

The Pinnacle of Life –

Chapter 0748

In the next second, he let out a terrifying roar because the bead was gone with a whoosh. It went inside his wound.

Then, it melted!

‘What is happening? Where’s the bead?’

Alex was terrified. He searched the ground, but it was not there! It was impossible for it to be on the ground! It was because he saw the bead disappear before his eyes and went into his palm wound. More importantly, he did not feel anything at all.

‘The head was as big as a Longan fruit. How did it go inside? It’s not scientifically possible at all.’

In the next moment, he was even more shocked. Through his inner sight, he found the bead in his upper energy core, which was located near the center of his brow. The bead was quietly seated in his upper energy core and it was not moving at all.

After trying for two hours, Alex lay on the bed with a face that looked like he wanted to die. He helplessly accepted the fact.

The bead was in his upper energy core but he could not do anything about it at all. He could neither force it out nor make it move by shouting. He could not even control it.

‘Forget it. As long as it doesn’t affect my brain, I’ll just act as if my brain is storing a quail egg!’

As for the other bead, he did not dare to try it.

On the second day, It was Lord Lex's funeral.

Alex drove to Hell's Angels.

Meanwhile, the news about the death of Lex Gunther, the boss of Thousand Miles Conglomerate, had been spread around California. Even the news has reported it early in the morning. "Lord Lex Gunther has unfortunately passed away. The CEO position of Thousand Miles Conglomerate will be taken over by Lord Lex Gunther's goddaughter, Waltz Fleur."

The news spread quickly.

Soon after, everyone was talking about the news of Waltz Fleur.

In California State University, Beatrice's classroom. "Goddess Assex, someone is looking for you!" A shout from a guy had caught the attention of the entire classroom.

There was only one Goddess Assex in the classroom and that was Beatrice. Countless students looked toward the entrance of the classroom and they saw a short guy wearing glasses standing outside the entrance. He looked at her indecently.

"Tch!" The students booed one after another.

That guy was considered as a famous character in California State University, his nickname was Rat.

Some people called him the Know-it-all because he loved to collect all kinds of gossip. However, there were rumours that this person was most likely a hacker. His computer skills were insanely good. He knew a lot of information because he got them via hacking.

He sold information for pocket money with the skills that he had.

“Beatrice, why is Rat looking for you?” The guy behind Beatrice asked.

“It’s nothing. I just asked him for some information.” Beatrice went outside the classroom.

Rat pushed his glasses as he swung his hand with the document bag. “Once I, Rat set out to run your errand, how could I possibly come back empty handed? Here’s what you need. I’ll give it to you after you pay me.”

At the staircase, Beatrice transferred three thousand dollars to his account and took the document bag. However, Rat said again, “Lady Assex, why are you investigating your ex-brother-in-law? I have something more interesting about you and your ex-brother-in-law, would you like to buy it?”

Beatrice was shocked as she said, “What is it?”