

Finding Her True Alpha Epilogue

Ashlyn

x Months

Soon after the meeting with the Wolf council, I found out I have about five more weeks to go and is driving Brandon crazy. Pregnancy hormones, anyway.

Things are going on around more and I think it's driving Sage even more crazy, which is driving Brandon crazy. Poor Nathan had to step in to help Sage with their mother. Our house has been crazy these last few months with the hybrids finding their mates and some leaving. Both Liam and Matt have claimed their mates and are both hoping to start a family soon.

It's going to be a long time. And now that Donny is here, I'll be taking some time off. For more free novels, visit Jobnib.com

Things are happening to me or our babies. They have been very over-protective, but they are getting better. I know they just want to keep me safe and I've been picking my battles with them. It's sweet, but can be overbearing at times.

She looks so adorable in her uniform and she has made some wonderful friends.

but everyone seems to accept us. It might help, since the new vampire king is mated to a hybrid, and they are doing wonderful things over there. I've even had to visit a few times to bless couples with a mate bond. Over the last six months, I've blessed over a thousand couples and talking to them, it's always the most wonderful love stories. They had each other ne so they can take a few weeks off to help me with Donny, but I have Gabby and she loves helping with her brothers. And I have Sage. She may be a little crazy, but she loves her niece and nephews. And Liam and Matt are still on protection duty. Their mates help out around here and they are a great help to me with th at friends and I'm happy to see Matt and Liam happy.

e as well. So, this coming summer, I'll officially be made Queen as all the kingdoms have submitted to me.

ey called after I had Donny to make sure we were both okay. And they were both emotional about me naming him mate, but I don't think he's really looking for one. Sage informed me he was still a virgin and waiting for his mate, which is just the sweetest thing. Nathan and I have become super close, and he's here whenever he has time. Sage has made it her mission to set him up but, Nathan is in no rush. And he is so wonderful with his niece and nephews. He's goi of their packs together. They even started building a new bigger pack house on the land that was in between their packs.

abies before everyone visited. She also told me that she hasn't had a heat yet, but was excited about having a baby. She is going to be a wonderful mother.

how a year has truly change

, three babies, and a castle. To think that a year ago, I thought I was just a wolf, hoping that Ian was my mate. Now I'm a witch dragon, and soon to be th Derek, and our kids are my life, and I will always put them first. There's no more running into danger for me.

always be some heated conversations because we are three different people, but at the end of the day, we work as one. One family forever.

Mason

my entire world. Life had finally calmed down after that first council meeting. After that, I finally felt like we were a true family. We work as a unit, discussing everything with one another. And Ashlyn hadn't run into any danger, not that there was any. Everything seemed to fall into place.

r family.

f for the last month getting ready for our son, who she named Donny. Derek and I both loved the name for him and we both understood why she picked it. He was a mini version of his brother and I'm sure he'll grow up to be a monster, just like his older brother. James isn't even a year old yet, but he can walk and gets into everything. Nothing is safe with him and we had to wait to get Gabby her cat because I was afraid she was so smart and witty; she was going to make an excellent queen when Ashlyn stepped down.

and he sighed.

holding our baby," Derek said, and I was reading a story to him.

"So lucky?" Derek asked me and I told him.

She didn't understand, she proved herself every step of the way. Ashlyn still rose and did what she had to do. She cares for her pack like a true alpha should, and she was ours. The mother of our babies, the lead belonged to Ashlyn. Gabby looked scared as she looked up at Ashlyn.

he couch, pulling Gabby closer to her. I noticed Gabby's eyes flicker, and Ashlyn let out a gasp and whispered.