

Triplets On SM 1401

Chapter 1401-With that thought in mind, Molly's face turned serious.

Eaton was harder to deal with than she had expected.

What made her even more worried, was how was he able to get his hands on the Venomous Insects?

Eaton was not only able to get his hands on the Love Curse, but a second Venomous Insect as well.

Things that had been lost kept on appearing one after another. All of them were in Eaton's hands as well...

Molly hesitated for a while and had a rough guess of what was going on in her mind.

Eaton either got his hands on the Venomous Insects through illegal methods, or he got them from the Scott family.

The Scott family was one of the ancient medical families in the country, so it wasn't impossible to get their hands on the Venomous Insects.

However, on second thought, her mentor had left the Scott family a long time ago and hadn't contacted them ever since. Molly decided to talk to her mentor about it when she got back to Xesxia.

Molly forced herself to concentrate and asked Eaton with a cold voice, "Are you here to show off how much of a shameless person you are?"

Eaton was a little stunned and replied helplessly, "Molly, why do you have to say such things about me? I've never hurt you. After all, I've never been willing to hurt you."

Kara, who was standing behind Eaton, was infuriated when she heard what he was saying.

Eaton was unwilling to hurt Molly, but he didn't care about her at all.

Molly's face was filled with disgust. "Eaton, are you saying that it's alright to hurt others? Sean has nothing against you, why did you give him a Venomous Insect? Kara has been with you for so long, how could you do this to her? With what you're doing, what's the difference between you and an animal?"

Faced with Molly's unpleasant words, the smile on Eaton's face finally disappeared.

His face turned cold as he stared at Molly. "Do you really think I won't do anything to you? Molly, the reason that I treat you nicely is because I like you. I hope you won't push your luck. Otherwise, you'll end up just like Kara."

With that said, Eaton ordered, "Pack up. You're leaving Northfolk with me."

Molly wasn't being nice at all. "I don't want you to like me at all."

With that said, Molly slammed the door closed.

Eaton stood outside the door with an angry face. He had to force himself to remain calm.

It was two o'clock in the afternoon when Molly left the hotel carrying some simple luggage with Eaton and Kara.

When they arrived at the airport, Eaton's assistant, Rhett Spear, was already waiting with a few bodyguards wearing black.

Molly glanced at them indifferently.

It seemed that Eaton's trip this time to Northfolk was well prepared.

He had been very careful.

Molly snorted and then looked away.

Rhett took Eaton's luggage from him and said respectfully, "The plane will take off in half an hour. Let's go through the security check first. We can wait inside."

Eaton asked in a low voice, "Have you taken care of things on the other end?"

"Yes. There'll be people ready to pick us up once we get off the plane." Rhett nodded in response.

Eaton felt satisfied. He turned and said to Molly and Kara, "Let's go."

Molly didn't say a word. She took the lead and walked ahead. However, she was a little puzzled about what she had just heard.

What did Eaton mean?

Molly didn't feel like they were going back to Xesxia.

As if proving her thoughts were correct, Molly found out their destination after passing through security.

They were headed to the Unbounded Land.

Molly's heart began to race.

How could things be so coincidental?

She couldn't believe that Eaton was headed towards the Unbounded Land as well.

Molly had no idea how he was connected to the people there.

However, if they were really headed towards the Unbounded Land, Molly realized that she was actually getting closer to Sean.

She might even be able to find a chance to go see him.

Chapter 1402-With that thought in mind, Molly calmed down. She finally had something to feel happy about.

After getting on the plane, Eaton walked over and wanted to sit next to Molly.

Molly frowned and walked to one side. It was quite obvious that sitting next to Eaton made her feel disgusted.

Seeing this, the expression on Eaton's face stiffened. He was a little displeased.

However, when he remembered that Molly wasn't going anywhere and could only remain by his side, the displeasure slowly disappeared.

He didn't say anything and just looked at Molly meaningfully. He then went and sat in the seat behind her.

After the plane had taken off, Molly went to sleep straight away. She ignored everyone and was emitting a cold aura to tell everyone to stay away.

When it was meal time, the air hostess brought the food over, but when she saw that Molly was still asleep, she decided not to wake Molly up.

Therefore, Eaton helped to pass the meal to Molly and woke her up.

“No matter how displeased you are at me, you still need to eat.”

Molly didn't sleep much. She knew what was going on around her.

When she heard Eaton's voice, she opened her cold eyes.

She didn't even look at Eaton. Instead, she turned around, took the food from the air hostess and said nonchalantly, “Thank you.”

Seeing the fact that Molly was ignoring him, Eaton tightened his grip on the food tray. His face darkened as well.

On the other hand, when Kara saw such a scene, she couldn't help but snort.

Eaton was just an ass-licker that Molly would just ignore, but he still wanted to get close to her.

However, the next second, her face changed.

That was because she realized that she was also Eaton's ass -licker during the past few years.

In the end, she still ended up with nothing. She even lost herself as well.

And to Kara, Molly was the cause of all of this.

She kept her hateful eyes on Molly. To Kara, if it weren't for Molly, she wouldn't have ended up in this sorry state.

Molly still ignored everything around her and just ate quietly.

She knew that she would only have the energy to deal with Eaton after she had enough to eat.

With that thought in mind, she turned around and looked out the window.

Molly furrowed her brows and wondered if Sean had woken up yet.

A few hours later, on the Anderson family's private plane, Sean had finally woken up after being unconscious for over 10 hours.

He slowly opened his eyes and looked around where he was. That was when he realized that he was on a plane.

"Sir, you're awake!"

A surprised voice sounded in his ear.

Tony, who had been by Sean's side, realized that Sean was awake and was overjoyed. He quickly walked forward and asked with concern, "Sir, do you feel uncomfortable in any way?"

Tony checked if Sean was alright with eyes full of concern.

"Help me up."

After being asleep for so long, Sean's voice was a little hoarse.

After hearing those words, Tony quickly went and helped Sean sit up.

As soon as Sean moved, he felt his whole body ached. It was as if his body was going to fall apart.

Tony quickly placed a pillow behind Sean's back and then went to fetch a glass of water for him. "Sir, have some water. n Sean only felt a little better after drinking some water. He looked out the window and realized that he was at the airport. He then furrowed his brows.

Sean then looked at his surroundings. That was when he saw Mr. Ballard and the three children.

However, Molly was nowhere to be found.

Sean turned and asked Tony, "Where's Molly?"

Before he passed out, he remembered that Molly was right beside him. Why was she nowhere to be found now?

Sean had a bad feeling about this.

Chapter 1403-Tony had expected Sean to ask him such a question. He then replied, "We're on the plane to the Grandset, but..."

He paused and locked gazes with Sean's cold eyes. Tony subconsciously swallowed.

"But what?" Sean asked as he squinted his eyes.

"But..." Tony gritted his teeth and said, "But Mrs. Anderson isn't on the plane."

With that said, he subconsciously lowered his head and braced himself for Sean's wrath.

'Molly isn't on the plane?' Sean asked inwardly.

The news was like a bomb to Sean's ears. He had just woken up, but his face paled even more.

“Why isn’t she on the plane?” asked Sean.

“Well...” Tony began to panic. He didn’t know how to explain the situation to Sean.

“Tell me! What the hell is going on?”

Sean’s voice became even louder. It was obvious that he was angry.

At that moment, Mr. Ballard was woken up by Sean’s voice. As soon as he opened his eyes, he saw Sean awake. He was immediately fully awake and sat up.

“Sean, you’re awake. How are you feeling?”

Sean forced himself to remain calm and said, “I’m fine.”

As soon as Mr. Ballard heard those words, he breathed a sigh of relief. “That’s good to hear.”

He knew that he didn’t let Molly down.

“Mr. Ballard, why isn’t Molly on the plane? You should know the reason, right?”

Sean turned to Mr. Ballard and asked.

Since Tony wouldn’t tell him the reason, there must be someone who would.

Mr. Ballard was slightly taken aback. He didn’t expect Sean to realize that Molly was missing so quickly.

However, he didn’t plan on keeping it a secret from the start.

Therefore, he replied, "Well, I do know why. Molly told me to tell you as well."

"Molly told you to tell me?"

The bad feeling that Sean was feeling was getting stronger.

Mr. Ballard nodded his head. "That's right. Molly's gone to find Eaton."

As soon as Sean heard Eaton's name being mentioned, Sean's face darkened and his brows were furrowed. "Why has she gone to find Eaton?"

"Molly knew that Eaton was the one who gave you the Venomous Insect. The attacks that you had last night and this morning were all because Eaton was stimulating the Mother Insect and the Mother Insect is in Kara."

Sean wasn't surprised to hear this news. He had guessed that Eaton was the cause of the Venomous Insect in his body.

What he didn't expect was that Molly would go and find Eaton by herself.

It was no other than giving herself up to Eaton.

Mr. Ballard sighed and said, "Molly's purpose this time is to stop Eaton from stimulating the Child Insect in your body and also to bring Kara back. Only by bringing Kara back can she get rid of the Venomous Insect in your body."

"So you just let her go on her own?"

Sean glared at Tony with his sharp gaze.

The latter quickly lowered his head. "Sir, I didn't know Mrs. Anderson had gone to find Eaton. If I had known, I would have stopped her."

As Tony said those words, his voice became smaller and smaller.

Seeing this, Mr. Ballard quickly stepped in. "Don't blame him. He can't really stop Molly from what she wants to do."

"What if she's in danger?"

Sean knew Eaton all too well.

Eaton was just a hypocrite and also a scheming person.

For the times that Sean had come across Eaton, Eaton couldn't suppress his wild ambition at all.

'Is Molly really going to be alright?' wondered Sean.

The more he thought about it, the more worried Sean became. He quickly turned to Tony and said, "Tony, tell the captain to turn the plane around!"

He wasn't going to let Molly put herself in danger. If something really happened to her, Sean didn't know what he was going to do

Chapter 1404-As he spoke, Sean tried to get up.

Unexpectedly, his chest ached, which caught him off guard. He fell backward.

"Sir!"

“Sean!”

This scared Tony and Mr. Ballard.

Sean covered his chest, gasping for air. For a moment, he almost couldn't breathe.

And there was regular pain in his chest as if someone were hitting his heart with an awl.

Tony hurried to help Sean lean back into the chair.

“Calm down and let me finish.”

Mr. Ballard came forward to gently rub Sean's chest. Saw his tight frown, Mr.

Ballard sighed and continued, “Molly did that for your good. Do you want her to watch you suffer?”

This reminded Sean of how worried Molly was when the Venomous Insect attacked him. He slowly clenched his hands at his sides.

If he could, Sean would rather continue to keep this from her.

“You didn't see how anxious she was when you fainted from Venomous Insect.

She did it because she loves you.”

Mr. Ballard's expression became serious when he said this.

Molly was his student. He was also worried about her safety.

Yet Mr. Ballard didn't want her painstaking efforts to be wasted.

So he said sternly, "Sean, if you go back now, her efforts will be in vain. With her character, how disappointed do you think she will be?"

Sean took a deep breath before saying in a deep voice, "Eaton is so unscrupulous. Molly will be in danger by his side. How can I just leave her alone?"

He got emotional.

As soon as Sean thought that Eaton might harm Molly, he became manic and restless.

He wanted to fly back to Northfolk immediately.

Mr. Ballard frowned. "So you should be calm now, right?"

Sean looked up at him with a gloomy face. "How can I be calm?"

"Of course, you can."

Mr. Ballard patted his shoulder. "Go to the Grandset first. Then I will quickly think of a way to control your condition."

At these words, Sean did not show any signs of relief.

Mr. Ballard continued, "Even if we can't solve the Venomous Insect soon, as long as Eaton can't manipulate you, that's enough. When the time comes, we will manage to take Molly back."

Hearing this, Tony also tried to persuade Sean.

“Sir, I think Mr. Ballard is right. Mrs. Anderson went to see Eaton just to stop him from stimulating the Child Insect in your body.

“As long as Mr. Ballard controls the Child Insect, Eaton will have no leverage to coerce Mrs. Anderson, then we can get her back.”

Sean listened to their analysis, his thin lips pursed into a straight line. He did not make a sound.

“And Molly is resourceful. She won’t be easily threatened.”

Mr. Ballard said with great confidence.

That was his beloved student. How could she easily be controlled by an evil guy?

“Yes, yes. Sir, don’t worry. Although I didn’t know Mrs. Anderson was going to see Eaton...”

Tony laughed dryly, “I knew you were definitely not at ease, so I secretly contacted Phecda, Megrez, and Alioth. I asked them to follow Mrs. Anderson.

With their secret protection, Mrs. Anderson will definitely be fine.”

Fortunately, Tony planned ahead and arranged people in advance. Otherwise, it would be difficult to reassure Sean.

Chapter 1405-Before getting on the plane, Tony mulled it over. He didn’t think it was a good idea for Molly to leave alone.

He was also afraid that his boss would be upset when he woke up to find that Molly was gone.

After careful consideration, he contacted the three people at home.

Dubhe and others had followed Chester to go back to the Grandset, but Phecda and the other two were still watching Anthony.

Now that Selon had allied with Mr. Anderson, they no longer needed to watch the Sheperd family.

There was when the three people came in handy.

Sean was finally relieved to learn that Phecda and others were protecting Molly.

Mr. Ballard gave Tony a thumbs-up and praised him. "Well done, kid. You're quite meticulous."

Feeling flattered, Tony scratched the back of his head and said, "I learned it from Mr. Anderson." Mr. Ballard laughed and shook his head. Then he turned to look at Sean and asked, "Are you reassured now?"

But Sean wrinkled his brows and asked back, "Why didn't she tell me about this when she came back last night?"

"Because she didn't know how much the venomous insect in your body affected you. After you had a seizure last night, she freaked out and told me about it."

Mr. Ballard recalled Molly's panicked look and felt distressed.

"She should have told me."

Sean murmured, blaming himself for letting her shoulder everything by herself.

He should have expressed his suspicions to her earlier.

And they could have discussed the matter.

As if he had read Sean's mind, Mr. Ballard continued, "Things would have been easier if we were in Xesxia. We could have just caught Kara and extracted both the mother and child insects with the proper method. Everything would have been fine."

He let out a dejected sigh. "Unfortunately, we were in Northfolk last night. It was already too late when we left in the morning. We have to take Eaton's coercion."

He patted Sean on the shoulder and said seriously, "Her greatest wish is for you to be well. Don't let her down. After we fix this, we'll settle the score with Eaton."

He advised Sean earnestly, hoping that the latter would not act rashly.

Tony chimed in, "Yeah, let's follow Mrs. Anderson's plan and go back to the Grandset first. After she returns safely, we will settle it with Eaton."

Sean squinted at him with reluctance.

"After we land, contact Phecda. I need to know Molly's current situation. Tell them to catch Kara as soon as possible and come back to the Grandset."

"Will do."

Tony took the order.

Sean was agitated, and his eyes were filled with melancholy.

Eaton!

If the man dared hurt Molly, he would let him pay a heavy price.

Tony and Mr. Ballard exchanged looks, relieved that Sean no longer insisted on going back to Northfolk.

However, he was sleepless for the rest of the journey because Molly didn't board the plane.

About seven or eight hours later, the plane finally landed in a city under the jurisdiction of the Grandset.

But the airport was a bit far from their base.

Chester, who had received the message, sent people to pick them up.

As soon as he got into the car, Sean couldn't wait to turn on his phone and try to contact Molly.

To his surprise, he received messages from her first.

He took a look and found that Molly had sent him dozens of messages.

Her words were filled with affection and comfort.

Sean's brows unknitted in an instant when he looked at the full screen of words.

Chapter 1406-Now he directly felt Molly's resolve.

Sean immediately called Molly, but she didn't answer.

He frowned slightly and then continued to call Molly several times, but the voicemail kept saying her phone was unavailable.

Helplessly, he dialed Phecda's phone number.

To Sean's surprise, Phecda also didn't answer.

Sean twisted his eyebrows harder, 'What on earth are they doing? Why didn't they pick up the phone?' There was a faint sense of unease in his heart.

At this time, Tony, who was sitting in the passenger seat, turned around and reported, "Sir, Phecda sent me a message saying that Mrs. Anderson and Eaton probably had gotten on the plane to Unbounded Land, so they also went to Unbounded Land."

Sean was surprised, "What's going on?"

"I don't know, but if Mrs. Anderson will come to Unbounded Land, then you don't have to worry about her. We can find Mrs. Anderson back at any time."

Hearing this, Sean was no longer that anxious, 'Tony is right. When Molly is in Unbounded Land, I will definitely find her.' Outside the plane, which was heading to Unbounded Land, were white clouds, and in the plane, Molly was awakened by the voices behind her.

She glanced at the time and realized that she had slept for four or five hours.

She had slept enough, so she took out a medical book to read. After all, there were still more than ten hours away from Unbounded Land.

As soon as she started reading, she thought, 'What is Sean doing? How are things going?' She forced herself to read and gradually calmed down.

Then she devoted herself to the medical book.

"Awake? Have some fruit," Eaton put a small box of diced fruit in front of Molly.

Molly didn't move as if she had not heard his words.

Eaton was not annoyed but said, "Tell me if you want to eat anything."

Then he closed his eyes and stopped talking to avoid disturbing her reading.

Time passed, and the voyage of more than twenty hours was finally over.

Molly's whole body was very sore because she had sat for a long time.

"Here we are," Eaton looked at Molly gently and then tried to help her with her luggage, but Molly avoided his hand and got off the plane first.

Eaton frowned slightly and then followed her.

The sky was gloomy, and the wind was cold. Molly could not help but shudder.

They walked out of the airport and met four or five men dressed in black, who came to pick them up.

These men were all tall and looked ferocious, which made the people walk away from them.

"Mr. Scott!" They greeted Eaton with respect.

Eaton looked at Molly, "Wait for a moment."

With that, he stepped aside and talked about something with those men.

Molly watched them and narrowed her eyes slightly, thinking, 'What is the relationship between Eaton and these people? Their background must be complex. They even have a faint whiff of danger.' She felt it was becoming more and more difficult to see through Eaton.

Eaton had more secrets than she thought.

Two minutes later, Eaton came to her with a smile.

“Come on. Get in the car.”

A Bentley limousine stopped in front of them.

Molly did not move but stared at Eaton coldly, “Where are we going?”

Eaton opened the car door of the back seat and made a gesture to her, “You will know it later.”

Chapter 1407-Molly had been thinking about where Eaton would take her to since she got into the car.

Half an hour later, the car stopped at a dock.

“Here we are.”

He got out of the car first and looked at her.

She looked around, got out of the car with a poker face, followed several men in black and boarded a ship.

It was a passenger ship, and its space was quite large.

After she boarded the ship, she saw many people on the ship. Most of them were foreigners.

Some men were strictly guarding in all directions.

Molly and the others looked very different from these foreigners, so many foreigners examined them up and down.

The atmosphere was depressive.

Molly felt uneasy about the unknown place and the unknown danger.

'Why does Eaton have a relationship with these people?' When she was lost in thought, Eaton took her to a private lounge to rest.

Having such a separate space in this ship, it seemed that Eaton's status was special.

After she had a seat, she couldn't wait to ask, "Can you answer my questions now? Where are we going? What are you going to do?"

He glanced at her but didn't answer her questions frankly.

He only told her a little information. "The destination of the ship is an island.

There is a medical research base on the island. It researches and develops cells and genes. Their rules are strict. I can't expose too much. It's confidential."

She frowned.

She knew that Eaton had joined some projects overseas.

But she had never learned about the content.

'Is the island we are heading to related to his previous research?' She thought about it but didn't think of any information about the medical research base on the island.

And she had another question...

“Now that you’re going to join a project’s research and development, why do you take me there? Do you want me to join it?”

He met her gaze, and his gaze became serious.

“You can choose not to join, but you have to stay with me. Don’t worry. After you arrive at the island, you can stay in your room or hang around. The scenery is beautiful on the island. But you need a pass if you want to leave the island.”

Her face clouded over, and her gaze became serious.

Does he want to imprison me?

‘Why is there such a place in the world?’

‘It seems that it’s not simple.’ Noticing that he was reluctant to tell her anything else, she fell silent.

She leaned against the couch for a while. She had slept in the plane for too long and couldn’t fall asleep now.

Besides, she was unfamiliar with the environment, and Eaton was beside her.

She was tense and alert.

Originally, he would like to chat with her.

However, when he saw her poker face, he just kept silent.

One hour later, she stood up and went to the restroom.

Hearing the noises, he raised his head and asked, "Where are you going?"

"The restroom."

She opened the door and replied without looking back.

Seeing that, he walked over and grabbed her wrist.

She frowned, shook off his hand and asked coldly, "What are you doing? You even interfere when I go to the restroom? Or you want to follow me?"

She felt annoyed.

Along the way, she had suppressed her anger all the time. However, he even interfered when she went to the restroom, so she couldn't help but refute.

Seeing that she had misunderstood him, he explained resignedly, "If you act recklessly on the ship, you will be in danger. I'm just concerned about you."

Chapter 1408-Although Molly hissed at Eaton, he didn't get angry. He didn't want her to misunderstand him or be angry with him.

Molly retorted in a cold tone, "I'm just going to the restroom. What could happen to me? If you want to spy on me, be straight forward! Don't pretend to care about me. I'm not going to run away. We are in the middle of the ocean!"

Then she turned around and went out.

Eaton was not annoyed. He didn't want to argue with her.

It wouldn't do him any good to argue with her.

The restroom was at the end of the hallway. After finding it, Molly went in.

Eaton followed her behind.

After she went into the restroom, he waited for her in the hallway...

After Molly went into the restroom, she was still angry.

She didn't know when she would be able to leave.

She didn't know where they were taking her. She had a bad feeling.

She turned on the faucet and rinsed her face with cold water. She felt a little refreshed.

Then she went into a stall.

Just after she closed the door, two women entered the restroom and they were talking. They were speaking Fomanesia's language.

Molly had been in Fomanesia for many years, so she was fluent in this language. She didn't pay attention to what they were talking about at first.

However, just as she was about to go out, the two lowered their voices and said, "I thought I could finally get the hell out of there and I could be free. I didn't expect we're just moving to a new island to work."

“What’s so bad about it? The pay is so good. Why not come?”

Molly was stunned. She listened intently to their conversation.

‘Is that place they’re talking about the island they’re taking me to?’ “The pay was good. But before we leave the island, they will give us drugs to erase our memories. That drug has side effects.”

“Who told you about that? I doubt it. We work for the Martial Art Union. There are so many scholars. If the drug has side effects, who dare come?”

“Shh. Keep it down so no one hears us...”

The two women’s voices lowered.

Footsteps sounded outside the restroom.

The two women stopped discussing and hurried off.

Molly’s heart thumped.

What she feared might be true.

Although she had only heard a few words, she discerned something from their conversation.

This area was governed by the Martial Art Union!

The research base that the ship was heading to might also be owned by the Martial Art Union.

Molly remembered what had happened in Domster before.

'Eaton said there were strict rules on the island. It was possible...

'The disappeared members of the Ballard family might be on that island.' Molly's heart tensed at the thought.

She made up her mind to investigate it.

After she had made up her mind, she left the restroom.

Just as she exited the restroom, she saw Eaton.

Molly stared at him with knitted brows.

Eaton explained, "You haven't been back for so long. I was a little worried, so I waited here for you."

Molly didn't respond to him. She walked past him and back into the lounge.

When she entered, she saw Kara staring at her with sullen eyes.

All the way over here, she could sense the hatred in Kara's eyes, but she ignored it.

At this moment, however, Molly was irritated by what she had just learned. She snapped, "The person who hurt you is right beside you. Why are you glaring at me, not him? What's wrong with you?"

Chapter 1409-Kara's eyes clouded over, but she didn't retort.

Her fists clenched tighter.

Molly didn't bother to talk to Kara anymore. She sat down at a distance from Kara.

Molly poured herself a glass of water and sipped it slowly.

Eaton sat down across from her. He stared at her with narrowed eyes, a hint of scrutiny in his eyes.

"When you were in the restroom, did you run into anyone or hear anything?"

Molly looked up at him, a sarcastic look in her eyes. She asked, "What? Is there anything I shouldn't listen to?"

Eaton shook his head. "No, but I want to tell you not to trust anyone here."

Molly let out a snort. She looked at Eaton and said, "Eaton Scott, for my part, anyone here is more trustworthy than you. n Eaton choked. He didn't know how to explain.

She seemed to have misunderstood him even more.

"Molly, I do it for your sake, really."

Molly didn't want to waste time with him. She turned her head to look out the window at the sea. She had an indifferent expression on her face.

Seeing that she didn't want to talk to him anymore, Eaton had to keep his mouth shut.

For the next few hours, no one spoke.

After about five or six hours, the ship finally reached the island. Molly felt tired.

As soon as the ship docked, someone shouted, "Get off the ship in order!"

Everyone stood up and headed out of the cabin, one by one. There was a lot of noise outside the cabin, car horns, people's voices...

Molly got up, but Eaton said, "Let's wait until everyone else has left."

She didn't argue with him. They watched the others get off the ship.

After everyone else had left, Eaton led her off the ship.

Stepping out of the cabin, Molly saw several buses parked along the shore. She thought they were going to get on the bus like everyone else.

However, Eaton led her straight to a black car.

"Mr. Scott," a man in a black suit greeted respectfully.

He opened the car door for Eaton.

Molly noticed that the man treated Eaton with great respect, but she said nothing.

As soon as they got in, the driver started the car and headed for the center of the island.

The island was very beautiful, but there was hardly anyone on the road.

Molly saw a few people on the road, but they all looked tense.

When the car reached the center of the island, Molly saw a very large research base through the window.

She instantly sat up straight, a shocked look in her eyes.

It was an extremely large complex, not just one building, but a block of buildings. And there were several skyscrapers.

Noticing Molly's interest in the base, Eaton told her, "This is the island's Research and Development base."

Molly snapped back to her senses at Eaton's words. She frowned. Although she did not want to talk to Eaton, she wanted to know more about the base.

She glanced at Eaton through the corners of her eyes and asked absent-mindedly, "All these buildings belong to the R&D base?"

Thinking of the two women's conversation on the ship earlier, Molly got suspicious.

Eaton was honest. "Yes, but there are many research projects here, probably dozens of them. The R&D staff can only move around within defined limits."

Chapter 1410-Molly asked nonchalantly, "Who invested in such a large research base?"

"Uh... I'm afraid I can't tell you."

Molly wasn't surprised by Eaton's answer. She stopped asking and turned her head to look at the research base, a curious look in her eyes.

She was determined to find a chance to get into the base, so she could find out why the Martial Art Union had built such a large research base.

As she was lost in thought, the car pulled up in front of a house.

Molly got out of the car and looked at the house.

“This is where I live.”

Eaton instructed the driver to take the luggage inside, and then he said to Molly, “You will also live here.”

Molly didn’t look at him. She followed the driver into the house.

“Everyone’s accommodations are cautiously arranged.

Since I brought you here, you’ll be staying in the same house as me.”

Eaton walked up to Molly and continued, “You and I will be staying on the second floor, and Kara will be staying on the third floor.”

Kara immediately let out a snort.

Molly grunted, “I will live on the third floor. You guys live on the second floor. I want to be alone.”

After that, she went upstairs.

Eaton watched her go upstairs with sullen eyes.

Although he was unhappy that Molly went to the third floor, he couldn’t say anything.

‘Since she’s on the island, she can only stay around me.

She’s not going anywhere!’ Molly went up to the third floor. It was a nice house. The room was clean. She was the only one living on the third floor. It was quiet.

Molly put down her luggage. She glanced around, and, finally, she had a smile.

‘At least this room is nice. It’s good to be away from Eaton. Otherwise, I’ll be suffocated!’ Molly walked around the room. Then she went out onto the balcony.

The surroundings of the house were nice. The houses next to it were all the same.

Molly guessed that the people living in these houses probably had special status.

And the place was close to the research base.

She guessed it was about a ten-minute walk to the research base.

She squinted her eyes at the research base not far away.

She wondered if the Ballards were here...

After standing on the balcony for a while, she turned around and went back to her room and started looking for the phone.

However, she was disappointed.

There was no phone in the room, so she had no way of contacting Sean.

She was worried about what was going on with Sean.

‘If he knows I lied to him, will he be angry with me?’ Thinking about this, Molly got upset and a bit agitated. She wanted to kill Eaton.

'If it wasn't for Eaton, how could I have separated from Sean?' Molly was very angry. Just then, Eaton knocked on the door.

"Molly, you didn't eat anything for lunch, so I asked the cook to make some food.

Come and have some food." Eaton's gentle voice sounded outside the door.

Molly didn't open the door but refused coldly, "No, if I'm hungry, I'll make something for myself. I don't dare to eat the food you give me!"

Eaton was frustrated. But he continued, "I'm not going to poison you. If you don't trust me, you can test the food... I have to go out later, so I need to tell you something about the island before I leave."
