

Triplets On SM 1361

Chapter 1361-Sean nodded, "We will be working for the same cause from now on, so let go of your worries. Stay in touch. If you need help, I can send someone over."

"Okay." Selon accepted his kindness.

After all, the Shepard family had now betrayed the Martial Art Union. Sure, the latter wouldn't let off the former, which would have a lot of trouble then.

The Grandset's help was a good thing for the Shepard family.

Sean pondered for a few seconds and then added a condition, "But this is just for you."

Selon smiled helplessly, showing he got it.

Anyway, his father and grandfather had tried every way possible to hurt Dr. May earlier. No doubt, Sean had borne that in mind.

"I don't think your father and grandfather will change their mind in a short time."

Sean glanced deeply at him. "You'd better keep an eye on them."

If he knew that his grandson was in cooperation with the Grandset, Williams was likely to die of anger because he couldn't stand it.

After all, Selon was against his ancestor's will. Maybe he would also be blamed!

Knowing Sean's worry, Selon promised, "Don't worry about that. I'll keep a close eye, and I'll also try my best to persuade them."

Although he said so, he didn't really think he could do it.

His grandfather was stubborn. If he thought something was right, almost no one could change his mind.

And his father valued profit very much, so he didn't think he could easily explain tonight's action when he got home.

But he didn't reveal that.

While they were chatting, their car arrived at the hotel.

"Mr. Anderson, here we are."

As soon as their car stopped, Selon unbuckled his seat belt and got out.

He was going to help Sean go upstairs.

But the latter refused, "No need. I'll go upstairs by myself."

The main reason was that he didn't want Molly to notice his real condition, afraid she would be worried.

Selon didn't insist. "Okay then. Take care. Keep in touch."

Only when he saw Sean enter the hotel did he leave.

Now in the presidential suite.

Molly walked to and fro worriedly in the room.

Two hours had passed, but Sean was not back yet.

“Ma’am, please sit down and rest for a while. Don’t keep walking around. You’ll be tired,” Alkaid persuaded with a helpless expression.

Molly had not been calm for a second since Sean left.

“I’m fine,” Molly sighed and replied.

Alkaid was about to say something when she heard the room door open. She immediately looked over, stopping thinking about that.

The person they had been waiting for all night was finally back.

“Sean!” Molly immediately went up.

Sean took the chance to hold her in his arms, but his handsome face was full of apologies. “Sorry, it’s passed the time I promised.”

She must have been so worried and uneasy while she was waiting.

“It doesn’t matter. As long as you’re back safe and sound, it’s fine.”

Molly shook her head, then took a step back to study him. “Did you get hurt?”

“I didn’t.” Sean shook his head.

Molly didn’t believe him because he looked terrible.

"I hope this is not a lie!" she said with a straight face.

Sean chuckled and said dotingly and helplessly, "I'm really intact! If you don't believe me, I can take off my clothes to let you check. What do you think?"

He raised his brows at her.

"Puff!"

Alkaid couldn't help but laugh.

Molly froze, her face scarlet.

"What are you talking about?"

She smacked him shyly and gently on the arm and then began staring at his handsome face seriously, her thin brows knitted slightly.

"I'm perfectly fine! Why are you wearing such an expression?"

He looked not only terrible but also a little pale.

At a glance, she knew he was not fine.

So she didn't believe he didn't get hurt!

Chapter 1362-"I haven't done exercise for a long time, but I fought someone today. I think this is the cause."

Sean answered lightly, not telling her about the re- emergence of his condition.

“You?”

Molly widened her eyes in shock. “You can also fight?”

She had known him for so long, but she had never seen him fight anyone!

Now he suddenly told her he knew martial arts. This was too surprising.

Alkaid explained hurriedly, “Master fought very well before he was injured. But he hasn’t fought for so many years, so I guess he is much weaker now.”

Molly nodded but thought it was so unreal.

But...

“No matter what, if possible, I hope you can stop fighting from now on,” she said to Sean seriously.

Sean smiled, “Okay, I’ll listen to you.”

“I hope you keep your word.”

Molly narrowed her eyes, faking an aggressive look to warn him, “If I find you fighting anyone stealthily again, I’ll be angry, and you’ll fail to coax me.”

“Oh, is that so? But what if someone wants to fight me?” Sean asked in distress.

Molly was lost for words, frowning slightly.

What if someone wanted to fight him?

“Then... then you’d better fight back, but you should try to avoid getting wounded.”

She had a short mental struggle before she stopped her insistence.

Her cute look made Sean laugh. He instantly held her shoulder and said, “

Okay, I’m all yours. In the future, I’ll try my best to avoid fighting anyone and free you from your worries... but I feel a little sore after doing some exercise just now. Please give me a massage.”

Molly’s heart immediately turned soft. “Okay, I’ll give you a massage,” she agreed.

Alkaid then left knowingly, letting them enjoy their time together.

Molly took him to the sofa and sat down with him. After learning about the parts that felt sore, she began the massage.

“By the way, did anyone else get hurt? Why didn’t Tony come back?” she asked while massaging.

“Some who got wounded have now been sent to the hospital. Tony will be back a little late,” Sean answered patiently.

Later today, the two took a shower and lay together in bed.

Lying in Sean’s arms, Molly said softly, “I hope you don’t do anything so dangerous in the future.”

Although she knew that at his status, he would inevitably get involved in all kinds of strife, she hoped he could try to avoid them.

“Okay.”

Sean held her tightly and lowered his head to kiss her hair. “I won’t let you worry about me anymore.”

“I don’t believe it.”

Molly knew he would return to the Grandset when the matter here was settled.

Sean seemed to have guessed what she was thinking, so he knew his promise was too appealing to be true.

When he was about to say something to comfort her, Molly said, “When you go back to Grandset, you must bring me along. Wherever you go in this life, I’ll follow you around.”

Then his heart turned so soft. “Okay,” he said gently.

Molly gave a satisfied smile. Even her beautiful eyes began smiling and shining.

Thinking of something, Sean pecked her lips and said softly, “It’s late. Let’s sleep.”

Molly nodded yes.

Having been waiting all night, she was now really tired. Soon after the massage, she fell asleep.

Hearing her breathing gradually getting even, Sean withdrew his arm carefully.

Then he pulled the quilt over to her and caressed her cheek, his eyes so soft.

After a while, he got up and went next door.

Chester and his lot were all there. They had quickly left before the police arrived. Now they were all waiting for Sean.

When he came to the door, Sean happened to hear Merak's voice.

"Mr. Merrick, the perfume you're wearing is so strong I feel lightheaded."

Chapter 1363-Merak kept a distance from Chester and covered her nose, glaring at him with dislike.

Chester lowered his head to sniff and frowned. Indeed he smelled a fragrance.

"Mr. Merrick, you've been to join the action tonight, right? Or have you been to fool around with a chick?"

Alkaid asked playfully what she was confused about.

When this was brought up, Merak denied, "No, Alkaid. It was the slut from the Martial Art Union! She came tonight to deal with Mr. Merrick alone."

It turned out to be Red Fox.

Red Fox liked Chester. That was nothing new in the Unbounded Land.

Alkaid let out an "oh" calmly. "Mr. Merrick is so charming. So many years have passed, but Red Fox keeps trying to win your love. And she has followed you here."

Of course, she was joking.

But Chester shot a sharp look at her and gritted his teeth." Alkaid, it seems it's been a while since I sent you to the training island last time, right? When we return to the Grandset this time, would you mind paying a visit there?"

Alkaid shuddered in fear.

Who wanted to visit the damned place!

She had had enough of it during her training there, okay?

Alkaid then said flatteringly, "Sorry, Deputy Master, I said the wrong thing!"

She became a coward in an instant.

Merak couldn't help but laugh.

Chester looked at Merak, the sharpness in his eyes gone." Now I'm gonna change," he said subconsciously.

Since she didn't like his state, he would change into new clothes, lest she would be unhappy.

As he turned, he saw Sean come in.

The others also saw him.

They immediately lowed their heads with respect and shouted in unison, "Master!"

Sean nodded, walked over, and did smell the fragrance Merak had mentioned.

He seemed to frown a bit and then asked, "Do you insist on going to change?"

“Yes!”

Chester didn’t want Merak to feel bad.

“Go then.” Sean didn’t stop him.

“Okay.”

After Chester left the room, Sean walked over, sat down, and looked up, his calm eyes sweeping around everyone on site.

Dubhe, Merak, Alkaid, and the five top fighters were all there.

All of them swallowed involuntarily. Although they knew their master was not to reprimand them, they naturally felt awed and afraid when they sensed his inherent momentum.

Sean was silent for a while before asking caringly, “Is everything okay with you guys?”

“I’m fine,” Dubhe answered.

Merak immediately said, “I’m fine, too.”

Alkaid shrugged and said, “I was protecting Madam at the hotel. Sure, I’m fine.”

But Blackrose and her partners had been more or less wounded while fighting Old Skull and his lot.

The wounded were Strong Wind and Roaring Flame, who were ranked fourth and fifth respectively.

The two of them lowered their heads to report honestly, "Don't worry, master.

We're wounded, but our condition is not serious."

Sean nodded. "That's good."

Then he praised them generously, "You all did a good job tonight."

All of them laughed.

"Four of the top eight fighters from the Martial Art Union were caught tonight!"

Sean told them the news Tony had told him.

"But not all of them," Dubhe said with a little regret.

Old Skull and his seven companions committed all kinds of crimes and killed people cruelly. They should have been weeded out long ago!

"Getting four is already a great blow to the Martial Art Union," Sean disagreed with Dubhe.

After all, it would take a very long time and so much energy to train a martial arts master like that.

Losing four fighters like that was a huge loss to the Martial Art Union.

"Thank you all for what you did this time."

Blackrose stroke her wavy hair and said with a charming smile, "It's our duty to go through fire and water for you, master.

Chapter 1364-While they were talking, Chester, who had changed his clothes, came out of the room.

Hearing the door open, everyone turned their heads and looked over.

Chester came straight to Merak.

“Can you still smell it?” he asked.

Merak leaned over to smell and shook her head. “No.”

With the strong perfume smell gone, she finally felt comfortable.

Chester gave a satisfied smile and rubbed her head. “Happy to hearthat.”

Seeing his behavior, the others raised their brows subconsciously.

Mr. Merrick was good to this girl as always!

Of course, honestly speaking, they were all good to her. She was not only cute but also a genius sniper, and everyone in the Grandset liked her.

“Hey, Deputy Master, why don’t you ask us if we can smell it? ” Blackrose protested jokingly.

Chester looked at her nonchalantly and said, “I don’t care how you guys feel.”

The top five fighters, Dubhe, and Alkaid were all speechless.

It was so obvious that he treated them so differently, wasn’t it?

“You guys had very good cooperation this time.”

Chester finally began talking about business. He looked at Sean and asked, “What’s your next plan, master?”

Sean said slowly, “The domestic affairs have almost been resolved. The Martial Art Union suffered huge losses this time. I don’t think they dare to send more people over.

Chester, you take our men straight back to the Grandset.”

All of them were a little surprised to hear that.

“Should I also take Merak and Dubhe away?” Chester frowned and asked.

“Yes, all of them. I’ll accompany Molly back to Northfolk... So far, the Martial Art Union has challenged the Grandset many times. Now it’s time to settle accounts with them. Make deployments when you are back there.”

Sean’s eyes turned cold as he spoke this. He didn’t want to let the Martial Art Union off like this. Instead, he would make it permanently weak.

“Is this too risky, master? What if the people of the Martial Art Union return?

Your legs finally healed after you overcame so much difficulty...”

The others looked at Sean, obviously worried.

Chester also objected, “I don’t think this is wise.”

“Don’t worry. This action is to give them the impression that I am going back with you guys, so all of you must leave.”

Chester instantly got it. “Is that so? ...okay then. I’ll make arrangements. As soon as we’re back in the Grandset, I’ll arrange the follow-up matters.”

The others promised, “Don’t worry, master. We’ll cooperate with Mr. Merrick.”

Sean nodded and said, “I’ll also go back in a few days.”

Hearing that, all of them became spirited.

Their master was finally going to come back!

With so many years gone, this day finally came.

“When you return, we’ll throw a grand party to welcome you,” Chester said with a smile.

“Okay.”

He and Sean looked at each other in silence, but they knew each other’s hearts clearly.

After a short discussion of further detail, Sean returned to his bedroom.

Molly was fast asleep.

Sean lay down carefully and held her in his arms, soon falling asleep.

He got up early the next morning. When he looked down and found the one in his arms was still asleep, he withdrew his arm with care, pulled the quilt over to her, and got out of bed.

When he came out of the room, Tony, who was waiting in the living room, rose and greeted him respectfully, "Sir."

"Welcome back." Sean walked over, sat down on the sofa from across from him, and looked up. "How's the matter?"

"I've given evidence to the police, proving that we were under attack and that your subordinates fought them because they wanted to protect you."

Chapter 1365-After hearing that, Sean knew all problems were solved.

"Well-place the subordinates. The matter here has been settled, and it's time to return to Northfolk," he said to Tony.

Tony nodded. "Got it."

Seeing the dark circles under his eyes, Sean said gently, "Go have a rest. We will take our private plane to go back secretly this afternoon."

Tony nodded and turned to leave.

Molly had slept late last night, so she got up late today.

When she got up, it was almost lunchtime.

"You're awake?"

Seeing her come out, Sean softened the look in his eyes.

“Yes.”

As she rubbed her sleepy eyes, she came to him, sat down, rested her head on his shoulder, and complained, “Why didn’t you wake me up? It’s so late.”

She had just woken up, so her voice sounded soft. Sean’s heart melted when he heard that.

“You were sleeping so soundly, and I was unwilling to.”

Sean stroked the back of her head and turned his head to kiss her hair.

“Hungry?”

Molly said yes softly.

“Then go take a shower first. I’ll call room service, asking them to bring lunch upstairs.”

Molly rose obediently, walking toward the room.

Sean came up and gently said, “I’ve booked afternoon flights. We’ll go home this afternoon.”

Molly suddenly turned and asked in great joy, “Really? We can go home?”

They had been away from home for a few days, and she really missed the three kids.

Sean nodded and smiled, “Yes.”

“Great!” Molly was overjoyed. “The three kids will be so happy to see us home.”

They had been here for just a few days, but the three kids had asked them many times.

A few days seemed like many years!

Suddenly remembering something, she asked, "What about Chester and his lot?"

"They'll return to the Grandset. Although we gave the Martial Art Union a heavy blow this time, things are not over yet.

They have to go back and deal with them."

Molly didn't say anything about it, but she was a little worried.

"Since they're leaving for the Grandset, will the Martial Art Union take the chance to send their men to attack you?"

If all of them left, no one would protect Sean.

"No."

Sean came to her and added, "Letting Chester and his lot go back is to give them the impression that we've gone back to the Grandset. It means Dubhe, Merak, and their partners will leave here, too."

"Merak will also go back?" Molly asked in surprise.

It was fine for Chester and his lot to leave, but she really didn't want Merak to go.

After all, the girl had been with her for some time, and she was already used to her company.

Having seen her through, Sean chuckled, "You'll see her again. You agree that well be going to the Grandset next time. Then I'll let her follow you around all day long."

Molly's eyes lit up. "Oh, that's right."

Sean rubbed her head and said, "Can you go wash now?"

"Yes, of course."

Molly beamed and walked into the bathroom.

After lunch, Merak and her companions came over to bid goodbye to Molly.

As soon as she saw Molly, she went up and hugged her tightly.

Merak was rarely so clingy.

And Molly was the first one she was clingy to!

The main reason was that her master was always strict and cold, but her madam was different. She was beautiful and gentle, and she was sincerely good to her.

Molly was also unwilling to part with the girl, but she patted her head and said, "It's okay. Anyway, well see each other again. I will be going to the Grandset to visit you guys with Sean next time."

Chapter 1366-After Merak heard those words, her eyes lit up and she immediately said, "Okay, Mrs. Anderson, when you arrive at the Grandset, I'll take you to the famous sights. The sceneries are beautiful."

"Okay."

Molly agreed joyfully.

Chester, who was standing at the side, also said, “Mrs.

Anderson, I look forward to you coming to the Grandset.”

Molly smiled. “Okay. I’ll definitely be there.”

After saying goodbye to everyone, Sean and Molly saw them off.

In the afternoon, when Tony woke up, they headed back to Northfolk together.

As they were getting closer and closer to home, Molly became more and more excited.

After such a long time, she was finally able to see the three children again.

As soon as Molly walked through the door, three little figures pounced towards her. All of them were expressing how much they missed her.

‘Mommy, I’ve missed you so much!’

“Mommy, I don’t even have a good appetite when you’re not home!”

“Mommy, I’ve missed you so so much!”

Listening to the cute and adorable voices of the children, Molly felt that her heart had melted.

She squatted down and pulled the three children into her arms. After that, she smiled satisfyingly. "I've missed you guys as well."

Behind them, Sean looked at them with a helpless but doting gaze. 'They've only been apart for a couple of days and they're already so clingy.' At that moment, Grandpa Dave and Mr. Anderson Sr. walked over.

"How come it took so long this time?" Grandpa Dave asked with concern, "Did something happen?"

Sean and Molly said that they were coming back a few days ago, but they only just returned today. The elders were worried that they had bumped into some trouble.

Molly quickly stood up and explained, "Oh, it's nothing. It was just that my mentor's research laboratory had a bit of trouble taking things over and that's why we were delayed a few days."

When Grandpa Dave heard those words, he breathed a sigh of relief. "I see. I thought something happened to you guys."

"We're perfectly fine. I've made arrangements with the university as well. I'll just have to head over once in a while to give a lecture and I can stay in Northfolk for the rest of the time."

Molly smiled and wrapped her arms around Grandpa Dave's.

Grandpa Dave immediately became overjoyed. "That's great. You finally don't have to keep traveling back and forth."

Molly nodded.

As the two of them talked, Sean went to his office to take care of some business matters.

Later on, he called Tony into the office.

“Sir, is there anything you want me to do?”

“Book an appointment with the hospital for me...”

When Tony heard the word “hospital”, he immediately became nervous and asked in a panic, “Sir, are you feeling uncomfortable?”

“I just want to do a heart checkup,” Sean said indifferently.

“What’s wrong with your heart?”

The sudden request to checkup on his heart made Tony even more worried.

Sean didn’t respond to Tony’s question. Instead, he warned,” Just do as you’re told. Why are you asking so many questions? Listen, you can’t let Molly know, got it?”

Tony quickly nodded. “Got it. So, what is wrong with your heart?”

“I don’t know yet. That’s why I’m going to do a checkup.”

When Tony heard those words, he didn’t dare to waste any time and quickly said, “Sir, I’ll make an appointment right away.”

With that said, he left in a hurry.

On the morning of the next day.

Sean was going to head out after eating breakfast.

“How come you’re off so early today?”

Molly looked at him in surprise.

Sean's lips curved and made up an excuse. "I've got a few important meetings in the morning."

Molly didn't suspect anything. She walked up to Sean and put on his tie for him.

As she said that, she smiled and looked in Sean's eyes.

"Be careful on the road. Don't tire yourself out."

"Okay."

Sean kissed her lips before turning around and leaving.

After leaving the house, Sean didn't go to his office. Instead, he headed to the hospital.

Tony had made an appointment for him the previous day. He would need to go to the hospital very early in the morning to do the checkup.

Chapter 1367-on."

Everyone greeted Sean as soon as they saw him.

"Let's do the check-up straightaway."

Sean didn't waste any time.

The director of the hospital nodded and quickly led the way.

Throughout the morning, Sean did all kinds of checkups from head to toe.

However, the report showed that there was nothing wrong with him.

“Everything indicates that you’re fine, Mr. Anderson...” the director of the hospital said nervously.

The report suggested that Sean didn’t have any of the conditions that he said he had.

Sean furrowed his brows as well. “If there aren’t any problems then why would I have chest pain for no reason?”

The director of the hospital shook his head. “I’m not so sure about that either.

Normally, if there’s something wrong with one’s body, we can tell through a series of checkups. However, the results of your checkups show that there’s nothing wrong with you.”

“Would it be because of fatigue?” one of the doctors suggested.

“I don’t think so.” The director of the hospital didn’t agree with his point of view.

“If it’s because of fatigue, then there shouldn’t be so many blood streaks on Mr.

Anderson’s body.”

As soon as he said those words, the room became so quiet that one could hear a pin drop.

They were all elites of the hospital with a ton of experience.

However, they had no idea what was wrong with their CEO.

Everyone felt a little helpless.

The director of the hospital put down the report and looked at Sean with a serious face. "Mr. Anderson, the report may show that there's nothing wrong with you, but this might not be good news for us. Therefore, I'd suggest that you come to us as soon as possible when you have chest pain next time."

With that said, the director of the hospital seemed to have suddenly thought of something and immediately added, "That includes when you see the blood streaks that you've mentioned today."

They didn't dare to be careless, but this was all they could do at the moment.

When Sean heard those words, his face darkened.

He came to the hospital this time without telling Molly. He had thought that he would get a result, but didn't expect such a situation.

He really didn't want to make another trip.

The director of the hospital seemed to have guessed what was on Sean's mind, so he quickly said, "Mr. Anderson, this matter might be serious, but it might not be. It's best that you come and do a check-up, so that your relatives won't be worried."

Sean frowned, but still agreed in the end.

"Okay."

Seeing Sean nod his head, the director of the hospital breathed a sigh of relief.

He was then determined to find out what exactly was wrong with Sean.

After leaving the hospital, Sean went straight to work.

On the way, Tony kept on looking in the rearview mirror and wanted to say something, but he kept quiet every time.

He remembered the pained expression on Sean's face a couple of days ago.

That was probably caused by the illness.

"Don't let Molly know about this," reminded Sean when he saw Tony looking at him.

Tony quickly nodded his head. "Don't worry. I'm very good at keeping secrets."

After arriving in his office, Sean quickly focused on his work and was only able to have a break at lunchtime.

He then gave Molly a call.

As soon as the call was answered, Sean heard the sound of operating machines.

"You're at the research laboratory?" he asked.

Molly nodded and said, "The lab had always been working on a project. I didn't have time previously to take a look, but now, I have time, so I naturally have to take a look." As she said those words, she dropped some solution in a test tube and focused on looking at the reaction.

Sean didn't want to disturb her work, so he said, 'Til go pick you up tonight."

"Okay," Molly said without hesitation.

Chapter 1368-Molly was finally able to finish what she was doing at eight o'clock in the evening. As soon as she walked out of the research laboratory, she saw the car waiting at the entrance.

She quickly walked over, opened the door and got in the car.

"Have you been waiting for long?" Molly turned around and apologetically looked at Sean, who was sitting next to her." The results of the tests weren't out yet, so I didn't dare leave. That's why I got off work so late."

A smile appeared on Sean's face. "I feel happy waiting for you."

The romantic words were very sudden.

Molly's lips curved into a smile and her eyes were full of affection for Sean.

"Then being waited by you makes me feel even happier."

Tony, who was in the driver's seat wished that he wasn't present.

He really couldn't take Molly and Sean showing off their love for each other.

Molly then changed the subject as she asked, "Have you eaten?"

"I have. What about you?"

"I have as well, but I didn't eat much."

Molly had been working most of the time, so she didn't have much time to eat.

She only had time to take a few bites.

Sean nodded. "Then I'll take you to get something to eat."

Molly's eyes lit up. "Okay."

Therefore, they found a random restaurant which looked quite nice and went to get something to eat.

It was rare for them to be so relaxed, so they took their time eating. It was already past nine o'clock in the evening when they walked out of the restaurant.

"Is there anywhere else you want to go?" asked Sean.

Molly shook her head with a smile. "No. Let's head home."

As she said those words, she walked towards the car parked at the side of the road. She then reached out and opened the door.

Sean suddenly thought of something and his expression changed. He was about to stop Molly but it was too late.

Molly had already gotten into the car and moved to the other side.

When she saw that Sean still didn't get in, she urged, "Come on, get in."

The corner of Sean's mouth twitched as he got into the car.

As soon as the door closed, Sean secretly clenched his fists and felt a little uneasy.

The seats they were sitting in previously were the other way round.

The report of the check-up was in one of the slots on the door.

“Why did you put documents here?” mumbled Molly when she saw the file and picked it up.

‘It’s over...’ thought Sean as he did a facepalm feeling frustrated.

Molly didn’t realize the change in the expression on Sean’s face. She took out the paperwork, lowered her head and looked at the document. It was a check-up report.

Her expression immediately changed.

She quickly looked through the pages and realized that it was a report of every check-up that one could possibly do.

“What’s this?” Molly turned around and looked at Sean with a frown.

‘Why did Sean do such a thorough check-up all of a sudden?’ she wondered. ‘Is he keeping something from me?’ For a moment there, Sean didn’t know how to explain things to Molly.

He had deliberately kept it a secret from Molly, but didn’t expect her to find out like this.

It was completely silent inside the car all of a sudden.

Tony came up with an idea and helped Sean to explain.” Mrs. Anderson, this is the company’s regular annual checkup.”

With that said, Tony felt he was really smart and no wonder he was Sean’s assistant.

The company’s regular annual check-up?’ wondered Molly.

She squinted her eyes as something flashed in her eyes." Really?"

"Really." Tony quickly nodded his head.

When Molly saw Tony nodding his head, she was immediately infuriated and her face darkened. ' Have you forgotten about my profession, Tony? Are you taking me as a fool?"

As she said those words, she picked up the report and pointed to what was written in it. "The main focus of the check-up was on the heart and you tell me it's a regular health check-up?"

Tony had never seen Molly so angry and was dumbfounded. For a moment, he didn't know what to do. All he could do was to look at Sean.

'Sir, this is the most that I can do...

Chapter 1369-Sean sighed lightly and said slowly, "Molly, calm down first. Let me explain."

"Okay, go on." Molly suppressed her anger and stared at Sean with her beautiful eyes.

Since she had found out then there was no need to keep things a secret from her.

Therefore, Sean told her everything.

After hearing everything, Molly was obviously unhappy. She sneered. "Sean Anderson, why didn't you come to ask me about it? Do you feel that my skills aren't good enough?"

Something so serious had happened and Sean didn't go to her as soon as possible. Instead, he went and did a checkup in secret.

Molly wondered if Sean was going to keep this a secret from her forever if she didn't find out.

The more Molly thought about it, the angrier she became. At the same time, she was worried about Sean's health. The two emotions were entangled in her heart and her eyes turned red.

She looked at Sean with eyes full of anger.

Sean regretted his decision of keeping things a secret from Molly and quickly apologized. "I'm sorry, Molly. I shouldn't have kept it a secret from you."

"If you know you shouldn't have kept it a secret from me, then why did you still do it?"

"I didn't want you to be worried. I planned on doing a checkup first. Besides, the report shows that there's nothing wrong with me."

Sean reached out to wipe the tears from the corners of Molly's eyes. He felt helpless. If he had known this would happen, he wouldn't have kept things a secret from her.

Molly was desperate and angry at the same time. She still felt that something was wrong and quickly asked, "What are the symptoms when you have an attack?"

"Chest pain and blood streaks."

"Blood streaks?" Molly furrowed her brows. She had never heard of such symptoms.

For a doctor, the unknown was very frightening.

With that thought in mind, Molly ordered, "Tony, turn around and head back to the research laboratory!"

"Huh?" Tony was taken aback.

"I must be clear about things myself, otherwise, I will always be worried," said Molly.

Sean nodded and didn't resist. "Okay, let's head back."

With Molly's medical skills, she might be able to find out what was wrong with him.

Tony didn't dare to delay any longer. He quickly turned the car around and headed back in the direction of the research laboratory.

They soon arrived back at the research laboratory.

"I thought you left, why did you come back?" Caitlyn was surprised when she saw them.

Molly didn't reply to Caitlyn's question. Instead, she said, "Come and help me out."

Molly had a very serious face on her. It looked more serious than when she was doing experiments. Caitlyn didn't dare ask too many questions. She then said, "Okay."

Caitlyn quickly followed Molly.

Molly took Sean inside and did a detailed check-up. She didn't leave anything out. When the results came out, it wasn't any different from the check-up that the hospital did.

Looking at the report, Molly was deep in thought.

"There's nothing wrong with the report. Mr. Anderson is very healthy."

Caitlyn looked at Molly, feeling puzzled. She didn't know why Molly was doing such things.

Molly raised her head and looked at Caitlyn. "Bring my silver needles over for me."

"Okay."

Soon, Caitlyn brought the needles over.

Molly unbuttoned Sean's shirt and performed acupuncture around Sean's heart.

The next second, Sean's face changed. His chest began to ache again. It seemed that something was rushing through his veins.

Seeing that, Molly quickly took out another silver needle and stabbed it into Sean's body.

The next second, the blood streaks began to spread.

The blood streaks filled Sean's chest and had even spread to his neck.

It looked very scary.

Caitlyn took a few steps back in fear and her eyes widened in shock.

"Oh my god... what is this?"

Molly was stunned as well.

This was something she had never seen in her life. She had never seen something like this in the years she had been a doctor

Chapter 1370-Molly's face was darker than ever.

She clenched her fists and forced herself to calm down. She leaned in to take a closer look at the blood streaks.

The blood streaks seemed to have come to life and were spreading outwards. It had even reached Sean's arm.

At first sight, Sean's body was filled with blood streaks. It looked like a net and had Sean tied. It was very scary.

The pain kept coming from the chest and Sean closed his eyes tightly. He bit his lip to keep himself from groaning in pain. His fists were clenched and his knuckles were pale.

It was obvious that he was in a lot of pain.

Looking at the state of Sean, Molly's heart ached. However, she still kept her eyes on the blood streaks.

Suddenly, she realized that something was moving in Sean's veins.

She subconsciously stabbed the acupoint with a silver needle in an attempt to find out what exactly it was.

However, when she stabbed the acupoint, Sean's face turned completely pale and he groaned unbearably. Sweat appeared on his forehead.

"Mr... Mr. Anderson looks like he's in a lot of pain!" Caitlyn couldn't help but shout.

Seeing that the pain almost knocked Sean out, Molly didn't dare to continue.

She had no choice but to stop.

She wanted to pull the needles out, but her hands kept on trembling. Even her body was trembling.

Caitlyn noticed this and quickly said, "Leave it to me."

Molly raised her head and looked at Caitlyn. Her eyes were red and she nodded her head slightly. "Okay."

She stood to one side as Caitlyn pulled out the needles on Sean. She felt that someone had grabbed her by the throat and she found it hard to breathe.

After removing the needles, Sean didn't look like he was in so much pain anymore, but his face was still pale. The pain hadn't fully disappeared yet.

Molly bit her lip and forced herself to not cry. She quickly turned around and brought over some painkillers.

"Sean, take these."

Molly and Caitlyn both helped Sean to sit up straight and watched as Sean took the painkillers.

At that moment, Sean realized that Molly's eyes were red. He knew she had been crying and his heart immediately ached.

He kept things a secret from her because he didn't want to see her like this.

Looking at his dark eyes, Molly's heart ached and tears trickled down her cheeks. She quickly turned around.

She didn't want Sean to see her cry.

Seeing this, Sean quickly grabbed Molly's hand.

When Caitlyn saw this, she knew that they had something to say to each other, so she quietly left the room and closed the door.

Molly didn't turn back around. Instead, she bit her lip and allowed the tears to trickle down her cheeks.

Seeing that her shoulders were shaking, Sean's heart skipped a beat. He then asked in a deep and hoarse voice, "Are you mad at me?"

Molly sniffed, raised her hand to wipe the tears from her face and turned around with a straight face. Her eyes which had been filled with tears were shining and the resentment and anger were evident.

"Of course I'm mad at you! I'm mad because you didn't tell me this sooner!"

She didn't dare think what would happen if Sean kept this a secret from her. She wondered if he would only tell her when things became very serious.

What if it was too late when she found out?

That thought alone made Molly have difficulty breathing.

"I'm so sorry. It's my fault."

Sean apologized very sincerely.

When Molly heard those words, tears trickled down her cheeks again. She then sobbed. "I don't even know what's wrong with you right now..."

As a doctor, she had always been confident and relaxed no matter what kind of patient or illness she was faced with.

However, that wasn't possible when it came to Sean.

For a moment there, she had no idea how to treat Sean. Molly's mind had gone blank and had no idea what to do.
