

Triplets On SM 1421

Chapter 1421-Molly joked, "As a doctor's dearest person, learning more means you can help your fiance in the future."

Lesley looked at her helplessly and said reluctantly, "Since you've said so, then... okay. When I'm free, I'll read."

"Okay, I'll pick some books for you tonight," Molly said.

Thinking it was fun, Lesley pushed the cake to her and said, "To express my gratitude for your kindness, please eat the cake now."

Molly chuckled, "Okay."

Then she picked up the small fork to eat. While eating, she chatted with her about other things.

And they chatted for a whole afternoon. Upon leaving, Molly was a little unwilling to part with her.

Being brought to this island was something unexpected, but knowing Lesley was kind of a happy thing.

But no matter what, she had to go back.

At dinner, she didn't speak a word to Eaton. Just after eating a few mouthfuls, she went upstairs to sleep.

Later tonight, Rhett came to Eaton's study and reported what had happened during the day to him in detail.

Then he took a step forward and put a voice recorder on the desk.

“What is inside is the dialogue between Miss May and Lesley. Every word they said is in it.”

Eaton picked up the voice recorder, glanced at it, smiled, and looked at him appreciatively, “You did a good job this time.”

With Rhett watching, he didn’t believe Molly could make any waves.

Molly didn’t know Rhett had recorded all their dialogue. Now she was picking medical books she would take to the cafe tomorrow.

In the end, she chose a few that were not so hard to read.

The next morning, as soon as she finished breakfast, she was about to go out with the books.

“Wait a minute.”

Eaton’s voice came from behind her.

Molly knitted her thin brows.

Eaton came to her, looked down at the books in her arms, and arched his brows. “I haven’t seen these medical books before. Let me have a look, okay?”

Have a look?’ Molly raised her eyes, glared at him coldly, and said sarcastically, “Hey, Eaton, you also want to check these things, eh?”

Eaton pursed his lips, silent.

Molly took a deep breath, suppressing the anger that was surging, and threw the books to him with great force.

“You want to see them, so how could I not let you see them?” she sneered.

Eaton immediately began flipping through the pages. He read very carefully as if he was looking for something.

Molly looked at him expressionlessly.

After flipping through all these books, he didn’t find anything unusual or any words she had put down.

They were all brand-new medical books.

Realizing that he had thought too much, Eaton said with faked embarrassment, “Molly, I just wanted to care about you.”

Before he could finish that, Molly snatched the books away, snorted, and went straight out, even without glancing back at him.

When she reached the cafe and saw Lesley, Molly handed these books to her.

“Thank you.”

Lesley took them, opened the one on top, and read it for a while. Now her beautiful thin brows had almost been knitted into knots.

“Molly, this... is a little difficult.”

She looked up with a wry smile.

She just knew a few basics, so this book was really a little difficult for her.

“That’s not a problem. I’ll explain to you.”

Molly pulled her chair to sit beside her and began to explain the things in the book.

Suddenly starting a class, Lesley thought this was funny, and she listened to Molly cooperatively.

When Molly was about to go back, Lesley asked her to stop.

“Molly, this is for you.”

Lesley put a book into Molly’s arms and smiled, “This is what I took from my fiancé’s study.”

At first glance, Molly knew this was a book with traces of time.

“This... should be something precious, right?”

She looked up at Lesley.

The latter said sourly, “Precious? He usually puts it under the foot of the table, but I hope you like it.”

Molly didn’t know whether to laugh or cry. “Of course, I like it. Thank you, Lesley.”

As she spoke, she leafed through a few pages.

While reading, she suddenly narrowed her eyes a bit, faintly feeling something was wrong.

Why... were some things in the book so similar to the medical skills Mr. Ballard taught her?

Was it that...

She quickly read a few more pages and found what she thought was correct, her heart pounding.

Could it be such a coincidence?

Chapter 1422-Molly's mind was a sea with great waves, but she looked calm, showing no emotions.

She was going to read the medical book carefully when she got back.

If this really had connections with the Ballard family, she would work out ways to meet Lesley's fiance anyway.

Later today, when Molly returned to the small villa, Eaton was already back.

She strode over and put the book Lesley gave her on the table.

"This is the book Lesley gave me. Do you need to check it page by page?"

Hearing her irony, Eaton hesitated for a moment before saying, "No need. I've told the chef to cook your favorite dinner."

Seeing that she still looked unhappy, he said a little softly, "Molly, let's stop quarreling, okay?"

But Molly didn't show him the slightest respect. She simply said, "Unnecessary.

I'm not hungry."

After that, she went upstairs with the book.

As soon as she got in her room, she began to read the book.

She didn't stop reading until her eyes were a little tired a few hours later.

She closed the book, quite excited. Many things in the book Lesley gave her were indeed the same as what Mr. Ballard had taught her.

This should be the best news she got during these days here.

If Lesley's fiance did have some connections with the Ballard family, she wouldn't be alone on this island.

Thinking of this, she couldn't help but feel very happy.

It seemed that she should seek a chance to confirm something with Lesley.

She suddenly felt a little hungry, maybe because she was now happy.

Then she put the book aside and rose to go downstairs.

No one was downstairs, so it was quiet.

Molly came to the kitchen, opened the fridge, checked the food there, took out an egg and a bag of instant noodles, and boiled them, getting a bowl of noodles.

Eaton happened to come downstairs to get water to drink. When he found the dining room was lit up, he came over to take a look. Seeing Molly, he was a little surprised.

After glancing over her half-finished noodles, he frowned and said, "You can ask the housemaid to cook them for you next time." Molly didn't look up but focused on eating quietly as if he was not there.

Her attitude made Eaton annoyed, but the man then remembered that he would have a lot of time in the future, so he suppressed his annoyance. When he got water, he went upstairs.

The next morning.

Molly finished her breakfast, ready to go out.

Eaton came over and said, "I'm not going to the research base today. I can hang out with you this evening."

Molly's good mood was instantly gone. Yes, she felt disgusted.

"No need. I'm not going out today."

As she spoke, she bypassed him, ready to return to her room.

He suddenly wanted to go out with her, simply because he wanted to watch her himself. Humph, he did treat her like a prisoner!

So disgusting!

"Wait!" Eaton stopped her.

Molly shouted angrily, "What do you really want?"

"You have no choice. You have to let me hang out with you," Eaton threatened her coldly.

Molly felt so disgusted, but she was under his control, so she had to agree.

Knowing she couldn't refuse him, Eaton became mild and said gently, "You've been on the island for some days, but I'm sure you haven't had a good tour around here. I'll take you to a few scenic spots to enjoy life."

Molly looked cold, not saying a word.

Eaton did take her to a few scenic spots this morning and introduced them very solicitously.

But Molly didn't show any interest, keeping a straight face all the time.

She had thought that they would go back after the tour, but Eaton took her to Lesley's cafe.

Lesley was surprised to see Eaton. "Why did you come here with a guy today?"

She cast an inquiring look at Molly.

Before Molly could say anything, Eaton said, "Molly says she often comes to your place these days. I really appreciate you taking care of her."

Chapter 1423-Eaton behaved elegantly and politely.

However, Lesley did feel something was wrong, but she didn't show it. Instead, she said with a smile, "I should thank Molly instead. I don't have any friends on this island. By knowing Molly, I won't be so bored."

"Oh, yeah?"

Eaton put a broad smile on his face, a glimmer flipping through his eyes. He pretended to ask casually, "Lesley, your fiance is said to work in the research base. What is his name? I'm also a member of it. Maybe I also know him."

Molly immediately flared up.

She thought that he was out today with bad intentions. Now she finally knew what he wanted.

"Eaton, can you stop it?"

Molly, who couldn't bear it, shouted at him, "Why don't you just stop checking up on my friend's privacy?"

After that, having no time to say anything to Lesley, she rose to leave.

After leaving the cafe, Molly walked down the street, her anger surging in her chest.

No!

No, she couldn't let things go on like this!

Otherwise, Eaton would never stop.

She must work out a way to leave here.

She even thought about going to Kara, persuading her to go with her.

But... would Kara be willing?

Even if she was willing, when they left the island, they would have to go through all kinds of checks. Anyway, it was hard to leave here.

As she was thinking, she became dispirited.

At that moment, a man coming from the opposite direction suddenly ran into her.

The man came with great force, and she didn't realize it, so she fell to the ground.

"Sorry, sorry," the man immediately apologized.

Molly was furious, and such a thing happened, so she was about to explode, her face quite terrifying.

She was about to get up.

The man who had run into her instantly bent down to help her.

"Madam, I'm Megrez."

Molly heard the man whispering in her ear.

Megrez?

She froze, then looked up at the man in surprise, but frowned the next second.

She had met Megrez before, but this was not his face.

The man then whispered, "We came here to protect you with Master's order."

Sorry to have seen you suffer on this land these days.

“Master asked me to tell you that you can do what you want to do. You don’t have to worry about him. If you need anything, just inform us.”

Molly was shocked for a long time.

Was it Sean who sent them to protect her?

Her eyes lit up. She became excited, and her heart began melting. She suddenly had confidence that whatever she did, someone was behind to support her.

She moved her lips, ready to say anything when she heard someone scurrying over from behind.

Megrez turned serious and asked, “Sorry, sorry, did you get hurt?”

As he asked, he helped Molly up.

Taking the chance, he put something in her hand.

“This is a micro locator. These few buttons all have their functions. Madam, you can figure out how to use them when you’re back in your place.”

As soon as Megrez finished that, Eaton had come to Molly and began scrutinizing him with his sharp eyes.

“Who are you?”

Far away, he had just seen this man talking to Molly.

That was suspicious.

With his face full of uneasiness, Megrez looked so nervous he stuttered while explaining.

“Sorry, I accidentally... bumped into this young lady.”

He bent down to apologize very sincerely, “Sorry, I didn’t mean to. Did you get hurt? If you are hurt, I’m willing to pay for your medical expenses.”

Chapter 1424-Molly finally realized it. She sneaked a peek at Eaton, then put on a straight face, and cursed evilly on purpose, “Weren’t you paying attention while walking?”

Before Eaton could find anything out, she moved on.

Eaton didn’t notice her heave a secret sigh of relief. Instead, he had been studying Megrez with narrowed eyes.

The latter looked bewildered and unsure of what to do, so he couldn’t find anything. Then he could only snort and go chase after Molly.

With a straight face, Molly kept moving forward.

Even if Eaton called to her from behind, she didn’t stop.

Now she didn’t want to speak one more word to him!

She hated him so much!

When he caught up with her, Eaton explained apologetically, “Molly, I didn’t have any bad intentions. I just wanted to know about your friend. I was afraid you would be cheated because you’re new to this place and its people.”

Molly paused, turned her head, glaring at him coldly, and ridiculed, "Eaton, you take yourself too seriously, don't you? You have no right to know about my friend!"

"Molly!" Eaton was a little unhappy. "No matter what, I'm caring about you!"

"You don't have to!"

Molly chuckled with ridicule, "Eaton, I respected you in the past because at least, you looked like a real gentleman, but you are now despicable and shameless in doing things."

At this point, she took a deep breath, her look at him full of disgust. "I'll really feel nauseous if I look at you for a little more while!"

After that, she continued to move.

Her words made Eaton so angry that his face turned purple, then pale. In a word, it looked so terrifying.

He never expected her to hate him so much!

Did she think she could be so unruly because he liked her?

With a flicker of his eyes, Eaton suddenly strode forward and held Molly's hand forcefully.

"Eaton, what do you want to do?"

Molly turned her head and saw his insidious eyes, shocked, but her face was still cold.

"Molly, why did you have to overreact like this?" Eaton suddenly smiled, but his smile was a little eerie. "Are you covering something up?"

“Eaton, are you out of mind? Get off me!”

Molly was struggling hard, trying to get rid of his hand.

“The man seemed to put something in your hand, right?”

Eaton put more strength in his hand. “Do you know the person?”

Then he looked down at her clenched hand and narrowed his eyes. “Can you open your hand to let me see it?”

Molly’s heart instantly contracted, but she didn’t show anything on her face. She said ironically, “God, are you paranoid?”

She kept struggling hard, but Eaton suddenly held her wrist and acupoint.

Molly felt numb in her hand and opened it, and the thing slipped down.

But that was the villa’s key!

Eaton’s expression turned stiff. Why was it a key?

He clearly saw...

Before he could think further, Molly laughed with ridicule, “Eaton, have you seen what satisfies you?”

She shot a fierce look at him, then bent down, picked the key up, and left.

Eaton stood the ground, dazed for a long time.

He had infuriated Molly this time.

Molly and Eaton returned to the villa one after the other.

“Molly, let me explain, okay?”

Eaton was close behind Molly, looking sincerely sorry.

But Molly ignored him, walking upstairs.

Eaton didn't give up. “I really didn't mean to, Molly. Please let me explain.”

Chapter 1425-When they came to the third floor, Molly entered her room. Eaton wished to follow her in, but she slammed the door behind her. And Eaton's nose almost hit the door.

Eaton stared at the closed door, so annoyed. Knowing she wouldn't cool down so soon, he had no choice but to turn and go downstairs.

As soon as Molly got into her room, she locked the door.

Only when the footsteps outside the door were gone did she immediately take out the locator from her neckline.

When she fell on the street and Megrez helped her up, she subconsciously tucked the locator into her clothes, afraid Eaton would find it.

Fortunately, she had been clever enough. Otherwise, the locator would have been in Eaton's hands now.

Eaton was evil. If he got the locator, he would do something bad to Sean.

Thinking of this, she couldn't help but feel scared.

When she calmed down, she came to the bed, sat down, and began observing the locator in her hand.

The locator was about the same size as a thumb drive, on which there were a few buttons and a small device that could turn.

She didn't really know about such high-tech items.

"This is a micro locator. These few buttons all have their functions. Madam, you can figure out how to use them when you're in your place."

Megrez's words sounded in her ears. Therefore, she looked at the button signs on it carefully and found that one of them was a phone pattern.

She pressed it subconsciously.

Now the room was quiet.

When she thought nothing would happen, a very family voice sounded.

"Hello?"

The speaker's voice was low but very attractive.

It was... Sean's voice!

Molly was stunned. In a trance, she thought her ears had gone wrong.

She didn't dare to make a sound, her heart pounding.

Soon Sean's voice came out of the locater again.

"Is that you, Molly?"

Molly's eyes turned red in an instant.

She covered her mouth in excitement and asked tremulously, "It's me... Sean, can you hear me?"

Hearing her voice from the other end of the line, Sean was finally relieved. "Yes, I can. Megrez and his lot seem to have found you."

The moment she heard the familiar voice, Molly shed tears and said yes softly.

It was truly Sean, who she missed day and night.

No matter how low her voice was, Sean could hear that something was wrong.

Feeling sorry, he asked, "You're crying?"

Molly held her knees with her arms, and denied it in a sobbing tone, "No, it is... it is just that I haven't heard your voice for so many days, and I miss you."

At this point, her tears almost flooded down again.

Although he couldn't see her, she tried to force a smile and said in a feigned relaxed tone, "I thought it would take a long time before I could hear your voice."

It was just a few days, but she felt like they were a century.

It had been so long that she couldn't help but cry when hearing his voice.

She missed him so much.

"Now you can hear my voice anytime," Sean said gently.

"Okay."

Molly sniffled. Remembering her experiences during these days, she sobbed again, "My phone was thrown away by Eaton and was broken. I can't reach anyone. I was afraid you would be worried and angry..."

She spoke in a very low voice, her words full of grievances.

Sean was so sorry to hear that, wishing to hold her tightly in his arms.

He could imagine how much she had suffered these days.

He was unwilling to let her suffer even a bit.

How dare Eaton Scott put her through all of this!

He immediately went furious, wishing to tear that wanker into pieces

Chapter 1426-Sean quickly suppressed his emotions.

He was going to get Eaton back sooner or later.

The most important thing to him at the moment was to comfort his wife first.

He softened his voice and said, "Dear, don't cry. I'll get him back bit by bit."

When Molly heard Sean call her "Dear", she blinked her eyes and felt happy.

Her urge to cry almost disappeared.

She wiped the tears from her eyes and nodded her head heavily. "Okay." After a short pause, she then said, "I'll help you to get him back as well. He has given you Venomous Insect and tortured you. I'll never forgive him for doing that."

Her voice was full of anger. It was obvious that she hated Eaton.

Sean's lips curved into a smile and said, "I know. I believe you."

The two of them were engaged in a romantic conversation for a while. Molly then asked about Sean and the children's situation.

"The children are fine. They're all at the Grandset. Mr. Ballard is fine as well.

He's going to go to his friend's tomorrow. If things are successful, then the investigation about matters about 'Venomous Insect' should be able to begin.

We might be able to get an answer very quickly."

Sean told Molly everything in a gentle voice.

"What about you? Are you feeling any better? Do you feel any discomfort?"

asked Molly.

Sean was very gentle. "I'm fine. After that attack before boarding the plane, there hadn't been any more problems. It must be because the distraction you've caused Eaton over the past few days. He no longer has any time to torture me.

Mr. Ballard also gave me some medicine to help me recover, so there haven't been any problems."

"That's good to hear." Molly breathed a sigh of relief. "It's a good thing that Mr.

Ballard is around..."

With that thought in mind, she remembered the matter of the Ballard family.

Molly quickly told Sean about the island's situation and that she coincidentally bumped into Lesley and her fiancé.

"I'm not sure at the moment if Lesley's fiancé has anything to do with the Ballard family. Therefore, can you get Mr.

Ballard to come over? I want to ask him something about this matter."

Sean hesitated after hearing those words. "I don't think so. Mr. Ballard has gone out and would only probably come back later on. However, Lesley's fiancé might really have something to do with the people of the Ballard family. Do you remember the fact that I've asked Chester to find the whereabouts of the people of the Ballard family after we've come back from Domster?"

"I do," replied Molly. "Could it be that they were able to find the research base that I was in?"

"Not really. They were only able to find out that there was a research base in that area, but not the exact location. After all, that area belonged to the Martial Art Union. Not only that, we have to travel through a large area of ocean. We can't really openly try to find out the route either. Megrez was only able to find out about the island's exact location because Eaton took you there," said Sean.

Molly quickly realized what was going on. "I see. However, speaking of which...

I'm quite curious. How were you able to bring men over so quickly? I thought it was going to take a while."

Sean couldn't help but smile. "It's probably because... I can see the future."

Molly couldn't help but laugh. "If you can see the future, did you see that it's hard to get on the island and that they have a set of very strict security measures? How were your men able to get on the island?"

"That's even easier. All they needed to get on the island was a fake identity. It was a piece of cake for them," Sean said matter-of-factly, which made Molly smile.

"What kind of men do you have? Why are they good at everything? I've seen Megrez's disguise ability as well. His disguised look was very realistic and I couldn't even tell the difference."

Chapter 1427-Sean smiled. "The disguise ability is just one of the most basic techniques.

Every member of the Stars Group knows it. Alkaid is the best at it and can make her look identical to someone."

"Really?" Molly was quite interested in this. "I need to get Alkaid to teach me when I see her next time."

Sean smiled when he saw Molly deviating from the topic." That won't be the problem. However, the most important thing at the moment is to bring you back.

I'll be worried if I let you stay by Eaton's side. Since Megrez and the others are on the island, then I'll get them to find out the route to get there and information about the Ballard family. That includes the research base. Before that happens, you can do whatever you want. You don't need to worry about anything. All you need to do is to deal with Eaton and don't let him pick on you."

Molly had no problems with that. 'Til do as you say."

"Oh?" Sean said meaningfully, "You only know to say that now? You've deliberately kept the fact that you're going to go find Eaton a secret from me.

Don't you think you should be punished?"

Molly didn't expect Sean was going to bring this matter up and her heart skipped a beat.

However, she still said honestly, "I didn't think that much back then. I couldn't stand to see you were in so much pain, and I really wanted him dead! I want to ease your pain. My heart ached when I saw that you fainted due to the pain."

Sean was going to use this chance to teach Molly a lesson so that she wouldn't act on her own next time. However, as soon as she said those words, his heart softened.

He sighed and said helplessly, "I hope there won't be a next time, alright? When I wasn't able to see you when I woke up, I was worried sick. If it weren't for the fact that Megrez and the others are protecting you, I would have headed over to you already."

Molly felt Sean was being very sweet and caring. She then said, "I'm sorry.

There won't be a next time, I promise."

When Sean saw that Molly apologized, he then decided not to say anything else.

Just as the two of them were about to carry on the conversation, someone knocked on Molly's door.

The person was even turning the door knob.

"Molly, open the door," Eaton said coldly outside the door.

Molly's heart skipped a beat and she nearly dropped the locator in her hand.

She then said to Sean quietly, "I'll go deal with him."

Sean's voice was cold. "Don't hang up. I want to listen to what he wants."

Molly nodded and placed the locator in her pocket. She made sure there weren't any problems before opening the door.

Eaton and Kara were standing outside the door.

The former seemed to have a dark face and the latter seemed to be happy to see what was about to happen.

"What do you want?" Molly asked in a bad mood.

She was sulking because she was having a great conversation with Sean and the two of them had to come and ruin the moment. She felt disgusted.

Eaton was about to walk into the room with a dark face.

Seeing this, Molly's face turned dark and blocked his path. She then said with a cold voice, "What are you doing?"

Eaton's expression was quite scary and his eyes were cold." Kara heard someone talking in your room, so I came to see what's going on."

Molly's heart skipped a beat. She had already lowered her voice just now. Could it be that Kara still overheard?

It was unlikely, but there was no way Molly was going to admit to this.

Molly's face darkened and she said coldly, "What's the matter with you? There's only me in this room. Who the hell can be talking in my room? Eaton, it's alright for you to be suspicious, but there has to be a limit. Don't be a sick bastard.

There's you as well..." She looked at Kara. "If you're bored, then find yourself something to do. Don't always come to me looking for trouble."

Chapter 1428-Kara saw how angry Molly was and sneered. "Why are you so worked up? Is it because you feel guilty? I was just walking by moments ago and I did hear someone talking in the room. If you're not guilty then step aside."

When Molly heard those words, she looked at Kara with eyes full of disdain.

Kara was a little frustrated after being stared at by Molly." What's that look in your eyes?"

"Nothing. I just feel a little strange. Such a man is treating you in such a way and you're still willing to be his dog. No wonder you've ended up in such a situation, Kara."

With that said, Molly stepped aside and said coldly, "Go in. Do what you have to and get lost!"

Kara was so angry that her face turned pale.

She hated Eaton for treating her so badly, but she didn't want Molly to feel comfortable at all.

She had kept her eyes on Molly's actions over the past few days. This was because she wanted to find a chance to annoy Molly.

Just moments ago, Kara was sure that she had heard someone talking in Molly's room.

She was sure that she hadn't misheard.

Eaton saw that Molly had stepped aside confidently and he began to feel unsure.

However, just in case, he still chose to enter the room and checked the whole room.

He even looked in the wardrobes and windows.

Molly leaned against the door and looked at what was happening with a disdainful gaze. She then asked, "How about you check under the bed?"

Eaton felt a little uneasy after hearing those words.

He tried to sound as gentle as possible. "Molly, I'm just... worried that you might encounter some danger."

Molly said in a disdainful voice, "Is there someone more dangerous than you on this island? Have you finished? If you have, then get out."

She gave Eaton the order to leave impatiently.

Eaton frowned. He wasn't happy, but he still said calmly in the end, "Don't take what just happened to heart. Get some rest."

After saying those words, he glared at Kara and left.

Kara's heart skipped a beat and was very angry.

In the end, she said to Molly coldly, "I don't know what's going on, but be careful, Molly. If you do anything, I will still tell Eaton."

Molly looked at Kara as if she was looking at a retard.

"Kara, don't you know that an ass-licker will always end up with nothing? You're a great example."

With that said, she didn't wait for Kara's response and slammed the door close with a loud bang. Then, Molly locked the door.

The room quietened down. Molly's heart was racing.

It was a good thing that Eaton only looked around in the room for a person and had no suspicions about the electronics.

It seemed that Eaton was sure that Molly didn't have a phone, so he didn't look for any electronics in the room.

Molly breathed a sigh of relief. She waited until there was no more noise outside the room before taking the locator back out. She then asked in the quietest voice possible, "Sean, are you still there?"

"I'm still here," the man replied gently.

Molly nodded and said, "Let's call it a night. I'm worried that Eaton might go insane again and come back. I've got to go. I'll call you when I have time."

"Okay." Sean nodded. "Be good. Everything will be solved soon."

"Okay." Molly nodded. She was unwilling, but still tapped on the disconnect button.

Meanwhile, at the Grandset.

Sean tapped on the disconnect button and couldn't help but emit a cold aura.

He had heard on the phone just now how Eaton was controlling Molly.

Thinking of the person he loved with all his heart being treated in such a way, Sean really couldn't take it anymore.

He called for Tony to come over. "Go make the preparations. I'm going to find Molly."

Chapter 1429-After hanging up the call with Sean, Molly went to rest on the bed.

It was a quiet night.

When Molly woke up the next day, the thought of being able to get in touch with Sean made Molly very happy. She went to find Lesley after breakfast as usual.

"I thought you won't be coming."

Lesley seemed to have breathed a sigh of relief when she saw Molly. A smile appeared on her delicate face.

"No way."

Molly smiled and then said, "Did I scare you yesterday? I'm sorry to leave so suddenly and didn't get to talk to you."

She looked at Lesley apologetically.

Lesley looked at Rhett, who was standing at the side. She frowned and seemed to want to say something but was worried about something else.

Molly spotted the look on Lesley's face and looked at Rhett, who was keeping an eye on her. Her eyes turned cold and she said, "Lesley, just say whatever you want to. You don't have to care about people who are irrelevant."

When Rhett heard the word "irrelevant", he frowned but didn't say anything.

After hearing those words, Lesley didn't hesitate any more and asked, "Yesterday... that guy..."

The man yesterday looked gentle and cultivated, but didn't give Lesley a good feeling.

He looked like he was concerned for Molly, but he was actually questioning her.

Thinking about what had happened the previous day, Lesley frowned.

Molly didn't keep anything a secret and said straightforwardly, "A guy who's hurt my husband and kept me imprisoned on this island so that he could get what he wanted."

"Imprisoned?" Lesley was shocked.

She felt that things weren't as easy as she had thought, but she didn't expect to hear such news.

From the corners of her eyes, Lesley saw that Rhett's face turned dark. She knew it wasn't a good idea to continue on this topic. She then quickly changed the topic. "You're... married?"

Molly looked very young and didn't look like someone who was married.

Molly smiled. "Our engagement party was less than a month ago. We also have three children."

“Three children?” Lesley was gobsmacked. She sized Molly up and down and couldn’t help but smile. “I can’t tell at all.” “Maybe because I’m young.” Molly cocked her brows proudly. Lesley nodded. “Yes, but why did you have children before you’re engaged?”

“We had some misunderstandings in the past and that’s why we had children first.”

Molly recalled the things that she and Sean experienced in the past. She suddenly missed Sean so much.

“Looks like all shall be well.” Lesley sighed. “No matter what the misunderstandings are, you were still able to be together. It Molly nodded and then began talking about Sean. “I’ll definitely introduce you to my husband and my children if I get a chance in the future...”

As soon as Sean was mentioned, Molly couldn’t stop talking about him. She felt like she was showing off her treasure.

Lesley just listened. When she saw the way that Molly was talking about Sean, she thought of her fiancé as well.

“Compared to you, what we’ve gone through is more troublesome.”

“Really?” Molly was a little interested and asked, “Do you mind talking to me about it?”

“Well...”

A bitter look appeared on Lesley’s face, but she quickly disguised it and said, “I’ll tell you about it later. It’s a long story...”

Molly noticed that Lesley didn’t want to talk about it, so she didn’t force Lesley to talk about it and changed the subject.

The two of them were so engaged that they had forgotten about the time and Rhett, who was by the side.

Only until the sky had turned dark did Molly leave unwillingly.

Before she left, Lesley said, "Molly, it's my day off tomorrow. How about I take you around? You haven't had the chance to take a good look around the island since you've arrived, have you?"

"That'll be great." Molly immediately agreed.

Chapter 1430-When Molly returned to the house, Eaton was already back.

At first, Molly was quite relaxed and was even humming a song. As soon as she saw Eaton, her face immediately turned cold.

The change in her attitude was very obvious.

Eaton was a little unhappy to see this, but he still kept a smile on his face. He then asked, "Molly, what makes you so happy?"

"None of your business!" Molly said coldly and then went straight upstairs.

The smile on Eaton's face immediately disappeared. His eyes turned cold as well. He then looked at Rhett sharply.

"Come to the study with me."

"Okay." Rhett nodded.

As soon as they entered the study, Eaton asked desperately, "What's up with her today?"

Rhett told Eaton everything that had happened earlier that day.

When Eaton heard that everything Molly talked about was Sean, he felt angry and jealous. His face was darker than ever.

Even if he had kept Molly by his side, all she could think of was still Sean.

He felt that he had been treating Molly all too well. That was why she had the chance to talk to someone else about Sean.

Seeing that Eaton was about to explode, Rhett quickly said, "Calm down, Mr.

Scott. Sean isn't someone to be mocked in front of Miss May. If you use Sean to threaten her, she would only hate you more."

After hearing those words, Eaton squinted his eyes and unwillingness appeared in his eyes.

He felt that he loved Molly just as much as Sean. Why wouldn't Molly consider him just even a little?

Rhett guessed what Eaton was thinking and quickly said, "Mr. Scott, why don't you do whatever she wants? Otherwise, she might end up hating you even more."

"Do what she wants?"

Eaton raised his head and looked at Rhett. After being deep in thought for a while, he nodded his head. "You're right.

Women would always like men who did what they wanted."

Therefore, when Molly was eating breakfast the following morning, Eaton walked into the canteen with a bunch of flowers and passed it to her. "Molly, I hope you'll feel happier today."

Molly didn't even look at Eaton as she said coldly, "I'll be even happier if I don't see you."

With that said, she took a piece of tissue and wiped her mouth. She stood up and was about to leave.

Eaton took a deep breath to suppress the anger in his heart and said gently, "I've heard that you're going out with Lesley today. Hope you'll have a good time. I'll tell Rhett to keep his distance."

After hearing those words, Molly turned around and looked at Eaton suspiciously.

'What's this guy planning?' she wondered.

"I never wanted to treat you the way I did in the past. If you're more gentle towards me, I can be reasonable as well," Eaton explained kindly.

Molly felt disdainful and snorted. "You want me to be nice to you after all the things you've done? In your dreams!"

She really didn't want to talk to Eaton at all. He really bugged her.

Molly quickly left the room. She didn't want to talk to Eaton even for a second longer.

"I'll definitely change your opinion about me!" Eaton shouted behind Molly.

Molly ignored him and walked out the door.

When Molly arrived at the cafe, Lesley rented a car and took her to the seaside.

As for Rhett, he really did only follow them from a distance.

“Normally, that guy looked like he was even going to follow you to the toilet. Why is he acting so differently today?”

Lesley felt a little strange.

Molly sneered. “Who knows what he’s trying to do.”

However, without Rhett closely by their sides, the two of them were able to have some privacy.

Molly took this chance and asked, “Lesley, when is your fiance going to have his day off? I thought I was going to see him today.”

At the mention of her fiance, Lesley smiled, but her smile was a little bitter.

“That’s unlikely. He’s not allowed to have a day off.”