

The Three Little Guardian Angels Chapter 2671 - 2677

Chapter 2671

Morrison smiled widely. "Madam Sadusky, you know that he didn't stand you up on purpose. He really wanted to borrow the wedding gown from you."

Hera looked up and adjusted her glasses. "He can come and get it. Why are you here?"

"I did it for him. He will only be able to come and see you after half a month, and then it will be the wedding. If you can't lend it, he won't be able to explain it to his wife."

Morrison sighed. "He almost lost his life because of this wedding dress."

"Do you think that's my fault?"

"No, I wouldn't..." Morrison walked to her. "Madam Sadusky, why don't you lend it to him? He really wants to borrow it. Even if it's just for half a day."

Hera arranged the dried flowers, placed them in the vase, and walked to the cupboard with the bottle. "I'll see him the day before his wedding."

Morrison didn't know if this meant she agreed to it. He explained to Waylon, who smiled. "Thank you anyway."

"Thank me? She didn't say if she would lend it."

Waylon placed down his magazine. "What she meant was she would deliver it herself. What do you think she meant by seeing me the day before the wedding?"

Morrison was surprised. "That meant she agreed?"

He smiled and leaned back into his bed. "You made it sound like I'm in a terrible state, so I guess she's feeling sorry for me."

Damon and Colton came back. Jamie was already locked up and was thought to be the main suspect in a manslaughter case. All his appeals were rejected.

Waylon rested for a week until he got a new SIM card. He found Cameron's number and dialed it.

Cameron was awakened by her phone and picked it up without checking who it was. "Hello."

"It's me, Cam."

Hearing that voice, Cameron immediately sat up. "Wayne?"

Waylon gently said, "I'm sorry for calling you back after so long and making you worry."

Cameron bit her lips. "You knew that I was worried. Wayne, a-are you alright?"

He smiled. "Yes, I'm almost fully recovered."

"Wayne..." She lay back in bed and stared at the ceiling. "The room feels so empty without you around."

Even my food doesn't taste as good. I even dreamed of you. Am I sick? I'm very sick."

After a long silence, there was a chuckle. "You're terribly sick, just like me. Lovesick."

Cameron chuckled. "I guess there's no cure for that."

He smiled. "I've never thought of getting better. Cam, I'll be back soon."

She replied. "Alright."

He waited for Cameron to hang up. After she did, she turned around and smiled and hugged her blanket. Hearing his voice was good enough.

Meanwhile, Colton went to visit Waylon and saw that he was recovering well and was already out of bed. He was happy. "Are you completely alright now?"

Waylon, who was standing on the balcony, turned around and smiled. "Yes. I'll be discharged after a week."

Colton walked over and stood next to him. "If anything happened to you, that man wouldn't even be able to make things right even if he lost his life."

Waylon looked at him. "Thanks to you and Dad."

Colton looked at him. "We're a family, brothers. There's no need to be so courteous."

After hearing that, Waylon chuckled and placed his hand on his shoulder. "Sure. By the way, where's Dad?"

Chapter 2672

"Dad went to the De Armas."

Meanwhile, at the De Arma mansion...

Nolan and Louis were chatting in the living room. When Louis found out about Waylon's accident, he asked, "How is he?"

"After a week of resting, he's almost fully recovered. He'll be discharged next week."

Louis picked up his teacup. "Next week? But I heard that his wedding was on the 9th?"

Nolan raised his brows. "What can we do? We delayed it to the middle of the month. Valentine's Day is a good day for a wedding too, right?"

Louis paused, then chuckled and slowly sipped the tea. "That's true. February 14th is a good day."

"Who's having a wedding on Valentine's Day? Wayne?" Ryleigh walked in with some pastries.

Louis smiled. "Who else other than your godson?"

"That's nice." She placed the dishes on the table. "We're going back during that time. We can't miss his wedding."

One week later...

Waylon returned to Bassburgh with Colton after getting discharged from the hospital.

Cameron, Maisie, and Freyja were all at the airport, waiting for them.

When Cameron saw him, she ran over and hugged him. He hugged her back. "I'm back."

Cameron buried her face in his shoulder and chuckled. "I know."

Nolan looked at Maisie. "I didn't break my promise. Both our sons are back safe."

Maisie smiled and adjusted his coat. "Yes, thank you."

After that, she looked over to the others. "Let's go home."

Waylon held Cameron's hand and led her to the car, followed by Freyja and Colton.

Nicholas was already waiting at home for them. When they were back, he smiled and said, "You're all home."

Nolan walked over with Maisie. "Aren't you at our old mansion?"

"You told me that Wayne was in an accident, so I came back." He then looked at Waylon. "I'm glad you're fine. I was really worried."

Waylon looked down. "I'm sorry for making everyone worry."

Nicholas smiled at them. "Alright, let's go in."

They were all finally together.

At the dining table, Nicholas looked at them and was overcome by emotions. "Time flies. Coleman has a daughter now, and Wayne is getting married. Our family would be complete if Daisy was here too."

Nolan spoke. "Don't worry, Daisy will definitely attend the wedding."

Nicholas smiled. "Your mom would be happy if she could see this."

Maisie and Nolan looked at each other and smiled. She picked up the wine glass. "To Wayne's health and safe return."

Everyone raised their glasses too. The living room was filled with chatter and laughter.

The day before the wedding, the wedding planners arrived early to start decorating the place. The wedding was held in the Crystal Ballroom of a world-renowned hotel.

Since the layout of the area was relatively large, it took the staff a day to decorate it.

Waylon brought Cameron over to see the place. She was shocked when she walked in.

The ceiling was decorated like the starry night sky with twinkling stars. There was an ice sculpture castle, a crystal carriage, and edelweiss ice sculptures that were all luxurious and dreamy, like a secret land of ice and snow in fairy tales.

She walked under the starry sky, then turned to look at Waylon. "This is absolutely breathtaking." Waylon walked toward her. "Do you like it?"

Chapter 2673

"I love it. I feel like I'm standing under the night sky as if I can touch it if I raise my hands." She raised her hand, trying to touch them.

She remembered something and turned around. "This must have cost a fortune."

Waylon walked next to her and stopped. "It doesn't matter as long as it makes you happy."

"We only have one wedding. My dad will say that I'm wasting money if he finds out."

Waylon smiled and pulled her into his arms. "If he finds out that I spent money to borrow a wedding dress, will he probably pass out?"

Cameron had nothing to say.

Waylon touched her hair. "We only get married once in our lives. I don't want to leave anything out." The wedding design director walked over and asked, "Are you happy with the decor?"

Waylon looked at Cameron. "Thank you. My wife is very happy about it."

The design director said, "It's nothing. We're doing what we're supposed to. We want every newlywed couple to enjoy the best effects. Your happiness is the best appreciation we can get."

Cameron asked, "You must have spent a lot of time on the night sky, haven't you?"

The director smiled. "We did, but we're happy that you're happy."

After she walked away, Waylon got a call from Hera.

He turned and said to Cameron. "Let's go see your wedding dress."

Hera checked into the hotel. When Waylon and Cameron arrived, Morrison met them and brought them to the guest area.

Waylon saw Hera, walked over, and gave her a hug. "I'm glad you came."

Hera smiled. "You almost lost your life for this, so I had to deliver it myself. I need to see which woman is lucky enough to have your heart."

After that, Hera looked at Cameron.

Waylon put his arm around her shoulder and introduced them. "This is my wife, Cameron Southern."

Cameron greeted her.

Hera nodded. "She's a beautiful woman."

Hera walked over and gave her a good look. "I was worried that we might need to alter the dress, but now

I don't have to worry anymore. Her height fits well."

She then asked Morrison to bring the dress over.

Morrison carried a big rectangle box over, and it looked heavy.

Hera asked him to open the box. A beautifully preserved white wedding dress was inside.

It was considered an antique because it was timeless, and the cutting and fabric captured that era well.

Antique wedding dresses were mostly made of natural materials, such as silk, silk satin, handmade lace, and cotton. These were what made a wedding dress an 'antique wedding dress'.

1/2

In particular, it managed to be preserved to the present time, intact as before, which was even rarer.

Hera tied her hair up with a hair tie and looked at Cameron. "Try it on."

Cameron was surprised, "Can I try it?"

"Of course. Let's try on the upper body." Hera walked into the changing room with the wedding dress, and Cameron followed.

In the changing room, Cameron changed into the antique wedding dress with the help of Hera. Cameron didn't dare move too much during the whole process because it was an antique.

Hera fastened the zipper for her. "I didn't expect it to fit quite well."

Chapter 2674

Cameron looked down at the dress. "It's unbelievable."

"Take a look."

Cameron walked to the mirror and saw herself in it. She looked as if she was from that era. She looked beautiful and elegant but still fit into the romantic fashion of the era.

Hera walked out of the changing room and said to Waylon, "Take a look at your bride."

Cameron turned around and was a little abashed when she saw Waylon outside. 2

Waylon looked at her and smiled. "You really are breathtaking."

All the newspapers in Bassburgh were talking about the wedding of Wayne Goldman, and since the wedding was open to the public, the media were allowed to attend it.

Daisie was heavily pregnant when she walked into the ballroom with Nollace. The reporters were there to interview them. They asked when she would be returning to acting, and she smiled and said, "I'm not in a hurry. After two years."

When she was asked if she was worried about losing her place in the industry, she smiled and joked. "My sister-in-law is a great screenwriter. Why would I be worried that I won't be able to get a role?"

There were a lot of guests there. Other than the Goldmans, the Bouchers, the Lucases, the Pruitts from Octavia, and the Southernns were there too.

When Sunny and Damian walked over with their entourage, Daisie greeted them. "Mr. Southern!"

"Oh, isn't this Daisie?" Sunny smiled. "I haven't seen you in a while, and you're almost a mother now. Good job, Knowles."

Nollace smiled too. "You're going to be a grandfather soon too."

Sunny couldn't stop smiling. "Yes, I am."

Nolan and Maisie walked over. "Sunny."

Sunny walked forward and shook hands with them. "Nolan, right? This is the first time we're meeting."

"That's right. You took good care of Wayne and Daisy at the East Islands, and I've always wanted to thank you for that."

"Oh, stop. The first time I saw Wayne, I already knew that he would be my son-in-law. Of course I would take care of him."

Nolan brought him and Damian to the VIP seats. When Sunny bumped into Nick there, he was surprised. "Nick?"

He got up and bowed. "Sir."

"You're here too." Sunny patted his shoulder. "I haven't seen you in years. Didn't expect to see you here."

Nick smiled.

Sunny tugged his arm. "Come, sit with me. I have much to talk to you about."

Daisy and Nollace took their seats. Ryleigh and Barbara both asked, "When are you due, Daisy?"

12

Daisy rubbed her belly. "Between the end of May or Mid-June."

"That's great. I guess you're like your mother. Triplets?"

Barbara smiled. "I bet they're twins."

Ryleigh took her bet. "Sure, I bet that they're triplets. If I win, you'll pay me. If you win, I'll pay you."

Barbara asked, "How much?"

"$200."

"Deal."

Daisy smiled awkwardly. She wanted to tell them the truth but didn't want to spoil it. She leaned in close to Nollace. "Is it terrible if I let my godmother lose?"

Nollace touched her hair. "Don't worry. My uncle has the money."

Daisy laughed.

Soon after that, Yerrick and Xyla showed up. Colton and Freyja took their seats with them.

"Coleman, when will your wedding with Freyja be held?"

Everyone looked toward them.

Colton said, "June."

Daisie was shocked. "If I give birth then, I will miss it!?"

Chapter 2675

Colton clicked his tongue. "I want you to miss it."

Daisie wasn't happy about it.

Nollace chimed in. "Don't worry. We'll just kick him out of our wedding."

Colton chuckled. "Do you think you can?"

Nollace smiled. "It's not the first day you met me."

Freyja was tired. "Are you kids?"

These two just had a problem with each other. Everyone else was laughing.

The wedding was about to begin when the lights dimmed. The night sky lit up.

The master of the ceremony walked out on stage and excitedly said a few words of congratulations. Next, the bride and groom were going to enter.

The crowd turned back to look and saw Mahina, the Maid of Honor, raising the veil with Morrison, the Best Man.

Cameron walked out, holding Waylon's hand. She had a bouquet in one hand and was holding Waylon with the other while they slowly walked in.

People started whispering.

"That dress looks so familiar!"

"Did the princess of Stoslo wear this during her wedding?"

"He really spared no expense to get the dress. The dress and the venue probably cost millions."

The two got to the master of ceremony, and the lights shone brightly around them.

The master of ceremony hosted the ceremony, the vows, the exchange of rings, and finally, the kissing of the bride.

Cameron grabbed Walon's collar and kissed him, tossing the bouquet away.

Everyone cheered.

The master of ceremony froze, then chuckled. "I guess the bride is taking over tonight."

Waylon looked down at her and smiled. "I'm happy with that."

Daisie leaned on Nollace's shoulder while Freyja held Colton's hand under the table. It was lively and warm.

The dinner ended late into the night. The guests all stayed at the hotel, which was paid for by the Goldmanns.

After changing out of her dress, Cameron walked over to the ballroom with Mahina's help. "Dad!"

Sunny, who was having a chat in the corridor, whipped his head area. "Yes, my dear daughter?"

She smiled. "Did you have too many glasses?"

"That's not possible. I have a good tolerance. Your Uncle Damian, however, is drunk."

Cameron grabbed his arm. "Stay here for a few more days."

Nicholas smiled. "She's right. You should stay a few more days."

"Now that you've spoken, I guess I'll stay a few more days."

Sunny and Nicholas left. Mahina looked at Cameron and smiled. "He looked overjoyed."

"By the way, have the people from the martial arts center left?"

Mahina nodded. "Yes, Conroy was drunk because of them and was almost carried out. Nick had quite a lot to drink too."

After that, she saw someone. "Your husband is coming over. I'm going to leave."

Cameron nodded. "Be careful."

Waylon walked over and hugged Cameron from behind. She turned her head and could smell the stench of alcohol. "Did you drink too much?"

He smiled. "No."

She let go of her dress. "My feet are tired."

Waylon picked her up. "You're getting heavier."

She hugged him by the neck. "It's your son's fault."

He smiled. "Yes, all his fault. We can't have our wedding night tonight because of him."

Cameron's face burned, and she punched him. "You're a perv."

Chapter 2676

The news of Waylon and Cameron's wedding had been widely discussed on the Internet. In addition to the beautiful and spectacular scene, a lot of them were also talking about Madam Hera's vintage wedding dress.

The vintage wedding dresses that the masses had overlooked were starting to get more attention thanks to their wedding. A lot of the netizens also showed their grandmother's wedding dresses that they wore when they were young.

The first appearance of Daisie in front of the media after her pregnancy also hit the headlines.

Many netizens thought she would retire from the entertainment industry since she was the princess right now.

However, after watching Daisie's interview, all of her fans settled down and expressed their respect for her decision. No matter if she chose to retire from the entertainment industry or not, they would still be her fans.

The Fog hit number one in the ratings after it was released for some time. Shannon and his partners invited several of the lead actors to dinner.

Daisie arrived at the restaurant at 1:00 p.m. with Nollace.

Shannon and the rest came out to welcome them. "It has been a long time, Daisie. I thought you were not coming."

She smiled and said, "You sent me the invitation personally, so of course, I had to come."

Shannon smiled. "I'm really flattered, then."

Nollace and Daisie stepped into the private room. After she took her seat, she began to greet the rest.

Initially, they all were worried that they would feel "distanced" from Daisie, but it was only now that they realized they were wrong.

She was still the same Daisie as she was before.

Shannon took a look at his watch and asked, "Oh yeah, where is James?"

Someone replied, "He just received the invitation from Mr. Winslow to take part in his movie, right? I guess he's pretty busy right now."

Shannon said something to the waiter and continued. "Let's wait for a while. Since he said he would come, I'm sure he'll show up later."

Soon, James arrived with a bottle of red wine in his hands.

When he saw Daisie and Nollace, he was slightly stunned. "You guys are here too?"

He had been under the impression Daisie would not come anymore.

Daisie chuckled and said, "Of course, I had to come. I'm part of the crew for The Fog too."

Shannon felt proud and grinned from ear to ear when he heard what Daisie said.

"If I had known you would come, I wouldn't have brought only wine. It's kind of weird for the rest of us to drink when there is a pregnant woman here." James sighed after he took his seat.

A staff member took over his bottle of wine with a smile on his face and said, "You're right. We shouldn't let a pregnant woman drink wine. Let's drink with Mr. Fallon."

1/2

James said, "Well, it seems like you're going to get really drunk today, Mr. Fallon."

Shannon ordered the waiter to serve the food. Since they had known each other for a long time, they were less formal and more casual.

The staff clinked glasses with Nollace after Shannon told them he was the series' investor.

James went closer to Daisie and said, "Seems like you're big with a child. Should I reserve one first?"

"Reserve what?"

"Your baby, of course. If it's a boy, I'll marry my daughter to your son after I have one. If it's a girl, I'll tell my son to marry your daughter and become the husband of the princess."

The corner of Daisie's lips twitched. She was rendered speechless.

Nollace put the wine glass down and turned to look at James. "What are you thinking about?"

"We're friends for so long, Nollace. If our children can marry each other, we'll become a family! Don't you think that's nice?"

Nollace smiled. "Do you think I'll give your future son a chance to get close to my daughter?"

James took a deep breath and said, "I see. Not only are you super possessive of your wife, but you only want daughters as well. Then I hope all your babies are boys. There's no way you'll get girls!"

Nollace was rendered speechless.

Daisie stomped on James' feet and said, "You're still as talkative as always."

It was almost evening when they finished eating. Daisie and Nollace walked Shannon and the rest to the door.

Shannon enjoyed the gathering immensely. He turned to Daisie and said, "Although people always say that there will be no market for actresses after giving birth and that younger actresses will replace them, I don't think so.

"For me, good actors or actresses have nothing to do with age. Daisie, you don't have to worry too much. Get as much rest as possible. If I come across a good script or see any role that's suitable for you in the future, I'll let you know."

Daisie smiled and nodded. "Don't worry. I'm sure we'll have the chance to work together again in the future."

After Shannon and the rest had left, Daisie turned around to look at Nollace. "I don't know why, but I feel that I'm pretty lucky."

The entertainment industry was a place where fame and wealth were above everything. However, despite that, she was still able to meet with people like Shannon and Charlie, who did not get close to her because of her family background.

Not only that, but she also had a bunch of fans who cared a lot for her and a few friends who treated her sincerely.

Nollace raised his arm to rub her hair and said, "Well, that's because you deserve that."

Two days later...

Daisie and Leah were walking in the park near Taylorton. Fresh shoots were sprouting from the grass, and there was a forest of blossoming flowers.

Daisie looked at her and asked, "Leah, are you really planning to go abroad?"

Leah nodded. "Yeah. I'm just waiting for confirmation."

"Then what about Zephir..."

"I have not been in contact with him for a long time. But it doesn't matter. Time will heal everything." Leah stopped in her tracks and turned around to look at Daisie. "Honestly, I was the one who had a crush on him, and I never told anyone."

Daisie asked, "But why didn't you fight for it if you liked him so much that time?"

She shrugged. "I knew that he didn't like me, so I didn't think it'd change anything even if I confessed to him. Besides, I think I only liked him because of his perseverance."

"I thought he was amorous and dedicated, but of course, that was just my definition of him. I never really got to know him. When I wanted to understand, I found that he was not what I thought. I felt disappointed, but now that I think about it again, maybe I'm just asking too much. He has the right to like other people, but I was selfishly trying to make him the way he was before."

Leah couldn't distinguish whether she liked Zephir as a person or she liked him because of his perseverance.

1/2

Perhaps everyone would automatically look at the person they had a crush on through rose-colored glasses. However, when she took off the glasses and realized that Zephir was not as gentle and devoted as she thought he was, she began to doubt herself.

In the end, the person she had a crush on was the old Zephir.

Daisie grabbed her hand and said, "Leah, I'm sure you'll meet your true love one day."

Leah was stunned for a moment, and then she smiled. "Thank you, Daisie. I think the same way too."

At the same time, Zephir brought Roxy to a coffee shop.

Zephir had been giving her the cold shoulder lately. She was delighted when he asked her out, so she put on her makeup and came to meet him.

She sat in front of him and said, "I thought you had already forgotten about me, Zeph."

Zephir put a card on the table and moved it toward her.

When Roxy saw the card, she was stunned. "What do you mean by this, Zeph?"

"There are $250,000 in this card. This card doesn't have a password. I'm breaking up with you."