

Triplets On SM 1611

Chapter 1611-“No problem. Leave it to me,” After hearing this, Merak patted her chest and promised.

She had always been confident about her marksmanship.

As long as she wanted to shoot a person, that guy would definitely die.

Sean was very assured of Merak, so he didn't say anything more and ordered the others to do other tasks.

Molly listened for a while and found that these orders were even briefer than she had imagined.

She came in halfway, so now she was a little confused, but she still gradually knew what they were going to do next.

One was that the confrontation location was directly set inside the base.

The other was that Sean had secretly stationed many people inside the base, so they could start his plan at any time.

Molly was very shocked.

She couldn't understand how Sean had done so many things in such a short time.

Compared with him, she was too useless!

At this time, Sean had finished giving orders.

In a few moments, everyone left.

Sean turned his head and happened to see Molly's amazed look. He couldn't help smiling and asked, "Why do you look like that?"

"I was just thinking, why are you so good?" Molly sincerely praised, "In such a short time, how did you let your men infiltrate the base and pull off such a huge deployment? And until now, no one in the base has found what you have done."

Therefore, now she even suspected that half of the people in the base were Sean's men.

Hearing Molly's words, Sean took a deep look at her with a gentle but also kind of fierce expression, "I have been deploying my men since the day I knew you were brought here. These days, my men have been on the move. Since the day I landed on this island, I have never wanted to let this base go!"

Usually, Sean didn't care what the Martial Art Union was up to behind closed doors.

However, since it endangered the person he cared about, there was no need for the base to exist.

Molly was a little moved and also worried at the same time.

After Sean went to the island, he was worried about her safety, and he had to endure the torture of the Love Curse. He was in poor health, but he had to deal with many matters.

They were together every day, and Molly saw how busy he was, but she didn't expect that he would have done so many things.

Probably because she was pregnant, she became emotional. She could not help but take the initiative to embrace Sean, "You have done so much, I suddenly feel that I am too weak. I can't help you with a lot of things."

"Who said that?" When Sean heard this, he immediately retorted, "You know how to cure diseases. If it wasn't for you, the Love Curse would still be in my body."

“But you got that because of me,” Molly said gloomily.

Sean disagreed, “It’s not your fault either! Besides, I don’t want you to do that kind of dangerous thing. Even if you can help me, I can’t let you do that. I am selfish! I just hope that you can stay by my side and be safe!”

Molly felt sweet as if her heart was filled with honey, “You are really getting better at saying sweet words. I don’t know what to say to refute you.”

“There is no need to refute or worry,” Sean kissed Molly’s forehead, and then added with a smile, “Take good care of yourself, and just wait for our baby girl to be born.”

Chapter 1612-Molly laughed, “I don’t even know if it’s a boy or a girl, and you’ve determined it.

What if it’s a son? Would you dislike him?”

“No. As long as it is our child, I like it, but if it is a daughter like you, I will like her even more.”

Sean said in a gentle tone and then kissed the person in his arms.

Molly smiled and slowly kissed him.

It was a kiss without lust but only love and caring.

At this time, in the management office at the research base.

A man dressed in black with a hoarse voice was reporting to Ward at the head of the table. “It has been identified that the person who slipped into the base and caused trouble the other day was Blackrose, one of the top five fighters under the master of the Grandset.”

Ward's face was gloomy after he heard this. "It seems that my guess was right.

The person who could blend in the base is not simple. But why does the Grandset target this place?"

Some of the research bases owned by the Martial Art Union were not hidden.

Even if the Grandset learned about them, it would not suddenly make a move.

However, this time, it even sent people into the base to wreak havoc.

Even one of the top five fighters came.

Ward suddenly had a bad feeling.

He looked at Selseey angrily. "We have a solid defense system at the base, don't we? But someone sneaked in, and the surveillance was tampered with.

You're simply useless!"

Selseey had recently gotten used to being reprimanded, but he still broke out in a cold sweat. "I'm sorry, Mr. Lopez!

When Blackrose sneaked in, the internal surveillance system of the base was hacked into and was fully controlled, and our technicians didn't notice anything wrong. I only found out about this after I investigated it."

"Stupid!"

Hearing this, Ward was mad at Selseey, who caused him so much trouble.

“You spent so much time finding it out. You didn’t even discover someone from the Grandset entering the base! What can you do?”

Ward’s eyes were cold.

Selseey panicked and he quickly knelt down to beg for mercy. “Mr. Lopez, I know I was wrong. Please give me another chance.”

“The union doesn’t keep trash! Guards, take him away.”

Ward, with a disgusted face, raised his voice and commanded.

Soon, two men in black came in and dragged Selseey out.

Selseey was so scared that he hurriedly said in a shrill voice, “Mr. Lopez, now the Grandset’s deployment is not yet clear. We don’t know its strength either. I’m definitely useful to you. I did not do those things well, but I’m good at fighting. I can help you!”

Hearing this, Ward gave a cruel look. The hideous scars on his face twitched.

He did not even bother to look at Selseey. “You no longer have a chance.”

Selseey’s pupils shrank. The next second, he was pulled away.

Seeing this, the remaining people at the scene were silenced.

Although they did not see Selseey’s end, everyone knew he would be killed or severely injured.

Ward glanced at the crowd and said briefly, “From this moment on, be alert, or you will end up like him.”

The senior management of the base quickly answered in unison, "Got it."

Ward was quite satisfied to see them so obedient. He looked at the black figure who had just spoken. "Keagan, you will replace Selseey and lead the base staff.

Inspect the interior of the base to see if there are any missed entrances and exits. At the same time, check the internal security system of the base. I don't want to see any loopholes."

Chapter 1613-"Yes."

Keagan took orders and left.

Ward thought about what had happened at the base during this period of time, and suddenly, his pupils contracted. He commanded the other men, "Investigate all the staff members, including the security guards."

Ward suspected that the Grandset's people had been placed inside long ago.

Otherwise, with such a tight security system of the base, how could it be so easy for the outsiders to sneak in?

'Unless there are traitors.' Thinking of this, Ward slapped the table and said with a scowl, "The Grandset, wait and see. I will definitely make you pay the price."

Earlier, the union lost a few martial arts experts. Now such a thing happened.

Ward decided to get back at them on this island.

On this day, even though the sky was clear, the base had an oppressive atmosphere.

Keagan was ordered to lead people to check all the entry and exit points of the base, control everyone, and forbid them to go out.

This put people on edge.

Doctors had to stay in their rooms or the research labs, waiting for someone to come over and interrogate them.

Selon stood in front of the window and watched the people from the base coming and going downstairs, and his handsome face was calm.

"Mr. Shepard." The assistant came up to him.

Selon glanced sideways and replied slowly, "There have been a lot of unfamiliar faces at the base in the past two days. I guess they were sent over by the union."

"Mr. Shepard, we..."

Now the base was doing a big investigation, so the assistant was a little worried that they would be exposed.

"We'll improvise," Selon smiled, not having the slightest hint of panic.

What was more, Sean must have arranged everything long ago. Selon just needed to wait patiently.

At this time, Tony reported the situation in the base to Sean.

Sean listened. He was unsurprised, sneering, "Let them be." That night, three secret entry and exit points were discovered inside the base.

When the news reached Molly's ears, she was shocked." How did they find out so quickly? Can those places still be considered secret?"

Tony, who came to report the news, couldn't hold back his laughter when he heard her words.

"Mrs. Anderson, that's a good question. Since they have been found, they are definitely not secret."

"And you're in the mood to laugh?"

Molly looked at him a little incredulously. Now that those points were found, their actions would probably be affected.

She was really anxious about it.

"You can go now," Sean said to Tony.

Tony nodded his head and turned to leave.

"Are you worrying?"

After Tony left, Sean put his arm around Molly's waist and asked in a soft voice.

Molly lifted her eyelashes and met his eyes, nodding. "I'm afraid that your plan will be delayed."

"That's true." Sean raised his eyebrows. "But if I told you that I had expected everything, would you still be worried?"

'He expected everything?' Molly was stunned. "You mean..."

Sean curved his lips. "I'm always cautious, right?"

"Of course," Molly blurted out.

No one could be even more cautious than Sean.

"Since you trust me so much, don't worry."

Sean gently pinched her nose and added, "Those exposed entry and exit points are just the guise."

Chapter 1614-Pretense? Molly looked surprised.

"You don't have to worry. Just trust me." Sean hugged her tightly, bowed his head, and gently kissed her hair.

"Okay." Molly leaned in his arms. Listening to his steady heartbeat, she reluctantly let go.

She should have some confidence in him!

The two hugged each other quietly for a while before Molly raised her head from his arms. Her eyes fell on his clear chin, and she asked, "Well, will the men we have placed inside the base be fine?"

Now the base was undergoing a large-scale investigation. If something was found out, it would be troublesome.

Sean chuckled softly, "Our men have special identities, so they won't be discovered so easily."

"Special identity?" Molly couldn't help being a little curious. Could they be some high-level people?

Seeing her thoughts, Sean smiled even more, "Yes, even if Ward makes a hands-on investigation, he wouldn't find out."

“Then I’m relieved.” Molly finally smiled.

“But if anything goes wrong, it might be Selon’s side.” What Sean said next made her smile freeze instantly.

“What do you mean? What will happen?” She hurriedly asked.

“The Shepard family has been attached to the Martial Art Union for many years, so their previous rebellion will definitely arouse suspicion.”

“What should we do?”

“Selon will find a way to resolve it.”

Although he said so, Molly couldn’t help but worry.

Anyway, Selon had helped them a lot. He was a friend, and he was upright, so she didn’t want anything to happen to him.

“Sean.” She looked at Sean with a hint of worry in her eyes.

Sean raised his hand, gently stroked her eyebrows, and said in a helpless voice, “Well, can’t you just trust me?”

Molly bit her lips and remained silent.

Sean sighed and pinched her cheek, “Don’t worry. If something happens to Selon, I won’t leave him alone.”

“After all, I asked him to go to the island. I won’t sit by and watch anything happen to him.”

Hearing this, Molly breathed a sigh of relief and looked into his gentle black eyes. Realizing that she seemed to have little confidence in him, she couldn’t help feeling a little ashamed.

“Sean, I’m not doubting you. It’s just...” She smiled awkwardly, “I’m a little too worried.”

Sean patted her on the head, “I know.”

She was just too worried. Molly looked at Sean’s gentle face, and couldn’t help feeling sorry.

All of this seemed to be well-planned and under his control, but she couldn’t imagine how much energy he had spent to pull it off carefully.

Seeing her staring at him, Sean burst out laughing, and asked softly, “What’s wrong?”

Molly pursed her lips and shook her head.

At this moment, Sean’s cell phone rang suddenly.

He let go of Molly, walked over to pick up the phone, and smiled when he saw the caller ID.

When Molly heard it, her eyes lit up instantly. She hurried to his side and directly pressed the answer button.

“Daddy, Mommy, we have safely returned home.” The childish voices of the children came from the other end of the phone. Molly’s heart melted.

“Okay, I know.” She said, “You have to behave...”

Before she could finish her sentence, she heard Brycen’s voice on the other end of the phone, “Let me say something!”

Chapter 1615-Molly didn’t react because she hadn’t heard his brother’s voice for a long time.

“Molly, why don’t you call home? Are you okay?”

“Where is that bastard Eaton Scott?”

“I’m flying there now. I’m going to kill him!”

It wasn’t until Brycen yelled on the other end of the phone that Molly came to her senses. Listening to her brother’s familiar voice, she couldn’t help smiling.

“Molly, are you listening?” After not hearing her response for a long time, Brycen asked quickly.

Brycen was still so impatient. Molly smiled, and said softly, “Brycen, I’m fine.”

“Really?” Brycen didn’t believe it.

She had always told him the good news, not her problems.

“Yes. You can ask the children.”

Hearing this, Brycen looked at the three children.

The children were glaring at him unhappily because he had snatched the phone away.

He laughed dryly, and said, "It's good you're fine. But where is that bastard? Has he hurt you again?"

In fact, from the fact that Brycen mentioned Eaton just now, Molly vaguely guessed that her family probably knew what had happened before.

So she didn't hide it anymore, "He was controlled by Sean, and he can't hurt me anymore."

"Where is he? I'll fly over and kill him!"

Thinking of what that bastard Eaton had done to his sister and brother-in-law, Brycen was furious.

If Eaton were in front of him now, he would have torn that trash into pieces!

Molly could feel his anger through the phone, and couldn't help laughing, Brycen, I will solve it myself. You don't have to worry."

Brycen didn't like what she said and immediately shouted," You are my sister.

How can I not worry? I will never let that bastard go!"

He was excited and his voice was loud.

Sean could hear it clearly on the side. Molly looked at Sean, and said, helpless and amused, "Brycen, have you forgotten that Sean is with me? With him around, I will be fine."

She talked for a long time before finally persuading Brycen.

"Okay." Brycen pursed his lips. He glanced at Grandpa Dave who had just walked over and said, Molly, I miss you.

Grandpa misses you too.”

Hearing this, Molly felt a little upset. She was about to say that she missed them too when she heard an old and familiar voice on the other end of the phone, “Molly, it’s me.”

Molly’s eyes turned red in an instant. She tightened her grip on the phone and said in a very relaxed tone, “Hello, Grandpa.”

“You have to take good care of yourself and come back safely with Sean as soon as possible.” Grandpa Dave didn’t say much and just told her to take care of herself, which made her feel even more upset.

“Grandpa, I will.” Her voice was a little choked. Sean knew that she was missing her family, so he hugged her lovingly.

“Molly.” Before Molly could calm down, she suddenly heard Lesley’s voice on the other end of the phone.

Molly was surprised, “Lesley.”

“Molly, I couldn’t get in touch with Logan. Is he okay?” Lesley sounded anxious and worried.

“He’s in the research room. I’ll ask him to call you later.”

Hearing Molly’s reply, Lesley felt relieved, “Okay, thank you.”

“You’re welcome. Make yourself at home. If you need any help, just ask my brothers.” “Okay, I will.” Lesley chuckled, “Your brothers are very nice people, and...they are quite interesting as well.”

Chapter 1616-Molly agreed with her words. Her second brother was a good laugh and could fill the house with joy. After chatting with Lesley, she hung up the phone.

Seeing the smile on her lips, Sean raised his hand to touch her cheek, saying, "Why didn't you tell them you're pregnant? They will be happy to hear the good news."

Molly rubbed her face against his palm and shook her head, saying, "I'll tell them after I go home. The situation here is unstable. If I tell them now, they will feel worried."

Sean thought it made sense, so he didn't say anything more.

After spending some minutes with Sean, Molly went to the research lab next door to meet Logan.

"Lesley called me and said you did not answer her call.

Hurry up and call her back."

Logan got excited and asked, "Have they arrived?"

Molly nodded with a smile, "Yes, they are in my house. And everything is OK."

Logan immediately put down the dropper, turned around, and rushed out.

Edmund stared after him and felt jealous, so he said, "Nonsingle men are different from bachelors. Look at him! How eager he is!"

Molly couldn't help laughing, "Why? Are you envious? If so, you should start to date girls."

Edmund unconvincedly retorted, "I'm not envious! Besides, I might have a girlfriend! I lost my memory! Maybe my fiancée is also waiting for me!"

Molly thought it was indeed possible. Edmund was a handsome man with good medical skills. He was outstanding among the young doctors. Before coming here, he might have had important family members and friends. But he did not remember any of them now. At the thought of this, Molly couldn't help feeling a little depressed.

However, Edmund didn't feel unhappy but murmured, "To be honest, I wish I don't have a fiancée! It is sad to be forgotten by her beloved man. I don't want anyone to suffer for me! The affection between Lesley and Logan is enviable, but they have suffered too much. And I feel sad for their sufferings."

Molly felt the same way. When Sean's Venomous Insect had attacked, she had been afraid he would forget her. And she could not bear to think about it, not to mention experiencing what Lesley had suffered.

However, as a person who forgot everything, Edmund must also feel bad. Now, he only knew a few people here and did not even remember his own identity.

Thinking of this, Molly showed a serious expression and said, "Edmund, Sean and I will help you find your family after we leave here. Before Mr. Ballard left, he gave me some documents about restoring memories. I will try my best to help you regain your memory."

Hearing this, Edmund excitedly asked, "Really?"

Molly smiled, "Really!"

Edmund was touched, so he grabbed her hand and exaggeratedly said, "Dr.

May, thank you! When I regain my memory, I will repay you. I can be at your service for the rest of my life."

Molly was amused, "You and my second brother will be compatible."

Edmund was confused to hear this, so he asked, "Why? Is he as passionate as me?"

“No, he is as high-flown as you.”

After finishing speaking, Molly withdrew her hand and ignored Edmund. But it did not prevent him from being excited.

Thinking that he could regain his memory, he was so happy that he wanted to spin himself in place.

Chapter 1617-Molly had promised to help Edmund, so she started working on it.

With a folder in her hand, she said, “Edmund, come here.”

Edmund was busy working. Hearing her words, he immediately ran to her and asked, “Is there anything I can do for you?”

“Have a look,” Molly said while handing him the folder.

Edmund took it over and looked down, only to find it was the document about the treatment to restore his memory.

He instantly raised his head in surprise to look at Molly who was smiling.

She said, “Now, I’ve found the treatment. But you need to work as my assistant.”

“No problem!” Edmund immediately patted his chest and said, “I can be your temporary assistant. Don’t hesitate to tell me if you need my help.”

Molly was amused, thinking he was as high-flown as ever.

When Logan walked in after talking with Lesley on the phone, he happened to see Edmund’s flattering smile. So, he joked, “I don’t think you need to regain your memory. You look pretty good now.”

Edmund retorted in dissatisfaction, "You know nothing.

After I regain my memory, I will return to my fiancée."

He believed he must have a fiancée like Lesley who was waiting for him. He must retrieve his memory because he could not let her wait too long.

Logan was confused to hear his words, so he looked at Molly, pointed one finger to his head, and said, "He is not insane, right?"

Why did he suddenly have a fiancée?

Edmund couldn't bear it anymore, so he retorted, "Watch your mouth! You're insane!"

Logan was speechless.

Molly burst out laughing, thinking working with them was interesting. Watching them bicker was like watching a comedy. It was fun and made her mood better.

However, they soon got back to work.

As soon as Molly returned to her bedroom at night, she saw Sean leaning back on the bedhead while seriously reading a document. Hearing the door open, he raised his head. And when he saw her, he slowly smiled and asked, "Have you done with your work?"

"Yeah."

Molly approached him, glanced at the document in his hand, and lightly reprimanded, "Why can't you have a good rest? You haven't recovered yet, so you should not have started working."

Sean closed the document and took her hand, saying, "You're here. So, I will be fine even if I work, right?"

Molly actually didn't mean to blame him. She wasn't really angry but just worried about his health.

Since inducing the Venomous Insect out of his body, she had served him good medicine and nice food every day. So, he was recovering well. Although his body suffered a huge loss, they had gradually made up for it.

Now, he did not need to stay in the consultation room all the time, and his scope of activities was no longer limited to the underground research lab.

After feeling his pulse, she took out her silver needles and said, "Mr. Ballard asked me to regularly give you acupuncture treatment so as to smooth your blood circulation."

While speaking, she opened the cloth bag containing silver needles.

Sean silently watched her with his eyes full of tenderness.

Because of the Venomous Insect, she had spent too much energy on him recently. Fortunately, his body did not fail her.

After Molly stuck the silver needles into the acupuncture points one by one, he soon had a lot of needles on his body, looking like a hedgehog.

Sean sighed with a smile, "Since I met you, it seems I often show my sickly and frail side to you."

Chapter 1618-Hearing this, Molly remembered he had hired her to treat his legs when she had returned to Norlon. He had been sick then. It had been so long, but he had not been in full health yet.

She muttered in depression, "Every time I managed to make you healthier, you had an accident. You always make me worried."

If she had not come to his side, his condition would have become extremely terrible.

Sean squeezed her palm and said, "Thank you for what you have done for me for the past two years. You must be tired."

His voice was soft and gentle.

Hearing this, Molly laughed, "No, I'm not tired."

She carefully thought about it and added, "I worked for you to make money at the beginning. And after I fell in love with you, I am glad to help you."

When Sean saw the bright smile on her pretty face, his heart skipped a beat.

Then, he pulled her over, bowed his head, and kissed her slightly parted red lips.

After a light kiss, Molly raised her head. Her long and curly eyelashes trembled, and the look in her eyes was flirtatious. She looked too seductive, so Sean couldn't help bitterly smiling, "When will my damned body recover?"

Hearing the implication in his words, Molly blushed. Then, she glared at him to pretend to be angry and said, "Stop thinking nonsense. Be obedient and have a good recuperation!"

"I know," Sean said and kissed her forehead.

It was about ten at night when the acupuncture treatment ended. As soon as she got onto the bed, he took her into his arms. They embraced and fell into a deep dreamless sleep.

The next day, Molly got up early to make breakfast.

As soon as the breakfast was ready, Edmund and Logan came up from the basement. And they both looked haggard.

Molly frowned at them and asked, "Didn't you sleep last night?"

Edmund yawned, "You guessed it right. After reading the documents you gave me, I wanted to develop the drug as soon as possible and accidentally forgot the time."

Molly helplessly said, "There is no rush. Anyway, I will help you regain your memory before we leave here."

Edmund embarrassingly scratched the back of his head and said, "But I am eager to know my previous situation."

Logan gave him a hard look and said, "But why do I have to work with you all night?"

He had intended to come up to sleep in the middle of the night, but Edmund had grabbed him and pitifully begged him to accompany him. Logan didn't know how to complain about it.

Molly shook her head with a smile and said, "Come here and eat something.

You should go to sleep after breakfast."

As soon as she finished speaking, Alkaid hurried into the house.

Molly was surprised to see her and asked, "I thought you were in the research base. Why did you suddenly come back?"

"Madam, where's Master?" Alkaid asked with a serious look.

Molly had a bad feeling and quickly replied, "He's in the dining room."

“Thank you.”

Alkaid turned around and quickly walked over.

Edmund murmured, “Why is she so anxious? Did something bad happen?”

Molly cast a hard look at him and immediately followed Alkaid to the dining room.

Logan shook his head and sighed, “No one will think you are dumb if you don’t talk.”

But Edmund was confused to hear his words, wondering whether he had said anything wrong.

Seeing Sean, Alkaid hurriedly reported the situation of the base to him, saying, “Master, we got in trouble. Ward imprisoned Selon!”

When she mentioned Selon, her face was full of worries.

Chapter 1619-Hearing her words, Sean immediately showed a serious look and asked, “What happened?”

Alkaid had a mission. But because of Beth’s identity, she still stayed by Selon’s side and freely moved after sneaking into the research base.

The people from the research base had suddenly knocked on Selon’s door and taken him away in the middle of last night.

“The people went to his room last night said Ward wanted to ask him some questions. Mr. Shepard did not refuse and obediently went with them.

Unexpectedly, he has not come back yet! After inquiring about this matter, I found Ward has secretly imprisoned some members of the medical families related to the research base!”

After Alkaid quickly related the whole thing, all the people in the room showed gloomy expressions.

Sean narrowed his eyes and asked, “Have you found out where they are imprisoned?”

“No, I have not found the location yet. But I have a guess.”

Alkaid took a deep breath to calm herself down and continued, “There are many research labs in the base. Lab No. 6 and all the labs with bigger numbers are on the ground. But labs from No. 1 to No. 5 are underground. They are on the underground floor.”

Edmund interrupted, “Wait a minute! Why don’t I know about it? Besides, Lab No. 1 to Lab No. 5 are also on the ground! Although I was not allowed to get close to them, I could see them.”

Logan nodded and asked, “Alkaid, how did you know those labs are underground?”

Alkaid glanced at them and said, “We investigated and discovered it! Master ordered us to investigate whether Lab No. 1 to Lab No. 5 were researching and developing Venomous Insects, so we found an opportunity and sneaked in. After we entered, we found nothing different from the other research labs at first. But soon, we accidentally found the entrance to the underground floor.”

Logan and Edmund were shocked to hear this. The research base was ridiculously large, so it had taken several years to build it up although the worker had worked in full swing.

Therefore, they had not expected there to be an underground floor.

The project was indeed huge!

Molly was also surprised, but she soon calmed down and said, “Our guess seems right. The research base may be developing many Venomous Insects.

Otherwise, they would not have hidden those real labs underground.”

Sean nodded and analyzed, “Five labs may cover a large area but can’t occupy the entire floor! It seems they have imprisoned those people underground.”

“Yes, that’s what I guessed!”

Then, Alkaid became more worried and said, “If the underground floor is being used to research and develop Venomous Insects, the people locked up there will be easily infected. If the research base uses them for human trials, Mr.

Shepard will...”

Alkaid couldn’t continue.

Molly and Logan were both taken aback to hear this. And Edmund directly said, “Alkaid, your speculation is scary!”

Thinking of the imprisoned people being used for human trials, he got goosebumps all over his body. No! The visual impact was massive, so he forced himself to stop imagining. It was too horrible!

Logan pondered for a while and said, “Judging from their way of doing things, it is not impossible!”

Chapter 1620-Molly agreed with Logan’s idea, and was also a little worried now! Only those who had dealt with the Venomous Insect knew how tricky it was.

It had taken so much effort to expel the Love Curse from Sean’s body, and even have to rely on Mr. Ballard’s assistance.

What if the base went insane and cultivated a large amount of Venomous Insects?! Molly didn’t dare to think about it. She looked at Sean and asked, “What should we do?”

Sean was very calm, “Don’t worry too much about Selon’s safety for the time being. He’s smart enough to know how to avoid danger. Don’t underestimate him... As for the human experiment you mentioned, I think the chances are very small. One is that Venomous Insect is rare. Even if it is really necessary to cultivate it, it may take a lot of money, time, and energy. Besides, if human experiments are required, at most one or two will be caught, and everyone can’t be poisoned.

“So, what Edmund said is right. You’re scaring yourself a little bit.”

When Sean said this, he looked at Alkaid meaningfully.

Alkaid didn’t find it, and was still worried, “But what if...what if he is selected?”

“There is no chance! Now that he was taken away not long ago, I guess Ward should just want to find out about our people, so the first step must be to interrogate. With Selon’s intelligence, I believe that he can certainly handle it.

And, even if he’s suspected, at least there is still the link of extorting a confession. There is still plenty of time, and he won’t be directly poisoned.”

Sean’s tone was light, but his words were clear and convincing. After thinking about it, Molly and Logan felt that this was true.

Seeing Alkaid so anxious just now, they had been somehow distracted and couldn’t help becoming nervous.

Realizing something, in an instant, Logan looked at Alkaid meaningfully. Molly was thoughtful as well.

It’d been a long time since she had known Alkaid. Although she hadn’t tried to get to know Alkaid specifically, she could roughly see Alkaid’s temperament from her usual behavior.

Alkaid was a flamboyant and bright girl!

Seeing a beautiful young lady, she could even say a few words of flirting.

She was also quite capable and collected during work.

Molly had never seen Alkaid worry about others like this.

This was a bit strange... Molly suddenly became interested, and she subconsciously glanced at Sean. There was also interest in Sean's eyes. He thought so too.

Edmund, who was always careless, didn't think there was anything wrong, and he very much agreed with Sean's words, "Sean is right. Although the base's actions are insane, there's a reason for everything. I don't think they will harm him right away. Alkaid, you are a little too worried!"

Hearing this, Alkaid froze slightly and realized that she was indeed a little impatient. She instantly looked a little awkward.

She looked at Sean and Molly and somehow had a feeling of being seen through.

She cleared her throat lightly, trying to explain, "Master, Selon is a friend, and he came to the island this time to help you. This is what I should do."

"If Selon knew that you were so worried about him, he would be very moved to have you as a friend." Edmund expressed his opinion sincerely.

Hearing his words, Molly and Sean suddenly looked speechless.

Logan sighed deeply, and sincerely suggested, "I think you'd better give up on recovering your memory."

"Why?" Edmund asked in surprise.

Why did he suddenly talk about his memory?

Logan replied sincerely, "Because after recovering your memory, you will find that with your intelligence... it is impossible for you to have a fiancée!"
