

Read Twins and ex wife (my talented babies) novel Chapter 22 online free

Boom!

Alisha fell on the ground heavily and she raised her head with unbelievability on her face and pain in her eyes.

She couldn't believe that Kieran would still push her away after she had done that much.

She had already drenched the room with the perfume. Under the effect of it, no man should have resisted his sexual desire when he saw her dressed in that sexy way. Wasn't Kieran a man?

No!

If he wasn't a man, how could he have sex with Freya five years ago? Wasn't he the father of Jaden and Jayla?

Alisha wiped her tears sadly and said, "Kieran, please don't reject me. I love you so much..."

"I have no other but you in my whole life. I have given you my whole body and heart and I can't love someone else anymore. Kieran, I am not forcing you to be responsible for me. I just love you so much. Please love me for once. Kieran, I want to be your real wife."

"Alisha, please behave yourself!"

Kieran glanced at Alisha with no emotion but only coldness in his eyes. He began to walk out of the room with his straight long legs and in the blink of an eye, he had already walked out of the apartment.

If it weren't for her saving his life before, her daring trick that night would definitely drag her into bloody hell like the end of the one who tried to hurt him five years ago.

Although the breeze of the night was cold, he felt hotter and hotter because of the perfume.

He knew that he could feel much better if he had had sex with Alisha that night.

But he couldn't do that.

No affection but only annoyance caught him when Alisha got close to him.

Since it was weekend, Freya was able to stay in Kieran's villa for two days.

Indeed, the drug given by Kieran was so good that the bruises on her face disappeared and she almost couldn't feel the wounds on her body.

She had been away from Jaden and Jayla for two whole days since she was afraid that her wounds would scare them, and she missed them so much because it was the first time for them to be parted for such a long time.

She packed her luggage and was going to pick Jaden and Jayla up to her own small apartment.

Be it Seth's or Kieran's villa, her own small home was cozier—the coziest house in the world.

She would make it clear to Seth that she could let Jaden and Jayla stay in his villa for some time, but they could be no more than friends.

When she had just finished packing, someone knocked on the door anxiously. She opened the door and Fabian rushed into the room and he said fretfully, "Doctor Stahler, Fitz was drugged. Give him some acupuncture! Come on! I am afraid that his desire will kill him."

"Okay, I will go right now."

Seeing that Fabian was so anxious, Freya knew that Kieran was in a severe condition. So, she grabbed her medical kit brought by Seth before and ran to Kieran's room quickly.

"Mr. Fitzgerald, are you..."

After seeing what happened in the room clearly, the rest of the sentence suddenly disappeared from Freya's throat.

Freya could see clearly how wonderful Kieran's figure was from her own angle since he only wore a bath towel after his cold-water bath.

Freya blushed and felt her cheeks burning. She turned around immediately but it was too late to forget what she had just seen no matter how hard she tried.

His figure was even better than a super model.

Freya got more and more blushed and she kept on telling herself that she was a doctor and Kieran was her patient, that she should stop imagining things and that she must maintain the harmonious doctor-patient relationship.

Although she tried very hard to control her thoughts and calm herself down, Freya was so nervous that she stammered, “Mr...Mr. Fitzgerald, I will...I may acupuncture you later, and it wo...won't hurt, so you don...don't need to be afraid.”

When she said those words, she took a secret glance at Kieran—how could his figure be so wonderful?!

With such a charming figure and such a delicate, cool and handsome face, no wonder he could win so much girl's love. Such a tempting scene almost made her mouth watery.

How could she continue her acupuncture calmly?

However, as a professional doctor, Freya opened her acupuncture kit immediately with her shivering hands.

Before she took out her silver needles, she felt a warmth fall on her lips, which made her widened her eyes and forget when and where she was at that time.

The slight fragrance of grass circled her, which left her in a trance and made her obsessed with it.

Freya opened her eyes and stared at Kieran's handsome face which was very close to hers in a daze.

His brows were black and sharp; his eyes displayed the darkest and deepest light in the world, his nose was higher than Europeans'; his lips were thin, but they could trap you in the most profound affection when they were kissing you.

Being trapped...

Freya was scared by her own thought that she had fallen in love with Mr. Fitzgerald.

But he was Jaden and Jayla's uncle Kieran. How could she fall in love with an elder?

No! She must stop this!

The sound of a cup falling to the ground resounded in the air, which made Freya suddenly wide awake from the daze. Was she really going to have sex with her children's uncle Kieran?