She was still in shock, dazed, and not believing what he said, how could he possibly be her mate. Something was wrong, something was wrong, she was not meant to have another mate.

She tried stepping back out from him. But, he was not taking any of it, because instead, he pushed her closer. Making her body touch his, caused a shiver to run through her body.

“What did you say you are?”

She asked again, probably she was dreaming, or she was imagining her self dreaming. NO! She waved her head, She could never imagine herself getting mated to anyone. Not even the vampire king.

“I am your mate, haven’t your wolf told you t...”

“I don’t have a wolf!”

She replied, now pushing him forcefully away from her, knowing he was not expecting that.

Blade stared at her, surprised at her actions and her response, she does not have a wolf, but her scene proved so, she was a werewolf. She also had incredible strength to must have pushed him so hard.

But that never baffled him much, because he was still shocked at her sudden confession.

That was shocking news, now he knew why she never recognized him as her mate.

“And are you going to reject me?”

He heard her say, now standing four feet away from her. He knew he could grab her and pin her to the tree as he wished to and do crazy things with her, but he needed to control himself and cage his beast, and....he needed to give her space, she was not comfortable staying close to him, and this thought, made him feel an unimaginable pain. Also, haven’t yet forgotten her question, he hissed, to hell would her reject her, she was his, to protect.

“What do you mean rejected. I won’t reject you, never will I.”

He heard himself say.

Bella backed off the more at his words, she knew she could not run away from him, but she needed every space she could need, these being standing six feet away from her, was not just an ordinary vampire, he is a king, the Almighty vampire king.

And he would not reject her, that was what he said. Maybe he would not reject her here, but maybe, reject her in front of all the whole Pack. He could be a selfish bastard just like Lucas.

This one standing right in front of her was no more different from him.

"You are not my mate. You made a mistake."

Bella said, her feet shaking with fear, not yet able to bear the truth.

"The goddess prove so..."

"The goddess never proved anything, you are just a liar, trying to force your way on me, you li..."

She heard an animalistic growl escape his lips as she felt her body been smacked on a nearby tree so lightly, making her hiss in pain.

"Then I do have to prove these to you, that the goddess never made a mistake!"

He said, his words caused her eyes to widen her eyes in shock and fear.

"And I do prove it to you.... in an intimate way.....that...."

He said, causing her to gasp as he brought his nose closer to her collar bone, she felt his subtle beards grazing her neck and it caused her to shudder more with anticipation of what will happen next.

"You are MINE."

He said, as she felt him kiss the collar of her bone and she felt dizzy for a while, she felt like pushing him away and yet felt like drawing him in to do more of what. She had no idea what he was doing.

She breathed heavily at every gentle touch his lips petted her collar, sparks flowed down her veins, and she felt her legs, weak and bubble with excitement, her breath ragged, she was about to lose her balance when he caught her, immediately, stopping her from falling.

Was that how having a mate felt like, feeling sparks and unknown feelings that flowed through your body, this was insane.

Suddenly feeling a light breeze on her cheek, she opened her eyes, surprised to see the Vampire king, standing straight, his lips already left her body, she stared into his deep black eyes, which was glinting between red and black, staring straight at him, and she knew, this creature was either going to be.....slightly different from Lucas, she waved her head, she was not going to be a fool to believe his emotions.

“Seems like you are reacting to my touch so well, the evidence is pure on your face. Am not surprised though, because you are my MATE.”

Blade said, his hands still placed on her waist.

She placed her hands, trying to push him away from her, she needed to be away from this vampire. This man was causing some unknown feelings to ignite through her body at once, she needed space, she needed to think straight.

“You are pushing me away....”

Blade said, not happy with what she had just done.

“I do not accept y...”

“You plan on rejecting me, why... I will never allow you to do that”

The blade hissed, tightening his hold on the waist.

“NEVER.”

He said, his voice coming out loud.

“I need space, away.... from you.”

She said again, watching as he gritted his teeth frowning his face for a while, and then suddenly his expression turned to a little smile.

The sneakiness that came with the smile was not hard to detect, she looked at him, suspicious of what he would do, his smile was similar to that of Lucas.

Slowly leaving her hold, he took two steps away from her.

“Space! You need space, then I will give you space. But do not make me wait too long Bella.”

Blade stared at her, watching as she scrunched her eyes up a little bit, without no doubt, he knew the question that was bubbling in her head, how he had come to know her name.

“Selene told me some little information about you, but first before I give you space, can you inform me which pack you came from.”

Blade said, watching as her hair blew across her face and he felt like walking towards her and kissing every inch of her body under the subtle touch of the breeze.

Bella stared at him, her head roaming with different thoughts, there was a probability if she informed him the pack she came from, that he would let her go, especially when he hears her status as the omega of the wind winder pack. Concluding to inform him already of which pack she came from.

"I come from the window winder pack, and I belong to the lowest of all pack."

Bella said, hoping he understood what he meant. Hoping he would allow her to cross the borders, to her freedom.

"The lowest of all pack?"

Blade asked, confused at what she meant, he was not a lover of wolves, not until recently, he finds one who was able to bring happiness to his life.

"I am the omega of my pack, I am the worthless werewolf found in every pack. And I hope you let me go and forget about the goddess mating you to me."

Bella said, she could reject him, just like Lucas had done, but, she felt herself, not having enough courage to do so.

Blade surprisingly came forward towards her, slightly raising her cheeks, staring into her deep green eyes.

"Am getting close to you because you made me do so. But these will be only...for a while. Know these and know these now, you do not belong to a worthless group or whatever you call it, and I do not care whatever you are, what I need you to know is that you are my mate, my luna, my queen, and I will take you soon enough, I will mark you and prove to the whole damn world that you belong to me, only me. You are MINE!"

He said, quickly leaving her cheek. Moving back once again, away from her, as he said.

Bella stood rooted on the ground, shocked by his words. No one had ever said these words to her, not even her family. She felt a painful throb ripped out from her at the thoughts of her family. They hated her and she would make sure she survives, to see the end of these, to give her pack sweet revenge.

He now understood why she was weak, fragile and why she could not recognize him as her mate. He had some little knowledge about omegas. Some never had a wolf in them, knowing these, he knew he had to protect her under his eyes, if it meant placing twenty guards on her door, he would do so. He had come to notice the way her eyes sparkled with fear anytime he said he was her mate. He does have to find out some basic information about her, now knowing the pack she came from, which was quite familiar to him, he does trace her background and find out where she came from and also know why she had escaped from her pack, it was quite obvious she had escaped and mistakenly ran into his pack, the goddess was indeed a powerful one.

“Again I will repeat myself. I will give you space but do not make me wait for long. Am a king, and a king is everything but patient.”

She heard him say, and in the next seconds, she found herself in a room, a strange room, painted with a royal color.

She had almost forgotten, her newfound mate, who is the vampire king was a vampire.

When she turned back, she met Blade staring at her intently, she moved back, but not before noticing the way he scrunched his eyes up, obviously angry at her actions.

“I will give you space as you said, but as I said, am a being of no patience, do not keep me waiting, also these are my room, I do not wish to see you trying to escape again, the securities around my chambers are tight, so don’t think you can play silly games again.”

Blade said, staring at her once more, he left the room, leaving Bella in a daze.

She had felt something scrunched up in her at his words, she was not sure what it was, so she allowed it to slide.

Then quickly, her mind processed what the vampire king had just said.

‘His room! he had kept her in his room’

Bella’s eyes widened at these thoughts, why would he keep her in his room, but he had promised to be far away from her. She looked around, indeed it looked like a room that was meant for a king.

Her mind revolved around so many thoughts that she felt she was going to have a headache.

Why was he putting her into so much confusion even when he was not close by?

Bella hissed with annoyance.

Just as she was about to fall on the couch which was close by, the door opened, revealing the queen, queen Selene.

Selene strode towards her fiercely and quickly Bella backed off to the wall, the queen was about to suck her blood, Bella thought.

Quickly Bella closed her eyes to receive what was coming for her.

“What are you doing there closing your eyes like someone who was about to receive her first kiss....well that shouldn’t come from me but someone else.”

She heard queen Selene said, slowly Bella raised her eyes, surprised to see the queen standing a few feet away from her.

Quickly a body came, smashing her with a huge force.

Bella gasped with shock, surprised to see the queen hugging her tightly, almost making her uncomfortable, but instead, she found herself hugging her back, a little smile appearing on her face.

“You little bitch, you ran off and your actions almost caused the vampire king to behead the guard whom you deceived.”

Selene said, leaving her hold, staring intently at Bella who looked down on the floor, twisting her fingers, but she was surprised to see her swipe her head up, her eyes widened with shock, obviously shocked at what she said.

“What is the problem, what bothers you.”

Selene said, staring at Bella.

“You said ahead was beheaded, did the vampire king perhaps kill the guard, the one I deceived?”

Bella said she was still shocked at the news she heard.

Could Blade probably take a life because of life, was that even possible.

“No he never took a life, he planned on taking one, but I was close enough to stop him from doing so, if not, I am not sure I would be able to stop that next time you just decide to escape like that.”

Selene said, taking her to the bed, Bella was a weak werewolf no doubt, she was not sure she had a wolf in her, because she had not seen any characteristics of a wolf in her.

“Where did you run off to, were you planning on running back to your pack, because if you were trying on doing that, Blade would never allow you to do such.”

Selene said, smiling lowly at Bella who chuckled slightly.

Selene was struck with surprise at her quick chuckle but quickly masked her surprise so that she would not make Bella think she was weird for chuckling, but for Selene, she thinks that was a good start of opening up for Bella.

“Ooh, never, I never planned on escaping to my pack.”

Bella said, she felt bile rise on her throat at the thought of escaping to her pack that was the last place she would head to.

"Well anywhere you planned on escaping, that would not happen."

Selene said, Bella stared at her.

Does the queen perhaps know she was the mate of her son? She never had a wolf, so it was going to be hard to figure out if Blade was her mate, but the sparks she got when he touches her, proved her thoughts otherwise, Blade was her mate. But why did she not feel any sparks for Lucas when he touched her, instead, she had felt pain and hatred when he took her forcefully.

Bella hissed at these thoughts, she hated remembering the devil.

"What is the problem?"

Selene said, wondering what she was thinking that made her hiss.

Bella quickly opened her eyes, remembering the queen was still with her.

"Ooh is nothing."

Bella said, wondering if she should trust the queen over some things that were beginning to disturb her, she sighed, the queen was the only one she was comfortable with, maybe she could trust her.

"The king is my mate, do you have any idea about it."

Bella said, watching as the queen widened her eyes, obviously surprised that she had any idea who she was to her son.

"Oooh, you know about it?"

Selene said, obviously surprised that the werewolf knew about her relationship with the vampire king.

"Yes, the king told me so."

Bella said, remembering the events that happened the previous hours.

"Wow, seems the vampire king is not the patient one. And what was your response, how do you feel about it."

Selene said, hoping this discussion turned out well.

"Ooh, hmm. I told him to give me space, I feel quite.....unhappy about it."

Bella said, but that same unknown feeling that she felt when she had heard Blade informed her that he would give her space settled in her heart again, a feeling of pain and something else, something unknown she could not place her fingers what it was.

“Why do you feel unhappy having your mate, having a mate is the best thing you will thank the Almighty for giving you every day, not everyone is lucky to find their mate.”

Selene said, hoping Bella understood her.

Bella stared at queen Selene, the queen spoke with happiness at the mention of mate, yet Bella could see an emotion of sadness in her eyes.

If only the queen knew what she had passed through the hands of her first mate. Maybe, she wouldn't have been informing her all this, Lucas had given her nothing but sadness and even made her sadness last by destroying the last pride in her.

“That is not a good speech you gave him, you will tend to miss him soon enough, don't say I did not inform you about these. Now I see why he brought you to his room, he needed to be sure you do not escape again.”

Selene said smiling lightly, her son was smitten by his mate, that was how vampires are, especially their kings, they tend to be more possessive with their mates more than any other things they possessed.

A knock was heard on the door and a maid opened the door, a trolley of different dishes filled the trolley.

Bella opened her eyes in awe, surprised at loads of food in the trolley.

She had just taken a meal before her failed escape attempt, but now, the vampires seemed to be spoiling her, or perhaps, were they trying to fatten her up and suck her blood later on.

She waved her head, removing the thoughts from her head, the queen was too good to allow such to happen to her, or was she?

Bella thought again, she was still focused on her thoughts that she never heard the queen speaking to her.

“Hello Bella, you seem lost, is it something you would love to share?”

Selene said, obviously concerned.

“Ooh, no no, just surprised at loads of food on the trolley. Who is gonna eat all of that?”

Bella asked, hoping her lies were not detected.

The maid left the room without saying a sentence.

“Hahaha, the foods are for you, remember you are still sick and your mate had instructed me to take care of you well, and the doctor Isabella had advised you to take all your medications. You see, Blade hates seeing you sick, isn't that obvious?”

Selene said, from the way Bella's cheeks instantly became red, Selene knew she was affecting the poor girl and again she knew the young werewolf would open up soon enough.

“Hahaha, these look yummy.”

Bella said, walking towards the trolley as she picked up a cupcake, when she placed it in her mouth, she moaned With excitement, the cake was tasty and spicy.

She had not tasted anything like these before.

“These taste yummy....and ooh, there is an envelope in the trolley queen Selene.”

Bella said, picking up the envelope as she handed it over to Selene.

“It's meant for me but it is meant for you since it had been kept in the trolley. Open it!”

Selene said, watching as Bella chewed the cake with excitement.

“Ooh, I should!”

Bella's blue eyes bubbled with joy, she had never received an envelope before, which had been meant for her.

“Yes sure open it, it meant for you.”

Selene said again, surprised to see an emotion of happiness flow through her eyes.

She wondered if perhaps the young she-wolf had received a letter before.

“What does it say?”

Selene said, watching as she tore off the letter.

“It says; You have been invited to see the punishment that would be mated upon one Ashrak Azura Alaric, for been a nuisance to the king.”

Bella read, not knowing who the person was.

“Who is Azura?”

Bella asked, already feeling pity for whosoever was the offender of the king, from what she had heard about the king, the king was not the type to show a single bit of mercy.

“Hahahaha, seems Azura had committed a lot of offense. Well, you will get to know her soon enough.”

Selene said.

“And it seems you have been invited by the king. Maybe you do see how the king punishes his people.”

Selene said once more.

The Vampire Omega by Angelic 33

/ The Vampire Omega by Angelic

It was three days since she had been sent the letter, requesting for her presence and now she stood in the midst of high vampires who moved four feet away from her as she entered the room.

She had not been able to meet Selene for a while now, and she wondered if Selene would be in the same room with her.

She felt quite uncomfortable being alone with the werewolves and she felt her body shiver at every single stare they gave her.

The judgment room as she had come to hear was filled with different chairs which were placed above the floor, you need the support of a stair before you could locate a sit.

The vampires in the room were different from the ones she had been used to in the mansion.

They looked scary with thick dark eyes, almost dark as the vampire king, just that, the vampire king, had a much scarier eye color than the rest.

Speaking of the vampire king, she had not seen him for a while now, probably, he was obeying her words.

Her thoughts were interrupted when the door opened, revealing Blade, the familiar man whom she had always been seeing him with walking beside him.

Slowly, her eyes made contact with Blade and she felt her body quiver with that same unknown feeling which she had come to have only by his stare and talks.

Slowly she diverted her eyes down to his chest, she noticed three buttons on his shirts were lightly opened and she felt her heart beating furiously, her cheek lit up with fire and slowly she turned around, hiding the blush that was beginning to form on his face.

Blade stared at her, quickly seeing the blush that glazed on her face, his eyes darkened more, he felt like strong towards her and then taking her out from the room to his own room, there he does pin her on the wall and do crazy things with her, informing her who she belonged to.

Quickly he walked toward his throne, seeing the elders were already sitting waiting for his arrival.

Soon enough, the guards dragged Azura to the room, her hair was messy, there was no doubt she must have tried messing up with his guards and they must have had a tough time placing her in a good position.

“Tie her to the tower.”

Bella heard the right-hand man of the vampire king say, the woman who had been dragged into the room was the person who was to be punished. Instantly, she felt pain and pity for the poor lady, she wondered what the lady must have done that must have prompted the king to punish her.

She was surprised to see the woman not struggling to be freed from them, but instead, she kept a mean face, as if she had been waiting for this punishment her whole life.

The vampires who had been glancing at her previously now stared at the woman who had been tied to the tower.

“The reason for the punishment of Azura Ashrak Alaric was that Azura had said mean words to the king.....and his....”

“Do not say any further words, Carson, everyone knows the crime she had committed, now punish her with twenty whips of a horsetail.”

Blade Interrupted Carson, throwing him a fierce glare.

Blade knew If Carson mentioned any statements about his mate being the main reason why he was mating a punishment to Azura, he would create more enemies for her and that would put her life at risk.”

Bella gasped at the punishment which would be mated upon the vampire, again she wondered if insulting the king demand such magnitude of punishment.

The first slash on her body made Azura freeze with pain, the pain was so immense that she felt her flesh almost tearing, every slash she received from the guard imprinted more hatred in her heart for the she-wolf, she looked up slightly, seeing the werewolf staring at her, her eyes instantly changed red, her canines grew long but another long heavy slash on her caused her to whimper in pain, and another slash broke her completely as a terrifying scream escaped her lips, her scream was the only noise which could be heard in the room, together with the sound of the whip. She felt her body stagger and slowly she dropped on her knees, her eyes still maintaining contact with the King's mate, she could feel the way she shivered at each stare she gave her, the last slash came wiping on her body and instead of a scream to escape her lips, a little smile left her lips, she does make the King's mate pay. She does come for revenge, for causing pain to her, and at that thought, she dropped down on the floor and fainted.

Bella was still frozen, not by what she saw but by the heavy glares the unknown Azura was throwing on her, the woman, Azura, was staring at her as if she was the cause of everything that was happening to her, she could feel a lot of emotions which settled in her eyes, an emotion similar to what she was feeling towards her pack, an emotion of hate and also.....revenge.

When she saw her fall on the ground at the last whip, she felt a painful tug in her heart for her, her back was filled with the mark of the whips and blood flowed down her body, her flesh torn.

A voice came, jolting her out from her thoughts, it was Blade, the vampire king, her mate.

"We are done for today. But I need you all to know these, I will treat anyone who insults me or anything that belongs to me....."

Bella felt his eyes strain towards her at his words and without thinking twice, she knew he was referring to her as his possession, then again, he continued with his speech.

"The same way I treated these women who lay faint on the floor."

Blade said, and at his words, the whole elders began murmuring at themselves.

Blade glanced at Alaric, Alaric glanced back at him, as if knowing he was going to stare at him, Blade smiled lightly at the old elder, but Alaric instead, gave him a little glare, it was little, but Blade was not a fool to miss it, and right then, he knew the war had started, an unknown secret war in the council had started.

Quickly Bella left the hall quickly walking to the room which had been assigned for her to stay, her mate, the vampire's king room. She looked like a mess, her heart was thudding with fear and anxiety, she did not know why the vampire had stared at her with so much hatred and anger.

She was so consumed with her thoughts that she did not know when she crashed on a body, she felt sparks flowing through her body, and quickly realizing whom she had crashed on, she backed off, walking away from the vampire king.

"Do I sting?"

Blade said, his eyes darkening the more, he was quite unhappy seeing her moving back away from him.

“Ooh no, I just didn’t see you coming so I Ummm.....”

Bella said, not knowing what to say, she knew how angry he would always be anytime she takes a few paces away from him and now it was quite obvious he was angry.

“You have something stuck in your lips.”

Blade said, taking a few steps towards her, each step he took towards her made her back off to the wall, she was still scared of him.

Blade realized her actions, slowly a devilish smile crept upon his lips, quickly he took larger strides towards her and quickly she walked back, making her smash her back against the wall.

‘This is where I wanted her

“You still find me uncomfortable, why?”

Blade said, placing his two huge arms on the wall, beside her head, caging her between his arms. His sleeves were raised up revealing his tanned huge arms which made her dizzy for a while.

Definitely, she was scared of him because he could hurt her, just like Lucas had done or maybe, he was different from Lucas.

She waved her head at these thoughts, she could not trust him so easily, especially knowing he was a vampire, not just a vampire, but the vampire king.

“I can’t trust you, you will hurt me!”

Bella said, immediately she said those words, she felt his hands quickly rode down to her hips, smashing her body towards him as he brought his face towards her ears, she felt her body react to his, the feeling of his subtle beards which was grazing on her chin caused her to shiver and she felt something tingle in between her thighs, something she had never felt before, was she breaking her barriers, so easily? Bella thought.

“I will never hurt my mate and I will never give anyone the chance to do so, you belong to me and only me, I will never allow anyone to take you, NEVER!”

Blade said, and quickly he placed his lips on her neck, biting a little part of her flesh, causing her to shiver, she placed her hands on his chest, trying to push him off from her, but Blade was quick enough to stop her by placing his hands on her hands, steadying her hold on his chest.

The last sentence he made knocked her off her breath.

“My heartbeat for you only Moi Amour!”

She heard him say, and quickly, he left her side, leaving her body and heart shuddering with unknown excitement. She felt her body almost falling to the ground due to what she had just experienced with him.

The vampire king was causing a feeling in her, a feeling which she had never felt before, and she knew what it was, it wouldn't take long before he breaks her barriers because right now, he was making her feel special, something no one had ever made her feel.

‘Maybe had she done a mistake, by making telling him how insecure she was with him, for informing him to back off from her, was she a fool’

She waved her head again, still controlling her raging heartbeats.

“Don't keep me waiting”

Again that voice rang in her head and then she knew, she wouldn't have to keep the vampire king waiting, or would she?

She thought again, she groaned, hitting her head lightly on the wall, her life was a total mess.

“Any news yet about the rogues?”

Blade asked, he hated the fact that he and his men were not able to find the rogues, it annoyed him to the brim.

“Am sorry my king, we tried searching outside the border, especially the barren lands, but it seems the rogues have heard whips of our search and maybe went into hiding.”

Carson said, staring at the king who's fist folded in anger.

“Hmm, I see.”

Blade said, he wondered why he was not able to hear any news about the rogues. Recently, they haven't had any attacks from the rogues, instead, the land had remained peaceful as it should be.

“Where do you think the rogues had run off to, who do you think the rogues are?”

Blade asked, there was something mysterious about the rogues.

"I do not know where they could possibly be hiding, I keep on thinking that the werewolves who had come attacking us belong to a pack."

Carson said, watching as the king quickly jotted his head up, staring at him, he knew what the king was thinking, the king was thinking that he was stupid.

"You mean to say a pack had dared attack my territory, is that what you are insinuating."

Blade said, his voice sounding husky.

"I do not know, but u guessed s...."

"You of all people should know that a pack cannot dare attack my territory, they wouldn't dare unless they wished to be dead."

Blade said, waving his head in astonishment. Then quickly his mate made way into his thoughts and he felt his composure relaxed slowly, his mate was the only one who could appease his spirit, who could appease the beast in him.

"Have you found any information about her pack and why she had run away from her pack?"

Blade asked his men who stood, waiting for his command.

"No my king, we did not have any information about her, we are vampires and it is hard to hear any news concerning her, the werewolves will attack us if they find out that we entered into their territory."

Carson said, staring at the vampire king who did not feel happy with the news.

"Is there a way you can disguise yourself to find any information about her?"

Blade asked, staring at Carson who looked at him with a look of confusion.

"I don't think it can be possible, the Air Winder pack is very strict with people who live and enters their pack, they could use our scent to get us."

Carson said, his words made Longe nod his head.

A knock was heard on the door, a man stepped into the office, he had messy blonde hair with green eyes, he held a file in his hands.

"Good morning vampire king. I came in respect of the humans. The human company had decided that you can buy the real estate at the amount you bargained for."

The man said, handing a document to Carson, who in turn, gave it to Blade.

Blade flipped through the files, he has decided to give humans a little chance because his mate had almost the same features, he wanted to learn their ways and the humans were beginning to prove him wrong, they are stronger and wiser than he could ever imagine.

"Very good then. Jairus I need you to send the full documents, later on, I will have to seal the documents with my stamp, then after that, send the estate pictures to Spotify Estate, they should make a billboard jingle for the estate. I need occupants in a week's time."

Blade said, watching as Jairus nodded his head quickly.

"Yes vampire king, that would be done immediately."

The man said quickly leaving the office.

"Carson and Longe, send some men to the Middle night pack, the vampires over there are complaining about their water, I will need their old water supply locked down and a new one constructed. But you do know that before the old one is removed, a new one had to be made."

Blade said, staring at Carson and Longe who nodded their head.

"We will do as you said."

Carson said, they both turned around to leave the room.

"Carson informed the sister In the convent, that I need her presence."

Blade said at which Carson nodded his head before leaving the office.

Blade took a picture from his desk, it was an image of a girl with thick dark hair which flowed down her shoulder, her blue-greenish eyes staring right back at him.

It was his mate Bella, he had taken a picture of her without her knowledge.

He needed the presence of the priestess because she was the only one who had a clue about an omega who did not have a wolf in them.

As Bella turned to the next hall which led to the vampire king's chambers, again she bumped into a body, a hiss escaped her lips, she rolled her eyes, she was quite clumsy for her to be running into hard solid bodies twice in a short walk.

Quickly pulling out from the body of the man, she bowed her head, thoroughly shy over her mistake.

"Am sorry for running into you."

She heard a masculine voice say to her and quickly she raised her head up and at that minute, she was struck by the man's beauty, beauty was a hard description to describe him, he was beyond handsome, she saw a very huge familiarity in his face, he had a thick dark hair, with deep black eyes, but a brown pupil, his face was oval, exactly the same with her mate.

She gasped, obviously struck at their resemblance.

"Am.....sorry, I was..... the one.... who had rammed into you..... out of a mistake."

Bella said, rambling on her words.

"Is fine, am Kurt by the way, the brother to the vampire king. And you are."

Bella heard the man say, she waved her head slightly, she had guessed right, he was related to the wretched handsome mate of hers, the only difference between the both of them was that the man standing a few feet away from her was not handsome compared to her mate, who bore a demeanor which she finds dark and sexy and a dark thick eyes which always charmed her when he stared into his eyes, she shook her head, removing the thoughts from her mind, she did not know why he had been affecting her thoughts recently and but these sinful thoughts had begun to overcloud her sense ever since he had last touched her and kissed a part of her that was not meant to be touched.

And this one, Kurt, was a good smiler because he kept on showing his full dentation ever since he started talking with her, and these somehow made her jealous, he had a good set of teeth unlike her which seems to mean misplaced at every corner, she did not fail to see his sharp fangs which protruded out from his teeth, again she was reminded that she was talking with a vampire.

She wondered why she had not seen him in the pack before.

"Oooh, I am Bella, a was....."

"I know who you are already, you are a werewolf, your scent says so."

Kurt said, he saw how shy the girl was, he had heard from one of his brother's men that his brother has found himself a mate, a werewolf for that matter, and knowing his brother, his brother was not the type to love weak and fragile creatures, instead, he preferred strong hot-headed women, especially ones who know all positions that could satisfy a pure-blooded vampire like him.

Well, he does have to see how things go between them.

"I never saw you in the pack."

Bella asked, hoping she was not been too curious.

“Oooh, I help my brother Blade to control the other pack, I guide some pack which has been placed under my authority by the vampire king.”

Kurt said, smiling tenderly at the girl who nodded her head, having answered her question.

“I do have to leave, my brother will not be happy with the way we are so quite close.”

Kurt said, his words earned a little pinkish color to appear on her face.

Bella have not accepted the vampire king as her mate, but she felt her heartbeat rapidly when he said those words.

“Ok, do have a nice day sir Kurt.”

Bella said, she was about to walk out from his presence, but his voice stopped her from moving.

“Please call me Kurt, instead of Sir Kurt.”

Kurt said, earning a response from her.

“Ok, Kurt.”

Bella smiled, walking out from the hall, this time, watching more carefully so she will not ram into a body again.

Everywhere was dark, all she could hear was the loud sound of a bullet piercing through her ears, when ran quickly at each shoot they gave her, she was sweating profusely, her pack members were trying to catch up with her, her enemies whom she had come to believe had nothing to do with her, was actually after her, trying to rip her skin apart, their scent looked dangerous and knowing she was not going to run for too long, she began to feel weary, her feet stumbling at each step she took.

It won't be long, they will catch up with her.

The next thing she saw was her body, being thrown on a tree, she hissed with pain, quickly those angry wolves strode towards her, they weren't one, two or three, instead they were five of them who were trying to kill her at once.

A horrifying bowl escaped their lips and Bella felt herself stagger for a second, she could not believe it, that she could be placed in a dangerous situation like these.

Slowly the wolves turned into their human body, not hiding their naked body away from her.

When she looked up, she gasped at what she saw, Lucas threw her a very mischievous smile, one that reminds her of something, he was here to cause her pain again, she was confused like how she found herself out from GBE vampire's land.

Slowly Bella backed off to the tree, but Lucas been Lucas with a devil's heart stride towards her, like a prey who was about to be captured by its predator.

The first name that came out from her lips was.....

"Blade!"

Bella said, looking back at the vampire's pack, everywhere was filled with blood and fire which was beginning to burn down the entire pack.

'What was happening'

She heard herself whispered, everyone was filled with screams and painful horrifying voices

When she felt Lucas walked towards her, quickly without him thinking twice and just as he always does to her, he held her throat, quickly squeezing it to choke her to death, Bella gasped, all she needed was to call the vampire king, he was the only who could save her at that minute.

She struggled to leave his hold, but it seems he was trying to kill her and not let her off immediately.

Quickly she bit him, her actions emitted a growl from Lucas, quickly she screamed again.

"Blade! Blade!!"

When she saw Lucas was about to come closer to her to continue his attack, quickly she woke up, her face sweating profusely, her body shaking with the nightmare she had just encountered.

Her breaths were coming out quick, slowly inhaling and exhaling to catch up with her breaths.

When she finally opened her eyes, she heard a voice coming out of the room.

"Had a nightmare?"

She heard the voice say, and slowly she turned, trying to see who was talking to her, she was surprised to see Kurt staring at her, his eyes which lacked no emotions, almost resembling that of his brother.

The only difference between the two was that Kurt smiles at least almost whenever he was in the mood to do so, while Blade, was always keeping a stoic face, all the time.

“Yeah I had a nightmare, how long have you been here?”

Bella asked, watching as he folded his arms across his chest, he sure did have huge arms because he might have passed through a lot of training which demands physical strength too.

“Long enough to hear you scream my brother’s name, the alpha three times.”

Kurt said, he had learned to be pulling her feet by mentioning her brother’s name, he wondered why the wolf was not able to accept her brother.

“Do you mind sharing your dreams?”

Kurt knew the answer to his question, she would never tell him what she hid behind those hearts of hers, and he knew without a doubt, she was not going to inform anyone about it but instead let her past buried deep inside her till she loses it completely.

“In my past, it doesn’t worth sharing.”

Bella said, she was not ready to share her heart out, she was not ready to receive pity looks from the vampire.

“But the king would not accept these words you just spilled now, he does love to know everything that related to his mate.”

Kurt said, taking a cup that was on the table, without thinking, she knew it contains blood, she has been used to them, drinking blood and blood tea.

The words which he spoke caused pain in her heart.

It has been four months since she had informed the king never to stay close to her, four months of not seeing him frequently as she always used to see him at the beginning, he always returns late in the night, then lives early in the morning.

She had learned all these from queen Selene, sure enough, he had another room, maybe much bigger than these, she felt a slight pain in her chest. She knew it was her fault, she had caused him to act this way.

She wondered if things would continue this way.

Quickly the door opened, revealing the vampire queen Selene, she strode towards her, not even throwing a glance at her son, quickly she came hugging Bella with full force.

Bella had come to accept her as a mother, because she was the only one to show her a motherly love, and have her cooped up throughout that four-month.

“What you doing on the bed by these late hours of the morning.”

Selene said she had come to accept the wolf as a daughter, a friend, and a companion.

Bella kept quiet, knowing if she speak any single words, she would be punished.

“Kurt, you kept her in the bed all morning.”

Selene backed, staring at her son furiously, if looks could kill, then maybe, Kurt does lay down dead by now.

“It’s still morning mother and stop nagging, moreover you worry yourself too much, the person who has every right to worry about her is the vampire king”

Kurt said, winking at Bella as he spoke. Bella made a laugh which made Selene angrier.

“Kurt, focus on your team and mind your business, when your mother speaks, you do not speak back.”

Selene said she knew she was just pouring water on a rock.

“Am not a baby anymore, and a full-grown pure-blooded vampire.”

Kurt said, making his mother angrier.

“Hmm Bella, the King’s birthday comes up next week, we got to prepare his birthday.”

Selene said, watching as a smile crept upon her face, Selene wondered if the wolf had never had a birthday in her entire life of living.

“Wow, this is joyous news to hear. I do be glad to help arrange things in the castle, first, we have to go to the market. To buy a lot of things for his birthday, high classed men and women will be there to Zg the ceremony.”

Selene said, she spoke as if she had been thinking about this celebration for a long while.

"Mother, you of all people should know that the vampire king does not like anything that has to do with birthdays or parties, so I do advice you to stop stressing yourself over these."

Kurt said, filling his cup with another blood tea.

"Well do not bother about that, because our wonderful Bella would have to use her mate bond to make him agree to celebrate his birthday."

Selene said, watching as the wolf stared at her with surprise.

The Vampire Omega by Angelic 36

/ The Vampire Omega by Angelic

Bella gasped with shock, someone whom she had never met in a long while, whom she had asked to stay far away from her would accept an invitation whatsoever from her, especially one that have to do with his birthday.

"Now get your butt up, is time for breakfast."

Selene said, quickly Bella stood up.

Kurt watched her movements, he was wondering why his brother was talking quite long before He could claim her as his mate.

"Mother, don't you think it is the right time my brother claims his mate?"

Kurt said, watching as the two women flung their heads towards her.

Bella quickly turned, leaving the room, she did not want to hear any news from them, any statement that they decided to make.

Selene turned to stare at the door, where the wolf had escaped from.

"I do not see any reasons why you should make such statements, you know she is not comfortable with the term 'mate'"

Selene said,

"But isn't the...."

"That is for your brother to determine, now do not bring this discussion ever again to me."

Selene said, leaving the room, but not failing to hear the angry growth that ripped off Kurt's lips.

Bella has become accustomed to the mansion, so she knew the way to the kitchen.

When she arrived at the kitchen, she could see some maid glancing at her as if they had never seen her in a long while.

She could hear the whispers that escaped from their lips, not everyone was going to accept her, that she knew of, but that did not bother her at all.

“Madame Emily, I perceive something good, what are you preparing.”

Bella said, smiling lightly at the head cook, she was an average short woman, quite chubby and she was a very cheerful person.

“Ooh, Bella I never saw you arrive, and how many times will I inform you not to call me madame Emily huh, it makes me feel old huh.”

Emily said, smiling tenderly at the girl.

“Ok, hmm, these smell delicious, what is there please?”

Bella said, tasting the food that made her moan with the sweetness she was enjoying from the food.

“Is called a Nigerian jollof rice, I got the recipe from a fellow chef, who convinced me to try it out. And it turned out great, I can see you are enjoying it.”

Emily said, smiling tenderly at the wolf, just then the door to the kitchen opened, making the both of them turn to stare at the new person who had interrupted their speech.

“Oooh doctor Isabella, you came to visit the mansion today.”

Bella heard Emily say, Emily’s eyes were full of Joy as if the presence of the strange woman had brought another different joy to her.

“Yes Emily, also I came to check the condition of the young she-wolf, even though it was months I had last checked on her, but they usually send me staffs to check on her, but today my schedule was not quite tight, so I decided to check her myself.”

Emily said, she did not see the she-wolf standing a few feet from her, not until she turned slightly was she able to realize that the person she was talking to, was standing a few meters away from her.

“Oooh, here you are Bella, surprising you bore the same name with me. You are growing quite a good girl that’s a good sign that you indeed had a quick recovery. Hmm, werewolves.”

Isabella said, smiling gently at the girl.

Bella folded her fist under the counter where she sat.

She hate the fact that this woman had called her a girl and also included the rate she had in four months.

Like geez was the weird doctor expecting her not to add in size, even an average wolf grows so fast, why would she think of such that she would never grow taller.

She gave the woman a tight smile, which was not coming from her eyes, again she folded her fist, ready to slam it on the doctor's face, the woman was so fucking hot with the perfect curve, something she never had.

A woman like these was fit to be with a king, not someone like her, who had been raped by her first mate.

Was the goddess punishing her for her family's misdeeds?

She felt her heart churn at that thoughts.

Her thoughts were cut short when she heard the doctor make a statement.

"Is the vampire king in the castle?"

Isabella asked, she had come to see the king, not the mate of his, she had heard the news from one of the guards in the castle that the vampire king and his mate was hardly together like mates supposed to be, this statement had caused her to be joyful with so much anger excitement.

"Ohhh, he is in his study room."

Emily said, before turning to continue with what she was doing.

Isabella stared at the she-wolf once more.

"Do have a nice day"

Isabella said, quickly she left the room, a triumphant smile appearing on her face.

Bella watched as the doctor left the room, with her blonde hair which cascaded down her waist.

Her footsteps were enough to make her vomit.

WAIT!

Bella thought she had heard correctly that the vampire king was in the castle, and she had no idea that she was in the castle.

Remembering she had a mission to complete, quickly she stood up, she needed to find the office where the doctor was heading.

“Emily, is the vampire king always alone?”

Bella said, hoping she was not sounding suspicious.

“Hmm yeah, he has not taken breakfast yet. He has been busy with works and attending to pack queries, being the king to many vampire packs demands a lot of your attention.”

Emily said, waving her head. No one could make the king eat, not even his mother.

When Bella heard these, she felt pity for him. And instantly a thought came quickly in her head.

“Can I go serve him, since everyone thinks that I am his mate?”

Bella said, hoping again her speech was not suspicious.

Emily turned to stare at the she-wolf, she was not sure that was a good idea, but if the king would allow the doctor into his office, why not his mate.

“Let me prepare the dish so you can send it to his office.”

Emily said, quickly walking out from the counter.

Bella almost pumped her hands in the air.

Finally, she does meet him and tell him what!

She thought, what was she going to tell him when she finally arrives at the office, especially knowing that the hot doctor would be in the same room with him. Maybe she might start the speech like this.

‘Hello, am Bella your mate and I want you to celebrate your birthday this time around.’

Or maybe

‘Hey, this man. I am your mate and as your mate, you would obey my commands which is you will be celebrating your birthday, the worst day of your life

Or

'Mate Vampire king, would you give me the honor of celebrating your birthday with me'

Bella made a sigh, her speeches sounded dumb and foolish and stupid.

What the hell was she going to inform him, especially knowing the fact that the doctor would be in the same room with him.

She felt a slight sting in her and she felt her body grimaced at the thought of seeing two hot creatures in the same room and at the same time.

"No no no!"

There was no way she would be thinking about things like these, there was no way she would be jealous of these hot sexy vampire mates of hers

She hate men and that was the way she intended to keep it.

"Here are the dishes, send it to his room, he stays on the last floor, there is an elevator which would lead you to his office, just turn right, you will see it."

Emily said, patting her on the shoulder after handing the bag of food to her, Bella waved her head slightly, smiling tenderly at the chef, she left the kitchen, walking down to the elevator which was not had to located.

Quickly she entered the elevator, her heart pounding as sweat filled her body, she was anxious, anxious about meeting him after a long time and she wondered if he would be mad at her for coming to his office.

She heard a sound from the elevator and quickly she jolted. She was not used to an elevator, not that she never saw one, but instead in her previous pack, she was made to walk down the stairs instead of using an elevator.

Immediately the door to the elevator opened, she stared at her hands, surprised to see that the food was still intact.

She was known to be clumsy and she was used to the term to the extent that she becomes quite uncomfortable with it.

It wasn't hard to locate his office, the hallway was huge. Very huge, almost covering half of the mansion. It was painted white, the entire hall has only one color.

Everywhere sparkled and smelt of money, she wondered why things are like these.

Maybe the vampire king was a clean freak, the neatness almost stopped her from moving.

But quickly changing her mind, she walked to the huge door which stood taller than her. The door was made with thick wood. Almost the same as the ones that she had become accustomed to.

But this one was different, different from the ones she had come to know.

Also, a big huge letter was placed on the door, Blade Hemlock.

She wondered if there was truly his home office or if it was his company office. She doubted the latter and believed the former.

The vampire king was very rich, so it should not be a surprise to her if he have things like these.

Walking closer again, so that her short hands could knock on the door, she raised her hands about to knock but quickly she retracted her hands back. She needed to be ready, for what exactly! that she could not answer.

She slowly placed her ears on the door, but immediately she did so, the door opened quickly, the quickness of the door opening caused her to fall forward on a body, not just a body, a body that brought the best cologne which she had never perceived in her entire life.

And also, sparks followed afterward, she felt electricity ripped through her bones and again she felt the body which was not a wall shudder slightly.

Realizing whom she had fallen upon, she rose. But hell no, the vampire king had other plans.

The Vampire Omega by Angelic 37

/ The Vampire Omega by Angelic

When she bumped his body on his, she tried leaving, but Blade had other plans, he held her still, caging her in his body and keeping her in place, Bella could hear the loud beating of his heart, which beat in sync with hers, she felt different sparks flowed through her body, the little shuddering she felt from him made her realize that she was not the only one who was affected by the mate bond or what so ever she felt.

“You slipped again.”

Blade said, smiling down at her lowly.

Quickly Bella left his hold.

She was going to run insane if she continued staring at his deep dark eyes.

“Am sorry, I tried checking....”

Bella said, not knowing what to say in the last part.

If she said she was checking to know what he was discussing with the doctor, she will be termed stupid for doing such.

“You were saying?”

Blade said, persuading her to continue speaking. But instead, she kept shut.

The blade was not avoiding her throughout these four months, instead, he was making her wish come true.

Every single night during those four months, he always came to kiss her on the forehead, something no one knew of.

A kiss would maybe, make their bond stronger, he knew where his heart laid and he knew also, that these young woman standing a few feet from him was capable of controlling him without her knowing.

If only she knew how much control she had over him, If the whole pack knew how much power she have over him, his enemies would come hunting her. He was not ready to lose her neither was he going to lose her.

“Oooh, your food, I brought you some food.”

Bella said stretching the box towards her, she has almost forgotten the main reason she came to visit the vampire king.

“Food, who sent you?”

Blade said, scrunching his eyes up, the whole staff knew that he was not in the mood to eat, when his mind is filled with work, he could last a week drinking only blood, which was able to sustain him, but now seeing his beloved mate standing few paces from him, different thoughts filled his mind on what he would do to her in that minute.

She looked delicate and appealing In that dress she wore.

Making her appear seductive without her knowing.

“Ummmm, I had requested from Emily to set your dishes so I can bring them to you.”

Bella said, her eyes looking straight to the ground, she looked as if she would fall under the big tiled shiny tile floor and bury herself in it.

Blade stirred at her for a while, his mate was bringing him breakfast, there was he always wanted, his mate bringing him breakfast in the morning, but who was he to deny it.

He was a love-sick mate who have fallen hard for his mate.

A mate the Almighty had blessed him with.

A cough from the inner office brought the two mates' attention out from their intense stare.

"Come in!"

Blade said, it was on word, which was meant to be obeyed

Quickly Bella stepped into the room, slightly turning to look at the doctor, she saw how she crossed her leg to the other, making her laps open and bare for the entire occupants of the room to see.

Bella rolled her eyes, she was not comfortable being around this doctor and she wondered why.

'Jealous, you are jealous'!

She heard a voice in her mind say.

She waved her head, quickly removing the thoughts out from her mind, there was no way she could be jealous of the doctor.

Because there was no affection of any kind she do have towards a man, she was meant to hate them and loathe them but never loved them.

"Ooh, your poor mate is here, what did you bring for us, Bella. Is quite unfortunate we bore the same name."

Isabella said, staring at the wolf.

She wondered if she had heard right, the guard had informed her about the vampire king's relationship with the wolf, but it seems, things were not going as planned.

Bella clutched her fist tightly, she hated it when the beautiful elegant doctor who was dressed In a hot gown and red stilettos was referring to her as poor and weak.

She bit her lips, trying to stop the outburst that was trying to take control over her, there was one thing about her, she was a hot-tempered person. Who takes being weak seriously.

"I brought food for the vampire king, do you have a problem with that?"

Bella asked, this was the only way she could spill her anger.

Slowly turning to stare at the vampire king. She finds him pinning her with his gaze, his eyes glinting and sparkling with.....mischief. She could see a corner of his lips, twitching and at that minute she found out the vampire king was throwing her a smile, a mischievous smile.

She realized again that she had been caught, nothing could pass Blade sight without him noticing. He was quick in noticing how angry she was, why she, she was dull in knowing anything about him.

Everything about him was a misery, a complete misery.

"You can drop the dish on the table poor little girl."

Isabella said, her words caused Bella to freeze for a minute and she find herself folding her hands until veins popped out from her hands.

Quickly dropping the dishes on the table as the beautiful doctor had said, staring at the beautiful doctor once more, not failing to see the mischievous glint in her eyes, she walked off quickly to the door.

Dropping her hands on the knob, a voice stopped her, freezing her in an instant.

"Stop amour, I need you, here with me."

Blade said, his words caused her to freeze more, she felt her heart jumping at every second, beating loudly unlike before.

His words had shaken something in her.

His words had made her heart almost shattered to the brim.

It could be a simple word too....others, but to her, it meant something unknown. It felt like a promise. A hidden promise, an unknown promise, a future promise.

Bella turned slightly, forgetting her rules which said, she was not going to allow any man whatsoever to pass through the walls of her heart.

She forgot that promise for a little while as she stared into the eyes of her.....mate, she could see a lot of emotions, stirring through his eyes, she could not decipher what each one meant, but she was able to capture one feeling, which was affection and care.

She felt her heart make a three hundred and sixty-degree beat and at that minute. She forgot that there was someone else in the room with them.

"Leave, now!"

She heard what Nate said, and quickly turning to see who the words were meant for, she saw the doctor widen her eyes with shock and surprise.

Bella too was surprised that the vampire king could send the doctor out from the room, just like that.

"I should le....."

"I said leave, you know how I hate repeating myself."

Blade said he had heard the insults that the doctor had thrown towards his mate and he had been holding himself long enough not to cause any bloodshed whatsoever.

Now he was holding himself not to rip Isabella apart.

And he was hoping she leaves as soon as possible.

Quickly, Isabella stared at the she-wolf, throwing her a slight glare, she left the office, banging the door of the office as she left the room.

"So where were we Kitty."

Blade said, standing up as he strode towards his mate, who yet, was not accustomed to his presence, but now, fuck her rules, all he had been thinking all day was to kiss her tenderly till she cums in his mouth.

The Vampire Omega by Angelic 38

/ The Vampire Omega by Angelic

Immediately the door closed. Bella hung her head low, she was anxious to be left alone with him.

"Look at me."

Blade said, his voice alone was causing her to shudder.

She hugged her head low, she was not ready to stare into the eyes of the pure-blooded vampire, someone the goddess had termed to be her mate.

She heard an animous growl, which ripped out from his throat, and quickly, she backed off to the wall.

His growl caused her to shudder with fear.

Blade stopped slightly, he hated the fact that she was still scared of him. He had given her enough time as she had demanded, yet she was scared of him.

"Were you forced to bring the dish to me?"

Blade said he wanted to be sure she had come on her own accord and not been forced to do what she never intend to do.

Quickly Bella waved her head, why would the vampire king think she was forced.

"I was not forced, instead I came on my own accord."

Bella said, still bowing her head low, she did not have enough courage to stare into those deep dark eyes of his.

His eyes always cause this unknown effect on her.

She had come to notice that any time she stared into those deep blue eyes, she get lost in his stare for a while.

He was affecting her no doubt, and there was what she had been trying to avoid, she was not ready to accept him, not him not anyone. She was still the broken girl who had been raped by her first mate.

"I hate the fact that I still scare you. Do I scare you to the extent that you look down when you speak with me?"

Blade said, unknowingly, he had taken a few steps towards her.

Bella raised her head, surprised to see him too close to her.

"I came willingly, I was never forced to send your meal to you."

Bella said, his cologne was driving her crazy because she realized that her breath was becoming heavier and heavier.

He was affecting her no doubt.

Blade smiled slightly, he knew how much he was affecting her. This alone, gave him hope that she will finally open up to him, he will give her a lot of space as she wants but he wondered how long he would keep up with her rules.

"Fine then, hand the dishes to me."

Blade said, quickly Bella ran to the door, she had been lost her mind for a while that she did not remember her main purpose of coming to his office.

Quickly she walked back to the office, handing the dishes to him.

When she gave him the dishes, her fingers touched his, She felt a shudder pass through her body. And quickly, she left his hold.

Blade took the dishes, staring at her one more time, he walked to the table, there was no way he would reject a food given to him by his mate.

Bella watched as he opened the dish, there was one thing which she needed to accomplish, which was making him celebrate his birthday.

She had asked him to stay far away from her, but here she is, asking for a request.

“King Blade.”

This was the first time she was calling his name out loud, and for the first time, his name sounded foreign on her lips.

Blade froze when he heard his name from her lips, he could not believe that his name would ever sound so sexy and sweet on her lips.

He needed to hear her call his name more often.

He continued eating, pretending he never heard his name from her lips.

Bella stared at the vampire king, there was no way a vampire-like him did not hear her.

She breathed slightly, for the sake of the vampire queen and Kurt, the good kind brother of her mate.

“King Blade!”

Bella said, this time raising her voice, her face reddened with embracement when she saw the king looking up at her.

Blade smiled lightly, he could not believe that this cute mate of his was becoming bold.

“Yes you called, what can I do for you, Kitty.”

Blade said, watching as she twisted her fingers together.

He had come to notice something typical about her. She twists her fingers anytime she is nervous.

Bella was confused and frustrated, confused at the fact that she did not know how to start the conversation that relates to his birthday, and frustrated at the fact that the queen had placed her in a position like this.

Bracing herself up.

“I wish you can celebrate your birthday.”

Bella said, she internally smashed her head on the wall at the dumb speech she made.

Blade stared at her for a while.

"I mean, your mother informed me you disgust celebrating your birthday, and I kind of wondered why you do not celebrate it."

Bella said, hoping she was not speaking out from the topic. She was rambling a lot in her speech and she hoped he understood what she meant.

"Birthdays are things everyone wished to, not everyone is lucky to have someone who wants them to celebrate their birthdays."

Bella said, adding more gibberish to her words.

The Vampire Omega by Angelic 39

/ The Vampire Omega by Angelic

Bella smacked her hands on her head, she was speaking gibberish, she was educating a hot grown man thing that concerns birthdays.

Blade stared at her, he was glad at the fact that she was beginning to open up and even speak at this far length.

"Don't you think there would be a reason why I don't celebrate my birthdays?"

Blade said, immediately he said these words, she looked up at him, she was not expecting an answer from him. Maybe, there was going to progress in their speech.

"Am sorry but what so ever reason that might make you not celebrate your birthdays should have been dead, I do not see a reason why should not celebrate your birt....."

"Why are you so eager with me to celebrate my birthdays...."

Blade said, now stopping to eat as he stared at her, Bella was stunned at the question.

Was there a specific reason why she would want him to celebrate a birthday or maybe, she wanted him to celebrate his birthday because there was going to be a birthday she would ever actively be part of?

In her former pack, she had never been invited for a birthday or any occasion what so ever, instead she was forced to serve the other pack members.

"Because Is the first birthday am gonna be part of."

Bella said, for the first time, she was saying the truth.

Blade stared at her, surprised at her reply, he had always known one fact, his mate had not been treated well in her previous pack, but he did not know how far her maltreatment have been and now he was so curious to know how her life had been in the pack.

"OK, I will, but only on one condition."

Blade said it was his birthday, but here he was, given conditions.

Bella wondered the conditions that he wanted from her, she hoped it was something she could offer him.

But what did she have, nothing?

"I will take you out, If you agree to go out with me, I will celebrate my birthday."

Blade said, staring at her.

There was no doubt, he would accept her plea even if she refused to yield to his demand.

He was already a poor puppet under her control.

Bella was not shocked at his offer she had hoped for this.

Shaking her head slowly, what was she thinking.

She wondered where he planned on taking her.

"I accept, I will accept your offer, but unless you fulfill your part of attending your birthday and approving the invitations which would be sent to the higher people."

Bella said, she was beginning to get bold, there was no doubt about that.

"Is that part of my mother's plan too?"

Blade asked, he wondered what loads of information his mother was beginning to fill in the mind of his mate.

"Yes"

Bella replied, there was no point in lying, she was doing this for the queen's sake and for her sake too.

"Mother!"

Blade groaned.

The vampire king was a beast who had ripped off his arm and burnt them alive while he watched.

"You speak in parables father. Just watch and see how things turn out to be."

Lucas said, encouraging his father to accept the invitation.

He had been planning this a long time ago, he had to make sure to provide an adequate supply of food and other resources.

He needed everything in his powers to impress the vampire king.

"As you said, is your choice, I have nothing to say than to accept it, you can invite the vampire king over for a party. Just know this, you will bear the consequences and also....make sure to provide all the high-quality blood you can provide, when I mean high-quality blood, I mean human blood."

Alpha Vincent said, smiling stiffly at his son.

Giving Lucas a pat on his shoulder, alpha Vincent left the hall.

Lucas strode towards his room, he was totally happy that his father had fallen into his talks and had accepted to invite the vampire king.

It was all Kira's idea and he hoped it works out, he hopes things do not turn out shaggy for him.

"Quickly entering the room, he met Kira with two maids fixing her nails.

"Leave, I wish to be alone with my husband."

Kira said to the maids.

Quickly the maids left, leaving the Luna to be with the alpha.

"How is my son doing?"

Lucas asked, pecking her on her cheek, rubbing her belly which had swelled up.

"He is doing great, just waiting for his father to be here."

Kira said, kissing him tenderly on his lips.

"Father accepted to invite the vampire king over."

Lucas said and at his words, Kira jumped up with excitement, forgetting that she was pregnant.

“Ok woman, I do not want you to be over-excited, remember you are pregnant.”

Lucas said, beaming down at her.

“Am sorry, but this calls for celebration.”

Kira said, hopping with excitement as she rubbed her tummy.

“No woman, no party, till am sure everything works out to be perfect and fine just as I have planned it.”

Lucas said, remembering the words of his father.

“Things will work out fine, especially knowing the fact that he killed that wretched sister of mine, the omega of our pack hahaha.”

Kira said, this even made her more excited.

The joy of knowing her sister was killed by the vampire king gave her more hope that things will work out fine as planned.

“I hope so.”

Lucas said slowly, sitting down on the bed.

“Now handsome alpha, allow me to go start preparing for the big party, everything needs to be perfect.”

Kira said, kissing again tenderly on the lips.

“Sure go, I will also invite an event planner to help you out.”

Lucas said, watching as she nodded her head with excitement.

“Good very good. Let me go inform my sister of this great news, who knows, she might have the vampire king all to herself, they might be mated together”

Kira said, quickly running out from the room, things were working as she had planned.

The Vampire Omega by Angelic 40

/ The Vampire Omega by Angelic

Bella walked to the room, confused about what to wear.

Stepping into the vampire king room which she had come to take as hers, she was surprised to see queen Selene, sitting on the bed as she arranged a beautiful red gown.

"My son had ordered me to get you a beautiful dress. This red dress will fit your personality, quiet, yet daunting and bold and beautiful."

Queen Selene said, smiling tenderly at Bella.

Bella stared at her, indeed the cloth was beautiful and represent something foreign, but it did not match what the woman described her to be, she was not bold, she was not beautiful, instead she was a weak wolf, who have been maltreated tired by her former pack.

"Also, as bloody vampires, the king would love red on you. Don't you wanna be eaten hmm"

Selene said, this time bursting out with laughter when she saw the look of disgust and fear that laced in the she-wolf eyes as she said those words.

"The gown is beautiful queen Selene, but you make it sound like a poisonous gown."

Bella said, walking to touch the gown, it was soft on her hands, this was an expensive gown no doubt, she have never worn a gown as beautiful as this, she had never even worn a proper gown before.

"It cost just a hundred thousand dollars, I doubt if the king would love it, he wants to spoil you, he might consider the gown to be cheap."

Selene said, straightening the gown.

Bella coughed when she heard the amount used in purchasing the gown, she could not believe this gown was bought for a hundred thousand dollars, that was a huge amount of money.

Her former pack even struggle to get such money in one business week and here in the vampire's land, they buy cloth, a single for her with such money, this was insane.

"This is huge, very huge, what the hell, I don't think I worth it."

Bella said, shaking her head as she rejected the gown the queen was handling to her.

She was not going to accept something as huge as this, she do look for something else to wear.

"You worth every diamonds my brother is spending on your Bella."

Kurt said, stepping into the room, he had heard their voices from the door, and when he had seen where things were heading to, between his mother and his brother's mate, he decided to intervene.

"This few months I had stayed In the pack, I realized why the goddess truly mated you to the almighty king Blade, this terrible brother of mine, you always come with the best smile, you are bold to face my brother, something no one has ever done."

Kurt said, he had heard she-wolf discussed with his brother a few minutes ago, after their discussion, he realized the wolf was indeed the one meant for his brother.

She was quiet, but bold and lousy when the need arises.

"You urged the vampire king to accept his birthday invitation, this is unbelievable! And here you are, refusing a cloth, a mere cloth!"

Kurt said, his voice yet sounding low.

Selene looked shocked at what she heard.

A terrible scream of joy escaped from her lips, she could not believe something like this could happen.

"Oh my god, you made it happen, Bella, this is indeed a miracle. Not even the fourteen elders in the vampire's land can convince the vampire king to celebrate his birthday. Now, where are we, no further arguments, go put on these clothes, I need to make preparations for his birthday."

Selene said, her face was filled with an intense smile, happiness was a smaller feeling compared to what she was feeling at the moment.

"Take the dress Bella, you worth it, there is no denying it, you gonna wear dresses costlier and beautiful than this in the future, so wear it, you need to look good for your mate, haven't you heard the term, 'making your mate droll till he grants your wish' haven't you?"

Selene said, holding onto Bella's hands.

Bella felt a tug on her heart, she felt a feeling unfamiliar, feeling akin to happiness flowing through her heart, she felt contented, this was the family she ever needed, the family she ever wanted.

It was ironic to think that the people whom she thought were going to kill her were the ones who made her feel a glimpse of love.

While the people who were meant to love her were garbaged.

"Thank you so much, Kurt."

Bella said, staring at the king's brother, ironically again, Kurt had turned to be her big brother.

"You are welcome, now go dress, the king awaits you pres...."

"She hasn't said a word to me Kurt, have you?"

Selene said, cutting Kurt on his words, she stared down at Bella.

"Oooh, you are right. Thanks for giving me such a lovely dress and for informing me how special I am. You are indeed a queen."

Bella said, smiling tenderly at queen Selene, she was a mother, but Instead, she treated her children as if they were mates with her, she showed them respect.

"Ewwww, thanks, but you are mistaken though, I never bought the cloth, Blade did that."

Selene said, the name 'Blade' caused Bella to shiver for a moment.

The vampire king was affecting her in diverse ways and she wondered how she will cope with him on what she considered a date.

"Move now, go dress, mother can keep you here for long with her sweet mouth talks."

Kurt said, pushing Bella to the changing room.

In a few minutes, Bella stepped out from the dressing room, the red gown brought out her figure, her hourglass shape was in full display, the gown had a little cut at the top of her breast, making her cleavage a little visible.

"Oh my, you look a.....vish...ing!"

Kurt said, he looked dumb and idiotic by the way he stared at Bella.

The she-wolf had changed within some minutes, to the extent that he could not recognize her.

"You look utterly beautiful, please make me be in charge of your clothes from now on Bella please...."

Selene said, dragging Bella and gently pushing her to sit on a chair.

Bella smiled, indeed the vampire queen was a pure-hearted woman.

"Of course you will be my fashion shopper queen Selene."

Bella said, she could not believe that she could change within some minutes, the cloth looked too good on her, this was the first time she was wearing something as beautiful as this.

“Awwww, so are you comfortable with the maid changing your look?”

Selene said, Bella stared at her, confused at what she meant, her look was great, there was no way she was removing this dress.

Selene understanding the look she gave her laughed out loudly.

“I meant your make up darling.”

Selene said, calling on a maid who came with her Makeup box.

“Oooh, yeah, sure I have no issues with that.”

Bella said, blushing furiously at her words.

Quickly the maid resumed her work.

“I do leave you with you, please do not change her looks, instead make her beauty more beautiful.”

Kurt said, winking at Bella.

He left the room.

Within thirty minutes, the maid was through with her makeup.

Bella opened her eyes, she was struck with surprise at what she saw.

Whom she saw in the mirror was somebody else, another her was reflecting in the mirror.

“Oh my, you look utterly beautiful, you look like an angel.”

Selene said, almost weeping.

“It feels like a fucking wedding. Oh my god am crying...”

Selene said, Bella, walked towards her, hugging her and patting her back.

“Thanks, mother.”

Bella said, her werewolf mother never showed her love nor bought expensive things for her, not even cheap items, but this woman here, had bought a hundred thousand dresses for her, a vampire who was considered to be wicked and inhuman.

Selene frozen at her words, slowly letting go of her, Selene stared at her, she could not believe the girl, she-wolf whom everyone considered to be broken had just called her mother.

“You called me MOTHER?”

Selene said, maybe she had not heard correctly, maybe it was a mistake.

“Yes mother, no woman has ever treated me with so much compassion and love as you had treated me.”

Bella said, quickly with a big force, Selene hugged Bella tightly.

“Thank you so much, thank you. I have always wished to have a daughter and the Almighty brought you to me, thank you, Bella.”

Selene said, slowly disconnecting from the hug.

“It’s time you leave, I can hear the king’s voice from my head, he thinks I kidnapped you hahaha, let’s leave.”

Selene said, taking hold of Bella’s hand.

Bella stopped her in a minute.

“Also mother, this is not a wedding, but an outing with the vampire king.”

Bella said, smiling at her words.

At Bella’s words, Selene reeled with laughter, nodding her head in understanding.

“Ok ok, I got that Bella.”

Selene said as they stepped off from the room.

The blade was walking about, he was already Impatience, he could not wait any longer.

“What can my mother be doing with my mate.”

Blade said it was only a thin line that was stopping him from running up to his first chambers and knowing if his mate was safe or not.

“Patience brother, patience, calm down.”

Kurt said, smiling mischievously as he drank from a cup of blood tea.

"Do not fucking tell me to calm down, and be patient, who knows what mother has done to my mate."

Blade said, glaring intently at Kurt, Kurt stared at him, he knew his brother was an asshole who did not have good things to say about their sweet mother.

Kurt smiled, looking at him, a mischievous plan made its way to his head.

"What is it with the smile, do you know what has happened to my mate, you bastard, what the hell has happened to her, you know something."

Blade said, glaring at him, his face almost red like a tomato, his eyes darker than before.

"What if mother had taken her away from you, what if she had been kidnapped, taken far away from you."

Kurt said, he knew what was coming at these words that he said.

"You bastard, how dare you to say something outrageous like that, what if I rip off your head and smash your body to the way....."

"They are here, your mate is here king Blade."

Carson said, his words abruptly stopping the bloodshed that was about to happen.

Blade turned immediately to look at the stairs, and when his eyes made contact with the most important person in his universe.

He froze, he froze like a piece of ice.....
