

Triplets On SM 1651

Chapter 1651-“Mr. Lopez, he was bitten!”

Accompanied by the exclamation, the others found that the fingers of that subordinate visibly turned black in a wink.

And it was spreading rapidly upwards.

“It hurt...” His face turned pale, and he kept wailing.

Seeing this, Ward looked terrified, and asked Professor Heist anxiously, “What’s going on?”

“Don’t touch it. It’s poisonous!” Professor Heist yelled.

Hearing this, the others backed away in horror.

“Mr. Lopez!” Keagan hurriedly guarded Ward behind him, staring at the red beetle in the corner with a wary face.

“It’s extremely poisonous!” Witnessing how quickly the poison spread after that man was bitten, Professor Heist looked extremely serious.

He had just wanted to stop them and tell them not to act rashly because he thought of this, but it was still too late.

“Ah!” The bitten subordinate suddenly screamed.

His scream was shrill and terrifying.

“Help me. Help me!” He kept muttering, sweating profusely from the pain, and his hair was soaked.

This showed how painful it was.

Professor Heist hurried forward, took emergency measures, then turned his head and told the others, “Some of you leave. Don’t let too many people stay here, or it will anger the red beetle.”

He was worried that once this red beetle was stimulated, it would go crazy and start biting people indiscriminately.

Then there would be big trouble!

Ward had witnessed how painful it was after his subordinate was bitten. Of course, life-saving was more important now.

So Ward and Keagan retreated first.

But in the next second, something happened again.

As soon as the door opened, the red beetle quickly crawled out.

But everyone was afraid of being bitten by it and kept screaming. They were too panicked to catch it.

But Professor Heist reacted quickly and ordered, “Catch it quickly. We can’t let it escape.”

That was a Venomous Insect Overlord!

It was invaluable. More importantly, it would be very helpful to their research.

So they had to catch it.

Seeing the red beetle about to get away, Ward was hopping mad and roared furiously, "You're so useless! Can't you even catch a small bug?"

Hearing his words, everyone else went after the bug.

Although they were afraid of being bitten, they were more afraid of being blamed by their superiors.

This red beetle was smart and moved fast. Even if there were so many people who wanted to catch it, they couldn't succeed. Right in front of them, it directly got into a pipe.

"What...should we do?" They looked at each other and stood at the mouth of the pipe, not knowing what to do for a moment.

They couldn't get in such a small pipe.

"Useless! All of you!" Ward cursed furiously when he learned that red beetle had escaped.

The red beetle ran away, and all the Venomous Insects they had cultivated had been eaten. How should he explain this to his superiors?

At this time, Professor Heist came over to look at the pipe and frowned, "As long as it's still in the base, we don't have to worry about it running away."

He hadn't expected that the red beetle would be so smart.

When Ward heard this, he immediately raised his voice and ordered, "Quickly check where this pipe leads to. Then others continue to search. That red beetle is very cunning, and maybe it was just a bluff."

At this time, the scene in the No. 1-5 research room was chaotic, and everyone was looking for a bug.

At the same time, Selon, who had been worried about the child Venomous Insect Overlord, was surprised to find that the Mother Insect in the porcelain bottle had gradually calmed down.

He couldn't help but lift his spirits.

Did this mean that the Child Insect was far away from the other Venomous Insects?

Was it coming back?

[Molly's POV: I was present even though I didn't show up.]

Chapter 1652-Just as Selon guessed, about half an hour later, there was a sudden rustling sound from the pipe in the room.

It was very quiet in the room that he could hear everything.

Selon followed the sound and looked over. After a short while, the beetle who had been wandering around for a long time finally appeared.

"It's finally back." Selon smiled with relief.

But in the next second, he realized something was wrong. He put away his smile and fixed his gaze on the glowing red beetle.

"Why did it slow down after going out for a trip?"

The beetle slowly crawled on the ground, like entering its twilight years.

It moved slowly and looked bigger.

Selon watched it climb into the porcelain bottle, and the corners of his eyes twitched. Could it be stuffed?

And as soon as it was back in the bottle, it stopped moving.

Well, this red bug was quite a clever creature.

With a sense of awe, Selon put away the bottle, looked at the pipe where the child overlord had crawled out.

It had gone to Lab No.1 to No.5 and had inevitably caused a lot of commotion, so the base would definitely search every corner.

Thinking of this, Selon looked around, thinking about where to hide the bottle.

After much deliberation, he finally hid it on himself.

Now the base didn't dare to mess with him, so he was the safest.

After another half an hour, there were bursts of hurried footsteps outside, back and forth, as if they were looking for something.

Selon knew it well, and read the book in his hand calmly as if everything that happened outside had nothing to do with him.

After a while, the door was opened from the outside.

Several people from the base rushed in.

When they saw Selon, one of them asked loudly, "Did you see a red beetle?"

His attitude annoyed Selon. Selon glanced sideways at him, and replied calmly, "No."

Even if he said no, they would not believe it easily. They just ignored him and started to search the room.

Seeing them rummaging around and not letting go of any corner, Selon secretly heaved a sigh of relief.

Fortunately, he hid the bottle on himself, or it would be over if it was discovered.

They searched for a long time, but couldn't find the beetle they were looking for, and finally turned their eyes to Selon," Did you not see it?" Selon sneered, "The base is so strictly guarded, and I'm afraid not even a fly can get in, let alone a red beetle."

Seeing that Selon didn't seem to be lying, they didn't ask any more questions, but told him, "If you see it, you must report it, understand?"

"Oh?" Selon pretended to be curious and asked, "What beetle is that? Why is it so important?"

"You're in no position to ask this. Anyway, the beetle is poisonous and was cultivated by the base. If you dare to hide any information from us, we will kill you."

With such a warning, they walked away.

After they closed the door, Selon's face darkened with a mocking smile.

Cultivated by the base?

They were indeed shameless as ever!

But this was not important now. What was important was how he would convey the message to Molly.

As Molly guessed, it had been confirmed that there were a large number of Venomous Insects in the research room 1-5.

Chapter 1653-At night, Tony hurried into the study and said, "Sir, there's news from the base."

Hearing this, Sean raised his head, frowned slightly, and asked in a deep voice, "What news?"

"The base indeed hides a lot of Venomous Insects underground. Right now, Ward and his men are frantically looking for a red beetle, and the base is in chaos."

Hearing Tony's report, Sean fell into deep thought.

After a long while, he said to Tony, "Continue keeping an eye on them, and report to me if anything happens."

"Yes." Tony nodded and left.

Then Sean informed Molly of the news.

Molly looked gloomy after she heard it and she didn't speak for a long time.

At first, she had just suspected that there might be a large number of Venomous Insects in the base, and now her guess was confirmed. She had personally seen how terrifying Venomous Insects could be.

Thinking of this, she couldn't help feeling a little upset and worried.

"What should we do now?" She stared at Sean with a frown,

If those Venomous Insects escape, the consequences would be disastrous.”

Sean held her hand, smiled slightly, and comforted softly, “Don’t worry. There will always be a way.”

“What way?” Molly asked.

Sean thought for a moment and said, “The best way is to let the Venomous Insects die on the underground floor and not give them a chance to come out.”

Molly was shocked, “This method is indeed feasible, but... many people who were arrested are locked up there, including Selon. I am afraid it will hurt them.”

She didn’t want to hurt innocent people just to kill the Venomous Insects.

“This is tricky.” Sean thought about it, “Actually, we can implement a rescue plan, and ask Selon to help.”

“Ask him to help?”

“Yes. For example, we can cooperate with him, first rescue the imprisoned people, and then directly burn the entire underground research room with gasoline.”

The idea of burning it sounded feasible, but...

Molly bit her lower lip lightly and looked a little serious.

Seeing that she was silent, Sean raised his hand, rubbed her head, and asked softly, “What? Is there something wrong with this plan?”

Molly raised her eyes and met his caring eyes, shaking her head, “No, I’m just afraid that the Venomous Insects won’t be wiped out.”

“What?” Sean frowned.

He was not a researcher, and he didn’t know much about Venomous Insects, so he didn’t know what it meant.

Molly was silent for a few seconds before slowly explaining, “The vitality of Venomous Insects is very strong, and some of them can even fly. Also, their eggs may regenerate at any time.”

“Regenerate?” Sean frowned even tighter, “I thought we could burn them and kill them once and for all.”

If it was true as she said, it was a difficult thing to do.

No wonder she was so worried.

“In your opinion, what is the best way to eliminate these Venomous Insects?”

Sean asked.

Molly smiled wryly, “I haven’t thought of it yet. Give me a little more time, and I’ll come up with a surefire solution.”

She must find a way to not only eliminate the Venomous Insects but also save Selon and the others.

“Okay.” Sean raised his hand, gently smoothed the wrinkles between her brows with his thumb, and sighed lightly, “I don’t want you to work too hard. It’s okay if you can’t think of it. Don’t put too much pressure on yourself.” He sounded gentle and caring.

Chapter 1654-Molly went to the underground research room and spent several hours flipping through a lot of books to find a way to eliminate the Venomous Insects.

Finally, in an ancient book, she found a solution that could kill them once and for all.

“Bone-Melting Powder...” She read the contents of the book carefully, and her eyes lit up when she saw that the Bone-Melting Powder could melt even bones.

The destructibility of the Bone-Melting Powder was very terrifying.

It could destroy all biological regeneration.

If it could be developed, they wouldn't be afraid of the reproduction of insect eggs.

After finishing the work at hand, Sean looked at the time and found it was almost midnight.

And she hadn't come upstairs yet.

He couldn't help but frown and smile helplessly.

She would always lose track of time when she got busy. When would she get rid of such a habit?

So he went downstairs to see her himself.

When he walked into the research room, he immediately saw Molly sitting on the floor reading a book carefully. His expression turned to solemn and he walked over quickly and complained lightly, “It's so cold on the floor. Get up quickly.”

Although it sounded like a complaint, he was feeling sorry for her.

Hearing his voice, Molly raised her head and met his caring eyes. She immediately shrugged, a little embarrassed, “I forgot.”

With that, she was about to get up.

She was getting up so abruptly that she felt dizzy and staggered a little.

Seeing this, Sean quickly stretched out his hands to support her with a frown and asked worriedly, 'Are you all right?'

Molly quickly calmed down, smiled at him, and said, "I'm fine. I'm just a little hypoglycemic."

When Sean heard this, he couldn't help feeling very sorry for her, but he couldn't bear to complain about her. So he could only sigh heavily and said, "You are pregnant now. Some things don't need to be rushed. Your body is more important. If "I know." Molly was afraid that he would keep nagging, so she quickly changed the subject, "Oh, I found a way to eliminate the Venomous Insects."

She changed the subject so quickly that Sean was slightly taken aback. But he quickly reacted and asked, "What way?"

"Bone-Melting Powder," Molly said and showed him the book in her hand.

Sean lowered his head. After reading it carefully, he frowned, "Can such a thing be developed?"

If it was really as described in the book, the Bone-Melting Powder was truly terrifying.

"Of course." Molly nodded, "It's just..."

She bit her lips and hesitated.

Sean asked, "Just what?"

“We have some of the required ingredients here, but we don’t have some rare and materials.”

“Rare?” Sean thought for a moment, and suggested, “You make a list of the ingredients you need, and I’ll send someone to find them.”

Hearing this, Molly looked happy and hurriedly said, “Okay, I’ll make the list now.”

Then she found a pen and a piece of paper, wrote down what she needed, and handed the note to Sean.

“Okay, now we can go upstairs and rest.”

Sean put away the note and stared at her deeply.

Molly nodded, “Okay.”

After Molly fell asleep, Sean called Tony and entrusted him with the task of finding the ingredients.

As soon as Tony got the order, he immediately arranged for people to go out to search for it.

The next morning, when Molly woke up and went downstairs to have breakfast, he happened to see Tony hurrying in from the outside.

When Tony saw her, he greeted her respectfully, “Good morning, Mrs.

Anderson.”

Molly smiled slightly, “Morning.”

Chapter 1655-“How is it going?” Sean walked to Molly’s side and looked at Tony.

Tony quickly reported truthfully, "Our men searched around the island, but they didn't find the ingredients that Mrs.

Anderson asked for."

Hearing this, Molly frowned slightly, and asked, "None of them?"

"No." Tony shook his head.

Molly's heart sank and she was very disappointed. But she forced a smile and said, "Thank you."

Sensing her emotional change, Sean comforted her softly, "Don't worry. There isn't one on the other parts of the island, but it doesn't mean there isn't one in the base."

Hearing this, Molly turned her head and looked at him in surprise, "Are you going to..."

"Yeah." Sean rubbed her head, "It's what you're thinking."

Then he instructed Tony, "Let our people in the base look for the ingredients secretly."

Tony frowned immediately when he heard this, "Sir, I'm afraid it's not a good idea. It's not difficult to pass on the news, but the ingredients are solid objects after all. It's not so easy to get them out.

"Especially the medicine warehouse in the base is guarded by special personnel."

It was not that Sean hadn't thought of his worry.

"Then let Blackrose do it in person," Sean said.

Tony nodded, "OK."

Others probably couldn't do it, but Blackrose could.

With Blackrose's skills, perhaps she could get out the ingredients from the base without anyone noticing.

So, that night, Blackrose was ordered to sneak into the base in person and came to the medicine warehouse with ease.

When the guard saw her, he was knocked unconscious by her palm before he could speak.

"Twerp!" Seeing the person lying on the ground. Blackrose gave a cold snort of disdain and then walked to the computer, typing quickly on the keyboard.

The password was quickly cracked, and the place where the ingredients were placed was found in the computer.

Thinking of Tony telling her to be very careful, Blackrose couldn't help laughing.

Such a task was simply too easy for her.

In less than ten minutes, Blackrose found all the ingredients. But when she took the last ingredient, she accidentally triggered a hidden alarm.

Suddenly the bell rang loudly. Blackrose was startled. She should have been more careful.

There was a sound of hurried footsteps outside and she froze. She quickly put away the ingredients and then left the warehouse.

As soon as she walked outside, Keagan arrived with his men and surrounded her.

“Who are you?” Keene shouted.

Blackrose narrowed her eyes slightly, and scanned around, looking for an opening to escape.

Seeing her silence, Keagan was furious and waved his hand, “Grab her.”

Following his order, the others surrounded Blackrose.

“A bunch of losers!” Blackrose sneered. She shot quickly and accurately. In less than a minute, she knocked down many of them.

“A martial art master!” Keagan froze.

He had never expected that she would be a martial art master.

Besides him, how could anyone else be her match?

So, he went out on his own.

The two fought each other. Blackrose saw an opportunity and kicked him away.

Before Keagan could react, she quickly jumped over the wall and left.

Keagan was so angry that he shouted, “Hurry up and chase her! If you can’t catch her, you will be in trouble.”

No one dared to neglect, and they hurried to chase. Keagan gritted his teeth bitterly while covering his chest which hurt from being kicked.

If he guessed correctly, that woman should be from the Grandset.

Chapter 1656-When Ward learned that the warehouse was invaded and a lot of precious materials were stolen, he slapped Keagan hard in the face angrily.

“You are even more useless! You couldn’t even catch a woman!”

Keagan covered his face and lowered his head, “I’m sorry. Please punish me.”

“Now things have been stolen and she has run away. How do you want me to punish you?” Ward gave a horrible laugh and stared at Keagan with burning anger in his eyes.

“Mr. Lopez, don’t worry. I will get her back.”

Keagan’s assurance did not calm Ward’s anger at all. He turned his head to look at the warehouse guard kneeling on the ground with stern eyes.

The warehouse guard was trembling all over, and cold sweat slid down his forehead. He knew that he was not doing his job well, that he didn’t take good care of the warehouse, and would receive the most severe punishment.

What he hadn’t expected was that Ward snatched the gun from the man next to him, cocked the hammer and aimed the gun at him.

His face suddenly changed, and he begged for mercy, “Mr.

Lopez, I was wrong. Please forgive me...”

Boom!

With a gunshot, a hole appeared in the forehead of the guard.

His eyes were wide open, and his body fell backward straight.

Witnessing this scene, everyone was terrified.

Even Keagan's face turned pale. He clenched his fists and dared not make a sound.

It seemed that Ward had cut him some slack by slapping him.

Ward didn't even look at the corpse on the ground, and ordered coldly, "Take him away and bury him."

Then he glanced gloomily at the people present, "You have all seen that the Grandset is openly provoking, and the base seems to have become their base camp where they can come and go at will."

Thinking of the Grandset, Ward gritted his teeth with hatred.

He was going to let those people in Grandset know how powerful the Martial Art Union was!

"Keagan!"

Hearing his name, Keagan hurried forward and bowed his head respectfully, "Mr. Lopez."

"Activate the base's most advanced defense. If you make another mistake, you will all be killed!" Ward narrowed his eyes slowly with sternness in them.

Keagan's heart trembled, and he quickly nodded, "Yes, Mr. Lopez!"

At the same time, in the seaside villa, Molly checked the time from time to time, looking very worried.

She turned her head to look at Sean who was reading the documents, and asked, "Do you think Blackrose will be okay? It's been so long and she hasn't come back."

"She'll be fine." Sean's tone was very firm.

Molly showed a helpless smile, "Blackrose will certainly be very happy to know that you trust her so much."

Sean raised his head and looked at her tenderly, "She's my subordinate, and of course I trust her."

"I know," Molly said so, but she still couldn't help worrying in her heart.

After about ten minutes, Blackrose finally came back.

"Master, Madam."

Seeing her come back, Molly breathed a sigh of relief. She stepped forward to look at Blackrose and asked, concerned, "Are you okay?"

"I'm fine. Thanks for asking." Blackrose looked at the beautiful woman in front of her, and couldn't help smiling.

Then, she took out a bag and asked, "Madam, are these what you need?"

"You got them all?" Molly glanced at her, and hurriedly took it over to check.

"Yes, I got them all." Blackrose nodded.

Then she looked at Sean who was walking over, lowered her head, and said with a serious face, "Master, I'm sorry I made a mistake this time. I was discovered by the people at the base."

Chapter 1657-Hearing that the base had found it out, Molly knitted her thin brows and asked, "Are you truly all right?"

As a martial artist, Blackrose was undoubtedly an excellent fighter, but she was alone in this mission, and there were so many people in the base. Molly was afraid that she might have gotten hurt, but she didn't want people to worry about her, so she might conceal her condition.

Knowing her worry, Blackrose shook her head gently and said, "Madam, I'm truly all right, but I didn't accomplish my mission this time. I failed to live up to the trust of the master."

Molly deliberately put on a straight face and glared at Sean." Blackrose took this risk for the sake of helping me. Although something unexpected happened in the process, she brought me all the ingredients, so you can't blame her."

Sean chuckled and asked in reply, "When did I say I would blame her?"

Molly touched her nose in embarrassment. "It's good you didn't."

Sean then said to Blackrose, "Ward is not really useless. We could achieve our goals time after time, simply because he was caught off guard. It's not a big deal that you were found this time. Don't take it to heart."

Only then did Blackrose heave a sigh of relief.

"Thank you, master."

Seeing that there was nothing else for her to do, she turned and left.

Then Molly checked the ingredients and found that they were all of good quality, so she snorted, "I guess it must have taken a lot of effort for the base to find so good materials."

All these ingredients were poisonous, so it was crystal clear what the base would use them for.

Molly's eyes turned cold when she thought of this.

Now they should implement the plan of destroying the Venomous Insects as soon as possible. After rescuing the people imprisoned underground, they should destroy the entire base, lest the base keep doing harm!

So she turned to Sean, "Sean, I might have to sleep a little late tonight. I want to study these materials."

Sean frowned. He didn't want her to do it in such a hurry because it was already so late, but if he disagreed, she wouldn't sleep well tonight.

After measuring the pros and cons, he nodded to agree." Okay, but don't be too late."

Molly chuckled, "I won't."

She took all the materials to the underground research lab and asked Logan and Edmund to come down.

"Are these the ingredients for developing the Bone-Melting Powder?"

When Edmund saw all those things on the table, his eyes lit up. He immediately went up to see them and also wanted to touch them.

"Keep your hand off them. You'll be poisoned," Logan stopped him.

"Poisoned?"

Edmund backed up two steps in fear. He was originally very curious about those things, but these materials were now ferocious beasts in his eyes.

Seeing that, Molly and Logan burst out laughing.

“He is only joking.” Molly really couldn’t bear it. “Although these materials are all poisonous, you’ll be fine if you just touch them.”

“Logan!” Edmund snarled. “You have to make fun of me to make you happy, eh?”

“How could I know you believed it so easily?” Logan said with an innocent expression.

“Huh!”

Edmund couldn’t utter one more word because of anger.

“Don’t get upset. Let’s study these materials. This is more important.”

Molly cut in to ease the tense atmosphere and then began to prepare experimental equipment.

Logan and Edmund became serious and joined her.

Really worried, Sean came over to take a look. As soon as he entered the research lab, he saw the three of them seriously doing an experiment.

He frowned slightly, wondering if those poisonous things would affect Molly’s health.

Chapter 1658-Sean told her what he was worried about, but Molly smiled and comforted him, “Don’t worry. As long as I do this with care, I’ll be fine.”

Although she said so, Sean was still worried. He moved his lips, hoping to say something, but gave up in the end.

Knowing how eager she was to develop the bone-melting powder, he dropped the idea of stopping her.

Seeing through his heart, Logan smiled at Molly, “Molly, you’re now bearing a child. In case something happened, you’d better not do this in person. Let me and Edmund take care of everything.”

“But...”

Molly wanted to argue, but Edmund interrupted, “You just stand by to give the two of us orders. We won’t ruin your project.”

Knowing they cared about her condition and were helping her, she felt warmth in her heart.

“Just listen to them.” Sean took the opportunity to pull her to the side, keeping a certain distance from the laboratory bench.

Molly was amused by his action, but then realized that he was caring about her, so she didn’t say anything more and stayed aside.

Then, under her command, drug extraction went on in neat order.

Everything went quite smoothly.

As for Sean, he had returned to the upper floor, and Tony hurried over to him.

“Something happened, sir.”

Seeing Tony’s serious expression, Sean frowned a bit and asked gravely, “What happened?”

“With Blackrose’s exposure and all those things that have so far happened, the base now keeps a close eye. It’s so hard for our men to deliver information.”

Actually, Sean had expected this.

Just as he had said to Blackrose, “Ward is not really useless, rv So the man would take action sooner or later.

Sean sneered, “It’s just getting hard. It’s not that they can’t, right?”

Tony froze. “Yes... yes, that’s right.”

“Then try every possible way to deliver the information to Selon about the latest plan.”

For a few days in a row, Selon didn’t receive any news from outside. He had probably guessed that the base was now already heavily guarded, so he was calm.

For the Grandset, a place with great strength, this was easy to deal with.

As expected, he saw a slip of paper in the false bottom of the food tray one day.

He immediately took it out and unfolded it, finding it was Sean’s handwriting.

The words on it gave a general account of the current situation and Molly’s follow-up plan.

“Bone-melting powder?”

Seeing the three words, Selon frowned and read on.

“Mr. Shepard, if possible, you can try to enter the 1-5 research rooms to work.

Of course, you can also use the Child Insect of the Venomous Insect Overlord as a chip.

Then, as long as you use the Mother Insect as a lure, you will easily get it back.”

Selon stared at the words on the paper, a little hesitant.

The Venomous Insect Overlord was so important that he really didn't want it to fall into Ward's hands.

Then he noticed that there was also a tiny box in the false bottom.

To his surprise, he found a very small pill and another slip of paper in it.

On the paper were Molly's words.

“Selon, this pill is for the Child Insect. Once it takes it, it will be listless for a few days. Then the base will be worried and come to you for help.”

Seeing this, Selon couldn't help but smile.

It looked like they had planned everything, even including how he should enter the 1-5 research rooms to work. Yes, the couple was really smart.

Since everything had been planned, he, the actor, would act according to the script.

Chapter 1659-Professor Heist and Ward had been keeping an eye on this matter these days.

They had almost turned the entire base upside down, but didn't find the red insect.

“Useless! You’re all useless!”

With Ward’s furious shouting, an ashtray whizzed out of the office.

One who failed to avoid it in time was hit on the head. With a thud, he fell to the ground, motionless, blood spreading from the back of his head.

All those who saw it paled in fear, not daring to take a deep breath.

“Carry him away.”

Keagan gave an order and went out of the office.

Ward’s face was distorted in fury, the blood vessels on his forehead were shaking, and his face was so dark as if he was a fierce ghost from hell.

Seeing Keagan come in, he narrowed his eyes and asked, “How’s the situation?”

Have you found them?”

Keagan stopped and reported the truth, “Sir, we haven’t found the traces of those from the Grandset so far, but we’re still searching. I think there’ll be good news soon.” “Soon?” Ward snorted, “The island is not big. They don’t have many spots to hide. I guess they have already infiltrated into every corner of the island.”

Speaking of this, he looked at his subordinate standing outside, his eyes turning vicious. “Our men might have heard their persuasions and changed sides.”

Shocked, Keagan immediately said, “Don’t worry, sir. I’ll get to the bottom of it.”

“What about the Petersens? Do you have news about them?” Ward turned his face sideways and squinted at him.

“They’re still unwilling to reveal anything.”

This reply infuriated Ward again. He picked up the teacup on the table, throwing it at Keagan.

The latter didn’t avoid it, letting the teacup hit his chest. He felt the pain, but just made a muffled moan.

“You’re also useless! You’ve got nothing done!” Ward took a deep breath, his chest rising and falling in fury. “Why do I have to let you live then?”

Keagan opened his mouth to explain when one of his men rushed in.

“Sir, we seem to have found the traces of the red insect.”

This was definitely unexpected good news!

Ward immediately became happy and pressed excitedly, “Where’s it?”

“In the room where those guys are locked.”

Since they had found the traces of the red insect, Ward would capture it this time.

So he said to Keagan, “Go bring Professor Heist. We’re going to take a look.”

“Yes, sir.”

Keagan left with his order in a hurry.

When Ward and his men arrived at the door where they had found the traces of the red insect, Keagan frowned. "This is Selon's room, isn't it?"

Hearing Selon's name, Ward immediately asked someone to open the door.

Selon was reading a book leisurely with his back against the head of the bed, but his mind was, in fact, not on the book. Instead, he had been watching the outside.

When he heard the footsteps approaching and stopping at his room door, he smiled with pride.

They took the bait!

"Where's the insect?"

As soon as the door opened, Ward was the first to rush in, questioning Selon.

Selon closed his book calmly and pointed at the ceiling, answering, "There's a noise in the pipes overhead, but I'm not sure if it is the so-called insect you guys are looking for."

Ward turned his head and ordered, "Keagan, ask someone to go up and check if it is our insect. If it is, then capture it."

"Got it!"

Ready to catch it by himself, Keagan asked someone to bring a ladder.

Chapter 1660-When the ladder was brought over, Keagan was going to climb up.

"Wait!" Selon suddenly shouted to stop him.

Everyone turned to look at Selon.

But he said, "If you dismantle the pipe like this, the insect will be scared away."

Ward asked, "What should I do then?"

The insect had fled last time, and they could never let it escape this time, so Ward thought he should be careful.

Selon turned to him and said seriously, "The best way is to lure it with Venomous Insects."

"Lure it with Venomous Insects?"

Ward and Heist exchanged eye contact, confused: How could he know that?

Selon chuckled and explained calmly, "There're records in the ancient books of the Shepard family, and... it's common sense to me."

When it came to this, he looked at Professor Heist.

The latter nodded to agree. "It's really like this. I've also looked up a lot of information about the Venomous Insect Overlord. If we use Venomous Insects, it will come to us."

"Why didn't you mention it earlier?" Ward shot a glare at him. 'You didn't mention such important information earlier because you wanted the Venomous Insect Overlord to flee again, right?' Professor Heist's heart skipped a beat. He explained hurriedly, "Sorry, sir, I was so hurried that I neglected this."

"Hope you are not lying." Ward turned his head and ordered, "Keagan, go get some Venomous Insects."

“Yes, sir.”

Keagan immediately took his men to fetch Venomous Insects.

Soon the Venomous Insects were brought over, and everyone backed up in a tacit agreement, afraid the insects would bite them.

When the insects crawled slowly out of the bottle, the Venomous Insect Overlord hiding above the ceiling seemed to sense them and became uneasy, making a rustle.

Hearing the sound, Ward and his companions obviously became excited.

No one noticed that Selon clenched his hands secretly. Although he knew that catching the Child Insect was just one step of the plan, he was inevitably a little nervous.

Everyone craned their neck to look and saw the red Venomous Insect Overlord come out of the pipe.

Ward was overjoyed. He signaled with his hand to everyone not to make a noise, then held his breath, and closely watched the Venomous Insect Overlord enter the Venomous Insect bottle.

Then Keagan quickly went up and put a lid on the bottle.

The whole site hoorayed in excitement.

“Caught it, we finally caught it!” Ward took the bottle Keagan passed to him.

Looking at the Venomous Insect Overlord inside, he laughed so gloatingly, “I’ll see where you are going to flee this time.”

Then he handed the bottle to Heist and said, “Study it seriously. I’ll be waiting for your report.”

“Yes,” Heist also answered with excitement.

This was the priceless Venomous Insect Overlord!

At this point, Ward looked at Selon, studying him from head to toe, and said with a satisfied smile, “Thanks for your help, or we couldn’t have caught this insect.”

Selon smiled but didn’t say anything.

Ward had a calculating glint in his eyes and asked, “Do you want me to release you?”

Selon was not an idiot. Of course, he knew the man was testing him, so he admitted candidly, “Of course, I want, but ...I have to have your trust at least.

Otherwise, I would just be dreaming.”

Maybe not expecting him to answer like this, Ward was a little surprised. He said to him in a rare mild tone, “Then you’ll have to wait a little more while.”

After that, he left with his men.

Seeing the door close again with quietness restored to the surroundings, Selon finally heaved a long sigh of relief.

The plan was generally a success. Then the rest would depend on the Child Venomous Insect Overlord.
