

Triplets On SM 571

Chapter 571-Sean did not want to argue with Alice on this, so he steered his wheelchair and left.

However, Alice was not going to end the conversation there.

“Stop right there. Are you planning to let that woman’s b*stard children inherit everything our family owns? Not only me but your father and grandfather would never allow this to happen!”

Alice started lashing out after she got mad, and her words made Sean frown.

However, Sean responded calmly, “Mrs. Anderson, there’s no need for you to get so worked up about this.

“I’ll handle grandpa myself.”

“Your grandfather takes his bloodline and principles very seriously. He’s never going to say yes to this. Besides, everyone else in our family is eyeing the position you hold now. You’re only going to get yourself in trouble if you act so rashly like this. She’s not worth it.” Alice continued to persuade Sean, but Sean did not give her a chance.

He was cold and even his expression became indifferent. “That’s enough. I’ll take care of it.”

Sean did not stay in the Anderson Residence and left directly after saying those words.

Alice slammed the table again while she watched him leave.

The dinner ended unhappily for both of them because of that.

Sean went back to Terahis Grove, and he saw Molly playing with the triplets. He did not bring up what happened in the Anderson Residence just now after seeing how much fun they were having.

He did not want Molly to be bothered by his family, but somebody else thought otherwise.

The next morning, Alice took her chance after Sean went to the office.

The doorbell rang in Molly's house. Molly opened the door and saw Sean's butler.

"Hello, Ms. May. Mrs. Anderson would like to have some tea with you. There's something about you that she wants to talk to you about."

The butler was very courteous.

Molly was a little confused.

'Mrs. Anderson is Alice Holmes.' It had been some time since she last met with Alice, she had no idea why Alice would want to see her again.

"Sure. Please give me a moment. I'll be there in a while." Even though Molly did not like Alice very much, she did not want to embarrass her. Then, she went to Sean's mansion after getting changed.

Alice already got someone to prepare the tea. She wore a dress that fitted her perfectly, and she looked regal and refined. At the same time, her attitude felt unapproachable.

Molly threw her a glance and walked inside.

Alice did not beat around the bush with Molly. After seeing Molly, she directly said, "Ms. May, I asked you here because there's something I want to tell you. I know about the research laboratory by the hillside. That laboratory was invested by the Anderson Cooperation, so I believe that we have the right in making decisions. I'll be frank with you; I want Sharon to work in that laboratory."

Molly was a little surprised after hearing what Alice said. Then, she replied, "Mrs. Anderson, you can just tell my boss, Mr. Anderson, about this. There's no need to go through me."

What Molly said reminded Alice of how she argued with Sean during dinner last night. So, she sounded even more unhappy. " Sean said that you're the person in charge."

That was when Molly finally knew why Alice wanted to see her.

Molly was a little surprised, she did not expect that Sean would really let her be in charge.

Molly did not reject Sean's kindness since he trusted her enough to make her own decisions. So, she accepted Sean's offer instantly.

Chapter 572-At the same time, Molly could guess that Sean probably did not want Sharon to work in the research laboratory judging by his response to Alice.

'Otherwise, he wouldn't tell Alice that I'm in charge instead of just rejecting her directly.

'Alice would not have to make her way here and talk to me herself if Sean refused her on the spot.

'Also... Sean probably only said that because he cared about Alice's feelings.' Molly shifted her gaze and calmed herself down when she thought about that.

After all, Sharon and Alice did a lot of things previously.

And, it made things a little unpleasant between them.

Of course, she understood.

She understood that Alice did everything for her own son.

She wanted to make the marriage between Sean and Ms. Newman happen, so they could be in the high society of Northfolk. They were a perfect match for each other.

Molly remained calm and spoke calmly. Her words were very formal.

“The research laboratory will start recruiting talents soon. If Ms. Newman is really keen on joining US, she can apply for a position through proper channels when the time comes.”

She paused. She was as calm as a tranquil lake that could not be disturbed by anything. Then, she spoke again.

“I won’t have a problem with it if Ms. Newman could join the team with her own capability. Also, I believe nobody else will have a problem with it too.

“This research laboratory is sponsored by the Anderson Corporation, after all.

Mrs. Anderson, I believe you understand that it’s going to draw a lot of attention.

“It means that there’ll be a lot of outstanding candidates applying for the job.

However, I believe in you, Mrs. Anderson. I know that Ms. Newman is just as outstanding. So, it’s best for Ms. Newman to apply for the job like everyone else.

Not only that it’ll shut other people’s mouths and uphold the reputation of Anderson Corporation. And, Ms. Newman will also not be criticized by the people working in the laboratory.

“I have to do my best since your son put me in charge of the laboratory. I have to prioritize the interest of Anderson Corporation and the research laboratory.”

Molly said everything calmly as she looked at Alice without showing any emotions.

She did not reject Alice's suggestion directly.

Alice was Sean's mother, after all. she had to put that into consideration, so she did not want things to turn ugly between them.

She also did not want to put Sean in a difficult position.

The living room became silent.

Alice did not expect Molly to be so good with words with how cold she looked.

'At least she made it sound better than the stupid kid.' Alice lifted her brows and stared at Molly for some time as her eyes sparked.

However, she became sharp after being married to a wealthy family for such a long time. She was not that easy to be fooled.

Molly sounded like she agreed with Alice, but she still did not grant Sharon direct access to the job.

Alice threw Molly a half-smile. She was displeased by what Molly suggested.

However, Molly made it sound too good and formal. Alice just could not find a way to talk back.

Fortunately, Sharon was a competent person. It would not be a problem for her to get hired.

"Okay, then." Alice had no choice but to give in.

Molly knew everything that was going on in Alice's mind. She lifted the edge of her mouth and said with a smirk, "Alright, I'll go back now if there's nothing else."

Then, she left Sean's place and went back to her own house. The triplets, Grandpa Dave, and her brothers surrounded her to ask her questions as soon as she entered the house. 1 Their voices piled up, and Molly heard a buzzing sound in her ears.

So, Molly waited for each of them to finish talking.

In short, they just

Chapter 573-Or, if Alice was trying to spite her.

Molly did not look impatient, she walked to the living room and sat down before answering them with a smile, "Don't worry. She didn't give me any trouble."

She looked at the family that was very worried about her.

At that moment, she felt like there would not be anything to worry about even if she did upset the Anderson family.

Molly became bolder as she thought about that.

'He's just a man anyway. I should've just rejected Alice.' She stopped herself from imagining things when she thought about them, she could not help but chuckle.

Everybody else in the living room knew that she was telling the truth because they could not notice anything different about her. So, they were relieved.

They were glad that everything was fine.

"Why did she want to talk to you, then?" Claudia placed her right finger beside her mouth and asked curiously.

“To discuss something about the research laboratory, that’s all.” Molly turned around and said calmly, she reached over and hugged Claudia as she could not control herself after looking at her.

At night, Sean came back and knew about what happened after the butler told him.

He went upstairs to get changed before going next door.

“Molly.”

Sean called her name flatly.

Actually, Sean and Molly shared a lot of similarities.

The way they talked was one of them.

However, Sean would sound a little sterner because he was a boss.

Molly could sense something right after hearing what Sean said.

She knew that he was a little unhappy.

‘It has got to be something to do with Sharon.’ She sat down beside Sean and spoke before Sean could say anything, “The research laboratory needs talents to operate it. Also, I don’t want to stand against Mrs. Anderson. She’s your biological mother, after all.”

The reason she did that was obvious.

Molly lifted the edge of her mouth and smiled helplessly. She squinted her eyes, but the smile did not look as attractive as her genuine smile.

However, it was good enough to attract the people around her with her delicate features.

Sean could understand her intention, so he gave up on what he wanted to say and sighed deeply.

“You’re free to reject her if you want to. I thought you were going to do that, but I didn’t know that she would want to meet you personally...”

He grabbed Molly’s hand gently and put it in his palm after saying that.

He was so smooth with it that they looked like husband and wife, who had known each other for a long time.

Their hands were close together, and they could feel each other’s temperature flowing between them as if their thoughts were connected and they could understand each other.

Molly’s eyes sparkled, and she looked a little awkward. Her hands in Sean’s palm became stiff without her realizing it.

‘Why did this man... hold my hand when he was just talking a second ago?’ She wanted to lift her hand up, but it felt like her fingers were being pulled by a strong magnet.

Molly paused as she felt a little shocked, she stared at their hands, and she started breathing rapidly.

‘What’s going on?’ She pursed her lips and lifted her head with her eyes closed. Her hand was already on her belly when she opened her eyes again. It all happened in a blink of an eye.

However, Molly felt as though a vigorous tsunami had just happened inside of her.

She glanced at the folded fingers in her palm, and she could still feel a little of his warmth.

That hint of warmth made Molly uncomfortable, and she opened her palm.

Her hands were empty, and there were a lot of things going on in her mind.

Sean chuckled after noticing how shy she was. Molly, who had just been through a natural disaster in her, glared at him.

Sean stopped laughing as a smile flashed across his face, looking very gentle.

Sean was very happy that Molly did not want to make things awkward with Alice because of him.

Chapter 574-The crews under Anderson Corporation were always second to none.

The renovation of the mansion by the hillside was nearly complete within two weeks.

Even the interior design and layout came from Molly and Sean. They both pitched their ideas to the foundation and integrated them.

It was a huge project which was supposed to take a minimum of two months to complete, for a normal construction crew at least.

That was because every part of the design, measurement ratio, and safety measures had to be done step-by-step.

It was both time and energy-consuming.

However, to the Anderson Corporation crew, a complicated project like that...

It was nothing but a piece of cake.

Everyone was working happily while they were renovating the mansion. It felt like Tony was taking them on a holiday over there.

Their productivity had also increased because they were in a good working environment.

They knew that it was just a project to build a research lab.

If Sean was the person who took over this project, they would be terrified!

Not only would his requirements be extreme, but he would also give them a short amount of time.

Under the pressure of multiple contracts and workload, the crew had already mastered their skills and performance, which was beyond an ordinary construction crew's ability.

That was why Molly was astonished when she was notified that the construction was done in two days.

'The workaholic and his team...

'They're all... crazy.' However, it cannot be denied that they were outstanding workers.

'Being a manager of a research lab seems like a tough job.' Molly thought as she promised herself to make Sean proud.

When she got the notice, she immediately went to the research lab and took a tour.

All the equipment that she ordered previously was delivered and placed in the location she wanted.

The lab had everything it needed now, so it could start operating at anytime.

Next, it was time to get somebody to get the lab running.

Molly gave a call to her first candidate, Caitlyn, to ask her to join the lab. As expected, Caitlyn agreed right away.

'Two people aren't enough...' Molly looked at the serene and spacious surroundings and fell into her thoughts after hanging up.

Suddenly, she thought of her friend whom she had worked with when she was aboard.

So, she went through her contact and gave that person an overseas call.

Then, they talked for a while.

"Sure. Just send me an e-mail if you're interested," Molly said before ending the phone call.

The person who was on the call with Molly told everyone at work that Dr. Joye launched a research lab, and all of them wanted to join the team. So, they started drafting their emails.

Joye had made a very good reputation for herself with her outstanding medical skills when she was abroad.

They even found it to be an honor to be invited by Joye.

In the morning.

Caitlyn switched on her GPS and entered the address Molly gave her. Then, she drove there excitedly.

Molly was standing by the window in her office when she saw a familiar car and Caitlyn's striking blonde hair.

“She’s here already?”

She lifted her brows and went downstairs to welcome Caitlyn.

They talked briefly with each other, and they went into working mode right away.

A new research laboratory had to have its database for the convenience of internal uses.

So, Molly started to collect the data for Caitlyn to import them into the system.

Other than that, there were other things to be done. They kept themselves busy for a few days there, and they also welcomed several colleagues that they had worked with overseas previously one after another.

Chapter 575-They knew each other, so they got along well in a short time.

Naturally, Sharon would not disappoint Alice, so she went to the research lab.

“Ms. May.”

Sharon called out to her when opened the door and bumped into Molly, who was just heading upstairs.

Before Molly turned to her, Sharon looked around and could not hide the shock on her face.

‘As expected, Sean’s research lab is incomparable...’ When Molly walked toward her, she quickly looked back at Molly calmly.

However, her hands were clenched into fists under her sleeves.

‘All of this belonged to this woman.’ Molly noticed the envious look on Sharon’s face and calmly said, “You’re here, Ms. Newman.

“According to the procedure, you can only work here after you passed the test.

“If you have no objection to that, shall we head upstairs for a chat? II Then, Molly looked back at her team members who were waiting for her at the stairway.

Sharon followed her gaze and smiled at them. “Yeah, I’m good.” Molly took the lead and walked upstairs. She then pulled out a test that she prepared and handed it to Sharon.

She had spent a lot of effort picking out the questions. So, the people who passed would be of a higher standard with the eligibility to work in the research lab.

“Decipher the ingredients of this medicine in 24 hours.”

She said while staring at Sharon, who was busy looking at the test question.

There were a few candidates who passed, so they were already working in a field that they were familiar with.

Sharon looked down and frowned as her fingers gripped the paper hard.

Finally, she could not help but ask Molly, “Isn’t this a little too hard?”

It was not like Sharon was inexperienced, but the test needed vast medical knowledge and even required her to spell everything out!

It was impossible to finish it in 24 hours!

“Did the others get this question too?”

'She's not picking on me, right?' Molly's expression darkened as she coldly responded, "Among the staff here, the fastest one took only 12 hours to finish it. If you don't believe me, you can go over there and ask them yourself."

If I was that bothered about her joining the research lab to the point where I have to pick on her, 'Why wouldn't I just get Sean to reject her?

'Why would I still let her come over and annoy me?' Molly thought.

Molly would never play dirty in work-related things, she had always been righteous and professional.

The more Molly thought about it, the angrier she got.

"The question is the same for everyone," Molly emphasized and continued, "I'm nice enough to give you 24 hours. If you can't do it, it only means that you're incapable and have no qualification to join our team."

Molly did not sugarcoat things and spoke with a cold expression.

Sharon's cheek turned red as she was embarrassed. Being lectured in such a blatant manner was making her extremely upset.

Besides, there were people who were staring at them from time to time.

She was worried that they might hear what Molly said, so she started to look anxious and helpless.

"Alright, I'll solve it," Sharon said through her gritted teeth as she forced herself to meet Molly's cold eyes.

'She's obviously trying to make things harder for me, so I couldn't work here! What is she yapping on about?!

Chapter 576-Forget it, it's not like I can't solve it. I just have to be faster.

'Then, I'll slowly win everyone over. Molly would be nothing by then!

'How dare she said I'm not qualified to work here?! I'll show this b* tch!' Sharon thought.

Molly nodded and casually said, "Remember to submit it on time."

She turned and left right after, walking back to her office.

Sharon stared at the door that was closed and let out a long sigh before glaring at it.

'Ugh! She gets on my nerves!' she cursed in her head.

'She thinks she's all that! Does she think she's great just because she knows a lot about medicine?

'She acts like she's the one who established this research lab! If it wasn't for Sean, you would be nothing!' Sharon stomped angrily, and she went to the examination room to start solving the question.

At night, Sean came over to take Molly home.

Molly sat in the car and immediately told him about Sharon applying for the job and accepting the test.

"Okay," Sean answered. "I assigned you as the director of the research lab, which means you have the biggest say. You're the person in charge, so everything is under your control."

They were out of the hills. The streetlights by the road shone brightly, making everything clear.

Sean was sitting calmly in the backseat as he looked at the scenery outside, where the dark clouds balled up together in the sky.

“Even if she passed, she’ll still be under your control,” Sean said flatly and shrugged before looking at Molly, who was next to him.

Molly met his gaze, and she stared into his beautiful eyes as she chuckled.

“Alright, got it,” she answered softly.

Sean looked straight ahead after Molly responded, “Remember to come to me when you can’t handle it yourself.”

Sean believed that even if Sharon had no ill intentions, she would still act unruly as long as his mother was with her.

He still did not agree to let Sharon join the research institute. But now, there was nothing he could do anymore.

The next day.

The 24-hour time limit was almost up.

Molly looked up and looked at the bottom right corner of her computer screen.

Her desk was full of documents and she was reorganizing everything.

It had to be said – a good working environment will boost the productivity of a person.

Sean picked out and renovated this office for her, which had a simple yet sophisticated design. The color scheme of the office was really soothing as well.

After two minutes, someone knocked on the door, but the person barged in without waiting for Molly to let her in.

Sharon held a pile of data in her hand and walked toward Molly. From the tired look on her face, it seemed like she had never stopped working on the test.

Without uttering a word, she placed the booklet on Molly's desk with a displeased expression.

'I couldn't sleep because of this damn question!' Molly did not say anything as well, she did not bother to be courteous toward Sharon, so she just started examining her answer.

She scanned through everything and arched her brow. "You've only managed to analyze 60% of it, which means you barely passed."

'Turns out, she's worse than I thought.' Molly closed the booklet and casually placed it aside, she looked up and flatly said, "You are acceptable." 1 Sharon's darkened expression immediately lit up once more. A look of disbelief flashed on her face as she stared at Molly.

She did not expect Molly to agree to her joining the research lab

Chapter 577-She felt more and more like Molly was targeting her as she tackled the test because the material needed in the exam questions was far more than the very first glance.

Sharon was going crazy as she worked all night to collect the data. She wondered when she started having to put up with all this crap.

It was obvious that it was Molly's trick to prevent her from joining the research laboratory.

When Alice or Sean asked again, Molly could shift the blame on her, saying that she was useless, not qualified, and could not enter the research laboratory.

When Sharon was doing the data analysis, she wished she could tear that test paper into pieces. But, her sanity still got the better of her, or maybe she was holding back her anger, defending her haughty self-esteem, and wanted to challenge Molly, she would not admit defeat easily. It was with this thought in mind that she could hold on to her sanity.

Besides, on the way over just now, she felt that the answer was inadequate, but she was running out of time. Molly would then have a reason to eliminate her.

she would not let that happen.¹ Don't think that's going to make me leave. Don't even think about it.' So, Sharon, who was standing in Molly's office, was in disbelief when she heard Molly agree to it.

She took a moment to calm the emotions swirling inside her and then looked at Molly. "So, when do I officially start working?" "The day after tomorrow, at eight in the morning." Molly was leaning in the chair with a faint look in her eyes.

"By the way, you have passed the assessment, but the next few days are still a probationary period. Only after the probationary period will you officially be admitted and enjoy the official work benefits, salary package, leaves, and so on.

Go to the HR department later to register your information and finish the formalities. Also, clocking in and out of the office is by face recognition, so you need to go through the process and sign an agreement. After that, someone there will explain the rules.

Remember to comply with all of them. The violation of these terms will be deemed slacking at work and will result in suspension.

Ignore the rules at your own risk."

She paused for a moment, trying to pre-empt trouble and prevent Sharon from creating problems in her territory, even with Sean's mother behind her. With that, Molly asked, "Is there anything else you want to ask?"

The analysis was only a passing grade, but all together, it showed that Sharon had some skills. She, at last, had the qualification to stay.

“No.”

Molly looked at her, who left like a bat out of hell, she figured that Sharon was probably going home to get some sleep.

She put a hand to her chin, as she gathered her thoughts. ‘Which department should I put Sharon in?’ she also needed to consider Mrs. Anderson and not leave Sharon here with nothing to do to pass the time. After thinking for a while, she finally decided on the position and informed the HR department of her decision.

Two days later, Sharon came back to the research laboratory in a completely different state of mind.

She could even imagine a happy ending where she got closer to Sean and squeezed out Molly. But, as soon as she sat down at her post, she started to look a little at a loss, as all the people who came and went seemed to know each other. After watching it all morning, she could not help but feel alone.

Meanwhile, Molly, who was working in the office, never felt that way. Not only did it not feel unfamiliar, but she felt extremely at home because they had all worked together before. Everyone somewhat knew each other, which reduced the break-in period.

Chapter 578-Molly was also clear that her team was mature. There are many things that they could handle without any instructions, and they worked together quite well.

On the other hand, Sharon was a newcomer, both physically and mentally, so she could only watch those people gather and discuss in the conference room, since the conference room was soundproof, she could not hear anything outside, she had poked many holes in the paper in her hand, ‘why is Molly just leaving it all to the foreigners? why am I left sitting idly by and doing nothing here?’ Sharon sat in her seat and was disgruntled, she picked up a pen and started poking at the paper hard. ‘I’m assigned to this job, yet I have no access to the core responsibilities. Do I look like I’m short of a few thousand dollars in my salary?’ STAB! STAB! STAB!

The movement of her hands was making a noise. Soon, she crumpled the paper into a ball and threw it into the trash with indignation.

Molly did not expect this aspect of collegiality when she assigned the position to Sharon. Perhaps it was because of Alice that Sharon subconsciously thought that she was here for Sean alone. But, Sharon was responsible for drug analysis and data recording, which were essential jobs. It was just that the research laboratory had just been set up, and there were few projects on hand.

Molly was not in a hurry to find work for everyone, so many things had not really been decided yet. she needed a transition period to bring the research laboratory to the state it should be in. she was also trying to give some time for everyone to get into that state slowly. As a result, Sharon was sitting idly by and felt like she had nothing to do. Besides, she was used to getting privileged treatment. Now that she had landed in this position, it made her feel like an office girl. The dissatisfaction started to build up, and at the end of the day, when she saw Molly emerge from her office, she instantly exploded, getting up to her feet to stop Molly.

"If you have something against me, just say so. why are you insulting me like this?" Sharon questioned Molly bluntly as though she had suffered a great deal of mistreatment. "I worked so hard to join the research laboratory, just to be an office girl?"

'What's going on here?' Molly looked at Sharon, who suddenly came up to her and complained about this and that. She frowned, feeling incredulous, and asked Sharon rhetorically, "Do you have some misconceptions about being an office girl?"

Sharon was raising her eyebrows, and her emotion was about to flare up when she was interrupted.

"You just joined the research laboratory. You taking charge of the current work means that you have been fast-tracked to the position." Molly looked at Sharon icily and was displeased to see her shameless face. "If you're really an office girl, then you would have helped with serving coffee and running errands, not looking at data, let alone recording data."

Sharon's voice was loud just now. So, she instantly attracted attention, and people gathered around.

Seeing that she was happy with her current position, everyone felt that her reaction was reasonable and fair in the workplace. But, once they heard Molly say that Sharon's job was to record data, their expression changed instantly. Many of them had come in through the test. For more important tasks, Molly had only given it to Sharon. It was all for Sean and his mother's sake, but they did not expect Sharon to be so ungrateful.

"If you're not happy with the job, then you may find another job," Molly said.

When the rest of the people heard this, they looked at Sharon, who had been given important responsibilities yet still complained about it, with discontent.

On the other hand, Sharon went home with resentment and indignation written all over her face, she opened the door with force and then slammed it shut with a loud bang behind her. She then threw the car key into the cabinet in the foyer with a loud sound.

"What's wrong? Why do you look so angry? Who has upset you?" Sharon's father and mother were watching TV in the living room when they heard the noises.

Sharon threw herself onto the couch with a darkened face.

"Didn't you go to work today at the research laboratory of Anderson Corporation? What's wrong?"

Her mother asked when she saw Sharon in a dark mood, she had always favored this daughter of hers.

"What research laboratory of Anderson Corporation? They should just rename it the research laboratory of May Group." Sharon sounded pissed. Thinking about today's clash with Molly, she confided it frankly in front of her parents. "Look, isn't she abusing her authority? Isn't she afraid that I will get close to Sean?"

Anger flared again as she talked about what had happened.

Her mother sighed, looked at Sharon, and shook her head. Seeing that her daughter was still too immature in dealing with a situation like this, she sat down beside Sharon and coached her. "You're making a fool of yourself. You should have tried to confront her in this kind of situation. Like you said, Sean is defending Molly in the research lab, so you shouldn't have fought her openly."

Sharon heard what her mother said and felt that there was some truth to it. "So, what should I do?"

“Find someone who’s on your side, of course, like Mrs. Anderson.”

Her mother had experienced this kind of situation more than Sharon had.

“Between you and Molly, Mrs. Anderson obviously favors you. So, what you have to do is to let her know subtly, little by little, how arrogant Molly is in the research laboratory to weaken Molly’s image in Mrs. Anderson’s mind. Isn’t that much more useful than a direct confrontation in the research laboratory? It Thinking about it, Sharon felt that her mother had a point, she realized that she had failed to keep her cool today. “I got it now. I know what to do next time.” she nodded, grabbed her handbag, and walked thoughtfully upstairs, she was now thinking of how she could turn the tables around and machinate against Molly.

‘You want to marry into the Anderson family, don’t you? I’d love to see how you’re going to do it when the Anderson family despises you. How are you going to stay by Sean’s side by the time the Anderson family steps in?’ With a plan in mind, Sharon made up her mind and contacted Alice.

They started with a casual conversation, but under Sharon’s deliberate lead, their conversation shifted to the research laboratory.

“You reported to the research laboratory. So, how are things going? Are you used to working there?”

As Sharon had expected, Alice asked about her work in the research laboratory.

Sharon said to Alice with a smile on her lips. “How could I not get used to it when Mr. Anderson said that he doesn’t care about the research laboratory and that Dr. May is in charge of all the matters?

So, I’ve just been assigned to keep track of some things that don’t matter, and I don’t have to be involved in the research. You don’t know how free I am, right now.”

👤👤👤👤 Commen

“Who in this room isn’t a graduate of the world’s most prestigious universities? Does she think she is the only one who is the grandest?”

“She really thinks she’s a princess, what a complete, egotistical brat.”

The voices around got louder.

When confronted with Molly’s attitude, Sharon felt more and more like Molly was machinating against her.

“What’s going on? why are you all gathering around here?” Sean had just finished his work at his company and stopped by to pick up Molly. He saw a group of people gathered together as soon as he entered the research laboratory.

When Sharon saw Sean, it was as if she saw a savior. Her eyes were glinting, and she quickly spoke to Sean.

“Mr. Anderson, you came right on time. I was accepted into the research laboratory through the regular procedure. If Dr. May doesn’t like me, she can just tell me, why put me in a dispensable position? I joined the research lab because I want to make a difference, not waste my time here. I hope Mr.

Anderson can help reason this out.”

Sharon looked at those who were talking about her just now as if Sean’s presence would give her some fair treatment. But, she did not expect that Sean would not get involved in the research laboratory’s affair.

“Dr. May makes all the decisions in the research laboratory. She is the head of the research laboratory, and you are to follow her instruction. If you’re not happy with the rules of the research laboratory, you can resign and leave. No one will be forced to stay.” Sean did not even ask Molly a question as he spoke directly to Sharon coldly.

Sharon's expression froze, as she did not expect that Sean would defend Molly so much. 'The entire research laboratory is at Molly's disposal. Do I still have a place here?' she was upset, but she did not dare to take it out in front of Sean.

While she was silent, she heard Sean's frosty voice asking her again.

"Do you have any more things to say?"

Sharon looked at the straight-faced Molly and pursed her lips. Then, she responded without any expression on her face. "No. Since Dr. May thinks it is reasonable, I will cooperate."

The hands hanging behind her were clenched together. She decided she would put up with it for now.

When the others saw that there was nothing else, they dispersed and went about their business.

Molly looked at the time, and it was time to leave work. She went to her desk and packed up, then followed Sean out.

"If Sharon's presence is a problem, you can just fire her. Don't trouble yourself."

Molly heard Sean say as soon as she got into the car.

Molly smiled. "You don't really give a damn, do you? She is, at least, someone whom your mother has recommended. You have got to give her some face." By that, she meant she would not fire Sharon so soon and so easily. After all, she knew how nasty Mrs. Anderson was. Firing Sharon was easy, but Molly did not make Mrs. Anderson think that this was a means of her trying to have her son all to herself. The smile on Molly's face grew broader as she thought about it.

But, Sean did not think so. He did not think as much as Molly did.

"The research laboratory was created because of you. You are the head of it, and I care about your feelings." His direct words felt like a drop of water falling into Molly's heart, creating ripples of warmth inside her.

Chapter 580

n the other hand, Sharon went home with resentment and indignation written all over her face, she opened the door with force and then slammed it shut with a loud bang behind her. she then threw the car key into the cabinet in the foyer with a loud sound.

"What's wrong? Why do you look so angry? who has upset you?" Sharon's father and mother were watching TV in the living room when they heard the noises.

Sharon threw herself onto the couch with a darkened face.

"Didn't you go to work today at the research laboratory of Anderson Corporation? What's wrong?"

her mother asked when she saw Sharon in a dark mood, she had always favored this daughter of hers.

"What research laboratory of Anderson Corporation? They should just rename it the research laboratory of May Group." Sharon sounded pissed. Thinking about today's clash with Molly, she confided it frankly in front of her parents. "Look, isn't she abusing her authority? Isn't she afraid that I will get close to Sean?"

Anger flared again as she talked about what had happened.

Her mother sighed, looked at Sharon, and shook her head. Seeing that her daughter was still too immature in dealing with a situation like this, she sat down beside Sharon and coached her. "You're making a fool of yourself. You should have tried to confront her in this kind of situation. Like you said, Sean is defending Molly in the research lab, so you shouldn't have fought her openly."

Sharon heard what her mother said and felt that there was some truth to it. "So, what should I do?"

"Find someone who's on your side, of course, like Mrs. Anderson."

Her mother had experienced this kind of situation more than Sharon had.

“Between you and Molly, Mrs. Anderson obviously favors you. So, what you have to do is to let her know subtly, little by little, how arrogant Molly is in the research laboratory to weaken Molly’s image in Mrs. Anderson’s mind. Isn’t that much more useful than a direct confrontation in the research laboratory? It Thinking about it, Sharon felt that her mother had a point, she realized that she had failed to keep her cool today. “I got it now. I know what to do next time.” she nodded, grabbed her handbag, and walked thoughtfully upstairs, she was now thinking of how she could turn the tables around and machinate against Molly.

‘You want to marry into the Anderson family, don’t you? I’d love to see how you’re going to do it when the Anderson family despises you. How are you going to stay by Sean’s side by the time the Anderson family steps in?’ With a plan in mind, Sharon made up her mind and contacted Alice.

They started with a casual conversation, but under Sharon’s deliberate lead, their conversation shifted to the research laboratory.

“You reported to the research laboratory. So, how are things going? Are you used to working there?”

As Sharon had expected, Alice asked about her work in the research laboratory.

Sharon said to Alice with a smile on her lips. “How could I not get used to it when Mr. Anderson said that he doesn’t care about the research laboratory and that Dr. May is in charge of all the matters?

So, I’ve just been assigned to keep track of some things that don’t matter, and I don’t have to be involved in the research. You don’t know how free I am, right now.”
