

The Pinnacle of Life –

Chapter 0648

‘Isn’t the cost just very low?’

Hailey said, “You really don’t know women. Tell me, what’s the most important thing to rich women? The aging of their beauty, who in this world wouldn’t spend extra care of their looks? Only beauty could hold men’s hearts. Otherwise, rich men would be prone to external temptations, far exceeding those average family men. Once their wives start to age, who wouldn’t cheat on them outside?”

Alex lowered his head and looked at Hailey for several seconds.

However, he felt as if he was looking at an awe-inspiring view from a high place, he saw something that he shouldn’t have seen.

Hailey even caught him red handed and asked, “Do you like what you see?”

“Yeah... Huh? What?”

“Don’t act dumb! Look at you, even a serious man like you could be tempted by a woman like me. Wouldn’t it be worse with those charming and young ladies then?”

Hailey adjusted her collar and continued, “Therefore, the success of Lush Cosmetics is solely based on the effectiveness of the products. Your products are just so good that they could outshine every other cosmetic product out there. Naturally many still want to buy them... The only problem for now is the increased production. Both salons have more than ten thousand pre-orders in total. They are still increasing too, there are way too many people who pre-ordered our cosmetics online.”

Alex said, “Alright, I’ll head over to Michigan tomorrow and see if I can solve this problem. But I’ve heard from my mom, she wanted to apply hunger marketing for our products.”

Hailey blinked a few times and nodded. “Then we’ll listen to your mom’s advice. Oh my, I admire your mom so much! I’ve been in this business and working hard for three years, yet I couldn’t even earn nearly as much as what your mom earns in a week Bro, I’m just so lucky to have met you!”

Such words were probably more suitable to be said in between lovers.

He smiled as he said, “If Charles were to hear that, you won’t hear the end of it.”

Hailey smiled back. “So what if he hears it? I’ll just tell him I want my brother instead of my husband.”

Alex was flustered from her teasing.

Suddenly, quick knocking could be heard on the door. Alex stepped away from Hailey and said, “Come in.”

The person who knocked was Sharpay.

Alex frowned. He knew that this woman was a gold-digger. She was scammed of two million dollars because of this last time.

‘Now that she knows I’m the owner of City Salon, could it be that she has something in mind in order to get closer to me?’

“Sharpay, what do you want?” He seemed slightly pissed off.

“Mr. Rockefeller, Miss Lawson, something terrible happened. Someone just came barging in, Manager Rose was beaten up too!” Sharpay said in a rush.

“What?” Alex’s heart jolted, he didn’t expect that it was actually something serious.

Paying closer attention, he realized that a loud fighting sound was coming from the entrance.

He could only blame that the salon was just too big, the distance between the office and the entrance was too far. Plus the door was closed, so he wasn't able to hear the commotion immediately.

Soon after, the three of them rushed over to the entrance. They could hear a man yelling smugly halfway toward the entrance.

“F*ck! I tried being nice, yet you people all didn't appreciate it at all. Everyone of you is a b*tch, do you have a death wish?”

“Where's your boss? Call your boss out right now! If he doesn't come out, I'll have my men tear down your salon. Do you believe it?”

“I don't think so!” Alex's cold voice came from the corridor.

He noticed that a few bodyguards were lying on the ground, some women were sitting on the floor too. They were obviously beaten up by someone. There were about a dozen thuggish men standing in the lobby. There was also a calm looking man in a suit sitting on the sofa and watching the scene being unfolded.

A blonde young man in the group stared at Alex who just came over. “So you're the boss? Alright, we're from Thousand Miles Conglomerate! We're here today to have you join us. The membership fee is three hundred million dollars per year. Got it?”
