

The Pinnacle of Life –

Chapter 0647

“Yes, yes! Of course I can!” Sharpay nodded profusely. After that, she made a decision in her mind. From now on, she would have to suck up to him no matter what. Not only was he not a useless trash, but he was also secretly a billionaire.

Setting City Salon aside, the fame of Lush Cosmetics was great enough to show that he could have boundless achievements in the future.

According to the trend now, Alex would defeat Rockefeller Group sooner or later. When the time came, he would easily become the richest man in California, or even the entire America.

Sharpay knew that she had to do everything she could to seduce him.

Thud!

Sharpay suddenly knelt before Alex, hugging his thighs and her entire body had clung to his body above. Her voice seemed sickeningly sweet as she begged. “Alex. No, I mean, Mr. Rockefeller. Daddy Rockefeller, I’m sorry, I admit that I was wrong to insult you back then. Please forgive me! My family was misled by that snobbish Claire’s words. She would badmouth you every time she came to our place or whenever she faceted my mom! So...”

Alex stared at her current look, a bit speechless.

However, he was slightly swayed. He said, “What did Claire say about me?”

Sharpay replied, “I... I don’t dare to say.”

Alex huffed. “I’m giving you permission to do so.”

Sharpay couldn't help but say nervously, "She said that you're just a useless trash, you couldn't earn a single penny for the family and you weren't any better than their dog... S-she would intentionally ask you to do housework and often mess around behind you back. Sometimes, she would spit into your rice too."

Upon listening to this, Alex's expression darkened.

This mother-in-law really was something!

Well, it could be considered as fighting fire with fire because Alex also used to spit in her rice.

"Alright, get up then!" Alex said. Their positions were so awkward that people would misunderstand if they were to see them.

"Alright. So, you are not going to fire me, Daddy Rockefeller?"

"Are you insane? Call me Mr. Rockefeller."

"Yes, Mr. Rockefeller." Sharpay stood up and suddenly a whim struck her. She pretended that her legs felt numb and lost her balance, aiming her face towards Alex's crotch.

To her demise, Alex dodged her immediately and said in a cold tone, "Sharpay, keep those little fantasies to yourself. I'm not interested in you. Remember to keep your promise, or else I will ruin your life and corner your whole family. I can do that with just one order, you know? Just work hard for me and I will ensure your wealth for the sake of your cousin."

Sharpay had almost fallen flat on her face.

She quickly crawled back up to her feet and said, "Alright, Mr. Rockefeller. I will definitely work hard."

After dealing with Sharpay, Alex headed to the CEO office to meet up with Hailey.

She was busy writing reports on her laptop. Seeing Alex, she waved to him to have him come over. She pointed towards the report as she said, “Hey bro, this is the recent sales of Lush Cosmetics in both City Salon and Belle Blossom. I’ll have to admit, your mom is a business genius! When she sent me the quotation of the products, I couldn’t believe it too! Like, who in their right mind would buy such expensive skin care products. But the fact clearly shows that your mom was right.”

Alex had studied business management back in university, hence he was able to understand the report with ease.

He was shocked. “How did we earn this much?”

Hailey smiled. “Just look at the price per product. A bottle of Lush Acne Cream costs 380,000 dollars, whereas a bottle of Lush Cosmetics Cream costs 280,000 dollars.”

“Well sh*t, are you guys robbing people?”