

Read Twins and ex wife (my talented babies) novel Chapter 4 online free

Looking at Jaden's eyes, which were ink-black, Alisha seemed to have seen Kieran's cold eyes. She couldn't help but shiver. This little boy is only four or five years old. She wondered why he emanated such a threatening aura.

After returning to her senses, Alisha raised her chin and said with a sneer, "You asked me to apologize to Freya Stahler, that b*tch? Dream on!"

Jaden didn't retort. He showed his phone to Jayla calmly.

Jayla understood and raised the phone, smiling like an adorable lamb. "Ma'am, you must be a celebrity. If I uploaded this video online, would your fans be surprised?"

"You!" Alisha hadn't expected that. She couldn't utter any word in anger.

Among the onlookers, someone had recognized Alisha. "A celebrity? She looked familiar. Isn't she the award-winning actress, Alisha Stahler?"

"Isn't Alisa Stahler known as the top celebrity in Arkpool City? What a lousy quality!"

...

Alisha wished to cut Freya into pieces upon hearing the discussions around her. However, to maintain her public image, she faked a smile and held Freya's shoulders.

"You've all misunderstood. Freya is my younger sister. I was kidding with her."

As she spoke, she hugged Freya warmly. "Welcome home, Freya. Thank you for saving my mother. Sorry about my joke earlier. I've gone too far."

Alisha's tone was sincere, with a perfect smile. Sure enough, an award-winning actress was reasonably competent.

Freya wasn't in the mood to act with Alisha here. She pulled Jaden and Jayla to sit in a cab.

As soon as they arrived at the rent apartment, her phone rang. It was a call from Fabian Pryce, a client introduced by her teacher.

Fabian called her to go to Kelsington Bay. However, he didn't ask Freya to check up on him, but a man named Fitz wanted to see her.

Freya was afraid of delaying Fitz, so she took her medical kit and headed to Kelsington Bay.

When Freya arrived, Fabian had been waiting at the gate for her.

Fabian's left leg was with a layer of thick plaster. Seeing Freya, he limped to her. "Dr. Stahler, right?"

"Ehn." Freya glanced at his leg. She was almost sure that she had come here to see him. However, she subconsciously asked, "Are you Mr. Fitz? Did you want to see me?"

"No, I'm not." Fabian shook his head hard. "Fitz is waiting for you in the villa."

After thinking for a bit, he lowered his voice and added, "Fitz is completely impotent. Dr. Stahler, his sickness is quite tough."

Freya had seen many impotent patients. Her teacher was a capable doctor who had helped many people, and she had learned her teacher's skills, so she could help Fitz.

Freya and Fabian entered Kieran's room. Kieran was lying on the sofa lazily, lost in thought.

The sunshine fell on his body through the gauze curtain. He had a golden halo all over. His perfect side face and superior and elegant aura made him look like Apollo in ancient Greek mythology.

When Freya saw his face clearly, her hands trembled. The medical kit almost fell on the ground.

His face looked exactly like Jaden's.

She couldn't help wondering if this man was the man that night.□□□□□□