

Triplets On SM 1671

Chapter 1671-In the next few days, people on the island heard someone die in the base from time and time and became jittery.

Although Molly was dedicated to developing the Bone- Melting Powder, she also heard the news.

She asked Sean worriedly, "What's going on? Will our men be in danger?"

Sean frowned. "The base has begun to take action, but their target is not only the Grandset but all the suspicious people."

When Molly heard that, her heart did a flip-flop. "What about Selon and Alkaid?"

Will they be in danger?"

'I knew the base and the Martial Art Union were cruel, but I didn't expect them to be so inhumane that they even killed innocent people in case they missed their enemies. They must have killed a lot of innocent people!' Molly was concerned about Selon, Alkaid, and the others who were on the base.

Sean knew how Molly felt. But she was in the early stages of pregnancy, and a bad mood might harm the health of her and the baby. So he immediately comforted, "Don't worry.

Selon will be safe temporarily."

"Then what about Alkaid?"

Sean fell silent.

Molly's expression changed. She grabbed Sean's hand and asked anxiously, "Is Alkaid in danger?"

Seeing the anxious Molly, Sean felt heartbroken. He said resignedly, "Alkaid is in danger indeed. She can escape, but..."

It He paused and added," He paused and added, "But if she escapes, the base will think Selon is involved and won't let him off easily."

"What can we do?"

Molly frowned.

Sean held Molly's hand tightly." We still need Selon to help us deal with the research labs, so we can't take action rashly for now. Don't worry. Alkaid will be fine."

Realizing how serious the matter was, Molly calmed down soon and decided.

"We need to develop the Bone-Melting Powder as soon as possible."

Molly and the others still needed two or three days, but now they had to reduce the time as much as possible.

Sean wanted to persuade Molly to calm down, but he bit his tongue finally. He knew her well. Once she made up her mind, she wouldn't change her mind easily.

Besides, she was extremely worried about Selon and Alkaid.

Molly returned to the research lab and explained the situation to Logan and Edmund. She said to them seriously,"

I need your help."

Logan said, "Don't worry. Even if we overtime the whole night, we will help you develop the Bone-Melting Powder."

Edmund nodded nonstop. "Logan is right."

Molly took a deep breath and said, "Thank you. Let's start."

Sean stood outside the research lab and quietly watched them being busy developing the Bone-Melting Powder with a calm and deep gaze.

He was sure that they could make it.

After they worked hard for the whole day and night and almost couldn't hold on anymore, they finally developed enough Bone-Melting Powder.

Looking at the Bone-Melting Powder to which they had made so much effort, Edmund breathed a sigh of relief, sat on the ground, and smiled with dark circles, "We did it!"

Molly hadn't slept for the whole day and night. Her eyes were bloodshot, and her face was pale.

She forced a smile. "Luckily, it's faster than expected."

Chapter 1672-Logan also let out a sigh of relief. "I haven't been so tired for a long time.

Fortunately, we succeed. But now the question arises. How can we send so much bone-melting powder to the base?"

While speaking, he pointed at the bottles.

After all, there were five research labs where venomous insects were raised.

Although Molly had tried her best to reduce the weight of the bone-melting powder with its effect kept, it still weighed several kilograms.

This was also what Molly was worried about.

Everyone entering and leaving the base had to go through multiple checks.

Even if one took a small bag of the powder, he or she would be put at grave risk.

It was almost impossible to take so much powder to the base.

"I think we should discuss the matter with Mr. Anderson. We can't figure out a solution on our own," Edmund advised, with his eyes half-closed.

He looked like he was about to fall asleep.

Molly nodded.

They needed to bank on Sean coming up with an idea.

She said, "I'll talk to him about it. You haven't slept for long. Go back and have a rest. You can relax in the next few days..."

Edmund replied, "I don't want to move. I'm going to sleep here."

"Haha..." Logan was amused, who walked to pull Edmund up and then said to Molly, "I'll take him to his room. You can go to talk with Mr. Anderson."

Molly nodded and trailed out of the research room tiredly.

Sean was reading documents on the sofa in the living room upstairs. When he heard footsteps, he put the documents down immediately and stepped toward Molly. "Done?"

"Yes!" Molly encircled his neck and answered, "As expected, we've made it."

Sean lowered his head, kissed her forehead, and said, "Thank you."

"It's all right." Molly shook her head, followed him to sit on the sofa and then became grave. "Although we've developed the powder, there is a problem. The powder is heavier than expected. It might be difficult to take the powder to the base."

At her words, Sean looked calm. "It doesn't matter. Leave the powder to me."

"Can you find a way to send it to the base?" Molly asked with slight worry.

Sean tapped her forehead and replied, "Don't you believe me?"

Molly covered her forehead and said, "No. I'm just feeling worried! We must send the powder to the base. During the development, we've run out of all the medicinal herbs. If we fail, there will be no more powder."

"Well, we won't fail. I almost lose my patience after staying here for long. I'll arrange for people to send the powder to the base successfully." While speaking, he looked supremely confident.

Molly loved his confidence.

Every time she sensed his confidence, she rested easy, feeling that he was omnipotent.

Thinking of this, she couldn't help but kiss him. "I nearly lose my patience, too."

Let me give you a blessing kiss.”

Sean couldn’t help smiling. He raised her face and uttered,” This is not enough. I want more.”

Then he leaned toward her and kissed her lips.

The two of them kissed each other affectionately. Sean didn’t let go of her until she got out of breath.

Panting, Molly said, “I’m sleepy and exhausted. I don’t want to walk.”

“Just sleep. I’ll carry you upstairs.” Sean bent over and carried her in his arms.

Molly shut her eyes and nestled against his chest fondly.

After a while, Sean put her in the bed, and she fell asleep quickly.

Chapter 1673-Listening to the steady breathing, Sean left the room quietly.

Then he went directly to Tony, “Have you known the identities of those ten people sent by the Martial Art Union?”

Tony answered, “I found some information. They are mercenaries newly trained by the Martial Art Union and code -named by numbers. The leader of the team was named 001. We have never fought them before, so now I don’t know their fighting capacities.”

Sean narrowed his eyes, “Do they act separately or together? Have you figured out their range?”

“They act separately, but the number of groups cannot be determined. Some are in charge of the base, and some are in charge of other areas on the island.

There is news from our undercover men that several medical families have been slaughtered,” Tony’s expression became a little grave.

Sean frowned, “Have the Scott family been affected?”

“No,” Tony responded, “The Scott family is a relatively core family. They have worked for the Martial Art Union for many years and have a lot of knowledge of medicines research and development, so they will not be eradicated for the time being.”

Sean nodded and then gave an order, “Let Blackrose and the others withdraw from the base.”

“Ah?” Hearing this, Tony was stunned, “Why? If they all withdraw from the base, there will be no elite force inside the base. Moreover, the base will definitely find out if many people disappear at the same time.”

Sean looked at Tony and explained, “This is exactly what I want to see. I did not intend to keep the elite force in the base. They were just deployed, and now it’s the time to take action...”

Tony was still confused, but he knew that Sean must be prepared and that he just needed to obey Sean’s order.

Therefore, he nodded, “Yes, Sir. I’ll let them know.”

Soon, Tony left.

Sean picked up his cell phone and called Alex.

“Hello, Daddy?” Alex’s cute and soft voice came from the other end of the phone.

Sean spoke gently, “Hello, Alex! Are you with Dark?”

“Yes, we are together!” Alex’s tone sounded cheerful, “I called him for help as you told me, and he flew to Norlon the next day! These days, he has been with us. Daddy, are you going to take action?”

“Yes,” Sean replied, “Alex, give Dark the phone.”

“Okay,” Alex was very obedient.

After a while, Dark’s lazy voice sounded, “What’s the matter?” Sean raised his eyebrows and said faintly, “I’m ready to take action. What about you?”

“I’m also ready,” Dark said arrogantly, “Although the protection system of that base is quite tricky, I stayed up for days with my friends and finally invaded the system terminal. We have embedded a lot of hidden viruses in it. Once the viruses are triggered, the system will crash.”

Speaking of this, Dark threatened, “Sean, this time I help you because of my babe. You’d better bring Molly back safely. Otherwise, I will never let you go.”

Sean changed into a comfortable sitting position and uttered coldly, “Molly is my wife. It is my duty to take her back safely, so don’t worry about it. And... don’t you dare call my wife babe again. She is mine.”

Chapter 1674-Once Sean finished, he hung up the phone directly without waiting for Dark to react.

This made Dark angry.

If not for Alex being right next to him, Dark would have cursed.

“Alex.” Dark suppressed his anger and turned his head to ask, “Can I quit?”

That brat took Molly away and asked him for help with such an attitude. Dark felt humiliated.

So, he wanted to quit.

“No way!”

Alex resolutely refused him. Seeing Dark’s sullen face, Alex hastened to placate him. “Don’t mind my daddy. This is a critical moment.”

“Huh,” Dark sneered. “Your daddy doesn’t seem like in a critical moment.” “Oh, be generous. Don’t be upset with my daddy.”

Alex grabbed the hem of Dark’s shirt and pouted cutely, “My daddy and mommy are married. No matter how jealous you are, you cannot change the fact that they are a couple.”

After saying that, Alex carefully looked at Dark’s face.

Hearing this, Dark got even more depressed.

When Dark thought of Molly’s relationship with Sean, he felt so gloomy and sad.

“Okay, when this matter is over, I’ll introduce you to pretty women.”

Alex blinked his eyes and promised with a serious face.

Pretty women?’ The corners of Dark’s eyes twitched. No pretty woman is as good as Molly in his eyes.

But because Alex was so sincere, Dark just pretended to be impatient and waved his hand, “Stop it. I’m not interested.”

Then, Dark returned to the computer, pressed his neck, and looked a bit more austere. “I have to get back to work.”

Although Dark was not happy with Sean, Dark was clear about how important his help was this time.

After all, it concerned whether Molly could return safely as soon as possible.

Alex looked at Dark, who quickly switched back on. Alex sighed with relief, Sean's eyes instantly became cold after he ended the call.

Next, it was time for the two sides to face off.

That afternoon, in the central control room of the base, everything went on as usual, and everyone was doing their work in an orderly manner.

Suddenly, someone's computer inexplicably went dark.

At first, he thought something was wrong, so he restarted the computer.

As if he started some program, one after another, the computers turned black.

After the computer which was the first to black out rebooted, a cute little rabbit popped up on the interface, followed by a series of ear-splitting sirens.

"Oh no! There's a virus!"

Someone shouted, and the whole central control room was suddenly plunged into chaos.

"We're finished! The system has been invaded!"

"Hurry up! Get rid of the virus and then check if the information is still there."

The central control room was in a mess, and Ward immediately received the news that the base's defense system had been destroyed.

He rushed to the central control room with his men.

The information archived inside the base was confidential.

If it was stolen or spread outside, it would be a big blow to the base and the union.

As soon as he entered the central control room, Ward called over the person in charge and barked, "What the hell is going on here?"

The person in charge looked pale as he reported truthfully, "The system was invaded by an expert unknowingly."

Chapter 1675-After hearing the manager's report, Ward went furious, roaring, "You guys have been watching, haven't you? Why weren't you aware that someone hacked in?"

There were so many hackers in the master control room; all of them were the best ones sent by the Union, but they were all defeated!

Ward's face turned so dark when he thought of this, the scar on his face looking particularly fierce.

He glared at the manager, wishing to flay him alive!

The manager felt a great sense of oppression.

His forehead was covered with dense beads of sweat, and his whole back was soaked in sweat. He swallowed. "We are... are already doing our best to rescue it."

“You’d better bear one thing in mind. If any one piece of information is leaked, I’ll kill you all,” Ward warned him ferociously.

“I know.”

The manager immediately went to the rescue.

Standing aside, Ward watched the busy crowd without expression, his eyes insidious.

He had been busy purging the rebels these days. Unexpectedly, their defense system was hacked, and the hacker had obviously been prepared.

Seeing that these people were in disorder, Ward had a bad premonition.

“Another new virus!”

“Why are there so many viruses? There’s not enough time to even clean them, let alone to fix bugs!”

Everyone complained, apparently a little impatient.

Every once in a while, a new virus would show up while they were still busy with the former ones, and they had no time to take a breath!

Now, the defense system of the base was fully controlled as if someone had cast a net over it.

For them, this was a sheer provocation.

But everytime they launched counterattacks, more viruses would flood in, making the system crash again and again.

Doomed!

They were doomed!

The manager's heart sank to the lowest point.

All of them were expert hackers, but they couldn't do anything about their opponent.

If their master learned it, all of them would probably die!

Ward didn't know the seriousness of the matter. He thought that these people were definitely excellent enough to handle the system-hacking problem.

At this point, Keagan suddenly rushed in with a face of panic.

"Sir, something bad happened."

Keagan had been his man for years, but it was rare to see him in such a panic, which meant something bad had truly happened.

Ward asked with a sunk face, "What happened?"

"Those from the Grandset are destroying our research rooms, and many of our developed drugs have been destroyed!"

"What?" Ward was astonished. "Those from the Grandset have stormed in?"

Their defense system had just been hacked, then those from the Grandset stormed in. This was not a coincidence, was it?

“No.” Keagan immediately shook his head. “They... they are going to retreat.”

“Retreat?” Ward frowned. “What’s really going on? Since they didn’t storm in, then how could they retreat?”

“Their men had infiltrated our base a long time ago.”

Keagan spoke with a pale face. This was more serious than the system hacking.

“What did you say?” Ward thought something was wrong with his ears.

Keagan closed his eyes, took a deep breath, and braved himself to continue, “There are some enemies that have entered the base with hidden identities. Of course, it’s also possible that our men were bought off. In a word...” He paused but then continued, “The situation is quite terrible!”

Everyone knew how important drug development was for the base and the Union.

Chapter 1676-Hearing Keagan’s words, Ward knew the situation must be very bad, so he followed Keagan and didn’t have time to pay attention to the situation in the control room.

When he arrived at the scene, he found that the destroyed medicines were all illegal drugs they had secretly developed and would be sold worldwide through the black market.

The value they would get from these medicines was inestimable.

However, now these medicines were destroyed. The loss was quite huge for the Martial Art Union.

Thinking of this, Ward lost his temper and roared, “Don’t let anyone from the Grandset leave the base!”

‘Damn it! Grandset! I will never let anyone go!’ Ward added in his heart.

He turned his head and snapped, "Keagan, close all the exits of the base right now!"

"Yes!" Keagan left quickly.

"I'd like to see what else the Grandset can do," Ward stared at the messy research lab angrily.

His chest heaved violently, and his face was twisted.

Soon, all the exits of the base were closed. Blackrose and several other martial art masters, who were about to evacuate the base, were trapped.

They were ordered to evacuate as soon as the lab was destroyed.

But it was still late.

"What do we do now?" A man asked.

Blackrose glanced at him and replied coldly, "See what they're going to do first!"

She had thought her identity would be exposed, but she didn't expect things would be like this.

If she had known it, she should have let the others evacuate first. In this case, there wouldn't be so many people stuck here. Blackrose felt a little regretful and annoyed.

Looking at the people slowly surrounding them, she subconsciously clenched the weapon in her hand, and her eyes were fierce.

"It's you," When Ward saw them, he clenched his teeth angrily, "Do you really think this is your own backyard? Come and go if you want?"

Blackrose squinted and had a desire to kill Ward. If she was alone here, she would have rushed up and killed this scum directly.

“Keagan, tell 001 to come here quickly,” Ward turned to order Keagan.

Keagan bowed his head and said, “I’ve sent someone to tell him. His team is on their way.”

“Good! Very good!” Wardy smiled evilly, “I will watch you guys die.”

At this time, he thought he must get the victory.

Although the medicines had been destroyed, those people from the Grandset would be killed by him, so he thought he would not be punished seriously by the Martial Art Union.

Blackrose had received the news that the Martial Art Union had sent a new unit here, but she didn’t know that ten people’s fighting capacities, so what she and her partners would do was to try their best to protect themselves.

They must leave here safely.

Meanwhile, on the roof of a tall building in the base.

Merak had already set up her gun and had aimed at Ward. Just as she was about to pull the trigger...

“I advise you to put that gun away,” A cold voice sounded behind her.

Merak’s heart thumped, and a trace of fierceness flashed across her eyes. Just when she planned to turn around and give that person an attack, the back of her head was pressed against something cold.

It was a gun!

Immediately, she dared not act rashly.

It was obvious that this person came prepared.

“Put your gun away. Otherwise, I can’t be sure whether the bullet will go through your head or not.”

Chapter 1677-At his words, Merak didn’t panic. A calm expression was on her baby face, and she even smiled.

‘The person can approach me unnoticed. He must be a martial art master.’ At the thought of it, Merak blinked her eyes.

‘If I guess right, the person should be one of the ten people newly dispatched by the Martial Art Union.’
“Throw away your gun!” The man’s grim and cold voice interrupted her wandering thoughts.

As he required, Merak threw her gun to her feet.

Seeing this, the man showed a satisfied and conceited expression and then ordered, “Turn around!”

Merak turned around unhurriedly.

The next second, she saw the person.

With an unimpressive face, the person was very thin, giving an extremely spooky vibe.

Merak’s eyes fell on his face, on which there was a noticeable tattoo-003.

Noticing it, Merak almost laughed, as she felt somewhat excited.

She didn't anticipate that she would be so lucky to meet an excellent martial art master.

'The union has sent ten experts here. Since he is ranked third, he must be highly skilled.

Im itching to take on him...' Upon seeing Merak's face, 003 got surprised, as he didn't expect her to look like a little girl. He was even wondering if she had come of age, as she was baby-faced and dressed slightly cutely.

Sensing his astonishment, Merak tilted her head and asked innocently, "The people are fighting downstairs. Don't you go to help them?"

003's face hardened, and he gave a cold snort. "No need. Our men will deal with your people downstairs. But now, I should handle you."

Then he asked grimly, "Tell me who came here except you and how long you have ambushed the base. What are the exact locations?"

Merak blinked and shook her head blankly. "I don't know!"

003 directed the gun between her eyebrows and warned her viciously, "Huh!

You don't know? You're one of the leaders of Stars Group and trusted by your master. How do you not know?

"Be honest. Otherwise, I'll pull the trigger.

'You don't want to see your brains splash on the ground, do you?"

"Oh, I'm quite frightened," Merak uttered with pretended terror, but she looked eager to compete with 003.

Noticing the huge difference between her voice and her expression, even 003 became stunned.

‘She doesn’t show any fear.

‘On the contrary, she seems excited.’ 003 furrowed his eyebrows. ‘Sure enough, the people from the Grandset are all lunatics.’ He subconsciously pressed the gun against her forehead tighter and snapped, “Don’t prevaricate. Are you really not afraid of death?”

Staring at him, Merak said frankly, “Of course, I’m afraid. No one is not afraid of death. I’m still young, so I’m afraid of death. However... I don’t think you have the opportunity to kill me.”

Hearing this, 003 was amused. “As long as I squeeze the trigger, you’ll die at once... I know you excel in shooting, but are you really better than me?”

“Indeed, I’m not better than you now. But you still have no chance,” Merak replied in a firm tone.

003 became malicious. “You’re asking for death! Well, since you don’t tell me the truth, go to hell.”

Then he was about to pull the trigger.

Merak’s pupils shrank slightly, but her fair face remained unchanged. She was still smiling playfully.

Somehow, 003 suddenly got a little fearful...

Chapter 1678-When Molly woke up, it was dark outside.

She looked at the clock and saw that it was almost 6 pm. She hurriedly got up.

After taking a shower, she went downstairs and saw Tony hurrying to Sean. She was some distance away from them, so she didn't hear their conversation.

Tony didn't stay long. He left in a hurry with a serious face, just as when he came.

'What happened?' Sean turned his head and saw Molly standing on the stairs. His grim eyes became instantly tender. He asked, "You're awake?"

Hearing the familiar voice, Molly snapped back to her senses and looked down the stairs.

Their eyes met.

With a smile, she walked down the stairs and asked, "I saw Tony. Is there anything wrong?"

Sean smiled at her and took her hand. He didn't answer her but asked, "Are you hungry? Dinner is ready."

Then he was about to lead her toward the dining room.

"Sean," Molly said, not moving. She glared at him and demanded, ' You haven't told me what's going on."

She knew Sean didn't want her to worry, but they were a couple. She wanted to face everything with him.

"It's no big deal."

Sean wore a look of surrender. Then he gently pinched the tip of her nose and continued with a smile, "Our men took action."

'They took action?' Molly froze. 'What an urgent thing it is! Why is he so calm and smiling at me?' She asked with a frown, "How are things now?"

This time, Sean told her everything in detail.

"Our men are currently engaging with the enemy at the base, and the situation is quite deadlocked. No party has the upper hand."

Molly's face immediately changed color. "Our men were discovered?"

That was the only reason they were fighting the base's men.

Sean nodded.

Molly's heart sank. She gave a worried look. "Is there anything we can do? Are they all right?"

"Yes, we can do something."

Sean took her into his arms and reassured her with a soft voice, "Don't worry.

They'll be out soon."

His face was calm, as if everything was under control.

Molly believed he would not lie to her. Then she was relieved a bit and nodded.

"Shall we have dinner?" Sean looked down into her eyes.

"Yeah." Molly smiled at him.

Dinner was already prepared on the table, after they sat down, Sean helped her with a bowl of soup.

“Try this. It will warm up your stomach.”

Molly blushed, “Hey, you’re treating me like I’m a baby! I can do it myself.”

Sean didn’t say anything. His eyes were full of tenderness.

Molly was hungry, so she quickly finished the bowl of soup.

She felt warmth in her stomach.

She looked up at Sean. He was quietly eating his dinner. He probably noticed her gaze, so he looked up.

Their eyes met.

After a few seconds of hesitation, Molly asked, “Has the Bone-Melting Powder been sent to the base?”

“Yes, I guess so.”

Molly frowned at this answer. “What do you mean by ‘I guess so’? Is there something wrong?”

Sean put his fork down and replied, No. It’s just there is no news yet. I’ve had it sent to the base. If nothing goes wrong, the powder should be at the base now.”

“I see.” Molly was relieved. “As long as Bone-Melting Powder is sent to the base, those Venomous Insects will be destroyed. They won’t be a threat to us anymore.”

Chapter 1679-As Molly and Sean chatted, the research rooms within the base ground to a halt.

They were completely paralyzed and unable to function normally.

The databases of research rooms 1-5, located on the underground floor, had become jumbled with chaotic codes.

Selon noticed the anomaly and found it perplexing.

He had been at the base for quite some time, yet this was the first time he had encountered such a situation.

So, he sought out Professor Heist for an explanation.

“Why is the database all jumbled up? Is something wrong?” he inquired.

Professor Heist simply shook his head in response. “I’m not sure about this. Just focus on your work and don’t worry about the rest.”

Not sure?

Selon’s eyes flickered with suspicion. As the head of research rooms 1-5, he should have been the first to know about any developments within the base.

Despite Professor Heist’s attempts to appear normal, his furrowed brow betrayed his true emotions.

Obviously, he was lying.

Selon didn’t confront the man. Instead, he lowered his gaze to conceal the cold glint in his eyes. If he were not wrong, this was the work of Sean’s faction.

Judging by Professor Heist's gloomy expression, the base must be in chaos.

It seemed that their plan was progressing smoothly.

Soon, Alkaid and he would be able to leave this place.

Seeing Selon standing motionless, Professor Heist frowned and reminded him sternly. "Your most important task right now is to heal the Venomous Insect Overlord as soon as possible!"

Selon bowed his head. "I know."

"Then why are you still standing here? Go keep an eye on it.

If anything happens, Mr. Lopez will punish you severely."

At these words, Selon hurried back to his work.

He gazed at the Venomous Insect Overlord in the bottle. It was slowly regaining its strength, and he silently thought, 'Soon you will be reunited with your mother.' On the ground, the warriors sent by the Union had finally arrived.

"You guys are finally here. I'll leave this place in your hands."

Ward's face lit up with relief as he saw those people.

With the arrival of the new experts, Blackrose and her companions wouldn't be able to escape the base.

The damage to the base would be repaid by them, one by one.

The thought of striking a heavy blow against the Grandset filled Ward with excitement. He quickly led his men to a safe location to watch the battle unfold.

He wanted to witness firsthand the defeat of his opponents.

Blackrose stared at those big, muscular men, her eyes filled with awe. So, these were the new warriors sent by the Union.

They certainly looked like skilled fighters.

But the tattoos on their faces were an insult!

How could they willingly subject themselves to such treatment?

Then again, the Martial Art Union could do this kind of thing.

And these people were by no means good ones since they could even betray their principles.

“Be careful, guys. Conceal our strength before we figure out their level.”

Blackrose warned her companions and saw the enemies lunging their way.

Her companions and she scattered immediately to engage their opponents separately.

The five men were expressionless and ruthless, aiming for vital points with every strike.

After several bouts, Blackrose and her companions realized that the enemies were just as skilled as they were.

This came as a surprise.

They hadn't expected the martial arts experts trained by the Martial Art Union to be so strong.

Chapter 1680-The Martial Art Union's fighters were all professionally trained, while Blackrose and her buddies were also terrific fighters. The two parties were on a par.

Ward felt impatient with the situation.

He thought the Martial Art Union's fighters could defeat the Grandset's people right away.

However...

Ward frowned and stared at Blackrose and her people. Somehow, he had a strange feeling. He felt that Blackrose and her people were avoiding the fight.

'What are they up to?' Before Ward could figure it out, suddenly, a loud bang sounded. Everyone was shocked.

Even all the fighters paused.

Blackrose and her people exchanged glances. They knew that their plan had been executed as expected.

"What's happening?" Ward questioned angrily.

He stared at the smoke rising in the distance and had a sinking feeling.

'Damn it! What's happening? If anything else goes wrong, I'm screwed!' Keagan hurriedly stepped forward and said, "Sir, don't worry. I'll send someone over to check the situation."

Now Blackrose and her people changed the way they fought. They retreated in the direction of the explosion as they dealt with the Martial Art Union fighters.

Soon Keagan's men returned with a panicked look on their faces.

"Sir, there's been an accident. There was an explosion at the base near the dump. An exit was blown out."

"Explosion? An exit?" Ward was shocked. "How could there be an explosion?"

Did they...? Suddenly, an idea occurred to Ward. He subconsciously looked towards Blackrose.

Seeing Blackrose and her people backing up in the direction where the explosion took place, Ward yelled, his face pale, "Stop them! Don't let any of them get away!"

He would not let the Grandset's people get away from the base!

Blackrose had a sneer, a contemptuous smile on her face. 'It's too late!' Then Union's fighters realized what Blackrose and her people's intentions were.

They moved more fiercely and tried to stop them from evacuating.

Suddenly, "Ah!" 004 let out a scream and fell heavily to the ground.

The others were stunned.

Then they saw that blood was pouring out of 004's thigh. Soon his pants were soaked with blood.

004 screamed in pain, "There's a sniper!"

Immediately, everyone's faces turned pale. They looked around.

"Ah!" With no signs, 005 also let out a scream. Blood came out of his shoulder.

The bullet hit him near the heart.

005 stared wide-eyed and bluntly fell down.

It was a bolt from the blue. The union's fighters were too shocked to stop Blackrose and her people.

"What's going on?" Ward's face clouded over.

He thought they would definitely win today. He hadn't expected the Grandset to be so cunning that they had arranged for a sniper.

The sniper was in the shadows, while Ward's men were in the light.

This was not favorable to Ward.

'No way! I absolutely cannot let Grandset's people go!' "The sniper is up in that building." Keagan shouted, pointing to a tall building not far away.

"Follow me!" Ward immediately led his men to that building. He was determined to take down the sniper first, otherwise, they could not defeat the Grandset's people today.
