

Trapped 936

Chapter 936

Alex nodded.

"Okay.Let's go take a look now."

Paige chimed in.

"I'm coming too!"

Half an hour later, the three of them arrived at the company's building in a car and noticed numerous bodyguards standing at the door.

Shortly afterward, a few bodyguards emerged holding a stretcher.

On the stretcher lay a covered figure, making it impossible to discern the identity.

The opposing party soon started driving.

Alex turned to Lucas, saying, "Let's follow them."

For approximately two hours, they trailed the car until it stopped in front of a crematorium.

The stretcher was taken out and sent inside.

Alex, Lucas, and Paige promptly exited the car and entered the crematorium.

They cautiously followed behind as the bodyguards left, handing over the responsibility to a staff member.

Alex suggested, "Let's find out who the deceased is from the staff."

Lucas and Paige nodded.

Lucas initiated a conversation with the staff, who eventually agreed to reveal the identity.

When the white fabric was unveiled, shock overcame them.

Even after Julian was taken away, they couldn't shake off the impact.

Paige trembled at the thought of the deep cut on Julian's throat.

Alex took her cold hand and said, "Let's go."

Exiting the crematorium, Lucas suggested, "We should stay here for a while to accompany Julian on his final journey."

Alex and Paige concurred.

Lucas gripped the steering wheel tightly and remarked, "If there is only Julian, Reuben should be fine for the time being."

Alex contemplated briefly.

"If Reuben is fine, there's a good chance he might have switched sides."

Lucas' eyes widened in shock.

"How can that be possible? Reuben is very loyal! He wouldn't do that!"

Alex glanced at him.

"What else is impossible now?"

At the hospital.

A nurse entered Caroline's room to change her dressing.

Seeing Caroline with her back turned, the nurse said, "Ms.Shenton, it's time for your dressing."

Caroline did not respond.

Concerned, the nurse patted her shoulder.

"Ms.Shenton?"

Caroline remained unresponsive.

Alarmed, the nurse hurried to the other side and discovered a deep cut on Caroline's wrist.

A large puddle of blood on the floor and a shattered vase heightened the gravity of the situation.

The frightened nurse pressed the call button immediately.

The doctor arrived promptly after the bodyguards outside alerted Scott.

In the next room, Greta's breathing quickened upon hearing the commotion from Caroline's room.

Tyler and Axel grew restless, and Liora, sensing something wrong, asked, "Did something bad happen to Mommy?"

Axel reassured, "It's fine, Lia. Mommy's going to be fine."

But Liora shook her head.

"Something bad must have happened to Mommy! Otherwise, why would the doctor and nurses speak so loudly?"

She hit the door and shouted, "Please open the door!"

Upon hearing the commotion, the bodyguard opened the door and asked, "What is it?"

Greta anxiously asked, "What is happening there?"

The bodyguard replied coldly, "She committed suicide, and the doctor is trying to save her."
