

The Pinnacle of Life Chapter 430

Sky immediately rushed up to him. "Alex, is Steel Tower really still alive? Can he still be saved?"

Alex replied, "I think so. Please evacuate the room for now. If I try saving him now, we might still have time to bring him back."

Sky knew that Alex was an Immortal Doctor, according to Wallace. Even though he believed that Steel Tower had passed, he decided to let Alex try what he can this time. He immediately ordered everyone to leave so that Alex wouldn't be disrupted.

In just a few minutes, everyone left the room, closing the door shut behind them. They couldn't help but doubt Alex's abilities.

"Can he really be saved?"

"Why am I feeling so anxious?"

"I can tell if a person is still alive or not, you know?" Ms. Nanami huffed coldly as she took a glance at Sky before leaving the room.

Anna said, "Sky, I think Ms. Nanami is angry."

Sky sighed. "I have to let Alex try no matter what. If Alex said that he could bring him back, I don't mind if I offend a disciple of Hygieia Valley. If Steel Tower really could come back to us, then that wouldn't be an issue."

"Do you think he'll come back?"

“We’ll leave that to fate.”

At this very moment, Alex was saving Steel Tower using the Beleben Soul Jinx from the Ultimate Book of Medicine. This was the most mysterious skill that Spirit Doctors use. No average doctor would be capable of even imagining such a skill.

Using this jinx was extremely draining, both physically and mentally. Moreover, due to inexperience, if Alex were to use such a jinx forcefully, he’d be in danger as well.

However, he could sense the strong bond between all the members of Divine Constabulary just now. Having received the Ultimate Book of Medicine, he knew that he had to try at the very least. He didn’t even mind putting himself in danger.

A mysterious talisman hovered above Steel Tower’s head.

Alex took a deep breath and started focusing, transferring his Chi to his fingertips. One by one, he poked every pressure point on Steel Tower’s body. This revival required Alex to poke on 108 points to be successfully completed.

Thirty minutes passed!

Then, sixty minutes!

After a total of two hours, everyone outside of the room was starting to panic, yet no one came out of the room. Even Ms. Nanami had come back to the hall and shook her head. “Captain Sky, you should go in and take a look! Who knows what that guy is doing in there? There’s not one person on this Earth who could revive someone who is brain dead. If there were to be, he must be God and I’ll kneel before him then.”

Just then, the door opened and someone walked out of the room.

Ms. Nanami knew that it would be Alex, who failed to save Steel tower. She didn't even bother to take a look. However, the unexpected had happened. A man who was as built as Steel Tower walked out of the room, supporting himself with the door frame.

"Steel Tower!!!"

"Holy sh*t! I'm not hallucinating, right? It really is Steel Tower! You're alive?"

"Oh, thank the stars, oh, thank you Goddess of Mercy. I'll be sure to donate one million to your temples tomorrow..."

One even rushed up to him, wanting to tackle hug Steel Tower.

Sky rushed up as well, but he pushed the member away and said, "Steel Tower just woke up, he must still be weak Don't be rash."

Ms. Nanami, on the other hand, widened her eyes in disbelief. She was 100% sure that Steel Tower had died, yet here he was, standing before them.

'This was literally reversing death!'

'How did that guy do it?'

"Where's Alex?" Anna asked.

Steel Tower regained a little strength and pointed into the room. "He... You guys should check up on him."

Everyone took a look inside and realized that Alex was lying on the floor, motionless.

"What?"

"Alex?!" Anna rushed over and wrapped her arms around him. "Ms. Nanami, please come and take a look! What happened to him?"
