

Triplets On SM 1021

Chapter 1021-Molly totally understood. How could she bear being far away from Sean?

But she had so many things to deal with. It was really frustrating!

Knowing this, both of them could only try their best to tell their hearts to each other in such a precious time.

Late at night, Molly was a little tired. Only then did Sean let her sleep.

The next morning, when she arrived at the research laboratory but had not entered it, Molly saw Lynn rush out from inside.

Seeing her, Lynn said a little seriously, "Molly, the helpers our tutor sent have come." "Already? So early."

Molly raised her hand and glanced at her watch.

It was just eight.

"Who's the delegate?" Molly asked while walking inside.

Lynn answered, "Eaton and Kara. They are both here."

Molly stopped and asked, "Why two?" "I don't know why. They say our tutor assigned a new mission, so one more hand was sent over."

Lynn shook her head and said with dissatisfaction, "Eaton came, and that's fine."

Why did Kara, the woman, come? I heard that in the past, she always set herself against you and competed with you, and that she always took away what belonged to you! But she came. I suppose you won't have peace."

Molly didn't expect the little girl to know so much.

She really couldn't get on so well with Kara!

Back then, when the two of them worked in their tutor's place, because of her good performance, their tutor favored and valued her. But this made Kara dissatisfied.

Later, her achievements in all areas were much better than Kara's, and Kara became more jealous.

Molly had never thought about competing with her.

But Kara viewed her as if she was her enemy. She would keep on pestering her every time.

She had thought that after returning to her motherland, she could finally get rid of the woman. Unexpectedly, she met her again.

Recalling all the crap Kara had made in the past, Molly frowned but didn't talk ill of Kara.

For one thing, she couldn't be bothered to; for another, she had no interest.

She just said, "It's fine. She has never exceeded me. She hasn't had a chance in the past, and she'll never have one in the future."

Hearing such confident words, Lynn was immediately relieved. "That's good!

Don't worry, Molly. If she comes to pick holes in you, I'll help you refute her."

As they chatted, the two of them entered the research laboratory.

Now Eaton and Kara were looking around the research laboratory in the reception room.

The laboratory covered a large area with all kinds of facilities. Yet, having been used for years, it showed signs of age.

After looking around, Kara said in a strong picky tone, "I thought Molly would have a very good life after she left, but her life seems just so so. Can this be called a research laboratory? It's so shabby that it can't even match the worst of ours."

Eaton heard that and smiled, "This is the site provided by Xesxia University. It has been used for years. Of course, it can't match ours, but Molly doesn't emphasize such things. She always ignores poor conditions. She just cares if the R& D facilities are fully equipped!"

When Kara heard him say "Molly" softly, her eyes turned slightly dark.

Humph, Molly? He called her so intimately!

So jealous and so unhappy, she said ironically, "She abandoned real research and became a so-called professor. She's not doing decent work! If she put all her heart on our side, we didn't have to come here."

At this point, Molly arrived at the reception room.

Hearing that, she couldn't help but ask, "I'm not doing decent work, but I could develop two reagents successfully in such a short time. Miss Long, you've been working with the team led by you for three months, but you got a series of failed products! Don't you have to reflect on yourself first?"

Chapter 1022-As she spoke, she paced into the room. Her face, not powdered, looked so cold.

Hearing her voice, Kara and Eaton looked over involuntarily.

The former's expression was slightly stiff, showing that she was uneasy because of her exposed ill talk.

The latter's eyes simply fell on Molly.

Her face was so delicate and attractive, and her temperament was so nice that the beholder was unwilling to look away.

Eaton stared at her for a while as if he were admiring a piece of perfect artwork.

Then, with a gentleman's smile, he finally took a few steps forward and said to her, "Long time no see, Molly."

Molly glanced at Kara lightly before she looked at Eaton and responded a little nicely, "It's been so long, Eaton. I didn't expect Mr. Scott to send you here! Have you finished the project you're in charge of?"
"Yes, fortunately, I have lived up to my father's trust. But unfortunately, before I could have a rest, I was sent over. I was unwilling at the beginning, but when I heard you were here, I agreed."

Eaton spoke with a broad smile, his tone and manner unspeakably elegant.

He also wore a pair of gold-rimmed glasses, which made him look more elegant.

If he went out, there would be no doubt he would grab lots of women's attention.

But Molly was obviously an exception.

She said in a businesslike manner, "You came to help, and I can be a little relieved. If I let you develop products, I believe you'll do a nice job."

Eaton was her mentor Jadon Scott's son, with an ability that was almost as strong as hers, so he could easily do the project.

Hearing that, Kara was so dissatisfied.

But the reagent had indeed gone wrong in her hands earlier, so she had to bear it.

After they exchanged pleasantries, Molly asked, "You two just got off the plane, right? Do you want to go to your lodge to rest or simply follow me into the research room?"

Kara wanted to say they would go to rest.

But Eaton said, "Into the research room. I'm not so tired. My father urges me to work on the reagent. Let me go learn about it first."

Kara had no choice but to hold her tongue.

Soon Molly and Lynn walked into the research room.

When they were in the room, Lynn summoned everyone, introducing the two guests.

Then she followed Molly to the working bench and told them about the progress on the Reagent Three.

"The data of the other formulas are being recombined, but the ingredients of Purple Spirit Vine, the main material, haven't been extracted, so everything is just an assumption. Only when the ingredients have been extracted successfully can we start the test."

Kara immediately questioned, "There are so many herbs, but why do you think the medicinal properties of Purple Spirit Vine can be blended with the other formulas? Let's put everything else aside. The ingredients of the two herbs alone will go against each other. How could you put them together?" "That's why you failed in research and development," Molly answered calmly.

Kara's face sank. She was about to refute when she heard Eaton say, "The two groups of medical properties will indeed go against each other, but these herbs solve the problem successfully."

Kara observed for a while and didn't speak again.

It was true...

Moments ago, she was just thinking about picking holes in Molly. But it turned out she was the laughingstock.

Kara was so vexed!

If Eaton had not insisted on coming over, she would have never wanted to see Molly again.

Back then, she was overtaken in all areas, and she was so unhappy. And the man she finally fell in love with also...

Chapter 1023-Kara gritted her teeth and couldn't help but glance at the man beside her.

Since his coming in, Eaton's eyes had been glued to Molly.

His look at her was frighteningly attentive.

The depths of the eyes behind the glasses were filled with the liking and possessiveness that only she could understand!

Kara felt even more uncomfortable!

Molly had almost been talking about work all morning.

Kara and Eaton were no ordinary people. Soon they learned the general situation.

At lunch, Lynn came over and asked Molly, "Molly, will we have a takeaway or reserve a table at a restaurant?"

Molly checked the time and finally realized it was noon. She said, "Reserve a table at a restaurant. That's lunch to welcome Eaton and Kara."

"Okay."

Lynn immediately took out her phone to reserve the table.

At lunchtime, the four of them went to a high-end restaurant near the research laboratory.

Over lunch, they finally got time to chat.

Eaton asked, "The three kids at home are fine, right? I haven't seen them for a long time, and I miss them so much."

Molly was replying to Sean's message with her head down.

Today Sean had asked someone to come over to measure her and the three kids, planning to make engagement dresses for them.

The three kids had so many requirements, which almost drove the designer crazy.

Molly replied, "But I'm not at home. I can't be measured."

Only after sending the message did she answer Eaton's question, "They're fine."

They haven't changed much. Still very naughty."

Eaton smiled, "It's good to be naughty. Children like that are lively. This time, I came back with a lot of presents for them. When there is a chance, I'll give them."

"You're so thoughtful, Eaton," Molly thanked him with a smile.

But Eaton didn't think it was worth thanking for. "This is what I should do."

As he spoke, he put a piece of fish on Molly's plate. "It tastes good. Have a try."

Seeing that, Kara was jealous. She said on purpose, "I heard Mr. Scott say you've been back once, with a man, right? Was that man your boyfriend? Do your three kids know that? Do they approve that he is their father?"

Molly had not expected her to mention that. She was slightly stunned. When she was about to answer, Eaton asked, "When did that happen?"

His tone was a little serious, but didn't sound like he was happy or angry.

Seeing that, Kara answered proactively, "The time you isolated yourself to study the earlier project."

"Is that true? You have a boyfriend?" Eaton looked at Molly and asked, an imperceptible cold look flitting through his eyes.

Not noticing it, Molly said frankly, "Not my boyfriend, but my fiancé! We're ready to get married. We're now preparing for the wedding. He is also the biological father of the three kids."

When Eaton heard that, the look in his eyes obviously turned somber. He said with an unhappy smile, "Really? How come... I didn't hear you say that? It's such a big event!"

“We’re still preparing for it. I thought that when it’s almost done, I’ll send invitations to you people...”

Molly smiled sweetly. Before she finished speaking, her phone rang.

She glanced at the caller ID. It was Sean.

She said apologetically, “Excuse me, I’ll answer the call.”

Then she rose and went to the side.

Sean’s deep voice soon came. “There is no need to measure you, is there?”

I often hold you in my arms. I know you very well.”

Molly’s ears turned red. She said, “The kids are around you, right? Watch your mouth, or they’ll be led the wrong way.”

Chapter 1024-“Don’t worry. If I want to say something unsuitable for kids to hear, I’ll stay away from our kids,” Sean said with a smile.

Molly said with feigned anger, “Something unsuitable for kids to hear? I didn’t expect you to know that.”

“Mm, I’ll only say that to you,” Sean said softly.

Molly’s face turned slightly red, but she felt something sweet.

After they flirted for a while, Sean then asked, “I heard some noise. You are out?”

“Yes, I’m having lunch. The helpers Mr. Scott sent came, so we are treating them to lunch now. One is Mr. Scott’s son, Eaton Scott, and the other is a female colleague who used to work with me.”

Molly would never hide anything from Sean.

Sean also didn’t have an opinion about these two people. He just thought about another thing and frowned slightly, “Have the Shepard family ever contacted you? Have they said they won’t let you attend the free clinic?”

“I haven’t received any messages, but I think they’ll contact me soon. The mute pill I fed Beth has worked,” Molly answered calmly.

She didn’t regret what she had done at all, even if she would lose the chance to appear at the event.

Sean said gently, “Even if you’re disqualified, you shouldn’t be afraid. The Shepard family is not the only medical family in the country. I’ll help you then.”

Molly’s conflict with the Shepard family was not petty, so going there might not be a good thing.

As a man with that character, Beth would not let her off so easily.

He didn’t want her to suffer any grievances during her stay there.

Feeling her heart warm, Molly responded smilingly, “Okay.”

The two of them then chatted for a while before they hung up.

As soon as he hung up, Sean asked Tony to come over and said, “Go investigate and see if we can reach any of the other hidden ancient medical families in the country. If possible, build ties in spite of the price!”

“Yes, sir.”

Tony immediately went to do it.

Molly came back to the dining table, her eyes and brows still with some sweetness.

Seeing that, Lynn teased her, “You don’t have to exchange sweet nothings with your husband like that, do you? You parted yesterday, but you chatted for such a long time on the phone today, eh? Can’t you stop showing off your love in front of us singles?” 1 “If you don’t like it, get one for yourself.”

Molly answered with a laugh, but then said to Eaton sitting across from her, “Sorry to have kept you waiting.”

Eaton said with a light smile, “It’s okay.”

He was smiling, but the smile didn’t reach the depths of his eyes. “But I was really a little surprised! I thought you would focus on your research and career and wouldn’t touch love so easily.”

Molly smiled and said, “I was like that in the past, but I’ve changed since I met him! He and I have gone through a lot. Then we restored our relationship with much difficulty. Of course, we want to be with each other forever.”

When she was speaking this, all she thought about was Sean, her eyes and face full of tenderness.

Eaton’s expression changed a bit. His face seemed a little dark, and his eyes were slightly grim.

Molly didn’t notice that, but Kara saw that clearly.

She was a bit terrified.

She had always known Eaton liked Molly.

She also knew Eaton had always viewed Molly as his woman.

He looked gentle and polite on the surface, but in fact, he had a twisted character and strong possessiveness.

Previously abroad, if anyone dared to approach Molly, he would drive them away by any means!

Kara had thought that as long as she was around him, after a long time, he would see the good in her
Chapter 1025-But now she found that she had been too naive!

For her, the dishes at lunch tasted so bad.

Finally, the lunch was over. She said, "I'm a little tired. I want to go to the hotel to rest this afternoon. I'm not going to the research laboratory."

Molly didn't say anything about it, but she asked Eaton, "What about you, Eaton?"

"I'm also going to the hotel to rest," Eaton answered sedately.

Molly didn't object. "Okay, I hope you two have a good rest. Lynn and I will return to the lab first."

Molly paid the bill and left with Lynn.

Eaton and Kara went to the hotel.

Their rooms were next door to each other.

As he swiped his card to open the door, Eaton suddenly said to Kara grimly, "Come to my room in a while."

Kara became nervous, but nodded yes.

She put away her luggage, knocked on Eaton's door, and came to his room.

Having taken off his coat, Eaton was sitting on the sofa with a glass of red wine.

He had removed his glasses, and he was now expressionless.

Without knowing why, Kara felt a little nervous. She went over and asked,

Something to tell me, Eaton?"

Eaton raised his head slowly and looked at her coldly. "At the restaurant, you deliberately said that Molly has a boyfriend, right?"

Kara stopped breathing and looked into his eyes.

After a while, she admitted, "Yes, I said it on purpose."

Eaton rubbed the wine glass and said in an ambiguous tone, "You know it, but why didn't you tell me earlier? Instead, you disclosed it and surprised me so much only after we came here. Why?"

Kara shuddered.

The man's tone was obviously peaceful, but she inexplicably felt something cold in it.

She was a little nervous. After hesitating for a moment, she said honestly, "You wouldn't give up until you saw that with your own eyes... Eaton, you should know she has never loved you. She doesn't even know you like her. Now she's going to marry someone. Can... you shift your attention to someone else?"

“Someone else?”

Eaton chuckled, “Who? You?”

Kara clenched her hands and gritted her teeth, saying, “Yes, me. You’ve always known my heart, haven’t you? I’m not less than her. Why fix your eyes on her?”

“You want to be with me that badly?”

Eaton narrowed his eyes, showing fewer of his feelings in his tone.

“Yes.”

Kara answered, “I dream about it. If not for that, I wouldn’t have been around you quietly all the time.”

“Hah!”

Eaton laughed, gulped down the wine in the glass, and said to Kara, “Come here.”

Kara froze, a little hesitant.

But the man reached out to her. “Come here.”

His tone was unquestionable!

Kara had no choice but to go over.

As a result, as soon as she approached him, Eaton pulled her over forcefully and locked her throat with his hand.

Only at this moment did Kara see the man's expression clearly: evil, malicious, crazy!

He held her so tightly as if to strangle her.

Her heart constricted with fear. "Ea... Eaton?"

Eaton looked down at her, his eyes cold, but he was smiling. "Kara, you know I hate those who are disloyal to me and play tricks in front of me the most, right?"

This time, you offended me, so... I have to punish you."

Kara's pupils shrank. She was afraid.

The man in front of her was so strange that she almost couldn't recognize him!

"What do you want, Eaton? Let... let go of me."

Chapter 1026-"What's the rush? I haven't done anything yet..."

As he said that, Eaton grabbed the tie from one side and tied Kara's hands together.

After that, Eaton dragged Kara into the room ruthlessly before throwing her on the floor.

Kara's mind went blank after being thrown on the ground. She began coughing violently. Just when she got time to catch her breath, she saw Eaton opening the suitcase and taking out an injector and some drugs.

“Eaton, what... what is that?”

Fear and terror filled Kara’s heart. She subconsciously wanted to back away.

Eaton didn’t say a word. He just focused on filling the injector with the drug from the small bottle.

After that, he walked slowly towards Kara with a smile. “It’s alright. It’ll be over soon...”

Kara was so scared that her whole body was trembling. She got up and wanted to run.

However, before she could, Eaton grabbed her by her hair and dragged her back.

Kara screamed, “No... Eaton, please... don’t. I’m sorry. I promise I won’t do it again in the future. It’s alright if you don’t want to be my boyfriend, I won’t force you. Please, don’t...”

Before Kara could finish speaking, the injector was inserted into her arm.

Something was injected into her body.

It was all over very soon.

Eaton then let go of Kara and threw the injector into the bin.

Kara was trembling. “What did you just give me?”

“Don’t worry. It’s not poison. It’s just a control drug that I’ve developed during my spare time in the past. If you behave yourself, then nothing’s going to happen and I will give you a cure every month. If you don’t behave yourself, then you can only get a taste of some real pain.”

Eaton washed his hands indifferently with disinfectant. His voice was so calm that he sounded like he was talking about how great the weather was.

Kara couldn't believe what she was hearing. "You... you actually dare to use an illegal drug on me for Molly? Are you out of your mind? Why do you have to be so cruel to me?"

"Why?" Eaton lowered his eyes and had a sneer on his face. "Don't compare yourself to Molly. To me, not everyone has the right to be compared to her. Get lost!"

Kara felt like she had been stabbed in the heart. She was gobsmacked.

Molly had no idea of what happened at the hotel.

In the afternoon, she and her team were busy extracting the essence of a vine she had gotten recently. This caused her to return home very late.

After having a shower, she gave the three children a video call.

All three children tried to fit themselves in the screen and kept on talking about what happened during the day.

"Mommy, the formal clothes that we ordered are great. The clothes that we're going to wear at Daddy and Mommy's wedding have been ordered as well."

"We'll be the ones scattering the flowers when Daddy and Mommy are walking on the red carpet."

"By then, Mommy will be the luckiest bride in the world."

Molly smiled when she heard those words. "Oh really? That's great. I'll be counting on you guys."

"Don't worry. Leave everything to us..."

The three children all patted their chests confidently and looked very cute.

After talking to the children for a while, Molly heard the sound of an argument on the other end of the line.

It sounded like Mr. Anderson Sr.

“You foolish old man. The children have been at your house for so long, what’s the problem with me taking them to mine for a few days? Why are you stopping me?”

Then Mr. May Sr.’s voice sounded. “They don’t sleep well in places that they don’t know, how are you going to take them to your house for a few days? You not only live in my house without giving me any money, but you also want to take the children with you. Let me tell you this, in your dreams!”

Mr. Anderson Sr. was infuriated and said angrily, “No, they don’t have the problem of not sleeping well in places that they’re not familiar with. Stop trying to talk nonsense and lie to me! Not only that, who told you I’m not giving you any money. Isn’t the chef employed by Sean? Can’t you just be reasonable?”

Chapter 1027-“My granddaughter gave birth to three children for Sean. He should be the one to hire a chef. The chef is here to cook for the three children.

It has nothing to do with you...”

Mr. May Sr. wasn’t backing down at all.

When Brycen heard what they were saying, his face was full of disdain. “What kind of argument is this? The two of them were all powerful people in the business world. Why do they sound so childish when in an argument?”

“Hey, boy, who you calling childish?”

Both Mr. May Sr. and Mr. Anderson Sr. glared at Brycen.

Their voices were angry.

Molly could hear what they were saying clearly on the other end of the line and found it funny. "Looks like it's quite lively over there. Has your grandpa not gone home ever since I left?"

Sean was with the three children all this time. When he heard what Molly said, he replied helplessly, "Yep. He's not willing to go home. They would argue every single day and turn the house upside down."

Brycen snuggled over as well and said, "Let me tell you this, sis. The two of them would either be playing chess against each other, commenting on how bad the other party's tea is or arguing about who the children liked more. They would always argue about such childish things."

With that said, Brycen lowered his voice. "Calling them childish is actually already a compliment."

Molly couldn't help but laugh.

Sean thought that the living room was too noisy, so he told Tony to push him to his room so that he could continue to talk to Molly. "Everything's already back at home. There's nothing to worry about."

"I'm not worried. You're there to take care of them. It's just that after hearing the noise on your side, I'm getting a little homesick."

The house was noisy, but one would always feel warm at home.

The house was filled with people she cared about.

Sean knew what she was feeling, so he tried to comfort her. "Then come back."

Come back whenever you want. I'll be there to pick you up. How about that?"

Molly smiled sweetly. "Okay."

The two of them talked passionately for a while longer before saying goodnight.

On the morning of the next day.

As soon as Molly arrived at the research laboratory, she saw Kara and Eaton.

Eaton looked like he had a good night's rest and was very energetic.

Kara, on the other hand, didn't look so well. She had two dark circles around her eyes and her face was pale.

"How come you don't look so good?"

Although Molly didn't like Kara, she still furrowed her brows and asked Kara about the way she looked.

Before Kara could say anything, Eaton stepped forward and said, "She just got here and has not gotten used to the climate yet, so she didn't rest so while."

Molly nodded when she heard what Eaton had said. She then turned to Lynn and said, "Go get her some medication later on."

"Okay." Lynn nodded.

However, as soon as Lynn said that, Kara said with disgust, "I don't need your pity."

She glared at Molly and then walked into the changing room.

Molly frowned and felt puzzled.

“What kind of attitude is that? Why is she so wound up so early in the morning?”

Lynn mumbled.

Eaton smiled. “It’s probably because she doesn’t feel well, so she’s a little grumpy. Let her be. I’ll get changed first and I’ll see you in the lab.”

Molly nodded in agreement.

After saying that, Eaton left as well.

Molly and Lynn began their preparations as well.

However, at that moment, the phone in Molly’s pocket rang.

The number on the screen was one she hadn’t seen in the past.

She looked at the screen and then answered the call.

Selon’s voice sounded on the other end of the line.” Greetings, Dr. Joye, I’m Selon Shepard. I want to ask whether you have any spare time right now? I’m outside your research laboratory right now. I want to have a word with you if possible.”

Chapter 1028-Molly cocked her brows and thought, ‘That was fast.

However, is he here to argue, or is he here for the antidote?’ “Just wait a moment,” said Molly.

After that, she hung up.

Molly turned to Lynn and said, "I've got business to sort out downstairs. You can make a start when everyone gets here."

"Okay, got it."

Lynn nodded and didn't ask too many questions.

Outside the research laboratory, a black, low-profiled Bentley was parked at the entrance. Selon was standing next to the car.

When he saw Molly, he quickly walked over.

Molly stood where she was and was calm as ever. Her eyes showed no fear at all as she looked at Selon. "Well, this is a rare sight. What brought you here, Selon?" When Selon heard those words, a helpless look appeared on his face. "Dr.

Joye, you're asking a question that you already know the answer to. I'm here for my sister's antidote."

Molly was expecting this, but she was still a little surprised when she heard what Selon had said.

"Oh, is that drug of mine causing a problem for the Shepard family? That shouldn't be happening, should it? Isn't the Shepard family a famous medical family?"

Selon smiled helplessly. "That's an exaggeration, but developing an antidote does take time. It's just that my sister doesn't have much patience and is already sulking. Therefore, I had no choice but to come to you for the antidote.

Dr. Joye, please can I ask you to forgive her this time when we've sold you so many medicinal ingredients?"

“No,” Molly said without any hesitation. “I’ve paid for those medicinal ingredients. That was a fair trade. It’s not a favor at all. Beth didn’t watch her mouth and offended my fiancé. Not only did she not apologize, but she had no regrets at all. How can I forgive her just like that?”

“But... but you’ve fed her the drug and slapped her. Shouldn’t that make us even?”

Selon felt a little helpless.

He could tell that Dr. Joye wasn’t someone who could be easily dealt with.

Other people might show Selon some respect because of the power of the Shepard family and the fact that he was the future leader. However, that wouldn’t be happening for Dr. Joye.

If it were someone else, Selon would just pull some strings and force the other party to back down.

However, he gave up that idea when he did a background search on Molly.

Molly was now backed by the Anderson family. She was the recognized daughter-in-law of the Anderson family and was Sean Anderson’s fiancée.

The Shepard family was a cryptic family with a lot of connections, but it still might not be a match when compared to the Anderson family.

Even Mr. Shepard Sr. would think twice before doing anything against the Anderson family, especially if the target was Sean...

Mr. Shepard Sr. had even told Selon that he should try his best not to offend Sean if he bumped into him in the future.

Back then, Beth had a disdainful look on her face. “He’s just a cripple. What’s there to be scared of? He even came to us for help in the past. It was a good thing that we didn’t cure him.”

“What do you know?” scolded Mr. Shepard Sr. “Back then, it was not that we didn’t want to cure him. It was because we couldn’t. I can’t tell you the details right now. All you have to know is that you shouldn’t offend him. That man is topnotch no matter where he is and what field he’s in. Not a lot of people are a match for him. He’s the emperor of the current business world. Everyone was terror-stricken as well back then at that place.”

“I’m not buying it. If he’s as good as you say he is, then how come he became a cripple?”

Beth didn’t take Mr. Shepard Sr.’s words to heart. However, Mr. Shepard Sr.

suddenly fell silent.

Chapter 1029-Selon felt a little strange when he saw Mr. Shepard Sr.’s reaction.

Mr. Shepard Sr. had been in control of the Shepard family for so many years and no one could oppose a threat to him. He had never felt scared no matter what he encountered.

However, at that moment, Selon saw a sense of fear on Mr. Shepard Sr.’s face.

“Does that Sean guy have another identity other than the current leader of the Anderson family? And why can’t we cure his legs? What did you mean by ‘that place’?” asked Selon when he realized the important information in what Mr.

Shepard Sr. had just said.

However, Mr. Shepard Sr. didn’t answer Selon’s questions. He just said, “Molly saved my life. Say thank you to her for me. You can also give her some money if possible. As for the clinics... remove her name from the list. Try not to have too many connections with the Anderson family.”

Molly didn’t know that Selon’s thoughts had drifted miles away.

She just replied indifferently, "You can say that we're even. However, the time frame for the antidote is a week. We've still got quite a few days left. She'll get better when she learns her lesson."

When Selon heard what Molly had said, he quickly came back to his senses.

"Dr. Joye, what do we have to do for you to forgive my sister? After all, we still have to work together in the future, so it's best that we don't make the relationship between us too awkward, right?"

When Selon said those words, he tried to be as nice as he could.

Molly was surprised and taken aback. "Are you trying to say that you're not going to remove my name from the clinics?"

"That's right." Selon continued, "I'm the person in charge of the clinics this time.

You're a very good doctor, Dr. Joye. If I remove your name, then it would be a big loss for the patients and wounded."

Mr. Shepard Sr. had given the order to remove Molly from the list of doctors for the clinics, but after giving it some thought, Selon still decided to not do what he was told.

Molly's achievements in medication alone were exactly what they needed at the clinics this time.

Therefore, there was no reason for Selon to give up such a good chance.

Molly was surprised by what Selon had said.

It seemed like the people of the Shepard family weren't as bad as she thought they were.

On top of that, Selon's attitude had been very good, so there was no point for Molly to keep holding a grudge against Beth.

“I can give Beth the antidote, but she has to apologize first,” said Molly.

This caused Selon to be in a little bit of a tight spot.

He knew his sister all too well. Getting her to apologize would be like killing her.

“Can it be changed to a different request? For example, a book about ancient medicine...”

As Selon said that, he turned around and reached into the car to pull out a handbag.

There was a book inside.

The book was wrapped in a layer of sheepskin. It looked quite old.

After Selon took out the book, he said sincerely, “This is a handwritten copy and it’s incomplete, but it’s still priceless on the market. Are you interested, Dr.

Joye?”

When Molly saw the book, she was shocked.

It was obvious that she wasn’t expecting Selon to give her this in exchange for the antidote.

The book was a handwritten copy and was incomplete, but the prescriptions inside were all very rare.

Selon could put aside his status and offer her something so precious already showed that he was being very sincere.

Molly fell silent for a while before saying, "Selon, you're giving me something so precious just so that your sister doesn't have to apologize."

"I have no choice. As her brother, I will need to help her tidy up the mess she made, don't I? I'm already used to it," Selon said helplessly. After that, he looked at Molly. "Dr. Joye, do you accept my apology?"

"Of course. I'm not someone who makes a fuss over a small thing. If it weren't for the fact that your sister has stepped over the line, I wouldn't have done anything to her. Now that you're here to apologize personally, then I won't do anything to embarrass you."

Chapter 1030-"That's good to hear." A smile appeared on Selon's face. He then reached out his hand. "Then the page is turned, right? I welcome you to take part in the clinics."

"Thank you. I might need some advice from you in the future, Selon." Molly smiled and shook hands with Selon.

After everything was settled, Molly gave Selon the antidote.

Selon quickly left after he received the antidote.

As soon as he left, Molly went back upstairs with the book on ancient medicine.

She was obviously in a good mood when she walked into the laboratory.

Kara had always had a grudge against Molly. When she saw that Molly was in a good mood, she said sarcastically, "You're such a good player, Molly, being so intimate with other men during working hours."

When Molly heard those words, she frowned and said coldly, "Since when did you see me being intimate with other men?"

"I saw it with my own eyes just now. You were with a man outside the building."

You can't deny that, can you?" Kara sneered. She was hating Molly more and more.

'Why does everyone like this woman? Why do I have to suffer because of her?' Kara complained inwardly.

Molly felt puzzled when she saw the way Kara looked at her.

"Looks like your ability to make up stories has grown after not seeing you for a while. You call meeting a friend and shaking hands with him intimate? You should go see a doctor to get your eyes checked out. Don't try to show a sense of authority in front of me. I'm not scared of you!"

With that said, Molly couldn't be bothered to waste any more time with Kara.

She turned around and went on doing her work.

However, she was stopped by Eaton.

"Just ignore Kara. She didn't sleep well last night, so she's a little grumpy. Here, let's sanitize your hands first..."

As he said that, he passed a bottle of hand sanitizer to Molly. His eyes were also focused on Molly's hand as well.

Molly didn't take the bottle and said, "It's alright, Eaton, I have my own."

With that, Molly turned and went back to her workstation.

Lynn was standing at the side and looking at what was happening. She felt that there was something strange about the atmosphere in the room.

She didn't know if she was hallucinating or not. She kept getting the feeling that something was not right between Kara and Eaton.

As well as that, for a moment just now, Lynn even felt that the way Eaton looked at Molly was a little scary.

These were things that Molly didn't notice.

Right now, she had confirmed a place at the clinics of the Shepard family. This meant that her work here should be handed over to someone as soon as possible.

All Molly could think of at the moment was work.

For almost the rest of the day, she stayed in the laboratory. She hadn't moved from her workstation except to eat and to go to the toilets.

Seeing the amount of effort that Molly was putting in, the rest of the team didn't dare slack off either.

At around nine o'clock in the evening, they were able to successfully extract the essence of the Purple Spirit Vine.

Lynn was so tired that she rested her head on Molly's shoulder and cried, "I'm knackered, Molly. Whenever I close my eyes now, all I can see are data. I think I'll still be surrounded by data in my dreams tonight."

"That's great. You won't forget about work, even in your dreams. This means that you're an exceptional scientific researcher. The medical industry is lucky to have you. Keep up the good work." Molly then smiled and pushed Lynn's head away. "Move your head. My shoulders can't take the weight of the gigantic database in that brain of yours. It's tiring!"

"Why do I get the feeling that you're trying to say I have a big head?" Lynn put on a sad face.

“No, I’m not.” Molly’s lips curved from ear to ear.

Lynn pursed her lips. “You’ve gone too far!”

Just when the two of them were joking around, Eaton walked over. He was planning on inviting Molly for supper.

However, Molly’s phone rang first.

She took out her phone and looked at the screen. It was Sean calling. A sweet smile immediately appeared on Molly’s face.

When Lynn saw this, she immediately began to tease Molly.” From the look on your face, the person who’s calling you must be Sean, right? Can you stop showing off how much you love each other so late in the evening?”
