

The Three Little Guardian Angels Chapter 2489

Chapter 2489

'Yanis Tech is a company that I founded rather recently. Once we get the royal family's support, the company won't even need to actively look for business partners at all. Countless partners will definitely take the initiative to come to us, proposing collaborations in all aspects.'

Hedeon was puzzled. "Then..."

Nollace put his teacup down. "We're not in a hurry to find a business partner right now. What we need now is technical personnel. As for the companies that want to work with us, just come up with some excuses and decline their proposals."

Hedeon was stunned for a moment, but he could only nod at the end of the day. "Okay."

At the same time, all news channels, newspapers, and magazines were still reporting Diana's preparation for the coronation.

The students of the film college had all been talking about the royal family recently. At that moment, Freyja passed by in the corridor, and several students glanced at her as they whispered to each other.

"If I'm not mistaken, she seems to be related to the royal family. I heard that King William had prepared two wills before his death, and one is probably hers."

"Her grandmother was only King William's mistress back then, so the power of the royal family has nothing to do with her. So, why would the king leave her anything?"

"Yeah, the heir of the Knowles is now the prince, and Mrs. Knowles is the only person who's a legitimate descendant of King William's bloodline. She'll be crowned as the queen in three days. So, as someone from the Pruitts, she shouldn't have much to do with the royal family now."

Freyja was just about to go upstairs when she heard Leia calling her. She then turned her head around and saw Leia.

Leia walked toward her. "I heard that you've applied for a leave of absence. Are you okay?"

Freyja shook her head. "I'm fine."

Leia wrapped her arm around her and went upstairs with her. "There's no need to care about the rumors that have been spreading around campus these few days. That's just so them. They just can't stop gossiping about others behind their backs."

Freyja gave off a smile. "I don't care about them."

It was not that she had not been in such situations.

"However, don't you feel bad for yourself?" Leia asked all of a sudden.

Freyja was startled. "Bad?"

"Although your mother is just the daughter of a mistress, you're still King William's grand daughter. Even if the succession of the throne has nothing to do with you, the king should at least give you something to make up for it, right?"

In the eyes of the others, Freyja was in an awkward position now.

She was related to the royal family, but her blood was not pure, as she was the descendant of the king's mistress.

Nollace was now the prince of Yaramoor, his mother was going to inherit the throne, and his father would become the consort. As for Freyja, she was at most a close relative of the royal family and had not received a reward, not even a penny.

Freyja laughed out loud. "Do you really believe in those rumors?"

"It's not that I believe them. It's just that the rumors are spreading like wildfire now. If they're true, it's not fair to you."

Freyja stopped, turned around, and looked at Leia. "It doesn't matter to me whether my grandfather has left me something or not because I've never admitted that I'm related to the royal family either.

"I know that my grandmother was a mistress. She was just a lover who couldn't even be talked about. Although I don't have the ambition that my mother had, I don't want to be in power, and I don't want to have anything to do with the royal family, I know very well that what I want has nothing to do with status and power."

'If what I wanted were status and power, I could've relied on my grandfather's guilt toward me and used it to ask for heaps of benefits. I could enjoy all the benefits with peace of mind without caring about the criticism coming from the world.

'But I don't want to do so. Because even if I get my hands on something that doesn't belong to me, it won't be justifiable.'

Leia laughed. "Freyja, you're truly the most determined person I've ever met. After all, not everyone can remain cool when the temptation is that big. Shannon is a great example."

When she first got to know Shannon, the latter was not a vain person, but she seemed to have changed ever since she dated some rich men and got a taste of the benefits that she could obtain from those men.

There were too few people who would say no to wealth and power.

At that moment, Shannon was standing not far away. Seeing that Leia and Freyja were getting closer by the day, she felt irked.

Leia had always been obedient to her before this. She always thought that no matter what she did, Leia would never cut off her connection with herself.

'It's all because of that b*tch. Freyja Pruitt, just wait. I'll personally give you hell when the time comes.'

At noon, when Freyja was leaving the college, Shannon suddenly stopped her and caught up to her very anxiously. "Freyja, something happened to Leia!"

Freyja frowned. "What happened?"

She gasped for air and elaborated, "I was looking for her just now, but I saw her being harassed by several men in the parking lot."

Although Freyja had doubts, Leia's safety was at stake, so she went with Shannon.

However, the parking lot was empty.

As soon as Freyja turned around, her eyes got sprayed with a can of aerosol. She took two steps backward instantly, and two men appeared out of nowhere from behind her, covered her mouth, and knocked her out.

Seeing Freyja being taken into a van, Shannon threw the aerosol can into the garbage bin with a smirk on her face.

When Colton returned to the villa, Brandon saw that he was alone and asked, "Didn't Fey come home with you?"

Colton frowned. "She hasn't come back?"

"No. Normally, she should've come back at this point. Could it be that she's gone out with her classmates?"

Colton did not say anything, took out his cell phone, and called Freyja, but her cell phone had been turned off.

Based on what he knew about her, she would never turn off her phone.

Thinking of this, Colton felt uneasy. He then turned around and left immediately.

He drove to the college and just so happened to run into Leia. He got out of the car and stopped her.

Leia was astonished for a moment but then walked toward him. "Mr. Goldmann?"

"Where's Freyja?"

"Freyja left the college at noon. What's wrong? Did something happen?"

Seeing that his expression looked extremely distressed, Leia started to feel that something was wrong too.

Colton calmed himself down and asked, "Where's the college's surveillance or security room?"

Leia brought Colton to the surveillance room. Originally, the security guards did not allow them to go through the footage, but as soon as Leia told them that a classmate of hers had disappeared from campus, the guards were worried that something might have happened, so they looked into the footage. The surveillance showed that Freyja had indeed left the college, but after a while, a woman led Freyja away from the campus' gate.

Although the footage only captured the woman's back, Leia recognized it at first glance and covered her mouth in shock. "Shannon?"

At the same time, Freyja woke up, found herself tied to a bed, and took a good look around the room.

It looked like one of the bedrooms of a villa, and there was a video camera being clamped at the end of the bed.

The door was pushed open at that moment, and Shannon walked in with her boyfriend and two other men. Shannon wrapped her arm around her boyfriend's. "Why wake up so soon? The climax of the show hasn't even started yet."

Freyja's expression dimmed in an instant. "You lied to me?"

"It actually took you so long to realize that I lied to you? How can you be so dumb that you would believe that something had happened to Leia?"

A hint of undisguised disgust beamed from the bottom of Shannon's eyes. "Freyja Pruitt, you're the exact reason Leia severed her friendship with me and why our classmates alienated me. If your so-called husband didn't show up that day, no one would have spoiled the fun that they were having."

Only then did Freyja notice that the two men who came in with the couple were the two men who had harassed her classmates at the party.

Shannon's boyfriend hugged her. "Sweetheart, so what do you plan to do to her?"

Shannon snuggled into his arms. "She deliberately disrupted the party and upset your friends that day. So why not give her a chance to make up for it? Your friends can do whatever they want."
