The Pinnacle of Life Chapter 2591

However, he did not think so because he detected nothing out of it. He had used countless methods but failed to split the stone, so it was relatively hard at best. Eventually, Goldie stored it inside the storage ring, and he never saw Goldie taking it out again.

Could it be that stone?

Was it the Yellow Obsidian Crystal?

What a fateful irony!

‘What should I do?’

Alex was anxious, now equivalent to being trapped in the spell formation. He would be annihilated as soon as he went out. He kept his soul power at 10% all the time.

However, more than a hundred people instantly came outside the spell formation. They were all Galaxy Nova trialists that Baton had summoned.

“Your Highness!”

“Your Highness, may we know the reason for our urgent summoning?”

The trialists were extremely courteous and so respectful to Baton that they almost kneeled and saluted him.

Alex was shocked upon hearing those words. ‘Turns out this bast*rd is some prince of a country?’

At this moment, the group of people outside joined forces and madly bombarded the spell formation. Everyone attacked it with an overwhelming aura. Alex began to get a little nervous, fearing that the spell formation would truly be broken. When the time came, he would meet his demise without knowing the cause of death in the face of that many experts from the Galaxy Nova.

Fortunately, this spell formation was very stable.

Not only did it possess its own energy, but most importantly, the formation flags could proactively communicate with Earth's essence and power of laws and integrate those energies into the spell formation and the formation flags.

In fact, their frantic attacks now consumed the surrounding spiritual energy of the world. They attacked it for a good while.

Baton waved his hand. "Stop. It's useless. The Earth essence is overwhelming and extremely dense. We won't be able to destroy this spell formation as long as the Earth essence of this place isn't extinguished."

He turned to other schemes.

He shouted outside to tell Alex that they were going to his companions. When the time came, they would capture those people and skin them alive so he would come out.

Immediately afterward, Alex just saw those people leaving.

He obtained some information from Prince Baton that they would capture Mystic Maiden and the others along the way.

'Bast*rds!' Alex cursed in his heart. He was furious. They were truly despicable and shameless.

To his surprise, those dignified experts would actually commit such immoral deeds.

However, Mystic Maiden, whose body was restricted, had a low cultivation level, and her battle power was still no match for him... Most importantly, she must be worrying about him, as he could sense her approaching. Therefore, she would be miserable once she encountered the horde of trialists from the Galaxy Nova.

'I can't stay here. I must inform her!'

After pondering for a while, Alex planned to leave the twenty four formation flags behind and stealthily escape to find Mystic Maiden. He just did whatever he thought of-He flicked his fingers to change the position of the formation flags and expand the area of effects for the spell formation.

In an instant, Baton sensed it and hurriedly retreated. It was then that the well-prepared Alex activated another bout of long-distance Instant Teleportation and silently left the spell formation, chasing in the direction the Mystic Maiden was located.

Soon, he noticed that two groups of people along the way were moving towards the same location. He could almost confirm that she would encounter them.

Alex activated the divine eyes and looked in the direction of Mystic Maiden, only to find out that Mystic Maiden was not alone. Even the Immortal Bird and Lunafreya were there. They did not leave, so the number of targets would increase.

Alex instantly understood Mystic Maiden's intention.

Neither she nor Alex knew the place that Daya wanted to go and had to rely on the Immortal Bird or Luneth Mueller. Feeling unsafe with the Immortal Bird, she had brought Luneth along as well. However, this clearly increased their chances of exposure.

'I can't deal with that d*mn prince now.'

'But I shouldn't have issues killing a few minions, right?'

Although he had lost 90% of his soul power, his strength had increased significantly, and his soul power became at least five or six times stronger from the transcendence with the completion of three thousand golden cores earlier. If he calculated that, his strength would not differ much from before the upgrade.

Alex put on the outfit of a Galaxy Nova trialist and quickly blended in.

Pitter-patter!

Rain poured in the lush forest with lightning and thunder in the distance. The sky was exceptionally dark, with visibility greatly reduced.

“Hey, guys! Wait for me!”

Alex ran over and greeted the people in the back, speaking the Galaxy Nova language as he was now wearing the outfit of a Galaxy Nova trialist. Everyone was a skeletal person, so the others could not tell his identity unless a soul marker had been planted on him from the beginning.

Prince Baton had planted one on Alex before, but Alex had dispelled it. He refused to give up on the holy tool of ancient Buddhism and the Yellow Obsidian Crystal, so he naturally chose to fight to the death against the spell formation.

“You’re alone?”

This team comprised eight people in total with a variety of cultivation levels. The one with the highest level was at Heavenly Immortal realm, and Alex saw two or three hundred dark yellow bone patterns on his bones through their battle robes. He was the person in charge here and he was also the one who spoke.

The rest, having slightly weaker power, followed him blindly.

All eight people looked at Alex vigilantly. Clearly, those people were not easy to fool. Even if everyone was a Galaxy Nova member, they still maintained sufficient vigilance. It was possible that there had been many incidents of killing each other to seize the bone patterns.

“Yeah, it’s just me. I’m alone, and I am not strong enough. I’d be dead meat if I were to encounter those extraterrestrial aborigines.” Alex let out a self-deprecating laugh.

And thus, the crowd lowered their guard against him. They certainly saw no one else, not to mention that he did not seem dangerous either.

“Where are you from?” someone asked.

Alex answered, “Purple Cloud Academy.”

The scene instantly became lively...

“So you’re a Purple Cloud Academy student. I heard you guys have gotten quite miserable this time. Almost all the people who came died, and someone even killed the once in a lifetime female genius, Alyssa Huffman.”

“What a pity. I originally wanted to go to the Horizon Clan to become the Huffman family’s live-in son-in-law, but the chance is apparently gone.”

“You? You still want to become the Huffmans’ live-in son-in-law? I believe you can’t even enter the entrance of the Huffmans.”

“But since Alyssa Huffman has been killed, I’m afraid the Horizon Clan will be broken-hearted. I wonder if they will send people over to investigate it and avenge her? Those Huffmans will definitely go crazy and may even go all out to activate the taboo and send in a group of experts outside the laws...”

Alex said nothing while listening to them. However, the more he listened, the more frightened he became.

Did the first female trialist he killed hail from such a powerful background?

As for those experts outside the laws, who were they?

Unfortunately, it was now difficult for Alex to ask much about them as he would be exposing his identity. Through the curtain of rain, he discovered with his divine eyes that the other team rushed in the direction of Mystic Maiden and the others. It seemed that the team had discovered their tracks.

‘D*mn it. There’s still a great distance... But how did they find out?’

Alex had ants in his pants and couldn’t care about the others. He initially wanted to infiltrate the team, solving the problem quickly by catching them off guard, but he could only settle for the second-best now.

He suddenly turned around, looked at the back of the forest on a rainy night, and shouted, “Who’s there? Come out.”

His words shocked the Galaxy Nova team. They all followed and looked at the place where Alex was observing and heightened their vigilance.

However, they found nothing.

“What’s going on? What did you find?” the leading captain asked.

“A... Naked native moved rapidly and silently. He just disappeared in a flash,” Alex solemnly said with a concentrated look, as if it were true.

Someone said, “Boss, just now, His Highness said that one of those few extraterrestrials seemed to have a stealth ability.”

The leader waved his hand. “Be careful...”

All the eight people stared intently at a corner.

Alex said, “I’ll go try it out first. Those extraterrestrial psychos killed my best friend, so I must kill them with my own hands.” As he spoke, he took out the Xavion Sword.

Just as the few were thinking about how tactful Alex was for willingly becoming the first person to take the risk, he instantly used his killer blow. The long-prepared Requiem Clock rang loudly, shocking the people’s souls.

He fiercely swung the Xavion Sword at the captain.

Poof!

A head rushed up to the sky after it was severed by the sword.

The captain’s soul shuddered and was near death, but he did not die immediately, and his spirit was in a daze after it was shocked by the Requiem Clock. However, when he came to his senses, he was already decapitated, and his soul had begun to dissipate. At the same time, he also saw the heads of two companions fly up, ending up in the same fate as him.

Alex’s sword decapitated three people at once.

“Ahh!”

The remaining people finally came to their senses, and each of them furiously stared at him with wide eyes. Someone furiously roared, “You mongrel, how dare you lay a hand on the people from our House Kjerag?!”

How could they not be furious?

He was too despicable. They were all members of the Galaxy Nova and were doing their best for His Highness, Baton, but he used such means to deceive them and kill their people. How despicable and shameless!

Subsequently...

Alex teleported behind him and severed him across the waist with the sword.

On the other hand, he lashed out at a soul that was trying to escape with the palm strike, Thunder Palm Mantra, wiping it out. Eventually, the remaining four people were completely awake.

“He isn’t a member of the Galaxy Nova! He’s an extraterrestrial psycho!”

“The ringing earlier contained the energy of ancient Buddhism! Oh gosh! He’s the one that His Highness is dealing with! How did he run out here? He’s even dressed as a member of our Galaxy Nova, disguising himself and launching a sneak attack! How sinister! This extraterrestrial psycho shall be d*mned! Kill him!”

They yelled and lashed out at Alex one after the other using their strongest attacks.

Alex couldn’t care less. He intentionally tested his passive defense by confronting the opponents’ swords with his bones. As a result, his bones clunked continuously, with sparks flying everywhere. His bones unexpectedly wore down the blades of his opponents.

His strength shockingly soared after the transcendence of three thousand golden cores, especially the existence of Ymir’s Divine Bone that expanded his bone evolution to his entire body. His bones were now harder than a flying sword like they were invincible.

Poof!

Another head flew up. It was the sixth one. Two people remained on the field.

It was raining cats and dogs, and it was getting dark, yet the massacre still continued without a bloody aura, with only the fear of death.

“Flee separately and report to His Highness!” a man shouted.

However, a sword point suddenly appeared before his forehead and pierced his mind palace as soon as he finished speaking.

The last person fled desperately at a breakneck speed and thought that he could escape. A long golden spear, however, appeared behind him and stabbed his body.

All eight people were annihilated.

Alex did not stop for a moment. After killing them, he gushed forward madly.

Another group was only ten kilometers away from Mystic Maiden and the others.

For the trialists, they could reach in the blink of an eye. He saw that Mystic Maiden had also sensed them and began fleeing toward the other side.

“Go!”

“Capture them alive!”

Alex heard the screams.

There were more in this group, with a total of thirteen people.

If they were to all rush over, Mystic Maiden and the others would surely be captured. Alex also feared the repercussions after acting against them.

“Ahh!”

Alex roared in the language of Galaxy Nova, “The extraterrestrial psycho is here! He has run out of the spell formation, and His Highness is injured! Come and save High Highness quickly!”

On a rainy night, he crashed into the group of Galaxy Nova trialists while stumbling in his footsteps.

“What?”

“His Highness is injured? Where is he?”

In the rainstorm, Alex launched a preemptive strike before the group could even distinguish right from wrong. Half of them surrounded Alex. It was then that Alex bore his teeth.

“He’s here!”

What awaited those Galaxy Nova trialists was the deadly sword light.

Poof! Poof!

Two heads were instantly severed.

Both of them were existences with the highest cultivation levels in the group.

The scene suddenly became chaotic with continuous shouting and cursing.

Alex sighed a little. He unleashed the sword blow with all his might and intended to kill three experts, but his soul power, reduced by 90%, still affected his speed and strength. So, he did not swing the Xavion Sword fast enough. Just as he was about to kill the third person, the blade only cut halfway through the bone of his arm before the opponent blocked it with his sword.

“Sinister bast*rd, you aren’t even a Galaxy Nova member! You’re an extraterrestrial psycho! Kill him!”

That man was infuriated as he howled to the sky.

After he shook away Alex with all his might, he held the silver Skyward Blade and slashed at Alex’s neck with a destructive aura.

Alex opened his mouth and spat a Buddhist mantra. “Om Mani Padme Hum!”

It turned out to be ineffective.

“D*mn. Did I mispronounce the mantra?”

He did not dodge the incoming sword but instead blocked it with his arm.

After he confirmed that his bones could resist the Earthly Immortal tier flying sword attacks in the battle earlier, he had extreme confidence in the hardness of his bones.

‘Insufficient speed and strength don’t matter.’

‘I’ll use my defense to complement them.’

‘Let’s hurt each other in battle!’

Clang!

The arm, slashed by the blades, still emitted the clashing sounds of metal. At the same time, Alex severed his body from head to toe with the Xavion Sword, splitting him in half.

“Kill!”

Mystic Maiden of the Nine Heavens and the others soon rushed back. The Immortal Bird and Luneth followed behind. Thus, the battle became increasingly heated.

Alex was now like a ferocious ancient beast. In the battle, he went offensive and madly pushed all the way without defending himself. He blocked the attacks that landed on his Vitals with his hands. Such actions were baffling, so the others thought he was foolish to block their weapons with his arms. Undoubtedly throwing straws against the wind, they were killed in return, nonetheless.

“Be careful! This extraterrestrial psycho has cultivated the invincible body!” someone shouted to remind his companion.

However, it was already too late.

Ten people had died in the team of thirteen trialists. The remaining two people were annihilated after being surrounded, whereas the last person had a treasure on him and blocked the arrow out of Mystic Maiden’s Arash’s Bow.

The battle ended.

Mystic Maiden and the others looked at Alex in astonishment.

“You’ve become much stronger. You actually withstood the flying swords forcefully with your bones?”

Alex smiled. He wondered if they would be even more surprised if he were to tell them that his current state was the result of an inexplicable mass of fluorescence that had reduced 90% of his soul power in his sea of consciousness.

“We better not stay here for long. That prince has gathered more than a hundred trialists to besiege us.” Alex said.

And quickly explained Baton’s identity as a prince. Afterward, those few people cleaned up the battlefield. Every dead trialist turned out to be a great fortune.

Just then, a furious roar came from the forest. The three people and the bird looked over, definitely in a foul mood.

“Go quickly!”

“That old prince definitely knows I’m not inside the spell formation. If he were to gather a hundred Galaxy Nova trialists to besiege us in all directions, we surely wouldn’t escape even with the Immortal Bird.”

“Let’s leave this area quickly while his soul can’t sense us!”

He was slightly reluctant to let go of the twenty four formation flags as they could be as powerful as that, even though he had not studied them carefully. Thus, if he were to lose them, he would definitely be broken-hearted for a few years. However, their lives were the most important thing now, and it would not be too late for him to get them back after escaping this tribulation.

He had set up many traps inside the spell formation force field with the twenty four formation flags, so he believed that not many people could crack it.

The night had descended entirely upon them.

It was chaotic inside the forest, now that it was raining harder, accompanied by gale and thunder. Even the divine consciousness of the trialists was subjected to great mental interference.

Under cover of the extreme weather, Alex and the others successfully sneaked away from the besiegement of the Galaxy Nova crowd.

During the period, they encountered Prince Baton's pursuit several times and saw him yelling while flying past them overhead. However, this storm, coupled with Mystic Maiden's force field for concealment, allowed them to dodge him smoothly... Even if it were a wide ranging scan with divine consciousness, it would be challenging to find the movements of those few people thanks to the ruckus brought on by the rain and wind.

He had lost the trails of Alex and the others.

Roar!

Baton vented his anger by completely smashing a mountain into pieces. Countless trees suffered the aftermath, and all the bone demons living in this forest trembled, not daring to show up.

Seven days later, Alex and the others rushed to the beach.

They wanted to go to the Eastern Immortal Island, but now they could only go there by sea.

"Orphan, orphan..."

The Immortal Bird opened its mouth and cried. It flapped its wings helplessly while looking at the endless sea.

"What do you mean?"

Alex kicked it rudely. It did not fly in the sky all the way to prevent itself from being targeted by Baton's people. This guy, however, was enormous and too apparent as a target, so Alex had long wanted to kick it away.

Subsequently, this dumb bird pestered him endlessly and refused to leave amid an avid display of loyalty. It wanted to stay by Alex and the Mystic Maiden's side and even said it was willing to work like a horse, ready to risk life and limb.

In fact, it was just afraid of death. It was branded as a member of the extraterrestrial psychos, and the golden eagle's death had also become its success.

Therefore, the members of the Galaxy Nova would not let it off the hook. They would hunt it down even if it were the golden eagle's family or friend... It was now equivalent to being socially dead. Once its whereabouts were exposed, it would instantly become a target.

Who asked it to be that big and special?

The Immortal Bird pointed to the sky with its bony wing and shook its wings before making a gesture by lying on the ground.

Those few people did not understand it.

Alex kicked it, and it somersaulted. "Tell me. You're a bird too, but why can't you speak? How strange. You should have activated your wisdom, melted the beast's throat bone, and you would've spoken human language long ago if your cultivation reached this level. Stunted growth?"

"Orphan?"

The Immortal Bird was immediately dumbfounded, ashamed to show its face. It lowered its head and remained silent.

At this moment, Luneth looked up to the sky at the back. She reminded the crowd to pay attention as a stranger appeared in the sky.

At first glance, it turned out to be a white Pegasus. Upon close inspection, this Pegasus looked bizarre as it was, surprisingly, not all bones but had a complete appearance. It looked like a living Pegasus with a pair of broad, white wings. However, Alex understood it after taking another closer look. The Pegasus did not possess the same ability as Baton but was rather an inanimate creature made of a certain wood. It was a flying wooden horse.

A black-robed lady sat on the wooden horse.

The most surprising thing was the lady holding a rope in her hand and another lady tied to the other end, hanging high up in the sky. She flew with the wooden horse and danced with the wind like a kite.

“Who is that person?”

“What a strange combination!”

“Be careful. It better not turn out to be some trick by the Galaxy Nova trialists.”

The few people stayed vigilant.

It was then that the wooden horse in the sky slammed into the sea surface as fast as lightning. Then, an anomaly suddenly occurred. Mysterious runes flashed in the sky, and a tremendous pressure seemingly acted on that wooden Pegasus, causing it to fall violently and slam hard into the seawater. The lady hanging by the rope just happened to crash into the area next to Alex’s feet.

“Ah! It hurts! H-help me!” the woman cried for help when she saw Alex.

It turned out that she spoke English with a heavy South Californian accent.

Alex was instantly stunned, meeting someone here that could speak his mother tongue.

‘Who is she?’

Her face was unrecognizable because her flesh had also been taken away.

Alex quickly asked, “What’s your situation? Who abducted you?”

The lady was ecstatic when she heard Alex’s words, finally meeting someone who understood her. Just as she was about to reply, the woman dressed in black, who had previously fallen into the sea with the trojan horse, yanked the lady back with a pull of the rope.

The lady flew into the air like a bullet, landing hard on the trojan horse.

Clank!

Upon impact, the trojan horse that could fly was broken. However, it wasn't damaged solely by this hit. The actual reason was that it was sent into the sea by a burst of energy, breaking away from that attack.

This resulted in the woman's rage. She grabbed the American lady by the neck and started shouting at her. If she used any more force on her grip, she might actually break her neck.

"Stop!" Alex rushed over and spoke in an ancient language.

This was because the woman also spoke the language. She, too, had come from the universe. In such moments, Alex couldn't remain indifferent when a fellow American was in danger.

The woman raised her head and looked at Alex.

In an instant, Alex felt a chill down his spine. He took a good look at the woman's face, which was simply nightmarish.

It wasn't a skeleton, and neither was it skin and flesh. On her face grew a translucent black film, and it wrapped her whole head. It looked eerie, as there were only contours in place of the eyes, nose, lips, and ears. There weren't even any holes... It was as if her whole skull was wrapped under her skin.

Alex's heart shivered. He remained silent.

However, Luneth shouted out in fear, "Ah! That's hideous! That's terrifying!"

That one sentence immediately triggered the woman. She let out a chilly aura and glared at Luneth like a devil. "You dare call me hideous?! Be prepared to face death, b*tch!"

She then threw the lady away. With a pounce, she rushed towards Luneth.

"Die!"

Her aura shook the heavens and earth, making people feel like their souls were about to break.

It was at that very moment that Alex and the others understood what they had gotten themselves into. This woman was more terrifying than Baton. When she pounced towards them, Luneth's body couldn't bear the sheer fear within her heart, and she fell to her knees, defenseless.

At the critical moment, Alex lent a helping hand. Medusa's Aegis Shield appeared in his hand as he lunged towards the woman, facing her attack straight on.

"Hmph, you asked for it!" The woman snorted, her voice full of disdain.

The punch landed heavily on the shield.

"Argh!"

A loud pitch scream came from the shield. It was some kind of mental scream that could hit the deep ends of someone's soul.

The woman let out a ferocious attack, intending to break the shield and kill Alex. Unfortunately, she was disappointed. This weird-looking shield remained unscathed.

Most importantly, a face appeared on the shield, coming alive.

"What's this?"

"Is this a demonic tool?"

The woman stared curiously at the shield. She then saw with her own eyes, a lady with snakes for hair opening her eyes.

The petrification had started.

Alex saw with his own eyes how the woman slowly looked unwell. She was being affected by the shield, slowly turning into stone.

Ecstatic, Alex loved the shield now more than ever. At the same time, he attacked with the Xavion Sword.

Boom!

Yet The Xavion Sword missed, it crossed over the woman's head and sliced viciously down into the sea, where a humongous pillar of water erupted to the air. Vast lands of the beach cleared out. A ten meter long and dozen meter wide channel of energy stretched out towards the deep end of the sea.

It was as if the horizon had split into two.

It would seem that the attack had failed. Alex realized he had underestimated the woman dressed in black.

She could actually recover from Medusa's freezing gaze in such a short amount of time?

In the next second, there was a loud explosion.

Mystic Maiden had fired Arash's bow, the arrow, hitting straight in the woman's chest and exploding. As the debris cleared, they could see that the woman's black blouse had been torn. A bowl-size hole appeared in her chest, showing the singed, tar-black flesh.

Her chest had been torn open by Mystic Maiden's arrow, and it dripped with dark green liquid.

It was entirely out of their expectations.

'Is she still human?'

"Such a chilling and evil aura!" Mystic Maiden said.

"Is this thing still human?" Luneth couldn't stand it.

Turning into a skeleton upon arrival of the Underworld had already given her the chills. Still, such hideousness right in front of her eyes went way beyond her level of acceptance. She'd never seen anything so disgusting in her life.

"If I were to turn into such a state, I'd rather die."

"Then die!" The woman was furious and howled loudly.

She waved her hand aggressively and delivered a deadly hit that sent Alex and the others flying. Luneth and Immortal Bird shouted in pain. They somersaulted several times in the air and landed in the sea. The attack almost wiped out their souls.

Alex and Mystic Maiden didn't fare any better either. They were curled up in a ball, their armors breaking, as their ribs clattered against one another.

"Argh, your intercostal space is too small, I'm stuck!"

"How's that my fault? Why are your ribs so thick?"

"What should we do? I can't get it out!"

"Use some force, d*mn it!"

"I'm scared to break your bones!"

Looking at the comical situation, the American lady sighed. "You guys should leave now. You don't stand a chance against her. I'm sorry for bringing you trouble."

Alex complained to himself. 'This isn't just trouble. This is a life-and-death situation. God, you're so blind. Can't you see we're stuck here?'

"This shield is pretty good!" The woman gestured

A strong power acted upon Alex's hand, stealing Medusa's Aegis Shield by force. She then tossed it around in her hand, even turning Medusa over and staring back at it with her eyes half-opened.

Despite the glare of death, she wasn't one bit afraid, and there was no sign of her being petrified either.

Crank!

Alex separated himself from Mystic Maiden by force. Mystic Maiden broke a rib, but she was strong and didn't even whimper in pain. She reattached her rib by hand and healed up quickly with bone patterns.

The woman glanced at them and snickered coldly. "Trialists are really getting weaker by the generation. I don't even have the desire to eat you."

With that, she turned over and looked at the tied-up American lady. "Your companion looked tastier. If you call him over, I don't mind giving you another chance at life."

The lady shook her head. "Don't even think about it, you'll never find him."

Alex was confused, unable to understand anything from their conversation, let alone the entire situation. He asked, "Who are you guys?"

"She's the Corpse King's daughter!"

A voice could suddenly he heard. Someone was rushing over from the vast sea, and under his feet was a golden boat. The person arriving was a young man. He had defined facial features and looked like an undeniably handsome gentleman.

"Oh no, honey, please leave immediately! She'll kill you," the lady shouted in anxiety.

"Mandy, you know very well that I won't leave without you!" The man's words sounded like a proclamation of love.

"Hahahaha..."

The woman dressed in black, also known as the daughter of the Corpse King, suddenly let out a hearty laugh. Her pair of unlookable eyes stared at the man. She said, "My beloved, you've finally come to meet me."

Pfft...

Alex was shocked by her words, nearly choking on his own mental saliva.

'This man here is pretty handsome, but still less compared to me...'

That was just how confident and cocky Alex was.

However, the Corpse King's daughter was actually a corpse. Alex couldn't imagine how they both would embrace and make out. It was a terrifying thought. He saw the man's mouth twitching in disgust. The man even seemed to shudder, like shivering after coming out of a bath in cold, bitter winter. His heart couldn't handle it.

The man said, "Don't say something so foolish, this isn't your choice to make."

The woman sneered and frowned. "You ate my Spiritual Corpse Bead, so you are, in fact, my husband. And no one in the universe can change this, am I not right?"

The man looked troubled, mumbling in frustration. "Why am I so attractive? When will such luck stop?"

Alex was speechless upon hearing this.

Suddenly, the man attacked by throwing a dagger.

Whoosh.

In a shocking instant, Alex felt his brain go numb. The power of the dagger was too immense, making him feel like the world was about to end. It slashed to the air and created a ripple of vibrations. Wherever the dagger passed, a vision of another mental space appeared.

The space enveloped the woman.

Pshh...

The dagger dug a hole right in between the woman's brows.

'Such force!'

Alex had calculated the man's attack from the woman's point of view and concluded that he might suffer the same fate, wounded at a vital point and unable to escape.

'Such a resolute man.'

'He was still just sighing about his fate of love with this woman, and in the next second, he's killing the woman he had just been talking about.'

Alex then took the chance and grabbed Medusa's Aegis Shield back.

On the other hand, the man shouted urgently, "The old dried fish will resurrect soon, dash!"

'Who's the old dried fish?'

'Oh, he means the woman. She does kind of look like an old dried fish.'

The man quickly cut the ropes around his wife and embraced her tightly. "Mandy, I'm sorry for all your pain. It's my fault! I'll get you out, and we'll never be separated again."

Mandy nodded and said, "Bring them along! They're good guys, and they're from the States too!"

"They are American?" The man was surprised and looked towards Alex and the others.

Just then, the woman suddenly let out a peal of high-pitch maniacal laughter, despite having her forehead slashed open. A stream of thick energy surrounded her body, eerie and dark. She had resurrected. Her aura seemed to be linked to the lands in some way. It was mysterious and somewhat evil.

"Run!" The man shouted, slightly nervous.

He summoned the dagger back with his hand and used mental power to control it, this time to attack. It headed straight for the woman's head and attacked seven times, each going right through her skull. Her whole head was a wreck. The attacks bore more than ten holes. If it'd been any other average person, they'd have been long dead. However, the daughter of the Corpse King was obviously different. She seemed to be immortal.

This time, her body recovered even faster. The holes caused by the dagger were healing at a speed visible to the eye. Her aura was also getting stronger.

"Follow me!" The man carried his wife and quickly jumped onto the golden boat in the sea, beckoning to Alex and the others as he moved.

Alex and Mystic Maiden took one last look at the woman and jumped onto the boat as well, followed by Luneth and the Immortal Bird...

The Immortal Bird's was too large, so it could only hang onto the side of the boat with its claws. Its body landed in the water and was dragged along by the boat as they headed East.

Soon, the woman's face had recovered, and all the wounds on her head were healed. She glared viciously at the golden boat that sped away, her skin-wrapped skull looking ruthless.

"You can't escape!"

"You've eaten my Spiritual Corpse Core, so you're meant to be mine!"

The blue sea looked like one with the skies-the cliffs surrounding them were filled with flowers in bloom. Right now, the ocean was quiet. The winds and waves were gentle, and the setting sun shone on the waters, creating countless star-like sparkles.

The boat that Alex and the others were on was fully gold, as if it was an actual block of gold.

Upon further inspection, one would notice that it wasn't made of gold. On the boat surface were slim patterns. It looked like some sort of wood grain. It took a while for Alex to confirm that this was actually a mystical boat made of divine golden bamboo.

"Honey, these are friends I made by the seaside. They tried to stop the Corpse King's daughter, and they come from the same country as us. If you can, do give them a hand. That woman must be crazy mad by now and won't let us go that easily," Mandy said.

The man took a good look at Alex and Mystic Maiden and nodded. Then, he pulled the lady into a tight hug. Even though she was a skeleton, he still kissed her without hesitating.

"Uhhh..."

Alex and the others froze in place. The sudden display of affection shocked them.

'More importantly, why would he kiss a skeleton?'

'Does this get his gears going or something?'

Alex had kissed Daya like this before. However, their tough teeth and bones was an experience no different than chewing stone.

“Don’t!” The lady pushed her eager man away. “There are others here save some face.”

The man remained indifferent. “But they don’t have faces.”

Alex and the others fell silent.

The lady said shyly, “I was talking about you.”

The man continued in a serious tone. “Saving face is the last thing on my mind compared to being affectionate with you.”

Mystic Maiden turned her head over, unwilling to watch any more of this.

‘Was this displaying affection?’

‘No, this is displaying bullsh*t!’

The lady pushed the man away and said bashfully, “Can’t you be serious for a moment?”

After that, she introduced themselves to Alex and the others. “Nice to meet y’all. Let me introduce myself. I’m Mandy, and he’s my husband.”

“He’s quite famous in America. He’s the principal of Flying Eagles Academy, Charles Lewin. Have you guys heard of him? Are you people from America as well?”

“Erm...” Alex was stunned.

There had only ever been two principals of Flying Eagles Academy, and they were joint principals. One was his father-in-law, Gilbert.

The other was Jade’s ex-husband, Charles Lewin, who went by the nickname, Xerxes Lawlor.

As soon as Alex heard he was Jade’s ex, seeing him put on such a public display of affection with another woman in the Underworld made him feel uncomfortable.

‘No wonder Jade didn’t wanna get back with him.’

‘What a jerk...’

At that moment, Alex had taken himself off the list of jerks. This was a typical double standard. Alex could condone his own disloyalty, but that didn't mean he'd do the same for other men.

Mandy soon asked, "Do you guys know each other?"

'Of course, we do! I'd even recognize his ashes...' However, Alex still said, "I don't know him, but I think I've heard of him? Commander Benmore's husband, was it?"

"And you can't be Commander Benmore, right? You have to be careful having an affair... Mistresses are hated, so think it through!"

The Pinnacle of Life Chapter 2600

Jade was Alex's master. Even though she hadn't done anything significant for Alex, even tricking him at first, she was still his master. Most importantly, Jade had sacrificed so much for America. She defended the borders for decades as if it were one day. He respected that very much.

Jade was a legendary woman.

However, someone tried seducing her husband while protecting the country and succeeded in doing so. This obviously made Alex very uncomfortable.

This was why Alex was acting so straightforwardly.

"You..." Mandy was utterly stunned and looked at Alex in disbelief. It was lucky that she'd lost her flesh, and the others couldn't see her face, or else it must be an exciting expression.

"Don't talk nonsense, I'm not a mistress," she growled.

Principal Lewin definitely took his woman's side, glaring at Alex. "You know nothing, kiddo. Stop lying, or I can't guarantee what I might do to you."

Alex had met Xerxes before, and Jade was there when it happened too. Jade even embraced Alex just to make Xerxes jealous, and she'd succeeded...

However, right at this moment, Alex was just a skeleton. If he didn't proclaim his identity, Xerxes wouldn't know that he was jade's student. As for Xerxes, he looked very different from reality as well.

To put it blankly, his current appearance wasn't real. He was just a skeleton, but just like Baton, his appearance was an image conjured from soul power. The two weren't close at all. If Mandy hadn't told them his true identity, he wouldn't have known that he's Principal Lewin.

On the other hand, Alex was truly surprised about Xerxes' powers since they weren't this strong before.

'What made it skyrocket?'

"Ahem... I'm not sure of the whole story, to be honest. I had just heard some rumors by accident. If I said anything wrong, do pardon me," Alex said.

Since his powers now were weakened by ten percent, he could only let go of the issue. Else that f*ckboy Xerxes might really beat him up because of his mistress. Besides, he didn't want to let them know his identity.

"Hmph!" Mandy snorted, obviously still mad. Then she said something that caught Alex off guard. "The rumor you heard is the exact opposite of the truth."

Stunned, Alex asked, "What do you mean? You're not the mistress, but it's Commander Benmore..."

"Ahem!" Now it was Xerxes' turn to fake a cough. "Why are we talking about this? The situation's critical now, and our lives are at stake. The most important thing now is to escape."

Mandy said sadly, "I just feel uncomfortable. I'm the victim here, but everybody thinks I'm the mistress."

Everyone fell into speechlessness once more.

Xerxes gently consoled his significant other gently, "There, there. Be a good girl, and let's not talk about this. It's all in the past. Jade... It's not easy for her either."

Mandy said bitterly, “I’m not blaming her. I pity her more than you do, if not, I wouldn’t have lent you to her in the first place! I just don’t wanna take all the blame.”

Now, Alex was full of curiosity and listened with full attention. ‘What happened?’

Even Mystic Maiden was attracted and was listening intently. What did the word “lent” mean?

She suddenly asked, “Does the ‘lent’ mean surrogate?”

Whoosh!

All eyes now landed on Mystic Maiden.

‘How did she think of something so ridiculous?’

“Caw, caw...”

Suddenly, Immortal Bird let out a bitter cry, its body struggling in the sea, desperate to fly. Unfortunately, there was a flying restriction here, so he had no way to fly.

“What’s the matter?”
