that South Hampton is just a small part of the world!”

Hearing this, the other man chuckled in pride. “Of course. He’ll shut up once he’s seen what Oakland City’s Garrison clan can do with his own eyes. This bastard needs to broaden his horizon instead of being so full of himself. Wait till he faces someone more powerful than himself.”

“What should we do then, Mr. Damien? Should we still kill him?” Edward asked.

“No. Given his ability now, he won’t be a shame to the family anymore. We shall spare him for now,” Damien replied.

“Then what should we do about him, Mr. Damien?”

A slight pause came from the other side before Damien finally spoke, “Since he’s so egoistic and treats the family as a joke, I’ll teach him a lesson myself!”

The butler’s eyes glistened in hope when he heard Damien was handling this himself.

Edward had had enough of Levi Garrison and his conceited attitude. Now that Tyrone's son was getting involved directly, someone could finally avenge what Levi had done to him.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 997

"Aha! That's why that bastard has the guts to challenge us. He's Morris Group's boss!" Damien exclaimed after doing some digging into Levi's background.

He finally understood why Levi had the guts to be so obnoxious.

Although few people knew Levi was the head of Morris Group, it did not take the Garrison clan long to obtain that piece of information.

Hearing the name, Edward widened his eyes in surprise. "Morris Group? Even Triple Group in Keerea is no match for that company! It practically dominates everything."

"Well, it's true that Morris Group has got some substance. But that doesn't mean Levi can take the Garrison family lightly. Father's Pinnacle Group in South Hampton is far superior! I'll tell the company to acquire Morris Group. I bet Levi Garrison will come begging on his knees in no time. This will be the price he has to pay for messing with the Garrison family!" Damien let out a confident laugh as he imagined Levi begging for mercy.

The next day, Levi and his mother began their journey home along with the Beasts and the Amethyst Guards.

Levi was deep in thought, thinking about the encounter he had yesterday. A frown settled on his brows. Before long, he finally broke the silence. "Mother, do you miss him?"

Emma was startled by his sudden question. She turned towards her son reluctantly, trying to think of how she should answer in an appropriate manner.

"Do you still want to marry Tyrone? The family will finally accept you after all these years," Levi continued.

"No. I don't harbor unrealistic expectations like that anymore. That's no longer what I care about," she replied firmly as she looked at Levi in the eyes.

"What do you care about then?" he asked.

A warm and gentle smile slowly spread across her face.

"Well, it's not anything important that you need to know."

"Come on, Mom. I will try my best to make your dream come true!" he insisted.

"I hope you can stand in front of the Garrisons one day and proudly tell them that you're my son—and that you're a man worthy of their respect!"

But she quickly regretted what she said when she saw her son's solemn expression. "You don't have to get all stressed out about it, Levi. This is just a thought I have, don't take it too seriously."

The last thing she wanted was to pressurize her son and make things difficult for him.

She knew how difficult and dangerous such an action could be for Levi.

But that was not what her son thought. "No, Mom. You will live to see that day. I promise," Levi pronounced.

Yet, Emma knew he was just trying to make her feel better. She knew better than to set her expectations too high.

Besides, Levi was not even thirty yet. He still had a long way to go before he could actually do something substantial.

It was impossible that someone of his age would earn the respect of the Garrison family.

When they arrived, Zoey was already waiting for them. She had put aside work to pick Emma up.

"How's the prep coming along?" Levi asked when he saw the woman.

“We’re almost done. We’ll go over and bid for the project tomorrow,” she replied.

He nodded approvingly and let out a small smile. “Remember to be careful of Lyndsay Granger. She’s not an easy character.”

“Don’t worry; I already have it all planned out. Iris and I will travel separately tomorrow,” Zoey assured.

“That’s great. All the best for tomorrow then.”

Levi knew Zoey must have made adequate preparation, but he was still worried that something unexpected would pop up.

Over at Golden Plaza, Jayden hung up the phone after a long call.

“Do you know who just called me? Damien Garrison! The actual Mr. Damien!” he exclaimed at the top of his voice.

Around him, everyone looked at him enviously.

Damien was well known to be the potential next heir of the Garrison clan.

It must be an urgent matter for a man of his standing to actually call Jayden.

“What did Mr. Damien say?” Lyndsay asked as she scooted closer to Jayden.

“Mr. Damien wanted one thing done—we are to crush Morris Group as soon as possible,” the latter replied.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 998

“That’s good news. We’re competing for a project with them tomorrow anyway. That’ll be our first chance,” Lyndsay commented.

Jayden nodded, rolling his eyes schemingly. “Exactly. Make sure you deal with them accordingly. I don’t want anything to go wrong tomorrow.”

Lyndsay and the other council members exchanged cunning glances with each other, and sinister smiles curved on their lips. “Don’t worry. They won’t even make it to the venue tomorrow.”

The big day soon arrived. Sylas and her team escorted Zoey and Oriental Star Group’s council members as they headed for the venue.

“Sylas, make sure nothing happens to anyone. Someone might try and stop us on the way,” Zoey reminded before they departed.

The woman refused to allow the same thing to happen again. She had once been held up by her competitor when she was on her way to the venue and had missed the bidding event because of that incident.

She had been fooled once; she would not fall into the same trap again.

“Ms. Lopez, rest assured that everything will be okay. We will make sure everyone arrives safely,” Sylas replied calmly.

In no time, Oriental Star Group’s convoy departed for the venue.

To ensure nothing would happen, Iris took a different route towards the destination.

No one else in the company knew about it except for Zoey.

Although everything had been meticulously planned out, Zoey still had a premonition of imminent danger as she sat in the car.

Her eyelids kept twitching, and she could not hold it in any longer—she needed to double-confirm everything.

“Sylas, could you check and see if everything is fine out there?”

“Everything looks fine,” her bodyguard answered after surveying the surroundings.

Bam!

Suddenly, a vendor on a trishaw came out of nowhere. One of the cars did not manage to stop in time, running into it at full force.

The collision sent the vendor flying three to four meters away before the man finally hit his head against the cold tar road. The grey road was soon stained red as blood gushed out of the man’s body.

The whole Oriental Star Group fleet pulled the emergency brake – everyone was stupefied.

Zoey’s face turned pale—something had happened just as she expected.

She knew Pinnacle Group would not let her off the hook that easily.

“Is everyone okay?” Zoey turned around frantically, checking to see if anyone was hurt. Their schedule had been affected because of the accident, and Pinnacle Group managed to have their way, but Zoey did not want anything to happen to anyone, be it friends or foes.

Everyone got out of the car, and some people rushed towards the vendor lying on the ground.

Sylas checked the man’s pulse and her frightened gaze slowly trailed towards Zoey.

“Ms. Lopez... He’s gone...”

Zoey’s steps faltered, her knees going weak at the news.

She could not believe Pinnacle Group would kill someone in order to stop her.

Did they really plan all this?

How cruel can those people get?

This was not the first time a competitor had targeted her, but no one had ever gone to such length to get in her way.

Pinnacle Group was the first to do so.

“Somebody help! They just hit someone! And the man is now dead!” a passerby shouted.

Soon, a huge crowd hurried over, encircling Zoey and the others. They had come forward with kitchen knives, ready to get revenge on behalf of the man.

“You’re not getting away with this! We will make sure you pay for it!” the angry men shouted.

“It wasn’t our fault! He’s the one who came out of the junction all of a sudden! He’s the one who ran into us!” Zoey tried to explain the situation.

However, her pleas only made the situation worse; she had angered them all even more.

There were no surveillance cameras around that area, and it so happened that the trishaw had rushed out at the car dashcam’s blind spot.

There was no proof to whatever she claimed.

“Bullshit! We saw everything with our own eyes. You guys hit him! Don’t blame a dead man for what you did!” one of the men yelled.

“Yeah! We’re all witnesses! You won’t get away with this!” another cried out.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 999

Sylas’ blood ran cold at the sight of those furious men.

This is all my fault.

I clearly saw that man there. But I didn’t expect him to dash out just like that! Gosh, what should I do?

“Ms. Lopez... What should we do now...” she asked in a frail voice.

Her mind went blank; she could not think of any way of getting them out of this mess.

“There’s nothing we can do. This was all premeditated. They did it to keep me away from the event,” Zoey stated with a resigned sigh.

The only thing she was concerned about now was that an innocent man had lost his life because of the strife between Pinnacle Group and her.

If she knew that all this would come at the expense of a man’s life, she would have given up on this project readily.

But she also knew that Iris would still make it to the event.

She and Iris had foreseen something bad happening, and they already had a bulletproof plan laid out.

Even if Zoey did not make it to the venue, Iris would still be there.

“You guys have nothing to worry about. I won’t run away. I’ll settle this properly,” Zoey told the crowd.

After all, this man had died because of her. She took it on herself to look into the accident.

Meanwhile, a car sped by along a road in the suburb.

Iris cried out when she was informed that something had happened to Zoey.

The woman had been on the way using another route when she got news of the incident.

The car she was seated in braked to halt when a few men in black suddenly appeared before her, blocking her way in the middle of the road.

“Ms. Anabelle, I’m sorry, but we have to cut your trip short. Don’t worry; it’ll only take two hours, that’s if you cooperate with us,” one of them said as he leaned closer to the car window.

Iris knew exactly what they were up to.

It went without saying that all they wanted was to stop her from bidding for the project.

The fact that these people had found out about her route surprised her.

Now that these men were in her way, it was impossible for her to get herself out of this.

The only thing she could do was to do as they demanded.

"I'm so sorry, Zoey." Iris sighed.

Over at the venue, all the council members from Pinnacle Group had already gathered in a timely manner.

Jayden and Lyndsay held their heads high as they looked around. The event was about to commence.

Many big companies had convened after knowing that the project was open for bid.

Jayden approached some of the heads, putting up a smug smile. "You guys won't stand a chance against us today. Pinnacle Group will win the project. All of you'd better back off. Try us, and you'll end up dead!"

He was rude and overbearing—yet there was nothing those people could say.

Jayden was from Pinnacle Group; no one had the guts to challenge that company.

Since they were here at the event just for the sake of it, there was no need for them to incur the wrath of Pinnacle Group unnecessarily.

"Mr. Yolander, Ms. Granger, we've handled Zoey and Iris as instructed. They won't be able to make it," an assistant reported.

A smirk crafted Jayden and Lyndsay's faces when they received the news.

There was no way a small company like Morris Group could threaten Pinnacle Group.

It was foolish for Morris Group to think that they stood a chance to win.

“Did you leave any traces?” Lyndsay asked.

“No. No one will be able to track it back to Pinnacle Group. Also, we’ve blocked all the roads, so no one from Morris Group will reach this place,” the assistant added with a sly smile.

Beside him, Lyndsay nodded as an evil smile broke out on her face. “Now that I think of it, it’s actually not a bad idea for Morris Group to come. They can well amuse us if they’re humiliated here today. But, oh well, they can’t even make it here now. What a pity.”

“Yeah, they’ll lose the project to us even if they came. It’s just a matter of time before Morris Group belongs to us!” Jayden agreed.

Just as the two were busy talking about taking Morris Group down, Yale Freeman, the person in charge of the project, walked over.

“Mr. Yolander, Ms. Granger, we’re about to start. Shall we take a seat?” he inquired politely.

Jayden shot the man an innocent smile and asked, “Oh, aren’t we still waiting for Morris Group?”

Yale gestured to invite them in as he cleared his throat. “Actually, Morris Group met with an accident when they were on their way. I don’t think they’ll be able to make it.”

Just as Jayden and Lyndsay were about to walk in, a deafening noise rang out from above, causing everyone to tilt their heads towards the sky.

“Quick! Look up! Look at the sky!” someone exclaimed in shock.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1000

A choppy noise resounded through the place as a few private helicopters hovered in the sky.

The rotor blades spun incessantly, and the sound grew louder as time passed.

Everyone looked up and squinted their eyes at the sight of the helicopters flying in weird patterns in the sky.

It turned out that those helicopters were making a skywriting.

“Morris Group?” Everyone was surprised when they saw what was written in the sky.

Are these helicopters from Morris Group?

Jayden and Lyndsay exchanged worried looks as they watched everything play out before their eyes.

They had done all they could to stop Morris Group from reaching the venue, but never in their wildest imagination would they expect them to arrive in private helicopters.

The private helicopters pitched forward and finally got ready to descend, creating ripples of strong winds as the pilots lowered the machines on the ground.

Everyone tried standing their ground, lowering their heads as the helicopters got closer. The wind sent all the dust blowing in their faces, and people were forced to close their eyes as the wind got more forceful.

Many began taking refuge and sought shelter as the wind intensified.

Ironically, Jayden, who claimed to have noble blood, was the first to flee. In fact, he was crawling away like a coward because he knew he would die if he didn't get away quickly.

His jaw dropped when he saw workers of Morris Group descend from the sky.

His men had blocked all roads leading to the venue—yet he had still miscalculated.

Morris Group had flown people in private helicopters to get to the venue.

Once the helicopters landed and positioned themselves in front of the place, Levi and Kirin came down and walked towards the disheveled lot.

"Levi... Levi Garrison..." Lyndsay mumbled in disbelief.

"He's Levi Garrison? Mr. Damien told me he's the man who owns Morris Group. But regardless, Mr. Damien has told us that he's a nobody. Morris Group will be ours soon," Jayden scoffed.

Lyndsay did not answer him. Hatred and spite sparked in her eyes as her glare traced him. "Levi Garrison... Things are gonna get interesting."

"Just in time!" Levi exclaimed as he stood before the crowd.

However, Yale did not seem happy to see him.

The man personally preferred entrusting the project to Pinnacle Group; he knew he could not afford to get on the wrong side with that company.

Now that Morris Group had arrived, Yale was caught in a difficult position.

But the bidding process still had to go as planned. "Alright, since everyone's here, let's get started!"

Yale led everyone in.

Behind Levi, Jayden and Lyndsay came close enough so he could hear them.

"You'd better stop before things turn ugly. You have no idea who you're going up against. Pinnacle Group is not a company you can mess with!" Jayden warned.

"We will acquire Morris Group in no time. It's useless to compete with us!" Lyndsay added as she tried to keep up with Levi's pace.

However, Levi's nonchalance enraged her. "Did you hear me? Give up now! It's for your own good! I know you're Morris Group's boss, but don't overestimate yourself. The enemy you're facing is much stronger than you think, and the world is much bigger than your tiny brain can imagine!"

Jayden also interjected, "I heard that you have no regard for the Garrison family. Don't be childish! You've only seen a tiny bit of what they're capable of. You need to be realistic. Stop being so arrogant!"

Levi stopped abruptly at the entrance of the venue and shifted his contemptuous gaze towards them.

"I think y'all should stop here. There's no way you guys are getting in," he stated.

Jayden and Lyndsay's eyes widened in astonishment as they stared at him. Everyone who heard him all turned around in bewilderment.

"What? Who are you to bar us from entering?" Lyndsay interrogated.

In front of them, Yale halted his step and walked over.

He knew Levi had no right to stop Jayden and Lyndsay.

"Kirin, keep an eye on them. Make sure they stay away," Levi ordered in a domineering tone as he looked at the two from the corner of his eyes.

The Protector Chapter 1001

Levi wouldn't allow anyone to question anything he said.

Nevertheless, Yale, Jayden, and everyone else present was startled.

Lyndsay immediately asked, "Levi, who are you to bar us from entering?"

How dare he bar us from entering even when we're not stopping him from going in?

Jayden then said, "Mr. Freeman, you're the person in charge of the project. Can he actually bar us from entering? I mean, shouldn't you be in charge of everything here?"

Yale glanced at Levi before he replied, "You're right. Mr. Garrison, I think there's been some misunderstanding. Since you're only a tender, I'm afraid you can't bar anyone from entering."

"What I say goes! Your word means nothing against mine!"

Levi entered the hall as soon as he finished speaking.

Unperturbed by his outburst, Jayden, Lyndsay, and the rest began to head into the hall but were all stopped by Kirin.

"All of you are not allowed to enter!"

"What if we want to go in anyway?" Jayden retorted.

"Restrain them!"

Once Kirin gave the command, a few personnel came up and restrained them.

As such, the whole lot did not have the chance to participate in the tender event.

It wasn't difficult to guess the outcome – Morris Group had obtained the project.

After all that had happened, the people in the hall dared not to offer a price.

Jayden and Lyndsay were exasperated as they couldn't do anything until the tender event ended.

Levi Garrison is even more overbearing than us!

We only obstruct other tenders to buy ourselves time, at the very most.

However, that man dared to bar us from participating in the tender event directly!

“Levi Garrison, just you wait! We will never let off for this!” Jayden yelled and glared at Levi resentfully.

“Well, here I am, waiting.” Levi smiled coldly.

Meanwhile, Zoey had finished settling all of her matters, and Iris had been released.

“We're not ruthless enough compared to them!” Zoey sighed.

She was no match for those from Pinnacle Group, who would resort to every possible means to achieve their missions, no matter any lives were at stake.

She had lost the project – her plan had failed.

Without achieving success, the Lopez and Black families will continue to belittle me. In that case, will they still stop me from marrying Levi? It's not enough to only depend on having a baby...

Zoey heaved a long sigh.

At that moment, Iris came to her office and handed a document to her.

After flipping through the document, Zoey was puzzled. "Oh? We obtained the project?"

"Iris, didn't someone stop you from entering the tender event? How could you have obtained the project?" Zoey couldn't figure out what had happened.

"They stopped me, including the men whom I secretly sent to the event. However, the boss successfully obtained the project by himself this time!" Iris explained.

"What? We got this project because of the boss again?"

"That's right."

"Who even is the boss? Why did he go to great lengths to help me?"

Zoey was flummoxed.

"Why are you bothered by it? After all, we got our hands on the project in the end."

Iris rolled her eyes at her best friend. It's because you're the boss's wife!

After recollecting herself, Zoey immediately went looking for Levi.

Once the woman owned the project, her wealth would instantly skyrocket.

As such, she had amassed enough bargaining chips to negotiate with the Lopez and Black families.

Grandma can't control me anymore when I'm seen as successful!

No one can stop the two of us once I get pregnant!

Levi's time hasn't come yet, but it doesn't matter because I am successful now.

"Zoey, why do you look so emotional?" Levi asked.

"Can we decide on our wedding date? I've checked the calendar, and there will be an auspicious day one and a half months later. Do you think we should get married then?" she asked, wanting to get his opinion on things.

“Alright. Let’s set a date. I will give you a wedding of which the world has never seen before.”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1002

Exactly a month later, the bridal chamber that Levi designed was completed.

It’s time to give Zoey a perfect wedding.

To him, their wedding will be perfect as long as his mother, sister, and brother attended it.

He vowed to tell Zoey the truth about who he really was on their wedding day.

I want to tell her about the truth by myself. I want her to know that her husband is Erudia’s God of War!

Then, I will hold her hand and overlook the world like an emperor with his empress!

“We should also make early preparation to get pregnant before our wedding!” Zoey added bashfully.

“Certainly. In that case, we shouldn’t go home today!” Levi put on a sly smile.

“Sounds good.”

Levi and Zoey didn’t return to their homes that night.

After a night of intimacy, both of them grew to cherish each other more.

The two of them were finally together after going through ups and down for ten years.

From that moment onwards, no one would be able to separate them from each other.

They would eventually be able to build a family of three.

When Iris saw Zoey the next day, the former stated curiously, "Zoey, something seems different about you..."

"Oh? What's different about me?" the other woman asked while her face turned red.

"I can't pinpoint it, but you seem to be more feminine now," Iris explained.

That remark made Zoey lower her head and blush even more.

"Since you and Levi have decided on the wedding date, I'm sure you both plan to have children soon, right?"

Zoey didn't respond to her question. She merely glanced at her friend and chided, "Iris, you should get a boyfriend as soon as possible. Aren't you fond of the boss? Just court him already!"

"What?"

Iris was taken aback upon hearing that.

Well, I do hope to court the boss, but he's Levi! How could I possibly do that to you?

"The boss isn't single." Iris flashed her a smile.

"Oh? Wasn't he single some time ago? How did he get a girlfriend so soon?" Zoey asked, surprised.

"Yes, everything happened very fast. Speaking of which, aren't you going to marry Levi soon?"

The good news spread like wildfire. Soon, everyone in the company had heard the news of Zoey and Levi deciding on their wedding date.

Zoey's curiosity was piqued when she saw how thrilled all her workers were.

Why does everyone seem so excited about it? Is Levi really a respected figure in the company?

After all, Zoey used to hear complaints about Levi all the time.

It's strange...

Miles away, the Black family caught wind of the news.

"What?"

"So, the wedding date of Zoey and Levi Garrison has been fixed? As her grandpa and grandma, why weren't we informed about this?"

Meredith and Robert were shocked upon hearing about the wedding.

"We had no idea about it either..." the rest murmured.

Robert immediately made a phone call to Harry to ask about it.

However, the latter also wasn't aware of it.

When Meredith contacted Caitlyn and Aaron, the answers she received were the same.

Both of them were clueless about it too.

"How could outsiders know about it when even her parents aren't aware of the wedding date yet? Zoey has gone overboard!" Meredith grew infuriated with them all.

"Come back as soon as possible. Your daughter is going to marry someone soon," she yelled into the phone.

Not long after that, Aaron, Caitlyn, and Harry gathered at the Black family's manor.

Everyone seemed to be confused about what was going on.

Has the marriage between Zoey and Levi Garrison really been fixed?

The news spread widely even before the family was informed...

“Look at how your daughter behaves! You two weren’t even aware of her marriage! Humph! She doesn’t respect you as parents, nor does she treat us as her elders! I mean, is she planning to disregard us once and for all?” Meredith scolded.

“What an unfilial daughter she is!”

Aaron heaved a sigh helplessly. At this moment, he and Caitlyn were greatly embarrassed.

“How do you tolerate her? I can’t take it anymore!”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1003

Meredith, Robert, and Harry were all exasperated.

Meanwhile, Zoey’s parents were indignant at the sudden news.

Immediately, they called Zoey and asked, “We heard you have decided on your wedding date. Is that true?”

To which their daughter replied composedly, “It’s true, I’ve discussed it with Levi. I was planning to give you a call to inform you tonight.”

“Why have you not discussed your wedding date with us? Do you even treat us as your parents? Do you even respect the elders in the Lopez and Black families?”

"Are you planning to ditch your mother? Oh right, I guess Levi's mother is your new mother now. In that case, who am I to you?" Caitlyn scowled, almost smashing the phone out of anger.

Zoey hurriedly explained, "Mom, I'm already an adult. I can make my own decisions now. I'll discuss certain things with you all when it's necessary. However, I can make most decisions on my own."

"Since marriage is a life-changing event, how can you decide on it all by yourself? Besides, all of us don't agree to your marriage to Levi Garrison again!"

Caitlyn continued on without listening to her daughter, "Also, why don't you listen to your grandpa and grandma? They will gladly arrange your marriage for you!"

"Mom, why should all of you decide everything for me? I understand that you're afraid of Grandpa and Grandma, but they hold no authority over me. Besides, I won't be manipulated by anyone else because I have enough bargaining chips now," Zoey said.

"Come home as soon as possible to discuss with us! If you don't home, Grandpa and Grandma will look for you by themselves!"

As such, Zoey and Levi had no choice but to go to the Black family's manor.

The atmosphere was rather tense in the meeting room; everyone had on grim expressions.

"Kneel!" Meredith commanded coldly.

"Grandma, what do you mean by that?" Zoey asked.

"I'm asking you to kneel before me! Do you not understand? Both of you have to kneel as well!" Meredith fixated her gaze on Levi when she yelled.

"Why should we kneel? You must at least give us a reason," Levi said.

"Aren't you aware of your wrongdoing? How could you decide on your marriage all on your own? You even decided on the wedding date without consulting all of us!"

Zoey's grandmother trembled violently with anger.

The next moment, Zoey explained smilingly, "I can make my own decisions. I don't have to trouble all of you about this trivial matter. On that day, all of you only have to attend the wedding and enjoy the ceremony,"

"Bullshit! Did we agree on such an arrangement?" Meredith couldn't help but blurt a curse.

"Grandma, I have to get it straight – Any decisions about my wedding have to be decided by me!" Zoey immediately retorted.

"That will happen only when you're competent enough!" Meredith sneered.

"I am competent enough, and the Lopez and Black families can't tell me what to do anymore. Here, take a look by yourselves!"

As soon as she finished, Zoey threw a document on the table in front of Meredith.

All her family members were taken aback after they took the document and read through it.

"What? Zoey, are you really that wealthy now?" Meredith asked; the shock she felt was evident in her voice.

"Yes. Under such circumstances, can I make my own decisions?" Zoey questioned.

Meanwhile, everyone in the room was startled and lost in thought.

"I have something else to tell you all. I'm bearing Levi a child now. Therefore, all of you can never separate us!"

"What?"

The woman nearly threw everyone into a fit as the news had come like a bolt from the blue.

After ten minutes, her parents and grandparents eventually recollected themselves and reluctantly accepted the fact.

"My god! What have we done?" Aaron heaved a sigh.

Meanwhile, Meredith glanced at Levi and said, "Your wedding has to be a grand ceremony. I will agree to it on one condition... His mother cannot attend the wedding! I can't allow her presence to dishonor the Black family!"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1004

Immediately, the rest added, "That's right. The grand wedding will certainly become a popular topic among the people in the entire South. Won't we be embarrassed if his mother attends the wedding?"

"Exactly. We mean no offense, but both the Lopez and Black families have to maintain our reputations!" Harry agreed.

"Look, Zoey. Everyone agrees to the condition I've set!" A triumphant smile appeared on Meredith's face.

Aaron suddenly interjected, "As your father, I have to list down some conditions too!"

"What?"

Everyone looked at Aaron in bewilderment.

"Your marriage is unavoidable because you two have already become husband and wife. So, I will agree to it. However, Levi has to marry into our family!" the man commanded coldly.

"Marry into your family?" Levi was stunned by his demand.

How can I, the God of War, marry into someone's family?

At the same time, Zoey was startled too.

Why should he marry into our family?

“That’s right. You have to marry into our family if you want to marry my daughter. It’s not easy to marry into our family, though. There are several conditions you will have to obey!”

“Firstly, after marrying into our family, you will have to change your last name to Lopez. From now on, you’re not Levi Garrison but Levi Lopez! I don’t want you to mention your original name under all circumstances!”

“Secondly, after marrying into the Lopez family, you must follow all rules set by the Lopez family without protest. I don’t want to hear a “No” from you, not even once!”

“Thirdly, your daily routine will be arranged by the Lopez family. You’ll have to report who you meet with every day and how much money you’ve spent!”

“You’ll also have no right to say a word on important occasions, such as our family meetings. You can only speak when we allow you to do so!”

Aaron spelled out ten extremely harsh rules in total.

Harry and Meredith backed him up almost instantly. “Sounds great! Aaron has come up with many good ideas. You’re to marry into our family. Also, you will have to follow all the rules from that day onward. Otherwise, you can never marry Zoey!”

The main reason they had listed those rules was because Zoey had so much wealth now. They believed that Levi should not be allowed to marry her so effortlessly.

Since they couldn’t stop the marriage, they looked for other ways to make up for their “loss.”

Their thought process was as simple as Aaron’s – Zoey is wealthy, so they feel embarrassed and dishonored to see Levi marrying her.

Hence, they hoped to reduce the negative impact on Zoey and the Lopez and Black families by having Levi marry into the family.

“Furthermore, there has to be a ceremony when he marries into our family! He must first kneel and bow before the head of the Lopez family in our family’s manor. Then, he must kneel and bow again before our ancestors in the ancestral shrine!” Harry added.

“Yes! There has to be a grand ceremony since Levi is marrying into the Lopez family. The Black family agrees to this suggestion!” Meredith and Robert fully supported the idea in unison.

Meanwhile, Caitlyn said sobbingly, “My precious daughter has to marry a poor lad in the end! I really can’t accept it!”

“Caitlyn, we can’t do much about it. Now, what we can do is to make sure that he marries into our family!”

All of them let out a heavy sigh.

Zoey had thought that she could control everything; she didn’t expect things to turn out in such a way!

Are they treating me like a tool? What’s so wrong with Levi ? Why are they doing this to him?

Levi might not be a prominent figure like he was before, but he’s sincere about me and is willing to sacrifice his life for me. That’s what I love about him!

“Sweetie, don’t utter a word! If you respect me as your father, Levi must marry into our family! Otherwise, the wedding will be called off!”

The man then glanced at Levi and continued, “So, Levi, are you willing to marry into the Lopez family?”

Everyone present shifted their gaze toward the man in question.

The Protector Chapter 1005

Zoey wished that Levi would pretend to agree to the conditions to avoid any trouble.

She was ready to deal with the problems afterward once he pretended to agree.

She made a promise to herself – she would not make Levi embarrassed.

As such, the man definitely wouldn't have to obey the rules.

"Of course I don't agree! It's still acceptable if you only want me to marry into your family. But to make me change my last name? No way! I'm Levi Garrison for the rest of my life, and no one can ever change my last name!" Levi retorted coldly.

My mother gave me this name. No one can ever change it!

Everyone was startled at how Levi sounded so resolute.

"In that case, are you also saying you don't want to marry Zoey?" Meredith asked immediately.

"I certainly want to marry her!" Levi replied smilingly.

"Marry into our family if you want to marry her then. Otherwise, the marriage is out of the question!" Aaron firmly stated.

"Let me get this straight. Firstly, I'm going to marry Zoey. Secondly, I won't change my last name nor marry into your family. Thirdly, my mother must attend our wedding."

Levi spelled out his thoughts resolutely – he didn't allow anyone to question him.

All the members of the Lopez and Black families froze for a moment.

How dare he talk to us in such a manner?

"Levi Garrison, do you think you have the right to speak here? Are you aware of who you are? Zoey is worth about a hundred billion. Do you think you really deserve her?" Zoey's father yelled furiously.

They felt that the marriage was totally unfair. After all, Zoey was way out of Levi's league in terms of social status and wealth.

In other words, the two were from two different worlds and not meant to be together.

The Lopez and Black family had felt that it was a huge loss to let Zoey marry Levi from the very beginning.

To them, their relationship was practically identical to the one in the movie Beauty and the Beast.

Unexpectedly, Levi put on a smile and asserted, "To tell you the truth, I do deserve her!"

At this moment, his imposing look was engraved on Zoey's heart. It was as if the high-spirited Levi Garrison whom she met six years ago had finally returned.

Zoey knew that everything the man was about to say was right.

Nonetheless, she foresaw Levi explaining that they were a good match in terms of social status.

After all, as Tyrone Garrison's son and the Jones family's grandson, he certainly deserved her hand in marriage.

However, deep in her heart, she also hoped that Levi could be as successful as her, making them a perfect match.

She wished Levi to regain his success and be as powerful as he was six years ago.

"You deserve her? Hahaha..."

The next moment, everyone in the room burst out in laughter.

How could you possibly deserve her? Zoey is way more successful than you! You don't even deserve to be a maid who takes care of her shoes!

"In which aspect do you deserve to be with her? Are you kidding us? Levi, do you have the slightest idea about your own status?"

Amused, Logan Zachs stared at Levi like an idiot.

Much to everyone's surprise, the latter only chortled in response.

Levi was the one-and-only God of War, who commanded the army of Erudia like a monarch.

Putting that identity aside, as the boss of Morris Group, he still deserved to be with her.

Moreover, apart from Zoey's own effort, she was only successful because Levi had helped her on many occasions.

It could be said that Zoey had only come this far because of the help Levi gave to her!

In that case, why don't I deserve to be with her?

"Rest assured that I will reveal my true identity to Zoey during the wedding! On that day, all of you will keep your mouths shut once you are aware of my identity," Levi retorted.

He began imagining their change of attitude once they knew who he really was as he spoke.

"Hahaha! Your true identity? Are you kidding me? Do you think we don't know who you are?"

Everyone burst into mocking laughter.

"This brat wants to shock us to our core? Impossible!" Meredith shot Levi a look full of disdain.

After glancing at everyone in the room, Levi announced, "In that case, I will tell you a secret!"

The Protector Chapter 1006

"A secret?"

All of them were startled at first, but they soon glanced at him curiously.

Zoey looked at Levi curiously. Does he have a secret?

Levi said smilingly, "I actually wasn't in jail for the past six years!"

Indeed, this was a startling revelation to everyone in the hall.

All of them looked at him in disbelief; they used to think Levi had been imprisoned for six years.

However, it turned out that they were very, very wrong.

Stunned and surprised, everyone wondered what had actually transpired.

Meanwhile, Zoey was more flabbergasted than the rest.

No wonder they didn't allow me to visit him three months after he supposedly went into jail.

She hadn't visited Levi in prison for several consecutive years because she had not been allowed to enter.

All her doubts were cleared. I couldn't see Levi because he wasn't even in prison!

"You... You weren't in prison?" Aaron's teeth ground as he spoke.

"I was acquitted not long after I was jailed. They soon found out that I had been framed by the Garrison family and their dirty tricks." Levi smirked.

Meanwhile, Zoey, who was equally shocked by his revelation, asked sobbingly, "Where were you the past six years? Why didn't you come back?"

Apart from Zoey, everyone in the room had the same doubt.

If Levi wasn't in prison for the past six years, where was he?

The man shifted his gaze toward Zoey and replied lovingly, "I can't tell you right now. I'm only planning to reveal it to you on our wedding day!"

He paused for a moment and added, "But I can promise you that I deserve to be with you. I can give you everything you desire! I will make you the happiest woman who is admired by everyone else in the world!"

A rush of excitement washed over Zoey when she heard that.

Perhaps Levi will surprise me.

She began to look forward to their wedding more than ever.

Upon hearing Levi speak so firmly, everyone stopped ridiculing him and began to take what he said seriously.

He gazed at everyone slowly and asserted blandly, "Once I reveal my identity, none of you will dare impose any rules on me! Wait and see during our wedding if you don't believe me!"

After pondering over the situation for quite some time, Aaron glanced at him and replied, "Alright! I'll wait until the wedding to find out who you really are. I'll withdraw the rules I've set if you really do deserve Zoey. However, heavy punishment awaits you if you have lied to us."

"I agree. We shall make life difficult for you in the future if you lied to us!"

The other family members began to threaten him mercilessly.

After leaving the Black family's manor, Zoey asked in a low voice, "Did you really tell them the truth just now?"

"Of course, everything I said is true! I was never jailed!" Levi replied with a grin on his face.

"Alright, I will wait until you tell me everything!"

Deep in her heart, Zoey increasingly looked forward to their big day.

Lately, the woman was busier than ever because she had to work and handle the project worth one hundred billion. She also had to prepare for her wedding.

Apart from all that, she also had to take part in shooting for a TV drama.

Fortunately, Damon, the vice president of Oriental Star Group, assisted her in many ways to minimize her workload, including dealing with reporters and visitors who came.

If not for him, Zoey would be overwhelmed with all sorts of tasks.

"Mr. Trudon, I'm truly sorry for all the troubles lately!"

Damon didn't mind helping her, so he flashed her a smile to put her at ease. Due to many trivial problems, he frequently went in and out of Zoey's office and even looked for her after office hours.

Meanwhile, Jayden, Lyndsay, and the others were having a meeting in Golden Plaza.

"Zoey Lopez is about to get married soon. Hehe, I hope she and Levi Garrison will like the gift that we've specially prepared for her!"

Lyndsay added smilingly, "It will be how things end for anyone who goes against Pinnacle Group!"

A chilly glare flashed across Jayden's eyes.

Ever since Levi took away the project, they had held a grudge against him. They refused to let him off the hook for what he'd done to them.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1007

Time flew by, and Zoey and Levi had stayed in the hotel for many days.

After more than ten days, Zoey suddenly said to him, "My period hasn't..."

"Oh? Really?" Levi asked excitedly.

"I'll go to the hospital to do a pregnancy test later. Sylas will join me, so you don't have to come with me," she said.

Actually, Zoey had already secretly taken a pregnancy test at home; she knew she was pregnant.

Nevertheless, she would be relieved only after she went through the proper pregnancy test in the hospital.

"Okay, I'll wait for your good news then!"

Levi actually wished to go along with her. However, after giving it a thought, he felt that it was better to wait for her news because he was too nervous.

Zoey and Sylas soon arrived at the hospital for a pregnancy test in the afternoon.

"Why do I feel like someone is following us?"

Sylas instinctively felt something unusual in the air, but the woman didn't manage to notice anything out of place when she turned around.

There was no one behind them, save for a few patients who wore face masks passing by.

“Sylas, you’re being oversensitive.”

Zoey headed into the ward for her test.

After a long time of waiting, the test result was out in the evening.

“Congratulations, Ms. Lopez! You’re indeed pregnant!” the doctor told her the result smilingly.

Tears of joy escaped Zoey’s eyes upon hearing his confirmation. We’re going to have a baby after going through ups and downs together for almost ten years.

After obtaining the test result, she rushed back to the company with Sylas excitedly.

Just as she was about to share the good news with Levi and Iris, her secretary came up to her and said nervously, “Ms. Lopez, this doesn’t look good. We’re in big trouble!”

“What’s going on?” Zoey asked, totally perplexed.

The secretary pushed a notebook in front of her.

Zoey read the content and was flabbergasted.

A headline on the screen read: Bombshell: President of Oriental Star Group Zoey Lopes is Pregnant! Who is the baby’s Father?

“What’s going on? How on earth did the media get the news and reveal it right after we obtained the pregnancy result?” Sylas was at a loss for words,

Zoey’s heart sank.

She instantly knew that someone wanted to target her.

It’s a set-up! Someone must have orchestrated it!

Zoey had recently become a popular figure, attracting a lot of public attention.

Thus, it was no surprise when the news of her pregnancy immediately became a hot topic as soon as it was released.

A minute after this newspaper revealed the news, hundreds of newspapers began reporting on it as well.

In no time, Zoey's pregnancy became the hottest news in every newspaper.

Almost everyone in North Hampton, South Hampton, and different regions in the South was aware of the news.

Zoey's popularity continued to increase as time went by.

Ten minutes after the news was released to the public, many newspapers began digging for news into another related aspect – the identity of the unborn baby's father.

Zoey and Levi had divorced for a long time; they weren't related in any way anymore.

There had been no single scandal about Zoey throughout the six years when Levi was in jail.

Levi has never touched Levi.

Zoey had been seen going in and out of a hotel lately. The woman had even bought medicine for herself from a nearby pharmacy.

After listing down many reasons, the reporters deduced that the baby was definitely not Levi's.

On the other hand, Zoey was pregnant after she and Levi divorced.

Therefore, they could only come up with two conclusions.

First, it was a fact that Zoey was pregnant before marrying anyone. After all, even her pregnancy test result had been revealed.

Second, Zoey could probably have a long-term secret relationship, and it existed when she was still Levi's wife.

The two conclusions spread like wildfire as soon as the reporters wrote about them, and the netizens' comments were blowing up.

As such, Zoey seemed to be doomed. Everything was spiraling out of her control.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1008

The media were still trying to find out who the father was.

Soon, the secret would come to light.

Even the paparazzi and private detectives were also investigating this case in secret.

With that, Zoey's pregnancy became the talk of the town.

Who is the father of her child?

Boom!

Upon reading the news in the media, Zoey was thunderstruck. Her face instantly turned pale.

Sylas exploded. "Someone is trying to stir up trouble!"

We all know Zoey well!

Yes, she's pregnant, and without a doubt, the child she carries is Levi's!

What's with all these rumors?

Zoey knew who the mastermind was, but it was too late for her to control the damage now.

Upon receiving the news, Iris rushed over.

“Bad news, Zoey. We’re surrounded by journalists and paparazzi! They must have come for you. The office is not a safe place for you anymore. You got to go!” Iris suggested.

“All right. I’ll find a place to hide.”

With Sylas’ help, Zoey managed to leave the building without being noticed by the journalists and paparazzi.

Initially, they thought of taking shelter in the company’s condominium, but by the time they arrived, members of the press were already waiting for them at the entrance.

“We can’t go to the villa either. I’m sure there will be people there as well!” Zoey analyzed.

“Let’s go to my place then!”

Sylas then brought Zoey to her condominium.

Just when Sylas was about to drive into her neighborhood, she noticed that a group of people emerged.

“They’re here! They’re here! Let’s get hold of them!” A group of paparazzi started snapping photos of Zoey and Sylas in the car.

After they had successfully entered the building, Damon called.

“I heard you’ve gone into hiding, but I need you to sign a few documents urgently. Where can I find you?”

Damon sounded anxious.

“All right. Come and find me at...”

Half an hour later, Ebone Beard, the most experienced paparazzi of the bunch, shouted, “Look! Here comes our target. Stay focused!”

These paparazzi were known for exposing the private lives of celebrities and wealthy people.

They all gathered here after receiving a tip-off.

At first, they did not believe it but were convinced that the information they received was real after seeing Zoey.

Soon, a black car arrived and parked right in front of the Syllas' condominium.

A man in a suit then got out of the car. He was wearing a cap and even had a mask on.

Zoey was taken aback by Damon's look when she saw him. "Why are you dressed like this?"

"Better to be safe than sorry. Please sign these documents as soon as possible!"

Damon then passed all the documents to Zoey.

Without hesitation, Zoey dropped her signatures on all the documents.

Little did she know, it was all a scheme, and she had unknowingly fallen into the trap.

After collecting all the documents from Zoey, Damon turned around with a smirk.

He then left the place in his car.

Ebone asked, "Have you all gotten the shots?"

"Yes, we got them. So this man is the father of Zoey's child? Unbelievable!"

"Looking at the way he dressed, he must be her lover."

Ebone said with a smile, "Sort everything out, do some research on that man, and send the pictures out to the media. We're going to be rich soon!"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1009

"We've got updates on the man! His name is Damon Trudon, the vice president of Oriental Star Group, and he's Zoey's right-hand man. He's thirty-nine years old and a father to two kids!"

One of the men burst out laughing.

Ebone sneered, "Useless woman. She must have been having an affair with this man for quite some time now, and she's even pregnant with his child!"

"Shame on her! How could she hook up with a married man who already has two kids?"

"Let's expose her! Everyone should know what kind of woman she is!"

The paparazzi were very excited.

Ebone let out a cold snort. "Zoey Lopez is doomed!"

He had not been so ecstatic in years.

Not only could he make a quick buck out of this scandal, but he could also destroy someone who sat on top of the social pyramid.

What a great feeling!

An hour had passed when the media released the groundbreaking news simultaneously. They claimed that they had identified the father of Zoey's child!

To everyone's surprise, the man was Damon!

The news also provided extensive background details about him: Damon Trudon is Zoey Lopez's vice president. They have been working closely for the past six months and have spent a lot of time together. Not only is Damon thirty-nine years old, but he is also a father to two children.

In other words, Zoey was a homewrecker!

The news reports also published quite a number of photos and videos as evidence.

First of all, the media released photos and videos that showed Damon and Zoey walking into a building during work.

Next, they showed proof that Damon and Zoey entered a hotel at about the same time. They even included a list of items both of them spent on when they were there.

The news reports then went on to explain how Zoey went into hiding and had a private meeting with Damon in a condominium. They also included a video of Damon walking into the building with a cap and a mask on.

Last but not least, the media released another video of Zoey undergoing a body checkup at a hospital this morning. The same man who had a cap and a mask on was also present in the clip.

All the evidence gave the impression that Zoey was carrying Damon's child.

There was no way she could deny their relationship as he accompanied her to the hospital for her prenatal care visit.

Zoey was utterly dumbfounded.

It was apparent that Damon was involved in this scheme, and he definitely played a crucial role in it.

Getting Zoey to sign those documents was just an excuse for him to shoot the video.

No wonder Sylas felt as if someone had been following us, so she was right. Apparently, Damon was at the hospital too!

I should have been more alert.

The social media was soon awash with criticism, and netizens started calling Zoey a shameless b*tch and a homewrecker.

The news spread like wildfire on the internet, especially the videos.

There were even fake and edited videos circulating the social media. However, many netizens believed what they saw without verifying their veracity.

After all, people had the tendency to regard what they saw as reality.

Upon receiving the news, Iris immediately contacted Zoey. "This is bad! We can't find Damon anymore. We've been tricked!"

At this point, how could Zoey defend herself when all the evidence the media presented was against her?

"You need to move to a new place soon since they know where you are now."

Just when Zoey and Syllas were about to leave, they noticed that a group of people had surrounded the building.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1010

There was no way they could escape from the building anymore.

“What do we do now?” Sylas asked.

“I’ll give Levi a call.”

She got through to Levi on the phone. “Darling, something terrible happened!”

Levi did not know what was going on as he was still at home. “What is it?”

When Levi checked his phone, he was stunned by what he read.

Did all this happen in just one morning?

“Where are you? I’ll go and get you now!”

Levi sped to Sylas’ condominium and noticed that a large group of paparazzi and journalists were swarming into the building.

Hence, he immediately called Azure Dragon, who then came and expelled the crowd.

Levi finally managed to enter the building and find Zoey. He then brought her to the Warzone compound.

To him, that was the safest place for Zoey.

Yet, the fact that Zoey went into hiding caused the rumors about her to blow out of proportion.

At the Black family's manor, Meredith got so mad that she nearly fainted.

"What? Levi is not the father of Zoey's baby? The baby belongs to another married man?"

It had not been easy for Meredith to accept that Zoey was carrying Levi's child.

Needless to say, this rumor further fueled her anger toward Zoey.

How do you expect me to sit quietly and watch this happen?

"Mom! How could you not trust Zoey?"

Aaron and Caitlyn immediately defended their daughter.

"I want to trust her too, but there's all this evidence against her! How do you expect me to trust her based on my gut feeling?" Meredith roared.

"That's right. Some of the evidence might be fake, but most of them are real! Even the guy involved has fled!" Robert said.

"Why is this happening to our family? I don't even have the courage to face the public anymore!"

"She's a disgrace to the Lopez and Black families!"

"I'll not hesitate to give her a slap if she dares to step into this house!"

...

"I don't care what you say, but I have faith in my daughter. She must have been framed!"

Meanwhile, a group of journalists gathered in front of the office building that Morris Group and Oriental Star Group co-owned.

Noelle Sinsler, another vice president of Oriental Star Group, addressed the matter before the media, "On behalf of Oriental Star Group, I apologize for the problems caused, and we'll take full responsibility for the scandal!"

"Zoey Lopez's personal life has always been a mess. Though she's divorced, she doesn't actually have a clean breakup with her ex-husband. Besides this, she has been hitting on our young male talents from the entertainment department. But there was nothing we could do at that time because she's our president. We sincerely hope that the public could accept our apology!"

Having said that, Noelle bowed to the camera.

The act of Noelle making a public apology on behalf of Oriental Star Group was equivalent to admitting that Zoey was indeed a homewrecker.

In no time, the media released another news article with the headline: Oriental Star Group comes clean about the Zoey-Damon affair and the truth behind her pregnancy.

Once again, the scandal became one of the trending topics on social media.

All the employees looked at Noelle in shock. Hasn't she always been a low-profile person? Why did she bash Zoey all of a sudden?

They were taken aback by the sudden change in her behavior.

"What's wrong with you? Why are you doing this to Zoey?"

Iris immediately stepped in and interrupted her.

Noelle responded with a cold snort, "I'm absolutely embarrassed by what my boss has done. She should be ashamed of herself! Besides, the evidence is conclusive. What else have you got to say?"

Noelle then turned around and looked at the rest. "Zoey Lopez doesn't deserve to lead the company anymore. She should step down and leave the company!"

"How dare you!" Iris' eyes glowed with a towering rage.

The Protector Chapter 1011

At this point, Noelle finally revealed her ambition.

Oriental Star Group had recently secured a project that would rake in one hundred billion, so the company had a bright future ahead.

Once Zoey is out of the way, I shall become the next president, and everyone will have to listen to me!

In the meantime, there was a commotion in front of the office building.

It was Damon's family.

His wife, parents, brothers, and relatives were all gathered outside.

At least a hundred people arrived in several cars, and they wanted to barge into the building to settle scores with Zoey.

Some of them came with wooden clubs, and some even had knives in their hands.

If it were not for Seth and his men, these rowdies would have intruded the building.

"Where is that b*tch? Ask her to come out now!"

"Come out, you slut! You're doomed!"

"Just you wait! I'll kill you!"

...

Damon's family went on threatening and cursing Zoey at the entrance of the building.

Of course, the media went into a frenzy and started taking photos and videos of the chaos as much as they could.

Some even started live-streaming on the spot.

Once again, the pictures and videos of the hullabaloo made it to the trending topics on social media.

With that, the scandal continued to take the internet by storm.

Even Damon's wife came out and accused Zoey of destroying her family.

That homewrecker seduced my husband! It's all her fault!

"Let us in! We need to teach that b*tch a lesson!"

"We want to kill that shameless woman!"

"She's the most promiscuous woman of the century!"

Damon's parents and in-laws were among the first to force their way through.

At this point, Seth and his men could no longer stop them from entering the building.

Out of nowhere, Noelle went up and said, "Please accept our apology. I totally understand how you feel, but Zoey has gone into hiding. We don't even know where she is now!"

"Gone into hiding? I'll hunt her down if it's the last thing I do!"

It was as if Damon's family members were possessed by demons.

Iris exclaimed, "Who are you to apologize to them? You don't even know a single thing!"

Noelle took the opportunity and pointed at Iris. "This woman is Zoey's best friend. She should know where that b*tch is!"

The crowd instantly charged toward Iris.

"Tell us where she is right now!"

Morris Group's office building descended into another round of havoc.

It was so chaotic that the entire company could not operate as usual anymore.

"We'll not leave unless you tell us where Zoey is! Don't you dare to run away from us too!"

Damon's family stopped everyone from leaving.

Meanwhile, at Golden Plaza.

Lyndsay let out a satisfied laugh after reading the news on the internet. "This is the price you need to pay for securing the one hundred billion project."

Jayden nodded in agreement. "This is the end for Zoey Lopez!"

He then asked, "So how's Damon?"

"I've hidden him at a place they would never find out." Lyndsay laughed.

"Great! Not only did we destroy Zoey, but we also managed to deliver a blow to Morris Group's business. This will bring us a step closer to the acquisition of their company!"

Meanwhile, the turn of events had caused the color to drain from Levi's face.

Levi, who was going through the online news with Azure Dragon and his men, said in a cold voice, "What else can we do now?"

"Let's go and find Damon! I heard he's in hiding now," Kirin said.

All of a sudden, Azure Dragon exclaimed, "Look! It's Damon!"

A video of Damon popped up on social media, and in the video, he admitted to having an extramarital affair with Zoey.

The Protector Chapter 1012

The video clip emerged as a surprise on all the online news portals.

The person who spoke in the video was none other than Damon.

The video was divided into two parts.

Damon first admitted that he was in a relationship with Zoey and that he was the father of her baby. According to him, she even forced him to leave his wife and threatened him with their unborn baby.

He even went into great detail about what happened in the office when they were working together.

In the second half of the video, Damon apologized to his family and owned up to all his wrongdoings in between sobs.

Toward the end, he swore that he would leave Zoey.

All in all, he presented himself as the victim of this scandal, as if Zoey were the one who forced him into submission.

The video cut through Zoey's heart like a sharp blade, pushing her deeper into the abyss.

Netizens started lambasting Zoey even more intensely after the release of the video.

They were all convinced that Damon had been the victim of Zoey's abuse all along.

Crack!

After watching the video, Levi smashed the tablet.

“Azure Dragon!”

“Yes!”

Azure Dragon and his men stepped forward.

“Find Damon Trudon first, then seize all the paparazzi and bring them to me! I want all the keyboard warriors and the people in charge of the newspaper publishers and online news portals here as well! And find the mastermind behind this scheme! I will personally deal with the culprit!”

...

“You have one day to bring these people to me! They must all appear in front of me before sunrise!”

Levi was truly infuriated.

How dare they bully Zoey? These people are testing my patience.

He knew who was behind all this, and he would not let them off easily anymore!

The masterminds must have kept their identities a secret and tried to target me. After all, Pinnacle Group knows about my identity.

They carried their plan so discreetly that even Morris Group was unable to find out who the culprit was.

However, unbeknownst to them, Levi Garrison also had a secret identity—he was the God of War!

To him, dealing with these people would be a piece of cake!

“All right!” Azure Dragon and his men responded unanimously.

Justice would be served that night, and Zoey would be free from all these accusations!

Everyone waited for Phoenix, who was the world's best elite hacker, to carry out the investigations.

In just a short while, she managed to locate those people and their information.

"Damon Trudon has recently received one billion in his bank account. He has also frequented the hotel that you and Ms. Lopez were staying in to mislead the public into believing he was there to meet her. The person who provided all the photos and videos of Damon and Ms. Lopez working together was Noelle Sinsler, another vice president of Oriental Star Group. She has also received five hundred million in her account."

"The people who shot the pictures and videos of the private meetings between Damon and Ms. Lopez were a group of paparazzi led by Ebone Beard. As for the keyboard warriors, they were hired by Times Group to tarnish Ms. Lopez's reputation, and the company's person-in-charge is Floyd Henderson. A total of fifty-eight media companies and forums was involved in disseminating the news!"

"Apart from that, all the newspaper publishers in both North Hampton and South Hampton also intentionally played up this scandal in their news reports! Last but not least, the ultimate mastermind is Pinnacle Group, and the key figures who orchestrated all this are Jayden and Lyndsay."

"Great. Capture all these people and bring them to me before sunrise!"

A murderous glint flashed across Levi's bloodshot eyes as if he were ready to go on a killing spree.

The Protector Chapter 1013

The Southern Daily New was the largest newspaper publisher in the South.

At that moment, the whole publishing house was working overtime, and the atmosphere was hectic.

The exposé of Zoey generated so much buzz that they could barely cope.

The revenue from just these two days alone was more than enough to cover them for months.

As the first reporter who broke the news about the scandal, Ryan Danaher was currently surrounded by a lot of people.

Previously, he was only a low-ranking staff member at the Southern Daily News.

Ever since he exposed Zoey's scandal, his status rapidly rose in the company.

All the senior managers at the newspaper had personally met with him.

Even rival media companies were trying to poach him over.

Moreover, his female colleagues were all giving him subtle hints.

Those ladies used to be beauties who wouldn't bat an eyelid at him, but now, they were all throwing themselves at him.

It made Ryan feel ecstatic.

If not for the mysterious man who delivered the information to me, I wouldn't even dare to dream of such a day.

"Ryan, since we're going to finish work late, why don't you stay outside for tonight?" his female supervisor asked suggestively as she passed him a keycard to a room.

When he saw her seductive expression, the lust within him was set ablaze.

She has treated me harshly all this while. But today, even she has to submit and offer herself to me.

The thought of an impending night of passion caused Ryan to have his head in the clouds.

Bang!

At that very moment, someone kicked open the office door.

The man who stormed in was White Tiger.

"Which of you is Ryan Danaher?" White Tiger demanded.

"That's the twenty-fourth person who has come looking for Ryan. He's so famous now that everyone wants a piece of him."

All his colleagues look at him enviously.

"Ryan, someone from another major company is here to see you," someone shouted.

Ryan stood up and declared haughtily, "I am Ryan. State your business quickly. Otherwise, just come back tomorrow as I'm going off for the day."

White Tiger didn't reply as he closed the distance between them.

Bang!

Suddenly, White Tiger grabbed Ryan's collar and slammed him onto the office table, causing the table to split in half.

Crack!

“Argh!”

Ryan screamed in pain as his back broke from the impact.

Everyone present was shocked by what had just occurred.

White Tiger then dragged the bloodied Ryan out of the office, just like a lifeless dog.

From another corner, Azure Dragon also dragged the person in charge of the publisher out.

Meanwhile, Ebone’s paparazzi team was hiding in a dilapidated basement.

“Ebone, we have received our money, so why are we hiding in here? We should be out drinking to celebrate!”

A few of his subordinates were starting to become restless.

“That’s right. We will be fine.”

Ebone warned them with a grim expression, “No, just to be safe, we have to stay in hiding. After all, our enemy is someone powerful.”

“Fine. We will continue to hide then since no one is going to find this place.”

Ebone couldn’t help but smile.

They made a lot of enemies due to their line of work.

If they didn’t hide properly, it would be easy for them to lose their lives.

The basement they were in was very secluded. He had used it for hiding during the last thirteen years, and no one had ever found it.

One of his subordinates protested, “Ebone, I have a feeling that something is amiss. Why don’t we hide somewhere else?”

He felt a strong sense of dread.

“Bullsh*t, no one has found this place in thirteen years. It will be no different today.”

Ebone gave him a hard slap.

Bang!

Crack!

Suddenly, the door to the basement was blasted to smithereens.

The Protector Chapter 1014

The next instant, a huge man with bulging muscles came in.

He was so tall that he had to lower his head to enter.

“W-Who are you?”

Ebone panicked as he was overwhelmed by an impending sense of danger.

Bang!

Without uttering a word, Black Tortoise sent Ebone flying with a forceful kick.

Ebone spewed blood upon impact as he felt his spine break.

...

In the end, Black Tortoise dragged Ebone and his men out and left.

All over the South, similar scenes were playing out where reporters and paparazzi were being taken away.

At Times Group in South Hampton.

Floyd put both his legs on his office desk, humming a song.

The scandal involving Zoey, which the Times Group orchestrated, netted them a profit of seven hundred million.

Furthermore, it continued to increase as time went by.

“Hahaha, in just half a day, we have made half a year’s worth of profit!” Floyd laughed heartily.

As a public relations company that thrived on scandals, all Floyd’s profits were made from exploiting the suffering of others.

Throughout his career, he had destroyed many celebrities and prominent families with his company’s underhanded methods.

“Zoey, although you are innocent, it’s a pity that you have gotten in the way of someone else,” Floyd mumbled to himself with a smile while holding Zoey’s picture.

Ding dong!

At that moment, he received an email which he opened out of curiosity.

The contents were simple. It ordered him to publish the truth about Zoey’s scandal and make a public apology to her. Otherwise, he would have to bear the consequences.

When he saw the email, Floyd was amused.

“Publish the truth? No way! Am I supposed to give up the seven to eight hundred million that I have just earned? How dare you threaten me? Hmph! It looks like I have to redouble my efforts and utterly destroy Zoey,” Floyd sneered.

In fact, he wasn’t the only one who received the email. More than fifty other media companies received it too.

However, most of their management teams shared Floyd’s attitude toward the matter.

They weren’t afraid of threats. In fact, they were outraged by it and intensified their efforts in slandering Zoey.

Very soon, all of them received another email.

It demanded them to disclose the truth and make a public apology in an hour. Or else, trouble would come knocking.

“Hahaha...” Floyd burst into laughter.

“What? Zoey can’t solve her problem? Is that why she’s resorting to threats?”

Floyd immediately published the two emails, claiming that Zoey was threatening him.

He also intensified the attacks against Zoey and stepped up the insults, further inflaming the scandal.

And just like that, he earned another hundred million.

After all, his company relied a lot on the publicity generated by scandals. The more controversial it was, the higher the profits.

Therefore, the two emails became a tool in hyping the controversy.

The other media companies followed suit by disclosing the emails.

They were all as delighted as Floyd was.

“Come and threaten me again. The more threats you make, the more I profit from them.”
Floyd laughed heartily.

Everyone else in the office were also laughing.

In fact, they were hoping to receive another email, eagerly waiting to work overtime.

Very quickly, the one hour deadline passed.

Floyd stood up with a smirk. “Didn’t you give me a deadline of one hour? Now that it has passed, what are the consequences? Didn’t you promise I would have to bear them?”

“Mr. Henderson, they’re all bark without any bite. What sort of consequences could there be?”

Everyone laughed haughtily again.

Floyd walked to the French window of his office and looked out at the cityscape from the fiftieth floor.

“Where are the consequences?” he screamed aloud.

Crack!

Suddenly, the window broke into pieces.

The Protector Chapter 1015

As Floyd stared at the broken window, he was too shocked to even react when the flying glass shards from the impact cut his face.

More than ten men swung into his office located on the fiftieth floor.

It was Kirin leading a squad of Beasts.

Floyd could barely imagine how they even entered.

We are located fifty stories high!

“You... Who are you...”

Floyd’s lips trembled while his face turned ashen.

“Do you think we sent you the emails for nothing? Why do you insist on not publishing the truth and apologizing?” Kirin sneered.

“I... I...”

When Floyd saw what had just unfolded before him, he knew his enemy was not someone to mess with.

“Didn’t we say that you have to bear the consequences?” Kirin sneered.

“What are you trying to do? You want our company to publish the truth and apologize when Zoey did all those despicable things? Why should we?”

The others were visibly upset.

“What’s going on? Are you playing dumb? You expect me to believe that you’re not aware of the truth regarding Ms. Lopez?” Kirin asked with a grim expression.

The few of them were visibly panicking as they clearly knew what the truth was.

“Of course, it’s Zoey seducing a married man and becoming his mistress,” the few of them sneered.

Bang!

Kirin didn’t reply as he sent Floyd flying with a thunderous kick.

Crack!

Floyd landed a few meters away and crashed into an office desk, breaking it. Covered in blood, he howled in pain just like a pig being slaughtered.

“What about now? Are you going to confess?” Kirin asked again.

Thump! Thump!

Everyone else dropped to their knees in front of Kirin and pleaded, “We admit our mistake! Someone wanted to malign Ms. Lopez, and we were just following orders...”

“Take them away!” Kirin’s eyes flashed with a cold glint.

Following that, the same thing happened to the other media companies.

They were all filled with arrogance before the Beasts and Amethyst Guards stormed their office. Anyone who was involved was taken away.

That night, Lyndsay and Jayden didn’t sleep as they were busy fanning the flames of Zoey’s scandal.

They wanted to destroy Zoey’s reputation completely by morning.

“Hmm? What’s going on? Why is everyone stopping?”

Lyndsay was surprised when she noticed that all the media companies were no longer publicizing the scandal.

With her suspicions raised, she quickly called her contacts but couldn’t reach any of them.

“Did something happen to them?”

Lyndsay’s heart began to race.

“Does Levi have the capability to capture them? That should be impossible as there’s no way he can find out who did it,” she remarked.

It was four o’clock.

There was a large group of men kneeling in front of Levi. All of them were involved in publicizing the scandal.

Their faces were all bruised and swollen.

Levi sneered, “Who can tell me the truth?”

All of them remained silent.

“Very well, we have a bunch of stubborn fools here.”

Levi laughed before a cruel smile appeared on his face.

Bam!

He raised his leg and sent Ebone flying with a devastating kick.

Thump!

Ebone fell onto the ground with blood gushing out of his mouth while his body twitched violently.

"I'll confess!"

"Me too!"

...

Everyone was shocked by what they saw and volunteered to spill the beans.

"Good!"

"Now that everyone is gathered, where is Damon?" Levi asked.

"He is in hiding, and we're still searching for him."

Azure Dragon and the others lowered their heads in regret.

"Go! Find him as soon as possible!" Levi roared.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1016

"I remember! There's one more place that we haven't searched," Azure Dragon suddenly exclaimed.

They had searched every corner of the city except for one—the Morris Group.

Azure Dragon hurried there immediately and found Damon as expected.

After returning to the Morris Group, he hid in the warehouse.

To him, the most dangerous place had become the safest one.

Soon, Damon was brought before Levi along with Noelle.

"You..."

"Levi, what are you planning to do? Let me tell you, it was Zoey who seduced me, so I had nothing to do with it!" Damon bluffed.

Boom!

Levi was outraged when he heard those words.

He couldn't believe that Damon had the guts to slander Zoey despite being in his presence.

"Can you drop the act?" Levi sneered as he suppressed his fury.

“Act? What act? It was Zoey who forced me to do it. She wants me to get a divorce, but I refused. After that, she threatened me with her pregnancy. Sigh... I’m a married man, so how could I agree to her request?”

Damon continued to lie through his teeth without even blinking.

Noelle added, “Levi, what’s the meaning of this? Why have you captured me? Let me go this instant, or else you will regret it! Also, why is Mr. Trudon here too? Zoey is the one at fault, so it has nothing to do with anyone else.”

Levi glared at her. “I will come to you later. Let me finish with him first.”

“Do you still refuse to confess?” Levi stared at Damon and asked.

“What are you talking about? I don’t know what you mean. I know that you’re feeling indignant about Zoey, but what I said is true. What else can I do?”

Levi raised a finger at him. “I’m giving you one more chance.”

“Even if you give me ten more chances, the result will still be the same. I have told you the truth!” Damon insisted.

Bam!

Suddenly, Levi threw a punch at Damon’s face.

Pfft!

At that very instant, blood splattered everywhere, and all of Damon’s teeth flew out of his mouth.

Before he could even let out a scream, Damon fainted right away.

“Wake him up!”

Splash!

Damon was awoken by a sudden splash of water.

He looked at Levi in horror. "Levi, no matter how you torture me, I will never obey you!"

Noelle yelled angrily, "That's right. Levi, don't think you can cow us with violence. I'm warning you, it's impossible!"

Levi looked at both of them and asked, "Do you insist on keeping your lips sealed?"

"What is there to confess? How can we say something that didn't happen? Your wife is a despicable person who seduced a married man. She is a slut, and the fact that I work for her disgusts me. An unscrupulous woman like her deserves to die!" Noelle ranted.

Damon added, "That's right. Your wife was the one who seduced me. What does it have to do with me? Let me be honest with you. I even took photos and videos of her. Hahaha..."

Levi let out a vicious smile, and his eyes were filled with murderous intent. "I have already given you your last chance. You should take a look outside."

After hearing Levi's words, Damon and Noelle walked to the door and opened it.

Whoosh!

When they saw what was outside, both of them gasped in shock while their faces turned pale.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1017

In front of them, there were a few hundred people kneeling. All of them were covered in blood.

The sight of them shook Damon and Noelle to their core.

What's going on?

"Come, let me introduce you. This is Ebone... This is Floyd..."

When they heard Levi introducing the men one by one, Damon and Noelle were astounded.

Damn it! Everyone involved in publicizing the scandal is here!

Have they all been captured too?

Who in the world is Levi to be able to do such a thing?

"All of them have confessed!" Levi declared. "How about both of you?"

Levi's aura was so intimidating that Noelle and Damon felt suffocated.

They exchanged glances and said, "W-We will come clean..."

They were now finally aware of how terrible the consequences would be if they didn't cooperate with Levi.

It would be foolish of them to bring suffering on themselves.

"That's right. We will tell you everything. Actually, we were also forced to slander Zoey."

Levi nodded. "Good... Continue."

"They paid me money and threatened me with my family so that I would help them frame Ms. Lopez. Previously, they gave me access to the hotel and got me to print the bill and receipt for Ms. Lopez to sign. It was done to give the impression that Ms. Lopez and I entered the hotel together..."

Damon and Noelle explained everything, including all the nitty-gritty details.

"Mr. Garrison, please let us go. We have told you everything!" Damon and Noelle were choked up as they pleaded.

Levi asked with a smile, "Did you record it?"

Phoenix nodded. "Mm, we have it."

Levi looked at Damon and Noelle with a devious smile. "I already gave you your last chance, but you were the ones who didn't appreciate it."

"What? What do you mean?" Damon's expression changed drastically while Noelle's face lost all color.

"No, but we told you everything..." Noelle explained.

"And I have also given you a chance." Levi smiled.

Then he left the room with Phoenix, leaving Damon and Noelle inside.

At that moment, a pack of ferocious-looking dogs charged into the room.

When they saw Noelle and Damon, their eyes glowed with excitement.

Bam!

Phoenix shut the door tightly.

Bark! Bark! Bark!

"Argh..."

The next moment, screams of anguish could be heard.

It continued for half an hour before silence took over.

Although both of them were still alive, their bodies were covered with wounds.

In fact, there were even parts of their bodies where raw flesh was bitten off.

Both of them were writhing in immense pain before passing out.

And that was their punishment.

At eight in the morning, Lyndsay was still unable to contact anyone from the major media companies.

Both she and Jayden began to panic.

“Did he really manage to find them?”

“That’s impossible. I hid all of them well. There’s no way the Morris Group is capable of locating them with their current capabilities,” Jayden replied.

“I’ve just received news that Damon has disappeared. Wasn’t he hiding securely at the Morris Group?” Lyndsay wondered.

“Look, all the media companies are announcing something,” their assistant suddenly exclaimed.

All of them suddenly saw a headline flash across their phone screens.

The truth of Zoey Lopez’s controversy—she’s innocent!

The article described everything that had actually happened.

All the major media houses published the truth and made a public apology to Zoey.

The culprits, Damon and Noelle, also admitted to their attempt at slandering Zoey.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1018

Finally, the truth was revealed, and Zoey’s name was cleared.

As justice had been served, Zoey heaved a sigh of relief.

Both the Lopez and Black families were relieved as well.

The major media companies' apologies managed to restore Zoey's reputation.

She was indeed pregnant, but the father of the child was Levi, not Damon.

Furthermore, she would be remarrying Levi soon.

Hence, the media companies also announced the date of their wedding.

Just like that, the news of them getting married spread far and wide.

From Zoey's perspective, it was a good thing.

Firstly, it helped in increasing the company's influence.

Moreover, no one else could interfere with their wedding now.

Needless to say, there were winners and losers from the outcome.

While the winners rejoiced, the losers were devastated, especially Zoey's enemies.

They didn't expect that she was capable of making such a spectacular comeback when she had already fallen into a bottomless abyss.

How did it even happen?

The ones who were most dispirited were Jayden and Lyndsay.

"Is Levi that powerful? I can't believe he managed to find Damon and the others. How was he able to do it? Didn't we shut down all avenues of communication?" Jayden wondered out loud.

“We have totally underestimated him. He has proven himself to be quite capable.”

“What do we do next? Levi would definitely have guessed that we were behind it. In fact, he must already be looking for us to exact his revenge.”

Lyndsay panicked all of a sudden as she felt that there was more to Levi than met the eye.

He wasn't just the boss of Morris Group. In fact, he must be a lot more capable than what his title suggested.

She knew that he was a vengeful person, so there was no way he was going to let her and the others go.

Jayden remained defiant. “So what? We have destroyed all the trails that connect us with Damon. Hence, Levi will not be able to find any evidence. Furthermore, we are the Pinnacle Group, so what can he do? No matter how powerful he is, is it enough to challenge the Garrison family?”

Lyndsay finally heaved a sigh of relief. “That makes sense. In the eyes of the Garrison family, he is just an insect regardless of how strong he is.”

Jayden remained calm. “That's why you should loosen up because he won't be coming. A bastard like him is no match for the Garrison family.”

Meanwhile, Levi and Kirin arrived at the entrance of Golden Plaza.

“Stop! Do you have an appointment? You're not allowed to barge in like that.”

The security guard at the entrance stopped them.

Levi Garrison smiled. “I'm here to kill someone, so there's no need for an appointment.”

“What?”

The bodyguards' eyes widened as they stared at Levi in disbelief.

How dare he come to Pinnacle Group to kill? Such impudence!

“Stop where you are! Are you looking for trouble?” the security guard yelled angrily.

“Get them!”

At Levi’s cue, Kirin leaped into action.

Charging into Golden Plaza, he slammed and pounded everyone in his way.

Behind him, Levi strolled casually past all the fallen men who were howling in pain.

“The president’s office is on the thirty-seventh floor? Attack!” Levi commanded nonchalantly.

Floor by floor, Levi and Kirin steamrolled their way up.

More than a hundred security guards from the plaza arrived to stop them but to no avail.

They ended up being strewn all over the floor, crying in anguish.

Meanwhile, in the president’s office, Jayden and Lyndsay were discussing their counterattack.

“If Levi knows what is good for him, he won’t come here looking for trouble,” Lyndsay sneered.

Bang!

Crack!

The very next moment, the office door was kicked down so hard that it broke into pieces.

The thunderous sound from the impact startled everyone.

Following that, two men entered, and one of them was Levi.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1019

It took a whole ten seconds for Jayden and Lyndsay to realize what was going on.

“You... How did you get here? L-Levi Garrison...” Lyndsay gulped anxiously.

“Where’s the security? Why is such scum allowed in here? Are all of you just for show?” Jayden called out to the security guards.

But there was no one left to heed his call.

“Oh, about the security guards, they’re all lying on the floor outside. Is there something you need?” Levi asked.

“Y-y-you...”

The devious smile on Levi’s face sent a chill down Jayden’s spine.

Levi approached them and sat down in Jayden’s chair.

“Get up! That’s my chair. How dare you sit in my place?” Jayden rebuked.

However, in the face of Levi’s terrifying gaze, Jayden quickly shut his mouth.

“Do you know why I’m here to see you?” Levi asked.

Jayden and Lyndsay both shook their heads but were unable to hide the guilt on their faces.

“Do you really not know?” Levi asked again.

"We don't!" Everyone shook their heads.

At that moment, Levi suddenly slammed Jayden's head onto the office desk.

Bang!

He then grabbed the computer and walloped Jayden's head with it.

Crack!

Blood splattered all over as glass from the computer screen splintered out.

The gruesome scene shocked everyone there.

Lyndsay and the rest shuddered in horror when they heard Jayden scream in anguish.

"Do you still not know?" Levi asked again.

"No... I know, I know..."

Before anyone else said a thing, Jayden yelled in capitulation.

"But Mr. Garrison, this has nothing to do with us," Jayden began to deny.

"Nothing to do with you? Tell me, Lyndsay, are you guys involved?" Levi demanded.

"No, I know that you suspect us, but we really didn't do it. We are Pinnacle Group which is supported by the Garrison family. Do you think we would stoop so low as to do such a thing?" Lyndsay explained.

"That's right. Given how noble our status is, committing such a despicable act is beyond us," the others added.

"Are you really not involved?" Levi asked.

"N-No!" Everyone shook their heads.

Whoosh!

Out of the blue, Levi grabbed a pen and stabbed it into Jayden's palm.

"Argh!" Jayden let out an agonizing cry, causing everyone to turn pale and break out in cold sweat.

"Are you involved?" Levi continued to interrogate.

Despite being overwhelmed with fear, Lyndsay was persistent in her denial. "No... we're not."

"Kirin, bring me the blade!" Levi extended his hand.

Kirin unsheathed a customized military blade and handed it to Levi, who then fiddled with it.

He asked Kirin, "Do you remember how many slashes I made on the enemy spy before he spilled the beans?"

Kirin pondered for a moment. "I think it was three hundred and twenty-eight. He's the most stubborn man I have ever encountered. Only after being covered with so many cuts did he confess everything."

Levi looked at Kirin and smiled. "Kirin, you may not believe what I'm going to say. My carving technique is so good that I can give a man a thousand cuts without killing him. Every cut of mine is able to avoid the vital points. However, the spy disappointed me as I was confident of reaching a thousand cuts then."

"Boss, I really have to see it with my own eyes to believe it." Kirin was filled with disbelief.

Levi turned to Lyndsay and the rest with a smile. "I'll prove it to you by demonstrating it on them with my blade. I guarantee that I can make a thousand cuts, and they will still survive."

Hearing that, Kirin replied in glee, "That's a great idea. I just can't wait!"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1020

When they heard the terrifying conversation between Levi and Kirin, Lyndsay and the others trembled in fear as their faces lost all color.

“Who’s going to be the first one? You? Let’s start with you then.”

Levi scanned the room, and his gaze finally fell upon Jayden.

Splash!

Right at that moment, Jayden peed his pants in fear.

“Please, I beg you! Let me go, and I’ll tell you everything. We were the ones responsible for everything. I was the one who maligned Ms. Lopez.”

Kneeling on the floor, Jayden owned up to everything he did.

Realizing the game was over, Lyndsay and the others followed suit by dropping to their knees and admitting their mistakes.

“We were the ones who did it. We wronged Ms. Lopez!”

Levi scoffed, “Oh? That’s not right. How can someone as noble as you commit such a despicable act?”

All of them hung their heads in shame.

"Can't all of you have a little more backbone? Just the mention of a thousand cuts made all of you waver. Moreover, I haven't even done anything yet," Levi remarked in disappointment.

In his mind, he expected them to endure probably ten to a hundred slashes.

In the end, they were all just cowards without any guts.

"In that case, what do you suggest we do about this? Your defamation has caused my wife immense mental distress, so I can't let it go just like that," Levi asked.

Lyndsay and the others exchanged glances before offering, "We will make a public apology and then compensate Ms. Lopez."

"What will you compensate her with?" Levi inquired.

"Money, of course! Give us a number. A billion or even a couple of billion will not be a problem," Lyndsay declared.

Money wasn't a problem for the wealthy Pinnacle Group.

"No, I don't want money as I'm not short of it," Levi replied.

"In that case, what do you want?" Lyndsay realized something was amiss.

"I want you to pay with your lives!" Levi's eyes flashed with murderous intent.

Thump!

When they heard his words, everyone's legs gave out in shock.

Lyndsay had a strong sense of foreboding that Levi was really going to kill them.

She stared directly at Levi. "You dare kill us?"

"Why not?"

"We are the senior management of the Pinnacle Group, and I'm sure you're aware of who owns the group. He is the heir of the Garrison clan, Tyrone Garrison. We are under his direct supervision. Furthermore, Mr. Damien Garrison is also backing us up. So how dare you lay a finger on us?" Lyndsay sneered.

Just as she spoke, everyone else suddenly realized that they were unnecessarily cowed by Levi. In truth, there was no need for them to feel afraid at all.

After all, they were members of the Pinnacle Group, which was supported by the Garrison clan of Oakland City.

Hence, they couldn't imagine who in the world would dare to harm them.

Upon realizing the fact, they gradually stood up and stopped kneeling before Levi.

Even Jayden heaved a sigh of relief. He glared at Levi and offered, "We will apologize to Zoey and compensate her financially. You can take it or leave it. Levi, you better think twice before you do anything to us. You will be challenging Mr. Damien and the whole Garrison clan."

Lyndsay sneered, "I admit that you have exceeded my expectations. But, compared to the Garrison clan, you are nothing but an insect."

"Is that's why you have decided to resolve this in such an insincere manner?" Levi asked.

"Otherwise, do you really want to go against the Garrison clan? Listen to me. You should let the matter rest. Despite how unfair you think it is, you have to bear with it." Jayden patted Levi on the shoulder.

Crack!

At that moment, Levi twisted Jayden's hand around and snapped his wrist.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1021

From Jayden's perspective, there was no way Levi would dare challenge the Garrison clan.

He thought Levi had no choice but to turn a blind eye to what they did.

For any injustice that he suffered, Levi could only accept it in silence.

However, Jayden didn't expect Levi to attack him.

Bam!

Levi sent him flying with a devastating kick.

Jayden's body slammed against the concrete wall before dropping to the ground. Blood splattered all over the wall from the impact.

After twitching for a brief moment, he lost consciousness.

"Levi, how dare you beat up Mr. Garrison's subordinate?" Lyndsay bellowed.

"Are you crazy? By doing this to Mr. Yolander, you have insulted the Garrison clan. Do you have a death wish?" the others yelled at Levi.

They attempted to bring the powerful Garrison clan into the matter so that they could intimidate Levi.

"Humiliating the Garrison clan is precisely what I'm looking to do."

Without saying another word, Levi slapped Lyndsay back and forth, causing everyone to fall silent.

“Levi, aren’t you afraid that the Garrison clan would exact revenge? Know your place. In the eyes of the Garrison family, you’re just a bastard,” Lyndsay yelled.

Slap!

All she got for a reply was another slap.

The slap was so forceful that a wound opened up, exposing her flesh. Consequently, her face began to look mutilated.

At that moment, Zoey called and asked Levi where he was.

After he ended the call, he sneered, “Count yourselves lucky that I let you live. However, all of you must give something up in exchange.”

“What?” Lyndsay and the others panicked.

“At least leave behind a hand or some fingers, or else death is what awaits you.”

“Do it yourselves.” Levi threw his knife to them.

After a momentary hesitation, Lyndsay picked up the blade and swung it hard at her own hand...

“Argh!”

She let out an agonizing scream, just like a pig who was being slaughtered.

Everyone else had no choice but to follow suit by mutilating themselves with the knife.

Excruciating screams reverberated through the room while the air was filled with the stench of blood.

“Levi, you will regret this! From today onwards, the Garrison clan will not rest until they have destroyed you. You are a dead man walking!” Lyndsay yelled.

“Hmm, but you won’t live long enough to see it. Make a public apology now!” Levi bellowed.

Finally, under Levi’s coercion, Lyndsay and the others apologized and revealed the truth on the internet.

After that, Jayden and Lyndsay were ostracized by the whole media industry to the extent that their reputations were utterly destroyed.

Going forward, they had to be careful wherever they went. In the event they were recognized, they would definitely be beaten up.

After Levi left, all of them were still crying in anguish. However, more than pain, they were all filled with hatred.

It was as if Levi had banished them from heaven and sent them straight to hell.

Their whole lives were ruined.

Not long after Levi left, Damien called them.

“What’s going on? Why did you apologize on the internet?” Damien demanded coldly.

“Mr. Garrison, you have to listen to us. It’s all Levi’s fault. He was the one who did this,” Jayden ranted in a choked voice.

Lyndsay related the matter to Damien and added fuel to the fire by exaggerating it.

“D*mn it, just you wait, Levi! I will personally deal with you. I will show the Garrison family and the whole world that I’m more powerful than a bastard like you. Beyond that, I’ll let Father know that his decision to abandon you was correct!”

Damien’s voice was frosty and carried with it a murderous intent.

“Excellent!” Lyndsay and the others were filled with tears of joy.

“As for you bunch of scum, it’s the end of you, so don’t force me to do it myself.”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1022

Meanwhile, Levi received news that Lyndsay and her companions disappeared after the apology. Sometime later, their bodies were found in a river.

Levi didn't even need to guess who did it.

The Garrison clan was so ruthless that they would not allow anyone to escape.

"Very well, I will take them down one day."

Levi's eyes were filled with resolve.

After having her name cleared, Zoey returned to the company. She reshuffled the top management, and everything else went back to normal.

The only difference now was that everyone knew about the date of her wedding with Levi.

Both she and Levi were busy preparing for it.

In fact, many of her old classmates called to congratulate her, including those she met when she was studying overseas.

Coincidentally, Zoey needed bridesmaids. However, given her age, most of her friends were already married with kids.

So far, Iris was her only bridesmaid. Therefore, Zoey had to choose a few more from among the friends she got to know abroad.

As for the best men, Zoey let Levi decide for himself.

It was a difficult choice for Levi to make as he was spoiled for choice.

Smiling, he fell into silence while his thoughts drifted back to their wedding day six years ago.

His best man then was Morris...

Sadly, he was no longer around.

Levi let out a long sigh.

The other two best men were Mateo and Jason.

Mateo, Morris, and he were best buddies since they were in school.

However, Mateo was the least capable among them as he had a reckless demeanor.

Jason was both a mentor and a friend to Levi.

Since he was a few years older than Levi, he helped him out a lot.

Based on Phoenix's investigations, Mateo and Jason tried their best to bail him out when he was sent to prison, but they didn't succeed.

However, Jason managed to get Levi's sentence reduced by two years from the original eight-year sentence.

After that, both of them disappeared, and no one knew where they went.

"I want them to be present at such an important event."

Six years ago, he didn't have many good friends. Those were the only three, but it was more than enough.

Levi immediately sent his men to look for both of them.

Soon, Phoenix had some updates on Jason.

She found out that he was a member of the illustrious Lowe family of Oakland City. He had spent a few years training in the Southern region.

When Levi was imprisoned, Jason returned home.

“Good, give me his contact.”

Filled with anticipation, Levi called Jason.

“Hello, who is this?” The voice on the opposite end of the line sounded surprised.

“Jason, it’s me. Levi Garrison!”

“What? Levi?” Jason’s tone was one of delight.

Levi laughed. “Jason, I didn’t expect you to be a member of one of Oakland City’s prominent families! At that time, I still thought you were from a poor family.”

“Oakland City... I...”

At the mention of Oakland City, Jason’s tone changed.

Recently, he had heard that Levi was the illegitimate son of the Garrison clan.

Furthermore, he was aware that they wanted to annihilate Levi, the bastard son.

Hence, he was worried that the Garrison clan would take action against the Lowe family if they found out about his relationship with Levi.

Especially since he heard that Damien himself wanted to deal with the matter personally.

Damien was known to be extremely ruthless.

Therefore, if he found out that Jason used to be Levi’s best friend, the Lowe family would be wiped out.

“Levi, what’s up?”

“Jason, I’m going to hold my wedding again and would like to invite you. You must attend!”

Jason hesitated for a moment. “Levi, I’m afraid I might not be able to make it...”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1023

Jason didn’t dare attend Levi’s wedding.

Recently, he was feeling anxious about his relationship with Levi as Damien was persecuting everyone who was connected to him.

Although Jason was based in Oakland City, he had been best friends with Levi for some time.

Hence, there was no way Damien was going to let him go.

Even hiding would not do him any good.

Therefore, attending Levi’s wedding was the last thing he dared to do as that would reveal his connection with Levi.

What if the Garrison clan comes to destroy the Lowe family?

All he could do was pray that the Garrison clan didn’t find out.

Consequently, he was unable to attend the wedding despite being best friends with Levi.

Considering the threat the Garrison clan posed to the survival of his family, he had no choice but to abandon his friendship with Levi.

The last thing he wanted was to see his family being annihilated.

"Why?" Levi was puzzled.

"Oh, Levi. I have long found out about your identity. You're related to the Garrison clan of Oakland City! That's why it's fated that I'm unable to attend your wedding."

"But I have always treated you as my best friend! We're friends for life!"

"Nevertheless, I still can't attend your wedding. If the Garrison clan finds out that we are connected, they will target my family. I just want my parents to live out their years in peace and prevent the annihilation of my family. Please understand my predicament. This is the end of our friendship. Perhaps we will have better luck in the next life."

Jason had chosen his family over his best friend.

"Jason, so you are just afraid that the Garrison clan will take revenge on your family. Don't worry. As long as I'm around, you don't have to fear them. Just come to my wedding. You don't have to be afraid of them at all. I'll take care of everything. Whoever dares to trouble you will feel my wrath, including the Garrison clan."

Levi quickly understood why Jason declined his invitation.

Why is Jason so afraid of Damien? With me around, even Tyrone can't do anything, let alone Damien.

"I can't, my friend. I just can't bet my life on this. Recently, Damian has been keeping tabs on me. That ruthless man is also looking for you, so you have to be more careful and go into hiding. If he finds you, you're dead meat!"

After offering his advice, Jason ended the call.

Levi felt depressed listening to the monotonous dial tone.

Since Jason was unwilling to accept his invitation, there was no point in forcing him.

He respected Jason's decision. After all, choosing to protect his family was the right decision.

The Garrison clan? How could they frighten the Lowe family to this extent?

However, their fear was understandable as the Garrison clan was the Head of Erudia, the first among the ancient families.

No one dared to offend them.

Phoenix, who was beside Levi, informed him, "Boss, Damien has declared that anyone who has anything to do with you will be persecuted. He probably plans to destroy everyone related to you."

"No wonder Jason was quaking in his boots. It's all Damien's fault."

Levi's eyes flashed with anger.

Damien is indeed relentless in his effort to destroy me, to the extent of hurting everyone connected to me. Damien, your ruthlessness will be the death of you!

Levi didn't even think of the Garrison clan as a threat, let alone someone like Damien.

"Phoenix, get me Damien's contact. I want to talk to him."

In no time, Phoenix found it.

When the call got through, Levi heard Damien's voice over the phone. "Hello, who is this?"

"It's Levi Garrison!"

After Levi announced his identity, the line fell silent. All that could be heard was heavy breathing.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1024

After a long silence, the voice spoke, "Y-You dare contact me?"

Levi laughed. "Why not?"

Does he really think he's some bigshot? D*mn it, even your grandfather doesn't have the guts to talk to me like that.

"Hahaha... Never in my wildest dreams did I expect you to call me."

Damien's laughter was heard over the line.

"What is it? Are you trying to beg for mercy? Have you realized the folly of your actions? Are you finally aware that the Garrison clan can't be challenged? I can accept your pleas, but you have to kneel before me! Hahaha..." Damien asked.

"Plead for mercy? You should be the one pleading," Levi sneered.

"If not that, why are you even calling?" It was obvious from Damien's tone that he was puzzled.

"I heard that you wanted to persecute everyone connected to me?" Levi asked.

"That's right. Anyone related to you will be disposed of. I found out that Jason Lowe of Oakland City was one of your best friends. He will be the first to suffer my wrath. What do you think?" Damien let out a maniacal laugh.

"How dare you!" Levi bellowed.

“What is there to stop me? And yet you still want to invite him to your wedding? It’s never going to happen. With me around, no one will dare to attend your wedding,” Damien scoffed.

Levi’s grin widened. “Fine, you should sit tight and wait. He will definitely be at my wedding. Furthermore, if you dare to touch anyone related to me, I will definitely kill you. Mark my words!”

“Hahaha...”

Damien didn’t take Levi’s warning seriously at all.

“Is there anyone in this world who dares threaten me? I guess you are the first one in Erudia,” Damien sneered.

He was the prince of the Garrison clan of Oakland City, while his father was the heir to the foremost ancient family in Erudia.

Apart from that, his mother was from the second most powerful ancient family in Erudia—the Garcias.

Therefore, the blood that flowed in his veins was as noble as it could possibly be.

He was the result of the combination of genes from the first and second most powerful ancient families.

Ever since he was young, he was pampered and received a lot of attention. Whatever he wanted was given to him unconditionally.

Besides his prominent background, his strong capability was another reason he was so famous in Oakland City.

There was no one in this world who could threaten him as he represented the two strongest ancient families in Erudia.

Within Erudia, only he had such an illustrious background.

Therefore, no one dared to offend him.

“Levi, how dare a bastard like you challenge me? Ask yourself if you are even qualified to do so. What right do you have? My mother is the darling of the second most powerful ancient family in Erudia, and her blood is the noblest of them all. Only she deserves to marry Father and join the Garrison clan.”

He continued, “Your mother is a lowborn and doesn’t deserve to marry into the Garrison clan. In fact, she doesn’t even deserve to be Father’s mistress! Even when we compare capabilities, you are just the boss of Morris Group, and yet you’re acting with such impunity? I’m more powerful than you by a thousand times! I can destroy the Morris Group with a flick of my finger.”

“So how dare a bastard like you come and challenge me? I will prove on behalf of my father that abandoning you then was the right decision. Noble blood is always stronger than that of any lowborn. I am practically royalty, while you are just a nobody. You will always have to worship my existence!” Damien bellowed like a maniac.

“Fine, fine, I get it. Just show me what you got. I want to see for myself how much the Garrison clan’s noble blood is worth,” Levi replied with a laugh.

He was looking forward to seeing how capable Damien was after all that talk. In fact, he wanted to verify if Damien was really a thousand times more powerful than he was.

“Very well. Just you wait, Levi. You will be groveling at my feet soon enough!”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1025

After Levi ended the call, White Tiger’s expression turned grim. He requested, “Boss, let me head to Oakland City and kill that annoying ass.”

Levi looked at White Tiger intently.

In terms of strength, White Tiger would have no problem killing Damien in his home. In fact, he might even do so unscathed.

However, as it was a matter related to the Garrison clan, Levi felt it was more appropriate for him to defeat Damien personally so that he could prove himself to both Damien and the whole Garrison clan.

He wanted to show them that the 'bastard' was in fact a thousand times more powerful than those of noble blood.

Furthermore, he wanted them to regret their decision to abandon him.

He wanted to see Tyrone grovel on the floor in remorse.

In fact, the whole Garrison clan should be equally repentant.

They should learn that even ordinary people can create miracles.

"By the way, Damien will move against the Lowe family. He just used them to threaten me, so he's definitely going to do it," Levi remarked.

"What should we do then?" everyone asked.

"Phoenix, can you check if we have anyone near Oakland City?" Levi ordered.

Within these six years, Levi had trained up many elite military squads.

Despite their small numbers, every one of them was formidable and had impressive combat abilities.

"Boss, the Dragon Warriors are in Oakland City."

Phoenix found the relevant squad in a short time.

“Alright, order the Dragon Warriors to protect the Lowe family from the shadows. Make sure they don’t make any mistakes,” Levi instructed.

After Phoenix gave the order, she reported, “Sir, we didn’t expect that among the Dragon Warriors, one of them is a member of the Garrison clan of Oakland City.”

Levi laughed when he heard it.

That soldier was likely the pride of the Garrison clan and yet was just one of Levi’s many subordinates.

At the Lowe residence in Oakland City, Erudia.

Jason was kneeling in the meeting hall while the elders of the Lowe family were admonishing him.

“Look at what you have done! Why did you make friends with a bastard!”

“Do you know you are the death of our family? Damien has ordered his men to come for us, and they are arriving anytime soon.”

“The Lowe family earned the right to be an ancient family through their achievements in the army. A few years ago, we even received the Paragon Seal. However, not only did you not continue the family’s legacy, but you also caused the family’s downfall.”

Everyone in the Lowe family lamented their impending fate.

The Paragon Seal was made to commemorate the victory of the God of War over the Eighteen-Nation Alliance. It was then awarded to all the military families that distinguished themselves in battle.

The Lowe family received one, and it was the pride of the entire family.

“What’s the use of having a Paragon Seal when our family has someone like you? We are going to be wiped out anyway. Why did you make friends with a bastard like that?” everyone in the Lowe family cursed.

Jason was devastated by the angst he was getting.

The Lowe family was considered an obscure family by Oakland City's standards.

Compared to the top ancient family, they were no different from insects.

Very soon, a convoy of cars stopped at the entrance to the Lowe residence.

An undeniably handsome man alighted, but he had a vicious expression on.

Behind him were hundreds of formidable fighters, and a few hundred more were in hiding just to ensure his security.

Other than that, every street nearby was filled with their convoys which could arrive in five minutes whenever they were needed.

Furthermore, there were tens of helicopters circling in the sky which could land in just a minute.

Only one man could mobilize such an impressive display of force—Damien Garrison.

However, he was there to annihilate the Lowe family.

He was the favorite son of the two most powerful ancient families in Erudia.

As no one wanted any harm to come to him, the security around him was impregnable, to the extent that there were men beside him whose sole purpose was to sacrifice their lives to save him at the crucial moment.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1026

Damien Garrison adjusted his gold-rimmed glasses. The air was oozing with his natural-born aura of nobility.

In his world, there were only two types of people— the ones who were close to him and the lowly peasants.

Other than the Garrison family and the Garcia family, everyone else was equivalent to peasants in his eyes.

“Levi Garrison! Didn’t you say that you wanted to protect the Lowe family? So why would you ask Jason Lowe to attend your wedding! I’ll burn every single member of the Lowe family into ashes today! I’ll break the limbs of Jason Lowe! Let’s see if he will still be able to attend your wedding!”

Damien was a man of his word. He had said that he would start his massacre with Jason, and here he was.

Boom!

As Damien waved his hand leisurely, his men immediately pushed down the gate to the Lowe residence. Troops consisting of hundreds of soldiers promptly marched their way into the house in an orderly manner.

Upon seeing Damien’s army, the members of the Lowe family immediately fell to their knees. They didn’t dare oppose his wishes.

Jason’s father, Yosef Lowe, pleaded with Damien, “Mr. Garrison! Please... please give us a chance... My son was ignorant! Please forgive us!”

“Have mercy on us, Mr. Garrison! We’re willing to give you everything! As long as you spare our lives, all the assets of the Lowe family can be yours! Take all the money as well!”

The entire Lowe family pleaded in unison.

They were going all out in order to salvage their family.

“Haha! What makes you think that I care about a puny family like yours? Do you think I lack that bit of money that your family is worth? Are you looking down on me?” Damien scoffed.

The Lowes were terrified.

It was a fact that Damien had everything that he wanted.

There was literally nothing he was in need of!

“The only reason I am here today is to annihilate the entire Lowe Family! It’s your fault for having relations with that bastard Levi! I’ve said before that I would wipe out every single person who had anything to do with Levi Garrison!”

Damien flashed a twisted smile.

“Mr. Garrison! I was wrong! I shouldn’t have interacted with him! Please let my family go!”

Jason begged in despair.

“Go to Levi Garrison and call him a bastard a hundred times to his face. If you do that, I’ll let you off!”

Damien smiled in amusement.

“I-I can’t...”

Jason gave up.

“Well, if you can’t, then you might as well just die!”

A wall of men unsheathed their blades and charged toward the Lowe family with the wave of Damien's hand.

The Lowe family was about to be annihilated.

"Stop right there! Don't you dare touch the Lowe family!"

A shout of demand sounded from behind them at the very last moment.

Clash!

Clash!

...

A sea of warriors in black charged their way down from the roof and the walls surrounding the Lowe residence.

There was a magnificent dragon stitched onto the black battle suit of those warriors.

They all had a bulletproof mask shielding their faces.

"Huh? Aren't they the Dragon Warriors who are under the direct command of the God of War? What are they doing here?"

Damien was very familiar with the God of War's troops.

It was his ultimate goal to be the God of War, after all.

He remembered what Kenny and Tyrone told him after the God of War came into existence.

You have to become the God of War. This is a goal you have to work toward!

Damien, you may be superior to your peers, but compared to the God of War, your achievements are far from enough.

It's like your accomplishments are a joke.

From then on, Damien set his goal to be the God of War.

The only thing he thought about every day was how to minimize the difference between him and the God of War.

To surpass someone, one must first understand everything about him.

That was why Damien was so familiar with everything remotely related to the God of War.

“I am Damien, a direct descendent of the Garrison family. With all due respect, Dragon Warriors, why have you come here today?” Damien queried.

“Damien Garrison, leave immediately! The Lowe family is not to be at your disposal!”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1027

A demanding voice sounded.

“Hm? Is that you, Lincon?”

Damien recognized that voice. It belonged to his cousin, Lincon Garrison.

He was the son of Damien’s uncle, who was Tyrone’s eldest brother.

As a member of the Dragon Warriors, he was not only the pride of Damien’s uncle but also the whole Garrison family.

Having a member who attained the prestige of being a trusted subordinate of the God of War was a great honor for any family, no matter how formidable that family may be.

"I understand, Lincon. I'll leave right now!"

Although Damien may have a prominent status, it was not within his ability to start a conflict with the direct subordinate of the God of War.

Therefore, he promptly retreated with all his men.

He was curious, though.

How did the Lowe family have anything to do with the God of War's Dragon Warriors?

Even Jason was bewildered by the turn of events.

What's going on?

Why are the Dragon Warriors here?

Even Damien was intimidated by their presence, so much that he abruptly abandoned his plan altogether.

Could it be Levi?

Levi had told Jason that he'd do everything in his power to protect the Lowe family and that there wasn't a single person in the Garrison family who could make his determination waver.

Could this be his doing?

Damien had the exact same thoughts as Jason.

It wasn't that long ago when he and Levi talked on the phone.

During their call, Levi had issued him a warning.

Besides that, Damien was also told that he wouldn't be able to do anything to the Lowe family.

I can't believe the Dagon Warriors came.

Could it be that Levi is the God of War?

That thought sent a chill down Damien's spine.

How could that be possible?

If the God of War really were Levi, there would be consequences that he wouldn't even dare think about.

Damien was unable to imagine the repercussions. More importantly, he wouldn't be able to take the blow to his pride.

It can't be true!

Erudia had over five thousand years of history, but there was only one man who became the God of War in his twenties!

He was the only one who had obtained that title, which signified the highest level of military prestige!

Every era of Erudia's existence produced countless outstanding talents.

But there was only one God of War who was able to clinch such prominent status in his mere twenties.

Not only was this person immensely capable, but he also had the honor of being recognized as the God of War during the prosperous era of the country.

Damien recalled what the Garrison family's seniors remarked about the God of War. Erudia must have used up thousands of years' worth of prosperity in exchange for such a great God of War.

This person is beyond extraordinary!

He was definitely of the noblest bloodline in Erudia and bore the prosperity of Erudia over thousands of years.

Even the direct descendants of Erudia's ancient families couldn't have obtained such high status, much less a bastard.

How would he ever be worthy of such a title?

It is simply impossible!

There is no way that a bastard from a filthy bloodline like Levi Garrison has anything to do with the God of War!

But why did the Dragon Warriors come forth to defend the Lowe family?

Damien didn't leave as he was waiting for Lincon.

It didn't take long for Lincon to join him as he slipped into the shadows.

"Lincon!"

Damien greeted him respectfully.

Even if Lincon had nothing on him in terms of ability, attaining the title of a Dragon Warrior was enough for the former to intimidate him.

"Damien, you aren't allowed to touch the Lowe family from now on!"

Lincon told him.

Damien nodded. "I understand!"

Following this, his tone changed immediately. "Lincon, what background does this Lowe family have? Why did the Dragon Warriors come forth and protect them?"

"I'm not sure. We were just following the orders given. But I do know that the Lowe family used to be an ancient family with a military background. They were even awarded the Paragon Seal. It probably has something to do with that," Lincon explained.

"Oh, I see!" Damien replied.

The Lowe family attained the Paragon Seal?

Damien knew that after the battle with the Eighteen-Nation Alliance years ago, the country had specially crafted Paragon Seals to reward those families that made contributions. Ten of those seals were awarded to the Garrison family.

The Garrison Family had always been proud of this achievement.

They were the family that had been awarded the most number of Paragon Seals in all of Erudia, after all.

Never would Damien have imagined that the Lowe family owned one too!

That thing was equivalent to an amulet.

With that seal in hand, it only made sense that they had the protection of the Dragon Warriors.

Lincon Garrison didn't linger around and left promptly.

Meanwhile, the Lowe family was shocked, to say the least, as they had thought that they were done for today.

Who would have expected the God of War's personal army to show up all of a sudden?

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1028

"Mr. Lowe, our leader told us that no one from the Garrison family would mess with you again, so you don't have to live in fear of them anymore!"

The Dragon Warriors left upon conveying the message.

Shortly after that, the Lowe Family came to their senses.

“Could it be the Paragon Seal? After all, there weren’t many who had the honor of receiving the seal! No wonder the Dragon Warriors came down to protect us!”

Jason was beaming with glee.

No one would mess with us?

That means I can go to Levi’s wedding!

It’s not like Damien could make things difficult for me after what happened earlier.

At that thought, Jason immediately phoned Levi to confirm that he would be attending his wedding.

A smile formed on Levi’s face when he heard the news from Jason.

“That’s right! How could a mere Damien try and stop my friend from attending my wedding? Hoho, he’s so naive!”

Levi laughed.

Who’s capable of harming the people I care about?

Back in Oakland City, Damien sat in misery.

He had planned to give Levi a warning by massacring the Lowe family.

Who would have expected them to possess a Paragon Seal?

Even the Dragon Warriors came down personally to protect them.

Their luck was a little too good to be true, wasn’t it?

Damien’s eyes glimmered with murderous intent. “How is it possible that everyone close to Levi is so lucky? You’d better watch out, Levi! I’ll get back at you!” he growled in rage.

Even up until then, he still refused to believe in his own speculation.

Could it be that every single person related to Levi Garrison has the Paragon Seal?

It's not like all of them can have the God of War's protection, right?

The wedding date was approaching.

Levi had sent out many wedding invitations.

Although it was a remarriage, he was treating this wedding as his first one, and it was the same for Zoey.

The bridesmaids whom she had invited were already here.

Since they came all the way from overseas, Zoey demanded that Levi tag along to fetch them from the airport.

At North Hampton International Airport, two women were alighting from a plane that just landed.

They were clad in luxurious branded goods from head to toe and carried an air of arrogance.

The haughty women deliberately hinted at their noble status with their actions.

It was as if they desperately wanted everyone to know that they came from abroad.

It was obvious that Zoey's best friends had been influenced by the culture and practices of the countries that they were living in.

As a result, they had gotten used to thinking highly of themselves.

They probably despised everyone in Erudia and thought of them as peasants.

Levi could feel their disdain from the way they were scrutinizing him.

"Zoey! We initially weren't planning on attending your wedding!" Zara Hilton and Yvette Carnell told her.

Zoey's happy expression faded away immediately. "Huh? Why not?"

"I'm telling you, Zoey, you're the prettiest among the three of us, but your taste in men is terrible! We disapprove of your husband! We thought that you had married someone else, but it turned out to be the same person!"

Zara scoffed coldly.

Yvette gave a helpless look. "Zoey, you were exposed to the foreign culture too when you studied there. With the kind of status you have, it only makes sense for you to have high standards when you're choosing a man to marry! Why would you pick him?"

"It seems like this country sucks. If Zoey had stayed overseas, her standards definitely wouldn't be as low as this!" Zara commented.

Yvette immediately chimed in, "Yeah! That's right. This country's conditions are toxic. It's so much better to be overseas. There's no way Zoey would have chosen this guy if she had stayed abroad. Instead, she would have picked someone much more competent! Definitely not this joke of a guy!"

Yvette ended her speech with a glare at Levi.

These words made Levi upset to say the least.

His voice was cold as he spoke. "Excuse me, are you two still Erudian? All you talk about is how good the other countries are. However, I highly doubt it."

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1029

Levi couldn't stand xenophiles.

They were living in Erudia, the most secured and prosperous place in the world.

Yet, all they did was complain about it.

In their eyes, as long as something was from a foreign country, it was better than that of Erudia.

Even the air overseas smelled sweeter and the moon over there was brighter.

Those people who had lived abroad always felt a sense of superiority over Erudians, as if the latter were peasants.

Wasn't this exactly the case for Zoey's two friends?

It was then Zara and Yvette's turn to get upset after hearing Levi's chastise.

"It is much better to live overseas. That's the harsh truth! Do you foolish people seriously think that Erudia is the best place in the world? Let me tell you, Erudia is worthless compared to other countries!"

"You're asking if I'm Erudian? Well, I don't want to be one anymore! I've been working on getting an immigration permit. The moment the permit is approved, I'll immigrate immediately! Why would anyone want to be Erudian? Staying abroad is amazing!"

Zara and Yvette retorted disdainfully.

It was their instinct to reject everything that was Erudian.

From the moment they got off the plane, even the air seemed contaminated to them.

If not for Zoey's current status, there was no way she could have convinced them to come back and be her bridesmaids.

They looked at her and said, "Zoey, why don't you immigrate too? With your wealth, it'll be blissful to live overseas!"

"Yeah! Everything abroad is so much better compared to Erudia! Hurry up and immigrate! The moment you obtain overseas citizenship, you'll get great opportunities everywhere you go!"

However, Zoey rebuked, "I was born and raised in Erudia. There is no way that I'll immigrate anywhere else. I've only gone overseas for the sake of broadening my horizons."

Zoey strongly disagreed with the views of her friends.

But since she was the one who had requested them to be her bridesmaids, she couldn't be too blunt.

"Sigh... Zoey, that's such a pity! It'll be a waste for a genius like you to remain in Erudia!" both of them lamented.

Zara and Yvette were only two out of countless people who shared the same opinion.

Unfortunately, it wasn't uncommon to find xenophiles among the younger generation nowadays, and they fought tooth and nail for an immigration permit.

In their opinion, everything foreign were better.

Levi sneered, "You two had better give up on that thought. There's no way my wife would want to immigrate! Not only is Erudia a prosperous country, but it also has a rich history dating back thousands of years. It's perfect! Why would anyone be envious of those staying abroad! Haha!"

"Haha! What's so good about Erudia? Look at Zoey! She must have gotten used to the old-fashioned way of living here! That's why she chose you to be her husband! This would never have happened if Zoey went overseas! She definitely would have chosen a husband a hundred times better than you! How good can life even get here?" Zara mocked.

Zoey made an effort to stop their bantering. "Alright! All that matters is that we're compatible with each other!"

Zara shot a last glare at Levi before she shut her mouth.

"Zoey, have you chosen the groomsmen? I've heard that Erudian groomsmen have a terrible practice of bullying the bridesmaids at the wedding!" Yvette asked.

"Yeah! I've seen so many videos of groomsmen harassing bridesmaids at Erudian weddings! Everyone overseas thought that all Erudians acted this way. It's so embarrassing for us!"

Zara frowned as she queried.

Zoey smiled. "Levi has already chosen the groomsmen! Don't worry. They're all morally upright and gentlemanly. There is no way such a situation will happen at our wedding!"

"He was the one who chose the groomsmen?"

Zara and Yvette cast their looks of doubt at Levi.

"Won't they be like him then? In fact, they could be worse than him! I can't stand Erudian men. They're inferior to foreign guys!"

"That won't do. We want to be the ones to choose the groomsmen!"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1030

Zara and Yvette stood firm on their request. "Zoey, let us choose the groomsmen! Your wedding this time has such a huge eminence. There are surely innumerable crowds who would pay close attention to it, so there is a need to ensure that the wedding is held with great splendor. Let's hire a few foreign models to be the groomsmen!"

"That's right! Only models from overseas will be worthy of standing next to bridesmaids like us!"

...

The two of them launched into a heated discussion.

If this went on, they might even end up finding a new husband for Zoey.

"Let you two choose my groomsmen? Impossible! I'll much rather give up you two as the bridesmaids than allow you to choose my groomsmen! And there is no way I'll accept foreigners!"

Levi was firm in his decision.

Zoey watched as her husband and her friends tore at each other's throats.

She immediately stepped forward to coax Zara and Yvette.

"Fine. We can give up the choosing of the groomsmen. But Garrison, you'd better let us vet those groomsmen you've chosen. They can only attend the wedding with our approval," Zara conceded.

"Yeah! Even if we don't consider whether they're qualified for the role, we must at least vet them! Who knows if he has chosen any Tom, Dick, and Harry to the wedding!" Yvette added.

Zoey sighed helplessly. "Levi, could you please get the groomsmen to meet up with us?"

"Alright, I'll arrange that."

Levi's groomsmen consisted of four members of the Five Great Wars Regiment, including Azure Dragon and Kirin. The last member of the regiment, Phoenix, was to be one of the bridesmaids.

"Zoey, where have you arranged for us to stay?" Zara questioned.

"In a five star hotel!" Came the reply from Zoey.

"Is it owned by a foreign company?" Yvette asked.

Zoey shook her head. "Nope. It's a local company, but they've been rated five stars."

"That won't do! We're so used to living overseas. If we aren't staying in a foreign-owned hotel or a foreign-styled manor, we'll feel uncomfortable!"

"Yeah! The style is so different! It'll affect our stay greatly!"

Zara and Yvette complained.

These drama queens!

Now they're going overboard!

Is there even a need to be so picky?

"Alright, alright. I'll arrange for you to stay in a foreign-owned hotel! I'll make sure the manager and staff are all foreigners. How does that sound?"

Zoey didn't want to spoil the mood over such petty things, so she could only give in to their requests.

"Hmph, that's more like it!"

Zara and Yvette finally relented.

At night, Zara and Yvette whined about how they couldn't get used to local cuisine and insisted on dining in a western diner.

The two ladies were satisfied with their meal at the western diner, and they could not shut up about how good western food was.

In their eyes, western cuisine was high-class and fine, whereas local dishes were appalling.

After a while, Azure Dragon brought his team of five from the regiment over to the western diner.

Zoey was extremely pleased to see them.

Even though she didn't know what they did for a living, she appreciated the way they treated her courteously.

"Levi, why don't you do the introductions?"

Without delay, Levi introduced Azure Dragon and his crew to the two girls.

"Hold up. This person over here is supposed to be one of the bridesmaids too? Seriously? With this kind of dowdy look, she looks like a tomboy! How can she be a bridesmaid and stand next to us!"

The moment they heard that Phoenix was one of the bridesmaids, Zara and Yvette's faces paled.

It took a long time for them to accept that Iris was going to be a bridesmaid.

But they couldn't accept Phoenix's aloofness and tomboyish style.

Phoenix was actually a woman of stunning beauty. In fact, she was much prettier than the two ladies who were sitting there judging her looks.

Having been in the army for a long time, Phoenix was a virago who was as competent as men on the battlefield.

However, she was different from most women in terms of demeanor and appearance, looking slightly manly.

"Zoey, I thought you would choose a stunning woman to be your last bridesmaid. I mean, I don't expect her to be outstanding like us, but at least she's got to be better than this!"

“How is she even qualified to be a bridesmaid?”

The two of them couldn't even be bothered to cover up the mockery in their voices.

Bang!

Phoenix slammed a fist onto the table.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1031

Clang!

Following that, she grabbed a dinner knife and stabbed it right into the center of the table.

“Why do the two of you have so much bullsh*t coming out of your mouths? And who the hell are you calling a tomboy?”

Phoenix questioned them coldly.

Even her enemies couldn't make her shed a single tear on the battlefield.

What made these ladies think that they could bully her?

Phoenix fiddled with the dinner knife.

The threat was clear. She could send the knife flying straight through the necks of Zara and Yvette at any second.

Zara and Yvette were frightened stiff.

They exchanged a helpless look and laughed weakly. “I mean, we think you're really great too! We're so happy to have you join us!”

They were powerless against Phoenix, so they chose to keep their mouths shut.

The two of them only had the guts to bully those weaker than them, after all.

The nicer Zoey was to them, the more they took advantage of her.

But when faced with violence like the kind Phoenix had just demonstrated, they would chicken out immediately.

Zoey valued her friendships greatly. Since she was the one who asked them to be her bridesmaids, she had no choice but to put up with their bullying.

In fact, Zoey had a domineering side to her too. If it were not for her tolerance, she would have sent them packing for home already.

“Well, anyway, we will need to find a new group of groomsmen! This batch won’t do!”

Seeing that they couldn’t boss Phoenix around, Zara immediately turned to target the remaining four men.

Yvette nodded in concurrence. “That’s right. These groomsmen are horrendous! Look at the four of them. Their fashion sense is outdated. Their complexions are too dark, and some of them are bulky like bulls! Oh, this is terrible! They’ll seem so out of place next to bridesmaids like us!”

It was probably because Azure Dragon and the other three guys were all in plain clothing, not to mention the standard and boring military buzz cut they all had.

The whole look made them seem trigger-ready and unapproachable.

Zara and Yvette definitely wouldn’t make do with them.

“Zoey, you’ve got to listen to us. Get a few international models. They don’t even have to do anything else besides standing there, but they’ll make your wedding look much more prestigious,” Yvette suggested.

“Exactly! Your wedding’s got to be the best. Zoey, take a good look at these groomsmen! How are you supposed to work with them?”

Zara scoffed in disgust.

Zoey laughed awkwardly. "I think they're great. All of them are Levi's best friends. He treats them like his brothers! It's just within expectations for him to invite them to be his groomsmen!"

Zara and Yvette scowled. "No way! They can't be the groomsmen! We refuse to accept them!"

"Their expressions aren't even right! I seriously suspect that they're up to something! They won't be fit to stand next to us!"

Upon hearing their remarks, Azure Dragon and his men were furious.

These b*tches seriously need some disciplining.

They'll shut up the moment we land a few slaps on them.

Too bad they are Zoey's friends.

For that reason, they didn't dare speak their mind, despite being furious.

All they could do was to swallow their anger and remain silent.

Iris sighed next to them. "Do us all a favor, and make do with them, will you? We're just choosing the groomsmen, so don't put too much thought into it!"

However, Zara scoffed and turned to Zoey. "Zoey, we're fine with letting you choose the groomsmen, but you've got to choose some whom we're comfortable with! If you insist on having them as the groomsmen, then the two of us will refuse to be your bridesmaids!"

Yvette nodded along. "Yeah! If you insist on choosing them, then you can't have us! Find some other girls to be your bridesmaids! Hmph!"

Zoey quickly jumped into the conversation to mediate the situation. "Come on. Don't be like this! Let's all calm down and talk this through, alright?"

Zoey didn't want anyone to feel uneasy and hoped that they could all come to a peaceful consensus.

Little did she know that such kindness would only encourage those two girls to try and take advantage of her.

“That won’t do! Zoey, you’ve got to make a decision! Either you choose to have them as the groomsmen, or we stay as the bridesmaids! It’s one or the other!”

Zara and Yvette insisted on having Zoey make a decision.

“I...”

Zoey was at a loss for what to do.

How am I supposed to decide?

“Great! Just f*ck off if you don’t want to be a bridesmaid! Who the hell cares about the two of you?”

At that moment, Levi, who was at his wits’ end, yelled at Zara and Yvette in rage.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1032

Levi’s sudden burst of anger shocked everyone into silence.

“I’ve been tolerating the two of you for a very long time now! I’ve shown you respect, but what about you? You’ve been nothing but overbearing and annoying! You’ve vividly portrayed to me how incessant b*tches would behave! Scram if you don’t want to be a bridesmaid! We couldn’t care less! Do you seriously think that we won’t be able to hold our wedding without you?” Levi yelled.

Zara and Yvette were stunned.

Zoey hadn't said a word about their attitude, but Levi had gotten enraged before her.

It took a solid minute for the two of them to regain their bearings.

"What? Are you telling us to leave?"

The two of them stared at Levi unbelievably.

"Yes. Get lost if you don't want to be a bridesmaid! Zoey has been treating the two of you as her friends, but what about you? How have you been treating her?"

"You've been rudely ordering her around, asking her to make new arrangements for your accommodation and your meals. That's fine. We're still able to tolerate that. But asking to choose the groomsmen? Excuse me. Is it you or Zoey who is getting married?"

"Have you ever given Zoey a shred of respect? Do you seriously take her as your friend? We've invited you over to be our bridesmaids, not VIPs whom we're supposed to please!"

"What makes you think that you are the ones to decide how our wedding should be held? What more do you want? Do you want to change me, the freaking groom of the wedding, out as well?"

Levi attacked them with questions.

The two women were rendered speechless.

Zara and Yvette stood up from their seats and stared at Zoey. "You don't want us to be your bridesmaids either, do you? You'll choose them over us at the end of the day, won't you?"

"Zoey, say something if you still treat us as your friends! You'll know who to choose if you've ever considered us your real friends!"

Zara and Yvette stubbornly insisted that Zoey make a decision.

To their surprise, Zoey wore a cold expression as she spoke. "If the two of you were my real friends, you wouldn't have asked me to choose! Since you're not treating me sincerely as your friend, then there's no point in me being courteous to you! Please leave!"

Zoey was fed up and finally gave them an answer.

The two girls looked at Zoey in disbelief as they never expected Zoey to make such a decision.

The only reason why they dared to act so presumptuously was that they thought Zoey was meek.

It never crossed their minds that Zoey changed so much in such a short period of time, especially in terms of her personality.

"Great. This is just great! How dare you reject us as your bridesmaids? You'll regret this!" Zara raged.

"Yeah! That's right! Without us, who will you ask to be your bridesmaids?"

Levi scoffed, "Any woman with two legs? That'll be like shopping for groceries in the market!"

Levi already had candidates in mind, and one of them was Helena Engler.

Anyone would be better than these two clowns.

Besides, they wouldn't even be here if it were not for Zoey, who still cared about their friendship.

"Hmph! Who do you think you are, Zoey Lopez? Are you even aware that your wedding is for a remarriage? Why are you making it so grand? You seriously have no shame, do you?"

"Yeah! Do you think you're some celebrity? I would be so embarrassed to remarry! Much less hold a wedding for it! Do you not want your reputation anymore?"

They scoffed, tearing their façade altogether.

“This is freaking Erudia! People will laugh at you for making such a grandeur over a remarriage! This kind of culture would be a joke overseas!”

“Get lost!”

Zoey yelled in the midst of her fury.

“Do we have to leave just because you told us to? What if I refuse to leave? Huh? What can you do?”

“We’ll leave whenever we want to! Not just because you told us to!”

Zara and Yvette sneered at her.

“Throw them out if they refuse to cooperate.” Levi’s icy voice sounded.

“Great! Because I’ve been waiting all day to beat up these b*tches!”

Black Tortoise murmured in annoyance.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1033

Even Iris had the impulse to throw out those two women, let alone Azure Dragon and his men, who all had a bad temper.

“You wouldn’t dare!”

“Don’t you dare touch us!”

Zara and Yvette threatened.

“Erudian men are really boorish! You’re all acting like barbarians! How rude! You don’t even have basic courtesy!”

“All of you should really take lessons from foreigners. Every one of them is so gentlemanly, unlike you! Barbaric! Repulsive!”

The two of them screeched at Black Tortoise and the other men.

Having spent many years abroad, they felt edified by the culture over there and were now putting on airs.

Not only did they scorn everything that had to do with Erudia, but they also made it their mission to compare Erudia with foreign countries in every possible way.

This was especially so with the case of people.

Needless to say, they felt that foreigners were better than Erudians.

And having gone through that whole ordeal a while ago, they only felt a stronger prejudice against Erudians.

“Look at these people! If I didn’t know this was Erudia, I would have thought that I had been transported back to the Stone Age! All of you are so barbaric!”

Levi shot them a chilling glare. “Throw them out!”

Upon receiving that order, Black Tortoise took the opportunity to vent his frustration. He grabbed the two screeching ladies, one in each hand, and dragged them toward the entrance.

“Let go of me!”

However, their frenzied struggling were to no avail.

Bam!

Black Tortoise mercilessly threw them out of the door as if he were disposing of garbage.

Zara and Yvette felt pain shot through their bodies while they stared at him with their mouths agape in shock.

They had been thrown out like beggars onto the street.

“Just you wait! You lowly Erudian peasants! Barbarians! I’ll expose all of your vulgar acts to the world!”

They continued screaming.

“This monstrous country makes me sick! We shouldn’t even be here! We want to leave this barbaric place right now!”

Their clamorous shrieks of resentment echoed through the street as they left with the promise that they would be back to take revenge.

Levi shot a look at Azure Dragon.

After Azure Dragon pulled a few strings, those two mad women were immediately deported out of the country.

They had literally been chased out of Erudia.

As they left, they still made sure to voice out their scolding. “Don’t you worry! We won’t even want to step into the borders of this country ever again! Barbarians! You’re all destined to live as peasants!”

It was not until they hopped off the plane onto foreign land did they truly let out a breath of relief.

“Oh, we’re finally here! I can smell the sweet scent of foreign air again! Look at how glamorous it is over here in a foreign land!”

Zara was nearly moaning in glee.

“My mood is a hundred times better now that we’ve left that barbaric place called Erudia! The air is so fresh over here!”

“Exactly! Look at all these familiar faces! Oh, I’m so happy right now! Erudians seriously make me sick!”

...

A whole string of nasty words could be heard while the two of them exchanged their complaints exasperatedly.

When they left the airport, they decided not to flag down a taxi.

Instead, they wanted to take a stroll back.

They felt that they needed to filter out the dirty Erudian air in their bodies with the fresh and clean air in their beloved foreign land.

In their opinion, Erudia was a petty country.

“I’ll never admit that I’m Erudian! It’s such a shame!”

Yvette decided resolutely.

“Yes, yes! We’re foreigners! Noble citizens! Erudia doesn’t deserve to have us!”

Zara concurred with her statement.

At that moment, a group of foreign men walked past them.

They looked fierce, with murderous intent clear in their eyes. Upon seeing the two coquettish ladies, their eyes lit up with a malicious glint.

They whipped out their daggers and quickly surrounded the two girls.

Ba dum!

Zara and Yvette panicked. Their hearts flipped as they surveyed the situation.

They had been too caught up in their complaint session and hadn’t bothered to pay close attention to their surroundings.

Although all they talked about was how good foreign countries were, they had encountered robbers when they first arrived in a foreign land.

In the years following their stay in the foreign country, they met with several cases of robbery. They weren't spared, even when they were in the middle of a bustling city.

Hence, they didn't dare to step out of their house at night.

Tonight, however, they seemed to have forgotten that.

"Hehe..."

It didn't take long for the foreigners to encircle the women.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1034

The foreigners snickered as they sized Zara and Yvette up.

If they were lucky, they would get to rob and rape tonight.

The foreign gentlemen, as Zara had once called them, smacked their lips as they checked out their prey.

This would never have happened in Erudia. No matter how lowly they thought Erudia was, they definitely wouldn't be robbed near the airport.

Neither would they need to worry about wandering in a major city at night.

This was the so-called greatness of foreign countries.

Foreigners were 'noble,' and the men were 'gentlemanly.'

However, it clearly wasn't the case at that moment.

"We'll give you all our money..."

Zara fished out a wad of cash and stuffed it into the hands of the robbers.

"Hehe..."

The foreigners grabbed the money and threw Zara and Yvette onto their shoulders.

The two girls barely stood a chance against the group of burly men.

Soon, they were brought to a dark and secluded place.

Rip!

"Ah..."

The sound of clothing being ripped echoed amidst the silence of the night.

"Let go of us! You imbeciles! Go to hell!"

"You disgusting foreigners! You're beasts! Barbarians!"

"You're heinous! You're nothing compared to Erudian men!"

"Erudia is so much better! I want to go back to Erudia! Foreigners are nothing but trash..."

Zara and Yvette screeched desperately at the top of their lungs.

Their cries, however, were soon drowned out by the nasty laughter of the foreign 'gentlemen.'

It was ironic how those two women had nothing but praise for foreign countries and their citizens a while ago.

Only in times of grave danger would people ever think about the motherland that they had been raised in...

At other times, Erudia was merely trash to them.

When they were overseas, they refused to admit their Erudian citizenship.

They would say that they were from Erudia's neighboring islands and pose as the islands' citizens, not even daring to speak a word of Erudian.

To them, it was humiliating to admit that they were Erudians.

Meanwhile, Zara and Yvette's absence barely had any impact on Levi and Zoey.

It didn't take long for them to find another two bridesmaids as replacements, and they were Helena and the financial director, Elena.

Both of them were much better than Zara and Yvette.

As for the groomsmen whom Zara and Yvette despised, they were the Five Great Wars Regiment, the direct subordinates of the God of War!

They were practically undefeatable on the battlefield!

Once their identities were made known, not only would Erudia be in awe, but the whole world would also tremor in fear.

It was preposterous that Zara and Yvette deemed them unworthy of standing next to both of them.

As their wedding date drew closer, Zoey and Levi sent out the last of their invitations.

Apart from Ezra and the other eight Commanders-In-Chief of the Nine Warzones, Levi also invited his close friends.

But the person whom Levi was truly excited to see was his teacher, Angus Belford.

After enlisting in the army, it was Angus who saw the great potential in Levi. He was the one who had trained him and ensured his preferments.

Zoey also invited a huge group of friends.

She thought that Levi's guests were all ordinary people.

Little did she know that every single person on his guest list was a big shot.

Even the mention of their names could easily cause an uproar in Erudia or even foreign countries.

If people knew that this group of people was about to show up together, the entire world would go mad!

Levi smiled at Zoey. "At our wedding, I'll let you know just how amazing your husband is! You'll know how capable I actually am!"

He had promised to reveal his identity at the wedding and come clean to Zoey, the Lopez family, and the Black family.

Seeing how confident Levi looked, Zoey truly looked forward to that day.

Finally, I will find out this secret of his!

I've waited too long for this moment.

Ever since Levi was locked up in prison, I have been hoping that one day, when the snow covers everything in white, Levi would return to me victoriously!

And from that moment onward, he would protect me forever and always!

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1035

It looks like my wish is about to be granted very soon.

There's so much that I don't know about Levi, but he promised to tell me about it on the day of our wedding.

I knew I was right to be patient!

When the Garrisons eventually found out that Levi was still alive and was getting married, the family was shaken to the core.

After all, Levi was the illegitimate son of Tyrone Garrison, the next patriarch of the Garrison family.

Tyrone's appointment ceremony was coming up, but it was greatly affected by the news about Levi.

The Garrisons were anxious because of their failed attempts to assassinate Levi.

Hence, it was harder for them to make another attempt at that point in time.

"If you were made aware of the bastard before, why was I not informed?" roared Kenny, who blamed Edward and the others for not telling him about Levi.

Edward's failure was the cause of their predicament.

"Go to hell! All of you!"

Kenny continued to roar.

These people have brought nothing but shame to the Garrison family!

“The situation may be better than it seems. I mean, the bastard isn’t completely useless. He’s the boss of Morris Group. Even the prominent families in South Hampton listen to him!” explained Edward.

“What?”

After hearing that, Kenny seemed a little calmer.

“That’s nothing compared to what our family has achieved! So what if he’s the boss of a group? What’s so special about South Hampton? Our servant was enough to take that city head-on. A bastard will always be a bastard!” stated Kenny angrily.

“You’re right. He’s only achieved his minor success because of the noble blood that runs within him. Otherwise, he’d simply be another street rat.”

The Garrisons were upset over Levi and the fact that the man was doing well.

In the study of a luxurious villa somewhere in Oakland City, calligraphy paintings worth billions hung on the walls.

There were also various porcelain vases and exotic collections in the room, and one of them was even worth two billion.

Rather than being locked away, these luxury items were displayed in the study as if the room was a private calligraphy painting and antique museum.

A tall, handsome middle-aged man moved his pen gracefully over the canvas, practicing his calligraphy.

When he was done, the name ‘Garrison’ appeared, signifying the man’s resolve to become the next patriarch of the Garrison clan.

He could hardly wait any longer to be appointed as the head of the clan.

This man was Tyrone Garrison, the biological father of Levi.

A smirk appeared on Tyrone's face when he was done with his work.

Before long, the man would be at the helm of the most powerful ancient family in Erudia.

When I get appointed as the patriarch of the clan, millions will bow before me.

By then, I'll be the most powerful man in Erudia!

"Someone once asked me to choose between my career and a fair maiden. I chose my career, and I have never once regretted my decision because I'll soon have everything that I could ever want," muttered Tyrone to himself before smirking.

"Something terrible has happened, Mr. Garrison!" shouted a voice from outside.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1036

“What’s all the fuss about? Calm yourself!” ordered Tyrone coldly.

The servant was about to speak when a woman rushed in from behind. “We’re in deep trouble! How are you still in the mood for your calligraphy?”

Dressed in luxurious clothing, the woman was perfectly poised and looked nothing short of royalty.

Although Olivia was old, her charm and graceful demeanor were incomparable.

Olivia was Tyrone’s wife and Damien’s mother.

As a member of the Garcia family, the second most powerful family in Erudia, she was the only one who was worthy of marrying Tyrone.

“What is it, Olivia?” asked Tyrone.

“Do you remember what happened twenty years ago?” asked Olivia with widened eyes.

Tyrone would never forget how he had fallen in love with Emma when he was just a young man. Twenty years ago, he had almost ruined his future.

“I do, and I remember taking care of it. So what is this about?” inquired Tyrone with a puzzled look.

“Didn’t you say that Emma that b*tch would be kept in Margo City for the rest of her life and that she would never leave?”

"I did because I know her. She'd never leave that city. I'd even erected a tombstone there as a reminder."

Like a madwoman, Olivia roared, "Bullsh*t! The tombstone has been destroyed, and Emma is nowhere to be found! It turns out that you don't know her as well as you'd thought."

"What? She left Margo City and even destroyed the tombstone? How is that possible?"

Dumbfounded, Tyrone almost lost his balance.

"Didn't you say that you'd taken care of the bastard too? Didn't you promise that he was dead and would never be a threat to our family?"

"Are you saying that the boy is still alive?" Tyrone could not believe what he had just heard.

"He's more than alive. That bastard's the one who's brought Emma out of Margo City! Not only that, but he has also killed Caleb and defeated the Garrison clan in Haven. Even Edward was crippled when he tried to assassinate the bastard. You said that he couldn't be alive, but look at the threat that he's become to us. That bastard has humiliated our family!"

Mad with rage, Olivia lifted the porcelain vase that was worth billions and smashed it onto the floor. Nevertheless, Tyrone was too distraught to worry about the vase.

"That is not possible. He can't be alive! I lied to Emma when I promised her that I'd let the boy go. I had to kill him, so I left him in the mountains to freeze or starve to death. Even a wild dog could have killed the boy! It's merely impossible for him to have been alive!"

"Well, the bastard is still alive. Not only that but rather, he's also doing well," stated Olivia as she glared daggers at her husband.

"How could it be? I'd done it myself. I left the boy to die in the wild."

Tyrone was deeply troubled.

"Wait a second. I remember it now. It has to be him! He must be the one who's responsible!" exclaimed Tyrone.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1037

“Get the butler over here now!” shouted Tyrone furiously.

Before long, an old man with gray hair arrived at the scene.

Thud!

The butler fell to his knees before Tyrone and Olivia, for he could already guess why he had been summoned.

As a butler, Dexter was in charge of the housekeeping for Tyrone’s residence, unlike Edward, whose duty was to protect Tyrone.

Dexter was there when Tyrone fell in love with Emma, and he helped his master with keeping secrets and other things.

Otherwise, the two love birds would have been discovered even earlier.

Dexter liked Emma, so he had persuaded Tyrone not to abandon the woman on multiple occasions.

“I’m guessing that you’re aware of why you’ve been summoned?” asked Tyrone angrily.

Dexter knew that the day would come when the Garrisons would catch news of Levi.

“I do, Master.”

"Then, tell me what happened back then. I need to know why the boy is still alive." Tyrone had his eyes fixed on the butler.

Dexter sighed. "After you'd abandoned the child, I went back for him because I couldn't simply allow him to die like that. He was a person, and more importantly, he was your flesh and blood!"

Olivia immediately corrected him. "Tyrone has only one son, and that is Damien! That bastard is not even worthy of the Garrison name! Nobody will see him as Tyrone's son."

Dexter then took a deep breath before continuing, "I couldn't allow Ms. Jones' child to die, so I took him to North Hampton and left him in the streets. I gave him a chance at life. If he was lucky, he would've gotten adopted. Otherwise, he would've frozen to death. Fortunately, fate was kind to him. The child ended up getting adopted by the Garrison clan in North Hampton."

Not even Levi knew that he owed his life to the man.

If it were not for Dexter, Levi would have died in the wild.

There was no way he could have survived otherwise.

When Dexter was done explaining, Tyrone gasped as if he had trouble breathing.

"So it really was you! It's your fault that the boy is still alive. I never wanted him to live!" shouted Tyrone.

Thump!

Tyrone was so furious that he flipped his desk over, as all of the valuables were soon smashed into pieces.

Rage was pulsing through the man's veins.

"Have you lost your mind? Do you know how much trouble he's caused us? The fact that he's alive brings nothing but shame to our family!" roared Tyrone.

Olivia approached Dexter and gave the man a good hard slap on the face. "You have no idea what you've done, you slave! Now that everyone in Erudia knows Tyrone had an illegitimate son, how will he lead our family? Who is going to listen to him now? Do you think that our family can bear this shame? I ought to kill you where you're standing!"

"I'm aware of what I've done, but I could not bear to merely allow the child to die! I couldn't bring myself to look the other way. Even after all that has happened, I wouldn't have had it any other way," insisted Dexter.

Tyrone and Olivia were stunned by the man's response.

"You seriously still believe that you'd done the right thing? You must have a death wish!" shouted Olivia with widened eyes.

She was ready to murder the man for saving Levi.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1038

"I do! Human lives are more important than reputation, and we're talking about my Master's own flesh and blood. No matter how you put it, Master's blood runs in that boy's veins."

Dexter remained headstrong.

"I'll kill you!" roared Olivia before she grabbed a sword in the study and swung it toward Dexter.

The butler shut his eyes and was ready to die when Tyrone shouted, "No!"

Dexter smiled when Tyrone stopped Olivia because he knew his Master well.

Tyrone was by no means a good man.

He was cruel and ruthless, or else he would not have left his own flesh and blood to die in the wild.

Master did not stop Olivia merely to save my life.

Why would he? He has never once treated us like human beings. We're merely slaves, and our lives do not matter to him.

"Why did you stop me? He's useless to us!" shouted Olivia fiercely.

"What are we going to tell Father if you've killed him? How will we explain ourselves?"

Dexter smiled because he knew that there was a reason that his master had kept him alive.

The butler was to be their scapegoat.

"You're right. What's happened has happened. Now, we'll have to explain ourselves, so we can hand him over to the clan. He'll suffer our harshest punishment!"

"He'll pay for breaking the rules. There's no way that he'll live," stated Tyrone as he stared coldly at the butler.

"No, I can't wait that long."

Olivia could not contain herself.

"Then, cut off his arms," suggested Tyrone cruelly, so Olivia lifted the sword once again before swinging it down decisively.

"Argh!"

Dexter cried aloud, left in excruciating pain.

"Better, Olivia? If not, you still have the legs."

The Garrisons had no problem when it came to toying with human lives, especially the lives of lowly servants.

"I'm good. So what shall we do about the b*tch and the bastard?" inquired Olivia.

"I want nothing more than to kill the two, but now is not the right time. If we do it now, we'll become a joke to the world." Tyrone sighed.

Olivia nodded in agreement. "You're right. The world is watching us now. If we make a move now, we'll risk tarnishing our reputation in Erudia and the entire East side of the world.

"Seeing as such, what else can we do?"

Tyrone was in distress.

"If all else fails, maybe we'll ask him to join us. It's safer that way," suggested a servant. Unfortunately, as soon as he was done speaking, he got slapped by Olivia.

"Are you seriously suggesting that we should allow the bastard to become one of us? What right does the bastard have to step inside of this house? I'll never agree to it, and I don't think the clan will either," shouted Olivia, utterly infuriated.

"That's right. He'll never be worthy of joining us. At least, not with his current identity. If he wants to become a part of us, he's got to earn it. I'll only allow him to join us once the clan recognizes his strength," agreed Tyrone.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1039

Olivia nodded vigorously. "I've heard that he's good. Let's see if he has what it takes to become one of us. I don't believe that he can beat Damien."

"If he remains humble and works hard enough, he'll possibly be able to join my family," mused Tyrone.

I believe that he is a capable man. He is my own flesh and blood, after all.

"I don't think so! Levi bows to no one, not even to the Garrison family. He's far too arrogant."

At that moment, Damien returned.

"Not even the Garrison family, you say?"

Tyrone and Olivia were taken aback because the Garrisons were the most powerful family in Erudia.

Anyone who refuses to submit to the Garrisons are either mad or suicidal.

"Damien, the bastard really said that?" questioned Olivia.

"I've heard about him for a while now. I've just never mentioned it. He's challenged the Garrisons many times. He has even called me on the phone."

"What? He called you?" asked Damien's parents immediately.

"Yes. I never expected him to contact me. I'd thought that he wanted to apologize, but he merely called to threaten me. He'd said that if I told you anything about him and Emma, he would make us pay for it."

Damien then repeated all of Levi's threats to his parents.

When Damien was done, Tyrone punched the wall in anger.

Crack!

Suddenly, a web-like crack appeared on the wall.

"Never have I heard of anyone so arrogant!"

"And here I was, thinking about allowing him to join the family even though he was not qualified. How dare he threaten us like that!" Tyrone roared, his voice like thunder.

Olivia was equally as enraged. "Not only did he threaten Damien, rather, but he had also threatened our entire family! He's got nothing on Damien, let alone our entire family. He can only dream of becoming as good as Damien."

"No matter how hard he tries, he'll never be as good as Damien," agreed Tyrone.

Damien was Tyrone's greatest pride because the family elders had said that he was the first genius to have been born in the family in a millennium.

How can Levi ever hope to compare to Damien?

There's no way that's possible!

"Don't worry. Levi's all bark with no bite," assured Damien with a smirk. Hence, his parents nodded with satisfaction.

"You can count on me. I'll prove to you that Dad was right to abandon Levi and his mother. That bastard is no match for me because I'm much more powerful than he is," continued Damien.

"That's my boy! Show that bastard what you can do."

Tyrone was very pleased with his son.

"Don't worry, Father. When he meets me, he'll know what it means to be powerful. I'll make sure that he'll curse the day that he was born!" promised Damien.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1040

Looking at how confident their son was, Tyrone and Olivia could not be more pleased.

Now that's our son, our pride!

Born a genius with the strongest bloodline, our son has always been a prodigy, and his training only made him stronger.

"Go, my son! Head south. After all these years in Oakland City, it's time for you to unleash your potential," instructed Tyrone, whose life was too precious to be put at risk.

Worried for Tyrone's safety, the Garrisons surrounded the man with thousands of guards no matter where he went.

Olivia nodded in agreement. "It's time for you to see the world and let everyone witness what a true genius is capable of!"

The mother's tone then took a turn. "Nonetheless, we should also make sure that Damien is safe."

"I agree. We'll send only the best to protect him and make sure that nothing bad happens," concurred Tyrone.

Olivia was relieved to hear her husband utter such words. "I'll also speak to my father and have him send our family's elites."

Damien chuckled in response. "You two don't seem to trust me completely. I alone will be enough to take the South head-on. There is no need for any protection."

"We know that you're definitely the best amongst your peers, but you're far too important for that. You are the future of the two most powerful ancient families, so we can't allow anything to happen to you. Not even a slight risk," explained Tyrone.

"I understand, Father. You'll hear from me soon. I'm going to give Levi one hell of a surprise at his wedding," promised Damien with a malicious scowl.

"Good! Make him sorry for mocking our family and remind him of how insignificant he is!" cackled Tyrone

"Mother, what happened to the butler?" asked Damien as he looked curiously at Dexter.

After his mother told him everything about what Dexter had done, Damien walked over to the butler and stepped on his wounds.

Crack!

Blood gushed out of the man's wounds.

"Argh!"

Dexter cried out again in agony before looking at Damien with a pale face.

This boy is crueler than his father.

He has completely inherited the ruthlessness of both of his parents.

Being at his mercy is worse than death itself, so I choose death!

Dexter suddenly stood up and was ready to end his life by hitting his head against the wall.

Pow!

Damien kicked Dexter and sent the butler flying.

“Trying to kill yourself? You don’t have my permission to die just yet!”

Damien then laughed maniacally.

“Please grant me a swift death, Master Tyrone! I’m willing to accept death as my punishment,” Dexter begged the indifferent Tyrone.

“Why are you in a hurry to die? Isn’t it wonderful to be alive?” Damien continued to make fun of the butler.

“I guess that this makes you Levi’s savior, doesn’t it? Then, you’ll have to wait for him to rescue you. Do you think that he’ll come to your rescue if I tell him that you’d saved his life?”

Damien then turned to his parents. “I’ll be taking the butler with me. I need to use him against Levi.”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1041

On the other side, Levi had no idea that the Garrisons were in the heat of a discussion because of him.

Even Tyrone and Kenny were informed of his existence.

Busy with his wedding, Levi was not aware that Damien was getting ready to deal with him.

The couple's new house in North Hampton was completed, and Levi was very satisfied with it.

Hence, he was in an excellent mood.

On top of that, Jason had also reached North Hampton.

It had been six years since Levi had last seen his good friend, so naturally, he was excited to see Jason again.

"Levi, I'm very happy for you, but... "

Jason seemed hesitant.

"What is it, Jason? Come on. Out with it!"

"I just came from Oakland City, and everyone there knows of your existence, including the Garrisons! So it's only a matter of time before they come for you, especially Damien. You wouldn't want the Garrisons to be your enemy. I suggest that you should beg them for mercy," advised Jason.

Bad things happen to those in Damien's crosshairs.

Levi got lucky because he had the Paragon Seal.

"Beg the Garrisons?" Levi chuckled.

"Yes. Just kneel before them and say something pleasant. I'm sure that they won't make it hard on you. After all, they can't do anything to you, now that everyone knows of your existence."

"I have no problem kneeling before them, but do they seriously think that they're worth it?" asked Levi coldly.

The God of War bows to no one, not even to the Garrisons.

"Levi, you're a good man, but you're just too damn stubborn! You never listen to anyone. I should talk to Emma. Maybe she'll do it," relented Jason.

Jason only wanted what was best for his good friend.

He believed that the Garrisons would let Levi go if the man would submit himself to them.

"Save it. I know how to deal with the Garrisons."

Levi decided to bring his mother with him to meet the Garrisons after his wedding.

He needed to know why Tyrone had abandoned him and his mother.

"Come, let's go and visit Morris."

Afterward, Levi and Jason arrived before Morris' grave, which had already been well-refurbished by Nueve and his men.

"Now, we're merely short of Warren. It's good to be reunited again." Jason sighed before toasting to Morris' grave.

"I've been looking for Warren, and I'm sure that I'll find him soon," assured Levi.

Warren had disappeared, and Phoenix had been searching for him for a long time. Unfortunately, it was to no avail.

“You’ve been searching for a while, haven’t you? You should just give up. You’re not going to find him because he’s changed his identity.”

“Wait, you know where he is?” asked Levi.

“Yes. I think that I might be able to find him.”

“The three of you were close, so when Warren found out that he couldn’t help the both of you, he felt useless. In low spirits, Warren changed his identity and led a different life,” explained Jason.

“Take me there, Jason! I need to see Warren!”

“Okay. I didn’t want to bother him, but I think that you two should meet. Perhaps he’ll be able to convince you to submit to the Garrisons. He’s a good friend of yours, after all. Maybe you’ll listen to him,” agreed Jason.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1042

Jason only wanted Levi to see Warren again because he was hoping that Warren could convince Levi to submit to the Garrisons.

He did not want his friend’s wedding to turn into a funeral.

I know that the Garrisons will spare Levi if he kneels before them.

Levi knew what Jason’s intention was, but he saw no need to bow to the Garrisons.

I'll destroy anyone who dares to stir up trouble at my wedding!

With Jason's help, Levi was finally reunited with Warren.

His friend had settled down and even had himself a daughter. He was living a good life.

When Warren heard that Levi was getting married again, he was more than happy to be part of the celebration as he wanted to make up for his past regret.

Three days before his wedding, Levi finally got everyone important to him to accept his invitation.

Meanwhile, at the Oakland City Airport, a private plane took off with dozens of other planes escorting it.

On the ground was a convoy made up of hundreds of vehicles on their way to North Hampton.

As heir to the most powerful ancient family in Erudia, such an occurrence was normal to Damien.

He was always surrounded by tens of thousands of men to make sure that he was safe.

Even though the movement was extremely large-scale, no one knew about it because the Garrisons were powerful enough to control the flow of information.

On top of that, the Garrisons' allies arrived in North Hampton early to pave the way for Damien, for they had to ensure that nothing would go wrong.

"Levi, you'll realize just how insignificant you are when you meet me," whispered Damien to himself on the plane.

Glancing out of the window, Damien wondered if there was anyone in Erudia who could outmatch him.

There's only one person, the God of War.

All Damien could ever do was keep up with the God of War because the man's achievements were far too great.

One of his achievements was beating the elites of the Eighteen-Nation Alliance with only his iron fists and quelling the alliance.

He was certainly the only person who had ever achieved such a feat, and it was enough to make Damien feel hopeless in his pursuit to match the God of War.

I guess that being number two isn't that bad.

"Perhaps the God of War views me in the manner that I view Levi," muttered Damien to himself.

"No, that's not right. The bastard's not even worthy of being compared to me!" shouted Damien suddenly.

"I wouldn't be so sure if I were you," chuckled Dexter, who was tied to his seat.

"Huh?"

Damien was stunned. "What did you say?"

"Given the same resources and advantages, Levi might just be better than you. Look at what he's achieved growing up on the streets. If he had the same upbringing as you, it's not hard to imagine that he could do a whole lot better."

Dexter's words were like knives to Damien's heart.

Furious, the man stared at the butler in utter disbelief. "Did you just say that Levi is better than me?"

"That's right. If he had grown up in the same environment that you had, I believe that he would've been a lot more powerful than you are." Dexter cackled.

"You think that he's more powerful than me?"

Raw anger shot through Damien.

“Say that Levi can’t compare to me! Say it! Say it now!”

Damien grabbed Dexter by the throat and forced the butler to say the words.

“Master Levi is stronger than you!” Dexter cackled again as he stared at his perpetrator.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1043

Huffing and puffing, Damien grabbed a fork and stabbed Dexter with it, causing blood to squirt out from the butler.

Dexter’s mouth was gurgling with blood, and his body twitched.

“Now, let’s try this again. Who’s stronger?”

Damien was acting like a mad man.

“Master Levi is stronger, and I’ll always support him!” insisted Dexter.

The people around them quickly stopped Damien when he was about to murder the butler.

“You can’t kill him yet, Mr. Damien! You still need him, remember?”

Only then did Damien calm down, and before long, he arrived in North Hampton.

“Is this what the outside world is like? How pathetic! These people must not know what a paradise looks like. To me, Oakland City is the only true paradise!” mocked Damien.

"Of course, Mr. Damien. This place is a far cry from Oakland City," agreed a lackey beside Damien.

"I can now see why Levi is so arrogant. He thinks that he's seen it all when he'd merely achieved a minor success in this pathetic environment. He probably still has no idea of how insignificant he is. Wait till he sees what I have in store for his wedding."

The wedding was only a few days away, and Levi was just as nervous as he was before.

After all, he had promised to reveal his true identity to Zoey, the Lopezes, and the Blacks.

"Levi, your wedding venue has been arranged. As instructed, it is not unnecessarily extravagant, but you can be sure it'll be grand nonetheless," assured Azure Dragon and his men.

"Good!"

Levi nodded in satisfaction.

This time, I want Zoey to have a wedding that she'll never forget.

However, Levi did not want to achieve that with a ludicrous amount of money, so he took the time to make a ring and a necklace out of bullet shells as gifts to Zoey.

"Boss, Ezra will be here tonight! It's been a while since I'd last seen the Commanders-In-Chief of the Nine Warzones and the Four Guardians."

Levi smiled in response. "I'll pick them up myself tonight."

Family members and friends had already arrived at the venue because the wedding would be held on the next day.

Although Meredith and the other Blacks were not happy about the wedding, they came anyway since Levi promised to reveal secrets at the occasion.

They were curious about what the man had to offer.

“We didn’t come here to give you our blessings. Rather, we merely wanted to see the surprise that you have in store for us. You won’t be marrying Zoey if we’re dissatisfied with your reveal,” threatened Meredith.

“That’s right. If you lie to us, the child will never take your last name. He or she will be a Lopez or even a Black,” chimed in Aaron.

The couple was well-prepared in case Levi was planning to lie to them.

“You two should ready yourselves. I’m worried that you might faint when I reveal my secrets. After all, you’re not as young as you used to be.” Levi chuckled.

Meredith then glared daggers at Levi. “You’re worried that I’ll faint? We’ll see how big of a deal your identity is.”

Nobody took Levi seriously, but he could already imagine how half of the crowd would kneel while the other half would pass out.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1044

Zoey gazed at Levi expectantly.

The day had finally come for her to marry the love of her life.

Bursting with joy for her son, Emma was easily the happiest person in the crowd.

She never imagined that she would be able to attend her son’s wedding.

"Huh? Not only are you attending the wedding, but you also have to give a speech?" asked Meredith after checking the itinerary.

"That's right."

Emma nodded.

"We can't have you doing that! What will people think of Zoey when they see you? Do you know how many will be watching you tomorrow? Many are trying to dig for dirt on Zoey."

"Do you know how much trouble it will cause if people find out that Levi has a mother like you?"

"You don't want to cause problems for Zoey, do you?"

Meredith, Robert, and the others all ganged up on Emma.

"I... I don't, so what should I do?"

Naturally, Emma would not want anything bad to happen to Zoey.

"It'll be better for you to forego the wedding tomorrow," advised Meredith.

"What?"

Emma hesitated because she really wanted to be a part of her son's wedding.

"If you insist on going, then your son will never marry Zoey!" threatened Meredith.

"I won't go then."

Emma had no choice but to listen to Meredith.

"Good! We have an agreement then. You can't appear at the wedding, and you can't tell Levi or Zoey about this."

"I understand."

Emma was aggrieved but she did not want to ruin her son's wedding.

"Phew! Can you imagine how humiliating it would've been if Levi's filthy mother were to show up at the wedding?" The Blacks cackled.

That night, Levi went to the airport with Azure Dragon and the others to pick his friends up personally.

Logan and Jennie were also there to pick up their big-shot relatives, who only decided to attend Zoey's wedding when they heard of Zoey's net worth.

Before long, the Blacks appeared out of the arrival gate, and every one of them was well-dressed.

Logan then glanced at Levi. "Take a good look, Levi. Notice how all the Lopezes and Blacks are all big shots? What about your family and friends? Anyone worth mentioning?"

Compared to the Lopezes and Blacks, Azure Dragon and others were dressed quite casually.

"I'm guessing that the friends whom you're waiting for will fare no better than the ones beside you now," mocked Jennie.

"Boss!" cried Ezra and others excitedly when they appeared out of the arrival gate.

"Weren't these people on the same flight as us? They were in the economy class," ridiculed one of Logan's relatives.

"Hahaha!"

Logan and Jennie joined in on the laughter.

It's evident that we're on a different level from Levi's friends.

We were in first class while they were stuck in economy class.

Without their uniforms, Ezra and the others were no different from ordinary people.

They had even bought economy class tickets, so it was only natural that people would misunderstand.

Little did Logan, Jennie, and the others know that they were standing before the renowned Commanders-In-Chief of the Nine Warzones and the Four Guardians of Erudia.

These men were the ones who shaped Erudia's destiny and they were revered both locally and abroad.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1045

Out of their uniforms, the men could not look more ordinary than they were, currently.

They had paid for the economy class tickets out of their own pockets and had boarded the plane just like everyone else.

They wanted nothing extravagant and had no interest in abusing their privileges because they had the intention of attending Levi's wedding as friends.

"You can determine how successful a person is by looking at the people who have surrounded him. By the looks of it, you seem way out of Zoey's league," mocked Logan's relatives.

"I bet that you didn't even get a single big shot to attend your wedding."

Amongst the relatives and friends that Levi had invited to his wedding, Jason was the only one that Meredith had considered important; the Lopezes and the Blacks wanted nothing more than to drive the rest away.

Ezra was displeased when he realized how Levi's relatives treated the man.

Neither Ezra nor the others thought that the God of War should receive such treatment.

“Don’t worry, I’ll tell them everything tomorrow,” assured Levi with a smile, for he was looking forward to it himself.

When they reached home, Levi excitedly introduced Ezra and others to Zoey.

“Hello, everyone. I’m Ezra Williamson from the West.”

“Todd Greenwood from the North.”

“Wilfrid Harrett from the East.”

“Darton Rogier from the South.”

“Siegfried Adkins from the Central.”

After the Commanders-In-Chief of the Nine Warzones introduced themselves, the Four Guardians did the same.

“Manfred Reyes of the East Gate.”

“Howell Dinwiddie of the West Gate.”

“Geoffrey Meskill of the South Gate.”

“Benjamin Dickinson of the North Gate.”

Other than the Nine Warzones, Erudia also had the Four National Gates, which had consisted of the North Gate, South Gate, East Gate, and West Gate.

Those gates had guarded the borders of Erudia for thousands of years, preventing countless invasions.

The Four Guardians were the ones who would watch over the gates as they guarded the nation against attacks.

Levi's other friends also introduced themselves one by one.

Nevertheless, only those who were in the military knew what they were talking about.

"What's a North Warzone, and what's a West Gate? I have no idea what you guys are talking about!" exclaimed Aaron in confusion.

Aaron was not the only one who was confused. Rather, Zoey was confused as well.

"Your friends are just the same as you, Levi. A bunch of weirdos!" remarked Caitlyn.

"If you ask me, they sound like a bunch of hooligans!"

The Lopezes and the Blacks had nothing but contempt for Levi's friends.

What kind of friends does Levi surround himself with?

And it's not just a few of them.

There are dozens of these hooligans!

In the end, only Zoey and Emma welcomed Ezra and the others.

That night, Benny merely congratulated Levi through a video call because he was too occupied at the moment.

"I'll visit Oakland City soon, Mr. Quinton. See you then."

After Benny's video call, Abigail also called to congratulate Levi.

Abigail was supposed to attend the wedding, but she had suddenly changed her mind when she thought of what happened previously.

"Where are you?" asked Levi.

"I'm in Oakland City," answered Abigail honestly, for she was in South Hampton when she heard that Levi was in North Hampton.

To avoid Levi, Abigail left South Hampton and went to Oakland City.

"I see. Maybe I'll head over visit you some day."

Afterward, Levi received one congratulation after the other, and that was how he had spent the remainder of the night before his wedding.

The next day, the wedding finally commenced.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1046

"Mom, what did just you say? You're not attending the wedding?"

Levi and Zoey stared at Emma in disbelief.

Emma mumbled, "Mm. I'm not feeling well, so I won't be attending."

"Mom, are you alright?"

Both of them started to worry.

"I'm fine. It's just that my body doesn't feel too good. You both should hurry up and get ready."

Emma shook her head.

"You two should go now. There are many things to be done over there. Since she said she's not attending, just let her be!" Meredith said coldly.

Hence, Levi and Zoey did not dwell too much on it either.

After they left, a smile appeared on Meredith's face. "You did well. It's better for everyone if you didn't attend the wedding!"

"I know, right? You'd be embarrassing the hell out of all of us if you attended."

"Yeah! Both the Lopez and Black families want to keep our dignities intact at a wedding of this magnitude."

...

Emma could only silently endure the verbal bashings from both the Lopez and Black families.

She hid in a corner and watched the wedding in silence.

It was her own son's wedding, but she had to witness it from the shadows.

Just before the wedding began, all the guests were ushered into the venue.

There were even numerous media reporters among them.

They weren't arranged by Levi, but were here for Zoey instead.

After all, Zoey was a well-known entrepreneur and her wedding would no doubt rule the headlines.

Meredith, who was gathered together with her family, observed the guests and exclaimed, "That little brat reap the benefits of our hard work!"

"It's useless dwelling on that now! We can only hope that Levi has indeed prepared a little surprise for us!"

Aaron only shook his head in response. "Mom, Dad, don't have any high hopes! According to my understanding of Levi, he wouldn't have anything prepared for us."

They sighed. "Well, let's just wait and see! We don't have any other choice!"

It was Zoey's big day today, but her relatives did not seem to be happy for her at all as they complained behind her back.

Today, Levi was clad in a white wedding suit, his muscular body filling it perfectly.

"Sir, your other attire is ready as well," Azure Dragon announced beside him.

Of course, the other attire he was referring to was none other than Levi's Five-Star God of War military uniform!

In Erudia, this was the only military uniform with a five-star insignia!

He planned to appear before Zoey in the most perfect way possible later.

He wanted to tell her that this was her husband!

Even all five members of the Five Great Wars Regiment would be in their military uniform.

This was the definition of a grand entrance.

“Alright. Let me know when we’re halfway through the ceremony and I’ll change!”

Meanwhile, Zoey was wearing a white bridal dress which had Erudian culture woven into it. The dress accentuated every curve on her body, resembling a waterfall cascading downwards as it pooled on the floor.

Her beauty was absolutely breathtaking and could shake the entire world.

Just as Levi said, Erudians stayed true to their culture.

The moment Zoey appeared, the crowd cheered.

They sighed inwardly, thinking what a waste it was for a stunning beauty like Zoey to be wedded to Levi, who was such a sorry excuse of a man.

“What did we ever do to deserve such misfortune? Zoey was never supposed to marry him!”

Aaron sighed and kept hitting the table with his fist.

“That’s right! Look at the friends and relatives behind Levi. None of them are impressive!” Harry bellowed in anger.

Meredith and Robert were shaking with rage as well.

If Levi failed to give them a pleasant surprise today, they would no doubt demand an explanation from him.

Suddenly, hundreds of cars screeched to a stop outside.

All of them were luxury cars.

A magnificent scene like that shocked many people. Harry and the rest were no exception.

He was puzzled. "Whose relatives are they? Why don't I have any recollection of them?"

Meredith and her family shook their heads with similarly clueless looks on their faces. "I don't think they're relatives from our side of the family either."

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1047

The next moment, countless smart-looking men and celebrities alighted the cars and entered the wedding venue.

"On behalf of the Goel family, Xabian Goel from South Hampton congratulates Mr. Levi Garrison and Ms. Zoey Lopez on their wedding!"

"On behalf of the Hunt family, Mario Hunt from South Hampton congratulates..."

"On behalf of the Quinn family, Hayden Quinn from South Hampton congratulates..."

...

These people's identities were revealed upon stepping into the venue.

Boom!

Meredith and the rest were utterly flabbergasted by then.

This... This... This...

The top ten royal families of South Hampton are all here!

Even Elder Goel is here in person!

This line-up is too good to be true.

Little did they know that this was only the beginning.

The quasi-royal clans and other big figures were waiting behind to offer their congratulatory wishes.

It seemed like all the top families from South Hampton were here to celebrate Levi and Zoey's wedding.

What... What is going on?

The Lopez and Black families traded looks with each other.

They were not acquainted with any of these people.

Neither were they qualified to be acquainted with them.

And yet, they were all here to offer their best wishes.

Could they be here for Levi?

"The Jones family from South Hampton is here to congratulate..."

Finally, a large number of people including Michael and Mia Jones arrived.

Today, Levi welcomed them here with open arms.

Upon seeing Levi come in together with these big shots from South Hampton, Meredith and the others could hardly wrap their minds around it.

Is this the surprise Levi was talking about?

This is completely unbelievable!

“Where’s Emma?”

Michael looked around in search of his daughter.

Someone in the crowd answered, “The bride’s family said that Ms. Jones is an embarrassment to them, so they deliberately stopped her from attending!”

Levi and Michael were incensed upon hearing this.

Michael roared, “What? My daughter, Emma, doesn’t have the right to attend the wedding? What about you lot? Are any of your statuses higher than my daughter’s?”

Meredith and the others finally understood.

It turned out that Levi’s disgraceful mother had a strong family background!

She was from the royal family of South Hampton and the daughter of Michael Jones!

It turned out that Levi hailed from that family.

No wonder he had announced that he had a surprise for them.

For the Lopez and Black families, the Jones family was considered completely out of their league.

Hence, this was enough of a surprise for them.

However, never in a million years did they expect Levi to have something bigger in store for them.

Even the Jones family was nothing compared to his real surprise.

“Hurry up and invite Ms. Jones out. We can’t very well stop her from attending the wedding, now can we?”

Meredith and a few others immediately invited Emma out with warm smiles on their faces.

Fortunately, she wasn't one to harbor grudges.

"We really never thought that you'd be from South Hampton's Jones family. You should've told us earlier!"

Everyone's attitudes towards Emma took a hundred and eighty degree turn, especially Aaron, Caitlyn and Meredith.

Aaron even patted Levi on the shoulder and complimented, "Levi, you definitely surprised us, I'll give you that!"

"You completely deserve to be with Zoey! We've misjudged you all this while."

The Lopez and Black families chattered away as they tried buttering him up.

Levi's status as the grandson of the Jones family was more than enough to appease them.

It was beyond their imaginations that the top 100 prominent families would personally attend the wedding.

They were even more delighted that Levi was from the Jones family.

However, the prominent families from South Hampton did not spare a glance at the Jones family whatsoever. It wasn't too far-fetched to say that the Joneses meant nothing to them.

They were only here for Levi.

Levi smiled and said, "Mom, Dad, this isn't the surprise. The real surprise is yet to come."

He was amused by everyone's assumption.

They consider this a surprise? Their expectations are way too low.

"Oh? There's another surprise?"

Aaron's eyes lit up with excitement, along with the rest of his family.

Meredith and her family were at the edge of their seats, teeming with anticipation.

Could Levi have another identity?

Or perhaps some other big figures are going to attend the wedding?

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1048

“Didn’t I tell you Levi is a great man? But all of you even tried to stop me back then.”

“See? He’s worthy after all. I completely approve of Levi!”

Aaron scoffed and ridiculed the others.

“Yes. Who wouldn’t like a good young man such as Levi?”

...

The Lopez and Black families had completely contradicted their previous selves.

This huge change in attitude was brought about by the knowledge of Levi’s status as the grandson of the Joneses.

Zoey felt very uneasy listening to them.

She didn’t want Levi to rely on his family background, but instead shine because of his own efforts.

However, her family only acknowledged him because of his background.

Zoey looked at Levi's side profile, hoping that the surprise he had for her would be because of his own hard work and not because of others.

Otherwise, she would be extremely disappointed.

Thereafter, Master Grover Cooke of the Southern Union and his Four Kings arrived at the wedding ceremony.

This caused an uproar within the Lopez and Black families because they had always looked up to those big figures.

Later on, several other people showed up as well.

They were the Garrisons from Haven, Jonah Garrison and his family.

Boom!

His attendance shocked everyone present.

Even Xabian Goel and his family could not sit still at the sight of the Garrisons, immediately scurrying over to greet them.

The Garrison family was a force to be reckoned with.

Meredith and the others trembled in their places, unable to move as if their legs were made of lead.

These surprises are getting too overwhelming!

They're considered an imperial family, which is superior to the royal families.

And they're here for Levi's wedding?

Who exactly is he?

Indeed, he saved the best for last!

Aaron wiped the cold sweat off his brow. "Levi, you're really overwhelming us with your surprises. From now on, whatever you say goes in the family!"

"Yes. From now on, you're in charge of the Lopez and Black families."

Both Harry and Robert gave Levi their consent.

Everyone's snobbish sides were on full display at this moment.

Earlier, they had even prevented Emma from attending the wedding.

At present, only Zoey and Emma felt uncomfortable.

Both women exchanged glances and sighed softly.

They thought that the appearance of the Garrisons from Haven was not a good sign.

However, they did not know about Levi's relation to the Garrison family and assumed that the latter was sent by the Garrison clan from Oakland City.

Zoey did not see this as a surprise at all.

Levi smiled. "Dad, this isn't the surprise I've prepared for you. In fact, it's far from it!"

"Boy, how can this not be a surprise? This is one of the imperial families! An imperial family is here for your wedding! What else can top this as a surprise?" Aaron chuckled.

Levi grinned in response.

Jonah Garrison's presence is really nothing much to be excited about.

Over there are Ezra Williamson and the other Commander-In-Chiefs of the Nine Warzones, as well as the Four Guardians. Which one of them won't own the room if given the chance?

"Since Levi says there's another surprise, why are you still doubting him? Just wait and see."

Meredith shot a glare at Aaron.

Both families were looking forward to Levi's final surprise.

Zoey was no exception.

She didn't want Levi's surprise to be all of this.

She wanted him to give her a surprise which was sculpted by his own two hands.

Very soon, all of the guests had arrived.

The wedding ceremony was about to begin.

Meanwhile, in North Hampton.

Damien had just left his place.

"The wedding is almost starting. We'll be just in time if we rush over now!" Damien grinned.

"You're right, Mr. Damien!" said his subordinate.

"Has the gift been prepared?" Damien queried.

"Yes!"

An eerie smile played on the corner of Damien's lips. "I think you'll like my gift, Levi Garrison. Hahahaha..."

"Wishing you a happy marriage!"

Damien threw his head back with laughter.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1049

Just then, Damien received a call from Tyrone.

“Damien, I heard that it’s his wedding today?” Tyrone asked.

“Yeah. I’m about to head over there,” Damien answered.

There was momentary silence before Tyrone spoke, “Try to resolve things as peacefully as possible and don’t cause any deaths. If he gives in and begs the Garrison family, you can choose to let him off the hook! After all, many people know about his existence. Killing him won’t benefit our family.”

“Rest assured, Father. I’ve prepared a huge gift for that bas*ard. I’ll make him kneel at my feet and beg for mercy. Of course, it won’t be easy getting me to spare him. He has to pay a painful price for his actions.” Damien sneered.

“Mmm. You go ahead and take care of it then! I’m mainly concerned about the undesirable consequences we might face because of this. Other than that, I don’t care much about his wellbeing, so just do as you see fit.”

With that, Tyrone ended the call.

Zoey’s friends and relatives who attended the wedding this time were more or less the same people.

On the other hand, Levi’s guests took up more than half of the venue and livened up the occasion.

His mother, sister and many other close friends were present.

Only his late best friend, Morris, was absent. But his parents had come in person.

To Levi, the wedding this time was perfect and enough to compensate for all the regrets from the past six years.

It was the same for Zoey.

Before long, the wedding officially began.

Zoey held onto Aaron's arm as they walked towards Levi.

Both of them tightly embraced each other.

Thud. Thud. Thud.

At that exact moment, two troops of men in black suits marched into the venue in a neat and orderly manner.

Besides that, there were people pushing in cannons behind them.

Of course, those were firework cannons.

These people were from the Dragon Legion and led by Alfie Steele.

Once everything was set in place, Alfie commanded, "Fire!"

Ceremonial fireworks shot up into the sky, resulting in booming sounds reverberating through the whole area.

The atmosphere was extremely joyous.

Compared to six years ago, Zoey was much more satisfied now.

In fact, she was on the verge of shedding tears of joy.

"Honey, don't get emotional just yet. This isn't even the real surprise."

Levi helped Zoey to dab away her tears.

“Mm, I’m waiting,” Zoey replied.

The wedding ceremony went on as planned.

Meanwhile, the Lopez and Black families were getting more impatient by the second.

When is Levi’s actual surprise going to be revealed?

They could barely wait a second longer.

The first half of the wedding was over.

“Next up, let’s listen to the groom’s heartfelt confession!”

The host passed the microphone to Levi.

After taking over the microphone, Levi greeted everyone present first.

Finally, he directed his gaze towards Zoey.

“Zoey, thank you for staying with me until this day!”

Levi held Zoey’s hand as he spoke.

“Over the years, you have been wronged and have suffered too much. I know about it all!”

“Even when I was down and out, you never once belittled me. You only wished for me to get back on my feet! Having you beside me for the rest of my life is more than enough for me.”

...

Tears were already streaming down Zoey’s cheeks by then.

“Zoey, more than anything else, I understand that you don’t want me to rely on anyone else other than myself to give you a huge surprise.”

“Well, the surprise is coming right up! Please wait a moment and I’ll tell you once I’m back. I’ll prove to you that your man can rule the world!”

...

The wedding came to a brief cessation.

Levi, Azure Dragon and several of them went to the changing room.

All of them changed into their military uniforms.

At that moment, Levi’s commanding and majestic aura was in full force.

He didn’t forget to grab the gift he had prepared beforehand as well.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1050

Azure Dragon and Kirin adjusted Levi’s uniform.

Then, four of them stepped to the side and saluted him.

Levi returned their salutes.

Upon donning their uniforms, their identities had completely changed.

They were not the only ones who changed out of their clothes.

Even Ezra and the others had done the same.

After all, Levi wanted to give Zoey the best surprise ever!

The man she was waiting for was now officially Erudia's God of War.

The Lopez and Black families were anxiously waiting to be surprised while Levi and his men had gone off to change.

"What's going on? What surprise has he prepared?"

Aaron was so nervous that he became slightly out of breath.

The others were not faring any better either.

They racked their brains as they tried to guess what kind of surprise could top the attendance of the Jones family and the Garrisons from Haven.

However, none came close to it.

Each of them felt their throats go dry as they awaited the big reveal.

Zoey was the most tormented one out of them all.

It was only several minutes, but it felt as if centuries had passed for her.

The wait was indeed too torturous.

Russell and Jonah, who somewhat knew that truth, were also at the edge of their seats.

They were certain that Levi would appear as the God of War later.

When that happened, everyone would no doubt be thrown off their seats.

Although Emma was excited, she had a vague premonition of an imminent disaster.

After all, the Garrison family knew about the wedding today.

In the villa.

Levi and the rest were all dressed in their military uniforms.

“Get into formation!” Levi commanded.

With that, everyone formed two rows.

Levi stood in the center.

“On my command. Move out!”

Thud! Thud! Thud!

They marched towards the wedding venue.

Vroom...

Suddenly, a commotion sounded from outside.

One by one, vehicles had come to a halt just beyond the gates.

Many people stepped out of the vehicles.

The one taking the lead was none other than Damien Garrison.

By then, the Royal Villa was surrounded by thousands of people.

After all, Damien’s safety was of top priority.

The ruckus outside grabbed the attention of the guests at the wedding. Everyone stood up to get a peek of the situation.

“What? There’s still someone coming for the wedding at this hour?”

Everyone was confused.

“Or is this the surprise Levi prepared for us?”

Unable to wait anymore, Aaron and several others got to their feet and went to greet the newcomers.

Boom!

However, when Emma and a few others heard the noise, their faces fell.

Her worries had come true.

This was inevitable.

"I'm not late, am I?" A voice abruptly rang out.

Everyone looked over and saw a handsome young man languidly walking in with dozens of people in tow.

Those fighters were all the best of the best.

"Who is this?"

The guests were baffled

Just right then, Jonah Garrison and his family stepped forward. "Greetings, Mr. Damien!"

"Mr. Damien?"

Confusion was still sprawled across everyone's faces.

After all, someone of his status was far from their reach.

Aaron came forward with a flattering smile. "Sir, you must be here for my son-in-law, Levi."

"Yes, you're right. I'm here to attend Levi Garrison's wedding. I even prepared a huge gift for him!" Damien's mouth stretched into a broad grin.

"Please, come in! Come in!"

They welcomed Damien and his company into the venue.

Although they did not know Damien's identity, from his appearance and demeanor, they could tell that he was no ordinary man.

His identity would no doubt come as a shock to the guests.

His grand entrance alone was enough to differentiate him from the rest.

Damien did not take a seat, but went to the stage and grabbed the microphone from the host instead. Then, he asked with a smile, "Where is Levi Garrison?"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1051

The troop which had just exited the villa paused in their march upon hearing the man's voice.

"What's going on?"

Levi had already sensed the imminent danger.

White Tiger carefully assessed their surroundings.

He gasped softly and reported, "Fighters! The whole place has been surrounded by elite fighters!"

"Mm, you're right. There are at least a thousand of them and their numbers are still increasing," Ezra added.

These killing machines from the battlefield had already sensed the presence of Damien's men.

"Phoenix, what's the situation at the front?" Levi asked.

"Jonah Garrison addressed him as Mr. Damien. So it's probably Damien Garrison," Phoenix answered.

"Alright, understood," said Levi.

"Should we get into battle right away?" Ezra queried.

“No. Let’s change back into our previous attire. For the time being, I don’t want to expose my identity to Damien. I’ll only reveal my identity after I’ve brought down his family! It’s not appropriate to do it right now.”

Ezra’s eyes widened in surprise. “What? Boss! I know that you don’t want the Garrison family to know your identity, but you’ve already promised to give your wife a surprise. Are you going to keep hiding it from her?”

The others also stared at Levi with doubt.

He sighed in response and said, “I don’t have a choice. I guess I’ll have to tell Zoey some other time.”

“Besides, Damien isn’t here to genuinely congratulate me on my wedding!” Levi sighed.

“Alright. Let’s all change back into our previous attire!”

Soon, everyone was back in their original clothes.

On the stage.

“While waiting for the groom, allow me to introduce myself!”

“My name is Damien Garrison, and I’m from the Garrison clan of Oakland City!”

Hearing this, everyone only noted that Levi and Damien had the same surnames, and did not think much about it.

After all, no one present was privy to the details of the Garrison clan from Oakland City.

Even Xabian Goel did not have a deep understanding of that clan.

Only Emma, Zoey and a handful of people were terrified by this.

Damien’s lips curled upwards upon seeing the clueless looks of the audience.

As expected, they’re a bunch of oblivious commoners.

They are so ignorant.

They don't even know what the Garrison clan is?

It's no wonder Levi is completely full of himself to the point of disrespecting the Garrison clan. It's all because he grew up in an environment like this.

Pathetic.

A bunch of ignorant idiots.

Damien sneered. "Perhaps all of you don't fully understand the workings of the Garrison clan. Allow me to enlighten you. A servant from my family by the name of Caleb had ruled over the entire South Hampton for almost thirty years."

Everyone gasped when they heard this and looked towards the families from South Hampton for confirmation.

Xabian Goel and the other relevant families nodded, confirming that what he said was indeed true.

Everyone was dumbfounded.

This particular Garrison family must be immensely powerful!

"The Garrison clan from Oakland City is also known as the most powerful ancient family in the country, the Head of Erudia!" Damien announced.

The crowd gasped once again.

After getting the clearer picture of things, everyone was shell-shocked.

Aaron and his family gradually regained their senses.

Levi shares the same surname as them.

Could he be related to the Garrison clan from Oakland City?

Could this be the final surprise Levi prepared for us?

“Could Levi be a member of the Garrison clan from Oakland City?”

Aaron’s face brightened with excitement.

Everyone glanced expectantly at Damien.

Damien scoffed. “No. He isn’t qualified to be a member of our clan.”

These people are indeed hoi polloi.

They’re thinking of riding on Levi Garrison’s coattails?

In their dreams!

A lowly beggar like him doesn’t hold a candle to me.

“Huh?”

Disappointment was written across the faces of Aaron and the others.

Right at that moment, Levi led his men back to the wedding.

“You’ve got some guts coming to my wedding, Damien. Where did you even pluck the courage from?” Levi growled.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1052

Damien looked towards the source of the voice.

As his eyes met with Levi's, animosity filled the air.

In the small space, their gazes resembled sharp blades ferociously colliding with each other.

The tension in the air grew so thick it could be sliced with a blade.

This was the first time Levi came face-to-face with Damien.

The two half-brothers stared each other down, resembling old enemies.

They were filled with a sense of familiarity and foreignness at the same time.

"Huh? How dare you disrespect Mr. Damien? You're courting death!"

Damien's men who were flanking him disapproved of his behavior and wanted to kill him instantly.

In Oakland City, which was also the Garrison's territory, no one dared to look Damien in the eye, let alone be speak to him in such a manner.

The way Levi was staring daggers at Damien was utterly disrespectful.

And disrespecting Damien meant death.

This was the rule set by the Garrison clan and everyone had to abide by it.

"Hold on!"

Damien waved a casual hand, gesturing for his men to stop.

Damien glanced at Levi and said, "You're worse than I expected!"

"Especially when I saw the environment and people you've surrounded yourself with. It makes me even more disappointed!"

Levi's smile broadened at that. "You've greatly disappointed me as well, because I've realized that you're nothing but a child!"

Although Levi was only two years older than Damien, his experience in the past six years was something most people would never be able to gain even if they were given a lifetime.

Even someone with rich experiences such as Damien had to look up to him.

Hence, Damien really did seem like a child to him.

Absolutely childish!

Yet he wants to mess with me?

Levi wasn't the least bit interested to play with a child.

Perhaps only Kenny and Tyrone Garrison would catch his attention, albeit barely.

"Is this all there is to the younger generation of the Garrisons?"

Levi spread out his hands.

"Hahahaha..." Out of everyone else's expectations, Damien burst with laughter.

"I've long heard rumors saying that you were an insolent fool, and now I've seen it firsthand! You indeed live up to your reputation!"

Damien's men cackled with laughter as well.

However, they were all mocking Levi.

A bas*ard child dares to look down on Damien?

Has he lost his mind?

Sure enough. People like him can't differentiate between gold and dirt.

He is just a narrow-minded and ignorant pig.

His achievements in life would no doubt be limited as well.

Therefore, he's not qualified to be associated with the Garrisons.

Damien scrutinized Levi and asked, "I wonder if you have the power to back your statement?"

"Of course I..."

Levi was about to answer when he was interrupted by Jason Lowe.

"Don't speak too rashly, Levi! This is Mr. Damien you're talking to! You obviously don't know much about the Garrisons. Listen to me and stop provoking him!"

Even his close buddy, Mateo Jackman, advised him, "Levi, just bear with it. He's not someone we can afford to offend."

Emma came over to her son and offered him the same advice.

When Damien saw this, he laughed aloud. "It seems like there are some smart people here who know about my family's influence!"

"They're right, Levi. I'm not someone you can afford to offend. You really know too little about us. But once you get the gist of our power, you won't be speaking so arrogantly anymore."

Damien looked down his nose at Levi, sizing him up.

A murderous glint appeared in Levi's eyes as one side of his mouth quirked up into a cold smirk.

Emma was holding onto him with a death grip.

"Son, don't! We can't offend them, so please bear with it!"

Damien's gaze abruptly landed on Emma just then.

“So you’re Emma Jones! Tsk, tsk, tsk. To tell you the truth, my father’s taste back then was pretty bad. Or perhaps he was a blind fool. I mean, how could he have fallen for you?”

“Oh, I get it. You must’ve found a way to seduce my father, right?”

The moment these words left his lips, Damien felt the temperature around him drop sharply.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1053

In an instant, Damien felt as if he was in the North Pole.

He shivered as a chill penetrated his body and seeped into his veins.

This was not simply a feeling, but something far more substantial.

Everyone present could feel the drastic drop in temperature.

One glance at Levi showed how livid he was.

Damien had spoken about his mother in such a way right in front of him.

Death was the only thing waiting for him!

Seeing Levi’s rage, Damien couldn’t help but smirk. “What? Are you angry? Well, this is a fact. If it weren’t for Emma Jones seducing my father, how could he have fallen for her? How could you have come to exist?”

“A b*tch giving birth to a bastard! What a joke!”

Damien's men snickered alongside him.

"You're courting your own death, you know that?" Levi's voice deepened.

His eyes flashed menacingly.

"Boss, you can't... This... This is your wedding..."

Ezra and the others who knew Levi well could tell that he was well and truly enraged this time.

Damien had really pushed all of his buttons.

Based on how Levi usually reacted on the battlefield, he would definitely go on a full-blown massacre.

Damien and his men would not be able to walk away alive today.

However, this was a wedding and Levi could not afford to ruin it.

Zoey and Emma were desperately holding Levi back, afraid that he might do something reckless on impulse.

"Calm down. This is your wedding! Don't ruin it!"

Only then did Levi put a lid on his anger.

He did not wish for his and Zoey's wedding to become a bloodbath either.

"What? Are you angry? Do you wanna kill me?"

Damien laughed evilly.

As expected of an impulsive person. I was able to provoke him with just a couple of words.

Why don't you take a good look at who you're facing, huh?

I'm Damien Garrison!

I'm a descendant of Erudia's number one ancient family!

It was at this moment that everyone gradually understood.

Levi was indeed a member of the Garrison clan from Oakland City.

However, he was an illegitimate child.

A surprise?

This was indeed an earth-shattering surprise!

Meredith and the others were not angered or fearful in the least. On the contrary, they were brimming with excitement.

So what if he's an illegitimate child of the Garrison family?

He's still part of the Garrisons from Oakland City!

Perhaps he's not welcomed by Oakland City's Garrisons, but with his status as part of their family, Levi would be able to get whatever he wants.

Putting aside everything else, one word from Levi would be enough to place the Lopez and Black families on the throne overseeing the South.

This was indeed a surprise.

It turned out that Levi did not lie to them.

"Levi, this surprise of yours is too perfect. I can't believe you're a member of the Garrison clan from Oakland City!"

Aaron almost gave Levi a thumbs-up.

"A member of the Garrison clan from Oakland City? Hahaha... Who said that?" Damien scoffed.

"Isn't he your older brother? That means he's a member of the Garrison clan," Aaron said matter-of-factly.

Two laser beams seemed to shoot out of Damien's eyes. "The Garrison clan does not acknowledge him as one of us! Not just any Tom, Dick and Harry can enter our clan! He's just a bas*ard child! What right does he have?"

"Huh? Mr. Damien, that can't be right. Of course he has the right to be a part of your clan. At the very least, my son-in-law has the Garrison blood flowing in his veins, does he not?"

Aaron and the rest looked at Damien expectantly.

"Yes, yes, yes. We beseech you, Mr. Damien. Allow my son-in-law to enter your clan! He's actually quite capable and can definitely contribute to your clan."

...

Meredith and a few of them quickly pleaded with him, so that they could ride the coattails of the Garrisons from Oakland City.

They were so eager that they were about to grovel at Damien's feet.

How could they let this once-in-a-lifetime opportunity slip through their fingers?

Damien touched his nose and smirked. "Allowing Levi to enter the Garrison clan isn't completely impossible, but he has to fulfil some conditions..."

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1054

"Huh? What conditions? Please tell us, Mr. Damien!" Meredith blurted out.

Everyone cast curious glances at Damien.

Damien looked at Levi with a smug smile. "I want Levi to kneel at my feet and beg me! If you can kneel for half a day and beg me, perhaps I'll let you off the hook, and even acknowledge you as part of our clan!"

"It's either that, or getting each and every member of the Garrison clan to acknowledge you, if you have what it takes, of course. Then only can you be qualified enter the clan."

Everyone completely dismissed the second condition upon hearing it.

Getting the acknowledgement of every member in the Garrison clan?

How capable would one have to be?

How could Levi possibly be able to do that!

His biggest accomplishment was Levi Group from six years ago.

However, Levi Group was nothing but a speck of dust to the Garrison clan.

Hence, everyone had come to the same conclusion. There was only one way Levi could only enter the Garrison clan; by begging on his knees.

Although this way was slightly humiliating, it was nothing compared to the glory of entering the Garrison clan.

Honestly speaking, many of them wouldn't mind eating sh*t if it meant being a part of the Garrison clan, let alone getting on their knees to grovel a little.

Almost everyone present shared similar thoughts on this.

Once a person officially became a part of the clan, he or she would have an insurmountable position and receive infinite glory and wealth.

In fact, that description barely scraped the tip of the iceberg.

At that moment, everyone wished that they were Levi.

So that they could kneel before Damien at once.

Meredith stared at Damien and asked, "Mr. Damien, you can't go back on your words. If Levi gets on his knees to beg you, can you really fulfil your earlier promise?"

"Hahaha. Of course! I'm Damien Garrison. So of course I have a responsibility to stay true to my words!"

He chuckled and continued, "Besides, there are so many people here to bear witness. Would I dare to ruin my family's image?"

"That's great!"

Meredith was so excited she could barely stay still.

The opportunity to be associated with the most powerful family in Erudia was right at within their grasps.

Meredith, Harry and the rest of them turned towards Levi. "Well, what are you waiting for? Hurry up and kneel before Mr. Damien!"

"That's right. Don't be so slow-witted, boy! Quickly get on your knees! Mr. Damien has already said that he'll let you enter the Garrison clan if you beg him on your knees!"

Faced with the crowd's urging, Levi did not move a muscle.

All he did was pin Damien a frosty stare.

"Levi, stop pretending. I know you're eager to enter the Garrison clan. Why are you still pretending at a time like this? I'm telling you, you get have one chance at this. If you miss it, that's it!"

"Besides, once you kneel and beg me, I'll write off all your past mistakes too! You don't want your mother and wife to get hurt because of you, right?" Damien said.

Zoey cast a nervous glance at Levi.

She was afraid that Levi would kneel in front of Damien.

He was a proud man.

If he got on his knees, Zoey might even have to reconsider marrying him.

Levi would have completely lost her respect if that happened.

At the same time, she believed that Levi would not kneel.

However, the circumstances were different right now.

Faced with a powerful figure such as Damien, Levi might really give in for the sake of his mother and her.

She was very worried.

"Levi, what are you waiting for? Quickly kneel and grovel a little. That's all you have to do."

Jason and Mateo advised him as well.

To all of them, Levi only needed to bend his knees and grovel, and he would be able to gain access to infinite power.

And also to all of them, bending the knee was nothing.

Little did they know that this was a matter of dignity to Levi!

It was comparable to the dignity of Erudia which emphasized to never surrender an inch of ground!

As someone who rarely bowed to anything or anyone, how could Levi give in to someone like Damien?

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1055

Levi remained standing and did not have the intention to kneel whatsoever.

Aaron and his family were so anxious that they almost pushed Levi down to the ground.

Damien eyed Levi and growled, "Are you going to kneel or not?"

"Levi, stop thinking and just kneel!" Meredith urged loudly.

Before Levi could say a word, Emma walked forward and offered, "Mr. Damien, is it alright if I kneel for you instead?"

"Our family won't ask to be a part of the Garrison clan. It's too extravagant of a wish. I only ask that your clan let us go and stop making things difficult for us! We promise not to cause your clan any trouble in the future!"

Over a short time of knowing Levi, Emma found that he was a proud man through and through.

Not a single bone in his body was submissive!

There was no way he would get on his knees!

Hence, she was willing to kneel in her son's stead.

"Hahaha..." Damien laughed out loud upon seeing this turn of events.

"Really? You're willing to kneel for Levi?" he asked.

"As long as you promise to let us go, I'm willing to kneel at your feet, Mr. Damien!" Emma assured.

As a mother, she could not care less about her dignity when it came to her son.

Her only wish was for Levi and Zoey to live a happy life together.

Thus, she was willing to do anything to make that happen.

That was just how a mother was.

For the sake of her son and daughter-in-law, she would selflessly sacrifice herself without batting an eyelid.

"Sure, you can kneel. It doesn't matter whether you or Levi kneels. It's all the same to me."

"I'll let all of you off the hook as long as you kneel and grovel in front of me."

Damien wore a hideous smile on his face.

He enjoyed the feeling of toying with others just because he could.

He knew that to Levi, allowing his mother to kneel in his stead was even worse than him kneeling himself.

After all, no one could bear to watch their own mother being humiliated.

It was especially true for a proud man like Levi.

The humiliation he felt would be tenfold.

Damien smirked at Levi. "Levi, your mother is going to kneel in your place. Are you just going to watch?"

"Nonetheless, the effect would be same. Whether you or your mother kneels, I'll let all of you go! I'll even allow you to enter our clan!"

Damien was actually openly goading Levi.

"Levi, since you're not going to kneel, your mother will have to do it. Quickly get on your knees, Emma!" Meredith continued urging.

Others also chimed in with their advices.

Emma only has to kneel and everything would be settled.

Perhaps Levi needs to maintain his dignity and can't put down his ego to kneel.

But what dignity does Emma have?

She should just kneel right now.

"Don't kneel!"

Michael and Mia hastily advised Emma against it.

How could the mother of the revered God of War kneel before another person?

"Does the Jones family really want to side against the Garrison clan?" Damien sneered.

"You must not kneel, Ms. Jones! You must not!"

Xabian Goel and the other leaders of South Hampton's prominent families raised their objections one after another.

They were adamant on stopping Emma from kneeling.

Damien took note of everything. "Very well. All of the prominent families from South Hampton must have gone mad, huh? I will make sure to settle the scores with each and every one of you!"

Damien's gaze returned to Emma as he stated, "There's a limit to my patience. I'll count to three. If you don't kneel, that's it."

"Mr. Damien, don't do this. Please heed my advice and leave at once. This is a wedding, after all!" Jonah Garrison stepped forward to warn him.

He was really afraid that Damien would lose his life here.

"Hahahaha... wedding? Well, gatecrashing his wedding is exactly what I want to do!" Damien guffawed.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1056

Damien was a tyrant and a bully.

He did not even bother to hide it!

Above all, he was the descendant of the most powerful ancient family in Erudia.

Even the second-most powerful ancient family had to answer to him.

Who in Erudia would dare to offend him?

That was the reason he pranced around on his high horse and did whatever he liked.

Everyone was beneath him.

Especially back in North Hampton, no one could stop him.

Ruining a mere wedding was child's play to him.

Jonah heaved a sigh and silently retreated to the back.

What could he do if Damien refused to heed his advice?

He was just asking for it at this point.

"Aren't you going to kneel yet, Emma?" Meredith yelled, along with several others.

The fate of Levi, as well as the Lopez and Black families rested on Emma's shoulders now. She had the power to help them soar through the ranks.

Hence, they were more frantic than anyone else at the scene.

After all, this involved their own interests.

Emma inhaled deeply and was about to kneel when a large palm held her back.

"My mother will never kneel before anyone! Not even when the sky falls and the earth crumbles!" Levi stated coldly.

"As for me kneeling before you? You can forget about it! But if you kneel before me right now, perhaps I'll spare your pathetic excuse of a life!"

His words startled everyone.

The moment he spoke those words, the entire venue was filled with gasps.

Everyone stared at him in wide-eyed disbelief.

Isn't he openly challenging Damien?

He even wants Damien to kneel?

He must be kidding!

Is he insane?

"Hahahaha..." Booming laughter escaped Damien's lips.

"Great. I see you have a spine! Or to be more precise, you're an arrogant fool who knows no better. You don't realize how powerful the Garrison clan is and the dangers you would be facing. An ignorant person knows no fear."

Damien's lips curled into a sneer.

Meredith and the others were utterly disappointed.

Just like that, the opportunity to make it big slipped away...

Levi clearly had it right in the palm of his hand, but he threw it away.

"Mr. Damien, please give us one more chance. Why don't we kneel for you? We will definitely discipline Levi after this," Meredith and some of them begged.

They were unwilling to let such an opportunity slip away.

Damien looked at Levi and said, "See? They're more sensible than you."

"But I told you that you'd only have one chance. I've given it, so there are no more chances now."

The Lopez and Black families were unable to accept how things had turned out.

Disappointment flooded them; utter disappointment!

Is Levi a f*cking idiot?

How could he turn down such a good opportunity?

What's he acting all high and mighty for?

His damned pride cost us a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity.

Damien smiled. "You're as stubborn as a mule, Levi, but you will kneel at my feet."

"Damien, today is my wedding day, so I won't hold this against you. Now, leave at once!" Levi lowered his voice the best he could as he spoke to Damien.

If today wasn't his big day, he would have shred Damien into pieces right in front of everyone.

He had messed up his wedding with Zoey once.

He did not want it to happen a second time.

Hence, he would spare Damien's life this time around and settle the scores after everything was over.

"How dare you chase Mr. Damien away, Levi? Are you mad?"

Of course, Meredith and the rest did not dare to step on Damien's toes.

Damien feigned a sigh. "I never wanted to attend this wedding. I only came to take a look and present you a huge gift!"

With that, he ordered his men, "Bring the gift over!"

He fixed his gaze on Levi with a grin. "This is a gift I've specially prepared for you. I hope you like it!"

A car drove in.

An object was carried down the car and moved into the wedding venue.

Boom!

Upon seeing the gift prepared by Damien, everyone's expression changed drastically.

Especially Levi...

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1057

It wasn't because of him, but the present that Damien gave.

He had given the couple a funeral wreath, a coffin, and a gravestone.

Both the gravestone and the wreath had Levi's name clearly written on them.

It was preposterous for Damien to gift him something like this on his wedding day.

It was quite obvious that he had cruel intentions.

A hush fell over the entire room. Instantly, the temperature in the room fell by a few degrees.

Everyone was shocked by Damien's gift.

Who in their right mind would send these as wedding gifts?

Zoey was furious, too.

She had her perfect wedding all planned out nicely. Now, she would have to live with this unhappy memory for the rest of her life.

Azure Dragon, Kirin, Ezra, and the others were so livid they were about to burst.

Who dared to stir up trouble at the God of War's wedding?

They could not tolerate it!

No matter how they tried to hold back their anger, they felt as though they were about to explode.

White Tiger, who had the fiercest temper among all of them, gazed at Damien with his eyes full of murderous hatred.

His thoughts now were very simple. First, he would kill Damien. Then, he would make his way up to Oakland City and kill the entire ancient family to which Damien belonged.

"Well, looks like you've developed quite a liking towards my gifts! I won't bother you anymore—go ahead and get married!"

After delivering his presents and rubbing Levi Garrison the wrong way, Damien turned to leave.

He enjoyed the feeling of slowly torturing someone to death, instead of killing them off instantly.

He wanted to see how stupid Levi would look when he was furious but completely helpless.

Torturing Levi to death sounded like an excellent plan.

In fact, by the time he was through, Levi would not want to live anymore—but he also wouldn't be able to die.

Damien knew that Levi was close to exploding with rage.

However, he didn't have the ability to go up against Damien, and could only force himself to not lash out.

White Tiger roared loudly, "Boss, allow me to kill off this insolent fool!"

This time, nobody tried to stop White Tiger.

This was because they shared the same idea as him—to kill Damien.

Since he had committed such an appalling act against Levi, he had to pay the price for it!

"Boss, one word from you is all I need! When I hear it from you, I'll make sure to raze the home of the Garrison family in Oakland City to the ground!" Ezra and the others cried, pleading with Levi to let them take revenge.

They were so furious that they couldn't tolerate Damien's behavior anymore, especially when they saw that Damien was about to get into the car and drive off.

Levi's thoughts mirrored theirs quite exactly.

Just as he was about to issue a kill order on Damien, he caught Zoey's eye.

Don't do it.

Zoey shook her head almost imperceptibly, warning him not to behave recklessly.

Damien's goal was very simple. He wanted to aggravate Levi so that Levi would feel obliged to kill him.

He would then have a solid reason to finish Levi off, and the Garrison family would get away scot-free.

Damien was a very smart man. Even his actions, which seemed unplanned and reckless, had been carefully calculated in view of his grand plans.

"Let him leave!" Levi snapped, taking a deep breath to steady himself.

The audience let out a sigh of disappointment

"Keep this coffin! Remember not to throw it away or damage it! I'll be using this on Damien Garrison one day," Levi said blandly.

"Got it!" A spark of excitement lit up in White Tiger's eyes again.

Levi was making plans for the future; he would use these items when he had an opportunity to get back at Damien.

He decided to let the fool revel in his happiness for a few more days...

The wedding continued on as though nothing had happened.

Aside from Damien's intrusion, everything went perfectly as planned.

"Sorry, Zoey. I'm afraid your dream of a perfect wedding was ruined," Levi apologized.

"No worries! Actually, don't they say that the most beautiful memories are the ones in which we feel regret? I'll forget about it soon enough. You've given me a wedding that was more than perfect!"

"I support you for holding your ground against the Garrison family! In fact, I'm very pleased with it. Let me join you in the dangerous task of seeking revenge against them!" Zoey said.

“Don’t worry. I’ll never kneel before anyone—not now, not ever! Frankly, I doubt it’s of any concern—the Garrison family won’t do anything to me,” Levi promised her.

“Yes, I know that. Even if you were to start a fight against the Garrison family, they have no reason to respond to you.”

Changing the topic naturally, she continued, “By the way, where’s the surprise you promised me?”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1058

Leave a Comment / The Protector / By Chapter Novel

“Ah, the surprise! Of course.” Levi laughed brightly.

Everyone in the audience turned to look at them.

Under all their gazes, Levi took out a customized necklace along with a ring and helped Zoey put them on.

Seeing the necklace and ring made out of reconstituted ammunition cases, Zoey felt extremely touched.

These were much more valuable than necklaces and rings that cost millions.

Zoey grabbed the necklace tightly in her hands. “This is the best gift I’ve received in my entire life!”

She then glanced at Levi and commented, “But this can’t be the surprise you were planning on giving me, right?”

Levi had put in so much effort to organize the wedding.

There was no way these two pieces of jewelry were his surprise.

Levi had announced to everyone that he had not been to jail at all. Perhaps he would use this time to explain everything to them once and for all.

“Well, go ahead and tell me! I hope you’ll personally let me know what this surprise is. I’ve been waiting for this for so long!”

Zoey looked at him in eager anticipation.

Levi’s expression looked rather conflicted.

If Damien hadn’t intruded on their wedding today, he would’ve told Zoey all of his secrets and revealed his true identity.

After all, he was already wearing his military uniform...

Now that the arrow was already on the bow, he had no reason not to fire.

If he didn’t reveal at least a little something, Zoey was bound to be very confused.

“To tell you the truth... I’m the mysterious boss of the Morris Group!” Levi blurted out.

Because of the matter with the Garrison family, he was temporarily unable to reveal his identity as the God of War.

However, it was now the right time to reveal his identity as the boss of Morris Group, since the Garrison family already knew about it anyway.

Hearing this, murmurs ran through the crowd. The audience was stunned by what he had just said.

The Lopez and Black families were especially flabbergasted.

Slowly, they all turned to look at Levi with disbelief on their faces.

This man, whom we've always regarded as a beggarly loser, turns out to be the mysterious boss of Morris Group?

That Morris Group to which Triple Group could barely hold a candle?

Meredith and the others were so stunned that they stood up from their seats...

They were all trembling from head to toe, especially Aaron and Caitlyn.

Thinking back to the incidents that had happened back in North Hampton, both of them felt thunderstruck. They gazed at Levi as though their eyeballs were going to pop out of their sockets.

The Lopez and Black families gazed at each other in fear.

Before this, they had found no explanation for the preposterous acts Levi had been displaying. Now, they finally realized what had been going on all along.

He was the boss of Morris Group; there was no need for him to be afraid of anyone.

He also had no special reason to fear the Lopez and Black families, either.

When Zoey heard this, she burst into a loud wail. Her body trembled as she cried; tears cascaded down her face uncontrollably.

It was as though a dam had burst inside her.

This was why the boss of Morris Group had kept helping her without any demands for compensation.

This was why Levi had been working at Morris Group under his disguise of a nobody.

This was why Iris stammered like an idiot and spoke vaguely and evasively after she came back from meeting the mysterious boss.

This was why Levi Group had changed its name to the Morris Group.

...

Everything had been pointing to the fact that Levi was the head of Morris Group.

Aside from Levi, nobody else in the world would treat Zoey so well.

Actually, when Levi informed her that he had a surprise for her, she had already had her suspicions about what he was going to tell her.

The signs had been there all along. With hindsight, it was painfully obvious.

In fact, Zoey's suspicion started when she noted Iris's strange expression after the latter learned of the identity of that mysterious boss.

When she thought back on it, all the signs led to Levi being that person.

Hence, even before the wedding, she had already guessed that the surprise would have something to do with his identity.

But she still wanted to hear the confession from Levi himself.

Finally, she received the confirmation that she wanted.

Zoey threw her arms around Levi and cried, "Levi, you're still the biggest hero to me!"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1059

At that moment, an image of Levi from six years ago flashed across her mind. Back then, he was young and idealistic.

Without help from anyone else, he had managed to make a name for himself and establish his company through his own efforts.

This was what she most admired about Levi.

Even after six years, Levi still retained the bravado and tenacity he had in his younger days.

However, he had learned to be less aggressive and to hide his powers when necessary.

Other than that, his achievements and his character remained much the same as before. Zoey felt that he had even improved somewhat.

She was very pleased with how Levi was right now.

She didn't care about the number of achievements he had. As long as he still possessed the fortitude he had back then, she would be satisfied.

"To me, this is the biggest surprise you could have given me," she continued to sob, drenching the front of his suit.

Levi wiped the tears from her face and gazed at her with conflicted emotions.

In his heart, he added: Actually, this isn't the surprise I intended to tell you! The real surprise must be hidden from you for now.

However, it would only take him a while more to clear things up with the Garrison family. By then, Zoey would find out for herself, too.

He believed that the day would come soon!

Although Levi had just announced that he was the mysterious boss of Morris Group, nobody at the wedding aside from Zoey could feel happy for him.

Sure, as the head of Morris Group, Levi Garrison had the most prestigious status out of everyone in South Hampton and its surrounding lands.

However, the Garrison clan was intent on creating trouble for him.

This lent a touch of sorrow to Levi's small bit of achievement.

In front of a tremendously powerful clan like the Garrisons, the Morris Group was practically nothing.

Worse still, Levi and the Garrison clan went back a long way and they loathed each other bitterly.

Levi was in for a very rough and dangerous time.

While he was the esteemed boss of the Morris Group, he was still nothing but an ordinary person to the Garrisons.

"Oh, Levi! We are all very happy to hear that you're the boss of Morris Group. However, the little power you have is nothing compared to that of the Garrison family. You must be delusional if you think you can take them down!"

Jason had a very clear understanding of the Garrison family's power. He knew that if Levi tried to go up against them, he would be destroyed instantly like an egg that had been hurled against a rock.

Even Emma tried to dissuade him. "My son, I'm already very proud of you for your achievements. However, this is the Garrison family you're up against. Why don't you let me go to them and plead for your life on your behalf? Why can't we live peacefully instead of stirring up trouble with them?"

Meredith and the others agreed immediately. "Exactly! Just get down on your knees and prostrate yourself before Mr. Damien! It shouldn't be that hard."

"Can you survive on dignity alone? Forgive me for being blunt, but you're too hung up on dignity!"

"Exactly! As long as you kneel before Mr. Damien and plead for your life, you'll be recognized as a young master of the Garrison family. You'll have as much riches and glory as you'll ever need. Isn't that a great deal?"

"Besides, are you willing to put Zoey through this sort of danger? What if you put the child inside her belly in danger as well? Have you ever thought about that?"

...

As for the Lopez and Black families, they much preferred the idea of sucking up to the Garrison family.

Levi's status as the boss of the Morris Group made him as useful as the "p" in raspberry.

In fact, he was in a great deal of physical danger himself.

They could not count on him to protect them.

"Levi, you might be very strong in other areas but there are two weaknesses of yours we must point out," Robert said sternly. "Firstly, your worldview is way too limited. Secondly, you are a poor judge of situations and do not know how to turn them to your advantage."

"It's just as Damien said—your privileged circumstances and the small bubble of people you interact with have caused you to have a narrow view of the world. You should maintain a heart of humility. There are many out there who are stronger and much more powerful than you are. Are you so reckless and arrogant that you want to go up against them?"

"Besides, the Garrison clan is choosing to ignore your lowly status and is accepting you back into their family as long as you kneel before them. Don't you see the opportunity that's been given to you?"

Everyone agreed very much with Robert's words.

Levi was too crazy for his own good. Trying to talk sense into him would do no good.

It was quite possible that what happened six years ago might happen again.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1060

Harry threw a look of contempt at Levi. "Levi, if you act recklessly, you'll only put yourself and Zoey in danger! What can dignity do for you when you're dead and six feet underground?"

"Exactly! Before an opportunity like this, dignity is nothing!"

"Levi, you're a smart man. Why can't you see what's the best option for you?"

"As the saying goes, no matter how vicious a tiger is, it will not eat its own child. Until now, the Garrison family has refused to accept you as one of them because of your lowly status. In addition, no matter how many waves you make in your career, it's nothing to them!"

"The Garrison family is way up there in prestige and power. They value their honor very much and will never stoop to offer you a spot among them. As long as you accept defeat and say something pleasing to your father, you'll find your place among them again. Is kneeling really so demeaning when it comes to your own family? You shouldn't feel any shame at all!"

Everyone was pointing fingers at Levi.

To them, kneeling before the Garrison family seemed a low price to pay for the riches and glory that would come after.

After all, was dignity still worth anything in this era?

Under these circumstances, practically nobody would still hold on tightly to their dignity.

So why was Levi Garrison so determined to make things difficult for himself?

How important was something like dignity, something as insubstantial as a wisp of smoke in the air?

Levi shot everyone a look. "Firstly, the Garrison family has never treated me as a member and I've never thought of myself as one of them, either. Secondly, I value dignity very much. It's something that I will never throw away for all the riches in the world!"

"You...you must be thick-skulled!"

Harry and the others were so furious that they almost exploded at him instantly.

"This is the most you're ever going to achieve in your life! You won't be able to take another step forward," Meredith hollered.

Robert banged viciously on the table and roared, "Are you still concerned about your dignity at this moment? What good can dignity do for you?"

However, Zoey stood resolutely by her husband and argued, "I think Levi is right; that little dignity is more important!"

"Why do we have to give up our dignity and beg others for our lives? They're just going to treat us like a bunch of dogs!"

Jason sighed helplessly and said, "My dear girl, I'll be honest. Being a lapdog of the Garrison family isn't such a bad thing. In fact, it's a dream for many people who are willing to fight to the death for such an opportunity."

Meredith and the others nodded in agreement.

Jason was right!

A dog of the Garrison clan still enjoyed a position more privileged than most other people in Oakland City.

Besides, Levi was the son of the next patriarch of the Garrison family!

"You're still too young to understand what we're talking about. You're too idealistic about these sorts of things. You should face reality! When you're at our age, you'll regret the decision you made today!"

Zoey gazed at everyone in disbelief.

None of them care about their dignity!

They even profess their desire to be a dog of the Garrison family!

Thankfully, Levi already had everything planned out.

Zoey said coldly, "Alright, stop talking now. Everyone has a different point of view. If we continue to discuss this, it might end in an argument."

With that, the wedding concluded hastily.

Although there were many mishaps throughout the ceremony, Zoey had no regrets about the wedding. This was all she had ever wanted.

"No matter what happens after this, I'll always be right next to you!" she said to Levi, smiling.

"Don't worry! With me around, I won't let you or our child go through any sort of suffering!"

Meanwhile...

"Mr. Damien, I didn't know Levi Garrison would be such a hard nut to crack!"

Damien laughed cruelly. "Well, the blood of the Garrison family runs in his veins, so it's only natural that he's a little rebellious. But I'd like to see how long he can keep up that act of his. I'll make him face the cruel reality of life. He'll end up kneeling before me and throwing away his dignity!"

"Mr. Damien, we're all looking forward to that! Haha..."

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1061

“Levi Garrison is still too weak. Wouldn’t it be more fun if he posed a little more of a challenge?”

Damien sighed resignedly and replied, “I have so many ways of taking him down right now! Take Zoey Lopez and that child inside her, for example. If I wanted to, I could make sure that the child won’t be born alive!”

“Exactly! Mr. Damien, we await your orders. One word from you and we’ll head off to torment him immediately!”

However, Damien shook his head. “No, no, no... Where’s the fun in that? I want to torment him to death slowly. By the time I’m through with him, he’ll realize how foolish he has been to hold on so tightly to his pride!”

“As for his wedding night, I’ll make sure nothing goes well for him, either! Tell my men to go...”

Levi was having drinks with his friends.

It was rare that his friends of “special status” could meet up.

The fact that his beloved mentor, Angus Belford, was also present made Levi feel overwhelmed with pleasure.

Angus said, “Levi, I understand your situation now. To tell you the truth, the Garrison clan of Oakland City aren’t ordinary folks. They have been around for thousand-odd years and numerous generations. Their fighting prowess is top-notch.”

“Shall I tell you some statistics? You know about Erudia’s Saber Leaderboard, don’t you?”

Levi nodded.

Erudia’s Saber Leaderboard was a ranking of Erudia’s best warriors. Everyone on it was the creme de la creme among experts.

However, warriors like Levi and those in the Iron Brigade were ranked in a separate and confidential list and not on the Saber Leaderboard.

All they knew was that those on the Saber Leaderboard were very strong; they only had a vague understanding of how powerful those warriors truly were.

“On Erudia’s Saber Leaderboard, the disciples of the Garrison clan take up a grand total of twenty-one spots, while the warriors related to the Garrison clan take up forty-six spots in total! This means that about half of the warriors on the Saber Leaderboard have connections to the Garrisons!”

After hearing these statistics, Levi and the others were stunned.

The warriors on the Saber Leaderboard were vicious military warriors.

All of them were devils on the battlefield and had gained quite a reputation even overseas.

Not only were they loaded with military accomplishments, but those warriors were also full of power and talent.

Were there really so many of them with connections with the Garrison clan?

Evidently, the clan was powerful beyond belief.

However, Levi had already had a taste of their power for himself before.

One of the servants of the Garrison clan had the power to make an entire city yield to him.

It was unimaginable what the real power of the Garrison clan could be if they turned it out in full force.

“Not only that. The Garrison family has other warriors with different areas of expertise, too. They are excellent fighters. There’s a reason for the Garrison family’s fearsome reputation in Erudia. They are more frightening than even I could imagine.”

“Besides, Damien’s mother, Olivia Garcia, is a beloved member of the ancient Garcia family, which is second only to the Garrison family. The Garrisons and Garcias are in this together. If we strike against the Garrisons, we’ll have two ancient families after our blood.”

Angus turned to look at Levi. “I hope that you, as the God of War, will exercise some caution while taking down the Garrison clan of Oakland City. You must absolutely tread with caution!”

Levi nodded. “Don’t worry, Master. I’ll do my best to do this properly, and I’ll make sure that the Garrison family pays for everything they have done to me.”

Hearing this, everyone knew that Levi had made up his mind to go against the Garrison family.

He was not even afraid when faced with the Eighteen-Nation Alliance in the past, and he certainly would not back off just because the Garrison family was powerful.

Just as everyone was drowning in high spirits, someone barged into the room.

Everyone recognized the intruder at once. It was one of Damien’s subordinates who had appeared with him during the wedding.

Upon seeing him, White Tiger growled, “What are you doing here?”

Damien’s subordinate, Vincent Garrison, looked at him and smirked. “Levi Garrison, I’ve been sent to tell you something!”

“What?”

Damien’s subordinate laughed. “The person you owe your life to is in danger at this very moment. Do you wish to save this person?”

Levi’s expression changed. “The person I owe my life to?”

“Yes, indeed. He’s on the brink of death right now, I might add.”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1062

"Who is it?" Levi asked.

Shaking slightly, Emma asked, "Could it be Dexter?"

If there was someone in the Garrison family whom Levi owed his life to, it had to be Dexter, the Garrisons' butler.

Back then, Dexter had treated Emma like his own daughter.

He had helped her numerous times, often secretly.

Hence, he had a huge role to play in the fact that she was still alive today.

After Emma gave birth to her child, the child was taken away by Tyrone Garrison.

She had feared for her child's life and wondered if he could live on.

However, Dexter promised her that he would find a way to ensure that her child lived.

"Right on the first try! Yes, it's Dexter."

Vincent laughed coldly. "I'll tell you guys the truth. Initially, the Garrison family had no plans of letting Levi Garrison live. They took him and abandoned him in the mountains, leaving him to die. However, Dexter, that old hag, secretly left him on the streets of North Hampton instead. If not for him, Levi would have died a long time ago!”

A hush fell over the room. Emma felt as though she had just been struck by lightning.

The Garrison family had been lying to her all along!

Tyrone had tricked her!

They never had any plans to let Levi off the hook.

Back then, Tyrone hadn't had the heart to kill off his son by himself, so he simply abandoned him in the wild. But how was this any different from committing murder with his own two hands?

The Garrison family had never planned on letting Levi live from the beginning.

Emma had thought that Tyrone would at least feel some sort of affection for his son and let him live. However, things had not gone the way she imagined they would.

How could a clan as prestigious as the Garrisons go back on their word like this?

How could they simply break their promises whenever they wanted to?

What she failed to comprehend was that for a family like the Garrisons, personal benefits came above everything else.

When it came to personal benefits, nothing else mattered.

Besides, Tyrone had gone behind everyone else's back to do this.

“Tyrone, I've finally seen you for the brute you are! So much for tigers not eating their own children! You're the worst savage I've ever had the misfortune to meet!”

Zoey clenched her hands into fists as her body began to shake with rage.

This is saddening, awfully saddening!

She finally experienced what it was like for trust to evaporate in an instant.

Levi felt extremely stunned by the news of his father's cruelty too.

Had he really tried to kill me when I was a child?

He finally understood everything.

This was why it had always been the Garrison family's servants who were sent to deal with him in the past.

Apparently, everyone in the Garrison family already thought he was dead!

Tyrone Garrison, how cruel of you!

As a father yourself, how could you have done something so horrible to your own flesh and blood? What a father you are!

Vincent snorted derisively. "You have that stupid Dexter to thank for all this! If not for him, there would be less trouble for all of us. As for you, Levi Garrison, you can decide for yourself whether you want to save Dexter! I'll give you three hours. If you don't come by then, I'll make sure to bleed out every last drop of blood from his body!"

Vincent gave one last cackle before he turned around and left.

Levi turned to Emma and asked if what Vincent said about Dexter was true.

"My son, it seems that it's really true! Dexter was the one who saved you from dying!" Emma said confidently.

Levi said coldly, "Alright, then. Since he was the one who saved my life and he's now in trouble because of me, I must save him! I'll get going now."

"My son..."

Emma wracked her brains to think of how best to deter her son from going to Dexter's rescue.

She understood what Damien's plan was. He meant to lure Levi straight into his trap, where he would have the perfect opportunity to kill him off.

This way, the Garrison family would escape the consequences of his murder.

If Levi were to walk straight into Damien's trap, he would be putting himself in great danger.

Besides, he had just gotten married today! There was no need for him to put himself into this sort of situation immediately.

As his mother, Emma was very reluctant to let him do it.

On the other hand, however, she wished for Levi to be a man who knew the value of courage and gratitude. Since Dexter was the person who had saved his life, Levi should go ahead and rescue him.

"Don't worry, Mom! Damien and I are bound to meet each other before long anyway."

With that, Levi turned and left to search for Damien.

Dexter was somebody he had to save.

Nobody, not even his mother, could hold him back from doing so.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1063

"Levi..."

As Levi left, Emma gazed after him, her mouth agape as she stood rooted to her spot.

I can't let this happen!

I can't send Levi straight to his death.

Emma quickly left, too, but no one knew where she was headed.

The villa in North Hampton had originally been the residence of the Gonzales family, but they had moved away a long time ago.

Now, it was Damien's year-round residence.

He was currently enjoying his wine in the enormous meeting room of the house.

He had a reputation for having a Machiavellian and deceitful personality. However, quite different from his character, he had quite a liking for hard liquor.

He enjoyed the feeling of the liquor burning its way down his throat like a ball of fire.

"Ah! That's some good stuff."

He gulped down another mouthful of liquor.

Drip, drip...

In front of him, blood dripped down onto the floor from the ceiling, adding to a pool of redness.

Dexter was hung upside-down from the ceiling and bleeding from head to toe.

Damien had just sliced another wound across his abdomen; blood could be seen gushing out of it.

If he didn't receive medical attention soon, Dexter would most probably perish from blood loss.

Damien barked with laughter. "Hey, Mr. Butler, I really hope you'll be able to hold up until Levi Garrison gets here!"

Adding injury to insult, he poured some of the liquor onto Dexter's wounds.

"Ahh!"

Immediately, Dexter screamed in pain like a pig bound for slaughter.

He managed to squeeze out a single word from between his gritted teeth. "You..."

Damien was twisted beyond words.

Vincent turned to Damien and asked, "Mr. Damien, are you sure Levi is going to turn up?"

Damien nodded. "Yes, of course he will. I'm a good judge of people's characters. Levi Garrison cares too much for loyalty and gratitude. These things are of no use to someone like my father. In fact, they're a sign of weakness, and people will exploit your weakness to bring you down. Sometimes, it might even cost you your life!"

Tyrone had always taught his son one thing—to never be a man of emotion. One had to learn to abandon all else and be emotionless during crucial moments or risk losing everything. Only then could one be trusted with important missions.

This was also why Tyrone had been able to abandon Emma and their son without so much as a flinch.

Logic and indifference were the principles he abided by.

He could throw away everything in an instant if it meant achieving what he wanted.

Of course, Emma and Levi, who held almost no value in his heart, were easy targets.

And why not? They were like the stones that threatened to trip him on his way, so he had better get rid of them as soon as he could.

"That's very true. If Levi Garrison didn't value loyalty and gratitude so much, he wouldn't come here at all. He would be able to save himself from certain death." Vincent laughed.

Damien nodded. "That's right, that's right. That's what I mean! If he doesn't come, nothing will happen to him."

From above, Dexter screamed, "Damien, you're insane for instigating Master Levi to strike you first so you would have an excuse to murder him later on!"

Dexter's smile widened. "That b*stard will never enter the Garrison family—I'll see to that. But there are too many eyes on him right now so I can't do whatever I want to him. Since I can't kill him as and when I like, the only other option I have is to instigate him to start a fight!"

"You...cough, cough..."

Dexter was so agitated that blood started seeping out of his wounds again.

Every wound on his body pricked at his consciousness, making him groan in pain.

"Hold on a little longer! Levi will be here soon. When he arrives, I'll send both of you to hell together so you won't feel pain anymore."

Damien picked up a steak knife and started slicing away at Dexter's torso again.

Blood once again oozed out of Dexter's heavily wounded body; he would die very soon.

Instead of dying from having lost too much blood, it was more probable that he would die from the excruciating pain.

Bang!

"Dexter, I'm coming for you!"

At that moment, there was a loud bang as the gates of the villa swung open. Levi's voice floated into the hall.

"Haha! Just as you've predicted, Mr. Damien! Levi Garrison has arrived to see himself off to hell!" Vincent laughed.

"Oh, dear," Dexter sighed miserably.

This kid should not have come.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1064

At that moment, Levi kicked the gates open and strode into the villa.

He was greeted by the sight of up to a thousand of Damien's men, who stared him down with murderous intent.

"Take him down!"

There was a buzz as the men started running towards him immediately. However, a slow drawl interrupted their progress.

"Slow down! Let him take his time," Damien said from inside the meeting room.

Upon hearing Damien's orders, the warriors moved aside and opened up a narrow path for Levi to walk across to the front door. They continued to watch him closely as he stepped into the house.

Levi noticed those men were top-class warriors.

The Garrison family really hires and trains the best of the best.

Very quickly, Levi found his way through the corridors and arrived at the meeting room.

When he spotted Dexter hanging upside down from ceiling, his eyes narrowed into a thin line.

Damien is too cruel.

Levi turned livid when he noted the pool of blood on the floor below Dexter.

Damien burst into laughter. “Levi, this is the man you owe your life to! If it hadn’t been for him, you would have died in the wilderness a few hours after you were born.”

By then, Dexter was already one foot in the grave. When he spotted Levi, he only had the breath to croak, “Master—Master Levi...”

“Dexter...”

Levi took a deep breath.

How could they treat the man he owed his life to in this inhumane way?

Coldly, Levi ordered, “Damien, remove him from the ceiling and set him down on the floor immediately!”

Damien burst into laughter again. “You want me to set him down? Sure! But that’ll depend on whether you have the ability to make me do it.”

Summoning the remaining energy in his body, Dexter whispered, “Master Levi, leave...leave quickly... It’s a trap...”

“Don’t worry. I must save you today! When I was a child, you saved my life once. Today, you risked your life for my sake again! I must save you.”

With that, Levi started walking towards Damien.

Suddenly, a large boom sounded across the entire room.

The meeting room, which had been empty of other people until now, was now a crowded place. Men stood shoulder to shoulder, filling the room from corner to corner. All of them were top-class warriors and there were at least a few hundred of them.

Everyone gazed at Levi, looking prepared to kill him if need be.

Click!

Instantly, the door of the meeting room was locked.

Even if Levi miraculously grew wings that very moment, it would be impossible for him to escape now.

Damien cackled with glee.

Now, Levi will die and his corpse won't even be intact!

They are almost at their inevitable end. In a few minutes, both Levi and Dexter will be dead.

Damien had already thought everything through.

After he killed both of them, he would announce to the public that Levi had murdered the butler of the Garrison family, Dexter. As far as the public was concerned, Damien had killed Levi in retaliation.

This was a perfectly reasonable excuse.

Although everyone would know it was a set-up, nobody would be able to dispute his narrative.

Meanwhile, Emma had dashed back into her room and dialed a telephone number she had saved at the very back of her mind a long time ago.

"Come on, pick up! Come on! If you don't pick up now, Levi is going to be in huge trouble," Emma muttered anxiously to herself.

Finally, the person on the other end picked up the phone. "Who—who is this?"

"It's me, Emma Jones!"

After Emma revealed her identity, the other party remained silent for a long while. She could sense that they were holding their breath.

Emma jumped straight into the topic and stated her reason for calling. "Mr. Tyrone Garrison, I won't beat around the bush anymore. I just have one request!"

She was afraid that if they dragged this out, Levi would be dead.

"What is it?"

“I hope you’ll let my son go! Just this time, I promise! As long as you let go of my son this once, both my son and I will never have anything to do with the Garrison family again! You know I’m a person of my word! I’ll keep my promise!” Emma pleaded desperately.

“I don’t call the shots on this matter. Nobody asked him to be so reckless. He deserves this for trying to go up against the Garrison clan!” Tyrone replied icily.

“He’s young and doesn’t know the ways of the world yet. Please just let him go this time! Just this time! I’ve never asked you for anything before, but please let my son off this time! I can even die in his place!”

“Please, I beg of you...I’ll even kneel before you...”

Emma was crying so hard that her face was practically soaked with tears.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1065

However, Tyrone turned her down immediately. “Even if I let him off the hook, I can’t promise you that the other Garrison family members will do the same!”

“Tyrone Garrison! If you don’t promise me this, I’ll expose that secret of yours to the world!” Emma suddenly exclaimed.

“You...”

Tyrone’s tone underwent a profound change when he heard that.

He roared angrily, "So much for your promise to love me for the rest of your life and to keep my secret forever! How dare you threaten to expose it to the world now, you wretched b*tch!"

Emma was forced into a corner. "I'm willing to do almost anything if it means saving my son's life. If there's anything that can get him out, I'll do it!"

"Alright, alright, I'll let him off, alright? I'll make sure to keep him alive. But there's still a problem—how will I know that you won't use this secret to threaten me again?" Tyrone asked.

"I swear I'll never use this secret against you again!"

However, Tyrone replied in a low and dangerous voice, "Preposterous. I've long understood that only the dead can keep secrets."

A shiver ran through Emma's body. She felt a little panicked by the implications of his words.

"Alright, here's my proposal. Trade your life with your son's. When Levi makes it out of there, I'll send someone to fetch you back to Oakland City!"

There was no way Tyrone would allow his secret to be leaked to the public.

This had never been a source of concern for him before, because Emma loved him way too much and would take his secret to her grave rather than exposing him to the world.

However, now that her son's life was at stake, it was a different story altogether.

Hence, Emma needed to die.

"Fine. I promise you!"

In order to save her son's life, Emma didn't care if she lived or died anymore.

...

Back at the villa in North Hampton, Levi smiled as he gazed at the hundreds of warriors surrounding him.

Blandly, he announced, "Today is my wedding day, so the last thing I want to see is bloodshed. However, some people are pushing me too far! I have no choice but to pull out all stops and kill all of you."

Damien laughed shrilly. "Levi Garrison, that silly bravado of yours has always been a source of admiration for me! Look where you are now. Do you still dare to make those silly proclamations of yours?"

"And guess what, I arranged for all this to happen today, just for you!"

"Six years ago on this very day, you had your limbs broken by my men and were left for dead on the streets. Today, I'll see to it that you're beaten to death! Haha...life comes a full circle, doesn't it?"

Damien threw his head back and guffawed.

Dexter was livid.

This devil is downright disgusting!

What a tyrant!

Damien's subordinates laughed next to him. "Hey, kid, did you bring the coffin, gravestone, and funeral wreath we gave you earlier today? We prepared that especially for you!"

Levi's expression remained placid. He said, "Damien, the biggest mistake you made in your life was to come to North Hampton!"

"Hmm! A mistake?" Damien asked in confusion.

"Because you're going to die! Even though it's my wedding day today, I'm going to bash your head in and make sure I decorate these walls with your intestines!"

Levi had already made up his mind to kill him.

Damien must die!

“Men, go...”

Just as Damien was going to order his men to kill Levi, he received a phone call from his father.

“What? Are you serious? But why? Oh, alright...I understand...Father...”

Damien hung up the phone and gazed at Levi with disbelief.

Vincent urged him, “Mr. Damien, your orders, please!”

To their surprise, Damien waved a hand dismissively and snapped, “Alright, that’s enough. We won’t be killing Levi Garrison today.”

“Huh?”

Everyone was stunned.

Why did he suddenly change his mind about killing Levi?

In a very disgruntled voice, Damien grumbled, “Levi, count yourself lucky for escaping death today. I won’t be killing you for now. As for Dexter, you can have him, too. So there!”

He didn’t understand why his father had suddenly ordered him to spare Levi’s life.

Back then, his father had also given him the order to murder Levi without much explanation, either.

However, Levi didn’t move from his spot. He glared angrily at Damien and spat, “That won’t do! You might not want to kill me anymore, but that doesn’t mean I’m going to let you off the hook!”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1066

Levi thought the whole situation ridiculous.

Does Damien really think he'll emerge from this without any consequences?

Has he ever considered what I might have up my sleeve?

Damien has no clue as to who will be killing who.

"Hmm?" Damien froze.

I have already agreed to spare Levi's life, but this incorrigible jerk is trying to push it.

"Alright, everyone heard that, right? He said he wanted to kill me, didn't he? If I kill him now, I doubt my father will blame me for it. Haha..."

Just now, Damien was feeling despondent when he realized there was no way he could kill Levi without angering his father.

However, Levi had decided to dig his own grave.

This is excellent!

Damien burst into laughter.

"Levi Garrison, you're asking to be killed, aren't you? Don't blame me for being too awful to you!"

“Men, go! Empty out his guts!”

Immediately, there was a loud clang as the men drew their swords.

At that moment, someone yelled, “Mr. Damien, there’s a woman outside who seeks your audience! Her name is Emma Jones!”

Very quickly, Emma arrived at the meeting hall.

She cried, “Mr. Damien, your father has already agreed to let the both of us off. You can’t go back on his word!”

“Yes, I’ve already let him go,” Damien said agreeably.

“Mom, leave by yourself first! He might have let me go, but I sure haven’t let him go!” Levi was adamant about killing Damien before leaving the place.

Emma threw herself onto the floor and grabbed the leg of his pants. “My son, I beg of you to stop kicking up a fuss! We need to leave now! Stop trying to play the hero! It’s your wedding day today! Think about Zoey and your child she’s bearing!”

Levi seemed to hesitate. He turned to gaze malevolently at Damien and spat, “Alright, count yourself lucky today that you managed to keep yourself alive! Now get out of my sight immediately! If I change my mind, I’m afraid you won’t get to leave North Hampton alive.”

Damien burst into laughter. “Haha...To tell you the truth, I’ve never met anyone as self-deluded as you are. Don’t worry, Levi. I’ll leave today but there will come another day when I’ll have you in the palm of my hand.”

Still guffawing, Damien continued, “Didn’t you say you wanted to go up against the Garrison clan itself? I’ll wait for you at the gates of the Garrison residence, then. Be there or be square!”

“Don’t worry about it. I’ll definitely be there.”

With that, Levi left the villa with his mother, carrying the barely alive Dexter on his back.

Bang!

Damien was so enraged that he punched the wall next to him.

Almost instantaneously, the wall collapsed. With another loud rumble, the entire building collapsed in a huge puff of dust.

From this, everyone could see how much strength Damien possessed. He made an entire building crumble with his fist!

They could also see how furious Damien truly was. He couldn't stand the idea that Levi had mocked him straight to his face, but he wasn't allowed to murder him in retaliation.

"Mr. Damien, are we just going to leave it at that?" Vincent asked tremulously.

Even he couldn't bear it anymore.

"If we don't leave it at that, what else are we supposed to do? Now tell everyone to get lost!"

That very night, Damien left North Hampton.

He didn't understand why his father had made such a strange decision.

When Damien asked his father previously, the latter gave him his permission to murder Levi.

After they finished making arrangements for Dexter, Emma received a phone call from Tyrone.

"I've let your people go. Isn't it time for you to uphold your end of the bargain?" he asked coldly.

"Yes, I gave you my word. But I sure hope you won't go back on yours!" Emma warned.

She was reminding him of the promise he broke years ago, when he said he would keep their son alive but then dumped Levi in the wilderness.

Tyrone replied frostily, "Oh, don't worry, I won't do that. Prepare yourself. I'll be sending someone to pick you up soon enough."

"Alright, then."

The next morning, news spread all over town. Emma Jones was missing!

"This is bad!" Levi exclaimed, alarmed by the news.

Was this why Damien let me off so easily last night? There must be a reason.

It seemed the reason had something to do with his mother.

There was a possibility that his mother was in grave danger right now...

It was quite evident to Levi that Emma Jones had some past dealings with the Garrison family.

Otherwise, Damien would never have let him off so easily.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1067

Emma was now on her way to Oakland City.

She was brought before Tyrone Garrison.

It had been twenty years since the last time they met.

Now that they met each other again, Tyrone observed that the woman had changed drastically since he last saw her.

Tyrone still looked elegant and polished as ever. He still had that commanding vibe, albeit it had become more mature and made him seem even more impressive.

Tyrone had lived a perfect life from all perspectives.

Besides, he was currently poised to become the next patriarch of the Garrison family. When that happened, he would become the most respected man on earth.

On the other hand, age had significantly altered Emma's beauty. The wrinkles that crept across her entire forehead made her seem older than she really was. She was so skinny that she looked like a walking skeleton.

She was once as beautiful as a flower. Now, she simply looked like an old hag.

The two of them were a glaring contrast to each other when they stood together.

Nobody would have thought they used to be a couple...

When she saw Tyrone again, a complicated mix of emotions welled up within Emma.

However, when Tyrone gazed down at her, his eyes were only full of mockery and contempt.

He mocked himself for falling for this woman in his younger years; he had been too naïve in the past.

At the same time, Tyrone was also laughing at Emma. How could she have ever thought of marrying me, much less marrying into the prestigious Garrison clan?

Oh, how stupid I was! How could I have been in love with this woman all those years ago? I nearly missed out on my future with Olivia!

Yes, I was too young and foolish. Oh, just look at Emma now!

She's no match for me at all.

Not even a little bit!

Compared to his present wife, Olivia, Emma was practically nothing. The difference between the two women was simply too great.

With a little exaggeration, Tyrone would even say that looking at the present Emma made him feel like throwing up.

If he were a bird soaring high up in the sky, she would be a filthy bug crawling on the ground!

Did this loser of a woman think she's suitable to be my wife?

Dream on!

She will never become my wife!

Tyrone would only regard her with contempt.

However, he had forgotten that he had a role to play in Emma's current predicament.

Emma used to be a rose, too.

For Tyrone's sake, she had gambled with her life and ruined her future in the process.

Without him in the picture, Emma would still be as beautiful as she had been back then.

"Wow, I didn't think we would ever meet again! You're quite a lucky person, do you know that?"

Tyrone felt that any opportunity for Emma to meet him was a boon for her.

He wasn't entirely wrong. Someone as lowly as Emma didn't have the right to meet him.

"Yes, we meet again," Emma whispered.

Tyrone continued, "However, I must remind you not to harbor any hopes on me. There's no way things will ever work out between the two of us, for as long as we live. I'll tell you the truth. The difference in our status is simply too big, and the gap is only getting wider! You and I aren't compatible at all."

Tyrone rambled on, "Think about it yourself. Do you think you can hold a candle to Olivia? I don't think so! I must have been blind in the past."

Tyrone was afraid that Emma still desired some sort of romantic relationship with him so he had to dispel those thoughts immediately.

Hearing this, Emma bowed her head.

The last ember of hope in her heart was extinguished.

The difference between her status and that of Tyrone was simply enormous.

"Not only that, but your son is nothing compared to Olivia's son," Tyrone mocked. "Her son is of unparalleled talent and he's the best and fiercest warrior in practically every aspect!"

Tyrone struck Emma emotionlessly with such harsh words. "As for your son, I must admit that he has made some small achievements on his own. To normal people, he is worthy of some respect. But to the Garrison clan of Oakland City, his achievements are nothing! What are his achievements as compared to those of Olivia's son?"

Emma wouldn't stand for it. He could insult her all he liked, but insulting her son was taboo for her.

Emma's eyes widened as she stared at Tyrone. "That might not be so! Damien was brought up in an environment that was simply too perfect. In a less ideal environment, my son might easily beat him."

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1068

Suddenly, a cold voice sounded at the door. "Ridiculous. Who said my son was brought up in a perfect environment?"

The woman sent an intimidating vibe as she glided into the room. Olivia appeared, looking as regal as a queen.

The difference between Emma and herself was obvious.

Tyrone laughed. "Olivia, I made the best decision of my life when I chose you to be my wife all those years ago."

Olivia walked in front of Emma and said coldly, "Emma, let me tell you something that might shock the skin off those pathetic bones of yours."

"My son, Damien, was never brought up in the warm environment of the Garrison residence, like you imagined. From the time he was born, Damien was abandoned at a training ground in the frigid north. During his time in training, he never knew his true identity and the Garrison family never provided him with any help. Instead, we made sure to place all sorts of obstacles in his way to ensure that he grew up strong."

Olivia continued, "Damien managed to survive those challenges because of his own strength and intelligence. We only accepted him into the family when he came of age and proved himself to be a capable warrior. His achievements surpassed those of others in his generation; no one ever came close to defeating him."

Olivia went into greater detail. "In order to create challenges for him, the Garrison clan spent tens of billions and lost more than three thousands of our men! Back at the training grounds, there were about eighty other recruits who trained alongside Damien, but only one could emerge alive. Damien was the one who killed off the rest and walked away as the victor!"

...

Hearing this, Emma was so shocked that sweat started to form on her brows.

It was evident that Damien's experiences before he came of age were even worse than what Levi went through.

If he lost focus for even one moment, he would have died.

The Garrisons' brutal training had produced a genius like Damien.

Even Emma had to admit that Levi's achievements paled in comparison to what Damien had achieved.

Olivia continued, "Do you really think that b*stard son of yours can be compared to Damien? What rubbish!"

Emma remained silent.

Although she wished for her son to win, his skills were truly nothing compared to Damien.

Olivia turned to Tyrone and said coldly, "Tyrone, why has she come?"

She wasn't afraid that their reunion would reignite old flames. Emma is so hideous now. Tyrone must be out of his mind to lust for her.

Tyrone replied coolly, "I brought her back to kill her!"

"That's nice. Get it done as quickly as you can. There's no use in keeping her around anyway," Olivia said.

Emma knelt down immediately and pleaded, "Could the two of you give me some more time? I want to meet my grandchild and make the baby some clothes!"

In nine months, Zoey's child would finally be born.

Emma wanted to see the child at least once.

As Emma looked up piteously at Tyrone, his expression flickered a little.

After all, Emma was still holding on to his secret.

"Fine, whatever," he relented. "Since you're going to die anyway, I don't see how a few more months is going to do you any harm."

Olivia didn't think much of it, either. "Men, take her away and lock her up! Don't let her escape."

Tyrone tried to reassure her. "Don't worry, Olivia. She's being locked up by the Garrison family. Unless someone has God's power, I doubt she could be rescued."

After they locked Emma up securely, Olivia turned to Tyrone and smiled. "My dear, do you think that b*stard might come here and try to rescue his mother? I heard this boy is very reckless by nature. If he was foolish enough to rescue Dexter, don't you think he'll definitely try and get his mother out of there?"

Tyrone laughed dismissively. "Huh? Is he going to attempt a prison break on the grounds of the Garrison residence? How is he going to rescue her? How preposterous!"

So what if that b*stard is talented?

There was no way he will be able to take a step past the front door of the Garrison residence, much less break his mother out of jail.

"Well, I personally hope he'll try and rescue her. It will be quite an entertaining scene, don't you think?"

Olivia enjoyed seeing other people struggle helplessly.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1069

However, Tyrone replied icily, "No way. That day will never come. He will never get that opportunity."

Olivia froze before replying, "Do—do you mean you'll kill Emma Jones?"

"Yes, of course. Does a b*tch like her really think she has any right to bargain with me? As for extending her life by a few more months, that's never going to happen!"

Tyrone was deathly afraid that his secret would be exposed.

Emma had to go, and she had to go now.

He had only agreed to her demands on the surface.

Oh, what a shame. Emma has been tricked again.

Tyrone was never someone who took his promises seriously.

Besides, Emma was holding onto a secret that could have a devastating impact on his future within the family. He would be stupid to let her live.

He arrived at her cell.

Emma had already figured out his intentions. "You're here to kill me off, aren't you?"

Tyrone scoffed cruelly. "I once thought you could take this secret to your grave, but I don't think you love me enough. Back then, who was the one who said she would love me for a lifetime and promised to do everything for my sake?"

Emma glared at him and hollered angrily, "Tyrone Garrison, I've finally seen you for the brute you are! You have no emotions at all, do you? You're just a cold-blooded animal."

Tyrone laughed apathetically and replied, "That's what makes me different from common folks like you! In the Garrison clan, women must never become a stumbling block for their men. They must only be tools! This was exactly why I abandoned you! To me, you're no different from other women. You proved to be of no value to me, and you might even be a stumbling block for me in the future!"

"Only a woman like Olivia is suitable for me. She's the only person on this earth who is compatible with me," asserted Tyrone.

Emma had to bite her lip in order to not cry.

Laughing coldly, she snapped, "You probably admire her for her family background and the resources of the Garcia family, don't you? Do you even have any feelings for her?"

Hearing this, Tyrone kept silent.

That was true.

He had married Olivia because her family background was advantageous to him.

Laughing mockingly at him, Emma said, "You will stop at nothing to achieve what you want, won't you?"

"Haha, you don't understand me at all! If one wishes to make their way up in the world, one needs to be prepared to abandon many things! Unfortunately, you've never been in such a position, so you wouldn't know about that."

Immediately, Emma retorted, "Is that why you paralyzed your own younger brother?"

Tyrone was enraged. "You..."

That was precisely his secret.

The idea of everyone knowing about it filled him with fear and made him sleepless.

The Garrison clan of Oakland City was full of talented warriors.

Tyrone's generation was an especially talented cohort.

However, Tyrone wasn't the most talented one out of them all.

Among his peers, Tyrone ranked third in terms of talent and achievement. His fourth brother, Micah, was the one in first place.

While Micah was alive, his powers surpassed everyone else's. He was practically the next patriarch of the family.

Tyrone could only watch and stew in jealousy as everyone lauded his brother with praise.

Finally, when he could stand it no longer, he set a trap and paralyzed his brother. Till this day, Micah was still confined to his bed.

Everyone in the Garrison family believed that Micah's fall and subsequent paralysis was an accident.

The day after Micah was paralyzed, Tyrone was conferred the title of the next head of the family, his father's successor.

Emma found out about this by accident, and Tyrone was deathly afraid that Emma would leak this secret to his family.

Once the Garrison family caught wind of his crime, Tyrone would lose his position immediately.

The Garrison clan had very strict rules, and anyone who broke them would be subject to grave punishment.

Out of the numerous rules they had, one was the most important—kill not your own brethren.

"Emma Jones, you've forced my hand at last. I'll make sure to kill you today!"

Tyrone gazed at her with red eyes and a murderous look on his face.

Emma shut her eyes in despair...

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1070

Tyrone raised his right hand into the air.

In a moment, he would swing it down and bash it against the top of Emma's head.

Emma could feel the wind as Tyrone brought his fist down with a whoosh.

She was only a few moments away from death...

Right before his fist made contact with her head, however, Tyrone froze.

Emma waited for a few moments with her eyes shut, but nothing happened. She opened her eyes timidly.

"Aren't—aren't you going to kill me?" she asked tremulously.

Tyrone gazed at her with a complicated look and didn't say anything. He turned and left the room.

He slammed the door shut behind him with a loud bang.

Emma's eyes glittered as she understood what was going on.

Tyrone feared the consequences of killing her.

He was afraid that Emma would've already told his secret to her son and he did not want to take that risk.

If Levi already knew his secret, he would definitely expose it once he found out that Emma was dead.

This was what Tyrone truly feared.

For the sake of his position as the future patriarch of his clan, he had to be cautious.

In the past, he needn't have worried about this because Emma loved him enough to give her life for him and take his secret with her to her grave.

But now that Levi was involved, Tyrone could no longer count on Emma's love for him.

In order to protect Levi, Emma had probably told her son about this secret.

Tyrone couldn't kill off Emma without having his secret leaked.

I must find a way to confirm if Levi knows about it. Only then can I make a decision as to whether I should kill Emma!

Thus, Tyrone decided to go and look for Levi himself.

Once he had his answer, his first goal would be to kill off both Levi and Emma.

Even if this would upset the Garrison family and cause outsiders to despise him for being cold-blooded and cruel, it would be much better than having his secret exposed to the public.

If that happened, he would be subjected to the family's most horrible punishment!

In North Hampton, everyone was busy looking for Emma.

Finally, Levi discovered a note left for him by his mother in his room.

In summary, she told him not to worry because she was doing fine. She also instructed Levi not to go looking for her.

"Mom, how could I not go looking for you?"

Levi banged his hand onto the table.

The more he thought about it, the more he was certain that the Garrison family was behind it.

He figured that his mother was going to die in his place.

However, Levi was adamant that he would not yield to the Garrison family.

If you haven't held me back earlier, I would've killed Damien.

Levi felt helpless.

Initially, he had wanted to wait a while before making any move.

He wanted things to be peaceful until Zoey gave birth to their child.

As Zoey was pregnant, he was too afraid to leave her alone.

Zoey needs someone to take care of her...

However, now that this matter regarding his mother had cropped up, he had to speed things up a little. He decided to head up to Oakland City.

Just as he was about to summon Azure Dragon and the others, he received a phone call from an anonymous number.

As soon as he picked up the call, the person on the other end introduced himself. "I'm Tyrone Garrison."

Immediately, Levi asked, "What? It's you? Is my mother with you right now?"

Levi was quite surprised that Tyrone would give him a call.

"Yes, she is. She's all fine and dandy. As for me, I'd like to meet you in North Hampton tonight. There's something I need to talk to you about."

Upon hearing that his mother was alright, Levi let out a sigh of relief.

If anything happened to his mother, he would tear down the Garrison residence, brick by brick, and kill every single person living within its walls.

“Alright, I’ll wait for you. However, if anything happens to my mother, I’ll kill you on sight!” Levi swore angrily.

“Haha...” Tyrone burst into laughter on the other end.

To him, Levi was all bark and no bite. His declaration of vengeance was nothing but an empty threat.

He wanted to kill me?

Can he even do it?

At eight o’clock that night, a private jet landed at the North Hampton Airport.

As quietly and swiftly as he could, Tyrone arrived at the meeting place they had agreed on beforehand.

Levi was already waiting there when he arrived.

The father and son finally met for the first time in their lives.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1071

As Levi gazed at Tyrone in an attempt to size him up, the older man was doing the same with him.

Levi saw immediately that his father was a once-in-a-generation type of warrior.

He was subdued and detached, and an untouchable vibe radiated from his very body.

However, his movements also spoke of someone who was ill-tempered and capricious.

To kill one is a sin, but to kill ten thousand is a heroic feat.

That sentence described Tyrone exactly.

His very face lent him a look of arrogance and self-assurance that made him stand out from the crowd. He had the vibe of someone who was used to standing in the limelight at the applause of everyone.

After all, he was the future patriarch of the most prestigious ancient family in Erudia.

He had been bred for this very purpose.

Tyrone was a good fighter—there was no doubt about that.

Before this, Levi had instructed Phoenix to conduct a thorough investigation into Tyrone's background.

Levi did not do so early on because he was afraid that the people in Oakland City might catch on; that would have caused him a great deal of trouble.

However, his relationship with Tyrone had been one of the hottest topics in the city of late. Practically everyone already knew about it.

Given that development, if Levi wanted to look up Tyrone in his own capacity, no one would question it.

Tyrone was a cruel tyrant who had no qualms about doing whatever that was needed to get to the top.

He was willing to abandon everything that stood in his way.

Levi had taken a look at Tyrone's bloody and criminal history.

Indeed, Tyrone was someone who set his sights on big goals.

In the process of investigating him, Levi had discovered Tyrone's biggest secret—he had paralyzed his own brother in order to become his father's successor.

In order to ensure the prosperity of their clan, the Garrisons of Oakland City had established an ironclad rule.

It was also the most important one in their book of rules: kill not your own brethren. Those who violated it would be the harshest of punishment.

This rule had been established so that the Garrison clan would unite with each other rather than being divided by petty fights and jealousy.

Hence, the Garrison clan was renowned for their unity, which had seen them through over a thousand years. There had never been an instance of family members killing each other...until now.

This was also why the Garrison clan was so powerful.

However, Tyrone had violated this sacred rule in order to pursue his own selfish interests.

He had very extreme beliefs. To him, love, family ties, and friendships weren't important.

What was important, however, was the benefits he could reap.

One look at his father was enough for Levi to see him for who he was.

To Tyrone, however, Levi was just an arrogant and reckless troublemaker.

Tyrone had seen his share of this sort of youngsters.

A little taste of achievement was enough to send them into a downward spiral of haughtiness.

In the end, however, their wild ways would be tamed by the harsh reality.

There was nothing wrong with being arrogant, of course, but if one overdid it, the consequences would be extremely dire.

From his observation of Levi, Tyrone could tell that this b*stard son of his wouldn't last very long in the real world.

Compared to Damien, he was nothing but a small fry.

Damien was every bit as arrogant as Levi was, but at least he had talent and ability.

With the two most powerful ancient families in Erudia backing his every move, Damien's power was simply unimaginable!

Although the blood of the Garrisons flowed through Levi's veins as well, he wasn't suited to be Tyrone's son at all.

Tyrone would never acknowledge him as one of his own.

If Levi really wanted to become a member of the Garrisons, he had to first prove himself.

Otherwise, in no way would they accept him.

"Did you bring my mother along?" Levi asked.

“Don’t worry, she’s fine. She’s very safe as well—I can give her a video call if you don’t believe me,” Tyrone replied.

Levi asked again, “Alright, then, what are you here for?”

Suddenly, Tyrone smiled and said, “I’m here for a very simple reason—I’m here to meet you. I wanted to see for myself how reckless and foolish the son of Emma Jones is. As expected, my men weren’t exaggerating at all when they described you. You seem to be even more arrogant than I thought.”

Levi grinned. “You aren’t just here to see how reckless and foolish I am, are you? Why don’t you tell me what you’re really here for? Stop beating around the bush.”

Levi refused to believe that heap of rubbish Tyrone was feeding him.

As if!

Tyrone has come here so secretly. Evidently, he doesn’t want anyone to know he is in North Hampton.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1072

Besides, he hasn't yet made a move to kill Mother.

Therefore, there is only one possible reason for his appearance—he wants to find out for himself if I know his secret.

Levi made up his mind immediately.

His mother had saved herself with that secret.

Tyrone's expression was rather unnatural. He looked pallid and nervous, and rather hesitant to open his mouth.

Finally, he decided to allude delicately to the matter.

Sighing deeply, he asked, "Has your mother ever told you anything about me?"

Levi continued grinning. "Yes, she has."

"Well, has she ever told you anything that she should've kept a secret?"

Tyrone held his breath and gazed intensely at Levi.

Levi smiled. "Of course she has! She has told me all sorts of secrets about you."

Seeing the damning smile on Levi's face, Tyrone felt as though he had been struck by lightning. His heart sank a little.

Levi had given him a very vague answer, but he had a nagging suspicion that the young man already knew about his secret.

However, he could not be absolutely certain of that.

What if Emma had told him other secrets about me?

Gritting his teeth, Tyrone asked, "What exactly did she tell you?"

Levi smiled. "Don't you know your own secrets?"

"Well..."

Tyrone was so nervous that sweat was beading on his brows.

He still couldn't confirm if Levi knew that dark secret of his.

To kill or not to kill?

That is the question.

Levi suddenly spoke up, his voice sending shivers down Tyrone's spine. "What? Are you thinking of whether you should kill me?"

Did Levi sense my intention?

"If you wish to kill me, do it! After all, you've never hesitated to do something when it comes to achieving your own goals."

Hearing this, Tyrone became certain that Levi already knew the damning secret he had been hiding for decades.

Now, he was afraid that Levi was going to use this secret against him for the rest of his life. What if he tries to threaten his way into the Garrison family?

This b*stard has no right to enter the Garrison family!

The Garrison family valued their honor over anything else, after all.

"I'll tell you this, Levi Garrison! Don't you dare use this to threaten me and force your way into the Garrison family! Even if the clan decides to punish me and my reputation takes a serious hit, I will never let you become one of us."

Tyrone made a very serious declaration.

He'd much rather have the clan find out about his secret than let this b*stard taint the halls of the Garrison residence with his filth.

There was no way Levi Garrison could become a member of the clan. Not for as long as Tyrone was alive.

Hearing this, Levi burst into laughter.

Coldly, he said, "Do you think I'll use this secret against you just so I could enter the Garrison family? How ridiculous. Tyrone Garrison, listen to me—I couldn't care less about a pathetic family like yours. Even if all of you come begging at my door for me to join the clan, I'll turn you down!"

Tyrone was so angry that he roared, "You—you're arrogant beyond belief! This is going to be the end of you one day!"

Levi laughed. "You came here to ask me if I know your secret, didn't you? Well, I know it, of course. But why would I bother to threaten you with it? I couldn't care less about a small fry like you."

Tyrone's breath hitched.

He really wanted to kill Levi on the spot.

However, he was afraid that Levi wasn't the only person who knew the secret.

For now, he had to find a way to seal Levi and Emma's mouths.

The expose would not matter anymore after he assumed the position of the patriarch.

"Alright, alright, I believe you! As long as you don't leak my secret, I promise not to lay a hand on your mother," Tyrone said.

He would tolerate it for a while longer.

In a few days, he would be the new head of the Garrison family.

After that, Levi would have no leverage over him anymore.

At that time, Tyrone would finally kill him.

Levi smiled coldly. "Let's move on, then. I still have some things to discuss with you."

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1073

"Firstly, release my mother instantly. Secondly, I will personally take revenge on the Garrison clan after my child is born. All of you will regret the sins you have committed against my Mom. Thirdly, I will kill Damien right in front of you!"

After Levi uttered these three threats, Tyrone stared at him in disbelief, feeling utterly stunned.

How outrageous!

He's simply being too absurd!

How dare he make such arrogant claims?

Kill Damien in front of me?

What a joke!

It is downright laughable!

"I have nothing to say about your first point. However, for your second point, did you say that you want to take revenge on the Garrison clan and make all of us regret it?"

Tyrone was utterly amused.

The Garrison clan is the most powerful ancient family in Erudia, with more than a thousand years of history.

Who has the ability to take revenge on the Garrisons?

A mere youngster in his twenties?

How is it possible that he's capable enough to do so?

"That's right. I'll fulfil my Mom's wish—that is to declare to all the Garrisons that you aren't worthy enough for my Mom! I want every one of you to drown in regret. I'll let my Mom declare to all of you that her son is the conqueror of the world!" announced Levi coldly.

"Hahaha! Just by yourself? Fine, I'll wait! And you want to kill Damien? It's impossible," said Tyrone as he laughed.

With me around, who would dare to touch Damien?

"Don't worry, you can never protect anyone whom I'm determined to kill."

A murderous glint flashed across Levi's eyes.

From the moment Damien appeared at his wedding, his fate had been sealed—he would die!

Levi did not throw away the coffin Damien brought to the wedding because he intended it to be meant for him.

"Very well! You've got guts. When will it be, specifically? I don't want to wait too long for you!" asked Tyrone with a cold smirk.

"Around a year after my child is born, I'll definitely attack the Garrison clan!"

"Fine! I will make a bet with you. One year later, if you can take even one step into the Garrison clan's residence, I'll sincerely apologize for what I have done in the past. I will even kneel in front of you and your mother in repentance! There's only one way to make me repent—by relying on your capabilities. Otherwise, even if you kill me, you will not even find a single shred of remorse within me."

A one-year pact was hence established between Tyrone and Levi.

In his opinion, regardless of how powerful Levi became, he would never be capable enough to even enter the Garrison clan's residence.

“Okay. We’re agreed on this.”

Levi nodded.

Smirking coldly, Tyrone said, “If you aren’t capable enough to enter the Garrison clan’s residence, don’t blame me for being ruthless.”

“Don’t worry. If I’m not capable enough to do that, I’d die willingly!”

“That’s settled, then. I’ll wait for you at the Garrison clan’s residence!”

After Tyrone made the bet, he left North Hampton.

Now, he was no longer worried that Levi would reveal the secret to others.

Through that short conversation, he had already figured out Levi’s temper.

Although he seemed like an impudent man, he was, in reality, an extremely prideful person.

He would never make a huge deal out of Tyrone’s secret.

For a prideful man like him, an act like that was tantamount to humiliation.

Furthermore, Tyron had suggested a one-year pact as part of his strategy to provoke him.

Hence, he was certain that Levi would not reveal his secret at all.

Chuckling coldly, he proudly declared, “This is the sheer difference between me, Damien and him! We never care about these insignificant things. As long as it’s beneficial to us, we will certainly achieve our goal regardless of the methods used. After all, a man of great ambition does not bother about trifles. Levi, you will never achieve anything great! A year later, I will witness the sight of you pathetically groveling in front of the Garrison clan’s residence.”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1074

Tyrone was quite accurate in his judgment of people.

Indeed, Levi was an extremely prideful person who would not deign to blackmail Tyrone with his secret.

If he wanted to resolve the matter, he would depend on only his capabilities.

This was the reason why Tyrone made the bet with Levi.

In his opinion, Levi only agreed on the bet because he was too young and impulsive.

Yet, unknown to him, Levi was completely aware of his tricks.

As “a man of his words”, Tyrone released Emma and even spread the news of his bet with Levi around.

Now, everyone in Erudia knew that Levi made a pact with Tyrone.

The Garrison clan of Oakland City became even more famous now.

After all, they openly gave their illegitimate son a chance to challenge them.

This was an unprecedented move!

Logically speaking, any wealthy family would rush to hide such an illegitimate child.

They would often end up killed according to conventions.

However, the Garrison clan of Oakland City went against the norms.

Not only did they acknowledge the presence of an illegitimate child, but they also even gave him a chance to challenge them.

At the same time, they clearly showed how dignified they were as the most powerful ancient family in Erudia.

Tyrone, who established the pact, was praised by many.

Only someone with such dignity and ease like him was the most suitable candidate to lead the clan.

Even the high-ranking elders of the Garrison clan admired how Tyrone dealt with this matter, heaping him with praises.

No one expected that the appearance of Tyrone's illegitimate child would actually benefit him.

It proved exceptionally helpful to him in rising to the position as the head of the clan.

Even Tyrone did not expect that he could benefit from it.

This proved that seemingly unlucky events might not be completely bad— it all depended on how one dealt with them.

News of Levi's famous bet with Tyrone spread widely. Soon, all of the elites in the region knew about it.

Although everyone was now familiarized with Levi's name, they all thought that he was incredibly foolish.

Undoubtedly, he was fighting a futile battle.

What assets did he have to fight the Garrison clan with?

Did he not have an inkling of his chances of success?

A mere youngster actually dared to challenge the most powerful ancient family in Erudia.

It was a widely-known fact that entry to the Garrison clan in Oakland City was strictly controlled.

Only someone who wielded considerable power in the four domains of military, business, politics, and martial arts, would be recognized by the Garrison clan.

For the military domain, one must at least be a mighty general in the frontiers.

For the business domain, one must be at least a significant figure in the corporate world.

For the political domain, one must be at least a high-ranking officer.

For the martial arts domain, one must at least be capable enough of attacking the Garrison clan.

As long as one of those four conditions was fulfilled, the person could set foot in the Garrison clan's residence.

However, this was an incredibly challenging feat.

In everyone's opinion, Levi only had accumulated some success in the business domain.

However, a measly Morris Group was nothing to the Garrison clan.

He might stand a chance if he expanded his business by ten or twenty folds.

But, how could he do that within a year?

Hence, no one believed that Levi would succeed in challenging the Garrison clan and rely on his own capabilities to enter the clan's residence.

Yet, never in their wildest dreams would they expect Levi to actually be the weakest in the business domain.

Needless to say, his influence in the military and the political domain was unparalleled.

He was the Erudia's God of War!

His martial arts strength was undeniably matchless as well.

After all, he had trained himself by fighting in two thousand battles over a span of six years.

In fact, he could conquer almost everything!

As for now, he did not need to act personally.

There were too many skilled experts working for him now.

After Emma returned, she looked at Levi with an indecipherable look. "Levi, you shouldn't have done it! If you agreed to his bet, it means that you have fallen for his trick. He knows your personality, so he's using it to constrain you."

"Mom, it's going to be fine. It's true that this is a trap he set up for me. However, he doesn't know that I'm actually capable enough. Don't worry, I'll definitely fulfill your wish!"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1075

This was a dream that Emma knew was absolutely impossible.

Yet, she was content to just fantasize about it.

Hence, she named her son Levi, a name that signified harmony and unification. She hoped that he would preside over the world and let the Garrison clan realize their mistake.

“Okay, Levi. I’ll look forward to one year later.”

Emma smiled.

Regardless of what the outcome would be next year, she could still accompany Levi, Zoey, and the soon-to-be-born baby this year.

Life went back on track afterward.

The Lopez family and the Zhao family were extremely unhappy with Levi.

He could have chosen to kneel in forgiveness and remain content as a member of the Garrison clan.

However, he insisted on challenging them.

They were certain that he was crazy.

The Garrison clan of Oakland City also specified the conditions of the challenge for Levi.

In the military domain, he must surpass Hugh Garrison. He was the chief of the Gray Wolf Squad from the North. In fact, the God of War personally bestowed the title upon him.

In the political domain, he must surpass Finnick Garrison, a high-ranking politician of Oakland City.

In the business domain, his corporation must perform better than 5% of Damien's business. After all, Damien owned countless assets, with the Pinnacle Group alone strong enough to completely trump the Morris Group.

In the martial arts domain, he must be able to defeat Titus Garrison, one of the Garrison clan's youngest guards who had perfected his martial arts skills.

However, everyone clearly knew that these youngsters, who were used as benchmarks, were not the strongest of the Garrison clan—they were, at the most, considered average in the family.

It was evident how high the standards of entering the Garrison clan were.

If one did not want to rely on background, it was simply too challenging a feat to enter the Garrison clan through capabilities alone.

In fact, for the business domain, the standards were only 5% of Damien's business.

It was obvious how strong Damien was.

They purposely set the benchmark as 5% of Damien's business, intending it to be a constant reminder to Levi and Emma.

As quoted from Tyrone and Olivia, if Levi could not even achieve 5% of what Damien could, there was nothing for Emma to be proud of.

Everyone knew that should Levi fail in his challenge, his demise was certain.

“Do your best, Levi. I'm sure that you can achieve it within a year. Iris and I will assist you to develop Morris Group even further!”

When Zoey heard this bet, she gave Levi tremendous encouragement.

Right now, their only hope was Morris Group.

There was not much time left for them—they must accomplish everything within a year!

Otherwise, certain death awaited them.

On the other hand, Levi was overjoyed.

That period of one year was meant for the Garrison clan to have a breather before the battle ahead. It was not the case of the Garrison clan giving him one year to pathetically cling onto his meager chance of survival.

He was waiting for Zoey to give birth to their child.

Otherwise, he would have just attacked the Garrison clan directly.

Hence, Levi felt no sense of urgency.

For the following days, he stayed by Zoey's side constantly.

Zoey and her child were the most important priority for him.

As for the Morris Group, he left everything in the hands of Iris.

Although Zoey was unhappy about it, she was helpless to do anything.

"If Zoey's not pregnant with your child, we'd certainly have forced you to cut off all ties with her!"

Even though the Lopez family and the Black family were upset by this incident, they had no choice but to turn a blind eye.

Soon, it was time for the appointment of the next successor of the Garrison clan.

Tyrone was unanimously voted to become the head of the clan.

In order to maintain the clan's constant development, the head of the Garrison clan could only keep his position for a term of twenty years.

Tyrone's age was just right.

At this moment, Tyrone had finally achieved the highest position of the Garrison clan.

"Well, I have to you to thank, Levi!"

He was right.

Previously, there were many respected elders in the family who opposed Tyrone being the patriarch.

However, after his one-year pact with Levi, many people started looking at him in a different light.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1076

It could be said that Levi helped tremendously in letting Tyrone become the head of the clan.

This was the only help he offered as Tyrone's biological son.

"Hahaha! So this illegitimate bastard can benefit me in this way too, huh?"

Tyron even specially called Levi.

"From this moment onward, I'm the mighty head of the Garrison clan. The secret you know no longer poses any threat to me! You've missed the perfect opportunity."

Tyrone's voice was filled with arrogance and pride.

"The head of the Garrison clan? Congratulations, then!"

Levi smiled.

"Yeah, that's right! The most powerful family of Erudia is now completely in my control. I've already reached the apex! But don't you even dare to imagine that I'll validate your identity. It is impossible! I will never acknowledge you as my child. I only have one son— Damien! So, stop dreaming," scoffed Tyrone.

A trace of mockery crept into Levi's smile. "Tyrone, do you know what kind of person you are?"

"What?" asked Tyrone curiously.

“A self-righteous person! You always view things from such a myopic point of view, oblivious to the fact that there are always people stronger than you. Perhaps, you are nothing but a measly ant to others!”

Tyrone could not help but burst into laughter. “Hahaha! I’m a measly ant to others? Do you still not understand who I am now? I’m the patriarch of the most powerful ancient family in Erudia!”

“Okay. Well, there’s not much time left for the Garrison clan now. You should accumulate as much power and social connections as to fight me. Otherwise, when the deadline is up, the Garrison clan will not even stand a chance!”

Levi remembered that this was the second time he had said this to the Garrisons.

They all probably harbored the same attitude towards him— disdain.

“Hahaha! Are you talking about yourself? Everyone in Erudia knows about this bet. It’ll be your death-day by then. Shouldn’t you be thinking about how to extend your pathetic life?”

Indeed, Tyrone was filled with disdain.

No matter what, he believed that Levi would never succeed.

Hence, he posed no threat at all.

“Hahaha!

Levi burst out laughing loudly.

“You madman!” cursed Tyrone before hanging up the call.

To him, Levi was nothing more than an unreasonable madman.

That was why he dared to keep provoking Tyrone.

There was a saying that ignorant people were more confident than the wise.

Levi was one of such ignorant people.

“Don’t be angry, Dad. One day, this illegitimate bastard will understand what true power means. If he wants to succeed, he can only strive in the business domain. However, I’ll deliberately make things difficult for him. I guarantee that within a year, the Morris Group will worsen,” promised Damien with an assured smile.

He would never give Levi any chances.

Tyrone was satisfied with Damien’s words.

Only by resorting to unscrupulous means could one accomplish great success.

Damien was truly his son.

For the following days, the Morris Group kept facing setbacks in their business development. It was simply too difficult to expand their business.

They had no choice but to remain stuck within North Hampton and South Hampton.

Iris immediately called for a meeting with Zoey and Levi.

“It is most likely the Pinnacle Group who is suppressing us. They severed all possible pathways for us to access the external markets. If this continues, we will remain stagnant. It’ll be impossible for us to expand our business,” Iris explained her thoughts.

Everyone knew that it was the Garrison clan who was suppressing them, so Levi would fail in his challenge.

Zoey bit her lips and glanced at Levi. “Levi, I want to hear your opinion. What do you think we should do?”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1077

Unable to think of any solutions, everyone turned their gaze toward Levi.

He smiled and said, "My suggestion is very simple. You should just rest well and not fuss over this. Just let them suppress us! We can just continue with our business as usual."

As Zoey was still pregnant, Levi did not want any troubles to arise.

All he wanted was to take care of Zoey until their child was born.

Everything else was insignificant in comparison.

However, Zoey interpreted Levi's attitude in a different manner.

This was the time when Levi should strive hard, stand up to the challenge and solve the problem.

Yet, he had such a pessimistic attitude.

When he was faced with a problem, he was actually backing away and neglecting it.

In fact, he still had a one-year pact with the Garrison clan!

Even if he might not succeed, he should at least have the right attitude.

He should strive till the last moment with his best effort. This was a way for him to prove himself and make the rest acknowledge him.

Even if they lost, they would just admit defeat.

However, this attitude was simply unacceptable!

One year later, how could Levi challenge the Garrison clan?

It would just be a complete joke!

“For this period of time, Zoey’s health is my priority. Everything else is insignificant to me!” said Levi honestly.

Zoey and Iris sighed simultaneously.

Indeed, Levi was backing away when confronted with the powerful Garrison clan.

“I know what you’re afraid of. Don’t worry! I’m not even concerned about the Garrison clan. They should be the ones worried.”

When Zoey heard Levi’s arrogant words, she became angry.

“Levi, I admit that you’re very impressive. There are not many youngsters as capable as you are! However, the Garrison clan is simply too powerful. I think that you should personally visit Oakland City and take a look. After witnessing how powerful the Garrison clan is, you’ll be back on the right track,” suggested Zoey exasperatedly.

“Don’t be angry, Zoey. I’ll do my best in expanding the Morris Group!”

To calm Zoey down, Levi could only put on an act of firm determination.

“That’s more like it! At least you’ve got the right attitude!”

Only then did Zoey stop being angry.

Yet, Levi’s plan was still to leave the Morris group to Iris and the rest to run.

The only reason why he founded this business was to promote the development of the North Hampton region and benefit the citizens.

He would never use it for private reasons, such as going against the Garrison clan.

Furthermore, it would not prove useful at all.

For now, he only had one objective— to take care of Zoey.

Everyone already knew about his famous bet with Tyrone.

Yet, they could all tell that Levi was completely unbothered by it.

It was as if he had resigned to his fate.

“I heard that the Pinnacle Group, which is currently controlled by Damien, is starting to suppress the Morris Group. Looks like Levi has given up!”

“What other solutions are there except to give up? He can only accept his inevitable fate!”

On the flight from Oakland City to North Hampton, everyone was discussing Levi.

Everyone thought that Levi had certainly given up.

After all, his opponent was so powerful that he stood no chance of winning.

A few youngsters in the same flight were currently sitting in the first-class cabin.

There were a total of two women and three men.

From their appearance and demeanor, it was evident that these five youngsters came from elite families with high social statuses.

When they heard the people beside them talking about Levi, they seemed to be extremely interested. In fact, they were all grinning.

They listened to the discussions about Levi for the entire trip.

Soon, the plane arrived at the North Hampton Airport.

The five youngsters alighted the plane.

"I hope that Levi won't disappoint us. After all, we came all the way to North Hampton!" One of them said.

These youngsters from Oakland City came just for Levi.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1078

"I heard that his child is about to be born."

"Yeah, how fortunate! If Levi returned to the Garrison clan, Tiffany might have to marry him!"

"Him? How can he be worthy of Tiffany?"

A few of them mocked him.

The five of the youngsters were Carl Mullins, Dominic Coleman, Eden Davie, Taylor Reilly, and Leia Buxton.

They all hailed from powerful families in Oakland City.

Families in Oakland City were split into five categories.

The first category was ancient families like the Garrison clan with more than a thousand years of history.

The second category was the imperial families.

The third category was the royal families.

The fourth category was the prominent families.

Lastly, the fifth category was the other ordinary families.

However, the prominent families of Oakland City were much more powerful than the royal families in South Hampton. After all, as they were in the capital city, they needed to be powerful enough to gain a foothold there.

These five youngsters came from royal families in Oakland City. Yet, their families surpassed even the imperial Garrison family in Haven.

Hence, now that they were at North Hampton, they acted in an extremely arrogant and domineering way, as if they were superior to the others.

After all, they came from a place that was higher in the hierarchy than North Hampton.

The Tiffany they were referring to was actually Tiffany Meyers.

She was the heiress of the imperial Meyers family of Oakland City.

Back then, Tyrone arranged for an engagement with the Meyers in order to appease Emma—one that took place between Levi and Tiffany.

Although Tyrone did not take it seriously and was only lying to Emma, everyone else took his words seriously.

After all, he was a member of the Garrison clan in Oakland City.

Since he was talking about something as important as marriage, the Meyers took it seriously.

They even specially drafted an engagement contract, which Tyrone and Emma had both signed.

Initially, Tyrone did not think much about it.

Back then, he already knew that the Garrison clan would never allow him to marry Emma.

In other words, her child was not destined to survive.

Hence, the arranged marriage did not matter much.

However, according to the rules, the engagement contract was still in effect even till now.

It could only be considered ineffective only if both parties refused and tore up the contract on the spot.

Due to this engagement contract, Tiffany did not dare to marry anyone even till now.

After all, it had been signed by the Garrison clan.

If Tiffany married someone else, it would mean that she was disrespecting the authority of the Garrison clan.

The Meyers family would be destroyed.

Hence, they had been troubled over this matter for a long time. After all, they did not know the Garrison clan's stance on it, nor did they dare to ask.

However, Levi's bet with Tyrone allowed the Meyers to finally know the Garrison clan's attitude towards Levi.

Hence, they were prepared to call off the engagement and ask Levi to rip the contract on the spot.

As the Meyers family was an imperial family in Oakland City, it was too embarrassing for them to personally end the engagement themselves.

After all, Levi was just an illegitimate bastard.

Hence, they sent some members of the royal families to look for Levi, call off the engagement and tear up the engagement contract on their behalf.

"I really hate Levi Garrison! Because of him, Tiffany doesn't even dare to date."

"Yeah! By this time, she should've been married and have kids already."

The five of them lamented furiously.

Leia smiled and said, "After Levi tears up the engagement contract, Tiffany will finally be free!"

"Yeah, Martin has been waiting for Tiffany for many years. Only someone like him is worthy enough for her!"

A look of anticipation crossed Taylor's face.

Martin was ranked second in the Heir Leaderboard in Oakland City.

The Heir Leaderboard ranked the top heirs, excluding those from the most powerful ancient families, in Oakland city.

They were much more powerful than the Prince Gang in South Hampton.

It could be said that the most powerful youngsters of Oakland City were all listed on the Heir Leaderboard.

The five of them wanted to destroy the engagement contract as soon as possible so that Tiffany could marry Martin.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1079

Soon, Leia and the rest arrived at the Morris Group office building.

Gazing up at the building, Carl scoffed, "To be honest, even the Mullins family can completely destroy the Morris Group."

"Yeah! Ruining the Morris Group is simply a piece of cake for us."

"Yet, they still want to challenge the Garrison clan. Isn't that completely absurd?"

"How can such an insolent and arrogant madman be worthy of Tiffany?"

Everyone mocked coldly.

After witnessing Morris Group's scale of operations, they were even more certain that Levi's challenge to the Garrison clan was nothing more than a joke.

Someone like he would never achieve much.

Levi was wondering what he should cook for Zoey tonight when Seth suddenly called him, saying that he had some guests.

Confused, Levi went to the waiting area in the lobby.

He did not recognize the five youngsters at all.

However, judging from their arrogant demeanor, it was obvious that they came from exceptional backgrounds.

“So, you are Levi Garrison?” asked Carl disdainfully.

“That’s me. Who are you?” asked Levi, feeling puzzled.

“We come from Oakland City. We’re here on someone’s behalf to call off your arranged engagement.”

Taylor cut straight to the point.

“An arranged engagement? What’s it got to do with me?”

Levi was completely befuddled by her words.

My child is about to be born, yet someone is telling me that I have an arranged engagement?

Isn’t this absurd?

“That’s right, your arranged engagement! Your biological parents settled an arranged engagement for you before you were even born. Your fiancée is Tiffany Meyers, the most beautiful woman of Oakland City!” explained Leia with a cold smirk.

They thought that Levi was putting on an act.

Emma must have told him already.

Yet, he’s pretending to be ignorant?

How annoying!

“Huh? An arranged engagement? Wait a moment.”

Levi quickly contacted his mother and told her to come over.

Soon, Emma arrived.

“Mom, have you ever arranged an engagement for me?” asked Levi.

Emma was shocked momentarily before nodding. "Yeah, that's right. Back then, Tyrone formed an engagement between you and a girl from the Meyers family in Oakland City. Her name is Tiffany Meyers! I've already forgotten about this. What's wrong?"

Levi glanced at the five people and said, "They're here to call off the engagement on behalf of the Meyers."

Emma slapped her forehead in realization. "Oh my, I've completely forgotten about this. Regardless of what happened, this engagement is still in effect. Aren't we holding Tiffany back? As she's bound by the engagement, she probably can't even marry yet. I'm sorry, everyone. This is my fault!"

However, Leia and the rest scoffed at Emma's apology. "You've finally realized that it's your fault? Do you have any idea how many years Tiffany has wasted because of you? Till now, she doesn't even dare to marry or even date someone!"

"You ruined half of her life! Someone like you will certainly face karma. You deserve a horrendous death!"

"Yeah, you sabotaged her. If it weren't for you, there wouldn't have been this engagement. You probably don't want to call it off, right? Do you still want him to marry Tiffany? We know your objectives. You still want to be part of the Garrison clan, right?"

The five of them started to hurl accusations at Emma, which infuriated Levi.

"Damn it! Tyrone's the one responsible for the engagement. Why didn't you look for him instead?"

Levi's words rendered everyone speechless.

Naturally, no one would dare to look for Tyrone.

"What's it got to do with Mr. Garrison? It's all your Mom's fault! Call off the engagement immediately and tear up the engagement contract in front of us."

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1080

Even though everyone was well aware that Tyrone agreed to establish this arranged marriage, and that Emma had nothing to do with it, they all pushed the blame on her.

Intimidated by power, none of them dared to drag Tyrone into this.

Everything was Emma's fault.

As she spoke, Leia passed the engagement contract to Levi and ordered him to tear it apart.

The rest whipped out their phones to film it.

Sighing, Emma said, "Levi, just tear it. We are indebted to Tiffany, so we should give her back her freedom."

"Yeah, this is the proper attitude of repentance! We won't blame you for wasting so much of Tiffany's time. Rip the contract now and don't pester Tiffany anymore," instructed Taylor arrogantly.

"Tear it up! Why aren't you moving? Tear it now! We still have to return," urged the rest when they saw Levi standing there motionlessly.

To their surprise, Levi crumpled the contract into a ball and shoved it into his pocket.

Everyone was stunned.

What is he planning to do?

"Levi, what are you doing?" yelled Leia angrily.

Even Emma was confused.

"Listen up! I'll safeguard the engagement contract for now. I'm fine with calling off the engagement and tearing the contract up. However, you should tell Tiffany to come personally. Who are all of you? How dare you criticize my Mom like that? Rather, you should directly find Tyrone and call off the engagement!" said Levi sternly as he glared at the rest.

If they spoke in a more courteous manner, he would just tear the contract up.

Yet, since they dared to scold his Mom, he would not agree to their request.

It was not so simple to make him tear the contract!

"You..."

Everyone glared at Levi Garrison resentfully.

"How dare you?" yelled Taylor.

"Get lost! If you want me to tear up the contract, tell Tiffany to come personally. Anyone else will not count," ordered Levi furiously.

"You... You just don't want to call off the engagement, right? That's why you deliberately snatched the contract away. You want Tiffany to marry you, right?"

"You shameless bastard! You aren't worthy enough for Tiffany. She's the most beautiful woman of Oakland City and the heiress of the imperial Meyers family. What right do you have to do this?"

"Yeah, you even have a pregnant wife! Even Martin, who has a crush on Tiffany, can kill you so easily."

Everyone bellowed in fury.

"Haha! The more you act like this, the more reluctant I will be to destroy the contract. The only condition is that Tiffany comes personally. Seth, send the guests away!" instructed Levi.

Seth instantly chased the five people out of the Morris Group.

Although they were furious, they were well aware they no longer had any authority outside their turf.

"I'm sure that Levi is trying to use Tiffany. Even if he doesn't want to marry her, he will use the engagement to extort money from the Meyers!" analyzed Leia.

"What should we do now?" asked the others.

"Should we quickly inform Tiffany and the Meyers family? Let them decide!" suggested Taylor.

At that moment, Eden's phone rang.

"It's a call from Martin! He's been paying attention to our progress in calling off the engagement."

Eden picked up the call.

"Martin, something bad happened. Levi doesn't want to call off the engagement and he even snatched the contract away. He demands Tiffany to personally come and call it off."

Eden relayed everything to Martin, who instantly became mad with fury.

"This is outrageous! You guys, continue staying at North Hampton for the time being. Tiffany and I will personally come to settle this issue!" ordered Martin coldly.

Everyone was overjoyed to hear that.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1081

The second most powerful heir in Oakland City is going to deal with Levi personally.

Things were truly getting exciting.

When they remembered Levi's attitude and how he chased them out, they were furious.

They wished for nothing more than to teach him a lesson.

Now that Martin was coming, Levi had no choice but to defer regardless of how powerful he might be.

Would he still dare to refuse to tear up the engagement contract?

Back in Oakland City, in the imperial Meyers family's manor, a woman was dressed in a long white dress.

She looked as beautiful as an angel, with a well-defined oval-shaped face and exquisite facial features. She exuded breathtaking beauty.

Her almond-shaped eyes sparkled brightly, brimming with affection and tenderness.

Even her figure was slender and curvaceous— even more beautiful than professional models.

This woman was none other than Tiffany, hailed as the most beautiful woman of Oakland City.

She was woman of many men's dreams.

Yet, no one dared to pursue her. The most they would do was to have a crush on her silently.

These men included the second most powerful heir in Oakland City— Martin Preston, who similarly hailed from an imperial family.

After all, Tiffany was engaged to Levi and everyone feared the Garrison clan.

“Ma’am, Mr. Meyers summoned you over, saying that it’s about something important,” informed a maid.

Tiffany soon arrived at the Meyers family’s meeting hall.

Her grandfather, Jordan Meyers, and her father, Arvin Meyers, were both present.

A smart woman, Tiffany immediately asked, “Grandpa, Dad, did something go wrong with calling off the engagement?”

“Yes, that’s right. Levi refused to tear up the engagement contract unless you go personally,” said Arvin with a sigh.

Tiffany started to panic. “What is he talking about? He already has a wife and a son! Why is he still clinging on to me? Hasn’t he ruined me enough for all these years? Must he drag me down forever?”

The Meyers family had a similar attitude.

Although Tyrone was the sole person responsible for the engagement, no one dared to voice out any dissatisfaction toward him.

All of them decided that the culprit was Levi— he was the one who sabotaged her.

He was the reason why she could not date or marry others.

Yet, Levi was completely oblivious to all these.

“We don’t know his objectives either. As of now, we have only two guesses. Firstly, he wants to marry you and not call off the engagement. Secondly, he wants to extort a huge sum of money from us using the engagement as leverage,” explained Jordan helplessly.

“This is ridiculous! How can there be a man like him? I’ll never respect a person like that,” spat Tiffany furiously.

“Grandpa, Dad, what should we do?” she asked.

“Now, the only choice is for you to go to North Hampton personally. As long as he doesn’t request for anything unreasonable, we will fulfill his conditions to the best of our abilities!” said Arvin.

A worried look crossed Jordan’s face. “But I’ll be worried if Tiffany goes alone.”

“Don’t worry, Dad. I’ll send more people with her so she’ll be safe,” assured Arvin.

“No, I’m not worried about this. I’m concerned that she won’t be able to settle the problem even if she goes there.”

Arvin frowned. “But we can’t possibly go with her, right? It’ll be quite inappropriate.”

“Mr. Meyers, I’ll accompany Tiffany there!”

A voice rang out as a burly figure appeared at the door.

The young man had a handsome and cold look, exuding a dignified aura.

He was none other than Martin Preston.

When Tiffany saw him, her eyes lit up.

Amongst all of her pursuers, she liked Martin the most.

After all, he was nearly perfect in all aspects.

Excluding the powerful ancient families, he ranked second amongst the other heirs.

“It’s inappropriate for elders like both of you to turn up because you might be gossiped about. After all, this concerns the Garrison clan! I can go there personally to settle the issue. I promise that Levi will tear up the engagement contract! After that, the Preston family will propose a marriage with the Meyers family, and I will take Tiffany as my wife,” promised Martin.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1082

Jordan and Arvin were very satisfied. "This is great! If Martin goes, he can definitely resolve this matter!"

Even if Levi were reluctant, Martin could just force him to rip the engagement contract.

Everyone was very pleased with Martin.

Excluding the heirs of those powerful ancient families, he ranked second in Oakland City!

Naturally, he was worthy enough for Tiffany.

He had also been waiting for her all this while.

"Okay, then. I'll leave this to you, Martin. You'll bring Tiffany there to settle the issue."

Then, Martin and Tiffany headed to North Hampton.

Back in North Hampton, Emma was very upset with Levi refusing to rip the engagement contract.

By doing so, he was making more enemies.

He could not afford to offend those people from Oakland City.

Morris Group was simply too weak and vulnerable when compared to them.

Even Zoey learned about this incident.

She joked, "Did you keep the engagement contract because you still want to marry your fiancée?"

"I don't mind as long as you agree! Haha!"

"F you."

Zoey pinched Levi forcefully.

"I just dislike how arrogantly they acted. If they refuse to humble themselves, I will never call off the engagement. Anyway, it won't affect me at all. My child is going to be born soon," said Levi dismissively.

"Deal with it properly, then. Just don't make things more troublesome than it already is!" said Zoey exasperatedly.

She was really afraid that Levi would make more enemies.

After all, those people were from Oakland City.

At night, Tiffany and Martin arrived at North Hampton with more than ten highly skilled experts tailing them.

"Martin, Tiffany, this Levi rascal is simply too arrogant! He even chased us out," complained Leia and the rest.

"It's expected. If he's not arrogant and presumptuous, would he have made a bet with the Garrison clan?" scoffed Martin.

Tiffany's expression was extremely cold. "I heard many people remarking that he's a madman! It's expected that he'll make such an abnormal move."

"Tiffany, if this madman refuses to tear the engagement contract, what should we do?" asked Taylor.

"How dare he?" yelled Martin furiously. "Let's go! We came here this time to make him call off the engagement. He won't dare to refuse."

A cold and sinister glint flashed across his eyes.

Soon, the group arrived at the residence Levi was living in. They were stopped at the entrance.

“We are from Oakland City. I’m Martin Preston. Let me in now!”

Martin declared his identity right off the bat.

However, the security guards responsible for guarding the residence scoffed, “We don’t care where you’re from. We don’t know you! Everything will be done in accordance with the rules.”

“You...”

Everyone was almost mad with fury.

They had always been treated as distinguished guests wherever they went because of their background in Oakland City.

Yet, they were now stopped by a few measly security guards.

“This is indeed such a small, insignificant city. You haven’t even heard of Martin’s name!” mocked the rest, an arrogant look crossing their faces.

As residents of Oakland City, they always felt a sense of superiority compared to people from other cities.

They were in the capital city, the most legitimate city in the nation. The other cities were merely peripheral to it.

When Martin noticed their reaction, he smirked coldly and said, “So, Levi grew up in such an environment. No wonder he doesn’t even fear the Garrison clan. I finally understand now. These people are just ignorant pricks who’ve spent their lives cooped up in a hole.”

Tiffany agreed, “Isn’t there a saying that the oblivious know no fear, while the ignorant suffer from baseless confidence? They are blind to everything else. He’s been constrained to this tiny city, shielded from the real world.”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1083

“What are you doing here? Who are you looking for?” asked the security guard.

“My name is Tiffany Meyers from Oakland City. I’m here to look for Levi Garrison. Tell him my name and he’ll naturally show up to see me,” said Tiffany.

The security guard returned soon.

“Mr. Garrison said that he’s still eating dinner, so he’s busy. He told you to wait a while longer.”

“What? Levi is going too far!”

Martin was on the verge of flying into a rage.

He had always been a ruthless and decisive person— someone who hated such situations the most.

“How dare he make us wait? Does he really think that he’s a big shot? This is outrageous!”

He was the mighty heir of Oakland City’s imperial family

Not only that but he was also ranked second in the Heir Leaderboard.

How was it possible for him to wait for someone else?

This was a huge humiliation to him.

Furious, Tiffany's expression also turned cold.

"Forget it. Let's wait for a while longer! Our priority is to tear up the engagement contract. Everything else doesn't matter."

Tiffany thought that they should wait.

It was true that Levi was eating earlier.

However, he had already finished his meal and was chatting with Azure Dragon and the rest.

"Sir, I heard that Tiffany Meyers and Martin Preston came. He's even ranked second amongst the heirs of Oakland City."

Phoenix possessed very comprehensive intel.

From the moment Tiffany and the rest acted, she had everything under her control.

At the mention of this, Azure Dragon's expression changed. A strange look flashed across his eyes, which was noticed by Levi.

"Azure Dragon, I remember that you're from Oakland City, right?" asked Levi.

Azure Dragon nodded.

Levi remembered that Azure Dragon had been selected from prison just like himself.

Naturally, not everyone had the chance to be chosen.

Firstly, only those who had been wrongfully accused like Levi stood a chance.

The authorities had actually investigated the cases clearly. However, as it involved classified secrets, they could not publicly announce the fact that the prisoners had been wrongfully accused.

Hence, Levi knew that Azure Dragon went to prison because he had been framed.

After being selected, it was only after a rigorous, life-threatening experience that they could rise up to their current position.

“Azure Dragon, why were you sent to prison back then?” asked Levi.

After a moment of hesitation, Azure Dragon spat, “I went to prison on behalf of someone else!”

Indeed, he had been framed too.

This was the reason why he had been selected to join the military.

Levi asked curiously, “Do you mind sharing with us the specifics?”

“Sure. Coincidentally, Martin made me remember some past events!”

Everyone gazed at Azure Dragon and listened to his story.

“Actually, I was born into a decent family. I came from the Stuart family, one of the top ten imperial families outside of the ancient families.”

The rest gasped upon hearing his words, not expecting him to have such a strong background.

“I was the eldest amongst the Stuart family’s younger generation and quite capable across all domains. According to the rules, I should be the heir. However, my younger brother, Curtis, surpassed me in every way. My Grandpa made him the heir, thinking that he was the hope of the Stuart family. I endured this. After all, I was not as capable as him. However, Curtis committed a heinous crime— one that even a member of the imperial family could not be pardoned for. He was supposed to go to jail for twenty years. Yet, the Stuart family made me the scapegoat and go to prison on his behalf. As everyone in the family agreed, my parents had no choice but to relent.”

After a short pause, he spat resentfully, “What’s more despicable is that after sending me to prison, Curtis married my fiancée. He said that he would take care of her forever, right in front of my face. That b* even hugged him!”

By then, Azure Dragon was already fuming.

Everyone's breathing quickened after they finished hearing his story.

Indeed, these wealthy families lived in a completely different world.

Anything— even the most outrageous things— could happen.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1084

He's so pitiful!

His backstory is so tragic.

Azure Dragon actually suffered as much as Levi did.

At least Levi had Zoey, who silently waited for him for six years; Azure Dragon had nothing.

All he had was a merciless family and a fiancée who betrayed him.

No wonder he never mentioned his family for so many years.

Everyone even assumed that he was an orphan.

"Curtis? Could it be Curtis Stuart, ranked number one in the Heir Leaderboard?" asked Phoenix.

She was extremely knowledgeable about the Heir Leaderboard.

"Yes, that's right! Curtis is extremely capable in all domains. He earned that rank with his own capabilities. This is why the Stuart family was willing to go to such lengths to protect him. Before meeting you, I thought that Curtis was the most powerful young man in the world. He was so terrifying that even I feared him. Back then, regardless of how hard I tried, I could never catch up to him," lamented Azure Dragon helplessly as he sighed.

"Most importantly, my fiancée actually said that only the strongest man was worthy enough of her, and I'm not deserving enough! She said that I can stop dreaming about catching up to Curtis. Yet, I was at a loss on how to rebuke her. Back then, Curtis was simply too terrifying. He alone could suppress all the youngsters in Oakland City! He can really let you know how real despair feels like.”

By this time, Azure Dragon was already mad with fury.

“I can only helplessly watch as that b* threw herself into his arms!”

Staring at him, Levi Garrison asked, “Do you still feel that way now? Do you still fear him?”

Azure Dragon suddenly laughed.

After all these years, his capabilities and mental strength had reached an unprecedented level.

Curtis, who used to be his greatest nightmare, was no longer someone to be feared.

Actually, he looked forward to battling Curtis.

He wanted to prove to the Stuart family and that b* that he was stronger than Curtis; that their previous decision was a horrible mistake!

“Then, do you want to go to the Stuart family? Do you want to prove that you’re stronger than Curtis? Do you want to prove to that b* that her choice was wrong? Do you want to make the entire Stuart family regret?” Levi shot these questions at him consecutively.

After a slight hesitation, Azure Dragon nodded.

This had always been his goal and dream.

Of course he wanted to!

However, bound by his current duties, he could not do so.

“Okay, I support you! You also know that I will go to Oakland City soon, right? The first thing will be for you to take your revenge on the Stuart family. We’ll turn the entire city upside down!”

Levi patted Azure Dragon's shoulder heavily.

"Boss, with you supporting me, I have nothing to fear! I will definitely prove myself in this battle, and fight on your behalf as well!"

A determined look raged within Azure Dragon's eyes.

He was already getting restless.

Time passed quickly while Levi and his friends were chatting.

Tiffany at the rest, who were waiting at the entrance of the residence, were already extremely impatient.

Half an hour passed, yet no one turned up.

Even after one hour passed, Levi was still nowhere to be seen.

Now, three hours had passed.

If it were not for Tiffany, who forcefully held Martin back, he would have charged into the residence and wreaked havoc.

"How can he eat for three to four hours? Who'll believe him? It's obvious that he's doing it on purpose!"

Everyone was almost fuming.

"After Tiffany tears up the engagement contract, I'll settle this score with Levi. I'll not let him off the hook until he groveled to me!" bellowed Martin furiously.

After another half an hour, Levi finally showed up.

"I'm sorry to keep all of you waiting!" apologized Levi with a grin.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1085

"I'm really sorry, I forgot that you guys are still waiting for me!"

Levi walked toward them with an apologetic look.

However, when the rest heard his words, they felt like they were on the verge of flying into a rage.

He actually forgot?

It's been almost four hours!

We've been waiting for too long.

More importantly, it's so unbecoming of our status—we've got the heirs and heiresses of two imperial families and five royal families of Oakland City here.

Scrutinizing Levi, Martin's eyes blazed with rage.

"You've made us wait for almost four hours. Give me a reasonable explanation!" bellowed Martin.

He was never a patient person. Waiting for four hours was like torture to him.

Now, he even had an urge to kill Levi there and then.

Tiffany tugged Martin back, signaling him to not do anything rash.

“Fine, let’s not dwell on this first. Tear up the marriage contract now! I’m ordering you to do it right away!”

Martin sized Levi up with an arrogant and contemptuous look.

Levi’s expression turned cold. “Who the f are you?”

“I’m Martin Preston!”

“I’ve never heard of you. Get lost and let Tiffany talk to me herself!”

Levi did not show any respect for Martin at all.

Everyone else was stunned, turning their gaze to Levi in utter disbelief.

This was the second time today that Martin had been neglected so blatantly.

Not only was he ranked second in the Heir Leaderboard, but he was also the heir of an imperial family—a man who could get whatever he wanted.

Now that he was ignored once again in such a small city like North Hampton, Martin could not bear it anymore.

He was fuming now.

“I’m going to kill you!”

Martin’s aggressively murderous aura enveloped Levi.

The tension in the atmosphere was so thick one could cut it with a knife.

“I’m Tiffany!”

Tiffany stepped out in time.

She and Levi sized each other up, yet she felt extremely uneasy by his gaze.

It felt like he could see right through her.

He already has a wife, so why is he looking at me like that?

“What are you trying to do? Why are you staring at me so intensely? Please show some respect!”

Tiffany glared at Levi in disgust, her gaze plainly revealing her disdain for him.

Someone like you wants to marry me? Can't he look into the mirror and see that he's not in my league at all?

Oh no! What if Levi is unwilling to destroy the engagement contract and wants to marry me instead?

After seeing how I look, he might not want to give up on me anymore.

After all, his biological father abandoned Emma and him for Olivia.

Levi might do the same thing and abandon his wife and child for me!

On the other hand, Levi just wanted to see how the most beautiful woman of Oakland City looked like.

He did not know that he was currently being misunderstood.

“The most beautiful woman of Oakland City? Well, I now see that you're just mediocre. Slightly inferior to my wife,” concluded Levi after a thorough scrutinization.

He did not want to say it out loud initially, but this woman's attitude provoked him.

“You...”

Fury crossed Tiffany's face.

Levi is indeed so irritating!

When Martin heard Levi insulting the woman he loved, he instantly became infuriated.

“Apologize! Apologize to Tiffany right now!” yelled Martin as he pointed at Levi.

Frowning, Levi asked, "Apologize? Why should I apologize?"

"You said that Tiffany pales in comparison to your wife! This is the greatest insult you can give her. You must apologize to her right now!"

Martin was extremely adamant.

"Yeah! How can there be someone who's better than Tiffany? It's impossible."

"You must apologize to Tiffany right now!"

The others insisted that Levi apologize.

Tiffany had the exact same thoughts too.

Since young, she had been doted on by the Meyers family and treated with utmost care.

No woman could even compare to her.

However, Levi claimed that his wife was better than her.

Tiffany refused to admit it.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1086

This was a humiliation to her!

Ever since she became an adult, her position as the most beautiful woman of Oakland City had always been undisputed.

No one could even compare to her!

In fact, it was a woman's greatest honor to be compared to Tiffany.

However, even though she was okay with being compared with others, she refused to be deemed the inferior one.

"Levi, you must apologize to me for this!" commanded Tiffany coldly as she glared at him.

"This is ridiculous! I've never heard of someone needing to apologize for this!"

Levi burst out laughing.

This is utterly absurd.

It's the first time I'm demanded to apologize for making a comparison.

"Levi, you don't even know Tiffany's status in Oakland City. She's been known as the most beautiful woman in Oakland City for ten years! Who dares to compare others to her? Yet, you dared to claim that she's inferior to your wife. By doing so, you're insulting Tiffany!" explained Leia furiously.

She was not wrong— everyone in Oakland City shared the same sentiment.

However, Levi thought that they were just a bunch of crazy people.

“Apologize? It’s impossible. If there’s nothing else, I’ll take my leave now.”

Levi spun around and left.

“Stand right there. Did I let you leave?” bellowed Martin as he dashed in front of Levi, blocking his path.

“Apologize right now! I command you to do so!”

Unable to endure it anymore, Martin was already on the verge of flying into a rage.

Levi smiled. “What if I refuse to apologize?”

“Don’t blame me for being ruthless, then!”

Martin clenched his fists tightly, with the sound of his knuckles cracking ringing through the air.

Having ranked second on the Heir Leaderboard, it meant that not only was he extremely capable in other domains, but he was also skilled in fighting.

Martin had learned how to fight since young. Through rigorous training, he perfected his martial arts skills, earning him the reputation of being invincible—not even knives, guns, or bullets could harm him.

Seeing that a huge fight was about to unfold, Tiffany quickly diffused the tense atmosphere. “Fine, I’ll endure this. You don’t need to apologize, but you must tear up the engagement contract and return me my freedom.”

Thinking about their main objective of coming here, Martin suppressed his anger.

As long as the engagement contract was destroyed, it was never too late for him to take his revenge.

“Yeah, tear it into shreds right now!” urged the others.

“You guys also know that you’re here to call off the engagement? Why did you waste so much time spouting nonsense, then?” rebuked Levi.

“Well...”

They became visibly awkward.

Tiffany was the quickest to react. “Tear up the engagement contract now. We will have nothing to do with each other afterward.”

“Tear up the engagement contract? I’m afraid that it won’t be that simple anymore!” declared Levi coldly.

If they spoke in a nice manner earlier, he would have agreed to call the engagement off.

It was not a big deal anyway.

However, he could not endure their arrogant attitude.

“What?”

Stunned, they stared at Levi in disbelief.

He’s such a shameless bastard!

He’s actually refusing to tear up the engagement contract!

“What... What did you say? Could it be that you’re unwilling to tear it up?”

Tiffany was even more certain that Levi intended to marry her and abandon his wife.

It was obvious not only from his intense stare earlier, but also his current actions.

However, someone like him would never win her favor!

Tiffany’s standards for a man was extremely high.

Not even the top three heirs of Oakland City's Heir Leaderboard could arouse her interest.

She believed that only the heirs of those ancient families were worthy enough for her— for instance, Damien.

It would be an utter joke for Levi to be her husband!

"Hahaha! Levi, we have already expected you to do this. Tell us, under what conditions will you tear up the marriage contract? Obviously, we won't let you marry Tiffany!" said Martin.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1087

Everyone knew very well that there were only two reasons why Levi refused to tear up the engagement contract— either to marry Tiffany or to extort a large sum of money from her.

“Well, of course, I have some conditions!” said Levi with a grin.

Everyone flinched in disdain.

As expected.

“All of you must apologize to me and my mother before I tear up the engagement contract! You, in particular, must kneel in apology!”

Levi pointed at Martin.

When he said that, Tiffany and the others were momentarily stunned.

Instead of asking us for money, he’s actually demanding us to apologize to him!

How is it possible?

As the heirs and heiresses of royal and imperial families, how can we deign to apologize to an illegitimate bastard?

We aren’t even at fault here! But even if we are, we will never apologize.

“You want me to kneel and apologize? Dream on! Can you afford to bear the consequences if I apologized to you on my knees?” scoffed Martin.

Tiffany pursed her lips and said arrogantly, "Levi, you can raise any other conditions, be it money or anything else. We will fulfill whatever terms you raise. However, we'll never apologize! We didn't do anything wrong, so why should we apologize? Furthermore, if we apologized to you— of all people— we'll bear the brunt of everyone's mockery."

Tiffany was adamant that she would not apologize.

"You didn't do anything wrong? Very well. Since you haven't realized your mistake, it looks like I won't be hearing your apology anymore. In that case, don't even think about making me tear up the engagement contract! Look for me again when you find out what you did wrong."

With that, Levi spun around and returned to the residence.

Martin was about to block him when a group of people suddenly emerged one by one and surrounded him.

"How dare you create trouble here in North Hampton? Have you sought our permission yet?"

There were more than a hundred people around him right now.

Martin was about to become angry when Tiffany pulled him back.

"Let's resolve this peacefully! We'll go back and discuss first."

Tiffany did not want to blow the issue out of proportion, afraid that the Garrison clan in Oakland City would blame her.

"Do we just endure the humiliation just like this? I don't want to!"

It was tormenting to suppress the anger building up within him.

They went back and had a discussion together.

"Apologize? But what did we do wrong?"

Everyone was puzzled.

They were too used to having their way and treating everyone with such arrogance that they found nothing wrong with what they had done.

After all, everyone they met in the past acted subserviently around them. It did not matter even if they were slightly more overbearing.

They mulled over it for ages, but no one could figure out what they had done wrong.

At this moment, Tiffany suddenly suggested, "Does Levi think that we're too aggressive towards him? Have you guys scolded his mother before?"

Everyone only realized after being reminded by Tiffany.

"That's right! We scolded his mother previously. However, we merely stated facts. It's true that his mother ruined your life, Tiffany."

"Yeah! If it were not for his mother, Tiffany would've already been married."

Even though they knew why Levi was infuriated, they still did not think that they were wrong.

"He's making us apologize for such an insignificant manner? Is that rascal deliberately putting us into a difficult spot? He even wants me to kneel and apologize! It's impossible!"

A haughty look crossed Martin's face.

"Then, what should we do?" asked Leia.

They felt disgusted at the thought of apologizing.

Despite their noble statuses, they had to apologize to an illegitimate bastard. If news about this got around, their reputation in Oakland City would be thoroughly ruined.

"Listen to me! I'll kidnap that bastard here and force him to tear up the engagement contract. Don't worry, Tiffany. This is just a piece of cake to me. We don't need to resolve the issue the hard way," said Martin with a sinister smirk.

Left with no choice, Tiffany could only agree.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1088

Martin arrived at the residence at midnight, flanked by numerous skilled fighters.

Tiffany and the rest waited outside.

“Don’t worry, Tiffany. This is simply a piece of cake! I don’t fear anyone in a small city like North Hampton.”

With that, Martin was about to lead his subordinates to kidnap Levi when his phone suddenly rang.

When he accepted the call, he realized that it was Damien on the other end of the line.

“Hello, Mr. Garrison!”

Immediately dropping his haughty attitude, Martin became extremely polite and servile.

No matter how powerful his family was, they were nothing compared to the mighty Garrison clan.

“I heard that you’re going to confront Levi?” Damien’s voice was icy-cold.

“I... I am...”

After a moment of hesitation, Martin eventually decided to admit it.

“I know that you are helping Tiffany tear up her engagement contract because you like her. However, you must deal with it in a peaceful manner, understand? Even though Levi is an illegitimate bastard, he's still related to the Garrison clan. If you do anything out of the line, it'll be deemed as disrespecting the Garrison clan. Understood?" warned Damien.

By then, Martin had already broken out into cold sweat.

Luckily, I was a step slower.

Otherwise, something tragic would've happened.

I didn't even consider this point earlier...

What should we do to Levi, then?

Because of the infamous bet he made, everyone knows about his relationship with Tyrone.

If I do anything excessive, it'll be seen as looking down on the Garrison clan.

Even a simple action like this can lead to the demise of the Preston family!

"Understood, Mr. Garrison!"

Martin took a deep breath.

"What happened?"

When everyone gazed at Martin curiously, they noticed that his face was already pale.

"We cannot touch Levi! There's no choice but to think of another solution."

Martin relayed Damien's threat to the rest.

"What should we do now? Is apologizing the only solution left?"

Everyone felt helpless.

The next day, Levi took care of Zoey as usual, almost forgetting about what happened last night.

After all, those irrelevant people were not important enough to concern him.

At that moment, Tiffany and the rest visited him again.

“What’s up? Have you realized your mistake?” asked Levi.

This time, Tiffany’s attitude was much more friendly. She nodded and said, “Yes, we’ve realized our mistake. Mr. Garrison, I hereby apologize to you and your mother. Please forgive our rudeness earlier!”

In order to tear up the engagement contract and regain her freedom, Tiffany was ready to risk it all.

Just bear with it.

I’ll simply treat this as a slight inconvenience.

The others also apologized, albeit very reluctantly.

It was simply too humiliating for them to apologize to Levi.

However, in order to help Tiffany tear up her engagement contract, they risked it all.

Even Martin mumbled, “I’m sorry for being so rude earlier.”

“What did you say? You were too soft!” said Levi.

“I’m sorry!”

Martin was stunned for a while before quickly raising his voice.

Levi smiled. “Looks like you’ve really realized your mistake.”

Delighted, Tiffany immediately asked, “So, are you willing to tear up the engagement contract now?”

“Of course. However, your apologies are still inadequate!” replied Levi coldly.

“What? Are you going to go against your words? We apologized to you already!”

Tiffany started to panic.

Levi’s gaze landed on Martin. “Didn’t I say that he must kneel and apologize?”

“You...”

Martin was furious.

Apologizing to a bastard like him was already the most humiliating thing he had done.

It was impossible for him to kneel and apologize to Levi!

“If he kneels and apologizes, I’ll tear up the contract immediately!”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1089

After hearing Levi's assertive response, Tiffany and the rest simultaneously glanced at Martin.

"No way... How can I possibly kneel to him? Tiffany, I can't do it!"

He then looked at Levi. "You rascal, raise another condition and I promise that I'll agree to it!"

"No. I want you to kneel and apologize to me!"

Levi was very adamant.

Martin wished for nothing more than to kill Levi there and then.

However, recalling Damien's warning, he suppressed that urge.

"Martin, please help me this time! I really don't want to be bound by this engagement anymore," pleaded Tiffany earnestly.

After hesitating for five minutes, he took a deep breath and finally agreed.

"Fine, I'll help you!"

Dropping to his knees in front of Levi, he yelled, "Mr. Garrison, I was wrong. I'm sorry. Please forgive us!"

This act of kneeling was equivalent to having his pride trampled all over.

It was as humiliating as having Levi stomp on his face.

However, he endured it for the sake of the woman he so dearly loved.

“Now that’s more like it!”

As he spoke, Levi took out the engagement contract and tore it into shreds right in front of Tiffany.

“Listen up, Tiffany. From now on, our engagement is called off. I have nothing to do with you, so I hope that you won’t harass me anymore,” said Levi coldly.

“Huh?”

Tiffany was stunned.

Shouldn’t I be the one saying this?

Why is Levi saying it instead?

“Don’t worry. I won’t harass you because you aren’t even worthy enough!” replied Tiffany proudly.

“Yeah! I think that this is the most unequal arranged engagement in the whole of history!”

“You’re nothing compared to Tiffany. Stop trying to aim above your station!”

Leia and the rest chimed in angrily.

Tiffany scoffed, “Levi, you said that I pale in comparison to your wife. I want to see how exactly I am inferior to her! Not to exaggerate, but I’ve never seen a woman more exceptional than me.”

Earlier, she did not dare to say anything because of the engagement contract. Now that it had been torn up, she had nothing else to fear.

“Yeah, that’s right. Anyway, I’m married now. Even if I wasn’t, I’ll still choose Zoey over you. The reason is simple— she’s better than you!” declared Levi.

When he said that, everyone fell silent for a few seconds.

A look of utter disbelief crossed Tiffany's face.

Does Levi really think that I, the most beautiful woman in Oakland City, is inferior to his wife?

"Is this the reason why you're willing to tear up the engagement contract?" asked Tiffany coldly.

"That's right!"

"You'll regret this when you go to Oakland City! You've made an extremely erroneous mistake. You'll regret choosing her over me!" shrieked Tiffany.

For this trip to North Hampton, she did not put on any make-up at all. Her hair was disheveled and her clothes were very simple.

She dressed up in a low-key manner, deliberately trying to prevent Levi from taking a fancy to her.

To her surprise, things turned out like this...

Now that Levi had torn up the engagement contract, she actually found herself quite upset.

She even had the impulse to make Levi choose her instead.

After all, she must not lose to Zoey.

"On the day you come to Oakland City, I'll appear in front of you in my greatest splendor. Then, you'll finally understand how it feels like to have your breath taken away by my beauty. You'll be embarrassed for your words today."

Tiffany decided that she would dress up prettily when she next appeared in front of Levi. She was determined to make him regret it.

"There's no need for that, Tiffany. I'll make him regret it now!"

Unable to suppress his anger anymore, he shot a hostile glare at Levi.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1090

He couldn't take it anymore.

It was fine if he was insulted. He could even kneel before Levi.

However, he refused to allow anyone to laugh at Tiffany.

Hence, he strode over to Levi aggressively.

At the thought of what Levi did earlier, he had to hold himself back from strangling him.

"Martin!"

When Tiffany and the others realized what he was doing, it was too late to stop him.

Slap!

A clear slap rang out.

Everyone was stunned.

Even Martin was dumbfounded.

No one knew Levi would dare to hit Martin Preston.

"H-How dare you slap me?" Martin glared at Preston.

Slap!

Slap!

Slap!

Levi's forceful slaps landed on Martin's cheeks continuously.

Flabbergasted, the crowd thought, He seriously slapped Martin?

Soon, Martin's face swelled up badly as blood trickled down from the corner of his lips.

He stood in front of Levi, hyperventilating and about to explode in rage.

"I'll kill you!"

Martin roared furiously, intent on killing Levi.

"No!"

Tiffany and the others rushed up to stop him.

If he kills Levi, the Garrison clan will seek revenge! None of us could bear the consequences.

After they tried to persuade Martin, he calmed down considerably.

Recalling Damien's warning, he held his anger in check.

"Just wait and see. You'll die in my hands one day!" he announced before storming off.

Tiffany was gazing at Levi, her emotions a complex mixture.

Logically speaking, after their engagement contract was destroyed, she was no longer tied to Levi anymore.

However, she wasn't willing to give up just yet.

She vowed to show Levi the best side of herself so he'd regret his decision.

After they left, Azure Dragon appeared.

“Boss, you should’ve let me help.”

“I want to defeat everyone whose name is listed in Oakland City’s Heir Leaderboard so the Stuart family will be full of regrets!” Azure Dragon was obviously upset.

“Don’t worry. You’ll get a chance to do so,” said Levi with a smile.

Tiffany and her entourage returned to Oakland City.

The news about the end of their engagement spread all over Oakland City soon.

It even reached Tyrone’s ears.

“The engagement got called off? What a loser. Why did I have such a son?” Tyrone was fuming mad.

He thought the engagement was broken off because Levi was useless.

“Yes, that’s right. How humiliating. Even if he’s a bastard, he represents us Garrisons!”

“We’ll become a joke after this broken engagement of his!”

Everyone was displeased.

Olivia responded, “Yes. Even if we remain silent, everyone thinks he’s related to us.”

“For example, Tyrone’s cheeks were swollen after the bastard slapped him but he dared not retaliate.”

After hearing that, Tyrone declared, “No, this won’t do. We can’t let this bastard use our name out there. Otherwise, other people dared not go against him. He could do whatever he likes!”

Damien refuted at once. “But Father, he’s still a Garrison. He represents us!”

Earlier, Damien had called Martin to warn him because, in his opinion, no one could hurt Levi.

"Says who? That will only be true if he succeeds in the challenge a year later. Right now, he has nothing to do with us!"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1091

Tyrone ordered, "Damien, post an announcement on my behalf: Now, Levi Garrison has nothing to do with the Garrison clan in Oakland City. He is responsible for his own matters. His safety has nothing to do with the Garrison clan."

What Tyrone meant was clear. After this announcement was posted, the Garrison clan wouldn't interfere even if Levi were beaten to his death.

Smirking, Tyrone said, "Levi, I don't think you can last till one year later."

"Indeed. He gets into trouble too often. Look, he had just offended Martin. He isn't even in Oakland City yet, but he has already made so many enemies here."

"He might not even make it to Oakland City, let alone challenge us."

"The Garrison clan is full of talented people. Levi Garrison is nothing to us."

None of the Garrisons were afraid of Levi.

After all, there were too many skilled experts in the Garrison clan and working for them.

Right then, the head butler of Garrison clan, Toud Garrison, appeared with a list in his hand.

Chuckling, he handed the list to Tyrone. "Sir, great news for the Garrison clan!"

"Fifty candidates have been chosen to join the Hidden Dragon Soldier King Training Camp at the South Warzone. Six men from the Garrison clan have been selected, while thirteen men from the families affiliated with our clan have been selected. The six men from our clan are in the top ten of the list! They are all future Soldier Kings!”

“I heard the Hidden Dragon Soldier King Training Camp will recommend a few candidates to the Iron Brigade. That’s a tremendous opportunity for our clan!”

Tyrone was delighted after receiving the list.

He was the head of the Garrison clan as of now.

The stronger the younger generation of the Garrison clan was, the brighter their future would be.

“Good. Good job! In the future, the Garrisons will be listed in Erudia’s Saber Leaderboard!” Tyrone guffawed out loud.

“If Levi is capable enough to climb up Saber Leaderboard, the Garrison clan will definitely acknowledge him,” someone scoffed.

Tyrone mocked. “Forget about Erudia’s Saber Leaderboard. If he is qualified enough to enter Hidden Dragon Soldier King Training Camp, he’s showing potential, too!”

After Tyrone’s announcement was posted by Damien, the entire Oakland City was in an uproar.

Previously, Martin and the others held back because they were afraid the Garrison clan would avenge Levi.

Now that the announcement had made things clear, they no longer had to worry.

Martin was excited after hearing the news.

Everyone in Oakland City knew how Levi slapped him previously.

He was so humiliated that the only way out was to kill Levi!

It was only a matter of time before they depart for North Hampton.

Without the disturbance, Levi's life was peaceful once again.

He accompanied Zoey and took care of his pregnant wife carefully.

Iris was in charge of handling his company.

This decision of his made everyone anxious.

As Morris Group was muzzled, there was no room for development.

Shouldn't Levi be worried?

Did he forget about the bet?

What will he use to challenge the Garrison clan one year later?

Is he going to grovel at their feet to beg for forgiveness?

By now, Zoey's belly was showing.

She didn't want to get mad and affect her baby, so she turned a blind eye to this incident.

One day, Levi received a call from the South Warzone's Commander-In-Chief, Darton Rogier.

"Sir, we're going to hold the Hidden Dragon Soldier King Training Camp in South Warzone. From there, we will recommend a few talents to the Iron Brigade. If you're free, will you come and pick the talents yourself?" asked Darton.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1092

“Okay. I’ll be there.” Levi agreed.

“It’ll be great if you can come and teach them,” implored Darton.

“Sure, Rogier. I’ll be there.”

Darton was excited by his promise.

“This will be the most impressive session of Hidden Dragon Soldier King Training Camp ever! I shall keep it a secret and give the youngsters a surprise!”

Right then, a car had just departed the Garrison clan.

Six young Garrisons were in the car, heading to Hidden Dragon Soldier King Training Camp. Tyrone had just sent them off.

Tyrone and the Garrison clan had high hopes for the six young men.

The young men were arrogant and rebellious.

After all, they were born in the top ancient family in Erudia.

Burt Garrison, the young men’s leader, declared sternly, “This time, we’re representing the Garrison clan. We need to be the top six in the camp!”

“We need to be the six selected ones to join the Iron Brigade. Understand?”

"Yes!" the others replied in the affirmative.

They had always felt a sense of superiority, so there was no way they'd lose to the other weaklings at the camp.

"My dream is to enter the Iron Brigade and be the God of War's subordinate. If I succeed, that will be a great honor for me and my family!" another young Garrison by the name Klint, exclaimed.

Burt nodded. "Yes, that's right. I'll be extremely honored to be the God of War's subordinate. He's the idol of every young man in Erudia. Damien is nothing compared to him!"

"Yes. The God of War has always been Damien's idol. He's been working hard to reach that height."

The young men were excited about the upcoming adventure.

Right then, Pewter Garrison changed the topic. "The South that we're going to include North Hampton. I wonder what Levi Garrison looks like."

"Ha! I'm curious, too. Let's take some time off to teach Levi a lesson!" A look of anticipation crossed Klint's face.

"Sure. Let's beat him up one day. He's too arrogant. He even looked down on Damien!"

The other three agreed unanimously.

In a forest deep in the mountains in the South Warzone, fifty trainees were gathered.

The young men present were from various warzones all over Erudia.

They were valuable talents to their teams because of their expertise.

Each of them was arrogant and wild.

There was a possibility that they would even look down on the instructors in the training camp.

Their instructor would need to show his capabilities and convince the young men.

Darton himself showed up to make an announcement. "You're all Hidden Dragons, the future of Erudia. Your instructor will be arriving soon!" he declared with a chuckle.

Burt asked, "Sir, is our instructor going to be one of the God of Slaughters in the South?"

There were four famous God of Slaughters in the South Warzone.

Before arriving, Burt and the others couldn't help but wonder who their instructor would be.

They thought it would be one of the Four God of Slaughters.

"No," said Darton, shaking his head.

"Could it be one of the Eight Combat Heroes?" Burt thought of another possibility.

"No. You'll know when your instructor arrives."

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1093

Everyone's curiosity was piqued.

However, they didn't want a nobody to be their instructor.

They wanted someone whom they could trust.

Burt gathered everyone and ridiculed, "Everyone, since the strongest men in the South wouldn't be our instructor, I don't think we need to stay."

Wolfe Leek from Northwest City joined in. "Yes, that's right. I came here to meet the Four God of Slaughters. If they aren't here, what would be the point of holding the training camp? Perhaps the instructor won't be as powerful as me!"

"You're right. Everyone here is capable. Not anyone can be our instructor!"

"Why don't we prepare a welcome gift for him tomorrow? If he can't reach our standards, he can leave right away!" suggested Burt.

Wolfe agreed immediately. "Sure. This is a great idea. Let's show him how powerful we are!"

"Let's protest so the South will get us the best instructor available!"

The fifty young men reached a consensus soon enough.

The next day, Darton came to pick Levi up.

"Zoey, can I take him away for a day?" asked Darton with a smile.

Zoey nodded. "Of course you can. Come with me. I need to talk to you."

Darton trailed behind her curiously.

"Darton, you're Levi's best friend, right?" she inquired.

"Zoey, boss and I went through a lot together!" exclaimed Darton.

He wasn't the only one. The Commander-in-Chiefs of the Nine Warzones and the Four Guardians owed Levi one.

After all, Levi had saved them on the battlefield.

"Do you want to see him in trouble?"

Darton immediately replied, "Of course not. Boss can't be in trouble!"

"You know about the one-year bet he placed with the Garrison clan, right? The Garrison clan stated four conditions. For now, Levi's hope is all on his business. But he isn't working hard at all. I want you to convince Levi to take this seriously. At least he needs to work hard," implored Zoey.

"Oh? But this is nothing for him!" Darton was shocked as he thought it was something important.

The bet with the Garrison clan?

I can defeat them easily, let alone Levi.

"Huh? Nothing?" Zoey was taken aback.

Why are Levi and his friends reacting the same way?

They don't even care about the bet!

"Darton, don't you know the Garrison clan? You know Levi's situation, right?"

Zoey thought Darton was an ordinary citizen who knew nothing about how powerful the Garrison clan was.

"Don't worry, Zoey. I'll advise him to deal with this matter asap." Finally, Darton realized what she was talking about.

"Okay, you do that. He won't listen to me. Perhaps he'll listen to his comrade," said Zoey.

She hoped Levi's comrades would be able to convince him.

After all, they looked like ordinary citizens to her.

Darton returned to his vehicle and told Levi all about her concern.

"Boss, when will you inform Zoey of your identity?" he asked.

"When I enter the Garrison clan, I'll tell her. She's pregnant now. I can't afford to make her emotional," replied Levi.

"Got it. Boss, a few Garrisons are at the training camp."

Darton recalled Burt and the other young Garrisons.

"Oh? Interesting." The smirk on Levi's lips deepened.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1094

"You don't have to come with me. Let me see how capable the youngsters are," Levi declared.

"Got it. I'll ask someone to send you to the training camp."

Shortly after, Levi arrived at the training camp.

He sat on the back seat, while Gruffin and Windy took the front seats.

They were both in charge of the training camp's security.

Through the rearview mirror, they could see Levi was sleeping.

"Seriously? Did Chief Rogier appoint him to be the instructor? Look at how young he is!" Windy was astounded.

Gruffin seemed surprised, too. "Yes. I've never heard of him. Where is he from? What is Chief Rogier trying to do?"

Windy scorned, "The trainees of the training camp this time are all wayward and capable. As their instructor, he needs to be more powerful than them. But this man is going to humiliate us all!"

Gruffin chuckled. "I heard the youngsters are going to show him who's boss. Can he take it?"

"I think we'll be sending him to the hospital later. Chief Rogier made the wrong decision this time!" declared Windy, who was prepared to give Levi a ride back later.

In the training camp, the fifty young men were ready.

However, they were idling lazily around. Some of them were even sitting on the ground, biting on grass casually.

They were all being rude and arrogant as they were all tough nuts in their respective teams.

Unless they met someone more powerful than them, they'd never admit defeat.

"Remember, we'll give him a hard time," reminded Burt.

"Don't worry. If he wants to teach me, he'll have to talk to my fists first!" mocked Wolfe, who was lying on the ground lazily.

"They are here!"

Clouds of dust wafted in the air, signaling the arrival of the instructor.

Everyone looked in that direction.

When the car came to a stop, Levi was still asleep.

Windy hollered unhappily, "We're here!"

"I know," said Levi as his eyes snapped open.

Actually, he was just resting earlier.

Hence, he had overheard Gruffin and Windy's conversation.

After alighting the car, he followed Windy and Gruffin to the team's location.

When he saw how lazy the trainees were, a furious glint flashed across his gaze.

How unruly!

As Erudian soldiers, they have to obey the military rules.

They are acting all improper!

We're in the training camp instead of a kitchen where you can do anything you like!

In the meantime, Gruffin and Windy were delighted.

The capricious young men are going to give this instructor a hard time.

He's in deep trouble.

When the youngsters saw that their instructor was a young and unfamiliar Levi, they were upset.

Never mind if their instructor wasn't a famous Mighty General.

There was no way they would accept a young and ordinary man to be their instructor.

What is this?

Is this a joke?

This instructor is worse than we had imagined.

He's so young.

Is he even capable?

This is an insult!

Gruffin coughed twice. "Everyone, this is your head instructor at Hidden Dragon Soldier King Training Camp. Please give him a warm welcome!"

Alas, after Gruffin's announcement, everyone ignored him.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1095

They all glared at Levi arrogantly and didn't move an inch.

Windy reminded them. "Have some respect. He's your instructor!"

No one responded.

Windy shot Levi a smug smile.

It was as if she was saying, Look! Not everyone can be an instructor.

Levi stood there, saying nothing. Both Windy and Gruffin felt ashamed on his behalf.

At the sight of the lazy young men, Levi was enraged.

Respect!

They didn't even have basic respect for their instructor!

They had to respect his position as their instructor no matter what his ability was.

Besides, Darton wouldn't just assign a nobody to be their instructor.

Suddenly, Levi bellowed, "Stand in your positions!"

His yell shocked everyone.

Wolfe, Burt and the others rose to their feet instinctively.

“The future Hidden Dragon Soldier Kings? You’re even dreaming of entering the Iron Brigade? Look at you. Who do you think you are? Where is your respect?” Levi scoffed.

His roar had managed to intimidate some of them.

Wolfe wasn’t one of them. He retorted at once. “Look at you. Are you capable enough to be our instructor?”

Burt chimed in. “We’re here to improve our capabilities. We won’t accept some nobody as our instructor!”

Pewter sneered, “That’s right. Respect you? You need to be capable enough to earn our respect.”

Levi flashed a smirk. “You think I’m not capable enough to be your instructor?”

“Of course! You’re only in your thirties, right? How dare you take up the job to be our instructor? Are you even capable?”

“Didn’t you ask around before coming? We’re the top experts in our respective teams all over Erudia. We have no other opponents. Hence, we came here to make a breakthrough.”

The young men expressed their thoughts haughtily.

They were capable enough to be this arrogant.

In the future, they would be leaders of this country, so there was no way they’d allow Levi to instruct them.

Windy and Gruffin were elated at the sight.

Frankly, they despised how cool Levi was.

In this training camp, Levi had to show them how capable he was for them to listen to him obediently.

“Ha! I’m standing right here. You still think I’m not capable enough to be your instructor?” Levi was amused.

“Of course! Our instructor should be one of the Four God of Slaughters, or at least one of the Eight Combat Heroes,” proclaimed Wolfe arrogantly.

Burt looked at him. “Let’s give him something specific. Our instructor shall be someone on Saber Leaderboard!”

The men they talked of earlier were on this Saber Leaderboard.

“Yes, that’s right. You need to be a top fighter in Saber Leaderboard!”

Wolfe looked straight at Levi and inquired, “What is your current ranking on Saber Leaderboard?”

Both Windy and Gruffin burst into laughter.

They knew everyone on Saber Leaderboard.

Obviously, Levi Garrison wasn’t listed on the leaderboard.

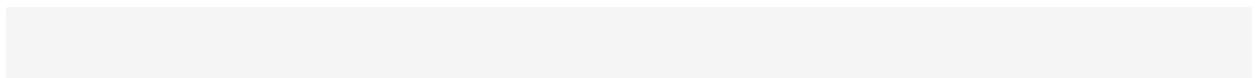

Levi shook his head. “I’m not on Saber Leaderboard.”

He and his comrades from Iron Brigade weren’t on Saber Leaderboard to protect their identities.

At his words, everyone burst out laughing.

However, Levi added, “I might not be on the leaderboard, but I’m stronger than all the fighters listed on it!”

The entire place fell silent after Levi spoke.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1096

How arrogant!

I can't believe he's this arrogant!

That's the famous Erudia's Saber Leaderboard!

All the strongest fighters of Erudia were listed on Saber Leaderboard.

The top one hundred fighters were famous for their fighting abilities.

The ancient families in Erudia were snobbishly proud to have just one of their members listed on Saber Leaderboard.

No one could believe how exaggerated Levi was.

How could he say he's stronger than all the fighters listed on Saber Leaderboard?

What is Saber Leaderboard to him?

To Burt, Wolfe, and the others, Saber Leaderboard was a sacred existence.

Their only goal was either to join the Iron Brigade or make it to Saber Leaderboard.

To be honest, making it to Saber Leaderboard was harder than joining the Iron Brigade as there were only one hundred spots on the leaderboard.

Windy and Gruffin nearly collapsed in shock.

Only strong fighters like the Four God of Slaughters would make it to Saber Leaderboard.

The Four God of Slaughters were so strong that they emerged unscathed after battling against thirty thousand men. Their enemy ended up losing ten thousand men after the battle.

Hence, they deserved to be on Saber Leaderboard.

But even so, they were in the middle ranks instead of being at the top.

One could imagine how strong and impressive the top ten in the leaderboard would be.

At the mention of their names, other organizations and countries would be terrified.

After all, these fighters were strong enough to take on thousands alone.

Levi had just announced he was stronger than everyone on the leaderboard.

No one in the world dared to disregard Saber Leaderboard.

Even the top ancient family in Erudia, the Garrison clan, dared not say such a thing.

“That’s funny. How dare you say you’re stronger than the fighters listed on Saber Leaderboard?” mocked Wolfe.

“Right. I’ve never heard anyone being this arrogant,” Burt joined in.

Everyone started sneering at Levi.

“The South Commander-In-Chief, Darton Rogier, might be strong, but he is only ranked seventeenth in the leaderboard. How dare you disregard Saber Leaderboard, young man?” said an amused Gruffin.

“Are you doing this on purpose? You have a death wish!”

“If you continue insulting Saber Leaderboard, we’ll teach you a lesson!”

All it took was one word from Levi to infuriate everyone.

Some were about to take action, but Wolfe stopped their actions.

“Okay. Since you claim to be stronger than everyone on Saber Leaderboard, we need you to prove it. We won’t ask you to be the strongest. As long as you get ranked, we’ll listen to you!” Wolfe suggested with a chuckle.

He wanted to humiliate Levi by asking the latter to show his capabilities.

That was because he was certain Levi would be proven a liar soon.

“Yes, prove it to us! Otherwise, we won’t let you leave in one piece!”

“We won’t allow you to disregard Saber Leaderboard!”

Everyone else chimed in, glaring at Levi resentfully.

Windy and Gruffin were watching the entire debacle with smirks on their faces.

Your act will be exposed once you take action.

Ha! Serves you right for being so boastful!

“What now? You’re scared? You shouldn’t brag that much.”

“If you refuse to change, we’ll help you. You won’t dare to brag after we teach you a lesson.”

“I was contemplating on how to show you I’m stronger than all the fighters in Saber Leaderboard. After all, you’re all weaklings.”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1097

Levi was gazing at them seriously.

The young men were strong, but they were no match for him.

Even after defeating them, he couldn't prove he was stronger than the fighters on Saber Leaderboard.

Alas, Levi's words only served to infuriate the wayward fellows.

We're weaklings?

Is he joking?

"We're weaklings? Fine! I'll give you a chance to prove yourself. If you can defeat us, we'll listen to you!" declared Burt.

Wolfe chimed in. "Me, too! I, Wolfe Leek, would only succumb to those who are stronger than me. Nothing else will make me succumb!"

The young men would only listen to those who were stronger than them.

"Look carefully."

Suddenly, Levi raised his right leg and stomped on the ground forcefully.

Boom!

A huge tremor sounded from the ground as if an earthquake had just happened.

Instantly, everyone stumbled in dizziness from the sudden tremor. If they weren't stable enough, they would've toppled to the ground.

Their eyes were about to pop out when they saw cracks forming on the ground.

Cracks started appearing beneath their feet. If they moved an inch, they'd fall into the crevice.

They stared at Levi, absolutely stupefied.

What was that?

What class is he in?

His stomp created a giant earthquake!

Look, the cracks are forming up to hundreds of meters away. Is he still human?

No one knew whether he was stronger than the fighters on Saber Leaderboard, but they were about to go crazy.

If that kick of his had landed on anyone here, that person would be dead by now.

His stomp had created a giant earthquake. It was a spectacular sight!

Wolfe, Burt, Windy and the others were dumbfounded.

They belatedly realized Darton wouldn't have sent a nobody to be the instructor.

"If any of you are unwilling to submit, you're welcome to battle with me!" Levi announced.

Thud! Thud! Thud!

At his words, everyone hurriedly got into line.

Wolfe jumped to his feet and straightened his back.

Levi's actions had impressed the crowd.

"Stand in line! Let me introduce myself. I'm your instructor!"

"First lesson, respect. No matter how strong and capable you are, you need to abide by the rules. You must respect your instructor as he will be teaching you!"

"Besides, the higher-ups aren't fools. Would they assign a nobody to be your instructor?"

"Hence, be humble and have respect for others. That's basic manners."

Levi himself was a God of War.

However, he remained humble in front of Benny Quinton and the others and gave them the utmost respect.

"Understood!" roared Wolfe and the others.

"I'll only proceed with the other lessons after you learn this!" said Levi.

"Sir, can you tell us who you are? We don't know of your existence in Erudia!" yelled Burt.

They knew everyone on Saber Leaderboard and all the strongest fighters in Erudia.

As part of the Garrison clan, it was easy for them to gain this information.

"Yes, Sir. Please tell us who you are!" the others implored.

"Your instructor is none other than the God of War!"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1098

Darton appeared and declared.

“G-God of War?” Burt repeated soullessly.

“What? The God of War?”

At the mention of the familiar but distant title, Wolfe thought he was dreaming.

Windy and Gruffin froze in their tracks, utterly stunned.

“That’s right. He is Erudia’s God of War!” said Darton sternly.

That got everyone silent once again.

Darton had confirmed it himself. Levi was indeed the God of War.

They felt goosebumps all over.

No wonder we’ve never heard of this young man.

Turns out he’s the God of War!

No wonder he disregarded Saber Leaderboard.

He is stronger than all the fighters listed on Saber Leaderboard, because the leaderboard was formed by his subordinates.

“Greetings, God of War!” everyone echoed in unison.

After the initial shock, came their surprise.

No one had expected that the God of War would be an instructor in the Hidden Dragon Soldier King Training Camp.

At this point, they regretted treating him badly earlier.

They lowered their heads and dared not look at Levi.

It was a memorable lesson.

They would remember to treat others with respect from now on.

“Look up. Stand in line!” commanded Levi.

“I’ll only continue with the rest of the lessons after you’ve learned how to be respectful,” he announced.

“I heard a few young men from the Garrison clan in Oakland City are here. Show yourselves.”

Burt and the others stood out arrogantly.

Looks like our family is so powerful that even God of War notices us.

“Mm, not bad. The Garrison clan of Oakland City has many talents!” Levi nodded in approval.

He might have a grudge against the Garrison clan, but he had to admit they were powerful enough to produce talented fighters for Erudia.

That was enough for him.

Hence, Levi wouldn’t spare his efforts to teach them.

To him, they weren’t part of the Garrison clan. They were the future fighters of Erudia.

He wouldn’t treat them differently because of his grudge with the Garrison clan.

“Next, I’ll teach you a training method. You’ll be practicing this for the next month. When the time’s up, I’ll come for an inspection.”

Levi proceeded to teach them a special training method.

Everyone was excited and astounded. They had no idea such a method existed.

No wonder God of War is so powerful. It’s because of this special training method!

“Sir, won’t you be here every day?” Wolfe asked.

He wanted to see the God of War every day.

“You need at least a year to master this training method. It’ll be enough to occupy your time for a month,” explained Levi.

“Understood. We’ll do our best. We won’t let you down!” everyone promised.

“Good. I’ll be here a month later to choose a few candidates for the Iron Brigade!” Levi nodded approvingly.

Burt finally plucked up the courage to ask. “Sir, is your surname Garrison?”

Every other Garrison immediately glanced at him nervously.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1099

Previously, the Garrison clan had suspected that the God of War was a Garrison.

Even if he weren't part of the main Garrison clan in Oakland City, he would be from a branch of the Garrison clan.

Since the God of War's identity was highly classified, it had to be a secret at all costs.

The Garrison clan couldn't find out anything.

However, Tyrone was certain the God of War was a Garrison.

"Mm, you're right." Levi inclined his head.

"Phew!"

Burt and the other Garrisons heaved a sigh of relief. They were proud of the fact that Levi was a Garrison.

After Levi departed, they threw themselves into training.

Darton was pleased with their efforts. He knew they'd improve tremendously after a month.

Meanwhile, in Oakland City.

Martin was planning to return to North Hampton immediately to take revenge on Levi, but everyone had found out about the broken engagement.

Hence, people flocked to the Meyers family in hopes of an arranged marriage.

Martin had to be on guard, so he couldn't leave.

Soon, one month went by in the blink of an eye.

Morris Group was going nowhere, so both Iris and Zoey were anxious.

Alas, Levi was unfazed.

He was currently at the training camp to inspect the trainees' progress.

For the past month, Burt and the others had trained vehemently. There was visible improvement.

"Mmm, not bad. Satisfactory, at least." Levi nodded.

Well, they are still weak.

When Kirin trained the Beasts, the results were so much better.

In the end, Levi chose five men to enter the Iron Brigade.

Besides Wolfe, the other four were from the Garrison clan.

Levi couldn't be bothered about their status as long as they were capable enough.

Thus, Hidden Dragon Soldier King Training Camp came to a fulfilling end.

Burt and the others were thrilled.

Besides getting into the top ten, four of them were selected to join Iron Brigade.

The first thing they did after getting out of camp was to inform their clan about their results.

"Wait up! I have an idea. We're near North Hampton. Why don't we meet Levi Garrison?"
Pewter suggested.

"Sure, I can't wait to see him!" Klint returned eagerly.

The rest agreed to the suggestion.

Their confidence had gone up significantly after getting stronger.

"Sure. We'll meet Levi, then inform our clan about the results." Burt assented.

Zoey's belly was growing larger by the day.

She had to be extra careful even when she was walking around.

However, she was worried about Levi's nonchalance.

We have less than one year left. How could he challenge the Garrison clan with what he had?

She was deep in thought when her phone started ringing.

Someone from the Garrison clan in Oakland City wanted to treat Levi to a meal.

Shocked, Zoey immediately went to Levi.

She was afraid it might be a trap.

After all, this was the Garrison clan.

"Why not? If they're treating us, we'll be there," replied Levi.

"Well," Zoey sighed. "An ignorant person like you knows no fear, huh?"

Why isn't Levi afraid of the Garrison clan?

Doesn't he know how powerful the Garrison clan is?

Even I know how dangerous they are. Why is Levi still clueless?

In the meantime, Burt and the others were waiting in the restaurant.

“Levi agreed to come just like that? How brave of him!” scoffed Klint.

“He’s afraid of nothing. He isn’t even afraid of the Garrison clan.”

Burt narrowed his eyes menacingly. “Let’s show him who’s in power later.”

“Can’t wait!”

Everyone was anticipating Levi’s arrival.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1100

Soon, voices were heard from the hallway.

A woman stepped into the room.

Burt and the rest were stunned by how pretty she was.

If she weren't pregnant, her beauty would be comparable to Tiffany.

This was the first time they had seen someone as gorgeous as Tiffany.

"Are you Zoey Lopez?" Burt was the first to snap back to reality.

"Yes, I am," replied Zoey with a nod.

"What a pity." Burt and the rest shook their heads.

What did the bastard do to deserve such a gorgeous wife?

"By the way, where is Levi?" asked Klint.

"I'm here!" A voice bellowed outside the room.

"Mm?"

The six Garrisons thought the voice sounded familiar.

"Eh? That voice certainly rings a bell."

They exchanged glances.

We've never met Levi. Why does his voice sound familiar?

Then, Levi walked into the room.

The moment Levi appeared, Burt and the other Garrisons froze in confusion. Their expressions paled instantly.

None of them knew Levi Garrison was the God of War.

They had just met Levi this morning.

Now, they were meeting him again under different circumstances.

It was a mind-blowing sight.

Right then, realization dawned on them.

No wonder the God of War is a Garrison. He should've been a part of the Garrison clan in Oakland City.

Why is Levi bold enough to go against the Garrison clan in Oakland City and place a bet with Tyrone?

Why did Levi despise the Garrison clan and everything else? This is the reason.

Never in their wildest dream did they expect Levi, the bastard of their family, to be the legend of Erudia.

Zoey sensed the change in their reactions after Levi's arrival.

They seem to be terrified of Levi.

What is going on?

A minute ago, they were arrogant and snobby.

Why did they become so petrified all of a sudden?

Is Levi that scary?

Or is there something I don't know?

"Sir—No, Mr. Garrison," Burt corrected himself immediately.

They could address him as "Sir" in the training camp, but Levi's identity was a secret outside of camp.

Indeed, Burt and the other Garrisons were shaking in fear.

If they weren't sitting down, they would've fallen to their knees in fright.

Did we just try to cower the God of War into submission again? For the second time?

Alas, their plan had failed from the very start.

Levi was surprised to see the young lads, too.

Oh? Did they try to cower me into submission again?

"Is this meant to be a trap?" inquired Levi.

"N-No. Of course it isn't a trap. We want to treat Mr. Garrison and Ms. Lopez to a meal. That's all!" Burt hurriedly explained after regaining his composure in time.

He wiped the sweat off his forehead.

The others immediately welcomed Levi and Zoey warmly. "Have a seat!"

Zoey was flummoxed at how respectful they were.

Huh? What is going on?

I thought the Garrison clan is at odds with Levi?

Why are they being so polite?

When she arrived earlier, she instantly realized that this was a trap.

But everything changed after Levi showed up.

She couldn't believe her eyes.

After taking a seat, Zoey spoke. "Be honest with me. Why are you terrified after seeing him?"

Burt and the others whipped their heads to look at Levi.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1101

"Why are you guys just... Staring at me? Answer the question!"

Levi rolled his eyes at the crowd.

Everyone remained silent on the surface. Internally, they were exclaiming, however.

Well, it's because you're the God of War! How can we not be scared?

"It's because he... "

Pewter almost exposed Levi's identity, but Burt reacted in time to halt his statement.

"Ms. Lopez, Mr. Garrison looks too much like our Mr. Tyrone. When we first met, we all thought Sir came!"

"Ah, yes. They look too similar."

No one could breathe easy in the room.

But Zoey alone accepted Burt's explanation without further thought. It sounded convincing enough- everyone met Levi for the first time and got intimidated merely because he resembled Tyrone. That was all.

"That makes sense. So, what do you want? I'm all ears."

Her tone was laced with apprehension- she did not have a good feeling about the party present before her. It felt as if they were up to no good.

Levi simply chuckled and said, "Honey, all they want is a meal with us. There's no need for so many questions."

Then, turning to the relevant people, Levi boomed impatiently, "Serve the dishes!"

The meal was practically a time of tribulation for the majority at the table, save for Levi and Zoey. The man was wolfing the food down while his wife picked out the nutritious dishes to keep her baby well-nourished.

Meanwhile, the rest ate in constant trepidation. Many were drenched in cold sweat while their minds wandered everywhere else.

Such was the feeling of eating with a beast that could snap anytime. They felt like they were being scrutinized, and that one wrong move would result in a fatal end.

The simple meal practically halved their lifespans by the time it ended.

"Hmm, the meal was delicious today. I look forward to more in the future," Levi said as he escorted Zoey out.

The lady was puzzled. This is it? Just a simple meal, and nothing else?

As if reading her mind, Levi pacified, "Honey, don't overthink it. They really did just want a meal."

He flashed her a smile.

At that moment, Zoey felt that her concerns were unnecessary.

Perhaps, Tyrone may become lenient one day. After all, they're still blood-related.

When Levi left, the company practically collapsed in relief simultaneously on their seats, heaving sighs of relief.

The meal was frankly more mentally exhausting than the hellish month of training that just passed.

They almost broke down on the spot.

"This is truly a moment of pride and disaster for the Garrison clan," Burt commented while sighing.

Right at this moment, a call came from the Garrison family.

Damien's voice echoed from the line. "Burt, tell me about how everything went! The family is very concerned. I heard that the training camp's instructor is a very extraordinary guy."

"Umm, that's right... "

Burt summarized the happenings to him.

Damien cheered, "Wow! That's pretty impressive. The family is proud of you guys!"

"And regarding the instructor... he is the God of War!"

It was not the first time Burt announced such a revelation to someone, but the reactions he received were always the same- pure shock.

The dumbfounded Damien fell into a long silence.

When he finally came to his senses, the excitement in his voice could barely be contained. "T-The God of War? You're all are so lucky! That means you guys are handpicked by the God of War into the Iron Brigade! The Garrison family is very proud! Tyrone will be giving a word of commendation on our next anniversary meeting."

These juniors are so capable and brought so much pride to the clan, he thought.

Burt was overjoyed by the response. A word of affirmation was always great, but receiving such commendation from Tyrone himself was the highest form of praise in the Garrison clan.

But recalling the ordeal that just occurred, Burt found his spirits dampened almost immediately.

"I have one more thing I wish to say... And hopefully, this can be conveyed to Sir... "

"What happened?" Damien's curiosity was evidently piqued.

“We just met Levi...”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1102

Damien asked curiously, "What's wrong with meeting him?"

"Can you request Sir to restore Levi's status and bring him back to the Garrison family? This will bring immense glory to the clan."

Burt articulated every syllable seriously.

Damien's laugh echoed from the call as he replied, "Was Levi's charm so powerful that you all got subdued promptly? That's very disappointing of you guys. But anyway, I will convey your words to Sir."

When he proceeded to convey the information to Tyrone, the latter grew livid.

"What's wrong with these juniors? They're speaking up for Levi just because they met him once? What a bunch of letdowns."

"I heard that the God of War's first lesson to them was about respect. Maybe that's why."

That explained some things for Tyrone. "I see. I don't doubt the effectiveness of the lessons given by the God of War."

Then, his tone changed sharply. "But that's their military rule and has nothing to do with us. My personal philosophy is that I will only respect those who deserve my respect- someone like Levi won't earn it unless he shows me some true power."

Damien concurred, "You're right- even if Levi completes the challenge a year later, that's far from earning our respect. We can only at best accept him into the family."

The older man added agitatedly, "To earn my respect, he must at least have a strength that's on par with those on the top ten of the Saber Leaderboard. If he is really that strong, I will literally put him on a pedestal and parade him around town."

Tyrone knew the true strength of the top three well as they hailed from the Garrison family. They were people Tyrone respected. If Levi wanted his affirmation or wished to make regret his decisions, he should at least be at the level of the top three before speaking.

But he was only certain that Levi could never achieve that.

The said top three were the feared trio of Erudia. Any foreign power would quake in fear and double over in agony upon hearing their names.

There was a popular saying that went, "Those ranked on the Saber Leaderboard of Erudia can take down a battalion of ten thousand troops."

How can Levi ever be on that level?

But the biggest irony of all awaited him- Levi was the one ranking the Saber Leaderboard.

Damien grinned at Tyrone's sarcasm and added, "That's true- if Levi is on the same level as the top three, I will make him next in line for the title instead."

Speaking of that, Tyrone said, "I plan to officially name you my heir after the bet with Levi. There will be a handover ceremony held."

Damien was elated at the news.

Until now, although everyone knew that he would be the next Sir, there was no official handover ceremony held yet.

Now that Tyrone finally decided on a date, Damien was on cloud nine. He thanked the man profusely.

"Making it the same day as the duel... That's such a great date, Father!" Damien beamed.

"I want to show the world what my son is capable of, and to prove that not everyone can be as capable as you," Tyrone extolled with a cold laugh.

On the side, Olivia interjected, “Emma thinks her son would make her proud? I’m going to show the whole of Erudia that my son is stronger than hers.”

She was confident of Damien, and could not wait for the day of the showdown to come soon.

When the news broke that the handover ceremony would be held on the same day as the duel, everyone knew that Tyrone did it intentionally.

Regardless of how Levi fared that day, he would compare him with Damien and showcase how superior the latter was as compared to the former.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1103

Emma was visibly disappointed upon the news of the handover.

Nevertheless, she never hoped that Levi would be the next in line.

All she wanted was for his skills to be acknowledged by the Garrison family.

Her dejection was in full view of Zoey. She comforted, "Mother, it's fine. We don't have to compare ourselves with others. Let's just live our own lives peacefully."

Comparisons usually yielded nothing but a new sense of inferiority- especially if one was comparing themselves to the people of the Garrison clan. Zoey knew better to just focus on one's everyday life.

Her words seemed to have an effect on Emma.

Perking up a little, the lady acknowledged Zoey's wise words, "That's true, we're leading pretty happy lives right now. Let's just continue this way!"

Changing the topic, Zoey took the chance to ask for a group photo together.

The lady had taken an interest in documenting her everyday life and the changes that were happening. She had taken many photos as commemoration already.

"Levi, join in the photo too!" shouted Zoey.

If the lady asked, rejection was the last thing the man would do. Levi jogged over and joined the photo.

Zoey took a few snapshots and decided to upload the photos on her overseas social media account. All she wanted was to boast about her blissful family of four a little.

Otherwise, she usually did not have the habit to share her life online. Even if she did post, it would be on her overseas account, so that none of her close friends and relatives would see could see her updates.

This seemingly harmless decision to post today resulted in a global uproar.

Within ten minutes, the photos reached over ten million shares online.

And the numbers only grew and grew.

At this rate, the number of views would easily reach over a billion in just less than an hour.

The reason behind the ongoing virality was simple- Levi was in the photo.

In Erudia, all information about Levi was kept strictly confidential.

If a photo of him was uploaded within Erudia, it would automatically be censored.

But the same confidentiality did not exist out there.

As a result, when Zoey uploaded the photos, the outside world immediately recognized Levi.

News of his photos spread like wildfire, and it was not long before an international commotion erupted.

In particular, hundreds of countries and the underground organizations were in a frenzy over their new discovery- the almighty God of War had a pregnant wife.

It was shocking news to the whole world.

Levi was a walking legend ever since he suppressed the Eighteen-Nation Alliance.

The God of War was unanimously considered by hundreds of nations to be the worst nightmare ever to exist.

In fact, there was a saying that went, "As long as the God of War is present, Erudia cannot be attacked." In other words, as long as Levi was still alive, Erudia would remain impenetrable. The foreign powers could do nothing but cowering in fear of his ever-present wrath.

As a result, other nations hated him and countless people wanted him dead.

"Countless" was not an exaggeration- someone once did a tabulation and estimated that over ten million people wanted him to perish.

As a result, it was no surprise that Levi ranked top on the international hitlist with a bounty of hundreds of billions on his head.

While the bounty was extremely attractive, no one managed to complete it thus far. The reason was obvious- Levi had no weak points.

He was already used to assassination attempts. In fact, he was practically a target of an assassination every living second due to the sheer number of people interested in the prize money.

There were also many people who spent years trying to dig out his weaknesses, but all their attempts were to no avail.

In conclusion, Levi was simply too strong, too almighty. He truly lived up to his title as the God of War.

There's no way to kill him!

But everything changed on this day because of some photographs.

The all-powerful God of War had an Achilles' heel- his pregnant wife.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1104

For the longest time, it was impossible to find any information about Levi. His family background and the people associated with him were all wiped clean from Erudia's database.

When people heard that Levi was an orphan, their despair only increased as that meant that they had no elderly parents to threaten him with.

As a result, there was no other way to defeat the invincible God than to become stronger than him.

However, now that Zoey's photographs exposed that Levi had a mother and a pregnant wife, everyone knew his fatal weaknesses.

The old saying now no longer stood. The rest of the nation finally found the opening to bring down Erudia.

Erudia's God of War, whose existence was the bane of hundreds of nations, had a line of weakness that everyone could not wait to exploit.

Amongst those people, the Eighteen-Nation Alliance, in particular, were in hysteria. Their long-awaited opportunity for revenge had finally come.

Another group of people who were equally riled up was those eyeing the incredible bounty.

The appeal only increased when the bounty reward shot up by tens of billions in a blink of an eye due to the contribution of multiple well-to-do individuals.

These contributors hoped to eliminate Levi as quickly and as mercilessly as possible.

Levi's existence had compromised too many people's interests.

Knowing that he had countless existing enemies who were blood-thirsty enough to take him down, they increased the bounty prize money to accelerate the momentum to take him out.

In other words, it was called striking the iron while it was hot.

In summary, the world was cheering for Levi's imminent death. The Eighteen-Nation Alliance was looking forward to the day when Erudia would fall into their hands. The other foreign forces were also interested in partaking in this attack. Many others could not wait for their own personal gains that would follow Levi's demise too.

Meanwhile, Zoey remained oblivious to the global commotion that her photos had ignited.

In conclusion, a revolution would happen the moment Levi fell.

That alone was a testament to the God of War's menace all this while. He might be just an individual, but he was capable of intimidating the entire world.

No one dared to lay a finger on Erudia because of him.

When Zoey finally checked her account, she almost flung her phone on the ground out of shock.

"O-Oh my, what on earth is happening? Huh? Why are there billions of likes, along with tens of thousands of shares and comments?"

She could not believe her eyes. Am I hallucinating? Are my eyes playing tricks on me?

A post on her account would typically garner at most about a hundred likes.

Why were her recent photos gaining so much traction?

Out of disbelief, she recounted the engagement numbers. Eventually, she concluded that her eyes were indeed well and functioning.

These engagement numbers probably broke some records on the platform, she thought.

What is happening?

Zoey double-checked the post once again, but the bizarre reality proved not to be a dream.

Amidst her confusion, there was one thing she could be certain about- these numbers had nothing to do with her or Emma. After all, the older lady was confined for almost thirty years.

That left her with Levi as the prime suspect for stirring up this commotion. The likes, comments, and shares could not have been for anyone else, she believed.

Does Levi hold so much influence overseas?

She rubbed her eyes and checked the numbers again.

Nothing changed from before.

“Oh right, there are many comments. Let me check them.”

Opening the comments section, one comment caught her eye.

“The God of War of Erudia?” she muttered to herself.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1105

Just when Zoey was able to continue reading the comment, it got deleted.

There was nothing else but a blank page reflecting on her phone screen.

Refreshing the page, she realized that all the other comments were gone too.

All the likes also disappeared.

It was as if nothing had happened and everything was normal again.

“Phew, it was just a system error! That was so scary... Those billions of likes... Unimaginable.” It was not uncommon to see such system hiccups- she had encountered them before in other software. The reflected engagement numbers similarly went completely haywire during the glitches.

The tension left her body as she heaved a sigh of relief and broke into an amused chuckle.

But the truth was far from what she assumed. What really happened was that someone from Erudia noticed Zoey’s photos and immediately locked her account from further viewing by others.

Zoey conveyed the ordeal to her husband, telling him how the uploaded photos on her overseas account met with a system error, causing them to gain billions of likes and tens of millions of shares. “The comments were also really amusing- one read something like ‘The God of War’ or something... ”

“What?” Levi froze on the spot. His expression turned increasingly strained.

Realizing the gravity of the situation, he immediately grew worried over the safety of Zoey and Emma. His concerns only worsened considering that his wife was pregnant.

He was aware of the forces they were up against- they were not simply just the wealthy ancient families, but also included the Eighteen-Nation Alliance, hundreds of foreign powers, and tens of thousands of organizations.

The combined forces were overpowering, and anyone could strike anywhere at any time.

A cloud of uncertainty loomed, and that was what really shook Levi's confidence.

He was not exactly scared for himself. Rather, he was fearful of this great unknown and how that might jeopardize his loved ones.

He knew he could protect Zoey as long as he was by her side.

But there could be times when he might not be able to be with her.

There were many things that could go very wrong, and he was not sure if he could be omniscient enough to come up with a fool-proof counterplan.

Levi grew increasingly vexed.

As he took a deep breath, his unusual countenance made Zoey both worried and curious.

"Darling, are you alright?"

Levi could only force a chuckle as he responded, "Billions of likes? Such a thing can happen?"

Internally, he made up his mind. Rather than waste all his energy worrying, he knew he had to be more drastic this time. Whoever dared to touch his loved ones would meet with a terrible fate.

Even if they tried running, he would hunt them down regardless. And when he managed to do so, he would not hesitate in killing them.

In other words, whoever was bold enough to offend him would be inviting in their own demises.

Zoey's voice snapped him out of his rumination. "The numbers were like that because there was a system error. I met such a thing before too! It's such a shame that I didn't read the majority of the comments..." "

Her tone was laced with a tinge of regret as she wished she had read more of the comments before they were gone.

Meanwhile, Levi tried his best to change the subject. With a plastered smile, he replied, "Alright, don't fret about it. Take care of your body and when our baby comes, we can take as many photos as you like!"

Posting photos of one's newborn was the trend now, and Levi could already imagine how Zoey would be constantly doing so once their child was born.

His sole mission now was to ensure that nothing would go wrong until the day of labor came.

The undertaking would be challenging- he would have to nip every danger in its bud while keeping Zoey in the dark about everything.

Most importantly, he had to ensure that not only North Hampton, but the whole of Erudia would be an impenetrable place.

He would not tolerate any trouble.

At this point, he could not help but snigger at how insignificant Tyrone's bet was as compared to his current predicament.

While everyone thought that the Garrison clan was the greatest obstacle he had to overcome, the man knew better; the Garrisons were honestly not worth even a mention.

Instead, the current crisis deserved more of his attention right now. If this fiasco had not happened, he would have been more confident that no mishaps would occur during the pregnancy period. But what was done was done- he could only move on and prepare a contingency plan.

Springing into action, he found Azure Dragon and instructed, "The situation is pretty dire right now. We need to prepare early."

The Protector Chapter 1106

“Understood. From now on, we’re peril-ridden! No matter how we tried to stop them, there would still be enemies entering Erudia,” Phoenix said with a frown.

After all, if the enemy were indeed coming against Levi, they would not send someone mediocre for sure.

Those sent would definitely be the best of the best!

Hence, everyone’s responsibilities would turn much heavier.

Levi heaved a sigh. “I don’t wish to trouble too many people regarding this, so just arrange my own people for this. Phoenix, please check which team is idle at the moment.”

Phoenix bore a relaxed smile and replied, “Sir, it so happens that the Specter Army has completed their mission.”

“Good, then summon the Specter Army and the Cavalry Regiment. That would do!” Levi commanded.

There were not many people in the Specter Army. In fact, it was made up of only fifty members.

It was a special army established by Levi.

As the name itself implied, they were just like specters, moving elusively on the battlefield.

They often killed without exposing themselves. Like assassins, they attacked the Achilles heel and slew with just one move.

The Specter Army was extremely terrifying.

The most crucial point was that most of their enemies weren't even aware of the existence of such an army.

Seeing them implied that Death was after you.

The Specter Army under the God of War remained unknown to many people.

Other than Levi, no one even knew what they were like.

Not even Azure Dragon and others.

This army worked directly under the command of Levi.

Even though the existence of the Specter Army was unknown to others, the enemy was aware of the existence of such a troop and they were terrified to the bone.

It was hard to tell when they would be targeted by these specters of the battlefield.

With the Specter Army and the Cavalry Regiment, in addition to his own presence, no one could really lay a hand on Zoey.

Zoey was totally unaware that a photograph had brought such a huge turmoil to the entire world.

Tens of thousands of forces and organizations abroad started to get restless.

Countless of eyes were fixated on her.

Her net worth was also rocketing, reaching a hundred billion...

There were already bounties issued overseas amounting to a hundred million for providing specific information about Zoey alone and another hundred billion for capturing her. In addition, whoever was able to kill Levi would be awarded two hundred billion.

Apart from that, the amount of the bounty kept rising.

Meanwhile, on a small island abroad.

It was the territory of Atlantis.

Atlantis was a member of the Eighteen-Nation Alliance which had been defeated by Levi in the past.

There were a few helicopters on the small island and a luxurious yacht in the dock.

There were also plenty of fully-armed guards standing around.

In a residence on the island, dozens of people were discussing some issues.

There were photos of Zoey and Emma on the screen.

These people present at the residence had all been defeated by Levi. They were from the Eighteen-Nation Alliance and had been subjugated to Levi for almost five years, mortified execrably.

When Zoey's photo was exposed, they were the most excited party. In fact, they were also the ones who couldn't wait to be the first to take action.

"We had to get ahead of everyone. If we kill Levi Garrison, the shame we've experienced all these years would all be cleared!"

"Mmm, so then, our next step would be to send thirty top fighters to Erudia to capture these two women!"

"Hold on, would thirty of them be sufficient?"

"It should suffice. These top fighters selected this time were enough to rival the top fighters on the Saber Leaderboard of Erudia! With their synergy and our cooperation in the dark, we would definitely succeed!"

"It's not good enough. I'll send a hundred well-trained fighters to disturb Levi Garrison beforehand and then we'll let these thirty men handle him. This way, the probability of winning would be higher."

The Protector Chapter 1107

These defeated foes of Levi were busy discussing how to secure their win.

They must capture Zoey and Emma or either of them. They had come out with a lot of plans, and all they wanted was success!

It was different now that Levi Garrison's weakness had been identified.

In the past, they hadn't been able to devise any scheme. Even when Levi Garrison stood there and let them strike, no one could have killed him.

Not only the Eighteen-Nation Alliance that had been overcome by Levi was preying on Zoey, but it was also the same with many other forces from different nations. They were all targeting Zoey.

One of them was Wheldrake which had been conquered by Beasts led by Williamson.

Their arrogance was entirely crushed by Williamson from the West.

This time, after getting to know about Zoey's existence, they started weaving a nasty plot.

Wheldrake was belligerent with its hard-hitting and rugged people. The folks in Wheldrake advocated for martial arts as a way of life.

There was also a leaderboard in Wheldrake which was known as the Saga Leaderboard, similar to the Saber Leaderboard in Erudia. Everyone in Wheldrake regarded those listed on the leaderboard like gods.

This time, everyone on the Saga Leaderboard, which consisted of a hundred skillful fighters would all sneak into North Hampton.

Preparing to capture both Zoey and Emma alive.

In order to deal with Levi, Wheldrake had gone all in this round.

Revealing each and every one of their trump card.

Not only Wheldrake but there were many other forces and organizations sending their people to worm their way into North Hampton as well.

Therefore, there were indeed plenty of formidable fighters targeting Levi this round.

An unfathomably large number of them.

Even assassins, mercenaries, and hackers had been attracted by the enormous bounty and joined in.

All in all, the menace awaiting was far worse than what one could imagine...

Not even Levi had expected this.

He had underestimated how horrifying he was to his enemies.

As soon as any of his weakness was identified, the enemies would counter and target frantically.

The hostility faced this time was unprecedented.

His enemies had risked everything to come against him.

As time passed, the information obtained about Zoey and Emma was getting more and more detailed.

Even information regarding the background of Levi was obtained.

They had even discovered the Garrison family.

Initially, they intended to take advantage of the Garrison family but after figuring out the relationship between Levi and the Garrison family, everyone gave up on their initial intent.

There was no advantage to be taken; it was totally pointless.

On the other hand, in the Garrison clan in Oakland City.

Tyrone Garrison just hung up the phone with a perplexed expression.

"Is Levi so well known? This has been the fifth person calling to ask me about Levi's identity..." He marveled.

The rest of them asked, "Sir, what's going on? What happened to Levi?"

Tyrone was equally bewildered. "I have no idea either. All the foreign family forces which have ties with the Garrison family were looking for me today to verify the identity of Levi. There were already five of them calling; I'm sure there would be more to come! This really makes me wonder if Levi has some prominent status unknown to us!"

Tyrone was truly puzzled by this strange happening.

Not even Damien receives this kind of treatment.

How could Levi have such privilege?

Just as he pondered about this, there were incoming calls to confirm Levi's identity again.

Dozens of them.

Going berserk.

"What? Levi's connection with the Garrison family is even known to forces abroad? Sure enough, bad news has wings!"

"As expected, now that the fact of this rascal's identity as an illegitimate child has spread, even the forces abroad would mock this top ancient family of ours in Erudia!"

...

The Garrison family members were utterly displeased.

They thought that the Garrison family's reputation was powerful enough within and without their home country.

And it was because others had found out about Levi's identity as an illegitimate son.

Just then, Tyrone received another phone call from overseas.

"Are you making a bet with Levi?" after confirming Levi's identity, the person on the line couldn't help but ask.

The Protector Chapter 1108

Tyrone answered with his subconscious mind, "Yes, what's wrong?"

"You're such a moron! How dare you make a bet with him? Now everyone overseas knew it!"

With that, the person ended the call ferociously.

"What?"

Tyrone was completely confounded.

Why does he call me a "moron" after getting to know my relationship with Levi?

What is going on?

In fact, the person's intention was simple.

He was berating Tyrone for his ludicrous bravery of making a bet with the God of War of Erudia.

Is he mad?

The God of War has conquered hundreds of nations outside Erudia; he's the worst nightmare of tens of thousands of foreign family forces.

And this moronic Tyrone dares to make a bet with him.

Isn't it ridiculous?

“Oh, I get it! He’s berating me for demeaning my superior status to bet against an illegitimate desperado. Isn’t this discrediting? It’s indeed a foolish act! Especially now that everyone abroad has come to know the existence of Levi, they would regard my decision to be exceedingly mindless! Levi is definitely unworthy of my attention!” Tyrone put on a helpless face.

But he was indeed at a loss for solutions.

Levi got hold of his secrets, leaving him with no other option than to bet on it.

How could he have known that he got it totally wrong?

Between him and Levi, the one with a lowly status was he himself!

“Ah, I see! So now the Garrison family is being ridiculed by these people abroad thanks to Levi!”

“He’s indeed the disgrace of the family! Sooner or later he would make the Garrison family nailed on the pillars of shame!”

“True. A genius like Damien thrives in obscurity and a trash like Levi is infamous!”

...

The Garrison clan had absolutely no idea about what was happening in Erudia.

Neither were they aware that forces from overseas had erupted.

Within half a day’s time, the situation of the entire globe had taken an unexpected turn. Everything was undergoing enormous changes.

All because of the b*stard in their eyes.

Just because of a single person alone, the entire world had gone frenzied.

Damien smiled and said, “Father, I’ve heard that Martin would be going against Levi soon. He’s no angel!”

“Haha, let others teach him a lesson lest that rascal is boastful.” Tyrone laughed.

As anticipated, Martin departed to North Hampton.

Along with him was Tiffany.

Tiffany had dressed up this time, preparing to meet Levi in her most graceful comportment.

To make him regret!

On the other hand, Levi had no plans to let Zoey and his mother go out anymore. There were inevitable risks outside.

He was constantly staying by their side to take care of them.

Meanwhile, there was news from Phoenix that a lot of skilled fighters had already snuck into North Hampton but it was difficult to identify them.

Right then, there were hundreds of pairs of eyes observing Levi.

There were hazards everywhere.

“Phoenix, North Hampton doesn’t need to be fortified; let them all in and we can wipe them out in one shot!”

Levi commanded.

All he wanted to do was to thrash them so dreadfully that fears were struck into their hearts.

So that they dared not come up with nasty thoughts anymore.

“With me around, Erudia is the forbidden ground. Don’t you all understand?”

Levi had a feeling that many people had forgotten what pain felt like in the past six months when he was dormant.

Within a few hours, the number of fighters entering from abroad had reached thousands.

A large proportion of them was on par with the big-time fighters on the Saber Leaderboard of Erudia, especially when all the fighters on the Saga Leaderboard from Wheldrake had also come.

They had already hidden around Levi and his people, waiting for a reasonable chance to act.

The Protector Chapter 1109

“Whoa!”

At the North Hampton Airport.

After getting off the plane, Martin took in a long breath; he had come specifically for Levi.

After all, the engagement has been called off. And the Garrison family gives no d*mn about him now.

Hence, Martin had no more concerns. Levi has to be severely injured if not dead. That was his sole purpose.

There were other people who came on the same flight as Martin.

They were all wearing a hat and were in leather jackets. Tattoos could be vaguely seen on their faces.

They even took a glance at Martin when they passed him by.

The North Hampton Airport that day was filled with an unusually high number of foreigners.

“Mr. Preston, it’s very strange at the airport here today,” just then, one of the personal bodyguards of Martin said with a hushed voice.

“What’s wrong?”

Tiffany and Martin looked in his direction simultaneously.

“This airport is filled with extremely skilled fighters everywhere. I could sense that everyone here is unusual!”

The bodyguard uttered while he looked around.

“Exactly! I could feel that too. There’re many top fighters around and they don’t seem to be from Erudia.”

“And those are only what we’re able to observe. I’m sure there are more who are even more powerful than us!”

“What happened? Did something go wrong?”

...

The other bodyguards could feel the same.

There was danger everywhere in this North Hampton Airport. There were too many powerful fighters around.

The majority were those who were stronger than them.

Their intuition was right.

Ever since Levi told Phoenix to remove the fortification, many fighters had come swaggering.

There were three groups of people who had come together in the same plane as Martin.

“Hmm... What’s happening? What are so many fighters doing in North Hampton Airport?” Tiffany was confused.

So was Martin.

“I heard that something happened abroad but I don’t know the specific details.”

“Could it be something to do with what we’re here for?” One of the bodyguards asked.

“But that shouldn’t involve North Hampton. In my opinion, other than the fact that Levi Garrison is here, there’s nothing much about North Hampton. Even if there’s anything huge about to happen, it should be in Oakland City. How could it possibly be in some small towns like this?” Every word that came out of Martin was spoken with disdain.

They were from Oakland City so when they looked at other places, they felt privileged very naturally.

Especially both Tiffany and Martin were from imperial families.

Hence, they were all the more snobbish, bearing the thought that nothing major should happen in such an insignificant place.

Unlike Oakland City which was the real grand place.

Even the exposure there was far greater and better than that of such a small place.

That was the reason why they were all overweening when they faced Levi.

Not to mention the stronger Garrison clan.

“Forget it. Let’s go find Levi directly!” A cold glint flashed across Martin’s eyes.

“Sure!” Tiffany nodded in agreement.

She took off her sunglasses and her face showed up.

“Whoa... She’s so beautiful!”

When Tiffany’s face was revealed, there was an uproar in the airport.

Many people were surrounding her, trying to capture photographs of her.

After all, Tiffany had put on the most exquisite makeup and was wearing the most noble and fashionable outfit.

She was incredibly stunning.

An inexplicably elegant air was wafting from her. That was cultivated from living in an affluent family since young. It was something even the celebrities couldn't compare.

During her previous visit, Tiffany was afraid that Levi would refuse to call off the engagement due to her attractiveness. Hence, she had deliberately made herself appear unappealing.

They were there to call off their engagement but Levi made a remark that she was no match for his wife.

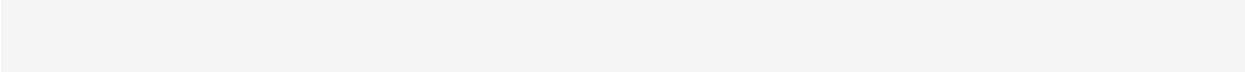

She had been keeping this in mind ever since.

This time, she had come in her best shape.

She couldn't wait to see Levi's response when he saw her.

Would he still say she was not as pretty as his wife?

"Levi Garrison, I've come. Are you ready?" Tiffany curled her lips into a gracious smile.

The Protector Chapter 1110

Meanwhile, Levi was accompanying Zoey.

He got a call from Seth Wilson, who told him that someone was looking for him.

Levi was stunned. Wow, are these people so straightforward now? Coming directly in my face?

But when he heard that it was actually Tiffany and Martin, he was relieved instantly.

Oh, it's actually these two morons.

"Seth, tell them that I have no time for them. Ask them to get lost!"

Levi was preparing for a herculean enemy and had no time to entertain them. They were nothing to him at this point in time.

On the other hand, outside of Morris Group.

Martin and the lot were waiting anxiously.

Seth came out and spoke in a placid tone, "My boss is occupied at the moment, please leave immediately!"

"What?"

Martin was exasperated. With their status and background, Levi had the nerve to ignore them?

That's outrageous!

"There was the Garrison family covering for him before, but why is he still so cocky now? He's totally disregarding us!" Martin asked furiously.

Likewise, it had never occurred to Tiffany that Levi could be so haughty that he had refused to even meet her.

"You better get back to Levi now and tell him that if he doesn't see us, I'll personally stir up trouble for him." Martin intimidated.

"Please leave now. Mr. Garrison is really busy with other things and had no time for some nobody like you!" Seth waved his hand impatiently.

Even though he didn't know what happened, he could tell Levi was occupied with something big recently.

"Nobody?" Martin and Tiffany pointed toward themselves and asked.

As the descendants of the imperial families in Oakland City, how could they be nobody?

Is he joking?

Nevertheless, comparing to the hundreds of nations overseas, they were indeed nobody.

"Fine! Levi Garrison, you jack*ss! We'll do things the hard way then!"

Tiffany was also unimpressed.

When she first came here, Levi regarded her with disdain. This time, she had come in her best appearance but she was shut out.

"No way, Levi Garrison must see me!" There was a steely glint flashing across Tiffany's eyes.

She wanted to stand in front of Zoey and let Levi make a thorough comparison, hearing from him in person that she was better than Zoey.

Night fell, and darkness descended upon North Hampton, which also signified the forthcoming peril.

The top fighters from the Eighteen-Nation Alliance including Wheldrake and Atlantis had come together. There were also fighters from some other overseas nations, not forgetting the mercenaries, assassins, forces from the Western Dark World, and even fighters from some large consortiums who continued to gather around.

Initially, every distinct force wanted to be the first to capture Zoey and Emma, making their names in the world.

However, according to information gathered, Levi had been keeping them company and there was no opportunity at all for them to act.

Apart from that, everyone knew full well that Levi must have been aware of their actions and was ready with heavy defense.

If it were in the past, they would have no possibility of winning.

But this round, Levi had two weaknesses. And they could try.

Hence, everyone had given up on firing their attacks alone and instead, gathered as many of them around as possible.

They had to strengthen their power and create synergies to fight with Levi in his face.

It would be best if they were able to separate Levi from the two targets and then get their hands on Zoey or Emma.

“The result of this is very clear— we would be severely hampered! The God of War of Erudia was immensely potent, I’m afraid half of us would be left, buried forever in this land. Despite that, the order given to us is to strike at all costs!”

...

Owing to the hatred toward Levi, every one of these fighters had prepared to die in this battle.

“What’s going on here?”

A group of people showed up out of the blue.

They were none other than Martin and Tiffany.

“Wait a minute... It seems like an upheaval has occurred and our winning rate has gone higher!”

The Protector Chapter 1111

Martin and the lot had come directly to the manor of Levi and shouted, "Levi Garrison, if you're a real man, you better come out and face us! If you're scared already, come out and kneel down before me, I might consider forgiving you for once!"

Tiffany and Martin were of the opinion that Levi was afraid of them.

He had been protected by the Garrison family so he was on his high horse and even dared to beat Martin.

But it was different now.

"Huh? What's happening?"

The thousands of fighters who had been hiding around were just about to strike when they were confounded by what was happening right in front of them.

They paused their actions and observed what just happened.

Especially when they heard that Tiffany and Martin were also here to look for Levi.

Martin and Tiffany were still trying to provoke with nasty words.

And Martin was even counting down.

If Levi was not coming out, then they would barge in.

"Ten! Nine! Eight... One!"

As soon as he finished counting down, Martin was ready to get in.

When suddenly, a figure emerged.

It was Levi! Everyone, regardless of those in the dark or Martin and the lot, was astounded.

When the few thousands of fighters from hundreds of nations saw the “devilish” face of Levi Garrison, all of them were in a frenzied state.

Their blood coagulated, and their bodies were trembling with frosty air wafting from them. Fearful beams were shooting from their timid eyes.

It was this man standing in front of them who had conquered hundreds of nations abroad, rendering every man to put an end to their greed and cease having any thoughts on Erudia.

He was like a “Demon King” to millions of people.

Seeing him again made the blood pressure of everyone around rise and they began to feel agitated.

It had never occurred to them that this war machine who was also the famous God of War was just like an ordinary man in his usual life.

What kind of a person was he?

After being stunned for a while, it suddenly dawned on them.

Levi Garrison has come out...

Doesn't that mean he's away from Zoey and Emma?

With thousands of brilliant fighters from over a hundred nations around, even just a ten-meter distance between Levi and Zoey was enough.

After all, the victory or defeat of a battle between fighters of top-notch would be decided in the blink of an eye.

Ten meters was a distance sufficient for them to strike.

Not to mention that Levi had left the main building and came to the entrance of the manor. It was in fact a distance of over a thousand meters...

Which meant that Levi was totally separated from Zoey and Emma.

It was a huge opportunity to them.

Increasing their winning rate greatly.

They knew very well that there must be other people guarding Zoey and Emma and they were familiar with those people as well.

Such as the Five Great Wars Regiment under the God of War or something like that.

Despite that, as long as the Demon King, Levi was not around, they were fearless.

The few fighters in the lead started allocating tasks among themselves.

Even though Levi had been separated from Zoey and Emma, they had to come up with a plan to prevent Levi from retreating back to the manor.

Therefore, they would need to allocate half or more than half of these fighters to stop Levi.

Killing Levi was unattainable.

They knew all too well how powerful he was.

They could only try to stop him to buy more time for themselves.

The rest of the people would enter the manor and take away Zoey and Emma in the shortest time possible.

In this way, they could threaten Levi Garrison with these two women.

That was exactly their goal.

After arranging everything, the fighters advanced according to the plan.

There were around a thousand of them approaching and entering the manor quietly in the dark.

The rest of them kept their attention on Levi.

The reason Levi had come out was of course due to the presence of Martin and Tiffany.

They had been shouting for half the day in front of the gate.

“Levi Garrison, you’ve finally come out. I thought you were scared.” Martin sneered.

Tiffany tilted her head up as proud as a peacock, appearing in front of Levi in her best outlook.

The Protector Chapter 1112

At that moment, Tiffany was like the brightest gem, shimmering brilliantly in the dark.

Her beauty was so breathtaking, making everyone who set eyes on her in awe.

Perfect!

Unbearably perfect!

Regardless of whether it was her face, her body, or her demeanor, Tiffany was flawless.

She was definitely the prettiest woman in Oakland City.

Coupled with her lofty manner, she was just like a goddess who was distinctive from ordinary folks.

She believed that no man could be unimpressed by her beauty.

There had never been anyone who was not stunned by her appearance.

Even the most promising man, Damien from the Garrison family, could not stay cool in her presence.

Tiffany stood across from Levi without speaking a word but was intentionally flaunting her attractive appearance from time to time.

Together with Martin, she had imagined how obsessed and stunned Levi would be.

However, right in the next second, they were utterly disappointed.

Levi glanced around very quickly without landing his gaze on any of the two persons in front of him.

It was as though the extraordinary beauty of Tiffany was just a common sight for him.

Being neglected in such a way by Levi, Tiffany could not bear it any longer.

She had taken well over six hours to dress and makeup so elaborately just to impress Levi. Wasn't that to make him regret?

However, Levi had no response.

This made her awfully unsettled.

Tiffany even suspected that it was because the lighting was too dim that Levi did not see her clearly.

"Levi, look at me..."

Tiffany shouted at Levi.

Levi turned to her. His gaze was clear and cool, without even the tiniest ripple.

He was completely unmoved by Tiffany's beauty; neither did he have any other thoughts.

Tiffany could discern from his clear eyes that Levi was not acting.

He was indeed apathetic to her beauty.

How come?

How could there be any man on this earth who could withstand my charm?

It was indeed not Tiffany being over confident.

Her looks were indeed top-notch. Otherwise, she wouldn't be known as the prettiest woman of Oakland City. There had never been any man who was nonchalant to her as such. Besides, she had even come fully prepared, putting on her makeup and everything.

And yet, she was still ignored by Levi.

Why?

Tiffany couldn't get her head around it.

Unless he doesn't like women!

Tiffany could only think of this possibility.

"Levi Garrison, didn't you notice that I was different from last time?" Tiffany couldn't help asking.

"Yes, you're different from last time."

Levi answered absent-mindedly. He was focusing his attention on the top fighters hiding in the dark.

"Then don't you have anything to say?" Tiffany asked tentatively.

She wanted to hear from Levi that he had regretted and that his wife could never compare to her.

Even Martin and his men were looking at Levi with anticipation of hearing answers of the same sorts.

However, to their surprise, Levi warned, "If you want to live, get lost immediately, stay the farther the better!"

His words caught them totally off guard.

Tiffany and others were rooted to the ground at what Levi said.

What did he just say? Did he just ask us to get lost?

If we want to live?

What is that supposed to mean?

Tiffany was so irritable she stormed on the ground.

Isn't Levi supposed to say that he's remorseful?

"What are you trying to imply? Looking at me in my best shape here, don't you have anything to tell me? Am I not better than your wife?"

Tiffany's gaze fixated on Levi.

"This woman must be crazy! I've already advised you to leave but you chose not to. Now, there's no way out anymore even if you wish to."

Levi glared at Tiffany.

"What do you mean?"

Martin was equally baffled as Tiffany.

That was because the fighters who had been hiding in the dark were about to strike.

The Protector Chapter 1113

Almost instantly, Levi, Tiffany, and the others were surrounded by dark figures.

Each of them was exuding a threatening, murderous aura.

Although they were the elite fighters of various countries, they all had a black mask on them.

“What’s going on?”

Martin looked around at his surroundings. It looks like there are more than a hundred people here.

However, his guess was wrong. There were actually over a thousand, but most were still hidden in the shadows.

Tiffany’s delicate brows furrowed as confusion flashed past her eyes.

What’s going on?

Why are there so many people around?

Is this related to what Levi said earlier?

That I should scram if I wished to live?

“Levi Garrison, we meet again,” one of them sneered.

By hearing the voice, Levi knew it was one of the Eighteen-Nation Alliance's strongest fighters.

Sensing the murderous aura from the group of people, Martin couldn't help but ask, "Are you here to fight Levi too?"

"Of course. Why else are we here?" the person scoffed.

In response, Martin jeered, "I'll be frank with you. Levi is my prey, so you and your lot can get lost!"

"What?"

The thousands of elite fighters were stunned.

He dares to claim Erudia's God of War as his prey?

Who is he?

Seeing the dumbfounded looks on the others' faces, Martin scoffed, "Why, are my words not clear enough? Or maybe you're all deaf. Listen carefully; I'm Martin Preston, the heir of the imperial Preston family of Oakland City. Right now, Levi is my prey, and I'm the only one who can decide whether to beat him up or kill you. None of you have the right to lay a finger on him. Now, get lost!"

Martin took the opportunity to perform well in front of Tiffany.

After all, he reckoned that he couldn't always let others go up against Levi Garrison.

He had to show Tiffany how powerful he was.

Upon hearing Martin announcing his identity, everyone burst out laughing.

His status may have some prominence in Oakland City, but in the foreign elite fighters' minds, he was nothing but a simple housefly.

Hearing their laughter, Martin was about to say something when Levi interrupted. "That's enough. Stop talking. If you keep talking, you'll lose your life."

“Who dares to take my life? Them?” Martin scorned as he pointed at the foreign elite fighters.

Just the ten guards by my side are more than enough to clear the crowd.

Gush! Gush! Gush!

Just as the thought crossed his mind, blood could be seen spurting out from his guards in the next second.

Thump!

All ten of Martin’s guards now lay in a puddle of blood, no longer breathing.

Everything happened in a blink of an eye.

Martin had been learning martial arts since young, and he had achieved the second rank in the Heir Leaderboard with his own capabilities.

He was a capable fighter.

However, he wasn’t able to see who was the one who killed his guards, nor how they were killed.

What the hell just happened? It was over in a flash!

Realization finally dawned on him that those who were present were much stronger than he was.

With that thought in mind, Martin started sweating as his legs shook.

Tiffany, too, could feel a chill running down her spine. As she looked at dark shadows surrounding them, terror gnawed at her heart.

Subconsciously, she leaned closer to Levi.

“Levi, the you from before had no weaknesses. But now that you have your own family, they are your weaknesses!”

“In fact, some of us have gone for them. You won’t be able to save them in time!”

“Not unless you kill us all!” the crowd jeered.

A murderous look flitted across Levi’s eyes, and he laughed.

“Then so be it, I’ll kill every one of you!”

The Protector Chapter 1114

Standing beside Levi, both Tiffany and Martin were stupefied.

W-What's going on?

What kind of battle did we get ourselves involved in?

These elite fighters are all coming after Levi?

What scared them the most, however, was the fact that these elite fighters were stronger than they could ever imagine.

Despite them being a member of the imperial family in Oakland City and having seen most of the world, they felt like they were in unknown territory when it comes to these fighters and that struck fear into them.

Only several ancient families in Oakland City can have these many fighters at their beck and call, right?

Even Martin, who was ranked second in the Heir Leaderboard, could not comprehend the moves of the fighters around him.

He felt as if all his previous achievements were for naught as he stared at the fighters that were all stronger than him.

This is terrifying!

Martin's ten guards had been the best of the best, but they were killed in a blink of an eye.

How strong are these people in front of me?

Martin and Tiffany could not imagine the prowess they possessed.

Moreover, there were over a thousand surrounding them.

They were reminded of the unusual scene at the airport.

The guard had spoken the truth.

There really were many foreign fighters at the airport.

Something major really happened in North Hampton.

I can't believe all these foreign fighters are all here for Levi.

Isn't Levi an illegitimate son?

Could it be that he have another identity?

This scene is appalling.

Neither Tiffany nor he could think of any reason for them to be here for Levi; their minds were blank.

All they could do was to stand transfixed.

"Get them!"

The fighters surged forward.

Thump!

Having stood in the front, Martin was the first to receive a heavy punch.

The fighting skills that made the Preston family proud were useless here. In just a moment, Martin, who was ranked number two in the Heir Leaderboard was crushed in the battle.

All his opponent needed to do was give him a punch to send him flying.

He did not even get the chance to react.

After falling to the ground, the first thing Martin did was cough up blood. Then, he twitched for a few seconds before he stopped moving.

Although he was not dead, he would have to lie in the hospital for several months after this.

At that moment, both Tiffany and he finally understood the words Seth once said. Levi is busy. He has no time to deal with small-time characters like you.

As it turned out, they were indeed small-time characters.

They were no match for any of the thousand fighters around them.

What kind of identity does Levi have?

Why are so many fighters coming after him?

Is he involved in that major event that happened overseas?

Thump!

Just then, one of the fighter swung a sword toward Tiffany.

Her blood ran cold as she watched the blade that will soon end her life coming for her.

She could only shut her eyes in despair.

I'm going to die.

Suddenly, she felt a mighty hand on her shoulders, pulling her backward.

Her eyes flew open only to see it was Levi who saved her.

Elation filled her entire being.

As she stared at Levi's profile, her heart thumped in excitement.

Thump!

Levi sent the attacker flying with a swift kick.

"You have no right to kill the people of Erudia, even if they've committed the greatest crime!"

Levi's expression was as cold as ice.

"Ha! You're still protecting someone? Levi, you're just making things harder for yourself."

The surrounding fighters became even more excited.

Their initial plan was to waste Levi's time.

Now that Levi had to protect someone else, he was doing exactly what they wanted him to do.

"Feel free to give me all you've got."

The moment the words left his mouth, the fighters swarmed over.

Tiffany, who was protected by Levi, was stupefied.

Looking at the countless dark figures that were rushing over, her heart thumped erratically almost as if it was going to leap out of her body.

She had never seen a scene like this in her entire life.

Can he really deal with this?

"Close your eyes."

Levi's voice sounded beside her ears.

The Protector Chapter 1115

The Undefeatable God of War made his move.

Tiffany closed her eyes and covered her ears.

Shaking as she stood, she could feel a gust of wind slashing at her face like a blade. Instantly, her face was burning in pain.

Thump!

Another strong gust of wind smashed into her and pushed her onto the ground.

Tiffany opened her eyes, and the scene before her would be seared into her mind for the rest of her life.

Levi was like a battle God who had descended upon the mortal realm.

All he had with him was his guts and his iron-like fists.

Yet, the foreign fighters could not even defend themselves under his attacks.

In the brief moment she had her eyes closed, the floor was already littered with corpses.

With a quick count, she realized there were over three hundred bodies on the ground.

Her eyes had been closed for less than a minute.

The average-sized figure in the middle suddenly seemed to be towering over everyone.

He's a hero!

He's the undefeatable God of War!

A sharp scent of blood assaulted her senses.

The shocking scene made her unable to tear her eyes away.

More than the shock that she felt was the epiphany that dawned upon her.

As the most beautiful woman in Oakland City, Tiffany had seen every kind of situation and every type of person.

Nevertheless, this was something she had never come across before today.

This man, who was like a God of War, was the kind of person she hated and looked down upon.

Yet, the shocking epiphany that she was now experiencing came from none other than the man before her.

Who is he?

Is he really just the Garrison family's illegitimate son?

Is he simply just the bastard that everyone's talking about?

On the battlefield, the more Levi fought, the stronger he became.

His fighting prowess sent despair into the hearts of the other fighters.

This can't be.

Levi has been living as a hermit for so long. How can he still be this powerful?

No.

He's even more powerful than before!

We're doomed.

Aside from the despair that the fighters were feeling, they had noticed that Levi did not seem to have the intention to rush into the manor to save anyone.

Instead, the goal he had in his mind seemed to be killing every single one of them.

Did we step into a trap?

The people we sent in might be in danger.

They might not even get a glimpse of Zoey and Emma.

Meanwhile, in the manor, the foreign fighters rushed in.

To their disappointment, they found no one in it.

There were no signs of Zoey and Emma.

However, the best stalkers had been monitoring the two and they were sure that neither of the women had left the manor.

No matter how impressive Levi was, or how terrifying his subordinates were, the two women could not have disappeared without a trace in front of the foreign fighters.

It was simply impossible.

Before they could think of the reason, someone ordered, "Retreat!"

If Zoey and Emma were absent, that meant this was a trap.

Just as they were about to retreat, a voice echoed in the room. "Are you all leaving just like this?"

With that, the Five Great Wars Regiment, Cavalry Regiment, Specter Army, Beasts, and Amethyst Guards all surrounded the foreign fighters.

What came next was Levi's men trashing their opponents.

White Tiger, especially, enjoyed his time. After all, it had been a while since he had been so excited.

It was a one-sided battle where one party crushed the other.

None of the elite fighters escaped.

Outside the manor.

Tiffany had a look of disbelief on her face.

She had just witnessed Levi destroying all of his opponents.

There were over a thousand people!

When Martin opened his eyes again, he was surrounded by bodies.

This time, he fainted from fright.

Horror.

It's pure horror!

This was hell on earth.

The whole time, Tiffany never stopped shaking.

The man in front of her was like the devil.

The distance between them had never been wider.

"You used to be losers. You're still losers now."

Indifference was the only emotion in Levi's eyes as he looked at the defeated fighters.

Staring at Levi, Tiffany shouted, "W-Who are you?"

The Protector Chapter 1116

She could not imagine who Levi truly was.

But she was sure that he was definitely not just a bastard.

Tiffany finally had a better understanding of Levi after what she witnessed.

Levi had ignored the Garrison family and even bet against Tyrone not because he was ignorant but because he could; he had the power to challenge the Garrison family.

At that moment, Tiffany could no longer compare Levi to any member of the Garrison family.

She now had to compare Levi with the entire Garrison family.

Damien, the genius of the Garrison family, was once the excellent man she favored.

Now, however, she did not even want to compare him with Levi.

If Damien had been in this battle, he would have died within seconds.

Even I myself would have been dead.

However, this man was undefeatable; his fighting prowess far exceeds the rest.

He even saved me from danger.

With that thought in mind, Tiffany knew the man before her was not as simple as he looked.

After all, he was someone who could make the Garrison clan of the Oakland City remorseful.

“You don’t need to know.”

Levi cast her an indifferent glance.

Looking at his back, Tiffany felt a pang of sadness and hopelessness in her heart.

She realized that no matter how beautiful she was, she could never make Levi interested in her.

In fact, he was worthy to ignore her.

But isn’t he being too apathetic?

Does he really not have any feelings for me?

After all, I’m such a gorgeous lady.

Can’t he even soften his tone when he talks to me?

But... Wait a minute.

He saved me earlier.

Thinking of the way Levi’s hand was on her shoulder, delight filled her heart.

That means he feels something for me.

Otherwise, why would he save me?

I did such a despicable thing. Isn’t it better to kill me?

So why did he save me?

It could only mean that he isn’t completely ignoring me.

“Thank you for saving my life!”

Even after everything had died down, Tiffany was still trembling.

All she wanted earlier was to make Levi regret; she never expected to be involved in a great battle like this.

It felt like hell for her.

“I don’t need your thanks, I just hope that you’ll stop harassing me from now on,” Levi responded without turning around.

Biting down on her lower lip, Tiffany muttered, “Why... Why are you so cold to me? Didn’t you save me earlier?”

Tiffany had come to a simple conclusion—Levi must have saved her because he liked her.

Why else would he save me, but not Martin and the others?

“I did save you, but only because you’re from Erudia. That’s all,” Levi clarified in a frigid tone.

“What about Martin? He’s from Erudia too. And what about his subordinates? Why didn’t you save them?” Tiffany questioned without hesitation.

In a placid tone, Levi replied, “I didn’t save Martin because I know he’ll survive.”

After all, Martin had been training since young; he would survive the punch from the fight earlier.

“As for his subordinates, they’re not from Erudia, so why should I save them?” Levi threw the question back at her.

Tiffany froze.

Levi was right. Martin’s guards were not from Erudia; they were from Raysonia.

“Let me make myself clear. I saved you for no other reasons than because you’re Erudian.”

With that, Levi turned and left.

Tiffany could not react as she stood rooted to the ground.

Nothing had gone according to what she imagined would happen in her trip to North Hampton.

Instead, she had gotten herself into such a fiasco.

This was the first time she saw the true side of Levi.

In the beginning, she thought the only one who could match her was Damien. At the same time, the one she preferred was the legendary God of War.

Now, another person had entered her list—Levi.

But why is he acting so cold toward me?

The Protector Chapter 1117

Soon, someone sent Martin and Tiffany away.

At the same time, they cleaned up the battlefield.

When Levi returned to the manor, the signs of battle had long since been erased.

It was as if no one had come.

No one could have imagined that over two thousand elite fighters were annihilated.

Even until the moment they died, they never knew where Zoey and Emma were.

Neither did they ever find out when the two women left.

Even to their last breaths, they wondered why they never found out the whereabouts of Zoey and Emma.

They were so sure they had eyes on them.

In actuality, Zoey and Emma never took a step out of the manor.

After all, no one could take them away while elites from various countries had their eyes on them.

In other words, the whole world was focused on Zoey and Emma.

It was impossible for them to leave.

As such, the two had always been in the manor.

Their seeming absence could be attributed to Levi's design of their house.

Back then, he had been extra cautious, and he made a secret space under the manor.

It was a precaution in case of a day like this day would happen. If he could not protect them in time, Zoey and the others could hide in this space.

He never thought it would ever be used.

Levi had wanted to lure all that conspire to harm him into one spot so that he could get rid of them at once.

However, it was difficult for his enemy to make a move as he was always in the manor.

As such, he thought that he might not be able to lure them out all at once.

Just as he was looking for an opportunity to leave the manor so that he could draw the fight to him, Martin and Tiffany came.

They gave him the perfect opportunity to leave the manor and let his enemy make a move.

With how everything panned out in the end, he had to admit that these two had been a great help to his plan.

"This feels great! I haven't felt like this for ages!" White Tiger bellowed.

"They're all wiped out this time! This must be a great blow to their plans!" everyone laughed.

Soon, news from North Hampton spread across Erudia. In a blink of an eye, the entire world found out about it.

The Eighteen-Nation Alliance and other forces were dumbfounded.

We've failed!

We actually failed.

Not to mention we've failed so miserably. Just like that, we've lost everyone...

How strong is he?

With just one battle, over two thousand elite fighters gathered by tens of thousands of forces abroad were all wiped out.

The battle once again made the mention of God of War rock the entire world.

The devil-like man was still as powerful as ever.

He was still undefeatable, despite having weaknesses.

As previously commented, he was like a God that no mortal could lay a finger on.

“The God of War of Erudia once again makes a shocking move. He wiped out the entire army and won against hundreds of countries.”

That was the news that spread across the world.

At that moment, the world was in an uproar.

The God of War of Erudia was stronger than before, and he was still undefeatable.

Once again, the words “Erudia is a forbidden ground as long as he was around” were proven to be right.

No one would dare to lay a finger on Erudia anymore.

The citizens of Erudia were cheering.

The victory made the quiet Erudia flew into an uproar once again.

The more powerful Erudia was, the prouder its citizens were.

Moreover, the battle had relieved the citizens of their frustrations.

It had taught the invaders a tough lesson—That Erudia was not a country to be belittled.

The God of War was pushed to greater heights once more.

Nowadays, the dreams of many children were to protect their country and make Erudia prosper even more.

Before that, the children were developing the wrong morals as all of them were hoping to become celebrities instead.

Tiffany and Martin returned by plane.

When they entered the plane, they realized every passenger had a look of joy on their faces.

What's going on?

Tiffany was burning with curiosity.

"The God of War has shown everyone the greatness of Erudia again! It's so satisfying to hear about the battle at North Hampton," someone yelled.

"Wait... What? The God of War?"

Tiffany's face paled.

The Protector Chapter 1118

This entire time, Tiffany had been busy treating Martin in a dazed state.

She knew nothing about the significant news of Erudia.

But the moment she heard the mention of the North Hampton battle...

Isn't that what I've experienced first-hand?

Are they saying that the man that was involved in that battle was the God of War?

Levi is actually the God of War?

"He's the hero that I've been yearning for!"

Upon realizing it, Tiffany jumped to her feet. She was delighted and in disbelief at the same time.

Her abnormal action made everyone turned to look at her.

Even Martin shot her a look that was reserved for lunatics.

He's actually Erudia's God of War...

We were in an epic fight...

Is this bad luck or good luck?

I can't tell.

Tiffany finally understood what Levi's words meant.

He saved them because they were Erudians.

He was the God of War who put the welfare of Erudia and its people in his heart.

Other than admiration and adoration, Tiffany now had respect for Levi too.

The world that Levi was in was a world they could never imagine reaching.

For the country, he was even able to let go of his hatred.

He knew Martin had come to take his life, but he still saved him.

To live in Erudia and be in the protection of the God of War was a blessing.

Tiffany stared out the window as a plethora of feelings settled in her heart.

After returning to Oakland City, no man would pique her interest anymore.

After all, a woman who had seen a lion would never settle for stray dogs.

Knowing that Martin was injured, Tiffany's grandfather and father, Jordan and Arvin Meyers, came to pick them up.

Even the head of the imperial Preston family, Leland, who was also Martin's grandfather, came.

"Why are you hurt so badly?"

Everyone panicked upon seeing Martin severely injured state.

"What's going on? Didn't you go to take revenge on Levi? Why are you hurt so badly? And what happened to the ten guards I've invited from Raysonia? Where are they?" Leland asked anxiously.

Tiffany pursed her lips and muttered, "They're all... Dead."

"What? They're all dead? What happened? Did Levi do this?" Leland questioned.

Leland, Jordan, Arvin all gulped.

If this really is Levi's doing, he's a monster!

After all, Martin is ranked second on the Heir Leaderboard.

Tiffany shook her head. "It wasn't Levi."

She was telling them the truth; Levi was not the one who did this.

"I knew it. How can Levi possibly do this? If he can defeat the person who was ranked number two of the Heir Leaderboard, the Garrison family would have definitely taken him in."

Arvin heaved a sigh of relief.

Both Tiffany and Martin, however, fell silent.

If they were honest with themselves, neither of them were in any place to discuss Levi's prowess.

"We came across the foreign fighters who were there to kill the God of War. They were the ones who killed the guards, and they even injured Martin," Tiffany informed.

"What? You were involved in that battle? The entire Oakland City is talking about it. The Garrison family has found out the identity of the God of War. They're now trying to find out which of the Garrison family's bloodline the God of War is from," Arvin exclaimed.

Martin's swollen eye twitched.

He's from the Garrison clan of Oakland City.

With a conflicted look, Tiffany muttered, "We've actually met the God of War. He was the one who saved us. If it weren't for him, both of us would have been dead by now."

“What? You saw the God of War?”

“What does he look like?”

The Protector Chapter 1119

Jordan, Arvin, and Leland were questioning them with a manic look on their faces.

Even though they were part of the imperial family in Oakland City, to meet the God of War was an honor for them.

Moreover, to hear that Tiffany and Martin were saved by the God of War was more than enough to send them into a frenzy.

They fixed their gazes on Tiffany, waiting to hear her answer about his appearance.

“He is the personification of greatness. From today onward, no man will have a place in my heart. If I can’t marry him, I’d rather stay single until I die.”

That was the only answer Tiffany gave them.

Arvin and the others understood her words instantly.

Tiffany must have seen a man of true perfection.

Otherwise, she would not have made a decision like this.

The one she was interested in earlier had been Damien, but even then, she never made any declaration like this.

They could barely believe these words would come out of her mouth after meeting the God of War.

“My dear, you have to think this through,” Arvin sighed.

“I’ve thought this through. Dad, please spread the news,” Tiffany pleaded.

Unexpectedly, Martin expressed his support for Tiffany’s declaration.

His support stunned the rest.

After all, Martin had always been in love with Tiffany, and he was even prepared to propose to her with the Preston family’s support.

Why is he giving up now?

The only explanation was because Martin was defeated by the God of War.

Soon, news of how the beauty of Oakland City, Tiffany, would only have eyes for the God of War traveled across Oakland City. She had declared that she would not marry anyone other than him, even if that meant she would stay single forever.

The moment that news spread, Oakland City was in an uproar.

Is Tiffany going to be single until she dies?

And to think that she would declare it in this way!

However, it wasn’t exactly impossible for her to be together with the God of War.

That night, many of Tiffany’s suitors did not sleep.

They were at a loss of what to do.

After all, their love rival was the God of War.

They knew full well that they would never be able to win against that man.

In the Garrison clan’s hall in Oakland City.

“Fantastic. As expected of the God of War of Erudia. What a satisfying battle!” Tyrone thundered.

“How powerful! How great! Many thought the God of War can only fight in wars with armies. no one would think that he’d be that strong himself. He actually defeated thousands of elite fighters all by himself!” the people praised.

Damien exclaimed, “That being said, the best battle was still the battle that gave the God of War his title.”

Damien knew everything about the God of War, including the battles he was in.

“That’s right! The God of War defeated the Eighteen-Nation Alliance’s fighter with a pair of iron fists. Now that was a true display of power!”

Everyone could not help but sing praises upon recalling that battle.

“He really showed the world how great Erudia is. The God of War is really a role model for all our children,” Tyrone sighed wistfully.

His gaze then landed on Damien.

If only Damien is the God of War.

How nice will it be if the God of War is my son?

“The God of War is one of the Garrisons, but we’ve yet to find out which family he belongs in. We’ve tried to look into his identity, but our search was to no avail.”

At that, the council members of the Garrison family all had similar looks of disappointment.

Tyrone announced, “From now on, I’ll be using all my resources to find out who the God of War is. Since he’s a Garrison, he has to know his roots. Even if he’s many times removed, he is still part of the Garrison clan. We have to take the God of War back into the family.”

The Garrison clan of the Oakland City was the oldest and purest bloodline of the Garrisons. In other words, they were the original family of the Garrisons.

Anyone who bore the Garrison family name was in a way related to the Garrison clan in Oakland City.

This was Tyrone’s reason to get the God of War to return to the Garrison clan.

If the top ancient family of Erudia had the God of War among them, it would be an unimaginable and magnificent sight.

The Protector Chapter 1120

After Tyrone made sure he would not lose his status as the head of the family anytime soon, he wanted to contribute to the family.

Hence, he wanted to get the God of War to join the Garrison clan.

This was something he had to do, regardless of the price he had to pay.

“The moment we have the God of War on our side, we will have a pair of powerful people in the younger generation of the Garrison clan.”

Tyrone could already imagine the scene.

Naturally, the other one in the pair Tyrone was talking about was Damien.

“Sir, I’ll be honest with you. Damien isn’t worthy yet to be compared with the God of War,” someone pointed out.

“Come now, I know it’s just wishful thinking on my part, but that doesn’t mean you can rain on my parade like that.” Tyrone chuckled.

Meanwhile, Damien’s fists were clenched tight. He had been doing his best to catch up to the God of War, but the latter was too strong.

The fact that he could never catch up to the man caused him despair.

Right then, someone announced, "News from the imperial Meyers family. Tiffany has declared that she won't marry anyone other than the God of War. She'll stay single until she dies if she doesn't get to marry him."

"Huh? What's going on?" Tyrone and the others asked.

Damien, who knew almost everything about the God of War, said, "Father, Martin and Tiffany had originally went to deal with Levi, but they ended up encountering the foreign elite fighters. I think they were saved by the God of War!"

"I see. So the girl has seen the God of War's true face and was impressed by him. I'm sure any woman in Erudia will want to marry him, much less Tiffany," Tyrone voiced.

"That's right. The girl of the Meyers family has high expectations. I heard even Damien barely reaches her expectations. Only the God of War can impress the beauty of Oakland City," one noted.

"Hahaha! I heard Levi is still in love with Tiffany? Did he refuse to destroy the engagement contract?" Tyrone laughed.

Damien nodded. "Yes. But I guess it's normal for a spirited young man like Levi to yearn for Tiffany. If he did not have a wife, I reckoned he wouldn't have torn up the contract."

"But is he any match for her? Now that she's refusing to marry anyone other than the God of War, he's nothing but a joke now!" Tyrone scoffed.

"Right. Let's not waste any more time on this and start finding out who the God of War is. If things don't work out, we, the Garrison clan, will head to North Hampton to meet him."

That was what Tyrone had planned.

Nonetheless, he never thought he would go to North Hampton and South Hampton so often in his life.

As news of Tiffany's declaration spread across Oakland City, a displeased voice could be heard roaring somewhere in said city.

"My brother-in-law will never fall for you. So you best give up now!"

The owner of the voice was none other than Abigail.

She had come to Oakland City.

Yet, she could not avoid the news about Levi.

Even if the bet with the Garrison family had gone unmentioned, she kept hearing news about him defeating the foreign fighters and getting involved with the beautiful Tiffany.

It was as if Levi was haunting her, following her wherever she goes.

Moreover, someone had been courting her recently.

Describing her mood as foul was an understatement.

"It's so annoying!" Abigail fumed.

On the other hand, there was someone who was thrilled to hear news of Levi.

That person was Benny.

As a good friend of Levi, when he heard about his victory, he was overjoyed. Benny had even sent a congratulatory message to Levi.

"Mr. Quinton, I will come to Oakland City soon. Let's meet when I'm there," Levi chuckled.

"Hahaha! All right. I look forward to your visit."

Both were prominent figures in Erudia, and yet, they acted like ordinary people in their daily lives.

However, whenever they were on the battlefield or in the hospital, they were like Gods walking in the mortal world.

The Protector Chapter 1121

Almost everyone was discussing the God of War's victory in North Hampton.

Even Zoey and Emma were gossiping about it.

They would never have thought that this battle to have taken place where they lived.

"I wonder what kind of person the God of War is. Is he a good husband? A good son? A good father?" Zoey chuckled.

Levi immediately answered, "Of course he is."

In the beginning, Zoey had found out about his identity.

Yet, Damien appeared.

The next few days, everything returned to normal.

Forces from all over the world were now silent.

They had paid a tremendous price for their last attack by having their army wiped out.

Moreover, none of the hundred elite fighters of the Saga Leaderboard came back alive.

"He's too powerful. Even when we know his weakness, we can't do anything about it."

Levi's prowess instilled despair in others.

“No. We can’t just give up like this. It’s a rare chance that we know his weakness. We have to find a way.”

The overseas forces still refused to give up.

In a blink of an eye, half a year passed.

By now, Zoey’s belly was already humongous. In three months, it would be time for her labor.

Nowadays, Zoey could not do anything. No matter what she did, Levi and Emma would be by her side.

As days went by, Levi became more worried and anxious.

Both the Lopez and Black families were worried about Zoey’s condition.

One day, Meredith and the others came to North Hampton.

“Zoey only has three months before it’s time for her labor. You have to send her abroad until the baby is born,” Meredith said.

Nowadays, more and more rich people preferred giving birth abroad.

The reasons being that the air, the environment, the people, and the medical standards abroad were much better.

Even many rich celebrities gave birth to their children overseas.

“Well, thanks to Logan, we’ve already made the necessary arrangements overseas. We’ll be waiting for the baby to be born with the best doctors and medical equipment,” Aaron and Caitlyn uttered.

Upon hearing that, Levi frowned.

Aren't they being too melodramatic?

What's so good about the other countries?

Why does she have to give birth to the baby overseas?

I've never heard of anything bad about giving birth to the baby here.

Accidents happen everywhere.

Are babies that are born overseas smarter?

How can that be?

*This is bullsh*t.*

"I don't agree with it. My child has to be born in Erudia. We won't go overseas," Levi firmly rejected.

Shocked, Meredith glared at him. "I'm sorry, but you have no say in this," she uttered, despite knowing Levi was the boss of Morris Group.

The fact that the Morris Group was now the target of the Garrison clan meant they were in crisis.

Moreover, the bet that Levi made with the Garrison clan meant that his status as the boss of Morris Group was now essentially useless.

Neither the Lopez and Black families were treating Levi any differently.

Patting Levi, Aaron muttered, "I have something to talk to you about. Soon, the baby will be born. I have a question for you."

"Ask away."

"It's about the baby's last name. After discussing, we've decided for the baby to follow the mother's last name, Lopez. You have nothing against it, right?" Aaron uttered.

"Yes. The baby has to take on her mother's last name. The baby must not be one of the Garrisons, even if that means the baby has to be one of the Blacks."

Everyone's minds were made.

"You won't oppose to this, will you?" Caitlyn questioned.

Levi glanced at Zoey. "As long as Zoey agrees to it, I won't oppose."

"I disagree with it! Since I'm married to Levi, the baby has to be a Garrison."

The Protector Chapter 1122

Zoey's firm stance delighted Levi.

She's standing on my side.

"Alright, that settles it then. My child can only be a Garrison. I won't let anyone change my child's last name."

Levi cast an icy gaze at the others.

"Levi, it's not as if you have a choice. Besides, your bet with the Garrison clan will be soon. You don't even know if you'll survive it, so why should you care about your child's last name?"

"We're changing the baby's last name for their sake!"

They were uncompromising.

"Zoey, pack up. We're going overseas. Logan has made all the necessary arrangements," Caitlyn urged.

To make sure Zoey would give birth to the child safely, they would bring her out of the country.

"No. I won't let Zoey leave the country. My mother and I can take good care of her."

Levi was resolute.

For starters, he wanted the child to be born in Erudia.

Secondly, Zoey was still watched by many. The moment she was overseas, she would be in danger.

While he would surely protect her, he still did not want her to be in any form of danger at all.

He had to make sure that she was safe and sound.

“She’s our daughter, you don’t have a choice in this matter.”

“I’m a doctor myself. It’s true that the medical standards abroad are better than the ones in the country. Don’t try to insist otherwise.”

Both Aaron and Caitlyn were adamant, too.

Meanwhile, Zoey was silent.

Her priority was to give birth to her baby.

She did not mind doing what was best for the baby to be born safely.

Hence, she did not reject the idea of heading overseas.

Moreover, Caitlyn was a doctor, so she would heed her mother’s words.

“My stance remains the same. Zoey’s not going overseas. What’s wrong? Are the medical standards in Erudia that lousy? Moreover, I know Benny Quinton. I’ll just ask him for help with Zoey’s delivery,” Levi insisted.

“This...”

His words stumped Caitlyn and the others.

It was true. He knew Benny as he was the boss of Morris Group.

“Besides, Zoey’s stomach is already so huge. It won’t be good for her to take another long trip,” Levi continued.

“He’s right. Mom, Dad, I was born here. It’s not that bad. Furthermore, he knows a lot of capable people.”

Even Zoey was now standing on Levi’s side.

It was mainly because Levi had mentioned Benny, who was the greatest doctor in all of Erudia.

“Fine, we’ll go with your plan. But Levi, I’m warning you. You’d better give the best to my daughter. You have to be by her side every single moment,” Aaron warned in a grave tone.

“Don’t worry. I won’t leave Zoey, not even for a second.”

I don’t need him to tell me that.

There’s no way I’ll treat Zoey badly.

In fact, it’s Impossible for me to treat her badly.

“Levi. I need to ask you a question. It’s almost time for your bet with the Garrison clan. How are you going to win the bet? They’ve given you four conditions, but which one can you achieve? I thought you’d be able to complete the business condition, but now, the Morris Group is in critical condition. How will you go up against the Garrison clan?”

Aaron bombarded him with questions.

Hearing that, Zoey’s face turned ashen.

Time was ticking, but Levi seemed to have made no preparations for it.

Has he accept defeat?

“Don’t concern yourself with the Garrison clan. It’s but a trivial matter. Right now, we should look forward to the baby’s birth.”

Levi’s nonchalant attitude infuriated the others.

He really doesn’t think for Zoey.

What a disappointment.

At that moment, all everyone could feel was disappointment for Levi.

The Protector Chapter 1123

Worry was written all over Zoey's face. What is Levi going to do next?

How will he go up against the Garrison clan?

A year had almost gone by, but Levi had done nothing in preparation.

Instead, it seemed like Morris Group's situation was worsening.

Staring at Levi, Meredith and Robert inquired, "When it's time for the day of the bet, you won't escape, will you?"

"That sounds possible. You might ditch your wife and child. You look like that kind of person to me!" Harry added.

Levi smiled. "How is that possible?"

He said before that he would protect Zoey for the rest of his life.

He was unmoved, even when he saw the most beautiful woman in Oakland City.

AS such, it was simply impossible for him to abandon Zoey.

"All right. We'll see whether you'll resolve the matter or try to run away when the time comes," the few people sneered.

In a meeting room at Raysonia's navy base were several people with different skin colors.

They were the ones who hated Levi the most. After all, they were defeated by Levi once.

Ever since they found out Levi's weaknesses, they had been researching ways to defeat him.

In other words, as long as Levi was alive, they could never rest.

They spend their every waking moment wishing they could kill him.

Levi's weaknesses, Zoey and Emma, were their target.

"The God of War is in Erudia, and we can't lay a finger on him there, not after how he wiped out our entire army a while back," someone sighed.

"Unless we can find a way to lure the God of War away from his turf, we won't be able to do anything."

"But how can we lure him out? Zoey is about to give birth soon. Unless there is something exceptionally urgent, the God of War will never leave the place."

Everyone felt helpless.

Finally, they all turned to look at Tenichi, the military strategist of Raysonia.

Not only was the man capable, but he was also a brilliant strategist.

Right then, Tenichi smiled.

Instantly, everyone knew what that smile meant.

It was clear that Tenichi had a plan.

"If there aren't any emergencies, we'll make one. We'll force the God of War to leave Erudia. Everything else after that will be a piece of cake. We'll send someone to go after Zoey and Emma. Once that's done, we can blackmail Levi Garrison. His days as the God of War will be good as gone."

Tenichi's smile grew into a sinister grin.

“What kind of emergency should we create that will make the God of War leave Erudia?” the others queried.

Confidently, Tenichi uttered, “Don’t worry. I already have a plan.”

“That’s great. This time, we must kill Levi.”

Everyone had excited grins on their faces.

Meanwhile, the Garrison clan was pulling strings to find out details about the God of War.

Yet, their investigation was fruitless.

To find out about the God of War, one had to have high societal status.

Moreover, photos of Zoey overseas had been removed from everywhere.

Thus, the Garrison clan could not find a single clue about his identity.

“What should we do?”

The council members of the Garrison clan were depressed.

“How about this? I’ll head to North Hampton myself to meet with the God of War and I’ll tell him our aim,” Tyrone sighed.

With no other choice, he decided to let go of his pride this time.

Initially, he had hoped that he could maintain his dignity, but things were not going his way.

“Will the God of War agree to meet with you?” Damien inquired.

“I’m still the patriarch of the top ancient family in Erudia. How can he refuse? To me, we’re equals. He’s the top of the military world, and I’m the top of the ancient families.”

As he spoke, Tyrone had his head held high and he was exuding an aura that only noble had.

The Protector Chapter 1124

“Damien, you’ll come with me. I’ll let you meet with the God of War so that you’ll be motivated. You’ll benefit from this in the long run.”

“I have high hopes for you. Even though you’re not as good as the God of War, you’re still better than everyone else when he’s excluded,” Tyrone reassured.

“All right, Father.”

Passion burned in Damien’s eyes.

All this while, the God of War had been his aim.

He collected every information about the God of War and analyzed everything about the man.

In other words, he was a fanatic of the God of War.

In his eyes, the God of War was like a hurdle that he had to cross in order for him to achieve greatness.

Therefore, when he heard he would be able to get a glimpse of the God of War, Damien was beyond ecstatic.

He was sure that he would be even more motivated after meeting him.

He looked forward to the meeting.

In the afternoon, the father and son duo headed to North Hampton.

This time, Tyrone did not hide the news of his journey. Instead, he traveled like the head of the top ancient family in Erudia that he was.

There were more than a hundred jets escorting him.

The moment he shifted an inch, tens of thousands would surge forward to protect him.

Every moment of his journey showed everyone the difference between common folks and the ancient family.

Tyrone's act was a message for the God of War. He was telling him they were equals.

"Let's go, Damien. Let's visit Levi first. It'll be a year in four months. Let's take a look at how prepared he is."

After reaching North Hampton, the first person Tyrone went to was Levi.

"Haha! Sure. It's been more than half a year. Let's visit him," Damien laughed boisterously.

For the past six months, Levi had been his target.

He had cornered Morris Group in North Hampton, making sure that they were unable to do anything.

In other words, the company was doomed in the corporate world.

It could not make any moves in the military and political domain.

The only way left was physical force.

However, it was impossible to enter the Garrison clan through physical force.

Even the guardsmen at the Garrison clan were terrifying.

Meanwhile, Levi and Emma were suntanning with Zoey. Even Caitlyn and the others were doing the same as well.

Just then, Tyrone arrived.

The moment he came, the park was cleared out.

His dramatic arrival stunned Caitlyn and the others.

Upon finding out their identities, Caitlyn and the rest were frightened out of their wits.

This is horrifying!

The Garrison clan's power was unimaginable for them.

Once upon a time, even a servant of the Garrison clan had the capability to crush North Hampton and South Hampton.

Now that the head of the family was here, coupled with the fact of the grand entrance he had made, it was a miracle that they had not fainted from fear.

That day was the first time Zoey had seen Tyrone.

The noble aura he exuded was something she had never come across in the past.

It was an overwhelming aura.

To the average person, Tyrone was god-like.

Nowadays, she was getting familiar with the Garrison clan. But just when she thought she understood them, meeting Tyrone made her realize how wrong she was.

The Garrison clan was even more unfathomable than she could imagine.

For a moment, she even felt that a man like Tyrone should not only have one wife—that it was right for him to abandon Emma back then.

In her eyes, the man before him was mighty.

He was the man who led the top ancient family of Erudia.

He was a man beyond imagination.

Facing Tyrone's strong presence, Meredith and the others got on their knees to greet him.

It was as if they had met an emperor of the olden times.

He looked at the rest as if they were nothing but insignificant insects.

To him, the people of North Hampton were no different from worms.

Even if Levi was mighty, he was just a mighty worm.

Slowly, he turned to look at Levi and inquired, "How are your preparations going?"

The Protector Chapter 1125

At that moment, the entire place fell silent.

Everyone gasped.

The color drained from Zoey and Emma's faces.

Levi had not done any preparations in the past six months.

It's impossible for him to win the challenge.

They could only pray that Tyrone would forget about this matter.

However, it seemed like not only did Tyrone remember it, but he even came to check up on him.

We're doomed.

I guess the saying was true, that those targeted by the Garrison clan would not have any good ending.

Levi looked at Tyrone calmly and smiled. "You don't need to worry about that. I can still deal with a small fry like the Garrison clan. This is just a trivial matter; it's incomparable to the birth of my child."

Such arrogance!

I can see that he's still as arrogant as ever.

Even now, he still looked down upon the top ancient family of Erudia.

What a crazy man.

He's a lunatic through and through.

In other words, they felt that there was something wrong with Levi's brain.

They could not believe he just ignored Tyrone.

Even Zoey was infuriated.

How can he still spout such nonsense at a time like this?

There's no benefit for him to act that way.

His stubbornness will only infuriate the Garrison clan further! They will never let him off the hook now.

Meredith and the others were even angrier than Zoey.

All of them were cursing at Levi for his foolish words.

"Get on your knees and apologize! who are you to speak that way to your father?"

"Once everything's blow over, you can still be a carefree man in the Garrison family. That's a great thing!"

Unfortunately, Levi was persistent, and they were sure something was fried in his brain.

"Honorable Mr. Garrison, we apologize to you on behalf of this kid. He's just a stubborn boy, he didn't mean anything by it."

"That's right. He's a good kid. As long as you take him in, he won't cause any trouble for you."

Meredith, Robert, and the others were all on their knees, putting in a good word for Levi.

This was their only hope now.

If they managed to tug on Tyron's heartstring, this was their chance to prosper.

However, Tyrone sneered, "Give up. I know what you're thinking about. I'll tell you now that it's impossible. Even if he wins the challenge, I won't take him in as my son. Not unless he can become one of the top three in the Saber Leaderboard."

Tyrone's ruthlessness stupefied Meredith and the others.

"Top three in Saber Leaderboard?"

Meredith and Robert knew what that meant.

It was impossible for Levi to achieve that.

To achieve the top three in the Saber Leaderboard, one had to be the genius among geniuses.

One had to become a self-made master in a field.

In fact, the individual had to be so capable that they would be able to establish a prominent family on their own.

Looking at Emma, Damien chuckled, "It's not that Father doesn't want to take him in. Father's status is too high right now. Levi will have to have an appropriate status to become my father's son."

What he was implying was that Levi was unworthy of being Tyrone's son.

"Levi, don't forget. Four months later will be the day of the bet.

I've given you the four conditions. It's your win as long as you fulfill any one of them. If you fail, however, I'm sure you remember what you said. It'll be too embarrassing for you to live, so you'll have to kill yourself."

Tyrone fixed his icy gaze on Levi.

This time, he would no longer show any mercy.

The moment Levi failed, he would be doomed.

There would be no chance for him to stay alive.

Zoey nearly passed out upon hearing that.

Will my baby have to live a life without a father?

"I know, but I won't fail."

Levi gave him a smile.

"Well, I'll be waiting for you four months later at the Garrison clan's main entrance then. I hope you'll be there. And don't try to escape," Tyrone burst out laughing.

The Protector Chapter 1126

Tyrone, Damien, Meredith, Robert, and the others shared similar beliefs that Levi will take the cowardly route at the very last minute.

In their minds, they were sure that he was going to abandon his family when the time came.

Back then, he was able to get through many obstacles due to great timing and luck.

However, this time, his opponent is Erudia's top ancient family.

Even the secret that Emma has was useless.

"Father, I'm quite sure Levi will run away. He must have thought that everything was fine, so he must be surprised that you've come to monitor him," Damien chortled.

He, too, felt that Levi would escape.

"We'll see."

"Let's go. We're meeting with the God of War next."

With that, Tyrone left with Damien.

Caitlyn and Aaron glared at Levi. "I'm warning you. You'd better not leave Zoey and your baby behind."

"That's right. Even if death awaits you, you have to face it yourself. You can't leave this mess behind for Zoey," they ordered.

They feared Levi would just leave.

“Don’t worry. While my son doesn’t excel in anything else, he’s a good man. Otherwise, he’d have admitted defeat to the Garrison clan early on,” Emma defended.

Zoey gently touched her belly and muttered, “I trust Levi. No matter how tough things get, he won’t leave the child and me behind.”

They had been together for a long time. As such, Zoey knew Levi well.

She would not be exaggerating if she claimed that Levi would die for her.

She believed in him.

He would not leave her to face the crisis alone.

Aggrieved, Meredith stomped her feet. “Continue to have blind faith in him then. You’ll find out soon enough that he’ll leave you all eventually!”

If they were honest with themselves, they were not shameless enough to speak the words in their heart.

Tyrone had once abandoned his family for his own benefits.

Hence, they felt that Levi would follow in his father’s footsteps.

As the saying goes, the apple doesn’t fall far from the tree.

Moreover, this was a situation of life and death.

As time passed, the thought of Levi running off became stronger in their minds.

However, they dared not say what Tyrone had done.

All they dared to say was their distrust in Levi.

“Grandma, don’t worry. Until the baby is born, Levi won’t take a step away from me. I swear this on my life,” Zoey proudly stated.

Levi moved closer and held her hands tightly. "Zoey, don't worry. I'll always be with you."

Zoey was sure of Levi's character.

There was nothing more Levi could ask for when he had a wife like this.

He smiled.

There is no way a mere Garrison clan can make me leave her.

Even if the sky collapsed on me, I would not take a step away from her.

"I hope so, but Zoey, I still think you'll be disappointed."

Harry still had a look of disbelief on his face.

"All right. Let's stop talking about this. Levi will never leave me, and I'll leave it at that."

Zoey then asked Levi to help her back to the house.

Several days later, Levi received a call from Percy from North Hampton Warzone.

Percy told him Tyrone wanted to meet him.

He even asked Levi if he should reject Tyrone's request.

"No. I'll be happy to meet with him. I wonder what they want from me." Levi responded.

At the front of North Hampton Warzone.

Tyrone and Damien were quietly waiting.

By now, their tens of thousands of escorts had left.

After all, they had put up enough of a show.

"Hello, Mr. Garrison. The God of War has decided to meet you."

The Protector Chapter 1127

"That's great!" Damien was enraptured.

He was finally going to meet his idol, the God of War.

This would definitely help him a lot in the future.

On the flipside, Tyrone was as calm as the sea.

In his mind, it was only natural that the God of War would come and personally meet someone of his status.

Everyone else is negligible!

I'm the only one that matters!

"Mr. Garrison, please give me a moment! I'll bring you to meet the God of War shortly!" Percy assured.

"Thank you, Commander-in-Chief Covington." Damien politely replied.

The duo waited patiently in the room.

"We're finally able to find out which bloodline of the Garrison family does the God of War belong to." Tyrone was filled with excitement.

In any case, he was determined to recruit the God of War into the Garrison clan.

This way, the status of Garrison clan as Erudia's most powerful ancient family would be fortified.

Not to mention the clan would also be able to cement its footing in Bayview.

Damien was trembling in excitement.

The God of War had always been Damien's source of motivation and fear.

This time, he was going to meet him in person. The overwhelming anxiety was expected.

Meanwhile, Levi arrived and met with Percy.

"God of War, it appears that Tyrone intends for you to regress to the Garrison clan! According to him, the Garrison family in Erudia originated from the Garrison clan. Hence, he insists that you are a member of the Garrison clan and wants you to regress!" Percy sarcastically explained the situation.

"Dream on! He's asking for the impossible! Who does he think he is? I'm not related to the Garrison clan!" Levi exploded in rage.

"If that's the case, shall we meet with them now?" Percy questioned.

"Sure," Levi was looking forward to meeting them now.

His initial plan was to wait patiently until Zoey gave birth to the child. Only then, he would address the issue with the Garrison clan.

However, Tyrone was becoming more aggressive with each passing moment. Now, the man even had the audacity to threaten Levi. His actions had significantly dampened both Zoey and Levi's moods.

Thus, Levi decided to solve the issue once and for all.

I'll meet them as the God of War!

I am done hiding my identity!

Levi and Percy walked side by side into the hall.

Just then, a loud whirring sound can be heard coming from the sky.

Levi looked upwards and exclaimed, "It's the Dragonite Helicopter..."

In Erudia, the usage frequency of the Dragonite Helicopter was extremely low.

The reason being the helicopter was utilized specifically for special missions only. It would only be used either to transport people of status or valuable resources. Additionally, it was also used as a message courier to convey and deliver urgent orders.

If the Dragonite Helicopter were to appear, it must signify an impending important event.

Thud!

Levi's heart sank as he realized that something was wrong.

The Dragonite Helicopter landed on a nearby lawn.

Two men got off the Dragonite Helicopter. They were decked out in black battle suits with a gold dragon imprinted on their chest plate.

"It's the Dragonites!" Levi exclaimed.

The Dragonite Helicopter belonged to the jurisdiction of Erudia and Oakland City. Even Levi himself had no right nor power to mobilize it.

Since the Dragonites are here personally to convey and deliver the order. This must mean that the order came from Erudia.

Needless to say, the order is meant for me.

Something big must have happened!

The fact that both the Dragonite Helicopter and the Dragonites were there could only mean that the situation must be extremely urgent and required Levi to personally address it.

Standing beside Levi, Percy was dumbfounded.

He did not expect the Dragonites to show up.

What happened?

Meanwhile, Levi appeared to have figured it out and his face was as pale as paper.

If anything were to happen at this juncture...

I would be in an awkward position.

The two Dragonites strode toward Levi and announced, "The God of War is hereby summoned by this order. This order is extremely urgent!"

The Protector Chapter 1128

Levi stood up straight and saluted.

He gazed at the two Dragonites, "What's the order?"

"The God of War is to lead your warriors, including the Five Great Wars Regiment, Calvary Regiment, Specter Army, Beasts, and Dragon Legion, and head to North Base One! This order is extremely urgent and requires immediate action. Any form of disobedience will entail military punishment!" the Dragonites enunciated the order clearly.

The Dragonites had issued an irrevocable order.

Levi retrieved the order and glanced through it. As expected, it was an order of the highest level.

Even someone of his status must comply with the order.

"What happened?" Levi asked calmly.

"God of War, do you remember the Blood King Palace?" the Dragonites asked.

"Of course. I eradicated them three years ago! They are a formidable force to be reckoned with. I wouldn't be exaggerating if I say that the threat of the Blood King Palace is even greater than a whole country!" Levi replied.

The Blood King Palace was once an organization in the Western Dark World. It consisted of thousands of elite warriors.

They were a bunch of lunatics, exceptionally specialized at assassination and sabotage.

They were vicious and merciless, without any regard to the consequences of their actions.

They frequently massacred cities of people.

An enemy as such was terrifying.

After all, it was a group of lunatics that ranged in the thousands.

Back then, the Blood King Palace was the most feared and dangerous organization in the Western Dark World.

In fact, it wasn't just other organizations that were afraid of them, even strong countries were also terrified of them.

The threat from the Blood King Palace was just too overwhelming.

The fact they would strike at unexpected times to take revenge loomed over the Blood King Palace's enemies.

Those years, the Blood King Palace reigned unchallenged and their ferocity outranked even Levi himself.

Truth be told, Levi even opined that the threat posed by the Blood King Palace significantly exceeds that of the Eighteen-Nation Alliance.

"Could it be that the Blood King Palace has return?" Levi shakenly asked.

"Yes, that is correct! The Blood King Palace is back! Last night, they launched several attacks on North Base One and we suffered severe casualties! According to intelligence, the forces of the Blood King Palace are far stronger than three years ago!" the Dragonites nervously answered.

"How is that possible? I eradicated them during our last encounter three years ago!" Levi was puzzled.

It must be a calculated scheme.

Someone must be behind all of this.

Unbeknownst to him, Levi had actually guessed it correctly.

The person who orchestrated all these was someone who knows about his weakness. And although they have failed once, that doesn't mean that they would just let Levi off the hook.

That person was none other than Tenichi, the military strategist of Raysonia.

He was the one who lured the Blood King Palace out of hiding...

The fear of the Blood King Palace was deeply rooted in many hearts and the gang of lunatics was not something an ordinary commoner could deal with.

At the moment, only the God of War had what it takes to face them head-on and came out on top.

No one else had been successful before.

Even for Levi, it took him a whole year to successfully complete what he thought was the eradication of the Blood King Palace.

Therefore, when the Blood King Palace resurfaces, Erudia would surely order the God of War to personally confront him.

With that plan in mind, Tenichi was sure that Levi would be transferred away.

As expected.

When the Blood King Palace showed up, Erudia immediately thought of Levi.

An urgent order to eradicate the Blood King Palace once more was immediately delivered and conveyed to Levi.

"God of War, we're afraid we cannot provide an answer to your question. Rumors have it that it is the surviving minions of the Blood King Palace who hid for nearly four years!"

“God of War, it’s best if you head out now! There’s no time to lose!” the Dragonites pestered him further.

Levi took a deep breath and roared, “Order the Azure Dragon to rejoin us immediately! We’ll be heading to war!”

The Protector Chapter 1129

The order from Erudia was to be prioritized immediately.

Levi had no time to dilly dally.

After he gave the order, the Five Great Wars Regiment and the others grouped up within a short period of time.

“We head out, now!” Levi ordered without hesitation.

“God of War, please wait a moment!” Azure Dragon said.

The others also had a hesitant look on their faces.

“Speak!” Levi impatiently demanded.

“God of War, what about Ms. Lopez? She’s about to go into labor soon. This is clearly the enemy’s scheme to lure you away so that they would have the chance to capture them!” Azure calmly postulated.

“He’s right! At the very least, please allow some of us to stay here and protect Ms. Lopez.” White Tiger proposed.

Although White Tiger loved to battle, Zoey’s safety was his primary concern.

Levi shook his head, “That’s not possible. The order was clear that all of us must head north! No one gets to stay behind.”

“But what about Ms. Lopez? What about your child? Don’t you want to witness the birth of your child?”

“That’s right, the last time we took out the Blood King Palace, we had to spend one whole year to do so! Now that their forces are even stronger this time, we may need a longer time! It may take up to one and a half years!”

“To leave for one and a half years at such a critical time is too risky!”

They were not willing to abandon Zoey for such a long time, not to mention that she was about to give birth to a child.

It was too heartless for Zoey and the child.

Besides, the risks of leaving was too high.

“Why don’t we stay back?” the Cavalry Regiment suggested, which was surprising considering they were always the quiet ones.

“Are you all disobeying my order?” Levi growled.

With that, every single one of them stood up straight and dared not speak another word.

A military order was absolute and they dared not disobey.

“Everyone, head toward the North now!” Levi shouted.

This time, there were no disagreements. They prepared the necessary transportations and were ready to depart.

Levi did not even get to meet Zoey or his own mother before departing. There was simply no time for such arrangements.

He departed without hesitation toward the North.

The situation was extremely urgent.

Levi knew very well how terrifying the Blood King Palace was.

Any delay would entail massive destruction.

Hence, he needed to act immediately.

Even if it meant that he could not meet with his family...

As Levi left, Percy assured, "I will do my best to protect her."

However, he was well aware of his limitations.

Some things were within his expectations; some were not.

He anticipated that those that were once defeated would not let this slide.

They would try to separate Levi from Zoey and his mother.

However, Percy could not figure out how they would achieve that purpose.

At the end of the day, the borders enjoyed tranquility and peace.

Levi should have never been transferred away.

However, it was unexpected that the Blood King Palace would reappear with forces stronger than before.

The Blood King Palace's return was significant enough to transfer Levi out of Erudia.

Levi was the only one that defeated them before, the others didn't even come close.

This was truly beyond his expectation.

Such a dire circumstance happened coincidentally during the most critical moment for Zoey.

With the order of the highest level, Levi could not even bid farewell with Zoey and the others.

Meredith accurately predicted this.

At this moment, Levi was indeed gone.

And he would be gone for more than a year...

The Protector Chapter 1130

According to them, Levi was scared away by the Garrison clan.

For the sake of survival, Levi abandoned his family and escaped.

The silence was deafening.

Everyone's facial expression was icy cold.

Especially Azure Dragon and the few men that sat beside Levi, their frustration was evident.

The sudden order caught everyone off guard.

Levi didn't even have time to make arrangements for Zoey and the others.

However, they dared not question further about Levi's command.

Everyone understood that Levi's only goal now was to eradicate the Blood King Palace.

Nonetheless, Azure Dragon was concerned about the safety of Zoey and others.

At the hall, Tyrone and Damien were still waiting.

As they heard some commotion outside, the duo walked out to have a look.

What greeted their sights were fleets of armored vehicles leaving swiftly.

"What happened?" Tyrone and Damien were shocked.

"Mr. Garrison, my deepest apologies. The God of War had been summoned to the North! He cannot meet with you anymore," Percy regrettably explained.

"What? What is the issue that required the God of War himself to personally attend to?" Tyrone was surprised.

Damien became nervous as well.

It must be something significant in order to require the involvement of the God of War himself.

"It's classified information and I cannot disclose it to you. Please, go home." Percy refused to answer.

"What?"

As the armored vehicles passed by, Damien was startled.

"I think I just saw someone familiar..." Damien suddenly mumbled.

"Did you see someone you know?" Tyrone asked.

"I think I met them somewhere before, Was it at Levi's wedding?" Damien was unsure.

Damien thought he had met some of them during Levi's wedding.

"That's impossible!" Tyrone dismissed his statement without any hesitation.

It was simply impossible.

Since the God of War was heading toward the North, they no longer had any purpose to remain in North Hampton.

"Oh yes, I still need to meet Levi regarding another matter!" Tyrone abruptly recalled.

The Garrison clan made a decision regarding the family name of Levi's unborn child.

As anyone who bore the Garrison family name would be inevitably related to the Garrison clan, the clan decided they wanted to avoid this.

As such, once the child was born, he cannot bear the family name of Garrison.

Seeing Tyrone and Damien arrived once again, Zoey and the others started to panic.

"Where is Levi? Get him out here right now!" Tyrone shouted.

"Levi's not here..." Emma nervously replied.

She gulped and took a deep breath in an attempt to calm herself down.

It had been a few hours, but Levi had yet to return.

Even Emma herself had no idea where her son had gone to.

For the past few months, Emma had always been by Zoey's side and she would not leave her alone for more than ten minutes.

Damien scoffed. "Could it be that he had run away?"

"Hah, that might be possible," Tyrone nodded in agreement.

For some reason, a sense of trepidation settled in Meredith's and the others' hearts when they heard that.

The circumstances did suggest that Levi had escaped.

"What do you want?" Zoey asked.

Tyrone arrogantly replied, "What I want is simple. Your unborn child cannot bear the family name of Garrison! Since the Garrison family in Erudia originated from the Garrison Clan, whoever that wished to bear the Garrison name must seek our approval! And I'm telling you now that Levi's child is not allowed to do so!"

"It's none of your business what my child's surname would be!" Zoey firmly refuted the preposterous demand.

“You can choose to ignore us, but you will make an enemy of the Garrison clan! The consequences will be abysmal!” Tyrone left after making the threat.

Zoey thought about it and called Levi.

The Protector Chapter 1131

Just as Levi was headed toward the North, his cell phone unexpectedly rang.

The sound broke the silence that lasted for two hours. All attention was now focused on Levi.

Levi looked at the screen and saw that the caller ID was "Honey".

Just when he was going to answer the call, he hesitated.

He struggled to make a decision...

Levi's veins bulged and he frowned as frustration surged from within him.

He took a deep breath and decided not to answer the call.

He knew that if he took the call, he would not be able to stick to his decision to leave.

Truth be told, it was a tough choice for him to choose between heading to the North or staying with his family.

However, now that the rampage of the Blood King Palace was even more horrifying than before, Levi had no choice but to settle in his role as a warrior from Erudia.

For the sake of Erudia, he must head toward the North.

One should prioritize the country before the family.

He decided that he must protect his country with all his might.

His family was less important compared to the safety and sovereignty of Erudia.

Levi held onto his phone tightly and crushed it forcefully.

“Mom, I’m sorry. I’m a useless son that is unable to protect you.”

“Zoey, I’m sorry that I cannot take care of you anymore.”

“My child, I’m sorry that I will not be there to witness your birth.”

Levi held back his emotions and mumbled on his own.

Everything happened so suddenly that he could not make arrangements for the safety of Zoey and the others.

He could not find any person to help him in such a short span of time.

After all, the enemy was just too strong.

It was not something any ordinary people could handle.

The only plan that Levi had in mind now was to head toward the North, eradicate the Blood King Palace, and rush back as soon as possible.

He wanted to return in the shortest possible period of time.

“That’s weird... Why is Levi not picking up his phone?” Zoey repeatedly dialed his number but to no avail.

Her heart sank and she had a bad feeling about this.

“What? He’s not picking up his phone?” Emma then tried calling Levi on her phone.

“Sorry, the number you have dialed is unavailable,” the robotic voice sounded from the phone.

"What does this mean?" Emma felt uneasy.

Zoey's face turned sour immediately.

Not only he didn't pick up the phone, but now he had his phone switched off?

This meant that Levi did it on purpose!

He's not picking up the phone...

This is bad.

What I feared the worst may have happened...

Meredith and the others repeatedly tried to contact Levi, but he was unreachable.

"I was right! Levi is scared off by the Garrison clan!" Meredith said in a cold voice.

"He must have run away... Didn't you all notice that he's gone right after Tyrone's warning? It has already been a few hours, and he's still nowhere to be found. I'm sure he has run away!" Logan scornfully remarked.

Everyone pondered about Logan's statement.

What he said is true.

Levi did disappear right after Tyrone's warning.

"Emma, didn't you say that you were proud that your son is a fine gentleman that will never run away? How about now? Now that he's gone you should give us an explanation!"

"That's right! For the past few months, he has always been by Zoey's side to the point where if the situation permits, he'll even want to follow her to the toilet! Now, it's been a few hours, he's nowhere to be seen and his phone is even switched off!"

Harry and Robert joined the conversation.

Unfortunately, their proposition indeed made sense.

Emma could not rebuke their allegations.

Her face turned pale and she started shivering uncontrollably.

She thought to herself, Son, please don't follow in Tyrone's footsteps and abandon your family.

"I tried searching for him but Levi has vanished without a trace!" Aaron was infuriated.

The Protector Chapter 1132

As soon as Aaron found out about Levi's disappearance, he immediately ordered his men to look for him.

However, Levi was nowhere to be found.

Abigail's parents even contacted the Rogers family to help locate Levi.

However, the Rogers family failed to discover any important clues about his location as well.

Besides, the Rogers family knew about Levi's identity.

"No one knows where Levi is?" the hard-hitting truth was unacceptable for Zoey.

She was trembling.

"That's impossible! Levi will not abandon me! He will never do that!" Zoey confidently asserted.

Emma gritted and assured, "That's right. I believe in my son, he will not leave us! I assume he must have something important to attend to right now!"

The two of them trusted Levi the most.

"Stop deluding yourself! The truth is right in front of you! Why isn't he answering the phone? Why did he switch off his phone? Why is he gone for such a long time? You should know better than anyone! Stop trying to make excuses!" Jennie yelled unemphatically.

Zoey and Emma exchanged glances and their frustration was evident.

Although they trusted Levi, the reality of their situation was cruel.

“Let me ask Iris! She should know where Levi is!” Zoey immediately thought of Iris.

“What? I’m not sure. Why? Is he gone?” Iris sounded surprised.

Zoey sighed in disappointment.

“Iris, I can’t find Levi. He appears to have disappeared and refuses to pick up the phone. Please help me locate him.” Zoey asked for her help.

Upon hearing Zoey’s request, Iris acted immediately.

Ten minutes later, Iris called. “Zoey, I can’t find him at all. And, I have some bad news for you...”

Zoey’s heart sank.

Iris continued, “I tried contacting Neil and he is also unreachable. I made further investigations and found out that Levi’s contact number has been deleted as well...”

Because Levi received an order of the highest level, it meant that it was also a top-secret mission.

As such, all information related to him must be erased.

Erasing the contact number was the basic protocol.

Upon hearing Iris’ words, Zoey’s grip on her phone loosened and it dropped onto the floor.

The news struck her like lightning.

She remembered Levi once mentioned that Neil was his best friend. They were inseparable.

Now that Neil was also unreachable like Levi...

It could only mean the rumor that Levi ran away must be true!

“You hear that, Zoey? Levi must have run away! I gotta say, he’s quick on his feet! Even his own company was abandoned by him!”

"You're so confident that he will not abandon you, and yet, he did!"

"Also, Emma, what is wrong with your son? How could he abandon his family at such a critical time!"

Facing the countless criticism that was thrown their way, Zoey and Emma could only bow their heads in embarrassment.

They remained silent for they were unable to rebut them.

Unarguably, the truth was before them.

No words could mitigate the situation.

"Zoey, all I can say is that you've chosen the wrong partner. Frankly speaking, Levi is just like his father. It is unsurprising that he will abandon you," Aaron said.

Everyone came to a sudden realization.

That Levi was just a chip off the old block.

Just like how Tyrone had abandoned his family, it was no surprise that Levi would do the same.

Even Emma was unable to refute the statement.

Is it true that Levi is no different from Tyrone?

"No, I refuse to believe this! I'm going to look for him! I know a place, he should be there..."
Zoey stood up.

The Protector Chapter 1133

It didn't take long before Zoey and her group arrived at the South City.

They raced toward the Warzone compound.

Although the place was run-down, Zoey knew that this place was Levi's base camp.

Levi's secrets were hidden here.

His best friends all lived here before.

However, when Zoey and the group arrived, there was not a single person in the Warzone compound.

Even the dogs that used to run around the place were gone.

Based on the settled dust and cobwebs, the place had been unoccupied for a long time.

Zoey could only stare blankly at the sight before her, feeling lost and helpless.

Levi's not here...

Zoey could not imagine where would he be.

Just then, Emma received news from South Hampton.

As expected, Levi was not in South Hampton as well.

This proved that Levi had indeed disappeared.

Zoey's vision went dark and she collapsed onto the floor.

"Zoey!" everyone rushed to her side.

When Zoey woke up, she was already on a hospital bed.

"Zoey, hang in there. Please take care of yourself!" Emma held onto her hands and sobbed.

"Stop faking it! You're just like your son! Leave my sweetie alone!" Caitlyn raged and tried to separate them.

"Mom, stop it! You can't blame it on her! She has nothing to do with this." Zoey tried to mediate the rising tension.

"This is all Levi's fault! He's an animal! Not only did he abandoned Zoey, but he also left his own mother!" Meredith fumed.

Levi's sudden disappearance stirred up intense turmoil between the Lopez and Black families.

His disappearance coincided with the timing when Tyrone made the threat.

All circumstances suggested the irresistible conclusion that Levi was scared away by the Garrison clan.

"He's a coward! A hypocrite! How could he call himself a man!"

"Does Levi not feel any shame? He abandoned his own mother, wife, and unborn child! What an animal!"

"I'm ashamed to even know him! He's not worthy to be a man, a husband nor a father!"

Logan and the others condemned Levi relentlessly.

Sylas tried to defend Levi, "He must be away because of some urgent matters, he'll definitely be back!"

She knew Levi's actual identity and guessed that he was probably summoned to handle some urgent matters.

At that, Zoey's eyes showed signs of hope. "She's right, that must be it! I believe he will not abandon me!"

"Zoey, why are you so stubborn? He even deleted his contact number..."

"He's never coming back! Back then, he was capable enough to solve his problems. However, it's different this time. The Garrison clan wants him dead, he can only run away!"

Meredith and the others tried to dash Zoey's hope.

Nonetheless, Zoey was adamant. "No, I don't care what all of you are saying. My gut tells me that Levi will return very soon! I believe in him, he will not abandon me!"

"Return? That's impossible! If he wants to return, he wouldn't have left quietly nor delete his contact number!"

Zoey smiled. "Mom, Dad, dare to make a bet with me then?"

"What are we betting on?" Aaron asked.

"We'll bet if Levi will return within one month's time. If he does return, all of you must apologize to him!" Zoey proposed confidently.

"Alright!" Aaron agreed.

"If he doesn't return, I will believe that he abandoned me!" Zoey placed the bet based on her trust in Levi.

The Protector Chapter 1134

“Fine. We’ll find out in one month’s time then! I’m sure that a month’s time is more than enough for Levi to finish whatever he’s doing.” Aaron agreed to her daughter’s proposition readily.

We’re winning this bet.

Everyone knew that Levi would not be coming back.

However, Zoey trusted Levi too much.

She was hopeful and optimistic.

By giving Levi a month, it served as a form of solace for her and also represented her trust toward him.

“Alright, it’s settled then. If Levi doesn’t return in a month, I will send you overseas to give birth to the baby, and no one can stop me.” Meredith was excited.

Zoey nodded, “Fine. If he doesn’t return in a month, I will travel overseas. If that happens, I will need to trouble Logan to make the necessary arrangements.”

“Don’t worry about it. One word from me and it’s settled.” Aaron hesitated for a moment before he said, “Zoey, you must ponder on the issue regarding the child’s family name. The Garrison clan clearly prohibits the child from bearing their family name! If you insist, it might entail serious consequences! I suggest that the child bear your own family name.”

Zoey nodded again. "All right. If Levi doesn't return in a month, the child will bear my family name."

Now, everything was dependent on the outcome in a month's time.

Emma started to tear up. "Son, what are you doing? Please return quickly! If you don't, your child would bear the family name of Lopez."

Nevertheless, the situation wasn't all bad after Levi's disappearance.

For instance, the final decision-making power in Morris Group was now passed to Zoey.

Aside from that, the top hundred prominent families in North Hampton declared that they would protect Zoey at all costs and would be at her command.

This was comforting to Zoey.

Her confidence started to build and she was looking forward to the end of the month.

She was certain that Levi would return.

Meanwhile, Levi arrived at North Base One.

He had already fought hand to hand with the Blood King Palace.

The Blood King Palace was indeed stronger than three years before.

The moment Levi was transferred away from North Hampton, Zoey and Emma instantly fell under the watchful gazes of those abroad.

On an island abroad, a group of people with different colored skin were having a meeting.

Presiding over the meeting was Tenichi, the military strategist from Raysonia.

Even though Levi was transferred away, they dared not act rashly.

They must be sure that Levi truly left North Hampton.

Moments ago, they received news that Levi arrived at North Base One and battled with the Blood King Palace.

Even so, they did not act immediately upon receiving the news.

In order for them to act, they would need to have a meeting and sufficient intelligence must be gathered first.

“Mr. Watanabe, I suggest we act immediately and send people to Erudia to capture her.” Someone from the group proposed.

They were all impatient.

Tenichi shook his head. “No, my intelligence suggests that there are elite warriors protecting her. There might even be traps waiting to ambush us! Even if we successfully capture her, the loss is simply too great.”

The others replied swiftly, “If that’s the case, what should we do? The God of War has already been transferred away. It’s a golden opportunity that we must not lose.”

“No. I received news that in a month’s time, Zoey will leave Erudia to give birth to her child! Once the time comes...” Tenichi trailed off and smirked maliciously.

“Is that true? We might not be able to touch her in Erudia, but once she leaves, that just means that we can do whatever we want then!” Another person exclaimed.

Everyone had excited grins on their faces.

“Alright. Make the necessary preparations! By the time Zoey leaves Erudia, we’ll act immediately!” Tenichi had everything planned out perfectly.

The Protector Chapter 1135

Zoey and the others were unaware of the perilous danger that was steadily advancing toward them.

The threat was not posed by the Garrison clan, but rather, it was forces located abroad.

Logan thought that he had a lot of connections abroad.

However, he was oblivious to the fact that his every move was being manipulated by many.

Zoey never imagined that everything would change drastically one month later.

But for now, she was safe.

Percy and many other warriors were secretly protecting her. They were willing to devote their lives to protect her.

The Amethyst Guards were available as well. Therefore, Zoey's safety was well protected.

Nonetheless, Percy was afraid of any sort of infiltration by strong enemies.

Since the order that summoned Levi was of the highest level, this meant that everything must be kept a secret.

Percy didn't dare to disclose anything.

He could only stay strong and take it upon himself to protect Zoey.

It didn't take long before the news regarding Levi's disappearance reached the Garrison Clan.

"What? We were right? Levi ran away?" Damien and Tyrone could not believe it.

They didn't really mean it when they first said it. As such, Levi's disappearance was completely unexpected.

"That's correct! Levi ran away! Even his contact number has been deleted!" Damien and Tyrone received confirmation.

Tyrone laughed and said, "This is Emma's son? What a coward! A wimp! I can't believe he wants to be my child! Dream on!"

Damien sighed, "I thought that he's a principled person that will face any challenge. Who knew he turned out to be a coward that ran away simply because of a warning from you, father."

"He's unworthy to be part of the Garrison clan! What an embarrassment! The fact that he bears the same family name has brought shame upon the Garrison clan! I can't believe he really ran away!" Tyrone ridiculed.

They had always thought highly of themselves. The series of aggressive acts and retaliation from Levi was deemed as a futile struggle in their mind.

Now that Levi had run away because of a simple threat, the disdain they felt for him intensified.

"And he had the audacity to challenge me and the Garrison clan? Even saying that he wants us to regret what we did? Hah! What a laughing stock!" Tyrone continued his contemptuous remark before changing the topic. "Damien, find out where is Levi."

"Of course, rest assured I will locate him. Does he think that he can just run away like that? Such wishful thinking! I'll make sure he's shamed and laughed at by the whole of Erudia!" Damien sneered coldly.

As the day passed, Levi was still nowhere to be seen.

It was as if he had vanished into thin air.

There were no trails left behind at all.

All this while, Iris together with the Lopez and Black families had been looking for Levi.

However, their efforts were in vain.

It wasn't just them who couldn't find Levi, however, as even Damien could not find the slightest trace of Levi's whereabouts.

Unbeknownst to them, it was actually impossible for them to find any information regarding Levi. After all, he was on a special mission with the highest level of confidentiality.

"I don't understand how, but Levi's completely untraceable. I've tried my best but so far there's nothing!" Damien was bewildered.

"Anyway, it seemed that Levi is really gone! What a joke!" Damien burst out laughing.

He recalled the brave and valorous statement made by Levi and Emma in their previous encounter.

Now it seemed that those were simply empty threats that served no purpose other than comedic value.

In the end, Levi ran away with his tail between his leg...

In a blink of an eye, Levi's disappearance approached the one-month mark.

It was the last day before the time was up.

Zoey was dejected but she still had a tiny ounce of hope.

She was still waiting for her hero to appear.

The whole month, she had been waiting for him.

"Zoey, give up. He's not coming back."

The sky turned dark and Levi never showed up.

Zoey was heartbroken as her hopes and expectations were shattered.

The Protector Chapter 1136

She had waited thirty days for Levi's return, but he didn't come back.

That man had disappeared, or to put it bluntly, he had run away while abandoning his family.

All of them were more than aware of the fact that if Levi didn't show his face within a month under these circumstances, chances were he won't ever show up again.

No matter how hard Zoey tried to trust in Levi, now, she must accept the reality that Levi was gone.

Nonetheless, there was not a trace of anger on her face. The only semblance of emotion that could be seen on her face was the streaks of tears that were running down her cheeks.

Thud!

Emma fainted as everything was too overwhelming for her to bear. She couldn't believe that her son would prioritize his interests over his family, just like what Tyrone had once done to her.

Sylas and Russell were both in a state of agitation. They had guessed that Levi must have had a mission at hand, which explained why he didn't have a choice but to leave without a word. However, they were not allowed to reveal Levi's real identity to them.

"This is good news! Levi leaving is actually a good thing for us!"

"If he had returned, it would spell doom for us since he had offended the Garrison clan."

Both Harry and Robert felt elated.

Meredith, too, was excited. "That's right! Tyrone said that everything would be alright as long as the baby doesn't take on the surname of the Garrisons."

Even though they couldn't cozy up to the Garrison family, it didn't matter anymore since Morris Group and the topmost prominent families in South Hampton were now under Zoey's control. This alone was enough an improvement of the status of their family.

"Zoey, you should accept the reality that Levi has abandoned you. It is time for you to start anew!"

"That's right! Forget about him! You should move on for the sake of your baby!"

Everyone started giving their advices.

Zoey wiped her tears away. With her eyes full of determination, she uttered, "Dad, Mom, I've lost the bet. I'll believe that Levi has run away now. He has abandoned me and the baby."

From Zoey's sorrowful expression, everyone could tell how disappointed she was toward Levi.

She must be heartbroken right now. This time, Levi had really hurt her to the core.

Six years ago, she was willing to wait for his return because she knew he was framed. However, things were totally different this time.

Meanwhile, Emma, who had just regained consciousness, started sobbing uncontrollably. Things had spiraled out of control, heading toward the direction contrary to all her expectations. My son... Levi... Please come back...

Zoey cast her eyes over the whole lot before announcing, "I declare that from today onwards, I, Zoey Lopez, will cut ties with Levi Garrison. He is no longer my husband or my baby's father!"

"No..." Emma shouted her objection, but to no avail.

"Secondly, my baby will take on my surname as Lopez. Thirdly, I will reside overseas during the last few months of my pregnancy until I deliver the baby." Zoey announced the three most difficult decisions in her entire life in one go. Her voice was firm and resolute because the person who was supposed to be there for her had run away, leaving her behind, and now she could only count on herself.

"I'm happy for you, Zoey! You've finally decided to move on."

"After all these years, you finally got to see Levi's true colors!"

"I'm glad you finally know that Levi is nothing but a selfish prick!"

Caitlyn and the others couldn't help getting a little emotional.

"And you!" Meredith shifted her gaze to Emma. "From now onward, you will leave Zoey alone, and don't you ever come anywhere near her! From now on, the Lopez family has nothing to do with anyone from the Garrison family. Zoey's baby has no relationship with you either."

"Mo—" Zoey suddenly recalled that it was not her place to call her "mom" anymore, so she changed the way she addressed Emma. "Aunt Emma, you should leave now and go back to South Hampton. Goodbye."

The Protector Chapter 1137

“Zoey, can you let me take care of you? Why don’t you let me stay by your side since I’m the one who has been taking care of your daily livings all this while? Besides, I wish to make it up for you on behalf of Levi. At the very least, please let me stay until you deliver the baby.” Emma pleaded earnestly.

Caitlyn and Aaron concurred with her. “She’s right, Zoey, why don’t you let her stay? We believe she can take good care of you.”

They had taken note of how meticulous Emma was when it came to taking care of Zoey. Even Caitlyn herself had to admit that she wasn’t capable of doing what Emma did, taking every matter into her own hands. She honestly thought that even a nanny wouldn’t do any better than Emma.

“Alright, she can stay. After all, she did take good care of Zoey.” Meredith relented.

However, Zoey shook her head and gave the final word. “No. Aunt Emma must leave. Thank you for taking care of me all this while.” She wouldn’t budge in this matter. “But... Don’t worry, Aunt Emma. You can always come and see the baby if you want. Of course, it will be best if you can leave us alone.” Her voice was soft yet firm, making it clear that Emma was allowed to visit the baby, but she will never be acknowledged as the baby’s grandma.

Zoey’s resoluteness was surely beyond everyone’s expectations.

“Then we’ll listen to Zoey. You should leave now! We have nothing to do with the Garrison family from now on.” Caitlyn and Aaron chased Emma out.

Emma had no choice but to go back to South Hampton.

“Zoey, get ready, we’re leaving the country immediately. All of us have quit our jobs, and we’ll accompany you until you deliver the baby,” said Caitlyn.

The Black and Lopez family had booked a private jet to Keerea, a country well-known for its high-quality healthcare system, which was not far from Erudia. Logan had also made arrangements in that country beforehand.

The jet was scheduled to take flight in the afternoon.

Unbeknownst to Zoey and Emma, Tenichi had been keeping an eye on their every move.

“Zoey Lopez will be arriving at Keerea by midnight! We have all the information about their motorcade route and manpower arrangement. Be prepared, my dear allies! It will be more than enough if we have Zoey in our hands, but it will be best if we can catch Emma Jones as well. We will have more bargaining chips if we manage to capture both of them.” Tenichi had everything all planned out. We will catch both of them!

In the afternoon, the Lopezs and the Blacks boarded the jet with Zoey alongside some paramedics.

The private jet was set to land at the capital of Keerea at Stellar International Airport. Little did they know that Tenichi, the man whom Levi had defeated, had set an ambush for them at the airport.

He had cleared the airspace, stopped all the flights, and emptied the whole airport. Tens of thousands of elites were now lurking in the darkness, waiting to launch their attacks as soon as the jet landed.

In the meantime, Emma had just arrived in South Hampton when she was ambushed on her way back to Edburg Manor as Tenichi’s elites had been lying in wait for her for quite some time.

While Tenichi was busy capturing both Zoey and Emma, Levi, on the other hand, was stuck in North Base One, fighting a life and death battle against the lunatics of the Blood King Palace.

The private jet from North Hampton landed safe and sound at the Stellar International Airport.

Sitting at the control tower, Tenichi had a clear view of the runway. "Zoey Lopez is here! Get ready, everyone! We will attack as soon as she appears!"

"My men are on standby outside the airport. Let's hurry and get off the plane." Logan urged.

Unaware of what was awaiting ahead for them, Zoey and the others got off the plane.

The Protector Chapter 1138

In North Base One, a battle had been waged on the vast glacier. The battlefield was baptized in blood and effluvium of death as dead bodies were scattered everywhere.

Levi and his men had just fought another wave of the Blood King Palace's ferocious attack off and were now resting and reorganizing themselves.

Sitting on a huge rock, Levi was smoking his cigar when all of a sudden, restlessness crept around his heart as he broke into a cold sweat. It felt as if his extrasensory perception was being triggered, and it was an odd feeling that he had never experienced before.

Oh no! Something bad happened!

Levi felt a gloomy foreboding that something must have had happened to Zoey and his mother.

However, since he was on Erudia's top confidential and secret mission, he couldn't possibly allocate his men for his private affairs in protecting his family.

Even though he knew Percy wouldn't be able to fend off the attacks if they were being set as a target by his enemy, he could only count on him now.

This is bad! Zoey and Mother must be in imminent danger! Levi was soaked in a cold sweat as he couldn't help feeling panicked.

If he couldn't be there to protect his family when they needed him, he was in no way a dependable husband or son. But as the situation stands now, he could only choose between his country or his family.

In fact, most of Erudia's soldiers faced the same dilemma as Levi. They couldn't be by their parents, wives, and children's side because they were being entrusted with missions. Some of them might even miss some of the most important events in life because of that.

Even when they were spending time with their families, the soldiers must be at the military's beck and call and leave whenever they received orders. It was inevitable that their families and loved ones might feel disappointed, and their friends might find them distant.

Nonetheless, they had no choice because they needed to protect their country. It was their conviction that allowed the citizens, their families, and friends to live peaceful and stable life.

Not only the soldiers, but many from different industries were also facing the same situation as them. These people were the ones who made contributions to Erudia's development, but they were also constantly being misunderstood by their close ones for the same reason.

Unknown to anyone, there existed a group of people who were selfless enough that they were willing to contribute all of their time and efforts in exchange for the country's better future. It was because of heroic people like them bearing the cross that the citizens got the chance to live a peaceful life.

The stability of the country was the result of sacrifices by countless people like Levi. Being entrusted with the mission to destroy the Blood King Palace and protect his country, he must give up his family even though his wife was pregnant with his baby.

"God of War, we don't care if we receive military punishment for disobeying the orders. Please allow us to head back to save Aunt Emma and Zoey!" Azure Dragon volunteered himself upon noticing the paleness on Levi's face.

White Tiger, whose body was covered in blood, kneeled in front of Levi. "That's right! God of War, let us save Zoey even though it would mean disobeying military orders. We are willing to accept any punishment!" Both of them were unwilling to see Zoey and Emma in danger.

Thump!

Thump!

Soon, all the soldiers followed suit and they kneeled before Levi.

Levi raised his head, trying hard to hold back his tears as he uttered through gritted teeth, "The military order is absolute; no one can disobey it! As the leader of the team, I should set a good example. This is the end of the discussion, and don't ever bring it up again."

From the moment he put on his military uniform and stepped onto the battlefield, he no longer held the identity as anyone else's husband, son, or father. As Erudia's soldier, he must prioritize his duty in protecting his country over his private affairs.

Phoenix broke out into tears. "Then what should we do now? They must be in imminent danger right now! A month has passed, and Tenichi must have prepared for revenge. Are we just going to sit here and let him harm Zoey and Aunt Emma?"

"Sir, the Blood King Palace is back again!"

The Protector Chapter 1139

Levi was at the end of his rope when the Blood King Palace came back with another wave of attack. All of the soldiers had to focus energy on it because they were facing an enemy that was too powerful.

“Charge forward on my command!” Levi gave his command, his voice loud and clear.

Chuff! Chuff! Chuff!

Just then, a Dragonite Helicopter landed on the ice sheet. A few Dragonites hopped out of the helicopter and immediately ran toward Levi. The next moment, they were all kneeling on one knee in front of him. “Greetings God of War! Please hold fire as we are here with urgent news!”

“What is it?” Levi’s heart skipped a beat.

The others were just as confused. Did the Dragonites travel all the way from Oakland City to bring them another bad news?

One of the Dragonites smiled and asked, “God of War, are you worried about your family’s safety?”

Levi nodded. “Yes, I’m very worried about them. Those previously defeated by me will definitely target my family once I leave their side.”

The Dragonite slowly explained to him, “Don’t worry, God of War. The government has taken notice of your concern as well. The re-emergence of the Blood King Palace is a part of the conspiracy of Tenichi, Raysonia’s military strategist. He did all this to send you away from Erudia so that he could seize the opportunity to capture your family and threaten you with them.”

Levi was surprised and overjoyed. The government is aware of Tenichi's conspiracy, which means Mother and Zoey are safe now!

With a smile, the Dragonite reassured them, "All soldiers that are fighting for the country, you need not worry for your family. Erudia will be your strongest backup!"

Thousands of millions of soldiers were touched by the reassurance. It was inevitable that, as a soldier, they might be required to choose between their beloved country and dearest family. Luckily, they were born in Erudia – a country whose government would protect their family while they were at the frontlines, defending the nation.

"God of War, your wife and family have headed to Keerea..."

Levi's heart sank. Zoey has really gone overseas... I guess she hates me to the core now...

He asked softly, "Are they safe?"

"Tenichi has sent at least ten thousand elites to the Stellar International Airport. They will attack as soon as your wife arrives at the airport." In a sudden change of tone, the Dragonites gave him reassuring news. "But you need not worry because we have sent someone else to protect your family. Tenichi no longer poses a threat to their safety."

"Who did you send?" Levi asked curiously.

"Winsor Campbell."

"Him?" Levi drew in a sharp breath, and his expression changed upon the mention of that name.

Winsor Campbell was his one and only competitor in the whole of Erudia. Back then, when he defeated the Eighteen-Nation Alliance of God class fighters, Winsor's achievements were only second to his.

He was crowned as the God of War, while Winsor received the title of Asura.

Winsor was a cold-blooded and merciless man. Just like what his title Asura connoted, he seemed to be a living embodiment of destruction.

Back then, he had received as much acclamation as well as criticisms for his act of annihilating the war captives. Later, for some reason, the military decided to transfer him to Oakland City.

He couldn't become someone like Levi because of his bloodthirsty nature, but he was undeniable a worthy opponent second only to the latter in terms of his combat skill and prowess in war.

The Protector Chapter 1140

He was more of a mighty warrior than a colonel!

"I'm glad that I have Asura!" Levi was both relieved and extremely touched.

Everyone in Erudia knew that the God of War and Asura were never on good terms. They were practically arch-enemies.

If it weren't for the fact that they were both mighty military leaders of Erudia, they would've fought to the bitter end.

No one in Erudia dared to disobey Levi except Asura, a.k.a. Winsor Campbell.

He'd been unhappy about Levi being the God of war as he believed that he had the edge over Levi and he should be the one bearing the title.

Their hostility towards each other never ceased.

From what Levi understood, under no circumstances would Winsor protect Zoey for him, but he did.

That showed how much Erudia had done to persuade Winsor into helping him.

It also reflected his willingness to put his personal grudges aside when in the face of Erudia's interests...

"I'm impressed, Winsor! I owe you one!" Laughed Levi.

Even if he had to hand out his title to Winsor after that, he would be more than willing to do it.

“God of War, Asura has arrived at Keerea. Your wife is in safe hands. Asura’s three disciples— Bolgun, Zar, and Talon—are on their way to protect your mother. We plead for your full allegiance in bringing Blood King Palace down. You have Erudia at your back and we are with you too!” the Dragonites roared as they saluted.

Levi saluted and led his men to the annihilation of Blood King Palace.

Somewhere around the Joneses’ Edburg Manor in South Hampton.

Just when the foreign elite fighters were about to strike, they sensed something amiss. Before they knew it, blood was jetting out from the back of their neck.

Indeed, those men were virtuosos in their field. But the people they were against were much more vicious and bloodthirsty—Bolgun, Zar, and Talon.

They bore a resemblance to their master, Asura. They were brutal, ruthless, and would show no mercy.

Emma was unscathed.

Meanwhile at Keerea’s Stellar International Airport.

Tenichi Watanabe spotted Zoey on the big screen.

“On my command...” Just as he was about to shout out his command, he smelled blood.

He turned his head around only to see all his men lying in a pool of blood.

Someone was staring at him!

It was a gauntly tall figure in a Devil’s mask.

“Erudia’s Asu... Asura...” Tenichi gulped.

“Tell your men to retreat! Don’t make me bring death to all! Zoey’s under my guard and no one touches her!” commanded Winsor.

Tenichi expressed his disbelief. “How was this even possible! You should be on bad terms with the God of War. Why have you come all the way to protect his woman? This is unbelievable!”

Everyone knew that the God of War and Asura were at loggerheads since forever.

“Indeed! You’re right! Levi and I can never get along. We may detest each other but you have forgotten something important. We are people of Erudia and no one terrorizes Erudia!” Winsor’s words pierced through the air.

Tenichi overlooked the shared pride and patriotism between Levi and Winsor for their nation.

They would willingly make peace in the face of a common enemy.

Being ever unyielding to Levi was something personal.

But when it came to the interest of Erudia, there was no place for personal disputes.

“This is unbelievable. Alright, I’ll retreat!” Tenichi immediately withdrew his men.

He could afford to provoke neither the God of War nor Asura.

Especially the latter who was known to be absolutely vindictive and would seek revenge at all cost.

With that, Zoey and the rest were safe and they left unharmed.

The Protector Chapter 1141

Tenichi and his men were all feeling pretty glum.

The elaborate plan that took them months to come up with ended with disaster.

They couldn't comprehend the patriots' devotion to Erudia and hence still couldn't fathom why Asura came to Zoey's rescue.

Shouldn't it be better for Winsor once Levi is gotten rid of?

He'd be number one in Erudia.

He'd also be the God of War.

In other words, he would benefit the most once Levi's gone.

But he came to protect Zoey.

They couldn't wrap their heads around it.

This was the most obvious difference between the ideologies of the people from Erudia and the other nations.

"That crazy Winsor is now in the picture, so there's nothing we could do! We need to come out with something else," muttered Tenichi's men.

He was at the verge of closing himself off.

They'd toiled and managed to keep the God of War at bay. Then in came Asura.

There was really nothing more they could do!

Meanwhile, Zoey was sent to the best hospital in Stellar City, waiting for the baby to be born.

"Levi said that it's unsafe outside Erudia. Like how is it unsafe?" sneered Logan.

"Why did you even bring up his name? He's nothing but a bastard!" Meredith grumbled.

Zoey glanced at everyone and snapped, "I don't wanna hear his name ever again! Never mention it in front of me again!"

"Alright..." With that, dead silence followed.

This time, anyone could tell that Zoey had given up on him.

If not, she wouldn't have gone abroad and let her child take on her last name.

In the shadows, Winsor took note of everything.

Even he, cold-hearted as he was, let out a sigh.

It was tough indeed...

"This may sound strange. After we left, I heard that the God of War left North Hampton too. I heard there's something extremely urgent that he has to deal with!" Logan tattled.

Puzzled, Meredith questioned, "Really? Didn't know there was something so important that could get him out of Erudia."

"Right? It must be something of grave urgency! Otherwise, he wouldn't have left the country!"

...

Chatters about the God of War continued.

Zoey looked out the window, she felt as calm as a millpond.

The only thing that she took heed to was the baby in her belly.

She started swiping through the photos on her phone. When she came across a photo of her and Levi, her finger droned to "Delete" deliberately.

But she hesitated as she couldn't get herself to do it.

The next one was still a photo of them.

She was wondering if she should just delete them.

A few nurses saw the photos on her phone and felt blood drained from their faces instantly.

They exchanged glances and felt a shiver down their spines.

They went for another peek, just to make sure.

Oh lord, it is him!

This hospital was the pinnacle of Keerea's medical infrastructure. People whom the nurses got to be in touch with were also elitists.

News revolving around this matter had spread through high society especially this period time.

That was why they could recognize Levi Garrison from the pictures.

"Yes?" Zoey looked up and asked, sensing nerves in those eyes.

As she put her phone away, someone asked timidly, "Ms. Lopez, is that your husband?"

"He was."

"Is he also from Erudia?" another voice popped in.

"Yes, he is," nodded Zoey.

BOOM!

Another shudder as Zoey replied. Their fear was apparent.

This woman whom they were about to take care of was the wife of that man.

That's too scary!

Zoey saw all the emotional changes in them and asked, "Hmm? It seems like you know him?"

The Protector Chapter 1142

"We... We are just curious. Why isn't he here with you?"

"Ms. Lopez, we heard that men of Erudia are especially caring to their wives!"

Given the years of experience in mingling with Keerea's upper-class elites, the nurses knew when to hold their tongue.

They changed the subject there and then.

"Oh, he must have had some business to deal with. That's why he couldn't come!"

Zoey didn't think much. The nurses reacted simply too quickly and didn't reveal much of what they actually knew.

They knew Levi couldn't come because they knew where he was...

Days passed.

Blood King Palace was way stronger than what Erudia had expected.

Fortunately, Levi was in command and could still hold them back.

All he needed was more time.

Two tormenting months went by.

That day, Levi was feeling uneasy. He couldn't put his mind to anything he was doing.

If everything went as planned, the baby would be due within these two days.

His nerves showed a high probability that Zoey was in labor.

“Zoey, I’ve failed you! I didn’t hold a proper wedding for you. I couldn’t even take care of you when you deliver the baby!” Levi mumbled under his breath.

He understood that it wasn’t a matter of compensation.

In what way could he possibly make it up to her?

He had been perpetually absent during all these important moments.

In what way could he make it up to her?

“Sorry, Zoey!” he said as he clenched his fists.

There was no time for sorrow as he once again battled with Blood King Palace.

At a hospital in Keerea.

Zoey faced another major juncture in her life...

The Lopez and Black families were waiting outside the operation room.

Emma wanted to come too but Zoey said no.

“Waaa...”

After a nerve-racking long wait, a wail finally broke the silence.

It’s the baby!

At last, the baby’s born!

It’s a girl!

Zoey gave birth to a baby girl.

She was overjoyed with tears.

Levi, while fighting on the battlefield, felt relieved all of a sudden. He charged to the front line and brawled with the elite warriors of Blood King Palace.

“Zoey, what are you gonna name her?” Everyone’s hopeful eyes fell upon Zoey.

“Let’s call her Forlevia Lopez,” she said without any hesitation.

It was obvious that she had already thought it through.

“For-levi-a? Isn’t that…”

Aaron stopped Caitlyn before she could finish her question.

Everyone there knew what that name implied.

They could also tell how much Zoey loved Levi especially these two months in Stellar City. She even sent someone to look for him discreetly when she was heavily pregnant.

Although Zoey had made up her mind, she was still holding on to the fleeting glimpse of hope.

However, the three-month wait had ground that glimpse of hope to bits.

He never came.

It seemed like he was hiding from the Garrison clan.

In less than a month, the bet between them would come due.

Forlevia!

Zoey wanted to forget Levi Garrison, once and for all!

She wanted to have no more ties with him!

“Dad, mom, let’s pack up and leave for Erudia! I can’t stay here any longer,” said Zoey.

"But you just gave birth. Your body's still very weak..." Everyone was concerned.

"Nah, it's alright! I can handle it!" She was persistent.

Everyone went back to Erudia that night.

Winsor escorted them home. That was his mission, after all.

Zoey insisted on returning to Erudia in a rush as she had something important to deal with.

The Protector Chapter 1143

Emma stood at the entrance of Royal Villa in North Hampton. She had been waiting for Zoey's return.

She rushed up to Zoey the moment she saw her.

"What are you doing here? Go away! You're not welcome here! You have nothing to do with this child!" Aaron and Caitlyn immediately stepped in and stood in her way.

Abashed, Emma looked at Zoey and pleaded, " Zoey, let me take care of you and your baby! I'll pay the deeds for that unfilial son of mine!"

"Yes, you should! That son of yours has wronged Zoey in such atrocious ways. It's only fair that you pay penance!" chimed in the rest.

"Emma, it's alright. My girl and I will be fine without you. Also, I am done with him and no one's at fault!" Zoey was firm with her words.

"Alright then. Take good care of yourself and the baby, Zoey." Emma sighed helplessly as she turned around and left.

"Emma, wait!" Zoey called out.

"Yes?"

"Come, have a look at the baby," Zoey continued.

Emma walked into the manor and burst into tears upon seeing the little baby.

As she held the baby girl, she felt the blood bond between them.

Won't it be nice if Levi never left?

How blissful it'd be to have a family!

What a shame!

This unfilial son ran away, just like Tyrone.

"Right, times up! Off you go. You're not welcome here!" Meredith shooed Emma away.

"Oh, before I forget. The baby's name is Forlevia Lopez! You can see how determined Zoey is now, right? So stay out of our sight!" sniggered Meredith as she slammed the gate shut.

Thud!

Emma quivered.

Zoey has made up her mind.

She showed me the child and proclaimed that she had fully severed ties with Levi.

The child's name...

Emma cried the whole way home...

As far as she was concerned, her life was an utter failure.

Not only did she fall for a heartless man, even her son turned out to be like him.

What a foundered life....

The Garrison clan in Oakland City

"Someone told me that Levi's child was born. Is that true?" Tyrone asked.

"Yeah, she delivered in Keerea and she is back in North Hampton. They named her Forlevia Lopez," responded Damien as he nodded.

He knew everything about Zoey and also the people around her.

Tyrone was absolutely delighted. "Haha, that's wonderful! His kid doesn't deserve the name Garrison! Not over my dead body will she bear the honor of the Garrison clan! Right, still no news of Levi? It has been three months!"

"Yeah, nothing! I would've found his body if he were dead. But there was nothing. It was almost as if he'd vanished into thin air... How is that even possible!" Damien frowned.

"That bugger is quite something to be able to avoid all our detections," Tyrone blabbed on as the corner of his mouth twitched.

"He's most probably out of Erudia. What a pathetic coward!" Damien scowled.

"Well, our bet is coming due pretty soon! I wonder how many people are following this. Who knew that this kiddo would hole up! He is nothing but a joke! Hahaha..." Tyrone let out a hearty laugh.

And again he affirmed his action of disowning Levi.

The folds on Damien's forehead remained as he popped another question, "Father, what if Levi came back on the very day the bet comes due?"

The Protector Chapter 1144

"Hmm?"

This question stumped Tyrone.

This is actually possible.

Levi might be keeping his trump card hidden all this while until the day the bet comes due.

"That's impossible!" Tyrone immediately argued. "Levi wasn't even around when his own child was born; how could he ever show up now?"

Damien nodded. "You're right. If he could leave during such a moment, there'd be even less reason for him to show up for the bet."

"Don't worry. He'll become a laughingstock if he doesn't show up."

Tyrone's face was full of contempt and mockery.

Damien sighed, "What a shame. We won't be able to see the look on Levi's face when he gets completely trashed and start begging for mercy."

Still, Damien and Tyrone hoped that Levi would come.

They wanted to show him just how powerful the Garrisons were.

They were untouchable!

Insurmountable!

How they wanted Levi to regret spewing such insolent words back then.

More than anything, they wanted to prove that Damien was more powerful than he was.

Most importantly, Tyrone had made the right decision.

Emma wants to make me regret it?

Like that'll ever happen!

What will I ever regret now that Levi has run away?

For the entire month, Zoey remained occupied despite having just given birth.

She had integrated all the resources of the Morris Group.

The woman insisted on walking the path that Levi hadn't managed to finish.

Under the combined effort of herself and Iris, Morris Group obtained notable results within a month and was now back on track.

This utterly puzzled Zoey.

Why didn't Levi work harder?

He had all the resources and connections.

It didn't take that much effort to produce results at all.

On top of that, he's so much capable than I am.

Yet, he chose to give up...

Zoey heaved a sigh.

I guess he's been planning to run off since the beginning.

All the concern he has shown me during those months was probably just to make him feel better.

Time flew by quickly, and the day of the bet between Levi and Tyrone had come.

If Levi hadn't disappeared, he would have had to be in Oakland City today to challenge the Garrisons.

If he were to succeed, he would be allowed to join them.

Otherwise, only death awaited him.

Meanwhile, Levi had been at war with Blood King Palace for four consecutive months at the battlefield of North Base One.

This time, he was adamant about completely annihilating his enemy.

"Oh, isn't today supposed to be the day of my bet with Tyrone?" Levi asked while puffing on a cigarette.

"That's right."

"Since you can't make it this time, I'm guessing the Garrison clan—or maybe even the whole of Oakland—is laughing at you."

"That's for sure. You'll surely be made a laughingstock for not showing up. That's inevitable."

Azure Dragon and the others responded to Levi simultaneously.

"Let him have his fun while it lasts," Levi remarked with a smile. "By the way, how are Zoey and the child?"

Phoenix reported everything about Zoey to Levi.

Levi's brows furrowed several times in the process, feeling as though he was right next to his wife.

Oakland City was in complete shock today.

Tens of thousands of eyes fell on the Garrison clan.

Despite knowing that Levi wouldn't come, Tyrone had decided to conduct the ceremony of accepting a challenge.

The high-ranking members of the Garrisons gathered at the entrance of the family home, with Tyrone seated on a chair.

Damien and the other juniors stood next to him on each side.

Members like Finnick, Hugh, and Titus were present too.

Whether or not Levi would show up, their stance remained.

"I've placed a bet with Levi Garrison today. I'm here in front of the Garrison family home and hereby declare that I accept his challenge!" roared Tyrone.

The Protector Chapter 1145

As the leader of the Grey Wolf Squad, Hugh is too tough of an opponent.

Finnick is a high-ranking official, so that makes him untouchable too.

When it comes to martial arts, Titus is the guardian of the Garrisons. There's probably some hope for Levi in this regard.

If we were to compete business-wise, he might stand a chance against Damien, who owns five percent of the business.

Still, it's nothing but a glimmer of hope.

Many in Erudia knew of the bet between the father and son.

Hence, a large number of citizens of Oakland City now surrounded the Garrison family home.

Such people included Tiffany Meyers and Martin Preston.

Even Benny Quinton and Abigail Rogers had come.

Unlike others, these few were here to watch how Levi crush the Garrison clan.

They knew who Levi's true identity, after all.

Most of the others had come just to watch the show.

Jason Lowe was here simply because he felt sorry for his friend.

He wished Levi would run far away instead of showing up.

“Alright. Time’s up,” the Garrison household butler announced. “Levi Garrison has yet to turn up, which means he has forfeited the challenge! A coward like him doesn’t deserve to be part of the clan. Thus, from here on, we’ll retract his last name. He shall longer be a Garrison!”

At this instant, Levi became the biggest joke in town.

He was now labeled an absolute disgrace and humiliation.

Abigail clenched her fists. “Why aren’t you here yet, Levi? Hurry up!”

Tiffany inhaled deeply. How she looked forward to seeing her Prince Charming reign terror upon the Garrison clan.

Unfortunately, Levi had already been missing for several months.

Hence, it was extremely unlikely that he would show up now.

Tyrone had even gone out of his way to bring Emma over.

Now, he turned to her and smirked. “Is there something you’d like to say now? Haha! Do you still think the same way? That you’d take Levi here before me and declare that your son is undefeatable? That the Garrisons would deeply regret it?”

Hearing the man’s sneers, Emma could only look down in despair.

Of course I’d want to do all that.

But I guess that’s just wishful thinking.

At this point, she wanted nothing else but for Levi to show up.

Even if things may not turn out well, it’s only right that he shows up.

That's how he should be; at least his conscience would be clear.

He shouldn't be hiding away like this!

Some traits are more important than life itself!

Olivia gazed at Emma with a disdainful smile. "Your son is an absolute joke, Emma. A disgrace! He's not fit to be a Garrison, nor is he ever comparable to Damien. The Garrisons officially gave you a chance, but he chose not to take it! If your son were truly powerful and won the challenge, both he and you would've been able to join the family and return to Tyrone's side."

The crowd began to comment. "We expect nothing less from the top ancient family in Erudia. Such a presence and sense of tolerance are indeed rare!"

Many citizens had nice things to say about the Garrisons accepting Levi's challenge.

Olivia smiled triumphantly and continued, "It's just unfortunate that your son doesn't even have the guts to show up, let alone win the challenge. What a useless wimp! I heard he even left his wife, child, and mother behind! He doesn't deserve to be a man—no, he doesn't even deserve to live!"

Upon hearing Olivia's insults, Emma gripped her fists so hard that her nails dug into her flesh.

Yet, there was nothing she could do to fight back.

Because Olivia had said nothing but the truth.

"The Garrisons are the number one ancient family in Erudia. Honestly, we don't ask a lot from him. Just be brave to show up for the challenge is more than enough. In fact, it doesn't even matter if he loses; he won't necessarily have to die. Yet, he doesn't even have the courage to stand here before us?" Olivia scoffed.

"Who says I don't?"

A cold voice suddenly rang out.

The Protector Chapter 1146

The voice was like a roaring thunder.

Everyone turned to the source and was instantly stunned—especially the Garrisons.

All their smiling faces froze in a blink of an eye.

Olivia, who had so much to say just a moment ago, was now dumbfounded.

As though she had been struck by lightning.

Damien paled.

Tyrone's expression turned ghastly.

So did everyone else's.

The tens of thousands of eyes immediately shifted toward the direction of that voice.

"Hmm? Wait. I think it was a woman's voice..."

Then, it dawned on everyone.

That was a woman's voice?

So it's not Levi Garrison?

Everyone had initially thought Levi had arrived.

Emma had even become ecstatic for a brief moment.

Yet, what the crowd saw next was a woman walking over with a baby in her arms.

It was none other than Zoey.

She was the one who had spoken.

“What? It’s actually her!”

Tyrone inhaled sharply.

Damien looked horrid.

What is she up to?

Emma immediately ran up to her.

“What... What are you doing here?”

She was petrified.

Zoey smiled. “I’m here to take up the Garrison clan’s challenge in my husband’s place.”

She had returned from Keerea for this.

Otherwise, she would have still been recuperating in that country.

Today was supposed to be the child’s baby shower, but she had duped both the Lopez and Black families and come to Oakland City just to fulfill the agreement.

The woman shocked everyone with her revelation.

The crowd was stupefied the moment her words fell.

Everyone stared at her in disbelief.

"My husband has other matters to take care of, so I'm here to keep his promise and challenge the Garrisons. We never go back on our word, so please take back all the insults you've made against him!" she yelled.

Emma couldn't endure it anymore. Tears began to flow down her cheeks.

Zoey hasn't forgotten about Levi.

Instead, she still loves him dearly.

She's even here to take up the challenge in his place.

Abigail, Benny, and the others were beyond moved.

Tyrone gazed at Zoey in bewilderment. "You want to take Levi's place and challenge us?"

Many among the crowd stared at her similarly.

A woman challenging the Garrisons?

And she's even here in her husband's place?

Zoey nodded in determination. "That's right."

Tyrone burst into laughter. "Are you seeing this, Levi? Your wife and one-month-old child are here to take up the challenge in your place, but where are you? You're the biggest coward and most pathetic excuse for a man I've ever met!"

Damien chimed in frostily, "This has to be the biggest joke I've seen so far. What a champ, Levi! You vanished without a trace, and now your woman and child are here to shoulder everything for you? You're not cut out to be a husband or father! How despicable!"

"I know, right? And he tried to compare himself to my son? Is he even worthy?"

Olivia's face was full of contempt.

Emma was crying profusely at this point.

It didn't matter if her son never made her proud, but now, he was now seen as an utter disgrace.

Zoey scanned the crowd. "That's nonsense! My husband isn't a scumbag, and he certainly isn't irresponsible! I'm telling all of you, he just has some urgent matters to take care of right now. He's the most responsible man I've ever met! Besides, I'm his wife; what difference does it make if I'm here instead of him?"

Damien shook his head, baffled. "Do you seriously still believe him even though you know exactly what's going on, Zoey? Stop trying to fool yourself!"

"That's right. I've always believed in my husband, and I always will!"

The Protector Chapter 1147

Zoey was loud and firm.

She had always believed in Levi, no matter what he did.

He just owes me an explanation now.

But I know he'll definitely show up.

She looked forward to hearing Levi's explanation later.

Many among the crowd were moved by Zoey's words.

To think that such an incredible woman still exists!

A woman like her is a treasure and hard to come by in today's society.

However, the more they felt moved, the more furious they were with Levi.

How could he do such a thing?

Damien roared with laughter. "Did you hear that, Levi? You sure are a lucky one! You don't deserve a wife like her! Well, the Garrison clan has strict rules to adhere to, but we're not merciless. We'll make an exception just this once and allow you to take part in the bet in Levi's place."

Tyrone agreed.

"I'm Hugh, leader of the Grey Wolf Squad. Do you think you can win?"

"No."

"I'm Finnick—"

"Nope."

"I'm Titus, guardian of the Garrison clan. I was practically born into martial arts. Can you beat me?"

"No!"

"I'm Damien, and I control five percent of the clan's businesses. Can you achieve such feats too?"

The final option would require auditing on both sides.

Zoey and Iris may have pooled together all of their resources available, but one month was still too short.

Morris Group was certainly no match for Damien's achievements in the corporate world.

Thus, everyone knew how the bet would turn out.

There was no way Zoey could win.

After all, the Garrisons were far too remarkable in all four aspects mentioned earlier.

The Garrisons began to laugh.

"Your son can't even compare to Damien's five percent, Emma; yet, he's still trying to put up a fight?"

"Hahaha! He doesn't even stand a chance against Damien! What an embarrassment!"

There was a reason the Garrisons had used these four aspects as benchmarks.

It was chosen precisely so Tyrone could humiliate Emma and Levi.

The man sneered, "In that case, I'd like to announce that Levi has lost the challenge! Do you accept this verdict, Zoey Lopez?"

"Yes, I do. It's my loss. But you can't say that my husband failed to keep his promise!"

Zoey looked resolute.

A murderous glint flashed in Damien's eyes. "Mind you—this matter doesn't end with you taking part in the bet. You'll have to pay the price of losing!"

"He's right! Levi said he'd disappear off the face of the earth if he lost."

To a prominent clan like the Garrisons, a person's life was worth nothing.

Zoey's actions might have touched the hearts of many, but the Garrisons were completely unfazed.

Rather, her action had only served to provoke them.

Zoey nodded without any hesitation. "Okay, fine. I'll bear the consequences on my own."

"No, you idiot! I'll do it. I'll bear the consequences!" Emma exclaimed while rushing over. "I'm his mother, so I'll take responsibility. You're still young, but I'll be dead soon enough."

Then, she turned to Tyrone. "Let me do it. Don't give Zoey a hard time."

"Alright. Discuss this among yourselves. It doesn't matter who pays the price, but someone has to do it!"

Tyrone looked especially stern.

The Garrison clan's dignity was on the line, after all.

That was why someone had to die.

Before Zoey could say anything else, Emma grabbed onto her. "Take good care of the child and wait for Levi. I believe he'll be back one day."

"Mom! I..."

Zoey's eyes brimmed with tears.

"I'll take responsibility for this. Levi will show up. I'm sure of it. Keep waiting for him, Zoey!"

With that, Emma walked toward Tyrone.

The Protector Chapter 1148

“Things would’ve turned out this way sooner or later, Emma! Why did you even try to fight it in the first place?” Tyrone smirked.

Emma had knelt before the entrance of the Garrison family home while she was pregnant back then.

I wouldn't have done that if I knew this day would come.

“Die!”

Tyrone’s eyes flashed coldly with not a single trace of mercy in them.

Swoosh!

One of the Garrison family’s top fighters began to swing his blade.

Crack!

Bam!

Yet, the blade broke all of a sudden, and its owner was sent flying by a mysterious force.

“Who did this? Who dares behave like this in front of the Garrisons?” Damien bellowed.

“It was me!”

A figure wearing a demon mask slowly emerged.

“Who are you?” Tyrone demanded, frowning.

No one could tell who this man was.

After all, Erudia had deliberately kept this masked man’s identity a secret after he had been defeated by Levi. On top of that, he had been assigned to silently return to Oakland City in advance.

That was why Tyrone was in the dark too.

However, Damien was well aware of this man’s identity.

He knew everything about the God of War, including the latter’s enemies.

That was why he was no stranger to Asura.

From just one look, Damien immediately knew this man was Winsor Campbell!

“The Garrisons—the top clan in Erudia—enjoys picking on women and children?” Winsor scoffed.

Despite being violent by nature, he wasn’t completely heartless.

The man had come for two reasons.

One, to perform his duty of protecting Zoey and Emma.

Two, because he couldn’t tolerate the Garrisons’ deed.

“Levi was the one who made the bet with you, so you should be looking for him instead! What are you doing picking on two women? Are you that incapable of searching for him? These two women are under my care today,” declared Winsor.

Just as Tyrone was about to fly into a rage, Damien hurriedly told him Winsor’s identity.

“Huh? It’s him?”

Tyrone was astounded.

“That’s right. He was relocated to Oakland City after some issues, but I never thought he’d show up because of this bet. We can’t afford to get into a fight with him. He’d do anything once he loses his mind!

Damien trembled as he spoke.

“Fine. The Garrisons will show you mercy just this once. We shall not punish women, but Levi will have to pay for his own sins! You are indeed a gracious woman, Zoey Lopez, but Levi doesn’t deserve you.”

Thanks to Winsor’s interference, Tyrone had no choice but to let Emma off.

“I heard that Asura is absolutely cold-hearted, merciless, and violent. Why is he backing Zoey up?”

Damien was extremely perplexed.

“I’m guessing it’s because he’s been touched by her actions. She really is a remarkable woman, after all!”

Olivia couldn’t help but look up to Zoey.

On this day, Zoey’s name spread far and wide across Oakland City.

Everyone expressed their admiration at the mention of her.

This incident became the talk of the town.

Zoey and Emma hurriedly went up to Asura. “Thank you for your help. May I know who you—”

Asura cut them off. “You don’t need to know who I am, nor do you need to thank me.”

He gazed deep into Zoey’s eyes and remarked coldly, “You are indeed worthy of Levi.”

Then, he left right after saying something this unusual.

“Huh?”

The crowd was bewildered.

Isn't it about whether or not Levi is worthy of Zoey?

Why did he say that instead?

Was he mistaken?

Even Zoey and Emma found it strange.

Even so, they didn't think too much about it and left with the child.

The Protector Chapter 1149

With that, the bet between Levi and Tyrone came to an end.

Levi suffered a complete defeat—a terrible one at that.

He had become the biggest disgrace by now.

On the contrary, Zoey won the respect of almost everyone in Oakland City.

It was Tiffany's first time seeing the woman.

Levi used to say that she was no match for Zoey.

That was why she wanted to find out what Zoey looked like.

Considering that the latter had just given birth, worked herself to the bone for the past month, and shown up bare-faced, she certainly didn't look as attractive compared to her.

Hence, she was disappointed at first glance.

But after what had happened, Tiffany understood why she had lost to Zoey.

I'll never be as good as her.

Meanwhile, far up North, Levi had just received word of Zoey meeting the Garrisons.

"Arghh!"

With a roar, the ice beneath his foot cracked beyond a thousand meters.

“Thankfully, Asura saved them just in time. They’re fine now,” Phoenix reported.

Levi took a deep breath. “Looks like I owe him another one. I’d gladly let him take over as God of War. I was just thinking of spending the rest of my time with Zoey and the baby anyway.”

Azure Dragon and the others immediately argued, “You can’t do that! You’re the only one who’s worthy of such a title. He can’t replace you.”

“Yeah! He’s not even close when it comes to ability. Not just any barbarian gets to be God of War,” added White Tiger.

Levi chuckled. “You guys clearly don’t understand him. He’d never accept the position if I offer it to him.”

“You scared us!”

Everyone patted their own chests.

If Levi were to give up his position, the country would be in utter chaos.

“We’re going to have to work even harder now, team. Let’s demolish Blood King Palace as quickly as possible!” Levi shouted.

“I’ve noticed something, General,” remarked White Tiger. “I vividly remember how we took down many members of Blood King Palace three years ago, but how did they survive? In fact, they’ve become stronger in just after three years!”

“I’ve realized this too. They’re really bizarre. It’s like they’re attacking us blindly without any goal in mind.”

“Yeah. Just the fact that they’ve initiated the attack on us is really weird.”

The others were just as confused.

Levi’s eyes briefly flashed with murderous intent. “Let’s not think about this. Once we destroy Blood King Palace, all its mysteries will be solved too.”

“Got it!” everyone responded.

Levi proceeded to gather more forces.

It was all so he could get rid of Blood King Palace once and for all.

Another year passed, and finally, Levi wiped out Blood King Palace in its entirety.

To prevent its return, he annihilated every single member of the group and refused to rest until he was sure that none of them could ever come back to life.

After a game of tug-of-war spanning a year and a half, they finally emerged victorious.

According to the estimation then, it should have taken them at least four years to eliminate Blood King Palace.

Now, Levi’s trip home had been brought forward by over one and a half years.

The God of War sent waves across the world upon defeating Blood King Palace once again.

As Erudia soared, the rest of the world trembled at its presence.

Those who had initially planned to attack Levi now gave in completely.

After all, he was the only one who could defeat Blood King Palace.

No one else could come close to his achievement!

He was still the God of War, but stronger than before.

“I can finally go home! Mom, Zoey, my dear child—I’m coming home!”

It was time for Levi to return.

How he looked forward to seeing his family...

The Protector Chapter 1150

The nation underwent many big changes within the past year.

First off was the Garrison clan.

On the day Zoey challenged the Garrisons, Damien had been appointed as the successor of the clan.

Previously, the Garrison clan worked behind the scenes as Erudia's most prominent ancient family.

But after Tyrone and his son took over, the clan began to operate with a different strategy.

Tyron and Damien started by winning over all the Garrison clan's collateral relatives and gaining absolute power over the entire clan.

Then, they set up a humongous financial group and took control of all its funds.

Moreover, Damien even founded a special combat club to recruit the best fighters in Erudia and all over the globe.

Despite the organization being known as a club, it was, in fact, merely a way for the Garrisons to obtain more pawns.

This was precisely Tyrone's and Damien's intention—to take control of as much wealth and power as possible while also having an array of martial artists at their command.

Then, the Garrisons' influence spread across Bayview and other nations.

Within just a year, the Garrison clan became even more powerful than before.

It sat comfortably in its position as the number one ancient family in Erudia.

In addition, being a son-in-law of the Garcia family meant Damian could utilize both the Garrisons' and Garcias' resources.

With that, the father-son duo now headed the two most powerful ancient families.

No one in Erudia could go against them.

Only few clans in Bayview were any match for them.

There was one other person who had changed drastically within the year.

It was Zoey.

Within a short period of time, Zoey expanded Morris Group tenfold.

Thus, she was now known as the Queen of the South's Corporate World.

Aside from her own hard work, she also had a benefactor.

Erudia was full of prominent families, but there were only eight that could truly be referred to as ancient families.

Many people were touched by her courage on the day she challenged the Garrisons.

In fact, the head of the third most prominent ancient family in Erudia, Dale Lehman, declared his intention to take Zoey as a goddaughter and Forlevia as his god-granddaughter.

With the Lehman family's help, the Garrisons renounced their boycott against Morris Group, thus allowing Zoey's career to skyrocket.

Her situation was not what Levi had expected at all.

The mother-daughter duo didn't suffer at all. In fact, they were doing extremely well now.

Levi had thought that Zoey would surely be living a hard life from being constantly oppressed.

That Forlevia would be abhorred by both the Lopez and Black families, and resort to finding food on the streets.

Yet, the child was now loved by everyone, just like a princess.

She was Dale's god-granddaughter, after all.

Who would dare treat her poorly?

Emma would occasionally drop by to see her too.

Everyone's lives seemed to flourish.

All that was missing was Levi.

Even so, they had grown accustomed to not having him around.

So much time had passed that he was slowly being forgotten.

There were even rumors that Levi was already dead.

That he had been secretly murdered by the Garrisons.

However, the Garrisons never clarified this rumor. All they said was that he had disappeared.

Even Zoey herself had once suspected that this was true.

After all, there was solid proof of the rumor.

If Levi was alive, why hadn't he appeared after more than a year?

Hence, it was highly likely that he had died.

Even so, Zoey, Emma, and a few others continued to believe that he was still alive.

For the past few days, Erudia was abuzz with excitement.

The country's hero—the God of War—had defeated Blood King Palace once again and brought glory to Erudia.

“Remember, Evie; you should always look up to people like the God of War!” Iris beamed while carrying the little girl.

She happened to be reading a news article about the God of War.

Zoey smiled too.

Suddenly, the child became wide-eyed as she stared at the back of the mighty figure in the picture. “Da... Daddy... Daddy!”

The Protector Chapter 1151

Iris chuckled upon hearing that. “That’s not your daddy, Evie! It’d be great if he were, though!”

Zoey sighed. “Let’s not joke about the God of War, Iris. He’s no ordinary human. He’s a god.”

“Oh, wasn’t Evie’s first word ‘daddy’? You really worked hard on that.”

Iris remembered how Zoey had taught the child to say ‘daddy’ first instead of ‘mommy’.

That was why Forlevia’s very first word was ‘daddy’.

Iris gazed at Zoey sternly. “Zoey, I know you still love Levi, but you have to accept how things are now. Even if he’s still alive, he probably won’t come back. Who knows, he might have even followed his dad’s footsteps and found himself another wife. It’s not impossible.”

Thump.

Zoey’s heart sank.

There was certainly a possibility.

This was what Tyrone did, after all.

It wasn’t unusual if his son did the same.

“You’ve been shouldering everything on your own. The burden’s just too heavy! You’re still young, so I suggest you find another man to walk the path with you for the rest of your life. Evie needs a father too,” Iris said earnestly.

Zoey disagreed. “Let’s not talk about this anymore, Iris. Besides, I have a child now. Who would ever want me?”

Iris was amused. “Oh, please, Zoey. Don’t you have lots of men chasing after you? They don’t care if you have Evie! Who would say no to you anyway, considering who you are right now? You’re not lacking in any aspect!”

Suddenly, Zoey recalled how her godfather, Dale, wanted to get her married.

The man treated her and Forlevia so well that Zoey didn’t know how to turn this matter down.

“Mr. Lehman likes you a lot, Zoey, so he’ll definitely find you a good husband. Don’t worry. I’m sure you’ll be happy. The guy he’s picked out will be here in North Hampton tomorrow. Why don’t you give it a thought after meeting him?” Iris smiled.

Zoey let out a sigh. “I guess I’ll do that.”

However, she had no other intention on this.

All she wanted was to fulfill her godfather’s wishes.

“Yeah, I know you’ll be pleased with him. Do it for Evie! Besides, Ms. Jones has agreed to it too, hasn’t she?”

Emma knew about this too, and she had given her consent.

The next day, Percy Convington suddenly led his subordinates to one of North Hampton’s remote entrances. There was no traffic here; instead, it was an area with steep terrains that were difficult to maneuver. Tourists were usually prohibited from coming here.

As the men stood in two straight lines, Percy paced back and forth as though waiting for someone.

Finally, the sound of engine rumbling began to surface half an hour later.

Soon, war vehicles began to make their way over.

The first few bore flags that danced in the wind.

Apart from the flag of Erudia, there were also flags with the words 'God of War' on them.

A mighty presence emerged.

Percy and his subordinates immediately saluted.

"The Iron Brigade has returned! The God of War has returned!" Percy shouted.

The soldiers standing in rows began to shout too.

Levi and his team were back.

They were Erudia's invincible troop!

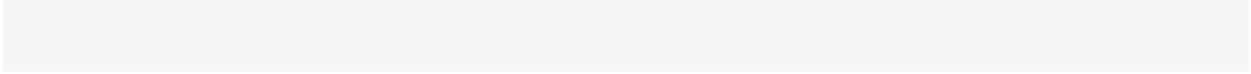

The pride of the country!

The very souls of Erudia's army!

Not only had they defeated Blood King Palace for the second time, but they had miraculously done so in just half the estimated time needed.

The vehicles stopped.

A window rolled down, revealing Levi's face.

The Protector Chapter 1152

The god-like man was back.

Percy and his men had nothing but respect and admiration for him.

This man had done what no one else in the world could do—twice.

Moreover, Blood King Palace had become even more powerful the second time round.

Yet, Levi and his forces had created an absolute miracle.

But instead of heading to Oakland City to receive his accolade, Levi had chosen to return to North Hampton discreetly.

The true hero doesn't seek adulation, he fights for what is right simply because it's his nature. Percy couldn't help but think to himself.

On the same day, the man Dale had arranged to be Zoey's suitor arrived in North Hampton.

If Zoey were childless, Dale would have definitely chosen for her to marry someone within his own family.

However, the Lehmans were the third most prominent ancient family in Erudia. They still had to watch their reputation.

Still, the man Dale had chosen was an exceptional one.

He was Jerry Gott, the successor of an imperial family in Oakland City.

He ranked third on the Heir Leaderboard.

This man was no wastrel, and he certainly wasn't a philanderer.

There was not a single negative rumor about him.

Oakland City referred to him as a true gentleman.

That was why he was also known as Saint Jerry.

Jerry didn't top the Heir Leaderboard, but he was an all-rounder.

Dale had spent a great deal of time deciding on this man.

Furthermore, Jerry was willing to marry Zoey, and he accepted the fact that she had a child.

Marrying a woman who already had a child was a disgrace to imperial families.

But still, Zoey was Dale's goddaughter.

Hence, the imperial Gott family had no choice but to accept this.

Accompanying Jerry was Dale's eldest son, Edwin Lehman.

Edwin had a ferociousness akin to a warlord.

He was hot-tempered and extremely capable.

Many in Oakland City feared him.

However, he treasured his god sister dearly.

Many young heirs had coveted Zoey, only to have their limbs broken by Edwin.

That was why no one had dared cross Zoey for the past year.

All her other suitors fled with terror upon hearing that Edwin's presence.

Jerry was the only man he seemed to approve of.

"You'd better treat my god sister well, Jerry. You'll be sorry if you don't!" Edwin threatened.

"I understand, Edwin," Jerry replied with a nod. "I'm very fond of Ms. Lopez's talents and abilities."

Despite saying this, a peculiar glint flashed in his eyes.

The two parties met at the Golden Hotel.

After talking to each other, Jerry seemed extremely pleased with Zoey.

He readily accepted the fact that the woman was once married and already had a child.

"So, what do you think?" asked Edwin.

Jerry nodded. "I'm very impressed. I'd be more than willing to marry you, Ms. Lopez. I'll take care of you and Evie for life. Everything may seem too sudden right now, but we can always take our time."

Both Zoey and Iris were taken aback.

He's that straightforward?

They had thought the man would at least take some time to consider this.

Edwin nodded in satisfaction. "Alright. I'll take it from here, then. Dad will be thrilled to hear this."

The Lehman family was in charge of handling everything regarding this matter.

There was no need to listen to any of Zoey's suggestions.

"Wait! I do have one condition, however," Jerry suddenly called out.

Even Zoey froze.

She was just about to express her disagreement, but Jerry had beat her to it.

“What is it?” asked Edwin.

“I’d gladly marry Ms. Lopez and care for Evie, but I have just one request, which has something to do with the Gott family’s reputation. Can Evie’s last name be Gott instead? This is all I ask for,” Jerry answered earnestly.

After all, the Gott family was an imperial family. Taking a once-married woman as a wife and having to raise her child was shameful enough for them. What more, the child didn’t even take Gott as her last name.

“Why should my child bear your last name?”

The Protector Chapter 1153

Just as Jerry made his request, a loud voice boomed across the room like thunder.

Everyone was shocked.

Zoey and Iris were immediately stupefied upon hearing that familiar voice.

Could it be...

No. It can't be him...

The women trembled involuntarily as they exchanged glances.

With her big, innocent eyes, Forlevia gazed in the direction of the entrance.

At the very moment, a tall, mighty figure emerged.

It was Levi!

At present, the man looked rather worn-out. There was soot on his face, and his clothes were tattered as though he had just escaped the jaws of death.

Still, none of that diminished the murderous energy he now emitted. Everyone's scalp began to tingle as goosebumps formed on their skin.

Levi had just returned from the battlefield, so he had no time to tidy himself.

He had come over hastily right after enduring the hardships of a long journey.

Edwin and Jerry were stunned upon seeing Levi.

Who is he?

Is he some refugee?

"I'm back, Zoey," Levi announced.

"Huh?"

Zoey was utterly dumbfounded.

She had imagined Levi's return countless times, even dreaming about it in her sleep.

Yet, the woman was bewildered now that Levi was actually standing right in front of her.

She couldn't tell if this was reality or just a dream.

Right now, she could only stare at him...

But Levi's eyes were on the child.

Forlevia stared right back at him.

They looked so similar to each other!

The little girl had his eyes and demeanor.

Everything else about her closely resembled Zoey.

At this moment, an intense feeling of familial love began to surface within Levi.

It was something he had never felt before.

This child was his!

Levi strode over and took the child from the nanny's arms.

Forlevia was extremely timid and would usually cry if a stranger picked her up.

Yet, when Levi carried her, not only did she not cry, but she even gazed at him with curiosity.

“Daddy... you’re Daddy!” the child suddenly cried out.

Boom!

Upon hearing the sweet child’s voice, Levi instantly froze and his mind went blank.

He had never experienced being a father.

This little girl in his arms was like the most precious gem he had ever owned—the most important piece of himself.

“Daddy’s back! Daddy’s back!”

Forlevia was a bright child. She had long remembered Levi’s face after frequently seeing Zoey looking at his photos.

Zoey had never mentioned who the man in the photo was, but the child knew that he was her father.

“My little girl!”

Levi held the child in his arms tightly.

Then, he suddenly began to cry.

To think there was such a gentle side to the man who stood on the top of the mountain...

“Hey! What are you up to? Why did you take the child? Give her back!” the nanny frantically yelled at Levi.

Levi responded politely, “Hello, ma’am. I’m the child’s father.”

“Oh, please! The child’s father is long dead! Everyone knows that.”

The nanny clearly wasn't buying it.

"But I really am her father!" Levi insisted.

"Then do you know her name?" A cold voice suddenly rang out.

Jerry and Edwin walked toward Levi.

"I..."

Indeed, Levi had no idea.

Phoenix had found out the child's name long ago, but she never told him.

The little girl didn't bear his last name anyway.

"Are you here just to cause a scene? I won't let that happen!"

While speaking, Jerry gave Levi a shove.

Pfft!

Staggering, Levi spewed a mouthful of blood.

The Protector Chapter 1154

No one had expected this from Levi.

Not even Levi himself.

The man gave his mouth a wipe as a look of disbelief formed on his face.

He could feel something different within his body.

He felt especially frail and was even beginning to have double vision.

Am I... injured?

That can't be.

We may have fought Blood King Palace for over a year, but no one has managed to hurt me.

Could it be...

Levi began to recall.

During the final battle with Blood King Palace, Levi had faced Bloodking and the Four Bloodmasters on his own.

Ultimately, he had the last laugh and all of them died in his hands.

But before Bloodking drew his last breath, he told Levi, "I'll be waiting for you down below."

Back then, Levi merely thought the man was just spewing nonsense and paid no attention to it.

But now that this was happening...

Realization quickly dawned on Levi.

I've been poisoned!

Blood King Palace was the most terrifying force in the Western Dark World. They were ruthless in everything they did.

Thus, the act of poisoning someone was nothing out of the ordinary for them.

But how could I not have known about this? I'm only feeling it now.

"Cough, cough..."

Levi coughed two more times, only to expel more blood.

This poison is insane.

Those who were aware of Levi's true abilities knew how powerful he was.

Most toxins had no effect on his body at all.

In fact, for the past six years, he had been poisoned multiple times.

Yet, this was the first time his body was having a reaction.

Bloodking must have done it right before he died, just so I'd join him eventually.

Or maybe... his true purpose was simply to kill me!

This poison really is something else.

"Are... Are you okay?" asked Zoey and Iris after returning to their senses.

Even Jerry jumped in fright.

He had only given Levi a light shove, yet the latter had suddenly sprayed blood out of his mouth.

“What have you done? How did you turn out this way?” Zoey choked.

Levi looked so miserable right now.

His face was white as a sheet, and blood trickled from his mouth. The man looked like he had just narrowly escaped death.

Where did he run off to in the past year?

Did I jump to conclusions about him?

Could he have been dealing with something really important?

Levi smiled. “I’m fine.”

As he adjusted his body and forced himself to suppress the toxins, his complexion quickly returned to normal.

“Daddy’s okay!” Forlevia yelped with excitement.

“Who the hell are you? Give me back my daughter!”

With a frosty look on his face, Jerry tried to take the child away from Levi.

But the latter easily evaded him.

“Your child? Bullsh*t! This is my child!” Levi raged.

Jerry turned red with fury.

His marriage with Zoey had been arranged by Dale Lehman himself.

Everyone in Oakland City was already aware of this. Even many in the whole country knew that Zoey belonged to him.

Yet, someone had decided to show up all of a sudden and snatch his child?

How could he ever allow that?

Jerry glared daggers at Levi.

The former had also studied martial arts since young and was second to Martin Preston on the Heir Leaderboard in this regard.

“Do you have a death wish? Hand the child over right now!”

Edwin was beginning to lose his patience too.

A hostile atmosphere instantly surrounded the entire place.

Zoey and Iris hastily stepped in. “Edwin! Mr. Gott! Don’t do anything rash! We know this man.”

“Who is he?” asked Edwin.

“He’s Levi Garrison!”

Hearing that, Edwin immediately flew into a fit of rage. “So he’s the b*stard who abandoned you and Evie?”

The Protector Chapter 1155

They hadn't heard him when he mentioned who he was, but now that they knew, even Jerry stared at him in bewilderment.

So he's that scumbag?

The guy everyone in the country calls a cowardly disgrace?

Zoey immediately jumped to Levi's defense. "No, he never abandoned us. Isn't he here right now?"

"Hah! Where was he when you gave birth to Evie? Where was he when went to face the Garrisons head-on? Where was he when you and Emma Jones were ready to die for him, and what about the time you raise the child on your own?"

Zoey fell silent at Edwin's string of questions.

She couldn't deny the truth.

"The Garrisons have forgotten about him, the child has grown up, and you're now the Queen of the Corporate World. And now, he's finally shown up! This spineless man is here only because the danger's gone. Isn't it obvious? Are you really still going to believe him?" Edwin remarked.

"I..."

Zoey was tongue-tied.

Even Iris gazed at Levi in disappointment.

No matter how urgent his matters may have been, he shouldn't have left Zoey when she needed him most.

Even if he really had to, he should've at least told her what was going on.

He disappeared for over a year and finally shows up now. What's the point then?

What more, he shows up at this time so it was very suspicious!

"Don't protect him, Zoey!" Edwin demanded. "You should be treating him like a stranger or even a dead man! He's gone. This isn't him! A guy like him isn't worthy of your sacrifices"

The others chimed in too. "That's right, Zoey. He doesn't deserve you!"

Levi gazed at Zoey apologetically. "I'm sorry, Zoey. I've disappointed you for the second time. No amount of words can describe how sorry I feel. I promise there won't be a third time."

"If apologies could fix everything, I'd have just apologized for every mistake I've made. So, can I kill someone and say I'm sorry?" Edwin roared.

Even Iris was infuriated.

Zoey didn't do all this just to hear you tell her that you're sorry.

You're heartless, Levi.

"I promise never to leave you and the baby again. I—"

Iris cut him off. "That's enough. You've said that once in the past. All that talk about spending the rest of your life with Zoey and giving her the world—none of that means anything when you weren't even there for her while she was giving birth."

Levi had no idea how distanced he and Zoey had become in his absence of one-and-a-half-year, nor was he aware of how much he had hurt her.

Hence, it was futile trying to explain himself.

“I really didn’t mean to abandon you, Zoey. Why do you think I’ve come back?”

Jerry glared at him haughtily. “Aren’t you going to give Ms. Lopez an explanation behind your year-long absence? Do you think she’d accept you just like that?”

Zoey turned to Levi too.

She had been waiting for an explanation all this while, and finally, that day had come.

“Well, what are you waiting for?” Iris demanded. “Where have you been the past year? What did you do? Tell us everything. You owe Zoey and Evie an explanation no matter what!”

Zoey nodded. “Yeah. Iris has said exactly what’s been on my mind. I demand an explanation.”

The Protector Chapter 1156

Both Jerry and Edwin glanced at Levi contemptuously.

They were curious to find out what kind of nonsense he was about to make up.

"I..."

Levi began to hesitate.

"Go on! You're not going to say you were busy protecting the country, are you?"

"Well, that's possible. Someone like him could come up with anything!"

Levi gazed at Zoey. "Yes, I was indeed protecting the country. I really had no choice. It was a top-secret operation, so I couldn't tell you about it."

But right after he finished speaking, the few of them glared at him with fury.

"Did you hear that, Zoey? He's full of sh*t! To think he has the balls to say he was protecting the nation!"

Edwin was livid.

He had always been hot-tempered, and everyone in Oakland City feared his existence as though he was Hades.

Most importantly, he despised people like Levi most.

Even Zoey was skeptical with what he said.

"I said I want an explanation. I didn't ask you to manipulate me with your lousy excuses!"

Zoey spoke hoarsely with tears brimming in her eyes.

"Forget it, Zoey," Edwin scoffed. "We don't need to hear his explanation. He has nothing to do with you and Evie anymore."

"Nothing to do with them? What the hell do you mean by that? The child is mine!"

Levi began to get worked up.

"The child's name is Forlevia Lopez, do you understand?" shouted Edwin. "Zoey's forgotten all about you. She thinks you're dead! Where were you while she was in labor? Have you performed a single duty as a father? What the hell are you doing here now?"

"How dare you come back, Levi Garrison? I'll kill you, you b*stard!"

A furious voice came from the entrance. Both the Lopez and Black families had arrived.

Meredith attempted to strike Levi with her walking stick.

"No, Grandma!"

Zoey frantically stopped her.

"I have no words for you, Levi Garrison. How dare you show yourself and bother Zoey?"

Aaron and Caitlyn were beyond exasperated.

"Zoey is now the Queen of the Corporate World. She's also the goddaughter of Mr. Dale Lehman, the head of Erudia's third-ranked ancient family. She's way out of your league!"

"And you're coming back to your wife and daughter only now? How shameless can you be? Get out of here!"

“Take a look at yourself! You look like a refugee. Do you actually think you’re cut out for Zoey?”

Harry and the others proceeded to humiliate Levi.

Zoey did nothing to stop them.

Levi’s past actions had indeed crossed the line.

Hence, she felt everyone had a point.

“Give me the baby.”

Zoey snatched Forlevia from Levi.

“I’m telling you, Levi, Mr. Dale Lehman has arranged for Zoey to marry Jerry Gott, the third on the Heir Leaderboard. You’re out of luck now,” Meredith remarked with a smirk.

“Dear elders, I have but one request—I’d like Evie to bear my last name,” Jerry pleaded sincerely.

“Okay, we’ll take care of this. Once Zoey marries you, Evie will have her last name changed to Gott.”

“Yup, we’ll do just that!”

Aaron, Caitlyn, and the other members of the family immediately agreed.

Right in front of Levi, they made plans to change the child’s last name.

Anyway, the child was never a Garrison to begin with.

Everyone began discussing among themselves, disregarding Levi.

“Did you even ask for my opinion before deciding on that?” he demanded.

“Huh? Your opinion? What does this have to do with you?”

“Evie’s real father is long dead. Who the hell are you? Why would we need your opinion?”

“Get the he*I out of here!”

The Protector Chapter 1157

Levi's face was cold as he articulated each word clearly, "Don't force me!"

He exuded a murderous aura as he spoke.

The people around him felt as though there was a heavyweight pressed on their chests, making it difficult to breathe.

Meredith became furious upon seeing Levi acting like a wild beast. "What? Are you gonna hit me?"

Everyone could feel his intense desire to kill someone, and both Jerry and Edwin fell into a daze that instant.

The man standing before them gave off a vibe of a powerful master.

But that's not possible!

We knew everything about him. There's no way he could be a master.

A flash of killing intent flashed through Levi's eyes as he growled, "I'll kill whoever that changes my child's last name! Just know that I don't make frivolous remarks!"

"How dare you? I will change Evie's surname whether you like it or not. She'll be called Forlevia Gott from now on! There, I said it!" Edwin roared, obviously enraged by Levi's words.

"Mr. Lehman, you're Zoey's godbrother. You definitely have the right to change the child's surname!" Meredith and the others said in an unctuous manner.

“Are you going to kill me?” he provoked as he gave Levi a push.

Meanwhile, Meredith and the others were happy to see the situation unfold.

They knew that Edwin was hot-tempered, and he was capable of terrifying things, so death would be Levi’s only outcome for provoking him.

Once they had gotten rid of him, Zoey would definitely give up completely.

“You’re asking for it!”

At that moment, Levi’s fury was obvious, and he was about to murder someone soon.

He had been living his life in a violent world for a whole year, so he would easily give in to his murderous intent was very irritable.

To put it simply – Levi was just like a gunpowder keg that was highly flammable.

This is outrageous! Who does he think he is – trying to change my daughter’s surname?

Right then, Edwin slowly advanced towards him and sneered, “Come on. Didn’t you say that you’re going to kill me? Make a move, then.”

“Die!” the latter roared.

As he said this, a violent, domineering aura filled the space. How he wished he could kill Edwin on the spot.

At the same moment, a pang of terror washed over Edwin.

Looking at Levi’s face, Edwin felt as though he would actually be killed soon. Hence, his expression changed drastically.

“Levi Garrison!!” a voice suddenly screamed at the most critical moment.

Emma rushed over and blocked Levi’s way. Then, she gave him a slap across his face. “You unfilial son! How dare you come back? What are you doing? Have you gone crazy?”

The latter's face darkened, but he put on a strong front as he looked at his mother.

He didn't blame anyone.

Just like many other soldiers, many things were out of their control. Their family and friends couldn't understand them.

However, some things were secrets that couldn't be told to anybody, and because of that, their hands were tied.

"Why did you come back? Zoey had already forgotten about you. She's going to get married to someone else and is about to live a happy life. Are you here to ruin their relationship?" Emma scolded angrily.

In truth, she wasn't trying to criticize Levi but was actually protecting him.

If he had actually made a move earlier, Edwin would've killed him.

That was why she was putting on an act to protect her son.

When Emma slapped him earlier, it may have hurt him physically, but it also hurt her heart to do so.

"Unless I die, I will never let anybody change my daughter's surname!" Levi insisted.

"Alright then. Let me ask you this, where were you when Evie was born? Where were you when Zoey stood before the Garrison family's doors, fulfilling her promise? Ask yourself this, do you really have the right to be their husband and father?" Emma asked.

At the same time, Zoey was crying profusely when she said, "You didn't even give me an explanation!"

"Follow me back to the Garrison family in Oakland City, Zoey. I'll give you an explanation!" Coldness shone in Levi's eyes as he spoke.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1158

He couldn't let the matter with the Garrison family from Oakland City off so easily. Besides, he wanted to give Zoey an explanation and clear his mother's name too.

Three of these things could be resolved together.

However, everyone was shocked by his words.

Back to Oakland City?

To the Garrison family?

Is this fella crazy?

The Garrison family finally forgot about this, yet he seems so eager to get himself killed.

That's Erudia's most powerful ancient family!

Even Dale Lehman has to show them respect!

Zoey glanced at Levi with a puzzled look on her face. "You... Why would you want to go to the Garrison family? Weren't you supposed to give me an explanation? What does this have to do with them?"

"Zoey, please just give me another chance. If I can't give you a perfect explanation, I'll leave on my own," he said while looking at her in anticipation.

“Who do you think you are? Another chance? Are you even worthy of it?” People from the Lopez and Black families began grumbling upon hearing what he had said.

Levi hasn't made any progress at all. It's always the same things coming from him.

Yet he still has the audacity to ask for another chance in a situation like this?

Just then, a glint flashed through Emma's eyes as an idea popped into her head. She was afraid that Levi would act on impulse and do something stupid.

Hence, she spoke up, “No! Zoey, you can't give him any more chances. What he did this time is unforgivable.”

Emma was actually being so insistent because she wanted to protect her son.

Then Edwin said while looking at Zoey, “Your father arranged this wedding, Zoey. If you give him a chance, your father will definitely be upset.”

“I-” she stuttered as she was in a dilemma.

At that moment, Jerry shouted, “I, Jerry Gott, have always been a passive person. I acted impulsively earlier. However, I want to give my blessings. So why don't we just go to Oakland City and see what he has to say for himself? After all, destroying someone's marriage is a sin.”

Everyone's eyes lit up when they heard what Jerry had said.

What a gentleman.

Mr. Lehman definitely picked the right person.

“Well, since Jerry said it himself, we'll do what you asked for. We'll head to Oakland City and see for ourselves just what kind of explanation you'll be giving Zoey,” Edwin replied.

All of them stopped with the arguments after that.

“Although, I have one condition. Before you've given us the explanation, you are not allowed to see Zoey and your daughter,” Aaron immediately added.

"All of you don't have to worry. I'll be bringing Zoey and the kid to the Lehman residence. No matter how powerful he is, he wouldn't be able to get in."

After that, Levi left with Emma while Zoey and the others headed to Oakland City.

"What are you doing? The Garrison family isn't pursuing the matter, yet you're going to them on your own?"

Emma was so anxious even her tone had changed.

However, Levi smiled and replied, "Mom, I'm not the only one that has to go. You have to as well! Did you forget your dream already?"

"Uh..."

That dream of mine is just wishful thinking.

It will never come true.

Especially when my son went missing for half a year. Besides, I have nothing. How in the world could I ever fulfill my dream?

"I'll make your dream come true this time, Mom. You should get ready, and then we'll head to Oakland City."

This time, he would finally make a move against the Garrison family.

"Oh, alright then! It's now or never!"

Emma decided then and there that she would die with her son.

Then, Levi gathered Azure Dragon and the others.

"Azure Dragon, we're about to head to Oakland City soon. Are you ready?" he asked.

He needed to settle his own matters as well as Azure Dragon's while at Oakland City.

The latter stayed silent for a moment before answering, "Yes! Here I come, Stuart family!"

His eyes burned with fury at the thought of Curtis and the fiancée who betrayed him.

He had held it in for so many years, waiting for the day he was strong enough. Now, the day had finally come.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1159

Zoey and the rest arrived at Oakland City first, and they stayed at the Lehman residence in the meantime.

They saw an authoritative old man sitting in there the moment they entered.

Though he was seated, his aura was so intimidating and heavy that everyone found it difficult to breathe.

It's Dale Lehman!

The head of the third ancient family in Erudia.

In the eyes of an ordinary person, he was just like a god.

"What? That b*stard is back?" Dale spat.

As a blunt and righteous person, he liked Zoey's personality. At the same time, he was disgusted by Levi for abandoning his wife and daughter.

"Yes! He even tried to ruin the engagement you planned and take his daughter away," Edwin said.

Dale glared at him and asked, "Where did that temper of yours go? Shouldn't you have broken his legs for doing so?"

The latter hung his head. "Father, I was going to cripple him, but Jerry said that we should see just what kind of explanation he would give Zoey. Jerry's a gentleman after all, and he wanted to give his blessings."

Hearing that, Dale sneered, "Hmmp! What kind of explanation could a shameless person like him give? He's just like his father. They would do anything just to get what they want. The excuses they give are just too much! Besides, so what if he'd given her an explanation? Is he worthy enough for my daughter? Based on his identity and his background, do you really think he's worthy?"

He then changed the topic, "Unless he becomes the young master of the Garrison clan, I will not accept him! He needs to show me that he's capable if he really wants his wife and daughter back. I will never accept it if I'm not satisfied."

Zoey knew that it was bad when she saw that her godfather's face was black with rage.

Yet, she didn't have the guts to go against what he said.

After all, he was a person of virtue and prestige. Everything he did was for her sake.

"I heard that he wants to go to the Garrison residence?" Dale asked.

"Yes. Apparently, he wants to go there to give Zoey an explanation. Although, I don't know what it is."

"Alright, then. We'll wait and see just what exactly he'd do," Dale said furiously.

Meanwhile, Levi and his group arrived at Oakland City.

It was his first time here.

Well, technically, he had received awards countless times, but he rejected it every time.

I am here, and I'm here to conquer.

Azure Dragon seemed like a completely different person the moment he stepped foot into Oakland City.

He clenched his fists tightly.

I'm back!

I'm here to take back what belongs to me.

Curtis, Eldora and Grandpa. Are you guys ready?

"Boss, are we heading to the Garrison residence straight away?" Kirin asked.

"No, we'll need to help Azure Dragon take care of his matter first. I'll deal with mine a little later."

Levi was always like that, putting others before himself.

"Alright. Thanks, boss!"

Tears of joy escaped Azure Dragon's eyes as he had been waiting for this moment for so long.

It didn't take long before the news regarding Levi's return reached the Garrison family.

"What? He actually resurfaced?" Tyrone asked in shock.

He thought that Levi would stay hidden for the rest of his life and would never show his face anymore.

"Not only has he resurfaced, but he also even plans to come to us!" Damien replied.

"Does he have a death wish?" Tyrone's eyes were ice-cold as he spoke.

"I don't know. But based on the news I heard, Levi looked miserable, as if he was a refugee. I even heard that he coughed up blood after someone pushed him," the latter said.

"He's probably going to prove something to Zoey by coming here – probably to prove that he wasn't going to back down."

Tyrone snorted, "Hah! Using the Garrison family to prove himself? How naïve of him. Okay, then. Since he's in Oakland City, we'll make sure he can never leave!"

He became murderous upon the thought.

I'll never spare Levi this time!

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1160

A lot of people found out that Levi had resurfaced and planned to head to Oakland City.

As for Tiffany, she was absolutely delighted when she found out.

Martin, on the other hand, was extremely excited upon hearing the news.

His reputation had been ruined in just a year, and his place on the Heir Leaderboard fell from second place to seventeenth place.

Everyone within Oakland City humiliated him for being unable to handle Levi.

Martin had suffered through all the insults and criticism the whole time.

Gradually, he became reticent and tended to shut himself off from the world.

Even the Preston family thought that he had gone insane.

With that, Martin scoffed and said, "Now that he's here, all of you would finally understand."

He looked forward to seeing Levi stir up chaos in Oakland City so that the arrogant and impudent people would finally understand that there was always someone stronger.

On the contrary, all the other prominent families were waiting for Levi to make a fool out of himself when they heard he was about to head to Oakland City.

After all, he was already the biggest disgrace last year.

The name Levi Garrison had become an adjective to describe men – men who were pathetic and irresponsible.

In the meantime, the so-called pathetic man was leading his group of people when they ran into four people in masks.

The masks made them look cold and terrifying, each of them giving off murderous auras.

It was Asura and his three disciples – Zar, Bolgun, and Talon.

“Winsor!” Levi called out with a smile.

“Not bad. You were great.”

Even though Winsor spoke only a few words, he was actually praising Levi’s contribution to eliminating the Blood King Palace.

“Thank you so much for taking care of my mother and my wife. I owe you a favor now,” the former said while taking a deep bow.

If it weren’t for him, Zoey and the others would’ve been in great danger.

The least I can do is bow to him.

Winsor stared at him before nodding. “Indeed, you do owe me a favor. You can return it now.”

The rest of them were rendered speechless.

They had never expected Winsor to be so direct.

Levi froze for a moment before answering, “How should I return the favor?”

“Accept my challenge!” Winsor said with determination.

All these years, he had been displeased with the former.

Levi isn’t even as strong as I am. I should’ve been named the God of War, not him!

He had challenged the latter dozens of times, but the latter didn't care much for rankings and would reject him every time.

It made no difference even if I were to hold a knife against his neck. He'd still reject the challenge.

That was why Winsor never had the chance to prove that he was stronger than Levi.

Now, his opportunity was finally here.

"Actually, if you want my position, I can definitely let you have it. I owe you such a huge favor after all." Levi told him.

"No! Let me have it? Are you looking down on me? I'll get it with my own capabilities. I don't need you to let me have it!"

Levi's words sent him into a rage.

The former then pursed his lips and said, "No, you misunderstood me. The favor I owe you is just too huge. I feel like I wouldn't be able to repay it fully even if I accepted your challenge."

"I don't need you to return the favor. I just want you to accept the challenge and let us fight," Winsor replied coldly.

At that moment, Azure Dragon, Zar, and the rest grew anxious as they watched the scene unfold.

They wanted to know for themselves who was stronger too.

Everyone had their own opinions and thought that both of them were basically on the same level, so all of them were curious to see who was actually the stronger one.

Left without a choice, Levi took a deep breath before agreeing, "Okay. I accept your challenge."

"Great. If you lose, you have to give me your title. If I lose, I'll follow your orders for the rest of my life," Winsor said as a wicked gleam flashed through his eyes.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1161

"Fine. But this fight will only happen after I took care of my personal matters," Levi informed him.

Winsor nodded at that.

In the meantime, everyone else inhaled sharply as they knew this fight was extremely important – both of them were betting on everything they had.

Hence, whoever lost would have unimaginable consequences.

Not only would their fight cause a huge commotion in Erudia, but the rest of the world would also be thrown into an uproar.

Azure Dragon and his group stared at Levi while Zar and the rest stared at Asura, all of their eyes burning with determination.

They all hoped that their boss would win the fight, but they knew that both sides were very powerful.

Thus, at that moment, no one knew what the end result would be.

After they left, Bolgun asked, "Master, how confident are you about winning?"

"I'd say it's fifty percent," Winsor said after pondering about it for a moment.

"Huh..." three of them muttered as they drew in a deep breath.

This was the first time they had seen him with such a grim look on his face.

Besides, the answer he had given them was only a “fifty percent.”

Winsor was an extremely confident and arrogant person who wouldn't even submit to the heavens and earth.

In his eyes, everyone was beneath him.

However, he was actually afraid when it came to Levi.

To be honest, he wasn't really afraid – he just wasn't hundred percent sure that if he could win against Levi.

It just showed how strong Levi really was. In fact, he was so strong that even Winsor was being wary of it.

The news of the God of War and Asura's fight flew through Erudia, then Bayview, and soon it spread across the whole world.

Everybody knew about the battle now, and they knew that this fight was something that could affect the whole world.

If Levi won, the God of War would surely be able to take his game to the next level. With Asura in hand, it would be a huge disadvantage to their enemies.

However, if he lost, he would have to step down from his position and let Asura have it.

Although, this was good news to Tenichi and a few others.

Even though Asura's combat powers were amazing, Levi was still better in terms of strategy and looking at the bigger picture.

That was why this battle was so important.

“God! This is just too scary. Both of them are about to fight soon!”

Damien was obviously the first person to get news of it.

After all, he was always keeping tabs on the God of War.

“This is a duel of the strongest in Erudia, right? Asura has been waiting for years just to prove that he is the strongest.”

He was already looking forward to it and wanted to witness the fight happen.

“Haha! I’m excited about it too. The God of War has to win! He is part of the Garrison clan after all,” Tyrone exclaimed excitedly.

The news of the fight was still spreading like wildfire, and it grew more and more influential by the minute.

When Zoey heard the news, she was astounded as she had met Asura before.

“Is Asura really as bloodthirsty and cruel like everyone says – like the Demon King? It can’t be, right? He even saved me last year!”

She couldn’t understand the comments people were making about him.

When she met him the last time, she felt that he was a very humane person.

“That can’t be right. They say that Asura is a heartless person, and he’s no different than a robot. It’s just too unbelievable that your incident caught his attention and that he helped you out,” Dale said.

They knew Winsor very well.

He wouldn’t have bothered with an ordinary person’s matter.

“That’s right. It seemed like Asura was purposely protecting Zoey,” Edwin added.

“What?”

Upon hearing that, Zoey trembled and a look of disbelief crept across her face.

“It can’t be... Unless...”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1162

There was only one possibility that she could think of.

Maybe Asura was actually there to protect me.

Based on what everyone says, he wouldn't even bat an eye even if someone dies right in front of him.

He probably came forward just for me, right?

There must be a reason as to why he did it.

Did Levi arrange this?

Impossible!

Asura wouldn't even obey the God of War, so why would he listen to Levi and protect me?

It'd be impossible even if Levi was an important person.

Meanwhile, Levi and the others separated from Azure Dragon.

The latter wanted to go to the Stuart family first, while Levi planned to visit an old friend of his – Benny Quinton.

There were many people at Benny's residence, eight people to be exact, including Benny.

All of them were stars of the medical field.

They were the famous and renowned Octa-Medic of Erudia.

Eight of them were the top doctors in the medical field, including experts in Western medicine and traditional Chinese medicine.

At the same time, Benny was especially surprised to hear that Levi had resurfaced.

He quickly invited the latter into the house and introduced him to everyone else.

The rest of the doctors were shocked as they didn't expect to meet the God of War himself.

"This is The Acupuncturist – Asa Wormwood."

"This is The Herbalist – Witney Safin."

Benny introduced everybody one by one and informed Levi that they were the top doctors of Erudia, and they all excelled in Western medicine and traditional Chinese medicine.

He also told the latter that they were like "national treasures" of Erudia.

With a slight bow, Levi said politely, "It's an honor to meet all of you."

"No, no, pleasure is ours, God of War! There's no need for that!" Everyone stood up immediately.

"There's a medical convention held once every four years in Oakland City recently. That's why all of us are gathered here. Otherwise, there wouldn't be a chance like this," Benny smiled and explained the reason they were here.

"Then I must be in luck! It's my first time here in Oakland City, and I'm able to meet eight famous doctors," Levi replied sincerely.

He was always respectful and polite towards his seniors.

Nowadays, people were able to live in prosperity and peace while Erudia was able to flourish all because of these dedicated seniors.

I'm so glad to have them.

They chatted for a long time, and Levi was able to gain a lot from their conversation.

He had limited knowledge of medical skills since Fredrick was willing to teach him. However, he didn't have the time to do more research on it.

While Levi was busy with the doctors, Azure Dragon stood before a quaint residence.

Almost ten years had passed, and he was finally home.

But this home had brought him so much harm and suffering.

Firstly, his place as the head of his family was snatched away. Then, his fiancée betrayed him and married his own brother.

Lastly, he was forced to go to jail in place of his brother.

The hurtful words of Azure Dragon's fiancée still echoed in his ears after all these years.

"Only the strongest man is worthy enough for me. He's not worthy enough for me, and he'll never be up to par with Curtis!"

Besides, he could never forget the scene where his fiancée, Eldora, threw herself into Curtis' arms, nor could he forget the day the Stuart family sent him into the prisoner transport.

For all those years he was in jail, none of the Stuart family had visited him.

The one who should have been in jail was Curtis, yet he continued to be ranked first place in the Heir Leaderboard, with a beautiful woman by his side.

Crack! Crack!

Azure Dragon clenched his fists tightly, and his knuckles cracked when these memories surfaced.

"I'm finally back now. I'll show these b that they shouldn't mess with me. Weren't you my nightmare, Curtis? I'm here to challenge you now!"

His face darkened as he strode towards the doors.

Bang! Bang! Bang!

Azure Dragon knocked on the doors, hard.

When the doors opened, a few guards walked out.

“What the hell are you knocking for? Don’t you know where you are right now?”

“Hmm? Mr. Indigo? Mr. Indigo is back!”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1163

Very soon, the Stuart family was in a frenzy.

All of the lights in the mansion were turned on, and almost everyone in the family went out of the house.

Everyone one of the familiar faces appeared before Azure Dragon.

The cowardly parents, who let people take advantage of them, and the uncle and aunts, who liked to add salt to the wound.

The Grandpa, who revoked his right of being the heir, Basil, was also there.

The ones who came out last were Curtis and Eldora.

The woman was still in his brother's arms, showing off how affectionate they were.

After years of training, Azure Dragon's powers were at the highest level.

It could be said that he was at the point where he wouldn't even panic even when the world was falling apart.

However, now that he met his enemies, Azure Dragon couldn't keep his calm anymore, and he clenched his fists tightly.

"Huh? It really is you. What is with you? Aren't you supposed to be in jail for twenty years? It hasn't even been ten years, why are you back already? Did you escape from prison and come back here? You know you're ruining the Stuart family's name by doing that!"

Basil and the others were afraid that he actually broke out of prison when they saw him.

Azure Dragon replied while shaking his head, "No. I got released a long time ago."

Someone from the family immediately checked, and they nodded. "He's right. He really was released from prison."

Basil sneered, "It seems like your attitude in jail was great! You even managed to get released ten years earlier."

"I've almost forgotten about this person. What is he doing here?" one of Azure Dragon's uncles, who was also Curtis' father, Ansel, snorted.

For all these years, the Stuart family was in the hands of the father-and-son duo.

To him, Azure Dragon didn't exist anymore.

"Exactly. He must be full of bad luck since he had been to prison."

"Stay away from me. I don't want your bad luck to be passed to me."

"It'll be much better if you don't step into our doors. We, the Stuart family, are the first imperial family. How can we have a criminal who has been to prison be in our family? That would be a joke to everyone else!"

How cold.

Every one of them is so cold and heartless.

I was in prison all because of Curtis!

And it was eight years in there too!

Not only are they ungrateful for what I've done, but they are also insulting and humiliating me.

They even told me that I shouldn't step foot into the mansion.

To hell with that!

Azure Dragon looked at Curtis and Eldora.

The latter was still looking pompous as usual.

He was the first on the Heir Leaderboard after all. Hence, who could ever go against him?

In his eyes, Azure Dragon wasn't even worthy of being his opponent.

As for Eldora, she was still in his embrace as a mocking smile appeared on her face. "What's wrong? Did spending a few years in prison make you look like such a piece of sh*t? Well, you are a piece of sh*t! I made the right choice all those years ago. I, Eldora Seres, will only be with the strongest man."

At that moment, he looked just like Levi, with tattered clothes and soot on his face.

Azure Dragon had only arrived in Oakland City, so he didn't have time to tidy himself.

With an image like a refugee, he was basically a joke to the Stuart family.

He clenched his fists tightly again upon hearing Eldora's words.

This shameless woman!

"Seriously, why the hell did you come back, Indigo? You don't belong in the Stuart family! Besides, we will never let a criminal step foot into our residence," Ansel said coldly.

Indigo was Azure Dragon's real name.

"The reason is simple. I'm here to take back what really belongs to me all those years ago," Azure Dragon sneered.

His cold eyes passed over each and every one of the family.

"Hahahaha..." everyone burst into laughter and looked at him as if he was an idiot.

Curtis finally spoke, "You're here to take back what belongs to you? My position and your fiancée? And to avenge the fact that you took my place in prison? Do you even have what it takes to do that? Do you have the capability to do so?"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1164

“Eight years ago, you were but a worm, Indigo. Do you think a stint in prison could turn you into a real dragon?”

“Curtis has always been a living manifestation of your own worst nightmare. An insurmountable juggernaut beyond your reach no matter how much you try. You ought to know better than anyone else that he has only gotten stronger since, so what makes you think going to prison has changed anything for you?”

“Take back what’s rightfully yours, you say? Let me tell you this – The only man fit for me is a stud like Curtis, not a pathetic sinner like you!” Eldora Seres’s words plunged deep into Azure Dragon’s chest like a thousand knives.

To think that Azure Dragon was previously convinced that she was to be his one true love... He had only himself to blame for his own error of judgment.

“You’ve got a nerve hurling threats around here, Indigo. Don’t even think about stepping through our doors. You have been warned!” Ansel then stood himself between Azure Dragon and the entrance.

“What does Grandpa think?” Azure Dragon looked to his grandfather Basil.

There was a hint of fury in Basil’s eyes. “Your uncle’s right. In order to preserve the honor of our family, we can no longer afford to have you here. I will provide you with a sum of money sufficient to last you a lifetime. Take it, and leave Oakland City!”

Azure Dragon then asked of his parents, “Father, Mother. What say you?”

“We...”

His parents hemmed and hawed but did not utter anything discernible.

It was apparent that they had no say in the matter.

“Leave. From now on, you are no longer a member of the Stuart family!” Basil’s pronouncement was swift and final.

Being treated so harshly by his own family made Azure Dragon’s blood ran cold.

Not only had he done nothing wrong, but he also went to prison for eight years in place of Curtis.

And yet, he was still treated this way.

“Fine. So be it! I shall return tomorrow to stomp Curtis and have all of you begging on your knees!”

With that, Azure Dragon turned to leave.

The curses and mockery of the Stuart family followed him out.

All of them seemed to think him deranged and delusional.

As a matter of fact, Azure Dragon primarily came to the family home to see how the people there would react to him.

If only!

The whole episode would have seen a peaceful resolution if only they knew to be appreciative and receptive towards him.

Instead, they had forced his hand towards adopting a harder stance.

It was in anticipation of situations like this that he had sent Levi away.

If Levi were to get wind of this, he would surely rend them asunder!

This was why he came by to observe the family's reception first.

To call the verdict a disappointment would be a gross understatement.

There wasn't any grateful soul amongst the lot of them as all of them unfailingly derided him and shut him out.

His own brother and his fiancée insulted him.

His grandfather and uncle barred him from entry.

While his weak parents stood by and watched.

There was no longer room left for sentimentality.

Hence, he had decided then and there that tomorrow would be the day he would put the Stuart family to the fire and the sword.

Later that night, Levi and Benny amongst others met up and made merry.

The accomplishments of the Octa-Medics were peerless in the medical realm.

The eight of them were yet to encounter any conditions which they were not able to treat.

Just as Frederick Greg's name came up in their conversations, The Acupuncturist and The Herbalist professed to know him.

According to them, Frederick was a renowned physician from an enduring medical lineage that shared the same roots as theirs.

"Only the ignorant would declare that Erudia's ancestral medical tradition has been lost. Or perhaps I should say they have not the privilege to learn of these time-honored methods!" The Acupuncturist, Asa Wormwood, sneered.

He had made a valid point.

Many had a tendency to assume much of which they did not have knowledge or lacked direct experience of.

“God of War, seek us out should you ever find yourself in need!”

The few of them said with a smile.

After the group dispersed, Levi and Azure Dragon convened.

“Boss, I’ve decided that I’m going to crush the Stuarts tomorrow!”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1165

“Very well. I will stand by you, as always!” Levi said as he placed an assuring hand on Azure Dragon’s shoulder.

The next day at the Stuart family mansion, the entire family was dining at the table in silence.

Strict discipline was necessary to help maintain their premier position amongst the imperial families, especially during this time when they were clashing with the rest.

Perhaps they would be able to ascend into the ranks of the ancient families in time.

“Grandpa, do you think that rascal Indigo would show up?”

The silence was broken by Curtis.

No one else spoke as no one else dared to.

It was different for Curtis, who had done much to earn the privilege.

“Do you think? I reckon that it was just a bit of boisterous chest-thumping, that’s all!” Basil sneered dismissively.

Elnora laughed. “Why concern yourself with that good-for-nothing, Curtis? He would not be able to measure up to a fraction of you even if given a hundred more years!”

She had a beguiling presence with a face and a figure to match and could have any man clamoring for her with one glance.

While Tiffany Meyers was Oakland City's most beautiful, Eldora Seres was the most charming.

However, this woman had a weakness for powerful men.

She was with Azure Dragon when he was firmly in the seat of inheritance.

Now that he had been stripped of his position, she had turned and thrown herself into the arms of his younger brother, Curtis, instead.

Word had it that Eldora had a long and colored dating history.

The fact that Curtis had not given up on her was proof that she had her ways of dealing with him.

Her new beau replied haughtily, "I'm not concerned about him as I do not even consider him a worthy opponent. I'm only worried that he might do something that might bring our family into disrepute!"

"Ignore him! I highly doubt that he would have the guts to seek trouble here. To bring us Stuarts onto our knees? The sheer ravings of a madman!"

Bang!

The waves of a deafening explosion suddenly thundered in. This was followed by a booming bellow, "Prepare yourself for death, my dear brother!"

The voice echoed throughout every corner of the house.

"What's going on?"

"Has the bastard come?"

Basil and the rest of the family sat stunned at the dining table.

"The outrage! I shall destroy him!" Curtis declared as he rose to his feet.

The others, too, were variously spurred into action as they all arisen and collectively made their way towards the main entrance.

There were five others apart from Azure Dragon, whose raggedy getup complimented his.

“What’s this I see. Helpers? Do you intend to take on the Stuart family with just this ragtag bunch with you? You ought to have brought along something more respectable than a bunch of refugees...” Eldora said mockingly.

Azure Dragon smiled. “The problem with you, Eldora, is that you have never been able to see beyond the superficial. You obviously have no idea who stands before you!”

His eyes passed over each and every one of the family in scrutiny. “I am offering the lot of you one last chance. Bend your knees before me and repent your wicked ways, and I shall spare you! Otherwise, I shall level the house of Stuart to the ground this day!”

“Ha ha ha...” The Stuarts were uproarious upon hearing this.

They did not take Azure Dragon with any measure of seriousness. “What in the world was that about? Shut your mouth, fool.”

His own parents chimed in, “You want to destroy our family, you say? I doubt you could even get past your own younger brother!”

Curtis laughed, “Are you so obviously lacking in self-awareness, Indigo? I am your worst fear, your nightmare manifest. You were beneath me eight years ago, and I have only gotten stronger since. What hope do you have pitting yourself against someone whose ability ranks in the top twenty in Erudia’s Saber Leaderboard?”

Those words had Azure Dragon trembling as Curtis always had his number.

“No! I shall defeat you and prove myself against you!”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1166

"Hahaha... You're about to find out what separates you and me, maggot!" Curtis snorted.

"Do it, Curtis! Bring him to his knees!" Eldora screeched.

The top scion in Oakland City had headlined the pecking order in the Oakland City's Heir Leaderboard for eight years running, and his martial prowess had only gone from strength to strength during this time.

In short, Curtis was now practically untouchable.

Thus, to the Stuart family, Azure Dragon was already a dead man walking.

"Your wish for death will be granted!"

Curtis was instantly upon Azure Dragon in a single powerful stride.

He threw out a savage fist in a bid to finish his older brother in a single blow, but his expression changed when Azure Dragon managed to avoid it completely.

All present watched with bated breath once the fight commenced proper...

The haughtiness on the faces of the Stuart family turned to astonishment and then shock as the battle ensued...

About a hundred rounds in, one of the fighters was suddenly sent flying.

Bang!

His opponent closed in with pace and smashed a devastating blow into him in mid-air, sending him hurtling down into the ground.

Bang!

The downed man crashed heavily and left an imprint of concentric cracks upon the blue tiles at the point of impact.

When everyone looked over, they were stunned because the man lying on the floor was none other than Curtis.

Curtis was soaked in blood and bearing an untold extent of damage to his bones. At that moment, his body was quivering uncontrollably, and incredulity was apparent in his eyes.

Shocking!

Utterly shocking!

No one could have foreseen how formidable Azure Dragon would become. Nor could anyone have predicted that he would be able to best Curtis.

The looks on Basil, Ansel, and Eldora's faces were a picture of shock.

And then there was silence all around.

How did Azure Dragon grow to be so strong?

Did he not languish in prison for eight years?

"You were my worst fear, Curtis, but not anymore. At one point, I did think consider you the strongest ever. But I've realized how low I've set the bar once I've stepped onto the battlefield!" Azure Dragon laughed.

"Battlefield? Weren't you supposed to be behind bars?" asked a bewildered Eldora.

"When there's a will, there's a way. I was selected to join the special forces while I was serving out my sentence. You may not be aware, but now I'm known as – The Azure Dragon, King of War."

“What!”

“King of War?”

The faces of his family changed drastically.

“And standing here before you is my boss, the God of War, and a few of my friends, Kirin...”

The Stuarts stood shell-shocked as Azure Dragon went down the line introducing the companions beside him.

Thud!

A mournful Eldora fell onto her knees in front of Azure Dragon and clutched his legs. “I was in the wrong, Indigo. Please forgive me for this once! In all these years, I’ve never stopped thinking about us! If you are willing, we could go back to the way we were and spend the rest of our lives together!”

“Son, Mom and I did not do right by you. We should not have remained silent!”

“Grandpa made a mistake, my boy. I shall reinstate you as heir. Grandpa had been a fool!”

“Uncle had treated you unjustly, Indigo!”

Azure Dragon remained silent throughout their remonstrating.

Against the overwhelming influence and martial prowess possessed by Azure Dragon today, the attitudes of the members of his estranged family shifted drastically as they variously sought penance for themselves.

Levi had seen too many of their types to be impressed.

He and the others departed from the Stuart residence and left Azure Dragon to resolve his own personal affairs.

The day’s headlines rocked Oakland City.

News broke that Indigo Stuart, who went to prison in place of his younger brother, returned home to subdue the Stuart family and even defeated the top scion, Curtis, himself.

With Azure Dragon's affairs settled, it was time for Levi to turn his attention onto his own.

"Are you ready for me now, Garrisons?"

Levi's eyes darkened with cold intent.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1167

“Have you got what I’ve asked for, Kirin?” Levi asked.

“Yes, God of War, it is en-route and should arrive in Oakland City shortly!” Kirin replied.

Levi was about to proceed with his next move when he was interrupted by a call.

He saw that it came from Abigail.

“Hey Abigail. How did you find out about my new number?” Levi asked in surprise.

“I got to know about it through Mr. Quinton!”

Abigail had been in regular contact with Benny since her arrival in Oakland City.

“What’s up?”

“Could you come and pick me up, Levi? I’m in a spot of trouble! Have to hang up now. Please come find me...” Abigail sounded a little harried.

Levi’s expression grew somber. “Get a lock on her location, Phoenix!”

Instantly, Phoenix got to work and soon had her position.

She was at Dynasty Manor, a place frequented by the most affluent and influential in Oakland City.

Dynasty Manor had been fully reserved by a wealthy scion for the evening to host a prestigious gathering. The guest list included young gentlemen and ladies in the same league as himself.

Several dozen cars were parked by the entrance, and they featured a comprehensive collection of many limited editions of the top-tiered models lined up amongst them. The value of the hardware congregated there was worth more than a combined two billion.

The organizer for the event was Conrad, the second scion of the Garcia family – the second most illustrious of Erudia’s ancient families.

His guests were sons and daughters of the various imperial and royal families in Oakland City.

Even Jerry himself had to grace the occasion, for an invitation from an imperial scion was hard to turn down.

The subject of interest amongst the guests was naturally the affair at the Stuarts.

“Never thought that the bigwig on the Heir Leaderboard could have been defeated by Indigo Stuart, a man who spent the last eight years in prison!”

“With the top dog defeated, the Oakland City hierarchy has been upset. Whoever is in second place must be fretting!”

“We’re counting on you to hold the fort, Mr. Gott!” the assembly bantered.

Jerry smiled. “You all know I’ve never cared for these things. What difference does it make who’s ahead and who’s behind in the rankings?”

“I get the sinking feeling that something major is going down in Oakland City. First was God of War challenging Asura. Then there was Indigo Stuart stomping on his family. Now there’s the matter of Levi Garrison! Rumor has it that he is planning to go to the Garrison clan...” someone said.

“Indeed. Many things have been happening lately. But could Levi Garrison’s business be considered major? After all, he’s a cowardly good-for-nothing who’s unworthy of our attention!” The smile on Jerry’s lips belied the glint of coldness in his eyes.

"Be quiet now. Mr. Garcia's here!"

The room fell silent as a strapping youth strode through.

It was Conrad – a scion of the ancient Garcia family and one of the top sitting members in the Heir Leaderboards.

Next to him was a girl, unknown to all of the rich and powerful in Oakland City except for Levi.

She was Abigail Rogers.

Conrad beamed a broad smile at his guests. "Today, we are gathered here for two reasons. Firstly, for us to discuss the matter of Curtis's defeat, and secondly, to hear a personal announcement with regards to myself."

The assembly looked at him in eager anticipation.

Jerry asked, "Has it anything to do with your future happiness?"

He inferred it from the presence of Abigail.

"Yes, Jerry. It is as you say. This is indeed a moment of great joy for me!"

Conrad glanced at the woman beside him. "I've decided to marry this young lady Abigail!"

"Huh? Aren't you already married with children, Mr. Garcia? How are you to marry again?" someone thought aloud.

It was common knowledge that Conrad had enough children to almost lose count of them, and marriage into the ancient family was no frivolous matter.

Conrad laughed. "It's going to be a concubinage. I wish to make Abigail my concubine!"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1168

"What?" The attendees gasped.

Even though those present were of noble descent, polygamy was a thing of the past. Not even current prominent members of the imperial and ancient families partook in it.

Confidants were tolerated, but there was to be only one woman who would be granted a recognized status.

It followed that no one could be accorded the title of concubine and no exception could be made even for one such as Tyrone Garrison.

However, none present dared voice their protestations against this scion of an ancient family.

Ultimately, Conrad had a reputation as a notorious libertine.

No one knew for certain how many young lives were ruined at the hands of The Casanova of Oakland City, who was also known as the ultimate lady killer, over the years.

His body count of female conquests might have numbered in the five to six hundred, with many of being underage when they had fallen prey to him.

More than a few also have vanished right after he took them away. Neither their person nor a cadaver had been found since.

As Conrad was a true deviant, his decision to take on a concubine came as no big surprise.

When Abigail came to Oakland City to work under the employ of the Garcia family, she had unexpectedly caught the eye of Conrad, who then forcibly wanted to make a concubine of her.

Abigail was at her wit's end until she heard that Levi was in town. She spent the better part of the day deliberating whether to call him before she eventually did.

"Congratulations on your new acquisition, Mr. Garcia! We would be looking forward to sharing a toast with you at your wedding!" The first to come forward was Jerry.

"Congratulations, Mr. Garcia!" And the others followed as soon as they stirred from their stupor.

All they could have offered Abigail was their unspoken sympathies.

Yet another fine young woman to fall victim to Conrad Garcia.

"My thanks to all of you for your well wishes. I hope to see all of you there at my wedding!" Conrad was riding on a high.

He could hardly contain himself as he gazed lasciviously upon the coquettish yet innocent Abigail.

The scion of the Garcias did not actually need to grant any formalized status to Abigail.

That was before he found out that Abigail's older sister was Dale Lehman's adopted daughter.

Taking her by force might spell trouble for him given her extended connections; hence, his decision to opt for concubinage.

That way, he could openly lay his hands on Abigail without leaving cause for opposition.

"Is the young lady willing, though?" Just then, a voice rang out amidst the bustle.

All of those present turned their heads. The owner of the voice was none other than Martin "Madman" Preston himself.

No one had expected his presence there, as he was better known as a lunatic than a ranking scion in the eyes of the public.

"I'm never one to take no for an answer! Whatever I fancy will be mine to have!"

Conrad was as brash and arrogant as they come.

After that, he regarded Abigail. "She will be mine so long as I desire her. Who dares stand in my way?"

The scion certainly had the capital to do as he pleased since the Garcia family pandered to his every whim, and his father was extremely protective of him within reason.

He, too, enjoyed the favor of his uncle-in-law, Tyrone Garrison, and his cousin, Damien.

With the convenience of always having someone available to clean up after him, Conrad could always afford to act without hesitation nor fear of consequences.

"You are making a mistake with this one, Conrad! Do you have any idea who she is?" Martin asked.

"Of course I do. Her sister is the adopted daughter of Mr. Lehman! Even he should have nothing to say if I were to take her as my concubine!" Conrad stated calmly.

"Haha, is that so? I'd reckon that you would be courting death if you tried!" Martin laughed heartily.

Nonetheless, Conrad was naturally undeterred.

"Hahaha, who else could I not afford to offend? In that case, I shall take her as my concubine before this day ends. And we shall see who is there to stand in my way!" he trumpeted.

Martin merely shook his head in response.

But this time, the Casanova of Oakland City was to meet his foil.

Bang!

The doors slammed violently against the walls upon a potent strike of someone's foot.

"He got that right. Abigail is not someone you could afford to mess with!"

A chilling voice was carried by the shockwaves riding across the room.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1169

All eyes were zoned in on the silhouette that appeared at the entrance of the hallway.

None recognized the male stranger who had appeared save for Jerry, whose face turned pallid upon seeing him.

It's Levi Garrison!

Martin smirked as he slinked away into a corner to spectate the events to unfold.

"And who the hell might you be?" Conrad challenged.

"Levi, you are here!" Abigail ran towards Levi the moment she saw him.

"What's happening here?" Levi asked.

Conrad took a step forward. "Let me give it to you straight. Abigail is to become my concubine!"

Abigail nodded furiously in affirmation of his general summary of the situation.

"Why in the world is anyone taking concubines in this day and age? Who granted permission for this?" Levi glared.

Conrad retained his haughty demeanor. "Do you even know who I am? I am the beloved scion of the Garcia family and wield the favor of the head of the Garrisons, the top ancient family. Whose permission would I need to do what I want?"

“Does that mean you are not going to seek anyone’s consent as well?” Levi asked.

Conrad chortled. “Of course not. What I want is mine to have. What use have I for anyone’s consent?”

Hearing his reply, Levi was amused.

Without regard for common decency nor the rule of law.

A truly irrepressible tyrant!

No wonder Abigail needed my help to save herself from this menace.

Conrad lowered his gaze to scrutinize Levi from his elevated position. “Listen here, boy. I don’t care who or what you are. Abigail will become my concubine, and there’s not a damn thing you can do about it!”

“Oh, is that so? Then I have this to say – Whoever who would attempt to force Abigail to do anything against her will get no quarter from me!” Levi toughened his stance.

“You wouldn’t want to stick your nose into Mr. Garcia’s business, Levi. It would be best if you left quickly!” Jerry stood up suddenly and spoke.

“What did you say? Levi... Levi Garrison?” Conrad asked.

The others turned and looked in Levi’s direction.

“You heard it right. This is Levi Garrison himself!”

Jerry’s introduction had everyone else on their feet.

Though they had never seen the man in person, they had certainly heard of his name.

“He’s here in Oakland City?”

The masses were bewildered as they regarded him warily.

It's him – the dishonorable progeny of the Garrison family who abandoned his mother and wife to save his own skin!

“You're unfit to call yourself a man, Levi. The gall of you to even show your face around here!”

“I'd wish for no better than to throttle you to death!”

“You inhuman, cowardly good-for-nothing! You are a disgrace to all of Erudia!”

Levi listened in silence as the barrage of cusses exploded upon him like an ignited barrel of gunpowder.

“Get out of here, Levi, and Mr. Garcia may spare you your life yet!” Jerry prompted advised of him.

“Mr. Gott is a true gentleman. Looking out even for his bitter rival!”

“Only you are fit for Zoey. Not this sorry excuse for a man!” Those assembled chorused in praise for Jerry.

A peculiar glint flashed across Jerry's eyes.

Unwavering by their comments, Levi smiled. “Fine. I can leave. But Abigail comes with me!”

“No! Abigail must remain and become my concubine! Since this has become public knowledge, would it not be a cause for embarrassment for me to allow her she to leave?” Conrad howled.

“Then all the more reason for me to take her! Woe be to whoever gets in my way!” Levi declared with blood-lust in his eyes.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1170

"You are begging for death, boy!"

"Who dares threaten Mr. Garcia? Are you tired of living?"

Up stepped two men – Cosimo Cuvier and Clarence Trent.

They were sons of the imperial families, variously the ninth and tenth ranking scions in the city.

Both of them were lifelong practitioners of martial arts and highly competent exponents.

"Clear out!" Levi warned.

"Get him!" Conrad commanded at the same time.

Cosimo and Clarence then simultaneously rushed towards Levi.

Bang!

Bang!

Levi pivoted on one foot and lashed out with the other, sending the two men flying back in the opposite direction.

Crack!

Crack!

The loudness of the fighting juxtaposed against the silence of the crowd.

The two young men crashed through several tables before falling heavily onto the ground, followed by their briefly quivering bodies before they lost consciousness.

As those awful sounds died down, the stillness of the air engulfed the entire room.

The masses were stunned as no one knew Levi could fight...

What was even least expected was how well he was able to manage against the ninth and tenth ranking scions, who were both martial Extraordinaires in their own rights.

Jerry and Conrad's jaws hit the deck.

"Hmm. The boy has got some moves. But do you have any idea who you just laid your hands on? They are sons of the imperial family! You are done for! Finished!" Conrad pointed a finger at Levi as he directed his rage towards him.

"Of all of the people you could have beaten up, you had to choose them! You're in big trouble now, Levi!" Jerry yelled.

It certainly spelled no end for trouble for anyone who dared to manhandle the offspring of the imperial families. It was no news that the prominent families were infamous for how protective they were of their own.

Levi Garrison snickered. "What's that about them? That they are untouchable? Then I would love for nothing more than to give them imperials a good whopping!"

Conrad was about to throw a fit at Levi's repeated provocations.

There was no way he could stomach this transgression.

"Move, or I'll give you a taste of this too!" Levi raised a tightened fist steadily as he eyeballed Conrad.

"Bring it on then, if you dare!"

Conrad was too used to having his way and reckoned no one in Oakland City would ever think of laying a finger on him.

“All of you shall bear witness that it was he himself who asked for a good spanking!”

Levi’s foot raised the moment his voice fell and drove itself into his opponent’s left leg.

Crack!

With another bone splintering sound, Conrad was brought to kneel before Levi.

Bang!

Crack!

Once, twice. Levi’s struck out again with his right foot.

Crack!

Crack!

These follow-up blows landed unerringly on either side of Conrad and took out both of his arms.

“Arrgh...”

Conrad’s bloodcurdling scream echoed through the hall.

He is maimed!

All four of his limbs were broken!

That’s brutal!

This is insanely cruel!

All present were shell-shocked.

Has he gone mad?

He dared cripple Conrad Garcia?

Levi Garrison is really in for it this time!

No way he is going to get away with this!

“Mr. Garcia...”

Those who are able to react rushed to the side of the fallen man.

“Have you lost it, Levi? Is there anyone you won’t strike at? This is the scion of the second most prominent ancient family in Erudia!” Jerry shouted.

“You are done for! If you could live past today, I would take after your name!”

“Don’t you dare dream about leaving. You will die here this day!”

There was pandemonium as the masses of privileged young men and women joined in the reprimanding.

The spoiled youngsters then pulled out their phones to call upon the elders of their various families for help.

Unexpectedly for everyone, things had gone way out of control.

If the Garcia family came seeking answers, no one there would be able to evade responsibility.

Within a short frame of time, sixteen of the imperial families and thirty-two of the royal families in Oakland City were mobilized. With that, the heads of the families were on their way to the Dynasty Manor with their best fighters in tow.

It was as though the city had been turned upside down overnight.

This was something at a different level as the primary casualty was the scion of the second most prominent ancient family.

“You’ve a lot to answer for today, Levi!”

Everyone’s eyes were locked onto the lone figure who stood apart from everyone else.

He then pulled up a chair and settled himself down. "Good. Let them come so that we may resolve this once and for all."

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1171

I'm going to thrash all of them!

"What were you yammering about? This and that about some Heir Leaderboard rankings? However many you have, bring it on!" Levi bellowed at the assembly in front of him.

The crowd, incensed by his brazenness, continued to cuss at him.

They were determined to bring the wrath of Oakland City upon him in its fullest potency.

Jerry looked at Levi intently before stepping outside.

It was at that moment, his eyes had betrayed his deviousness.

Little did they know that he had purposefully pulled some strings to suppress word of this incident to keep it from a few of the ancient families. It was because he was concerned how things might change for him should the Lehmans become involved.

News were kept under wraps so that he might rid himself of Levi through the combined strength of the various imperial and royal families, and deny his rival the chance to clarify things with Zoey.

Jerry's true nature was that of a practicing hypocrite.

He saw a union with Zoey as a stepping stone into the ranks of the ancient Lehman family...

And it just so happened that Levi's emergence had thrown a wrench in his best-laid plans.

For this, Levi must die.

At that moment, Oakland City was in an upheaval.

Representatives of the Gotts, Prestons, Meyers, Cuviers, Trents, and the multitude of other imperial and royal families have descended upon Dynasty Manor.

Barring the notable absence of the first imperial family, the Stuarts and all the others were present.

Hundreds of cars were promptly left packed at the front as all the heads of the families quickly made their way inside with their men.

At that time, Conrad's screams of agony still reverberated off the walls inside the hall.

Levi, on the other hand, had his eyes closed and was at rest.

"Who was the one who hurt my son?"

"Who was the one who maimed Mr. Garcia?"

The stern shouting ushered in the arrival of several lavishly dressed elders and the large entourage propping up the rear.

They were spearheaded by Esmond of the Cuviers and Otis of the Trents.

The two men were joined by Jordan, Arvin, and Tiffany of the Meyers.

Prominent figures, who were rarely seen in public, had been brought together on this occasion.

"It's him! Levi Garrison!" The accusing fingers were concerted in identifying the guilty party.

Upon that, Levi surveyed the scene before him. "So is everyone present? Good. Why don't you lot come at me at the same time? I'd like to thrash all of you!"

"Arrogant fool! Die!"

A man took to his heel to rush Levi.

Bang!

Levi fired out the heel of his foot and sent his assailant sprawling as though struck by a five-ton truck. The downed man fell to the ground and remained motionless.

The crowd drew in sharp breaths the moment they witnessed that.

“Even the top pugilist from the Cuvier family was no match?” Their eyes popped in surprise.

“Kill him!”

A bevy of fighters then charged in concert towards Levi.

However, Levi deftly dispatched as many of them as there were, and no one had been able to displace him from his position on the chair.

He remained seated while his fallen foes were left groaning on the floor all around him.

“How could he be that good? This...”

Jordan and Arvin stared at Levi in disbelief.

Is this really the man that everyone called a good-for-nothing?

For a brief moment, they felt a smidgen of regret for calling off the engagement.

In the meantime, the others were going ballistic.

How was it that we could not get a handle on him even with so many skilled men?

Even Jerry was dumbstruck.

“Truly, the Garrisons could not produce anyone incapable. To think even a bastard of theirs is this formidable!” They sighed.

Propped up by the supporters around him, Conrad's eyes burned at Levi. "I don't care how good he is. Kill him, or I'll have to invoke the Garcias and the Garrison clan to deal with this personally. And when they do, I'll make sure to have all of you held collectively responsible!"

Faced with threats from the son of the Garcias, the heads of the prominent families present could only oblige.

"Listen to me. We must kill this man. For when the Garrisons hears of this, we should expect not blame, but reward!" Esmond rallied.

The morale of the aggressors were elevated in an instant.

"No! You cannot afford to cross this man, for he is the God of War!"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1172

Everyone was stunned by Tiffany's hysterical shouting.

The hundreds of fighters stilled their hands, and the onlookers stood frozen with mouths agape.

The well-hidden Martin snickered.

All of you just messed with the wrong guy.

This is someone who could stand up against all the aristocratic families in Oakland City!

Martin could only credit his meeting with this man for his own ascension.

Silence ensued for one whole minute.

That was the duration for which everyone was rooted to the spot.

"The... The God of War..." someone swallowed hard.

Martin proclaimed aloud, "That's right. Standing before you is the rock of Erudia – God of War! Martin Preston hails the God of War!"

"Tiffany Meyers hails the God of War!"

Following the two person's affirmative voices, Conrad fell to the ground, and Jerry slumped back into his chair.

The eyes of all present almost popped from their sockets.

No one could have expected that the God of War was Levi Garrison.

In fact, everyone was in absolute disbelief.

Jordan and Arvin looked at Levi, and then at their progeny before they finally understood why Tiffany made the decision she did after her return.

“So Martin and Tiffany did not meet the God of War by chance. They had purposefully sought out Levi!”

“It was no wonder Levi agreed to the wager against Tyrone. He really did not fear the Garrisons!”

“Now I understand why Levi Garrison dropped off the radar. He embarked on a campaign north to eradicate the Blood King Palace! This was why he could not be present for the birth of his child and the match against the Garrison clan!”

All the missing pieces of the puzzle quietly fell into place.

In short order, everyone had figured out the facts behind the matter.

Conrad then understood why he ought to have steered clear of Abigail...

No one would be able to protect him as even the Garcia family might find themselves in crisis over this.

Thud!

Thud!

The room was silent save for the rhythmic pattering of knees hitting the ground.

One after the other, those in the crowd prostrated themselves.

“The Prestons hail the God of War!”

“The Meyers hail the God of War!”

“The Gotts hail the God of War!”

There was silence as the entire room was held in fear and awe of the great man in their midst.

Only the dazed and hapless Jerry remained on his feet.

He finally caught on to what kind of explanation Levi had in mind for Zoey when he brought her to Oakland City.

Jerry shuddered at this own audacity trying to snatch the wife and child away from the God of War himself.

“What are you doing? Why aren’t you on your knees?” His family anxiously gesticulated at him.

Jerry then fell onto his knees with a loud thud. “God of War, I was wrong. I shouldn’t have...”

Levi smirked, “You may not have been a gentleman, but I shall spare you in consideration of your effort to convince Zoey and the others to come to Oakland City!”

“Thank you, God of War!” Jerry prostrated himself and bowed his head repeatedly.

“There are rules and traditions to observe in all matters. Could we not be so outrageous as to entertain the notion of concubinage? What makes any of you think it appropriate for you to conduct yourselves as the kings of yore do? Someday, someone would cure you of your arrogance!” Levi reprimanded.

Conrad shrunk even more as he bowed deeper in deference. “Never again! I swear!”

Levi then took Abigail and made their exit.

This was one of the most heart-stopping moments that the prominent families of Oakland City had ever experienced.

They now understood how the house of Stuart had fallen – Because Indigo Stuart was The Azure Dragon, a King of War.

The maimed Conrad was eventually stretchered back to the Garcias.

He dared not breathe a word of the truth behind what transpired.

“Who was it who crippled my grandson? I demand justice to be done!” Zed, the head of the Garcia family, howled.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1173

The entire Garcia family was hurting as Conrad was the apple of their eye.

It was excruciating to see him physically reduced to a cripple.

“Grandpa, Dad, let’s not continue to pursue this matter!” Conrad yelled.

“What?” All of them looked at him quizzically as that seemed a little out of character for him.

In the past, Conrad was never one to tolerate even the least amount of aggrivement. He was the sort to wrought vengeance upon the tribe if anyone amongst them so much as looked him the wrong way.

They could not understand this change in his temperament, at least with regard to this episode.

“Will you stop asking and just let it go?” Conrad implored anxiously.

Revenge?

Seeking revenge on the God of War?

Are you fking insane?

“Your Uncle Tyrone just called to inquire about the situation. He’s very concerned!”

Even the Garrison clan had gotten word of Conrad’s misadventure by now.

Everyone wanted to know who was responsible and throwing down the gauntlet to the ancient families.

Just then, Damien hurried over.

“Who did this to Conrad?”

When Damien saw the sorry state Conrad was in, his face darkened. “Give me a name, and I’ll take care of it!”

Though Conrad was the one who experienced the pain, Damien felt the humiliation for him.

“No, Damien. This is my problem. I’m not saying anything, so stop asking!” Conrad was determined to take the truth to the grave.

Everyone found this behavior of his extremely bizarre.

They just could not figure out what could have broken the spirit of this once proud son of Garcia.

A cold glint flashed across Damien’s eyes. “Have it your way. I’ll go find out for myself!”

What Damien sought was what the ancient families of Oakland City were interested to know as well.

Word of the incident had reached the ears of Dale, as well as Zoey’s.

“Was it that same Conrad?”

Zoey remembered that Conrad had herself in his cross-hairs at one point. However, she was fortunate to receive Dale’s timely intervention at that time.

“Right. He was reluctant to name the culprit despite being maimed and also declined to pursue accountability. It was totally unlike him – very strange indeed!” Dale furrowed.

“That reminds me, Zoey, has that Levi contacted you? Didn’t he say he wanted to talk things through?” Edwin asked.

Zoey shook her head. "Not yet."

After arriving in Oakland City, it seemed as though Levi had vanished into thin air.

"That man is completely unreliable! What manner of an explanation is this? What is he trying to pull?" Edwin raged.

"Master, Jerry Gott is outside seeking an audience with you," the butler informed.

"Alright. Send him in, quick!"

Dale still looked upon Jerry quite favorably.

At the same time, Martin was going crazy after learning about Curtis's defeat.

In actuality, Jerry was the real top-ranking scion in the Oakland City's Heir Leaderboard.

Jerry arrived in the meeting chamber in short order.

He looked pallid and haggard beyond compare, as though he had just recovered from a major illness.

"By the gods, Jerry, what happened to you?" Everyone glared at him in astonishment.

Thud!

Jerry fell to his knee in front of the master of the house of Lehman.

"Mr. Lehman! I'm here to request the annulment of the engagement between Ms. Lopez and myself!"

Jerry choked up as he reconciled with the fact that he could never challenge the God of War for the hand of Zoey.

"What? Haven't we already come to an agreement on his issue? Why the sudden change of heart?" Dale was quite astounded.

"Is it because you dislike that Zoey had a child with someone else?" Edwin added.

Jerry shook his head vigorously. "No! It's nothing of the sort! It's because I'm unworthy of Ms. Lopez! Please consider my request, Mr. Lehman. I implore of you!"

Dale looked at him angrily. "What is your justification? Explain yourself!"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1174

Dale was the master of an ancient family – A man who had seen it all.

He knew in a second that something was amiss as nothing about Jerry's erraticism could have escaped his eagle-sharp eyes.

"Speak to me. Tell me what happened exactly that led you to this decision!" Dale was adamant to know why Jerry was backing out.

Jerry sounded like he was on the verge of a nervous breakdown.

"I'm afraid..." he whimpered.

"Huh? What are you raving about? Afraid of what?" Dale pressed.

Jerry gritted his teeth. "Please don't ask anymore, Mr. Lehman. My reasons are personal. Please do agree to the annulment!"

"Aren't you scared of pissing me off then?" The old man erupted.

"I'm not! Annul the engagement, I beg of you! I will bear all the consequences, whatever they may be!" Jerry had left it all on the floor.

I would gladly offend the Lehman family over Levi Garrison.

"Huh?"

Jerry's blatant disregard for death shocked the members of the Lehman family present.

Even Zoey's curiosity was piqued.

What is this about?

What has spooked Jerry Gott so much that it made him so deathly desperate to call off the engagement?

Seeing that Jerry refused to continue further, Dale was dismayed. "You really are determined to keep your lips sealed, aren't you?"

Jerry nodded furiously. "Yes. It's personal and had nothing to do with anyone else."

His obstinate behavior had the elder hopping mad. "You really are convinced that I wouldn't do anything to you, do you?"

"Godfather, let's just leave him be!" Zoey urged.

"Fine. I shall honor the wishes of my daughter!" Dale finally relented.

"Thank you!" Jerry bowed profusely, relieved to be off the hook at long last.

"But don't think that I wouldn't find out just because you choose to kept mum! I will have the truth, one way or another!" Dale bellowed.

The day grew stranger by the moment.

First Conrad Garcia, then it was Jerry Gott.

What's eating them?

"Could it be that Jerry had decided to back out because he is fearful of that rascal Levi?" Dale speculated.

"Surely not, Dad? It's not like they've never met before. How could Levi have frightened off the third-ranking scion on the Heir Leaderboard? It's simply impossible!" Edwin quickly countered.

Zoey, too, did not see how that conjecture could have made sense.

The root cause for Jerry's conduct must run even deeper.

"Right. Where's that Levi Garrison then? Summon him here. I want him to explain himself to you in person!" Dale said as he opted to change the subject.

Zoey felt compelled to ring up Levi.

"Hey, have you arrived in Oakland City?"

"I'm here with Abigail. What's up?"

What's up? The nerve this guy has! Zoey was deeply unhappy to hear those words from Levi. "You're one to ask. Didn't you tell me that you would be here to explain yourself? Why haven't you shown up?"

"I'm sorry. Something else came up that needed my attention. Tell you what – why don't we meet up tomorrow?" Levi sounded apologetic.

Zoey scoffed. "It would seem to me that you never had the intention to see this through. If you wanted, you would have come over to the Lehman's to see me right away!"

"Alright. I'll be there soon! It's about time I properly thanked your godfather as well!"

Levi then parted ways with Abigail and made haste to the Lehman estate.

When Levi arrived, he was intercepted at the door.

"Wasn't I expected? Why deny me access now?" Levi frowned.

"You may enter, but not on your feet. You must come in obeisance!" Edwin stated coldly.

"What?"

"Aren't you ashamed of having disappeared on Zoey this past year and a half? Asking you to crawl in on your knees is meant to cleanse you of your sins!"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1175

“Kneel! Repent!”

“Kneel! Repent!”

Levi surveyed the vicinity as the Lehman guards echoed in unison all around him.

This was what Dale had planned out for Levi.

Kneel first, talk later!

Levi regarded the spectators coldly and did not seem like he was going to comply.

“Where is your sincerity? Where is your guilt? Don’t you think she has done enough to earn your repentance?” Edwin chided.

Upon hearing that, Levi was mildly annoyed. “Where is Zoey?”

“She is inside. But if you want to see her, you must show your worth by demonstrating genuflection!”

Levi laughed coldly, “Am I here to explain things, or am I here to bend the knee?”

“We will hear you out, without question. But for that to happen, the kneeling is a prerequisite!”

The Lehman family was especially harsh to Levi as they wanted him to understand in no uncertain terms how displeased they were.

Yet, Zoey had no idea that her family was going to intentionally make things difficult for him.

“Is this what Zoey wants?” Levi inquired.

Edwin nodded. “But of course! If you only knew how upset she was with you!”

Levi smirked.

As someone who understood Zoey better than anyone else, he was positive that there was no way she could be involved in this fiasco.

“Fine then. In that case, I should be going as for me, bending the knee is an impossibility!”

Levi then turned to depart.

“Hey, where do you think you are going?” Edwin bellowed.

Even so, Levi did not look back the slightest bit.

They had only intended to humble him just a little and had not anticipated this reaction.

“Insolence!” Edwin spat angrily.

In the Lehman family’s hall.

“Huh? Where is Levi? He told me that he was at the door a minute ago.” Zoey asked of Edwin.

Edwin replied, “This Levi Garrison is not a man! Guess what, Zoey? When I gave him a little ticking off outside and commented on how hard it had been for you, that kid blew his top! He also said that you must be insincere and distrustful of him since you were not there to receive him. After that, he questioned the need for him to explain anything! Said you changed the surname of his child, and he did not run away a year and a half and all that crap... I got into an argument with him over it, and then, he decided he was going to leave!”

Edwin added more concoctions into the mix but neglected to mention how he tried to get Levi to prostrate himself.

“Levi Garrison!” Zoey shrieked.

“I couldn’t decide whose name the child would take after! My hands were tied as the Garrison family forbade it! You ought to give me a reason for your going missing during this time! If you do not see the need to explain yourself, then I have no wish to hear it!” Zoey was agitated to the point of tears.

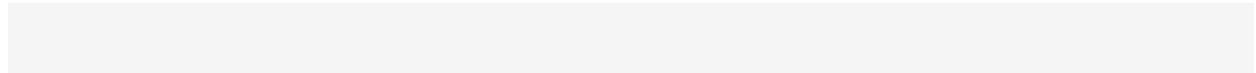

“I wish I could deliver one tight slap across the face of that detestable fool!” Dale fumed.

“Right! He clearly had no intention of clearing the air. If he wanted to, surely there was no need to come up to Oakland City as he could have done so in North Hampton. He’s obviously playing tricks on us! What more is there to explain? He abandoned his wife and mother. That is the plain truth that had been laid bare!”

Hearing the Lehman family’s commentary reduced Zoey to a sobbing mess.

“Mom, don’t cry. Don’t cry...” Forlevia wiped at her mother’s tears with her tiny hands.

In the meantime, Levi did not go back after leaving the Lehmans but made straight for the Garrisons.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1176

It was said that the Garrison clan ancestral compound used to be a small palace more than a thousand years ago. The size of it was comparable to a small village.

Levi was standing at the top of a mountain overlooking the Garrison clan ancestral compound in all its glory.

He had to admit the compound was built in a prime location. With a large range of mountains behind and beside it, it ensured that any enemies would only be able to attack them from the front. It would be easily defensible.

He sighed, "No wonder they're the most powerful ancient family in Erudia."

"Who dares to trespass onto the Garrison clan's forbidden grounds?"

An old man's voice suddenly called out.

Levi acutely detected someone's breathing and strong aura rapidly closing in on him.

A few seconds later, an old man with a head full of snowy white hair appeared behind him.

Judging from the old man's outward appearance, Levi guessed he was at the very least eighty to ninety years old. Maybe even over a hundred.

But from their close distance, Levi could sense how the old man's blood was still pounding through his veins powerfully. He could almost hear the roaring of it. When the old man shuttered his eyes, it was like the faint rumble of thunder.

He's definitely a very formidable fighter! In fact, I think he might even be on par with Bloodking and his Four Bloodmasters! He's probably the oldest person in the Garrison clan.

"Who are you? You don't look like one of the Garrison clan members," the old man questioned.

Levi grinned and replied, "No, I'm not part of the Garrison clan."

The older man shoed, "Then get out of here, little boy! You shouldn't be here. This is the forbidden grounds of the Garrison clan! Even most of the Garrison clan members are not allowed here!"

Glancing down at the sprawling buildings, Levi sneered. "Isn't the Garrison clan ancestral compound down there? Don't tell me this mountain belongs to you too? This is part of Erudia, a free country. I can go wherever I like. Where I go is none of your business."

He was absolutely furious.

How ridiculous! These people are too used to getting their way and being such tyrants! How can this entire mountain range be considered as part of their clan's forbidden grounds?

The old man bellowed, "What nonsense are you talking about, little boy? Let me be clear with you. This is the forbidden ground of the Garrison clan. Nobody is allowed to trespass here! Anyone who does so will be punished by death!"

Levi chuckled in response. "Oh really? Well, I'm clearly intruding here. What are you going to do about it?"

"You asked for it!" the old man roared before thrusting a palm out toward Levi.

His strike looked weak but there was an undercurrent of energy to it.

Even boulders would shatter underneath the force of this blow. If it were to land on a human, the human would be absolutely annihilated.

With a snort, Levi's fist flew out like a cannonball to meet the old man's palm.

Boom!

The fist and palm collided together, causing a thunderous boom to ring out.

The crashing sound was so loud that down at the Garrison clan ancestral compound, they thought the skies were cracking open with thunder.

“Urk!”

The old man was no match for Levi’s punch. Blood sprayed out of his mouth as he went flying back several meters before slamming into the ground heavily.

Disbelief flashed through his eyes.

How can a punch that looks so normal contain such power? And from a man as young as him? It’s unbelievable!

The old man stared at Levi with shock.

He was no ordinary old man.

His name was Teneb Garrison, the Guardian of the Oakland City Garrison clan.

He was the oldest and most powerful person in the clan.

Everyone in the clan referred to him as a living god due to his advanced age – he was 130 years old!

He had experienced the rise and fall of several generations and was respected by all. In the Garrison clan, what he said, went.

Not only that, but he had also been the one who cultivated Damien to be the man he was today. In fact, the top three fighters on the Saber Leaderboard had been trained by him as well!

The most powerful men from the younger generations of the Garrison clan had been taught by him.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1177

Rumors had it that Teneb was so strong that his feats surpassed human limits.

Yet he had lost to Levi!

He demanded, "Just who are you!"

"My name is Levi Garrison! I came to scout out the Garrison clan ancestral compound today. Tomorrow, I'll personally arrive at your doors. I had no choice but to retaliate since you pushed me," Levi answered in an exasperated tone.

"Levi Garrison?" Teneb muttered the name to himself.

Abruptly, he remembered where he had heard the name.

"It's you!"

Although Teneb had retreated to the mountains behind the Garrison clan compound to practice his martial arts, he was still well aware of what went on in Erudia and the Garrison clan.

Thus, he knew about Levi Garrison.

Recalling what he knew of the younger man, he could not help but sigh silently.

Damien was known by all to be a genius.

However, when compared to Levi, he was practically nothing.

Just what did the Garrison clan lose out on?

“Alright. I’ll be coming over again tomorrow. I hope you won’t interfere then. Otherwise, I’ll have no choice but to kill you!”

With that said, Levi left.

Meanwhile, the Garrison clan ancestral compound was in an uproar.

Due to the earlier commotion, they realized that something must have happened at the forbidden grounds.

Tyrone and Damien hurried over to see what was wrong.

Tyrone asked, “Elder Teneb, did something happen?”

Instead of actually answering them, Teneb ordered, “Go home!”

Tyrone and Damien exchanged bewildered looks.

Just what was going on?

Something big seemed to be stirring in Oakland City as strange occurrences were happening everywhere.

There were rumors that the imperial family and royal families had gathered together and done something huge.

However, despite being one of the ancient families, the Garrisons had not heard anything about it.

Then there was the fact that Conrad Garcia had been crippled. Unfortunately, they were unable to find any clues about who did it either.

Now, even Teneb was acting strangely...

“Since you’re okay, Elder Teneb, we’ll be taking our leave.”

The father-son pair departed from the forbidden grounds.

Damien felt unease welling within him. "Father, I think something bad is going to happen. I can feel it in my gut!"

Tyrone's expression was grim as he replied, "I get the feeling it's going to be something to do with Levi! That damn jinx really does bring misfortune with him wherever he goes! Only bad things have happened ever since his appearance! I even heard that he's coming here!"

Damien nodded in agreement. "Supposedly, he's coming here tomorrow!"

"Okay then. I'm definitely going to get rid of that damn brat once and for all!"

A murderous glint flickered through Tyrone's eyes as he said that.

On the other side of things, Levi had not gone far from the Garrison clan compound when he suddenly tasted something salty and metallic in his mouth.

The next thing he knew, blood was dribbling from the corner of his lips.

I'm injured?

He had not realized he had been hurt.

That old man really is quite powerful. Luckily, he's only a little stronger than the Bloodking so I can still handle him relatively easily. But how did I get injured?

After a moment of thought, realization dawned on him.

The Bloodking's poison! It must be acting up again!

Cough cough!

At that moment, a wave of weakness washed over him, leaving him feeling extremely feeble.

It was even worse than that hit from Jerry Gott last time.

His earlier fight with that old man had taken more out of him than he thought. He had actually put quite a bit of power behind that punch.

Once again, he forcefully suppressed the poison's toxicity.

After a short while, his body returned to normal.

Since the poison did not seem to be harming him directly, he put the matter out of his mind.

That night, Kirin reported to him, "Sir, the items you requested have already arrived in Oakland City!"

"Alright. Get everything ready. We're going to the Garrison clan ancestral compound tomorrow!"

Early the next morning, Levi brought Emma with him to the Garrison clan ancestral compound.

He also made sure to call Zoey and have her go there as well.

Dale stated in a cold voice, "Fine! Let's go over too. I would like to see him explain all this!"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1178

Thus, Dale brought Zoey and the Lehman family council members to the Garrison clan ancestral compound.

Not only him, the head of the Garcia family, Zed, also brought his council members with him there.

Flynn Hurst, the head of the Hurst family, also went with his council members. The Hursts were another ancient family.

All eight of the ancient families of Oakland City were heading for the Garrison clan ancestral compound.

From the Stuart family, Azure Dragon led his family members there.

The Preston family.

The Meyers family.

The Cuvier family.

In fact, it was like a mass exodus as all the powerful families flocked to the Garrison clan's ancestral compound.

All the imperial, royal, quasi-royal and prominent families were gathering there as well.

Oakland City was in an uproar.

Luxury car after luxury car raced down the streets, all heading in a beeline for the Garrison clan compound.

It was incredibly likely that there would be more than ten thousand people gathered at the compound today.

This was a turnout that the Garrison clan had not expected.

How was it that someone like Levi could manage to cause so many people to arrive?

At the Garrison clan ancestral compound.

Last night, Teneb had sent out an order to all the family members. The members from the Oakland City clan were all to return to the compound within the day. There was something important he had to announce to them.

The entire Garrison clan was in turmoil over that message.

What was even stranger was that even Tyrone had no idea what was happening. This was an order from Elder Teneb himself. Even he, the head of the clan, had to obey the older man.

So all the Garrison clan members had to return to their roots.

Even though it was still morning, most of them had already arrived. The rest were on their way.

"Father, I just received news from Edward. Uncles Yancy, Lyle and Micah are back!" Damien stated.

Tyrone was absolutely delighted at this news.

Yancy, Lyle and Micah were his brothers.

They were also the top three fighters in Erudia's Saber Leaderboard.

Together with Tyrone, they were usually called the Four Dragons of the Garrison clan. They were also the most powerful men in the second generation of the Garrison clan.

Damien held the utmost respect for his three uncles. They had been trained by Elder Teneb himself and learnt everything from him.

Was it any wonder that they had managed to become the top three on the Saber Leaderboard?

That was the dream of countless warriors in Erudia!

Every single fighter thought it an incredible honor to even get onto the leaderboard!

Damien continued with a smile, "Brandon, Greg, Herbert and Hayner are here too!"

Those four men were all from his generation and were each incredibly powerful fighters in their own right. They all had a spot on the Saber Leaderboard as well.

Burt and Lincon, who had been selected to join the Hidden Dragon Soldier King Training Camp, had also returned for the occasion.

However, the last two were not worthy enough for Damien to remember so he did not bother bringing them up.

Tyrone had a puzzled expression on his face. "I wonder what Elder Teneb wants to announce that he needs everyone to come back?"

Furrowing his brows, Damien suggested, "It must have something to do with what happened last night!"

"Then it should be something good, right? Maybe Elder Teneb wants to bring out the family heirloom!" Tyrone guessed.

With how prominent the Garrison clan was right now, there was no way anything bad would happen to them.

Especially since it was the Guardian of the Garrison clan, Teneb, that was making this announcement.

"Yeah, exactly! It must be something good! There can't possibly be anything bad to say!" Damien agreed wholeheartedly.

Tyrone added confidently, "It must be an auspicious occasion for the clan! Is the Elder going to hand something to me? After all, everyone's seen how much I've worked to help this clan prosper!"

Just then, one of the servants rushed inside to inform Tyrone, "Sir, for some reason, there's a lot of people from the other families assembled outside! And their numbers just keep increasing!"

In response, Tyrone grinned happily. "Well, it's normal that the other families will want to be here to witness this wonderful occasion!"

"But that jinx, Levi Garrison, is coming too!"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1179

At the mention of Levi, Tyrone's expression darkened.

How very unfortunate! This is supposed to be a blessed day for the Garrison clan yet that blasted brat is still coming!

A scornful look crossed Damien's face as well.

To him, Levi was a nobody, not even someone worthy of being called an opponent.

Yet he was coming here today of all days!

Damien proposed to his father, "Chasing him away now would only humiliate us before the other families. Perhaps we should see what he wants to do first?"

"Yes."

From his higher position, Tyrone could clearly see the plaza outside the gates. Presently, it was filled with a sea of vehicles and was even expanding as he watched.

He shouted, "Do you see that? This is how powerful the Garrison clan is! More than ten thousand people are here because we're having a major event!"

All the members of the Garrison clan thought everyone was here because of their worship of the Garrisons.

Little did they know, most of the families were not actually here for them.

After a while, all the members of the Oakland City Garrison clan arrived.

"Is Elder Teneb here yet?" Tyrone questioned.

Damien, who had only just returned from the forbidden grounds, replied, "He says he'll appear when it's time."

"Okay! If that's the case, we might as well head outside and deal with Levi first!"

Hence, Tyrone led the council members down to the plaza in front of their gates.

At that moment, the plaza was crammed full of people from all the families. From the ancient families down to the prominent families, every single family came with their representatives and council members. The initially huge plaza was packed tight with the massive crowd.

In truth, most of the people there were completely in the dark about what was happening.

What were they doing here? Was something going to happen here today?

Humans tended to be like a herd of sheep, following what the rest of the flock did.

Since they had heard the other families were coming, they decided to join in too.

The eight ancient families were here to see what Teneb would decide. The Lehman family had a second reason to be there because they wanted to hear Levi's explanation.

Those who knew Levi's true identity were here to support him, of course.

Thus, the crowd could be roughly separated into four groups.

Everyone glanced at each other in confusion.

Tyrone had initially thought these people were here to worship the Garrison clan.

But upon stepping into the plaza, he got the feeling that something was off.

Even he was clueless as to what to do.

“Mr. Garrison! Where’s Levi Garrison?”

Dale was the first to break the silence.

Tyrone froze briefly before answering, “Mr. Lehman, Levi is not coming!”

Furious, Dale roared, “You mean that brat tricked us? He’s not even going to come?”

Zoey was visibly upset at that.

Bewildered, Tyrone queried, “Huh? Mr. Lehman, what do you mean by that?”

He was getting more and more confused.

What are these people doing here?

He was oblivious to the fact that Teneb’s announcement would have something to do with Levi and that was the reason why everyone was here.

“That brat said he would give my goddaughter an explanation today here at the Garrison clan ancestral compound! That’s why we’re here!” Dale retorted loudly.

Tyrone snapped back furiously, “But Levi isn’t here! I think he probably lied to you. There’s no way he dares to come here! If he does, I’ll make sure he won’t be able to leave this place alive!”

“Hahaha!”

Suddenly, the sound of cheerful laughter rang out.

“Levi Garrison is here!” someone shouted.

Like the Red Sea that parted before Moses, the crowd split down the middle to allow a path for Levi.

Levi strode forward with a tense Emma close behind. Kirin and the other four were also following Levi.

Thud! Thud! Thud!

The ground seemed to tremble under everyone's feet.

The cause for the mini earthquake was Black Tortoise, who was carrying a coffin and a gravestone on his back.

Thump! Thump!

He threw the coffin and the gravestone on the ground before the Garrison clan compound's gates.

Then, it was clear these were the exact same coffin and gravestone that Damien had sent to Levi previously.

Levi was returning them to him!

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1180

Everyone was shocked by this sight.

Just how outrageous and arrogant must Levi be to bring a coffin and gravestone to the home of the most powerful ancient family in Erudia?

This was a deliberate provocation!

Damien's eyebrows twitched as his face reddened in fury.

He recognized those two items.

Does he mean to return them to me? Insolent bd!

Tyrone was even more enraged.

He had thought Levi was here to beg him, but it was obvious now that the younger man was here to cause a scene.

How dare a bastard child like him taunt the most powerful ancient family in Erudia?

Thousands of pairs of eyes were focused on Levi.

Zoey's emotions were all over the place at seeing him again.

Even though she had not gotten an explanation from him yet, the fact that he had come here already proved his courage.

"Wow, it's so lively here! It's even more crowded than last year during our bet!"

Tyrone guffawed before asking, “Levi Garrison, what are you doing here?”

Levi did not answer the man. Instead, he turned to his mother and stated, “Mom, I brought you here today so you may get an explanation from Tyrone and the Garrison clan! Ask them! Ask them why they abandoned you back then!”

Emma jerked at her son’s words before trembling. Her eyes were shining with tears as various emotions played across her face.

The day she had been wishing and praying for so many years had finally arrived!

Next, Levi turned to look at Zoey. “Zoey, I promise I’ll give you a satisfactory explanation today! I definitely won’t be like Tyrone Garrison and abandon my wife and child!”

“Levi...” Zoey murmured softly while tears trailed down her cheeks silently.

At last, Levi fixed his gaze on Tyrone and Damien. “Today, I, Levi Garrison, will destroy the Garrison clan. I’ll show everyone just how weak and powerless the so-called most powerful ancient family in Erudia is before me!”

The moment those words left his lips, everybody present burst into loud, mocking laughter.

The Garrison clan members even threw their heads back as they roared with laughter.

They were utterly astounded that Levi thought he could take them on all alone!

As they had said before, the Garrison clan had more than a thousand years’ worth of power and resources behind it. It had gotten to its position today due to generations worth of hard work!

Was it possible that they would lose to Levi?

There was a small chance.

However, it was like a one in a million chance.

“Hahaha! Interesting! How very interesting!”

Tyrone had always been amused to see people he deemed as insignificant trying to act tough before him. It was like an ant saying it was powerful before a dragon.

“Emma, I’m eager to see just what kind of ability your son has today!”

With that said, Tyrone’s expression chilled. “Titus?”

“Yes, Sir?”

Titus, one of the Garrison clan’s youngest guards, stepped forward.

He was also one of the challengers for last year’s bet.

“Defeat him!” Tyrone ordered.

Boom!

Titus instantly stomped his feet on the ground, leaving two deep imprints.

Leaping into the air, Titus threw a vicious punch at Levi.

The force behind his punch caused the wind to whistle past his fist. Everyone could distinctly feel the heat generated from it as it felt like razor blades slashing at their faces.

Being able to achieve such power at a young age, Titus was a true genius when it came to martial arts.

“Too weak!” Levi commented softly.

Wham!

His leg flashed upward to land a kick into Titus’ abdomen, sending the man flying back.

Thud!

After more than a dozen meters, Titus finally crashed into one of the stone lions guarding the gates. Slumping to the ground, he did not get up again.

Everybody was utterly dumbfounded!

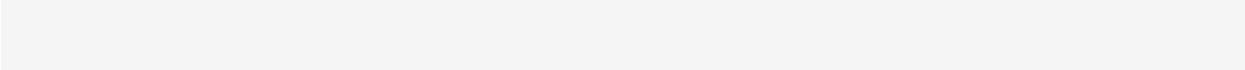

None of the Garrison clan members had expected Levi to be a martial arts expert as well!

Even Emma had not known that.

“T-This...”

The expressions on the Garrison clan members’ faces were grim.

“He’s too weak! I want to fight your strongest!” Levi hollered at Tyrone while staring straight into his eyes.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1181

One of the younger Garrisons, Marco, bellowed, "Such arrogance! How dare you show such insolence here at the Garrison clan ancestral compound!"

He was ranked tenth among the top ten strongest fighters in the younger generation.

He charged straight at Levi without a moment's hesitation.

Smack!

With one harsh slap from Levi, Marco was sent flying back.

"Go to hell!"

Ranked eighth among the top ten strongest fighters in the younger generation, Allan threw himself at Levi.

Wham!

A punch threw Allan back.

Bam!

Thud!

Ranked sixth, David lost as well.

Number three and four, Ruben and Clayton, were both defeated too.

Beginning to get impatient, Levi demanded, "All of you come at me!"

Thud! Wham! Thump!

...

One by one, each of the younger generation Garrisons stepped forward to challenge Levi.

Yet the results were all the same.

They all lost.

In no time at all, Levi had managed to defeat every single one of the younger generation Garrisons.

It did not matter how powerful they were, they were all beaten within one blow! None of them even got a chance to strike a second time!

He's so unbelievably strong!

Everyone was rendered speechless at Levi's display of power.

They stared at him, their eyes wide with disbelief.

Zoey's eyes were rounded in shock as well while her mouth hung open slightly. Her heart felt like it was about to leap out of her throat.

So not only is he a great businessman, but his combat skills are also through the roof!

"Wow! Daddy's so awesome!" Forlevia cheered while clapping her hands delightedly.

The Garrison clan members were stunned.

Disregarding everything else, they should be taking him in as one of their own just based on his combat skills alone!

With the combined might of Levi and Damien, they would be unstoppable! None of the other families would even dare think badly of them!

Tyrone and his council members were feeling rather numb from their shock and regret.

They felt like they had made a grave mistake in not allowing Levi to join the clan initially. If only they had known how powerful he was back then, they would have accepted him in an instant!

“So this is my son? Hahaha! As expected of someone who has my blood flowing through his veins! He’s a Garrison indeed! Not bad! Not bad at all!” Tyrone exclaimed gleefully. He then shouted, “Everyone, hold on a moment!”

Turning to Levi, he said, “Levi, I was wrong to have blamed you previously. As long as you agree now, I’ll allow you to join the Garrison clan. I can guarantee your status will be the same as Damien’s. In fact, you might be entitled to even more resources than him!”

“That’s right! I agree on letting Levi Garrison join the clan!”

“Me too!”

One by one, each of the Garrison clan council members voiced their agreement.

They would have been crazy to kill off a genius like Levi!

Emma was close to tears with joy and pride at hearing this. Her son was finally making a name for himself! He had managed to obtain the Garrison clan’s approval through his own abilities!

Zoey was feeling much the same as Emma.

That was her husband! He had proven himself to the most powerful ancient family in Erudia and they were impressed!

Rubbing his goatee, Dale chuckled and commented, “Hmm, not bad. Now, this is a man that’s worthy of my goddaughter!”

Everyone was certain that Levi would say yes to the Garrison clan’s offer. After all, he would be able to enjoy the same privileges as Damien.

Imagine their surprise when Levi merely sneered and replied, “You want me to join the Garrison clan? There’s no way in hell I’ll do that! You’re not worth my time!”

He then leveled a scornful look on Tyrone. "You want to be my father? Do you even have the right? The Garrison clan is about as insignificant as ants in my eyes!"

Levi's words served to anger the Garrison clan.

"We're just appreciative of your talents! Do you seriously think we can't do anything about you if we really tried?" Tyrone thundered.

In reply, Levi challenged coldly, "C'mon then! Who's next!"

"Me!"

A voice called out loudly.

Damien stepped forward from the crowd.

Earlier, Levi had defeated all of the younger generation Garrisons except Damien, who ranked first among them.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1182

Tyrone snorted and gloated, "Levi, I admit that you're quite strong. However, I think you're severely overestimating yourself! You'll never be able to beat Damien!"

His belief in his son was almost borderline fanatical.

Damien was like the symbol of the Garrison clan's prowess, not to mention he was the strongest man among the younger generations of all of Erudia.

In all the ways that counted, he was the best!

Nobody could beat him!

Even if Levi had defeated all the younger generation members of the Garrison clan, he was still no match for Damien!

After all, Damien could easily do what Levi had done as well.

As Damien emerged from the crowd to stand opposite Levi, everyone gasped.

He was like some sort of celestial dragon coming down to Earth to grace the commoners with his presence.

He was the greatest pride and joy of Tyrone Garrison and Olivia Garcia!

Olivia had a haughty smile on her face as she spoke to Emma, "Your son might be slightly talented, but he'll never be able to beat my son! You can stop dreaming about that!"

Her precious son, her pride, could not lose!

The pride of the Garrison clan could not lose!

When Damien was facing Levi, Levi grinned and stated, "You see that coffin and gravestone? I brought it back here specifically for you!"

"You dare show me such disrespect? Die!" Damien roared.

With that, he released his energy. A wave of power exploded from his body, forcefully pushing everyone back several meters like an invisible hand.

It was absolutely terrifying!

"He's a God class fighter?" someone cried.

"Damien Garrison is actually a God class warrior!"

There was a strict ranking system when it came to fighters in this world. They were split into these ranks according to their fighting prowess.

Generally speaking, they could be separated into four classes. Commoner, King, God and Ultimate.

Commoner class usually referred to those that had not been training for long.

King class warriors were powerful fighters that were usually in various positions of authority in the military and led armies.

In terms of power, God class warriors were several times that of a King class. They were the true masters of fighting, being able to take on an entire army alone.

Back then, Levi was pronounced to be a God class due to having singlehandedly defeated the Eighteen-Nation Alliance of God class fighters!

God class warriors were very rare, a fact that could be seen when it had taken all members of the Eighteen-Nation Alliance to scrounge up even a hundred fighters.

Damien achieving this rank at such a young age proved how talented he was at martial arts.

No wonder he was considered a true genius!

If he were to ever consider joining the military, it would definitely not take him long to make his way onto the Saber Leaderboard.

The next instant, Damien moved.

Boom!

His fist snapped out powerfully, sending out a loud roar as the air was pressurized by the force.

Bang! Bang! Bang!

As he dashed toward Levi, his footsteps compressed the air, causing little explosions of sound like a firecracker.

Crack! Crack! Crack!

The ground split open beneath each footfall.

Damien leaped into the air to come flying down at Levi, his fist aiming straight for him.

The force behind that punch was akin to a thunderbolt from Heaven.

Yet Levi's face was blank as he stood there with his hands clasped behind his back. It was almost like he was frozen to the spot in fear.

Boom!

Damien's fist slammed into Levi's shoulder and a loud rumbling sound echoed in the air.

Crack!

What was even scarier was that the floor actually shattered beneath Levi's feet. A spiderweb of cracks spread out for at least one hundred meters while some parts of the ground actually crumbled into a deep hole.

The strong gust of wind from that punch kicked up a cloud of dust, blotting out the skies. A lot of people cried out in pain as grit flew into their eyes. They could not see anything.

It almost felt like a bomb had gone off there.

It was utterly terrifying!

As expected from a God class fighter!

Tyrone and Olivia cheered, "Hahaha! My son won!"

After a moment, the smoke gradually cleared so everyone could finally see the battlefield.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1183

Levi and Damien were standing across from each other.

Patting his shoulder, Levi smirked and taunted, "That's it? That tickled!"

He's completely unhurt?

Damien had dealt such a powerful blow yet Levi did not even have a scratch on him!

How ridiculous is that!

Everyone had thought he would at the very least be badly injured if not dead.

"You're too weak!" Levi commented with a snigger.

Back then, he had taken on more than a hundred God class fighters the Eighteen-Nation Alliance had thrown at him. Alone.

Individually, none of them were weaker than Damien at all.

"Time for you to lose!"

With that, Levi threw out his fist.

BOOM!

His punch sounded like an explosion, causing everyone to go deaf momentarily. All they could hear was a loud ringing in their ears.

In fact, some would later describe this like they had been standing in the middle of a warzone while a hundred bombs went off around them.

Watching the fist that sped toward him, Damien tried to meet it with his own.

Thud!

Unfortunately, he was unable to withstand the power at all. Damien was thrown backward like a ragdoll, blood spurting from his mouth.

He crashed to the floor, disbelief shining in his eyes.

I lost?

“Damien lost? How can that be? How could he have possibly lost?”

Nobody could accept this brutal reality.

The strongest of the younger generation of Garrisons had been defeated!

How horrifying!

That meant that Levi Garrison was also a God class fighter!

Although Emma and Zoey did not know much about the ranking system, they were happy enough that he was so powerful.

No words could describe their pride in him right now!

The Garrison clan was completely frozen in shock.

“No! That can’t be! My son cannot possibly lose! He can’t! He has to win, no matter what!”

Tyrone and Olivia glanced at each other, determined glints in their eyes.

In the past few years, Damien had practically bulldozed over every single opponent he had come across. He had never once lost!

That was also the reason why the Garrison clan was so proud and arrogant.

If he actually lost, that would severely tarnish the Garrison clan's name and reputation!

The other fighters in the family looked at each other meaningfully, the same thoughts crossing their minds.

They had to make sure Damien won even if it meant cheating! He could not lose, not even once!

As the most powerful ancient family, the Garrison clan did not know the meaning of the word "defeat."

By this point, Damien was also shooting pleading looks at his father.

Their thoughts echoed that of the other clan members.

Tyrone hurried over to Damien's side and surreptitiously shoved a pill at him.

Damien swallowed it quickly.

This pill was a special drug that could unlock a person's full potential.

At the same time, Tyrone and several of the other elite fighters pressed their hands against Damien. They transferred their energies into him, boosting his power even more.

With these two guarantees, he was definitely going to be able to win against Levi!

At this point, nobody cared that they were using such despicable methods to cheat.

When it came to these influential and powerful families, their glamorous and perfect image was just a front for how dirty and disgusting they truly were.

Damien's power increased dramatically under the inflow of energies and the pill.

Five times!

Ten times!

A hundred times!

His power was now a hundred times his previous level!

Whoosh!

Like a phoenix reborn, Damien rose to his feet while his hostile aura exploded out of him. Strong gusts of winds swirled around him.

Feeling the power coursing through his veins, Damien let out a demonic laugh.

This was the first time he had felt so much power!

He was beyond giddy, drunk on the feeling of being invisible!

At that moment, he felt like he could even kill God himself!

“Die, Levi Garrison!” he roared like some demon from Hell.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1184

Anybody who was observant enough would realize what the Garrison clan had done.

But this was the most powerful ancient family in Erudia.

Nobody dared to speak up even if they were mad about it.

“What the hell is this? That’s cheating! How can the Garrison clan do that?” Dale protested in righteous anger.

After all, he was standing on Zoey’s side, which by extension meant Levi’s side. Of course he would be mad at seeing the Garrison clan members cheating.

“Hasn’t the Garrison clan always been like that? They’re ruthless when it comes to getting what they want! The fact that this concerns Damien is making them even more uncaring of anything else! After all, if he loses, that means the Garrisons lose too! There’s no way they’ll allow him to be defeated!” someone piped up.

Dale huffed angrily, “So we’re going to do nothing but watch?”

The people nearest to him sighed. “There’s nothing we can do but endure this! This is the Garrison clan we’re talking about.”

“Argh!” Dale hit his chest anxiously.

He was helpless and he knew it. The most he could do was complain.

Zoey panicked when she heard that short conversation.

It was just so unfair that the Garrison clan cheated!

This was not a one on one match with Damien.

This was Levi fighting against the entire Garrison clan!

That meant he was in even more danger!

It did not matter how strong he was.

If the Garrison clan was really as ruthless as they said, then he would be dead either way.

What a bunch of bullies! He was only supposed to fight Damien!

“What a pity! Levi is definitely one of the rare true geniuses out there. Unfortunately, he just had to piss off the Garrison clan. I guess it’s his fate to fall by their hands!”

Everyone was already lamenting the loss of such potential.

But they did not have a choice.

Nobody could actually control the Garrison clan for they did not have the courage nor the power to do so.

Due to his increased power, Damien had left the title of God class behind. He was probably closer to the legendary Ultimate class now.

Anyone in the Ultimate class was absolutely terrifying.

It was said that they could take on tens of thousands of men singlehandedly and still win like it was a walk in the park. They were the ultimate warriors that could not be taken down easily even with an army and heavy weaponry.

The only thing was that an Ultimate class warrior was nearly extinct for how rare they were.

Running into a God class warrior was already rare enough, let alone an Ultimate class one.

Damien stalked toward Levi, the sheer power emanating from him pressing down on the other people present. They struggled to breathe as it felt like a boulder was pressing down on their chests.

“Levi Garrison, I won’t lose!” Damien bellowed before swinging his fist out.

The destructive force behind this punch was a hundred times his earlier attack, capable of destroying entire mountains!

He was absolutely certain that this blow would obliterate Levi once and for all.

“Hahaha!”

Levi’s lips curled into a mocking sneer before he met Damien’s fist with his own.

BOOM!

The impact of that collision was like a satellite smashing into Earth, sending shockwaves everywhere.

“Urgh!”

“Ack!”

More than a few people coughed out blood from the shockwaves that had slammed into them.

As a whole, the entire crowd was also pushed back more than a dozen meters.

CRACK!

At last, the plaza could no longer hold up under this assault. The entire floor collapsed beneath their feet.

What was even more frightening was that Damien had been defeated.

He had been shoved back twenty meters, his feet leaving two deep furrows in the ground.

Even in this state, Damien had lost?

Just how powerful was Levi?

Everyone was utterly dumbfounded.

"I-I... can't lose! I can't lose!" Damien screamed.

He continued to push his body over and beyond his limits. It was obvious he was going to defeat Levi or at least die trying!

Wham! Wham! Wham!

Levi pummeled Damien three more times, leaving the latter a bloody mess.

Damien's body crumpled to the floor lifelessly.

In the end, the coffin he had custom ordered would become his final resting place!

Tyrone and Olivia screamed when they saw their son fall. "My son! Levi Garrison, you'll pay for this! Men, kill him!"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1185

The bloodied form of Damien lay on the floor for all to see.

Zoey had been quick to cover her daughter's eyes, not wanting her to see such a horrible sight.

Is Levi really that powerful? He's really not afraid of the Garrisons, is he? They really did wrongfully blame him!

Everyone was stunned at Damien's defeat, especially since he had already been boosted by the pill and energies of others.

How fearsome!

"You can make use of this yourself!"

With that said, Levi kicked open the lid of the coffin and threw Damien inside.

Scritch scritch!

Using a dagger, he carved some words into the gravestone. Here lies Damien Garrison.

Slam!

When he was done, he rammed the gravestone into the ground.

Levi's rapid defeat of Damien caught the Garrison clan off guard and they were absolutely incensed.

This was the biggest taunt Levi could ever do to the Garrison clan.

I killed off your future, all your hopes and dreams!

The Garrison clan members were about to lose their minds.

Levi had killed off Damien, their best and brightest! He was supposed to be the future of the Garrison clan!

Not only that, but he had also been the future of the Garcia family too!

After all, he had Garcia blood flowing through his veins as well.

Both families were crazed with anger as they yelled, "Die! Kill him!"

Warrior after warrior appeared and gathered together. Every single one of them was a God class fighter.

One.

Two.

...

Seventy-one!

It was absolutely astonishing and daunting!

It had taken all eighteen countries of the Eighteen-Nation Alliance to gather even a hundred God class warriors.

Yet the Garrison clan and Garcia family alone already had seventy-one God class warriors!

This was the might of the number one and two ancient families in Erudia.

There were two characteristics that separated a God class warrior from a normal human. Other than their incredible power, they also lived a lot longer than an ordinary person due to their stronger life energies.

That was why a lot of the God class warriors before Levi now were actually rather old.

Since they had pinned all their hopes on Damien, there was no way they would let Levi off the hook for killing him!

“You’re dead, you hear me? Dead!” Zed Garcia hollered.

Tyrone was also screaming like a madman, “Do you seriously think I won’t kill you?”

Despite being faced with the pressure of so many God class warriors, Levi was extremely delighted!

It reminded him of back then when he was facing the God class warriors of the Eighteen-Nation Alliance!

“Wonderful, wonderful!” he crowed while laughing.

“Boss, let us take them!” White Tiger offered as the five of them stepped forward eagerly.

Levi shook his head. “No. This is my business so I’ll handle them myself!”

He was not the slightest bit afraid of these seventy plus God class warriors.

It was not like he had not already experienced this once before!

“Are there any more? All of you should come at me together! It’ll save me a lot of time!”

He wagged his finger at them tauntingly.

Such arrogance!

Even now, he was still provoking the people here!

It was clear he was completely disrespectful to the Garrison clan and Garcia family!

Tyrone thundered, “So you think you’re that good, huh? I’d like to see just how capable a fighter you are! The Garrison clan has an abundance of elite fighters! If they’re not enough, we still have the top three fighters of the Saber Leaderboard! We also have the Guardian of the Garrison Clan!”

“Kill him!”

Immediately, all the God class warriors charged at Levi simultaneously.

The ensuing battle was chaotic and intense.

From where they were standing by the sidelines, White Tiger and the other four could feel their blood pounding through their veins in excitement.

It was like they were seeing the legendary and undefeatable God of War again.

A short while later, Levi was standing tall with his white shirt stained crimson with blood.

Around him, all seventy-one God class warriors were groaning or howling with pain.

They had been utterly defeated!

It was outrageous how strong Levi was!

He had singlehandedly wiped out the best fighters the Garrison clan and Garcia family had!

The crowd was abuzz at the shocking event.

“T-This... That... That’s just too scary!”

“I’ve never seen anyone as powerful as him!”

Tyrone and the rest of the Garrison clan members had not expected Levi would be that strong either.

“Levi, don’t think that we’ll admit defeat just like that! Please grace us with your presence, Elder Teneb!” Tyrone yelled.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1186

It was absolutely outrageous how formidable Levi was!

They had never seen a young man as terrifying as him before.

In fact, they had never even heard of the existence of someone remotely like him!

Tyrone was dumbstruck.

This is my son? If only we had accepted him into the family back then, we would be unstoppable right now! The other families would be bowing down before our might for at least a hundred years, maybe even more! The Garrison clan would have attained new heights! However, now that things have deteriorated to this extent, what's more important is protecting our pride and reputation. We have to defeat him!

Thus, the only option they had left was to bring in the one man in their clan that was like a living god – Teneb.

Rumors had it that Teneb was an Ultimate class warrior, which was why he had managed to live so long.

At one hundred and thirty years old, his energy was still strong.

None of the people present had expected Levi would be so powerful that the Garrison clan would need to invite Teneb to the scene.

In no time at all, Teneb was escorted down to the plaza.

Thump!

The Garrison clan members fell to their knees before the old man, chorusing, "Please seek justice for us, Elder Teneb! The disowned son, Levi Garrison, refused to acknowledge his ancestors and elders! He beat up his own cousins and even his elders! He even killed the Garrison clan's hope, Damien! Please eradicate him for the sake of the clan, Elder Teneb!"

...

Presently, the Garrison clan was acknowledging Levi's identity as a Garrison. However, they were now painting him as someone heartless and disrespectful.

Cough cough!

To their immense surprise, Teneb's body shook as he coughed violently, spitting out blood.

"What? Elder Teneb... You're injured?"

The color drained from everyone's faces at that thought.

But then they recalled the commotion that had come from the forbidden grounds yesterday and understood.

Elder Teneb must have fought with someone yesterday and gotten hurt! To be able to injure the Guardian of the Garrison clan, how formidable must that person be? Was it yet another Ultimate class warrior?

That was an incredibly daunting thought. Having it be someone from the God class was already scary enough, but another Ultimate class?

It was said the gap between a God and Ultimate class was nearly insurmountable.

If one were to achieve the rank of Ultimate, that would mean he had gone beyond the limits of a mortal!

What was even more amazing was their combat prowess and longevity!

One could take on an army of ten thousand men by himself and his life was extended infinitely...

When it came to influence, it was said that having an Ultimate class warrior in a country was the best defense that country could have.

With an Ultimate class warrior on the frontlines, any army would quail in fear!

That was why everyone thought the culprit who injured Teneb was another Ultimate class warrior.

Wiping away the blood trickling from his lips, Teneb nodded. "Yes, I'm injured."

Then, he turned to look at Levi.

"Don't tell me it's Levi who did this to you?"

Disbelief was writ across everybody's faces.

"That's right. It was him!" Teneb nodded. "I gathered everyone here today because of this important issue!"

In an instant, everyone realized why Teneb had called back all the Garrison clan members.

Pfft!

A coppery taste spread through Tyrone's mouth before blood gushed out of his mouth.

To think they had been throwing the younger generations at Levi when he had already defeated their strongest member, Teneb!

Was there any limit to Levi's power? He had singlehandedly obliterated the entire Garrison clan!

Tyrone ranted, "No, we haven't lost yet! The truly strong fighters are not here yet!"

He was referring to the clan members on the Saber Leaderboard, in particular Yancy, Lyle and Micah. Those three really were the strongest fighters the Garrison clan had left.

If they took on Levi together, it was likely they might win.

Soon, Yancy arrived with more than a dozen fighters from the Saber Leaderboard.

Burt, Lincon and the others who had joined the Hidden Dragon training camp also arrived.

“The Garrison clan can’t lose!” Yancy shouted.

But as his eyes locked onto Levi’s in the next instant, he was dumbstruck.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1187

Yancy was not the only one who had such a drastic change in demeanor.

Lyle and Micah's expression fell when they got a good look at Levi's face.

Behind them, Brandon, Greg and the other fighters were also looking pale.

As the best fighters on the Saber Leaderboard, how could they not recognize Levi?

Especially since the leaderboard was set up by Levi's subordinates!

Thump!

"Yancy Garrison greets the God of War!"

Thump!

"Lyle Garrison greets the God of War!"

Thump!

"Micah Garrison greets the God of War!"

...

Brandon.

Greg.

Hayner.

Lincon.

Burt.

In the blink of an eye, all the Garrison clan members who were in the military were kneeling before Levi.

They chorused, "All hail the God of War!"

This rapid turn of events was just too shocking!

Everyone present was completely caught by surprise.

Why would Yancy and the rest kneel to Levi?

They were the top three fighters on the Saber Leaderboard, the best warriors in all of Erudia!

Even Teneb was taken aback at their actions.

Just who is he? What is this "God of War?"

He was so astounded his thinking seemed to have ground to a halt.

"The Stuart family greets the God of War!" Azure Dragon suddenly shouted before he and his family members all kneeled down.

"The Preston family greets the God of War!"

"The Meyers family greets the God of War!"

"The Gott family greets the God of War!"

...

What followed was even more astonishing!

All sixteen of the imperial families and the thirty-two royal families got down on their knees before Levi, shouting the exact same sentence as the others.

The quasi-royal and prominent families followed their lead and kneeled as well.

In an incredibly short amount of time, the thousands of people in the plaza were all kneeling.

It was a mind-blowing sight.

The Garrison clan and Zoey were unable to react as their minds went blank.

Awooo!

Suddenly, the eerie howling of wolves could be heard.

Everybody glanced around, finally spotting the eighteen figures that had appeared on a nearby hill. The figures were riding on wolves.

At once, everyone realized who they were.

These were the subordinates of the God of War, his Cavalry Regiment!

“Azure Dragon greets the God of War!”

“Kirin greets the God of War!”

“Phoenix greets the God of War!”

“White Tiger greets the God of War!”

“Black Tortoise greets the God of War!”

The Five Great Wars Regiment also went down on their knees.

Thud! Thud! Thud!

The sound of synchronized marching rang out before row after row of men in black clothing appeared.

These were the Dragon Warriors that had appeared in Jason's house previously!

"The Dragon Warriors greet the God of War!"

The Dragon Warriors got down on one knee, giving Levi their highest gesture of respect!

"The Specter Army greets the God of War!"

Yet another group of soldiers arrived to greet Levi.

Then, even more appeared.

"The Ruby Army greets the God of War!"

"The Sapphire Army greets the God of War!"

"The Emerald Army greets the God of War!"

"The Topaz Army greets the God of War!"

Four separate groups appeared. These four were yet more undefeatable regiments that had been personally trained by Levi.

Coincidentally, they had been in Oakland City so they decided to come.

"The Dragonites greet the God of War! Welcome to Oakland City!"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1188

Another group of soldiers appeared.

It was the representative army of Oakland City – the Dragonites!

The initially spacious plaza was now completely filled to overflowing with more than ten thousand people there kneeling to Levi!

The Garrison clan, Zoey and Emma were at a loss for what to do.

They stood there dumbly, still in a daze from what they had seen.

“Asura is here with Zar, Bolgun and Talon!”

A commanding voice announced loudly.

Winsor strode over with three of his own regiments of men. His men were all wearing demon masks. However, there were three kinds of masks to differentiate them into their separate regiments.

“Zar greets the God of War!”

“Bolgun greets the God of War!”

“Talon greets the God of War!”

As the three men said that, their individual regiments all kneeled before Levi and addressed him as well.

It was a truly majestic scene!

These were all of Erudia's fiercest and strongest armies!

Each was capable of defeating a ten thousand men army themselves!

It would not be an exaggeration to say all the soldiers present here right now were equivalent to millions of normal men!

That meant more than a million men were currently worshipping the God of War!

"Winsor Campbell greets the God of War!"

Even Winsor had to address Levi respectfully, but only because the latter was stronger than him.

Rank-wise, they were of equal rank. Thus, Winsor did not have to kneel. It was enough that he bow as a sign of respect.

Since Levi was here to accept the challenge, of course Winsor had to make an appearance to support him.

Winsor was a man of great reputation and influence.

All the influential families in Oakland City knew him, especially since he had appeared last year as well.

With such a jaw-dropping turnout, it was obvious now who Levi was.

This young man in his twenties was none other than Erudia's own God of War!

He was Erudia's best defense, able to strike terror into every other countries' hearts!

"G-God of War...?"

The first to snap out of his shock was Teneb. Now he understood how he had lost.

How could he possibly win against the God of War?

Zed and the Garcia family members were close to crying.

They finally knew why Conrad, who had been crippled, had chosen to let things go. He had absolutely refused to speak about what happened to him.

It turned out that he had offended the God of War. Who had the guts to pursue this matter further?

No way the Garcia family was going to let themselves be exterminated!

Dale was completely blown away by this revelation.

It was dawning on him why Jerry would risk pissing off the Lehman family and break off his marriage contract with Zoey.

Jerry must have known about Levi's true identity.

That was why he would rather die than actually snatch the God of War's wife away from him!

Speaking of dying...

Edwin felt like a bolt of lightning had struck him.

What did I do yesterday? I was actually trying to force the God of War to give us an explanation while on his knees! What an idiot! I'm definitely going to die for this!

"Woohoo, Daddy's amazing! Daddy's so cool!"

Among all the people present, little Forlevia was the most clearheaded at that moment.

As a young child, she did not understand what the adults were talking about. All she knew was that a lot of people were kneeling before her father.

Of course he's amazing! He's the venerable God of War himself!

Zoey's blank eyes gradually brightened as she slowly began to make the connections.

“The God of War?”

“Wait a minute, the God of War?”

“My husband is the God of War?”

A crazed expression made its way onto her face and she was close to losing her composure.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1189

Emma was slowly hit with the realization as well.

It can't be? No way. It turns out what Levi said was all true!

My fantasies actually turned into reality?

Am I dreaming?

She gave herself a hard pinch and felt a sharp pain.

"You Garrison folks know nothing... We know better!" the Stuart family shouted.

The entire Garrison clan was struck with a deep realization, as though someone had just poured ice-cold water on them.

Why has Levi always been so disdainful towards the Garrison clan?

Why did he agree to the bet if he did not care about the Garrison clan?

In the past, everyone used to think that Levi was a dumb fool.

However, it turned out that he simply did not take the Garrison clan seriously at all!

The Garrison clan finally figured out why the God of War's last name was Garrison.

The God of War is Levi Garrison!

They had spent a great deal of effort to investigate which branch of the Garrison clan he was from, but they did not expect him to be from their branch.

They also realized he was the same person that Tyrone almost killed.

That moment, Tyrone recalled Jonah's warning to him and Damien.

They had disagreed with Jonah at that time, but Jonah already knew of Levi's identity then.

Tyrone's face suddenly turned pale as he recollected the first time he met Levi face-to-face.

He suddenly understood that Emma wasn't the one who leaked the secret to Levi.

Of course, Levi found out by himself!

Given his status, it was a piece of cake for him to investigate this!

How naïve of me to think that he would use this to blackmail me...

I was wrong!

Absolutely wrong!

Someone of his status and position wouldn't do this!

People generally regarded Levi as arrogant and aloof, but what they didn't know was that his status was way above theirs.

On the other hand, the Garrison clan treated him as a lowly creature, but he was actually an extraordinary and mighty being.

The crowd took a deep breath when they thought about how easily Levi resolved the matter that the Garrison clan confronted him with.

They should have known better that he wasn't a common man.

But they were blind-sided by Morris Group.

They underestimated the company and did not take it seriously.

All sorts of thoughts ran through their mind at that time. The God of War?

Levi Garrison is actually the God of War!

Who said a single man's hard work over several decades cannot compare with the blood, sweat and tears of prominent families who have been around for generations?

Whoever said that was wrong. It's absolutely possible!

The chances of this happening might be one in a million, but it is not impossible.

Levi Garrison is living proof of that possibility!

My son is the God of War?

With Levi around, would Damien still be of any use?

Could he possibly match up to Levi?

What a shame!

What an absolute shame!

If only the Garrison clan brought Levi back earlier, the God of War would be a part of the clan!

Who wouldn't be convinced then?

The Garrison clan's power would be on the rise, and going up the social ladder wouldn't be a problem at all!

If that happened, it would actually be possible to dominate the whole of Bayview...

But it is too late to cry over spilled milk now!

We were the ones who pushed Levi to the enemy's side...

Damien even ruined his wedding...

Now he's taking revenge!

Levi looked at the thousands of people kneeling before him and shouted, "Get up!"

Everyone quickly stood up synchronously.

He then grabbed his mother and walked up to Tyrone.

"Did you ever dream of this day, that I would personally defeat the Garrison clan? Do you think it's that difficult to defeat the clan? I'll show you how it's done! Mother and I are here to demand an explanation today!" he said with a contemptuous grin.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1190

Levi's words cut like a knife while his voice sounded like roaring thunder.

His overwhelming presence swept across the crowd.

Whoosh...

Every member of the Garrison clan was suddenly short of breath.

It was as though a large rock had knocked the breath right out of them, leaving them gasping for air.

Thump! Thump! Their hearts pounded rapidly.

Several people who could not withstand the psychological pressure started collapsing onto the ground one after another.

Their entire bodies were drenched in cold sweat.

It was a horrifying sight.

Showcasing his powers, Levi was like a god who had descended from the heavens, and mere ordinary folk could not withstand his attacks.

Tyrone, who was standing closest to Levi at this moment, turned pale white.

His legs started trembling as a layer of cold sweat formed on his forehead.

Levi glared at Tyrone. So what if you're the head of Erudia's first ancient family?

You can't kneel before the God of War?

"You and the Garrison clan both owe me an explanation!" he bellowed.

Boom!

Lightning suddenly struck the Garrison clan as Levi demanded an explanation from them.

"Alright, it's time to question Tyrone and the rest of the Garrison clan! When my mother was pregnant back then, she knelt in front of the Garrison family home for three whole days. Where were you, and what were you doing? Why did you abandon your wife and child? Why did you choose to kill your own flesh and blood? Why are you so cold-hearted to my mother? Did she do anything to wrong you?" he interrogated Tyrone and stared at the entire clan.

Every member of the clan, including Tyrone, lowered their heads and did not dare to look at Levi.

Everyone remained quiet.

"Speak up!" Levi roared and slammed the main door.

In a wink, the door crumbled and turned into dust.

At that moment, Levi was like a demon who had unleashed his rage on all of humanity.

Thud!

Thud!

There was a seemingly invisible force that forced everyone to kneel down one after another, but no one could explain what was going on.

There was no logical explanation for this phenomenon.

Boom!

Tyrone could no longer withstand the overwhelming pressure and finally collapsed on his knees.

Olivia, Kenny, and Teneb were all on their knees too.

They could not stand the pressure either!

By then, every single member of the Garrison clan was kneeling down before Levi.

Erudia's first ancient family finally surrendered to Levi Garrison!

"Hahaha..." Emma chuckled in delight as tears started rolling down her cheeks.

"Olivia, didn't you think I was inferior to you? That my son is of a lowly bloodline? What do you think now? Can your son compared to mine?" Emma yelled.

But Olivia remained silent.

"Your clan used to look down on me, thinking that my blood was less human than yours just because I am from a humble family. Back then, I dreamt of standing in front of all of you and telling you that my son will one day rule the world. Now, look at you, aren't you all kneeling before my son?" Emma sneered.

Tyrone and the rest of the clan continued to hold their silence until she finished ranting.

For the first time in her life, Emma felt relieved.

The Garrison clan trembled with fear as they stood speechless before Levi.

"Why are all of you kneeling before a bastard? Hahaha... We'll deal with you all soon..." she added sarcastically.

Levi then turned to look at Zoey, saying, "Zoey, I'll give you an explanation right now!"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1191

"I actually wanted to tell you everything at the wedding, but Damien's unexpected intrusion disrupted my plan! Later on, I wanted to explain while I dealt with the Garrisons, but something unexpected happened. The Dragonites transferred me out under their highest order and made it my mission to annihilate Blood King Palace. Because of that, I had to be away for the past year and a half. I missed the birth of our child and the agreement with the Garrison clan, and you were left to fend for yourself..." Levi explained why he went missing for one and a half years.

Everyone finally understood the real reason behind his disappearance.

He had been tasked to wipe out Blood King Palace.

"This was all in fact a scheme by my enemies from overseas to separate you and Mother from me!" Levi continued.

"Then why were we not in danger after you left? I even went overseas..." Zoey questioned him.

"Erudia had sent Asura to protect you from the ten thousand men who were waiting to ambush you at Keerea airport. Meanwhile, Mother was protected by Zar, Bolgun, and Talon," Levi explained.

Zoey then understood why things had been so smooth for her when Levi was away.

There were always people around to protect her.

Even when Asura tried to attack her when her negotiations with the Garrison clan failed, there were men looking after her.

“Zoey, I’m sorry I wasn’t there for you and our child. But trust me when I say I’m Erudia’s God of War. Your husband now rules the world!” Levi finally made it up to her with a complete explanation.

“I’m so proud of you, darling!” Zoey hugged him tightly as she burst into tears.

This is my husband!

My pride and my hero!

He is the world’s best husband!

“You kept all this from me for so long. Why didn’t you tell me earlier...” She sobbed.

Thinking back on what she went through for the last two years, she realized everything that happened was no coincidence.

Levi had always been in control of every event in her life, and everything started to make sense to her.

“What a perfect explanation! You are indeed Erudia’s hero! We owe you a huge apology!” Dale took the initiative to apologize.

“I was wrong too!” Edwin got down on his knees.

“The Garrisons should kneel for three whole days! If Tyrone can take a punch from me, I’ll let this matter go!” Levi offered the Garrison clan an ultimatum.

From a wider point of view, he knew that it was best not to annihilate the Garrison clan.

Finally, Tyrone stood before him.

Bash!

Levi threw a hard punch without any reservation, and Tyrone’s body flew over a hundred meters before he hit a wall.

No one knew if he survived.

Meanwhile, the rest of the Garrison clan had to kneel for three entire days to atone for their sins.

As the public caught wave of this news, many shady figures watched on in the dark.

They were not Erudians, and but were Tenichi's men.

"Levi's repeated assaults have triggered the Blood King Palace's most poisonous attack! He is about to battle Asura again, and he will die without a doubt!" One of the spies sneered.

The Blood King Palace's poison was the best weapon they could use to defeat Levi.

That very moment, Levi was suddenly overcome by an unpleasant sensation.

He felt like the sky was spinning as he struggled to stand up straight.

Feeling nauseous, he tried his best to hold back his vomit.

But he clearly felt that the effects of the toxin were a lot stronger this time.

He had battled Teneb and the seventy-one God class warriors of the Garrison clan before, so he was surprised that he was feeling this weak.

How come I can't seem to control the poison this time? How is this possible?

Levi's expression changed drastically.

"God of War, it's time for our battle now!" someone exclaimed.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1192

As Levi felt his body spin out of control because of the poison, Asura suddenly appeared.

He had come to fulfil his end of the battle.

Levi continued to bear with the poison as much as he could while fearing he might pass out or vomit blood.

At this critical moment, Asura turned up to challenge him.

"Are you alright?" Winsor sensed that Levi wasn't doing well.

Nevertheless, Levi covered up his pain and discomfort so well that Winsor could not tell in the end.

"I'm fine. I'm just excited!" Levi answered with a chuckle.

That moment, he exhausted every bit of strength in him to fight the Blood King Palace's poison.

On the surface, he looked fine, but inside, his body was completely ruined.

Meanwhile, several spies were having a discussion between themselves somewhere in the dark. "Hahaha, the Blood King Palace's poison is indeed powerful. Even the God of War cannot withstand it!" the first spy said.

"Did you know it took forty years for the Blood King Palace to develop this poison so he can defeat the strongest warrior!" another spy said.

"This time, Levi Garrison will definitely die. It will a wish come true for Blood King Palace and his military strategist!" a third one replied.

They knew best how powerful this poison was.

While Levi fights Teneb, Damien, and the seventy-one God class warriors of the Garrison clan, the poison would spread throughout his body.

No matter how strong Levi was, it would be too late for him.

The poison would have attacked every inch of his body.

The most unique characteristic of this poison was its ability to consume human blood and energy.

Even the gods would not be able to save him by then!

Moreover, Levi would have to face another powerful opponent, Winsor Campbell.

So his death would be inevitable.

All of this was within Tenichi's plans, though some factors were beyond his control, such as Levi's initial battle against the Garrison clan warriors.

Nevertheless, this was still favorable for him.

Winsor, on the other hand, did not bother about it much either.

After all, he and Levi had already reached such a high point.

Defeating the Garrison clan would not be a difficult task at all.

So he thought their agreed battle would not be a problem as well.

However, he did not know what Levi was enduring physically.

He glanced at Levi and said, "Come on, let's settle this right now! The whole world knows the God of War, but few know of Asura. People will assume you are stronger than me, but I don't think I'm any weaker than you. You've rejected my challenges more than ten times these few years! Today, the opportunity has finally come, and I want to prove to the world that Winsor Campbell is no weaker than you!"

In the blink of an eye, Winsor altered his appearance. It was as though he was a demon reborn from hell.

"Alright, I accept your challenge! If I win, you will have to work under my command. If I lose, I'll let you take over as the God of War!" Levi mustered up his energy and accepted Winsor's challenge.

"No, the position was originally mine! I will only be taking back what's rightfully mine!" Winsor retorted.

He was completely consumed by the idea of becoming the God of War, and this obsession was the driving force for his insane actions.

All his life, he had been waiting for the day he could finally defeat Levi Garrison.

Just as the battle between Levi and Winsor was about to start, White Tiger suddenly exclaimed, "There's something wrong with the boss! He seems to be injured!"

"I think so too!" Kirin echoed.

Phoenix, Kirin, and the other subordinates knew Levi well.

Even if he looked fine to others, they could tell that he was in trouble.

They sensed that he was injured.

Thinking that he was capable of fighting Asura, White Tiger took a deep breath and said, "Why don't I take Levi's place for the battle?"

"No, you can't change opponents at this moment," said Winsor.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1193

Next, the huge battle began between Levi and Winsor.

From the moment they made their first move, the crowd was astounded and astonished by their actions.

Everyone was suddenly forced to step back about one hundred meters, and there was nowhere left for them to stand on in the middle of the grounds.

Between them, they released airwaves that were strong enough to send a few people flying away, and a number of people were injured because of this as well.

It was a dark fight indeed.

The Garrison clan compound had completely collapsed.

All the surrounding trees were destroyed and even the two stone lions at the entrance had exploded without anybody's realization.

Nobody had ever witnessed such an earth-shattering battle before.

After all, both of them were practically invincible, having defeated thousands of soldiers on the battlefield.

In terms of fighting prowess, they were of the ultimate class at the very least.

Hence, this was definitely the battle of the century.

Asura gave it his all in this battle, vividly displaying every inch of his cruel and ruthless side.

Having singlehandedly killed more than eight thousand people belonging to a terrifying organization from the Western Dark World, Asura was carnage personified!

However, this was Levi he was battling with.

“Terrific! This is absolutely marvelous!”

Everyone could not help but sing their praises.

Pfft!

However, something unforeseen had happened. Levi suddenly fell backward and fresh blood was spurting out of his mouth.

Seizing the opportunity, Winsor did not give him any breathing room and went all out.

The combat resumed.

Pfft!

Levi was sent flying across the air once again.

As he lay on the ground, Levi could feel his head spinning. The Blood King Palace’s ultimate poison was way too powerful.

In fact, it was definitely fatal!

Before this, Levi was still holding on firmly.

However, after the rigorous battle with Winsor, he could no longer suppress the poison.

He had always known that Asura was very strong, and from that battle, he could gauge his powers.

Strong!

He was incredibly, terrifyingly strong!

However, Levi had his own way to defeat him!

Despite being poisoned, as long as Levi channeled all of his energy into that one strike, Winsor will definitely lose!

At this moment, two voices appeared in his mind.

One said, Levi, you cannot lose, you must give it your all to defeat Winsor!

The other voice said, Put everything down and be with your wife and daughter.

The two voices were interweaving in his mind.

Levi had owed Zoey way too much over all these years.

He really wanted to give up his identity as God of War. All he wanted to do was to be a commoner who could spend quality time with his family.

Previously, when Asura helped to protect Zoey and her parents, Levi really wanted to vacate his position as God of War.

However, the more he thought about it, it did not feel right to him.

The entire Erudia acknowledged him and his position.

While Winsor was welcomed to take over, he had to defeat Levi first!

The latter was the God of War, and in the face of every challenge, he would definitely give it his all and never give up!

He could not throw the game, and he definitely could not be defeated!

Bang!

At this moment, Levi's energy suddenly elevated rapidly, as if he was an awakened beast.

His frightening aura made everyone's blood run cold.

Suddenly, everyone felt like they were short of breath and found it hard to even breathe.

Terrifying!

This was simply too terrifying!

Is this the Levi Garrison who had fought off one hundred thousand soldiers all by himself?

White Tiger and the rest were excited as the undefeatable devil from the battlefield emerged in their vision once again.

It was indeed extremely frightening!

Winsor's face changed.

He could feel fear now that Levi had levelled up.

All smiles disappeared from his disciple Zar's face.

They had just assumed that they were about to win this.

The spies were dumbfounded as they witnessed everything from the dark corners.

Was Levi that strong?

Even that did not kill him, and he could still fight?

From the looks of it, he might even defeat Asura?

Where were his limits?

No!

Levi must not be allowed to live, and definitely not allowed to win!

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1194

“Did you really think you hide so well that no one has seen you?”

Suddenly, the spies heard a frosty voice next to them.

Specters appeared all around them.

It was the Specter Army!

“Kill!”

.....

Immediately, the spies were all killed.

There was no longer anyone doing secret sabotage.

Levi could now fight fair and square with Winsor.

“Alright, you have finally revealed your true powers!”

Winsor shouted with glee.

His powers were being elevated continuously as well.

The Garrison clan ancestral compound was submerged by an overwhelming force of strength.

Everyone could feel the great pressure exuded from the battle.

“Come on, fight!!!”

Levi’s eyes turned red.

The Iron Brigade’s motto was to charge, even to the point of death!

The two of them battled once again.

Their movements were so swift, no one could see anything clearly.

With their combined detrimental strength, their aura assaulted the surroundings again and again.

The Garrison compound was no longer as it was, and all of the buildings were already destroyed.

“Is this power of the Ultimate class warrior? Absolutely frightful!”

Everyone held their breaths.

“The end!”

Enduring the spread of the toxins, Levi gathered all of his strength and delivered a powerful blow.

Asura would probably be defeated by this strike even if he had ultimate powers.

However, at this very moment, the strangest thing happened.

Levi actually failed right when he was close to fully recharge his powers.

It was so close as he was just one step away.

Bang!

Asura landed a deafening punch on Levi.

Thud!

Levi's body was sent flying.

He was hurled one hundred meters away and crashed violently onto the ground.

After landing, Levi was in utter disbelief.

Was there someone secretly targeting him?

When he was battling with Asura, he could feel invisible energy forces pressurizing him from all directions.

It was at this very moment that Asura was able to defeat Levi with the most fatal strike of them all!

Seems like somebody does not want me to be the God of War...

It could not be from overseas...

It is too difficult for an elite fighter from overseas to burrow their way in here without being spotted almost immediately.

Therefore, it has to be someone from Erudia!

There is someone here at Erudia who does not want me to continue being the God of War!

Who is that?

Who could that be?

It could not be Asura.

Even though this guy is ruthless and cruel, he will definitely not use cheap tricks like these.

If he knew I was poisoned, he would definitely not fight with me.

He would want to win me fair and square.

Levi's mind spun madly and he quickly came to the conclusion that the person that had just attacked him must be from Erudia.

In fact, that person might be lying in ambush amidst the Oakland City's families.

Oh?

All these years, he had always been battling at the borders and had never offended anyone at Erudia.

Does somebody see me as a threat?

So much that they want to kill me and get me off the position as God of War?

At this moment, Levi stood up once again.

Not noticing that something was off, Asura continued fighting him.

Pfft!

Soon, Levi was flung across the air again.

Pfft!

He got up again only to be sent flying once again.

.....

After a few more times, Levi lay motionless on the ground.

Fresh blood kept flowing nonstop from his mouth.

Finally, he could no longer suppress the poison.

The toxins had spread and had begun to encroach his body.

On top of the injuries from Asura and the secret fighter, he could not take it anymore.

By now, a little child with a knife could finish him off, let alone Asura.

“Y-you...you won...”

Levi felt that his head was becoming heavier.

Bang!

His head slammed against the floor forcefully and he lost all movement.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1195

Silence!

Extreme silence!

One could hear a pin drop.

Everyone was petrified when Levi had no more movement.

This included Asura, who was rooted to the ground.

Cough...

For a full thirty seconds, Asura trembled violently while spurting out fresh blood from his mouth.

This brought everyone back to reality.

In this fight, even though Levi was down, Winsor had also paid a painful price.

He was seriously injured as well.

Levi, who was ambushed repeatedly and poisoned, could still cause such injuries to Asura.

How powerful would he be had he been well?

However, the truth was before them...

Someone did not want to see Levi alive, or rather, did not want him to continue being the God of War.

The legend was defeated in a despicable way!

He did not actually lose!

He was being schemed!

Bang!

Thud!

Each and every one of Levi's closest guards fell on their knees in disbelief of all that was happening before their eyes.

Azure Dragon and a few others rushed to check on Levi's condition.

"I won!"

"I, Winsor Campbell, have defeated the God of War Levi Garrison!"

"That title should've belonged to me long ago! Now, I've won it with my bare hands!"

Winsor screamed and howled maniacally.

This was his glorious moment, or rather, this was the peak of his life!

Not only him, the entire Erudia and all of the ancient families witnessed the fall of Levi!

Winsor was stronger than Levi!

Everyone was more concerned with the outcome rather than the process, and they did not care if Levi had been poisoned, injured, or ambushed.

All they saw was that Levi was defeated...

“Asura Trio...”

“Zar congratulates the God of War on your victory!”

“Asura! Asura! Asura!” The Bolgun yelled.

“God of War, Asura!”

Asura’s guards all fell to their knees and cheered out loud.

“Asura is undefeatable!”

“Asura is Invincible!”

.....

“Hahaha, no longer Asura. He should be addressed as the God of War!”

“Levi has mentioned that if he loses, he will vacate the position!”

Zar said.

“We congratulate the new God of War. May you protect Erudia!”

.....

At this moment, up to one hundred families at Oakland City, including even the Garrisons, Garcias, and the Lehmans, all knelt before Winsor and cheered loudly together.

Winsor waved and said, "Alright, from now on, I am the new God of War!"

"Hahaha..."

He had waited too long for this day to arrive.

Somewhere at Erudia.

A few people were having tea.

"Sir, under our forcible interference, Levi lost and is probably dead by now!"

Someone suddenly reported.

"Alright! Hahaha...he is finally defeated!"

A middle-aged man laughed heartily.

This was the same at various places overseas.

Tenichi, Wheldrake, and Atlantis all received the news of Levi's defeat and even of his death.

It seemed like many places were cheering for joy.

The terrifying force that had suppressed them for years was finally conquered.

This called for a universal celebration!

The amount of hatred for Levi had now turned into joy.

In front of the Garrison family compound.

Zoey and Emma made a dash for Levi.

"Boss..."

"Levi..."

“My son...”

Everyone was cheering.

They shook him a few times but he still did not wake up.

In fact, his body had stiffened and become icy cold.

Zoey put her fingers tentatively in front of his nostrils...

“There is no breath...”

Zoey was shocked beyond madness.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1196

“Darling!!!”

Zoey wailed from the bottom of her soul.

Forlevia began crying out loud as well.

“Wahhhh.....”

Emma could not handle it and passed out immediately.

Azure Dragon, Kirin and the rest also lost their minds.

“Boss!!!”

Levi’s subordinates all roared maniacally.

They began using various ways to wake Levi up, but to no avail. The cruel reality hit them.

There was simply no breath left in Levi...

This was a fact that nobody was willing to accept...

It looked like Levi was dead.

The Calvary Regiment was not calm.

The Specter Army lost their composure.

The Ruby, Emerald, Sapphire, and Topaz Armies could no longer hold themselves together.

Levi had presented himself in front of the Garrison family this day to identify himself. Who would have thought that someone who lorded over Oakland City would come to such an ending?

Not only was he defeated, but he was also dead...

This was something his family was unable to accept no matter what...

Even Asura felt a little curious...

He had noticed that something was off earlier, but he could not point his finger at it.

He did not think too much about it.

The man had always felt that he was stronger than Levi.

Now that he was so seriously injured, it would not be abnormal for Levi to be dead.

“No! Boss, you definitely cannot die!!!”

“I will get Fredrick and the rest to come back immediately!”

Behaving like he had gone mad, White Tiger scrambled to get up.

“Azure Dragon, White Tiger, Specter Army, Dragon Warriors, Cavalry Regiment, Ruby, Emerald, Sapphire, and Topaz Armies – prepare to receive your command!”

“As the God of War, I command you! From now onwards, leave here with me without dissent! Military action will be taken against those who violate my orders!”

Winsor suddenly gave his command.

Based on his cruel and heartless character, he would not care about Levi’s life nor death.

In his eyes, Levi was merely a loser.

Losers did not deserve to live!

There was only one chance!

To him, there was no such thing as a revival!

Therefore, when he saw that Azure Dragon and the rest still wanted to struggle, he immediately gave the command.

However, Levi's guards all ignored him.

"I'll say it once again! As God of War, I command you to leave with me immediately! You will suffer terrible consequences should I be angered!"

Asura roared furiously.

"Who is afraid of you? Come on, I'll fight you!"

White Tiger could not hold back anymore and roared while he charged towards Asura.

"Seeking death, aren't you? White Tiger, you are violating rank protocol here!"

Zar, Bolgun, and Talon were all glaring ferociously at White Tiger.

"Winsor Campbell, I am not afraid of you!"

White Tiger's eyes were filled with intention to fight.

Snap! Snap! Snap!

The Cavalry Regiment, Specter Army and the rest were all staring at Asura in a uniformed manner.

"Are you all not defying the commands of the God of War?"

Asura laughed.

This sparked off a tensed atmosphere immediately.

At this very moment, Azure Dragon, who had been laying down next to Levi, suddenly stood up and roared, "We shall obey! He is the new God of War, and we should obey his commands!"

Azure Dragon's words carried a lot of weight among the group, so the moment he spoke, everyone immediately stopped.

"I refuse!"

White Tiger remained stubborn.

Azure Dragon then murmured in his ears.

His face immediately changed.

Then, he looked down and nodded. "I, White Tiger, am willing to obey the commands. Everyone, listen to Azure Dragon and leave together with the new God of War!"

Even though everyone was extremely unwilling to do so, they still obeyed the commands.

Winsor could not be bothered with that and merely laughed. "Alright, come with me!"

He brought everyone away immediately.

Levi was left there, barely breathing.

Zoey was crying so hard she almost fainted.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1197

Dale and Edwin tested for Levi's breathing, and the former had to tell Zoey the truth that she was forced to accept...

"Child, he is no longer here!"

Bang!

That moment, Zoey felt like her head was about to explode.

She could not find it within herself to accept it!

Right before this, Levi had given her the perfect explanation.

He had let her know that her man lorded over the entire world.

The next moment, something like this happened.

"Hahahaha..."

The Garrisons were overjoyed.

Olivia laughed out loud, "Retribution, this is retribution!"

"Emma, my son is dead, and your son can forget about living too!"

Both the Garrisons and the Garcias were cheering.

Earlier, Levi had even punished them into kneeling for three days and nights. Who would have thought that he would cease to exist the very next moment?

“There is retribution and the heaven is watching!”

Kenny laughed out loud.

Zed too, sneered, “Levi, your end awfully, didn’t you? After you lost, not only did you lose your position as the God of War, but all of your henchmen also left and you even died! Hahaha...”

Pondering, everyone lost in thought. Indeed, Levi ended tragically.

Now, even the smaller families were bullying him.

More frighteningly, Winsor had sent Azure Dragon and the rest to the borders to defend the nation. They were not allowed to return to Erudia within the next ten years.

This was how Winsor cut off their ties with Levi.

However, this was an order and everyone had to accept it.

On top of that, Winsor had also instructed that Fredrick was not allowed to attend to Levi’s injuries.

The military doctor was stuck as well.

This was how Winsor denied Levi any chance of survival.

His motto was that losers had to die.

To Zoey and the few of them, it had been an emotional roller coaster of a day.

If not for the Lehman family protecting her, she would have to suffer as well.

“Is Levi really dead?”

Someone asked.

"It's not possible for him to be alive! There is not enough time to save him right now!"

However, Zoey refused to believe it and still insisted on sending Levi to the hospital.

In the meantime, nobody noticed several people slipping away quietly.

They did not attract anyone's attention with their existence nor departures.

It was as if they were specters...

Clearly, they were the ones lying in ambush!

They waited long enough to confirm Levi's death.

The news that Winsor was now the God of War flew through Erudia and swiftly spread across the entire world.

It was as if the world had experienced a huge explosion.

What happened to the God of War?

He actually lost?

That's the one and only God of War!

However, this just showed that Winsor was stronger!

Only the most invincible one was worthy of this title.

After Zoey sent Levi to the hospital, Benny immediately made his way there to treat him upon receiving the news.

Outside the emergency room.

Zoey and the rest were waiting anxiously.

"Zoey, Levi had no more breath left in him. It is impossible for him to still be alive!"

“Even if Benny Quinton himself comes to heal him, there is no way he could live!”

...

Dale said cruelly.

After all, both Levi and Winsor were no ordinary men. Their battle was beyond anyone’s wildest imagination.

Levi was practically dead earlier.

There was no way that he could still be alive!

“No, as long as there is hope, I will continue to wait!”

Zoey looked determined.

Time passed and soon, it had been over a dozen of hours.

The red light outside the emergency room was still on.

Desperation filled Zoey.

“No, no, no...”

She kept muttering.

Slam!

The door to the emergency room suddenly swung open.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1198

Benny walked out with exhaustion written all over his face.

Zoey and Emma, who had just woken up, rushed to him instantly.

“Mr. Quinton, how is he?”

The two of them asked hurriedly.

Benny tugged at his mask and gave them a deep bow. “I am sorry, I tried my best. He still did not wake up.”

Bang!

This piece of news was completely distressing to Zoey and Emma.

Both of them fell to the ground immediately.

“However, he is not dead!”

Benny’s words made everyone regain hope.

“What? Not dead? That means there is still hope for him to wake up?”

Zoey wiped her tears away and rays of light shone from her eyes.

“Yes, he is not dead! I have never seen such will and determination in a person! That’s how he is staying alive!”

Benny recalled, "I remember him telling me that as an Erudian warrior, he needs to keep fighting till the very end. He is probably surviving with this iron-strong will of his!"

"When will he be able to wake up?"

Zoey was very worried.

"There is no certainty! Based on the statistics, there is a ninety-nine percent chance that he will not wake up, with only one percent chance that he will! We don't know when that will happen. It could be a few years, or it could be decades..."

Benny told them the cruel truth.

"What???"

Zoey did not expect the situation to be so serious, and for hope to be so elusive!

"Don't you have any other way, Mr. Quinton?"

Emma cried.

"No. Right now, it's all up to his good luck..."

Benny seemed like he did not want to see this happening as well.

Zoey was very determined. "No, it's alright as long as there is still hope! I believe that Levi will not just abandon us like this. He will definitely wake up!"

"Zoey, we would advise you to give up. He is as good as dead!"

Dale advised her.

He really did not wish for his god-daughter to waste so much time on a person in a vegetative state.

"No, my child and I must wait for him to wake up!"

Zoey was very determined.

Soon, the news that Levi had fallen into a vegetative state spread like wildfire.

The former God of War had met with such a tragic ending, and only had one percent chance of waking up...

His position was usurped and his people were transferred away, while he fell into a vegetative state.

It was a shuddering ending...

“Oh, not completely dead? There is still a chance for him to wake up?”

“His will to live is really strong!”

Winsor was very surprised to hear this piece of news.

With that, he snorted. “He is just a loser. What has his life or death got to do with me?”

“Levi still has a chance to wake up? No, he must be completely dead!”

There were voices and murmurs like these in Erudia and the rest of the world.

They had paid a huge price for Levi to end up this way.

And he was actually not completely dead yet?

How could everyone be relaxed about it?

Despite being in a coma state, he was still a potential threat.

They would only feel at ease after they see Levi’s corpse.

“Send out my command. Dispatch the elite fighter to check on Levi’s condition! No, whether he is alive or dead, kill!!!”

“Winsor won’t care about his life. Now that all of Levi’s people have been transferred away, we can do whatever we want!”

.....

Similar commands came from all over the world.

One by one, elite fighters appeared at Oakland City.

The solitary and helpless Levi was about to face a huge impending danger...

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1199

Levi topped the international hit list, and the bounty did not change at all.

Even though their target was a man in a vegetative state, the assassins would receive the same amount of bounty reward.

This drove all the assassins and fighters crazy, and they were all determined to kill off Levi.

On the other hand, this also showed how everyone was incredibly fearful of Levi.

Even though he was in a vegetative state, people still offered a large bounty for his life.

After Levi got into trouble, many people continued adding more insult to his injury.

The worst were the Garrisons and the Garcias who resumed their mockery.

Especially Conrad, who swore to take revenge.

However, they were all suppressed by the Lehman family. Otherwise, Levi would be in extreme danger.

The only person who did not change her attitude towards Levi was Tiffany.

Despite her family's disapproval, she went to visit him.

Of course, Abigail appeared as well after she heard the news.

Even Iris came from afar.

They were considered the few who remained by Levi's side after he was down and out.

Troubled, Tiffany said, "I heard that there are people targeting Mr. Garrison! There are many assassins who are on their way, as they are promised a huge bounty as long as they manage to kill him!"

Zoey knew about this and had experienced all of these before.

Her pictures from the last time were what triggered the incident later.

She understood the vicious hatred those overseas enemies harbored for Levi.

However, Levi was on his own solitary self-right now. No, he could not even wake up.

Who could possibly deal with the assassins?

The Lehman family?

Impossible!

The enemies were so much stronger than the Lehman family....

The only person who could solve this problem was Winsor.

However, nobody knew where he was.

She could not think of anyone else now...

Before this, Levi was in his heyday. Who would have thought that this was his ending?

Despair!

Extreme despair!

"I'll think of a way to secure Mr. Garrison's safety!"

Finished speaking, Tiffany left the hospital.

She was their biggest hope now.

At the other side.

The Lopez and Black families who were far away in the South also received the news that Levi had fallen into a vegetative state at Oakland City after being attacked by the 'Garrison clan'.

Even though they heard about this farce at the Garrisons' residence, they didn't know the exact details. It was kept confidential as it involved a battle for the position of the God of War.

Therefore, everyone had access only to all sorts of rumors and gossip.

Only very few of them knew about Levi's previous identity.

What the Lopez and Black families heard was that Levi went to the Garrison family and was attacked, leading to his current vegetative state.

"Explanation? That's an explanation?"

"Was there something wrong with his brain? How dare he challenge the Garrison clan?"

"Hahaha....serves him right now that he is a vegetable!"

The Lopez and Black families insulted him continuously.

When the South Hamptons families heard about it, they were extremely excited.

Finally, they did not need to be suppressed by Levi any longer.

After all, it was hardly comfortable to be constantly suppressed.

Very soon, innumerable elite fighters were lurking around the hospital Levi was in.

He was truly a threat to everyone!

Every single breath he took was a nightmare.

This was something that Winsor did not expect at all.

No matter what, Levi's threat was larger than Winsor's, despite the latter's victory!

Before Zoey and Tiffany could come up with any countermeasures, the overseas elite fighters had already arrived.

Everyone was simply moving too quickly.

Some were not even from overseas. The ones that arrived the soonest were the elite fighters from Erudia itself.

There was someone here who did not want Levi to stay alive.

In the hospital's ICU.

The nurses had just left after completing Levi's intravenous infusion.

Zoey was due to return in five minutes.

At this moment, three figures slipped surreptitiously into the room.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1200

They were not in a hurry to take action and were just there to observe Levi.

"I just want to see if Levi has really become a vegetable?"

This was definitely an Erudian who was speaking.

They observed for a full minute before exchanging shocked glances while exclaiming, "It's true!"

"There is no way he can wake up after being poisoned by the Blood King Palace! It doesn't matter anymore whether he's alive or dead!"

One of them said.

"No, don't you remember that we have a mission? Even if he were dead, we'd still have to kill him once again!"

"Yes, our objective is very simple. Since Mr. Finch wants Levi's head, we will cut off his head and hang it at the highest spot we can find, so that the whole world can see that he is dead!"

Swoosh!

With a flip of his wrist, the other person drew out a sharp knife that shone brightly with an icy gleam.

The assassin aimed the sharp knife at Levi's neck. With one slice, his head would definitely be separated from his body.

Even though the blade is pressing against Levi's skin, he was still lying motionlessly.

"Die!"

That man growled.

At that split second...

Clang!

That knife actually landed on a hard object.

Whoosh!

At the very next moment, the three of them saw Levi's eyes flew open.

His glare was razor sharp and icy cold.

It was the ring on his finger that had prevented that knife.

Bang!

Levi suddenly got up. With one shove, the knife turned around to stab the other person instead.

Bang!

He immediately sprang out of bed and slammed the other two persons' heads together violently.

Even till the point of their deaths, the three of them could not understand how Levi had woken up.

Whoosh whoosh whoosh!

At the same time, his window suddenly exploded and his room door was forcibly opened.

Every single one of the assassins and fighters rushed into the room and charged towards Levi.

They were just one step behind these three elite fighters from Erudia.

The next moment, the two opposing parties were locked in battle in that tiny ward.

Bloody arrows were shot across the rooms while continuous howls and growls were heard.

The intensive care unit seemed to be so isolated from the other places in the hospital that nobody knew what was going on despite all the action and noise from the inside.

Nobody knew where Zoey was as well...

On his own, Levi faced and slashed his way through hundreds of assassins.

In the end, all of them were defeated.

Levi squeezed out every ounce of his strength and finally fell down.

This time, he had really used up all his strength.

The man had actually saved up some of his strength during his fight with Winsor.

He could have won that battle.

It was because he wanted to see who from Erudia wanted him dead that he did this.

White Tiger and Azure Dragon left because Levi had secretly given the latter a signal.

Otherwise, based on White Tiger's character, he would have fought with Winsor until the very end.

Therefore, Levi took advantage of his 'death' to deceive everyone, including even Benny.

The doctor really thought that Levi had fallen into a vegetative state, hence he declared so.

Thanked to Benny, Levi used this as a bait to entice his potential killers.

Mr. Finch?

Just now, the three fighters from Erudia had mentioned this name.

Who was he?

Even though Levi was the God of War, he did not know much about the prominent figures in Erudia.

After all, he had been at the borders all this time.

However, it was useless knowledge anyway, as he was about to die.

“Pfft!”

.....

Levi could not stop coughing up blood.

He had completely exhausted that very last breath he had been saving up.

After all, he just killed a few hundred elite fighters a moment ago...

He really fought hard until the very last moment.

The man could do no more.

Right now, he could feel life flowing out of him...

He was losing his consciousness, and could even feel his soul leaving his body...

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1201

Levi had a really long dream.

It was as if he had relived all twenty over years of his life in his dream.

Things were starting to get blurry as he was about to die, but he couldn't afford to just yet.

Zoey... My family and friends... Erudia... C'mon! Wake up! I have to live on! I can't just die like this! I still haven't found out who Mr. Finch is!

"Dad..."

Levi heard a faint voice shouting in his ear.

He slowly opened his eyes and saw a chubby little face next to his.

"Dad's awake!" Forlevia shouted.

"Evie..."

Levi wanted to hug Forlevia, but realized he couldn't move his body.

Despite trying his hardest, all he could move were his eyes.

Levi was dumbstruck.

His entire body had been paralyzed by the poison from Blood King Palace.

It completely disabled his acupoints, corroded his muscle tissue, and severely damaged his internal organs.

That, in combination with his continuous combat had left him completely disabled.

Though he had his limbs broken eight years ago, this was a lot worse. The man couldn't move at all.

Fortunately, he had regained consciousness, much to everyone's relief.

"It's a miracle! This is definitely going down in history as one of the most miraculous events in medicine!" Benny shouted excitedly.

It's definitely a miracle for Levi to regain consciousness under such circumstances! Of course, it didn't come without a huge price, but still...

Fredrick too, played a part in Levi's recovery.

He ignored Winsor's orders and came to see Levi, so Winsor fired him on the spot and imposed tons of restrictions on him as a result.

Even so, Fredrick didn't care and worked with Benny to treat Levi and help him regain consciousness.

"Mr. Quinton, how is my husband doing?" Zoey asked.

Benny looked at her hesitantly.

"Just go ahead and tell them the truth, Mr. Quinton. I know for a fact that I'm disabled!" Levi said.

Benny sighed. "Yeah, you're right... The God of War has become completely paralyzed and will be bedridden for the rest of his life. He can't even be sat on a wheelchair, and will need someone to take care of his basic necessities."

Fredrick sniffled. "All of his muscle tissues and acupoints have been disabled. The God of War will no longer be able to move at all!"

If only we could remove the Blood King Palace's poison from his body... I can't believe this is actually happening... The great Levi has now become disabled!

Thud!

Emma nearly fainted again from the shock.

Zoey was shocked to hear that too, but she quickly regained her composure. "All that matters is that Levi is awake! Don't worry, I'll look after him!"

At that point, him being alive was all that she could ask for.

Given her financial status, maintaining a life of comfort wouldn't be a problem at all.

Zoey held Levi's hands tightly, and he smiled back at her. "I guess my life is in your hands now, Zoey."

"Sure thing!"

Benny and Fredrick let out a sigh of relief when they saw how well the two were taking things.

In the end, the only things that matters are safety and happiness...

"The God of War of Erudia has become a cripple? What a joke! Hahaha..."

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1202

That incident became the biggest joke of the century as well as the disgrace of Erudia.

The God of War feared by every country had now been reduced to a bedridden cripple who couldn't even use a wheelchair.

Although it was a much greater form of humiliation than death, Levi being alive still posed a threat to some.

Levi had caused a huge scene after killing off hundreds of elites in his final battle, so assassinating him in Erudia would be impossible.

Winsor and the Dragonites were on high alert after the individuals and organizations exposed themselves during their attempt at assassinating Levi.

Ironically, Levi was actually safest now that he was crippled as the assassins would not risk exposing themselves again.

Of course, that was if he remained in Erudia.

Fredrick called out to Levi after having everyone else leave the room, "God of War..."

Levi cut him off, "I've already given up that position, so don't call me that anymore."

Fredrick frowned. "Fine, I'll call you Boss, but you'll always remain the God of War to me and all of your men! Boss, you don't actually have to give up your position. You could just tell everyone about you being poisoned! I'm sure Winsor wouldn't challenge you!"

Benny and I are the only ones who know about Levi being poisoned, and that he's only in this state because of it. Had he told them about his condition sooner, he could've kept his position as God of War and save himself from this humiliation!

"It's useless. They came for me specifically, so it was only a matter of time anyway. Besides, I'm tired of being the God of War. I want to spend some time with my family instead."

Levi was taking it rather well.

Fredrick let out a huge sigh.

Who would've thought that the undefeatable God of War would someday be reduced to a bedridden cripple...

After a few days of treatment, Levi and Zoey made plans for their return to North Hampton as that was their home.

Levi also convinced Fredrick to return to his family before leaving.

Zoey smiled in relief when they arrived home.

"Great! The family is reunited now!"

At the very least, Levi wouldn't suddenly go missing again like he did before...

Forlevia played with him in his arms while Zoey and Emma were cooking in the kitchen.

It was a heartwarming sight to behold.

Levi let out a smile as he experienced a feeling of relaxation like never before.

I suppose a quiet and peaceful life like this is pretty nice, after all.

The peace and quiet were soon interrupted when Aaron, Caitlyn, and Meredith came over.

"Zoey, what's the meaning of this? Are you seriously planning on looking after a cripple for the rest of your life?" Meredith shouted.

"You said he can't even move, so how is he going to be a good husband and father? He was already a huge burden even when he was in good health and things have only gotten worse now that he's crippled!" Robert yelled at her too.

They now had a legitimate reason to reprimand the two.

Aaron slammed his fist on the table. "I will not have my daughter spend the rest of her life taking care of a cripple! You guys wouldn't want Evie to have a cripple as a father either, right?"

Aaron's words had everyone speechless.

"Of course not! I could just hit him like this and he can't even do anything about it!"

Logan gave Levi a kick, who then winced from the pain.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1203

Logan burst out in laughter. "See? This poor b*stard can't even move a muscle! Even a dog would be a lot more useful than him!"

Jennie laughed as well. "Yeah! At least a dog would be able to watch the door or something! What can he do?"

Forlevia cried when she heard all the nasty things they said about her dad. "Don't you bully my dad!" She shouted while standing in front of Levi with her arms outstretched.

Emma was crying too.

I can't believe this is happening to my son... None of these people would dare say any of that if he were still fit and healthy...

Levi frowned and kept his eyes shut as he lay on the bed.

"That's enough!" Zoey shouted.

"Don't you dare talk about my husband like that! He is and always will be my hero, regardless of his physical condition! Evie and I will always take pride in his glory, even if it was only temporary!"

Levi fought valiantly for all of Erudia, and this is how they repay him after he got crippled as a result? I won't stand for this!

“Glory? What glory? And no, Morris Group doesn’t count!” Meredith asked.

“He’s...”

Zoey was about to tell them about his identity, but changed her mind at the last second.

No, that’s all in the past now. Telling them about it won’t do him any good. Heck, they’ll probably just mock him even more for it!

“He’s what, hmm? Go on, say it! He’s lesser than a dog if you ask me!” Logan sneered.

“Enough! It is what it is, and I have decided to look after Levi for the rest of my life! That’s all I have to say!”

Zoey was determined to stand her ground.

“Are you stupid or what? How could you be so reckless? Have you ever thought about the future? What would Evie tell her friends when only her mother attends her school’s parent-teacher conferences? Do you know how traumatic it will be for her? She’ll forever be humiliated by her friends for having a cripple as a father!”

“Yeah, that’s right! All other kids have their fathers to take them out on family trips while Evie’s can’t even get out of bed!”

“And it’s not just her! You and your godfather would also have to endure the ridicule and shame as a result!”

Aaron and the others lashed out at her.

Forlevia hugged Levi tightly and shook her head. “No! I wanna be with Dad, and no one’s gonna separate us!”

Meredith looked at Emma and said, “Emma, please tell me you haven’t lost your mind like these two have. Look at the state your son is in! Do you really want to ruin Zoey’s life like this? I would’ve left with him if I were you!”

The others chimed in as well. “Meredith is right! You shouldn’t be so selfish, Emma!”

“Your son is as good as dead! Why don’t you just set Zoey free?”

“Yeah! Just pack your stuff and go as far away as possible!”

They all ganged up and tried to get rid of Levi and Emma.

“Don’t you dare insult my mother!” Levi spoke up all of a sudden.

Everyone turned to look at him.

“So what if we’re insulting your mother? What are you gonna do about it, huh?”

Aaron and the others sneered.

“Get lost, Emma!”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1204

Boom!

There was a sudden burst of energy in the room which sent a chill down everyone’s spine.

All eyes were on Levi.

It’s Levi... He’s mad... I can’t believe he’s still capable of instilling fear in his current state...

“What are you doing?” Logan asked with a shudder.

“I’m gonna knock the teeth out of that big mouth of yours!” Levi shouted furiously.

However, despite struggling with all his might, he found himself unable to move a muscle.

“Get up, damn it!” Levi roared as he forced his body to its limits, only to roll off the bed and fall to the floor with a loud thud.

“Levi!” Zoey and Emma rushed over to his aid.

“Hahaha!”

Everyone laughed when they saw how pathetic Levi looked as he was sprawled out on the floor.

“Is that all you got? So much for hitting me!”

“How are you even going to protect your mother and child like this? I could hit them now, and you’d only be able to watch helplessly!”

Jennie and Logan laughed as they mocked him.

“You guys have gone too far!” Zoey yelled.

Logan chuckled and said, “I’m just showing you what’s gonna happen in the future, Zoey. You’re all fine now because we’re family, but what if you are up against his enemies, huh? Do you think that cripple can protect you? Even a dog could do a better job at that!”

What Logan said was horrible, but he does have a point... What if it were someone else that came today? What could Levi possibly do to protect us in his current state? He’d only be able to lie there and watch us get hurt!

“Come on, grandpa, grandma! Let’s go!” Russell urged the angry crowd to leave.

As much as they wanted to get rid of Levi and Emma, they didn’t dare do anything as Zoey had Dale to back her up.

After all, Dale respected Zoey’s decisions on the matter.

Both Emma and Zoey were in tears after carrying Levi back onto the bed.

Those guys were too much, and yet there's nothing we could do about it... None of this would've happened if Levi wasn't poisoned and crippled!

"Mom, Grandma, don't cry! I'm sure Dad will get better!" Forlevia said as she helped wipe their tears.

Levi took a deep breath. "Evie is right. Everything will be alright!"

"Yeah, we've gotta keep moving forward in life!" Zoey recomposed herself.

Ben, Winnie, Bryan, and Victoria of the Garrison family from North Hampton also came by later that day, much to their surprise.

"Hahaha, I can't believe this is what's left of the great Levi Garrison!"

"So much for being the God of War, eh? Look at you now!"

"Karma sure is a b*tch! Looks like I was right to break your legs eight years ago! This was all meant to be, after all!" Bryan burst into laughter.

"You've been thrown into prison with your limbs broken, and yet you somehow managed to get chosen? Man, you sure are something, Levi! Tell me, how did you get your legs treated back then?" Victoria added.

"Hahahaha... Did you encounter some miracle worker or something in prison?"

"Maybe we should send you back into prison so you can get yourself treated again!"

Levi was the one who ruined their lives, so the two of them took extreme pleasure in seeing him like this.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1205

"If even Benny couldn't treat him, I doubt anyone else can!" Ben sneered.

"Maybe prison is where he truly belongs!" Winnie said with a chuckle.

They were all so busy taunting Levi that none of them noticed the grin on his face.

"Don't worry, Levi, we're not here to hurt you. We just want to tell you that you should never push your luck, as you could fall from grace anytime! Your condition right now is a good example of that!"

"Yeah! Given that pathetic state you're in, even we can't bring ourselves to bully you right now!"

"He's right! There's no point in bullying someone who can't even fight back at all!"

"Hahahaha..."

With that, the members of the Garrison family laughed as they made their way out of the house.

More guests kept showing up one after another.

They were all former victims of Levi's wrath when he was in power, and had all come to mock him now that he was crippled.

Zoey could only console him. "Don't take it to heart, darling. These guys are just trying to pick a fight with you. With my godfather around, they won't dare do anything!"

They were fortunate enough to have Dale around, or Levi would've received more than just verbal insults.

Bang!

The door was suddenly kicked open, and dozens of men rushed into the room with Lucas taking the lead.

"So this is what's left of the great Levi Garrison, huh? I never thought I'd live to see the day I get to have my revenge!"

Lucas had been holding a grudge against Levi ever since he had him castrated back then, but he was powerless to do anything about it.

After a long wait for his chance at revenge, he had been presented with that opportunity.

"So, you can't even move a muscle, huh? Guess you can only watch helplessly as I hurt your mother, wife, and daughter!" Lucas shouted maniacally.

Clomp! Clomp! Clomp!

A few bodyguards stepped forward.

"Make a move, I dare you!" Sylas said.

She had stayed by Levi's side ever since his downfall.

"Do you think you can stop us? What a joke! I came here to get my revenge on Levi, and I don't give a damn who's backing him up!" Lucas cackled like a madman.

Sylas was starting to panic. Those guys are elite fighters... I'm no match for them alone, and it's too late to call for backup now! Lucas is obviously here for blood, and not even the Grand Master can stop him!

"You guys, take her out! The rest of you, bring me Levi's limbs! Oh, and I want him castrated too!" Lucas ordered.

His men sprang into action, and Sylas was soon overpowered.

“Hahaha! How does it feels like to be in such despair, Levi?”

Lucas had a smug grin on his face.

“Do it!”

His men were about to make their move when a cold voice was heard from behind.

“I don’t think so!”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1206

They turned around and saw a figure clad in a black hood that covered the face.

Levi chuckled at the sight of that.

He didn't expect that the person coming to his aid was his former enemy, Hades.

Hades was wounded once, and Levi had his men tend to his injuries. However, he disappeared after he was fully healed.

Bam! Bam! Bam!

Despite L Nation being a small country, Hades was still a formidable fighter and dispatched all of Lucas's men in less than a minute.

"Thank you so much..."

Zoey and the others thanked him profusely.

"I've always respected the strong, and the God of War is the one I respect the most! From now on, I will protect him with my life!" Hades said with a determined look on his face.

Levi simply stared at him in silence.

Sylas let out a sigh.

Man, that must really suck for Levi! I mean, having to rely on Hades to protect him? Talk about a huge blow to his ego!

There were a lot fewer troublemakers dropping by now that everyone knew Hades was dead set on protecting Levi, but things weren't that peaceful in the other countries.

Winsor had eliminated dozens of criminal organizations within just one week after being the new God of War.

He was doing so in order to establish his dominance overseas and instill fear in everyone's hearts.

Being a violent person in nature, he was determined to prove himself stronger than Levi.

His method was very effective, and even Tenichi found him to be quite a headache.

With Levi out of the picture, Winsor soon built up a solid reputation for himself in Erudia.

Those who used to support Levi had gravitated towards Winsor as they only recognized him as the current God of War.

Not only did they practically forget about Levi, but they were also criticizing him for his downfall.

"The previous God of War was simply too conservative! That's why he lost and fell!"

"Look at how powerful the new God of War is! He took the initiative, and now our enemies are cowering in fear!"

"That's right! If only Winsor had taken over the position sooner... Erudia would probably be several times more powerful than it is now!"

"I know right? It's all Levi's fault! Winsor is the best God of War ever!"

Levi simply smiled as he heard what they said.

It's hard to find people who would stay by your side unconditionally when you're down in the dumps. Right now, Hades and Benny are the only ones apart from my mother, wife, and daughter.

"While you were staking your life on the frontlines, those you protected were enjoying themselves in the back. They pretended to support you during your glory days, and left you the moment you fall from power! In fact, it is them who are most likely to stab you in the back now! Some people simply aren't worthy of your protection!" Zoey said with a wry smile.

Benny came over to give him a follow-up examination two weeks later, but the results were disappointing.

Levi's condition showed no signs of improvement, and his fate of being bedridden for life seemed to be sealed.

What an unfortunate guy...

Benny let out a sigh as he looked at Levi.

He was about to leave when Winsor's disciple, Zar, showed up at the door.

Levi chuckled.

It's never good news if Zar is here! Something big must've happened...

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1207

Zar glanced at Levi, and hesitated when he saw Zoey and the others.

"It's okay, they can hear whatever you have to say. What is it, Zar?" Levi said.

After everything that has happened, I'm sure Zoey should be able to handle anything that comes our way.

Zar had a stern look on his face as he spoke, "There are two reasons for my visit today, first being to retrieve the Paragon Seal of Honor which you should've handed over a long time ago."

Zar glared at Levi coldly.

Winsor may be the new God of War, but the Paragon Seal of Honor is still in Levi's possession. That seal is the symbol of the God of War, and only those who carry it are worthy of commanding the Iron Brigade!

Levi nodded. "No problem, I'll hand the seal over later. Now, what's the second reason?"

A huge wave of energy surged through Zar's body, filling the entire room with his murderous intent.

"Levi Garrison, do you admit to your crimes?" Zar shouted, frightening Zoey and the others with his sudden outburst.

What's going on here?

Levi narrowed his eyes and returned the cold stare. "And what crimes would I be admitting to?"

"Treason!" Zar yelled angrily.

"What? Treason?"

Zoey and Sylas were dumbfounded.

Knowing Levi, there's no way he'd do such a thing! He would rather die than betray his country!

"That's impossible..."

"Y-Yeah, that's definitely impossible..."

Everyone began to panic, but Levi shushed them and signaled them to calm down.

"And how have I committed treason?" Levi looked at him curiously.

"You've wiped out the Blood King Palace completely five years ago, right? No surviving minions?"

Levi nodded, as he had indeed killed off every single one of them back then.

"Then how would you explain the sudden revival of the Blood King Palace last year?"

Zar kept his sharp gaze fixated on Levi.

"I..."

Levi was unable to come up with an explanation as even he didn't know the answer to that question.

The Blood King Palace had mysteriously returned, and they were much stronger than before.

"Oh, you don't know? Well, we do! It's all because of you! You're in cahoots with the Blood King Palace, and you've been betraying Erudia this entire time! You didn't wipe out the Blood King Palace back then, did you? You made everyone think that they were gone, but they've actually been secretly growing in power! That's why they're so much stronger now! We have solid evidence of your conspiracy with the Blood King Palace, Levi!"

Levi let out a chuckle when he heard what Zar said.

I knew they are gonna bring up the Blood King Palace... It's the perfect crime to frame me for because I have no way of proving my innocence!

"I bet you wouldn't even attack them if it weren't for the Dragonites ordering the strike, huh?" Zar sneered. "Levi Garrison, your acts of treason by conspiring with the Blood King Palace have led to huge losses in many organizations. What do you have to say for yourself?"

Levi refused to say anything further as he knew it was a pointless struggle.

Someone had set him up, so accepting the punishment was his only option.

"What will my punishment be?" Levi asked with a smile.

"In view of your past contributions, you will be spared the death penalty. Instead, you are banished from Erudia from this moment on! You have three days to leave the country or you will be forcibly deported!" Zar said coldly.

Those words hit Zoey like a sledgehammer.

They framed Levi just so they could banish him from Erudia? How could they do such a cruel thing? This is simply unacceptable!

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1208

This is obviously a set-up! A conspiracy with the sole purpose of driving Levi out of Erudia so he would be vulnerable to assassinations!

Zoey smiled wryly at the thought of that.

"My husband is a magnanimous man who has dedicated his life to the protection of the country and its people, and yet this is how they repay his deeds? Destroying his reputation with a false accusation and banishing him from the very country he protected? What a joke! Hahahaha..."

Zoey burst out into a sad and bitter laughter.

So this is how it will end for the God of War, huh? How tragic...

Zar sneered. "How is it a false accusation if we have solid evidence to prove it? The Blood King Palace is the most powerful criminal organization in the world guilty of practically every heinous crime in history! Anyone caught working with them is to be executed, and Levi is no exception! You should be thankful that Winsor took pity in him and decided to only banish him instead!"

Winsor was actually aware of the dangers Levi would face if he left Erudia, but he didn't find Levi worthy of his concern.

"I'm not here to seek your opinion on the matter, Levi. I'm simply here to inform you of the decision that's been made! Now, where's the seal?" Zar asked coldly.

"Give him the seal, Zoey."

Zoey did as told and handed Zar the Paragon Seal of Honor.

"Remember, you only have three days to leave the country or I'll kick you out myself!"

Soon, all of Erudia heard about Levi's conspiracy with the Blood King Palace, and the entire nation was in an uproar.

Everyone hurled abuse at Levi for being the biggest traitor in the country's recorded history.

Some of the people took matters into their own hands and found where Levi was currently residing.

They gathered outside the house and shouted at him.

"Erudia has no room for traitors!"

"Get out of here, you b*stard!"

Zoey was on the verge of breaking down when she heard the angry mob outside.

"What do we do, Levi? Are we going to just let them have their way? Is leaving Erudia really our only option?" She asked.

Sylas shook her head. "There's nothing else we can do right now."

"Sylas is right. Given how determined they are to get rid of me, I'd say resistance is futile."

Levi was rather calm and collected.

“So we’re just gonna leave, then?”

But... This is unfair! It’s so unfair!

“Yes, for the time being.”

“In that case, we’re going together!” Zoey said.

“No, you guys stay here. I’ll bring you guys over once I’ve settled down. You’ll be a lot safer here with the protection of the Lehman family.”

“But isn’t it dangerous for you to be out there all by yourself?” Zoey was very worried.

“There’s a very safe island that I can go to lay low. Given my current physical condition, I doubt they’d even deem me a threat worth killing. Besides, I’ve got Hades to protect me!”

After a lot of coaxing, Levi was able to persuade Zoey into staying behind.

“We’ll leave tomorrow!”

Again, word got out really fast about the God of War being banished from Erudia the next day.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1209

All his enemies from overseas took great pleasure in hearing that, especially those who were dying to get their revenge on him.

Tenichi and a group of men were gathered on an island.

“Levi Garrison... You’re finally being banished from Erudia, eh?” Tenichi smiled gleefully.

He was the one behind everything that had happened.

Levi remained a threat to all of his enemies overseas for as long as he was alive, and they wouldn't be able to rest until they got rid of him completely.

Winsor saw an opportunity when he discovered the "evidence" of Levi conspiring with the Blood King Palace, and he seized that opportunity immediately.

"Levi is going to leave Erudia tomorrow. We can make our move as soon as he steps out of the country's borders, and we wouldn't even have to be sneaky about it!" Tenichi sneered.

"You're right, sir! Mr. Finch will send us the route that Levi takes on his way out of the country soon!"

"Hahaha! He sure is great help in getting rid of Levi!"

Tenichi broke into a sinister grin.

"Make sure all preparations are complete! We must kill Levi as soon as he leaves Erudia!"

Ensuring that Levi was truly dead was the only way to ease their worries.

It was soon the next day.

"Don't worry, Levi! I've asked my godfather to have these elite fighters escort you to your destination! Just get us over there once you've settled down, okay?" Zoey said while pointing at the group of elite fighters from the Lehman family standing behind her.

She had really wanted to leave with him, but decided not to as she would only be a liability to him in the event of an attack.

"The Lehman family has also arranged for someone to receive you upon arrival, so everything will be fine!"

Zoey wiped her tears as she helped Levi into the car.

I'll head over there with Evie once he's settled down!

"Mom, Zoey... Don't worry, I'll be back soon! Take good care of Evie for me!" Levi said with a smile.

Zar had come over to supervise him. "You're never coming back here, Levi! Don't even dream about it!"

"If that's the case, we'll just spend the rest of our lives overseas. Either way works fine for us!"

Emma and Zoey broke down in tears.

"The God of War is innocent!" Sylas shouted.

Zar chuckled and pointed at Hades. "Funny how you say that when you have Hades of L Nation protecting Levi on this trip! It's obvious that Levi has been conspiring against Erudia with these foreigners!"

"You..."

Both Hades and Sylas were speechless with anger upon hearing that.

"That's enough, you guys!" Levi shouted.

Even Hades has become evidence of my treachery...

With that, Levi began heading North towards the borders of Erudia.

After a lengthy drive, they arrived at the border and were greeted by a cold and barren wasteland.

Zar had personally escorted them to the border. "This is as far as I'll go, Levi. You're on your own from here. Once you step past that border, you're no longer allowed to set foot in Erudia!"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1210

It was a day of desolation and grief.

The time had finally come for Erudia's God of War to be exiled.

Levi smirked. "Tell Winsor Campbell to watch his back. He'd better work hard to fulfill his duties to Erudia. If he proves to be unworthy of that seal, I'll be back to pull him off his throne!"

Zar broke into laughter. "You? Of all people?"

"Look who's blabbering. Nothing more than a mere loser defeated in the hands of my Master, just like every other opponent... Just hurry up and get your ass out of here!"

Zar thought what he had just heard must have been the world's biggest joke ever.

You're barely even a worthy opponent for Master even in your prime.

How dare you even speak of bringing him down now that you're crippled?

That's just impossible!

Levi retained his smile. He signaled for the fleet to carry on.

"Hold it right there!"

A loud voice hollered from above. A few jets were descending from the sky in an enormous roar.

Those private jets were recognizable. Just as they landed in a piercing screech, all the airstairs were pulled out in a simultaneous beat. A handful of men descended onto the ground in swift but almost unison steps.

One of them was seated in a wheelchair pushed by another man.

It was none other than Tyrone Garrison.

A few men followed closely behind as he approached closer and stopped in front of the troop escorting Levi.

“Levi Garrison! To think that this day would befall you! Where’s all that glamorous air of authority you once had?”

Tyrone bellowed with laughter.

“I’ll soon be able to stand on my feet, but look at you – bedridden for the rest of your life! Or should I say... You probably won’t even have much time to lay crippled in bed like this! The moment you land a foot outside the border, there’ll be people coming for you right away!”

The rest of the Garrison clan laughed along. “It’s retribution indeed!”

Tyrone saw the Lehman family’s elite fighters behind Levi. He beckoned to them. “You guys over there!”

“Aren’t you all from the Lehman family? Here to accompany him on this trip? Forget it, just go home!” He chided.

“No. We shall obey the orders of Ms. Lopez.” They answered.

“Not a very obedient bunch, are you? How about this... If you go back as I say, every single one of you gets ten million from me! Otherwise, each of your precious little family will fall into my hands once I return.”

He threatened and lured at the same time.

There were over 10 men from the Lehman family. They glanced at each other with a hint of hesitation. One by one, they began to retreat.

"Hahaha..."

The Garrison clan burst into laughter.

The Lehman elites weren't as steadfast and loyal as expected. Levi was seemingly left all alone...

Save for Hades who remained unshaken by his side.

"One more over there! Aren't you going back with the rest? What's the point of sticking together with a cripple who's being banished from Erudia?" Tyrone looked at Hades in amusement.

"If you leave as well, I'll reward you a hundred million!" He tempted.

No man should be able to resist a tenfold of what he offered earlier to those guys from the Lehmans.

Hades remained silent.

"One billion!" He offered again.

"Three billion!"

"Five billion!"

Tyrone was willing to offer any price just to force Levi into a dead corner.

Hades was unmoved.

Vrooom!

Tyrone's offers were answered by nothing but a rumble of the car engine.

Hades sped past the Garrison troupe. In the blink of an eye, the car disappeared into the horizon as it crossed over the borders of Erudia.

He had already vowed to protect Levi even at the cost of his life. At this point, a monetary reward meant nothing.

“Hahaha... This is interesting!”

Tyrone laughed out loud.

The Garrison clan joined in his laughter as they watched Levi’s defeat.

With danger lurking all around, they could only imagine how disastrous his journey would be with only one guard by his side.

“Levi Garrison... What a pity! Even a stray dog lives a better life than you on this day!”

Tyrone felt a gush of euphoria from the bottom of his heart.

This was the best day ever. It felt so much better than killing Levi Garrison himself.

Zar shook his head helplessly as he observed.

What a downfall for a hero who was once hailed as the God of War.

Levi laid quietly in the car as he looked out the window. The Erudian borders shrank further into the distance.

Lost in thoughts, he continued to stare without a blink.

“The God of War shouldn’t be worrying so much! I understand that feeling of not being able to return home.”

Hades chuckled bitterly as he drove on.

“It’s not that bad, you know... At least your family will be coming along. It’ll eventually get better once we’ve settled down.” He added, seeing how sober Levi remained the whole time.

He didn’t know what else to say that could possibly make the exiled God of War feel better.

“Settled down, you say?” Levi let out a mocking laugh. “Danger is literally all around us from here on out.”

Just as he finished speaking, Hades’ expression changed.

He sensed a presence ahead of them.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1211

A large group of people came into view from the distance.

Amidst a flurry of dust and ashes, Hades could sense a dominating presence as the group approached them at a steady pace.

Anxiety filled him immediately. "Don't worry, I'll protect you no matter what!" He exclaimed.

Levi smiled and replied calmly, "It's probably not what you're thinking."

They had just left the borders of Erudia.

It would be too early for the enemy to make a move.

Soon, the group of numerous men marched close enough that each of their faces could be seen clearly. They halted and stood a few arm's lengths away in front of the car.

Levi smiled at the sight of these familiar faces.

"Jonah Garrison, at your service! These nineteen men with me are from the Tang Sect. We're here to escort the God of War on his journey!"

Jonah declared in a loud voice as he and the Tang Sect fighters knelt before them.

"Four Kings of the Southern Union and the Six Slaves, at your service!"

One by one, each man introduced themselves in a similar manner as they too fell onto their knees. There were Johnny Lawrence, Jael Ellison, Yadriel Larson, Connor Hill, and the Six Slaves of Grover Cooke.

“Osborn St-Jacques of South Hampton and The Three Musketeers, at your service!”

“The Dual-Serrated Monks, at your service!”

These were the people Levi had known.

There were some new faces among the group as well.

“Drakon, Boreas, Tigris and Leon from the Northrush Clan, at your service!”

“Forty Brothers of the East, at your service!”

“Anonymous Eighty of the West, at your service!”

“Heavenly Guardians of the North, at your service!”

“Dragon Warriors of the South, at your service!”

“Twenty-eight members of the Stuart family, on our Master’s orders, at your service!”

“Thirty of us from the Meyers family, on our Lady’s orders, at your service!”

“Nineteen members of the Preston family, on our Young Master’s orders, at your service!”

“We have heard about the enemy’s attempt to overthrow your position. The God of War has been the great savior and guardian of Erudia! We offer ourselves as a shield for you on this perilous journey!”

“We’re just a handful of rough men. Ruffians like us aren’t good with our words, but we’ve always had the utmost regards for you!”

“Our country wouldn’t have been as safe and prosperous as it is today without you! You are the only true God of War in our hearts!”

The men cried out one by one.

Amused and somewhat relieved, Levi smiled.

Who could've predicted the way things had turned out? In the end, these "rough men" were the ones who had really come to escort and protect him.

"You should know that the journey ahead is extremely dangerous. It's highly possible that none of us may survive." He spoke in a matter-of-fact tone.

"We came on our own accord. None of us are afraid of death!"

"We have faith that the God of War will one day regain his health and reclaim his throne! The evil ones shall not prevail! Long live Erudia!"

The men roared with their fists held high in the air.

"Very well, then. You have my gratitude!" Levi was pleased with their courageous pledge.

He gazed upon the group which had gathered before him. "Arise, men! I'll be fine once I reach the arranged destination."

His voice rang with authority.

"We shall escort the God of War to safety at all costs!"

A unison cry erupted from the group of fighters as they threw their fists towards the sky. Their voices beamed with full spirit.

The cheer went on for a while. As it died down, Jonah Garrison spoke, "Sir, do you think it'll be too eye-catching if all of us were to set out together?"

Levi shook his head. "No. It's pointless to break into smaller groups or change our route now. Our enemies would've already set their eyes on every one of us from the very start."

"Alright then. Let's fight them head-on when they come at us! We pledge our lives to the God of War until our very last breaths!"

Jonah proclaimed loudly as shouts of agreement rose from the crowd.

Levi's speculation was right.

Tenichi had been observing every move they made.

One way or another, confrontation from the enemy would be inevitable.

They would have no choice but to face Tenichi upfront when the time comes.

Meanwhile, a tense discussion ensued in the enemy's camp.

"Well... Looks like Levi Garrison has finally departed!" Tenichi announced. His face turned grim as he continued, "Everyone gets ready! It's time to let that person out and do his thing."

Everyone present drew a sharp breath. All of them stifled at the mention of 'that person'.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1212

"Let's go! Follow me to the Northgale Prison!"

Tenichi commanded as he stood up.

At this moment, they were in Northgale. It was a region right across Erudia's borders.

It was the exact place where Levi was heading to.

Deep beneath the ground stood a desolate and mysterious dungeon.

It was a place for the most heinous and murderous captives from Bayview and Northgale.

Every single prisoner locked up here had at least killed a thousand lives.

Tenichi was looking for the strongest of them all.

That person was known as the strongest captive of Northgale Prison, who had single-handedly massacred tens of thousands. No other prisoner had ever outstripped his records.

A truly demonic murderer.

Legend had it that he had originated from an extremely wild and violent tribe.

Secluded far away from the eyes of the world, the tribe was said to hunt all sorts of animals and eat them alive. There had also been reports about human intruders who were cannibalized.

Nobody knew his name. He had always been known as the "Harbinger of Death."

Back then, it took dozens of nations including Raysonia, Keerea, and Northgale to devise a cross-border operation to capture him. Thousands of elite fighters were involved, yet they went through countless failures and revised strategies before he was finally taken down.

He was a terrifying villain whose fighting prowess was that of an Ultimate class.

It was rare to even come across a God-class warrior, let alone one who ranked Ultimate.

Soon, Tenichi and his men arrived at the prison.

The place was heavily guarded with tens of thousands of warriors stationed throughout the compound. Heavy weapons were installed everywhere. The entire prison seemed like an arsenal of firearms on its own.

They descended lower and lower into the depths as they headed towards the cell where the Harbinger of Death was held.

A pair of gigantic metal doors stood before them. It was specially customized with a thickness of almost two meters and weighed over a hundred tons.

This was the deepest part of the dungeon, completely devoid of sunlight and warmth from above. The atmosphere was filled with an eerie air. The temperature had dropped significantly as well. Many of Tenichi's men shuddered.

They did not even dare take a step closer.

At the thought of seeing the Harbinger of Death right behind the doors, all of them eventually stopped in their tracks.

Tenichi shot them a scornful glare. "Useless pieces of trash!" He rebuked.

He proceeded towards the cell alone and unlocked the doors. With a forceful thrust, the doors gradually swung open with a ghastly creak, followed by a heavy grunt.

Grrrrr... Thud!

A sinister and deadly aura gushed out and engulfed the whole room.

Within the narrow cell, several metal chains were securely fastened onto a single man.

Or rather...

A beast. The aura exuding from the person was far from that of a human.

The prisoner lifted his head slowly. Beneath a messy shroud of long hair, his eyes emitted an icy, merciless flash.

For a brief second, Tenichi felt as if somebody had gripped his neck.

"What do you want from me?" The prisoner sneered.

His voice was extremely hoarse.

It sounded like the deep growl of a vicious beast.

"I'm here to give you a chance to freedom." Tenichi answered as he regained his composure.

"Hm?"

The Harbinger of Death glared at him suspiciously.

He had been held in this cold, dark place for four years.

An offer of freedom at a time like this?

"I'll set you free on one condition – kill somebody for me."

Tenichi returned his stare calmly.

The Harbinger of Death let out a raucous chuckle. "Aren't you afraid that I'll bring you all another disaster?"

An Ultimate-class demon would never be controllable once he's freed.

It would be an almost impossible feat to recapture him.

And of course, someone like him wouldn't obey anyone's instructions.

"Fret not. Firstly, I'll have you drink a special poison before letting you out of here. Secondly, the person I want you to kill..." Tenichi paused and gave a teasing smirk.

"... Is none other than Erudia's God of War, Levi Garrison!"

The Harbinger of Death's eyes lit up at that name.

"Agreed!" He exclaimed immediately with a wide grin, revealing his horribly jagged and crooked teeth that were as sharp as a beast's fangs.

Knowing well who the target was, there's no need for him to hesitate.

Tenichi ordered his men to bring the poison and watched as the demon gulped it down.

The Harbinger of Death wasn't the only one given the poison.

It had been distributed to every other prisoner, whom Tenichi had set free under the same condition.

“Go! Bring me the head of Erudia’s God of War! Hahahaha...”

Tenichi’s laughter echoed throughout the dungeon.

Hundreds of vicious killers rushed out of Northgale Prison in an instance as the Harbinger of Death led them.

Evil laughter and frenzied screams filled the air as the freed prisoners poured out of the gate.

Very soon, destruction would once again strike the world above them.

In order to annihilate Levi Garrison, Tenichi would go to any lengths.

His hatred towards Levi was beyond measure.

Even his men shivered at the sight of the crazy mob scrambling out towards the ground above. As much as they had obeyed Tenichi, they could never fathom such an act of cold-blooded tyranny by their leader.

It was sheer terror!

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1213

On the other side...

Levi and his group drove across the desert land at full speed.

They had to make it to the designated town as fast as possible.

The God of War would be safe once they sent him there.

The journey was unexpectedly smooth.

It seems like no one is coming after all. Jonah and the others thought to themselves.

Came to think of it, who would want to go after a man who was crippled and exiled?

He wouldn't pose a threat in any way.

Even a five-year-old child could kill him with ease.

What's the point of wasting a few countries' resources just to get rid of him?

Everyone began to feel relieved.

At last, their objective would be fulfilled without much trouble.

Levi would be safe.

"God of War, we'll be entering a small town soon. It's barely thirty kilometers from your destined location! We should be safe once we make it past this town!"

Hades said.

"Alright... Tell everyone to be on guard. Something feels off to me." Levi warned.

His right eyelid had been throbbing the whole time.

The town ahead seemed oddly quiet and lifeless. There weren't any signs of a single civilian on the streets at all. In fact, the atmosphere felt sinister.

Much to his dismay, he couldn't move an inch at this moment.

How he wished it were just a pretense.

Alas, it's undeniable that he's disabled for real.

He began to worry.

He didn't wish for any of the men escorting him to be harmed.

Before he could worry longer, the group arrived at the town.

It wasn't a large settlement. Only one main street could be seen, spanning an estimated length of three kilometers.

Screeeech!

The car jolted into an abrupt halt as Hades braked suddenly.

They were greeted by a morbid sight as they neared the town center. A sickening stench filled the air as dead bodies were piled up across the main street. Fresh blood was splattered in every corner.

These were the bodies of the town's residents! The old and young; Women and children.

None of them were spared.

"God of War... It seems like this whole town was massacred just a while ago!"

Hades drew a sharp breath.

"Son of a b*tch..." Levi cursed bitterly.

He was angered.

The last thing he had ever wanted would be to see innocent civilians killed like this.

Even if they weren't the people of Erudia.

"Be careful! Let's move these bodies aside quickly! We have to get past this town as fast as we can!"

Jonah ordered the group as he took the lead.

There was no time to waste. They had to make an opening out of the mountain of corpses obstructing their way.

“Hahahaha...”

Just then, a series of savage laughter and shrieks echoed from their surroundings.

One shadow followed after another as they emerged from every corner.

The figures approaching them were dressed in worn-out clothing and untamed hair. They looked like primitive cavemen.

The escort group frantically readied their weapons. They sensed an intense bloodthirst.

The enemies gave off an extremely powerful vibe. There were indeed a few God-class fighters among the berserk mob.

They fixed their bloodshot eyes at Levi’s fleet.

“We’re in deep trouble!” Someone exclaimed.

The group gasped in horror as they made sense of the situation.

With one clear look at the enemy, they could tell these people weren’t just a bunch of deranged barbarians. They were lunatics with frightening power.

“Take the head of the God of War!” A maniacal shriek pierced through the heavy air.

Exhilarated at their newfound freedom out of Northgale Prison, the convicts charged towards Levi at lightning speed.

“Brothers! We shall fight for the God of War until the very end!” Jonah roared. A series of battle cries echoed after him as the crowd prepared to engage the enemies.

“Erudia’s God of War will not fall like this!”

“For Erudia! For the God of War!”

“Charge!”

In the blink of an eye, both parties clashed in a violent rampage.

“Darn it!”

Levi shouted with rage.

Everybody was fighting for his sake.

On the other hand, he couldn't even move a limb!

He hated every second that had passed.

Panic filled him as he struggled in vain.

He didn't want to see any of the men die before his eyes.

The man hated every bit of himself.

God knew how much had he wanted to get up.

He wanted to fight alongside everyone.

But what good was he now?

He had never felt so desperate throughout his entire life.

Meanwhile, at the top floor of a nearby building...

The Harbinger of Death stood alone, his keen eyes scanning through the battlefield.

His mouth was drenched in a grimy splatter of red. He observed the scene as wet blood dripped from a chunk of meat clutched in his hand. It was a piece of raw flesh; nobody would've known which animal—or who—was it from.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1214

“Sigh... Levi Garrison, why should I waste my time on you now that you’ve become a piece of trash?”

The Harbinger of Death lost interest as soon as he spotted the crippled Levi sheltered in the car.

Like Winsor Campbell, he too had wanted to kill the God of War in his prime sovereignty.

But the person he saw now was a weak, defenseless Levi. Anyone could’ve finished him off at his fingertips.

He was no longer a worthy opponent.

The Harbinger of Death withdrew his attention from the battlefield.

He tore another bite off the meat with his sharp teeth. More blood trickled and dripped onto the ground as he feasted.

In the center of the town, sparks and explosions filled the air.

The prisoners had frightening strength. Like a disoriented pack of wild beasts released from captivity, their ecstatic craze of being freed earlier had elevated their brutal power.

Levi’s group of escorts were no less potent.

Each side fought for a different goal. The enemies sought to murder and destroy; the Erudians aimed to protect their pride and virtue.

Tears swirled in his eyes as Levi watched Jonah charge into the midst of the enemies with a blade in one hand.

That man was someone who had one foot in the grave. Yet he was there, fiercely fighting on for his sake along with the others.

Most of the men didn't even know each other.

But all of them united and fought valiantly.

If they were to forsake their own lives in return, so be it.

It would be a worthy sacrifice for the justice they shared.

For the land of Erudia they shared!

Levi's face twitched in despair.

I hate this!

He despised his current self who wasn't able to lift his blade and protect the people of Erudia.

"Charge! Kill them!"

Jonah was leading on the front line. The Tang Sect elites followed closely as they attacked, like a pack of ferocious tigers.

The Four Kings soon charged forward in a split second. Drakon and the trio followed suit in tacit understanding. They wouldn't let the pride of the Northrush Clan crumble without a fight alongside the other warriors. They quickly invaded the enemies' horde and took down a mass.

All the other men too, fought to the best of their abilities.

Whatever it took, they wouldn't let a single enemy move a step closer to the car where Levi was inside.

Hades kept on driving forward as much as he could. As a handful of men dragged and rolled the dead bodies aside, the car inched forward slowly.

Every single fighter had his hands full with making an opening for the car and defending against the enemies' onslaught at the same time.

Whoosh!

Thud!

Bang!

Before long, bodies were flung into the air one by one. Each landed with a heavy thud as they dropped dead on the bloodstained ground.

Those were the elites from the Preston family!

Boom!

Thump!

Blood spilled and splattered in all directions. More bodies collapsed as time went on.

Both sides suffered a huge loss as the wild battle raged on.

The mountain of dead civilian bodies that had clogged up the street earlier had been cleared apart. Nevertheless, the car transporting Levi had only managed to advance over a mere ten meters.

Hundreds of killers still stood in the way ahead of them.

There was no other option to leave this town unharmed. Bloodshed was inevitable.

"Let's go, brothers!"

It was the Forty Brothers of the East. They roared as they rushed towards the barrier of enemies.

The forty men were soon overwhelmed as arrows rained down from the sky. One by one, they fell...

Within a minute, no one was left standing.

How tragic!

Yet how gallant they were!

Their sacrifice had made an opening for the rest.

"It's our turn now! Charge!"

This time it was the Anonymous Eighty of the West.

The league comprised men from various walks of life. Among them were retired military officers, hunters, martial art coaches, and members of other professions.

To put it simply, they were but a group of commoners.

Regular civilians who established a combat guild in order to aid Levi.

They charged into the swarm of enemies.

"Kill them!"

"Fight! We're not going down until we pave a way for the God of War!"

They were eighty commoners, yet they were as valiant as eighty fearless beasts.

Whoosh!

Clang!

Gush!

More blood were spilled. More bodies were strewn.

They braved the battle with wounded bodies. No one was wasting the opportunity that the Forty Brothers had set up for them at the cost of their lives.

The enemies were surprised.

Their opponents clearly lacked in fighting strategies and combat skills. Despite that, they stubbornly clawed and tore at their defense like ravenous animals. As if they weren't afflicted by their wounds and injuries at all!

This was unimaginable!

What's wrong with these commoners?

These men were crazier than themselves!

Thump!

Thud!

Crash!

"Get the God of War out of here!"

The difference in strength proved far too large after all. In the end, the Anonymous Eighty of the West was completely defeated and laid lifeless in a pool of blood.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1215

Another eighty men thus drew their last breaths on a foreign battlefield.

Tears finally trickled down Levi's face.

Exemplary men of Erudia!

You are a true hero! Every one of you!

More guilt and hatred seized his entire self.

Why did it have to become like this?

Protected at the cost of multiple lives while not being able to do anything himself?

He was increasingly tormented at the awareness that he was incapable to fight.

He didn't want more lives to be lost.

Warriors from both the West and the East had fallen.

At long last, an opening had become more visible across the street.

The sacrifice of the fallen warriors had paid off.

Not a single one of them died without a smile on his face.

"Attack!"

"Avenge our brothers from the East and the West!"

The Dragon Warriors of the South and the Heavenly Guardians of the North dashed forward. They continued to breach into the enemies' turf and expand the passage opened up by the fallen heroes.

The tables had begun to turn. It's as if the deaths of the warriors were a sacred sacrifice that had been received by the gods above. Levi's men started to gain the upper hand. Perhaps the gods' blessings had descended on them. Little by little, the remaining killers from Northgale Prison were forced backward as they pushed on.

In a split second, the fleet had advanced another hundred meters.

The sudden commotion had caught the attention of the Harbinger of Death once again.

“Bunch of trash!” He berated in anger.

He continued gnawing and chewing on the piece of raw meat brutishly.

Meanwhile, the bloody war continued on the street.

The Northgale Prisoners were taken aback at the sudden reversal of the situation.

What happened to these measly peasants? Weren't they already on the losing end since the beginning?

They were throwing their lives away like crazy beasts!

Such frightening zeal!

The prisoners were still in shock and amazement.

Why're they doing this?

All for a cripple?

A traitor?

All for a now useless Levi Garrison?

Was he really worth it?

They could never understand the men's devotion to their leader and their beloved nation.

This was something outcasts and murderers like them could never comprehend.

“Onward!”

“Kill them all! We'll soon make it through!”

Jonah continued waving and slashing his blade. His eyes were bloodshot.

The Tang Sect kept the enemies busy as they launched their strikes in all forms – secret weapons, poisoned ammunition, and explosive firearms.

The Northrush Clan were equally unrelenting. Their blows and kicks cascaded down on their foes in a swift, continuous stream, like a raging torrent.

The Three Musketeers and the Dual-Serrated Monks too, were unfaltering.

They all knew how great their loss had been.

The numbers of those who had fallen kept rising.

There were constantly fellow men who were severely injured.

In spite of those, they had finally gained the advantage. They wouldn't let themselves back down or waver at any moment.

Boom!

Pow!

Wham!

The rampage continued. More blood was shed.

Jonah had over ten slash wounds across his body. The vivid red that had covered him along with dust and debris, had made his aged white crown appear even brighter.

All nineteen men from the Tang Sect were just as wounded if no less, albeit there wasn't a single death amongst them.

One of them had both his arms broken while another lost a leg. Neither of them moaned; each continued to fight with maximum strength.

This was the first time Levi could only observe the battlefield as a complete spectator. He quietly swore to never forget this sight – the dead and the critically wounded, all who had fallen on the earth for his sake.

These people were the pride of Erudia!

Men who fought with relentless honor.

Brave warriors with iron blood.

Their sacrifices were not in vain. The enemies' forces were diminishing.

Dead bodies from both sides littered all over the ground.

The Northgale Prisoners had only been treating this battle like a game of eagles hunting chicks.

But who would've known that these "hunted chicks" turned out to be such a fearful force? Even their fellow God-class prisoners were killed!

"Come on! Come at us if you dare!" Jonah roared at the enemies, waving his blade at them.

His physical strength was about to give away. He staggered for a second and nearly stumbled.

Nonetheless, his will to fight was unyielding.

"I will kill every single one of you who comes!"

Not far from him stood Johnny and Yadriel of the Four Kings, with a few others. Their bloodshot eyes fumed with rage.

Their spear guns and blades were drenched in red. The blood of those who were killed at the tip of their weapons continued to drip and trickle.

"Ahhh! Run!"

Fear began to consume the remaining dozens of prisoners. They staggered backward and prepared to turn and run.

A scene like this was unimaginable.

Who would've believed if this news were to spread out?

Who would've believed if they were told that thousands of murderous criminals from the Northgale Prison were scared away by regular men?

"Utter trash! You're all useless!" A raging demonic voice roared from behind them.

The Harbinger of Death appeared just as they started running away.

Boom!

Just as one of the prisoners ran past him, he landed a slap on his head.

The prisoner's skull burst into a flurry of flesh and bones in that instant.

Boom!

"Arrghh!" Another slap followed and one more skull exploded.

One after another, the Harbinger of Death dealt a fatal blow to every prisoner who tried to escape.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1216

Meanwhile...

Jonah Garrison and his men burst into laughter at their survival.

“We did it, everyone! Thank you for your hard work!” Levi yelled.

Suddenly, his intuition told him that something dangerous was coming, and it made him frown.

Boom!

A huge gust of wind swept through the streets, bringing with it a strong bloody stench and an avalanche of dead leaves.

Jonah Garrison and his men’s smiles melted off their faces immediately as fear got the better of them.

All the hairs on their bodies stood on end, and their hands turned clammy with cold sweat. They could almost feel their blood curdling in their veins.

The person they feared was not even at the scene yet, but his aura could make anyone’s legs turn to jelly.

He was like a feral beast that just woke up from a century-long nap.

A few moments later, a shadow emerged from the other end of the street, and it had an eerie resemblance to the one they met before.

However, the person before them was gnawing on a piece of raw meat, with the bone still attached and blood dripping onto the streets.

From the looks of it, he looked like a cannibal!

"It's him!" someone shouted, and Levi turned pale in the face.

I know this person...

It took the combined effort of many countries to catch the Harbinger of Death and throw him into Northgale Prison for life, and now he's back to finish us off...

They really want me dead, huh?

"He's the Harbinger of Death from the Ultimate class! He's targeting me, so leave while you still have the chance!" Levi commanded frantically.

The last thing he wanted to see was more unnecessary bloodshed.

He's way too strong!

Thousands of top-class fighters have fallen in the international operation to capture him...he's way out of anyone's league!

"Leave! Just leave!" he shouted, but no one budged.

No one wanted to give up just yet, especially since they were barely thirty kilometers from safety.

Just a while more, and Levi would be able to plan for the next part of their journey.

"No way!"

"I can't bear to leave you, God of War!"

Jonah smirked. "We'll suffer even more if we left you at this juncture!"

"I'm not scared of death! Heck, I'll even bring a piece of him down to hell with me!"

"We must fight and send the God of War to the designated location! There's no way we can't overwhelm that guy with our strength in numbers!"

Levi had wanted to chase the others away, but his words only made them even more confident.

Everyone refused to retreat, and Levi bit his lip in reluctance.

I don't want to see anyone die in vain anymore...

I hate this!

I wish I could at least stand up and lead the charge, even if I were to die in the process!

But why can't I even move my fingers?

"Die, Levi Garrison!" the Harbinger of Death growled, tossing the meat in his mouth aside and advancing towards Levi.

"Everyone! Kill him!"

"Hahaha! It'll be such an honor to be able to kill someone from the Ultimate class!"

Jonah and his men chuckled loudly, their confidence at an all-time high.

"Listen to me! Leave this place at once!" Levi yelled desperately.

No... no more deaths... please...

Nevertheless, everyone exchanged glances and grinned. "Apologies, this is an order we cannot execute!"

Before Levi could say another word, several people have already rushed forward.

"The Meyers of Oakland shall lead the charge!"

"Don't forget the Stuarts of Oakland!"

Both families only had around twenty members left standing, but they charged forward nonetheless.

Forty longswords glinted under the sunlight as they descended upon the Harbinger of Death's body.

Clank!

Clank!

To everyone's horror, the blades simply bounced off his skin with a loud metallic clink, and the Harbinger of Death emerged from their onslaught completely unscathed.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1217

Boom!

A chilling shockwave shook the ground beneath them, followed by a deafening explosion.

A person flew out of the mess with a giant, bloody hole in his torso and landed on the ground in a lifeless heap.

Boom!

The Harbinger of Death landed another punch, and it shattered everything in the poor victim's chest on impact.

Boom!

"Argghhhhh!"

Another person slumped onto the ground with his spine snapped into two.

Boom!

A severed head landed on the ground not too far away, its eyes still wide open and frozen in fear.

Every one of his moves could kill, as though he was the Grim Reaper himself.

Boom!

Yet another person's organs shattered into a bloody mess inside his body as the Harbinger of Death rammed his foot into his torso.

In just thirty seconds, all that was left of the forty fighters were marred bodies and broken forms.

Everyone else gaped at the Harbinger of Death, shivering in fear.

He's strong...

He's way too strong!

No wonder he's from the Ultimate class!

We've underestimated him...

"Leave!" Levi hollered, his eyes brimming with tears.

People were giving up their lives for him, and he would never forgive himself for allowing that to happen.

"Hades, take the God of War away from this place with your men! This guy is too dangerous!" Johnny Lawrence commanded.

After a while, Levi left the scene together with Jonah, Osborn, the Dual-Serrated Monks, the Three Musketeers, as well as a bunch of other capable fighters, leaving the rest behind to keep the Harbinger of Death occupied.

"No! We can't leave them there!" Levi screamed, knowing full well what their fate was.

However, his men refused to retreat.

"You're in big trouble, Harbinger!" Johnny Lawrence yelled with a smirk on his face.

At that moment, the Four Kings surrounded the Harbinger of Death and yelled, "Kill him!"

With that, the rest of the crowd charged towards the Harbinger of Death in an attempt to kill or at least overwhelm him.

“Die!” the Harbinger of Death yelled, snapping the neck of the person closest to him.

Boom!

Crash!

Splat!

However, none of their attacks worked.

It was as though they were attacking a metal mannequin.

Everyone knew that the Harbinger of Death had a bulletproof body of steel, and that was precisely why it took a dozen countries and a thousand fighters to capture him and throw him in jail.

But that was the best they could do since he was impossible to kill.

His mere presence could make anyone break out in cold sweat.

Crack!

Crash!

Boom!

Every move the Harbinger of Death made was lethal.

Within minutes, the ground near his feet was littered with bodies, and two entire factions have fallen.

He could kill a person with one strike, and no one was ever able to survive his attacks.

“You’re going down, Harbinger!”

“We’re buying time for the God of War!”

Johnny and the rest of the fighters went all out against the Harbinger of Death, but they were fighting a losing battle.

Splat!

Crash!

Snap!

Unfortunately for them, the Harbinger of Death was immune to all their attacks.

Even the Tang Sect's discreet weapons and poisons did not even come close to making a scratch on his body.

In fact, most of their members were already lying in heaps on the ground, some of them broken into several pieces.

The Six Slaves were gone as well, with holes and bruises all over their dead bodies.

"Keep him occupied even if it costs you your life!" the rest of them yelled.

However, that did not make the fight any easier.

No one would be able to win a fight against someone from the Ultimate class, and asking for one would be a surefire way to die.

Soon, more and more fighters dropped dead like flies as the fight went on.

Drakon, Boreas, Tigris, and Leon from the Northrush Clan, Johnny, Jael, Yadriel, Connor...

The street was eerily quiet, and there was not a soul to be seen.

Alas, the fierce fight had ended.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1218

In just a few short minutes, all that was left of the brave bunch was a heap of mangled bodies.

Not even a single person survived the ordeal.

However, none of them backed out of the fight or wavered in their stance.

All of them were willing to die for Erudia.

“What a bunch of pests!” the Harbinger of Death scoffed.

The fighters have held him back for a mere twelve minutes, and Levi would not have gotten far in just twelve minutes.

However, he quickly realized that something was wrong the moment he tried to lift his leg.

Why can't I move?

He looked down and was horrified to find the dead bodies of Johnny Lawrence and everyone else clinging onto his legs tightly.

Now that rigor mortis was setting in, their hardened bodies held him down like a deadweight.

Their collective strength managed to hold him down, making it impossible for him to even make a single step.

It was their last-ditch effort as brave Erudian men to keep the enemy occupied.

They refused to admit defeat, even after death had befallen them.

“Get out of my way!” the Harbinger of Death bellowed, shaking the dead bodies off him.
“You will never get away from me, Levi Garrison!”

With that, the Harbinger of Death was on his way again.

The Erudian warriors have held him up for a mere fifteen minutes, but their efforts have not gone to waste.

Those fifteen minutes had cost them their lives, and that made it priceless.

Meanwhile, Jonah and the others rushed towards the designated town at full speed with Levi in tow.

Time was ticking, and they could almost visualize the fates of Johnny Lawrence and the rest who chose to stay behind.

The Harbinger of Death was practically undefeatable, after all.

“Three more kilometers!” Hades yelled.

Everyone’s eyes brightened up at his statement.

No one knew what the town they were heading towards looked like, but they trusted Levi when he said that they would be safe once they arrived.

It was a huge source of motivation for them.

Boom!

However, before they could rejoice, a giant rock crashed into the side of the car.

If not for Hades’ quick reflexes, they would have toppled over on impact.

By the time everyone wrapped their head around the situation, another person had appeared before their eyes.

It was the Harbinger of Death!

His supersonic speed allowed him to catch up with Levi before he could get to his destination.

Boom!

An explosion went off in everyone's heads at the sight of him.

All of them are dead...

None of them survived!

"Nice! Well done!" Jonah yelled. "That's how Erudian men should be!"

"Thank you! We will avenge you!" everyone chorused.

"I owe you one!" Levi said, gritting his teeth and holding back tears. "When I get better, I'll paint the sky red with those scumbags' blood!"

He hated how things turned out.

For all his life, he had spent years fighting to keep Erudians safe from threats, and yet there were still people dying for the sake of his own life.

I can't allow this! I won't!

"You won't have a chance to do that! Time to die!" the Harbinger of Death bellowed with a cold smirk.

"Hades! Send the God of War to the town! We'll buy time for you!" Jonah said as he trained his eyes on the Harbinger of Death.

Everyone was ready to battle to the death.

However, just as Hades was about to drive off, the Harbinger of Death lifted his foot and brought it down upon the hood of the car.

Boom!

Crack!

The hood of the car was shattered into pieces immediately.

His powerful stomp had destroyed the car completely and even Hades was injured from the sudden attack.

“Don’t you dare leave!” the Harbinger of Death scoffed.

All of you are dead meat to me!

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1219

"Kill him!"

Jonah and the others rushed forward and surrounded the Harbinger of Death.

"Hades! Carry the God of War to the designated location!" Jonah yelled.

Hades obeyed his instructions immediately.

Seeing all this, the Harbinger of Death merely grinned.

Anyone below the Ultimate class is nothing but a mere pest.

Hah! You won't be able to stop me!

Boom!

Crash!

Splat!

Clank!

The Harbinger of Death crushed each person who came forward with nothing but his palms, and there was already a pile of bodies forming by his feet after just thirty seconds.

Levi watched in horror as more and more of his men fell to the ground before the Harbinger of Death.

"You're not getting away today!" Jonah yelled, raising his longsword and bringing it down upon the Harbinger of Death's head.

Boom!

Before anyone could react, the Harbinger of Death had already grabbed his neck and snapped it into two.

Crack!

The Harbinger of Death tossed Jonah's body into the air and punched a hole through his torso.

Jonah was thrown onto the street about ten meters away from the Harbinger of Death, and he managed to mutter, "I must protect the God of..." before taking his final breath.

Crash!

"Take this, you murderer!" The Three Musketeers and Osborn yelled as they rushed forwards to challenge the Harbinger of Death.

In the end...

Osborn was crushed under the Harbinger of Death's foot.

The Three Musketeers were tossed into a pile on the ground, their blood cascading down onto the ground like a fountain.

Even as their souls left their bodies, they refused to let go of their longswords.

Boom!

Crash!

After a while, all that was left were the Dual-Serrated Monks, who were the strongest ones in the bunch.

In fact, they were the only ones strong enough to pose a challenge to the Harbinger of Death.

Crash!

Clank!

They brought their metal sticks upon the Harbinger of Death's head over and over again, which managed to make him stagger backward for a few seconds.

"Die!" he yelled after a while, his eyes glinting dangerously.

Crack!

Snap!

He somehow managed to break the Monks' sticks into several pieces with his bare hands.

Splat!

Crash!

He flung the Monks onto the street after punching a hole through their torsos.

With that, everyone who accompanied Levi on this mission had sacrificed themselves in the race towards safety.

All of them were brave heroes, no matter what their backgrounds were.

Those scheming aristocrats would never compare to them, for they had the courage to stand up for what was right.

"We're going to be there soon!" Hades yelled as the town came into view.

They were only around a hundred meters away from the entrance of the town, and Hades broke into a sprint.

Levi, on the other hand, was horrified to see the Harbinger of Death catching up to them from behind.

After just a few seconds, he managed to narrow the gap to just ten meters.

Hades gritted his teeth. Just a few more meters...

"Aren't you from L Nation? Why are you protecting your enemy?" the Harbinger of Death asked.

"You don't understand! The God of War is my hero!" Hades yelled.

Without warning, he tossed Levi in the direction of the town's entrance, and he landed squarely at the gates.

"You're asking for it!" the Harbinger of Death yelled, barreling towards Levi at top speed.

Boom!

However, before he could get close to Levi, Hades grabbed his waist and held on tight.

"Die!"

Boom!

Crash!

Clash!

The Harbinger of Death landed several punches on Hades' back, and blood gushed out of the latter's eyes.

Even so, Hades had a large grin on his face.

"I've done it, everyone!" he yelled.

The Harbinger of Death continued to pound his fists onto Hades' body, turning him into an unrecognizable heap of minced meat.

There was nothing Levi could do but watch in desperation.

“So what if you’ve arrived at the town?” the Harbinger of Death bellowed at Levi, shooting him a menacing glare.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1220

“What’s the point of all this? Why are you protecting this piece of trash?” the Harbinger of Death snickered. “What a bunch of dimwits!”

Killing Levi would not be hard for him even in Erudia, let alone a tiny town in Northgale.

How stupid of them to protect him!

It’s absolutely worthless!

They’re just sacrificing themselves for no good reason!

Meanwhile, Levi could only stare at Hades’ dead body on the ground from where he lay sprawled just outside the gates.

He had been overcome with helplessness as he watched his men give up their lives for his sake.

However, there was nothing he could do.

I hate this...

He wanted to scream, but his throat was too dry for it.

Not only that, but he wanted to kill the murderer standing before him, yet his legs would not listen to his brain’s commands.

Strangers and friends alike admired him, and he owed them the world for it.

I need to avenge them! I must!

After all that, the Harbinger of Death fixed his gaze on Levi and started to walk towards him.

With each blink of his eyes, the Harbinger of Death came ten meters closer.

He chuckled as he stared at Levi. "What's the point of that battle? It's absolutely useless!"

Unfazed, Levi glared at him. "Watch it! You're going to die soon!"

"Hahaha! Me? Dying? No way!"

He was not exactly boasting – after all, it took a thousand fighters just to restrain him back then.

It would take a million more to kill him.

"Die, Levi Garrison!" the Harbinger of Death bellowed, raising his palm and bringing it down upon Levi's head.

Boom!

However, before he could flatten Levi into a pancake, a huge explosion rang through the air.

Crash!

A powerful force rammed into the Harbinger of Death's chest, and it sent him flying backward with blood spewing out of his mouth.

Hiss...

He staggered backward for a good ten meters before slowing to a halt.

When he looked down, he was horrified to see several cracks appearing on the ground beneath him.

His shirt was tattered and torn at the chest area, and a large, bloody palm print was slowly appearing on his chest.

The Harbinger of Death was supposed to be immune to all kinds of weapons, and not even the sharpest blade could come close to making a scratch on his skin.

That was why the surprise attack and the mark shocked him.

Without giving him a chance to recover, a shadow rushed forward and landed another punch on his chest.

Boom!

The pain that followed was like a nuclear explosion.

“How dare you!” he bellowed, swinging his fist at the shadow.

Crash!

The moment their fists connected, a huge shockwave shook the ground as though an air raid had occurred.

Crack!

The Harbinger of Death’s arm burst open the very next second, spewing blood and gore everywhere. It came as a shock to him.

What the...

How could this happen?

What kind of monster could I be facing against?

Boom!

Crash!

Snap!

“Argh! Ouch! ARGH!”

The shadow landed a few more punches without even giving the Harbinger of Death a chance to breathe.

As time went on, his chest began to cave in, and blood continued to spill out of his mouth in alarming amounts.

His shoulders sagged, but it was not the end of the ordeal yet.

Boom! Boom! Boom!

The shadow continued to throw punch after punch onto the Harbinger of Death's body, tearing open his flesh and exposing everything inside.

After a while, his body was nothing but a mangled piece of meat.

Then, he fell to the ground, dead from the pain.

Even as he took his last breath, he struggled to understand why he was defeated so easily.

Nothing posed a challenge to him, and no one in Northgale had ever won in a fight against him.

It took the combined effort of a dozen countries to catch him and throw him into prison, and little did he expect to meet his end in the hands of a person whose face he could not even see.

The person was dressed entirely in black, complete with a half-devil, half-angel mask.

As the Harbinger of Death fell to the ground in defeat, several people in similar getups walked out of the gates of the town.

Boom!

The crowd fell to their knees before Levi.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1221

“Greetings, Master!” a thousand cloaked men and women chorused, shaking every rock and ruffling every blade of grass around them.

“Please give your orders, Master! We will kill whoever dares to lay their hands on you!” the man who killed the Harbinger of Death said as he stepped forward.

They had known what Levi went through over the past few months, but they were just as helpless as he was.

Without Levi’s orders, they could not do anything but stay in the shadows.

“Your orders, Master!” the crowd roared.

These cloaked people were none other than Levi’s own secret troops.

They had no connections to Erudia whatsoever on the surface, for they have been hidden overseas ever since Levi established the organization, known as “The Calamity.”

The purpose of their existence was to provide aid in times of crisis and protect Erudia from any threats.

Thus, they spend most of their time in hiding, only emerging from the shadows when an emergency occurred.

By right, The Calamity belonged to the Erudian state and not Levi, but no one knew about that connection.

Only Levi and a certain other person knew the truth about The Calamity, and even someone like the Azure Dragon was ignorant about its existence.

Every member of The Calamity had one thing in common, and that was their lack of identity. While information about Levi remained top secret, the members of The Calamity did not exist in any kind of Erudian records.

In other words, it was almost like they never existed, to begin with.

In fact, it would have stayed that way if not for Levi.

Mobilizing The Calamity would be a massive chore, for it required two “keys.”

Levi was one, while another person held on to the other “key.” Both of them must give the green light before The Calamity could be mobilized.

However, with Levi missing in action and the other person nowhere to be found, the members of The Calamity had no choice but to stay hidden.

The only other way to mobilize them would be for Levi to seek them out personally, but everyone knew that that was nearly impossible to achieve.

Hades would not have been able to send Levi to Northgale by himself, and Levi was about to give up hope when the Harbinger of Death caught up to them.

That was where the brave souls from Erudia appeared and sacrificed their lives just to buy time for Hades and Levi.

“I won’t let any one of you die in vain!” Levi growled.

I must seek Mr. Finch out and slice them into pieces with my own two hands!

Suddenly, two other men and one woman stepped forward and kneeled before Levi.

“East Sky Lord, West Sky Lord, and South Sky Lord of The Calamity at your service, Master!” they chorused.

The man who had pounded the Harbinger of Death into a pile of mess earlier on had been the North Sky Lord.

The Master and the Four Lords were the highest forms of authority in The Calamity, while the rest of the members were split into factions led by the Four Lords.

The East Sky Lord was in charge of expanding their influence, and The Calamity had since taken over several organizations.

The West Sky Lord came up with plans for operations and had access to every source of information and intelligence networks.

Meanwhile, the South Sky Lord managed the finances, and The Calamity lived comfortably under the South Sky Lord's careful planning.

Lastly, The North Sky Lord oversaw training operations, shaping The Calamity into an undefeatable force.

As a result, The Calamity had seen a massive development since its conception under the leadership of the Four Lords.

The Calamity had since grown into something even more powerful than the Blood King Palace.

"Shall we mobilize The Calamity, Master?" the Four Lords asked in unison.

"Yes!" Levi answered decisively with a blank expression on his face.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1222

Once The Calamity was mobilized, they would come out of hiding, which would change the world drastically.

Unless the situation was dire, Levi never mobilized them.

However, now was the time to summon them into the light.

Every member of The Calamity beamed brightly at Levi's order.

We can finally emerge from the shadows and see the light of day...

"The Calamity has officially been mobilized, Master! We await your orders!" The Four Lords chorused out loud.

"Alright. I'll follow up with you soon," Levi said, nodding.

"Master...I've heard that the Blood King Palace had poisoned you with the product of one of their decade-long projects... is that true?" the West Sky Lord asked tentatively.

As the only female Lord, she was the most attentive to detail, and that was why she was in charge of their intelligence networks.

"Yes, but it's gone now," Levi said.

"What?" the West Sky Lord exclaimed, surprised.

From the intel she had gathered, she knew that the poisons developed by the Blood King Palace spelled certain doom for their victims once injected into their bodies.

Not even the strongest cleansers could save them.

Levi sighed. "I got lucky and ran into the gathering of the Octa-Medic. One of them, in particular, was adept in using poisons to cleanse a poison victim's body, and that was how I was saved from certain doom."

At that time, Levi had spent a whole night discussing those matters with the Octa-Medic, and it took a while before Benny Quinton finally realized that Levi had been cured of the poison.

However, despite the doctor's best efforts, Levi could no longer move on his own accord.

The poison had destroyed all his nerves, and the hardships he went through did not make it any better.

He was lucky to still be alive, for being able to survive was in itself the best possible scenario, even if he could not move.

"Erudian doctors are the best!"

"I knew I was right to trust the work of our ancestors!"

The crowd chattered away happily as the North Sky Lord studied Levi from head to toe.

He shook his head with a sigh. "Looks like it's going to stay this way forever..."

The North Sky Lord was the best fighter in The Calamity, and killing someone like the Harbinger of Death was like a stroll on the streets to him.

If he said that Levi would never recover fully, he meant that Levi would actually be crippled for the rest of his life.

"Huh?" everyone chorused in shock.

Our master... is he going to be bedridden for the rest of his life?

However, Levi simply smirked.

"East, go and take care of this for me..."

"West, I need to you find out about..."

After Levi gave his orders to the Lords, he proceeded to settle down.

The tiny town in the outskirts of Northgale was pretty much deserted, and he would be able to live under the radar for a while if he stayed there.

Taking out his phone, Levi gave Zoey a call, who almost broke down upon hearing his voice.

"I'm fine, Levi! I'll personally escort you back once I settle down!" she said.

Levi smiled to hide how reluctant he felt. "Alright. Great to hear that you're doing well. Stay vigilant from now on, and don't tell anyone about our conversations."

Meanwhile, in a castle somewhere in Northgale...

Tenichi was in a meeting with a group of people.

"Hm? Shouldn't Levi be dead by now?" Tenichi asked.

He had entrusted the Harbinger of Death and his other goons with the task of killing Levi. However, he had heard nothing but radio silence from them for the past few hours.

"Did something happen?" someone asked.

"I have a bad feeling about this. One of you should go and check on the Harbinger," Tenichi said, his face paling.

Suddenly, someone ran over yelling, "I have something to report!"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1223

"What is it? Just say it!" Tenichi ordered impatiently.

"It's about Levi Garrison! His entire army fell in the battle against the Harbinger, and he's dead as well!" the person reported. "We've suffered a great loss as well... the only person who survived was the Harbinger himself!"

"Where's the Harbinger of Death now?" Tenichi asked.

"He's... gone!"

"Looks like he's just a feral beast that can't be tamed!" Tenichi said, smirking. "Whatever. We'll just capture him again when we need him."

After a while, he gathered enough evidence to prove that Levi was dead, and so was his entire party.

"Hahaha! You're finally dead, Levi Garrison! Don't you know how much of an annoying gnat you were when you were alive?" Tenichi scoffed. "You there! Announce to the world that Levi Garrison is dead!"

"As for us... let's have a three-day-long party!"

When news got out that the former God of War of Erudia had met his end in Northgale, it created a huge shock across the world.

The leaders of several powerful organizations welcomed the news with open arms.

Their oppressor was gone, and they were free to do whatever they desired. Gone were the days they lived in constant fear and anxiety.

Everyone else in Erudia was in a state of shock as well.

When rumors of his betrayal first appeared, some people began to berate and belittle him, while the others tried their best to protect his reputation.

"No! This can't be true! The God of War wouldn't die!"

"Can't you tell that someone's behind all this?"

As they prayed for his safe return, malicious comments began to surface as well.

"I'm so glad he's dead!"

"That's what a traitor deserves!"

"I can't wait to celebrate his death!"

The rich families of South Hampton and Oakland City were delighted to hear of the news, for they could finally be freed from Levi's suffocating iron grip.

In particular, the Garrison family cheered the moment they heard of the news.

As the laughter continued, Tyrone looked at his family members proudly and said, "I was right! He's dead to me the moment he left Erudia! He's no match for me!"

Olivia grinned. "Did you see that, Damien? Levi is dead! We've avenged you!"

Over at the Garcias, people were jumping up and down in excitement.

"Look how the tables have turned, Levi Garrison! You ripped my limbs off my body and lost your life because of it! Hahaha!" Conrad guffawed.

Meanwhile, at a base camp...

"Levi Garrison is dead!" Zar reported.

Winsor simply huffed and said, "Whatever. He's just a failure."

When Zoey and Emma heard of Levi's "death," they were shocked as well.

Zoey could feel a sheen of cold sweat forming on her forehead as Levi's words rang in her head.

I mustn't tell anyone about our conversation...

"Mom, it's time we begin the act," she told Emma.

"Yeah. I'm glad he told us about the plan earlier, or else I would have thrown myself off this building!" Emma said, heaving a sigh of relief.

Zoey grinned. "I'm sure he has his reasons for this. He'll come back soon, and we'll wait for him in Erudia!"

She had been feeling anxious for a long time, but when news of his “death” finally came around, she somehow found herself calmer than before.

Levi’s a careful guy... he definitely has his reasons for doing this!

“Everyone thinks my husband is dead, so we’re the only ones who know that he’s still alive. We must keep that a secret!” Zoey declared. “When he comes back, he’ll conquer the world and bring peace to everyone once more!”

At that, Zoey and Emma exchanged confident looks.

It feels great to have hope!

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1224

What no one knew was that the East Sky Lord of The Calamity had been the one fabricating the news of Levi’s untimely “death.”

The East Sky Lord had covered it up so thoroughly that even someone like Watanabe Tenichi overlooked it.

That night, the North and South Sky Lord silently began their operation.

The dozens of corporations that the South Sky Lord had acquired over the past, as well as the enormous business empire that he had built, emerged from the shadows. Under his management, organizations were pouring millions upon millions into The Calamity’s bank account.

As for the North Sky Lord, he singlehandedly destroyed a dozen underground forces and ruled over the entirety of The Dark World with an iron fist.

Not only that, countless families, conglomerates, and organizations have pledged their loyalty to The Calamity, giving them all the resources they needed to emerge from the shadows and begin their operations as the most powerful organization in the world.

In fact, they were several times stronger than the Blood King Palace at their peak.

The Calamity spent years building up their power behind the scenes, and the effort they put in was immeasurable.

The world was still reeling in shock from the news of Levi's "death" when news of The Calamity's sudden appearance materialized out of nowhere.

Everyone's attention turned to The Calamity in an instant.

"It's not a coincidence! They've been secretly building up their power since years ago!"

"This was all part of the plan all along!"

More and more people started to dig into The Calamity's past after the news broke out.

Tenichi and his men were no exception.

"What do you think of The Calamity's return, Mr. Watanabe?" someone asked.

Tenichi pondered over it for a moment before answering, "It must have been because of Levi's death!"

"That's right! If Levi had been alive, The Calamity would have stayed hidden! Levi had the power to hold anyone's head underwater!" someone yelled, and everyone else nodded in agreement.

They were convinced that The Calamity had emerged because of Levi's "death."

“Well, that doesn’t mean that we can stop collecting intel about them. We must establish some kind of relationship with them, in the event that we fail to acquire them.” Tenichi said with a confident smirk.

Just you wait! You’ll be mine soon, just like that Blood King Palace!

Meanwhile, news of The Calamity’s resurgence spread to Erudia as well.

When Winsor heard of the news, his eyes widened in shock. “What? It’s scarier than the Blood King Palace?”

“That’s right. They’re much better than the Blood King Palace in terms of strength,” Bolgun said.

Winsor smirked. “Would I become even better of a hero than Levi Garrison if I got rid of The Calamity?”

“Of course!” Bolgun and the others chorused. “I’m sure more people would be willing to recognize your current status as the God of War once you cleared out The Calamity!”

Winsor scoffed. “While it’s true that Levi defeated the Blood King Palace twice in a row, he didn’t do it by himself, did he?” The answer was a sound “no.” It had been his subordinates who did all the dirty work.

Besides the Five Great Wars Regiment, there were also the Cavalry Regiment, the Specter Army, as well as the Ruby, Emerald, Sapphire, and Topaz Armies.

They deserved most of the credit, for Levi would not have been able to win the battles without them.

With that, the three disciples nodded. “Of course. He’s nothing but a failure!”

“He’s destined to suffer! He’s a useless piece of trash!” Winsor growled.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1225

Their last fight had proved to Winsor that Levi's strength came from his subordinates, not Levi alone.

Levi had highly capable fighters like White Tiger by his side, and it made Winsor jealous.

Previously, Winsor had wanted to convince those fighters to join his ranks, but he knew that their loyalty to Levi was no laughing matter.

Although he hated it, there was nothing he could do to change it.

He even suggested merging the Iron Brigade and Levi's other armies into the Asura Army, only to be rejected on the spot.

"It's going to be pretty difficult to convince White Tiger and the others to join you, Master," Zar said.

"Just like how we'll refuse to join Levi's army no matter what happens," Bolgun added.

Winsor shook his head. "I don't care. They'll know just how powerful I am once they joined the Asura Army!"

Hearing that, Talon grinned. "Master's right. Levi's nothing compared to Master. He's just the son of a great Erudian family!"

Just then, Zar and Bolgun chuckled, and Talon raised an eyebrow in confusion. "Hm?"

“Are you saying that our Master doesn’t have a powerful background? That’s not true! So what if Levi’s the son of a great family?” Zar scoffed.

“Huh? What could be scarier than an ancient family?” Talon asked, bewildered.

Since he hailed from the mountains, he knew very little about Erudia’s aristocracy.

“That’s right. The truly powerful ones stay hidden while the show-offs flaunt their wealth. The Garrison clan wouldn’t even dare to offend Master’s family!” Bolgun explained.

Talon nodded slowly with wide eyes.

It all made sense to him.

The more powerful something was, the further it would be from the layman’s reach.

Everyone was under the illusion that the Garrison clan was the most powerful family in Oakland city, but what they failed to realize was that there were plenty of organizations out there that could outperform the Garrison clan in every way possible.

To spot a billionaire among the common folk would be like spotting a rare species. However, the same billionaire would pale in comparison to the people Winsor came into contact with.

In fact, in their social circles, being a billionaire was nothing to brag about.

One would not know about the existence of a certain matter if it was way out of their league, but that was not an excuse to deny its existence.

Talon trembled as he thought about the other two disciples’ words.

Looks like Master’s the true nobleman!

Rumble...

Suddenly, the sound of an army closing in on their base camp shook the ground beneath them.

It was as though an earthquake had occurred, and everyone struggled to stay upright.

“What’s going on?” Winsor asked, his face paling. “Is it an earthquake?”

His three disciples rushed outside to take a look, and Winsor followed them closely.

The soldiers of the Asura Army stood at attention.

“Master! It’s not an earthquake!” Zar yelled. “We’re under attack!”

A few minutes later, the Five Great Wars Regiment, the Cavalry Regiment, the Specter Army, the Dragon Warriors as well as the Iron Brigade slowed to a halt before Winsor, sending shivers down everyone’s spines.

Winsor frowned and stared at the crowd before him. “What are you trying to do, Azure Dragon?”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1226

“How dare you act so rashly before me? Are you out of your mind?” Winsor crossed his hands behind his back and stared intensely at Azure Dragon and the others.

White Tiger returned his glance and said, “Winsor Campbell, we are here for only one thing. We want to rectify my boss’s name!”

“Indeed! Our boss didn’t betray Erudia!”

“Clear his name!” The crowd shouted in unison.

“These are pieces of evidence to prove his innocence!” Phoenix handed Winsor a copy of the audio and visual recordings.

It was a video recording of the battle against the Blood King Palace – a solid proof that Levi Garrison was innocent.

When they were at Oakland City, Levi had ordered Azure Dragon to wait for his further instructions. Hence, both Azure Dragon and White Tiger were patiently waiting for Levi’s command.

However, they received the shocking news of his death instead. Thus, they could no longer remain calm.

Earlier, when Levi was still alive, they could not do much for him. Unfortunately, he was gone before they could serve him wholeheartedly. Hence, the least they could do now was to help rectify his name.

Winsor's expression dropped after he watched the video recording.

"It seems that Levi Garrison was framed! I didn't realize this from the start!" Winsor responded.

He wondered to himself. How did a cripple man like Levi cause such a tremendous threat that even his enemies were frightened?

"I'm afraid you wouldn't understand, Asura. In the eyes of the foreign enemies, my boss poses a greater danger than you! He is a huge threat as long as he has one single breath left." White Tiger sneered.

Winsor's expression dulled at his words.

Why is everyone comparing me against Levi even though I had defeated him? Why? Is it impossible for the strong to be approved? How could the people turn a blind eye to me?

I am indeed better than Levi, and it was proven with thousands of people as witnesses! Besides, Levi Garrison had admitted to his loss.

I don't get it. Why does everyone still think he's stronger than I am?

For some reason, he had defeated Levi, yet failed to win the hearts of the people.

Thus, he felt particularly uneasy about the time when he lured Levi into a trap and killed him. He wished Levi were alive instead. That way, he could have had a rematch to prove that his victory was not a coincidence and that he was indeed stronger.

Unfortunately, it's impossible now.

There's no chance now that he's dead.

In the meantime, I have to destroy The Calamity to conquer people's hearts.

"Asura, we hope you may restore the God of War's identity and revoke all previous punishments!"

Suddenly, Azure Dragon, White Tiger, and the others knelt to the ground.

Winsor was taken back by their actions.

He knew the group of unruly men very well, and they would not simply kneel for anyone or anything.

Based on his knowledge, they would only kneel for the heavens, the earth, and Erudia – no one else.

However, to his surprise, they knelt before him on this very day. Seeing that, it was evident that Levi was someone very close to their hearts.

Albeit being jealous of Levi, Winsor still did the right thing.

“Alright, I shall revoke all punishments against Levi and crown him as a martyr!” After a short while, Winsor announced.

“Thank you, Asura!” The Iron Brigade cried out.

Azure Dragon then stepped forward and said, “Asura, I plan to organize a funeral for my boss once his body’s transported back!”

“Alright, go head!” Winsor turned and left after that.

After two weeks of searching, Azure Dragon finally managed to transport “Levi’s body” back to Erudia.

He had also informed Zoey and Emma about his passing. However, he did not encourage them to come.

On a cold day in the North, a simple yet grand funeral was conducted.

The Iron Brigade escorted the “God of War” on his last journey on earth with the highest honor.

At the same time, several figures were looking down from a mountain top.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1227

“Master, how does it feel to witness your own funeral?” North Sky King asked with a smile.

The person next to him was none other than Levi Garrison.

In fact, Levi was standing. He looked relaxed, with his hands on his back.

He was in a healthy state as his body had recovered completely.

It would cause many jaw-drops if the others knew about it.

That was because the poison from the Blood King Palace he had in his body was cured by the Octa-Medic.

Surprisingly, his body had fully recovered despite the poison.

Outsiders aside, even the Four Lords of The Calamity were shocked to see Levi walking around after a month of recovery.

This is unbelievable...

It's a miracle! It can only be a miracle! How could I have recovered so fast?

It reminded him of the incident when he was framed into prison eight years ago.

He was beaten up so severely until he was crippled and unable to move.

Due to his condition, he knew he had no chance of being selected by the special task force.

However, he had an opportunity during his time in prison that gave him a chance to live today.

And, of course, it was his biggest secret of all times. It was the key to his recovery this time around!

When his body was completely destroyed, he needed time to recover.

Yet, the situation was too dangerous in the past, so he didn't have the time to heal.

Levi glanced at the funeral below and said plainly, "Perhaps dying could also be a way of relief? Yet, I cannot die. I have to stay alive! Erudia, Mother, Evie Zoey, and all my friends wouldn't let me die! Besides, I have sworn to avenge my dead brothers as long as I live! They shall not die in vain!"

The Four Lords agreed, "If you fall, Master, the world would be in chaos!"

West Sky Lord responded, "Master, I have some news regarding the incident you wanted me to investigate! I believe there would be results very soon!"

"Excellent, I have to return to Erudia first. North Sky Lord, you're with me!" Levi said.

Meanwhile, Azure Dragon and the rest were the ones who held the funeral, which had confirmed the news of Levi Garrison's death.

From that day onwards, Levi Garrison had disappeared from the world.

Just like The Calamity.

They were like ghosts – every piece of information about them was wiped clean as if they never existed in the world.

On this day, the Eighteen-Nation Alliance was having a grand celebration.

After all, their biggest threat was dead.

Tenichi smiled, "We may start to take action anytime now!"

When Levi was alive, he was a hindrance to everyone's plan. Hence, everyone wanted to eliminate him.

On the other hand, Winsor was ready to strike The Calamity. However, he had received orders from the Dragonites to stop whatever he was doing, saying that he could not attack The Calamity unless they had caused trouble that would threaten Erudia.

Although he was eager to prove himself, he had to abort his plans for now.

Meanwhile, the people of North Hampton had heard about the death of Levi.

However, Zoey and her family did not know how to react to the news.

At this moment, someone appeared at the manor, and it was Jerry.

For some reason, a smile was plastered across his face.

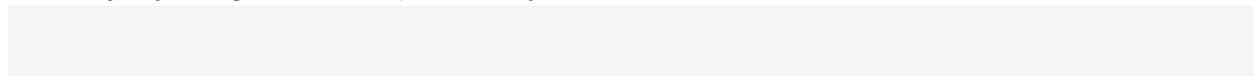

"Why're you here?" Zoey asked in surprise.

"Huh? Ms. Lopez, have you completely forgotten about Mr. Garrison? I heard it's his funeral today. I thought you would be very upset, but instead, you haven't shed a tear!"

"Ms. Jones, too, she seems perfectly fine. Did you all think Levi was a traitor – who turned his back on Erudia? That's why you're ashamed of him?" Jerry joked.

It was true; both Zoey and Emma did not react any differently. It was as if Levi was still alive.

"But that's probably for the better anyway. I'm willing to take care of you for the rest of my life, only if you agree, Ms. Lopez!" Jerry continued.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1227

“Master, how does it feel to witness your own funeral?” North Sky King asked with a smile.

The person next to him was none other than Levi Garrison.

In fact, Levi was standing. He looked relaxed, with his hands on his back.

He was in a healthy state as his body had recovered completely.

It would cause many jaw-drops if the others knew about it.

That was because the poison from the Blood King Palace he had in his body was cured by the Octa-Medic.

Surprisingly, his body had fully recovered despite the poison.

Outsiders aside, even the Four Lords of The Calamity were shocked to see Levi walking around after a month of recovery.

This is unbelievable...

It's a miracle! It can only be a miracle! How could I have recovered so fast?

It reminded him of the incident when he was framed into prison eight years ago.

He was beaten up so severely until he was crippled and unable to move.

Due to his condition, he knew he had no chance of being selected by the special task force.

However, he had an opportunity during his time in prison that gave him a chance to live today.

And, of course, it was his biggest secret of all times. It was the key to his recovery this time around!

When his body was completely destroyed, he needed time to recover.

Yet, the situation was too dangerous in the past, so he didn't have the time to heal.

Levi glanced at the funeral below and said plainly, "Perhaps dying could also be a way of relief? Yet, I cannot die. I have to stay alive! Erudia, Mother, Evie Zoey, and all my friends wouldn't let me die! Besides, I have sworn to avenge my dead brothers as long as I live! They shall not die in vain!"

The Four Lords agreed, "If you fall, Master, the world would be in chaos!"

West Sky Lord responded, "Master, I have some news regarding the incident you wanted me to investigate! I believe there would be results very soon!"

"Excellent, I have to return to Erudia first. North Sky Lord, you're with me!" Levi said.

Meanwhile, Azure Dragon and the rest were the ones who held the funeral, which had confirmed the news of Levi Garrison's death.

From that day onwards, Levi Garrison had disappeared from the world.

Just like The Calamity.

They were like ghosts – every piece of information about them was wiped clean as if they never existed in the world.

On this day, the Eighteen-Nation Alliance was having a grand celebration.

After all, their biggest threat was dead.

Tenichi smiled, "We may start to take action anytime now!"

When Levi was alive, he was a hindrance to everyone's plan. Hence, everyone wanted to eliminate him.

On the other hand, Winsor was ready to strike The Calamity. However, he had received orders from the Dragonites to stop whatever he was doing, saying that he could not attack The Calamity unless they had caused trouble that would threaten Erudia.

Although he was eager to prove himself, he had to abort his plans for now.

Meanwhile, the people of North Hampton had heard about the death of Levi.

However, Zoey and her family did not know how to react to the news.

At this moment, someone appeared at the manor, and it was Jerry.

For some reason, a smile was plastered across his face.

"Why're you here?" Zoey asked in surprise.

"Huh? Ms. Lopez, have you completely forgotten about Mr. Garrison? I heard it's his funeral today. I thought you would be very upset, but instead, you haven't shed a tear!"

"Ms. Jones, too, she seems perfectly fine. Did you all think Levi was a traitor – who turned his back on Erudia? That's why you're ashamed of him?" Jerry joked.

It was true; both Zoey and Emma did not react any differently. It was as if Levi was still alive.

"But that's probably for the better anyway. I'm willing to take care of you for the rest of my life, only if you agree, Ms. Lopez!" Jerry continued.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1229

Danger is slowly approaching. Therefore, Evie's safety depends on me.

However, there's not much I can do.

Even an honorable man like my godfather had also given in in exchange to protect his family.

It further proves how powerful the mysterious force is!

And it won't be a force that I can't handle on my own...

It seems like Jerry's right – he's probably my only hope now.

Looking at her perplexed expression, Jerry smiled, "I'll allow you some time to think about it, but don't take too long! Actions will be taken soon enough once the assassination order has been announced. I have a flight at 11 p.m. tomorrow, and I'll leave if you don't give me an answer by then!"

Zoey and Emma's heart sank as Jerry left.

It was all part of his plan, by asking Zoey not to give him an answer on the spot.

Instead, he gave her a time limit to consider his offer, which would defeat her psychological barrier even more.

It had indeed made Zoey even more nervous.

On the other hand, Levin was on his way back to Erudia when he received news from The Calamity.

"Master, The Dark World has released an assassination order to eliminate your child!"

"The mysterious force claims that your child cannot live!" West Sky Lord told Levi.

Levi's eyes widened as he shot her a cold glance.

Who dares to touch my child?

“Besides, this assassination order was released from Erudia! Therefore, many assassination organizations in Erudia would be going after your child!”

Levi instantly knew the person who framed him was the same person who had released the assassination order when he heard those words.

It must be Mr. Finch!

I’m already “dead.” Yet, he intends to cut weeds and eliminate the roots and not let Evie live.

Well, it was about time I rake this person out! I would like to see the man who forbade my existence.

This was the reason why Levi had the East Sky Lord spread the news of his death. Levi planned to investigate the incident secretly.

He was determined to catch Mr. Finch and his henchmen once and for all!

At the same time, North Hampton was seemingly peaceful, yet a dark force was surging as countless assassination organizations had laid their eyes on the city.

The oppressing atmosphere was so intense that it was suffocating.

Zoey could sense the horror approaching the manor.

Although she had hired many bodyguards to enhance protection, her heart was not at peace.

After Jerry left, Zoey had also received news from Tiffany and the rest. They warned her to stay alert as people from the assassination organizations were going to approach Evie.

As time ticked on, Zoey became more worried.

I can’t care less about anything else except for Evie!

I must protect her even if it costs my life!

It was nearly 11 p.m.

As much as she did not trust Jerry, she was willing to take the risk for Evie's sake.

Hence, she contacted Jerry.

"I'll do whatever you say as long as you can guarantee Evie's safety!" Zoey had compromised at last.

Soon after that, Jerry arrived and had the same smile plastered on his face, "Although the assassins are already here, there were only a few top-notch assassins like Bloodleaf, the Dark Lord, and Slayer. I could take care of them... but as for the second batch of assassins..."

After hearing Jerry's word, Zoey believed him.

I think he really does know everything about the assassin organization.

After all, he spoke in a very convincing tone.

As a matter of fact, Jerry was the one who had arranged several groups of assassins to go after Evie. Once the time had come, he would pretend to be a hero to take care of things just as he planned.

It would deepen the trust between them when Zoey witnessed it before her eyes.

At the same time, Zoey and Emma had no choice but to go with Jerry's plan out of desperation.

And that included handing over the authoritative rights to Zoey's company.

Once he had power over the company, he immediately transferred the rights over to himself.

With that, Jerry had taken over the entire Morris Group in half an hour and disappeared in a flash.

When Zoey heard the news, it was like a lightning bolt had struck her, making her lost for words.

I can't believe I was scammed!

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1230

Jerry knew that both Zoey and Emma were eager to keep Evie safe. Hence, he leveraged that and put on a good show to convince them to go with his plan.

Besides, he was their last hope. Therefore, Zoey had no choice but to believe him.

She had her speculations that Jerry might be a liar, however, it was a risk she had to take.

Even if there was a slightest hope.

Yet, the reality was cruel.

Once Jerry had the Morris Group to himself, he immediately fired Iris and the other council members. The reason behind his actions was to gain complete control of the company in the shortest amount of time.

In the meantime, Zoey was left in a miserable state...

The Lehman family had publicly broken off their relationship with her, the business empire she built on her own was taken away from her, and her child was facing grave danger.

She felt hopeless.

The news of Jerry deceiving Zoey soon spread like wildfire.

Even so, the Lehman family could only watch as they were no longer related.

Everyone merely reprimanded Jerry regarding his actions but did nothing else.

As for Jerry, he was overjoyed that he had acquired Zoey's business empire easily.

Consequently, the Gott family had become even more powerful than before.

Although it was not comparable to the standards of an ancient family, it was still on par with an imperial family.

"Hmph, did the Lehman family think that they could use me like that? How could they let me marry a woman who had a child? Are they trying to tarnish my reputation?"

"If it weren't for Zoey's empire and the Lehman family's power, I would have never agreed to the marriage! Did she think that she's that irresistible? Hah! How ridiculous!"

"Besides, how could you count on me to raise the child of a traitor? Is she even worth it? She's just an illegitimate child that should have died along with her father instead of staying alive in this world!"

"Anyway, I've heard the news about the assassination organizations going after the child. So I guess we'll receive the news very soon!"

Jerry made the following series of remarks as soon as he had gotten everything he desired.

Meanwhile, Zoey was appalled at the sight of Jerry on TV.

"What a shameless, despicable animal!"

The more Zoey thought about it, the more she became furious as she dug her nails into her palms.

She was in a difficult situation, yet he had scammed her at this moment and made such vicious remarks!

A gentleman! Hah! He's even worse than a villain!

Just you wait! When Levi's back, I will take back everything that I've lost! Mark my words!

"Things are going to get out of hand now, by the looks of it. I'm afraid our people can't keep Evie safe," Emma said with a hoarse voice.

Even though the Jones family had sent an ace like Shadow to protect them, everyone knew that it wasn't enough...

Little Evie seemed to know what was going on as she scrunched up her face in silence.

Judging from her stubborn temper, it reminded Zoey of Levi.

"We can only hide in the basement for now and pray that they won't find us!"

Zoey and Emma carried Evie as they hid in the basement with Syllas, who had prepared sufficient food and water.

They had successfully avoided the assassins once when Levi hid them in the basement of the manor.

Meanwhile, the assassination organizations who had received the assassination order had arrived at North Hampton.

A total of ten assassination organizations had begun their assassination operation simultaneously.

They bypassed Shadow and the other guards who were stationed outside and infiltrated the manor without much difficulty.

However, the assassins were dumbfounded when they found the manor was empty.

"Where are they? Where did they go?"

"They were in the manor the entire time and had never left. How could they disappear in thin air?"

The assassins searched everywhere, but there were no signs of Zoey and the others.

"No, we've been watching them all this time. It's impossible that they've left!"

"The only possibility is that there is a secret room situated somewhere in this manor. Spread out and do a search!"

In the meantime, Zoey and the others were observing the situation through the surveillance cameras in the basement.

"Damn it, they've figured it out!" Zoey gasped in shock as she stared at the surveillance cameras.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1231

It was only a matter of time for the secret room to be discovered albeit being quite hidden.

As expected, the professional assassins located the secret room effortlessly within seconds.

Screech!

Suddenly, the footage from the surveillance camera turned blurry.

That means they've found the hidden cameras too.

With that, it defeats the purpose of having a secret room.

Knock! Knock! Knock!

Hearing the noises coming from above, Zoey and the rest had ants in their pants.

We're all doomed once they get in here.

"We've found it! All that's left is to force it open."

The assassins were all geared up to intrude into the place by force.

"Hey."

Out of the blue, someone tapped the shoulder of an assassin.

The assassin turned around and saw two men staring back at him coldly.

Whoosh!

Before he could say anything, a harsh slap landed on his face and he died on the spot.

The other assassins snapped their bodies around and asked, "Who are you?"

"Levi Garrison."

"What? Levi Garrison? You... you're still alive? This is impossible! You're supposed to be dead!" The assassins were stunned.

"North." Levi called out softly.

"Yes!" North Sky Lord acknowledged.

"Kill them!" ordered Levi.

North Sky Lord struck everyone dead within moments.

He was too terrifying, simply a league above them all.

After cleaning up, they left.

Meanwhile, Zoey had been waiting in the secret room for ages, yet nobody came.

In the end, Sylas was sent to check on the situation outside of the room.

The assassins are gone and everything seems as normal as it can be.

"What.. What is going on here?"

They were flummoxed by the scene before them.

"Could it be Levi who did this?" Everyone suspected him at once.

But, isn't he abroad right now? Not to mention he's a cripple now...

How could he possibly be here to save us?

So, if it's not him, who could it be then?

On their way out, Levi commanded, "We must find out who's the mastermind behind all these."

He wanted to find out who gave the assassination order.

North Sky King nodded in response.

"Master, I've received news that Jerry from Oakland City defrauded Zoey's company."

"Is that so?" Levi's expression changed.

He quickly sought confirmation from the West Sky Lord and was furious to know that Jerry had indeed snatched away all of Zoey's top-notch staff.

How could such a despicable person exist?

After reading Jerry's published remarks on the matter, Levi blew a fuse.

"Jerry Gott must die!" He spat as a murderous glint flashed through his eyes.

Meanwhile, Jerry organized a grand banquet at the Lafite Manor in Oakland City.

The successful appropriation of Morris Group had elevated his family status and made them first among the imperial families.

As a consequence, he also emerged first in the Oakland City's Heir Leaderboard.

Giddy with delight, he organized a special banquet to celebrate his proud achievements.

"Mr. Gott, we were shocked to the bone when we thought that you would really marry Zoey Lopez!"

"Turns out you've got some amazing tricks up your sleeve."

"Hahaha..." Everyone cheered.

A satisfied sneer settled upon Jerry's face. "I'm not foolish enough to marry the woman of Erudia's greatest traitor and keep a surviving minion under my name. How preposterous would that be!"

"Haha, that's right. They aren't worthy to even lick your boots."

Everyone chimed in and echoed their agreements.

Someone asked, "Mr. Gott, people have the perception that you've deceived Zoey and taken away all of her possessions. What would you say about that?"

"I would say that's bulls! Have you ever considered the reputational damage and loss incurred to me because of that bh and the bastard? Morris Group was simply compensation. It's supposed to be mine in the first place!" Jerry proclaimed brazenly.

Just then, a commanding voice yelled, "A despicable rat like you should die!"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1232

The voice thundered through the banquet hall and jolted everyone present.

"Who? Who is it?"

Everyone looked around to find the person that had just spoken.

"Who dares to call me despicable?" Jerry sneered.

Now that he had absolute power and authority, he stopped pretending to be chivalrous.

After all, his influence had further elevated after taking over Morris Group.

So what if others know my true colors? But who's the one who dares call me despicable?

Does he have a death wish?

"It's me!" A cold voice was heard.

At that moment, two figures emerged from the entrance.

One of them was unfamiliar to everyone as no one had seen him before.

As for the other...

"Y-you..."

"A ghost!"

"It's a ghost!"

When the crowd saw the familiar face, they screamed in shock.

However, those that were sitting in front couldn't see. They wondered what was going on when they saw everyone else running around aimlessly shrieking their heads off.

Jerry led the other guests to see what the commotion was about and was shocked by what he saw.

"L-Levi Garrison... How can it... Be you."

"Why... Why are you still... Alive?"

Jerry staggered backwards and almost lost his balance.

Many in Oakland City had seen Levi before.

As such, they could feel panic started rising within them by the sight of him.

Isn't Levi supposed to be dead?

Why is he still alive?

Not to mention his body has recovered?

How is this possible?

How can a dead person suddenly appear in Erudia?

After all, everyone knew that the news was true.

The Iron Brigade even organized a funeral for him on purpose where they cremated his body.

Furthermore, it was widely reported that Levi was dead.

Therefore, it was impossible for him to be alive.

Everyone was so frightened that their knees wobbled.

They had the urge to run but found that their legs wouldn't budge as they stared at the supposedly dead man before them.

Levi approached Jerry step by step. "Who says I'm dead? Can't you see I'm doing just fine?"

Slap! Slap! Slap!

Levi slapped Jerry's cheeks.

"I..."

Jerry gulped and he fell on his knees, staring at Levi in horror.

Despite the burning sensation on his cheeks, he could still feel the warmth in Levi's hands.

Levi is really alive!

“You... How can you still be alive?”

Despite his reluctance to believe, the reality of the situation was right before his eyes.

Jerry felt like having a heart attack.

“What?”

“Levi is still alive?”

The whole banquet was in an uproar.

It was considered earth-shattering news not just in Erudia but also in the world.

“You... Why are you here?”

Jerry’s face was filled with horror.

“For doing something so despicable while I’m away, It’s only natural that I am here to kill you!”

Levi’s eyes were filled with murderous intent.

“Kill me? You can’t kill me. Levi, so what if you’re still alive? You are a traitor to Erudia and have been exiled for it. If Winsor finds out that you’re here, do you know what the consequences for you are?”

“Not only will you lose your life, but even your family will also be exiled from Erudia.”

Although Azure Dragon and the others had cleared Levi’s name, only those within military circles knew about it.

The common folks were still unaware of Levi’s innocence.

Therefore, Levi was still a traitor in their eyes and for that reason, Jerry wasn’t afraid.

“Levi, why don’t I give you a chance? As long as you leave Erudia quietly, I will pretend that I didn’t see you. In fact, I won’t even report this to Winsor.”

Jerry scrutinized Levi in a condescending manner and was confident that he had the upper hand.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1233

Levi laughed. “That’s a good idea. Why don’t you inform Winsor right this moment? Tell him that I have returned to Erudia in defiance of my exile. Get him to come here and kick me out.”

Levi’s confident demeanor shocked Jerry.

Isn’t he afraid?

“Levi, I have no idea why you’re still alive and why your body has fully recovered. But once Winsor finds out about this, you will be in a world of trouble. After all, he was the one that gave the order to banish you and to forbid you from ever returning to Erudia. The moment you return, you are in open defiance of Winsor and his orders,” Jerry cleared his throat and declared.

In response, Levi simply chuckled.

Why would I be afraid of Winsor? This is getting interesting.

“Levi, you are someone that has lost to Winsor, he’s your bane and you know it! If he can beat you once, he can definitely beat you again.”

“Once you are arrested by him for causing trouble in Erudia, do you think he will let you live?” Jerry sneered.

The exact same thought crossed everyone’s minds.

After all, many in Oakland City had seen with their own eyes how Winsor defeated Levi.

In their minds, Winsor was stronger than Levi and Levi’s appearance was considered an open provocation towards him.

Once Winsor found out Levi was here, the consequences would be dire.

“So get out of here now! I’ll let you off this one time,” Jerry scoffed.

“Beat him up.” Levi ordered.

Slap!

North Sky Lord approached and slapped Jerry forcefully, causing the latter’s flesh to split and blood to gush out.

“Argh!” Jerry screamed in agony.

Slap!

North Sky Lord slapped him again and his face turned into a bloody mess.

Screams of anguish reverberated through the hall as if a pig were being slaughtered inside.

Slap!

He was slapped again.

By now, Jerry was cringing on the ground in utter pain, his face an unrecognizable mess.

North Sky Lord pulled him up and rained punches down upon him.

The impact was so great that bloody holes appeared on Jerry's body.

In the end, Jerry died from the overwhelming pain.

"How dare you bully my family? Hmph, for that you deserve death!"

Levi's eyes flashed with anger.

When everyone heard his words, they held their breath in fear and broke into a cold sweat.

It was a terrifying sight.

No one expected that Levi would return in such a manner.

It was as if he had come back from hell itself.

The next day.

Zoey was filled with questions as Morris Group was once again back in her hands.

What wrong with Jerry? Has he gone nuts?

He just returned the company to me after spending so much effort in taking over it?

"It doesn't make sense! Someone must have interfered."

...

At North Hampton, everything was safe for the moment.

However, there was an uproar within The Dark World when they realized the assassins sent to kill Forlevia had all disappeared.

They were puzzled as to where the assassins could have gone.

After further investigations, they reconfirmed that there was no one at Zoey's side to protect her.

How is it that the assassins disappeared? Is someone protecting her? But that's impossible!

Soon, The Dark World sent out another assassination order with an increased reward from the original one billion to ten billion.

The tenfold reward increase was done in order to attract even more powerful assassins.

Just as expected, an ancient assassin organization emerged in response to the assassination order.

As the saying goes, money makes the world go round.

The handsome reward was enough to attract an ancient assassin organization that had been in hiding for decades to reemerged.

Also, it demonstrated the resolve of the employer to have Forlevia killed. They wanted to make sure Levi's child was dead.

"Another assassination order has been issued. Check the source! I want to know who issued it."

Levi, who had been watching from the shadows finally found his opportunity.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1234

This time, too many people had sacrificed their lives for Levi.

He couldn't allow them to die in vain, hence he had to have his revenge.

The one who gave the assassination order had to be ferreted out.

"It's a pity that my recovery was too slow. If only I had recovered faster, they wouldn't have to die."

Thinking back to the gruesome scene, Levi clenched his fists subconsciously.

North Sky Lord couldn't help but ask, "Master, I have always wanted to ask..."

"You want to ask how I recovered?" Levi surmised.

"That's right. I was surprised when you recovered from that condition in less than a month. Furthermore, I feel that you are now stronger than before. I don't understand what's going on anymore."

North Sky Lord's face was filled with surprise.

Levi recalled his memories, "Eight years ago, I was framed and sent to prison. Before they sent me in, they made sure my limbs were all broken as punishment. Just when I was at the lowest point of my life, I had a stroke of luck. I met my benefactor in prison whom I'm more than willing to address as Master."

"He taught me an ancient technique which was perfect for me due to the disabilities I suffered then."

North Sky Lord was puzzled. "Huh?"

"The technique required one's body to be broken before it can be rebuilt. If I were of ordinary health then, it wouldn't have worked at all."

North Sky Lord understood immediately. "So you're saying that with your limbs broken, you were in the perfect condition to practice that technique."

"Exactly! Before long, my body quickly recovered in prison. Moreover, I made a name for myself fighting in prison and that was how I was drafted."

Levi revealed a secret that he never told anyone before.

“So that means that this time, given the injuries you sustained were even worse, you would then be in a better position to practice that technique!”

North Sky Lord managed to link what Levi told him to his recent recovery.

Levi nodded, “Yep, that’s right.”

“Furthermore, I managed to get a better understanding of the technique this time. In fact, I fixed all the flaws that it previously had.”

“What?”

North Sky Lord’s eyes almost popped out of their sockets.

So that’s how Levi became the invincible God of War. It all came down to an ancient technique made for cripples.

Now that he has fixed the technique’s flaws, God knows how much stronger he is now.

It only goes to show how intelligent he is to be able to perfect such an ancient technique.

In fact, not every cripple can effectively practice it. One had to be intellectually gifted and equally tenacious.

North Sky Lord shifted the focus of the conversation. “Master, I’m curious as to who your Master is, given that he knows such a powerful technique.”

“He is indeed a mysterious man. It’s obvious that the prison can’t hold him, but he chose to stay there his entire life.”

Levi smiled. “He doesn’t want me to address him as ‘Master’ and forbids me from telling anyone else that I met him.”

“Huh? Why? Besides, how did someone as powerful as him landed himself in prison?”

North Sky Lord was confused.

"Beats me. Even in prison, he pretended not to know me and didn't allow me to get close to him. His reason was that he had offended someone powerful and whoever is close to him will suffer a terrible tragedy," Levi explained.

North Sky Lord was getting more puzzled as the conversation went on.

"Why does it sound so mysterious?"

Levi shook his head. "That was the first thing that came to my mind too. How is it possible to have a tragedy befall someone just for getting close? After that, I realized he was talking about his identity. All the members of his clan were labeled as criminals the day they were born. Anyone who came into contact with them was also punished."

"Huh? How can that be?" North Sky Lord exclaimed.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1235

North Sky Lord had always considered himself to be extremely knowledgeable.

For example, members of The Calamity were not known to exist in the world.

However, he was still surprised to hear about Levi's master.

A whole clan labeled as criminals the moment they are born?

Even those that come into contact with them are punished?

What did they do to deserve such a harsh punishment?

"I have not told anyone about my secret in the prison. Thinking about it now, it seems my master has saved me twice already," Levi lamented.

The world is still a beautiful place, where the good outnumbers the bad.

There are still many who are good to me including those that I hardly know.

For the sake of all those people, I have to live and get to the bottom of this.

"Don't you plan on visiting him?" North Sky Lord asked.

"When I was drafted, he declared that our relationship ended there and then. Going forward, we were no longer supposed to know each other."

Levi felt a sense of remorse over the matter. "That's why I can only greet him 'Master' in my heart."

"How strong are you now?" North Sky Lord inquired.

"In my current condition, the poison from the Blood King Palace will no longer affect me."

Gasp!

North Sky Lord sucked in a breath.

The Blood King Palace poison was the culmination of decades of hard work and massive resources.

To think that it's ineffective against Levi now...

How strong is Levi now, really?

Even Winsor may not be able to touch a hair on him, let alone defeat him.

It's amusing how Winsor still thinks he is stronger and wants to fight Levi again.

The Levi of the past was already stronger than you, let alone Levi in his current state.

Do you even stand a chance?

Meanwhile, Winsor wasn't resting on his laurels either as he had focused his attention on The Calamity.

Even though the Dragonites warned him to stay away from The Calamity, Winsor's curiosity got the better of him.

He was fanatical about martial arts and was obsessed with looking for someone to fight. He would seek out the best warriors wherever he could find them.

When he heard that The Calamity had an invincible warrior in the form of North Sky Lord, he set his eyes on him.

"I want to defeat him and make him submit to me."

Just then, Zar reported, "Asura, there's a middle-aged man outside that wants to see you."

"Alright, follow me."

Winsor headed out immediately.

Outside, there was a middle-aged man in a white robe, he had exquisite features and exuded an elegant vibe.

In fact, he gave others a sense of otherworldliness.

"Master!"

When Winsor saw him, he stood at attention out of respect.

The middle-aged man patted Winsor on his back. "Congratulations, you've finally taken over the God of War's position."

"I hope I made you proud, Master," Winsor remarked as he bowed.

His master nodded. "You did. You've done a good job, Winsor. Levi is a lowborn, how can he compare to someone as noble as you? If you had lost, you would have humiliated all the great families."

"People say that a poor family has a better chance of producing a successful son, while noble families produce failures. However, I want to show them that there's no way a humble family can produce anyone capable. A lowborn can never beat one who is born from a noble family," his master declared haughtily as if he wanted to prove a point to the world.

"Therefore I was furious when the position of Erudia's God of War was taken away by a lowborn. I had wanted you to challenge him many times and we finally got our opportunity."

Winsor smiled, "That's right. Everyone thinks that Levi was borne of Erudia's top ancient family. But they didn't know that an ancient family is nothing to us."

The middle-aged man smiled smugly.

The most important detail of all was that his surname was Finch.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1236

Winsor's master was none other than the man that Levi was looking for – Mr. Finch.

His full name was Sampson Finch.

He was the one responsible for plotting to kill Levi.

He had Tenichi use the Blood King Palace to tempt Levi away and poisoned him.

He was also the one who ordered the assassination of Forlevia twice.

Everything was put in place by him from behind the scenes.

When Damien was fighting against Levi, the Garrison family cheated so that Damien wouldn't lose.

However, what they did was nothing compared to Sampson.

To ensure Winsor's victory, Sampson put in place many traps and even had the Four Warriors help him from the shadows.

They had to cheat in order to defeat Levi.

Sampson's objective was simple. He felt that Levi didn't deserve to be Erudia's God of War and wanted his own disciple to take on the title.

The moment Levi was awarded the title of God of War, he was already in Winsor's way.

Ever since Winsor was young, Sampson groomed him for the title only to have Levi stole it from them.

Therefore, it was a development that they hated to see.

The place where Winsor was born was extremely secluded. It wasn't accessible for members of high society let alone ordinary folk.

It was considered home to a legendary great family.

A family that was a hundred years old was considered a prominent family while one that was a thousand years old an ancient family.

However, a great family had a longer and more illustrious history.

It wasn't just comprised of a particular race or clan but a combination of very old groups.

A great family had usually existed for two to three thousand years and stood the test of time.

Therefore, they were more powerful than anyone could imagine.

For example, God class warriors were so rare that the Eighteen-Nation Alliance could only gather a hundred of them.

Ultimate class warriors were even harder to come by. The Harbinger of Death alone could defeat everyone before him.

However, a great family was filled with God class and Ultimate class warriors.

That was how much their skills differed.

Just by comparing strength alone, a great family within Erudia is more powerful than a single nation overseas.

Sampson and his companions had their own circle and their own rules.

They were above it all as if they were Gods themselves.

To them, the ordinary folk in the mundane world were just insects crawling about their daily lives.

They considered the life of an ordinary person the lowest of classes and view them with disdain.

Even the weakest member of a great family was someone extremely influential in the mundane world.

Winsor was the only one of Sampson's disciples who stepped into the mundane world.

When he first arrived, he was like a wolf being unleashed on unsuspecting sheep.

He overwhelmed everyone else both in terms of power and fame.

The reason he was sent out into the world was that they wanted the world to fear them for being all-powerful.

Winsor was so terrifying that he single-handedly built the Asura Army and had the support of Zar and three other disciples.

His aim was to win the title of God of War but he didn't expect Levi to beat him to it after coming out of nowhere.

Therefore, Sampson and Winsor resented the fact.

Winsor was a descendant of a great family, so he would never accept that he had lost to a nobody.

Ever since then, they had been looking for an opportunity but Levi had never lost a battle over the last few years.

It wasn't until Levi left the army that the opportunity finally presented itself.

Just as how Damien couldn't lose to Levi, it was the same for them as it was a matter of pride.

If a reclusive great family such as theirs was defeated, they would surely become a laughing stock.

Therefore, they had to do whatever it takes to guarantee Winsor's victory over Levi.

Only then can they take over the title of God of War.

After putting in so much effort, they finally did it.

They even managed to kill Levi off in the process. And now, they wanted to kill Forlevia too just to prevent any eventualities.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1237

However, it was ironic that Winsor thought he had beaten Levi fair and square.

He was oblivious to the fact that everything was arranged by his master and the fact that Levi decided to lose on purpose in the end.

In reality, Winsor's own capabilities only made up one-third of the factors for his victory over Levi.

"Master, why are you here?" Winsor was curious.

The great families owned many ancient artifacts and technologies such as martial art techniques, medical knowledge, etc.

There was nothing in the mundane world that was interesting enough for them.

Therefore, Winsor couldn't fathom why his master left their home.

Ever since he left home at fifteen, he never saw his master again.

Unbeknownst to him, however, his master had actually left their home in the beginning and was busy scheming against Levi.

"I am here to visit you. I can see that you're doing well for yourself since you are now the one and only God of War of Erudia."

Sampson patted Winsor on his shoulder.

Winsor sighed, "Unfortunately, it could never erase the fact that the first one was Levi."

"No, he is already dead. You are the only one now!"

"Master, I have something to get off my chest. Despite beating Levi, many people still do not respect me. In fact, they still have faith in Levi."

Winsor voiced out his concerns.

Many claimed that he had the advantage because Levi was already exhausted from battling consecutively.

Every time he heard a comment like that, it made his blood boil.

Sampson snorted, "Hmph! They're just a bunch of ignorant scum. We live in a world where the fittest survive. The winner takes all while the loser doesn't deserve to complain."

"If they are unconvinced, you will have to demonstrate it with your power."

Sampson's whole body emanated a cold killing intent.

Winsor lamented, "If only Levi was still alive. I can battle him once more and shut everyone else up once and for all."

"That's no longer possible. He is already six feet under."

Sampson had reconfirmed with Tenichi about Levi's death.

"It's such a pity or else I could defeat him once again."

Winsor was extremely confident in his skills and cared a lot about how others saw him.

After visiting Winsor, Sampson wanted to check on whether Forlevia had been killed.

Meanwhile, Levi and his men were monitoring the assassin organizations. At that moment, West Sky Lord arrived with news.

She had masqueraded as an assassin to accept the assassination order and discovered who issued it.

It was Olivia Garcia!

Due to the pain she suffered for losing her son, Olivia wanted Levi and his whole family dead.

Mr. Finch realized the opportunity and seized it.

Despite the fact that he was the real mastermind, he was very careful in his methods. He made sure that everything he did was done by someone else's hands.

Levi was also aware that Olivia was just the front and there was someone else instructing her.

Therefore, he wanted to ferret out the mastermind by going through Olivia.

After fending off a few waves of assassins that came for Forlevia, Levi and North Sky Lord returned to Oakland City.

However, Olivia wasn't at the Garrison clan ancestral compound. Instead, she was in a luxury manor.

Inside the room, she was pacing around and was visibly troubled.

After all, the first assassination order had failed and all the assassin organizations involved had also disappeared.

Although the assassins she hired this time were even more terrifying, she still couldn't rid herself of the sense of dread she felt.

"I must succeed this time. Damien, Mom will avenge you! Not only do I want Levi to be disposed of, but I also want his family to be massacred," Olivia pleaded.

"Don't worry, the assassins we sent this time are extremely deadly. Death awaits anyone who protects them."

A voice rang out from behind her suddenly as Sampson entered the room.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1238

Olivia heaved a sigh of relief and asked, "Mr. Finch, what happened the first time? Why did all the assassins disappear?"

Truth be told, Sampson had paid no attention to the matter all this while.

As such, when Olivia suddenly brought it up, he didn't know how to answer.

"Perhaps Zoey has some formidable bodyguards protecting her? Nonetheless, the assassin organization we sent this time was one that had remained hidden for decades."

Sampson was filled with confidence.

After all, the assassin organization that accepted the mission this time was very secretive and was deadly in its methods.

Olivia asked curiously, "Given that you come from the Great Family of Frostford, why are you so fixated on an ordinary person like Levi?"

Based on Olivia's understanding, a great family was greater than that of an ancient family.

Erudia had Four Great Families. They were the Great Family of Frostford, Great Family of Southford, Great Family of Eastford, and Great Family of Westford.

Sampson came from the Great Family of Frostford.

A great family combined a group of ancient families and clans into a larger faction.

They control many of Erudia's ancient artifacts and technologies.

The simplest ones were martial art techniques and medical knowledge.

They were even feared by ancient families such as the Garrison clan, let alone ordinary folk.

Therefore, even righteous men like Dale Lehman were forced to abandon Zoey.

No one dared to stand against a great family.

Sampson replied with a smile, "It's because Levi broke all the rules."

"Mr. Finch, is the current God of War, Winsor, related to you?"

Olivia was a smart woman. She remembered when Sampson asked her about Winsor previously.

Sampson admitted, "Yes, he is my disciple."

"However, he isn't the most exceptional young man within the Great Family of Frostford. He's just considered above average," Sampson added.

Gasp!

Olivia caught her breath.

How powerful are they?

Winsor is considered above average and he is already able to take the position of God of War?

Isn't this reclusive faction just ridiculously powerful?

Without a doubt, the strongest and most powerful are always well hidden.

Or perhaps they're just so far away from us that we can't reach them.

Olivia had always assumed that Damien was the most exceptional young man in the world.

But now, it seems it was her knowledge that was limited.

For ancient and imperial families, their status was measured in terms of power, influence, and wealth.

Martial prowess had always been frowned upon and hardly shown any attention.

However, to the most powerful or those that live beyond the circles of ordinary men, the real measurement of a man's strength is their martial prowess.

It was a world where the fittest survive.

As long as one was strong in martial arts, one's status, wealth, and power were secured.

In other words, when one was proficient enough in martial arts, matters of the mundane world no longer mattered.

Using Winsor as an example, he knew nothing about wealth or managing a business.

He also didn't have connections to help him.

All he could rely on was his own fists to claim the title of Asura.

That was the definition of the martial way.

Everyone will submit in the face of absolute power.

Therefore, within a great family, it was common for everyone to focus on martial arts training. Ever since they were young, they would be trained in the martial way to become formidable warriors.

That was the reason why a great family would always be packed with God class and Ultimate class warriors.

Although they lived within their own circle, they were not afraid of being out of touch with the outside world.

As long as they had overwhelming power, they would be kings whenever they appeared in society.

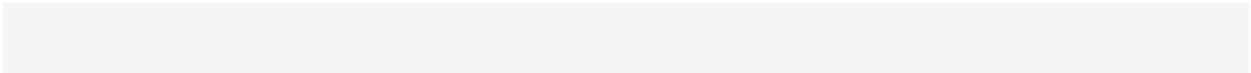

Winsor's appearance proved that point.

"Ordinary people like you are just ants to us," Sampson sneered.

Even though he was ridiculing her, Olivia didn't dare to retort.

Bang!

Just then, the manor's main door was busted open by a kick.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1239

“Olivia! Come out this instance!”

A cold voice reverberated throughout.

The manor’s hundreds of security guards charged ahead.

Thud! Thud! Thud!

One by one, the security guards were sent flying.

Two figures walked into the manor’s living hall with bodies strewn all around them.

The Garrison clan’s elite security guards fell like flies.

In the hall.

Olivia’s expression drastically changed.

Even Sampson’s entourage was shocked.

Who is it?

How dare they cause trouble here?

A moment later, two figures emerged in the hall.

“What? How can it be y-you...”

"Levi... Garrison... How can you still be alive?"

Levi's sudden appearance threw Olivia and Sampson into utter shock.

After all, a dead man had just appeared right before their eyes. It would be weird if they weren't surprised at all.

Olivia's eyes looked as if they were going to pop out.

"I have died a wrongful death. As such, I'm here for my revenge!" Levi declared as he burst into laughter.

"No... I didn't kill you. It wasn't me, it's them..."

Olivia was on the verge of despair and couldn't believe that Levi was still alive.

Even Sampson, who was from a great family, was stunned for almost a minute. Gasping in disbelief, he asked, "How is it that you're still alive?"

Levi stared at him and sneered, "Mr. Finch?"

"You actually know me? Damn... I've fallen into a trap."

Mr. Finch was a smart man and immediately realized what was going on.

"How is that possible? You could hardly move then and all your bodyguards were killed. How can you still be alive? If you have recovered, you should have taken action then..." Sampson ranted in surprise.

The mention of that incident struck a raw nerve within Levi.

All the comrades that died for me...

Damn it!

Wouldn't it be great if I could fight back earlier?

Everyone wouldn't have to die then.

However, his recovery simply needed more time.

Sampson glanced at North Sky Lord and said, "No, someone must have saved you. From there, they created the illusion of your death. Even your own subordinates have been fooled."

"But, how can you still recover? It's just impossible!"

Sampson had sent his men to examine Levi's body and was sure that there was no way he could recover.

He was supposed to be paralyzed for life.

Even the ancient medical techniques and doctors of the Great Family of Frostford couldn't heal him, let alone Levi healing himself.

How the hell did he recover?

It was already a surprise that he didn't die, but to recover in such a short time?

The Great Family of Frostford had many ancient texts and Sampson had gone through them many times.

But he never came across such a scenario.

Furthermore, he had a good grasp of modern medical technology and clearly understood that Levi's condition couldn't be treated.

So how did he do it?

Levi ignored him as his gaze fell upon the Four Warriors standing behind Sampson.

"Were you the ones who attacked at the crucial time when the Garrison clan, myself, and Winsor were engaged in battle?" Levi asked.

"Huh?"

The Four Warriors were stunned and hung their heads subconsciously.

They were indeed the ones who helped Winsor cheat in the battle with Levi.

As they were also members of the Great Family of Frostford, it was humiliating for them to be exposed for cheating by Levi.

At the end of the day, their pride still flowed strongly in their blood.

“So it really was you!” Levi sneered.

“Nonsense! My disciple, Winsor, beat you fair and square. Thousands witness it with their own eyes. How can you say that they helped in the shadows? It’s just ridiculous!”

“Every member of the Great Family of Frostford is exceptional. They would never use such unscrupulous means.”

There was no way that Sampson was going to confess to something like that.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1240

Sampson stared at Levi and scoffed, "Levi, I never expected to see this side of you. Are you trying to find excuses for your own defeat?"

Levi simply smiled in response.

You're really shameless to still deny it.

Sampson continued, "Do you still want to claim that your body has been poisoned? And that you had to fight the warriors from both the Blood King Palace and Garrison clan consecutively? And that my disciple won because we cheated?" Sampson threw all the questions back at Levi.

He tried to turn the situation around by making it look like Levi was making excuses for losing.

Levi replied with a smile, "That's correct. What you have said is true. By the way, there's one more thing I need to tell you. I actually lost to Winsor on purpose because I wanted to see who the real mastermind was."

"Hahaha..." Sampson burst into laughter.

"You lost to my disciple on purpose? That's just ridiculous. Losers really are good at finding excuses. You will never beat my disciple in your entire life!" Sampson sneered.

Although that was what he said, he was actually aware of the fact that Levi was more powerful than Winsor. Or else, they wouldn't have needed to cheat.

However, when Levi claimed that he had lost on purpose, it was the ultimate insult to Sampson.

He had made massive sacrifices to scheme and plot.

But in the end, Levi claimed that it was his choice to lose.

Sampson just couldn't accept it.

"That aside, there's no such thing as real fairness in this world. Especially not when you're the best warrior in Erudia. You should have been prepared for all eventualities. A loss is a loss and you have no excuse," Sampson berated.

With Sampson twisting the facts, even Olivia was convinced that Levi was just making excuses for his loss.

"Are all noble families just as shameless as you are?" Levi asked.

Despite the repeated proclamations of how virtuous they are and the noble blood that flowed within them, their actions were utterly despicable.

"Insolence! How dare you insult Master!"

"Do you want to die?"

The Four Warriors behind Sampson cursed as they glared at Levi in a bloodthirsty manner.

They were proud of their identity and the fact that their master was someone extremely well respected and feared.

Hence, they would not tolerate any insults from ordinary men.

"Do you know who we are? We are the Great Family of Frostford and are more powerful than ancient families."

"My junior, Winsor, is only considered above average within the Great Family of Frostford. That alone should tell you how terrifying we are."

The few of them made their identities clear.

Although the Great Family of Frostford was really powerful, Levi could still crush someone like Winsor with just a finger.

Hence, he saw them as a joke instead of a threat.

“The Great Family of Frostford? If you anger me, I’ll crush all of you,” Levi glowered.

Even Olivia couldn’t stand it anymore.

Isn’t Levi getting too reckless to ignore the Great Family of Frostford?

Does he know how many God class warriors they have?

It’s easily a hundred, or a few hundred!

Not to mention that doesn’t include the Ultimate class fighters yet.

The Harbinger of Death who was an Ultimate class warrior killed all of Levi’s bodyguards.

And the Great Family of Frostford has at least tens of them.

It is something that is just unimaginable.

If they were to go to battle, they will annihilate their enemies.

So on what basis is Levi ridiculing them?

“Levi, you’re just spouting nonsense. I don’t care how you healed your body, but that can’t be the reason for you to insult the Great Family of Frostford,” Sampson roared.

Levi smiled smugly at him. “I suppose you’re Winsor’s master?”

“Of course!”

“Then you must be stronger than him?”

“That goes without saying.”

“Fine. Since you claim that I’m not Winsor’s match, I’ll beat his master to show you then.”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1241

Levi had lost interest in Sampson's disciple, Winsor.

He now felt that it was more challenging to defeat Winsor's master.

"Hahaha..." Everyone laughed.

Has Levi gone mad?

At most, he is a little stronger than Winsor, how dare he challenge Sampson.

Sampson has been an Ultimate class warrior for more than twenty years.

His power now is simply terrifying.

To challenge him means certain death.

"Shouldn't you defeat us first before you challenge our master?" The Four Warriors scoffed.

Sampson wasn't the only famous Ultimate class warrior around.

Even the Four Warriors were Ultimate class warriors as well.

The Four Warriors were Sampson's most outstanding disciples. They were all stronger than Winsor in terms of power and talent.

They were also the ones who interfered in Levi's battle that day.

Hence, they had a good grasp of how strong Levi was.

Moreover, they assumed that he had just recovered from a grievous injury and was definitely no match for them.

After all, there were now a total of five Ultimate class warriors standing before him.

One Ultimate class warrior could take on a ten thousand strong army.

With five of them, they were simply invincible.

Levi's eyes flashed with murderous intent. "In that case, I'll kill the four of you first before I kill your master."

"Such insolence!"

"Such impudence!"

"Only death awaits you!"

"I'll have you kneel as atonement for your words!"

Amidst the mishmash of words, Sampson's four disciples attacked.

Boom!

The Four Warriors charged at Levi in furious rage.

In Erudia, a God class warrior was adept at using the Ancient Arts of Qi.

They would have massive strength and a boundless amount of energy.

Their bodies would be as tough as solid steel.

They were able to channel their energy in a way that increases their attacking power while elevating their defensive strength.

The biggest difference an Ultimate class warrior had was that they could send shockwaves out of their body to harm an enemy.

In layman terms, it was considered a release of energy.

Just like the shockwave caused by an exploding bomb, it was equally devastating in terms of its destructive power.

That was the reason why during the battle between Levi and Winsor, the Garrison clan residence was almost destroyed.

Before the four Ultimate class warriors came close, they already unleashed an invincible shockwave.

Its power was similar to that of a Tsunami.

The huge force caused a gale to blow through the hall and destroyed all the objects in it.

Crack! Crack!

The glass windows were blasted into smithereens.

In fact, the whole hall itself was shaking as if there was an earthquake.

It felt as if everything was going to collapse.

Olivia was dumbfounded.

Are these the young men of the Great Family of Frostford?

They are ridiculously powerful!

It's simply unimaginable!

Olivia realized that despite being the top ancient family in Erudia, their exposure was still limited.

"Die, Levi!"

The four Ultimate class warriors surrounded Levi and attacked from all four directions.

Just when North Sky Lord wanted to join the fray, Levi shook his head.

This was something Levi had to deal with it himself.

That being said, Levi simply stood there and did nothing.

When Sampson saw Levi's response, he was stunned.

In the next moment, however, he burst out laughing.

He can't even deal with my disciples and yet he wants to challenge me?

The audacity!

"Levi, since you're not dead yet, I'll let my disciples kill you again."

Sampson smiled triumphantly.

The next moment, the four Ultimate class warriors' deadly attacks reached Levi.

They were confident that Levi would be torn into pieces by their attack.

Bam!

Bam!

Bam!

The four attacks landed on Levi and made a thunderous sound.

Boom!

However, in the next second, Levi unleashed an even greater shockwave.

"Argh!"

“Argh!”

The four Ultimate class warriors were sent flying backward by a powerful burst of energy. All of them spewed blood in mid-air before crashing onto the ground, dead.

The hall fell into a state of ghastly silence.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1242

Olivia’s eyes almost popped out.

Why are they not moving?

Why are the four Ultimate class warriors lying still?

Levi didn’t make a move at all, but all four of them were sent flying...

How powerful did Levi become?

Isn’t he supposed to be dead? Or crippled?

How did he end up getting stronger?

Sampson too was utterly shocked.

He was well aware of how strong his four best disciples were and was stunned when Levi sent them flying.

Th-th-this... Is not real!

“Not only have you recovered from your injuries, but you have also regained your strength?”

Sampson’s expression changed drastically.

How is that possible?

Levi was poisoned by the Blood King Palace and was crippled by them.

It’s already amazing that he survived, but to regain his strength?

This is something even the Great Family of Frostford can’t achieve and is unheard of throughout its three-thousand-year history!

How can one man from modern society accomplish it?

Most of the ancient medical knowledge and techniques are monopolized by the great families.

Therefore, very little of that knowledge flowed into modern society.

So how did Levi achieve it?

Sampson was curious.

If he managed to get his hands on this technique, he would be highly valued in the Great Family of Frostford.

Once this technique was made public, it would shock the whole world.

That was how impressive it was.

After all, Levi’s technique simply defied nature.

The idea that a cripple could be turned into the God of War was something unimaginable.

“Levi, tell me how you recovered and I will let you live.”

Sampson began to take interest in Levi's amazing technique.

He knew that the moment other powerful men or organizations found out about it, they too would scramble for it.

Levi would be hunted for having such valuable knowledge.

The reason Sampson dared to say those words was because he had full confidence in his strength, despite the fact that Levi had beaten four Ultimate class warriors.

For his part, Levi only had a singular thought in mind when facing Sampson – revenge.

"Did you work with others to revive the Blood King Palace so that you can force me to leave?" Levi asked.

"Yes, I did. But it was a pity that Winsor was sent to protect your wife and child. It was such a pity indeed!"

Sampson's face was filled with remorse.

"Did you plot with the Blood King Palace to poison me?"

"That's right!"

"Did you send men to disrupt my battle with Winsor from the shadows?"

"Yes!"

"Did you send men to assassinate me?"

"Of course!"

"Did you frame me and had me exiled for betraying Erudia?"

"Indeed, I did!"

"Did you plot with outsiders to kill three hundred and fifty-eight of my good men?"

By then, Levi's eyes were red and his voice sounded raspy.

The gruesome scenes of Northgale flashed before him.

The Anonymous Eighty of the West...

The few prominent families of Oakland City...

Jonah Garrison, who fought till his last breath despite his age.

The Four Kings, who clung to the thighs of the Harbinger of Death even in death.

And Hades, who was resolute in not letting go despite being beaten to a pulp.

...

One by one, all the faces both familiar and unfamiliar flashed through his mind.

Kill! Kill! Kill!

Avenge them for they cannot die in vain!

Their blood shall not flow for nothing!

Sampson looked at Levi and sneered, "That's right. I was the one who planned everything. They're just insects, so their death means nothing to me. It's just a pity I didn't manage to kill you."

Sampson didn't care for human lives at all, even if they were his comrades.

"Levi, I realized that there are tons of people who hate you and want you dead. Hahaha, I could easily gather them with a snap of my fingers."

Sampson burst out in a cruel laughter.

"Damn you, Sampson! Does Erudia even have a place in your heart? Many of them were your comrades. How could you be so cruel to kill them?"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1243

Sampson replied with a smile, "I always teach my disciples one principle, which is the weak do not deserve to live."

"They were simply too weak. If they were a little stronger, they would still be alive. In the end, their death was caused by their weakness. They can't blame anyone else."

Levi was speechless as Sampson's words shocked him.

Did the weak offend you?

Do they not have the right to live?

We live in a time where everyone is equal!

The age where men are separated into different classes is over!

If the Great Family of Frostford insists on following such a ridiculous principle, I will pummel you till you face reality and admit to your mistake.

Sampson sneered at Levi, "Ultimately, this matter has nothing to do with me. It's all because you are weak."

"So what if I got my disciples to cheat or even poison you? What can you do about it? If I kill you this time, who would know the truth?"

Sampson laughed again.

Within a great family, only the fittest survive. Therefore, everyone was capable of doing anything just for survival.

It was the same reason why such old powers had disconnected themselves from modern society.

The other reason was that they couldn't be restrained as they were simply too strong.

With so many Ultimate class warriors among them, no one could control them if they were infuriated.

"Is Erudia not important to you?" Levi felt his heart ached at Sampson's words.

The three hundred comrades had died in vain.

Sampson is not the least bit remorseful.

Sampson scoffed, "I only care about myself and nothing else. The world belongs to the strong so stop giving me those b*llshit!"

Levi spat, "You went through so much trouble to plot against me just for your own selfish gains? You've really done it now!"

"Comrades, are you watching now? Today, I, Levi Garrison, will avenge you by killing this btard!" Levi bellowed into the sky.

"Hahaha..." Sampson laughed deviously.

"Let me repeat myself. As long as you hand over your recovery technique to me, I will spare your life," Sampson warned Levi again.

"Die, you assh*le!"

Levi gritted his teeth and sprang forward.

Boom!

He threw an explosive punch.

Sampson raised his right hand and blocked the punch. Demonstrating the power of one who has been an Ultimate class warrior for twenty years.

Crack!

However, at the moment of impact, fault lines emerged on the ground beneath his feet and stretched for a few thousand meters.

“This is for Jonah Garrison!”

That punch caused Sampson’s expression to drastically change.

What a powerful punch!

Before he could react, the second punch was almost upon him...

Boom!

Levi threw his second punch.

Sampson sank into the ground further. By now, his ankles were below ground level.

‘This is for Hades!’

Boom!

The third punch came.

Sampson continued to be hammered into the ground with his calves now buried.

“This is for the comrades of South Hampton!”

Boom!

The fourth blow came.

Sampson was buried deeper into the ground with his knees now covered.

"This is for the brother-in-arms of Oakland City!"

Boom!

The fifth blow landed.

Sampson sank further into the ground.

"This is for the Anonymous Eighty of the West!"

Boom!

Levi threw his sixth punch.

Half of Sampson's body was below ground now.

"This for the Four Kings!"

...

Boom!

"This is for the comrades of the north!"

Boom!

"This is for the residents of Northgale who were massacred!"

Levi wailed into the sky above, his ferocity so strong that it could almost swallow the earth.

He unleashed ten blows consecutively until Sampson disappeared.

The latter was pounded into the ground to the extent that his head couldn't be seen.

With his whole body underground, Sampson became one with the Earth.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1244

Olivia sobbed as she watched Levi bash Sampson into the ground, punch by punch.

To her terror, Sampson's body slowly sank into the earth below, like a nail being hammered into a wall.

Horror...

Horror was all that she could feel at that moment.

That's not just any man!

That's a man who has been a powerful ultimate class warrior for twenty years!

A fighter who took on a hundred thousand enemies himself on the battlefields!

Gone just like that?

Just how powerful is Levi?

And how on earth did he even become this powerful?

Could it be... A rebirth?

Heck... He's even stronger than before!

Upon watching the gruesome scene unfold before her, Olivia became hysterical. Her sobbing gradually turned into a creaky howl.

“Don’t come near me! Don’t... don’t come near me...”

Meeting Levi’s gaze was the last straw for her.

She had completely lost it.

North Sky Lord snorted, “The five Ultimate class warriors? How weak!”

Hmph. And what’s with Levi Garrison? I must be even more wary of this guy from now on.

Looking into the distance, Levi bellowed, “Do you see this, my brothers? This despicable man is dead! And don’t you worry! From now on, I’ll hunt the rest down to avenge your deaths.”

With that, Levi left with the North Sky Lord.

Boom!

The entire manor collapsed, crumbling into pieces.

With only a dozen punches, Levi had destroyed the foundation of the manor building.

With the five Ultimate class warriors, dead, and the wife of the patriarch of the first ancient family gone mad – it was a stormy, treacherous night indeed.

“Hey, what’s wrong?”

Not getting a response, Tyrone asked again, “Hey, what’s wrong? You’re scaring me.”

When he found Olivia, she seemed to be in a mentally unstable state.

“A ghost... a ghost... A ghost!” Olivia’s pupils dilated as she pointed a shaky finger forward.

“Someone get the doctor! Forget it – get an exorcist!”

Dumbfounded, Tyrone began suspecting that Olivia had gotten possessed.

Still, no one knew about the demise of the five Ultimate class warriors.

Nobody even knew about the fact that someone was reborn within the Great Family of Frostford.

All that the public was aware of was the disappearance of Jerry Gott, which caused a huge commotion in Oakland City.

Right at that instant, one could almost smell the impending danger; the air and the streets were filled with it.

It felt as if a storm was coming.

Furthermore, the recent turn of events had been rather bizarre.

The assassination order on Forlevia was lifted all of a sudden, with the assassination organizations being disbanded.

Yet, nobody had a clue of what was going on.

For some, including Dale Lehman, they guessed that the Great Family of Frostford had been pressured to do so because they were the ones who gave the assassination order in the first place.

It would be likely that people like the Dragonites had put pressure on the Great Family of Frostford in memory of the good that Levi Garrison had done in the past.

They were not even considering the possibility that the five Ultimate class warriors had been defeated. If news of their downfall were to spread, the city would be in pandemonium.

After all, people had absolute faith in the Ultimate class warriors.

In smaller countries, one would hear rumors that it would only take one Ultimate class warrior to safeguard an entire country.

Or as they would say, an Ultimate class warrior could control the fate of millions of people!

In Erudia, though the stories told were less exaggerated, the Ultimate class warriors were still regarded as figures on the same level as Asura.

Unbeknownst to them, the five Ultimate class warriors had already been defeated by Levi, and the power that he held was unimaginable.

Meanwhile, back at the training base.

"I wonder why Master left. Something feels off!" Winsor furrowed his brows.

Zar shook his head, saying, "There haven't been any new updates related to that."

"Well, I'd better start training again then. Master showed me some new fighting techniques before he left," Winsor said with a sigh.

"Something just tells me that Levi is still alive, you know? If he is, I shall show him that I'm the fighter that he'll never be able to defeat!"

The others chuckled, "Well, we feel the same too! If Levi really is alive, it'll be a chance for you, the great Asura, to defeat him again!"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1245

Little did he know, Levi Garrison was the very person who knocked the wind out of his Master, along with his team.

New fighting techniques?

His beloved Master didn't even had the chance to use them!

What a joke!

After getting rid of Sampson Finch, Levi shifted his focus to the foreign assassins whom Sampson had teamed up with.

He chose to delegate the West Sky Lord to investigate the people in question.

“So, the operation was led by the military strategist of Raysonia – Watanabe Tenichi?” Levi said, looking at a name list.

“Yes! He was also the one behind the comeback of the Blood King Palace!” West Sky Lord replied.

Pursing his lips, Levi said in amusement, “Oh wow. How remarkable! How very remarkable indeed. The comeback of the Blood King Palace whom I had already fought and defeated!”

He could still vividly remember exterminating the leaders of the Blood King Palace when he first dealt with them.

And yet, they rose back from the dead somehow. When they met again, members of the Blood King Palace were standing well and alive before him.

He found that rather hard to believe and had been getting West Sky Lord to investigate the situation.

For now, he was positive that Watanabe Tenichi was the mastermind behind it all.

“Now that I have this name list in hand, I shall be paying a rather special visit to everyone on there!” Levi laughed, his gaze turning cold.

“Listen up!” He yelled at The Calamity.

“Yes, sir!” They answered while kneeling before Levi.

“Let the hunt begin!” Levi gave his command, flinging the name list onto the ground.

“Fight for justice! Protect our lands! Exterminate all traitors, and bring death to our enemies!”

And with that, The Calamity sprang into action.

That was the day that marked the start of Levi's agenda, by hunting down every last person who had been involved in the scheme to kill him.

The nights were stained with bloodshed, and there was nowhere to hide.

Of course, the string of murders quickly took over the daily headlines.

Callan Sky, the Great Martial Master of Wheldrake, disappeared...

The master of the largest island of Atlantis, Tennojima, found dead...

Death of the boss of Daelee Group in Keerea...

The ruler of the greatest organization of the underworld in Alizeh, deceased...

Soon enough, chaos ensued in various countries.

In the short span of a few days, murders of that sort occurred one after the other, country by country.

It was as if manslaughter was happening every other minute!

In no time, these events quickly caused the public to be consumed by panic and fear.

After all, those being assassinated were not just your average citizen but prominent figures of high status!

Everyone was desperate to know who did it.

Based on the leads obtained from the crime scenes, it was clear that The Calamity was behind the killings.

Who else would have the power to do that?

It would take an incredibly strong group of fighters to tackle those powerful figures, with some being formidable fighters themselves.

At that point, it was pretty much a common consensus that The Calamity was onto some sort of assassination operation.

“Who in the world are they? How did they kill so many of our partners?” Tenichi was rather appalled.

“They are not coming after me... are they?” He mumbled to himself.

Even so, Tenichi was well aware that something dark was looming in the corner as those deaths made their intentions too obvious.

Everyone who got killed had one thing in common – they were all involved in the operation to kill off Levi Garrison.

And so, there was only one answer. Levi Garrison was coming after him.

“Sir, that might not be the case! Those people who died have had conflicts with The Calamity in the past anyways, and it was way before that operation!” One of his subordinates said.

“Yes, yes. And there’s no way that Levi Garrison is still alive!” Another quickly added.

However, Tenichi shook his head. “No, I’d rather be safe than sorry. I need to start preparing immediately!” He said, with some anxiety in his voice.

“Though Levi Garrison is dead for sure, The Calamity might still come after me.”

Tenichi was a cautious and calculative man.

On the other hand, The Calamity only had three more names left on their list – Watanabe Tenichi, Yamamoto Yuta, and Mitsui Ichiro of Raysonia.

“Let us march forward! To Raysonia!”

From a high vantage point, Levi viewed the island country expressionlessly.

Raysonia, I'm coming for you...

“It’s been five years since we came to Raysonia. Five years of peace we’ve spared them, but this time, three shall lose their lives!”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1246

Levi's gaze was dark.

Five years ago, he had come to Raysonia, all alone, for the sake of rescuing someone.

In that fight, he fought solo against thirty thousand enemy fighters from Raysonia and slaughtered a record number of eight thousand enemies.

It was a fight that shook up the entire country, and also the main reason as to why Raysonia remained hostile toward him.

The people of Raysonia were livid. Whatever that Levi had done was sacrilegious to the Raysonian Bushido, which they had put their faith in from a young age.

Some even felt that only death would quench their anger toward him.

Since then, Levi had not set foot in the country for a total of five years.

However, the Demon King had arrived once again.

It was time bring back the unrest and chaos!

Meanwhile, in Edojo – the capital city of Raysonia.

The most renowned building of Edojo was the Tower of the Sun. It was also the tallest infrastructure of the city, standing at six hundred meters in height.

A particular private manor in the city was seemed to be shrouded by an atmosphere of tension and suspense.

At that instant, thousands of mercenaries were hidden in every corner of the manor.

They donned traditional robes with longswords bound to their waists.

Their faces were covered by black masks, and one could only see their eyes, which were set to kill.

These mercenaries were the well-respected samurais of Edojo, as well as the surrounding islands.

They had stationed themselves at the Military Division voluntarily, upon hearing that the military strategist of the country was in danger.

Not only that, but there was also an elite samurai on his way there.

The recent turn of events had put their nerves on edge, but Watanabe Tenichi was their bottom line – he had to be protected at all costs!

Watanabe Tenichi was the most influential figure of Raysonia.

To the citizens, he was a man of extraordinary wisdom on par with a demon god – a rare gift to their country.

However, Tenichi was not actually at the Military Division. He had gone elsewhere.

Meanwhile, in a straw shed hidden within the deep bamboo forests in the rural area of Edojo.

A certain man was kneeling before the straw shed on that particular day, and that man happened to be Watanabe Tenichi.

It was a rather peculiar scene, seeing the great military strategist of Raysonia getting on his knees to beg.

The people of Raysonia would probably faint at such a sight.

How dare he make the great military strategist of Raysonia kneel before him?

Not to mention, Tenichi had been kneeling there for almost a day.

“Stop pestering me! I have already retired!” The raspy voice of an old man could be heard from within the shed.

“Demon Blade, I’m not just here for my own safety. I’m here because your help would be crucial in order for the Raysonian Bushido to rise again!” Tenichi pleaded.

“Five years ago, Levi Garrison intruded our lands, and single-handedly slaughtered eight thousands of our men! For him, it was his glorious battle to fame, but for us, a stain in our history forever! Not only that, but our very own brand of martial arts also took a huge blow from that fight. We fell from the high ranks amongst the others in Bayview, and have not recovered since. Our people feel nothing but shame about the Raysonian Bushido that they were once so proud of!”

Tenichi’s tear-streaked face was trembling. “I can’t help but fear the destruction that The Calamity would bring! We’ll never be able to recover from that! I simply don’t want our people to live with their heads low forever! Would you please consider?” He cried.

“We do have many ultimate class fighters around here, but your presence will ensure our victory! I know that you have retired for fifty years, but I cannot find another samurai as capable as you! Oh, Demon Blade, please! Please help us!” Tenichi had his head on the ground while begging.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1247

Thud! Thud! Thud!

Tenichi slammed his forehead onto the ground frantically, with blood oozing out of it.

He had a rather maniacal side to him, where he would resort to every last measure for the sake of Raysonia and the Raysonian Bushido.

In his head, he was ready to fight Levi Garrison to death.

As a matter of fact, he was even willing to shoulder all the blame and backlash from it.

While some might not agree with what he had done, or his way of doing things, it was not really a matter of right or wrong; it was simply a clash interests from different perspectives.

Of course, Tenichi also had his personal motives.

He wanted to live.

The bloodshed caused by The Calamity gave him a clear warning – that having ultimate class warriors around him was not enough.

Plenty of those who died were protected by ultimate class warriors.

Tenichi could tell that his enemies were very much overpowered, to the extent that they were unafraid of the ultimate class warriors.

That was why he needed to use all the cards that he owned just to survive this ordeal.

Tenichi also saw the addition of Demon Blade as a chance for the dignity and honor of the Raysonian Bushido to be restored.

This was a plan that would enable him to kill two birds with one stone.

“I beg you, Demon Blade, to come and fight alongside us for the sake of Raysonia’s martial arts!” Tenichi pleaded once again, along with hundreds of people kneeling behind him.

Their voices resounded through the woods, echoing like the howling winds during a thunderstorm.

As for the man referred to as Demon Blade, he was the Great Grandmaster of Raysonia, the strongest warrior of the country.

Demon Blade was just his title, and his real name was Kawasaki Zando.

Sixty years ago, he swept the entirety of Bayview by storm. There was not a single fighter who could rival him.

Even when faced with a master of the same class as him, he made instant kills.

No one could describe how strong he really was because every fighter who had gone up against him had died.

Kawasaki Zando had even paid a visit to Erudia before, giving the practitioners of the martial arts in Erudia nothing but humiliation.

As one might say, he was the ruler of that era, standing above all forms of martial arts in Bayview.

People saw him as the pride of Raysonia, an undefeatable god.

However, for reasons unknown to the masses, Demon Blade went into retirement out of the blue and lived his life hidden from the rest of the world.

Fifty years had passed since then, and still not a single sign of his return.

"Alright then. For the sake of Raysonia, I shall wield my blade once more!" Demon Blade finally made his decision.

"Hah... Yes! What an honor!" Watanabe Tenichi cried out in laughter.

Who would dare come after me now? With Demon Blade on my side?

Who would dare humiliate the Raysonian Bushido?

Along with six other ultimate class warriors, Tenichi now had seven ultimate class warriors fighting for him.

They would be seen as a formidable group of warriors not to be reckoned with anywhere in Bayview.

God class warriors were already a rarity, not to even mention the ultimate class warriors.

A group of seven ultimate class warriors was something that no one had ever seen before.

After all, none of the countries wanted to reveal their trump cards too early.

Hence, assembling such a group of fighters together would be done as a last resort.

While the various forces seemed to be teaming up against Levi Garrison at the moment, they knew well enough they might become rivals in the future.

Therefore, showing the entire world the number of ultimate class warriors that they had would be suicide.

Thud. Thud.

An elderly man emerged from the straw shed right then.

His footsteps were a little wobbly, and his body was thin as a stick.

In spite of that, the aura around him was unmistakable. Everyone held their breaths, as they watched him walk toward them.

Demon Blade!

A god-like warrior!

He was a man feared by all fifty years ago.

And it seemed like he still had it in him.

"Welcome! Oh, the great Demon Blade!" Tenichi hollered, gesturing for the rest to follow.

I'll be safe now.

The Raysonian Bushido shall prosper.

And so shall Raysonia.

"Let us fight The Calamity!" Tenichi was wholly confident about their upcoming battle.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1248

"Where is the man who sullied our lands fifty years ago?" Demon Blade asked.

Tenichi quickly replied, "Sir, he goes by the name Levi Garrison. He's known as the God of War of Erudia, but don't you worry, sir, he is already dead."

"Dead? That's good to hear," Demon Blade sighed.

"I'll have to thank the Great Family of Frostford for that!" Tenichi said, smiling.

"The... what? The Great Family of Frostford?" Upon hearing Tenichi's words, Demon Blade's face turned outcast, as if he had recalled something horrid.

"Sir, what's wrong? Are you alright?" Tenichi asked.

"Yes, I'm fine. I have heard about the Great Family of Frostford before. Word has it that the fighters in the family are the best of the best! Not to mention the other three of the Four Great Families!" Demon Blade said, coming to his senses.

Tenichi and the others quickly assured him, "No matter how strong they say they are, they can't even compare to you, sir!"

Demon Blade shook his head and got Tenichi to tell him all about their current situation.

"Where are the other two?" He asked, referring to Yamamoto Yuta and Mitsui Ichiro.

Those two were also involved in the scheme to kill Levi under Tenichi's command.

Tenichi's gaze darkened upon hearing these two names. "The two of them turned a deaf ear to my words. I don't think they even realize the severity of the situation."

Yet, Demon Blade was not particularly surprised about it. "Well, for those two, as descendants of the Ancient Warrior Families, it is to be expected that they stay confident and steadfast no matter what enemies come in their ways," he said.

"Yes, let them think whatever they want," Tenichi said coldly.

Hmph. I'll be safe without them anyways.

In a rather remote, quiet part of Edojo, there was a long-established residence that had retained its traditional architectural style, known as the General's Residence.

It was once the residence for a military general but now transformed into the residence for the Ancient Warrior Families.

They practiced the Bushido, which was respected by all.

Needless to say, there were countless skilled fighters within the families.

Currently, Yamamoto Yuta was the patriarch of the families and was an ultimate class warrior.

Another ultimate class warrior, who belonged to the Ancient Warrior Families, was Mitsui Ichiro.

The two of them, together with Watanabe Tenichi, became the guardians of Raysonia.

Two warriors, and one strategist.

However, the recent turn of events had brought about cracks in their alliance.

“Tenichi is too cautious and indecisive about everything. While I do think that he has the wits to be a good strategist, we’ve missed out on so many opportunities because of him!”

“Hah... You’re right. It’s impossible to succeed without taking risks!” The two of them bantered.

“The Calamity? Hmph. If they dare step foot on Raysonia, they might as well die here!” Yamamoto Yuta smirked, his longsword in hand as he sat on his futon.

A group of samurai in black stood behind him.

On the other hand, a group of samurai in white stood behind Mitsui Ichiro.

Unlike Tenichi, they were not searching high and low for warriors to protect themselves.

They were actually waiting for The Calamity to come to their doors; they were ready to fight.

That was how a true samurai of Raysonia would conduct himself.

While Raysonia was not known to be the country with the most combative people like Wheldrake, the samurais of Raysonia were recognized as the most determined fighters of them all.

“The Calamity is definitely after us two. All that’s on my mind right now is how they would come to us,” Ichiro said while furrowing his brows.

They had delegated a robust force of samurais to station themselves throughout the entire residence.

“I can’t care less about that. I won’t even blink if they decide to plunge down from the heavens!” Yuta scoffed.

Meanwhile, an aircraft belonging to The Calamity hovered over the skies above Edojo, Raysonia.

“Master, Yamamoto Yuta’s residence is located directly below us!”

“Open up the gate. I’m jumping down from here!”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1249

“Yes! Master, I’ll prepare your parachute right this moment!” Levi’s subordinate replied, scrambling to fasten a parachute on his body.

They assumed that Levi wanted to dive down from the plane to take his targets by surprise.

“No need for parachutes. I’ll be jumping straight down!”

To their surprise, Levi declined the proposal and shook them off.

“What... what did he just say?” Everyone on the aircraft was taken aback.

Jumping straight down?

Though their aircraft was gliding at a slightly lower altitude, they were at least a thousand and five hundred meters from ground level.

Jumping off from our current height?

He must be joking!

With our aircraft at such a speed and this high from the ground, anyone who jumps would be committing suicide!

Just the sheer force of the impact was enough to crush the bones of any martial artist.

Though there was no doubt that Levi was one of the strongest warriors to live, he was still no superhero.

He was a human made of blood and flesh.

Thus, no matter how robust his body was as a martial artist, there was no way that he would survive.

At the thought of that, everyone could not help but hesitate in their actions.

“Master, I think it’ll be much safer to wear this parachute!” One of his subordinates said anxiously.

Levi stayed silent, his face dispassionate.

“Didn’t you hear him? Open the gates! Now!” The North Sky Lord repeated Levi’s command, sounding annoyed.

“Yes, yes!” The people on the aircraft hurried back to their positions and sprang into action.

No one dared disobey their master’s orders.

Whoosh!

All of a sudden, the unnerving howling of air currents surging into their aircraft reverberated in their ears.

“I’m going off now!”

Crossing his hands behind him, Levi made his way toward the door of the aircraft and jumped down without a second thought.

The North Sky Lord promptly followed behind and plunged down.

Watching the two dive down from their aircraft without even blinking, the members of The Calamity within the aircraft found themselves at a loss for words.

“What...”

Maniacs!

Absolute maniacs!

They shuddered a little.

Undoubtedly, Levi and the North Sky Lord were tenacious warriors.

However, jumping from an aircraft a thousand and five hundred meters high in the sky without a parachute was a completely different matter altogether.

Are they even human?

How frightening!

Meanwhile, at the General's Residence.

Thousands of samurais awaited the arrival of The Calamity.

Yuta and Ichiro meditated with their eyes closed while their hands gripped tightly onto their longswords.

"Hey! Look up! There is an aircraft hovering above this building!" Someone suddenly yelled.

"Yes, I see it too! The aircraft is at a dangerously low altitude! Are they coming after us?" Another added.

Outside, the people on the streets were all pointing and talking about the foreign aircraft intruding their skies.

The people on ground level could see the jet black aircraft rather clearly.

After all, an altitude of a thousand and five hundred meters would be relatively low for an aircraft.

"Huh?"

Yuta and Ichiro opened their eyes, looking up toward the skies above.

Indeed, an aircraft was seen gliding overhead.

Gliding suspiciously low!

“Has The Calamity really decided to attack from the air?” Ichiro uttered, his eyes widening.

“What the hell?” Yuta swore under his breath upon seeing the outlines of what looked like two people jumping off the aircraft.

“Someone is jumping down!” Ichiro howled.

Ping!

The samurais on stand-by pulled out their swords in unison.

The air within the General’s Residence quickly became thick with tension.

Everyone expected the two in the air to open their parachutes before landing somewhere nearby.

In their heads, they even rehearsed how they would charge toward the two as they landed, slaughtering them instantly.

Their silhouettes became bigger and clearer as the two men fell from the sky, like meteors striking earth.

Whoosh! Whoosh!

The deafening howling of air currents echoed within the building.

To their horror, the speed of those human meteors seemed to have exceeded that of the sound of the air currents.

“They’re not using parachutes!” Yuta yelled.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1250

Ichiro was speechless.

So were the thousands of samurais around them.

Are they nuts?

Did they just jump off an aircraft without parachutes?

Due to the fact that they were free-falling from a thousand and five hundred meters, the speed at which Levi and the North Sky Lord were moving was frighteningly fast.

The onlookers could not even make out their faces as they plunged downwards, leaving a white trail behind them.

Thud!

The impact of their landing was explosive.

The people in the General's Residence could feel the vibrations on the floorboards, vibrating their eardrums.

Their thunderous landing was closely followed by a blast of air which literally blew off some of the samurais in the building.

Everyone could already feel the immense power of their enemies before they even showed themselves.

Sensing their impending doom, some of the samurais yelled, "Retreat! Retreat!"

However, there was no time to react. Before they could even begin evacuating the building, the two human meteors finally made their touchdowns.

Boom!

Boom!

Levi and the North Sky Lord landed one after the other.

It almost sounded like the consecutive explosions of two missiles.

Boom! Bang!

It almost seemed like the heavens were crashing down upon the earth.

Bang!

Bang!

Bang!

Everything in sight seemed to be crumbling into dust.

Clink! Clank!

Long, branching cracks appeared on the floorboards, with the tiles shattering into pieces.

And as the finale to all of that destruction, Levi and the North Sky Lord created two gigantic craters within as they came into contact with the ground.

Now, it really seemed as if two missiles had landed from the skies.

Six hundred years – A residence with a whopping six hundred years of history, demolished in a matter of minutes.

Poof!

Poof!

Poof!

The aftershock of the impact of their falls was also fatal.

At the same time, the huge army of samurais who had gathered in the building were blasted off, along with the wreckage.

Pandemonium ensued soon after.

Following that, desperate cries filled the air, and corpses were seen everywhere.

The amount of bloodshed caused was unfathomable.

The bloody aftermath was a testament to the impact brought about by what seemed to be human meteors.

Those who remained standing stared fixedly at the site of the landings, now enveloped by a cloud of thick smoke.

They were desperate to know if the two people that they saw had survived the fall.

As minutes passed by, the fog gradually cleared, revealing two men standing tall on the ground.

One was busy patting off the dust on his body, his complexion unnaturally red.

Evidently, the free fall had taken a toll on him physically.

That man was the North Sky Lord.

Though he was uninjured, he looked rather displeased about the state that he was in.

"Damn it!" He swore.

On the other hand, the onlookers were absolutely terrified by his reaction.

Even Yamamoto Yuta felt as if he was on the verge of fainting.

Damn it? That's it? Is that all that he has got to say after falling down from such a height without a freaking parachute?

No injuries?

This can't be possible!

"Oh my goodness!" Someone from the crowd shrieked in terror.

When the crowd turned to look at the other man who had landed, they could not believe what they saw.

There he was, Levi Garrison, with his arms still crossed behind him, standing there looking all calm and composed.

There was not even a single speck of dust on him.

It was as if he had just arrived at the scene from a walk in a park.

How is that possible?

Is he even human?

Is that even humanly possible?

Even an ultimate class warrior wouldn't be able to survive a fall like that!

While the onlookers were still stricken by terror and awe, Levi and the North Sky Lord made their way toward them.

Unable to recover from the shock, Yuta and Ichiro simply stared fixedly at the two coming closer.

It took a whole solid minute for people to return to their senses.

However, they were immediately struck by another horrifying reality.

The man who had fallen like a human meteor was someone they were all too familiar with.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1251

“Levi... Levi Garrison... H-How are y-you still...” Ichiro had completely lost his marbles.

His voice was shaking so much that he could barely finish a sentence.

With his body convulsing in terror, it seemed that he was about to collapse any moment.

In the meantime, Yuta’s face darkened in fear and anger. “It’s you! Levi Garrison! How in the world are you still alive!” He growled.

Hicc!

The samurais at the scene gasped, their faces turning pale.

Just when they thought that they had survived the worst crisis that struck their lands, they were met with the man of their nightmares – Levi Garrison.

He was not only a man who came back from the dead, but their greatest enemy who had humiliated their country fifty years ago.

The samurais of Raysonia had so much hatred for Levi that they carved his face deep into their minds so that they would never forget about their ultimate foe.

Killing Levi Garrison became the top priority for every samurai in Raysonia.

It was like a mission ingrained into their souls.

However, upon seeing Levi standing before them, their immense fury quickly turned into confusion and fear.

Is he a ghost?

Many had that speculation in mind.

After all, they had seen his dead body with their very own eyes.

And yet, he had somehow come back to life.

How preposterous!

“No, no. He is Levi Garrison! Levi Garrison did not die! I get it! He sent The Calamity!” Ichiro was the first to grasp the situation.

He also caught on the fact that Levi had become the master of The Calamity.

“What? He’s the master of The Calamity?” Yuta exclaimed, his eyes widening.

When The Calamity first appeared, everyone was so sure that they came to power because of Levi’s death.

But, who would have known, that in reality, Levi Garrison was the one in command of The Calamity!

Piece by piece, past events were starting to add up.

The disappearance of the Harbinger of Death, the series of actions taken by The Calamity, and the recent deaths were all linked to the man – Levi Garrison.

It was obvious by then, that Levi was seeking revenge.

Everything finally made sense right then and there.

After their long wait for The Calamity to arrive, Levi Garrison finally showed up at their doors instead.

"Kill them!" Levi gave his command.

The North Sky Lord immediately sprang into action.

He hurled himself into the crowd, slashing the heads off his enemies.

The samurais did not want to give up just yet, and they dashed towards the North Sky Lord, fighting with all their might.

"No matter how many times you come back from the dead, we'll come after you all the same!" Yuta and Ichiro cried out, pulling out their longswords.

On the battlefield, the samurais fought the North Sky Lord, while the ultimate class warriors focused their attacks on Levi.

Soon, the fight came to a closure.

Not even a single samurai survived the battle with the North Sky Lord, with their corpses lying a gruesome pool of blood on the ground.

Meanwhile, Yuta and Ichiro were also at wits' end as their longswords were ruthlessly shattered by Levi.

The next thing they knew, Levi was holding them by their necks and lifting them above the ground.

With their eyes filled with fear and dread, they yelled, "Levi, no matter how strong you are, you'll never be able to kill Tenichi."

"You won't even make it out of Raysonia alive! Let me tell you that!"

Little did they know that those were their last words...

"Too bad you two won't be around to see that!"

Following that, Levi smashed the two bodies together forcibly. Blood splattered all over the place, and all that remained of the two ultimate class fighters was a horrid pile of human flesh.

“Two gone. One left. Watanabe Tenichi, just you wait!” Levi smirked coldly.

And so, the hunt for Watanabe Tenichi began.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1252

Within the Great Family of Frostford, which was the backbone of Sampson Finch, Watanabe Tenichi was one of the most talented individuals.

Though Levi had never fought Tenichi personally, he had heard quite a lot of rumors.

Watanabe Tenichi was the famous military strategist of Raysonia.

“Those two seemed to have waited for us to show up at their doors. They were completely unprepared! This is probably just a distraction for Tenichi to buy more time to set up traps!” The North Sky Lord said.

Levi pursed his lips and said, “Oh, I’ll let him do what he wants for now. I’ll be able to hunt him down anyways.”

Meanwhile, a total of three thousand samurais, including god class warriors, had gathered at the Military Division.

For the sake of safeguarding his own life, Tenichi decided to play every last one of his trump cards.

He even had Kawasaki Zando, the Great Grandmaster of Raysonia, on his side.

Tenichi was confident about the upcoming battle.

"By the way, any news from Yuta?" He asked.

"Nothing for now! Based on the information gathered by our spies, The Calamity has yet to make a move," his subordinate replied.

"Is The Calamity really coming?" Demon Blade, who was sitting on a futon, snarled.

"Yes, yes! I am quite certain of it!" Tenichi said firmly.

"This is our chance to move up the ranks once more! If we can defeat or even destroy The Calamity in this battle, we'll be able to show the world just how formidable we are!" He continued.

Demon Blade squinted his eyes and said, "Well, let them come. I'll just kill them all for the sake of the Raysonian Bushido!"

With those words, Tenichi felt more reassured than ever.

All the fear and apprehension that he felt were dispelled.

Oh, they better show up...

Even so, minutes ticked by, but they received no updates on the whereabouts of The Calamity.

Yuta and Ichiro were also nowhere to be found.

"What if something bad happened to them?" Someone among them said.

Boom!

At that exact moment, a thundering rumble reverberated throughout the manor.

The stone gates of the Military Division, which weighed five tons, crumbled into pieces in the blink of an eye.

Someone had kicked them down from outside.

Bam! Whoosh!

Before anyone could react, the entire Military Division was shaking, as if an earthquake had hit the area. Ripples began forming uncontrollably in the artificial lake within the manor.

“Someone’s coming!”

All of the samurais who were on standby quickly stood up and got into position, staring intently at the doors of the room.

Kawasaki Zando, who had been meditating with his eyes closed, suddenly opened his eyes, looking battle-ready.

Bang!

Bang!

Two unidentified projectiles flew across the room at lightning speed.

Clink!

Clank!

Clink!

The samurais on the first line of defense responded swiftly, deflecting and slashing through the projectiles.

“What in the world? Yuta? Ichiro?”

When the samurais finally took a closer look at the supposed projectiles shot at them, they froze on the spot, in utter shock and terror.

Those were not projectiles; those were the flesh and bones of Yamamoto Yuta and Mitsui Ichiro!

Tenichi’s face turned pale as a sheet.

So those two have already fallen...

Is that how powerful The Calamity really is?

Two ultimate class warriors, fighting alongside thousands of samurais and god class warriors. And yet, they were brutally slaughtered like this?

Demon Blade narrowed his eyes.

Pursing his lips into a cold smile, he seemed to be rather amused by the turn of events.

Thud! Thud! Thud!

There was a shuffle of footsteps approaching the room.

Each of the footsteps sounded like the beat of a drum, building up the tension in the room in a steady crescendo.

The silhouettes of two men could be seen.

“Two men?” Someone pointed out.

“Am I seeing things? Two men trying to fight against us? Here in the Military Division?”
Another said.

The samurais in the room were completely dumbfounded by the odd turn of events.

Seriously? This is too absurd!

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1253

Tenichi had seven ultimate class warriors guarding him!

And one of them is the formidable Demon Blade, who's the Great Grandmaster of Raysonia!

How dare The Calamity send out two fighters to fight us?

"Tenichi, be prepared to face my wrath!" A ruthless growl could be heard.

Levi knew that Tenichi was the mastermind behind his murder, alongside Sampson Finch.

Thus, his hatred toward him was no less than that for Sampson Finch.

Only with Tenichi's head in hand, would the souls of his dead brothers be appeased.

At that thought, a murderous aura emanated from him.

On the contrary, Tenichi's heart dropped with a thump.

Why is The Calamity so hell-bent on killing me?

His questions were quickly answered the very next moment when Levi strode into the room, glaring at him like a predator eyeing his prey.

"Levi... Levi Garrison... You're still alive?" Tenichi recognized him immediately.

It was only then that he finally connected the dots in his head and understood what was going on.

“So... so The Calamity is yours! And you’re the reason as to why I lost contact with Mr. Finch of the Great Family of Frostford, aren’t you?” Tenichi spluttered.

The others in the room looked rather appalled.

Nobody expected Levi to be the person behind all the recent turmoil and deaths.

No wonder those who were involved in scheming his murder were all hunted down! Tenichi thought to himself.

But this does not affect my plans in any way. I’ll just kill two birds with one stone.

Raysonia shall regain its dignity, and Raysonia’s greatest enemy shall be eliminated once again!

Levi responded indifferently, “You’re pretty smart, aren’t you? Sampson Finch has already gone to hell, and you’re going to be keeping him company!”

Tenichi eyeballed the North Sky Lord, who stood beside Levi. He donned a peculiar mask that looked like a horrendous mishmash of the faces of an angel and a demon. Tenichi chuckled, “Just the two of you, going against all of us?”

“Hmph, are you blind? Do you see anyone else here? Of course, it’s just the two of us!” The North Sky Lord stared at the samurais in the room with contempt.

He did not feel unnerved at all, even when faced with the menacing warriors in the room.

“Is he Levi Garrison?” Demon Blade spoke, pointing a finger.

“Yes, he is Levi Garrison! Formerly known as the God of War!” Tenichi promptly replied.

“Was he the one who brought humiliation to Raysonia five years ago? The one who disgraced the Raysonian Bushido?” Demon Blade snarled, his voice all raspy.

“Yes! Yes, it’s him!” Tenichi sounded hysterical.

My enemy!

Raysonia's enemy!

"Hmph, is that so? Then the last thing he shall witness before his death shall be the power of the Raysonian Bushido!" Kawasaki Zando rumbled.

He brandished his longsword, which had not seen daylight in fifty years.

Nevertheless, Levi ignored the two's chatter and turned to the rest of the people in the room. "I have come here today for the sole purpose of killing Watanabe Tenichi. The rest of you shall be spared if you leave the place now!" He yelled.

Levi was not a bloodthirsty monster who would kill just anyone.

He only had his eyes on his enemies.

However, if those who were innocent were to decide to stand in his way, he was prepared to slaughter them all.

"No way in hell!" A samurai shouted.

"You'll have to get past us first!"

"Nobody can touch our military strategist!"

"Protect our leader! Take down Levi Garrison! Restore our pride!" The samurais cried out in unison.

Each and every one of them seemed to have the determination to fight to their deaths.

For the people of Raysonia, Watanabe Tenichi was a beloved, well-respected leader.

He had the entire country on his side.

Just then, Demon Blade also responded, "You'll have to kill me first, if you want to even lay a finger on him. Of course, that is if you can!"

Levi snorted, "Oh, I'm so sorry then. But I think even god himself can't save him today! I shall end him right in front of your eyes!"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1254

"Try me!" Demon Blade bellowed.

His voice was deafening like thunder, echoing throughout the room.

How dare a young brat like that threaten me!

Nobody would have dared offend me the slightest fifty years ago, not even the ultimate class warriors!

Demon Blade finally lost his calm, as uncontrollable anger began to consume him.

You said that you'll kill him right in front of my eyes?

How preposterous!

You're the one who's dying today!

Demon Blade stood up. At that time, his eyes were sparkling like a lion that had been woken up from its slumber.

"Levi Garrison! I admit that you are no ordinary man. Indeed, you have come back from the dead and killed Sampson Finch, who had been an ultimate class warrior for twenty years," Tenichi said.

Upon hearing that, Demon Blade raised an eyebrow, his interest in his opponent growing.

It was common knowledge that the more years of experience that an ultimate class warrior had, the more powerful he would be.

That young brat defeated someone who had been an ultimate class warrior for twenty years?

And he's the fighter who single-handedly tarnished Raysonia's reputation? How interesting.

"However, the Raysonian Bushido has evolved exponentially over the last five years, and unlike last time, the great warrior, Demon Blade, is now fighting with us. Don't you dare underestimate our strengths now!" Tenichi continued.

He was feeling rather confident. In his head, Levi was definitely not making it out of Raysonia alive.

"Yes, that's right! Demon Blade has been an ultimate class fighter for almost a hundred years!" A samurai said.

"You can't win!"

Kawasaki Zando was actually older than Teneb Garrison, the Grandmaster of the Garrison clan.

Having been an ultimate class warrior for almost a hundred years, his strength was unimaginable.

In his eyes, the likes of Sampson Finch were no more than ordinary warriors.

"Hah... You're so going to die!" Levi was unmoved.

He was determined to take Tenichi's head no matter what.

"You want my head? Then come to me, at the peak of the Tower of the Sun," Tenichi said, laughing.

"I wish you all the best!" He taunted.

With that, he dashed towards the doors, along with Demon Blade and a few others.

“Don’t you dare!”

Clink!

Before Levi could go after them, samurais began crowding up around him, swinging their swords.

“You’ll have to get past us first!” They yelled.

“We won’t let you leave!”

The samurais were not backing down.

Soon, Tenichi and his men arrived at the peak of the Tower of the Sun.

Standing at a height of six hundred meters above the ground, the howling winds was all that they could hear.

Whoosh! Whoosh!

The chilly winds felt like small blades, cutting across their faces and leaving a burning pain.

“Why did you choose to come here?” Kawasaki Zando asked.

“Don’t you think that it’ll be far more meaningful to end his life here? A victory on the highest peak of our country, which would signify Raysonia rising to power!” Tenichi replied.

“Secondly, him knowing that I’m here waiting for him would be a huge distraction which would affect his performance in battle. And lastly, this is my strategy to spot his weaknesses before we finally come face-to-face with him,” he continued.

Simply put, it was a strategy to ensure that Levi Garrison would die – a strategy to end his life at all costs!

Undoubtedly, Tenichi was a military strategist, not a warrior. Thus, he could not care less about playing it fair on the battlefields.

On the other hand, Kawasaki Zando was not bothered about Tenichi’s strategy at all.

All that he had in mind was manslaughter.

“I hope that he does come here.”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1255

Leave a Comment / The Protector / By Chapter Novel

Kawasaki Zando had hoped to engage in combat with the youngsters of Erudia. He wanted to see what they were truly made of.

Otherwise, he would've come out of solitude for nothing.

“Our Raysonian Bushido will be restored to its former glory! In fact, the news should come as no surprise. In less than half a day, it'll spread like wildfire and rock the world!”

Tenichi was also waiting eagerly for this moment to arrive.

If he could send Levi to his death on Raysonian soil, the glory would be insurmountable.

Meanwhile, both Levi and the North Sky Lord were cornered by thousands of people. The numbers were increasing still.

Including the group outside the Military Division, it was an army of five thousand strong.

Everyone waited with bated breath.

There was only one possible solution to undo the shame they had to endure five years ago, kill Levi.

"Begin!" came the order from Tenichi.

Levi and North Sky Lord shared a look before beginning their assault.

North Sky Lord charged into the battlefield like a hero with superhuman strength.

Instantly, he summoned a hundred-meter-tall shockwave that he sent hurtling into the oncoming crowd.

Boom!

The dense crowd was abruptly torn apart and scattered by this attack. Numerous casualties could be seen as the panicked troops struggled to move out of the way.

"Get out of my way, or perish!" bellowed Levi as he breached the opening created by North Sky Lord.

Levi eyed an adversary that was standing in his way. He threw a punch that sent the man flying into the crowd like a cannonball.

Bang!

That blow was devastating enough to knock more than a hundred men out of the way.

They lay there in a writhing mass, with plenty of broken bones. Levi clicked his tongue impatiently as he observed the next wave of enemies coming his way.

A battle cry was heard as a squad of more than a dozen God class warriors charged towards Levi with sabers in hand.

Slash!

Nobody could foresee what happened next.

Upon impact, the sabers broke. It was as if Levi's body was made of steel for it was completely impenetrable.

Levi nonchalantly dodged an attack that came from his right flank. He reached over and gently grabbed the katana of his opponent. With a plucking motion, Levi snapped the blade clean in half.

His opponent tried to escape, but it was too late. With a flick of his wrist, Levi tossed the blade into the person's body. Blood splattered all over the floor before the dead assailant crumpled to the ground with a dull thud.

Everyone was stunned. These were God class warriors! Seasoned fighters were being treated as if they were mere playthings!

The battalion started to sweat in their armor. How were they going to defeat Levi?

His expression, on the other hand, was one of indifference. The fight was nothing but a walk in the park for him.

He walked around the area leisurely despite being completely surrounded.

But North Sky Lord painted a completely different picture. He attacked like a vicious animal, sending thousands scattered in complete disarray.

The pair had two completely different combat styles. One was calm, and the other, wild.

However, they made a terrifying team. It was as if the demons from hell had risen to fight.

Each attack they unleashed maimed or killed anyone in their path.

In a short period of time, the grounds of the Military Division had turned into a mass grave. Piles of bodies were scattered throughout the courtyard.

The army of five thousand was no match for Levi or North Sky Lord.

Soon, the pair left the area with less than two thousand men attempting to stop their advance.

The troops were samurai, believers in the spirit of Bushido. Even with the odds against them, they would not back away without a fight.

"We kill!" came their cries as they rushed towards the pair.

North Sky Lord attacked again, with Levi following closely behind.

A crushing battle was currently being staged.

A mere five minutes had passed, and there was nobody left standing. Levi and North Sky Lord had successfully plowed through a battalion of more than one thousand strong.

The battle had left many wounded. Despite this, they still burned with the desire to stop Levi and North Sky Lord.

However, the severity of their injuries prevented them from getting up. The troops had no choice but to watch helplessly as they walked past them.

Five thousand seasoned warriors only managed to deter the pair for about ten minutes.

They were horrified. Those defeated were ultimate samurai masters, who, without a doubt, outclassed the thirty-thousand that Levi had fought five years ago.

This only showed how much power Levi had gained throughout the course of five years.

Now, he had even gained a powerful ally. He was practically invincible.

“Onward, to the Tower of the Sun!” yelled Levi, his eyes ablaze with a chilling glow.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1256

What Levi and North Sky Lord didn't realize was that the earlier battle had only been a taste of what was to come.

There may have been an army of five thousand at the Military Division's grounds, but that was only a fraction of the conscripted fighters.

Levi paused to survey the area and found that the real deterrent to hinder their progress lay outside the grounds.

The Tower of the Sun wasn't too far away from the Military Division, but they had to traverse a pathway spanning ten kilometers.

Warriors had been stationed throughout the way, and they were by no means unskilled.

They had been lying in wait, biding their time for a chance to attack.

All of them were men loyal to Tenichi, duty-bound to defend him with their lives.

This was all a part of Tenichi's plan. Even if the mob of warriors couldn't kill Levi, there was a chance they would overwhelm him instead.

Levi might not be dead, but he would at least be exhausted. Or so he thought.

In a grievous miscalculation, Tenichi failed to anticipate the true strength of his opponents.

The samurai he had positioned barely proved to be a hindrance to them at all.

The pair swept through their defenses with a crushing force, defeating any obstacle in their path.

Soon, nobody was left standing.

But the one thing that even Watanabe Tenichi himself did not expect was the sheer number of loyal men who showed up to stop Levi.

The entire pathway was dotted with no less than a hundred thousand samurai.

They all believe in the spirit of Bushido and were eager to fight.

Having heard that Watanabe Tenichi was in danger, they all rallied to his call, hoping for a chance to restore Raysonian Bushido to its former glory.

Samurai from all over came with a single purpose, to kill Levi Garrison.

It had been less than an hour, but it felt like an eternity had passed.

Soon, Levi and North Sky Lord arrived at the base of the Tower of the Sun.

Both men were drenched in enough blood to be mistaken for corpses, but the blood did not belong to them.

So far, all hundred thousand men they encountered on their way to the Tower of the Sun had been defeated. The bodies piled high, with the stench of blood and warfare filling the air.

Throughout the region, the wails of defeated samurai were heard. It was a sorrowful lament of shame and anguish.

This was an even bigger smear on Raysonian Bushido, worse than the colossal embarrassment they had to endure five years ago.

Not even one hundred thousand samurai could stop the two of them.

If news of the fight were to spread, it would've been named the Battle of Gods.

The Master of The Calamity, as well as North Sky Lord, had successfully defeated a hundred thousand samurai on Raysonia.

This was the equivalent of two grown men warding off insects.

The Raysonians had no dignity left to spare, for it was completely destroyed by their losses in this battle.

This fight would set Raysonian Bushido back by ten years. It wasn't just men they lost, but most importantly, their dignity.

The shame was more than what everyone could bear.

They could only watch, completely hapless at the pair's advances.

Soon, it was up to Tenichi alone to put up a fight.

He bore the hopes of the thousands on Raysonia. These were the men who desperately wanted to bring back Raysonian Bushido to a more respectable state.

"Levi Garrison must be defeated! Glory to Raysonia!"

Thousands of the fallen lay there, their eyes watching the Tower of the Sun, the place where their only hopes remained.

Looking at the Tower of the Sun, Levi sneered. "Even if you go to hell and back, Tenichi, I will have your head!"

With that, Levi and North Sky Lord entered the Tower.

Tenichi was not about to let them waltz inside, unhindered. He had stationed even more fighters, ready to intercept the moment Levi entered the building.

Despite that, Levi and North Sky Lord managed to fight their way through all two hundred floors. After all, this wasn't a question of difficulty but merely time.

Levi and North Sky Lord were the invincible duo.

It did not take them long at all, in fact. The battle was a bloody one, as they fought their way up.

At the very top of the tower, Tenichi feverishly kept track of their movements. Every bit of progress was reported to him, with no information withheld.

“What? They fought their way through all of them?” exclaimed Tenichi worriedly.

“Is he injured?” he inquired again, hurriedly. This is troubling news indeed.

“He’s covered in blood. If he does manage to get up here, he’s probably exhausted!” came one report.

Tenichi smiled. “Ha! He’s strong indeed, but we have something better!”

Demon Blade merely observed the exchange impassively.

He couldn’t care less. A single blow would be enough to put them out of their misery.

I bet Levi Garrison wouldn’t see my blade coming, he mused.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1257

Levi and North Sky Lord were making quick work of the warriors in all two hundred floors.

Each floor was full of God class warriors but all of them were defeated. They were no match for the two of them.

These warriors were the backbone of Raysonian Bushido, who owed their successes in combat to the vigorous training under this branch. In spite of their efforts, they were wiped out easily. They could barely hold Levi back for more than a minute.

Levi and North Sky Lord were truly masterful opponents.

All it took was their combined efforts to decimate the legacy of Raysonian Bushido.

The pair made their way up the tower steadily, before finally arriving at its peak.

Suddenly, a group of six warriors surrounded them.

They were Tenichi's trump card. His last resort, the Six Great Grandmaster.

If he had not been in such dire straits, the thought of bringing them out wouldn't have crossed Tenichi's mind.

"Levi Garrison! Let this floor be your grave!"

The Six pinned Levi with a threatening glare, as they readied their attacks.

North Sky Lord eyed the six figures coldly and said, "Master, leave them to me."

"Alright!" replied Levi as he rushed towards the peak.

The Six Great Grandmaster tried to stop Levi, but they were held back by North Sky Lord.

A ferocious battle broke out between the seven in that small, confined space.

At the peak of the Tower of the Sun, Demon Blade sat on his knees. His eyes were closed as he waited for Levi's impending arrival.

Tenichi was standing next to him.

The weather reflected the bleak atmosphere of Raysonia. Dark clouds gathered in the sky, adding to the sense of foreboding and gloom.

The Tower was easily one of the tallest structures in the land. The upper half was encased in the clouds, where its current occupants lay in wait amongst the howling winds and gathered mist.

Outside, a storm was brewing.

Suddenly, the sound of footsteps was heard approaching the room.

Tenichi's face fell.

And so he arrives.

A gruesome figure rapidly approached, drenched in blood.

Suddenly, Demon Blade opened his eyes. He glared at Levi with lightning illuminating his gaze.

A terrible shockwave formed and blasted its way towards Levi, letting out a loud rumble.
Boom!

Levi only stood there, blood dripping off his body.

Tenichi stared for some time and realized that none of the blood on Levi's body was his own.

What the hell? Did he fight over a hundred thousand men without a single injury? His breath is calm and steady. His footsteps are light. Did he seriously just fight a battle? The thought made Tenichi's blood run cold.

Demon Blade, however, grinned.

Levi was a strong opponent, and that certainly piqued his interest.

Why would I even bother killing someone weak?

After all, he had not come out of a fifty-year seclusion to fight a wimp.

When Levi arrived, he looked at his surroundings bemusedly before saying, "Not a bad place you've chosen for your death."

"You arrogant little sh*t!" Demon Blade glanced at Levi and pinned him with a glare.

Surprisingly enough, Tenichi seemed relaxed. "Goodness, you're so strong! If not for the circumstances, I'd love to be friends with you!"

"Do you think you're somehow worthy of that? Piss off." Levi clicked his tongue in annoyance and pointed an accusatory finger at Tenichi.

"Look, I know you're determined to kill me and all, but do you know who this man is, standing before you?" asked Tenichi, with an absent-minded flick of his wrist. "Allow me to introduce you to Demon Blade, the Ultimate class warrior of the highest caliber in Raysonia.

"Fifty years ago, this man single-handedly took on all of Bayview's Ultimate class warriors, only to deliver unto them a crushing defeat. Nobody would dare cross him, and I honestly doubt that even someone of your capabilities will win against him today."

Suddenly, there was a fierceness in Tenichi's eyes. "Levi Garrison, I'm here to sentence you to death by the hands of the Ultimate Great Grandmaster. Consider this an honor of the highest degree!"

"I'm still going to kill you!" came Levi's reply. He seemed unperturbed by the threat.

"Such arrogance. Young man, do you think you can kill him? You'll have to go through me first!" retorted Demon Blade.

Levi sneered. "Ah, but what is youth without arrogance, old man?"

"Five years ago, you threw Raysonian Bushido such a heavy blow that you set us back by fifty years. It was a nightmare. You've been our greatest source of shame!"

He paused briefly and gave Levi another icy stare. "Henceforth, I, Kawasaki Zando, pledge to defeat you and restore Raysonian Bushido to its former glory!"

Very slowly, Demon Blade got to his feet.

Boom!

His body pulsed with static and gave out a threatening aura. There was the sound of the wind howling and the distant crack of thunder.

“Pay attention, young man. One slice of my blade will be enough to finish you.”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1258

As Kawasaki Zando said these words, there was no hint of arrogance in his flat tone.

He seemed to be expressing a simple fact. A mere slash of his blade was enough to end anyone who stood in his way.

His demeanor did not express self-confidence but a sense of familiarity in his abilities. This man was dangerous as an opponent, and clashing with him would be perilous.

Death was inevitable.

All he had to do was attack Levi Garrison with his blade, and it would mean the end of it.

Tenichi also believed his words without a doubt.

If Demon Blade were that strong fifty years ago, he'd be even stronger now.

“Oh, is that so?” sneered Levi.

Now that he had mastered the age-old martial arts techniques that he had sought to learn, Levi's strength was not to be underestimated.

The first battle between the two began shortly.

Suddenly, Kawasaki Zando's demeanor changed.

He may have looked the part of a grey-haired, miserable man, but his eyes shone with spirit.

Kawasaki Zando felt his blood surge like waves.

The momentum his body had generated was increasing very steadily.

Phew!...

A storm had indeed formed at the summit of the Tower. The already-darkened sky was accompanied by a loud chorus of thunder.

The ground surrounding the Tower was elevated, which also contributed to the increased airflow and the relentless howling wind.

Now, Kawasaki Zando's momentum had increased even more. His body rumbled with the energy he amassed as he fused the currents of air generated by the wind.

Soon, an explosive burst of thunder was heard.

Tenichi, who'd been standing too close, was flung away from the site. Since he was an ordinary person, the impact was so great that he tasted his own blood.

All of Edojo could feel the tremors caused by the storm as if alluding to a heavy downpour.

Yet, the sky showed no signs of lightning. Only thunder was heard.

The phenomenon made everyone curious.

After all, how were they to know that this was not thunder in the first place?

This was the sheer might and energy exuded by Demon Blade, who stood atop the Tower of the Sun.

If he could generate such power, calling him the Ultimate Great Grandmaster was no surprise at all.

Tenichi shook himself out of his stupor and hurriedly took some medicines he had kept on hand. His condition was now stable, and he was no longer bleeding.

He also realized that Demon Blade was about to unleash his attack.

Tenichi waited with anticipation and glee. Levi Garrison would definitely perish.

Mere moments later, scarlet lightning struck the Tower of the Sun.

It was a very vivid, eye-catching sight to behold.

The lightning was a bright red, almost like the color of blood.

Another crack of thunder soon followed.

The people of Edojo looked up to the sky, clearly intrigued by the queer yet threatening display.

Yet, no one had ever guessed that that was not lightning at all but a blade!

Fifty years later, Kawasaki Zando's yoto had made an appearance once again, at long last.

The blade had an ethereal quality that dazzled the onlookers. How was that blade able to create such strong tremors?

This display, alongside the ominous atmosphere, created a very shocking scene.

The moment Demon Blade unleashed his yoto, the dark sky lit up with an intensity that could rival daylight.

The crimson light had temporarily blinded Tenichi, and he intuitively averted his gaze.

Tenichi's mind was racing. I'm among the first to truly witness the yoto in action. Levi will witness it too, of course, but he'll be dead meat soon.

It's an honor!

Watanabe Tenichi smirked, gleefully imagining Levi's decapitation.

The moment Kawasaki Zando summoned his blade, he stepped towards Levi in a flash.

The yoto in his hand glowed scarlet as he slashed at Levi, only to find that he missed.

Hmm. The little runt has some speed in him after all.

Levi was by far the fastest opponent Kawasaki Zando had met.

His past opponents had been unworthy of his status as a Great Grand Master!

Out of nowhere, a spatter of blood whizzed past.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1259

el

A sharp, slicing sound was heard, followed by a loud crash.

A spatter of blood escaped the fray, and landed on Tenichi's face.

The warm blood immediately brought Tenichi to his senses again.

Hahaha...!

He laughed and gingerly touched the blood on his face.

Levi Garrison was dead, at long last!

He had seen it with his own eyes. There was no way Levi could've survived that blow.

The blood that he felt had to be from Levi's decapitated head.

True to its word, the yoto definitely lived up to its name. Any opponent in its path would meet their end.

Tenichi's joy, alas, was short-lived. A glance at the scene was enough to wipe the grin off his face.

Not only did Levi Garrison appear to be unharmed, but even his head remained intact.

Instead, Kawasaki Zando stood there with his blade broken in half. He looked utterly defeated, with blood trickling down the side of his mouth.

Where's the other half of the blade? A chill went down his spine. It wasn't long until he noticed a faint, scarlet glimmer in Kawasaki Zando's chest.

He was bleeding profusely from the stab wound.

Levi Garrison had not only lived to tell the tale of the yoto. He had managed to shatter it and stab Kawasaki with his own weapon.

Only Kawasaki Zando understood the depth of Levi's strength.

The power of Demon Blade was something inherited by the wielder deemed most worthy. Somehow, a power that had lasted thousands of years was defeated by just a punch?

This is incredible! He is so young but he possesses such strength!

There was no doubt that this was Erudia's one and only God of War.

Erudia must've been such a wondrous place, having produced someone like this.

Is it possible that he's from there?

Kawasaki Zando couldn't take it anymore as he thought of this.

He fell to the ground with a groan and lay there, motionless.

This Ultimate Great Grandmaster, who was nearly a century old, had failed in his mission to restore Raysonia's glory.

He could not even protect their military strategist!

Today, Raysonian Bushido was completely defeated.

Five years ago, Levi Garrison had humiliated them, only for them to suffer an even bigger humiliation five years later.

How could they regain their pride after this crushing defeat?

At around this time, North Sky Lord had just finished his battle with the Six Great Grandmaster and made his way up to the Tower's summit.

With a cursory glance, he said, "Well, you handled this a lot faster than I thought!"

The only man left standing was Watanabe Tenichi.

He looked dumbfoundedly at the pair, not knowing how to react.

Tenichi was not by any means stupid. He was a strategist whose resourcefulness was almost godlike.

Every single strategy had been planned; every possibility was calculated and taken into consideration.

The only factor he failed to take into consideration was Levi's strength.

Levi took a deep breath and said coldly, "Are you witnessing all this, comrades? Here is the mastermind. I will avenge you all!"

Deep down, Levi was relieved. He fulfilled the promise he made to his brothers-in-arms.

Every single person who had been involved in this mess had been dealt with.

"Wait!" Tenichi shouted hastily. "I admit defeat!"

"But before I die, there are some doubts I want to clear."

"Hm. Why not, I guess. What do you want to know?" asked Levi in a very cold tone.

Tenichi's questions were simple. He wanted to know how Levi survived the attack, how he recovered, and what became one of The Calamity.

True to his word, Levi answered all his questions.

After hearing all of the explanations, Watanabe Tenichi smiled contentedly.

"Don't forget, Levi Garrison. You may have given us a humiliating defeat today, but there will be a reckoning in the future!"

Levi smirked. "A reckoning from who, pray tell? You're out of Ultimate class warriors, to my knowledge.

"Raysonia's strength lies in our unyielding will!" roared Tenichi. "The spirit of Bushido will still live on! Mark my words, one day, there will be a samurai strong enough to challenge and defeat you!"

Levi snickered. "Until then, I'll wait. But before you die, I have a question of my own."

"How did the Blood King Palace manage to return? Were they not wiped out?" queried Levi.

Watanabe Tenichi gave Levi a smug smile. "Do you really want to know?"

"Yes. Tell me."

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1260

“You will never know the answer to that secret!”

Suddenly, Tenichi’s face contorted into a twisted smile as he plunged a tanto right into his abdomen. The pain made him gasp out loud, but he persisted.

He knelt on the ground and shouted, “Bushido will live on!”

The tanto was coated with poison, and it didn’t take long before Tenichi breathed his last.

The poison was fast-acting, and there would’ve been no chance at saving him.

Levi Garrison wanted to know how the Blood King Palace made its return, but the trail had gone cold.

It didn’t matter that much to him, however. He had avenged his brothers-in-arms, and that was the most important thing.

“You have been avenged! Now I’m going to bring you all home!” shouted Levi.

Levi had ordered his men to retrieve the bodies of all three hundred and fifty-seven victims, including that of Jonah Garrison.

Given that some of the bodies had been found in a sorry state, Levi decided to cremate everyone and have the ashes packed in burial urns.

He couldn’t bear to bury them in a foreign land. They had to be buried at home in Erudia.

These were warriors of Erudia, men born and raised there.

Levi was determined to have a tomb built for all of his fallen comrades.

Soon after, Levi and North Sky Lord left the Tower of the Sun, only to be met by the tears of a hundred thousand men.

Seeing the two leave intact was a cause of great sorrow to them. They realized that this meant the defeat of Demon Blade.

Raysonian Bushido had failed once again.

The defeat had dealt a devastating blow to their morale. There was no telling if they would recover from the humiliation, even after a century had passed.

This was a day the followers of Raysonian Bushido would never forget.

If this shame were not eradicated in the near future, they feared they would no longer have any dignity left.

Word of this battle had spread quite quickly.

The Master of the Calamity and North Sky Lord had single-handedly defeated the Raysonians in combat.

First came the defeat of both Yuta Yamamoto and Ichiro Mitsui, followed by one hundred thousand samurai who were sent to fight Levi and North Sky Lord.

Among the biggest casualties were the seven Great Grandmasters including Demon Blade, the Ultimate Great Grandmaster, in Bayview's tallest tower, including the death of Watanabe Tenichi, the military strategist.

The world exploded in a frenzy as soon as word got out.

There was no denying the strength of The Calamity.

Blood King Palace seemed to pale in comparison. They were barely on the same level!

Before this, Blood King Palace was considered a force too difficult to destroy, having earned notoriety as the most powerful group in The Dark World.

The Calamity's actions in taking the initiative were making waves.

Having won the so-called Battle of the Gods, The Calamity had earned a place in the hierarchy.

They were quickly ranked as the most dangerous force in the world, and their danger levels were off the charts.

However, it was not fair to compare both The Calamity and Blood King Palace in the same vein.

Blood King Palace was an organization that took pride in shady dealings, including assassination, sabotage, and threats to establish its dominance.

The Calamity, on the other hand, only wanted revenge for past grievances.

However, this act of avenging their fallen was seen as something even more terrifying and cruel in the eyes of the public. Somehow, this was worse than the past actions of Blood King Palace.

For now, the world was set abuzz discussing The Calamity, especially Erudia.

Levi's supporters had ideas of their own. "If only Levi Garrison were still alive!" lamented some. "Surely he's the only one who can defeat The Calamity!"

"Yes, and their actions are even more belligerent than Blood King Palace! What arrogance! If Levi Garrison were here, they wouldn't last a second!"

"Hell, if Levi Garrison were still alive, there will be no place for The Calamity!"

These remarks caught the ear of Winsor Campbell, who was furious.

He was the one who held the title God of War, but all they were concerned about was Levi Garrison.

Everyone hoped that Levi would still be alive and step in to eradicate The Calamity.

Winsor gritted his teeth and swore inwardly. Why can't I do it? Am I less capable than Levi?

He'd barely done anything, only to be defeated by Levi Garrison in name alone.

"I want to take action on The Calamity!" said Winsor.

"But the Dragonites won't let us—"

Zar's explanation was cut short by Winsor's glare.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1261

Talon and Bolgun hurriedly held Zar back and motioned for him to hold his tongue.

They could tell that Winsor Campbell was eager to prove himself. He was not willing to live in the shadow of his predecessor throughout his tenure.

Zar cleared his throat. "Well, making a move will not be impossible, but..." he trailed off and paused briefly.

"But what?" asked Winsor.

"God of War, you should present your challenge to The Calamity as a civilian. Don't drag any particular stance into this," suggested Zar with a hint of hesitation.

"Well, that might actually work. The most important thing is for me to defeat The Calamity and win everyone over!"

"To guarantee my victory, I'll go into seclusion for the time being."

Winsor was eager to practice the combat skills Sampson taught him.

If my training is successful, then I'd challenge The Calamity. My chances of succeeding would be higher as well.

Winsor Campbell may have been of noble stock, but he had yet to face a real opponent.

For that reason, he'd always erroneously assumed that there were no other experts in the world.

Such thoughts had made him complacent.

As such, Sampson's elusiveness was so great that news of his death never reached Winsor's ears. He had no way of finding out at all.

Back in North Hampton, Zoey and Emma Jones had just received word from Levi over the phone.

"Mom? Levi said he'd be back soon," said Zoey excitedly.

All this while, things had been normal.

Nobody had come for Forlevia's head either, but Zoey had to maintain the charade.

Everyone assumed that Levi was dead, so they had to play the part of the grieving family.

After all, there were still strangers who had come to ask about information regarding the circumstances of Levi's death. Hence, they had to play safe.

At the time, plenty of villains had shown up too.

Not too long ago, the Garrison clan in Oakland City was being taunted.

The Lopezes and the Black family, on the other hand, believed that Levi was clobbered to death by the Garrison clan.

Coupled with the fact that Dale Lehman had severed ties with Zoey, both the Lopezes and the Black family had been pushing for Zoey to find a backer.

It was in her best interests, or so they claimed, that she found a powerful new husband. That way, she would be able to secure her estate and wealth.

The Lopezes and Black family had not been completely wrong in their suggestion, though.

Since she'd also lost the support of the Lehman Group, many outsiders had been eyeing the Morris Group with great interest.

Zoey and the others were slowly being pushed to the brink of danger.

She would have difficulties holding on soon.

At this moment, Levi Garrison was making his way back to Erudia.

The entourage that followed him contained a total of three hundred and fifty-seven burial urns.

Among them were the remains of Hades, wrapped in a separate sheet. After all, he was from L nation, and they deserved closure as well.

Levi decided to first sort out the matter of his comrades in Erudia before bringing Hades' remains back to L nation for his interment.

Earlier on, Levi conducted a funeral in an unnamed town near Northgale and had the remains of all the victims cremated there.

All these innocent lives. What an sad sight!

"Comrades, our homeland lies ahead! Finally, I've brought you home!" shouted Levi, the moment he spotted the familiar sights of Erudia.

Had it not been for this bunch of rough man, he'd likely not be alive. They gave him a chance at rebirth.

Thankfully, he was strong enough to avenge his comrades. None of the culprits deserved to make it out alive.

As they approached Erudia's borders, Levi got out of the car.

Holding Jonah's urn in his hands, he proceeded towards Erudian soil on foot.

The rest of his team followed suit.

Levi was enacting the highest honors possible to bring home his fallen comrades.

In the split second that ensued, Levi had mixed feelings about his mission.

He was quite relieved that he could bring them home and inter them on their own soil.

He could not raise them to be martyrs or patriots, but he could build them a tomb or a monument at least.

His happiness was short-lived, however. West Sky Lord approached Levi with a grim expression on her face. "Master, I come bearing bad news."

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1262

|

"Speak."

West Sky Lord hesitated briefly before replying, "A ban has been issued. All cemeteries are now off-limits to 'the likes of Mr. Jonah Garrison and any other such figures.' Forget about building them a tomb. You can't even lay them to rest!"

After she said her piece, West Sky Lord felt a chill pierce through her spine.

She subconsciously took two steps back and waited for Levi to respond.

"In other words, they are only worthy of being buried in the wilderness?" asked Levi.

"Yes, apparently so. Rumors have been spread, claiming that Mr. Jonah Garrison and the three hundred or so men were traitors. Traitors cannot be interred in Erudia because they don't deserve that honor."

"They're also saying that their deaths were well-deserved," said West Sky Lord with a shiver. "Nobody should've protected the 'main culprit' to begin with."

The air around them was tense. Everyone could sense that Levi was seething.

They had to endure such tragic, miserable deaths. On top of that, they're not even allowed to be buried in their own homeland? They are not to be honored?

If he could not do that for his fallen comrades, how could he face their souls?

"I don't care who stands in my way! My comrades and brothers-in-arms, they need a home! I will build them a monument and conduct the funeral rites they rightfully deserve!"

Turning to face the rest of his team, Levi issued new commands in a low growl. "Our new destination – Northway City, Greenhills Cemetery. We are to ensure that all three hundred and fifty-six of my comrades are interred properly!"

The whole entourage pressed on to the largest city in the north, Northway.

Levi wanted to bury his comrades there.

North Sky Lord nudged West Sky Lord and asked, "Who imposed the ban?"

"The Garrison clan of Oakland city," whispered West Sky Lord.

She did not have the courage to reveal that information to Levi earlier.

North Sky Lord took a deep breath. He'd guessed as much. Only the most powerful family in Erudia had that kind of reach.

Truth be told, the Garrison clan is playing with fire. They're going to shoot themselves in the foot at this point.

As the people closest to Levi right now, they could feel the sorrow that Levi felt over Jonah's death. In fact, he blamed himself mainly.

Because he could not save Jonah from his demise, Levi felt that the only atonement he could offer was to build him a tomb.

God help anyone who stood in his way.

At last, they reached a small airport at the edge of Erudia. Levi and his team held the boxes that contained the urns and carefully moved them in on foot.

The next flight was bound for Northway City without many passengers on board.

Levi then decided to purchase all the empty seats available. It was the least he could do and the most respectful, in his opinion. He couldn't bear to check the urns in.

Of course, this was under the assumption that there were plenty of seats. Levi had no desire to cause any inconvenience to anyone else.

Besides, the boxes were all carefully wrapped, so nobody could tell what they contained.

Just then, a party of three women and two men walked up to the counter. The women looked beautiful, and the men were quite good-looking.

The girl who stood in front of the group was particularly stunning. She had a small and dainty face, no bigger than her palm. Her skin was alluring, reminiscent of uncut jade.

She wore a blouse and a pair of hot pants, which exposed her long and slender legs. Her creamy white skin looked very attractive.

The girl's face also looked quite young. Given her youthful demeanor, she was likely still a student.

At a glance, anyone could tell that she was the campus belle.

Sophie Lehman frowned slightly gave the boarding pass a disdainful look. "Why did you buy the tickets so late, Harris? Now we're got to fly in economy class!" She enunciated the words 'economy class' with a slight grimace.

The boy next to her replied, "Well, it is my fault. I'll see if I can get us upgraded."

The group of five had just returned from their summer vacation in the North.

Harris Lopez took his boarding pass and walked towards Levi, who was about to board first class. "Hey, you! Let's swap seats. I'll make up for the difference and give you another five thousand for your trouble."

Harris Lopez could be quite demanding when he needed to be.

Levi didn't bother looking up and gave Harris a firm 'no'.

"Ten thousand then!" said Harris angrily.

"No."

"What about fifty thousand?" asked Harris again, through gritted teeth.

"I said, no."

This was enough to make Sophie Lehman lose her temper as well. "Hey, what is the meaning of this? You're not even going to look at us when we talk to you? You're so f*cking rude!"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1263

The other classmates in the group sneered at Levi as well. "Exactly! Who do you think you are, pretending to be rich? This ticket costs only a thousand. Heck, even my meal is more expensive than your stupid ticket!"

"And look at the cheap sh*t you're wearing! Are those even designer labels? I'm guessing you don't have much money after all. Why did you buy a first class ticket if you have nothing to show for it?"

North Sky Lord decided to step in before it got worse. "Go away," he said coldly.

He could see that Levi was already very angry.

“Fine!”

Sophie Lehman left them in a huff.

“This is unacceptable! We’ve never flown economy class before!” exclaimed Sophie. Soon, she took note of all the empty seats in the first class cabin.

There were no passengers on board, but the seats were occupied with objects.

Harris Lopez got the attention of the flight attendant. Gesturing at the empty seats, she asked, “There’s nobody sitting there, right?”

“Yes, but—”

Before the flight attendant could explain, Harris kicked off the boxes that were tied to the seats.

“Alright, then just give us these seats! We’ll settle the differences after we land!”

Harris Lopez was the eldest son of Northway City’s most prominent family.

As such, he was always overbearing and inconsiderate when it came to handling certain situations.

Especially now, since he didn’t want to appear weak in front of Sophie Lehman.

They were about to take their seats when they noticed several pairs of eyes glaring at them.

They immediately felt a chill down their spines, but decided to continue on with the cold war.

Levi, North Sky Lord, and West Sky Lord looked at them with contempt.

“Put the items back on the seats, and I will look the other way,” said Levi coldly.

“Yes, these items belong to this gentleman here. He bought out the first class cabin.” The stewardess hastily jumped in to explain the situation.

“What? Did he buy these seats to deposit trash on them? Do you even know what’s inside these boxes?”

Harris Lopez gave the box another kick, this time hard enough to disturb the lids.

Suddenly, a deeply sinister chill seeped into the air.

Harris, Sophie and the other kids immediately froze. The chill was horrible, and there was something quite murderous about it. It was almost as if something in there wanted them dead.

North Sky Lord was reaching the limits of his patience.

In a violent lurch, North Sky Lord lifted Harris Lopez by the nape and slammed him into the ground.

Bang!

Harris was pinned to the ground, unable to move. The air he breathed was cold, and he inhaled with some difficulty. “What do you think you’re doing?”

Sophie yelled, “Get off him! Let him go!”

The flight attendants watched the incident unfold anxiously. “Yes, please, let him go!”

“Let him go!”

North Sky Lord immediately released Harris after he heard Levi’s command.

Levi was not going to let this slide, however. “Put the items back on their seats. Apologize, and we’ll call it a day.” As he said this, his eyes never left Harris’ gaze.

Sophie Lehman pointed at Levi and exclaimed, “What’s the hell is wrong with you? You’re the one who resorted to violence, and you want us to apologize? How is that logical?”

Sophie Lehman was the pride of the Lehman family, another influential group in Northway City. She did not come from common stock.

For this reason, she wasn’t afraid in the slightest when it came to confrontations like this.

“So what mistakes have I made? Tell me,” said Levi.

“You bought out the first class cabin, but you’re using it to stash crap on the seats. Seats are for people, not luggage!”

“Besides, why couldn’t you check those in? You’re making it tough people who need those seats!” yelled Sophie.

“Yes, those seats are meant for passengers, not luggage. Why won’t you let us sit there?”

Several others had decided to join in on the emotional blackmail.

Levi sneered and said, “Because I spent my money on these seats, not you. So I get to decide what I put on my seats. It’s none of your f*cking business!”

Sophie was rendered speechless by Levi’s tirade.

“What if I insist on sitting here?” asked Harris angrily.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1264

“Go on, have a try. I’ll break your legs if you do!” roared North Sky Lord.

Harris blabbered but did not dare say much. He was still terrified after his first encounter with North Sky Lord.

“Now go back to your own f*cking seats and behave yourselves. Considering you’re kids, I’m going to let this slide. Otherwise, I’ll really break your goddamn legs!” bellowed North Sky Lord.

Everyone was frightened into submission. One by one, they backed away slowly.

They may come from illustrious households, but with no bodyguards around, nobody dared behave too rashly.

However, before leaving the first class cabin, Harris took a few pictures of Levi.

“What do you think you’re doing?” asked North Sky Lord angrily. He was getting really tired of their nonsense.

“Well, weren’t you acting all high and mighty earlier? Why don’t you wait a while after we land? I’ll be waiting for you in Riverville!” threatened Harris.

Riverville was Harris’ turf, and he was definitely not going to let the issue slide. Not after how they embarrassed him in front of Sophie!

“So? What will it be? I f*cking dare you to lay a finger on me in Riverville!” sneered Harris again.

“As you wish.”

North Sky Lord was a little taken aback. He was not expecting Levi to agree to this.

This could only mean that Levi was extremely angry.

“Then you’re done for!” exclaimed Harris as he arrogantly walked towards the economy class cabin.

Before the plane took off, he quickly sent the photographs to the butler. A background check on these people was necessary.

Harris Lopez may be the scion of a powerful family, but he had a clear mind when it came to such things.

Before he picked a proper fight, he would always run a background check to prevent any trouble.

The butler soon replied.

'These individuals are just ordinary people with no prominent background or lineage.'

But that wasn't true at all.

Levi's identity was deliberately made obscure, along with the other members on his team.

Any searches conducted in the databases would've come up blank.

Harris looked at the response gleefully. "Ah, so they are a group of nobodies after all! You're all going to be f*cked when this plane lands."

"They need to be taught a lesson for being that unreasonable!" said Sophie with a huff.

She thought she had done nothing wrong and that the fault was all Levi's.

Sophie remained blissfully unaware of the fact that what she did was emotional blackmail.

Levi Garrison could do whatever the hell he wanted with the money he spent. Nobody could say anything.

"Indeed. I've already notified the family. My bodyguards are now waiting outside the airport. Those three had better be prepared!" replied Harris smugly.

Sophie looked at Harris approvingly, which also made him feel excited.

The flight to the city took approximately an hour and a half.

They landed safely in the Riverville airport.

Levi and his party got off the plane, boxes of urns in tow.

Immediately after they left the airport, they were stopped by Harris Lopez.

“Are you thinking of escaping? Don’t even think about it!” Harris had an ugly sneer on his face.

“Send them out!” commanded Harris.

A few dozen cars stopped at the sidewalk, and a few hundred brawny men rushed out of the car.

Soon, Levi and his team were surrounded.

The men were bodyguards employed by the Lopez family—capable individuals who knew how to engage in combat where necessary.

“Do you know who you’re messing with? I’m Harris Lopez, the eldest son of the Lopez family in Riverville! This is payback for what happened earlier!”

Now that Harris was safely back in his own domain, he could afford to be cockier.

He didn’t have to worry about the consequences, nor did he have to take anything else into consideration.

“Who dares provoke the young Mr. Lopez?” yelled all the bodyguards in unison. “Do you have a death wish?”

The frightened crowd scurried away frantically, not wishing to get involved in a mess like this.

Sophie had thought of something in the meantime. “Don’t be too heavy-handed.” she cautioned. “You might accidentally kill someone.”

Harris grinned and replied, “Don’t worry, I know my limits. I’m just going to break their limbs at most, just to teach them a lesson!”

“Kneel and beg! Maybe then, I’ll consider forgiving you just this once!”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1265

Harris looked at them with a smug on his face.

How dare they disrespect me?

They're asking for death!

Sophie shouted, "I'm quite merciful. Just apologize, and I'll let this matter go."

She felt conflicted.

I'm not wrong.

Levi is the one at fault!

And she couldn't help but brood over it.

Harris chimed in and jeered, "Right. Apologize, and I'll spare your lives."

"We did nothing wrong, so why should we?" Levi asked them in return.

What a joke!

They act all high and mighty because they have power?

If we're overseas, they could've been dead long ago.

But they're Erudians.

Hence, I will turn a blind eye to their rude remarks.

However, his question enraged Harris. "Are you refusing a toast only to drink a forfeit now?"

Following that, Sophie warned angrily. "I'll ask you guys for the last time. Apologize. Or else, don't blame me for not being merciful later."

From her perspective, she was giving them a chance.

If they apologized, all of this would end.

And nothing would happen.

Apologize, and they shall leave safely.

But if they don't appreciate my kindness, then there's nothing I can do.

I should just let Harris teach them a lesson.

Levi smirked. "Apologize? No way. You guys will be the ones to kneel and beg for your lives."

Hearing that, Harris was infuriated, and he yelled, "What? Us, kneeling? Dream on!"

Sophie and her classmates found it hard to believe.

They're the ones in danger now, not us.

So why should we apologize?

This infuriated Sophie completely, and flames of fury burned away the last piece of kindness she had left.

I'm not dealing with this anymore.

North Sky Lord scoffed, "You guys don't believe him?"

Harris growled, "How on earth will we believe him? You guys will be the ones to kneel for forgiveness!"

“So be it! Harris, do whatever you want. I won’t interfere.” Sophie stomped to one side, expecting to witness a fight that was about to unfold while staring at Levi angrily.

Some people are really uncultured. Maybe a few punches will teach them how to behave.

Sophie wanted to see Harris beat the crap out of Levi, while Harris’s expression became vicious. “Let’s take these idiots down. Just make sure they’re alive.”

Clang! Clang! Clang!

When hundreds of Harris’s men were preparing to attack, they could hear a loud sound.

Boom! Boom!

The ground trembled rhythmically as if an army was approaching.

The sudden movement of the land and the rhythmic loud noises petrified everyone.

Harris, Sophie, and the bodyguards of the Lopez family stopped whatever they were doing and turned around in unison to see what was coming from behind.

When they saw what was approaching, they were dumbstruck.

A huge crowd covered in black from head to toe stood behind them, filling up the open spaces.

Wearing half angel and half devil masks, they were armed with an ancient dagger as murderous intent emanated from their bodies.

They looked like they were beings from hell.

And most importantly, there were at least a thousand of them.

“Welcome to Riverville, Master.” The leader of the army shouted, followed up by the rest.

Their voices were so loud that it was earth-shattering, shocking everyone to their cores.

North Sky Lord, West Sky Lord, and others took out their masks and put them on.

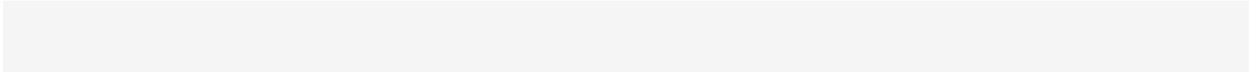

It was the same half angel and half devil mask.

Boom!

Everyone was on the verge of exploding from the overload of information.

The Calamity?

The organization that inflicted a crushing defeat to the Raysonian Bushido?

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1266

Everyone knew that the half angel and half devil mask was a symbol of The Calamity.

So they are The Calamity.

And they are actually in Erudia!

How... Just how is this possible?

This is just our luck – we've managed to offend The Calamity!

"No mercy for those who offended our Master!" Thousands of Calamity's warriors shouted in unison.

Their shouts immediately set off a terrifying aura as a murderous intent enveloped the entire space.

Thump! Thump!

One after another, the bodyguards of the Lopez family collapsed to their knees, unable to hold their ground against the overbearing pressure.

The blood-thirsty, cut-throat aura shrouded their bodies, instilling fear in their hearts, making them pale as they sweated profusely.

In just a few minutes, they were kneeling in a pool of water, formed from their sweat.

Everyone was busy trembling while looking at the figures of The Calamity's warriors in fear.

This is terrifying!

Everyone from the Calamity actually came.

They were like the underworld beings, and their arrival meant catastrophe and demolition to everyone else.

Staring at everything uncovering in front of them, Sophie and Harris were dumbfounded.

T-T-This... is...

The Calamity?

They defeated the entire world and became a nightmare for every other organization and country.

W-We actually demanded for their Master's apology.

We're dead. We're f*cking dead meat.

Our families won't be able to save us... No. No one can save us.

They were breaking out in a cold sweat, as they knew they were indeed in huge trouble.

Right then, the North Sky Lord marched toward Harris. His menacing aura lingered around his body and made him look like a giant in Harris's eyes.

Thud!

With tears streaming down his cheeks

, Harris collapsed on his knees. "I'm sorry... I-I apologize! I was wrong!"

It scared Harris to tears.

He banged his head onto the ground, again and again, begging for forgiveness, until his forehead was bleeding.

The classmates of Sophie were scared out of their wits, and they fell to their knees in fright. "We were wrong! Please... spare our lives. Please spare us."

They, too, apologized.

Finally, Sophie crashed to the ground with a thud.

At that moment, she realized her mistakes.

The more danger one felt the clearer one's mind became.

And realization dawned on her.

I was wrong.

I committed emotional blackmail toward them.

She sobbed, "I'm sorry. Please spare us! We won't do it again."

The heirs of prominent families were nothing but trash in The Calamity's presence.

Meanwhile, Levi scanned the room with a stony expression.

They were nothing but insignificant insects, and Levi wasn't the least bit interested to make a move on them.

They should be grateful I don't harm Erudians.

After a moment of silence, Levi demanded, "Get out of the way!"

The warriors of the Calamity cleared a path in between the hundreds of Lopez family's bodyguards for Levi to walk on.

Then Levi left with his men.

But Sophie, Harris, and others were too afraid to stand up.

As long as the Calamity wished to, their families would cease to exist any time.

Very quickly, the Lopez family and the Lehman family rushed to the scene.

And they inflicted a harsh beating upon Harris and the others for offending The Calamity.

At the same time, news about The Calamity appearing in the Northway City of Erudia spread like wildfire.

Panic and fear consumed everyone in Erudia because they didn't know what The Calamity was after.

Even Winsor received the news.

The Calamity's here in Erudia? Good.

Just then, Levi led his men to the Greenhills Cemetery in the Northway City.

However, when they wanted to enter, one of the staff blocked them. "Sorry, the Greenhills Cemetery is not open to those traitors' ashes. They are a disgrace!"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1267

The staff of the Greenhills Cemetery spoke in a polite tone, but his words were brutally sharp as he directly labeled Jonah and his men as traitors.

This was all arranged by the Oakland City's Garrison clan.

They used their resources and spread the news of Jonah and his men being traitors.

With that, everyone labeled those three hundred men as traitors.

Not only that but their family members were dragged into this matter too, especially the Haven's Garrison family. All of them were in deep water, being punished by Tyrone.

Tyrone didn't care about kinships. He plunged the Haven's Garrison family into hell only because Jonah escorted Levi.

As for the rest, they were punished one by one by Tyrone.

Now that he heard Jonah and his men's ashes were to be kept in Erudia, he immediately used some underhanded methods.

"Who are you calling a traitor?" Lowering his voice, Levi stared at the staff with an icy gaze.

"Ask any other person in Erudia. Everyone knows they're traitors."

"They actually risked their lives to escort that traitor, the former God of War. And they died. Serves them right!"

"A bunch of traitors died, and they wished to be buried here, in Erudia's cemetery? Dream on! It's good enough to find some unmarked burial ground and sprinkle their ashes over there."

The staff burst into laughter as they chatted on, mocking the "traitors" of Erudia.

When they notice Levi and his men were still standing at the entrance, they growled, "Scram! No cemetery in Erudia will accept these traitors."

"But I'm going into the cemetery today, and I'll build their tombstones then organize a funeral for them." Coldness flashed across Levi's eyes as he glared at them.

This time, Levi was determined.

I'll no longer be hesitant.

And I'll do whatever it takes to honor their deaths, even if it means killing my path to achieving this.

"Well, well. Who's this? So cocky, eh?" Following up the voice, hundreds of people emerged from the room.

Every single person there was incredibly strong.

There were even some God class warriors among those men.

Their leader seemed to be a young man called Miguel Garrison.

He was the heir to the Garrison family from the North of Erudia.

The North Garrison family was merely obeying Tyrone's orders, so they came to stop Levi and his men.

Miguel then announced, "Bastards, let me tell you something. You guys are prohibited from entering any cemetery in Erudia."

He took a glance at the urn in Levi's arms and commanded, "Guys, take the traitors' urns and sprinkle their ashes into the sewers. How befitting for them to be with urine and excrement."

Right after that, Miguel's men were prepared to snatch the urns from Levi and his men.

Thud! Thud! Thud!

However, before they could do anything, they could hear the sound of a uniformed pace.

Boom!

Strong gusts of wind blew at them, hurling the leaves on the ground into the air as a deadly aura surrounded them.

In just a split second, a huge crowd appeared before them in black clothing, with half angel and half devil masks covering their faces. They were also holding ancient daggers in their hands.

The Calamity!

The fighters of the North Garrison family froze on the spot when they felt the weight of a mountain crashing on them.

Looking at thousands of men appearing before him, Miguel swallowed hard.

At that moment, his phone rang, and he received the call.

Before he could speak, a voice filled with worry could be heard on the phone. "Mick, The Calamity is in the Northway City of Erudia. Be careful and don't offend them. Even the Oakland City's Garrison clan couldn't withstand their strength, let alone us, the North Garrison family. They are easily recognizable. The members wear half angel and half devil masks..."

Plod!

Having heard that, Miguel dropped his phone.

"Mick... Mick? What's going on? Why aren't you saying anything?"

The person on the line proceeded to yell his name.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1268

The North Garrison family would never expect Miguel to meet The Calamity.

Miguel looked at the dark crowd in front of him and was dumbstruck.

Everyone knew The Calamity, and the fact that they were undefeatable became the talk of the town.

It soon became a hell-like existence to the people, instilling fear deep in their hearts.

Horror overwhelmed them once people heard their name.

Miguel was from an upper-class society, so he knew very well how terrifying The Calamity was.

And he had never felt so threatened before meeting The Calamity.

Clink! Clink! Clink!

Thousands of men of The Calamity unsheathed their ancient daggers, and the daggers were so sharp that they reflected the deaths of their enemies.

Soon after that, they chorused, "Kill! Kill! Kill!"

Everything about The Calamity sent fear to those looking at them, from their low war cry to their undefeatable suppressing aura and then their cold murderous intent.

Suddenly, some warm liquid trickled down Miguel's pants, making them wet. It was then followed by the pungent smell of piss.

He had pissed his pants out of fear!

But others weren't any better off either.

Even the God class warriors were shaking in an odd trembling rhythm.

Boom!

Suddenly, the North Sky Lord charged onto them like a beast on the loose.

"Argh..." Hundreds of powerful warriors were sent flying out one by one from the impact.

Even those powerful warriors of the North Garrison family couldn't withstand his single blow.

"Please don't kill me!" Miguel fell to his knees, witnessing the massacre in front of him.

Bam!

“Argh!” He let out a horrendous scream.

Bam!

“Argh!” Once again, he yelled out in agony.

North Sky Lord stepped on Miguel’s knees, and the latter’s bones were crushed as he sprawled on the ground, lifeless.

Bam!

Levi held the urn as he stepped over his body.

Bam!

And another followed.

Bam!

The sound of bones crushing ensued until all of Levi’s men walked to the other side.

By then, the gates of Greenhills Cemetery were wide open, simply letting Levi and his men enter.

No one dared to block their paths any longer.

Everyone was, in fact, kneeling and clearing out a path for Levi to enter.

After they entered Greenhills Cemetery, the tombstones arrived one by one quickly.

Levi carved the names of the three hundred and fifty-seven men on the tombstones, one by one, using his dagger.

I’ll remember each and every one of you.

After he finished, he held a grand funeral for his fallen comrades.

“Brothers, may you rest in peace.” Levi splashed a bowl of alcohol on the tombstones, paying his respect.

The men standing behind him did the same.

After resolving this matter, Levi decided that he wouldn't leave Erudia ever again.

“When I was in deep waters, many came and looked for trouble. But I'm a man who takes an eye for an eye. I'm back, Erudia!” He said as his eyes glinted with malice.

In the meantime, the citizens of Erudia were spreading the news about The Calamity arriving in Erudia.

The prominent families and influential forces were consumed by panic and fear. They were worried that The Calamity would come to look for them as they didn't know why The Calamity came to Erudia.

As for Tyrone, he was bewildered when he learned that the North Garrison family had allowed Jonah and his men's ashes to be buried in the Northway City.

Even if he asked for an answer, there was no reply.

Olivia's condition didn't seem to improve, as she was still mentally unstable and seemed to see ghosts all the time.

But the exorcists said Olivia wasn't possessed, so maybe she was traumatized.

On the other side, something bad happened to the Great Family of Frostford.

Someone from the Great Family of Frostford died in the commoner's society, and they were investigating this matter.

His thoughts were in a muddle, as he couldn't think of a clue to solve the series of problems in one go.

Not to mention, The Calamity is in Erudia, and we, the Garrison family, are currently the most powerful ancient family.

We are at risk here.

Tyrone couldn't sleep well with these worries and problems bugging him.

Although everyone feared The Calamity, there was one person who was extremely excited.

It was Winsor Campbell.

He was a genius in martial arts, as he used the shortest time to learn every battle technique from Sampson. Thus, he was full of confidence.

"Find out where The Calamity is. I want to challenge them." Winsor was so impatient to prove his worth.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1269

Later that day, The Calamity had received Winsor's challenge, and the battle would be held three days later.

However, Winsor pretended that he only had the intention to pick up some martial art skills during the challenge.

When West Sky Lord received the news, she immediately informed Levi. "Master, should we accept his challenge?"

"Of course. Why not? North, you'll be the one to fight him that day." Levi gladly accepted the challenge and took a glance at North Sky Lord.

"Yes, Master." Although North Sky Lord was confused, he still obeyed Levi's command.

The rest of the members were exchanging glances, one amongst another. Master could prove his power by defeating Winsor personally.

So why did Master request for North to fight Winsor?

The day of the battle finally arrived.

Although only Winsor alone was challenging The Calamity, it still caused an uproar within Erudia, and many went to see his fight.

Over thousands of people showed up in North Hampton to spectate the fight.

And the entire world's attention was on their battle.

After all, everyone was interested in witnessing the outcome of the epic fight between Winsor Campbell and The Calamity.

What if The Calamity won this fight?

After all, no one would be able to subdue them.

But if Winsor were to emerge victorious, everyone would know that was stronger than Levi.

Levi could defeat the whole Blood King Palace, but Winsor Campbell could take down The Calamity, which was even stronger than the Blood King Palace.

Everyone could tell the strong from the weak in a glance!

Hence, this was an important fight to Winsor, and he would have to win, no matter what.

Not only was it to prove himself, but it was also to uphold the honor of Erudia.

The citizens of Erudia, too, wished for Winsor's victory to show the world the greatness of Erudia.

However, the countries and forces overseas wished for The Calamity's victory because they liked to see Erudia's downfall.

The thought of Erudia suffering a crushing defeat made them excited because Erudia had been suppressing them for too long.

Hence, they wanted to take this opportunity to get back at them.

If Winsor lost, they would be able to create a huge ruckus out of it and rub salt to Erudia's injury.

Even so, Winsor didn't think of this when he challenged The Calamity using his own name. Nonetheless, he was still a citizen of Erudia, so he represented his country.

This battle was held in a combat club in North Hampton.

A few of The Calamity members were there.

All of them wore half angel and half devil masks.

Even Levi wore the mask because he couldn't show his face to the public.

Sitting beside Levi, North Sky Lord scoffed, "Master, this Winsor wishes to challenge The Calamity?"

What a joke!

Levi defeated his master and seniors who were stronger than him, and that included Demon Blade of the ultimate class.

To The Calamity, Winsor Campbell was nothing.

And because of that, North Sky Lord was reluctant to face an opponent this weak as he was nowhere near his level.

"Fight him once and for all. We should accept this challenge." Levi urged.

After that, he leaned in and whispered in the North Sky Lord's ears.

Hearing his words, the North Sky Lord was surprised, but he nodded and promised his Master.

After a while, Winsor Campbell arrived at the battle arena with Zar and two other disciples, but they only wore normal clothing.

On this day, everyone was dressed as commoners.

Meanwhile, thousands of citizens were there, spectating the fight and cheering for Winsor.

After all, everyone was worried The Calamity would go on a rampage in Erudia.

So if Winsor defeated The Calamity, everyone would be relieved because Winsor could defend Erudia from The Calamity's domination.

Receiving the cheers and encouragements from the people, Winsor couldn't help but feel excited.

I must not lose this fight!

Winsor then asked The Calamity, "Where's your Master?"

Levi announced, "Today, North Sky Lord will be your opponent."

Winsor replied, "Alright. I heard North Sky Lord is the strongest person in The Calamity. I shall be his opponent."

The epic fight between Winsor Campbell and North Sky Lord was going to break out anytime.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1270

There was a big fighting ring in the middle of the combat club, and both parties were ready in stance.

Boom!

The first to attack was Winsor Campbell.

He had superb control over his movements, and his fists were swift and strong.

That was also the case for North Sky Lord.

The impact from their clashes was shocking for everyone, and the crowd roared in excitement.

When their fists met, the impact was so enormous that the specially-prepared fighting ring blew apart.

At that moment, Winsor had made use of all of the battle techniques he learned previously.

However, after blocking and attacking for some time, his expression changed.

Just how strong is this guy?

He is on par with me.

But little did he know that North Sky Lord was giving him chances deliberately.

This made North Sky Lord feel frustrated because he couldn't give it his all while fighting against his opponent.

When they clashed, he knew Winsor Campbell wouldn't stand a chance against him, let alone fighting against Levi.

Why do I have to put up with him? I could've ended this match long ago.

But Master told me to hold back.

Before the fight, Levi instructed him to fight well, but he had to let Winsor win in the end.

And he asked me to do my best in acting... But why do we have to lose on purpose?

Maybe Master wants to protect Erudia's image.

Winsor wasn't an ordinary person without status and power, so everything he did would affect Erudia's reputation, especially if he lost this fight.

The countries overseas would start to act as soon as they witnessed Erudia's defeat.

It wasn't a matter of Winsor's safety; it was a matter of Erudia's future and reputation.

Winsor's loss would be a tremendous blow to Erudia.

The invincible status and reputation of Erudia, which were forged using the blood, sweat, and tears of countless people, would be tarnished if Winsor failed in this challenge.

Erudia would fall, and following that, no countries would respect the Erudians anymore.

The results would be so bad that it was unimaginable.

In short, Winsor was way too reckless in launching this challenge. He only had martial arts as his assets and didn't step back to look at the big picture. Alas, he had succumbed to his impatience and desire to prove himself.

However, Levi didn't want Erudia's downfall to be caused by some minor challenge such as this, so he made The Calamity lose the fight to protect the image and reputation of Erudia.

Even if it was all an act, Winsor must win!

Of course, The Calamity belonged to Erudia, so there was no need to care about their image that much.

The battle grew more intense as Winsor unleashed his skills, and his attacks got faster and faster.

North Sky Lord felt his stamina running out... And Bam! He was sent flying out of the ring.

After struggling with all his might, he sprawled on the ground, not moving a muscle.

This signaled the end of the battle with The Calamity

's defeat.

Levi smiled wryly, witnessing the outcome.

I really gave North a hard time asking him to act.

But color me impressed. There wasn't any flaw in his performance.

"Master, we won! We actually won!"

"Our Master is the strongest man in Erudia!"

"He is the only one who is qualified to be called the God of War."

Zar, Bolgun, and Talon ran onto the stage happily and cheered for their master.

This honor belongs to us!

Thud!

All three of them kneeled in front of Winsor and yelled in unison,

"Long live, the invincible Asura! Long live Erudia!"

At the same time, the spectators were on their feet while cheering on loudly.

Defeating The Calamity was such a glorious matter.

Other countries couldn't stand against The Calamity, but Winsor took the invincible North Sky Lord down, alone, announcing his dominance over The Calamity.

Winsor howled out, celebrating his victory. "Levi Garrison, you can't do anything to me! I'm stronger than you. To anyone who doesn't acknowledge me, come at me!"

The Protector Chapter 1271 to 1276

Everything was going according to Jeong-seok's plan.

He had wanted to force Zoey to talk to him personally from the very start.

Clearly, his plans had worked.

Tyrone was taken aback by Triple Group's efficiency once again. He had also imposed sanctions upon Morris Group before, but with much less satisfactory results.

The more cruel, the better.

Obviously, Triple Group is willing to be much crueler than the Garrison family had been.

This is what it meant to be truly ruthless!

Tyrone was full of respect toward their cruelty.

He realized how much he still had to learn.

The place of discussion would be held at Morris Group's council room.

Jeong-seok's entrance remained as flashy as ever.

Over twenty cars marked his arrival along with a private jet.

All of the bodyguards he brought with him were Ultimate and God class warriors.

There were more warriors next to Jeong-seok than there were on the average battlefield.

All that proved was how powerful the Lee family truly was.

They could accomplish things even the Eighteen-Nation Alliance couldn't.

The moment Jeong-seok and his party arrived, members of Morris Group were taken aback.

We're actually going against someone this intimidating?

Zoey and some others were already waiting for him in the large conference room.

Their demands were simple, which was to work and live peacefully.

They already had little to no expectations.

No matter what ridiculous conditions Triple Group forced on them, they could only accept it.

Once he stepped into the conference room, Jeong-seok took one look at Zoey and sighed.

"As expected, what a national beauty. Such a pity indeed!"

If she hadn't gotten married and didn't already have a kid, Jeong-seok would have had a go at her himself.

After the two of them sat down, Zoey didn't hesitate to ask, "Mr. Lee, we've never messed with Triple Group before, have we? So why are you doing this to us?"

Jeong-seok was toying with an intricate dagger as he replied, "Because of Levi Garrison."

"What?" Zoey said in surprise.

She hadn't expected Jeong-seok to come right out of the gate like that.

"That's right! Two years ago, Levi chased Triple Group out of Erudia. Now, we're back for revenge. Everything we've done so far was for revenge!" Jeong-seok announced.

Instantly, the atmosphere started to change.

Many Morris Group's council members who had risen to position a little later on started to glare at Zoey.

They all felt that the hundreds of thousands of workers in Morris Group had been dragged along for no good reason.

At the end of the day, it was all because of Zoey's personal business.

We're all about to die because of her!

Zoey could feel how the situation was starting to take a turn for the worse.

Jeong-seok chuckled coldly and said, "What, isn't Levi here? Is he just going to let me trample over his company and his people like this?"

His subordinate instantly replied, "Mr. Lee, Levi Garrison is already dead."

"Oh? Is that so? What brilliant news!" Jeong-seok laughed, elated by the news.

Zoey clenched her fists tightly and replied in a cold voice, "If my husband was here, none of you would have even dared to step into this building!"

Zoey's words struck the Triple Group members' nerves instantly.

They started chattering in anger.

"Bullsh*t! Even if he were here, he wouldn't have managed to stop us!"

"Who does he think he is? He can't even hold a candle to the Lee family of Keerea!"

Even Jeong-seok chuckled. "Ah, it's too bad that he's dead, then. I'd love for him to come here and beat me up if he could!"

"Just wait. It will happen one day!" Zoey nearly said too much in her fit of rage.

"I'm looking forward to it! If you can resurrect the dead, of course!"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1274

Jeong-seok's eyes gleamed with a bloodthirsty look.

His perfect, chiseled face had become twisted in hatred and anger.

There were two reasons why Triple Group had returned to Erudia. One was for profit and the other was to get revenge.

"Mr. Garrison, I'm sure you have no objection with that, right?" Jeong-seok turned to look at Tyrone.

"Of course not! Everyone knows that I've never accepted that bastard into my family, much less bother about him. I just haven't been able to do anything to his direct family members because of my reputation, but rest assured, I don't hate him any less than you all do. In fact, I hope you target his wife or daughter!" Tyrone chuckled loudly.

The Garrison family had sworn against showing any kindness toward Levi.

After all, he had nearly gotten rid of their entire bloodline.

He had greatly humiliated them.

More than anyone, he deserved to die.

"Good, that's all I needed to hear from you. I promise to make his wife and daughter wish they'd never been born," Jeong-seok said with a wicked smile.

"No! No... No-"

All of a sudden, Olivia barged in and started mumbling haphazardly.

Tyrone was taken aback.

The reason being Olivia had only ever repeated the words "ghost" over and over and never anything else. What happened? Why is she suddenly saying "no?"

"What the hell is this? Where did this psycho come from?" Jeong-seok asked, clearly irritated.

Tyrone didn't even have the chance to think about anything else before calling for people to take her away.

Unbeknownst to him, if he had given Olivia the chance to repeat herself a couple more times, Tyrone would have noticed that something was up.

Tyrone hastily explained her situation. Afterward, Jeong-seok continued going through his plan.

"I heard Levi's mother is dreadfully old, but I could always send her off to the slums in the West. The sickos there don't even leave animals untouched!" Jeong-seok started laughing maniacally.

Tyrone, however, was rather ruffled by that. After all, that was Emma Jones he was talking about.

Nonetheless, he quickly replaced his shock with icy cold indifference. I have to be merciless if I want to succeed!

"Okay, we'll do as you say!"

Jeong-seok continued to chuckle. "As for Zoey, she's an even better delicacy! If she didn't have a child, I'd have loved to have a taste of her. But, as the situation stands now, I know a seventy-year-old pervert in the West who just married his twenty-ninth wife. We can sell Zoey off to him! They'd be a perfect match."

"Good idea! There's nothing more satisfying than the idea of selling Levi's wife off to an old geezer on his deathbed," Tyrone bellowed in approval before asking, "What about his kid?"

Jeong-seok's grin became even wider. "That's even easier! Do you know how many pedophiles are out there nowadays? Besides, Levi's daughter is a definite beauty. Once she grows older, she'll be the talk of the town! A sweet little girl like her will probably have those old perverts panting and forking out money by the millions. In fact, I'll host an auction just to sell off Levi's daughter! Whoever bid the highest shall become the owner of Levi's daughter!"

Tyrone howled with laughter at the thought of perverted old men scrambling to own Levi's daughter.

"As for Iris, Abigail, Mia, and Tiffany... I'll make them into slaves! I'll make sure they get well and truly screwed over to the point they'll start to yearn for death."

"As expected of the Lee family's young master!" Tyrone couldn't help but praise.

The Daelee Group had almost exactly the same ideas he had.

Jeong-seok chuckled. "Levi, this is the consequence of you messing with the Triple Group. We have more ideas up our sleeves than you can even think of."

If Levi weren't injured or crippled, he would have been the one standing at the top.

Zoey had always been proud of Levi.

Sadly, Levi was now a crippled man. If he weren't, Winsor would have been no match for him.

She knew that he had been framed, but no one wanted to believe it.

Besides, they all thought he was dead, anyway.

All she could do was watch as Winsor gloated to everyone and anyone.

After Winsor defeated The Calamity, people started treating him like a God.

They saw him as a God who descended from the heavens, ready to save the people from earthly troubles.

They bowed to Winsor and never mentioned Levi again.

If they dared to bring Levi's name up, they would be labeled as blasphemous.

For his part, Levi still thought the same way. He was willing to withstand this humiliation for Erudia's sake.

As for Zoey, she had put all her attention into keeping Morris Group running smoothly even though the Lopez and Black families didn't give her any pressure.

She was mostly worried that people would start trying to get them in trouble.

She was more than aware of the fact that Levi's enemies would start coming for the company once the news of him getting injured got out.

The Triple Group, for example, had made a reappearance in Erudia.

Back then, it was Levi who had chased them out.

Now that Levi was gone, they grabbed the opportunity to make a comeback.

After all, it wasn't possible for them to let go of such a promising market like Erudia.

Apparently, the main perpetrator of Triple Group's reemergence in Erudia was Lee Jeong-seok of Daelee Group.

Daelee Group held an almost legendary presence in Keerea.

Most of the other young masters only held that title for the sake of it, but in Daelee Group, that title symbolized power.

Lee Jeong-seok was the representation of being rich and powerful.

In order to take over Erudia's market again, Triple Group had sent him to take the lead, which showed just how serious they were in taking this venture.

Triple Group managed to set down its roots through connections and their vast amount of funding.

There was even talk of them collaborating with the Garrison clan.

Iris and the other council members immediately called for a meeting. "Triple Group will most likely come for us next. We have to be prepared!"

Zoey was beginning to worry as well.

Even though Morris Group had control over a vast part of the South, they were still no match for Triple Group.

At the end of the day, Triple Group beat the Garrison clan in terms of both money and power.

No matter how much the Garrison clan worked to expand, they were still just a family business.

However, Triple Group was an internationally powerful company.

If it weren't for Levi, Triple Group would never have stepped down.

Now that Levi collapsed, they immediately leaped back out of the shadows, ready to take control once more.

After all, everyone knew how shameless Triple Group was.

This was basically how they do things normally.

"All we can do is stay prepared and be alert."

On the other side of town, Tyrone was greeting his guests with the utmost solemnity.

His guest arrived in a procession of Rolls-Royce's and their bodyguards were all Caucasian.

Every move he made was in an ostentatious manner, similar to how Damien presented himself when he was alive.

Still, the Garrison family knew that he was a much greater deal than Damien ever was.

His bodyguards consisted of quite a few Ultimate class warriors, after all.

In Bayview, only Lee Jeong-seok had the abilities and capabilities to have God class and Ultimate class warriors as part of his bodyguard lineup.

The Daelee Group was simply that rich.

Anything and anyone could be bought with enough money, and Ultimate class warriors were no exception.

The purpose Lee Jeong-seok was here that day was to talk about a collaboration with Tyrone and the rest of the Garrison family.

"Two years ago, Levi chased Triple Group out of Erudia and forbade us from ever stepping foot in it again. But now that he's gone, we've returned and we're back with a vengeance. None of Levi's family members will be safe."

"Alright, come on then! I'll beat you again so that you'll accept your defeat without complaints."

Winsor decided to defeat his opponent twice so that he would finally admit it.

"There's no need for that. We admit our defeat. We're simply not as good as you."

It wasn't until Levi spoke that North Sky Lord dropped the matter.

Winsor looked at him with a cold smile. "Good that you're aware. Next time you see me, remember to walk the other way. I never want to hear about The Calamity causing trouble in Erudia ever again!"

With that, Winsor finally left with thousands of people clamoring to follow him.

North Sky Lord was furious.

This was definitely one of the most humiliating things that had ever happened to him.

I could have won!

But I was forced to lose!

However, he held back for Erudia.

He didn't know much, but he was still part of Erudia, after all.

"Master, when can I beat that little punk into a pulp?" North Sky Lord asked.

"It will probably be a while, but don't you worry. It won't be too far off," Levi said in a cold voice.

He still had to keep playing this role for the time being.

It simply wasn't time to reveal everything just yet. As such, The Calamity could only work in the shadows.

That being said, North Sky Lord believed that things would go back to normal one day.

When that happened, he would beat Winsor Campbell to a pulp.

“Master, where are we going next?” Zar couldn’t help but ask.

“Since we’re already in North Hampton, let’s go take a look at Levi’s kid,” Winsor smirked sinisterly.

Zoey and the others had already heard about the news regarding Winsor.

The news of him beating The Calamity had spread across the world.

He was now regarded as the true king.

And no one would dare challenge Winsor now.

Zoey and Emma had just been talking about how Levi owned that title when suddenly, Winsor arrived at their doorstep.

“What are you doing here?” Zoey asked as she looked at him warily.

“I’m here to take a look at your child with Levi,” Winsor said with a smile.

“Why do you want to look at our kid for?” Zoey was getting nervous.

After all, Zar had personally chased Levi out of Erudia.

As such, her instincts were screaming that Winsor was not to be trusted.

“Don’t worry. I just want to take a quick peek. Besides, I have no reason to do anything to you all. After all, none of you are worth the hassle. Even if Levi were still alive, he wouldn’t be worth it either.”

Zar and the others chuckled. “Levi never had a chance against Master. Their capabilities are just too far apart.”

“Don’t you dare speak ill of Daddy!”

Forlevia ran over the moment she heard those words and glared at them as fiercely as her cute little face would allow.

She was holding onto a toy gun that she held pointed toward Winsor and the others.

Her little face was filled with stubbornness and her eyes shone with determination.

Winsor chuckled at the sight. “Would you look at that! I guess the apple doesn’t fall far from the tree! You definitely take after your father. Too bad, though, since you’re a girl. If you were a boy, Zoey could have sent you to learn martial arts so you could grow up and maybe have a chance at beating me!”

Winsor roared with laughter.

His shrill chuckle was beginning to grate on Zoey’s ears.

She picked Forlevia up and looked at Winsor coldly. “Don’t worry. She may be a girl, but who’s to say she won’t be able to rule over the battleground in the future? You’d better keep praying that you’re able to hold on to your position. Who knows? Perhaps my daughter might come and take it away from you someday.”

Winsor bellowed with laughter. “Okay, sure! I’ll be waiting! However, I hope you all know that everyone already obeys me. Levi is now a thing of the past. This is now my era! The era of Winsor Campbell!”

After that, Winsor left.

Zoey felt like exploding in anger.

Back then, Winsor had defeated Levi, but people ignored his accomplishments.

So he wished to fight against Levi once again, showing the world he could defeat Levi every time.

I'm stronger than Levi Garrison!

However, he got the opportunity to challenge The Calamity instead.

After all, people perceived The Calamity as invincible, and they were practically unstoppable.

If I can defeat them... This accomplishment holds incredible merit. I can prove that I'm stronger than Levi and be the God of War.

"Trolls, I dare you to insult me. As for those who looked down on me, take a good look. I defeated North Sky Lord of The Calamity. Does anyone still think that I'm weaker than Levi Garrison? Come out, now!" Winsor shouted at the rest of the world with no concerns.

He had been suppressing his emotions for too long, and he finally got the chance to vent his frustrations out loud for everyone to hear.

Witnessing the outcome of the battle, those who once looked down on Winsor and supported Levi fell silent as they regretted their actions.

From now on, no one dares to look down on me!

The accomplishment of taking down The Calamity holds incredible merits, and I am the one who earns this glory.

The power he showed convinced everyone, and they acknowledged him as the God of War.

"From now on, Winsor Campbell is the only God of War in my heart!"

With that, Winsor Campbell got the title "God of War" and made a status for himself in Erudia.

He defeated The Calamity, showing the world the greatness of Erudia while solidifying Erudia's position in the world.

The Calamity that was once invincible was defeated in Erudia.

This was the symbol of Erudia's strength.

And Levi's intention all along.

I don't care if I don't have the title of the God of War. I only wish for the prosperity of Erudia.

I'll eliminate any threat of Erudia until the day I die, so the Erudians will not be humiliated by other countries.

Even if it means shouldering all the pain and sufferings.

Looking at Winsor Campbell's arrogant behavior, North Sky Lord, East Sky Lord, and the rest of The Calamity clenched their fists, their fingernails digging into their palms.

Ugh!

This is absurd!

North Sky Lord could've crushed him.

Yet, only one could understand their frustration.

And that was Levi.

He, too, wanted to defeat Winsor for his self-satisfaction, but Erudia's reputation was at stake.

For Erudia, I'm willing to bear any humiliation.

Winsor Campbell won.

The forces overseas were dumbstruck, as they couldn't believe it.

According to their speculations, North Sky Lord was much stronger than Winsor Campbell. Hence, they felt that something was amiss that Winsor actually won.

It was way too unexpected.

They had many headlines on standby, waiting for North Sky Lord's victory so that they could spread the news and mock Erudia for its downfall.

But their plan short circuited.

Instead, Erudia had shown the world once again its greatness and indestructible power.

Once again, Erudia's enemies were infuriated because they couldn't do anything to Erudia.

That was exactly what Levi wanted to achieve.

Meanwhile, Winsor was giddy with delight.

Looking at the members of The Calamity with disdain, he snorted coldly, "A bunch of bumpkins!"

I can bring down each and every single one of them!

How spectacular would it be if they clash against Master or the Great Family of Frostford? They would definitely lose miserably.

"Hear my words, The Calamity. I allow you guys to move around in Erudia. But I can wipe you out in minutes, so don't try something out of line." Winsor warned.

North Sky Lord was enraged when he heard his words. "Does your strength measure up to your arrogance?"

Winsor turned to look at him and scoffed. "Hmph! What a sore loser! Do you have a problem with that? Fight me again, and we'll see who's the winner!"

"Bring it on!" North Sky Lord shouted, not giving in to his opponent.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1276

Everything was going according to Jeong-seok's plan.

He had wanted to force Zoey to talk to him personally from the very start.

Clearly, his plans had worked.

Tyrone was taken aback by Triple Group's efficiency once again. He had also imposed sanctions upon Morris Group before, but with much less satisfactory results.

The more cruel, the better.

Obviously, Triple Group is willing to be much crueler than the Garrison family had been.

This is what it meant to be truly ruthless!

Tyrone was full of respect toward their cruelty.

He realized how much he still had to learn.

The place of discussion would be held at Morris Group's council room.

Jeong-seok's entrance remained as flashy as ever.

Over twenty cars marked his arrival along with a private jet.

All of the bodyguards he brought with him were Ultimate and God class warriors.

There were more warriors next to Jeong-seok than there were on the average battlefield.

All that proved was how powerful the Lee family truly was.

They could accomplish things even the Eighteen-Nation Alliance couldn't.

The moment Jeong-seok and his party arrived, members of Morris Group were taken aback.

We're actually going against someone this intimidating?

Zoey and some others were already waiting for him in the large conference room.

Their demands were simple, which was to work and live peacefully.

They already had little to no expectations.

No matter what ridiculous conditions Triple Group forced on them, they could only accept it.

Once he stepped into the conference room, Jeong-seok took one look at Zoey and sighed.
"As expected, what a national beauty. Such a pity indeed!"

If she hadn't gotten married and didn't already have a kid, Jeong-seok would have had a go at her himself.

After the two of them sat down, Zoey didn't hesitate to ask, "Mr. Lee, we've never messed with Triple Group before, have we? So why are you doing this to us?"

Jeong-seok was toying with an intricate dagger as he replied, "Because of Levi Garrison."

"What?" Zoey said in surprise.

She hadn't expected Jeong-seok to come right out of the gate like that.

"That's right! Two years ago, Levi chased Triple Group out of Erudia. Now, we're back for revenge. Everything we've done so far was for revenge!" Jeong-seok announced.

Instantly, the atmosphere started to change.

Many Morris Group's council members who had risen to position a little later on started to glare at Zoey.

They all felt that the hundreds of thousands of workers in Morris Group had been dragged along for no good reason.

At the end of the day, it was all because of Zoey's personal business.

We're all about to die because of her!

Zoey could feel how the situation was starting to take a turn for the worse.

Jeong-seok chuckled coldly and said, "What, isn't Levi here? Is he just going to let me trample over his company and his people like this?"

His subordinate instantly replied, "Mr. Lee, Levi Garrison is already dead."

"Oh? Is that so? What brilliant news!" Jeong-seok laughed, elated by the news.

Zoey clenched her fists tightly and replied in a cold voice, "If my husband was here, none of you would have even dared to step into this building!"

Zoey's words struck the Triple Group members' nerves instantly.

They started chattering in anger.

"Bullsh*t! Even if he were here, he wouldn't have managed to stop us!"

"Who does he think he is? He can't even hold a candle to the Lee family of Keerea!"

Even Jeong-seok chuckled. "Ah, it's too bad that he's dead, then. I'd love for him to come here and beat me up if he could!"

"Just wait. It will happen one day!" Zoey nearly said too much in her fit of rage.

"I'm looking forward to it! If you can resurrect the dead, of course!"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1277

Jeong-seok was too cocky for his own good.

It was as if there was a giant bulls-eye on his face, just waiting for someone to shoot a bullet through it.

The Lee family is nothing but despicable!

Zoey and Iris could only stare in disgust.

Why didn't they come when Levi was still crowned as the God of War?

They were obviously scared!

They were only able to be this cocky because Levi's no longer here.

Jeong-seok continued chuckling. "Well, he hasn't shown up after all this while. I guess he must be fuming in hell, huh?"

The crowd burst into laughter.

"Since you're here, let's have a chat. What will it take for you to let Morris Group off?" Zoey asked directly.

The council members of Morris Group started to get nervous.

It was time to decide their fate.

Jeong-seok looked at Zoey. "It's simple, hand over your position as chairman."

That one sentence struck them like a bolt of lightning, leaving them speechless.

They hadn't expected for Jeong-seok to be this daring.

"So, you want Ms. Lopez to step down so you can gobble the company up? No way!" Iris said defiantly.

Jeong-seok shook his head. "No, you got me wrong. I don't care about Morris Group. I just want Zoey to step down. Whoever wants to be chairman next can take it."

The council members of the Morris Group sighed in relief upon hearing that.

Jeong-seok stared at Zoey with a chilly grin on his face. "Are you willing to sacrifice yourself for your staff?"

Some of the council members started to speak up, "Ms. Lopez, we don't like this outcome too, but you have to think about the greater good!"

"Don't worry, Ms. Lopez, we'll take good care of the company!"

They were basically trying to chase Zoey off as soon as possible so that they would be free of this mess.

Zoey glanced at the crowd and hesitated before saying, "Okay, I'll step down as long as you agree to stop attacking Morris Group."

"Of course! In fact, I'm willing to sign a contract so that you can freely expose me if I ever go against my word," Jeong-seok said with a chuckle.

What he said was the truth, he was not interested in Morris Group.

After all, he had already achieved his goal of obtaining Erudia's market.

Now, all that was left to do was to torture Zoey and the others.

"Alright, I'll sign it!"

Zoey signed the contract without any hesitation and stepped down from her position as chairman and everything else concerned with it.

She would no longer be associated with Morris Group from then on.

“You, you, and you!” Jeong-seok pointed at Iris, Elena, and some other council members.

He wanted to get rid of their positions as well.

He had to be merciless and ruthless so that he could cut off any likelihood of retaliation.

That was just how Triple Group operates.

“Are you happy now? We’ve done everything you asked us to!” Zoey asked.

Jeong-seok thought for a moment and piped up, “One more thing! Levi probably named this company “Morris Group” after his best friend, right? Well, I want to change the name!”

“No!” Zoey declined instantly.

Iris and the others shook their heads as well.

This wasn’t just Levi’s hard work, it was theirs, too.

They would never agree to change the name just like that.

Jeong-seok glared at them and said, “It’s not your place to say ‘no’. All of you no longer have anything to do with Morris Group! Also, all of you should leave since you don’t belong here anymore.”

With that, Zoey and the other few ex-council members were chased out.

They stared at the office building, their gaze full of despair.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1278

For the sake of the hundreds of thousands of employees working at Morris Group, Zoey knew she had to rest her case.

She could take on Triple Group.

She knew she still had it in her.

However, it would cost tens of thousands of people to lose their jobs. Some of them might lose their families as a result, while a few might even sacrifice their lives.

“What a bully. If only Levi was still alive!” Iris lamented.

Zoey shot her a look fraught with emotion.

Levi's still alive.

But just barely.

He'll be bedridden for the rest of his life.

If he finds out about this, he'll just fuss and worry.

He might even shed tears of frustration.

Angry that he'll only be able to watch, and powerless to help in any way.

That feeling of helplessness could very well send him over the edge!

I can't let him know.

What's the point if he finds out? More cooks will only spoil the broth.

Although Jeong-seok promised to let Morris Group off and to abstain from subsuming the company, he continuously forced Morris Group to conduct business in accordance with his own development plans.

He manipulated the company like another one of his toys.

Jeong-seok even sent out an announcement declaring that Morris Group was to be renamed Castle Group.

Zoey and the rest were outraged at the news.

We've been cheated!

How shameless can he get?

Despicable!

He promised to set Morris Group free. He even signed a letter of promise.

How could he do such a thing...

He basically stamped his mark of ownership by renaming the company.

What a vile person!

This is the true colors of Triple Group, after all!

Abiding by ethics is against their nature.

That very same day, Morris Group held a press conference to officially announce the name change. Lee Hong-yi was appointed as the chairman.

Lee Hong-yi was a Keerean who used to work as a technician for Morris Group.

Now, he had rocketed through the ranks to sit on the company's throne.

This could only be Jeong-seok's doing.

Instead of personally interfering with Morris Group, he installed a conduit.

Now, he had the chairman under his thumb.

The company was as good as his.

Despite her rage, there was nothing the likes of Zoey could do.

The only silver lining was that the company still existed and none of the employees had to lose their jobs.

However, this was only the beginning.

This was only the tip of the iceberg of Jeong-seok's scheme.

Abigail and Tiffany had been kidnapped under mysterious circumstances at Oakland City. The Meyers family was boiling with anger and incredulity, but all they could do was watch.

Not only that, Levi's classmate, Chloe, had also been snatched.

So was Mia from the South Hampton Jones family.

The Jones family did not even dare to look for her.

Apparently, they had been issued a warning.

When Abigail, Tiffany, and the rest awoke, they found themselves locked up in a makeshift cell.

In front of them stood a tall man with breathtaking features. His lip curled into a devilish smirk.

Jeong-seok was the one who had gathered them.

“After extensive investigation, I have concluded that, besides Zoey Lopez, you are the women closest to Levi Garrison.”

“If someone were to come after you, Levi is sure to come to your aid.” Jeong-seok laughed menacingly.

“What do you plan to do?” Tiffany sneered.

“From today onwards, you will become my slaves. As long as you bear the mark of the slave, none of you will be able to escape!”

Just as Iris was about to release her wrath, Jeong-seok continued, “Zoey and the rest will not be spared, either!”

“Emma Jones will be sold to the slums of a foreign country and she’ll be shared by a bunch of hooligans! As for Zoey Lopez, I’ll marry her off to some sleazy old man. Finally, Levi’s daughter will be auctioned off to some pervert!”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War

[The Protector] Chapter 1279

Jeong-seok had prepared a horrible outcome for every woman closely affiliated with Levi.

The thought of his plan playing out brought a smile to Jeong-seok's face.

"Despicable!"

"Where was this courage of yours when my brother-in-law was still around?" Abigail shrieked furiously.

"Exactly! You're nothing but a conniving rat! You'll never amount to anything!"

"No wonder Triple Group is such a scummy company! You're only capable of such deeds! How pathetic!" the women taunted, their voices banding together.

Little did they know that their attempt to aggravate Jeong-seok was futile.

In fact, it made Jeong-seok grin even wider.

"What's the point of you saying all these? Sure, I'm a conniving rat. So what? Too bad Levi's dead. I have his wife, daughter, and mother in my clutches. How is he going to retaliate?" Jeong-seok mocked.

"You..."

The women were stunned speechless.

What could they do in the face of such blatant brazenness?

“My brother-in-law might not be around, but karma will still get you!”

Abigail shot daggers at Jeong-seok.

“You’ll definitely encounter retribution one day!” the other women chimed in.

“Whatever. The lot of you are destined to be my slaves from now on. This way, you’ll have front-row seats to the so-called retribution that you speak of.” Jeong-seok retorted.

It was at this moment that one of his lackeys came running in. “Sir, the people from overseas have agreed. Emma Jones can be sold to the slums there at any time! They’ll be sure to torture her even without our instructions. Her remaining days will be a living hell!” the lackey sniggered.

“The head of Noir Group, Mr. Williams, will be arriving at North Hampton tonight! He is extremely anxious to marry Zoey Lopez!”

Jeong-seok let out a peal of delight. “That old pervert! How many young girls’ lives has he ruined over the years? The number must be in the thousands by now.”

“Exactly. How many wives has he had? I heard that several of them were tortured to death!”

Even Jeong-seok himself was utterly disgusted by the man.

“Alright, I shall prepare to receive him tonight!”

Jeong-seok locked up the women again and waited for nightfall to descend.

At night, Jeong-seok personally went to the airport to welcome Mr. Williams of Noir Group.

He held the same social standing as the Daelee Group did in Keera.

As such, he was not a man to be trifled with.

Soon, Jeong-seok saw a line of people from Noir Group at the airport.

Mr. Williams was helped out of the plane by a few of his men.

His features screamed lechery. He was almost bald and had a pair of squinty eyes which he used to scan his surroundings.

The sight of his mouthful of yellowed teeth would be enough to turn anyone's stomach.

He was definitely the most repulsive man Jeong-seok had ever seen.

However, his subordinates could only greet him with smiles plastered on their faces.

He was practically king, after all.

"Mr. Williams!" Jeong-seok greeted cheerily.

"Hello, Mr. Lee! I just want to say that not only do I want Levi Garrison's wife, but also his mother and daughter! Oh, and his sister as well! I want them all. We'll have so much fun together! State your price; I can't wait to have all of them!" Mr. Williams giggled. His excitement was obvious.

When he heard that Jeong-seok was planning to get rid of those women, he knew he had to make them his.

Jeong-seok was not surprised by Mr. Williams' request.

He's always been like this!

Always so greedy about such things!

"No problem! However, I plan to hold an auction for Levi's daughter. I've already sent word out so I'll have to go through with it," Jeong-seok replied.

"Sure. I'll make sure I'm the highest bidder!" Mr. Williams squealed in delight.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War

[The Protector] Chapter 1280

Jeong-seok chuckled. "What I want is simple. I want to own twenty-five percent of your petroleum production operations in the northwest of Senia."

Mr. Williams hesitated.

He did not expect Jeong-seok to have such a voracious appetite.

But this way I'll be able to snag not only the wife but also the daughter and mother of the God of War.

This is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity!

"Fine, you got it!" Williams proclaimed.

Jeong-seok beamed.

Not only am I going to make Levi's life terrible, but I also managed to clinch part ownership of petroleum production operations!

That's killing two birds with one stone!

Both parties were in agreement.

Jeong-seok led Mr. Williams to the lodgings.

“Mr. Lee, do you think that tonight...”

Mr. Williams had come from a far-flung corner of the world and was ready to indulge in all of his hedonistic desires.

He did not want to wait a second longer.

Jeong-seok kept a smile hanging off his lips. “Please have patience, Mr. Williams. We can do whatever you want tomorrow when everyone will have arrived.”

Mr. Williams considered Jeong-seok’s words for a while before finally assenting to the latter’s suggestion.

We’re talking about the beloved women of the God of War!

The loved ones of that almighty man, with enough power to rival multiple countries, will be mine to do away with as I please.

This is amazing. I can’t wait!

Both men’s spirits were sky-high.

They had never been so elated in their lives.

Meanwhile, Zoey was still safe for the time being.

However, she could not seem to contact Iris or Abigail.

Emma dashed up to her in a panicked frenzy. “Zoey, something terrible happened! Mia has been kidnapped by Triple Group! They’re clearly issuing us a challenge. They even threatened to auction off Evie!”

“What?”

Zoey’s rage spiked through the roof.

They want to auction off my child?

How could she tolerate it?

If only Triple Group wasn't so powerful...

"Why don't we just pack up and leave? We can't stay here. We're no match for Triple Group; they're too strong!" Zoey suggested.

She had long been toying with the idea of going off the grid.

"We can't. When I came back, I realized that we're surrounded! There's no way we'll be able to leave!"

Emma's face fell.

Triple Group had closed them in completely. No one could escape.

"Triple Group never had any intention of letting us go!"

Zoey had no choice but to plead with Dale for help.

"I desperately want to save you and Evie, too. Unfortunately, I can't go against the Daelee Group. Even Tyrone is at their beck and call! For the sake of the family, I have no other option but to sacrifice you!"

Dale hung up.

The Daelee Group was no different from Frostford to him and his family.

Zoey was spiraling in the pits of despair.

Who can we turn to now?

"Are we just going to sit here and wait for our deaths?"

Zoey and Emma were despondent.

This time, it was Forlevia who made a call. She dialed a number. "Call Daddy! Daddy will save us!"

Despite her young age, she often talked to Levi on the phone.

She immediately called her father.

Levi's voice was soon heard from the receiver, "Evie? Daddy's here!"

Forlevia burst into tears. "Daddy, come quickly! Someone is bullying us! Come and save us!"

"Hold on, Evie. I'll be there before you know it. Don't cry. Wait for me!"

The call from his daughter turned Levi's anxiety up to the maximum.

"Why are you calling your father, Evie?"

Zoey and Emma sighed.

There's no point in telling Levi about this.

He can't even move.

How will he save us?

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1281

Truth be told, Jeong-seok's every move was within Levi's calculations.

He was originally unable to do anything about the situation.

But now that he had control of The Calamity, he had countless skilled men at his disposal.

Saving Zoey and the rest would be as easy as taking candy from a baby.

Zoey and the rest might appear to be at the mercy of Triple Group, but The Calamity had been closely surveying the entire situation.

At the sign of any real danger, The Calamity's soldiers would move in.

Levi also stationed people to protect Abigail.

However, the news reached him too late, and by that time, Abigail and the rest had already been taken.

Despite this, there was always someone keeping an eye on the situation from the shadows. If Abigail or any of the other women were in actual trouble, experts from The Calamity would rush in.

Levi had everything under control.

This was something Triple Group could never have expected.

Initially, Levi had left the matter to his men in The Calamity.

That was why he was currently in L Nation, having just buried Hades in his hometown.

But after the call from Forlevia, he could not hold himself back any longer.

He decided to take matters into his own hands.

“We’re going back to Erudia now!” Levi barked, his expression tense.

Forlevia’s voice rang in his ears.

You’ve officially pissed me off, Triple Group!

I slew the military strategist of Raysonia without batting an eye!

Do you actually think you’re untouchable?

“Sir, Lee Jeong-seok had taken complete control of Morris Group! He’s even announced at a press conference that the company’s name will be changed to Castle Group!” West Sky Lord said softly.

“How dare they!” Levi roared.

Every move made by Jeong-seok aimed straight at one of Levi’s pressure points. He had successfully set off the volcano of Levi’s fury.

He’ll never expect that I’m still alive and kicking...

I’m back and stronger than ever!

I’ve never been more terrifyingly powerful in my life!

Soon, the sun disappeared below the horizon.

Zoey and Emma had been in a terror-stricken state the entire day.

Alas, they still came up empty.

There was no one they could turn to, no place they could escape to.

"Is this really how we're destined to meet our end?" Zoey huffed in indignance.

I know that marrying Levi would prevent me from living a normal life.

Bur I can't accept going down like this.

"Don't worry, Mom and Grandma, I'm sure Daddy will come save us!"

Forlevia's small fists were balled tightly, her expression one of earnest faith.

She was a naive child, after all.

It was natural for her to believe in every promise.

In fact, she believed every single promise that adults had made to her.

Since Levi had promised to come for her, she was certain that he would.

"Daddy is the God of War! He's even better than superheroes!" Forlevia exclaimed.

Zoey did not have the heart to disillusion her and chose to keep her peace.

Shortly after, some people from Triple Group took Zoey away.

At a hall in North Hampton.

A private auction was taking place.

It was a full house.

Some were serious auctioneers while others were only here to watch.

Jeong-seok was sitting in the front row. Mr. Williams, sitting next to him, could barely contain his excitement.

Mr. Williams had already laid out his plan to torture the women in his mind.

All he needed were the people themselves.

“My goal is simple. I want to let the whole world see what happens when you cross the Daelee Group! Even the God of War can’t stand in our way!”

Jeong-seok’s aim was not only to exact revenge but also to send out waves of intimidation.

He wanted to announce to the world that he held the authority to make the God of War’s family do his bidding. This way, no one would dare oppose him.

“Bring them up here!”

The three women were brought up to the stage.

At the sight of them, Mr. Williams’ eyes lit up.

“Levi Garrison’s wife and mother are already the property of Mr. Williams. Next up, we have his daughter!”

“The bidding will start at a hundred million!”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1282

"A hundred and fifty million!"

Bids started flying in from below the stage.

"Two hundred million!"

The audience eyed Forlevia with the gazes of starved beasts.

Not only did they share this kink, but the fact that the one being auctioned off was Levi's daughter made the auction all the more meaningful.

They were all screaming their bids at the top of their lungs.

"Three hundred million!"

"Five hundred million!"

"One billion!"

The wealthy elites outbid each other in a frenzy.

"Let me join in, too. One and a half billion!"

The latest bid came from Jaron, Jackson, and Lucas of the South Hampton Prince Gang

Their family used to be enslaved to Levi.

Jaron's hand was also disabled.

They would carry their resentment with them for the rest of their lives.

"Let's just go with two billion!"

No one would be able to fathom the true extent of Lucas' rage.

"I want a piece of this, too. Three billion! Levi Garrison's daughter is mine!"

That voice belonged to Kameda Ichiro.

He had been chased out of South Hampton by Levi. But he returned after getting wind of Levi's accident.

He even obtained the support of the royal families of South Hampton.

Jeong-seok was in seventh heaven at the sight of the enthusiastic responses.

They were all foreigners who had been chased out by Levi. Now that he was gone, they were coming back one by one.

All of them returned with the same desire to punish Levi's woman.

Jeong-seok could not have been more delighted.

The bidders were also enjoying themselves in the process.

Zoey looked around at the people before her. "B*stards! You're all b*stards!" she shrieked.

"Zoey, why don't you take a shot at guessing what the final price for your daughter will be?" Jeong-seok laughed maliciously.

"Go to hell!"

Zoey was angry enough to commit murder.

“Aren’t you being a bit rude, Zoey? I didn’t even sell your daughter off in a cage. How dare you curse at me?”

Jeong-seok had initially intended to auction off Forlevia in a cage.

“Five billion!”

Mr. Williams was beside himself with excitement and could not contain his emotions any longer. He raised the paddle high in the air.

“Look, Zoey. Did you ever think that your daughter would be able to fetch such a high price?”

Jeong-seok guffawed merrily.

Zoey and Emma were close to crying tears of rage.

“Six billion!”

The bidding war had not ended.

The people present truly hated Levi from the bottom of their hearts.

“Seven billion!”

“Ten billion!”

This latest bid came from Mr. Williams.

He peered around him. No one was shouting a higher bid.

“Ten billion going once!”

“Ten billion going twice!”

“Ten billion going three times!”

“Levi Garrison’s daughter, Forlevia Lopez, is sold to Mr. Williams!”

“Congratulations Mr. Williams, you now own Levi Garrison’s mother, wife, daughter, sister, and sister-in-law!”

“Congrats Mr. Williams, go ahead and enjoy yourself tonight!”

The crowd congratulated Mr. Williams.

Mr. Williams was flushed with joy. The thought of what would soon happen instantly stimulated his loins.

This is going to be a night I’ll never forget!

“Levi can only smile from hell. His entire family is now under Mr. Williams’ care! Don’t worry Levi, I’m sure he’ll be gentle with your women!” Jeong-seok let out a manic laugh.

Mr. Williams joined in and laughed diabolically.

The image of his mouth splitting his face apart was grotesque, to say the least.

“You’re all a bunch of beasts! How could you do this to a child? You’re all going to hell!”

Zoey hurled scathing words at the men.

But all she received in response were merciless taunts.

After all, everyone who had come to the auction to watch the plight of the women.

They could not be more overjoyed at seeing the state to which Levi’s family had been reduced.

“Don’t worry, Mom. Daddy will be here very soon!” Forlevia pointed at the front door.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1283

“Levi will come? Little girl, how naive can you get?”

“Your father is dead. How will he come?”

Jeong-seok ripped through Forlevia’s innocent hopes.

Everyone knows Levi’s dead.

But Forlevia obstinately fixed her eyes on Jeong-seok and glared at him. “Shut up! Daddy is still alive! I talked to him on the phone!”

“Just you wait! Daddy will be here before you know it! He’ll kick all your butts!” Forlevia exclaimed ferociously to the people watching.

No one took her seriously.

“Do you teach your child to lie, Zoey? Levi is obviously dead. What’s the point in claiming otherwise?”

Zoey was about to reply when Forlevia cut in, “You idiots! Daddy isn’t dead at all! He’s been tricking you on purpose!”

“What?”

Jeong-seok was stunned by her declaration. Something felt fishy to him.

Zoey glowered at the people around. “Stop talking, Evie. You might scare them! My husband is definitely still alive. He coming after all of you!”

The expressions of the crowd instantly shifted.

A few of them could feel cold sweat dripping down their backs.

If Levi is still alive, we'll be in trouble.

He's a danger to us all.

“She’s right. My son is still alive! I bet none of you expected this outcome. When he comes for each and every one of you, you can kiss your lives goodbye.” Emma hollered.

The color drained from the faces around the women as fear started to consume them.

What if it's true?

“Stop spouting crap, Zoey! Someone separate these two! I only want Forlevia here!” Jeong-seok bellowed, absolutely livid.

His lackeys quickly separated Zoey and Forlevia.

Zoey and Emma started to weep.

“Don’t worry! Daddy will come save me!”

Only Forlevia maintained her composure.

The mother and daughter were eventually forced apart.

Zoey and Emma were taken away to an unknown location, leaving Forlevia onstage.

Although the noise had subsided, many of the people present were breathing raggedly.

None of them wanted to believe that Levi still walked the earth.

The anxiousness had gotten to Jeong-seok as well. He wiped the beads of cold sweat from his forehead using his handkerchief.

“Childish nonsense! Why are all of you so scared?” Mr. Williams said scornfully.

Boom!

At this moment, a thunderous noise akin to an explosion sounded.

The entire hall shook, sending the people inside teetering off balance.

The crowd screamed as they whipped their heads around in fright.

Bang!

The front door burst open.

Boom!

The entire wall was demolished.

Someone wrecked the whole wall from the outside.

The people in the hall froze in shock.

Almost instantly after, a group of people clad in black garb stormed in.

They were dressed in black garments from head to toe and had their knives ready.

Masks obscured their identity.

The intruders were familiar yet alien to the crowd.

“The Calamity!”

“It’s The Calamity!”

Jeong-seok was the first to recognize them. He proceeded to shriek wildly.

Although Winsor had gained victory over The Calamity, the group’s presence still struck terror into the hearts of everyone.

The sight of them alone was enough to petrify a person.

The Daelee Group members scrambled to band together to protect Jeong-seok.

The skilled members of Noir Group also immediately went on high alert.

Everyone else in the hall were in a state of hysteria as they watched members of The Calamity draw near.

“It’s Daddy! Daddy’s here to save me! Yay!” Forlevia squealed in glee.

Whoosh!

Wham!

Whoosh!

Another batch of people from The Calamity made their appearance.

They had been waiting in ambush for the right opportunity to reveal themselves.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1284

Jeong-seok and the rest were stupefied.

The thought of being ambushed at the auction did not cross their mind.

The Calamity had been hiding about, yet we are completely oblivious!

Bam!

Wham!

Several skilled fighters showed up on the stage from nowhere and sent the men guarding Forlevia flying.

“Greetings, Missy.”

Following that, they shielded the little girl flawlessly, leaving not even an inch of opening.

Jeong-seok and the likes were aghast at the sight.

Beads of cold sweat formed on their foreheads.

Their knees started shaking feebly after turning their gazes to the front.

Flop!

The members of The Calamity appeared behind the toppled wall.

The Four Lords marched forward and lined at two sides, making a pathway.

A silhouette could be seen strolling toward the scene in the middle of the path.

“Daddy, Daddy...”

Forlevia cheered and jumped in excitement when she saw that figure.

“Huh?” Jeong-seok and the group were glued to the ground.

However, they could no longer calm their nerves after seeing Levi in the flesh.

It’s Levi Garrison! He’s still alive and kicking! How unbelievable! So those women weren’t lying after all! Children do say the darndest things! It’s no bluff. Damn it! Not only is her father alive, but he is here to rescue her as well!

A murderous glint flashed across Levi’s eyes.

With a gloomy expression on his face, he stomped toward the stage like a devil from hell.

Everyone was intimidated by his terrifying aura.

It sent chills down their spines. Their blood ran cold as he was slowly closing in.

The crowd moved aside to open up a clear path for him involuntarily.

They were all frozen in place.

Even the leaders of the conglomerates were rooted to the spot, including the likes of Keerea’s Daelee Group and Senia’s Noir Group.

No one dared to make a sound because the man in front of them was their nightmare.

A while later, Levi went up to the stage, carrying Forlevia in his arms.

The fearsome and murderous air around him vanished instantly. Instead, he was all smiles when he was in the presence of his daughter.

“Evie, Daddy is here. Don’t be afraid, okay?”

The girl grinned from ear to ear. “I’m not scared. I know Daddy will come to save me.”

“Levi, how are you still alive?” Jeong-seok gaped at him in disbelief.

It can’t be! Raysonia’s Tenichi confirmed his death repeatedly so he can’t be alive! Who would’ve thought that he is the master of The Calamity! No, wait a minute! This is a set-up! This is all their scheme! We’ve been tricked!

Levi cast him a glance. “Why do you think The Calamity was defeated in Erudia only?”

“What? The Calamity’s defeat at the hands of Winsor Campbell was done on purpose?”

The crowd was shocked by the sudden revelation.

In no time, all of them had a clear picture of the situation.

Levi faked his death to set us up!

The crowd was terrified by the thought.

Jeong-seok could feel his body tremble.

Damn it! My arrival in Erudia to deal with Zoey was leaked! I’m busted! So Levi knew everything all along. He’s only showing up now because I’ve nothing out of line previously!

The same epiphany hit the rest of the crowd after a while.

How terrifying! We’re in deep trouble now.

They shivered with fear after knowing that The Calamity threw the game deliberately during their battle with Winsor because of Levi.

The Calamity is still as powerful as before! There’s no way we can afford to cross them!

“I-it’s not like that. W-we...”

Jaron, Jackson, Lucas, and the rest felt their teeth chattering as they were overwhelmed by terror.

Who would've thought things would turn out this way? Why did we involve ourselves in this? Argh...

"Master, what should we do with these people?" North Sky Lord asked.

"Kill all the participants. Cripple all the spectators." Levi ordered.

"No! Levi, you can't touch me!"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1285

Jeong-seok shouted abruptly.

“It’s not just me you can’t lay a finger on, Mr. Williams, too. You can’t bear the consequences should anything befall us. I believe you know how powerful Daelee Group and Noir Group are.”

Williams nodded in agreement. “That’s right. Let’s have a seat and talk it over. We will fulfill your request to the best of our abilities, be it money or crude oil extraction rights. Let’s work something out, shall we?”

Jeong-seok added, “Yeah. Let’s make a friend of each other. I believe we can work out a deal. No hard feelings, okay?”

“No hard feelings? Are you telling me to forget the fact that you just put my daughter up for auction? Are you a f*cking idiot?” Levi bellowed.

The people present were stunned at his words.

It was their first time hearing Levi use a swear word.

Jeong-seok and Williams were stupefied.

“Finish them off!” Levi turned to leave while carrying his daughter in his arm.

“No! Levi, you can’t kill us! If you do, our families will definitely avenge us! Not even you will get away from this, Levi! They will hunt you down to the ends of the world!”

"Yeah! We have many ultimate class combatants with us! Do you think you can take us out as you like?"

Refusing to accept their fate, Jeong-seok and Williams put up a last-ditch struggle.

"Is that so? I wouldn't mind wiping Daelee Group and Noir Group off the face of the earth."

The two started shuddering with dread after hearing Levi's statement.

Levi invaded Raysonia to kill Demon Blade. He then decapitated Tenichi. This man has the capability to do what he says.

"Do it!" A murderous glint flashed across Levi's eyes.

"Kill them!"

The Calamity attacked upon Levi's order.

Whoosh!

Swish!

In a flash, Jaron, Lucas, Jackson, and Kameda kicked the bucket without a chance to react.

Is there anyone who can contend with The Calamity? Despite having several ultimate class and god class bodyguards on our side, North Sky Lord alone is enough to crush them all. The threatening presence of his subordinates standing behind him only added to the terrifying mood. Our men don't stand a chance against those people. Having ultimate class fighters isn't sufficient if they can't even defeat Winsor. It'd be a different story if our guards were all at Sampson's level.

Swoosh!

Whoosh!

The lives of the two foreigners ended in an instant.

The other morally corrupt tycoons did not escape from their fate to be decimated, either.

As for the spectators, they were crippled as per Levi's command.

The Calamity was never sloppy with their job. They completed their tasks within a brief moment.

After that, Levi's unquenchable fury finally subsided. If he were not holding Forlevia in his arms, he would have executed them personally.

*These b*stards! What a bunch of animals! How dare they harm women and children. Scoundrels! To think that they would put Evie up for auction and even tried to lay their dirty hands on Zoey! They are pushing their luck!*

"Daddy, are you feeling better now?" Forlevia whispered a question into his ear as she buried herself in his chest.

"Daddy has recovered. You don't have to worry."

At his words, the little girl cheered, "Yay! That's great! Oh! We should see Grandma and Mommy! They wouldn't let me call you because they thought you're not well! They didn't want to make you worry!"

Forlevia might be young, but she was precocious enough to understand her surroundings.

"Haha! Daddy is gonna be fine! I promise I will always protect you by your side! Don't you worry about a thing, little one!"

Right after Levi was about to head backstage, a few men made their sudden appearance.

It's them!

Levi was puzzled.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1286

The Dragonites! I haven't seen them for a while!

"Greetings, God of War!" the Dragonites shouted in unison.

Levi beamed at them. "I'm no longer the God of War."

"No. You are the only God of war. It's tacit," they responded with a smile.

Forlevia clapped her hands. "Yes! Daddy is the God of War!"

Levi patted her head with a smile on his face.

"Why are you here?" Levi queried without beating around the bush.

"We are here to relay an order," they replied with a stern expression.

"Alright. Talk."

"Sir, the message is simple. You may show yourself to the public, but no one should know that you've recovered. Therefore, you must be in a wheelchair from now on. Also, because of the unusual turns of events recently, some people are wondering if you're alive," he explained.

Levi nodded. "Mm-hmm, I thought so, too."

"The primary purpose is to smoke out the remaining evildoers. For that reason, we suggest that you use The Calamity to make a clean sweep once and for all. It was nearly impossible for you to investigate and deal with the matter in secret before this. Sir, this chance is hard to come by," the Dragonites exhorted.

The relayed message was the wish of Erudia's government. Although the country had many powerful men to settle the issue, none was of Levi's caliber. Needless to say, it was definitely more reassuring to have him deal with the problem than any others. On top of that, he was not the God of War at the moment, so it would be the perfect timing.

Levi immediately understood Erudia's intention to use his current situation to get rid of the country's harmful parasites all at once.

The group that he had eradicated previously was only the tip of the iceberg.

There were more transgressors hidden in the dark.

For instance, the comeback of the Blood King Palace and the concealment of Tenichi's death.

These were all dormant threats that needed his immediate attention.

Naturally, there were still more matters to be concerned about.

So, Levi agreed to their terms without hesitation.

He would sacrifice anything for the sake of his country.

Besides, he could do that while staying with his family and protecting them.

In the open, he could crush his enemies and annihilate the entire army on his own.

In the dark, he could weed out the traitors of the country and bring death to these individuals.

These were the things he was capable of.

If it were something favorable to his country, he would agree to any request no matter how harsh it might be.

"Sir, someone will contact you in secret and provide you with the details for the next mission. This is a top-secret operation. You must maintain secrecy at all times." A Dragonite glanced at Forlevia.

"Alright. Got it," Levi replied.

"Sir, we will arrange for your official return to Erudia. Everyone will know that you are alive."

After the message was conveyed, the Dragonites left the scene at once.

Levi turned to smile at Forlevia. "Evie, can you promise Daddy to keep everything that happened tonight a secret? You can't let Grandma and Mommy know, either."

He could not violate the top-secret order given by Erudia. After all, he was a soldier and it was in his nature to obey commands.

"Okay, Daddy. I got it," Forlevia promised.

Then, he kissed his daughter goodbye and put her down.

"Don't worry, Evie. I'll see you tomorrow." Levi waved his hand.

Zoey and the others thought that they were goners. They certainly didn't expect anyone to come to their rescue.

However, they did not know what just happened.

Did Daelee Group let us go? It seems impossible. But someone definitely saved us.

Soon enough, Forlevia was sent back to where they were.

"Evie, can you tell Mommy what just happened?" Zoey asked hurriedly.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1287

"It's fine, Mommy. Nothing happened..." Forlevia stammered.

I've promised Daddy to keep it a secret.

But the adults could tell she was hiding something with just a glance.

"Evie, be honest. Tell me what happened," Zoey questioned expressionlessly.

"That's right. It's not good to lie," Emma reiterated.

"I—" Forlevia was in a dilemma. On one end, she wanted to be a good girl. On the other end, she wished to keep the promise with her father.

"Good evening, Ms. Jones, Ms. Lopez. We are the ones who handled the issue tonight."

A few people came over at that moment.

"Huh?"

Zoey and Emma were equally bewildered.

"Also, we've just found out that Mr. Garrison was framed. Thus, we hereby revoke the ban on his return to Erudia," that man continued.

At his words, Zoey had a rough idea of the speaker's identity.

"Thank you. May I know where my husband is currently?" Zoey questioned anxiously.

“He is not around at the moment. He’ll be back tomorrow. Also, good news for you. Mr. Garrison is getting better now. He doesn’t have to lie on the bed anymore; he can sit in a wheelchair already.”

“That’s great! As long as he is back!”

That person reminded, “It’s thanks to Mr. Quinton. It was he that helped Mr. Garrison recover.”

“Is there any hope for him to be fully recovered?” Zoey’s eyes flickered with expectations.

“There is still hope at the moment.”

At his statement, Zoey and Emma were elated.

Spreading the news that Levi could recover was part of the Dragonites’ plan.

What would his adversaries do if they heard that Levi could recover?

It would be unthinkable for them to leave him be.

Without a doubt, it would only be a matter of time before the real enemies revealed themselves.

After all, Levi himself had slaughtered the previous group of foes.

After knowing the poison didn’t kill him, the forces behind Blood King Palace would make their appearance by hook or by crook.

With that expectation, the news of Levi’s health improvement was announced to the public deliberately.

Meanwhile, he and the others would monitor the movements of their nemesis from the shadows.

“Master, does it upset you to act as a crippled man?” North Sky Lord asked.

It went without saying that it was unpleasant for him to pretend to be a disabled person.

But Levi shook his head. "No. I'm willing to do this for the country. This much is nothing."

"With you faking your death, many enemies were smoked out this time. Due to its effectiveness, the higher-ups have decided to let you continue your act as a crippled man," West Sky Lord said.

Levi nodded. "Indeed. We will have a new mission soon. You should ready yourselves at all times."

The next day, Levi sat in a wheelchair and was sent back to North Hampton.

His news spread like wildfire.

The part that shocked most people was his physical improvement after receiving treatment from the great doctor, Benny Quinton. He was thought to be permanently paralyzed before that, but now he could sit in a wheelchair. It was an astounding feat to the public.

Within a short period, the world was in an uproar.

It would be unimaginable if Levi were to recover to his peak.

The presence of Winsor, who "defeated" The Calamity, as well as Levi, who was at his peak, was too insurmountable a threat to everyone.

It was not a development that anyone wished to see.

In an instant, the hidden forces lurking across the world became restless, including the ones in Erudia.

Zoey and the rest were overjoyed with tears upon seeing Levi's arrival.

Seeing his family, his heart was overwhelmed with happiness.

"I may be using a wheelchair, but I'm still capable of protecting all of you."

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1288

It doesn't matter even if I'm wheelchair-bound. At least I can finally stay by their side as a living person.

That night, Zoey and Emma prepared a table full of sumptuous meals for him.

Levi kept Forlevia in his arm.

"Daddy, I didn't tell anyone the secret. But Mommy said that I'm not a good girl if I lie," the girl pouted. Her expression clearly showed she was frustrated.

Looking at his cute daughter, Levi answered, "Do you remember what we talk about last night?"

"Yes, I do," Forlevia nodded.

"We need to keep it a secret because what we are doing is a good thing. So, by not telling anyone, Evie is doing a good deed, too. In other words, you are still a good girl." A smile widened on Levi's lips.

Upon hearing that, the girl's mood finally became better and she grinned from ear to ear. "I got it."

The house was filled with warmth and happiness.

After dinner, Zoey said with a smile, "After so long, we can finally gather as a family. Our lives will go back to normal. That's great."

Nevertheless, it would be challenging for them to live normal lives, even when Levi was in his current state.

The news of Levi's return spread across the globe; it created a big hype.

Winsor was all smiles when he heard the news. "Haha! That is great! I heard that Levi is recovering now! I'll have a second match with him after he has completely recovered his strength!"

"Yes! After your second victory against Levi, everyone will have no choice but to submit to you! No one will ever raise a doubt again!" Bolgun chortled.

"That's true. Although I do not need to defeat Levi to prove myself anymore, it is my obsession to win against him one more time." Winsor was arrogant and determined.

His ego was inflated after his victory over the North Sky Lord. He had acted snobby toward everyone since then.

To him, Levi had turned from someone whom he used to be wary of to a mere loser.

"We can't let Levi recover at any cost! It will spell doom to us if he regains his strength!"

"Argh! I can't believe he survived! He must have a devil's luck!"

"He was the one who stood before our plan! We must eliminate him at once!"

"We must put an end to him before he recovers!"

Similar sentiments echoed across the world after knowing Levi was alive.

Among them, the individuals from Triple Group were the most furious.

At their luxurious manor in Keerea, the prominent members of the Lee family were furious after hearing the news of their heir's death.

"Find out who did this! I will avenge my son!"

"No matter who in Erudia did this, I will get even with him for what he did to my grandson!"

As one would expect, it was the same with Noir Group from Senia.

“Go and investigate! We will make him pay for what he did!”

“We will bring death to the culprit no matter the cost!”

The great family of Frostford had it worst after being told of the disappearances of Sampson and his four disciples.

“Inspect the matter thoroughly! Our reputation will be tarnished if word of our members having died out there gets leaked!” ordered the leader of the family.

Immediately, those people who had been living secluded lives sent a group of subordinates to their so-called “world out there”.

The last time it happened was around two hundred years ago.

They could no longer hold themselves back after two centuries of staying hidden.

The world was seemingly peaceful on the surface, yet there were numerous undercurrents.

It all happened because of Levi’s return.

His comeback blew up a storm in the whole world.

But this was the exact reaction he and the Dragonites wanted.

To lure all the real enemies out, Levi had to fulfill two conditions.

First, he had to wait for the mission to be given by the Dragonites.

Second, he had to wait for someone to look for him.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1289

The Garrison clan of Oakland City received firsthand intelligence of Levi's return.

"What? That b*stard can still recover?" Tyrone was visibly disturbed.

If he regains his strength, he'll definitely come looking for us. After all, we did many evil deeds, some of which are unpardonable.

"We have to get rid of him before his complete recovery!" A murderous glint flashed across Tyrone's eyes.

The entire Garrison family came to a complete agreement.

If he restores his health, our family will be wiped out!

"This b*stard is still a disabled man. If we want to kill him, we have to do it now!"

To preserve their honor, they did not make any move against him previously. But the situation had changed. If they didn't end him right away, it would cause them their demise.

The Garrisons were determined to take Levi out because he was nothing but a crippled man at the moment.

There won't be a better time than now!

"What? He? I—" Olivia's face was sullen upon hearing that. Her eyes were about to pop out from their sockets.

Even Tyrone drew a sharp breath when he saw her chilling expression.

She was muttering gibberish; no one could make out the words she was saying.

Her abnormal reaction raised Tyrone's suspicion.

Why is she getting all worked up every time she hears that b*stard's name?

"Oh dear. The doctor said that she still hasn't recovered from the pain of losing Damien."

"Yeah. That's why she couldn't stand hearing the word Levi. She will act up every time that b*stard's name is mentioned."

Indeed, the mention of Levi would cause her to lose her sanity.

Olivia actually had a sound mind.

But whenever she was triggered, she would lose her composure. Consequently, she would lose her ability to articulate words properly.

As a result, she would express herself in that strange manner.

However, the rest would pass it off as her inability to recover from the pain of losing her son.

"Sir, before I forget, something terrible has happened. Someone from the reclusive great family of Frostford met his end out in the world. And the incident happened to be here in Oakland City."

A man chimed in, "That man's identity was enough to scare the living daylight of everyone. He was Winsor's master!"

"Boohoo..."

Everyone was taken aback by Olivia's wailing, but they did not make it a big deal.

"Take her away!" Tyrone ordered after feeling annoyed at her behavior.

After her futile struggling, she was taken away in the end.

“Don’t worry, Olivia. I swear I’ll avenge our son. Levi will follow him soon,” Tyrone promised.

Despite struggling relentlessly, she could not break free from the restraint.

“If the rumor was true, we are in big trouble. That is the great family of Frostford we are talking about.” Tyrone took a deep breath.

“On top of that, Jerry was dead as well. It just doesn’t add up. I’m thinking that they might be related,” the other man commented.

“No kidding. Bizarre things are happening one after another. Who on earth killed the heir of Daelee Group and the head of Noir Group?”

Tyrone was perplexed. “We shall wait and see how things unfold. Let’s hope our family doesn’t get involved.”

On the other hand, Levi was with his family in North Hampton.

Right after Zoey reclaimed her company, she changed its name back to what it was.

Sylas was wheeling Levi around in the company building.

It was Levi’s first time there in two years.

The first difference he noticed was the scale of the company. It was now ten times bigger than before.

That fact alone was proof of Zoey’s competence.

Morris’s parents traveled all the way there just to see Levi because he was like a son to them.

It was quite peaceful that day. No one came over to look for trouble.

But Levi knew that it was the calm before the storm.

The following day, the person who showed up first was...

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1290

Zar was the first to make his appearance.

"What are you doing here?" Zoey became alert as she noticed that man.

"Don't fret. I'm here to help Mr. Garrison," Zar said with a smirk.

Levi noted, "Zoey, let me talk to him alone."

She pondered for a while and went away.

"Mr. Garrison, my intention is simple. I'm here to give you magical medicine to help you recover faster," Zar declared openly.

"Hmm?" Levi looked confused.

"It is a gift from my master. This is his special healing medicine, and I'm confident it'll improve your health greatly." After Zar spoke, he took out an exquisite box. In an instant, a pleasant herbal fragrance permeated the air.

Winsor hailed from the great family of Frostford.

Those people had all the ancient medical knowledge in their repertoire, some of which were thought to be lost in history.

Putting the secret to resurrection aside, their knowledge of healing a body was irrefutably out of this world. Modern medical science was nothing compared to them.

Their arsenal of magical medicines was hefty.

It was said that all their members were immune to every disease known to man.

All because of their stupendous collection of ancient medical knowledge. It was not something people from a modern society could wrap their minds around.

After all, they did not have the privilege to learn them.

Back when Winsor came to the outside world, he brought with him a vast amount of healing medicines in case of emergencies.

During his last battle with Levi, he was actually gravely injured but his recovery sped up exponentially after taking the magical medicine.

“Why is he doing this?” Levi questioned while holding the box in his hand.

“Master’s intention is straightforward. He wants you to get back to the pinnacle of your strength as soon as possible so that he can have a rematch with you. He wants to get rid of every doubt people have in him by defeating you one more time,” Zar clarified.

“Hurry and consume it. This way you’ll stand up from your wheelchair sooner and can have a rematch with my Master,” Zar urged.

Levi chuckled. “Alright. My rematch with him is inevitable. Tell him to be prepared. I don’t want to have an easy win.”

Upon hearing his statement, Zar almost lost his temper.

“Hey, you are still sitting in a wheelchair; you dare to utter such brazen words? My master just defeated The Calamity! He is the strongest warrior in the world, and you are nothing compared to him! The reason for the rematch is not for him to prove himself but to gratify his obsession!” Zar chided.

Levi merely smiled at his angry remark.

Putting his identity aside, Winsor really is a sheltered bumpkin.

“Alright. Go back and relay two words to him—tunnel vision.”

Levi saw Zar out with a grin as the latter stormed out furiously.

"Hmph! It seems like Levi is refusing to admit defeat! Nevermind. He will know how inconsequential he is once Master beats him again!"

Levi smirked as the man's silhouette gradually disappeared.

Mm. Winsor is on the crest of a wave now, isn't he? His reputation soared after his victory against The Calamity, and now all the foreigners are afraid of him. He is clearly engrossed in his glory and gradually losing his way. The man thinks he is undefeatable now!

Nevertheless, Levi could not care less about Winsor. If the latter's glory were favorable to Erudia, the former would just let it slide.

Staring at the magical medicine in his hand, an idea suddenly crossed his mind.

If all our soldiers carry this medicine with them, the number of casualties on the battlefield will be reduced significantly. After all, this medicine is potent and its effect is rapid. Modern pharmaceutical science can't hold a candle to it as the time and equipment needed to make something like this must be substantial. These medicines will boost our combat prowess remarkably.

After that, Levi began to devise a plan.

It's hard to popularize this kind of medicine, but half a loaf is better than none. So we'll make do with whatever we have. It's worth a try.

That was the difference between Levi and Winsor. The former's focus was always for the greater good, whereas the latter was absorbed in his personal interest only.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1291

Winsor was only suitable to be a mighty warrior.

But Levi was beyond that; he was more of a commander.

Following that, he took the magical medicine to East Sky Lord and asked the latter to analyze the ingredients inside, hoping that it could be mass-produced.

“Did he give you any trouble?” Zoey asked Levi right after she entered the room.

“No. Instead, he hopes that I recover sooner.” Levi laughed.

Then he added, “By the way, where are your parents?”

Normally, the Lopez and Black families will try their best to cause us trouble if they know that I’m back and disabled. This is abnormal. I haven’t seen a soul after so long. Something is not right.

“Logan got into an accident. They are occupied with the aftermath,” Zoey explained.

Logan joined a street racing with his friends a few days ago and was met with an accident.

It was said that his injury was fatal and some of his organs were failing.

The Black family was busy dealing with the repercussion as he was an essential member of the family.

Therefore, they had no time to pick on Levi yet.

“Oh, really? That’s good news,” Levi chuckled.

Zoey flashed a smile on her face without saying a word.

She had an extremely low opinion of her brother-in-law.

Well, I guess this works as well. This way no one will come and interrupt our lives.

Inside the Intensive Care Unit of the best hospital in South City, Meredith, Logan's grandfather, and his parents were waiting anxiously.

Logan was in critical condition. He had been staying in the Intensive Care Unit for two entire days.

It was a dangerous signal.

Hence, Jennie was sweating profusely with anxiety.

After all, they had drawn on huge funds to hire a group of specialists to treat Logan.

At that time, the specialists were just done with their discussions in the meeting room and came to the ICU.

"How's the situation, Dr. Chase?" Robert asked.

Chase shook his head. "It's not looking good. One of the patient's organs is severely injured. He needs a transplant."

"Get it done, then! What are you waiting for?" Jennie retorted.

"The thing is, our hospital is having an organ shortage; we need a kidney donor," Chase replied.

"Ask the other hospitals and see if there's any! We can afford the money!"

Meredith and the others became nervous.

The doctor denied, "This has nothing to do with money. We do not have a matching kidney currently and we are running out of time. Transporting an organ from other places takes time; it's definitely out of the question."

"Then what should we do?"

Everyone looked hesitant as they exchanged glances.

They were at their wits' end.

"The only way is to have a donor right now. If we harvest the organ on the spot, the success rate of the operation will be high," Dr. Chase declared as he stared at them.

"Mm..."

The doctor's statement put them in a difficult situation. Everyone was having a second thought.

Their initial determination was nowhere to be found.

All of us will donate our blood voluntarily. But who will donate a kidney? I'm afraid that even Logan's parents are unwilling to do so. If that's the case, it'd be impossible for us, the Blacks.

Everyone's gaze met with each other's but they did not utter a word.

Dr. Chase put on a helpless face. "Okay. Take your time to decide and see who will be the donor. But we don't have all the time in the world. You have only six hours to choose your candidate."

All of them were thrown into a frenzy right after the doctor left.

They were discussing where to find a kidney donor on such short notice.

Where do we find a donor within six hours? That's basically looking for a needle in a haystack. No one will donate it if they're not desperate for money. To have a higher success rate, we need to find a healthy kidney. It'd be best if that person is a young man with a muscular body.

Logan's parents queried, "Do you have any suitable candidates on your side?"

"No. We don't!" Meredith rejected immediately.

At that moment, Jennie shouted, "Wait. Aren't we forgetting someone—Levi Garrison?"

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1292

Everyone's eyes were gleaming upon Jennie's reminder. The silhouette of that man came into their minds.

That's right! How could we forget about him!

In fact, all of them knew about his arrival, but they couldn't be bothered by him previously.

Jennie remarked, "Levi may be alive, but he is disabled. He's wheelchair-bound. As a man who could not stand on his own, what's the difference if he has one fewer kidney?"

Meredith nodded. "That's right. The kidney is an important organ for normal people like us. But not for a crippled man like Levi. He has got no use for it."

"Yes. He's already physically challenged. An organ is not essential to him. Besides, we are asking for one kidney only, not both. It won't make much of a difference to him anyway." Robert tried his best to sound reasonable.

"I agree. Having one fewer kidney will decrease the quality of our lives. We'll become weaker and easily exhausted. But it won't affect a paralyzed man much."

"That's right. Levi is the best candidate. We shall let him donate his kidney to save Logan."

Everyone agreed that Levi should be the donor.

Upon hearing that, Logan's family members jumped for joy.

"Hooray! There's hope for Logan now!"

Jennie was overjoyed and gushed, "I'll head to North Hampton at once and bring Levi here! We'll start the operation immediately after that!"

"But did you ever wonder if he will agree to that?" Keane asked.

"His opinion? Does he have a say in this matter?" Meredith snorted.

"That's right. He has no right to decide for himself. Whatever we say goes. Does a disabled man like him have the authority to speak for himself? The biggest problem we have is Zoey. She will disagree if she comes to know about it," someone pointed out.

To them, Zoey was the person who should be kept in the dark. In contrast, Levi was nothing but a tool for them to use and dispose of as they like.

"Okay, it has been decided! We will keep Zoey out of this one. We will bring Levi here secretly and procure the kidney from him. By the time she catches wind of the news, it'd be too late," Jennie stated.

"Hmm, this is a good idea. Alright, some of you head to North Hampton and bring Levi here immediately," Meredith commanded.

Jennie, along with a few subordinates, sped off toward North Hampton.

Levi was alone when they arrived at his residential area.

He was confused by the sight of them.

What are they doing here?

“Take him away!”

At Jennie’s command, a few muscular men carried Levi’s wheelchair with him sitting in it and moved him into the vehicle.

The North Sky Lord and the rest who were hiding in the shadows were about to take those men out but refrained from doing so after they noticed Levi’s gesture stopping them.

However, they were tailing Jennie’s vehicle stealthily.

Levi did not resist but let them take him away; he wanted to see what were they playing at.

After Levi was in the vehicle, Jennie rushed back to the hospital, as they were racing against time.

Soon, they were back at the hospital.

Jennie had made prior arrangements with the hospital so that the specialists could begin the operation as soon as Levi arrived.

Hence, Dr. Chase and the other doctors were already waiting for Levi’s arrival.

“Dr. Chase, the donor is here! Please start the operation now!” Jennie pushed Levi toward the specialists.

Dr. Chase nodded. “Mm, you are quick!”

With that, he turned to Levi and asked, “Sir, are you here to donate your kidney to Mr. Logan Zachs voluntarily?”

“What? Donate a kidney?” Levi was flabbergasted. He stared at the doctor in disbelief.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1293

Dr. Chase was stunned for a moment. Then he turned to Jennie and the others and noticed their twisted facial expressions.

It was at that moment that he knew he had spilled the beans.

This person did not know a thing. It was an unnecessary question.

“He agrees! He has to! We are family! Otherwise, why would we donate a kidney?” Meredith remarked.

The others approved, “That’s right! He agrees!”

“Please begin the operation at once! You have our thanks!” Jennie urged, trying to prevent Levi from reacting.

“Who said that I agree? I don’t! I knew nothing about this! A kidney donation? To whom?” Levi bellowed.

The nurse who was pushing him into the operation theater came to a halt.

Dr. Chase furrowed his brows. Argh! I screwed up!

At that, everyone began discussing among themselves.

“It doesn’t matter if you know or not! Dr. Chase, get him into the operation theater!” Jennie and the Zachs family egged on the doctor.

The specialists shook their heads. “No, this won’t do. If the donor does not give consent, we can’t force him to do it. This must be a voluntary act. If he doesn’t fill up the organ donor card, we can’t proceed with the operation.”

“Levi, tell them you’re willing to donate. Quickly!” Jennie kicked the wheelchair.

“What’s the matter?” Levi shrugged his shoulders.

“Logan got into an accident and he needs a kidney transplant. We are giving you this golden opportunity.”

“That’s right. Isn’t it about time that you do something for the family? We are just asking for a kidney from you to save Logan.”

“If you’re willing to donate, you will forever be remembered.”

Meredith and the others persuaded.

They phrased their words as if donating a kidney was a noble deed.

“Oh, please! You and your reasoning. Why didn’t you donate one yourself?” Levi countered.

At his question, they snapped, “We’re talking about a kidney here! What do you think will happen if we donate it? It will affect our physical performance drastically!”

Levi nodded. “You are right. It affects the body significantly. So, why should I donate?”

Robert demanded, “You are nothing but a disabled man. You are confined to a wheelchair for life! What do you need kidneys for? You are no longer capable of working anyway! Furthermore, you still need Zoey to take care of you for the rest of your days! Besides, with your current body condition, what use do you have for a pair of kidneys? They are wasted on you! Shouldn’t you donate one to Logan instead? And if you don’t agree, don’t think about staying together with Zoey! Do you think a crippled man like you is worthy of her?”

He threatened Levi blatantly. It was an outright threat.

Meredith glared at him. “Levi, you have no right to speak in this family! Not before, when you were normal, and not now when you’re paralyzed. This is your only worth! Otherwise, you are not worthy of Zoey! I demand you to agree now or get out of here!”

Following that, Meredith instructed someone to get the organ donor card and forced Levi to ink his fingerprint on the signature box.

“Alright, doctors! Now that he has agreed, let’s begin the operation now!” Meredith handed over the organ donor card to a specialist.

The doctors exchanged glances while twitching their lips. They remained silent the entire time and pushed Levi into the operation theater.

Levi did not resist at all.

To the Blacks, Levi was just a convenient tool who was completely at their mercy.

“Oh, this trash still has his use. Once we’re old, we’ll replace our organs with his. After all, this is why he exists.”

Everyone laughed at the remark.

They even devised a plan to make full use of him in the future.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1294

“Okay. There’s nothing to worry about. I’ve checked with the doctors just now. He’s very healthy and his kidneys are in top condition. Lady Luck is on Logan’s side this time.”

After hearing the test result, everyone felt relieved and smiled.

If Levi’s kidney is healthy, Logan will recover earlier.

With that, Russell made a call to Zoey.

He could do nothing to stop the family, but he thought he could at least inform her.

Zoey was aghast after hearing the news.

They took Levi away without saying a word!

Immediately, she called Meredith’s cellphone but the latter did not pick up the call.

After a few attempts, Meredith answered.

“Grandma, what is the meaning of this? How could you force Levi to donate a kidney to Logan? Did you even get his permission?” Zoey roared furiously.

“We asked him. He agreed and inked his fingerprint on the organ donor card.”

Zoey trembled violently in anger. "How is that possible? Did you force him to do it? Why didn't you tell me about it?"

"I'm telling you now. What can you do? That's right, we forced him to donate a kidney to save Logan."

Meredith admitted the truth indifferently.

"You have so many people over there! Why didn't one of you donate instead?" Zoey burst into tears from rage.

"The answer is simple. All of us are healthy and complete, but he is a disabled man. What use does he have for those kidneys? Can he stand even with his organs intact? Can he make a living like everyone else?" A volley of questions came out of Meredith like a three-round burst from a service rifle.

Zoey yelled angrily, "But did you know that he is recovering? He will be fully recovered soon. You're doing him harm by procuring a kidney from him! Now he can never hope to stand up again, and you are the cause!"

Meredith snorted, "So what if he can stand? He still has to rely on you to survive, anyway. What's the difference if he stands or is wheelchair-bound? What's the difference if he has a pair of kidneys or just one?"

"Y-you are talking nonsense! Just you wait, I'm coming to South City now! No one can touch my husband!" Zoey shouted like a madwoman.

"Come on, we're waiting. The fastest you can make it here is one hour. By the way, Levi was pushed into the operation theater just a while ago. By the time you arrive, his kidney will be transplanted into Logan's body already," Meredith sneered.

"How heartless can you be? He is the father of Forlevia, for crying out loud!" Zoey shrieked.

"Hmph! This is all he is worth! What's so bad about helping Logan to recover? If the operation is successful, we will never try to separate you two anymore. Wouldn't it be nice?" Meredith chuckled.

Everyone at the scene looked indifferent.

After the call ended, Zoey could not focus on anything else but rushed to the hospital in South City at once.

Following that, Meredith glared at the crowd. "Who informed Zoey about this?"

At her question, Russell had no choice but to step forward.

Slap!

Meredith gave him a hard slap on his cheek.

“You are becoming increasingly disobedient nowadays! If you repeat such traitorous behavior one more time, I’ll banish you from our family!” Meredith hissed.

Russell stood at a corner and did not dare to make a sound.

“Grandma, is Zoey coming over?” Jennie asked.

“Yeah. She’s on her way here,” Meredith nodded.

“Well, too bad for her. By the time she arrives, Levi’s kidney will have been harvested already.”

Everyone burst into laughter.

Everything went by smoothly in the operation theater. It was the sign that things were proceeding

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1295

Within fifty minutes, Zoey had arrived at the hospital.

She was able to arrive so quickly because she had beat almost every single red light on the way to the hospital.

“You are too late. The surgery had gone on for an hour!” Jennie mocked as she smirked at her.

“All of you are so cruel! Why don’t you go and donate your organs then?” Zoey yelled at the crowd angrily.

“Levi Garrison is now disabled. His family should be the ones donating him something, right? Besides, only one of his kidneys is being removed. It’s not a big deal because he still has one kidney left!”

Everyone present ignored Zoey, who was so furious and was about to go ballistic.

Initially, Levi could have recovered.

However, if one of his kidneys were removed, the chances of his recovery would be drastically reduced.

“I’m not letting you do that! I’m going to stop them!” Zoey screamed.

With that, she ran towards the operating theatre.

However, she was blocked by everyone there.

As the surgery continued, Zoey could only wait in despair.

After a few hours, the emergency light of the operating theatre was turned off, meaning the surgery was a success.

Soon Logan was brought out and transferred to the Intensive Care Unit.

“How did it go, Doctor?”

Everyone immediately crowded around the doctor.

“It was a success!” Dr. Chase exclaimed with a bright smile.

“That’s amazing. Fantastic!”

Everyone cheered loudly and grinned at each other.

Not a single person was concerned about Levi.

Zoey immediately rushed into the operating theatre.

When she saw Levi sitting on the wheelchair, she relaxed and let out a breath of air.

She instantly hugged him and started wailing.

“Don’t cry. I’m fine; you have nothing to worry about,” he comforted her as he patted her head.

She really believed that he had donated one of his kidneys and kept crying nonstop.

In truth, no one dared to remove Levi's kidney.

To do so would be equivalent to courting death.

How was Logan's recovery possible?

There could only be one reason: Levi gave Logan the medicine that Winsor Campbell had passed to him.

It was an experiment to test the efficacy of the medicine and whether it was really a silver bullet.

The answer was clear.

It was a magical medicine!

Although Logan's kidneys were severely impaired, he managed to recover after taking the medicine.

He had such a miraculous recovery that a kidney transplant surgery was not necessary anymore.

Levi was astonished!

If this medicine were manufactured in large quantities, it would certainly save a lot of lives!

To think how helpful it will be for the warriors of Erudia!

The Four Great Families, eh?

It appears that I will come to look for you sooner or later!

"Are you really fine? Do you feel any pain or weakness?" Zoey asked as she observed every part of Levi's body.

Levi appeared to have donated one of his kidneys because the West Sky Lord had used makeup to give Levi a pale and sickly image to "match" Levi's wheelchair look.

Levi shook his head and replied, "I'm fine. Actually..."

At that moment, they could hear footsteps approaching. Meredith and a group of people entered the room.

Zoey thought that they were here to thank Levi.

Instead, Robert grinned and said, "I told you that donating one kidney is a small matter!"

"Exactly! He looks fine and he still has one kidney remaining!"

“You are right. He is already disabled, so it doesn’t matter whether he has one kidney. He can just freeload anyway!”

Everyone uttered snarkily.

They were all in agreement that Levi should donate his kidney.

Zoey was enraged. She bellowed, “My husband donated one of his kidneys. Instead of thanking him, all of you are trying to embarrass him! Do you even have a conscience?”

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1296

Everyone was under the impression that Levi had donated one kidney to Logan.

Even Zoey thought so.

“Levi is Logan’s savior. All of you should be begging on your knees for gratitude! I can’t believe that there are people like you!” Zoey berated them.

Zoey was utterly disappointed at that moment.

They had treated Levi like a tool in order to achieve their own selfish desires.

“Why do we need to thank him?”

“That’s what he should have done anyway! He should be thanking us instead because we accepted him even though he was disabled!”

“He only did what he should have done. He couldn’t possibly think he could be a freeloader here. Who does he think he is?”

...

As expected, the Black family all echoed the same sentiments.

They all believed that Levi was obligated to sacrifice himself for their family.

“He should be honored that he has the opportunity to save Logan! Others don’t even have the chance to do so,” stated Jennie.

“What did you just say?” Zoey asked.

She and Levi were stunned.

What did she mean by that?

How could this be Levi's honor?

As if saving Logan is a blessing bestowed upon Levi!

Isn't that just ridiculous?

However, this was the way the Lopez and Black families operated.

They had grown increasingly shameless day by day.

"That's beside the point. He is Evie's father. How could all of you bear to see him suffer?" Zoey questioned as she stared at Meredith and Robert, who had always treated Evie very well.

"How is this matter related to Evie? In any case, she is his offspring. Both Evie and this man are your burdens!" Meredith berated her.

Zoey was astonished.

Don't they treat Evie very well?

She instantly came to the realization that they had been putting up a show. They had only been nice to Evie because Dale treated Evie with love.

Now that Dale had broken off their relationship, they instantly stopped with the facade.

It's no wonder they are now ignoring Evie...

"How would Levi burden me? My career is dependent on his! He doesn't rely on me at all. In fact, his business is extremely successful!" Zoey rebutted.

"His business? The Morris Group doesn't belong to him anymore!"

"Exactly! It's yours!"

Everyone ignored Levi and argued fervently that he had nothing to do with the company.

"That's it! I'm sick of talking to all of you!" Zoey bellowed and glared at all of them.

With that, she pushed Levi in his wheelchair and left.

My heart is in pain!

In utter pain and disbelief!

The Lopez family and the Black family are all horrible people.

Every single one of them is self-absorbed.

They only care about their own interests and would use any manipulative methods to achieve them!

After they left, Jennie said, "Grandpa and Grandma, I feel that Zoey has lost herself! How can she cope with taking care of a young kid and a disabled husband? She is the boss of the Morris Group!"

"Exactly! She will soon find herself in ruins!" Logan's parents exclaimed.

"What should we do then?" enquired Meredith. She was also worried about the same matter.

Robert, who was deep in thought, nodded in agreement.

"I think it would be better to transfer the control of Morris Group to both of you! We can't destroy the company's reputation by leaving it with Zoey!" Jennie suggested.

"Exactly! It is tough for Zoey to control such a big organization, especially when she has so much on her plate."

"You are right. It would be better if the company is controlled by a family, rather than a single person."

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1297

Instantly, the Blacks started to hatch a plan to take over Zoey's company.

They didn't dare to do it before as Zoey was protected by Dale.

However, times have changed.

“Alright. Let’s think of a way to take over the Morris Group.”

“Zoey will put up a strong fight. We must think of a foolproof plan to ensure that she willingly gives up the company!”

Meredith and Robert exchanged glances.

They were getting old and their only wish left were to help the Black family become more powerful.

This was their sole motive and calling.

They were willing to give up everything for their family.

Hence, they resolved to take over the Morris Group.

“Grandpa and Grandma, what do you think of this plan? We could...”

Jennie brought the two to a corner and started whispering to them.

“Don’t you think that we are crossing the line here?” asked Robert.

Meredith instantly replied, “I don’t see any issue with that. Let’s do this then!”

“Yes, we should do whatever it takes to achieve our goal!” Jennie nodded and murmured in agreement.

“But I think we should discuss some more first!” Robert disagreed.

“No. This is final. We must execute it whilst Levi is ill! This is the best opportunity we will ever get.”

“Exactly! Levi used to be so brilliant but he is nothing now. If we don’t strike now, we won’t have any more chances left,” Jennie chimed in.

“This is the final plan!” Meredith sounded adamant.

“We should at least inform the Lopez family...” suggested Robert.

Meredith agreed. “You are right. We may face difficulties doing it alone. It’s better to team up with the Lopez family.”

Zoey would never have thought that this was only the beginning.

Stealing Levi's kidney was just a small matter.

When they returned to North Hampton, Zoey found some caretakers to look after Levi. After all, he just had a kidney removed.

At that moment, the Garrison family were already on their way to North Hampton.

In fact, Tyrone Garrison had come personally.

He wanted to ensure that Levi was killed.

"What? Levi had one kidney removed?" Tyrone asked. He instantly laughed when he heard the news.

"He really is a piece of trash! I can't wait to visit him," Tyrone stated as he let out a cold laugh.

Soon, the Garrison Clan from Oakland City reached North Hampton.

They instantly rushed to Levi's house.

At that moment, Zoey was occupied with something else and Emma Jones had gone grocery shopping.

Only Levi and the children were left in the manor as Levi had asked the caretakers to leave.

Suddenly, Tyrone and his gang of people broke into Levi's manor and appeared in front of him.

"Levi Garrison! The day has finally come!" mocked Tyrone as he smiled at him coldly.

Levi sighed, "Why is it you again? You guys are so annoying. Get lost! You're not the one I'm waiting for anyway!"

In fact, Levi was waiting for the enemies who were hiding in the dark, not a nobody like Tyrone.

"Huh?" Tyrone asked in shock.

Why is Levi saying this?

More importantly, Levi looks calm and collected. This is nothing like how an injured person would behave.

How come he can give out such a strong vibe?

"You guys are also responsible for hurting my wife and mother, aren't you? I didn't look for you but you guys decided to come and visit me instead?" Levi let out a low growl.

"I can't believe you thought of taking revenge upon us! Look at you now; you are a cripple. You don't scare us!" yelled Tyrone.

“Is that all you have?” hollered Levi.

Suddenly, a loud explosion was heard and multiple figures appeared in the manor...

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1298

They were decked in black armor and wearing masks with both an angel and a devil.

They embody righteousness and wickedness.

Indeed, they were the protectors of Erudia and were walking national weapons.

They were also wicked in that they had killed millions of people.

“Ha!”

“Ha!”

“Ha!”

...

Their ancient daggers glittered and looked absolutely deadly.

Whoever the dagger touched would immediately die.

Tyrone and his gang were surrounded with such weapons pointed at them!

“What?” exclaimed Levi in astonishment as he looked at the familiar figures in front of him.

“Is this... Is this The Calamity?” Tyrone asked as his mouth widened in shock.

Although the Calamity had been oppressed by Winsor Campbell, the Garrison family was still no match for the group.

All the Garrisons were trembling in fear.

“Indeed! We are The Calamity!” Levi roared loudly.

An even more shocking scene then appeared.

Levi carried Evie and stood up from the wheelchair.

Tyrone and his gang gaped at Levi.

“What...What is going on?” Tyrone asked in disbelief.

Isn't Levi a cripple?

How could he stand up on his own?

And even walk around like a normal person?

And what is The Calamity doing here?

Endless questions were running through Tyrone's head.

Levi isn't injured at all!

He must be the master of The Calamity!

Furthermore, Olivia has been acting weirdly...

He suddenly thought of Olivia's past actions as well as the disappearances of Sampson and Jerry.

All of those must be related to Levi!

What the f*ck?

I can't believe it!

This is terrifying!

This...

Tyrone immediately broke out in cold sweat as those thoughts ran through his mind.

“Did you really think that I will spare the Garrison clan?” Levi asked Tyrone icily.

All the Garrisons shook in terror.

Tyrone started to tremble and stared at Levi. "That means you've been fine all along! You were just pretending to be injured to fool all of us!" Tyrone yelled.

"You are indeed smart. Too bad you figured it out so late," boomed Levi.

Levi would no longer put up with the Garrisons' threats and the hurt they had caused his family.

I can't and won't forgive them!

They have put my family through too much!

It is time for me to retaliate!

"Do you really think I wouldn't kill you?" Levi asked as his eyes blazed with murderous intent.

"Kill!"

"Kill!"

"Kill!"

Members of The Calamity echoed as they pumped their fists in the air.

Thud.

Thud.

Everyone in the Garrison family immediately got on their knees in fear.

Tyrone, also terrified, did the same thing.

He had only realized at this moment how scary Levi was.

Even Winsor Campbell was lied to!

He must be acting this way because there is a mission he has to complete.

He seems to be waiting for someone?

No wonder he warned me that I was not the person he was waiting for.

I'm so stupid to have sent myself into this trap.

"Do you admit to everything you have done?" Levi questioned Tyrone.

"Yes!" Tyrone immediately replied.

"Do you admit your mistake?" Levi continued asking.

“Yes!” Tyrone answered.

“You are here to kill me, aren’t you?” asked Levi.

“I...” stuttered Tyrone, who turned speechless.

That was indeed his goal!

I should have thought of it earlier...

The strange things that Olivia has been doing...

The uncanny happenings in Oakland City and the death of Jeong-seok all point to Levi.

However, like everyone, he was fooled into thinking that Levi was now a cripple and was incapable of doing anything.

“My daughter is here and I don’t want to kill in front of her, so I have thought of another punishment for you.” Levi said coldly.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1299

“What is it?” Tyrone asked with a hunch that Levi was up to no good.

“From now on, the Garrison family belongs to me! Everyone must obey me!” boomed Levi.

“What?” Tyrone expressed his astonishment as his face turned white.

Doesn't that mean all of us are Levi's slaves?

To give up my entire family is far worse than killing me!

“As for you, that is simple. There is a small town in Northgale that is so secluded that it does not even exist on the map. I will imprison you there for the rest of your life so you'll never see the outside world again!” commanded Levi.

Boom!

Tyrone felt like he was about to explode.

He would go crazy to be locked up in a place akin to a prison cell!

I am the master of the top ancient family, with wealth rivaling a nation's and power beyond most people's comprehension.

To be imprisoned in a secluded town in the desert would be unbearable for him.

Absolutely unbearable, given the fact that Tyrone was extremely ambitious.

“No! No! Please don't do this to me! I will do anything you ask if you don't imprison me there!” Tyrone begged like a mad man.

“Levi, I am your birth father! You cannot treat me like this!” Tyrone continued pleading.

Levi smirked and replied, "Did you ever think of that every time you tried to kill me? Did you see yourself as my father when my pregnant mother kneeled in front of the Garrison family for three days and three nights, or when you imprisoned my mother?"

...

The string of questions rendered Tyrone speechless.

"Bring him away now!" Levi commanded.

With that, the North Sky Lord whisked Tyrone away.

Tyrone would live the rest of his life in that small town in Northgale.

Subjecting him to banishment was more cruel than killing him!

Although Levi desired to murder him as Tyrone had committed numerous atrocities, he couldn't do so. After all, Tyrone was his birth father.

Levi couldn't bear to kill both of his parents but he had to punish Tyrone for what he did.

This was the perfect way to force Tyrone to repent for his sins!

All the punishments that Tyrone had inflicted upon his mother were now coming back to bite him in the rear end.

This was karma; no one could fight it.

With that, The Calamity had the loyalty of the Garrisons, the Garcias, among other prominent families.

In a blink of an eye, all these wealthy families were under the control of Levi.

Levi was now the wealthiest and richest man!

All the ancient families in Erudia practically belonged to him, and so were the assets of these families!

Levi then commanded his people to take care of his smaller problems, such as the families in South Hampton.

He then ordered the rest to support Osborn, the Three Musketeers, the Garrison clan in Haven, and so on.

Since all these people had made sacrifices for him and for Erudia, he would not let their descendants suffer.

With all this done, Levi awaited his mission as well his enemies' appearance.

It would soon happen.

They should be here anytime now.

At this moment, the Black and the Lopez families were discussing how to secretly take over the Morris Group.

After Meredith told Harry of Jennie's plans, the old man clapped his hands in delight.

"That is great! We will proceed with your request. I have already made the necessary arrangements!" Harry said.

"The only thing we have to do is wait for Zoey to make the first move!" Meredith commented gleefully.

Robert lamented, "I hope Zoey doesn't blame us. We just want to strengthen our empire! We are doing this for our descendants."

Robert still didn't agree with their cruel methods but he numbed himself with the belief that this would elevate the status of his family.

Jennie, on the other hand, revealed a sly grin.

Levi Garrison: The Return of the God of War [The Protector] Chapter 1300

They had had their eyes on Zoey for a very long period of time.

With the opportunity in their hands, they wouldn't let it slip away easily.

On that day, the Lopez and Black families called a meeting in order to force Zoey and Evie to turn up.

Although Levi had placed many bodyguards to protect Zoey, he didn't think much of it when the Lopez and Black families organized the meeting.

Zoey and Evie arrived at the Lopez family home.

Suddenly, a bunch of people surrounded them.

Every single one of them looked fierce and intimidating as if Zoey was under trial.

Zoey instantly felt that something was wrong.

Soon, Harry and Meredith arrived with a few others.

Amongst them was Logan's Grandpa and parents.

Then came the actual purpose of this gathering...

"We must thank Zoey for this meeting! If not for her, our three families rarely get the chance to meet up so cordially!" Meredith commented with a smile on her face.

However, she immediately switched the topic and said, "Since we are all one big family, we must unite. We have agreed that the Lopez family, the Zachs family, and the Black family will develop our resources and connections together. Also, we seniors of our respective families will be in charge of this collaboration."

“Yes! We support your plan!” echoed the younger generations of the three families.

“This will make the three families stronger! This is also the wish of the senior generation!”

“I hope that in the future when anyone mentions the South of Erudia, they will think of us!”

“What do you think, Zoey?” they asked.

Instantly, everyone’s gaze fell on her.

The purpose of the whole meeting was thus revealed.

Zoey nodded and said, “That’s great! I support it as well!”

“You can’t just verbalize your support; you must take action to show it! For our families to develop, I’m willing to sacrifice control over all my assets and connections!” Jennie commented.

“Yes, I’m also willing to contribute my share!” Henry stated.

“Me, too!” Fabian uttered.

...

Bailey and the rest also expressed their support.

Only Zoey had yet to follow suit.

She finally understood that this was their scheme all along.

It wasn’t about the union of the three families; it was about taking over her control of the Morris Group!

They had indeed thought of great excuses to conceal their plot.

Everyone was so supportive of it.

They are shameless to the core.

The only person who was dismayed was Robert, who felt that they were too harsh on Zoey.

“Zoey, what do you think?” asked Meredith.

Everyone instantly turned to look at Zoey.

“I agree with your plan! I’ll use my own resources to support the union of the three families!” Zoey replied.

Instantly, Robert boomed, “That’s great! We shall use the assets under your name then!”

“What’s so good about that?” commented Harry and Meredith.

“What do you mean by only using assets under Zoey’s name? All of us are contributing our businesses; it would be unfair to give special treatment to Zoey!” they argued.

“If Zoey wants to show her support, she must give up everything! That is what everyone else is doing!” rebutted Meredith.

“Exactly! We can’t change the rules just for her, unless she doesn’t see herself as a part of our family!” the others discussed.

Zoey surveyed the room and let out a smile.

“If you want to take control over the Morris Group, just tell me directly. Why are you going in circles?” she asked.

“Exactly, that’s what we want! The Morris Group is under your name and you should relinquish control to help the union of the three families!” the rest echoed.

“What if I don’t want to do that?” Zoey questioned.

Zoey knew clearly what they were trying to accomplish.